June, the month of months, our "month of roses," is now unfolding its glories of wild-rose, daisy and buttercup everywhere by the wayside, in field and in forest, asking nothing, only freely giving to all their beauty and sweetness. DACK—ROBESON

At the residence of the bride's parents, Athens, June 16th, at 10.30 o'clock, Miss Anna Lucella Robeson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Robeson, was united in marriage to Mr. William Omar Dack, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Dack, Brockville, salesman in the employ of C. W. Lindsay, Limited.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. J. Vickery, in the presence of some forty friends of the contracting parties. The bride, formerly stenographer in the law office of Farish & McGlade, Brockville, entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Georgia Robinson, cousin of the bride. The residence was tastefully decorated for the happy event with roses, ferns and peonies.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin and silver lace, and carried a large bouquet of smilax and white carnations. The bridal couple were attended by Miss Violet Robeson, sister of the bride, and Mr. Howard G. McCrea, of Brockville. The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of shell pink Georgette crepe over duchess satin with a large bouquet of pink carnations and fern.

Following the ceremony the guests were served a delectable wedding repast, after which the bridal couple left by automobile to spend their honeymoon at Hammon and other Northern New York points. Going away the bride wore a suit of navy tricotine, with hat to match.

The bridal couple have a wide circle of friends and their popularity was attested by the many handsome and costly wedding gifts received, which included several substantial cheques.

The groom's gift to the bride included a Victory bond, to the bridesmaid a gold bar pin, set with pearls. The groomsmen were the recipient of a very handsome pearl tie pin, and to Miss Georgia Robinson, pianist, a crescent pin set with pearls.

The happy couple left amid showers of rice and congratulations. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dack will reside at 188 King Street west, Brockville.

Great Britain's Recovery

In spite of the fact that Great Britain's imports during March totalled £177,000,000, which was an increase of £6,000,000 over the preceding month and included £53,000,000 worth of raw cotton, its excess of imports over exports for the month dropped sharply to a new low figure, amounting to only £23,000,000.

The exceptionally good showing made by the British foreign trade figures for March thus is seen to be the result of decreased imports, but rather to the new high record of its exports, which totalled £149,000,000 in March, as against £109,000,000 during the month preceding.

and thus far with quite conspicuous success, to correct its heavy "adverse trade balance without reducing its imports is coming to be looked upon in this country as a particularly satisfactory revelation of British recuperative powers.

entail a proportionate reduction in the activities of British exports. That the United Kingdom has been able to maintain and even to increase to new high levels its imports, in spite of heavy foreign debts, adverse exchange rates and preponderant adverse trade balances, accumulated since 1914, speaks well for the foresight, courage and resourcefulness (on which in the final analysis a nation's dependence depends) of British merchants as a whole.

DR. WARD The Specialist
79 NIAGARA SQUARE, BUFFALO, NEW YORK.
Men, Are You in Doubt
As to your trouble? Have you some skin eruption that is stubborn, has resisted treatment? Is there a nervous condition which does not improve in spite of rest, diet and medicine? Are you going down hill steadily? ARE YOU NERVOUS and despondent, weak and debilitated; tired mornings; no ambition—lifeless; memory gone; easily fatigued; excitable and irritable; lack of energy and confidence? Is there falling power, a drain on the system? Consult the old reliable specialists.

DRINKS FOR HOT WEATHER

In making cold beverages it should be remembered that they are always much better if put together with a sugar syrup instead of using plain sugar. This provides a rich, smooth sweetening, and as the syrup can be prepared in advance and "canned" ready for use, a jar or two should stand ready on the pantry shelf for the making of these delightful summer beverages.

PLAIN SUGAR SYRUP.
Boil together for five minutes two quarts of water and six pounds of granulated sugar; then can as for canned fruit in hot sterilized jars. Allow one tablespoonful of the syrup to a glassful in sweetening any fresh fruit beverage.

LOGANBERRY YADE.
Use one quart of loganberry juice and add the juice of two lemons, one sliced orange, sufficient of the syrup to sweeten and dilute to taste with chilled carbonated water, poured from a height. Pour into tall glasses, half filled with cracked ice.

GRAPE CUP.
Place in a large bowl one cupful of strained tea, three-quarters of a cupful of two oranges and two limes. Stand on the ice for three or four hours to ripen and when ready to serve add one quart of unfermented grape juice, a bouquet of fresh mint and a pint of chilled iced. Pour slowly over a small block of ice that has been placed in a punch bowl.

GINGER ALE FRAPPE.
This is delicious and well worthy to serve as a party beverage. Mix together a pint of large strawberries, cut in halves, add the juice of one orange, one lemon and a small cupful of the sugar syrup. Chill on the ice, turn into a punch bowl, place a quart over enough iced ginger ale to nearly cover the ice. Serve immediately in sherbet cups.

BOTH DESIRABLE.
(Boston Transcript).
Bix—A man rises in his own estimation when he settles down.
Dix—Yes, and he rises in his creditors' estimation when he settles up.

Weak and relaxed state of the body, nervousness, despondency, poor memory, lack of will power, timid, irritable disposition, diminished power of application, energy and concentration, fear of impending danger or misfortune, drowsiness and tendency to sleep, unrefreshing sleep, dark rings under eyes, loss of weight, insomnia, Dr. Ward gives you the benefit of 29 years' continuous practice in the treatment of all chronic, nervous, blood and vein diseases. The above symptoms, and many others not mentioned, show plainly that something is wrong with your physical condition and that you need expert attention.

Vegetables in New Ways

When you get tired of vegetables cooked in the same old way, try these variations on your kitchen range, and see how very different they will taste to the family.

SHRIMP FRICASSEE.
Parsnip fricassee is another new and unusual dish. Boil parsnips in milk until tender. Whop done cut into pieces, thicken and season the milk in which they were boiled with butter, salt and simmer on the back of the stove for three-quarters of an hour.

A SAUCE FOR BEETS.
The following sauce for beets make them almost a new vegetable. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter with two of flour and with it thicken a half cup of the water in which the beets were boiled. Of course you must be sure the beets are well washed before putting on. Add to this a fourth of a cup of vinegar the same amount of rich milk or cream, a teaspoonful of sugar and pepper and salt to taste. Pour this over the sliced beets and reheat.

WOOD'S PHOSPHODINE.
The Great English Preparation.
Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new blood in old veins. Used for Nervous Debility, Mental and Brain Worry, Headaches, Loss of Energy, Palpitation of the Heart, Failing Memory, etc. Price, six for $5. Sold by all druggists, or mailed in plain package on receipt of price. New pamphlet mailed free. THE WOOD MEDICINE CO., TORONTO, ONT.

MERELY SUGGESTIONS.
The Busy House Wife May Here Find Some Labor-saving Ideas.
It is the duty of the busy housekeeper to try to arrange everything so as to save her steps. So, keep tissue and wrapping paper and string neatly folded in the dresser.

Housewifely Bits.
The larger a loaf of cake, the lower the temperature of the oven should be.
Add a half package of dates, cut in small pieces, to a caramel pudding mixture.
After meals wipe butter plates with scraps of waxed paper and save for pans.

For the Teacher.
No one is too young or too old to be impressed with the fact that obedience is the law of life. Show its reward and its test of discipline. When one wills to obey, he throws into gear machinery the like of which is not known anywhere else on earth.

Rice and Peanut Butter.
Boil one-half cupful of rice until tender in molting, salted water. Pour over it one pint of thin white sauce, to which one-half cupful of peanut butter has been added. You will find this a tasty combination.

SCIATICA

Would you be rid of that sharp knife-like thrust along the side of your back—colic or every movement? Thousands have found lasting relief in Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules.

GRIT OF A SHARPSHOOTER.
Sergeant Halliwell's Feat at the Siege of Lucknow.
During the siege of Lucknow in the Indian mutiny there was afforded what was probably the most notable instance of the grit of a crack shot.

Popular Names for Towns.
There are 31 Franklins given in the latest United States' postal guide. Chester and Clinton are close seconds, there being 30 towns and cities by each of these names in the United States, Washington and Newport come next in popularity, each having 28.

Very Old Banknote.
The longest time during which a note has remained outside the Bank of England is 111 years. It was one of £25, and it is computed that the compound interest during that long period amounted to no less than £6,000.

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians CAREFULLY.
He—if I should ask your father for your hand and heart do you think he would kick me out of his house? She (timidly)—I don't know, dear; perhaps you had better try telephoning first.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.
EXTRAVAGANT.
"Extravagant, isn't he?"
"What makes you think so?"
"He still puts two spoonfuls of sugar in his tea."

Worse than a knock.
"This is a rotten criticism of the show."
"Whatever the matter. Does it roast you?"
"No, sir. It doesn't even mention that I was in the cast."

honor to be absolutely ignorant of her age.

The real name of Nance O'Neil, the well-known actress, is Gertrude Lamson. It was Mike Rankin, who chose her stage name. It is a combination of those of Nance Oldfield and Eliza O'Neil, famous eighteenth century actresses in England.

One of the most curious and lucrative trades for women in France is that of wine-taster. The most expert, those capable of detecting adulteration, recognizing blends, and declaring the age of wines with unfailing accuracy, sometimes earn as much as $30,000 a year.

The natives of Calabar, West Africa, have a curious custom of preparing their women for marriage. When a girl reaches the age of fourteen to sixteen the parents begin their preparations. The natives' idea of beauty in their brides is stoutness—the stouter a girl is the more beautiful and charming she is in the bridegroom's eyes. Therefore for at least four months she is made to live in a small room in a mud house, and not allowed any exercise of any kind. She is fed at any and every minute of the day that she can possibly eat. The thin, hungry-looking girl who was enclosed four months earlier emerges with difficulty at the end of the period, a huge woman, reminding one very forcibly of the fat woman in the circus.

A Hymn of Empire.
Lord, by Whose Might the Heavens stand,
The Source from Whom they came,
Who holdst nations in Thy hand,
And call'st the stars by name,
Thine ageless orcs do not cease
To mould us as of yore—
The chiseling of the arts of peace,
The anvil strokes of war.
Then bind our realms in brotherhood,
Firm laws and equal rights,
Let each uphold the Empire's good freedom that unites;
And make that speech whose thunder rolls
Down the broad stream of time,
The harbinger from pole to pole
Of love and peace sublime.
Strong are we? Make us stronger yet;
Great? Make us greater far;
Our feet antarctic oceans fret,
Our crown the polar star.
Round earth's wild coasts our batteries speak,
Our highway is the main,
We stand as guardians of the weak,
We burst the oppressor's chain.
Great God, uphold us in our task,
Keep pure and clean our rule,
Silence the honeyed words which mask
The wisdom of the fool.
The pillars of the world are Thine,
Four down Thy bounteous grace,
And make illustrious and divine
The sceptre of our race.

Whe Sneezing Was a Bad Omen.
Sneezing from remote times has been held ominous. Our forefathers went to bed again if they sneezed while putting on their shoes. A sneeze to the right was deemed lucky; to the left of evil portent. To sneeze near a burial place was unlucky.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON XIII, JUNE 27TH, 1920.

The Noble Life of Samuel—Review.

1. Samuel 12:1-5, 13-25.

Summary.—Lesson 1. Topics God working through national leaders. Place: The land of Canaan. Joshua delivered an affectionate and impressive address to Israel shortly before his death. They served the Lord faithfully for many years after Joshua died.

II. Topic: The service of women in national leadership. Place: Northern Canaan. After the Lord had delivered Israel from the king of Mesopotamia, they fell again into sin and the Canaanites were permitted to oppress them. Deborah was a prophetess. The Lord sent her and Barak to defeat the Canaanites.

III. Topic: One with God a majority. Place: Plain of Jezreel. The Midianites became distressingly troublesome to Israel. At this time the Lord raised up Gideon to deliver his people from their enemies. Gideon called for an army. Thirty-two thousand responded. The army was reduced to three hundred, and gained the victory.

IV. Topic: The power of personal influence. Places: Moab; Bethlehem. Elimelech, Naomi Moab on account of the famine. The sons married Moabite women, Ruth and Orpah. During the ten years of residence there, Elimelech and the two sons died. Naomi returned to Canaan and Ruth persisted in going with her.

V. Topic: Religious capacities and training of children. Place: Shiloh. The Lord promised Hannah, the wife of Elkanah, a son. She said that she would devote him from his early infancy to the Lord. At an early age she took him to the house of the Lord, there to remain and serve under Eli, the priest and judge.

VI. Topic: Responsibilities of parents and children. Places: Ephk; Ebenezer; Shiloh. Philistines Israel was defeated and it was decided to bring the ark of the covenant into the camp. This was done and the Philistines defeated Israel again and captured the ark.

VII. Topic: Qualifications for leadership. Places: Kirjath-jearim, Mizpeh; Ebenezer; Hamah. The Philistines had oppressed Israel many years. Samuel had tried to bring about a reformation and the people were turning toward the Lord. They confessed their sins, gave up their idols and vowed to serve God only. The Lord gave Israel a great victory.

VIII. Topic: The selection of leaders. Place: Ramah. The people of Israel desired a king so as to be like other nations. They were displeased with Samuel's sons, whom he had employed to help him in judging Israel. The Lord granted them their desire.

IX. Topic: The value of initiative in Christian work. Places: Gibeah; Michmash. The Philistines were still troublesome and were encamped at Michmash. Saul had six hundred men at Gibeah. Jonathan, Saul's son, proposed to his armor-bearer that they two go to the stronghold of the Philistines. They gained a signal victory for Israel.

X. Topic: The strength and weakness of Saul's character. Place: Gilgal. The Lord sent Saul a message by Samuel to go and utterly destroy the Amalekites. Saul went out with his army and defeated the enemy; but disobeyed God and was rejected.

XI. Topic: The possibilities of youth. Places: Ramah; Bethlehem. The Lord sent Samuel with a horn of oil to Bethlehem to anoint one of the sons of Jesse as king of Israel. A sacrifice was offered, then the sons of Jesse were called one by one and David, the youngest son, was anointed.

XII. Topic: Our divine Shepherd. Place: Probably Jerusalem. As David was a shepherd, it was natural for him to present the life of the Godly under the figure of a sheep in relation to the shepherd.

PRACTICAL SURVEY.

Topic.—Samuel's service to his people.

1. Samuel's resignation.

2. Samuel's challenge.

3. Samuel's farewell address.

4. Samuel's resignation. The establishment of a royal government in Israel was completed in the public inauguration of Saul at Gilgal. During a long life Samuel had been God's vice-regent in Israel. His relationship to national affairs was about to undergo a change, in some respects a natural result of his advancing years, but more immediately resulting from the late national movement. The sentiment of the monarchy seemed to suggest, if not to necessitate, his retirement from the position he had so long and so honorably occupied as sole judicial administrator. His official functions were not entirely to cease, but in his subsequent relations they appear to have been those of a prophet rather than of a judge, similar to those exercised by the later prophets as special messengers of Jehovah. They represented even kings, declared judgments and on great occasions sought and obtained for them divine direction. Samuel's influence was constantly present to restrain and correct Saul's waywardness, and he continued to maintain the exalted ministry of intercession. The world can better spare its potentates than its prophets.

5. Samuel's challenge. Since a child Samuel had lived in a noisome place of public service, and his whole life was before the people to whom he now appealed. His judicial record was well known. Now, when about to lay down the burdens of administration, he seeks no artificial honors, but only to come out of the trial with unimpaired reputation and with unaltered character. He challenges the nation to which he has served his life to give him a fair trial against him a just assessment. No extortion oppression or influence had marred his administration. The searching challenge he issues, every goodly man, and especially if entrusted with public or judicial functions, ought to be able to put to his own age. The virtue of public men is of vast importance in its effect upon society. Samuel's life was both an example and a rebuke; worthy example of personal excellence and of public probity; a rebuke in its unimpeachable public righteousness.

In Samuel's farewell address. No man in Hebrew history stands before Samuel in purity of life and singleness of purpose. No man was more devoted to the welfare of the nation, and none excepting perhaps Moses, "more honored of God as an intercessor." In his valedictory address he follows the example of his predecessors, Moses and Joshua, in reviewing the national history from the beginning, recounting God's providences, and reasoning with them of "all the righteous acts of the Lord, which he did to you and to your fathers." "There is a central line of history, which indicates the central line of purpose." Providences are not isolated occurrences, but are connected with, and indications of, a central, unifying purpose. The errors of Israel are not omitted. Warning is mingled with promise. The kingship could not displace the theocracy. Both ruler and people were subjects of supreme authority.—W.H.C.

Red Walls in Factories.

One of the causes of Germany's present position is declared by some observers to be the red paint on her factory walls. According to John Taylor, the German, keenly alive to the effect of environment, painted the insides of their factories bright red in order to stimulate energy in the workers. In a letter addressed to the Prime Minister, and duly forwarded to the housing authorities, Mr. Taylor pleads that the health and aesthetic feelings of the population may be fostered through the proper coloring of the new houses. "I believe," he writes, "that a lot of depression in domestic and business life is due to irrationally and artistically colored surroundings."

"Color has a powerful effect on health, temperament and character. Green fields, blue skies and red flowers produce pleasurable aesthetic sensations. Two or three French medical scientists have demonstrated that color cures are effective in cases of temperamental disorder. A London hospital was put at the disposal of Mr. H. Kemp Presser during the war. He created a correct color environment for the treatment of shell shock. In a number of cases his prescription was spring green, cerulean blue and apple-blossom pink or iris purple, and most wonderful cures were effected."

UTTERLY HELPLESS FROM ST. VITUS DANCE

THE SUFFERER RESTORED TO HEALTH THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

St. Vitus dance is a disease of the nerves brought on by a morbid condition of the blood. It is a common disease with children, and attacks girls more frequently than boys. Irritability is frequently one of the first signs noted. The child frets, it should be kept quiet, given a nutritious diet, remain out of doors as much as possible, and above all things given a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood and restore the shattered nerves. Without this treatment the trouble may become chronic and the patient a life-long sufferer. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the following statement by Mr. Frank J. Scriven, Acton, Ont., who says: "In January, 1917, when I resided at Milton, Ont., my daughter Gertrude, then aged fourteen, had a bad attack of rheumatic fever, which left as its after effects a severe attack of St. Vitus dance. For weeks she was confined to her bed under the doctor's care. She was entirely helpless, being unable to even hold a spoon to feed herself. For a time she lost the power of speech almost entirely, and only with great difficulty made herself understood. The twitching of her muscles was so bad it was painful to see her. After a long time and taking a lot of medicine, she seemed to improve. But she did not seem to get along as she ought to. In November, 1917, we removed to Acton, and in January, 1918, she was again confined to her bed with St. Vitus dance. She was again in a terrible state and quite helpless. She was under a doctor's care, and while there was an improvement, she was still very nervous, did not look well and was always tired. In May, 1918, we decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and see what they would do for her. She took them regularly according to directions, and after taking several boxes there was a decided improvement. After a further use of the pills she is now as healthy a girl as you would wish to see. She is fat, with a fine, healthy color and is strong and lively. The neighbors to whom she is well known remark on the wonderful change in her appearance since taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Both her mother and myself are convinced that the pills have done her a world of good as she is now far healthier than we at one time thought she ever would be."

For all trouble due to poor blood and weak nerves there is no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 25 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many a girl who isn't pretty makes up for it in other ways.

SUNDAY AT HOME

MAKE FOR THYSELF A PART.

Oh, no, across the plains, and feel no dread!

Where's not the boldest bath Trod down a path, which thou may'st safely tread.

Make for thyself a path.—Goethe (Aytoun's and Martin's translation).

AIM HIGH.

Some men are afraid of being too religious. What we need to-day is men who believe deep down in their souls what they profess. The world is tired and sick of sham. Let your whole heart be given up to God's service. Aim high. God wants us all to be His ambassadors. It is a position higher than that of any monarch on earth, to be a herald of the cross; but you must be filled with the Spirit of God—not afraid of being called fanatics. You are not good for anything until the world considers you a fanatic. Fox said that every Quaker ought to shake the country tree and say: "What does the Scripture say? 'One shall chase a thousand, and two shall put ten thousand to flight.' It takes about a thousand to chase one now. Why? Because they are afraid of being too religious. What does this world want to-day? Men—men that are out-and-out for God, and not half-hearted in their allegiance and service."

THE MAN NEXT TO YOU.

It is good for us to stop once in a while to consider what the man next to us may think about us. There are many who are concerned about their general reputation and standing, and those who are more concerned about reputation than they are about character often find it easy to live a double life without general discovery. Such a thing is hardly possible among those with whom one is immediately and constantly associated. Occasionally we hear one say of another who has passed away: "This was a fine character. I know because I worked with him." If such a one were questioned, he doubtless would admit that the one of whom he spoke had his peculiarities and defects and shortcomings, but he would invariably insist that the man was good at heart, that his general course of life was the expression of principles to which he was devoted; that he had a high sense of honor; that he possessed a reasonable and unselfish spirit. He would be thinking of the essentials in character and not of the incidental defects. He would be thinking of the general course of the life and not of the accidental missteps.

He who desires that his life should be what it ought to be will get a great deal of help in the frequent self-examination which he needs to make by asking himself: What do those with whom I am associated think of my life? Now only will such a question help one to discover his own foibles and moods and besetting sins and inconsistent habits, but it will also keep him conscious of inconsistencies and will quicken his conscience and will lead him to work on the unobtrusive motives of his life. If he be honest, it will not make him sensitive or lead to the cultivation of the habit of self-exuse and self-indulgence, but will rather tend to make his life more transparent. He will seek to correct his faults and by making quiet apology and amends when he does injustice to others and will daily show the dominating desire to be what he ought to be and to do what he ought to do.

It sometimes happens that people can be closely associated with other people without revealing their true character, but that is the exception and not the rule. It is often the case that those who are in official positions especially do not discover readily what their associates think of them, but on that very account it is all the more important that such persons should ask the question we have indicated. If those in subordinate positions show merely cold respect for those above them, the indication is not good. Whatever dignity and reserve a position may seem to require is penetrated and warmed and rendered harmless by a truly great heart. It sometimes happens that those in the higher positions imagine that those in subordinate positions, but associated with them, do not know or care much about what they are. Such is not the case. The students in a college take measure of the character of their teachers. Employees in a factory evaluate the character of their manager. Sooner or later the people of a nation take the measure of the personal character of their ruler. Associates in business often know each other better than they admit. Our lives, as a rule, are not much better than those who know us have them to be, even after we make allowances for all human prejudices and limits to understanding.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones, she would not be without them. They are the best home remedy for the baby; being guaranteed to be absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are a gentle but thorough laxative, and have been proved of the greatest value in cases of constipation, indigestion, colic, colds and simple fevers. Concerning them, Mrs. Ernest Gagne, Beauregard, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and colic and have found them so successful that I would not be without them. I would strongly recommend every mother to keep a box in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For the Cookie Jar.

Filled Cookies.—Cream half a cupful of shortening with three-quarters in a cupful of sugar and add one beaten egg, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of baking soda, dissolved in half a cupful of thick sour milk and flour to make a soft dough. Chill and shape, using a square cutter, on the centres of half the squares put a generous spoonful of the following: Pass through the meat grinder eight pitted prunes, six stoned dates and four washed figs (soak the prunes for several hours with cold water to cover). Add the water in which the prunes were soaked and simmer for 20 minutes. Add sugar to taste, the grated yellow rind and juice of half a lemon, a teaspoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of flour moistened with a little cold water. Stir constantly until the mixture boils again and is very smooth. Cool before using. Make three small openings in the remaining squares of dough and put together in sandwich fashion. Press the edges of dough firmly together and bake in a quick oven, so that the cookies will not lose their shape. Use a thimble for making the openings.

Molasses Spice Cookies.—Heat half a cupful of molasses to the boiling point and add three tablespoonfuls of shortening, a quarter of a cupful of brown sugar and one tablespoonful of milk. Stir together two cupfuls of flour, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful each of baking soda, ground cloves, cinnamon and grated nutmeg. Combine the two mixtures, roll out thin and bake in a moderate oven.

Fortunate is the man who can jump at conclusions and land on his feet.

AND HOME FIRESIDE

Even though these days are "economy" ones, the greatest care and nicety ought to be observed in the preparation of food for the sick. The cook, as someone has tersely said, does, or should do, half the patient's digesting. Nor does the responsibility end with proper cooking. The service must also be faultless and tempting, for the palate must be first tickled via the eye, the capricious appetite quickened and the desire to taste created before a morsel has passed the lips. The tray and its accessories should be all daintiness, for, as all know, the appetite of the robust person of refinement is dulled by the sight of an untidy cloth, a soiled napkin or careless arrangement of the dishes. Think then of the effect which must be produced by shipboard service upon the appetite already on the wane. Never make the serious mistake of asking an invalid what he wants to eat.

At all times the matter of diet is of serious moment, for most surely as a man eats so is he, and in sickness it becomes of paramount importance. Sudden and even fatal relapses have followed in the wake of a disregard of the laws of diet. A list of foods suited to the patient's needs should be obtained from the attending physician, and all others should be withheld. Variety is imperative, and it is surprising how many changes may be effected with even a limited dietary list: when one sets about the matter in earnest.

DAINTY EGG DISHES.

All modern cook books abound in recipes for dainty egg dishes. Always serve white bread-and-butter sandwiches with salt, strain and serve with Nourishing, yet not rich, soups, which must not be confounded with carbohydrates lacking in the egg, broths and meat teas, are highly beneficial to the convalescent, toning up the stomach.

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

The following recipes for a vegetable soup without meat may prove useful to some reader: Heat two tablespoons, one onion, one tablespoonful of rice in one quart of water one hour. Strain, add salt, strain and serve with small rounds of toast.

A small piece of roasted mutton well done, chicken, game or fish can be usually eaten. A bit of tender loin steak, cut from one-half to an inch thick, and broiled for a few minutes, then seasoned and laid between buttered paper the above of the chop and fried. This mixture is not only a savory dish, but is highly nutritious. Serve with a roasted potato dressed with cream.

A broiled lamb chop is always relished and is easily digested. French a rib chop by scraping the bone until all the fat is removed. Lay on a clean buttered paper the above of the chop and fry double. Fold on a gridiron broil six minutes, transfer from the case to a platter, garnish with parsley. Serve at once.

Fruit, because of its water constituents and vegetable acid salts, is always wholesome for sick people, provided it is fresh, ripe and eaten judiciously.

The dishes given here are both wholesome and easily prepared: PANNEE-BREAD-OF-CHICKEN.

Place the breast in small baking pan with a little boiling water; cook until brown, basting frequently. Season and serve on a hot plate with a border of rice and olives.

APPLES WITH MERINGUE.

Cook a tart, juicy apple till soft; put through a colander, sweeten and flavor; fold in the white of an egg beaten dry.

OMELETTE WITH PEAS.

Beat the yolks of two eggs lightly; add two tablespoons of cold water; fold in the whites, beaten dry, turn into a small omelette pan and stand over fire till set; dry in the oven, dust with salt; fold and turn out on a hot platter. Garnish with stewed peas.

SURPRISE BALL.

Whip the white of an egg, add a teaspoonful of sugar and a few drops of rose extract. Cover a mold of ice cream with the meringue and harden, but brown by holding a shovel heated to a white heat within an inch of the dish.

ONE HOPE.

"There's one hope for us."

"What is it?"

"That some day the strikers will organize and call a strike on striking."

Good for Father and Good for Son

MR. C. ROY PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He States That They Relieved His Sore of Bed Wetting and Himself of Bladder Trouble.—Ask Your Neighbors About Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Thivierge Office, Bonaventure Co., Que., June 24st.—(Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills have been successfully used by both old and young as a remedy for kidney ills is again shown by the statement of Mr. Clement Roy, of this place.

"I am glad to be able to state," Mr. Roy says, "that Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved my little boy of bed wetting. They also helped my bladder trouble. I cannot say too much in praise of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy pure and simple. But bladder and urinary troubles come as a result of weak or disordered kidneys. The natural way to treat such troubles is to strengthen or help the kidneys.

Mr. Roy acted on this principle when he used Dodd's Kidney Pills for his own and his son's troubles. The satisfaction he got is voiced by his statement.

If you have not used them yourself, ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy for kidney ills.

STORIES OF "BIG" PEOPLE

King Victor Emmanuel rarely smokes, and when he does it is usually a cigarette.

The favorite pastime of Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty is writing letters to his friends.

During his active career as a professional pianist, Paderewski, the present Premier of Poland, could play from memory more than 500 compositions.

Ernest Charles Drury, the new Ontario Premier, is a practical farmer. His 250-acre farm near the town of Barrie is the same plot that was first tilled by his grandfather a century ago.

Musicians are often singularly superstitious. Paderewski once engaged an expensive apartment in London, but refused to enter when he found it was No. 13 of a certain street, although he paid for it.

Thomas A. Edison is of opinion that the human body is a machine which, if properly treated, is capable of sustaining life in comfort, and enjoyment for 150 years. He adds that he himself hopes to live to that age.

The bachelors of the United States Senate include Boies Penrose, one of the influential members. David Walsh, of Massachusetts, one of the handsomest; Davis Elkins, of West Virginia, one of the wealthiest, and Frank B. Brandegee, of Connecticut.

Among the German people there are many who believe that the former Kaiser is, and always has been, a convinced Spiritualist. Spiritualistic tendencies, it is said, have always been in the Hohenzollern blood. In a book published in Germany some years ago it was declared that the Kaiser not only was inclined to Spiritualism, but accepted it as an objective truth, and even went so far as to carry in his watchcase a fragment of the garment of a medium.

At the age of sixty-five, Sir Arthur Pinero holds sway as the leading English playwright of the day. He has had so many successes that he took London by storm with "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," a quarter of a century ago. Sir Arthur takes immense pains over all his plays, is exceedingly patient, and will coach the dullest actor for hours at a time until his performance expresses the author's conception.

King Albert of the Belgians continues a custom inaugurated by the late King Leopold of becoming godfather to every seventh son born in Brussels, in carrying out the old usage he once had some difficulty because the seventh and eighth sons were twins. He could not stand as god-father for both boys, because that would give the family two Alberts. The remedy was found by Queen Elizabeth, who suggested that the crown prince should be the godfather of the eighth boy, who consequently received the name Leopold.

TORONTO FAT STOCK SHOW

Manos is the daughter of a former Colonel of the Palace Guards. In February Mlle. Manos, because of the storm of criticism, left Athens and went to Paris where King Alexander recently joined her. Alexander is said to have offered to abdicate the throne rather than be separated from his morganatic wife. Parliamentary action is necessary to say whether Mlle. Manos becomes the Queen of Greece or remains the official consort of the King.

LATER STUDIES AT THE O.A.C.

Will Be Two Distinct Courses in Future. One for Farmers, One for Experts.

Toronto despatch: According to changes which have been made in the courses offered students at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph there will in future be two distinct training courses in order to supply the needs of agriculturists, teachers of agriculture and the various other features of farm activity. In making an announcement of the changes yesterday, Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, pointed out that an agricultural college is expected to satisfy two distinct demands. The first is to train and educate men who intend to make farming their occupation, and the second is to train and educate men who will become professional agriculturists, that is teachers, investigators, agricultural representatives, journalists and administrators in agricultural departments. Up to the present, it has been the practice for the Ontario college as well as other institutions of the kind in Canada to try to combine the two aims, but now courses have been planned to serve the two distinct needs. With this in view, there will be a two-year course for the man making farming his occupation, and there will be a four-year course for the other classes. Any candidate for the two year course will be admitted if he is at least 18 years of age, and has had one year of farm work. Candidates for degree course must be 18 years old, must have had one year's farm experience, and must have passed the examination for junior university matriculation, or they must be experienced farmers of years of age who lack not more than one year's study of the matriculation standing. The latter will be required to complete their matriculation before entering the third year at the college.

In commenting upon the changes yesterday, Hon. Mr. Doherty pointed out that the two aims are so different that the attempt to combine them in the same course has lessened the value of the course for either purpose. He added that about 25 per cent. of those entering the O. A. C. go on to finish the B. S. A. course, and of this 15 per cent. only a small percentage ever become farmers. The fact that a man starts a two-year course will not prevent him from going on for degree work.

Hon. Mr. Doherty pointed out that practical training will be necessarily limited, this including actual work in handling horses and implements, feeding live stock and many other operations that can be given to advantage only on a smaller farm. When a man young man without farming experience applies to be taught farming, he will be advised to work on some good farm for a time.

For the two-year course the college will teach any practical work which can be given to a large number of students at the same time, this will include judging live stock, poultry and grain; identifying weeds and weed seeds; testing milk; making and aging butter and cheese; simple carpentry and blacksmithing and operating tractors; the principles of pruning and grafting fruit trees, and the composition of animal foods and fertilizers. The students can also learn a class what kind of feeds are best to produce growth or meat or milk, what methods of cultivation are recommended for various crops and the best methods for other farm pests. The two-year course is based on the belief that a farmer should have some knowledge of business, banking, credits, loans, markets and marketing, transportation, tariff and taxation, planning farms and farm work, and the right relation between capital investment, maintenance cost and revenue.

So far as the four year course is concerned, Hon. Mr. Doherty pointed out that it might not make the student any better farmer than the two year course would, but it would give him a better chance of becoming a prominent citizen and a leader in his community. The four year course is specially devised to meet the demand for specialists in field husbandry, animal husbandry, horticulture, dairying, poultry, agricultural chemistry and biology. The demand comes from colleges which require teachers and investigators, while departments of agriculture frequently require men to administer their various branches or to carry on experiments, and the four year course is planned to supply the men required.

BRIDE'S ATTIRE WAS "IMMODEST"

Priest Refused to Perform Ceremony Until She Changed Her Gown.

New Orleans, June 1.—A wedding ceremony in St. Louis Cathedral was postponed several hours today because the officiating priest, Father Antoine, of the Order of Oblate Fathers of Mary Immaculate, declared the bride was immodestly attired and violated a recent order of Archbishop Shaw, of the Diocese of New Orleans, relative to the wearing of apparel.

The priest declared the bride appeared to him "so shocking that he had the sexton put out the lights so that she might retire and properly clothe herself." Although he declined to divulge the name of the bride, he declared she "wanted to fly in society style at her wedding, much to her disgrace."

"Everything had been prepared for the wedding and the bridegroom was in the edifice. The altars were ablaze with candles and the electric lights in every part of the ancient cathedral were lighted. The bride started up the main aisle but had not gone far before the priest 'viewed the gown, ordered the lights out and sent her home to assume other garments. The marriage ceremony was then performed."

FARM CONDITIONS

Hay Very Light, but Fruit Splendid.

The following is a summary of report made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture: Local showers during the past week or ten days have helped the hay and grain fields and the newly sown root crops, but in many quarters the rainfall was inadequate for best conditions.

It now looks as if hay will be a very light crop, both clover (which is now in blossom) and timothy being thin on the ground and short in height. Alsike, as a rule, has not kept up to its earlier promise; alfalfa is doing better.

There has been an unusually good season of fruit in orchards, more especially of the summer and fall varieties of apples, and this despite the fact that fewer bees than ordinarily were to be seen during the period of bloom. Small fruits also are making a good showing.

Fall wheat in some counties is heading unusually low, which will mean a lot of short straw for this crop.

Spring grains have grown very slowly owing to the dry weather of May, and in some instances there has been injury from the wireworm. The spring crops generally look better in eastern Ontario than in the western counties.

Fodders are scarce, and many farmers are purchasing feeds of various sorts to supplement the ration until the new crops come in.

CORN SMUT

The smut of corn is well known to farmers. The smut masses which usually appear as swollen outgrowths may be found on the ears, stems, or leaves. These outgrowths are sometimes quite large and make the smut very conspicuous. They are at first covered by a thin membrane, which soon breaks away and exposes the black mass of spores. The mass soon becomes powdery and the myriads of spores which each mass contains are readily blown about by the wind. It is these spores that spread the disease during the growing season and carry the smut over the winter to the next crop.

In many of the smuts, as the smuts of oats and the stinking smut or bent of wheat, the spores get on the seed and when the seed is planted begin growing with it and attack the young seedling. Treatment with a solution of formaldehyde is effective in killing the spores on the seed and preventing infection of the young plants. In the case of the loose smut of wheat and the loose smut of barley the spores are blown about at blossoming time and grow into the very young seed. The hot water treatment of the seed is used to kill the smut inside the seed. In the case of corn smut seed treatment of any kind has been found to be of no use, as the smut spores live over in the soil or in manure rather than in or on the seed. So the only way to control the corn smut is to prevent the smut spores getting into the soil or the manure. Not only do the spores live in the manure pile for some time, but they may actually increase rapidly in number if the conditions are favorable.

LOYALTY TO THE SINN FEIN

Newly-Elected Irish Councils Pledge Theirs.

Dublin, June 1.—Meetings of the newly-elected Sinn Fein Councils in South Tipperary, Carrick-on-Shannon and other places have been accompanied by extraordinary scenes of enthusiasm. Resolutions have been adopted acknowledging the authority of the Sinn Fein Parliament, congratulating the Irish Republican army on its manifold successes, and calling upon the army to protect the lives and property of the citizens.

Copies of these resolutions have been forwarded to the Governments of Europe and the United States. At Carrick, Government revenue documents were publicly burned in the council chamber.

A sum of money, to the amount of £1,000, seized by the police and military in a raid months ago on a Sinn Fein bank, was returned to-day by the Government to the bank manager through the Sinn Fein member of Parliament, E. J. Duggan.

The removal of personal arms from the officers of an American ship which arrived at Dublin became the subject of inquiry by the American Consul officials to-day. When the freighter Milwaukee Bridge arrived at Dublin recently, the police took pistols from the captain and three other officers under the pretext that a raid for arms by Sinn Feiners was feared.

It is pointed out that a ship which in port is amenable to local laws, but the American officials want assurance that there is an apparent necessity for the seizure of arms in Irish ports.

ANOTHER INSPECTOR KILLED. Gorey, County Wexford, Ireland, June 1.—A police inspector, Captain Wilson, has been shot by five armed men. Seven shots were fired at him.

MILLIONS LOST

By Barren Soil, Says Cornell Professor. Guelph, June 1.—Barren soil is losing millions of pounds of expensive plant food every day if left uncropped, according to Dr. H. O. Buckman, of the Department of Soils, Cornell University, who spoke at the opening meeting, to-day at Canadian Fertilizer Association conference, at the Ontario Agricultural College. Fertilizer men, farmers, fruit farmers and gardeners, and others interested in the enrichment of soil and greater production of food products are in attendance. This is the second annual conference.

Superintendent Grant of the C.P.R., recalled to the meeting the fact that by the judicious use of fertilizers the yield of potatoes in New Brunswick has been increased from six million to twelve million bushels over the past eight years.

If results attained in actual field experiments in England could be applied and reproduced in Canada the increased value in dairy products alone would amount to over 77 1/2 per cent, or a total in excess of twenty-five million dollars in value, stated Henry H. Bell, director of the soil and crop improvement bureau of the Canadian Fertilizer Association. Toronto, who is in charge of the conference. The sessions continue for the next two days, when soil topics of increasing interest will be discussed.

VETERINARY BOARD

To Issue Licenses to Ontario Practitioners.

Toronto, June 1.—During the recent session of the Legislature a bill was passed, stating that after January, 1921, no person "shall practice veterinary science for fees in Ontario without certificate from the Minister of Agriculture entitling him to do so," and stating further, that the certificates are to be issued upon the recommendation of a board of three members, to be appointed for this purpose. The personnel of the board has now been decided, and was announced yesterday by the Minister of Agriculture to be composed of Dr. C. D. McGilvary, principal of the Ontario Veterinary College; A. G. Farrow, Oakville, breeder of Short-horns, and C. W. Gurney, Paris, importer and breeder of Belgian horses and Shropshire sheep.

Wireless Takes Melba's Song All Over Europe

London, June 1.—Madame Nellie Melba the opera singer, sang yesterday to an audience spread over the British Isles and a large part of Europe. By arrangement with the Daily Mail, the prima donna, standing in a small room at the Marconi works at Chelmsford, sang several songs into a microphone, when they were transmitted by wireless telephone on a wave length which should have enabled them to be heard within a radius including Rome, Madrid, Berlin and Stockholm.

Telegrams have been received from Paris and The Hague reporting that the songs were heard there very clearly, while numerous owners of wireless apparatus in Great Britain also heard them with distinctness.

FORTUNATE ALBERTA!

Edmonton, June 1.—"Crop conditions in central Alberta are absolutely ideal. I have never seen anything like it," declared James McCaig, Commissioner of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, yesterday.

"This moist weather is bringing the grain along in wonderful style. The wheat and oats are growing rapidly, and the blades are plump and luscious. They look like onion shoots, so fat and full of moisture are they."

Only in one small district in the south of the province, that lying immediately north and east of Lethbridge and MacLeod, has there been any damage reported. This has been due to the high winds there during the last week.

RESTOCK OUR FARMS.

Duty on Cattle From U. S. is Removed.

Ottawa, June 1.—With the object of restocking Canadian farms which have suffered through excessive drought of the past two years, an order-in-council has been passed which, in effect, removes the duty from cattle entering the Dominion from the United States from the present time to February 1, 1921. The order was passed several days ago, but has been held up to some extent by the Customs authorities who have had to arrange minor details and issue instructions. Interviewed on the matter to-night, Hon. Dr. Toynbe, Minister of Agriculture, said the move was solely for the purpose named and the Government hoped to get the southern portion of Alberta and some parts of Saskatchewan back to normal within the present year.

"This year the prospects are excellent for grass on the prairies and the order should provide cheap cattle for the Canadian farmer, yielding him a good profit, and prevent the grass from going to waste," said Dr. Toynbe. "The grass prospects in many sections of the West are better this year than in a decade," he added.

The two children of Nicholas Tierig, a homesteader residing seven miles west of Anselma, Alberta, who wandered away from home about noon of last Wednesday, have been found dead in the bush about a mile distant from their home.

PROFIT-SHARING FOR EMPLOYEES

International Harvester Co. Has Big Plan.

Big Plum in Common Stock Dividend.

Chicago despatch: Stockholders of the line-harvesting, harvester Company in Canada and the United States will meet on July 22 to consider a proposal to increase the common stock of the concern to pay a 12 1/2 per cent. stock dividend, and to take action on a profit-sharing plan for employees. The meeting was called by the directors of the company, who yesterday increased the rate of cash dividend on the common stock from 6 to 7 per cent.

The increase in the common stock to be considered by the stockholders would be $30,000,000, of which one-third would be used to pay a 12 1/2 per cent. stock dividend on the present $80,000,000 of common stock, the balance to be available for the payment of two per cent. semi-annual stock dividends.

The proposed stock dividend is approximately the amount of cash dividends not paid during the four years of war on $40,000,000 of common stock, according to company announcement. An announcement said the dividend would be paid as soon as possible after it was ratified by the stockholders.

The profit-sharing proposal calls for the issuing of $40,000,000 of preferred and $20,000,000 of common stock for ownership by employees.

THE HEEFLY

Petroles report says: A fly new to this country and designated "heefly," has appeared in many parts of Lambton, and is causing stockmen and farmers much anxiety. It attacks cattle so savagely that they stop feeding and gallop excitedly across the fields.

It appears to hatch in little drops of a white frothy liquid that adheres to the blades of grass. In some pastures these froth-like drops seen numbers. Little appears to be known even by expert cattlemen of the life history, habits or origin of this new terror to the herds. It is said to attack the "heels" of the cattle, but evidence of this feature is not conclusive.

Italy's claims on reparations paid by the Central Empires, including pensions, has been fixed at 60,600,000,000 lire (normally about $12,120,000,000), according to Rome despatches to newspapers in Paris.

WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE OUR ELEVENTH ANNUAL SHOW

TO BE HELD AT Union Stock Yards, Toronto Dec. 9th, 10th, 1920 TORONTO FAT STOCK SHOW

A JEWEL IN THE ROUGH

CHAPTER I.

Night had fallen over Alaska—black uncompromising night; a veil of impenetrable darkness had dropped upon the snow wastes and the ice fields and the fettered Yukon, sleeping under its ice-chains, and upon the cruel passes where the trails had been made by tracks of blood. Day by day, as long as the light of day—God's glorious gift to man—had lasted, these trails across the passes, between the snowy peaks, the peaks themselves, had been the theatre of hideous scenes of human cruelty, or human lust and greed, of human esotism. Day by day, a slow, terrible stream of humanity had wound like a dark and sluggish river through the passes, bringing with it sweat and toil and agony, torture and suffering and death. As long as the brilliant sun in the placid azure of the summer heavens above had guided them, bands of men had labored and fought and struggled over these passes, deaf to all pity or mercy or justice, deaf to all but the clamor of greed within them that was driving them on, trampling down the weak and the old, crushing the fallen, each man clutching and grasping his own, noaring his strength and even refusing a hand to his neighbor, starving the patient beasts of burden they had brought with them, friends who were willing to share their toil without sharing their reward, driving on the poor, staggering, strengthless brutes with open knives, and clubbing them to death when they fell beneath their loads with pitiless eyes, or leaving them to freeze slowly where they lay, propped forward, hurrying, fighting, slouching, so the men went into the gold camps all the summer, and the passes were the silent witnesses of the horror of it all and of the innocent blood shed. Then Nature herself intervened, and winter came down like a black curtain on the world, and the passes closed up behind the men and were filled with drifts of snow that covered the bones and the blood and the deep miry slides, marked with slipping tracks, where struggling, gasping lives had gone out, and the river closed up behind the men, and the ice thickened there daily, and the men were in the camps and there were no way out.

And now, in the darkness of the winter night, in the coldness in which no man could live, there was peace. There was no sound, for the snow of the tall pines never melted and never fell, the water in the creeks was solid as the rocks, and made no murmur, there was no footfall of bird nor

LETTER FROM MRS. WAKELIN

Tells Remarkable Story of Sickness and Recovery.

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered greatly from weakness, seemed to be tired all the time, and had no ambition to do anything or go any place. My nerves were in bad shape, I could not sleep at night, and then came a breakdown. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and several of my friends advised me to use it, and it surely put new life into me. Now I am quite able to do all my own work, and I would strongly advise every suffering woman to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."—Mrs. CHARLES WAKELIN, 272 Christie St., Toronto, Ont.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for more than forty years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

But beyond the silent peaks and the desolate passes, beyond the rigid pines, low down in the darkness, there was a reddish glow in the air, a strange, yellowish, quivering mist of light that hovered and moved restlessly, and yet kept its place where it hung suspended between white earth and black sky. All around was majestic peace and calm and stillness, Nature wrapped in silence, but the flickering, wavering mist of light jumped feverishly in the darkness and spoke of a man. It was the cloud of restless light that hung over the city of Dawson.

With a front parlor of the "Pistol Shot," the favorite and most successful, besides being the most appropriately named saloon in Dawson, the cold had been pretty well fought down; a huge stove stood at each end of the room, crammed as full as it could hold with fuel, all windows were tightly closed, and the lamps flared merrily against the whitewashed walls.

At this hour the room was full, and the single door, facing the bar, was pushed open every half minute to admit one or two more figures to join the steaming, drinking, noisy crowd within. It was snowing outside. As the door swung open, one could see the white sheet of falling flakes in the darkness, the air was full of snow— that cruel, light, dry snow, fine and sharp like powdered ice, borne down on a north wind. The figures that entered brought it in with them, the light frosty powder resting on their furs and lying deep in the upturned rims of their seal caps.

There had been a successful strike made that afternoon, and the men were all excited and eager about it. Everyone pressed to the Pistol Shot to hear the latest details, to discuss and gossip over it. There was as much talk as digging done in Dawson. Men who had no chance and no means to win success, who owned no claim and never saw gold except in another man's hands, loved to talk work and talk claims and talk gold with the rest. It was exhilarating and exciting, and there was only that one topic in the world for them. They were like invalids in a small community afflicted by a common disease who never met without discussing their symptoms. They were all invalids in reality, all suffering from the same horrible plague and fever, the gold fever that was eating into their brains.

At one end of the bar counter, between it and the back wall, a girl was standing idly, surveying with indifferent eyes the animated crowd that moved and swayed round her, the men jostling each other in their efforts to push up to the thickly surrounded counter. She was tall rather than short, and her figure well made, showing good lines even in the rough dress she was wearing; thick rubber boots came to her knees, where they were not by her short buckskin skirt, and above this, in place of bodice, she wore merely a rough straight jacket drawn into the waist by a broad leather belt, in which was stuck, not ostentatiously, but still sufficiently conspicuously, a brace of revolvers. Her hair was cut short, and only a few dark, silky rings showed themselves beneath the edge of her seal-skin cap, pushed down close to her eyebrows.

The dark eyes beneath looked out upon the scene before her with a half-disdainful, half-wearied expression, which deepened into scorn now and then as she watched the bar-tender rake over the counter double and the generous pinch of gold dust laid there by some miner almost too drunk to stagger to the bar. She had a very attractive face, to which one's eyes would wander again and again, trying to reconcile the peculiar resolution, even hardness of the expression with the soft, well-moulded features and the sweet youthful lips, full of freshness and color. The miners took very little notice of her, and she certainly made no effort to attract it, leaning listlessly against the bar with one elbow on the counter, a silent and motionless spectator of all this excited, eager humanity. There was no thought in her mind, no word on their lips just then but gold. Gold! gold! The thought possessed them with a grip on their brains like the grip of fever on the body, and the word sounded pleasant as the sweetest music to their ears. Gold! The syllable went round and passed from mouth to mouth, till the very air seemed to be getting a yellow tint above the gray fumes of tobacco.

Among the last batch of incomers was a slim young fellow of twenty odd years, and when he had worked his way with difficulty up to the crowded counter, he found himself near the girl's corner. She looked at him, letting her dark eyes wander critically over his face. He formed a strong contrast to the figures around him, being slight and delicate in build, with a pale, good-looking face that had a tender, sympathetic expression, a woman's. Feeling the girl's gaze upon him, he glanced at her, and then having looked once, way, and then having looked once, looked again. After a series of glances between drinks from his glass, the furtive looks began to amuse the girl, and the next time their eyes met she laughed openly, and they both spoke simultaneously.

"You're a new-comer, aren't you?" she said. "I haven't seen you here before," was his remark. "You might have done, I should think," answered the girl, carelessly; "but I don't come here very often, although my father is running this place."

"Are you Pomiatovsk's daughter?" he said in surprise, unable to connect this splendid young creature with the ugly little Pole he knew as the proprietor of the saloons. "The girl nodded. "Yes, Katrine Pomiatovsk is my name—what is yours?" "Stephen Wood," he answered, meekly.

"What have you come here for—mining?" she asked next. Although her queries were direct, there was nothing rude in the fresh young voice making them. "The young fellow colored deeply, the rufous of blood passed over his face, and he looked into his hat as if lost beneath his coat collar. "No—yes—that is—well, I mean—I do mine now," he stammered, after a minute.

The girl said nothing; and when Stephen glanced round at her he saw she was regarding him with astonished eyes under elevated eyebrows. This expression made the pretty, oval face fairly beautiful, and the young man's heart opened to her. "I came with the intention of doing some good here among the people—in a missionary, religious way, I mean; but—and he stopped again in painful embarrassment.

Katrine laughed. "For the present you've laid religion aside and you're going to do a little mining and make a fortune, and then the religion can be taken up again," she said. "The young fellow only flushed deeper and turned his glass round nervously on the counter.

"That's all right," the girl said, soothingly, after a second. "This place is a corner of the world where we all are different from what we are anywhere else. As soon as men come here they get changed. They forget everything else, and just go in for gold. It's sort of a religion in the air. You'd be able to see a religion somewhere else all right, but here you are obliged just to dig like the rest—you can't help it. Got a claim?" The young man's face paled again.

"Yes," he answered in a low tone. "It was the claim that tempted me. It's one of the best, I believe—over in the west gulch, only about ten miles from here." There was a pressing movement

A Witness Testifies SHE WAS WEAK AND NERVOUS

Brampton, Ont.—"About five years ago I began suffering with woman's trouble. I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I was so completely down and out that I could not do anything, could scarcely dress myself. I had the doctor and took other medicine but without getting better until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery. It was only necessary for me to take about three bottles when I was completely restored to health and strength and I have been in better health than I ever was before. I have had no use for medicine since, but should I need it I would take these same remedies, knowing them to be excellent."—MRS. HARRY KNIGHT, Ossipee St.

OWES HER LIFE Ft. Saskatchewan, Alta.—"It is with great pleasure that I write the following and I hope it will help the many sufferers who do not know the good Dr. Pierce's medicines would do them if they would try them. "In regard to my condition, I will say that I suffered from childhood from a very weak back. I had the misfortune of having spinal meningitis when I was one year old and until I was 13 I did not see a well day, and a very kind lady told my mother about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and she got a bottle to try it. It did me so much good that mother got me six bottles. Recently I happened with a car accident and hurt my back badly. My doctor gave me up and said I would not live, but I still stuck to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and to my surprise in three weeks I was out of bed and better. I owe my life to it and nothing else, and shall never be without it. "If any sufferer wishes to write I will answer with pleasure."—MRS. NOEL BARTHOLOMEW.

STAGE HOODOOS

Most people have some pet superstitions, but of all professions the stage is the most superstitious of all. The success or failure of a play is often spelled by incidents which would pass unnoticed by anyone but the actors. Who among the audience, for instance, would think of inspecting the occupants of the front row? Yet that front row is most important to some of the performers. A cross-eyed person, or one with red hair, will hoodoo the play. The first night, by the way, is fraught with good or bad omens. An actor on the way to the theatre for the first performance is assured of success if he meets a load of hay. Managers are equally affected by the hoodoo idea, so that some of them will go so far as to have their plays so named that the lucky letter M will be the first initial. In the dressing-room you will generally find a horseshoe, and many actors carry one of their own, for luck. But while a horseshoe is believed to bring good luck, left-over make-up may bring bad luck, and few performers will carry it with them from one engagement or company to another. One of the best properties of a theatre is a black cat, and if the cat can be coaxed on the stage from the back at rehearsal the success of a new play is beyond doubt. But there must be no birds. To some of the profession these mean disaster. Fanny Davenport, who believed implicitly in omens, had an experience with birds, which was to her most convincing. She was to play in "Cleopatra" at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, in New York, and when the scenery was painted, she found, to her dismay, that the walls of Rameses' palace were liberally decorated with paintings of the Egyptian ibis. She ordered them removed, but the artist insisted that they would be inartistic without them. In spite of her protests and her pleas, she was over-ruled, and the birds remained. On the opening night the theatre caught fire and thousands of dollars in costumes and scenery went up in smoke. Fanny Davenport it was a judgment, and a lasting example of the folly of going against omens. The new scenery had not one bird in evidence.

SHE OF RED HAIR.

No type of beauty can be more strikingly lovely than the red-haired woman, writes a famous creator of fashions. If the possessor of red hair understands how to dress to type she may make herself as vivacious and demure as a mural painting. "That stunning Miss So-and-So with the wonderful red hair," we hear so often, but alas, we also hear "There's a poor Mary, such a sweet girl, but that awful red hair! If she only knew what to wear it might help, but what can you do with a girl like that?"

A red-haired woman should realize first of all that there is a different color pigment in her skin than that of the blonde, or of the black-haired woman with fair skin. The delicate shades that tone with the pink and white loveliness of the blonde are not so good when featured on the red-haired woman, although her complexion may possess that quality of extreme whiteness that is the best, I believe—over in the west gulch, only about ten miles from here."

The woman with red hair has been sentenced to wear blue for so many years that this color and red hair have become as traditional as the old theory that if you see a red-haired woman a white horse will soon appear.

Blue is the wrong color for the red-haired woman. No tint isn't heresy. Blue makes her utterly commonplace. There is one shade of green-blue that Billie Burke, who is one of the loveliest of red-haired creatures, wears with supreme effect, but this shade is green first and blue afterwards—green blue—and even he wears it with great reservation.

RAILMAKER KING.

Given an ingenious mind and an eye to business a live man can make money out of almost any old thing. Perhaps you remember the extraordinary success scored some years ago by Solly Greencup, the rainmaker. If not, you can read his record in a portfolio of newspaper clippings collected all the way from Nome to San Diego, from eastern Oregon to western Kansas. Solly Greencup, indeed, occupied for a while a position unique in the annals of meteorology. Scientists might doubt and cynics might scoff, but whenever Solly went after the main clouds he always got 'em. Moreover he didn't lose principle of some other rainmakers. Solly Greencup, when once decided he could produce rain in a given district, always backed his opinion with hard cash. If he asked the farmers to put up $1,000 for an inch of rain, he put up another $1,000 himself as a forfeit in case he failed. And he always won. Greencup never explained his methods. All the farmers wanted was the rain. All Greencup wanted was the money. With the result both were satisfied. His apparatus consisted of a flag pole, an electric battery, a kite with a metal tail and an air balloon filled with a mysterious gas. If scientists demanded the reason for these contrivances, he shook his head and smiled. Sometimes Greencup would have to stay a long time in a locality before he could find the exact combination necessary to coax the wet forces into action. Sometimes he had to confess that the dries were too strong for him. But as soon as he posted his forfeit and set up his apparatus the desired moisture followed in a few days.

It is a Liver Pill. Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmentier's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.
