LARGER GUNS FOR THE NAVY.

Several 13.5 Weapons Now Being Constructed for British Ships.

For some times the question of constructing guns of greater effectiveness and greater calibre than the 12 inch has been occupying the minds of the responsible heads of the Admiralty, and many rumors have gained currency. Last week there was an intimation that the British Admiralty intended to adopt a heavier gun as their leading weapon, and this is confirmed by the fact that there are building at some of the largest gun factories in the country several 13.5 inch guns. This is a big advance, and will mean several important alterations in the designs of battleships. The mountings will have to be larger, and the ships themselves will probably be broader in order to accommodate guns of this size.

The new Dreadnought that carries these guns will have to be larger than those already built, and the firing of such heavy guns will necessitate very material strengthening of these ships. The 13.5 inch is nearly the size of the old 100 ton and 120 ton guns, but, of course, will be of much greater power and less weight. Few of the old ponderous weapons remain. Particularly in the mounting will the new gun be remarkable. In this important branch of gunwork there have been great improvements. There is increased rapidity of firing, the sighting is far more accurate, and the handling of the gun itself of little more trouble than the handling of a quick-firer, so beautifully is it balanced. The 13.5 inch, which, of course, will be experimented with considerably before being finally adopted, is said to sink any floating ship coming within its range.

This is in continuation of the policy of improvement inaugurated by Admiral Sir John Fisher, whose portrait is given.

LOST VAN DYCK FOUND.

Portrait of Charles I. Painted by a Great Master in 1640.

What is stated to be the long-lost portrait of King Charles I., painted by Van Dyck, is now in the possession of a curio dealer in the Fulham road.

The history of the picture was related by its present owner, H. H. Hume. "The picture was in the possession of a Mrs. Glanville, at Poppleham, Devon, in 1872," said Mr. Hume, "she having received it under the will of her uncle, Mr. John Barstow Taylor. "Mrs. Glanville wished to sell the picture, and gave it to me—I was living in the village at the time—to pack and send to a well-known art dealer in London. I did so, but when the package arrived in London the picture had disappeared.

"Mrs. Glanville absolved me of any liability in the matter on condition that I give the vicar of the parish 25 guineas toward the funds for the restoration of his church. This I did, and Mrs. Glanville handed over to me all the documents relating to the picture. These are in my possession at the present time, as is also the receipt given me by the vicar.

"Nothing further was heard of the picture until 1902, when a Mr. Gill, who lived at Padmal's Corner, near Romford, in Essex, wrote to me offering me a picture for sale. I went and saw it, and recognized it as the identical one that was stolen.

Mr. Hume is firmly of the opinion that it is the same picture that is now in his possession. It is a large size, and bears the inscription, "Charles Rex—Van Dyck, 1640."

NEW SHIPPING RULE.

Much Confusion May Result Among British Ship Owners.

An edict recently issued by the English Board of Trade bids fair to cause confusion temporarily among British shipping. The board, which speaks with authority on the subject, has decreed that hereafter no two British vessels shall be registered under the same or similar names. There are few ports in the world where the change will be more noticeable than in New York, where craft of British registry predominate, and "best guesses" as to the future names of two out of three Virginians, eleven Vestas, six Normans, four Oceanics, two Ories, six Majestics, five Matthes, two Mallards, two Malagases, eleven Rescues, six Resolutes, three St. Lawrences, two St. Louis, and others are in order. As yet plans are not completely formulated, but vessels of the heaviest tonnage will be permitted to retain their present designation.

The Boy Guessed Right.

They were getting a kindergarten lesson. The teacher taught them very simple subjects. She touched a table. "What is this?" "Wood." "What is this?" she asked, as she touched the fender. "Iron." "What is this?" indicating a bottle. "Glass." "What is this?" and she touched her watch chain. "Brass," said one small boy, and then she changed the subject.

His Shave and His Nerve.

A youth with untouched face walked slowly past a barber shop, then back again, then passed and repassed, each time drawing nearer and nearer. Finally, as though he had just reached a determination, he turned in and handed his hat, coat and collar to the officiating "shine." When it came his turn he got into the chair with an air of assurance which was rather out of keeping with his haunted eyes.

"Hair cut?" queried the barber. "Naw; shave," said the youth. "Just once over, and be kind o' careful of the neck whisker."

The barber put his hand over his face to hide a grin and went to his lather cup. He turned on the hot water and passed a wink down the line until every barber had his gaze that way.

Then, with ponderous care, he lathered the face and coolly began shaving his customer with the back of the razor.

"Does she pull?" he asked after a bit.

"A little raw," said the customer, "with fine discrimination. 'Got a wire edge, hasn't it?'"

The barber replied by stropping his own hand violently, then resumed shaving with the back of the razor.

"How's that?" he said.

"Fine as silk," said the customer, "now grown veteran. 'I tell you it's all in the stropping, Jack.'"

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has the badge of honesty on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, grating distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. The chronic ovarian inflammation and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs. It does not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weak nesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a reasonable length of time.

You can afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of Dr. Pierce's.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as secretly as possible, and the name of the patient is protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LORD MINTO IN INDIA

VICEROY HAS PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS IN GREAT POST.

Capt. Macpherson of the Indian Army Un-Gen. Kitchener Says Former Governor-General of Canada Is More Diplomatic Than Lord Curzon—Some Interesting Information About Country He Rules Over.

"You have an interest here in Canada in knowing that Lord Minto, the Viceroy of India, is doing admirably," remarked Capt. Macpherson, of the Indian army under Lord Kitchener (and who is on his way to England), to a Montreal Standard representative recently.

Col. Macpherson has been many times to Government House, and has heard Lord Minto on many public occasions. The colonel was particularly struck with the wise and conciliatory attitude of the viceroy in regard to the petition of the Mohammedan population for greater participation in the public affairs which concerned them, and which affected their liberties in the country.

"The education of the native people, a work to which the British Government early set its hand, is now beginning to tell," said Capt. Macpherson. "A large proportion of the people are well educated. Many of them have a university education. Certain positions have been given to the more advanced among the young men of all sections but there is little participation accorded the people in respect of the large matters of Government. This has been deemed to be a wise attitude, but it is now resented by both Hindus and Mohammedans. Both of these elements have their grievances, which they air in the native press—which, by the way, is well and vigorously written.

"The fact is," said Capt. Macpherson, "there is no longer a silent India. She is now speaking with many voices. I remember, for I have been in the country for over twenty years—when she was quite dumb. This question of participation in the ruling of the country became acute recently, in the case of the Mohammedans, partly because of the threat of England to proceed to acts of force against Turkey, regarding the claim of the latter to certain Egyptian territory.

"Well, I can state from personal knowledge," said Capt. Macpherson, "that Lord Minto has handled the matter with rare tact and judgment. He has made it his duty to see the leaders of the parties personally. He has taken them into his confidence and proved his sincerity to them. In public he has said just the right thing. He did not make the mistake of hinting at power, but rather took care to point out that his desire was to see all sections of the people in India happy under British rule, and that as a means to an end, the Indian Government was willing to meet the desires of both great sections of the people in a spirit of generosity.

"Both Lord and Lady Minto have made the very best impression," said Capt. Macpherson. "The Viceroy is affable and accessible, while Lady Minto queens it in society, as she is well fitted to do by her grace and wit and beauty. At the same time, she is not forgetful of the masses of the people, in their social aspects, and she has put her hand to many benevolent enterprises designed to bring comfort and improvement.

"There are four hundred million of human beings in India, who are governed by a handful of white people, who, it would seem, are never able to sound the utmost depths of the Indian nature."

Curran's Retort.

Justice Robinson's encounter with John Philip Curran has been stated by Lord Brougham to have been the most successful instance of repartee on record. Judge Robinson was known to be the author of some anonymous pamphlets, a circumstance which gave Curran an opportunity to retort when the judge made a brutal attempt to crush him when a young and inexperienced man at the bar.

"I have searched all my lawbooks," said Curran, "and I can find no precedent on the point."

"Your law library," said the judge, "is rather contracted."

"My books," replied Curran, "may be few, but the title pages give me the writers' names. My shelf is not disgraced by any of such rank abundance that their very authors are ashamed to own them."

"If you say another word, sir," said the judge, "I'll commit you."

"Then, my lord," replied Curran, "it will be the best thing you have committed this term."

The judge endeavored to get Curran disbarred, but failed.

Not the Store He Meant.

Crumpled in his hand was a batch of shopping bills, whose intermittent rattling, as the clutch of their possessor relaxed and again tightened, afforded ample testimony to the cause of his lordship's displeasure.

Gently and with all her wailing arts evidently in hair trigger readiness the young wife approached the offended one and began:

"Lovey, now don't sit here putting all by yourself like a bad natured little boy. Such actions, as you very well know, if you'll only stop to think it over, will not at all contribute to the making of that blissful home you were so prone to picture to me during our courting days. Don't you recall it, dearie, and how eloquent you used to grow over the happiness the future had in store for us?"

With the spell of his displeasure partly broken by her persuasive manner, and yet with some touch of tartness in his tone, he turned and replied: "Yes, I do, but I assure you, madam, that in that remark there was not even a remote hint of a department store."

J. M. Oxley Deal.
Toronto, Sept. 10.—Boys the world over will regret to learn of the death of J. Macdonald Oxley of this city, who passed away yesterday. As a contributor to The Boys' Own Paper, his stories of life in the Canadian wilds provided wholesome reading for thousands of juveniles in every clime where the English tongue is spoken.

Mr. Oxley died yesterday in his 53rd year, after a long illness from tuberculosis. He had lived in Toronto since 1900.
Born in Halifax in 1855 and educated at Halifax Grammar School and Dalhousie University, the late Mr. Oxley practiced law in his native city for five years. In 1892 he became manager of the Sun Life Assurance Co. at the head office, Montreal.

He had contributed to over fifty periodicals, including Scribner's, The Forum, North American Review, Cosmopolitan, Youth's Companion and Atlantic Monthly. His articles dealt with a wide range of subjects, in connection chiefly with Canadian history and adventure.

Among the best-known of his two dozen or more books are: "Up Among the Ice Flies," "Diamond Rock," "The Romance of Commerce," and "The Swing by the Sea."

Suspicious Death at Montreal.
 Montreal, Sept. 10.—A verdict of manslaughter was brought in by the coroner's jury yesterday against Raoul Poliquin, in connection with the death of Edouard Renaud, a cabman, whose body was brought to the General Hospital in his own cab. The body was covered with blood from a gash on the head, and there was a fracture of the skull.

Constable Kavanagh detained two men, Raoul Poliquin and Jos. Phoenix. The explanation was given that five men were passengers in Renaud's cab on a trip to Back River, and that Renaud had fallen from his rig. Coroner McMahon told the jury that it was their duty to send Poliquin to the police court for further examination.

ANCIENT TRICKSTERS.
 Queer Conjuring Feats of the Seventeenth Century.

SOME QUAIN OLD RECIPES.

Little Experiments in Which Boiling Heads Off Living Animals Was an Incident—How They Killed a Horse and Cured Him Again.

Conjurers in ancient times were not very respectable members of society. When successful they enjoyed the reputation of having sold their souls to the evil one, and when of inferior ability they gained notoriety by being either drowned or burned. The mediaeval magicians as well as the Egyptian magi and the Chaldean sages were only a strange mixture of chemist, conjurer and charlatan, and as these gentlemen were in the habit of using their supposed occult powers to their own advantage they were naturally unpopular. The feats of jugglery performed by these craftsmen were intended for the mystification and not the amusement of the public, and for centuries conjuring had to be only a black side.

The amateur conjurer of today is not always a popular individual, save with children and the unsophisticated yokels. To the general public he is merely a bore of greater or less magnitude, whose performance is so obvious as to deceive no one. It is hard to realize that this person is no mere mushroom growth of modern society, but in point of fact his role is one of a respectable antiquity, for he is to be found treading close upon the heels of the magicians and in the days when witchcraft was still rampant. This is significant of his reputation even in those early times, for had any one taken his tricks seriously he would doubtless have been run to earth and done to death as a wizard.

In the middle of the seventeenth century, in the earliest years of the restoration, the number of tricks were published in one of those facetious books which seem to have occupied the press to a great extent at this time, but which owing to their popularity have for the most part perished. The chief recommendation of the greater number of these tricks is that no apparatus beyond the utensils of everyday life is necessary; also it is suggested to the performer that he can make some small profit out of his entertainment by prevailing on his audience to bet with him on the result of the trick.

"To set a horse's or an ass's head upon a man's head and shoulders" seems impossible out of the land of Faery, but we are informed that by boiling the head cut off a living animal "the flesh body" may run into oyle, and then by mingling the hair beaten into powder with this oil and anointing the heads of the standers-by "they shall seem to have horses' or asses' heads"—a costly experiment and fearsome if successful.

But, besides this, one can "make people seem headless," and this without bloodshed and by the following simple recipe: "Break arsenic very fine and boyie it with sulphur in a covered pot and kindle it with a new candle, and the standers-by will seem to be headless." Doubtless a strong imagination is necessary for success.

Some of the tricks are such as would nowadays cause the performer to be disliked, to put it mildly. For instance, "have a nut filled with ink and give this unto another and bid him crack it and see what he can find in that," which being done "will cause much laughter."

"To keep a Tapster from trothing his pots" must have been an amusement to the wags of the period, and for this "provide in readiness the skin of a red Herring, and when the Tapster is absent do but rub a little on the inside of his pots, and he will not be able to froth them, do what he can, in a good while after."

GIRL BABY'S ANWFUL ECZEMA

Sight of Eye Destroyed by Disease—Tried Five Doctors but Grew Worse—In Agony Eight Months—Parents Discouraged, Until They Tried Cuticura Remedies

IN ONE WEEK ALL SORES DISAPPEARED

"Our little girl, one year and a half old, was taken with eczema on that was what the doctor said to us. We called in the family doctor and he gave some tablets and said she would be all right in a few days. The eczema grew worse and we called in doctor No. 2. He said she was teething, as soon as the teeth were through she would be all right. But she still grew worse. Doctor No. 3 said it was eczema. By this time she was nothing but a yellow, greenish sore. Well, he said he could help her, so we let him try it about a week. One morning we discovered a little yellow pimple on one of her eyes. Of course we phoned for doctor No. 4. He came over and looked her over and said that he could not do anything more for her, that we had better take her to some eye specialist, since it was an ulcer. So we went to Oswego to doctor No. 4, and he said the eye-sight was gone, but that he could help it. We thought we would try doctor No. 5. Well, that proved the same, only he charged $10 more than doctor No. 4. We were nearly discouraged. I saw in the Cuticura advertisements in the paper and thought we would try the Cuticura Remedies, so I went and purchased a set of Cuticura Remedies, which cost me $1, and in three days we had her cured. We think that there is no remedy so good for any skin trouble or impurity of the blood as Cuticura. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abbott, R. F. D. No. 9, Fulton, Oswego Co., N. Y., August 17, 1906."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Form of Itch, Scabies, and Acute and Chronic Eczema, and the Skin, Cuticura Ointment to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Pills to Purify the Blood. Cuticura Pills in value of sixty to thirty Cents. Sold throughout the world. Write for Free Book on the Skin. Free, Boston, Mass.

MUST IMPORT WHERE.

European Countries Will Need Large Supply of Grain.
 Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Canada's export at Leeds, England, reports to the Trade and Commerce Department, at Ottawa, says:
 The wheat importing countries of Europe are likely to require 536,000,000 bushels this year, as against 448,000,000 last year. In France the crop is the same as a year ago, a trifle bigger, but Germany, which last year took 88,000,000 bushels, will this year require 104,000,000 bushels; Belgium and Holland will need to import 83,000,000 bushels, and Italy about 48,000,000.
 Austria-Hungary, instead of having a surplus as last year, will require to import about 24,000,000 bushels, while the United Kingdom, which last year imported 174,000,000 bushels, expects this year to import 216,000,000 bushels.

WILD EXCITEMENT IN SPAIN.

Queen's Auto Confronted in Road by Large Bull.
 Madrid, Sept. 10.—An automobile from the royal stables, in which Queen Victoria was driving Sunday from St. Sebastian to Bilbao, was suddenly confronted by a large bull, which planted himself in the roadway immediately in front of the queen's car and compelled the chauffeur to put on the brakes hurriedly, and stop the machine.
 No collision appears to have occurred, but the majesty is described as having been greatly frightened by the unexpected meeting with the bull.
 As the sudden stopping of the royal automobile threw the machinery into disorder the queen was compelled to resume her journey to Bilbao in another car.

OF COURSE.
 Bragg tells me he got mixed up in a scrap yesterday.
 Did he get the best of it?
 Of course. Otherwise he wouldn't have said anything about it.

It used to be a popular fallacy that some came with age and wisdom with experience.

BIRD FLIGHT.

Some Curious Facts About the Size of Wings and Bodies.
 In the attempt to discover some universal law of bird flight scientists have disclosed concerning a number of species a most puzzling paradox, perhaps the most mysterious of the enigmas that the subject presents. It is that in a number of birds and insects the size of the wings decreases in proportion to the increase in size of the body of the flying creature. The Australian crane, for instance, weighs over 300 times more than the sparrow, but in proportion has only one-seventh the wing area of the smaller bird.

This curious fact is equally striking if we compare birds with insects. If the gnat were increased in size until it was as large as the Australian crane and if the wings of the insect were enlarged to maintain the proportion they now bear to its body they would be about 150 times larger than the crane's.

It requires 3.22 square feet of wing area per pound to float the bank swallow, but to sustain the tawny vulture, a monstrous bird in comparison, requires only .08 of a square foot of wing surface per pound of body. The albatross, weighing eighteen pounds, has a spread of wing of eleven feet six inches, while the trumpeter swan, weighing twenty-eight pounds, has a spread of wing of only eight feet. The stork weighs eight times more than the pigeon, but in proportion has only half as much wing surface. Everybody's Magazine.

PALFREY FOR DINNER.

It Was Not Horseflesh, However, That Dr. Johnson Ate.
 Dr. Johnson in his journal mentions the interesting fact that he had on a certain day had "palfrey for dinner." Now, these three words have caused not a little trouble to the critics, and for this reason, that they know not what palfrey really is. It has been suggested that palfrey is a clerical error made by the doctor himself for pastry, but the doctor wrote so legibly and there is so much difference between the words palfrey and pastry that this position is not at all tenable.

Palfrey is defined in Johnson's celebrated dictionary as "a small horse fit for ladies," and some have thought that the doctor (whose feeds as a trencherman were notorious) may have broken a record on the day in question, and disposed of a small horse. All these and other conjectures are wrong, and we will proceed to give the correct explanation.
 The word palfrey (sometimes palfrey by the interchange of l and m) is still in use among the rustics of Scotland and the north of Ireland and means young cabbages when they first come to table in the spring. Such cabbages have not begun to "close" or become solid in the center. They are generally spoken of as "barfy palfrey" and are considered a luxury. Dr. Johnson probably picked up the word from his friend Boswell or from some other Scotch acquaintance.—London Notes and Queries.

A Good Medicine.
 Laughter not only gains friends, but it's a good medicine—keeps the eyes bright, the heart light and increases the number of red corpuscles. Perhaps that is the reason one sees so few fashionable people laughing. They are cultivating blue blood.

A man who was very ill was visited by his doctor, one of those lugubrious creatures, about as cheerful as a tombstone. He assumed the properly dejected air and inquired of the sick man where his friends were in case he had any last request.
 "Yes, one," the patient answered feebly.
 "What is it?"
 "I wish I had another doctor."

A Curious Embrocation.
 Battisnake oil is preserved and prepared very carefully for use as a liniment in some parts of the world. Rheumatism and sore joints are the ailments in which it is chiefly employed. The fat is taken from the dead reptile and laid upon the flayed oil of the hot sun. From fear that the reptile may be bitten itself the clear oil is tested by dropping a portion of it into milk. If it floats in a globe it is regarded as unaffected. If it breaks into beads and curdles the milk it is judged to be poisonous and thrown away.

The Poor Cat.
 A young wife called her husband on the telephone to tell him a tale of woe. In tear choked accents she said: "That you, dearie? Well, you know that lovely chicken pie I made you—that horrid old cat came in and ate it up before I could stop it!"
 He answered, "Never mind, darling; I'll get you another cat."

His Symptoms.
 "Maybe that boy of yours will be famous some day," said the friend.
 "I shouldn't be surprised," answered Farmer Corntassel; "he does like to wear curious clothes an' say things that sounds more surprisin' than sensible."

Her Discharge.
 "Why did you leave your last place?"
 "Sure, I wor discharged for doin' well, mum."
 "Discharged for doing well? Why, where were you?"
 "I wor in the hospital, mum."

Self Winding Watches.

"Watchmaking is no longer what it used to be," said a collector. "Where will you find today artists making and selling readily watches worth $2,500 apiece? Breguet was the greatest watchmaker the world has ever seen. He was a Swiss, but he lived in France. The watch collector who hasn't a Breguet timepiece has a sadly incomplete collection. Breguet watches were the acme of beauty, of originality and of accuracy. One played a tune every hour, another had on its dial little figures that danced, a third was a self winder. They were very ingenious, those self winding watches. They worked on the pedometer principle. The motion of the body in walking kept them wound. I have a Breguet self winder, and sometimes, out of curiosity, I carry it for a week. My stride winds it, it never runs down, and it keeps, after all these years, fairly good time."

The Address on the Letter.
 "It is not spelling alone that has been smitten by the hand of the destroyer," lamented the postman. "Punctuation has also gone by the board. When I first began to handle United States mail ten years ago the directions on envelopes were punctuated according to schoolbook rules. Abbreviations were finished off with a period, names were followed by a comma, and so on. Now the envelope that is properly punctuated is a rarity. Sometimes, just out of curiosity, I take time to look carefully through a bunch of letters. Out of, say, twenty, more than half will be entirely destitute of punctuation marks. In the few cases where an attempt has been made to punctuate hysterical dashes take the place of the periods and commas that once prevailed."

Proof of His Innocence.
 A southern negro was brought into the courtroom, accused of stealing a neighbor's chickens.
 "Mister George Washington Shintop, did you steal those chickens?" asked the judge pointedly.
 "No, sah, judge. Ah is too 'spectable 'or dat."
 "But it is stated on good authority that a bundle of feathers was found in your back yard the day before Christmas."
 "Dat 'sinnersation, judge, des proves mah innocence, cos how could de feds be found in mah back yard de day befo' Christmas when mah wife didn't pluck dose chickens until de day after Chris'mus?"—Circle.

A Queer Argument.
 It is often urged that eloquence and affection are inalienable, but I maintain that the peculiar pronunciation of certain words—if that constitutes affection—is a pardonable fault, of which many eminent orators are themselves guilty. In vast cathedrals and large halls where the acoustic properties are of an unusual order it is clearly manifest that some pronunciations are preferable to others, for some words by the very composition of their syllables are not so far reaching in their sound as others, so that if a ruse is adopted to gain the desired effect surely it is detrimental to no one.—London Academy.

BIG FLOCK.
 Two farmers were driving on the highway when an automobile horn sounded around the bend.
 Means rough weather, Si, when wild geese honk so low, said one.
 Z-z-zip r-r-r honk-honk! as they both went skyward. On reaching the ground the same granger remarked:
 Gee whiz, Si, what a flock!

OLGA VERNE

There is something about Olga Verne's personality that asserts itself in every play in which she appears. Somehow, she seems to carry an atmosphere around with her that freshens and sweetens the theatre and the audience like a draft of pure air from hills where daisies blow.

It's a charm stronger than her talent—a mysterious, elusive fragrance that one doesn't often find in the theatre, or in the world, for that matter.

But if you watch an audience coming out after a matinee of "Faust," there is a certain serenity of soul expressed on the most frivolous face in the group. The brightness of eye and color of cheek and naughty whisk of skirt that you may observe, after a "Faust" matinee may be missing, but voices have grown sweeter, ways more gentle, words kinder.

It's all the wonderful magic of this little woman's personality. It's a force that reaches over the footlights and spreads out among us and makes us better.

The part of "Marguerite" has been the crowning effect of Miss Verne's career, and her appearance in this city under such favorable auspices bespeaks for her a warm welcome. —Detroit News.

ABERDEENS 21; THAMESVILLE 10

In a loosely played game, Monday, on Teumash Park, the Aberrdeens defeated Thamesville by the score of 21 to 10. Both sides made numerous errors and did not play their usual good game. "Brownie" McLean, the North Chatham wonder, was in the box for the Aberrdeens. He pitched a good game, having ten strikeouts to his credit, who scored forty runs, batted, banded the bat, caught his usual good game.

THE BALLOON ASCENSION.

A large crowd of sports and others gathered at the Fair Grounds Monday afternoon to see the ball game between Windsor and the locals, and incidentally to see Tommy Burns hand out the decisions. H. S. Clements, M. P., gave a short address and introduced Mr. Thomas Burns, of pugilistic repute to the audience.

The game was unusually slow throughout, and bright plays were few and far between. The Windsor team was too much for the local boys and won by a score of seven to two. The visiting team put up a fairly good brand of amateurish ball. Dumond in the box and Betz behind the bat made an excellent combination as batter for Windsor. Dumond had three strike-outs and allowed three men to walk. His support was good. Fluet at right field was successful in rounding the diamond two times. Paine got a hit and two runs. Neil got two hits and one run, and a two-base hit, and Linnie scored a run. The performance of the Windsor boys was creditable all through and very few errors were chalked up against them.

The home team certainly had a day off, as there was not a player who did not have a bad mark or two against him, and some of them had several errors. Davis was not up to his usual standard and allowed the Border people to connect freely. He had six strike-outs, and allowed six men to get bases on balls. His support was discouraging and one dismal round of errors from beginning to end. Brundage and Peck appeared to be vying with each other as to who could make the longest and most disreputable list of bad plays, and did stunts in the error line heretofore unknown in baseball annals. Depew, Pleasence and Bunting were the players who deserve credit for keeping the score down as low as it was.

Pleasence did clever work in the field. He was responsible for a nice double play, catching a fly and pushing it to first, putting the runner out.

This was the brightest play in the game and to which the only cheers of the day were given. He also scored a run. West scored the second run for the home team, both runs being scored in succession in the sixth innings. The other players were taking it easy and making errors.

The game was umpired by Tommy Burns the champion heavyweight pugilist of the world. His decisions were satisfactory to every one concerned and were fair throughout.

The line-up was as follows:

Windsor—Wallace ss, Fluet rf, Paine 3b, Neil cf, Linnie 1b, Betz c, Bryden 2b, McLean 1b, Dumond p.

Chatham—Pleasence rf, Herd cf, Bunnings c, Depew 1b, Brundage 3b, Peck ss, Davis p, Grandbois 2b, West lf.

MACHINISTS WON

A friendly game of baseball was played on Teumash Park, Saturday evening, between the Shippers and Machinists, which resulted in favor of the Machinists by a score of 16 to 15. Pitcher Sanford rapped the ball good and hard after two men were down, bringing in two men and thereby winning his own game.

Following was the line-up of the teams:

Machinists—Matt. Sanford p, Geo. Purdy c, E. Grimsell 1b, Jas. Summers, Sr., ss, F. Beals 2b, B. Moreland 3b, Harry Ray cf, Joe Yott rf, W. Claus cf.

Shippers—J. Donovan 1b, George Harvey c, W. McGowan p, Sam Foreman 2b, John Hamilton 3b, Samers ss, E. Harvey 1b, G. Howley cf, Bobby Hamilton rf.

W. Goudlers and C. Hovey acted as umpires.
