Poetry. The Voice of the People.

Swing inward, O gates of the future!
Swing outward, ye doors of the past!
For the soul of the people is moving
And rising from slumber at last;
The black forms of night are retreating,
And white peaks have signalled the day,
And freedom her long roll is beating
And calling her sons to the fray.

Swing inward, O gates, till the morning
Shall paint the brown mountains in gold;
Till the life and love of the new time
Shall conquer the hate of the old.
Let the face and the hands of the Master
No longer be hidden from view,
Nor the lands He prepared for the many
Be trampled and robbed by the few.

Swing inward, O gates of the future!
Swing outward, ye gates of the past!
A giant is waking from slumber
And rending his fetters at last.
From the dust where his proud tyrants
bound him,
Unhonored and scorned and betrayed,
He shall rise with the sunshine around him,
And rule in the realm he has made.

New Every Morning.

BY SUSAN COOLIDGE, Every day is a fresh beginning,
Every day is the world made new;
You who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here is a beautiful hope for you—
A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over, The tasks are done and the tears are shed Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover; Yesterday's wounds, which smarted and bled, Are healed with the healing which night has shed.

tight; With glad days, and sad days, and bad days Shall visit us more with their bloom and their blight. Their fulness of sunshine or sorrowful

Let them go, since we cannot relieve them, Cannot undo and cannot atone; God in His mercy receive, forgive them; Only the new days are our own. To-day is ours, and to day alone.

Here are the skies all burnished brightly, Here is the spent earth all reborn, Here are the tired limbs springing lightly To face the sun and to share with the morn, In the chrism of dew and the cool of dawn.

Every day is a fresh beginning,
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain,
And, spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
And puzzles forceasted and possible pain.
Take heart with the day, and begin again.

The British parliament has never manifested any real interest in its fate, so its defeat will not be to them the blow that discussions amounting to about $6.00. was, no doubt, intended. Indeed Lord Salisbury has struck the knockout blow in the argument by refusing, after the Senate's rejection of the arbitration treaty, to re-open the Behring sea question. It will be remembered that the Paris tribunal at the arbitration of this matter some years ago awarded Canadian sealers damages to the left, many unable to get seats were obliged extent of about half a million dollars which to go away.

Just how it would affect this Canadian industry is not quite clear, as we have the material which the United States paper mills must have at any price. The great revenue producer of the new Dingley bill is the proposed tax of 10 cents per pound on tea, which would yield on the basis of present imports about nine millions of dollars. The duty on tobacco has been increased and a 44 per cent additional internal revenue tax placed on beer. It is estimated that the bill in its present form will provide for a large balance on the credit side of the revenue and expenditure

Nova Scotia vs. Tasmanla Apples.

Mr. Frank H. Willett, of Tupperville, who recently returned from a trip to London, has left with the Monitors samples of Tasmanja apples which are placed on the English market in competition with American fruit. And dangerous competitors they must be too if the exchequer in presenting his annual budget, compliment the country upon its remarkable progress and prosperity. Some offences, such as coining and forgery have almost entirely disappeared, and the only indictable offence which shows a considerable increase is that of threats with a view to extend below the number recorded ten years ago. How many countries are able to line up with Great Britain in thus recording a decrease in crime? What other nation has written such an important declaration in its archives for 1896? British justice is sometimes sneered at, but the sneer is lost when times sneered at, but the sneer is lost when —The revision of the Dingley tariff bill is being watched with interest by Canadians who are particularly desirous to learn the fate of the coal and lumber clauses. The tariff will not be passed by the senate before July 1st. Already in many points a radical departure has been effected from the lines of the bill as it passed through the house of representatives, and while coal and lumber stand at 75 cents per ton,

The broad tire will be a road maker, not a rut maker, and its adoption should be general, even if this has to be effected by compulsory legislation. The state of Rhode Island has just passed a wide tire bill, and while we hardly dare say the legislature got their idea from Annapolis, it is an endorsement of our policy. It is something to lead in a movement like this.

A RUM-STILL CAPTURED—Our Worthy Patriarch, Lambert MoNayr, of the Woodbine Division of the S. of T., informed the members a short time ago that there was a rum-still at work in a cellar of a house on the Cherryfield road. A watch was accordingly set on the place. After about eight days sufficent information was gathered to proceed to make a capture. The Scott Act inspector and the Inland Revenue officer were sent for. They arrived by the evening train on the 7th, and started off with two other men for the scene of action. The capture was made at 7 p. m. The notorious distiller, McNaughton, fied into the woods and made his escape. The distillery was found to be in good working order. Everything was there which was necessary for the work. Upwards of 300 gallons of partly made liquor were destroyed, and about 20 gallons of the deadly poison were taken away to be sold by druggists for the special benefis of sick people who want to die quickly. While on their way back to Springfield through the woods with the still, rum, and part of a hogshead of molasses, they were attacked by the enraged McNaughton, who threw large stones at them. An attempt was made by the party to arrest him, but he fled into the woods and was lost in the darkness of night.

To the Editor of the Monitor: To the Editor of the Monitor:

Referring to the article in your issue of 21st April, respecting apple barrel staves, hoops and heads made by the Annapolis Manufacturing Co. Ltd., at Lequille, I beg to say that we have decided to put on the market a made up barrel of both soft wood and hard wood, with our patent coiled hoop. The price of these improved barrels are so low as to be within the reach of all. I would ask the farmers not to give any orders for barrels for the approaching season until they have seen our new barrel. If, by the reason of the large extent of ground to cover I have seen our new barrel. If, by the reason of the large extent of ground to cover I should be unable to call upon all the farmers in this section and show them the barrel, I am permitted to say that Messrs. Rundiman, Randolph & Co. have consented to show samples of the barrels and quote prices and take orders. Our hoop capacity being limited, fruit-growers would do well to make immediate arrangements for their requirements, as it will be "first come first served."

All the rules of business are worthless if they are not founded on that one and only foundness; it is the one and only policy. Upon it, and upon it alone, can a good reputation be built, and a man in business without a repusation for honesty might just as well stop. Any deviation from the rule of honesty in business may bring temporary gain, but it invariably means permanent less. On the other hand, a strict adherence to an honest policy may mean a temporary loss, but it is sure to result in permanent gain.

The influence of mental states on the usua health has long been recognized. A paper read before the London Hospital Medical Society goes into the subject with great particularity, and shows that mental disturbanc often causes even organic derangement.

It is admitted that arterial strain, an unusual pressure of blood on the walls of the arteries, tends to produce a fatty degeneration of their inner coat, and thus gives rise to arerial tumors and to cerebral hemorrhage which sometimes causes paralysis, apoplexy and softening of the brain.

Now it is certain both that such tension may result from continued domestic anxiety, and that it is the occasion of many cases of porter of the Acadian was spending a short time in the village, he learned that Mrs. es to which some of the forms of angina are Breaking the Colt. We believe that seven out of ten colts bred on farms are broken to harness during the winter, as that time affords more leisure and the sleigh is perhaps the best to hitch to for the first few times. Some colts require very little training to accustom them to going in harness, but in order to handle a high-spirited. wild colt successfully the driver must possess four qualifications in a high degree: kiudness, patience, firmness and perseverance. He ust remember that the colt is a dumb brute, without the faculty of reasoning, but is gov rned by instinct. No colt, however gentle, should be hitched to anything until there has been some preliminary training. Hal tering, bridling, checking, harnessing, and handling should all have been done a number of times before he is attempted to be hitched o a vehicle. It is well to teach the colt to drive beside some old trusty horse before be ing hitched up. One man should not attempt The right side is the proper one on which to hitch the colt. A level headed assistant can asually prevent any tangling up or wild leaping by the use of a "side line," which is of the bit, then passed under the jaw and through the ring of the right side. It is no ecessary to even tighten the line except the colt attempt to go beyond his place or become unmanageable without it. It is needless to say that strong and comfortably fitting haress in every portion is important. Before hitching, the waggon or sled should e run out where there is plenty of room so that there need be no turning at first. There is no better place than a sod field for the first ew lessons to the sleigh. The team should be coupled by the lines and driven about with the neckyoke on for a little time before the traces are attached. Always hitch the old orse first and when all is ready for a start ttach the colt's traces and be off without further waiting. Have a good, strong, calmneaded man in the sleigh to handle the lines, great many cases of cancer are due to mental at first. Keep perfectly cool whatever hap nens, and never under any circumstance se your temper, but ever remember tha the colt cannot be expected to understand what is demanded of him until he is taught. Many people expect more from a colt than they would look for in a human foreigner who has to learn new ways. Nearly every spirited colt does something alarming before he is thoroughly broken. A colt that goes off like an old horse is not likely to ever make a record breaker. Ambition and courage are both commendable qualities and often show themselves in the colt by his attempts to run, rear, lunge, and even kick at first Cool headed firmness, with kindness and patience, will make him a tractable, willing

An Apostrophe to the Hen.

Eggs are always cash. They are ready or market the minute laid, and the sooner they are got to market the better. Nothing that the farm produces sells better. They equire no cultivation, pruning, churning or harvesting, but are at once in salable condition. With plenty of eggs on the farm there are a host of good things in the kit-chen and money in the family purse. Gathering up eggs is like picking up dimes and come. Meanwhile inventors, as shown by the records of the patent office, exercise much them. When everything is dull in winter, the egg basket has wonderfully helped out many a poor farmer. The crops may be poor, the provisions low, the family cow dry, poor, the provisions low, the family cow dry, with a long wait for the next growing season, but the hen comes up smiling and is ready to get a pound of tea or a sack of four. If treated well, she will respond as readily when the snow is on the ground as when the fields are green. She is a friend to the poor and rich alike.

Planting the Lawn.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SETTING OUT THE TREES "When planting trees in the lawn," writes Eben E. Rexford in the March Ladies' Home Journal, "we must remember that the tree of to-day is only a hint of what the tree of ten or twenty years to come will be. The trees we plant to-day, perhaps five or six feet tall, and with a spread of branches not more han two feet across, should in a dozen years from now, stand twenty five feet high, and have a spread of fifteen or twenty feet. If we plant them but ten or twelve feet apart now we will have, at the stage of develop-ment they are expected to reach in a dozen years, a perfect thicket of branches overhead and donse shade beneath. Nover plant with regard to 'regularity,' that is 'so many feet apart each way,' as the rule has been laid down for orchards. "If you want several shrubs on a small lawn, and the space is too small to allow you to set them as far apart as they ought to be, in order to give them the benefit of space individually, group them, that is, plant them in a clump. The idea is to make the three, or four, or five shrubs which you plant in the group produce a unity of effect which will give much the same impression that one well-developed specimen would. By selecting as to foliage, as well as flowers, satisfactory results may be secured. In the irregularity

Insects on House Plants.

The red spider and green fly are the principal cause of so many window and greenuse plants looking sickly at this season of the year. The leaves turn yellowish and inally fall off. The dry air of the living room s just what suits these pests. If the plants can be sprayed frequently with an atomizer. these insects will not multiply as rapidly as the house the effects of the spraying will not ast very long. Spraying the plants with a decoction of tobacco, or kerosene emulsion, will save them if applied in time. It is also good plan to place tobacco stems on the soil all around the plants. These act not | hu! When the plants are grown in boxes it is a good plan to cover the entire soil with to-bacco stems. On outdoor rose beds, they are invaluable, serving not only as a mulch, but as a fertilizer, and insecticide as well.

A tablespoonful of gumwater stirred in a pint of starch that has been made in the usual manner will give linen collars, shirts, etc., and lawns, either black or printed, a look of newness when nothing else can restore them after washing. -"A. Swindle" is the name that appears over the office door of a struggling lawyer in a city of Canada. A friend of the unfortunate gentleman suggested the advis-ability of his writing out his first name in Swindle, as the case might be would sound better than the aignificant "A. Swindle." When the lawyer, with tears in his eyes, whispered to him that his name was Adam the friend understood and was silent.
