Her death alone sits near, and troubles me, to all else, hardened conscience. The Writ of Habeas Corpus

In the month of February of the year following that which witnessed the successful establishment of Sir Harry Compton's infant son to his magnificent patrimony, Mr. Samuel Ferret was travelling post with all the speed he could command towards Lancashire, in compliance with a summons from Lady Compton, requesting, in urgent terms, his immediate presence at the castle. It was wild and bitter weather, and the roads were in many places rendered dangerous, and almost impassable, by the drifting snow. Mr. Ferret, however, pressed onward with his habitual energy and perseverance; and, spite of all elemental and postboy opposition, succeeded in accomplishing his journey in much less time than, under the circumstances, could have been reasonably expected. But withity as, for those slow times, he pushed on, it is necessary I should anticipate, by a brief period, his arrival at his destination, in order to put the reader in possession of the circumstances which had occasioned the hurried and pressing message he had received. Two days before, as Lady Compton and her sister, who had been paying a visit to Mrs. Arlington at the Grange, were returning home towards nine o'clock in the evening, they observed, as the carriage turned a sharp angle of the road leading through Compton Park, a considerable number of lighted lanterns borne hurriedly to and fro in various directions, by persons apparently in eager but bewildered pursuit of some missing object. The carriage was stopped, and in answer to the servant's inquiries, it was replied that Major Brandon's crazy niece had escaped from her uncle's house; and although traced by the snow-tracks as far as the entrance to the park, had not yet been recovered. Mrs. Brandon had offered a reward of ten pounds to whoever should secure and reconduct her home; hence the hot pursuit of the fugitive, who, it was now supposed, must be concealed in the shrubberies. Rumors regarding this unfortunate young lady, by no means favorable to the character of her relatives as persons of humanity, had previously reached Lady Compton's ears; and she determined to avail herself, if possible, of the present opportunity to obtain a personal interview with the real or supposed lunatic.

The men who had been questioned were informed that only the castle servants could be allowed to search for the missing person, either in the park or shrubberies; and that if there she would be taken care of, and restored to her friends in the morning. The coachman was then ordered to drive on; but the wheels had not made a dozen revolutions, when a loud shout as some distance, in the direction of the park, followed by a succession of piercing screams, announced the discovery and capture of the object of the chase. The horses were urged rapidly forward, and ere more than a minute had elapsed, the carriage drew up within a few yards of the hunted girl and her captors. The instant it stopped Clara Brandon, liberating herself by a frenzied effort from the rule grasp in which she was held by an athletic young man, sprang wildly towards it, and with passionate entreaty implored mercy and protection. 'The young man, a son of Mrs. Brandon's by a former husband, immediately seized her again; and with fierce violence endeavoured to wrench her hand from the handle of the carriage-door, which she clutched with desperate tenacity. The door flew open, the sudden jerk disengaged her hold, and she struggled vainly in her captor's powerful grasp. 'Save me! save me!' she frantically exclaimed, as she felt herself borne off. 'You who are, they say, as kind and good as you are beautiful and happy, save me from this cruel man!'

Lady Compton, inexpressibly shocked by the pitious spectacle presented by the unhappy girl—her scanty clothing soiled, disarrayed and torn by the violence of her struggles; her long flaxen tresses flowing disorderly over her face and neck in tangled dishevelment; and the pale haggard, wild expression of her countenance—was for a few moments incapable of speech. Her sister was more collected: 'Violet,' she instantly remonstrated, 'do not permit this brutal violence.' 'What right has she or any one to interfere with us?' demanded the young man savagely. 'This girl is Major Brandon's ward, as well as niece, and shall return to her lawful home! Stand back,' continued he addressing the servants, who, at a gesture from Miss Dalston, barred his progress. 'Withstand me at your peril!'

'Force her from him?' exclaimed Lady Compton, recovering her voice. 'Gently! Gently! I will be answerable for her safe custody till the morning.' To be continued.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

You may carve it on his tombstone. You may cut it on his card. That a young man married is a young man married.

There is a very well known business man in this country—so well known that if I should name him you would instantly recognize him—who goes about preaching the doctrine that there is nothing in the world hampers a man's success like marriage.

His father he says, would have been a successful capitalist instead of a poor man, if he hadn't gone and hampered himself by marrying.

(Where he would have been under these circumstances, this misogynist incidentally neglects to say.)

His favorite quotation is "He travels fastest who travels alone."

Now if this great man were the only man who felt and talked this way, no harm would be done.

But unfortunately, he is only a type—one of many. Everywhere young business men are hearing the cynical warnings—"Don't hamper yourself by marrying young—He travels fastest who travels alone."

If I were a minister, I think I should preach a sermon on that subject with that line for my anti-text—"He travels fastest who travels alone."

Perhaps he doesn't. I'm not so sure myself, but I won't try to dispute that now.

But stop a minute, and think—he may travel fastest who travels alone, but how much interest and amusement does he get out of the journey, compared with the man who is content to retard his heading speed by a companion.

Fast travel is the obsession of the twentieth century. And fast travel, not only for the sake of getting anywhere quickly and of saving time, but for its own sake.

People seem to have somehow gotten the notion that the only way to find happiness is to run her down in some high speed outfit—a seventy-horsepower automobile or a Mauretanian, or a mile-a-minute limited or an airship.

That happiness should ever climb into the old-fashioned "buggy" or slip out of the hedges and grasp hands with the footlapper, and trudge along with him to the journey's end, seems an impossibility to the typical twentieth century man.

Personally, I have a kind of notion—of course it may be quite unfounded—that happiness doesn't like to be hurried too much and that she rather fancies dwelling with people who know the meaning of such grand old-fashioned words as "serenity" and "tranquillity."

He travels fastest who travels alone—yes, if there is nothing that you care about on this journey but thundering along at a mile a minute rate, with a cloud of dust behind, that may be an unanswerable argument against matrimony, young man.

But if by any chance, you are one who cares something for the beauties by the way, remember that even slackened speed may be compensated by having someone to enjoy those beauties with you, to listen with you to the robin's song in the spring and to love the richness of harvest and the scarlet flame of the maple in the fall when fall must come, to exult in the freshness of the morning and to understand the grandeur of the setting sun when it must be evitable.

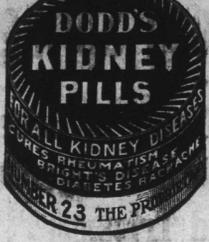

Of course, I do not like to see young people rush into foolish marriages which they will soon be persuading some judge to untie.

But quite as little do I like to hear too much of this talk about putting off matrimony until the man is thirty or thirty-five, until he can supply his wife with all the luxury her father's home has gradually acquired, until marriage means no sacrifice at all.

If I had a son, I should pray that he might meet the right girl and be married, at least by the time he was twenty-five.

Perhaps he might not travel so fast as if he travelled lone, but I'd be willing to risk that for him.

The Grand Lodge of the Society of United Fishermen held their annual meeting in the British Hall last week. Owing to the absence through illness of the Worthy Grand Master, Rev. Canon Pilot, and of the Deputy Grand Master, Bro. Geo. A. Devey, the chair was taken by Bro. Jas. Phillips, G. Chief Officer, The Grand Secretary, Bro. J. A. Clift, presented the annual returns and report for the year ending 31 Dec. 1910, showing the Order to be in a most flourishing condition. A net gain of two lodges and 121 members was the result of the year's work; the report also showed that there is now 3,670 members; the receipts for the year amounted to $8,000.00; paid for sickness and death, $2,400; and accumulated funds of the Order to be $15,000.00. There is at present 38 working lodges, and three more will be instituted in the near future. Thirty Lodges own their halls and the value of them amounts to about $30,000.

The Grand Master, Rev. Canon Pilot, who has held that office for over 30 years, asked to be relieved of the office owing to continued ill health and the fear that he would be unable to give to the Society the services and attention such an important office requires. The Grand Lodge in accepting his resignation regrets very much that his health was such that he could not fulfil the duties of Grand Master. It was resolved that he be asked to permit himself still to be associated with this Grand Lodge and that he still be an honoured officer with the title of Past Worthy Grand Master.

A tribute of respect was paid to our late Purser, Bro. E. H. Devey; he has held that office for seventeen years, and been an officer in the Grand Lodge for over 27 years, and a resolution of sympathy and regret at his untimely and early death was directed to be sent to his relatives and recorded in the Minutes of this Grand Lodge.

The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:—

- Worthy Grand Master—Bro. J. A. Clift, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Chief Officer—Jas. T. Phillips, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Second Officer—Bro. A. Edgewood, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Secretary—Bro. J. C. Phillips, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Purser—Bro. W. H. Goodland, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Chaplain—Bro. Geo. Howse, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Quarter Master—Bro. Jas. Rendell, P.M.
- Worthy Grand Look Out—Bro. W. McGilvray, P.M.

The Worthy Grand Master then appointed Past Master Geo. A. Devey his Deputy for the coming year.

Appropriate addresses were made by the Worthy Grand Master, Bro. J. A. Clift and the officers elect, after which they were installed in regular form. Under the guidance of the new officers the Grand Lodge is looking forward to a year of aggressive and good work in the interest of the Order.

Makes Hair Grow.
McMurdo & Co. have an invigorator that will grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.

The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember, it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

SALVIA is sold by McMurdo & Co. under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop Falling Hair and Itchiness. Sold in ten days, or money back. Large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" (Latin for sage) is on every bottle.

STAR BILLIARD MATCH.—Saturday night another game in the Star tournament was played. Mr. A. Perks (plaid) beat M. King (spot) by 23 points. Spot is now 118 ahead.

FOR THE FESTIVAL.—The additional exhibit for the Festival of Empire were shipped on board the S. S. Durango this evening for London, about 50 tons in weight. The rest will go by the S. S. Tobasco.

Houses Must Not Close on Wednesday.

On Friday the Premier intimated that the Legislature would be closed on Wednesday next. This is somewhat strange in view of the introduction of Mr. Morrison's Early Closing measure at the same sitting, which on that day was read a first time.

The closing of the Legislature on Wednesday leaves but two days to the House of Assembly and the Legislative Council to do what would take in ordinary course a minimum of over a week, viz., one day for second reading; one day for the committee stage and report; one day for the third reading in the House of Assembly.

This is a minimum under the rules which, however, have been suspended. This suspension will of course enable several stages to be taken at one sitting, but it must necessarily limit the discussion, which is not desirable on a question of this gravity and importance. Thus far we have only dealt with the proceedings in the House of Assembly. The like stages in the Legislative Council would in the usual course take four days.

If this measure is to receive adequate and reasonable consideration in the two houses, we see no other course before the Premier but to withdraw his notice to close on Wednesday next, and to give a fair opportunity for proper deliberation on a measure which has not yet been placed before the House in the express terms and printed form of a bill, although it was as a fact, read a first time, as is not unusual, before it had taken any shape and form.

With so much to be done in connection with this bill, which should not be rushed through the two houses without ample discussion, we see no other course for the Government to pursue but to change their plan of closing on Wednesday, to try to satisfy the thousands of the voters of two divisions of the electoral district of St. John's.

If the Government refuses to take this course, they will force our legislators in a dilemma, which it is the duty of the Government to avoid, viz., (1) to rush the bill through the two houses in two days without adequate discussion; (2) to reject the bill without adequate consideration by direct vote or by referring it to a committee or commission for report.

Both courses are objectionable, unfair to legislators and discourteous to promoters and publicans alike. It would seem therefore that the Legislature cannot be closed on Wednesday, if justice is to be done to the petitioners, publicans and legislators.

Latest Sealing News Is Better --Except Eagle and Algerine All Have Good Trips.

The sealing news which came in Saturday afternoon and night and last night utters a different complexion on the aspect of this spring's voyage, and if the ship's progress in the same ratio as during the last few days, the sealing voyage from the front of the country will be an excellent one. Already the ships have the aggregate well over 200,000 seals, old and young, and it is not unlikely that a ship will arrive here by the last of the month.

Reports from the Gulf had not been received for some time past until Saturday night when Messrs. Bowring Bros. learned that the Harlaw was jammed and that no seals were reported.

At 4.30 p.m. Saturday the following was received by Messrs. A. J. Harvey & Co. from Capt. Job Kne, of the Bellaventure:—

"Still same catch; searching for more seals."

A message from her Friday evening gave her catch as 19,000.

Mr. R. B. Job had this wireless from the Beothic at 3 p.m. Saturday:—

"Friday, 8 p.m., on board and stowed down 31,000; struck small patch to-day within 40 miles of previous patches; all cut now; difficult to locate being in small patches."

(Sgd.) G. BARBOUR.

A message was then received from the Neptune which read:—

"Prospects poor; took 300 to-day. Erik has 8,000."

At 2 p.m. yesterday Messrs. A. J. Harvey & Co. had the following wireless from Capt. Parsons of the Bonaventure:—

"Bonaventure, Saturday, 2 p.m., 6,000 old and young hoods on board; few more panned; Newfoundland and Aurora close by, all doing well."

Capt. Jacob Kean, of the Adventure, shortly afterwards wired them:—

"Saturday evening—Report 20,000 young hoods on board, struck hoods to-day and captured a few families; Beothic, Florizel and Neptune in company."

The Bellaventure wired Saturday night:—

"Struck hoods and captured a few families; gale of W. S. W. wind, no other ships in sight."

Latest from the Bruce

Mr. H. D. Reid, Vice-President of the R. N. Co., received a message from Capt. Drake at Louisburg this morning saying that the Dominion Coal Cos. diver had been engaged at Sydney and would go to the wreck this afternoon in order to recover the balance of the baggage.

There was a report about town this morning that the Reid Nfd. Co. had already placed an order with a shipbuilding company in the Old Country for two new steamers for the Gulf service. When asked about this rumor Mr. H. D. Reid said that it was not correct and that they had no time to give attention to such a project till the Bruce affair was disposed of.

When asked if it was true that the s.s. Beothic had been ordered in from the sealfishery by Job Bros. to take up the Bruce route, Mr. Reid said that Messrs. Job Bros. & Co. had offered the Beothic, but as her passenger accommodation was not sufficiently ample for the requirements, they had to decline the offer. The s.s. Glencoe is about the best boat that can be had in this country to do the work, said Mr. Reid, and to-day ship carpenters are at work on her at Port aux Basques strengthening her bows on the inside.

REACHED NEWTOWN.—The s.s. Stella Maris arrived at Newtown at 7.30 this morning, and sailed for the north at 8.30. No ice to prevent her reaching Twillingate.

The Carbonar train arrived here at 12.25 p.m. to-day bringing J. R. Goodson, M. Hawker, Rev. J. J. St. John, Thos. Smyth, Rev. Mr. Keelake, J. W. Murphy, Mr. McDougall, J. Fenelon and 20 others.

The Allan Service.

The s.s. Mongolian was scheduled to leave Liverpool Saturday for this port, and will be followed on the 8th April by the Carthaginian. She in turn will be followed by the Pretoria, one of the best ships in the Allan service, which is scheduled to leave Liverpool on the 22nd April. Our assertion that this ship was to be put on this service was denied by the Chronicle at the time. Of course the Telegram was right, as it usually is.

Where Salaries Go.

On Friday Mr. Clapp asked the Minister of Customs, if the salaries voted last session for a clerk to the Registrar of Shipping and for the Sixth Clerk, to H. M. Customs, both vacant, had been drawn; and if so, by whom.

Of the fourth clerk's salary, part is paid to Mr. Noonan for doing extra work. Mr. Alcock's salary as Surveyor of Shipping, goes back to the Treasury. Fifty dollars is paid to a Mr. Crocker for doing part of the office work.

Single-Letter Blunders.

The inhabitants of the coast town of Almeria, in Southern Spain, have been enjoying themselves hugely of late at the expense of a lady who has been involved in a law-suit as a result of her illegible writing. She sent a letter to a fruit-grower in the country asking him, at his earliest convenience, to forward by train to her address one thousand "naranjas" (oranges). The person to whom the letter was addressed construed the badly-written order as being one for a thousand "naranges" (orange trees). Imagine the surprise and feelings of the fair Almerian when twenty heavily-laden wagons stopped next morning at her front door, each one filled with young trees, already for planting! The lady refused to pay for them, because she said it wasn't her fault if the man was unable to read. The merchant, on the other hand, declared it was her duty to pay, as he wasn't to blame if customers couldn't write legibly. Experience is a dear school, but that signora learned what a big difference one little letter may make in a word.

The difference was equally evident to the famous professor of Greek at the University of Edinburgh, whose students rubbed out the initial letter "c" from the class-room notice, so that it read: "Professor Blackie will not meet his asses to-day"; and also to the students who beheld the amended and final decree: "Professor Blackie will not meet his asses to-day." The genial professor used to deny the authenticity of this story, when Mrs. Blackie would laughingly say, "It was just what you would have done."

This incident reminds one of the amusing blunder made by a servant-girl who had been dismissed from her situation, and seeking to soften the heart of an obdurate mistress, begged to be reinstated in her service in a letter which began with the startling salutation, "Dear Madam!" Even such a term of endearment, however, failed to produce the desired effect.

Most will have heard of the ludicrous mistake, due to the difference of a letter, that was made by an old man who uttered the somewhat astounding complaint that he had suffered for years from "ulsters" in the stomach.—T.H.Bits.

Latest From the Bruce.

The Reid Nfd. Co. received a despatch from Louisburg at 4 p.m. Saturday saying:

"Bruce in the same position. Water very smooth. Nine bags and nine packages of mail recovered. Expect to save a lot more before night."

At 6 p.m. Purser Mitchell sent the following from Louisburg:

"William Pike, of St. Lawrence, 25 years old and married, drowned. Passenger list book recovered. No one named Shea on the list. His name as one of the drowned was given us by passengers yesterday before the book was recovered. Doubtful now if more than one drowned."

Capt. Delaney and A. D. Brown, of the Reid Nfd. Co., left here at 3 p.m. Saturday in the s.s. Dundee for Port aux Basques, where they will join the s.s. Glenora for the scene of the wreck. The water is calm and it is likely that a good deal of salvage work will be done and that all the mail bags will be recovered. The Reid Nfd. Co. so far has received no particulars as to how the ship was lost and what circumstances led up to her going on the rocks. Capt. Drake refused to give out a statement to the newspapers at Louisburg, and in lieu of it there are all kinds of stories circulated. Carbonar people who arrived in town Saturday night informed the Telegram that no man named Shea went out from that town to join the Bruce last week.

Powerful Sermon.

Last night the Rev. J. K. Curtis, B.A., delivered a most powerful temperance sermon. After reading 2nd chapter prophecy of Habakkuk, and quoting the words, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink," he continued by saying: "This is the inspired word of the Almighty God, but a more effective sermon might perhaps be preached if a man, the creator of the Almighty, but debauched and shattered and helpless through rum, could stand before the congregation. The day had gone past when temperance workers, such as those leading in the present struggle, can be sneered at as fanatics. We have reached a stage when nearly all look upon strong drink as a curse. It is banished from the hospitals and the sick room as no good, and from an economic standpoint it is an unmitigated evil. The details advanced to prove this point were most convincing. At the House of Assembly the statement was made by the Premier that we spend a million dollars annually for liquor. The preacher believed we spent more than that, for when adulterated with drugs and water, or added, hundreds of gallons were sent into consumption, for a drinking man had told him that in one shop you would get the genuine thing, but in another "a glass that would burn the stomach out of you." Why do men get suddenly mad and destroy all before them? This million dollars would give 3,000 men $1.20 every day. The $21,000 spent in food in a week and in clothes and furniture would soon alter the condition of things in the drinker's home of the city. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States says it is illegal to grant licenses to men to sell that which will wreck and destroy their fellowman. The united churches of this city demand the passing of a measure to close saloons at 6 o'clock. Over five thousand electors had hurried in a fortnight to say we want the temptation taken out of our midst for the sake of weaker fellowmen and to shield our boys. He instanced two cases of the power of the drink habit which brought tears to many eyes. Lincoln vowed he would strike the slave traffic hard and he did, and he, the preacher, wanted to strike this liquor business hard. For himself he was something like the little woman who was asked what she weighed? In reply she said, "Under ordinary circumstances I may weigh 95 lbs., but when I'm mad I weigh a ton"; and when the members of our churches, led on by their spiritual directors, get mad about the suffering caused by strong drink, then we shall see how much they count. The representatives of the people must give what is now demanded, and he trusted the day was not far distant when the demon would be throttled and destroyed forever from God's fair earth.—Con.

Strong Temperance Sermons.

Another strong temperance sermon was preached by the Rev. Father O'Callaghan, at St. Patrick's Church, last night.

He said that St. John's would be an ideal city if the people would give up the liquor drinking which was the cause of most of the crime and poverty. The rooting out of the liquor evil would be the panacea for all those ills. The drunkard could not give up liquor as long as he could get the liquor. He had seen in this city cases where children and the mother were at home in cold, rags and hunger while the father was out in the saloon, satisfying his brutish appetite. The money that the poor wife and children should have was going into the coffers of the saloon keepers while the victims had to lie on a bed of straw and ate old crusts and bones. Last Sunday week, said Father O'Callaghan, I visited six houses and in each found the father lying in bed with a bottle of rum under his pillow, half dazed from the effects of the spree of the night before. A man like that goes below the nature of the brute and cares not for God, for wife or children. How could it be expected that the children of such fathers would be anything but drunkards. At the finish the preacher said—"Close the saloons in Newfoundland week and in the gates of Hell." Pray that the petition now before the House of Assembly will become law.

AT THE CATHEDRAL.

Reading the text from the gospel of the day from St. Matthew on the "Multiplication of the loaves and fishes" at Mass yesterday Father O'Callaghan showed that it was symbolical of the Holy Communion in which Christ gave us His Own Body and Blood. Out of those who attended and approached the Holy Table on the Feast of the Annunciation just passed over ninety per cent. were women. The men's absence was remarkable. If they would give up the saloon (three and sundays. When a man wants to stay in a liquor saloon till closing hour he has no time or thought for the Church or the Feasts. There was a bill now before the House to close the saloons at 6 o'clock. He was pleased to see that so many people signed the petition. It would mean brighter and happier homes. He showed by quoting statistics how much is being spent on liquor. All the outports had now local option, nearly all the money—$3,000 a day—was spent by St. John's men, most of whom could not afford it, and were besides ruining "body and soul." His Grace the Archbishop was present.

No Pension for Her.

Yes! 'tis true I'm growing old; All silver threads, no more the gold. Are seen upon my brow to-day; My life and strength fade fast away— But no pension can I get To save me from the cold, the wet. 'Tis only old men can be paid— At least Sir Edward so has said.

I've reared a dozen boys, two girls With laughing eyes and bonnie curls; But all her gone, some 'neath the wave.

Some in the wars; the true the brave, No more are left, who cares for me. I'm but a woman, don't you see; To only men is pension paid— At least Sir Edward so has said.

My countrymen, and women too, 'Tis awful news, and yet it's true, Through all my life hard care I've borne.

To fit the boys that now I mourn To fight life's battles, now in age For me no help, no country's wage; 'Tis only old men can be paid A pension, so Sir Edward said.

Men, had ye mothers? did she love? Brood o'er your youth, like tender dove.

Put all aside, to give you joy, Her darling curly pated boy, And now that age has gripped her sore.

Do none of you care for her more? To her no pension can be paid— At least Sir Edward so has said.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

An Humble Suggestion for the King's Coronation.

An article on the King and industrial education, appearing in your issue of the 20th, cannot fail to be exceedingly interesting to any one who had the good of the coming generation at heart, and doubly so to any one who has followed the course of events and noted our poor efforts towards this object. Of course, it is to be always harping on the subject is to be put down as one having a "mission," and called a second "Mrs. Jellyby or Paradiggle"; it gives "rumor" also to say "there is a screw loose"; but look around for a moment and see the lack of industrial training, and the evils that follow in its trail. The issue is appalling. Times are ever changing, and in this century man must keep abreast of the times to be counted.

In the early and mid-Victorian age, to be in trade was by some looked down on, and the ironmaster and the master builder, and such like (if he had any advanced opinions) was looked upon as a second Wat Tyler, with particular designs against the Constitution. This idea was to a certain extent infectious, and percolated to the Colonies, so that the gentleman who had amassed a fortune from "old clothes" retired, and becomes "ipso facto" gentile; and to add a handle to his name—he was plain honest John Boote—he adopted the maiden name of his "mum," and he is now known as Jno. Henry Boote-Boote Esq., with a palatial residence, and a horror of trade; for at the very mention of it, he becomes hysterical, and the idea of sending his son to a trade-school grates him. Oh, no; his son must be either a doctor, lawyer or some other profession; and the consequence is, he in time becomes nothing, but perhaps a champion at tennis and decidedly disgusted with trade.

With the dawn of the 20th century times took an upward plunge, when steamboats refused to move by the mere wave of a perfumed glove, when cotters kicked against being twisted, at the approach of the "Earl of Beer," we came to the conclusion that skilled hands were wanted to dig the coal, to handle the throttle, to fashion the iron, to make the patterns, and hundreds of other things that would not be done by the "dual bow."

To-day the crying need for skilled labour is still more persistent. All over the world that shrill cry is heard, "Men of brains and experience wanted."

This is another of the Creator's work. He made the metal for man's benefit, and gave him brains to learn how to use these gifts. Kipling put into the mouth of Mac Andrew, when he sings this hymn, the idea we should all have in regard to these gifts:

"Methinks I see thy hand
In you connecting rod, oh God,
And in any place where man has had The chance to put those brains to use he has made good. Are we giving the chance to our future young men? Can we give them the chance to know the greatness of modern industrial training? Assuredly we can.
There is another evil, of not having an industrial institution in our midst, and that is the general discontent, that is a discordant note, in the lives of some young men. When a boy leaves school he usually expects to work and he nearly always drifts into some shop or office, and he is in a few days a young gentleman in appearance; in a few years he is dissatisfied; there is that inner craving for a change; he is in fact noting, and while in that state his life is a failure. Had he been a cooper, blacksmith, a moulder or any other trade, I'll wager his life would be sweeter. But he is say 27 years old, nearly too late to begin; and again, he would have to put away the white collar and perhaps these white hands of his would get black. Oh, monstrous the idea, not to be thought of; but if he had somewhere to go in his young days and see these things done by capable teachers his ideas would have been possibly totally different.
It seems ridiculous to say so,
but after four hundred years Newfoundland is in regard to the development of her resources only "shortened," and when only a few years ago copper and iron were found began to take "puff," but how about the time when she puts on "long dresses" will we be prepared to take our places beside her and guide the prodigious machines that will be wanted to get out the precious treasure that lie hidden away down in the very vitals; or will we have to send away to other places and bring in men to show us how, to fill the places our sons should have. "There's the rub," will we? or are we going to allow these things to go by, and send our young men to swell the already filled up profession, "The Law." I should suggest to any man who has a boy with a hankering after Blackstone to tell him the story of the English cheese-monger whose son wanted to be a lawyer:

"So you want to be a lawyer, Bob?"
"Yes, dad, I do." "All right, my son, you'll look fine on the back of a cabbage, but dad, lawyers never drove cabs."
"But dad, they do now, my son they got to, you know, Bob, lawyers eat and drink."

P.S.—The son now is a successful cutter and really and truly he is sometimes even dirty, shocking, isn't it? It was pleasant reading some time ago when we read that Mount Cashel was threshing oats by machinery, more signs of the times; will we in the next ten years have young men going in for this kind of farming, will they know how, Now for my humble suggestion.

Britain to-day is looking with long eyes towards the centre of our Grand Empire, and every where are British hearts swelling with loyalty to our Gracious Sovereign; he is the action of an illustrious line, and the trio that have gone before him are the envy of all nations, Albert the Good, Victoria the Great, and Edward the Peace maker; and this man, our King, has all the attributes of his illustrious ancestors. Britain to-day is holding out the hope that in time he will be one more added, and will make for our Nation a sublime quartette, and will give in calling him "George the Magnificent." All his subjects will rival one another in doing some thing great to memorialise his coronation; to my mind nothing would please His Gracious Majesty so much as for this Colony to erect a seat of learning in his honour, and would it not be a magnificent thing for that seat of learning to take the form of an Industrial College, and call it after His Majesty, surely nothing could be more appropriate; we would be honouring his studious proclivities and doing a gracious act towards his subjects, helping them to keep up the prestige of our grand nation.

The Government of this Colony could do nothing grander to commemorate his coronation, but failing the Government, Mr. Editor, I would suggest that every British heart in this Colony should dig down deep into his veins and raise it by voluntary subscription. But will we fer our sons' sakes?

Sermon on the "Annunciation."

His Grace Archbishop Howley preached at the R. C. Cathedral last night, being Sunday within the octave of the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Archbishop took his text from the 28 verse, 1st chap. of St. Luke: "Hail Mary full of Grace the Lord is with thee, blessed art thou among women." The sermon was a most instructive one, and the teaching of the Church on the reasons for honoring and praying to the Mother of God was explained in great detail by His Grace. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was afterwards imparted.

Flatrock Honors Father Clark.

On Saturday after last Mass deputations of men from Flatrock waited on Rev. M. J. Clarke, at Torbay, and presented him with a purse and the following address. The address was read by Joseph Maher, and the purse presented by Joseph Burke. Father Clarke replied at considerable length and warmly thanked the asputation and exhorted them to live always as Flatrock.

ADDRESS

Very Rev. and Dear Sir.—We, the people of Flatrock and your Parishioners, learn with profound regret of your departure from this Parish, and also from this country; we, therefore, take this opportunity of tendering you our most heartfelt and sincere sentiments of Reverence, Gratitude and Love.

We approach you with sentiments of Reverence for your holy Priesthood and for your many ministrations to our spiritual wants from the cradle to the grave, during the thirty-seven years of your missionary life amongst us.

We tender you our most sincere love, that is brought to our hearts by the cordial and sincere affection, manifested by you towards us in our constant intercourse with you. The memory of these happy days will remain with us forever.

We are animated with sentiments of gratitude for the heartfelt interest you have always taken in our temporal affairs, which have ever been a source of anxiety to you. You were ever indefatigable in your endeavours to bring about the temporal as well as the spiritual welfare of every member of your flock.

We therefore pray God to grant you many happy years in your new sphere of labour, and earnestly hope that you may have the good will and kindly co-operation of your people and that your life may be as happy

As he was about to retaliate, two men appeared on the scene and took charge of the assailant.

BIG DYNAMITE SHIPMENT.

The S. S. Durango brought 1,600 boxes of dynamite for the N. S. S. Coy. of Bell Island. While the ship was in the stream Saturday it was transferred to the schr. Diver Jack and is to-day being put on board the S. S. Mary to be taken to the Island.

A DANGEROUS OBSTACLE.

Eight in the centre of Plymouth Road there is a hole over 2 feet deep which is filled with water and is a danger to people passing that way at night. Several fell into it Saturday night and narrowly escaped broken limbs. The Council should fill it in at once.

HAND BADLY LACERATED.

Mr. C. Hamlin of the Free Press office, narrowly escaped losing his right hand this morning while at work at the press his hand became caught and was being gradually drawn in by the machinery when he managed to wrench it clear as another employe was endeavouring to stop the machinery. The hand was badly lacerated, and he had to go to a doctor for treatment.

Personal.

Messrs G. Nicholls and W. H. Kenzie who had been purchasing goods for their respective firms in England turned here Saturday by the S. S. Durango.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES BURNS, ETC.

May Run Here.

The Cunard S. S. Coy. have bought out the Cairns and Noble and Thompson Lines of steamers and during the coming summer will go largely into Canadian business. These lines have 27 ships, all fine boats, plying between England and the States and have 2 large steamers building. Last year one of their steamers the Carnarvon was here to take cargo to Europe, but the venture was not a successful one. It is likely that a steamer will be put on the route the coming summer to take some of our freight in fish, etc.

Painful Accident.

A very painful accident happened to Mrs. Charlie Campbell of Duckworth Street yesterday, which resulted in a fracture of her leg near the ankle joint. Mrs. Campbell was in the bath room and while standing up on the side of the bath tub, to reach to a cupboard above, her feet slipped and she fell to the floor with great force. When picked up it was found that she was greatly injured, and Dr. Tait was sent for who soon located the injuries, bound up the fractured limb, in addition to the injured leg her knee was badly bruised, and her system generally greatly shaken up.

Gold, Copper and Diamonds in Ungava

A London company, the Ungava Chartered Syndicate, which is projecting a railway diagonally across Ungava, have received encouraging reports from its engineers, who are all men of world-wide experience.

Pressure upon our columns forbids more than mention to-day of their statement that a large area of copper, apparently of high commercial value, has been located on the Labrador boundary.

Of more importance perhaps is the report that a great surface of the famous blue clay similar to the diamond bearing beds of South Africa, have also been found in high latitudes.

The Ungava Syndicate is also operating in the Porcupine gold field, where stamp mills are being erected, and its operations extend from Alaska to Nova Scotia, embracing coal areas and petroleum prospects, as well as the above-mentioned properties. — Montreal Standard, March 18.

Family's Windfall of 400,000 Dollars.

London, March 18.—An unexpected fortune of $400,000 has been left by a rich uncle to a working class family of three brothers and three sisters at Hull.

The estate is that of Mr. George Thomas Appleyard, managing director of Messrs. King & Co. ironmongers, of Hull, who died a few years ago at the age of 90.

His wife died about ten years ago and he had no family. The beneficiaries under his will are his nieces and nephews.

Their names are: Charles Marwood, Joiner; Samuel Marwood, tinsmith; George Marwood, fitter; Mrs. Lotherington, a widow, and Miss Polly and Sarah Marwood.

Mr. Charles Marwood is a middle-aged man, and for years he has been employed by the shipping firm of Messrs. Thomas Wilson & Co.

He stated in an interview that he had no children of his own, but he and his wife adopted the daughter of a relative whose wife died.

No plans for the future have yet been made for the lucky family, and the men are working as usual.

Man Found Dead on the Ice.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., March 17.—This morning the lifeless body of Geo. McCormack, aged 35, of Beaufort Island, was found on the ice between Georgetown and that Island. The body was badly cut up, the result of being dragged along the ice. He had evidently fallen out of the sleigh and was probably held to the reins until they broke. The horse was found struck in a snow bank on the Island shore.

McCormack was in Georgetown in the afternoon and left there in the evening to drive home on the ice. The body was found frozen to the ice.

Story With a Moral.

Miss Ella Haddes, a charming young lady of Philadelphia, gave a tea party to a few of her girl friends the other day. The atmosphere was a little chilly, Miss Haddes thought, so she told what she thought a rattling good joke of her own to liven things up a bit.

When Ella came to the point of the joke nobody present laughed, so she started things going she laughed at it herself—apparently—when suddenly her lower joint slipped out of joint and she had to go to a hospital to have it readjusted.

MORAL—Never laugh at your own jokes—let the other fellow take the chances.

FESTIVAL of EMPIRE

Over Three Hundred Buildings Being Erected at the Crystal Palace.

Everything in connection with the preparation of the Festival of Empire, the Pageant of London, and the All-British Exhibition of Arts and Industries is progressing most favourably, and there is not the slightest question that this is going to be the most wonderful and successful series of exhibitions ever organized in the Old Country.

Every day finds some new wonder introduced; every day sees an increased demand by British Manufacturers for space in the grand old building whereon to reveal their products. Already nearly 600 stands have been arranged for. Some of the Sections of the Industrial Exhibition are full, but in others there is still room for enterprising demonstrations which will at once be attractive and educational. One may form some idea of the vastness of this Industrial Exhibition when one knows that the Palace itself is nearly 30 acres in extent, and has over a mile of wide galleries.

Sir George Frampton, C. A., with the Earl of Plymouth and others prominently associated with the Festival, have decided upon a scheme of decoration for the interior of the building. It was no easy matter to fix upon the best methods of adorning the many bays, because the Palace is an engineering rather than an architectural triumph.

The announcement of the fact that King George V. will, in celebration of his Coronation, entertain 100,000 children at the Festival of Empire on June 30th, has done much this week to draw public attention to this colossal work of patriotism and philanthropy. At the same time it will come as a surprise to most people to learn that the Council of the Festi-

Cable News. Frozen to Death.

Special to Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, March 26.
A hundred and fifty persons, mostly Italian girls from the East Side, were crushed to death on the pavements, or smothered and burned in a factory fire on Saturday. This is the worst disaster that New York has experienced since the General Slocum was burned to the water's edge in 1904. One hundred and forty-one bodies were removed from the ruins. Fathers, mothers and relatives, mad with grief, stormed the police lines at the morgues all night, fighting with the officers in their frenzy. Among the bodies, fifty were burned beyond the semblance of the human form. These will share the common grave of the unknown dead. The regular morgue was too small to accommodate the dead, so the various charities were called on. The pier bore the bulk of the charred remains, the bodies being ranged in long lines on both sides of the pier. Nearly all the victims were employed by the Triangle Waist Company, on the ninth and tenth floors of a ten story building. How the fire started will perhaps never be known. The loss to property will not exceed $60,000.

LOUISBURG, March 26.
The s.s. Bruce is now lying a total loss on the rocks. Part of the rail is submerged. Some of the mail was secured yesterday. The divers go down to-morrow when a final survey of the wreck will be made. Thrilling incidents of the wreck are told by the passengers, who speak with feeling of the heroism of the brave Newfoundland seamen in rescuing the passengers.

Special Evening Telegram.
OCILLAMA, March 26.
The Dixie fier of the Atlantic Coast Railway went through the trestle over the Alapana River. Five coaches were derailed. The coaches are ten feet under water. Ten bodies have been recovered and many others are still below the debris in the river's bed.

Don't Become Barbaric
Special Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Whoever penned the letter in your issue of March 22nd, signed "True Freedom," is a heartless wretch, incapable of feeling sympathy for hearts that have ached and sorrowed for months.

The heralds of prohibition and local option ostensibly work in the interests of the community, but it may not be generally known that personal interests urge some of them, even members of Parliament, to extremes, to such extremes that they forget the feelings of the down-trodden poor. Members of Parliament have rowdy sons, we know ministers of religion who have rowdy sons, but while in their anxiety to have prohibition carried, make no attack on a poor unfortunate family, whose sorrow is not made easier by such reminders as appeared in your issue of the 22nd March. "True Freedom" we hope was not born in this country. There are many who come here from supposed civilized countries who would probably starve at home, but in this country they are looked upon by our poor deluded people as superior beings, whereas native born smells of inferiority. Work up your prohibition and your local option, but don't become barbaric. Whoever you are, "True Freedom," you should serve a twelve-month in jail for indulging in such cruel personalities. Those writers can clear out of the country when prohibition passes, as then we shall have heaven, where sickness and death shall no longer exist; doctors can go out of business and clergymen will no longer enjoy their snug livings, as all such are not needed in heaven.

Pleasant Sunday.
Mr. H. Y. Mott lectured on "Neighbours" at the P. S. A. meeting yesterday. The general acceptance of the term, viz., those who live in our street or next door to us. Mr. Mott applied it in a wider significance and made it include all mankind. A neighbourly feeling is another name for that charity which delights in bringing comfort to those in trouble and extends the brand of brotherhood to those in distress. The address was practical and instructive, and was beautified with occasional appropriate expressions in which men had risked their lives for their fellow men. He made a reference to Pike and Shea, who lost their lives on the s.s. Bruce in helping to launch the boat to save the passengers lives.

Wonderful Hens.
An American, spending his holidays in County Roscommon, Ireland, fell into conversation with a native, who was feeding his hens.

"I guess, Pat, you haven't as good hens here as we have in the States."

"Perhaps not," said Pat.

"I'll tell you," said the Yankee, "about a hen my mother had. She went out one day and ate a feed of corn, and returned and laid twelve eggs. She went out the next day and ate a feed of corn, and laid twelve more eggs. She went out the third day and returned and laid twelve more eggs. She went out on the fourth day and hatched seventy-two chicks out of thirty-six eggs. Now that is the kind of hen we have in the States."

"Well," said Pat, "I'll tell you about a half-blind hen my mother had. She ate a feed of sawdust, thinking it was oatmeal. She went to her nest and laid a plank twelve feet long. She ate more sawdust the next day, and again laid a plank twelve feet long. Again, on the third day, she ate more sawdust and laid another twelve foot plank. She sat on the three planks and hatched three kitchen chairs, a sofa, one table, and a mahogany chest of drawers. Now," said Pat, with a twinkle in his eye, "that is the kind of hen we have in Roscommon."—Tit-Bits.
