SOUTH PERTH.

Rousing Reform Convention at Fullarton Corners.

James Trow, M. P., Unanimously Chosen Candidate for the Commons.

FULLARTON CORNERS, May 19.—A Convention of the Reformers of South Perth was held here this afternoon, in the Village Hall.

Mr. Hugh Campbell, of Mitchell, President of the Reform Association, was called to the chair. He said the Riding was new about to enter upon a contest, and was pleased to see so large and enthusiastic a gathering present.

Mr. J. J. Crabbs, Mayor of St. Marys, acted as Secretary.

Among those present, in addition to the delegates, were Messrs. Jas. Trow, M. P., for South Perth; A. Bishop, M. P. P. for South Huron; George R. Pattullo, Woodstock; A. Matheson, Stratford, and J. H. Rae, of Mitchell.

Messrs. John E. Harding, of St. Marys, and Dr. Hodge, of Mitchell, were appointed a committee on credentials, were appointed the following:

DELEGATES PRESENT: Hibbert—W. A. Allison, Daniel Gallagher, Andrew McLellan, D. Mitchell, John Delaney, Thos. Gourlay, Alex. McLaren.

FULLARTON—R. H. Bain, R. B. Gill, F. Anderson, Jas. Smith, Wm. Tiers, T. Curran, J. McIntyre.

Downie—Geo. Frane, O. Smith P. Muir, W. Roger, D. Flannagan, James Dunn.

USBORNE—Jas. Elder, C. Monteith, Jas. Ballantyne, D. McGinnis, John Essery, Jas. Gilmore, S. Routley.

Blanshard—Dr. Irvine, P. McVannell, Thos. Fern, Capt. Campbell, W. Ford, Wm. Carmichael, Chas. Bellamy.

is the crowning act of villainy which even Conservatives will not brook. Added to this was the sale of the country to the Syndicate. All along the Conservative leaders had boasted of the prosperity of the country on account of their national policy, but they dare not face the people's honest vote.

Mr. Trow said that a few days ago he felt grieved beyond measure to observe the headless team to which he had been subjected by Sir John. Mr. Mackenzie had requested by motion that a certain portion of the township of St. Field, gerrymandered from East York, be returned to him.

Mr. Trow went on to expose the machine-like regularity with which the supporters of the Government voted down the motion brought by the Opposition. They have endeavored to rally the people of their just rights in order to strengthen their own positions.

It is unfortunate that the Dominion Government has not followed the example set by the Ontario Government in bringing down a bill annulling the present practice in regard to the taking of evidence in the courts. The Ontario amendment to the Act allows agnostics to affirm instead of compelling them to take what is to them a meaningless oath, but the change only applies to civil cases, criminal matters being within the jurisdiction of the Dominion laws.

A New Catechism in Dryden. Q.—What is rheumatism? A.—Rheumatism is humorous sensation that causes men to rub their joints with St. Jacobs Oil, play practical jokes, throw things around, wear crutches and stay indoors, swathed in red flannel.

Q.—What is St. Jacobs Oil? A.—A peculiar substance of a very penetrating nature, which causes phenomena to leave the system astonishingly quick, insuring evenness of temper thereby, and ability to do one's work satisfactorily. It banishes crutches, restores limbs, produces happiness, and brings us down to a serene old age without the martyrdom of pain.

The Rep. by Pop. Theory.

Sir John says that he gerrymandered solely in the interest of truth and justice, which he, in advanced life, discovers to be synonymous with representation by population.

Table with 2 columns: County Name and Population. Includes Montreal East, Montreal West, Hochelaga, North Victoria, etc.

These contracts could be made much more abrupt by bringing into contrast with the more populous constituencies some of the small eastern seats, such as:

Table with 2 columns: County Name and Population. Includes Laval, Trois Rivieres, Sherbrooke, etc.

From this it will be seen that the "equalization" theory is a figment, and that Sir John might just as well have avowed that everybody knows, namely, that he gerrymandered for gerrymandering's sake.

An Irish Catholic View.

The Catholics of Ontario number 320,839 in a population of 1,923,328, or a little more than a sixth. The proportion of population which each of the ninety-two members for Ontario in the House of Commons represents is 20,904; so that the Catholics of Ontario are entitled of their own mere numbers to elect fifteen Representatives to the House of Commons.

Upon the principle which Sir John has exemplified in the construction of his fifty-four new constituencies, how easily could he have carved out fifteen, having Catholic votes in majority, and thereby done an act of public justice in according to Catholics representation according to their numbers? But it is now evident that Sir John Macdonald, under color of providing the new members with constituencies had in contemplation the deeper purpose of destroying the political preponderance of the Reform party in Ontario, and giving to his own followers a factitious superiority out of all proportion to their numbers.

Mr. Blake's Leadership.

Mr. Blake has most undoubtedly shown himself to be the greatest mental athlete of Canada. His speeches in the House during the past week are pronounced to be the finest efforts ever made in the Canadian Legislature.

Mr. Blake is no narrow bigot. He feels for suffering humanity wherever suffering is known to exist. His speech will no doubt be read in every quarter of the civilized world, while Sir John's week and sneering remarks will be treated as the expressions of a man without either sentiment or true patriotism.

A Question of Life or Death for Ontario.

On 20th June next the electors of Ontario will be called upon to decide these questions:— Shall Ontario remain the Keystone Province of the Confederation? Shall Ontario, at the dictation of a handful of French Blues, be degraded to the position of a fifth-rate Province?

Shall Ontario be reduced in size till she is less than one-half of the area of Quebec, less than two-thirds of the area of Manitoba, less than one-fourth of the size of British Columbia, and less than one-half of the size of fifteen or sixteen new Provinces hereafter to be created?

Shall Ontario be defrauded of a mineral region the wealth of which may exceed anything else in the known world? Shall Ontario be driven to adopt direct taxation for Provincial purposes?

Shall Ontario, by this confiscation of her property, be made to cease supporting her public hospitals, prisons, asylums, and the like institutions from Provincial funds?

Shall all these expenses be thrown where they properly belong, upon the municipalities? Shall the burdens of municipal taxation in Ontario be increased because the Province has been robbed of 100,000 square miles of her Crown Lands?

In a word, will Ontario suffer herself to be dismembered and despoiled in order that the Bourbons at Ottawa may be sustained in power by French votes? Every ballot cast for the Conservative party at the next election answers "Yes" to the above questions. Every ballot cast for a Reformer answers "No!"

The future of this Province lies trembling in the balance. And the confederation will scarce withstand the shock of a corruptly-gained verdict on-torsing the vile robbery proposed to be committed.

A condemnation of Sir John Macdonald's shameful repudiation of the Boundary Award involves a loss of property to every man, woman, and child in this Province estimated at $300, in respect of the timber alone.

Surely this huge spoliation will not be permitted by the electors of Ontario. Surely it needs but to have the matter explained to them, and the fate of the Government is sealed.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of the Smith Medicine Co. We are certain that thousands of mothers will hail with joy the advent of such a company. Their worn medicine has been tested and found as described, a great boon to suffering humanity.

Farm and Garden.

In the Poultry Yard.

The young chicks will thrive best when kept clean and dry. Those hatched this month, if kept warm and well fed, will give a supply of eggs through the winter. If no coops are placed in or adjoining the garden, to wander freely through it, they will do little harm, until large enough to scratch up the beds, and nibble at the plants, while they will destroy many insects. Let them have an abundance of pure water and wholesome food; these, with good housing from the wet and cold, will secure health and a profitable growth.

Disposal of Rabbits.

In the course of years there will accumulate on every farm, and in every garden, a quantity of unsightly stuff. Broken crockery and glassware, old fruit and other wastes of the household, these cannot be composted, or turned to any useful purpose, and if allowed to be scattered about, make the surroundings unsightly. One of the best methods of getting rid of such stuff, is to dig a dry well, and provide it with a cover too heavy for children to displace and deposit all such rubbish in this. When filled to within three feet of top, take a piece of timber and pound down the contents as compactly as possible, and fill up with earth. The well thus covered up can be planted over, and it answers as a local drain, while another receptacle can be made for future accumulations.—American Agriculturist.

The Sheep and Lambs.

Fatten and market dry ewes as soon as possible. Some ewes which have lost their lambs, or from which they have been taken, will need to have the milk partially removed from their full udders for a few days. Neglect not to remove filthy tags. It is well also to clip the wool from about the udders, as much disease in the lambs is often caused by filth from the ewe's wool. There is but little in favor of washing wool on the sheep's back, and for old and feeble animals it is a positive injury. The practice is unnecessary, disagreeable and dangerous to the health of both men and sheep, and may well be abolished. Sheep ought to be so kept, that the unwashed wool may be clean enough for market. Newly shorn sheep need protection during storms. If this is looked after properly, early shearing is not objectionable. After shearing, the ticks gather on the lambs, and may be destroyed dipping them into kerosene water, with sulphur added, or one of the various effective "Sheep Dips."—American Agriculturist.

Medicines taken into the Stomach in concentrated form such as Pills and Powders, are most injurious. The great substitute for these nauseous little Calomel pills is Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters. They cleanse the bowels, stimulate the Liver and Kidneys, and cure all stomach disorders, such as Dyspepsia and Indigestion. In large bottles at 50 cents. Geo. Rhyms, agent.

The Press and the Outrage.

No language can be too strong to denounce the Redistribution Bill. It is outside the pale of ordinary politics. It is simply an act of political vandalism, deliberately planned by the Tory leaders to enable a minority of the electors to place in power a majority of the representatives of the people.—Galt Reformer.

To prevent Fevers, Bilious Colds and Ague; to tone up the system and purify the blood, try a course of Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters. In large bottles at 50 cents. Geo. Rhyms, agent.

James Vick the well-known florist and seedman, Rochester, N. Y., is dead, aged 63 years. James Vick was born at Portsmouth, England; was a playmate of Dickens, came to this country in 1833, and set type with Greeley on the Knickerbocker; was a long time secretary of the American Pomological Society, a member of the Royal Horticultural Society of England, and went into the seed business 1860. He was one of the most charitable men. It is reported his gifts averaged over $10,000 year. During the Kansas grasshopper plague, nine years ago, he sent $25,000 worth of seed to the sufferers, and last year sent $10,000 or $15,000 worth to the Michigan sufferers.

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. THE WAY IT WILL AFFECT YOU.

It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. SUCH IS THE IMMEDIATE AND SATISFACTORY EFFECT that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours time, if not of too long standing. It is warranted to GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION, EVEN IN THE most confirmed cases of Consumption. It is recommended not to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies), or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by Consumption, when ALLEN'S Lung Balsam will prevent it, if only taken in time. Physicians having consumptive patients, and who, having failed to cure them with their own medicine, would recommend to give ALLEN'S Lung Balsam a trial. Sold by all Druggists.

It is possible to buy Mr. F. W. Johnston at the value set upon him by his own friends just after the Smith's Hill meeting, and sell him at the value he placed upon himself previous to that fateful gathering, the dealer would be able to clear a fortune far ahead of anything made in Manitoba lots. He went up like a rocket, and came down like a stick.

At Smith's Hill on Monday last the talented (I) young barrister tried to play out-throat to Mr. Platt, and Mr. Porter politically. He did not succeed in both cases, but he "gerrymandered" Mr. Platt out of the nomination. The talented (I) young barrister did not receive the nomination, and his beseechings and prayers availed him not. Politically, Mr. Johnston meant murder, and had suicide thrown in as his portion.

We understand that the writs have been received in Huron, and that returning officers have been appointed as follows:—South Huron, Registrar Dickson; West Huron, Ben Willson; of Wingham; East Huron, James Perkins, of Howick.

The returning officers for the East and West are strong partisans. Mr. Willson does not live in the Riding, and has no connection of any sort with it. What have our West Riding Conservatives to say about snubbing local men?

Col. Ross is early in the field for the Local House, although he has allowed his opponent several months' start of him. But the Colonel has a "soft snap"; for the malaprop young lawyer having killed himself in a vain attempt to get a second nomination, all that remains for the Reform candidate to do is to call upon the electors to bury the crushed youth deep under an overwhelming majority when the Local elections occur.

The Huron Signal propounds this query:—"Can Mr. Porter point to any town or village in Huron which has not decreased in population during the past year, notwithstanding the beneficent working of the N. P.—the Tory 'cure all'?" We do not like to be considered presumptuous but venture to answer for Mr. Porter in the affirmative; Clinton has not alone not decreased, but it has increased considerably. You did not suppose that all the towns in Canada were as dead as Goderich, did you? Give us a harder one next time.

The above from the Clinton Record, shows the new proprietors of that journal are willing to distort facts about a matter they know nothing of, simply for party purposes. If they will go to the town clerk's office at Clinton they will find from the assessment roll that that town has not only not increased in population during the past year, but that it has decreased. Next time we would advise them to look before they leap.

MR. JOHNSTON, the talented (I) young barrister, is a sensitive youth, although one would hardly think so. The young man aims high—too high—and because THE SIGNAL has always given him good advice and warned him against over-reaching, young Mr. Johnston must, forsooth, abuse THE SIGNAL at every opportunity. At Smith's Hill on Monday, young Mr. Johnston, the accidental Warden of Huron, berated THE SIGNAL in his feeble way, and tried to work up a sympathetic feeling for himself by so doing. Young Mr. Johnston's tears availed him not, so far as the nomination was concerned, and his ranting didn't shake the foundation of THE SIGNAL office. The moon does not cease to shine although a cur occasionally barks at it, and Mr. Johnston's coward abuse of THE SIGNAL and its editors at Tory conventions, with closed doors, will not deter this journal from keeping the overweening ambition and inanity of Mr. F. W. Johnston before the public.

MR. PORTER was killed in South Huron by the gerrymandering brought about through the trickery of W. J. E. Holmes, F. W. Johnston and others of that kidney, but his spirit has arisen in West Huron to haunt Mr. Johnston—in fact, the corpse has been galvanized into life. And this is how the thing came about. After the last division of Huron, it was conceded on all sides that Mr. Porter and Dr. Coleman were buried under the "hived Grits" in South Huron, and Mr. Platt was looked upon by many as being the coming man for West Huron in the Tory interest. The riding was supposed to be 130 more Tory than the Local constituency, now represented by Col. Ross, M. P., and Mr. Fred. W. Johnston, with that colossal cheek for which he is so widely known, set about to undermine Mr. Platt, and get himself elected to the position of candidate for the Commons and Legislature in West Huron. But he counted his chickens before they were hatched, and consequently "got left," so to speak. Mr. Porter the deceased of South Huron wouldn't stay dead, and dropped over to the Smith's Hill Tory convention. The result was that while Messrs. Platt and Johnston were pulling and hauling for first place, the defeated of South Huron stepped in and carried off the nomination for West Huron. Never since Tim Finnigan's wake, when that lamented gentleman cleared out the roomful of quarrelling mourners, did a corpse display such animation.

MR. THOS. FARROW, received the Tory nomination for East Huron, yesterday (Thursday). We are willing to leave him to the tender mercies of the electors of East Huron.

PROMINENT Conservatives now concede the three Hurons to the Liberal party, despite the gerrymandering. Every day Mr. Cameron is receiving assurances of support from men who have heretofore stood by the old Conservative party, but who are disgusted by the greed for power and place exhibited at home and abroad.

THE editor of the Clinton New Era was present at the big Reform Convention held here on Tuesday, and writes: Mr. Cameron has had many successful contests on behalf of the Reformers of this county, but to none of them did he enter with better prospects and assurances of success than he does the contest for the West Riding. That he is a person of recognized ability and talent, not even his opponents will dispute and we are confident that among his warmest supporters in the present contest will be numbered many who hitherto opposed him.

AN ENCALLED FOR ATTACK. Taking his cue from his chum Boulton, who made a gross attack on Sheriff Gow of Wellington, Mr. Hesson, in the debate on the gerrymandering Bill, had the effrontery to charge Sheriff Hossie with partisanship and "interference in the elections in the interest of the Grit party." Of course the statement is untrue. Except Mr. Hesson and his unscrupulous fuleman on Erie street, we do not believe there is a single Tory in the entire county of Perth so mean and utterly devoid of truth as to make such an accusation against a conscientious and efficient public officer. There never was a fairer, there could not be a fairer, returning officer than Sheriff Hossie. A man of unfinching integrity and keen sense of honor, he would not deviate a hair's breadth from the strict line of his duty to please a friend or foe.—[Beacon.]

THE Canadian parliament was prorogued yesterday after having accomplished one of the most barefaced and wicked gerrymanders that even an American politician could conceive. Sir John A. AN Ottawa correspondent telegraphs:—"I stated a few days ago that the orders for the June campaign had been suspended. On enquiry I ascertain that no orders were actually issued for the camps in course as yet. The orders were asked in several instances to name the most convenient time, and in several cases named and acted upon dates in June. It has been determined, however, in consequence of the elections, to have no camps until autumn."

ABOUT one o'clock last Wednesday night the Clinton New Era reporter found an old man about 60 years of age wandering aimlessly around town. Inquiring what he was doing at that time of night, the old man said "he had walked all night in from Turnberry, and was on his way to Goderich, to look up the registry of his property, but had somehow missed the road to Goderich. He had got in town after all the hotels were shut up, but was not very particular about sleeping, although he had tried at one house and the man thereof threatened to kill him with a stick for frightening his family at that hour. Would the gentleman please show him the road to Goderich." The request being complied with, the man took the middle of the street and started off as unconcernedly as if it were daylight; and appeared as fresh as a daisy.

THE argument that the Senate is useful as a revising body for the hasty legislation of the popular Chamber is scarcely borne out in the fate of its amendments to the gerrymandering Bill, several of which were cancelled by the Commons because they were not pertinent to the measure.

THE City of Owen Sound, arrived at Collingwood, May 10th, reports having picked up the mate of the steamer Manitoulin, of the Great Northern Transit Co., in a sail boat bound for Killarney, about six miles from that port. He states that about 11 a. m. Thursday, 18th, July, while off the Manitoulin light, the fire and was completely destroyed. While trying to lower one of the boats, many were crowded into her and the davits broke, capsizing the boat and throwing the people into the water, where Mr. Robert Henry, of Mudje Bay, and a little girl were drowned.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD once "thanked God" that we have a Senate to prevent a disturbance of the electoral boundaries—the occasion being the presentation of a bill by Mr. M. C. Cameron to restore a township in Huron to its original position before the first gerrymander of 1872 was accomplished. It is now in order for him to "thank God" and roll his eyes in a stigmatized pity because he has a Senate that is not likely to prevent any disturbance in the electoral boundaries which he is desirous of effecting, no matter how grossly it may outrage decency or trample upon the rights of the people. Nothing could better illustrate the mockery of an appeal to such a tribunal as these two facts.

THE Toronto Telegram, (Ind.), puts the matter in its proper light in the following references:—"Sir John Macdonald has repealed that section of the election law making sheriffs and registrars returning-officers, because these gentlemen have been appointed by the Local Government, will be partizan and dishonest. But active politicians, appointed by the Dominion Government for the sole purpose of running the election, with their future prospects as permanent office-holders depending altogether upon the election of their party candidates, they will rise superior to temptation, and be perfectly honest."

AN Independent View. The Toronto Telegram says:—"There is no denying that Sir John Macdonald's Redistribution bill will completely dislodge the Whigs. There has been no attempt at concealment of the object aimed at. In some cases the detaching of Reform townships, so as to make a Conservative election sure, is so palpable that there is no shutting your eyes to it. The Conservatives have always been weak in Ontario. This is their weak spot. The new arrangement of the constituencies will change that. We venture to say that it will be found when the elections are over that although the Conservatives have won the larger number of seats, the Reformers have cast the larger number of votes. The bill has successfully lived them by crowding as many Reform townships together as possible, independently of the county boundaries, thus making the constituencies from which they were detached sure for Sir John."

FRIDAY, MAY 26th, 1882.

ELECTION.

WEST HURON.

M. C. CAMERON

Will address the Election of West Huron at PORT ARBERT, on Monday, the 29th of May, at 7 o'clock p.m.

At KINGSBIDGE, on Tuesday, the 30th of May, at 7 o'clock p.m.

At BURGESSVILLE, on Wednesday, the 31st of May, at 7 o'clock p.m.

At BELFAST, on Friday, the 2nd of June, at 7 o'clock p.m.

At CLINTON, on Monday, the 5th of June, at 7 o'clock p.m.

At SMITH'S HILL, on Wednesday, the 7th of June, at 7 o'clock p.m.

At WELLSVILLE, on Friday, the 9th of June, at 7 o'clock p.m.

Mr. Porter, or his representative, will have the authority of addressing the meetings.

The South Huron convention will be held at Clinton to-day, and not at Seaforth as stated by us last week.

Our North-west policy, as sentimentously put by Mr. Blake, is: "The land for the settler, and the price for the public."

"ONTARIO'S Rights and Fair Play," is the rallying cry of the Liberals of this Province, and it is attracting good men everywhere.

MR. MALCOLM CAMPBELL, of Lucknow, is the Reform candidate for the neighboring constituency of West Bruce. The Liberals are expected to roll up 1,000 of a majority in that "hive."

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT has plucked entered Centre Wellington, and will out Dr. Orton, the blatant, self-appointed champion of agriculture. The doctor will soon be heard from in Manitoba.

The Cabinet cards have again been shuffled, in order to strengthen, if possible, the waning powers of the Tories. Aikens and O'Connor retire, and Carling and Costigan are called in. The dodge is too transparent to be effective.

MR. BLAKE'S ADDRESS.

A synopsis of that able Appeal to the Electors.

TORONTO, May 22.—Mr. Blake's address to the electors of West Durham is an appeal to the whole country, and is a masterful document. "It begins: 'Gentlemen: The Government, which but a brief space since was craving a longer trial before judgment, has precipitately dissolved Parliament and precipitated a general election. For what reason? Because it felt that it would be weaker next year than it is to-day, and its only chance of victory lay in a surprise; but it has not ventured to appeal to the constituency of 1878. It has packed the Jury.' He then goes on to show how the Redistribution Bill is a subversion of those principles of justice, equality and fair play on which our constitution rests. The Pacific Railway policy scathingly denounced, as is also the Government's attitude on the Boundary Award and the Streams Bill. Regarding the tariff he says, 'You know well that I do not approve of needless restrictions on our liberty of exchanging what we have for what we want, and do not see that any substantial application of the restrictive principle has been or can be made in favor of the great interests of the mechanic, the laborer, the farmer, the lumberman, the shipbuilder or the fisherman. But you know also that I have fully recognized the fact that we are obliged to raise yearly a great sum, made greater by the obligation imposed on us by this Government, and that we must continue to provide this yearly sum mainly by import duties laid to a large extent on goods similar to these which can be manufactured here, and that it results as a necessary incident of our settled fiscal system that there must be a large, and, as I believe, in the view of the moderate protectionists, an ample advantage to the home manufacturers. Our adversaries wish to present to you an issue as between the present tariff and absolute free trade. This is not the true issue. Free trade is, as I have repeatedly explained, for us impossible, and the issue is whether the present tariff is perfect, or defective and unjust. I believe it to be in some important respects defective and unjust. We expressed our views last session in four resolutions, which declare that articles of such prime necessity as fuel and breadstuffs should be free; that the sugar duties should be so adjusted as to relieve the consumer from some part of the enormous extra price he is now liable to pay to a few refiners; that the exorbitant and unequal duties on the lower grades of cotton and woollens should be so changed as to make them fairer to the masses who now pay on the cheapest goods taxes about twice as great in proportion as those which the rich pay on the finest goods, and that the duties on such an article as iron, which is in universal use, should be reduced so as to enable the home manufacturer, to whom it is a new material, to produce cheaper goods for the benefit of his home customer, and the encouragement of his foreign trade. He then goes on to challenge the North-west land policy, and says: 'Our motto is the land for the settler, the price for the people.' He advocates reduction of members of the Senate, and their election by the people, and claims the right to make our own treatment of the Boundary Award in the most vigorous and powerful part of the address.

THE WORLD OVER.

Gen. Rosser has been charged by the Pacific Syndicate with obtaining important papers on false pretences. The trial is expected to be an interesting one. The General expresses his intention of suing for damages. A general storm of indignation has been raised by the proposed tax on commercial, railway and financial enterprises in Quebec. Representatives of the insurance companies in the Province have held a meeting, and obtained legal advice as to their liability. The banks are also moving in the matter. The progress of "Great Paul" the great bell for St. Paul's cathedral and the largest in England—from Loughborough to London was followed with an interest somewhat short of that following the movements of Jumbo, but still with interest. The bell, which weighs nearly seventeen tons, has been transported 100 miles on a car with a traction engine. A letter has been found in the sleeping-room of the Sultan, threatening his life unless his present arbitrary plans are changed for liberal ones and his present personal confidants are dismissed. The Sultan is in utter consternation and keeps himself in total seclusion. His moral courage is undoubted. The Coalition Government of New Brunswick has been remodelled. The Conservative Premier having left it to go to Sir Leonard Tilley's assistance in the Dominion elections. Mr. Fraser will oppose Mr. Pickard, the Reform candidate in York County, who at the last election was returned by the small majority of 60. The Local elections have been fixed for June 22. There is a case of small-pox at London that was contracted in a peculiar manner. A man from Chicago, who had the disease in his house, removed to London and brought his bedding with him. He stored it in a house on Palace-street, and from this the woman of the house took the disease. A $50.00 Biblical Reward. The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer ten valuable rewards in their Monthly for June, among which is the following: We will give $20.00 in gold to the person telling us which is the middle verse in the Bible by June 10th, 1882. Should two or more correct answers be received the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner June 15th, 1882. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer, for which they will receive the July Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20.00 to you; cut it out. Address, RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Easton, Penn.

ZOPESA. (FROM BRAZIL.) The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving aches, instantly the dreadful results of dyspepsia, indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house. It acts gently and speedily in Biliousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Diarrhoea after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Pains in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Watery Stools, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system. Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

Trade Mark Registered. ANOTHER GREAT BOOM IN WINNIPEG. By casual observation, we find all land speculators have a clear head and watch the ups and downs of property, thus making large fortunes. But the whole secret is, they keep the system in a healthy condition by the use of THE PRIDE OF THE VALLEY MEDICINE. We can safely say that hundreds come to us for the great lung and blood purifier before going west. Read the following statement. We could give thousands of the same kind if it were necessary. "I certify that I was troubled with Catarrh in the head, gathering of phlegm in the throat, choking and coughing at night for years, so I could not sleep, often troubled with chill, lifeless feelings, pains in the chest and back. After giving hundreds of dollars to doctors, and giving up all hopes, I tried the PRIDE OF THE VALLEY, and am now able to do my work after seven years' sickness. MRS. CROOKED WAYS.

Like a good many other young men, and women, too, for that matter—I was once badly afflicted with crooked ways. Of course greater evils might have befallen me; I might have been seized with a passion for whisky or gambling; but still my crooked ways were serious enough. During my college days the symptoms showed themselves plainly; but the malady did not really assume its true and awful proportions until I had taken my degree. Then, forsooth, it fastened upon me like a leech, and before many months elapsed it overmastered me completely. In accordance with my mother's wish, I went to Dundas, ostensibly to read law with my uncle, but it was a mere pretence of law reading, for the mornings that I ought to have spent over blackstone were devoted to the composition of a novel, and the afternoons to the polishing of some poems. Uncle John, shook his head gravely and remonstrated, sometimes in sadness and sometimes in anger. "That scribbling will never amount to anything," he would say contemptuously. This was hard to bear; but my lofty aspirations sustained me, and, firm in my belief of ultimate success, I scribbled on and on, and ever, and bombarded all the magazines in the country with my manuscripts. The magazines did not open their columns to me, and I fell back at last upon the weekly newspapers, and especially upon the Boston Weekly Palladium. That journal printed my essays, and a certain assistant editor, whose initials were "F. B. S.," sent me polite notes from time to time. It was something to see my productions in print; it would have been more had these productions been brought in a check. But they never did; they only elicited polite notes from F. B. S. Finally I wrote a letter to the assistant editor upon the subject, and by return post I received a reply. It was sent to my private box at the postoffice, but to my great amusement, was directed to "Jane Bell," instead of "John." My hand writing was not very distinct, and perhaps a trifle feminine, and the signature, upon which I prided myself, certainly left it an open question whether John or Jane were meant. The note, too, began: "Miss Bell—In reply to your question, I would say that this journal pays its regular corps of writers. We are glad to receive your articles, and perhaps later may make adequate compensation therefor; but, as a young writer, it would be wiser for you to think at present only of securing a foothold. You have an excellent chance of success in the end; but much patience is necessary at the outset. "Please say whether I shall direct future communications to John Bell, Miss Bell or Mrs. Bell. At present I do not venture to give you any title. "Very truly yours, F. B. S. CREVEN." This letter at once amused and piqued me. It was pleasant and rather encouraging, but it was plain the writer set me down as an impetuous young woman, whereas the truth was I had a very fair income of my own, and was a six foot, mustached specimen of masculinity. The idea of playing the role of Miss Jane Bell tickled my fancy, and therefore, giving my imagination free rein, upon the spur of the moment, I sat down and wrote as follows: "F. B. S. Creven: At present I also am in a quandary, for I do not know whether I ought to address you as Madame, Monsieur, or Mademoiselle. The last title is mine just now, although of course I feel at liberty to change it when I choose, or rather when the proper opportunity offers itself. Perhaps matrimony would be a more profitable speculation than literature. Do not, however, suppose I am dependent upon my pen for my bread and butter. In this case I fear the butter would be very thin indeed. No; the fates have given me most of the luxuries of life; but these, of course, do not satisfy me. The reason why I wrote as I did about payment for my articles was simply because I thought if they were good enough to print they were good enough to be paid for. It seems I was mistaken; but, to show you that I take your advice, I send you another essay, I will at least try to secure a foothold, and pray that greater success will follow. "I am, dear Madame, Monsieur, or Mademoiselle Creven. "Sincerely yours, JANE BELL." Laughing in my sleeve, I sent this communication off, and planned that, if the assistant editor sent me a friendly reply, I would open a correspondence in my role of Miss Jane Bell and fool F. B. S. Creven as never a man had been fooled before. Judge then of my dismay when I received a letter in what I knew was Creven's writing, but not written on office paper, and signed Frances Bertram Creven. "A woman, by Jove!" I exclaimed there and then in the postoffice, whereas a small boy, who was standing nigh, nearly swallowed in astonishment the postage stamp he was licking. I thrust the letter in my pocket and did not read it until I was safely at home. Thus the missive ran:

"Dear Miss Bell:—Your piquant letter prompts me to write you a reply, not as an assistant editor, but as a woman like yourself, who is toiling up the steep path that leads to Parnassus. I might have known you were a woman, and a young one at that, because, although there is a touch of masculine strength in your essays and poems, still there is, too, a sweetness that is only feminine. I think that women more often have this flavor of masculinity than men have anything of that tenderness which is essentially and purely feminine. Were I in a position of authority I should very soon dismiss the cut and dried hack-writers whose contributions, although smooth and polished, lack the freshness, the spontaneity, which is characteristic of the contributions we sometimes receive from unknown writers, and notably from you. But, you see, I am a person of no consequence at all, except as I am useful to do the work, all the glory of which goes to the distinguished individuals whose names are emblazoned at the head of the paper. There! that sounds bitter, I am afraid; but, my dear Miss Bell, the fates have not been so kind to me as to you, and it is not for fame I write, but for the wherewithal to keep me fed and clothed. What make it perhaps harder is that I have known what it is to have my bread and butter fresh and sweet,—ay, and honey with it, too,—and therefore the thin slices that are doled out to my now taste the drier by comparison. "Forgive me for boring you with so much about myself. Pray write to me again. Your luxurious stationery, with faint, delicate perfume pervading it, is itself a delight. "Sincerely yours, "MISS FRANCES BERTRAM CREVEN." As I read this letter I felt myself a scoundrel. My first impulse was to write a letter of confession to Miss Creven; but the desire to keep up the correspondence and try my hand at composing letters that should be sweetly feminine overcame my scruples, and I sent off the following reply: "Dear Miss Creven:—Instead of boring me, the glimpse you gave me of your life interested me more than I can tell. But, at the same time, the contrast between your life and mine made me envious. Perhaps your lot is a hard one, but it is at least brave and independent. Here am I, an only daughter, petted and spoiled to a shameful degree, and bound by fetters of luxury. Yes, I envy you sitting there this morning in my silly pink-curtained boudoir, with a Dresden shepherdess smirking at me from the top of my escritoire, I feel my idle, luxuries life hemming me in and overpowering me, as the perfume of tuberoses makes heavy and sickening the atmosphere of a room that should be flung open to the fresh air and sunshine. I would change places with you to-day if I could. "When I reached this point of my letter, I read over approvingly what I had written. Arrived at the lines descriptive of my imaginary boudoir, I smiled as my glance fell upon a boot-jack in one corner, and the shaving apparatus in another. Glancing at the place where the Dresden shepherdess ought to have been, my eye fell instead upon a pipe, which I took down and filled, and then resumed my writing with considerable complacency. "This may sound to you rather school-girlish, and I may as well confess that it is not many years—perhaps months would be more accurate—since I left the precincts of a finishing-school. Finishing-school, indeed! Much I learned there besides the art of doing up my hair! However, the defects of my education I must remedy myself, and I try every day to devote a few hours to serious study. But it is very hard to seclude myself long enough to accomplish anything. People call; I must go to garden parties; I must drive out with my mother; I must hold solemn convalescence with the milliner and dress-maker; in short, I have constant demands of a most frivolous nature upon my time. "All this you will probably laugh at; and, lest I write yet more foolishly, I will bring this letter to a close. If you are not disgusted with me, do write again soon. "Faithfully yours, "JANE BELL." I may as well confess that I thought this letter a successful imitation of some of the epistles that I had myself received from feminine hands. It sounded enthusiastic and very "missish," and I sent it off that afternoon with a bold heart. "Jack," quoth my uncle, who met me as I came from the postoffice, "I verily believe you are making an ass of yourself over some girl. I don't believe it is the muses you are courting; it is no muse; it is a miss." And with this he passed on, chucking at his own wit. As the days went on however, my uncle's words seemed in a fair way a prove true. I thought only of Miss Creven. My novel I left untouched, and my rhyming dictionary accumulated dust slowly, but surely. Fled was my genius. I lived only for the mail from Boston. As I re-read the letters I received from Miss Creven, I can make some excuse for my infatuation. They were frank and outspoken, and sometimes, indeed tinged with cynicism; but through them there breathed a sympathy of tenderness, that touches me even now as I read them over. Finally, at my solicitation, she sent me her photograph, which showed her to be a regular featured, large eyed woman, of rather a serious cast of countenance indeed, but with a lurking smile in the mouth, that I can not but confess was a large one. She was not a beauty, I saw that, but she had an earnest, interesting face that grew upon me every day. Little by little I gave myself up to thoughts of her by day and dreams by night. Her letters I awaited with feverish impatience, and if one were delayed I was in a torment. I make no excuse for my folly, dear sir or madam; but pray do not forget that I was only one and twenty then, and had fed myself plentifully with novels and poetry. And this was my first love! Coventry Patmore says in one of his poems: Well, heaven be thanked my first love failed, 'tis heaven be thanked, all first loves do! This was a sentiment I could not echo, for at that time it seemed to me that if I were separated from my fair unseen sweetheart my life would be stale, flat, and unprofitable. The correspondence was kept up all the summer and autumn, but in December there befell what was to mean awful calamity. Miss Creven did not write, I sent imporing letter after letter, but no response gladdened me. "Has she jilted you?" said Uncle Dick, heartlessly, when he noted my pale face. In truth, I could not sleep nor eat; I was consumed with fear and anxiety. What could have befallen her? I endured it for just ten days, and then I packed my satchel and went to Boston. Bah! what a day it was when I arrived there! It had snowed a little, and then a thin, cold rain began to drizzle down despairingly. The weather suited me better than the garish splendor of the hotel, and I wandered forth that evening, half unconsciously wending my way toward the street in which Miss Creven boarded. I found myself opposite the house. From an upper window a light struggled faintly between the closed shutters and thrilled me through and through. Perhaps she was there, ill and alone, uncared for, save by the mercenary landlady, or worse still, by a slatternly servant. I went up the steps and rang the bell. A slip of a girl opened the door to me, and I handed her my card, saying mechanically, "Ask Miss Creven if she will see me." I trusted that the name John Bell would perhaps lead her to suppose that I was a cousin or the father of her friend. The slip of a servant maid looked at the card and then at me. "Frances Creven?" she said interrogatively. "Yes," I replied. Then I took the card, ran my pencil through the engraved name, and scrawled my illegible signature below it. The servant took the card again, skurried away, leaving me standing there in the cold dark entry. It was several minutes before she re-appeared, and then it was only to say in a sing song tone, "Three flights up; first door to the right." I went up the tree flights and rapped at the first door to the right. A voice called out, "Come in." I entered a medium sized, plainly furnished room that was replete of tobacco, with which was mingled a faint smell of whisky. There were two arm chairs, a large table, covered with faded cloth, and an old-fashioned horse hair lounge, from which, as I entered a young man rose. He was thin and hollow-eyed, and a beard of several days' growth made him look, to say the least, unkempt. "Mr. Bell, I presume," he said, offering me his hand and then drawing up a chair for me. "I have called to see Miss Creven," said I. "Have you, indeed?" he replied in a nasty, sneering way. "I flashed through me at once. It was her husband! She had deceived me! "May I ask if you are any relation to Miss Jane Bell of Dundas, Washington County, New York, postoffice box 462?" he continued in the same sneering way. I stammered and stammered, tried to lie, and nearly choked myself to death. I wanted to be diplomatic; I wanted to shield her from his anger. "Who the devil are you, anyway?" he exclaimed. "I—I am John Bell." I answered "and I have called to see your sister. Is she ill?" "I haven't any sister," said he nonchalantly; "that is, I am my own sister, and she has just escaped pneumonia. The truth flashed upon me. "You are an impostor, sir!" I exclaimed. "Your sister doesn't think so," said he complacently. "I haven't any sister," said I, in my turn. He wheeled sharply about: "Who is Miss Bell then?" "I am all the Miss Bell that exists," I answered grimly. "What!" he exclaimed; "you are the petted darling who wanted to be a poet and essayist, and Lord only knows what all? You are the only child of wealthy parents? You are the lovely creature who sits in a pink boudoir and writes verses with a gold pen and on perfumed paper?" "Yes," I said desperately. Screven dropped into a chair roared. "A sell all around!" said he. And then he laughed until he cried, while I quietly stole away back to the hotel, a sadder but a wiser man. CHARLES DUNNING. Household Hints.

Bed clothing packed away for summer should have a sprinkle of camphor gum. Bugs will get in where moth balls won't. Before putting away old heavy winter boots soak them in water and thoroughly rub into them coal-oil. From this treatment they will emerge next December soft and pliable.

In boiling dumplings or any kind of paste the covering should never be removed nor water allowed to cease to boil until the paste is done, when it should be taken off or it becomes soaked and heavy.

If you are troubled with wakefulness compose your mind carefully before lying down in bed, banish all business thoughts, and count slowly to yourself one hundred. In nine cases out of ten you will not reach eighty before consciousness is lost in slumber.

NITRATE OF SODA FOR STRAWBERRIES.—An old strawberry grower says that wonderful strawberry can be grown on poor, light sandy soil by applying in April 500 pounds of nitrate of soda to the acre.

Every kind of vegetable intended to be eaten whole should, when put to boil, be placed at once in boiling water. When fresh, it is required to produce a pulpy food, as in the making of soup, the vegetables should be put in cold water, and the heat raised to the boiling point gradually.

OAT MEAL BLANC MANGE.—A delicious blanc mange is made by stirring two heaping teaspoonfuls of oatmeal into cold water, then stir with a quart of boiling milk, four and one half cups of sugar, and one half cup of cream. Boil for two hours. Then wash twice in pure water and once in sweet milk; add salt. The preparation of lime contains nothing injurious.

TO KEEP MILK SWEET.—The experimenters continue to announce means of keeping milk sweet. Among the latest we find the following: (1) A spoonful of horse radish in a spoonful of a pan of milk will keep it sweet for several days, even in the open air or in the cellar.

TO CLEAN SILKS, SATINS AND RIBBONS.—Take one-half quart of a pound, soft water quarter of a pint, mix thoroughly. Apply to the material to be cleaned as it lies on the table, and brush it well, more especially in the soiled places, with a nail-brush; rinse it then by dipping it in cold water having provided two or three basins for the purpose, and dipping in each one after the other so as to cleanse it thoroughly; then hang it on a line to drain. As soon as the dripping is ceased, iron it on the wrong side. After this treatment it will not be found to look greasy or become stiff after the ironing.

Big Words, and how not to Make use of Them.

In promulgating your eostetric cogitations, or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable, philosophical, or physiological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity.

Let your conversational communications possess a clarified conciseness, a compact comprehensibility, coalescent consistence and a concatenated cogency. Eachew all conglomerations of flatusulent garrulity, jejune babblement and asinine affectations.

Let your extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and vivacious vivacity, without rhodomontade or thronical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pompous prolixity, psittacous vacuity, ventriloquist verbosity and vaniloquent rapidity.

Shun double entendres, prurient jocosity, and pestiferous profanity, obscuring or apparent. In other words, talk plainly, briefly, naturally, sensibly, truthfully, purely. Keep from "slank"; don't put on airs; say what you mean; mean what you say; and don't use big words!

Probably no new development will more surprise the public, than to learn the secret of success of certain leading physicians, when they have a difficult case of throat or lung disease that baffles their scientific skill, they prescribe Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, having it disguised in a prescription bottle, with their own directions and name attached. The patient is cured, and they get the credit.—Tribune. Trial bottles free at Rhynas' drug store. Large size $1. (2)

Going to His Grave. There he goes again direct to a saloon and pours down another heavy draught of strong drink, not so much because his appetite demands it, but for the artificial buoyancy it produces—the after effects of which leave him more miserable than before; it is this dreadful practice that is daily sending thousands to their graves. A remedy for all this is found in the true friend of temperance,—the best and purest of all medicines,—Electric Bitter. Sold by Geo. Rhynas at 50 cents.

A cough or cold contracted in the month of April is not speedily arrested in liable to stick to one during the whole summer. Dr. Carson's Pulmonary Cough Drops speedily cure Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pain and oppression of the Chest, and all Throat, Chest and Lung affections. In large bottles at 50 cents. Geo. Rhynas, agent for Goderich.

Left on the shelf. Mr. Thos. Clayton, Shelburne, Ont., writes: "I have been suffering with a lame back for the past thirty years, and tried everything I heard of without success. Not long ago I was persuaded to use St. Jacobs Oil. I purchased a bottle, and, strange to say, before I had used it all, I was perfectly cured. I can confidently recommend it to any one afflicted. No one can speak too highly of its merits." Mr. W. E. Weekley, also of Shelburne, thus mentions a matter of his experience: "I have been a sufferer with rheumatism for years. I was laid up with a severe attack short time ago, and I can truly say that St. Jacobs Oil produced the quickest relief that I ever experienced. I cheerfully recommend it to every sufferer."

The Doctor's Last Easy Recruit. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882. I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much against my wish, to try a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to expect, she was completely cured. The name of this remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice. (Leading M. D., Evansville, Ind.) Bottle free at Rhynas' drug store. OUR TERMS TO AGENTS. We do not care to sell our interesting, but very persons who really mean business, and intend to act honestly and squarely as our agent, giving either the whole or as much time as he can spare to the business, can procure our valuable outfit, worth $50, by sending us 50 cents as a guarantee of good faith. Please remember, we do not want to sell the outfit at 50 cents unless you intend to use it for one year.

A PRESENT OF $100 CASH. We have some fair-hearted agents in existence. Oh, it's all nonsense; no one can ever take 1,000 subscribers. Well, let us see. A good looking, working agent, if he takes 10 subscribers per day, will require between three and four months to secure 1,000; but we can give you a list worth something, and which will convince you that we are not offering these prizes without knowing what agents can do. Write to us for two outfits. Get your brother, sister or friend, if necessary, and let us hear from you. If you choose you may have a down payment on your outfit, and we will send you a list of names to get you started. In this way you can take a town or village and divide it up into the number of agents and your control, insuring that they must not fail to get their share. But this is not all. In order to stimulate your sub-agents, we agree that
