THE KING IS DEAD! LONG LIVE THE KING!

HIS LATE MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.

An Empire Mourns KING EDWARD VII.

Born November 9, 1841.

Died May 6, 1910.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF THE KING'S DEATH

"May 6th, 11.50 p.m. His Majesty the King, breathed his last at 11.45 to-night in the presence of her majesty Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Princess Royal, the Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria and Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyle.

"Sgd., LAKIN, REID, POWELL, DAWSON."

Edward VII. assumed the throne on the death of Queen Victoria on January 22, 1901, so that he was King less than 10 years. He was born at Buckingham Palace on November 9, 1841, the son of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gothe. In 1860 he made a triumphant tour through the United States and Canada. The Prince was married on March 10, 1863, to Princess Alexandra, oldest daughter of the Danish Prince, who became some months later King Christian IX. Six children were born, two of whom, the Duke of Clarence and Prince Alexandra died. The surviving children are:

George Frederick, Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall and York, who now becomes King; Princess Louise, who was married to the Duke of Fife; Princess Victoria Alexandra and Princess Maud Charlotte, who was married to Prince Karl, of Denmark, now King Haakon VII. of Norway.

THE NEW KING, GEORGE V.

FRIDAY, MAY 20th, FIXED AS

DATE FOR KING EDWARD'S FUNERAL

LONDON, May 9.—Friday, May 20 has been definitely fixed as the day for King Edward's funeral.

It was officially announced at Buckingham Palace at noon that the Queen Mother Alexandra was bearing up bravely.

THE KING'S LAST MOMENTS.

For some hours previous to his death, His Majesty had been unconscious. The Queen stood by His Majesty's side with her hand placed in that of her husband, and nothing could be heard but the solemn voice of the Archbishop of Canterbury as he read the prayers.

Then almost in the presence of death King Edward opened his eyes and with a look of recognition gazed at the Queen. Once again his eyes closed, this time in death. It was just as if he was sinking into sleep.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA RESIGNED

The body of his late Majesty lay Saturday and Sunday in the bed room in which he died. It is a room he used as a sleeping apartment since he became king. On a table near the head of the bed lie a few simple white flowers and violets placed there by Queen Alexandra, one of Her Majesty's last offerings to her dead husband. Since death came Queen Alexandra has found the greatest comfort in the presence of her dead. Throughout Saturday and Sunday Her Majesty paid continual visits to the death chamber, frequently kneeling in silent prayer.

Her Majesty is facing her bereavement with calmness and resignation. Her example is being followed by her invalid daughter, Princess Victoria, who was attached to her father by the bonds of deepest sympathy and affection.

THE "QUEEN MOTHER."

It is stated that in future Queen Alexandra will choose to be known as the "Queen Mother," a title that has not been used in England since the days of Henrietta Maria, Consort of Charles I.

The new Queen will be known as Queen Mary. This title is taken by the expressed wish of King Edward, who chose it some time ago. The dowager house of the Queen Mother will be Marlborough House. It was her first home in London, for she was brought there as a bride in 1862. In all probability the Queen Mother will spend a portion of each year in Denmark. In 1907 she built a summer residence on Klampenborg Bay, seven miles from Copenhagen, which during the last two summers she shared with her sister, the Dowager Empress of Russia. These sisters have always been deeply attached to each other.

SERVICE IN LONDON

The services in all the churches throughout the United Kingdom yesterday had special reference to the death of the King. One of the most simple observations took place in the chapel in Buckingham Palace, where the Royal

DECLARATION OF HIS MAJESTY GEORGE V.

At the Court of St. James, May 7, 1910—Present, the King's Most Excellent Majesty-in-Council, His Majesty being this day present in Council was pleased to make the following declaration:

"My Lords and Gentlemen:—My heart is too full for me to address you to-day in more than a few words. It is my sorrowful duty to announce to you the death of my dearly loved father the King. In this irreparable loss, which has so suddenly fallen upon me and upon the whole Empire, I am comforted by the feeling that I have the sympathy of my future subjects who will mourn with me for their beloved Sovereign whose own happiness was found in sharing and promoting theirs.

"I have lost not only a father's love, but the affectionate and intimate relations of a dear friend and adviser. No less confident am I in the universal loving sympathy which is assured to my dearest mother in her overwhelming grief.

"Standing here a little more than nine years ago, our beloved King declared that as long as there was breath in his body he would work for the good and the amelioration of his people. I am sure the opinion of the whole nation will be that this declaration has been fully carried out.

"To endeavor to follow in his footsteps and, at the same time, to uphold the constitutional government of these realms, will be the earnest object of my life. I am deeply sensible of the very heavy responsibilities which have fallen upon me. I know that I can rely upon Parliament and upon the people of these islands and of my Dominions beyond the sea for their help in the discharge of these arduous duties, and for their prayers that God will grant me strength and guidance. I am encouraged by the knowledge that I have in my dear wife one who will be a constant helpmate in every endeavor for our peoples' good."

Whereupon the Lords of the Council made it their humble request to His Majesty that His Majesty's most gracious declaration to their Lordships might be made public, which His Majesty was pleased to order.

KING GEORGE V. PUBLICLY PROCLAIMED KING WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

LONDON, May 9.—With the time-honored ceremonies of a most brilliant and impressive character, George V this morning was publicly proclaimed King. The precincts of the palace were crowded with a great mass of people. None of the officers wore mourning, this having been removed for the occasion. Sir Alfred Scott Batty Garter, Principal King of Arms, with the Duke of Norfolk, read the proclamation, while great throngs stood uncovered in a drizzling rain. The Duke and Sir Alfred then called for three cheers for the King, and the crowd responded with three deafening hurrahs. The band of the Coldstream Guards struck up "God Save the King."

The young Princes, from their point of vantage in the windows of Marlborough House, stood with their hands at salute. When the National Anthem was concluded the first gun of the battery in St. James' Park belched forth a royal salute, and the people in the square and streets at the same moment took up the refrain "God Save the King." This was probably the most impressive part of the ceremony, the fervent singing of the crowds, which first reached those in the balcony as a hum, growing in volume as more and more singers joined in, while at minute intervals the gun half drowned the chorus.

The people having concluded the singing of the National Anthem, turned towards the Marlborough House and renewed their cheers for the King, a glimpse of whom was caught as he stood at the window with Queen Mary at his side. A moment later His Majesty lowered the blind.

The Earl Marshall and his attendants proceeded to the Ambassadors' Court, whence they drove to Charing Cross, and thence to the City of London, to read the proclamation to the people at the designated points. The route to the city proper was lined with seven thousand troops.

Thousands upon thousands who had waited since early morning, silently watched the stately progress of the heraldic procession.

THE KING IS DEAD

Honored by the World—Loved by His People

LONDON, May 7—"WELL, IT IS ALL OVER, BUT I THINK I HAVE DONE MY DUTY."

These words fell from the lips of King Edward VII. in a waking interval.

The actual complaint from which His Majesty suffered was an asthmatic cardiac affection, and as usual in such cases oxygen had been administered to him at intervals since Thursday night.

There is no doubt that the King caught a chill which developed so fatally during his week end visit at Sandringham for the purpose of inspecting the changes and alterations which had been made in the house and grounds of

AMONG PROUD RAJPUTS

BRITISH LABOR M.P. TELLS OF VISIT TO FEUDAL INDIA.

Old-Fashioned Warrior People of Rajputana Are Proud of Their Medieval Customs and Have No Wish to Change—Chivalry Reigns There as in Europe Five Hundred Years Ago—Swords Everywhere.

North from Baroda the country becomes a great grassy plain, very much like the South African veldt, particularly between the Modder River and Magersfontein. The men change. They come more jaunty in their carriage. They part their boards in the middle, and comb back the sides to their ears. They carry ancient guns and old-world scimitars. When the sun sinks in the evening a thousand herds of cattle wander home over innumerable tracks converging on the villages. This is Rajputana, the home of proud warriors and brave women.

Baroda, with a smile, says, "I am modern"; Rajputana, with a haughty sniff, says, "I keep the old ways." Commerce and politics have both invaded parts of it; some of its chiefs hanker after English Philistinism. But these degeneracies are still exceptions. The first Rajput chief I met, says J. Ramsay Macdonald, M.P., in The London Chronicle, the well-known Sir Pertab Singh, of whom so many romantic tales are told, was deploring the fact that the hand of age was upon him, that there was no chance of another war, and that the probability therefore was that he would have to die on a bed.

Pax Britannica was nothing to him except an evidence that the Golden Age had passed. He was praying to be allowed to lead his polo team against Bengal politicians, and was promising to do the necessary damage with the mallets of the sticks. Two or three days under the same roof as Sir Pertab made me understand his spirit of Chitor.

Whoever comes to India and does not sit down on the plain below Chitor with a history at his elbow and a plan on his lap, and then go up the hill—on an elephant if possible—to the ruined temples, palaces, bazaars, tanks, and the still almost perfect towers, might as well have stayed at home. My friends are dining it into my ears that there is no India. I do not know, but Chitor gives me something to go upon.

Round these walls tradition has woven most sacred garlands. Wending one's way up the long zig-zag road, which is flanked all along by massive walls and spanned every now and again by a frowning gate, one may still imagine that he hears the tramp of the Rajput cavalry going out to die, and it is easy to translate the hum of voices and other sounds which come down and go up from the villages at the top and bottom of the hill as the bridal song of the women going to their awful death by fire in the cavern of the palace rather than become prisoners in the hands of the Moguls.

The whole place is a vast temple of chivalry. Through these narrow lanes and over these ruined walls one should go bare of head and foot. The sun set whilst we lingered there. Suddenly the land was filled with the beating of tom-toms; lights flickered from the temples; the hum of prayers rose on every hand; queer forms moved in the gathering gloom. The spell of the Mighty Past fell upon us. At Chitor the past is dead, and only comes from its grave at nightfall. But not far off, in the new capital of the state, Udaipur, the Old Time still lives in the light of day.

The railway steps far out from the confusion of Udaipur as an uncleaner at the threshold of a temple, and you have to drive for a mile or so to get to the city. Towering over the city are great white palaces and temple domes. The hills around are capped by palaces and forts, and temples. Holy men wander unkempt, ash covered, almost naked, in its streets, or sit beneath its trees, contemplating the Eternal and the all-comprehending Void.

Hardly had we arrived when we were told that a religious procession had started from the palace. Then they came blowing horns, beating drums and cymbals, on foot on horses, on elephants, the Maharana under a golden umbrella near the rear.

The rains were over, and the time had come when the chiefs gathered round their ruler and prepared to go out with him to give battle. But before they went they had to propitiate the gods, therefore a holy man came and sat for ten days in a temple without food or sleep holding a sword on his knees, and every evening before the sunset the Maharana and his warriors went to do homage before him. They used to chant sacred songs and recite sacred verses on the way.

The sword of a long dead ancestor had been sent from the palace the day before, and the Yogi sat with it in the temple as though peace had not been declared, and as though other sounds than those of seeping still followed the rains.

Next morning the Maharana sent for us. Inside the palace all was Oriental bustle. Camels, horses, fowls, elephants wandered in the courtyards, the white walls of which simply flared with purity in the sun. A perfect maze of moving humanity, from whining babes to the decrepit, aged moved about.

Suitors with their petitions sat at the doorways, soldiers paced up and down in the arches, with swords on their thighs, scribes and courtiers lounged against pillars, and stretched themselves on marble benches. Through endless passages, up innumerable stairs we were taken, and at length were ushered into the presence of a small, keen-eyed, grey-bearded, dignified man. He explained that he had been busy with his devotions. He toyed with a sword which lay across his knees.

We were away back in the Middle Ages in the presence of a man whose greatest boast was that no Moslem blood ever tainted his own, and that he had been true to the Rajput motto, "He who keeps the faith is preserved by God." He stood for the old ways, he told us. When he goes out into his domain 3,000 retainers follow him.

He sacrifices every morning to his gods; he sits on his judgment seat and hears the petitions of his people; he keeps his sword drawn and ready, ready by hewing at clay images. Even his clocks decline to bow the knee to Calcutta, as his ancestors declined to accept the yoke of the Mogul—so he lives half an hour behind official time. I do not know to what enormities of headthom I committed myself, but I said it was well that the old should not die.

He smiled approvingly, murmured that some of his chiefs were not so faithful as himself, shifted his sword, held out his hand, and we returned through the courtiers, the soldiers and the suitors into the noisy and the crowded courtyards far below.

Was Mahoney Murdered?
It was the custom in the good old days, especially in Ireland, to hang condemned men for half an hour, and then hand them over to their friends. A man named Mahoney was hanged in this way. At the end of half an hour his body was given to his friends, who put him in a coffin they had brought with them, and galloped off with him on a cart. But before they were out of sight of the gallows authorities the corpse, in the exuberance of his joy sat up in the coffin and shouted, "Hooroo!" A "dial" terrified lest this exhibition of vitality should cause the executioner to come after them, hit the hanged man playfully on the head with his stick, remarking, "Kape quiet, ye spalpeen." The silencing was so effective that the victim of it never woke again, but was well and truly "waked" that same evening.

There was no doubt that the blow on the head killed him. The facts came to the knowledge of the authorities, and a justice was appealed to for a warrant for the culprit's arrest on a charge of murder. But the justice refused it, explaining that as the man was dead, having been hanged for half an hour and given up to his friends legally a corpse, it was impossible that he could have been murdered.

The Thermometer in Sickness.
Currie of Edinburgh employed a thermometer in the treatment of typhoid fever patients with the cold douche as early as 1797. He was ridiculed by his German contemporaries as an instance of medical decay in English medicine. The first clinical application of the thermometer was made by Santorius of Padua. He invented a thermometer open at the end. After being held by the patient it was plunged into cold water. Boerhave taught the importance of the thermometer. De Haen (1704-1776) must be given the honor of introducing the thermometer into current use at the bedside. It was not until 1850 to 1870 that it came into general use.

Honoring Motherhood

The month of May is chosen appropriately for celebrating the virtues of motherhood, since it was dedicated long ago to the most favored of the mothers of the race. "The month of Mary," the last month of spring, is marked by celebrations in honor of the Virgin, and one does not need to belong to any particular church or profess any especial creed, to understand the homage of Christendom.

The world has always wondered at and revered the amazing devotion of mothers. There is no suffering too great, no toil too arduous for the mother to endure or undertake in behalf of the son or daughter. It is the most unselfish devotion in the world, and it asks so little in return, it persists so patiently in the face of carelessness and even cruelty.

Yet, deep in the heart of most men, however low they may fall, is left a reverence for the mother, a longing for her care and tenderness. It is the last touch of humanity which lingers in the depraved nature and is often the redeeming grace through which an appeal is made to higher things. How often has the man who has fallen upon evil days exclaimed: "Don't let my mother know!" How often has a man remained in exile rather than let his mother see what life has written on his face!

The boyish trust in a mother's word was voiced amusingly by the child who insisted: "If my mother says so, it's so, even if it isn't so." This abiding belief in what a mother says, this trust in her truth and honor are the greatest tribute which womanhood received. Should this belief be scattered, this trust be destroyed, the world seems dark indeed.

It was Napoleon who declared that the world's great need is good mothers. It may occur to the reader of history that Napoleon's own mother could not have taught him the lessons of unselfishness and honor, or his career of unheeding ambition would have been different. However, the saying is true and will always be in force. While woman has the power of moulding the early thought and character of the race, she need never complain of the narrowness or insignificance of her sphere. It is world-wide and everlasting.

The declaration was made recently that woman has been neglected in the matter of monuments and memorials, that her work receives little public recognition. However, woman has cared very little through the ages for the monument or the tablet. They may commemorate public work or civic virtues, but she knows that her best work is more enduring than either brass or marble.

Three years ago the thought came into the mind of a daughter who desired to commemorate the anniversary of her mother's death that it would be a beautiful tribute to all mothers, the living as well as the dead, if their children, on a given day, would unite in the simple wearing of a white flower and thus make "Mothers' Day" universal. The authorship of "Mothers' Day" belongs to a Philadelphia woman.—Miss Anna Jarvis.

MISSIONARY GIRL LEAPS INTO RIVER.
(Boston Post, April 30.)
Miss Philena DeLong, 36, formerly a missionary to China, tried to commit suicide early last evening by jumping off Harvard bridge.

She was rescued by Dr. Andrew Patrick Buckley and William West, and taken unconscious to the Cambridge Relief Hospital, where she later revived and was found to be suffering from an unbalanced mind.

Miss DeLong left the house where she roomed about six o'clock, saying she was going to keep her appointment with her friend. Instead of going to Warren avenue she wandered over the rail into the water.

Miss DeLong graduated from the Gordon Training School for Missionaries, connected with the Newton Theological School, in 1899. After a term as local missionary for the Clarendon Street Baptist church she was sent to China, where she remained two years.

During her stay in China Miss DeLong is said to have tried to commit suicide by drowning.

She returned to this country about five years ago, and has been recently employed as a dressmaker. She came originally from the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia.

PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage. That's "Purity."

"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.

SERIOUS DEPLETION IN FUNDS

HARD TIMES HARD ON THE POOR CONSUMPTIVE

Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives Makes an Urgent Appeal for Money.

$25,000 Required to Cover Bank Overdraft and Pay for Medicines of Poor Patients.

These head-lines tell the story of our needs. They are heavy and urgent. Many times during the past twelve months the question has pressed itself upon the Trustees, "Can we continue the work further?" Every month brought its quota of accounts for salaries and wages of staff, bills of butcher, millman, eggs, groceries, heavy bills—a serious item—and other uncontrolable expenses so heavy as the doors were kept open.

These had to be paid somehow. Contributions—especially after the turn of the year when the financial depression was felt at its keenest—fell off to such an extent, that each month the burden became heavier.

During all this period there was only one thing to do, and that was to lean on our banker—swelling the bank overdraft. The trial was the severest in the history of these Muskoka Homes, in which nearly 3,000 persons, stricken by the dread white plague, have been cared for.

Shack Life at Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives.

But never for a single hour did the doors of the Free Hospital fail to swing open, and give a welcome to suffering ones without money and without price.

The good news has gone forth of a rich harvest the wide Dominion over.

Friends, we come to you at this time, when the clouds of depression are being lifted, asking that you now—in the direness of our extremity—help to lift the burden being carried—not for any personal gain, but solely, alone, only on behalf of suffering sisters and brothers.

Our plea is on behalf of the sick ones.

What will you give? Do not say nay. Help generously. Help all you can. Help some. Help now.

School Boys Must Submit To Teacher's Authority

The case of King vs Minnie Zinck, a Lunenburg county school-teacher, was decided by Judge Forbes on Tuesday of last week. The decision was in favor of the defendant, the school teacher, and is of vital interest to all parents and teachers throughout the Province. Justice Holloway had decided against the teacher but this judgement was overruled and the conviction quashed with costs. We quote from the judgement of Judge Forbes as follows:—

The defendant was convicted by a Justice of the Peace for assaulting and ill-using a boy named Shupe, the boy being a scholar of the school where the defendant taught as a teacher at Martin's Point.

The law section 55 C.C. says, "it is lawful for any school master to use force by way of correction toward any pupil etc, provided such force is reasonable under the circumstances."

Was the force used by Miss Zinck, as teacher, reasonable? I certainly think it was very reasonable and would be so under less trying circumstances. Of course what force is reasonable in one case may not be so in another, but in the circumstances here proven, a boy nearly fifteen years of age, good stout frame, hearty and good physique, strong and boisterous in his sports, well able to learn, but indifferent to his studies, a tease in school hours, an untruthful boy copying his work from more studious scholars and passing it off for his own and generally disobedient. Such a boy takes it out of the teacher more than a dozen ordinary pupils and here was a school of fifty-five scholars with an average of fifty-four ranging from one to nine grades and one gentle ladylike female teacher in charge.

I think the conviction of the teacher for chastising the boy Shupe was wrong and the conviction will be set aside and this appeal allowed.

WHY NOT?

Brastford Expositor:—In a local church recently the ladies were requested to remove their hats during services. The plan has been tried elsewhere but without continued success. Only time will reveal whether or not the local movement will succeed. But why should not the ladies remove their hats in church? So far as we know there is no good reason. Custom may not have decreed such a course in the past, but circumstances and incidentally the size of the hats, would seem to call for it today. In theatres ladies willingly remove their hats, if indeed, they wear them at the performances, and the question naturally arises, why not in church, where, in the absence of raised or tiered rows of seats, the need is even greater than in play houses??

On some of the extra large turbans there has come about a fashion of using a border of small feathers. These are substituted for fur and are an advance style of the spring turbans. A four inch band of tiny white tips is used on a black panne velvet turban, with a turquoise and crystal cabochon at left front. The reverse of the style is a narrow band of black tips used on a white beaver. The belts of chamote, dyed to match the costume of cloth or velvet, are the choice just now of the smart girl. A barbaric ornament of dull silver set with enamel or colored stones is the buckle most worn.

The Russian blouse coat is one of the smartest models of the spring, and many of the summer linen suits are being made up with these coats. The coat consists of blouse and peplum that are joined beneath the belt and the closing made at the left side. The sleeves may be plain or puffed.

VOGUE POINTS.

Colored Blouses Are Going to Be Smart the Coming Summer.

Those who are making lingerie blouses should pay attention to the colored ones that match the coat suit in coloring, but are made of wash material. They are severely simple, consisting of the usual side tucks with a frill down the front. The sleeves are moderately close fitting and have a three inch turnback cuff. The fabrics used are dotted swiss, voile ninon, marquisette and grenadine.

A smart suit of heavy linen crash has a gored skirt and hip length coat. The coat has a collarless neck, embroidered in self color and closing with two large buttons worked like the neck and fastened through large loops on the edge of the front.

New founces for old petticoats, or, for that matter, for new ones, too, are to be had ready to sew on in several styles and materials. The founces are shirred, plaited or of plain circular shape. The founces have drawstrings that adjust them to the width of the skirt.

This nine gored skirt is one of the latest designs of the spring walking skirt. It is also an excellent pattern for white and colored separate skirts for summer wear. It can be either laid in inverted plaits in the back or finished in habit style.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 34 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 624, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Cloth Top Boots Will Be Popular This Spring.

The most popular shoes for the spring will be the cloth top boots with substantial soles, and certainly they are most comfortable, soft and easy to wear, snug and trim around the ankles and with a dressiness of appearance, especially when the cloth tops are accompanied with patent leather vamp.

Practically all of the tailored suits carry plaited skirts in some form. There are many new styles in tunic or half draperies over plaited founces.

SMART BREAKFAST JACKET.

More conservative forms are found in panel plaited effects, a plain panel alternating with a plaited one or side plaits alternating with box plaits.

Homespun and hopsacking, though rather heavy looking, are really light in weight, and it is predicted that these fabrics will be greatly favored for spring and early summer wear. They shed dust easily and are just the right weight.

Breakfast jackets that can be belted are always desirable. They give an effect of trimness and neatness that is in every way attractive. The jacket is made with fronts and back. The fronts are slightly full and finished with hems.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 44 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 624, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

A Suggestion From Paris Anent Coats. Lingerie Dresses.

The short coat which fits loosely and hangs in straight lines is the style most emphasized in spring suits. Some of these suits, by the way, are of liberty silk, which is a following of the suggestion made by the heavier corded silks.

Some of the new lingerie dresses are charming. They are shown over tulle silk slips in the prettiest shades. On some of them are girdles and deep bands of colored silk. Even the elaborately trimmed ones escape the ground, which length makes for comfort and cleanliness.

Semi-princess gowns will be much worn in the spring and summer. The dress illustrated is adapted especially well to foulard silk and lingerie materials. The dress is unlined and made with a front panel which is continuous and gives long lines. The side and back portions are joined at the belt. The skirt can be either gored or gathered.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 624, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DYPHTHERIA.

Here's the Truth, Madam, About Brown Breads

A prejudice, an imaginary truth surrounded by falsehood. Which reminds you of the Brown Bread prejudice, the Whole Wheat Idea and the Food Pads.

If, Madam, you will kindly introduce us to the brilliant individual who started the fallacy that Brown Breads is sounder, more substantial, more sustaining than White Bread made, say from FIVE ROSES flour, we will gladly undertake to put him right. For, you see, we deny the allegation and, if necessary, would face the—er—"alligator".

This is the how of it, Madam. Brown or "Graham" Bread is made from Graham Flour.

Which, of course, is just common flour with the bran added—lots of it, from 25 to 100 per cent, maybe.

Now, Bran is nothing but the woody fibrous husks of the wheat berry which are utterly indigestible in the human food tube, and therefore absolutely useless as nutrients. Might as well eat an orange plus the skin, a banana plus the peel, a coconut plus the shell.

So that, Madam, if YOUR brown bread contains 25 to 80 per cent bran, surely less useless as food, it's a very costly fad. Aren't you paying too much for your whistles? Then think what whole bread made from FIVE ROSES flour contains no waste at all, being 100 per cent pure nutrition. Moreover, the sharp, horny particles in bran-charged flour (Graham) tend to irritate the alimentary tract. Any attempt to eat brown bread three times daily without intermediate rest quickly results in indigestion, a diarrhoea with well-marked disturbance of the stomach. This is one of the many valuable contributions to science of Sir Lindsay Branton who established the fact of this cumulative irritating effect and even gave to the resultant "brantonitis" the name "BREAD GASTRITIS".

Think, Madam, just you imagine an easy way to eat brown bread without any harm to your stomach. For we make FIVE ROSES, and from it YOU can make bread infinitely more substantial, sounder, healthier, more sustaining, more digestible and healthful than the very best of brown or whole wheat breads. Ay, Madam, and infinitely cleaner—for it's impossible to purify the low-grade flour and bran in brown bread like we clean FIVE ROSES. Our word on it.

—After a brief reign of less than ten years, Great Britain's king, Edward the Seventh, has passed away. Though brief his reign, long enough it was to prove him "every inch a King" and to enthrone him in the hearts of his people as well as to win him world-wide honor and esteem. King though he was and upholding monarchial traditions and customs he has been probably the most democratic ruler that has ever occupied a throne,—a man of the people and for the people. Even his faults and follies, which under the "fierce light that beats upon a throne" have been magnified and emphasized, are forgotten and forgiven because they are so human, and because he has shown himself possessed of the large mind and noble qualities that spring from unflinching kindness of heart. Succeeding his noble Queen mother at a troublous and critical period he came to the throne all untried in his qualities of statesmanship, tact and finesse but so promptly did these qualities develop that all yielded to his way and he proved himself in many respects an ideal monarch. His royal influence was always exercised in behalf of peace, and he held the proud position of the world's greatest monarch, while bearing the noblest of titles, "The Peacemaker."

POPULARITY OF BOX PACKED APPLES.

One of the most important changes which the past season's trade in Canadian apples has brought to light in this part of England is the greatly improved popularity of box packed apples. Many merchants now declare themselves to be whole heartedly in favour of this system of packing apples in bushel boxes. Not only are these boxes, they say, more conveniently stored on the ship, but they are easier to handle in their warehouses, and meet a long felt want in supplying the demands of small retailers who cannot dispose quickly of the large amount of apples contained in the ordinary barrel. Although, of course, the retail price of the apples is slightly higher than that charged for fruit in barrels, yet the attractiveness of the packing and the selectness of the apples themselves is declared to be usually found sufficient to counterbalance any disadvantage in this respect. (From the Report of Trade Commissioner, Leeds and Hull, England.)

SOUTH SHORE SHIPBUILDERS BUSY

"Uncle Robert" Enters His Ninetieth Year

Deacon Robert Marshall, of Clarence, Annapolis county, familiarly known as "Uncle Robert," by his many, many friends celebrated his 89th birthday on Saturday, April 30th.

By twelve o'clock on that day a number of relatives and friends had gathered under that hospitable roof, where in days gone by, so many happy hours have been spent. They were warmly welcomed by the devoted daughter, Miss Annie while the hearty hand-shake and cordial smile of welcome from "Uncle Robert" betokened the youthful heart keenly alive, despite the burden of years. One regret was that owing to illness a number of the expected guests could not be present, conspicuous among whom were the eldest daughter, Mrs. Norman Longley, and Pastor Wallace who was detained on account of the illness of his brother Isaiah. Mrs. Wallace was there however, and by her bright and cheerful presence and hearty co-operation in the events of the day did much to make amends for the pastor's absence.

At one o'clock the guests gathered around the table where, amid friendly greetings and social intercourse, ample justice was done to the sumptuous dinner so delightfully prepared and served by Miss Marshall, assisted by her nieces, the Misses Eva and Mabel Leonard and Miss Carrie Longley.

After dinner Mrs. Wallace read a poem written by Mrs. Pearson, Paradise, addressed particularly to "Uncle Robert," reviewing the past and conveying birthday greetings and the good wishes of his many friends. Mrs. Wallace also read letters from Rev. John Brown, England, a former pastor, Rev. H. H. Saunders, late pastor, now of Sussex, N. B., and many other friends containing birthday greetings and good wishes for the future, after which Mr. William Miller, aged eighty-six years, being a brother-in-law, and eldest guest, spoke very tenderly of the past; of the many happy family reunions held in that hospitable home, where an open door and cordial welcome had been extended to all,—especially to the preachers of the Gospel these many years; of the changes,—a long life such as Uncle Robert's could not pass without its sorrows,—and the fact that two wives and nine children had "crossed the bar" made it plain that his life had been no exception to the rule. One loved daughter, Ella, had been called away since the last birthday, but "Uncle Robert's" firm trust in God and an open heart and hand to help in every good cause had made the dark places but stepping stones to higher planes—and now in the evening of life he is able to say,—"The Lord is good, blessed is every man that trusteth in Him". Mr. Miller said,— "I cannot wish you many happy returns of the day, but I wish you many happy days."

Deacon Norman Longley then read a passage of scripture and Mr. Miller offered prayer. The afternoon mail brought many more letters and cards from his friends conveying birthday greetings. Uncle Robert is truly privileged in many ways. His sight is good, he reads and writes without his glasses, and so he is spending his later days. Friends in many parts of the world, even so far away as India, England and California receive and esteem his letters. The old farm has lately been sold to Mr. Vernon B. Leonard, a grand son, and a young man in every way worthy to occupy the well-known property.

School Board Meeting

A meeting of the Bridgetown School Commissioners was held in the Council Room on Tuesday evening, the 3rd. inst. with Dr. Jost in the chair and Commissioners Dr. M. B. Armstrong, Mayor Hoyt and E. A. Craig present.

The Chairman reported that there would be two vacancies in the teaching staff of the school, to be filled for the next school year.

A resolution was passed to the effect that from this date all inexperienced teachers engaged to teach in the Bridgetown Schools, shall be started on a minimum salary of one hundred and eighty dollars per year, said salary to be increased by order of the school board from time to time according to merit and the experience of the teacher.

Also it was resolved that the following teachers be engaged by the board to teach in the different departments of the Bridgetown Public School for the next year as follows, viz:—

Miss Hoyt for Grade 2, Primary department.

Miss Mary Palfrey for Grades 3 and 4, advanced Primary department

Miss Chipman for Grades 5 and 6, Intermediate department.

Miss Bishop for Grades 7 and 8, Preparatory department and Mr. H. L. Bustin for Principal, High School department.

Also it was resolved that the Chairman of the Board at once instruct the Truant Officer of the town to take to school all children between the ages of six and sixteen, and that the Truant Officer be requested to keep a record of all children in the town between the afore-said ages who do not attend school and the names of parents or guardians or persons having charge of them, for the purpose of proceedings being taken by the Board against said parents, guardians or persons having charge of such children, under the second part of the Act entitled "Of Compulsory Attendance at School in Towns" chap. 5 R. S. E. S. 1900.

It was resolved that the Board shall meet on the second Monday of each month at 7.30 p. m. in the Craig present.

MIDDLETON WOMAN SUICIDES

A very sad event on Tuesday was the drowning of Mrs. Spurgeon Clark of Moshers Corner. While Mr. Clark was absent in Middleton his wife took their children to a lake near by, threw them into it and jumped in herself. The eldest boy a lad of fourteen managed to pull out the other children and his mother. He then raised an alarm and neighbors helped to get Mrs. Clark and the children home. But a little later she crawled out of a window and again jumped into the lake. This time she drowned. An inquest was held by Coroner Miller and the following verdict returned. That Mrs. Spurgeon Clark suicided by drowning while temporarily insane.—Middleton Outlook.

Operation on the Premier on Saturday

The Left Leg Was Amputated Above the Knee and Mr. Murray is Doing Well.

A second operation was performed on Premier Murray at the Victoria General Hospital on Saturday morning when the left leg was amputated above the knee. The operation was completely successful, and the distinguished patient came through the ordeal well. While Mr. Murray's hosts of friends throughout the Dominion will regret that he has had to suffer such a loss, they will rejoice in the assurance that his condition is now promising for an early restoration to health.

The seat of the trouble was what is known as a thrombus—a blood clot which blocked the artery, preventing circulation and causing the leg to become gangrenous and necessitating the amputation of the affected part. The surgeons who performed the operation were Dr. John Stewart and Dr. Murdoch Chisholm.

Mr. Murray is recovering well from the operation. He passed a good night and the attending physician reported that yesterday was the best day for him since he entered the Hospital. His temperature was down to normal and he was able to take nourishment. If all goes well, his recovery is expected to be rapid from this time on.

Mr. Murray's two brothers, Dr. Robert Murray of Springhill and Dr. H. Rindress of North Sydney have been in constant attendance upon the Premier since his removal to the Hospital.

Bridgetown, April 19, 1910.

The following resolution was then moved by Councillor Foster and being seconded by Councillor Armstrong was unanimously passed.

Whereas there are several wards in this Municipality which have been divided into two polling districts for the purpose of Municipal elections and whereas the Revised Statutes 1900 Chapter 70, of the Municipal Act says that a polling district is a district entitled to elect to the Council of the Municipality any Councillor.

Therefore resolved that these divisions Nos. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26 and 28 be known as sub-divisions in the respective wards and the presiding officers appointed for the sub-divisions at the respective wards and the presiding officers appointed for the sub-divisions at the Annual Session be known as Deputy Presiding Officers.

Councillor Charlton in accordance with notice given at the Annual Session moved for a change in By-Law No. 19 relating to the place where Municipal Elections shall be held by substituting the words "East Brooklyn School House" for "At or near Middleton."

This motion being seconded passed. Moved by Councillor Outhit, seconded by Councillor Porter and passed that the consideration of the tax on dogs be deferred and that the delegates to the meeting of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities held at Kentville in September be instructed to urge upon that body the desirability of recommending that all the County Councils take up this matter at the next January Session and make a By-Law placing a tax on dogs.

Ordered that this Council adjourn until tomorrow at 10.30 o'clock.

Wednesday morning; Council met at ten o'clock. All Councillors present.

Minutes of the previous session read and approved.

Upon reading the report of the Commissioners Rufus G. Whitman and Bernard Saunders appointed to inquire into the necessity for a change in Road Section No. 7 in Ward 10 where it passes the Wm. Saunders' homestead now owned by Mr. John W. Spurr.

It was ordered that the report as read be received and adopted.

Following is the report:—
To the Warden and Councillors.

Your Committee appointed to examine the Saunders Lane road beg leave to report the following:

We find the proposed change a very great benefit to all and would recommend the same be made as there will be no expense to County as they give the land and make the road.

Respectfully submitted,
R. G. WHITMAN
BERNARD SAUNDERS

Upon reading the report of the Committee, C. F. Armstrong and G. B. Read appointed to inquire into the necessity for a change in the road leading from Victoria Road so called on the North Mountain to a point on the shore of the Bay of Fundy known as the Sand Banks and it appearing that no damages be required by the parties through whose lands this road would pass.

It was ordered that the report as read be received and adopted.

Following is the report.
To the Municipal Council of Annapolis county.
Gentlemen:

Your Committee appointed to consider the advisability of opening a road across the lands of Chieftan Videto of Sand Banks in the township of Wilmot leading from the present road on the aforesaid lands to High Water mark on the shore of the Bay of Fundy would report as follows:—

We have carefully examined the location and surroundings and believe the proposed road would be in the public interest for the following reasons:—A fishing industry of proved value is located at this point and the products now must be carried on men's backs up a steep bank.—A large quantity of drift wood and sea weed valuable for fuel and fertilizer collect along the shore at this point and a carriage road to the shore would make this valuable product available to the people living in the vicinity.—people well acquainted with the shore claim that this is the only point between Margaretville and Port George where a road to the shore can be built at a reasonable cost.

Therefore we have laid out the road along the east side of the brook on the high ground to the bank thence diagonally along the face of the bank using a road already commenced by the owners of the fishery the accompanying plans show the details of location. We believe that a two rod road will be sufficient for the traffic for a long time to come and have laid it out that width. We have also entered into an agreement with Chieftan Videto aforesaid by which he accepts the opening and maintenance of the said road by the Municipality two rods wide as a sufficient consideration for damage to his property.

Please find agreement attached.
Respectfully submitted

Ordered that Weddall Marshall be cattle revee in Ward No. 16.

Ordered that Ernest Lightfoot, Wallace Early and William Rogers be taken from the road surveyors of Ward 28 and added to those of Ward 14.

The Warden in closing the Council in a few appropriate remarks called the attention of the Council to the fact that before the Council was again convened his term of office would expire and congratulated the Council upon the happy and cordial relations that had existed between the Councillors and congratulated the Municipality upon the fact that it had such an able body of men to represent it.

The Council then expressed its appreciation of the Warden and his services in a very appropriate vote of thanks which was spoken to by a number of the members of the Council and was replied to by the Warden.

Council adjourned sine die.

POLICY OF ALLIANCE

London, April 30—The Morning Post discusses Sir Richard Cartwright's speech which it thinks is in that reciprocity between Canada and the United States is again to the fore, and says, on Cartwright's hypothesis, that a policy of alliance with the United States is the only means of safeguarding the heart of the empire. Canada's immediate imperial duty would logically appear to be to meet the United States' overtures. Problems of commerce and defence are the most formidable difficulties that Britain has to face.

Will Make No Mistake

People Who seem Doubtful if The Allwise is Guiding the Heavenly Bodies Aright.

(Colchester Sun)

It seems to us that a great deal of "Tomfoolery" is being engaged in in connection with the visit of Halley's comet to the space within a few millions of miles of our planet. There are those, and in some instances we do not have to go far afield for them, who are afraid that this sweeping celestial visitor will dash into our planet and demolish it.

An American paper informs us that a call has gone forth to Christian people to join in a supplication to the Most High to intercede and avoid the disaster to our globe. It is not stated how they would have the Almighty do this, possibly by causing our earth to veer, or the comet, from their courses. But supposing this were done and our earth should into another planet, or the comet should plunge into some other planet what then would happen? Simply this: The entire universe would be thrown out of kilter and chaos would reign; destruction of our planet would come sure.

"Perhaps we are a bit off, but we have faith enough in Him who threw the planets into space and started them on their journey to believe that. He made no mistakes that will cause collision and bring disaster to this or any other planet. We are told that Halley's comet has been dashing up to and dashing away from our planet for two thousand years, and we know not how much longer than that and yet there has been no collision between the two. That, to our mind, proves that both bodies are moving in a fixed course, a course set by the Allwise Creator of the wonderful universe, a course that it is as impossible for them to veer from as it is for God to err.

Oh, ye of little faith! It seems to us to be sacrilege for people, especially professing Christians, to approach the Almighty in supplication in connection with this matter. To us it seems like saying to Him in effect: "Are you sure your fixed laws for the guidance of the heavenly bodies are sound? Please look into the matter, for we fear there may be a defect." The planets, the heavenly bodies, have not wills of their own. Theirs is the will of the Almighty. It is only human beings and other creatures that have wills of their own—that make mistakes and bring collision, disaster and destruction.

DISGRACEFUL

A shocking account of cruelty to animals comes from Margaree regarding the terrible condition in which the mail horses were found and upon which prosecution will be instituted. The report says:—"They were in a dreadful condition from galled shoulders. One of the three was in a dying condition, lying down pounding herself in pain and had been in that way all the night before, and as for the other two animals the sores on their shoulders were beyond description." The S. P. C. A. will take the matter in hand at once and see that the offenders are prosecuted.

REMEDY WORSE THAN DISEASE.

Remedies are unfortunately sometimes worse than the disease which they are made to cure. Tommy's mother had made him a present of a toy shovel, and sent him out in the sand lot to play with his baby brother. "Take care of baby, and don't let anything hurt him."

Presently screams of anguish from baby sent the distracted parent flying to the sand lot.

"For goodness sake, Tommy, what has happened to the baby?" said she, trying to soothe the wailing infant. "There was a naughty fly biting him on top of the head, and I killed it with a shovel," was the proud reply.

SLANG TABOOED.

Slang is tabooed in the home of a West Philadelphia family, principally because there is a bright little girl who displays a persistent aptitude in retaining expressive, but uncultured phrases.

The other evening at dinner the mother, father and daughter drifted into the vernacular and a fresh start was necessary. The little girl started it. "I'm not struck on this bread," she remarked.

"Margie," said her mother, "you want to cut that slang out."

"That's a peach of a way of correcting the child," commented the father.

"I know," replied the mother, "but I just wanted to put her wise."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

HER INDIVIDUAL CUP.

Marjorie is a day pupil at a private school. Her mother disapproved of her drinking from the common drinking cup, and bought her, says the housekeeper, an aluminum collapsing cup of her own.

The next day Marjorie came running home, and with a kiss, exclaimed:

"O mother, all the other little girls at school like me so especially much, and we have the most fun with my new cup! They all stand in a line and take turns drinking with it!"

Blifkins tells us he is done going to church, for whenever he goes he is barricaded on each side with a hat about three feet in diameter, while in front of him are others, making a complete high board fence, so far as sight is concerned. We advised him to take a front seat or ask the ladies to take off their headgear, but he stared at us as being idiotic. Perhaps Blifkins needs a new excuse for absence from church during the summer months, but there is something realistic about his remark after all.—Exchange.

On a field attached to a certain theological college a donkey was accustomed to graze. One day some of the students brought Neddy into the college and placed him opposite the door of the lecture room, and after gently tapping at the door left the donkey standing. The professor, on opening the door, was surprised for a moment; but his ready wit turned the tables on the jokers, for, turning to the smiling group inside the room, he said: "Ah, another new student."

The old laay had had a severe illness, and she was relating its vicissitudes to a friend or two in the grocer's shop when the minister came in. "It's only the Lord's mercy she piously declared, "that I'm not in heaven tonight."

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says every one that has used it. Sold by all dealers.

NO ANNEXATION SAYS PREMIER.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Annexation of Newfoundland, either to the United States or Canada is a visionary project, according to Sir Edward Morris, premier of the island, who expressed this view at a farewell dinner given in his honor at the Hoffman House last night, previous to his departure to attend the fisheries conference at The Hague.

"While a very decided friendliness exists between Newfoundland and the American people," said the premier, "and while thousands of Newfoundlanders have found a home in this republic, the people are absolutely loyal to the British crown. There is no annexation sentiment whatever in the island and as for confederation with Canada, there is less prospect of that than ever. Canada has nothing to offer Newfoundland which could induce her to sacrifice her independence to become a province of the Dominion."

Modern Implements are Essential to Successful Farming

Years ago farming, in all its various branches, was mostly carried on by hand. This true the seed grew, and the harvest was reaped. But time has since changed.

Farming for a mere existence is now a thing of the past, but regarded and pursued as a very remunerative business proposition.

The old methods have given away to the more modern and up-to-date time and labor saving devices. All progressive and would-be successful farms are equipped with modern implements, which are supplied in Nova Scotia by us, on the most reasonable terms and lowest prices.

Did you ever hear any one say they could not get good coffee except in the States?

I have heard it, scores of times, and it's one of the reasons that made me decide to go into the Coffee business.

Of the Americans who visit us in summer, hundreds take home a supply of Red Rose Tea because they have never used such good tea before. I determined to put up a coffee that would make for itself just as good a reputation. It has not been easy, but I am sure I have succeeded.

A good combination is Estabrooks' Coffee for breakfast and Red Rose Tea for other meals
