Don't Cough Your Throat Sore
"Nerviline" Will Cure You Quickly.

The Annoyance of a Bad Cough Soothed Away in One Day.

Nothing so bad for the throat as coughing, and nothing half so annoying as to have some one near by that is hacking, sneezing, or constantly clearing the throat.

Rub on Nerviline—it will save you all further pain and distress. Even one good rub with this soothing, penetrating remedy will bring the finest relief, will take out that rasping soreness, will stop that irritating tickle that makes you want to cough so much.

Nerviline isn't something new. It has a record of forty years of wonderful success behind it.

In rubbing on Nerviline you use something safe, reliable, and sure to cure. Its action is marvellous. The way it sinks in through the tissues—the way it penetrates to the seat of the congestion is really a wonder.

For chronic colds, coughs, or sore throat you can't beat this trusty old family remedy. Its name spells cure for any sort of pain in the joints or muscles. Try it for rheumatism, rub it on for sciatica or lumbago, test it out for neuralgia or headache—in every case you'll find amazing virtue and curative power in Nerviline.

Most families keep the large 50c. bottle always handy on the shelf; trial size 25c., at all dealers in medicine.

"ECHOES of the Past;
 OR,
The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER XIV.

Quilton nodded to cut short the thanks and held out his hand. As he took Clive's now fiercely burning one, he said, staring at the pillow absent-ly:

"Shouldn't hurry to get up, if I were you. Your friends won't mind keeping you—they are very old friends, I see; call you 'Clive'."

"Oh, do they?" said Clive indifferently.

Quilton's eyes wandered from the pillow to the flushed face.

"Yes. Good-by."

As he went out of the room the door opposite opened, and Mina came out. She drew back into the room again, but before she could close the door, he said:

"I'm afraid my visit has tended to excite Mr.—my friend—," he began. "He is very hot and feverish."

Her lips parted and her eyes grew swiftly anxious.

"Oh, I will go to him," she said, and she went softly and quickly past the visitor as if she had forgotten his existence.

Quilton went slowly down the stairs with his wooden face and colorless, expressionless eyes; but at the opening into the street, he paused and stard up at the sky and muttered:

"If there is anything in the evidence of face and voice—it's the girl, the girl herself. Phew! The plot thickens!"

CHAPTER XV.

Full of apprehension, on hearing from Quilton that her charge was excited, Mina had glided past him toward the sick-room; but she paused at the door to still the throbbing of her heart. She seemed to be moving in a dream, a dream so sweet, so exquisite, that she could scarcely think, scarcely strive to realize that she was awake and that the man whom she had regarded with a worship as profound as that of a Hindu devotee for his god, had told her that he loved her and wanted her to be his wife.

To nurse and watch over him had been happiness enough; and she would have been content to lay down her life for him, to wait on him hand and foot, and would have considered herself amply repaid with a nod of thanks, a smile of approval. But to be wooed by him, to be told that he wanted her, not for a servant, a slave, but for a wife! She could not grasp the great fact, could not realize it. To live with him, to see him every day, to share his life!

She swept the hair from her brow and looked before her, murmuring, "I love you. I love you, Mina!" to convince herself that he had really spoken the words, and that she had not dreamed them.

telling in so many words that I love you, you can't prevent me looking it!"

No; she could not prevent that, and she tried to turn her eyes away, lest the love in them should tempt him to break his word, and she made a resolution, though it cost her a grievous pang, that she would not be alone with him more than she could help.

So Clive, much to his disappointment and regret, found that either Tibby or Elisha was now almost in constant attendance on him, and that only on very rare occasions did Mina permit herself to be alone with him.

This self-denial of hers, of course, hastened his recovery; and in a day or two he was up and able to go out. If he had had doubts of his capacity to leave the house, Tibby would have dispelled them; for though she had been kind enough while he was ill, something of her characteristic mood had returned when he was convalescent.

"I suppose you're fretting to get back to your business, Mr. Clive?" she said, as she tied on her bonnet and rolled up her work-apron. "Well that's natural enough; I felt like that when I had the measles."

"Do you think he's quite strong enough to go out, Tibby?" Elisha put in meekly.

"Oh, Lor', yes," she retorted emphatically. "A man who can put away a couple of heggs in the first-class style as 'd did just now is strong enough to go road-mending! Not, understand me, Mr. Clive, that we begrudge you the heggs; not by no means. We're well aware that but for you there, wouldn't be any heggs at all."

"Tibby!" murmured Mina, flushing. Tibby looked over her shoulder at her.

"Well, don't I say so?" she exclaimed. "An' come to that, it seems to me that you've wasted quite enough time—there!—as Mina's eyes filled with tears. "When I say wasted, I mean lost, o' course. 'Pears to me that I'm the only one in this family as ever speaks her mind; an' when I do, the fat's in the fire. That's all the thanks I get."

"You're right, Tibby," said Clive reassuringly. "I have lost you time and caused you too much trouble not to feel that the sooner I take myself off the better. I wish I could tell you how grateful I am. But you must let me come and tell you in a day or two."

"Why not write?" she said, as she opened the door. "You can send four ounces o' gratitude for a penny, now, you know."

"But there is something else I want to tell you, you and Elisha," he went on; but Mina gave him a reproachful glance, and Tibby eyed him ungraciously and jerked her head.

"Put it in the same envelope," she said insignificantly. "I'm devoured by curiosity, o' course; but I can't stop now, or I shall be late. Good-by, Mr. Clive."

"You won't mind her, sir," pleaded Elisha. "It's only her way. She don't mean 'arf what she says, don't Tibby; you won't go because of her barking at you, Mr. Clive?"

"But Tibby's right," said Clive, as he got his hat, "but you must let me come back, as I said. Mina, I wonder whether you would go with me as far as the end of the street."

Mina hesitated and turned her face away, but Elisha exclaimed: "O' course she will, sir!" So she put on her hat and jacket, her hands trembling, her face pale.

Clive said good-by to Elisha—re- fraining from wounding him by a single word of thanks—and Mina and he went down the stairs and into the street in silence, and walked for some little distance before either spoke; for they were too full at heart for words. At last, when they had reached a quiet street, he stopped and took her hand and said:

"It was a hard promise, a hard task you set me, Mina. But I understand, dearest, and I honor you for insisting on it. See now, I'll come back to-morrow."

"The day after," she murmured imploringly.

He looked at her reproachfully, but yielded a reluctant assent.

"Well—the day after," he said, "but that is the very longest I can wait. Don't you understand—ah, yes, you do, Mina—how much I want to feel that you belong to me? To know that you are mine, my very own; that you are pledged to me for my wife? The day after to-morrow! After that, I may come and see you, take you out—Mina, one of the first places we will go to shall be the Tate Gallery! And you will not be harrowed by scruples, will not want to run away, as if we were doing something wicked! And soon—it must be very soon, Mina—we will be married! Don't cry, dearest!"

"I am not, I am not!" she murmured brokenly, as she swept the tears from her eyes and looked up at him.

"But—but it seems so unreal, so—so impossible!" He laughed and pressed her hand reassuringly. "Why should it be impossible? And yet, you're right, Mina! It does seem unreal that you should care for me, that you should be going to give yourself to me for all your life, all your life!"

Her eyes were dim, her lips moved, repeating his words, and, though she tried not to do so, her hand returned the pressure of his.

"Good-by, Mina," he said, with the gravity of parting. "It's all a dream—but it will last as long as our lives, please God, dearest. Good-by—till the day after to-morrow." Still he hesitated. "What will you do in all that time?" he asked wistfully. "I shall have so much to occupy me, so many arrears to pick up, to help me pass away the time. And you?"

She smiled through her tears.

"I shall practice very hard; and I have my lessons."

He nodded. "Your lessons! What a child-wife you will be, Mina!" he said, with a tender smile. "My little girl-wife! Ah, my child, may I strive to be worthy of your love, to make you happy!"

They were the last words. As if he could not trust himself to say any more, he raised her hand to his lips and walked on quickly. But he turned and looked back before he had gone very far; she was still standing there looking after him through a mist; but she moved away quickly as he turned. She did not go back to the Rents for some little time, but walking on to the Embankment and stood, leaning on the stone wall and gazing at the river.

He would come back; she knew that, and she knew that she would not be able to refuse him. Why, he had taken the heart out of her body away with him, and every fiber of her being clamored for him with an agony of yearning. His wife! As long as their lives. Oh, thank God she was young, that so many years stretched before her, years to be spent by his side.

She awoke at last from her happy yet fearful reverie and, agitated at the time she had lost, turned home. Elisha had gone to his lessons; the rooms were empty and silent, as empty as her heart. She looked round and sighed heavily. His presence had transformed the common little room into a paradise; but Adam had gone from her Eden, and Eve—well, Eve must practice and try to forget him. Forget him! She laughed, with sad derision; why, he had been in her mind ever since that first night; and now—now there was no room in her mind, her heart, for anything else but him.

She sat down to the piano and made an effort to concentrate her attention on the exercises; but there were many pauses, her hands lying motionless on the keys, her eyes half-closed as she recalled his face, his voice, his words. "I love you!"

The commander and officers of the Fabre line steamer "Sant Anna" which has just arrived in Naples from New York after having put in at the Azores with fire in her cargo, declare they have collected indisputable evidence that the fire was set by five Austrian passengers who gave false names when they boarded the vessel. Three of these passengers, it is asserted, have been arrested, while the two others threw themselves overboard and disappeared.

K. of C. Celebration.

The Knights of Columbus of Terra Nova Council, this city, held their annual parade yesterday in celebration of Columbus Day. The parade took place from the Columbus Hall, Duckworth Street to the Cathedral where the members assisted at Solemn High Mass, celebrated by Bro. Rev. Dr. Greene, assisted by Bros. Rev. E. P. Sheehan and Rev. T. Nangle. Bro. Rev. J. F. Pippy occupied the pulpit and taking his text from the Gospel of St. John, preached an eloquent and inspiring sermon of interest to Roman Catholic organizations in general, and to Knights of Columbus and the Total Abstinence Society in particular.

A practical and forcible manner the rev. preacher dealt with the number of those who "give testimony" of the Truth, and of the glorious progress of the Roman Catholic Church from the days of St. John the Baptist right down to the present day. He emphasized the duty of Catholic organizations to "give testimony" despite the obstacles which the modern world, through her literature, arts and sciences may place in the path of the Church. He then paid a particular tribute to the Knights of Columbus, who throughout the United States have done so much to suppress the tide of irreligion. Special reference was made to the K. of C. lecturers who to-day are combatting the Socialistic doctrines with the words of Truth. Because of their good work, said the rev. preacher, the Knights of Columbus have been subjected to the attacks of the evil one, but the bogus oath and the other alleged disclosures have not dampened the ardor of their faith, and that noble organization still continues to give testimony of the Truth. In conclusion he referred to the Total Abstinence Society who yesterday attended Holy Communion in a body. Here too, said the rev. preacher, have we a noble band of men giving testimony. He then exhorted all present to continue the good work and reminded them they were to do so regardless of the ailments of the world. The Catholic Church, said he, offers no reward of prosperity in this life, but to all her faithful children she promises everlasting happiness in the next.

After Mass the Knights in processional order returned to Columbus Hall.

"MARKS AND FACES" AT THE CRESCENT.

"Marks and Faces" (the story) Ernest Vane fascinated by the famous actress Peg Woffington, dabbles around her until his wife despairs of ever seeing him again. Kitty Clive, an actress in Peg's company, is jealous of her success, learning from Sir Charles Pomander, Vane's friend, that he is married. Kitty goes down to his home and posing as a Gypsy reads his wife's fortune. "The one you love is in danger and needs you," she says. Mabel Vane hies her to London arriving at Vane's house just as he is giving a party to Peg Woffington. Peg leaves in high dudgeon laughing her way off so that Kitty's eyes shall not see her heart is breaking for she loves Vane, at the home of the artist Triplet whither she goes to inspect her portrait. Peg faces her life's tragedy when Mabel follows her, the woman's struggle with her love and pride, the wife's piteous appeal for her husband, the false friend's dishonour, and the final triumph of a noble nature is shown in the great 2 reel feature that the Crescent Picture Palace presents to-day; don't miss seeing it.

TREY O' HEARTS AT NICKEL THEATRE.

There is one of the best programmes on record in store for Nickel patrons this evening. It is an all-feature show such as usually attracts crowded audiences at this popular place of entertainment. The great story, the opening chapters of which were seen by throngs: "The Trey O' Hearts" will be continued. This is one of the most thrilling stories ever given to the public. Those Harmony B o y s, Messrs. Huskins and Cairns, will be heard in the very latest novelty songs which are gaining for them the praise of all music lovers. The orchestra, Miss Ring, Messrs. Spencer and Ross, will present an elaborate programme of high class selections. The Nickel is renowned for its music and it is the intention to maintain the high standard. Wednesday the 21st episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be given. All the shows this week are good and patrons should not miss a change.

McMurdo's Store News

MONDAY, Oct. 11, 1915.
 Some people are always having trouble with their tooth brushes. They complain that the bristles come out, or that they snap off short, or that the tooth brush "breaks down" after a few applications to the teeth and becomes almost useless for their purpose. Most of that trouble is due to their purchasing cheap tooth brushes and expecting to get first class service from them. Such expectation is generally futile. One Sanident Tooth Brush will outwear two or three inferior ones, and will give more satisfaction all the way along. The hairs in the Sanident Brush will not come out, and the form of the brush will not break down, and the hairs will not break off. If you want to get the best effect on the teeth use the Sanident Tooth Brush and Sanident Tooth Paste. The latter, like the Brush has outstanding merit, and the two make a splendid combination for use. Price (Sanident Tooth Brush), 35c., (Sanident Tooth Paste), 25c.

Sir George Paish and the Financial Strength of Great Britain.

A GREAT FINANCIAL AUTHORITY SAYS THAT WE ARE ABLE TO MEET OUR WAR EXPENDITURES HOWEVER LONG THEY LAST.

Sir George Paish, one of the editors of the Statist, has a very confident article in that paper on the financial strength of Great Britain. He is a great authority on his subject and declares that:

"It is evident that the British people, with their seas open to their commerce, and with their income and their wealth undiminished by the war, are able to meet their great war expenditures, however long they may last."

Our Napoleonic Debt.

This is cheering news for the days when the Chancellor of the Exchequer is to tell us how many times he will increase the income tax.

"How large an indebtedness an old nation can incur without serious strain and without much discomfort is shown by the experience of Great Britain in the Napoleonic wars of a century ago," says Sir George Paish. "In 1816, after these wars were over, Great Britain's population was about 20,000,000, her accumulated wealth was no more than £2,500,000,000, and her income did not exceed £300,000,000, yet she incurred a debt of £895,000,000 with an annual interest charge of £33,000,000.

"It is true that at that time the taxation of the poor was heavy, but, on the other hand, the taxation of the rich was light, and no one ever doubted the country's power to meet a debt charge which called for 11 per cent. of the nation's annual income, or to carry a debt that was equal to over one-third of the nation's total wealth and to three times the nation's annual income. Such a debt charge would, however, severely strain the powers of a young country, as the latter would probably owe abroad the greater part of the sum borrowed.

"The British obligation of nearly £900,000,000 in 1816 was debt incurred for purely unproductive purposes, and the interest upon it had to come out of an income not appreciably increased by the creation of the debt.

"And the British people experienced no difficulty in meeting this great burden of interest, which was equal to 11 per cent. of their total income. Moreover, in 1816 the total annual expenditure of the Government reached £65,000,000—a sum equal to over 25 per cent. of the nation's entire income.

Our Bearable Burden.

"Great as may be the debt incurred in the present gigantic war, and great as may be the Governmental expenditure thereafter, the burden of the interest and expenditure will be nothing like as great as was the burden of interest and expenditure in 1816 and in succeeding years in relation to the power of the country to bear it.

"At the present time the population of Great Britain is nearly 47,000,000, while her accumulated wealth is in the neighborhood of £17,000,000,000, and the annual income of the British people is about £2,400,000,000. Prior to the war now being waged the amount of British debt had been reduced to £706,000,000, and the interest charge was no more than £17,341,000—a sum equal to less than three-quarters of 1 per cent. of the nation's income.

"Moreover the total Governmental expenditures of the country (excluding the reproductive services—the Post Office, telephones, etc., which yield a substantial profit) were only £165,000,000, equal to less than 7 per cent. of the nation's income, against a proportion of 25 per cent. in 1816. This expenditure in 1913-14 included the large sums which the Government was paying for education, sickness and old age—expenditures which, until a few years ago, were paid entirely by individuals and not by the Government.

HOW WE SPEND THE MONEY.

Great Britain's Expenditure in 1913-14 (Prior to the War.)

Interest	16,894,000
Road Improvement Fund	1,895,000
Payments to Local Taxation Account	9,734,000
Other Consolidated Fund Services	1,694,000
Army	28,364,000
Navy	48,833,000
Civil Services:
Public Education	19,450,000
Health Insurance, etc.	7,066,000
Old Age Pensions	12,600,000
Other Civil Services	14,785,000
Customs and Inland Revenue	4,483,000
Total	165,280,000
Sinking Fund	7,606,000
Post Office Services	24,607,000
Grand Total	197,493,000

Financial Burdens Reduced.

"The total Sinking Fund payments charged to expenses in 1913-14 were about £10,000,000 as beyond the sums specially earmarked, other amounts were charged on the Army, Navy, and Post Office votes.

"In spite of the increase in expenditure in the last fifteen years the burden of the normal Governmental expenditures is much less than it was in the days of Mr. Gladstone, having regard to the great expansion in the income and wealth of the nation.

"The burden on the wealthy relatively to their wealth has not increased, while the burden on the great mass of the people has been greatly reduced in proportion to their incomes. The following statement of the incomes assessed to income tax since the income tax was introduced in 1843 furnishes a fairly good indication of the relative growth of the nation's income from decade to decade:

1843-44	150	243,830,000
1853-54	100	286,885,000

"Just the Same."

How often does your friend ask you "How are you feeling," and your answer is: "Just the same," my cough is not one bit better. Don't you think that you are very foolish in allowing this nasty cough and cold hang on to you for such a long time?

If you have contracted a cough or cold in some way or other, try the following:—Mix equal parts of Stafford's Liniment and Camphorated Oil together and apply to the neck and chest, rubbing it in well every time. Take from one to two teaspoonfuls of Stafford's Phosphate Cough and Cold Cures every two hours. The above treatment has been found beneficial hundreds of times.

You can obtain these preparations from:
"STAFFORD'S PHARMACY," Duckworth St.
"STAFFORD'S DRUG STORE," Theatre Hill.
Oct 8, 11

1863-64	100	371,103,000
1873-74	100	543,028,000
1883-84	150	628,510,000
1893-94	150	673,712,000
1903-4	160	902,759,000
1913-14	160	1,167,184,000

"This was the first year after the income tax was re-introduced by Sir Robert Peel.

Allowing for depreciation, etc., the net income of persons paying income tax in 1913-14 prior to the War was close to £1,000,000,000.

"It should be noted that the above statement of income does not include salaries and wages exempt from income tax. This additional income in 1913-14 amounted to about £1,400,000,000, whereas in 1843-44 it was only £235,000,000. The nation's total income in 1843-44 was about £240,000,000, and in 1913-14 it was £2,400,000,000, a more than five-fold growth.

Income Over Taxation.

"To show the lightness of the burden of taxation in Great Britain in proportion to the income available in 1913-14 in comparison with 1859-60 and with 1815-16, I present the following statement (in millions):

	Popu- lation	National Tax- ation	Annual income excess of tax- ation
	per an- n'm.	per an- n'm.	per an- n'm.
1815-16	.20	300	62
1859-60	.29	700	66
1913-14	.46	2400	163

"The great increase in the margin of income in excess of taxation both actually and in proportion to population will be evident from the following statement:—

	Income Taxation per head, per population	Income excess of taxation per head, per population
1815-16	15	3.1
1859-60	24.1	2.2
1913-14	52.1	3.5

"The burden of taxation in England has thus been growing smaller from decade to decade over the last century until it has become quite unimportant in comparison with the national income available for paying it.

"A century ago the great mass of the British people were burdened with indirect taxation, while the burden of direct and indirect taxation falling on rich people was insignificant. Now there is practically no burden of taxation on the great mass of the people, and only a very moderate burden upon the rich. In no country in the world, with the exception of the United States, has the burden of taxation been as light as it has been in Great Britain in proportion to the national income.

"What other country can show absence of taxation upon practically all necessities of life and upon most comforts, and that it draws its revenue almost entirely from the taxation of luxuries?

Income Tax.

"The tax upon incomes in 1913-14 yielded a sum of £47,249,000. The nominal rate of duty was 1s. 2d. in the pound, but the average virtual rate levied on each pound of taxable income was no more than 11d. This tax only applied to incomes of £160 a year and over, and was collected on a total taxable income of about £977,000,000. The nominal rate of tax on earned incomes of less than £2,000 a year was 9d. in the pound, but the virtual rate of tax was no more than 4.44d. in the pound, as substantial abatements were made on incomes between £160 and £700.

"A super-tax of 6d. in the pound was in 1913-14 charged upon incomes of over £5,000 a year, and this yielded a sum of £3,120,000. The total income upon which super-tax was charged, was estimated at £165,500,000, received by 13,500 people.

"Income tax and super-tax together yielded £47,022,000, and this was equal to a charge of less than 5 per cent. on the incomes on which tax was paid, and to no more than 2 per cent. on the nation's total income.

"Death duties brought in an income of £27,359,000. This is practically the only tax on capital imposed by Great Britain. The net value of the estates assessed to duty in 1913-14 was £296,432,000, and on this sum the amount paid was equal to 9.2 per cent.

Our Small Taxation.

"Compared with the nation's total income of about £2,400,000,000 it is a tax of a shade over 1 per cent. only, and in comparison with the nation's income assessed to income tax of nearly £1,000,000,000 it is a tax of no more than 2 1/2 per cent.

"Thus the total sum raised by taxation in 1913-14 was £163,029,000, raised entirely by direct or indirect taxation upon luxuries and comforts and bearing a proportion to the nation's total income of no more than 7 per cent. Of this total the taxation imposed upon the great working classes could scarcely be less, representing only about 10s. in £100 of their income, exclusive of the taxation upon alcohol and tobacco. The taxation imposed on the wealthier classes with average incomes of about £800 a year per person paying income tax was less than 9 per cent. of their incomes, plus a small additional sum in respect of alcohol and tobacco.

"Including alcohol and tobacco the wage-earning classes pay in taxation about 4 per cent. of their incomes. Furthermore, it should be borne in mind that the wage-earning classes receive back in free education, in health insurance, and in old-age pensions about two-thirds of the sums they contribute in taxes.

Our Increasing National Income.

"Prior to the present great war the national income of Great Britain, which had doubled itself in about 30 years to some £2,400,000,000 a year, was growing rapidly, and seemed likely to double itself again in another generation, and the wealth of the nation was increasing at the rate of some £400,000,000 per annum, and was also in a fair way to increase another 100 per cent. in three decades, while the moral, mental, and physical condition of the British people was rising to a higher level in consequence of the much greater amount of attention paid to matters of health and of education than formerly.

"Thus, when war broke out the income and wealth of the British people were much greater than they had ever before been either actually or in proportion to population. Since the war commenced the new savings of the British people have been applied to war, and consequently the wealth of the country has not increased; nevertheless, it has not diminished.

"It is true that the debt of Great Britain has been increased from £706,000,000 to £1,300,000,000, and when the last War Loan is paid up it will be raised to about £1,900,000,000. But as all the new loans have been subscribed by the British people themselves, the creation of this debt has not diminished the wealth of the British nation. Had the money been raised abroad the matter would have presented an entirely different aspect.

Less Than One Year's Income.

"Thus the great strength of the British financial situation will be evident. The debt so far incurred, including the new loan, is equal to less than one year's income, whereas the debt created in 1816 was equal to three years' income, and the taxes so far imposed on the British people are equal to less than 10 per cent. of their great income, whereas in 1816 the taxes were equal to nearly 25 per cent. of the small income they then enjoyed. Moreover, at present taxation is confined entirely to luxuries and comforts, and the whole of the supplies of necessary food, clothing, and raw materials are free of taxation."

Dr. Geisel at Heart's Content

HEART'S CONTENT, Oct. 10. On Saturday night, October 9th, Heart's Content was blessed by a visit from Dr. Carolyn Geisel. The S. U. F. Hall was filled to capacity by a very representative audience, several being unable to get in. The outer doors were thrown open, so that the crowd across the road might see and hear the lecture.

For one hour and a half the speaker held her audience spell bound by her teaching, her eloquence and her wonderful magnetism. Curiosity hunters as they listened to the woman doctor from the States became interested hearers, then gatherers of deep truths. Men who had no use for prohibition became ardent prohibitionists as they grasped and assimilated scientific facts made easy of comprehension by the lucid arguments and vivid statements of fact.

The Archbishop At Trepassey.

Special to Evening Telegram. TREPASSEY To-day. Archbishop Roche and Frs. McDer-mott and McGrath arrived on Fri-day morning. All Biscay Bay and Portugal Cove were illuminated during the night and bon fires blazed. Trepassey itself was all on fire with enthusiasm. Beautiful and grand bunting were all over the harbour. On Saturday night an immense torch-light procession took place. The people lauded His Grace and priests through the harbour. Every house was illuminated and all buildings, including Church, Convent, Presbytery and School and Hall. The firing of guns was something to be remembered. In fact the whole-souled demonstration was very pleasing to His Grace. Religious functions were: the erection of Stations of the Cross on Friday night; the reception of a nun Saturday; on Sunday Missa Cantata was celebrated by Rev. Fr. McGrath. Address from the people and magnificent sermon by His Grace. The beautiful stained glass windows in the memory of Venerable Dean Born were unveiled. Confessionals were then administered (225 candidates) by His Grace. His Grace was delighted with his visit to the old Catholic parish of Trepassey and praised the faith and loyalty of the people. He thanked the Pastor, Rev. Father Renouf, for the work done in the Parish and the success of his reception. The Sisters of the Convent also came in for a share of the good work done. The Archbishop and party left for Re-news at 3.30 Sunday.

C. M. B. C.

The attendance at the opening of the class at the Cathedral yesterday afternoon was probably the largest in the history of the class. At the invitation of the class, the members and departments of the C. M. B. C. were present in full strength under the command of Lieut.-Col. Rendell. Several of the Volunteers were also present. The congregation was one of the largest bodies of men ever seen in the sacred edifice and the service was one long to be remembered. Rev. Canon White read the lesson, the service was taken by the Rev. J. Brinton, and the preacher was His Lordship the Bishop. In his inspiring address the Bishop made timely references to the war describing it as the greatest national crisis in the history of our Empire, and emphasizing the necessity of self-sacrifice on all sides if victory was to ultimately rest upon our flag. He strongly urged upon all present the necessity of church attendance, unity and happiness in home life, and the scarcity of the individual life.

THE SKILLED WORKMAN.

All admire the living wonder who's an expert at his trade, who is quick and skilled as thunder, with his jumpy, brush or blade. I have watched an earnest toiler, as he mends the pans and pots, puts new handles on the boiler, solders up the leaky spots; and he never wastes a motion, every move some purpose serves; and it is a balm and lotion to the soul to watch his curves. Oh, we meet so many tinkers who have only learned to fall, that all sane and soulful thinkers wonder why they are not in jail. I have watched the men who blunder, botch things up with saw or spade, and I blessed the living wonder who has really learned his trade. If I had a hundred pieces, I would say to them, "My dears, if you wish to save the pieces, as you journey down the years, you will learn some stunt and do it, better than all other maids; locate knowledge and pursue it, till you're perfect in your trades. Stringing beans or paring apples, darning socks or skimming milk, winding clocks or scrubbing chapels, let your work be fine as silk."

Urgent Meeting of St. Bon's Ladies' Association takes place in the Archediocese Library Wednesday, Oct. 13th, at 2.30 p.m. A large attendance is requested. MARY C. BATES, Hon. Sec.—oct11,21

BATTLE OF CAMPERDOWN 1777. In this year France and Holland were allied against Britain. The Dutch had prepared a naval armament with the view of combining with the French fleet and making a descent on Ireland. The Dutch, under De Winter, set sail for Brest to join the French. The English Admiral Duncan, who was on the watch for the fleets, attacked the Dutch at Camperdown, off the coast of Holland. The Dutch met with a heavy defeat. For this victory Duncan was created Earl of Camperdown.

HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP JONES born, 1840.
ORLEANS taken 1870 by the Germans. A town in France 75 miles S. S.W. of Paris, and birth place of Joan of Arc. It was besieged by Attila in 451; sacked by the Normans twice (in 855 and 865) and the raising of the English siege in 1429 shed lustre on the Maid of Orleans. Doubtless the modern Attila would spare neither its Cathedral nor the celebrated Hotel-de-Ville.

GREAT WAR 1914. Two German aeroplanes flew over Paris and dropped several bombs, one damaging Notre Dame; 4 deaths.

Russian warship Pallada sunk in the Baltic by a German submarine and all hands lost; later, two German submarines were also sunk.

WONDERFUL PEOPLE IN WONDERFUL ACT.

Patrons will be delighted with the great act that will be presented to-night at Rossleys by Atlantis Plak and Jack. Spectacular novelty and lighting change artists. Mr. Rossley saw this act at the Palace Theatre, New York City, and determined to secure it. They are wonderful people and there's one thing no one can say they have seen it before. These artists carry no less than a ton of stage rigging, their own wonderful machine for producing their marvelous electrical effects. They make nine changes of costume each performance and change every night. Miss Atlantis is the proud possessor of a diamond dress. One of their drop curtains is of gold material, a blaze of brilliance; another costume is made of 260 yards of silk in which this artist performs a dance, standing on a huge rolling globe. Donald Fisk makes four changes of costume in full view of the audience. These artists have just finished a tour of the world, have appeared before royalty in the world's greatest act of its kind. Seeing is believing; the town will ring with this act.

The Bishop's Seventy-Fifth Birthday.

To-day the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland attains his 75th birthday. Half of his lifetime he has spent in presiding over the Church of England in Newfoundland, and the goodwill not only of those of his own communion but of those of other communions will go out to him on this anniversary of a ripe old age spent mainly in the service of the people of Newfoundland.

DENIES GERMAN STATEMENT.

General Sir Charles Ferguson denies through the War Office most emphatically a statement published by a German newspaper and alleged to have been taken from the diary of an English corporal, a prisoner of war in Germany. In this statement the General was quoted as having said in an address delivered to his division on August 20, 1914, before engaging the Germans that no quarter was to be given to the enemy.

Jest That Hurt.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Is your husband a good c a r d - player?" asked the visiting lady graciously. "He thinks he is," said the hostess. The husband, a b i g, self-confident sweet-tempered boy, laughed in an uncomfortable, embarrassed fashion. His wife's thrust had been accompanied by a little laugh which was supposed to take the sting out of it, but I very much question if it did. "There's many a true word spoken in jest," is a comfortable old saying. It gives us a sense of being justified when we use the veneer of a jesting manner to cover some rather acrimonious criticism or rebuke. I think husbands and wives (and sometimes other relatives) are painfully apt to get into this habit of criticising each other in the presence of other people. It Makes Outsiders Feel So Uncomfortable.

Sharp little rebukes, nagging little criticisms, sarcastic comments are freely poured out in the presence of uncomfortable and embarrassed witnesses, sometimes with this thin veneer of jest, sometimes without. "You may think that story is funny, but you wouldn't if you had heard it twenty times before." "Oh, you mustn't expect my wife to be on time! She doesn't believe in keeping appointments." "You think that would be an expensive way to buy! Well, it is, but that doesn't bother my wife. Nothing like that ever disturbs her." "Other men seem to find time to stay with their children once in a while, but my husband is different. He thinks he is too busy, though, goodness knows, he has plenty of time for his golf!"

Sometimes The Little Hurts Fester.

So the sharp tongues wag and sometimes the one who is criticised sends back as good as he gets. And again he winces in silence under the embarrassment and hurt of a public nagging, or tries to laugh with the rest and pretend he doesn't care, when he really does. Sometimes under an unruffled exterior rancor accumulates and a hundred little hurts fester away until they become unbearable. Then, after some small dig, comes a burst of pen-up resentment and its object wonders why some little jest should bring all that down on his head. He feels aggrieved, but he has no reason to be.

It seems to me it is both better taste and kinder for husbands and wives to make whatever criticisms of each other they think best in private. In public let them be loyal to each other, unwilling to discuss each other's faults and quick to sympathize and defend when necessary and justifiable.

I frequently receive questions which are not of general interest, and which I would much prefer to answer by letter. I wish the writers of such questions would sign their names as well as a nom de plume. They need not fear that I will use their real names in the paper. At present I have two letters, one asking me to give a name for a club, the other to tell where I live. One is signed "A Friend," the other "Alicia." If these two will send me their addresses I will answer by letter.

Revenue Meets Expectations of Hon. Mr. White.

Reduction of Over Nine Million Dollars on Ordinary Expenditure.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Canadian revenue for the first half of the fiscal year has come in at a satisfactory rate. In that period which began on April 1st last, the total revenue of the Dominion has amounted to $73,243,514, or an average of $12,207,252 per month. For the whole of the last fiscal year, of which four months were antebellum, the revenue amounted to $132,073,481. In his budget speech of February last, in which the special war taxes were imposed and the duties of customs raised seven and a half per cent. upon the general and preferential tariff rates, the Minister of Finance stated that unless additional taxation measures were adopted the revenue of the Dominion for the present fiscal year would on the then basis of taxation not exceed $120,000,000, or an average of $10,000,000 per month.

Mr. White said further that it was necessary to face the situation and raise an additional $20,000,000 of additional revenue which would make a total of $150,000,000 for the present year in order that the finances of the Dominion might be established on a sound basis. It now appears that the expectations of the Minister will be realized, as the first six months' revenue has reached $73,243,514.

For the first six months of the present fiscal year there is a reduction on ordinary expenditure of $9,244,016.84 over that of the corresponding period of last year. On the side of capital expenditure the expenditure remains about the same as last year, being largely noncontrollable as the large works and undertakings comprised under this heading are all under contract.

As for war outlay there has been expended to date $105,478,369. Last year Parliament voted $50,000,000 and this year $100,000,000, a total of $150,000,000. The amount expended and therefore available for expenditure before the next session of Parliament is $44,221,530. There is, therefore, an abundance of money for raising, training, equipping and paying troops.

Harmony Arrives.

The S. S. Harmony, Capt. Jackson, arrived in port from the Moravia stations on Saturday night last. Since leaving here the ship called at Kill-nick, Okak, Turnavick, Macovic and other points on that coast collecting salmon, trout, oil, etc., of which she brought a large quantity to this port. From Macovic here the run occupied 4 days. The Harmony reports very stormy weather on Labrador coast during the past month, and that the fishery at the places visited has been very poor. Winter has not yet set in on the Northern Labrador and the people in this section of the coast are well supplied with food. After taking on board supplies the Harmony will make one more trip north and will go as far as Hebron.

Fogota Back.

The S. S. Fogota, Capt. Dalton, arrived in port from the Fogot mail service last evening, having made all ports of call to Change Islands, going and returning. Fair weather was met during the whole trip, the only delay being caused by dark nights and fog. The Fogota brought a full freight and the following passengers in saloon:—L. Miller, W. Goodyear, R. Parsons, W. Russell, Mrs. K. Humphries, Mrs. Charles White, Miss Jennie Moore, Miss M. Moore, Miss A. Humphries and 26 in steerage.

Yesterday's Funerals.

INSPECTOR COLLINS.
The funeral of the late District Inspector Collins took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence at Fort Townsend and was largely attended, prominent amongst the mourners being a contingent of members of the Constabulary. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket supplied by Undertaker Myrick. At the Cathedral Rev. Fr. Carter officiated. Interment was at Belvidere Cemetery.

MR. ROSCOE.

The mortal remains of the late Mr. John Roscoe were laid to rest yesterday afternoon at the Church of England Cemetery. A large concourse of citizens attended the funeral, including a representative body of Masons of which deceased was the oldest member. At the graveside Rev. Mr. Cracknell recited the prayers for the dead.

Father Matthew

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.
Yesterday being the anniversary of Father Matthew, the Apostle of Temperance and founder of the institution, the members of the adult and juvenile branches of the Total Abstinence and Benefit Society marched in two separate bodies to the R. C. Cathedral and attended 8 o'clock Mass which was celebrated by Rev. Father Nangle. After Mass the Sacrament of Holy Communion was administered to upwards of 800 men and boys and the scene was a most imposing one.

Recovered From Knife Wounds.

Patrick Richardson, who left here as drummer for E. Company, Newfoundland Regiment, and who was stabbed in four places with a pocket knife at Stob's Camp, as previously mentioned in the Telegram, has recovered from his wounds, after spending ten days in hospital. He is now with his Company at Arr. Scotland, and his brother Jack, who is also at Arr., writing to his parents says that he and Paddy are in the best of health.

Slight Blaze.

A slight blaze, caused by the upsetting of a kerosene oil lamp, occurred at the residence of Mr. Dicks, Flower Hill, on Saturday evening last. An alarm from box 338 summoned the Central and Western firemen, who were on the scene promptly. Their services, however, were not needed as the inmates of the house quenched the blaze within a few minutes and before any damage was done. The "all out" signal sounded four minutes after the alarm had been sent in.

STONEHENGE MONUMENTS SOLD.

Stonehenge, most ancient of British megalithic monuments, has been sold at auction for $33,000 to C. H. E. Chubb, an Englishman. It is on Salisbury Plain, Wiltshire. It consists mainly of a circle of vast stones, nearly half of them now prostrate, which originally supported horizontal stones, and of several pairs of huge stone columns arranged within an inner circle of much smaller stones. This monument is generally supposed to date from the bronze age.

A Word to the Wise.

Why pay more for less satisfactory results? Incandescent gas is at once the cheapest and the best form of illumination. It is the cheapest not only on account of its low initial cost, but also because by keeping the air in a room constantly moving gas is a powerful ventilating agent and therefore a foe to doctor's bills. Moreover, being "artificial daylight" it does not exercise a deleterious effect upon the eyesight. Children can work or read with perfect safety and comfort in a gas-lit room, and parents may thus avoid laying up for their youngsters the headaches and general "lack of tone" which eyestrain causes.

Gas may claim aesthetic as well as hygienic value. Modern gas fittings have been brought to a very high standard of artistic merit, and can be designed to harmonise with any period of decoration or furniture. Gas means household health, economy

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 9. The Governor, Newfoundland:

The French Government report violent enemy attacks on Loos, following an intense bombardment, severely repelled, with very important losses. In Champagne has been further progress. An enemy work called Trappe, several trenches, and two redoubts in the salient before the enemy's second line have been captured. Quick-firing guns and over two hundred prisoners were taken.

The Russian Government report incessant fighting near Drinsk. On the Pripet near Pensk, the enemy advanced. In the south were Russian successes. About four thousand prisoners have been captured.

In Serbia, enemy forces which crossed the Danube, suffered reverses.

HAMILTON IN COMMAND OF SALONIKA FORCES.

LONDON, Oct. 9. Only to-day have English newspapers been permitted to announce that Brigadier General A. B. Hamilton is in command of the British forces landed at Salonika.

SANCTION FOR LOAN.

LONDON, Oct. 9. When the Commons reassemble on Tuesday, the first business will be the consideration of a bill authorizing the Government to make the project of loan in the United States.

SIR JOHN FRENCH'S REPORT.

LONDON, Oct. 10. Sir John French officially reports the repulse of German attacks at several points, and says: "We have pushed our trenches steadily forward northeast of Loos, between Hill 70 and have gained ground, varying from 500 to 1,000 yards in depth." Also, he says that great numbers of enemy munication, it is said, prevented the possibility of disaster at the beginning of the Entente movement. When the landing began three railways out of Salonika were in Austrian-German hands and employees had received advance instructions from Berlin to obstruct the movement by all possible means. Rumors spread of impending widespread sabotage, but the Minister of Communications said to have made a hurried trip to Salonika, seized control of the railways and discharged all the Austro-German employees.

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE DETERMINED.

ROME, Oct. 9. King Constantine of Greece was told plainly by British Minister Elliott, during an audience on Thursday, that Great Britain and France are determined to push through the military expedition now being landed at Salonika.

BULGARIAN CONSUL GENERAL.

LONDON, Oct. 9. Joseph Angeloff, Bulgarian Consul General here, has sent the following telegram to the Bulgarian Premier: "If the reported alliance of Bulgaria with our eternal enemies and persecutors, and against our liberators, is true, I protest and tender my resignation as Consul General."

REPRESENTATIONS AGAINST THE LANDING OF TROOPS.

LONDON, Oct. 9. Strong representations are said by the Central News to have been made by Bulgaria to Greece against the landing of French and British troops at Salonika.

BELGRADE CAPTURED.

VIENNA, Oct. 10. The Austrian official statement concerning operations against Serbia, given out here to-night says: The Austro-Hungarian troops, under General Von Kovesky, yesterday penetrated the northern part of Belgrade, and stormed the citadel early this morning. German troops from the west cut a path to the Konak royal palace, and Austro-Hungarian flags are flying from the Castle of the Serbian King. Both above and below Belgrade, the enemy watching the banks could nowhere resist the allies.

CAPTURE OF BELGRADE CONFIRMED.

PARIS, Oct. 10. The announcement made yesterday by the German War Office of the capture of Belgrade, is confirmed by an official communication from Nish, issued here to-day by the Serbian Legation. The Austro-German attack on the lower Drina, on the north-western frontier, is said to have been repulsed with enormous losses for the Teutons.

IN A DILEMMA.

LONDON, Oct. 10. The Athens correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company sends the following: The Journal Patrie learns that a secret treaty was signed by Germany and Bulgaria, at Sofia on July 17th, awarding to Bulgaria as the price of participation in the war, northern and southern Albania, the whole of new Serbia, Greek Macedonia, Salonika and Kavala. A British subject who had arrived from Bulgaria, expressed the opinion that the Bulgarian Government is in a dilemma, and will do everything to avoid hostilities.

BULGARIAN MINISTER NOT YET LEFT LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 10. Up to noon to-day Hadji Mischeff, the Bulgarian Minister to Britain, had taken no step towards leaving London. Mischeff takes the ground that Bulgaria had no quarrel with Britain, and any initiative as to the severance of the Entente must come from the latter country. Significance is attached here to a statement from Sofia last night, that the British and French Ministers had an audience with King Ferdinand before their departure. Optimists see in these the glimmer of a possibility that the Balkan wheel may take another turn.

ON THE SERBIAN FRONT.

PARIS, Oct. 10. Belgrade has fallen into the hands of the Germans, after desperate resistance. Fighting continues all along the Danube and Save fronts. The purpose of the enemy is to advance through the Moravia valley, separating Kastolac (38 miles southeast of Belgrade) from the Dobruvatz (on the Danube 35 miles east of Belgrade), where his chief efforts will be concentrated. The enemy suffered enormous losses, making unsuccessful attacks on the lower Drina. The enemy has been thrown back on the island he occupied before opening preparations.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Oct. 10. Reports of the night indicate that the German losses in the offensive of yesterday against the positions of the Allies near Loos were very heavy. This information was given out by the French War Office this afternoon. Other violent attacks on the part of the Germans, southeast of Neuville St. Vaast, were completely repulsed. All French advances of recent days were maintained. There has been fairly spirited cannonading in the sector of Illions, as well as at Quennoy and Neuverin. A German counter attack last night at Arverin Farm in Champagne district was checked by the French. To the southeast of Tabbure, there has been violent bombardment attended by the use of suffocating shells. In the Arbonne, French batteries put an end to German artillery fire in the sector of St. Thomas. In the Lorraine district several German reconnaissances have been completely repulsed.

PARIS OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Oct. 10. A Paris official statement reports the repulse of German attacks near Loos, and the recently captured Tabbure Hill and in Lorraine. In the Lamer region a trench which the Germans had taken the preceding day was captured by the French.

of the declaration of London, the refusal to declare cotton a contraband until forced to action by public opinion; ordering the release of cargoes of magnetic ore, destined for Germany, after its capture by the navy. All these signs of omission or commission are tending to curtail the effect of British naval strength upon the war. The attack on the foreign office is coupled in some papers, with a demand for the retirement of Sir Eyre Crowe, Permanent Secretary, whose wife and mother are Germans.

SHORTAGE OF SILVER.

LONDON, Oct. 10. The country is faced with a serious shortage of silver, although the coinage, minted since the war began, is valued at about thirty million dollars. The shortage is ascribed chiefly to the quantity of silver used for paying soldiers. The Mint is being urged to increase the coinage as £26 worth of silver bullion has a circulation value of £100 when coined.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Oct. 10. The Austro-Germans are now in full possession of Belgrade and the suburbs surrounding the city and have begun advancing eastwards towards the mountains, which the Serbians last year so stubbornly defended against the Austrians. For some time to come the invaders, it is expected, will have to fight only rearguards, whose duty it is to delay their progress, for the Serbians will doubtless do as they have done on previous occasions, fall back until they reach positions in which they will have the best opportunity of holding their ground. Military writers here do not expect a pitched battle on this front for ten days or a fortnight, by which time the allies' forces will have landed at Salonika and should have joined hands with the Serbians.

The Bulgarians, so far as is known, have not yet made any incursion into Serbian territory, and it is believed they will hold their hands until they know how matters go with the Austro-Germans. Some Balkan authorities indeed, still believe, that Bulgaria will not interfere eastwards towards the northward of the Anglo-French expedition, for to do so would immediately bring the shells of warships into their ports on the Black and Aegean Seas, probably followed by the landing of Russian troops at Varla and Burgas, and of other Allied troops at Deleghatch.

Greece and Roumania remain interested spectators, though the former has given assurances of her benevolent neutrality towards the Allies. Representatives of the Entente Powers have furnished the Greek Government with information concerning the agreement between Bulgaria and Germany, which, it is asserted, gives the Bulgarians a free hand to deal not only with Serbia, but with Greece as well, should the Central Powers win.

Active artillery engagements along the crests of the mountains east of Souchez and towards the south of the roads to Lille. Several enemy attacks against Fortin, Dubois and Givency have been repulsed. Heavy fighting in trench, the Germans and torpedoes on the Lihons sector. Reciprocal bombardment at Novoron and Quiniviviers. In Lorraine, fighting continues in the trenches, which we had lost, but which we reconquered yesterday, on the front of Reillon Lintray. Night calm on rest of the front.

RUSSIAN CAPTURES.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10. During an action yesterday on the Rostokl Montovo front, our troops at different points captured 1,175 prisoners, two trench mortars and eight machine guns.

NEWSPAPER CRITICISM.

LONDON, Oct. 10. Newspapers devote a considerable amount of editorial space to discussion of foreign officers' sphere in the Balkans movement. The Post, after remarking that its handling of Balkan affairs has been a "series of blunders which would have been remarkable in a Parish council," discussed at length the work of the foreign office in the diplomatic exchanges, which preceded war, and then in the contraband controversy over iron ore and cotton. The Post finally turns bluntly to the proposal for establishing an international court of appeals for decisions of the Prize Court, saying: "It appears that proposals are being entertained by the foreign office. We are glad Lord Strachie is to raise the question in the Lords. Should it prove to be the case that such design is being prosecuted, we say plainly that in the name of our national honor and our national security, the resignation of Sir Edward Grey, and the reorganization of the foreign office will be demanded. We do not propose to commit the decision of a British Judge, to a mongrel assembly of foreign jurists, in which Great Britain can be out-voted by representatives of Ecuador, Bolivia, Switzerland and Germany. The record of the foreign office is sufficiently dubious. It may be that its series of unparalleled blunders is due simply to incompetence. If it is not incompetence, what is it?"

CLEAN FOREIGN OFFICE.

LONDON, Oct. 10. The utter failure of British diplomacy has resulted in a general press attack upon the foreign office. The newspapers are recalling the officer's inaptitude since the outbreak of the war, instancing the permitting of enemy reservists to cross the seas unmolested, the attempted enforcement

How Do You Buy Roofing?

If you are in the habit of asking your dealer simply for some "Ready" Roofing or "Rubber" Roofing, you will probably get a roofing that is not guaranteed, or one made by an unknown manufacturer, or one which will begin to leak a few years after it is put on your roof. You avoid all these risks, save money in the long run, and get a manufacturer's guarantee of 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness, backed by the best responsibility when you insist on Prohibition Meeting at Botwood.

Botwood has had the pleasure of a visit from the W. C. T. U. delegates, viz., Mrs. Benedict, Mrs. Pippy and Mrs. Howland. On Friday night, Oct. 8th, a Prohibition meeting was held in the Orange Hall which was largely attended, friends coming from Laurieston and Burnt Arm.

The hall had been decorated with banners, flags and posters. Mrs. Pippy with the help of friends attended to this and these decorations made their silent appeal. Besides the deputations, officers and members of the local committees were on the platform and the Rev. J. T. Newman, at the request of Mrs. Park, President of the Ladies' Committee, took the chair. The musical part of the programme was in charge of Mrs. Benedict who presided at the organ. The singing of Prohibition songs set to favourite and popular airs enlivened the meeting. After the song: "Stand up for Prohibition" the chairman gave a hearty welcome to the ladies of the White Ribbon Crusade and briefly referred to the great work accomplished by the women of this society and their noble founder Miss Crag woman. He expressed the hope that after the meeting men and women would be ready to do their best to secure a victory for Prohibition on Nov. 4th. After another song: "All Round the World," Mrs. Pippy addressed the meeting, and referred to the grand work the women are doing in St. John's, and told of the part they have played in this great cause of Temperance with a view to secure for the whole island Total Prohibition. She also spoke of the good work done by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. in the Penitentiary and other departments of their philanthropic work. Although not accustomed to platform speaking yet she made a powerful and touching appeal to the fathers and mothers to help to save the boys.

The White Ribbon Rally song was sung after which Mrs. Howland's address drew the meeting. At once we discovered that no ordinary woman was speaking. With the utmost ease and grace of manner, the power of convincing argument combined with eloquent appeal she dealt with this great subject in its many and various aspects. From her earliest years she had taken an interest in the work of Temperance and out of her extensive and long acquaintance with this movement she brought the information which was given with irresistible force. The facts and figures which she presented so clearly made a profound impression. Many were touched to tears when in conclusion she appealed to the parents on behalf of the boys and girls. She affectionately as a mother could, pressed the questions: "Shall your boy be a drunkard?" "Who wants the daughter to be a drunkard's wife?" It is impossible to do justice to the address of this noble lady. All were delighted and favourably impressed with her address and were sorry that she could not be heard at another meeting.

Another song was heartily sung: "Newfoundland, My Newfoundland," after which a collection was taken to defray expenses of hall, etc.

Mr. W. J. Aitken, Secretary of the local committee, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for their deputation and in doing so reminded the men of their opportunity on Nov. 4th, and expressed the hope that no man would be too indifferent to go to the poll.

Assign Tuck briefly seconded the motion which was carried by a rising vote.

The chairman presented the thanks to the ladies and Mrs. Howland responded. Meeting closed with singing the National Anthem.

Pape's Diapysin For Indigestion Or Sour, Acid Stomach

In five minutes! No dyspepsia, heartburn or any stomach misery.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapysin. It makes all stomach misery vanish in five minutes.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Pape's Diapysin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapysin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diapysin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapysin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is a scientific, harmless and pleasant stomach preparation which truly belongs in every home.

Under the provisions of the War Measure Act, 1914, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to order as follows:—

1. The Colonial Secretary may, if he considers it expedient so to do, appoint a person to be Censor of the writings, copy or matter printed or the publications issued at any printing house, printing establishment or works, and any person so appointed shall have the right to enter and visit the premises with any assistant or assistants, from time to time, and remain there for such time or times as may be reasonably necessary, and to examine, consider, approve or reject any writing, copy or matter printed or proposed to be printed at or issued for publication on the said premises, and after the appointment of any such person and the notification thereof to the proprietor, manager or person in charge of the said premises, no writing, copy or other matter shall be printed there or issued for publication therefrom which is not approved by the person so appointed as Censor, and any such printing or issue for publication, without such approval, shall be deemed to be a contravention of this order.

2. The printing or circulation or procuring to be printed or circulated of any letter, communication, report or news concerning the operations of the present war or the movement of any of the forces, naval or military, of His Majesty or of His Majesty's allies, or as to any of the naval or military forces or operations of His Majesty or of His Majesty's allies connected with or for the purpose of the war, or criticising or commenting upon the policy, proceedings or action of the Government of any neutral state, if such printing or circulation or any of the statements contained in such letter, communication, report or news be likely to cause disaffection to His Majesty or to prevent, hinder or interfere with the success of the forces by land or by sea of His Majesty or of His Majesty's allies, or to prejudice His Majesty's relations with any foreign state or otherwise to assist or encourage the enemy, or to prevent, embarrass or hinder the successful prosecution of the war, shall be deemed to be a contravention of this order, and, in any prosecution of this order, and in any prosecution for or in respect of any such offence instituted by the authority of the Attorney General, it shall be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that the printing or circulation of the statements in respect of which the prosecution is brought were likely to cause disaffection to His Majesty or to prevent, hinder or interfere with the success of the forces by land or by sea of His Majesty or of His Majesty's allies or to prejudice His Majesty's relations with a foreign state or otherwise to assist or encourage the enemy, or to prevent, embarrass or hinder the successful prosecution of the war.

3. For any contravention of this order the offender shall be liable upon indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, and to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or upon summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, and a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars; and the proprietor of the premises, and every director or officer of any corporation controlling or operating the premises, where any such offence is committed, shall also severally be liable upon indictment or summary conviction to imprisonment and fine as aforesaid. Moreover, all copies of any book, newspaper, periodical, pamphlet, or tract printed, issued, circulated or published in contravention of this order, in the possession of whomsoever they may be, may be seized and destroyed by any peace officer, and, if the Colonial Secretary so direct, the printing presses, plant and machinery within or connected with the premises shall be seized, and the premises may be closed indefinitely or for such period as the Colonial Secretary may name.

Under the provisions of section Six of the War Measures Act, 1914, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Rules and Regulations:

1. No person shall, without lawful authority, publish or communicate any information with respect to the forces, ships, or war materials of His Majesty or of His Majesty's Allies, or with respect to the plans of any naval or military operations, by any such forces or ships, or with respect to any works or measures undertaken for or connected with the fortification or defence of any place, if the information is such as is calculated to be or might be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy.

2. No person shall, without the permission of the competent naval or military authority, make any photograph, sketch, plan, model or other representation of any of the forces or ships of His Majesty or of any of His Majesty's Allies, or of any naval or military work, or of any dock or harbor work in connection with any place in this Colony, and no person in the vicinity of such forces, ships or work, shall, without such permission, have in his possession any photographic or other apparatus, or other material or things suitable for use in making any such representation. For the purpose of this regulation, the expression "harbour work" includes lights, buoys, beacons, marks, and other things for the purpose of facilitating navigation in or about a harbour.

3. No person shall, by word of mouth or in writing, spread reports likely to create disaffection or alarm among any of His Majesty's forces, or among the civilian population.

4. Any person who attempts to commit, or procures, aids or abets, the commission of any act prohibited by the foregoing special regulations, or harbors any person whom he knows, or has reasonable grounds for supposing, to have acted in contravention of such regulations in like manner as if he had committed the act.

5. No person shall, without lawful authority, sell, give, distribute or permit the selling, giving or distributing of any photograph, sketch, plan, model, or other representation which is forbidden to be under paragraph two of these orders and regulations.

6. No person shall, without lawful authority, sell, give, distribute or permit the selling, giving or distributing of any photograph, sketch, plan, model, or other representation which is forbidden to be under paragraph two of these orders and regulations, upon summary conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding five thousand dollars, or imprisonment for any term not exceeding five years, or to both fine and imprisonment.

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—

1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $931,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,000.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.
