LAKE ERIE AND NORTHERN READY TO PROCEED WITH THE LINE TO PORT DOWER

Some Assistance From the Dominion Government However Will be Sought and Board of Trade Will Co-operate in Securing the Same.

A determined effort is apparently being made to secure an early resumption of operations on the Lake Erie and Northern Railway.

It has, however, occurred to me that with the assistance of the Dominion government this work might be resumed and employment given to a large force of men during the coming months.

Yours very truly, W. M. F. KELLETT, General Manager.

TURCO-EGYPTIAN FRONTIER HELD

The British cruiser, Minerva, standing up the Gulf of Akabah from the Red Sea, shelled the Turkish fort of Akabah and landed a force, which destroyed the fortifications.

JAPAN MAY SEND AN ARMY TO EUROPE

TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 9.—7.45 p. m.—Since the fall of the German position at Tsing-Tau the question of Japan sending an army to Europe has begun to attract increasing attention.

The Kaiser Gives Address To Cavalry

[By Special Wire to The Courier] BERLIN, Nov. 9.—via London—German cavalry has been called upon in the present war to perform duties of a character differing widely from those emphasized in manoeuvres a few years ago.

LULL IN THE FIGHTING IS ONLY A PRELUDE TO ANOTHER HEAVY ATTACK

German Forces in Flanders Believed to be Gathering Strength For Supreme Effort—Russians Are Having an Effect.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] PARIS, Nov. 9, a. m.—The lull in the fighting in the environs of Dixmude and Ypres, in the best opinion here, is only the prelude of a further effort to which all the forces that the Germans can raise will be concentrated.

All advices from the front indicate this clearly. The reports that the Germans are gathering an important army at Ingelmunster, the affirmation that the battle against France must be decided at an early date, the orders given to the German generals to break through before the end of the month and the various movements of troops observed by aviators in Belgium, all tend to show the purpose of the Germans.

The fortunes of the war in the west are becoming more and more bound up with the progress of the Russians, according to the general opinion here.

GERMAN INVASION

At Three Points the Allies Are in the Fatherland.

Entire Situation is Such That There is Great Confidence in Future.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] LONDON, Nov. 9, 2.05 p. m.—At three points in the area of hostilities in Silesia, in East Prussia and in Alsace, forces of the allies were on German soil to-day and for the first time since the outbreak of hostilities, conditions seemed to preface, in the opinion of British military observers a reversal of the roles of the contending armies.

Up to the present time Germany has been fighting, generally speaking in the territory of her enemies, but now she would appear to be more or less seriously menaced from the east by the victorious armies of East Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander-in-chief in the field, the advance guards of which are less than 200 miles from Berlin. It is true that there was a brief Russian invasion of East Prussia during the early stages of the war, while the French held for a long time held their position in Alsace; but the latest development in the Russian advance, if the interpretation on it in London, is not all wrong, is the most important of the campaign up to the present time.

It is merely speculation, of course, to say that Germany will be forced forthwith to retreat from Belgium, or even cease her offensive in this arena. In certain areas of France and Belgium the allies are taking a vigorous offensive, but it is too early yet to predict that Germany will be forced to renew her smashing tactics in an effort to break through the line and that much hard fighting around Ypres will not occur.

In any event German reinforcements from Belgium would be very slow as the forces of Emperor William have made the entire country behind their battle line, one vast fortified position, with trenches and entrenching tools, and British vessels used in the capture of this German stronghold, there should be a sharp impetus to naval activity in the Far East, as these vessels may now be turned to the capture of the Russian cruisers, which have been so successful in their operations against British shipping.

DOMINION GOVT CANNOT ASSIST IN GAS MATTER

That is, As the Law Stands at Present—Situation is Presented.

It now appears that the Dominion Government is practically powerless to force the Gas Company to any great move in the Brantford gas situation. Word came this morning from Ottawa that the Department of the Minister was practically powerless in the matter unless the gas was used for illuminating purposes.

50 BATTERY MEN TO GO TO THE FRONT

Lieut.-Col. Ashton Himself Has as Yet Received No Orders.

Lieut.-Col. Ashton of the 2nd Battery to-day said that as regards himself, he had received no definite order to go into active service. He is commander of the local battery has volunteered twice and while it is possible that he may go with the second contingent there is nothing definite concerning the report.

Still Await Orders

The commanding officer of the 25th Brant Dragoons was anxiously awaiting orders to recruit to-day, but until the time of going to press, no word had arrived. It is known that Toronto regiments of cavalry have been ordered, and judging by this it was thought that the Dragoons would receive their orders to-day.

After this the Black Sea fleet set out in pursuit of the enemy, who avoided a fight and took refuge at their base in the Bosphorus.

Music and Drama

The Earl of Pawtucket. Mr. Lawrence Drsay, England's pre-eminent comedian, who is to appear at the Grand on Tuesday, Nov. 10, in his greatest success "The Earl of Pawtucket," is a descendent of one of England's best families. In his younger days Mr. Drsay was a member of the Duke of Westminster Volunteers in London; speaking of the present war to a correspondent of the Daily Province of Vancouver, Mr. Drsay is quoted as saying: "It's such an awful thing, this war, if I could be accepted, I would wish to be, there, but as it is, I guess I am better off here, as I can help amuse the public and keep their minds off the war for a time at least."

Notes On the War

By An Unmilitary Critic

As the Germans pride themselves upon their musical abilities, the Jap warships are aiming to shoot the sing out of Tsing Tau.

More good news for the Allies. The Kaiser is again in France telling the German Generals how to run the campaign.

Answer to Questions

"Anxious"—Krazywatz is pronounced "krah-zew-yeh-vahts." Lift the left heel three inches when pronouncing the last syllable.

"Przymysl"—The Crown Prince has been killed only 27 times, not 92 as you figure it.

"Von Kluck"—You were not surrounded on September 16th.

As the Kaisers hair has turned white, it is evident that he does not believe all the optimistic dope the Berlin War Office gives out about those steady advances.

"Business as usual" said the cultured German officer as he slashed the Belgian woman with his sword, sword wounded in Poland. And the people of Germany are still shouting "Hoch der Kaiser."

If the Sultan of Turkey asserts that he does not believe anything more than a pair of boots and a collar button we intend to demand a recount.

The London financier says the war is costing Germany $5,500,000 a day. But this does not count the army pickpockets and hold-up men operating in Belgium.

Did anybody ever wonder what would happen to a temperance campaign in Germany?

German Professors are going to the States to lecture on German culture. The Americans have been getting their German culture reports from Belgium, where the wounded Belgians get the culture shot into them by Herr Krupp.

Notes On the War

By An Unmilitary Critic

As the Germans pride themselves upon their musical abilities, the Jap warships are aiming to shoot the sing out of Tsing Tau.

More good news for the Allies. The Kaiser is again in France telling the German Generals how to run the campaign.

Answer to Questions

"Anxious"—Krazywatz is pronounced "krah-zew-yeh-vahts." Lift the left heel three inches when pronouncing the last syllable.

"Przymysl"—The Crown Prince has been killed only 27 times, not 92 as you figure it.

"Von Kluck"—You were not surrounded on September 16th.

As the Kaisers hair has turned white, it is evident that he does not believe all the optimistic dope the Berlin War Office gives out about those steady advances.

"Business as usual" said the cultured German officer as he slashed the Belgian woman with his sword, sword wounded in Poland. And the people of Germany are still shouting "Hoch der Kaiser."

If the Sultan of Turkey asserts that he does not believe anything more than a pair of boots and a collar button we intend to demand a recount.

The London financier says the war is costing Germany $5,500,000 a day. But this does not count the army pickpockets and hold-up men operating in Belgium.

Did anybody ever wonder what would happen to a temperance campaign in Germany?

HANDLING GREAT GUNS

Machinery Does Most of the Work on Modern Battleships

What are the operations that enter into the discharge of the great guns of a Dreadnought, those terrible 18.5 inch guns that can hurl a 1,200-pound shell a distance of fifteen miles, and penetrate the thickest armor at a distance of 20,000 yards? In the conning tower stand the captain, his navigating officer, a midshipman or two and several other officers and men. The conning tower is protected by 12-inch armor. Above it is another protected chamber, and here are the gunnery lieutenant and half a dozen officers and men. Surrounding them are the range-finders and other instruments essential for marksmanship when the object is far distant. The man at the range-finder, with his eye at the rubber eye pieces, keeps monotonously chanting out the distances as the ship approaches the target. Inside the turret themselves the men are grouped around their guns. The gunlayers, the men who sight and fire the guns every now and then, twitch little brass handles and the great breeches rise or fall slightly, and the sights continue trained upon the target.

A minute or two later, after an order has come through from the control position, the lieutenant in charge of the foremost turret suddenly raps out the order: "Bring both guns to the ready!" The men standing by the breeches flick over their small levers. "Right gun," the gunlayer below yells, and they report in rapid succession. The range, meanwhile, is decreasing rapidly, and about ten seconds later there comes the strident rattling of an electric bell. It is the signal to open fire. The gunlayer holds his breath, and the cross wires of his telescope cutting the target, and then presses an innocuous looking brass thimblepiece with a handle of orange flame and a pall of brown smoke, a projectile weighing more than half a ton is sailing through the air on its way toward the target. Outside the turret the concussion is terrible, but inside the gun's crew have of knowing their weapon has gone off is by the rocking of the turret and the recoil of the gun. Back she slides, with the water whirling and surging through the hydraulic valves far below. She stops, and then, as the running-out springs exert their strength, is driven back to the firing position.

The men meanwhile are working like demons. Someone, by moving a small lever which actuates a hydraulic engine, has opened the breech. A cloud of acrid cordite smoke fills the turret, but another man, with the tip of his hand, is water spouting into the chamber to extinguish any still-burning fragments. Everything seems chaos, but everyone knows what to do and in less than 20 seconds has a sharp order: "Right gun, load!" A man moves an upright lever and an arrangement looking like a miniature lift climbs into view through the shell-hole below laden with the new charge and projectile, and stops dead in the rear of the gun. Repeating in a tray is the shot itself. Another lever is worked, and a flexible chain hydraulic rammer, looking like a snake, darts out of its resting-place and pushes the shot before it into the breach of the gun. It is driven home with a dull thud. The rammer is withdrawn, another handle is pulled, and the shot is ready to go. The breech of the gun has been swung home and the great weapon is ready for firing again.

ARE DOING WELL

Brantford Soldiers in Barracks at Toronto Having a Good Time.

News from Brantford lads at Toronto is to the effect that they are having a great old time, although the commissariat fell down the first day from Toronto as follows:

A rigid medical inspection is in progress under Col. J. T. Fotheringham, A.D.M.S., and will be completed to-night. Up to the present the number of objections has not exceeded ten per cent in any quota, and in some cases is considerably less, a percentage which is regarded as satisfactory. Guy Young a member of the 51st Soo Rifles, who was ill on arrival at camp, was found to be suffering from pneumonia, and has been removed to the Western Hospital. This is the only case of illness reported.

The selection of officers for the Field Ambulance brigade, is in progress and is being based strictly on seniority.

Quotas for the mounted infantry will be drawn from the G. G. B. G. to the 2nd Dragoons, St. Catharines, and the 25th Brant Dragoons, Brantford, in equal proportions of 125 each. Col. C. V. Charwick of the 6th Mississauga Horse will be in command, and is understood to be Lieut.-Col. Sandford F. Smith of the G. G. B. G. will be second in command. Recruiting is to begin at once. Artillery officers will be Lieut.-Colonel of Hamilton and Major J. O. Merritt of St. Catharines.

Lieut. John Hamilton Elliot of the King's 3rd Hussars, recommended for the Victoria Cross, a son of Lieut.-Colonel C. A. Elliot of Ottawa, was fatally wounded at the front.

FATEFUL KISSES AND WAR

The Gordon Highlanders Met Disaster After Historic Recruiting

In the year 1794 the beautiful, charming and famous Duchess of Gordon founded and raised the Gordon Highlanders, one of the most notable regiments of Scottish Highlanders. The most attractive feature of a new recruit in this gallant regiment was a guinea in gold and a kiss from the lips of the far-famed Duchess.

This seems all very good, yet the Gordon Highlanders paid dearly for the kiss they had received from the charming Duchess of Gordon. They were soon sent to fight the French, and in their first engagement 300 of them fell, killed and wounded.

In the year 1703 a stolen kiss was the means of bringing about a fierce and expensive war. Ferdinand of Bavaria was journeying to the neighboring state. One day during his journey he visited the royal household of a neighbor, and while wandering around in the spacious park that surrounded the palace he espied a beautiful maiden engaged in apple-picking. He sought and found her, and was so bewitched with her beauty that he implanted a kiss on her fair and lovely cheek.

She was a princess of the royal family, but the Bavarian prince did not know it; neither did he know that she was an affianced bride and that the bridegroom-elect was near by and saw the whole affair. There were hot words, and blows. A duel was fought and both principals were almost fatally wounded. Diplomatic relations between the two petty kingdoms were suspended and a long and terrible war ensued.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Predictions that domestic receipts of what next week would show a decided falling off, helped today to give quotations a lift. As a result the market closed steady at 1-4 to 1-3 above last night. Corn wound up with a net gain of 1-8 to 1-4, and oats of 3/8 to 5-8. In provisions, the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 37-1/2.

Ontario flour—No. 1, 90 per cent patents, $4.80 to $4.70; Montreal or Toronto receipts, as usual, nominal.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 8.—The wheat market opened 3/8 to 1/2 higher, oats 1/8 to 1/4 up and flax made a sharp advance of 2 1/2 to 3 1/2. One prominent firm in the export trade stated that night was accepted, which indicates the demand is still and despite fairly heavy selling operations prices were strong generally. November takes the lead in strength, being 1 1/2 higher. The advance which occurred at the close was due to frosts in the Argentine, wheat closing 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 higher, oats 3/8 to 1/2, and flax 3/4 to 1/2 higher.

The cash situation was vastly improved today, offerings of all grains were good and trading active in all lines. Exporters and millers were buying fairly heavily of cash wheat.

The total number of cars inspected Friday was 378, as against 1497 last year, and in sight were 380.

Deliveries thru the clearing houses were: Wheat, 15,000 bushels; oats, 2000 bushels, and flax, 7000 bushels.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—The demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat today was good, but with the limited quantity of ocean grain run available from here and other ports the volume of business was steady, and sales of a few loads were made. The spot demand for coarse grains continues rather quiet owing to the fact that buyers seem to be fairly well supplied for the present, but the tone of the market is firm. Demand for flour for both export and local account was quiet. Receipts in millfed 1/4 more active and the undertone of the market is firmer. Butter unchanged. Receipts close at hand. Receipts 21,705 compared with 5190 for the same week last year. Cheese steady. Receipts 21,705 boxes, as against 34,925 for the same week a year ago. Eggs 16c per dozen higher. Receipts for the week 478 packages, 2179 for the same week last year.

Stocks: Wheat, 4,449,214; corn, 28,832; oats, 1,189,202; barley, 99,800; flax, 53,159; flour, 38,472 sacks.

THE SITUATION

Fighting still continues with unparalleled intensity. The Germans have been steadily bringing forward extra heavy guns in one more desperate effort to reach Calais, and these should be at work in a few hours. If this last move fails it may be expected that the troops of the Kaiser will commence a withdrawing movement.

The Russians continue to do well. They have now penetrated German territory to a point about two hundred miles from Berlin, and they continue to advance with admirable steadiness.

The fall of Tsing-Tau on the China coast has proved a bitter pill for the Kaiser and residents of the Fatherland generally. One leading German paper, in commenting on the incident, says in part:

"Germans will never forget the heroic fighting at Kiaochow and those who defended the colony. Never shall we forget the brutal violence of the yellow robbers nor Britain, who instigated them. We know that we cannot settle our account with Japan at present. For years she will enjoy her booty. Our mills will grind slowly, but even if years should pass before the right moment comes at last, then Germany will win, Nippon!"

In reality the real war is going to come to the Kaiser and his war lords. Taken altogether, matters, though still of a desperate character, may be characterized as not in any degree disfavorable to the Allies.

ECONOMIC EPIGRAMS

Dr. Samuel Johnson defined patriotism as "the last refuge of a scoundrel." The man who gets his income from this country in a time of war and spends a good share of it in another is the last kind of scoundrel that could be considered a patriot.

Buying Canadian-made goods is not a fad. It is our organized common-sense. Only foreigners can afford to ignore a policy that means our national prosperity.

Every dollar spent for the goods your fellow-countrymen make is as important just now as every Canadian bullet sent into the ranks of the enemy.

What do you think of the man who draws his pay in one country and spends it in another?

It's as much the duty and to the advantage of every Canadian to buy goods made in Canada as for a Canadian soldier to fight for his own country instead of going over to the enemy.

"DON'T" OF THE WAR

Earl Curzon of Kedleston addressed a crowded assembly, which included the masters and boys of Harrow and many of the leading residents of the town, in the evening school at Harrow, on Monday evening, and spoke at some length on the war.

The majority of the scholars have since the beginning of the war joined the Officers' Training Corps, and all the members attended in uniform.

The Rev. Lionel Ford, headmaster, who presided, said that Harrow had furnished 1200 recruits for Lord Kitchener's army, as well as 400 Territorials.

Lord Curzon concluded an hour's speech with the following twelve pieces of advice:

- 1. Don't think the war does not affect you individually; it touches every one of us; it touches every man, woman and child in this country.
2. Don't be overjoyed at victory; don't be downhearted at defeat.
3. Don't be unnerved by personal or family bereavements.
4. Don't be frightened at the casualty lists; so long and sometimes so distressing, that you see in the newspapers.
5. Don't think that you know how to wage the campaign, and that the War Office does not, accordingly, don't write to the papers telling the generals and admirals what they ought to do; but if you have an opinion that you could do it much better, keep that opinion for your own fireside, and tell it to as few people as possible.
6. Don't get nervous because the progress of the war is slow in these stages.
7. Don't believe all you read in the newspapers, particularly when it comes from Berlin.
8. Don't underestimate the enemy.
9. Don't waste breath in attempting to ascertain what is going to happen to the German emperor in this world or the next. We will endeavor to dispose of him in this world, and we will leave to others his ulterior destiny.

10. Don't begin to divide the German empire before you have got hold of it.

11. Don't listen to anyone who calls "Halt" before we have carried out the full purpose for which we are fighting.

12. When the war is over don't throw away the lessons of the war. In connection with the "seventh piece of advice, Lord Curzon said he had seen a placard in London announcing that a famous divine was going to preach on "The Terms of Peace." He thought that divine was going to waste his labors, and he advised his hearers not to attend that church to listen to any such advice.

"NOT A HUMAN BEING AMONG US DREAMED OF WAR"

One of the most notable of the projectiles scattered in immense number in the United States by the German organization working under the direction of Count von Bernstorff to convert the people of that country into sympathizers with Germany is a pamphlet entitled "Truth About Germany—Facts About the War." This pamphlet was made in Germany by a committee of Germans of high degree, headed by Prince von Bulow, who was the German Imperial Chancellor from 1900 to 1909. Extraordinary care has been taken to prevent copies from reaching Great Britain.

But the people of Great Britain now have the advantage of access to that precious pamphlet, which has been distributed by the ton in the United States, only to have holes shot through it by the United States newspapers. It has been re-printed in Great Britain, with faithful exactness, accompanied by a refutation prepared by Douglas Sladen, who, for the most part, disposes of the falsehoods of Prince von Bulow and his committee of Germans of high degree by setting against them passages from state documents and other public documents and from the utterances of public men.

Plainly, the action of the German Government in doing everything in its power to prevent "Truth About Germany—Facts About the War" from being taken into Great Britain was due to the knowledge that the falsehoods and misrepresentations of which it consists would be promptly refuted in the British press. Here is an instance of the stupidity that is so often mixed with German cunning.

The pamphlet has been riddled to pieces already in the United States, and in Great Britain as well. The texture of the whole pamphlet may justly be judged from its opening paragraph, which is as follows: "Try to realize, every one of you, what we are going through! Only a few weeks ago all of us were peacefully following our several vocations. The peasant was gathering in this summer's peaceful crop, the factory hand was working with accustomed vigor. Not one human being among us dreamed of war."

As Mr. Sladen points out, the closing sentence of this opening paragraph of "Truth About Germany—Facts About the War," excludes a considerable number of people from the category of "human beings," for mobilization notices had gone out to Germans in South America and elsewhere two months before the war began (that is to say, in the end of May last, before the peasant was gathering in his peaceful crop) to ensure their being home in the Fatherland in time for the war.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

In South Africa the rebels still continue to get theirs, which is just as it should be.

The Russian troops entered Posen and by the same token they are doing something more than Posen these days.

One despatch alleges that a Belgian soldier, 22 years of age, single handed, destroyed a German battery, took a Hussar regimental flag, killed a German colonel and made forty prisoners. Better call off the rest of the troops and let them attend to matters alone.

New York Herald:—"A reader of the Herald asks if it is not queer that the peoples of India, Australia, Canada and South Africa are fighting for England and the English.

"They are not fighting for England or the English. They are fighting for the British Empire, in which they feel they have just as deep an interest as the English have.

"Of the significant developments of this great war this is by no means the least. If Canadians, Australians, Africans and Indians regarded themselves as conquered by or mere appendages to England they would not be fighting at all."

WOUNDED ARRIVE HOME

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Three soldiers of France all discharged from the French army because of disability and all bearing wounds which showed they had been in the thick of the fighting, arrived here to-day on board the Steamship Rochambeau, from Havre. They were George Pietrot and Leblot, on their way to their homes in Canada; and John Rosenbent, returning to his home in Holbrook, Mass. Leblot hobbled off the ship with the aid of crutches.

SALMON FOR BRITAIN

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Twenty-two carloads of tinned salmon, British Columbia's gift to Great Britain, arrived here to-day. It will be shipped immediately.

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY

Montreal, November 8, 1914. To the Editor of The Courier:

Sir,—Will you permit me through your valued columns, to give expression to an idea that has occurred to me in connection with the present movements for the extension of Canada's trade and commerce.

The work done by the Minister of Trade and Commerce and his Department, in collecting and distributing statistics showing the quantity, value and kind of materials imported by the countries where we have trade commissions, demonstrates that there are many markets for materials which Canada is especially equipped to supply, in quantities that can only be limited by her capacity for production.

Sir George E. Foster, on several occasions, has drawn attention to the want of co-operation, by Canadian producers, with his department's efforts towards the building up of an export trade. Several of the Trade Commissioners, in their reports to the Department, state that it is only by having an agent in each country we can hope to build up a Canadian export trade on a permanent basis.

That Canadians desire and will be benefited by larger markets for their products admits of neither doubt nor discussion. The question therefore is how can full advantage be taken of the good work being done by the Department of Trade and Commerce? The answer lies in the organization of an institution that will form a connecting link between the Canadian producer and foreign buyer, supplying the former with the necessary selling facilities in foreign fields, equal to that received from their individual representatives in the home markets, and for payments here against shipments.

While for the buyer there will be provided such credits as their financial and commercial responsibilities entitle them to. This result will be brought about by sending men to the different countries, who not only have a thorough knowledge of the said countries and speak its language, but by education and experience are able to meet and associate with the buyers in all walks of life. Such qualifications are essential, especially in Spanish speaking countries, where friendship and social relations count for so much in securing business.

From the operation of this institution there should be created such a demand for "Made in Canada" goods that the cry will be, "where can we get such goods as these?" We can sell, but how supply the demand? This institution will, by providing foreign markets for Canadian products, do for the Canadian producer in these foreign markets what the "National Policy" has done for him in the home market.

It is with a full appreciation of the benefits that have accrued to Canada through the operation of the policy that I most earnestly urge upon our leaders in all walks of life to give this suggestion their most serious consideration, and if it appeals to them as being for the benefit of the country, to turn to good and practical account the work done by Sir George E. Foster and his department, they will not rest contented until it is put into active operation on such a sound financial and commercial basis that Canada will be able to take full advantage of the opportunities which now present themselves, and which let us sincerely hope and pray will never again be presented under the same conditions.

Faithfully yours, WILLIAM JOHNSON.

MEN MAKE STATEMENT

Brantford, Nov. 9, 1914. To the Editor of The Courier:

Sir,—Regarding that unpleasant incident at a local factory, Brantford, we, the undersigned, regret the rather misleading statement against the Stedman Bros. We personally were not responsible for anything so far said in the press. As we understand it, Mr. Wetstein, in taking the stand he did, was acting under the office instructions not to close any department without orders. Owing to the fact that Mr. George Stedman was out of the city at the time, (Mr. Wetstein) simply stuck to his orders in dismissing us. Mr. Geo. Stedman has since assured us that had he been present, he would have been there himself.

We make this statement to correct any misunderstanding which may prevail.

Yours truly, WILLIAM DAVIS, C. E. BROWN, SAM PENNEY.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

The Township Council held a brief session last business at the Court House on Saturday. It was principally on the Hydro Electric Question and it decided to call a meeting of all interested ratepayers to discuss the matter.

The tender of G. L. Kendrick for graveling the Newport road was accepted. His price was $1.14 per 4-3 feet.

The Royal Artificer Paving Co. will be asked to repair the sidewalk on Emily street before they receive their final payment.

A delegation composed of the Rev. Mr. McCann and Mr. Harris was approached the Social Service League with regard to a subscription towards the building of a road connecting River Road and Birkett's lane, a work being undertaken as a means of relieving distress.

The Council decided to undertake responsibility for the laying of a power line of Hydro Electric Power from the farm of W. J. Bailey in the Township.

WORLD PRESS ON THE WAR

For the Soldier's Widow

London Telegraph.—Five shillings a week to the soldier's wife who has lost her husband in fighting his country's battles! It is difficult to repress one's indignation at the miserable inadequacy of the sum. Let anyone consider how many improvident persons are receiving five shillings a week as an Old Age Pension, and then think that the soldier's widow is entitled to no more.

Misled by Spies.—There is always a probability that a government that depends on spies will constantly be misled. Men who undertake this sort of work are rarely honest, and often very intelligent and the Special Intelligence Department claims to have established the identity of the spies, and by constant shadowing have rendered their malicious activity comparatively innocuous.

Germany's Last Card.—Chicago Tribune.—Internecine disturbance in any of the countries engaged would be welcome to its enemies, and the earlier the better. England is, perhaps, especially vulnerable from within because of her scattered dominions and the heterogeneity of her subject peoples. There can be no doubt that German policy has counted heavily upon this factor, and it may be suspected that her active, if secret, effort to stimulate rebellion.

It Hardly Seems True.—New York Evening Post.—There are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed in the philosophy of the Berlin professor who writes that there can be no neutrals in this war, since Germany is "the most perfect creation that history has recorded," and the Kaiser is the "deity of the modern age." Some one ought to tell him of the professional who was beaten at golf by an amateur seven up and six to play, and who said, "It is impossible, but it is a fact."

Germany and Canada.—Baltimore News.—The possibility of a German invasion of Canada is so remote that discussion of the question is purely academic. In the light of what happened in Belgium, assurances that the Munich doctrine will be respected by Germany would be received with considerable misgivings, no doubt, if Germany were in position to violate the doctrine and had reason for doing so. But she cannot threaten Canada until the English fleet is out of the way, which seems a far cry at this time.

British Trade with Russia.—London Mail.—We thought with the outbreak of the war, nearly the whole of the trade with Russia that Germany has justly forfeited. Even now a flourishing export business could be built up were it not for the fatal but easily removable difficulty. There is at present no market rate of exchange between Russia and Great Britain. The government ought certainly and at once to take the question up with Petrograd, where the sentiment in favor of all things British should make it an easy matter to provide the commerce between the two countries with its indispensable basis.

Unable to Maintain Offensive.—New York Tribune.—A week ago we said that the operations of the succeeding ten days would show whether or not the Germans were going to be able to maintain the offensive in the western war theatre. After resting on their lines in France and Belgium for about a month, they had begun what looked like a new offensive campaign by capturing Antwerp and pushing westward to the English channel ports. But the stout resistance offered by the Allied forces on the line of the Yser river, from Nieuport to Dixmude and thence on an arc of a circle bending towards the east to Armentieres and La Bassee, had made any swift dash westward impossible.

British Ideal of World Power.—London Times.—We have irrefutable proof that the world-empire of Great Britain rests upon a far more stable basis than superficial observers have supposed and that the British ideal of world power is the true one. It rests on the twin principles of liberty and diversity, and it is these, not the opposite German or Prussian principles of compulsion and uniformity, which are truly in keeping with the laws of human development.

The German attempts at colonial expansion have been a lamentable failure because they violate those deep-seated principles, and the German claim of a superior moral right to rule on the ground of a superior strength and falacious conception of the nature of strength and weakness in world politics.

Object of the War.—Westminster Gazette.—If we may believe some German writers, the whole objective of their country has now changed and the fight is no longer between Teuton and Slav, but between Teuton and Saxon. Count Reventlow, writes that "the object of the war is the overthrow of England" to which the overthrow of France is a "necessary preliminary," necessary because only so can "geography be corrected" and the coasts of Belgium and France be used as a base against England. Until Count Reventlow shows us how German ships are going to reach their new bases, we may keep our compasses at these threats and at all foolish alarms and rattles circulated by other people who do not understand the nature of sea power.

But Count Reventlow and the people for whom he speaks in Germany provide us with one good reason the more for a stern resolve that the undoing of France, which is to be the preliminary to our downfall, shall not be accomplished.

Britain and Austria Agree to Allow Women, Children and Invalids to Depart.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The official press bureau last night made the following announcement: "Arrangements have been made with Austria for exchanging women and children and males under eighteen years of age, and over fifty, together with doctors, ministers and invalids. Proposals will be made for the exchanging of males of military age."

"German women and children have been allowed to return from Great Britain since the beginning of the war and the beginning of the exchange of women and children from Germany since September 14. Arrangements have been made for exchanging males under 17 years of age and over 50 and doctors and ministers. Although this agreement was completed October 22, four British int

PEKING, China, Nov. 9.—The German legation states that the garrison at Tsing-Tau numbered between 4,500 and 4,800 men. It is thought that the Japanese legation from advice received there, that the town was not badly damaged by the bombardment. Chinese officials who have greatly feared that China would be involved in international complications as a result of the presence of hostile forces on her soil, appeared relieved by the conclusion of the fighting at Tsing-Tau, and express the hope that China may now continue the process of reconstruction undisturbed by external questions.

ALL THREE INJURED.

A despatch from the front announces the serious wounding of Lord Frances Scott, son of the Duke of Buccleugh, who, by-the-by, died last week in England. Lord Frances was in Brantford with the Duke of Connaught a year ago last February, when he visited the Indian Reserve. The Duke was accompanied on that memorable occasion by Col. Lowther, Mr. Hewison, Captain Buller, and Lord Scott. All three of these A. D. Cs. have been reported wounded in the war.

TEMPERANCE DAY.

World's Temperance Sunday was celebrated in Sydenham St. Sunday School yesterday. The attendance was 200—pretty close to the record. The decorations were a feature, over forty flags of the different nations of the earth being displayed. The programme was a good one, addresses being given by Adjutant Hargroves and Mrs. (Rev.) Hitchcock of York. The infant class to the number of nearly fifty marched around the school, each little tot carrying a flag. It was an inspiring sight. Miss Arnold, Bernard Knowles and Mr. Kinzle also took part in the programme. Mr. Hewison, the popular superintendent of the school, is very energetic and resourceful and is having considerable success in the important work of temperance. Rev. M. Hitchcock preached at both services in the absence of the pastor who was in Salford at anniversary services. The work of the choir was extra good.

Lee You is Now at Liberty

Lee You has almost completely recovered from the assault committed upon him some three weeks ago in a Chinese grocery store and he is now able to walk around the hospital. He will to-day be given his liberty and will return to the store unescorted. There is no fear of him running away and he will be on hand at the inquest which is to be held on Friday. This move on the part of the police proves conclusively upon which theory of the murder they have been working. They are evidently of the opinion that the crime was committed by a third party.

ST. ANDREWS HOLD SPLENDID ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Tolmie Was Preacher—Immense Congregations Were Present.

"God did not take man up into heaven," declared Major Rev. J. C. Tolmie, M.P., at the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last night, "No God made heaven in the man." The church was closely packed last evening when the famous cleric concluded the evening service.

Nothing finer has been heard than Miss Estelle Carey's wonderfully sweet and well-modulated ones in "The Fraternal Song" she sang twice and was both times keenly appreciated by all assembled. Taking as the text of the evening, "Faith, Hope and Charity," the Rev. Mr. Tolmie gave a masterly address after his usual fashion.

The words were taken from Corinthians, and there is no finer chapter. It is one of the best specimens of old-fashioned English language existing. For prose, poetry and sentiment it had never been exceeded. The composer was no great poet, or prose writer. He was a humble man, but he was a religious genius. He was St. Paul. He was a man of love—a Christian throughout.

Love was the grandest of gifts granted to man. It had been a great factor in the life of St. Paul. He had summed up everything in that sentence, "Faith, hope and charity," but the greatest of these is charity. What was faith? Faith was belief plus confidence. Faith was trust. It was possible to believe in a man without having faith in him. It was possible to believe in God without putting faith in Him. Such men as Moses had shown us what faith was. Remember Job; everything went wrong with him; his crops failed and his sons died and all was against him, but his faith in God was never shaken.

We do not know all about God; some think they do, but they don't and the older one got the less they realized they knew. It was not necessary that we should know. What was necessary was faith. The greatest blasphemy was that of the man who said that God was an absentee landlord. We must trust in Him absolutely. We must have faith. What was hope? Was there a man present who knew not? When sickness was by our side, we all knew then what hope was, for with it came the hope of life. God Himself was a hope for all; a mountain of hope. We all may go on and do wrong, but we all pictured a day when men arise and had a new life. The words "I was not satisfied to go on as they are; to trail along without any ambition. We must hope not. For six thousand years God had been trying to make a new nation. As mankind had gone forward and cultivated depths of evil, the Lord had stepped out and swept that nation back to the primer and he would see that all justice was done in the East where the war existed. He (the speaker) believed that God would make Canada, the youngest nation, one of prosperity and peace.

God's purpose was not to take men into heaven. His object was to bring heaven into men. And when a short spell man's life was. It was so short a lapse before all took the journey to the cemetery. We could all live to be a memory for good when we had passed away. What was a mother's impulse as she clasped her infant for the last time ere she passed to her Maker, what was her desire? It was that she might at some future date, at some place hold her infant once again to her breast. An infant once again to her breast. The idea that he had no faith in the future. He was asked if he ever hoped to look into his mother's face again and the man was ashamed. All have the hope of a better life. Take from the actual experience of the speaker followed.

"And the greatest of these is charity." What was charity? It was not the giving of monetary assistance. Look it up in the dictionary, cut it out and burn it, for there was no such thing as charity. There ought not to be. If a beggar came and asked for help and we helped him, that was not charity, it was our duty, and we owed it to our fellowman that he wanted not to eat.

The greatest crime of the age was committed against the little children of Belgium and yet people spoke of charity in this direction. They had preserved their rights and this was their reward. Charity as spoken of by St. Paul was love. What a different old world this would be if there were only a little more love in it. If man only loved his neighbor a little more, what a difference there would be. Man's greatest crime against himself was the cherishing of uncharitable thoughts of his neighbors.

Do not stumble on these things, but look toward those three, faith, hope and charity and they would form three great strands of life. Those three applied to religion, formed it in its ideal. Let the sun of righteousness shine upon ourselves that it may bring forth all that is within us. The message of the evening was, Faith, Hope and Charity, remember these but, the greatest of these is charity.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL MAKE EFFORT TO PROVIDE WORK

Scheme Was Drawn Up at Meeting Held on Friday Afternoon Last.

At a largely attended meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade held in the Secretary's Office on Friday afternoon the question of providing work for the unemployed for the incoming winter was considered and a plan suggested by which construction work on the Lake Erie and Northern Railway between Brantford and Port Dover could be proceeded with and this work be given to a large number of men, chiefly in ballasting. A committee was appointed to confer with the Mayor and City Council. A proposal of a letter from the Ontario Association of Boards of Trade that a conference of the Boards be held in Hamilton with the Ontario Highway Commission was considered; and a Committee appointed to attend the Conference, consisting of all the members of the council, together with Mayor Spence, Mr. Geo. S. Matthews, the members of Parliament and others. The members of the County and Township Councils and the Clerks, the Echo Place Improvement Society and others in the Township interested in the improvement of the highway are asked to attend the conference.

GRAND VALLEY BOND HOLDERS TO RECEIVE PAYMENTS

November 18 the Day When the Assets Will be Distributed Around.

Grand Valley bondholders have received the following notice from E. B. Stockdale: Dear Sir—We have been requested to advise you that immediately upon the opening of the adjourned meeting of Bondholders to be held on Wednesday, November 18th, at three o'clock in the afternoon, a motion will be made to adjourn the said meeting until Wednesday, January 20th, 1915, to be held then at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon. It was expected upon the last adjournment that the Receiver would be in a position to make a final report by November 18th. The Receiver's Solicitors advise, however, that no appointment to pass any part of the Receiver's Accounts can be obtained until November 18th, and the adjournment referred to is, therefore, considered advisable.

Some Tangle is Found on West Mill St.

The chief engineer of the Lake Erie and Northern Railway brings some interesting facts, with regard to West Mill Street, to the notice of the City Council. He shows that when the sidewalk upon that street was laid it was put down without any regard to the street lines as laid down by a map of Brantford. So much is the sidewalk out of line that the boundary line on the street and the true street line runs through the corner house of John Clark upon church street. The walk is some ten feet out of truth. It should be that distance farther from the banks of the Grand River. The engineer, Mr. Kellett, has gone over the ground with Mr. Jackson, the surveyor, and has come to this conclusion as the result of their findings.

MUST GIVE GUARANTEE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, to-day notified the state department that an agreement has been made with Denmark, Sweden and Norway that goods destined for neutral consumption only will pass freely into those countries if consigned to special persons with certificates of guarantee against re-exportation.

TO PROTECT GIRLS

SIoux CITY, Iowa, Nov. 9.—The world's purity federation has appropriated $20,000 to protect girls who visit the San Francisco exposition from white slavers. This statement was made by John B. Hammond of Des Moines, Iowa, superintendent of the law enforcement division, who arrived here to-day. The action was taken at a meeting of the executive council in Kansas City yesterday.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE

PETROGRAD, Nov. 9.—via London 1:40 p.m.—What is described here as a continued and irresistible offensive of the Russian army, resulting in the evacuation of Poland by the Germans, is reported to-day as successfully establishing itself in German territory at Pleschen, 15 miles west of the Russo-German frontier. In addition the Germans are said to be generally relinquishing their stand along the Warthe River.

It is estimated that $23,000,000 was the amount of damage done by the army worn in Ontario during the past summer.

THE GERMAN IN THE SUN

A curious commentary upon the German whom about having no place in the sun is to be found in the fact that the German immigrant nearly always elects as his future home a country in which the sun's rays are not prevented from falling upon him by the black shadow of the German flag. About 15,000,000 Germans have made their homes under the protection of the British, the American and other foreign flags. With few exceptions they make admirable citizens and colonists, achieve a high average of prosperity and are heartily welcomed by the peoples of other races with whom they reside. A large proportion renounce their allegiance to the Kaiser and becoming naturalized citizens of the countries in which they settle, shake off the military tyranny of the Prussian Junkers. They become freemen and absolutely their own masters. Not the slightest pressure is brought to bear upon them to induce them to change their allegiance; they act entirely upon their own volition and I have never happened to meet a Canadian of German birth who said that he regretted having become a British subject.

How is it with the German emigrant who goes to the German colonies?

LATEST FISH STORY

(From the Gazette, Montreal, October 31, 1914.)

The latest fish story that has been sprung on the public—a story which "out-whops" some of the most famous of the Whopper Club series—is that told by J. Jones, an inspector in the agricultural branch of the Canadian Pacific, whose activities are confined to the Rosemary colony, near Nassau.

There is nothing of the piking attitude about the story but the fish. The fish were pike. It appears that there has been started among the fish of the Bow River a "back to the land" movement, with the irrigated land preferred. Mr. Jones says that on the land, or on one particular farm, in the Rosemary colony, the water was turned into the ditches one morning for two hours and then turned off. When it had all seeped away into the ground there were enough pike found to feed thirteen men for one meal. Since that time a number of fish have been obtained. In fact there seems to be a serious sort of mania among these fish to get out of the water at the earliest possible moment.

It appears that many of the irrigation ditches are full of fish, and in some places one of the favorite resorts is to go out and "land" a flock of fish for breakfast.

WAR STORIES FROM FRONT

(Letter from one of the Naval Brigade, now in St. George's hospital.)

"We were told we were wanted at Antwerp, so at night we entrained in dancin' carriages for a station near there. We were to make a dash, and we learned that we might get a surprise from the Germans, but we arrived at our destination all right early the next morning, and the people were there waiting for us with hot coffee and all kinds of food. About 10 p.m. our commodore gave us orders to proceed at once to Antwerp, so we fell in and had more German pills—Dr. Churchill's pills for pale people (bullets) handed out to us before we fell in and we gave three cheers for him and cheers for the King and Mr. Churchill, then marched to our trenches, in which we remained for three days and three nights."

The Magic Banquet.
(Letter from Armourer Staff-Sergeant R. Innies to his wife at Enfield Lock.)

"You ask how we are getting along. Well, just listen to this: don't know how it was done, or where it came from, but for dinner the other day we had spuds, greens, bread, duff and tea. Of course that doesn't come off every day, but just fancy that lot on active service!

The other morning we encountered a party of Germans in a wood, and some of the 'jocks' went for them. When the Germans saw the fixed bayonets they started crying. (Many soldiers letters repeat this strange statement). They don't like the cold steel. Our aviators are doing fine work."

Murdered Officer.
(Letter from Weeding, of the Surrey County Council staff, now at the front.)

"Poor Captain Horne of the Cameron Highlanders, was practically murdered. He was shot in both legs and was carried to a ditch slightly in the rear of the firing line and left with a sergeant.

Then the regiment had to retire. They made a red cross of a handkerchief with his own wood, and hoisted it on a stick. They advanced again later and found Captain Horne with his head knocked in by rifle bullets and shot.

A Lucky Escape.
(Letter, dated October 3, from Trooper W. G. Fish, 9th Lancers, to his parents at Chingford.)

"We are living in the trenches and got the order to groom our horses. When we had finished we were all talking together when we heard a whistling noise in the air. Some of us scattered and some stood still; then all of a sudden there was a terrific report. A German shell had dropped right in the middle of our troop.

"Altogether that day we lost eleven killed and forty-eight wounded, besides horses which had to be shot because of their injuries.

I had a little splinter each side of my neck and one behind the nose, and I think I was lucky, indeed, because the sergeant I was standing beside was killed on the spot.

"Our Troops More Confident Every Day."

(Letter from Pte. P. Young, R.A.M.C., to his brother at Brighton.)

"We had a narrow escape the other day. We had all been called out of a barn where we sleep to attend a service in the hospital (which is a mansion belonging to a French admiral). We have got a person here, so we have two services a week and Holy Communion on Sunday morning.

Ten minutes after we had left the barn a German 'coal-box' crashed through the roof and through one side of the wall and dropped into the garden in front of the hospital, but luckily it was Sunday morning.

We have not been getting so many wounded during the last few weeks. We go about as if we were at home. We have even played football in the garden, although there was a German aeroplane hovering over our heads, and a few shells burst not far away. Our troops are doing well and getting more confident every day.

Religion and Football.
(Letter from Private Edward Ham, Royal Scots Fusiliers.)

"As we can't always be killing Germans, we are some times hard put to it to kill time in the trenches. Next to religion, I think football's the thing that interests us most, and we are always eager to hear news of our teams at home.

The papers that reach us have not got much news of that kind in, and it would be a godsend to us if only somebody would take on hand to start a paper for circulating among the troops, giving nothing but the latest football news.

'Bus Drivers at the Front.
Private F. Dodkin, home from the front on sick leave, writes to refute the suggestion in a French soldier's letter (published in The Evening News on Wednesday) that the accidental burning of a British ammunition wagon was caused by 'bus drivers from London smoking pipes contrary to orders' while filling petrol tanks. Private Dodkin says: "I have been driver of a motor lorry in charge of ammunition, and would like you to publish the following facts to contradict the French soldier's letter.

"In the first place our officers take every precaution to guard the safety of ammunition wagons. When we are not on the move we have a roll call at 7 a.m. and afterwards we muster with rifles and put in from one to one and a half hours' rifle drill. We also take our turn in line

Great Britain Will Do Better by the Orphans and the Widows.
(By Special Wire to the Courier)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Daily News says that a white paper will be issued to-day announcing substantial increase in the pensions for disabled pickets and outpost duty. "I do not want to blow my own trumpet, but I must say that the bus drivers from London are doing splendid service in the field, and I think that our officers and N.C.O.'s will be the first to admit the truth of this."

VIENNA CLAIMS THAT MOVEMENTS WERE SUCCESSFUL

Russians are Forced to Battle on Front Dictated to Them.
(By Special Wire to the Courier)

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 5 a.m.—The war correspondent of The Vienna Neue Freie Presse, surveying the situation in the eastern war theatre gives the first picture of the progress in Russia Poland last month that has been available on this side. "Early in October," he says, "the Russians had begun the siege of Przemyel with five army corps, and great masses of cavalry and several mixed columns had been shifted to the north to launch a blow against the German frontiers. The surprising advance of the Austrians against Ivangorod and the movement of a new German army against Warsaw, forced the Russians behind the Vistula. Their deployment, however, was delayed by the highly successful attacks of the armies of General Von Hindenburg and Danzig."

After detailing the already reported Austrian successes in Galicia by which which Przemyel

"MADE IN CANADA"

The last three days of the display, and will be given the utmost prominence to the merchandise which is "Made in Canada" to familiarize the people with the goods that are made in this country. It is a very important step, and it is one that should be taken by every merchant.

When it is remembered that nearly $700,000,000 worth of goods are imported into Canada each year, it is not surprising that the people should be interested in the goods that are made in this country. It is a very important step, and it is one that should be taken by every merchant.

Do You Buy Goods in Brantford Made by Canadian Manufacturers?

How time flies! Fourteen weeks since the war started. With it a feeling of depression spread broadcast; some at the beginning prophesied "hard times ahead." Still the fact remains that while certain lines of goods have been reluctantly raised in price, on account of shortage in raw materials, we are all holding our own, and striving to make conditions better by trading with our local merchants, and buying Canadian-made goods.

Brantford Merchants Need Your Support

By buying at home we are helping the bread-winners of Brantford to keep the wheels turning; a great responsibility rests on the shoulders of every adult Brantfordite at this time. Every dollar spent in Brantford indirectly goes to help a multitude of Brantford people. If we send our dollar out of town we lose this mighty effect, and others who are in no way responsible for the re-investment of our money with us, are benefited.

War at its best is a mighty hard proposition to deal with, but we, as good British subjects, unhesitatingly accept our responsibility, and bear our burden unflinchingly. In several different lines large manufacturing concerns have benefited and are working night and day shifts to turn out their goods. Those who are closely identified with these concerns are the gainers. In other lines it may be that business has slackened to some extent. This state of affairs cannot be governed in these times. Our own responsibility rests with keeping the wheels turning at home.

Patronize Your Local Merchant

Spend your money where it will do the most good to the majority, and don't forget you are one of the majority. Your money spent at home, with the other fellow's money spent at home, gives the local merchant a working capital to re-invest in labor. Your sons and daughters, husbands and neighbors are the gainers. We are all dependent on one another; and don't think that by buying out of town, for an imaginary gain, you are saving money. You cannot prove it, and it will not work out.

Why is it that when a circus comes to town it is taxed a high rate by the city authorities for show privileges? Because it takes so much money out of town. It is here to-day and gone to-morrow, but we remain. We have got to look to home industry for our daily bread—something that is a fixture, that produces in our midst. We all should become fixtures, producers, not mere transients, in that we exist from Brantford capital, and spend it for the benefit of others.

Brantford needs your money—you need Brantford money. It is give-and-take game all around. Talk this "Buy in Brantford" proposition over with your neighbor. Compare opinions. Find out from yourself just where you stand on this vital question. Courier ads tell you where to go.

IN THE BLACK SEA
LONDON, Nov. 9.—7:55 a.m.—A despatch from Berlin states that the Russian Black Sea fleet has left the astropol and is proceeding eastward, says the Central News correspondent at Copenhagen. The Russians, says his despatch, have bombarded Koblenz and Snglu on the coast of Asia Minor.
