CHAPTER IX.

"I have had an accident," she said, haughtily, but her voice shook and Ralph's heart melted at her distress.

"So I see. Are you hurt?" he asked, trying to speak casually, but his anxiety displayed itself in his voice and in his eyes eloquently enough.

"No, no, I don't think so," she replied. "My mare was startled by a hare that ran under her nose, and bolted. The rein broke—and I was thrown." She endeavoured to laugh with self-contempt. "I don't think I am hurt—but I struck my head, and I feel—dizzy."

He nodded. "I know." "My mare—if she gets to the Court Lord Lynborough may hear of it and be alarmed."

"That's all right. I've got the mare," he said. "If I only had some water—Do you think you could come as far as the hut? Lean on my arm."

She rose, supported by his arm, and staggered a little. "Lean on me," he said, almost with an air of command. "That's right!

it's not far; but you know. You only want some water and a rest—Ah, you're not going to faint!" for her eyes closed.

"No, no!" she said, in a low voice, and evidently struggling womanfully with her weakness. "I think I must have hurt my foot; it's so painful."

"A sprain!" he said, more to himself than to her. "You must not walk on it. Put your hand on my shoulder."

"What—what are you going to do?" she asked.

"Carry you!" he said, simply. "I forbid you!" she said, the color rushing to her face.

"Not much use," he retorted, as quietly as before. "To walk on a sprain is a silly thing. It will mean a bed or a sofa for you for months, perhaps. Keep still."

Her pride would not permit her to struggle with him, and she suffered him, under mute protest, to raise her in his arms. As he strode off with her slowly but firmly, the pain nearly made her faint again and her eyes closed, her head drooped lower and lower until, against her will, though she strove with all her force to exert it, rested on his shoulder.

He carried her into the hut and put her on a chair. His heart was beating fast but not with the exertion of carrying her; though Veronica was no feather; every vein in his body was tingling; he saw the lovely white face as through a mist. Then he shook off the influence of her beauty. He went presently and, getting some water, put the cup to her lips.

She drank some, breathing slowly and painfully, and wiping her lips with her handkerchief. He took it from her and, dipping it in the water, bathed her brow, and in doing so, unconsciously drew her head till it rested against him. The faintness passed and she opened her eyes and looked up at him with a vague, uncertain dreaminess.

"Where—ah, yes, I remember!" she breathed. Then the color rushed over the ivory of her face. "Thank you," she said, coldly, but her eyes were shy, as they still met his as if she could not withdraw them. "I—I am sorry you should have so much trouble."

Ralph tried to say the conventional "No trouble!" but his voice died away in a mutter. She moved and winced.

"Your foot!" he said. "Let me see—"

"No, no!" she said, earnestly. "It's nothing—I can walk." She put her foot to the ground and he saw her lips writhe. "Oh, how shall I get to the Court!"

"I'll go for a carriage," he said. "But we must get that boot off first or else—"

"No, no," she said again; but, disregarding her refusal, he knelt down and untied the boot. The foot was

"Nerviline" Cures Cramps End Misery Instantly

NO REMEDY SO SPEEDY OR EFFICIENT.

A real cramp cure? Yes, a real one—in a twinkling the cramp is a dead one, and the last dose of Nerviline on the inside.

This isn't mere talk—it's a solid truthful fact. No other remedy—not a single one—will cure cramps so quickly and harmlessly as Nerviline. It hits the spot in a jiffy and eases a heap of misery.

"Last Saturday night my stomach felt like an infernal machine," writes T. P. Granger from Hartford. "I was awakened from a sound sleep and found myself suffering the worst kind of torture. I was so doubled up I could hardly cross the room. I had used Nerviline before for the same thing and took a real good dose. Once I felt the warm, soothing sensation of Nerviline in my stomach, I knew I was all right. It finished the cramps—just one single dose."

Sickness at night is rendered a nightmare of the past if Nerviline is handy. It may be earache, toothache or cramps. Nerviline in every case will cure at once and save calling the doctor. Nerviline is a family physician in itself. The large 30c. family size bottle, of course, is most economical. Small trial size costs a quarter. All dealers sell Nerviline.

already swollen, and as he endeavored to take off the boot she winced again. He took out his knife and cut up the back of the boot and slid it off gently and skillfully, and the small shapely foot, already beginning to swell, rested in the palm of his hand.

She leant back, but her eyes straggled on his bent head with a strange expression from which pride was quite absent.

"I seem born to give you trouble," she said, in a low voice.

Ralph started. He was like a man in a dream. Her helplessness, her sudden meekness, had wiped away the resentment which her past treatment of him had caused. His heart was aching with pity and something else that was at once a delight and a pain.

"No, no," he said, rather huskily. "It is fortunate I was near. I'll—I'll go for a carriage. But you must rest the foot. Let me bring another chair—no, there's a couch there. Stop!" as she tried to rise. He put his arms round her and, lifting her, though she struggled slightly and drew back, carried her to the couch. "You'll lie still; you won't attempt to get up while I'm gone?" he said, authoritatively.

"No, no," she said, in a low voice and with downcast eyes. "You will not be long?"

"I'll run—oh, I'll ride; I forgot the mare!" he said.

As he went to the door he met Burchett.

"Oh, Burchett! Miss Gresham's had an accident. I'm going for a carriage," he said, quickly.

Burchett frowned and glanced at Veronica. It was evident that he did not relish a tete-a-tete with the lady of the Court.

"Stay here," he said. "I'll go. The horse? I know, I saw it."

Ralph went back to the couch. Veronica opened her eyes and looked at him.

"You are back already!" she said, faintly.

"Burchett's gone," he said, awkwardly. "I'll go outside. If—if you want me—"

"Stay, please," she said. "I—I do not wish to be left alone."

CHAPTER X.

Ralph stood beside the couch, looking at nothing in particular and, for the first time in his life, at a loss for words. Veronica lay with her eyes closed, but her mind was busy behind them. She was marvelling at the fate which threw her and this man together, which persisted in placing her under an obligation to him; and the wonder of the fact was too great to allow of resentment. Besides, the woman in her clamoured for her admiration and gratitude. Her sex adore readiness and strength in the man; Ralph had been as prompt as he had been to save the puppy, and he had picked her up and carried her as if she had been a bundle of straw, and—almost as marvellous—he had done so with a self-possession, or, rather, a forgetfulness of self, that had robbed his service of offence. No gentleman could have been more gentle, or more completely lost himself in his anxiety on her account.

"I'm afraid your foot is painful," he said, at last finding his voice.

She opened her eyes upon him.

"Yes, it is! Do you think it will get better quickly? I should hate being lame, laid up, for any time."

"You will have to rest it," he said. "I think it all depends upon keeping quiet for a day or two. I once sprained my ankle when I was gold-digging, and because I kept hopping about on it, I had it bad for a long time."

"Gold-digging? You seem to have been a great many things," remarked Veronica.

Ralph nodded. "Oh, yes, I've tried all sorts of things. Jack-of-all-trades and master of none, as they say."

"And yet you found time to go to school," mused Veronica, absently.

"Yes," he said; and as he answered he reached a chair and sat down a little behind her so that he could see her face.

It was still pale and a little weary, but Ralph was struck by its loveliness as he had not been struck hitherto. Perhaps it was because it did not at that moment wear its usual expression of pride and hauteur; perhaps it was because Fanny had dined Miss Veronica's beauty in his ears. How graceful she was stretched out at full length, one white hand on her bosom, the other hanging by her side like a plucked lily. Watching her sent a thrill, a series of thrills through him, such as he remembered feeling when he had looked at a beautiful picture in a London picture-gallery into which he had strayed one day. He was conscious of a peculiar sensation of unrest, of disquieting wantfulness which was quite novel to him, and yet not altogether painful.

"Yes, my mother was very anxious about my schooling, and kept me to it. She was rather out of the ordinary. I think she had ideas above her station," as you would say. I remember she was fond of telling me it was easy to be a gentleman. I don't know what she meant, unless it was that any man could be a gentleman if he chose. She was ambitious on my account."

"Why did you say 'as you would say'?" said Veronica, as if she resented the personal application of the phrase.

Ralph laughed shortly. "I was only thinking of you as one of the 'gentry,'" he explained.

Veronica colored. "It was because you think I am very proud—and contemptuous towards my inferiors?" she asked in a low voice.

"Well, yes," he said, coolly. "Oh, it's all right! You've something to be proud of. It's a fine thing to be nobly born, I think; to be rich and powerful. I suppose I should be as proud as you—as the rest—if I were, say, the nephew of an earl."

Veronica tucked her hand under her cheek and turned to look at him.

"Will you move your chair so that I can see you, please?" she said.

He dragged the chair forward and gazed at the opposite wall as if he were having his photograph taken.

"Thanks. It hurt my neck, craning. So you think I am proud and contemptuous," she said, thoughtfully. "Do you know—suddenly—that I have not always been rich and powerful, as you call it? Do you know that I was once, and not so very long ago, quite, quite poor?"

"No," he said, turning to her with his interest shining in his eyes.

"Yes, I was," Veronica went on, vaguely thinking as she looked at him that his eyes and lashes were almost too good-looking for a man, and too expressive for a woman. "My father was very poor; so poor that there was not always enough food—"

As the pity and sympathy softened the surprise in his eyes, her voice grew lower and her own eyes grew misty.

"We lived in a poverty-stricken neighborhood, and found it hard to live even there. I have done needle-work—"

She held up her white hand with its taper fingers. "It was months after I had come to the Court before the marks of the needle wore off."

Ralph's eyes moved to the white fingers and clung to them.

The Definition of an Amateur.

Lyons, France, June 13.—The definition of an amateur has been agreed upon by a committee of the International Amateur Athletic Association. It follows closely the definition as prepared in the report of the special committee submitted to the federation held at Berlin in 1912 and embraces the following rules.

- 1.—An amateur is one, who competes only for the love of sport.
- 2.—Competing for money or any other pecuniary reward in any sport considered an athletic sport makes the competitor a professional in all sports considered as athletic sports.
- 3.—In the event of an amateur competing with or against a professional in any sport, not for money and other pecuniary reward, then the member of the federation to which the athlete belongs shall be the judge of such competitor's status according to its own rules, and its certificate as to the competitor's status shall be accepted by all members of the federation.
- 4.—In track and field athletic sports anyone who knowingly competes with or against a professional thereby ceases to be an amateur.
- 5.—One who teaches, trains or coaches in any sport for money or other pecuniary consideration is a professional, except, however, that so far as competition in his own country and there only, is concerned, as an employee or representative of the state or a school or other educational institution, who teaches, trains or coaches as an incident to his main vocation or employment, may or may not be a professional, as the members of the federation of the country of such person shall decide.

Twelve regulations are also set down as an interpretation of the fundamental rule, on the violation of which an athlete ceases to become an amateur.

They prohibit an amateur from making any wager in connection with the competition in which he is to participate, prohibit him from accepting certain kinds of prize or selling, pawning or giving away his prizes and provide for the manner in which he is to receive expenses.

Hero of Somaliland.

Gallant Briton Rewarded for Saving Corps.

Known to his comrades and friends as "Archer of Somaliland," Mr. Geoffrey Francis Archer, C.M.G., has been appointed His Majesty's Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief in the Somaliland Protectorate. Mr. Archer is the young civilian who last year when Acting Commissioner in the Berbera district of Somaliland, marched out with 20 men in the face of 2,000 Dervishes under the Mad Mullah, to the rescue of the remnant of the defeated and crippled Camel Corps. It seemed a forlorn hope, but the plucky young Englishman succeeded in reaching the survivors of the corps and in conducting a retreat without loss over 80 miles of the country, although burdened with the wounded men. Thirty-one years of age, he has been ten years in East Africa as district commissioner. Before going to Somaliland he was at work in Uganda and the East African Protectorate. His English home is at Alderbury, Suffolk. In 1908 he was commended for his services in the East African Protectorate, and for his bravery in Somaliland he was gazetted C.M.G.

Queer Rents.

Some of the rents which are King George's due from certain of his loyal subjects are "more honoured in breach than in the observance." It would certainly surprise King George and Queen Mary if the Lord of the Manor of Addington, in Surrey, should suddenly appear and plunk down on the Royal breakfast table the bowl of porridge which constitutes his yearly rent in acknowledgment of his Sovereign's overlordship.

Whether the present owner of the Foulis Estates in Scotland regularly pays his rent we cannot say, or whether the King, as is likely, shuts his eyes to the omission of the bucketful of snow which is his rightful due. As the estates are near Ben Nevis, there would certainly be no difficulty in obtaining a trainload of snow once a year, and probably even a bucketful in summer; but, as the King has little use for snow, probably the rent is never paid.

Quite a different and much more desirable rent is the one which has been charged to the tenant of Crenon, in Buckinghamshire, from time to time immemorial. The rent consists of a garland of roses every June, and, needless to say, the garland is duly forwarded, and is a thing of beauty, as it ought to be.

In September every year two faggots are paid at the Law Courts by the City Remembrancer as rent for lands held by the City Corporation from His Majesty the King. This official not only has to deliver the two faggots, but has to see that they are properly received and accept a duly signed and witnessed receipt for them, which is filed in the City's archives.

The authorities of the Isle of Portland make a queer sort of collection every November on behalf of his Majesty. It is called the "King's Half-penny," but, as a matter of fact, every cottager on the island pays a farthing, every cottage with a garden a half-penny, and every man with an acre of land or more three-pence. This is called "quit rent."

When the King lately went across the Channel to pay his state visit to Paris, he ought to have been attended across the briny ocean by the present representative of Solomon Attfield, to whom King John gave his lands on condition that, whenever he or any of his successors crossed the Channel, the said Solomon or his heirs should be in attendance to hold up the King's head when he was seasick.

His title was the Royal Headholder. However, as the last monarch to call for this service was Edward I., and, especially as his present Majesty is a sailor, it is very unlikely that the existing Solomon was called upon to perform his functions. Nevertheless there is no doubt that if the King so desired he could call up on the tenants of the Attfield estates to do the service by which they hold the tenure of their land.

If the King should pay a visit to Aylesbury, where the ducks come from—the inhabitants are supposed to supply him with three eels if it is winter, and with two fat geese if it is summer. If the King should visit Chichester, by ancient usage he ought immediately to demand a string for his crossbow; and if the King should be engaged in war and riding at the head of his troops, it would be incumbent upon the successors to the Corbet Estates, in Shropshire to provide him with a fitch of bacon every day!

Indian Isld. Notes

The schooners Carrie Steer and Rose arrived from St. John's to-day with a full load of provisions, etc., for this place and nearby settlements. After discharging, the Carrie Steer will proceed to the Labrador where we sincerely hope her stalwart and energetic captain will secure a bumper trip of fish.

Herring is plentiful and cod scarce. One man secured a few small ones out of his herring-net yesterday.

By the look of the number of new motor boats, fishermen are expecting a good voyage, and a big price for fish. We have no less than ten new motor boats, which will be employed in the fishery. By means of these motor boats fishermen will have a much better chance to attend their traps and get more especially in adverse winds, thus securing more fish.

We are glad to hear that the schr. Verbona, Capt. J. Hoddmott, is safe. Friends were anxious as it was feared she was out in the last southerly gale.

The s.s. Earl of Devon is at present in the harbor. She is a nice little steamer, and Capt. Carter knows how to rush her along. We have a public wharf alongside of which Capt. B. Barbour brought the s.s. Segona seemingly with ease. There is no doubt but Capt. Carter would do the same were he acquainted with the place. We sincerely hope when the Fogota takes the service again, for the benefit of all concerned, she will come in the harbor.

The Awkward Man.

The awkward man has much to bear; it isn't kind, it isn't fair to laugh at his mistakes; we ought to soothe him when he falls and bump his head against the walls, and makes his helpless breaks. His heart is good, his temper sweet, and if he has too many feet, and gets them all entwined, and if he knocks his forehead against the costly hanging lamp, we ought to cheer his mind. And if he steps on sister's gown, or pulls three yards of hangings down, or busts a rocking chair, we shouldn't shriek with stuporous mirth, but make him think that sterling worth is all for which we care. And if he sits up on the cat, or on the gasjet hangs his hat, why raise a glad tumult? Twice kinder it would calmly say that all he does is quite O. K., as taught by Colonel Hoyle. In fact, we ought to play his game to ease him of the flesh of shame that burns upon his face; we ought to tumble over chairs, and take a header down the stairs, and wreck the whole blamed place. His sufferings are great and deep; he hates himself till he can't sleep, when musing o'er his sins; so let us add not to his woe, nor, when he makes his blunders, throw a line of foolish grins.

Divorced Life

A New Kind of Artistic Temperament

"Ah, tra la la," said the artist with a shrug, as the train thundered onward toward New York. "I would go back to Europe to-morrow, never to return to America, if it were only possible."

"Why impossible?" inquired Marian sympathetically.

"It takes money," smiled the other. "If I may say so, I have canvases in my studio worth thousands of dollars. But markets are difficult to find. To-morrow, maybe next week, next year perhaps, I shall be rich. To-night I am little better than a pauper. Who knows when I shall dine like this again?" In the Lath quarter, one may dine for a franc, like a king for one franc fifty. But here it takes five times that amount even to dine decently. Sometime when you are in New York you must come to my studio and see my pictures."

arms of a tall, heavily-built man, who seized him with the stern words: "So you're here, are you, Glesner? This time you won't get away."

The artist struggled furiously for a moment, kicking at his assailant, protesting, and yielding only when handcuffs were snapped over his wrists. "Come on, Glesner," said his captor, taking hold of his arm. "Marian was struck dumb at the astounding occurrence. Before she had time to consider she ran after the two retreating figures.

"What's the matter? What has he done?" she demanded of the captor.

Marian was struck dumb at the astounding occurrence.

"But I did not mean to burden you with my woes," he continued. "Forgive me. You have been very good to me."

Next morning the artist re-appeared as the train was shooting like a cannonball through the dark tunnel into the City of Cities. He begged permission to carry her bag from the coach as the train came to a stand-still, and together they proceeded to the door.

"Are you expecting anyone to meet you?" he inquired.

She shook her head.

"Ah, an idea," he answered. "My sister will have breakfast waiting for me at the studio. It is but a short drive in the taxi. Why not run over with me? My sister will be delighted to have you share our fare. She paints, too. Will you come to our humble work-shop? May I not telephone my sister that you are coming?"

Marian considered for the fraction of a second. Why not grant the artist's hospitable request? A party of three in the studio of two struggling artists! Already strange and interesting doors were opening before her as though by magic. She answered in the affirmative.

"It's so good of you," he replied. "If you'll pardon me for a moment I'll step to a telephone." He put down the bags in the foyer of the Grand Central Station and started away. Half a dozen steps and he walked into the

"This is Glesner," was the answer. "We had him last month, but he got away from us. He's one of the oldest crooks and smoothest operators in the business. We was a long time getting the goods on him."

Marian was stunned. For several minutes she stood fastened to the spot. Incoherent bits of her conversation with the artist went thro' her mind. She shrank from the thought of what might have befallen her had she gone with him. She trembled at the narrowness of her escape and exulted over his fortuitous arrest in the nick of time.

The odd event cast a shadow over the glowing dreams of conquest with which she would otherwise have entered New York. What now? (To-morrow—Catching Glimpses of New York.)

Methodist Conference.

The 31st session of the Newfoundland Methodist Conference opened at George Street Methodist Church, St. John's, on Wednesday, the 24th inst. After the usual devotions President Wilson briefly but appropriately reviewed the work of the past year. The roll was called and 45 ministers and 25 laymen responded to their names. The election of the President resulted in the election of Rev. F. R. Matthews, B.A. Mr. Matthews is the talented son of the late Rev. Solomon Matthews. Rev. Charles House was elected Conference Secretary; Rev. Jabez Saint, S. T. L., Journal Secretary; Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., B. D., Statistical Secretary; Revs. R. H. Maddock and W. J. Morris, Assistant Secretaries.

The best thanks of the Conference were accorded to the retiring President and officers for their faithful services rendered during the year. The Conference Prayer Meeting was conducted by the President, Dr. Samuel T. Halfyard, Professor of Philosophy and Theology in Wesley University, Grand Forks, N. D., addressed the Conference in an interesting manner. Rev. Dr. Halfyard Delivers the Theological Lecture.

At 8 p.m. a large and cultured congregation assembled in George Street Church to hear the Theological Lecture given under the auspices of the Theological Union. Dr. Halfyard was the lecturer chosen for the occasion. His theme, "The Self-Revelation of God"—necessitated extensive research, but the lecturer dealt with it in a masterly way. By training Dr. Halfyard is eminently fitted to deal with such a subject. After six years in Boston University under the tuition of the late Borden P. Bowne, one of the greatest metaphysicians of this Western World, he graduated A.B. and St. B. Going to Germany he continued his studies in Philosophy at Munich and Berlin, where he finished the work required for his Ph.D. Besides filling for 8 years the chair of Philosophy and Theology at Wesley College, Dr. Halfyard has published two valuable books—"The Spiritual Basis of Man and Nature" and "Fundamentals of the Christian Religion" and has another ready for the publishers, entitled "The Cardinal Truths of the Gospel."

Dr. Borden P. Bowne on one occasion was heard to say, "The lecturer Halfyard, of Newfoundland, was one of the best thinkers who ever stood within his honored walls," and every loyal son of Terra Nova will extend to him his hearty congratulations. The short space at our disposal forbids anything like an extended report. We shall content ourselves, therefore, with a brief outline: The aim of the lecturer was to show that God had revealed himself in the world of nature and in human life. He ridiculed the agnostic theories of the latter part of the 19th century as being illogical and absurd.

(I) God has revealed himself through the Physical Universe.

The material world is a thought structure. It is orderly, it is full of law, and it unfolds itself according to fixed rule. One writer has described the Heavens as "crystallized mathematics."

The chemical elements combine, and organic life develops according to certain fixed and unalterable laws. But, asked the Lecturer, whence comes this law and order? Who has placed the mathematics in the Heavens? It must be the expression of infinite intelligence. God is the great geometer of the universe.

(b) God has revealed himself in the beauty of the world. This beauty is seen in the wild flowers of the field, in the sweet buds and blossoms of the spring, and in the autumnal forest with its green and gold. It is seen in the blue sky, in the breast of the robin, in the cup of the violet, and in the glory of the sunset.

And all this glory of the physical universe is but the expression of one who is the source of beauty.

(II) God has revealed himself in man.

(a) In the form of self-consciousness. Man is endowed with power of thought, by this power he may live in all worlds, on all planets and in all ages.

Man, moreover, has embodied his thoughts in the world in which he lives. St. Paul was once a thought; Sistine Madonna was once a thought; Beethoven's Symphonies were once thoughts. Homer thought and 'Iliad' sprang into being. Marconi thought and wireless telegraphy was born.

Now, this self-consciousness must spring from some supernatural source—A Divine Being.

(b) God has written His autograph upon the human soul in the form of a religious nature and as moral sense. (III) The Self-Revelation of God is seen in Jesus Christ.

(a) In the mind and character of Christ. In thought, Jesus is original, and as a moral teacher He is supreme. In character He is the ideal man. The perfection of His nature places Him in a class by himself. In this we see reflected the mind and character of God.

(b) The teaching of Jesus reveals to us a God who is a loving Father. This was a distinct addition to the thought of the world.

(c) But the supreme manifestation of the Divine mercy and Divine Son is seen in the cross of Jesus Christ. "God commended His love to us in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

At the close a vote of thanks, first proposed by Rev. Dr. Curtis, and approved by Hon. H. J. B. Woods, and second by a standing vote, was tendered the retiring lecturer for his cultured and edifying lecture. To-day, the 25th inst., the President opened the session, routine work occupied the attention of the Conference for the greater part of the session. Rev. W. J. Smith who represents the Temperance and Moral Reform Department, briefly addressed the Conference. The rev. gentleman is the speaker for this evening on the great subject of Temperance and Moral Reform.

Evening Telegram. W. J. HERDER, Proprietor W. F. LLOYD, Editor THURSDAY, June 25, 1914. Canadian City Debts.

As in the United Kingdom, the tendency of the times has been in recent years the piling up of immense municipal debts. Particularly is this true of the growing cities in the West. The other day we gave an instance of the Municipal debt of Vancouver City. This has naturally had an effect on the rate of interest at which these municipalities have to pay on the money they raise. In the Empire Review for June, Calgary 4 1/2 p. c. debts are quoted at 94; Edmonton 4 1/2 at 91; Montreal 4's at 92; Quebec 4's at 96; Regina 4's at 91; Toronto 4's at 95; Vancouver 4's at 90; and Winnipeg 4's at 92. Calgary is one of the cities of the West whose population has increased from 12,500 in 1905 to 35,000 in 1912. Edmonton is another city which has grown rapidly during the last decade. Regina had a population of 209 in 1882. Ten years ago its population was over 3,000; in 1913 the population is given at 50,900. Winnipeg's population in 1902 was 48,411. In 1912 it was given as 166,552. Despite the evidence of immense growth in population and resources, these cities have to pay a greater rate of interest than the City of St. John's does to the Government which raised the money for the city on 3 1/2 per cent. debentures. The smaller cities are in a much more unenviable position, as will be seen from a few extracts we give from the Financial Notes of The Canadian Municipal Journal for April: Barrie, Ont., has sold $24,825 5 per cent. 19 instalment debentures to the Dominion Securities Corporation. The price is not given. Berlin, Ont., has sold $25,000 5 per cent. 20 instalment debentures to the Dominion Securities Corporation at 99.35. Cornwall, Ont., has sold $4,000 5 per cent. debentures to Messrs. Wood, Gundy & Co. Delta, B.C., has sold $30,000 5 per cent. 30-year debentures at 96.05 to the Dominion Securities Corporation. Elmira, Ont., has sold $5,000 5 per cent. 30 instalment debentures to Messrs. A. E. Ames & Company. Transcona, Man., has sold $400,000 6 per cent. bonds at 92.25. Salmon Arm, B.C., has sold 6 per cent. debentures, due in 30 years, at 85. Humboldt, Ont., has sold $160,000 6 per cent. sewer and water 30-year debentures at 94. Leamington, Ont., has sold $11,956.37 6 1/2 per cent. 10 instalment debentures to Messrs. Gibson, Crombie

Bread Cake AND Pastry

and Company; a condition under which the successful bid was made was that it should not be made public. Minton, Ont., sold $6,000 5 per cent. 20-years debentures at 95. It must be remembered that the citizens of these places have also to support their Provincial Public Debts, and also the Dominion Debt.

NEWS BY CABLE.

LONDON, June 24.
John Redmond's appeal to America for funds to equip the Irish Volunteers, raises the question as to what benefit such assistance can confer on that body, whilst the importation of arms is prohibited. It is evident some pressure is to be brought to bear upon the Government to relieve the embargo placed on the arms, but if ministers comply, any action they take must have the effect of freeing Ulster from the same restriction. Already many rumors are afloat as to gun running by Nationalist counties. In Galway Harbor, on Tuesday, a cargo steamer was held up by the cruiser Diamond, but nothing contraband was found on her. Following recent rumors as to arms being landed in Connemara, it is noticeable that the Volunteer district have been notified they can be equipped with rifles as soon as they are efficient. A grand total of sixty rifles were seized from continental steamers this week.

VIENNA, June 24.
An escort of twenty aeroplanes flying mourning flags and manned by aviators from several nations, formed a flying guard of honor at the burial to-day of nine Austrian officers and men, killed in the tragic air-catastrophe, a few miles from here on Saturday. The presence of this aerial fleet created a vivid impression. An enormous concourse of people, including several Archdukes, members of the Austrian Cabinet, and foreign military attaches were present. While the funeral service was in progress, several aircraft circled round the cemetery, and then flew off in company.

FREDERICHSHAVEN, June 24.
Ten bodies were recovered this morning from Lake Constance, and 25 more missing are believed to have been drowned by a sudden and terrific storm, which occurred over this region. The storm broke so quickly that the fishermen were unable to reach the land, only a mile or so away. Many were rescued by Lake steamers and other craft, after their light boats had capsized.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 24.
Shamrock IV had her first hard weather trial, with the older Shamrock, and acquitted herself well in a stiff northwesterly breeze, necessitating reefed mainsail. The Challenger worked out a lead of three minutes in a run of five miles. This was followed by a ten-mile thrash to windward, in which the Challenger did better, beating her opponent by 12 minutes.

TORONTO, June 24.
In only three ridings of Ontario will the voices of candidates be silent between now and election day (June 29th). Nomination was held yesterday throughout the Province, resulting in the placing of candidates in every electoral district, with the exception of North Renfrew, Glengary and West York.

SCHWERIN, Germany, June 24.
Another aviation fatality occurred to the German Army Flying Corps to-day, when Lieut. Kolbe was killed by the overturning of his aeroplane which he was piloting, during a too abrupt landing. Capt. Bug, a passenger, sustained a broken leg.

Here and There.

GAPE AT PERNAM.—The bargt Gape, Capt. Connors, has reached Pernambuco after a 22 days passage from here.

SINBAD WAITING.—The S. S. Sinbad is awaiting the sailing of the R. M. S. Mongolian to finish discharging her cargo.

LAST NIGHT'S ARRESTS.—Three arrests for inebriation were made last night, and the offenders were up before court to-day.

NEW SIGN LIGHTED.—The new electric sign at the Seamen's Institute was lighted for the first time last night. The sign is a very fine one and can be seen from every part of the harbour.

YESTERDAY'S EXCURSION.—Yesterday's excursion train took out about 300 passengers for points as far as Kelligrews. The afternoon was an ideal one for an outing. Return to the city was made at 9.30 p.m.

PARTHENA AT BOTWOOD.—The S. S. Parthena is now at Botwood discharging her cargo of 600 tons of coal brought from Glasgow for the A. N. D. Co. From Botwood she will proceed to England with a load of pulp and paper.

POOR OUTLOOK.—Codfish were very scarce on the local grounds yesterday, and the hook and line men returned with small fares. Nothing has been done by the local traps to date and the outlook is not by any means an encouraging one.

KYLE RESUMES SERVICE.—The S. S. Kyle which has been undergoing repairs to her plates, which were damaged on her recent trip north, will resume the Labrador service on Saturday next, sailing from the dry dock at 1 p.m.

WOODS ON FIRE.—There was quite a blaze in the vicinity of Neville's Pond yesterday afternoon, a large portion of the woods being on fire. The work was presumably due to the carelessness of some trouting or picnic parties. The fire was promptly extinguished by a number of residents of that vicinity.

Wedding Bells.

DEMSEY-ENNIS.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church yesterday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. David M. Demsey, master cooper, and Miss Minnie Ennis, daughter of Mr. William Ennis, our veteran townsman. The bride was handsomely gowned in cream silk and was attended by her sister, Miss Martha Ennis, who wore blue satin and was prettily attired indeed, while Mr. R. J. Kerevan, of Bowling Bros., supported the groom. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride's mother, Hamilton Street, accompanied by Rev. Fr. McDermott, where a sumptuous supper was served to the thirty guests present, after which the health of the newly married couple was duly honored. At 5 o'clock the entire party drove to Waterford Bridge where the bride and groom entrained for Avonville to spend their honeymoon at Mrs. Aspell's far-famed hotel. The presents received were numerous and costly and evinced the popularity in which both parties were held. Their future residence will be in their new home just erected on Cabot Street, where in the many happy wishes of their numerous friends the Telegram sincerely joins.

The Football Race.

The football race at this year's Regatta promises to be an interesting event. Five crews will likely compete, the B. I. S. Casuals, C. E. I. Collegians and Star. There are some crack oarsmen in each of the teams, many of whom have already won honors in our local Derby.

GEORGE ST. CHOIR.—The members of George St. Choir are requested to take their usual places at this evening's service.

Diocesan Synod

SECOND DAY.
Synod resumed its sitting yesterday at 3.30 p.m. The Bishop opened the proceedings with prayer. After the roll was called the minutes were read by the Clerical Secretary.

Rev. Frank Sufart moved for the appointment of a Committee to investigate the working of the Home and Foreign Mission Fund, and to report to the Synod. This was put and carried.

The Bishop appointed a Committee for this purpose to consist of the following gentlemen: Revs. A. G. Bayly, A. Pitman, J. T. Richards, H. Reid, A. Shorter, T. W. Upward, J. O. Brintnell and Messrs. G. Young, A. J. Goodland, F. Semerton, J. Millin and W. Blackall.

Rev. H. Fletcher asked permission to introduce a Bill to amend Chap. XVII of the Constitution and Rules of the Synod. Permission was granted.

Canon Bolt's Bill to amend Chap. XVIII of the Constitution and Rules of the Synod was read a second time. The Bishop announced that the Synod would receive a deputation from the Lord's Day Alliance on Tuesday evening next at 9 o'clock. A discussion of the report of the Executive Committee then followed, and at 5.30 Synod adjourned.

Synod resumed at 7.30.

The House went into Committee to consider the report of the Executive Committee.

Canon Bolt moved that a Committee be appointed to consider the matter of continuing the S.P.C.K. Depot. There was good deal of discussion of the Section dealing with the H. & F. Mission Fund; and the C. W. & O. Fund also called forth animated speeches from Rev. F. Smart, Canon Noel, Canon Colley, Mr. J. W. Withers and Mr. W. W. Blackall.

The Committee rose and reported progress.

A Committee was appointed to consider the advisability of continuing the S.P.C.K. Depot and to report to Synod.

Mr. Blackall gave notice that he would on to-morrow move for the appointment of a Committee to consider what claim, if any, the widow of the late Rev. Thomas Golden has upon the Clergy Widows' and Orphan's Fund.

Canon Bolt gave notice that he will on to-morrow move for the appointment of a Committee to consider the question of Clerical Stipends.

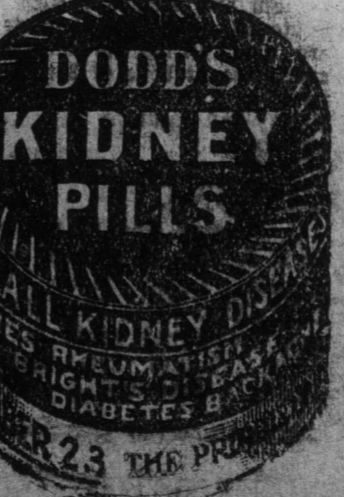

At 10 o'clock the meeting adjourned with the Benediction by His Lordship the Bishop.

Baseball Match

B. I. S. VICTORS.
The opening game of the series of League Baseball was played on St. George's Field yesterday afternoon. The weather was all that could be desired, and consequently a large number attended to witness the game. The Grand Stand was filled with enthusiastic supporters of both teams who greeted the players on their appearance on the diamond, with thunderous applause. The City Band was in attendance, and rendered lively music during the afternoon. Mr. Fred V. Chesman, umpire-in-chief, called the teams to play at 3.15 p.m., and the first ball was thrown over by His Honor Mayor Ellis. The B.I.S. won the toss and sent their opponents to the bat. The Shamrocks gave an exhibition of good batting and scored three runs in their first innings, and despatched the B.I.S. without a run to their credit. In the next innings the B.I.S. scored 3 to their opponents 1, after which the Shamrocks changed their pitchers. This resulted in the B.I.S. scoring 7 runs in the last innings. The game finished with the score 12 to 8 in favor of the B.I.S. The line up and score follows:—

Proclamation is Valid.

Irish Judges Hold That Arms Cannot Be Imported.
Dublin, June 15.—By a majority of two to one the judges of the King's Bench Court to-day decided that the Government's proclamation prohibiting the importation of arms into Ireland was valid.

This judgment reverses the decision of the Assize Court of Belfast, which on March 25 declared the proclamation invalid because the act of union gave the same privileges in respect to trade.

The Zebra.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slwash"

The zebra is a horse which looks as if it were serving a sentence for bank robbery.

Nature seems to have occupied much of its time in early days designing quaint and interesting animals for Africa. When she came to the zebra she went into art quite extensively and gave him a beautiful coat of stripes, though the zebra has never done anything to deserve them. Those who have seen a herd of zebras wandering idly over the African veldt can hardly believe that they have not been decorated by a sign painter.

The zebra is not as large as the plain horse and is not so angular in design. He lives a wild free life on the African plains and objects so violently to being caught that very few of them are in captivity. Catching a zebra is almost as unprofitable an operation as imprisoning an electric current by grabbing a live wire firmly with both hands. The zebra kicks with four legs and is also an experienced and talented biter. Those who have saddled the zebra and have ridden him have done so merely from bravado. After they have recovered they have usually tried some simpler feat, such as riding a piano box in a cyclone.

Owing to his earnest objection to be harnessed, the zebra has not been able to make himself useful except by contributing his skin to science and the arts. This has been very convenient to mankind, but has been exceedingly hard on the zebra, as it is necessary to shoot him in order to get him to consent to part with his skin. Vast numbers of zebras have been shot, and there are now hardly enough left to supply the large and growing circus trade.

The zebra reminds us of the handsome young magnate's son, who leads a wild, free life, kicking his way skillfully through all conventions and declining to become useful under any excuse whatever. Only in the case of the magnate's son it is impossible to shoot him and skin him without meeting with criticism from the humane society. However, it may some day be possible as well as profitable to exhibit him to a busy world in menageries along with the zebra instead of in the society and scandal columns.

Women Glued to Seats

Pottsville, Pa., June 15.—The intense heat here caused an awkward situation at the Hippodrome theatre, where 1,000 women in white dresses were attending a midsummer operatic performance.

When the play ended 200 of the women were glued to their chairs, the intense heat having melted the varnish on the chairs. Many were only able to get away by rubbing their dresses.

Some of the women and girls who constituted part of the big audience walked home looking as if they had been rolling around in mud puddles and were the subject of much amusement. Among those who suffered from the varnish was the wife of the manager of the theatre.

London's Homeless.

The annual census of homeless persons has just been taken by the London County Council. It shows that 2,881 persons on the night the count was made were without homes.

The numbers have declined since the original census was made, ten years ago, principally because of the new casual ward scheme, by which wanderers are questioned by the police and given tickets of admission to the casual wards. Those who, on the night of the census, were actually homeless in the streets or sleeping on staircases or beneath porches numbered 317 men, 112 women and 6 children. There were also 77 sitting in shelters, 29 in the King's tenis, over 2,000 in free lodging houses and 335 in the casual wards.

"Charlie's Aunt" Author Passes.

London, June 19.—The death occurred to-day of Brandon Thomas, author of "Charlie's Aunt," a play performed many thousands of times in all parts of the world and in a number of languages. Mr. Thomas was born at Liverpool, December 25, 1856. He studied civil engineering, but left the profession in 1879 to become an actor and he had a very successful career on the stage for 28 years.

While still on the stage he wrote many comedies and was also the author of several popular songs.

Special to the Evening Telegram. LONDON, June 24.

Blank disappointment is expressed by the entire opposition press with regard to the Government's proposals in the Home Rule Amending Bill, while the ministerial organs recognize that the policy of exclusion is most unsatisfactory. During several weeks past doubts and fears have been smoothed by the feeling that the Government had something in reserve beyond what Asquith had offered Carson in the Commons last March, but the Amending Bill has shattered these hopes, as it embodies only the old offer of every county having the right to vote itself out of the operation of the Bill for a term of six years. Carson, who listened to the proceedings in the Lords, afterwards declared there was nothing new in the Bill, recalling what he said in Lancashire on Saturday, that if the Bill only repeated the offer of March, it would be useless. He also asserted that, while anxious for peace, Ulster would, if necessary, fight against being put under the domination of a Dublin Parliament. Lord Macdonald, six years permanent Under Secretary for Ireland, thought the Amending Bill capable of being made a really effective measure. Hope was not extinguished yet, because the Government practically admitted that the Amending Bill would have to be amended.

QUEBEC, June 24.

Explanations of all suggestions that have been made during the inquiry into the wreck of the Empress about the vessel's steering gear, came out this afternoon when Percy Hillhouse, belonging to the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co., which constructed her, continued his evidence before the Dominion Commission, answering questions put to him by C. S. Haight, counsel for owners of the collier Storstad. Hillhouse explained how after the accident in 1908 one foot was added to the Empress's rudder area to improve her steering qualities. Hillhouse gave the first adequate explanation of actual injuries to the Empress and his telling of water rushing through the wound, 328 square feet at the rate of 260 tons a second, and gave a clear-cut impression of how it came about that the liner listed over so quickly and shortly afterwards capsized. Another noteworthy feature of the Commission's hearing to-day was the evidence of Gunner Wilfred Whitehead, diver of H.M.S. Essex, who, in addition to inspecting the hull of the Empress, risked his life in an effort to save that of Edward Cossboom, diver, who did from injuries received at the wreck. Whitehead and other divers from the Essex went from Court to the scene of the wreck this afternoon, after a conference with Capt. Walsh, Marine Superintendent of the C.P.R., and Capt. Watson, of the cruiser, at which it was decided to get the 800 bodies entombed in the Empress.

LONDON, June 24.

The Government's proposals for the revision of the National Education scheme were subjects of condemnation by the Council of National Educational Association. A non-political but strong denunciation, emanated from Lord Sheffield and Rev. Dr. Clifford, both supporters of the Government. The main objection to the bill is that free education as understood in the Act of 1891 is to be abolished. Lord Sheffield refused to accept statements made in the Commons by the Right Hon. J. A. Pease, President of the Board of Education, that the rights of parents to free education would not be endangered by the proposals of the Finance Bill. He condemned Liberal and Labour members who helped to kill the school attendance Bill, which was directed against the half time system, prevalent in Lancashire. Rev. Dr. Clifford demanded that there should be no tampering with free and unsectarian education. He had been travelling in the provinces and had heard complaints everywhere against the Board of Education: All the evils of the present situation arose by the support given by the Government to the perpetuation of denominational education; for a Liberal-Labor Government to sustain such a system was an anachronism, as well as a display of infidelity to their principles.

RYE, N.Y., June 24.

All three cup aspirants, Resolute, Vanitie, and Defiance met for the first time in a completed race, and finished in the order named with the flag officer's yacht the winner by many minutes. It was her sixth and longest victory over the Vanitie. That the Herreshoff yacht, the Resolute, will "defeat" the America's Cup against Shamrock IV is practically the unanimous opinion of experts who watched yesterday's contest. Bets are now being made that when the official trials are held the Resolute will sweep the water and win a majority, and possibly all of the contests.

Yesterday's Rifle Shoot.

The Rifle Club opened their shooting season yesterday, and though the wind was high some good scoring was done. The competitions for the H. D. Reid Challenge Medal and the J. P. McLaughlin handicap prize were run off, the former being won by Geo. Langmead and the latter by E. Ellis whose scores were 88 and 82 points, respectively.

Many members of the club took part, and considering the existing conditions the winners did remarkably well.

St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly, D. JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S. Analyst and Assayer.
