It is Time to Think.

It is time to pause for a little while and think of the slender child who stands because some woman would live in style or because of riches that some man craves;
It is time to think of the beautiful foot, for never, so long as rivers run, Can the precious youth which is being lost be given back to the childhood eye.
It is time to think of the old and alone
On which we have turned our backs too long; Think not that you shall be free from blame because you are busy and see no wrong;
It is time to think of the rights they lack
Who are robbed for gain that the gorged demand.
Of the youth that can never be given back
As long as the patient hills may stand.

It is time to listen to them that cry
For the children which they have never known,
It is time to cease from hurrying by Where they give the souls that should be In the distance, with a loving hand,
For never will white blood be returned,
As a day of their childhood be returned.

His Bread Returned.

He had kept the country store for twenty years. The sign read, "C. F.
Jones," but he was "Uncle Charley" to everybody. It was the only store at the village crossroads, and he prospered in a moderate way. After the bad accounts were deducted his profits were small, but he was able to support his family comfortably. They had a pretty, little cottage with some fruit trees in the lot; kept some pigs, a cow, and a horse and buggy. They had enough and were contented with that and their good name.

Then the old man took his nephew in as partner. They built an addition to the store and bought a big bill of new goods. It put them in debt, quite heavily, but their trade increased, and at the end of three years, when the farmers had brought in their wheat, they had enough to pay all their debts and a thousand dollars over.

The nephew took the money, three thousand dollars in all, and went to St. Louis to pay off the debts and buy new goods for the fall and winter trade.

The goods came promptly, but the nephew did not return. He was called South, he wrote. One afternoon, a few days later, the old man received a letter from the wholesale house expressing surprise that he had not remitted for the past due account, and stating, that unless such remittance was received by the tenth they would draw on him for the full amount, the new bill included.

The supper bell rang three times before the old man stirred. As he came down the walk his wife saw there was something the matter and met him in the yard.

"We are ruined," he said, in a lifeless tone, handing her the letter.
"Oh, no, not ruined. You can raise it, can't you?" she asked hopefully.
"No," he replied listlessly.
"Surely there will be some way out," she urged.

"There is no way out," he said hopelessly, as he sank into a rocking chair.
He looked weary, old, and on his gentle face was blank weariness.

"No, there is no way out," he repeated in a monotonous tone. "That money was all I could raise; it was everything I had made in twenty years."

"But surely our neighbors will help us raise it. You have always been good to them," encouraged his wife, trying to cover her own anxiety.

"No," said the old man, bitterly,
"people never lend you money or go on your note because you have been good to them."

The next day he made the only effort that seemed to offer any hope.
He went to Adam's, the money lender of the community, and offered to mortgage everything.

"No," said Adams. "Your stuff isn't worth it. It isn't in my line, anyway.
Get some good men who own land on your note, and I can let you have what you need."

The old man went home, a forlorn
down to wait daily for the end.

They sat in the shade in front of the blacksmith shop. It was an informal gathering of farmers, who on hearing the news, had ridden in to learn the particulars.

"Too bad for Uncle Charley!" said a farmer, digging at the grass beside him with his pocket knife. "Too bad!" and they all shook their heads.

"He's been a great help to this community," said another.
"There never lived a more accommodating man," added a third.

And then they talked of how they had always distrusted the nephew, and how soon the old man would be gossip out, and wondered what he would then do for a living.

There was one, the poorest and the most shiftless man in the neighborhood who had not spoken.

"Something ought to be done, men," he could hardly control his voice.
"It'll be a low-down shame to let Uncle Charley to be sold out."

"What can we do?" asked Jones, dully.

"I don't know exactly what we can do," continued Todd, "but let me tell you what he's done for me. When I came here I didn't have a red cent, and he trusted me for a whole year's living, and never asked me for it once I couldn't pay him, but I got ashamed and wouldn't buy any more. Well, the next fall when I took down with the fever there wasn't a thing in the house to go on. I tell you, we were in a mighty bad shape, and didn't know what in the world would become of us, until one evening Mr.

Jones came over and brought the doctor. Says he, 'Doc and I just thought we'd drop in.' And while the doctor was fixin' me up some medicine, he called my wife to one side and says, Mrs. Todd, you send one of the boys down to the store and get what you need, and Jim can pay for 'em when he gets well.'

"I'll be right here," said Todd. "Now, if here," continued Todd, "I'm a mighty poor man, but Bill says he will give me a hundred dollars for my bare, and I'm going to sell her and give the money to Uncle Charley to help pay off that debt." Several others volunteered to help.

"I don't think," said Miggins, "that it would be best to give him the money. He wouldn't feel right about it, you know. It ain't so much the loss of the money, he can make that back in three or four years, but it's just taken all stinking out of the old man, and he's lost all heart. If we could fix it some way so he could go on with the store and see some way to pay out, it would be just the best he needs."

"Say, don't you suppose Adams would loan him the money?" asked one.

"Oh, Adams would loan it to him quite enough, if he can get security; but how is he going to get it?" said Willis.

"Well, I never went to a note in my life," said Harvey, "but I'll be one to go on old man Jones' note for three thousand."

And so said every man there for a note was made out and put in the hands of Harvey. The word was quickly passed around, and for two or three days men kept coming in to sign that note.

"He lent me fifty dollars when I was hard up," said one.

"He helped Tom get through school when I was too poor to help him myself," said a father who was now well to do.

"After working all day, many's the time he'd come over to my house and sit with me when I was down with the slow fever," said a neighbor.

"Fifteen years ago," remarked a prosperous young man, as he set down to sign the paper, "I was too wealthy to kill. But Uncle Charley called me into the store one day, and persuaded me to go to school, got me some books and sold me clothes on credit. Nobody thought he would ever get a cent for 'em."

"I want to put my name on that note," said a poor widow. "I know it's not worth anything, but I want it done to sign the paper. Mr. Harvey, how kind Uncle Charley has been to me. The winter after Jim died, Lizzie went up to the store one day almost barefooted. He pretended to have her help him count some eggs, and then he gave her a pair of shoes. He's done lots of things like that."

"He is always so jolly and whole-somed you can't help but feel that he is interested in you and wants you to be happy," was another tribute.

"There were but four more days of grace. The old man sat crutching in his chair as if shrinking from the coming blow. The whimsical humor, the independence, the courage were all gone. He was a poor, hopeless old man, down never to rise again."

"Two or three farmers came in and set on the edge of the porch. If they were to be so, but made a pitiful failure of it. Others came in, and then more until there were two or three dozen seated on the porch.
The old man knew they had come to sympathize with him, but he could not bring up the subject of his loss.

"There was an awkward half-hour which nobody talked of the important matter. At last Harvey nudged

Todd, and urged him to speak. Todd shook his position once or twice, got up awkwardly and stood before John, trying to speak, but the words stuck in his throat. Then he fumbled in his pocket, drew out a paper, held it out to the old man and managed to say:

"Maybe I'll help you."
The old man looked at the paper.
It was a note for three thousand dollars, due in three years, all ready for his signature. Below was the name of almost every man in the community as security.

The old man tried to speak, but could only call:

"Mary!"
His wife came quickly and looked at the paper.

"Thank 'em, ma; I can't," said the old man, with a sob in his voice. The tears were running down her face as she turned toward the men. They were all looking away.

"I can't either," she said, as she slipped down beside her husband, with her arm around his neck, "but they know."

"Looks sorter like rain over in the southwest," said Todd. "Guess we'd better be goin', boys."

POOR BLOOD BRINGS MISERY.

Pale Faces and Pinched Cheeks Show That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are Needed.

Anemia is written on the features of ninety women and girls out of every hundred. Unmistakeable are the signs of "too little blood."

The weaker sex is assailed at all ages by the evil resulting from bloodlessness, from the girl who is weak and languid, with dull eyes, pale, pinched cheeks, fitful appetite and palpitating heart, to the woman who never feels well, with gnawing pains in the back, aching limbs and nervous headaches.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to women of all ages, for they possess the power of making in abundance the rich, red blood without which he woman can have perfect health. They fill the starved veins with new blood, so that enfeebled bodies are strengthened, weak, nervous systems are fortified and robust health restored.

Miss Rose D'Arango, Waterloo, Que., follows the profession of teaching, which brings more than ordinary strain to all who follow this calling.
Miss D'Arango says:—It seemed as though I was gradually going into a decline. I lost all my strength; my appetite was very poor; I was pale and suffered from frequent headaches.
I was often dizzy and the least exertion would leave me breathless. I doctored for a time, but with little or no benefit. One day I read in the Waterloo Journal the particulars of a case similar to mine cured by Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills and I determined to try them. In a few weeks there was a decided improvement in my condition, and by the time I had taken seven or eight boxes I was again in best of health, and able to enjoy myself as well as any of my young friends.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at one a box or six boxes for $5.00 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When to Have Patience.

Whoever loses his patience loses more than his patience. He loses his hold on the very crisis that made him lose his patience. He loses the ability to think and the balance of judgment which he ought to have at such a time. Ordinary colds are cured in ten minutes. Absolutely sure for Catarrh, and in throat trouble it works like a charm. Catarrh-zone is a permanent cure for bronchitis and throat trouble. Not an experiment—not a temporary relief—but a cure that's guaranteed. Get "Catarrh-zone" to-day, 25c. and $1.00 sizes.

For a Bad Cold.

Nothing cures so quickly as the Pine essences in Catarrh-zone. It fills the breathing organs with a healing, soothing vapor that relieves irritation at once. Ordinary colds are

Many Down With Pleur- isy.

Doctors say the country is full of it. First comes a chill, then cold develops—the inflammation grows—you can't draw a long breath—lungs and sides get sore, and pleurisy sets in. A good home-cure consists in taking twenty drops of Nerviline every four hours. Supplement this by vigorously rubbing the sides and chest with Nerviline, and when swarms and circulation are established, put a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the aching spot. Nerviline Treatment is always successful in colds, neuritis, and pleurisy. Try it yourself.

Sharing Success. Greatest Calling in the World.

When one realizes what life means in its higher relations and duties, it is pathetic to notice how constantly people apologize to one another for any small trouble which they impose.
The young man who goes to ask the man of an established position for a letter of introduction or for personal interest in securing an opportunity regret for the interruption which his request necessitates; as if the world were wholly selfish, and any kind of service done to another were in a way exceptional and shabby than the common run of things!

That a man shall put his strength, his time and his ability into earning for his own is taken for granted; but if he is asked to do anything for anyone else, he is thanked as if he were doing an unusual thing. As a matter of fact, the one duty is as close, as obvious and as imperative as the other. The man who throws a down opportunity to one who is waiting for an exceptional than if he had put an hour's work into the gaining of his own bread, or the clothing of his own body. He is simply doing what he expected to do.

The making of opportunities, the throwing open of doors, is as much the duty of the man who has the opportunity as caring for his own family. It is, indeed, one of the highest rewards of success—it one understands what success means—to be in the way of putting others on the same road. Nothing is more spiritually vulgar and shabby than to climb up and throw down the ladder by which one has climbed. Nothing shows the true nature of a man more than the spirit in which he treats success. If he is mean and niggardly in his soul, he accepts it as a kind of personal distinction or gift, and boards it as a miser hoards money; if he is generous, he spends it freely, sager that others should share what he

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 12, 1908.

Reform at the Core.

If there is one thing that we need more than any other to learn in our civic life, it is that real reform is of the center and not of the circumference. In other words, the source and secret of civic righteousness are found in the individual citizen, and not in the collective citizenship. While the culmination must necessarily be of the mass, the causes that lead up to the culmination and make it possible are always to be found in the aspiration and action of the man. Until this is fully understood and acted upon by each one of us in our individual capacity, it is absolutely impossible to achieve the progress and purity for which every real Canadian patriot is earnestly wishing.

It is idle to use a political scapegoat to bear the sins of the community. A grafter is not merely a rascal; he is a reflection of rascality in others. He is possible and tolerated only because he truly reflects the moral standard of the citizenship at large. When the standard rises he must of necessity make way for the man and the morals in keeping with the time. All of which means that national regeneration and civic righteousness are very much easier and accessible than we have most of us supposed. Instead of waiting for that seemingly impossible time when the whole nation will move onward, it is simply necessary for the individual to take a step toward himself. Instead of reforming the nation by a cataclysmal overturn of society, it is much more surely done by the elimination from a man's own life of those acts and evils that in reality form the basis of national ill. The reform that is not of the root does not in reality reform at all. Regeneration is always of the center, and not of the circumference.

You can make Wolfville a better and more beautiful town in ten or twenty days. Either by agitating others or by acting yourself. The first concerns itself with petitions to the much overworked town government, and by public meetings. The second way is to start out on your own account, and to do whatever lies in your power to add to the beauty and betterment of the town. The man who picks up a vagrant piece of paper blowing about in the dirt of the street does quite as much service for the community as the man who has written in his paper about it, and scolding and denouncing the street department.

We should all begin at the core of things. Let him see that a civilized society is not so much designed to supply moral crutches for weak people as it is the result of those who have made themselves morally strong. Charity and reformation both begin at home.

A Contest of Much Interest.

Curator William McIntosh, of the Natural History Society, St. John, will superintend the School Children's Competition, at the Exhibition, in that city, this fall, between September 14th and 19th. The prizes have been decided upon, and all particulars of this interesting part of the show are contained in a small leaflet, which may be had for the asking. Five dollars as a first, and three dollars as a second prize, are offered to the schools in each county sending in the best collection of plants found growing in the fields or woods of the province, which will include grasses, wild fruits in blossom, medicinal plants and weeds.

Then ten and five dollars are the two prizes open to the schools of the province for the two other best collections of minerals and insects. Teachers who aim to get their pupils interested in these contests, should send for the information leaflet as soon as possible. They can be obtained from K. B. Arnold, Manager of the Exhibition.

Vacation days are near, and the work of preparation will be pleasant employment for idle moments.

Bright Little Ones Make Homes Bright.

Babies that are well sleep well, eat well and play well. A child that is not rosy-cheeked and playful needs immediate attention, and in all the world there is no medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets for curing indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea, teething troubles and other disorders from which young children suffer. The mother who uses this medicine has the guarantee of a government analyst that it is absolutely safe. Mrs. J. L. Janelle, St. Yvelers, Que., says: "I find Baby's Own Tablets the most satisfactory medicine I have ever used for constipation, teething troubles and breaking up colic. Every mother should keep this medicine in the house." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

At the meeting of the Municipal Council on Wednesday to consider the regulation of automobile travel in this county the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, that the following regulations be made under and by virtue of Chap. 23 of the acts of the Legislature of Nova Scotia for the year 1908, namely: That the use and operation of motor vehicles upon any of the public highways of the Municipality of the County of Kings on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday of each week is hereby prohibited and that any person violating these regulations shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars for the first offence and not exceeding one hundred dollars for a second offence and not exceeding two hundred dollars for a third offence.

The Aboiteau Again.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.—Some time ago several articles were printed in one or more of the county papers, advocating the building of an aboiteau across the Cornwallis river at Town Point. I have been told that a petition to this effect was largely signed by the ratepayers of the county.

I have seen nothing in print lately regarding this matter. I would like to inquire what disposition has been made of the question. Surely the citizens of our county must see (if they consider the question for a moment) that the completion of such a work as was proposed would add immensely to the interests of nearly every person in the county, if not in the province. It would benefit the owners of property of all kinds, and would also benefit the laboring man, even though he were not a property owner, as it would not only make work for the men building the aboiteau, but many others who would build the electric railway which would be sure to follow in the near future—a road extending from Kentville to Wolfville and across the valley to the foot of the North Mountain and west to a considerable distance and into Kentville again. Before long, lines would no doubt extend along the principal streets in the whole section. Such a system would not only carry passengers and mails but the produce of our valley to the steam railway and save a very large expense in carting to a distant station. The increase in the value of the marsh and river banks outside the present running dyke, and the benefit to the dykeland already enclosed, was pointed out in the articles referred to. The large extent of interval along the river and west of Kentville that is now almost worthless would be brought into first class hay land. And lastly, the danger that must sooner or later arise from sewerage deposits under the present existing system near Kentville would be averted. This latter menace to the health of the community is one in which every citizen should be interested.

Many other benefits could be mentioned, and among them, it would be a great factor in bringing not only more tourists to our valley, but many people who would become permanent residents.

Surely the question is one of great importance, and I should like to see the ideas of many of our people printed in your valuable paper.

CHARLES E. STARR,
Upper Pictou, N. S.

The Son-in-law As Middleman.

Ottawa, June 2.—It was pretty well established before the Public Accounts Committee this morning that Mr. Leslie B. Macoun, son-in-law of Sir Frederick Borden, sustains to his father-in-law's department relations similar to those sustained by Mr. Merwin to the marine Department and Mr. A. E. Walberg to the Intercolonial Railway. In a word he is the middleman. Mr. Macoun is small but plucky. He is natty in appearance and dress and speaks with a marked English accent. Though he frequently refused to answer questions put to him he never lost his temper except when asked if he owned any factory, store or shop. The suggestion that he might keep a shop appeared to grate upon him and he answered with some asperity: "A shop? I keep a shop? Certainly not."

The question was quite pertinent, because he sold supplies amounting to $75,000 to the Militia Department in 1905. Mr. Macoun was examined by Mr. Crocket (Con., N. B.)—"Are you the son-in-law of Sir Frederick Borden?" he was asked. "I am at present," he answered.

He said he was a manufacturer's agent and had sold $6,500 worth of automatic machinery to the Quebec arsenal last year. In April, 1905, he notified the Militia Department that he had been appointed agent for an American concern making those goods and requested that he be given an order for supplies for the arsenal.

The correspondence showed that previous to this request the department had been in direct communication with this same concern and had decided to buy from them.

"How did you come to apply to the Potter and Johnston Co., of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, for that agency?" asked Mr. Crocket.

"That is none of your business," replied the witness, "it is my private business."

Mr. Crocket protested that the question was relevant and should be answered. He said the public was interested in knowing how it was that while the Department of Militia was in direct communication with a firm of manufacturers, the son-in-law of the minister should bob up as a middleman and the firm could not get a contract except through him.

Mr. Crocket recalled Mr. Jarvis, secretary of the Militia Council, for further examination. He admitted that $51,000 had been advanced to Mr. Macoun upon a consignment of copper billed at $51,500 before the copper had been tested and indeed before it had been received by the department. This is the more remarkable because a lower tender had been turned down on the pretence that the tenderer had insisted on the sale being a cash transaction.

Attention is directed to the interesting letter by Mr. C. E. Starr in another column. The ACADIAN would be glad to publish letters from other gentlemen of the county on this important matter.

A Tale and a Moral.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN. DEAR SIR,—May I seek your columns and relate briefly an amusing story, yet a tragedy of no mean proportions?

I was on board the morning express from Halifax a few days ago and chanced to meet an old friend of mine from Philadelphia. We shall call him Mr. R. for short. The gentleman in question stopped on board at Hantsport, where he had pleasantly been spending a few days with his aged mother at his old home. His brief holiday was ended, and as the train bore us along, in answer to my earnest inquiry after his mother's welfare, he amused me by relating a very funny state of affairs in Hantsport.

It seems there are a few men there who are extraordinarily progressive(?) The town has its mayor and several councillors—why shouldn't it? Other towns have them, and besides its a grand thing to imitate civic control, especially in a rural district of 700 people.

Putting it briefly Hantsport has thus far produced among its own a board of water works control. After much blustering and blowing they employed an engineer to supply the people with water through town pipes, instead of wells as heretofore. So say the engineer was a jolly soul and smiled at the idea; but those people as we all know must earn their living, and so it was he 'dubbed' them a 'soft bunch,' until he fell in love with one of the promoters or he with him and his. His works were mighty and to be wondered at. After many, many meetings—if such they were—the people ran hither and thither protesting they understood. Little water pipes were laid from a place a great way off and finally were brought to the few houses to be supplied. As a matter of fact most of the people did not take the water when it was brought to them; they preferred their wells and were timid of a new thing. Still they clamored 'progress' and thought it beautiful. Progress it was, the kind Kipling tells us of, practical in the jungle by the 'handing'—the imitating monkeys.

Just now they are all paying for water at an extremely high rate. In order to finance the scheme property is assessed at a higher figure than it can possibly bring in a local market. Many, too, find taxation a large item in general expenses. This is at least the case of my friend's 'poor old' owned mother.

Most of us in Halifax would think we were being 'done' if the rate of taxation was $2.70 for water privileges as alone—think of it, higher than Philadelphia! I am afraid the Hantsport people know they have been 'done' now; but it is no purpose crying over spilt milk, even if it is as cheap as water.

There are a few poor people in Hantsport and also one or two very wealthy ones, and why should they be taxed such an exorbitant rate for the glorification of one or two who subsequently finding their gross error—it is said by some—contemplate a move where it costs less to live.

Do these people expect industrial activity to better their town and make it more wealthy and of some importance? Surely not with the existing conditions. If outsiders cannot move in and improve the business of Hantsport generally the natives will never in the wide world make their town anything but a bye-word.

Such a ridiculous state of affairs appals the wiser side of us here. Yes, Mr. Editor, it is too good to keep. I will subscribe a moral perhaps applicable in this town.

Moral: Do not contemplate any great movement of public ownership before you are sure the results and privileges are going to materially benefit the people.

Salt Rheum on Hands

It is well known that cold water aggravates eczema, and with many cold weather has the same effect and they suffer from eczema or salt rheum on the hands and chapping and cracking of the skin.

There is no treatment so effective and so speedy as that afforded by Dr. Chase's Ointment, which heals up the raw, itching, itching sores and leaves the skin soft, smooth and healthy.

Gleaned by the Way.

"For my part, I don't see any more harm in a game of cards than in a game of chess."
"But consider the associations."
"What associations?"
"Why, at chess you play with two bishops, while at cards you play with four knaves."

Nervous Prostration.

Mr. Edward Schwartz, Edgewood, Wis., writes: "I had prostration, could not sleep, had frequent headaches and dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, was tired, exhausted and very irritable and nervous. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills did it all and I am cured. Had to stop my work for a month. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is a sure way for forming rich red blood and building up the system."

Chief Kohler, of the Cleveland Police, has a detective who, if reports are true, works by investigation rather than by deduction.

It is said that this sleuth, examining a jeweler's window that had been broken, muttered sagely:
"Umph! This is more serious than I thought. It's broke on both sides."

Constipation and Headache.

Mr. J. M. Brown, Cambridge, Mass., writes: "I was troubled constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do the last night. I had been told by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They also cured my headaches and improved my general health very much. There is a place for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in every home as a cure for constipation, headache and indigestion."

Robert Smith, brother of Sydney Smith, and an ex-Advocate-General, on one occasion engaged in an argument with a physician over the relative merits of their respective professions.

"I don't say that all lawyers are crooks," said the doctor, "but you'll have to admit that your profession doesn't make angels of men."
"No," retorted Smith; "you doctors certainly have the best of us there."

At the Yarmouth, N. S. A. Boys Camp, held at Tuxedo Park in August, I found MINARD'S LINIMENT most beneficial for sun burn, as an emollient ointment for chafes and chafe.

ALFRED STOKES,
General Secretary.

The mountainous waves threatened to engulf the struggling ship at any moment. The captain ordered a box of sky-rockets and fuses brought to the rail, and with his own hands lighted them, in the hope that they would make known his distress to some passing ship.

"Amid the rockets' red glare a tall, thin, slender individual made his way to the rail and reproved the captain as follows:
"Captain, I must protest against this unseemly bravado. We are now facing death. This is no time for a celebration."

To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and speedy relief for hemorrhoids, the manufacturer has guaranteed to refund the money if you do not get relief in ten days.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is sold by all druggists and is the best for hemorrhoids.

At the close of one of the recent Chapman Alexander revival services in Philadelphia the minister of a church went down the aisle, according to his custom, to greet the strangers in the congregation. "I don't think you are a member of our church," said he to one as he warmly shook his hand. "No, sir," replied the stranger. "Well, you will not think me unduly curious if I ask to what denomination you belong?" asked the minister. "I suppose," responded the other, "I'm really what you might call a submerged Presbyterian." "A submerged Presbyterian?" exclaimed the minister. "I should be glad if you would explain." "Well, I was brought up a Presbyterian, my wife is a Methodist, my eldest daughter is a Baptist, my son is an organizer in a Unitarian church, my second daughter goes to a Congregational Sunday school. But," said the minister again, "you contribute, doubtless, to some church?" "Yes, I contribute to all of them," was the answer; "that's what submerged means."

Cardinal Wolsey had fallen.

"I was trying to dodge an automobile," he explained, "and a roller skater ran into me."
The historians, however, with singular obtuseness, have persisted in placing the blame on Henry VIII.

What Back on the Blue.

Generally brother turned crimson the other day, Geraldine never knew him to blush.
"Geraldine—What did he do?"
"Gerald—Left Yale and entered Harvard."

Ignoring President.

Edmonia—Mr. Tappan is what I call impertinent.
Rudolia—In what way?
Edmonia—Why, she is not a Colonial Dames, but when she came to the colonial reception she had on a more elegant frock than any one of the Dames.

Little Willie asks, who does this for me?

"Father—it probably applies, my son, to the quest of some man who is looking for place upon a pine tree. Chicago News."

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever."

But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn out nerves leave us languid, listless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Sloop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of those depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that tired spot. Druggists everywhere are selling it for you as a stimulant and preservative tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the epidermal than any other known tonic or constitutional tonic. It dispenses a feeling of vigor, new vigor, new energy, new life, strength and ambition. Test it in a few days and be convinced. A. H. Hain.

New York City Department of Water, Gas and Electricity is one of the few departments that actually makes money, receiving about $1,000,000 more in a year than it expends.

The Lilac.

In almost every settlement in Nova Scotia the sweet perfume of the lilac now pervades the atmosphere. It seems to flourish everywhere in its last issue gives a short history of this common flower, showing that it has an ancestry reaching back to imperial greatness.

The lilac is a wanderer from the land of Esther, as its original name "lilac" means for a flower, certifies. It has a known history in America for more than 250 years having been one of the few precious roots brought over by some Pilgrim Puritan house wife in the hold of some rocking ship. It was even at that time well established in the north literature of Elizabethan days attest. It had come to England from Spain where the Moors had brought it from the Barbary States, and they in turn had received it from Constantinople. The Turk had learned to love it in his original home in Central Asia, where it grows to a tree.

Then he says, Shall we not greet it in Heaven? Who knows? That he loved the lilac saw from the heights of Parnassus (fruit trees and palms in paradise).

Shall we not see the lilac in gardens irrigated by that crystal dew which descends from beneath the great white throne. Though there be no morning and no nightfall there, the great sea which lies so calm and still in its glass like serenity, reflects yet the fires of earthly dawns and sunsets. We are certainly not forbidden to dream that under fairer skies and beside more enduring flowers we shall find once more the lilacs that cheered our earthly pilgrimage, flowers forever associated with our sweetest joy, our tenderest emotions and our purest faith.

Badly Sprained Ankle Cured.

Three years ago our daughter sprained her ankle and had been suffering terribly for two days and nights. I found MINARD'S LINIMENT most beneficial for sun burn, as an emollient ointment for chafes and chafe.

THE GIRLS OF KASHMIR.

Why they are not as beautiful as they once were.

The girls of Kashmir in former times were sold and carried away to the Punjab, in India. They commanded a large price, and married in moderate circumstances for centuries past have been in the habit of parting with their daughters to place themselves in easier circumstances, and the daughters have generally been quite willing to escape from a life of penury and labor to one of opulence and ease.

A laborer man in this part of India writes many receive for their daughters as high as $1,000. There are some cases where $5,000 was paid, but the usual price has been from $100 to $200.

The practice became so common as well as so damaging that a severe law was enacted prohibiting any one from removing any woman from the country, but it is said that the business goes on now as it has done for centuries. It had come to England from Spain where the Moors had brought it from the Barbary States, and they in turn had received it from Constantinople. The Turk had learned to love it in his original home in Central Asia, where it grows to a tree.

Then he says, Shall we not greet it in Heaven? Who knows? That he loved the lilac saw from the heights of Parnassus (fruit trees and palms in paradise).
