

IMAGE EVAiUATION
 TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences

Corporation

CIHM/ICMH Microfiche Se:ies.

CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

回

Canadian instituta for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadien de microreproductions historiquas

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy avallable for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibilographically unique, which may alier any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantiy change the usual method of filming, are checked below.

$\square$
Coloured covers/
Couverture de couisur

Covers damaged/
Couverture endommagéeCovers restored and/or laminated/
Couverture restaurbe et/ou pelliculée
Cover tlitie missing/
Le titre de couverture manque
Coloured maps/
Certes géographiques en couleur
Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or biack)/
Encre da couleur (i.e. autre que bieve ou noire)

Coloured plates and/or illustrations/
Planches et/ow iilustretions en couleur Bound with other material/
Fielié avec d'autres documents

Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/
La reliure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distortion lo long de la marge intérieure

Blank leaves added during restaration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming/ Il se peut que certaines pages bianches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque ceie était possible, ces pages n'ont pas été filmées.

Additional comments:/
Commentaires suppiémentaires:

L'Institut a microfllme le melleur exemplaire qu'll lul a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-atre uniques du point de vue bibllographique, qui peuvent modiflor une image reprodulte, ou qui peuvent exiger uns modification dans ia méthode normale de filmage sont Indiqués cl-dessous.

Coloured pages/
Pages de couleurPages damaged/
Pages endommagéesPages restored and/or laminated/
Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/
Pages décolorées, tachetees ou piquees Peges detached/Pages détechées

Showthrough/
TransparenceQuality of print varies/
Qualité inégale de l'impressionincludes supplementary material/
Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
Only edition avallable/
Seuie édition disponible
Pages wholly or partialiy obscured by errata slips, tissues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/ Les pages totalement ou partieliement obscuzcles par un feullet d'errata, une pelure. etc., ont été flimées à nouveau de façon à obtenir la melleure image possible.

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/
Ce document est flimé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generoalty of:

Now Brunswick Musoum
Saint John

The Images appearing here are the bast quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies In printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or lliustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other originai coples are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or lllustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or Illustrated impression.

The last recorded frams on each microfiche shall contaln the aymbol $\rightarrow$ (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the aymbol $\nabla$ (meaning "END"), winichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely inclujed in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, laft to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams llustrate the method:

L'exemplaire flimb fut reprodult graća da générositó da:

Now Brunswick Musoum Seint John

Les Images sulvantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition at de la netteté de i'exemplaira flimé, et en conformite avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture an pepler est impriméa sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant solt par la derniere page qui comporte une empreinte d'Impression ou d'illustration, soit par ie second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres examplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la premiers page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la derniére page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symbeles suivents apparaitra sur la derniére image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole $\rightarrow$ signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole $\nabla$ slgnifle "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés ê des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand nour être reproduit an un soul cilche, il est filme a partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à diolte, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants Illustrent las méthode.

Sia Thousand Quotations from * 1 Mtandard Histories and Biographies

WITH TVENTY THOUSAND CROSS-REFERENCES, AND A GENERAL

 $\qquad$

The Choice of "Just the Right Word"
To Make the Desired Meaning Clear and Exact-
To Make a Contrast Sharp and Strong.

THE ONLY BOOK OF ITS KIND.

English Synonyms, Antonyms, and Prepositions

The Chief Synonyms of the English Language, Numbering About 7,000, are Presented With an Especial Nicety of Discrimination. A Large List of Antonyms is Also Given, Together With Prepositions and Their Proper Use.

Edited by REV. JAMES C. FERNALD,
Editor of Synonyms, Antonyms, and Prepositions Department of the " Standard Dictionary."

A Book Which Will Broaden the User's Vocabulary.

Your Choice of Delicate Shades of Meaning
A Good Book of Synonyms is to the Writer What the Palette is to the Painter. Such a Book Comes to your Aid When in Doubt, or st a Loss for Just the Right Word, and Gives You a Variety of the Best to Choose from.

How to Draw the Best Contrast
In Comparison and Contrast, the Choice of Many Opposite Words is often Essentlal to the Strength, Clearness, and Beauty of the Syntax. A Large List of Antonyms is tr us Nearly as Necesaary as One of Synor s.

A Valuable and Original System of Arrangement
Taking one word in each group as the basis of comparison, Mr. Fernald defines this clearly und then he proceeds to show how the other words agree with or differ from it; thus the whole group is held to one fixed point.

```
12ino, Cloth, 564 pp. Irice $1.50 net.
```

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY, Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, NEW YORK.

HISTORICAL LIGHTS.

Cyclopedia of Classified Dates.

A READY REFERENCE COMPENDIUM OF NOTABLE EVENTS IN THE HISTORY OF ALL COUNTRIES, FROM B.C. 5004 TO A.D. 1895.

The histories of about 130 countries aredigeated, and the events of ancient, modern, and recent times, dated, and all geographically classified, and both chrouologically and topically arranged. The work is the result of several years of diligent labor and research, and is the oniy volume in exdstence which furnishes an epitome of the history of every country down to 1895 .

The unique feature of this book is that by which quick reference is facilitated and a general purview with the notable trend of history is observed; namely, the classificatlon of the events of the civilized world under seven general toples, as Army and Navy, Art, Science and Nature, Births and Deaths, Church, Letters, Society, and State; and these toples are alwavs arranged on two opposite pages. All the dates relate to the same years, or parts of years, and all the dates of the same period are brought together before the eye at once-an arrangement by which a comparison of paraliel events in any department of history may be readily made, and the side-lights of any event examined and studied.

The student of Politics, Science, Religion, and Church History, Sociology, Art, Law, Medicine, or of any of the Professions or Industries of civilization, or of the known events of barbarous peoples, will here find abundant and accessible historical data.

Quarto, 1,200 pages. Cloth, Price $$ \mathbf{7 . 5 0}$.

Biblical Lights and Side Lights.

A CYCLOPEDIA OF TEN THOUSAND ILLUSTRATIONS AND THIRTY THOUSAND CROSS-REFERENCES, CON. SISTING OF FACT, INCIDENT, AND REMARKABLE declarations taken from the bible.

For the use of those in every profession who, for illustrative purposes, desire ready access to the numerous incidents and striking statements contained in the Bible-students, teachers, public speakers, lawyers, ministers, and others, as also for the family library.
"' Blbilical Lighte and Slde Lights' le a specially neeful book. It ranke next to a Concordance. . . . Mr. Little'a work ia a great success."-Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.
"We have never seen a work on Bible reference so thoroughly systematlzed. . . . Admirably arranged. TOPICS ARE TAKEN FROM THE DEMANDS OF RELIGION, PHILOSOPHY, SCIENCE, ART, SOCIAL LIFE, AND POLITICS. . . . HAS GREAT VALUE FOR EDUCATED PERSONS IN EVERY CALLING."-National Baptist, Phlladelphia.
"Will unqueationably prove a mine of lnformation and of illuatration."-Observer, N. Y.
Royal 8vo, 620 pp. Price, Cloth, $$ 4.00$; Library Sheep, $$ 5.00$.

HISTORICAL LIGHTS:

SIX THOUSAND QUOTATIONS

нrom

STANDARD HISTORIES AND BIOGRAPHIES, WITH TWENTY THOUSAND CROSS-REFERENCES, AND A GENERAL INDEX, ALSO AN INDEX OF PERSONAL NAMES.

PIRA EXTRAUTS CONSIST GHIEFLY OF FACTS AND INCIDENTS, THEY ARE DEGIGNED FOR THOSE WHO DESIRE READY AUCESS TO THE EVENTS, THE LESSONS AND THE PEECITDENTS OF HISTORY, IN THE PREPARATION OF ADDRESSKE, ESSAYS AND SERIONS, ALSO IN PLEADING AT THE BAR, IN DISCUSSING POLITICAL ISSOES, AND IN WRITING FOR THE PRESS.

COMPILED BY
Rev. CHARLES E. LITTLE, Author of "Biblical Lights and Side-Lights."
" Breamine History, for it is Philosophy teaching by Experie 'se."-Carliple.

FUNK & WAGNALLS OOMPANY

Entered, according to Act of Congress, in the year 1886, by FUNK & WH(iNAIL心.
In the OAlice of the Librarian of Congress at Washangton, D. C.

PREFAOE.

Historical statements awaken in the average mind an interest which proves the existence of a hidden element in them, that does not pertain to a mere record of facts. The marvels of history, and its prosy facts as well, not only attest the onenoss of human nature and the unity of human experience, but they also forecast a shadowy premonition of coming events. This thought hus found its graceful expression in the words of a German writer, who says: "All history is an imprisoned epie-nay, un imprisoned psalm and propheey."

While historical statements nddress our curiosity for knowledge, they also stimulate the imagination to give realisicic coloring to the picture presented to the mind. Hence it is that historical fields will ever prove chosen grounds for reference and illustration by those who address the public.

This volume is the outgrowth of certain lines of historical readings, originally designed for the author's personal benefit, and to aid in the preparation of sermons and addresses. After nearly twenty-flve years of reading and brief indexing of interesting facts and incidents, a mass of quotations has accumulated, and under the natural law of selection this volume represents the "survival of the fittest."

It is not presumed that the fleld of selection is exhausted, or that omissions havo not been made of numerous interesting statements. Many lengthy selections have been excluded by the plan of the book, which permits only brief extracts. It is merely claimed that a large class of historical facts and fancies which have aided the compiler in his work are in this ready reference form offered by the publishers to others who may value historical allusions and quotations in addressing the public either by the pen or the voice. This collection is both religious and secular in its character, and the quotations are especially fitting the needs of preachers, pleaders in court, political speakers, essayists in schools, and writers for the press.

It is also claimed that the topical arrangement of these quotations, and the extensive cross-reference index, and the index of personal names will greatly facilitate their use by requiring only a brief search to find them, and making a previous recollection of the passages unnecessary. In thls way they may supply in a large measure the lack of a ready memory to those who are unable to recall historical facts and incidents, or have forgotten the volume in which they may be found. They may be equally serviccable to those who have but little opportunity for historical readinge. These quotations are taken from standard histories and biographies, and chiefly relate to the early civilized races and the American and English peoples. I'hose taken from the Holy Scriptures have been published in a volume by themselves, entitled "Biblical Lights and Side Lights."

It has been the aim of the compiler to present each quotation complete in itself, so that it may not be necessary to examine the authority quoted; yet each may be verified by the reader and the connections studied by following the reference which concludes each article. The articles quote the exact words of the various authors, except where otherwise expressed by brackets. The title, catchword and compiler's addendum, in brackets, will usually so complete the meaning of the quotation that it will not be necessary to make further examination of the historical connections. When more information is desired, it may frequently be found in the large cyclopædias by those who have not at hand the authorities to which reference is made.

A list of authorities quoted in this volume may be found on another page.
Charles E. Little.
East Orange, N. J., November 3, 1885.

INDEX OF AUTHORS.

Brief Biographies includa the following names:

Including the lives of the following persor

Ftmilius, Pandue.
Agosllaus.
A, is.
Alciblades.
Alexsnder.
Antony.
Aratne.
Aristides.
Artaxerxes.
Brutus.
Cesar. Jullus.
Camillus.
Sato the Censor.

Caio the Yonnger.
Cicero.
Cimon.
Cleomenes.
Corlolanns, Calus Marcius.
Crassus, Marcus.
Demosthenes.
Demetrios.
ilon.
Enmenes.
Fabius Maximus.
Flaminlus, Titus Quintios.
Galba.

Lycurgus.
Lysunder.
Lucult. 8
Marins, Caius.
Marcellus.
Nicias.
Nama.
Otho.
Publicols.
Pericies.
Pelopidas.

Philopomen.

Pyrrhus.
Phocion.
Pompey.
Romulus.
Sertorius.
Solon.
Sylla, Thesens.
Themistocles. Timoleon.

RAYMOND, HENRY J
Life and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln.
REIN, WILLIAM................................................................ of Martin Lither.

ROLLIN, CHARLES.............. ........................ Ancient Hintory.

Biographies of the following pcrsons:

| Arnold, Dr.  Andubon, iohn James. Browning, Elizs beth E. Carlyle, Thomas. | Combe, Dr. Andrew. Disraeli, Benjamin. Gladstone, Wm. Ewart. Hawthorne, Nathaniel. | Hook, Theodore.  Jlunt, Leigh  Lytton, Sir Edward Bulwer.  Milier, Hugh. | Poe, Edgar Allan. Stephenson, Robert |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| SOHILLER, JOHANN C. F. VON................. ................ History of the Thirty Yeard Wa.. |  |  |  |
| SHARRP, PRINCIPAL................... ..... .............. ... Binrns. |  |  |  |
| SMITH, GODWIN.... ............................. .............. Cowper. |  |  |  |
| STEPHEN, LESLIE.................................................... Prope. |  |  |  |
| STODDARL, RICHARD IfENRY.................... . . . . . . . . . Life of Washington Irving. |  |  |  |
| SYMONDS, J. A.... . ....................... ........... ........shelley. |  |  |  |
| TROLLOPE, ANTHONY... ............. .............................Thackeray. |  |  |  |
| TYNDALL, JOHN ............. .................................... Connt Rumford. |  |  |  |
| TYTTAER, ALEXANDER F... ......... ............................ Chivereal History. |  |  |  |
| WARD, A. W .Chaucer. |  |  |  |

HISTORICAL LIGHTS.

1. ABANDONMENT, Inhuman. Mostems. The rapine of the Carmathians [a fanatical Turkish sect] was sanctified by their aversion to the worship of Mecca; they robbed a caravan of pilgrims, and twenty thousand devout Moslems were abandoned on the burning sands to a death of hunger and thirst.-Gimbon's Rone, ch. 52.
2. ABANDONMENT, A mortifying. Bp. T. Hall. The infamons Timothy liall, who had distinguished himself among the elergy of London by reading the declaretion [issued by James II. to zupplant the Protestant faith], was rewarded with the bishopric of Oxford. . . . Hall came to his sec ; but the canons of his cathedrul refused to attend his installation ; the university refused to create him in doctor; not a single one of the academic youth applied to him for holy orders; so cap was touched to him; and in his palace he found himself alone.-Macaulay's History of England, ch. 9.
3. ABIIITIES misapplied. Frederick $I I$. and Voltaire. [France sent Voltaire to negotiate a difficult alliance. $]$ The negotiation was of an extraordinary description. Nothing ean be conceived mone whimsical than the conferences which took place between the first literary man and the first practical man of the age, whom a strange weakness had induced to exchange their parts. The great poet would tair of nothing but treaties and guaranties, and the great king of nothing but metaphore and rhymes. On one occasion Voltaire put into his Majesty's hand a paper on the state of Europe, and received it back with verses scrawled on the margin. In secret they both laughed at each other. Voltaire did not spare the king's poems; and the king has left on record his opinion of Voltaire's diplomacy.Macaulay's Frederick the Great, p. 39.

- 4. ABILITIEs, Numerous. Roman Emp. Justinian. The emperor professed himself a musician and architect, a poet and philosopher, a lawyer and thonlogian ; and if he failed in the enterprise of reconciling the Christian sects, the review of the Roman jurisprudence is a noble monument of his spirit and industry.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 43.

5. ABILITILES overrated. Pompey. Unfortunately he had accuired a position by his negative virtues which was above his natural level, and misled him into overrating his capabilities. So long as he stood by Caesar he had maintained bis honor and his authority. He aliowed men more cunning than himself to play upon his vanity, and Pompey fell-fell amid the ruins of a Constitution which had been undermined by the villainies of its representatives. His end was piteous, but scarecly tragic, for the cause to which he was sacrifieed was too slightly removed from being ignominious. He was no Phobus Apollo sinking into the ocem, surrounded with glory. He was not even a brillinnt meteor. Ihe was a weak, good man, whom uceident had thrust into $n$ place to which he was unequal ; ind ignorant of himself, and unwilling to part with his imaginary greatness, he was flung down with careless cruelty by the forees which were dividing the world.-Froude's Cesait, ch. 23.
6. ABILITIES shown. In Youth. When Phjlonieus, the Thessalian, offered the horse named Bucephalus in sale to Philip, at the price of thirteen talents, the king, with the prince and many others, went into the field to sec some trial made of him. The horse appeared extremely vicious and unmanageable, and was so far from suffering himself to be mounted, that he would not bear to be spoken to, but turned fiercely upon all the grooms. Philip was displeased, and bade them take him away. But Alexander, who had observed him well, said, "What a horse are they losing, for want of skill and spirit to manage him !" Philip at first took no notice of this; but, upon the prince's often repeating the same expression, and showing great uneasiness, he said, "Young man, you find fault with your elders, as if you knew more than tiey, or could manage the horse better." "And I certainly could," answered the prince. "If you should not be able to ride him, what forfeiture will you submit to for your rashness ?" "I will pay the price of the horse." Upon this all the company laughed, but the king and prince agrecing as to the forfeiture, Aloxander ran to the horse, and, laying hold on the bridle, turned him to the sun; for he had observed, it scems, that the shadow which fell before the horse, and continually moved as he moved, greatly disturbed him. While his fierceness and fury lasted, he kept speaking to him softly and stroking him ; after which he gently let fall his mantle, leaped iightly upon his back, and got his seat very safe. Then, without pulling the reins too hard, or using either whip or spur, he set him a going. As soon as he perceived his uneasiness abated, and that he wanted only to ren, he put him in a full gallop, and pushed him on both with the voice and spur. Phillp and all his court were in great distress for him at first, and a profound silence took place. Bat when the prince had turned him and hrought him straight hack, they ull recelved him with loud ucclamations, except his father, who wept for joy, and, kissing him, suid, "Seek mother kingelom, my sam, that may be worthy of thy ubilities ; for Macedonia is too small for thee."-l'a'tall\%.
$\because$ AbILITIES, Useless. Ji/n Iry/ton. Redgn of James II. The help of Dryden was welcome to those Romun ('ntholic: divines who were pminfully sustaining in contlict against all that was most illustrions in the Esablishaed Church.
The first service which he was repuired io perform, in return for his pernsion, was to defend his [Catholic] ('hurch in prose against Stillingfieet. But the art of stying things well is uscless to a man wo has nothing to say; and this was Iryilen's case. Ite soon found himself unequally puired with an antugonist whose whole life had been one long training for controversy. The vetermanghintor disarmed the novice, inflicted a few contemptuons scrutehes, and turned away to encounter more formidable combatants.-Macaulay's Evg., ch. 7.
7. ABNEGATION of Self. Mertin Luther. A.D. L518. [He journeyed on foot to meet the papal umbassador ut Augshorg.] "My thoughts," , id he afterwarl, "on the journey were these : Now I must die: and often did I remmer, What a reproach will I be to my parents!" When in the neighborhood of Augshurg lather was overcome by bodily wearimess. Faint-hearted friends had often warnel him on the way not to cuter Augsburg. But in reply to them he sadd, "In Augshurg, even in the midst of mine enemies, Jesus Christ also reigns. May Christ live, even if Martin should dic."-Rein's Life of Li". theit, ch. 5.
8. ABSENCE condemnod. Kiny Gicorye IT. A.D. 1736. People of all ranks were indigmant at the king's long stay in Germany [during all the summer and tutumn]. On the gate of st. James' palace this notice was stuck up': ' ${ }^{\text {L }}$ Lost or strayed out of this house a man who has left a wife and six children on the parish. Whoever will give uny tidings of him to the church-wardens of St. James' parish, so as he may le got ugain, shall receive four shillings and sixpence re-ward.-N.B. This reward will not be increased, noboly judging him to deserve a crown."Kniont's Ente, ch, 6.
9. ABSENCE, Reasonablo. Trial of Churles II. The judges assembled in the vast Gothic hall of Westminster, the palace of the Commons. At the first calling over of the lise of members designed to compose the tribun: [to try the king], when the name of Fairfax $w$ pronounced without response, in voice from the crowd of spectators cried out, "IIe has too much sense to be here." When the act of accusation against the king was read, in the name of the people of Entland, the same voice again replied, "Not one tenth of them !" The offier commanding the guard ordered the soldiers to fire upon the gallery from whence these rebellious words proceeded, when it was diseovered that they had heen uttered by Lady Fairfax, the wife of the lord-generml-Lamintine's Chomweid., p. 48.
10. ABSOLUTION in Advance. Filceation of Fulius II. We understand from Burcard, that it was at this time un established custom for every new pope, immedintely ufter his eiection, nud as the flrst net of his npostolical function, th give a full absolution to all the cardinals of all The erimesthey might thereafter commit of what-- ver nature ind degree.-Tyrien's Hier., vol. $\therefore$ ch. 14.
11. ABSOLUTION, Costly. Inlaologus (Mi chace!), the usurper of Constantinople, was ax communiented from the Greek Chureh becanse of eruelty. [See No. 1333.] The Christian who had heen scparated from God und the Church beceme an oliject of horror ; and in a turbulent. and funatical capital, that horror might arm the hand of an assussin or intlame a sedition of the prople. Paleologus felt his danger, confessed his guilt, and deprecated his julge ; the act was irretrievable ; the prive [a kingdom] was obtained; and the most rigorons penance which he solicited would have raised the sinner to the reputation of a suint. The unrelenting patriarch [Arsenius] refused to amounce any means of atoncment or any hopes of mercy ; and condescended only to pronomec, that for so great a (rime, great inded must be the satisfaction. " Do you require," said Michael, " that I should abdicnte the empire ?" and at these words he offredor secmed to offer the sword of state. Arsenius [the patriar $h$ ] eagerly grasped this pledge of sovereignty ; but when he perceived that the emperor whs unwilling to purclanse absolution at so dear a rate, he indigmantly eseaped to his coll, nud left the royal sinner kneeling and wereping at the door. The danger and scandal of this excommunieation subsisted ulove three years, till the popalar chamor was busuaged by time and repentanace. . . Arsenius . . . denied with his last breath the pardon which was im-plored.-Ghamos's Rome, ch. 62.
12. ABSOLUTION desired. Deuth of Charles II. a.d. 168i5. [The French nmbassador] Barillon hastened to the bed-chamber [of Charles II.], took the duke [of York] nside, und delivered the mossage of the mistress [of Charles-the Duehriss of Portsmouth, who cintreated that a priest be called, as the king was a Catholic at lecart]. The conscience of James [the Duke of York] smote him. . . . Several schemes were discussed and rejected. At last the duke commanded the crowd to stamb nloof, went to the bed and stooped down, and whispered something which none of the spectators could hear, but which they supposed to be some guestion of State. Charles answered in in audible voice, "Yes, yes, with all my heart." None of the hystanders, except the French ambnssador, guessed that. The king was declaring his wish to be admitted into the losom of the Church of Rome. "Shall I bring a priest :" said the duke. "Do, brother," saidl the sick man. "For God's sake do, and lose no time. But no ; you will get into trouble." "If it costs me my life," said the duke, "I will fetch a priest." [The priest was secretly brought and the king absolved.]-Macaulay's Hist. of Ena., ch, 4.
13. ABSTINENCE, Certainty by. Ir . Stomuel Johnnan. 1.D. 17Ts. Talking of drinking wine, be sald: " 1 did not leave off wine because I could not bear it. I have drunk three bootles of port without being the worse for it. University College has witnessed this." Bosweha: " Why, then, sir, did you lenve it off ?" Jonsson : "'Why, sir, because it is so much ietter for a man to be sure that he is never to be intoxicated, never to lose the power over himself. I whall not begin to drink wine till I grow old and want it." Boswell, " I think, sir, you once said to me that not to drink wine was a great deduction from life." Joinson : "It is a diminutlon of pleasure, to be sure; hut I do not say a diminution of happiness. There is more hajpiness in being rational."-Bowwhli's Jonnson, p. 366.
14. ABSTInENCE, Limit of. Dinerme. Fóleré states that some workmen boried in a damp (guarry wero extricated alive after a period of fourteen days; while ufter the wreek of the Medusa, the sufferers on the rait, exposed to $n$ high temperature and constant exertion, at the end of three days, nlthough they stlll had a small quantity of wine, were so fumished that they commenced devouring the dend bodies of their companions. Dr. Willun has recorded a case in which, under the influence of religious delusion, a young man lived sixty days, taking during that time nothing bit a little water flavored with orange juice. 11. n'Naughton, of Albany, gives a similur instance, during which a young man lived fifty-four days on water alone. -American Cyc., "Ahstinence."
15. ABSTITENCE, Prudential. Dr. Namucl Johnton. A.d. 1776. Finding him still persevering in his abstinence from wine, I ventured to speak to him of it., Joinnson : "Sir, I have no objection to a man's drinking wine, if he can do it in moderation. I found myself apt to go to excess in it, and therefore, after having been for some time without it, on account of illness, I thought it better not to return to it. Every man is to judge for himself, according to the effects which he experiences. One of the Fathcrs tells us that, he found fasting made him so peevish, that he did not practise it." - Boswele's Jounson, p. 275.
16. ABSTINENCE, Twofold. Greek Ehnp. Andronicus. [Being deposed by his grandson] his calamitics were embittered by the gradual extinction of sight; his confinement was rendered each day more rigorous; and during the absence and sickness of his grandson, his inhurman keepers, by threats of instant death, compelled him to exchange the purple for the monastic halit and profession. The monk Antony [iss he was now called] had renounced the pomp of the world; yet he had occasion for a coarse fur in the winter season, and as wint was forbidden by his confessor, and water by his physician, the sherbet of Egypt was his common drink.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 63.
17. Abstinence, Urconscious. The Poet Shelley. Mrs. Shelley used to send him something to eat into the room where he habitually studied; but the plate frequently remained untouched for heurs upon a bookshelf, and at the end of the day he might be heard asking, "Mary, Lave I dined ?"-Symonds's Shfiliey, ch. 4.
18. Abstraction, Art of, "Waistcoat Button." He had long desired to get above a school-fellow in his class, who defted all his efforts, till Scott noticed that whenever a question was usked of his rivil, the lad's fingers grasped " particular button on his waisteoat, while his mind went in seareh of the answer. Scott necordingly anticipnted that if he could remove this huton, the hoy wonld be thrown out, and so it proved. The button was eut off, and the next time the lad was guestioned, his fingers leing umable to tind the button, and his eyer going in perplexed senreh after his fingras, he stood confounded, and seott mastered hy strategy the phace he rould not gain by mere industry. "Often in after-life," said seott, in marrating the manouvre to Jegers, "has the sight of him smote me as I passed by him; and often have I resolved to make him some reparation, but it ended in good resolutions.- HivrTon's Lafe of Silt W. Heotr, ch. 1.
19. Abstraction, Blundere by. Sir $I$. Neir. ton. Several mecdotes are preserved of his ahtsence of mind. On one oceasion, when he was giving a dinaer to some friends, he left the table to get them a bottle of wine; but on his way to the cellar he fell into retlection, forgot hls errand and his company, went to his chamber, put on his surplice, and procected to the ehapel. Someti nes he would go into the street half dressed, and, on discovering his condition, run back in great haste, much abashed. Often while strolling in his garden be would suddenly stop, and then rum rapidly to his room, and begin to write, standing, on the first piece of paper that preseuted itself. Intending to dine in the public hall, he would go out in a brown study, take the wrong turn, walk awhile, and then return to his room, having totally forgotten the dinner . . . Inving dismounted from his horse to lead him up a hill, the horse slipped his head out of the bridle; but Newton, oblivious, never discovered it, till, on reaching a toll-gate at the top of the hill, he turned to remount, he perceived that the bridle which he held in his hand had no horse attached to it. His secretary records that his forgetfuluess of his dinner was an excellent thing for his old housekeeper, who "sometimes found both dinner and supper scarcely tasted of, which the old woman has very ,pleasantly azd mumpingly gone awny with." On getting out of bed in the morning. he has been observed to sit on his bedside for hours, without dressing himself, utterly ab. sorbed in thought.-Cycloradia or Biogin. pity, p. 257.
20. Abstraction, Dangerous, Archimeden. [When the Rommens captured Syracuse] Archimedes was in his study, engaged iu some mathematical researehes; and his mind, as well as his cye, whs so intent upon his diagram, that he neither heard the tumultuous noise of the Romans, nor perceived that the city was taken. A soldier suddenly entered his room, and orderel him to follow him to Marcellus; and Archime des refusing to do it, until he had finished his problem, and brought his demonstration to bear, the soldier, in a passion, drew his sword and killed him.-Pletarcir.
21. ABUBE, Absence of. Savages. It is said of the Ainus savages, who are inhabitants of the North Pacific, that they give striking proof of their amiability of disposition, in that they have no words of abuse ia hacir harnuge. - An. Cyc., " Ainum."
22. ABUEE, Pernonal. Millou, by Sulmuniux. If any one thinks that classlent studies of themselves cultivate the taste mid the suntiments, let him look into Sulmashin's Rexpmoxio. There he will see the first selolar of his nge not thinking it unheroming to tanm Miloon with his blindness, in such limguage as this: " A puppy, once my pretty little man, now hermeryd, or mather ablindling; laving never had any mentul vislon, he las now lost his bodily sight ; a silly beast, widn nothing more haman about him than his guttering eyolids; the tittest doom for him would he to lang him on the highest gallows, and set his ham on the Tower of London." These are sonse of the incivilities, bot ly my means the most revolting, but suel as I dire reproduce, of this literary warfare.-Patmenes Milton, ch. 9.
23. ABUSE, Slanderous. Ninpilewn I. Tlie English press teemed with . . . "hose. . . . Il' was a . . demon in hmman form. lie was a robber and a miser, phmbering the treasuries of nations that he might hoard lis conmiless millions; and he was also a profligate and a spendthrift, squandering upon his lusts the wenth of empires. He was wallowing in licentionsness, his camp a harem of pollution, ridding himself, by poison, of his concubines. . . at the same time he was physically an imberile-a monster whom God in His displeasure had deprived of the passions nud powers of bantliy manbood. He was un idol whom the entranced people . . . worshipped. . . . He was nlso " sanguinary, henrtless, merciless butcher.-Amotre's NinoLeon B., vol. 1, ch. 9 .
24. ABUSE, Success by, Politizs. Some pretty rough politicians used to find the way to Wasliington from the Western States, fifty or sixty years ago. Matthew Lyon was one of these, a man of great note in his day. Josinh Quincy once asked him how he obtained an election to the Honse , f Representatives so soon after his emigration to Kentucky. He answered, "By establishing myself at a cross-roads, which everybody in the distriet pussed from time to time, and abusing the sitting member."-Cyclobetin of Biograpity, p. 756.
25. ACGESS, Humble. To Rom. Eimp. Diocletian. The sumptuous robes of Diocletian and his successors were of silk and gold ; and it is remarked with indignation, that even their shoes were studded with the most precious gems. The access to their sacred person was every day rendered more difficult by the institution of new forms and ceremonies.

When a subject was at iength admitted to the Imperial presence, he was obliged, whatever might be his rank, to fall prostrate on the ground, and to adore, necording to the Eastern fashion, the divinity of his lord and master.-Gibuon's Rome, ch. 13.
27. ACCIDENT, Destiny by. Bracol. [Duchy of Bethlem Gabor.] An unexpected aceident had given ? singular turn to the dispute as to the successic $n$ of Juliers. This duchy was still ruled conjointly by the Electorate House of Brandenburg and the Palatine of Neuburg; and a marriage between the Prince of Neuburg and a Princess of Brimdesburg was to have in-sepmrably united the interests of the two houses. But the whole scheme was upset hy a box on the car, which, in a drunken brawl, the Elector of Brandenlourg unfortumately intlicted upon his intended som-in-law. From this moment the grond understanding liet we ern the two houmes was at an rad. The Prisure of Neuhbrg embraced popery. The hand of a prineress of lavaria rewarded his apostasy, and the stromg support of Bavariat ambl spail was the natural result of loth. 'To seeme to the Palatime the exclusive possession of Juliers, the Spmish troops from the Netherlands were marehed into the Pilatimite. To rid himself' of these guasts, the Elector of Brandenburg colled the Flemings to his nssistnuce, whom lie sought to propitiate ly embracing the Culvinist religion.-Tuntry Yeaba' War, $\div 82$
2W. ACCIDENT, Distress by. II'm'y II. of Framer. [ILemry's daughter blizabeth was to be marricd to Plitip, und his sister Margaret to the Duke of savoy.] Magnificent rejoicings took place at Paris daring the summer of 1550 la celebration of these royal muptials. iists were erected in front of the julace of the Tournelles, and a splemidid tourmment was held, at which, on the 2fth of 'June, the king himself', supported ly the buke of Guise und two other princes, mainained the field against all autagonists. Henry, who was an admimble cavalier, triumplantly earried off the honors of the day; lit toward the close of it, laving unfortunately chosen to ith a course with Montgonery, captain of his sicottish ghards, the lance of the stont knight slivered in the encomer, and the broken truncheon. entering the king's cye, penetrated to the brain. Henry languished eleven days in great suffering, and expired . . in the forty-first yem of his uge.-Students' IInt. of Firance, (h. 15. $5 \%$ 29. ACCIDENT, Revolation by. "Sicilian Vespers." As the cilizens of Palermo flocked to vespors on one of the festivals of Easter week, Murch 30, 1282, a French soldier grossly insulted a young and beatutiful Sicilim maiden in the presence of her betrothed husland : the latter instantly drew his dugger and stabbed the offender to the lecart. This was the signal for a violent explosion of popular fury; cries of "Death to the French !" resounded on all sides; upward of two lundred were cut down on the spot, and the massacre was continued in the streets of Palermo through the whole night. From the capital the insurrection spread to Messina, from Messina to the other towns of the jsland; everywhere the French were ruthlessly butchered, without distinction of age, sex, or condition ; the total number of the slain is said to have execeded eight thonsand. Such was the terrible catastrophe of the "Sicilian Vespers."-Students' Hist. of Fhanee, (b. 9, S. 10.
30. ACCIDENT, saved by. Thomas Painc. Daring the Reign of Terror Thomas Paine was imprisoned, but was saved from the guillotine, apparently by an accident. The door of his room was marked for the exceutioner, but the sign was made on it while it was open ; and at night, when the terrible messenger usually arrived, the mark was on the inside, and, as he himself says, " the destroying angel passed by." Stevens's Metiodism, Book 7, eh. 1 .
31. ACCIDENT, significant. Noman Duhe William. [Battle of Instings.] When he propared to arm himself, he culled flrat for his gome hauberk, and a man brought it on his arm, and placed it before him ; but in putting his hemi in, to get it on, he unawares turned it the wrong way, with the lack part in front. We soon changed it ; but when he saw those who stood by were sorely alarmed, he sadd, "I have sern many a man who, if such a thing had happened to hin, would not lave borne arms, or entered the field the same day; but I never believed in omens, und I never will. I trust in God, for Me does in all things IIfs pleasure, and orduins what is to come to pass necording to Itis will. I have never liked fortmac-tellers, nor bolieved in diviners; but I commend myself to Our Lady. Let not this mischaneo give you tronble. The hauberk which was turned wrong, and then set right by me, slgnities that a change will arise out of the matter which we are now stirring. You shall see the n me of the duke changed into king. Yea, a king shill I be, who hitherto have been but duke." [He was unharmed in battle.] -Decinive Battikes, § 309.
32. ACCIDENT utllized. Son of Ali. A familiar story is related of the lonevolence of one of the sons of Ali. In serving at table, a slave had inadvertently dropped a dish of sealding broth on his master ; the heedless wretch fell prostrate, to deprecate his punishment, and repeated a verse of the Kormn: " Paradise is for those who command their anger:"-"I am not angry:"-"and for those who pardon of -fences:"-"I pardon your offence:"-"and for those who return good for evil :"-"I give you your liberty, und four bundred pieces of silver."-Gibion's Roms, ch. 50.
33. $\qquad$ Norman Invasion. When Duke Willium himself landed, as he stepped on the shore he slipped, and fell forward upon his two hands. Forthwith all raised a loud cry of distress. "An evil sign," said they, " is here." But he cried out lustily, "See, my lords, by the splendor of God, I have taken possession of England with both my hands. It is now mine, and what is mine is yours."-Decisive BatTles, § 297.
34. ACCOMPLISHMENTS, Worthy. Themistocles. [The prudent Athenian general] was laughed at, in company where free scope was given to raillery, by persons who passed as more accomplished in what was called gentle brecding; he was obliged to answer them with some asperity : "'Tis true I never learned how to tune a harp or play upon a lute, but I know how to raise a small and inconsiderable city to glory and greatuess."-Plutarcir.
35. ACKNOWLEDGMENT, slender. Postage. The only acknowledgment of his twenty-five years' services which John Adams carried with him in his unwelcome and mortifying retirement, was the privilege which had been granted to Washington on his withdrawal from the presidency, and after his death to his widow, and bestowed likewise upon all subsequent ex-presidents and their widows, of receiving his letters free of postage for the remainder of his life.Am. Cyc., "John Adams."
36. ACQUAINTANCE, Brief.

Am. Indians. The English [colonists] received a friendly welcome . . . on the isiand of Roanoke. . "The people were most gentle and loving and faithful, void of all guile and treasom, and such as livo ufter the manner of the Golden Age." [They afterward learned] the practice of inviting men to a fenst, thut they miglat be murdered in the hour of confidence--Bancuopr's Ihes. of U. S., ch. 3.
37. ACQUAINTANCE, Unweloome. Semuel Johnson. He gave us an entertuining account of Bet Hlint, it woman of the town, who, with some eceentrie talents and much effrontery, forced herself upon his acquaintance. "Bet (suld he) wrote her own life in verse, which she brought to me, wishing that I would furnish her with it preface to ft. (Laughing.) I used to say of her, that she wus generally slat and drunkard-occasiomally, whore and thef. Sho had, however, gented lodgings, a spinnet on which she played, and a boy that walked lefore her chair."-Bunsela's Joinson, p. 461.
38. ACROSTIC, Political. Reign of Charles II. It happened by a whimsical eoincidence that, in 1671, the cabinet consisted of five persons, the inithal letters of whose names made up the word Cabal: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, mud Lauderdale.-Macaulay's Hist. of ENa., eli. 2.
39. ACTIVITY, Roman. Roman Navy. In the first Punic war the republic had exerted such incredible diligence, that within sixty days after the first stroke of the axe had been given in the forest $a$ fleet of one hundred and sixty galleys proudly rode at anchor in the sea.Gibhon's Rome, ch. 3.
40. ACTION, Decisive. Colonel Gordon. [Lord George Gordon was a contemptible demagogue, who brought a clamorous mob of sixty thousand persons to the House of Parliament; he reported for their vengeance the names of the members who spoke against the petition in their behalf which he had presented, while they wated in palace yard with many threatening demonstrations. His crowd twice attempted to foree the doors. Expostulation with the fanatic was in vain.] At last, Colonel Gordon, a near relative, went up to him and said: "My Lord George, do you intend to bring your rascally adherents into the House of Commons? If you do, the first man of them that enters-I will plange, my sword, not into him, but into your body." $X$ party of horse-guards at length arrived, and the rabble went home. - Kniart's Ena., vol. 6, ch. 26.
41. ACTIONS spaak. Declaring Witr. [Ancus, one of the early kings of Rome, 1 created a college of sucred Heralds, called Fetiales, whose business it was to demand reparation for injuries in a regular and formal manner, and in case of refusal to declare war by hurling a spear into the enemy's land.-Liddell's Rome.
42. - - " Gutting off . . . tallest Poppies." The only Latin town that defied Tarquin's power was Gabii; and Sextus, the king's youngest son, promised to win this place also for his father. So be fled from Rome and presented himself at Gabii; and there he made complaints of his father's tyranny' and prayed for protection. The Gabians believed him, and took him into their city, and they truated him, so that in time lie was male commander of their urmy. Now, his father suffered hla $h_{1}$ to conquer in many small lattles, and the Gabians trusted him more and more. Then ho sent privately to his father, and asked what he should do to make the Gubians submit. Then King Targuin gave no answer to the messenger, but, as he walked up and down his garden, he kept cutting of the heads of the tallest perppies with hisstaif. At last the messenger was firen, and went lack to sextus and told him what had jossed. But Sextus understood what his futher mennt, and he began to arcose falsely all the chief men, mat some of them he put to death and some he hunished. So at last the city of Gubli was left defenceless, and Soxtus delivred it up to his futher.- Lambeha's Rome.
43. ACTORs and Actrosses. Origin of. This rruft dates its existence lonck to some renturies inefore Christ. The earliest menton we flad of it in history is i.s the time of solon in Greers. It was then attached to the religions rites, mad its applinnces and influenees nased to clothe with greater solemnity and effect the sacred eelebrafiens of the Greeks. So high a place hat the profession at this period, that actors were all trained and paid at the expense of the State. . . . From the time of the Casars the stage degenerated rapilly, from being disconnected from those religions rites from which it drew its chief distinetion, and was flatly lost altogether during the dark ages.-An. Cyc., " Actons."
44. ACTORS dishonored. Romat Latic. The laws of Rome expressly prohibited the murriuge of a senator with any female who hat been dishonored ly a servile origin or thentrienl profes-sion.-Ghibon's Rome, ch. 4.
45. ACTORS, Reapect for. Dr. Simuel John*mi. Sil Josilua Reynolds: "I do not perceive why the profession of a player should be despised ; for the great and ultimnte end of all the cmploy ments of mankind is to produce amusement. Garrick produces more amusement than anybody." Boswell: "You say, Dr. Johuson, Himi Garrick exhibits himself for a shilling. In this respect he is only on a footing with a lawyer, who exhibits himself for his fee, and even will muintain any nonsense or absurlity, if the case require it. Garrick refuses a play or a part which he does not like; a lawyer never refuses." Joinsson : "Why, sir, what does this prove? only that " lawyer is worse. Boswell is now like Jack in 'The Tule of a Tub,' who, when he is puzzled by an argument, langs limself. Ite thinks I shall cut him down, but I'll let him hang" (laughing vociferonsly). Stic Josma Reynolds: "Mr. Boswell thinks, that the profassion of a lawyer being unquestionably honorable, if he can show the profession of a player to he more honorable, he proves lis argument."Boswell'e Johnson, p. 211.
46. ADDRESS, spectacular. Antouy. [At the funeral of Cassar, when] the body was brought into the forum, and Antony spoke the usual funeral enloginm, as he percelved the people affectal by his speceh, he endeavored still more to work upon their passions, by unfolding the bloody garment of Czesar, showing them in how many places it was pierced, and pointing out the number of his wounds. This threw everything Into ronfusion. Some called aloud to kill the murderers ; others, ins was formerly done in the cose of that reditione demagogue Clodios; suatchad the benches mend tubles from the nelghboring shops, nud erected in pile for the loody of Casar, in the midst of conserrated places and surroundling temples. As soon as the pile was in flamer, the pople, erowding from all phrts, snateled the half-hurned brands, and rum round the city to tire the honses of the conspirators; but they were on thrir guard against such an assault, and prowinted the affecte.- ]horearen.
47. ADDREss, succonatul. Eithoard JV. Whild Warwick was winning trinmphs on battlefield after battiofledd the young king seemed to abandom himself to a voluptuous indolence, to revels with the elty wiwrs of London, und to the caresses of mistressus like June Nhore. Tall in stature and of singular benuty, lis winning manners and gay carelessumss of benring secored Edward a popularity which had been denied to nobler kings. When he askerd a rich old lady for ten pounds towarla a war with Frunce, sho answered, "For thy comely face thom simlt have twenty." The king thanked and klased her, and the old woman made her twenty forty.-II Is'r. of Ena. P'EOLLE, S. 497.
48. ADDRESS, Theatrical. Sumud Johnoon. IIIs ungualifted ridicuie of rinetorical gesture or urtion is not, surely, a test of truth ; yet we cannot help admiring how well it is adupted to produce the rffeet which he wished. "Neither the juiges of our laws, nor the representatives of our people, would be much affected by labored gestienlations, or brlieve any man the more because he rolled his ryes, or puffed his cheeks, or spread abrond his arms, or stamped the ground, or thumped his brenst ; or turned his eyes sometimes to the reiling, and sometimes to the floor."Boswela's folnmon, p. 80.
49. 4 DDRESS, Trickster's. Edmund Burke. It was in the December of 1792 that Burke had emacted that fumous bit of melocirama out of place, known as the Dagger Scene. The government had brought in an Alien Bill, imposingcertain painsand restrictious on foreigners coming to this country. . . . Burke began to storm as usual against murderous atheists. Then, with. out due preparation, he begran to fumble in his losom, suddenly drew out a dagger, and with an extravagant gesture threw it on the floor of the llouse, crying that this was what they had to expeet from their silliance with France. The stroke missed its mark, and there was a general inclination to titter, mitil Burke, collecting himself for an effort, ralleal upon them with a vehememe to which his listeners could not choose but respond, to keep French principles from their heads and French daggers from their hearts; to preserve all their blandishments in life, and all their consolatious in death; all the blessings of time, and all the hopes of eternity.-MOnley's Burke, ch. 9.
50. ADMINISTRATION, Responaibility of. Reign of Charles, II. To the roynl office and royal person they [the commons] londly and sinrerely professed the strongest attachment. But to [Lord Chaneellor] Clarendon they owed no allegiance, and they fell on him as furiously as their predecessors harl fallen on Strafford. The minister's virtues and vices alike contributed to his ruin. He was the ostensible hend of the adminintration, and was therefore held responsible aven for those acts whith he hand strongly, but vainly, opposed in comedi.-Macaulay'silist. of ENa., ch. 2.

S1. ADMINISTRATION, An unfortunate. Pres. Martin Van Burricis. The ndministration of Van Buren has generally been reckoned as unsuccessful und inglorions. But he aud his times were unfortmante rather thon bad. He was the victim of all the evils which followed hard upon the relaxation of the Jacksomian methods of government. Ile land neither the will nor the disposition to rule us lis predecessor [Andrew Jackson] had done; nor were the people and their representatives any longer in the hamor to suffer that sort of government. The period was unherole; it was the eblo-tide between the belligerent excitements of 1832 and the war with Mexfoo. The financiai panic alded opprobrium to the popular estimate of imbecility in the goverument. "The ndminat ration of Vun Buren," suid a satirist, "is like a parenthesis; it may be read in it low tone of voice, or ultogether omitted, rithout injuring the sense! " But the sutire lacked one cesential quality-truth.-IIst. U. S., Rinpati, ch. 55.
52. ADMINISTRATION united. A. Iincolu. Judgo Bakdwin, of Chlifornia . . . solicited a pass outaide of our lines to see a brother in Virginin. [Being refused by the communding general und Secretary of War] . . . timully he obtained an interview with Mr: lincoln, and stuted his case. " Have you upplied to Genernl Muliock?" "Yes, and met with a that refusal." . . . "The"i you must see Stanton." ". "I have, and with the same result." . . "Well, then," said Mr. Lincoln, with a smile, "I can do nothing ; for you must know I hate very litke iufluence aith this Administrution."- 'ymond's Lincoln, p. 748.
53. ADMIRATLON ohanged. Martin Luther. As a reverent pilgrim lie arrived nt lome, after a six weeks' journey. Seeing the city from afar, he fell upon the enrth and cried out, " Hail! thou sacred Rome !" And yet he foumd many things different from what he had expected. His experience there made a lasting impression upon him. "I would not have taken one hundred thousand florins not to have seen Rome. Among other coarse talk, I heard one reading mass, and when he came to the words of consecration, he said, 'Thou art bread and shalt remain bread, thou art wine and slaut remain wine.' What was I to think of this ? And, moreover, I was disgusted at the manner in which they could 'rattle off' a mass as if it had been a piece of jugglery, for long before I reached the Gospel lesson my neighbor had finished his mass and (ried out to me, 'Enough! enough! hurry up and come away,' etc.!"-Rein's Lutirer, ch. 4.
54. ADMIRATION, Objectionable. Oliver Gold*inith. In the summer of 1762 he was one of the thousands who went to see the Cherokee chiel's, whom he mentions in one of his writings. The Indians made their appearance in grand costume, hideously painted and besmeared. In the course of the visit Goldsmith made one of the chiefs a present, who, in the ecstasy of his gratitude, gave him an embrace that left his face well bedaubed with oil and red ochre.Irving's Goldsmitif, ch. 13.
55. ADMIRATION, Bupreme. Colonel C'ropper. This worthy veterun, like hls general [Wash. ington], had but one bast, whid he gave every day and to ull compunles; it was, "God bless General Wishingtom."-C'vatis' Wasilinaton, vol. 1, ch. 2.
56. ADMONITION dieregarded. General it. Clair: A.d. 1761 . Generni St. Chnir, with an urmy of two thousmadi men, set out from Fort Washington to break the pewer of the Miani confederacy. In what is now Mercer County, Ohio, . . his canm was suddenly ussulled by more than wo thousund warriors, led by Little Turtle and severul American renegades who hud joined the Indians. Atter a terrible battle of three hours' duration, St. (lair was completely defented, with a loss of fully one land of his men. . . 'The news of the disustor spread gloom throughont the land . . . the govermment was for awhile in consternation. For once the benignant spirit of Washington gave way to wrath. "Here," sald lie, "in it tempent of indignation. "here in this vary room . . I said to him, 'You have cureful instructions from the Secretary of War, mad I myself will add one word-newane: of a schimas!!' Ile went off with that my last warning ringing in his cars. Yet he hassuffered that army to be cut to pieces, hacked, hutchered. tumahnwked by a surprise-the very thing i guarded him ngainst! How can he nnswer to his country? The blood of the sluin is upont him-the curse of widows and orphens!" [After a period of silence he solemnly added :] II lookedi at the desputches hastily, nad did not note all the particulars. General St. Clair shall have justice. I will receive him without dis:-plensure-he shall have full juatice."-Ridpatio's IInt. of U. S., ch. 46.
57. ADOPTION of Captives. American Indians. Sometimes a captive was saved, to be adopted in :lace of a warrior who had fallen . . . the alleginnce and, as it were, the ldentity of the captive . . became changed. [His] . . children nud the wife . . . left ut home are to be blotted from his memory; he is to be the departed chieftain resuscitated. . . to cherish those whom he cherished ; to liate those whom he hated ... the foreigner thus adopted is esteemed to stind in the same relations of consanguinity. Banchoft's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
58. ADOPTION by the state. Napoleon 1. [Aiter the battle of Ansterlitz.] He inmmediately adopted all the children of those [soldiers] who had fallen. They were supported and educated ut the expense of the State. They all, as the children of the emperor, were permitted to attach the name of Napoleon to their own.-Anbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 31.
59. Adoration, Human. Greek Empenors. The most lofty titles, and the most humble postures, which devotion lus applied to the Supreme Being, have been prostituted by flattery and fear to creatures of the same nature with ourselves. The mode of adoration, of falling prostrate on the ground, and kissing the feet of th; emperor, was borrowed by Diocletian from Persian servitude; but it was continued and aggravated till the last age of the Greek monarchy. Excepting only on Sundays, when it was waived, from a motive of religious pride, this humiliating reverence was exacted from all who entered the royal presence, from the princen invested with the diadem and purple, and from the ambussadors who represented their independent sovereigns, the calijphs of Asia, Eqypt, or Spain, the kings of France and laiy, and the Latin emperors of 'anclent Rome. - (hinmon's donst, chi. 63.
60. adulation, offioial. Of Chartex I. The pleasant words with which the Lord Kereprer Finch opened the Parlhment [of 1640]: " lif Majesty's kingiy resolutions are seated in the ark of his sacred breast, and it were a presumption of too high a miture for any Uzzith uncalled to tonch it; yet his Majesty is now pieased to lay by the shining lomms of majesty, as Phobos did to Phacton, that the distance hetween soverdifnty and subjection should not har you of that thlind freedom of access to his person mod commsels." But the tho had come when this styie of linguage was no longer to le endured by the commons.-IIood'н Chomwhla, ch. 16, p. 20;i.
61. ADULATION robaked. of Jitnes $I$. [James I., dining with Bishops Nelle mind Andrews, asked their opinion] whether he might not take his sulojects' money without the fuss of Parlhment? Neile replied, "God forbid you should not, for you are the brenth of our nostrils." Andrews la upon an answer ; he said: "Why, then, I think your Majesty may luwfully take my brother Neile's money, for he offers it."-Knigut's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 23, p. 364.
62. ADULATION, Ridiculous. Red Beard. When IIenry VIlI, met Fruncis I. on the Field of the Cloth of Gold in 1520, a Venetinn observer described the heard of Henry as "being somewhat red, has at present the uppenrance of leing gold."-Knioht's IIstr. of Ena., ch. 17.
63. ADULTERY excused. Muhomet's. In his adventules with Zeinil, the wife of Zeid, and with Mary, an Egyptian captive, the moorons prophet forgot the interest of his reputation. At the house of Zeid, his freedman and adopted son, he beheld, in a loose undress, the beanty of Zeinib, and burst forth into av, ejneulation of devotion and desire. The servile, or grateful, freedman understood the hint, and yielded without hesitation to the love of his benefactor. But as the filial rehation had excited some donlt and seandal, the angel Gabriel descended from heaven to ritify the deed, to annul the adoption, and gently to reprove the proplet for distrusting the indulgence of his God. One of his wives, Hafna, snrprised him on her own bed, in the embraces of his Egyptian captive ; she promised secrecy and forgiveness; he swore that he would renounce the possession of Mary. Both parties forgot their engagements; and Gabriel again descended with a chepter of the Koran, to absolve him from his onth, and to exhort him freely to enjoy his captives aud concubines, without listening to the elamors of his wives. In a solitary retreat of thirty days, he labored, alone with Mary, to fulfil the commands of the angel. . . . Perhaps the incontinence of Mahomet may be palliated by the tradition of his natural o: preternatural gift ; be united the manly virtue of thlrty of the children of Adam; and the apostle might rival the thirteenth labor of the Grecian Hercules,-Gibbon's Mahomet, p. 56.
64. ADULTERY, Punishmeat for. Roman Lair. The celge of the Julian law was sharpened by the incessment illigence of the emperors. The lleentious commerce of the sexes may he tolernted us un impulse of nature, or forhidden on a source of disorder and corruption; but the fame, the fortunes, the family of the hushand, are serionsly injured hy the aduitery of the wife. The wishoin of Augustus, after curbing the freedom of revenge, applied to this domestic offence the animadversion of the laws; and the guilty parties, ufter the payment of heavy forfeltures, and thues, were condemned to long or propertuai exile in two separate islands.-Gnihon's liome, ch. 44.
65. ADULTERY, shamoless. Fifteenth Gentu$r y$ Prineres set the example. Charles VII. received Agnes Sorel us a present from his wife's mother, the old Queen of Sieily ; and mother, wife, nud mistress, he takes them all with him as he marches niong the Loire, the happiest understanding sulsisting letween the three. Tho English, more serious, seek love in marriage only. Gloncester marries Jucqueline; among Juequeline's hulies his regards fall on one equally lovely and witty, and he marries her too. But in this respect, as in all others, Frunce and England are far outstripped by Flanders, by the Count of Flanders, hy the grent Duke of Burgundy. The legend expressive of the Low Countries is that of the famous countess who brought into the world three hundred and sixtytive children. The prinees of the land, without going (quite so far, seem at the lemst to endeavor to approach her. A Count of Cleves has sixiythree lustards. John of Burgundy, Bishop of Cambrai, offleiates pontifically with his thirtysix bastards und sons of bastards ministering with him at the altar. Philippe-le-Bon had only sixteen bastards, but he had no fewer than tweaty-seven wives, three lawful ones and twen-ty-four mistresses.-Michelet's Joan of Ahw p. 26.
66. ADULTERY, Vengeance for, John $X I I$. John . . XII. land the uddress to excite an insurrection of the people, who dethroned his rival Leo VIII, and reinstated him in the pontifical clanir. But John did not live to enjoy his triumph; three days after his reinstatement he met the reward of his crimes, and perished by the hand of an indigmant husband, who detected him in the arms of his wife.-Tytlen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 4, p. 101.
67. ADULTERY, Viotim of. Pevedeus a Lombard Champion. [Rosumond, the Queen of Italy, desired his nssistance in a plot to assassinate her royal hasband,] but no more than n promise of secrecy could be dirawn from the gallant Peredens, and the mode of seduction employed by Rosamond betrays her shameless insensibility looth to honor and love. She supplied the place of one of her female attendants who was beloved by Pereleas, and contrived some excuse for darkness and sileace, till she could inform her companion that he had enjoyed the Queen of the Lombards, and that his own death, or the death of Alboin [her royal husband] must be the consequence of such treasonable udultery. In this alternative he chose rather to be the accomplice than the victim of Rosamond, whose undaunted spirit was incapa-the of fear or remorse.-(hmmen's Dectine and FAlic, ch. 45.
6N. ADPANOE by Battle. N'rot's t'impuign i" Mrxion. [ln 1847] Gen. 'Twiggs, in commund of' the American advance, Net ont [from Vera Crua] on the 12th of the month [of April]. Twiggs came upon Santa Anma, who, with un army of fifteen thousand then, had taken possession of the hofights and rocky phas of Cerro Gordo. The position, thongh seemingly 1 m pregnable, must be carried, or further advance was lmpossible. On the morning of the 18th the American army was arranged for an assault which, necoriling to the rules of war, promised only disnster and ruin. But to trocpss of the United States nothing now seemed too uriduons, no deed too full of prill. Before noonday every position of the Mexicrans had heen יureressfully stormed and themselves drlven in " preclpitate rout. Nearly three thousumd prisoneris were taken, with forty-three pieses of bronzen'thllery, five thousund muskets, und accoutroments enough to supply un army. The Americin loss amonnted to four hundred and thirty-one, that of the enemy fuliy a thousand. Santa Anna escaped with his life, but left behind his privise pupers und his wooden leg.-Rinpations Hist, of U. S., di. 57.
69. ADVANCE, Heroio. Buttle of Foutinoy. A.D. 1745. Willime of c'umberhand formed $n$ column of fourteen thousand British infantry, thirty or forty nbreast ; and with measured tread, regardless of every olstacle, undismayed by the canmonale left and rlght, which mowed down their ranks, this terrible column strode on through the enemy's lines, carrying all before them. But where was their support? A column of infantry, without in horse, withont a gom, now reduced probnbity to ten thousmed, could not win a battle against sixty thousundi. merely through the supremacy of physical strength and moral enduranee. Slowly the compact mass moved lanck, stild facing the enemy. lts ranks were not broken, not a man tled. [Loss about six thomsimal.]-Kxithit's Hist, of Ent., ch. 7.
70. ADVANCE, Opporsunity for an. Gen. Sherman's March to the sin. [Began November 14, 1864.] His army of veterans numbered sixty thousand men. Believing that Hood's army would be destroyed in Tennessec, and knowing that no Confederate force could withstand him in front, he cut his commennications with the North, nbundoned his buse of supplies, and struck out boldly for the sea-coast, more than two hundred and fifty miles away. As had been foreseen, the Confederates could offor no successful resistance. . . . On the 10th of December he arrived in the vicinity of Savannah . . . he had lost only five hundred and sixty men.-Ridpatir's Hist. of U. S., ch. 66.
71. ADVANCE or suffer. Buttle of Gettyshurg. I remember seeing a general (Pettigrew, I think it was) come up to him [Confederate' Genern] Longstrect] and report that " he was unable to bring his men up again" [to charge the Federals]. Longstreet turned upon him and replied, with some sarcasm : "Very ucell; never mind, then, General; just let them remain where they are; the enemy's going to advance, and will spare you the trouble." [British officer's diary, quoted in.]-Pohdabin Second Yeall of the Wall, 1. Bhe.
75. ADVENT seasonable, The. .iveded-Reculy. A thorough arepuintuace with the history of the worid nud the state of mankind at the the of Our Saviour's hirth has lefi the wisest and most mighty, laving diesigneri to illumimate the world by a revelation, lhere was no period at which it was more cortalnly rerpuired than that in which it was uctually sent ; mor could any concurrence: of drenmstances have berou more favornble for its extensive dissembation than that which towk place at the time of our suviour's mission. A great purt of the known world was it this tinuundier the dominton of the laomans, und subject to all those grievinces which are the inevitable result of a systeon of arlidrury power. Yet this dremmstance of the union of so many nations into one grate cmpire was of conslderable ulvantage for the propngation and advancement of ('hrishianity.-Tythein's Univelmal. Mist., Book 5, ch. 4.
78. ADVENTURE, Courageous. Witr for thic Union. The control of Albemarle Sound had beren secured loy a daring exploit of Deutenant Cuahing, of the Foderal Navy. These waters were commanded by a tremendons iron ram called the Aliemarle. In order to destroy the drended vessel, a number of daring volunteers, led by Cushing, embarked on an small steamer, find on the night of the 27th of Octoler [1804] enteref the Romoke. The rimn was discovered lylng at the harbor of Plymouth. Cantiously: nppronching, the lientemat, with his on it hands, sank in terrible torpedo under the confederate ship, exploded it, und left the ram in ruin. The adventure cost the lives or cupture of all of Cushing's purty except himself amd one other, who esenpeit.-Rimparis's IIsus. of L'. s., ch. 66.
74. ADVENTURE, Daring. Vitulion $I$. [IIa"ing esenped from his exile at Ellan, his littlarmy arrived near (annes.] In the course of : frw hours this essort of six hundred men, with t wo or three small pieces of cemmon, were safely landed. . . . They were nhout to mureh seven hundred miles, hrough a kingdom containing thirty millions of inhabitants, to eapture thi strongest capital in Europe. . . . An army of nearly two hundred thousand men, under Bourbon leaders, were stationed in impregnable fortresses by the way.-Abnotr's Napolison B., vol. 2, ch. 24.
75. adVEnture, Passion for. Comquest of Florida. Adventurers assembled as voluntcers. many of them people of noble birth and good estates. Houses and vincyards, lands and tillage, and rows of olive trees in the Ajurrafe of Seville were sold, as in the times of the critsades, to obtain the monns of military equipments. . . . Many . . . who had sold estates for their equipments were obliged to remuin be-hind.-Banchort's Hist. of U. S., ch. 2. ington. [Washington's return from a conference with the French commander St. Pierre, at Le Beuf, near Lake Erie. A.D. 1753.] It was now the dead of winter. . . . With [Christopher] Gist [the guide] as his sole companion, he left the river, and struck into the woods. It was one of the mont molitary marelsen evor mulo by mum. There, In the slewolate wildernems, was the fiture Indlan, witli gun in landi, uad kmajack straj. ped to his shamblers; struggling through intorminable snows ; shereilug wili frown rlothes on a bed of plum-lirushi lireakling through the (rascherons leo of ruphe stremus : puldid by day Sure, meen it interviles thromgh the lanlews treos; tlred at hy atrowling Navige from his covert not fifteen stopis uway ; thrown from a ruft Intu tho rushing Alleghniay e escobling to un ishand uad lodging there ubisil tho river was frowen over; plunging nguln luta the forest; renchligg Wint's aettlemenst and then tho l'otonnme-the wound or mear to the capital of Virghala.--1<1]I'גTH'н Jintr. U. S., ch. 30.
77. ADVESTURE, Apirit of. Nir Willium I'upry. In 1817, In a letter to ini intimute friemb, ho hupponed to writo: n good deal alrout inn expealition, then much talked of, for ixploring the river Congo, lin Africn, mide expressed a strong dexire to make one of the party. Whaen the letter was ilnishod, lint lnefore fit was jut in the nowspuper, stating that tho govermatent were about to semd versels in gurst of a passuge romind the Northern coust of North Amorlin which would shorten the voyage from Enghmel to India from sixtern thonsand miles to nont seven thousund. Inery reopened lifs letter, mind, miontioning tho parigraphi, concinded a slart postserijet with these words: "Jlot or cold is all one t) me-Afriea or the l'ole." IVis correspmolent alowed this lettor to a friond, who was the man In bingland most devoted to the projeet in guess-tion-Mr. Burrow, seceretary to the ulmirulty. Within a week from tlant time Licutenumt Pury was thrown luto un eestasy of astonlshiment amil delight by ruceiving the apjohintment to cominand one of the two ships preparing for the cu-terprise.-Cycloihian of 13wo., p. 380.
78. ADVENTURER, A born. Herninalo Cor. tae. In the yenr 1502, it the sumall country town of Medellin, in Spain, there lived an idle, dissolute youth of seventeren, who was the torment of his parents and the lemer of all the mischisef going In that neighborhood. . . . Inving left Tho college of Sabamman without permission, [he] was passing his time in love intrignes and dissipation, regardiess of the remonstranees of his father and mother. When, therefore, he declared his intention of joining un expedition about to suil for Americit, the good people of Medellin, especially those who hand dunghters, were not sorry to henr It. . . . No enreer nttracted him, except one of adventure in the New Worid, which had been discovered ten years inefore-Cycionedia of Biog., j). 317.
78. ADVENTURERS disappointed, Theoloric the Ostrogoth. [He nttempted the renguest of Italy.] As he advanced into Thrnce [Theotorie] found an inhospitable solitude, nur! his Gothic followers, with a lienvy train of horses, of mules, and of wagons, were butrayed by their guides among the rocks and precipices of Mount Sondis, where he was nssanlted by the urms nnd invectives of [another] Theodoric, the son of Triarius. From a neighboring height his artfal rival haranguod the canap of the Walamira, and hrumbed their lember with the opprobirleus mames of child, of mulmin, of porjured traltor, ther anemy of hids hloud amel mation. "Are yon buarant," explaimed the mom of Triarlas, "that it is the constant priligy of the liomimes to dentroy the' (antis liy ench other's swords? Are you lii selusible that the vlator in this umatioral contest will lio exposed, and jumtly exposed, to their larpharible revengey Whare are thone warriors, my klanmon nal thy own, whose whows now lainont that thelr lives were sucritleed to thy rash umbltan? Whare is the wenlth whilels thy soldhers passessed when they ware flent allurid from their mintive bumes to conilat under thy stamdurd? latel of them was then master of threre or four larsex ; they now follow there on fort, liks slaves, throngh the deserts of Thrace ; those men who were tempted by the hope of mensuring fold with in lashal, those brave men who are as free and an noible as thyself." A languige so woll sulted to the temper of the Gothas excileal clamor and discontent ; and the son of 「locoslemir, u!proheosive of lielng left alome, was culsjobled to embruce his hrethron, und to Jmigato the cxtomple of Roman pertlely. - (itumen'x Rusuc, ch. 30.
*O. ADVENTURES, Numerous. ('ipt. Jiht" Suith. The mew presillont, thongh not thirty veurs of ugre, was a veteran in every kind of valumble lanman experlemere. Borman Eaglish man ; trained as a soldier la the wars of Holland; a traveller in Framee, Italy, uad Egypt; ugaln u soldler In I Inngary ; ('ingtured liy tho 'lurks nnd sold us 11 slave; sent from Constantinople to a prison in the ('rimon; kllling a taskmanter who loat him, and then esenping through the worals of Itussia to Western Europe ; golng with un urmy of alventurers against Moroceco ; finally returning to Englamd and foining the Jondon C'ompnay fufterward rescuing the colony In VIrgmin]. John Smith was altogether the most moted mun in tho eqrly Jistory of Amerion. Rideation IIntony of U. &., (bl. 9 .
81. ADVERSITY, Benefte of. Bunyan in Beal ford Juil. Bunynn's contlaement . . was otherwise of inestlmable value to hifm. It gave blan leisure to read and retlect. Thongh he preacked often, yet there must lave been lintervals, perlums bong intervals, of compulsory silence. The excitement of propethal speceh-making is fatal to the exercise of the higher gualitios. The pernods of calm embled him to diseover powers in himaelf of which he might otherwise have never known the exlstence. of books ho had lint few; for a time only the lBible nnd Fox's " Martyrs." But the Bible thoronghly known is a liternture of teself-the rarest and richest in all dopmrtments of thonght or imagimation which exists.-Fuotide's Bi'NyAN, (ll. 6 .
\$2. ADVERSITY deplored, Sndden. Charles of $f^{\prime}$ lujou. [Ile experienced a reversal of his good fortume by the revolt in Nicily.] In the first agomy of grief amd devotion, lie was heard to "xchim, "O Gorl! if 'lhou hust ileerced to lumble me, grant me at lenst a gentle und: grulunl descent from the pinnacle of greatness!" -Gimmon's Romes, ch. 69.
83. ADVERSITY, Eminence by. A. Lincoln. Ile had plenty ol employment as a surveyor, and won a good reputntion in this new line of busi-nown ; but the thanclal crosh of 1s:17 destroyed hils businems, und his listruments wore tinally sold under 11 sherift's axceution. This reverse again theew him huck fino politicul life, und, us the beat prepuraton for It, he vlgoromaly parsuad his legal studles. [Ilfe had privionaly falled as a country store-keeper. Ills gowis wero hought on eredit.]-Raymonio's lineotin, ch. 1, p. $2 l$.

M4. ADVEREITY, Inatruoted by. Fruderick $I$. [Elector Puhathe of the Bohominns. $]$ Frederick was sented at table in Prague, whille hisarmy was thas cut to plecers. . . A mesaenger summoned him from tuble to show him from the walles the whole frightfui secone. We repuested a cessa: ion of howtllith for twenty four hours for deiberation: but elght was all the Duke of Bavarla wondd allow him. Frederlek availed bimself of these to fly hy night from the capital, with his wife nud the elilef oftlecers of his army. Phes tlight was so hurried that the Prince of Anhalt left behind him his most private papers, and Frederlek his crown. "I know now what I am," suid this unfortunate prince to those who endenvored to comfort him; " there are virtues which misfortune only con touch us, und it is in adversity alone that prlocees larn to know them-solves."-Tinhty Yeaha' Wait, 条 138.
©6. ADVERSITY, Lemons of. Siege of Rome by the Goths. In the last months of the slege the people were exposed to the miserles of scurcity, unwholesome food. and contagious disorders. Belisarius saw and pitied their sufferings; but he had foreseen, and he watched the decay of their loyalty, and the progress of their diseontent. Alversty had awakened the Romans from the Ireams of grandeur and freedom, and taught them the humiliating lesson that it was of smull moment to their real hify piness whether the name of their master was derived from the Gothic or the Latin lingunge.-Grimon's Rome, ch. 41.
86. ADVERSITY, Manhood throagh. Sir ILumphry Davy. The death of his father, an intelligent, speculative mun, who left his affulrs in great disorder, comsigned his mother to a milliner's shop, und changed him from a sehoolboy fato un apotherary's apprentice. A shade of seriousness gathered over him. He had become a man. Ilis privatenote-hooks of the first two years of his apprenticeship have been preserved, and they show us, that when his day's work of compounding drugs was done, and In the morning before it legun, he was a hard student. He went through a complete course of arithmetic, algehra, geometry, and trigonometry, besides reading the metaphysical works of Locke, Hartley, Berkeley, Hume, Helvetius, Condorcet, and Reitl. Ile nso learned the French hangunge. - Cyclopheta of Biog., p. 302.
87. ADVERSITY, National. Reign of Eitunerd III. Only fourteen years had gone by since the treaty of Bretigny raised England to a relght of glory such as it had never known before. But the years had been years of a shame and suffering which stung the people to madness. Never had England fullen so low. IIer conquests were lost, her shores insulted, her eommerce swept from the seas. Within she was drained by the tuxation and bloodshed of the war. Its popularity had wholly died away.

When the eommous where ankerd la 13st whether they would asment to a trenty of perpetual peace if they mblit have it, "the said erommona reeponded uli, and altogether, 'Yes, yes 1'" Tho popilation was thinned by the ravages of pestlconcre, for till limin, whiclisaw its last visitution, tho black denth returmed agan and again.IItat. of Enci. Dbobici, & !ime.
M. ADVERSITY overruled, Eli Whitury.
 kere, who had come to Georglas to tench, and, laving been lakern rick, land been Inviaed hy this hompitable lady tor reside in har house tili be shonid reeover. Ile wits the som of a peor farmer, and had worked hila way through college withont assistunce-is linnkere boys of en do. From curly boyhood he had exhilhited wonder fill skill in merchnics, und in colloge he used to repair the plilosephicul apmaratus with remarknhle niecty-to the great mbiniration of pro. fessors und students. During his realdenco with Mrs. Greene he had maile for har an lagentons tumbour-frume, of a new princlple, us well as many eurlous toys for her children. Hence her ndvice: "Apply to my young friend, Mr. Whilncy ; he can make mything." [Ho there invented the cotton-gin muchine.]-Cychorbena of Brog., p. 160.
G9. ADVERSITY preceden suocese. Timour the Torther. [In his twenty-iffth yenr he stomal forth us the dellverer of his country.] The chlefs of lie law and of the army had pledged thedr salvation to support him with thelr lives und fortumes ; but in the hour of danger they were silent and nfraid: und, ufter wating seven days on the hills of Simareand, he retrea mi una desert with only sixty horsemen. The fugitlves were overtaken by a thousund Getes, whom ha repulsed with lneredible slaughter, and his eneniles were forced to exclaim, "Timour is a wonderful man: fortune and the Divine favor are with him." But in his bloody netion his. own followers were reduced to ten, 10 number which was soon diminished by the dexertion of three Carizmians. He wandered in the deswert with his wife, seven companions, and four lorses; ind sixty-two days was he plunged In a lonthsome dungeon, from whence he escaped by his own courage and the renorse of the oppressor. [Greatness followed.]-Gimmon's Rome. ch. 65.

DO. ADVERBITY, Struggle with. "An old sitrugyler." Whenhe [Sir Walter scott] was in Ireland . . a poor woman who had offered to sell him gooseberries, but whose offer had not been uecepted, remurked, on seeing his dnughter give some pence to it beggar, that they might as well give her an alms, too, as she was "an old struggler." Sir Walter was struck with the expression, and said that it deserved to become classical, as a name for those who take uparms ugainst a нea of troubles, instead of yielding to the waves.-IIUtTon's Scott, ch. 15.
91. ADVERSITY a Tonic. Sir W. Scott. [1Ic lost a great property, was fearfully in debt, and his fumily distressed.] On the 22d he says: "I feel nelther dishonored nor broken down by the bad, now truly bad, news I have received. I have walked my last in the domains I have. phanted-sat the last time in the halls I have huilt. But death would have taken them from me, If misfortume had npured them. My peore people whonII loved we well! There is juat another die to turn inp againat mo in this run of ill- luck, $i$. r., if I mhoridf break my makic wand In the find from thils aloplont, and lowe my pupularity with my fortune. Then Winumatord: and Boner" [his life of Napoleon! " may both go to the pmper-maker, mad I may take to smokling clgars mad drlaklag arog, or turn devotee nuld hatoxiente the brain nother why." Ite adds that when ho mets to work doggesily, he in ex. netly the same man he ever was, " nelther low. spirited nor reintrait"-may, that nelversity in to hime "a tomile and brucer." [Hee Now, de nul 84. - Iletton'm Acott, ih. 15.

D2. ADVERBITY, Onaflooted by. Sir W. Nott. [He had become a hankrupt by laviah ex. penditures on his enstle, rete.] The henvient blow was, I think, the blow to his pride. Vary carly the begins to mote painfully the different way in whifh different frlende grent him, to remark that mome simile as if to may, "think nothing ahout it, my lad, it is fulte out of our thonglits:" that others mopt an alfected gravIty, "mach as one sees and desplises at a fumernl." und the best-bred " just shook hunds and went on." Ho writes to Mr. Morritt with it prond indifferriner, elenrly to mome extent shmilated: "My womenkind will be the grenter sufferers, yet even they look cheerily; mad, for myself, the blowing off of my lut on " stormy day has given me more unenshess." To Lady Davy he writes truly enough: "I beg my lumblest compliments to Sir Iumphry, and tell him, Ill Latek, that direful chemist, never put into hla cructble a more indissoluble phere of stuIf than your affectonate consin und sincere well-wisher, Walter Seott." [See Nos. 01 and 04.]-IIutron's Scotr, eli. 15 .
98. ADVERSITY utilized. Lether hitden in Warlbury Cuatle. Not long had he been on the burg when he occopped himser: with the trunslation of the Seriptures, as well is with other writings. In a few wreks several works were ready for the press. A tre tlise " Abont Confesslon, and whether the Popr is rutitled to eommand the same," he dedichted to his partienlar friend and firm patron, Franciseo von Slekingen. Besides eommenting upon selected portions of Inoly Seripture intenided to instruct, comfort, und edify Cluristinn people. Lather mit out many a leavy controversing article from the Wartburg. -Rein'm Lurtier, eli. 10.
QA. ADPERBITY, Viotim of. Sir W. Nott. As Scott had always forestalled his income - spending the purelase-money of his poems and novels hefore they were writtensuch a fallure as this, ut the age of Afty-flve, when all the freshness of his youtl was gone out of him, when he saw his son's prospects blighted as well us his own, und knew perfectly that James Ballantyne, nonssisted by him, could never hope to pry miny fraction of the deltt worth mentioning, woulid have been paralyaing, had he not been aman of iron nerve, and of a pride and coorage hardly ever equilled. Domestic calamity, too, whs not firr off. For two years he had been whtehing the fallure oi his wlfe's health with inercasing unsiety, and as calamities seldom come single, her jlluess took a most serious form at the very time when the blow fell, und whe died i thita foar monthas of the failure. Ning, Heott was himmelf unwell int the critionl moment, and wis baklige redis-01 and de. - Hoturos'n Notetr, ch. 16.
95. ADversity in War, suertuna. The Spartums raised two considiornhlo armion, and commenecd howtilition by entering the kerritory of Plocin. They were defented; Lysander. one of their generials, belog kllled in lmithe, nini Pamsumas, the other, condemmed to denth for his miseominct. Mich about the sume time the Bersian thect under the command of Conon vimulumed that of Nportu, nener Condow, a city of Carli. This dofent deprevel the lavedienonlans of the command of the sen. 'Tlueir allios took the sipportunity of thife turn of affairs to throw of their yoke, und spirth, ilmont In a slugle campalgn, sal hersedf without nilles. without pawer, mid withont renobress. The reverve of fortune experienced by the republis: was truly remarkable. Twenty yeurs hum not clapsed sinee whe was nhsolite mistrens of Greece, and hodel the whole of her states efther Ins trimatarios or allies, who fomad it their high. ent interest to comrt her fiver and protecthon. Nochanged was har present altuation, that the most inconsiderable of the states of peloponmesus npurned it ber muthority, and left her slagly to oppose the united power of Persia und the lengie of Greece. - Unis ehanal Ilistony, TYTLEA, ch. 2, lbook 2.
D6. ADVERTISEMENTA, $\mathrm{B}_{\mathrm{i}}$ netimonions, Ridiruled. Ailvertisemunts in mugnaines manomesing no ellgible residemer in a nelghborhood whare the grospel is prenched in three places within half an mile : and of a merlous mon-servant wantel who rall shave: salich annomerements ans thate: were mew and stringe objecets of D7. ADVICE disdained. Brudhuck's Defeat. A selert force of tive himatrod math was thrown forward to npen the ronds in the direetion of Fort Du Quesne. . . . Thar army, marching in a slender column, was extended for four miles nlong the marrow nud broken rond. It was in vinin that Washington pointed out the danger of ambiseades nud sugrested the employment of seouting-parties. Braddock was self-willed, arrormt, and pround thoroughly skilted in the tucties of European warfure, he could not benr to be ndviseri by an inferior. The sugacious Fromklin had advised him to move with cantion ; but he only replied that it was impossible for savages to make any impression on his Majesty's regulars. Now, when Washington ventural to repent the advies, Braddock tlew into a passion, strode up and down in his tent, and said that it was high times when col. Buckskin could teach a British, general how to tlght. [The army was surprised and nearly drsfroyed by the Frondh and Indians. The feneral was severely wounded, and the troops thrown into a panic. " What shall we do now, rolonel ?" said he to Washingtom. . . " "IRetreat, sir-retreat by all means,"-Ribisitis's Hist. U. S., ch. 31 .

D8. ADVICE ignored. By King , James IT. Clarendon [the Lord Lientemant of Ircland] was soon informed, by a concise despatch from sunderland, that it had been resolved to make without delay a complete change in Inith thet divil und the millitary gevernment of I relanil. und to brling alarge momber of Roman ('ulhosHesk funtantly lito villere. Illim Majesty, it was minat ungractonsly ndided, huil tuken coninsel on these matters with permone more comperent to ulvine him thun his lnexpertenced lored lientenunt combla posmbly me.-Macaulay'm llont. of bina., ch. b.

DR. ADVICE, Ill-timed. d. Jiucoln, [some Western gentemern were exclted abont the combmisalones and omiswione of the Ailmbinatrition.) " Gentlemen, suppose nll the property yom were wortit was in gold, und youl lind pit it in the hunde of Blonilin to cinriy neroses the Nhiguri River on a rope, wonld you manke the cuble, or keep shonthing to him-" Islondlo, stanil nje " little strughter-iblomilin, stowp alithe morego a little faster-lemu a little more to the morth -lemin $n$ little more to the sonth' $\%$ No. you would hold your bremth, us well in your tongae.

The govermanent ure carrylug an lmomense welght. Untold trensures are bathelr hames. They are dohig the very' leewt they con. Jon't muiger them."-Raymonis's Lincoln, p. \%ise.
100. ADVICE, Legacy of, liy Auguatus ${ }^{\prime \prime}$ the Romatas. On the denth of thint emperor, his trestument wis publiely remb in the senute. Ile bergucathed, ise it viluable leguey to his sinecessors, the udvice of conthing the emple within these limits which minture seconed to louve phaced ns its permunent loulwarks and boundaries: on the west, the Athatle: Ocemin; the khine und Dambe on the north; the Euplorates on the enst ; und toward the south, the sandy deseris of Araling und Afrian. . . Inppily for the repose of manklnel, the moderatesywteni recommended by the wisdom of Aurustus was adopted by the fears nund vices of his lmmedinte suceressors. -Ghinon'a Rome, ch. 1.
101. ADVOCATE, A porbonal. Not by Prory. An old leglomary anked Aligustus to asslat him III a cause which was about to be tried. Sugistus deputed one of his friende to speak for the veteran, who, however, repudiated the vicarious patron:] "It wis not by proxy tlunt I fought for you at the luttle of Actinn." Augustus acknowledged the ohligution, and pleaded the cause in person.
102. EETHETICISI, Bratality of. Giludictore, The Lanistue, whose husiness it was to instruct These gladiators in their profession, tunght them not only the use of their urms, but likewise the most gracefna postures of finling and the finest nttitudes of dying in. The food. . . preseribed to them was of such in miture as to enrich and thicken the blood, so that it might flow more leisurely through their wounds, und thus the spectators might be the longer gratilled with the sight of their agonies. . . . [They took the following onth:] "We sweme that we will suffer ourselves to be boumd, scourged, burned, or killed hy the sword, or whatever Eumolpus orduins, and thas, like frecborn gladiators, we religionsly devote both our soul and our body to our master."-Tytler's Hist., Book 4, eh. 4.
108. ESTHETICISM, Realistic. Romans. [Nero's reign.] The specific itrocity of such speetacles - unknown to the surlier ages whichthey called barbarous-was due to the cold-thed, dedlente, wathetie: nge, Tos hemese them " Ifsphig haw whorn-huls," thene de-bmacheel and muguhary dundlew, Art, formooth, must know mothing of mornlity: minat mecept mad rojole e In " "houlthy minimilisin:" must esshmate lifo by the mumber of lt: fiew wildext pulations: minst reekon thint life is worthless whinint the most thrilling experiancer of horror or dellgha! Comeily most be metmal whime, and trugedy gemaine hoodsherd. When the phy of Afrumher culleel "I'he Conthagration" was put on the stuge, a homse must be really lourit, abd lis furniture remlly plumbered. In the milne colled "Laurcolus," nut netor must really lue cructiond and mangled by a beotr, and rently thing himself down und deluge the stage with blowid. When the herolan of Muelies Sedevola was repremented. arend criminal mast thrist lits hand withont a grenn finto the llunue, und stand mothonlexs whilo It is beligg burnt. Promethens mist be really chained to his rock, and Diree in very fuet la assed und gored by the wild hall: mulorpheins be torn to piberes by arral hear ; mad learins minst renlly lly, evell thongh he fill num he dashed to denth; und Herrules must useremd the funcral pyre, and there be verituhly burntalive: mud slaves mul crimimals must play their purts licrobently in gold and purple till the Hamen (יIvelop them. It was the niltimute combine of a degrided mad brutulized soxdety. - Fabibaits Eailiy l)ayn, b. 40.
194. AFPECTION, Conjugal. donephine. [The night following the exerentom of the deed of divoree, Josephlae appronched with hesitatem the bed and the sponase from whence she had beren e jeeted.] Forgetilng everything in the falnews of her angulsh, she threw herself upon the bed. clasped Napoleon's meek in her arms, und ex. chatming. "My hosimand ! my lonsbund!" sobbed us thongh her luent were breaking. The imperial spirit of Napoleon was entlrely vaupuished. lle also wept convilsively. He ansured Josephine of his love-at his ardent, undylng love. [It was their last private interview.]-Anbotry's Napobdeon 13., vol. 2, ch. 10.
105. $\qquad$ . Andrew Jachson, The people of Nushville, proud of the succeres of their favorite, resolved to celebrate the event by " grent bunquet on the $2 x d$ of I December, the mmiversary of the day on which the general hual tirst defented the British below New Orleans. . . . Six days hefore the day appoint. ed for the celebration, Mrs. Jackson . . . sudidenly slaricked, placed her hands upon her hemit, sunk apon $n$ chair. . . . For the space of sixty hours she suffered extreme ugony. She recovered the use of her tongue . . . to implore . . . her exlumaterl hasband to recruit his strengti for the bunfuet. Ile wonld not leave her, but lay npon the sofn und slepe a little. The evening of the 2ad she appeared so mach better that the general consented, ufter much persuasion, to sleep in the next room. When he had been gone five minutes . . . Mrs. Jackson gave a loud, inarticulate cry, which was immediately followed by the death. rattle in her thront. Alt night long he sat in the room, occasionally looking into her face, and feeling if there was any pulsation in her heart. The next morning, when one of his friends arrived just before daylight, he was nearly specehless and utterly inconsolable, looking twenty yours older. There was no bumpuet that day in Nashrille. . . . Andrew Jackson was never the sume man mgain,-Cymoredia of Brom., p. 539.
106. AFFECCION, Deatitnte of. Fiulk the Black. He was without natural uffection. In lis youth he burned a wife at the stake, and tegend toli how he led her to her doom deeked ont in his gayest attire. In his old age he wared his bitterest war against his son, and exacted Erom him when vanguished in hamilintion which men reserved for the deadiest of their fors. "You are conquered, you are conguered!" shouted the oid man in fir ce exultation, ns Gooffry, bric.ad and saddlent like in leenst of burden, eruwled for pardon to his father's feet. In Fulk first appenred that low type of superstition which startled even superstitious arges in the early Phantagenets. Robber as he was of chureh lands, and contemptueas of ecelesiastical censures, the fenr of the end o' the world drove Fulk to the holy sepulelire. Burefoot and with the strokes of the scourge falting heavily on his shoulders, the coment had himself dragged by a halter through the streets of Jerusalem, and courted the doom of martyrdom hy his wild onteries of penitence. He rewnrded the fidelity of Iterbert of Le Mans, whose nidl saved him from utter ruin, by entrupping him into captivity and robbing him of his hands. He secured the terrified friendship of the French king by desputehing twelve assassins to cut down before his eyes the minster who had troubled it. Familiar as the age was with treason nud rupine and blood, it recoiled from the cool cynicism of lis crimes, and believed the wrath of henven to have been reveshed against the union of the worst forms of evil in Fulk the Black. Fut neither the wrath of heaven aor the curses of men broke with a single mishap the fifty years of his success.-IIbt. or Ena. Peorle, $\leq 123$.
107. AFFECTION, Display or. Comjuy, [Cinto the Censor] expelled Manlias. a semator. whom the genenul opinion lual marked out for Consul, because he hial given his wife a kiss in the day-time, in the sight of his daughter. "For his own part," he said, " his wife never embraced him but when it thundered dreadfully," adding, by way of joke, "That he was happy when Supiter pletised to thunder."-Pısralici.
108. AFFECTION, Enduring. Sir Isutur Sitrton. The benutiful danghter of a physician, who resided nenr his schoor, won his boyisi affections, and he paid court to her hy making dolls and doll-furniture for her. Itis affection was returned by the young lady, and notiongr prevented their carly marriage but Newtom's poverty. . . . When at length he was in leitter cirenmstances, the object of his youthful love was married, and he himself was wedded to science. Never, however, did he return to the home of his fathers withont visiting the lady; and when both had reached fourscore he had the pleasure of relieving the necessities of her old age.-Parton's Sir 1. Newton, p. 86.
109. AFFECTION, Fickle. Countexs of Carlishe. The beautiful Countess of Curlisle, a kind of English Cleopatra, of whom Strafford in the season of his greatness hat been the favored lover, used every effort with the Parliament to ohtain the life of the man whose love hand becon her pride. The fascinating countess failed to softell their hearts. As if it were the fate of Strafford to suffer at the same tlme the loss of hoh love and fricmdship, thls versatile beauty, more utthehed to the power than the persons of her edmirers, trunsfurred her affections quickly from Strafford to Pym, nud becme the misreses of the murlerer, who succeeded to the vidim.-Lamahtine's Chomweia, p. 14.
110. Affection, flial. Willatm Cropkr. When Cowper was six yeurs old his mother died ; and seldom has nchild, even such a chdd, lost more, even in a mother. Fifty years after her denth he still thinks of her, he suys, with love and tenderness every day. Late In his lifelis cousin, Mrs. Ame Bedham, recalled hersell to his remembranee hy sending him his mother's picture. "Every creature," he writes, " that has any affinity to my mother is dear to me, mud you, the danghter of her brother, are but one remove distant from her : Ilove you, therefore, and love you much, both lor her sake and for your own."-Smitas Cowien, ch. 1.
111. - Sir Walter Sentt. His executors, in lifting up his desk, the evening after his burinl, fonnd "arrmaged in carcful order a series of little oldjects, which had obvionsly been so phaced there hant his cye might rest on them every morning betore he began his tasks. These were the old-fashioned boxes that had garnished hi" mother's toilet, when he, " sickly child, slept in her dressing-room-the silver tuper-stand, which the young advocate had bought for her with his first fiveguinem fee; a row of small packets inseribed with her hand, and contnining the hair of those of her offspring that had died before her; his father's snufforex mal etui-rase; and more things of the sort."-H1 rmon's Lafe of Scorve. (in. 1.
112. - - - tiains Merrins Coriohams. Mareius iursued glory hecranse the ncquisition of it delighted his mother. For when she was witness to the mplanse he received, where she saw him crowned, when she embraced him with tears of joy, then it was that he reckoned himself at the hecight of homor and felicity. Epmminondas had the same sentiments, and declared it the chiof happimess of his life, that his father and mother lived to see the generalship he exerted and the vietory le won at Lenctra.Рıетини.
113. - . - - This love of his commtry is said to have been in some mensure owing to the ultachment he had to his mother. His father died in his infancy, und he had his celucation wholly from her; conseguently his affections centred in her. His Spanisli friends wanted to constitutrhim supreme governor; but having information at that time of the death of his mother, he gave himself up to the most nlarming grief. For seven whole days he neither gave the word. nor would be seen by any of his friends. Piotahelit.
114. - Alerander the Great. [Olympias was his mother.] He made her many magnificent presents ; but he would not suffet her busy genius to exert itself in Stute affuirs, or in the least to control the proceedings of government. She complained of this us " hardship, and he bore her ill-lumor with great mildness. Antipater once wrote him a long letter full of heavy complaints againet her ; and when he had read it, he said, "Antiputer knows not that one tear of a mother can blot out athousand such complaints."-Pıutarea.
115. $\qquad$ Napolion I. [During the war between France and Enghund an Euglish prisoner escaped, and reaching the eonst seeretly prepared a fragile skiff of the lark und brunches of trees. He was about to venture the channel when he was arrested.] "Do you really intend," suld Napoleon, "to bruve the terrors of the ocean in so frull a skiff $\mathrm{y}^{\prime}$ " "If you will but grant me permission," said the young man, "I will embark immediately." "You must doubtless, then, have some mistress to revisit."
"I wish," replied the noble suilor, " to see my mother. She is aged, poor, and infirm." The heart of Napoteon was touched. "You shall see her," he energetically replied, "and present to her from me this purse of gold. She must be no common mother who can have truined up so affectionate and dutiful a son."

Sent in a cruiser with 14 flag of truce.Ambott's Nafoleon, vol. 1, ch. 26.
116. AFFECTION of Friendship. A. Lincoln. A few days before the President's death Secr.tary Stanton tendered his resigmation of the War Depurtment . . . saying that he . . had accepted the position to hold it only until the war should end, and thut now he felt his work was done. Mr. Lincoln was grently moved by the secretary's words, and tearing in piecess the paper that contained the resignation, and throwing his arms about the secertary, he suid, "Stanton, you have been a good friend and a fuithful public servant, and it is not for youto say when you will be no longer necded here." Several friends of both parties were present, and there wis not a dry eye that witnessed the scene.Raymond's Lincoln, p. 757.
117. Afrection, Impartial. Mr. Dustin. A.D. 1697. Seven days ifter her confinement Indian prowlers rased their shouts near the house of Hammah Dustin, of Haverhill [N. II.]; her husbund rode home from the field, but too late to provide for her rescue. Ile must fly, even if he would save one of his seven children, who had hurried before him into the forest. But, from the cowering flock, how could a father make a choice? [Which one take? which leave to the Indinns ?] With gun in hand he now repels the assault, now cheers on the innocent group of little ones, as they rustle through the dried leaves and bushes, till all reach a shelter. The Indians burned his home and dashed his infunt against in tree. [IIIs wife was taken into cuptivity.]-Bancuort's U. S., ch. 21.
118. APFECTION outraged, Maternal. Indian Wars. [The French , und Indians mude captives of women after burning the settlement of Silmon Falls in 1690.] The prisoners were laden by the victors with spoils from their own homes.
Mehetabel Godwin would linger apart in the snow to lull her infant to sleep, lest its cries should provoke the savages; angry at the delay, her [Indian] masier struck the child against a tree, and hung it nmong the branches.-BAncrort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 21.
119. AFFECTION, Parental. Samuel Wealey. [The house of Rev. Sumuel Wesley, the father of John Wesley, was fired it night by the rabble, and totally conammed.] The family barely escuped with their night gurments upon them. Mrs. Wesley was in ferble henitih; unable w eling with the rest threngh the windows, she was thrice beaten back fron the front door by the flumes. Committing herself to God, she at last waded throngh the fire to the street, scorching her face and hands. It wus fomd thut oncchild was missing. The father atempted to pass up the stairs to rescue him, but the consuming steps couki not bear his weight. He returned in despuir, und, kneeling down upon the earth. resigned to God the soul of his child. Meanwhile, the latter waking from his sleep, and finding his chumber and hed on fire, flew to the window, benenth which two peasants placed themselves, one on the shoulders of the other. and saved him at the moment when the roof fell in and crushed the chamber to the ground. "Come, neighbors," said the father, as he receiverl his son, "let us kneel down und give thank. to God; He 1ms given me all my eight children: let the house go, I am rich enongh." A few moments more and the founder of Methodism would have been lost to the world.-Stevens's Methodism, ch. 1, p. 59.
120. $\qquad$ Iord Straffords Trial. "My lords, I have trcubled you longer than I should lave done, were it not for the interest of these dear pledges a saint in heaver hath left me." [Here he stooped, letting fall some tears, and then resumed.] "What I forfeit myself is nothing ; but that my indiscretion should extend to my posterity woundeth me to the very soul. You will pardon my infimity : something I should lave added, hut am not able. therefore iet it pass. And now, my lords, for myself I have been, by the blessing of Almighty God, taught the aftlictions of this present lifeare not to be compared to the eternal weight of glory which shall be reveuled hereafter. And so, my lords . . I freely submit myself to your judgment; and whether that judgment be for life or death-"Te Deum Laudamus!" Sentence of denth was the reply to this eloquencand virtue.-Lamaitine's Chomwele, p. 12.
121. AFFECTION, strong. William, Irince of Orange. Ilis nffection wus as impetuous as his wrath. Where he loved, he loved with the whole energy of his strong mind. When death separited him from what he loved, the few who witnessed his agonies trembled for his reason and his lifr. To a very small circle of intimate friends, on whose fidelity and serrecy he could absolutely depend, he was a different man from the reserved and stoisal William whom the multitude supposed to be destitute of human feclings. - Macaulay's Mint. of Eve., vol. 2, eh. 7.
122. AFFECTION, Zeal of. John Iloward. Howard wns in the south of Europe when first his friends ventured to inform him of his son's condition. "I have a melancholy letter," he wrote, "relative to my unhappy young man. It is in. deed a bitter affliction-a son, an only son !" [A dissipated young man.] He hurried bnme.

The tirst five hundred miles he never stopped, day nor night, except to chmage horses. Ile renched his house to find his son a raving matman, and to learn that his physiciams had little. hope of his restoration. One of the symptoms of his malness was a most violent antipathy to his father, which bunished Howird from his heme, until the incrensing violence of the malady compelled the removal of the patient to an thylum, where he died nt the age of thirty-five. - Cychophima of Biog., p. 72.
123. AFFECTIONS, Blighted. Einunuel sicedeubory. The uttachuncht fof swedenborg for Polheim's danghter], however, was not mutual, :and the lady would not allow herself to be betroth d. Iler father, who deeply loved Swedenborg, eansed a written ngreement to be drawn ap, promising his daughter at some future day. This locument, Emerentia, from tilial ohedience, signed; but, ins ladies generally do, when fored to love in this way, took to sighs and smmess, which so affected her brother with sorrow, that he secretly purlohed the agreement from 'Swetenhorg. The paper was soon missed, forswedenborg read it over frequently ; and in his gricf at its loss besought Potheim to rephace it by a new one. But as Swedenliorg now diseovered the pain which he gave to the oljject of his affections. he at once relinquished all claim to her hand, and left her father's house. It was his last, as it was his first, endeavor after marriage.-Wimre's Sifedenborg, ch. 2.
124. AGE, Depraved. Introduring Christianity. The epoch which witnessed the early growth of Christiandty was an epoch of which the hiurror and the degradation have rarely been equalled, and perhaps never exceeded, in the annals of mankind. . . . Almment proofs of the albnormal wiekedness which areompanied the decadence of ancient civilization . . . are stamped upon its coinage, cut on its gems, painted upon its chamber-walls, sown brondenst over the pages of its poets, satirists, and historians. "Out of thine own month will I judge thee, thon wieked servant l" Is there any age which stands so instantly condemned by the bare mention of its rulers as that which recalls the successive names of Tiberius, Gains, Claudins, Nero, Galba, Otho, and Vitellius, and which after a brief gleam of better examples under Vespasian and Titus, sank at hast under the hideous tyrmny of a Domitian? Is there any age of which the evil characteristics force themselves so instantaneously upon the mind as that of which we mainly learn the listory and moral condition from the relics of Pompeii and Her, ulanemm, the satires of Persins and Juvenal, the epigrims of Martial, and the terrible records of Theitus, Sutonius, and Dion Cassius? And yeteven beneath this lowest deep, there is a lower deep; for not even on their dark pages me the depths of Satan so shmmelessly laid bare to humangaze as they are in the sordid fictions of Petronius and of Apuleius.Farlar's Early Days, ch. 1.
125. AGE of Greatness. National. It is this period, from the middle of the eighth to the middle of the tenth century, which is to be accounted the most flourishing nge of Arabian magnificence. While Haroun Alraschid made Bagdad the seat of a great and polished empire, and cultivi ted the arts and seiences with high success, the Mocrs of C'ordown, under Aistalraliman and his suceessors, viryl with thelr Asiatie brethren in the same honorable pursults, nud were, unquestionably, the most enlightened of the States of Europe it this prriol. The empire of the Franks inded, under Charlemagne, exhibited a beautiful pirture of order, spring from confusion and wenkness, but terminating with the reign of this illustrious momarch, und leaving no time for the arts introdued by him to make my apprometh to perfection. The Hoors of Spain, under a series of prinees, who gave every renouragement to genius and industry, thoagh, fond at the same time of mulitary glory, gadned the reputation of superiority both in arts and arms to all the nutions of the West. The Moorish structures in spain, which were reared during the eighth, ninth, and tenth centuries, many of which yet remain, convey midea of opulence and grandeur which almost execeds helief. The Mosque of Cordova, 'regm by Abdairnhmn the First, and finished nbout the year 800, is still almosi entire.-Tvilien's Hist., Book 6, ch. 4.

126 AGE, An improved. E'cils olf. The more carefully we examine the history of the past, the more renson shall we flnd to dissent from those who imagine that our nge has been fruitful of new social evils. The trith is, that the evils are, with scarcely an exception, old. That which is new is the intelligence which discerns them, and the humnity which remedies them.-Macavlay's Eng., yol. 1, ch. 3.
127. $\mathbf{A G E}, \mathrm{Men}$ for the Oliver Cromwell. Like the patron saint of England, st. George of Cappadocin-he of the dragon-Cromwell seems a strangely mythic character. In an age when real kings were dying or dend, and shan kings were fiying from their own weakness beneath the outspread shadowy wings of Right Divinewhen, out of the sea and seenery of confusion, beasts rose and reigned, like hydras, seven-headed, seven-horned-when every man sought to do what was right in his own eyes-when the prisons were full of vietims, when the churches were full of mummeries, there rose a wraith, unexpected, unprecedented in the history of the nation, perhaps of the world, and said, "Well, then, you must settle your account with me!"' That quaint, brond-hatted majesty of our old folio histories was, without a doubt, the Pathfinder of his nation in that age.-Hoon's Cronwell, ch. 1.
125. AGE, Memories in, Cato. When Cato was drawing near the close of his life, he declared to his friends that the greatest comfort of his old age, and that which gave him the highest satisfaction, was the pleasing remembrance of the many benefits and friendly offices he had done to others. To see them easy and happy by his means made him truly so.
129. AGE, Objections to. Seipio. When he was yet a boy, we have seen him a Tribune of the Legions at the age of twenty, assisting to rally the broken remains of the army of Cannæ, and barring the secession of the young nobles ufter that disastrous day. Three years ifter we find him offering himself a candidate for the Curule Edileship; and, when it was objected that he was yet too young for the office, promptly answering, "If the people vote for me, that will make me old enough."-Liddelis's Rome, p. 352.
130. $\triangle G E$ criticised, OLD. Dr. Samucl Johnson. He observed: "There is a wieked inelinution in most people to suppose an old man decayed in his intellects. If a young or middleaged man, when leaving a company, does not recollect where he laid his hat, it is nothing ; hut if the same inattention is discovered in an old man, people will shrug up their shoulders, and say, 'Ilis memory is going.' "-Boswelli's Joinhon, Bond's Ed., p. 486.
131. $4 G E$, Exaitement in OLD. Death of I'res. Harrison. He was inaugurated President ou the 4th of Murch, 1841 . . . Daniel Webster . . . Secretary of State. Everything promised well for the new Whig administration; but before Congress could convene, the vencrable President, bending under the weight of sixty-cight years, fell sick, and died just one month after his in-auguration.-Ridpati's Hist. of U. S., ch. 56.
132. $A G E$ Health in OLD. Dr. Samuel Johnson. One of the company mentioned his having seen & noble person driving in his carriage, and looking exceedingly well, notwithstanding his great age. Johnson : "Ah, sir, that is nothing. Bacon observes that a stout, healthy old man is like a tower undermined."-Boswell's Johnson, p. 517.
133. $\mathbf{A G E}$, Labor in OLD. Martin Luther. Luther had reached his sixty-third year. Frequent attacks of sickness had scriously wcakened his bodily frame. Added to this was the anxiety that he felt on account of the course of ecclesiastical affairs, so that at times a weariness of life overcame him. Thus he writes a few months before his death : "I, an aged, used-up, idle, tired, and unimpressive man, write to yon. And though I had hoped that they would grant me, decrepit man that I am, a little rest, I am nevertheless overwhelmed with writing and speaking, acting and performing, as ii I had never transacted, written, spoken, or done any-thing."-Rein's Lutier, ch. 25.
134. - - Herschel. Sir William Herschel was still pursuing his observations at the age of cighty. . . . Ile discovered the planet Uranus in 1781. It has been said of him, that " no one individual ever added so much to the facts on which our knowledge of the solar system is founded."-Knioht's Ena., vol. 8, ch. 7, p. 129.
135. AGE, Literature in OLD. John Milton. The usual explanation of the frigidity of " Paradise Regained" is the suggestion which is nearest at hand-viz., that it is the effect of age. Like Ben Jonson's "New Inn," it hetrays the feebleness of senility, and has one of the most certain marks of that stage of authorship, the attempt to imitate himself in those points in which he was once strong.-Pattison's Milton, ch. 13.
136. AGE, Success in OLD. CPsar. As a general, Ceesar was probably no less inferior to Pompey than Sylin to Marius. Yet his successes in war, achieved by a man who, in his forty-ninth year, had hardly seen a camp, add to our conviction of his real genius.-Liddelle's Rome, p. 702.

13\%. AGE, Vigor in OLD. Warrion. Masinissa, King of Numidia, when past ninety years of age, charged like a boy of nineteen at the head of his wild horsemen against the Curthaginians, and overcame them.-Liddeli's Rome, p. 482.
138. $\qquad$ John Wealey. John Wesley was elghty-six years old before he became conscions of the intirnities of many years. He lived till he was cighty-eight years of agr. This unusual vigor he ascribed to the hlessingr of God, wrought chictly by his constant exercise, his early rising, and his habit of daily preaching morning and evening. . . . Enterinir his cightieth year, he says . . . he travels from four to five thousand miles every year; has a perfect command of sleep, night or day, whenever ho needs it; he is an early riser at a fixed hour. In his elghty-second yeur he writes: "It is now eleven years since I felt any such thing as weariness." . . . His associates could not at thils thme percelve in him any signs of intellectual decay, nor can tue critic detect it in his writings.

He records beautiful impresslons of nature and books more frequently ; h. compares and criticises Ariosto and Tasso; beindulges occasionally in dramatic reading and criticism. . . . He is described as still fresh in color, with a brilliant eye and vivacions spirits.

IIe was careful of his physical hatits; his natural constitution was feeble; he said he never felt lowness of spirits for a quarter of an hour since he was born, and before his seventieth year he never lost a night's sleep. He preached forty-two thousand five hundred sermons.Stevens' Methodism, Book 5, ch. 12.
139. $\qquad$ Cato the Censor. IIe retained his bodily strength to a very great age. When he was past eighty years he called onmorning upon it man who had formerly been his secretary, and asked him whether he had yet provided a husband for his daughter. "1 have not," was the reply ; "nor shall I without consulting my best friend." "Why, then," said Cato, "I have found out a very fit husband for her, if she can put up with an old man who,: in other respects, is a very good matel for her." "I leave the disposal of her," said the father. "entirely to you. She is under your protection, and depends wholly upon your bounty.". "Then," said Cato, "I will be your son-in-law." The astonished parent gave his consent, and Cato annonnced his intention to his son, who was himself a married man. "Why, what have I done," said the son, " that I should have a mother-in-law put upon me "'" "I am only desirous," replicd Cato, "of having more such sons as you, and leaving more such citizens to my country." By this wife, who was little more than a girl, he actually land a son, who himself became consul of Rome, and was the father of the other famous Cato, the enemy of Clesar.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 423.
140. - - Lord Palmerston. When he was past seventy, he thought no more of a thirty-mile gallop of an afternoon than a New York merchant does of walking home from Broad Strect to Union Square. Often, when Parliament was expected to sit late, he would dismiss his carriage, and, coming ont of the house after midnight, would walk home alone, a distance of two miles, and "do" the distance in thirty minutes. There never was a brisker old gentleman. In the hunting season he usually went into the country, where he would follow the hounds as vigorously and as long as the youngest burk of them all.-Cver.o. pedia of Bron., p. 500).
141. AGE, Protected by. LIgrd Solon. Many of his friends. . . Wold hin the tyrunt would iertuinly put hin to death. . . and asked him what he trusted to, that he wenc such imprudent lengths; he answered, "To oldage." However, when Pisistratus had fully established himself, he made his court to Solon, and trented hinn with so much kinduess anel respeed, that Solon became, ass it were, his commellor, und gave sanction to many of his proveedings.-Pideratecis.
142. AGE, A romarkable. Thirteenth Centary. [Here we] seck the origin of our freedom, our prosperity, and our glory. 'Then it was that the great English people whs formed. . . . Then Iirsit appeared with distinc:Iness that Constitution which has ever since, throngh all changes, pre-served its identity : that Constitution of which all the other free constitutions in the world are copies, and which, in spite of some defects, deerves to be regarded as the best under which :my great society has ever yet existed during many ages. Then it was that the House of Commons, the archetype of all the representative assemblies which now meet, cither in the Old or in the New World, held its first sittings. Then it was that the common haw rose to the dignity of a science, and rupidly becmme a not unworthy rivul of the imperial jurisprudence. Then it was that the courage of those sailors who manned the rude larks of the Cinque Ports first made the flag of Enghand terrible on the seas. Then it was that the most ancient eolleges which still exist at both the great national seats of learning were founded. Then was formed that langrage, less masical, indeed, than the languages of the Sonth, but in force, in richness, in uptitude for ull the highest purposes of the poet, the philosopher, and the orator, inferior to that of Grecec alone. Then, 1oo, appeared the first faint dawn of that noble literature, the most splendid and the most slurable of the many glories of England.-Macidlay's Hist. of Enca., vol. 1, ch. 1.
143. - - Reformation. The age of Tharles V. is the cra of great events and inportant revolntions in the history of Europe. It is the era of the Reformation in religion in Germany, in the northern kingdoms of Denmark and Sweden, and in Britain. It is the era of the discovery of America; and, lastly, it is the period of the highest splendor of the tine arts in Italy and in the south of Europe.'TVTLELR's IIIST., Book 6, ch. 20.
144. $\triangle G E$, Satisfactory. Intimidated. Crasow was taken, and the whole country gave way to the conqueror [Churles XII.]. The perfidious primate [Cardinal lajouski], in an assembly ef the States at Warsaw, now openly took purt against the king [of Poland], his master, and in the year 1704 the throne of Pohnd was declared vacant. The vietorious Charles signified to the States of the kingdom his desire that Stanislaus Leckzinski, a young nobleman of Posuania, should be elected king. The electors made some hesitation on account of his youth. "If I am not mistaken," said Charles, "he is as old is I am" [twenty years]. It is almost needless to add that Leckzinski was clected King of Poland.-Tytienta Hist, lbook 6, eli 85.

145 AGED, Blessing of the, John Honourd. The Pope was one of the monarehs with whom he conversed on this grent sulbject. He was received at the papal jalace with unusual distinction, and he was dispensed from the ceremony of kisslag the toe of the pontilf. When he was about to retire, after a long conversation on the prisons of ltuly, the Pope said to him, laying his hand upon his very Protestant head: "I know you Engrlishmen do not inind thesse things. but the blessing of an old man can do you no harm."-('yclor'ebli of Bio4., p. 58.
1.16. agitation, Perils of. (ircat IReformation. "Luther's te"chings," writes a contemporury, "have uroused so murd strife, dissenslon. and disturbance among the people, that there is samre a country or a city, a village or a family, that has not been divided hand agitated even unto blows."-IEEin'h Lethen, ch. 1.
147. AgItation, Perseverance in. Abolition iste. The Abolitionists were a proseribed and persecuted class, denomeced with unsparing severity by both of the great political parties, condemned by nany of the leading churches, libelled in the public press, and maltreated by furious mobs. In no part of the country did they constitute more than " handful of the population.

They were largely recruited from the Socicty of Friends. . . Caring nothing for prejudice, meeting opprobrium with silence, shaming the nuthors of violence by meek non-resistance, relying on moral agencies alone, appealing simply to the reasen and the conscience of men, they arrested the uttention of the mation by arruigning it before the public opinion of the world, and proclaiming its responsibility to the judgment of God.-Blaine's Twenty Years of Conoress, p. 23.

14s. AGONY of the Cross, Christ. The agony of Christ upon the cross, dying a slow death from rabid violence among the Jews, and barbarous wounds inflicted by Roman soldiers, to drain away the blood of life, and torture all the nerves of sense, and all the feelings of the soul within the body, is the highest illustration of the weaning of the word.-As. Cyc., "Aaony."
149. AGRARIANISM, Difficulties of. Romans. The people might rertainly have prevailed in obtaining the fayorite measure of an agrarian law. But the truth is, this measure was nothing more tham a political engine, occasionally employed by the popular magistrates for exciting commotions, and weakening the power of the patricians. It was a measure attended necessarily with so much difficulty in the exceution, that few even of the people themselves had a sincere desire of secing it accomplished. The extensive disorder it must have introduced in the territorial possessions of the citizens, by a new distribution of all the lands acquired by concuest to the republic since the time of Romulus-the affection which even the poorest feel for a small patrimoninl inheritance, the phace of their nativity, and the repository of the bones of their forefo-thers-and that most admiruble and most salutary persuasion that it is an act of impicty to alter or remove ancient landmarks-all these were strong obstacles.-TYyler's Ilist., Book 3, ch. 5.
150. AGGRESSION, Required. Romans. [Afler the recapture of Capua by Appius Claulius and Fulvius Fluecus,] when the Consuls returmed home, they were refused a trinmph. No Roman general, it was said, deserved a triumph foi merely recovering what once belongel to the Rupublic.-Ladmeatí Rome, p. 334.
151. $\triangle$ GRICULTURE, Anolent. Romans. In the early times of leome the work of the farm was the only kind of manal labor deemed worthy of a free citizen. This fecling long survived, as may be seen from the praise bestowed on agrienlture by Cicero, whose enthasiasm was raught from one of his favorite heroes, old Cato the Censor. The taste for books of farming continued. Varro the astipmarian, a friend of (:ieero, lats left an expellent tratise on the subjuect. A little later tame the fanous Georgices of Virgil, followed at no long interval by Pliny's notices, ant then by the claborate Dissertations of Columella, who refers to a great number of Roman writers on the same sulbject. It is manifest that the subjeet of agriculture possessed a strong and enduring charm for the Roman mind. But, from the times of the IIannibalic War, agrienlture lost gromod in Italy. When Cato was asked what was the most profitable kind of farming, he said, "Good grazing." What next " "Tolerable grazing." What next? "Bad grazing." What next? "Corn-growing." Later writers, with one accord, teplored the diminished productiveness of land.-Laddela's lonme, p. 497.
152. AGRICULTURE, Anti-monopoly in. $R_{i}$, mans. A high ajpreciation of agriculture appears to have been a fundamental iden among the early Romans. A tract of land was allotted to every citizen by the State itself, and each one was carefully restricted to the tumatity granted. It was saill by the orator Carius, that " he was not to be counted a good citizen, but rather a dangerous man to the state, who could not content himself with seven acres of land." The Roman nere being nbout one sixth less than ours, the law netually limited the possession to about six acres. As the nation beeame more powerful and extented its dominions by conquest, the citizen was allowed to hold fifty aeres, and still later he could be the holder of five hundred.-Am. ('yc., "Agriculture."
153. AGRICULTURE, Attractions of. The Pr, et Horace. When eloyed with the pleasures of the imperial city, he had but to mount his mule $p=d$ ride fifteen minutes, to reach his farm. Ifis land, well covered with forest, and lying on, both sides of a sparkling river, was tilled by tive free families and ciglat slaves. and produced grain, wine, and olives. It abounded in pleasant, seeluded scenes, fit for a poet's leisure; and there, too, he delighted to receive his friends from Rome; Mecienas himself being glad to repose there from the tcils of government. To this day, Horace's farm is continually visited by travellers residing in Rome, especially by English and Americans. - Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 376.
154. AGRICULTURE, Burdens of, By $A r$ taxerxes, King of the Persialus. Several of his sayings are preserved. One of them in particular discovers a deep insight into the constitution of government. . The anthority of the prince" suid Artaxerxes, "must be defendcid by a military foree; that force can only be maintained by 'axes; all taxe's must, at last, fall upon agriculture ; and agriculture can never flourish except under the protection of justice and moderution."-Grmon's lrome, ch. 8 .
155. AGRICULTURE burdened. Reign of Iamix YII. The progress of agrienlture wis still lurdened ly the servitudes of the soll. Each little farm was in bombage under a complieated system of irredecmable duas, to romis and camals; to the bakehouse mat the brewery of the lord of the manor; to his winepress and his mill ; to his tolls at the river, the market, or the fair ; to gromed rents and quit rents, and thes on thicmation. The gume laws let in the wild beasts and birds to fatten on the growth of the poor man's tields ; and after his harvests provincial enstom-housess blocked donnestic commeree; the export of com, and evell its fre circulation within the realm, was prohithited; so that one provinee might waste from famine and another want a market.-Banchort's U. S.. vul. 7, el. 7.
156. AGRICULTURE exalted. "Nirarer Heaven." The great employment of France was the tillage of land, thatu which no method of guin is more grateful in itself or more worthy of frecmen, or more lappy in rendering servic• to the whole human race. No oecupntion is nearer henven.-Banchorits U. S., vol. 5 , ch. 2.
157. AGRICULTURE honored. Cincinnatus. Dictutor of Rome. A successor was chosen to Valerius in the consulate, L. Quintius Cincinnatus, a man of great resolution and intrepidity, who, though himself so indigent as to cultivate with his own hands his paternal fields, and to be called from the plough to put on the robe of the consul, had yet the high spirit of an ancient patrician, which was ill-disposed to brook the insolence of the popular magistrates or aequiesce in the daily inereasing pretensions of the infarior order.-Tytlen's Hist., Book 3, ch. 6.
158. - - Edmund Burke. [Edmund Burke] was an agricultural improver. Young saw him experimenting on carrots at his farm at Beaconsfield, and says, " Buckinghamshire will be much indebted to the attention this manly genius gives to husbandry."-Knight's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 1.
159. AGRICUL'TURE, Pursuit of. Noblest Romans. The picture of the Roman people during the first five conturies is so perfectly distinct, so widely different from what we find it in the latter ages of the republic, that we might at first be induced to think that some very extraordinary causes must have eo-operated to produce so total an alteration. Yet the transition was easy and natural, and was in the Roman people the necessary and inevitable consequence of that rich and lixurious situation in which the virtuous and heroic temper of the carlier times had conduced to place the republic. $A$ spirit of temperance, of frugality, and of industry must le the characteristics of every infant colony. The poverty of the first Romans, the narrow territory to which they were limited, made it necessary for every citizen to labor for his subsistence. In the first ages, the patricians, when in the country, forgot all the distlnctions of rank, und toiled duily in the fields like the lowert plebeian. Cincinnatus we have seen numed dictator by the voice of his country, while at the plough. M. Curins, after expelling Pyrrhus from Italy, retired to the possession of 3 small farm, which the ustiduonsly cultivuted. The elder Cato was fond of this spot, und revered it on necount of its former master. It Was in emulation of the example of this nncient Roman that Cato betook himself to ugricultare. Scipio Africanus also. after the conquest of Hannibal and the reduction of Carthage, retired to his paternml fields, and with his own hand reared and grufted his fruit trees.-TypLen's MIET., Book 4, ch. 4.
160. AaRICULTURE, Religiona, Persian Morality. To eultivate an untilled field, to plant fruit trees, to destroy noxious animuls, to bring water to a dry and barren hand, were ull actions beneticial to mankind, and therefore most agrecable to the divinity, who wills perpetually the highent happiness of his creatures.-Tytlen's HIst., Book 1, ch. 11.
161. AGRICULTURE, Scientifio, Reign of Charles II. Deeply impressed with these great truths, the professors of the new philosoply applied themselves to their task, and before it quarter of a century had expired they had given ample carnest of what has since been achieved. Already a reform of agriculture had been commenced. New vegetables were cultivated. New implements of hasbandry were employed. New manures were upplied to the soil. Evelyn had, under the formnl sunction of the Royal Society, given instruction to lis countrymen in planting. Temple, in his intervals of leisure, had tried many experiments in horticulture, and had proved that many delicate fruits, the natives of more favored climates, might, with the help of art, be grown on English ground.-Macaulay's Eno., vol. 1, ch. 3 .
162. AGRICULTURE, Superiority of, Romans. Many of the carly haws of the Romans were the necessary result of their sitmation. Such, for example, was that law which confined the practice of all mechanic arts to the slaves; for all the free citizens must either have been employed in warfare or in the culture of their fields.Tytler's Hist., Book 3, ch. 1.
163. AGRICULTURE, Unsuccessful. Einglant in A.D. 1390 . The averuge prodnce of wheat per acre was less than six lonshels.-Knigit's Hist. of Eng., vol. 1, ch. 30.
164. AGRICULTURISTS crippled. By Throdoric. [The King of the Goths.] This . . . faithful servant [of the Eastern Empire] was suddr aly converted into a formidable enemy, who spread the flames of war from Constantinople to the Adriatic; many flonrishing cities were rednced to ashes, and the agriculture of Thrace was almost extirpated by the wunton crucliy of the Goths, who deprived their captive peassunts of the right hand that guided the plongh.-Grisnon's Rome, ch. 39, p. 6.
165. ALARM, Needless. Pertinax, Prefect of Rome. [Commodus, the Roman tyrant, had been assassinated. The conspirators sought noble Pertinax to fill the vacant throne.] Ile now remuined slmost alone of the friends and ministers of Marcus; and when, at a late hour of the night, he was awakened with the news thent the chamberhin and the prefect were at his door, he received them wih intrepid resig. mation, and desired they wonld execute their muster's orders. Instead of death, they offered him the throne of the Roman world. During some moments he distrusted thelr intentions and assurances. Convinced at length of the death of Commodus, he aecepted the purple with a sincere reluctance.-Ginnon's Rome, vol. 1, ch. 4.
166. ALARM, Religlous. Martin Luther. A1ready, in his elghteenth yeur, he surpassed all his fellow-students in knowledge of the Latin chassics, and in power of composition and of eloquence. His mind took more and more a deeply religious turn; but it was not till he had been for two years studying at Eisenach that he discovered un entire Bible, having until then only known the ecclesiastical extracts from the sacred volume, and the history of Hannuh and Samuel. He now determined to study Greek and Hebrew, the two original languages of the Bible. A dangerous illness brought lim within the near prospect of death; lut he recovered, and prosecuted his study of phllosophy and law, and tried hard to gain inward peace by a pious life and the greutest strictness in all external observances. His natural cheerfulness disappeared ; and after experiencing the shoek of the death of one of his friends by assassination in the summer of 1505, und soon after 'hat being sturtled by a thunderbolt striking the carth by his side, he determined to give up the world and retire into the convent of the Augustinians at Erfurt. Bunsen's Luther, p. 7.
167. ALIENS, Expulsion of. Adums' Aelministration. Much of the recent legislation of Congress had heen unwise and unpopular. The ahien law, by which the President was authorized to send ont of the country uny foreigners whose presence should be eonsidered prejudicial to the United States, was sperially odions. . . . Partisan excitement ram high.-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 47.
168. ALLEGORIST, The best. John Bunyicu. The "Pilgrim's Progress" was, in his own lifetime, transluted into severai forcigu languages. It was, however, scarcely known to the learned and polite, and had been, during near a century, the delight of pions cottagers and artisans before it was publicly commended by any man of high literary eminence. At length cfitics condeseended to inquire where the secret of so wide and so durable popularity lay. They were conipelled to own that the ignorant multitude had judged more correctly than the learned, and that the despised little book was really a masterpiece. Banynu is indeed as clecidedly the tirst of allegorists, as Demosthenes is the first of orators, or Shakespeare the tirst of dramatists. Other allegorists have shown equal ingenuity, but no other allegorist has ever been able io tonch the heart and to make abstractions objects of terror, pity, and of love.-Macaulay's IIsst. of Enc., ch. 7.
169. ALLIANCE, Degrading. Charks II. with Louis XIV. [Charles sought aid, that he might he independent of Parliument.] Lonis promised large nid. He from time to time doled out such aid as might serve to keep hope alive, and us he could without risk or inconvenience spare. In this way, at an expense very much less than liut which he lacurred in building and decorating Versailles or Marli, he succeeded in muking England, during nearly twenty yeurs, almosi as insignificant a member of the political system of Europe as the republie of San Marino.-Macaulay'b Itist. of Eno., ch. 2.
170. ALLIANCE demanded. By Frunce of C. S. [John Admms was President.] Adet, the French minister, made inflammatory appeals to the people, and urged the goverument to conclude a treaty with France against Great Britain. When the President and Congress stood firmly on the doctrine of neutrality, the French Directory grew insolent, and begqu to demand an alliance. . . . On the 10th of Mareh the Directory issued instructions to French men-of-war to assail the commerce of the United States. . . . American minister was ordered to leave the territory of France. [War followed.] -Ridpatio's IIst. U. S., eli. 47.
171. alliance, 4 just. American Indians. Friendly relations .. . were established with the Wampanoags. Massasolt, the great sachem of the nation, was invited to visit the settlement, and came, attended by a few of his warriors. The pilgrims received them with as much parade and ceremony as the colony could provide; Captain Standish ordered out his soldiers. . . then and there was ratified the first treaty made in New England. The terms were few and simple. There should be peace and friendship . . . no injury should be done by either party. All offenders slould be given up to te punished. If the English engaged in war, Massasoit should help them; if the Wampanoags were attacked unjustly, the English should give aid. . . . Mark the word unjustly ; it contains the essen se of Puritanism.-Ridfatio's Hist. of U. S., ch. 13.
172. $4 L L I A N C E$ of Self-interest. "We give Ourselves. . . to the Romans." Capua was the principal city of Campania, one of the finest and most fertile countries of Itnly. This city, then, was extremely opulent and luxarious. The Samnites, a poor but warlike people, were allured by the riches of their neightors, und invaded Campania. The inhabitants of Capua, after some feeble attempts to resist the invaders, implored aid from the Romans. The Senate answered, that their alliance with the Samnites prevented them from giving anything else than their compassion. "If, then," said the Capunns, "you will not defend us, you will, at least, defend yourselves; and from this moment we give ourselves, our cities, our fields, and our gods to the Romans, and become their subjects." The Senate accepted the donation, and ordered the samnites immediately to quit their territories. The necessary consequence was a war. The Samnites were glad to conclude a peace.Tytler's Hist., ch. 7.
173. ALLIES, Dangerous. Turkish Triles. [Mahmud encouraged emigration of many tribes within his territory.] Malımud the Gaznevide was admonished of his error by a chief of the race of Selijuk, who dwelt in the territory of Bochara. The sultan had inquired what supply of men he could furnish for military scrvice. "If you send," replied Ismaci, " one of thene arrows Into our camp, fifty thousand of your servants will mount on horselnack." "And If that number," contianed Mahmud, "should not be sufficient Y" "Send this second arrow to the horde of Balik, and you will find fifty thousumd more." "But," said the Gaznevide, dissentbling his muxicty, "if I should stand in need of the whole force of your kimired tribes ?" "Despateh my low," was the last reply of Ismael ; "and us it is circulated around, the summons will be obeyed by two lumdred thonsand horse." The apprehension of such formidable friendship induced Mahmud to transport the most obmoxious tribes into the heart of Chorasan, where they would le separated from their brethren by the river Oxus, and enclosed on all sides by the walls of ohedlent clties.-Ginnon's Rome, vol. 6. ch. 63 .
174. $\qquad$ Lions. [Chassins made comphaint against Cusar that] the lions which he had procured when he was nominated adile, and whieh he had sent to Megara, Casar had taken and converted to his own use, laving found them there when that city was taken by Calanus. Those lions, it is said, were very fatal the indabitants; for as soon as their city was taken, they opened their dens and unchained them in the streets, that they might stop the irruption of the enemy; but instead of that they fell upon the citizens, and tore them in such a manner that their very enemies were struck with horror.-P1uTABME.
175. ALLIES, Invisible. Mathomet's Angels. [The Koreish had one hundred horse and eight laundred foot.] " O God," he exclamed, as the numbers of the Koreish deseended from the hills, "O God, if these are destroyed, by whom wilt Thou be worshipped on the earth? Courage, my children ; close your ranks ; diselarge your arrows, und the day is your own." At these words he placed himself, with Abubeker, on a throne or pulpit, and instantly demanded the suceor of Gabriel and three thousand angels. His eye was fixed on the field of buttle; the Mussilmans fainted and were pressed ; in that decisive moment the prophet started from his throne, mounted his horse, and cast a handful of sand into the air: "Let their fuces be covered with confusion." Both armies heard the thunder of his voice; their fancy beheld the angelic warriors; the Koreish trembled and fled; seventy of the bravest were slain ; and seventy captives adorned the first vietory of the faithful. -Gıbво's Rome, ch. 50.
176. ALLIES rejected. Lafayet'e-Kalb. July, 1777. Kalb and Lafayette arriving at Philadelphia. . met a rude repulse. When it was told that Lafayette desired no more than leave to risk his life in the cause of liberty, without pension or allowance, Congress gave him the rank of major-general ; but at first the services of Kalb, the ablest European officer who had come over-master of English and familiar with the country-were reiected.-Bancrort's U. S., vol. 9, ch. 23.
177. ALLY, Volunteer. Agrarian Law. LProposed for relief of the poor and for returned Roman soldiers. Large tracts belonging to the State were to be donated.] Pompey was the idol of every soldier in the State, and at Cesar's in-. vitation he adidrewed the amembly, He spokic for his veterans. He spoke for the poor citizens. Ho said that he neproved the law to the last letter of it. "Will yom then," auked Cesar. "support the liw if it he illegniy opposed ?" "since," replied Pompey, "you counsel, und you, my fellow-citizens, ask nid of me, n poor Individual without oflice and without nuthorIty, who nevertheless has dome some service to the state, I say that I, will hear the shiedd if others draw the sword." Applause rang ont from a hundred thousind thromes.-Frobise's Cassar, ch. 13.

17世. Ambition ve. Affection. Napoleon 1 . Josephine knew that many were urglag upou hilm the necessity of a divorce that he might have an helr, and thas secure the future of the State.] Once day when Napoleon was husy in his cablinet Josephine entered softly hy a side door, manl seating herself niffectiomately upon his knee, and? passing her hand gently through his hair, suid to him, with at hurst of tenderness, "I entreat you, my love, do not make yourself king. It is lacien who urges you to ft. Do not listen to liim." Napoleon sumilded ирои, her kindly, and sald," Why, my poor Josephiac, are you mul ?". . . She knew the intensity of her husband's love. She also knew the boundhessuress of his ambition.-Amurtr's nafoleon I., vol. 1, ch. 24.
179. Ambition, Awakened. Sir I. Newton. It is n question with English teachers whether schoolthys ought or ought not to be permitted to settle iheir quarrels ly a fair fight with fists. In the great sehools of Eton, Westminster, Harrow, and others, flghting is tacitly allowed; but in the smaller sehools, especially those under the charge of dissenters, it is forbidden.
The greatness of Sir Isane Newton dntes from a fight which he had with one of his schoolfellows when he was thirteen years of age. At that time, according to liis own confession, he was very idle at sehool, and stood hast in the howest class but one. One morning, as he was going to school, the boy who was first in the same class kiekel him in the stomach with so muel violence as to cause him severe pain during the day. When the selool was dismissed, he chullenged the boy to fight him. The challenge being accepted, a ring was formed in the churchyard, the usial place of combat, and the fight legun. Newton, a wenkly boy from his birth, was inferior to his antagonist in size nud strength; but, smarting uuder a sense of the indignity he hall reecived, he fouglit with so much spirit and resolution as to compel his, adversary to cry, Enough. The schoolmaster's son, whos had been clapping one of them on the brek nuid winking at the other, to urge on the contest, and who acted as a kind of umpire, informed the victor that it was necessary to crown his triumph by rubbing the other boy's nose agninst the wall. Little Nawion seized him by the cars, thrust his face agninst the rough side of the church, and walked home exulting in lis victory. The next inorning, however, lie hadd ngain the mortification of seeing his enemy at the head of the class, while he occupied his usual place at the foot. He began to reflect. Conld he regard himself in the light of a victor while his foe lorded it over him in the schoolroom?

The upplauding shonts of hily mechoolfellows had been grateful to hils cars, but his enemy enjoyed the approval of the tencher. The hatrels of the playgromed seemed to fade in comparison with the nobler trlumplis of the mind. The result of hils rellections wis, that he determined to conquer lils adversury again hy getting to the hend of his clase.-Crelormana or Biod., p. 244.

1so. ambition, Cruelty of. Irene. Comstantinc, surmuned Copronymus, . . . dylug lefi thls prince [his son Leo], then mine years old, to the government of his mother Irene, whor ruled the empire [of the East] rather as a sovercign than as a regent. She was an able womme, and foresaw the danger to the e"ulife from the ambbition and power of Clartomagne. To nvert my lostile purposes, till shes shombed be in a cemalition to oplpase them with effeet, she brourht about a negotiation for the murriage of her son with the dhayhter of Charlemagne ; but it was far from her intention that this phatelis sloould ever be ac(complishlewl. Ireme, on the contrary, was tow fond of power herself to consent to anything that might deprive her of the reins of government. She kept the young Constantine in the most nbsolute denendence and sulmission; ausI when at hast he endeavored to assume that diguity which helonged to him, she, on pretenceof treasomalle designs, threw him into prison, deprivel him of his eyes, and put him to death. -Tytien's Hist., Book ti, ch. 3.
181. AMbition in the Church. Schimme. Ambition is a weed of yuick und enrly vegelntion In the vineyard of Christ. Under the first Christian princes the chair of St. Peter was disputed ly the votes, the venality, the violencer. of a popular election; the sanctuaries of Rome were polluted with bloosl; and from the third to the twelfih century the church was distracted ly the misellief of frequent schisms.-Grbbos's Rome, wh 69.
182. Ambition cursed. Gen. Fraser. A.b. 17\%7. [Gen. Fruser, one of Gen. Burgoyne's major-generals, fell nt the batte of Saratoga.] He questioned the surgeon eagerly as to his wound, nud when he found that he must go from wife and clididren, that fame and promotion and life were gliding from lefore his eyes, he cried out ip his agotiy: "Damned am-bitionl"-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 9, ch. 24.
183. AMBITION, Delusive. Roman Emperor Maciemus. The imprudent Maximus . . gratified his resentment and ambition; he saw the bleeding eorpse of Valentiminn at his feet ; and he heard himself snluted Emperor ly the unanimous voice of the Senate anil people. But the day of his inauguration was the last day of his liuppiness. Ife was imprisoned (sucht is the lively expression of Sidenius) in the pulaee ; and after passing a sleeploss night, he sighed that he had attuined the summit of his wishes, and nspired only to dessenend from the dangerous elevation. Oppressed by the wright of the diadem, he communicatel his anxious thoughts to his friend and quastor Fulgentius; and when he looked back with mavailing regret on the secure pleasures of his former life, the emperor exclaimed, " $O$ fortunte Damoecles, thy reign began and ended with the sume dinner ;" "t well-known allusion. . . . The reign of Maximus continued about threc months. His hours, of which he hate lowt the command, were olistarbed by remorse, or gulli, or terror, and his throne was shaken by the serlitions of the soldieres, the people, und the ronfedernte burbarimes.-(theion's lome, di. :Hf.
184. AMBITION, Destractive. Axatrainution, of Julive Chenre: The prinedpait thing that pxcited the publice hatred, nowl at hast cransed his death, was his passion for the title of king. It was the first thing that rave olfence to the mulHtude, and it afforded his inveterate curmbes a very phasible plen.-Piveanio.

1w.s. AmBITION, Determination of. Alerrin. dier Ilmmiltom. Ills mother, while he wis yet a child, had left him an orplan and poor. A father's care he see mos never to have known. . . . [When a elerk in his mative West Indla.|... To a friemed of his own yeurs [he] comfesserl his amblition. "I would willingly risk my llfe." satid be, "though not my charmeter, to exalt my station. I menn to prepare the way for litheri. ty; we have seph surb sehemes suceresuful when the projector is comsthnt."-Banchopr's $\mathbb{V}$. S., vol. 7, ili. 6.
186. AMBITION differs, Itemuder the Great and Parmenio. Darias hand kent a second emhassy to Alexander, while he was engaged in the siege of Tyr". The Persian now assumed " himbler tome. He offered ten thousand talents for the ransom of his mother und his gueen, mud he agreed to give Alexnader his dhughter Siatim In marriage, with all the $A$ siatir provincere to the westward of the Euphrates for her pertion. When these terms wore mule known to thi Macedonime oblirers, larmenio could not belp, remarking, that, were he Alexander, he would not hesitate a moment to acrept of them. "And I," replled the king, " might think so too, if I were Pirmenio."-Tythen's Hisis., Book 2, ch. 4, p. 188.
ist. Ambition, Diverse. Nitpolem $I_{\text {. }- \text { Prem- }}$ unt. When Napoleon was crossing the Alps with his army, a young pensant was his galde, and anconsciots of the rank of his companion. Napoleon] drew from his young and artless guide the secrots of his henrt. The young peasint was sincere and virthons. He loved a fuir maid among the mountains. She loved him. It, was his great desire to have her for his own. He wha poor, and had neither house nor land to support a family. Napoleon struggling . . . against England and Anstrin. . to meet ome hundred and twenty thousand foes.. . [remembered his guide and gratified his ambition in the possession of a home.]-Amotris Nimeleon B., vol. 1, ch. 19.
188. AMBITION, Dream of. Count de Broq. lie. A.D. 1776. While Wushington was toiling under difficulties without [pecuniary] reward, a rival in Europe nspired to his place. The Connt de Broglie, diselaiming the ambition of becoming the sovereign of the United States, insinnated his willingness to be for a period of years its William of Orange, provided he could be assured of a large grant of money before embarkation, an anple revenue, the highest millitary rank, and the direction of foreign relations during his command, and a princely annutty for life after his return. . . . The poverty of the new republic scattered the great man's shortlived dream.-Bancroft's U. S., wol. 9, ch. 16.

1NO. AyBition, Envious. Themisturtes tha Athenitn statexman annd tiencral. Ihemisto ches was so currided away with the love of plory. so immoderately desfroms of allathguishing himself by mome great artlon, that, though he was very young when the hatele of Mlara thon was fonght. and when the gencralship of Millades was werewhere extolled, yet evell then he was observed to krep much alone, to twe very penslve, to watch whole nights, nod not to attend the usiml enterthinments. When he was asked the renson by his friculs, who wonkered at the change, he salid, "The rophies of Miltiandes

190. AMBITION, Fallure of. sir W. scetf. There is something of trony in such a result of the herevenon labors of siott to found and radow a new brand of the clan of Serott. When Dfteen yeme after hils denath the estate was at longhth frem from debt, all hiv own elbildren and the eldest of his grandelildren were demel: and now forty-six yous have olnped, and there only remains one girl of lis descendants to lorrow his name und live in the halls of which he was so promed. And yet his, mad this only, was wanting to give something of the grandenr of trugedy to the cond of Scott's great conterprise. Ife valued his works little comparad with the house and hads which they were to be the means of gaining for his descomants; yet every (and for which he struggled so gullantly is ali but lost, while his works buve sabed more of mided lustre from the losing lmatlo which he foughe sol long, than they rould ever have gainal from his shecess. - Il ortos's Scotr, ch. 17.
191. ambition, Field of. Soung finight. II went lorth, if we are to believe literally the rhroniclers of those ares, with the determinerl parpose of provoking to combat homes other knight of establisherl remown: and torffert this a pretence was nevir wanting. Ile had only to assert boldy that the lady whom it was his himp piness to serve and obey exirlled every other fomale in benuty and in virtue, as much as the moon surpassed the stars in splondor, and to insist 11 pon every knight he met making the same wrknowledgment. The high ratrem of the frmale sex we have before remarked to have bern charaeteristic of the Gothic mamers.- -T'yTLEL's His'r., Book 6, ch. 10.
192. AMBITION, Inhuman. The Triumviri. Octavius, Mark Antony, and lapidus held a conference in a small island in the middle of the river Po. They agreed that, under the title of Triumviri, they should possess themselves of absolute anthority ; and they made a partition on the spot of all the provinces, and divided between them the command of the legions.
The Eastern provinces were as yet possessed by Bratus and the other conspirators, against whom it was determined that Antony and Octavius should immediately mareh with a large army. Before entering, however, upon this expedition, it was resolved to clenr the way hy a proseription of all that were obnoxious to nny one of the Triumviri ; a dreadful resolution, since the firmest friends of any one of the three had necessarily been the enemies of the others. What souls must these men have possessed, who could advise or consent to so horrible a scheme! Ir-pidus agreed to sacrifice his brother Paulus:

AMHITION.

Gumedian Torranius and Comar: Octavion his 198. araivional. Ifint., Brok 4, chicero.A great surgeon is fremonibility of, nuere loveor his art frequantly tempent "rymons. atrictly necessery nurgeonasked hermere. . . 1 moth helli this hin perform him one day if he weoleraterd liaris Would rivememorigian opreation. "Nethane The Frenchomare phosume," whimed Nothing Rald: "llawan mased a monerent br. Mott. mationt in the hospien I think of it, that then No mater, my hospital who has thet there is mo nanyhedy clase. What is of now use to poor devil Ill operate hapatif if yon'll comace to himself or sald that Dr. Moifully m him." It nemorrow, tration of a crite derflined to withese need not be of Bron, is crime so utrorions. - Cycioperpo-

19A A B is

diuring his residen, Literary. Niltou mombition was rencre in Italy thutom. It was his youth he had mern, From in curly hiterary showerd to his to which her corrind to Ituly Latin siruck with worned friemels there. They and Empland should wor that a man fromey were the Latin langumare attalued suchem mastortant tomished that gure, mad they were monserry of perc, It was therton shonlia be so excrellent asof his Jothers, that hemrty graise, he salys in ant a of drevoting hats first sugeresteni to hings in one thater it was his life to lifecuture the iden that ' boy has, he tells us, that he be Then and haps, produces and intent study" hegnn to think would not let it dis thing no written that powt perwas the object to wice A grome christinn pontrelty to do for Enghand what he uspired. He droem Greece, Virgil fose what homer had He desired Camocas for por Rome, Dante had done for he saw those rollagal. It was in for Italy, und temptation of religions dramas, representine that puences, which Alam and Eve arresenting the the iden of his r"Papposed to mave its conseof Brod., p. 168 . aradise Lost."- Cuven him

195. AMBITION, Lofty.  lane. The concuren, Lofty,

Was the first conguest and momarely or or Tamer. To live in the memect of the ambition of the world was the seeond wemory and cstecmon of Timour. -Gunon's Rome, eh his magnanimous fure nges

196. AMBITIONT 65.

Nero. On the acca, Maternal.
Was restored to hecssion of Chaudinu Wer of Emp. more undertook the rank and fortune agrippina Ife was, as we see fromnagement of har onee of exquisite we see from his early of her child. an object of beauty. Ifis healy busts, a child this time forspecial pride to hivury made him desire to clevarird it seems to have berr. From In vain didevate the boy to the rave been her one tion inin did the astrologers warn link of Enperor. the future she her murder. To such that his elevaimperet?" "Lhe had but one reply - "Occidats of [He did slay het him slay me, so he -" Occidat dum ch. 2. slay her.] Fanhan's Edut reign!"
197. AMBITION mortifled despair of rivalling Lord Byron, as well II in I mind theres is ing ohnere with whom it is worth doultt wh Ollis. in lxit), he worth con. contenu arther I shall write more" wrote: "I puetry: cither whith the laell more the I could be ine, witht the torments of ifs purpacise of followed, daring where than a hamalred years Engllash was to which ther chlef object of the kreat empire an thathath, hy force of arman arest of the on the confinent of arms, a Honry V. was tosses of Edwarl iit. The a brovince of thake Frauer for and of whimh in of Enghand. The for at the,

 Was mow retorted by land regurded the indanders of the Conelnemd by the ishandery cue ishanders, Northumberhand. Every yeoman from jeople: born for victory valued himself as one kent to With morore oury and domintome and one of a raco tors had tremble natlon befori whin looked down of gharrel 'Ther lost night of the orfor thene our an-Enghand. - Ma mere uppenduge to the erowno
189. Ambiciotiven Hist, of Encerown of If the AMBITION, Paruiateat eina., ch. I. years, this pur of a ploriens reitu of femagne. at cong, thes prince, who, has more rifn of forty flve tended the dencrved the sumamepects than as Dinube, su limits of his cmpmere of Great, exconture, sabelued Dacha, Duppire heyond the all the bur and rembervil tributiry, and Istria; Weser: marous antions as far asy to his erown. part of Itade himself master of the Vistula or pire of the sund aharmed the fer the of greatest Was that witharens. The lomarars of the em. hefore be with the saxons. It of his wars und wart reduced to subibection thirty years hate war ou people. The motive of ferocions a peoplo on the part of Churle of this obstiavarlee who possessed nothinemagne, ngainst maness we "1 congueror, was andiuring to the ing prosel hath supprese that the arrloe for mone; whose geat for had its weight with for makwas a remark the propagation of a a prinee, zenl, however we fenture in his eharistinnity the boundser, which carried him faracter-a signed to it which humanity onm far beyond the alternat. Charlemague ought to have as. the Weser. - Trive being baptizerl or saxons but 200. a After this ination proolaimed. Sor ch. 3.
himself, "By the gration [as dake] Robert Guiscard. Duke of Apuline grace of God Robert styled Sieily:" and it Calabria, and and St. Peter, to deserve and was the labor of twerafter of -Gmbon's and realize these lofty twenty years 201. A Rome, ch. 56. lofty appellations. TION restrain rare and The life of Theodoric Theodoric the $O_{8}$. Who sheatheritorious examplic represents the and the vigor of sword in the pride barbarian, thirty years wis his age. 4 reipho of victory eivil government conseerated to the throe and he was sometint, and the hostilitie duties of minated byetimes involved were in which discipline of the conduet of his lie speedily terapinc of his troops, the arms of his ailies worth coun wrote: "I I oould te paradime of gatory vex ithelently to symonon'凶 ental $P_{r m}$ dreyl years deet of the of игми,

The
II. and of or a time, dhin with onquerors islanders, the jesople 4 Kent to of a ract keve down his aness. 10 our nice crown trown of : ch. 1.
fmagne.
rty-llve that as ceat, ex.
Istrin: crown, dulh or reatest
y whrs pelons olostio the one ;
nee,
nity
ond
as but di d
d llomes, ch. is:
802. AMBITION, sleeplens. M, Momit $/ I$. FForing the brilues of bis rinemiex, ber went for his prime viaider ut miluigh1, who emme with murh ularm to learo Mahomet's mixiely to posHexp ('omstantimoplo. | "Laln" (or preceptor), con-the night, In my ugttation, I have pulled on oute alde or theother ; I laverisen from my lowd agnin linve I hind down; yet slecp has not vished theses weary ayes. Deware of llog gold and silver of the ikomans. . . with the ald of (Gend mat the prayers of the prophet, we shall speredlly her. come mastors of Comstanthople:"-Chmios's

20:8. AMBITION, Spurred. Cifueval ishayler.
 polit himself to supererde Selanyler fa command at Allany and Tieonderogn.I Itis monsy and ambitions wife let her vole be hand: "If yon give up one kota, and condescend to he adjutintgrueral. I may forgive it, bitt never will forget it." [IIe wis unfle for cither position, but pained his pmint.]-Bisicuoris [E. S., vol. 0 , elt. 19.
20.4. AMBITION, Subordinated. INirer ('rommell. Mucnuluy... suys: "The ambition of Oliver was of no vulgar kind. Ite never serms to have coveted despotie power. Ite, at tirst, fought sincerely and manafully for the Parlinment, and never deserted it till it had deserted its daty. But even when thus placed hy violencent the hend of affars, he did not nssume unimited power. He gnve the comery $n$ eonstitution far more perfect than any which hat, at that thes, been known to the world. For himself, he demmaded bided the thrst place in the Commonwenth, bit with powers searedy so grent as those of a Dateh stadiliolder or nin Anericm president. He gave to Purimment a voice in the appointment of ministers, mud lelit it to the whole legislativo nuthority, not even reserving to himself a veto on its ennctments: and he did not reguire that the chief magistracy should le hereditary in his fumily. Thus fur, if the circumstances of the time and the opportunities which he had for ngerandizing himself be fairly considered, he will not dose by comparison with Washington and Bolivar. "-l'ood's Chomwell, ch. 1.
205. AMBITION, Unhappy. Timonr the Tintar. [The muptials of his six grandsons were celebrated for two months.] The historian of Timour may remark, that, after devoting fifty years to the athinment of empire, the only happy period of his life were the two months in which he censed to exerrise his power. But he was soon nwakened to the enres of govermment and war. - Ghabos's Rome, ch. 85.
206. AMBITION unsatisfied. Roman Emperor Severus. The ascent to greatness, however steep and dangerous, may eutertain an aetive spirit with the consciousness und exercise of its own powers ; but the possession of a throne conld never yet afford a lasting satisfaction to an ambitious mind. This melaneholy truth was felt and acknowledged by Severus. Fortune and merit had, from an humble station, elevated him to the first plaee among mankind. "lie had heen ull things," ne he salil himelf, " med all was of lithe value," bisatrated wifla thas of fanus, mind satherd whit piwer, ull his pros.

 mathug the greuntiess of lide finuily was the only rematulage wish of his mabithon and putermal 207. AMBITION, Unmorupuloun. Netple't A. like so many other publite mell who speni thelr whaters fin Washlagton, lee lived too freely mind drank too mach. If he was a skllinl poll.

 and sipporited measimes for gary remsons whidela he onght to limve opposad for hamme nud patriotle obas. Te said himself' that P'resldent Polk commilted the gigmale crlme of "predibitatlar the comatry lato the Mextemen war to avoid the ruln of the Demorrable prote" mud knowher this, he supperted ham la it. Gils rapla ami mil. form sucress as a politichan inflamed his mmbithon, und he made pash aftur pmah for the Iresideney, and thmily promitted his party to be divided ruther thim powtpone his hopers. Ito Was in too minch of a hurry to be President. -

208. AMBITION, War of. "Sirret Ierrs' Hitr." [Frederick the (ireat professed tricmiship mad support to the young ruler of Anstrin.] "Het the King of Prussin, the " Anti-Muchavel," had alrendy fully determined to commit the grent erime of volating his plighted fath. of robling the ally whom he was bonad to deliond, and of planging all Europe lito 11 long, bloody, and desolating war, und all this for no end whintever except thint he might extrod his dominions nud see his mane in the gazettes. We determined to assemblen great army with spered and sererecy to Invade Sileria lafore Matin Theresan should lag npprised of his design, und tondd that rich province to his kingrdon! $\qquad$ To duote his own words: "Anhbition, interest, the desire of nuklag people talk ahoot me, mirrich the day, and I derided for war."-Macaviar's Fuedemu'k the Ghent, p. 2 Z .
209. AMERICA for Americans. "Monroe Inetrine." The British and Frourh ministers proposed to the Amerian Goverument to enter into a Tripurtite Treaty-so malled-in which moh of the contracting mations was to dischim then and forever all intention of possessing Cubn. To this proposal Mr. [Alex. II.] Everett replied in one of the most masterly state papers on record. Great Britain and France were informed . . . that the Federal Government did not recognize in any Europenn power the right to meddle with nffinirs purely American, and that, in necordance with the docetrine set forth by lresident Momroe, any such interference would be resented as an affront to the sover. eignty of the Luited States,-Rididatio's U. S., cll. 5
210. AMERICA, Future of. Lafayptte. Ile received the order of the king [of France] to give up his expedition [in aid of the Americans] . . he braved the order and . . embarked for America. . .. To his young wife. he wrote on board the Vietory, at sea; "From love to me become a good American; lie welfare of Amerter is eloaely bound up with, the welfare of ull manklud; it is alomit to beo come the mafe nsylum of virtuce therature. erpmally, mol pencophl liberty."-IIsnemort's U. H., vol. D, ch. III.
911. AMERICA, Mision of, , $H / / h$ Alloms.
 settlemonit of Amerien with reverence and womder, as lloe oproblag of agrand meete abled deskg In I'rovideace for the Ilfunhatlon of the ignosrant mad the cumandiullon of tle mavish purt
 U, S., vol. $\quad$, cli. 11.
212. AMERIOA, Prophecy of. Ni(brmont (1) Grorge III. [ln A.J. ITis lie prodleted if :he colonles gained independence :| They might comguer both your ishunds and ours. . . In process of thmo nilvane to tho sonthern contlane of Amerlera, and elther sululae thedr libabitanis, or enrry thems along whll them, und in the cmil mot leaver $n$ font of that hemispla re in the possonsalon of un buroperan powar. . . heing remote they ure not the lesssate.-IJ.incuontia U. N., vol. 8 , ch. 51.
218. AMERIOA, Tranoformation In, " fountrin of Fouth." ()n tho diseovery of the new hemilsphere, the truditlon was whidely spread throughout the old, that it concealsa fountaln whose ever. Howing waters have power to remaimatonge und restore its prime. Ihe thaltion wis trug; int the youth fo lie renewed wis the youth of soclaty; the llfe to blomin nfresh was the llfe of the race. - Banemorr's S. S., vol. 5, ch. 13.
21.1. AMERICAvs despised. Ir. Stemurl, Johnaon. Ho land recently milished it pumphlet, entitled "'Tuxation nu 'I'yrumay; "un Answer to the Resolitions and Ailelress of the Amerlean Congrasa,". . As early as 1700. . De land sadd of them, "Str, they ure a race of convlets, and ought to be thankful for naything we nilow them short of hanghag."-Bosiwehi's JoninSON, J. 237.

91\%. AMERICANS hated. I $r$. N $\quad 1 m m \cdot l$, Johnson. He salil: "I nm willing to love ull mankind, except an American;" nud his inthmmable corruption bursting into loortid fire, he " breathed out threatenings and slaughter," calling them, " lasenls, robbers, pirates;" "ud excladming, hed "burn mad destroy tli:"," Miss Sewird, looking to him with intti is .t stendy astonimbment, sadid: "Sir, this is :1" 11 stance that we are always most volent ng anst those whom we have injured." lle was irritated still more by this delicente nid keen repronch. Boswelfi's Jonnmon, p. 380.
216. AMUSEMENT, Captivated by. Lomin Plilippe. [The 1)nke of Orlenns truvelled in the United Sintes incog. $]$ At a tuvern the dake remons nted with the landlady for not nttending to their wants. She replied that there was a slow in the village, the first show ever scen in that comtry, and she was not going to stay at home herself, nor require any one else to stny, to whit on anybody ; not she, indeed l-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 509.
217. AMUSEMCENT, Disappointed in. Monks. In England $\cdot$. the Gray Friars of Francis [arrived] in 1224. They had hardly landed at Dover before they made straight for London and Oxford. In their ignorance of the road the first two gray brothers lont thelr way la the wouls leet ween Oxford and lidilon, ame, fonafinl of night and of theo tleseds, tiormel instio ton grange of thos monks of Ablugdom. 'I'loltr raged clothes and forelgn gonturas, as thig prayad for liospilalliy, lod tho pertor ta take lluetu for jouglemers, tho jesters and fogghers of the days, mill the mews of this brak In the momoteny of thelr lives bromght prior, surerist, nat erelhier to the dower to welcome them mad whoces their trick.s. 'The disuppointmont tho lirothers waro kicked roughly firom the gale (1) !lan! thele nifht's lexlgings imaler a trec.-

21母. AMUSEMENTS, Brutal, Drontlaromide. Diaring thes tlrat luif of the ciphterenth rontury, "ll ranks цathered to sere" a trinl ol skIll lectwer"! two masters of the motle welenere of dafonco." I'loe thghts of the ring lave lowen brutaliaing other with broadswords, till one was disaliled ly severo womeds on tho forchumdinal the lege, wasit brutality that was at lis lefght in the Nugustan

910. AMUSEMENTS of Combat. Roman The atce: lominey dodlented a mew thatre, nud dellghted the mol, with ganes and races. Flvo himelred lions were consimmed in live duys of combat. As a spedal novilty, ilghteen eleflants wero made to thelit with soldlers ; and, us a yot more extraordinary planomenom, the sangilmary Romani spectators showed signs of compunction at. their sulferings. The poor homsis were quict nud harmiess. When wommled with the haners they thrned nwity, threw up thelr trunk.3, nad trotted round the cirens, crying, as if in protest, ngainat wanton crnelty. "The story went that they wore half" human; that they had been seduced on bonrd the Africun tranaports by a promise that they shonld not be Ill-used, and they were supposed to be appeniling to the goals. -Frovde's Ceisait, ch. 15.
220. AMUSEMENTS, Degraded by, Romans. The drmmm, even in Hornce's days, had degenerated into a vehtele for the exhibition of seenie splendor or ingenions maehinery. Dlagity, wit, pathos, were no longer expeeted on the stage, for the dramatist was eclipsed by tho swordsman or the rope-dancer. The netors who absorbed the greatest part of popular favor ware pantomimists, whose insolent prosperity was genernlly in direet proportion to the infamy of their character. Ami while the shmmelessness of the theatre corrupted the purity of all chasses from the earliest uge, the hemrts of the montitude were mado lard ns tho nether millstone with lirutal insensibility, by the fury of the cirens, the atrocities of the amplitheatre, and the eruel orgries of the grames. Augustus, in the document annexed to his will, mentioned that ho had exhibited cight thousand gladiators and three thousand five homdred and ten wild beasts. -Faman's Eamey Days, eli. 1.
291. AMUSEMENTS, Delight in. Circus. The most lively and splendid nmusement of the idlo multitude depended on the frequent exhibition ot public games and spectacles. The plety of Christian princes had suppressed the Inhuman combats of gladiators ; lut the Roman people still considered the circus as their bome, their temple, and the sent of the republic. The Einpatent crowd rusbed it the dinwn of day to securo their phases, and there were many who phesed aslecpless and maxions night in the ndfarcut prorthos. From the morning to the eventage curclese of the sum, or of the rain, the ngerentors, who sometimes amomented to the bumDer of four humdreid homsani, remalned in rager nttemition; their eves tixed on the horses thid charloterers, thele minds ugitated with hope and feur. for the sureress of ther colurs whideh they esporasel: mad the happhess of Rome appurerid to hang on the event of a race.- Ghanosin Rosus: ch. 31.
22s. AMUBEMENTS Interdicted. $B!/$ Irnifreme. Publie umbesements, tron the minselues which were exhihited at the manslons of the great down to the wrestling matehes and grlaning matehes on village greens, were vhgoronsly utthe ked. One ordmanere direreted that all the May golen la England shombd torthwith he hewn down. Another proseribed add thentrical diversions. The play homses were to be dismmtled, the spee thtors thend, the netors whipped at the cart's thil. Ropedanclag, puppetsows, bowls, horserne ing, were regnerded with no frendly eye. But bear-miting, then a favorite: dlversion of high and bow, was the alvomination which most stlrred the wrath of the nustere seeturles. . . not becmuse it gave pain to the bear, hot hecanse it gave plensire to the spectators. Indeed, he generally contrived to cinjoy the double plensure of tormenting both lhe speretators and the bear.-Mncauiay's IIser. of Ena., ch. 11.
228. AMUBEMENTS, Sanguinary, Irmon (ir. ous. By the order of' [timemperor] Prolns, it great dimntity of large trees, torn up hy the roots, were transphanted into the midst of the clrcus. The spucious nul shady forest wns inmedintely filled with a thonsmind ostriches, n thonsand stags, a thousanil fatlow decr, und a thousand wild boars: mad all this vartety of game was abmaloned to the riotons impetuosity of the multitude. The trugedy of the succert. fing day consisted in the massucre of a humdred lions, in equal number of lionesses, two hundred leopurds, and three hundred benrs. The collection prepured by the younger Gordinn for his trimmph, and which his successor exhibiterd in the secular games, was less remarkuble by the number than by the singularity of the animals. Twenty zeliras displayed their elegant forms and variegated benuty to the cyes of the Roman people. Ten clks, and us many comelopards, the loftiest nud most linrmless creatures that wander over the plains of Sarmatia and Ethiopin, were contrusted with thirty African hyems nom ten Indinn tigers, the most implacible savages of the torrid zone. The unoffending strength with which Nuture has endowed the greater ghadrupeds was admired in the rhinoceros, the hippopotamus of the Nile, and a majestic troop of thirty-two elephants. . . and properties of so many different species, transported from every part of the anclent world into the amphitheatre of Rome. But this accidental beneft, which science might derive from folly, is surely insufficient to justify such a wanton abuse of the public riches. Glbbon's Rome, ch. 12.

 mothes, to play ut fisethati, "ven to sere an inter. luble, wewe mot neromated machristhan werapathons. Renmed the old munor-honser the lats med laseses of the vilhge would have thelre Simday ceventig games of burley lrowk will hand. bult, while the suluite, and even the parson, vol. at, ch. 16, 1). 251.

 before llormer was bern, obtationd his free dom. "Eiverybuly has a tling it me." her
 Arst). "brecillise I 1 mm in frechinmis som." |1. owed his mane to the fact that his father's master belongerit to the lloratan tribe.-('ve'so. rema of Bunt. p. Riti.
R2B, ANCESTRY ineffective, lrimer li"jut. In was lorro at Prague, in 1010; his father hail clatmed to ho, and hatigot himself and his finir inth, so that the prince was horn with all the: assumptions of royalty aromad him. Mat his gromalogise says, " lle began to be: Blastrions many yours bulore his birth, nud we must look back into hastory, nlove two thonsand sars, to diseover the Ifret rays of his ghory. S"o may consider," conthames the wrfter, "him very grent, being deserended from the two most illuw. trions mad mocient homses of Emope, that of England and Palatine of the Rhlace." And then the writer goes on to truce up, his muesstry to Atilla, Charlemagne, and so down through a succession of Ruperts, Lanis, Fredericks. The fures after the lirth of Rupert are an aifecting sintire ugm nll thls. [lle was hendstrong mad imprudem.]-ILood's Chosweha, ch. $\mathfrak{G}$.
227. ANCESTRY, Unlike. Orleans Princts. These Orlems priners beenme, in the conse of four or tive generntions, immensely rich-the richest family in France, if not in Europe. One Duke of Oriems gave away in chari'y every yenr a quarter of $n$ million fruncs; tw' others were the senadal of Christendom for extravagance nadd dehnuchery, mad still their estates incrensed. It happanci, curbously enourh, that n virtuons Duke of Orlenns usinally had a vary dissolute som, nad a dissolute duke a virtuous son, so that what one sequandered the next heir made up by eronomy. Philippe, brother of Lonis XlV., was tolermbly steady; his som. Philippe, Regent of France, was one of the most shameless roués, gluttons, and wine-hibbers that ever lived; his som, Lonis, wasn downright devoter nud higot; his son, Loulis Plilippre, was not what we should call a mornl man, bat he was very mornl for the France of that day: excecedingly claritable, und a most liberal patron of art nad literature; his son, Louis Philippe Joseph, was that notorious debauchere and pretended democrat who flgured in the first years of the French Revohntion as "Egalité." -Cyclopenta of Bioo., p. 504.
228. ANGEL, Delivoring. Joutn of Arc. When it was day, the Mndd rode in solemn procession through the city, clad in complete armor, and mounted on a white horse. Dunois was by her side, and all the bravest knights of her army and of the garrison followed in her trata. The whole popalation thronged around hur ; and men, women, and chiblen strove to touch her garmems, or har hanacr, or har charger. They pourell forth hassings of here, whom they atranty ronsidered harir deliverere. In the words used ly two of then afterward before the tribumal whide reversed the sintenere. but rould not restore the lite of the virgin martyr of Frames, "the people of Orloms, when they first suw har in their city, thonght that it was an angel from heaven that haw mane down ta save them." Jomen spoke gently in repiy to their actamations and addreseses. She tolid them th, fear Gool, and trust in Uim for safely from the fary of thair memies.-Deande Batrles, S 381 .
228. ANGER, Bymptom of. Tiazeleon $I$. [At St. Helema Sir Indson Lowe, the governor, was very offensive to him. After an interview Sinpoleon said:] "We had a violent seconc. I have been thrown quite oit of temper. My anger must have beron powerfully excitad, for I felt a vibration in the calf of my left leg. This is always a sure sign with me, and l have not felt it for a long time before:"-Ansort's Napoleon $13 .$, vol. ${ }^{2}$, ch. 31.
230. ANOUIBH prolonged. Girribraldi. Once in South America . . . being taken prisomer, he was remelly beaten with a ilub, then hung ly his hauds to a bum for two hours, during whieh he suffered the anguisl: of a lumdred deaths; and when cut down. lell heipless to the earth.-Cye. of Bum.. p. 49.).
231. ANIMALs, Allegorical. Johtn Dryden. He composed, with unwonted care and labor, his celebrated poem on the points in dispute between the charches of Rome and England. The Church of Rome he represented under the similitude of a milk-white hime, ever in peril of death, yet, fated not to dic. The bensts of the field were bent on her dest:uetion. The quaking hare, inderd, observed a timorous nentraity; but the socinian fox, the Presbyterian wolf, the Independent bear, the Analaptist boar, glared fiercely at the spotless crature. Yet she eould venture to drink with them at the common water-ing-place under the protertion of her friend, the kingly lion. The Churrh of England was typified by the panther, spotted indeed, but beanti-ful-toobeautiful for a bast of prey. The hind and the panther, equally hated by the ferocious popuation of the forest. confirred apact on their common danger. They then prorverled to discuss the points on which they differed, and, while wagging their tails and lic-king thair jaws, hold a long dialogne touching the real presence. the authority of popes and comeila, the penal laws, the Test Act, Oates's perjuries, Butler's unrerpuited services to the Cavalier party, Stiliingtleet's pamphets, and Burnet's broad shoulders and fortumate matrimonial speculations.Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7.
232. AMIMALS attracted, Nir Wialter Scott. [A grand company of guests were mounted for un expedition $\quad "$ The order of mareh had been all settied, and the sociable was just getting under weigh, when the Iady Anne broke from the line, screaming with luugliter, and exclaimed, ‘Papa ! papa! I know you could never think of going without your pet.' Scott looked round, and I rather think there was a blush as woll as a smilo upon his face, when he perceived a little blark pig frisking aluont his pony, and evidently a splf-rerted addition to the party of the day. He tried to look stren, and cracked his whip at the crature, but was in a moment obliged to join in the, gemeral chaers. Poor pigey, . Was dragered iato the background.

This pig lad lakim, nobody could tell bow, a most semtimental atarloment to Scott, and was constantly maing its pretension to be aldmitted a rugalar member of his tail, along with tha greyhomads and brriars; lout, indeed, I remumber him suthering another summer under the sames sort of pretinacity on the part of an affertiomate hern. I leave ile explamation for

2:38. animals condemned. $l^{\prime} t$. When Cesar happerned to see some strangers at Rome carrying young dogs and monkeys in their arms, anit fondly carrssing them, he asked, "Whether the women in their comitry never bore ay children?" thas reproving with a proper soyerity those who havisha umon hrutes that natural tenderness which is due only to mankind. Photshent.
234. Animals honored. Giers. Geese were ever after had in homor at Rome, and a tlock of them ulways kept at the expense of the public. A golden image of a goose was erected in memory of them, and a goose every year [was] carried in trimmph mpon a soft litter, tincly adomed.Lavmionse's Noten.
235. $\qquad$ Dratr. In the battle with Porus, Bucephalas rereived several wounds, of which he died some time after. . . Alexander slowed as murl ragret as if he ham lost a faithful friend and companion. He extecmed him, indeed, us surh, and built a city near the Hydaspes, in the phare where he was buriod, which he called, ufter him, Bucephalia. He is also reported to have lmilt a city and called it Peritas, in memory of a doge of that name, which he hat bronght up and was very fond of.-PLutancis.
236. ANIMAL: Respect for. Buddhists. Animal life is held sacred, and a Buddhist temple looks like a barnyarl, a village pound, and a chureh combined. Cows, pirrots, monkeys, dogs, weggars, children, priests, sight-seers, dev-otees-all mingle amd blend on it footing of friendliness, the animals furing no harn, the men meaning none. A Budilhist priest will not kill an animal. . Before he sits on the ground he will carefully brush it, lest he might unwittingly erush an ant or a worm.-Gen. Grant's Travels, p. 35:3.
237. Superstition. [The folly of the crusaders was frecucatiy illustrated.] Some counts and gentlemen, at the head of three thousand horse, attended the motions of the multitude to partake in the spoil; but their genuine iedders. . . were a goose and a goat, who were carried in the front, and to whom these worthy Christians aseribed an infusion of the divine spirit.-Gubson's lRome, vol. 5, eh. 58, p. 5.3.
238. ANIMALS, Service of. Shepherd'e Dog. Without the shepherd's dog the mountainous land in Fngland would not be worth sixpence. [TF' dog brings the sheep from heights untroddc - 1 y the foot of mm]. -Knigirts Eng., vol. 7, c. 2, p. 32.
239. ANIMOSITY, Fratornal. C'eracalla ithe Gete. Their aversion, confirmed by yenrs, and fomented by the arts of their interested favorltes, broke out in childisha and gradually in more serious competitions; and, nt length, divided the theatre, the circus, and the court into two factions, actunted by the hopes and fears of their respective lenders. The prident emperor [Severus] cudenvored, hy every expedient of ndvice and authority, to allay this growing animosity. The unhappy diseorl of his sons clouded all his prospects, and threatenced to overturn a ilirone raised with so much habor, eemented with so much blood, and grurded with every defence of arms and trensure. With an impurtial hand he mantained between them an exact bulance of liavor, cenferred on both the rank of Augustus, with the revered name of Antoninus; and for the first time the Rommn world beheld three amperors. Yet even this equal conduct served only to inflame the contest, while the fieree Curacalla asserted the right of primogeniture, mad the milder Getn courted the affections of the people und the soldiers. In the unguish of u disuppointed father, Severus foretold that the weaker of his sons would fall a sacrifice to the stronger ; who, in his turn, would be ruined by his own vices. [See more at No. 1096. It was $\mathfrak{n}$ true prophecy. Ile was ussussinated.]-Gishon's Rome, ch. 6.
240. ANIMOSITY of Ignorance. Reign of Charles II. It was very seldom that the country gentleman caught glimpses of the grent world, and what he saw of it tended rather to confuse than to enlighten his understanding. IIis opinions respecting religion, government, forelgn countries, and former times, having been derived, not from study, from observation, or from conversation with enlightened companions, but from such traditions as were current in his own small circle, were the opinions of a child. He irahered to them, however, with the obstinucy which is generally found in ignorant men accustomed to be fed with flattery. Ilis animosities were numerons and bitter. He hated Frenchmen and Italians, Scotchmen and Irishmen, papists and Presbyterians, Independents and Baptists, Quakers and Jews. Toward London and londoners he felt an aversion which more than once produced important political effects.-Macaulay's Eng., el. 3.
241. ANIMOSITY, Unreasonable. Anti-Catholic. [At the funeral of Godfrey, $\Omega$ Protestant magistrate in 1678, there was great excitement, as the Catholies were supposed to have murdered him to suppress further inquiry concerning the Popish plot against the life of the king.] The crowd was prodigious, and so heated that anything called Popish, were it called cat or dog, had probably gone to pieces in a moment.Knigitr's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 20, p. 334.
242. ANHOUNCEMENT, Appalling. Richard III. But if he hated the queer's kindred Hastings was as loyal as the Woodvilles themselves to the children of Edward IV.; and the next step of the two dukes was to remove this obstacle. Little more than a month had passed after the overthrow of the Woodvilles when Richard suddenly entered the coun-cil-chamber and charged Hastings with sorcery and attempts upon his life. As he dashed his hand upou the tuble the room tilled with soldiery. "I will not dine," suid the duke, turning to the ministar, " till they lave bronght me your hend." Hastings was hurried to excention in the conrtyard of the Tower, his fellow-comsellors thrown into prison, and the last check on Richard's ambition was removed.-Hist. of Enci. Prorlat, S 490.

24B. ANTIPATHY of Race. Irdinnt. Thouga not persecuted as a Rommn (atholic, he was oppressed as an Irishmm. Jo his comntry, the same line of demmenation which separated religions separated ruces; and he was of the congnered, the subjuguted, the degraded race. On the sume soil dwelt two populations, locully intermixed, monally and politically sumdered. The difference of religion was by no means the only diffirence, and was, perhaps, not even the chief difference which existed between them. They spring from different stocks. They spoke different languages. They hud different national characters as strongly opposed as any two national characters in Europe. They were in widely different stages of civilization. There could, therefore, be little sympathy between them ; and centuries of calamities and wrongs had generated a strong untipathy.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 6.
244. ANTIQUItx, Pride in. Athenians. This respectable people was not free from the common vanity of nations, of attributing to itself a measure of antiquity far beyond all bounds of probability. The Xthenimns . . . seemed to chaim for their own nation an nntiquity coeval with the formation of the earth ; which was just as allowable as the boast of the Areadians, that they were . . . older than the moon.-TyTLen's Hist., Book 1, ch. 6.
245. ANXIETY, Consuming. Marlborough. [Duke of Marlborongh, after the glorious results of the campaign of $1 \mathbf{1} 04$, was eager for its renewal the next year; but receiving in cold suppert and obstinate counsels from lis allies, he was unable to do anything, while the French had every opportunity to organize success. He wrote:] I have for these last ten days been so troubled by the many disuppointments I have had, that I think if it were possible to vex me so for a fortnight longer, it would make an end of me. In shurt, I am weary of my life.Knioit's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 20.
246. ANXIETY, Parental. Robert Burns's Futher. For the old man, his long struggle with seanty means, barren soil, and bad seasons, was now near its close. Consumption had set in. Early in 1734, when his last hour drew on, the father suid that there was one of his children of whose future he could not think without fear. Robert, who was in the roon, came up to his bedside and asked, " $口$ father, is it me you mean ?" The old man satd it was. Robert turned to the window, with tears streaming down his cheeks, and his hosom swelling, from the restruint he put on himself, almost to bursting. The father had early perceived the genius that was ir his boy, and even in Mount Oliphant days had said to his wife, "Whoever lives to see it, something extraordinary will come from that boy." He had lived to see and admire his son's carliest poetic efforts. But he had also noted the strong phssione, with the wenk will, which might drive.
 ch. 1.
2.17. ANXIETY of Reaponsibllity. $A b r a h c m$ Linmeln. [JIon. Schuyler (olfax.] " One morningr I fouml him tooking more than usually pale and worn, and intuired the reason. Ite replied, with the had news he had received at a late hour the previons nirht, which hal not yet been given to the press-he had not closerl his ryess nor bratakfinsted; und with an expression I shall nevor forget, he exchaimed, ' Jlow willingly would I exchange places to-day with the soldier who sleeps on the ground in the Army of the Poto-mac!'"-Raymond's I, incoln, j. $72 \%$.
248. APOLOGY, Dograding. Rrign of Itomes II. [IIe had illegally forred upon the fedlows of Magdalene College: a Romman Catholic Pres., for whom they rafused to vote, bint whon they decided to recognize: as president de facto.] While the fellows, hitterly monoyed by the public censure, were regretting the moditied submission Which they lum consented to make, they learnord that this submission was by no memns satisfactory to the king. It wis not raough, he said, that they offered to obey the Bishop of Oxford [the cundidate] as prowident in fact. They must distinetly udmit the commission, and all that had been done under it, to be legal ; they must ucknowledge that they had acted undutifully: they mast dechare themselves penitent; they must promise to belave better in future, must implore his Majesty's pardon, and lay themselves at his feet. Twe fellows, of whonn the king had no complaint to make, Charnock and smith, were excused from the obligation of making these degrading apologies. Even James never committed a grosser crror. The fellows, already angry with themselves for having conceded so nuch, and galled by the censure of the world, engerly caught at the opportunity which was now offered them of regrining the public esteem. With one voice they declared that they would never ask pardon for being in the right, or admit that the visitation of their college and the deprivation of their president had been legal.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 8.
249. APOLOGY, Humiliating, Innocent I. The French ambassudor [for Louis XIV.] latving been insulted by sone of the Pope's Corsionan guard, Innocent $X$. was compelled to offer an apology, to disband his guard, and to erect an ohelisk at Rome with an inseription recording the offence and its punishment.-STedents' France, ch. 21, § $93,1.429$.
250. APOLOGY, Ironicsl. Goths. The vicant fortifications of the river were instantly occupied by these barbarimos; their standards were planted on the walls of Sirmium and Bel grade; and the ironical tone of their apology aggravated this insult on the majesty of the empire. "So extensive, 3 Ciesar, are your dominions, so numerous are your cities, that you are continually secking for mations to whom, either in peace or war, you muy relinquish these useless possessions. The Gepide are your brave and faithful alies; and if they lave anticipated your gifts, they huve shown a just confidence in your bounty."-Gibibon's Reas, ch. 62.
251. APOSTASY, Open. Romitms. Atwer Cisled [the lemer of the Mohnmmedans] had fmposed the trans of servitude mad tribnte, the apostate or convert avowed in the assembly of the people his meritorious treason: "I renounce your socid•y," suid lkomanus, "both in this world and the world to come. And I deny IIin that was ecmeitied, and whosoever worships IIm. And I rhoose God for my Lord, Islum for my faith. Mecer for my tumple, the Moslems for my brethren, and Malomet for my prophet ; who was sent to lead us into the right way, und to watit the true religion in spite of those who join parthers with God."-Gishon's IRome, ch. 51.
2522. APOSTASY, Primitive. Persecution. In avery persecution there were rreat numbers of umworthy Christians who publicly disowned or renounced the fuitli which they had professed; and who rontirmed the sinererity of their adjuration by the learal acts of burning incense or of offuring sticritices. Some of these ajostates had yielided on the first menace or exhortation of the magistrate, while the jationee of others had been subdued by the length and repetition of tortures. The itfrighted fountenances of some betrayed thair inwaml remorse, while others advaneed with rontidence and nlacrit: to h altars of the grods. But the disgnise $v$. . 1 : .... had imposed sulasisted no longer than the present danger. $A s$ soon as the severity of tho persecution was abated, the doors of the churches were assailed by the returning multitude of penitents, who detested their idolatrous submission, and who solicited with equal ardor, but with various suceess, their readmission into the socicty of Christians.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 16.
253. APOSTATES forgiven, Primitive Church. The gates of reconciliation and of heaven were seldom shut against the raturning penitent; but a severe and solemn form of discipline was instituted, which, while it served to expiate his crime: might powerfully deter the spectators from the imitation of his example. Humbled by a pulalic conlession, emaciated by fasting, and clothed in snckeloth, the penitent lay prostrate at the door of the assembly, imploring with tears the pardon of his offences, and soliciting the prayers of the faithful. If the fanlt was of a very heinous nature, whole years of penance were esteemed an inadequate satisfaction to the divine justice; and it was always by slow and painful gradations that the sinner, the beretic, or the apostate was readmittell into the bosom of the church.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 15.
254. APPARITION, False, "Three Finights." [The Crusnders were besieged hy the Turks in Antioch. By a ruse the "Holy Lance" had just heen diseovered.] The influence of his relic or trophy was felt by the servants, and perhaps by the enemies, of Chist ; and its potent energy was heightened by an accident, a stratagem, or a runor, of a miraculous complexion. Three knights, in whi e garments and resplendent arms, cither issued, or seemed to issue, from the hills; the voice of Adhemar, the Pope's legate, proclained them as the martyrs St. George, St. Theodore, and St. Mrarice ; the tumult of battle allowed no time for Coubt or scrutiny ; and the welcome apparition das aled the eyes or the imagination of a famatic army.-Gimion's Rome, ch. 58.
255. APPARITION, Fanded. Theseus. [The Athenians honored] Theseus as a domi-god, induced to it as well by other reass , as becmuse, when they were fighting the Medes at Murathon, a considerable part of the army thought they saw the apparition of Theseus completely armed and bearing down before them upon the barba-rians.- Pautareis's Lives.
256. APPARITIONS, Belief In. Simuml Johnson. Of apparitions, he observed: "A total disbelief of them is adverse to the opinion of the existence of the soul between death and the last day; the question simply is, whether departed spirits ever have the power of making themselves perceptible to us; a man who thinks he has seen an apparition can only be convinced himself; his uuthority will not convince another; and lis conviction, if rational, must be founded on leing told something which cannot be known but by supermatural menns." IIe mentioned a thing as not unf requent, of which I had never heard before-being called-that is, hearing one's name pronounced by the voice of a known person at a great distunce, far beyond the possibility of being reacbed by any sound uttered by human organs. "An acquaintance, on whose veracity I can depend, told me, that walking home one evening to Kilmarnock, he heard himself called from a wood by the voice of a brother who had gone to Amerien; and the next packet brought accounts of that brother's death." Macbean asserted that this inexplicable calling was a thing very well known. Dr. Johnson said, that one dey at Oxford, as he was turning the key of his chamber, he heard his mother distinctly call-Sim. She was then at Lichfield; but nothing ensued.-Boswend's Johnson, p. 459.
257. APPEAL, The only. At Augsburg. The cardinal threatened with bnn and interdict, and dismissed Luther, saying, "Go, and do not show your face again to me, unless it be to recant." Thus was Luther sent away by the cardinal, who is suid to have added this remark: "I will not confer with this beast agnin, for it has deep eyes and wonderful speculations in its head.". . The latter remained silent, even after Luther had written again in a humble spirit asking forgiveness for his exhibited violence, promising to remain silent if his opponents would do the same, and professing himself as willing to recant, provided he were better instructed. But although he made all these concessions, he received no answer. And after he had drawn up another declaration, appealing from "the badly iniormed Pope to the better-to-be-instructed Pope," he sent it to Cajetan, and nailed a copy of it to the door of the cathedral. He then left the city on the 20th of October.-Rein's Lutieri, ch. 5.
258. APPEARANCES, Deceptive. Deformity. [Plilopœmen, called the last of the Grecks, was mistaken by] his hostess at Megara, owing to his easiness of hehavior and the simplicity of his garb. She having word brought that the general of the Achreans was coming to her house, was in great care and hurry to provide his supper, her hushand happening to be out of the way. In the mean time Philopomen came, and, as his habit was ordinary, she took him for one of his own servants, or for a larbinger, and desired him to assist her in the business of tho kitchen. Ite presently threw off his clonk, and legan to cleave some wood; when the master of the house returning, and seeing him so employed, said, "What is the meaning of this, Philopo:men ?" Ite replied in broad Doric, "I am paylng the fine of my deformity."-Plutarien.
259. $\qquad$ Miser. A man of the name of Guyot lived and died in the town of Marseilles, in France. He amassed a large fortume by laborious industry and severe habits of abstinence and privation. His neighbors considered him a miser, and thought that he was hoarding up money from mean and avaricious motives. The populace pursued him, whenever he appeared, with hootings and execrations, and the boys sometimes threw stones at him. IIe at length died, and in his will were found the following words: "Having observed from my infancy that the poor of Marseilles are ill supplied with water, which onn only be purchased at a great price, I have cheerfully labored the whole of my life to procure for them this great blessing ; and I direct that the whole of my property shall he laid out in building an aqueduct for their use."
260. APPEARANCES displeasing. Olicer Cromwell. Ilis gait was clownish, his dress ill-made and slovenly, his manners coarse and abrupt, and face such as men look on with a vague feeling of admiration and dislike! The features cut, as it were, out of a plece of gnarled and knotty oak; the nose large and red; the cheeks coarse, warted, wrinkled, and sallow ; the eyebrows huge and shaggy, but, glistening from beneath them, eyes full of depth and meaning, and, when turned to the gaze, pierced thiough and through the gazer ; above these, again, a noble forehead, whence, on either side, an open flow of hnir "round from his parted forelock manly hangs," elustering ; and over all, and pervading all, that undefinable aspect of greatness, alluded to by the poet Dryden when he spoke of the face of Cromwell as one that
..." did imprint an awe,
And naturally all souls to his did bow, As wands of divination downward draw, And point to beds where sovereign gold doth grow."

$$
\text { -II ., s Cromwell, eh. } 4 .
$$

261. APPEARANCES, False، Samuel Johnson. Dr. Adams told me that Johnson, while he was at Pembroke College, "was careless and loved by all about him ; was a gay and frolicsome fellow, and passed there the happiest part of his life."'. . The truth is, that he was then distressed by poverty and irritated by disease. When it mentioned to him this account, as given me by Dr. Adams, he said: "Ah, sir, I was mad and violent. It was bitterness which they mistook for frolic. I was miserably poor, and I thought to fight my way by my literature and my wit ; so 1 disregarded all power and nall authority."-Boswell's Joinsson, p. 14.
262. APPEARANCES, Misjudged. Olicer Cromwell. "' It was in November, 1640," says a royalist spectator [Sir Philip Warwick], "that I ... beheld on entering the house a person speaking. I knew him not ; he was dressed in the most ordinary munner, in a plain cloth suit which appeared to have been cut hy some vilage tallor. IIis linen, too, was conisse and sollod. I recolle t also observing a speck or two of blood upon his little hand, which was not much harger than his collhr. Ifis hat was without a hathand; his stature was of a groxd size; his sword stuck flose to his sitle; his comntemance swollen and reddish; his voice sharp and untunable ; and his elogumence full of fervor, for the subject-matter would not bear much of renson, it being in belalf of a libeller in the hands of the exreutioner. I must avow that the attention bestowed hy the assembly on the discourse of this gehtleman has much diminished my respect for the Honse of Commons."Lamartine's Cromwela, j. is.
263. APPEARANCES, Suspiclous. "Lcin." Cessar had some suspicion of Cassius, and he even said one day to his friends, "What thini, you of Cassius? I tho not like his pale looks." A nother time, when Antony and I Dolabella were aceused of some designs aguinst his person und government, he suid, "I have no npprehensions from those fat and sleek men : I rather fear the pale and lean ones"- meaning Cassius and Brutus.-Plutarch.
264. APPEARANCES, Unpromising. Bixhnp George. [Philip Cox, one of the early Methodist itinerants, found a young man, named George, and brought him to Bishop Asbury,] and said, "I have brought you a hoy, and if you have anything for him to do you may set him at work." Asbury looked at the youth for some time, and stroking the young man's hair said: "Why, he is a benrdless boy, and can do nothing." The next day Asbury appointed him to a circuit [and the boy became an eminent Bishop in his denomination].-Stevens' M. E. Church, vol. 2, p. 71.
265. APPETITE, Fastidious. Antony. Philotas . . being acquainted with one of Antony's cooks, he was invited to see the preparations for supper. When he came into the kitchen, beside an innlnite variety of other provisions, he observed eight wild boars roasting whole, and expressed lis surprise at the number of the company for whom this enormous provision must have been made. The cook laughed, and said that the company did not exceed twelve, but that, as every dish was to be roasted to a single turn, and as Antony was uncertain as to the time when he would sup, particularly if an extraordinary bottle or an extraordinary vein of conversation was going round, it was necessary to have a succession of suppers.-Pletarcir.
266. APPETITE, Perils of. Cuto the Censor. When the Romans were clamoring, at a time of scarcity, for a distribution of corn at the public expense, he began a speech in opposition to it thus: "It is hard, fellow-citizens, to address the stomach, because it has no ears." Rebuking the Romans for their luxury, he said: "It is difficult to save a city from ruin where a fish brings a higher price than an ox." Pointing to a man who had squandered an estute near the sea, he pretended to admire him, saying: "What the sea could not swallow without great difficulty, this man has gulped down with perfect ease."-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 421.
267. APPETITE, Protest of. Frasmus suid, "All the wortd is agreed umong us in commendIng his" [Luther's] "' moral charucter. Ife hath given us goosl adivice on certain points: and God grant hat his success may be equal to the liberty which he hath taken. Lather hath committed two mpardonable crimes: he hath toucherl the Pope upon the erown, and the monks ujon the belly."-Rens's Lutinen, ch. 26.
268. APPETITE, Ruled by. Epirure. When an rpicure desired to be selmitted into Cato's friendship, he aid, " lle condd not live with a man whose pabate had quicker semsations than his heart."-P1,ctabun.
269. APPETITES, Indalgence of. Flemish Gentry. Cuder thene forms of ehivalry, awkwardly imitated from romanese, the history of Funders at this period is nevertheless one liery, joyous, brutal, bucelanalian revel. Under color of tournays, fents of arms, and fensts of the Round Table, ihere is one wild whirl of light and common gallantries, low intrigues, and interminable junketings. The true device of the epoeh is that presumptuonsly taken by the sire de Ternunt at the lists of Arras: "Que juie de mes désirs assonvissance, et jatmeis d"autre bien," "Let my desires be satistied, I wish no other good."Michelet's Joan of Abc, p. 27.
270. APPLAUSE, Anclent. Germans. It was the practice to signify by a hollow murmur their dislike of such timid counsels. But whenever a more popular orator proposed to vindicate the meanest citizen from either foreign or domestic injury, whenever he ralled upon his fellow-countrymen to assert the national honor, or to pursue some enterprise full of danger and glory, a loud clashing of shiclds and spears express the eager applause of the assembly. For the Germuns always met in arms, and it was constantly to be dreaded, lest an irregular multitude, inflamed with faction and strong liquors, should use those arms to enforce, as well as to declare, their furious resolves. Gibron's Rome, ch. 9.
271. APPLAUSE, Consequence of, Samuel Johnson. ": The applause of a single human being is of great consequence.' This he said to me with great earnestness of manncr, very near the time of his deccase, on occasion of having desired me to read a letter addressed to him from some person in the North of England. $\qquad$ as I thought heing particular upon it might fatigue him, it being of great length, I only told him in gencral that it was highly in his praise; and then he exprossed himself as above."-Boswell's Joinson, p. 439.
272. APPLAUSE, Indifferenoe to. Napoleon $I$. [Returning in $n$ coach from his successful wars with Italy and Austria.] Illuminations, processions, bonfires, the ringing of bells, the explosions of artillery, the huzzas of the people necompanied him ull the way. . . . He but slightly regurded the apphnuse of the populace. "It must be delightful," said Bourrienne, "to be greeted with such demonstrations of enthusiastic admiration." "Bah 1" Napoleon replied, "this same unthinking crowd, under a slight change of circumstances, would follow me just as eagerly to the scaffold." - Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 9.
273. APPLICATION neglected. Magnetic Nie. dle. The property of the murnitic meedle, in turning constantly to the Northern Pole, was known in Europe as curly as the thirtenth century ; but it was not till above a century ufter that uny one attemped to apply it to the purposes of navigution. That most ancient mation, the Chinese, are, indeal, said to lave known the property of the magnet for a thousand yeurs hefore us; yet it is believed that till our seventeenth century, when European cxample had renched them, they liad never thought of using it in suiling. The English, in the reign of Edward III., are satid to lave first employed the compass in their ships, hot the world owed to the Portugnese the first great experiments of the value of this invention in the mivancement of navigation. -TyTLELi's IILST., Book 6, ch. 18.
274. APPOINTMENT, Embarrassment by. Minister Adams. There was excitement in the great world of London on the 1st of June, 1785 ; for on that day a minister representing the United States wis to be presented, for the first time, to a king of Enghund. And who shonld that minister be but John Adams, the man who hind taken the lead ln urging on the revolted colonies to dechare themselves an independent nation 1. . In a few minutes the Secretary of State came to conduct him to the king. The royal closet whs merely nn ordinary parlor. The king was seated in an arm-chair at the end opposite the door-a portly gentleman, with a red face, white eyebrows, and white hair, wearing upon his breast the star indicative of lis rank. Upon entering the room, Mr. Adams bowed low to the king; then, advancing to the middle of the room, he bowed a second time; and, upon reaching the immerliate presence of the king, he made a third deep reverence. This was the prescribed custom of the Court at that day. The only persons present at the interview were the king, Mr. Adums, and the Secretary of State, all of whom were visibly emburrassed. It was, indeed, a scene without a parallel in the whole history of diplomacy. Mr. Adams was the least moved of them all, though he afterward confessed that he was much agitated, and spoke with a voice that was sometimes tremulous.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 181.
275. APPOINTMENT, Humiliating. Casar. For the moment they [the opposing Senators] appeared to have thought thit with Bibulus's help they might defy Cæesar and reduce his office to a nullity. Immediately on the elections of the consuls, it was usual to determine the provinces to which they were to be appointed when their consulate should expire. The regulation lay with the Senate, and, either in mere spleen or to prevent Cæsar from having the command of an army, they allotted him the department of the "Woods and Forests." A very tew weeks had to pass before they discovered that they had to do with a man who was not to be turned aside so slightingly.-Froude's Cesar, ch. 12.
276. APPOINTMENT, Partisan. Polk's Administration. The Administration had obviously endeavored from the first to crente a Democratic hero out of the [Mexican] war. Authorized to appoint a large number of officers in the increased military force raised directly by the United States, an unjust discrimination was made in favor of Democràts. . . . Not one Whig was included [among the ten major and brigatier generals. The lieroes of the war were Generals 'laylar and scott, both of whont were Whigs]. - Mbaine's 'Twenty Yeales of Conalless, p. 75.

277. APPRECIATION, Defective. Iouin NVI. The Assembly sent in deputation to the king to request him to dismiss the tromps ; this louis declined, but offered, if the members felt nlarmed, to transfer their sittings to Soissons, and to proreed himself to Compligne. When the Duke de Liancourt enme to announce to him the fall of the Bastile, the king exelnimed, "This is a revolt!" "sire," replied the duke, " it is a IRevolution."Students' Fliance, ch. 26, s. 2, p 531.
278. APPRECLATION, Without. ('rin. The various trunsuctions of pence and war had introduced some Roman colus (chielly silver) among the borderers of the Rhine and Danube; but the more distant tribes were absolutely unacfluminted with the use of money, carried on their confined tralle liy the exehange of commodities, and prized their rude carthen vessels as of cqual vilue witli the silver vases, the presents of liome to their princes and umbassudors. To a mind capuble of reflection, such leading facts convey more instruction than a tedious detail of subordinate circumstances.-Gibbon, vol. 1, p. 260.
279. ARBITRATION rejected, Napoleon $I$. [When the bitter and terrible war opened letween France and England, A.d. 1803,] Alexander of Russia entered a remonstrance against again kindling the horrid flames of war throughout Europe, and offered his mediation. Napoleon promptly replied: "I an ready to refer the question to the arbitration of the Emperor Alexander, and will pledge myself by a bond to submit to the award, whatever it may be." England declined the pacific offer.-Abвotits Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 26.
280. ARCHITECT, A great English. Christopher Wren. Wren was the first Englishman who for centuries could put in a claim that could not be gainsaid to the title of architect, as, later, Hogarth was the first to prove that an Englishman might become a great painter. [St. Paul's was thirty-five years in construction, by Wren, who was paid £200 a year.] It occupies the very first rank of architectural works of modern times. [See more at No. 289.]Kniait's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 29, p. 4 厄̃1.
281. ARCHITECTURE, Beanty in. Ionic. As the beautiful is more congeninl to some tastes than the sublime, the lightness and elegance of the Ionic order will, perhaps, find more admirers than the chastened severity of the Doric. The latter has been compared to the robust and muscular proportions of a man. while the former has been likened to the finer, more slender, and delicate proportions of a woman. Yet the character of this order is likewise simplicity, which is as essential a requisite to true beauty as it is to grandeur and sublimity. But the simplicity of beauty is not inconsistent with that degree of ornament which would derogate from the simplicity of the sublime.
Of this order were . . the temple of Apollo at Miletus, that of the Delphic oracle, and the superb temple of Diana at Ephesus, classed among the wonders of the word.-TyThein's Hist., Book 2, cli. 7.
289. ARCHITECTURE, Composite. Norelty. The Composite order, likewhe of lailina extrac:tion, was unknown in the are of the perfeetion of Greek arehitecture. Vitrushis makes mo mention of it. It seems to have been the production of some conceited artist, who wanted to strike out something new in that way, or to evince his superiority to the nucient masters: but it serves only to show that the Greeks had exhnusted all the principles of united grandeur and beanty in the three orders before meationed, and to prove that it is mot possible to frame a new order muless ly combining and slightly varying theold, - TYricen's IIss'., Book 2 , eh. $\dot{7}$.
253. ARCHITECTURE, Defective. L'yyption. It mast be allowed that those momiments which remain to usof the works of art among the Egyptians, though venerable on account of their miticuity, and sometimes exhibiting on grand and sublime appearance from their immensity, are extremely defective in hematy and elegance. Ilow intinitely inferior, in point of taste, are the pyr cmids, the obelisks, the sphins and colossal statues, the pillurs of Lavor, to the simplest remains of the ancient temples in Grece I In arehitecture, one of the most obvious inventions, and one of the grentest improvements, both in point of utility and benuty, the construction of an arch, was quite unknown to the Egyptians. This defect gives an nwkward and heavy appearance to their buildings, and must have occasioned a vast expense of lalor, which might otherwise have been spared. -Tytuer's Mist., Book 1, eh. 4.
234. ARCHITECTURE, Excellence of. Greeks. The Greeks are universally acknowledged as the parents of architecture, or at least of that peeuliar style of whieh nll after ages have confessed the superior excellence. The Grecimn architecture consisted of three different munners, or what artists lave termed the three distinct orders: the Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian. The Doric was probably the first regular order among the Greeks. It has a masculine grandeur, and ia superior air of strength to both the others. It is, therefore, the best adapted to works where magnitude and sublimity are the principal objects. Some of the most ancient temples of Greece were of this order, particularly that of Theseusat Athens, built . . . four hundred and eighty-one years before the Christian cra.Tytlen's IIIst., Book 2, ch. 7.
285. ARCHITECTURE, Gilded, Romun Cippitol. The profusion of Catulus, the first who gilt the [bronze] roof of the Capitol, was not universally approved; but it was far excecded by the emperor's, and the external gilding of the temple cost Domitian 12,000 talents ( $£ 2,400,000$ ). -Gibhon's Rone, ch. 36.
286. ARCHITECTURE improved. Roman. It is natural to suppose that the grentest number, as well as the most considerable of the Roman edifices, were raised by the emperors, who possessed so unbounded a command both of men and money. Augustus was accustomed to boast that he had found his capital of brick, and that he had left it of marble,-Gibion's Rome, ch. 2.
285. AROEITECTURE, Instration by, Ruins. Travellers to whom Livy and Snllust were unintelligible might gain from tho Roman aqueducts und trmples some faint notion of Roman history. The dome of $\Lambda$ grippa, still glittering with bronze - the mansoleum of Adrian, not vet deprived of its columns and satues-the Flavian amphitheatre, not yet degraded into a puarry, told to the Mercian and Forthmmbina pilgrimssome part of the story of that grent civilized world which had pussed away. The ishmalers returned, with awe deeply im? reverel on their hatf-opened minds, and told the wombering inhabitants of the hovels of London and loork that, near the grave of Saint Peter, a mighty race, now extinct, had piled up huildings which would never be dissolved till the judgment diy.-Macavlay's Ena., ch. 1.

2we. ARCHITECTURE, Magnificent. Timple

 of Ifrernis. The migniticence of the temple of If reales at 'lyre is celehnated by Herodoths, who saw it, and who was particularly struck with two cohumns, one of molten gold and the other of emerald, which in the nighttime shone with great splendor. The hatter was probably of rolored glass. . .. M. Coquet conjectures, with some plausibility, that the column was lollow, and was lighted by a hamp pht within it. - Ty'tlen's Hist., Book 1, eh. 6 .289. ARCHITECTURE, Opportunity in, Iondon Fire. It is not very emsy to explain why the nation which was so far before its neighbors in seidence should in art have been far behind them all ; yet such was the fact. It is true that in architecture-an art which is half a seience; an art in which none but a geometrician can excel; an art which las no standard of grace but what is directly or indirectly dependent on utility; an art of which the ereations derive a part, at least, of their majesty from mere bulk -our country could hoast of one truly great man, Christopher Wren; and the fire which laid London in ruins had given him an opportunity, unprecedented in moxlern history, of displaying his powers. The mustere beanty of the Athenian portico, the gloomy sublimity of the Gothic areade, he was, like almost all his contemporaries, incapable of cmulating, and, perhaps, incapable of appreciating; but no man, born on our side of the Alps, has imitated with so much suceess the magnifieence of the palace-like churehes of Italy. Even the superb Louis has left to posterity no work whieh can bear a comparison -i.ith st. Paul's.-Macaulay's Evg.. ch. 3.
290. ARCHITECTURE, Preservation of. Gothic. The Gothic kings, so injuriously aceused of the ruin of antiquity, were anxious to preserve the monuments of the nation whom they had subducd. The royal ediets were framed to prevent the abuses, the neglect, or the depredations of the citizens themselves; and a professed architect, the annual sum of two hundred pounds of gold, twenty-five thousand tiles, and the receipt of customs from the Lucrine port, were assigned for the ordinary repairs of the walls and public edifices.-Gilbon's Rome, ch. 39.
291. ARCHITECTURE, Prophecy in. Coliseum. Reduced to its maked majesty, the Flavian amphitheatre was contemplated with awe and mlminntion by the pilgimes of the North; ind thelr rude unthusinsm hroke forth in $n$ sublime proverhial expression, which is recorded in the elghth century, in the frugments of the Vinarable Bede: "As long us the Colismom stames, Rome shall stand; when the Collsemm fulls. lRome will fall; when liome falls, the world will full." - (inums's lRoste, ch. 61.
292. ARCHITECTURE, Religion in. Jiverw. Islamism sprang up from the soil, like all religions newly nerepterl, with its peculiar architectwre ; the modes of arehitereture are the dinghters of religions. It wond seem that every other ithen hat that of God is insithleriont to move thosi musses of stone wherely men indite the name of their (God upon the soil. The ludians, the Egyptians, the Greoks, the Rommas, the Goths, the Byzantines, eroated all of them arehitectures necoriding with the genins of their satered creeds. Some of them, pantheism whirlandores the whole and prays in opera air ; others, the seceret doctrines which bury traths benenth the pyramids to hide them from the prople ; others still, the fianciful theogonies that maltiply gols by all the extravagunces of the imagrantion, and crate Olympuses peopled with stathes in their Parthemons; a fourth creed solects caverns of rocks and subtermoneons vimits in citics, to alore the arisen from the tomb; in fifth, the cupohis simple form, tlooded with daylight, to turn the idols pale and comment the word of the inspired of Nlhal. The traces of these different divine ideas, effaced by ench other, olten superimposed upon one another, is nowhere on emrth to be better read thinn in the provinces of the Ottommene pire. From the pyramid of Egypt to the ruins of Ephesus or of Athens-f rom the ruins of the Parthenon along to the catarombs of Jerusalemfrom the massi ve domes of Saint Sophia of Constantinople to the mospues of Broussa and of Adrianople, we reai in their edifices the genins of the different religions that have disputed with each other the dominion of the earth.Lamaitine's Tulekey, p. ist
293. ARCHITECTURE, Roman. T'uscon. 'The Tuscan order is of Italiun origin. . . . The Etruscon architecture appears to he nearly allied to the Grecian, but to possess an inferior degree of elegance. The more ancient buildings of Rome were probably of this sperie of architecture, though the proper Greck orders came afterwards to be in more genernl estimation. A respect, however, for antiguity prevented the Romans from ever entirely abmiloning the Tuscan mode. The Trajan pilhar is of this order of architecture. This magniticent column has braved the injuries of time, ant is entire at the present diny. Its excellenec consists less in the form and proportions of the pillar than in the beautiful sculpture which decorntes it. Of this tine seulpture, which represents the victories of Trijan over the Dacians, a very ulequate idea may be formed from the engravings of the "Columna Trajuna" hy Bartoli.-TyTlen's IIstr., Book 2, eh. 7.
294. ARCHITECTURE, Simplicity in, Doric. One observation may here be made which is applicable to all the works of taste. The character of sublimity is chaste and simple. In the arts dependent on design, if the urtist aim at this character, he mast disrerard nll trivial deesorntions, nor mast the eye be distmated by a multipllaty of parts. In architereture there must be few divlsions of the principal members of the building, and the parts must be large and of momple relicf; there must he a modesty of decorntion, contembing all minuteness of ormament, which dist racts the eye, that ourht to be flled with the genemb mass and with the proporthons of the erreater jarts to each other. In this resperet the Dorice is confowedly superior to all the other orders of urehitecinire, us it mates strengtl aml majosty with a beroming simplicity. mid the utmost symmetry of propertions. - 'Yutivis llist., Book ᄅ, ch. \%.
295. ARCHITECTURE, Stupendous. ('hinive Hille. Among the most remarkable of the works of arehiterture in China is the great wall built to protert the empire against the inroats of the Tartars. It extemds five handred leagues, and is fortytive feot in hright mol rightern in thickness-it most singular momament both of lmman industry and of haman folly. The Tartars against whom it whs momat as a defance, foumd (hina 'rually acressible as belfore its formation. They were not at pains to atanck and make a breare in this rumpart, which, from the impossibility of defembing suc! a siretch of fortithention, timat have been excoedingly rasy; they had only to trivel a little to the east ward, to abont furty dererees of latitude, where Chim was totally elefenceless. Tration's IIist., Book 5 , ch. $\underset{\sim}{4} 4$.
296. ARCHITECTURE, Sublime. Gothir. The effect produced by the Gothic architecture is not to be accounted for on the same principle of conformity to the rules of symmetry or harmony, in the proportions observed between the several parts; lut depends on a certain idea of vastness, gloominess, and solemnity, which we know to be powerful ingredients in the sublime.

The Cathedral of Milan is one of the noblest structures in the world. . . . Its column is of a magnitude that nobly fills the eye ; the sualden clevation of the arelh has something bold and aspiring; and while we contemphate the grent and striking members of the buiding, the minuteness of ormment on its parts is but trunsiently remmrked, or noticed only us a superticial acorortion, which aletructs nothing from the grand effect of the whole mass.-Trither's Ilis'r., Book 2, (h. 7.
297. ARDOR, A Soldier's. Butlle of' Crecy. The Engrish lowmenand men-at-arms held their gromed stontly, while the Welshmen stabbed the French horses in the mêlée and brought knight after knight to the ground. Soon the Frenel host was wavering in in futal confusion. "You are my vassals, my friends," cried the blind John of Bohemia to the German nobles around him: "I pray and besecch yout to lead me so far into the fight that I may strike one good blow with this sword of mine!" Linking their bridles together, the little company plunged into the thick of the combat to finll as their fellows were falling. The battle went steadily against the French. At last Plilip himself hurried from the ficld, and the defoat became a ront. Twelve hundred kniglits and thirty thousand footmena number equal to the whole English force-lay dead upon the ground.-His'r. of Eng. Peorlf, § 329 .
298. ARGUMENT, Ponslble. Ntcrliug. Nir, there is mothing for whirh yon may mot tumstor up more phansibie urgumants than thome whic. $l_{1}$ are urged against waililimd othor extermal mivantuges. Why, now, there is stembling: why chould it be thought in crime ? When we comsider ly whint unjust mothode proporty has beren often uequired, mind that what was migustly got It must be unjust to koep, where in the lurim in one mun's taking the preporty of another from him thesides, sir, when we conslder the Ind uso that many prople make of their propesty. and how much lretter use the thiof may make of It, it may le: defended us a very ullowibli practice. Virt, sir, the experience of mankind lints discovered stoaling to be so very had $n$ thing, that thry make no soruple to hang atan for it. - Bonivkila's Joinnon, j). $1 \geqslant 2$.

20D. ARGUMENT, The reserve. D) St Sminel Tohnam. [Wornted in debnte, ] he hat recourse to the rlevice which Goldsmith imputed to him In the witty words of ome of Cibler's comedies: "There is no arguing with Johnson ; for when his pistol mosses tlre, he knorks youl down with the butt end of it. "- Boambilis's , bonsmon, p. 167.
300. ARGUMENT, Useless. Irign of Jumes II. [.fames commanded the clergy to reud his proclamation, which aimed at ther overtirow of the Protestant faith.] The London clerigy, then universally neknowledged to be the flower of their profession, ledd a meeting. Fifteen doctors of divinity were present. .. The general feeling of the assembly secmed to be that it was, on the whole, advisuble to obey the order in conneil. The dispute legan to win warm, and might save prodaced fatal consequences, if it had not leen brought to a close by the firmess and wisdom of Doctor Edward Fowler, viear of St. Giles's, Cripplegnte, one of a small but remurknble chass of divines who inited that love of civil liberty which belongred to the school of Culvin with the theology of the school of Ar minius. Stunding up, Fowler spoke thas: "I must be plain. The question is so simple that argument can throw no new light on it, and cm only heget lient. Jet every min suy Yes or No. But I cannot consent to be bound by the vote of the mujority. I shall be sorry to canse a breach of unity. But this clecharation I cammot in conseience rend." Tillotson, Patrick, Sherlock, and Stillingtieet declared that they were of the sume mind. The majority yielded to the anthority of a minority so respectable. A resolution by which all present pledged themselves to one another not to read the declaration was then drawn up. Patrick was the first to set his hand to it; Fowler was the second. The paper was sent roind the city, and was speedily subseribed by eighty-flve incimbents. - Macauiay's Eng., ch. 8 .
301. ARISTOCRACY in Battle, Romun. The buttle of Pharsalia . . A tequired a special place in history, because it was a battle fought by the Romnn aristocrucy in their own persons in defence of their own supremacy. Senators and the sons of senators, the heirs of the names and fortunes of the ancient Roman families, the leaders of socicty in Rommen saloons, and the chiefs of the political party of the optimntes in the Curia and Forum, were here present on the deld; ropreseratatives in person and in principle of the tralitions of Nylla hromght fuce to face with the representative of Marias. . . . Itere were the linughty Patribinu (Aumel, who luad driwn their swomles on him in the semute-lionse, young lorids whose thoory of lifo was to loninge through it in patrichan insomeiancre. Jhe other grest uctions wore fought by the jgmohle multiturde whose domethe ware of less signithemere. The platas of labsatha were wateral by the prectoms hlond of the clect of the aurth. The latile: there matked an rewh like no other fin the histary of the wordd. . . Pompey had fortyseven thonsand Rommen infantry, inot inclading his allies, and seven thonsand cavalry. ('tesur' hut but twenty-two thousumd, ind of horse only "thousambl. [Ho wom the victory.] - Fimode's ('ABAR, ch. de.
302. ARISTOCRACY, Expense of. Roman. AII these provincial gencrals ware therefore duhers ; but no more than ten nmong them were dignitiod witl the rank of conuts or companions, atitle of homor, or rather of favor, which had benn reeently invented in the comrt of Constantine. A gold belt was the ensign whirla distingrished the oflce of the conntsind dukes; and besides their pay, they recelved a liberal allowince, sudheient to maintain one hundred und ninety servants, and one hundred und tlifycight horses.-Ginmon's Rome, ch. 17.
303. ARISTOCRACY, Reaction for. Puritaus. The Purit'u masterity drove to the kingr's fuction nll who made plensure their business, who af-, fected galluntry, splendor of dress, or taste in' the lighter urts. With these went hll who live by annasing the lelsure of others, from the puinter and comic poet down to the rope-dancer und the Merry Andrew; for these artists well knew that they might thrive under a superb and luxurious despotism, but must starvo under the rigrid rule of the precisians. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1.
304. ARISTOCRACY, Ruin of. Greeks. The narrow policy of preserving, withont any foreign mixture, the pure blood of the ancient citizens, hal checked the fortune and himstened the ruin of Athens and Spurta. The aspiring genius of Rome sucrifleed vanity to ambition, and deemed it more prudent, is well as honorable, to adopt virtue and merit for her own wheresoever they were found, among sheses or strangers, enemies or barbarians. During the most tlourishing er of the Athenian conmonwealth, the mumber of citizens gradually decreased from about thirty to twenty-one thousand. If, on the contrary, we stndy the growth of the Roman republic, we nuy discover that, notwithstanding the incessant demands of wars and colonies, the citizens, who, in the first census of Servius Tnllius, amonnted to no more than eighty-three thousind, were multiplied, before the commencement of the social war, to the number of four hundred and sixty-three thousand men, uble to bear nrms in the service of their country. -Gimbos's Rome, ch. 2.
305. ARMY; Dangerous. Standing. By a dangerous exception to the ancient maxims, he [Augistus] was authorized to preserve his military command, supported by a numerous body of guards, even in time of peace, and in the heart of the cnpitul. Ilis command, indeed, was contherel to those citiznas who were cugared in the service ly the milliary onth; hat sulh was the propensity of the Rumans to servitulde. that the outh wis volumarlly taken by the mar. istrates, the semators, mad the cupuestrime oriter, till the homage of thatery was insernsilly comverted buto an manuil and solemin protestation of tidelly - - Gimmos's Rome, ch. 3 .
306. ARMY disguated. fimes $V$. The Ehis lish army, after an lurond upon Srothanl, being ohliged, from scareity of provisions, to ratire ugraln beyond the borders, ma obvions manantate was offered to the seots, who, hy pursuing them, might have cat them off in their retrent. James gave his orders for that pirpose, hat the disaifected baronsstermly and olstimately refinsed to advance one step) beyond the limits of the kingdon. Stung to the heart with this ulfrom, fames, in in transport of rage and indigantion, instantly disimaded his army, and returucel alsruptly to his caplan. From that moment his temper and disposition anderwent a total change: One measure more was wanting on the part of the nobility to complete thelr base revenge and to drive their sovereign to frenzy and despair. ILis ministers lad again prevailed on some of the aobles to assemble their followers, and to mtempt an inrond on the western border ; hat the elief commmad was given to one of the king's favorites, who was to them particularly obnoxions. So great was their resentment, that a general muthy instuntly took place, and a resolation was formed unparalleled in history: The Scottish army, consisting of ten thousand men, surrendered themselves prisoners to a body of five hundred of the English without attempting to strike a blow. On the news of this disgraceful event the spirit of James totally sunk under the tumult of contending passions, und, overcome with melancholy and despair, he died of it broken heart in the thirty-third yeur of his uge.-Tytlen's Mist., Book 6, eli. $1 \%$.
307. Army, A Great, Nipolion's. The numbers of the confederated army which, on the 24 th and 25th of June, passed the Niemen, the boundary of the Rassian Empire, have been variously stated. The lowest estimate phaces them at lanf a million of men. A detailed return, extant in the French war-office, gives the numbers as, 651,358 infantry, cavalry, artillery, and engineers; 187,121 horses, and 1372 pieces of ordnance. . . . Of four hundred thousamd Frenchmen who crossed the Niemen in Mny . . . not twenty thousand had returned to Vistula.Knight's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 30, p. 558.
308. ARMY, A great. Moyut. Our European battles, suys a philosophic writer, ne petty skirmishes, if compared to the numbers that have fought and fallen in the fields of Asin. Seven hundred thousand Moguls and Tartars are said to have marched under the standard of Zingis and his four sons. In the vast plains that extend to the north of the Sihon or Jixartes, they were encountered by four hundred thousand soldiers of the sultan ; and in the first battle, which was suspended by the night, one hundred and sixty thousand Carizmians were slain.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 64.
309. ARMY, A great. Tartars. [The reign of Timour the Tartar was but a] succession of campaigns which made subject to him, with men, and a million of slavers who driod up the arth on their ronte. 'The maguiterener of this nomande court refuilled the matitude of the combatants. Never did liorope se this mamer. this Ashatie parade, cither lin the migration of Atila, or those of the Aratis, or the campaigns of Doscow, where a modern compuror had so many brave men to conthgration and the frosts.

Kharism, Kaptechak, (icorgh, IItodostan, Parsin, Irak, Syrin, mul A sia Mhan, two hundred aldithonal intlions of smibjerts. lasteme of the forte thonsand suldiers of Alexamder, the army

310. ARMY, An industrious. Rommen. When [Emperor] I'robus commanded in ELyph, he executed many consideratile works for the sijlendor and benctit of that rich country. 'The mavigntion of the Nille, so lapportant to Rome itself, was improved; anil temples, buildings, porticos. and palaces were constructed by the hands of the soldlers, whon anted hy turns as architects, as engineers, und as hasbandmen. It was reported of llanibal, that, in order to preserve his troops from the dangerons temptations of idlleness, he had obliged them to form harge phatations of olive trees along the const of Africn. From e similar princlple. Prohns exercised his la gions in covering witli rich vineyurds the hills of Gand and lamonia. [Ite was afterward killod by revolting soldiers.]-Gembon's Rome, chi. 12.
sil. ARMY purtied. (romucell's. The Earl of Essex, Lord Fairfax, Waller, Hampalen, und Fulkhan, fought, ylelded, or died, some for their prince, mul others for their commery and their finth; Crom all alone never sustained indefeat. Elevated by the Parliument to the rank of genemb, he strengthened his own division by weeding and purifying it. He cared little for numbers, provided his ranks were filled witl funatics. By sanctifying thins the cmuse. cond, und motives of the war, he raised his soldiers above common hamanity, and prepared them to perform impossibilities. The historims of both sides agree in ullowing that this religions enthusitusm inspired by Cromwell in the minds of his troops transfornied a body of factionarios into anarmy of saints. Victory invariably attended his encounters with the king's forces.-Lamathtine's Chomwela, j. 31.
312. ARMY, A sectarian. Jtumes $1 I$. [Tyrconned, a Roman Catholie, was appointed commamer of the troops in lreland preparatory to the socinl and religious revolution.] The ranks were completely broken up and recomposed. Four or five hundred soldiers were turned out of a single regiment chiefly on the ground that they were below the proper stature ; yet the most unpractised eye at once perceived that they were taller and better-made men than their suecessors. whose wild and squalid appearance disgusted the beholders. Orders were given to the new officers that no man of the Protestant religion was to be suffered to enlist. The recruiting parties, instead of beating their drums for volunteers at fairs and markets, as had been the old practice, repaired to places to which the Roman Catholics were in the labit of making pilgrimages for purposes of devotion. In a few weeks the general had introduced more than two thonsand natives into the ranks, and the people . . . nffirmed that by christmas day not on min of line lish ruce would be left in the whole army.Macaulay'h lino., ch. II.
 white ther colomists were appremponive of the had fums. In Fobrumy [liti| Miles Standish was serne out with his suldiers to gather hatormatom of the manheres and disposition al the matheres. The urmy of New Enelami consisted of dix men bevilose the gemeral. TThe Iadians had berndere

31.1. ARMY, strong. Romint. The regular force of the conpiry had once manomed to six hundred mad forty flye thonsamed ment it wasmedaced, it the time of Justinian, to one humdred and thty thonsand; mod this mumber, harge as it may sem, was thing seattered over the watand lamilin Spmin and ltaly, In Afrim nad Eirypl, on the maks of the bimube the comst of the Euxine, mid the frontlers of Persia.-Gumon's ROME, ch. 42.
315. ARMY subverted, The, Jfimes If. [simm moned to chforre submission to Roman Catholle hmovations,] the king was resolved not to yied. He formed a ramp on Hommslow Itenh, and collected there, within a circomference of ubout two miles nud a half, fourtern lattulions of foot and thirty-t wo spuadrons of holse, amounting to thirteon thousumd thghing men. Twenty-six pleces of artillery, and many wains laden with arms and mominition, were drugged from the Tower through the city to Hounslow. The Londoners suw this grat force nssembled in their neighborhood will a terror which familiarity soon diminished. A visit to Hounslow beenme their favorite amusement on holidays. The eamp presented the appenrance of a vist fair. Mingled with the mosketeers nad dragons, a multitude of fine gentlemen and ladies from soho square, sharpers and painted women from Whitefriars, invalids in sechans, monks in hoods and gowns, hackeys in rich livcries, predders, orange girls, mischievous apprentices, mad raping elowns, were constantly pmssing and repassing through the long lames of tents. . . . The king, as was amply proved two yenrs hater, had greatly miscoleulated [when he was a fugitive from England]. He hal forgotton that vicinity operates in more ways than one. He had hoped that his army would overawe London; but the result of his policy was, that the feelings and opinions of London tork complete prossession of his army. - Macaulay's Eno., ch. 6.
316. ARMY, support of the. Cherelts $I I$. The only army which the law recognized was the milifin. That force had been remodelled by two acts of Parliament passed shortly after the Kestoration. Every mm who posiessed five hundred pounds a year derived from land, or six thousmal pounds of personal estate. was bount to provide, equip, and pay, at his own charge, one horseman. Every man who had tifty pounds a vear derived from land, or six humdred pounds of personal estate, was charged, in like manner, with one pikemun or musketeer. Smaller proprictors were joined together in a kind of society, for which our language does not afford a speeial name, but which an Athenimn would have called a Syntelein; und each society was required to furnish, according to its means, a horse soldier or a foot soldier, The whole mumber. . was popularly estmated nt a handired mal hirry housami men.-Macaulay's Divn.. di. :3.
B17, ARMY, Teat in the, frimes $I T$. [Thon king mondrai to oppress the lrotestmats la Ireland mul promote foman Cablabildam. I Many othiars of the urmy were arbitrarily deprived of thaid commissions mad of thelr hrend. It was to in) purpose that the hord-lientenant pleaded the ranse of some whom he knew to be goorl soldiers and loval subjerets. Among them ware ohd Cavaliore, who had foughat brucely lor momarchy, uad who bore the marks of homomble wounds. The ir phaces wre supplled hy men who had no recommendation but their religion. Ot the new (ap,tains mul licutemants, it was satid, some hand leen rowheris, somo foothern, some noted maranders; mome had leren so used to weme brogues that they stumbled and shailled nbout strongely in their militury jack-hoots. Not n frw of the oflecers who were diveraridel took refuge in tho Duteh service, and enjoyed four years later the phensure of driving their sucerssors before thems in Ignominious ront through the waters of the Boync.- Dacavtay's Ena., cli. 6.
318. ARREST, Undeserved, John Bunyan. Ite was the flrst Nonconformist who lad been marked for urrest. If he tlimeloed nfter he had been singled ont by mane, the whole borly of his congregation wouid be disconmged. Go to chured he would not, or promise 10 go to rhurelt; lout he was willing to sulfer whatever ponishment the law might orler. Thus, at the time and place which had been ngri ed on, he was in the room nt samsell, with his lible in his hand, and was about to begin his address, when the constables entered and arrested him. Ife made no resistince. Ite desired only to be ullowed to say a few words, which the constables permitted.-Filoume's Bunyan, ch. $\overline{\text { on }}$.
319. ARROGANCE answored, chtitles $V$. When France was invaled hy Charles V., he inçuired of 14 prisoner, how many duy/s Paris might be distant from the fronticr. "Perhaps tiedee but they will be days of battle;" such was the galhat answer which cheeked the arrogance of that ambitious prince. - Gubnon's Rome, ch. 30.
320. arrogance, Childish. Yerres. The imputience of Xerxes could not brook the delay that would have attended the transportation of this immense body of land forees in his fleet across the Egean, which is a very dangerous mavigation, or even by the marrower sea of tha Hellespont. He ordered a bridge of bonts to be constructed between Sestos and Abydos, a distance of seven furlongs (seven eighths of a mile). This structure was no sooner completed than it was demolished by a tempest. In revenge of this insult to his power, the directors of the work were beheaded, and the outrageous clement itself was punished, by throwing into it a pair of iron fetters, nad bestowing three hundred lashes upon the water.-Tytler's Hist., Book 2, eh. 1.
321. ARROGANCE, InsultIng, Attila. [The Roman Emperor Marcian refused the tribute demanded.] He threatened to chastise the rash successor of Theodosius ; but he hesitated whether he should first direct his invincible arms against the Eastern or the Western empire.

While mankinul nwated his devivion with awful ters malated the $t w o$ emperors with the same lanughty derluraton. "Atila, my loril, mai thy lorif, commands the to provilde a patace for ch. 3 in .

;b2y. Arrogance, Lofty. Altiln. Whin Attila first gave muilemer to the thoman mondessuldors on the lmaks of the Damithe, his tem" was buatareh hamsadf was mated in a woolen rhair. His stern commtemmere, nugry gextinros, mind imputient tome nstonisha the thmmes of Maximin. . . . The barmatian arrogantly terdard, that he appreheraded only the disgrace of contending with his fugltive slaves, siare he ilespised their intpotent aforts to dofend the prowinces which Theodeskias had hatrustenl to their arms: "For what fortrose" (added Attila), "what city, In the whe extent of the kommin impire, can hope to exist, secure mid lapregimble, if it is our plensure that it shoulat lee ernsed from the earth ?"-Gibion's liome, ch. is.
:338. ARROGANCE, National. E'nglund. The conduct of Grent Brituin townril the United Ntates became as arrognat ins that of Frimee wis impudent. In November of 1agas deorge liI. issued secret instructions to Hritlsh privatevers to seize all nentrul vessels that might be foumd truding in the West lndies. The Unlted States hat no notiflention of thishigh-handed measure ; nud American commeree to the value of many millions of dollars was swept from the sem, by a process differing in nothing from highwny robbery. But for the temperate spirit of the government the comatry would lave been at once planged into war. [Redress wis demanderl, and titrenty signed.]-limentios U. i., di. 47.'
324. ARSON, Destruction by. Chosrowe. After the reduction of Gulilee mad the region beyond the Jordan, whose rosistunce npeners to have delnyed the fate of the mpital, Jerusulem itself was taken by assault. The vepulehre of Christ and the stately churches of Helena and Constantine were consumed, or at least dumsaged, by the flames; the devout offerings of three hundred years were rithol in one satribegious day; the Patrinrch Zarchuriah and the true cross were transported into Persia; and the massacre of nincty thousand Christinns is imputed to the Jews and Arals, who swelled the disorider of the Persian march.-Gimbon's Roves, ch. 46.
325. ART, Age of Fine. Givere. The arts broke out at once with prodigions lustre at Athens, under the luxurious ndministration of Pericles. In arehitecture and stoupture, Phidias nt that time dintinguished himself by such superior ability, that his works were regarded us wonders by the meients, as long as my knowledge or taste remained anong then. His brother ['aneus . . . is himself distinguished as the artist who painted the famous picture in the Poeile at Athens, representing the battle of Marathon, whieh is described by Pansanias and Pliny as so perfect a picture, that it presented striking portraits of the leaders on both sides. It was from the designs of Phidias that many of the noblest buildings of Athens were reared; and from the exam-lerture mona diffusell liself over all Greero. Philines hail muny diselphes; nul uftor his tham urose a nucersalon of cminent architerets, semidptores, and pimiters, whos malntained thowe mistir mits in high perferton for alowe a century, till after the donth of Alexmider the Grent. 'Itids. therefore may lave termed tho golden me of the arts in Greme: while in thome depnerthents the contemperary milons wore yet in ller ralest lg.

;B26. ART, Conquent 'ry. (irwitr. By the viofory over the Nervil the biphinn roufederm'y was nomost extinguinhool. Tloe Girmme Ahanluid remulaed only to be bronght to submissiom. They had been on thelr way to joln their cometrsmen; they were too late for the bithe, sut reburned mal whit thomselves ip In Namur, tho atrongest gonition in the L.ow Comertes. Ciesar, their walls. The Aifmatuel were a ruce of gimats, enil werent tirst cleflant. When they saw thas Ibomms' slege-towers in prepmention, they conlal not bedleve that men no stmall condd move such vast mulhines. When tha towers brgan to appronelh, they lont hart und sued for terms. Fhoude's Casali, ch. 14.
3287. ART corrupted. Romatn. Art wha partly cormpted by the fondmess for glare, expenaiveness, mad size, unt prity sank into mimerabla triviality, or immoril pretthomeses, such as thoses which cleconited the walls of Pompell in the flest century, and the pare nux (erfs in ine cighteenth. Greek stathes of the days of Phalias were ruthlessly deempitated, that their homds might be rephesed by the scowling or imberile fentures of $n$ Ghins or a Clandius. Nero, professing to be a comoisseur, thought that he improved the Alexander of Lysimachus liy gilding it from head to foot.-Fahbafis Eamiy Dayn, p. 5.

BSH. ART, Doformity in. Chinese. The Chinese have long practised the nrt of painting; yet, instend of $n$ literal art, it has ever been whth them a mere mechnic drudgery. Their paintings, with a aplendor of coloring, and the most minnte necuracy of pencilling, hatye neither grace, beanty, nor justacss of proportion. They have not the smallest notion of perspective. Instend of $n$ gricefulness of attitude, the thate of the Chinese pninter delights itself with the expression of distortion and deformity. Let us here remark the contrast between these Asiaties and the Grecinu artists. In the images of the gods, which it is to be presumed men would n]ways choose to picture necording to their most exilted intens of bemity and majesty, the Grecks have given a eharncter and expression noble nlmost beyond imgimation. The illols of the Chinese are deformed, hideons, and disgusting beyond measure. - Tytlen's 1lat., book 5, ch. 24.
329. ART, Destruction of. Nero. If Nero was indeed guity, then the net of a wretched buffoon, mad with the diseased sensibility of a depraved nature, has robbed the world of works of art, and memorinls, and records, priceless and irrecoverable. We can rather imagine than describe the anguish with which the Romans, bitterly conscious of their own degeneracy, contemplated the destruction of the relies of their national glory in the days when Rome was free.

What could over replace for them or thetr chill drens much monuments an tho Temple of Lana, tuilt by Aervhun Tuillis: and the Ara Miarima, whieh the Arcudhan Eivander had reared to Itercules; nud the 'fumple of Jupiter Shator, hailt in accordance with the vow of Itomulus; and the iftie humble palue of Numa; and theshrine of Vesta with the I 'rmates of tho dom ma peopio and the apoils of compuered kings * What atruc. turat magnithcence comid atoner for the lowe of momorinds which the somg of Virgil mud of Hor. nee had rendered silli more doury Thee chy might rise more regular from its andues, und whil, bromiter atreets, but tis artithelai miformity was a questionable home. Old tuen dechared lint lla of their more seorehing glare, and they multered monog themselven that many an oljoert of mational laterest had beron wantonly sacritioed to gratify the womanish freak of a miserable actor: -Fahiaith Eabliy Daye, p. 31.
330. $\qquad$ P'uritans. The Purlinment resolved that ult pietures in the roynd collection which contained representations of Jesus or of the Virglin Mother should be burned. Sculpture fured us ili us pulnting. Nymphs and Graces, the work of Ionlan chimels, were delivared over to Puritan stonemnsous to the made elecent.-Macaulay'a Ena., eli. 2.
381. -_. Ruin of Iuganimm. We luve suen how the rising clity was miorned hy the vanity and despotimm of the Imperial founeler; in the ruins of puganism, some goole nud leroes were mated from the axo of superstiIton; and the forum and hippodrome were dig. nifted with the relies of n better age. Severnl of those are described by Nicetas in a florid and affected style; und from his descriptions I shull select some interesting purticulurs: 1. . . . victorious chariotecrs. ... 2. The splinx, riverhorse and crocodile. korkling Itomulus and jremus. . . . 4. An engle holding and tearing aserpent. . . . 5 . An ass and his driver. . . . 6. An equestrinu statue. . . Bellerophon and Pegasus. . . . 7. A brass obelisk. . . 8. The Plaryginn shep)Jerd presenting to Venus the prize of benuty, the apple of diseort. . . . 9. The statue of Helen. . . 10. The manly form of Hercules. - . . 11. Statue of Juno. . . . 12. Another colossus of Pallas or Minerva.-Ginnon's Rome, ch. 81 .
332. ART dentruotive to Life. Earthquake. In the disusters ocensioned by earthourkes, the architect becomes the enemy of mankind. The Thut of a savage or the tent of an Arab may be thrown down without injurv to the inhabitant; and the Peruvians had reason to deride the folly of their Spanish conquerors, who with so much cost and labor crected their own sepulchres. The rich marbles of a patrician are dashed on his own head; a whole people is buried under the ruins of public and private edifices, and the conflagration is kindled and propagated by the innumerable fres which are necessary for the subsistence and manufactures of a great city.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 43.
333. ART, Edacated in. Romans. Whatever were their [the Etruscans] attainments in the fine arts in those remote ages, their successors, the Romans, inherited none of that knowledge from then ; for at the period of the conquent of (irvece, the lommen lud not a tincture of tasto in thone arts, till they caught the infection from the precious aposils which the sole love of plundier Chen importenl tuto Itnly. . . Even when thoo had brought the arts to the highest perfeesHon they ever attalued miong the Romans, this people never censed tom-knowletgo the high suin riority of the (irocks, of whileh we have this comvincing proof, that when the fommanathers celobrate nay expminte prestuction of art, It isever tios work of a Phidias, Pruxiteles, Lysippua, Alyaom. Zouxis, A pelles, Parrhusius, or, in the, of seme artist whondurned that apiondid periest, mind not of thowe who had worked at Rome, or who had iived nemer to their own times than the age of
 ch. 7.
BBBA. ART, Low entlmate of. Somurl ,Johname Johnsem expressed his disapprohation of ormamental architerture, wifl iss mugniticent columms sujperting a portico, or expensive pilanters sulpportheg merely their own capitals, " became it consimmes inhor disproportionate to its utility." For the mane renson las sutirized stathury. " L'ulating," suld he, "consimes labor not disproportlomite to its affect; liat a fellow will fack half a year at a biock of marble, to make something in stone that lardly resembles a mun The value of statuary is owhig to its diffleulty. You wonid not vaine the flnest head ent upon a carrot." Here ho seemed to me to the atrungely deticlent in tasto: for, surely, statuary is a muljo

333. ART, Frivolous. I'hluce of $\mathbf{C}$ 'inophe. The long series of the upmrtments mp-
ed to the seasons, nand decornted witu murblo and porphyry ; with painting, sculpture and mosaies; witi th profusion of gold, silver, and precious stones. His [Theophilus] fanciful murnilleence cmployed the skill nind patlence of such artists as the thines could afford ; but the taste of Athens would have despised their frivolous and costly labors; a golden tree, with its leaves and brunches, which sheltered in multitude of birds warbling their artifichal notes, and two lions of massy gold, und of natural size, who looked und ronred like their brethren of the forest.-Gusmon'm Rome, ch. 63, p. 351.
326. ART, Inapiration in. Italians. What trensures may we suppose yet remain in Greece und . . . Italy I To the discovery of some of those remmats of ancient art has been attributed the revival of puinting and sculpture, after their total extinction during the Middle Ages. This. at least, is certain: that, till Michacl Angelo and Raphael, feeling the beauties of the antique. began to emulate their noble manner, and introduced into their works, the one a grandeur, and the other a beauty, unknown to the age in which they lived, the manner of their predecessors had been harsh, constrained, and utterly deficient in grace.-TyTler's Hist., Book 2, ch. 7.
337. ART, Origin of. Necersity. We may presume, with some reason, that in the carly ages the priests were among the first who cultivated the sciences. The useful arts are the immediate offspring of necessity ; and in the infancy of society every individual, according as he feels his wants, is put to the necessity of exercising his talerts in some rude contrivances to supply them，＇l＇he akill tir eonmtriet inmerimments for the engiture or destruction of minimin，or for of：

 of hils ter alielter agninst the incelomenefon of the

 （li．ib．

83：W．Linghtions．It is highly pro－ buble，fow，that from this people，an from a
 thos lave，by ila matiral jorograns of kmowlenlene， recoived a grent part of their lasiruction looth in the arts and in the selences．＇I hes Figyptinns la structed and enlightemed the Greeks ；ihe（treekn proformed the same beneflefat oflle to the Ifo－ imans，who，in their turn fastrueting the mations whom they compured or colonlzed，lanve trins－ mitted the rudlments of that knowledge which the indintry and the gernins of the monlerus nre： continunlly extemding and advascing to perfec－

383D．ART，Periods In，Afluity in．After the defent of Xerxes tho Greeks，secure for some time from forelgin invalers，and In full posserssion of their liberty，nehieved with distinguished glory，may certainly be considered as at the sum． mit of their grandene as a nation．They main－ tained for n consdacrable lime their power and fudependemer，midelistingulshed themselves dur． fing that period by an univernal y of genfas unknown to other ages nud malomes．The thae arts bear a newr aillitity to ench other；nod it lus seldom been known in my nge whileh prodned or encouraged artists in one department，that there were wanting others who dinplayed similar excellence in the rest．（of this，both unelont and mondery history affords muple proof，in the ages of Pertelem，of Leo X．，nad of Lomis XIV．－ I＇צ＇Lakis IInst．，Book＇z，ch． 7.

340．ART，Poriode of，Remuen．In the period of ancient history，we haveneen that remarkabla． splendor to whith the fine arts arose fin the nge of $\mathrm{l}^{3}$ crieles．In modern thmes the uge of Ied X．is an era equally distinguished．The art of pulne－ ing lay long buried in the west，under the ruins of the Roman Empire．It deelined in the latter ages，with the miversal decay of taste and genius， and needed not an irruption of the Goths to lay it in the dust．The Ostrogothes，who suidueil Italy，that people who were barbarinns only in name，had they found it in splentor，would liave industriously cherished and preserved it，as they did every monument of ancient granileur or of beauty；but painting and seulpture were never high among the ancient IRomans；and that the tuste and genius for the imitative arts underwent a regular and natural decay，we have the strong－ est proof in examining the series of the coins of the lower empire．－＇Tytien＇a IIst．，Book 6， ch． 22.
341．ART，Pleanures of，Irefirred．A very fashionable baronet［Sir Michael Le Fleming］ in the brilliant world，who，on his attention being called to the fragrance of a May evening In tho country，observed：＂This may be very well；but，for my part，I prefer the smell of a flambears at the playhouse．＂－Boswell＇s Jours－ SON，1． 127 ．

38⿻日土 ART protected．liy（limulf．It serims

 ＂Demerijition do l＇liggyte．＂Kaln uthi frome，
 the dentroyores of all that works of urt while aro ＂xponed to thenir，arouttorly waknown in ligy fr．

 hecelfect in washlig or corroxilong their materials． is 138．ART，Protected by，Nyminner，M：red． lun．．．Mesiogmi Nrmense＇．．＇I＇lu＇gemins of to wiflistami for a great lengili af than the ut most ciforts of all chemy by nedt and latil．

The dity was twouty－two milen far compus．
Marcellias comand cighit galleys to be jolneri fos． gether laternlly by iron clains，and on thoir erocted，whose belght overtepleded the walls of the cily．This hage marhine，which Marreellins called his Nambura，or Dulcioure，Was mlowly advanciag，rowed by a grent momber of men， when Archinneden diselingred from one of his en－ ghownstome of twelve lamired and tifty jonmis weight，then a mecomd，and immmelintely after－ ward athirel，with adirection sis sure as to latter the galloys mad the tower tos pheres in in fow min－ utes．An limmense artillery of darts，stomes，laros． ing lorehes，and evary materlal of annoynuce，was incessuntly lamebed upon the beslogers from every guirter of the walls；while the muchimes from which they issued were mitogrether beyond their reach，and even ont of their sight．It was of mos avill whether they made their atinck from a distance or close to the walls．If within the shot of a bow，the congines of Archimedes assuiled the galleys with stones of surla weight as contirely to domolish them；if they nppronched the walls． they were seizel hy ernines and grappling－iroms， suspemeled in the nir，and suddenly let fall will a force that sumk them．Taking uivantage of a meridian sum，und eoncentrating the rays by $n$ combination of polished metal，this wonderful engincer hurnt the vessels of the enemy ut a fur－ long＇s elistance，thus．．．making even the tire of henven obedient to his commands．－TyTLen＇s IIINT．，Book 3，ch 9.

3A4．ART，Revival of．Itely．The the arts are sadid to lanve leen revived in Italy by artists from Greece；mad it secms hifhly probnhbe that in that country，which hal been eminently dis－ tinguished by their splembor und perfection，the taste should have been less entirely lost than in any other．The most common motion is，that， ahout the end of the thirtcenth century，Cimabue， a Florentine，olsserving the works of two Grecimn artists，who had been sent for to paint one of the churches at Florence，began to uttempt some－ thing of the same kind，and soca conceived that it would not be difficult to surpass such rude performances．His works were the adiniration of his time；ho had his scholars and his imitat－ ors ；among these were Ghiotto，Gaddi，Tasi Cavallini，and Stephano Florentino；and the number of artists continued so to increase，that an aralemy for painting was instituted at Flor－ ence in the ycar 1350. Still, however, the art whs extremely low, and the artists, with great industry, seem to have had no spurk of genius. Tytlek's Ifist., Book 6, ch. 22.
345. $\qquad$ Fifteenth Century. The suc. cessors of Cimabue and of Ghiotto seem all to have palated in one manner. Their works are distinguishacd by a hard and ricrid outline, sharp angles of tin !ambs, and stiff folds in the drapery; a contour, in short, in which there is not the smallest. grace or elegance. Such, with little variation or improvement, was the manner of painting for abovo two centuries. The best artists valued themselves on the most serupulous and servile imitution of nature, without any cupacity of distinguishing her beauties and deformities. In painting a head, it was the highest pitch of excellence that all the wrinkles of the skin shouhd bo most distinetly marked, and that the spectator should be able to count every hair on the beard. Such was the state of painting till toward the end of the fifteenth century, when all at once, as if by some supernatural influence, it attained at a single step to the summit of perfection. Notining can more clearly demonstrate that the splendor to wbich the fine arts sll at once attained, at the period of which we now speak, was owing entirely to natural genius, nnd not to accidental causes, than this circumstance, that though many remains of the finest sculpture of the anclents existed, and were known in Italy for some centuries preceding this ern, it was not till this time that they legan to serve as morels of imitation.-Tytler's IIIst., Book 6, ch. 22.
346. ART, Sohools of. Three. These three -the Florentine, the Roman, and the Venetianare the chicf of the Italian sehools of painting. The Florentine is distinguished by grandeur and sublimity, ad great excellence of design ; but a want of grace, of beauty of coloring, and skill in the chiaro-ascuro. The character of the Roman is equal excellenco of design, a grandeur, tempered with moderation and simplicity, a high degree of grace and elegance, and a superior knowledge, though not an excellence in coloring. The characteristic of the Venetian is the perfection of coloring and the utmost force of the chiaro-oscuro, with an inferiority in every other particular.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 22.
347. ART, Superiority in. Masters. Michael Angelo was so smitten with the beanties of the antique, that he occupied himself in drawing numberless sketches of a mutilated trunk of a statue of IIercules, still to be seen at Rome, and from him called the Torso of Nichacl Angelo. Raphael, whose works have entitled him to the same epithet which the Greeks lestowed on Apelles, The Dicine-Raphael confessed the excellence of the antique by borrowing from it many of his noolest airs and attitudes; and his enemies (for merit will ever have its enemies) have asserted, that of those gems and basso-relievos which he had been at pains to collect and copy, he had destroyed not a few, in order that the beauties he lad thence borrowed might pass for his own. The practice of those urtists, whose names are the first among the moderns, affords sufficient argument of the supcriority of the ancients. Their works remain the highest models of the art; and we who, in the imitation of the human flgure, have not nature, as they had, constantly before our eyes undisguised, and in her most graceful and sublimest aspects, can find no means so short and so sure to attain to excellence us by imitatlng the antique.-Tytuer's Hist., Book 2, ch. 7.
348. -- Raphacl. Ilis invention and composition are admirable, his attitules grand and sublime, his female figures in the highest degree beautiful. IIe unterstood the amitomy of the human figure as well as Michael Angelo. but he never offends by a harsh delineation of the museles. IIf skill in the chiaro-oscuro, or in the effect of light and shade. is beyond that of Michacl Angelo, and his coloring very far saperior to him. In the netion of his flgures there is nothing volent and constralned, but all is moderate, simple, and gracefully majestic. Many painters there are, excellent in different departnents, and several that, in one single department, may be found to exceed even laphael; but in that supreme excellence which consists in the union of all the various merits of the art, he stands unrivalled, and far removed from all competition. In representing female beauty, Raphael has gone beyond every other artist, and even beyond the antique itself. In his Madonaas, in his St. Cecilia, and in his Galatea, imagination cannct reach a finer conformation of features. In painting the Gulatea, he says himself, in one of his letters, that, unable to find among the most beautiful women that exce!'ence which he aimed at, he made use of a certain divine form or idea, which presented itself ta his imagination. In his portraits he seems ta have confined himself to the perfect imitation of nature, without desire to raise or embellish, but without that minute and servile accuracy which distinguishes the works in that style of some of the Flemish masters. The union of all thescexcel. lences, which has placed Raphael at the head of all the painters that ever the world produced. was attained by a youth who never reached the middle period of life. Raphael died at the age of thirty-seven. What may we suppose he would have been had he lived to the age of Titian or Leonardo da Vincl 2-Tytler's IIIst., Book 2, ch. 7.
349. ART, Treasures of. Napoleon I. [The victorious] Napolcon . . . demanded twenty of the choicest pietures of the duke [of Parna] to be sent to the Museum of Paris. To save one of these works of art-the celebrated picture of St. Jerome-the duke offered two hundred thousand dollars. Napoleon declined the money, stating to the army," The sum which he offers will soon be spent; but the possession of such a masterpiece at Paris will adorn that capital for ages, and give birth to similar exertions of genius."Abeett's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 5 .
350. ART, Value of. Cannon. This epoch was signalized by one of the most important discoveries that has ever been made-the invention of artillery. Some pieces of cannon, which, it is said, Edward had placed in the front of his army, contributed much to throw the enemy into confusion, and to give victory to the English. This invention, apparently a most destructive one, has certainly, upon the whole, proved beneficial to society. Nations are more upon a level, as less depends upon frantic excrtions of comrago ; mod, consequantly, from a considerntion of an equality of strength, the prace of kingloms is luetter preserval. 'The virtory of Cressy [A.D. 1340] wis followed by the singe and reduction of ('uluis. - T'yTheit's I'Inst., Book 6, ch. 12.
351. ARTTPANS, Capture of. Silk-mearers. Two citios of Numin, Slmeria nad Lisbon, were fumous for the numufacture . . . of silk. It was first introluced into Sicily by the Normuns: nml this emigration of tradedistigguishes the victory of LRoger from the uniform and fruitless hostilities of every are. After the suck of Corinth. Athens, und Thebes, his lieutenant emburked with a coptive $\mathrm{r}^{\text {rain of }}$ of wers und artificers of both sexes, a trophy glorious to their muster, and disermecful to the Greek emperor. The King of Sicily was not insensible of the value of the present.-Gimuon's IRone, ch. 53.
352. ARTISANS, Wages of. England. The remunerntion of workmen employed in mantfuctures has always been higher than that of the tillers of the soil. In the year 1680 n member of the House of Commons remarked that the high wages pnid in this country male it impossible for our textures to maintain a competition with the produce of the Indimn looms. An English mechanic, ire sadd, instend of slaving like unative of Bengal for a piece of copper, exneted a shilling a duy. Other evidence is extunt, which proves that a shilling a day wns the puy to which the English manufneturer then thought himself entitled, but that he was often forced to work for less.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 3.
353. ARTISANS, Ancient. W'rr. A trudition has prevailed that the IRommen lleet was reduced to ashes in the port of syracuse, by the burningglasses of Archimenles [see No. 342]; and it is asserted that a similar expedient was employed by Proclus to destroy the Gothic vessels in the harbor of Constantinople, and to protect his benefnetor Anustasius agninst the bold enterprise of Vitalian, $A$ machine was fixed on the walls of the city, consisting of a hexngon mirror of polished brass, with muny smaller nud novable polygons to receive and reflect the rays of the meridian sun; and $n$ consuming flame was durted to the distance, perhips, of two humired feet. ... Proclusapplied sulphur to the destruction of the Gothic fleet ; in a modern imagination, the name of sulphur is instantly comnected with the suspicion of gunpowder, and that suspicion is propagnted by the seeret arts of his alisciphe Anthemius.-Gubbon's Rome, ch. 40.
354. ARTS encouraged. Constientine. [Constantine the Great] diseovered that in the decline of the arts the skill as well as mumbers of his architects bore a very unequal! proportion to the greatness of his designs [in the building of Constantinople]. The magistrates of the most distant provinces were therefore directed io institute schools, to appoint professors, and, hy the hopes of rewards and privileges, to engage in the study and practice of architecture $n$ sufficient number of ingenious youths who had received a liberal education.-Gibbon's Rome, vol. 2, ch. 17, p. 95.
355. ARTS, Obsolete. By Inrentions. The endowment in 1626 of $n$ free-sciosol nt Grent Marlow, to tench twenty-four girls to knit, spin, and make bone-lnce, had become a provision, for the continume of olisolete arts, umi umprothtnble labor [early in the cighteenth century]. KNight's ENo., vol. 5, (h. 2, p. 20.
356. ARTS, Subsidized, Martin Luther. For religion.] In the yent 1504 there uppeared in Wittenbereg the tirst Germman hymm-look, consisting of eight hymms, among them the one le-grinning, "Now, rejoice, ye Christian people." In the piefnce he remurks: "I mm not of the opinion that all the arts should be suppressed by the gospel, and should perish, as severul high ecelesiastics muintain; but I would rather that oll the arts, esperially music, should be enlisted in the service of Him who has crated them nnd bestowal them upon us." And he was forced to view with depp regret the arts nand sciences endangered by those intemperate fanaties who, in their fulse zeal, would have destroyed all the external decorntion of the churches.- Rens's LuTIEER, eli. 13.
357. ASCETICISM, Exercise of. Asintieq. The opinion und practice of the monnsteries of Alount Athos will be hest represented in the words of an nbhot, who thourished in the eleventh century. "When thon art none in thy cell," suys the ascetic tencher, "shut thy door, and sent thyself in a corner; mise thy mind above all things vain nud transitory ; recline thy leurd and chin on thy breast; turn thy eyes nud thy thoughts towards the middle of thy belly, the region of the navel; and search the place of the heart, the sent of the soun. At first, all will be dark and comfortless; but if you persevere day and night, you will feel an incffinble joy ; nid no sooner las the soul discovered the place of the henrt than it is involved in $n$ mystic nmd ethereal light." This light, the production of a distempered fancy, the crenture of an empty stomach und an empty brain, was adored by the Quictists as the pure ind perfect essence of God. llimself.-Ginnon's Rome, ch. 42.
358. ASCETICISM, Escape from, John Wesley. [John Wesley before his conversion was anxiousIy seeking rest for his soul, und] proposed to, himself in solitury life in the "Forkshire dales;" "it is the decided temper of his sonl." His wise mother interposes, adaronishing him prophetically, "thint God hand better work for him to do." IIe travels some miles to consult "a serious man." "The Bible knows nothing of a solitury region," says this good man, and Wesley turns hoout his face toward that great carcer which was to make his history a part of the history of his country and of the world.Stevens' M. E. Cumben, vol. 1, p. $3:$ 359. AsCETICS, Early, Romat!. Prosperity and peace introduced the distinction of the vulfor and the Ascetic Christians. The loose and imperfect practise of religion satisfied the conscience of the multitude. The prince or magistrate, the soldier or merchant, reconciled their fervent zenl and implicit faith with the exercise of their profession, tine pursuit of their interest, and the indulgence of their passions ; but the Ascetics, who obeyed and abused the rigid precepts of the gospel, were inspired by the savage enthusinsm which represents man as a criminal and God as a tyrant. They scriously renounced the business and the pleasures of the uge ; abjured the use of wine, of flesh, und of marriage ; chastised their body, mortifled their uffections, and embruced a life of misery, as the price of etermal happiness. In the reign of Constanthe the Aseeties thed from a prolia' and degenerate world to perpetime solithe or religious society.-Gmaron's Rame, ch. $3 i$.
360. ASSASSINATION attempted. $L$ Inuis $1 / h i$ lipes. In 1833 ) Louis Philippe and his three anns and a splendid suite of militury ofle ers were ridlag through the line of the National Guard, elrawn up on the Boulevard din Temple, when an explosion resemt:ling a diselarge of masketry took place from the window of a honse overlooking the road. Fourteen persons were killed on the spot. A shower of hullets had been discharged by a machine consisting of twenty-five barrels, which, arranged side by side horizontully upon in frume, could be fired at once by atrain of gumpowder. The king was unhurt. [The Corsiesm who attempted this wholesale massacre was wounded by the bursting of one of the barrels, and arrested.] Another attempt was made on the life of Lonis Philippe in 1836 by a man by the name of Alibutud, who fircd into the king's carriage, the queen and his sister being with him. X thirll attempt was made in the same year ly another desperado named Meunier. . . . There is nothing more remarkable than the extraordinury escapec of Lonis Philippe, as if he bore a charmed life.-Kiviourts Eng., vol. 8, ch. 21, p. 374.
361. $\qquad$ - -

Queen Victorio. [In 1840, the year of her marringe, she was riding up Constitution Hill in an open carriage, with Prince Albert, when a pistol was fired at them, and in about half a minute there was a diseharge of a second pistol. Neither of the royal conple were injured.] The youth mamed Oxford, who had committed this atrocious crime, was a harman at a public house.-Knionit's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 24.
362. -- Queen Victoria. On the 30th of May [1842] John Francis, 4 young man ander twenty years of age, fired a pistol at the queen as she was coming down Constitution Hill, in a barouche and four, accompanied by Prince Albert. Her Majesty, thinking of others rather than herself, desired that none of the ladies in waiting should aceompany her in her ride, which she would not forego for ambiguous threats that had reached the cars of the police. Francis was found guilty of high treason, and received the usual capital sentence, which was commuted into transportation for life. On the $3 d$ of July a deformed youth, named John William Bean, presented a pistol at her Majesty, but being seized by a bystander, was prevented from firing it. TThis was the third attempt within two years.]-Knight's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 27, p. 497.
363. ASSASSINATION, Conspiracy for. British Cabinet. [In 1820 twenty-four persons entered into a conspiracy to ussissinate all the members of the British Cabinet while at a Cabinet dinner. Hand grenades were to le thrown under the table, and any who esciped from them were to be despatched with the sword. The plot was betrayed, and five of its memhers arrested and exceuted.]-Knigirt's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 9, p. 161.
364. Assassination, Deliveranoe by. ITenry III. of Hrance. This cruel and dissolute tyrant continuer to rigu for fiftern years. His kingiom was at length delivered from him by the hand of a famatice (nthusiast. Jucyues Clemcont, a Jacobin monk, actuated by the belief that he whs doing an act of consummate piety, insinuated himself into the palace, amd stabhed the king with a knife in the belly. The assassin was pit to denth on the spot by the king's guards, and Itenry died in a few days of the wound.-T'YTLEA' M Mist., Book 6, chi. খi.
365. ASSASSINATION, Escape from. Abraham Liaroln. [On the 22d of Folbrumy he reached llarrisburg, on his way to Washington, where he was to be inaugurated.] The next moruing the whole country was surprised to learn that he had arrived in Washington twelve hours sooner than he had origimally intended.$a$ a small gang of assassins, under the leadership of un Italian who assmmed the nume of Orsini, had arranged to take his life during his passage through Bultimore.-Rinmond's Lincoln, ch. $5, \mathrm{p} .158$.
366. ASSASSINATION, Fear of. Cromirell. Cromwell hand himself thought for some years that he should perish by assassination. He wore a cuirnss under his clothes, and carried defensive arms within reach of his hand. He never slept long in the same room in the palace, continually changing his hedchmmber, to mislead domestic trenson and military plots. A despot, he suffered the punisiment of tyranny. The unseen weight of the hatred which he had aceumulated weighed upon his imagination and disturbed his sleep. The least murmuring in the army appeared to him like the presage of a rebellion against his power. Sometimes he punished, sometimes he curessed those of his lientemants whom he suspected would revolt.-LAmartine's Cbomwell, p. 67.
367. Assassination, General. Ireland. The Irish Roman Catholies had judged these turbulent times a fit season for asserting the independency of their country, and shaking off the English yoke. From a detestable abuse of the two best of motives, religion and liberty, they were incited to one of the most horrible attempts recorded in the annals of history. They conspired to assassinate, in one day, all the Protestants in Ireland, and the design was hardly surmised in England till above forty thousand had been put to the sword.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 19.
368. Assassination, Justified. Philip of Greece. While engnged in celebrating a magnificent festival on the marriage of his daughter Cleopatra with the King of Epirus, and walking in solemn procession to the temple, he was struck to the heart with a dagger by Pausanins, a noble youth who had been brutilly injured by Attalus, the brother-in-law of Philip, and to whom that prince had refused to do justice. Philip had in the latter period of his reign degraded himself by some strong acts of tyranny, the fruit of in uncontrolled indulgence of vicious appetites.-T'ytler's Hist., Book 2, ch. 4.
369. Assassination, Patriotio. Casar. Brutus had been prochnimed Prextor of the city, with the promise of the Consulship. But the discontented remnants of the Senatorial party assailed him with constant reproaches. The name of Brutus, dear to all Roman patriots, was made a rebuke to him. " Ilis mocestor expelled the Tarquins; could he sit quietly muler a klug's rule ?" At the foot of the statue of that aneestor, or on his own prictorian trimamal. notes were phaced eomataining phrases such as these: "Thon mit not Brutus: would thon wert." "Brutus, thou sleepent." " Awake, Brutus." Gradually he was hrought to think that it was his duty as a patriot to put an end to Ciesar's rule, even hy taking his life. - Laddeblis Rome, p. 700.
370. Assassination, Peril of. Crominell. "Fet is their strength latorr anel somron;" this, ufter all, mast be said even of this grent and most surcessful mum. Our conception of him is such that we can well believe le longed to be nt rest. It was an mazing work, that in which he was the netor ; but with what toil and endurance and sleepless energy had he to travail day and night 1 The honor of knighthood and $£ 500$ a year forever was offered ly a proclamation, by Charles Stuart, from his vile and filthy court in Paris, to any one who would take the life of the Protector; and three were many in England who longed to see the mighty monareh dethroned. In his palace chambers lived his noble mother, nearly ninety, now trembling at every sound, lest it be some ill to her noble and royni son.-Hood's Chomwehi, ch. 17.
371 . ASSASSINATION, Remarkable. Cipar. Antony, who wis in attendance, was detained, as had been arranged, by Trebonins. Ciesar entered, and took his seat. His presence awed men, in spite of themselves, und the conspimtors had determined to act ist once, lest they should lose courage to act at all. Ile was fumiliar and easy of aceess. They gathered round him. He knew them all. There was not one from whom he had not a right to expect some sort of gratitude, and the movement suggested no suspicion. One had a story to tell him; nnother some favor to ask. Tullius Cimber, whom he had just made governor of Bitlyynia, then came close to him, with some rerguest which he was unwilling to grant. Cimber canght his gown, as if in entrenty, and dragged it from his shonlders. Cassius, who was standing behind, stabbed him in the throat. He started up with a cry, and eaught Cassius's arm. Another poniard entered his breast, giving in mortal wound. He looked round, and seeing not one friendly face, but only a ring of daggers pointing at him, he drew his gown over his hend, gathered the folds about him that he might fall decently, and sank down without uttering another word.Froude's Cesar, ch. 26.
372. assassins, Hatred of. Cipsur's. Antony, as Consul, rose to prononnce the funeral oration. He ran through the chief acts of Casar's life, recited his will, und then spoke of the death which had rewurded him. To make this more vividly present to the excitable Italians, he displayed a waxen image murked with the three-and-twenty wounds, and produced the very robe which he had worn all rent and blood-stained. Soul-stirring dirges added to the solemn horror of the scene. That impression was instantaneous. The senator friends of the Liberators who had attended the reremony looked on in mooly silence.

Soon the menacing gestures of the crowd make them look to their safety. They fled; and the multitude insisted on burning the body, as they had burut the hoty of Clodins. in the sacred prerincts of the Forum. Some of the veterans who attended the funeral set tire to the bier; benches and firevoml heaped round it soon made in sufleient pile. From the blazing pyre the crowd malad, eager for vengemace, to the houses of the conspirators. But all had thed letimes. One poor wretch fell a vietim to the firy of the moll-lIelvias Cima, a poet who had devoted his net to the service of the Dictator. Ile was mistaken for L. Cornclins Cimm the Prator, and torn to pieces before the mistake rould le explained.-Lidelle's Rome, p. $30 \%$.
378. Assassins, Infamous. Bonth's Conapiracy. Three days after the evacuation of Richmond by Lee's army the President visited that city, conferred with the anthorities, mad then returned to Washington. On the evening of the 14th of April he attended Ford's Thentre with his wife and a party of friends. As the play drew near its close a disreputahle actor, named John Wilkes Booth, stole mmoticed into the President's box, levelled a pistol at his head, and shot him through the brain. Mr. Lincoln fell forward in his seat, was borne from the building, lingered in in unconseions state until the following morning, and died. It was the greatest tragedy of modern times-the most wieked, atrocions, and diabolical murder known in American history. . . . At the same hour another murderer, named Lewis Payne Powell, burst into the bed-chamber of Scerctary Sewird, sprang upon the couch of the sick mun, stahbed him nigh unto leath, and made his escupe into the night.

On the 26 th of April Booth was found refusing to surrender, he was shot. . . Poweli was cuught, convicted, and hanged. Ilis fellowconspirators, David E. IIerrold and George A. Atzerott, together with Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, at whose house the plot whs formed, were also condemned and executed. Michael O'Laughlin, Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, and Sumucl Arnold were sentenced to imprisonment for life, and Edward Spangler for a term of six years.-Ridpatios U. S., eh. 66.
374. Assassins, Religious. Presic. Theextirpation of the Assassins or Ismatians of Persia may be considered as a service to mankind. Among the hills to the south of the Caspian these odious sectariey had reigned with impunity above a hundred and sixty vears. . . . With the fanaticism of the Korm, the Ismaelinns had blended the Indian transmigration and the visions of their own prophets ; and it was their first. duty to devote their souls and hodies in blind obedience to the vicar of God. The daggers of his missionaries were felt both in the East and West ; the Christians and the Moslems enumerate and persons multiply the illustrious victims that were sacrificed to the zeal, nvarice, or resentment of the old man (as he was corruptly styled) of the mountain. But these daggers, his only arms, were broken by the sword of Holagou, and not a vestige is left of the enemies of mankind, except the word assassin, which, in the most odions sense, has been adopted in the lanquages of Earope.-Gimion's Rome, ch. 64.
375. As8EMBLIES interdioted, Religioun. Enylund, [During the reign of Charles II., in 1604, Purllument enacted] that If five or more persons besides the household were present at any nasembly, under color or pretence of any exercise of religion, in other manner than is allowed by the Liturgy or practice of the Charels of England, every person so present shomble be liable to certain fines, imprisonment, or transporiation. [Some dared not proy in their familics when several visitors were prement, on even ask grace at the table.]-Kinmir's Evit., vol. 4, ch. 10, p. 267.
376. ASSESSMENTs, Political. Rom. Eimp. Marentins. The weath of Rome supplicel an inexhaustible fumb for his vainand prodigal expenses, mul the ministers of his revenae wore skilled in the arts of rapine. It was muler his reign that the methon of exacting a free gift from the semators was first invented; and as the sum was insensibly incransed, the pretences ol levving it -a victory, a birth, a marringe, or mimperial ronsulship-were proportionathly multiplied.Gumon's Rowne, ch. 14.
377. ASSISTANCE, Energetio. Pompey. I3ibulus opposed Ciesar, and Cato pripured to support Bibulus in the most strenuons manner; when Clesar placed Pompey by him upon the tribunal, and asked him, before the whole assembly, "Whether he approved his laws?" aud upon his naswering in the affirmative, he put this further question: " Then, if any one shath with violence oppose these laws, will you come to the assistance of the people?" Pompey answered, "I will certainly come; and against those that threaten to take the sword, I will bring both sword and buekler."-Plutarcif.
378. ASSOCIATES, Dangerous. John IIomrard's Son. The immediate cause of the ruin of young Howard was the servant who necompanied luis father on his philanthropic journeys. This servint, by his assiduous attention to his master, had won his complete eonfidence, and he was the constant playmate of his son during his vacations. The two young fellows were egunlly averse to IIoward's precise and rigid ways, and combined their ingenuity in evading the rules of his house. The servant early initiated the lad into the low vices of London, und accompanied him on many a midnight prowl. The youth took to vicious pleasures with fatal readiness, and he was ruined past remedy before his father suspected that he had gone astray. Diseases contricted in the lowest dens of infamy were treated with remedies so powerful as to impair his constitution and plant within him the seeds of insanity. Ilis college career was one of wild riot and debauchery. [1fe died while young.]-Cyclopedia of Brog., p. 71.
379. Associates, Impure. sir I. Nerton. His most intimate friend at the university was a foreign chemist of much note and skill. Newton enjoyed his conversation exceedingly, until one day the Italian told him a "loose story of a nun," which so much offended his sense of decency that he would never associate with him agrain.-Pariton's Newton, p. 89.
380. Associates, Infiuence of. Peter the Great. An acquaintance with a young foreigner of the name of Le Fort, by birt a a Swiss and a man of penetrating genhus, infused those first inleas of improvement linto the mind of the czar, and gave birth to a varicty of designs for the cultivation and reflament of his people. The first objects of his nttenthon were the army and the mb-rine.-Tytten's llist., Book 6, ch. $3 \overline{5}$.

3W1. Association, Guild of. Einglemel, 12141216. The meredant-guild was the outcome of $n$ tembency to closir association, which found support in these princlples of motual aid and mutual restraint that hay at the base of our ohl institutions. Guilds or clabs for religions, charitable, or sochal patpose were common thronghout the country, and experially common in torougles, where ment chastered more thickly together. Each formed a sort of artiticial family. An oath of matual Hdelity among its members was substituted for the tie of bood, while the guikd-fomst, helle once a month in the common hall, replaced the gathering of the kinsfolk round their family hearth. But within this new lamily the aim of the guild was to cistahlish at muthal responsibility as close as that of the old. "Lat all share the same lot," ran its law : "if any mision, let all bear it." $\boldsymbol{A}$ member conld look for aid from his guild-brothers in atoning for guilt incurred ly mishnp. IIe conld call on them for assistance in case of violence or wrong. If falsuly aceused, they nppeared in court as his compurgators; if poor, they supported, and when deal, they buried him. On the other hand, be was responisible to then, as they were to the State, for order and obedience to the laws. A wrong of brother against brother was alson wrong against the genernl body of the guild, and was pumished by tine or in the last resort by an expulsion, which left the offendir a "Jawless" man and an onteast.-IIst. Eng. Peorle,
382. Association, Beneficial. Nitrens Au. relius. "The wisest of the pagans." IIe wam not horn heir to the imperial throne, but was the son of private persons of patrician rank, who were rehated to the Emperor Adrian. Ilis father dying when he was only a cliih, he was alopted by lis grandfather, mid this brought him into nearer intimacy with the emperor, who became warmly attarhed to lim, greatly admiring his good-nature, his docility, and his nrtless candor. His early ellueation uppears to have been conducted with equal care and wisdom. "To the gords," he says, "I am imdebted for having lad good grandfathers, good parents, a good sister, goorl teachers, good associates, good kinsmen and friends-nearly everything good."-Cyclopedia of Brog., p. 541.
383. Associations, Protective. Anglo-Saxons. Many of the inferior rank of citizens entered into associations, and subseribed a bond, obliging themselves to be faithful to each other in all cases of danger to any one of the confederates; to protect his person, to revenge his wrongs, to pay the fines which he might incur through aceident, and to contribute to his funeral eharges. This last practice, as well as the connection of client and patron, are strong proof of the imperfection of laws, and of a weak administration. Only to remedy sucls evils would men have reeurred to these connections and as-sociations.-Tytler's IIst., Book 6, ch. 6.
384. A8SUMPTION, Boastful. Disabul the Turk. If I coudescend to mareh against those contemptible slaves [the Romans], they will tremble at the sound of our whips; they will he trampled, llke a nest of ants, under the feet of my innumerable cavalry. . . . From the rising to the setting sun, the eurth is my inheritance. . . . The pride of the great khan survived hals resentment; and when he amounced an hmportunt conguest to his friend the Emperor Manrice, he styled himself the master of the seven races, and the lord of the seven climates of the worla. Ghmon's Romes, ch. 42.
385. Astrology, Regard for. Omens. The vices which degrade the momil rharmeter of the Romans ure mixed with a puerile suporstition that disgraces their understunding. They listen with contdenee to the predictions of haruspices, who pretend to read, in the entrails of victims, the signs of future greatness and prosperity; and there are many who do not presume either to bathe, or to dine, or to appear in public, till they have diligently eonsulted, according to the rules of astrology, the situation of Mercary and the aspect of the moon.-Gibmon's Rome, ch. 31.
386. ASTRONOMY, Anticipations in. n.c. 640. Thales made some bold and fortumate conjectures in the science of astronomy. He conjectured the earth to be a sphere, ind that it revolved round the sun. He believed the fixed stars to be so many suns encireled with other planets like our earth; he believed the moon's light to be a reflection of the sun's from a solid surface ; and if we may trust the testimony of ancient authors, he was able to calculate eclipses, and actually predicted that famous eclipse of the sun six hundred and one years before the birth of Christ, which separated the armies of the Medes and Lydians at the moment of an en-gagement.-Tytler's Hist., Book 2, ch. 9.
387. ASYLUM of Refuge. Rome. As soon as the foundation of the city was laid, they opened a place of refuge for fugitives, which they called the Temple of the Asylean god. Here they received all that came, and would neither deliver up the slave to his master, the debtor to his creditor, nor the murderer to the magistrate, declaring that they were directed by the oracle of Apollo to preserve the asylum from all violntion. Thus the city was soon peopled.-PléTatent.
388. athlete, Remarkable, Thraciun. The Emperor Severus . . . hatted in Thrace to celebrate, with military games, the birthday of his younger son, Geta. The country flocked in crowds to behold their sovereign, and a young barbarian of gigantic stature earnestly solieited, in his rude dialect, that he might be allowed to contend for the prize of wrestling. ... IIc was matehed with the stontest followers of the camp, sixteen of whom he successively laid on the ground. His vietory was rewarded by some trifling gifts, and a permission to enlist in the troops. . . . As soon as he perceived that he had attracted the emperor's notice, he instantly ran up to his horse, and followed him on foot, without the least appearance of fatigue, in a long and rapid career. "Thracian," said Severus, with astonishment, "art thou disposed to wrestle after thy race?" "Most willingly, sir," replied the unwearied youth; and, almost in a breath, overthrew seven of the strongest soldlers in the urny. A gold eollur was the prize of his matelsless vigor und netivity, and he was hmmediately nppointed to serve in the horse-guards who ahwys attended on the person of the sovereign. -Gimon's Rome, ch. 7.
389. ATHLETE, Royal. Hewry IT. of France. Henry 11. ascended the throne in the twentyninth year of his age . . . his sole accomplishment consisted in a remarknble expertness in hodily exercises.-S'tcdents' Funce, ch. 15, 51.

390, ATTACK, Inoonsiderate. ('rusiflers. Gotfrey of Bonllon creeted his standard on the tirst swell of Mount Calvary ; to the left, as far as St. Stephen's rate, the line of attack was continned by Tancerd and the two Rolorts; and Coment Raymond established his quarter's from the citadel to the foot of Moment Sion, which was bo longer included within the precincts of the eity. On the tifth day the (rusuders mate a general inssualt, in the funntic hope of linttering down the walls without engines, and of scaling them withont ladders. By the dint of brutal force they burst the ftrst barrier; but they were driven back with shame and slaughter to the camp.-Ghbon's Rone, ch. 58.
391. ATTACK, Unexpected. From abore. [At the battle of IIastings] the Norman allies with their bows shot quiekly upon the English; but they covered tuemselves with their shieds. Then the Normans determined to shoot their arrows upward into the air, so that they might fall on their enemies' heals, and strike their faces. The arehers adopted this scheme. . and the arrows, in falling, struck their heads and faces, and put out the eyes of many ; and all feared to open their eyes, or leave their faces unguarded. The arrows now hew thicker than rain, . . . Then it was that an arrow, that had thus shot upward, struck limold above his right eye, and put it out. In his agony he drew the arrow and threw it away, breaking it with his hands ; mnd the pain to his head was so great that he leaned upon his shield.-1)ecisive Battles, 今气 330 .
392. AUDACITY, Brazen. Catiline. We are astonished when we read that animated oration of Cicero [denouncing the conspirncy of Citiline], the first against Catiline ; and know that the traitor had the andacity to sit in the Semate-house while it was delivered, and while every man of worth or regard for character leserted ine bench on which he sat, and left him a spectacle to the whole assembly. - Tytlen's Ihst., Book 4, ch. 1.
393. AUDACITY, Deceived by. Nippoleon I. A.d. 1796. [In the ltalian campaign Najoleon suddenly found himself and one thousand soldiers in the presence of a detached body of four thousand Austrians. A blindfolded flag of truce demanded immediate surrender. Napoleon mounted his staff. The bandage was removed.] "What means this insult?" exclaimed Napoleon, in tones of affected indignation. "Have you the insolence to bring a summons of surrender to the French commander-in-chief, in the middle of his Army! Say to those who sent you that in less than five minutes they lay down their arms, or every man shall be put to death." The bewildered officer stammered out an apology. "Go !" said Napoleon, sternly. . . . The Austrians threw down their arms. . . missed making [Napoleon] prisoner.-Anaort's Napoleon I., vol. 1, ch. 6.

394. AUDACITY of Desperation. F'loridh Inclitens. [Jackson's ndministration proposed to remove then from their Floridh homes to a resservation beyond the Mississippi.] Oseeoln, with a band of warriors, prowling arouad Fort Kiag. on the Oeklawalia, surroundeal a storehouse where Geacrat Thompson was dining with a company of friends. The savages poured in a marderous fire, and then rushed forward and sealped the dend before the garrison of the fort ouly two hualred and fifty yards awny, could bring assistance. Thompson's body was piereced by fifteen balls, aud four of his nime companions were killed.-IRidiatis's U. S., ch. 53.
395. AUGURY, Book of. Ohinese. The oldest and most respectable in peint of authority is the book or taible of Yking. This Yking, which has been held as a mysterious receptacle of the most profound knowledge, and is on that account allowed in China to be consulted only by the sect of the learned, is now known to be nothing else than a superstitious and childisla device for fortune-telling or divination. It is a table on which there are sixty-four marks or lines, one half short, and the other half long, pheed at regular iutervals. The person who consults the Yking for divining some future event takes a number of small pieces of rod, and, throwing them down at madom, observes carefully how their accidental position corresponds to the marks on the table, from which, nceording to certuin established rules, he predicts either good or bad fortune. These rules, it is said, were laid down by the great Confucius, the chicf of the Chinese philosophers-a circumstance which does not tend to inerease his reputation. The Jesuit missionaries, who could not root out these prejudices, thonght it their best policy to turn them to advantage; and in endeavoring to propagate the doctrines of Christianity, they pretended that Confucius had actually predieted the coming of the Messinh by this table of the Yking.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 24.
396. AUGURY, Building by. City of Rome. While [Romuliss and lemus] were intent upon building, a dispute soon arose about the place. Romulus having built a square, which he called Rome, would have the city there; but Remus marked out a more secure situation on Mount Aventine, which, from him, was called Remonium. . . . The dispute was referred to the decision of augury; and ior this purpose they sat down in the open air, when Remus, as they tell us, saw six vultures, and Romulus twiee as many. -. Hence the Rommens, in their divination by the flight of birds, ehiefly regard the vulture; though Herodotus of Pontus relates, that Hercules used to rejoice when a vulture appeared to him when he was going upon any great action. This was, probably, because it is a creature the least mischievons of any, pernicious neither to corn, plants, nor cattle. It only feeds upon dead carcasses; but neither kills nor preys upon anything that has life. As for birds, it does not touch them, even when dead, because they are of its own nature ; while eagles, owls, and hawks tear and kill their own kind. - Phutanch's Lives.
307. AUS1 ERITY, Example of. Younger Cato. Cato saw that a great reformation was wanting in the mamers and customs of his country, and for that renson he determined to go contmary to the corrupt fashions which then obtainet. Ite observed that the richest and most lively purple was the thing most worn, and therefore be went in black. Nay, he often appeared in public ufter dimer barefooted and without his gown. Not that he affected to be talked of for that slagularity ; but he did it by way of lamming to be ashmmed of nothing but what was really shameful, and not to regard what depended only on the estimation of the world.-l'lutancon.
393. AUSTERITY, Monkish. In Eigyt. Every seasation that is olfensive to man was thought acceptable to God; and the angelic rute of Tabenae condemned the salutary costom of hathing the limbs in water and of anointing them with oil. The austere monks slept on the ground, on a lard mat or a rough blanket; and the sume bundle of palm-leaves scrved them as a seat in the day and a pillow in the night. Their original cells were low, narrow hats, binilt of the sllightest materials. [A.D. 3\%0.]-Gibion's Rome, ch. 37, p. 531.
399. AUSTERITY vs. Profilgaoy. Stuarts Restored. Many, too, who had been disgusted by the austerity and hypoerisy of the Pharisees of the Commonwenlti, began to be still more disgusted liy the open profligacy of the court and of the Cavaliers, and were disposed to doubt whether the sullen preciseness of Praise God Barebones might not be preferable to the ontrageous profaneness and licentiousness of the Buckinghams and Sedleys. Even immoral men, who were not utterly destitute of sense and public spirit, complained that the government treated the most serious matters as trifles, and made trifles its serious business.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 2.
400. AUSTERITY, Religious. Rev. John Nemton. [William Cowper advised with him.] Newton would not inave sanctioned any poetry which had not a distinctly religious oliject, and he received an assurance from the poet that the lively passages were introduced only as honcy on the rim of the medicianl cup, to commend its healing contents to the lips of a giddy world. The Rev. John Newton must have been exceedingly austere if he thought that the quantity of honcy used was excessive.-Smith's Cowper. ch. 4.
401. - Priscillianists. [Reign of Theodosius the Great.] If the Priscillianists violated the laws of nature, it was not by the licentiousness, but by the austerity, of their lives. They absolutely condemned the use of the mar-riage-bed; and the peace of families was often disturbed by indisereet separations. They enjoyed, or recommended, a total abstinence from all animal food; and their continunl prayers, fasts, and vigils inculcated a rule of strict and perfect devotion. The speculative tenets of the sect concerning the person of Christ and the nature of the human soul were derived from the Gnostic and Manichæan system. . . . The obseure disciples of Priscillian suffered, languished, and gradually disappeared; his tenets were referted by the clergy and people. -Ginnos's Rome, ch. 27.
102. -_ Momks. A.D. 870. They wrapped their hems in a rowl, to eseape the Nght of profime ohjects: thair loges and fect wore maked, except in the extremo cold of winter; and their slow and ferlice steps were supported by a long statf. The nspect of a gromine anclioret whs horrid mud dlagnsting; wery sensation that is offensive to man was thought acceptalile to God; and the angelic rule of. Tabenne condemach the salutary castom of buthing the limbs in water. . . . 'flacyslept on the ground, on a hard mat or a rough blanket. . . . Their original cells were low, narrow lants. ... Pleasure and guilt were synonymons terms.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 37.
403. $\triangle$ ITHOR, Humiliated. Freterick the Great. He had sent a large quantity of verses to Voltaire, and requested thint they might be returned with remarks and eorrection. "See," exclaimed Voltaire, " what a quantity of his dirty linen the king las sent me to wash !" Talebearers were not wanting to carry the sarcasm to the royal ear, and Frederick was much incensed.Macaulay's Fredemck the Great, p. 6.
404. AUTHOR, Rapid. Somuel Johnson. The rapidity with which this work wns composed is a wonderful circumstance. Johnson has been heard to say: "I wrote forty-eight of the printed octavo puges of the Life of Savage at a sitting ; but then I sat up all night."-BosweLL's Johnson, p. 41.
405. AUTHOR, The unnoticed. Samuel Johnson. He said he expected to be attacked on uccount of his "Lives of the Pocts." "However," said he, "I would rather be attucked than unnoticed. For the worst thing you can do to an author is to be silent as to his works. An assault upon a town is a bad cling, but starving it is still worse ; an assault may be unsuccessful-you may have more men killed than you kill-but if you starve the town, you are sure of victory."Boswell's Joilnson, p. 407.
406. AUTHORITY, Absolute. Military. Experience has fully proved that in war every operation, from the greatest to the smallest, ought to be under the absolute direction of one mind, and that every subordinate agent, in his degree, ought to obey implicitly, strenuously, and with the show of cheerfulness, orders which he distpproves, or of which the reasons are kept secret from him. IRepresentative assemblies, public diseussions, and all the other checks by which, in civil affairs, rulers are restrained from abusing power, ure out of place in a camp. - Machinvel justly imputed many of the disasters of Venice and Florence to the jenlousy which led those republics to interfere with every act of their generals. The Dutch prnctice of sending to an army deputies, without whose consent no great blow could be struck, was almost equally pernicious.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5.
407. - F. Early Romans. The children imbibed from their infancy the highest veneration for their parents, who, from the extent of the paternal power among the Romans, had an unlimited authority over their wives, their offspring, and their slaves. It is far from natural to the human mind thet the possession of power and authority should form a ty rannical disposition. Where that anthority, thdeed, has been usurped hy violence, tis ponséssor may, perhaps, be tempted to malntain it ly tyrimny; but where it is either a right dietated hy mature, or the may effect of circumstances anil sithation, the very consciousness of anthority is upt to inspire a beneticence and hommity in the manner of exercising it. Thus we find the meient lRomans, ulthough absoluto soveroigns in their fumilies, with the jus ritur et uecis, the right of life anel deuth over their children and their slaves, were yet excellent lusbunds, kind and uffectiomate parents, limmue and indulgent masters. Nor was it until luxury harl corrupted the virtnous sinplicity of the ancient manners, that this patermal nuthority, degenerating into tyrannical abmses, required to he abridged in its power nud restrained in its exercise ly the enactiment of laws. By an apparent contrudiction, so long as the puternnl authority was absolute, the slaves and children were happy; when it hecame wenkened and abridged, then it was lhat its terrors were, from the excessive corrulition of munners, most severcly felt.-TyTLen's Hist., Book 4, ch. 13.
408.

Turks. It is a part of the policy of the empire that a certain mumber of young men should be educuted in the seraglio, onit. of whom the sultan chooses his principul ofticers. But what is a very extrnordinary piece of policy, if we may believe Rycunt, it is necessary that these youths should be of Cliristian purents. . . . He says that the Christian slaves, strangers in the empire, will necessurily have fewer connections or dependents on their interest, and be the better disposed to an absolute submission to the will of their master. One thing is certain, it is a fundamental maxim of the Turkish polity, that the servants of the prince sloould be such as he can entirely command, und can at any time destroy without danger to himself.-Tytler's Hist., Book 5, ch. 13 .
409. AUTHORITY acknowledged. Franks in Gaul. The king lad no more than a single suffrage, equally with the meanest soldier ; and it was only when actually in the field, or when it was necessary to enforce military diseipline, that he ventured to excreise anything like authority. This is strongly exemplified in a story which is recorded of Clovis I. After the battle of Soissons, a large vessel of siver was part of the booty; Clovis, being informed that it had been earried off from the church of Rheims, asked permission of the army to take it, that he might restore it to the church. A soldier, standing by, struck the vessel with his buttle-nxe, and with great rudeness desired the king to rest satisfied with the share that should fall to his lot. Clovis durst not, at the time, resent this insolence, for all were then upon an equal footing; but he knew the privilege which he had when military discipline was to be enforced, and took advantage of it; for some time afterward observing the sume soldier to be negligent in the care of his arms, he called him out of his rank, and charging him with his offence, cut him down with his battle-axe. There was not a murmur heard, for Clovis had not exceeded the limits of his author-ity.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 2.
410. AUTHORITY assumed. Cromwell. [His dissolution of Parliament.] The President, worthy of his offlee loy his courage, commanded him [Cromwell] to be sllent. Wentworth, one of the wost lllustrions and influential of the extreme party by his personal character, demaniled that he should be called to order. "This language," said he, "fs as extroordinary as criminal in the month of a [Cromwell] man who yesterlay possessed our cotire conthlence, whom we have honored with the highest functlons of the republic of " man who-" Cromwell would not suffer him to conchade. "Go tol go to!" exclaimed he in a voice of thunder ; " we have had enough of words like these. It ls time to put an end to all this, and to silence these labbhers I" Then, advancing to the middle of the labl, and placing his hat on his head with a gesture of dethace, he stamped upon the floor, and : ried aloud, " Yom are nolonger a Parlinment ! Youslanll not sit here a single hour longer! Make romn for letter men than yourselves!" At these words IInrrison, Instrueted ly a glance from the genern, disaphemed, and returned in a moment after at the head of tharty soldiers, veterans of the long rivil wars, who surrounded Cromwell with their naked wenpons. These men, hired by the Parliament, hesitated not at the command of their leader to turn their arms against those who had phaced them in their lunds, and furnished nother example, following the Rubicon of Casar, to prove the incompatibility of freedom with standing armies. "Sliserable wretches !" resumed Cromwell, as if violence without insult was insullcient for his anger, " you call yourselves a Parliament! You!-no, you are nothing but a mass of tipplers and libertines ! Thou," he continued, pointing with his finger to the most notorious protligates in the assembly, as they passed him in their endeavors to escape from the hall, "thou art a drunkard! Thou art an adulterer ! And thou art a hireling, pald for thy speeches I You are all seandalous sinners, who bring shame on the gospel! And you fancied yourselves a fitting Purliament for God's people I No, no, begone ! let me hear no more of you ! The Lord rejects you!" During these apostrophes the members, forced by the soldiers, were driven or dragged from the hall. -Lamaitine's Chomwell, p. 61.
411. AUTHORITY, Dependence on. Uncise. [John Howard's only son becume a dissolute man.] [See No. 378.] Howard was exceedingly particular with regard to the diet of the boy, and careful to inure him to hardship. This, too, was an excellent thing, but he did not carry it out wisely. He purposely forbore all explanation of his rules and denials. He never thought it right to say to the child," My son, these pears will make you sick if you cat many of them, or eat them at improper times." Ife merely said, "Jack, never touch a pear unless I give it to you." If the boy yielded to the temptation afforded by a garden full of fruit, he would place him in a seat und command him not to stir or speak untii he should give him permission. Such was his ascendency over the child, that once when he had given him such an order and had forgotten all about it, he found the child, four hours after, in the precise spot where he had placed him, fast aslecp.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 69.
412. AUTHORITY by Gentleness. Joon of Arc. For this great force to met with efficieney, the one essenthat and ludispensable requisite. unity of action, was wanthig. Had skill and inteiligence suillocyl to lmpurt it, the want would lave baen supplied by bunols; but there was something more reguirel-anthority, and more than roynd authority, too, for the king's cuptalns were little in the labit of olveying the king ; to subjort these savage, untamable spirits, God's muthority wiss ealled for. Now, the God of this are was the Virgin mach more than Clirist: and it brhooved that the Virgius should descend upon earth, be a popular Virgin, young, beanteous, rentle, boh. . . It wus at once arrsble and a touching sight to sce the sudden conversion of the old Xruagmac lorlgands. They did not reform by halves. [General] La IItre darst no longer swear; and the Pacelle [Jonn] took compassion on the violence he dil himsolf, and allowed him toswerr " hy his haton." The devlls fonnd themselves all of a sudden turned into little saints.Micielefts Joan of Auc, p. 12.
418. AUTHORITY, Imprudenoe with. Charles $I$. The Commons found a considerable opposition to the extreme violence of their measures from the IIonse of Peers.

The Commons frumed min impenchment of the whole bench of bishops, as endeavoring to subvert the constitution of Parlinment, and they were all committed to custody. These measures had the effect for which, it is presmmable, they were intended. The patlence of Charles was entirely exhausted, and he was impelled to a violent excrtion of authority. The attorney-general, by the king's commund, impenched tive members of the IIouse of Conmons, among whom were John Hampden, Pym, and IIolles, the chiefs of the popular party. A sergenut being sent, without effect, to demand them of the Commons, the king, to the surprise of everybody, went i: person to the House to seize them. They had notice of his intention, and had withdrawn. The Commons justly proclaimed this attempt a breach of privilege. The streets re-echoed with the clamors of the populace, and a general insurrection was prognosticated. The king acknowledged his error by a humiliating message to the llouse; but the submission was as ineffectual as the violence had heen imprudent.-Tytlen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 29.
414. AUTHORITY, Necomsary. Military. [The Scots invited the return of Charles II., and were defented by the army of Cromwell.] It certainly does appear that David Leslie, the commander of the Scots at Dunbar, found his hands tied by a committee; and any kind of battle anywhere may be lost, but, probably, no battle of any kind was ever gained by a committec. The English army reached Dumbar. . . . the 1st of September, 1650.- Hood's Cromwell, ch. 12.
415. AUTYORITY, Personal. American Indians. The Indian chief has no crown. . . . The bounds of his authority tioat witl the current opinion of the tribe; he is not so natuch obeyed as followed with the alacrity of free volition; and therefore the extent of his power depends on his personal character.-Bancrort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
416. AUTHORITY, Popular. Charles $I$. [During the agitation which resulted in the overthrow of the king and the establishment of the Commonwenlth] the insoldence of several members of the Ifoise of Commons, whilh hurst forth in evident violation of hils dignity nod royal prerogntive, loft him no choice hetwern the shameful abmadonment of his title as king or an energetic vindiention of his rights. He went down himself to the Honse, to cunse the arrest of those members who were gulty of high trasom, and culled upon the prasident to point them ont. "sire," replied he, kneeling, "in the place thit I occupy I have only eyes to sere and a tongue to spank necording to the will of the honse I serve. I therefore humbly erave your Majesty's purdon for venturing to disolvey you." Charles, humilfated, retired with lils gumeds.-Lamantine's Chomweli, p. 27.

417. AUTHORITY, Supreme. Jmen of Arr. The two anthoritics, the patermal and the celestinl, enfoined her two opposite communds. The one ordered her to remain obsenre, modest, and Jaboring: the other to set out nud suve the king. dom. The angel bude her arm herself. Dler father, rough ind honest peasunt as he was, swore that, rather than his daughter should go away with men-at-arms, he would drown her with his own hands. One or other, disobey she mast. Beyond a doubt this was the greatest battle she was called upon to tight ; those ngainst the English were phy in comparison.-Micheletys Joan of Anc, p. 6 .
418. AUTHORSHIP, Anxietien of, Samual Johnson. My bosk [the dictiomury] is now coming in luminis oras. What will le its fate I know not, nor think much, beenuse thinking is to no purpose. It must stand the censure of the great vulgar and the small; of those that understand it, and that understand it not. But in all this, I suffer not alone; every writer has the same diffleulties, and, perhaps, every writer talks of them more than he thinks.-Boswell's JoinsBON, p. 75.
419. AUTHORSHIPImputed. Posthumous Fragments of Margaret Nicholson. Hogg found him one duy busily engaged in correcting proofs of some original poems. Shelley asked his friend what he thonght of them, and Hogg answered that it might bo possible by a little nhterntion to turn them into capital burlesques. This Idea took the young poct's fancy; and the friends between them soon effected a metamorphosis in Shelley's ser:ous verses, by which they became unmistakably ridiculous. Ilaving achieved their purpose, they now bethought them of the proper means of publication. Upon whom should the poems, a medley of tyrannicide and revolutiomary raving, be fathered? Peg Nicholson, a mad washerwoman, had recently attempted George the Third's life with a carving. knife. No more fitting anthor could be found. They would give their pumphlet to the world ns her work, edited ly un udmiring nephew. The printer apprecinted the joke no less than the authors of it. IIc provided splendid paper and magniflcent type; and before long the book of nonsense was in the hunds of Oxford readers. It sold for the high price of half a crown a copy; and, what is hardly credible, the gownsmen received it as a gemine production. "1t was indeed a kind of fashion to be seen reading it in public, as a mark of nice discernment, of a delicate and fastidious taste in poetry, and the beat criterion of a cholee spirit."-Simonos' SILELLEY, ch. 2.
420. AUTHORSHIP, Originality in. Thman Jefferson. From the fulness of his own mind, whiout consulting one slugle book, Jefferson [thirty-three yours old] drufted the Decharntion (of Americun Indepentencel, submitted it sepmrately to Franklin und to dohn Adams, aceepted from euch of them one or two verlail, nnimpartant corrections. . on the twenty-ejghth of June reported it to Congress.-B.anchore's U. S., ve 8 , ch. 70.

42I. AUTHORSHIP, Quallifed, The Stremp Art. Who was the nuthor of the Amoricine stamp tux? At a hater day Jenkinson [tirst Decretury of the Tronsury) assured the llonse of Commons that. "If the Stamp Act wisagood memsure, the merit was not due to Grenvillo; if it was a lad one, the ill poliey died not belong to him;" but he never confessed to the Honse where the bhame or the merit could rest more justly. In his late ohd ure he delighted to converse freely save only on the one subject of the contose with Americn. [George Grenville] brought this seheme into form.-B.anchorm's U. S., vol. 5, ch. 8.
422, AUTHORSHIP, Reward of. John Witton. The ngreement, still preserved in the Natiomal Musenm, hetween the unthor, "John Milton, gent. of the one purte, und Simuel Symons, printer, of the other parte," is mong the curiosities of our literary history. The curiosity consists not so much in the illustrious name uppended (not in autograph) to the deed, as in the contrast vetween the present fame of the look and the waste-paper price at whieh the eopyright is being valued. The author received et down; whs to receive a second $£ 5$ when the first edition shonld be sold; a third $£ 5$ when the second; a fourth 85 when the third edlition shonld be gone. Milton lived to receive the second $£ 5$. and no more-£10, in all, for " Purudise Lost." I cannot bring myself to join in the lamentations of the biographers over this bargain. Surely, it is better so; better to know that the noblest monument of English letters had no money value, than to think of it as having been paid for at a pound the line.- Pattison's Militun, ch. 12.
423. AUTOCRAT, Military. Pompey. When Pompey commanded in the East, he rewarded hir soldiers und allies, dethroned prinees, divided kingloms, founded colonies, and distributed the treasmres of Mithridates. On his return to Rome he obtained, by a single net of the Senute and people, the universal ratification of all lis.s proceedings. Such was the power over the soldiers and over the enemies of Rome, which wis either granted to or ussumed by the generals of the republic. They were, it the sume time, the governors, or rather monarehs, of the conquered provinces, united the civil with the military churncter, udministered justice as well as the timances, and exercised both the execntive mad legislative power of the State.-Gibison's Rome, eli. 3.
424. autocrat, Royal. Ifenry ITII. From 1515 to 1523 no Parliament was summoned. IIenry [VIIL.] and his great minister [Cardinal Wolsey] governed the kingdom at their sole will.- Knioht's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 17, p. 275.
495. AVARICE mequired. simuil ,H/w, win. It wis ohorerved, fhat avarieo wise lahereat lia

 semplon. Every min in lurn cupielun-ilowiroms

 Adan malntaln, witl much ingenulty, thut 1 crimplete miser is 16 lutply mu! - miser whos given himself wholly to the ono jussion of miv. fug." Jennenes : "Tlunt is flying in the fure of all the world, who luve ralled an avaridelons man a mixere, horatuse: lue is miserublo. No, sir ; a Hun! who both mpouds und saves unomey is the;
 - Benwelid'n Johinan, j. :mo.
428. AVARICE of the Clergy. Hoftra $/ 1$ ("и. tury. [A. w. 1450-1.18i. 'The ('hure't had vilut the momilis of tho lodidest complatmats.] 'J'he abheys might more mat more mproprinte the revonues Glat onght to be the reward of the parish-jriest ; tho bisheip might neghect his sutared functions, to mid to his revenues tho fores of the grent ofllees of Stuto, mad, like Curdinul Beninfort, procire laws to be minde aguinst commerchal freedom, mal then receive large mame for Ilcenses to viohite them. Grent spiritual lorids might Imad themedves with grent temporal lords to wltadraw the funds of hospituls from their proper uses, nud lanve the old, the lazar, the lunutic, and the jregnant woman, for whose bencflt those hospitals were endowarl, to perish ut their utmost need.-Kinialit's ENa., vol. 2, ch. 8, p. 124.
427. AVARICE, Contempt for. Rufinus. [This Romnn prefeet wis ussussinnted.] [lis avirice, which seems to have prevailed in has corrupt mind over every other sentiment, attrieted the wealth of the Eist, by the various nuts of purtial and gencrul extortion, oppressive tuxes, scandalous bribery, immoderuto flmes, unjust conflscatlons, forecd or fictitions testnments, by which the tyrant elespolled of their lawful inheritance the children of strangers or encmics; mad the public sule of justlec, ins well ins of favor, which he instituted in the pulace of Constan' thople. . Mis nungred body was almandoned to the brutal fury of tho populace of either sex, who hastened in crowds, from every quartar of the city, $t 0$ trample on the remains of the haughty minister, it whose frown they lad so Jately trembled. His right hand was cut off and carried throngh the streets of Constantinople, in eruel inockery, to exiort contributions for the avaricious tyrant, whose leme was publicly exposed, borne alofi on the point of a long lance.-Ginnon's Rome, ch. 29 .
498. AVARICE, Corrupted by. Romums. When the passion of uvariee lint, ns ut this line, pervaded all the ranks of the State, it is not wonderful that the publie monsures should be in the greatest degree mean and disgraceful. The ambition of conquest was now little else than the desire of rapine and plunder. If the allies of the State were opulent, the Romans considered their wealth as a sufficient reason for dissolving all treaties between them, and holding them ns it lawful object of conquest. Thus the kingrloms of Numidia, of Pergamus, of Cappadorin, of Bithynia, separate sovereignties bound to the allegiance of the Romans by the most solemn

Prention, worr invoderi as if they luad twon aucient and matural ememies, and raflicent to the condl. thon of compurarei provinces. 'I'le Simate made a klai of tralle of thromen and povernments, welling them urenty to tho hilghent hidider. [1Phader wis iloe motiva for war, mad pretexts ware invented.| The kommes engaging nlong

 intorforence in this prarial, thon that ther Acor-

 -whileh wns, thut they loud johneid the olhor (irocelnn Stutes in semeliuse tronjes los the nivge of

4थD. AVARICE, Criminal, Iomion. [In 18:I; Hee matsicr-tailors were the mose noterions for ployers. Soma of llam] wombla huddle wixty or cighty worknuen elose togrether, wenty knee to knee, lit in roun tily fied ly twonty feret hromel, lighted from ubove, where the tempernlure in summur was thirly degrees highor than the temperature ontside. Vonng men from the country fulnted when they wore tlrat contlond in antel in life -destroying prisem; the maturet oness sustained themselves by gin till they prorished of consumption, of typlins, or delirinm tremens. The werworked clans of milliners and dressmakers employed in the lurger workshops of Landon, ill-ventilnted, and rendered douhly injurious by the corrtunt hanit of night-workthis class of young women was leding constantly renewed, more thin one hinlf dying of ling disrines brofor they had attained the nvernge nge of twentyeright.-Kniaft's Esia., vol. 8, ch. ©2, [. 392.
430. AVARICE, Decoption of. Henry VII. In October, 1491 [Ilewry VIII.], proclnined his intention of punishang the French king. . . . Employing the pretence of war for extorting meney under the nystem of "Bencvolences". . he obtaned a linge gront from his faithful Tords and Commons, ind procured several laws. to be passed which gave encourngement to the prosecution of $n$ war, which had become a nattionml object. Inat having got the money, nnd encouraged many kniglits and nobles in raising men, he still deluyed uny active measures of lustility, throngh the spring, summer, and anttumn of 1492. At length, in Ortober, he lunded nt Culais with in well-uppointed army.
But for three monthes previons to this costly farade the wily king land been negotinting it pence with churles of France; and it appenars in the highest degree probnble that the trenty was actunlly signed when the English forces landed,-KNign'r's Ena., vol. 2, ch. 13, p. 218.
431. AVARICE, Demands of, Henry VII. In March, 1496, he granted letters-patent to John Cibbot and his two sons, to satil it their own cost und charges, with five ships, for the discovery of new countries, upon condition that the king should lave aflfth of the profits. [In 1497 he gave $£ 10]$ to hin that found the new isle of Newfoundland. - KNiatit's Ena., vol. 2, ch. 15, 1). 236.
432. AVARICE, Glory in. Cuto the Censor. In his old nge he hecame exceedingly avaricions, and gained ularge fortune by methods which were legal, but not very honorable. Ite even.
nttered this wenthment: " That basn traly wolt liste of glary, is lie by whome mocount-hanks it shall uprater, ifter lif domils, that lee hat more than dombed what be lame reodved fiom his

 from the Vumbals, I the trenim wore natels diveme markerl on the Messintan cmant, to re'pese them-this pllace they expurlencoll law avarioe inventorl with enthority may mort with the lives of thenstands whitel nires limvely exposed for the publite service. According to military pradtioe, tho bread or hisenit of the le,hmans wins twhere prejnied la the oven, and tho dindantion of ons. fonith was cheorfinly allowed for tho lome of weipht. To gron this miserable protle, mail to sove the expense of woekt, the prof fere, Jolan of (Bupabocina, lual given ordors that flar flome shontel be slightly bakid by the same the which warmed the hanlis of Constantimente: mad when the marks were oprened, a suft and mombly pinate was dishibimed to the army. Surli unwholesome food, insisted by tha latat of the climate: antil sensen, noon produreal un phetemianl divensar. which swept uway flve handred sohlicers.-Gin-

4i3.t. AVARICE punlshed. If $1 / 8 * \| x$. The Parthinas having comuluerid the l bounangerneral Crassus, whos invaded their eomatry, the Parthhan king is suid to lanve poured buto his mouth melted golil, waying, "Now berntiated with what thou covetedst through life."

4B5. AVARICE, Royal. H'nry ITII. [.
 ('arilinal Wolsey. Tho lying man lam beern pressad to necomit for the moncy. Ile said lae hum borrowed it to distribute dinong his servants, and for his-burial, and hal phaced it in the hands of un bonest mun.] The chinef business of this magmainons king, with Cavendish, was to obtain the knowledge whare this treasure was hidden; and Covendish tolal hinn. "Well then'," (unoth the king, " let me nlone, and kery) this gear seeret beween yourself mud me, and let no man be privy thereof." He had broken the great heart of his faithful servant ; but he thonght only of the contents of the money-bigs, to be appropriated to jewels for Laly Anne and to wagers with Dominso.-KNiant's Evg., vol. 2, ch. 20.
4386. Willium the Conqueror. One great end lie never lost sight of, whether he worked by clementy or terron-the plunder of the land. "ITe had fillen into avarjee, and greediness he loved withal." . i. It is fearful and a disgusting history. - Kinant's ENG., vol. 1, ch. 14, p. 191.
437. $\qquad$ George II: The unkingly passion of avmice was pretominmm in his most trivial disbursements.-KNıime's Eag., vol. 6, ch. 4, p. 50.
438. AVARICE, Ruled by. Rom. Emp. Commoclus. Avarice was the reigning passion of his soul and the great principle of his administration. The rank of Consul, of Patrician, of ScDator, was exposed to public sale; and it anid divgracefal lomore with the greateme part of tha laws was verual had arhitrary. I wealtiy

 tut might llkewise lathirt whulever panishanent

ABS. AVARICE, Bhemeful. Firign of'Jumte IT. 'The proprerty lmoll of the robely |modre thes [Jnke of Jinmonth| who lume miffered demth, umb of those mare mafortmate mens whon wore whowriag maler the tropiond sim /by bantish. ment, Was fonght for and torn in pieces by a erowd of grecedy informers. lly law, $n$ mblojert athanterl of trenison forfoles all him sulostance: and this law was enforced ufler the bloondy Avizes with a rigor at onse ermel and haliarous. The broken-hemeterl widows and destitute orphans of the latroring men whose corpmes hang th the eross-romis were callod mum by the ugente of' the 'Transury to explain what huil he come of a lasket, of a gorese, of a tlle hof Imeon, of hay,-Micimiay's Eng., (hl. it.
4.10. AVARICE, Supremacy of. rimferlirutes. It is a mulbjert of extmorilimary rimark, flat. the etruggle for our indeyendence shombl lanve In'an witended by the irnoble riremmenners of $u$ remmereinl merendafion for the South un-
 War invarinbly excites avarice and specailation; it is the active promotar of rapid fortunes and corrupt commercin] pructices. . . [Thls.] the only serious blot which defined our struggle for independenes, was, nt lenst to some extent, the crenture of ciremmstances; aml lant is lost ili in the lastre of arms and virtues shed on He South in the most subline trinds of the war.
 ch, 9, p. $23 \%$.
44. AWE, Effect of. Promion Hing Sispor ... as lue pased buder the walls of Ampla, resolval to try whother the majesty of his presence would not awe the garrison into immodinte submission. The sucrilegrous insult of a rauloma dart, which ghanerd ngainst the roynd tara, convinced him of his error. - Cibmon's Rome, ch. 19.
442. AWE, sllence of. Buttle of the Nile. [At the batlle of the Nile the l'orient, of one hundreal and iwenty guns, nftor lurning inn hour, blew ups.] When the explosion came, there was an uwful silence. For ten minntes not is gun was fired on cither side. The instinct of self-preservation, as well as the sudalen awe on this sublime event, prolluced this panse in the luttle.-KNiarr's ENa., vol. 7, clı. 20.
443. AWKWARDNESS and Agility. The Poet Shelley. Hogg gives some detuils $\therefore$. . of Shelley's personnl nppearance. . . . "There were many striking contrnsts in the character and belavior of Shelley-of the clumsy with the graceful. IIe woulid stumble in stepping across the floor of a drawing-room; he would trip himself up on a smooth-shaven grass-plot, and kure of a well lared fontman: on the cont mors he wenlil ofterl gilide whloult rollivion themigh 4 crowded assembly, tremil with meriong dov.

 Ways."-NyMonom" Nublisix, ilf. D.

AB. BACHELORS dinoarded. firmeh berelle. tion. A.b. 1704. T'ies Nutlonnd ('onventlen now jropmred mosther eonsiltathon for the mbopifon United Ntates. Tha Ilrat, correspumalligg to the United Sintes Sumite, whes to lus rimleal the (innuril of the durionta. It whato comalat of twa hondred and lifty members, mall of whom was to be nt logat forty yemte of ugo, und n murried man or widower. Su untmuried mant was thot comaldered worthy of a just of such reaponsilif. Ity In the vervice if the State. - I sinerra's Ninot. Lkow 13., vol. 1, ch. is.

AS6. BACHELORS forced to marry, limme. [Cmmillus was enllet the seromil fommler at teome. He wis for athe renvor, mothce of qrent dignity.] flare is upon recoril a vory Finidable net of his, that took phace during his offlee:. As the wars lund mule many widows, bo ohliged such of the men as lived single, partly by persinmion, and purlly liy threntening then whin fleses, to murry those widown.- I lat TABCII.
446. BACHELORS punished. Spurta. [lycurgus tho lnwgiver. 1 To rmeonruge murringe, some marks of Infamy were net ipon those that continucd bachelors. For they were not permitted to sec the exerelses of the maked virgins ; and the magiatrutes commanded them to mareh maked romid the market-place In the whoter, und to sing a song composcel ngalist thomedres, which expresued how justly they werd punished for their disobedience to the liws. They were also deprived of that honor and respect which the younger people paid to the old. . . [Note.] The time of marringe whe flxed; and if a man did not marry when he was of fall nge, he was linble to aprosecution, as were such niso who murried nosve or below themselves. Such ns lud three ehildren had grent immunities; nud those that had four were free from all taxes. Virgins were marred without porsions, becnuse neither want should hinder a man, nor riches induce him, to marry contrary to his incllantions. -Plutancit's Livies.
447. BALDNESS, Illustrated by. E'mp. Carus. His mmbnsandors entered the enmp abont shaset, at the time when the troops were sutisf ying their hunger with a frugnl rephet. The Persinns expressed their desire of being introduced to the presence of the lRoman emperor. They were at length condreted to a soldier, who was sented on the grass. A picce of stale bacon and a few hard peas composed his supper. A coarse woollen garment of purple was the only circumstance that announced his dignity. The conference was conducted with the same disregard of courtly elegance. Carus, taking off a cap which lhemselven mastire of the whole conintry enst of tho Nt. ('rols. 'foce war lin Aromila was nt nin "and; lint whin shanill In donne with the people?

A.A. BANISHMENT, Inhuman, Ircuelif. In "'amjuiku of lowa thon a month, mind whot a

flie mext atep on tho purt of the linglish manal the surrember of all thedr threarms mad buats. To this meusure the hroken-luenrted jersrofinsell, they minst now take the comscopereres. Tho Ibritinh vessals wore immie rendy, med thes work of forcilile embmiknlion legna. Tho comatry around the fishtums wis rovered with priacefind hambers. 'These were now lind waste, num the people diriven finco tho lirger owns on the const. Othors were falured hy urtithee nud Irenchery to put themselves fn the power of tho English. Whercever asntlleident number of the French could be getien togethir they were divivin on shipoonral. They were allowed to take their wives and chaldren mad as much property us would not be inconveniant on the vesmala. That estates of the province were contlisented, mal what cond not be npproprinted was givin to the thanes. The wails of thousambes of bleeding henrts were wafted to herven with the smoke of "rning homas. At the village of (irmal l'e Nova Sootin] four hundred nind eighteen men were called together nad slat wj) in o (hureh. Then came the wives nind chidren, the ohd men mind the mothers, the sick mind the intlrm, to share the common fute. The whole compminy numbercel more than ninoteen hundred souls. The poor creatures were driven down to tho shore, foreed into the bonts at the point of the biyonet, and earifed to the vessels in the bny. Xs the moaning fugitives cast a last book nt thoir plensant town, 1 eolumn of bluck smoke llonting senward told the atory of desshation. More than three thousand of the lapless Areatimas were corrien awny ly the British sfundron nod sentared, helpless, malf-starval, and dyiag, nmong the English colonies. The listory of civilized mations furnishes an parallel to this wnnton, wieked destruction of m inoifensive colony.-RIDPATI's U. S., ch. 32.

44. BANKERS plunder. Jercs. The share tnken by the Jews in the business of bunking wis one strong canse why it continued so long to be in disestecm. To trade in money was considered as little else than to cheat, and accordingly we find that many of the princes of Europe looked upon the fortunes amassed by the Jews as a sort of lawful plinder, and made no scrupie to despoil them of their property whenever a public cmergency reanitral a speraly supply of money. Thum, In Einglund, Kilng John linprisonoed the Jowa, fit orilar to forco is alseoviery of thelr wenth; nud many of thomennfortumate wrotelom, whos would not revenl their trensuren, ware jintsinlied whth tho lome of thedr eyow. Bhit theme grliev.
 for reprose the apirit of cont nereo, cemtributent lin this fintanco very materinlly to its mivnomernent.
 minde on their property, the Jows lavinited bilis lalnlag everywhere its grommal ; fur morehonits conlil now ronvert thelr efferts fito pujer, intil thum easily trunaport them wherever they thoughit projer. - Ty'tien'n IIfat., Book ty, ch. 17.

450. BANKERS, Projudioed agalnat. Iticlion Morchinte. [Called lambintile fin varlonde dites merchants for tho importation ind exelange of commoditles, lint ns binkers or money denders ; thoughin this lust brunch of busluexs they fomid H lienvy restralat in tho lilens of the thases. I'lio cnnon lnw, procecdlng tpon in atrlet interprotathon of thone passigen of Nerlptura whileh dondemn the taking of usiory, was mlverses to the constom of deminding even tho most monderute interent for tho une of money ; and henco the bunking trmbo of these Lombind merchants, whos very inturnlly thonght themselves entitloil lon prembin for the loan of thelr money, fell nineler the consure of the ebureh, und began to be deemed unlnwfinl. They were obliged, therefore, to corry on thelr buslness as Innkers to great disadvintage. Thedr burgains wero mecessurily keps prlvite, and consequently thelr exnetlons, being arblitary, were ofton mont exorbithnt and frubdulent.-'TYTLER's llist., Book 6, cl. 17.
461. BANERUPTCY predicted. Great Britain. Lord Iyttelton, in 1739 ; Iord Bolinghoroke, in 1745 ; David Inme, in 1761 ; Adam Smith, in 1776; Dr. Price, in 1777; Lord Stair, in 1783 ; each honestly belleved that England was fast appronching the condition of inevitable lnankruptey. In 1784 Marshall Conwny wrote: "The sums spent in losfing Amerlenare a blow we shall never recover."-KNignt's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 1, p. 2.
452. BANQUET, Extravagant, Court of $R \prime \prime s$ sia. [Nnpoleon's ambassador arrived from Frunce.] Every day brought new fêtes . . . I will mentlon one. . . At a mupper given ufter a Imall int the Embinssy, a plate of the pears cost five hundreal and iffty dollurs. On nother oecosion cherries, whili had been purchased at the price of eighty conts, were served as abundintly as thougli they had cost not more thinn twenty cents the pound. [Such was the comperition in extravagnnee between the two courts. Nnpoleon said when he heard of it :] "Such extruvngninces are only to be expected of nadmen or fools." Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 2, ch. 2.
453. BAPTISM proorastinated, Conrerts. Among the proselytes of Christinnity, there were many who judged it imprudent to precipitate n salutary rite, which could not be repeated; to throw away an inestimable privilege, which could never be recovered. By the delay of their baptism, they could venture freely to indulge thele pasmons In the enjoymenta of thle worla, while thoy still rotulnod la thoir own hamles tho Itomb, clı. : 0 .
431. BAPTIST, Pioneor, Ilmer Willioma, \|! prer Willinms lwilanged to that mant riblicul Tunly of diswontars rolloul Ambingista, By thoma thu: villility of liffunt lupilamin wis donied. Wil.

 hanl mulergonn at change during lils minial ry in sulous. Nuw that he lind froed hinmedf fromin ill forelgn nuthority loith of Chureh ame Ntita, has tistis. But who should perforin the crorconomy? Wineklel Ifolliman, a layman, wis melertal for tho hlan und ten other exlles of tho colony. Sionli Was the urgankation of the flrme lhatiat charch

455. BARBARITY to Animaln. Hore'w. fll us it muy uperir, the "tharburons "ustum" of plonghlug, burrowing, drawing, mad worklng, with hormes hy the lill was mot explodelol tit Cinsthobur amel ohber places.- livioutr's Fixa., vol. 7, eh. 2, 1) 12.

A56. BARBER8, Surgical. E"uglionfl. [Ja 154\% tho murgeons mejurited from the burbuer-wirtroth, ind bleal, nind ntfetoptend cures. . . In 15.10 the I wo compunles were multed tyy statute. -KNuartin ENo., vol, 2, eh. 20, j. 408.

A57. BARGAIN, Foolioh. Nt. Thomuts Thtian. [Colimbins tirst voynge.] On one ocrommin un Indinn gave lanf n lumelfing of gold-dant In ex. ehminge for one of these toys, mind mo moener was he fin pessessalon of It t'unt he hemmaled awny tor the wools, looking often hehind hin, fenring the Spmainrels maght repent of having purteal sw cherply with such nul inesthmble jewel.-Inv. ing'n Columine, Book 4, ch. 6.

45母. BASENE8s, Matrlmonial. II'nry JTII. [Henry VIII, murvied Jume Seymonr tho next thy nfter the olllifal marder of Anme Boleyn. Me looked upon matrimony ns in indifferent oftheinl net which hisduty reanired nt the moment. This is the apology of the politicul philosepher.] - Knight's Eingiand, vol. 2, ch. 23, 1. 3is.

AB9. BATH8, Common. Romen. Fullowing the liomuns through the urdinury ocenputions of the dny, it whe customary for them to go from the porticos or the thantre to lake the Inth. Water, which in the more frigul days of the republie was uned only for the mecessary purposes of life, was not bronght to Rome by urpueducts till the 441 st yemp of therity. . . . It soon lecernse one of the clisef articles of laxury, to supply as well the pullice an the private biths, and many aqueducts wore nceorlingrly built und publie resservoirs and fomntains renred in every fuarter of the eity. This luxury increased to such a degree that, under Angustus, there were seven hanitred lasins, a hondred and five fountains, and a hundred nad thirty public reservoirs, all adornell in the most sumptuous manner, with columns, statues, and basso-relievos. To superintend these became an oftlee of considerable dignity and emolument, and under the emperors was filled mostly by men of the tirst rank.--TvTlen's Hist., leek 4, ch. 4.
460. BATHS, Magnificent. Romma. Thestupendous apuednets, so juxtly cedromated hy the praises of Augustus himself, replenishod the Therme, or baths, which had berol construrted In every part of the rity, with inmorial magniticence. 'The baths of Antomims Camana, which were open, at stated hou", for the indiseriminate service of the semators and the people, contained above sixteren hundred seats of mirble, and more than three thonsand were reckoned in the taths of Diocletian. The walls of the lofty npartments were covered with eurions mosaics, that imitated the art of the pencil in the elemance of design and the variety of colors. The Egyptian granite was beantifully incrusted with the precions green murble of Numidia ; the perpetimal strem of hot water was poured into the rapacious basins, through so many wide months of bright and massy silver; und the mennest Roman could parchase, with a small copper coin, the daily enjoyment of a seene of pomp and haxary which might excite the en'y of the kings of $\Lambda$ sin. From these stately palares issuch a swarm of dirty and ragged plebeians, without shoes and without a mante, who loitered away whole days in the strect or Forum to hear news and to hold disputes; who dissipated, in extravia rant gaming, the miscrable pittanse of their wives and children, and spent the hours of the night in obseure averns and brothels, ith the indulgence of grows and vulgar sensuality,-G1bmox's Rome, ch. 31, p. 262.
461. BATtLE, Bloodless, In Armor. [ $\mathrm{I}_{\mathrm{i}} 1119$ the battle of Noyon, or Bremeville, was fought in France] The battle was not a sanguinary one, and was remarkable for the comparative safety widh whith the horsemen in complete harness encountered ench other. Ordericus says: "In the battle between the two kings, in which nearly nine humbied knights were enguged, I hatve ascertained that only three were slain. This arose from their being entirely covered with steed armor, and mutually sparing each other for the fear of God mid out of regard for the fraternity of ams. Kinigit's Evg., vol. 1, ch. 17, p. 211 .
462. $\qquad$ Fort simter. [After a vig. orons bombardment for two days by the Confederates, the harracks took fire.] Major Anderson agreed to an unconditional surrender . . . on leaving the fort he was permitted to salute his llag with fifty gims, the performance of which was attended with the melancholy occurrence of mortal injuries to four of his men by the bursting of 1 wo camon. There was no other life lost ia the whole affair. . . . It was estimated two thous:mad shots had been fired in all. . . yet not a life had been lost nor a limb) injured. - Pos-

493. Battle, Bloody, Buttle of Torton. When Margaret [of Anjou], who had now set her husband at liberty, prepared to enter London in trimmph, she fomid the gates of the city shat against her. Young Edward, the eldest son of the late Duke of York, had begun to repair the losses of his party. Londen had declared in his favor, and proclaimed him king by the title of Edward IV. Margaret of Anjou, whose gleatness of eunl was superior to all of her misfort-

Wes, retrented to the north of England, where she found memens to assemble un army of $\mathbf{6 0 , 0 0 0}$ men. Warwiek met her nt the heme of 40,0000 , at Towtom, on the lorders of Yorkshire. An ringugement ensmed-one of the boodiest and most desprate that is recorded in the English history. Thirty-six thousmad men were left dead upon the ficli; Warwiek gained a complete victory, ly which the young Edwarl was fixed upon the throne, and the vampuished Margaret, with her hashuad [1temry VI.] and infant som, took refuge in Flamlers.-'TyThen's IIsst., Book b, (d. 14, p. 20.
464. Battle, Cry in. Bittle of Niosoby. If any ficld could have been won hy passion ulone, Rupert would have won not only Naseby, but many another field ; bat we know that, as passion is one of the most frail elements of our nature, so Rupert was one of the most frail of men. At the head of his Cavaliers, in white sash and phane, he indeed flamed in billiant gallantry over the fichl, shouting, "Queen Mary 1 Queen Mary !" while the more rongh, unknightly soldiers thmadered, "God is with us! God is with us!". . "God is with us !" struck like light over his soldiars' hents, like lightning over his enemics. What was there in the poor cry, "Queen May!" (and surch a Mary!) to kindle feelings like that!-Hoom's Chomwlis, ch. 10 .
465. BATTLE, Decisive. Buttle of Charonea. The Macerlonian army amounted to 30,000 foot and 2000 horse ; that of the A thenians and their allies was nearly copad in number. The left wing of the Macedonians was commanded by the young Alexander, and it was his fortune to be opposed by that body of the Thebans called the sacred bund; the courage of the combatints on both side was, therefore, influmed by at high princijple of Lonor. The attack of Atexander was impethous bryond all description, but was sustained with the most determined bravery on the part of the Thehans; and had the courage and conduct of their allies given them an adenfate support, the fortune of the day would probably have been fatal to the Macedonians; but, unaided by the timely ro-operation of the: main borly of the Greeks, the sucered band were left alone to sustain this desperate assanlt, and they fonght till the whole of these noble Thebans lay dead upon the fiedd. The Athenians, bowever, on their part, had made a most vigorons attack ou the eentre of the Macedonian army, and broke and jut to tighit a great body of the enemy. Philip, it the head of his formidable phalinx, was not engaged in the fight. but coolly withhed his attack till he sulw the Grecks parsning their success against the centre with a tummlnoms impethosity. He then charged them in the rear with the whole strength and solidity of his phalime opposed to their deranged and disorderly battations. The aspect of affairs was now guite clanged, and the Gredian army, after a desperate contlict, was broken and entirely put to flight. . . . This decisive engagement, which, in its immediate conseruences, put an end to the liberties of Grece, was fought in the year 338 before Christ.-Tytler's IIst., Book 2, ch. 3.
466. BATTLE, Disparity in. Battle of Arbela. Alexander . . . passing the Tigris and Euphrates without opposition, (ame $u_{p}$ ) with the Persian monareh [Darius] at the head ci 700,000 men, near to the village of Arbela. . the Macelonan army did aot exceed 40,000 men. It was towarl the close of the day when they came in sight of the prodigious host of the Persians, which extended over an immense plain to the utmost distance that the eye could reach. Even some of Alexander's bravest offeers were uppalled with this sight.

The attack was made at daybreak with ar. ardor uad impetussity on the part of the Groels which, in the first onset, threw the foremosi ramks of the Persian army back in confusion upon the main body, und completely restrained amb remalered ineffectual its operations. Disorder, once begun, was propagated like an electrical shoek through the whole mass, and the decisive victory wats purchased [with it loss not exereding 1200 Macedonians. The l'ersian loss wasestimated at 300,00 )]. - TyTheen's II Lst., Book 2, ch. 4.
467. Battle, A Famous. Mrerathon. The Spartans delayed to mareli, from an absurd superstition of leginning no enterprise till after the full moon. The Xthenians, therefore, may be said to have stood alone to repel this torrent. The amount of their whole army was only 10,000 men; the army of the Persians [under Darius] consisted of 100,000 foot and 10,000 horse-n vast inequality. Miltiades drew up his little army at the foot of a hill, which covered both the flanks, and frustrated all attempts to surround him. They knew the alternative was victory or death, and that all depended on a vigorous effort to be made in one moment; for a lengthened conflict was sure destruction. The Greeks, therefore, laying aside all missile weapons, trusted everything to the sword. At the word of command, instead of the usual diveharge of javelins, they rusbed at once upon the enemy with the most desperate impetuosity. The disorder of the Persians, from this furious and unexpected assault, was instantly perceived by Miliades, and improved to their destruction ly a charge male by both the wings of the Athenian army, in which with great judgment he had placed the best of his troops. The army of the Persians was broken in a moment; their immense numbers increased their confusion, and the whole were put to flight. A great enrnage ensued. Six thousand three hundred were left dead on the field of Marathon. The Athenians, in this day of glory, lost only 190 men. The Spartans canc the day after the battle to witness the triumph of their rival State.-Tythea's IIst., Book 2 , ch. 1.
468. - Mantinea. The Spartan troops had been suddenly called off from Mantinca to defend their city. Epmminondas now attempted, by a rapid march, to surprise and seize Mantinen; but in the mean time its garrison hat been re-enforced by an Athenian army, which met the Thebans in front, on their ap;proach to the town, while the Spartans, aware of their clesign, were following close upon their rear. An engagement now ensued, one of the most celebrated in the Grecian history. The army of the Thelans amounted to 30,000 foot and 3000 horse ; that of the Lacedremonians and their allies to 20,000 foot and 2000 horse. The baitle was fought with the most desperate cournge on both sides. [The Thebans were victorious, but were undone by the death of Epaminondas, whom ancient historians ranked]. . . among the greatest heroes und most illustrions characters of mitiquity.-TyTLEn's IHsT., Book 2 , ch. 3.
469. battle, A great. Austerlitz. [On December 2d, 1805, between nearly 100,000 French under Bonaparte und quite us many Austrians and Russians under their emperors. It has been considered Bonaparte's most glorions vietory. He took 40,000 prisoners, and the allies left from 12,000 to 15,000 on the tield.]-KNight's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 25, p. 450.
470.

- Buttle of Cressy. [Ellward HI., King of England, damed the vacant throne of France by inheritance in right of his mother, the sister of Churles the 'a!? Edward, lanting in France with the is... , the nobility of England, and his son, "tit" from the color of his armor, the Blatk iart. then a youth of tifteen years of age, ran a caw.re che most glorions exploits. The opulent city of Caen in Normandy was taken and plandered, and the English were extemeling their depredations almost to the gates of Paris, whee Philip appeared in their tront with an army of 100,0040 men. $\qquad$ ment which Enghish archers began the engag to whom they were opposed into the utmost con fusion, the Prince of Wales, taking advantage of their tismny, attarked them with irresistible impetuosity. The king, who commmuled a body of reserve, was determined to allow his intrepid son the honor of the day ; he kept aloof from the fight, which was matintained on hoth sides with the most desperate courage. [The French were defented.] Thirty thousama were left dead on the spot. Among these were John, King of Bohemia; Ralph, Huke of Lorraine, and a great part of the nobillty of France.-TyTLekis IInst., Book 6, ch. 12.

471.     -         - Ayincourt. On pretence of recovering the ancient patrimony of the crown of Enghand, Henry [IV.] made a deseent on Normanly with marmy of 50,000 men. He took the tower of Harlleur, and carried devastation into the country. A contagious distemper arrested his progress and destroyed three fourths of his army, and in this deplorable condition, with about 9000 effective troops, he was met ly the Constable D'Albret, at the head of 60,000 men. In this situntion a retreat was attempted by the English, but they were harassed by the enemy, anil compelled to come to an engagement on the phain of $A$ gincourt. On that day the English arms obtained a signal triumph. The French were so contident of success, that they made a proposal to the English about sirrendering, and begran to trat for the ransom of their prisoners. Henry observed in their immense army the remissness and relaxation which commonly attend a grent superiority of numbers. He led on his little hand to meet them in order of battle. The French stood for a considerable space of time, and beleld this fecble foe with indignation and contem: ${ }^{-}$. "Come on, my friends," said Henry ; "since they seorn to attack us, it is ours to show them the example. Come on, and the blessed Trinity be our protection.". . The French were broken, dispersed, and entirely eut to pieces. The mumber of the slain amounted to 10,000 , and 14,000 were taken prisoners. The loss of the English in the victory of Apincourt is said not to have exceeded 40 men-a fact bordering upon the Incredible.-Tythen's IIsst., Book 6, ch. 13 .
472.     - Blenhein. A.n. 1704. Fiftysix thousand Allies under the Dake of Marlhorough and Prince Eugene, nud 60,000 French and Buvarians under Marshal Tallard, nided hy his fellow-general Marsin. The Allies won the battle, tuking 12,000 prisoners. They lost 11,000 killed and wounded, Total loss of Freneh and Bavarians, in killed. wounded, prisoners, and deserters, 40,000 .-Knight's Eixa., vol. ©, ch. 18, p. 285.
473. $\qquad$ Jena. [On the 14th of Ortober, $1806,250,000$ men were engaged, with 700 pieces of camon. Bonaparte defented the Prussians, 20,000 being killed or wounded and above 30,000 taken prisoners. Their king, Frederick Willian III., thed from the tielal. J-Kinuat's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 27.
474.     - With Enthen. [Frederick II. of Prussia, with 30,000 men, attacked 80,000 Austrinns.] The Austrians fought bravely, but the genius of the Prussian leader gave him a mighty victory, which Nipoleon satid was of itself suffleient to place Frederick in the rank of the greatest generals. [Fought at Leuthen, 1757.]-Kniout's Enc., vol. 6, ch. 15, p. 231.
475. $\qquad$ Navarino. [The British, French, und Russian fleets met the Turkish and Egyptian tleets in the port of Navarino, and after four hours' lattle one half of the 120 men-of-war and transports were sunk, burnt, or driven on shore.]-Knight's Eva., vol. 8, eh. 12, 1. 227.
476.     -         - The Nile. [Battle of the Nile, fought on August 1, 1798. The number of the ships in the two fleets was nearly equal. The French lost the battle; nine sail of the line were taken and two burned. Only two French line-of-battle ships and two frigntes escaped.]Kniait's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 20, p. 357.
477.     - with Rossbach. [Frederick II. of Prassia, with 22,000 men, at Rosslach met 40,000 French and 20,000 Gernans.] Never was victory more complete. The French and the Imperial troops vied with ench other in the swiftness of their flight. They left 7000 prisoners, guns, colors, baggage-all that could manifest the extent of their humiliation.Knigit's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 15, p. 230.
478. --. Trafalyar. [Under Admiral Lord Nelson was a British tleet of twenty-seven ships-of-the-line and four frigates. The French and Spaniards had opposed to him thirty-three ships-of-the-line and seven frigates, twenty of which struck their colors. Nelson was killed in the baltle.]-Kivigut's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 25.
479.     - At Ulm. On the 20th of October [1805] 30,000 [Austrians], with 60 pieces of camnon, marched out of the fortress and laid down their arms [to Bonaparte].Knight's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 25.
480. $\qquad$ Victoria. [Fought by 20,000 Spanish and 70,000 British and Portuguese under the Duke of Wellington against the French. Wellington described the result in his despatches.] I have taken from them 151 pieces of cannon, 415 wagons of ammunition, all their baggage provisions, matte, trasmre, ete., and n considerable mumber of prisoners.-KNignt's Eva., vol. 7, ch. 31, p. 562.
481. $\qquad$ Wiagram. [Between 300,000 and 400,000 troops chagaged on the 6th of July, 1809. Twenty-four thousand Anstrians and 18,000 French are sad to lave been killed and wounded.] - Kivion't's Exa., vol. 7, ch. 29, p. 516 .
482.     - Winterioo. [Fought June 18, 181:; ; ahout $1: 00,0,00$ men, nearly equally divided, were in the two armies. Wellington commanded the Allies und gave Napoleon his flmal defeat. 'Tle Allies lost 24,679. The French lost 18,500 killed or womnded, and 7800 prisoners. - KNight's Ena., vol. 8, ch. 2, p. 37.
483. battle, Ineffective. Island No. 10. The bombardmeut. . . eommenced on the 1ith of March [1862] . . . General Beauregard tolegraphed to the War Department at Richmond ... on the 1st of April . . . that the bombardment had continued for fifteen days, in which time the enemy had thrown 3000 shells, expending about 100,000 pounds of powder, with the result onourside of one man killed and none seriously wounded... that our batteries were intact-Poliahd's Fhest Year of the War, ch. 12, p. 291.
484. Battle, Preparation for, Battle of Hastings. The 13th of October was occupied in these negotiations, urd at night the duke [William] amounced to his men the next day would be the day of buttle. That night is said to have been passed by the two armies in very different manners. The Sixon soldiers spent it in joviality, singing their national songs and draining huge horns of ale and wine around their campfires. The Normans, when they had looked to their arms and horses, confessed themselves to the priests, with whom their camp was thronged, and received the sacmment by thousands at a time. On Saturday, the 14 th of October, was fought the great bittle. [The English were de-feated.]-Decisive Batties, § 306.
485. BATTLE, Religion in. Siege of Damascus. At the principal gate, in the sight of both armies, a lofty crucifix was erected; the bishop, with his clergy, accompanied the march, and laid the volume of the New Testament before the image of Jesus; and the contending parties were scandalized of edified by a prayer that the Son of Goll would defend His servants and vindicate II is truth. The hattle raged with incessant fury. [The city was taken.]-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 51.
486. battle, Terrific. Ifobile Bay. In the beginniug of August, 1864, Admimal Farragut bore down with in powerful spuadron upon the defences of Molile. The entrance to the harbor of this city was commanded on the left by Fort Gaines and on the right hy Fort Morgan. The harbor was defended by a Confederate nleet and the monster iron-clad ram Tennessee. On the 5th of August Farragut prepared for lattle, and ran past the forts into the harbor. In order to direct the movements of his vessels, the brave old admiral mounted to the maintop of his flag. ship, the Hartford, lashed himself to the rigging, and from that high perch gave his commands during the battle. One of the Union ships struck a torpedo and went to the botom. The rest ittacked and dispersed the Confederate spiandron; but just as the lmy seemed won, the terrible Tennessec came down int full speed to strike and sink the Hartford. The latter avoided the blow ; and then followed one of the tiereest uttacks of the war. The irom-clats closed around their black antagonist, and battered her with their beaks and tifteen-ineln bolts of iron until she surrembered. Two days afterward Fort Gaines was taken, and on the 2:3d of the month Fort Morgan was obliged to eapitulate.Ridpatios U. S., ch. 66.
487. BATTLE, A useless. Néo Orlerens. [The battle of New Orlemes was fought after the trenty of peace had been signed at Ghent, the news of which arrived soon after.]-KNioure's Everland, vol. 8 , ch. 1 .
488. BATTLEFIELD, Fruliful. "Blwel fitte'led." [The battletiedd where Marius destroyed the Tentones was ruriched with the blood of the burbarians.] The Massilians walled in their vineyards with the bones they foumd in the field; and . . . the rain which fell the winter following, soaking in the moisture of the pitrefied bodies, the ground was so enriched by it, that it produced the next season a prodigions crop. Thus the opinion of Archilochus is confirmed, that fields dere fiattened rith bleoth.-Pıe. tarcie's Maries.
489. Batti is, Decisive. F'ifteen. [Mamthon, Syracuse, Arbela, Metaurus, victory of Arminius over the Roman legrions under Varus, Chalons, Tours, IIastings, Orleans, defeat of the Spanish Armada. Blenheim, Pultowa, Saratogn, Valma, Waterloo.]-See Creasy's Fifteen Dec. Battien.
490. BEARD, A significant. Walter $S c$ ot $t$. About the middle of the sisteenth century lived Sir Walter's great-grandfather, Walter Scott, generally known in Teviotala by the surmame of Beardic, becanse he wond never cut his beard after the banishment of the Stharts, and who tooh arms in their cause and lost by his intrigues on their behalf almost all that he had, besides running the grea st risk of being hanged as a traitor.-Hutton's Life of Scott, ch. 1.
491. BEARDS, Characteristic, Lombards. Inst d of asserting the rights of a sovereign for the rotection of his subjects, the emperor invited strange people to invade and possess the Ron 1 provinces between the Danube and the Alps and the ambition of the Gepidie was checked by the rising power and fame of the Lombards. This corrupt appellation had been ditfused in the thirteenth century by the merchants and bankers, the Italian posterity of these savage warriors ; but the origimal name of fanyobards is expressive only of the peculiar length and fashion of their beards.-Gibbos's Rome, ch. 42 .
492. BEAUTY, Common, Jetrine. The county of Flanders was. . . amexed to the rrown of France. A few months later Philip [IV.] and his consort, attended by a brilliant court, made a sumptuous progress through the chief cities of the conquered provinee. The Flemings . . . welcomed their new sovereign with lively demonstrations of joy. . .. An entertainment given at Bruges was especially distinguished by the radiani beauty and rich attire of the female nobility: "I thought I was the only quern here," exclamed the rovions Jemme of Navare: "bat I tind myself surroumed on all sides by queens." -S'redents' Fuance, ch. 9, s. 14, p. 151.

49B. BEAUTY, Personal. Matomet. Decord. ing to the tradition of his companions, Mahomet was distingrished by the benuty of his person, an out ward gitt which is sehdom ilespised, except by those to whom it has been relised. IBefore he spoke, he omator engaged on his side the affortions of " pablic or private audience. Thoy applanded his commanding preseme, his majestic aspect, his piercing eyr, his gracions smile, his flowing brath, his cointemance that painted every sensution of the somb, and his gevtures that enfored each expression of the tongue-Giabus's ROME, (Ch. 50.
49.1. BEAUTY, Promoted by. (icorye lillieis. [The first introduction of George Villiers to Inmes l. was purely from the bematy of his person. The history of Englame to the enid of this reign is in great part the persomal history of George Villiers, the mbenturer.] First the cop-hemer ; in a fus werks knirhted; without any other qualification he was at the same time made Gentheman of the Bedehamber and Knight of the Orter of the Gartar ; mad in a short time he was made a baron, a viscount, an carl, a martuis, and became Lord IIigh-Admirn of Enghand, Lord Warden of the (in : we ports, Master of the LIorse, and entirely disposed of all the graces of the king. in conferring all the honors nad all the oftices of three kingroms, withont it rival.Knight's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 23, p. $36+$.
495. BEAUTY, Self-asserted. Syllic. Lucullus tells us when Sylla was sent at the head of an army ugainst the confederates, the earth opened on a sudden near Laverna; and . . . a vast quantity of fire and a flame. . . shot up to the heavens. The soothsayers being consulted upon it, made answer, "That a person of courage and superior beauty should take the reins of government into his hands and suppress the tumults with which Rome was then agitated." Sylla siys he was the man; for his locks of gold were sutlicient proof of his beauty, and that he needed not hesitate after so many great artions to avow himself a man of courage.-Plutaincits Srifal.
496. BEER, Antiquity of. Germuns. Strong beer, a lipuor extracted with very little art from wheat or harley, and corrupted (as it is strongly expressed by Tacitus) into a certain semblance of wine, was sufficient for the gross purposes of German debanchery. But those who hiad tasted the rich wines of Italy, and afterward of (iaml, sigher for that more delicious species of intoxi-cation.-Gimbon's Roms, ch. 9.
197. BEGGAR, An honorable, Mreti, luther. life relatives, one of whom was sexton of the church of St. Nicholas, were prombly not in the position to assist him for any great length of time. He was therefore obliged, as a charity scholar, to appeal to the common sympathy of all men, as he hal already done in Magilelourg. In later years he himself says: " Do not despise the boys that go from house to house asking bread for the sake of God and singing the 'breadchorus.' I also was one of those 'bread-colts,' and begged bread at the doors, especially in Eisenach, that dear city."-Rein's Lu"'iner, ch. 2.

19*. BEGGAR, A literary. Reign of Charlis II. The recompense which the wits of that age could ohtain from the public was so suabl, that they were under the neressity of cking out their incomes hy levying contributions on the great. Every rich mud grod-matured tord was pestered by muthors with amomdicancy so importumate, mad a flattery sor nlojert, as may in our time seem incerelible. The patron to whom a work was inscribed was expected to reward the writer with a purse of gold. The fee paid for the dediention of a hook was ofteln much larerer than the sam which any bookveller would give for the copyright. Books ware therefore often printed merely that they might he dealiented. This tratlice in praise completed the degradation of the literary charncter. Adubation pushed to the verge, sometimes of monsense, mad somotimes of impieiy, was not thought to disgrace a port. Independence, veracity, self-respert, were things not expected by the world from him. In trith, he was in morals something bet weren a pander and a beggar.-Macavhay's line., ch. is.
499. BEGGARS, Malicious. E'ugltucl. [In 1545 the wandering begegars cut off the pars of people, burnt frames of timber prepared for the erection of ithuiding, cut the heads of ponds and conduits ; bumt carts laden with chareoal ; set tire to heaps of felled woul ; barked npple mul pear trees, and cut ont the tongues of eatile.] —KNigir's ENa., vol. 2, ch. 2s, p, 47t.
500. BEGGARS, Professional. Mohlis. In the first century of their institution, the inficlel Zosimms has maliciously olnse ved, that. for the benetit of the poor, the Christim, monks lad reduced a great part of mankind to at stute of beggary.-Gibuon's Rome, ch. BJ.
501. BEGGARS punished. Whippet. [Those who solicited alms without liconse were to be whipped und set in the stocks.] [3ut if any person being whole in body and able to labor was found begging, every sineh idle person was to a ohipped at the end of a cart, and anjoined to return to the place where he was born, or where he last dwelt for three yours, and there put himself to labor ns a true man owcth to do. He was to beg his way home ; but if he wandered from the preseribed way, or waceded the preseribed times in his perilois journey, he was in every place to loe taken and whipped. Jinuin's ENa., vol. 2, ch. ${ }_{2} 1$, 1. 342.
502. - Sharery. [From 1384 to the whip was added to the stocks. Theres. Then the whip was added to the stocks. In 1036 the whip was amild punishment, to whieh mutilation and death were supplemented. But cren the eart's tail, the buteher's knif(e, mal the hamer man's noose inspired no alequate alread. . . . In $1545 .$. it is provided that every man or woman, not being prevented from work by old nge, lameness, or disease, who shall be foind loitering or Wandering, and not seeking work during three days, or who shall leave work when engraged, mity be lawfully apprehended and be brought before two justices of the peace; who, upon confession, or the proof of two witnesses, shall immediately canse the said loiterer to be marked with a loot iron in the breast, the mark of $V$, and adjudge the suid person, living so idly, to be his slave. The presentor, as he is called, is to have and hold the slave for iwo years; and, only giving him bread and water and refuse food, to "amse the sad slave to work, hy benthing, chaning, or otherwise." [If he runs uway, after couviction, he slatl lue branded on the forehead or bull of the choek with :a hot fron, making an $S$; he is then to be aslave for lifo. If he runs away the secome time, he is to sulfur death as a felon. Infant begrgars may he honnd to the service of any person who will take them-the males till they are twonty-fome and the females till they
 (l). $2 \alpha_{1}$ p, 4 4 ).
5083. BEGGARS, Scheme for. ('ı" $1 /$ R"mpind. Bavaria was then infested with leeggurs, vagabonds, and thieves, mative and foreign. These mondieant tramps were in the main stont, henthy, mul able-bodied fellows, who found in life of thievish imboleme pleasanter than a lifo of honest work. "These detestable vermin had recourse to the most diaboliand urts and the most horrial crimes in the proserntion of their infumous trude." They robbed, they stole, nuimed mad exposed little children, so as to extruct money from the tender-hemert. All this must be put an end to. Fomr regiments of cavalry wore so eantoned that cerery vilage had its patrol. This disposition of the cavalry was anteredent to seizing, as a begrinning, all the beggars in the capital. [At Munich he established a patuper workhouse, well ordered, clean, and gave inst ruction and encommarment. It paid expenses. and relieved the govermment and helped the poor.]-TyNDALi's Col'Nt Rramond.
504. BEGINNING, Discouragement at the, Pilgrims. On Momlay, the 11 th of Decemberold style 1620 -the liligrim Fathers landed at the Rock of Plymouth. It was now the deal of winter. There was an incessunt storm of sleet and snow, and the houseless immigrints, already enfeebled ly their sufferings, fell n-dying of honger, cold, and exposine. After a fow days spent in explonations about the const, a site was selected near the first lambing, some trees were felled, the snowdrifts were clared away, and on the 9th of January the heroie toilers begran to build New Plymouth. Every man took on himself the work of making his own honse; but the ravages of disease grew daily worse, strong arms fell powerless, lung fevers and consumptions wasted every family. At one time only seven men were able to work on the sheds which were building for shelter from the storms ; and if an early spring had not brought relief, the colony must have perished to a man- - Ridiratics $\mathrm{L}^{\circ}$. S. (lh. 7.
503. BEGINNING, A pious. Reformetion. Thes theses of Dr. Martin Lhther were read all over Germany. Numerous strangers who attended the amiversary festival of consecration at Wittenheres, in order that they might adore the many relics amd other sacred treasmes of the church, carried the news with them to their homes. Up) to this time no one had been willing to bell the eat! Great as was the discontent at the shameless proceedings of the traders in indulgences, equally great was the fear of opposing the Pope and the Chureh. But Inther said: "Whoever will berin anything good, let him see to it that he begin and venture it in reliance upon the favor of God, and never upon human comfort or assistance; let him not fear any mmon-no, not the whole world!" Everywhere Tather's theses fonnd prepared gromad. Everywhere they were spoken of, and with muxious conern was he regarded who had ventired upon so lood a step! Thas the mame of the fearless Aughatinian monk passed rapidly from mation to mation, nud many an inquiry was hemed nbout the anteredemis and the experiences of the man who had presmand to tuke issue with the Pope and his motherents. -Rein's Lathen, eli. 1.
500. BEGINNING, A small. Amerieran Repolte-a war that eost $\in(00), 000,000$. . . " What mighty contents rise from trivinl things!"-KNuntr's Exg., vol. 6, cli. 16, p. $2 \pi 1$.
507. -_- Romans. [A revolution from a bow. 1 Amid the ruins of thaly the famous Marozin invited one of the usurpers to assume the character of her thial hasband ; und I lagh, King of Burgundy, was introduced by her fiaction into the mole of Itadrian or castle of St. Angelo, which eommonds the principal loridge and enrance of Rome. IVer son by the timst marriage, Alberic, was eompelled to nttend at the nuptiad lompuet ; but his reluetant and ungraceful service was clanstised with a blow hy his new father. The blow wis produetive of a revolution. " IRomans," exchaimed the youth, "onec yon were the masters of the world, and these Burgundians the most abject of your slaves. They now reign, these voracious and brutal savages, and my injury is the commencement of your servitude." The ulamu bell rang to arms in every efurter of the city; the Burgundinns retreated with haste and shame; Marozia was imprisoned by her victorious son, amb his brother, Pope John XI., was reduced to the exercise of his sjiritual functions.-Ginbon's Rome, cli. 49.
$50 \mathrm{~g} .-$ - - Wher. [The Duke of Guise left] his chatem of Joinville with a retinue of two hundred well-armed gentlemen; the dake lanted, on the 1 st of March, 1562, at the little town of Vassy in Champagne, where, the day being Sumbla, the Protestants were assembleal for divine service. The duke's attendants, by his orders, interrupted and tried to stop the heretical worship; the sectaries resisted, and $n$ tieree brawl ensued. The iluke, followed by his officers, hurried to the spot, and was assuiled by th shower of stones, one of which struek him on the cheek. His enraged soldiers now fired upon the unarmed multitude ; the carmane was farful ; 60 persons were slain ontright, and upward of 200 more grievously wounded. Sueh was the " massacre of Vassy," whieh, whether premeditated or accidental, was the first act of the civil and religions wars of France. - Students France, cli. 16, 它 5, p. 33t.
509. BELLS, Impressive. Nipulion $I$. One day when this matter [of religion] was under earnest diseussion in the council of State, Nitpoleon said: " Last evening I was walking alone in the woods, amid the solitude of nature. The tones of a distant chureh bell fell upon my ear. Involuntarily I felt elecp emotions-so powerfil is the influence of early habits and associations. I said to myself, If I feel thas, what must be the influence of such impressions upon the popular mind? Let your philosophers answer that if they can. It is absolutely indispensable to have a religion for the people." . . . Says Bourrienne, "I have boen twenty times withess to the singular effert which the sound of a hell had on Napoleon."-Anmotr's Naroneon I3., vol. 1, ch. 23.
510. BELLS mubstituted. IInman Tovicr. [Mahomet established] the usage which subsists still, of calling the fithful to praver by a sigmal which mites the people, at the same looms, in the same aspiration. It was litst proposed him to employ the trumpet whish used to call the Jews to the temple ; then the craker that convokad the Christims before the invention of hells. He preferred, ufter long hesitations, the haman voice that living signal, that "preal from soul to sonl, which gives to somads the aceent of intelligence and piety. He instituted the murain, who are survitors of the mosethe, selected for the amplitule and sonority of their voise, to mount. the summit of the minarets mad chant from on high mon rity and upon romutry the hour of prayer--LAmintine's Tthew, p. 10t.
511. BENEFACTOR, Praise of. Abraham Lincoln. Their masters hed upon the apronely of our soldiers, and this gave the slaves a conception of a power greater than their mosters exercised. This power they called "Mnssa Liukum." Colond McKaye said . . . on a certain day, when there was guite a large gathering of the prople [in their praise house], considerable confusion was erented hy different persons attempting to trll who and what "Massin Linkim" was.
" Brederin," said he [their white-huired leade $\cdot \vec{r}$ ];
"Jon don't know nosen" what you'se talkin" bout. Now, you just listen to me. Massa Linkum, he ehervwhar. He know eberyt'ing." Then solemonly looking uj, he added: " IIe ralk de earf like de Iord?".". Mr. Lincoln was very much affected by this aceount. He did not smile, as another might lave done, lut got up from his chair and walked in silence two or three times across the floor. As he resumed his sent, he said, very impressively: "It is a momentons thing to be the instrument, unter Providence, of the liberation of a race."- haymond's Lincoln, p. 734.

51\%. BENEFACTORS opposed. Jomes Hargreates. [The inventor of the eotton rarding machine.] 1 man was about to be exreuted at Cork for stcaling. On the mpointed day the weavers, who were short of work, and attributed the hard times to cotton, gathered about the gallows, and dressed both the criminal and the executioner in cotton cloth, to mark their contempt and ahhorrence of it, and to make the wearing of it disgraceful. The criminal, sympathizing with the objeet, delivered the followiug aldress just before being turned off: "Give ear, 0 good people, to the words of a dying sinner. I confess I have been guilty of what necessity compelled me to commit; which starving condition I was in, I am well assured, was oceasioned ly the searcity of moms, that has procceded from the great discouragenicut of our woollen manufactures. Therefore gool Claristians, consider that, if you ge on to suppress your own goods by wearing sucli cottons as I am now clothed in, you will bring your comotry into misery which will consequently swarm with such unhappy malefactors as your jresent object is, nud the blood of every misemble felon that will hang after this warning will lay at your door." [Legishation followed unfrimally to pot-

513. BENEVOLENCE, Acoess by. John Itome ard. After attempting in vain to pain ancoses to other prisons in Paris, he was so fortmate as to discover an ancient royal deeme, which directed jailers to mimit to prisons nuder their charge all persons desirous of giving alms to prisomers, nud to permit them to give their alms into the prisoners' own hands. Armed with this decree, he oltained access to all the prisons of Paris, except the impenetrable Bastile.-Cyclapredin of Bueahisi'hy, j. 48.
514. BENEVOLENCE, Beauty of. Abraham Lincoln. ILon. Thaddens Stevens ralled withan elderly lady in great trouble, whose son had been in the army, hut for some offence had then courtmartialed ind sentenced either to death or imprisonment. $\qquad$ After a full hearing, the Presinlent . . . proceded to excente the paprer [granting pardon]. The gratitude of the monler was too derp) for expression, save by her tears, tund not a word was said between herand Mr. Stevens until they were half way down the stairs when she sudtenly broke forth in an excited manner with the words, "I knew it was a copperhead lie !" "What do you refer to, madhm?" :isked Mr. Stevens. "Why, they told me he was an ugly-looking man," she replied, with vehemence. "He is the handsomest man I ever saw in my life! "-Raymond's Lincoln, p. Tibs.
515. BENEVOLENCE, Blessing on. Owiall. [The Northumbrian king.] For after-times the memory of Oswald's greatness was lost in the memory of his piety. "By reason of his constant halit of praying or giving thanks to the Lord, he was wont wherever he sat to hold his hunds upturned on his knees." As he fensted with Bishop Aidan by his side, the thegn or noble of his war-band, whom he had sent to give nlms to the poor at his gate, told him of a multitude that still waited fasting without. The king at once bade the untasted meat before him to be carried to the poor, and his silver dish be purted piecemeal among them. Aidan seized the royal hand and blessed it., "May this hand," he cried, " never grow old."-IIsst. of Exi. PeoPLE, 冬 50.
516. Benevolence a Business, John Itomeard. From 1773 to 1776 Howard's chicf employment was to pursue his investigations into the conditions of the prisons of Great Briain. In the coarse of those three years he personally and most thoroughly inspected every prison in the three kingdoms that offered any peculiarity. He travelled len thousand miles at his own expense, and delivered from prison a large number of poor debtors by piying their debts. Wherever he went he hrought some alleviation to the lot of the prisoners ly gifts of money, bread, meat, or tea, and ly remonstrating with jailers, surgeons, chaplains, and magistrates. Several prisons underwent a remplete renovation and reformation solely in consequence of his conversations with comity magist rates and circuit judges.-C'YClopedia of Biof., p. 4 .
517. BENEVOLENCE, Christian. Reign of James II. [The Duke of Mommonth was ilefeated and his adherents imprisoned.] The jails of Somersetshire and Dorsetshire were filled with thousmads of captives, The chiof friend and protector of these umbuppy men in their extremity was one who ahhorved their religions and folitical opinlons, one whose order they linted, nud to whom they had done improvoke wrong, Bishop Ken. That good prehte used all his influme to soften the jailers, and retrenched from his own eppropml state that he might be able to make some addition to the coarse nud scmenty fare of those who lund definced his beloved cathedmal. Ilis conduct on this orcasion was of a piece with his whole life. Nis intellect was indeed darkeurd by many superstitions und prejudices; but his moral chntreter, when impartially reviewed, sustuins a comparison with any in ceclesinstical history, and seems to approuch as near as human intirmity permits to the ideal perfection of Christime virtue. - Macadlay's Eng., (h. 5.
518. BENEVOLENCE, Conscientious, John Wesley. It is estimated that he gave away in the course of his life more than $$ 10^{0} 0,000$. [Prineipully the income from lis literary works. When the Commissioners of Excise wrote him,] "Wo camot douldt that you lave pate, for which you have hitherto neglected to make an entry," his haconic reply was. "I have two silver teaspoons at London, and two at Bristol ; this is all the plate which I have at present, and I shall not buy any more while so muny around mo want bread."-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 1, 1. 267.
519. - - Jfary Fltcher. [The widow of Rev. Johm Fleteher was as economical as she was bene tolent. Iter expenses never amountad to $£ 5$ a year. During the last year of her life a friend who made up her accounts reports,] that her whole expenditure, on her own apparel, amounted to 19s, $6 d$. Her "poor account" for the same year amounted to nearly $£ 182$. - Stevens' Methodism, vol. 3, p. $2 \vee 8$.
520. - -. Lady IIuntingdon. Lady Huntingdon . . . gave nway, for religious purposes, more thin $$ 500,000$. She sold all her jewels, and by the proceeds crected chapels for the poor. She relinquished her aristocratic equipage, er expensive residences and liveried servants, that her means of usefulness might be more ample. She purchased theatres, halls. and dilapidated chapels in London, Bristol, and Dublin, and fitted them up for public worship. New chapels were erected by her aid in many places in England, Wales, and Ireland.-Ste'ens' Methodism, vol. 1, p. 168.
521. BENEVOLENCE, Disinterested. Samuel Johnson. A literary lady, of large fortune, was mentioned as one who did grood to many, but by no means " by stealth ;" and instead of "blushing to find it fame," acted evidently from vanity. Jorinson: "l have seen no being who do as mach good from benevolence as she does from whatever motive. If there are such under the earth, or in the clouds, I wish they would come up, or come down. . . . No. sir ; to act from pure henevolence is not possiblide for finite beings. Ituman benevolence is mingled with vanity, interest, or some other motive."-Boswell's Johinson, p. 301.
522. BENEVOLENCE displayed. Curthaginians. The Bishop of Carthuge, from a society less opulent than that of Pome, collected 100,000 sesterces (above £850 sterling) on a sudden call of eharity to rederen the bretheren of Numidin, who hud been currled awny cmptives by the harbarinns of the desert. Abont a limedred years hefore the relgn of Dedus, the Romme chureh had ${ }^{\text {recelved, in } n \text { single donation, the sum of }}$ 200,000 sesterces from $n$ stranger of Pontus, who proposed to flx his residence in the cupitul. -Ginbon's Rone, ch. 15.
523. BENEVOLENCE, Enforced, By Fine. [Jnmes $I$. songht tinnuchil rellef by a " Benevolence," as it was called-the solleitation of gilts.] Mr. Oliver St. John declined to contribute, and wrote a letter setting forth his rensons for refusal. He was brought into the Star-Chamber, and fined in the sum of $£ 5000$. - Knignt's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 23, p. 303.
524. Benevolence, Example of. Mihomet. IIe hid up no trensure ; he distributed the whole produce of the tithe, which the estublished upon general property and the spoils of war, between his soldiers and the poor. He had made, for his own part, a vow of poverty. He gave nll that he received to the hands and hearts of the poor, to keep for him, as depositaries, elarged to give all buek in henven. The appurtemances of his house, the porticos aljacent to the mosque, the courts of the edifiee, were one vast hospital, where the poor, the widows, the orphans, the infirm, could be seen waiting for nourishment or medicine. They were enlled the "guests of the bench," because they pussed their life seated or lying on the benches of the prophet's house Every night the prophet visited them, comforted them, elad them, fed them with his barley bread and dates. He brought daily a certain number of them into the honse, to tuke their repast with him. He distributed the others, as guests of God, among the wealthiest of his disciples.-Lamantine's Turkey, p. 152.
525. BENEVOLENCE, Excessive, Newing Girl. George Müller then pruyed for a house, for suitable helpers to instruct und tuke care of the children, and that $£ 1000$ sterling might be given him. On the very next day, December 6,1835 , the first donation whs received-namely, 18.-from a poor missionary then visiting at his house.

A few days afterward a poor young woman, who earned about 4 s. weekly by her needlework, contributed $£ 100$, but her donition was courteously declined. When sent for and spoken to on the subjeet, she stated that this money was part of a little property recently left her by her grandfather, who had died ; and that, feeling deeply interested in the contemplated Orphan Work, it wis her desire to give this $£ 100$ toward the Orphan Fund ; but Mr. Müller still refused to accept the contribution. "You are weak and siekly," stid he, "and may need this money for yourself. I fear yon have acted hastily, and may regret the step hereafter." Her reply, however, was, "I have well weighed the matter; the Lord Jesus freely shed IIis precions blood for me, a poor, lost sinner, and slunll I not in return show my love and gratitude to ILim by giving Him this little sum:? Rather than this Orphan Work should not come to puss, I would give every penny I possess toward it." After reasoning further with her on the subject, nad finding she was thoronghly deeided, he at length reluctantly accepted the £100.-Life of Geores MÜцLER, p. 27.
526. BENEVOLENCE by Faith. Grorge Maller. [In his Orphan Work.] Ite hegam withone day:school, but on May 2H, I882, we hud seventy-two, of which thirteen were in Spaln, uttended by neurly one thousand Cutholic chlldren; one was in Italy, flve were in the Einst Indies, six in Demermat anll Essequibo, nnd the others were scittered throughout Enghand and Wales. Ite began with one Sunday-school; on Muy 20, 1882, there were thirty-eight connected with the instlution. One adult sehool only was founded it its commencement, but on May 20, 1882, there were six. There were then ulso in all the various schools nine thousund slx humdred and seventy-ona pupils, and from the formution of the institution up to that time, eighty-elght thousand one hundreal und nineteen children or grown-up persons have heen thught in these one hundred und sixteen sehools. All of them were established simply through the instrumentality of pruyer and faith; and though the annum expenditure connceted with them has for mony yenrs been t 950 , no one has ever been nsked to contribute toward their support, nud every shilling continues to be obtulined in the same minner.-Life of George MUlleia, p. P4.
527. BENEVOLENCE, Forced. Altars of the Churches. [When the Duke of Guise cuptured Cuhis from the English, he nade a proclamition, elarging the inlubitants, in the name of the Frenell king, that] all and every person that were inhabitants of the town of Calnis, having nbont them nny money, plate, or jewels to the value of one gront, to bring the sume forthwith, to hy down upon the high altars of the churches, upon pain of death ; bearing them in hand also that they should be scarelied. IBy renson of which proclamation there wis made igreat and sorrowful offertory.-Knigur's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 7. p. 104.
528. Benevolence, Frustrated. James II. The king was bitterly mortified by the large amount of the collection [for the persecuted IIuguenots] which had been made in obedience to his own call. Ite knew, he said, what all this liberality meant. It was mere Whiggish spite to himself and his roligion. He had alrendy resolved that the money should be of no use to those whom the donors wished to benefit.
. The refugees were zealous for the Calvinistic discipline und worship. James therefore gave orders that none should receive a crust of bread or $n$ busket of conls who did not tirst take the sacrament according to the Anglican ritual. It is strange that this inhospitable aet shonld have been devised by a prince who affected to consider the Test X et as an ontrage on the rights of conscience; for nowever unreasonable it may be to establish a sacramerital test for the purpose of ascertaining whether men are fit for civil or military olifee, it is surely much more unrensonable to establish a sacramental test for the purpose of aseertaining whether in extreme distress they are fit objects of charity.-Macadlay's Enis., ch. 6.
529. BENEVOLENCE, Generous. Cimon. [An Athenian general und statesman.] Cimon. . had necquired a great fortune, and what he had gninedgloriously in the war from the enemy he laid out with ns much reputation upon his fellow-citizens. He ordered the fences of his fields and gardens to be thrown down, that stringers, ins well us his own comitrymen, might frecly partake of his frult. He had a supper provided at his house every day. in whide the dishes were phain, but sumflent for ammititude of gueals. Every poor ditzen repaired to it it plensure, and lad his diet without care or tromble: by which memes he was cmabled to give proper atemiton to public affairs. Aristotle, bullecd, siges this supper was not pro. vided for all the ritizens in gramem, hat only for those of his own tribe, whild was that of Latin. When he walked ont he used to lave ar retinue of young men, well clothed; and if he luppened to meet un uged ditian in a memn dress, he ordered some one of them to change clothes with him. This was great ant noble. But bexide this, the sume nttembats carried witia them ng gantity of money; and when they met in the market-phace with any necessitons person of tolernble appeneance, they took care to slip some pieces into his hand us privately ne possibile.-Pbutancit.
530. BENEVOLENCE, GGuuing. Ifr. Wilkom. The benevolent IV. Wilson once discovered a clergyman at Bath who, he was informed, was sick, poor, mad had a mumerous family. In the evening he gave $n$ limend diso, reguesting him to deliver it in the most delicate manner, and as from minnkown person. The friend suid, "I will wait upon him early in the morning." "You will oblife me, sir, hy ealling directly. Think of what importunce a good night's rest may be to that poor man.'
531. $\qquad$ . Catherine IThinson. In 1832, when the cholera ilrst uppeared in Eughand, there was a poor woman maned Catherine Wilkinson, who was so impressed with the necessity of clemnliness as a preventive to the disease, that she encouraged her neighbors to come to her comparatively better house, which eomprised a kitchen, a parlor, three small bed-chambers, and a yard, for the purpose of wasling and drying their clothes. The good that was manifest induced some benevolent persons to aid her in extending her operations. The large amount of washing done in one week in a cellar, under the superintendence of this excellent woman, represented the amount of disense and discomfort kept down by her energetie desire to do good without pecuniary reward. Sucll was the origin of public buths and wash-honses, which Cotherine Wilkinson had the satisfaction of seeing matured in Liverpool in 1846, in a large establishment under the corporation, to the superintendence of which she and her loushmad were appointed. Kniait's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 22, p. 393.
532. BENEVOLENCE, Incorporated for. Celomy of Georgiu. [James Oglethorpe plamed the colony as an asylu:n for the poor, for imprisoned debtors, and for persecuted Protestants.] A charter . . . phaced it, for twenty-one yeurs, under the guardianship of a corporation, "in trust for the poor." The common senl of the corporation, having on one side a group of silk-worms at their toils, with the motto, Son sibi, sed aliis-" Not for themselves, hut for others"-expressed the disinterested purpose of the patrons.-Bancrofi's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 24.
533. BENEVOLENCE injarious. Constantinople. [Constantine the Great encournged emigration to Constantinople by his great liberality.] The frequent und regular distributions of wine and oil, of corn or hremd, of money or provishons, had almost exempter the porese citizen of Romo from the neressaty of habor. The mapnithecone of the tirst Cusars was la some mensure imitnted is the fommer of ('onstanthon) ; lint his Illeerality, howevar it misht exelte the apphase of the perople, lins incurred the censure of posterity. The annual tribute of corn imposed npon Eigypt was upplied to ferid a hazy mad tusolent people. - Ghams's Ronse, ch. 17.
53.1. BENEVOLENCE insulted, Abraham vivit Mr. Lincoln twice to argue adefone. By his own showing he proved the justier of his pmaishment. He took much prectons thae nt earla interviow. Ihr forecel his way the third the before the President, and went over the same argument. Mr. Lincoln made no repls.] Turning very ubruptly, loe sudal: "Wedl, Str. President, I see that yourare fully determined not to do me justice." "This was too aggravating for Mr. Lincoln. Manifesting, however, no more feeling than that indicated by a slight compression of the lips, he very quicily arose, . . . .tad then suddenly seizing the defunct offarer by the cont-colhar, he marched him forcibly to the door, suving, as be cjected him, . . . "Sir, I qive yom fuir warning never to show yourself in this room ngain. I cim benr censure, but not insult !"Raymond'a Lincolen, p. 743.
535. BENEVOLENCE an Investment. Spinners. [Samael (rompton endenvored to concenl his secret after inventing the "mule," which ufterward revolutionized the manufacture of cotton. But his superior yarn nwakened suspicion. Manufacturers sought admission to his house; they climbed up to the windows to look in. So great washis embarrassment, that he whs obliged to destroy the mathine or give it to the public.] The manufacturers made a subseription "as a reward for his improvement in spinning." .. The whole sum subseribed was £67, 6s. Bul. The list is curionsly interesting, as containing among the lumf-guinea subseribers the names of many Bolton firms now of great wenth and eminence as mule-spimers, whose colossal fortunes may be said to have been based upon this singularly small investment.Kniaht's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 3.
536. BENEVOLENCE, Joy of. Abrahrm Lincoln. One night Schuyler Colfax left all other business to ask him to respite the son of a constituent who whs sentenced to be shot . . . for desertion. He heard the story, though he was wearied out with incessunt calls, . . . and then replied: "Some of our generals complain that 1 impair diseipline and subordination in the army by my pardons and respites; but it makes me rested after a hard day's work, if I cmn find some good excuse for saving a man's life, and I go to bed happy as I think how joyous the signing of my name will make him and his family and his friends." And with a happy smile beaming over that care-furrowed face, he signed the name that saved that life.-Raymond's Lincoln, p. fal 537.
ichael Faraday. When Faradiay began to be famous in England as a chemist, he was frequently applied to by men of business to analyze substances and perform other operations in what is called conmercind chemistry. This kind of business ins. creased to sulela inf extent that an immense fort. une wis whthin his rench, mind ho foumd that ho grating selence. Ihaving no childrein, and being blessed witha wife whos sympathized whth hís persules, it was not dimbenli for him to choose the mohler part. "This son of a hacksmith," says lis friend 'lymdall, " and upprentiecel to n luookbinder. had to derejle hetwern a fortune of Elato, (nte) on the one wide, mad his undowered died a poor mam. but his was the glory of bobiling aloft umong the mations the seichitite name of Laghand for a periond of thiley yans." Ame this glory he anjoyed ; lint liar dearar to him was the love which his surress in extemdiner the aren of knowledge hronght him. "Tymhall," sald be onee, taking his friemd hy the lumd-the hand that had just written a review of Finmday's works-" Tyndall, the sweretest reward of my work is the sympathy nniderol-will which it has cansed to tlow in upon me from nll quaters of the world." Of all the sons of men, those who lemctit mankind most and get from monkind lonst (thent is, considering the servires they remider), are gembine men of science. The silary uttarehed to this professorship of chemistry, mule forever ilhastrious by Furulay's having held it, was $\mathrm{E}^{\prime}$ (G) n yenr, the use of three rooms, with furd mind conilles enough to warm mid light thein.-CyclolesDIA OF BIOG., p. 785.
538. BENEVCLENCE, Large, For IIugupnots. [James II. had announced that a collertion would the taken in every church in the kingidom for the persechted Inguenots. It was designed for political ends.] It had leen expected that, aecording to the pructice usual on such occasions, the people would be exhorted to libernatity from the pulpits. But James was determined not to tolerate declamutions aganst his religion and his ally. The Archbishop of Canterhury was therefore commanded to hinform the clergy that they must merely rend the brief, and must not presume to preach on the sufferings of the French Protestants. Nevertheless, the contributions were so large, that, after all dedluctions, the sum of $£ 40,000$ was pald into the chamber at London. Perhnps none of the munificent subscriptions of our own age has borne so great a proportion to the menns of the mation. [James frustruted its npplicition. See No. 527.]-Macaulay's Enc., ch. 6.
539. BENEVOLENCE, Ministerial. Thomas Coke. [Rev. Thomins Coke, 1.L.I)., the first Bishop of the Methodist Church, won the title of the "Foreign Ninister of Methodism." He crossed the Athantic eightern times, drfraying himself the expenses. He represented] in his own person, down to his death, the whold missionary operations of Methorlism, as their ollichal and sole director, lavishing upon them his affluent fortune, and giving more money to religion than any other Methodist, if not any other Protestant, of his times. Dying at last a veteran of nearly seventy years, $n$ missiomary himself, on his way to the East, he was luried beneath the waters of the Indian Ocean. - Stevens' M. E. Cir., vol. 2, p. 154.
540. BENEVOLENCE misconstrued. Dr. Bateman. When Oates, after his scourging, was carried lito Newgate lisemsible, mbd, asall thought. in tho last agons, . . . he had bern hiled, nud his wommds had heren dressed hy Batemme. 'This was inn olfomer not to le forgiven. Bateman wise nrrested mud halicted. The withessess agalast hlm were moll of infmons elmaractermon, too, who wero nworting away thelr own liver. None of them hud yet got his parilon: and it was a pojular sayligg, that they thatird for prey, like tame cormoriants, whth ropen round their mecks. The primencr, stupetled hy illoess, was muble tonriculate or to moderstand what passed. Ilis son mod dhughtar stourl liy him itt the lar. They remd as wall as they eomith mome notes which hie had sot down, and iexmmed his whthesses. It was to lifle purpose. Ile was eonvicted, hamged, mid quartered.-Macadiay's ENa., ch. 5 .

SEI. BENEVOLENCE, Power of. Jwh IItmard. Nomun, perhaps, hus (lever had such power ovor crimimals as John lloward. 'There was a tervible rebrellion in ome of the Lomelon prisons, when two humberd ruthnis, driven mud hy ernOlty, ware gnthered in the prison-yurd, threntening danth tonny mun who should npproneh them. Hownrd insistal on grohag in mong them, and dlad mo, in spite of the atilece of the juilers and the contronties of hls friomis. Ilis very appenrunce disnrmed thom, mal they listemed to his quiet und remonable remonstrances in respectfal sllence. He listencel putiently in his turn to a recitnl of their grievances, after which he pointed out the folly of their nttempthing to resist the anthorities, ailvised them at once to submit, and promised to make their complaints known. They took his ndvice at lengeh, and wemt pencefully to their cells. - Cycloi'edia of Biot., p. 57.
642. BENEVOLENCE, Premature. Goldamith's Futher. We were told that untversal benevolenee was what first cemented society; we were taught to ronsider all the wants of munkind as our own; to regard the human face dirine with: affection and esteem; he wonnd us up to be mere machines of pity, and rendered us incapnble of withstanding the slightest impulse made either by real or fictitious distress. In a word, we were perfectly instructed in the art of giving away thousands lefore we were taught the neeessury qualiflemtions of getting a farthing.-InVing's Goldmuith, ch. $\stackrel{2}{2}$.
543. BENEVOLENCE, Pure. Goldamith. IIe was enghged to break finst with a college inmate one rlay, but failed to make his appenrance. His friond repaired to his room, knocked at the door, and was bidden to enter. To his surprise he found Goldsmith in his hetl, immersed to his chin in fenthers. A serio-comie story exphined the cireumstance. In the course of the preceding evening's stroll he had mat with a woman with five children who implored his charity. IIer husband was in the hospital ; she was just from the country, a strmiger, und destitute, without food or shelter for her helpless off:pring. This was too mueh for the kind hrart of Goldsmith. Ite was almost as poor as herself, it is true, und had no money in his pocket; but he brought her to the college gate, gave her the blankets from his bed to cover her little brood, and part of his clothes he gave for her to sell and purchase food; and, finding himself cold during the night, had cut open his bed and buried him-
 ch. 2.

SAA. BENETOLENCE, Religioun. Mhthmot, The elurity of the Aohammedans dearvolv to the minmid remilon; und the Korna repentedly inpensable daty, the relle of the hatlgent and un. forthate: Shatomet, protham, is the only lawgiver who has dethat the precise masiare of charlty; the mandard may vary whith the degree mat hature of property, ins it consmas cither ha money, in corn or ratile, in fruits or merrhandise: but the Naswalman den's not necomplinh the law maless be hestows a tuth of his revemue; mad it his romsedence areroses ham of Trand or extortion, the tenth, amber the blen of restintion, is endarged to a fifth. Beansolenere is the fommdathon of justice, since we are forhin to injure those whom wrave boume to aswist, - (immon'm Matometr, p. 品.
545. - Bishop) Acterins. [Roman history mentions the charity of a bikhel, Satclas of Amidn, whose mane might have dignifled the suintly malemar, slall not be lost in obsIlvion. Bohdly decharing that vises of gold and silver nre useless to a Gex who mether cates mor drinks, the generons prehate sold the plate of the churs of Amidn ; employed the price in the raclemption of seven thousman Perwian captives; supplied their wants withalfertiomate librality ; and dismissed them to thrir malse comatry to inform their king of the trae spirit of the relierlon which he pursechted. - Ghimox's Rome: ch. $3 ?$.
5.46. -Lulty Ifurtimylon. One day at eonert the then Prinere of Wabes anked Lady Charlotte E-, "Where is my Lady Ithmingdon, that she is so seldom here?" The lady of fashion replica, with a sucer, "I suppose praying with her heggars." 'The prine shook his head, nud said: "Paty ('harlote, when I am dying I think I shall tue hap py to serme the skirt of Laty llaming don's mante, to carry me up with her to hemven."
5.17. BENEVOLENCE, Royal. E'mp. Trujan. He whe like ral in his domations to the peophe, lint they were not, tike those of other emperers, the mean bribes of a despot; they were the largessise of a bationt priace, for the suppert of the wretcherl and indigent. The chiddren of the poor were edurated at his expense and it was computed that two millions of destitute persoms were manamed from his private parse. These charges weresuppliol hy a wadiordered ecomomy in his own fortume, and a reruhambinistration of the pmblie timares. He lived himself always with ancient simplicity, and he emriched the state by a carefal attention to the minutest artieless of publie: expenditure. [udar hain excellent mende of governmem ererything enjoyed its dhe con-sideration.-TyTusits Bist., Book 5 , ch. 1 .
548. BENEVOLENCE, Self-sacrifting. John Horard. [hemer sent for,] he was determined togo. The rain was falling in torrouts-n roll Decmber rain-and the wiad was howing a gale. Ashe could not, without much dehy, procure a vehicle, he momated an old dray horse amd rode the twenty-four miles through the tempest. IIt arrived to tind his patient dying [of hospital feverj. Ie wied, however, some powerfalmedi-rinem 11 кon her, with a vew to exple merspiration ; mal, In erder tonsererthin whe ther they werg probluchag the wishere for dfeet, he lif terd the bedclothere mal fritt ol' her arm. As he dides so, than ethavia from har horly was no offonsue that has conde mentrely embare 1 . She died somen after. and her retminel to (hersom. 'Fhree days hater tion of hif loger and palafill ride, and the show of demh, had remdered has astem Mable to then rontaghon, wheh had serack him, us he beliowed, at the momen a' hiv hifing the bedelothes. - 519. BENEVOLENCE, systematio. ,foh" W'sley. Whan his own income wan hat £30) n bar, allowanc!, and gave away eles. 'The hast haser. tion in his private jourmil, written with a trembing lamal, reade lias: "For upwarl of dighty six yame I have hept my meromats cancly: I will not attompu it mat lomgrir, heing satistherl with the rontinual conviction that I satwe all! (ann, and giveall I call-that is, all I have." stoveas Metmonesm, vol. 1, p. Mis.

S5O. BENEVOLENCE a Test. " Giving-lirints." A poor ('hrivthan woman living at some dictance from Bristol, a cripple, who hegan by ing one promy fur weck ona of her linlo earn-futa the work on Ashley [own, was so blessed and prospereet by the Lorl, that in time she whe ahle to atford a workly contribution of six whil lings for the orphans. L'pon sue or mason har gift was wrapped up in a little piece of parar, inside which these words were writholl " Give; give; give; he exergiving. If you are living, you raill be gieng. These arha are mut gicing are not living."-Lıfe or Geohar Müılen, p. 43.
551. BENEVOLENCE, Troasure of. E'pituph. The epituph of Elwarl, surmmel, from his misfortune, the blind, from his virtues, the givel. earl, haculcates with mach ingenaity a nornd sentence, whish may, however, be ahased by thoughtless gentrosity. After a grateful commemoration of the tifty-five vears of union mat happiness which he enjoyed with Mabel his wile, the good ent thas speaks from the tomb:
"What wo gave, wo lave ;
What we spent, we hat ;
What we liff, we lost."
-(inmиs's Rome, rit. 61.
5.52. BENEVOLENCE, Unwise, Lequ!). [A hady wrues: " Mrs. Willimus whs blind before she was nequained with ler. Johnson. She had many resourees, though nonm very great. With the Sliss Wilkiasons she gemerally passed a juat of the vear, mad reroived from them presents, and from the tirst who died a lequey of rothes and money. The last of them, Nr , Jame, left herm anmal rent ; but from the blomberine manner of the will, I fear she never reaped the benetit of it. That haly left money to erert :m hospital for anrient mads; hut the mamber she had alloted being toogreat for the domution, the Dottor [Johnsthi] suid it would be better to expunge the word muintrin, and put in to starce suth a number of old mails. They asked him, What mame should begiven it? He replied, 'Let it be called Jenny's Whim'-the name of a well-ktown tavern near Chelsen, fit former duyn." matwhai'm Jolls. mon, DP IDN.

 Firmin, a Iandon rithan, wis ond of the land [100s], "for mething the yor low work "- that is. lay providing the lator ont of a common pabll. shork, which could not be provided ly commer-whome reforene to the demmed of the cosmanmars, or making more peor he monderdlag the prohiners lat were prevonty in her marke.

55.t. BEQUESTS for Spiritual Benefita. Nirw sinstiret. [3.1. 1the-1N角] The will at the prrys berpmothed to lore high altar of the whery or cear burning ; the chmes ha the stepple to be res pared; a pridest to hase a losuae to dwell in, amd at every meal to repent he mane of the testator, that they that heme it may sas," "fod have mere' $y$ on his som," which greatly may relieve him.

It was this undoubted conthlemen in the prayers of the priesthood that mate the charela
 (1.). 4, P. 120 .
D.55. BEREAVEMENT, Comfort in, "'mmin,l" buring the perlouls herween the parostime of the fever, be ofreupied the time whin livining to passages from the sacred volume, or be a re signed or despairing reference, to the diath of hifs datughter. "henem to me," he said to his Whfe in ome of thome intervals, "har lifisth of st. Panl to the Ihilippians." she real the se words: "I know bath how to be abmsed, nat I know how to thomel: worvohere and in all thinges I mom instructed both tio be full and to be lungry, hoth to abomad and to mulfer hoed. I can do ill ithings through Christ, which strongtheneth me." The reader puasd. "That verse," mind Cromwell, "once sated my life when the death of my aldest born, the infant Oliver, piereed my heart like the harp) blade of a pon-

556. BEREAVEMENT, Depression by. swithe/f. [llis som Iterhert died when nine yoms odid.] From his marly disclphime in the stoical philosophy some help now was gatard; from his active mot elastio mind the grain was more: but these would have been insulthe ient 60 suppon him whont a heartielt and ever-presemt fath hay what he had lest was not lose furever. A great chunge had inderel comer bum him. Ite set his bouse in order, mul mate arrangements as if his. own death were at hand. He resolved not to be hand recicived i's death-wombl; he felt ans if ho hat passed at ence from beyberel to the dectine of life. Ite trierl dutifully fo make head agmanst his drpression, but at times with poor suchess. -Dowden's Soltury, ch. 6.

557. BEREAVEMENT, Distress of. Abrchiom

 Lincoln. In the spring of 1862 the President spent several chays at Fortress Mouroe, awaiting military operations on the P'eninsula. favorite diversion was reading Shakespear.One day . . oproning to kilue Jolon, lue reme from "ails ber hoprivened lay: . . . Dr: Dinerala said: "(ollomel, didyon ever dremin of a low I riend, mal feil that yon werr lowling swert commombon

 *i my bey Willie." oncomer whl "mothon.
 alond -lhymosim liacons, p. Bisi.

Biv. BEREAVEMENT, Flotitious. $\quad$ "ren |When quern Amme lowi lir hablamil, wemed, in the erye of tho warlal, to lee pertis.

 day he died she whe bher vary heren and lamity ment in the romble where he lowal to it, lant it Was aftorward dimernerel that h Wia owing whe rombuiene which it gave for comer in-

Bing. BEREAVEMENT, Forgetitigg, tiphs.
 Thame, cill the death of her wom. I vial it womled be very divaresing to 'Thatle, hat she womld soon forpet it, is she hall so many himge to think of. Jonssos: "No, sir ; Thate will formet it thst. She has mane things blat she muty thimh ot: Je lus many thinge that he minat think of," This was a wery just romark umen the ditheront elferen and ensy mind, and those serions aignemems

560. BEREAVEMENT, Memory of, l'pot Howlarorth. "Reforring once," suys hi pricmil Mr. Aubrey de Vire, "$o two young children of his who hamd diod about forty yours previons. 1 , he described the detnils of their ilmense with an exaroness mad an imperansito of tromblen ex. citeonemt and an might have torn expecterl if the herenvement had taken phace but a few werks before. The hase of time seremed to have heft the sorrow submereed indeed, but still in all its tirst freshaces. Divers Woblsworm, ch. &.

Sill. BEREAVEMENT, Tears of. Int, in I Wrll atcr. ha dhe timu a datugher was bern to them. the little Girace Wraniter who was wo wherfally precocions mat ngrecable. Inhappily the inherited her mother" delisathe constitition, and she died in chidelowal. There time in his lift, it is satil, Damied Whaster wept commbively. One of these oreasioms was when la land "inn the hed this darding girl, who hat diod in his trms, and bumed awiy from the sipht of her

562. BEREAVEMENT, Weakness in, , himes Hittr. [His wife died when he was ahsent trom home.] She had strugghed with him through powery: had often checered his fanting sprit when Jxene down by doubt, jurplexth, and dis. appointment; and iften afterwarll har pansed on the threshold of his honse, untble to summon courage to enter the room where he was newer more to meet "the comfort of his life."-Smbes' Braef Btotiraplites, p. 38 .
568. BETROTHMENT, Early. First Robert Ped. Willimm Y'utes' chlest chid was a girl, mirnlag from lils linrd day's work, lice wonld lake the lithe girl upon his kure, und suy to hur:

 to whlich the chilal womble ratily maswar, "E'e." Its suls chilil womlal do. "'lyen l'll walt lor there, Nolly ; I'll wall there, smil imsur rlase." Sud

 (1) liona., p. Fill.
54.2. BIBLE, Adaptation of the (inlumial ('inf.

 laking the lives at their friments. Whan the lard, light 'Thon ngalast them lant lgat ngmiast

 us dual luefore the whod. l.omi, who is like nuto There, whodeliverest the peor from him that is too strong for him: Lami, how long wilt Thon look 'on?: Awnke, and staml up to julge my paarrel; avenge 'Thon my entase, my God anil my larel. Ami ns lor my tomgue it slatl be talking of Thy righteonsmess mat of 'lhy praise all the day long." After this the | Eplocepme minister, Kav. Durhéf mexpeetudly lmars Luto un exlempore prayer for Ameriea, for Comgress, for Massachusetis, and espectially for lbosfon, wilh the earnestaces of the best divines of Now Eng-laml.-Isancuront's U. S., vol. T, ill. 11.
565. BIBLE, Comfort from the, lBuming of' Dererficle, Dfows. A.D. 1 oft). On the hast night fin Febrmary . . at the nppronth of morning the wnfathfol sentinels retired. . . [the Freneln nud Indians som followed within flimpalisules]. The village was burnt. . . but few esemped : forty-seven were killed; one limultod and fwolve, finchuling the minister amd his fumbly, were mate conptives. One homr aftur sumpe the party began its return to ('anadia. But who womld know the loorrors of that winter mareh throngh the widelerness " 'Two man starved to death. Dial a young child werp from fatigur, or a ferhle woman tottur from maruish whler the burden of hor own offsprines, the tomalmwe stilled eomplaint, or The helphes infant was east onf "pon the smow. Ennice Willians, He wifeof the ministere, had not forgotfen her lsible: and when lhey rexted by the wayside, or ut night matulheir comidh of hourhes of evergreen strewn on the show. lle savages allowed lar to read it. Insing bur roerontly recovered frem continement, lier strengeth failed she commenderl her dive cophive childrem, numer (fod, to their father's ante : mand then one bow from atommhat earled her sorrows. Bancroort's L'. S., vol. 3, ch. ¿21.
548. BIBLE, DIffusion of the. T'yurlale. Tyndale passed from Oxford to Combridge to feel the full impulse given liy the appermane there of the Ne w Testament of Emamus. From that moment one thought was at his henrt. He " perceived by experience bow that it was impossible to estublish the liy peopla in my truth exerpt the Seripture were phanly hid hefore hadr eyes in shatl know mone of Hae Sorlptare thon thom doas." Ibit ho was it limen of forty luefore hils dremon In'came fred. . . it was monon medfal (1) guil línghand if' hia purimen wis to loble. "I umberateral at the lise now only that there was no

50\%. BIBLE, Dlacoveries in the. Martin Ifuther. Jllomigh ho lani Inew a jowinl roung follow, ho

 H10 $16=0$ spent considemblas of his time In the

 ed, he notieed that bare were many more texts, 'pistles, mad gosprels than he hand romd for the prifogne of the charela or heard ceplatned in the pulpit. And as be turned over the pmgen of the Old Trestament, hls attention was arrested by Hac story of Sammel :and Itamath, which he larrietly rend with great joy,-REAN'N Jatilitt, 11. 28.

5. BIBLE diaplaoed. /By Glores. [At the wolemin entry of ['lilip and Jary into Lomelon, other alecorntions of the publle pheces, the consdult in Graee Chured fireet whe pminted with devices of the linn worthies, und of llenry VIII. [the father of the quecon] nad Edward VI. Thenry was represented with a iblble in his hand, on whilh was written Verlom Dei. The Bishop of Winchester, noting the book in Itenry VIll's hand, shortly ufterwnrd ablled the painter before hins, und with vile worels, calling him trinitor, anked why, and who bude him describe Khis Ilenry with $n$ book in his lnmel, as is nforesaid, threntening him therefore to go to the Fleet. The puinter limmbly mpologizad. nud saded he thought be had dane well. "Nny"," suid the bishop," "it is ngainst the queen's Contholice proceedings." And so he painted him slortly nfter, itastemil of the book of Verlmun Dei, to linve in his handsa new pair of gloves.-K Natat's Eng., vol. 3, (h, i, p. it.
569. BIBLE doubted. John Buny/m. [hefore his conversiond Bungan whs larelly diatt with. "Whole tlonels of bhasphemins," lie says, "ngrainst Gobl, Christ, und the Seriptures, were poured upon my wirit ; plestions agatust the very being of (God amd of lis maly leloved Son, as whether there was in trubh a Cool or Charist or no, and whether the Iloly Scriptures were not railier a fible and comaing story than the holy nud pure Werd of Genl." " llow can you tell," the tempter whispered, " but hant the Tiarks have as good a seripture to prove their Mahamat the Saviour, us we have to prove our desiss is? Could I think that so many tens of thousinds, in se many countries and kingiloms, shoulal be withont the knowledge of the right way to heavenif there were indeed a heaven-and that we who lie in neorner of the anth shomblat no be blessed llecewith? Every one doth think his own religien the rightest-both Jews, Moors, mad Pagims ; and low if all omr failh, und C'brist, and Horiphira mbonld lue but '"thlak wo' (ow:"- 570. BIBLE, The Arst. Fliot'*, Alwift bulf a erontury uftor King Jammé (ramslathon of the Imdimat-the firest Bilide prliled in Amerion. NTEVA, Nx' M. F. ('II., vol, 1, I. :21.

历71. BIBLE, The best Glft. ('oronution. [When Quern lilizalueth manlo lure coronulion

 riedsly rowarel, was lot down unto her, by usilk both har lamela shar rereiverel it: thesi sho klased 1t, afturward applled it to hor loremat ; ind hatly hold it up, thaskling the city experchally for this gift, ned jromishag tolne ulilggent remberthereof. -KNiturt's ENo., vol. it, (h. K, j. 111.
579. BIBLE, Imperilled by the. Richafl fore the liskioj) of lathlon, charged with herosy. II $0^{-}$] wiss terrified inforn mimlssion of some of the erlmes of whirli he wat meressed, one of whlels wis that be hat in his posmession the (opistles mel gospents in Eaglishi, und "Wyollifice dammabo Works." Ila was sebt Intck lo prisen, und two days nfter was lomal hangiag in hív cell. A roroner's laguest charged the hisbog's chatsorilar and othare ollterers will morilor, hut it was matn-suliclde. The hishop end clereg hal the farredlhe folly to lregin a uew procerss of luresy ugainst the dime body, which wiss mijulgent ginity, und, aceorling to the semence, hurnt in Nimithticle.

57:3. BIBLE, An incendiary, Riqu of Jomes II. The elergy ware stricily charged not tor refleet on the IRoman Catholie religion in their diweourses. The chanerollor took on hinsself to semi the macers of the Privy Commeil romme to the few printers mad booksellers who combld then the fonnd in Edinhorgh, elmeging them not to pablish any work without his licronse. It was well understond that this order was intomeded to prevent the circulation of Protestant trentises. One honest stationer told the mossengers that he had in his shop it book whiteh refleeted, in very comrse torms, on popery, and begered formiy whether he: might sell it. 'They naked to see it, und he showed them n coply of the Bible. - Ms: cathay's ENu., cils. 6.
574. BIBLE indestruatible, Priscution. The phalosophacrs. . ham diligently studied the mature nme genins of tho (liristian redigion ; mod ns they were not ignorant that the specolative doetrines of the faith wore supposed to be contained in the writings of the prophets, of the evangrisists. and of the mpostles, they inost prolmbly suggested the order that the bishops mad presbyters shond deliver all their sucred books into the hands of the magistrutes, who were commanded, umler the severest penalties, to lum then in a public und solemn manner. By the same edict the property of the chureh was at once confiseated, and the severnl parts of whieh it might consist were either sold to the highest bidder, unjted to the Inmperial domain, bestowed on the cities and corporations, or granted to the solicitntions of rapacious courtlers. . . . The Christians, thongh they cheerfully ramigneal the ornamenta of thatr charchas, ramolveil bot lolincroupt their rolighons

57\%. BIBLE, Influence of the. fromirell. I kront imm is evor the geranilitulton ol the spitit

 (1) han: hiv religions bins comethatiol the lualf of

576. BIBLE, Monopoly in the, lritish Ifonopr lhat dide mot cherlali, and did not passerss, ílies linglivh lsibla: And yet ter print llat bible in was server printerl there till the hand beremas:

577. BIBLE omitted. (inrmation of , Iames II. James hat orderal Nimeroft to abrialere the ritunl. 'J'her remsion pmblicely usslemed was that. Her day was for short for alf that was to les done ; hat whevere examinesthe changer which Were inmer will see that the real objeet was la remowe sobuc things highly ollamive tollor relig-

Ther cremony of presweting the sowropign with a rlehly-bomad copy of the Eaglish Bihlo. mal of cohorting lim to prize nhove all enrthly treasaros a volame whirla ho had bera tatght to regard ns monlterated wilh fiase doctrime, was 57 . BIBLE, A people's. W"yrliffe. With thr tacit approval of the primate of $a$ charrh which, from lie time of Wyeliffe. had held the trmaslation and reading of the Bible in the common tongue to be larexy and a crime pmishable with fira, Erammas boblly avowed his wish for a Bible open and intrilig gible to all. "I wish that even tho wankest womm might ram tho goxpels and the cpistles of St. Panl. I wish that they wore trmashaled into all limgunges, so as to be read amil understood not only by sioots nad Irishmen, hat even by Surucomeand Torks. But the tirst step to their being read is to manke them intelligible to the ronder. I long for the clay when the lashandman shatl sing portions of then to himsedf ns loe follows the plough; when the weaver shall ham them to the tune of his shatthe; when the traveller shall while away with their stories the watiness of his journey."-

578. BIBLE, Prohibition of the, Inqland. In 1543 an act whs pussed which limited the renting of the Bible and the Now 'restument in the English tongue to noblemen and gentlemen, and forbarle the reating of the same to "the lower sort" - to artifleers, prentices, journeymen, serving-men, husbmilmen, und laborers, nnd to wornti, muler pain of imprisomment. -

560. $\qquad$
 tions, in liblo.] There was at (mombinge friar, wion demenmed the reading of the bible by the vulatr: fur the baker, Jue sid, who fomind it written that a litt, leamen would arrint the whoie homp, would givo us had lireat; and the plowelman womld he afraid to hatwer. when he learmed that io he looked back from his plomer In. were mutit for the kingdom of heaven. -

.5WI. BIBLE, Protected by the. Joh"l himer. The yommer puern [. Mary], feeling the mecessity of serouring the grood-will of such a man, succreded in attracting hime the pmace. II 0 upperarec! in his ('nlvinistic drese, a short cloak thrown over his shouleler, the Bihle moler his arm. "Satan," satil he, "cammot prevail againat a man whose left hamd bears a light to illmmine his right, when he semrelnes the lloly Sropiptures in the homes of night." - LamidiTINE's MARy StUART, eh. 7.

5 52. BIBLE, Searching the "Bill $1 / 1$ the." There was wihd enthusiasm enomgh in some of the followars: of Whitetiedd and Wesley, but tisese carnest men left $n$ mark. . . The obsemre voming stments. . were libst alled "Siaramentarians", then "Bibla Moths," and finally " Mchodists."-Knmar's ENa., vol. ${ }^{2}$, ch.
583. BIBLE, Three Senzes in. Sirchenlurg. The Wiret does not beloner 10 nuen alome, hit is the posersion likewise of the angeds of heaven, to whom it weals different forms, aceording to their lowe and intelligence. In general it may Ine said fo have three senses or meanings: Firsi, a celestial sonse, apprebanded by the celestial or highest ancels; scoondly, a spifitual semse, apprehended ly a lower range of angelic minds, lace spiritual ; and thirdly, a natural sense, with which we are all familiar, writen down to the comprehernsion of the lowest, most worlelly, and semsiat of men- He Jews. - Whates Sivenex3BOR6: P. NO).
 son. [Buiner a victime to tha prerserution of James II. arainat Protestants ho was sentenced to lre thored for publishing a tract against the overthrow of Protestantism by the wse of the army. ble sulfored with most combarooms (11-afterwami to one of his mose intimate friomels, that thi lext of sicripture, which amme sudment ly into his mind, He endural har aross, amb portal him in his bitter jommer that lae comble have sumer at palm while the exerenioner was doing his ollice, with as murde comporate and thongh. at the same time, lu hat a quick seme of everv tripe whirll was erivell him, with a whip of nime corche knottet, to the momber of three
 4, (h. 95. 1). 411 .
58.5. BIBLE and Superstition, The. C'ifolime Thdiens. The ludians revered the volmo rathor than its doctrines : abd, with a fond superitition, ther embraced the lrook, kissed it, amd heli it to their bromsts amel hemds, as if it had been an amblet. . . As the colonists . . . had no Whaner with thein, there were some among the ludians whos inmanined the English wrote not bora of woman, and therefore mot mortat; that they were men of ath ohateration rivern to im(ll. 3.

5*6. BIBLE-READING forbidden. Ejuglitul.

 mons mot daly mpointed reading the Bibla alomd in my charib. The man who sthent to know the truth might mase over the chatmed volume, but be was not to read any poriton of it to the lese instructed bystanders. Noblemen and genthemen might reid the Bible atoud to the it families. Jadiow might omly rad it privately, and so also might merelants. "The qualitien perenission to read the Suriptites [was] . . . extemded toall hut artiticers, jrentices, journcymen, and serv-ing-men. - KNunt"s Exa., vol. ¿، (h. 29, p. 492.
587. BIGOTRY disclaimed. I'rayer. In tha Continental Congress, Mr. Jay, a member from New York, spoke against oproning the procedings with jriyer, on the gromme that as there were in that lindy Episeopaliams, Quakers, Amahaptists, Prosbyterians, mind ('omgregationalists, they would haidly be able to join in the same at of worship. Therenpor Mr. Sammel Alams, a strict Congregationatist, arose and said he was no bigot, and could lewar a prayer from a gentleman of piety and viatue who was, at the same time, a frionid to his country. He then mover that Mr. Duché, ata Episcopalian dergyman, rend pravers to the Congress. The motion was calriad, and the prayers were read.- An. Civ., "ふinttef AndMs."

5. BIGOTBY, Papal. Pilns I. [lie had distinguished himself as an incuisitor.] A more furious bigot never sat on the papal throme; and his bigrotry was more terrible from the circumstance that it was consciontions. When he sent at foree to the aid of the French Catholies, he told their leater " to take mo IIngumot prisomer, but instantly to kill every one that fell intolis hamds." When the savage Drave of Nla was bitchering without remorse in the Notherlands, the Holy Father semt liam at consecrated latt and sword, in admiration of his Christian provecelings.-

5®D. BIGOTRY, Protestant. Miry sturt. [The evoning belore her exereution Hary Stuart, Quern of Leots, desired the preselue of her prest and almoner : hat she was refosed, amd Wits informed that in the phace of her conferssor whe might have the spitinalal asoistance of the bean of Pehorboromah. 大he neressarily de-

-9O. BIGOTRY, Puritanic. I" I'r!!" $r$. TWhan the beriy of thandes l. was deperitedin the vanlt for lumial. the envernor of st. (irorge's (astlel forbade the rhareh-service to la performed, thromgh his biguted revolve that, the Common Prayce having lewn put down, he wonld not sulfer it io be read in the garrizon where he: rommamderl-Kivmints Jivi., vol. 4, ©h. S, 1). 11.
691. BIGOTRY, Strange. Pil!rime. It at ses. sion of the gemeral court of the colony [af Das.
sachusetty. held in 16:31, a haw was passed restricting the right of suffrate. It was cmated that none but members of the chureh shonid be permitted to vote at the colonial eltertions. The choice of governor, deputy-governor, and assistant comacillors - es thas phaced in the hands of a small minori Nearly three fomeths of the people were exchated from exerefing the rights of fremen. Taxes were levied for the suppert of the grospel ; oathe of ohedience to the magis. trates were rectuirel; attendane upon poblite worship was antored by lan; nome hat elaterhmembers were eligible to oflecers of trust. It is strange that the very men that had so reconty, through perils bey sea and hand, (sanaped with only their lives to find religions freedom in mather continent, sbould have bermen their career with intoldame and proseription. Fhe only excuse that can be fonnd for the pross inconsistency and injustice of such legishation is, that bigotry was the vice of the age rather than of the Puritans.-Rompatio & L. S., ch. 13.
592. BIRTH, Accident of. Bomaparte. [Born] on the 15th of Angust, 1769 . . . [at A jacerio, Corsica, reecntly won to France by arms]. Had the young Napoleon seed the light two months earlier, he would have leven by birth an Italian, not a Frenchman.-Abuorts Niroleon B., vol. 1, ch. 1.
593. BIRTH concealed. Abrahim. The Ishmatlite Arabs. a call in their hooks their father Abranam El Khalit-Allah, or the friend of God. His father Ahor, say they, was one of the great vassals of Nimrot, a sort of fublous Jupiter of the Babylonian Olympus. Nimrod, frightened by a prophecy which monomeed to him the birth of an infant superior to other men and to himself, forbade all int reourse between the sexes in his dominiens. Abraham was bern through a breach of this order. Dis parents, to elude the anger of Nimrod, concealed his birth. They had him hid and momed in a caverr ontside the city.-Lamantineis Tunker.
59.4. EIRTH, Humble. Gebrini. In a ugarter of the city [Rome] whieh was inhabited only by mechanies and Jews, the marriage of an innkeeper and a washerwoman produced the future deliverer of Rome. From such parents Nicholas Rienzi Gabrini could inherit noither dignity nor fortune; and the gift of a liberal education, which they painfully bestowed, was the canse of his glory and untimely end.-Gnamox's Rome, ch. $73, \mathrm{p} .4$ T1.
$595 .-$ Rem. Emp. Diorlt tion. As the reign of Diodetian was more illustrious than that of any of his predecessors, so was his 'Lirth more abject and obseure The strong clams of merit and of violence land frequenty superseded the itleal prerogatives of nohility ; but a distinet line of separation was hitherto preserved between the free and the servile part of mankind. The parents of Diodetian had been slaves in the homse of Ambinus, a Roman senator, nor was he himself disinguished by :any other name than that which he derived from a small town in Dalmatia, from whence his mother detuced her origin.-Gubos's Rome, chi. 13.
596. BIRTH, Superior to. Burns. Born in an are the most promic Britain had yet scen, and in a condition the most advantageons, where his mind, if it aecomplished anght, must accomplish it under the pressure of continual bodily teil-may, of pemory mal desponding apprehension of the worst evils-and with no furtherance thet such kowleolge as dwells in a poor man's hut, and the rbymes of a Ferguson or Ramsay for his standari of beanty, he sinks not under all these impediments. Through the fogs and darkness of that oherme region, his emgle aye disecrus the true relations of the worth and hatman life ; he grows into intellectual strength, and trains himself into intellectual expertuess. Inpelled hy the irr pressible movement of his inward spirit, he shuggles forward into the gemaral wiow, and with haughty modesty lays down trefore us, as the fruit of his labor, a gift whieh Time has now pronemuced imperishable.-Canhyle's Bunss, p. 1is.
D9\%. BIRTH, A welcome. "The King of Rome." [Naphleon's serond wife gave hirth to a boy Mareh 20 , 1811.] If the child were a prinress, twenty-one gruns were to be fired; if a prince, one hundred. At six oclock in the morning . . all Paris wats aroused ty the deep booming of [eamom]. . . . Every window was thrown open. Every ear was on the alert. . . Viast taromgs stood motionless to count the tidings, which those explosions were thundering, in their ears. . . The twenty-first gun was fired. The interest was now intense leyond conception. For in moment the gumners delayed the next discharge, and Paris"stood waiting in breathless suspense. The heary loaded guns then, with redouhled voice, pealed forth the mnouncement. From the entire city one miversal roar of nechamation rose, and blended with their thunders. . . Who could then have imagined . . . that this child, the object of a nation's love and expectation would linger through a few short years of $n$ ghect and sorrow, and then sink into a forgoten grave !-Abnott's Naroleon B., vol. 2, ch. 11 .
59*. BISHOP corrupted, Theornsius. In A.D. 389 the archiepiscopa! throne of Alexandria was filled by Theodssins, the perpethal enemy of virtue-a bold, bad min, whose hands were alternately pollated with grold and blood. When a sentence of destruction agrainst the idols of Alexandria was pronounced, the Christians sent up a shout of joy. . . Theophilas procorted to demolish the temple of Seralis, without any other difliculties than those which he found in the weight and solidity of the materiats; but these obstaches prowd so insuperable, that he was obtiged to leave the fombat tions, and to content himself with ralacing the editice itself to a heap) of rubhinh, a part of which was sem alterward belled away, tomake room for a charela crected in honor of the Christiam matyes. The valuable libre y of Aldexambria was pillager or desiroved; and nearle twenty vears alterwarl the apeanance of the empty -hedees exated the rexret and indignation of crey bertator, whom mind was not totally darkened by reibion prejulier. - Gemox's Rome, ch. 离.
„99. BISHOPS, Honored. (i, rmitus. The ancient Gormans had the highest vemeration for their priests. It was, therefore, natural for the Franks, after their conversion, to preserve the sime rex crence for the ministers of their new religion. We tind that the bishops heh the first place in the national nssemblies. They were employed under Clotarins I. worreet the Salicand Ripurian laws, and they had :a sort of superintendence over the judicial tribmats. In the absenere of the king, it was competiont to aplual to the lishops from the scraconces of the dukes and counts.-TyThere's Ihser., Book 6, ch, 2.
600. BLESSSING, A diabolical. durtin Luther. After this interview [with the famate Kartstadt] Luther continued on his journey . . to Odamande, hemdenarters of kiadstadt. But he arcomplished nothing here; he marowly eseaped bodily violence. He himself narrates this experience: "When I reached Orhmiunde I soon diseovered vhat kind of seed Karlstadt hand sown; for I was grected with shed a bessing as this: - Depart in the mame of a thousimal devils, and may you brak your neek before you leave the riay y'"-Ren's Lether, dh. If.
601. BLESSING disdained. Ragn of tam a II. [Seven lishops had bern imprisoned becanse they refused to aid the king in the overthrow of the Protestant fathe.| Lond acelamaitions were raised. The sterples of the churehes sent forth joyous peils. The bishops tomnd it difticult to :seape from the importmate crowd of their wellwishers. W y was deta'ned in labace Yath hy admirers who struggled to tomelh his hamdsand to kiss the skirt of his rohe, till Claremdon, with some dille enty, resened him and rinveyed him home hy a by path. Cartwright, it is said, was so unwise as to mingle with the arowd. Some person who saw his episeopal hathit asked andre erived his blessing. A bystander cried out, " Do you know who hessed yon ?" "Surely," said he who had just been bonored by the benediction, "it was one of the severn." $\therefore$ No," satid the other, "it $\mathbf{i}$ the peppis's Bishop of ('hester." "Popish dog." eried the erarued Prolen, ant,
 Evir., ch. 8 .
602. BLISSING, A disguised. Ameriouth formlution. During his retreat arrosis Now of rasy, Washington hat sent repeated deppathes io General Lee, in remmand of tive detarthent at North Castla, to jain the main army as som as pessible. Lee was a proud, insubordina" man and virtually desobeyed his orders. Mardhag leisurdy into Now derses, her reached Morts. fown. Whe he tarrich, and took up his gurters at an inn at baskingridge. On the 13th of December a seguad of biaifish cavaly dashed up to the tavern, seized Lere, and hurial him off to New sork. (icmeral sutlivim, who had recently been exchangeol, bow tok command of Las: division, and hatemad to join Washington.-

60:3. BLINDNESS, Disqualified by. Pravin. The erown of Persia is herditary, with the exrhasion of femalos from the sureresion: but the sons of a dangher are allowed to inherit the sowerdignty. By the lase of Persial the blind are exduded in in the throme. Hence it is, a customary polier of the reigning prince to put wut the eves of alf thase of the hiood royal et whom he has any jealousy.-Tytuer's Ilist., Book 6, ch. 23.
601. BLINDNESS by Study, John Miltom. His eyesight, though quick, as he was a proficient with the rapier, had never been strong. His constant headaches, his late study, and (thinks Phillips) his perpetual tampering with physic to preserve his sight, concurred to bring the calamity ujon him. It had heen steadily coming on for : dozen years before, and about 16 ato the sirht of the lefle ere was gone. He wate warned by his doctor that if he persisted in using the remaining cere for book-work, he would lose that too. "The dovere lay before me," Milton writes in the "Serond befinere" "between tereliction of asmpreme duty und loss of cersiaht; in suchatase l comblat listen to the physician, not if Ascolanpins himself had spoken from his smathary ; I coubd not but ohey that inward monitor: I know not what, that spaki to me from haven." - MHron, By M. P.ATtisun, (h. 9:
605. BLOCKADE by Chains. Mathemet IT. Ite: laid siege to Constantinople . While the indo lent Grecks mate a very feelle preparation for defencre, trusting to an immense barricade of strong elanins, which blocked up the emry to the port, and prevented all arecss to the chemy's ships. The qemins of Mahomet very soon overeame this obstacte. ILe laida channel of smooth platiks fer the lengeth of six miles, resembling the frames whi, a are echastructed for the hanching of ships. Jin one night's time be drew eighty grabeys ont of the water upen these planks, and next morning, to the utter astomishment of the besicegel, an entire there desesended at once into the bosem of the ir harlor. . . . Constantine, the emperor, was killed in the assamb, and Mahomet

 Whatmanedinn tumpue. Thus ended the empire of the East, in, the year 1453 , flewen hundred and th. At - there fers from the bilding of constantion le hy Constantine the Great.-TvTram: Hest. Book fi, ch. 13.
woti. BLOCKADE of Death. By C'vatr. TThirty thousands sohliers hand fathern.] Numba was it ance blockaded, the inclosing wall-savare evi dence of the temper of the rompurer:- - beiner built of dead bodies pimmed torather wioh lances. and on the tops of it a fingere of heals on cwords: print: with the faces turned toward the town.-

607. BLOT, Shameful. Willi,m Penn. [Young yirls, wy orter of the ir srhommintress, had presented it standird to the erthe] Duke of Monmouth.] The queen's maids of honor aked the royal permission to wring money out of the pirents of the prore chiblren, and the permission was tranted. . . The matids of homor would not andure delay; they were determined to prosecute to outhavry, mandes a reasonable sum were forthcomingr : and by a reasonable sum was meant ezoov. Warre excused himself from taking ally part in a transadion so scandalons. The midids of honor then requested Willime Pem 10 act for them, and Pem arespted the commission: yet it should seem that a little of the pertinawious serujulosity which he had often show, about taking off his hat would not have been altogether out of place on this oceasion. He probably silenced the remonstranees of his conscience by repeating to himself that none of the moncy which he extorted would go into his own pocket ; that if he refused to he the agent of the liadies, they would find agrents less humane ; that hy complying he should incrase his influence at the court, and that his inthence at the court hat alrendy cmabled him, and might still coable hime, to rember qreat werviees to his oppressed ENG., elt. it.
60*. BLOT of the Times. f'estry. The frillls
 ers taken in thatter, who wore sold to the shave

 'Tow ereat Pomponits Atticus himsedf was a deater in haman chantels. That prisoners of war shomald he sold as slates was the law of the and the rrowtes of libertini who assisted at as the ramey of these malortimates, hot an the it

609. BLUNDER by Inattention. fioldsmith. Lord Clare and the Duse of Northomberland hat homes next fo each other, of similar aredifertmre. Retaminer home one morning from an early walk, Golesmith, in one of his freepuent fits of absence, mistook the house, und walked up into the duke's dining-room, where lee and the duchess were about to sit down to breakfast. Goldsmith, still shpposingr himself in the homse of Lord C'lare, and that they were visitors, mad. them an edsy salntation, being acepatinted with them, and hlirew himself on asofit in the lountrinir manner of a man pertectly at loones. 'The duke and dueluss soon pereeived his mistake, and, while tley smiled internally, endenvored, with the eonsideriteness of woll-ired people. to prevent any awkward embarrasement.-. lis. 1NG's (GOLDsMITII, dI. 30 .
 I. The French cmigrant priests were quite a burden on the convents of laly, where thes had taken refnge [from Jacohin finve], aml the Italian priests were quite rady, uporithe arrival of the Fremele army, to drive them away, on the pretext that by harboring the emigrants thes Sherald flativ eipeon themselves the bengeance of the Republican army. Napoleon issued a deerere commanding the convents it) . . . furnish them everything necessity for their apport and com fort. In . . A vein of latent hamor, he en joined that the Fremeh priests should make re mumeration for this hospitality in pravers and Nivoteon B., vol. 1, (h. \%.
611. BOASTING of Pride. Rijuzt $I$. In the batale of Nieopolis, Bajazet [the Turk] /refeatelat eonfederate army of athumbed thomsimel ('hristians, who had proudly boasted fhat if the sky should fill, they coubd uphold it on that bances. The far greiter part were sain or driven into the Damube; and Sigismond. (seaping to Constantinople ber tho river and tho lalak Seat retmrned after a long aircoit to his exhansterl kingedom. In the pride of victory, Banjazet threatened that he would besioge Budai; that loe would subdue the adjacent combties of G (ermany and Italy ; and that he would feed his horse with a busbed of oats on the nltar of st Peter at Rome. Ilis progress was checkerl, not by the miraculous interposition of the apostle, not ly a rruside of the Christian powers, hut by a long and prinful fit of the gont. Thedisordaris of the moral are sometimes corrected by those of tho physioal world; and an arrimonions bamer falling on a singre fibre of one man may prevent or saspead the misery of mations. fimuon's Rosme, rli. th.
612. BOASTING, Ridiculous. Imm'иtar. Once. when elneking my boastiug tow fretulently of myself in compmay, he said to me: "Joswell, in the kitehen of atl inn with his batek to the fire.

 - I have nof that alvantage.' 'sir,' said la. • i :Int the great Tiralmhey, who inverited the Now Flonelerale lron.'" | Note.| lt was n ither more nor las that at kimd of box-iron for smonthing

(118. BOASTING, Senseless. Iér Iorl. A.ル. 17 (fis. $\quad$ l will rame the stampes down their throats with the end of ney sword," eried the hriargate James, major of artillery, ns he lamied himselt with bringing into the fort more fieldpiones, as well as powder, shot, and shells. "ll they attempt to rise, I," he qupe ont, "will drive them all out ol town for a park of raseals, with $\therefore$ ih. 17 .
(i11. BOASTING, Vain. Prwiens. Tho Mirrames of I'resia advaneed, with 40,000 of her best, troops, for raze the fortifications of 1 atar, and signitied the day ant the hour on which the ment, alter the foils of victory. Jiecmeomerer an adrersary erfal to limasdf, by the new title "f (Xeneral of the East ; his siperior in the wience of war, hut mull inferior in the momber amel ghality of his troopses, which amomated empy to 2s) 0000 lisomans and stranser's relaxed in theit disciplines, and humbled hy reeme disussers. ( )n the level phain of Dida the stamdard of Persiat lifll; the immortals thed, the infantry threw away thoir burklers, ame sooto of the vampuished fell lefore the Roman sworls [under Belisarins] on the ticlal of hattle. -Gimbox's Rome, ch. 41.
615. BODY, Crippled. Timomer the Tirtar. The fame of Timona has pervaded the East and Wres-his postrerty is still invested with the intpreval tetle-and the admimation of his sabjects, who revered him almost as a deity, may be jus. litied in some dequere by the graise or confession of his hiterest cuemies. Although he was lame of al hamd and foot, his form and stature wert not momorthy of his rank; und his vigoroms health, so essential to himself and to the world. was corrolonated by temperance athd expreise. (ibmon's ROME (di. 6.).
616. BODY, Perfect. Amerían Indimms. Ilow rare is it to find the redeman sumint-ryed, or with a diseased spine, hatt or himel, or with any deficiency or cxeres in the organs ! . . The boost retimed mation is most liable to produce
 L. S., vol. B, (M, Ne.
617. BOLDNESS, Verbal. (ioldsmith. Goldsmith one day bronght lo the elab a printed ale, which he with others, had leen homring read by its author in a publie room, at the rate. of tive shillings each for admission. One of the company having read it aloud, Dr. Jolunsolt said: "IBolder words and more timorous meaning, I think, never were bronght wether."BONWELL'S JOLANON, p. 4:33

6\|木. BOMBAST rebuked. "Jupitre." Mrice. rrmes, the physician, having sucererled in somes desperate cases, got the smamma of dapiter. Ami he was so vatu of the ajpellation, that he mate wee of it in a letter to the king. . . Nean(rates .lupiler to King Igresilans, healoh." Ilis

619. BOMEAST, Ridiculous, Jrmis $I$. [dimmes told hiv disul celient Partinne:t : My intrentity is like the whiteness of my robe my pirity like iha metal of erold in my rown, nit firniness and my athections natural. like the remberse of my

620. BONDS inflated. $L$ ouis $X / 1$. The kiner Wished to give one more of his frame fustivals at Vermilles. and ordered his Minister of Finame 10) provide the money-4, 000,000 limuses. Jhe treasury was empty, and the aredit of the gow ermment was gone. A royal bond of 100 franess was worth sif frnmes. One day when the minister was pacing his antechambor, consial(ring low lie shonld raise the sum repuire d, he percejved, theongrl an opern door, two of his servinats looking over the papets on his desk. An iden darted into his mind. De drew mp the stleme of a grand lottery, whieh he pratemded was designed to pay off a certain deseription of homels. Thas seheme, hati written out, he left upon his desk, and remained alosent for a considerable time. It is two lackeys were, as he supposed. employed by stock jobleres to discover the intentions of the govermment with regard to the jssue and redempfion of its bonds. They did their work, and at once the bonds began to rise in price, and went wf in a lew dars from thirty-five to eighty-fue. When they had reached the jurec last named, and wre in active demand, the minister issued amd slipped mpon the market new bomols conongh to furnish him with the needful 4,000,000 franes. The trick was soon diseovered, amd the bonds dropped to twemtyeight.-C'ycuoredon of Binc. 1). 46.5.
621. B00K, A great Gift. Petrerrh. [The first of Latin scholars in his day.] The manifold a vociations of Petrarch, loweimul friemshap, his varions correspondence and frequent jomer neys, the laman lamel, amd his claborate compositions in prose and verve, in lation and Italiam, diverted him from a foredzan idiom ; and as he idvanced in life the atainment of the Greek fongrage was theobjert of his wishes rather than of his hopes. When le was absut fifly years of agre, a Byantine ambassaddor, his friend, mind a master of hota tongues, preswhed him whia a eopy of Homer ; and the answer of I'etrareh is at ance rxpresive ol his cootherne, gratitude: and regret. dfler celdhrating the gramesity of the doner, and the value of a gift mone preremos in his extimation than gold or ruties, he thas proceds: "Sour present of the gentaine and original text of the divine peet, the Guntain of all invention, is worthy of yourself sum of me; You have fultilled your promise, and satistied my desires. Yet :our liberality is still imperfocep; wita Ilomer you shoald have given me yourself -it grade who cond leard me into the tields of light, and diselose to my wonderintr eves the specious miraceles of the llind and Odyssey. J3nt, alas: IJomer ls dimul), or I unn deaf; nor is it in my power to ajoy thr beanty which I possess. I have seated him hy the sisle of Plato, the prince of peots nemr the prine of philosephers ; and I ghary in the sight of my illasidious ghests.-GinHosis JRombe, eli. dit.
(i622. B00K, Undelivered. Sirmin $l$, fohtusen. I Ie this year resumed his sclache of riving ans adition of síhakesperare with notes. Jfe jswad propeosals of comsinlerable lengrti, . . . but his indolence prevented him from pursuing it with that diliarcace which ilome rall collect those sattored farts, that gemins, howerer delte. penctrating, and luminoms, ammon discover hy its own force.

Fot nine yours clapsed before it saw the light. Jlis throis in hringing it forth lad been severe and remittent ; and at last we may almost concelade that the Ciesurean operation was performed by the knife of Chmerdill, whose upbrading satire, I dare say, mude dohnson's iriends urire him to desputeh.
" ITe for subseribers laits his hook,
And takes your cashlithe wheres the lrook? No matter where; wise fear, yon know, Forbids the roblinite of a foe ;
But what, to serve onf privato ends,
Forbids the cheating of our friends ?"

> — lुowWELI'א JoسNson, p. 8:).
623. B00Ks burned. B!/ Ilanqmin. [During the reign of James Il. and Wrinlimen III.] seditious, treasomahle, imm molicensed hooks and pamplilets [were burned by the hamginan at Charing Cross, by ordor of Parlimment].KNight's Exi., vol. it, el. 10, p. 158.
624. B00Ks, Dearth of, Englamd. An eaquire passed nmong his meighbors for a preat scholar if Iludibras and Baker's Chronicle, Tartton's Jests and the Seven ('hampions of Christendom lay in his hall window mong the fishingrods and fowling-pioces. No circulating library, no look society then existed even in the capital; but in the capital those students who could not afford to purchase largely had a resouree. The shops of the great hooksellerss. near Saint Panl's Churchyard, were roowded evory day and all day long with readers, and a known customer wis often permitted to ranry a vohme home.

As to tlee latdy of the manor and her damenters, their literary stores generally consisted of a prayer-book ind a receipt-book.
But during the latter part of the seventeenth contury, the conture of the femule mind seems to have berem almost entirely neglected. If a damsel hat the least smatioring of literature, she was regirfled as a prodigy.-Macatlay's ENa., ch. 3.
625. BCOXS, Divine. Zinderesta. To the first Zoroaster $i$ : attributed the composition of the "Zendavest, " ac collertion of books whirln he pretended, ike the Roman Noma, of have roeave' from heaven. These bosks he presenter to his sovereign Gustashp, the King of Batctriana; and confirmed their anthority, " . vine mission, by performirir.
 a convert, and abjured, along y $:$ the iburt of his subjects the wors? ; 13. "at termed Siabrism.-TYuthea's Hist., Book 1 , ch. 11.

626. B00KS, Enchanted by. Washington $I_{r}$ ving. From his eleventh yar he was passiomately fond of remeling vogages and travels, a litte libary of which was within his remed; and he used to sererete andides to entalde him to read these transporting works in holl. The permsal of such books gave him it strong desire to go to sea. and at fourteron low had almost made up his mind to rin away and be a sailor. But there was a difleculty in the way. LI Chad a partionlar aversion to salt pork, which he endeavored to overcome by eating it at every opportunity. Jleation endeavored to aredistom himself to a hard bed by sleeping on the thoor of his room. Fortmately for the infant literature of his country, the pork grew more disernsting instead of less, and the hard floor became harder, until he gave up his purpose of trying a sailors life.-Cychoredis of Bioc., p. 719 .
627. B00ks, Forbidden, Reign of Elizetheth. "Whereas divers books," ran in royil proclambtion, "filled with heresy, sedition, and treasom, lave of hate and be daily bromght into the realm out of foreign countries and places beyond seas, and some also covertly printed within this realm and cast abroad in sumdry parts thereof, whereby not only God is dishonored but also cacouragement is, given to disobey lawful princes and governors," any person possessing suth books "shall be reported and taken for a reled, and shall without delay be execoted for that offence according to the order of martial law."-lhast. of Eng. Peophe, ś 686.
628. B00Ks, Passion for. Dr'. Itrrey. [The famous Dr. Harvey was attending physician to Charles I. During the fight at Edgehill, at the commencement of the Revolution, he withdrew under a hedge, took a book out of his pureket and bergan to read ; but he hat not read long before in bullet grazed the ground near him, and ransed him to remove.]-KNigntr's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 1, p. 6.
629. B00KS, Publicatinn of. Restricted. [In 1662] the number of master printers in london was limited to twenty; no books were allowed to be printed out of London, except it the two universities and at York; and all manticensed books were to be seized. and the publisher punished with heavy penalties.-KNightr's Exg., vol. 4, ch. 1\%.
6SO. BOOKS rejected, By Publishers. Milton conld with difliculty find a publisher for his "Paradise Lost ;" Crabie's "Library" and other poems were refused by Dodsley, Berkett, and other London publishers, though Mr. Murmy many years after purchased the eopyright of then for exsoon. Keats could only get it publisher by the aid of his friends. . TRobinson Crusoe" was refinsel by one publisher alter another, and at last sold to an ohsere bookseller for a tritle. . . . Bulwer's " Petham" was at first rejected. . . . The "Vestiges of Creation" was repeatedly refused. Thackeray's"Vanity Fuir" was rejected by a, manaine. "Mary Burton" and "Jane Eyre" went the round of the trade. Howard offered his "Book of the Seasons" to successive publishers. . . "Uncle Tom's (albin" could searecly tind a publisher in Londom. Smileg' Binef Biograbilese, p. 5its.
681. B00Ks, Religious. Simmi Johnsom. I fell into an inaterntion to religion, or an indiffer. ence about it, in my ninth year. The chureh at Lichtield, in which we had a seat, wanted reparation, so 1 was ${ }^{(1)}$ go and thad a sent in other dhure hes : and thaing Imal eyes, and being awkward about this, 1 used to go and read in the ficlds on sumday. This halbit continued till my fourterenth year, and still 1 tind a grent relne: tance to go to charch. I then berame a sort of hax telker against religion, for 1 did not murh thimb against it ; mul this lasted till 1 went to OXford, where it would not ber suffered. When at Oxford I took up haw's "'surious ('all to al Holy Life," experting 10 thad it a dull book (as such books generally are), and jurhapes to langh at it. But I fomd Law quite un overmatel for me; and this was the tirst occasion of my thinking in carnest of religion, after 1 becance capable of rational inquiry.-Bosweha's Jonnson, p. 13.
6822. B00Ks, Scarcity of, Aff of Charlemaque. The low state of literature may be tigured from the extreme seareity of looks, the sulbjerts on which they were written, and the very high estimation which was put upon them hy those who possessed them. The gift of a trifling manaseript to a monastery of the life of a saint was suflleient to entitle the donor to the perpetunl prayers of the brotherhood, and a mass to le celebrated forever for the salvation of his somb. I complete copy of the saterel scriptures given to a city or State was esteemed a prinecly donation. The reputation of learning was then acquired at a very casy rate. Extrats from the different works of the Fathers literadly transeribed, and often patehed together withont order or connestion, compose the valuable works of those hamimaries and instructors of the age; nothing was more conam than those commentaries, ralled "Catene," which were illustrations of some of the books of scripture, by horrowing sentences successively from hati a dozen of the Fathers, making ench to illustrate a verse in his tum. Typiek's Hint., Book 6, ch. 3.
633. B00TY, Division of. Trojan Wrar. The troops had no regular pay; they served at their own charges alone. The levies were made by a general haw obliging each family to furnish a soldier, under a certain penalty. The only reeompense for the service of individunls was their rated share of the booty, for none were allowed to plunder for themselves; everything was brought into a common stock, and the division was made by the chiefs, who had a larger proportion for their share.-Truther's Masi., Book 1, ch. 8.
63.1. BOY, An enchanted. Dutiel C'rorkett. [At Ballimere he saw a ship for the first time.] Is he stood on the dock, gazing at the ship with opern eyes and mouth, bewidered at the sight, one of the sailors accosted him and asked him if he would not like to go to Liverpool. Forgetting his engagement with the wagoner, he joyfully consented, and rushed off to the wagon to gett his clothes, although ten mimutes before he did not know that there wis such $a$ thing as a ship in the workd. The wagener prositively refused to let him go. Watching his chance, however, he bundled up his clothes and started for the wharf ; but it so chanced that, in turning the eor ner of a crowded street, he came full upon his nanstra，whorollared him amd brought him hank．

635：5．BOY，A precocious．Themisforles．［The－ mistarem，tho prudent wemembl，when a bey， was fall of spirit and tlre，guick of apjor Incosion，maturally inclined to bold attempts，and likedy to make a great atatesman．Jis homes of in idfomess and play ；but he was always invain－ ing athd composinge derelanations，the sibjoeres of which were either the impenchement or defermer of some of his seloon－fellows ；se that his mater would often say：＂Boy，you will la nothing rommon or indifferent；yon will rither bre a Ilessing or a rurse to the commmaty．＂－－I＇s．－ TABCII．
 fifteren who wrole pieres for jts hamble collumms． worked in composing the typers，as well as in printing off the sheats，and limself，as rat－ riar，distributed the papers to comstomers．－B．an－ CHopr＇s U．S．，vol．3，rll．：3：3．

687．BOY，A reformed．Inrial（roclistt．［llo ran away from home，alld aftrr two vears＂ab－ sence he returned on a winter eve．He had a joyful welcome．］He low set at work in carnest to assist his old linther，for whom he hat not given mach hedp or comfort hitherto．IS six meths＇ bard work he paid one of his latheres（i bts， which hatd ratused the old man mumb anaict？ Then he worked six months more to enared a mote of su3 whifel his lather had given，and bronght it to his father as a present．Noxt he Went to work for sumbly other months，until he had provided himself with a supply of deecent clothes．He was now nearly wenty years of are， and being mud mortitied with lije inability 10 read or write，be made：a bargain with a（quaker sedmommaster，agreeing to work two days on the Quakers farm for every three that he attender his selool．He picked up knowledge rapidly， and after sis months of this armangement fie combl read．write，and cipher sulliciently well for the ofdinary purpeses of life on the frontior．－

6：3＊．BOY，Runaway．Ismjamin Fituklin． A．1．1\％e3．Vexed with the arbitrary proceedings
 his brother＇s japer to be superviserl］．．．indig－ nint also at the ty ramy of a brother who，as a passionale master，ofteri beat his aplerentier ． but seventern years old，sailed elandestinely for New Fork；aind，tinding there no（＇mployment， eressed to Amboy；weit on fort to the Ibela－ Ware ；for want of a wimd rowed in a boat from Burliugton to Philadelphia；and bearing the marks of his labor at the oar，weary，hangry， having ：．a single dollar ．．the runaway ＂prentiere－rreatest of the some of Nuw Engrand of that gerncration ．．．stelperal on share to serk food，occupation，sladter，and fortume．－B．aN－

683．BOY，A＂scientific．＂Rolurt staphenson． Oecasionally leobert experimented ．．．upon the cows in Wigham＇s enclosure，which he clec－ trified hy means of his eleetric kito，making them： run abont the field with their tails on emd．－ Smiles＇Bhef Bioghaplifes，p． 57.

640．BOYHOOD，Dall．Oliver Golekmith．OI－ iver＇s alueation begrn when he was abmut three yenre old－that is t．siy，he was gathered materthe wings of one lmine erond old mother－ ly dames．foumd in ${ }^{\text {a }}$ derether the whode callon und ot the netighbor－ villure，who roluck houed．to tanch them thoir lethow and kerp them out of harm＇s way．．．．Aparemily he did not murele protit hy it for she confemed he was ane al the dallest boys she had ever dealt with，in－ sommelh that she had sometimes dombed whethere it was possible to make anvthing of him：$a$ common rase with imagimative chitdren，who al clementary mudy by the pictibings of the mer times the farmers of spain lat their pias roam in laree droves in the forests，atternded liy ＂boy，who kept them from wamberiner too far， and hrowe them at night to an condosure near home．Pizatro，the eotiqueror of Prom，was one of these bitio tenders when（ohmohns diacovered Ameriat in flas．Jo was then seventeren yeirs of ago－a rude，tough，wilful lad，ignorant of everyhing exoret the mammers and costoms of the innimuls lee drowe．To his dyiner day he could not write his mome or reata sentenere．．．． loere was a strange pieco of timber to make a ignor ant，livitur in aseluded region，and re－

612．BOYYOOD，Ingenulty in．Sï $/ \mathrm{st} / 1 /$ Ver－ tom．liaz fiat rite paythings were littlo sums． hatmmers，chicels，and hateleqs，with which he matr many rupions and ingenions machines． There was is wimbaill in courec of ereetion near lis homer，He watehed tha workmen with the greatest interest，and conatrueted small morded of the mill，where，one of his friends satid，was ＂as elean and rurions a piere of workmanship as the oriarimal．＂He was dis⿻atisfied，hawerer＂ with his mill，beramse it womld not work when Hhere was mow wind ；and therefore he added to it a contrivance loy which it cond low kept in motion by a monse．lle mate a water－clock， the motive－power of which on the dropping of water on $n$ wherl．．．．He romstuctad also a four－wherled carriage，propelled by the person sitting in it．To ammes his seloolfellows，he made very ingronious kites，to the tails of which heatached hanterus of rimpled preper．which， being lighted by a candle，and sent up in the evening，alarmed the rusties of the parish．（Oh－ servinir the shadows of the stan，le marked the hours and hatf hours hy＇driviner in peese on the sale of the house，and at lengili pertereded the sun－dial which je still shown．－I＇shros＇s NE： Tos，p．75．

6．43．BRAVERY in Battle．Prwialw．［When the Romams lresiogred and cippured Pettan they were met by valiant men．］Of the I＇ersian gar－ rison， 700 perished in the siege， 2300 survived to defend the brench．One thonsand and seventy were destroyed with fire and sword in the？last assalits ；and if 730 were made prisoncers，only 18 tmong them were fommd without the marks of honorable wounds．The remaining 500 es－ caped into the eitadel，which they maintuined without any hopes of relief，rejer ling the fairest terms of eapitulation nnd servier till they were lost in the flames．＇They died in obedience to the
 ch．4：．

64．1． $\qquad$ 20，000）affatiast 4（1），1400． ［When the Fromel and Vemetian erusators had Laken the suburbs ot Constuntinople，their zen］ was then for greater heroisar．I By these daringe achievements，a remmant of 20,0 ont Latins wolide al the lirense of laveinging a eapital which com－ not willing，tobeararms in defenceol their conat Hy．－Gimuon＇s Rowk，ch．bo．
（615）．BRAVERY，Brilliant．I＇tul，Jomes．［．II
 At daybrak，with fwo boats and thirtyone men，foe landed on a whati of the lown，pro． vided with a lantern and lwo tar－barrels．Ila went alone to a fort difending the town．sumb． tholing it deserted，climbed over the wadi，and spiked rvary gim，without alarming the gar－
 nea：by．Then he surrombled the gimurd－homse， and look every matn prisoner．Next，he spramer into the only other fort remaminge，and spiked fteg gims．All this，whill was the work of tra minutes，was arommplislued without moise ambl withont resistamor The ships bering then at his merey，be mate a bontire in the sterernge of one of them，which hated up throngle the hatchway，while Jonmes and his mon stood by， pisten in hame，to kerep off the prophle，whom the thames had alarmed，and who now ramo run－ ning down to the shore in hmalreds．＇To the forts！was the arg．But the forts wore harm－ foss．When the ifre had made such hadwaly that the destruction of the whole floet secmeal certain，（＇uptain Jones gave the order to embark． He was the last to take his place in the boms． He moved off leisurely from the shore，and re－ gained his ship withoitt the loss of a mam．The people，however，suceerded in confining the tire to two or three ships．But the whole coast was panirestricken．Every ablo－bodied man joined the rempanios of patrolmen．It was mathy a month before the imhabitants of that shore went tos sherp）at night withont a cervain dreatl of lanal

646．BRAVERY in Death．（olouel Frathk Mr－ C＇ullonth．［This（＇onfolerate gnerrilla was capt－ ured in Missouri by the［non army．］A court－ martial was held，amel he was sentenced lo lo shot．．．N De recerived the information of his fate with preffect composure bont protested agrienst it． Leanime against the fone he wrote a fow lines to his wife．These，with his wate h，he delivered to the ollieer to be given to her．［pon the way to his execution，har rapuested the privilege to give the command to tire．whirh was grantom． All beingr reaty．he salid：＂What I have tome． I have done an a principin of right．Aim at tha heart．Fire＂．＂－Polstatio＇s secoxb Yfitk of THE WAに，rh，B，p． 173 ．

617．BRAVERY，Example of．Hinimelemi $I$ ． ［In the lorrible raverses whirlh followed Napm－ leon，he met the Allies at Aeris）A live shell having fallen in fromt of eme of his yomng lat－ talions，which reeoiled and waveral ion expereta－ tion of an explosion．Napoleon，te masenre them， spurred his charger toward the inserwisent of do－ struction，made him smatll the burating matroh． wated malaken for the explosion，and was blown um．Rolline in the dnst with hiv matilatal
stard，und rising without a woumd amid the phat dits of his sohlifres，he calmly called for amollar horse，mal continned to hrave the armpe－shot，and （o）Ily into the thirekost of the Inttle．－Anmorr＇s Nindokos 13．，vol．：rh．シ0．

 lesaness and despemation，spurred his maddened larse into the very midst of the Austrime ranks， and grasjexl a bunar．At that momont his horse licll flead bemeath hime and half a dozan swords slittered above his hemed．With harculean aromath and ugility，bu extriated himself from the fallen staed，lemperl unon the horve of an Sustrian onlarer brlind the rither，planged his wworl through the looly of the ollherer，and hurled him from his samble；laking his seat le lomght his why back to his followers，moving shan in the melee six of the Austrintes with his own hamil．．．．Napoleon promoted Jammes om the spot．－Inmor＇s Nimobion If．，vol．1，（lh． 5.

6．19．BRAVERY，Fearless．William．II．In 109：Willian was homting in the Now Forest， when ha rereived at messame that Hulie hat do－ fated the Normans mad surprisel the dity of Mans．Without alrawing bit loc arallopad to tho const，and jumpal into a rossel lying at anchor． ＇The day was stormy，and the salors ware mwill－ ingto（mbark．＂Nail instamtly ！＂（ried the bold man ；＂kings are never drowned．＂．．．Ite was sumat tha ham of histronps．－Ki Nmor＇s ENG．， vol．1，wh．14，p．230．
（350）． $\qquad$ （＇ulmul Voultrié，s，м． 1 \％r6． ［The British，mathr Admiral Loral Itowe，were preparing to bombard the battery on Sullivan＇s Ishal in（＇harlaston harbor，alterward indled Fort Monltrie．Tenguns ugainst ono．（＇aptain Lemprier［said to the commander ：］＂\rall，eol－ onel，what do yout think of it now ？＂＂We shall beat them，＂sitid Moultric．＂The men－of－var，＂ rojoined the enptain，＂will knock your fort down in balf mo homr．＂＂Then，＂snid Moultria， ＂we will lie bedind the ruins and prevent their mon from lambing．＂［IIe drove the British awhy with is loss of only rleven men．］－B．as－ chofr＇s U．太．，vol． 8 ，（＇i）， 66.

6i51．BRAVERY，Heroic．Rubert Devereur． ［Jt the taking of（＇adiz by the English in S59t， form time the result sermed dombtiol ；but at the arition momant the Eat of Exsex threw his own stambard ovire the wall．＇To save the homor of the ensign，cach soldier trial tole first in follow－ iner it by lemping down from the wall，sworl in hame．The lown was takenl by their vitor．］-

$6.5 \cdot 2$. $\qquad$ Richard Viremrille． ［ $\ln 1503$ Víe Almiral Richard（irenville，with grat odds against him，fought the Imlian the of of sain from three in the aftermon to daybreak the next morninge．He］was three times wounderd duringe tha action，in whirl he arain and agiain repulsed the（rmenty，who constantly assaliled him with fresh vosisils．At length the goon！ship liy mpon the waturs like so log．Her captain propeosed to bow her up rather than surrender；but the ma－ jority of the crew compellod him to yield him－ self al prisonur．He dicd in a few days，and his lant wordy were：＂Here die I，Riclonral Gren－ ville，with ：＂juyful and quide mind；for that do, flamilig lor his country, quern, rillgion, hud

4353. BRAVERY, Pro-eminence by, Jutt if

 ple whth enthosiasm. 'J'he great sereret of ber sureress was the Ioblduess of her nefuclise when 855. BRAVERY rewarded, $I_{1}$ mothlive. |lluring a flowe batho with the Khoroishitess Mahomot was sojocel with a sudelen fitinting which teprived hime of his semses. [IC semen reeovered] from the swoon with a face nll meliant with hoper. "I have sern the Stpirit of (iod," satil he, "with his war-horse brhand hine. He was prephating to rombat on our side. Whocever shall have fonght bravely to-day and diod of wemonds recorved in

 KlF, p. ItK.
(65). BRAVERY, Youthful, Roign of Jomms I/. Guce of tha fromeribell ('overantors, over conar ly sickness, land fonmel shelter in the homse dif a rexpertable widow, mom hat diad there. 'The corpe was discowered ly the latid of Wresorlatl, a petty tymat. . . . This nunt palled down the homse of the poor woman, ratr ricel away hor furniture, aml, low vine hav and her yominger ehildren to wamber in the ficles. dragigen her son Andrew, whon wils still a lad, bedori ('laverhouse, who litppemad to be marols inis lhatorh that part of tho rommity. ('lisver. house was hat days stomgely lamont. . But Wes forted a sulhen consent. Ther gens wore bated, and the youlh was lohi to pull his bonot ower murderers with the Bible in his hand. "I ran book you in the face," he sitid; "I have dome mothing of which I nered bre ashanmel. But how will you look in that day when yon shatl bu julped by what is writion in this "bomk?" IJu LAY'S ENG., (ll. 4.
657. BREAD, Public Provision of. R(mmetw. [1)wrine the decline of hhe Roman Empire, ] for the convenionee of the laty julderiams, the monthly distributioms of corn ware convertal into a daily allowance of bread ; a great mamber al' owens were comatraded amd mantained at the publice exproses ; and at the apperinted hour catch eitizen, who wias furnished with a tickel, asremeal the flaght of stops, which hate beren assigned to his pecouliar quater or division, and received, either as a gift or at a very low price. a loaf of bread of the weight of there penmals, for thr hase ol his lamily.-Gimbonis Rome, (1). 31.

65\%. BREAD Question, The. Jorectrince to. [IMring the French Revolution humdreds of marktewomen, attended by an armed mob of mom, wont to Verstilles, to demand hrend of the National Asemily, there being a ereat destitution in paris They entered the hall.] There

Was a disenssionupon the crimimal laws. A Ass. womma cried wit, "silop) that babbler" ; that is mot the ghastlon; the queation is atmat brime."

650. BREVITY, Famous. Itlius (irxats. In the mecomet la gave Amintins, one of his friemis in IRome, of the rapinlay mad dexpmeth with whide he gainel his vietory, he mate use only. of threr words. " I smme, I sim, I rompurard." 'Their haviner all the same form and tormimation ('is.

6(3). BRIBERY, Contemned, Siir Istiti Nitrhim|in the roynl mind| will siemalability ami pu-and said, at length, that the offor cance lion " a $\therefore 1$ decire yon to tell the !n! that if she was mon's Niwnon, p. Kis.

 [Tha Marma Charta| put ant vind to that rmarHons rorruption by whirl justice wis sold, mot. by more fremonal bribury of corropt minintors oi the ('rown, but ly heibing the ('mwn thromer therir lames. 'The rolls of the lixeloctumernernt

(i)(i2. BRIBERY, Disguised. Ew, matily whe nover carriod farther. Mr. Hathan other transperable properts. is mever mentioned cirtiou thto that habo." Bribury in the approved form of sclling a pair of jark buens lier : ats, and a pair of wath-lather homehes for diso, I)r. Johnam lald that $\cdot$ if he viere a gentleman of landed property, lewondil torn it all histenants who diel mol votr lom the tambidate whom
 1. $24 \%$
 [la the lrish Parliament, in lsoll, there was at groat rontest in biturey Land ('anthrangh writes to lla Dake ol Pordian : We have mar doubterl proofs, thourd not surh as we can dischose, that they are cibabled to alfer ats high as Éjon) for an individaal vole, and I lament to sbate that there arm imbivibutls rematiming mmong us that are likely to yidd to this tomp

64.1. $\qquad$ ('ommmmis. |In 164:3 Edmumal Wallar, omere al lamoun juxt amd mamber of Parliament, was arrested as a mblepibator in a plot to bring the kinges tromps into the aphital during the civil war, Aularey stys:] Ile had much ado to save his lile; and in order to do it sold his estate in Bedfordshirre worth £I300 per anomm, to Dr. Wright, for E'1t),000) (much maler valur), whirh was prooured in twonty-four hours' time, or alse he hat here

Innged. Whth this money be hribed the Honse, whill wis the tirst thene a House of commons wan ever bribeal. - Kinaliter Exa., vol. 4, ch. 1.
6355. $\qquad$ Sicotch Prarliament. [In 17̃1: Lort Oxford madit the Sooteh lopds ware grown so extravagant la their etemmals, that it was hightime to let them see they ware not no manh wanted ne they lmagined, for they wore now eonte to expert a reward for every vote
 1. 380.
 John Trevor, being a 'Tory in princible, naderbok to manage that party, provided he was lurnished will such sums of monery us might pur-- hase some sotes ; and thy him began the paction of buying off men. The king [William [ll.] sadid lie haterd the practlen as mund ns any man conld do; lunt he saw it was not possible, comsingering the corrighion of ble age to avoid it. unless The would ratanger the whole.-Kinanter Evor, vol. it, (f). 't, p. 10)
667. $\qquad$ - Duher of Nimeratlé. ['Tlac Duke of Newonsthe, one of the rhidel adviners of (feorge JI. In 1747, ] wis the most adroit and axperianced traflocker for seats in the Jomse of ('ommons. Ite bourdit lemoughes with in profuse employment of his own wealth, that made his fanily fower mbost inresistible. Ile bought members with the secret-servide moner: Ile rajoled; he promised; and if whedling and lying were in vain, he frecly puial. This was Newcastle's pecoular hatent. He hugged the dirty work of his busom as if were the great ghary of his life. De would share with no man the distinction of hribhg for voles. - Kindarrs

6(3W. BRIBERY of the Needy. for Limpror. [la lind, when the clectors dit Gromany voted for mat ampror in pare of Maximilim, deCeased, Ilemry V'll. of Englamul, Frameis I. of Framere and ('harles of Nomin worn all matitious madidates for the varant theome. | Eanch ol these monarehs had bribed the needy chertome princes to ant rommous extent. 'Tllu skilall management of Chates serumed his manimons (309. BRIBERY, Occasion for. S'mull P'ay. 'The romptroller of the mint (who was a priest) was usmally a joblure of the makest eharatere. And all the ejvitotheres were underpaid in their sedaries. They all bor lsed to promts and lensess for their reward; and they all lived upons something evem bether than expechaney, for they all were bribed. 'The serondary oflices wore openty bomght. There was small jay, bat harge jeritlation. It was in vain that Latimer eriod out to the yomig King Edwarl, "Such as be meet to hear ofllece, seek them out : hare them; give them rompetent and literal fres, that they slatl mot need to take any hribes." . . . The high phaces of the law were those in which the bribe was most regularly administered. When Bacon fell in the next hall eentury, for receiving bribes, he followed the most aprowed precedents, aceording to which chamerellors and rhief justices hefore him manamed their state amblemobled their posterity. . . . The bribery of juries was so common, that a mon-killer with rird friends cond escape for a rown propery administared to each guest-monger: for so the vembor of a ENa, vol. 2, ©l. 24, p. Hi,

670. BRIBERY, Papal. Aldrmitr 1\%. Ap. plication was mate fo lare Jope for a divorce lof ('harles XII. from demme his wifel: und Nexmoder, who was not a manto hesitate at any liffamy, prowhed he obtalued his priere, rendily ngred to pronomace the desired wenteme in re rvel war had now lasted nbout len yan- : and power to the daring mad the politic Misedomi m. The Atheniams, timeling no adrantuge an their fart, and hematy tired of homilitias which gata

 Philip with instrucilons to mextiald a acheral out the nergotialions, and in the mean time bro.
 wir. 'This comblat might have apoluad the syes of the Athenimas, had mot their cormped orntors. the pensionces of Philip, latomed andiduonsly to lonter their blind serority. . . . P’ilip porrad town like 11 toment and carried all befor him. . . Philip berame the arhiter of 67\%. BRIBERY, Reproach of, $1 / \mathrm{mmax} / \mathrm{m} / \mathrm{mox}$. Ilargalas hat the elarge of Mexamber: tratswe in Bhbylon, and, Hattering himself that he would mever relurn from his Imbian expedition, le gave jato all manater of erimes and exeresome. At last, when he fommel that Alexamder was ratly reburning, mot that he lowk 11 werere ace ar to mareh ofle, with foted talcuts and biono min, into Ditien. LNote. ]. As he applied th the perople of $I$ thens for sladter, amblesind protere[roll, amd sumported his ajpligation with all their (her Jarpalus ofl immediately, and lo be jurtical-days after, when they were taking an ancomb of the treasure, harimbes, pereving that bemosthemes was mon pleased with ond of the shig and fashion, dosired him to take it in his hamal, and feed the wodght of the gold. Demosthemes being surprised at the weight, amt:akiner Darpalus how mand it mioht bring, he smiled. and saill, " It will hinge you lwenty talents." Ant as soon as it was hight, be setht hita the (Inp with that sum. For harpalus kinew well enomgh low to distingrish a man's pasion for gohl by his pleasure at the sight and the keen lowk he rast mon it. Demosthems comblat me sist the temptation . . herererved hate money. . . and went over to the interest of Itapalas. Next day he came into the assombly wida a dabatity of wool and handages about his neek: and when the people called upon him to get up and speak, he made signs that he hat lost his voice. Cpon Which some that were by said, "it was no common homrsenoss that he got in the night: it was a homeseness ocerasioned ly swallowing gold and silver." Afterwimal, whan all the peojle were appraised of his tuking the brile , und he wanterl (1) sjuak ith his own defence, they would tom sulfer him, but ralsed a clathor and expressed their hadigmation. It the shme lime semelobuly yon mot listen th the man with the cup $\because-1$ Pla「гинен.

 nere of gered mul avil, I belleve thut he was an heroruplible man, though no oure ever hand fally. Once when be was contherl to his rown by in ahseress. he was wated upon by a millionoire, who oltered to give hime a deal for two and a half million arrew of hand, mow worth

 Domghas lased to say in tolling the story: "he ran from the rown, unc' I gave him n parther 13. :llt.
67.4. BRIBERY, Rojal. ('herliv II. The longr prorogation of the larlf:anout in November, 115\%, was a mocrithe arrangromat betwern Churles [1L.] and Lonis [XIV.], for which the unworthy king of England recelved Sha, ofs) crowns ['rom the King of France.] - K vatar's J.wa., vol. 4, ch. $\dot{\sim} 0$.
675. BRIBERY, Seeming. Reigu uf ''hurlis $I I$. [Lanls XIV. sent corrupion moncy w Eughand. ] The most upright member of the vountry party, William, Lard lassell, son of the Earl of Bedforil. did not seruple to concert with a forcign mhsion selhemes for embmrassing his own sovercign. This was the whole extront of Russell's offence. Hos principles mad his fortune alike raised him abovo nll tomptations of a sordid kind: lut there is too much reason to befieve that some of his associates were less sermpulons. It would be unjust to impate to than the extreme wickedness of taking hrihes to injure thoir comatry. On the $w$ ntrary, they ment to serve her; bint it is impossible to deny that they were mem and indelicate enomgh to let a foreign prince pay them for serving her.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. O .
 "Why," nsked one of the Eurrlish Torios of the Tory governor of Massurbusittis-" why hath not Mr. Adams heren taken off from his oppowition hy an oflice?" 'To which the governor re. plied: "Such is the ohstinary and intlexible disposition of the man, that he never would be conciliated by any allice whatever." This was indeced the trith. His danghter, who long sinrived him, and with whom living persons have conversed, used to say that her father once refinsed a pension forin the British Government of $x 2000 n$ year. Once, when $n$ speret messenger from (ionoral Gage threatened hinn with a trial for treason if he persisted in his opposition to the qovernment, mad promiserd him honors and wealth if he workd desist, Adams rose to his feet, and grave him this inswer: "Sir, I trust I have long since made my peare with the King of kings. No personal consideration shall induce me to atmundon the righteons eanse of my comory. Toll tiovemor Ghge it is the adviere of Simmed Adams to him no langer to linalt the forlinger of 101 canture.

© 57 . BROTKERHOOD acknowledged. Amerihond sodent, that in bether commonly mas the vellage and hiv pertis. 'There are wo heggars namger them, wo latherless chidhom unprovided for: The famblies that dwell together, hut tos. Ether. 10 mim together, thene together. conatitute

H7凶. BROTHERs, Division between. Romulu* amel himux. In the lounding of lomue the | wo hroblure tirst differed nbuat the phare where thair nuw city was to be milt, mad riforrlug the matter to thedr gramdfinther, le mivised them to have it derided by mughry. In this mugnry former prevailed that the city should be built "pon Momen Palutiar, the huilders, being divided luto two rompanies, were no better than two factoms. At last, Remms, in romempt, lenperd over the work, mind suld, "Just so will the enomy lemp over it !' wherempon ('eler gave him a dotilly how, and maswerod, "In this manmer will min ditizons repulse the encmy." Some say that Ramulas whs sor nitle ted at the death of his heother, that he wonld have hide violent hands upon himself If he had not been pre-vented.- lenetallon's Rombles.
(679. BRUTALITY of Persecutors, Inr: Lime. lend Theyldor: [At the stake] he would havo spoken to them, hut the gimuld thrust a tipstaff into his month. As they were plling the figrols. a brutal man cast a fagot nt him, which wommded him so that the bood ran down his fiace. "O friend," said he, "I have harm rnough; what need that ?" Lat us draw a veil over his sulferings, and sie only the por womin [his wife] who knelt it the stake to join in his prnyers, and wond nent he driven awny.Kximbita Evo., vol. 3, ch. 6.
6NO. BRUTEE, Immortality of. Simuel, Johnsom. An essaty, writeon ly Mr. Demen, a allvine of the Clomrit of Englimel, maintaining the future life of brutes, liy an explication of certain parts of the Se riptures, was mentioned, and the dontrine insisted on by a gentlemme who seemed fond of curions speculation. . . When the poor speculatist, with a serions metaphysiral pensive face, addressed him, "But romsly, sir, when we sue a very sensille dog, we don't know what to think of him." Johnson. rolling with joy at the thought which bemmed in his eye, turned quickly round, and replied, "'True, sir; and when we see a very foolish fellow, we don't know what to think of him."Bosweldis Jonnson, p. 1in.
681. BUILDING, Colossal. Colnsyenm. The amphithentre of Titus, which so well deserved the epithet of colossal, . . . Was a hailding of an elliptic figure, five handred and sixty form foet in length, and four handred and sisty-seven in breadth, fomded on fourseome arches, and rising, with four successive orders of arehitecture, to the height of one humdred and forty feet. The outside of the editice was incrusted with marble, and decornted with statues. The slopes of the vast concave which formed the inside wre filled :and surrounded with sixty or eighty rows of sentes of murhle likewise, movered whh cumblous, mul capable of recelving will ense nbout fomr--rore themsand spectators. Sixty fomer momiturios f lor loy that mame din demers were vely bitly dia.
 and the entrances, pasumes, and shatrases wer comerleal with shelh "xpluixite skill, that ench whenoit tronbla or coufusion. Nohbing was with to the romernionee and plomsura if the spertators. 'They wore proterted froble then drawn overy thatig lamis. 'The sir was cemtimisally wereshod loy the playinge of lommana mand profusely impregrated by the gratel sesent of aromathes. In the centere of the enlis. . the ureme, or stage, was strewed with the thand wal. anil sucersuively assiomed the most difteroll forms. At one inoment it sememed 10 rise ont of the enth, like the garden of the Hesperiders. and was afterward broken into the rocks mod caverns of Thrmet. The subteramemes pipes conveyed minexhamstible supply of water ; mod what land just beforo appeated a level phain might be suddenly converted inton wide lake covered whith armed vesseds and replenishad with monsters of the dep. [Forniture of silver, and of gold, and of amber.]-Gimon's liont: ch. 12.

682. BUILDING opposed. Reign of James $1 /$. [I Hering the Duke of Nommouth's rebellion in the West the emmons authorized the king to rulse an (xtruordinary sum of $\mathbf{E} 460.000$ for his present meressities.

The seheme of taxing homas hately buit in the cupital was revived and armaly ously supported by the country gentrmon. was resolved, not only that such houses shomal be taxed, but that a bili should be brought in prohibiting the laying of any new fonnditions within the bills of mortatity. The resolution, however, was mot earried into elfore Powerfulmen who had hund in the suburbs and who hoped to see new streetes and sultares rise on their estates. exertednll their influ-face against the project.-

Macaulay's Eng., clo. 5.

653. BUILDING, Ruined by. Marrus ('ressuıs. Crassus observed how liable the city was or tires, and how frequently lomses fell down; which misfortunes wore owing to the weight of the louidings, amd their standing so close together. In consequence of this, he provided himself with slaves who werc carpenters and masons, and went on collecting them matil he had upward of tive humdred. Then he made it his bisiness to buy honses that were on tire, and others that joined upon them; and he commonly had them at a low price, by reason of the fears ind distress the owners were in about the eveut. Hener, in time, he became master of a great part of lame. But though he had so many worknen, he built no more for himself than one house in which he lived. For he used to say, "That those who love building will soon ruin themselves, and need no other enemies."-Phe raken's Chasses.
654. BURIAL, Companions in. White IItus. Gorgo, which, under the appellation of Carizme, Las since enjoyed a temporary splendor, was tha, residence of the king, who exercised a legal authority over:m obedient people. . . . Theonly where they hand butiad blake und the I'romen hir's burlies were mbell up and hariad at 'lyburn.

 Abley wa- him body. In a rare chll volumbe wo

 ef 'romwedt, that be was privalely buried by night in the Thumes, in order to aver the lis. dignilies which it was forseren world lap wranked on his beel! ; m. I this hy hiscowndires. tion. Ohur ramers assign monher apot to his burial. It will ! it matters lithe. If: know wher his work is, and how far that is harimed. Wrener him ating there, whering in an new $22:$.

6W6. BURIAL, Bespect by. lintfleficte. Nieine who werp misend in carrying off the 小: ald. lhat as som as he kllew it, heroperel his wares, and sent a herald to the ememy, wank hase to ake away those lowlies. This bre did, though there whs a haw and custom subsisting by which these who desire a trenty for carrying off the to erext a trophy. Ambl, indeed, those who aro sofar masters of the fichi, dant the enomy canmot bary their dead windout permission, uppent to be conguerors, hercanse the man would ask that as 16 from which le combld command. Nicias, bow :cre clase rather to lose hiv lanels than to have two of hiv commrymen unburied. - Pietalicir.
687. BURIAL, Secreted. Alarie. The fero. cions charmeter of the Imarbanans / who invaded Italy] whs displayed in the fumeral of a laro whase valor and fortune they celchrated with mournful upphase. By the labor of a emptivo maltitude, they forcibly diverted the course of the Busminus, a shani! river that washes the walls of Conscontin. The royal sephichre, ndorned with the splendid spoils and trophiesof Rome, was constructed in the varmat bed; the waters were then restored to their maturn channel; mad the seret spot where the remains of Alarid had ween deposited was forever concenterl by the inhuman massucre of the priseners who hind been cmployed to exechte the work. - Gmbos: Rone. ch. 33.

6Ew. BURIAL, A Tyrant's. Attila. [l fediol suddenily, from the lousting of am artery:] tis borly wis solemaly expeseri in the midet of the: phan, under a silken pavilion; and the chosen sofualrons of the llmas, whecling round in mensared evolations, chanted a funcral soner to the: memory of a thero. glorions in his life, invincible in his drath, the fither of his prople, the seourge of his enemies, and the terror of the word. According to their mational castom, the harbarims rut off a purt of their lair, gashed their faces with maseomly wounds, and bewailed their va-

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences
 Corporation

Hant leader as he deserved, not with the tears of women, but with the blood of warriors. The remuins of Attila were cnelosed within timee comins-of gold, of silver, and of iron-and privately buried in the night ; the spoils of nations were thrown into his grave ; the captives who had opened the gromed were inhmmanly massacred; and the same Ilmes, who had indulged auch excessive gricf, feasted, with dissolute and intemperate mirth, about the recent sepulchre of their king.-Gimms's Romr, ch. 35.
689. BJSINEES detested, Jurmis lintt. lite was timid and reserved . . . he hated higghing, and dechared that he would rather "face a loaded canoon than settle an neconnt or make a bergain."-Smiles' Bhef Biochaphiles, p. 33.
690. BUSINESS, Joys of. ('herutrey ferome. [Ti:e famous lrass clockmaher was made a]most dizzy, early in his carcer, | hy an oriar from South Carolina for twelve clocks. When he tinished his clocks and was conveying them to the appointed place in a farmer's wagon, he was perfectly bewiddered at the iden of having so im. mense asum as $$ 144$ all at oure, and all his own. He could not believe that such good fortune was in store for him. He thought something would be sure to happen to prevent his receiving the money. But no ; his customer was ready, and slowly counted out the sum in silver, and the clockmaker took it with trembling hands, and caried it home, drading lest some robbers might have heard of his vast wealth, and were in ambush to rob and murder him.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 213 .
691. BUSINESS, Nobility in. Eugleend. In an age of loose morality among the higher classes, Burnet writes, in 17C8: "As for the men of trade and business, they are, generally speaking, the best body in the nation- gencrous, soher, chari-table."-Knigit's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 3, p. 41.
692. BUSINESS prevented. Boycotting. Boston Putriots. A.d. 1769. The people of Boston were impatient that a son of [Tory Governor] Bernard, two sons of [Lientemant-Governor] Hutchinson, and about tive others would not accede to the agreement [not to import tea while it was taxed]. At a great publie meeting of merchants in Faneuil Hall, . . as the best means of coercion it was voted not to purchase anything of the recusunts ; subseription papers to that effect were carried round from honse to house, and everybody complied.-Banchoft's U. S., vol. 6, ch. 42.
693. Calamities combined. Reign of Churles II. London suffered two great disisters, wuch as never, in so short a time, befell one city. A jestilence, surpassing in horror any that during three conturies had visited the island, swept away, in six months, more than a hundred thousand loman beings; and searcely had the deadcart ceased to go its romuds, when a fire, such as had not heen known in Europe since the conflagration of Rome under Nero, haid in ruins the whole city, from the Tower to the Temple, and from the river to the purlicus of Smithtield. Macallay's Eng., ch. 2.
694. Calamities desired. Pugans. After the fall of Serapis by the attack of the Christians, in which the dismembered image was dragged harough the streets of Alexandria] some hopers were entertained by the pugans that the indigaation of the gods would be expressed by the refusil of the Nile's ammal inumdation ; but the waterss began to swell with most masual rapidity. They now comforted themselves with the thonght that the same indignation was to be expressed by a deluge ; hit wre mortithed to find $\mathrm{a}^{+}$last that the immdation bronglat with it no other than its usimal salutary and fertilizing effects, TvTrente Hist., Budk 5, ch. 4.
695. Calamities, Effect of, National. Enghund was now incolved in a war hoth with Franco and Ilollind. After several desprate but indecisive engagements, Faghand began to perecive that this war promised nothing lut expense and hoodshed. A phague which was then raging in Loudon consumed above a hundred thousand of its inhunitants; a most deadful tire, happening almost at the same time, had reduced almost the whole of the city to ashes; and amid so muny cahamitics it was not wonderful that the warlike ardor of the nation should he considerably abnted. A nergotiation was carricd on at Breda, and a peace was roncluded beiween the belligerent pewers in 1667. R? the treaty of Breda, New York was secured to the English, the Iste of Polerone, in the East Iudies, to the Dutch, and Acadin, in North Ameriea, to the French.-TytLER'S HIst., Book 6, ch. 30.
696. CALENDAR corrected. Julius Cessar. One remarkable and durable reform was undertaken and carried through amid the jests of Cicero and the other wits of the time-the revision of the Roman calendar. The distribution of the year had been governed hitherto by the motions of the moon. The twelve annual moons hat fixed at twelve the number of the months, and the number of days required to bring the lunar year into eorrespondence with the solar had been supplicd by irregular interealations, at the direction of the Sacred College. But the Sacred College during the last distracted century had neglected iheir office. The lunar year was now sixtyfive days in auvance of the sun. The so-called winter was really the autumn, the spring the winter. The summer solstice fell at the beginning of the legal September.-Froude's Casale, ch. 25.
697. - - Roger Bacom. [The distinguished Fruncisean monk.] Te observed at error in the calendar with regard to the duration of the solar year, which had been increasing from the time that it was regulated by Julius Casar. He proposed a plan for the correction of this er:or to Pope Clement IV., and has treated of it at large in the fourth book of his "Opus Majus." Dr. Jebb, his editor and commentator, is of opinion that this was one of the noblest diseoveries ever made by the human mind. In his optical works he has very plainly deseribed the construction and use of tolescopic glasses, an invention which Galiloo, four humdred years afterward, attributed to himself.-TyTlér's Hist., Book 6. ch. 16 .
698. CALMNESS, Chrlstian. John Wesley. [When the mob were pulling down the house of his lay preacher, John Nelson, in the town of Bristol, he and lis companions approached it singing hymns, and the mob fled before them.] Some of his tinest lyries were composed during the tumults so freguently experienced. He often recited and sometimes sung them among the raging arowds. Four of them wore written " to be sung in a tumult," and one was " a prayer for the flrst martyr."-Stevens' Mimodism, vol. 1, p. 203.
699. CALMNESS of Discipline. Nipultom $I$. [Itis enemies exploded a barred of powder in the streets of Paris, hoping to destroy him. But his carriage had just passed it.] The carriage rocked as on the hillows of the sea, and the windows were shattered to fragments. . . . "Ma!" said he, with perfect composure, "we are blown up." One of his companions, greatly territied, thrust lis head through the demolished window nad called loudly for the driver to stop. "No, nol" said Napolpon: "drive on,".

More than thirty of these conspiractes were deterted by the police.- Ab bote's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, th. 21.
700. CALMNESS, Exasperating. sirmetra. The populace, whom their demagogues had strongly prejudiced against this great and good man, were affected by his defence, and showed marks of a favorable disposition; when Anytus and several others, men of high consideration in the republie, now openly stood forth and joined the party of his aceusers. The weak and inconstant rablite were drawn along by their intluence, and a mujority of thiry suffrages dechared Socrates guilty. The punisliment was still undetermined, and he himself had the right of choosing it. "It is my choice," said he, "that since my past life has been employed in the service of the pulbic, that public should for the future be at the charge of my support." This tranquillity of mind, which could sport with the danger of his situation, served only to exasperate his judges. -TyTher's Hist., loook 2, ch. 2, p. 156.
701. CALOMNY, Instigated. Mutrimus Fubius. [Whel he was defending the Romans against the Carthaginian general.] Hamnibal, to incense the Romans against him, when lo came to his lands, ordered them to be spared, and set a gunrd upon them to prevent the committing of the least injury there, while he was ravaging all the country around him, and laying it waste with fire. An aceount of these things lieing brought to Rome, havvy complaints were made therenpon. The tribunes alleged many articles of accusation against him, before the people.-Plutarcits Famies.
702. CALUMNY, Opposition by. Chertes Wesley. Mobs destroyed the honses and injured the persons of early Methodists in Cork.
Twenty-eight depositions were presented to the grand jury at the assizes ugainst these disgraceful proceedings, but they were all thrown out; and the jury made a "remarkable presentment," which still stands on the city records, and which declares that " we find and present Charles Wesley to le a person of ill-fame, a vagabond, and a common disturber of his Majesty's peate and we pray that he may be transported."-Stevens' Methodisn, vol. 1, p. $28^{2}$.
703. CANDIDATE, A dead, Demiil Wehster. It is stated as a fact that many persons in Georgia, and including Robert Toombsand Alexander II. Stephens, showed their respect for the great expounder of the Constitution by voting for him after he was dead.-Nonton's Lafe of Ste phens, p. 12.
70.1. CANDIDATE, A dignified. Thomas Jif. ferson. As Mr. Ieflerson then held the ofllee of viereprosident, he presided daily over the Semate, and thus lived in the midst of the strife and intrigue. Coming ont of the Semate chamber one day, he was stopped by Gouvirneur Morris, a leader of the Federalists, who began to converse: with him on the alarming state of things around them. "The reasous," said Morris, "why the minority of the states are so opposed to your being elected is this: they apprebend that, first, you will turn all Federalists ont of othee ; sece: ondly, put down the navy; thirdly, wipe off tha pulilie debt. Now, you only need to dechare, or muthorize your friends to decdare, that you will not take these steps, and instantly the event of ther election will be fixed." Mr. Jefferson replichl. . . that he should lemve the world to judge of the course he menut to pursue by that which he had pursued hitherto, believing it to be his duty to be passive and silent during the present scene. "I shall certainls," rontinued Mr. Jefferson, " make no terms ; I shall never go into the office of President by rapitulation, nor with my hands tied by any conditions which would hinder me from pursiing the mensures which I deem for the public gool."-Cycloredia of Biou., 1. 3 3. 1.
705. CANDOR, Caristian. Discussion. [At the first Wesleyan Conference] it was asked, Should they be fearful of thoroughly debating every question which might arise? "' What are wo af raid of? Of overturning our first principles ? If they are false, the sooner they are overturned the hetter. If they are true they will bear the strictent examination. Let us all pray for a willingness to receive light to know every doctrine, whether it be of God."-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 1, p. 212.
706. CANNIBALISM, Christian, Crusaters. They consumerl, with heedless prodigality, their stores of water and provision; their numbers exhausted the inland country; the sea was remote, the Greeks were unfriendly, and the Christians of every sect fleal before the voracions and cruel rapine of their brethren. In the dire necessity of famine they sometimes roasted and devoured the flesh of theirinfant or adult captives. Among the Turks and Sarucens the idolaters of Europe were rendered more odious by the name and reputation of cannibals; the spies, who introduced themselves into the kitehen of Bobemond, wero shown several human bodies turniug on spits.Gibbox's Rome, ch. 58.
707. CANON, A great. Lrben the Founder. [Cast for Mahomet IL., in siege of Constantinople.] A foundry was established at Adrianople ; the metal was prepared ; and at the end of three mouths Urban produced a piece of brass ordanace of stupendous and almost incredible magnitude ; a measure of twelve palms is assigned to the bore ; and the stone bullet weighed ahove six handred pounds. A vacant place before the nev palace was chosen for the first experiment; but to prevent the sudden and misehievous effects of astonishment and fear, a prochamation was issued, that the eannon would be discharged the elusuing day. The explosion was felt or heard in a circuit of a hundred furlongs ; the ball, by the force of ganpowiler, was elriven ubove a mile; mad on the senot where it fell, it buried itself a fathomderp in the ground. For the conveyance of this destiuctive enginc, it frame or carriage of thirty wagons was linked together and drawn nlong by a terint of sixty oxen ; two handred men on both sides wrere stat tioned to poise mud support the rolling wardet two homdred mad thly workmen matrehod before to smootle the way mad repair the
 in a laborions jontmey of one humbed and tilty miles. . We may discern the infiney of tha new seience. Under n mumater who coumted the moments, the great eamon could be londed und fired no more than seven times in one day. The hented metal unfortunately burst ; several workmen were destroyed; and the skill of an urtist whs udmired who bethongrlat himself of preventing the danger nud the necident by jonding ail. after each explosion, into the month of the a an-non.-Gibums's liome, ch. 68 .
708. CANT, Political. Kemiel Johmaon. BosWELL: "Perligjes, sir, I slombl be ilte less lutpy for being in Parlimment. 1 never would sell my vote, and I slould he vexed if things went wrong." Jounson : "That's cant, sir. It would not vex you more in the house than in the gatlery ; public affairs vex no mum.". . BosweliL : "I declare, sir, "pon my honor, I did inngine I was vexed, and took a pride in it; but it ras, perhaps, eant; for I own I neither eat less nor slept less." Joinson: "My drar friend, clear your mind of cant. Iou may telk as otleer people do ; you many say to a mmn, 'Sir, I mm your most humble servant.' Yon nre uot his most humble servant. Yon may say, "These are bad times; it is a melancholy thing to be reserved to such times.' Youdon't mind the times. You tell a man, ' I am sorry you had such bad weather the last clay of your journey, and were so much wet.' You don't care sixpence whether he is wet or dry. You may talk in this manner ; it is a mode of talking in society ; but don't think foolishly."-BOSWELL's Jonnson, p. 498.
709. Capital, Conservative. Cicero. [Cresur had been superseded by the appointment of Domitins Ahenohmrbus, the most inveternte and envenomed of his enemies, by the Senate.] A diny later, before the final vote had been taken, he thought still that the Senate was willing to let Ciesar keep his province, if he would dissolve his army. The moneyed interests, the peasant lundholders, were all on Casar's side; they cared not even if monarchy came, so that they night have pence.-Froude's Cesake, ch. 20.
710. CAPITAL a Crime. Jeics. [In 1290 King Edward I., ] by an arbitrary exereise of power, destroyed the great money capitalists of tho time. The Jews throughout Enghand were all seized on one day, upon a charge of clipping the coin; and ... of boht sexes, there were banged in London two liundred and eighty, and a very great multitude iu other cities of England. Some Christians were involved in the accusation ; and for most of them the king received ransom. - Knigur's Eng., vol. 1, eli. 25, p. 386.
711. CAPITAL, Spirltual. Indulgeners. The following circumstances led to the traflic in indulgences. The Roman Catholic Church maintained that the saints, durien their life on earth. land aceromolated a trensury of morit becmuse of thoir groed work ; that they lad dome more goonl than they were obliged io do. This surphas might be used for the bemedit or sindul men who hatd accomplished l:心s good than was moeded for theit satvation. 'The Popre chamed that lee land rowedved mothority lrom (iond to draw from this reservoir ol merit, and to aplly it to those who hatd shown themselves worthe by their sormow and reprotance. Sht som sorrow ind repentance wore dispensed with, and matters were sutisface torily arramerelley the ase of moncy. Thus arose the su-called tralite in indulgeners, which proved to be a somber al great revelute to the popes. 'This was the atse moler Lato X., who at this time ocreupical thapaphe chair.-Rein's Letuen, ch. 1.
712. CAPI'ALISTS, Extortionate. Jers. The mpitalix wats the Jew ; lut his mode of dealing suited only unthrifty abbots and plandering herons; for when the borrower came into the gripe of the Isruclite, bond was henped upon hond, so that we have a record how in debt of E200 luenme, withacemmulated interest, $\mathfrak{E} 880$ in four yenrs. [s.b. 1194.]-KNught's ENa., vol. 1 , (1. $22, ~ p .326$.
713. CAPITALISTS, Nation of, Jeirs. There nsed to be $u$ commudrum current in Europe, which whs something like this: "What is the difference hetweren andent and modern times? Answer: In ancient times, all the Jews had one king ; in modern times, ali the kings have one Jew." The , lew referred to in this connndrum was Meyer Anselm Rothsehild, the founder of the great benking-house so fumous throughout the world.-C'yclopedia of $\mathrm{Bwa} ., \mathrm{p} .564$.
714. CAPTIVES, Inhumanity to. Merican Emp. He whs treated at first with humanity, and every persuasive made use of to prompt him to make: a discovery of the place where it was supposed lee had concealed his trensures ; but in vain. It was next tried what torture might produce, and by the command of one of the Spanish eaptains, the monnreh, together with some of his chicf offierrs, were stretched muked upon burning coals. While Guatimozin bore the extrenity of torment with more than human fortitude, one of his fellow-sufferers, of wenker constitution, turned his eyes upon hiv prince and utfered a cry of angnish: "Think. est thon," said Guatimozin, "that I am lnid upon a led of roses ?" Silenced by this reproot, the sufferer stifled his complaints, and expirenk in an act of obedience to his sovereign. To the honor of Cortez, he wis iqmorant of this met of shocking inhumanity.-TyTher's Ihist., Booz 6, ch. 21 .
715. CAPTIVITY, Chosen. Vipoleon's Frirnds. [At St. IIclena.] The houseliold now consisted of the emperor, General Bertrand, wife, and three children ; Comnt Montholon, wife, and two children; Count Las Casas and son ; General Gourgand, and IDr. O'Meara. There were also four servints of the chamber, three grooms, and four servants of the table. These liad all followed the emperor to his dreary prison from their love of his person. [Others wept becanse denied the opportunity to follow him by the Ibritisll Government. Il is friculs were trented as prisoners as well as himself. J-Ambuts NaroLeon 13., vol. :2, ch. 31.
716. CAPTURE, An important. ('ity of Winshington. The British adranced on Washington [in 1814]. . . The President, the ('abinet otleres. and the people betook themselves to Hight, and [General / Ross mardhed mopposed into ther dity: te had hern ordered by his superiors to use har forelh, and the work of destruction was areordingly hegrun. All the public buildings execept the Patent Offle were bumed. The hemutiful lout untinished ('apitol und the President's home were left a mass of backened ruins. Shany private edithes were absodestroyed. [Note.] Ancexcuse for this ontrageons larimaism was found in the previons condinct of the Amerimans, whe. at Toronto . . . had behaved bat little better.-

717. CARELESSNESS, Censure of. $s$ " $/ m \prime \prime \prime l$ Tohenson. Though he used to ernsure earelessness with great veheneence, he owned that he once, to nyoid the trouble of locking up tive guineas, hid them, he forgot where, so that he could not find them, - Bosweha's Jomson, 1). 435.
718. CARELESSNESS, Habitual. Cindsmith. [IIe went to Edinburgh to study medicine.] llaving taken lodgings at haphazard, he left his trunk there, containing all his worldly eflieets, and sallied forth to see the town. Xfter sauntering ubout the streets until a late hour, he thought of returning home, when, to his confusion, he found he had not acpuainted himself with the mane either of his landlady or of the street in which she lived. Fortumately, in the height of his whimsical perplexity, he met the cawdy or porter who had carried his trunk, and who now served him as a mide.- Imving's Goldemitio, 1. 37.
719. CASTE, Absence of. Irixh hïggs. [In 1394 Sir Henry Cristall was sent by Richard II. to attend on the Irish kings, who submitted themdelves to him.] It was Richard's wish that in manners and apparel they should conform to the usages of England. It was lis purpose to create them knights; but they were wedded to their ancient customs. They would sit at the same table as their minstrels and servants, eating out of the same dish und drinking out of the same cup.-Knigit's Exa., vol. '2, ch. 2, p. 27.
720. CASTE, Anglo-Saxon. Germeny, The Saxons were divided, as all the other German nations, into three ranks of men-the noble, the free, and the slaves. The nobless were called thanes, and these were of two kinds-the king's thanes and the lesser thames. The latter seem to lane been dependent on the former, and to have received lands, for which they either paid rent or militury services. There were two haws of the Anglo-Saxons which breathe a spirit very different from what one would nuturally expect from the character of the age, when the distinction of superior and inferior is commonly very strongly marked. One of the laws of Athelstun dechared, that a merehant who had made three long sea voyages on his own account was entitled to the quality of thane; and another dechared that a ceorle, or husbundman, who had been able to purchase five hides of land, or five plough-gntes, and who had a chapel, a kitchen, a hall, mad a bell, was emitled to the samer ramk. The freene of of the lower mak, whe were denominated cember, culdivated the farms of the thanes for which they paid rent, and they appear to have beon removable w the pleasure of the thame. The lowest and most mumerons of the orders was that of the shaves or villaina; of these shaves there were two kinds-the housidohd slaves, and those cmployed in the cultivation of the lands; of the hated speries are the serfs, which we find at this day in Poland, in Russia, and in others of the northern stites. A master had not, among the Anglo-Naxons, an unlimited power over his slaves. He was that for the murder of a slave, and if he mutiated one, the slave recovered his liberty. The laws of Edgar inform us that shavery wa the lot of all prisoners takell in war.-Tyrisis's Hest., Book 6, ch. 6.

72 . CASTE, Barbarian, Finnls. It should sem that very many of those institutions, referred by ma casy sohution to the feudal system, are derived from the Celtic murbarians. When Cessar subdued the Gamls, that great mation was already divided into three orders of men-the clergy, the nobility, and the common people. The tirst governed by superstition, the second by urms; but the third and hast was not of any weight or acrount in their public councils. - Gubos's Rome, rh. 13.

7\%2. CASTE of Birth. Italians. Till the privileges of Romans had becin progressively extended to all the inhabitants of the empire, an important distinction was preserved between Italy and the provinces. The former was estermed the centre of public unity and the firm hasis of the constitution. Italy claimed the lirth, or at least the residence, of the emperors and the semate. The estates of the Italians were exempt from taxes, their persons from the arbitrary juristiction of governors. Their mumicipal corporations, formed after the perfect model of the capital, were intrusted, under the immediate cye of the supreme power, with the execution of the la, ws. From the foot of the AJps to the extremity of Calabria, all the natives of Italy were born citizens of Rome.-Ghbov's Rome, ch. . $\stackrel{\sim}{2}$.
723. CASTE, English. Jealousy. The rise of the commonalty was always regarded with extreme jealousy by the born great. The servile literature before the days of the Revolution erhoed this sentiment. - Kxight's Exgland, vol. 5, ch. 6, p. 49.
724. CASTE, Hostility to. Louis Philippe. [In 1795 he travelhed imcogmito, with two other princes, in the United States.] At Winchester, in the Valley of the Shenandoah, a democratic innkeeper turned them ont of his honse because (one of them being sick) they asked the privilege of eating by themselves. "If yon are too good," roared this despotic demoernt, " to cat it the sime table with my other guests, you are too good to eat in my house. Begone!" Despite the instant apology of the Duke of Orleans, the landlord insisted on their going, and they were compelled to seek other quarters. - Cxclopedia or 13ヶo., p. 509.
725. CASTE in Judgment. Queen Elizabeth. [When Elizaleth was remonstrating in behalf of Mary Queen of Scots, she charged her am-bussadors to insist that subjects were not to be juiges of a soverejga ; it was contrary to siompt nreand unrensomable, that the foot should judere

726. CASTE, National. Frow. [WillinuI., ] the Compleror, and his deserembante to the fontlo generation were not Englishmen; mont of them were born in Frame ; they spent the grenter part of their time in France; thar ordimary speech was French; monost every high oflee in their gift was tilled by a ferelochman; wery acguisition which they made on the Continent estranged them more and more from the population of our ishand. One of the ablest mong them, indeed, attempted to win the le"urts of his Euglish subjects by espousing an English princess; but by many of his harons this marriage was ragarderi as a marriage betwen a white planter and in fundroon girl would mow be regarded in Virginia. In history he is known by the honotuhbe surname of Beanelere ; but in his own time his own comentromen alled him by a Saxon nickmame, in contempthons allusion to his Saxon combedion.-Mscathay's Exa., ch. 1
727. $\qquad$ English. [Reign of Jamess II.] No man of English blood then regurded the aborigimal Irish as hit combtrymen. They did not belong 10 our hraneh of the great hit man fumily. They were distinguished from us hy more than one moral and intellectmal perelinrity, which the difference of situation and of education, great as that difference was, did not seem altogether to explain. They had in aspret of their own, a mother tongue of their own. When they talked English their promucintion was ludicrons; their phraseology was grotestume. as is always the phraseology of those who think in one languge nad express their thoughts in another. They were therefore foreigners, and of all foreigners they were the most hated and despised-the most hated, for they had, during five centuries, always been our enemies; the most despised, for they were our vanguished, enslaved, and despoiled enemies. The Englishman compared with pride his own fich!s with the desolate bogs, whence the rapparees issued forth to rob and murter ; and his own dwelling with the hovels where the peasants and the hogs of Shamon wallowed in filth together.Macaulay's Eng., ch. 9.
728. CASTE in Parliment. Worsted Stockings. [In 1645 there were] certain mean sort of prople in the House, whom, to distinguish them from the more honorable gentlemen, they called Worsted-stocking men.-Kitgnt's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 4.
729. Caste, Prejudice of. Parliament. [At the second session of Parliament, under the protectorate of Cromwell, only one of the peers who had aceepted the writ of summons took his seat. The Earl of Warwick could not he persuaded to sit with Colonel II ewson and Colonel Pide-the one had been a shoemaker, and the other a drayman.] - Kingirt's Evg., vol. 4, ch. 13.
730. CASUISTRY, Difficult. Missionary to the Indians. [John] Eliot preached against polyg, amy. "Suppose a man, before he knew God," inquired a convert, " hath had two wives-the first childless, the second bearing him many sweet
-hiddren, whom he execeringly lowes; which of these is hre to put awny ?"-binchore's l. S., rlh. : w, vol.

7:31. CATASTROPHE, An appalling. Liththquetre. Nowember 1, Iaso. the people of Lisbon were alarmed hy that awfol rombling beneath the earth which, an they well knew, wismally precerded an milhquake. Before they could esaper from the houses the shorek came, which overthere the greater part of the rity, and buriod thomsunds of persons in its ruins. The sea retired. leaving the bottom of the larbor bare, but immediately returned in a femrfal wave tifty feet high, overwhetming everything in its coovse. The mhabitants who could get clear ol the ruins rushed in thousands to a magnificent marhle wharf, just completed, which seremed to offer a phace of safety. This mascivo structure, densely covered wifli men, women, and chiddren, suddenly sumk, bearing with it to manown depths the emire matitule. Not a (rature exenped; not a haman body rose again to the surface; not a fragment of mything that was on the whart wasewragain secn by haman cere; and when, by and hy, the water was somated over the place where it lad stood, the depth was fonnd to be six hundred feet. Within the spuce of six minates sisty thonsand persons are supposed to lave prerished; and those who survived were so encompassed abont with horror, that they might wall have envied those whom the sen had stimerged or the filling honses canshed.-Cyclopeda of Biot., p. 30.
732. CATHOLICS, Disfranchised, Marylame evs. A.b. 1681. The prelates [in England] demanderl. . . an establishment to be naintained at the common expense of the provinee. Lord Baltimore resisted. The Roman Catholic was intlexible in his regard for freedom of worship. The opposition to Lord Baltimore as a frudal sovercign easily united with Protestant bigotry . . . the English ministry soon issued an order, that olliecrs of government in Maryland should he exclusively intrusted to Protestants. Roman Catholics were disframehised in the province whieh they had planted.-Bancmort's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 14.
733. Catholics, Justice to. English. [Dr. Arnold plead for it, saying :] It is the direct duty of every Englishman to support the clains of the Roman Catholies of Jreland, even at the hazard of injuring the Protestant extahlishment-because those chams cannot be rejected without great injustice-and it is a want of faith in God and an unholy zeal to think that he can le served hy injustice, or to guard against contingent evil by committing certan sin.- Kinant s Eng., vol. 8, ch. 13.
73.1. CATHOLICS, Prejudice against. (itholic Redief' Bill. [In 1829 it was passed by Pa:liament.] It would admit a Roman Catholic to Parliament upon taking on oath, in place of the old oath of supremacy, that he would support the existing institutions of the state, and not injure those of the Chureh. It would admit a Roman Catholic to all the greatest offices of government, with the exception of Regent, Lord Chancellor of England, and Lord Chancellor and Viceroy of Ireland. All corporate offices and municipal privileges, all that pertained to the administration of justice, would be open to Roman Catlolies. From all otllees connceted with the Chureh, with its miversities und schools, and from 'linich putronage, they would be necessarily exchuded.

Commants in the army and mavy had heen open to them hefore this measure. Connceted with the Bill of lrelief there were securities and restrictions pro-posed.-Kinigite's Exa., vol. 8, ch. 13, p. 233.
735. CATHOLICICM, Benefits of. Englitur. It is dithentt to suy whether Einghand owes more to the Roman Catholie religion or to the Reformation. For the amalgmation of races und for the abolition of villamuge she is chictly indehted to the intlucnee which the priesthood, in ihe middle ures, exercised over the laty. For politienl und intellectund freedo'n, and for all the blessings which politieal and intelleretual freedom have brought in their train, she is chietly indebted to the great rebellion of the luity agninst the priesthood. From the time when the barbarians overmo the Western Empire to the time of the revival of letters, the intluence of the Church of Rome had leren generully favornble to science, to civilization, and to good government; but during the last three centuries, to stmont the growth of the hatman mind has been her ehief object. Throughout Christendom, whatever advance bas bern made in knowledge, in freedom, in wealth, and in the arts of life, has been made in spite of her, and has everywhere been in inverse proportion to her power. The loveliest and most fertile provinces of Europe have, under her rule, been sunk in poverty, in politieal servitude, and in intellectual torpor, while Protestant countries, once proverlmal for sterility and barbarism, have been turned by skill and industry into gardens, and can boast of a long list of heroes and statesmen, plitosophers and pocts. Whoever, knowing what Italy and Scotland naturntly ure, und what, four hundred years ago, they actuntly were, shali now compare the country round Rome with the country round Edinburgh, will be able to form some judgment as to the tendency of papul domination. The descent of Spain, once the first among monarchies, to the lowest depths of degradation ; the elevation of Molland, in spite of many natural disadvantages, to $n$ position such as no commonwealth so small has ever renched, teach the same lesson. Whoever passes in Germany from a Roman Catholic to a Protestant principality, in Switzerland from a Roman Catholic to a Protestant canton, in Ireland from a Roman Catholic to a Protestant country, finds that he has passed from a lower to a hig'ser grude of civilization. On the other side of the Atlantic the same law prevails. The Protestants of the United States have left far behind them the IRoman Catholies of Mexico, Pern, and Brazil. The Roman Catholies of Lower Canada remain inert, while the whole continent romb them is in a ferment with Protestant activity and enterprise. The French have doubtless shown an cnergy and an iotelligence whieh, even when misdirected, have justly entitled them to be called a great people. But this apparent exception, when examined, will be found to confirm the rule; for in no country that is called Roman Catholic has the Roman Catholic Chureh, during several generations, possessed so little aut thority as in France.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1.

7:36. CATHOLICISM, Wiadom of. Biroell Plems. In the litter hali' of the soventernth century the French began to pash their way westward mad sonthward; flrst along the shores of the great lakes, then to the hemd waters of the Wabrash, the Illinois, the Wiseonsin, mod the st. (rols, then down these strefuns to the Mississippi, and then to the Gaff of Mexico. The purpose of the French, ins manifested in these movements, was no loss than to divide the American cominemt and to take the larger portion, to powese the land for Framer und Catholicism. For it was the work of the Jesnit missiomuries.-Riderath's L. S., rh. 30.

7:37. CAUSE and Effect. Siemmel Iohnam. Of Dr. Murd, Bishop of Woresitar, Dohuson suid to a friemed: "IInd, sir, is one of iset of men who neeount for everything systematically ; for instance, it has beed a fashion to wear searlet breeches; these men womld tell you, that arecording to canses mul effects, no other war could at that tim have hero chosen." He, however, said of him at another time to the same gentleman: "Ihurd, sir, is a mam whose acpuaintance is a valuable acquisition." - Boswell's Jolnson, p. 488.
738. CAUTION neadful, Abrahtme Livioln. "Well, you see," said Mr. Lincoln [to a visitor who introduced the subjeret of (maneipation]. "we've got to he very cantious how we manage the negro question. If were not, we shatl be like the barber out in Illinois, who was shaving afellow with a nutchet face nud luntern juws like mine. The burber stuck his finger in his customer's mouth to make his cheek stick out; but while shaving away he cot through the follow's check and ent oft his own finger! If we ure not very careful we shatl do as the barber did. "-Raymond's Lincoln, p. Tid.
739. CAVALRY, Formidable. Elephents. An ambassador from the Emperor Zenonceompanied the rush und unfortunate Perozes in his expedition aguinst the Nepthalities, or white Hluns, whose conquests had been stretched from the Caspian to the heart of India, whose throne was enriched with emeralds, and whose cavalry was supported by a line of two thousand elephants. The Persians were twice circmmented in a situation which made valor useless mad flight impossible; and the double victory of the IIuns was nehieved by military stratagem. They dismissed their royal captive aftre he had submitted to adore the majesty of a barbinim.-Gibeos's Rome, ch. 40.
740. CAVIL answered. Reign of Jomess $I T$. [Session of the former members of the llouse of Commons.] Sir Robert Sawyer dechared that he could not conceive how it was possible for the prince to administer the government without some distinguishing title, such as Regent or Protector. Old Maynard, who, as a hawyer, had no equal, and who was ulso a politicinn versed in the tacties of revolutions, was at no pains to conceal his disdain for so puerile an objection, taken ut a moment when union and promptitude were of the highest importance. "Wo shall sit here very long," he said, " if we sit till Sir Robert can conceive how such a thing is possible ;" and the assembly thought the answer as good as the cavil deserved.-Macallay's Eng., ch. 10.
711. CELEBRATED, Marriage, (ionnclvons of' Timour. The murriagre of sin of the rmurror's grmulanos was esteremedan met of peligriom as wril as of patermal tembermese ; and the pomp of the molent caliphes was revived in their mopthats. They were eroborated in the ararlens of ('and ghal, deroratred with inmomerahle lowls athe pavillons, whieh displayed the hasaty of a greal rity amd the spoilsol' a vidorions camps. II hohforests were ent down to sulyly fard for fla kitele mont, mad rasise of every litum, to which thousamds of ghests were comrtoonsly invited; the orters of the state ame the mations of the carth wore marshatled at the rogal bamput ; nor were the ambussadors of liarione (siges the hamehty Persian exeluded from the lemat ; sine evern the rossess, the smallest of thath, that their plare in the ocran. The public joy was tewtitied by illumi. mation and maspubradies; the trados of simar. cand passed in review ; and avery trate was dumlous to execute some quaint devier, some mavol lous pagenat, with the materinls of their perendiar art. Áter the mariage rontracts bat been ratified by the cminis, the briderrooms and the ir brides retierel to the muptial elmmbers: nime times, areoreling to the Ashatice fashion, they were dressed and malrossed ; and at ench change of apparel pearls and rubies were showered on their heads, and contemptuonsly abmaloned to their attentims. A general indulgence was proclamed : every law was relased, every pleasire was allowed ; the perple was frere the sovereign was idle.-G1mon's Romes, ('h. 6is.
7.42. CELEBRATION, Municipal. r'mistomtinople. As often as the hirthriay of the city roturmed, the stathe of Comstantine, framoll hy his order, of gilt wood, ame bearing in his right hand a small image of the genius of the phare, was erected on a triumphai car. The gramels, carlying white tapers, and clothed in their richeest apparel, accompanied the solemn progession as it moved throumh the Jippodrome. Whan it was opposite to the throne of the reigning emperor, he rose from his seat, and with grateful revarence adored the momory of his predecessor. At the festival of the cledication, an edict, engrav: ed on a column of marhle, hestowed the tifle of Fecond or New Rome on the eity of Constan-tine.-Gibhon's Rome, ch. 17.
243. CELEBRATION, National. Centenuial. As the Centemani of Americ:m Indepemblene drew near, the people male ready to celebrate the great event with appropriate ceremonies, bat the development of the project was discouraged for $n$ while with considerable opposition and much lakewarmness. The whole scheme was a vision of enthasiasm, a Quixotical dream, said the critics and objectors. No such an mterprise conld be carried throngh exerpt umber the patronage of the government, and the government had no right to make appropriations merely to preserve an old reminiseence. We had had enough of the Fourth of July already. Besides-salid the wits and caricaturists-the other nations would present a ludierous figure in helping us to celebrate an anniversary of a rebellion that they had tried to crush a hundred years ago. Victoria was expecterl-so sad theyto send over commissioners to heap contumely und contempt on the grave of her gramdfather!

Con mation of Einoper womle consent to its own shatitlention by joining in the jubileres of Repub. licanisin. Ibesidesall thaseavilling, it was foreseen that Philadelphia would guite cortalngy be sederetal as the seeme of the propusied disphaty, and on that meromat a good deal of lenal jonfomsy was excited In the wher prine jotal ditionol the Únion.

7.A. CELIBACY of Clergy, Fritain, trwth Cintwey. 'The erelibury of the edrory was the hating primeiple tolne contember for in maklng the C'bureh Jomish insteadol matiomal. Although the strict momos of the Anglo-( hourch did not recognize a marriod priesthood, the law of cerinmong the paroehial clorgy. Their marringes were eliseonutemamed! they wore mbonsherd of thearmed. Llut the lam of mature was trimmphat wor the deceresole commedis; and the Engr. lish priesis ware not lored into those immornlities whid were the resutt of this ordinance in other comatrios. Mr. Kemble says: "We have malmost unbroken chain of evidence to show that, in spite of the exhoriations of the bishops and the hegislation of the witans, thone at last of the cracgy who wore not hound to n carnobitionl order diel contract mariage, mad openly avow the families which were its issue,"-KNiontr's EN(s., vol. 1, (h. !).
7.45. CEMETERY, Saddest. Immlon Torrer. The hemd and buely wore phaced in a cotlon covreded with black vilvet, and were lad privately madar the commomion-fable of t . Peter's Chaper in the Tower. Withinform yemes the pavement of that :hancel was again disturbed, and luard by the remains of Mommonth were laid the remains of delfreve. In truth, there is no sader spot on the emortithan that little cemetery, beath is thereassocinted, not, as in Westminster Abbey aml Saint laml's, with gerins and virtuc, with puthlie veraration ami with imperishable renown; not, as in our hmmblest charehes and charchyards, with everything that is most endenring in social and tomestic eharitics, but with whatever is charkest in lmman mature and in human destiny, with the savage trimmphof implacable enemies, with the inconstancy, the ingratitude, the cownrdice of friende, with nll the miseries of fallengranoss and of blighted fame. Thither have beon carriod, through successive uges, loy the rude hands of jailers, without one monarner following, the bleeding relies of mon who had been the coptains of armies, the leaders of parties, the oraches of semates, ame the ormaments of courts.-Macivhay's ENG., ch. 5.
716. CENSOR, Official. Roman. [Worts of the Emperor Decins. 1 As soon as the decree of the Semate was trimsmitted to the emperor, he assembled a grat comodil in his camp, and hefore the investiture of the censor-clect le apprised him of the dithenlty and importance of his great offlee. "1 [appy Vilerian," said the prince to his elistinguished sulijeet," huppy in the genern approlation of the Sonate and of the Roman republic! Aceept the eensorship of mankind, and judge of our manners. You will select those who desarve to continue members of the Senate; you will restore the equestrian order to its ancient splendor: you will improve the revemue, yet moderate the public burdens. You will distinguish into regular clasees the varions Iy view the military strengeth, the wealth, the virtue, and the resources of loblace. Vobr derisions shatl obtain the lore of of laws. 'Therarms. the palate, the ministers of justiere, mal the prent ofllerers of the embire are all subjert to your trihamal. Nome are exempled, exerpting only the ordinary comsals, the perfere of the city, the rerves her (lastity inviohate) the chast of the vemal virgins. Eien these few, who may bot dread the severity, will anxhomsly soliat bhe be
 (h. 10 .
7.17. - Remath. Livy rematis, lios kept in dependence both the simate and peasple. They posserssed at comstitutional power of degrading sach as had manifested nay irregularity of comduct, and depriving them of the rank and oflee which they held in the State. It was not min mothority which extemed to the punishment of those ordinary crimes mad delicts which fall mader the ponal laws of a Sate. But there are offences which, in point of example, are worse than crimes, und more pernicions in their consequences. It is not the hremell of express laws that ean ever be of general bad efferet, or tend to the destruction of a govermment; but it is that silent and unpanishable corroption of manners which, undermining private and pabs. lie virtue, weakens and destroys those springs to which the best-ordered constitution owes its sul?)port. The comateracting this hatent principle of deeny was the most useful purt of the otllee of the censors. If nuy citizen had imprudently contracted harer dedse; if he lad consumed his fortme in extravagrace, or in living beyond his income: if be lad been nerligent in the coltivation of his lands-bay, if, being ing gool circumstances and able to mantain a family, he had declined, without just cause, to marr:-mll these offences attracted the notice of the censors, who hand varions modes of indiding a pemalty, The most usual, nad not the least impressive, was a public demumetation of the offender as an objeret of disapprolntion-íymominià netabent. It did rot amonat to a mark of infamy, but pumished solely by intlicting the shame of a public reprimand. A penalty, however, of this kind is not fitted to operate on all dispositions, mad, necordingly, the censors had it in their power to employ means more generally effectual. They could degrade a semator from his dignity and strike his name out of the roll. They eould deprive a knight of his ramk by taking from him the horse which was maintained for him at the pulbic ex--pense, and was the essential mark of his station. A citizen might be punished by degrading him from his tribe to an inferior one, or doubling his proportion of the public tanes.-TYTLER's Hist., Book 3, ch. 6.
748. CENSURE resented. Dimulaius. Tue philosopher Plato had been invited to Syraeuse by Dionysius the clder . . . Dionssias . . . being offended with the freedom which the philosopher used in censuring whatever he disapproved in the maxims and government of the tyrant, the hatter ordered him to be sold as a slave in the public market. His disciples paid the price of five minæ for their master, and sent him safe back to Grecec.-Tytlen's IIIst., Book 3, ch. 8.
7.18. CENSURE, Unmovod by, Pros. Latrhivem. [1] veloed the bill to redarter the Bank of the [nited states, mad] ondrerd the acromabated fumds, monoming to nbout ten millions, to be dis. tributed ancour rertatu state hams. . . If. had an wartath of han . . . he was debenaced arbinaty, dangeroms. In the semate apowerful cralition, lomad by Callom, (lay, mad Wehater, was formal againat the President.
 ried ; but a simitar propmition failedin the louse of Representatives. 'there was a pememb ery of indignation, and it seremed ns if the President would be overwhelanel: bat the I'resident, ewor as fealdes the he was silf-willed nod subibern.
 resolution of cemsure stome ypon the formal of the semate for fome sears, and was lanem expme.

750. CEREMONY, Comedy of. (innt. Port-his pablie cutry into Paris on the gif of darela. Ile disputes with "the conductor of ambussidors" "bout matters of ctiquette. "la my case," her says, "dithenlties have beron raked on every conceivable point; and ns I do not understama the ceremomal 1 non cmburrased by them, nal cmandy met them with obstinacy, which is hare rather indispensable." Comedy cannot imarine a richer scene than the burly Dutchanan refusing to come from the top of his staircone to meet the representative of the Duchess of Burgumly, who rofused to go more than half way in, "messen. gers masing barkward and forward het ween as." -KNigut's ENG, vol. 5, ch. 13, p. 2us.
751. CEREMONY, Disllke for. Niepoleon $I$. [He hand bere crowned emperor with gergeons display mad grame ceremony.! He hastraced to his rom andexclaimed impatiently to an nttent. unt as he antered, "Off tofl with these confounted trappings !" He threw the manle into one cormer of the room, the gorgeons robe into mother, mad thes violently disencombering himself, dechared that hours of such mortal tedionsness he had never passed before.-Amberts Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 28.
752. CEREMONY, Slaves of. $R m y / r l t y$. In the Byamine palace the comperor was the tirst slave of the ceremonies whirlh he imposed, wad the rigid forms which regulated enelo word and gesture hesieged him in the pmbere, and violated the leisure of his rumal solitude.-Gmmos's Rone, ch. 53.
753. CHALLENGE, A dangerous. Inrowion of Pennsyltronic. At Chambersburg . . one fomale had seen tit to mbon her muple bosom with a luge Yankee thag, and whe stood at the door of her house, her countenance expressing the greatest contempt for the barefooted Rebs; several compmies passed her without taking nny notice; but at lengha Texan gravely remarked, "Take care, madam, for Hool's hoys [from Texas, Abibama, and Arkansas] are great at storming breast works when the ianker color is on them." After this speech the patriotie lady bent a precipitate retreat-Polland's Secoíd Yean or the War, p. 337.
754. CHALLENGE, Offered. Revolutionary Witr. [In Florida British troopers] summoned I the fort at Sunbury to surrender. But when Colonel Mackintonh inswered, " rome and take It," they rotreated.-Bavenotres E. S., vol. 10 , ch. 13.

755. CHALLENGE, Political. Linmeln-Imug. las. A.D. 18is. Both spoke in Spingiteld in the sume day, but before different nudiences. Mr. LIncoln uddressed a letter to Mr. |S. A.| boughas, chablemging him to a serhes of dipmese daring the campaign. The challenge was are cepted, and arrangements werent once made for the meetings. Seven jolnt debntes were beld.. hand they] rabend the grentest ex ltement thronghont the State-Raymondis Laceman, eh. id, 1. 42.
756. CHALLENGE, Royal. Juriat Thrersa. [Frederiek 11. Hecrared wa: Her father had recently died.] In the midist of distress amid peril she had given birth to a son, afterward the Emperor loscoph 11 . Searecly had she risen from her rourl when she linstened to Pressburg. There, in the sight of an inmomerable multitude, she was crowned with the crown and robed with the robe of St, Stephern. No spectator could refrain his tears when the bemutiful young mother, still weak from childhearing, rowle, "fter the fashion of hor fatheres, up the Mount of Dethnce, unshenthed the nneient sword of state, shook it toward north and south, east and west, and, with a glow on her pale face, challenged the four cormers of the world to dispute her right: and those of her boy.Macaulay's Fuedehick tide (ineat, j. 35 .
757. CHALLENGE, Unacoepted. Alexius Comnemus. [Greek empror-time of the crusades.] High on his throne, the emperor sut mute and dmmovable; his Majesty was mored by the Latin princes, and they sumbitted to kiss elther his feet or his kneses-an indignity whilch thedr own writers are ashamed to ronfess and umable to deny. . . . But a French luron (he is supponed to be Robert of Paris) presumed to aserent the throne, and to place himself by the side of Alexias. The sage reproof of batdwin provoked him to exchim, in his barbarons idiom, "Who Is this rustic that keeps his seat, while so many valiment captains are standing round hime" The emperor maintained his silence, dissembled his indignation, and questioned his interpreter concerning the meaning of the words, which he partly suspected from the universal hanguage of gesture and comotenance. Before the teparture of the pilgrims he endeavored to learn the name and condition of the andacious baron. "I ana Fremehman," replied Robert, " of tine purest and most ancient mobility of my country. All that 1 know is, that there is a church in my neighborhood, the resort of those who are desirous of approving their valor in single combat. Till an enemy uppears, they address their prayers to Gorl and lis saints. That chureh I have frequently visitcol. But never have I found anan-: tagonist who dared to neeept my defiance." Alexius dismissed the challenger with some prudent advice for his conduct in the Turkish war-fare.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 58, p. $5 \%$.
759. CHANGE, A life. Loyola. It was during the siege of Pampelna by the French actively that a young officer of Guipuzcon, ceived a severe wound which confined him for many weeks to his bed, an occurrence which proved the turning perint of his mbsempent extratordinary carerer. This gathant soldin'r, soon to reappar upon the serme in a very different and far mure intluchtial charmeter, was nome other than 1 gimatios 1 cesula, fonnder of the Order of

750. CHANOE of siden. "Bubliug John." Jehm lirukine, liarl of Nar, who came to Edinburgh as sicerctury of sitite in 1700 [becrame distingulshod in thís manner:] his huppy art of accommodather himselt to circomstanes procurel him the name of "Bobbing John."Kxumars lena., vol. 6, ch. 1.
760. CHARACTER, Changeful. Donifuce I'III. Bonifuce expired at Rome in a fremay of rago and revenge. Itis memory is staned with the glaring vices of avarice and pride' ; nor has tho combuge of a matyr promoted this ecelesinstical champion to the honors of a suint; 14 magumnimous simer (say the chronleles of the times), who entered like a fox, reigned like a lion and died like a dog. the was sucreeded by Benediet XI., the mildest of mumind.Ghumes's Rome, ch. 60.
761. CHARACTER, Composite. Luther. [Herines oplaion of Luther: ] " lle crented the German language. He wins not only the greatest, but the most German man of our history. In his rhatactor all the fames and all the virtues of the (iermans are combined on the largest seale. Then he hat qualities which are very seldom fomd united, which we ure necustoned to regard as irrecomeilable antagonisms. He was, at the same time, a dreamy mystle und a practical man of action. Ilis thoughts had not only wings, but hands. He spoke and he acted. He was not mily the tongue, but the sword of his time. When he had plagned himself all day long with his doctrimal distinctions, in the everning he took his flute and gazed at the stars, dissolved in melody and devotion. He could be as soft as a tender maiden. Sometimes he was wild as the st rm that uproots the oak, and then again he was gentle as the zephyr that clallies with the violet." -Rens's Lutheil, p. Duí.
762. CHARACTER, Contradictory. James II. A libertine without love, a devotee without spirituality, an alvorate of toleration without the sense of the natural right of conscience-in him the muscular force prevailed over the intellectimal. He thonted between the sensuality of indulgenee and the sensuality of superstition, hazarding heaven for an ugly mistress, and, to the great delight of abbots and nuns, winning it back again by pricking his thesh with sharp points of iron, and cating no meat on Saturdays. Of the two brothers, the Duke of Bukingham sitid well, that Charles [II.] would not and dimes rould not see.-B.axchof's's L. S., vol. 2, ch. 17.
768. - -- Queen Elizabeth. To the worth about her, the temper of Elizabeth recalled in its strange contrasts the mixed blood within her veins. She wasat once the daughter of IIenry [VIII.] and of Anne Boleyn. From her father she inherited her frank and hearty address, her love of popularity and of free intercourse with the people, her dauntless courage, and her amazing self-confidence. Her harsh. manlike voice, her impetuous will, her pride her farions outharsis of ager, came to bur will hore 'Julor hood. Sibe ratat grant uohles as if' they were sehoollogys ; she met the fasolebere of Loril Eswex with a fux on the ent : mar broke now and then lato the graverst eleliberntons (o) swern at her ministers like of himwife. Strangely In contrast with these vjolent outhenes of lurix

761 CHARACTER, Disoipline of, F'romirell's suldiers. Nor would it the sufe, in our tinue, to tolarate in any regiment religions meetindes, at whic:l a corporat verved in sorlptare shonld lemi the devothons of his less gifted colonel, niml mit monish it hackalkding major. But surh wns the intelligence, the gratity, atul the self-commonel of the warlars whon ('romwall had tralned, that in their compa politleal orquimation and a rellgious orgmization could exint without destroying military arganization. 'The sume mon
 theld-premelars, wre dintinguisherlby stemtiness. by the spirit of orthr, amblly pompt ohedionore on wateli, on ctrill, and on the fled of Inttle,Macaulay's Eno., ch. 1.
765. CHARACTER disolosed. Nimint .J.min8on. Boswelif: " Mr. Burke hais 11 countant stream of ronvermation." Johinan : " Yes, sir ; if a man were to go by chance at the sume the with Burke under a shed, to snum a shower. he woull say, 'This is men extrmordinary man.' If Burke shomkl go jutor a stable to see hits lisise dressed the ostler woulit say, "We have lam $n$, extrmordimary man here." "Bosweni.: "Foote Was a man whonever failed in comversation. If he had gone into a sthble-".Jominson: "Sir, if le hand gone into the stable, the ostlor wonlat have said, llere las been a comisal fellow ; hat he wonle mot lave respected him. "-Boswellis Joifnson, p. 万li.
766. CHARACTER, Elevation of, Aristitles the Just. When the chicf command of the war was given to Athens, n new system was established with regard to the contributions of the confederate States, trustligg no longer to contingent and oceasional supplies or free gifts. The subsidies to be levied from ench were to be exated in proportion to its means, and the revenue of its territory; and a common treasary was appointed to be kept in the Isle of Delos. The high charneter of $A$ ristides was exemplified in the important and honornble trast with which he was invested by the eommon consent of the nation. It appears that not only the costody of the motional supplies, but the power of fixing their proportions, was conferred on this illustrions man; nor was there ever a complaint or marmar heard agninst the equitv with whieh this high but invidious function was mbministered. The lest testimony of his virtue was the strict frugality of his life and the honornble poverty in which he died.-Tytifin'mist., Book 2, ch. 1, p. 138.
767. CEARACTER estimated, Cromirell's. It cannot be doubted that the estimate of his charaeter will nlwnys be formed, not merely from sympathy with a certain set of opinions, but even more from that strange, occult, and undefinable sentiment which, arising from peenliarity of temperament, becomes the creator of intellectual and even moral appreciation. Hence threr are thone to whom, whimerer mis he the ran undy te lintefinf: white there nere others. narala, to whont, cerel if rertain thaw or fialts of rlarmobr uprour la him, la ran only he al-

7t*. CHARACTER, Foundation for. firmalls. Now, " in two remarkahle traits lho firrmans Shate matoms, mind. imferd, frominll thome wher ranes to whonn the (ireeks and liommas gave the desidmation of imatmathas. I nllate to thatr perssroondly, to the rospert pidil hy them to the femalresex. and the chatity for whioh the latter Wrar colehmand numeng tho prophe of the North. These were the fombintions of that probity of rharmetros, solf respert, hat purity of manmers thoir subtiments wrow rolightemed hy chastinn-ter whicl! distingruish the nge of ehivalry umd

769. CHARACTER, Greatness of. l.uthr $r$. [Gpinion of Thomats ('urlyles] "I will eall this father n true groat man, grent in intellocet, in cournge, nflecefon, und integrity, ons of our moss lovable marl precelous moln. Grent not as " luwn ohelisk, but us un Alphe mountuin, so simple, homent, spoutancouls, mot stiting up to be treat ut all ; there for quite nomber purpose piercing fine nud whle futo the hervorns; yot in the refits of it fountains, green lemutiful valleys with flowers! A riglit spirituml llow mul Prophet; omer more atrue son of Natura and Fact, for whom these crontmrios mad many that are to come yet will the thankl'ul to heaven."

770. CHARACTER, Grotesque. Put shelley, To the world he presunted the rure spertucle of a man passiomato for truth amd unteserverlly ohedient to the right as he discerned it. 'The nomonaly whiols mate his practionl eareer a failuro lay just lare The right ha lollowed was ton often the antithesis of ordinary momality: in his a lesire to cast awny the false mide grasp the tribe, he wershot the mark of prudemere. 'The hend' ing in him of a purb and enrnest purpore with moral and social theorios that conld not but have proved pernicions to munkind at ladge, produced at times an almost protespue mixture in his urtions no less than in his verse. We connot, Harefore, womer that society, while ho lived, felt the neressity of asserting itself arniusi him.-SYMoNDS' SImidiey, ch. 8 .
771. CHARACTER, Inherited. Amtrictms. By the midalle of the eightecoll century the American colonies lond, to a corfain exteint, nssumed a national charmetor; but they were still strongly marked with the peculitrities which their uncestors brought with them from Europe. In New Enghand, especially in Massachusetts und Connecticut, the principles nnd practices of Paritunism still held universal sway. On the banks of the Fudson the language, manners, and customs of Holland were almost as prevalent as they had been a hundred years before. By the Delaware the Quakers were gathered in such numbers as to control all legislation and to race of lantars lat thay hand ulways berit, In

 That lise late king land beron at heatt almanit Catholice had heren, during some momtlas, sus-

 limes widhemt momber, derelared himself a l'rot estant, und hat heren la the labit of derevinge the Eincharist from the hishopes at the listablishad C'hurell. 'Ilosese I'rotestanits whon hat stemel bey him in his dinlombles, and whas sill elurisheil thled with shame and hadignation hy learaing that his whole life had hera a lio: ilat. while lise proldasiol to belong to their commomion. lea land roally regarded thom as herotios ; and blati the demaigogies who had represernted him as at concombad pupist had luen lhe only gerple who
 - Maridelay's lina., (li. (l, 1). 40.
773. CHARACTER moulded by Theology. Cromircll. ('romwell was all that we inelme in the tom I'mritan. Ilis whole pmblie lile was the result of that monal experienee by which his fitith was mombed. In him there was a profomad revarinee for the law of (ionl. IIe land an instinctive arporehension of oreme. J'o dis. franchise, to roit, nud put to thirht the imberililies of ammehists-such was his work. A sworn soblier of the Deralogere was be. Siny that he read with keen vivilness into men's himrts amblat men's purjoses; well, he did so, ms my man may do, hy the light of high intelligent principles within him. In many thinge, wo do not cloult, lee mateh misiaterpreted the texts of the Divine Book. J'erhaps le was tow mach it "Iebrew of the II Jrews." Some do not see low a man an be linthfully a ('hristimn man mul nlso $n$ soldier ; lut if he will be ta soldier. then we clo not ser how he cam fulfil a soldier's daty better thinn lis looking into the Olal Tesinment. We see phainly that we shall not know Cromwell's charncter and dople malows we nequant ourselves with Cromwell's theology: IIonis C'romwelis, ch. 1, 1). i2.
774. CHARACTER, Natural. Fontered. The most important cave of Mammaten [the mother of Alextonder] and her wise eounsellors, was to form the charncter of the young emperor. the fortunnte soil assisted, and even prevented, the hamal of enltivation. An exeellent uaderstanding soon convinced Alexmader of the ad.
vanhas.

 warmoth of the rlimatre diapmeal the matives al limmanow of the Girorks was blembed wibla the splemfie af drese and furniture was the omly ital of time bast. 'The lowe af epertactos was the magnilleromer of the gimmes of the thentre mad

777. CHARITY for the Dead. Julinghorow 'The grati lonke of Jarthomurh mul the tirst Laml Bolinghake wore in aprosite politiond intorasts, and wort domedprontly, on most aconsions, ranged arainst arrla othor. Some grontle-his charnctar will moll sevority, and partionlarly charged him will heing excessively araricions. At longth they apponded for the forth of thair statements to land lbolinghorokn, who Was one of the company. 'This mobleman, with a swareal: "'The Ibake al Jarlborourh wiss so great at man that I fuite forget his finfings."
778. CHARITY distrusted. Joseph $I I$. Joseph II., walking oue day on tue Prater at Viemma, med a roung woman who seemed in grant distress. Ile inguired the anase, and foumd that she was the danghter of an ofllecer who had been killed in the Inperial service, mad that sha and her mother had sujported themselvas hy their industry, but were now momployed. " Have your recoivied no assistame from the govermment?" satid the emperor. "None," was the roply. But why not upply to the emperor ? lie is casy of inceces." "They say lie is manicions, and suld a step would then be uscless." The monareln immeliately gave the yomer woman some dacats ami a ring, telling her that he was in the emperor's service, and would serve her, if with her mother she would eome to the palace on a rertain lay. The appointment was kept, and the young woman recognized her benefactor in the person of the emperor, who bade her not to le alarmed, as he had settled a pension on her and her mother, adding, of a hemet that in junt.

 basy upon his own gromde ath in wombine linen for his family. It is salis that lier ham dilty yeare lomger. Ho was relartunt to give mot work. Ilis way was to prosild work, wern if the work was nint morded. 'This primeiple, however, dhat not provent his giving preatole on proper mandions to deserving whjerte. Sll his servanta wern gromeronly remembered by himat (hrimomen and on their birthilage; mill when the of their daturgares was mintion he was fome of presenting the bride with a gonal cow.Cselorbona of Brow., p: :
 with: $A$ pere woman formd in the strexta a malo. intant, which she brought to 'me, and anked intphoringly what she was to da with it. Inthecurod, manppily, by cold amitom, I advised ber (1) give it to the chinerh-wandens. It was then revilng. On the crabing mornlog, carly, I fomm this :e"r woman at my doors. She was aper waterearrier. She crind bittery, und waid, "I have not slept ome wiak all night for parting with that child whinh (ionl hat put in $10 y$ way, umb, if you will giv me leave, f will tuke hini the phonstemderineso of alis peore creature, and I went with her to the parist mase for the infunt, which she hrought to her home with joy, ex claining, in the wry words of the prophen. "Poor child, thengh thy buther has forgothen there, I will mot forget there." EXght years have elapsed since she bromght to har himbla home that exponed infan! and whe is now himed from the constant exposure to wet abd cold : and ten times a day may be serol that pror wat ter carricer passing wilh her weary lomal, led hy this little fomadiug boy. O mreriful Joms, 'I would thatly sacritice the weath and power of this wide worde, to serenre to myself the glorioms wedeme hat awaits this pere blind watererarrier on the great areomoting day! oh, what, compared to charity like lhis, the ermined rolse, the ivory seeptre, the golden throme the few-

7*2. CHARM, Protecting. Numm, Numa, ons of the marliest kings of Rome, having mixal the fomatain of which they used to drink with wine and homey, surprised ind cathglat [thedemigods, who]. nequanted him with many secrets of futiority and taught hime a ciarmi for thunder and lightning, composed of onions, lair. and pilehards, which is used to this day.-P'eetaberis Nema.
783. $\qquad$ Agmus Inci. Tler agnusade in the Roman Cotholic Church, is a cake of was, benring the image of $a$ lamb haring a cross. Being blessed by the pepe, they ure worn by du ('v., "doxis bla.

7ヵ1. CHASTISEMENT of Childion, Sionly,

 - Kivalréslinu, vol. $\because$, ch. 5 .

 hle to the virtur of chastity. "home nowe danger lose tredomes most dagerone whot it is devatal mandere gives a lastre to beranty, and mathan's

 "intertaimmenta, midalght daneres, and biamionas

 (h). 1.

 the Hernse of a military life, nome combld homat that they had seron him intoxicated with wher the mont bematilul eaptives of Gothie or Vamblaj rare wedrothered ta hivembereses lat he turned aside from the de eharme, and the hastmed al Antonime was mever susperetel of viohather the laws was with the utment difllenle! that nuciont Rome romble support the fastitationi of sis vestals: loms. the primitive dhareh was tille-I with a great mamther of pursons of either sex, who hat devoled themselves to the prefession of perpetman thas-

- $$ *$. CHEERFULNESS, Stmulated, , V/ry, The :hip, in which the Princess of Omame hat emtarkied lay oft Margate, and oin tor following morning gmehored at (imenwioh. She was roreved with many signs of joy and athertion; but her demenamer shoteked tha 'Torias, and was not thonght fanlthes cern ly the Whige. A yombr woman, phard, by idestiny as mournful and awfal as that which hrombed over the sitmation that sha combl not, without viohating hor dity to her (iond. her husband, and her romo try, refitse to bake hare sent on the throme from which hor finther [.hame II.] had just furen hurberf. shoudal have heren sad, or at lemat sidions. Mary was hot morely in high, hat in extravagant spirits. She colereil Whitehall, it was nsserted, with a girlish delight at heing miseress of so the a honse, ran ahome the rooms, perped into the closels, and famined the puide of the state bed, withont serming to remember hy whom those; stately matments had hast inemorempied. [Bishon] Burnet, who had, till then, thought her an angel in human form, roudd not, on his ocension, refrinin from blaming her. Ite was the more astonished, hermse, whon he towk teave of her at dine Hagoe, she hat, though fully convinced that she was in the path of daty, been deepiy dejected. To him, as to her spiritual gulde, she afterward explained her condurt. Wiliam had written to inform her that some of those who had tred to separate her interests from his still rontinned their machimations; they gave it out that she thought herself wronged; and, if whe wore a groomy conntranase, the report wound te wontirmed. II therefore entrented her to make her tirst appentance with mair os: cheerfulness Her heart, she said, was far indeed from cheerful: but she had done her best : ana, as she was afraid of not sustaining well a part which was ancongeniat to her feelings, she had everacted it. IIer deportment was the subject of reams of :eurrility in prose and verse ; it lowered ber in the opinion of some whose essteem she valued; not did the world know, till she was beyond the reaclo of prase and censure. that the conduct whieh ind ?rought on her the reproach of levity and inseasibility was really a signal instance of that perfect disinterestedness and self-devotion: of which man seems to be incapable, but which is sometimes found in wom-an.-Macsulay'a Exa., ch. 16, p. 606.

789. OHEERING effective. War of Rebellion. The sonthern troopa when charging, or to express their delight, always yell in a manner peculiar to themselves. The Yankeecheer is much more like ours ; lout the Confederate oflicers declare that the rehel yell has a peruliar merit, and always produces a salutary and useful effect upon their ulversarics. A corps is sometimes spoken of as a " good yelling regiment." [British offiecr's diary, quoted in? Polland's Second Year of the Walt, p. 349.

790 . CHILL, Influence of a. Sorereign. In 1425, with a view probably to diminish the inthence of the protector [the Duke of Gloucester], by exhibiting the child Henry [V1., then five years old] as a shadow of royalty, he was brought into the House of Lords and seated unon the threae upon his mother's knce. "It was a strange sight," says Speed, the chronicler, " and the first time it was ever seen in England, an infant sitting in his mother's lap, and before it could tell what English meant, to exercise the place of sovereign direction in open Parlia-ment."-Kniamt's Evg., vol. 2, ch. 5, p. 78.
791. CHILD, A passionate. Blatse 1'aseal. When the hoy was a year old he was observed to resent, in the most violent manner, any caresses which his parents exchanged. Either of ihem might kiss him in welcome, but if they kissed one mother, he eried, kicked, and made a terrible ado. IIe had also the peculiarity (not very ratre among children) of making a great ontery whenever a basin of water was brought near lim. "Every one," writes an inmate and relative of the family, "said the child was bewiteled hy all old woman who was in the habit of receiving alms from the house." [The "witch" applied her sorcery, and appeared to have killed the chiid, but it was restored.]-Cyelopedin of Biog., p. 96.
792. CHILD, Power oi. Ruler. Themistorles' son being master of his mother, and ly her means, of him, he said, langhing, "This child is greater than any man in Greece; for the Athenians command the Greeks, I command the Athenians, his mother commands me, and he commands his mother."-Pletarea.
798. CHILD, Precocious. sicmbuel Johnson. When i)r. Sachererell was at Liehtield, Johnson was not fuite shree yars old. My grandfather Hammond observed hina at the eathedral perelord upen his fatherss shoudders, listening and gaphig at the much-ectebrated pracher. Mr. Hammond anked Mr. Johnson how be conld possibly think of bringing such an infant to chareh, muld in the midst of so great a crowd. ile answered, berause it was impossible to keep him at home: for, yoangas he was, he believed he had cmaght the public spirit and zenl for Suchererell, and would have stayed forever in the church.-Busweha's Jonssos, p. 5.
78.A. CHILD, A ruined. Griff. Mrs. Susanna Wesley [the mother of John Wesley] had seen much atlliction. IIer hushand liad been in prison for debt, she had suffered from poverty and si-kness, some of her children had died, and others married monappily. She wrote thus to ber brother in hereavement: "O sir, happy, thrice happy are you; happy is my sister that buried your childten in infancy! Secure from temptation, serure from guilt, secure from want or shame or loss of friends, they are safe beyond the reach of paia or sense of misery. Being gone hence, nothing can touch them further. Believe me, sir. it is better to mourn ten children dead than one living, and 1 have buried many."
795. CHILD, Vaiue of a. Herthen. Abdallah-Ben-Abe Iotalib, the father of Nahomet, when a $h$ marrowly escaped sacrifice at his father's hatads, who, being childless, made a vow that he wonld sacrifice one of his children to the gods if they would grant him a family. The family came, and the lot being taken fell on Abd.thah. The father was on the point of fulfilling his vow, when, by the advice of his friends, he stayed his hand and consulted a wise womun, who directed him to place ten camels, the price of bloor among the Arabs, on one side, and his son on the uther, and to cast lots between them; and as often as the lots should be against the youtl, he was to add ten more camels. The experiment was tried and the lot was against Abdallah ten times; the father sacriticed one hundred camels, and saved his son.-Arp. Cyc., " Andallath."
796. CHILDHOOD, Impressible. Rev. John Daris. [He was carly trained in the doctrines of religion.] He attributed his conversion, in his nineteenth year, to the inerfacealle impression of a lesson of the Ifoly Scriptures, heard while sitting on his father's knee when he was a child. -Stevens' M. E. Cncricn, vol. 4, p. 230
797. CHILDHOOD, Terrors of. Willitem Coroper. My chief attliction consisted in my leing singled out from all the other boys be: it lad of about tifteen years of age as a proper object upon whom he might let loose the cruelty of his temper. I choose to conccal a particular recital of the many acts of barbarity with which he made it his business continually to persecute me. It will be sufficient to saly that his savage treatment of me impressed such in dread of his figure upon my mind, that I well renember being afraid to lift uy cyes upon lim higher than to lis knees, and that 1 knew him better by his shoe-buckles than by any other part of his dress. May the Lord pardon him, and may we meet in glory -Smiris Cowrelt, ch. I.

798. CHILDREN abused, Prupers. [In the British collieries, $18: 37$,] it was the custom of many of the hard task-masters to take two or three apprentices at a time, supporting themselves and families out of the latoor of these unfortunate erphans, who from the age of fourteen to twenty-one never received a penny for themselves, by a servitude in which there wis nothing to learn beyond a little dexterity roadily atguired by short practice. [some of them were whipped to death.]-Kingirt's Exg., vol. 8, ch. 22, p. 396.
799. --. Spinning. Children of very tender age, collected from the London workhouses and other abodes of the friendless, were transported to Manchester and the neighberhood as apprentices. They were often worked through the whole night; land no regard paid to their cleanliness; and received no instruction. [They were employed on the newly invented spinuing machines.]-KNighr's Enc., vol. 7, ch. 3, p. 62.
800. CHILDREN a Blessing. Mahomet. His enemies, who regarded the privation of a male child as a disfavor of Heaven, gave to Mahomet the ignominious epithet of a man withont a contimuation of himself.-Lamahtine's Tulekey, p. 140.
801. CHILDREN, Delight in. Mahomet. Mahomet's politeness to men of all conditions who approached him was gentle and respectful. "He never," says Aboulfeda. "withdrew his hand the first from the hand of those who were snluting him." He played . . . with the children of Ali, the husband of his danghter, Fatima, in default of any of his own. One of these little ones, of a tender age, named Hossein, having erept upon his back while he was prostra'edin prayer, with his face against the earth, the prophet remained in this attitude, to gratify the child, until its mother came to deliver him of the bur-den.-Lamartine's Turkey, p. 152.
802. CHILDREN, Discipline of. Severity. [A.D. 1547.] Severe discipline of children was the characte:istic of an age in which men and boys, and even girls, were governed more by terror than by lovo Peter Carewe, when he ran away from school, was led home in chains like a dog, and was coupled to a hound in a filthy outhouse. Lady Jane Grey described to Ascham how, in the presence of her parenis, she was compelled to deport herself in every action of life according to the strictest rules; " or else I am so sharply taunted, so cruclly threatened, yea presently, sometimes with pinches, nips, and bols, and other ways which I will not name for the honor I bear them, so without measure disordered that I think myself in hell." The poor lady, however, considered the severity as a blessing, for it taught her to value the exceptional kindness of her sohoolmaster, "who teacheth me so gently, so pleasantly, with such fair allurements to learning, that I think all the time nothing while I am with him."-Knigut's Ena., vol. 2, ch. 29, p. 495.
803. CHILDREN frightened. Reign of James 11. The ladics of the queen's household, prompted by avarice, plundered the victims of Jef-freys' court.] The prey on which they pounced most engerly was one which it might have been thought that even the most mingentle matures would have spared. Already some of the girls who had presented a stundard to Monmouth [the rebel und pretended king] at Taunton had eruelly expinted their offence. One of them had been thrown into a prison where an infections malady was raging. She had sickened and died there. Ano:her had presented herself at the bar before ,Jeffreys, to berg for merey. "Take her, jaller," voclferated the judge, with one of thoso frowns which had often struck terror into sicutor hearts than hers. She burst into tears, drew her hood over her face, followed the jailer out of court, fell ill ol fright, and in a few hours was a eorpse. Most of the young ladies, however, who had walked in the procession were still alive. Some of them were under ten years of age. iall had acted under the orders of their sehoomistress, without knowing that they were committing a crime. 'The gucen's maids of honor asked the royal permission to wring money out of the parents of the poor children, and the permission was granted. Anorder was sent down to Tamton that all these little girls should be seized and imprisoned. [Hee more at No. 607.]-Macaulay's Eng., chi. 5, p. 607.
804. CHILDREN, Labors of. Reign of Charles II. At Norwich, the chief seat of the clothing trade, a little creature six years old was thought fit for labor. Several writers of that time, and anong ihem some who were considered as cminently benevolent, mention, with exultation, the fact, that in that city boys and girls of a tender age created wealth exceeding what was necessary for their own subsistence by $£ 12,000$ a year. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. 8, p. 390.
805. CHILDREN, Mistrained. John Milton's. Ife did not allow his daughters to learn any language, saying with a gile that one tongue was enough for a woman. They were not sent to any school, but had some sort of teaching at home from a mistress. But in order to make them useful in reading to him, their father was at the pains to train them to read aloud in five or six languages, of none of which they understood one word. When we think of the time and labor which must have been expended to teach them to do this, it must occur to us that a little more labor would have sufficed to teach them so much of one or two of the languages as would have made their reading a source of interest and improvement to themselves. This Milton refused to do. The conseguence was, as might have been expected, the occupation became so irksome to them that they rebelted against it. In the case of one of them, Mary, . . . this restiveness passed into open revolt. She first resisted, then neglected, and finally rame to hate, hor father. When some one spoke . . she said, that was no news to her of his wedding; but if she eould hear of his death, that was something. She combined with Anne, the eldest daughter, " to counsel his maid-servant to cheat him in his marketings." They sold his books without his knowledge. "They made nothing of deserting him," he was often heard to com-plain.-Milton, hy M. Pateison, ch. 12.
806. CHILDREN, Overgoverument of. .John Inorard. [He had im only son.] IIe was exreedingly fond of his son, thongh he governed him, as some of his frieads thonglit, a little too much in the patriarehal style, demmeling from him the most prompt and exact obedience, and avoiding, on principla, to give him amy explanation of the ressons of his refuirements. The never struck the boy a bow in his lile. The severest panishment he ever inllicted was compelling lum to sit still for al certain time withont speaking, and such was his merembeney over the child, that one of his neightors satid that if he should tell the boy to hodd his hamd in the fire, he woald do it. Ha appears to have carries' the patriarchal principhe too far. The bey oheyed his firther, hut didnot confite in him ; respected his father, but wis not very fond of him; was proud of his father, but dinl not leed at home in his comphyy. [See more at No. 418.]-cye. of Biog., p. $5 i$.
807. CHILDREN, Proteotion of. Roman. The same protection wiss due to wery preriod of existences and reason must appland the homanity oi Padus for imputing the erime of murder to the father who strangles, or starves, or abindons his new-born infant, or exposes him in a public place to find the merey which he himself had denied. But the exposition of children was the prevailing and stubborn vice of antiquity ; it was sometimes prescribed, often permitted, almost always practised with impunty, by the mations who never entertained the Rominidens of patermal powers.-Gabos's Rome, ch. 44 .
808. CHILDREN of the State. Spertarn. Children at Sparta were not considered as belongine to the individual parents, but to the State. After the performance of ine first maternal duties, the youth were educated at the charge of the public; and every citizen had as much authority over his neighbor's children as over his own. Slaves, in the same manner, were, at Sparta, a species of common property; every man might make use of his neighbor's slaves, and hunt, as Xenophon informs us, not only with his neighbor's servants, but with his dogs and horses. -'Tytlen's IIfst., Book 1, eh. 9.
809. CHILDREN to save the State. Wishlington. [In the dark days of the war of the Rev. olution Washington was returning to his army after a brief absence.] The population of the Lown where he wais to spend the night went out to meet him. A crowd of chihdren, repenting the acclamations of their elders, gathered around him, stopping his way, all wishing to touch him and calling him father. Pressing the hand of [Count] Dumas [one of his French allies], he said to him : "We may be beaten by the English in the field; it is the lot of arms; but see there the arm that they will never conquer." -Bancruft's U. S., vol. 10, ch. 18.
810. CHILDREN, Surrender of. Tis Jitlens. The liherality of the [Roman] ("וnperor was accompanied, however, with two harsh and rigorous ronditions, which prudenc inight justify on the side of the Romans, but hich distress alone could extort from the indignant Goths. Before they passed the Danube, they were required to deliver their arms ; and it was insisted that their children should be taken from them, and dispersed through the provinces of Asia, where they might be civilized by the arts of education, and serve as hostares to serobre the tidelity of their parcuts.- (immon's Rome, ch. 26.

Q11. CHILDREN surviving. Semult Johmam. Boswea,: "I buliowe, sir, a great many of the children loorn in Lontom dic "urly." Jomsxos: "Why, yes, sir." Bosweat: " But those who do live are as stout and strong people as amy; br Price says they must bre mamally strong to get thromert." Jomsson: "That is system, sir. A ereat traveller obsereres, that it is salid there are mo wak or deformed peot ple among the ladians; but be with moch sagatity assigns the reasom of this, which is. that the hardship of their life is hanters amd fishers does mot allow wak or disensed chilitren to grow up. Now, hatl I beca an ludian Imast have died carly; my eyes would not have served me to get foonl. I inderd now could tish, give me English tadkle; but had I beem an Indian I must have starved, or they would have knocked me: on the head, when they saw 1 could do mothing." - Buswehis Jonsson, p. 49.

Q12. CHILDREN are Treasures. Pimr Nfin's. [When the rabble for the serond time fired the rectory of hev. samucl Wesley, it was with ditlecrity that the lives of the children were saved, his son bohm barely getting ont of the house before the roof fell, crusling the clumber where he had slept to the gromid.] The fither exclamed as he recrived his son, "Come, neighbors, let us kned down; let us give thanks unto God; He has given me all my ciglat children ; let the honse go. 1 am rich enough."-STEVENs' Methodism, vol. 1, p. 60.
813. CHILDREN, Unfortunate. Tortars. There still remained a more disgrapetul article of tribute, which violated the sacred feclings of humanity and nature. The hardships of the savage life. which destroy in their infancy the chiditren who are born with a less healthy and robost constitution, introduced a remarkable disproportion between the numbers of the two sexes. ..... A select hand of the fairest maidens of ' 'hina were annually devoted to the rude embraces of the lluns.-Gibibon's Rome, ch. 26.
814. Chimera, Pursuit of. Iveter Verton. Who would have thonght to find Newton an abchemist? It is a fact, that for several years this great man was intensely occupied in endeavoring to diseover a way of changing the baser metals into gold. This is, perhaps, the reason why he added little to our knowledge of chenistry, though he seems to have labored at this science al longer time and with more pleasure than at any other. Being in pursuit of a chimera, he lost his time. There were periods when his furmace fires were not allowed to go out for six weeks, he and lis secretary sitting upaltermate nights to replenish them. - Cyclonedia or Biog., p. 2 2te.
815. CHIVALRY, Baseness of. Elnard $I$. [Edward 1.] was challenged to a toarnament by the Count of Chalons. $\qquad$ Edward entered the lists with a thousand retainers, both horsemen and sparmen. In the mêlée many were killed; and the English appear to have behaved with most despicable ferocity. Edward himself, when he had unhorsed the athletic count, his challenger, stood over his suppliant enemy, and belabored himi with a brutality of which an Eng-liwh costermonger would now be ashamed. Such Whe chivalry-that compoomd of cruclty und gromerosity, of physieal daring mal mornh coward ice, of sensitive honor and hroken finth.

W16. CHIVALRY, Modern. Liatlic of Levingtom, $1 / \%$. TThe Federals sumremdered to the comfoderatis after a protmeted siegre. When Cobond Malligan surrendered his sword, Gemeral Price askid him for the seabbard. Mulligan reptied that he had theown it away. The ereneral, upon rereiving his :worl, returned it to him, saying he distiked to sere a man of his valor without a sword. . . . While awaiting his exrhange colonel Multigan and his wife becume the guests of Gemeral Priere, the genemal surrendering to them his carringe.- Dondamb's Filus Yemi of the War, ch. 5, p. 148.
817. CHIVALRY, Order of. K'rights of st. Tohn. The military aud redigions order of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem was the expiring sigh of chivalry ufter the crusades. A triplespirit at that time animated the European nohility-the spirit of faith, the spirit of war. the spirit of adventure. What is called a knight was born of these three spirits combined. A pious heart, a militant arm, it chimerical imag-mation-those three elements composed the perfect Christian knight. Religion, war, glory, were nis three souls.-lamahtine's Tehkey, p. 347.
818. CHIVALRY, Patriotic. (inpt. Penl.Jones. He lambed near the castle of the Earl of Selkirk, intending to take the earl prisoner, and keep him as a hostage for the better treatment of American prisoners in England, whom the king affected to regard as felons, and who were contined in common jails. The carl was absent from home. The crew demanded liberty to plunder the castle, in retaliation for the ravages of British captains on the coast of America. Captain Jones could not deny the justice of their demand; yet, abhorring the principle of plundering private houses, and especially one inhabited by a lady, he permitted the men to take the silver phate only, forbidding the slightest approach to violence or disperspect. That silver phate he himself bought when the plunder was sold, and sent it back to the Countess of Sclkirk, with a polite letter of explanation and apology. The hanghty earl refused to receive it ; but Cuptuin Jones, after a long correspondence, won his heart, and the silver was replaced in the plate closet of Selkirk Castle eleven years after it had been taken from it.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 336.
819. CHOICE of Both. Lysender. [Lysander having been sent an] ambassador to Dionysius, the tyrant offered him two vests, that he might take one of them for his daughter; upon which he said his daughter knew better how to choose than he, and so took them both.-Puctazer's Lisanimer.
820. CHOICE manifested. Pizarro. Ilis foljowers ran down to the slip and demanded to be conveyed to Danama. Pizarro joined them, gathered them around him, and, drawing a line in the sand with his sword, addressed them thus: " Comrades, on that side," pointing to the south, " are toil, hunger, nakedness, the drenching storm, battle, and death. On this side," pointing to the north, "are emse mad safety. But on that side lies Pern, with its wealth. Gn this side is Pamma and its poverty. Choose, rach man, what best becomes a hrave Castilian. for my part, 1 go to the sonth." Ilaving said these words, he stepped to the sonthern side of the line, and there stood, eying the homeside crowal. Twedve soldiers, one pritest, and one muleterer joined him. The rest wont on hoard the ship, and returned to J'amam. - ('ychordebla of Broc., 1). 3:3.).
-21. CHOICE, Necessary. I"dryende 1 tas. Self-preservation, uniting with mabition and wild cuthusiasm, urged them to nucompromising hostility with Charles I. He or they mast, brish. "If my head or the king's must fall," argued Cromwell, "can I hesitate" which to choose ?" By un net of violence the Independents seized on the king, and held him in their special custody. "Now," said the exulting (rom-wedi-" now that I have the king in my hands, I have the Parliament in my pocket."-Bas-

-22. CHOICE, Painful. 1jrath of straffort. The Parliament was intlexible ; the pueenwept; England was in a ferment. Charles [I.], although ready to yied, stili hesitated. The Queen IIenrietta, of France, diaghter of IIenry lV., a beautifut and accomplished princess, for whom until his death the king preserved the fidelity of a husband and the passion of a lover, presented herself lefore him in mourning, accompanicel ly her little children. She besought hin on her knees to yield to the vengeance of the people, which he could not resist withont turning upon the innocent pledges of their love that death which he was endeavoring vainly to avert from a condemned head. " ('hoose," said she, "between your own life, mine, these den chidren's. and the life of this minister so hateful to the nation." Charles, struck with horror at the idea of sacrificing his beloved wife and infant children, the hopes of the monarchy, replied that he cared not for his own life, for he would willingly give it to save his minister; but to endanger Henrietta and her children was beyond his strength and desire. [He signed the deathwarrant of his chief minister and faithful friend.] -Lamartine's Cromwelif, p. 12.
823. CHRIST caricatured. Martin Luther. Bitterly did he complain that, from childhood on, he had been so trained that he paled and trembled at the mere mention of the name of Christ, whom he had been taught to regard as a severe and angry judge.-Resis Letheit, 1. 22.
824. CHRIST, Defence of. Fing of the Franks. [After his conversion] the mind of Clovis was susceptible of transient fervor ; he was exasperated by the pathetie tale of the passion nud death of Christ ; and, instead of weighing the salutary consequences of that mysterious sacritice, he exclained, with indiscreet fury, "Had I been present at the hemel of my valiant Franks, I would have revenged IIis injuries. "-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 37, p. 535.
825. CHRIST, Honors for. Proof. [The mind of the Emperor Theodosius was confirmed in orthodox doctrine.] Ite had lately bestowed on his eldest son, Areadius, the name and honors of Angustus, and the two princes were sented on a stately throne to receive the homage of their subjects. A bishop, Amphilochins of leonium, approached the throne, und ufter suluting, with duc reverence, the person of his sovereign, he accosted the royal youth with the same familiar tenderness which lie might have used toward a plebeian ehild. Provoked by this insolent brhavior, the monarel gave orders that the rastie priest should be instantly driven from his presence. But while the ghards were forcing him to the door, the dexterous polemie had time to execute his design, by exchaining, with a lond voiee, "Such is the tratment, O emperor, Which the King of heaven has prepared for those impious men who atlect to worship the Father, but refuse to acknowledge the equal majesty of Ilis divine Son!" Theodosins inmediately "embraced the Bishop of Iconium, and never forget the important lesson which he had recoiverd from this dramatic parable.-Gmmos's Jomb:, ch. 27.

826. CHRIST, Preaching. Ertasm"s. Erasmus desired to set Christ limself in the place of the church, to recall men from the teaching of christian theologians to the teaching of the Fommeer of Cliristianity. The whole value of the gospels to him lay in the vividness with which they brought home to their readers the personal impression of Christ Limself. "Were we to have seen IIm with our own eyes, we should not have so intimate a knowledige as they give us of Christ, speaking, healing, dying, rising aguin, us it were in our very presence." All the superstitions of mediaval worship faded away in the light of this persomal worship of Christ. "If the footprints of Christ are shown us in any place, we kneel down and adore them. Why do we not rather vencrate the living and breathing picture of llim in these books: We deek statues of wool und stone with gold and gems for the love of Chirist. Tet they only profess to represent to us the outer form of His body, while these books present us with a living pirture of IIis holy mind." In the same way the actuml teaching of Christ was made to supersede the mysterious dogmas of the older ecelesiastical teaching. "Asthough Christ tanght suc(l) sub)tleties," burst out Erasmus-" sabtideties that can scarcely be understood even by a few heologians -or as though the strength of the Christian religion consisted in man's ignorance of it! It may be the safer course," he goes on, with characteristic irony, "10 conerall the state mysterics of kings, but Christ desired Itis mysteries to be spread abroad as openly as was possible." In the diffasion, in the universal knowledge of the teaching of Christ, the fonndation of a reformed Christianity had still, be urged, to be haid.Eng. Peonle, S. 518.
827. CHRIST substituted. Pope. In his addresses to the people he maintained in plain speech: "Christ has laid down llis authority over all Christendom, until the day of judgrment, and has intrusted the pope with phary power in His stend. The pope therefore can forgive each and every sin, whether already committed or yet to be committed, and that without, sorrow and repentance. The greatest guilt can be effaced by purchasing a papail certificate of forgiveness. No crime, however horri-

We and inconceivable in reality, is excluded from this forgiveness. The indulgence cross of the pope is not inferior in sacredness to the cross of C'hrist, and hence the former most he honored us highly us the latter."-Reis's Luthen. p. 12.
wisw. CHRIsT, Theory of, Muhomet's. For the anthor of Christinuity the Mohanmedans are tianght by the prophet to entertuin a high and mysterious reverence. "Verily, Christ Jesus, the Son of Mary, is the apostle of Gool, and IIis word, which the convered monto Mary, and a Spirit procerding from llim; honorable in this woild and in the world to come; and one of those who approard near to the presence of God." The wonders of the remine and uporryphal ersupels ure profuscly heaped on llis head; and the latin chure h has not disdained to borrow from the koran the immacrate conception of H is virgin mother. Yet Jesus was a mere mortal; and at the day of juldement Lis testimony will serve to condemn both the dews, who reject Ifimas a prophet, and the Christians, who adore IIm as the son of Gol. The malice of 1His conemies aspersed 1 Iis reputation and conspired ngainst llis life ; bat their intention only was guilty ; a phantom or acriminal was substituted on the cross, and the innocent saint was trunslated to the seventh heaven.-Gmmos's Roms, ch. 50, p. 108.
829. CHRISTIAN by Rereavement. Alrahiam timeoln. [See No. 830.] "I had lived," he contimued, "until my boy Willie died, withont realizing fully these things. That blow overwhemed me. It showed me my weakness as I had never felt it before ; and if I cun take what you have stated an a text, I think I cam safely say that I know something of that cluenge of which you spenk; and I will further add, that it has been my intention for some time, at a suituble opportunity, to make a pultic religious profession !" -Raymond's lineoln, p. T32.
830. CHRISTIAN, Experience of a. Abraham Lincoln. [A lady interested in the work of the Christian Commission had several interviews with the President. On one oceasion he said to her:] "Mrs. - I have formed a very high opinion of your Christian character ; and now, as we are alone, I have a mind to ask you to give me, in brief, your iden of what constitutes a true religious experience." The laty replicel at some length, stating that, in her judgment, it consisted of a conviction of one's sinfulness and weakness and personal need of the Saviour for strength and support ; that views of mere doctrine might and would differ, but when one was really brought to feel his need of divine help and to seek the aid of the Itoly Spirit for strength and guidance, it was satisfactory evidence of his being born agrain . . . . When she had concluded Mr. Lincoln was very thoughtful for a few moments. He at lengh said, very eamestly: "If what you have told me is really a correct view of this great subject, I think I ean say, with sincerity, that I hope I am a Clristian."-Raymond's Lincola.
831. CHRISTIAN, spirit of the. Croanell. [Cromwell's last prayer.] Lord, though I am a miserable and wretched crenture, I am in covenant with Thee, through grace. And I may, I will, come to Thee, for thy people. Thou hast made me, though very unworthy, a meau instrument to do them some goon, and Thee mervice: and many have sot too high a value upon me, thoogh others wish and would be ghad of my denth. Lord, however 'Thont dorlispose of me, continue and go on to to anood for them. Give them consistemey of judgment, one heart and mutam love ; groon to deliver them and the work of reformation; and make the mame of C'hrist glorrious in the world. Tench those who look too much on thy instrments fodepend more upon thyself. lardon such as alesime to trample upon the dust of a poor worm, for they are thy people 100. And pradon the folly of this short prayereven for Jesus Christ's sake. Ame give us n reoul night, if it be thy pleasure. Amen.-Kinuino's ENo., vol. 4, (•h. 13, 1). 2l.j.
882. CHRISTIANITY, An absurd, ibyssi"it". Its ruling characteristics are intoleranoe und formality. The number of regrolar fast-days is two homblred and sixty in ench year, und a regular fust implies nbstinence from drinking as well as enting. Besides these the Chureh decrees extraordinary fasts from time to time. Should an Abyssinian he known to nerglect these fasts, his body woutd the refused sepulture. On the other hand, there are abundance of feasts in the Church holidays and saints' days, and travellers relate that the Abyssinian divines are at least as serupulous in the observance of these as the fasts. Nights are spent in altermate prayer, dancing. and drinking, and the sacrament is administered hefore sumrise. It is reported that it has happencel that when the sun rose none of the divines present were in a condition to ofticinte: but it was well understood that sach arriblents were the fruit of exeessive religions fervor. Apl". Cyc., "Abysminian Chercur."
833. CHRISTIANITY, Advancement of, Primary Cause. Our curiosity is maturally prompted to inguire by what means the Christion faith oltained so remarkable a victory over the extablished religrions of the earth. 'To this inguiry an obvions hut satisfactory answer may be re-turned-that it was owing to the convincing evidence of the doctrine itself, and to the rinting providence of its great Author.-Gibuon's Rome, ch. 15.
834. -- Seconelary Ceneres. What were the secondary canses of the rapid growth of the Christinn chumeh? It will, perhaps, appear, that it was most effectually favored and assisted by the five following canses: I. The inflexille, and, if we may ine the expression, the intolerant zeal of the Christians, derived, it is true, from the Jewish religion, hut purified from the narrow and unsocial spirit, whith, instead of inviting, had deterred the Gentiles from embracing the law of Moses. It. The doctrine of a future life, imporoved by every additional circumstance which could give weight and efficacy to that important trulh. III. The miraculous powers ascribed to the primitive chureh. IV. The pure and anstere morals of the Christians. V. The mion and discipline of the Christian republic, which gradually formed an independent and increasing state in the heurt of the Roman Empire.-Grbbon's Rome, ch. 15.
835. CHRISTIANITY, Civilization by. Cruelty. The first Christian emperor may claim the honor of the first edict which condemned the ort and amusement of shedding human blood; but this benevolent lnw expressed the wisher of the prince, without reforming an invoterate abuse. which degraded a civilized nation helow tho condition of savage camnilnts. Several handred, perhaps se veral thomand, victinss were ammmally shaterhtered in the great rities of the empire, and the month of Derember, more pereuliarly devoted to the comblats of ghadiators, still exhibited to the eves of the Romati jorople a gratolin spectacha of hood mal ermelty. Amid the general joy of the vietory of Pollontia, n Chrisian poret exhorted the cmperror to extirpate, by his athority, the ladide rastom which had so hong resisted the voice of homanity and religion. The pathetio representations of Prublentins wre less effectual than the arenerous holdeses of Telomachas, an Asiatio monk, whose dembly wate usaful to mankind than his life. The Romans were provoked by the intermption ol their pleasures: unt the rash monk, who had heseemtod into the urena to soparate the ghaliators, was overwhelmed mater in shower of stones. But the madness of the prople soon subsided ; they resperetel the menory of Telemardins, who land descrved the honors of martyrdom, and they submited, without a murmur, to the laws of IOnorins, which abolished forever the hommon sacrifices of the amplithentre.-Ginamis lRome, vol. 3, ch. 30.
436. $\qquad$ - Berberiathe. Before the nge of Charlemmgne the Christian mutions of Enrope might cxult in the exchasive possession of the temberate climates, of the fortile lands, which produced corn, wine, and oil : while the savige idolaters and their helpless idols were contined to the extremities of the earth. the cark and frozen regions of the North. Christianity, which opened the gates of heaven to the harharians, introduced an important change in their moral and political condition. They rereived, at the same time, the use of letiers, so essential to $n$ religion whose doctrines are contained in a sucred book; and while they studied the divine truth, their minds were insensibly enlarged by the distant view of history, of nature, of the arts, amd of sociaty.-Gibmens: Rome, vol. 3, ch. 3i.
$87. - - Partherians. The admission of the barbarians into the pale of rivil and ecclesinstical society delivered Europe from the depredations, by sea and land, of the Nommans, the IIungratians, aud the Russians, who learned to spare their brethren and entivate their possessions. The estiblishment of lat and order was promoted by the intluence of the elerery, and the rudiments of art and seiance were intriduced into the savage countries of the grobec.-Gibshox's liome, ch. 5\%.
838. CHRISTIANITY commended. IIoth. If we consiller the parily of the Christian religion, the sanetity of its moral precepts, and the innocent as well as the mustere lives of the grenter number of those who during the first ares cmbraced the faith of the gospel, we should naturally suppose that so benevolent a doctrine woild have been received with due reverence, even by the unbelieving world. - Gibibon's Rome, ch. 16.
839. CHRISTIANITY compromised. Cometantine. The awful mysteries of the Christian faith and worship were concealed from the eyes of strangers, and rean of caterlmmens, with an af freted seeresy, which served to excite theib won der and erriosity. But the severes rules of discipline which the prudenee of the hishope had insiltuted were relased by be sabme prude nere in favor of an hapromal pionslyte, whom it was so tmportant to allure, ley every grenthe combe. serension, into the pale of the (lhureh; and Constantine was promitted, ut least by it hatit disprensation, to crijoy most of the privilenges lefere he hat comeracted "1"y of the obligations of a (Christian.-(Glmbs's Rome, ch. 20).
*10. CHRISTIANITY discarded. Fremere. A.D. 179.1. At this lime it can hardly be satil hait there was may religion in France Christianity had beetn ulmost miversally disencded. Tho priasts had bere banishoel; the charehes demolislarl or converted into temples of saicure or hamis of ammsement. The immortality of the sonl was denied, and upon the gate ways of the praveyards was inseribed, "Death is an etermal sleep! !"-Amore's Naromeon 13., vol. 1, ch. 3.
Q11. CaRISTIANITY and Discovery. Colum. lows. As the conversion of the heathens was professed to be the grand object of these discoveries, twelve zendons and able cerdesiastios were chosen for the purpose, to aceompany the expedition. . . By way, it was said, of offering to LIenven the first-liuits of these pagan mations, the six hodians whom Columbus had bronght to Barcelona were baptized with great state and ceremony, the king, the queen, mad Prince Suan ofllciating as sponsors. Great hopes were entertained that, on their return to their mative country, they would facilitate the introfurtion of Christianity among their comerymen. -Imving's Columimis, Book 5, ch. 8.
842. CHRISTIANITY, Diversity in. Nitiomal. In the profession of Christianity the variety of mational charncters may beclearly distingrushed. The matives of Syria and Egypt ahondened their lives to lazy ind eontemplative devotion ; Rome ugatin asjured to the dominion of the world ; and the wit of the lively and legquations Greeks was consumed in the disputes of metaphysical theology. The incomprenensible mysteries of the Trinity and Incarnation, instead of commanding their silent sulmission, were agitated in vehement and subtle controversies, which enlarged their faith at the expense, perhaps, of thiol charity and reason.-Gmanos's Rowes, ch. it.
8.43. CHRISTIANITY Indestructible. By $p^{2} r$. wention. The resentument, or the fears, of Diocletian transported him beyond the bounds of moderation, which he had hitherto preserved, and he declared, in a series of crucl edicts, his intention of abolishing the Christian name. By the first of these ellicts the goveraors of the provfinces were directed to apprehend all persons of the ceclesiastical order ; and the prisons, destined for the vilest criminals, were soon filled with a multitude of bishops, presbyters, deacons, readцrs, and cxoreists. By a second edict the magistrates were commanded to employ every method of severity which might reclaim them from their odious superstition and oblige them to return to the established worship of gods. This rigorous order was extended, by a subsequent edect, to the whole body of Christians, who were יxpesel to a voldent and gemeral perserention.Ghbas's Ronse, ill. 16.

v11. CEIRISTIANITY misunderstood, Giblon. Gibmon'saccomet of the carly ('hristians is vitiatid be his marrow and distorted ememeption of the conoibomal side of man's mature. Ilaving mo spinitual aspirations himsolf, he conhed mot appreGiate or muld patand them in others. Those emotions which have low their objeet the unserelt world and its centre, God, had no meaning for him: : and he was tempted to cexplain them away when ha came arross them, or to aseribe their origin and effects to other instincts which were more intedligible to him. The wonlerland which the mystie inhabit: was dosed to him ; he remainadontside ol' it, amb reproduced in sarrastic travesty the reports he hard of its marvels.-Monmsox's (itmos, ch. $\%$
8.45. CHRISTIANITY, Musoular. Sulemb Witches. A.D. 16:2. Edward Bishop, a farmer. cured the luthan servant of a fit by flogreing him: be deelared, moreover, his belief that he could, in like manner, cure the whole company of the atthicted ; and for his seepticism found himself und his wite in prisom.-Banchort's L. S., vol. 3 , ch. 19.
*16. CHRISTIANITY, Offence of, Amusements. The public games mad fessivals. On those ocratsions the inhabitunts of the great cities of the empire were collected in the circus or the thentre, where pery circumstance of the place, as well as of the ceremony, contributed to kindle their devotion and to extinguish their humanity. While the numerous spectators, crowned with garlands, perfumed with incense, purified with the blood of vietims, and surrounderd with the alars and statues of the ir tutelar deities, resigned themselves to the enjoyment of plensures which they considered as minessential purt of their religious worship, they recollected that the Cluristians alone abliorred the gods of mankind, and by their absence and melancholy on these solemn festivals seemed to insult or to lament the public felicity.Gimbon's Rome, ch. 16.
847. CHRISTIANITY, Qualified Faith in. Poot shellry. Leigh IIunt gives a just notion of his relation to Christianity, pointing out that he drew a distinction between the Pauline presentation of the Christian ereels and the spirit of the gospels. "Ilis want of faith in the letter. and his exceeding faith in the spirit of Christianity, formed a comment, the one on the other, very formidable to those who chose to forget whit. Scripture itself olserves on that point." We lave only to rend "Essays on Christianity," in order to perceive what reverent admiration he felt for Jesus, and how profoundly he understood the true chameter of His tetching.-Symonds' Sileliey, ch. 5.
8.8. CHRISTIANITY, Success of. World-vide. [During the decay of the Roman Einpire] a pure and humble religion gently insinuated itself into the minds of men, grew up in silence and obscurity, derived new vigor from opposition, and finally ereeted the trimmphant hanner of the eross on the ruins of the Capitol. Nor was the intluence of Christianity confined to the period or to the limits of the Roman Empire. After a revolution of thirteen or fourteen centuries, that relig. ion is still professed by the nations of Europe.
the most distinguished portion of hmman kind in arts and learning, nes wellas in arms. By the inclustry mat \%eal of the Europems it has berol widrely ditlused to the most distant slomen of A ais has been bimbly esiablisherd from ('anadia to Chili, in a world unknown to the ancians.-(intmos's Rown: rli. is.
*.19. CHRISTIANs, Uncompromising. lime puence of' convidion, and the (hristam, whow guilt was the mose clanty proved by the lastimony of witamses, or even he their vohmary ronfession, still retained in their own power the altermative of life or death. It was not so mumela the past offence as the actual rexitance which excited the indignation of the magistrate. Ife was persuadend that he offered them an cusy pardon, since, if they consented to cust in fow igrains of inernse upon the nlar, they were dismiswed from the tribumal in safety mod with aplames. GH:on's Rome, ch. 16.
850. CHRISTMAs, Celebration of. Licrelr:" i" Firence rend Itrely. Among the revels of the Christmas semson were the so-called fasts of fools und of nsses, grotesque saturnalia, which were sometimes termed "December liberties," in which everything serious was burlesqued, inferiors personitied their superiors, freat men becoming frolissome, and which illustrate the proneness of man to occasionally reverse lhe order of society and ridicule its decracies.-A1pheton's Am. CY('., " ('mintmas."
$51. CHRISTMAS changed. Puritime. ('hristmas had been from time immemorial the seasem of joy and domestic affection, the suson when fumilies nssembled, when children come home from school, when quarrels were madenp, when carols were heard in every strex, when every house was decorated with evergrecons, and every table was londed with good chreer. At that seasom all henrts not utterly destitute of kindness were enlarged and softened. At that season the poor were admitted to partake largely of the overtlowings of the wealth of the rich, whose hounty was peculiarly acerptable on areomet of the shortness of the days nud of the severity of the weather. At that season the interval hetween landlord and tenant, master mal servant, was less marked than through the rest of thie year. Where there is much enjoyment there will be some excess; yet, on the whole, the spirit in which the holiday was kept was not unworthy of a Christian festival. The Long Parliament give orders, in 1644, that the 25 ith of Decemher should be strictly observed as a fast, and that all men should pass it in humbly hemoaning the great national sin which they and their fathers had so often committed on that day ly romping under the mistle:oe, eating boar's head, and drinking ale flavored with ronsted apples. No public act of that time seems to have irritated the common people more-Macallay's Evg., eh. 2.
852. CHURCH, Attendance at. Compulwory. [In 1581 Parlianient passed an enactment ly which those who said mass or attended mass, or did not attend church, were subject to heavy penalties.]-Knigut's Eng., vol. 3. ch. 12.
853. - Puritans. [In 1653 the Puritans punished non-attendants at chureh.]
" (atherine Burtlett, widow, umen her own romfession, didahsent herself from chureh the last Lord's day, contrary to the law, in the morning. Wiss ordered to pay ex. bor.. mad in defmalt of peying was orderefl to beset in the storks." So sige an oht rerord. The liaw prohibited " swrethemes" from walk ing ahroal in simon time.

Q.5. CHURCH, Befrionded. Milıs stamlish. The colony. . assmued a military orgamizalion: amd Stamdish, a man of the greatest courage, the devoted friend of the churelt, which he mever joincd, was gppointed to the chict com-mam!.-1s.averore's C. S., vol. 1, wh. &.
 The Simish were masters of ilae port. A sereme of carmuge (insued ; soldiers, women, children, the uged, the sick, were mike massalered. . . . Ifter the comage was completed mase was said. a cross was raserd and the site for a chared selectod, on gromend still ssacking with the hood of in macefal eolony. . . So masy (:an fanaticism comect acts of savage forority with the rites of in mercifal religion. . . . |lin all 900 were
 (h. 2.

W56. CHURCH, Caste in the. Alrom Burr. The a dergyan then urged him again to repentance: alvised him to return, like the prodigal som, to attend chareh and devote his futare life to good works. Colonel Bur interrupted his visitor, and said: "You don't seem to know how I am viewed by the religions public, or hy those who resort to your churehes. Where is there a man among nll surh whom I would he willing to meet, and who wonld wellome me into his few ? Of your own congregation, wonld - or or or-hge me a seat " These are our merehant princes-men who give tone to Will Street, and tix the standard of mercantile morals in our city. Would they make Aaron lsurr a welrome visitor to your charch? Rather, imdeed, I may ask, would you yourself do so "'I Low wonld yon fred walking up the aisle with me, and opening your pow hoor for my contrance?" Dr. Mathews replied that surh an event would give him great plansure. "Then," said lBurr. "you would indulge your frelings of kindmess at the expense of your usefinhass as the minister of your com-gregation."-Cyeloremia of Blog., p. 119.
W.57. CHURCH conservative. Jtomis $I I$. The (Chmrel of linglamd was, in his view, a passive victim, which be might, without danger, outrage and torture at his plensure: nor did he ever see his crror till the universitios were preparing to coin their plate for the purpose of supplying the military chest of his enemies, and till a bishop, iong remowned for loyatty, hand thrown aside his cassock, girt on a sword, and taken the command of a regiment of insurgents.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 6.
858. CHURCH corrupted. Prosperity. When a sect hecomes powerful, when its favor is the road to riches and dignities, worldly and ambitious men crowd into it, talk its language, conform strietly to its rimal, mimic its peculiarities, and frequently fo beyond its honest members in all the outward indientions of zenl. No discernment, no watchfulness on the part of ecelesiastical rulers, can prevent the intrusion of s.'ch false brethren. Ther tures and the whent mont grow together. Soon the world beghas for thal ont that the gudly are mot hetter thun other ment, and argues, with some justice, that, it mot bettor, they mast lu much worse. In an lome time all those dome of St . Kophia, illmmimated hy fomramb. twersy wimbows, is formed with so small a curve, thent the depth is equal only to ond sixth of its diamerter; the monsure of that dinmeter is one homblro it mind lifteren feed, umi the lofty erentre, where a creseront las supplantorl the cross, rises to the perpendientar laight of ome

 The cirelo which enoompasses the dome lighty reposes on lotar strong archaes, hall thedr weight is hrmby supported by fomm massy piles, whose stremgthis issuisterl, on the northerin and southern sides, by fomm comman of Eiryptinn granite. . . . The solin piles which contntined the erupola were composed of hage blocks of froestone, hewn into squares and triangles, fortitiod by "ircles of iron, and firmly cemented by the infusiom of lead and quicklime; but the wioght of the enpola was diminisled loy the levity of its sulsianere, which comsists either of punice-stome that flonts in the water or of bricks from the Iste of Rhodes, tive times less ponderous than the ordimary stone. 'Thistriumph of Christ was adorned with the last spoils of paganism, Imt the cranter part of these costly stones was extracted from the gmarries of $A$ sin Minor, the isles and continents of (rreece, Eirypt, Africa, and Ganl. Eight columm of porphyry, which Aurelian lma placed in the temple of the smo ware offered by the piety of n Roman matron; eight olhers of green niarble were presented by the nmbitious zeal of the magist rates of Ephesins: both are admirable by their size and beanty, but every order of arehifecture dischams their finntustic capitals. A variety of ormaments and figures was coriously expressed in mosaie, and the images of Christ, of the Vircin, of saints, and of angels, which have been defneed by Turkish fanaticism, were dangerously exposed to the superstition of the Grecks. Aceording to the sametity of ench object, the precious metals were distributed in thin leaves or in solid masses. The balastrate of the choir, the capitals of the pillars, the ormaments of the doors and grallerios were of gilt bronze: the spectator was dazaled by the erlittering aspert of the eupola; the sametury contained forty thousamd pound weight of silver, and the holy vases and vestments of the altar were of the purest and, entiched with inestimable groms. Before the structure of the charch had arisen two cubits ahove the gromend . 845,200 werealreidy consumed ; and the whole expense mmounted to $\mathbb{N} 320,0000$; eath reader, according to the measure of his belicf, may estimate the ir value either in gold or silver ; but the sum of $\$ 1,000,000$ sterling is the result of the lowest computation. A mingrificent temple is a laudable monument of national taste and religion; und the enthusiast who entered the dome of St. Sophia might be tempted to suppose that it was the residence, or even the workmanslip, of the Deity. Iet how dull is the artifice, how

Insignitleant Is the labor, if it be compared with the formation of the vilest insee that crawle up)on the surfine of the temple! [Sie No. 883.](ifilmos's IROME: (lli. 41).
*(30. CHURCH desecratlon. Herwes. [In 1040 ('romwerll used Ni. I'anl's, in Lomdon, to stulble his cuvalry. In Italian passing the grand old Gothic cathodral, and serefing it fall of horses, hanted Englishmen wibl the remark, 1 Now I perecive that In limgland men mad beasts serve (bod alike. - Kinatir's Eiva., vol. &, ch. 8, 1b. 118.

W61. CHURCH, Dentruction of the. Jitmea //. Jumes dial mot even makrany sereret of hils intention to exart vigoromsly und systemationlly for the destruction of the Established Chureh all the powers which he possessed as her hend. . . Ile was anthorized ly law to repress spiritual "hbuses ; und the tirst spirdual abose which lue would repress slould he the liberty which the Angrlienn clergy nssumed of defending their own religion and of netncking the doctrines of Jome. - Mivachar's ENo., ('h. 6.
*32. CHURCH, Devotion to the. Laymen. [When in 1768 Thomas Thylor wrote Wesley to send an able and experienced prencher to caro for the lumalful of Methodists In New York, he suid, ] With resperet to the money for the payment of the proacher's pissage over, if they cannot procure it we will sellour comis and shirts to pro'are it for them. - S'revesis' M. E. C'incieli, (l. 1, p. 80.

Q6B. CHURCH erection. Euthusitastic. This minister [Alypins], to whom Julian communicaterl, withoint reserve, his most carcless levities and his most serions counsels, received an extruordinary commission to restore, in its pristine beanty, the temple of Jerusalem; nnd the diligonee of Alypins required amd obtained the strenuous support of the (fovernor of Palestine. At the call of their grat deliverer, the Jews, from all the provinces ot the ampire, assembled on the holy mountain of their fathers; and their insolent trimmph nlarmed and exaspernted the Claristinn inhabitunts of Jerusulem. The desire of rebuilding the tomple las in every nge been the ruling passion of the children of Isracl. In this propitious moment the men forgot their avarice, and the women their delicacy; spades and pickaxes of silver were provided by the vanity of the rich, and the rubbish was transported in mantles of silk and purple. Every purse was opened in libernl contributions, every hund clamed a share in the pions lnbor, and the commands of a great monarch were executed hy the enthusiasm of a whole people.-GibBon's IVOME, (-lI. 23.
86. $\qquad$ Remarded. [Mohomet, arriving in lathreh,] gave orders to build in mospue on the spot where he had set foot upon the ground, with a house for him and for his fumily. He worked at it with his own hands, assisted by the citizens of Yathrel. "Whoever works upon this editice," snid he fo them, "builds for eternal life."-LAMARTine's Tcheki, p. 103.
865. - - St. Sophia. The prineipal church, which was dedicated by the founder of Constantinople to St . Sophia, or the eternal wisdom, had been twice destroyed by fire: after the exile of John Chrysostom, and during the Niha of the Whe med greer factome. No mooner dhat the tumule subside, than the ('hristian popmlace deplored their sumelleghons rashuess; hut they might have rejolowl fis the colnming, had they foresern the grory of the now trmple, whinh at the emed of fory days was strumonsly undertaken by the picty of distinian. Ther ruins deseribed, and, as it repmired the comsent of some proprietors of promul, they oblatined the most exorbitant broms from the euger dexires and timorons consciences of the monarell. Anthemhas formed the design, and his gronims direeted the lamis of ten thomsum workmen, whose pryment in pieress of the silver was nower delayed bryond the evening. The rmperor himsilf, clad in alinen tumic, surverod com day their rapid progress, mad comonmaged their diligence by his fambliarity, his zeal, mud his rewhrds. [See No. 850.]-(illmos's liosut, ch. 4).

M63. - Vitnily in. The new ('h. thedrat of st. sophin was con" cerated by the putriarch, five yeurs, daven a..onths, mind ten clays from the tirst foumbition; and in the midst of the solemm festival Justinian exclaimed, what devout vanity, "Glory be to God, who hath theught me worthy to areomplish so grent a work; I have vanimished there, O Solomon!" But the pride of the Roman solomon, before twenty years had elapsed, was hambled by un corthinake, which overthrew the castern part of the dome.-Gimmen's Rone, ch. 40.
867. CHURCH, Episcopacy of the. Anylir"m. The iomoders of the Angliean Charela han rethined episcopary as an ancioni, a decent, and a convenicut reclesiastical polity, hat had not deelared that form of rharell govermment a divine Enstitution. We bave already sern how low an estimate Cromater had formod of the oflice of bishop. In the reign of Elizabeth, Jewel, Cooper, Whitgift, and other eminent dowtors defended prelacy as imorent, as useful, us what the State might lawfully establish, as what, when established by the State, was entitled to the respect of every citizen. But they never denied that a Christian commonity without a bishop might be a pure charch. On the eontrary, they regarded the Protestants of the Continent as of the smme honsehold of faith with themselves.-Macaulay's Eni., ch. 1.
868. CHURCH exaction. Inus. The payment of dues to the charch was enjoined with a severity almost heyond belief. . . . A day was nppointed for a man to pay his tithes; wid if they were not paid he was to forfoit nine tenthe of his tithable property. [A.D. 9.78-975.]-K Nitint's Exg., vol. 1, ch. 10, p. 146.
869. CHURCH, False Head of the. James $I T$. What remuined, however, after all this curtailment, might well have ruised seruples in the mind of a man who sincerely beliaved the Chureh of England to be a heretical socicty, within the pale of which salvation was not to be found. The king made an oblation on the altar. IIe appeared to join in the petitions of the Litany which was chanted by the bishops. He received from those false prophets the unction typical of a divine influence, and knelt with the semblance of devotion while they called down upon him that Holy Spirit of which they were, in his estimation, the malignant and ohlarate fors. - Ma. C.W L.SY's Fint., th. 4.

W7o. CHURCH, Love of the. Timita, [IRign of Charles 11 .J there was one instithtion, mul onte omly, which bury prized revin more than hereditary momurehy and hat linstitution whs He charels of Enghand. Thelr love of the charell was nos, bulerel, the elfert of sturly or meditution. liew among the en cond have given any renson, drawn from icrephure or everlesiasticul history, for adhering to her docerimes, har ritum, und her polity ; bor were they, as a clases. ly any manos slrict ohservers of that cende of momality which is common to all Christhan serta. Bhat the experionee of many nges proves that men may lee ranly to light to the ilenth, mad to persaribte withont jity, for a religion whoso "reod they do not minderstand, and whose prerepts thry mabitually disobry. - Macaclay's ENi., ch. il.
N71. CHURCH, Meditations after. JIhn Fitrh. engime! As he was limping home from chureh one day in April, 1 inis (his rhemmatism, canght among the Indians, giving him muy a twinge), a mighbor drove rupitly by in a chaise druwn ly a powerful home. He hut frequently ohserved and reflered upon the tremembins power of stemm, mal now the thought flasherl upon his mind, Cond not the expansive jower of steam be mate to proped a carriagu ? Fora week tho idea hanterl him day and night. Ile then concluded that such in force combl be applied moro conveniently to a vessel than to a marringe; nam from that hour, to the cul of his days, John Fitels thonght of little dase than how to carry ont his daring conception. - ('velomema of Bıo., p. 150.
s72. CHURCH, Neglect of, Reproff. [Rev. William Grimshaw, ma marly Engrish Merelodist, of eceentric manner, ] frequently would preach hefore the doors of such nes neglected the parish worship. "If you will not come to hear me at the charch," he would say on these ocensions, " you shall hear me at home: if you perish, Youshall perish with the somad of the Gosperi in your ears."-Stevens' Methonem, vol. 1, 11. 259.

E73. CHURCH, Non-attendance at. Fine. [In 10359 an Aet was passed which remderell] nll persons who should ahsent themselves from chureh on Sumdays and holidays liable to a fine of one shilling.-Kinaut's Exis., vol. 3, ch. 8, p. 114.
sti. CHURCH purified, Persecution. The general fate of sects is to obtain a high reputation for sumetity while they are oppressed, and to lose it as soon as they become powerful ; and the reason is obvious. It is seddom that a man enrolls limself in a proseribed bosly from tmy but conscientious motives. Such it body, therefore, is composed, with seareely an execption, of sincero persons. The most rigid discipline that can be enforeed within a religions society is a very fecble instrument of puritication when compared with a little sharp persecution without.-Ma. caclay's Eng., ch. 2.
875. CHURCH, Quarrel in the. Rev. Robert Necton. Ite was driven nway at last ly a quarrel with his harbarous parishioners, the cause of which did him credit. A fire broke out at OIcottages. Newtom nserilnei the miturtion of the Are mither to prayyer than witar, hat he towk hae land in prationd inemantes of rolief, atal triod la putting an cod to hontires amd illumimations on the Eth af Nowember. Threntened with the lowe of their Ciny Fawkes, the bartarhans rose apon hlm, abal ha lom a marrow esenter Irom their vio.

-76. CHURCH, Rebuilding. Irorridernere. |'Tho
 struction of the Katur, or the trople, which Was crumbling with mex, buid of which the phlgrims deplored the min. Dioty fupelled them.
 lenving sulfered shipwredk, predsely at this juncture, upon the shomis of the Red Nem not finf from Macer, cmat upon the const some wool, irom, and a carpenter, who assaped the wreck. A divine magury was, of comese, manifest in this relesthal suceor of materials, mind marismon to ply them. But at the moncint of romamene ing to repmir the fottoring wills, there was no one who dared strike tham the thest blow. At last Walid, with hess piety, or more hardihood than his compatriots, took up) " (rowime, and (ried in lifting it to give the wall a punch, " Do not he ungry with us, 0 God of Ahruhm! what we ure doing wedo harongh piety:" The wall 1 mmbled, and Walid wns not stridken with denth. Nevertheless, the Khoreishites resolved to let pase the night before procecting, to be wedl asssured that no divine vengennce wombld poish the material sacribege of Watid. He emerged from his house next morning safe mad sommel. The Khoreishites, on his thrst nipuenrance, took condlence and continued the demolition.-Lamantine's Tomes, p. 6 .
w7\%. CHURCH or Self. Reign of flumes II. The new lligh Commission had, during the tirst months of its existonere, merely inhibited dergymen from exercising spiritmil functions. The rimhts of property had remained untouched. 13nt. early in the year 1087, it was determined to strike ut frechold interests, and to impress on every Angliom priest and prelate the conviction that, if he refused to lend his aid for the purpose of destroying the clurch of which he was a minister, he would in an hour be reduced to begrary.

War was therefore at oneo dechared against the two most venerable corporations of the realm-the miversities of Oxford and Cumbridge.-Macachay's Evo., ch. 8 .
878. CHURCH, Sin in the Ceorge Millter. When he was fourteen his mother died . . . he not only berame idle and dissipated, hat was freguently guilty of falsehood and dishonesty. In this state of henrt, without fuith, destitute of true repentance, and jossessing no knowledge whatever, either of his own lost condition as a sinner nor of God's way of salvation through Christ, lie was confirmel; and in the year 1820 took the Lord's Supper for the first time at the Cathedral Church of Malberstadt.-LIfe of Geoneme Müller, p. 1.
879. CHORCH and State. Divided. [In 1140] the trumpet of Roman liberty was first sounded by Arnold of Brescia, whose promotion in the church was confined to the lowest rank, and who wore the monastic habit rather as a garb of pov-

 "hild they severely folt; they confesa with re:
 his verors were recommemed to the poblice by a

 that Itisk kinghen la mol of this world: he bohdly matntabind that the sword and the seaphe werie intrasted to the chil maxiatrate: How tromparal lonomer ated possexsions were law fully wated in seroblar persons: that the niluots, the hishoms.

 of their revomos, her vohntary thenes amb oblathons of the Paibiful would sullere, mot indered for lasury and avatice, but for a frugat life in the exerefise of spiritmal hators. Dharigg a short, time the promelner was revered as a putriot; mul the disembent, or revolt, of Bress ia mganast her hishop was the thes frimis of his dangerome lessoms. But the finvor of the pophe is las permanment than the resembene of the priest; and after the luetesy of Aruold had been combinmed by lmonent II. in the pement romueil of the Lateran, the magistrates themselves were urged hy projudice nand four to exerute the sentrinere of the ehareh: laty combld no longer afford a refuge: and the disidjle of chelard es-hespitulferefuge in \%aricha, new the tirse of thas Swiss cmatons. [He neromplished a revolutiom, und enjoyed. or deplaned, the clleres of his mission: his reign contimual nbove ten yours, while two popes-Innowent II. Band Amastiv sius IV.-either trembled in the Vinisum, or wandered as exiles in the adjacent citios. After his retrent from Rome Armodid had heres protcetod by the viscounts of c'ampunia, from whom he was extorded hy he power of Cosar , the profer of the city promomed his sentemere: the martyr of treedom was harnt alive in the presence of a careless and ungrateful people; athd his ashers were cast into the Jiher, lest the heretics should collert and worship them.-

850. CHURCH, State. E'nglish. The (hureh, in so far an it was a civil (estahlishment, was the rreature of Parliment; a statate cometed the articles of its crecod, as well ans its book of prayer ; it was not even intrusted with a coorlinate jowor to reform itsown aboses; any aliompt to have done so would have been trated as at usipmtion; amendment cond proced only from lat-liament.-Bancourt's U. S., vol. b, ch. 3.
-81. CHURCH and State, sittement of Nen Hheren. IBy the influence of Davenport [the pastor of the colonists] it was soleminly rasolved, that the scriptures are the perfect rule of the commonwealth: the purity and pence of the ordinance to themselves anil their posterity wero the great end of civil order: and that churehmembers only should be free lurgesses. . Annual elections were ordered, and God's word established as the only rule in public affairs. --Bancroft's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 9.
882. - - Conflicting. Becket's promotion to the archbishopric of Canterbury, which made him for ife the second person in the kingdom, produced a total change in his conduct and demeanor. He resigned imme-

Ilately the oflle of damentor, and uffered in rigoroms manctity. If. sum manifiested the mative of this surprosing abuge. A elergetman mardered the father to prevent the elloertan hite resedthents. 'flur king insisted hat this netre rides vilhan should the tried by the elvil magis trate: Bucket whod by for the privilages of the puthed to the sure of Romer. 'this wis the time for Itomer to make his dordvive ullack agatan the lmmuntiese dalmed by the remerli, when, to defend theres, it wemet vindiate the fouldest if arimes. Ihe simmoned a enemal comed of the mobility and predates at Clarenton, where the men when acerased of crimes should be trime in the civil courts: that the kiug shemblaltimately the prelatere shombl fiurnish the publie supplies as larons; that forfeded powds should not he prof.l. 8.

WW:3, CHURCH, Suffering for the. Bixhop, Murk: The Pagan magistrates, intimend by \%ent and revenge, nhased the rigorows privilegre of the Roman law, which malstitutes, in the phare of his hambequate property, the presom of the insolvent dehtor. Guder the preweding reign Mark, Bishop of Arethusa, hand lubored in the comversion of his people with arms more efferthal than those of persumsion. The magistrates required the full value of a temple whide had beron destroyed by his intolerant zaid; but as they were satisuled of his powerty, they desired only to bernd his intlexible spirit to the promese of the slightest compernsation. They apprehemed the ured predate, they luhmanily seourged him, they tore his haid: : mul his maked bods, anpinted with honey, was suspemded, in a mid, bere tweren hemven mad emrth, mad expened to the stimes of insedets and the rays of a Syrim sum. From this lolty station Mark still persisted to glory in his crime and to insult the imputent rage of his perseremors, He was at lengeth rest cucd from their hands, and dismissed to rojoge the honor of his divine trimmph. The Arians celehrated the virtue of their pions confessor ; the Catholies ambitionsly elamed his alliance and the Pagams, who might be susceptible of shame or remorse, were deterred from the repetition of such mavailing cruclty.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 23.
Wixt. CHURCH support. Jithontary. Titha. at first at free gilt, herame establishaed as a right by law. $\qquad$ What we now mall the voluntary principle entered very largely ino the memens of the Saxon clergy, in addition to their tilless and their glehe. [a.d. 958-975.]-KNagut's Exi., vol. 1, ch. 10, p. 140.
©85. CHURCHES blended. Romuth Cithelir and lrotestent. [After thenecession of Elizaboth the Catholic service was modified and more acceptable to Protestunts.] A pricst would celebrate mass at his parsomage for the more rigill Catholies, nud administer the new communion in church to the more rigid lrotestants. Sometimes both parties knelt together at the same nl-tar-mils, the one to receive hosts consecrated by the priest at home after the old usage, the other Wath. CHURCHES without Inatruction, hifign if Shizelluth. Galy in the few phace whore the mome matome of the reformers hand setthod was lhere ma! ralighota listruction. "In tmany pharas," it.

 " Hhe prophla ramat jet say their command-

 "wre fondel to la' "utterly dovod of redigion," amd ramu (a rlurela "as to a May game."一 firom hatios, in whid the prime promesed, on condithon of a parditantion and future friembshif. (10 pay him lo, (100) talents hat manom of the prise Whiss: to rede to hime all the emmeriou on this side the Euphrates, umb to give him hiv datugh tre in marringe. ( pon hiseommanhenting these proposaly to his fricoms, Iramenios [ome of his

- $\boldsymbol{}$. CIRCUMSTANCES, Difforenco in, Ifir.

 "if l wre Parmanio." The answer la gave Darius was, that if he would eome to him, he should thed har best of treatment; if not, he mast ©NW. CITIES, Importance of. Hinry I., the Piorler. To thispriner (ibmany owes the fomm dation of her cities: for thefore this periond, exaphting the castles on the mombins, the seme of the harmurous nohility whe lived by phater, and the comenens, thed withat aselass hered of aredesinsties, the bulk of the people lived dispromed in lomely farms and vilhares. The towns buile by Iy fortithed; they were eapmbe of combaniag a Cher that they might be speedily jeoplent, it was rajoined by the sovereign that every ninth man shond remove himsilf, with his whole offerts, from the country, and settle in the nearest town. -TyTien's llis'r., liook 6, ch. 4.

Whn. CITIES, Poverty In. Liome. Juvemalaments, as it should serm from his own exprribuer, the hurdships of the poorer ritizens, to whom le addresses the salutary adviore of emigrating, without delay, from the smoke of Rome. sime they might pure hase, in the lithle towns of ltaly, a cheerful, commodious dwellines, it the same price which they ammally paid for a hark and miserabic lodging. Honserent was therefore immoderately denr: the rieh aepoired, at, an emormons expense, the gromme which they covered with pulaces and gardens; but the hody of the Roman people was rowded into a marrow *pare, and the different floors mad apartments of the same honse were divided, ass it is still the custom of Paris mad other cities, among several familics of plebeinas.-Gnmon's Roses, ch. 31.
890. CITI'ss, Ungovernable, Lonclon. In 1580 a prochmation was issued ngninst the erection of new buildings in London. The number of heggars, it alleged, was increaseit ; there was greater danger of fire and the plague . . . the trouble of governing so great in multitude was become too grent. . . . By the increase of buildings, it is satid, " great infection of sickness, und dearth of victurls and find, lath grown amil chsimed, denl many inlle, vegromt, atul wheded
 vol. B, Mis 17.

MB1. CITIZEN, Duty of the. Infrimixn, |lan.

 paille lomors and privaterallanmes, in lin culti Howhine might have bexto atyled happly, if that the last Ierm of the lifie of man. I philowiphere liburad in his wemblis and parminomions of his that migh be insenstble to the common alheremente of mabilion, the thirst of gold und rimporyment. And some eredit may he due to the usse veration of Boe thins, that be hat melactantly obeyed the divare Phato, who reboins every vir thons citiarli to reselue the Nate from the usarchi. 310.
*(122, CITIZENS, Naturallzed, Lomm". The republice ghoried in her pencrons pulley, mad was fremurntly rewarded hy the merit nind sur vaes of hor mopted sons. Had she always conthed lhe diatimetion of Romans to the maciont fumbiles within the walls of the clty, that finmortal mane woild lave beren dipreved of some of lis moblest ormments. Virgll was $n$ mative of Manhas; Domace was indined 10 dombt whether lo should coll himself an Apulian of a Latomian: it was in Padua lhat an hastorian was fomad worthy to record the majostie: serfes of Roman vidoties. The patriot family of the town of Arplamu chamed the double homor of promiading Narias and ('lecro, the former of whom deserved, ifter Romulnes mad ('momillos, to tre styled the Third Fomadire of Rome : nad the lathire ufter saving his comutry from the designs of ('intiline, comberl her to contend with Romes, cli. 2.

Wg:s. CITIZENSHIP, Honor of. Bolivar. [In 1413 Ine sureweded indriving the spaniards from thes sio "f Venomein nfter a terrible struggle with hrutal enemies. Ite then resigned his commission after the example of Waslingrom. The Spmiards renewed the war, and Gencral Bolivar, maid great disasters, led his patriot army to the contlie.] The eareer of bolivar, henceforth. was one of almost mubroken victory; mud, after four years of terrible warfare, the spanish govcrmment was compedled to trent for peare and torencrde the independence of the United IRpublics. Aquin Bolivar resigned his commission as gremeral and dictator. In his address to Congress, he saide : "I um the chited of rathos, Batilos have bome me to the chicf maristracy, and the fortume of war has sustained me in it: lout $1 "$ power like that which has been conthed to me is dangeroms in a republicm grovermant. I prefer the title of soldier to that of hiberwor ; ind, it desconding from the Presidentind chair, 1 atpire only to merit the tithe of goond citizen."-Cycloredola of Bioa., p. 490.

ND.1. CITIZENSHIP, Intelligent. Spartams. The yomb of Sparta, from their attendance in the public tables, were from their infancy fat miliarly aequainted with all the importmat business of the commonwealth. They knew thor-omghly fis conselfinion, lla pwares of the severit finditionarien of ther stute, atid the de. dided duifes ned rightes which belonged to the

 mal prowed them in Ha exareise of the othare. darre will rarily be a factions strugule for power or preaminemer : as alf hordinate mabl. tion will be mow detrethally ropresedid by a gracral spirit of vighance maid rantion, us wall

Mos. CITY, Bleasings of the. Threr. [It tho begiming of the sisili century the $\mid$ mobles of Bome were flathered by momeroms colthets nud formal professions of respeet, which hat been more justly mphlied to the merte mul mithority of therir minerators. The people enjoyed, without ferm or danger. the three bleswinges of a (apian-order, plouly, mal publice musements.

*86. CITY, Contaminating, Lome. Aftor n month's reskleme th the cloister of "s. Marla del P'opolo," on the " l'inzan del Popolo," Lather set out on his return homes. Ite hud not turried longer than was meeresmery; for, matid he, "Whoever goes to Rome for the first the is looklug for a rogne; whover goes uguln will that him: und whoever goes the thitrd the will relmin with him." - Reas's Jutnen, ch. 4, p. 38.

W87. CITY, Esta lishment of a. Anciouts. At the fommation of $a$ city the pripests and all employed leaped over a thre; then they made in elrcular excavation, fate, which they threw the first-fruits of the sensom, and some hamdfuls of enrth brought from the mative city hy the founders. The entrails of vietims were next eonsulted ; and if fivorable, they proceeded to trace the linites of the town with $n$ line of chalk. This track they then marked by $n$ farrow, with a plough drawn by a white bull und heifer. . . The cercmony was concluded by a grent sateritice to the thetar gods of the eity, who were solemaly invoked. - Ty'tuen's His'r., Book 3, ch. 1.
698. CITY, Populous. limur. If we adopt the same average, whicla, umber similar ciremmstances, lus bero foumd upplicable to Paris, and indifferently allow about twenty-five persons for a ach honse, of every degree, we may fuirly estimate the inhabitants of Rome nt twelve hundred thousand-a number which eיpmot be thought excessive for the eapital of a mighty empire, thongh it excereds the pepulonsuess of ther grentest dities of modern Enope-Gmmos's Rome ch. 31.

89D. CITY, Sins of the. Abrulum Lineth [Hisunecdote of Mr. Cmmpell, once Secretary of State for Illinois.] A cadaverous-looking man, with a white neck-cloth, . . . informed that Mr: Camplell F ul the lettingr of the Hall of Representatives, he wished, if possible, to secure it for a course of lectures. . . . "What is to be the sub. juet?". . " "The Second Coming of our Lord."
 take mily miver，yom will mot winde vour timse

 p． 711 ．
（10）0）．CITY，Vices of the．Limulim．Rivery raw of＂wory mathon shidnes theres and have there brought their vieres．It is full of gambiners and pandores，of hruggalodos and thatherers，of but．

 1，ch．品。
DOA．CIVILIZATION，Dangers of．Liommin＊． When we rerollert the romplete armor of tha luthous，forthied camps，and milliary chgiacs，it uppous a fust matior of surprise，how the maked

 the legions mal the varions troope of the maxil－ iardes，whiden sacouded thair opmentions．Tha contest was too une gina，till the introhachon of fixury bad emervald tho vigor，and aspirt of （ll， $9, p$ ．2\％is． DOL．CIVILIZATION，Demands of．Siir from． cis brabie．It thas appeare that this brave mans spernt his llfe in warlug upon the Epmonards． What ought we to thlak of hila：Was the a bueranerr，or a pardot sailor waring lagitimate warfare？I answer the question thas：The worst man of whom history phes may meromat， and the most formadable encmy modern civili－ zation hans had to encominter，was Philip II．，King нensual，cowardly liyporerite．So hong ins ihat utrochons tyrant windded the resources of the Spanish momarchy－then the mast powerfal on enirth－the tirst interest of hamm mature was the reduction of his power．Toodo this was the great ohject nud the nimost censoless aITort of Queen Elizabeth and the Protestant powers in ailimence with her．In hoding a hand to this work Fran－ cis Drake was flating on the side of eivilization， nad preparing the way for such on Americat ns we see aromal us now；for，in limiting the power of Philip，he was reseusing the fabest por－ thons of Americra from the blight of spmish sut perstition，Spansh cruclty，and spanish marrow－ ness．That he fomght his simere of this fight in a wild，rough，bucraneering mamer，was the fant of his age more than his own．－C＇yctores－ DIA OF Buca．，p．B01．

gob．CIVIlization，Effete．Grakis．The sit－ ention of the Grives［ who ham been compurred ＂y the Romans］was very different from that of the barbarians［conguided by them］．The former had beon long since civilized nad cor－ rupred．＇They had too much taste to relinguish their banguage，and too much vanity to ndopt may forcign institutions．Still preserving the prejudices after they had host the virtues of their ancestors，they uffected to despise the unpotish－ ed mimners of the Rommn congucrors，white they were compelied to respect their snperior wisdom ind power．－Ghanon＇s Rome，ch． $2, \mathrm{p}$ ． 45.

DO4．CIVILIZATION，Failure of．Ameriran In－ dians．［In 1817 the Indian nations of what was dreal thomamal arres，wat mata by ther red man with Her＂provil of the（ioncrnment．For it that the men of the worala haid no uphilude fire

OO．CIVILIZATION，Fleeing from．simmel to go into a merelomis starie und mand behthid Wh tor，ami he suddenly divapuared．A great menref was mades for hlm，but low was mowhere to he forma for several wreks．At hast intellit
 the＇lemarswe kiver mad goare to live namog line Indlans，where，fromall meromats，he sermed to la gething ou mueh more to his liking．Thery fomble him，und bregan to ghestion himon hif matives for thas movel prowrolligg．Sam was now，ulthough so very yomug，murly six fout high，and，standing strighit as an ladian，coolly rephed thit＂he pre ferred musuring ele er trucks men beether than the tyrunny of hls own brothers． mad If lee combd not sindy latin la the armelemy， heromid，it lenst，remel in trmalation from then Groek in the woods，mad roיd it in perme．No．
 Latriech lloterion，p．I6．
OOb．CIVIfization，Growth of．Anciont． Advancemant from lurlmism to eivilization is a vary slow mad grombl process，bernise every step in that process is the result of aremestity aftor the experience of na error，or the strome feeling of 0 want．These experienores，frepuntly repeated， show ut length the noressity of certuln rules and rustoms to the foliowed by the genernl rensent of nll：mad these rukes become in time positive emactments or haws，enfored by certalin pemat－ tirs，which are various in their kind und la their degree nerording to the state of soclety ut the time of thefr formation．－Tr＇taen＇s Ilis＇r．，Book 1，ch．3．

907．CIVILIZATION，Late，IRusaíans．Till the midille of the biftenth erntury the Russhans were un uncomaered maltitude of wandering tribes，proforsing different religions，und most of them yot idolaters．A sovereign，or duke，of Russin paid a tribute to the Tarturs of furs and aitle to restrain their depredations．－TyTasis＇s

OOA．CIVILIZATION mierepresented．To Amer－ ieth indiuns．［Vomzano，the ltatian，explored the Amerionn const．］The satuges were more hamane than their guests．A young sailor，who had nemrly been drowned，was revived by the courtesy of the matives；the voyagers robbed $n$ mother of her child，and ntempted to kidmap a young wommn．
. . . .

The natives of the more northern region were hostile and jenlous perhaps this comst had been visited for shaves： its inlabitunts had become wise enough to dreal the vices of Europeans．－Dancroft＇s Hist．we U．S．，vol．1，ch． 1.

DOS. CIVIJIZATION, Origin of modern. $l$, muths-licrmutus. M. Guizon . . . surs that namong the cloments of mestern civilization, the spirit ul legality or regular assoriation was derived from the laman world, from the manidipabitios and the Roman haws. From the (iermans atme the spirit of persamal liberty.-Kvieners ENe., vol. 1, elt. 3, p. du.

DiO. CIVILIZATION, Progress of. (ifecks. 'The aborigimal (dreeks, muder the varions denomimations of l'elasgi, dones, Jliunters, lalegers, cte., wore a race of samares who dwalt in raverns, mad are said to have lwen so lmobarous as fo live withon t any subordination to a chief or lexder, to have fed on homan flesh, and to have bern ignorint of the use of 're.- Truramis Hist., Book 1, (h. 6, p. 5:

D11 $\qquad$ Britoms. T10 Britons propere from the interior showad fave signs ol progress. They did not break the sound for com; they had no manulatares ; they lived on meat and milk, and were dressed in leather. They dyad thrir skins bue that they might look more terrihle. They wore their hair long, und hat long mustaches. In their habits they land not risen out of the lowest oreler of suvergery. They lum wives in common, and brothers and sisters, pmoents and children, lived togother with promis. chous unrestrint. -Fuoude's CiEsAR, ch. 16.

D12. CIVILIZATION, Revival of. A.D. 148:1514. The world was passing throngh changes more momentous than any it had witnessed since the virtery of Christinnity and the full of the Rommen Empire. Itsphysical bounds were suddenty enlarged. ']ho diseoveries of Copernicus revealed to man the seceret of the imiverse. D'ortugnese maniners doubled the Cape of Good Hope and anchored their merehant tleets in the harbors of India, ('olumbos crossed the unt raversed oremn to ndd a New World to the Old. Sehastian Cabot, starting from the port of Bristol, thraded his way among the icchergs of Labrador. This sudden contact with new lands, new fuiths, new races of men, quickened the shambring intelligence of Europe into a strange curiosity. The tirst hook of voyages that toll of the western world, the travels of Amerigo Vespuce. $i$, were soon "in everybody's hands." The "Ltopia" of Nore, in its wide mange of speculation on every subject of haman thought and action, tells us how roughly and utterly the narrowness and limitation of haman life had been broken up. At the very hour when the intellectand energy of the middle ages had sunk into exhanstion the eapture of Constantinople by the Turks and the flight of its Greek seholars to the shores of Italy opened unew the sciance und literature of an older world. The exiled Greek scholars were weleomed in Italy ; and Florence, so long the home of freedom and of art, became the home of in intellectarl revival.-IInst. Of Eng. People, © 50:
913. CLAMOR, Dangerous. Pomilur. The Emperor Vilens, who, at length, had removed his court and army from Antioch, was received by the people of Constantinople as the author of the public calamity. Before he had reposed himself ten days in the capital, he was urged by the licentious clamors of the IIppodrome to march against the barbarians, whom he lad invited into his dominions; and the citizens, who are always brava at a distance from any real danger, derlinel, with contisernce, that, if they weresip)plied with arms, they alone wombl molertake to delivar the proviace from the manges of mine sulting for. 'The vain reprone hes of an ignorant. multitule lastoned the downfall of the lkoman Fimpire ; they provoked the desprate mandess of Falens, who did not tlad, wither in his reputation or in his mind, any motives to support with tirmoness the publie contempt. Jo was soon persumberl, by tho sureresful ardievements of his licutemants, to despise the power of the Goths.
. The event of the lattle of Adrimosole [wis)
. Fital to Vabensand to the empire.-Gimisos's Ramb, ch. ${ }^{2} 6$.
914. CLAIRVOYANCE, Agitation by. Sirede'nberg. Swadenborg went to berl, amel 1 went to sit in another room, with the master of the house. with whon. I was conversing. We both hearel a remarkable noise, and could not apprehend what it comll be, and therofore drew nome to a door, where there was a little wimlow that looked into the chamber where Swedenborg lay. Vie suw him with his arms rased toward heaven, and his horly appeared to tremble. Ile spoki murh for the spater of land m honr, but we could walershand nothing of what he side, except that, when he lot his handis fall down, we heard him suy with a lomd voice, "My God!" But we conlal not hear what he sadid more. He remaned afterward vory duidty in his bed. I entered into inis chamber will the master of the honse, and isked him if le was ill. "No," satu he; "but have had a long discomse with some of the heavenly friemels, and tom at this time in a great perspiration." And as his ceffects were embarked on board the vessel, he asked the master of the house to let him have a shirt; he then went agnin to bed, and slept till morning.-WH1TES SWEDEN10ヶ6: 1. 181 .
915. CLAIRYOYANCE, Information ky, Siredenbory. Says [Immmune]] Kant: "When Swedenborg arrived at Gotenburir from England, Mr. William Castel invited hin to his house, together with a party of fifteen persons. About six o'rlork Swedenborg vent ont, and aftern short interval returned to the company quite pale and alamed. De stated that a dangerons fire had just broken out in Storkholm, at Sundremalm (distant three hundred miles from Gottenburg), mal that it was spreading very fast. He was restless, and went out offon. IIe said that the house of one of his friends, whom he maned, was abready in ashes, nad that his own was in danger. At eight o'elock, after he had been out ngain, he joyfully exchimed, "Thank God! the fire is extinguished the third door from my honse." This news ocensioned great commotion among the company. It was announcral to the governor the sume evening. The next morning Swedenhorg was sent for by the goveruor, who questioned him concerning the disaster. . . . On Monday evening a messenger arrived at Gotcenlourg, who was despatched during the time of the fire. In the letters brought by lim the fire was deseribed preciscly in the manner stated by Swedenborg. On Tuesday morning a royal courier arrived at the governor's with the melancholy intelligence of the fire, of the loss it had occasioned, and of the houses damaged and ruined, not in the least differing from that which Swe-denborg lud eriven the moment it had reased; wate flre land heen extinguished at eight orelock. -White's SwEinexhoika, b. 13\%.

PI6. CLEANLINESS, Physioal. Koron. ('lumlimess as the key of prayer ; the fremuent hastation of the hands, the face, and the body, which was practised of ald by the Ambs, is solemmery rajoined ly the Korma; ame a promission is formally grantod to supply with sathd the sombeity of wiator. - (immon's Romex, dh, it).

9I7. CLEANLINESS, Reaction against. Jtmes Wiett's sum. [The seroud Mrs. Wint] was a thrilty sootch lousewife, mad such wats leer passion for clambiness, that she tanght her pet dogs to wipe thair feot on the door mats. IVer pros. pensity was carried ion piteln which often fretted fore son ly the restrainis $i t$ imposerl. H10 suid to a hady]. . . I love dirt.—Smanes Bhaw 31ouILADIIEN, ]. 41.

P18. CLEMENCY, Appeal to. (ff Momot. [ After the compuest of Meean] se veral of the most obnoxions vietims ware indebted for their lives to his remency or contempt. Tue eliels of the Koreish were prostrate at his fect. "What merey ean you expeet from the man whom you have wronged ?"" We eontide in the generosity of our kinsman." "And you shall not rontide in vain: begone! you are safe you are free." The people of Mecca desarved their pardon by the profession of Ishim.-Ginmox's Rome, ch. $\overline{0} 0$.
919. CLEMENCY, Vile. Jfomes $I I$. None of the traitors had less right to expect favor than Wade, Goodenough, and Fergason. These three chiefs of the rebellion [in Scotland] 1 wd Hed together from the field of Sergemoor.
Wude and Goodenough were soon diseovered and brought ap to London. Deeply as they had heen implicated in the Ine Honse Plot, conspicnous as they had been monong the chicfs of the Western insurrection, they were suffered to live, becanse they had it in their power to give informution which enabled the king to slanghter mud plumder [through Jeffreys' court] some persons whom he hated, hat to whom he had never been able to briog home any crime.-Nacavhay's Eng., ch. $\mathrm{t}_{\text {. }}$
920. CLERGY, Arrogance of. Politicel. Lotharius, now emperor, and Pepin, his lrother's son, took up arms agrinst the two other sons of Louis le Débonnaire - Lonis of Bavarin and Charles the Buld. A battle ensued at Fontenay, in the territory of Auxerre, where, it is suid, there perished 100,000 men. Jotharius und his nephew were vanquished. Chmrlemagne had compelled the nations whom he subdued to embrace C'hristinnity ; Lotharius, to accuire popularity and streagthen his arms, declared an antire liberty of conscience thronghout the empire, and many thousamas reverted to their ancient idolatry. In punishment of this impicty, Lotharius was now solemnly deposed by a council ol bishops, who took upon them to show their anthority no less over the victorious than over the rumquished princes. They put this question to Charles the l3ak and to Louis of Bavaria-" Do you promise to govern better than Lotharius has done ?" "We do," suid the olsequious monarchs. "Then," returned the bishops," we, by divine anthority, permit and ordain yon to reign in his stourd "- i procereding in which it is difli-
cult to say whether the arrogme ot the clergy most rexofices our dndignation, or the pasillanituity of the momarelis our eontempt. - 'Jevilin's

D21. CLERGY, Duference to. Iredinemel $I I$. The voire of a monk was to Frordinand 11. the voire of (fod. "Nothing on math," writes his own ronfessor, "was more simed in his eyes Ham a pribet. If it rould happen, he used to suy, that an angel nond a Regnhar wore to mert him at the same time and phace, the lemalar shonld reerive his tirst, and the therel his sere-D2U. CLERGY derraded, Rign of Jomes $/ /$. [The kiner commanold his illeged manifesto. which ained at the overthrow of the I'rotestant ('hareli, to be publiely rend by the cherery.] In the city and liberties of $I$ ondon were about a lmudred purish charedoes. In ouly four of these was the order in council obeyed. At st. Grearory's the declaration was readi by a divine of the name of Martin. As soon as he uttered the first words, the whole congregation rose and withdrew. At St. Mathew's, in Friday Street, "wretch mamed Timothy I lall, who had disgraced lis gown hy acting us broker for the Duchess of I'ortsmonth in the sale of pardons, and who now had hopersof obtaining the vacant bishoprie of (oxforl, was in like manner left ulone in his churid. At Scrgeant's Inn, in Chunerery Lane, the clerk pretended that he had forgotten to bring a copy ; and the chief justice of the King's Bench, who hat attended in order to see that the royal mandate was oheyed, was forced to content himself with this excuse. Sumuel Wesley, the father of John and Charles Wesley, a curate in Lomdon, took for his text that day the nohle answor of the three Jews to the Clmblean trynnt." Be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve lliy goils, nor worship, the golden image which thou hast sct 11]!" Even in the rhapel of Nit. James' Palace the ofticiating minister had the courage to disobey the order. The Westminster boys long remembered what took place that day in the Abbey. Sprat, Bishop of IRochester, ofticiated there as dexin. As soon as he began to read the declarntion, murmurs and the noise of people erowding ont of the choir drowned his voice. He trembled so violently that men saw the paper shake in his hand. Long before lie land finished, the place was deserted by all hut those whose sithation made it necessury for them to remain. -Macaulay's Eng., rh. 8.

D23. $\qquad$ Midelle Ages. During these perpetunl contests for ceclesiastical power and pre-eminence, the Christian religion itself was debused both by the practice und the principles of its teachers. The sole object of the clergy was to necumminte wealth and temporal distinctions. While they indulged in every species of voluptugusness and dehauchery, they were so deplorably ignorment, that it is confidently asserted there were many bishops who conld not repeat the Apostles' Creal, nor read the Suered Seriptures. This, indeed, was a necessury consequence of the iniquitons distribution of ecclesiastical preferments. These were either sold to the highest bidder, or were bestowed as bribes hy fhe sovereigns nnd superior pontiffs, to attach the most atful and often the most worth-les to their interests.-'lyTuler's IInsT., Book 6, ch. 4.
02. . Reigh of Chariss 11. In the mansions of men of liberal sentiments nuld cultivinted nuderstundings, the chaphan was donbtless trated with urbanity and kindness. Ilis conversation, his literary ussistance, his spiritund advice, were considered us an monple remarn for his food, his lodging, and his stipend. But this was not the gencral feeling of the comntry genthemen. The coarse and ignorant spuire, who thought that it belonged to his dignity to have grace said every day at his table hy an ererelesiastic in full camoniabis, loumd meanis to reconcile elignity with exonomy. A young Lavitr-such was the phase then in insomight be hat for might not only perform his own professionml functions, might not only be the most patient of mats and of Fistemers, might not only he always ready in ine wather for bowls, and in rainy wenther for shovel-board, hat mightalso sive the expense of a gralener or of a groom. Sometimes the reveremb man maled up the apricots, and sometimes he curried the comeh-horses. Ife cast $u_{i}$ ) the farrier's bills. Ite walked ten miles witha message or a pareel. If he was permitted to dine with the family, he wats expereted to content himself with the phanest fare. Ite might fill himself with the corned heef and the carrots; but as soon as the tarts and checese-cakes made their appearnace, he quitted his seat, and stood aloof till he was smmmoned to retmrn thanks for the ropast, from a great part of which he had been excluded.-Macadiny's ENa., eh. 3.
925. CLERGY dissipated. Einglish. [In the midalle of the cightecuth contury a] Prussinn clergyman, walking into Oxford at midnight, was introduced by a conrteons pedestrian to an alehouse. "IIow great," he sinys, "was my astonishment when, on being shown into a roon, I saw several gentlemen in academic dress sitting round a lirge table, each with his pot of beer before him." Ite thonght it extraordimary that at this unseasonable homp he should suddenly find himself in a company of Oxonian clergy. As the morning drew near, after a cat ronsin which stupefied the German, the gontleman who introduced him suddenly exclained," I must read prayers this morning at All Souls." The clergy would spend the morning in scampering after the hounds, dedicate the evening to the bottle, and reel frominebricty to the pulpit. -Kniontr's Eng., vol. 7, (h. 6, p. 110.

D2f. CLERGY, Economical, Semuel fohnson. Speaking of the late Duke of Northumberland living very magnitieently when Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, somebody remarked, it would be difficult to find a suitable suceressor to him ; then, exdainned Johnson, " he is only tit to succeed himself." He advised me, if possible, to have a good orchard. IIe knew, he said, a clergyman of small ineome who brought up a family very reputably, which he chiefly fed with apple-dump-lings.-Boswell's Joinsson, p. $17 \%$.
927. CLERGY, Iersio. George Walker. [When the army of James II. marched ngainst the Protestants in Londonderry, the commander of the forces, Colonel Lundy, advised a surrender, there being but a small store of provisions and an inadaguate preparation for defence.

George Wulker, a minister, roused the courage of the people for defenee. Two regiments sailed awny to Eughand, leaving the inhabitants to protect themselves. The fuith and zeal of the pions Wulker inspired the fortitude of the defenders, and procural tomplete deliverance for the be-siegral.]-Kinait's ENG., vol. 5, ch. 6, p. 8í.

D2. CLERGY, Immoral. Euglani A.D. 1509. At the commencement of the reign of lIenry VII., the long immunity of the cleray from any interfcrenee of the legislature with their course of life, loowever crininal, was in a slight derrece interripted by a stntute, whieh recognizes the existence in the commonwenth of "priests, clarks, und religions men openly noised of incontinent living." . . ; The statute . . . recites that "persons letteral" have heen more bold to commit murder, robbery, and other mischievous deceds, leeduse they linve bern contimually ndmitted to the benefit of the clorgy upon trust of the privilege of the chareh. [All those werre beld to be clerks who combld rend.]-KNieint's Eiva., vol. 2 , ch. 15, p. 243 .
949. CLERGY impoverished, The. Reign of Churles $I$. [1)uring the reign of Charles I.. when the degradation of the clerigy was ridiculed,] the eurntes that did the work were so scandalously paid, that in London they were to be found dining at " three-penny ordinnry," and in the country were glad to olitain from the chureh-warden "a burlay bog-pudding" for thair Sumatay dinner. The eountry curate is described as being " whder a grent prebend, and a donble leneticed richman,' with a snlary inflerior to his cook or couchman. The London curatesure represented as livingr " upon citizens' trenchers, and were it not that they were pitiful mud charitable to them, there wis no possibility of subsistence." -KNicht's ENG., vol. 3, ch. '30, p. 486.
930. CLERGY, Interference of. W'ter. [The Crusaders, after a struggle of two years, captured the eity of Damicttu.] After it was taken it was lost by the folly of the pope's legate, who pretended that, in right of his master, he had a titlo to regulate the disposition of the army as well as the church. By his orders they were encamped between two bramehes of the Nile, at the very time when it legan its periodical inundation. The Sultan of Egypt assisted its operation by a little art, and, by means of canals and sluices, contrived entirely to deluge the Christians on one side, while he burnt their ships on the other. In this extrenity they entreated an accommodation, and agreed to restore Damietta and return into Phonicia, leaving their king, John de Brienne, as an hostage. -Tytlen's IIst., Book 6, vol. 9.
931. CLERGY, Labor of the. Need of. [Burnet exhortcd the clergy of his own time] to "labor more," instead of cherishing extravagant notions of the authority of the Church. If to an exemplary course of life in their own persons " elergymen would ndd a little more labor-not only performing publicoflices, . .. but . . . making their calling the business of their whole life, their own minds would be in better temper, and their people would slow more esteem" and regard for them. - Knighi's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 4, p. 59 .
932. CLERGY, Lost. "Damned." Chrysostom declares his free opinion that the number of bishops who might be saved hore a vory sumall proportion to those who would be dammed.-Note in Gibmon'n IRome, ch. 32.

D3B. CLERGY, Marriage of. Reifn of Churles II. With his cure lise was experted to tuke a wife ; the wife had ordimarily been in the putron's sorvice ; and it wiss well if she was bot suspected of standing too high in the patron's fnvor. . . An Oxomian . . . complained bitterly, not only that the country attormey mind the country apothecary looked down with dischain on the country elergyman, but that one of the lessons most eirmestly inculeated on every girl of homoruble family was to give no ancourugement to a lover in orders, and that if any lady forgot this precept, she was abmost as much visgraced as by an illicit amour. Clarendon, who assuredly bore no ill-will to the chumeh, mentions it as a sign of the confusion of ranks which the Great Rehollion had probluced, that some damsels of moble families had bestowed themselves on divines. $A$ waiting woman was generally considered as the most suituble helpmeet for a parson. Gueen Elizabeth, us head of the Church ... issued special orders that no clergymmn should presume to narry a sorvant-girl withont the consent of her muster or mistress.-Macaviay's ENa., ch. 3.

DBA. CLERGY, Militant. Pope Julius $I I$. Julius II., the successor of Alexunder VI., was a pontiff of great political abilities, of a bold and ambitious character, and consummately skilled in the art of war. It was he who employed Micluel Angelo to cast his statue in brass, and when the sculptor would have put a book in his hand, "No," suid he, "give me a sword, I understand that better than ab brevinry."-TyTLELis His'r., Book 6, ch. 14.

985, Prior John. Alout this time [May, 1514] Prior John, great cuptain of the French navy, with his gnlleys and foists, charged with great basilisks and other great artillery, came on the border of Sussex, and came alnded on the night at a poor village in Sussex Brighthelmstone ; and ere the watch conld him descry he set fire on the town, and took such poor goods as lie found. Then the watrel fired the beacons, and people began to gather ; which seeing, Prior John sounded his trumpet to eall his men aboard, and by that time it was day. Then six arehe:s which kept the wateh followed Prior John to the sea and shot so fast thant they beat the galley men from the shore, and Prior John hinself waded to the foist. [The bold prior himself was shot with un arrow in the face; and he offered an image of himself, with the jolentical arrow sticking in the waxen cheeck, in gratitude to our Laly ut Boulogne for saving his life ly mirncle.-Knigur's ENG., vol. 2 , ch. 17, p. 274.
936. CLERGY, Neglect of the korial Erils. In the beginning of the eighteconth century, ind long after, we sec no struggle against great social evils on the part of the clergy. Every attempt nt social reform was left to the Legislature, which was utterly indifferent to those mnnifestations of wretchedness and crime that ought to have been dealt with by the strong hand.Kniaiti's Ena., vol. 5, ch. 4, 1. 60.

D37. CLERGY, Patriotic. Siege of Paris. The Normans ajplied the battering rams to the walls, and effected a breach, but were bravely bent off by the besieged. 'The vencrable l3ishop Gosselin, man bonor to his chmracter and profession, repaired every day to the rampats, set up ihere the stundard of the eross, mod, ufter bestowing his benedictions on the people, gallnntly stood at their head, armed with the battle-nxe and cuirass; but the worthy prelate died of fatigue in the midst of the siere. [About A. b. 84.) ]-TyT. hais llinti., liook 6, ch. 6.

9!Be. CLERGY, Political. Englial/. [In 1710, laring the fiarerest party strifa, the return of a Pory preponderume in Parlimant was attributed by Dr. Burne to the elforts of the ctergy.] Besides a course for some montlis, of intlaming sermons, they went about from home to house, pressing lheir pooplo to show, on this great occasion, their zeal for the ('hureln, and now or never to save it. - KNomar's Exi., vol. T), ch. 24,1 . 364.

D39. CLERGY, Poverty of. Reifn of (thules II. In gencral, the divine who quitied his chaplainship for a beneibe and a wife fonme that he lad only exclanged one class of vexutions for another. Not one living in fifty emabled the incumbent to loring up a fumily comfortably. As ehildren multiplied and grew, tho household of the priest became more and more beggarly. Ioles appeared more and more plainly in the thateh of his parsonage and in his single cassock. Often it was only by toiling on his glebe, by feeding swine, und by loading dungcarts, thint he could obtain daily bread : mor did his utmost exertions always prevent the lailiffs from taking his coneordance and his inkstand in excention. It was a white day on which he was admitted into the kitehen of a grent house, and regaled by the servants with cold meat ame ale. IIis children were brought up like the children of the neighboring peasnutry. Ilis boys followed the plough, und his girls went out to service. Study he found impossible, for the advowson of his living would hardly have sold for a sum sutficient to purchase a good theolog. ieal librury; und he might be considered as unusually lucky if he had ten or twelve dog-eared volumes among the pots and pans on his shelves. Even a keen and strong intellect might be expeeted to rust in so imfavorable a situation. Macaulay's ENG., ch. 3.
940. ———— Fufteenth Century. The highest payment for a parish priest was 9 murks -́'6. The artifioar, at fourpence a day, carned about as mueh as the parish priest, to sutlice for his hoard, apparel, and other necessaries. [A.1). 1450-148̄̃.]-KNignt's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 8, p. 125.
9.11. CLERGY, Profligate. Eighteenth ('thtury. The indecormm, if not the protligacy, of a large ummber of the English elergy, for a period of half a century, is exhibited by too many contemporary witnesses to be considered as the exagreration of novelists, satirical poets, travellers, and dissenters. Ridienle, pity, indignation, produced little or no elange for more than a generation.

What shall we say to the testimony of Dr. Knox, head-master of Tmbbridge school? "The public have long remarked with indignation, that some of the most distinguished coxcombs, drunkards, debuuchees, and gramesters who figure at the watering-places and all public places of resort ure young men of tho saceralotal order." W"lut to the "shepherd" of Crable?
"A jovial youth, who thinks Sumday task
As unuch ins God or man con fuirly ask. . . ." [Alvertiscments like the following wore published :| " Winnted a rurney in a good sporting country, where the duty is ligh: and the weighborlood convivial." . . . [hav. Dr. Warner", a popular prencher, $\rceil$ desires Lord Selwyn to samd lime " the marazine, with the delicnte amours of " the nobla loril, which must be very divertine," Ie desuribes n dinner with two friembs: " We have just parted in a tolerable shate of insemsilility to the ills of life." "I have been preateching this morning, and am going to dine-where? -in the afternoon. We shall bolt the door and (but, hush! soltly! lat me whisper it, for it is a violent sceret. and I slanll be blown to the devil if 1 blab, as in this honse we are Nonland his precise family- - hay cards." - Kinalir's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 6, 1. 109.
D.12. CLERGX rejected. Irelend. Qucen Elizabeth. . established the Protestant Episcopal Clumeln [in Ireland]. The Anglican prelates and priests, divided from the Irish by the insuperable larrier of language, were quartered upon the land, shepherds without sheep, pastors withont people ; strangers to the inhabitants, whinting not them but theirs. The charehes went to ruin; the lienefices went to men who were held as foreigners and hereties, and who had no core for the Irish but to compel them to pay tithes. The inferior elergy were. . . as immoral as they wore illiterate. - Banchofrea ${ }^{\text {Co.s., }}$ vol. 5, ch. 4.
©4B. CLERGY, secular. Bromins. This division of the Indian eastes is characteristic of a very singular state of society. The four principal castes, or tribes, are the loramins, the soldiers, the lashandmen, and the mechanies. The branius, as we have already observed, are the priests, who, like the Roman Catholic clergy, are some of them clevoted to a life of regular discipline, as the different orders of monks; und others, like the secular elergy, mix in the world, and enjoy all the freedom of social life.-TyTLer's Ilist., Book 6, ch. 23.
944. CLERGY, Solfish, The Pope's. In 1343 the commons petitioned for the redress of the grievance of papal appointments to vacant livings in despite of the rights of putrons or the Crown ; and Ellward fornerly complained to the pope of his nppointing "forrioners, most of them suspicious persons, who tho not reside on their bencfices, who do not know the faces of the flocks intristed to them, who do not understand their language, but, neglecting the cure of souls, seek as hirelings only their worldly hire." In yet sharper words the king rebuked the papal greed. "The suecessor of the apostles was set over the Lord's sheep to feed and not to shear them." The Parlianent declared " that they neither, could nor would tolerate sueh things any longer;" and the general irritation moved slowly toward those statutes of provisors and prommine which heralded the policy of Henry VIII.-Hist. of Eng. Peopies, © siz1.

D45. CLERGY, Sleepy. Contagious. Bishop Burnet says . . . the main body of our clergy has always appeared doad and lifeloss to me, and instead of animating one nonolher, they seem rathur to lay our andrep. Kinantere Eno.. vol.万, rlt. 4, p. 59.
Q.16. CLERGY, Taxation of. Framre. Bonlface VIll., clected pope in the your 1294, was one of the most assiming prolaies that ever fllled the pontitical chair ; yet lo: fommd in Philip, [lV.] the Fair of Frabre a mon determined to humble tis pride and arrogance. Philip resolved to make the cloray of his kinglom bear their proportion in fumbling the public supplies as wall as the other orders of the stute. The pope resented this as an extreme indignity offered to the C'hurel, and issued his pontifical lull commanding all the bishopes of France to repmir ime mediately to Rome. Philip ordered the ball to be thrown into the fire, an! strictly prohibited any of his bishops from stirring ont of the kingdom. TE repaired, lowever, himself to Jome, and threw the pope into prison ; but being soon after obliged to quit Italy, Boniface regained his liberty, -TyTheris Ifisit, Book 6, ch. 11.
9.17. CLIMATE, Charzes of. Italy. In the time of Ifomer the vine grow will in the island of Sicily, und most probully in the adjacent continent. . . . A thousand years afterward Italy could boast, that of the fourscore most generons and celebrated wines, more than two thirds wero prodneed from her soil. The blessing was soon communieated to the Narbonnese province of Ganl ; lut so intense was the cold to the nortli of the Cevemes, that, in the time of Strabo, it was thought impossible to ripen the grapes in those parts of Ganl. This difticulty, however, was gradually vanchished. - Gibnon's Rome, ch. 2.
948. CLIMATE changes. Europe. Some ingenions writers have suspected that Europe was much colder formerly than it is at present; and the most ancient descriptions of the climate of Germany tend exccedingly to confirm their theory. . . . I shall select two remarkable circumstances. . . . 1. The great rivers which covered the Roman provinces, the Rhine and the Dunube, were frequently frozen over, and capable of supporting the most enormous weights. The barbarians, who often chose that severe season for their inronds, trunsported, without apprehen. sion or danger, their numerous armies, their cavalry, and their heavy wagons, over a vast and solid bridge of ice. Modern ages have not presented an instance of a like phenomenon. $\quad 2$. The rein. deer, that useful unimal, from whom the savage of the North derives the best comforts of his dreary life, is of a constitution that supports, and even requires, the most intense cold. Ile is found on the rock of spitzberg, within ten degrees of the Pole ; he seems to delight in the snows of Lapland and Siberia ; but at present he cannot subsist, much less multijly, in any country to the south of the Baltic. In the time of Cassar the reindeer, as well as the elk and the wild bull, was a mative of the IIereynian forest, which then overshadowed a great part of Germany and Poland. The modern improvements sufliciently explain the canses of the diminution of the cold. These immense woods have been gradually cleared, which intercepted the rays of the sun. The morasses have been druined, and in proportion as the soil has been cultivated, the iir has become more temperate. - Gibion' Rome, ch. 9.
9.10. CLIMATE vs. Character. Sitmul , Johnsom. We hand amother evening by ontrelve's at the Mitre. lt huppening to be a very rainy night, 1 made some commonplace observations on the relasation of nerves and depression oit spirits which such weather oreasioned ; adding, however, that it was good for the verotable rereition. Johnson, who denied that the lemendatare of the air hat any inthence on the hamaa 1 frams, answered, with in smike of ridicule, "Why, yes, sir, it is good for verembles, and loot the ninmals who eat those veretables, and for the animals who ent those animals." 'Thisobservation of his apty enongh introduced agow supper. - BusW:ALS JOHNSON, p. $11 \%$.

Ф50. CLIMATE, Character by, Northern. [IDuring the rise of the Roman Empire, | in all levies, a just preference was given to the elimates of the North over those of the South.-Gimbon's IRomes, ch. 1.

D51. Revolations. $\quad$. Pain in the Chincse Tartany, whly righty lengues from the great wall, was fombl by the missionaries to be three thousame geometrical paces nowe the leval of the seat. Montespuien, who has used and abmsed the relations of travellers, deduces the revolations of $\mathbf{A}$ sia from this important cirenanstance, that heat and cold, weakness and strength, touch ench other without any temperate zone. - Note in Gibuon's lRome, ch. 26.
052. $\square$ Laplanders. The con'anguinity of the IIungrians and Iaplanders would disphay the powertul energy of elimate on the children of a common parent; the lively contrast between the bold alventurers who nre intoxicutal with the winces of the Damule, ned the wroteled fugitives who are immersed heneath the snows of the polar circle. Arms and freedom have been the ruling, thongh too often the manaceessfal, passion of the I Iangarians, who are endowed by nature with a vigorous constitution of soul and body. Extremerold has diminished the stature and congealed the fincolties of the Japlanders: and the Aretie tribes, alone among the sons of men, are ignorant of war and unconsedous of human blood; a lmppy ignormee. if reason and virtue were the guardians of tadeir peace !- GibsBOS's ROME, (h. Eit.
953. CLIMATE, Demoralized by. J whaldl. [In Africat the lkoman general] Belisarius appeared ; and he advanced withont opposition as far as Grasse, a palace of the Vandal kings, at the distance of tifty miles from Garthage. The weary Romans indilged themselves in the refreshment of shady groves, cool fountains, and delicious froits; and the proference whirh Procopias allows to these gardens over any that he had seon. either in the East or West, may be ascribed either to the taste or the fatigue of the historian. In three renerations prosperity and a warm colimate had lissolved the hardy virtue of the Vanclals, who insensibly became the most laxirious of mankind. In their villas and gardens, which might deserve the Persian name of P'eradixe, they enjoyed a cool and elegant repose : and. after the daily use of the lath, the barbarians were seated at a table profusely spread with the deliencies of the land and sea. Their silken robes, loosely flowing, after the fashion of the Medes, were embroidered with gold ; love and hunting were the labors of their life, ind their varant homs ware ammsad by pantominmes, chariot-races, and the music and dancers of the thentre - (ithbos's lRoms: ell. Il.
D.). CLIMATE, Fear of. The Po, qume. In their thes voyage after the dineovery ol Malerara, they passed Cape Boyador, and in Che space of i few years, advancing above four homdrod lagores to the month, they lad diseoverad the river senefall, and all the coast betwern Caje [Blanco fand Cupe Vird; they were now mear ten dereres within the torrid zone, and were surprised totind the elinmte still temperate and aqreeable ; yot, on p:tsining the river Sonergl, und obsorving the hamann specices to assume a ditferent form, the skin as black as cbony, the woolly hair, and that pernliaty of fature which alintinguishes the Ferrons, they maturally athributed blas to the inthenee of heat, ami begint to drand the consepuences of a nemer appronell to the line. They returned to Portugal . . . the common voice of their countrymen dissumded them from any further attempis. - Tyoucis IIs'r., IBook 6, ch. 18.
 It was a very wet day, and I nguin eomplained of the disariverable effects of such weatherr. Jonsson: "Sir, this is all imarination, which physicians encommge ; for man lives in nir, ats a tish lives in water; so that if the atmosphere press heavy from above, there is an equal re, tanco from belos. To he sure, had weather is hard upon people who are obliged to be abroad ; and men camot labor so well in the open air in had wenther as in goonl; but, sir, a smith or at hailor, whose work is within doors, will surely do as much in many wather as in fair. Some very delicate frames, indeed, may be affereted by wet weather ; but not common constitutions." Boswers's Jounson, P. 12i).
956. CaIMATE, Prote :tion of. Ethiopilans. llis genorals, in the early part of his [Angustus] reign, attempted the reduction of Enhopia and Arabia Felix. They marched neme a thousand miles to the south of the tropic ; but the lreat of the climate soon repelled the invaders, and protereed the unwarlike matives of those serfuestered rerions.-(thbuon's lhome, ch. 1.
957. CLIMATE, Sickness from. Pilgrims. 'The spring of 162 l brought a ray of lope to the distressel lilerims of Now Plymouth. Never was the reluming sun more weloome. The fatal winter had swept off one hatf of the number: Thes son of the benevolent ('arver was among the first victims of the terrible elimatr. 'Ihe governor himself sickenod and died, and the brokenhearted wife fomed rest in the same grave with her hushand. But now, with the approatel of warm weather, the destroying pestilence was sared, and the spirits of the sirvivors revived with the season. Out of the snows of winter. the desolations of disense, and the terrors of death, the faith of the Paritan land come forth tiomphant.-LRamanits C. S., ch. 13.
9.)w. CLOTHING, Angelic. Sereterbor! Since antels are men, and live together in society like men on earth, therefore they lave gurments, houses, and other things similar to those which exist on earth, but of course infinitely more beanifinl and perfect. The garments of the angels correspond to their intelligence. The garments of some glitter as with flame, and those of others are resplendent as will lierlit ; othersarie of various colors, und some white und ofmegto. The angels of the funost lemven ure maked, heranse they ure in fanocenco, and makedness correspomis to imuocores. It is because grormonts represent states of wishlom that thoy are so much spoken of in the Woml, in relation to 10 1 Bi, 1. 109.

D58. CLOTRING, Costly, Previan Kings. The revenuse of whole provinees, nerording to Ilerodotas, were bestowed on the nttire of their favorite concubines; ind the provinces thennsolves took from that riremmstance their poporar uppellations, Plato, in his Aleibindes, nuentions "Greek umbssudor who truvelled u whole day through a comintry ealled the Queen's Girdle, und mather in rrossing a province which went ly the mame of the Qucen's IIma-Dress. The' regal throne was of pure gold, overshandowed by a palm tree and vine of the same metal, with clusters of fruit composed of precious stones. Truleris Mist., Book 1, Cli. 9.

D60. CLOTHING oxchanged. Roman E'mperor Elarfibalis. A long train of concubines, und a rapid suceession of wives, umong whom was a vestal virgin, ravished by force from her sacred asylum, were insufllcient to sutisfy the impotence of his passions. The muster of the Roman world affected to cojy the dress and manners of the femate sex, preferred the distaff to the seeptre, und dishonored the principal dignities of the empire by distributing them mmong lis numerons lovers, one of whom was publiely invested with the title und nuthority of the emperor's, or, us he more properly styled limself, of the empress's husband.-Gimison's Rome, ch. 6.
961. Clothing, Prohbited, Protection. The clamor was so great aguinst India silks and printed cottons, that after the 29 th of September, 1701, the wearing all wrought silks, of the manufncture of Persin, Chinn, or East Indin, and all ealicoes, printed, dyed, or stained therein, was absolutely prohibited. If we may believe the advocates of prohibition, this statute land the effect of repeopling Spitulfielis, "that looked like a deserted phec."-Knigirt's England, vol. 5, ch. 2, p. 20.
962. CLUBS, Ancient. Efypt. Antony and Cleopatra established a society called the "Inimitable Livers," of which they were members; they also instituted another, by no means inferior in splendor or luxury, culled "The Companions in Death." Their friends were admitted into this, and the time passed in mutum treats and diver-sions.-Plutarci's Antony.
963. COERCION, Patriotic. Tories. A. I. 1774. Two thousand men marched in companies to the conmmon in Worcester [Mass.], where they forced Timotly Paine to walk through their ranks with his lait off as far as the centre of their hollow sequare, and read a writ'en resignation of his seat at the [governor's] council-board. -B.iverof"'s U. S., vol. \%, ch. 8.
96.1. COIN clipped, England. [In July, 1694, we read] many exceuted in London for clipping money, now done to that intolerable extent, that there was hardly any money that was worth above latf the nominal value. - KNant's ExG., vol. 5, ch. 12, p. 18\%.

D65. COINCIDENCE, Alarming. Cromerrll. The rajuinothal gale, whileh had commmenced on tha precedlag day, now swelled futo antorm which swopt over lingland with tho alfere of an earthquake. The anringes which conveyed to landon the frisums of the protector, upprised of his extreme danger, weremable to stem the volenere of the wind, mal took refinge in the inns on the romel. The lofty lowes of Lombon indalated like vessels tossed upon the oreath. TRonfs were curried off, trees that hat stoon for centuries in Iyde lurk were torn up ly the roots and prostrited on the gromad, like bundles of straw. Cromwell expired at two orlock lir the afternoon, in the midet of this convulsion of mature. Ite depmrted ins he was horn, in a tempest. Popular superstition recogruized a mirucle in this coincidence, which sermed like the expiring efforts of the clements to tear from lifeand empire the single inun who was cupulble of enduring the miglit of England's destiny, and whose dreease crented a void which none but himself could thll. -Lamabtineis Chonwelis, p. 77.
906. COINCIDENCE, Comfortlng. Seven Bishops. [They were imprisoned by James II., bechase they would not join him in the overthrow of their cherished Protestunt fuith.] On the evening of the Black Friday, as it was called, on whlel they were committed, they reached thelr prison just at the hour of divine service. They instantly hastened to the chapel. It chanced that in the second lesson were these words: "In all things approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in aftlictions, in distresses, in stripes, in imprisonments." All zealous churehmen were delighted by this coincidence, and remembered how much comfort a similar coinciannce land given Charles I. at the time of his death. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. 8.

D67. COINCIDENCE repeated, Thesens. Theseus, then, appeared to answer to Romulus in many particulars. Botll were of uncertain parentage, born out of wedlock, and both had the repute of being sprung from the gods. Both stood in the first runk of warriors, for both had grent powers of mind, with great strength of body. One was the founder of Rome, and one peopled Athens, the most illustrious cities in he world. Both carried off women by violence. Both were involved in domestic miseries and exposed to family resentment, and both, toward the end of their lives, are said to have offended their respective citizens, if we may believe what seems to be delivered with the least mixture of poetical fiction.-Plutareir's Romulus.
968. COINCIDENCE, Strange. Aditms-Icffer. son. A few days before [John Adams'] denth, a gentleman called upon hini and usked hin to give a toast, which should be presented at the Fourth of July banquet as coming from him. The old man said: "I will give you, INDEPENDENCE FOREVER !" "Will you not add something to it ?" asked his visitor. "Not a word," was the reply. The toast was presented at the bancuet, where it was received with deafcning cheers; and almost at that moment tho soul of this great patriot passed away. Among the last words that conld be gathered from his dying lips were these: "Thomas Jefferson still survives l" But Thomas Jefferson did not survive. On the same Fourth of July, a few hours before, Jeflecson also departed this llfe. Few events have ever oceurred in the L'nited States more thriling to the people than the death, on the same moniversary of the nation's birth, of these two agrel, venerable, and venerated pmblic servints. - Cychopedia of Bion., p. 1 sis.
D69. - Mugh Miller. Day had not wholly disappeared. . . When I saw it the open door, within less than a yard of my hrenst. a dissevered hand and urm stretched out townerd me. The hand and arm were evidently those of a female; they had a livid and sodden mpearance; and directly fronting me, where the hody onght to have been, there was only blank transpurent space. . . . I . . . ran shiricking to my mother. . . . My mother going to the door saw nothing. . . Its coincidence with the probable time of my father's dealh [he went down in a storm at sem] seems at least curions.-Smoses Bhef Rioghaphes, p. 87.
970. COLOR, Caste of. Green-7lue. The Rothan race, in its first institution, was a simple con*est of two chariots, whose drivers were distinguished by onhite und ved liveries; two additional colors, a light green and a cermlena blue, were afterward introduced; and, as the races were repeated twenty-five times, one hundred chariots contributed in the same day to the pomp of the cirens. The four fattions soon arepuired an legal establishment and a mysterions origin. [The struggle of the green and bhe was supposed to represent the contlict of the earth and sem.] The sportive distinction of two colors proluced two strong and irreconcilable fations, which slook the foundations of a feeble government. The popular dissensions, founded on the most serions interest or holy pretence, have scarcely equalled the obstinaey of this wanton discord, whicl: invaded the peace of families, divided friends and brothers, and tempted the female sex, hough seldom seen in the cirens, to espouse the inetinations of their lovers, or to contradict the wishes of their husbands. Every lnw, cither human or divine, was trampled under foot, and as long as the party was suceessful, its deluded followers appeared careless of private distress or public calamity. The license, without the fredom, of democracy was revived at Antioch and Constuntinople, and the support of a faction became necessary to every candidate for civil or ecelesiastical honors. A seriet attachment to the family or sect of Annstasius was imputed to the greens; the blues were zealously devoted to the cause of orthodoxy and Justinian, and their grateful patron protected, above five years, the disorders of a faction whose seasonable tumults overawed the palace, the senate, and the capitals of the East. Insolent with royal favor, the blues affected to strike terror by a peculiar and barbaric dress, the long hair of the Lhms, their close sleeves and ample garments, a lofty step, and a sonorous voice. In the day they concealed their two-edged poniards, but in the night they boldy assembled in arms, and in numerous linds, prepared for every act of violence and rapine. Their adversaries of the green faction, or even inoffensive citizens, were stripped and often murdered by these nocturnal roblers, and it becmme dangerous to wear any gold buttons or girdles or to appear at a late hour in the strects of a peaceful capital. A daring spirit, rising with impunity, procecoded to viohate the sufeguarl of private honses; and tre was employed to fucilitate the attack, or to concent the crimes of these factions rioters. No phace was safe or sacred from their depredation ; to gratify cither avarice or revenge, they profusely spilled the blood of the innoenent rhurehes and niturs were polluted by atrobloms murders; mud it was the lomst of the assassins, that their dexterity conld whays intlet a mortal wound with a single stroke of ilelr dagger. The diasolnte youth of Constantinople adopted the bhe livery of disorder ; the laws were silent, and the lwads of soclety were relaxed.-Gimion's Rome, ch. 40, 1. is.
971. COLOR, Prejudice of. Portuguese. [The diseoverers of the Africmen const were dissuaded from extending their discoveries.] It was even hinted, as a probmble consequenere, that the mariners, ufter passing a certain latitude, would be changed into hacks, and thas retain forever a disgraceful mark of their temerity.-Elabke's Phoghers of Maritime Dincovehy.

97\%. COLOR-LINE in Commerce. Culumbur. [He was nhout to sturt on his third vogngre] dayme Ferver, me eminent and learned lappidnry, assured Colummas that, uecorling to his experience, the rarest objects of commerce, such as gold, precions stones, drugs, and spices, were chictiy to le found in the regions nabout the equinoctial line, where the inhmbitants were bhack, or darkly colored; and that until the admiral should arrive among people of sueh complexions he did not think he wonld find those artioles in great abundmee.-Imvina's Columbus, Book 10, ch. 1.
973. COLLEGE vs. Capital. Fule. It remnins to be told how Connectiout came to be blessed with two capitals. As somn as the college was determined upon in 1700, the question urose, and was diseussed with the energy and hent with which sueh questions usumlly are, In what town shall it be situated? The institution was legum at Saybrook, and was not finally established it New ILaven until 1718, which wis sixteen years after the first student entered. This removal, as the reader may imagine, was keenly resented, not only by Saybrook, but ly other towns which had hoped to he chosen as the site of the college, particularly Hartford. To reconcile IIartford to the disappointment, the Lagislature ugreed to build a State House there, as they said, "to eompensate for the collegeat Nere Ihteren." They trim to appease Saybrook by voting fe5s sterling for the use of its schools. But saybrook was irreconcilable. When the sheriff, by order of the trustees, attempted to remove the library to New Haven, a riot ensued, in the course of which two hundred and fifty volumes were conveyed away to parts unknown, and never recovered.-CycloPEDIA OF BIOG., p. 593.
974. COMBAT, Pleasare in. Romans. The shows of the amphitheatre rose maturally out of that taste for martial exereises which we find in the first ages of every warlike people. About the $490 t h$ year of Rome, Marcus and Decimus Brutus presented a comint of gladiators tor the first timo at Rome. Ahout a century after that period the athletre were introduced for a public show; and there were combats of slaves with bears and lions. Sylla, during his pretorship, exhibited a combat where 100 men fought with 100 lions:
 s. Nhow where therof fought 300 conpiles of ghali-utors.-TV'TARA's Ilisw., IBook If, ch. I.
075. COMMAND divided. Iniasiom of'siotlatmel. Sothe of the seotixis emigrants, hemterl will re-skill neressumy to the comdace of great athates.
 in collecelhar momas for the athatk which they were atonit lonmke on a formidiblarmemay, hil In devisharg rest minturn their ladere's powire and soroutios arainst hivambiaton. 'Theresteromphorent stuphitity with which thoy insisted on urganizing an momy an if they hal nol beren organiznot bern framkly and even bonctinlly rocorded by one of themselves.

Aloydr was lo hold the nominal rommand in Soothad: hat he was phaced mator the comber of a committer which reserved to itwelf all the thost impertame parts of the miliary administration. This eommitlere Was rmpewered to determine where the expedition slomblel hathe lo appoint oflierers, to superintend the loying of troops. lodule out provisions and ammantitions. All ihat was left to the reararal was to didere the evolations of the army in the tield : ame he was foreod to promise that, even in the thell, except in the ense of a surprise he would do nothing without the assent of at council of war. ['The enterprise was a total finilure.]-N.N'MCLAN's ENG., ell. is.

D76. COMMERCE, Benefits of. Meflex. The most obvious is the gemeral difinsion of industry. Among a commere inal people me factilias of both mind and body are of neesessity almost constantly employed. Invention is cever on the stretch to discover new somreses of gain. And the enterprising spirit of the more opmbent farnishes eonstant orednation lo the noechnaide, the manaliactarer, amb the latorer. Insepatably eonnerfed . . is a spirit of frumality. Reches have their fall value when purchasiol by the labor of either mind or borly, and what cost dear will not be frivolonsly expended.
We observe the assuedation of the same qualitios among the Dutch mal the ('hinese. - Pronekis Ilistr., Book 3, ch. 8 .
877. $\square$ Gowromemt. Another neressary fonsequence of the pevaleme of commeree is a regnamity and striothess of the national police, a severity of the laws with respect to montand contracts mol obligations, and a consequent security in the tramsactions of individuals with emeh other. Science is likewise greatly indelted to commerece. Thus astromomy, navigation, general mathematies, mechanies, and inderd, sill seionces subservient to practical utility are advanced by it.-TrTLER's IIst., Book 3, ch. 8

97\%. ———— Mollımal. ג.n. 1581. Their commerce gathered into their harbors the fruits of the wide world. Probluding almost no grain of any kind, Ilolland had the lrest supplied granary of Europe ; without fields of thax it swarmed with weavers of linen ; desitute of floeks, it became the centre of all woollen manafactures ; and provinces that had not a forest bnilt more ships than all Europe besides. - Bancrofr's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 15.

D75. - English. A seheme was proposed to the States of IIolland upon the union ame eoalition betworn the two repuhbles. It was not relishod by the Joteh, who were at lacir refasal, intamediately cladared war

 (ommiv-an att whicli struch lavily heains shatute was in amollow way fernetiotial to the linglinh, by whiging lhemi to riltivate mari time comancere, from which they have deriver the erratest part of their mationial wethlt. In this ware, which was mose ahly maintained on hoth steles-moter Blake, the barlisla admiral, and Van 'Jromp and de linstar, almirals of the ly from the commoree of the ('hamen ; their disheries were totally menemded, mad above 1600 uf their ships liall intu the lauds of the Euglish. -TYTIEA's llast', Book 6, (1I. B1).

D80. COMMERCE, Burdened. Americh" ( $\%$ L.
 policy was $n t$ once alopted. All verssels not. benting the English thar were forbidelen to ellter the larbors of Now Engmod. A haw of ex portation was emacted loy which all urticles produned in the colonies and demmeded in Enerland vhombl be shipped to England only. Sucharticles of prodnction as the Eugrlish merelants dial not desire might be sold in any of the ports of Europe. The law of importation was erfally odions: sucls ardicles as were produced in Eng-but should he bought from England only. FreeIrade letween the colonies was forhidelen, and a duty of tive per cent, levied for the benetit of the Engrlish king, was put on both exports and imports. Jhman ingemoty could hardly lave invented a set of measures hether calcolated (0) prodace an Amerian Revohation.- Ras. ra'tis C. S., ch. 14.

Ddi. COMMERCE, Enterprise of. Tisrorer!. Sい matime ('ubon, yenng, and tired withambition in follow the carecr of Columbis, was probably the prime mover of the entelprise : but the batent granted by the king conferred the reguisite anthority upon " John Kinbotto"and his soms. Jewis, Selasiam, mud Sameins. The kingr tow catre not to risk any (apilal in the proposed vosara : for the patent mothorized the adventarers " 10 sail to all [mats, countriesand satas of the Eiast, of the West, and of the Nordh, muler our banners and ensigns, with tive ships, ete., "pon their own proper costs and charges."'The Wallay Bristol merchant, in all probilhility, furnished the capital of the enterprise which gave to Engrand all ler rights in North America ; and that merehant D82. COMMERCE, Importance of. A.D. 168.). In some parts of Kínt and susiex none but the strongest horses eould in winter get through the boge in which at every step they smink deep. The markets were often inaceessible during several mombs. It is satid that the froits of the arth were somatimes sulfered to rot in whe phace, white bumblace place distant only a frow miles the sulpuly fell fire short of the dimant. —Mmentar's livi., ch. 3.
 p. 330 .

gw:s. COMMERCE neglected, E: $q / \| p t$. Whthro gard to any interomese with other mations ty commarer, the biryptimes had so little remben of that surt, that white the Red sert was left oprolto all the mardtime mations who chase to fregleme it, they womble not sulfor any of these forequ vessids to enter an bigypian port. Thay had so whips of their own, for their colnstry prombed mo timber lit. for the construction "ven of the small hants conployed in mationther the Nile, which obliged them to use takenf entin for that purpose, and sometianes recels coverend with varaish. They held the sem in detestattion, from a religions projudlere, and they avodcoll all intercomme with mariners.-Prownin IHsir., lbook 1, ch. 4 .
9w. COMMERCE, Patriotlsm of. Ameririm Ticoolntion. [laring the excitement aroused by the Stamp Let, the importers of Now York, Boston, and Philadelphin entered into a solemn compact to purchase no more goods of Great Jritain until the stamp Act shonld be reperaled. And the people applanded the netion of the metermats, and cheorfelly denied themselves all imported lusuricy. - Ridiatin's U. S., eh. 37 .
905. COMMERCE, Pioneers of, Phuricitus. To the phemicians ull mintiguity has joined in uttributing the invention of mivigntion; or, at lenst, it seems an agreed point that they were the earliest among the mations of antiquity who made voyages for the sake of commerce. The Camanites (for it is by that mame that the Plorenicims are known in soripture) were a powerfill people in the days of Abruham. -TyTuen's Hist., Book 1, ch. 6, p. 49.
986. COMMERCE, Piracy of. By Grout britain. A.b. 17in. France and Enghand werestill at peace ; and their eommeree was muthally protected by the sametion of trenties. Of a sudden hostile orders were issued to all British vensels of war to take all French vessels, private as well as public: and without warning ships from the French colonies . : were carried into English ports.-Banchoft's U. N., vol. 4, ch. 9.
987. COMMERCE and Politics. Controlling Government. The progress of Ehropean civilization had endowed commere with legishative power. Its commeils prevailed in England. where it dietated the national policy, preseribed wliances, and mennced wars. In Buerica the political influence of commerce sprung, not from progress, but from sympathy with the movement of Europe; and it was less glorionsly content with introducing new maxims of legisfation and new systems of finance-Bancrort's C . S., vol. 3, ch. 23.
988. COMMERCE, Precedence of. Sirrages. Whter, ever it favorite highway, is especially the lighway of uncivilized man; to those who have no axes the thick jungle is impervious; emigration by water suits savage life; canoes are older than wagons, and ships than chariots; a gulf, a strait, the sea intervening between islands, divide less than the matted forest.- Bancrofr's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.

OWO. COMMERCE prohiblted, spurtan*。 Comberere was stricelly prohibited: and ai combiterable extent of sutcomst, amb ationded many excollent harbors, the kathas athowed

OPO. COMMERCE, Revenge of. Drifish. [.Ifter the Americany therw British ten hato boston harbory Parliament made hasto to find revenge. On the hast day of March, diat, the Boston Port Bill was passed, It was mated that mo kind of morehandise should mus longer he handed or shipped at the wharves of Bostom. The customhouse was removed to sialeoll, but the peophe of that town reflused the hometits which were proffiored by the hand of lyramy. 'The lahabitants of Marblebend tembered the free nase of their warchomses to the merchants of Bostom.-RasD.ATu's L. S., ch. :3\%.
991. COMMERCE and Sclence. Disrorery of Amerith. Jolm Cabot, in Vimetian merchant reslding in Bristol . . amd his son Shematian flest uppromelsed the continent which no Eurobemn had diared to visit, or hal known to exint. . . . Thas the diseovery of our comtinent was an exploit of private mercantile mbenture ; mad the possession of the new-fotmal land was a right vested by an exclusive patent in the fanily of it Bristol merchant. He gate Eaghand is continent, and no one kuows his burial-phace- Banchoft's Hint. U. S., vol. 1, th. 1 .

O92. COMMERCE, Spirit of, silfish. One most natural effeet of the commore ial spirit is a siottsh and interested turn of mind: 11 hathit of mensuring everything ly the stamdard of protit mad loss, mad a predomimant iden that wemlth is the man constituent both of publie and private loppiness. The contrast of character, in this respect, between the Rommes and Chrthuginians, has been finely remarked by Polybins. " lat all things," says that judicinus writer, "which regard the acgivisition of wealth, the mannersaml customs of the Romans are intinitely prefernhle to those of the Carthaginians. This later people estecmed nothing to be dishonorahle that was connected with grin. Among them money is openly employed to purchase the dignities and ollteres of the Ntate ; but nll such proceclings are capital crimes at Rome." I am afroid that a contrast, so honorable to the Romans, could only have been made with justice in the early periods of the republie; since we know that without an increase of commerce, to which might be atributed the consequent increase of cormption and vemality, those vices had attaned to as grent a height toward the end of the republic at home as ever they had done at Curthage. But wealth nequired by plunder, rapine and peeulation is yet more corruptive of the mamers of a people than riches actuired by merehandise.-TyTler's Mist., book 3, ch. $\dot{8}$.
993.

Linrurlike. Another effect of the prevalence of the commercial spirit is to depress the military chancter of a people, and to render them indisposed to warlike enterprises. The advancement of trade cannot take place in any high degrec unless a mation is at peace with the neighors, and enjoys domestic security. The prospect of that precarious gain

Whald mixum from warfare will mot welgh againd the certain membages which comander derives from n state of pente. The nre of war will bot, meredal pepple, and the partice of it wll genarally he inationd to meremary trongs, Mllatary rank will he in low asterm, biemuse, when pir chased, it ceases la agrat degree to lae lemar able. Thas the (arthuglumas, thongh erertainIy not fuferlor loy unture to the Romana In comernge and military prowess, were herome so from labitand adacation. The armies of the empire were not composed of tis mative subjects: they were moremarias, and, therofore, hand momatiral afferethon for that soil which they were called todefend, or that pophe who wore nothing morn than their paymasters. In mere the sigmal inferiority of the riambes to the Romans, waless when conimanded by ('urthaglalan gearernls ol high matural military genlas.-'Yyuden's llast., Bank 3, ch. 8.

OD.A. COMMERCE, Succens by, Dutch. Amsturdum prohten lyy this deceline of commerere on the Balde, und upon the demolition of Antwerp becume, is we havenlready suld, the greatest commeremal city of the north. Inhaliting a comatry guinedalmost entirely from the sea, nad extrome ly unfruitful, the Diteh, urged ly neressity, ly the memps of trade alone, and domestic manifaciures, uttalned to $n$ very high dogree of wealth und splendor. The country of Itolland dees not prodnce what is sulleciont to maintain the handredth part of its inhabitants. The Dutch have no timber nor maritime stores, no conds, no metal, yet their commerce furnisked them with everything. Their grmaries were full of corn, even when the harvest failed in the most fertile rome tries; their naval stores were most abmednat, and the populonsness of this conntry, which, in ramity, is but a bank of barren sund, execeded prodigionsly that of the most fruithil and most cultivated of the Europent kingdoms.-Tyrten's IItst., Book 6, ch. 18 .

9DS. COMMUNION with God, Cromirell. Here agnin is a letter to one of his danghters, when the writer was on board the Johm, on his expedition to Ireland: "My Deali Daughten: Your letter was very welcome to me. I like to see anything from your hand; becmuse, indeed, I stick not to say I do entirely love yon. And, therefore, I hope a word of advice will not le unwelcome nor umaceeptable to thee. I desire you both to make it, above all things, your business to seek the Lord; to be frequently culling upon Him that He would manifest Himself to You in llis Son; and be listening what returns IIe makes to you, for Ile will be speaking in your car and your heart if you attend thereanto."Hood's C'Rom WELL, p. 163.
996. COMMUNION by Likeness, John Milton. The style of " Paradise Lost" is then only the matural expression of a soul thas exquisitely nourished upon the best thoughts and finest words of all nges. It is the langunge of one who lives in the companionship of the great und the wise of past time. It is inevituble that when such a one speaks his tones, his accent, the melodies of his rhythm, the inner harmonies of his linked thoughts, the grace of his allusive touch, should escape the common ear. To follow Milton, one should at least have tasted the same training through whith her put himadf. Tir quaper dig. "1"'m finger dom. 'Tlar masy ramot sere it, mul comphain that the peet is tow lemenocis. 'they Wonld have Mltom lalk liks Hugsan or Willian
 M. I'surtinos, dh, fis.
907. COMMUNION, Unity by, fint-('rom. rell. Tolhe whansof the yonar Quakermanast it le trula; If then and I were hat an hour ot atay togellare, we should be marer wine to the other."

DON. COMMUNISM, American. I',limixf.s. The man who was chlolly iastrumental la organking the London ('monainy was Baribulomiow Gionmohl. . . . By the berms of ilue chather, the atiates of the rempany were to lo maministered by "t suncerior comand residing in Lomion and an lafirior comalit risiding in the colony [aow cimbraced in Virginia, Carolinas, mal west wardl.

In the hist orgmization of the compmios ant in single prinelple of self frovernment was atmitted. The most forlish clause in the patent was that which reguired the propesed colong or colondes to ladid alt property in common tor the

DOD. COMMUNISM, Equallty by, Lyrיurgus. A bold political caterprise of Lycurgise wis it uew divinion of the lands. For lie fonnd a prodigions farguality, the city overcharged with many ladigent presons who had no land, and the wenlih centred in the lumds of a few. Determined, therefore, to rowt ont the evils of involence, envy, avarice, and hiniry, and those distempers of a state still more inverterate and fitnlI menn povery and riclas-he persunded them to cuncel nill fermer divisions of had, and to make new ones, in such a manaer that they might bo profectly equal in their possessions and way of liviag. A story goes of our legislator, that somo thme after returning from a journey through the thelds just reaped, und seeing the shocks stinding paralled nad equal, he smiled and said to some that were by, "Ilow like is Latconia to min estate newly divided among many brothersl" After this he nttemped to divide nilso the movnhbes, in order to take away all uppenrance of inepmality; but he soon perceived that they could not bear to have their goods directly taken from them, mad therefore took mother methol, comnter-working their avarice by a stratagem. -Pburancu's "Lycutots." 1000. $\qquad$ -. Spurtans. Agis IV. had succeeded to one hrunch of the throne of Sparta a short time before Aratus was chosen prietor of the Achainn States. This prince, a better man than a wise politician, had chroished the chimerieal project of restoring the uncient laws of Lyemgus, as conceiving this the only means of resening his combtry from the disorders indueed by The universa! corruption of its manners. But there is a period when political intirmity has atthined such a pitch that recovery is impossible ; and Sparta had arrived at that period. The design of $\Lambda$ gis, of conrse, embraced the radical reform of a new division of all the land of the re-public-a project sufficient to rouse the indignation and secure the mortal enmity of the whole of the higher class of citizens, and of almost every man of weight and consideration in his country. The plan was therefore to be conducted with the grent est cmathon mad mecrecy till sullolemily ripened for exerution; but Apls was betrayed by his own ronthdabs. Laondise, his rollomgne In the soveroignty, had fmblowd a rolinh for lise ury fromble A shatio: vinenton at the comet of Silencas, inad was thas mally persuaded to takno the part of the richest clikens in oppowing this volent revolation, whatel theratemed to reducentl runks of men to it level of cumatity. . . Aftur compenting Agis to take wheller fin the 'rimple of Minerva, they rederd the opportubly of his gofigg to tho huth, und drageged him to the common prison, where a tribumil of the Ephomd, summonad by his collonguo leomidus, sut rendy to judge hlan ise astute crimbunt. II was askid, by whose avil comsed he had beren prompted todisturh the laws and govermment of his comatry?" "I needad mone to prompt me," wid the kligg, "to nt us I thought right. My denju whatorestore your melent laws, and to govern acording to the phan of the excellent lyyurgus : mad though I are my chath is inevithble, I do not repent of my dexign." The judges hereupon promonamed mentence of denth, and the virtuons Agis was carriod forth from thelr preseloce and inmediately strangled. -'Tysten'a llint., Book 2, ch. 5.
1001. COMMUNISM, Viaious. Reign of hownd. The people were deluded mad inthaned by the fanatielsm of Mazdak, who nsserted the combmunity of women mad the equality of munkind, while he approprinted the richest fiunds and most Jemutiful femmes to the use of his sereturles. Mazdak [note] manonced himself us a reformer of Zoronstrinnism, and rarried the doctrine of the two prineiples to a murh grenter height. Ie preached the absolute indiference of haman wetion, perfect equality of rank, commmity of property and of women, marringes between the nearest kindred; he interdieted the use of mimul food, proseribed the killing nnimuls for food, enforced a vegretalle diet . . . mad Mazalak was enrolled with Thoth, Suturn, Zoronster, P'ythagoras, Epfeurus, Johm, and Christ, as the tenchers of true Ghostic wisdom.-Ghion's Rome, ch. 42.
1002. COMMUNIBTS, Conspisuous. Levellers. [The Levellers] became conspicuous in Cromwell's army who declared, "that all degrees of man should be levelled, and an equality should be established, both in titles and estates, throughout the kingdom."-Knicint's Eva., vol. 4, ch. 6.
1003. COMMUNISTS, Dangeroua, The " Lerellers" of 1649 were, in in small way, the precursors of the "Socialists" of 1849. [Thirty men, hended by one formerly in the arm. who called himself a Prophet, appenred in Surrey, in a sundy district. They took possession of the ground, nad began to dig and dibble beans in that planting time. They suid they should shortly be four thousand in number; that they should pull down park-pales and lay all open. The Prophet was taken before un olficer of the government, when he deelnred that a vision had appenred to him and said :] " Arise, and dig and plough the earth, and receive the fruits thereof;" that their intent was to restore the erention to its former condition, but that they meant to meddle with what was common and untilled; but that the time was at hand when all men shall willingly come in and give up their lands and estates, and submit to this community of goods. . . . Cromwell

Nald to the Comenell of Nilute. "' Vom mast make IIn chil of this party, or it will make mill rime of

100.A. COMPARIBONs, Invidious. Fiuat Itry. Another oflle er, whe thenglat he hat dome the State nome sorvice, setthig himself 1 If agatist 'I'hemistor les, mad venturlug tocompure hivewn :xploite with his, ho masurered hime will this the firant day and the di!y ufter the ficust. Sisy the ding aftere the fratex, I ami full of busthe aind tromble, wherens, whit you, folkn enjoy, at their rase, "veryblag rady proviled. Jousay rimb, salys tho ferant ding, lint if I hat not been hafore you, yoli would not herve hern at all. Sis. hat it

100.5. COMPASSION, Disoreditable, ,/imis $1 /$. Thometh vindielfer, he was not indias riminately
 llonad In whifll he showed at generons compme sion to those who had opmesed him honestly and on public groumds; but he frepuently spred and promotel those whom some vile motive had indueded to jnjure him: for that memmese which marked themo out as flt implements of tyramy was sa precions in his esthandion, that her regardcol it with some indulgenere, evern when it wases. hibitedat hisown expense. - Macaliar's Exa., cl. 4.
1006. COMPASSION, Female. Iullian. Ponthae: resurved for himself the most diflloult task of all - the cajture of Detroit. But in the hour of improding doom, womm's lave interposed to save the gurison from butchery. An ludiun gith if the Ojibway mation came to the fort with a pair of mocrasins for Major Gladwyn, the rommandant, and in parting with him manifested untsuad agitation and diastress. She was seen to linger at the street comer, mad the sentined summoned her to return $\qquad$ nfter murlh persunsion . . . Nlo revented the plot. [The lndimis treachery did not succeed.]-Ripisuris U. S., ch. 3.5 .
1007. COMPETITORS, Ignoble. Inmuen Emperer tiration. Among the virions arts which had exercised the youth of Grathan, he had applied himself, with singular inclimation and surcess, to mange ibe horse, to draw the bow, and to dart the javelin; and these qualitleations, which malat be usefu! to a soldier, were prostituted to the viler purposes of honting. Large parks were enclosed for the Imperinl plensure and plentifully stocked with every spering of wild beasts; and Gratian neglected the daties, and even the dignity, of his rank, to comsme whole days in the vin display of his dexterity mad bollness in the chase. The pride amb wish of the Romme emperor to excel in tin art in which he might be surpmssed by the momest of his slaves remindel the mumerous spertators of the exnmples of Nero and Commodus.-Gibbos's Rome, ch. 27.
1008. COMPLAINTS, Disregarded. Billeting Act of Pirliament. a.D. 1766 . Sumuel Adams called across the continent to the putriot most like himself, Christopher Gadslen of South Carolina. "Tell me, sir," said he of the Billeting Act, " whether this is not taxing the colonies as effectually as the Stamp Act? And if so, either we have complained without reason, or we

I(M)d. COMPLIMENT, False. Lodrrt Jinros. |Burns sumpathikid with the Frivinh Repulill. 'sums durlige the war betworn binglami mad France: 'The puet, when lan his ripse, lind fin leftor. in wrome to usoht the riak of rith.

1010. COMPLIMENT, Graceful. \|'illi,"m of his tlight, W'llinm canme to lamdons. 'I'lo law. yors paid their hommer, hemed by Maymard. who, nt ntury yemes of mge, was bis nleit mail the prlmere, "youmani have sarviverl nll the law-

 (ch. 11.
1011. COMPLIMENT mlappropriated. film.
 rembly colehandel for his virtuc and trentmens of mbit, wrut to mere Antloels whan lonaney was lask. Whan her пproncland therlty lar saw a White, and on the way a froop of yomat mand rangere on ome si to, mide of boys oni the other. "lyis gava ther philosophor pain, lor he thought it acomplinment istemaled him, whind he did not want. Ilowevar, ho ordered his friomds lo allght mad walk with hime. As soman they were memt emongh for bespoken with, the mastor of the seremonles, with thewn on his heme and astult of olllere in his hond, came up and naked them where they had left Dometrins, mad whon he mirht be experted. ('ato's commations lamentert. bus (bto sald omly, " Abas! poor city," mal wo [Missed on. - l'a'rinis's.

 ITe late, from the irrinability of his constiantion, at all times an Impablence and bury whon ho chaner real or wrotr. A certaln appehtasion, arising fom movelly, made him writo lise firs that 1 romble with may othat componiti is ; and hat, with rapid cxations, -Joswedit a Jomsson, j. 14.

101B. CCMPOSITION, Labor of. Wimerkirorth.
 it is, hut charing the last three yeurs I have never bum a pen in my hand for tive minutes before my whole frame becomesu hunille of un: asimess; " perspirution starts out all over me, amel my chest is oppressed in $1 t$ mammer which 1 cambot deseribe."-Mren's Wombswontur, cli. 1.
101.1. COMPOSITION, Method in, ,Tohen Mittore. Bed, with its warmils and recumbent posture, he foumd favorable to composition. At other times he would compose or prune his verses as he walked in the garilen, and then, eoming in, dictate. Ilis verse wasnot at the coms-
 "Wake the whold night, trylng lat umblate to makre it wingle lins. It ollore llame limes tlowed

 tholl. If wis the mpring whioh rimatial to $\boldsymbol{I} \|$. vemary to complositlon. W'hat lec comprised at 1013. COMPOSITION, Swlft. Hintrevey Diorla.

 If that is mot extrongorre writiog, it is ditherili to suly what extrompore wrting is. Ihat in trulh there is no eveforner that why one of tho movely power. Seott's mothond of componition was al live work, the rate of progress mermes to have bern pretty evon, lependiag masela more on the absemere of disturhing ragngements than on aty his brightent thas : but morning or veraing, in combtry or in town, will or lll, writhge with his

 'romp in the sobmach, siont Nimn awny nt his hmarimilio well almost as vevenly as a silkworm

 ascrilad to eomparative care or lasta. - Ilét 'ron's Niotre wly.
1016. COMPOSITION and Toll, hohert Burns.
 only fwo rooms, it lat and in ber, as they wero conlied in Sicothuml. Over theser, renclaed by a Irap stair, is a small qurret, in which lobbert innd his brotlur uncd to sleep. 'Thither, when he had returned from his day's work, the poet used in retire, and seat himself int $n$ smmil deai-tuble. lighted lyy in murow sky-light in the roof, fi" transeribe the verses which he had romposed in the flelds. Ilis limorite thme for composition was at the plongh. -inambis lBinss, ifh. 1 .
1017. COMPROMISE, Fallure of, Mis\%otri.
 las brongrat before the senate . . . a proposition to organize the territorice of Linnsas mad Nebrnskit . . . providing that the prople of the two territorias, in forming therir constituions, whonld elrride for themestres whether the new Sintes shombl be free or slave-lablinger. This was a virtinal repeal of the Missomri Compromise, for both tho new turritories lay north of the parmble of thintysix degrees and thirty minutes. Thus by a sinshle stroke the ohd aettlement of the Slavery question was to be andone. From January till May Mr. Donghas report, known as the Kinnsas and Nebraska bill, wasdehated in Conerress. All tho bitter sectional antagonisms of the past werr aronsed in full forre. [It was passed und signed in Mny by tine President.]-lindrarn's L̇. S., ch. 60.

101 4 . COMPROMISE, Quallioatlons for. Thom duced tho Anglíun ('hureh was 'J'loman ('ran.

 mently theml him to net am a merlintor. Sulatly null it lakewarm l'rieml. lio wan in every way gumblial lo arrange tho tarma of the romition lulworss the religfons ame worlily amomios of

IOIf. COMPROMISE rejected, Arintintim thi

 mand of all lireroce, if lhey would desert the fal mal clermal ammity. So murli dial he here wienk the melise of his 'onintrymen, that asingle eilizen laviag moved la the piablice aswembly that the I'ervinn doputions monld lotallowed lorexplain their propmasa, was instantly aloned to denth. -

1020. COMPROMISE, Settlement by, Nitrir!.
 motlon [incomgress| that hemerfontlind forever mavery slanalal be exdaded from all that jurt of the Lonlainina rexilon-Masoitidexcepted-lyhig north of the prombled of thinty-six slegrees nuid thirty minntes. Surle was the celobrated Missourl Compromise, one of the most importunt nets of Aniorionn leghelution-a mensure chiotly sipported by the genlus and carriad throuph Congress by the persistent efforts of Itenry Clay. ...By this compromine the mitvery nithation

1021. COMPROMISE on Blavery. fécirial Government. 'The 'ompromines on the Slavery gucstion, inserted In the Constitntion, werenmong the exsential comblitions tipon whirh the Federal Govermment was organizal. If the Africonslave trale land wot beron permitted to contime for twenty yours-if it had bot been conceded that tharee difins of the slaves should be comoted in the apportiomment of represputatives in Congress -if it had tot been ngreed that fugitives from their service should te returned to their owners, the Thirternstates would not have berenalse, in TWENTY Y binlis in Contallisk, p. I.
1022. COMPROMISE, Temporizing. Ommibus Bill. Iloury Clay uppeared as pencomaker. On the oth of May he bromphe forward an $n$ compromise covering all the points in dispute [regarding slavery] the Omnibus Bill, of which the provisions werens follows: 1st, the admission of Cinliformia as a free State; 2 l , the formation of now Shates, not exceeding fomr in number, ont of the territory of Texas, suid Stutes to permit or exclude slavery as the poople should determine ; 3l, the or qanization of territorial governments for New Mexieo ind Ctals, without conformor, fors marrobloring the lather, the sum of

 of the elase imele for the District of ('ohsm-pelitiond gnliel. hat llae moral amvielions of very fow gromernl, indollnile, lut growing luatility to ala-

102:1. CONCEAJMENT guarded, Jifiom,t.

 luent, to divele the guilt of his blomi, und hatllo the inly resommere of Mabomat. XI the ile..

 watchidel it tho dour. hat they worre deredvad bys the thenre of $\mathrm{N} I$, whor reponed on the ind, unid was covered with lhe preen vestoment of the "postle. . . . Threr days Mahomet amil hiv com. gumbons were romeraliol las the cave ot 'Tlar, ut.
 the ehome of earh evening they reereford froms the son mad damghter of Almbeker n sureree supply Kioreisli explorod evory lumat ln tho melghborlumal of the dity : they urrival ul he ditrusere of the cavern, hat the providential dereit of a splder's wels und a pigeon's mest is supponed to ronvince then that the plaer was molitary nad inviolate. "We nre only two." salil the trembling Almbeker. "There is a inifol," repliced tho: prophot: "it is Goul Ilimself."-(inmosis MsHombis, p. :hi.
1024. CONCEALMENT, Unpleasant. J\& $/ \cdots+$ monel. Tho grent army of the crusulers was manihilated or elispersed; the primeipality of Amioch was loft withome it homb, by the surprise ame captivity of Bohemomd. . . . In hix distress Bohemond cmbrmed 14 magmanhmour resolution . . . ol moming the Wist agatast tho Byzantine Empira. . . Wis (n.larkation was clandestine; mad, if we may credit a fate of the Prineress Amer, ler paseed the hostilo sara closely 1025. CONCEIT, Changeless, F iurro. "What does ('usur say of my purms ?" ho wrote again. " lle tells me in ome of his letters that he has nevor rend butter (ireck. At one place le writes word. 'Trill me the truth, Wias it the matter whirli did mot please him, or the wivle 9 " "I O not lue almarl" "w adeded, with candid simplicity: "I vhall mot thank a lair the worse of myself." -Fuoddeis CiEsati, ch. 18.

1026. CONCEIT, Foolish, Tir.res. [His lridge of bonts across the strats of the Inrdanelles being destroyed ly the sen,] he commanded two pairs of chains to be thrown into the sea as if to shackle and confine it, and his men to give it three hunfred strokes of a whip, and thins aldressed it: " Thon troublesome and unhappy element, thus does they master cluastise there for having uffronted ham without remson." | IIe niso took the manugers' heads off.J-Romans, vol. 1, ch. 0 .
1027. CONCEIT, Literary. Thomas Prine. Thomus Puine . . . asserted that if he had the fower, he would destroy all the books in existence, which only propnagited error, and he would reconstruct a new system of idens and principles, with his own " Rights of Man" as its fommata-tion.-Kniant's Exa., vol. 7, ch. 11.
1028. CONCEIT, silly. Xerves. Having cat a camal through the momotain for his ships, he said: "Athos, thou proud and aspiring monntuin, that liftest up thy head unto the heavens, I mivise thee not to be so mudacions as to put rucks and stomes which cannot be cut in the way of my workmen If thon givest them that opposition, I will cut thee catirely down and throw thee headlong into the sea."-Roman, ch. 6, p. 250.
1029. CONCESSION, Dangerous. To Thibumes. The consuls assembled the people, and attempted to justify the semate; but being constantly interrupted by the tribmes, they conld not make themselves be heard. They urged, that the trihuncs having only the liberty of opposing, ought to be silent till in resolution was fermed. The tribunes, on the other hamd, contended that they lind the same privileges in an assembly of the people that the consuls had in a meeting of the Senate. The dispute was ruming high, when one of the comsuls rashly said, that if the tribunes had convoked the assembiy, they, instead of interrupting them, would not even have taken the trouble of coming there; but that the consuls having called this assembly, they ought not to be interrupted This imprudent speech was an acknowledgment of a power in the tribunes to convoke the public assemblies-a power which they themselves had never dreamt of. It may be believed that they were not remiss in laying hold of the concession. They took the whole people to witness what had beensaid by the consuls, aud an assembly of the people was summoned lyy the tribunes to meet the next day.'Tytleis's Mist., Book 3, ch. 4.
1030. conciliation by Favors. Populerity. [When Anne of Austria came to the regency of France, ] in her anxicty to conciliate all parties, she commenced by granting them almost whatever they demanded. The " Importmas," charmed by her condescension, imarined that they were henceforth to carry all hefore them; and the witty De Retz declared that for two or three months the whole French language was comprised in five little words-" the queen is so grod! !" These, however, were transient illi-sions.-Stunents' Funce, ch. 20, S 1.
1031. CONCILIATION, Policy of. Cerser. IIe wisheal to hand over his conquests to his successor not only subelued, but reconciled to subjection. He invited the chiefs of all the tribes to rome to him. St spoke to them of the future which lay open to them as members of a splendid Imperial State. He gave them magniticent presents. Ife latid no impositions either on the leaders or their people, and they went to their homes personally devoted to their conquern:, contented with their condition, and resolve t $t$ maintain the peace which was now estabiished a unique experionce in polition history. The Norman conguests of Eingland alone in the least resemble it.-Fimede's Ciwsir, ch. 19.
1032. CONCILIATION vs. Threatening. $C_{1}$ psur: [Casar land crosseal the lRaliteon, and was mareling toward Rome.] l'ompery was now sensible of his weakness The voice of the public openly expressed an impatient desire for the arrival of Cessar, who, on lis part, was rapidly advancing to the gatess of Rome, when Pompey quitted the city, followed by the consuls und the greater part of the semators. Unable to collect in sullcient force in laty, he passed over into Epirus. . . thence he trusited that he would be supplied both with troops and treasure. Before sailing from Brundisium, he lad declared that he would treat all those as enemies who did not follow him. Chesir, with more wisdom, dechared that he would esteem all those his friends who did not arm against him.-Tyrcheris IList, Book 4, ch. 2.
1033. CONDENSATION, Literary. Ciesar. Chesar turned his arms uganst Pharnaces, the son of M:thridates, who had seia ed the kingrom of Pontus, and meditated, after hin father's exmomple, to strip the Romans of their Asiatic possessions. This war he very speedily terminated, intimating its issue to his friearls at Rome in three words, Veni, vidi, vici, "I came, I saw, I conquered."-TxTheis's Ilist., Book 4, ch. 2 .
103.4. $\qquad$ Virgil. Ile bestowed the greatest labor in polishing his writings, his habit being to pour forth a vast quantity of verses in the morning, which he reduced to a small number by continual elaboration, after the man-ner-as lie suid-of a bear licking her cubs into shape.-LIDDELh's Rome, ch. 71, § 16.
1035. CONDOLENCE unappreciated, In Pe$k i n$. [At a bancuret given by the prince regent, he noticed General Grant's son.] He then asked if he was married and had chiblren. Being told he lad one, a danghter, he replied, "What a pity !" In China female chikren do not count in the sum of human happiness, and when the prince expressed his regret at the existence of the general's granddaughter, he was saying the most polite thing he knew.-Genemal Ghan's's Travels, p. 411.
1036. CONDUCT, Absurd. Sumucl Johenson. A phrsician being mentioned who had lost his practice because his whimsically changing his religion had made people distrustful of him, I naintained that this was mureasonable, as religion is unconnected with medical skill. Jounson : "Sir, it is not unreasomable: for when people see a man ahsurd in what they understand, they nay conclutle the same of him in what they do not understand. If a iohysician were to take to eating of horseflesh, nobody would employ him ; though one may eat horseflesh, and be a very skifful physician. If a man were educated in an absurd religion, his continning to confess it wonld not hirt him, thougl his changing to it would."-Boswell's Jonnson, p. 284.
1037. CONDUCT, Contradictory. Stcele. He hod two wives, whom he loved dearly and treated badly. IIe hired grand houses, and bought fine horses for which he could never pay. He was often religions, but more often drunk.

As a man of letters, other men of letters who followed him, such as Thackeray, conld not be very proud of him. But everybody oved him; nud he seems to have been the inventor of that flying literature which, with many chunges in form und maner, has done so math for the amusement and editiontion of reaters ever since his time.-Tmoldore's Timekermy, w. 7.
1038. CONDUCT, Dissolute. A Sigu. A sure sign of corruption is to be found in the dissolute mamars which were discovered mang the women. There were in Romenad matay lialian towns seeret societies, ia which young men mat women were dediented to Bachans; and under the cloak of religious ceremony cuery kiand of license and debabchery was practised. - LadDelli's Rome, ch. 42, 音 7 .

10:39. CONDUCT, Scandalous. In high $I$ iffe. *Vhen one of the waters at Arthurs ('hub was committed oa a charge of felony [George sidwy said, with as mucla trath as wit], What a horvid idea he will give of us to the people in Newgate ! -Knight's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 6.
1040. CONFESSIONAL, Secrets of the. (Fill ponoder Plot. II mry Garret, one of the Jessits who where concerned in the Gumpowder Plot, obtaned his knowledge of it at the confessional, and on trial mantained " that he land acted upon a conscientions persmasion that he was hound to disclose nothing that be had heard in sacramental confession." He was executed.-Kinigut's Eng., vol. 3, cl. 21.
1041. CONFIDENCE, Compliment of. Cipsitr. [His troops were intimidated by exaggerated reports of the namber and tierceness of the Germans.] Confident in limself, Cessar hat the power, so iadispensable for a soldier, of iaspiring confideuce in others as soon as they eame to know what he was. Ile called his ollicers together. Ife summoned the centurions, and rebuked them sharply for guestioning his purposes. . . . Ronans never mutinied, save throngh the rapacity or incompetence of their general. Dis life was a witaess that he was not rapncions, und his victory over the Inelvetii that as yet he hadmade nomistake. He should order the advance on the next evening, and it would then be seen whether sense of dhaty or cowardice was the stronger. If others declined, Chesar said that he should go forward alone with the legion which he knew would follow him, the 10th, which was already his favorite. The speech was received with eathusiasm. The 10th thataked Cuesur for his compliment to them. The rest, otficers and men, declared their willingness to follow wherever he might leal them. Froude's Cashr, ch. 14 .
1042. CONFIDENCE erroneous. Domenterte's. [At the bathe of Watertoo, wher Napohon saw the English in position ... he exclamed, "At last I lave them; nine chances to ten are in my finvor!"-Knigit's Exg., vol. 8, ch. : 2 .
1013. CONFIDENCE, Excess of. Major André. [The British spy approached Turrytown.] when Puulding got up and presented a firelock at his brenst. . .. Full of the idea that he could meet none but the friends of the English, he answered,
"Gentlemen, I hope you belong to our party ?"
" Which party ?" asked Paukding. "Tine lower party," said André. Puulding answered that he did. Thea satd Audre: "I am a Briti-hothicer out on particular basiness, and I hope you will not detain me a minute." Upon this landing ordered hin to dismomt. Seeing his mistake, Andréshowed his piss from Arnold, saying," By your detaining me you will detain the general's business." . . [Dapers and phans were fomad in his storkings.] "This is a spy," said Pauldinge. Aadré offered 100 guineas-any sum of moniv if they would het himgo. "No," cried Pauiding, " not for 10,000 guincas.". . . Congress voled . . . : mamities-Bancrory's U. S., vol. 10, ch. 18.
10.1.t. CONFIDENCE, Perilous. Hirceld $I T$. He might have gathered a much more manerons army than that of William; mothis recent viotory had made him over-contalent, and he was irritated by the reports of the coantry being ravaged by the invalers. As som, thacrefore, as la had rollected a suall army in Londen, he mateded off toward the eonst, pressing forward as rapidly as his men cond traverse Surrey and Sussex, in the hope of taking the Normms umbwares, as he had recently, by a similar foreed marcla, sueceded in surprising the Norwerians. But he had aow to deal with in foe ermally hrave with Harnhd Lardrada, and far mone skilful and waty.-Dec. Batries, s. 29.
1045. CONFIDENCE, Power of, Robber: Margaret, Queen of England, when a fugitive in Lortaine, was plandered of her gold and jewels in a wild forest hy a hand of robbers. She made ber escape, leading her boy, then about eleven years old. In the depths of the wood they wore again encountered by a single rohber. Margatet, witla the decision of her character, threw herself num the protection of the outhaw. "This is the son of your king-to, vour cure I commit him. I ann your queen." The robber became her friend, and grarded her to a place of seemity.Knigirts Ena., vol. 1, ch. 10.
1046. CONFIDENCE, Premature. Ahroham Lincolu. [To Governor Morgan of New York: " 1 do not agree with those who, after the cmancipation proclamation,] say shavery is dead. We are like whalers who have heen on a lomg chase ; we have at last got the harpoon into the monster, but we must now look how we steer, or, with one 'flop', of his tail, he will yet sead uss all into cteruity."-Rarmonis's Lincolan, p. 75?.
10.17. CONFIDENCE, Superstitious. Otho. [When itho the (reat fimally subdued the Itungravians, his] eamp was blessed with the relies of saints and martyrs: and the Christian lero giedad on his side the sword of Constantine, aratiped the invimeible spear of Charlemagne, and waved the bamer of St. Manrice, the prefert of the Thebenn legion. But his timest contidence was phaced in the holy lance, whose point was fashioned of the nails of the eross, and which lis father had extorted from the Kiar of Burgrandy by the threats of war and the gift of a province.-Gibbon's Ronis, ch. 5.5 .
1048. CONFIDENCE tested. Alerrander. [A]exander the Great was taken sick white in Ciliciat in consequence of having bathed in the Cydnus, whose waters were very cold.] IIis physicians durst not give him any medicines, because they thought themselves not so certain of the cure as of the danger they must incur in the application ; for they fertred the Maredonimes, it they did tot sucieed, woutd susperet them of some had pratices. Philip, the Acmonnian, saw how desperate the king's case was, as well as the rest ; but, beside the rentidenere lee lam in his friendship, he thought it the highest insratitule, when his master was in so murlo danger, not to risk somethingr with him, in exhamsting all his art for his reliaf. Je bherefore persualing the king to wat with pationoe intil his medicine wis preparerl, or 10 take it when ready; so desirons was he of a speraly reeovery, in order to prosecone the war. In the mean time Parmenio sont him a letter from the ramp, advisiag him to heware of Philip, whom, la said, Diarius had prevailed upon, hy presents of infinite valur, and the promise of his ditughter in marriatre, to take him off by poisom. As soon as Nexamber lad read the letter, lae put it umder his pillow, without showing it to any of his friemols. The time upoointed being come, Philip. with the king's frients, ancred the chamber, latving the rop which rontaned the medicine in his hand. The king received it frecly, withont the least marks of sinspicion, and at the same time put the letter in his hands. It was a striking sitmation, and more interesting than any arone in a tranedy-the one ramling while the other was drinking. They looked ulon eneh oflar, lunt with avery different air. The king, with in open and membarrassed combtenance, expressed his requrd for Philip and the contidence he had in his honor ; Philip's looks showed his indignation at the enlommy. One, while he lifted ip his (eves mol hamels to beaven, protesting his firlelity ; another, while he threw himself down by the bedside, ent rating his master to be of good comrage and trast to his care. The mediefine, indeed, was so strong, and overpowered his spirits in such a namner, that at first he was sperechless, and discovered scarce any sign of sense or life. But afterward he wis soon redieved by this faithful physician, and recovered so well that he was ahle to show himself to the Macedonitns, whose distress did not abate antil he came personally before them. Plutaiken's "Alexander."
10.19. CONFISCATION, Avaricious. Mfarimin. [The Emperor was atyrant. Jis avarice wasp stimulated ly the insatiate desires of the soldiers, at length nitacked the public property. Every cily of the empire wis possessed of in independent revenur, destined to purchase corn for the multitucle, and to supply the expenses of the games and entertainments. IBy a single act of authority the whole mass of wealth was at one contisated for the use of the Imperint treasury. The tomples were stripped of their most vahable offarings of golal and silver, aud the statues of gools, heroes, and emperors were melted down and coined into money. These impions orders conld not be executed without tumults and massacres, as in many places the people chose rather to die in the defence of their altars than to behold, in the midst of peace, their cities exposed to the rapine and cruclty of war. -Gibnon's Rome, ch. 7.
1050. CONFISCATION, Religious. Alfrmse d'Albuquerque. [Having sublued for his king two of the great peninsulas of Southern Asia, and meditating the diverting of the river Nile from its ronrse so as to lenve Egypt a lesert, ] he diad in the olor of sanctity, committing his sonl to Gool and lis son to the king. The last days of his life were spent in hearing read his favorite pmssares of the New $P$ estament, durinar which le held in lis hamds and claspery to his heart a small rrucitix. IVis last words showed, not morely that his conseridere areplitted him for what le liad done ngainst the prople of India, but that he regardea himself as an riminent soldier of the cross, as well as a faithful servant of hinking. Nay, more; his concluet toward the Indians had bever oceurred to him as a conse of conscionce at all, so commpety was it taken for granted that no perple rexerpt Christians hat any rights. The earth wis the Iord's and the fullmess thereof; and did it not therefore belong to the poper. and to (hristian kings. who ware the Iord's vicar, amel viergerents ? - ('resoredia of Bioni, p. 315.
10.). CONFLAGRATION, Defensive. ('rlmmbia. Assoon as it became cerrain that Colmombia mast fall into the hamds of the Ferlerals, Geberal IIardee, the commandant of Charleston, determined to abmadon that rity also; . . . gmarts were detailed to destroy all the wirehonses, stores of cotion, and depots of supplies at charleston. The torel was applied, the flame; rage", "mel consternation spread thronghout the .is. 'n: great depot of the Northwestern R asiou:, where a large quantity of powder was stored, canght fire. blew ul with terrific violence, and buried two hondred people in its ruins. Not umtil four squares in the best part of the rity were lad in nshes was the ronthagration ehecked. - RidePATH's U. S., ch. 66.
1052. CONFLAGRATION, Destructive. Boston. A few days after the Presidential election [of 18i2] the city of Boston was visited ly a contligration only sceond in its ravages to that of Chicago, in the previous year. On the evening of the 9 th of November a fire broke ont on the corner of Kingston mind Summer streets, spread to the north-eist, and continued, with almost umabated fury, until the morning of the 1lth. The best portion of the city, embracing some of the finest hocks in the United States, was laid in ashes. The burnt district covered an aren of sixty-fis aeres. Eight humdred buildings, property to it value of $$ 80,000,000$, and fifteen lives were ${ }^{1} 0$ by the conthigration.-liombin's U. S., ch. is.
1058.

Chicugo. The year 1871 is noted in American history for the burning of Chirago. On ithe evening of the 8th of October a tire broke out in 1)e Koven Street, and was diven by a high wind into the dumber-yards and wooden houses of the neighborhood. The flames leaved the south manch of the Chicago River, and spread with great ripidity through the husiness part of the city. All dity long the delage of tire rolled on, moross the main channel of the river, and swept into a blackened ruin the whole district between the north branch and the lake as far northward as Lincoln Park. The area burnt over was two thousand one hundred acres, or three and one third square niles. Nearly t vo hundred lives were lost in the conflagration, and the properly destroyed amounted to about $$ 200,000,000$. No such terrible devastation had been. witnessed since the burning of Moscow in 1819. In the extent of the distret burned over, the Chicagothre stands thest ; in the amomet of property destroyed, sceond; and in the suffering occasioned, third among the greas eonthgrations of the world.-Rnerimis U. S., ch. 68.
 ad for nearly two miles it agth and one in hreadh, the flames continuing three days mad three nights. The houses were mostly covered with thatehed straw roofs: the lad from the burning churches ran down the strects in stremms. The tire was checked in its proress hy blowing up lonises. Not more than right lives were lost. Two humded thonsand people of all rimke and dearees were made homeless. Thirtern thousand and two hundered dwellings were burned, ulso cighty-mine charehes, besides many publie structures, hospitals, schools, lihraries, and a vast momber of stately reditions. Total restimated loss, É, 335, 000. - Kiximit's Exa., vol. 4, ch. 17.
1055. - Moseon. A.b. 1810. The astounding intelligence was brought to Napoleon that the city was itterly deserted. A few miserable creatures, who had been released from the prisons to engage in the congenial emplowment of setting tire to the city as soon as the French should have taken possession, were found in the streets. . . Rumors of the intended contharation reached his curs. . . . More than a hundred thousand of the wretched inhabitants, driven by the soldiery from the city, parents and children, perished of cold and starvation in the woods.Abboty's Napobieon B., vol. 2, ch. 13.
1056. - - Moseon. The crown macerzines, with vast stores of wine and spirits, were in a blaze. Not a fire-engine nor a bucket could be procured. They had ail been carried off. Day after day the astonished soldiers saw the ranopy of smoke and thame spreading over the city of it thousand domes and minarets. . . . The conflagration went on till, of 40,000 houses in stone, only 200 escaped ; of 8000 in wood, 540 only were standing; of 1600 churches, 800 were consumed. . . A furious wind corried showers of sparks far und near. . . . Only one tenth of the city was left unconsumed. - Fixiame's Exa., vol. 7, ch. 30, 1. 5.5.
1057. - - Nem York. On the 16th of December, 183.), it fire broke out in the lower part of New York City and laid thirly acres of buidengs in ashes. Five hundred abil twentynine houses and property valued at $$ 18,000,000$ were consumed.-Ridiatin's U. S., ch. 54.
1058. - Rome. Whether Nero was guilty of this mparalleled outruge on the lives and fortunes of his subjects or not, certain it is that on July 19th, A.D. 64, in the tenth year of his reign, a fire broke ont in shops full of inthmmable materials which lined the valley between the Patatine and Caelian hills. For six days and seven nights it rolled in streams of resistless thame over the greater pari of the city. licking up the palaces and temples of the gods which covered the low hills, and raging throngh whole streets of the wretehed wooten tenements in which dwelt myriads of the poorer inhabitants who crowded the lower regions of Rome. When its course had been checked by the voluntary destruction of a vast mass of buildings which lay in its path, it broke out a second time, and raged for three dhys longer in the less crowded guntars of the city, where its spread was even more fatal to public buildings mat the meient shrines of the gods. Never since the Gmuls burnt Rome hat so dendly a culamity fillen on the allicted city. Of its fourteen districto, four nlone esconed motonehed; three were completely haid in ashess; in the seven others were to be secm the wreeksof muny buiklings, seathed and gutted by the thames. The disaster to the city was historically irreparahle. . . The sense of permane ont loss was overwhelmed at trst hy the immediate confusion and ngony of the serenc. Amid the sheets of dame that roared on every side moder the dense comopy of smoke, the shricks of territied women and the: wail of infants and chideren wre larard above the arash of falling houses. The incendiary tires sermed to be bursting forth in so many directions that men stood staring in dumb stupeffection at the destruction of their property, or rushed hither and thither in helpless amazement. The lanes and alleys were bloeked up with tur concomse of struggling fugitives. Many were suflocated by smoke of trampled down in the press. Many others were burnt to death in their own hurning houses, some of whom proposicly thung themselves into the flames in the depth of their despair. . . . When they had eseaped with bare life, a vast multitude of homeless, shivering, lumgry human beings, many of them bereaved of their nemrest and dearest relations, . . . fomad themselves huddled together, . . one vast brotherbood of hopeless wretedidurs.-Fasban's Eablay Dars, p. 31.
1059. CONFLAGRATION in War. (iertherge. In a strong assault on one of the gites, he broke it down, and entering with a large force penetrated to the citadel, which sustained a siege of severnl days, while the Romans were in possession of the town. At length it was surrendered. Seipio, unwilling to destroy this proud and splendid capital, sent to Rome for further orders. But these contained no merey for Carthage. The city was set fire to in many different quarters. Pillage, earnage, and desolation ensued. The contharation lasted for seveutern days. At the recital of a scene of this kind, it is impossible to restrain our indignation, und not to execrate that barbarous policy which preseribes a conduct so contrary to every worthy feding of the human mind. Thus ended the ill-fited Carthage, in the 607th year from the building of Rome, and the 146th hefore the Christimem. -Tytheif's Hist., Book 3, ch. 9
1060. CONL LICT, Bootless. British at Bunker. IFill. The number of the killed and wounded in [the British army under Gaige] . . . was . . . at least $1004, \ldots$ a third of those engaged.

The oldest soldiers never saw the like. The battle of Quebee, which won half a continent, did not cost the lives of so many officers as the hattle of Bunker Hill, which grained nothing but a place of encampment.-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 40.
1061. CONFLICT, Land of. Kentucky. Kentueky hais been denominated "the Jirk and Bloody Ground" of the savage aborigines. It never was the habitation of any bation or tribe of Indians; but from the period of the carliest aboriginal traditions to the appearance of the white man on its soil, Kentucky was the field of deady contlict bretwen the northern and sonthern wirriors of the forest. . . . When penetrated by the bold adventurous white men of Carolima mad Virginia, who constitued the third pary for dominion, its tithe of the "Dark and Bloody Ground" wascontinned. . . . After the der lamation of American Jude meadence, (ireat Britain formed alliance with the Indian snvagers. . . the territory of Kentacky herane still more emphat ionlly the "Intrk mal Bloody Grouml." [Like. wise during the Rehellion.]-Pobando's Finst Years of The Wall, ch. 7, p. 186.
1082. CONFLICT, Rule of. W'illiam of Orange. [James Il..] the king, was enger to fight, and it was obviously his interest to (fo so. Every hour took away something from his own strength, and added something to the strength of his enemies. It was most important, too, that his troops should be booded. A great batite, however it might terminate, could not but injure the prince': popaharity. All this Willian perfectly understood, nad detarmined to avoid an action as long ats possible. It is satid that, when Schomberer wastold that the enomy were ad vancing und were determined to tight, he answered with the composure of a tactician rontident in his skill, "That will he just as we may ehoose."-Macaulay's Exis., cli. 9.

1063, CONFLICT, Self-sustaining. Spoils. [The Confederates invaded Pemsylvania.] General Lee camot expect to keep his commmications open to the rear ; and, as the staff-otlleers say, "In every battle we fight, we must capture as much ammunition as we use."- Pollahid's siecond Year of the War, p. 338.

106!. CONFLICT, Unnatural. Willitm $I$., the Nortman. He was a prince to whom nature had denied the requisites of making himself beloved, and who, therefore, made it his first object to render himself feared. Even the Normans, instigated probably hy the Freneh, endenvored to withdraw themselves from his yoke. To establish order in that country, he carried over an army of Englishmen; thas, by a capricious vicissitude of fortune, we see the Normans brought over for the conquest of the English, and the English sent back to conquer the Normins. With these troops he reducel the rebels to submission, and returned to England to be again embroiled in conspiracies and rebellion. The last and severest of his tronbles arose from his own children. Itis eldest son, Robert, hatd been promised by his father the sovereignty of Mane, a province of France, which had submitted to William; he ehamed the performance in his father's lifetime, who contemptuously told him he thought it was time enough to throw off his elothes when he went to bed. Jobert, who was of a most violent temper; instantly withdrew to Normandy, when in a short time he engagen all the young nobility to espouse his quarrel. Brittany, Anjon, and Hane likewise took part against William, who brought over another army of the English to subdue the rebeltion. The father and son met in fight, and being elad in armor did not know eacholier, till Robert, having wounded his father and thrown him from his horse, his voice (calling ont for assistance) (liseovered him to his antagonist. Stung with consciousness of the crime, Robert fell at lis feet, and in the most summissive manner entreated his forgiveness. The indignation of Will-ham was not to be appased ; he gave his son his malediction insteal of his pardon. - TY'teER's Ilistr., Book 6, ch. 8.
1065. CONFLICT, Unprepared for. (ircekis. [Jemosthemes urged immediate and open war agatust the molitions lhilip.] Nome of the best patriots of Athens, the virtuons lhocion, for example, propensa an opposite counsel. They saw that the martial spirit of the republic was extinet, the timares ol the state wore at the lowest ebb, and the mamers of the people irretricubly corrupted. There was assuredly too much solidity in the argument of Phocion which he opposed to the "Philippica" of Demosthenes: "I will recommend to you. O Athenians, to go to war, when I find you capable of supporting a war; when I see the youth of the Republic animated with cournge, yet submissive and obedient; the rieh Cherffully contributing to the necessities of the State: and the oraters mo longer chenting and pilharing the public."-T'YThek's IIs'r., Book 2 , ch. 3.

106B. CONGREGATIONS, Large. Girenap in Withes. [Thirty-t wo thomsiml persons present to hear John Weskey preach al (iwemap, in its magnificent maral amphithoatre.]-STevens' MeTuobism, vol. 2, chl. 6.
1067. CONQUERED vs. Concord. Loutern. A.D. 1801. [At hast Engramd and Frome made a treaty of peace.] The house of M. Otto, the Frencl minister [int Iondon], was hrilliantly illuminated.

- The word concorel blazed in letters of light. The sailors, not very faniliur with the spellingbook, exclamed, "Conquered! not so by a great deal. That will not do." Excitement and dissatisfaction rupidly spread. Violence was threatened! .
attempts at exphanation were utterly useless. The offensive word was removed, and amity substituted. The suilors, fully satisfied with the amende honorable, gave three checrs.-Anbott's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 22.

1068, CONQUERED, The Conqueror. Franeirco Pizarro. [A single battle made him master of Peru.] Ife betruyed and murdered the captive Inca. He quarrelled with Amagro over the division of the spoils, and finished by putting him to death. He accumulated a greater amount of treasure than was ever possessed, before or since, by an individual. Spoiled ly prosperity without parallel, he was cruel to the Peruvians, capricious and tyrannieal to the Spaniards, amd, at length, it relel against his king. A conspiracy, headed by the son of the murdered Almagro, was formed ugainst him. On a Sunday alternoon, in 1541, at the hour when the tyant was aceustomed to sleep, a band of the confederates hurst into his palace, killed or dispersed his servants, and atbacked him. Armed only with a sword and buekler, le defended himself with the most desperate courage. Four of his assailants he slew; five more he wounded; and still he fought on. At last one of the band engaged him and drew his attention from the rest; and while Pizarro dealt a furions hlow at his chief assaidant, the others succeeded in giving him a mortal wound. Ile fell at the feet of an image of Christ, which, it is said, he kissed at the moment of his death. So perished, in his sixty-eighth year, the man who was, perhaps, the most resolute of all the sons of men. In mere strengith of purpose it is questionable if his equal ever lived; but, though this

Is one of the most valunble of qualities, and ue complishes very great things, a man most have much nore in order to thrn to good necount the prizes won. Pizarro was little more than a mag. nificently-gifted brute.-CYCLoredid of Bor:., 1. 327.
1040. CONQUERORS by Resolution, Of Citlifornia. [In 1846] Colonel John C. Fremont . determined to strike a blow for his country; he nrged the people of Cinlifornia, many of whom were Americans, to dechare their iudependence. The hardy fronticrsmen of the Suerimento villey flocked to his standard; and a campaigu was nt once begran to overthrow the Mexienn authority. - An American fleet had eaptured the town of Monterey . . . and San Diego. . . . Before the end of summer the whole of the vast province was sublued . . . the authority of the United States was eompletely established. A comintry large enough for an empire lad been conquered by a handfal of resolute men. - Ratr1.ATu's U. S., ch. 57.
1070. CONQUEST by Destruction. Alfonse a' ilbuquerque. llaving thas reduced the shores and cities of two of the great peninsulas of Southern Asin, he next madertook the eonepuest of all the vast recrions waterer: loy the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf. He bonbarded the eities eommanding those waters, with varying suecess. Meditating the conduest of Earypt, he conceived ta scheme for diverting the river Nile from its course, so as to leave Egypt a desert, and destroy its whole population.-CyClonedin of Biog., 1. 315.
1071. CONQUESTS, Finds of, $P$ ? $/ \mu_{1 / \prime}$ [The Tarentines, in war with the Rommass.] sought aid from Pyrrhus, the King of Epirus, and iuvited lim, by a flattering deputation, to be the deliverer of Italy from its threntened yoke of servitude. Pyrrlas was one of the ablest generals of his age ; but lie jossessed a restless spirit, aud a precipitancy in forming projects of military ensterprise, without a due attention to means, or a deliberate estimate of consefuences. Cineas, his chief minister, to whom he imparted his design of invading Italy, and mentioned, with great cousfidence, a perfect assumance of its success, calmly asked him whut he proposed after that design was accomplished. "We shall next," said Pyrrhus, " make ourselves masters of Sicily, which, considering the distructed state of that ishind, will bea very easy enterprise." "And w'at next do you intend ?" said Cineas. "We shall then," replied Pyrrlaus, " mass over" into Africa. Do you imagine Carthage is capable of holding out agatust our arms?" "And supposing Curthage taken,"ssid Cineas, " what follows "" "Then," said Pyrrlas, " we return with all our force, and pour down upon Macedonianand Greece." "And when all is confurered," replied Cineas, "what is then to be done ?" "Why, then, to be sure," said Pyrrhas, "we have nothing to do but to enjoy our bottle, and take ou: amusement." "Aud what," said Cineas, "prevents you from enjoying your bottle now, and taking your amusement?" This dialogue, which is given by Plutarch, with great nailveté, presents us with a just clelineation of the real views and sentiments of the greater part of those mighty eonquerors who have disturbed the peace of the universe. -Tyrler's Hist., Book 3, ch. T.

107\%. CONQUEST, Fruitless. Anricht Persians. In those embly periods [were] a people remarkable for their temperance und the virtuons simplicity of thelr manners. Ileroflotns records nu excellent speech of one Sundunis, a Lydian, who, when his sovercign Crasus projected the invasion of l'ersia, thus strongly pointed ont to him the folly of his enterprise: "What will you gain," suid lue, "loy waging war with such men us the Persinns ? Their clothlng is skius, their food widd fruits, and their drink wnter. If you ure confuered, you lose a cultivated counstry ; if you concuer them, what can you take from them? -a lauren region. For my part, I thank the gods that the Persians lave not yet formed the design of invaling the Lydlans."TYTLEル's IIINT., J3ook 1, ch. I1.
1078. CONQUEST impossible. Dtrius. Amli. thons of extensive conguest, he now medituted is war against the Seythians, on the absurd pretext that they had raviged a part of $A$ sia about one limadred and thinty years before. At the head of nu urmy of 700,000 men, he sot out from siusa, lais capitad, to wage war against a mation whom it was impossible to eonguer.

The sole business of the $S$ 'y thians whs to retrent, driving their cattle before them, nut filling up the wells in their ronte. The Persimas, after long und excessive marehes, never got more than a distant sight of the enemy, while they were perishing by thousunds in a rugged and barren country. At length Darius thought it his wisest measure to retrent, having lost the greatest part of his army, and leaving behind him the sick nud aged at the merey of the barbatians. - Trumen's Hist., Book 1, ch. 11.
1074. CONQUEST necessary. Cortez. Besides repressing the mutiny with a strong hand, he resolved to muke all turning lmek impossible. He caused all his vessels, except the smallest, to be seuttled and sunk ; from that hour there was no sufcty exeept in the total conquest of the country. Leaving at Vern Cruz a small gat rison, le began his immortal march Angust 16, 1519 [for the city of Mexico], with the following forces: 400 foot soldiers, 1500 lsorsemen, 1300 Indian warriors, 1000 Indians to draw the cannons and carry the baggage, and seven pieces of artillery. Cycloiedia of Biog., j. 321.

10Y5. CONQUEST, Period of. Reign of Eilcorad $I I I$. The grentest victories recorded in the history of the Midalle Ages were gained at this time, against great ords, by the English armies. Victories indeed they were of which a nation may justly be proud. . . . Chundos encountered nu equal foe in Dn Gueselin; but France lade no infantry that dared to face the English bows and hills. A Frenelt king was brought prisoner to London. An English king was crowned at Paris. The banner of St. George was earried far beyoud the Pyrences and the Alps. On the south of the Ebro the English wou a great battle, which for a time decided the fate of Leon and Castile.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1.
1076. CONQUEST, Presumptuous. Three Men. These three men, the youngest of whom was tifty, conceived the project of conquering the powerful and wenlthy tribes that were supposed to inhabit the western consts of Sonth Anerien. They were to do this by their own resources, nsking nothing from the Governor of Pamama except his sunction of the enterprise. It was as though three men in New York shomld now undertake the conquest of the Japanese Limpire. Pimarro was to commond the first body of adventures; Almugro was to ralse, as soon as he could, a necond company, and join Pizarro on the comat; the priest [Fermmind de Laplues] was to remain at Danamato wateh over the interesta of the partnership. [Their sueress is well known.]-Cyelompida ob Bion., p. Bit.
1077. CONQUEST surrendered. Jirusilem. The Ioly Land was thas reovered by the Christians; and Godfrey of Bonillon ohtained the title of King of Jerusalem; but it wasonly a title, for a papal lemate arrived in the mean time, chaimed the dity as the property of God, and look possession of it as such. Geadfrey reserved the port of Joppri, and somo privileges in Jerusatem. Tytlemes IInT., Book 6, ril. 9.

107N. CONQUESTS of Peace. Imuixiama. [In -onsequence of the ambitions designs of Enarland and the necessities of Franer, then unathe io bold the torritory arainst the British navy,] the President [Mr. Jefferson] made the lirgest ronyuest ever peneefully arhieved, at a cost se small that the sum expended for the entire territory - loes not eqral the revenue whirh has since been collected on its soil in a single month, in time of great public peril. The combtry thus aequired forms to-day the states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missomri, Iowa, Kansas, Nehraska, Minnesota west of the Mississippi, Colorado north of the Arkansas, besides the Indian Territory and the Territories of Dakota, Wyoming. and Montama. Texas was nso incladed in the transfer. Blane's Twenty Years of Congremh, p. 8.
1079. CONSCIENCE, Abdication of: Pope Clement V. Гhilip [IV.] hedd a seeret interview with him, and offered to raise him to the papal throne on six conditions, which were at once accepted.

The sixth and last condition the king reserved to be hereafter specified in proper time and place, exacting an oath from Bertrand to fultil it on the first demand.-Students' France, ch. $4, \leqslant 18, p$. 186 .
1080. CONSCIENCE an Accuser. Murdeper. Benjamin Abbott was preaching in New Jersey with grent zeal against sin in its worst forms. In the midst of his discourse he exchamed: "For fught I know, there may be a murderer in this congregation!" Immediately a lusty man attempted to go out; but when he got to the door he bawled out, and stretched out both his arms, and ran backward, and cried out very bitterly, and said he was the murderer, for he had killed a man about fifteen years before.-Stevers' M. E. Cilurin, vol. 1, eh. 8.
1081. $\square$ Death-bed. Carlisle was expelled from the ministry . Simon an officer having found a missing pistol in his saddle-bags. IIe could not clear himself; his usefulness ended, his disgrite was overwhelming. The young man who owned the pistol was on his death-bed a few years after. $\Lambda$ n hour before death came] he cried out frantically, "I cannot die-I cannot until I revenl one thing. Mr. Carlisle never stole that pistol ; I myself put it in His saddle-bags." He then became calm, and so passed into eternity.-Stevens' M. E. Cilucif, vol. 3, ch. 3.
1002. CONSCIENCE authorized. Ry Jernita. [On the trin] of the conspirntors in the infamous Gunpowder llot it was shown that! Rook wood . . . had scruples nhout joluing in so extensive a scheme of sloughter, shying it was a mater of consciance to take away sor murh hood; hat Cuteshy silenced him by waying " it had been resolved on grood, nuthority that in conscience it might lee done." Dighy, who was only twentyfour years of age was evidendy a wak tool of the Jisuits. He cordially joined in the projCret from religions zent, as soom as he satisfied himself that the action had been uppowed by his spiritual advisers.-Lismat's Eiva., vol. 3, ch. 21.
1088. CONSCIENCE awakened. Ciertirright. [Peter Cart wright, the colehated frontier preach( $r$, was nwakened, in his sistorenth surar, after spending much of the night in danicing, at a wedding. He went home, not to slerep, but spent the remainder of the nirht on his kneres with his praying mother, and some time afterward was ©merci, vol. 4, ch. 9.
1084. - John bumyrn. I[e supposed he was siven over to mubeliat and wiskedness, and yot he relates, with tonching simplieity: "As to the art of simning, 1 was never more temder than now. I durst not take up a pin or astick, though but so big as a straw, for my conscience now was sore, mad would smart at every touch. I could not tell how to spenk my words for far I should misplace them." But the care with which he watehed his conduct availed him nothing. He was on a morass " that shook if he did but stir," and he was "there left both of God, mad Christ, and the Spirit, and of "tl good things." Behind him lay the faults of his chitdhood and youth, every one of which he believed to be recorded ngainst him. Within were his disolvedient inclintions, which he conreived to be the presence of the devil in his heart.-Fioude's Bunian, ch. 3.
1085. -- Buyyan. One Smalay morning when Bunyan wasnt church with his wife, a sermon was delivered on this sul,ject [Sab)bath mmusements]. It seemed t.) be expecially addressed to himself, and it much afferted him. IIe shook off the impression, and nfter dinner he went as usual to the green. Ite was on the point of striking at a ball when the thought rushed across his mind, Wilt thou leave thy sins and go to heaven, or have thy sins and go to hedl? Ife looked up. The reflection of his own emotion was before him in visible form. He imagined that he saw Christ Ilimself looking downat him from the sky. But he concluded that it was too late for him to repent. He was past pardon. IIe was sure to be damned, and he might as well be damned for many sins as for few. Nin, at all events, was pleasant, the only pleasint thing that he knew ; therefore he would take his fill of it. The sin was the game, and riothing lut the game. He continued to play, lat the Puritan sensitiveness hatd taken hold of him. An artificial offence had become a real offence when his conscience was wounded by it. Je was reckless and des-perate.-Froude's Bunyan, eh. 2.
1096. - - By Mother's Prayer. [Rev. IIenry Bochm was the traveling companion of Bishop Ashury, and for more than eighty years a Christim minister. He wis arrested, on retuaning home one evening, by hearing the familiar volew of his mother engaged la prayer. Ite snys:] "I listencol. Among other things, she priyed for her chiddren, and mentioned lienry, frer vomurest son. The mention of my mano broke my heart, ind meted me inte contrition. 'Teats rolled down my cheeks, mad I felt the importanee of complying with the command of Gool, : My son, rive me thine henre.' |He lived one hme dred years. J-Stravens' M. E.: Cucmen, vol. 3 , p. 42!.

10x7. -_ Bitrthiturie. In the emy part of $1 \pi$ on repented earthymakes alarmed the metropolis. . . while Charles Wesley was rising in the pulpit of the Fomadry [Chureh] to prench, at tlve o'elock in the morning, the enrth moved through all London and Westminster with in strong, jarring motion, abd a rimbling noise like distant thumder. The walls of the Foundry trembled; a reat agitation among the people followed ; but Wesley cried aloud to them. "Therefore will we not fear though the carth be moved, mad the hills be carried into the midst of the sen, for the Lord of lIosts is with us, the Ged of Jucob is our refnge." Multitudes flocked to the early Methodist service in deep nlarm. Throughout the whole night many of the alarmed people knocked at the Foundry door, entreating admittance, though "our poor people," writes Wesley, "were calm and quiet as at any other time." During one of these terrible nights Tower Mill, Moortields, and IIyde Park were filled with lumenting men, women, and children. Whitefield stood among them at Myde Park preaching at midnight. A deep moral impression followed these events.-S'tevens' Methodism, vol. 1, $p$. 308.
1088. - Rev. Williatn Gassanay. [Ife was ignorant in his early life concerning the way of sulvation. When he bermene awakened] he detested hinaself as a slmer. Passiug a stream he allowed his horse to drink, stying, "Foumay, you are not a simurr: but I am. I will not drink."-Sterens' M. E. Chencir, vol. 3, p. 394.
1089. - -. Joln Wexley. A young lawyer of bridiant talents and aristocratic relations was in the habit of meeting with lis gay nissociates at a coffee-honse in London. He was the wit of the compmys, and atone of their mectings, when Wesley was to preach in the neighborhood, his companions sent him to hear the itinerant apostle, in order to give them a mimicked suecimen of his preaching. Just as he entered the place of worship Wesley announced as his text, "I'repare to mat thy Giod!!" It struck the young man's conscience ; he listened with cmotion to the sermon, and thenceforward the career of his life was changed. On returning as a necessary courtesy to his company in the cof-fee-house. they asked him if he had "taken off the old Dlethodist." "No, gentlemen," was his reply, "but he has taken me off;" and he retired from their circle to return no more.-STevens' Methodism, vol. 1, p. $38 \%$.
1090. CONSCIENCE vi. Conscience. Intolerance. [During the contentions of sects in the reign of James II., Dryden says:] All men are engaged either on this side or that ; and though conscience is the common word given by both, yet if a writer fall among enemies, and cannot give the marks of their conseience, he is knocked down before the reasons of his owin are heard. - Kimutre Exa., vol. 4, ch. 20.
1001. CONBCIENCE oonquers Conquerors. William II. The death-led af William was it death-bed of repentmore. 1 bespoke, it ls related, of the rivers of blood he lad shed. He lamonted his barbarities la Emghal.-KNome's Entiland, vel. I, ch. 16, p. 2lx.
1002. CONSCIENCE, Defence of. Mrurtin Luther. Luther spoke in boll German nud Latin. After he had thished, the prineres held a short consultation. Then the imperinl representatlve reprome hed him for lavingspoken dispespertful!y, and for not havine answered the proposed questions. Dle repriloul luther's demund for countrerevidence, and andintaned that his hersies had been condemned hy the ('hureh and by its general councils. Whit was now demandeid of him was a phain and straightforwarl answer, whether he would or would not reemint. Thereupon Lather replied: "Sine your Imperinl Majexty have desired a direct answer, I shall give sucily an one asshall have nelther horns nor teeth - viz., except I le e"onvined with clear nad undoubted evidence of Holy seripture-for I belicve neither in the Pope nor in councils alone, since it is evilent they have often erred nad con-. tradicted themselves; and as my conscience is bound hy Ged's Word, I cannot and will not recant, becanse it is neither safe nor advisable to net contrary to consrience. lleve I sumd; I cannot do otherwise; God help me I Amen !"' . Lather was now huppy at heart. As soon as he returnel to als lodging-place, he lifted up both hunds and eried out, "I have dome it I I have done it !" And continuing he remarked: "If I had a thousand heads, I would lose them all rather than to recant." - IRein's Luthen, ch. 9, D. 89.
1008. CONSCIENCE, Education of. Ren. Johth Nerton. Providence was now kind to him ; he became captain of a slave-ship, mad made several voyages on the business of trade. That it was a wicked trade he seems to have hat no idea; he says he never knew sweeter or more freguent hours of divine commmion than on his last two voyages to Guinea. Afterward it ocenrred to him that though his employnent was genteel and profituble, it made him a sort of jader, unpleasautly conversant with both chans and shackles: and he besought Providence to fix him in a more humane calling. In answer to his prayer came a tit of apoplexy, which made it dangerous for him to go to sea again.-Smitis Cowrer, ch. 3.
109. CONSCIENCE, Erratic. Duke of York: (.fremes II.). Debauching a woman on promise of marriage, he next allowed her to be tradaced as having yiedded to frequent prostitution, and then married her; he was conseientions, but his, moral sense was as slow as his understanding. Banchore's U. S., ch. 17.
1095. CONSCIENCE explained. Ji ign of James II. [In Scothand the aati-Catholic feeling was strong.] The three privy counsellors who had lately returned from London took the lead in opposition to the royal will. Hamilton declared plainly that he could not do what was asked. He was a faithful and loyal subject ; but there, was a limit Imposed by conscience. "Conscience," said the chancellor-"conscience is a vague word, whifh slgnifles anything or notling." Tockhart, who sut in Purlinment as representative of the great county of Lanark, struck in: " If consclence be it word wilhout meaning, we wlll change it for anotiar plarase which, I iwore, means something. A'or conselence lot us put the fundanemtal laws of scothand."-N.ncactay's ENa., ch. 6 .

10D8. CONSCIENCE, A guilty. C'itreralla. CCuractilla, the son of Sorvins, was, with his Homber (ieta, chowen by the mrmy bo be joint emperors of Romer Diseord followerl, and tiota Whe nssassithater in the presence of fond by the: direction of his brether.] The erime went not unpmished. Neither hasimess uor pleasura nor thatery conk defond lamonlas from the stings of a gruity conseionce; und he confesserl, in the anguist of a tortured mind, that his dis. ordered francy often belodel the angry forms of his futher mad his lyother rising into life, is threatem and uploraid him. The consedousmess of his erime should lave indaced him to comvince mankind, by the virtues of his reign, that the bloody deed had leen the involuntary elfeet of fatal necessity. but the rejerntance of (amumatia only prompted him to remove from the world whatever combl remind him of his gruilt, or reeull the memory of his murdered brother. On his return from the semute to the phace, lise found his mother in the compuny of several moble matrons, wecping over the untimely fate of her younger son. The jombous emperor threntened them with fustant death ; the sentence was executed ugainst Fudilla, the last remaining danghter of the Emprore JLarcus; and even the afllieted Julia was obliged to silence her lamentations, to suppress her sighs, und to reccive the assassin with smiles of joy and npprobation. It was eomputed that, under the vague appellation of the friempls of Geta, ilbove twenty flomsamil nersons of both sexes suffered denth. [See No. $\dot{2} 39$.]-Ginuon's Rome, ch. 6.
1097. CONSCIENCE honored. Fing Willit!m Rufus. Two monks laving come one duy ... to buy an abbot's place, und having outrenched exch other in the snms they offered, the king said to a third monk who stood by, "What wilt thon give for the place?" "Not a penny," unswered the monk, " for it is ngrinst my conseience." "Then," replied the king, "thou of the three bost deservest it," and instantly gave it to him.
1088. CONSCIENCE, Imperfeot. Alfomse el' Ilbuquerque. [See Compuest by Destruction, No. 1070.] The historians of this conguest mention, as a proof of the magnanimity and elisinterestedness of Albuquerque, that he only took from Mirlacea, for his personnl use, the iron lions which marked the tomb of the royal fumily; nthough he carried away a large ship loaded deep with gold and silver, for the use of the king nnd the needs of the public service. Not a man in that age of the world appears to have questioned the right of a strong Christian to seize the gold of a weak heathen; nor did any one see anything wrong in the robbery of a heathen king's fnmily tomb. I am happy to inform the reader that the ship containing both the treasure and the iron lions went to the bottom of the sea in few days after leaving Malacca, - Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 315.

10D9. CONSCIENCE, Indinoreet. Marcellus. [On the duy of a publice festival Marecllis, a cenfurjon, throw uway his belt, his urms, and the ensigns of hls] olllec, und exclalmed, with a loud voleo, that lie would olsey none lmt Jesus Chrlst the eternal King, und thint he renounced forever loo nse of curmal weuphons, nad the service of an idobat roms master. The soldiers, as soom the they recovered from their instomblament, secured tha prison of Marecollas. Ile was exmmined in the rity of 'Thari hy the president of that part of Manritania; malus he was convieted by hles own eonfesslon, he was condemmed and lublemiled for the crime of dresertion.-Ghmon's lRomb: ch. 16.
1100. CONSCIENCE an Interproter. Sierilefe. Pyrrlus listemed to cevil coumsellors, and plandered the rich trefisury of the tomple of Proserpilue. 'Tho ships which were ronveying the plamer were wrecked, and Dyrmas, eon-srience-stricken, restored all that was saved. But the memory of the deed hamited him ; lie has recombed his lueliaf that this sacrileghous act was the cause of ull his fature misfortanes.-LadDELA'S ROME, Ch. 2t, p, D.46.
1101. CONSCIENCE, Liberty of. Rigger Hilliams. IIe was the tirst person inmodern Christendom to assert in its plonitude the doctrine of the liberty of consaience, the equility of opinions before the luw. . . . A moral principle las a mueh wider und nemrer inthence on hunum happiness ; nor con any discovery of truth be of uny more direct benctit to society than that which estublishes a perpetial religions peace, and sproids trmanuility throurh evary community nind every bosom. If Coperniens is held in perpetual reverence because on his denth-bed he published to the world that the sum is the centre of our system-if the nume of Kepler is preserved in the annals of hmmmen excellence for his sugnacity in detecting the laws of the planetary motion-if the genitus of Newton has been almost ulored for dissecting in ray of light, and weighing heavenly bodios as in a balance, let there be for the name of Roger Williamsat least some hamble place among those who have advanced mornl science, and made themselves the beneftetors of munkind.-Bancuofr's U. S., vol. 1 , ch. 9.
1102. - Crominell. [Cromwell strongly advocated liberty of conseience when it was a startling notion to most pulhic men. IIe was among the tirst of publie men to advoente it. He urged that] the civil mitgistrate hand nothing to do to determine of anything in matters of religion, by eonstraint or restraint. But every man might not only hold, w:at preach and do in matters of religion what he pleased.-Kniant's ENa., vol. 4, ch. 3.
1103. -_-. Cromurcll's Time. The Presbyterian mind of that day, which denanded not only the right to the expression of their own convictions, but ulso the repression of nll who followed not with them. Did not Milton say of them that " Presbyter was priest spelt large ?" Indeed, in that day there was a universal disposition to persecute and repress; it was not that persecution, in itself, was judged a crime, only when it assailed the order of particular opinion. Toleration was regarded by Episcopalian and Presbyterian as an abominable Erastianism, or latitudinarian and Laodicean half-heartedness; mad Oliver abone stood forth vimilenting liberty of consclence to all.-IOOn's C'BonWELi, ch. 15, 1. 195.
110.4. - Cromarell. It is thats we when be summoned tha Ilmase to methim fir the leninted Chamber: "Is there mot yot upon the spitits of men a strmage Itething? Nothiag wili satisfy them maless they ean press their llager inpon their lurethren's conscleneres, to pinch them there. 'J'o do this was no part of the colltest we lad whin tise common miversarys. And wherein consisted this more than in ohtnining that liberty from the tyramy of the hishops to all sprecies of l'rotestants to worship (iond areording to thedr own light and comsedeneos? For want of which many of omer brothren forsook their mative conatries to serek their lorend from strungers, imbl to live in howling widuruesses ; and for which ulso many that remanded here were imprisoned, and otherwisenlonsed and mande the scorm of the mation, 'Those that were sommi in the finth, how proper wns it for them to labor for liberty, for a just liberty, that mens might wot be trmaplednon for theif consciences! llad not they themselves hatrored but lately maler the weight of persecution? And was it tit for them to sit deary upon others? Is it fagemumas to nsk liberty, aminot give it "‘-Itoob's ChomWELL, ch. 15, 1. $19 \%$.
1105. CONSCIENCE perverted, The', Jisuits. In the books of ensuistry whieh hat been written by his brethren, and printed with theapprobation of his superiors, were to be found doeIrines consolatory to transgressors of every chass. Fhere the bankrupt was haght how he might, without sin, secrete his goods l'rom his ereditors. The servmit was taught how he might, without sin, run off with his master's plate. The pmaier was nssured that a Chrisitan man might innocently earn his living by carrying latters and messages between mirried women and their gatlants. The high-spirited mul punctilious genflemen of France were gratitied by a decision in favor of duelling. The Italians, acenstomed to darker and baser modes of vengennce, were glad to learn that they might, without any crime, shoot at their enemies from behind hedges. I'o deceit was given a license sutherient to destroy the whole value of hamman contructs nul of lusman testimony. In truth, if sociely continned to hold together, if lifeand property enjoyed any security, it was because common-senseand common lamanity restraned men from doing whit the Society of Jesus assured them they might with a sute conscience do. - Macactay's Eng., ch. 6 .
1106. ——. Mernando Cortez. IIis will contained one passage so curious, that I will conclude by copying it. After recommerading his heirs to treat the Indians with humanity, he proceeds thus: "It has been long a question whether we can, in good conscience, hold the Indians in slavery. This question not having vet been decided, I order my son, Martin, and nis heirs to spare no pains to arrive at a knowledge of the truth on this point, for it is a matter which interests deeply their conscience and mine." Who would have thouglit to find such a passage in the will of a Cortez! Nothing is more certain than this, that Cortez, in all that Lue didi in Mrxico, fully belleved that lar was an Inatriment lin the land of $n$ lenervolent dod; for he fomme Mexico pagna, and latit latholle. Massacre, rapine, clevastation, the leetrayal ame mateder of a klag, the fall of me empire-theso wore na mothing in view of a resitt lika this ! Sothought all good Smalards of that arge.--C's.

1107. $\qquad$ . Nueques ('lemomt. I young ('lomena, was artlaliy prevailed umon to regard the murder of the king (Itenry Ifl. | umier sumb circumastances as not onaly a lawfin, but a highly merltorions, entorpriwe. Ite... prepured hint. self for the deed by linsting, the sacraments, ami praver. . . . laviag jrocomed a jass . . . amal a forged lotter of recommemintlon to the klarg . . . Was condarded by an olllere tor the kiag's guarters. (On entoring Iteary's pronemere ho stated that he was charged with it commanalcution of grave faportnare, which conlal only be mude to his Dajesty in private. 'lowe king, withont suspicion, direrted the attembanis to redire: nud while la was engrged in rembing the pmorer presented to him, the mank sudelenly drew $n$ knifr from his sloreve mad phomedit into his ablomen. 'The king dew the wrijen from the wound und struck ('lement on tha fuce, crying out, "Oh, tho wicket monk, ho has slain me!" "pon which the gharda rushed in and despatcherl the wrotelaed assassin on the
 ch. $17, \ 14$.
1108. CONSCIENCE, Phantom of. (imstalus IT. The Emproror (onstams 11. comald fly from his people, but ha condi not tly from himself. The remorse of lais conscience crated th phantom who pursued him by land and sern, by day and by night: and the visionary Theolosias, presenting to his lign a cup of blood, suid, or sceneed to $V$ ", "Drink, brother, drink:" a suro emblem of '1e agrouvation of lise puilt, sinco he had received from the hands of the deacon the mysic cup of the blood of Christ. Odious to himself mad to mankind, Constans perished by domestie, perlups by episeophl, traison, in tho rapilad of sieily. [ibe lud coused the murder of his brother Theorlosius.]-Gimmon's Roane, ch. 48 .
1109. CONSCIENCE, Power of. Binjumin Abbrit. [Before conversion be was a rude, irnorant, boisterous man, given to drinking, tighting, und gambling. When forty yeurs old lie was awakened by a sermon; his conseinnee wns aroused ; driving honeward, he believed that the tempter was immediately behind him; his anxicty was terrible, his hair "rising on his head." His mind land evidently become morhid under its mornd sufferin!rs. His dramms that night were appalling; the next day, secking relief in tho labors of the field, his "troubled lieart beat so lond that he could hear the strokes." He threw down the scythe, and "stood weeping for his sins." Truly a sublime manifestation of the power of conscience in a rude soul I He became a second John Bunyan, and won many hundreds to Christ.]-Stevens' M. E. Cirlikch, vol. 1, p. 199.
1110. CONSCIENCE quiokened, By Crime. When the crime was over [the Roman emperor assassinuted his mother], Nero first perceived its magnitude, and was selzed with the agony of a tox livid terror and remorse, Thare is in great crines an nofal power of inhmination. They light uif, the conselobere with a giare whith shows nll thines in their true hideousbers. Ile, surent the wisht in oppressive sile mere for the first time in his gife his sleep was dibuturtad hy dreams. Ile often started up in terror, mad drembed tar retion of dawa. The grens tiattery and hyperetitalal congratimatone of his friemis comon chamere their aspere as ensily as the countenameres of men, gud bere wat to ham a deadly look in the sem and shore | where he had previonsly somarhe to drowa his mother]. From the lolty sinmmit of Miseman ghasily wailing nad thihast of a solitary trompet seremed to renela him from his mother's grave.- Fatosatis bintos DAve, rla. is, p. : 7.
1111. - Kion of Jamos 1I. (Word Chmrchill, the Duke of Marlmorough, was a Protestant gemerai, and every woridly interest prompted him to piense the king who lond esponsed the Romun Catholie canse.] Churchill might indeed. . . raise himself still higher in the royal lavor by eonforming to the Charch of Reme: and it inght seem that one who was not less distinguished for avarice and baseness than for capacity and valor was not likely to be sloocked at hearing a mass. But so inconsistent is homan mature, that there are tender spots even in semed consciences. Ami thos this man, who owed his rise in life to his sister's slame [as mistross to the Dake of York], who hui Fren kept ly the most profuse, imperlons and shmmeless of harlots [the Dachess of Cleveland], and whose pablic life, to those who can look throngh a blaze of genins and glory, will appeara prodiry of tarpitude, telieved implicily in the relifion he had lemened when a boy, mat shuddered at the thonglat of nhijuring it. The one arime from which his heat recoiled was apostacy.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 7 .
1112. CONSCIENCE a Reminder. Kïg Philip. Philip kept a man in his service totell him cvery day lnefore he give nudience, " philip, remember thou art mortal." -lRolds, vol. 1, ch. It.
1113. CONSCIENCE, Sale of, Wrigu of Jomer II. [Jamen asked the scottish Parlinment to remove the julitical disabilities of his Romm Catholie brethren.]. The kingexhorted the estates to give relicf to his Roman Catholie subjects, and offered, in return, a free trade wita England and anamasty for political offeners. . . . Ohjection was taken by some zealous Protestants to the mention mate of the Rommon Chtholic religion. There was no such religion. There was an idolatrous mostasy, which the laws punished with the halter, nad to which it did not hecome Chistimn men to give thattering titles. To eall such a superstition Catholie whs to give uf the whole question which was at issue belween Rome and the reformeal churches. The ofler of a free trade with Eugland was treated as an insult. "Our fathers," said one orator, "sold their king for southern gold, and we still lie under the reproach of that foul hargain. Let it not be said of usthat we have sold our God! !"-Macallay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 111.
1114. CONSCIENCE, Scruples of. Puritans. Some precisians had seruples about teaching the Latin graman luermase the name of Mars, Bar. chans, nated Apollon orevireyl in it. The the nrtw were all hat proseribed. 'I'he solemn peat of the orginn wan miperstitions. 'The light musie of Betl Johson's manks was disselinte, Half the thac pminthars of Enginal wore fidolatrons, and the enher laif inherrint. Isee Plensures Con-

 1. 511.
1115. CONSCIENCE, Terrors of, Liman Einprow The chlorio. Nitcr a life of vitucand elorv, into the grave; bis mind was hombled by the centrast of the pas, and justly atarmed by the la. visible termery of futurit: Ome cerening, ans it is related, when the hemi in a large dish was served on the royal tathe, he suddenly exelnmed that he behedd lle angry combomance of Symmarchas, his eyes glaring fury mad revenge, and his month armed with long, sharp tereth, which threatemed to devour him. The monnrel lastantiy retired to his chamber, and, us he hy, trembling with aguish cold, umder in weight of ledelethes, he expresserd, in broken murmurs to his physicina Eiphidins, his deep repentance for the murders of Becthins and Symmachus. His malady lucreased, und after adysentery which continued three days, he expircdin the pulare of Ravenma, in the thirty-thari, or, if we compute from the invasion of Italy, in the thirty-serenth year of his reign. Ghmos's lemer, ch. 30.
1116. CONSCIENCE, Uneducated. English Share T'rade. English ships, titted out In Engllsh cities, under the npectal favor of the royal family, of the ministry, mad of Pariament, stole from Africa, in the years from 1700 w 1750 , jrobnhly a million and a half of souls, of whom one cighth wre buried in the Athantic, victims of the passage : und yet in England no general indignation rebuked the cnormity; for the publie opinion of the ure whs obelient to materintiom.-Bascoure's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 24.
1117. CONSCIENCE, Viotory of. Nir Thimas More. In the general apinion of Europer, tha forcmost Englishman of the time was Sir Thomas More. As the poliary of the diverce ended in an open rupture with Rome, he had withelrawn silently from the ministry. Triumphant in all else, the monarchy was to find its power stop short at the consecience of man [who would mot neknowledge that Jenry VIII.'s marriage with Catherine was unscripural, and thas forward the licentions remarriage of the king]. The great battle of spiritual frecton, the matle of the Protestant arainst Mary, of the Catholic against Elizabeth, of the Puritia against Charles, of the Indepeadent against the Prestyterian, bergn at the moment when More refused to bend or to deny his convietions at n king's hidding. "I thank the Lord," More suid, with a sudden start, as the lont dropped silently down the river from his garden steps in the early morning-"I thank the Lord that the ficld is won." It Lambeth Crammer and his fellow-commissioners tendered to him the new onth of allegiance; but, as they expected, it was refnsed. They bade him walk in the garden that he might reconsider his reply.

1118. CONSCIENCE, Warning of, Charles $I$. He thought to lessen the horror and ingratitude of the act by appointing a commission of three members of his council, and detegating to them the power of slgning the parlianientary death warrant against strufurd. The commiswionery ratited the sentence, and the king shut himself up to weep, and avold the light of that murnhig which was to witaness the full of hise fatthrin nual bumeront servint. He thought that hy obliteratlige the day from hils iffe he would alse expmente. it from the memery of heaven sued man. Ho. pmsed the whole nighet la durkinesu, in prayers for the dylng, and in teires ; but the sin rowe io commenorate the injustiee of the monared, the trenchery of the frime and the greatheses of sond of the vietim. "I have slumed arninst my comedence," wrote the king side veral yoms aflier If the gneen, when repromeching limensiff for that plgrature drawn frow him hy the lowe hee bure ifis wife und chidren. "It warned me nt the time ; I was selzed with remorae ut the instant when I signed thls Imse and crimhal conces. skon." . . "Ah I Stratiord is happler than I am," repiled the prince, concenling his cyes with his hamls. "Tell hlm that, did it not conecern the safety of the kinflom, I would willingly give
 1. 13.
1119. CONSCLENCE, Worthiens. J/emes: II. Arthur Herthert was hrother of the ehle jonstier, member for Dover, master of the rohus, nut rearadaniral of England. Arthur Herluert was math loved by the sailors, and was repated one of the best of the aristorratic class of maval ofllecres. It had been generally sulpmesoll that he would readily comply with royal wishes; for he was heedless of rellgion, he was fond of plensure und expense, he had no private estates, hils phacess brought him in $£ 40(0)$ a year, and he had long been reckoned among the most devoted personaladherents of James. When, however, the rearadmiral was eloseted, and refuired to promise that he would vote for the repeal of the Test Act, his answer was, that his honor and conseience would not permit him to give any such pledge.
"" Nobody doubts your honor," said the king; " but a man who lives nes yon' do ought not to talk about his conseience." To this repromedha reproach which came with a bad grace from the lover of Catharine Sedley-Herbert munfully replied: "I have my faults, sir ; hint I could mme people who talk nuch more about conscience than I am in the habit of doing, und yet fead lives as loose as mine." Ile was dismissed from all his places.-Macaulay's Eng., (li. 7.
1120. CONsCIENCE wronged, An eril Genits. [Brutus, the assassimator of Ceesar,] sat in his tent st dead of night and thought a luge shadowy form stood by him ; and when he calmly asked. " What and whence art thou?" it answered, or seemed to answer, "I am thine evil genius, Brutus ; we shall meet aguin at Philippi."-hin. dell's Rome, ch. 69, § 22.
1121. CONSECRATION for Confict. Finights. As the champion of God and the ladies (I blush to unite such discordant names), he devoted himself to spenk the truth; to maintain the right; to protect the distressed ; to practise courtesy, a virtue less familiar to the ancients; to pursue the infidels; to despise the allurements of ease and safety; and to vindicate in every perilous adventure the honor of his character. The abuse of the same spirit provoked the illiterate knight term himself the solve juike mand nernger of his own linjurles: and proudly to arglew the hawa of civil mocicty mul milliary dixipliare.-(insmon's Rowe. ch. SN, p. intis.
IIथ2. CONsECRATION without Falth. .folw. Wiskey. [He Wus carnestly sereking the knowlcilye of hls prersomil salvation, when her remel TatyLor" " Itoly livhug and Jyinge," wheh cularres to dencleate atl his life to (bod : all hik thoughts. words, mal actloms, helog thoroughty romvinced there la mu methum." $1 \mathrm{l}_{\mathrm{e}}$ "forsakia all" to hecome a minajonary to savages and coloniata in the much, sherpes on the ground, mal refises all fome
 "ouruge the poor children who hand no shones. let it all leromght him no pance of in ind. But ufter returnhar to Finghmi lather's preface to the Epistle to the Romans is reatel in a Moravlan mecting, and the truth broaks "pon his mind. 1 "I fell," he writes," my herrt strumely warme I; I felt I did trust in christ alone for salvaten, and am assarmare was given me that lie lad takin awny my shas, even mine. imil waved un from the luw of sln and denth. "-N'tevens" M. E Cmuncin, rli. 1.
11283. CONSENT enforeed. Intimidution. The abmadomed Caracella more than once :atherimped the life of his father, who, it lingth, broken by disense', died at York [A.1). 211. 'The broth(ers) Curnomband Ceth agreed to divide the empire, the former romining the Western part, and the later $A$ sha mad the Eastern proviares. The matand hatred of those two brothers was now fomented by thedr nssociation in the government. Caracolla, at length worn out hy the struggle, and mathe to bear lomger with his rival, mused him to be operoly assassimated in the urms of his mother Julin, mul hal the addeessto prranade the people that he was compelled to this atrocious deed by notives of self-preservation. On this subjere Alius Spartinnus has transmitted afact, which strongly marks the degenerm'y of the Roman charaster, and that atiject servility with which the lighest rmbes of the state submitted to the yoke of tyrmmy. ('aracalla, ufter the denth of his brother Gen, thought it necessary to apologize to the Semate for a deed so dark and monatural. He ordered a body of his gunrds to enter the Semate-house, and twarmed soldiers to post themselves at the side of every senator. Then pravely walking up to the consul's chair, he pronounced a stadied harangue. setting forth the imperions neressity of the netion, and urging that his concern for the interests of the state had, in this single instunce, overcome his iraternal affection and the humanity of his nature. It may be believed that the Conscript Fothers were in no disposition to dispute the force of his arguments. Caracalla was now proclaimed sole emperor, and one of the first aets of his administration was to put to death the celebrated lawyer Pupinian, who hud refused to justify his conduct to the people.-Tythen's Hist., Book 5, ch. 2.
1124. CONsERVATIsM cured. Peter the Great. There was a good deal of fun in the composition of this illustrious patriot, and he turned it to good use sometimes in throwing ridicule upon the an 170it, he liviled all his court nusl m. Ility to nt ho was very purthentar that the olil foghlog of the

 -lout Rusalinis, to the therrimemt of the whols

 bramely, und an on this day mot a drop of nny allagy wore povived for this oremston, mal when uny um alijocted or complatued, the czar woulil ruply, langlilag: " Our menewors dial mo!! Are not ilice unchont customs always tho best ?" "l'his ondilng timbl prople fathenew whys latronlured

1125. CONAERVATISM, Dangera of, Ifi. |rnold. At lambon, white lar wislaci religions, mot vecturlan, exambantlon to lac Intronlated into the liniversity, he was regarded as a bigat, while at Oxford be wis regarded as an extrenue latitudimarinu. "If 1 huid two nereks," suld he," I

 1). 8 (I).
1143. CONSERVATISM deacoribed, l'risorrution. Llohort Cecil, Earl of Sulishory, has boen describud hy Bumon us a most lit man to kecp) thinge from growing worsa' but no very flt man to redure thinges to ho much better. - NiNun's ENo., vol. 3, ch. 23, p. 350.
1127. CONSERVATISM, Exconsive. IRcign of Charlos II. Dinhy lormal the deslinn of serinring to the Cuvalior party the exalavive possession of all prolitionl powor, both excentive amal legisIntlve. In the your $16 \%$, necordingly, a bill was offered to the lords, which provided that no person shonald lobld any atllere or shonded sit fos allher IIonse of I'arlinment, withome llrat eleclaring on enth that he considered resistance to the kingly powar ns in all conses criminnl, and that he womble never indenwor to alter the government cithar in C'lurch or State. . . Bucking. lum and Shaftesbury wore beyond nil precedent vehement und pertinucions, mid nt lenuth proved suceressfal. The bill was mot indered rejected, lut was retarded, mutilatod, ind at length suffered to drop. - Micadiay'n ENG., ch. 2.

1!cw. CONSERVATISM, Foolish. Anti-progresuive. [In tbis) a complany was formod who undertook to drain ninety-tive thousnand neres of wet lund in England. The sportamen opposed it.] The men who walked ujon stilts were indigmant at these innovations, which threntened to exterminate the wild elucks, which they cherished ns more profituble than sheep or oxen ; and they destroyad the drainage works in trine conservative spirit. - Knigur's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 1.
1109. CONSERVATISM, Non-progressive. Duke of Newcastle. [In England, previous to this date, 25tli of Mirelh. Hy the "bergy of Lord Chester. thelel it was rhangeit lathe lat of Jumanry. | The timlil[Jnkuon| Newenveldelal bin that ho linted dile with thinges su long equblisherl. - KíNititer'm Fixh., vol. 11, rh. I: p. 1 Nit.

11:B0. CONSERVATISM, Opposition of, $\boldsymbol{I}^{\prime}$, wist raised againat thin forme, not only liy thlovers dexpotisma." It wombl have the certala effere of tepriving us of onar lemmomorlal liberthes. -

1181. $\qquad$ Vines. For llaree contu.
 wis almont prohililloil by excemalve dinfles, last the mines Nlmulif low exhmusted mad onr own

1132. CONBERVATIVE, Polltloal. Lord Ihtifur. All the projudiones, ull the exngigerathons of buth the groat partios in the sitate, movad his vomblile clamors of demangogites. Ile despilsed still more the' l'ory doctrines of illvine rlatht und pusaive ohediemee llo surererl impurtinily ut the bigotry of the ('hurchanmand int the bigotry of the l'uritum. . . In temper he wan what, in our time, ds called 11 Consorvontive. la theory he was a Repulthenn. . . I He wast lae chalof of those politichans whom the iwo great partios contemptamasly anlled 'rimmers. Instand of quarrelling with hla notkmume, he nasi $I$ it ns ntlile of homor, ind vindionted, wit it vivnelty, the dignity of the nppellation. 't vivacity, the thing good, has wili, frims letwech extremes, The tempernte zone trims letweren the cllmate ln which men ure ronsted mind the climnte in whill they nre frozen. . . Virtue is nothing but in just temper Inetworn propernsities, nny one of which, if ladulged ter excess, beeomes in vire.-Macaubiay's EN(i., ch. is.
1138. CONSISTENCY, Disrogard for. Jımes II. [Catherine Sedley was ilie notorious mistress of Jumes. IIfs wife, Mary of Morlena, was grieved.] Slee asked him how le reconciled his conduet to his religious professions. "Ton nre ready,"sho sald, "to put your kingdom to hazard for tha suke of your noul, and yet you ne throwing nwny yoins sont for the suke of that crenture." Fublier Petre, on bembed knees, seconded theso remonstrances. It was his duty to do so ; and his duty was not the less strenuonsly performed because it cosincided with his interest. The king went on for a time sinning nad repenting. In his bours of remorse his pennmes were severre. Mary treasumed up to the end of her life, and nt her denth herpuathed to the eonvent of Chatlot, the scourge with which he land vigorously wenged her wrongs upon his own shoulders.- Micavlay's End., ch. 6.
113. CONSOLATION of Philosophy. IRoman Senator Bocthius. [Imprisoned by Theodoric for muintaining the rights of senators.] While Bocthius, oppressed with fetters, expected each moment the sentence or the stroke of death, he composed, in the tower of Pavia, the "Consola.
thon of Phllosophy," "golden volume, now 1 "n worthy of l'ato or Tully.... 'The celestial Athens new romdeseroded to thamhe his danpeoon. . . She tanght hitu to compare his long prosparity will his reareit disiress, mill to comcodve new hopes from the inconstan'y of fort.

 Romes, ch. :to.

11is5. CONSPIRACY, Alarming. Rivign of William I. Assmasibuthon was ans "wont of duily accurrense. Many Normanes suddenly disafpparal, beaving no trace. The rorpses of mang were fomad lanaring lise mark of violenere. Denth ly torture was demomered agalast the murderers, nind strict searell was made for the th, hat gethers ally la valu, for the whole mathon was in in conspiracy to sereon them. It was at lengilithoght neressary to hay a heavy the on every hamdred In which 1 gerson of French extraction should be foumd shaln ; and lils regulation was followed י1p hy mother repulation, providing that every person who was fonnd shath shonld be suppensed to le a Frenchman, bimess lie was proved to be a Sixon-Macaulay'm Eind., ch. 1, p. İ.
1136. CONSPIRACY, Infamoun. Rimpelints. A.1). 17\%6. $\Lambda$ seeret plot was fostired by Jryon. . through the roynilist mayor of New lork nuid others, to prepmere a borly of conspimators, who should ralse an lusurrection in nld of llowe on his arrlval, blow up the magazhes, gula possaresslom of the guns, mal seize Wishlagton and his princtpal ollecers. Some of the Inferior agrents weresuspeceted of having intended to procure his dealh. . . It was diseover I before it was matured. .... "pwo or then of his own ghard were partares In the sehome of trenchery; nat one of them. . . was buaged. It was the itst militury exceution of the itevolntlon.-Banchort's U.S., vol. 8, ch. U8.
1137. CONspiracy, Poltioal, Rrign of Charles II. The Fremell Court, which knew Inmby [the Chancellor of England] to he lte mortal enemy, urtfully contrived to ruin him hy making lim pass for n friend. Loulis [XIV.], by the instrumentality of Ralph Montugue, in fatililess and shameless man, who had resided in France as minister from Englhad, hid before the House of Commons proofs that the treasurer had been concerned in an application made ly the Court to the Court of Versalles for a sum of money. Tho discovery had its matural effect. ... In their view he was the broker who had sold Eugland to France. It seemed elear that hils grenthess was at an end, and donditful whether hils hend could be saved.-Macadiay's Ene., ch. 2.
1138. CONSPIRACY, Unpopular. Ciparr. [Cieane was assassimated hy the semators in the Senate house.] The conspirators lad no sooner necomplished their purpose than they ran through the streets of the city, proclaiming aloul that the King of lRome was dead ; but the effect dld not answer their expectation. The people, nlmost to a man, secmed struek with horror at the deed. They loved Chesar, master as he was of their lives and llberties.-Ty'ren's IIstr., Book 4, ch. 2.
1139. CONSPIRACY, Unproven. Sir Watter Raleigh. [There was an nlleged conspirncy aguinst Janes I.] la'eigh underwent a trial,

Which, thomgh the issue dechared hilm gnilty. lenvers the bifirl in a mate of nimolute merpitiolan whith regarif to the rentity of this conspiracy, of of his comererilin it. Ralofghis acone nece was ans. poluled for the course of thfern yars, durling mose of which the bee was conithered in the Tower, where he comploged himself th the come. pusithon of his. "History of tha Worlis," a work valumber In pelat of ninaticr. In the liast your of hif lffe hee recodved the klag's comminaloni of al-

 If not law, hamaily at lenst maght to luve In. terpreted haton parion of his offanere, was, low. ever, mot so minderstood hy the monarch, whose heart hal no great portion of the genarous feel. ligs. Raldyhise expedition was unsuccerspfil ; the comert of Spmin eomphinerd of mattork which hes whared to be ut peare whit Npaln, nind Ralolgh, it his raturn, was ordereid to be lablemaded oni clis. 2 t).
1140. CONsPIRACY of Vloo. C'ittiliu's. hec. (12. Surplas Catllare . . Was a yonth of noblo famlly, but whlo a dmarater malned whth every mamior of crime. [lfo hat beell one of the mbisistars of cruelty for Silla, the Diethtor, und risen with hosors.] last in character, drowned in deht, and thence umable to thod any other resonree for the support of hils vaces mid debmacherles, he now formed thedesprate selieme of extirpathg the whole honly of the Nemate, of assassimating all the mugistrates of the commonwealth, nud sathating his uvarice mad ambition hy tho command of the repmbilie and the plunder of tho chty. ('atillise gribad to his laterest the prothgate of all ranks asd domominations: knghits, putricians, nud senators, who were desperate hankrupts, and some high-Dorn women of Intrigning mad abmadoned character, helped to inerense life party, [The diselosure made by Finlvha, a woman of loose character, defented tho con-splrators.]-TyTten's Ilistr., liook 4, cli. 1.
11.1. CONSPIRATORS, Ingrate. Cirair's. Slxty senators, in all, were partices to the lmmedinte conspiraty. Of these nine tenths were members of the old faction whom Casar had pardoned, and who, of all his nets, resented most that he had been able to prardon them. They were the men who had stayed at home, like Cicero, from the tields of Thmpsus and Munda, and had pretended penitence und submission that they might take mencer rond to rid themselves of their enemy. Their motives were the nmbition of their order and personal hatred of Cesiar; bat they persuaded themselves that they wereanimated hy patriotism; mad as, in their hands, the IRepibbie hand been a mockery of liberty, so they amed nt restoring it by a mock tyramicide.-Fnoude's C.EAAh, ch. 26.
1149. CONSTRUCTION vs. Destruction. C'rom: rell. April, 1653), he dissolved "the Rump!" "We did not hear a dog bark at their going," he suid afterward in one of his speeches, and it expresses the very truth of the event. Henceforth, until 1658-a brief purenthesis of time, indeed, in the history of the country-he governed the country absolutely. In a history so brief as this we shall not attempt to detail the circumstances of those troublesome years. Alas : nuld his battles had been easy to win compared with the tusk of ruling the distracted renlm. Hoon's Cromwell, ch, 15, p. 186.
1143. CONTEMPT expressed. Timonr. The first epistle of the Mogul enberor must lave provoked, instend of reconciiing, the Thrkish sultan, whose fimmily and motion he alfected to despise. "Dost thou not know that the grentest part of Asia is subject to our arms and our laws? . . Be wise in time ; reflect ; repent ; and avert tacthunder of our vengeance, which is yet suspended over thy head! Thou art no more than a pismire; why wilt thou seck to provoke the elephants? Alas! they will trample thee under their fect."-GHmon's Rome, ch. 65.
1144. CONTEMPT for Pretension. Pirates. [During the time of Pompey, the pirates of the Mediterranean were very nimmerons and bold. They seized prisoners on the hand and carried them away.] But the most contemptuous circumstances of all was, that when they had taken a prisoner, and he cried out that he was a Roman, and told them his name, they pretended to be struck with terror, smote their thighs, and fell upon their knees to ask him pardon. The poor man, seeing them thus humble themselves before him, thought them in earnest, and said he would forgive them; for some were so officious as to put on hiss shoes, and others to help him on with his gown, that his quality might no more he mistaken. When they had carried on this farce, and enjoyed it for some time, they let a ladiler down into the sea, and bude him go in peace; and if he refused to do so, they pushed him off the deek, and drowned him.- Plutaben's " Pompey."
1145. - - Aluric. [Rome was besieged, and ambussadors sent to Alaric to treat for peace.] When they were introduced into his presence they declared, perhnps in a more lofty style than became their abject condition, that the Romans were resolved to maintain their dignity, either in peace or war ; and that if Alaric refused them a fair and honorable capitulation, he might sound his trumpets, and prepare to give battle to an innumerable people, extreised in arms, and animated by despair. "The thicker the hay, the easier it is mowed," was the concise reply of the harbarian ; and this rustic metaphor was accompanied by a loud and insulting laugh, expressive of his contempt for the menaces of an unwarlike populace, enervated by luxury before they were emaciated by famine. He then condescended to fix the ransom which he would accept as the price of his retreat from the walls of Rome : all the gold and silver in the city, whether it were the property of the State or of individuals; all the rich and precious movables; and all the slave ${ }^{\circ}$ who could prove their title to the name of barbarians. The ministers of the Senate presumed to ask, in a modest iad suppliant tone, " If such, 0 king, are your demands, what do you intend to leave us?" .. Your lives I" replied the haughty conqueror ; they trembled, and retired. Yet before they retired a short suspension of arms was granted, which allowed some time for a more temperate negotiation.--Gibbon's Rome, ch. 31.
1146. CONTEMPT, Protected by. Ustarper Maximus. The unprotected Maximus, whom he [Comnt Gerontins] had invested with tho purple, wns indebted for hls life to the contempt that was entertained of his power and abilities. The caprice of the barbarinns, who ravaged Spain, onte more seated this imperial phantom on the throne; but they soon resigned him to the justice of IIonorius; and the tyrant Maximus, after he had been slown to the people of Rnvenna and Rome, was publicly executed.-hisHON'S RONE, ch. 31, p. ©03.
1147. CONTEMPT, Rellgions. Puritane. With the fear and hatred inspired by such a tyranny, contempt wns largely mingled. The pecillarities of the Puritan, his look, his dress, his dialect, his strange sciuples, had been, ever since the time of Elizabeth, favorite subjects with mockers. But these peculiaritics appeared far more grotesque in a faction which ruled a great empire than in obseure nnd persecuted congregations. The cant which had moved laughter when it was heard on the stage from Tribulation Wholesome and Zeal-of-the-Land Busy, was still more hughable when it proceeded from the lips of genexals and counseltors of State.-Macaclay's Eng., cli. 2.
1448. CONTENTMENT in Gardening. Diocletian. [When Diocletian resigned the imperinu purple] he had preserved, or at least he soon recovered, a taste for the most innocent as well as matural pleasures, and his leisure hours were sufficiontly employed in building, planting, and gardenng. His answer to Maximian is deservedly celebrated. IIo was solicited by that restless old man to reassume the reins of govemment and the Imperial nurple. ISe rejected the temptation with a smile of pity, calmly observing that if he could show Naximian the cabbages which he ham phanted with his own hands at Salona, he should no longer le urged to relinquish the enjoyment of happiness for the pursuit of power.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 13.
1149. CONTENTMENT under Hardships. John Wesley. [He] and 1 lay on the floor; he had my great coat for his pillow, and I had Burkitt's notes on the New Testament for mine. One morning about three o'clock Mr. Wesley turned over, and finding me awake, clapped me on the side, saying, " Brother Nelson, let us be of good cheer; I have one whole side yet, for the skin is off but one side."-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 1, ch. 5.
1150. CONTENTMENT, Inferior. Samupl Johnson. Joirnson (laughing): "It must be born with a mun to be contented to take up with little things. Women have a great advantage that they may take up with little things, without disgracing themselves; a man cmnot, except with fiddling. Had I learat to fiddle, $f$ should have done nothing else." Boswell: "Pray, sir, did you ever play on any musical instrument?" Jonnson: "No, sir; I once bought me a flageolet, but I never made out a tune." Boswell: "A flageolet, sir! so small an instrument? I should have liked to hear you play on the violoncello. That should have been your instrument." Jornson : "Sir, I might as well have played on the violoncello as another, but I should have done nothing else. No, sir; a man would never undertake great things could he be amused with small. I once tried knottingDempster's sister undertook to teach me-but I could not learn it." - Boswell's Jonnson, p. ${ }^{365}$.

1151. CONTENTMENT with Poverty. Diogenes. [Alexander the Great and his courtiers visited Dogenes.] The philosopher was at the time lying down in the stm. Alexander was surprised at his poverty, and, after saluting him in the kindest manner, asked whether he wanted anything. Diogenes replied, "Yes; that you would stand a little out of my sunshine." This answer mased the indignation nut contempt of all the courtiers; but the monarch, suterk with the philosopher's greathess of soul, said : "Weae I not Alexander, I would be Diogenes."-Rollin, vol. 1, ch. 15 .
1152. CONTENTMENT, Price of, Napoleon I. [Eatering incogulto the cabin of an Itulian peasant woman, he listened to her story of porerty, and saw evidences of personal worth.] " How much money," said he, "" should you want to make you perfectly happy?" "Ah, sir!" she replied, "a great deal I should want." . . . "But how much ?" . . "Oh, sir, . . . I should want as much as $$ 80$; but what prospect is there of one having $$ 80$ ?" The emperor caused an attendant to pour into her lap about $$ 600$ in glittering gold. For a moment she was speechless in bewilderment, and then said: "Ah, sir! ah, madam! this is too much; and yet you do not look as if you could sport with the feelings of a poor woman." "No," Josephine replied; " the money is all yours; with it you can now rent a piece of ground, purehase a floek of goats, and I hope you will be able to bring up yous" children comfortably."-Abиotr's Napolecn B., vol. 1, ch. 29.
1153. CONTEST, Unequal. Greek:s 2is. Rus. sians. Yet the threats or calamities of a Russian war were more frequently diverted by treaty than by arms. In these naval hostilites every disadvantage was on the side of the Greeks; their savage enemy afforded nc mercy; his poverty promised no spoil; his impenetrable retreat deprived the conqueror of the hopes of revenge; and the pride or weakness of empire indulged an opinion, that no honor could be gained or lost in the intercourse with barbarians. At first their demands were high and inadmissible-three pounds of gold for each soldier or mariner of the fleet: the Russian youth adhered to the design of conquest and glory, but the counsels of moderation were recommended by the hoary sages. "Be content," they said, "with the liberal offers of Cæsar ; is it not far better to obtain without a combat the possession of gold, silver, silks, and all the objects of our desires? Are we sure of victory ? Can we conclude a treaty with the sea? We do not tread on the land; we tloat on the alyss of water, and a common death hangs over our heads."-Gibnon's Pome, ch. 56.
1154. CONTINGENCIES, Combination of. Cipture of New Orleans. The attempt of the enemy had been audacious, but was aided by various contingencies . . . the river had been obstructed by means of a ruft consisting of a line of eleven dismantled schooners, extending from bank to bank, strongly moored, and connected together with six heavy chains. Unfortunately a violent storm had rent a large chasm in the raft, which could not be closed in time. It appears, too, that on the night of the attack [by the Federal fleet] the river had not been lighted by fire-rafts, al. 'hough General Lovell had several times request. ed that it should be done. Moreover, the person in charge of the signals neglected w throw up rockets on the approneh of the tleet, and, by a strange coincidence, the enemy's signals, on that night, ware dentically the same as those used by our gumboats. . . the alvance of the enemy was noc discovered until they were alreast of the [two] forts. - Pohlabion File - Yeab or the Wale, ch. 12, 1. 312.
1155. CONTINGENCIES of Success. Columbus. [Territic and perilous storms attended his raturn voyage. All gave themselves up for lost.] Such were the difficulties and perils which attended his return to Europe: had one tenth part of them beset his outward voyage, his tinid and factlous crew would have risen in arms ngainst the enterprise, and he never would have discovered the New World. - Invina's Columbus, Book 5, ch. 2.
1156. CONTRACTS, Suspension of. Shercus Colius. IIe told the mob that Cesar would do nothing for them, that Cusar cared only for his capitalists. He wrote privately to Cicero that he was bringing them over to Pompey, and he was doing it in the way in which pretended revolutionises so often play into the hands of renctionaries. He proposed a law in the Assembly in the spirit of Juck Cade, that no debts should be paid in Rome for six years, and that every a...ant should occupy his house for two years free of rent. The administrators of the government treated him as a madman, und deposed him from ottice. He left the city pretending that he was going to Ciesar.-Froude's Casall, ch. 22.
1157. CONTRADICTION, Proneness to. Samvel Johnson. I was sensible that he was sometimes a little actuated by the spirit of contradiction, and by means of that I hoped I should gain my point. I was persuaded, that if I had come upon him with a direct proposal, "Sir, will you dine in company with Jack Wilkes?' he would have flown into a passion, and would probably have answered, " Dine with Jack Wilkes, sir! I'd as soon dine with Jack Ketch." I therefore, while we were sitting quietly by ourselves at his house in an evening, took occasion to open my plan thus: "Mr. Dilly, sir, sends his respectful compliments to you, and would be happy if you would do him the honor to dine with him on Wednesday next, a' ing with me, as I must soon go to Scotland." Jounson : "Sir, I am obliged to Mr. Dilly. I will wait upon him-" Boswell : " Provided, sir, I suppose, that the company which he is to have is agreeable to you." Joinson: "What do you mean, sir? What do you take me for? Do you think I am so ignorant of the world as to imagine that I am to prescribe to a gentleman what company he is to have at his table ?" Boswela: "I beg your pardol, sir, for wishing to prevent you from meeting people whom you might not like. Perhaps be may have some of what he calls his patriotic friends with him." Johnson: "Well, sir, and what then? What care $I$ for his patriotic friends? Poh !" Boswell: "I should not be surprised to find Jack Wilkes there." Jonnson: "And if Jack Wilkes should be there, what is that to me, sir ? My dear friend, let us have no more of this."-Boswell's Jounson. 306.
1158. CONTRIBUTION, Unconscioun. Súge of Acre. A.d. 1799. The siege had now continned for sixty days. . . Nupoleon had now expended all his camnon for bulls. By a singular expedient he obtalned a fresh supply. A pirty of soldiers were sent upon the beach. . . . appurently throwing up a rumpart for te erection of a hattery. Sir Sidney [Smith] i mediately appronched with the English ships and poured in upon them broadside after brondside from all his tiers. The soldiers . . . collected the balls as they rolled over the sund. [A dollar was paid for each bull.]-Aniot't's Naboleson B., vol. 1, ch. 13.
1159. CONTILOVERSY, Abusive. Luther. A new pope, Adrinn VI., had aseended the pupal throne. Earnest and severe in disposition, the sought most emphatically to crush Lather's heresy, which, in spite of ban mul edict, was making continual progress. Nor did he hesitate to attack Luther's personal character, and to heap abuse upon him. Luther was not disturbed at this; he was accustomed to call Adrimn "the juckass!"-IRein's Lutient, ch. 13, p. 119.
1160. CONTROVERSY, Afraid of. George For, the Quaher. By degrees the "hypocrites" feared to dispute with lim ; and the simplicity of his principle found such ready entrance among the people, that the priests trembled and scud as he drew near ; "so that it was a drendful thing to them when it was told them, 'The man in lenthern brecelies is come." "-Banchoft's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 16.
1161. CONTROVERSY, Angry. Simucl Johnson. Murbay: "It seems to me that we are not angry at a man for controverting an opinion which we believe and value; we ruther pity lim." Joinson: "Why, sir, to be sure; when you wish a man to lmve that belief which you think is of infinite advantage, you wish well to him; lut your primary consideration is your own quiet. If a madman were to come into this room with a stick in his hand, no doubt we should pity the state of his mind; but our primary consideration would be, to take care of ourselves. We should knock him down first, and pity him afterward. No, sir; every man will dispute with great good humor upon a subject in which he is not interested. I will dispute very calnuly upon the probability of another man's son being hanged; but if a man zealously enforces the probnbility that my own son will be hanged, I shall certainly not be in a very good humor with him."-Boswell's Joinson, p. 291.
1162. CONTROVERSY, Bitterness in. Luther. The more Zwingli endenvored to convince Listher of the impossibility of the bodily presence of Christ, the more firmly did Luther ndhere to the literal interpretation of the words of institution. And when Zwingli quoted the sixth chapter of St. John's Gospel in lis favor, venturing rather boldly to remark, "This passage will break your neek, doctor !" Inuther replied, "Do not exalt yourself too highly; you are in IIcsse and not in Switzerland. Necks are not so readily broken here ; spare your proud and defiant words until you return home to your fellow-countrymen. If not, I will administer a blow which will cause you to repent of your remark." Whereupon Zwingli responded: "In Switzerland also justice is administered in equity, aud no one's neck is endangered without due process of law. I simply mude use of a proverbinl saying,, which signifies that a person has lost his chuse." The Landgrave likewise interposed at this point and entreated Luther not to understund such an expression so seriously.-Rein's Letien, ch. 17, 1. 153.
1168. CONTROVERSY, Christian. Luther. Zwingh dechured with tears in his cyes: "There are no other people on earth with whom I would rather agree than with the Wittenbergers." But Luther rejected the proffered hand of union, with the words, "Your spirit is different from our spirit. 1 imm surprised that you are willing to recognize in me, who regrarl your tenching to be false, in brother. It cannot he that you think very highly of your own doctrine." Then Bucer, who had come from Strashurg, advanced and said, "Take your choice! Either you will neknowledge no one as brother who may devinte from you in a single point-in which case you have no brethren, not even in your own partyor eise if you recognize some who differ from you, then you must also arknowledge us." And when at last the Landgrave exhorted them all not to withhold the friternal love which they owed one another as brethren, Lather remarked he would not deny his opponents that love which he owed to all his enemies.-Rern's Luther, ch. 17, p. $15 \overline{5}$.
116.4. CONTROVERSY, Dread of. Isaac Neceton. Newton resided at the University of Cambridge for thirty-three years, devoted to profound rescarches in chemistry and astronomy. His discoveries in the nature of light and color remain to this day the necepted system in all countries. He was accustomed to make his apparatus with his own hands, even to his orick furnaces and brass-work. Le seemed to become, at length, all mind, spending his days in meditation, insensible to all that usmully interests mankind. Nevertheless, he was pleasant and amiable in his demennor and exceedingly bountiful in gifts to his dependents and relatives. So little did he value the glory of his discoveries, that he was with difficulty induced to make them known to the world, having a mortul dread of being drawn into controversy. Some of his most brilliant discoverics remnined unpublished for several years. And when, at last, his "Principia" had appeared, which contained the results of his studies, he hal to be much persuaded before he would consent to issue a second edition.-Cyc. of Brog., p. 253.
1165. CONTROVERSY, Personal. Milton and Morus. Morns fitted the "Chmor" [a political pamphlet] with a preface, in which Jilton was further reviled, nud styled $n$ " monstrum horendum, informe, ingens, cui lumen ademtum." The secret of the authorship was strietly kept, and Morus, having been known to be concerned in the publication, was soon transformed in public belief into the author. So it was reported to Milton, and so Milton behieved. He nursed his wrath, and took two years to meditate his blow. IIe caused inquiries to be made into Morus's antecedents. It happened that Morus's conduct had been wanting in discretion, especially in his relations with women. ILe had been equally imprudent in his utterances on some of the certainties of Calvinistic doctrinc.-Milton, by M. Pattison, ch. 10.
1168. CONTROVERSY prevented, Maryland. The provincinl legislature in 1649 . . . cuncterl that no person believing in the fundamental dactrines of Claristianity should, on aceount of his rellgions principles or pructices, he in uny wise distressed. . . . Freedom of conscience was reiterated. . . . It was declared a finenble offence for citizens to upply to enel other the opprobrious ummes used in religious controversy. While Massaclansetts was attempting by proseription to establish Puritan: sm, . it sometimes liappened in those days that Protestants escuping from Protestants found an asylum with the Cutloolic colonists of the Chesupeake.-Riniratio's U.S., eh. 26.
1167. CONTROVERSY, Ridiculous. Milton. Milton's " Defensio Secunda" came out in May, 1654. In this piece (written in Latin) Morus is throughont assumed to he the author of the "Clamor," and as such is pursued througli many pages in a strain of invective, in which hanter is mingled with ferocity. The Hague tittle-tattle about Morus's love-affairs is set forth in the pomp of Milton's loftiest Latin. Somorous periods eould hardly he more disproportioned to their material content. To have kissed a girl is painted as the bhekest of crimes. The subline and the ridiculous are here blended without the step lietween. Milton descends even to abuse the publisher, Vlac, who had ofticinlly signed lis name to Morus's preface. The mixture of fanatical choler and grotesque jocularity, in which he rolls forth his clarges of incontinence against Morus, and of petty knavery against Vlac, are only saved from being unseemly by being ridiculous. The comedy is complete when we remember that Morus land not written the "Clamor," nor Vlac the prenace. Milton's rage blinded him; he is mad Ajax castigating innocent sheep instead of Acheans.-Milton, BY M. Pattison, eh. 10.
1168. CONTROVERSY, Spirtt of. Constantinople. [Rcign of Theodosius.] T'heir diocese enjoyed a frec importation of vice and error from every province of the empire; the eager pursuit of religious controversy afforded a new occupation to the busy idleness of the metropolis ; and we may credit the assertion of an intelligent observer, who describes, with some pleasantry, the effeets of their loquacious zcal. "This eity," says he, " is full of mechanies and slaves, who are all of them profonnd theologians, and preach in the shops and in the strects. If you desire a man to change a piece of silver, he informs you whercin the Son differs from the Futher ; if you ask the price of a loaf, you are told, ly way of reply, that the Son is inferior to the Father."Gibbon's Rome, ch. 27.
1169. CONVENTS, Refuge in. Fear of Vire. [Sammel Johason said of religious orders:] "It is as unreasonable for a man to go into a Carthusian convent for fear of being inmoral, as for a man to cut off his lamels for fear he should steal. There is, indeed, great resolution in the immediate act of dismembering himself; but when that is once done, he hats no longer any merit; for though it is out of his power to steal, yet he may all his life be a thief in his heart. So when a inan has once become a Carthusian, he is obliged to continue so, whether he chooses it or not. Their silence, too, is absurd. We reard in the Gospel of the apostles being sent to preach, but not to hold their tongues. All severity that does not tend to incrense good or prevent evil is idle. I suid to the lady abbess of a convent, 'Mudum, you are lacre not for the love of virtue, lut the fear of vice,' She said she should rememher this as long us she lived."- Boswela's JoHnson, p. 275.
1170. CONVERSATION, Care in. Cito. [At the hospitable tuble of Cuto the Censor] eonversation generally turned upon the praises of great and excellent men among the Romans; as for the land and the unworthy, no mention was made of them, for he would not allow in his romplany one word, either good or bad, to he suid of such kind of men, - Pletancits caro.
1171. CONVERSATION, Corrupting. Mary Stuart. [Mary Qucen of Scuts.] One of those mistresses, Lady Jeves, 1 dissipated woman, eclebrated by Brantome for the notoriety of her adventures, was the confidante of the queen. She had retained for Bothwell an admiration which survived their intimasy. The queen, who anmsed herself by interrogating her confidunte regarding the exploits and amours of her old fuvorite, allowed herself to be gradually attracted toward him by a sentiment which, at first, assimed the uppearance of a mere good-matured curiosity. The confidante, divining, or believing she divined, the yet unexpressed desires of the yucen, introduced Bothwell one evening into the garden, and even to the apartment of her mistress. This secret meeting forever sculed the ascendancy of Bothwell over the tueen. -Laman. Tine's Queen of Scots, p. 17.
1172. CONVERSATION, Gifts for. Samuel Johnson. In our way to the club to-nigi.t, when I regretted that Goldsmith would, upon every occasion, endeavor to sline, by which he often exposed himself, Mr. Langton observed that he was not like Áddison, who was content with the fame of his writings, and did not aim ulso at excellency in conversation, for which he found himself unfit; and that he said to a lady who complained of his having talked little in company, "Madam, I have but nine pence in ready money, but I can draw for a $£ 1000$." I olsserved that Goldsmith luad a great deal of gold in his cabinet, but, not content with that, was alwnys taking out his purse. JoIrnson: "Jes, sir, and that so often an entpty purse !"-Bos WELL'S JOIINSON, 1. 219.
1173. CONVERSATION, Limit of. Bendleather." [Walter] Scott tells a story of Clerk's leing once baftled-almost for the first time-by a stranger in a stage-coach, who would not, or could mot, talk to him on any subject, until at last Clerk addressed to him this stately remonstranee: "I have talked to you, my friend, on all the ordinary subjects-liternture, farming, merchandise, gaming, game-laws, horse-races, suits-at-law, polities, swindling, blasphemy, and philosophy-is there any one subject that ,you will favor me by opening upon "" "Sir," replied the inscrutable stranger, "can you say anything clever about 'bend-leather?'" [Clerk was Scott's friend.]-IIUTron's Life of Scotre, ch. 6 .
1174. CONVERSATION vs. Talk. Samuel Johnson. Though his usual vhrase for conver-
mation was talk, yet he mule a distinetion; for when he once tolit me that he dined the day before at a friend's house, with "a very pretty company," and I asked him if there was good conversation, he naswered, "No, sir; we had talk enough, hut no conversation; there was nothing discussed."-Buswela's Jounson, p. 488.
1175. CONVERSION, Clear, Jh/n Bunyan. "One day," he says, "ns I was travelling into the country, musing on the wickedness of my lient, unt considering the enmity that whs in me to God, the scripture cane into my mind, - He hath made pence through the bood of LIis cross.' I saw that the justice of God and my sinful soul could embrace nud kiss carh other. I was remdy to swoom, not with grief and tronhle, but with solid joy and peace." Everything became clear: the Gospel history, the lirth, the life, the death of the Saviour ; how gently lle gave Himself to be nailed on the cross for his (Bunynn's) sake. "I saw Him in the spirit," he goes on, "a man on the right band of the Father, pleading for me, anil have seen the manner of Ilis eoning from heaven to juige the world with glory."-Fhoude's Iunyin, ch. 3.
1176. CONVERSION demanded, Perurians. The Emperor Attabalipa, at the approach of the Spaniards, had drawn up his army near the city of Quito. Pizarro began with offering terms of friendship, which heing disregarded, he prepared bimself for a hostile assamit. $X$ inonk andvanced in the front of the army, holding in his hand a Bible, and told the incei Attabalipa, by means of an interpreter, that it was absolutely necessary for his salvation that he should helieve all that was contained in that book. He then proceeded to set forth the doctrine of the eremtion, the fall of Adam, the incarnation of our Saviour, the redemption of man, the power of the apostles, and the transmission of their authority by succession to the Pope of Rome, concluding with the donation made by this Pope to Ferdinand and Isabella, the predecessors of the Emperor Charles V., of all the regions in the New World. In consequence of this clear deduction, he ordered the inca immediately to embrace the Christian faith and acknowledge the pope's supremney. The terrors of a cruel death prevailed on Attabalipa to receive the sacrament of baptism; and immediately thereafter he was strangled at a stake. The same punishment was inflicted on several of the Peruvian chiefs, who, from a principle of generous magnanimity, chose rather to suffer death than disclose the treasures of the empire to its inhuman and insatiable invaders.-Tytler's Mist., Book 6, ch. 21.
1177. CONVERSION, Intellectian. Constantine. The sublime theory of the gospel had made a much fainter impression on the heart than on the understanding of Constantine bimself. He pursued the great object of his ambitlon through the dark and bloody paths of war and policy; and after the victory he abandoned himself, without moderation, to the abuse of his fortunc. . . . As he gradually advanced in the knowledge of truth, he proportionally declined in the practice of virtue; and the same year of his reign in which be convened the council of Nice was polluted by the execution, or rather murder, of his eldest som.-Gmmon's Rome, th. 20.
1178. CONVERSION, Peculiar. Mirtin Luther. In the your 1 iflo an Augustinian monk walked, with desolate heart, the strects of Rome, and, turning away from the pomp of her charches and the corruptions of the Vationn, solght relief to his nwakencd sonl by ascending, on his knees, with peasmats mad beggars, the stairease of Pilate, which wins surposed to have ben trodden hy Christ at His trial, mud is now enelosed nas the Lateran Palace. Whale pansing on the sueressive steps to werp and pay, a voire from heaven seemed to cry within hinh, "The just shall live by faith." It was the voice of npostolical Christianity, and the announcement of the Reformation. Ine thed from the superstitions sceme. - Stevess' Mermodism, vol. 1, p. 19.
1179. CONVERSION, Remarkable. Menry Dorsey Gough. He was a young man of great wealth, residing at Perry Mall, about twelve miles from Bultimore, in one of the most spacious and elegant residences in Anerich at that time.
IIis wife had been deeply impressed hy the Methodist preaching, but he forbade her to hear them again. While revelling with wine and gay contpamions, one evening it was proposed that they should divert themselves by going together to a Methodist assembly. Asbiry was the preacher, and no godless thiversion could be fonad in his presence. "What nomsense," explaimed one of the convivialists, as they returnetl-" what nonsense have we heard to-night!" "No," exclaimed Gough, startling them with suthen surprise"no; what we have heard is the trath, the truth' as it is in Jesns." "I will never hinder you again from hearing the Methoolists," he said as he entered his house and met his wife. The impression of the sermon was so profound that he could no longer enjoy his necustomed pleasures. He became deeply scrious, und at last melancholy, " nad was near destroying himself," unter the awakened sense of his misspent life. . . . [His converted slaves were happier than he, with all his luxuries.] He went to his chamber, leaving a large company of friends at his table; there he threw himself upon his knees and implored the merey of God, until he received conscious pardon and peace. In a transport of joy he went to his company, exclaiming, "I have found the Methodist's blessing-I have found the Methodist's God! "- Strevens' M. E. Cnurch, vol. 1, p. 237.
1180. - - Johen Buny/an. Bunyan hat been bred a tinker, and had served as a private soldier in the Parlimmentary army. Early in his life he had been fearfully tortured hy remorse for his youthful sins, the worst of which seem, however, to have been sucin as the world thinks venial. His keen sensibility and his powerful imagination made his internal contlicts singularly terrible. He fancied that he was under sentence of repromation, that he had cominitted blasphemy against the IIoly Ghost, that he had sold Christ, that he was actunlly possessed by a demon. Sometimes loud voices from lieaver cricd out to warn him. Sometimes fiends whispered impious suggestions in his ear. He saw visions of distant mountain-tops, on which the sun shone brightly, but from which he was separated by a waste of suow. He felt the devil behind him pulling his clothes. He thought that the brind of Cain had been set upon him, He feared that he was about to burst asumder like Judas. II is mentalagony disordered his health. One day he shook like a man in the palsy. On another day he felt a fire within his breast. It is dillicult tounderstand how he survived sufferings so intense and so long continued. At length the clonds broke. From the depths of despuir the penitent passed to a state of serene felicity. An irresistible impulse now urged him to impart (o) others the blessings of which he was himself possessed. Ite joined the Baptists. - Macablay's Eno., ch. 7 .
1181. $\qquad$ Adam Clatk: Whenhe was a young man a preacher asked him, "Do you think that Gool, for Christ's sake, has forgiven your sins ?" "No, sir; I lave no evidence of this," the youth replied. He was directed to pray for it, and the passing word was " like a nail in a sure place." He accompanied his mother to a chass meeting, and soon was fervently seeking the spiritual life of which he heard its simple members speak. ILe sought it through much mental anguish. . . One morning, in deep distress, he went out to his work in the fields; he legan, but could not proceal. He fell on his knees on the carth, and prayed, but scemed to be without ability to utter even a broken supplication. . . . Itis physical strength seems to have departed from him. Ile again endeavored to pray. . but the thickest darkness settled on his somil. Ife fell flat on his face, and tried to pray. LIis agonies were indescribable. Ite says he seemed forever separated from Gool. Denth. . . [would have been welcome, if it lad brought an end to his painful feelings?. No fear of hell produced these terrible condlicts. . . . Where to go, what to do, and what to say he knew not; even the words of prayer at last fuited. . .: He experienced a sense of the displeasure of a holy God for having sinned against IIm. . . . Passing throngh this agony, he felt strongly in his soul, " Pray to Christ :". . . he looked up contidently to the Saviour of sinners, his agony subsided, his soul hecome calm. He examined his conscience, and found it no longer a register of sins aguinst God. Ite searehed for his distress, but conkl not tind it. . . . A change had taken place within him for which he had no name. Ile sat down upon the ridge where he had heo working, filled with inetrable delight. Ile felt a sudden transition from darkness to light. He was like a person who had entered a new world. . . . Ite could draw nigh to God with more contidence than he ever could to his carthly father. [Thus did this moral young man begin that Christima life which adorned and sametified the eminent scholarship of his riper years.] -stevens Methodism, vol. $2, \mathrm{p}$. 286 .
1182. CONVERSION, Results of. Constantine. The publicestablishment of Christianity may be considered as one of those important and domestic revolutions which excite the most lively curiosity, and afford the most valuable instruction. The victories and the civil policy of Constantine no longer influence the state of Europe; but a considerable portion of the globe still retains the impression which it received from the conversion of that monareh; and the ecolesiastical institutions of his reign we still commecteal, by an indissoluble chain, with the opinions, the passions, and the interests of the present geveration.-Gis. mos'r Rome, ch. 20.
1188. CONVERSION, Sudden. Among UTater, Mountains. "Are there any drunkards here "" eried a Methodist itherant, ins he preached amid a mongrel multitude [in the open air]. "Yes, 1 am one," replied a sobbing Irishman, who, returning intoxionted toward his home, had stepped askle to the assembly, supposing it was witnesshag a corktight; and from that day he was not only rechaimed from his long-egntrmed viee, but bermme a gemuine Christian.-Stevens' Metinonsm, vol. 1, p. 284.
1181. CONVERSIONS, Slow. Mrihomet. Three years were silatly employed in the conversion of fourteren proselytes, the thest-fruits of his mission : but in the fourth year he assumed the prophetie ofller, aud resolving to impart to his family the light of divine truth, he prepared a lam-quet-a lamb, as it is said-und a howl of milk, for the entertainment of forty guests of the ruce of Itashem. "Friends and kinsmen," said Mahomet to the assembly, " 1 offer you, and I alone can offer, the most precions of gifts-the treasures of this world und of the world to cenme. God has commanded me to call you to 1 is service. Who among you will support my burden? Who mong you will he my companion and my vizier?" No answer was returned, till the silence of astonishment and doubt and contempt was at length broken by the impatient conrage of Ali. a youth in the fourteenth year of his age. " 0 proplet, I am the man ; whosoever rises agaiast thee I will dush out his teeth, tear ont his eyes, break his legs, rip up his belly. O prophet, I will be thy vizicrover them." Mabomet areepted his offer with transporit.-Gbbos's Rome, ch. 50.
118.5. CONVERSIONS by the Sword. Charlemagne. Charlemagne traversed the entire territory [of the Saxons] to its western extremity, receiving the submission of the inhabitants, and causing them to be baptized by thousands by the army of priests who aceompanied his march. But these conversions, as one of the chroniclers observes, being made at the point of the sword, were of necessity insincere.-stedentse Fhance, ch. 5, & 5, p. 6.5 .
1186. CONVERT, A renegade. Lord Siunderlinel. Sunderland [prime minister of James II.], less scrupulous and less sensible of shame, resolved to atone for his late moderation, and to recover the royal contidence by an act which, to a mind impressed with the importance of religious teuth, mist have appeared to be one of the most thagitions of crimes, and which even men of the world regard an the last excess of baseness. . . . The renegrale protested that he had been long convinced of the impossibility of finding salvation out of the commanion of Rome, and that his conscience would not let him rest till he had renounced the beresies in which he had been brought up. The news spread fast. At all the coffechouses it was told how the prime-minister of England, his feet bare, and a taper in his hand, had repaired to the royal chajel and knocked humbly for admittance ; how a priestly voice from within had demanded who was there ; how Sunderland ham mate answer that a poor simer who hat long wandered from the true Church implored her to receive and to absolve him ; how the doors wero opened; nul how the neophyte partook of the holy mysteries.-Macaulay's Enc., ch. 8.

11s7. CONVICTION, Popular. Jorn of Are. Her sunctity seizel the hemets of the jeople. In a moment all were for her. Women, ladies, citGzens' wives, ull flocked to see her at the honse where she whs stanying, with the wife of an alvocute to the parliament, and all returned full of emotion. Men went there tex) ; and fombitlors, advocates, old hardened judires, who had sulfereeal themselves to be taken thither fincralulonsly, when they lad hatard laer wept everlastle woinen did, and said, "The maid is of God."-Micrielet's donn of Anc, p. 10.
1188. CONVICTION, Prayer for. Ciory Mint. ler. When ronversing with twomiversity friembs -formerly his compmaions in wordly pidasumes and mmasemonts-he bold them how lappy he was, and urged them anso to seek the Lord. To this, however, they repliad, "Wedonot feel that, we ure sinners," upon which he knelt town in their presence. asking God to convince flem of their lost contition loy mature, nud afterward went into his bedroom, where he continued to pray for them. Upon returning to his sittingroom he foumid the two yonaig nen in tears ; for Gool, by Ilis Spirit, in auswer to prayer, had convinceal them both of sin. From that time a work of grace commenced in their heats, and they became devoted servants of the Lord Jesis. Life of MUller. p. 13.
1180. CONVICTION of Sin. Rev. John Nelson. [John Nelson, who berame one of Wesley's most successful preachers, was a man of good morals from lis youth. 1lismind became deeply agitated on religions subjects. He went to the Established Church and to dissenters' nectings, visiting chapel after chapel, but found no relicf.] He became morbidly despondent; he slept little, and often awoke from terrible dreams, dripping with sweat, and shivering with terror. "He went to hear Wesley preach.] "My heart," he says, " beat like the peadulam of a clock, and when he spoke I thought his wholediscourse was aimerl at ine." "This mam," he said to himself, "can tell the secrets of my breast; he has shown me the remerly for my wretehedness, even the blood of Christ." [He soon found the peace lie hat bern seeking.]-Steveas' Methodism, vol. 1, p. 177.
1190. CONVICTIONS maintained. Mrusachusetts Colony. The colony had been much vexed by the efforts of the [London] managers to thrust on them a minister of the Established Church. Was it not to avoid this very thing that they had come to the wilds of the New Worlh? Shond the tyranny of the prelates follow them even across the sea and into the widderncss? There was dissension and strife for awhile; the English managers withhelel support ; oppression was resorted to ; the stores intendel for the colonists were sold to them at three prices; and they were obliged to borrow money at sixty per cent. But no exactions could break the spirit of the Pilgrims ; and the conflict ended with the purchase of whatever rights the London proprietors had in the colony. -Ridpatio's U. S., eh. 13.
1191. CONVICTIONS, Realistic. John Bunyan. More than ever he was convinced that he

Wha possessed by the devil. IIe "compared limesef tu a chilh currled off by a gypsy." "Kick sometimes I din," he says, " ant scream and ery, but yet I was ins lound in the wings of temptation, and the wind would bear me awny." "I linssed the dog umd toml, mul counted tho pondition of everything that Gorl had made far better than this trealfill state of mine. The dog or horse hal uo soml to perislo under the everhasting weight of hell for sin, is mine was like to do."-Fholde's Brayan, th. 3.
1192. CONVICTIONs, strong. John Brmy/m. To bumyan the future life of Christimity whs a reality in certain ns the next day's sumrise; ancl he could have bedn happy on bread mul water if he could have folt himself prepared to enter it. Wever recated being seremed better off than he was. Ile was sorry that God lath made him it man. II E "blessed the condition of the hirds, housts, aum fishes, for thry hal not a siuful nathare. They were not ohnoxious to the whath of God ; they wre not to go to hell-tire after death." He veralled the texts which spoke of (Christ and forgiveness. Ite tried to persuate limself that Christ rared for him. Ite could have talked of Christ's love and mercy "even to the very prows which sat on the plonghed land lefore him." But lie was too sincere to satisfy himself with formulas and phrases. II conild not, he would not, profess to be convinced that things would go well with him when he was not convinced. Fhocde's Benvan, rli. 3.
1193. -- Conversion. [Benjamin Aboot relates the following incident:] A Qinker woman went from [his] preaching under strong conviction and such anguish of mind that she paid no nttention to her family, not even to her suckling chidd. Early in the morning I was sent for; when I arrived she was sitting with both handes clenehed fast in the lair of her hamd, crying out, "Lord, have mercy on me ! Save, Lord, or I perish!" I told her to pray in fath ; to look to Jesus, nud lay hold on the promises, and God would have merey on her; but she said, "I cannot pray." I said, "You do pray very well; go on." I then knceled down and prayed; three pious women who were present did likewise. . The distressed woman appenred to be worse, jiko one going distractiol. I then sang. When the last worts were sung . . . I kneeled down; in a few minutes she clapped lier hands togetherand cried, "My Lord, my Gorl, my Father l" Her soul was immediately set at liberty, nod she sprang up, rejoicing mad giving glory to God.-Sterens M. E. Cumucir, vol. 1, p. 257.
1194. CO-OPERATION, Impossible. Jumes $I I$. [The Dutch ambassador to Lomion,] Dykvelt, reported that James was bitterly mortitied by the conduct of the prince and princess [William of Orange und Mary his wife, the daughter of James]. "My nephew's duty," said the king, " is to strengthen my liands; but he has always taken a pleasure in crossing me." Dykvelt answred that in matters of private concern his Highness had shown, and was ready to show, the greatest deference to the king's wishes ; but that it was scarcely reasonable to expect the aid of a Protestant prince against the Protestant religion. -Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 226.
1195. CO-OPERATION in Manufactures. Seventeenth Century. There is the remnant of an old system of co-operative indiustry in the " tributer" system of their [the Cornish tinners'] mining lalor, which asslgns each man it rewird dilferent from the ordinary system of wages. The Cornisi fisheries were condincted on the same principie, which has probably prevailed from very remote times. The same system of co-operation prevalied in one of the industries of somerset-shire-the cheese-making of Chedidur-for whinh Fuller has the characteristic name of "Joinriniries." $\Lambda$ il the cowkecpers united in manuring the common upon which the cows fed. Every one brought his milk to a common room, where the qumatity was mensured and recorded. The making of a grent cheese went duly forward : and when the milk of $a$ poor man who kept but one cow was sullecient for one cherse, he reecived his cheese. The rich owner of many cows had his retirn earlier, but the joor man was sure of his just slare.-Kintarts Exu., voi. 5, ch. 1, p. 14 .
1196. CORONATION ceremony. Frankis. The kings of the Fronks had hitherto heren inangurated by a ceremony peeniar to the Gothic nation. Sented on a shield, they were carried through the ranks, and received the homage of the army. Pepin, aware of the violenee he ham done to human institutions, was anxious to impress the helief that his right to the erown was of hemveniy origin. He adopted from sicripture the ceremony of consecration by holy oil, and was unointed by the hands of Boniface, Archbishop of Mentz; and this ceremony became ever after an established usage in the coromation of Christian princes.-TyTLem's IIIs'r., Jook 6, ch. 2.
1107. CORONATION a personal Act. At Notre Darre. [The Senate hud chosen and prorlaimed him emperor. The pope was brought from Italy to consecrate the ceremony of coronation.] The pope anointed the emperor, blessed the sword mad seeptre, and as he appronched to take up the crown, Napoleon firmly and with dignity took it in his own hand and placed it limself upon his head. This characteristie act produceal an indescribable effect upon the assembiy.-Anbotte's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 28.
1198. CORPOLENCE, Distinguished, Lou $i s$ VI. Louis VI., surnamed Le Gros from his corpuleney, was unquestionally one of the ablest and leist sovereigns who have filled the throne of France,-S'tudents' Fimanee, ch. 7, § 21, p. 126.
1199. CORPULENCE, Inactive, Charles the Fut. Emperor Churles the Fat, youngest som of Louis the German . . . was utterly unworthy of the lofty position to which fortume had raised lim. He was devoid both of military and political talent; his corpulence rendered lim inactive; he was cruel, treacherons, cowardly.Students' France, cli. 6, § 7, p. 92.
1200. CORRESPONDENT, Burdensome. Cromvell. [One of his daughters married Ireton.] She was caliod Bridget. Her enlightened intelleet and fervent piety made her the habitual confidante of all her father's religious feeiings. We may trace in some scraps of his letters to this young female the constant preoccupation of his mind. "I do not write to your husband, because he replies by a thousand letters to every one that I address to him. This makes him sit up too late ; besides, I have mann other things to ntend to at present."-Lamabicisis's Chomwelal, p. 34.
1201. CORRUPTION, Audadous, Citiline. Catiline, being prosectated for some great offence, corrupted the juiges. When they had given their veribet, though he was aequitted only by a majority of two, he said he lund put himself to 11 nerefless expense ha hribing oure of those judges, for it wonld lave been sullle ion to have lad a majority of one.-Phevaneris Cubeo.
1202. CORROPTION denled. Pr lagiom, In the tifth century arose the Prehgian herew. The nuthors of it were Pelagius mat celesthes, the former a mative of Britain, the latter of frelmot. These men looked upon the adoetrines rommonly received concerning the original comption of lomman mature, and the neressity of divine arace to enlighten the understanding und purify the henrt, is prejudicial to the progrese loth of religion mat virtue, ami toming to bull mankind into a presumptuous and fatal security: They maintaned that these doctrines were equaliy false and pernidious; that the sins of our trst parents were imputed to them alone, and not to their posterity; that we derive no corruption from their fill, but are born as pure and unspotted as Adam cume from the hands of his Maker... that mankind are capable of arriving at the highest degree of piety and virtue, by the use of their own matural faculties and powers. -TYTLeis's IIst., Book 6, wh. 3.
1203. CORRUPTION, Eccleslastical. Pipal Throne. Amid these contentions of parties it became a usual practice to adijust the difference by setting the popedom up to public salde, and disposing of it to the highest bidider ; and bishopric and inferior benctices were tilled in the sume manner. Benedict VilI. and John XIX., two brothers, publicly bought the popeciom ono after another, and on the death of the latter it was purchased in a similur manner for a clitid of ten years of age, Benedict IN.-Tymbers IIs'r., Book 6, ch. 4.
1204. $\square$ . Ticelfth Century. Corrupt as the Church of Itome was, there is reason to believe that if the church had been overthrown in the twelfth or even in the fourteenth century, the vacmat space would have been oceupied by some system more corrupt still. There was then, through the greater part of Europe, very littie knowledige, and that little was confined to the clergy. Not one man in five hundred could have spelled his way through a psalm. Books were few and costly. The art of printing was unknown. Copies of the Bible, inferior in beauty and clearness to those which every cottager may now command, sold for prices which many priests couid not afford to give. It was obviously impossible that the laity shouh search the Scriptures for themselves. It is probable, therefore, that, as soon as they had put off one spirituad yoke, they would have put on another.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 42.
1205. CORRUPTION, Governmental. Rman. [In 399 the ambitions cunuch Eutropius was made consui.] Claudian . . says this infamous broker of the empire appreciates and divides the Roman provinces from Mount Hæmus to the Tigris. One man, at the expense of his villa, is mule proconsul of Asin ; a second purchases Syrim with hls wife's jewels; und a third lanents thint he has exchnnged lifs putermal estate for the government of Bithynia. In the nutechamber of Eutropias a large tablet is exposed to public view, which marks the respective pribes of the provinces. The dilferent valase of Pontas, of Galatia, of laydia, is necurntely distingulished. Lyeia may be obtained for so mmay thonsand pleces of gold; lut the opuleme of $I^{\prime}$ hrygia will reguire a more considerable sum. The enanuch wishes to ohliterate, hy tho genernl disgraco, his personal ignominy; andas be has leen sold lafinself, he is desirous of selling the rest of mankind. In the eager contention, the balance, which contains the fate und fortunes of the provinace, of ten trembles on the bemm ; nud till one of the scales is inclinet ly a superior weight, the mind of the impartind julge remains in anxions suspense. -Ginhon's Jiome, ch. 3iz.
1206. $\qquad$ English. [In 1616] Sir Fulk Greville paid $£ 4000$ for the chaneellorship) of the Exclaepuer. Inferior phaces went to the highest bidder.-KNiant's ENo., vol. 3, ch. ¿23, j. 364.
1207. $\qquad$ By Ministry. The borough of IIull, in the reign of Charles 11., chose us member of Purlianent Andrew Marvell, a gentemur of little or no fortune, und maintained him in London for the service of the public. With a view to bribe him, his old school-fellow, the Lord Trensurer Imaby, went to hinn in his gurret. At parting, the Lord Trensurer slipped into his hunds an order upon the Treasury for £1000, and then went into his chariot. Marvell looked nt the paper, und called after the Treasurer, "My Lord, I request another monment." They went up again to the garret, and Juck, the servant loy, was callerl. "Jack, what lime l for dinner yesterday ?" "Don't you remember, sir, you latd the little shoulder of mutton that you asked me to bring from a woman in the matet?" "Very right. What have I for dinner to-day?" "Don't you know, sir, that yon made ne lay up the bhalebone to broil ?" ""Tis so, very right. Go away. My lord, do you hear that? Andrew Marvell's diuner is pro. vided; there's your piece of paper, I want it not. I kuew the sort of kindness you intended. 1 live here to serve my constituents. The Ministry way sek men for their purpose; I an not one."

120w. CORRUPTION, Judicial, Rommens. As it wats reasomahly ajpmelambled that the integrity of the judgre might be biassed if his interest was concerned or lifis aflections were engraged, the strictest regulations were established to exclude any preson, without the specind dispensation of the entperor, from the goverument of the province whare he was born ; and to prolibib the governor or his son from contracting marriage with a mative or an inhabitant; or from purchasing slaves, lands, or houses within the extent of his jurisdiction. Notwithatnanding these rigorous precantions, the Emperor Constantine, after a reign of twenty-five years, still deplores the venal and oppressive admir.stration of justice, and expresses the warmest indignation that the audience of the judge, his despatch of business, his seasonable delays, and his tinal sentence were publiely sold, either by himself ow by the oftleers of lais court. The continmance, and por, hups the impunity, of these crimes is nttested by the repetlion of fimpotent laws nusl ineffectual mentees.- Gimmon's lRoms., ch, 17.
1900. CORROPTION, Offictal. IRmans. The [aptlvo Gothas] Imrlmrians, who eonsldered their armes us the eusigns of honor num the pledges of suffoty, were disposed to offer a price, Which the lant or avariee of the Imperint oftleers was casily tempted to necerpit. 'lopreserve their arms, the lamgaty wirrione ronsestex, with some relactance, to prostitute their wives or their datighters; the clamras of a bemuteous madd or a eonacly hoy sercured the comaivance of the finspertors, who sometimes cast an eyo of covet. ousmess on the friagod cmipets mad linen garments of their new nllides, or who satcritleed their duty to the mema comsjaderation of tilling their farms with enttle and their houses with slaves. I'he Gotlis, with urms in their launds, were permitted to enter the bonts; and when their strength was collected on the othor side of the river, the finmense chanf which was spread over the plains and the hills of the Jawer Masia assumed in threatening and even hostile aspect.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 26.
1210. - - Senator Verres. Verres held his province for three years. He was suprome judge in all civil and eriminal cases. He negotinted with the parties to every suit which was brought lefore him, and then sold his dechsions. He eonfiscated estates on fletitious aceusutions. The island was rich in works of art. Verres had a taste for such things, and seized without scruple the finest productions of Pruxiteles or Zeuxis. If those who were wronged dared to complain, they were sent to forced labor nt the quarries, or, as dend men tell no tales, were put out of the world. Ite had an understanding with the pirates, which throws light upon the serret of their impunity. $\boldsymbol{A}$ shipful of then were bronglit into Messina as prisoners, and were sentenced to be executed. A handsome brobe was paid to Verres, and a number of Sicilinns whon he wished ont of the why were brought ont, viled, and gagged that they might not he recornizer, und were linngerl as the pirates' substitutes. By these methods Verres was acrused of havingr rathered out of Sicily three quaters of a million ol our money. Two thirds he calculated on having to spend in corrupting the consuls and the court before which le might be prosecuted.-Frovise's C.Escult, ch. 9.
1211. CORRUPTION, Political. Romans. [Cissar and Pompey tricel to ruin ench other.] And all runks of men were so corrupted that tubles were publicly set out, "pon which the candidates for oftices were professedly realy to pay the people the price of their votes; mid the people came not only to give their voices for the nam! who had boughat thens, lut with all manner of offensive weapons to firht for lim. Hence it often haprened that they did not part without pollntiag the tribunal with blood and murder, and the city was a perpetual scene of anarehy. In this dismal situation of thi) $s$, in these storms of epidemic madness, wise men thought it would be huppy if they ended in nothing worse than monarciny. Nay, there were many who serupleal not to dechare publicly that monarchy'was the only cure for the desperaie disorders of the State, and that the physichan ought to be phtehed upon who would apply that remerly with the gentest hand ; by which they hinted at Powney. - Pleutahehes Cemail.

1212. $\qquad$ E'ayland.

The machinery of both sides [Whig und Tory] was malimited bribery. The degrmathon of the briber was us great ins that of the bribed. Berkelley writes in 1721: "This corruption has berome a national crime, havhag inferfed the lowest as well as the highest momg has." - Kintint's Dixi., vol. i, ch. 4, 1. 5it.

121ib. CORRUPTION, Shameful. l'rauris liar. com. He was charged hy the Commons, before the Lords, with twaty-two acter of hribury and rorruption. He uttempted nodrleme. De made a distanct confension in writing of the rharges Drought maninst him. And when a deputation of peres asked if that confession was hisown volmatary act, he repliod: "It ismy act, my hama, my henrt. O my dards, spare a broken berd," IIr was thed $\mathrm{e}^{\prime}+0,000$ and sentenced to imprisonment in the Tower during the king's plename. -

121. CORRUPTION of Statesmen. Einglixh. [In 16as the Itonses of ['arliament diselosed] the frightenf romption hy which matesimen in power and statesmen in opposition were mover (1) support, or to resist, some memsure in which large pecuniary interests were involved; or to sereen some public delinguent. Guy, a member of Parliament mod Socretary of the Treasury, was sent to the Tower for receiving a bribe in romnertion with some impuiries into the comblut of a colonel of a regiment, who had appropriated the money with which he ought to lave paid the quarters of his troops. Trevor, the Speaker of the Honse of Commons, was proved to have rercival a bibe of 1000 guinems from the corporation of Loudon, for assisting in passing an act for the relief of the orphans and other crediturs of the city of London. JIe had to pat the question from the chair, whether he himself was guilty of a high crime mad misulememor; and had to say "The ayes have it." IIe was expelleal the honse. The East India Company had spent $£ 107,000$ in secret service moncy. . . Sir Thomas Cook, the chairman of the company, had the mangement of these delicate matters.

In his plate in Parliament he refused to answer inupiries. The Commons then passed a bill compelling him to answer, inder enormons pemaltics. Upon the bill going to the Upper House, the Duke of Lueds spoke strongly against the bill, and, laying his hand on his breast, protested that he was entirely disinterested in the matter. The inguiries went on, implicating others ; and the Commons finally impeached Thomas, Duke of Leeds, President of the Comacil, for that he did ugree with the merchants trading to the East Indies, for 500 guineas, to procure their charter of contirmation. The king's [William III.] persomal friend, Porthand, was fomal to have been proof against these temptations, having refused a bribe of $£^{2} 50,000$. - Kniout's Eng., vol. 5, eh. 12, p. 177.
1215. CORRUPTION, Unabashed. James II. [Sunderland was his prime-minister.] What sums he made by selling places, titles, and pardons can only be conjectured, lint must lave been enormous. James seemed to thke a pleastre in lomiling with wealth one whom he regarded ny his own convert [to Rommism]. All hues, all forfeltures, went io Sumberlaud. On every grant toll was path to lilm. If any suitor ventured to nak my linvor tirectly from the klage the nuswer was, "Unve you spoken to my Lard Iressident $\%$ " Gur beld man veltured to saly that the Sord I'resident got all the mon'y of the comirt. "Well," replied his Majesty, " he deserves it nll." We shatl sermerely overrate the amomit of the minis-it must be remembered that fortumes of Liso, (0) a year were la his time rurer than forthones of (h. ! ; p) 4u!.

1211, CORRUPTION, Unlversal. Wiqn of Iy corrupt It was an me of mixersal aboses. Lomal mapistrates were inthened by the pettiwh gilla, anil were called" hasket- jnistienes.". . Goon the highest branch of this rotem tree sat Framef Bacom, Viveount it. Almms, the great C'ommens, belfor the Larils, with twenty- two arts of bribery aml corruption. Ife allempted no defenere. . . He made a distime ronfession in writing. [a, b. 10:1.]-Kxinur's Eva.. vol. 3 , (h. id, p. ikN.
1217. CORRUPTION unrentrainable. liy lam. [In 12an Purliament enarted] that no king's othrer should take any reward to do his onlice, such conatmont being one of the many prool's of the inelldienty of law to restrain corruption; for within fourteen years there were only two juiges ont of tifteen who were not fomul guily of the erossest extortions. - Kivunts Excr., vol. 1, ch. 25, p. $38 \%$.

121m. C08MOS, Phllosophy of the. Descartes. Ife sets ont upon this principle, that in order to form the universe, nothing else was reguisite but mafter and motion ; that extension is the essence of all loodies, and space being extended as well ns mater, there is no difference letween space und matter, conserpuently there is no void or vaelum in mature. Ite divides this homogracous mass of spare and matter into angular parts of a eubical form, lativing no interstices between them. "To these cubes," suys he, " the Author of Nature gave a rotatory motion round their axes, and likewise an impulse forward, which drives them round the sun as a centre." From the attrition of the purts in this rotation he supposes the plancts to be formed. 'This strnuge romance . . . seemed to explain several of the phenomena of nature.-Tytler'sllist., Buok 6, ch. 30.
1219. COUNSEL of the Dying. Lomis XIV. Lonisdid not long starvive the paritiration of his empire. He direl on the 1st of September, 1715, in the seventy-eighth your of his age. . . . The last words which he uttered, as reported by Madame Maintenon, who heard them, were the dietates equally of a wise and a magnanimons sparit; he called to him his grandson the dauphin, who stood by his bedside, und holding him between his arms give him his blessing, and said to him, "My son, you ure going to be a great king ; bo always a gool Christian. Do not follow my example with regard to war; endeavor to live in pence with your neighbors. Render to God what you owe to lim; follow always the most mod-und thas do that whind I have, unhapplly, not berel ubla to do. Take notice, my son: these nre my lins words, mind let them shik denp finto your mind-remember that kines die like other

1220. COUNSEL, Inopportune. I/fintios of
 nud hand, hellsurins gave nudienee to the dopmties of the people, who exthorted him to distrgard a compuest monorthy of his armes, to serk the Gothice king la at billd of butthe, mul, nither his vietory, to chuim, 'te the soverecign of Rome', the allegianne of the dependent ditis. "Whent I tratt with my ememes," replied the lommen chitef, with a hunghty smile, "I am more nerenstomed to give than to reedve commen; hat. 1 hold in she humd the citable ruin, nul fin the wher puncr mid frectom, suld is sicily now

1221. COUNSEL, Safety In. lhittle. [When the forcen of Willimun III. obluined thair crowning vietory over those of Jannew 11. at Ayhrim, the arme of the latter wis rommanderd by the Mariguis st. Ruth, a Fremell gemeral.] Si, Ruth hud made uble dispositions for the lnattle, bun, joulons of the Irish gencruls, hud kept his phans to himestf, mad when the was killed by a cumem shot eurly in the netion, there was no sue to succeed him. The Engllsh troons, in spite of the well-chomen pusition of their opponemte, tothlly ronteld Jumes' army.-An. Cethorida, "Асиным."
1222. COUNBELLOR, An evil. Riobert lirgnsem. [An exile from Bughand und promoter of the rebellion aguinst Junce Il.] Fergnson, who, evar since the denth of Chartes, hand been Mommonth's evil angel, had a suggestion ready. The duke had put himself into a fulse position hy derdining the royal titte. Had be dechred himself sovereign of England, hils cause woudd huve worn anhow of legnity. At present it was impossible to reconcile his Declurntion with the priaciples of the Constitution. It wisclenr that cither Mommomth or his uncle was righaf ful king. Monmonth did not venture to pronomince himself the rightful king, mad yet denied that his uncle was so. Those whon fought for Jumes fought for the only person who ventured to chaim the throne, and were, therefore, cleurly in their duty areording to the laws of the realm. Those who fourgh for Mommonth fought for some unknown polity, which was to be sit - 1 , by a convention not yet in existence. . . On the morning of the 20th of Thue he was proclaimed in the market-place of Tammon. His followers repented his new title with affectionate deleieht; but, as some confusion might have arisen if he had been called King James II., they commonly used the strunge mpleclation of King Mommonth. - Macaulay's Evi., cht. $\overline{\text { in }}, \mathrm{p} .544$.
1223. COUNSELLORS, Dangerous. Of Jumes II. But there wis at the court in small knot of Roman Catholies whose hearts hul been uleerated by old injuries, whose heals had been turned by recent elevation, who were impatient to climb to the highest honors of the State, nad who, having little to lose, were not troubled by thoughts of the day of reckor:ng. One of these was Roger Palmer, Earl of Castlemaine in Ireland, and hustand of the Duchess of Cleveland.

Ilis title had notoriously Inern purchused hy his wife's dishomor mid hitwow. Ills fortme was sumall. lify tronker, maturally mugentle, had Ineoll exaypernted by his domeste vexutions, by the pubithe reprenclies, tum hy what he line 'underegone In the days of tha Popish Plot.
These men culted with ome woler for war on the constlintion of the ('hur ch mull the state. They told therir masere thet her owed it to hlts rellighon unid to the dignity of hle crown to stund firm ugulast the outury of herevical domugenges, mul ti) let the barlhanent see from the first that ho would be mastir in spite of opphostion, nud thent him a hard muster.-Macaulay's Exi., dle. O. 1. 43.

ILLI. COUNSELLORS, Whimalcal. "Wiwe
 frew milew of the Romim ontposts. The Rommens luy intrenched nemr' ('ermy. The Germmens were nt Cohmur. C'estar oiferred Imttle, whitich Ariovistus derlined. ('invary fighits humpered daily which led to mothing. Cuener then formed n secoul camp, smaller lint strongly fortited, within sight of the rememy mad thre wiwo laglons into it. Ariowhtus attuicken ham, but he was haten buck with loss. The "wise women" andvised him 10 try no more till the now mom. But (ansar would net wait for the nuon, nud fored ma engugement. The wives and dunghters of the dermunts rashed about their cminp, with stremming luir, mljuring their comntrymen to suve then from shavery. The Germmas fonght like herones, limt they could not stand agninst the short swor:l and humd-to-hand grupple of the legiomuries. Better arms mand better discipline mgrin asserted the superiority. . . . $\Lambda$ few swam the river ; a few, Ariovistus nmong them, escaped in bonts; nll the rest, men and women nlike, were cut down mad killed. - Fioude's Cxanis, cl. 14.
1225. COUNTERFEIT, Preserved by, Jeign of Numa. ['There was at IRome] in sucred buckler, or ancile, which was said to have dropped from heaven, which gave occasion to the foundution of n new college of prlests, who hat the charge of it, and parnded with it, on particular occasions, in a kind of dance or jrocession. These were called Salii (a suliende); nad, lest the sacred buekler should be stolen or lost, eleven others were made exuctly resembling it, nnd deposited in the temple of J!piter.-TyTLer's 以1st., lanok 3, ch. 1, 1. 993
1226. COUNTERFEIT Relics, General Grant. [When in Eirypt, ut the villuge of Laxor of the apper Nile, f they were shown n house where an American lived for fifteen years, making mummy-lids, hicroglyphic inscriptions, idolsnnd relies of all kinds to suit the purchaser, which now doubthes ndorn muny a private collection. -Gen. Ghant's Trivels, p. 13 .
1127. COUNTERFEIT signature. Antony. The Consul Antony, ly the steps he had hitherto taken, wanted only to sonnd the dispositions of the people. Finding these to his wish, he very soon began to discover his own views of ambition. He was jossersed of the whole of the dictator's papers. He had received likewise from Cnlpurnia, the widow, all the treasures of Cesar. Not content with these, he made a traftic of fabricating arts and deeds, to which he counterfcited the dietator's antisertplon, imil Hint., Bowk I, M. 2.

 for the topice of his consermithon the braisen of his mative coramtry.

Ito observeri that soot.

 maty. Nerway, too, has molile wilil proverets; wild prosurets. IBat, sir, let me toll yom, tho mohhest prospert which a sootelman iver serom is the hegh rond that lands hion lo Fingland!"

1229. COUNTRY, A deserted. limue i" lichle lion. Whati the troup of Maximin, mivanclug In exceilent order, arrived nt the foot of the Jolinn $\mathrm{N}_{\mathrm{j}} \mathrm{s}$, they were territhed by tha silener and alosolntion that redgmed on the fromilers of Italy. 'The vilhures umil opern towns hatil been abnimened on their apmonels biy the inhabitanta. the cattle was driven nway, the provindons removed or destroyed, the bridgas brokn'n down, nor was unything left which conlil attoral either sheltor or ximsistemee to no buvader. Such had laen the wise oriders of the fenteruls of the Scmate, whose design wis to protract the will. toruin the army of Maximh by the now oprerathon of famine, and to consmane his strearth jut the sleges of the princlpal cities ot Ithly, which they lund plentifully stored with Hen and provisions from the deserted conntry. - GisBON'S RUME: Cl. 7 .

12:30. COUNTRY, Preservation of One's. Sílon's lam. 'The most peculiur mul surperising of his othar laws is that whilel dechares the mant infumous who stamis nenter in the thae of sedition. It seems he would not have us be jndifferent and unaffeeted with the fate of the puls. lic when our own concerns are upon atafe bottom: nor when wo are in benth be fnsensible to the distemper's and griefs of our comintry. Ile would have us exponise the lietter und juster canse, nud lomaral everything in defence of it, ruther than wat in safety to see which side the victory will incline to.-Plevancit.

1s3B. COUNTRYMEN abused. Reifu of Charle's II. When the lord of $n$ Lineolnshire or Shropshire manor appenred in Fleet Street, he was as casily distinguished from the resident popalation us a Turk or a dascar. IIis dress, liis gait, his necent, the manner in which he stared at the shopss. stumbled into the gutters, man against the perters, and sterol under the waterspouts marherf him out as an excellent sulbject for the operations of swindlers and banterers. Bullies jostled hian into the kemmel. Datelsneyconchmens splashed lian from lual tofot. Thieves explored wilh profert secority the hage pockets of his laotseman's cont, while he stood entrunced hy the splendor of the lord mayor's show. Moner-dropperss, wote from the catts tail, introdneed thenselves to hinn, und appeared to him the most honest, friomelly geanlemen that he had ever sern. Jeanted womeds, the ref. ase of Lewkiner Lame and Whetstone Park, passed themselver on him for connterses and maids of honor. If he asked his way to st. James', his informants sant lim to Mile End.
 po lwen tht jurchaser of averything that molooly "lan would bay-uf nerond hanil cmbrolalary, "ulyer rhags, mid witches that would not gos-

-DiPs. COURAGE In Battle, Morrius. [W'loy the Rumbins met the Volscinus, Marcins in.

 wrov jomed. Bring misweral that the Antiutes, who were phaced la the centre. were sup-it of you, then," sald Marefins, " as a favor, that. you will phec ime directly opposite to them."

12:3is. COURAGE, Christian. J/srtyrs. [1)r. IRowland Taylor, the martyr, was iold :] " If you whonld he the preatex litl that ever [ combla re-

 "harist to Suticharist."
|llof"ry was hrgerl to reanot. Ite repliad in these soloman woris: $]$ "I have timght the Iruth with my tonguce und with my pen luretofore: mod lurenfter shall shortly contirm tha stame, by tion's grace, with my hlowt." [latimor wis urred tio mabmit to sioneris the liged man ebeomaged lis younger fricnt, [killey, saying :] "Be of good comfort. Mastor Ridley, and play the man! We shanll his day light surils a rimulle, ly (Goil's gruce, In Englamd is shall nevor be put out." [Grmamer wiss Hrgidel to recint. Ilis maturnal couruge wis not st romig : bit lie renommed has former recantatlon. and added:] "Fomsmuch as my hand offendad in writing contrary tomy beari, therefore my lamd shall thrst lre pinished; for if I may come to the thre, it shall first be larned." At tho hurning be thrust it juto the thanes, exchaming. with a loul voice, "I'lis hand hath offended!" - Kinuart's Enu., vol. 3, ch. 6.
133.1. Joha Westey he was contradieted lyy $n$ bluspheming military allicer while prenching.] Stones were thrown. litting the clesk and people. To save them and the house, lo gruve notice that he would preach out of doors, and look the enemy in the face. He prayed forsinners as servants of their master. the devil, upon which an oflleer ran at him with great fury, ihrentening revenge for his ubuse, ns he colled it, of the kingr, his master. ILe fore ed his way through the frowd, drew his sword, and presented it to the breast of the preadere, who threw ojen his vest, atm, tixing hiseyeon his as. sailunt, ("almaly said: " I fear God, und honor the kins." The emptain's conntomate fell in a momatut: he put uphis sword, und quickly retreated from the sconc.-Stravens Merinodism, vol. 1 , 1). $1!60$.

1-2:B.5. COURAGE of Despair. Glatlintors. The trinmol duc to the valor of l'robus, the Roman general, was eonducted with a magniticence sultable to his fortune, and the people who hand so hatly monired the trophies of Aurelian gated with equal plensure on those of lis heroic suecassor. We canmot, on this oceasion, forget the dreprome courage of about fourscore ghadiators, reserved, with henr six humdred others, for the inhumatu sjorts of the amphithentre. Disduin-

Ing to shat their howa for the ammaneme of the pepalnew, they killeal their krow.ry, broke from the phase of thedr contimetiont, and thed the creat mul sut in pheren by ther regular foreese ; that.

 Sulate ch. ly.

12:36. COURAGE or Diagrace, firaterick the Cireat. [llixarmy wasabuat tonttand hreethana their minker of Austrins. If wald to his ath-
 Instantly, al theorder, dhager, Nhall he dismomen-

18:87. COURAGE, Intrepid. I'rince af Hithes. [Marguret of dugno, wife of the eaptive himg, ] preparel towtrike a dheindo hlow for the Crown of Enghud. This whe at T'rewkexhury, where shes commmoted har urmy in prown, mail led her son, the I'rine of Whas, through the ranks. Hut all was in vala; vietory dedarid in favor of bid. ward, and the undappy mother, sepmatated from her soll, wis sent a prisenmer to the 'lower of Lamdon. The I'rince of Wales, tyouth of $\ln$ (repid spirit, $\begin{aligned} & \text { keing brought into the presence of }\end{aligned}$ Ehlward, nulnsked, in un finsultiner anmmer, how be daved to Invade the territories of his severetign, "I have entered," snidl he. "the dombinins of my futher. 10 revenge his hinaries mad redress m!y ora." The harlmarous Eilward is said to have struck him in the face wilh his gmmilet, while of the attemdants, rushat apon the moble yould and stabled hhen to the homi with their dagurem. -'Tytler's Mint., Book 6, ch. 14 .
12836. CGURAGE, Loss of. By one Min. The Immediate lose of c'onstmatimople may be amerils. ed to the ballet, or arrow, which piereed the grumblet of dohn dusiminul. The sight of his bloma, and the exquisite pain, appalled the en: age of the chief, whose momsmil comenels we: the tirmest rampurt of the eity. Ashe withulrew from his station in quest of it surgeom, hiv thight was parceived and stopped ty the ladefatigathe emperor. "Your wombd," qumimed Paheologhes, "is slight; the danger is pressing; your presence in neressary ; mul whither wilf you retire ?" " I will retire," satid the tremblitit Genosese, "by the same rond which Gond has opened to the 'lurks;" mul ut these words he lnstily phased through one of the breashes of the inner wall. By this pusillanimons are he staned the lomors of a miliary lite ; and the few days which he survived in Galath, or the Inte of Chios, were combitered by his own and the public repromel. His example was imitated by the greatest part of the Latin anxiliaries.-Gumbos's Rowe, ch. 68.
1289. CGURAGE of Madness. Churles X'II. [After receiving pacitle proposals from the Turks, he rejected then and detied the whole poner of the Ottoman Empire.] His own ofllcers employed supplications, remonstrunces, and at length menaces, to make him depart from his frantic design. Charles was intlexible. [lle had but three hundred men, and was surroumbed fis the extup themase the sitaded and hast remert of Clourlow mal hife intriphat Niweles. 'Ihelr mumber was now redherel to ab vory few, whon permonal fisil, however, to memonarate with him aghest was bite ons man who derlatal apositure opinton that the place might turdepmicel. Thate was procereded to larisade the downs mat whatows.

 promend at hogeth at the mombers killod hy this

 Swades, armed with their swords and pistaly. were chthag harir pusware thromgh an army of with his spurse mal areddentally falinge to thos gromul, "an suramaded by a larily of jambantas. Ia shart, the whole trow, after maklige mine raclible carmare, wron selzed und taken prisum'res. An attempe of this klad is only to he puralleled in the rommaresof knightereroutry. This ohsthanacy and matation was the oremsion of Ilisz., Book 0 , chi ilis.

I:B.CO. COURAGE, Maaterly, Chirlis XIT.
 ['mermia. The Siwatas made abravedefonee.] An incifent is rexorded of thassicge which atrongIy marks the character of Charles. The town was bembarded, and a shefl perotented the roof of his honse, and fell lato the aphertment where the was diedating his de:phtednes. The serertary, torrithed out of his semses, having let fall his pen -"Go on," said the king, pravely; "what has the hombishedl to do with the letter whirh I wa dietating $y^{\prime \prime}$ The cley, however, was taken, mad Charles ohliged to csame in $n$ small latk to Curbescron, where be passed the winter.-Trerr.erin llist., Book th, eli. 83).
1211. COURAGE, Moral. Murtin Luther. [He land bern summoned to appear hefore the [mueror me Worms.] As he was nearing the city of Worms, his friemd spulatin, who was in the compnay of the elector, sent him n messuge warning him not to enter the city med to incur so great danger. lathur replied to him: "To Worms was I called, and to Worms mast I go. And were there as many devils there as tiles ap;on the roofs, yot wonld I enter into that city." - Ren's Litimen, (h. 9, j). 8t.
12.42.

Ric. Samucl Johnaon. [Conviched of dissemimating serlitions tracts.] Jutian Johnson, as he was popularly callen, wis sentenced to stand thrice in the pillory, and to be whipped from Newgate to Tyburn, The julgre, Sir Frume is Withins, told the criminal to be thankinu for the great lenity of the attorneygenernd, who might have trentea the case as one of high trenson. "1 uwe him no thanks," answered Johnson, dauntlessly: "Am I, whose aniy ertome las that I baste defomiled tho ('lonreh shally to inmale tho ('lurels and to viohate the linw with impenity y" 'The roverg' whls which de moser was surh that thoth the Juitues mul the themacolves. ntid protexted that they knew eif ma

 jur kat momie Roman ('athodle lowks mad triakets, which were then frenty expowal fur male under the roynl pentronnge, read nlond the tithes of the books, mad threw n rosary neroms the talidetothe

 We whall mon mé whellor Mr. Altormey whll in those jurril, from the Jrish leoman ('utholles anomg whom lar labored ns un titnemit Datho. dist. If: was un Irishman of grant courage and frankneses.] In ntown thled witl lemmmiats lie: hired the inibuma, ds was his custorn, lommommer through the streets prenching for the eveming. The: mun, nluat of opposition, nttered the milnouncemont timidly mid Indisthactiy, Ouseley, prasing in the strent, henrd hlm, uni taking the lwhl, rang it himself, procinhming alond: "This is to give yon motione that Gideon Ouncley, the Irish missiomary, is lo pronch this evaning in such it flace, und nt such an hour. 1 hid 1 am 1244. ———Hacigh. [When Sir Wultor Ralclyth rame to the walfolil he was very fant. and commenceal his sideell to the erowil ly suying that daring the last two days be had leen vislted by two ngite tis.] "If, therofore, you percerive uny weakness in ine. I beserech you! uscribe it to my slakness rather than to myself." He took the axe nind kissed the blade, nnd suld to the sherlif, " "fis a slourp, medirise, but a sommed cure for nil diseases. "-KNiutut's bive., vol. is, ch. 24, 1. 3in.

1925. ———. Gurclun. [Whim Riels. nrd I. (the Jion) was near his denth, ] lee then ordered lertram de Girilun, who land wommed him, to come into his prosence, and sad to lime :
"What harm lave I done to you, that you bave killed noe" On which he made answor: "Fon slew my futher and my two brothers with your own limad, nad you inlami now lo kill me: therefore take uny revenge on me that yon thay think it, for I will readily emblure the grentest tormonts youl con devise, so lomg as youl have met with your end, after having intlicted evils so many and so rrent ujon the world." Kniatris ENa., vol. 1, ch. id, p. 330.
1216. COURAGE, Noble. Inmbuld. [Ünder the Duke of Argyle he hand attempted to overthrow the rule of Jmaes 11. In Scothand. The enterprise whs disastrous, und Iamboll mortally wounded.] IIe was hastily tried, eonvicted, ani sentenced to be hanged and quartered within a few hours, neur the eity cross in the High Street [Edinhurgh]. Though unable to stamd without the support of two men, he manintined his fortitude to the last, and under the gibbet raised his feeble voice against popery and tyranny with for thas, that I manil lures, not for miy wrong

 In un wil slas. if evory haile of my lieml weros

1-2.17. COURAGE, Opportunlty for. IJotlerick:

 lowe of 'onlintry. $\qquad$ 'The moment for courago all rules of tho art of whr, fontwek the montiy whorover l may thal it. Thare is no questlon of the mumber al the clucomy, bor of the strongth of Hatir pasition. Wo mast lant thema, of all of at find our graves before their lattorias. 'IGas I think, thas I Incon to met. . . . fores mity omas of youl far to slatre nll dangers will une, he: ratl this day retire: I never will raproach him.
 lse mided, with a mereme smilo." I know that not
 vol. 4, ils. 4.

1s.in. COURAGE, faly phyical. Mfillorough. [The Duchess of Maribsiromgh hedd the athere of fady of the wardrole to Quect Anme. She was to lee removed from ler position lxeconse of the disllke of the guecon. 1ler bushand, " the greatcst coptuln of the nge,"] presentend to the gueen n hamble letter from the aluchess, expressing her apprelacossom that her lord condi mot llve six months if some cud was not pht to his sufferings on lar necomat. "I Inm renlly sorry that I evor didanything that was mensy to yonr Majesty." The duke then implored her mujewty not to remonnce the duchess-not to discharge her from the ereat oflere she heid. "I commot elamge my resolation," maid the quern. Again he en1rated. "lat the hary besent me within three days." The vistor of Blenheim is now on his knees, imploring for a respite of tendays. "Sond mo: the key in foro dhys," cried the inexorable guerin. The duchess lind more spirit than her lord. When the dake whed her the gued expered the gold key, slac took it from her side nad threw it into the middle of the romm, und bid him take it "p, mad corry it to whon he pleased.

1240. COURAGE recovered. Bishop Civnmer. The cournge whiell Cranmer hand nhown since The necession of Mary gave waly the moment his thal doom was momonced. The moral cownotiece which had displayed itself in his mimernble rompiinnce with the list mad despotism of llemry disphayed itself ngain in six suceessive recantations by which he hoped to purchase pardon. But prrdon was impossible; und Cranmer's strangely mingled nature found a power in its very wenkness when he wins hrought into the chureh of St. Mary at Oxford on the 21st of March, to reprat his recmatation on the way to the stake. "Now," emed his address to the hashed erogregation before him-" now I come to the great hime that troubleth my eonsed. bere in may life, mill that is the setting abroad of writings contrary to the tum ; which here I mos renomene and refuse as things writa $n$ by my hand rombary to the truth which 1 thought in my heart, and wittern for fear of death to save my life, if il might he. Amd, forasmudh as my hand offended in writing contrary to my larnet, my land therefore she! be the thes pminsued; for if I rome to the there, it shall be the first hamend. This wate the hand that weote it," he again exclaimed at the stake, "therefore it slatl suffer first pmishment;" and holding it steadily in the thame, "he never stimed nor cried" till life was 1250. COURAGE, Religious. Puritan. Abraham Itomes, a atieed ollicer of the Partiamentary army, and one of those \%ealots who would own no king but king Jesus, had been taken at Sodgemoor. His arm had been frightfully mangled and shattered in the battle; and, as no surgeon was at hand, the stont old soldier amputated it himself. Ite was carried up to Lomdon and examined by the king in council, hat would make no sublaission. "I am an aged nam," he suid, "and what remains to me of life is not worth a falsehood or a baseness. I have always beren a Republican, and I am so still." Ite was sent back to the west and hanged. The people remarked with a we and wonder that the bensts which were to dryer him to the gallows became restiveand went tark. Holmes himself donbted not that the Angs! of the Lord, as in the old time, stood in tie way, sword in hand, invisible to hmman eyes, but visible te the inferior animals. "Stop, genthemen," he cried. "let me go on foot. Thare is more in this than yon think. Re. amber how the ass saw Him whom the prophet cond not see." Ife walked manfully to the gallows.-Macuchay's Enc., (li. E, p). (ioo.

1251. COURAGE, Safety in. Bujiazet. [Amurath, the famons Ottoman general, held a council of war before battle with the Christims on the plain of Cassova. 1 In defand of artillery to break open these masses, Aincheg and Saridje Pasha proposed to place in the first lines, before the front of the OHoman army, the six thonsand Asiatie camels that carried the tents, the provisions, and the baggatge of their disisions, to the end of exhansting upon these animals the arrows of the enemy, and of striking astonishment and terror into the ranks of the Christians by the aspect and by the momings of the emmels, unknown to the sobliers oí Europe. This opinion was prevailing when the impetuons Bajazet, more chivahrous still than princely, oprosed it with the divdain of : h hero. "Late the sons of Othman," cried Bajazet, "ever feared to meet their enemies face to face ! Is it tien in sheltering themselves like: women behind the buggage, the elephants, or the camels, dat they have concucred Asia from mulcitudes armed agninst them with all the arts and the appliances of warfare? Are such artifices worthy of the divine cause for which we fight? Is it not an avowal of fear at a moment when the only safety is in courage? Is it not to doubt of God in presence of IIis profaners? Is not our ronthence in lim as our tirst hatwark our leset Poree? 'The victory is his who helieves hianself victor, not his who is in dremd of being vanguished." ['They obtained a decisive vietory.] Lamamtinés Tibkey, p. eis.
12.52. COURAGE, Unfaltering. Pelopidas. When he had arrived at Phamalus, heassembed las forces, and then mareded direetly against Alexander: who, knowing that ['elopidats had buif few Thenans whont him, and that he himself had dombe the namber of Thessalian infantry, went to meet him as far as the temple of Thetes. When he was informed that the $t y$ rint was advancing toward him with a great amy," so murh the better," suid he, "for we shali beat so many the more."- Phetaben's lemoribas.

125:3. COURAGE, Unshaken, At Tripoli. Deratur concerived the project of rmming ines the harbor with a shall vessel, surprising tio frigate, ant setting her on tire. How matly this was done, most renders know. The surprise was so eomplete, that Decatur had possession of the ship in just en minutes after he hat given the order to hoard. ('ombustibles were all reaty, and were paced in varions parts of the vessel. At the signal they were set on tire, and the ship, dry as tinder from many monthe exposure to a tropical sum, bazed up with such rapidity that the ketch in which lhe Americams had boarded her narrowly esemped being involved in the same contlagration. . . . In this affair Licuterant Lawrence commanded one division of the attacking party, and behaved with admirable coolness and gallantry. Decatur pronounced a tine rulogium upon him when he said, "There is no more dodge abont Lawrence than there is ahout the maimant."-CyCloredia of Brog., 1). 123.
125.4. COURT, Infamous, Trial of člodius. [He attempted to corrupt Pompeia, the wife of ['esar, and was brought to trial.] Silareus Crassus . . . during the night seni for the judges one by one. Itegave them money. What else he gave or promised them must continue veiled in Cieerof Latin. Before these influences the resolution of the judges melted away, and when the time cume thirty-one out of fifty-six highLorm Roman peers and gentlemen declared Clo. dius innocent. The original cause was notling. That a protligate young man should escape punishment for a licentions frolic was comparatively of no conseguence ; but the trial acrguired a no. toricty of infamy which shook once more the alrendy tottering constitution.-Froude's Cess.all, cli. 12.
1255. COURT, A terrible. Sitir C'lirmber. The king in his comeil had mways asselted in right in the last resort to confore justice and peace by dealing withoffenders too strong to bo denat with by his ordinary courts. Itenry systematized this occasional juriodiction ly appointing, in 1486, a committee of his council as a regular court, to which the place where it usually sat gave the name of the court of star chamber. The king's aim was probahly little more than a purpose to enforce order on the land by Iringing the great nobles before his own judg-ment-seat; but the extablishment of the court as a regular and no longer an exceptional tribunal, whose traditional powers were confirmed by Parliamentary stutute, and where the absence of a jury cancelled the prisoner's right to be tried by his peers, furnished his son with an instrument of tyrany which had justiee at the feet of the momarchy.- Mist. of Eva. Peoble, § 496
12566. COURTESAN, Influential. Aspusif. The house of the conrtesmn $A$ phasia was honosed with his [Socrntes] frequent visits. ITe fonnd in that aecomplishod woman a miad stored with varions knowledge, nu nente and vigorons understanding, and those engaging manners which gave her a powerfiul hold on the minds of the Athenian youth. She was the mistress and contidante of Perieles, who did not dischain to consult her on affairs' of public concern. If we should hesitate to suppose that the philosopher thought it not unworthy of his character to improve her morads and rechain her mind to virtue, he might ransomably seek his own improvement, and avail himself of her knowledge of tios world to enlarge and extend his power of utility.-Tymbr's Mist., Book 2, ch. 9.
1257. COURTESY denied. Jemes K. Polk. When Mr. Polk closed his service in the [Speaker's] chair, at the cal of the Twenty-fifth Congress, no Whig member could be found to move the customary resolution of thanks-an act of courtesy which derives its chief grace by coming from a politieal opponent. When the resolution was presented by a Democratic Representative from the South, it was opposed in debate by prominent Whig members. . . . The Whigs as a party resistel its adoption. The Democrats could not even bring the House to a vote upon the resolation without the use of the previous question. [He was accused of partinlity, injustice, and narrowness.]-Bhane's Twenty Years of Congbess, p. 59.
1258. COURTESY forfeited. Cromicell. [He swept over the country like a tempest.] Ile threw himself before Wincbester. The lastnamed placesurrendered by capitulation. While here he very courtcously sent in to the Bishop of Winchester, and offered him a guard to secure his person; but the bishop, flying into the castle, refused his courtesy. Afterward, when the eastle began to be battered by two pieces of ordannce, he sent to the lieutemant-general, thanking him for the great favor offered to him, and being now more sensible what it was, he desired the enjoyment of it. To whom the wise licutenant-general replied, that since he made not use of the courtesy, but wilfully ran away from it, he must now partake of the same conditions as the others who were with him in the castle; and if he were taken, he must expect to be used as a prisoner of war.-Hood's Cromwell, ch. 10, p. 138.
1259. COURTESY, Marked. Englixh. Courtesy to strangers, and to each other, which. . . was a peculiarity of the English [in 1509], has scarecly so maintained its ancient ascendancy. -"They have the incredible courtesy of remaining with their heads uncovered, with an admirable grace, while they talk to each other."Knigit's Eng., vol. 2, eh. 15, p. 254.
1260. COURTESY to the Unfortunate, Black; Prince. [At the battle of Poitiers the Black Prince defeats and captures the French king

John II.] That night the Prinee of Wales [tho Black Princer made a supper in his lodering for the Fronch king and to the gratat lorts that were prisoncrs. "And always the Prince served before the king, as hombly as he conde, and would not sit at the king's bond, for any devire that the king could make, and exhorted him not to be of heavy cheer, for that Kinir Eilward, his father, should bear him all honor not amity, and accord with him so reasonably that the'y should the friends ever after."
. . This *'ene, so gracefully performed by him who, a lew hours before, was "rommareous and criel as a lion," was in perfect acrordance with the system of chivalry:-Linian's's Ena., vol. 1, ch. :31, p. 476.
1261. COURTS, Injustice of. Perssirntion. To abolish the worship and to dissolve the government of the Christimes, it was thought newessary to subject to the most intolerabl the thips the condition of those perverse : . . als who and of theirancestors. Person if: : ral hirth were dechared inompable of holda.? "ry bomots or employments ; shaves were forever lep ived of the hopes of lreedom, nud the whole benly of the prople were put out of the protection of the law. The judges were anthorized to have and to determine every action that was brought against a Christian. But the Christians were not promitted to complain of any injury watich they themselves had suffered ; and thus those unfortunate sectaries were exposed to the severity, while they were excluded from the benefits, of publie jus-tice.-Gimion's Rone, cli. 16.
1262. COURTS packed. Reign of Jomes $1 T$. [Judges were appointed for the purpose of securing the desired judgment.] Judgment wis given by the lord chief justice, Sir Elward Herbert. He anmonneed that he had submitted the guestion to all the judges, and that, in the opinion of eleven of them, the king might lawfully dispense with penal statutes in particular cases, and for special reasons of grave importance. . . . There can be no reasonable doubt that the dissanting jue!ge was, like the plaintiff mad the phantiff's counsel, acting collusively. It was important that there should be a great preponderance of anthority in favor of the dispensing power; yet it was important that the bench, which had been carefully parcked for the occasion, should appear to be independent. One judge, therefore, the lenst respectable of the twelve, was permitted, or more proinhly eommanded, to pive his voice against the prerogi-tive.-Macaulay's Exa., ch. 6, p. 78.
1263. COURTS, Scandalous. Reign of, hatles $I$. The judges of the common law, holding their situations during the pleasure of the king, were seandalonsty ohsequions. Yet, obsequions as they were, they were less ready and etlicient instruments of arbitrary power than a class of courts, the memory of wh ieh is still. :ifter the lanse of more than two centuries, held in decp nbhorrence by the nation. Foremost among these courts in power and in infamy were the Star Clamber and the High Commission, the former a political, the later a religious, incunisition. Neither was a part of the old Constitution of Eng-lanci-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 83.
1264. COVETOUSNESS, Contemptible. Henry III. History presents him in scarcely any other light than that of an extortioner and a beggar. The reeords of the Exchequrrabudantly show, that, for forty years, there were bo combrimenes for ohtaining money so mean or mijust that he disdained to practise them.-Ksmintss Eivi, vol. 1, (li. 24, p. 261.
1265. COVETOUSNESS panished. cield. Mithridates. . . sent Aquillius wound the citios of the province seated on an nss, with a proclamation stating that to his rovetons dealings alone tha war was due, and then pat him to diath by having molten trold ponme down his thront.-hasDELL'S ROME, ch. 59, 5 6, ן. 596.
1266. COVETOUSNESS, Royal. Henry III. In 1239 the quern bore a som, Edward ; and hem the strects were illmmanterl, while hamds of dancers made the night joyful with drum mal tambourine. But llemy . . . was mot sulistied with harren rejoicings. Ife sent out messengers tonds for presents, intocity and into coontry. Ther came buck. If well loaded, the king smiled ; if the gift were small, it was rejeeted with contemp). "Gond gave us the child," said a Normm, " but the king sells him to us." In $12 \begin{gathered}\text { an } \\ \text { he went ahout }\end{gathered}$ seeking hospitality of abbots, friars, clerks, and men of low degree, staying with them mal asking gifts." . . . Two years before this . . . Memry shamelessly transeressed the homeds of roval difenity, by exacting New Yenr's gifts from the citi\%ens of Lonten. "Lend me £100," suid the king to the nthot of Ramsay ; and the nbhot replied: "I have sometimes given, but never lend," mad so went to the money-lenders and horrowed it, "that he might satisfy the wants of this begrar king."-kniour's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 362.
1267. COWARD, The deserted. Perweus. [After receiving an overwhelming defent from the Romans, Perselis, the King of the Macedonians,] fled from Pydma to Pella, with his cuvalry, which had suffered no loss. When the foot overtook them, they repronched them as cowneds and traitors, pulled them off their horses, and wounded several of them; so that the king, drending the consequences of the tumult, turned his horse out of the common road; and, lest he should be known, wrmped up his purple robe, and put it hefore him: he also took off his diadem, and carried it in his hand: and that he might converse the more convenienty with his friends, nlighted from his herse and led him. But they all shamk nwny from him by degrees: one under pretense of tying his shose, mother of watering his horse, and in third of being thirsty himself; not that they were so moch afrad of the enemy, as of the crucliy of Persens, who, exnsprated with his misfortunes, sourht to lay the bhane of his miscarriage on anyboly but himself.-PLerancu's Paules Emiatrs.
1268. COWARD, Professions of the. Gelimer. [The defented king of Carthage.] In the evening Belismrius leal his infmetry to the attack of the camp ; and the pusillaninious flight of Gelimer exposed the vanity of his recent declarations, that to the vanguished death was a relief, life a burden, and jufany the only object of terror. II is departure was secret; but ins soon as the Vandals discovered that their king had deserted them, they hastily dispersed, anxious only for their personal safety, and careiess of every objeet that is dear or valuable to mankind.-Gisbow's Rome, ch. 41.
1268. COWARDICE, Appearance of. Abdallah. [Gregory offered his dnughter's hand and gront richas to the vouth who would bring him the hame of Amballah, the pemernl of the Saracens. LIe withdrew from the tield at the solicitation of his brethren. 1 A molle Arabian ... on the news of the battle, Zobeir, with twelve companions, cut his way through the camp of the Greeks, and pressed forward, without tasting either food or repose, to partake of the dangers of his brethren. Ile cast his eyes romed the tied : "Where." said hr, "is our genemar" "In his tent." "1s the tem a station for the genernl of the Moslems ?" Ablallah represimed with a blush the importance of his own life, mod the temptation that was hedd forth by the Joman prefect.-Gunos's Rome, ch. 11.
1270. C0WARDICE of the Cruel. Nero. Nero, nbmemed hy his gumels, wos obliged to ronceal hinself in the honse of one of his freedmon. The scmite prochamed him menemy to his country and condenaned him to die more m, jorrum-that is, to be scourged, thrown from the Tarpecinn rock, had then llung into the Tiber. Cmble to bear the thourhts of sucha a death. Nirotrid the points of two lagrers, but wanted courage to die by his own hand. He entreated the aid of one of his slaves, who was not slow in the perfommane of that friendly ofllee. .. a character happily diflicult to be paralieled in the manals of humminature.-TyTher's Llists, Book T, cl! 1 .

127 .: COWARDICE despised. " General Whitefrather":" [Genernl Whitlock surrendered Montevideo in a cowardly maner, and returned to England with a whoid skin. He was nickuamed Gencral Whitefenther.]--Linicitr's Eva., vol. 7, ch. 27, p. 486.
1272. $\qquad$ " Little King." Ferdinand attacked his former ally with the united forces of C'astile and Arragon. The war was tedions, and lasted several ycars. Isabella accompanied her hashmal in several of his military expeditions, and attended him when he laid siege to the city of Gramada, in 1481. After a blockade of eight months, the pusillmimous Abo-Abdeli, who has been called El Rey Chico, or the Little King, meanly capitulated, contrary to the sentiments and urgent remonstrances of above twenty thousand of the inhabitauts, who olfered to defend their native city to the last extremity. The treaty between Aho-Ahdeli mad Ferdinand secured to the Moors of Gramadn a small momituinous part of the kinglom, with the enjoyment of their laws and religion. The Moorish prince, excernted ly his people, lretook himself to this despienble retreat. He is side to have wept when he cast back his eyes to the leantiful plain and city of Gramada. "Yon hawe reason," suid his mother, "to weep like a ummon for the loss of that kinglom, which you could not defend like a mon." Thusended the dominion of the Moors in Spain, about eight humdred years after its fomdntion [a.d. 1401].-TyTuen's 1list., Book 6, ch. 14.

F:273. COWARDICE, Disgrace of. Daniel Scott. [Sir Walter Scott's brother.] 1amiel Scott was the black sheep of the family. He got into difticulties in business, formed a bad conncetion with an artful womm, and was sent to try his fortunes in the West Indies. There he was employed in some service against a body of refractory negroes, . . and apparently showed the white feather. Mr. Lockhart says that " he returned to Scothond a dishonored man; and though he fonmed shelter and compassion from his mother, his brother wonld never see him again. Nay, when, soon after, his health, shattered by dissolute indalgence, . . . gave way altoggether, nud he died, us yet a young man, the poet refused either to attend his funcral or to wear mourning for him, like the rest of his family." Indeed, he always spoke of him as his " rehative," not as his brother. Here again scott's severity was dae to his brother's failure as $n$ " man of homer"-i.e., in cour-age.-llutron's Scort, ch. 11.
127.!. COWARDICE prevented. Rabert Guiscard. [Normmens were victorions over the Grecks.] On the report and distant prospect of these formidable numbers, leobert assembled a council of his principal ofterers. "You behold," said he, "your chager ; it is urgent and inevituhle. The hills are covered with arms and standards, and the emperor of the Greeks is accustomed to wars and trimmphs. Olvedience and union are our only sufety, and I am rendy to yiedd the command to a more worthy leader." The vote and acchmation, even of his secret enemies, assured him, in that perilons monent, of their esteem and contidence; and the duke thas continued: " Let us trust in the rewards of victory, and deprive cowardice of the means of esenpe. Let us burn our vessels and our baggage, and give batthe on this spot, as if it were the place of our motivity and our burial." The resolution was unaninoously approved; and, without contining himself to has lines, Guiscard awated in battle urray the nearer appronch of the enemy.-(Eibhon's Rome, ch. 50.
1275. COWARDICE punlshed. Romans. The dictator, or consul, hand in right to command the service of the Roman youth, and to puminh in obstinate or cowardly disobedience by the most severe and ignominious pemalties-by striking the offender out of the list of citizens, by contisconting his property, and hy selling his person into sla-very.-Grbbon's Rome, ch. 3.
1276. $\qquad$ Deputies. On the 2 d of une [1:93] the Tuileries were completely surrounded by an armed multitude of 80.000 men , with is formid ble park of artillery commanden? by Itemiot ; and the commune required from the allitrhad deputies an immedinte derree for the arrest of the Girondist members. They at irst refused compliance, but were at length comelled to vote at the point of the bayonet the art of thirty-two Girondist members, inchoding bs sot, Vergniaud, Guadet, Gensonné, Pétion. man all the celebrated names of the party. Such wats the fall of the Girondists-a memorible and righteous retribution for their cowardly abouclomment of the king.-Stements' Fanives, ch. 27, s. 2, p. 506.
1277. COWARDICE roproved. Romans. [During the war of the Allies the enemy] gave the Romans a good opportunity of attacking them, and they were afrid to embrace it ; after both parties were retired Marius called bis soldiers together, and made this short speed to them : "I know not which to call the greatest cowards, the enemy or you; for neither dare they face your baeks nor you theirs." At last, pretending to be incmparitated for the service by his intirmities, le laid down the command.Pleutahen.
127. COWARDICE, Shameful. General Ifulb. [The British] advancel to the siage of Detroit. The Americans, in their trenches outsile of the fort, were enger for hattle, and stool with lighted matehes awaiting the ordir to tire. When the British were within five hundred yards, to the nmacement of hoth armies, Hull hoisted a white thag over the fort. There was a lrief parley and a surrender, perhaps the most shumeful in the history of the Cuited States. Not only the army in Detroit, but all the forces under limils command, hecmme prisoners of war. The whole of Michigan territory was surrendered to the 3ritish. At the capitulation, the Ameriem oflleers, in rage and despuir, stamped the gromod, broke their swords, and tore off their epmulets. The whole commry was humiliated. [Ilull was courtmartialed. convicted of cowardiec, and sentenced to be shot. President Madison pardoned him.] - Ridpatits C. S., ch. 49, p. 305.
1279. COWARDICE, Unpardonable. Germans. In the faith of soldiers' (and such were the Germans) cowardice is the most unpardonable of sins. A brave man was the wortly favorite of their martial deitics; the wreteh who had lost his shield was alike bunished from the religious and eivil assemblies of his countrymen.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 9.
1280. COWARDS punished. Lacceltemoniuns. Sueh persons i e not only exehuded all otleces, but it is infamous to intemmary with them. Any man who meets them is nt liberty to strike then. They are obliged to uppear in a i rlorn manner, and in a vile habit, with patcha, of divers colors; and to wear their beards half shaved and half unshaved.-l’utarien.
1281. CREDULITY of Philosophers. Seven. Seven friends and philosophers, Diogenes and Ifermias, Eulalius and Priscian, Damascius, lsidore, und Simplicins, who dissented from the religion of their sovereign, embraced the resolntion of seeking in a foreign land the freedom which was denied in their mative commery. They had heard, and they credulously believed, that the republic of Plato was remized in the despotie government of Persia, and that a patriot king reigned over the happiest and most virtuons of nations. They were soom astonished by the matural discovery, that Persin resembled the other countries of the globe; that Chosrocs, who affected the name of a philosopher, was vain, cruel, and ambitions; that ligotry and a spirit of intolerance prevailed among the Magi; that the nobles were hanghty, the courtiers servile, and the magistrates unjust; that the gailty sometimes escaped, and ihat the innoemt were often oppressed. The disappointment of the philosophers provoked them to owerlooh the real virtues of the l'ersians; and they were scandalized, more decply perhaps than became their profession, with the pharality of wives and concubines, the incestuons marriages, and the cosstom of exposing dend bodies to the dogs and vultures, instead of hiding them in the earth, or consuming them with fire. Their repentance was expressed by a preeipitate return, and they loudly deelared that they had rather die on tue borders of the empire than enjoy the woulth and favor of the barbarinn.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 40.
1282. CREDULITY, Religious. Pricsteraft. [The blood which flowed during the ugony of our Lord was pretended to le exhibited according to the price paid for the sight. Latimer dechared it to he charithed honey, colored with saffron.] There was in the priory of Cardigan an image of the Virgin, with a taper in her hand, which was found standing on the river Tyme, with the taper always burning ; but being earried into Christ's Charch, in Cardigan, the image wonld not stay there, hat was found three or lour times in the place where now is buided the Chureh of our Lady, and the taper hurning in her hame, which contimed still burning for the space of nine years without wasting, until the time that one foresware himself thereon, and then it extincted and never burned therealter.

There was an image at Bangor worth to the friars 20 marks by the year in corn, eatthe and cheese, and money. . . . The famons rood of Boxley, of which the figure could move its threatening eyes, twitch his nostrils, throw back his head, or nod approbation, is elevated on a senffold, and goes through the performance at which pust gencrations hand wondered and trembled ... The imposture is proclamed from the pulpit . . . the machinery is diselosed nind consigned to the flames.-KNitirt's Eva., vol. 2, ch. 25, p. 409.

128:3. CREDULITY of the Sick. Lord Audley. The belief in empirical remedies was not confined to the hmmble classes. Lord Aublley, in 1553, sends to Cecil, who was serionsly ill, recipes for two medicines which he had proved upon himself and his wife. One of these is founded on the healing virtues of a sow pig nine days old, distilled with many herhs and spiecs. The other is more ample: "Item. Take a . . . hedgelogs, and quarter him in pieces, and put the suid benst in a still with these ingredients: item, a yuart of red wine, a pint of rose-water, a quart of sugar, cinnamon and great aisins, one date, twelve nepe" [turnips]. -KNrairt's Esa., vol. 2, ch. 8, p. 498.
1284. CREDULITY, Superstitious. Romans. The nations and the seets of the Roman world admitted, with equal credulity and similar abhorrence, the renlity of that infermal art which was able to control the eternal order of the planets and the volnatary operations of the haman mind. They dreaded the mysterions power of spells and ineantations, of potent herbs, and execrable rites, which could extinguish or recall life, intlame the passions of the soul, blast the works of creation, and extort from the relactant demons the secrets of futurity. They believed, with the wildest inconsistency, that the preternatural dominion of the air, of earth, and of hell was exereised, from the vilest motives of malice or gain, by some wrinkled hags and itinerant sorcerers, who passed their obscure lives in penury and contempt, The arts of magic were equally condemned by the public opinion and by the laws of Rome; but as they tended to gratify the most imperious passions of the heart of man, they were continually proseribed and continually practised. An imaginary cause is capable of producing the most serious and mischievous effects. The dark predictions of the death of an emperor, or the success of a conspiracy, were calculated only to stimulate the hopes of ambithon und to dissolve the ties of thdelity; and the intentional guilt of magic was argravated by the athal erimes of trenson and sacrilege. Such vain terrors slisturbed the pence of socidy and tho happiness of individuals; and the harmless flamo which insensibly melted n waxen image might derive a powerfal und pernicions energy from the uffrighted fancy of the person whon it was malicionsly designed to represent. From the infusion of those herbs which were supposed to possess a supermatural intuence, it was un easy step to the use of more substantinl poison; unit the folly of mankind sometimes berame the instrument and the mask of the most atrocions crimes.-Gimon's Rone, ch. 25, p. 586.
1285. $\qquad$ - Persiaus. [Artaxerxes summoned a great council of the Magi, which was reduced by sclection from eighty thousand to seven.] One of these, Erdavirnph, a young but holy prelate, received from the lumds of his brethren three cups of soporiferous wine. He drank them off, and instantly fell into a kong and profound slecp. As soon as he waked, he related to the king ind to the believing multitude his journey to heaven and his intimate conferences with the Deity. Every doubt was silenced by this supermatural evidence; and the articles of the faith of Zoronster were fixed with equal authority and precision.-Gharon's Rome, ch. 8.
1286. CRIME, Epidemic of, Englant. There was a good deal of aharm in the autmon of 1692 from the daring crimes that sometimes seem epidemic in a nation. Ilence a proclamation against lighwaymen was issued. Gangs of banditti rohbed mails and stage-coaches even in the daytime. . . . Burglars were almost as bold and numerous as footpads und highwaymen. TThere had been four years of war with James II. and Lonis XIV.]-Knignt's Exg., vol. 5, ch. 10, p. 155.
1257. CRIME, Evidence of. Circumstantial. [Buruing of Rome by Nero.] Whether he was really guilty or not of laving ordered that immense conflagration, it is certain that he was suspected of it by his contemporaries, and has been charged with it by many historians of his country. It is certain, also, that his head had leen full for vears of the image of flaming cities; that he used to say that Priam was to be congratulated on having seen the ruin of Troy; that he was never able to resist the fixed idea of a crime; that the year following he gave a public recitation of a poem called "Troici," from the orehestra of the theatre, and that this was only the burning of Rome under a thindisguise; and that just before his tlight he meditated setting fire to Rome once more. It was rumored that when some one had told him how Gains used to quote the phrase of Euripides-
"When I am dead, sink the whole carth in flames!"
he replied, "Nay, lut while I live!" He was aceused of the ambition of destroying Rome, that he might rephere its tortuous and marrow lanes with broad, regular streets and uniform Hellenic edifices, and so lave an excuse for changing its name from Rome to Neropolis. It was believed that in his morbid appetite for new sensations le was quite cupable of devising a truly artistle spertucle which would thrill his jaded restheticism, mad supply him with vivid imagery for the vapiol antitheses of lis perms. It was both believed and rearorled that during the terrors of the actumi spectucle he had climbed the 'Tower of Macemas, hal expressed his alelight at what he called "the flower and loveliness of the: thames," and la his seenic dress land sumer on his own private stage the "Cupture of lifum."Farmar's Einky I)Ays, 1. :9.
1288. CRIME, Expiation of. $B u r n i n!$ of Rome. It is clear that a shodding of hoocl-in fuct, some form or other of limman suerificewas imperatively demanded by popular feelingr as an expiation of the ruinous crime whith had planged so many thomsamde into the depths of misery. In vain lud the Silyyline Books Inen one more consulted, and in vain lad pmblie prayer been offered, in aroordance wibl their directions, to Valemin and the gooldesses of Earth and Hades. In vain had the loman matrons walked in procession in dark robes, and with their long hatir momond, to propitiate the insulted majesty of Jumo, and to sprinkle with seawater her ancient stutue. In vion lad hargesses heen lavished upon the people and propitiatory sucritices offered to the gods. In vain had publio: banquets heen celebrated in bomor of varions deities. $\quad \Lambda$ crime had heen committed, and Romans had perished unavenged. Blood eried for blood before the sullen suspicion against Nero could be averted, or the indignation of heaven appeased. [Nero acensed, and then persecuted, the Christians for lis own crime.]Farmak's Eanly Days, p. 35.
1289. CRIME of Imagination. C'tpitul. [On the triul of the Dnke of Buckingham, in 1521, ] a monk of the Charter-house, who pretended to a knowledge of future events, " had divers times said to the duke that he should be King of England; but the duke said that in himself he never consented to it." The judicinl inference was, that he had committed the erime of inmerining the death of the king, and that his worils were satisfactory evidence of such imagrining. Buckingham was ronvicted [and heheaded]. KNigut's ENe., vol, 2, ch. 17, 1, 28\%.
1290. CRIME, Memorial of. "Labractor." Men were ulready with the Portuguese an estaillished artiole of trathe; the inhabitants of the Amerian coast seemed well fitted for labor ; and Corte-l放] [the Portuguese sailor] freighted his ships with more than tifty Indians, whom, on his return, he sold ass slaves. . . . The name of Labrador, trmsferred to a more northern coast, is probably $n$ memorial of his crime-B.Clbofr's IIIstony of L. S., ch. 1 .
1291. CRIME, Organization for. Englemel, 1752. Fielding said, " there are at this time a great gang of rognes, whose momber falls litale short of a hindred, who are incorporated into one borly, have officers and a treasurer, and lave reduced theft and robbery into a regnlar system."KNigilt's Eng., vol. 6, eh. 12, p. 192.
1292. CRIME, Reaction of. IRosumond. [She was the exiled murderess of Alboin, her royal husband.] With her daughter, the heiress of the Lombard throne, her two lovers, her trusty Gepidx, and the spoils of the palace of Verona, Rosamond descended the Adige and the Po, and was transported by a (ireck vessel to the safe harbor of Ravomma. Lomginas beheld whth delight the charms umil the treasmres of the widow of Alboin: liersituation und her pmst conduct mbeht justify the most licentious proposals; und sho rembily listencel to the passion of a minister who, even in the decline of the empire, was respected as the crinul of kings. The denth of a jenlons lover was an ensy und gratefal sacritice ; and as IIehnichis [her former lover] Issued from the buth he received the rlendly potion from the lumd of his mistress. The tasto of the lifuror, its spealy operation, mat his experience of the character of Rosamond, convinced him that he was poisonod; lie pointed his shager to her breast, eompelled her to drain the remainder of the emp, and expired in a few minutes, with the consolation that sle combl uot survive to enjoy the fruits of her wickernces.-Gamusis Rome, chl. 45.
1293. CRIME taught. " Ieril's Acp." In $18: 37$ there was a district lying near Westminster Abbey, called "The Devil's Acre," where depravity was universal; where professional beggrors were fltted out with all the appliances of imposture; where there was un agency ofllce for the hire of ehibaren to be curviel about by forlorn widows and deserted wives to move the compassion of strert-giving benevolence; where young piekpockets were dilly irained in the art and mystery which was to conduct them in dioe conrse to an expensive vogage for the rood of heir country [to botany Bay]. -KNanirsisiag, vol. 8, ch. 22, p. 399.
1994. CRIMES, Equality of. Stoics. From the portico the Rommn civilians lemoned to live, to reason, und to die; but they imbibed in some degree the prefindices of the sect-the love of parmbox, the pertinacions limbits of clispute, and a minute attachnent to words and verbal distinctions. 'Tlue superiority of form to mather Was int roduced to ascertain the right of property; and the cquality of crimes is eomintenmed by w opinion of Trolatias, that he who tonches the ear touches the whole body; and that he who steals from a heap of corn on a loggshead of wine is guilty of the entire thefit. - Gibmon's Rome, ch. 44.
1295. CRIMINAL, A monster. C'ctiline. In an age when licentionsmess of the grossest kind Was too common to attract attention, catiline hatl achieved a notoricty for infamy. IIe had intrigued with a Vestal virorin, the sister of Ciceros wife, Terentia. If Cicero is to be believed, he lad made away with his own wife, that he might narry Aurelin Orestilla, a woman as wirked ins she was beantiful, and he had killed his chila also beramse Aurelia had objected to be incombered with a stepson. But this, too, was common in high soeiety in those days. Achaltery and incest had berome familiar excitements. Boys of ten years old had learned the art of poisoning theirfithers.-Frocine's C'sisin, ch. 11.
1296. CRIMINALS branded, Cleriral. The act for Bishops, to punish priests and other religions men for dishonest life, . . . provides that if a person not in orders shall have once been aldmitted to such benefit [of clergy'], he shall not be again so admitted, but be marked with M upon the brawn of the lcft thumb if convicted of murder, and with $T$ if for any other felony, and then be delivered to the ordinary. - Kivanors ENo., vol. : ch. 15), p. 243 .
1297. CRIMINAL8, Clerioal. Finorrel. [In 15ida statutr was passed, which] rxampts from benefit of chergy all murderers, highwny robsbers, and hurglits, sumblas be within holy orders only except. . . . The eerevenstical unthoritios regarded it as encroachment mon the privileges of the ('hareli, ind they prevented its renewnd at the expiration of the elrst yemr. . . . A rertain ubtuot . . denomaced from the pulpit ut lamles ('ross all those who hatl assambed to the met. - Кیuilo's ENel., vol. 2, (h. 1i, p. $27 \%$.
1298. CRIMINALS, Conniving with, Pirates. [The Emiperor Maximian uppointed Caransins to the command of his thert in the I British Chanmed for the supression of the (ariman pirates.] The indegrity of the new admirnl corresponded not with his abilitirs. When the German pirates sailed from their own harbors he connived at their passige, lat he dilignonty interemed their refurn, und approprinted to his own use an ample share of the spoil which they hat ançuired. The wenlth of (armosins was, on this oreasion, very justly concidered us un evidence of his guilt; and Maximian gave orilers for his danth.-GibHox's Rome, rh. 13, p. 409.
1299. CRIMINALS, Hannts of. Lomion. The house ol the c'armelite Friars . . . Ind, before the Reformation, been a sanctunty for criminals, fund still retained the privilege of protecting delotors from arrest. Insolvents consequently were to be found in cery dwelling, from cellar to garrat. Of these a large proportion were karves and libertines, and were forlowed to their asydm by women more nbandoned than themsilyes.

Though the immmities. lenally belonging to the place extended only to eases of debt; cheats, false witnesses, forgers, and highwaymen found refage there; for umid a rabble so desperate no peace oftionr's life was in safety. At the ery of " IResene," lmblies, with swords and! cudgels, and termagant hags, with spits and broomsticks, poured forth hy humdreds.
Even the viarmant of the chiof justice of Engrlame combld not he rexeroted without the helpolia company of masketer's. - M.Mealohy's ENa., ch. $3, \mathrm{p}, 3: 3 \mathrm{~s}$.
1300. CRIMINALS honored. Highlunteres. The " llighatnders being in general poorly provirled for, they are apt to covet other men's goods: nor we they tatight by any laws to distinguish with great aceuracy their own property from that of other people. They are not ashamed of the gallows-hay, they pay a religious respert to at fortamate plumberer.; Cev-

1301. CRIMINALS, Protection from. Policr, 1780. [The Iomelon] polierontlion of that day Wis called at " thiof-taker"-he was in no sense of the word a deteetive or a preventive functionary. Ile knew the thieves, and the thieves knew him. Jis business was to "let the matter ripen" when le had information of a house to be broken open or a mail to be robbed. When he wis sure of a capital conviction he took his man, and
 vol. 7, ch. 6, p. 117 .
1802. CRIMINALS, Rule of. Bridenell, 1738. Mr. Booth is committed to Bridewell.

When he grees to prisom, a momber of presoms gather ronind lime in the gard, umd diomand "gatalsh." 'The keepere exphahed that it was rustomary for every now prisoner to trest the othois with something to rlrink, The young man had no moncy, mad the keepers gildety permit the scoumbrils to strip him of his chothes. All persons sumt to Bridewoll were treated alike. so far ns the prison discipline was comererned.-

130:3. CRISIS, Equal to the, C'romorell. I'ym was dead, Hampulen was dead. ('romwell, as he looked along its bemehes, would notire many aplace varated where once sat some stronis friemel of order and of fiecelom. It hand so shrunken from homor that it hat rome to be cullend "tho IRumן)." $\qquad$ On the 20th of April, $16 \mathrm{~B}^{4}$, while Crombell was yuietly sitting in his own " lodgrings" in Whitehall, there was bronght to him a message, that at that very moment a bill was being harried throngh the I fonse, by which this most eomely piore of goveroment was resolving its own indefactible perpetuity, und thus uttompting a grant inct of usurpution. Let tho reaber, therefore, distinetly understand that it was the usurpation of empubility against ineapability ; the llouse must le eheekmuted. Cromwell, therefore, inmediately gathered his officers romind him and walked down to the assembly [und turned it into the street]. - Hoon's CiromWELl., ch. 14, ]. 176.
1304. CRITIC at Church, The. Lord George. Suckrille Germain. [Minister in charge of the Ameriean dejartment under George III., A.d. 177.5.] Apparedled on Sumday morning in gala, as if for the drawing-room, he constantly marehed out all his honsehohd to the parish chureh, where he would mark time for the singing gallery, chide a rustic chorister for an discorrl, stand up during the sermon to survey the eongragation or ovarawe the ifle, and with unmoved sincerity gestienlate npprobation to the preather, whom lee sometimes cheered on by mume. . . . This friomaless man . . conld plan .. how to hay America in ashes.-Bnernofr's U. S., vol. 8, (h. \%l.
1305. CRITICISM, Aroused by. Lorrl Byron. The bilisborgh Reciom appared which contained the cerehroted article that stumg the port so cruelly. "The poesy of this young lorl," began the reviewer, " belongs to the elass which neither gods nor men are satid to permit.
Ilis effusions are spread over a dad that, and an no more get above or below the level than if they were so much stagnant wator." And so on fur three bantroing pages, interspersed with specimens of the noble ""minor's" stanzas. This stinging satire, which would have crushed some young writurs of vequs, tixal Iard Byron in the career of letters. - ('remormind of Brog., 1). 294.
1306. CRITICISM, Directod, Alribiades. Aleibiales lum a dog of uncommon size and beanty, which cost him 80 minte, and yet his tail. which was his principal ornament, he cansed to be eut off. Some of his acquaintance found great fault with his ating so strangely, and told him that all Athens rung with the story of his foolish treatment of the dog ; at which he langhed and said, "This is the very thing I wanted ; for I would have the Athenians talk of this, lest they should llat sommething worse to sily of me."PIUTMBCI'N Al, ('IIIADES.
1307. CRITICISM feared. Williem C'urpre. There was a trombling consulation us to the $\begin{gathered}\mathrm{x}-\mathrm{x}\end{gathered}$ perliency of bringing the volume [of satires] Intfler thenotice of Johnson. "One of his pointed sureasims, if he should happen to be displeased, womlal soon thal its way thto all romptanies, and spoil the sale." "I think it wonld be well to send lin our joint names, nerompmaied with a handsome ramd, such a one ns you will know how to fabricute, and such as may predispose him to a favomble perisal of the book, by rotasing him into a good temper ; for he is a ereat hear, with "' his lemrning mal pernetration." Fear prevailed; lat it seems that the look foumd its way into the dictator's humds, that his judgment on it was kind, and that he even did something to temper the wind of ndverse reriticism to the shorn lamb. -Smatu's Cowient ch. 4.

130§. CRITICISM, Good. Sicmucl Jolımson. When I pointed ont to him in the newsjuper one of Mr. Grathan's animated and rlowing specches, in fuvor of the freedom of Ireland, in which this expression oceurred ( 1 know not if accurately taken), "We will persevere till there is not one link of the English chain left to clank upon the rags of the mennest beggur in lreland" - "Nay, sir" (sadid Jolanson), "lon't yon perceive that one link eannot clank ?'- Boswelis's JOHNAON, p. 530.
1309. CRITICISM ignored. Abralutem Lincoln. [Bring urged to set it false report right hy a statencent of facts in the propers, he said:] Oh, no, at least not now. If I were to try to read, much less to nuswer, all the attacks made on me, this shops might as well be closed for nny other business. I do the very lest I know how-the very best I ean ; and I intend to keep doing so unto the end. If the end brings me ont all right, What is sadid against me won't amomet to nuything. If the end brings me ont wrong, ton nugrels swearing I was right would make no differ-ence.-Raymond's LiNeoln, 1. Tij3.
1310. CRITICISM, Mania for. Thurkerey. The little courtesies of the world nmd the little discourtesies became snobbish to him. A man coulal not wear his hat, or earry his umbrella, or mount his horse without fulling mon some crror of snobhism hefore his hypereritical eyes. St. Michael would have carried his armor amiss, and St. Cecilia have been snohbish as she twanged her harp.-Thomole's Tiadekeniy, ch. 2.
1311. CRITICISM, Opposition by. Palmerston. One great secret of his power was, that he conld always make the house lingh. Ile lad a quict, homely way of joking, which no british mudienee could resist. Many of his comic illustriations were drawn from the " ring," all the slangr and science of which lie knew. I have no donbt that if he had been attucked in one of his midnight walks by three umrmed mon, not prizefighters, he woild have been able to knock down the first assuidant, damage the serond, and put to flight the third. I remember, in one of his speedhes, a passage like this: "Gentlemen on the other side remind me of another sort of encounter fatmiliar to us all. Tom Spring, hard pressed, cries ont, 'You strike too high!' Bob Clinch changes his tacties; whereupon Tom rours, ' Fou strike tes line!' I have the samme Ill-luck; let mo strike high of low, I camot jlease lonoruble members opposita." - Circioritinid of IBoo., 1. 502.
1312. CRITICISM, Requests for, simmul, fohnson. We talkul of in laty's varses on Irclund. Rasinotins: "And how wasit, sir ?" Jomsons : "Why, very wall for a yomme mise's versesthat is to suy, eompmared whll exerllonce, nothing ; but very well for the person who wrote them. I momvexed at leing sloown verses in that manner." Miss Rbivnobise: " But if they shomlal he good, why not give thoms hearty praise ?" Iominoon: "Why, madam, burume I have not then got the luitter of my hal hmoner from having bren shown them. Youmast consider, mudanm, beforehand, they may be bided as well as good. Noborly has a rightit to put another modar surla a ditlloulty, that he must either liurt the person by telling the truth, or lart himself liy tolling what is not true. "-Doswelli'n Jonnnon, p. 389.
1318. CRITICISM silenced. Diomysius. Philoxentas, it is stid, beiner invitorl to dine with I Dio nysias [the tyrmit of Syrucuse], und to hear him recite some poetiond composition, was the only one of the guests who took the librerty of censuring it; he was condemned to the mines; but being soon afterset at liberty, and finvited to hear noother recitation, he held his peace when it came to his turn to give his opinion. "What," sad Dionysius, "lave you nothing to say on this oecasion "" "(arry me back to themines," said Philoxenus. Jionysias, we are told, was not displasided with the answer. - TyThen's Hist., Book 3, cli. 8, p. 361 .
1314. CRITICISM, Undisturbed by, Pluto. When one told Plato that the boys in ihe streets were langhing at his singing, "Ay," suid he, "then I must learn to sing better." Being at noother time reminded thit he lud many aspersers, "It is no matter," said he; "I will live so that none shall believe them." And once again, being told that a friend was speaking detructingly of him, he replied, "I am contident he woild not do it if he had not some reason."
1315. CROAKING of Degeneracy. Puriturs. There never was a perionl in which the sutirist did not athim that the proceding generation was healthier, laraver, und altorahier nobber than that to which he had the? misfortune to belong. And so our good Puritan writes [stubbes, in $1593:]$ "Ilow strong men were in tines past, how long they lived, and how henlthful they were, before sucti niceness and vain pampering ruriosity was invented, we may rad, and mmy that live at this day can testify."-Ksicme's ExG., vol. 3, (11. 16, j. 248.
1816. CROAKING, Habit of. Wretherr. Addison's 'lory Fox-hmenter is the true representative of that class of "country gentlamen who have "Wways lived ont of the way of being better informed." The Fox-lunter was of the opsinion there had heen no good weather since the levolution; and that the wather wasalways time in the reign of Chamles Il.-KNicint's Eiso., vol. 5 , ch. 4, p. 54.
1317. CROSS, Emblems of the. Christian. An instrument of the tortures which were inflieted only on slaves and strangers heenme an object of horror in the eyes of a Roman citizen; and the bdens of grilt, of pim, mul of ignominy were clowely mited with the item of the crrose. The plety, ratber than the hommity, of ('onstantine soon alolished in hly dominions the panishament which the siatour of mankind had condescemided to sulfer ; but the empereor hat atrenty lenrmed to dexpise the prepudieres of his edmentthon mud of hils perople hafore he coubd areet In the midst of Rome his own statue, bearing a cross in its right hand, with ull has ripifion which referred the virtory of its arms and the: deliverunce of Rome to the virtioe of that situtary sign, the true symbol of forer and commge. The smme symbol simetithed the arms of the sotdiers of Comatantine; the cross glithered on their helmet, was engraved on their shietols, was interwoven into their bamers; and the consecrated cmblems which mborat the person of the emperor himself were distinguished only hy richere materials and more expuisite workimaiship.Ghmon's Rombi, ch, 20.

1:1N. CROSS, Protootion of the, L. 1 bar $\quad$ m. [The Roman labarum] is deseribed asa hong piki" matersected by atansversal beam. The silken veil which hang down from the benm was rurionsly inwrenght with the indnges of the rejgnhag momare hani his chidiren. The smmmit of the pike supported a crown of gold, whith enclosed the mystremons monorram, it once expresstve of the tigure of the cross mai the finitial latters of the name of Christ. The sufely of the labarum was intrusted to fifty gumdes of mproved valor and fldelity; their station was marked by honors and comoluments; und some fortumate acoddrats soon introdued an opinion, that ns long ns the guards of the labnrmm were engaged in the excention of their ofllee they were secure mad invulnerable amid the darts of the enomy. In the seeond civil war Licinias felt mad dreaded the power of this conserrated banner, the sight of which, in the distress of hattle, mimated the soldiers of Constantine with an invincible enthusiasm, and seattered terror and dismany through the ranks of the adverse legions. -Gimon's lome, eh. 18.
1319. CROSS recovered, The, Relic. In the recovery of the standardis mad prisoners which had fallen into the hands of the Persians. the subjects and brethere of IIeraclins were redeensed from persecution, shavery, and exile : lont, instead of the Roman engles, the true wood of the holy eross was restored to the importumate demands of the suceressor of Constantitue. .
Leraclins performed in person the pilyrimage of Jerusalem, the identity of the relie wis verified by the discreet patriarch. and this nugust eeremony has heen commemorated by the monal festival of the exaltation of the cross. Before the emperor presumed to tread the conser moted ground he was instructed to strip himself of the dindem and purple, the pomp and vanity of the world.-(bususis lionte, ch. 4i.
1320. CROSS, Victory by the. Constrntine. [Emproror of Rome.] In one of the marelhes of Constantine he is reported to have seen with his own eyes the luminons trophy of the cross. placed above the meridian sum, and inseribed with the following words: By tins conquer. This amazing object in the sky astonished the whole army, as well as the emperor himself, who was yet undetermined in the choice of a religion; but his astomishment was comverted binto faith by the vivon of the ensuing night. Christ appented hafore his ryes, and, disphythe the same celostial sign of tha cross, He direrted Constantine to frome a shalar standard, ind to mareh, whth an assurmace of votory, ugathat Maxenthes and all

1:321. CROWN, Componite. Nippeltom I. On The 20hbol Muy [ivan| the [second] coromation of Napmeron tork place In the Cathedime of Mihat. The iron crown of Charlemmger, which is a cirelef of gold and gemecovering an iron ring. formed of one of the npikes satid to have piererd our suviour's lumd at the crucitlaion . . . wus hrought forth. . . . ife phaced the crown upont his own head, remoning alenad the historlcol words," Gond has given it to me-woe to him who tourlans if." - Amburts Nimobeon B., vol. 1, ch. 23.
1342. CROWN declined. Crommill. 'They both refused the crown: (romwell in the comi(il chumber, Washington in the camp). .. Whalıington rose mad the melanations mad love of the Cuined states: Cromwell knew that he only lenshed and hedd in cheek the gompons, hydras. nud chimeras of perserebion, despotism, mal tyamuy. Washangton behede ald contiacting thtorests combining into one hapy, prosperous nationality; Cromwell stood stromg, holding the manaces and arates of toldration and justice betwern a hamdred seeds, all prepared to lify at on :h other's thronts, and every one of which ha al him becouse he way strong. . . . C'romwell was, as has been most truly said, the grentest humnn force ever directed to a moral purpose, and he seems to look neross the orean mod even meticipate W'ashington.- Hood's Chomwell, ch. 14,1 . 184.
1328. $\qquad$ (ingur. The Simate, meditating on the insult which they had received, concluded that (besur mipht be tempted, and that if they could bring him to consemt he would tose the people's hemets. The had already made him Dictutor for life; they voled next that he renlly should be king, und, not iormully perhups, but tentatively, they offered him the crown. Ile was somuded as 10 whether he would necept it. He understood the snure, and refused. What was to be done next? lle would soon be gone to the East. Kome and its hollow adulations would lie behind him, und their one opportunity would he fone also. They employed some one to phacea diadem on the head of hisstatue which stood upon the kostra. It was done publiely, in the midst of a vast crowd, in Casar's presence. Two enger tribmestore the diadem down, mind oremed the offender into custody:Froude's C'Eshu, ch. 26.
132.1. CROWN of Honor, Ruman. The civic crown was the fomdation of many privileges. He who had once obsamed it had a right to wear it always. When he apperred at the publie spectacles, the semators rose up to do him honor. He was placed near their beneh; and his father and gramdiather, by the father's side, were entitted to the same priviteges. Here was an encouragement to merit, which cost the public nothing, mad yet " productive of many great affects.-Pluthat., Caics Marcies Coriohance, Langhomne's Note.
1325. CROWN of Merit. port. The cerpmony of hls coromaton was performend in the Capited by his frlend and patron, the supureme mugistrate of the republic. Thwelse putrian youthes were arrayed in suatet; six representaGres of the most llastrious familias, in gremo rolns, whth garlands of lowers, acempmalent the processulon ; fin the mhist of the prlueres and mohars, the semator, ('olmt of Anguillara, a kinsmm of the Coloman, assumed his throne ; and at the volere of a herath Petrarch hrose. After dise comrsing on a text of VIrgil, mid thrier repenting hifs vows for the prospretity of Rome, he knelt before the throne, and reedived from the semator a hamel crown, with a more precioms decharathon, "This isthe reward of merit." The people shouted, "Lomg life to the ('apitol and the poct!" - (imbon's Roshe, ch. 70, 1. 469.
1326. CROWN, Self-Imposed. Nippoleon $I$. The crown, the se" :tre, the mantle, and the nword were on the nitar. The pepe lifted the Fown; but Napoleon, watehing the diadron, modellad after the 'rown of ' 'harlemagare, out of the lande of the ILoly Fithere, phared it upen his own head; mat then he crowned the empress. - Knifut's Eno., vol. 7, ch. 25, p. 437.
1327. CROWN, Theft of a. E'nylaml. [ln 1071 a Colonel Blood, disgrised as a ilergyman, gagged the kecper of the royal jowels, ani atter Frating him senseless, with the aid of two others, le made off with the crown. He was soon arristed, mill the erown was restured.]-K vianers Fina., vol. 4, ch. 10, p. 314.
1329. CROWN, Tranaferred. ('raxir. Antony, hats colleague in the consulship, uppronched with a tiara, mad phaced it on Cessar's head, saying, "The people give you this by my lamd." That Antony had no sinister purpose is obvions, He promps spoke for the army ; or it may be that Cussar himself suggested Antony's action, that he might end the agitation of so dangerons a subject. He answered in a lowi voice that the Romans hat no king but Gool, and ordered that the tiara shoubl be taken to the Capitol and placed on the statue of Jupiter Olympins. The erowd burst into an enthusiastic cheer.-Fuocne's C.e. sale, ch. 20.
1329. CROWN, A troublesome. Ency. Demostiones rebuilt the walls of Athens at his own ex. ponse, for which the people, at the motion of Ctesiphon, decreed him a crown of gold. This excited the envy and jealonsy of Eschines, who thereupon brought that famons impeachment atrainst Demosthenes, which ochasioned his inimitable oration "De Coronn."-Pberabcis's Dishontifenes, Langimone's Nute.
1330. CROWNS of Iron and Gold. Charess $I$. In the cathedral of St. Ambrose, (harles [IV.] was erowned with the fron crown, which tradition ascribed to the Lomburd monarchy: lat he was admitted only with a peaceful train; the gates of the city were shut upon him ; mul the King of Italy was heda captive ly the arms of the Visconti, whom he contirmed in the sovereignty of Milan. In the Vatican he was agnin crowned with the golden crown of the empire ; but, in obedience to a secret treaty, the Roman emperor immediately withdrew withont reposing a single night within the walls of Rome.-Gishon's Rome, vol. 5.

1:3:B1. CRUCYFIXION, Modern. Imlin. |In Pelorunry, inen, a part of the army in Imalimade ma manceressfin! atack "pon the formidablon works at [bmobow : the retrent was so prectpitate that the womided men were nut durricolent.] These minfortumte men ware nll crneflede, nuil

1:3F2. CRUELTY, Aristocratlo. "Norm"n dientlemen." [In 1070 one of the Norman ihivwhy, mamed Iva Thille-hois, at his goosh pheasure] would follow the varions amimals of the peoples of Croylamel in the mashes with hls doges ; drive them to grent dianare, drown them lon the lakes. muthatesome in the tuil, others in the enr ; white often, hy breaking the feet and tho lege of the bensts of burden, he wonld rember them utterly IB:B:B. CRUELTY, Atroolous, Limmen Eimperor Cirnerelle. The tyramy of Tiberias, Noro, mad Domitim, who resided abmost constantly at Rome, or in the adjarent villas, was contined to the sematorial and efuestrian ordirs. But Caracalla was the common cmemy of makinil. Eivery province was by turns the some of his rapine and cruclty. The semators, compelided fear to uttend his capricions motions, were ohliged to provide dally entertainments nt mm im . monse expense, which he abondomed with romtempt to his guards; mal to erect, in cerry city, marniticent pahaces mad thentres, which he either disdained to visit or ordered to be immediandy thrown down. The most wenthy families wore rubacd hy partial thas and contiseations, and the great body of his sibljects oppressed by ingronions and nggravated taxes. In the midst of penere. and upon the slgghest provoration, he issurd his commands, at Alexindrin, in Egypt, for a general massacre. From a secure post in the temple of Sernpis he viewed and directed the slaughter of many thousmal (itizens, as well as strangers, without distinguishing cither the momber or the arime of the sufferers; since, as he coolly informed the semate, all the Alexandrians, those who had perished and those who had esproped, wore alike guilty.-Ghmos's Rome, ch. 6.

1334. CRUELTY, Barbarian. Witr. The Thuringinns sorved in the army of Attina; they traversed, both in their march and in their return, the territories of the Frimks; and it was perhaps in this war that they exereised the eruelties which. about fonmeore years afterward, were revenged by the son of clovis. They massacered their hostages as woll as their captives; two bumbed young maidens were tortured with expuisite und burelenting rage ; their bodies were torm nsumder by wild horses, or their hones were crushed under the weight of rolling wagons; and thair unburied limbs ware nbandoned on the puldic rads as a prey to dogs and vultures. Such were those savage ancestors whose imaginary virtmes have sometimes excited the praise and envy of civilized ages.- (inhun's Rome, ch. 35.
1335. CRUELTY, Bloodless. Mirhat Pitlantogus. [lfe was the nsurper of Constantimple.] By fear or conswience Pabelogras was restraincil from dipping his hands in innocent and royal blood; lout the anxiety of a usurper and a parent urged him to secure his throne by one of those imperlect erimes so familiar to the modern Greeks. The loss of sight incapacitated the young prince the hrutal voleme of temring out his 'yom, the veloal berve was destroyed by the internse ghare of 14 rell-hot hasin, and foha lasearls was remos.

倦.

IBBB. CRUELTY, CathoHo. Iirlimi. "In burned the honses of the brotestmes, harned thella ent maked la the midet of whter, and drowe them, like: herlss of swine, before them. If, nelamed of their mulity. mod desirons of necking shelter from the rigor of a remarkably severe mato son, these manply wroteles took refuge in a harn, and conecole it themselves moder the straw, the rebels instantly set the to it nud burned hom ulive. At other times they were led withome. dothing to be drowned in rivers ; mad if, on the romed, they did not movequick enengh, they were urged forward nt the point of the pike. When they reacluad the river or the sata they were pre-- Ipitated into it, in bames of several handreds, which is dombtless ma exngremation. If these poor wretehes arose to the surface of the watar, men were st atoned nlong the brink to plunge them in agnin with the butte ol their muskets, or to tro at and kill them. Inshands were ent to pieces in the presence of thelr wives; wives mad virgins were almsed in the slght of their nearest relations; and infants of seven or cight yemps were hang before the eyes of their parents. Nay, the Irish even went so lar as to tench thair own childrento strip nod kill the chideren of the English, and dablant thedr lomins against the stones. Numbers of Protestants were buriod alive, a many as seventy in une trench. An lrish priest. named Macodeghan, enpenred forty or tifty Pros. estants, and persuated them to abjure their roligion on a promise ol , puarter. After their ab juration he naked them if they believed that Christ was bodily present in the 1 Lost, amm that the pope whs hend of the (church? and on their replying la the nllmative, luesaid: 'Now, then, younce in a very grome fith!' and, for far they Nhould relapse intu heresy, he cut nil their thromts."-IIoon's (somwels, ch. 1I, l. 141.
1337. CRUELTY to Children, Timour. ['Timour the Tartar was a forrible destrover of haman life.] A Greek city on the comst of Ephesus having sent to mert him und implore his pity a multitude of children of both sexes, who sung his praises and recited verses of the korm to Hatter his religion: "What is that henting of shep that monoys my ears?" satid he to his cmirs. "It is the chilidren of the eity sent hy their par:ents to meet your horse to implore you to spare their fathers and mothers." "Let the harses of the Tartars crush them all bemath their feed!" eried Timour. The ansalry of the vanguard rushod at the word upon those imnoernts, mui thousands of the bodies of mutiated children traced the route of Timenr. 'The hahit of spilling bood had conded with giving Timour that lat degreo of military hrubality-an indifference to blood.-Lamabrine's Terikey, p. 3.8.
1338. CRUELTY of Civilization. Amerienn Indians. We call them cruel; yet they never invented the thumb-screw, or the boot, or the rack, or loroke on the wheel, or exiled hatels of their mations for opinion's sake ; and never pro-

ISiB8. CRUELTY to Criminals, Finyland. |ln
 dromed high trason, withont having ans advantag of chays and that . . all futho privaners Fhombla be biled to death. . . Wir lave tha fol-und lown divers times till he was dome, for bue 'mane he woule hase jetisomel diveres persoms."

 his sorvants; mad ho was locked In achala and pulled up and down with a giblet at divers times
 (h. 21, 3. 3.30.

1:3.10. CRUELTY for Cruelty. Sichinn Vispers. The r"pe armed in suppert of his vasal Charkes of Anjou. An empacment rasmed, in which Comrmha mad the Duke of Austrin were totally defented-they were taken privomers mod rondemod as rebels agalust the suprome authority of the holy hureh; Charles ordered them to, siater demble upor a semfold. Thos this prine seromed his claim to the kingelom of $\mathrm{N}: \mathrm{p}^{\mathrm{m}}$ des and Sicily by a deed which filled his 1 w subjecets whithorror. They submitted, for a while, with silenil ialleration to hiv tyrannloal government. The Sicilinas at length, to whom the athority of this msurper beame every day more intolerhe, formed a conspiracy to vindicato their libdy which termimated in one of the mose dremed. finl massacres ever known in history. In the Yur 1282, upon Eastar Sunday, at the ringing of' the bell for verspers, it was resolved to put todenta every firenclman through the whole island of Sidily, and the resolution was ponctmally executed. Even women mal infants uaderwent the general fate; and such was her savage fury of the Sleilinns, that the priests assisted in the mumber of their brethren, and cill the thrmats wem of their frmate penitents.-TyThen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 11.
13.11. CRUELTY, Enjoyment of. Tiy limatms. The Bructeri (it is Tacitus who mow speaks) were totally axterminated by the neirhboring tribes, provokinl by their insolence, whured by the hopes of sumil, and perhaps inspired by the tutchar dejties of the ampire. Above 60,000 barharians were destroyed; not hy the Romin ams. but in our sight, mal for our entertamment. May the mations, cmemies of lome, "Ner preserve this comity to cach other. We have now atthined the utmost verge of prosererils and have mothiner left to demand of fortume. (anept the diseod of the barmanis.- (imbos's Jome, ch. 9, 1. 2\%.
 berimining of the eleventh erntury the serond Basil came to the flomene.] His cractuy intlicted a cool and exquisite vengemere on Lition [Bugarian] captives who hatd heell mity of the defeme of their country. 'They were deprived of sight; but to one of cuch himalred a single eyr was left, that he might comduct his bind cemury to the presence of their king. Their king is sid to lane wened of aricl and herror: the ('omstantinat, tho wite of 'ballas, a lamamm rulor, Ia deserilad, not as a 11 an, but us one of tho of haman bhoul. Lnstemp of rimploying lur in lift an lablelible stain on the memory of 'lheor dora, Trer mamoroms plowobserved, and matomaly reportal, every motion or word or laok injurtbus to their rosut mistress. Whomsonver they neromad were cast into her peroliar prlams, in. neressible to the inguitios of justice; mad it was ramoral that the torture of that mek, or meonarge. had been intleeted in the presione of the fermale tyrant, hasensible to the volee of prover or at in derpr. whwholesome dangeons, while othors ware promitted, after the loss of their limbs. lheir wasm, or thatr fortumes, to nuper in the worde, the living mommente of her vemgenmer. whide was commonly extended to the chidelen of those whom she Juad suspureted or injured. 'Ilue senator or bislows, whase clath or exdle Theodora had promounced, was delivered to n Irusty messenger, and hife diligence was yuick--inced hy a menate from hor own mouth. "If you fuil la the exceution of my rommands, 1 swear hy llim who liveth forevor, that your skin slull be thayd leom yome leody." - Gimans's 16omes, M. 41 .

13.15. CRUELTY of Government. //emy ITII. At the time of the serond relvellion, in 1533, Henry wrote to his minister:] Our plensume is. that before you shall cose up our suid bamaco ngan, you simall, in my wise, (mase such deral ful exarution to be done upon a good mamber of the inlabitants of every town, vilago and hamlet, that have offenderl in thls reinellion, us well by the hameing them upin trees, as hy the guatfering of them, and the selting of their headsamb guattors in cory lown, ereat and small, and in all such obher phares, as they may be a forfal spectade to all others hereafter that would praclise my like mattor ; which wo rophire you to do withont pity or respect. - Kingares biva, 13.16. $\qquad$ Hohn Merratel. He wis forl to visit the hulks anchored in the Thasmes. wherein ware conthed large mambers of convirts "Wating transportation. He lold members of the govermancot what he saw there.

$\mathrm{H}_{1}$. wout below, whore he found large numbers of sick men lying on the thoor, with not somuch ans ntraw mule - them, to whom were given only the loththsome atid poisonous provisions which hat cansed their sickness. Tle whe not surprised to learn that one third of the conviets die before leaving the country to begin the fulfilment of their sontence; and he told the government that, unhess the system were changed, Hore womble be mod of trangurthig prisotmers to Botnny Bny, lor they womble all ille in the Thames. ft was hanrial aggravation of this infirmide ruelty that the lome dotenthon on lamal
 "גphage a day from the term of their sedteme ; it was so murill uldied to their logal pumiahment.

18.17. CRUELTY, An itherited. Viro. Il.
 fot ut this vory fiome it was his favorito ammse. mont tor range themght the etreote at lemme whth metrer. Ilia matural disponstion firm publity - Lomed itself in an fulohent mestere of nll the mat, fonk udvalutuge al this diaposithon hy rulimg gil st the daturer of allowize fre comber to thes 'te's sol' this mathtlonsuml umprineppled woman, and hiv tirst stej) was to dimmiss from the court revenge. She propessal to bring Britamious to the prienorian bands. asd to ucknowhedge lnfore therit the crimos sha hal committent to phacos exceution of thls jurpese by pusoning Britanul(as, while lee sut ut supper with himself ; lut ha: sought ugainst his mother a more rethed venpemmer. she was invited lo Buise, to celobrate Hhe fenst of bucchas. The ship hathelis sho sailed was constructed la such a fanamer as to burst und fall to piocersat seat bat the machlaery fuiled, mad A gripplas cime safe ashore. Nero, enriged at the disuppointment of his strata gem, ordered ome of his freedmen to asvissimate 193*. CROELTY, Inhuman. Phieas the Ti/mat. After the [loread] ubdication of [the Greak Emperor] Manrice, the two factions disputed the choice of nn emperor : but the finvorite of the bues whe rejeeted hy the jealonisy of their me tugomists. . . On the thime dny. nmid the arrlamations of $a$ thotghthess porople. l'hocos made his pablice entry in $n$ (nariot drawn by four white hursas , the revolt of the tronps was rewarded by a lavish donative. . . The ministors of death werr despmededed io C'hatredom;

 amd the tive sons of Mander wre succossibely
 mat. At cach stoke, which he felt in his heart, lie fombl strength to relacarse a pions cjaculalion: "Thou art just, 1 lard! nad thy judir. ments are rightewns" Aul surth, inthe last mer ment - was his rigid attaclument otruth amd justiee, that he reveraled to the soldiers the jions falsohond of anurse who presented her own rlahd in the phace of a rogal infant. - (ismbons lonala, ch. 46 .
13.19. EEVELTY, Love of. seythichax. In all their invasions of the rivilizod empines of the South, the sigthinn shepherds have been uniformly netuated by savage nad destractive spirit. The has of war, that restrain the exercise of national rapine and marder, are founded on two principles of substantial interest: the knowledge of the permanent lenefits which may be obtained by a moderate use of eomquest, and a just apprehomaion live the divalation which we on our own．But theme considerations of hope and fant are alanomt unk nown lin the pastornd mato of mathons．．．．Aftor tho Mogula huil malndiod the northern provinere of Chitu，it wins serfonsly proposed，ant la the lionir of viotory und pasalon．
 the Inhbibinits of that proplous country，that the viernat latid might be convertod to the pas
 －larfor，who insimunted menne principles of malon－ at pollicy tuto the mind of Fingis，divertod him frome the＂xerition of this horrid design．－（ita． mon＇н Rombi，cll．isl．

1：350．CRUELTY，Matornal．S＇ルн＇f（＂）．（＇ru－ virtuc，whe a strong fugredient ln the spmotua ajatemi of manariv．lalermal or matormal ton－ derness moerond perferetly makmown amonig this licdy insurected hy the adoris of earch tribe ：nad such as promised to be of 14 was and dillimes constlanfon wom hmanedintely pint to denth by drowning．At the festival of lhina childron were scourged，nomedimes even to denth，fin the presence of their mothers，who exhorted them， menatina，osulfer cerery extromity of puln with－ ont complaint or mumair．It is no wonder that such mothers whombd recedve，without cmotion， the intelligence of the death of a son in the theld of battla；lout is it possible for helicere that on such oreasions they shomblast far congurer antire as to expries a transport of joy ${ }^{9}$ What juide－ nont most we form of the Sjartan notions of patriotic virtue，when，to lowe their country，it Was thomght necessary to subdue and cestinginsha the strongest forlings of hamanity，the tirst fir－ ill． 9 ．

1：351．CRUELTY，Meroiless．Bmmportr．［ At the butile of Austerlity］the Ifying lenssinns rrowded on the frozen lakes．Nupnateon，from the table－hned of Pratach，on the side of these lakes，suw the disuster whioh he hat so wedl pre－ pared．Je ordered the hatary of his arbard to fire romal shot on the ire that was moboken． to complete the destruction of those who had taken refage ujon the frozen waters．Thae bat－ teries fired on them till thono were cither killed or drowned．－KNuatr＇s Eiva．，vol．7，民h．25， 1．450．

1350．CRUELTY，Monster of．Roman E＇mper． or C＇aligula．Upon the denth of his sister，J）ru－ silh，he punished some for momoung for her， beranse they onght to have known she wis a fodeless ；mad put to death others for not monrn－ fing，beranse she was the sister of the emperor． In uddition to all this，Caligula lomded the prov－ inces with the most excessive taxes；and such was his avarice，that every day some of the citi－ adens fall a satrifice in the confisentions of their property．it would only crante disgust were we to enter into any detail of the compliented and ingenions cruelties and the absurd extravigances of a mudman－of the multiplied instunces of his folly as well as of his depravity－his ridiculous mock eampnigns－－the temples be erected in hon－ or of himself，where，in the character of his own priest，he offerel sucrifices to himself，sometimes as Jupiter and sometimes ats Jmo．One day lie chose to Ins Marcury，the next he was Hacehas rolgn，this monnter met whth the fate which lan tribune of the procorlan gramide，fin the twenty－ 6．ch．i．

EBS：B．CRUELTY，Natural．Siombil，Jwharm． Jumsmo ：＂Pity ls Het mulural to man，（＇hil－

 necing a crontare in diatrose，whthout pity；for Wo have mot fity thane we wish to rellove them． Whill I ma urimy way to dine with a frimel． mat，thading it lute，have bid the comelhman mako horses，I mas for I miphomsantly that the mimaly aper put to prime but la dort wish him to dralst．
 Johncise，J．Iミ1．

IIBS．CRUELTY a Passion．（＇mmmmolin，That represented，a tiger born wihh inn insatiate thirst of the most inhmanmations．Nature land formed him of a wak rather than a wiaked di－gositfon． His simpllidty and thaldity remberal him thos Nhave of his attemblats，whor gradually corminted dichates of othors，degenornted into hatit，and nt was minlo ruler of dhome s．l．180．］－（immos＇s

1355．CRUELTY，Pleasure in．［Lucius Quin． tims theminimus｜had a favorite hoy whom hecour－ ried with him，even when he commanderl armias and gevirned provincos．One day as they wera drinking．the boy，making his court lo linchas， said：＂I love you so tomilerly，that，preforitig your satisfaction to my own，i left a show of Eladiators to come to yout，though I lave never secon atman killeal．＂Lucius，delighted with the thattery，mole unswer：＂If that hw all you nered wot he in the lomst monsy，for I shall sion satis－ fy your lomging．＂I Io＂mandintely ordered a convict to be bronght from the prision，und hav－ ing sent for one of his lictors，commamed him to strike ofl the man＇s hemd in the room where

1356．CRUELTY to Prisoners．Blow IInle，［1n
 tacked the British fintory at（alcuttia．Nifertwo days bombardment the fort surrendered，having the promise that their lives would be spared．？ There were ono hamdred mad forty－tive men and one womnn of this devoted comping．They ware to he secured for the night in the dimgeon of the fort．Into that den cighteen feet hy four－ tern，with two smnll wimbows，were these one humbled and forty－six udults forced by the foro－ cions gnard that the tyrant had set over them； mod the door was closed．Of that night of hor－ ror，the relation given ly Mr．Holwell［ome of the prisoners］is one of the most powertal mar－ ratives of the extremity of suffering which was ever jenned．The expedient of the prisoners to obtain more room and air，some sitting down， never to rise ngain，through their companions falling $n$ non them ；the cnlling ont to the guard to fire and relieve them from their misery：the raging thime ; the delirinm ; the wtinefaction ; the many dead trumpled upon by the few livlogtheme nre lurrors whelooti a pirallel lis himory or

185\%. CRUELTY In Panishment. Amelionicus.
 the firy of his milojecets, Andronitus, the lemman enco of Ismat Ingelis, ond of his victions, fomed "d with follors, naid a loug chaln rombl his neck.

 momarela andadomed the crimbal to the momer. ellss sulterers whom ho had deprivel of a fa-an "ye und a lumi, were lorin from limi, as a resplete was allowed, that he might lion the hittremesa of cleath. Astrble on a emanel, whiliont the city, and the basest ol the populace rejole ad to trample on the fallen majesty of their prlace. After thomand blows abd matragis dadrond ris was halig by the fort, berweot two pillars that sapported ibe statues of a wolf anal a sow ; and every lanal that conded rouch the publie enemy lutheted on his body nome mark of ingenious or bratul craselty, till two friondly or furions Itallans, planging thadr swords into his boty, released him fromall haman panishment. lin this lomy mad pminfal agomy, "Lard, luve marcy "pontme!" and " Why will you bruise a broknin reed $y^{\prime \prime}$ were the only words that esenped from his monali. One hatred for the tyrant is lost in pity lor the man. - (immos's Rowk, ih. 48.

1335*. CRUELTY, Reaction of. Nim's. ['larif tas says] various formes ol mosekery were atid-with the skins of wild heasts fthe C'hristians] .. Wrere downed to dio by the mangling of loges, or by heing mated to crossus, or to be wet om threand burnt after twilight be way of night. ly illuminution. Nerosoffered his own gardens for this show. . . . Ilenere, fuilty as the virthans wore they were charered with hatred toward munkind, and deserving the worst of punislments, a lecling of compassion 1oward them legen to rise, ne men felt they were immolated, not for any alvantage to the commomwalth, hut to frat the savagery of a sitagle mati- FAbH.AR'к EABuy IAYs, p. 39.
1355. CRUELTY, Refined, (ires' Empurnes Pexserution. [Constamtine sylvanus, the lemetar of a Goostic seet, fell a victim to Roman perserition nt the hamels of a minister mamed Simeon.] Isy a refinement of ernelty Simeon phaed the nifortmate Sylvanus before a line of his disciples, who were eommanded, as the prite of their pardon and the proof of their repentance, to massare their spiritual father. They tarned aside from the impions olllee; the stonestropped from their thial hands, and of the whole mimber only one executioner conld be fomnd, a new David, us he is styled by the Catholies, who boldly overthrew the giant of heresy. This upostate (Jushus was his name) agnin deceived and betrayed his unsuspecting brethren.-Gibibon's Rome, ch. 54.
1330. CRUELTY, Religious. Crusarles. [In 1191, after the surrender of Acre to the Crusa. dics, $/$ Klug IRicharil, umpiring to doxtroy thas 'Turks, root and bramelt, .. and to vindiate tha ('lirlatian rellygon, on the Frlalay uffer the Ansumpilom of tho IBlossed Virgin Mary orilerad twinty-mevin himilrei of the lourklali hostages to he lod forth from the rity ind hangend. Thus wohllere marelied forth with delight to fultil his
 p. 112.

1;B81. CRUELTY, Romorse from, l'fotrire.

 soms, whom heat lougit took prisomer, ame com.
 to le burume allve. 'This liorrible tragorly took proeisely a your afterward, a prey tothe deepent

1:382, CRUELTY, Rogal. ('manfutime' llis relgn was a long butchery of whaterier was most moble or laoly or lenocent lis his rimpire. In of his viothos, surveryed their agonies, listomed to their gromas, and findulged, withent watiather, lais apretite for hlood; "plate of meses was me. "epted as a gratefal olfering, amd hiv dommestiow were ofton Neourgeal or matilated by the royal lamil-limbun's Rombi, cls. AN.

1:36:B. CRUELTY, seotarian. (imek r'himeh. During the reigu of Nambel|and lhat of hivense:
 at (omstantinople to the repronels of formpars, hereties, ami livorites: mad thistriplo paile was severely expiated ln the thmalt which ammoner
 'The people rose lin arms from the Asiatio share lhe tyrant despmatheal his troopss amel gatleys to assist the mationat revenge; and tha bopeloss resiniance of thas strumgers serverl only to justify the rage aud slartuen lla dagigers of the assassins. Nothor ane mor sas bor the thes of friomelship or kindred condel save the viations of mational hatred abl avarioreand relighons zenl ; the Latins wereshughterod in their lonases and in the stroets; their gumetre was redhend to ushes ; the clerty ware burnt in their charches, nan the siek in their hospitals; umil some estimate may be formod of the slain from the clomency whith sold ahowe font thousamel Christians in propethal shaver to the 'Turks. The priasts and monks were the lomidest and most active in the dentrution of the sehismatios; and they chanted athankserving to the loril when the heme of a Roman rardinal, the popres legate, was suvered from his boly; fastened to the nail of 1 dog. and dragered, with savage mockary, lhrough the city-Gimmosis Rome, eh. 60.
1364. CRUELTY, Shameful. Jftmes $I I$. [The Duke of Mommonth's rebellion lind been crished, and his ndterents were condemaed to death.] So many dead bodies wore puartered that the executioner stood ankle denp in blond. Ile wis assisted by a poor oman whose loyalty was suspected, and who was compelled to ransom his own life by seething the remains of his friends in pitch. The peasant who had consented to perform this hideous ofthce afterward returned to his plough. But a mark like that of Cain was upon hint. Ife was known through his village hy the horrible nane of Tom Boilman. - Masa hay's Evor, cha. 5.
13865. CRUELTY of Slavory. Litrethemminns. The Iledots were anelgharing perphe of Pedop. onnesus, whom they had subherd in war and redued to wevitude. 'They were mumpons, and had at thace attempled to shake off their yoke: whenee it was judiged a meessary policy bor curb, 10 intimidate, atud to weaken ihem he the mest shocking belmannity. It w:s not allowable bosill or tuesport them; but the youth wern pecourared to put them to death for pastime. Ther went iotli the tiond to hant them like wild boass ; and whenat any time if waspurehemded that home unhapper wretehes hat the ceme so mumerons as to entianger the siate, the cryptia, or ver, tar-vi\%, a gempal massanere in the night-was ordamed hy daw, - Truba's IInst., Book 1, ch. !).
 governers of the youth ortered the slatewdest of them from time to time to disperse themselves in the commery provided only with datgerers and some meressitry provisions. In the day time they hid themselves, and resterl in the most private placess they could tind ; but at night thay sallied ont into the romds, and killed all the Helotes the g could mert with. Nay, sometimes ly day thay fell upon them in the $f$. his, and mar dered the ablest and strongest of them. [LavoHobves Note.] These jows wretehes were minkeal out for slaves in their dress, their gesure, tum, in short, in everything, They wore dogskin ! ommets and sheepskin vests: they were forbidden to leare any liberal art, or to proform any ace worthy of their masters. Once a day they received a certain mumber of stripes, for fear they should forget they were slaves; and, to crown all, they were liable to this criptia, which was sure to be peeruted on all sur has spoke, looked, or walked like freemen ; a crucl and munecessary expediont, and unnorthy of a virtuons people. Dintakm: Lactuats.
1367. CRUELTY, Torrible. Timonr. [Laving him main army at Damasens, Timour] (rosserd the desert of forty days journery, with a select devarlment, and ran to besiege Bagdad, a third time rewolded. His vengember was this time mpitying. The 100,000 Tartirs whom he fad to the siage of Bagdad recerived orders to bring him, "ach of them, the head of an insurgent. Alt perished, from the are of cight to that of dighty vears, in Bagrlath. But he once more saved the imen of lethers, the artists, the skilled meehanies, the priests, the poets, the historiansall these who give intelligence and immortality
 1. 3 .

136ix. $\qquad$ Timener the Tirrtar. [Timour becered siwas, the most opalent city of
 ing the promise that life should be stared.] But searcely entreal into Siwas, Jre inmodated it with the blood of its defenders. Whether anger or poliey, his forocity made the East shudder. Four thonsand Ottomans were huried alive to the neck, and thas awaited the end of their life and of their torture-a spectacle worthy of the brutality of Tartars, and which the ferocious animals do not exhibit in their mutual carmage.

The Christims, cast by comples into tremehes covered with boards, mid sureharged afterward with carth, prolonged for manown hays their subterrmeons agony muder the tents of the Tarfars, who heard their momings. The brave Were massared, that the contagion of their courage might not gain bom the rowardly; theocowardsidied through their cowardiee, which rentered them unwothy tolive. Bevery petext was ered to consign to ilath. Timonir camsed to bre immohated exen the unfortunate lepers of the hompital of Siwas, lest their intirmity might be commminatol to his Tartars ameng whom it was manown. With the exerption of the make chidiren lit for shavery, and the young wirla tit for the harems, the entre ?opulation was

1:369. CRUELTY, Undetested. Rimm" Sint(uns. In the hemering of that sime semate in A. D . Is, not loner before Si. Paul wrote his letter to Philemon, C' ('asedme bonginus had gravely argued that the only serurity for the life of masters was law, which emaded that, if a master was murdered, wery one of his siaves, lowever momerons, loweser notoriously innocent, should be indiserimimately masiarerib. It was the semators of Rome who lironged forth to meet with adoring congratulations the miserable youth who came to them with his hamds rerking with the hood of matricite. They offereti thankspivings to the gods for lais worst crumbies, and obedienty voted Divine homors to the dead infme, four months old, of the wife whom he afterwart k:llod with a hriabl hick.-Famba's Eamay Davs, p. $1 \pi$.

1:370. CRUSLLTY, A Victor's. Romen Em . peror Gollienns. There is still extant a most savage mandate from [the Emperor] Gallienus to one of his ministers, after the surpression of Ingenuns, whe had assmed the purple in Illyrir.um. "It is not enomerl," says that soft but inhuman prince, " that you (xterminate such as have appeared in arms; the chance of batule might have served me as afrectually. The mald sex of ewry age must be extirpaited, provided that, in the execution of the chiddren and old men, you can rontrive mans to save onr reputation. Let every one dir who hats dropped an expression, who has entertained thenght against me-against me, the son of Vaterian, the: father and brother of so many princes. Rememhrer that Ingemuns was mude emperor: lear, kill, hew in pieces. I write to yon with my own hand, and world inspire you with my own feelingr."-(inmos's Rowe, cilh. 10.

1:371. CRUELTY of War. Tïmur T'imour [the Tartar] was satistied with the siegre amd destruction of Siwas or selaste, a strong rity or the borders of Anatolia; amd he revenged the indiscrolion of the (ottemam on a satrison of dow Armenians. who were burial alive for the brawe and fathful disedarge of their duty.Gmbox's Rome, (h. 4:
$1: 372$.
-(inserf. Anxions demates were held :mong the bedearnered chiels [Gambs in Ahesia]. The fainthearted wished to surrender before they were starved. Others were in favor of a dexperate effort to cut their way through or die. One speench Cessar preserves for its remarkable and frightful ferocity. A prince of A Avergue said that the Romans conguered to enshas and beat down the laws mad liberties of free mations moter the dietors' axes. and he proposed that, soonere than yichl, they should kill and ead those who were uselasis for tighting. Vercingetorix was of moble mature. To prevent the adoption of en horrible an expediem, he ordered the peacofind inhabitanks, with their wives children, to heave the town. Ciestar fordade them to pase his limes. ('ruedlat war in cruel ; and where a garrison is to be redued by famine the laws of it are inesor-able.-Fmorde's ('sosim, in. 19.

137:3. CRUELTY to Woman. r'lotuire. [Brumehmu, (Quern of Anstrasin, foll into the lands of the Kingr of Nemstria, whose name was] Clotaite. Ite owerwhemed here with a torrent of reproarhes, abandoned her for there days to every kind of torture and indignity and then ransed her to be fastened to the tail of a wiad homse, so that the wrethed gueren's borly was dragered, torn, and trampled into fragments. The remains were coblected, and the ashes sratered to the winds. - Sromexts Funce, eh. 4, 客5.
138.8. CRUELTY in Worship. Anciout Druids. In these graves [of Englami], and apon these altars, the Draids offered sucrifices of varions kimle, the most acreptable of which were human victims. This was bed to be wondered at, considering that it was their opinion that the sinpreme Deity phaced his chief delight in bood and slamghter.

.

 Every winth month there wats a sacrition ofrared up to the geols of nine human vietims; and in the first month of every ninth year was beld an extracordimary solemnity, which was marked with dremad shaghter, Tymake's Mist., Book it, M. 6.1375. CRUSADERS, Numerous. Ki.r Millions. Wedepend not on the eyesor knowhedge, liatom the belief and fancy, of a haplain of C'ount Bahdwin, in the estimate of six hundred thousand pilgrims able to lear arms, hesides the priests and monks, the women and chideren of the Latin ramp. The reader starts; amblefore he is reroscred from his surprise, I shall mide, on the same lestimony, that if at who took the cress hand accomplished their vow, above six millions would have migrated from Europe to Asia. Cuder this oppression of faith, I derive some relinf from a more sagacious and thinking writer, who, after the same re view of the cavalry, arenses the cratulity of the priest of Chartres, and even doubts whether the C'isalpine regions (in the geography of a Frenchman) were sulticient to produce and pour forth such incredible multitudes. The coolest serepticism will remember, that of these religions volunters great numbers never beheld Constantinople and Nice. Of enthusiasm the inthence is irregular and transiont; many were detained at home by reason or cowardice. by poverty or weakness; and many were repulsed by the obstacles of the way, the more insuperable as they were unforeseren, to these ignorant fa-naties.-Gmboris Rome, ch. 58.
1376. CRUSADES, Origin of. Peter the Ifermit. Abont twenty years after the conquest of Jerusalem by the Turks, the holy scpulchre was visited ty a hermit ly the nume of Peter, a native of Amiens, in the province of Picardy in France. His resentment and sympathy were excited by his own injuries and the oppression ol the christian mame; he mingred his tears with those of the patiame and emonesty inguined if no, hopes of relief could be entertained trom the (ireck emperors of the bast. The patriareb exposed the Vires and waknes of the sureresers of Constantime. "I will romse," exclaimed the hermit, " the mintial mations of Europe in Vour canse ;" and lamope was ohedient to the cail of the her-mit.-Gmmox's Romis, ch. is.

1:377. CULTURE, Improvement by fiermany. The rlisate of merient Germmy has been mollitiod, and the soil limitized, hy the labor of ten conturics frem the time of ('hartematere. 'The s:ance cxtent of groumd which at prevent mantains, in case and plenty, a million of hasbandmen and artiferess, was umble to supply a hundred thomand hoy warrions with the simple necessaries of life.-GHmos's Rones, ch. 9.
1378. CURE, Imaginary. Woht 1 mmedt 1 .s. On his bark he hatd a romul, feshy tumor of thesize of a pigeon's egra ; its furrowed surtace was eovared with hair, inal its hase was surromaded hy batk moles. This was comsidered as the seal of his prophetic mission, at least during the hatter part of hiscareer, by his followers, who were so devout hat they fombin anre for their ailings in thinking the water in which he had bathed; and it must have been very refreshing, for he perapired profusely, mol liss skin exhated a strong smell."-Sibibxients Life of MohamMED, p. 8.t.
1379. CURE, Superstitious. Fiun's Liril. [Dr. Samuel Johnsom was atlicted with serofula in his childhood, which distigumed his combtemanere, injured his visual nerves, and lestroyed the sight of one eye.] It has bern said that he contracted this grievons malady from his murse. His mother, iefling to the superstitious notion, which, it is wowntal to think, prevailed so long in this coun ry, as to the virtue of the regal tourh -a notion which our kinge concomarad, and to Whicha man of such inguiry and such judgenent as Carte cond give credit-antiod him to London, where he was minally tourded by Qucer Ambe-BoswemAㅇ Jomssois, p. 6.

1iswo. CURES fanciful. Heathes. (2urow Amereved the ceremony of towhing for the King's evil, by which all Eighich momare has from the time of Edwatd the Confessor, whether saints or simuers, haml ussertad the minatulons pewer of the weaver of the "- whaten rigol," William III. was profane enoush not to brifeve in this power. William was oncepresaled upon to touch for the makaly which kintre comble enere, and he satid to the patient that he prayed (iod to heal him and grant him more wisiom at the
 $2 \pi 2$.

1:381. Cures, Fraudulent. IIng's Weil. in ohd man who was a withese on a canse describerd how the groed Quen [Ame| had thuched him Whem a child [for the cure of the king's evil|. If ${ }^{-}$ was asked whether he was rally cured, upon which he answered, with a signifieant smile, that he believed himself nover to have had a complaint that deserved to be considered as the Evil, but that his parents were por, and had no whertion to the bit of rold-the angel of goldwith the impress of St. Michatel, which was hung about the patients neek．－Kiverit＇s Eva．，vol． 5，ch．1ĩ，p． 2 ？

13＊2．CURIOSITIES，Indifference to．Generel firent．［At Naples］he climbed to the fastle of San Mation，mow a mavelm，．．Ther spent nomely an hour in asmining the corionstios，in which Mrs．（irant se emed to take more interest tham har Gemeral．．．When the suide showed tion to Naples，he drely remarked，in Engriva：
＂Well，if I had a mandim like this，I would dere it to Naples，or ：mybedy who would take it．＂－

1：3M3．CURIOSITY，Destractive．E＇mputhelis．
 eminmer in physial sciphere，and who is satid to bave thrown himself into the crater of Noment Etma，either from the desire of exploring the canse of ils equptions，or of propagating the be－ lief that the gods had canght himup in heaven ； it is a wiser and more charitable supposition， that he owed hisdeath to a lindithle but rashe con－ riosity．－TYтlem＇s Mist．，Book 2，ch． 9.
138．1．CURRENCY in Salt．In liysxinio．In there is a harephain，called Harko；it is covered with sall three feet thick，which is not only usw for culinary purposes bat in Abssinita as cur－

1：38．5．CUSTOM，Reign of．＂In应king．＂At the bridewell，in Liverpon，Howard fomm an sing har costom prevailing．Every woman，on her admission to the jail，was bronght into the bath－ room clat only in a flamed ctemise，and phaced in a chair with her back to the bath－tub）．This （hatir turned on a hinere，and when the signat wats given it was turned over，and low woman with it，who went hadeward into the water over hend and ears．This operation was repeaten three tmes，when the woman was considered initiated．［．lohm］Howned inguired why l？： men were not subjected to this ducking ；but he conbld only learn that surh was mot the custom

1：366．DANCING，（eeremmious．Indi＂ll． Though generally selate in manners and serin os in helavior，the Red men at times gave them－ selves 110 to morry－making amb hilarity． dan was miversil－mot the sorial dane of ef ilized nations，but the dame of ceremony，of re－ ligion，and of war．sometimes the whriors daned alone，but freguently the women joined in the widdexerese，cirding around and armond． Whating the weird monotomoss songe of the tribes．－Rumeras U．S．，ch．1，p． 49.

1：Bog．DANCING，Delight in．Sirteruth Con－ tary．［With the perople，high and low，it was a favorite amusement．］Tpon the rushes of the tored lighted hall the reourtiers danced their grate measures and cormatoes to the airs of Queen Elizabrthis＂Yirgimal Book；＂and the batant yombamal madens，on the village green． sath the sum er down，as hary teipged＂the come－
 16．p．2． 0.

1388．DANCING，Mystic．Hist Indiems．The dances to which the natives seemed sos immorl－ erately addieted，and which had been at tirst considered by the spaniards mere idle pastimes，

Were fomm to be often ceremonials of a serions and mystie charactir．They form，indeed，a sin－ gular and important fenture throughout the cus－ Toms of the athorigimals of the New World．In these are typitied，by signs well moderstond by the initiated，amb，as it were，by heroglyhica－ tion，their historical wemt，their projeded en－ terprines，their hanting，their ambuscades，and their batles．remembling in some resperes the 1，i＇mbs，bumbli，ch． 10.
1：389．DANCING，Opposed to．Puritone．［In L：T：3］the l＇uritans demounced all dancing in mixal companies of the sexes．The dancine sehouls，which the 1 abomided，were，they saind， for teaching＂the molder sciente of heathen dex－ illey．＂They held that＂men by themselves． and women by themselves＂might dane without sin．＂tor recreate the mind oppressed with some great toil and labor．＂－K Nisitr＇s Eac．，vol．3． H．1ti，p．只州．

1390．DANGER，Contempt for．Williathe the Ret．［The som ol William I．，the Compueror．］ Su：mandy had been pledged to him ly his brother Rohert in exchange for asim wheh for the dali ery of the Inoly Land，and a rebel－ bion at Le Mans was sululued by the fierce ener－ ry with which william flang himself at the new wo ${ }^{\text {it }}$ into the first band $\mathbf{l}_{2}$ found and crossed the Chanmel in face ol＇a storm．＂Kings never drown，＂he replial，combmptumsty，to the re－ mondrane of his followers．－Hist of Exa． P＇EOPle，： 11 ．
1391．Danger，Needless．Almirel Jchson． ［J．ord Nehom，the erreatest of Beitish admirals． ＂ore a bright miom，and on the left breast of his coat wew lour embroidered stars，the em． home of the orders with which he was，invested． When he wats about to athack the French and Sbanish thets ofl（ape Trafalgar，］he was im phored to put on a phamer dress，for there were ritle－men among the 4 wo troops on boarl the French and spmish ships．No；what he had wom he would wear．On the deck he stood，a mark for the enemy－－one whose life was worth a herion．There was a carelesmess about bis own saffy that day which was chivalreus，how－ erer unwise．．．．Whe wats shot from the mizzon－ top of the Rembubtable，whirh he supposed hath struck．＂Ther inav done for me at last，＂ he satid，＂my barkhome is shot harough．＂－

1392．DANGER，Unconsciousness of，Erphusion． Once unoma time a Londom exquisite descended into a coal mine on a vosage of explomion mad diseovery：he saw rempthine－Davy lamps， blind horsec，tracks of a al rolling along subter－ ramem trammays．shathed on a cisk to rest him－ self，the proceded to puestion the swathy miner， who was hiveonductor，conereming many hings， athe＂apecially about the operation of blasting． －Snd whereabonts，my man，＂condes mangly sain he－＂whereabemtis do sou keep your pow－ dere＂＂Please，sir，＂replied the swart one． ＂you＇re a－sittin＂on it ！＂Charles was in a word to him ：ll dark and subterraman，and sitting on a powdermine，of the existence of which he hatu no knowledge，although it was beneath his throme．－IIoon＇s C＇Romweli，ch．4，p． 89.

139:3. DARKNESS a Convenience. (inlumbus. [On his third voyage in the West Indies.] notwithstanding their superstitions fancies, the sernmen were glad to nse a part of these sharks for food, being very short of provisions. The length of the voyige hat consmand the areater part of their seastomes; the hea and lomidity of the climate and the leakage of the ships had dam, ged the remaineler : ind the ir bischit was so tillad with worms that, motwithstat,ling their bunger, they were obliged to cat in the dark, Jest 1391. DARKNESS feared. I" It!y ilue. I" 1679 the Lomboners were frightemed, ws if it were a terrible omen, by areat darknes in Lomdon on at Smatay morninge, "so that the people Kinaut's Ent., vol. 4, ch. 21, p 341 .

1395. D.AYS, Inauspicious, Bhacli Ioy. As Lacullas was going to pans the river to fight Tiframes the tyrant some of his oflicers admonished him to beware of that day, which had been ma inamspicions, or (as they called it) a black one to the Romans. For on that day Cappos army wasdefeated by the ('imbri. Lincullus returned that memoratile answer. "I will make this day an athepirions one for Rome." It whe the sixih of October. [He won a glomions and complete victory.]-Pléabcos Lictures.
1896. DAYS observed. Stemuel fohnsw, It was his rustom to observe certain days with a pious abstraction-viz. New-Year's day, the day of his wife's death, Good Friday, Easter-lay, and his own birthday. He this your says:"I bave now spent fifty-tive years in resolving, having, from the earliest time almost that lam remember, been forming schemes of a better bife. I have done nothing. The need of doing, therefore, is pressing, sime the time of doing is short. O Ged, grant me to resolve aright, and to keep ay resolulions, for fesus christs sake! Amen." -Boswela's lolivsons, p. 134.
1397. DEAD, Charity for the. Alfesilutus. After the death of Lysimbler, Agesilans fomm out a conspiracy which that general had formed against him immediately after his return from Asia. And he was inclined to show the pubtic what kind of man Lysumder really was, by exposing an oration found among his papers, which had been composed for him by Cleon of Ihalicarnassas, and was to have been deliwered ly him to the people, in order to facilitate the immovations he was metitating in the constitution. But one of the semators having the perusal of it, and finding it a very phasible composition, advised him " not torlig Lysander out of his grawe, but rather to bury the oration with him." The advice appeared reasonable, and he suppressed the paper.-Phtancis's Aciesinats.
1398. DEAD, Consciousness of the. Imericten Indians. On burving locr danghter the chippewa mother anlils not only snow-shoes and beads and moceatins, hut (side cmblem of woman's lot in the wilderness!) the carrying belt amd the paddle. "1 know my danghter will be restored to me," she once said, as she clipped a lock of hair for a memorial: "by this lock of hair I shall diseover her, for I shall take it with me"-alluding to the day [of her own burial].-Bavchorr's L. S., vol. 3, ch. 르.
1399. DEAD respected, The. Noton's $L$ ato. That law of Solon's ls also, justly commended which forbids men to speak ifl of the dead. For piety recpuires us to consider the decensed as sacred: justice calls upon us to spare those that are not in being a and goodpolicy to prevent the perpetenting of hatred. - liceraben's Solon.
1.100. DEAD, Unburied. I?ersces in Indil. They camon burn them, as do the 1 tindoes, lest the tonch of denth should pollute the thames: nor an they bury them in the earth, nor in the san, for carilamed water and air are alike sarred. They therefore expose the bodies of their dean to be devoured hy hirds of the air.-Gexemat. (8вимт's Thivels, p. 2s7.

AGOA. DEATH, Admirable, Mehomet's. The "onelusion of his life was ndourable. "Let him," said lae, "to whom I have done violence or injustice bow appar, and I am ready to make him reparation." For several days preceding his death he ordered himself to be carried to the moscole, and there harampued the people with wonderful clocpuence, which, from a dying man, had a jowerfal effect. It is by no memes improbable that the believed himself inspired-as the singular sureces of abl his enterprises might have persuaded a mind of that enthosiastic turn of a divine interposition in his favor. It is certain that with his late:it breath he continued to inculcate the doctrines of his new religion. The recommended to his followers to keep the sword unsheathed till they had driven all intidels ont of Arabiat : and in the agonies of death he declared (1) Ayesha, the best beloved of his wives, that Ged, by the mouth of the angel Gabried, had given him the choice of life or death, and that he lead preferred the latter.-TyTabis's Mist., Book 6, cll. 1.
1.102. DEATH, Apprehension of. Cipskr. Ciesar Was more and more wemry. He knew that the Semate hated him : he knew they would kill him if they could. All these men whose lips were ruming ower with adulation were longing to drive their daggers into him. He was willing to live if ther would let him live; but, for himself, he had ceased to care about it. IIe disdained to take precantions against assassination. On his first return from Spain be had been attended ly it guard: but he dismissed it in spite of the remonstrances of his friends, and went daily into the semate house alone and unarmed. He spoke often of his danger with contire opemness.
"Better," he said, "1o die at once than live in perpetual dread of treason."-Fnocdés C.Esint, ch. 96.
1.10:3. DEATH by Attrition. Samurl Johnson. Johnson mentioned ler. Barrys sysum of Physies. "Ife was a man," said he," who had acepuired a hirh reputation in Dublin, came over to Englamd, and brought his reputation with him, him had not erreat suceres. Ifis motion was, that pulsation occasions death ly attrition; and that, therefore, the way to prenerve life is to retard pulsation. But we know that pulsation is strongest in infants, and that we increase in growth while it operates in its reqular course : so it camnot be the "athe of destruction." Som alter this he satd something very flattering to Mrs. Thrale, whidh I do not recollect; but it conchutod with wishing her lome tife. "Sir," satd I, "if Dr. Barry's system be tru", you have now shortened Mrs. Thrale's life, perlups, sume minutes by acerlerating her pulsution."-Boswtiais . OOANsin.
1.10.I. DEATH, Banquet of. lipsiti ilt lifime.
 dor abont it. They had thedtogether from Thapsus to Zamm, Juhats own principal dity, mol they were refused admission. Dishaining tobe taken prisomors, as they know they inevitably would !e they wont to a conntry hense in the neighiorhooil helonging to the king. Theres, after a ?ast sumphuous hampurt, they agreed to die like wartiors by emelh otheres hamds. Juba killed 1'ercius, aid then mun upon his own sword.Fanumén C'Asan, c!!. "-t.
1105. $\qquad$ Andm!. Antony, comelud. ing that he rond not rite nore homorably than in battle, determined toattack ('esar at the same time both hy sea and lamd. The night preedding the excention of this design he ordered his servants at super to rember him their best services that evening, and fill the wine round plentifully, for the day following they might belong to anoblier master, while be lay extended on the gromme, no longer of consequenee either to them or to himself. [ILe lost the battle, and died by suicide.]-Piderneris Antony.
1406. DEATH, Bravado toward. Tlwhe of Guise. 'The Dukeot' Guise receiverl repented seret intimations of the assassination in preparation for him, but treated them with lofty disdain. "They dare not," he exclamed ; and added that circumstances had brought him to surin a pitch of desperation that, even if he aw death coming in at one of the windows, he would not take the trouble to leave the room to eseape him. [lle was shortly after destroyed hy his enemies.] -students' Fusuce, ch. 17 , 心 11 .

EOZ'. DEATH, Bravery in. William IIorard Strofford. It was pressed inoon [Lord] Strulford] to ank for a carringe to convey him to the phare of evecution, faring that the fury of the people would unticipate the exerotioner and tear from his hands the vietim, denomeed by l'ym and the orators of the llouse of Comnions as the publicenemy, "No," replied Strafford; "I know how to look death and the people in the face ; whether 1 die by the hamel of the exerntioner or ly the fury of the populace, if it should so please them, matters little lo me." . . Strafford's lorother aceompanied him, werping. " Brother," sibal he, " why do you griove thus; do you sere anything in niy life or death whirh ran canse you to feel any shame ? Do l tromble like: ariminal, or brast like an atheist! Comor, be firm, and think only theit this is my third morriage, and that yon ane my hride ciman. This bock," pointing io that uroni which he wasabont to bay his head, ". will be m! pillow, and I shall repose there well, wihout pain, gricf, on itar." -Lamahtivets C'Romwtish, p. 15.
1.108. DEATH, Bribery of. Riches. [ In 1447 Cardinalleney leantort died, nemi ejghty years. On his death fod he i, reported by his chaplain to have said.] Why shombl I die, 'laving so murh riches ? If the whole realm wrohil save my life, I am able by policy to get it, or by riches to buy it. Fie, wil! not denth he hired, nor will money do anything? - Kingnt's Eva., vol. 2, ch. 6, p. 90 .
1409. DEATH, Choice in. sudden. The sume proning, the fll of March, (hesar was nt n "Last Sujper" at the hense of Leplidus. The eonversation turned on cleath, and om the kind of denth which was most to lee desired. ('esar, Who was signing pajores while the rest wore talkingr, looked uf and said, " I sudden one."Frovine's Cassit, ch. : 6 .
1.110. DEATH, Companions in. Despair. Some violencers committed arainst the Mantehon 'rartars had given high provocution to this warlike peoble, and they dotermined to inv wi, the empire. Their attompt was liavored by an insmrrection in some of the provine es the 'Tartars met with very little resistanco. The rebel Chinese, hembled by a mamlaria ol the name of listching, joined themselves to the Tartarian army, and both lorether took possesson of the imperial city of Pekin. The comduct of the Chinese emperor is mpuralleied in history : without making the smallest attempt to defend his capital or maintain possension of his throme, he shat hinsself up in his palare, and commanded forty of his wives to hang themedres in his presence: he then ant off his dhughter's head, and raded the eatastrophe hy hanging himself.-TYTLER's Hint. Book 6, rh. 24.
1411. $\qquad$ ch. 24. - Almera'dn Indians. The chief within whose territary De Soto died selexted two yonng, wedlproportioned Indians to be put to death, suying the thage of the commaty was, when any lorid died, to kill Indians to wat on him and serve him hy the way.-Bancroft's Hs'r. L". S., vol. 3, ch. "2:
1412. DEATH, Composurein. Duke of Moumonth. He then aroosted John Keteh, the executioner, a wroteh who liad butchered many bave and noble vietims, amd whose name las, during: century amd a half, beon valgarly given to all who have surereded him in his otions offire. "IInre," said the duke, "are six guinens for yon. bo not hack me as you did my lomd Rasisell. I have heard that yom struck him three or four tines. Dy servant will give yon some. more gold if yon do the work well." "Ile then undressed, felt the edge of the axe, cxpreserel sonue fear that it was mot sharp rmomerh, amd had his head on the block. The divinos in the mean tines contimad to rjaculate with great eneress, " (kod aceept your repentance: God acerpt your injor
 ENG., (1). 5 .
1413. DEATH conquered. Immontulity. The first exploits of Trajan were against the Diacians, the most warlike of men, who dwelt beyond the banule, and who, daring the reign of lomitian, lad insulted. with impunity, the majesty of Rome. To the strengethand tioreness of harbarians they added a rontempt for life, which was derived from a warth persultion of the inmonablity and transmigration of the somi.-Gibbon's Rome, (li. 1.

144, -_ Sir Hémy Vane. [Condemned isy charles iI., and awating execution.] A friem spoke of prayer, that for the prosent the cup of death might he averted. "Why shonld we fear deat! ":" ancwared fane; "l find it rather shrinks from ", lin' i , ? it." --13ANCROF's U. S., vir. 1.'.. J, 1115. DEATH conyust'

to the chroniclers, was a denth-hed of repentanee. He had always made a profession of religion, mad he was now surromaded by bishops and confessors. II spoke, it is related, of the rivers of bleod he had shed. He hanented his burbar-EN(., Vol. 1, (h. 16, p. 2ts.
1.116. DEATH, Contempt of. Seandinacians. This chamateristice of an absohate contempt of death. . Was common to all the great parent stock. 'Jhe poet lincan . . . nssigus its true ratuse-the heliet of alaturestate, where rewards were to le bestowed solely on the brave. T'o conjoy the disgrace of dying a mataral death, and thus forfeiting the jove of Parmelise, the ferocious Seandimavians lad often recomese to self-destrmetion. An Icelandie anthor mentions a rock in Swerden from which the ohd men frefuently precipitated themselves into the sea, in ordor that they might go directly to the hall of Odin.Ty'meis's MIst., Book 5, ch. 6.
1.17.- Sedndinariatns. I)enth-soner of King Regner Ledtrog . . King of Denmark . . abont the end of the cighth century, or begrin. ning of the ninth. . . Lothrog seems to derive the highest pleasure from recounting all the nets of slatughter and carnage that he had committed in his lifetime. These were his only eonsolations; they were, in his idea, a certain passport to the joys of laradise, and insumed for hime distingrishled phate at the bancquet of Odin. After enumerating a series of heroic deeds, lme all of a most atrocions and singuinary matnre. he thas conclutes: "What is more beantiful than to see the heroes pushiner on through the battle, though fainting with their wounds? What boots it that the timid yonth thies from the combat? he slall not escape from misery; who can avoid the fate which is ordained for him? I did not dream that I should have fallen a sucritice to AEllit, whose shores I have covered with heaps of the shan. Jut there is n never-failing consolation for my spirit-the table of Odin is prepared for the brave. There the hero shall know ho rrief. There we shall fatif the amber liguor from the capacions skalls. I will not tremble when 1 ap) proach the hall of the rod of death. Now the serpents gnaw my vitals ; but it is a cordial to my soul that my enemy :hall quickly follow me, for my sons will revonge my death. War was my delight from my youlh, and from my childhood I was pleased with the bloory spear. No sigh shall disgrace my last moments. The immortals will not disdain to admit me into their presence. Here let me ead my song-the hoavenly virgins summon me away-ihe hours of my life areat an end-I exalt and smile at death!" -'Tytleu's IIist., book 5, ch. 6.

1!18. DEATH, Cowardly. Nion Thr poor wreten who, without a ping, hatil ransed so many brave Rommas and so many innocernt Christians to be murdered, condel not summon up resolntion to die. IIa devisad every operatie incedent of which he condd think. Whern even his most degraded shaves urged him to have sutficient manliness to save himself from the foarfal infanies which otherwise awnited him, he ordered his grave to be ding, and friegments of marble to be collected for its adornment, and water and wood for his funcral pyre, perpetually whining, "What an artist to perish!" Meanwhile a rouriur arrived for Planon, Norrs suatrlaed his despatehes out of his hand, and rend that the scmate had derided that he shoubl bee punished in the ancest mal fushion nsa public enomy. Asking what the ancesiral fashion was, he was informond that he would be stripped naked and seourged to denth with rols, winh his hemd thrust gress, and nfter theatrianlly tryinis their aderes, sheathed them arain, with ilacexcuse that the fatal moment land mot yet arriverl! Thern he buede Sporus berin to sing his funcral somg, ath lregged some one to show hitn how to dio. Even his own intense shame at his cowardiee was an insutherient stimulus, and he whiled away the fime in vapid epigrams and pompensis quotations. The sonnd of horses' hoots then hroke on his ents, and, venting one more (ireck quotation, he held the dagrerer to his throat. It was driven home hy Epaphroelitus, one oll his liturary slaves. At this moment the ernturion who came to arrest him rushed in. . . . No died the hast of the C'a-

 [Hemry V. Was on his death-berl, mad] havingr delivered his last wishes, he asked the pliysicians how long he might expecte to live. Tliey sadel the Almighty had powor to restore him to healah. IIe reparated the question, recpuiring a dirert answer. The answer was, Not more than two hours. KNuin's ENa, vol. 2, ch, i, 1. it.
1420. DEATH, Deception in. Pricst. [Thas Duchess of Portsinouth, one ol the kinges mistresses, proposed a pridest for the dying king, Chirles II.] The Aluke's orders weire obeyed; and even the physiedins withatrew. The hatek door was then opened, and Father Inaddleston ratered. A clonk had been thrown over his satcrod vestnents, and his shaven erown was comcealed lyy a flowing wig. "Sir," suid the duke, "this good man once saved your lite. He bu, comes to save vour soml." "Chumes faintly answered, "IIe is welconme." IIaddleston went through his part hetter than had heeru experted. Ile knelt by the bed, listened to the confession, prononnced the alsohntion, and administered extreme unction. - Machthay's ENe., eh. &, 1). 407.
1421. DEATH, Deflant in. J/hilis XII. [King of Sweden at Frederich-hall.] It the sioge of this town, on November 30, 171N (old stylo). this inveterate warrior ruecivad the fatal blow which ended his troublons and eventful career. I年 was struck in lhe head with a eammon hall, and thourh death mast have beren insamanmeons, he was fonnd with his rieht hatud firmly grasping the landle of tis sword, su prompt was he fo put himself in an attitude of defence. -

1.22. DEATH, Encouragement in. frot lireth. [At the death of Mahomet] famaticism alono condd shoresest a may of loope and eonsolations. " ILow cinl he be dead, ont witness, our intrecessor, our mediator, with God? By God he is not, dead; like Mases and Jesus, he is wrapped in a looly trance, and sperdily will he return to his faithful perolle." The evidence of sense was disregarded; and Omar, unsheathing his cimeter, threatened to strike off the heads of the infidels who shond dare to a. irm that the prophet was no more. The tamus was appeased ly the weight and moderation of Abubeker. "Is it Mahomet," sald he to Omar and the multitude, "or the God of Mahomet, whom you worship? The Gool of Malomit liveth forever ; lut the apostle was a mortal like ourselvers, and, acoordfag to his own predictiom, he has expertenced the common fate of mortality:" Ite was piomsty buterred hy the hands of his mentest kinsman, on the same spot on which he expired.-Ginmos's Rome, ch. iol.
 Mr. Ifenderson, with whon I had samtered in the venerable walks of Mreton (oblleres, ath found him a very learned and pious man, supped with us. Dr, Johnson surprised him not a little Jy neknowledging, with a look of horror, that he whs math oppressed by the fear of death. The amiable 1)r. Allams sugrgested that Gorl was infinitely good. Jonssos: "That Ite is intinitely good, as far as the perfection of 1 'is mante will nllow, I certainly believe; lut it is neressary for good upon the whole, that individuals should be pmished. As to an indiridual, therefore, Je is not infinitely good; and as I cmanot le sure that I have fulfilled the conditions on which salvation is granted, I monafraid I may be one of those who shall be damed." (Looking dismally.) Dn. Adams: "What do you mean by dammed "." Joinsson (passiomately mad loudly): "Sent to hell, sir, and pumished everhastingly." Dn, Asams: "I don't beheve that doctrinc." Jomason:
"IIold, sir ; do you believe that some will be panished at all?" Int. Avams: "Being - schule"d from heaven will be a pmishment ; ? there may he no great positive suffering." Jomanos : "Well, sir ; but if you mimit any degree of punishment, there is an end of your irgument for infinite goodness, simply considered ; for intinite goolness would intlict no punishment whatever. There is not intinite groduess, physically considcred; morally, there is. "-Borwell's Jomnsos, 1. 524.

142:. - The Druids. They appear to have taught the immortality of the soul, or rather the transmigration of souls, and a future state of rewards and punishments. "They lay special stress," says Cessar, " upon the doctrine that souls do not perish, but pass after death into other bodies; considering this as a most powerful stimulus to bravery and counage, since it temds to remove altogether the fear of death. "-s'cdents' France, chl. 1, § 10-12.
1425. Death, Feast of. American Aborigincs. Of the strengeth amd ardor of their affecetions there can be no evidence so strong as that whish arises from their treament of the dead. Belis ing in the immortality of the sonl, they lury abong with the dereased his bow and ald rows. together with the mast splendid ornaments which belonued tolam. They attend him tothe grave with the deppest manifestations of sorrow, and those who are his nearest relations retire for a great length of time to their hats, and refuse to take any concern in the active orcupations of the tribe. liut this is not all ; the ir concern for the dond is manifoted in a manner yet more striking, by a reremony the most solemn and the most awfully alferting that imagimation can devise. At stated perionts is hed what is termed the feast of the dend, or the feast of souls, whin all the bodiss of thow who have died since the last ceremony of that kind are taken out of theip uraves, and hrought together from the greatest distances to one phace. $\Lambda$ great pit is dug in the ground ; nud thither, at a cerintin time, eneh person, nttended by his family and friemis, murehes in solemm silence, ln the dead body of a son, father, or at brot $r$. 'lhese are deposited in the pit, from which in person takes h handful of earth, which he parmes afterwaral with the mast religions ate.-TyTrestes Itast, Book 6, ch. 21.
1.126. DEATH, Fortitude in, Âmericon Ind. whe. [Bribeuf, the desuit missiomary, deseribes the tortures of an Irognois prisontr, preceded ly a fenst.] To the crowd of his guests he dieclated: "My brothers, I ma roing to die; make merry around me wih good hent ; I an!, a man; I fear ncither death nor your torments," mud he sang alond. . . T'omments lasted till after sumrise, when the wreteled victim, bruised, gashed, motilated, half ronsted and semped, was carried out of the vilhage nud hacked in pieces-B.nchorts ${ }^{\text {C }}$. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
1.127. DEATH, An honorable. Bumy/m. Ilis and was charactaristic: It was brought on by exposure when he was engaged in an act of charity. $A$ guarred had broken out in a family at Reading with which Bunyan had some acquantance. A father had tiken offence at his son, and threatemed to disinherit him. Bunyan undertook a journey on horselnack from Bedford to Reading in the hojer of reconciling them. Ite s) cereded, hat at the cost of his life. Returning by Leadon, he was overtaken on the road by a siorim of rain, and was watted through before he could find shedter. The chill, fatling on a constituti, $n$ aifedy woukenod by illaess, brought on fever. Ite was able to reald the house of Mr. Strudwick, one of his Landon frients; hat he never left his bed alterward. In ten days ha was deal.-Fuocome's Binyan, ch. 9.

142W. DEATH, Impassioned. Alexander. Whole days and nights were consumed in riot and debanchery ... it Eebataua. . . . Amid these thmultuons phementes the death of Hephastion, whom Alexander loved with sincere affection, threw him into a paroxysm of despair. He commanded the physicians who nttended him to be put to death; he acensed the gods as conspiring with them to di pive him of a life more dear to him than his own. he ordered a public mourning, and that the sacrel fires should be extinguished through all Asia, an omen which both his fricuds and chemies regarded as of the blackest import. -TyTheres IIn't., Book 2, ch. 4.
1429. DEATH, Information of. Simultl Joluson. Johnson, with that native fortitude which, amid all his bodily distress amd mental sulferings, never forsook him, asked Dr. Brockleshy, as a man in whom he had comtidence, to tell him plainly whether he combld recowe. "Give me," said he, "a direct maswer." The doetor, having first asked him if he could bear the whole truth, whech way soever it might lead, and being answered that he could, dechared that, in his opinion, he could mot reower without a miracle. "Then," suid Johmem," I will take nomore physice, mot even my opiates : for I have prayed that I may render up my sonl to God unclouded." In this resolution he peravered, and, at the same time. used only the weakest kinds of sustenamee

Being presed by Mr. Windham to lakre somewhat more generous momishment, lent too low a det shonld have the wery effeet whid lue drended, by dehilitating his mind, he sidid: "I will take anything but inchorhting sustconance." Boswbuds Jomssos, p, itbe.
1.480. DEATH, Patriotlc. Cintain Nithan Iheld. September, bith. [The British entered New York. $\mid$ le voluntered to venture under disiruise within the british lines. . . . Me was suizen, $\qquad$ frankly arowed his mame and rank in the Anerican army. Howe ordered him to be execoted the next morning. . . . As lue ascembed the gallows, he said: "1 only regre that I have hat one life to lose for my country."Dascroft's C. S., vol. 9, ch. 7.
1431. DEATH permitted, Nuhomet. In a familiar diseourse he mentioned his sperial prerorative ; that the angel of denth was not allowed to take his soml till he had respectfully asked the permission of the prophet. The reguest was granted : and Mabomet immediately fell intos the aromy of his dissolntion.-Grmos's Rome, ch. 50.
1432. DEATH, Prayer in. Mithomet. IIis head was reclined on the hap of Aycola, the best heloved of all his wives; he fanted with the violence of pain; recovering his spirits, he ratised his eyes loward the roof of the honse, and, with is steady lowk, though a faltering voice, uttered the last broken though articulate words: " 0 God I . . . pardon my sins. : . . Yes . . . I come ... anong my fellow-citizens on high ;" and thens peaceably expired on a carpet spread upon the thoor.-Gimbox's Rosme, ch. 50 .
1433. - - Luther. Lis friends comforted him, and administered medicines. But ngain he spoke: "I am passing away: I shall give up my spirit." Then he repented in Latin, guickly anil three times in succession, the words, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit; Thou hast redecmed me, Thou fathtul God."Rein's Letuer, di. id. p. 190.
143. $\qquad$ Cromerell.
" Lord, althourh I am a wretched and miserable creature. $T$ min tonemant with Thee through grace, and 1 may, 1 with, come unto Thee for my people. Thoni has made me a moan instrument tordo them some good, and Thee service; and many of them haterest too high a value upon me. though others wish and would be flad of my death. But, Lord, however Thou dose dispose of me, continue to ge on, and do groxe for them. Give them consistency of julgment, one heart. and mutual love : and erom tolleliver them, and with the work of reformation and make the name of christ glorious in the world. Toadh those who look too mach upon thy ins rumants to depent more ropen thyerff pardon suth ats desire to lrample upon the dant of a peor worm. for they are thy porpla $1(x)$ : and prowton tha folly of this shint prayme for , heme (lariot Mis sake. and give Is, it ereal night if it le thy

143.5. DEATH, Preparation for. Ciernum /ior. buriuns. All arreed that is life apent in arms, and a glorious dath in tattle. Were the best prep urations for a happy futurity, ofther in this or 1436. disense was a foure of fourther ing mortal prived him by intervals of the use of remson. As som as he was comseions of his danger lae edifled his brethren ly the humility of his virtur or penitence. "If inere be my man," sald tho apost le from the pidplt, "whom [ have imjustly scourged, I submit my own hark to the hask of retaliation. Have I aspersed the reputation of a Mussulman? let him proclaim my thoughts in the fare of the eongregation. Ihas way one been despoile of of his pools: the litte that I posesess shall compronsate the principal mad the merest of the debl." "Y'es," replied a voice from the reowd, "1 am entitled to three drmens of silver." Mahomet hemod the eomphint, sutistled the domand, and thankel his rerelitor for are eusing him in his world rather than at the day of julgment. -Ghmos's Rome, (h. 50).

1137. - - Simmel Johnsom. About cight or ten days before his death, when Dr. Brockleshy paid him his morning visit, he semed very low and desponding, and said! "I lave been as a dying man all night." He then emphatically broke out in the worls of Shakespeare:
" ('anst thon not minister to a mind disens'd;
Pluck from the memory a rooted norrow;
Raze out the written troubles of the brain;
And, with some sweet oblivions antidote,
Clemse the stuffid bosom of that perilons stulf
Which weighs upon the heare ?"
To which Dr. Brockleshy reatily answered, from the same great poct:
"Binct therrin the pitient Must minister to himself."
-Boswell's Joinson, p. Gis.
1838. $\qquad$ Ciapture of Cordorc. When the result of the battle was known the leading (atizen, who had headed the revolt against Cusar, gathered all that belonged to him into a heap, poured turpentine over it, and, after a last fenst with his family, burnt himself, his house, his (hildren, and scrvants.-Frolde's Ciesare, ch. 25.
1439. DEATH, Reflections in. Cardinal Wolsely. On his denth-lod his thoughts still clung to the prince whom he had served. "I Iad I but sorved God as diligently as I have served the king," murmured the dying man, "He would wot have given me over in my gray hais. But this is my due reward for my pains and study, not resarding my service to God, bit only my duty to my prince."-Eximinn Peorle, 各ne.
11.10. DEATH, Results of. ('Mristinn's. They trsififed their attachment for the camse of thie perm by the marder of the (inlvinist Ambe du Benurg, a hereferomfessor of the Protestant faith. - Sis fect of arth for my becly, and the infinite heavens for my monl, is what 1 shatl soom have," ariod Ante dal Bontre at sight of the scaffold, and in presene of her exceutioners.- Lashative:s Mahy stidit, p. 7.
141. DEATH, Sayings in. Sir Henry Time. When he atternpterl to spats the trumperts sulunded to drown his voice. Enthusjasm wopt. for him whilp it admired him! At last he turned aside, exclaming, " It is a bad canse which camot loar the words of at dyine man. IIeseems to hase been permitted to pray a little in pence; such semtenere as the following foll from him, reworded liy sykes: "Bring as, 6 Lord, into the troe mystical Subbuth, that we may cease from our works, pest from our lathers, mad berome is mece hatitation for thy siditt, " Ete., etce. Ilis hast words ware: " Finlaer, glorily thy servant in the sight of inem, that he may Glorily There in the dise harges of his daties to Thee mal to his eometry:" Therempon he stretchod out his arme ; in m instant swift fell the stroke, mad the hame of ome of the gremust mad puresi beings that arer merned our word rolleil on the satfold! - Ilomin('momweat, ch. 18,1 . 0 .
HAAL DEATH, A seeming. sifectenborg. Whild swedemberg was living in sweden, in 17.5), his old friend and condjutor, polletim, dial ; and Swerlemberg wat favord will a view of heth sides of his grave. Writing in his "Spiritmal Diary," he says: " loolheim died on Monday, und soke with me on 'Thuralay. I was invited to the fandral. He sum the herarse, the attembiats, and the whole procresion. He also saw them let down the romln into the grave, and conversed with me while it was going on, nsking me why thev buried him, when he was alive. And when the priest pronouncel that he would rise aguin at the day of julgment, he asked why this whs, when he had alrondy risen. Ite wondered that sucta a belied should prevail, comsidering that le was rem new alive; he alow wondered at the beliet in the resurection of the body, for he satid he fell that he was in the herly:" -Swemexibolat, ch. 10, p.

1A1: Death, Self evoked. Jfuriun. Marius [ome of the thirty Roman tyrants] was killed hy a soldier who had formerly verved as a workmain in his shll!, and who fexhaimed, as he struck, " Behohd the sword which thysilf hatet formed!:

111. DEATH, Strength for. ('rommill. II. and wally gevent there, with othery presem1, to remb mun him that pasengs in 1rhil. 4: 11 13: "Sol that I prak in rexpet of want: for 1 hase learned, in whatsovere state 1 am, Unorewith to be content. I kow both how tobe nhased, and I kiow low to abound : everywhere and in all thinges I am instructed both to be full and to lo: hungry, both to abommd atul to sulfer need. I can do all things throngh ('hrist whid strugethworls as men ats wem remember them, "This Sripture did onwe save my life, when my dese som, Junt Oliver, dien, which wemt as at dagrerer to my hati-inderd it did.". And then, repating ibe worls of the text himself, and reading the tenth and eleventh verses of st. Piml's comtentment ind suhnission th the will of Gorl in all comblitions, sabil he: " It's true. Path, you have learned this, and attianed to his misisure of grace ; but what shall I do? Na, poor crature, it is a hard lesson on mer 1o take ont! I fincl it so." But realinge on to the thirwenth verse. Where Piml sinin," " can do all things throngh Christ which strengthen me," then fath begem Work, and his heart to find support and comfort, and he said thus to himself, "He that was Panl's Christ is my Clirist too ;" and so" he drew water out of the wells of salvation."-Hood's Cromvell, cli. 17, p. 291.
1.1.15. DEATH, study in. Imteh Frplertr. A.b. Bats. Barentzen somght to go romad Nova Zambla (aereking at mortherast pasage for Butch eommereed, and when his ship wins hopelessly enveloped by ice hat the rommge to anmon his crew on the desolate northern shore of the inland, and chere them during a winter rendered of hage white lwars, whom hager han manddened. Whanspring emone the gathant empany, tatversing more than sixtern humbred miles ha the shedter of the White Son. Barentarn sunk moder his trials, late was conguged in poring over a semedart in he died. The expertitions of the Intel were without a paralled for dardig. B.avcror"'s U. S., vol. 只 ©h. IF.

1416. DEATH, Substitutional, Military, |Thu: whliders of Marens Crassus were deleatiol in an engagromemt.] The that soo, who had showa the gremest marks in eowardiere, he divided into fifty parts, and put one in mad decade to death, to whone lot it might happentor fall ; thas reviving mancient custom of military punjshment which hual beren lemg disusied. lubleced, this kind of pmishment is the greatest mark of infamy, mud luing put in excrition in sight of the whole many is attembed with many aw-
 C'RAsis.
A.A7. Death, Sudden. Wrashingtom. On the morning of the 13th [of Derember, 1799] the gencral was faraged in naking some intprovements in the fromt of Mount Vernon. . . . The day herame ratiny with sloet ... [he became wet] before his return to the house. Abont one o'cloek he wis serized with chilliness and namser, hat, having dianged lise dothes, sat down to his indow work. . . At night . . . remaned writing uatil hetwenelown and wown oblock. Ha died about lan billow on tho lollowing night.]-('verts' W.asmsuton, vol. 1, ch. 24.
1116. DEATH, Testimony in. Liotel Jutrowe. [A splemdid rowtell mobleman. Who vainly at(mmpeda revolution insionland fatomable to anilded 'larles II. $]$ They manmered hat the sentener erondemined him " to be latug oll a gibhet thirty ford high, where low was to be exposed during threw hours: that his luall would lien be rat his arms mod legs, sememel from his lanly, would kinglom." "I ouly wi.f," replied Hontrose, "that I had limhs choment for bu divereced through avery eity in Europe, to hen' watimony in the caluse for iblichl I have fourht and ain
 1. \%
1.19. DEATH, Thoughts in. Bonapitrtc.
 nges which lingered in the leart and the last. words whirlo trembed on the lijs of the dying amperor. - Absotr's Nurolean B., vol. : ch. 84.
1450. DEATH, Thoughts of. Silum? Jikneon. Bosweld: " But is not the fear of death naturni to man 4 ". Jonsson: "somuch so, sir, that the whole of life is but keeping away the thoughts of it." He then, in a low and earnest tone talked of his moditating nom the nwful hour of his own dissolntion, mul in what manmer he shond comilut himself upon that oceasion: "I know not," said he, "wheller I momid wisls to have a lrioud be me, or have to all betwere doal

1.851. DEATH, Tranquillity in. Serpetes. On the day of his death la diseoursed, with umeoniHon forme al ergurner, on the homoriality of fort it diffised on the last momandeal exintomer. He dramk the poistomed enp without tho smathest cmotion ; and in the arony of demth showed to his attomeling límods an example of trancuillity of imitating. The marative of this comelndiner serone, as it is givan by Plato in his dialogue ell titled " P'ladom," isone of the moblest sperdments of stmple, elorjuent, and puthetie daseription which is anywhere to he met with-a marative, to the foree of which ('ieceroluars this stroug testi-Anth was the end of this true philonefler, of whom hiv therminfol cometrymen kuew mot the

1.852. DEATH, Triumph in. Buttle of (Qubter. [Gencral] Wolfe, benting the charge, was womeded in the wris. Again hee was struck, but pressed on at the hamd of his gremalierss. Just at the moment of victory a third ball pieread his hremst, and he samk inuivering to the cmoth. "They rum, they run!" said the attembant who bent over him. "Whorinu?" was the ferble rosponse. "Tha Fremeh are Ilying ceverywhere," replied the otllere. "Do they rmen atready? Then I die hapere" sad the expiring hero: and has spirit passed awisy mad the smoke of battle.

1.15: DEATH, Trlamphant in. "Stonertell" at (bancellor<cille, his man was amputaterl. Puenmonia set in, and death followed.| Advising his wife; in theresent of his denth, tor return to her fathers homse, he remarked: "Y̌ou have a kind and ermel father ; but there is mo one so klad and aroul:a your theivenly lather." When wae told him the dow tom did not think he conla dive two homre: althomela he did not himself expect'o die, ha replied: " It will be inthite gatin to bo tramblated to hemwern ame with Josis."-lont.
 p. 2tis.
 Sueh was the mhapley condition of the Roman emproms. Hat, whataver might be their comdnet, their fate was commonly the sames. A life of phasisure or virthe, of severity or midness, of indolener of enlory, alike fed to an momely grave : athl almost every reign is elosed the the simme diserating repetition of treation and mur-der.-(ilmben's Romis, eh. 1D.
145.5. DEATH welcomed. Dificrl. [At the battle $0{ }^{\circ}$ (2netwee the victorions Genemal Wolfe defented the French, but died of his womads. When the French ran, General] Montcalm, still attempting to rally his broken regiments, was struck with a lall, and fell. "Shall I survive ?" suid he $t$ ) his surgeon!. "But a few hours at most." "replical the uttendant. "Sor mane the

 ch. (hi, 1. 2\%
1.153. DEATH of the Wleked. Alfirtmiler. The flrst person that bromght the news of Alix purchas. Domates desired the: jeopho lo sive low cralit to it. "For," naid her, " if" Aloxamelar wore demd, the whole world wobld smell the ear(mss. "-l'l.L'tiacia's l'וochos.
 sum. His Majosty then talked ol the rontroversy to have real, and asked bohasoni what he themerht of it. Jobason answrred: "W゙artompon Jass is tho mone corvert scholar. I los mot kowo whirle of them ralls mances best." 'Jhe Kinis Was pleasio! Io siry he was oll the sathe opinions adding. " lou do mot think then, I)r. Johnmon, that there was manch argument in the cinse." Iohnsons said lue did uot think there was. "Why, truly," said the king, "when omore it comes in colling momes, frermoment is pretty well at int 115*. DEBAUCHERY, Royal. ('uthirtw $I T$. [0f Rusuin.] Ther common helial is, that she had a new lover abont every three momblis, who was then dismissed with gillts and promsions One nathor informs us that sbe expemded in this way, daring har relign, a sum of menty equal, ers she may lave had; lat when I real lar perantit, inuocent, amel high-bred letters to tho Ereat ment of her times, Hat when I run ower The contalograt of the immense and molid beneftrs Which slar bewowed ujon ler country, I liml it impossithe to beliave that whe ever inbamboned herself to systematic delaturhery.-CyctoresH. (W Whwi., p. 404.

A139. DEBT, Imprisonment for. Finglim!l. In foumel al cular pheing his tradre, who was in jail consignced him to prixon amomated to nearly 綡. and this sum he had heen for several years tryiner to marl in prisen. In mothor jatil there was it cents. Thisman wascontincol in the same ajartment with roblers and murderors, and had little luye af beiner able to mise the money for his elisedarere. All such debtors - and they wow nmmerous then in lingland - I loward re-Brox.. 1r. 5t.

1160. DEBT, Security for. Nir Hisltrr soott. In May, 1x1e, seott having mow at last blitained the saliary of the (lerkshif of Nicssion, the work ol whieli he had for more than tive years discharged withont pay, indulged himsedf in realizing his lavorite dream of buving a" monntan farm" at Abbotsford-five miles lowar down the 'Tweed than his cottage at Ashesticl. . . The phace thus bourht for $\mathrm{E}_{\mathrm{t}} 4000$-hanf of which, necording to Soott's bid and sangine habit, was borrowed from his brother, and half raised on the seenrity of a poem at the moment of sule

Wholly imwritten, und not complated evon when only tow muth of und hal for the rest of soothes Hfe:-IIctonensoore, ch. N .
1481. DEBT by War. I'wited Sytes. T'lao Nathomid ilobs, howovif, was the kreatest nal mont threntering question ; lint hice genius of Ihamilon triamjhed over every dilllatty. Thas fudediadmess of the L'ilted shates, Incluiling the resoluthomary aporases of the several Sinters.
 sulophed a limal mill honese polles. His phan, Whith was ladid hefore ('ongrese at the lagiminge of the secomd sesesion, propesad that the dobt wit well as the wan dolte ol the hatividual Ninfers, are the credit of the combtry was vandy fasproved, even before actum piymont was begun.

 governmanl, a duty was latd on the tonthag of morehant ships, wila a diseriminntion in favor ol' all imported articles. Ihami!fon's mothemes wore

1.182. DEBTS discourazed. Liering of immain. The man'rosary roblruching of dehus was likn.
 here regulathos. 'The delober was obdiged to exive remain with the readitor till the dobt was diwchargad. 1 le who diod without rede cming this samered pleder was doprived hinuseli of fitucral obserfice-Trulkisllist., book 1, ch. I.
1.16:8. DEBTS, Dishonest. Priccelinef. Tha rogal ('ustum [al lleqry Vlll.] has survivel monotg us in many a motorions cxample. Thes lomas adsamed hy homest eroditors are repuliaterl: the sambling dobte to "craty persons" are scrapmomaly discharired. |loury was a

1.8.1. DEBTS prevented. Ithemioms. Solon restrained the werity ol areditors to their debtors by prohiln ug all impuisonment for delat; but he rest rataed. at the sathe time, the freptorney of contractine dolite ley the severe pematy of the forfeiture of therightu of ritizenship-a punishment which, thoush it did not reduere 1 monn to servitule, deprived him wi all voice in the julslie assembly, or share in the government of the commomwerali. In like mammer, if a delhor died insolvent, his here was disiramelifed till the debt was jatid. This wasa wise rernlation ; for uo indigent man ought (o) be a legishator. Tytleis's Ifori., Book I, (li. 10.
1465. DEBTS, Punishment for. $I n s o l$ rent Thbters. After judicial pront or confession of the delit, hinty day of grace were allowed before a Roman was delivered into the power of his fellow-citizen. Inthis private prison twelve ounces of rice were his daily food; he might be bound with a ehain of tilteen pounds weight; and his misery was thrice exposed in the marketphace, to solicit the compassion of his friends und countrymen. At the expination of sisty days the debt was diseharged hy the loss of liberty or life; the insolvent debtor was. cither put to denth ar sold in furifin shavery beyomd sthmor and mureloultin, they mitht jegally dis-this horrid pardilouls. Thac alvonalles for thes misuge baw hase laminded that it bunt mangly opernte in dotcrriag inllomess atad lramel from contracturs dobls which they wore mathle la diardmpgo ; but exp rionce womble aliasipate thes sadutury torme, ly frowing that mo crallorer cmalel fre fomal to e vact this maprollahbe pemalty

 - whlare, the legisbatime of Virginin alid not debt duriag thr stint:" nad that all creolloors shomid laki" " lorty pumuls lor a hamelocl."- the whold hat a small part is trmblesome, Smallrlehty atr likr small sat ; they ate ratlling

 "Wombl; grat dehts are like momon; ol loud moinc, but little danerer. Yout monst, turvefore,

 From ruthusiasm lo imposture the chep is $\boldsymbol{j}^{\text {w }} \mathrm{F}$ - fords a memombine instance loew a wise mann may dererive himacelf, how a good man maty doreive ohlors, how the conse ichere maty shomber in a mixal and midallestate betwern mali-illusjon and volnotary frand. ('luntity may believe that. the origimal motives of Mahomet wrer those of matronbe lievere whor re hiserhim-despise his arroments, amd promente bis lifo; he might forgive his persomal mdversarios, he maty dawfally hate the rinmies of (iod: Dhe stern passions of pride and revenge werekindled in the bosom of Dinhomet, and he sighed, like the prophet of Ninevert. for the destruction of the reberla whom he lad (ondemancl.- (inmbon's lkomb, ell. jo.

1.865. DECEIT, A timely. Persion Priure. [lhamonan was captared in tho surremator of his sian complained of intolerable thiss, but diseovered some ajprehomsion lest le mand be killed while he was drinking a ('up) of water. "Ike of arod courate," satid the caliph; "your life is safe till youl lave drank this water ;" the crafty sutmi) aecopted the assurance, and instantly chashat the vase agatnat the frommal. Omar womld have avonged the decedt, but his eompanions represented the sanctity of an oath; and the spedy ronversion of Harmiozan entitled him not only to a free pardon, but evon io a stipend of two thonsund pieces of egold.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 51.
1470. DECEITFULNESS described. Lord Breadalbane. [Lord Breadalloane,a II igrn]and enrl elesorfted by his contempurime, John Mincky, "cunining us ufor wise ats nispreat; but in $0,11.130$.
1.171. DECEIVER decolved, The, limpintrr. [Jimus il.] Ild mot like lo propose directly to his frothor-in-law |laord lineliemor, the treasurary
 there days nflor the ronferenere Bariftens winted om the trasurer, mind, with malis edremmberation the unpleqwart. |rulh. "[Jo youl mean," mid monions phanere in whisl the fombation was matle", "Holl if I do not turn ('intholif the com-the wiry diphomative. "I mily eome ate africmi (1) Patress a hope that yon will takre , or tukerp

 " Hho phan moming of ail this is, 11 |mant turn ('atimite oll tions for the purgome of nacertainaner whe the r the eommmandeation was malo by anthority, fut could extort only vagur and my゙atrions ripilies.
 from leceling, be derlared that Barillom man ports. "I loll you." lar salil, " lhat the" kitur will mot dimmisy me, mad I will hol rexien. I know him: be know- me; mal I fear molmelys." 'The Frenchman maswered that he was datmed, that he was ruvished toblear it. and that hivoniy motise for interfering was a sincore ansioty for the prosperity amd dignity of havexcerlent fivend the freasiber. And thas the two shatesmend dofartal, each liattering himsedf that be hat duped

1.17'2. DECENCY, Regard for. Istutr Nicton. Ilfe most intimate friend at the mivornity was a foreign chemist of suthe bute and skill. Vi ik ton conjoyed his comversation exceredingly

-il,
 dency that he wombl never sasoriate with hime

1,17:3. DECEPTION betrays Itself, Rírhard 7. [When liaclanif l. returned lionn the pusalle. with luta lew att miants, they hmiend at liagasal in the graive of pigerims: hut the laviuhness of the king was so lithle in keephime will his sasmmed character, that his real ramk was soon suspected. [IS was stam ufter incoree-
 1. 319.
1.17.1. DECEPTION, Day of. Ilıus It!y. I! outrageons serone took phace in the kinges meaence between the green-mothar and iatebeliens. at the clase of which Louis [XIII.] guitted the pahace wilhont saying a word, mad look his departare dur Versatiles. Every one thought the fall of the minister irrevocably certain. . . . The good news wos trmsmitted with prowipitnte joy to Madrid, Vienna, Brussels, and Turin. Buit the sound judgment of Louis. . Inad conducted him meanwhife to a very diferent conchasion. A messinge from the king was despntehed to Riehelien. . . . Me hurried to Versailles, was wedcomed with every mark of confidence and favor, and received an assurance from Louis that he would stemdily uphohl himugrulust ull his adver.
 miler, und wond removo foum court nll who hand it la their power to thand or filare hime.
 Ith of Nevamber, Ithen, whilithas remained faHosis in Fremeli history ns thi" " inay al fupes."

1175. DECEPTION justlfied, licif" of, domes II. As, foowever, five yomes hati chaped simex ander the Influevere of that ilatishan whlin

 Wramge :astore of the kreatind calamblew which fad dewn that maians even motro shoeking fos ali motions of fu-tice mud hamanity than the is:

 - ©

 [Brincese of orimere: for hashami was aftor-

 ch. K, f1, :8x7.
1.176. DECEPTION, Pleasing. Itrulit!" Iimpulif. mime".

Mr: Dedrem, Hat govern
 by the lis of the term " magerematedi" amd timaty wat, to the Presideme :! mont it [a- lack-coln, "that wort exprester previcely my ithen, and I am wot going to change it. 'The lime will mever come in this comatry when the peor ple wont know exnetiy what suther-ented

1.177. DECEPTION punlshed. Jimmstli, nes. [16e lad heon hribed by larpmins, mad on Erest Chamor was mised ly the foople. I I momosthenes, secomingly with a design forove his innmemere, moved for atn order that the allair shomble bo borght inefore the cormet of Aropharus, amd all takiner loriges. In consequence of which he ap pearid before that eomrt, ind was one of the first that were convirted.-P's'ranern.
1.17*. DECEPTION of Self. ('onspirator*. Their maths [as semators] mat their professions were nobling to them. If they were entibled to kill Chesur, they were entitled equally to deceive bim. No stronger evidence is needed of the demoralization of the Roman Senate lhan the completeness with which they were able to disaruise from themselves the baseness of theif trenchery. One man only they were able to attract into cooperation who had a reputation for homesty, and could he concerved, without absurdity, to be animated t y a disinterested purpose. [li was] Marcus Bruilus.-Froc de's Cesin, chi 26 .

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences
Corporation

1479. DECEPTION, Superstitious. Sarred Fuirn. Spams, a combtryma.. . . happening to fall in with a hind which had newly yemed, and which was dying from the humters, failed in his attempt to take her ; but charmed with the macommon color of the fawn, which was a perfert white, he pursuded and took it. By good fortune sertorins had his camp in that neighborhood: and whatever was br, arght to him taken in: hamting. or of the poodnction of the tiedd. he received with plasure, and returned the civility with interest. The comutryman went and ofiered him the fawn. He receriad this present like the rest, and at first tork no extraordinary notice of it, But in time it became so tractable and fond of him, that it would come when he called, follow him wherever he went, and karned to bear the hurry and tumult of the camp. By little and litthe he brought the people to believe there was something staced and mysterious in the affair, giving it out that the fawn was a gift from Diana, and that it diseovered to him many important secrets. For he knew the natural power of superstition over the minds of the barbarians. In pursuance of his scheme, when the enemy was making a private irruption into the country under his command or persuadiug some city to revolt, he pretended the fawn haid appeared to him in a dream, and warned him to have his forces ready. Aud if he had intelligence of some victory gained by his otticers, he used to conceal the messenger, and produced the fawn crowned with flowers for its grood tidings, bidding the people rejoice and sacritice to the gods, on account of some news they would soon hear.-Pbetarcu's Sheryomits.
1480. DECISION, Final. Rubicon. When JuJius Ciesararrived at the banks of the Rubicon, which divides Cisalpine Ganl from the rest of Italy, his reflections became more interesting in proportion as the danger grew near. Staggered by the greatuess of his attempt, he stopped to weigh within himself its inconveniences; and as he stood revolving in silence the arguments on both sides, he many times changed his opinion. After which he deliberated upon it with such of his friends as were hy, anong whom was Asinitus Pollio: mumerating the calamities which the passage of that river would bring upon the world, and the reflections that might be made upon it by posterity. At last, upon some sudden impulse, hidding adien to his reasonings, and plunging into the abyse of futurity, in the words of those who cmarark in doubtulandarduous enterprises, he cried out, "The die is cast !" and immediately passed the river.-Pletarea's C.esab.
1481. - - Rubiom. The boumdary which separates Italy from Cisalpine Ganl is a small river wamed the Rubicon. The Roman Senate, aware of the designs of Chesur, hat pronouned a decree devoting to the infernal gods whatever general should presume to pass this boundary with an army, a legion, or even a single cohort. Cessar, who, with ail his ambition, inherited a large share of the benevolent affections, did not rese' re on the decisive step which he had now taken without some compunction of mind.

Arrived with his army at the border of his province, he hesitated for some time, while he picturel to himself the inevitable miseries of that civil war in which he was now prepmring to unsheath the sword. "If I pass this small stream," said he, " in what calamities mast I involve my country ! Fit if I do not I myself am ruined." The latter consideration was too powerfal. Ambition, too, besented allarements whirh, to a mind like Casar's, were irresistihle.-Tr'mer's Mist., Book 4, ri. 2.
1.182. DECISION, Lacking. ('hatles I. [At the batle of Naselly the kiag was totally defeated by Eairfax and Cromwell.] On this fieh the passionate Rapert, as at Marstom, supposed that he had won the day, and, thinking the victory all his own, he clowe his way bark to the spot wherg the poor helpless king was cherering his dismayed truopers. lublecd, we rath ahnost wep as we luar that ery from the king: "One charge more. grontlemen! One charge more, in the name of Goal ! and the thay is ours." He whecd himself at the hemd of the troopers, and a thomsand of them prepared to follow him. One of his courtiers snatehed his bridle, and thaned him from the path of honor to that of despair. "Why," says one writer. "was there no hand to strike that traitor to the gromal ?" Alas ! if the king's own hand could not strike that traitor to the ground, was it possible that nnother's could ? Who would lave dared to have taken Cromwell's bridle at such a monent? And so, at the battle of Naseby, the crown fell from the king's hend and the sceptre from his hand, and he was henecforth never more in any sense a king. Poor king! "Who will bring me," cried he in despair, "this Cromwell, dend or alive ?" Mlas ! your majesty, who?-llood's Cromwell, ch. $10, \mathrm{p} .13 \mathrm{~F}$.
1483. DECOROM in Debate. American India n.s. If his elorpuence pleased, they esteemed him a god. Decorum was never broken [in Indian assemblies]. There were never two speakers struggling to anticipate each other; they did not express their spleen by blows; they restrained passionate invective ; the debate was nuver disturbed by an uproar; questions of order were unknowr.-BANCROFT's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
1484. DECORUM, Ministerial. Stmuel Johnsom. Johnson's profound reverence for the hierarchy made him expect from bishops the highest degree of decorum ; he was offended even at their going to taverns. "A bishop," said he, "has nothing to do at a tippling house. It is not inderd immoral in him to go to a tavern; neither woikd it be immoral in him to whip a top in Gosvenor sifure; but if he did, I hope the hoys would fall upon him, and apply the whip to zim . There are gradations in conduct ; there is morality, decency and propriety. None of these should lee violated by a bishop." -Boswehl's Jounson, p. 4 is.
1485. DEDICATION changed. Biblia Polyglotta. It is to his immortal honor that the "Biblia Polyglotta Waltonia," perhaps the most important and valuable biblical book ever issued by the British press, owed the existence of its gigantic volumes to Cromwell. . . . Cromwell assisted in defraying the expenses in publishing it, and admitted five thousand reams of paper free of duty, and so saved the author from loss ly its publication. It was published daring the Protectorate and dedieated to Crommell. But its mem and dastardly compider, upon the return of Charles Stuat, rased the dedication to the man who had so substantially aided him, and inserted that of the king, who cated neither fon the project, its seholarship, nor the BibleHoos's C'romwelat, (h. 15), p. 200.

14E6. DEDICATION, The true. Churrh. CM brating the anniversary of the conisecration of the Gastle Chureh of Wittenberg.] Not long thereafter the same Augnstinian monk that had mailed the Latian theses to the charela door stood in the pulpit and preached upon the festi val text. Lake 19: 1, ete., which records the history of Zarcheas. Reverently did the congregation listan to the simple, calm, and leartfelt sermon of the Augnstinimn monk. "Christ must become everything to us," he said ; "and muto those to whom, Christ is something, all else will be nothing. IIe must be sought with a heart which, with a feeling of its unworthiness, does not dare to invite IIim, but which, for that very reason, most urgently imphores Itis presence. Such it request, coming from the heart, God will grant. Tlus He would have our hearts. And thus every feast of dedication should not be merely an outward consecration of a church, but rather a consecration of the heart unto God."-Rens's LéTher, ch. 1, p. 8.
1487. DEFAMATION punished. James II. James, a short time before his aceession, had instituted a civil snit against Oates [the infamons impostor and traducer] for defamatory words, and a jury had given damages to the enormous amount of $£ 100,000$. The defendant had been taken in exce.ation, and was lying in prlson as a debtor, withont lope of release.-Macaulay's Evg., ch. 4, p. 448.
1488. DEFEAT, Beginning with. Abraliam Lincoln. He esponsed the chase of IIenry Clay is and ran us a candidate for the state legislature. . . . Mr. Lincoln was defeated, as he undonbtedly expected to be, atthough his failure must have been amply compensated by the highly complimentary vote that lie received in his own precinct, which gave him two hundred and seventy-seven votes out of two hundred and eighty-four cast ; and this, be it remembered, was the first and last time that he was ever beaten by the people.-Raymond's Lincoln, ch. 1.
1489. DEFEAT, Brilliant. Napoleon $I$. [He fled to. Paris after the defeat at Waterloo.] Throwing himself upon a soft, he exclaimed, ... "My most brilliant vietories do not shed more glory on the French army than the defent at Waterloo. Our troops have not been beaten ; they have been sacrificed, massacred, by overwhelming numbers. . . I I lesire to be atone." - Abbott's Napoleon I., vol. 2, ch. $2 \pi$.
1490. DEFEAT concealed. Samuel Johnsom. Johnson could not brook appearing to be worsted in argument, even when he had taken the wrong side, to show the force and dexterity of his talents. When, therefore, he perceived that his opponent gained ground, he had recourse to some sudden mode of robust sophistry. Once, when I was pressing upon him with visible advantage, he stopped me thus: "My dear Boswell, let's have no more of this ; you'll make nothing of it. I'd rather lave you whistle a Scotch tunc."-Dosw Ela's donnson, p. 46t.
1491. defeat, Difficult. Crsap. Ciesar was never defented when personally present, save once at Gelgovia, nund once at Dirazas, and the failure at Gergovia was aused by the revolt of the AEdui ; mad the maner in which the fiture at Durazzo was retrieved showed ('asisurs greatness more than the most brilliant of his victories. Ife was rash, but with in calculated mahness, which the eront never failed to justify. Ilis greatest sucersises were dhe to the ripidity of his movements, which brought him on the chemy before they hamed of his approach. Ile travelled sometimes a handred miles a day, reading or writing in lus carringe, throngh countries without roads, and crossing rivers without briclges. Noobstacles stopped him when he had a detinite aim in view.-Froude's Cesark, ch. ©8, p. 71.
1492. Defeat inspiring. Bunker Ilill. The battle of Bunker IIill rather inapired than disconraged the colonists. It was seen that the Britisil soldiers were not invincible. To capture a few more hills would cost General Gage his whole army. The enthusiasm of war spread throughout the country. The news was borne rapidly to the South, and a spirit of determined opposition was every where aroused. The people bergan to speak of the Lnited Colonies of America. At Charlotte, North Carolina, the citizens ran together in a hasty convention, and sturtled the country liy making a declavation of Independence! The British ministers had little dreumec of raising such a storm.-Ridpatu's l. S., ch. 38, p. 301 .
1493. DEFEAT, Instraction by. Peter the Great. Charles [XII. of Sweden] left the defence of Riga to a valiant old Swedish general, who succeeded in holding it, and marched himself to meet the czar with 20,090 troops. Never was victory more sudden, more cusy, or more complete than that which these 20,000 Swedes wou over the great mob of Russians led by Peter. The czar escaped with but 40,000 inen. [" "harles was then only in the seventeenth year of his age." -TyTlen.] From that defeat the military grentness of Russia was horn. "I know well," said the czar, as he was in retreat, "that these Swedes will beat us for a long time; but, at last, they will teach ns how to conquer." And so it proved ; for from that day Peter began the mighty work of drithing his half-snvage hordes into soldiers-t work which is still going on, thongh great progress has been made in it. The Russian people attributed their defeat to sorery and witcheraft, and we have still the prayer which was addressed to St. Nichohas on this occasion in all their churches. Cyclopedia of Bioa., p. 436.
1494. DEFEAT, Mortification of. General Montculm. [IIC was defented at Qucher, and mortally wounded.] On hearing from the surgeon that death was certain-"I am glad of it," lae cried; "how long shall I survive $\psi$ " "Ten or twelve hours, perhaps less." "So much the better ; I shall not live to see the surrender of Quebec." -Bancroft's U. S., vol. 4, ch. 14.
1495. DEFEAT, Overwhelming. Bonaparte. [Bonaparte invaded Russis, with an army of more than 600,000 men ; le was driven back by the chestrimethon all sherplles num the approath different regiments wore all mixed togather, the sobdiers marehing pell-moll, mind only soceking to prolomigexistemer. lhomsamdsof wablering burn fall into the hamdy of the (ossancks. 'Tla momber of the prisomers was very grat, but that ol the dead exoereled it. Dnting amonth there ware no rations, atme dead horses wore the omly rothe Niemen in Aly. with the persmasion al their

1.198. DEFEAT, Service of, Bull li"n. Tlor rout |of the luion army| at Bull Rum had the adfer to quieken the emereries of the North, and tropos were rapidly haried to Winshington. The:

 West Virginia to take command of the Armey of the Potomate. By the midelle of October his forees had increased to 150,000 ment. - Rub. r.dTu's L. S., (ll. 6is, p. 4!.
1.197. DEFECTS covered, Triclus. [Priciles. the A themian statesman, obtamed ervat remown. II is persen in oflor resperts was well hamed, hat his head was disproportiomally loner. For this reason almost all his stataces linve the hemd cosered with a helmet, the statumes choosing. I smpose, to hide that defect. - Pheranéts Plinicless.
1.198. DEFENCE a Bondage. Fitl of Tromir. [Constantine defonted many thonsamid latians under Pompoiamos.] They wanterl chaine for sogreat amaltitude of ratptives; and the whole combeil wasat a hoss ; but the sagacious rompueror imagined the happy expedient of converting into fefters the swords of the vanapuished. - Fore in Gimbonis liome, chi. $\overline{\text { int. }}$

14D9. DEFENCE, Brave. Connt Gerontius. Gerontius, abandoned by his own troops, escaped to the contines of Spain, and rescued his mane from oblivion by the Roman courage which appeared to animate the last moments of his life. In the mindle of the night a great borly of his perficlious soldiers surroumded aud athacked his house, which he latd st rongly barricaded. His wife, a valiant friend of the nation of the Alani, and some faithful slaves, were still attached to his person; and le used, with so much skill amd resolution, a large magazine of darts and arrows, that above 300 of the assalants lost their lives in the attempt. - Gibbox's Rome, ch. 31 .
1500. DEFENCE declined. Chuthe $I$. The act of nerusation was robal to hinn, drawn upatior the customaty formula, in which the werds traitor, murderer, and public enemy were, ats usual, freely applied hy the compuering to the vanquixised parts. Medistened to them umanoved, with the calm supericrity of innowence. Determined not to de rrode the inviohble majesty of kings, of widid he concejvedhimself the depositary and responsible representative, lie replied that he would neser stonp to justify himself before a self-elected tribumal of his ow'n subjects-a tribunal which the religion as well as the laws of Engrland equally forbade him to acknowledge. "I shall leave to God," said he, in conclusion,
" Hur mare of my defoure, lest hy unsworing I shomad acknowledge in you an anthority which has uo better fommbation ilana that of robbersand pirates, und thas draw on my memory the roproan'll of postrity, that I had ingsell betraved the eonstilution of the combtry, instemd of seleecting the most extimable amb imvinhle fate of a 1501. DEFENCE, A frall. W'eterlow. [.It the hattle ol Wratcroos some of the binglish were protorted by a garden-wall emelosimerabout twoarres of eroniad amd including atmatl lomse. It is sumpoly an exageremtion to say " Ihis Belgian

 "d "pon the passession of his homse." - Iombly 1)!DLES, in KNumaris ENu., vol. 8, clı. D, p. 33.
1502. DEFENCE, Heroic. Lat Rochelle. The defence of lat Rorhelle was protracted for lifteen monthes, imil it was mot till half the population had perished from humger, and sexiredy a hamdred and dity soldiers of the garrison remained alive, that flor survivors comsented to capitu-

150:3. DEFENCE, Patriotic. Hollomd. The matomal spirit swolled and roso high. The terms otlored by the allies were itrmly rejected. The dikes were openol. 'The whole conntry was one racat lake, from whieh the vitios, with their ramparts nud stereples, rose like islands. The invalers were formed to save themselves from destruction by a procipitate retreat. - Maciadiay's

150.1. DEFENCE, Asavage. Babylonians. The babylomians were the first of the provinces which endeavored to shake off the yoke of servitude ; but their attempt cost them extremely dear. Darius eucireled Babylon with his army so ats to eut off all supplies from the adjacent country. The inhaloinats exerted a suvage resolution. All whon were useless for the defence of the city, and served only to consume its pro-visions-itie women, the old men, und the chil-dren-were strampled hy a public decree, each hemd of a family being allowed to preserve one of his wives and n maid-servant.-TrTLER's IIst., Book 1, ch. 11.
1505. DEFIANCE, Challenge of. William, rriure of Oraugr. [ Nhout to invaile England and mount the throne.] In the evening hearrived at Ifelvoetslays, and went on board of a frigate called the Bribl. IIis lag was immediately licisted. It displayed the arms of Nassam quartered with those of Enirland. The motto, embroidered in letters three fect long, whs lappily chosen. The honse of Orange had long used the elliptiall device, "I will maintain." The ellipsis was now fillecinp with worls of high import, "The liberties of Englamd and the Pretestant religion." - M.ncavaives Exa., eh. 4, p. 438.

1s06. DEFORMITY forgotten. Thackeray. When he was in America he met at dinner a literary gentleman of high character, middle-aged, and most dignitied diportment. The gentleman Was one whose charmerternd acquirements stood very high-deservedly so-but who in society had that air of wrapping his toga around him, which adds, or is supposed to add, many cubits to a man's height. But he had a broken nose

St dinure he talked much of the tender passion, fund did ao in a memare which stirred op 'Than'k. eray's fireling of the ridiculons, "What has the word conne to.' said 'Thekerny, ont loned to the table, "when two broken-moned old fogies like yon and me sit talking about love to em hother !" The gembleman was astemuded. atul combeng sit wrapping his toga in sildot dismay for the rest of the evening. - Tuob,ome's 'Tunckekny, (b) :
1507. DEGENERACY, Athenlan. $]_{1}$ apixatl. The Alhernians are . . . distimenisherl hy the mbthety and acutemess of their understandings ; but these: flualitios, maless emobled by freedom and enlightemed hy stady, will degenemate into a low and seltich comuing; and it is a provertian saylag of the combry, "From the Jewe of Thessat lonica, the Torks of Negropont, and the Gereks of Athens, gool Lord, deliver us!" By some, whe delight in the contrist, the modern hanguge of Athens is represented as the most cormpitand harbarons of the seventy dialeces of the valgar Greak; this pioture is too darkly colored; Put it would wot he casy, in the combiry of Plato an! Demosthenes, to find a rember or a copy of their works. The Athenians walk with anpine indifforrace among the glorions ruins of antiguity: and sath is the dehasement of their charader:" that they are ineamable of admiting the genims 1504. DEGENERACY, National. F'"gl""d, 17at. [Benjamin Framkitia left linghad for his mative country in 1 ant, whereating any further attempt to restore mited interests betwern the mother rountry and her colonies. He writes:| When I consider the extremecorruption prevailing among all orders of men in the ode rotten state, and the glorions publie virtue so predominant in our rising comitry, I camot but apprelend more mivehief than benefit from a closer union. Here momberless and needless phaces, enormons salaries, pensions, perguisites, bribes, groundless yuarrels, foolish expeditions, false accounts or no accounts, contracts and jols, devour ail revenne, and produce eontimual necessity in the midst of matural plenty.-Knignt's Ent., vol. 6, ch. 23, p. 353.

1509. DEGRADATION, National. Ilumfariars. Except the merit and fame of military prowess, all that is valued hy mankind appeared vile and contemptible to these barbarians, whose mative fierceness was stimulated by the consciousness of numbers and freedom. The tents of the IIngarians were of leather, their garments of fur ; they shaved their hair and searified their frees ; in spereh they were slow, in artion prompt, in treaty perfidions; and they shared the common reproach of barbarians, too ignorant to conceive the importance of truth, too proud to deny or palliate the breach of their most solemn engarements. Their simplicity has been prased, yet they abstained only from the luxury they had never known; whatever they saw they cos. eted; their dosires were insatiate, and their sole industry was the hand of violence and rapine.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 55.
1510. DEGRADATION and Poverty. Irelund. [Young, in his " Tour in Irelamd," says :] Mark the Irishman's potato-bow placed on the floor, the whole family on their hams around it, devouring a quantity almost incredible; the beggar seating himself to it with at henry wolemur ; the pig taking his slate as malily us the wife: the corks, heris, turkeys, geeses, the cur, the cat -and all partaking of the same dish. [The mad hovel of ome room blinds the fanily with its smoke, and their clothing is so rugged that a stranger is imprexsed with the inleat of universal (h. 2, p, :3:3.
1.511. DEGRADATION, Soclal, rish. [In 1:893 Spererer deseribed the derembation of the Irish cabin as it continnel for two hamedred and tifty yeurs after. "Rather swiuesties than honses"-thesedwedlinges of abjeret powerty being the chicfest canse of the peor cimitivator's benstly munner of life mad savage comalition, lying mat living with his berast, in one house, in one remm, in one bed-that is, cleans straw or is foul dumer

151\%. DEITY, Belief in the. (irreirns. From the foregoing hricf aceomen of the difrerent seets or selowils of philoseply in (breree, I shatl draw only two reflections: the one is, that with a sery few exeeptions, mad more particolarly that of flae seet last mentioned, amid all the errers incident to the mind mentirhterad by revended religion, the reasom of makind has, in all ages, looked up to a supreme, intelligent, and omapostent Beine-the Anthor of our existene-the ('reator mad the (sovernor of the miverso-a beliaf which foreses itself upon the most uncultivated understanding, and which the adramee ment of the intellerettal powers tends always to strengthen and eontiam. The other reflection is, that from the ereat varicty and opposition of those systems which we have enumerated of the Grerk philosophers, we may perceive among that people a liberal spirit of toleration in matters of opinion, whirh stopped short at absolute irreligion and impiety; and a freedom of judgment in all matters of philusophieal speculation, which did homor to their mational character mat the genius of their legishative systems.-TyTLER's IILst., Book 2, ch. 9.
1513. DEITY concealed, Anrient Itulians. These gods were termed I'atrii and Intigetes, but their particular manes were concealed with the most anxious cantion from the knowledge of the people. It was a very prevalent superstitions helief that no city coulil be taken or destroy ed till its tutelar gods abandoned it. IIence it was the flist care of a besieging enemy to evoke the gods of the city or entice them out by ceremonies, hy promising them superior temples and festivals, and a more respectful worship than they had hitherto enjoyed ; but in order to acromplish this evocation, it was necessary to learn the particular mames of the deities, which every prople therefore was interested to keep secret.TyTher's llist., Book 3, ch. 1.
151.4. DEITY subjugated. Tyrians. [When Aiexamber the Great besiared the Tyrims $]$ he had a dream, in which he saw Itercules offering him his hand from the wall, and inviting him to enter. And many of the Tyrians dreamed that $\Lambda$ pollo dechared he would go over to Alexander, because he was displeased with their behavior in the town. Hereupon the Tyrians, as if the grod had been a deserter taken in the fact, londed his statue with chains, and nailed the feet to the pedestal, not scrupling to call 1)Ela.
1515. DEJECTION, Mental. Willirm pitt. [Willian l'itt possessed very forble hambla in his old are ; his mental prostration was sery grat. His comdition is thas deseribed:] larid Chatham's state of health is certainly the lowent dejuction and debility that mind or horly ram be in. Hesits ail the day loming on his hamds, which he supperts on the pable ; deres not permit any person to remain in the room; knocks when he wans anything; and having made his wants known, gives a sigual, without speaking, to the person who maswers his call, to retire. Pitt had greatly damaged his popuharity as the "idel of the people" by receriving his title and pension from the king, they being i,terpreted as the price of his freelom. The " (wreat commoner" was also a great sufferer from the gent. Wounded pride and a diseased body threw him into a state of melameholy.]-linigur's Evia., vol. 6, ch. 18, p. $2>8$.
1516. DELAY, Dangerous. Archins. [On the same night ia which he was assassimated by conspirators there arrived an express] from Athens with a letter from Archias, high-pricst there, to Archias his namesake and particular friend, not filled with vain and gromilless surmises, mot containing a clear narrative of the whole affair, as was found afterward. The messenger, being admitted to Archias, and now almost intoxicated, as he delivered the letter said: "" The person who sent this desired that it might be read immediately, for it contains business of great importance,"' But Archias receiving it, said, smiling, "Business to-morroo." Then he put it under the bolster of his eouch, and resumed the conversation with Philidas. This saying, Business to-morrone, passed into a proverb, and contimues so among the Greeks to this day.-Plutancios Pelomidas.
1517. DELAY, Providential. Tercts. A great agitation had arisen in the eometry in regard to the republic of Texas. From 1821 to 1836 thim vast territory, lying between Lonisiana and Mexjeo, had been a province of the later country. For a long time it had been the policy of Spain and Mexico to keep Texas uminhabited, in order that the vigorous race of Americans night not encroach on the Mexican borders. At last, however, a large land-grant was made to Moses Austin, of Connceticut, on condition that he would settle three hundred American families within the limits of his domain. . . . Thus the foundation of Texas was lat by peophe of the English race.-Riderta's C. S., ch. 56 , p. 44.).
1518. DELIVERANCE from God, Orlectus. [When Attia besicured orlems] the assmults of the llans were vigorously repelled hy the faithful valor of the soldiers, or citizens, who defended the place. The pastoral diligence of Aniams, a bishop of primitive sanctity and consummate prudence, exhansted every art of religions policy to support their connage till the arrival of the expected succors. Aftar an olstinate siege the walls were shaken by the batteringrams; the lluns had already oceupied the suburbs; and the people who were incapable of bearing arms lay prostrate in prayer. Anianus, who anxiously counted the days and hours, de-sputched a tristy messenger to observe, from the rampart, the liace of the distant comatry. Ite returned twice, without any intelligence that could inspire hope or comfort ; but in his thive report he mentioned a small rloud, which he hand fantly deseried at the extremity of the horizon. "It is the aid of God!" exchamed the bishop, in a tone of pions ronfidence ; and the whole matitude repeated after him, " It is: tha aid ol God." The remote objeet, on which erery eye was fived, Inerame card moment larger and more distinct; the Roman and Gothic bambers were gradualiy perceir a: and a favorable wind blowing aside the dust, diseovered, in derep array, the impationt squadrons of Atime mat Theceloric, who pressed forward to the relect of Orlmas.-Gmmon's Rome, ch. 35.
1519. DELIVERANCE, Strange. Cipt. Ciok. It was while sailing about Ausiralia that the Endeavor had a most strange and narrow escape from destraction. She struck a rock one day with great foree, but immediately thated off: and although she leaked ladly, the crew managed to keep her adoat matil they reached a harlor. What was their astonishment, on dock ing the ship, w find a large rock stuck in the cav ity, which alone had kept her from going down -Cyclopedia of Biodi, p. $38:$.
1520. DELU3ION, Disastrous. C'rusarlers. [St. Lewis IX. of France fitted ont the hast crusade.] Unfortunately, in the delirium of a fever, he fancied that he had received a summons from heaven to take up the cross against the infidels; and neither the return of his reason, the emreaties of his queen, nor the remonstrances of his coursellors could divert him from that fatal project. He employed four years in preparing for the expedition, and set out with his queen, his three brothers and their wives, and all the knights of France, with a prodigions number of the ir vassals and attendants. ... Half of their inmense army perished by sickness, mod the other half was defeated by Almoadin, the son of Melecsala. Lewis himself, with two of his brothers, was taken prisoners, and the third was killed in the engagement. Lewis offered $1,000,000$ of lecsants in gold for the ransom of himself and his fellow-prisoners; and such was the uncommon generosity of this infidel prince, that he remitted to him a fifth purt of the sum.-Tytlenis Mist., Book 6, (fl. 19.
1521. DELUSION, Optical. Istent. The people of the Comaries were long maler a singular optical delusion. They imagined that. from time to time, they behed a rast islam to the west ward, with lofly mountains and deep vallevs. Nor was it seen in cloudy and dubious w ather, hat in those clear days common to tropisal climates, and with all the distinctness with which distant objects may be discerned in their pure, transparent amosphere. The ishand, it im true, was only seen at intervals, while at onher times, and in the clearest weather, not a vestige of it was to be descried. When it did appear, however, it was always in the same place, and mader the same form. So persuaded were the inhabitants of the Canarics of its reality, that application was made to the King of Portugal for permission to discover mod take possession of it ; and it actually beame the object of several expeditions.-Irvina's Colcmbes, ch. 4
1522. DELUSION, Political. Stimp T'ur. A.i. 17th. Every agent in Enghand believed the stamp tas would be peaceably levied. Not one "imarinod the olonies would think of disputing the matter with Parlimmen it the point of the sworl." "It is our daty to submit" had beren the words of utis.

Frmblin
. ... surer alombting that it would gointocflect. sill less did the statesmen of England donit the re-sult.- B.
1523. DELUSIONs, Popular, Frommen de shote. It had ever been helieved that the depthes of the contiment at the north eoncealed cities as magniticent and temples as richly radowed as my which had yet been plundered within the limits of the t.pics. Soto desired to rival Corte\% in giory, and surpass lizarro in wealth. . . . Ite demanded permission to compuer Florida at $\mathrm{h}_{\mathrm{is}}$ own cost ; and ('harles V. readily conceded.Bancmort's lis'r. of U. S., vol. i, ch. 2.
152. DEMAGOGUE, Changeful. Reign of Charles II. [He was a Cabinet minister.] Buckingham was a sated man of pleasure, who had turned to ambition as to a pastime. As he lad tricd to amuse himself with architeeture and music, with writing farces and with seeking for the $p^{\text {, }}$ ilosopher's stone,so he now tried to ammase himself with a seeret negotiation and a Dutel war. IIe had already, ruther from fiekleness and love of novelty than from any deep design, been faithless to every party. At one time he had ranked among the Cavaliers. At another time warants had been out against him for manataning a treasomble correspondence with the remains of the Republican party in the city. He was now arain a courtier, and was cager to win the favor of the king.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 2, p. 199
1525. demagogue Class. Rome. Etruria was full of Sylla's dishmaded soldiers, who had spunrlered their allotments, und were langing about, unorcupied and starving. Catiline sent down Manhias, their old officer, to colleet as many as he could of them without attracting notice. Ile himself, as the election day approached, and C'icero's year of othce was drawing to an end, took up the character of an aristocratic demagogue, and asked for the suffriges of the people as the champion of the poor against the rich, as the friend of the wretched and oppressed; and thow who thought themselves wretehed and oppressed in Rome were so large a body, and so bitterly hostile were they all to the prosperoms chasses, that his election was anticipated as a certainty. In the semate the consulship of catiline was regarded as no less than an impending national calamity--Fmocde's ('.FsAm, ch. 11, 1. 21 .
1526. DEMAGOGUE, The First. Minasthens. Menesthens, the som of Petens, grandson of Ornens, and great-grandson of Erecthens, is said to be the tirst of mankind that undertook to be a demagovine, and by his eloypuence to ingratiate himself with the people. Ile endeavored also to exasperate and inspire the nobility with sedition, who had but ill borne with Thesens for some time, reflecting that he had deprived every persion of family, of his government and command, and shat them up together in one eity, where he used them as his subjects and slaves. Among the common people he sowed disturbance by teliing them, that though they pleased themselves with the arymo of liberty, in fact they were robled of theirecomatry and religion; and instemal of many good and mative kings, were lorded over by oue man, whe was it neweomer und a stranger.-Pirtancu's Tresemes.
1527. DEMAGOGUE, Marks of the. Hicurcts. The lowe of liberty, or the passion for mational freedom, is a noble, a disinterested, and 12 virtuons feeling. Where this fecling is found to prevail in any great degree, it is a proof clat the mamers of that community ure yet pure and muadalterated; for cormption of mamers infallibly extinguishes the patriotio spirit. In a mation coufessedly corrupted, there is of ten fonnd a prevailing ery for liberty, which is hemrd the loudest mang the most protligate of the community; but let us earefully distinguish that spirit from cirtuous putriotism. Let us exnmine the morats, the private manners of the demmgrogue who prenches forth the love of liberty : remark the character and examine the lives oi those who listen with the greatest avidity to his hamagues, and re-echo his vociferations; mad let this be our eriterion to julge of the prinejple whichactuates them.-T'Ytern's IIst., Book 4, ch. 6.
1528. DEMONS, Origin of. Somi-IIms. A fab)ulons origin was assigned, worthy of their form and manacrs, that the witches of Seythia, who, for their foul and deadly practices, had been driven from society, lad eopulated in the desert with infernal spirits; and that the luns were the offepring of this excerable conjunction. The tale, so full of horror and absurdity, was greedily embraced by the credalous hatred of the Goths.-Grbion's Rome, ch. 26 .
1529. DENUNCIATION, Terrible. Natpolion $I$. [IInving escuped from exile at St. Eilm, and becn welcomed by the army and people of Framee, the allied sovercigns declared,] " He has deprived himself of the protection of the laws. . . . Napoleon Bonaparte has thrown himself out of all relations with civilized society; and that as un enemy and disturber of the world, he has rendered himself an object of public vengeance."Abmott's Napoleon 13., vol. 2, ch. 26.
1530. DEPARTURE, Mysterious. Clomnedes. [Aceording to the Grecian fable, Cleomedes| was a man of gigantic size and strength; but behaving in a foolish and frantic manner, he was gnilty of many acts of violence. At last he went into a school, where he struck the pillar that supported the root with his tists, and broke it asinder, so that the roof fell in and destroyed the chiddren. Pursued for this, he took refuge in a great chest, and having shat the lid upon him, he hekd it down so fast, that many men together could not foree it opern. When they had cut the chest in pieces, they conld not find him either dend or alive. Struck with this strange affair, they sent to consult the oracle at Delphi, and had from the priestess this answer: "The rate of heroes ends in Cleomedes." - Ple tarciis Cleomedes.

1531, DEPENDENCE, Needless. Virginian Colonists. They pretended to feur starvation, and in the latter part of August almost compelied Governor White to return to England for an additional cargo of supplies. It wasa great mistake. If White had remained, and the settlers had given themsedves to tilling the soil and bullding honses, no further help would be needed. White met sall. . . What their fitu was has mever been

15:32. DEPRAVITY by Descent. Fow, Though the traditions of eruelty and trene hery hand bern carried on from generition to ganemion, they serem to have culminated in the lather of Nero, who adeled a tinge of memoness mad volgarity to the brutal manare of his race. His loose mornls had been shorking even to a foose are, and mon told ench obher in disgrust how he bud chented In his pratorship; how he ham killed one of his freedmen only becanse he had refused to drink as much as he was hidden; how he had prorposely driven over apoor boy on the Appian Romd; bow in a stuabble in the Forum he lud struck ont the eye of a Roman knight ; low lat had been timally bumished for erimes still more shameful. It was a current ancedote of this man, who was "detestable thromgh every period of his life." that when, nine years after his marringe, the hirth of his som Nero was nnnomered to him, ho answered the congritnhtions of his friends with the remark, that from himself poid Syrippina nothing could huve been bom bint what was hateful, and for the pullic ruin.- Far was: Eably Jain, p. 15.
15333. DEPRAVITY, Evidence of. $S_{1} m \| \subset l$ Tolunsem. [ln conversation with Boswell, he saidl:] With respect to origimal sin, the inguiry is not necessary ; for whatever is the canse of homm cormption, mon are evidently and comfessedly so corrapt, that all the laws of heaven and eirth are insulticient to restrain them from crimes. - Boswlah's Jonnson. p. 466.

15i3 1. DEPRECIATION, Financial. Ilymouth Colong. At the end of the fourth year there were only one hundred and eighty persons in New England. The managers had expeected protitahle returns, and weredisappointed. They had expended $84,000; there was neither protit nor the hope of any. . . . In November, 1627 , eight of the leading mem of Plymonth purchased from the Landoners their entire interest, for the sum of $$ 9000$ - Rhmetris's U. S., ch. 13,1 . 125.
1535. DEPRECIATION, Foolish. Of Luther. How did the pope act in this violent contlict? [Which begam the great Reformation.] Two of his utterances are recorded: "Brother Martin is a very ingenious fellow ; but the contlict itself is merely a quarrel between jealous monks." And argin! "A drumken German must have written these theses; as soon as he becomes sober he will change his mind." 'The highest circlos of Rome and the immerlate attendants upen the pope were guilty of the stame depreciative and contemptaons treatment of the Germans mat of Luther's theses. In their replies the "obserure German" and his "dogbiting" theses were treated in the most derogattory manner.-Rens's Lethen, ch. 4, p. 49 .
1536. DERISION, Public. Reign of James II. [Obadial Walker had converted Oxford University into a Roman Catholic seminary.] Actors came down to Oxford. ... Howard's Committee was performed. This play, written soon after the Restoration, exhibited the Puritans in an odions and combemptible light, mad had therefore berm, during a gumeror of a century, a favorte with Oxomian mulionoes. It was now a greator favorite than wer ; for, by a lucky colncidence, one of the most comspicuons characters was an old hyporite momed Ohadiah. The andicure shouted with delight when, in the hat serone obadinh was dragered in with a halter round his anek; and the nerelamations redonbled when one of the players, elcparting from the writen text of the comedy, proclaimed that Omalints should be hanged becanse he had chmged his religjon. The king was much porvoked by this insult.-Macutay's Exa., ch. 8, 1. 262.

15:37. DESERTION, Imitated. Ti, William, of orangé. [colomel]' (ornbury was som kelut in combemme hy a crowd of deserters supuricr to him in runk and calmeity ; but during a feov days he stood alone in his shame, and was hit. terly reviled by many who altorward initated his example and envied his dishomomble precedence. Among these was his own fallore. Tlie tirst outhreak of Churendon's rage and sorrow was highly pathetie. "0 Gexl!" he efuculated, "that a son of mine should be a rehel!" $\boldsymbol{A}$ lormight later he made up his mind to be a rebed himself. Yet it would be minjust to promounce him a mere hyporite. In revolntions men live fast : the exprevene of years is crowded into hours ; ohd habits of thonght and artion are violently broken: novelties, which it tirst sight in. spire dread mad disgust, berome in a few day:a fimmiliar, endurable, ntructive. Many men of: far purer virtue mod higher spirit than Claren. don were prepured, before that memorable geate ended, to do what they would have pronomined wieked and infanons when it began.-Macauhay's Eve., ch. 9, p. 464.
1538. DESERTION, Shameful. Aguthoclis. IIe suffered a signal reverse of fortune. During his ubsence in Africa the Sicilian States, oppressed by Syrucuse, formed a league in defence of their liberties. Agathockes laving reembarked "part of his troops, with the design of chastising this revelt, the Carthaginimen in the mean time reduced the remanaler of the syracusim army to such extremity, that even the return of their leader was insutlicient to retrieve their losses. Regarding their situation as des. perate, Agnthocles, with the meanest tramery' abandoned his army in the night, and excuped back to sicily in a single vessel, lempiner his two sons to the mercy of the Carthaginians, who put them both to death.-TytLen's IIstr., Book 3, ch. 8.
1539. DESIRES, Potential. Sirfat"lor\%. Any one in the spiritual world appers to he: present if another intensely ydesires his presence: for from that desire he sees him in thenght, und puts himself in his state. Agran one person is removed from another in proportion as he holds him in aversion; for all aversion is from contrariety of the affections and disagreement of the thonghts; therefore many who uppear together in one place in the spiritual world, so long as they agree, separate as soon as they disagree. Further: when any one goes froin one place to another, whether it be in his own city, in the courts, or the gardens, or to others out of his own city, he arrives sooner when he has a at rong desire to be there and later when his desire is less strong ; tho way itsolf being lemghacod or shortenced necording to his desire of mrival. I Ience agnin it is evident that distancos, nat Frether neeording to the state of their mhads. Witteis swedenuoht , p. 112.
15.70. DESOLATION by Pestllence. Timalou. Tooking hurk ujum these times, they serem sum, Whark, and desolate: the phagise ravared the metropolis, the demiths averuging about tho thousumb it weok. 'The eity was empty, grass Was growing la the street; und lily, the astrologer, going to prayers to St. Antholin's, in Witling Street, from ahouse over the Strand Bridere: between six mad seven fu a smmmer morning of the month of July, testifles that so fow peopile were then alive, and the streets so mafreguented he met only three persons in the way.-Ioons Clromweli, ch. 3, p. 50.
15.11. DESPAIR of the Defeated. Ameritan Revolution. [Fort Wushingtons and Fort Larr, neat New York, had been captured by the luritish. Two thousind prisonersinal great miliany stores sorely needed fell into the encmy's hands.] The British pressed forwarl after the retreating Americans. Wushington, with his nrmy now reduced to 3000 men, crossed the lassuic to Newark; but Cormwallisand Kıyphutsen cama hard ufter the fagitives. The patriots retreated to Elizabethtown, thence to New Irmanswick, thence to Princeton, and finally to 'Trenton on the Delawne. The British were ull the time in close pursult, and the music of their bunds was frecpuently heard by the rear-gunrd of the American army. Nothing but the consummateskill of Washington saved the remmant of his foreres from destruction, Despair seemed settling on the conntry like n pall.-lionentu's U. S., ch. 39 , 1. 314.
15.12. DESPAIR, Determination of. IRomun Emperor Aurelita. De thare experienced that the most absolute power is it wenk defence arainst the effeets of despuir. He land threatencil one of his secretaries who was necased of extortion ; nad it was known that he selalon thareatened in vain. The last hope which remained for the criminal was to involve some of the principal otticers of the mony in his danger, or it lenst in his fats. Artfully counterfeiting his master's hand, lie showed them, in a lonir and bloody list, their own names devoted to fleath. Without suspecting or examaning the frame, they resolved to secure their lives ly the murder of the emperor. [They assassinuted him.]-Gibuon's lomis, ch. 11.
15.13. DESPERATION in Battle. Tersiam. [Klualed, a Mohammedan general, marched with 20,000 men agranst Ilarmonz, a vassal of the Persian king.] The battle commenced by a chivalrous dued, in view of looth camps, by the two generals. Harmouz, slain in the combat by Fhaled, left his army without a genernl. The Persians, decided either to die or vanguish, had chained themselves to one another by the legs, so as to deprive themselves heforehand of the memens of tlight. They perished in a body heneath the swords and irrows of the Arabs.Lasartine's Tukkey, j. 162.
1544. DESPERATION, Final. Bliud King John. The King of Bohemia, who was nearly blind told his men to lend him so far forward that he might strike one stroke with lis sword; mand they nil thed the refins of their bridnes enche to the othor, that they shomhe not lose him In tha

15.15. DESPERATION, Scheme in. Momarchicul. Thommas Wrat worlh, suceressively createrl great mbilitios, elopuenee, nud commare, lout of a coucl and inmerions mature, was the eonasellor most 1 rusted in politionlomd military nthais. Ila . . formed a vast nod dergly-meditated selame, which very nenrly coufommed even the able tace:
 mons land been directed. Tro this seherme, in his contidential correspondence, he grave flae expressive mame oi Thorougla. IVis oljere wastodoin Enghand nll, und nore than all, that leichelien was doingrin frane ; to make ('harlens momarelt as absolnte as my on the Contincut ; to mit the retatesuad the persomal liberty of the whole people at the disunsul of the ('rown ; to deprive tho conds of law of ail independent anthority, even in ordimary guestions of civil right betwaen mon and man, mad to punish with moreiless rigor all who murmurudi-Macnti.nv's lixa., ch. 1 , 1. 81.
15.16. DESPOTISM, Revival of. ('urlimel Wiulse 4 . The ten years which follow the fall of' Wolsey ure monong the most momentous in our history. The momarchy at last realized its power, mad the work for which Wolsey land paved the way was carric dont with a terrible ahoromghases. The one great institution which could still offer resistanee to the royal will was struck down. The chureh became a mere instrument of the (ertrul despotisin. The people learned their helplessmess in rebellions cissily suppressed mum a venged with ruthless severity. $\alpha$ reign of taror, organized with consummente und meredess skill, helal lingland panite-stricken nt Manrys fect. The noblest heads r. lled from the block. Virtuo amd learning condel not save Thomas More ; roynl descent conid not suve lady Salishmry. The putting awny of one quen, the execution of anothers, tanght England that nothing was tot high for Ilenry's "cournge" or too sucred for his "appetite." Parliament assemblad only to sancetion ints of mascruphlous tyrimby or for lmilal up by its own statutes the fubrie of absolate rule. All the constitutional salegnarels of English freedom were swept away. Arbitury taxation, arbitary legislation, arbitary innprisomment, wero powers chamed without dispute nud unsparingly used hy the Crown.-Eng. Peoldes, 今̀ 555.
1517. DESTINY, Unavoidab. 3. Naphloon $I$. [At the battle of Friedlamd] a camon lall came over their leads, just above the hayomets of tha troops. $A$ yonng soldier instinctively doxiged. Napoleon looked at him, anca, smiling, said: " My friend, if that ball were destined for you, thongh you were to burrow a handred feet uinder ground, it wonld be sure to find you there."Abisotr's Napoheon B., vol. 1, ch. 3i).
15.18. DESTRUCTION, Difficult. Temple of $J$, piter. In Syria the divine and excellent Marcellus, as he is styled by Theodoret, a bishop animated with apostolic fervor, resolved to level with the ground the stutely temples within the diocese of Apamea. IIis attack was resisted by the skill and solldity with which the temple of Jupher had berg constructend. The buiding was metted lofly roof was sipportad by tifterol masy col moms, sixtecon feet in circumference: mid the barge stones of which they were compersed were thmly cemented will lond and iron. The forer. of the strongest and sharpest tools had bern trien without eflert. It was found unesesary to under. mine the fommations of the colmum, whirh liell

 :3.
1519. DESTRUCTION of Emplro, fitll af Romer. 'The derline and fall of Romer th the greatest event in history It orempied a larger pertion of the enrthis sum fiere, it atferted the fises and fortunes of a targur manber of haman bemags, than my other revolution on record. For it was essonthilly one, though it took enenturiesto cousimmate, and though it had for its thentre the civilized word. (ireat evotutions and cathetrophes happencel before it, and imse happened since, but nothing which can compure with it in volume and mere physion size. Nor was it less morally. The destru-4ion of Rome whe not only ndestruction of an empire, it was the destruetion of a phase of homan thought, of a system of humm beliefs, of morals, polities, civilization, as all these had existed in the world for ares. The dram is so vast, the cataclysm sonppalting, that even at this day we are lardly removed from it far enough to take it fully in. The mind is oppressed, the imagimation flags under the load imposed upon it. The captare and sack of a town one can fairly conceive: the massacere, outheg, the thaming trofts, the desotation. Even the devastation of a province can be approsimately reproduced in thought. But what thought con cmarace the devastation and destraction of all the civilized portions of Ehrope, Africa, mud Asia? Whocan renlize a Thirty Yours' War lasting five hundred years ?-Menhason's Ghmos: ch. \%.

1BiOO. DESTRUCTION, Terrible. ('imbrimin. [Gains Marins defented the (imbrians, who emdeavored to escape by fight.]. The Romans drove back the fugitives to their camp, where they found the most shoeking spertate. The women standing in mourning be the conringes killed those that fled; some ficir hoshands, some lheir brothers, others their fithers. They strangled their litte children with their own hames, and blarew them nomer the wheds and honses fert. Last of all, they killed themselves. They tell uts of one that was seem shumg from the gop of a wagen, withathith hamging at carch here. The men, for want of trees, tied themselves ly the neck, some to the horns of oxen, others to their ters, and then pricked them on; that hy the starting of the beasts they might be strangled or torn to pieces. But thongh they wre so industrions to destroy themselves, above 60,000 were taken prisoners.-Pletabeita Calcs Marice.
1551. DETAILS, Importance of. Militury. There were no stores sent from Italy to supply the daily waste of material. The men had to mend and perhaps make their own clothes and shoes, and repair their own arms. Skill in the use of tools was not enough without the tools themselves. Had the spades and matocks been suppled by conaract, hand the nxes been of soft irm, fair to the eye and lallag to the stroke, mot.
 bame to tell the bale of lis destruction. How the hegiomaries acpuired these varions arts, whether the latian pamantry were genemally educuted la suld oercupatoms, or whether on this orraston there was is sperial sellethin of the best, of this
 $1 \%$
15.52. DETECTIVE, Harmless. Lintert liu:mo. [HC was minexeke oflicere.| Smugrling was then common throughont scoolland, beth ha the shape of brewing und of sidting beer and whiskey with. ont license. Jhrins took a serions yot hamane view of his duty. T'o the regular smingler he is said to have ben sevore; to the country folk, finmers, of cotters, who sometimes tranggressed, La tempered justide whth merey. Many storions are thel of his leniency to these last. At Thomhill, on a fair day, he was seen to coll at the door of a pore womin who for the day wis doher a little illieit busimess on her own accomat. A now and in movement of the forefliger bronght the woman to the doorway, "Kate, are yon mad? Don't you know that the supervisor mad I wil' be in upon you in forty minutes?" Burns at once disapperared mong the crowd, and the pore woman was saved a hemvey the.-Simame's Blilise, ch. 5.
1553. DETECTIVE, A stupid. ('olontl Jemesom. Major Aulre [the erpic pissed the Americma outposton In sufety ; but at larytown, twenty-fle mites from the city, he wassuddenty confronted by three militia men, who stripped ham, found his papers, nat delivered him to Colomel Jamesom at North Castle. Tharough that oflecersmanzing stupidity Arnold was at onee notifed that Sohn Inderwon- What being the assumed name of Andre-had been taken with his passport mat seme parers "of a very dangerons tendency." Arnold [the Americum traitor and commandant at West Point] Hed to the river and eseaperlo a boarl the [British vessel, the] Vilture.-Rmentios C. S., ch. 43, p. 345.
155.1. DETECTIVE, Useful. ('icero. The ambissadors of the Allobroges linving fruitlessly uppied to the Roman Senate for aredress of grievanees, Publins Lentulus, the pretor, gave them assurance in private of protertionand favor, provided they would rethrn to their province, und dispose their countrymen to arm in support of a powerful party, which, he athmed, would som bave the command of the republic: Of this negotiation Cierorecerved inteltigenere. The consul, with intinite prudence, instructed his informant to encourage the correspondence betwern Lentulus and the minassadors, and to urge the latter to demand from lentulus a list of the names of all his partisms, in order to show to their countrymen the mumber and power of those friends on whose protection they might depend, if they armed in support of this great revolution in the state. Lentulas fell into the sume that was laid for him. He gave a list of the names of all eoncerned iu the conspirtey of Catiline to the ambassidors, who, setting out upon their journey, were waylaid, and their despatches scized by order of the consul. Cicero had now in his hands the most complete evidence against the whole of the conspirators. Assembling the Sennie, the produred first the writen ovidence, ronabsting of letters, it ir the lumsels of the: chinef jartloums of Chatilise, together witla lists of armis. nimb the places whare thisy weie rloposted, as well пn separate lostructions for the redily ros. "peration of the dilliorent leaders in there allstime departasats of the plot. The depunies of the Allobroges were prostinerd before the hemate, and made moseruphe torostlen the proof arising fiom
 ilh. 1.

ETSF. DETERMINATION asserted, s'iror $l$. Wonme lohl that a centurion whom ('asur had wint to lionse, wniling at the door of the Semate:honse for the result of the deliberations, and laing Informed that the fromate wond not artve ('ibsur a lomger term in his eommixsion, laid his hund "pon lis sworl, and sudd, "But this shatl give it."-- P'ATIMRCH's CHAMAR.
1553. DETERMINATION, Emphatic. Jullot. FWhen the Perslans had invided Greerfe, nul tha allies had evaded a conatliet by removing their ramp, ] Ainomplaretas, ull intrepid man, who land lomg been rager to engage, and monay to moe the battle so often put off and delayed, painly calleal this clecampmant a diagraceful thight, mil derlared he womld not guit his pont. bit remain there with his troops, and stand it out ugninst Mardonias. And when Pamanaias representerd to him that this measire was taken in pursmance of the counsel mad determination of The confederates, he took up a large stone with both his lands, mid throwing it at Pausanias' feet, suid, "This is my ballot for a battle ; and I elespise the timid connsels and resolvestof others." -Plevtinger's Alantiden.
1557. DETERMINATION, Fixed. Toten of Are. It was in vain that her father, when he hearil her parpose, swore to drown larere slie shondi go to the theld with men nt urms. It was in vain that the pricut, the wise people oi the village, the captain of Vamemanars, fombted und refused to aided her. "I must aro to the kinge," persisted the peasant girl, "rven if I wear iny limbs to the very knees. I lame far rather rest and spin liy my moiher's side," she plembed, with a touching juthos, "for this is no work of my choosing ; but 1 mast gonad do it, for my Loril wills it." "And who," they asked, "is your Lord ?" "He is God." Words such ns tirese tonehed the rough emptain at last; he took Jemme by the hand, and swore to lead her to the

1558. DETERMINATION, Obstinato. Scotch Preshyterians. Persecution, they maid, could only kill the borly, but the black indulgenre wasdendly to the sonl. Iriven from the towns, they assembled on lonths and moantains. Attarked by the eivil power, they without seruple repelled foree by force. At every conventicle they mustered in arms. They repeatedly broke out into open rehellion. They were easily defented, and mereilessly punished ; but neither defent nor punisbment could subdue their spirit. IIunted down like wild beasts, tortured till their bones wre beaten flat, imprisoned loy humdreds, hanged ly scores, exposed at one time to the license of soldiers from England, abundoned at another time to the mercy of bands of marauders from the Iighlands, they stild stood at bay in a mood so savage that the boldest and mightiest oppressor 1559. DETERMINATION, Strange, Joff of A $r$. Orlanss laul alrouly bera driven by liam. inc to offors of surrebler when Jemane npisuren! in tha Fircilels comrt, and a corre wis gathering. under the ('onint of' Dinaods, at Blowe for at that reflort at ltes relfef. It was at the head of this force that Jomane phaced harselp. The girl was in her rightormili lar, lall, thacly formed, with all the vigor and activity of ber prasmat rearing. able to shay l'om dawn till nightlall on lorse-lacr charger, clad in white armor from lomad to foot, with a great white hatamer stadeled with Heur-de-lis waving wer her hemd, she semmed" at thing wholly divine, whether to nee or bear." The ll, tho men at arms who followed her front Blals-rongh plamdurars, whose only prayer wins that of Ia Ilime," Sire Dien, 1 pray yon to do tor La Hire what la Hire womld ilo for you wero you (mptain at arms and lac (iod"-loft off their onthanad foul living at low word, and grathered romad the attars on fledr amureh. . . . The peoplo crowded roumd her as she rode nlobig. praying her (1) work mirnedes, and bringing erowan's and ehingr lets to lee hlesmed by laer tonelh. "Tonch then vourself," she sajd to an old dame, Margaret: "your tourla will be juat as good us mine." Ibut lur fuith in her misston remuined us firm nsever. "The mid prays and repuires yon," she wrote to Bedford, "to work no niore distruction in Framee, lat to come in her company to rescuo the Iloly sepulche from the Tourk." "I bring you," she told Immois. When lae sallied out of Orleans to meet her nfter her two days' march from IBlois-" I bring you the best adit ever sent to nny one-thenid of the King of heaven." Tho besicopres looked on overawid ans she enterad Orlams, nond, firling round the walls, hade tho prople shake off the fear of the forts whirlh sirrounded them. - llis's. of Eixi. I'Eorise, S 430.

1500. DETERMINATION for Saccess. "Win his spurs." [At the lnittle of Cressy, in 1346,] when the battle was at its liottest, a knight eames to the king [Edwned III.] und sudid that Warwick and Oxford and the Prince of Wales [the king's son, the Blacek Prince] were tiercely fonght withal, and were sore landled, and they desired aid from lim and his men. 'J'men the king nsked if his som were dond or lami, or felled to the earth; and the kniglit answored, "No." "Say, then, to them that sent you," replied the king, "that they sutfer him this dhy to win his spurs, and ask me not for aid while my son is ulive."--KNiair's ExG., vol. 1, ch. 30, p. 461.
1561. DETERMINATION, VOW of. Ihilip of France. The ensy reduction of Normandy on the fall of Chatema Gailhard ut a later time proved Richurd's foresight; but foresight and saguedy were mingled in him with a brutal vjolence nad a callons indifferance to honor. "I wonld take it were its walls of iron!" Philip, exelamed in wrath as he saw the fortross rise. "I wonld hold it were its walls of butter," was the defiant answer of his foe. It was chareh land, and the Archbishop of Ronen laid Normandy under interdict at its seizure ; but the king met the interdict with mockery, mind intrigued with Rome till the censure was withdrawn. He was just as defiant of a "rain of blood," whose fall ncored his conrtiers. "Whal un angel from lume "n hid him atmondon his work," mays a cosol ohr. arver, " he wombl have answored whithourse," - Misis' of End. Pborles, S. 153.
1502. DETERMINATION, Youthful. diribit. dex. One day he was playing ut diee with other boys la the sirent; und when le came bohle turn to throw it lombed wigon came up. At llrat lie ralled to the driver to stop, berabse lie was to throw in the way over whlili the whgon was to juss. The rusile dismerarding him neme driving om, tho other loys broke nway ; lut Alcibinders threw himself upon his face direretly belore tho when, med stretching libuself ont, bade the fellow drive on If he pleased. Jpon this he was no startled that laes stopperal hife horsers, While those that saw it run u|t lo hiar whll larror. Plovitaleci's Al.chlinalien.
$583. DETE8TATION, Courage under. ('rmmanell. Numberless litele coterles of hlsaing sumkis and sllppery rels were wriggling nal itwisting townid desired eminonce. As we linve nilf, ('romwell nover was ar republient-less no bow limn ever, Shouts of "( 'surper!" "Tyrunt!" "Truitor !"" "I Decelvar !" from other fuctoms: " Detextable wretch !" "Mardiarir !" wore met by the calm lightaing of that deep, clear gray "ye. "Very IIkely, gentlemon! just as you plense, about all such plensant epitheis. Mounfime, distinetly understum that an here somehow or other. I have some notion that I have bern put here by the Etermal (ionl, who ralseth up und castetli down. Noble mutures, you will plense to anderstund that I am ruler here to mave yon from clammy cels or hissing sunkes; noll You, Messienrs Eiels and Smakes, put yoursalves luto the smallest compass, if yon please, or, by that Etermal God that sent me, so much lhe worse for you !" - IIood's ('itonwnis., ell. 18, p. 240 .
1564. DETESTATION, Publio. Eutrophius. [The ennuel mad minister of the Emperor Ar . cadias, in the last period of liommen history.] Secure as he now imngined himself in the favor of his sovereign, and defended by the terror of his own uneontrolled anthority, this buse ennuch endervored to engross the whole power of the govermment. Ite cansed the wenk Areadius to rreate him a patrician, to homor him with the title of father to the rmperor, und nt lengll to confer on him the consnlship. Ilis imaze, prereded by the fusces, was rarricel in trimmpla throughl all the citien of the bust, but was more generally saluted with hissing than wilh ap-plause.-Ty'Len's IIst., Book 5, ch. 5.

156\%. DEVELOPMENT, Social. $I_{\text {A }}$ mbartls. So rapid was the inthacace of elimate and example, that the Lombards of the fourth generntion surveyed with euriosity and affright the portrnits of their savage forefathers. Tleir heads were shaven behind, but the shaggy locks hang over their eyes and month, and $n$ long beard represented the name and character of the nution. Their dress consisted of loose linen garments, after the fashion of the Anglo-Saxons, which were decorated, in their opinion, with brond stripes of varicgated colors.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 45.
1566. DEVIL, Cesting out the. Bumy/am. An ale-honse keeper in the neighborhood of

Fistow had a wan who was half-witted. 'The favorlte: matise miolt, when 14 party was collecered IIrinking, wiss for the finlur to provoke the lad's semper, und for the lat former his father innd wish the devil hud hhan. 'I'w devil int last illd have the ale homase kerepr, and rout and toro hla arar wheness of what flare miv. . . I siow hilat In one of hiv thes, und wiw hils Howh, us it was thought, gathered up in a lextubont the hignows thetion of the ohi math. 'There was nleso ons lireeman, whor was more lhan un ordimury dowtor, sent for to eist out the divil, nud f was there when ho attempited to do it. The manner whereof was this. 'they had the posserssed in in sutrown, und luid lilm upon lis beily woon is fortis, with lifs hadel lungitig down owor the fortis's emi. 'Then they bound hlan down thereto, whlel done, they sot 14 [mas of romls umider his month, mil put somethlug therein whleh mudo a grant smoke-hy this memons, ins it was malid, to feleh ont the devil. There they kept the man till lee was almost smothered in the namoke, but no dovil cameont of him, ut whirle Freeman was somewhat umbhed.-Fuoreme's Buxyan, ( h .1.
1567. DEVILs tested. Dmatom Ilamel. ('utton Mather . . . Invited her to his house: ind tho urtful girl (asily lmposed on his credulity. The devil would permit luer to remi in Qumker loook , or the Common Priyer, or Popish looks; lut a prayer from Coton Mather or a chapter from the Bible would throw her into eonvilsions. By userios of experiments, in reading alond passuges from the Jible in various langunges, the minister satiatled himself, " lyy trinls of their co parity," that devilsare well skilled in langunges, nud understand latin, mad Greek, and even Hebrew, thongh be fell " uponome inferlor IndIna Innginge, whide the demons did not seem so well 10 umblerstand." Experiments were made, with macepual sucress, to nee if devils con know the thoughts of others; nud the inference was that " all devils nre not alike sugacions." - BanChofr's U, S., vol. 3, ill. 19.
1568. DEVOTION, Absolute. Mohammedatt. [Aftar one of Muhomet's unsuccerssful battles, one of the women renconntered the vincpuished urmy returning to Medim. "Where is my fnther ?" asked she of the soldiers. "Ite is slain," was the reply. " And my hushinnd?" "Slain also." "Xidi my son $\because$ "" "Slain with them," snid they. "But Mahomet?" " Here ishe, alive," repliad the warriors. "Very well," suid she, upostrophizing the prophet, "since thon livest still, ull our misfortmans are as nothing!"Lamantinés Tuhkey, P. 117.
1569. DEVOTION, Commendable. Nt. A/I. mrose. Ambrose lad devoted his life and his ubilities to the sorvire of the chureh. Wenth was the oliject of his contempt ; lie lud renouneed his private patrimony ; and he sold, without hesitation, the consecrited plate for the redemption of captives. The clergy and people of Milan were attached to their archhishop; and he deserved the esteem, without oliciting the favor, or apprehending the displeasure, of his feeble sovereigns.-Giabon's Rome, ch. 97.
1570. DEVOTION, Entire. Rev. Thomas Coke The first Protestant bishop in the Western Iemlepherere expemeded has large parimoniad extate on his misnlons und chanels, He was murrion I wiere: bobl bis wives were likeminded what himself, mad loth had comsilerable fortumes, which were used like hisown. . . . It in dombthat whether my lerotovetant of his day contributed more from his own property for the spread of

 -rossing the diantice eighteren thes : traversing the l'nited States and the West indies ; the fommerer of Metherdive miswions in the Wiest Indies, In Aírion, mad in Asta: In Enghand, Waies und freland; the fomider of its tirst 'Truct suri. ety ; . . . he lum luen promonnced - tha greatest man of tha last century "" in "lahors and services iss it minister of Chrisi." [He died while an his passage to Indin ins a missiomary, golug at his "wn expense, ot the nge of sixty-sevell. 万-ste: vena' Methomen vol. 3, p. 3.40 .
1571. DEVOTION, Ministerial. Themmen Lat (a Methomist itherant muder Wiskey) was intinted nt Pateley Bridge into the common lot of Methodist evangelives, and reopived his thest haphtism from the clodes, eluhs, and stones of the moh. His moek mal pure splrit was not werk, but displayed during this nad later trialsa heroism to he ndmired. "We buve dota enough," cried the mol-" we lave done enongh to make an end of him." "I didi, inderd," hesays, "reel to and fro, und my liond wis broken with a stone. Bui I never found my soul more luppy, nor was ever more composed In my eloset. It was a glorions time, and there are severnt who date their conversion from that thy. "-stevens" Methoming, vol. 1. p. 350.
1572. DEVOTION, Self-sacrificing. Pilisurins. In the siege of "the the peneral was nearly transpierced with. a nrow, if the mortal stroks had not been intereepted by on e of his giomrds, who lost, in that pir us ofllee, the use of his hand. [It was the weapon of a Gohl.] Giman's lRome, ch. 41.
1573. DEVOTIONS, Morning. Ancient $/$ armans. The first, second, nad third hours were differently employed it IRome by the different runks of the pople; t.ad even by these differently according to their separate inelinations. It was the custom with many to begin the diny by visiting the temples, where, according as their idens of devotion were more or less striet, they elther sucritteed, or puid their ndoration by simply kissing their mond, or prostrating themselves before their own purticular deity. Those whos were more rigorously devout made their conseientious circuit to most of the temples in the city, a business which must necessarily have ocenpied many hours; but the great bulk of the citizens, attuched to temporal concerns, and intent on more substantial duties, cmployed the morning very differently. - Tyrier's IIn'r., Book 4, ch. 4.
1574. DIARY, Artful. Samul Johnsom. [To Mrs. Thrale.] Johnnon: "No, madam ; a man loves to review his own mind. Thut is the use of a diary or journal." Lone Thamestown : "True, sir. As the ladies love to see themselves in a glass, so a man likes to sec himself in his journal." Boswela : " A very pretty allusion," Joinson : "Yes, indeed." Boswela: "And as a lady adjusts her dress before a mirror, a manambinas his charmeter hy looking at hive jome mal."- benwheta'm lomisenx.
1575. DICTATION, Bimaltaneons. Siopmition 1 . At the fomer corners of the romin tables were met for his mercretarifes: . . . her was arequstomed to alictate simultanomsly. 1t. possessed the rame mumber of subjecten the the same time. He visiully paced the thon with his lut on, and hit ler would dictate finstructions for the manemores of the nrmy. 'lurning tomother he womid give the decisive ophaton on a ditheralt question of thanere or on the mbinistrative government of the cmpire. 'To a third he wombl commmalente minweres to the malmssadors in forelga countrias. A fourth was mot mfreguently imrusted with Lsan 13., vol. : wh. 7.
 On one of his lomes he had an were the of the gout, which led him to resolve that, if ever be recowed, la womld never ngula drink wine or spirits. Ha kegthis resolntion, though he comtmbed to provide wine for lis grests. Simm aster, his hembla being still impaired, he tried thos experlment of living withont memt; mud, as a vegetable diet sermed to benctlt him, he never ugain purtook oi mimal food. All this was highly servicenthle to litm la lids philamblaropie travels, when he was often beyond the reneli uf tuy supplies axerent the most simple. Ile comid live, mad often did live. for weeks at a thme, upon bisentit, misins, mad tom. Tem, in fuct, was his only huxury. Ile nlways truvelled with a supply of the liest tea, mal n jomble apparatiss for preparing it. On arriving it in town he wonld sit ha his carriage umid dine upon ten and liseult, but send his servait to the imn to get a 1577. DIFFICCETIES, Firmness amid. Einperor Chandius. An orgima: .. iter nddressed by Clmulins to the Semete mal people. ... "Conseript futhers," snys the emperor, "know that :320,001) Goths have invaded the lRomme erritory. If I vanquish them, your gratitude will reward my services. Should I fill, remember that I um the successor of Gallioms. The whole republic is fatigued and exhmasted. We shall fight ufter Valerinm, after Ingemuts, Regillianus, Lollinmas, Posthomus. Calsus, mud a thousand others. whom a just contempt for Gallienus provoked into reheilion. We ure in want of clarts, of spents, mad of shiedids. The strength of the empire, Gmal, and Spain are usurped hy Tetriens, mal we hash toneknowledge that the archers of the East serve miler the lnmores of Zenohin. Whatever we shatl perform will he sutlleciently areat." The melanclably tirmmess of this epistle monomees a hero careless of his fate, consicious of his danger, but still deriving a weil-grommed hope from the resomrces of bis own mind. [ $\Lambda$ great victory followed.]-G1bnon's Rome, ch.11.

1578. DIFFICULTIES, Mechanical, Cherles Goodyear. The ngent of that compuny, however, had but a sorry fale to tell Charles Gooklymr in 1833. He told him that the material hioi presented unexpected difficulties. Shoes mude in winter melted as soon is the summer came. When exposed to the cold, they grew as hard as stone; but a temperature of one hundred degrees wedued a case of shors to a mass of gum. And, what was worse, we rac conk tell of the wintermande stoose, whether they wohid stand the summer hemts or not. The compmay feared to mamufarture a large (funatity, since the first hot week is June would melt the product of eight months' habor, as readily usa single pair of shoes. In whort, the arent suid, molessa way could be discoveres of hardening or curing this singular suhstance, fuci that very som, the loxbmry Company would be obliged to wind upits affairs from the exhanstion, at once, of its patience and its capital. This catastrophe, in fact, soon after haperaed, to the ruin of a large number of the peophle of Massachasetts....'verorisemia of © 304., ]. $\cong 16$.

15\%9. DIFFICULTIES overcome, Tïm"u: [luvision of India.] Detween the Jihoon mad the Indus they crossed one of the ridgess of the thountains shic! are styled hy the Arabian feographersthe Stony Girdles of the earth. The highhand robbers were sublued or extirpited; bat great mumbers of men and horses perisied in the snow ; the emperor himself was let down a precipice on a portahle scanfold-the ropes were one hundred and tifty cubits in length; and before he could reach the lottom, this dangerous operation was five tianes repeated.-Gnbmos's Rome, ch. 65.
1580. $\qquad$ Nipuleos: $I$. [When crossing the Alps with his army] two skilful engineers had been sent to explore the palh, and to do whatever could be done in the removal of alstructions They retusned with an appalling ry cital of the appurently insurmountable difliculties of the why. "Is it posseibue," inquired Napoleon, "to cross the pass ?" " Perlaps," was the hesitating reply ; "it is within the limits of possibility." "horward, then," was the energetie response.-Anbottre Napoleeon B., vol. 1, ch. 19

15s1. DIFFICULTIES removed. Gordium Kinot. [When Alexnmder the Great took] Gordimm, which is said to have been the sent of the ancient Midas, he found the famous chatiot, fastened with cords, made of the bark of the cornel tree, and was informed of a tradition, firmly believed is mong the barbarians, that the Fates had decreed the empire of the world to the man who should untie the knot. Most historians say that it was twisted so namy private ways, and the ends so artfully concealed within, that Aleximder, finding he could not untie it, cut it asminder with his sword, and so made many ends instead of two.-Plutaher's Alexander.
1582. DIGNITARIES multiplied. Viginit Colong. On the 23d of May, 16igs, King James, without consulting the wishes of his Amerionn colonists, revoked their constitution, nud granted to the London company a new charter. . . The comecil was at once organized in accordance with thischarter, and the excellent Lord De Lai Ware chosen governor for life. With him were joined in authority Sir Thomas Gates, lieutenant general ; Sir George Somers, admiral; Christopher Newport, vice-admiral ; Sir Thomas Dale, high marshal ; Sir Ferdinand Wainman, master of horse ; and other dignitaries of similar sort . . . five linndred emigrants . . . sailed for America. [There were about seven hundred colonists in :ill.]-Ridpatios U. S., ch. 10, p. 105.
1.5N3. DIGNITY compromised. Theodora. [Wife of the Roman F:mperor Theophilus.] She deserved the love, hat did not escmpe the severity, of her lord. From the pahee garden he beheld a vessel decply hden, mad steering into tho port; on the discovery that the precions corgo of syrim haxury was the property of his wife. he combemmed the ship to the flames, with a sharp reproach, that her avorice had degraded the character of ab empress into that of a merehant. - Ghann's Rome., ch. 48.
153.t. DIGNITY, Cruel. Dejeres. The monnrehy of the Medes, the thirid of those which sprang from the ruins of the first $\Lambda$ ssyrian empire, appears to have begun later than the other twe; Dejoces, its tirst sovercign . . is reported to have built the city of Eebatian, and to have bestowed much pains in polishing and eivilizing his people; yet those haws which he is said to have enacted lireathed strongly the spirit of despotism. It was common to the Asiatic monarclas very rarely to show themselves to their suljecects. Dejoces is said to have carried the haughtiness of his deportment to un unusual heirht. It was death only to smile in his presence.-Tytuen's Hist., Book 1, ch. 11.
1585. DIGNITY exhibited. Aqmuel Jolinson. That superiority over his fellows, which ho maintanined with so much dignity in his march through iife, was not assumed from vanity and ostentation, but was the matural and constant effect of those extruordimary powers of mind, of which he could not but be conscious by comparison; ties : dlectunl difference, which, in other cases of parison of cherneters, is often $n$ matter on adecided eontest, being as clear in his case as the superiority of stature in some men above others. Johnson did not strut or stand on tiptoe; he only did not stoop.-Boswell's Jonisson, p. 7 .
1586. DIGNITY, Ludicrous. Rello. Rollo of Normandy took the oath of fealty to [Charles, the simple King of France, ] in the aceustomed form ; but on beng told that, in order to complete the eeremony, ic was necessary that he should kneel and kiss the monarel's foot, he started back, and disidiar. ${ }^{f}$ ully refused to comply. The point of ctiquette being insisted on, Kollo at length deputed one of his attendants to perform the duty in his stend. The rute soldier, either intentionally or from awkwardazo, lifted thr king's foot with so little circumspection, that Chanles feli backrard from his seat. His comrades conk! not repress a shont of langhter, which the French were in no condition to resent. - Students Funce, ch. 6, 客 10 .

158t. DIGNITY offended, Rorlolph. Lewis, Duke of Bavaria, named for emperor Inodolph of Imapsharg. It may be conceived that it shonld be somewhat humiliating to [Ottocarns II.] the King of Bohemia, who was one of the prondest prinees of his time, to Ind the muster of his houschold elevated to the rank of his sovereign, and as such entitled to exact homare from lis tominions of Bohemia When this demand was made by the hernds of the new emperor, [Ottocarus II.] indignantly replied, "Go tell your master that I owe him nothing, for I have paid him his wages.". . . Rodolph instantly deelared war against him, and in one campaign deprived him of Austria, Stiria, and Carniola. .

He now acmumed the king of Bohemin that his dignity as emperor positionly repliterel that he, the kiag, should perform hommge as his vassal. Ottocaris 1I. was ohliged to submit ; but he required, as a condition, that the homage shomba lee privatuly performed in the emperorstem, and before the oftheress of the empire alone. On the day apmonted, he repaired in his robes of state to the (amp) of the emperor, who chose on that ocrasion to be dothed in the phanest appared. When Ottorarus was on his knees incfore Rodolph, the curtains of the tent were dawn up, and the King of Bohemia was exhithited in that attitude to the whole imperial army. This provoked the king to the highest pitrif of indignation. Ite immediately renounced his allegiance, and dechared war against the empuror, in hopes of recovering bis dominions of Austria ; bat in his tirst battle he was defeated and slain.--Ty'tler's llist., Book 6, di. II.
1588. DIGNITY preserved. Porus. [AlexanAer invaded Intia and defeated Porms, tone of its princes.] The captive prince being brought into the presence of his conqueror, Alexander generonsly praised him for the courage and ability he had displayed, and concluded by asking him in what manner he wished and expected to be trentwl. "As a king," said Porns. Struck with the nagnanimity of this answer, Alexander dechared he should not le frustrated of his wishes; for from that moment he should regard him as a sovereign prince and think himself honored by his friendship and alliance. $\qquad$ IIe added to the kingrlom of Porns some of the adjoining provinces.-Tyther's Miser., Book 2, ch. 4.
1589. DIGNITX, Regard for. George itrashington. A. b. 1 \%76. [In July Lord Howe arrived at New York commissioned to paciticate the colonists.] The person with whom he mest wished to communicute was the American comnaander-in-ehief. On the second day after hisarrival he sent a white thag up the harbor, with a copy of his decharation enclosed in a letter addressed to Washington as a private man. But Washington reclined to rereive the communication. Lord flowe was grieved at the rebatf ; in the juderment oi Congress, Washington "acted with digaity becoming his station."-Bancrorers U . S., vol. 9 , ch. 1.
1590. - - Incullur. [Once when Lucullus was to] sup alone, and saw but one tabe and a very noderate provision, he called the servant who had the care of these matters, and expressed his dissatisfaction. The servant said he thought, as nobody was invited, his master would not want an expensive supper. "What," said he, "didst thou not know that this evening Lacullus sups with Lucullus?"-Pletarcios Leculdis.
1591. DILEMMA decideà. Marcia. Commodus fought as a common ghadiator in the circus, and his favorite epithet was that of the Roman Herciles, which is still to be seen upon his coins and meaals. His whole conduct was equally odious and contemptible, and the public measures of his reign consist of nothing but the detection of some conspiracies which the hatred of his subjects and his own cruelty and inhumanity could not fail to excite. One conspiracy, at lengti, delivered the empire of its tyrant. His concubine Marcin, his chamberlain, and the commander of his guard had ventured to remonstrate with him on the indecency of an emperor disphay fure himself as a eombutant in the public games. This was an offenee which could not bo forgiven, and he aceordingly determined their immediate destrurtion. Narria fomed the list of his intended victims writen in his own hand. She made laste to anticipate his purpose, and ransed this worthess and higlorions wretch to be strangled, in the thity-second year of his age and the thirtereth of his reign. - Tyruen's Hist., Book 5, ch. 2.
1592. DINNER, Bad. Stmurl Johmsom. At the inn whre we stopped he was exierdingly dissatistied with some roast mutton which he had tor dinner. The ladies, I saw, wondered to sere the great philosopher, whose widdom and wit they had been admiring all the way. get into'ilhmmor from suchat anse. He seolded the waiter, saying, "It is as land as band can be ; it is ill. fed, ill-killed, ill-kept, and ill-dressed."- Bo.s wela's Jonsson, p. 519.

15D3. DINNER, Waiting. Kamunl Johnrom. Onc of the company not leing come at the an pointed hour, I proposed, as nsual upon sucho: casions, to order dimer to be served, addiner, "Ought six people to be kept waiting for one :" "Why, yes," answered Johnson, with a delicate humanity, " if the one will sulfer mote ly your sitting down than the six will do by waiting."Boswell's Jounson, p. 163.

150n. DIPLOMACY, Effect of. Reign of Cherlos II. Sunderland was seceretary of State. In this man the political immorality of his age was per sonified in the most lively manner. Nature had given him a keen understanding, a restless and mischievous tromper, a cold heart, and mabjent spirit. His mind had madergone ntraining t y which all his vices had been nursed up to the rankest maturity. At his entrance into public: life he had passed several years in diphomatic posts abroad, and had been, during some time, minister in France. Every calling las its jeent inr temptations. There is no injustice in saying that diplonmtists, as a class, have alwaya been more distinguished by their address, ly the art with which they win the confidence of those with whom they have to dal, and by the case with which they eatel the tone of every socjety into which they are adnitted, than by generous enthusiasm or anstere rectitude; and the relations between Charles and Louis were such that no English nobleman could long reside in Franceas envoy and retain any patriotic or honorable sentiment. Sunderland came forth from the bad school in which he had been brought up, cunning, supple, shamaless, free from all prejudices, and destitute of all princijhes. - Macaclay's Eng., ch. . .
1595. DIPLOMACY, Expensive. Britixh. [In 1862] the ports of the Southern states were. so closely blockaded that war-vessels could no longer be sent abroad. In this emergerney the Confederates turned to the ship-yards of Great Britain, and from that vantage-ground began to build and equip their cruisers. In spite of the remonstrances of the United States, the British Government connived at this proceeding ; and here was laid the fomblation of a difficulty which afterward cost the treasury of England $$ 15,000$ 000. [The award of a court of arlitration for damages to Ameriean commerce.]-Radpatis's U. S., ch. 66, p. 5838.
1596. DIPLOMACY of Falsehood. Qucen Elizutbeth. Had Elizabeth written the story of her reigu she would inve prided herself, not on the trimph of England or the ruin of Spain, but on the skill with which she had hoodwinked nud out witted every statesman in Europe cluring fifty yeurs. Nothing is more revolting, but nothing is more characteristic, of the queen than her shmeless mendacity. It was an age of politiend lying ; but in the profusion nad recklessness of her lies Elizabeth stood withont a peer in Christer dom. A fulseliood was to her simply an intellectual mems of meeting a difliculty; and the ease with which she asserted or denied whatever suited he: parpose was only equalled by the cynical indiffereace with which sle men the exposure of her lies as soon as their purpose was answered. Her trickery, in fart, had its politieal value. Innoble and wearisome as the gueen's diplomacy scems to us now, tracking it as we do through in thousand despatches, it suceceded in its main cad, for it gained time, and every year that was gained donbled Elizabeth's strength, - Itstr. of Eng. Peorle, ş 716.
1597. DIPLOMACY. Game of. Comrealment. []n 1697 Boutlers, one of the marshals of France, anked his sovereign's permission to meet Portlent, the contidential friend and adviser of Willis.m IIt., at a point midway between the two arIr ius of Britain and France, for private conversation respecting the possibility of a peace. Louis consented, adding this suggestion, ] "Ife was to speak as little as possible, and to draw fiom l'orthand all he could."-Kinint's Exi., v.l. $\overline{5}$, ch. 13, p. 198.
1598. DIPLOMACY, Inscrutable, Bismarck. When he was ambassador at Frankfort . . he saw, with the clearness of an honest mind, all the humbug of what is called diplomacy. He gives a humorousaccount of the manner in wlich he and his fellow-diplomatists "worried themselves "with their important nothings." "Nobody," he wrote, "not even the most malicious sceptic of a Democrat, believes what quackery and self-importance there is in this diplomatizing.

I am making enormous progress in the art of saying mothing in a great many words. I write reports of many sheets, which rend as tersely and roundly as leading articles; and if the minister can say what there is in them, after he has read them, he can do more than I can."Cycloredia of Biog., p. 634.
1599. DIPLOMACY, Revengeful. French. The French king [Lonis XV.] wonk never have agread to the treaty of 1763 , hy which Canada whe ceded to Great Britain, had it not been with the hope of securing American independence. It was the theory of France that by giving up Canada on the north the English colonies would become so strong as to reounce theirallegianee to the Crown. Englan feared such a result. More than once it was ${ }^{5}$, posed in Parliament to re-cele Canada to Fran e in order to check the, growth of the Americun states. "There now," said a French statesman, when the treaty of 1763 was signed, "we have arranged matters for an Americun rebellion, in which Enghnd will lose her empire in the West."-Ridpatio's U. S., ch. 37. p. 286.
1600. DIPLOMACY, Trained to. John Quincy Aldme. The new President was inaugurated on tie 4th of Mareh, 182.). Ife was amm of the highest nttaimuents in literature and statesmmuship. At the nge of eleven years he accompanied his father, John Adams, to Europe. At Paris, at Amsterdam, and st. Petersharg the son continued his studies, and at the sume time berame "cefuanted with the manners and politics of the old world. The vast opportunities of his youth were improved to the fullest extent. In lis riper yenrs he served his country as ambassador to the Netherhuds, Portugal, Prussin, Russia, and England. Such were his abilities in the field of diplomney as to elicit from Washington the extraordinary praise of being the ablest minister of which America could bonst. His life from $1 \sim 94$ till $181 \%$ was devoted almost wholly to diplomatic services at various Europeun capitals. At that critical period, when the relations of the United States with foreign nations were as yet not well established, his genius secured the adoption of trenty after treaty, in which the interests of his country were guarded with patriotie vigilnnee. . . . To the Presidential chair he brought the wisdom of mature yenrs, great ex. perience, and unusual ability.-Ridpati's U. S., c'1. 53, p. 423 .
1601. DIRECTNESS commanded. Emperor of Russia. The railrond between St. Petersburg and Moscow was buitt by two American engineers named Winans and Wilson. They laid it out first as they would one in this country, so as to take in the principal places on the way, for the purpose of benefiting the people and increasing the traffic. But when the plan was shown the emperor he drew a straight line between the two cities, and said: "Lay out the road on that line," and they did so. Cuts and chasms and hills were of no account to the imperial will. This single aneedote illustrates the difference between a republic and a despotism. In the former a road is built to accommodate the people; in the latter to plense the monarch.-General Grant's Travels, p. 248.
1602. DISAPPOINTMENT, Bitter. Inrentois. In 1803 the first steamboat of Livingston and Fulton was built in France upon the Seine. When she was almost ready for the experimental trip a misfortune befell her which would have dampened the ardor of a man less determined that Fulton. Rising one morning after a sleepless night, a messenger from the boat, with horror and despair written upon his countenance, burst into his presence, exchaming: "O sir! the boat has broken in picces and gone to the bottom!" For a moment Fulton was utterly overwhelmed. Never in his whole life, he used to say, was he so near despairing as then. Instening to the river, he found, indeed, that the weight of the marhinery had broken the framework of the vessel, and she lay on the bottom of the river, in plain sight, a mass of timber and iron. Instantly, with his own hands, he begran the work of raising her, and kept at it, without food or rest, for twenty-four hours-an exertion which permanently injured his health. Ilis death in the prime of life was, in all probability, remotely caused by the excitement, eaposure, and toil of that terrible day and night. -Cycloredia of Biog., p. 156.
1603. DISAPPOINTMENT, Fatal. Oicero. When Cicero steod for the pretorship he had many competitors who were persons of distinetion, and yet he wis returned thrst. As a president in the courts of justice he acted with great integrity and honor. Licinius Macer, wholand great interest of his own, and wassupported, heside, with that of Crassis, was arcused before him of some defanlt with respect to money. II e had so much contidence in hivown ind henceand the activity of his friends, that when the jadges were going to deride the canse, it is said he went home, cut his hair, mad put on a white habit, us if he had ganed the vietory, and was about to return so equipped to the forum. But Crassus met hin in his court-yard, and told him that all the judges lad given a verdiet against him; which affeeted him in such a manner that he turned In again, took to his bed, and died.Plewtahen's Chero.
1601. DISAPPOINTMENT overruled. Georye Müller: [He land collected funds for building his large Orphan LIonse, and, as usual, he begun to pray for Providence to open the way for the purchine of a plot of ground.] After waiting upon him for thirteen weeks, he heard one morn:ng that a suitable piece of ground might be purchased on Ashley Down. At seven o'clock in the evening, therefore, of the same day he called upon the owner of the property, it merchant, who -he was told-would at that hour be at home; but not tinding bimat his own house, as was erpected, he proceeded-directed by the servantsto his counting-house, where, they said, he would be sure to meet with him. Upon arriving there, however, he was informed that the gentleman had just left his counting-house and had returned to his own residence. "Now," thought Mr. Müller, "shall 1 go again to him, or-as the hand of God surely is in this-shall I wait until tomorrow? but as I was told that he would certainly be found either at home or at his count-ing-house, and at both places I have failed to meet him, it may be better to wait until tomorrow." Accordingly, the next morning, at nine o'clock, he called upon the merchant, who said to him nt once: "I have heard about your visit, and of your desire to purchase land in order to build an Orphan House upon it. For three hours last night I lay awake, and during that time kept on thinking: If this gentleman comes again, I must sell the ground to him for £120 instend of $£ 200$ an acre; and now I am willing to let you have it at that price." This kind proposal was immediately accepted, and in less than ten minutes a contract was signed for the purchase of seven acres.-Life of George MülLER, P. 35.
1605. DISAPPOINTMENT, Trial by. Columbus. While Colmmbus, his pilot, and several of his experienced mariners were studying the map, and endeavoring to make out from it their aetual position, they heard a shout from the Pinta, and looking up, beheld Martin Alonzo Pinzon mounted on the stern of his vessel crying, " Land ! hand! Señor, I claim my reward!" He pointed at the same time to the sonth-west, where there was inaleed an appearance of land at about twenty-five leagues' distance. Upon this Columbus threw hiniself on his knees and returned thanks to God ; and Martin Alonzo repeated the Gloria in excel.
sis, fin which he was joined by his own erew and that of the mimiral. The senmen now monnted to. the masthend or climbed about the rigging, struining their eyes in the direction pointed. . . out. The morning light, however, pat an end to all their hopes, us to a dremm. The fancied land proved to le nothing hut nu evening cloud, and had vanished in the night.-Invina's Colummes, look 3, ch. 4.
1606. DISAPPOINTMENT with Victory. Richard $I$. [Richard the Lion-lomited. Third Crusade. $]$ The English monurch went on from victory to vietory. The most remarkable of his luttles was that hear to Ascalon, where he engaged and defented Saladin [King of derusalem], the most renowned of the Surncen monarehs, and left 40,000 of the enemy dend on the tleld. Asealon surrendered, as did severnal other citios, to the victorions lichard, who now prepured for the siego of Jerusalem [the capture of which was the object of this great enterprise]; lut at the most important crisis, which if fortumate-ns everything secmed to promise-would have terminated the - xper lition in the most glorious manacr, the King of England, on a review of his army, found then so wasted with famine, with fatigue, and even with victory, that with the utmost mortitication of heart he was obliged to entirely adandon the caterprise. The war was finished by a truce with Sahdin.-Tytlerr's list., Book b, ch. 8.
1607. DISAPPOINTMENTS in Life. Fomtain of Youth. Many Spaniards were killed; the survivors were forced to hurry to their ships; Poncede Leon himself, mortally wounded by an arrow, returned to Cuba to die. So ended the ulventurer who had coveted immense wealth, and had hoped for perpetual youth.-BANchoft's litist. of U. S., ch. 2.
1608. DISASTER concealed. General Nash of North Carolina. [At the battle of Germantown] a round shot from the British artillery . . . passing throngh his horse shattered the general's thigh on the opposite side. The fall of the animal hurled its unfortunate rider with considerable force to the ground. With surpassing courage and presence of mind General Nash, covering his wound with both hunds, gayly called to hismen, "Never mind me; I've had a devil of a tumble; rush on, my boys-rush on the enemy ; I'll he after you presently." [In a few days he died.]-Cestis' Wasinington, vol. 1, ch. 4.
1609. DIsAster, Energy by. Romans. [At the lattie of Came, with Hamibal and his Carthaginians, ] the Roman army was entirely cut to pieces. Forty thousand were left dend on the field . . . ahmost the whole body of the Roman knights. $\qquad$ The Romans, amid the consternation of so great disaster, displayed a magnanimity truly heroie. The Semate, on the firsi report of the fate of their army, ordered the gates of the city to he slant, lest the exagrerated intelligence of those who fled from the fight should add to the general aharm. The women were forbidden to stir out of their houses, lest their eries and lamentations should dispirit those who had their country to defend; ani the semators exerted themselves in every quarter to dispel the fears of the people. Varro, from the wreck of the army, was able to collect 10,000 men; with these he repaired to Rome to defend the eity, in case Hannibal, as was expected, should immediately attack it. This monare was undoubtedly his wisest policy, and he was strongly urged to it hy Maherbal, one of hisablest ottlerers. It appenred, however, to thaminal a donbtfal enterprise ; und while he deliberated the opportmity was lost. Virro, whose temerity was the couse of this grent disaster, on appronching liome with the shattered remans of the amy, whom he land with much pains collected, was met by the scrante, and received their solemn thanks, becatise he had mot chaspaired of the republic. The effect of this spirited conduct was wonderful. The ritizens thronged to carry their money to the public treasury. All ahove the nge of seventeen, of whatever rank, enrolled themselves, and formed an army of four legions and 10,000 horse. Eight thousand of the slaves voluntarily offered their services, and with the consent of their masters were embodied and armed. [A.D. 214 . ILannilan failed in his enterprise.]-TxTheres Hist., Book 3, ch. 9.
1610. DISCHARGE, An honored. Rrign of Charles II. Halifax . . openly aceused Rochester of mulversition. An inquiry took place. It nppeared that $£ 40,000$ had been lost to the purblic by the mismanargement of the first lord of the treasury. In consequence of this discovery, he was not only forced to relinguish his hopes of the white stiff, but was removed from the direction of the fimuses to the more dignified but less luerative and important post of Lord-President. " I have seen people kicked down-stairs before," said Halifax, " but my Lord Rochester is the tirst person that I ever saw kicked up-stairs." Macallay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 259.
1611. DISCIPLESHIP, Honor of. Constentine. The bishops whom he summoned, in his last illness, to the palace of Nicomedia, were ellified by the fervor with which he requested and received the sacrament of baptism, by the solemm protestation that the remainder of his life should he worthy of a disciple of Christ, and by his humble refusal to wear the imperial purple after he had been clothed in the white garment of a ne-ophyte.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 20, p. 2.3.
1612. DISCIPLINARIAN, Valued. Baron Stelben. Baron Stenben, a veteran soldier and discijolinari'an from the army of Frederick the Great - . repaired to York, where Congress was in session. From that body he received a commission, and at once joined Washington at Valley Forge. IIs accession to the American army was an event of great importance. He received the appointment of Inspector-General, and from the day in which he entered upon the discharge of his duties there was a marked improvement in the condition and diseipline of the soldiers. The American regulars were never again beaten when confronted by the British in equal numbers.Ridpatir's U. S., ch. 41, p. 328.
1613. DISCIPLINE, Failure of. Ifomans. [P(erennis, a servile and ambitious minister, was obnoxious to the army. Reign of Commodus.] The legions of Britain, discontented with the administration of Perennis, formed a deputation of 1506 select men, with instructions to march to Rome, and lay their complaints before the emperor. These military petitioners, by their own determined behavior, by inflaming the divisions of the guards, by exaggerating the streagth of the British army, and ly ularming the fears of Commodas, exacted and obtained the minister's denth, us the only redress ol thrir grievances. This presmuption of a distant army, and their discovery of the wenkness of government, was a sure presuge of the most dreadful convalsions. -Ghans's Rosme, chi. 4, p. 107.

1614. $\qquad$ Constantine's Army. The most flourishing cities were oppressed by the intoherable weight of quarters. The soldiers insensibly forgot the virtues of their profession, und contracted only the viers of civil life. They were cither legraded ly the industry of mechanie trades or enervated by the luxury of haths and thentres. They soon became earelass of their martial exercises, curious in their diet and apparel : and while they inspired terror to the sul)jects of the empire, they trombled at the hastile appronel of the barharimes.-Ghmos's Rome, ch. 17, p. 127.
1615. DISCIPLINE, Impossible. Reign of Charles II. [The Earl of Mulgrave, not three months atfont,] was appointed captain of a ship, of eighty-four guns, reputed the finest in the navy... The same interest [avarice] which had placed him in a post for which he was unfit matintained him there. No admiral, bearded by these corrupt and dissolute minions of the palace, dared to do more than mutter something abont a court-martinl. If any offlecer showed a higher sonse of duty than his fellows, he soon found that he lost moncy without acquiring honor. One captain, who, ly strictly obeying the orders of the Admirnly, missed a cargo [offered for safe conveyance on bourd a man-of-war] which would linve been worth $£ 4000$ to him, was told hy Charles [II.], with ignoble levity, that he was a great fool for his puins.-Ma callay's Enc., ell. 3, p. 282.
1616. DISCIPLINE, Military. Belisir rills. [The Roman general] was endenred to the hushandmen by the peace and plenty which they enjoyed under the shadow of his standard. Instead of being injured, the country wasenriched by the march of the Roman armies; and such was the rigid discipline of their camp, that not [a complaint was made against the presence of his army].-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 41, p. 183.
1617. $\qquad$ - Roman. [Roman Emperor Aurelian.] Itis military regulations arc contained in a very concise epistle to one of his inferior ofticers. who is commanded to enforce them, as he wishes to become a tribune or as he is desirous to live. Gaming, drinking, and the arts of divination were scverely prohibited. Aurelian expected that lis soldiers should be modest, frugal, and laborious; that their armor should be constantly kept bright, their weapons sharp, their clothing and horses ready for immediate service ; that they should live in their quarters with chastity and sobricty, without damaging the corntields, without stealing even a sheep, a fowl, or a bunch of grapes, without exacting from their landlords either salt, or oil, or wood. "The public allowance," continues the emperer, " is sufficient for their support; their wealth should be collected from the spoils of the enemy, not from the tears of the provincials."-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 11, p. 340.
1618. DIsCIPLINE resonted. Athalaric. [The young Emperor of Rome.] On a solemn festival.
when the Goths were ussembled in the palace of lavenma, the royn youth esemped from his mother's apmertment, mad, with tents of pride and unrer, complained of a blow which his stablorn allsohediene had provoked her to lntlict. 'I'lu birbmrians resented the indignity which had beron offared to their kinar: aceused the rearent of ron spiring tgainst his life and erown ; and lonperi orisly demanmed that the grandson ol 'Therodorie shonid be rescered from the dastardly diseiplime of women mud perdants, and colueated, like a valiant Goth, iu the society of his erpuals and the glorious ignormere of his ancestors. . . . The Kingr of laty wasabandoned no wince, to women, und to rastic sports. . . . At the nge of sixteren was consumed by promature intenjeranore, -

1619. DISCIPLINE, Severe, Romam. [In the Romnan army it] was impossible for cowardieo or disoberdience to esape the severest punishment. 'J'he eenturions were unthorized to ehastise with blows, the quarals hard th right to punisla with death; mad it wats an intlexible maxim of $\}$ Roman diseipline, that a good soldier shonded chead his oflicers far more than the enomy. . .
The valor of the Imperial troops received uilegree of firmmess and docility umattianable by the impetaons and aregian jassions of barbariams. Gimmon's lomis, eh. 1, p. 13.
1620. ——. IIenry Ir I. [The boy Itenry (IIenry VI.), in necordnnee with the will of his dying futher, was phaed under the futelage of the Earl of Warwick.] The system of education . . . pursued might not have been the best fitted for a sensitive boy. The tutor upplied to the commeil for powers, which were granted, to hold the pupil under the sterictest discipline, even atiter he hand been crowned king in 1429 [Henry lieing nine years old]. He was not to be spoken to maless in the presence of Warwick nad of the four knights appointed to be about his person, "as the king, by the speech of others private, lus been stirred from his learning, und spoken to of divers matters not behooveful.," The council promised that they would firmly assist the eurl in chastising the king for his definults. Knigirt's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 5, p. 79.
1621. Crommell. An interesting incident illustrates Cronwwell's striet severity in exacting compliance from his own urmy, with its articles. When information was laid before lim by the ranquished that they had been plandered by some of his soldlers on lenving the city, contrary to the terms granted to them, he ordered the offenders to he tried by a court-martial, at which they were sentenced to death. Whereulion lie ordered the unfortunate men, who were six in number, to east lots for the first sufferer ; and after his execution sent the remmining tive, with a suituble explanation, to Sir Thomus Glenham, Governor of Oxford, requesting him to deal with them as he thonght fit ; a picce of conduct which so charmed the Royalist ofticer, that he immediateiy returned the men to Cromwell, with a grateful compliment, and expression of much respect.-LIOOD's Cronwell, ch. 10, p. 139 .
1622. DISCIPLINE, Value of, The Arii, In the Lygian nation the Arii held the first rank loy their numbers and fierceness. "The Arii"
(it ls thas that they are deseribed by the energy of Tucitus) "stady to improve by urt ume citcumstances the finnate terrors of their lurbarlan. Their shiedds are black, their bodies are puinted black. They choose for the combat the charkest lour of the night. Thelr host mbances, covered as it were with a faneral shade: nor do they often tind an encony eapable of sustaining so strange mad inlemal an aspect. Of all our samses, the eges are the first vabuaished in battle." Yet the arms fand discipline of the Romans casily dineomitited these horrid phantoms.-Gnmones RoMe, (h. 1', 1). 380.

162:3. DISCIPLINE, Want of, Military. [Julian, who bought the ofllee of Eimperor ol IRome ut anction, was emdangered by the nppronch ol Severus with his logions. Fear mal shame prevented the gimeds from desering his stundard; but they trembled at the mame of the lannonian legions, commanded by mexperieneed gemeral, hand acenstomed to vanguish the barbarians on the frozen lomulte. They puitied with usigh the plensures of the buthes and themitres, to jut on arms, whose use they had nlmost forgotten, und bementh the weight of which they were oppressed. The unprietiserl elephants, whose meonth uppenrance, it was hoped, would strike terror into the army of the north, threw thelr unskilful riders ; and the awkward evolutions of the marines, clrnwn from the fleet of Misenum, were an oljeet of ridieule to the populace; while the Semate enjoyed, with secret plensure, the distress and weakness of the usurper.-Gimion's Rome, ch. 5, p. 136.
1624. DISCORD, Dangers of. At Mrreianapolis. Lupicinus [the military governor of Thrnce] had invited the Gothic chie's to a splendid entertainment ; and their martial tmin remained under arms it the entrance of the palace. But the grates of the eity were strictly gumaled, and the barbarians were sternly excluded from the use of a plentiful market, to whleh they assorted their equad elaim of suljeets and allies. Their lumble prayers were rejceted with insolence and derision ; and as their patience was now exhansted, the townsmen, the soldlers, and the Goths were soon involved in a contlict of passionate al. tercation und angry reproaches. $\Lambda$ blow way imprudently given; a sword was hastlly drawn; and the first blood that was spilt in this aceidental quarrel becane the signal of a long and dest ruetive war. In the midst of noise and brutal intemperance Lupicinus was informed, by a secret messenger, that many of his soldiers were slain and despoiled of their arms ; and as ho was already intlamed by wine und oppressed by sleep, he issued a rash command, that their death should be revenged by the massucre of the guards of Fritigern and Alavivas. [The Romans were defeated, and the Goths became independent citizens of the empire.]-Ginbon's Rome, eh. 26. p. 36.
1625. DISCORD, Perverted by. Crusaters. [About 200,000 crusuders joined the second attempt to reseue the lloly Sepulchre in A.D. 1146.] The Turks cut them entirely to pieces, and Hugh, their leader, died helpless and abandoned in Asia. The situation of Jerusulem at this time was extremely weak ; the numbers of the garrison were greatly reduced. Even the monks, who were at first instituted to serve the sick and wounded, were obliged to arin in the common defence, and they nssocinted themselves into a military socicty called 'Temphars and llospitallers. This was the origin of these two orders of kuights, who ufterwurd sigmalized themselves by their exploits, and beroming rivals, fought aifriant cuele other with as murh kerenness as crer they had done urainst the intidels.-Ty'ribu's IIst., l3ook 6, (h. 9, 1. 158.

162B. DISCORD, Shameful. Limproms. [(inrnealla ind Greta, the sons of servius, were both chosen by the army to surered their decensed father. $]$ Such a divided form of governmont would have proved a somree of discord betwern the most atfartionute brothers. It was impossible that it eould long subsist betwentwo implamble ememies, who meither desired nor could trust a reesoncilintion. It was visible that one only conld reign, and that the other mast fall ; and encol of them, judging of his rival's designs by his own, gumbled his life with the most jealons vigilaree from the reporated attacks of poison or the sworl. Their rapid jomrnoy thromgh Ganl und laly, during which they never nte at the same table or slept in the same house, displayed to the provinces the odious sperctacle of fratermal discord. On their arrival nt Jome they immediately divided the vast extent of the imperial palaee. No communieation was nblowed hetween their apartments; the doors amd passages were diligently fortifled, und gumrds posted and relieved with the same strictness as in a hosieged phace. The emperors met only in publie, in the presence of their aftlicted mother, und eatrh surrounded by a numerous train of armed followers. Even on these ocensions of ceremony the dissimulation of eourts could ill disguise the rancor of their heurts.-Gibbon's lRome, (li. 6, 1. 155.

162\%. DISCOURAGEMENT difficult. P'ilgrima' Petition to the Iondon Company. "We mre wrll weaned," ndded Robinson nind Brewster. "from the delicate milk of our mother country, mind inured to the diftheulties of a strange land; the people are industrious and frugral. We nre knit together us a body in a most sacred covenant of the Lord, of the violation whereof we make great ronscience, and by virtue whereof we hold ourselves straitly tied to nll eare of each other's good, and of the whole. It is not with us us with men whom small things can discour-age."-Baneroft's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 8.
1628. DISCOURAGEMENT, Discontent of. B $\rho$ siegement of New York. A.1. 1776. 1lowe anl forty-five ships, or more, halen with troops, hat arrived off Sandy lIook, and the whole theet [was] expected in a day or two. . . . [Washington wrote to Congress:] I am hopefal. Reed, the new adjutant-general, quailed before the inequality of the British and A meriean force, and thus in private described the state of the American camp: "With an army of force before and a secret one behind, we stand on a point of lind with 6000 old troops-if a year's service of about half can entitle them to the name-nnd about 1500 new levies of this [New York] province, many disaffected and more doubtful; every man, from the general to the private, acquainted with our true situation is exceedingly discouraged; had I known the true posture of affairs, no consideration would have tempted me to have taken an active part in this scene; and this sentiment is unlversal."-I3anChoft's U. S., vol. 8, eli. 69.
1629. DISCOURAGEMENT, Superlor to. Simuel Jdems. Dilllenaties comblat riseourage his decision, nor danger mpall his fortitude. . . Of despondency he knew nothing ; trials only nerved him for superior struggles ; his sulblimo and unfaltering hope had a cast of solemnity, and was ns much a part of his nature as if his conflilence sprung from insight into the divine decrees, und was as firm ns a sincere C'alvinist's
 Vol. 5. Hl. 10.

16B3. DISCOURAGEMENTS, Ministerial. Michomit. One eveningr, after passing all the day in the city engraged in prenching to denf ears the conviotions which he was so full of, und whitela ho deemed it duty to cast abrond at any hazard, avan on the rock, he returncal lome withont linving mot, suid lie, a single beingr, man or womani, free or slave, who had not tlonted him us un impostor, or who had bern willing to puy "moment's uttention to his preathing. - Lamall'IINE'S T'UHKEY, ]. 79.
16331. DISCOVERIES, Accumulative. Istoco Nearton. With his noble morlesty, he said : "lf 1 have seen farther than I escartes it is by standing on the shoulders of ginnts." In a corporent sanse he was seated in his mother's orehard, but it was from the height which Coperniens and Galifeo lad brought the science of astronomy that he contemplated the full of the apples. The grand mystery that remained to be elacidnted was, What is the force that retains the planets and moons in their spheres? Why does not the moon tly ofl into spuce ?-Cycloremba of Brog., 1). 25.
1682. DISCOVERY, Age of. Age of Galileo. The ure of Kepler and Galileo was the era of ereat discoveries in the arts and sciences. The invention of the telescope gave rise to a thousand experiments by means of glasses; and the science of opties received great improvements. The new discoveries in astronomy led to improvements in navigation; and geometry, of rourse, made rapid advances toward perfection. The science of nigelora, which Europe is snid to have owed to the Arabians, as well as the mmerul ciphers, contributed greatly to abridge the lubor of calcuhtion, as did still more the invention of lognrithms, diseovered in the yar 1614, by Nipier of Merchiston. The improvement of mechanies kept puce with the udvancement of geometry ; und the science of naturnd philosophy was successfally cultivated in all its branches. The Torricellian experiment, mude nbont the year 1640 , letermined the height of the atmosphere. Experiments upon the oscillations of pendilums, which were found nlways to preserve an efual time, though the spaces deseribed were mequal, suggested the iden of applying the pendulum to regulnte the motions of a clock; und the observation that adding to its weight adds nothing to the celerity of its motion led to the conclusion that the velocity with which a body gravitutes to the centre is not in proportion to its wright. Galileo had discovered the laws which determine this velocity. The ardor of prosecuting discoveries exteniled itself through the whole of the sciences. In the year 1616 I)r. Harvey made the great discovery of the etrculation of the blood.-Tytien's Ilist., Book 6, ch. 30.
1633. DISCOVERY, Ambltion for. Priuce Ifenry. Prince llenry, theson of John, King of Portugal, was a young man of great talents, possessed of that ardor which is itted to putronize and promote every benetleial design, mad that enthasinsm which the daugers and dimenlties of an enterprise mather inthane than relax. Struck with the stucerss of this thrst attempt of his comatrymen, he embavored to enguge in his service all who were eminent for their skill in anvigation, boil P'orthguese and foreigners. His trst effort, however, wats with a single ship, which was despatched with instructions to atttempt, if possible, the donbling of Cape Boyndor. The mariners, as usual, were afraid to quit the coasts, and consequently ancountered numberless dithleulties. A spluall of wind, however, driving them out to sea, landed them on a smadl ishand to the north of Madeim, which they mamed Porto Santo; thence they returned to Portugal to give an account of their diseovery. Three ships were fitted out by l'rince Henry the subsequent year, which, passing Porto Sinto, diseovered the ishand which they denominated Maleim, from its being rocered rith wooth. Here they flxed a small colony, and planted slips of the Cyprus vane, and of the sugur-cune from Sicily, for both which productions the island was remurkably favoruble. I have formerly observed that it was from this ishand that the sugur-cume was transplanted to the West ladies, of which it is not $n$ native.-TyTlen's IIst., Book 6, ch. 18 .
163.4. DISCOVERY, Heart-breaking. Henry II. His two sons, Geoffrey anl Richural, jobned Philip, King of Frmec, in the invasion and plundering of their father's continental dominions. IIe agreed to a treaty with mortifying conces. sions. IIe agreel]. . to give a free pardon to all his rebellious lords and vassals. $\Lambda$ list was presented to him of their names, among whom he saw that of his son Johm, his fuvorite child, whom he had till that moment believed faithful to his dut:- The unhappy father broke out in ex. pressions of the utmost despair ; cursed the day on which he had reecived his miserable treing, and bestowed on his ungrateful chikeren a mulediction, which he could never be prevailed on to retract ; a lingering fever, enused by a broken heirt, soon after terminated his life. Richard, it is said, came to view the body of his father, and, struck with remorse, accused himself in the deepest terms with having contributed by his unnatural conduct to bring his parent to the grave. Thus died Henry, in the fifty-eighth year of his age, an ormment to the English throne and a monarch surpassing ull his contemporaries in the valuable qualities of a sovereign. -TyTler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 8.
1635. DIsCOVERY, A simple. Charles Goodyear. In the fifth year of his investigations a glorious success rewarded him. He made one of the simplest and yet one of the most useful discoveries which has ever beer, made in the United States. It was this: take a piece of common, sticky indin rubber, sprinkle upon it powdered sulphur, put it into an oven heated to two hundred and seventy-five degrees, bake it a short time, and it comes out a new material, which has all the good properties of india rubber, without that liability 10 harden in cold wenther and dissolve in warm, which lad hitherto batled all his endenvors to turn it to usefui necount, $\mathrm{B}^{\text {by }}$ varying the proportions of hent he could make it as soft or as hamd as he plensed.-Cyclomeden of 13wo., p. 918.
1636. DIscovery unappreclated. Fotat". [Colmmbus mad his men were semrehing for gold and spices in the West Indies. I lin the course of their researehes in the vegetable kingdom, in guest of the luxuries of commerre. they met with the potato, a humble root, little valued ut the time, but a more predond acenisition to man than all the spices of the lasis. Invina's Colcmave, Book 4, ch. 4.

1637. DISCRETION better than Valor. '/irtics

 F. LWhen the English invaled France in 13:3] Charles strietly charged his gemerals to adhere to the phan of cmationd defensive warfare, and never to necept 1 great butle. "Let the storm rage," said he; "retire before it ; it will soon exhanst itself." [such was the remult.]Stionents Flance, di. 10, 17.163\%. DISEASE, Destructive. Army. Among the cities which the lnarmarians ruined, Gemon, bot yet constructed of marble, is particularly commerated ; and the denths of thomsumb, necording to the regular proctice of war, appear to have excited less horror than seme idolatrons sacritices of women and children, which were performed with impunity in the cmmp, of the most Christian king. If it were not a melancholy truth, that the first mod most eruel sufferings must be the lot of the innocent and helpless, history might exult in the misery of the conguerors, who, in the midst of riches, were left destitute of bread or wine, rednced to drink the waters of the Po, and to feed on the flesh of distempered cattle. The dysentery sweph away one third of their army.-Ghabov's Rome, ch. 41, p. $1 \pi \%$.
1639. DISEASE, "Literary." Leigh IVunt. [He aided his brother in conducting a London paper.] In the midst of his labors he fell into ill-heath and melumeholy; pulpitations, hypochondria, dyspepsia-in other words, the "iliterary disense", had attucked him. He recovered by ceasing his occupation for a time and taking exercise.-Smhes' Buef Bhoghaphes. p. 305.
1640. disease, Peculiarities of. Nir Hirlter Soott. Twelve hays before the final faturewhich was monomed to him on the 1ith of Jamury, 1426-he enters in his diary: "Muela nlarmed. I had walked till twelve with skene and Russell, and then sat down to my work. To my horror and surprise I could neither write nor spell, but put down one word for another, and wrote nonsense. I was much overpowered at the sume time, and could not conceive the rean son. I fell asieep, however, in my chair, and slept for two hours. On my wuking my head was clearer, and I hegan to recollect that last night I had taken the anodyne left for the purpose by Clarkson, and being disturbed in the course of the night, I had not slept it off." In fact, the hyoseymus had, combined with his anxieties, given lim a slight attack of what is now called aphasia, that brain disease the most striking symptom of which is that one word is mistaken for another.-Hutron's Scotr, ch. 15.
14.1. DISEASE, Preventable. Cromirell. $\mathbf{A}$ slow intermitient fiever weizel hime. Westrug. ghod with the thist utherk wo sucerssfully, thit How one uhout him maspected lie was meriously III. The fiver berame tertian and more abinte; his strength was rupidly giving wiy. The phyNicinns simmoned from Lombon ntrihnted lhe disconse to the bud air engendered ly the mamay and ill-drained banks of the 'Thimes, whid joined the mardens of llampon ('omat, Ile was hiromght back to Whitchall, as if Providenore had derereed that he should die before the same win. dow of the same palace, in front of which he had orilered to beconstriacted, ten veme before, the sembloh ol his royal viction ['harlos 1.]-

14.2. DISEASE, Protection from. (hin tit
 ad population [ol" C'anadians and ludians]; the Indians, with cistmanght reremonies, starithered forty doges to ajpertse their maniton ; and when they berme tonpprehermi that the manitom of the Frenth was more powarial than their own, the medidine men wonld walk romed the fort in rircles, crving ont, "Wo ture dead; gently, manitun of the Fremeh, strike gently, do not kill as all. Goos manitom, mastor of life mod death, leave death within thy colfer ; sivalife." .. . The dradfal mortality broke wp the set-thement.-B.avemort's L. S., vol. 3, ch. 刃l.
16.13. DISEASE in Religion. Muhomett IIc alfecteal a solitury life; bestowed atront deal in charity: relired at times to the desert, and pretended that he hedd conferences with the angel Gabrich. The epilepsy, th disease to which he was subject, was, he pretemded, a divine es:stasy, or rapture, in which he was ndmitted to the contemplation of Paradise. Ile made lis wife in accomplice in the cheat, und she published his visions nud revelries to all the noighborhood. In a short time the whole rity of Meecan tillied of nothing hut hahomet.-Trertek's llist., l3ook 6, ch. 1.
1614. DISEASE, Survival of. sil Wulter Scott. In the seeond year of Seott's apprenticeship, at about the age of slxtern, he had an attack of hemorrhage, no recurrence of which took place for some forty yenrs, but whieh was then the beginning of the end. During this illness silene was absolutely imposed upon him -two old halies putting their fingers on their lips whenever he offered to speak.-Hu'rion's Life of Sir Waltele Scott, ch. D.
16.15. DISGRACE, Humiliating. Gcneral Lep. At Mommouth [N. J.] . . . the British were overuncon. . . . General Lee was ordered to attack Lne cnemy. The tirst onset was made by the American cavilry, under Infayette, but they were driven batck by Cornwallis amd Clinton. Lee, who hat opposed the battle, and was not unxions for vietory, ordered his line to fall buck to $u$ stronger position; but the troops mistook the order, and began a retreal, the British charging after them. Washington met the fugitives, rallied them, administered a severe rebuke to Lee, and ordered him to the rear. [The Americanssucceeded, and the British withilrew in the wight.]-Rıdpatis's U. S., ch. 41, 1. 331.

164f. DISGRACE, Insupportable. Clotilda. [Clotilda was one of the early tuerons of Framee.]

Hy a base arlithe ('hildelort and Clotaire decoyof their nophewsinto their power, and thensent " uessugere to Clothla whith a puir of selssors und n maked sword, bidding her ilecide whether the rosial youths shondel be shaven, amb thas murle imenpable of reigning, or be put to theath ontright. Therenern, hlmost lesside herself with herron, exchamed that she wombl mather see them deme thun degradoil. Clotaire, on receiving this reply, murdered the two eleder prinees wiln his own hand.-Srements' Fusicte, ch. 4, A $10,11.41$.

14i.17. DIsGRACE, Punishment by. II Itnmuth: ('rimimals were still exerolted by beheraling, amb, not infrefuently, by lireaking on tho wherel. l'etty thefts were phitisherl by inserting the hemd of the thicf in the herme of a harmel, so that the burvel covered him like a rloak, and in this costume lie was murehed about the streets, attended by a guad. No pemity, he says, was so much ilrombel liy petty erimimals us this. [Time of , John Howard.] - C'voopebis of Buмi., 18. (it.
14.4. DISGRACE, Unmerited. C'm/umbur. No sooner did Sohalila hear of his urrival than he gave ordars to put him in irons amd contlae hima in the fortress. This outruge to a person of such dignitied und venerable appenrance und sum eminent morit sermed for the time to shork even his enemies. When the irons were hrought, cury one present shiank from the task of putiing them on him, either from usentiment of compassion at so great a reverse of fortune, or out of habitual reverence for his person. Tofill the measure of ingratitude meted ont to him, it wis one of his own domestics," "t graceless and shimeless cook." . . Mr, with his brothers, was put in irons umi contined on board of a caravel. They were kept sepmrate from each other, und no eommanicntion permitted between them. Bobndilla did not see them hinnself, nor nid le allow others to visit them, but kept them in fgnorance of the canse of their imprisomment, the crimes with which they were charged, and the process that was going on against them. [Bohadilla exceeded his authority. Columbus was for a time a vietion to false representations.]-Invina's Columbus, Book 13 , ch. 4.
1619. DISGUISE betrayed. Ex-Queen Mury. [In 1568 Mury, ex-pueen of Scots, made her esscape from raptivity at Lochleven, in-the disguise of a hanndress.] Mary ladi put on the hood of her handress, and had covered her fuce with a muther or veil ; and so, with a bumile of clothes, she entered a boat that was about to cross the loch. After some spice one of them that rowed said merrily, " Let us see what manner of dame this is," num thereevith offered to pull down her muffler, which to defend she put ul her hands, which they espied to be very fuir and white. [The bontmen earried her batck to the castle.]-KNiUHT's Eva., vol. 3, ch. 10, p. 154.
1650. DISGUISE, Clerical. Buny, It may be doubted whether any English Đissenter ham suffered more severely under the penal laws than John Bunyan. Of the twenty-seven years which had elapsed since the Restorition, he hud passed twelve in confinement. Ite still persisted in preaching ; but, that he might prench, he was under the necessity of disgnising himself like a carter. He was often introduced into meetings through back dowrs, with an snork frock on hils back and a whip lin hin hmud.-Macsidiay' Lixa., cll. 7, p. 210 .
1451. DISGUISE, Dangeroun. Lantrchimp. [Willinu de Lenkellomp, the extorthomate chanadther of Richurd I., nttempted to esscinue the popular fury at Dover. | He was hame, and walkad down from the heightits of the custle to the bench, dixgrised fo a woman's green gown of inconvenient lengh, having mome brown rloth in his humb, at if for sale, amb currying a mensuring rod. He sits mpon n rock on the shore, and it theluerninn is rude to the supposed huly: $\Lambda$ weman comes up mid asks the price of matio of cloth, to which the umhaply chuncellor (ming give no nuswer, for he understands not a word of English. Other women gather ubout him, und having pulled off his hovel, belleld a swarthy mun recently shaves. He is then rablobed mail dragged throngh the town, the men and women arying, "Come, tet us stone this monster ; he is a dingrace to either sex."-K Nits res Eisa, vol. 1, ch. 22, p. 310.
1652. DISGUISE deteoted. C'uxlius Puldher. He was bohd, clever, miprinclpled, nual unscrupulous, with a slender, diminulve figure, and a delicate woman's face. Ills mme was Cloxilus Putcher. Cicero played ujon ht, and culled him Putchellus Puer, "the pretty bry." Between this promising young man and Cressr's wife Pompein there had sprumg up an aciquintance, which Clodins was mxious to press to further extremes. Pompein wis diffleult of necess, her mother-in-luw Aurelia keeping a striet watch over her ; mud Clotins, who wis nfrail of nothing, took advintage of the Boma Den festival to hake hils way into Cresur's house dressed ns a woman. Unfortunately for him, his disguise was detected. The insulted Vestals und the other ladies who were present tlew upon lim like the dogs of Acteon, tore his berrowed garments from him, find drove him into the street naked und wounded. [See resuit nt No. 1942.]Froude's Casar, ch. 12. p. 24.
1653. DISGUISE, Difficult. Charlus $I$. Sumetimes the [fugitive] king was "Will Jomes," : woodman; then lie wat clanged into "Will Jackson," a groom, clad in gray cloth. Oure hee hail to tuke Jaue Lane's horse to a smitly ; it hat cast a shoe, and the smith begm wailing the non-cupture of [King] Charles Sturt [now brfore him in disguise $\}$; and the king chimed in that if that rogue conld only be taken, he deserveal langing more than all the rest, for tringing in the scots. Once, close to Stratforl, "Will Jackson," in pursuance of his disguise, was sent into the kithen, where the cork-main, who was providing supper, desired him to wiml up the jack; he was olvedient, but he dits not to it in the right wny, which leti the maid with some passion tonsk, " What countryman are you, that you know not how to wimd nip a jack ?" "Will "Jackson" appearsto have nuswered very satisfictorily: "I mm n poor tenant's son of Colonel Lane, in Staffordshire ; we seldom have ronst meat, amb when we lave, we don't make use of a jack," und so the unaid's anger was uppeased. -Hood's Cromwell, ch. 13, p. 172.
1654. DIsGUISE, Saccessfal. Majorian. [The Emperor Majorian possessed a courage which exceeded his prudence.] Anxious to explore, whith his own "yes, the state of the Viandals, he ventured, after ilisgulsing the color of hifs limir, 4) visit Carthage, in the character of his own aumbussablor ; nud Genserir was afterward mortifled ly the discovery that he hat entertained and dismissed the emperom of the Rommens. Such nul nuecdote may hee rejecteld ns an imp rolable, therion ; but it is a the tion whid would hot have Inron immerined maless in the life of a hero. ( H ния's Rome, chi 33, p. $4 \times 1$.
1655. DIBHONESTY, Oenoral. Ricign of J, J, mex 11. [Ite was hifown minhater of marime.] It would have here ensy to find mu ublar minister of mariue thum Jumes, but it wenld nes theve lne en ensy to finul, among the publice new of thut uge, any minister of marine, except blumes, who would not luve cmlverzicel stores, tuken briks from contructors, umb chargenl the Crown with the cost of repmirs which luml never been made. The king was, in truth, ulmost the only person who conidd be trusted not to roh the king. There haul, therefore, bern during the last thre years much less waste and pilfering in the dorkyards than formerly. shipss hut been built which were fll tegoto sen.—Macalday'b Enu., ch. 9, p. 428.
1656. DISHONOR, Insensible to E.riled Prinecs of spmin. Without ilring a gun, he [Napoleon] overturned the monarelly of sipuin. A proud nul powerful dymasty he removed fronı the throne of their ancestors. He sent them thto exille. He phaced his own brother upon their throme. And yet these exiled princes thunked him for the deed, and were never weary of proclaiming his praises.-Abnotr's Naroigen 13., vol. 2, ch. 1.
1657. DISHONOR, Posthumous. Admiral Blate. When Clarles II. returnell to lis cometry, the purely mational glory which surrounded the memory of this great Englishl hero did not exempt his body from the indecent and inhuman indignities which were heaped upon the remains of the grent Republicins. By the king's command the remains of this, perhaps the greatest English medmiral that ever walked $n$ deek, were torn from the tomb null cast into a pit in st. Margarre's chardhyard. - Hoon's Chomwela, cli. 16, p. 209.
165E. DISHONOR recompensed. Cicir $r$, II is great arequisition of fame had now sensilly onscuret the glory of Pompery, whose inthernce way visibly on the deeline. To strengthen limself by the interest and by the talents of Cicero, whom he had lefore so meanly almudoned, he now prorured the recall of that illustrious exile, and the rejeeal of the sentence of contiseation which hand deprived him of his whole property. Ciecro returned to his country after an alosence of sixteen montlis. His journey from Brundisium to Rome was a trimpthal procession. All Italy, as he said limself, secmed to flock togetier to hail his uuspicious return: that single day made his glory immortal. He was loulted with honors ; and his honses and villas, which had been razed to the ground, were rebuilt with increased magnificence at the expense of the public.-Tytlevi's Histr., Buok 4, ch. 1.
1659. Dislife, Natural. Wife of James If. Aralella Churchill had, more than twenty years before, borne him a son, nfterwird widely renowned as one of the most skifful captains of Enrope. The gouth, namod dumes Fitajomes, luil ins yet given ine promise of the emimerace which he afterward altained; hat his manares were so gentle nad hoifensive that he had nor ellomy ixrept Mary of Moxleon, who lual long luterd the ehild of the comenbibe with the bifter hutred of a chilalleses wife. [Querol Mary. 1 simall purt of the desulition liction hall, In fore the prepmaney of the gued wismanameal, seri-

 ch. 8, p. 314.
1660. DISLOYALTY deteated, lid rolutioniry Wis. Threms and prombers were nowd to faluen enplive Americm sablors to ablist in the British service. " Hang me if you will to the yurdonm of your ship, hut do not nsk meto beromes a traitor to my comutry," wist the mawrer of Na-

1661. DIsmissal, Humiliating. Rrign of James 1/. [Cord Castlemaine was English minister to lame. 1 lo pusitively dechared that the rule which expluded Jemits from erchesinstical proferment should not the relased in favor of Futher letre. Castlemulne, much provoked, threntencel to kenve Rome. Innocent [XIII.] replied, with a merk lmpertineme, which wis the more provoking beemuse it conld semredy be distinguished from simpleity, hat his exerolency might go if he liked. "But if we must lose him," udded the venermble pontiff, "I hope that he will tuke care of his hanth on the rombl. English people do not know how dangerons it is in this comentry to travel in the hem of the day. The best way is to stuet before duwn, mad to take some reat at neon." With this salatary advier, and with a string of beads, the unfortumate ambassador was dismissed. In a frw monthes uppeared, looth in the Italiun and in the English tongue, a pompous history of the mission, mugnificently printed in folio, and illustrated with phates. The frontispiece, to the grent semand of all Irotestants, represented Castemane in the robes of a perr, with his coronet in his hand, kissing the foe of Innocent.-Macautay's Enga, ch. 7, p. 248.
1662. DISOBEDIENCE atoned. In . Jthmaou. [Dr. Samnel Johnson's father had a book-stan! at Lichicid and surrounding towns every murket luy. Being sick, he directed his son toattend in his phace, which he refused to do because of his pride. Fifty years later,] on a rainy day, somewhere about 1780 , a man of nlvineed age stood barcheaded in the market of Cttoxeter, making strange contortions of viange, while he remained for an hour in front of a particular stall. It was Dr. Samuel Johnson, who had gote from Liehtied to this small market town, to suligeret himself to the penance of rongh weather and mocking lystanders, for expiation of un act of tilial disolsedience which he had committerl tify yars before.-Knichr's ExG., vol. 7, ch. is. p. & 8 .

166:3. DISOBEDIENCE necessary, Mury Bosomquat. Whe became one of the most useful and devoted of the early Methodists; was the aceomplished daughter of wealthy and fishionable parents, who were greatly displensed with her religious zenl.] One day her father said to her: " There is a partienlar promise which I require of you-that is, that you will never, on any ocea-
sion, neftrer now nor herrafter, ntempt to make your hrothere what yon call a Christlan." "I answerol," she writuen, "looking to tho Lord, I thlak, sir, I dare not consent to that." 1le repiled: "rhern you force me to put you out of my homse." "' Yes, sir," nhe minwered, "Acrording to vour views of things, I neknowliodge it ; and if $\}$ may lout lave yomr approvil, no situntion will he disagrevilde." |Nhe romowed a short distance from hor father's homse.] -Stevens

166.1. DISPARAOEMENT, Intellectual, Otiver Goldxmith. On a crertuin merciston, when he was converwing la compuny with grent vivicily, mod "pperemily to the satisfaction of those around him, un honest swiss, who sat nemr, one deorgo Michanl Moser, kerpor of the Royal Acmdemy, perrelving Dr, Johmen rolling himself as if about to spenk, exclumed," stay, stay ! Toctor Shomano is going to say something." "And are Yom sure, sir," replied Goblsmith, sharply, " that yen com compreheme whit he says y"-luvina's Gotasmitu, ch. 41, ן. :33.
1665. DISPATCH domanded, Nipmolcon $I$. [When prepmring for his Egyptian expedition, he said to ome of his nssistunts:] Now, sir, use dispatch. Remember that the world was created In six days. Ask the for whatever you plense, except time; that is the only thing which is theyond my power. - Ahmorts Napoleon B., vol. 1 , eh. 10.
1666. DIsplay, Confuaing. Charlemagne. [Seeking a treaty of alliance, the] ambinssudors of Nicephorus found Charlemague in his camp, on the banks of the river Suln; and he affected to confound their vanity by displaying, in a Franconian village, the pomp, or at lenst the pride. of the Byzuntine pulace. The Greeks were successively led through four halls of nutience; in the first they were realy to fall prostrate before a splendid personage in a chair of state, till he informed them that he was only a servant, the constuble, or master of the horse, of the emperor. The same mistake and the same unswer wre repeated in the apartments of the count pulatine, the steward, and the chamberluin ; and their impatience was gradnally heightened, till the doors of the presence-chamber were thrown open, and they letheld the genuine monareh, on his throne, enriched with the foreign luxury which he despised, and encircled with the love and reverence of his victorious chiefs. - Gmmon's IRome, ch. 49, p. 57.
1667. DIsplay, Distasteful. Julian. [Soon after the Emperor Julian's] entrance into the palace of Constantinople, he hud occasion for the service of a barber. An ollicer, magniticently dressed, immedintely presented himself. "It is a larber," exchaimed the prince, with affected surprise, " that I want, and not a receiver-gencral of the fimances !"-Gmbos's Rome, ch. 22. p. 396.
1668. DISPOSITION, Alarming. Wordaborth. [The poct's mother died when he was eight years old.] An intimnte friend of hers told me that she once said to her that the only one of her five children ubout whoce future life she was anxious was William; and he, she said, would be remarknble, either for good or for evil. The canse of this was that I was of a stiff, moody, and whone temper: so muelt so that I remember golng once into the utles of my gromenther's lonse int lemrith, apen some ladgnity laving been put upon me, with un inteutom of destroying myself with one of the foils which 1 knew was kijt there. I took the foll in my lume, but my heme falled. ['pon mother oredision, while with my didest brother, Richard, we were whip, ping topestogether in the hage drawing rown, on which the corinet was omly hald down mon partle. blar ocenstons, The walls were hang romad with fumily pictures, num I salid to my brother. "Dare youstrike your whip throngh that ohd lady's petticont ?" He repled, "No, I won't." "Then," smid I, " here goes!" and I struck my lash through loer hooped petticome ; for which, nocionlt, thengh I have forgoteon it, I was propserl punished. But, powsility fromsome wint of judgrinent in pundshments intlicted, I had beconce perverse and obstimate in defying chastisement, and ruther prome of it than otherwive. Meyen's Wombwohtit, ch. 1.
1668. DIsposition, An evil, charles the bind. Churles the Bad, King of Navarre, wata singular instance of the combination of grent mental endowments with the worst dispositions, by which all his gifte were perverted into instrmume of evil. Ife had received from moture tule ons of of high order; he possessed a remarkible power of eloguence, keen penctration, popuhar, insinuat lig. mumers: but bementh this atractive exterior he concented a mulicions, trencherons, revengefal heart, capable of the most ntrocions arimes ; mor wis he ever known to hesitute nt any sacrithere to his ambition, hatred, or other dominumt puswion. -Stedents' Funcee, ch. 10, Ss 10.
1670. DISPOSITION, Gloomy. Dr. Foung. I . . informed Dr. Johnson that Mr. Yomer, sont of Dr. Young, the nuthor of "Night Thoughts," whom I had just left, desired to have the homor of seeling him at the house where his father lived. I said to Mr. Young that I had beren told his father was clicerful. "Sir," said he. "he was too well bred in man not to be cheerful In company; but he was gloomy when alone. He never was cheelfal after my mother's denth, and he had met with many disnppointments." Dr. Johnson ohserved to menferward " that this was no favorable accome of Dr. Young ; for it is not becoming in a mun to have sos litite nophiescence in the ways of Providence."-Boswela's Jonsmen, p. 467.
1671. DISPOBITION, Quarrelsome. $L_{\text {a }}$ inis XIV . Lonis gave a proof of his hanghty and imporions temper on the ocension of a quarrel between his ambassador in Enghand, the Count D'Estrades, and the Spanish envoy it the smme court, who had insisted on taking precedence of the representative of France at a diplomatic reception. Louis recalled his mmbassador from Madrid, demanded full and immediate reparation, and threatened war in conse of refusal. Philip IV. made un umpunlified submission, and in the presence of the whole diplomatic body assembled at Fontaineblean, his mmbasador declared that the Spanish agents would no longer contest the pretensions of the crown of France--STedesirs' France, ch. 21, 冬3.
1672. DISPOSITION, Savage. F'rederick William. The nature of Frederiel William was hard mad lad, nud the lublet of exereising mbitrury power lad mude him frlghaffly savage. Ilif mage comstmaly verited itself to right mad left in curser mad blows. When hly Najewy tonk a walk, avery humm boing inol hofore him, as if "tharer hal broken lowse from a menugerie. if be met athely In the street loe give har a kiek. mind told her to go home muid mind her liruts. If he waw a ele admonashed the reverend gentleman to betake himself to stady mad proyer, nud enfored this pions ndvice by a somad ciming, miministered on He spot.- Macaliay minemehe the Gheat, 1. 11.
16783. DIsposition, Variable. Allirander. Portralte of the same person, takell at different perionis of life, thongli they differ greatly from enth older, retuin a resemblance upm the whole. And mo it is in general with the charucters of men. But Alexander mecms to be nu exeeplion; for mothing ran almit of grenter dissimilarity thm thut which entered into his disposition ut diferent thmess mal in different ciremmstmeres. Dlo was hrave nud pusillanimons, mereiful und cruel. modest and vinin, instemions and luxurious, ristiomal and superstifious, polite and overbenring, politie mad imprudent. Nor were these chmuger cusinal or temporal ; the style of h's charncter underwent a total revolution, mad he pessed from vitue to viee la in regular and progressive manner. Mmithernce and pride were the only charincteristies that never forsook him. If there wero my vice of which he was incuphble, it was nvarice; if any virtue, it was lmmility-Plele'rancin's Alexaniber, Langhomee's Note.
167.E. DIBPOTATION rowarded, Olicer Coldsmith. Ite had neruired, is has beren shown, a mbit of shifting along und living by expedients, and n new one presented isecif i.: Ituly. "My sklll in masie," smys he, in the " Philosophic Vig"loond," "could avail me nothing in in country where every pensunt was a better musicinn than I: but by this time I had aeduired another talent, which unswered my purpose ats well, and this whs askill in disputation. In all the forcign universitles and convents there are, upon certuin dnys, philosophiend theses maintuined ugainst every idventitious disputant; for which, if the champion opposes with my dexterity, he can claim in gratuity in money, il dinner, and in bed for one night."-luvine's Goldsmith, ch. \%, 1. 50.
1675. DIssembling, Suocessful, Fiustina. Fanstima. . . hus beern ns much celebnated for her gallantries as for her bematy. The Cupid of the meients was, in genern, a very sensual deity ; and the amours of inn empress, ns they exuet on her side the plainest advances, are seldom susceptible of much sentimental delicacy. Murcus was the only man in the empre who seemed ignoment or insensible of the irregularities of Funstina; which, according to the prejudices of every ure, reflected some disgrace on the injured hashand. Ite promoted several of her lovers to posts of honor and profit, mad during a comection of thirty years invurinbly gave her proofs of the most tender confidence, and of a respect which ended not with her life. In his "Meditations" he thmes the gods, who had bestowed on him a wife so fuithful, so gentle, and of such a wonderful simplicity of manmers. The obserguloms Nennte, it his eurnest reghest, dohom templen with the attributen of . Iums, Vestn, mad ceress ; mad le was derrered that, on the dhy of thelr mupthle, the youth of elther mex whomblil puy their vows infore tho nitar of thoir chaste I674, DISsEMBLINO, Unauocentul. ('herlis f. A primee, therefore, whos is babitully a decelvor when ut the helght of power, is not likely to lemrn frankuess hat the midst of emberrassuments mid distrosnes. ('harles was not only imost intisermpulons, lint in most mulueky alissembler. 'There never was a polltichan to whoms se many fruads mad falseloogls were hrought home by mulendable evlelonere. Ite publiely reoognized the honses at Wextminster as a legni Parlanient, und, at the sume thone, made a private minute fo comucdl docharing the reeogultom null. tepabllely dischaimed nll thomght of ewlling in forelen adid agnlust his people: lo privately solicited nid from Frunce, from Wemunt nan from larmine. Io publedy dended that loo employod puphes ; nt the same thas lie privately sent to hils gemernls eliructions to employ evary puplat that would serve. Ite publicly took tho sumement at Oxforde is it plodge that he never womld rever ronnive at popery; he privately insured his wife that he intended to tolerate jopery In Enghmi, and he mathorized Lard Ghamorgini to promine that popery should he established fa Irelmal. 'Then he ittompted to clear himself nt his agent's exponse. Blamorgan recelved, in the roynl hand. writing, reprlamads intended to be read by others, mid enlogrles whideh were to be sern only by himself. Tossich nin extent, Imbed, lad insincerlty now thluted the klag's whole nature, thit his most devoted frlends could not rafruin from complaining to emedo other, with bittor gried and shame, of his rrooked politios. IHs defants, they sale, gnve them less puin than his intrignes. Macatlay's Enci., (h. 1, p. 118 .

147\%. DISSIMULATION, Dangers of. Chirlis I. While a prisomer in the mande of his Purlinment.] The three lemd'ng parties were the army, the Parlinment, and the Seoteh. (romwell nind his son-in-law, Ireton, were contlant in their undeceived them. The king, having writtenn private letter to his wife, charged one of his comfldential servants to eonceal this belter in his horse's sulde, and convey it to Iover, whore the tishing- fonts sorved to transmit his corresponileme to the Continent. . . . ['The letter was thken by Cromwell, who suys :] We rend the king's letter to his wife. He told her that eucll finction was anxisus that he should join them, but he thought he onght to conclude with the Scoteh in preforence to my other. We returned to the emmp, and seeing that our conse had nothing to expect from the king, from that moment we resolved on his destruction.-Lamantine's Chomwelf, p. 39.
1678. DISSIMULATION, Polite. (ourtiers. Burnet, deseribing the generne character of Charles [II.], suys: "IIe was affable und ensy, and loved to be innde so by ull about him. The grent art of keeping hini long was the being "asy, and the making every thing easy to him," The modern phrase is " to make things pleasant ;" and both phrases mean that there shall be a hargo ingredient of faladoged in hamun nithirs. -K Numar's Visu., vol. 4, (h. 14, p. &iti.
1471. DISSIMULATION, Political. Intee af Sirmeratle. |'lige buke of Newcostlo wa thio Seeretary of the 'Imantry mider deorge Il. if his thirat for puwer was lasathalo. Jealoms of every tumb of nhillty to whom it was necersatiry to ell trist some share of mbliorlty, he was ulways lin terror that his sulablerus might le colled to come mand, ulthough ever profersing his maxioty for thelif pronuotion. Nlwiss serkfing the donloful support of " troops of friende." he never offond ed inny minn by is plain "So," niml was ofton " muder the mane rugngements to nt loust ton competitors." - Kintuntry lina., vol. 6, elt. lis, b. 18N.
1480. $\qquad$ Turk. When Sir Dudley Noth wis presedel [liy the tools of Itares 11. io finvor the nbolltom ot the 'lent Aetl ine rememInered nn old 'lurkish saying-viz., that a mon is vol, 4, (1). 20. 11. 418.

16w1. DI8SIMULATION, Roligious, lommis Eimperor Julian. His sconthments were chnnged ; bust an it wonld hive leen dangerous to have avowed his scintinents, his condinet still eonthe ned the sume. Very dilferent from the bese in Asoon, whodisgulsed hhasedf with a lion shide. our thon was obligesl to conceal himself meler the skin of hin uss ; aud, while he embraceal tho dictutes of reason, to obey the laws of prudenec nud necessity. The dissimutation of Julfon lasted about ten years, from his secerct fitiation at Ephasins to the beghniag of the civil war, when hedecelared himself nt enee the lmphemble encmy of C'lirist and of Constmatins. - Chubos's Homk, ch. :33, 1. 420.
f6sis. DISSIMULATION, Royal, (ionge /ll. [He was on a morning ride when in messenger renched him with n nole, learing it privite mark, whieh indiented the denth of (ieorge 11. mat his own ald vation to roynl muthority.] Saying his horse was limes, he turned lanck to Kew, madrlis. momating, suid to his groom: "I have suld this horse is lame ; forbid you to say to the romtrary." Wilpole eomments: "The first moment of the new redign affords asymptomof the prinee's charnetor ; of that cool dissimmbtion ha which he limd been so well inithited by his mothur, and which eomprehemded nlmost the whole of whint whe had tmught him,"-KNimht's ENi, vol. ti, ch. 12, p. 2. 11.

14*is. DISSIPATION, Philosopher's, Stimilel Johnsem. One night, when Bramclerk and Langton lamd supped ut a tuvern in London, and sit. till ubout three in the morning, it rame inte their heats to fo mud knock ap Sohnson, and see il they eonded prevail on him to join themina ramble. They rapped violently at the doors of his chambers in the Temple, till at last he appented In his sairt, with his little black wig on the top of has heme instead of a nighteap, nod a poker in his hund, inagining, probably, that some ruflians were coming to nttuck him. When he discosered who they ware, and was told their crrmad, he smiled, ar.! with freat good-humo* agreed to their proposal : "What, is it you, you dogs I I'll have a frisk with you." He was soon dressed, and they sullied forth together. . . . Garrick being told of this ramble, said to him, martly," I heard of your froble thatwer uhgt. Pou'll ber In the "Aroninge." l'jwn wheld dohason "fherward ohserved, " IIr danst mot de sulich "t thing. Itis
 b. \%is.

16NA. DIsAIPATION, Youthful. Bityme I/lmen

 ore. | 'The nuthor whe ment for. . .. Ite wiss in the uthons state of destitution, pulde, ghonstly, tilthy. Ilisseraly frock come, buituned nip to lia thront, concenaled the absence of a shifit, unil his dilinpliduted bunts diseliomed the whit of motock-

1645. DISSUASION Impoanible. Cirtiz. CHe sint out for the compuest of Mexieo.] The numlnewadors [of Montermma] tried lin vala to dissamde the terribion Spanined [fromadvanching on their capitul). They made him cowtly presents, and then hastencel lack io their alarmest sover--ign. Montezanna linmediately despatedied them a meond thas with presents still more valuable, and with urgent appeals to Corte\% to proreed no further. . . The Mexican emperor, hy his messengers, formade thelr appronch to his dely : stlit they pressed on.-R1pisatio's $\mathrm{C}^{\prime}$. .s., ch. 4, p. 58.
1686. DIsTIMCTION, Miltary. Belimarius. Whenever he appeured In the atreets and pubile: phares of Constantinople Belisariusattructed and witdsfled the eyes of the people. His lofty stature and majestic countemane fulthled their expretations of a hero; the neanest of his fellowritizens were embohlened by his gentle and grachous demeanor: mad the martial trala whifli utlendest his footsteps left his person more aecessible than lin a day of hattle. Soven themsmad horsemen, matehlens for beanty and valor, were mahatained in the service, and at the private expense, of the gencral. Their prowess was niways conspicuoles in single combuts, or in the foremost ranks; mad both parties confessed that in the siege of Some the geards of Jelisuritus land ulome vanuished the burbarim hest. -Gibios's Rome, ch. 41, p. 18:.

16*7. DIsTRUST concealed. Rommens. It was dangerons to trust the simerrity of Augusitus; to seem to distrust it was stili more dangeroms. The respective ndvantages of momurely and a republic have often divided speculative inguir(rs; the present greatness of the Rommin Stute. the corruption of mamners, and the license of the soldicrs supplied new arguments to the advocates of monmrehy ; and these gencrat views of government were again warped by the hopes and fears of ench individual. Amid this confusion of sentiments the answer of the Semate was umanimons and decisive. They refused to areeept the resignation of Augustus; they conjured him not to desert the republic, which he had saved. After a decent resistance the crafty tyrant submitted to the orders of the Semate, and consented to receive the government of the provinces, and the general command of the Roman armies, under the well-known names of Proconsul and Imperator.-Gibison's Rome, ch. 3, p. 75.
1688. DISUNION, Weakness of. Semurl JohnRon. Boswelle: "No, sir, you langh at sehemes of political improvement." Jomsson: "Why, sir, bus wisely oredered hut the more numerons binit domblt that if the poors shanded renosin. "We'sl las the burar wo longer, we'll nuke the rich lake their turn,' they conld cusily do it, were it tuot that governed ly then for the man remson,"-bas Weha'r Jolinson, b. Hiw.

 ('usmar with n jujere, exphaingeg what her had to discover. Ohserving that lee gave the papers, ne

 this to yourself, und guickly; for it comtans
 "rem to yom." He tow it , and intrompted several times to rend It, lint was always prevented ly one appiliention or other. He therefore kept thit pmere, and that only, in his lumal, when hernfered the honse.-Piverancils Csinath.
1690. DIVERSITY of Intprests. Scrity. | N|wout 150:3 Siducy writes In his" Araula" concernink the jopular temper of his times:] Whan they leghin to tatk of thelr griefs, mever thens made: such confused hummintr. 'The town dwellers domind pettligg dow of imposts, die combtry feilows liying out of commoms ; somue would luve the prinee to kecp his court in one place, some th nother ; nll cried out to have new eominselfars; hut when they should think of any new comaseflors, they liked them as well us may that they could remember: . . . the artisums thay wonld have corn mbd whe sot nt a lower price;
. the plongh-men, vine-laborers, mad furmers would have nome of that. The grasints wonlit have nll the gentlemen destroyer!; the citizens, specially the cooks, marbers, mid those other that lived nuost on gentlemen wond lat luse them reformed.-Kínour's ENa, vol. 3, ch. 17, p. 2tt's.

16DI. DIVINITY, Proof of. Fermuncla de Ste. He attempted to overawe n tribe of ladians nenr Nistehez, by ctaining a supermatmal birth and demmading obediencer and tribute. "Von say you are the ehild of the sun," replied the undannted chief; "dry up the river, und 1 will believe yon. Fon desire to see me? visit llo? town where I dwell. It you comme in peace, I will recelve you with special good-will ; if in war, I will bot shriak one foot buck. "-banCROFT's His'r. of C゙. S., vol. 1, M. : 1002. DIVISION, Helpless by. Rominn E'mperor firreliun. The imprepor was ulmose at the sume time informad of the irruption und of the retrent of the lmorbarians. Collecting inn active borly of troops, he marched with sileace mad relerity nlong the skirts of the Hyreaninn forest ; and the Alemunni, Inden with the spoilsof Italy, arrived at the Dnumbe, without suspecting that on the opposite bank, and in an advantageous post, a Roman army lny concenled and prepared to intereept their return. Aurelian indulged the fintal security of the burbarians, and permitted nionut half their forees to pass the river without disturbmee und without precuntion. Their situation and astonishment gave him an easy vic-tory.-Ghbon's Rome, ch. 11, 1. 343.
1698. DIVISION necesuary. Barbarian Allies. Among the useful conditions of peace imposed by Probus [the emperor) on the vampuished mtions of Germany was the obligation of supplying the Roman army with 16,000 reernits, the bravest and most rohnst of their vouth. The emperor dispersed them through all the proviaces, and distributed this dangerons reenforcement, in sumall bauds of fifty or sixty cach, among the mational trocps, judicionsly observing that the nid which the remblic derived from the barbarians sloould be folt bat not seen. -Gimbon's Rome, ch. 12, p. 383.
1694. DIVIsION, Partisan. Reign of Chirles II. Ilis oljject was not to destroy our [Englishl] Constitution, but to kesp the varions elements of which it was composed in a perpetual state un contlict, and to set irreconcilable emmity between those who thal the power of the purse and those who had $t$ e power of the sword. With this vicw he bribed and st:mulated both parties in turn, pensioned at once the ministers of the Crown nad the chiefs of the Opposition, encouraged the court to wiinstand the seditions encroachments of the Parliament, and conveyed to the Parliament intimations of the arbitrary designs of the court. [Charles songht ald of Louis XIV. $\frac{1}{}$ make him independent of Parlia-ment.j-Macallay's Eno., ch. 2, p. 195.
1695. DIVISION, Ruinous. Roman Empire. The decay of Rome has been frequently ascribed to the translation of the sent of empire; but this history has already shown that the powers of government were divided rather than remored. The throne of Constantinople was erected in the East, while the West was still possessed by a series of emperors who held their residence in Italy, and clamed their equal inheritance of the legions and provinces. This dangerous novelty impaired the strength and fomented the vices of a double reign ; the instruments of an oppressive and arbitrary system were multiplied.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 38, p. 635.
1696. DIVIBIos by Civil War. Reign of Charles I. Soon the two straggling parties were locked in deadly conflict, and the spot became memorable for ages for the blood shed in a skirmish which could not be dignified by the name of a battle. Throughout the land family ties were severed ; everywhere "a man's foes were of his own household." "Old armor came down from a thousand old walls, and clanked upon the unvil of every village smithy;" "boot and saddle !" was the order of the day and night ; every buff coat and every piece of steel that could turn or deal a blow became of value. Even the long-bow, the brown bill, and cross-bow resumed their almost forgotten use; rude spears and common staves ond Danish clubs assumed the rank of weapons. The trumpets of the Cavaliers rang out fearlessly through the half of Englind, and thrilled the spirits of the people with the cries of loyalty; responded to by the thrill blast of the Roundlhead and the cry of liberty. "Those," says Carlyle, "were the most confused months England ever saw ;" in every shire, in every parish, in court-houses, alehouses, churches, and markets, wheresoever men were gathered together. England was, with sorrowful confusion in cvery fibre, tearing itself into hostilc halves, to carry on the voting by pike and bullet henceforth. The spirit of war stalked forth; many tianes we find the record of men who slew an enemy, and found a parent in the eorpse they were nbout to spoil.-Hood's CnomWELL, ch. 6, p. 96.
1697. DIVISION, Weaknese by. Germans. [Ancient] Germany was divided into more than forty independent states; and even in each state the union of the several tribes was extretacly loose and precarions. The harbarians were ensily provoked ; they knew not how to forgive an injury, much less an insu!t; their resentments were bloody and implacable. The casual disputes that so frequently happened in their tumultuous parties of hunting or drinking were sufficient to infinme the minds of whole nations; the private feuds of any considerable chicftuins diffused itself among their followers and allies. -Gim. on's Rome, ch. 0, p. 275.
1698. DIVORCE advocated. John Milton. The suggestion, which I believe was first made by a writer in the Athenceum, is that Milton's young wife refused him the consummation of the marriage. The supposition is founded upon a certain passage in Milton's pamphlet. . . . If the "Doctrine and Discipline" [of divoree] was in the hands of the public on August 1 ; if Milton was brooding over this seething agony of passion all through July, with the young bride, to whom he had been barely weddell a month, in the house where he was writing, then the only apology ior this outrage upon the charities, not to say decer. cies of home, is that which is suggested by the passage referred to. Then the pamphlet, however imprudent, becomes pardonable. It is a passionate cry from the derths of a great despair.Milton, by M. Pattison, ch. 5.
1699. DIVORCE, Agonizing. Napoleon I. [After a dinner in painful silence] he took her hand, and placed it upon his heart, and with a faltering voice said: "Josephine, my own good Josephine, you know how I have loved you! It is to you alone that I owe the only few moments' happiness I have known in the world. Josephine, my destiny is stronger than my will. My dearest nffections must yield to the welfare of France." The cruel blow, all expected as it was, pierced that loving heart. Josephine fell lifeless to the floor. Napoleon alarmed rushed to the door and called for assistance. [They] . . . conveyed the Empress Josephine up a flight of stairs to her apartment. She murmured, as they bore her along, "Oh, no, no! you cannot do it! You surely would not kill me." Napoleon was intensely agitated. . . . He pnced the floor in anguish until the dawn of the morning, . . . trembling with emotion and his cyes filled with tears, . . articulating with difficulty. [He declared the interest of France made a divorce nis painful duty. It was consummated on December 15. 1809.]-Abnott's Napoleon B., vol. 2, cli. 10.
1700. DIVORCE, Causes of. Confucion. Ite permits divoree for any one of seven reasons: " When a woman cannot live in peace with her father-in-law or mother-in-liaw ; when she cannot bear children ; when she is unfaithful ; when. by the utterance of calumnies or indiscrect words, she disturbs the peace of the house ; when her husband has for her an unconquerable repugnance; when she is an inveterute scold; when she steals anything from her hushand's house :" in nny of these conses her hashand may put her away.-('yclopeda of Blod., p. 418.
1701. DIVORCE, Convenient. Carinus. In the Gailic war he dacosered some degree of personal courage ; but from the moment of his arrival at lame he abondoned himself to the luvury of the eapital and to the ubnse of his fortune. ILe was soft, yet cruel ; devoted to pleasure, but destitnte of taste; nad though exquisitely susecptible of vanity, indifferent to the public estrem. In the conse of a few months he suceressively married and divorced nine wives, most of whom he left pregnant ; and notwith:standing this legal inconstancy, found time to indulge such a variety of irregular nppetites as brought dishonor on himself and on the nohlest houses of Rome. De beheld with inveterate hatred all those who might remember his former obseurity, or censure his present combuct. IIe lunished or put to death the friends and commsellors whom his father [Emperor Carus] had placed about him, to gui.e his inexperienced yonth : and he persecuted with meanest revenge his school-fellows and companions, who had not sufficiently respected the latent majesty of the emperor. . . From the dregs of that populace he selected his favorites, and even his ninisters. The pulace and even the Imperial table were filled with singers, dancers, prostitntes, nnd nll the varions retinue of viee and folly.-Gunox's Rone, ch. 11, p. 364.
1702. DIVORCE, Demoralized by, Romans. When the Roman matrons became t' e equal and voluntary companions of their lorus, a new jurisprudence was introduced, that marringe, like other partnerships, might be dissolved by the abdication of one of the associates. In three centuries of prosperity and corruption this principle was enlarged to frequent practice and pernicious abuse. Passion, interest, or cuprice suggested daily motives for the dissolution of marfiage: a word, $n$ sign, a message, a letter, the mandate of a freedman, declared the separation ; the most tender of human connections was degraded to a transient society of profit or pleasure. According to the various conditions of life, both sexes alternately felt the disgrace and injury ; an inconstant spouse transferred her wealth to a new family, abandoning a numerous, perhaps a spurious, progeny to the paternal authority und eare of her late husband; a beautiful virgin might be dismissed to the world, old, indigent, mud friend-less.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 44, p. 349.
1703. DIVORCE disallowed, Puritans of Neen Englatitl. Of divoree I have found no example. . . . Divorce from bed and board, the separate maintenance withont the dissolution of the marringe contract-an anomaly in Protestant legislation, that punishes the innocent more than the guilty-was utterlyabhorrent from their principles. . the sanctity of the marriage-bed is the sufeguard of families: . . . its purity was protected lyy the penalty of death-a penalty which was inexornbly enforced against the guilty wife and her paramour.-Bincuoft's U. S., eh. 10, vol. 1.
1704. DIVORCE, First. Roman. Tine lears witness to the conjugal modesty, tenderness, and fidelity which lee established: for during two hundred and thirty years no mom attempted to leave his wife, bor any womm her hasband. And us the very curionis mong the Greeks can tell you who was the first person that killed his father and mother, so all the Rommen know that Spurius Carvilius was the first that divoreed his wife, alleging her harrenness. - Phutanen's Romeles and Thesels.
1705. DIVORCE of Mothers. Americten Indian Marriage. Children were the strongest bond; for if the mother was disearded, it was the unwritten 1 now of the red man that she should herself retain those whom she had borne and mursed.Banchort's I. S., vol. 3, ch. 2i.
1706. DIVOACE, One-sided. Roman. The eanses of the dissolution of matrimony have varied among the Romuns; but the most solemn sacrument, the confarention itself, might nlways be tone away by rites of a contrary tendency. In the first ages the futher of a funily might sell his children, and his wife was reckoned in the number of his claidren ; the domestic judge might prononnee the death of the offender, or his merey might expel her from his bed nnd house ; but the slavery of the wretched female was hopeless and perpetuan, unless he asserted for his own eonvenience the manly prerogative of divorce.Gıbos's Rome, cl. 43, p. 248.
1707. DIVORCE permiasible. Roman Laue. In ihe most rigorons laws a wife was condemned to support a gamester, a drunkurd, or a libertine, unless he were guilty of homicide, poison, or sacrilege, In which cuses the marriage, as it should seem, might have been dissolved by the hand of the executioner. But the saered right of the husland was invarially maintained, to deliver his name and family from the disgrace of adultery ; the list of mortal sins, either male or female, was curtailed and enlarged by successive regulations, and the obstacles of incurable impotence, long alssence, and monastic profession were allowed to rescind the matrimonial obligation.-Gibion's Rome, c’. 44, p. 349.
1708. DIVORCE regulated. Emperor Augusths. Augustus, who united the powers of both mngistrat s, ndopted their different modes of repressing or chastising the license of divorce. The presence of seven Roman witnesses was required for the validity of this solemn and detiberate act; if any adequate provocation had been given by the husband, instend of the delay of two years, he was compelled to refund immediately, or in the space of six months; but if he could arraign the manners of his wife, her guilt or levity was expiated by the loss of the sixth or dighth part of her marriage portion.-Gibsox's Rome, ch. 44, p. 350.
1709. DIVORCE, Views of. Reformers. [The early English Reformers, as represented by Cranmer,] did not regard marringe as indissoluble. Divorec for adultery might be pronounced by the ecelesiastical courts, with liberty to marry again by the party sinned against, and not sinning. Divorce was also held lawiul in cases of mortal enmities, the desertion of a husband, his lasting eruelty, or his prolonged absence. - Knients Eng., vol. 3, ch. 3, p. 40.
1710. DOMINION, Boundless. Roman. The slave of Imperial despotism . . . expectel his fate in silent despair. To resist was fatal, and it was impossible to fly. On every side he was encompassed with a vist extent of sea and hand, which he could never hope to traverse without helng discovered, seized, and restored to his irrituted master. Beyond the frontiers his unxions view could diseover nothing, except the ocem, inhospital deserts, hostile tribes of harbarians, of fierre mamers and anknown language, or dependent kings, who woukd ghally purchase the emperor's protection by the sacrifice of an ohnoxious fugitive. "Wherever yon are," sinid Cicero to the exited Mareellus, "remember that younre equally within the power of the concueror." - Ginhon's Rome, ch. 3, p. 100.
1711. DOMINION, Proofs of. J̌ater. Dinon informs us that the kings of Persin used to have water fetched from the Nile and the Danube, and put among their treasures, as a proof of the extent of their dominions, and their being masters of the vorld.-Plutarcie.
1712. DOUBT expressed, Marus Crassus. IIe was drnwing his troops out of winter quarters when ambussadors came fre'n Arsaces, and addressed him in this short speech: "If this army was sent against the Parthiuns by the Roman people, that people has nothing to expect but perpetual war and enmity irreconcilable. But if Crassus, against the inclinations of his country (which they were informed was the case), to gratify his own avarice, has undertaken this war, and invaded one of the Purthian provinces, Arsaces will act with more moderation. He will take compassion on Crassus's age, and let the Romans go, though in fact he considers them rather as in prison than in garrison." To this Crassus made no return but a rhodomontale; he said he would give them his answer at Seleucia. Upon which Vagises, the oldest of t'ae ambassadors, laughed ; and turning up the palm of his hand, replicd," "Crassus, here will huir grow before thou shalt see Sclencia."Plutarcif's Chassug.
1718. DOUBT, Philosophic. Acrdemirs. Next to the Epicurean system the doctrines most prevalent at that time were those of the new Academy, very different from those of the old Academy, founded by Plato. The new Academics asserted the impossibility of arriving at truth, and held it entirely a matter of douldt whether vice or virtue were preferable. These opinions evidently struck at the foundation not only of relig. ion, but of morality.-Tytlen's Hist., Book $\tilde{5}$, ch. 4.
1714. DOUBTS overcome. George Fhr, the Quaker. A.D. 1648. One morning as Fox sat silently by the fire a clond came over his mind ; a baser instinct scemed to say, "All things come by nature;" and the elements and the stars oppressed his imagination with the vision of pantheism. But as he continued musing, a true voice arose withir him and said, "There is a God." At once the clouds of scepticism rolled away . . . his sonl enjoyed the sweetness of repose ., the paradise of contemplation.-Bancroft's U. S., ch. 16. vol. 2.
1715. DRAINAGE, scheme of. Charles $I$. In those days some millions of acres of the finest plains in the counties of Cambridge, IIuntingdon, Northampton, and Lincoln lay undrained. Several vears before the period to which we now refer the Larl of Oxford and other noblemen of that day lad proposed to drain large portions of them, and in fact had done so. The Bedford Level, containing nearly 400,000 acres, had been completed, when it was foumd necessary to call in other nill : und u proposition was made to the Crown, olfering a fair proportion of the land for its assistance and authority in the completion of the whole. Until now uli had gone on well; but hungry Charles suw here an opportunity of gratifying his cupidity. $\Lambda$ number of commissioners cane from the king to Inantingdon; they, instructed by the king's own letter, proceeded to lay claim under various pretexts, such as corrupt and servile ministers know how to use, to 95,000 acres of land already drained. Cromwell stepped upon the stage of wtion, and the draining of the fens was entirely stopped. Hood's Cromwell, ch. 4, p. 78.
1716. DRAINAGE, suocess by. Romans. The lnke of Alba inerensed prodigionsly, and deputies were sent to inquire what the gods meant by that extraordinary phenomenon. The deputies brought bnek word that the conquest of Veii depended on draining the lake, and that particular care should be tuken to convey the waters to the sea (a most wise and salutary advice, in a season of contagious disease). The work was immediately begun ; and that fine canal was cut, which subsists at this day, and conveys the whters of the lake Albano, by Castel-Gondolfo, to the sea. This was likewise an instance in which the faith of the people in the veracity of the prediction might lanve greatly aided its accomplish-ment.-Tytien's list., Book 3, ch. 6.
1717. DRAMA, Indecent. Ticelfth C'entury. In one of them, which is entitled a Play of the Ohl and New Testament, Adam and Eve are introduced upon the stage naked, and conversing in very strange terms about their nakedness. Mr. Warton has given a curious account of this play in his " History of English Poetry." In some of the first scenes of this play God is represented creating the world; He breathes life into Adam, leuls him into Paradise, and opens his side while sleeping. Adam and Eve uppear naked in the garden, and not ashmmed, and the Old Serpent enters, lamenting his fall. He converses with Eve; she eats of the iorbilden fruit ; they are cursed by God; the Serpent exits hissing ; they are driven from Paradise by the Cherubin, with a flaming sword, and Kum then appears digging the ground, and Eve spin-ning.-Note in Tytlen's listr., Book 6, ch. 16.
1718. DRAMA, Literature of the. Gircece. We see from this short review of the origin of literature among the Romans, that its earliest efforts were exclusively confined to dramatie composition. The Ronians, in a worl, borrowed their literature from Greece, and first attempted the species of literature then most popular in Greece; if, indeed, their Plautus and Terence. ard the rest, did more than translate or adapt the then most popular pieces of the Greek stage. It was not until the golden age of Angustus that, by the revolutions which then took place in thie public taste, the other high departments of literature were introduced at Rome.- Tytler's Hist., Book 4, ch. 3.
1719. Drama, Origin of the. Rome. Abont the 390th year of Rome the city had been reduced to extreme distress by a pestilence, and an uncommon method was adopted to aprase the wrath of the gods, in sending into Etruria for drolls or stage-dancers. The dances of these Etrurians, aceorling to Livy, were not ungracefful, and the Roman youth readily learned to imitate their performances, adding to them their own fescemane lallads, which they recited to the mound of masie, with appropriate gestures. JI Iere evidently was the timst rise of dramatic performances among the Romans; bat, as yet, all was rude and imperfect, and they were alogether ignomant of the regular strueture of a dramatic composition. This they acepuired the first iden of from the Grecks. Euripides and Sophocles had hourishod nearly one hundred and sixty years, and Memader above tifty years, before this period. The dramatic poem was at this time in the highest celehrity in Greece and was at lengith, about the year of Rome 514 , introdaced inte that commonwemath by Livius Andronieus, a Greek slave.-TyThen's Masp., Beok 4, ch. 3.
1720. DRAMA, Religious. (\%urches. The first dramatic representations known in Europe were devotional pieces, ucted by the monks, in the charches of their convents, representative of the life and actions of our Saviour and of Ilis aposthes. In England these representations were termeal myst rius, and sometimes miracles and moralities. They were brought into use about the twelfth century, and continued to he performed in England even to the sixteenth century. There is, in the reign of IIenry VIII., a prohilition, hy the bishop of London, against the performance of any phays or interlades in churches or chapels. Perhaps at this time profane stories had begun to take the place of the saced mysteries; it is certain, at least, that these sacred mysteries themselves often contained great absurditios and very gross indecency. [See No. 1i1\%.]-Ty'Ler's IItst., Book 6, ch. 16.
1721. DREAM, Directed by a. Comstantine. He affirms, with the most perfect contidence, that in the night which preceded the last battle against Maxentins, Constantine was admonished in a dream to inscribe the shields of his soldiers with the celestial sign of God, the sacred monogram of the name of Christ; that he executed the commands of heaven, and that his valor and obedience were rewarded by the decisive victory of the Milviam Bridge.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 20, p. 263.
1722. DREAM realized. Cicero's. (icero, it soems, had a dream, in which he thought he called some boys, the sons of senators, up to the Capitol, because Jupiter designed to pitch upon one of them for sovereign of Rome. The citizens rian with all the cagerness of expectation, and placed themselves about the temple ; and the boys in their pratexte sat silent. The doors suddenty opening, the boys rose up one by one, and, in their order, passed round the gorl, who reviewed them all and sent them away disappointed; but when Octavius approached, he stretehed out his hand to him and said, " Romans, this is the person who, when he comes to le your prince, will put an end to your civil wars." This vision, they tell us, made such an impression upon Cicero, that he perfectly retained the figure and rountename of the boy. though he did not yet know him. Next day he went down to the Campus Martias, when the boys were just returning from their exercises; and the thrst who struck his cye was the lad in the very form that he had seen in his dremm. Astonished at the discovery, Cicero asked him who were his purents; and he proved to the the son of Octavins, at person not much distinguished in life, and of Attia, sister to Chesar. As he was so hear a relation, amd (atem had no chiddren of his own, he adopteri him, ama, hy will, left him his restate. Cicero, after his dream, whenever he met yomig Octavins, is said to lave treated him with particular regarel, and he received those marks of his friemdship with great satisfaction. Beside, he hajpened to be born the same year that ciedo Was coman.-Pletrabon's Cickro.

172:3. DREAMS, Regard for. American Indions. Dreams are to the wild man the aremue to the invisible world; he reveres them as divine revelations, and believes her shall die unless they are carried into eflect. The eapricious visions in a feverish sleep are obeyed by the vilhage or the tribe : the whole nation would contribute its harvest, its costly fuss, . . rather then fuil in their fultilment, . . . even if it required the surrender of women to public embrace.-Bancmort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. $2:$.
1724. DREAMS verified. Rer. Richard Boardman. [On his way to Parkgate, his journey took him across the samds, where the tide returning, and a blinding snow concealing lis course, liis condition became extremely perilons. A wall of perpendicular rocks on one side, the sem on the other, left him little lope of escape, till he observed two men running town a hill on the opposite side of the water, who pushed out a loat, aud came to take him olf from his horse, just us the sea had reached his knees as he sat in the saddle.]. While we were in the boat, one of the men suid, "Surely, Gord is with you:" I answered, "I trust Ile is." The man replied, "I know IIe is; last night I dreamed that I must go to the top of such a hill. When I awoke the dream made such an impression that I could not rest. I went and called upon this man to accompany me, . . and there we saw your distressed condition."-Stevens' M. E. Ciriacis, vol. 1, p. 96.
1725. DREAMS, Visionary. Napoleon I. [At St. Ielena, in his last illness, one morning,] Napoleon started up and exclaimed, in dreamy delirium, "I have just seen my good Josephine, hut she we.ald not embrace me. She disappeared at the moment when I was about to take her in my arms. She was seated there. ...S She is not changed. She is still the same, full of devotion to me. She told me we were about to see each other again, never more to part. Did you sec her ?"-Ambott's Napoleon B., vol. $\mathscr{2}$. ch. 34.
1726. DREss, Criminal. Joan of Arc. She feared in fuct among the soldiery those outrages to her honor, to guard agninst which she had from the first assumed the dress of a nian. In the eyes of the church her dress was a crime, and she abandoned it ; but a renewed affront forced her to resume the one safeguard left her, and the return to it was treated as a relapse into heresy, which doomed her to death. At the close of May, 14:31. a great pile was raised in the marketplace of Rouen, where her statue stands now. Even the brutal soldiers who suntehed the hated "witch" from the lands of the clergy and hurrled her to her doom were hushed as she reached the stake. One intleed passed to her a rough cross he hat mule from in stick he held, and she clasped it to her bosom. As her eyes ranged over the city from the lofty senffold, she was heard to marmur, " () Rouen, Ronten, I have great fuar lest you suffer for my death!" "Yes, my voires were of God!"' she suddenly eried as the last moment came; " acy have never leced ved me!" Soon the flames reached her, the girl's lieat sat: $k$ on her breast, there wis one cry of "Jesins !" "We are lost," an English suldiur muttered as the crowd loroke up; "we lave bumt a suint !" - Ilist. of ENa. Peoples, § 433.

176\%. DRESS exchanged. Jocin of Acc. To travel at such a time with tive or six men-at-arms was enongh to nlarm a young girl. An English woman or a German would never lave risked such a step; the indelicacy of the proceceling would have horrified her. Jeanne was mothing moved by it; she was too pure to entertain any fears of the kind. She wore a man's dress-a dress she wore to the last ; this close and closely fastened dress was her best safeguard. Yet was she young and beautiful. But there was around her, even to those who were most with her, $a$ barrier raised by religion and fear.-Micuelet's Joan or Arc, p. 8.
1728. DRESS, Extravagance in. B!/ E.romple. [The period of proud IIenry VIII. and the ostentatious Cardinal Wolsey] was an age of display, when the king set the example to his court of the most extravagant splendor, which many of the nobles ruined themselves to imitate. Knigut's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 17, p. 278.
1729. ———. Middle Ages. [From 1450 to 1485 was a most luxurious peaiod.] It has been truly suid [by Sir N. H. Nichols] that extravagance in dress "was a peculiar characteristic of the iniddle ages throughont Euroje." The handsome Edward IV. and the misshapen Rich. ard III. were equally carefal of the splendor of their urray. Lewis XI, of France... in his last days his gowns were all crimson satin lined with rich murtins' furs. -KNiGnt's ENG., vol. 2, ch. 7, p. 103.
1730. -_- Rumans. It was a complaint worthy of the gravity of the Semate, that, in the purchase of female ornaments, the wealth of the State was irrecoverably given uway to foreign and hostile nations. The anmual loss is computed, by a writer of an infuli tive but censorious temper, at upward of $& 800,000$ sterling. -Gibibon's Rome, ch. 2, p. 69.
1781. DRESS, Impressed by. Luther. On Sunday morning early Luther sent for his barler. When he had arrived he asked Luther, "Doctor, how comes it that you desire to be shaved at so carly an hour ?" Luther replied, "I am called to mect the ambassarlor of his Holy Father, the Pope; hence I must prepare and adorn myself to appear before him as if I were young; then the legate will think, "The deuce ! if Luther in his youth has done us so much mischief, what may he not do hercafter '?'"-REIN's LUTHER, ch. 22, p. 177.
1732. DRESs, Investment in. Samuel Jolunon. A gentleman told him he had bought a suit of lace for his lady ; he suid: "Well, sir, you linve done a good thing and a wise thlng."' "I Invedonengood thing," said the gentleman, "but I do not know that I lave done $n$ wise thing." Jolinnon : "Yes, sir; 110 money is better spent than what is lail out for domestic suthsfaction. A man is pleased that his wife is dressed as well as other people; and a wife is ?lensed that she is dressed."-Bosw bllL's Jounson, p. D4s.
1733. DRESS, Leglalation on. Englanel. [The stutute of 1463 lleclures] the sfuire and grentleman having $e^{4} 40$ a year may induge iu dimask or satin, forbidden to thoir liss wealthy neighbors. Mayors, sherifts, aml aldermin lave special exemptions. Below the chass of escuire und gentlemun are those who lave obtained position hy their wealth ; and those who have $$ 40$ of yently value may rejoice in furs and gilt girdles. The men possessed of less than $x+4$ yenrly are debarred from furs and fustian und scarlet cloth. The yomen and the presons umber this degree are to have no stufting in their doublets. Lastly, the servants in habadry and artiticers ure to weur no clothing of which the eloth shall cost more than two shillings the lromd yard. The second statute of 1483 preseribes what peculiar cloth of gold or silk shall be formidelen toall below the royal rank; what to those bejow a duke; what to those below a lord, of whom Il e knight only shall wear velvet in his doublet. By a comprehensive clmuse, no man umber the estate of a lord should wear cloth of foreign manufucture ; and the old price of cloth is agnin fixed for laborersand artificers. - KNight's ENG., vol. 2, ch. 7, p. 101.
17834.- - Sumpturary. [In 1593 the sumptuary laws of IIenry VIII. were not repeal. ed, but could not be enforcet.] Those who were winning wealth by industry would no longer submit, if they ever did submit, to be told liy statute what they were not to war, according toa scale of income varying from $£ 200$ to $£ 5$. They utterly despised the reason set forth for such arbitrary regulation-namely, to prevent "the subversion of good and politic order in knowledge and distinction of people, according 10 their estates, pre-eminentees, dignities, and degrees." A statute of Philipand Mury was directed ngainst the wearing of silk, except by certain privileged classes. . . . By statute of $150^{2}-63$. . "foreign stuff or wares" . . if sold to any person not possessing $£ 3000$ a year, in lands or fees, not being paid for in ready money, the seller was debarred of any legal remedy for the recovery of the debt. By a statute of 1566 velvet lats or caps were prohibited to all persons under the degree of a knight ; and by that of 1571 every person, except ladies, lords, knights, and gentlemen having twenty marks by the year in land, was to wear upon his head, on Sundays and holidays, a home-made cap of wool, very decent and comely for all states and degrees. If Stubbes is to be relied upon, all states and degrees rejected the statutory notion of what was decent and comely. They wore hats "perking up like thespear or shaft of a temple;" or hats "flat and broad and flat on the crown, like the battlements of a house;" or " round crowns," with bands of every color. They wore hats of silk, velvet, taffety, sarsenct, wool, and of "fine hair, which they called beaver." . . . . He was in no csti-mation among them who had not a velvet or taffety hat ; "and so common a thing it is, that every serving-man, country-man, or other, even all inelifferently, do wear of these hats."-KNionit's Ena., vol. 3, eh. 10, 1. 246.
1785. - - Henry J'TIS. In 1536 Tenry VIII. writes to his "well beloved" of the town of Galway, straightly charging and commanding that they should perpethally observe certain articles set forth for their weal and profit: "Item, 'That every inlubitant, as wedl within the said town as the suburbs of the same, do shave their over [upper] lips, ealled crompeanlis ; tund suifer the hair of their heads to grow till it cover their cars: and that every of them wear linglish caps. Item. That no man nor manehild do wear intintles in the streets, lint cloaks or gowns, conts, doublets, hose, shapen after the English fashion, of the country cloth, or any other cloth shall please them to buy.". . . In the reign of Elizaleth . . . "the ancient dress" was still worn. The mantle was still "a fit louse for an outlaw, a neet beci for rebel, and anapt -loak for a thief."-Kniaitis Eng., vol. 2, eh. 24, p. 396 .
1736. $\qquad$ Eugland. [In 1351 a statute was passed to] restrain the outrageous and excessive upparel of divers people nguinst their estate and degree. "Servants, artificers, . . .tradesmen and their wives are to wear cloth of a certain low price, with no gold, or silver, or silk, or embroidery. $\qquad$ Laborers in husbandry, if they had not forty shillings of goods or chattels, they were to wear only a blanket and russet, and girdles of linen, according to their estate. In these two elasses must have been comprised the bulk of the population. "-KNu;ir's ENG., vol. 1, ch. 31, p. 479.
1737. DRESS an Obstacle. Olirer Goldsmith. We have stated his grent objection to clerieal life, the obligation to wear a black coat ; and, whimsical as it may appear, dress seemed in fact to have formed an obstacle to his entrance into the chureh. He had ever a passion for elothing his sturdy but awkward little person in gay eolors ; and on this solemn oceasion, when it was to be supposed his garb would be of suitable gravity, he appeared luminously arrayed in searlet breeches ! Ile was rejected by the bishop. -Irving's Goldsmitir, ch. 3, p. 30.
1783. DRESS, Preaching against. Bishop of Iondon. [Queen Elizabeth carried her love of foreign dress nlmost into a mania. It was the only expenditure of which she was profuse. Sir Jolin Harrington says :] On Sunday my lord of London preached to the Queen's Majesty, and seemed to touch the vanity of deeking the body too finely. Her Majesty told the ladies that "if the bishop held more discourse on such matters, she would fit him for henven, but he shoull walk thither without a staff, and leave his mantle behind him." - KNidir's's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 16, p. 247.
1739. DRESS, Slnful. Joan of Are. What illust rates the time, the uninformed mind of these doctors, and cheir blind attachment to the letter without regard to the spirit, is, that no point seemed graver to them than the sin of having assumed male attire. They represented to her that, according to the canons, those who thus change the habit of their sex are abominalile in the sight of God. At flrst sle would not give a direct answ'r, und begged for a respite till the next day; but her judges insisting on leer !isearding the dress, she replied that sha was not rimpowered to say when she could quit it. - Munener's JoAn, 1. 43 .
1740. DRINKING, Ancient. E'ugletml. They were hatd driakers, wo dontot, as they were harid toilers, and the "ale-fenst" was the contre of their social life. But eonre as the revel might seem to modern eyos, the serme within the timbered hall, whielt rose in the midst of their villages, was often llomerice in its simplicity and dignity. Queen or carl's wife with a train of imad. ens, bore ale-bowl or mead-howl roumd the latl, from the high settle of king or caldorman in the midst to the meat benches ranged monarl its walls, while the gheman sang the hero-songes of his race.-IIst. of ENA. JEOPLA, 念 19.
1741. DRINKING, Art in. simuel Johnson. Talking of the etferts of drinking, he said: "I Drinking may be practised with groat prudence; a ban who exposes himself when he is intoxicated las not the art of getting drunk ; a sober man, who buppens oreasiomally to get alrunk, readily enough goes into a new company, which a man who has been drinking shonld never do. Such a man will undertake an, thing ; he is without skill in inebriation. I used to slink home when I had drunk too much. A minn accustomed to self-examination will be eonse ious when he is drank, thongh an labitual drunkard will not be eenscions of it. I knew a physicima who for twenty years was not sober; yat in a pamphlet, which he wrote upon fevers, he appealed to Garrick and me for his vindication from it charge of drunkenness. A booksedler (naming him) who got a large fortune by rade was so habitually and equally clronk, that his most intimate friends never perceived that he was moro sober at one time than unother." -Boswellis Joilnson, p. 411.
1742. DRINKING, Effects of. Samuel Johuson. I dined with hinn at Sir Joshum Reynolds'. I have not marked what company was there. Johnson harangued upcia the qualities of diffureni liquors, and spoke with great contempt of claret, as so weak that "a man would be drowned by it before it made linn drunk." He was persuaded to drink one glass of it, that he might judge, not from recollection, which mig?t he tim, but from immediate sensation. He shook his head, and suid: "Poor stuff! No, sir; elaret is the liquor for boys; port for men ; lut he who aspires to be a hero (smiling) must drink brandy. In the first place, the flavor of brandy is most gratefis to the palate; and then brandy will do soonest for a man what drinking can clo for lim." -Boswellis Juilisun, p. 409.
1743. ———. Semmul Johnsom. We discussed the question whether drinking improved conversation and benevolence. Sir Joshan maintained it did. Jounson : "No, sir ; before dinner men meet with great inequality of understanding ; and those who are conscious of their inferiority have the modesty not to talk. When they have drunk wine every man feels himself happy, and loses that modesty, and grows impudent and vociferous; but he is not improved; lie is only not sensible of his defects. I admit that the spirits are ralsed by drinking, as by the common paricipution of any pleasure ; cook-tightling or bear-baling will ruise the splites of a comprny, as drlaking deres, though surely they will not improve conversation. I nlso ndmit that there are some slaggish nen who are improved by drimking, as there are frults whinh are not good till they ave rotten. There aresuch men, but they are meddlers. I hindeed allow that there have beena very tew men of talents who were improved hy drinking. "-Beaweah's Jonsson, p. 29.

17A. DRUNKENNESS, Melancholy. Alerander. [During adrunk mearomsaloticncewasgiven to Alexamder the Great by one ot his ofteers. An opportmity being presented, $]$ Alexamdersmateched a spear from one of his gumpls, and mecting Clitus, us he was futting by the curtain, ran him through the body. Ile fell immediately to the gromnd, und with a dismal groan expired. Alexander's rage subsided in a moment; he came to himself; and secing his friends standing in silent astonishment loy him, he hastily drew the spear out of the dead bocly, and was upplying it to his own throat, when his guards seized his hands, and carried him by lorce into his chamber. He passed that night and the next day in anguish inexpressible; and when he had wasted himself with tears and hanentations, he hay in speechless grief, uttering only now and then a groan. His triends, ulamed at this moluncholy silence, forced themselves into the room, and attempted to console him.-Pretancio's Mlexanden.
1745. DRUNKENNESS punished. Drunkard's Cloak. [In 1793 there were pmishments for low debauchery, such as the drunkarl's doak, consisting of a barrel mims the lower hend, having an opening in the upper part for the projeetion of the head of the wearer, whose body was enclosed by it ; small openings on the sides permitted the extension of the hands, which could not reach the month.]-KNiaut's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 16.
1746. DUEL, Combat by, Alerander. Alexunder having subdued all on this side the Euphrntes, began his march against Darius, who had taken the field with $1,000,000$, men. During this march one of his friends mentioned to him, as a matter that might divert him, that the servants of the army hat divided themselves into two bands, and that each had chosen a chief, one of which they called Alexander, nud the other Darius. They begm to skirmish with clods, and alterward fought with their fists ; and at last, heated with a desire of victory, many of them came to stones and sticks, insomuch that they could hardly le parted. The king, upon this report, ordered the two chiefs to fight in single combat, and armed Alexander with his own hands, while Philotas tlid the same for Darius. The whole army stood and looked on, considering the event of this combat as a pressige of the issuc of the war. The two chamj, ons fought with grent fury ; but he who bore the name of Alexander proved victorious. IIe was rewardcd with a present of twelve villages, and allowed to wear a Persian robe, as Eratosthenes tells the story.-Plutarch's Alexander.
1747. DUEL, Marder by. Alexander Ihamilton. In the summer of 1804 the country was shocked by the intelligenee that Vice-President

Burr had killed Alexander Ifamilton in a duel. [Burr was ambitlons to secure the Presidentini clmalr ufter Mr. Jefferson's second term. To this end he became a cmadidute for the governor's ofllee in New York.] But Inmilton's powerful inthume in Now York prevented Burr's election, and his Preshdential ambition received a stoming biow. From that day he determined to kill the man whom he pretended to regard as the destroyer of his hopes. Hencoordingly sought a charrel with liamilton; clailenged him ; met him at Wechawken, opposito New York, on tho morning of the 11th of July, and deliberately murdered him; for Iamilton had tried to avoid the challenge, and when fare to face with his nntagonist refused to tire. Thus, under the savnge and abominable custom of duelling, was put out the brightest intellect in Amerien.-Rin1.sth's U. S., ch. 48, p. $3 \times 2$.
17.48. DUEL, Naval. Pioll Joncs. Dr. Franklin succedied In getting him another ship, tho ever famous Bon Iromme Rielard, thas named by Cuptain Jones in honor of the venrable editor of Poor Richard's Almmue. She was a large, slow, rotten old ship, carrying forty guns, and manned by three hundred and eighty sailors and landsmen of all mations-French, Irish, Scotch, Portuguese, Mahays, Maltese, and a sprinkling of Americans. It was in this shif, t'me the indomitable Jones fought the Serapis, it new British ship of forty-four guns, one of the stontest vessels in the English navy. This was perhaps the most desperite and bloody contest that ever took place between single ships. It was fonght in the evening of September 23d, 1778, so nom the Yorkshire const that the battle was witnessed by hundreds of spectators on the shore. . . At half-past ten in the evening, the British ship being on fire in many places, her captain struck his colors. The Bon Homme Richard was so completely knocked to picees that slie could not be kept aflont. She sank tho next day, and Captain Jones went into port in the captured ship, with 700 prisoners. This great victory raised his fame to the highest point. The King of France gave him a magniffcent diamond hilted sword, and Congress voted him a gold 1 ied-al.-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 337.
1749. DUEL proposed. Monarchs. The French army had passed the Alps, when Charles V. set out from Rome, and obliged them again to retreat across the mountains, and entering Provence, advanced as far as Marseilles, and laid siege to Arles, while another army ravaged Champagne and Picardy. It was on this occasion of the enterprise against the Milanese that Francis [I.] took it into his head to send Charles a challenge to engage him in single combat, staking as a prize Milan on the one part, and Burgundy on the other. The challenge was accepted, but it may bee believed that this extruordinary duel was never fought.-TyTLer's Hist., Book 6, ch. 19.
1750. DUEL, Religious. Wellingtom. [On the 21st of March, 18?!, the Duke of Wellington had a hostile meeting in Battersea fields with the Earl of Winchelsea, occasioned by an insinuation respecting the duke's sincere attachment to Protestantism. $]$ The Duke of Wellington fired without effect; the Earl of Winchelsea discharged his pistol in the air, and then tendered "Written upology, - Kination Exet, vol. 8, ch. 12, 1. : 240.
1751. DUELS, Inequallty in. Jusiah Quincy. Lis ardor in debate would lave led to freminent chatlenges and dacls if he had not from the first made up his miad never to be bulliod lntomanoversation with Southeris monnores on the sathjoret, be would suy: "We do not stamd upou arpal grominds in this mattor. If we thint amd vou kill we, it is a fenther in your cap, and your comstiturnts will think all the brtter of you for it. If 1 shanld kill you, it would ruin bee with mine, mad they wonlilnever semd me to Congreas

1752. DUPLICITY, National, Tienrherous. An amount of duplicity mind trenchery, happily unpurstleled in the finture conduct of our coun1ry, [was practised by the ministry of Quern Anne toward tho ulies, with whom she was hound, hy special treaties, to resist France]. The ministry were afraid of some brilliant success in Flanders that might derange their plans ; and to prevent such a calamity, they gave secret information to the enemy of the military piojects of the ullies, and at the most eritical moment of the campaign they withelrew their troops from the contest. [Their general was commanded to keep up the pretence of ro-operation, but to prevent nuy engrgement hefore le was ordered home with his army.]-Kniant's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 25, p. 392.
1753. DUTIES, High. Gull. [During the reign of William $1 / I$. the duty on sult was raised to forty times the value of the article taxed.] KNiaHT's Exa., vol. 5, ch. '2, p. 22.
1754. DWELLINGS, Plainness In. Lycurgis the Langievr. He issued an ordinance whicon levelled agranst magnificence and expense, directed that the ceilings of houses should be wrought with no tool but the axe, and the doors with nothing but the sitw. For Epaninondas is roported to lave suid, afterward . . . such a honseadmits of no luxury and needless splendor. Indeed, no mun could be so alosurd as to bring into a dwelling so homely and simple, bedstends with silver feet, purple coverlets, golden cups, and a train of expense that follows these, but all would necessurily have the bed suitable to the room, the coverlet of the bed and the rest of their utensils and furniture to iint. - Plutancirs Lycuraus.
1755. EARNESTNESS, Eloquence of. Peter the Ifermit. [He instigated the Crusades.] When he painted the sufferings of the natives and pilgrims of Palestine, every heart was melted to compassion; every breast glowed with indignation when he challenged the warriors of the age to defend their brethren and rescue their Saviour ; his ignorance of art and langunge was compensated by sighs and tears and ejaculations ; and Peter supplied the deficiency of reason by loud and fre(fuent appeals to Christ and His mother, to the saints and angels of paradise, with whom he had personally conversed. The most perfect orator of Athens might have envied the success of his eloquence; the rustic enthusiast inspired the passions which he felt, and Christendom expected with impatience the counsels and deerees of the supreme pontiff,-Gibion's Rome, ch. 58, p. 538.

175(3. EARNESTNESS 7s, Humor. Abrahatw Liucoln. $\Lambda$ rudienl member of . . . Congress . . . during the dark days of 1862 . . . culled "pon the Presiflent. Mr. Lincoln comamemerd telling some tritlingr ineident, which the Congrossmath was in monomy to hear. IIte rose to Wise fect, und said, " Mr. President, I did not come latre this moming to lacar stories ; it is too surions "t time." Iastanaly the smile disappeared from Mr. Liacoln's fure, who exclaimed, " I-- sit down! ! respert yon as an earnost and sincere wan. Уon camot be more maxious than 1 am constantly, mad I may to yon now, that were it not for his orconsiomal reat, I slmonld die !" RAyMoND's I.INCOIN, 1). T26.
1737. EARNESTNESS, Success by. Hioulin Sirorid. Alslel-Mommul, a dervish und a fivorite warrior of Orkhan, made a vow never 10 eanaloy in battle but andre mude of the wood of the phanc-tree. The vigor of his arm gave, it is suid, to this wempon the werght and the edge of cane of iron. Orkhan, ut the death of Abreel-Monrud, enased the wenpon to be trensured in the archives of the empire.-LAMARTINE's TUHEEY, p. 220.
1758. EARTHQUAKE, Destructive. Anrient. In the second year of the reign of Valentininn and Valens, on the morning of the twenty-tirst day of July, the greutest pari of the lioman world was slanken loy a violent and destructive earthgmake. The imprexsion was commmionted to the waters; the shores of the Mediterranean were left dry by the sudden retrent of the sea ; great guantities of tish were enught with the hand ; large vessels were strambed on the mand; and a curious spectator amused his eye, or rather his fancy, by contemplating the virious appearance of villey's und mountains, which hum never, since the formation of the globe, bean exposed to the sum. Jut the tide soon returned, with the weight of an immense and irresistible deluge, which was severely felt on the coasts of Sicily, of Dalmatin, of Grecee, und of Egypt ; lurge boats were transported and lodged on the roofs of honses, or at the distance of two miles from the shore: the people, with their labitations, were swept away ly the waters ; and the city of Alexandria ammsnily commemorated the fatal day on which fifty thousand persons had lost their lives in the inundation.-Gibbon's Rome, eh. $\mathfrak{2} 6$.
1759. EARTHQUAKES, Period of. Anrifnt. [The historian olserves] that this fever of the earth raged with uncommon violence during the reign of Justinian. Euch year is marked by the repetition of eurthquakes, of such duration that Constantinople lass been shaken aloove forty days; of such extent, that the shock has been communicated to the whole surfuce of the globe, or at least of the Roman empire. An impulsive or vibratory motion was felt; enormous chasms were opened, luge and lieavy bodies were discharged into the uir, the sea alternately advanced and retreated beyond its ordinary bounds, and a mountain was torn from Libanus and cast into the waves, where it protected, as a mole, the new harbor of Botrys in Phcenicia. The stroke that agitates an ant-hill may crush the insect-myriads in the dust: yet truth must extort confession that man has industriously labored for his own destruction. The institution of great cities, which include a nation within the limits of a wall, almost realizes the wish of Caligula, that the Roman people lad but one nork. Two handrod and thity thonsand persomsare maid to have perislaci in the eathquake of Artioch, whose domestie multitudien were swelled by the conalns of strangers to the festival of the Ascension.Ginhon's lomede, ill. 43.
1760. EASE, Irreligious, stemul ,fohnsem. In lisis "Meditations" he tha.it acenses himeself: - Good Friday, April 20 , 1704. I lave mate no reformation; I have lived totally uselcoss more sensual in thought, mai more abdicted to wine and ment." Ami next morning he thus feedingly complains: "My indolence, sinue my last reception of the sucranem, lans sumk into grosser sluggishness, and my dissipation spread into wilder negligence. My thoughts lave been clouded with sensuality; and ex. celt that from the beginning of this year I have, in some measure, forborne excess of strong drink, my appetites lave predominated over my romsom. A kind of strange oblivion has overspremd me, so that I know not what has beeone of the last year ; and percelve that incidents and intelligence "pass over me withont leaving any impression." He then solemnly says: "This is not the life to which heaven is promised ;" and he carnestly resolves an mombment. - Boswelli's Joifson, p. 134.
1761. Eating, Custom in. Menelester. The social eondition of Manchester at the end of ilae seventeenth century was very primitive. lis manufaetures were carried on by small masters, who hul apprentices residling in their houses. The master and his young men breakfasted together upon "water pottage boiled thick," aud a bowl of milk stood upon the table, into which all dipped their spoons.-Knitile's Enc., vol. 5, ch. 2, p. 24.
1762. - Roman. The custom of reclining on conches came not into use till the end of the sixth century, and for some time after it was adopted by the men the Roman ladies, from motives of decency, continued to sit upright at table; but these scruples were soon removed, and all promiscnously adopted the recumbent posture, except the youth who had not ret attained the age of putting on the manly robe. They sat in a respectful posture at the bottom of the couch. These couches were ranged along three sides of a square table, which was then called triclinium, as was likewise the chamber itself in which they supped. The fourth side of the table remained open for the servants to place and remove the dishes. Above was a large canopy of cloth suspended ly the corners, to prevent the compazy being :ncommoded with dust. It was this custom that enables Horace to introduce a ludicrous accident, which he describes as oceurring at a supper given by the niggardly but ostentatious Nasidienus to Mecrenas, and some ether courtiers. While the landlord is entarging on the praises of a favorite dish, and discussing the merits of the component ingredients of the sauce, the canopy falls down and involves every-thing-host, guest, supper and dishes-in a cloud of dust and darkness.-Tytlem's IIst., Book 4, ch. 4.
1763. ECONOMY, Hablt of. Tieasure. For their relief [the people], as often as they had suffered by natural or hostile calamities, he was impatient to remit the arrears of the past, or the demands of future taxes; he sternly rejected the servile offerings of his ministers, whieh werre compensated by tenfold oppression; and the wiseand equitable laws of Tiluerius exded the praise and regret of suceceiling times. Constantinoplobelieved that the emperor had diseovered a treasure; but his gemuine treasure consisted in the practice of liberil economy, and the constempt of ati vain and superthous experse. The liomans of the East would have bren happy, if the best glft of Henven, a patriot king, lad been confirmed as a proper and permanent blessing. [Tiberins was emperor of the Easterin Empire.]Cfilion's llomls, ch. 45, p. 404.
1764. ECONOMY misrepresented. Meanness. [It is common to impute blane to Elizabeth for prasimony, as she was not aceustomed to spend her revenues for her own luxurious gratification. She used them to pay the erown debt of four millions, and to repar her deayed mavy. Slu consumed little or nothing in her pleasures.] Kniant's Ena, vol. 3, elh. 15, p. 238.
1765. ECONOMY, National. Frederick the Great. [Every seventh man in the vigor of life was a soldier-army expenses enormous.] In order that it might not be utterly ruinous, it was neressary that every other expense should be eut down to the lowest possible point. Accordingly, Frederick, though his dominions bordered on the sea, had no navy. He neither had nor wished to have colonies. His judges, his fiscal ofteers. were mennly paid. Ilis ministers at foreign courts walked on foot, or drove shably old carriages thll the axletrees gave way. Even to his highest diplomatic agents, who resided at London and Paris, he allowed less than $£ 1000$ sterling a year. The royal household was managed with a frugality unusual in the establishments of opulent subjects-unexampled in any other palace. The king loved good cating and drinking. and during a great part of his life took pleasure in seeing his table surrounded by guests; yet the whole charge of his kitchen was brought within the sum of $£ 2000$ sterling a ycar. He examined every extraordinary item with a eare which might be thought to suit the mistress of a boarding. house better than a great prince.-Macaulay's Fiederick the Great, p. 46.
1766. ECONOMY and Thrift. Iinperial. [John Ducas Vataces, ruler of the Eastern Empire it 1222, rescued the provinces from national and foreign usurpers.] The calamities of the times had wasted the numbers and the substance of the Greeks; the motives and the means of agriculture were extirpated; and the most fertile lands were left without cultivation or inhabitants. A portion of this vacant property was occupied and improved by the command, and for the benefit, of the emperor ; a powerful hand and a vigilant cye supplied and surpassed, by a skilful management, the minute diligence of a private farmer; the royal domain became the garden and granary of Asia; and without impoverishing the people, the sovereign acquired a fund of innocent and productive wealth. According to the nature of the soil, his lands were sown with corn or planted witl vines ; the pastures were filled with horses and oxen, with sheep, and hogs ; and when Vataces presented to the empress a crown of diamonds and pearls, he informed her, with a smile, that this precious ormament arowe from the sate of the cgges of his hams. morable poultry. The produce of his doman was applied to the maintenance of his pulace and hospitals, the calds of dignity mad benevolence: the lesson was still more nsefal than the revembe ; the plongh was restored to its andient securlty and honor; and the nobles were taught to swek sanre and hodependent revenue from their eshates, instomd of ulornhag their splendid heggary by the oppression of the people, or (what is atmost the smme) by the favors of the court.-Ginmos's llome, eh. 43.
1767. ECONOMY, Wise. Hilliam lran. a.d. 16x: . When about to leave his family for America,] his wife, who was the love of his sonth, was reminded of his impoverishment becomse of his publlespirit, and recommended economy. "Live low nud sparingly till my debts he paid." Yot for his chiblien he adhls: "Iat their learning be liberill: spare no eost, for hy surf parsimony all is lost that is saved."--Bancuoft's L. S., vol. 2, ch. 16.

176\%. ECSTASY, Religious. Bunn//m. The suffering was over now, inad he felt that it lund been intinitely benoficini to him. Ile understood better the glory of Gool and of llis Son. The Sirriptures had opened their secrets to him, and he had seen them to he in very truth the ker's of the kiugiom of heaveh. Never so clearly as after this "temptation" had he perceived "the heights of grace and love and mercy." Two or three tiones " he had such strange apprehen-: sions of the grace of God as lud amazed him." The impression was so overpowering, that if it had "omtimued long "it would have rendered him incapable for business."-Frocde's Buxyan, eh. 4.
1769. EDIFICE, Monumental. Pericles. The orators of 'Thucydides' party raised a clamor against Pericles, asserting that he wastert the public trensure, and brought the revenue to nothing. Pericles, in his defence, asked the people in full assembly whether they thought he lad expended too much. Upon their answering in the affirmative, "Then be it," said he, " charged to my account, not yours; only let the new edifice he inseribed with my name, not that of the people of Athens." Whether it was that they admired the greatness of his spirit, or were ambitions to share the glory of such magniticent works, they cried out that he might spend as much as he plensed of the public trensure, withont sparing it in the least.-Plutancits Pericler.
1770. EDUEATION, Ancient. Persians. Yet amirl this wuntomess of Asiatic marnificence, the care which those princes bestowed on the educution of their children merited the highest praise. They were, almost as soon as born, removed from the palace, and committed to the charge of eumuchs of approved fidelity amd dis. cretion. At seven years of age they learned the exercise of riding, and went daily to the chase, to inure them betimes to fatigue and intrepidity. At the age of fourteen they were put under the care of four preceptors eminently distinguished by their wistons and abilitics. The first opened to them the doctrines of the magi ; the second impressed them with a veneration for truth; the third exercised them in the habits of fortitude and magaanimity : :and the fourth inculeated the most diffleult of all lessons, esperiatly to the great-the perfect command nod governancot of thelr passions.-Tyulesis Hisi., Fook 1, ch. 11 .
1771. - -. I'mpelar. The Pershans in gemernl, whowe every other mation, were noted for thedr extreme attention to the eduration of youth. Before the age of the the chilimen were ixellisively muder the tuition of the mother and assistant females. After that age they were rommitted to the clarge of the mati, anorder of men whose proper function was that of priests or ministers of the nationul roligion, but who spent their lives in the pursuit of wishom and the practiee of the strifetest morulity. By their precepts and their exmmple, the lersim youth were early tranem to virtue and good morals. They were tought the most sur red regurd to truth, the highost veneration for their parents and superiors, the most perfect summisslon to the haws of their country, and respect for its magintrutes. Nor was the cuiture of the body arglected. Tho youth were traneal to every manly exorcise-a prepuative to their admission fito the londy of the king's gumeds, in whild they were enrolled at the age of seventern. The frenemal system of rducution among the Proshans fis thas heonicolly deseribed by Herolotus: "From the nge of the to that of twenty they teach their children three things alone-to mumge a horse, to use the bow with dexterity, und to spenk truth."TYTıEu's IIINT., Book 1, ch. 11.

177\%. EDUCATION, Anti-Classical. Frederick the Grecet. The Latin was positively interdided. "My son," his Majesty wrote, "slinll not lemrn Latin ; and, more than that, I will not sulfer anybody even to mention such a thing to me." One of the preceptors ventured to reard the Golden Bull in the original with the Prince Royul. Frederick Willime entered the room, and broke out in his usual kingly style. "liaseal, what are you at there?" "Please, your Majesty," answered the preceptor, "I wis explaining the Golden Bull to his royal Highness." "I'll Golden Bull you, you rascal," roared the majesty of Prussia. Ly went the king's cane, away ran the terrifled instructor, and Frederick's classical education was ended.-Macaulay's Frederick the Gheat, p. 16.
1773. EDUCATION, Apportionment for. Mrassachusetts Colony. The governor assigned for the support of the [IIrvard] college the profits of the ferry over the Charles River, and the people were called upon to make an annual contribution to it, of at least one peck of corn! For many, many yenrs, however, the college was a henvy charge upon the people, and the tutors and president were most scantily and precariously maintained.

Nine years after their winter march through the wilderness the Connectient colonists begrn to contribute a little toward the support of Harvard College, each famity being requested by the legislature to give one peck of wheat per ammum. -Cyclopema of Brog., pp. 584, 591.
1774. EDUCATION appreciated. Aucient Romans. Plutareh, in his comparison between Numa and Lycurgus, has bestowed a severe censure on the Roman lawgiver, for his neglecting to establish a system, or to institute any fixed rules for the education of the Roman youth. But the truth is, that aithough the lans prescribed no such system, or general plan of discipline.
like thome of Sparta, yet thero nover existed a peophe: who bestowad inore itfontion on the ed. meaton of their youth. la the dialogene, "De which shows in aremarkable manmer that exireme core Instowed, worn in the corlicest infancy, to form the manners mul disposition of the Koman children. From this passige we lemrn, that in such was that anxions baro bextowed on their chlheren by the lomana matroms-sidela that jondomsy of their recodvang any of their embliost lanpressioms from slaves or domosilies-lhat they mot only educuted their own rhilifrem, lut ac. conutad it an homorable employment to supprinlemed nud assist in ednenting the children ol their

1775. $\qquad$ Rirhard Alrkarvight. [iRlch. ard Arkwright, the inventor of the spinning-matchloce, was, after a sevare struggle, raised from poverty to woulth. $]$ As he rose: into rank ind importinuer, he folt the neressatiy of correcting the deflects of his marly edncation ; and ufter his tlftioth year he applied two hours of each day, smateleal from sleep, to improve himself in gramumar, orthography, and writing. - Kinidurr's Eino., vol. 7, clı. 3, p. 49.
1776. - ——. Nir William, Jones. There Was a little boy whon some years buck rintored llarrow School, und was put into a class beyond his years, wherein all the other boys had the athvantuge of previous instruction. Ilis muster used to reprove his dulness, but nll his afforts conld not raise him from the lowest place in the form. But the boy, nothing dimuted, procured the grammar and other elementary books which the others had previonsly studied; he devoted the hours of pay, mui mot a fow of the hours of sleep, to the mastery of these, fill, in in few werks, le begm gradanlly to rise, mai it was not long Inefore he shot far bliend of his compmaions, and became not only the lender of his class bit the pride of LIarrow. The statue of that boy, who thus zanlously began his careor, is in St Panl's Cathelral ; for he lived to be the greatest Orienwh scholar in modern Eiarope.
1777. $\qquad$ Robert Stephenson's Father. When Robert was a little boy, I suw how deticient I was in educntion, und I made up my mind that he should not labor imder the sume defect, but that I would put him to a good school, and give him a liberal training. I whe, however, a poor man. . . . I betook myself to mending my PUES, p. 56.
1778. EDUCATION, Athletic. Romam. The exercises of the body were .. . purticularly nttended to. Wrestling, running, boxing, swinsming, using the bow nod javelin, manaring the horse, and, in short, whatever might harden the body and increase its st rength and activity, were all reckoned necessary parts of education.-T ypLer's IIIst. , Book 4, ch. 3.
1779. EDUCATION, Beginning in. Colony of Massachusetts. It was ever the custom, and it soon became a law, in Puritan New England, thint " none of the brethren should suffer so much barbarism in their families as not to teach their children and apprentices so much learning as may amble them perforily for real the Eughenh

17 *(1). EDUCATION, Christlan. Einglaut, litlo.
 momer the work of erlacitiomal reform hy devollag, in lalo, his privino fortune lo tho formilabent of fis fomblores mind was shown by tho image of the child Jishes over the master's challe, whth the wotw. " Hear ye Jima " kraven turnenth it. "Lalt up yours littlo whito latads ?', mer," wrote the dean to his seloblars in words which onller seeming of a man-" liar me whilelo prayeth for you to (ionl." Sll tho relurathomidesigno of the reformors were corridel ont in the new fotminetion. 'Ithe ole metherds of inatraction weresuper. seded liy fresh grammars componed ly lisasmos

 nimed at the minon of rational religion with somuld lemrning, ut the exelnsion ol the sehohastio logia' mad at the: stady ditinsion of the two elansideal

17*1. EDUCATION, Ctvillzation by, Ameient Germans. 'l'he (iqumans, In the uge of Thodius, were umerpuninted with the nse of letters ; and the use of letters is the principal circomstance that distinguishes ne civilized people fromat ateral of savagres incopalile of knowledge or redaction. Withont that artiticial leclj, the human memory sonol dissiputes or corruphts the idens intrusted tio her clarge ; ind the nobler finculites of the mind, no longer supplied witli mordels or with muterinds, grmanlly forget their jowers; the judgment lecomes ferble mad lethugic, the imagimation limguid or irregular. Fully to apprehend this imjortant trith let us uttempt, in un improved soricty, to colculate the immense distance between the man of lamming and the illiterate pensunt. The formor, hy reading und reflection, matijuliess his own experience, und lives indistant nges nud remote countries; while the latter, rooted to a single spor, umd conthed to $n$ few yemrs of existence, surpasses bit vary lithe his fellow-haborer, the ox, in the expreise of his mental facultion. The same, and even a grenter difference, will be found betwern mations than bet ween individuals; mad we maty mafely pronounce withont some species of writing, mo people . . . Insever made any considerable progress in the nhatract sciences, or ever possessed in any tolerable degree of perfection the useful ind ingreenble arts of life.-GinHON'S ROME, (l). 9, 1. 258.
1782. EDUCATION, Collegiate. Southey. Of all the months of hislife, those passed at Oxford, Southey dechured, were the most unprotitable. "All I lenrnt was a litlle swimming . . . and a little bonting. . . . I never remember to lave dreant of Oxford-a sure proof low little it entered into my morn being ; of sehool, on the contrary, I dream perpctumlly." The miscellancous society of workers, idlers, dunces, lucks, men of muscle und men of money, did not please him ; he lacked what Wordsworth calls "the congregating temper that pervades our unripe years." -Dowden's Southey, cli. 2.
1783. EDUCATION, Contribntions for. File College. "I give these books for the foumding of a college in this colony." Such were the worde of tell miniatars who, lit the peme 1 (iot), asse cost of New Ihasen. Eimb of the worthy fathers deposited a fow hooks on the table aromad which they were sitting : such whe the fombllag of Yake cofloge.. ( hat of the most libered patrons was I7N.E. EDUCATION, Defloionoy in. (Forg' ulmost fromit tufan'y his lot land heren the lot of un orplam. Nomedidelny hal welcomed him to Its mbules, mocollege erowned hiln with ite looll-cli. :2t, vol. is.

17(w). EDUCATION, Deprived of. I'tir' ('msper. I.l. I). From hils delliney of constitation chichly, he was never mblo to ridare the contlinement of wehond; la fact, he never uttemerd neloon buro than one year, mal then only a pertlon of the time for u jart of the day. Owhing to this canse, more thatis the poverty of his father, he was deprlved of all selool training. Ihat ihis turned out In ulter yenrs a blessing, alfonugh lue could never so regurd it ; for othe of the derpest Inthences that shajeed his eharmeter and mets wis the high estimnto ho put upon knowledge, which he was not able to obtain in his lmyhood, and to this finct we owe the exfstence of tho Cooner Institute. Ile often nald to his friendes that he was determined, as fur as ln him lay, to save as munv young people as be could from what he catad his misfortune-the luek of amrly edneatom. This is one of the hastameres in which some of the gremtest pifte of fortune turn out to have beron Dlessings in disguise . . . he persistet to the last lin regarding " the hoek of sehoollig " ans the great misfortune of lis life. "II' I could have lund such advantages as we cangive the poorest boy now, how musli more conld I luse done "' "These words often fell from his lips.-Iantren's LaFE OF P'ETEM Cool'En, p. 11.
1786. EDUCATION, Devoted to, Coufurius. IReturning to his mativecontry uiter his joumey in seareh of wisdom, be entered acrionsly upon the great work of his life, which was to record all that he had himself learned and thourht, as well usall which he considered worthy of preservation in the works of the merients. His object was to gather and to arrange the whole wisdom of his country so thint it conld be conveniently communicated to his people and their descendants lorever. To this habor lie devoted a'l the leisure of the rest of his life, and he prodite da sories of works upon which the sonl of Chinat has ever since smbisisted, and which do remily contain a very pure und exalted system of morals.-C'yCloipedia of Bloci., p. 411.
1787. EDUCATION difficult. Alraham Liucoln. Dining the twelve years that the family remained in ludiana, Abraliam's father encournged him to improve all the epportunities offered for mental development. Ilow seanty these privile pes were may be inferred from the faet that the entire number of days that he was able to attend sehool hardly exceeded one year.-RayMOND's Lincoln, eh. 1, p. 21.
1788. - George Washington. At eleven years old left an orphan to the care of lemruing. ol' arlthandie and keometry he are quired just knowledge rinough to le able to pranphy or rulow of grumbur of hisown tomgue. Ilis 'ulture was altogether hisown work, und ho was In the strictest sellse urelfemale man; yret from

I\%WS. EDUCATION diaparaged. Abrahom Linrolu. |llis movher| lind linsiruetedt himin in (ho rudiments of writhog, und Mr, i, incoln, In spilte of the dinpuraging remarks of has nelghvere. . . . Othe of the vary tirst cillorts of him fin. tering pen was writing a lelter to un old frlend of to conte atbl delliar a sermond over her grave,

Abralmin's pen therenfter fommal frequent -injloyturnt in writing letters for the sume nelghlors who lmal infore proteraled to esterem lightly
 1,1 . 21 .
1700. Education, Distinction by. Relitive. Our entinuate of persomal merit is relative to the common faculties of mankind. The nspiring cllurts of genius or virtac, rither in netve or speralutive life, are monsured not so much by their real clevatlon as hy the helght to whide they uscend ubove the level of their uge or country; and the sume sinture whirli in a people of gilnnts woulel pass unnoticed must uppear conspicutons in a rate of pygmies. Leonklas and his three hundred compmaions devoted thelr lives at Thernopylie ; bit the chacotion of the Infunt, the boy, vind the man had prepared and almost insured this memornble sucriflee; ind etch Spartan would approve malier than admire inn act of daty of which himself and eight thentsand of his fellow elitizens were edually capable. -Gianos'н Rome, ch. 42, 1). 190.
1781. EDUCATION, Donations to. Ilarrarl Collefre. Some of the enrly domutions ware very simplenme curions. 1 clergyman, for exnmple. laving neither money nor lands to bestow, gave the college two cows, valued at $£ 9$. A gentleman presented nine shillings' worth of eotton cloth. Another contributed forty whillings a year for ten yenrs ; und ufnrmer, who lived in Inutford, befueathed f100 to be paid in corn and meal, the collerge to defray the cost of transportation. One of the Buhamm Islunds, for whichat a time of fumine colleetions had bern made in New England, now in its turn made a collection for the college, "out of their poverty," ns the'y said, and sent £1D4.-CYCLOPEDAA OF B1OO., 1P. 583.
1792. EDUCATION, End of. Compr Institute. The corner-stone of the Union was hid. Within that stone was placed a seroll which bore this inseription: "The grent object that I desire to accomplish by the erection of this institution, is to open the avenues of scientific knowledge to the youth of our city and country, and so unfold the volume of nature, that the young may see the beauties of ereation, enjoy its blessings, and learn to love the Author from whom cometh every good and perfect gift."-Lesten's Life of $\mathrm{P}_{\text {eter }}$ Coupeil, p. 34.

171Dis. EDUCATION, Errors in. /.uflors. In nellf to selowi at a viry enrly age.

I'lı

 days," miys he, "woretymuts mad exerotloner"; of fiour and misery, flogghge and tromblings, trented nltogether ton severely, wo that they might well live herell ablled martyrs. Pime whe wisted ovir minly itmolons thinge, und ilins muny uts nhla mind was ruhard." He himmelf of a slagle morning beromes ho did not kiow THEA, ch. 2, p. 21.
178.A. EDUCATION, Ceneral. Dín Einplimel. In mattors of "ilnemilon New linglanil look the lemal. Iler system of free sehools axtembed "verywhore, from the llidson to the l'anolsent. Fvery village firmished the facillthes for $n$ quiring knowledges, So romplote amd miversin were the momis of nequirlag insiruetion, that but the thanes preerilng the levohitlon there was not to to fonnal in all New lingland an mdult. lorn in the comatry, who conded not resud nind write. Aplemellid nelsievement of l'urlanism :-

1785. EDUCATION guarded. Bmoks. [Orillnumes for the dinily conduct of the Irince of Whlas were drnwn bip by hiln finher, just before his donth, | which preseribed his morning ittend. nure nt mmse, his ocempation "at his school," hls mends, and his sporits. Nomme is to sit it his loorrl det wach in Earl livers shall nllow ; und it this hoise of ment it is ordered "that there be rend beiore him noble storios, as lecheoveth is prince to molerstand ; nud that the commmaiontion nt nll theses, ln his presence, be of virtur, honot, cumning [knowledge], wisdon, nud deeden of worshili, and of nothing that shatl move him to vlee."... [The prince was twolve years olel it the time of hils father's denth, In i.48:3.]-KNiant's Eni., vol. 2, ch. 11, 1. 176.
1786. EDUCATION, Helpe to. Rubert Burns. He mperars not only ns a true 3 ritish poet, but us one of the most considernble liritish men of the eigliterenth century. Let it not be whjerterl that he did little; lie did much, If we eansider where nnd loww. If the work preff bined wis small, we must remember that he huri 'is very muterinds to discover ; for the metni he $\because$ orked in luy hid under the desert, where not; e bit his hnd gnessed its existence; and we nuy nlmost suly, that with his own hand he hand to const ruct the tools for inshloning it. For lie fonnd himself in deepest olsenrity, withont help, withont instruction, withont models, or with models only of the meanest sort. An educated $n$. $n$ stands, us it were, in the midst of a boundless arsenal and magnzine, filled with all the weapons and engines which man's skill has been able to devise from the carliest time; and he works, necordingly, with a strength borrowed from all past uges. How different is his state who stands on the outside of that storehouse, and feels that its gates must be stormed, or remain forever shut against him? His means are the commonest and rudest; the mere work done is no measure of his rentove monntulns; lint nudwirt will hew thefit that hirls therit alifond wilh hiv arma. - ('att. I,YIN:ल H:INM, Ю. IN.
1707. EDUCATION, Higher Life by, drixtothe, 'Those who lave inst forgotlent their trrok fings aiven lin thint work. Boling naked lin whint
 "'An the living ditfer fironin the demi."-('ve. of Honi, 1. 万ĩn.

178N. EDUCATION, Imperfect. Hitwhimf(n,".

 limmireal yeirs ngo. Whens the genernl wrote for " clontlis," minl it puir of " nutllin shoes," thore was mo Wilster muthldgeal to kiep people's
 I. 1

17 Di. EDUCATION imperllled, Reign of Jimes II. Soon uftur the nexuital of the blahopes, tho venornble Ormond, the most illumtrlous of the ravillare of the great elvil war, wank inder hile hafirmitles. The latelligence of hia denth was ronveryed with spered to Oxford. Instantly tho unlversity, of which he had long lwen chanerollor, mut to mame andecessor. One purty wis for the cloguent and areomplished lialiax ; noothor for the grave and orthostox Nottinglmm. Some nelltlened the Earl of $\boldsymbol{\Lambda}$ blagedon, who resided nenr them, nud hud recently been turned out of the lientemmey of the connty for refusing to join whil the king ngulast the extablished rellgion. Ihit the mujorlty, consisting of a hundred and "ighty grindintis, voted for the young louke of Ormomil, grumbson of their late hend, and son of the gallint Ossory. Thespeed with whileh they cume to this rasoludion was caused by their aj. prehension that, if there wore a delny even of a dny, the king would nttempt to force on them mome chief who would betriy their rights. The apprehension was reasomble; for only two hours after they lind sepmrnted came a minnlute from Whitediall requiring them to choose Jef freys [the infamous und lirutal chief-justice]. Ilnpplly, the election of young Ormond was already completeand irrevoeable.-Macaclay's Ena., ch. 9, p. 389.
1800. EDUCATION, Indecision in, Simuel Juhnson. We talked of the educution of chiletren; and I asked him what he thought was best to teach them first. Jonnson : "Sir, it is no matter what you tench them first, any more than what leg you shall put into your brecches first. Sir, you may stand disputing which is hest to put in tirst, but in the mean time your breach is bare. Sir, while you are considering which of two things you should tearli your chilit first, another boy lins lenrnt them both."-BusWELL'S JOHNSON, p. 125.
1891. EDUCATION, Independent. GibJon. I spent fourteen months it Magdalen College ; they proved the most idle and unprofitable of my whole life. $\qquad$ Oxford and Cambridge for nearly a century have been turning out crowils of thorough-pneed scholars of the orthodox puttern. It is odd that the two greatest historimes lirote-ware most university-ireal men. . . . As if to prove hy experiment wheres the fiutt lity, in "the melocel or the meloblar," Gihmen but mo anomer left Oxford for the long vinention than whle rembing, hemtempted orighal eotmposithin. - Mohitimen'n (limion, cli. 1.
1802. EDUCATION vs. Legislation. L/frime glis. [lyourgun, the lawgiver, ] remolved thes whote mingoese of lagishation litio the bringing upof youth. And this, us we linveolonerved, was the remson why one of hils ordinances forlmale thom to luve any written laws. - |'1,viamelis Lxeviluthe.

190:s. EDUCATION vi. Lloontiousnens. Ritgn of Uhurlea II. Lablaw highly born, latghly breal. and muturilly gulek-witted, were umble to write It Ine In their mother-tongiou withont molecisms und funles of a molling such as it elurlty girl woulil now las nshment to sommit. . . . 'The ex. planntion may ensliy bo foumul. Extravaguat ficentlomsness, thes natural elfort of exiravagint unsterlty, was now thomode; und líentionsamess lind prodineed lts ordimury eifeed, the mornl amd intellectunt degradation of women. 'T'o theil' jersonal bematy it was the fishion to pay ride and impudent fomage. Biat the admiration and desife which they inspired were seldom mingled witi respeet, with affectlon, or with miny chifnirous nentiment. The gunlities which itt them to be comprinions, niviscrs, emaldentind frienels rather repelled thin inttriseted the liberthes of Whiteluall. In that court in mide of homor who elressed in sueh a manner as to do full justice to it white loosom, who ogred signitienntly, who dunced voluptuonsly, who excelleel in pert repartee, who was not nshameal to romps with lords of the bed-chamber and enptains of the guncils, to sing sly verses, with aly expression, or to put on a puges dress for a frolic, was more likely to be followed and admired, more likely to be honored with royal attentlons, more likely to win ardeh and noble husband than Jane Grey or Lacy IIntchinson would have been. . . . The standard of female attainments was necessarily low, and it was more dingerous to be above that sinndard than to be beneatli it. - Maciaulay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 360.
1804. EDUCATION, Ministerial. Benerolent. Jady Ifuntlighdon opened a sehool in a dilnpidated castle of the twelfth century, it Trevecera, for the educntion of young men for the ministry, who, without regrard to their denominational preferenee, were welcomed, and provided, at the countess's expense, witl hourd, tuition, und a yonily suit of clothes. - Stevevs' Methodism, vol. 1, 1. 170.
1805. EDUCATION misdireoted. Aecomplishments. [The chililren of the nobility in the beginning of the eighteenth century were] tanght flancing, fencing, and riding. It looks like a satire when Burnet recommends that the sons of the nobility should be instructed in geography and history. -Kniant's Ena., vol. 5, ch. 6, p. 57 .
1808. EDUCATION, Necesaary. Alfred the Great. This excellent prince wisely considered the cultivation of letters as the most effectual means of thoroughly eradicating barbarous dispositions. The ravages of the Danes had totally cxilngulshed niny matall mparks of learning, by the dlexperalon of tho monks, mind itw hurninus thifr momstorlas and llimilow. I'es ropuir thems minfortumes, Alireal, like charlomagme, havitod shede In hle dominionos. He emathlished nelomits. und enjoined every frecholiler growerased of two plomglas to semil lifs challirent thero for insiruc:
 to lave literally ambowed the Illustrions memil emme finsepmably blombed in the minim of thas vabublsheri ricer. 'Ther new frud of Protentant. und juptat futhamed the old femel of Suxon und ('elt. The Jingllalz comenerorn, mentuwhile.

 pulas were laken to provide the compa repl ata selves umberstonal. No transhation of the Blbing wos put forth la the Erse langinge. The govermment contented ftself with vetthig uj a vast halerurelay of l'rotestant archbimbops, bishoges. mind rectors, who did nothing, mad whos, for dolng nothing, ware puld out of the mpoils of a the people. - Nw'sutay'н ENu., di. 1, p. 6it.

180N. $\qquad$ Reign of Charlex II. Muny borels of manops lumd reecived an exluention dif. frring litto: lrom that of their menial servante. The heir of un extute often passed his logyonol umel youth at the sent of his fumily, with nos better futors than grooms and gamekeepers, und source attained louming enomghta to sign his mame to a mitthmas. If he went to seloon and to col lege, he gencrally returised hefore be was twenty to thesechusion of the old hatl, mad there, maless his mind was very lupplly constituted by nuture, soon forgot his nemdemical pursuits in rural busjness and plensures. His chlef serions employment was the care of his property. ITe examined samples of grala, landled pigs, and on market days made lmrgains over a tunkird with clrovers and hop-merchants. His chief pleasures were eommonly derived from field-sports imal from an unrefined sensunlity. - Macaulay's Eva., ch. 3, p. 208.
1800.
.
Setm Mouston. What wer the means of educntion offered to this Vir fian bog. We have learned that he never cenild get into a schoolhouse till he wis eight yeats old, nor that he ever necomplished much, in a litermry way, nfter he did enter. Virginin, which has never become very famous for her common schools, hul still less to bonst of eighty years ngo. The State mate little or no provision, by law, for the chacation of its chitdren, and each neighborhood was obliged to take care of its rising population. - INesten's I Iocos TON, p. 13.
1810. EDUCATION opposed. Culonial Governor of Virginia, 1671. "The ministers," continued Sir Willinm [Berkeley, " ". . . should pray oftener and preach less. But I thank God there are no free schools nor printing; and I hope we slanll not have these liundred years ; for learnins has brought disobedience and heresy and sects into the work, and printing lane divalged them. and libels agrinat the luest government. God keep us from bolli !"-Banchor'is U. A., vol. 2, cll. 14 .
181. EDUCATION, Patron of. Luther's. Mirtin Lather was ohliged to helphimsell siuce his parents condel aot provide a complatesuppert. But good-fortume awnited him. For, becanse of his singing mal heartfelt praying, lie won the lavor of Ursula Cotta, who invited him to a seat at her table. She was of the family of Schallor, and the wife of Conrad Cota, one of the lore'most citizens of the towni- REiN's Lathent, ch. 2,1 . 23.

181\%. EDUCATION, Philanthroplo. Smithso. nian Inxtitute. [In 18:24] the rminent Euglish Chemishand philanthropist, ummed Janes Smithson, $\qquad$ died nt Gemos, bepucathing, on certain conditions, a large sum of money to the United States. In the fall oif 1838 , by the death of Smithson's nephew, the proccels of the estate, umounting to $\$ 5 / 5,000$, were seeured by the agent of the mational government and deposited In the mint. It had been provided in the will that the borfuest should be used for the establishment at Washington of nu iustitution for the $2 n$ crease anl diffusion of knowledge among men.-

1813. EDUCATION, Political. Alexa uler. Alcxander was in the twentieth year of his ane when he sncceeded, by the death of Philip, to the throne of Macedonia. This prince possessed all the military abilities of his father, inherited a soul more truly noble, and an ambition yet more unbounded. . . Under the tutelnge of the philosopher Aristotle, he received not only a taste for learning and the sciences, but those excellent lessons of polities of which that great teacher was qualified, beyond all his eontemporiries, to instruct him.-Tytients IIstr., Book 2 , ch. 4.
1814. EDJCATION, Power of. Reign of Charles $I I$. In Irehand, at present, a peer hohds a far higher station in society than a Roman Catholic priest; yet there are in Munster and Connanglit few commties where a combination of priests would not carry an clection against a combination of peers. In the seventerenth century the pulpit was to d large portion of the popalation what the periodical press now is. Nearce any of the clowns who came to the parish churel ever saw a gazette or a political pamphlet. Ill informed as their spiritual pastor might be, he was yet bettor informed than themselves; he had every week in opportunity of haranguing them; and his harangues wore never answered. At every important conjecture, invectives against the Whigs and exhortations to obey the Lord's anointed resounded at once from many thonsands of pulpits; and the effect was formidable indeed. Of nll the causes which, after the dissolution of the Oxford Parlinment, produced the violent reaction against the Exclusionists, the most potent seems to have been the orntory of the country clergy.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 311.
1815. EDUCATION, Precocity in. Samuel Johnson. I hate by-roads in education. Education is as well known, and has long been as well known, is ever it can be. Endeavorine to make chaldren prematurely wise is useless la. bor. Suppose they huve more knowledge at the or six years old than other children, what use can be made of it? It will be lost lefore it is wanted, and the waste of so much time und labor of the temeher can never be repaid. Too much is experted from precocity, und too little performed.-Buswbis's Jollivon, p. 266.
1816. EDUCATION prohibited. Irelitur. A.1. 1\%63. No Protestanio in lreland inight instruct in papist. Puplsts could not supply thedr want by notademies and schools of their own ; for a Catholie to tencla, even in a privite family or as usher to a Protestant, was a frlony, pumishable liy imprisomment, cxile, or death. Thus papisis were exchuded from all opportunity of edncation nt home. $\qquad$ By a statute of King William, $\mathbf{t}$ : be eduented in any foreign Catholic seliool was an " manterable and perpetmal outlawry." The rhild sent albroad for education, no matter of how temder an uge, . . . could never suc in law or equity, or be guardian, executor, or administintor, or receive any legracy or deed of gift ; he forfcited all his goods and chattels, and forfeitrd for his life all his lands. Whoever sent him abrond $\mathrm{a}_{\text {. or assistcd him with money }}$ incurre' the same liabilities and penalties. The Crown divided the forfeiture witli the informer. -Binchoft's U. S., vol. $\overline{\text { B }}$, eh. 4.
1817. EDUCATION, Public. Spartan. Among the principal objects of the institutions of Lyeurgus, the education of the youth of the republic: was that on which the legislator hat bestowed the inost particular attention. Children, after they had attained the age of seven, were no ionger the charge of their parents, but of the State. Before that period they were taught at home the great lessons of obedience and frugality. Afterward, under public masters.
They were tanght to despise equally danger and pain. To shrink under the stroke of punishment was a suthcient reason for having that punishment redoubled. Their very sports and amusements were such is are fitted to promote a strength of constitution and vigor and agility of body. The athletic exercises were prescribed alike for both sexes, is the bodily vigor of the mother is essential to that of her offspring. To run, to swim, to wrestle, to hunt, were the constant excreise or the youth. With regard to the eulture of the mind, the Spartan diseipline ndmitted none of those studies which tend to refine or embellish the understanding. But the cluties of religion, the inviolable bond of a promise, the sacred obligation of an oath, the respect due to parents, the reverence for old age, the strictest obedience to the laws, and, nbove all, the love of their eountry, the noble flame of patriotism, were early and assidmously inculcated. - TYTLER's IIIST., Book 1, (li. 9.
1818. EDUCATION, Religious. Napoleon $I$. Though not extablished in the belief that Christianity was of divine origin, he ever cherished a profound reverence for the religion of the Bi ble.

When the schedule of study for Madame Campan's female school was presented to him, he found asone regulation, "The young ladies shall attend prayers tucice a week." It immediately erased with his pen the words "twice a week," and substituted "Every daty." - Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 32.
1819. - Westey's. [The home in which John Wesley was reared was a model Christian hooschold, is sancture of tomestic and Christime virtues.] Ten of the children attained adalt years; all these hecame devoted Christians, and every one of them "died in the Lord."-Stbevens' Methodism, vol. 1, p. 58.
1820. EDUCATTON, Saorifioes for. Mother's. " My father," thus marates Dr. Martin Luther, " was a poor miner. My mother gathered wood und earried it home on her bnek, in order that her children might be educnted. Both toiled slavishly for our sakes. In these days people would not do so." But after a little while they reached more comfortable circumstances. lein's Lutner, ch. 2, p. 20.
1821. EDUCATION and the State. Alexauler. [After the conquest of Persias Alexauder the Great aecommodated himself] to the mamers of the Asiaties, and at the smme time persuaded them to adopt some of the Macedonian fashions; Sor, by a mixture of both, he thought a mion might he promoted much better thun hy force, and his authority malntained when he was nt a distance. For the same reason he elected thirty thousind hoys, and gave them masters to instruct them in the Grecian literature, ns well as to train them to arms in the Macedonian man-her.-Plutahcifs Alexander.
1822. EDUCATION, State. Spertan. The Spartan childsen were not . . . under thtors purchased or hired with money, nor were the pmrents at liberty to educate them as they pleased ; hot as soon as they were seven years old Lycurgus ordered them to be enrolled in companies, where they were all kept under the same order and discipline, and had their exerelses and recreations in common. He who showed the most conduct and courage among them was made captain of the conpany. The rest kept their eyes upon him, obeyed his orders, and bore with patience the punishment he intlicted ; so that their whole education was an exercise of obedience. ... As for learning, they had just whet was absolutely necessary. All the rest of their education was calculated to make them subject to command, to endure laber, to fight and conquer. They added, therefore, to their diseipline. as they advanced in age: cutting their hair very close, making them go barefoot, and play, for the most part, quite naked. At twelve years of age their under garment was tuken away, and but one upper onc a year nllowed them. IIence they were necessarily dirty in their persons, and not indulged the great favor of baths and oils, except on some particular days of the year. They slept in companies, on beds made of the tops of reeds, which they gathered with their own hands, without knives, and brought from the banks of the Eurotas. In winter they were permitted to add a little thistle-down, as that seemed to have some warmth in it. - Pletarcu's Lycurges.
1823. EDUCATION substituted. Bunyan. IIe had studied no great model of composition, with the exception-an important exception un-doubtedly-of our noble translation of the Bible. His spelling was bad. He frequently transgressed the rules of grammar. Yet the native force of genius, and his experimental knowledge of all the religious passions, from despair to cestasy, amply supplied in him the want of learning. His rude oratory roused and molted hearers who listened without interest to the labored discourses of great logticians and Hebraists.--Macaulay's Exa., ch. 7, 1. 209.
1824. EDUCATION suspected. By Jesuits. The opposition of the Protestant mind of the latter yenrs of the sevententi century to the secular tenching of the Jesuits was matural and inevitable. No consideration of their ablility as teachers could disarm the suspicion that they sought to make converts, under the guise of uffording instruction.-KNumrs Eva., vol. 4, ch. 25, p. 410.
1825. EDUCATION, Tax for. Hurvard L゙niversity. Once at least eve:y family in ench of the colonies gave to the college at chambridge iwelve pence, or a peek of corn, or its value in madulterated wompompenge, while the maristrates and wealthier men were profuse in their liberality.-Bancmoft's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
1826. EDUCATION, Trials in. Semuel Johnson. II is debts in coilege, thongh not great, were increasing; and hifs semuty remithances from Lichtield, which had all along heen made with great diflleulty, could be supplied no longer, his father having fullen into a state of insol. vency. Compelled, therefore, hy irresistible necessity, he left the college inautumn, 1731, without a degree, having been in memher of it little more than three years.-Boswelh's Jonnson, D. 15.
1827. EdUCATION, Varied. Military. [The training of the Romm soldiers] comprehended whatever could udd strength to the body, activity to the limbs, or grace to the motions. The soldiers were diligently instructed to mareh, to rum, to leap, to swim, to carry heavy burdens, to landle every species of arms that was used either for offence or for defence, either in distant engagement or in a closer onset ; to form a variety of evolutions; and to move to the sound of flutes in the Pyrrhic or martial dance.-Gımbon's Rоме, ch. 1, p. 13.
1828. EDUCATION, Wealth for. Comper Institute. Believing, us few, very few, rich men do, that his wenlh was a sacred trust to be used for the henefit of his fellew-creatures, Mr. Cooper gave not merely of his money, but his life thenceforth, and nnxions thought to the huidding up and maintenance of the Cooper Union for the advancement of science tandart. . . . The alvance. ment of science and urt is well enough ; but to teach, without one cent of charge, forty thousand men and women to carn a good living at skilled trades; to cultivate, without money and withont price, the hands and brains of scores of thousands so that they may advance themselves in the wordd, and to exalt, mentally, morally, and physically, the poor and fricudless, are far nobler objects. [Quoted from the New York Merald.]Lester's Llfe of l'eter Coopfr, p. 40.
1829. EfFEMINACY, Royal. Roman Einperor Elagabalus. As the attention of the new emperor was diverted by the most trifling amusements, he wasted many months in his luxurious progress from Syria to Italy, passed at Nicomedia his first winter after his victory, and deferred till the onsuing summer lis triumphal entry into the capital. $\AA$ faithful picture, however, which preceded his arrival, and whs placed by his immedlate order over the altar of Victory in the senate house, conveyed to the IRomans the just but unworthy resemblance of his person and manners. He was drawn in his sacerdotal robes of silk and gold, after the loose, flowing fashlon of the Medes and Phonicinns; his head was covered with a lofty tiarn, his numerous collars and brucelets were alorned with gems of an inestimable value. His eyebrows were tinged with black, and his eheeks painted with an artificial red and white. The grave senntors confessed with in sigh that, after having long experienced the stern tyranny of their own countrymen, Rome was at length humbled beneatl the effeminate luxury of Oriental despotism,-Gibmon's Rones, ch. 6, p. 170.
1830. EFFORT, Misdirected. Gullicnus. [The Emperor Gallienus was celebrated for his dobanchery.] In every art that he uttempted his lively genius enabled him to suceced ; and as his genius was destitute of judgment, lie attempted every art, except the important ones of war and government. He was a master of several curious but useless sciences, a rendy orator, an elegant poet, a skilful gardener, an excellent cook, and most contemptible prince. -Ginuos's IRome, ch. 10, p. 320.
1831. EFFORT, Useless, Frederick the Greut. Dazzled by hope . . . Frederick went forth [against the Austrian commander], and attempted to storm his intrenchments on the heights of Colin. His brave battalions were repelled with disastrous loss. Left almost unattended, as he gazed at the spectacle, "Will you carry the buttery alone ?" demanded one of his lieutenants; on which the hero rode calmly toward the left wing, and ordered a retreat.-Bancrofr's U. S., voi. 4 , ch. 12.
1832. EGOTIBM of Caste. Byron. On leaving college, he again resided with his mother, whose furious temper age had not subdued. In her paroxysms of anger, she would throw at him the poker and tongs, and not unfrequently he had to fly from the house before her. At the age of nineteen his first volume of verses appeared, entitled, "Hours of Idleness. A Series of Poems. original and translated. By George GordonLord Byron-a minor. New York, 1807."-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 293.
1833. EGOTISM, Characteristic. President Jolhn Addams. [lIIe wrote his wife of his inuugural uddress.] I had not slept well the night brefore, and did not sleep well the night after. I was unwell, and did not know whether I should get through or not. I did, however. How the business was received, I know not, only I have reen told that Mason, the treaty-publisher, snid we should lose nothing by the change, for he never heard such a speech in public in his life. All agree that, taken altogether, it was the sub) limest thing ever exhibited in America.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 194.
1834. EGOTISM, Contrast in. Cipsar-Cicero. Like all reul great men, he rarely speaks of himself. He tells us little or nothing of his own feelings or his own purposes. Cicero never forgets his individuality. In every line that he wrote Cicero was attitudinizing for posterity, or reflecting on the effeet of his conduct upon his interests or his reputation. Cessar is lost in his work; his persounlity is scarcely more visilble than Shakespeare's.-Fuoude's Cexan, ch. 14.
1835. EGOTIsM of Genins. Cliver Goldsmith. When necompanying two benutiful young ladies with their mother on a tour in France, he was seriously angry that more attention was paid to them than to him; and once at the exhibition of the Fantoceini in London, when those whosat next him observed with what dexterity a puppet was made to toss n pike, he could not bear that it should have such praise, and exchnimed, with some warmth, " Pshaw I I can do it better myself." Note.-IIe went home with Mr. Burke to supper, and luroke his shin by attempting to exhibit to the company how much better he could jumnover a stick thun the puppets.-Boswela's Tollnson, p. 114.
1836. EGOTISM, Royal. James II. [James had personal merits,] but his personal merits were as fuel to nourish the fire of his intense egotism. Every action of his life had reference to his personality. James, the king, was the one power in the State which was to counterbalance every other power.-Kniont's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 25, p. 402.
1837. ELECTION, A close. John Adams. President Washington had monounced his intention to retire. The withdruwul of that august and commanding name the w the e rat prize open to competition, and al the passions of party were enlisted in the strife. The Federnl candidates were Adams and Pinckney ; the Republican, Jefferson and Burr. After a very animated contest, John Adams was elected to the Presidency by a majority of one electoral vote ; and Jefferson, huving received next to the higliest number, was elected vice-president. Neither party, therefore, had won a complete triumph; for, though the Federalists elected their president, the Republicans were partially consoled by placing their favorite in the second office.-CYclopedia of Biog., p. 191.
1838. ELECTION, Coercion in. Samuel Johnson. He observed that " the statutes against bribery were intended to prevent upstarts with money from getting into Parliament;" adding, that "if he were a gentleman of landed property, he would turn out all his tenants who did not $\because$, for the "andidate whom he supported." $I^{\prime}$ : TON: "Would not that, sir, be checking freedom of election ?" Joinson : "Sir, t:e . . . does not mean that the privilege of voting sioun! be independent of old family interest ; of the permanent property of the country." - Boswell's Joinnson, p. 244.
1839. ELECTION expenses. Treatina. Evelyn luments that so many from the country came in to vote for his brother as knight for the shire of Surrey, "that I believe they ate und drank him out near to $£ 2000$, by a most abominnble custom."-Knioit's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 21, p. 341.
1840. ELECTION frustrated. John Hovard. In 1774 the liberal party in Bedfordshire nominated him for Parliament, and, after a most severe contest, he was elected by a small majnrity. The "issue" in this election was, whethar the king and Lord North should be sustained in their Anerican policy ; and the election of Howard was, therefore, a defent for the administration.

The ministry, however, succeeded in finding a pretext for annulling the clection. Some of Howard's votes were declared illegal-enongh to give the seat to a tory. The loss of a seat in Parliument was not much regretted by him for his own sake, but he felt acutely the wrong done to the great and putriotic party which hud clected lim. "I was a viet'a of the ministry," he wrote, after learning ...e result of the struggle. "Most surely I should not have fullen in with all their severe measures relative to the Americans, and my constant decharation that not one emolument of five shillings, were I in Parliament, would I ever accept of, marked me out ns an object of their aversion."- Cycloremia of Biog., p. 47.
1841. ELECTION of Grace. Cromirell. [On his death-hed.] "It is terrible, yea, it is very terrible," he muttered three times in succession," to fall into the hands of the living God !" "Do you think," suid he to his claplain, "thut a man who has once been in a state of grace can ever perish eternally ?" "No," replied the chaphin, "where is no possibility of such a relapse." "Then I mm safe," replied Cromwell; "for at one time I am confident that I was chosen." All his inquiries tended toward futurity ; none bore reference to the present life. "I am the most insignificant of niortals," continued he after a momentary lapse; "but I have loved God, praised be IIIs mame, or, rather, I am beloved by IIIm !"-Lasiartine's Cromwelh, p. 78.
1842. ELECTION resented. Reign of James II. [The fellows of Magdaten College refused to elect as president the infamous Anthony Farmer, whom the king urged.] Early in June the fellows were cited to appear before the High Commission at Whitehall. Five of them, deputed by the rest, obeyed the summons. Jeffreys treated them after his usual fashion. When one of them, a grave doctor named Fairfax, hinted some doubts as to the validity of the commission, the chancellor began to roar like a wild beast. "Who is this man? What commission has he to be impudent here? Seize him. Put him into a dark room. What does he do without a keeper? He is under my care as a lunatic. I wonder that nobody has applied to me for the custorly of him." But when this storm had spent its force, and the depositions concerning the moral character of the king's nomince hat been read, none of the commisioners had the front to pronounce that such a man could properly be made the head of a great college. [See more at No. 2891.]--Macaulay's Eiva., ch. 8, p. 269.
1843. ELECTION, A scandalous. Jemes $I T$. [He sought to complete the religious revolution of England by securing a Roman Catholic successlon to the throne.] By corruption, by intimidation, by violent exertions of prerogative, by fraudulent distortions of law, [he sought] an assembly which might call itself a Purliament, and might be willing to register any edict of the sovereign. Returning officers must be appointed who would avail themselves of the slightest pretence to declare the king's friends duly elected. Every placeman, from the highest to the lowest, must be made to understand that, if he wished to retain his office, he must, at this conjuncture, support the throne by his vote and interest. The High Commission, meanwhile, would keep its eye on the clergy. The boroughe which hand just been remodelled to serve one turn might be: remorlelled uguin to serve another. By such means the king hoped to obtnin a majority in the House of Commons. [Sec No. 1850.]-iliacaulay's Eve., ch. 8, p. 292.
1844. ELECTION, A "tle." Jefferson-Bure. The Democratic party trinupherd in 1801, and that trimmph placed Thomas Jefferson in the Presidential chair. But there was a "tie" between Thomus Jefferson and Aaron Burr, ench of them having received seventy-three electoral votes. Not that any single voter hat expected or desired the elevation of Aaron Burr to the first oflice. The difticulty arose from the law, which provided that the person receiving the greatest number of electornl votes should be President, and that the person who received the mumber next to the lighest should be the Vire-President. Jefferson and Burr were the Republicmn eandidates for President and Vice-President, and as each chanced to receive the sume number of electoral votes, neither of them was elerted to either offlee, and the choice devolved upon the Iouse of Representatives. - Crclopedia of Biod., p. 350.
1845. ELECTION, A timely. Rex. Robert Nercton. That Culvinism was not very dark or sulphurous seems to be shown from his repeating with gusto the saying of one of the old women of Olncy when some preacher dwelt on the doctrine of predestination-" Ah, I have long settled that point ; for if God had not cliosen nie before I was born, I am sure He would have seen nothing to have chosen me for afterwird !"Smiti's Cowpen, ch. 3.
1846. ELECTION, Unanimous. WTashington. The first Wednesday of January, 1789 , was named as the time for the election of a chief magistrate. The people had but one voice as to the man that should be honored with that trust. Early in April the ballots of the electors were counted in the presence of Congress, and George Washington was unanimously chosen President and John Adams Vice-President of the United States.-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 45, p. 362. Not only was every electoral vote cast for General Washington, but, so far as is known, he was the choice of every individual voter in every State of the Union.-James Parton, Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 16.
1847. ELECTION, Unique. Sparten. The manner of 1 - section was this: When the people were ass .abled, some persons appointed for the purpose were shut up in a room near the place, where they could neither see nor be seen, and only hear the shouts of the constituents; for by them they decided this and most other affairs. Ench candidate walked silently through the assembly, one after another, according to lot. Those that were shut up had writing-tables, in which they set down in different columns the number and loudness of the shouts, without knowing who they were for; only they marked them as first, second, third, and so on, according to the number of the competitors. He that hail the most and loudest acclamations was declared duly elected.-Plutarch's Lycurgus.
1848. - Captain John Smith. [Three of the five Virginia councilmen attempted to desert the colony, and were ranght und imponebed and removed.] Only Martin amd Smith now remoined; the former elected the latter president of Virgrinia! It wus a forlorn piece of business, but very necessury for the pmblic gool.-R(1)ratif's U. S., (fl. 9, 1). 97.
18.19. ELECTION, Vociferous. Eirteror $I^{\prime}$ mm$p e y$. 'lhe mob was packed so thick that the house-tops were coverel. A yell rose from tens of thousimals of throats, so piereing that it was suid a crow flying over the Forunn dropped dend at the sound of it. The old patrician Catulus tried to spenk, but the people would not hear him. The vote passed by acclamation, und l'ompey was for three years sovereign of the Roman world.-Fitoude's C.esar, eh. 10.

1$50. ELECTIONS, Farcical. Reign of James II. [He failed to secure a parked l'arliament, by which he hoped to destroy the extablished chureh.] There was . . . only one way in which they could hope to effect their object. Ther charters of the boroughs must he resumed, ant other charters must be granted contining the elective tranchise to very small constituent bodies appointed by the sovercign. The judges thensselves were unensy. They represented that what they were required to do was in direct opposition to the planest principles of law and justice ; but all remonstrance was vain. The boroughs were commanded to surrender their charters. Few complied; and the course which the king took with those few did not encourage others to trust him. In several towns the right of voting was taken away from the commonalty, and given to a very small number of persons, who were required to bind themselves by onth to support the candidates recommended by the government. At Tewkesbury, for example, the franchise was confined to thirteen persons. Yet even this number was too large. Hatred and fear had spread so widely through the community that it was scarcely possible to bring together, in any town, by any process of packing, thirteen men on whom the court could absolutely depend. It was rumored that the majority of the new constituent body of Tewkesbury was animated by the same sentiment which was general throughout the mation, and would, when the decisive day should arrive, send true Protestants to Parliament. The regulators, in great wrath, threatened to reduce the number of electors to three. -Macaliday's Eng., ch. 8, p. 311.
1851. ELECTIONS, Free. William of Orange. [IIe orderedelections formembersof Parliament.] The prince gave strict orders that no person in the public service should, on this occasion, practise those arts which had brought so much obioquy on the late government. He especinlly directed that no soldiers should be suffered to appear in any town where an election was groing on. -Macaulay's Eno., eh. 10, p. 559.
1852. ELECTIGNS, Venal. Parliament. A.d. 1768. [leign of George 1II.] Boroughs were sold openly, and votes purchased at advanced prices. The market value of a scat in Parliament was $£ 4000$; at which rate the whole venal House would have been bought for not much over $£ 2,000,000$, sterling, and a majority for not much over $£ 1,000,000$. Yet in some places a contest cost the candidates $£ 20,000$ or $£ 30,000$ apiece, and it was affirmed that in Cumber. land one person lavished $\mathbf{x 1 0 0 , 0 0 0}$. [lt was the last Purlinment] which ever legislated for Amer-ich.-Bancuofr's U. S., vol. 6, ch. 33.
1858. ELECTRICITY, Light of. Columbus. [On his second voyuge,] toward the latter part of October, they hud in the night a gust of heavy rain, necompanied by the severe thunder und lightuing of the tropics. It lasted for four hours, and they eonsidured thenselves in much peril, until they beheld severnl of those lambent flumes playing ubout the tops of the masts, and gliding thong the rigging, which have always been objects of superstitious funcies umong suilors. Fernando Columbus mak s remarks on them strongly chametaristie of the age in which he lived. "On the same Saturday, in the night, was seen St. Pimo, with seven lighted tupers at the topmust : there wis much rinin mad great thunder; I memn to say, that those lights were seen, which mariners aftirm to be the boly of St. Elmo, on beholding which they chant litanies and orisons, lookling it for certnin that in the tempest in whieh he nppears no one is in danger."-l Rving's Columbut, Book 6, ch. 1.
1854. ELOQUENCE of Action. Famuel Johnson. At Mr. Thrale's in the evening, he repented his usual paradoxical declamation against action in public spenking. "Action can have no effect upon rensonable minds. It may augment noise, but it never can enforce arguinent. If you speak to a dog, you use action; you hold up, your humd thas, because lie is a brute; and in proportion as men are renoved from brutes, action will have the less influence upon them." Mns. TinRale : "What then, sir, becomes of Demosthenes' saying, 'Action, action, action'?" Joirnson : "Demosthenes, madam, spoke to an assembly of brutes; 10 n barbarous people."Boswell's Jolinson, p. 204.
1855. ELOQUENCE of Facts. Appius Claudius. [IIe was a tyrannical consul, und sought to suj[ress the plebeians.] ln the midst of the public assembly, a veneroble figure, hoary with age, pale and emacinted, his countenance furrowed with anguish, and his whole uppearance expressive of misery and calamity, stood up before the tribunal of the consuls, and prayed aloud for merey against the oppression of an inhuman creditor. Disfigured us he was, hiscountenance was known, and many remembered to lave seen him in the wars, where he fought with great courage, und had received many honorable wounds in the service of his country. He told his story with affecting simplicity. The enemy, in un incursion, had ravared his little farm, and set fire to his cottage. Bereft of subsistence, he had borrowed, to sujpport life, a small sum from one of the rich citizens; the interest lad accumulated, and being quite unable to discharge the debt, he liad delivered himself, with two of his children, into bondage. In this situntion he affirmed that his merciless creditor had treated him as the worst of malefactors ; and throwing aside his garment, he showed his back all covered with blood from the recent strokes of the whip. This miserable sight roused the populace to the highest pitch of fury. They rushed upon the consul's tribunal ; and Appius would have been torn to pieces had not the lictors cleared for lim a passage and carried lim off to a place of safety.-Tythen's IIIst., Book 3, cl. 3.
1856. ELOQUENCE, Fear of. Demonthenes. It was in a similur struin of glowing cloguence that Demosthenes roused the torpid spirits of his crountrymen to a vigorons effort to preserve their independence against the designs of this at ful and ambitious prinee; and philip had just reason to siny that he wiss hiore afridid of that mum than of all the fleets and armies of the Athenins. It was highly, therefore to the honor of the Athenians thit they listened to the coumsels of this excellent orator, and, however unequal to the contest, determined that they would dearly sell their free-dom.-'Tytleir's Jlist., Book 2 , ch. 3.
1857. ELOQUENCE, Necessary. Lomame. It mast not appear extraordinary that this mode of edacation should have heen common to all the young patricians, whether their inclimation led them to the eamp or to the har; for asevery eitizen of Rome was a lranch of its legishative system, the profession of arms became no apology for the want of that ubility of maintaining the rights of the State in the assemblies of the people, which was equmlly necessary with the capacity of defonding them in the tield. If a public ollicer was necused, it whs reckoned shmmeful if he could not himself give annecount of his conduct, and plead his own cause. A semator who could not support his opinion by the ingenuity of argument or forec of elouluenee was an object of contempt to the people.- 'TyTien's Hist., Book 4, ch. 3.
1858. ELOPEMENT, Royal. Beruty. Dming a visit which he paid at 'rours to Foulyues le Rechin, Comet of Anjor, the king conceived a violent passion for Bertrade de Montfort, the Connt's wife, reputed the most heautiful womun in the kingrlom. The countess, who had married her hasband not from affection, but for the sake of his rank and power, was casily persuaded to elope from him und to join [King] Philip at Orleans.-Students' F'rance, ch. 7 , § 14.
1859. EmANCIPATION advocated. Musimehusetts. Massachasetts, where the tirst planters assumed to themselves " $n$ right to treat the Indians on the foot of Canaanites or Amalekites," always opposel the introduction of slaves from abroad; ind in 1701 the town of Boston instructed its representatives " to put a period to negroes being slaves."-Banchoft's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 24.
1860. EMBARRASSMENT in Public. Bishop Reberts [was reared on the Western frontier, and in early life was grently embarrassed when in public, owing to a constitutional diffldence]. For a long time after his appointment as classleader among his rustic neighbors, he could not assume couriuge enough to address them individually, and it became necessary to supersede him hy nnother leader until he conguered his timidity. In his first attempt at public exhortation he suddenly sat down, appalled at the intent look of a good man, whose favorable interest he took for disapprobation. At another time, when he was expected to exhort, he was so almrmed ns to retire in agony and conceal himself in a larn. In the third nttempt he proceeded some time with good effect, but fearing he had made a blunder, stopped short in confusion.-Stevens' M. E. Ciruris, vol. 4, p. 89.
1861. EMBLEM, significant. Wolf. [Among the early Turks] the emperor's throne was turned toward the cast, and a golden wolf on the top, of a spener sremed to gumed the entrmare of his tent.-Ghuos's lowe, ch. 42, p. 202.
1862. EMERGENCY, Deliverance in, Hilliam. Prine of Oranfe. [ Luvasion of Enghand.] Torhay was the phace where the prince intended to lamb. But the morning of Monday, the 5th of November, was laty: The pilot of the 13 rill could not discern the set-marks, nud carried the: tlece too far to the west. The danger was great. To return in the fice of the wind was impossible. Plymonth was the next port ; but at Plymouth a garrison had been posied under the: command of Lord Buth. The handing might be: opposeal; nad arloek might produce serious conserpuences. There could be little doubt, more' over, that by this time the royal fleet had got out of the Thames, mad was hastening full sail down the Chmonel. Russell suw the whole extent of the peril, und exelaimed to Burnet, "You may go to prayers, doctor; all is over "" At that moment the wind changed; a soft breeze sprang up from the south; the mist dispersed ; the sum shone forth; and under the mild light of an autummi noon, the fleet turned lonek, phased round the lofty cape of Berry Ilead, und rode safe in the limbor of Tormay. [Sce more at No. 4j50.]-Micaulay's Eng., ch. 9. p. 445.
1863. Emigrants, City of. Nen York: New York was always a city of the world. Its setthers were relies of the first-fruits of the Reformation, chosen from the Belgic provincess and England, from France and Bohemin, and the Italian Alps.-B.ivemorr's U. S., vol. 2 , ch. 15.
1864. EMIGRANTS, Dangerous. Criminals. Thieves or homicides, the spendhaft or the fraudulent bankrupt, the debtors to justice or its vietims, prisoners rightfally or wrongfully detained, excepting only those nrrested for treason or counterfeiting money-these were to be the people by whom the colony (of New France) was, in part, to he established.
, During the winter one was hanged for theft; several were pat in irons, and " divers persons," as well men as women, were whipped.-Banchoft's Hist. of U. S., vol. 1, ch. 1 .
1865. EMIGRATION, Benefits of. Greekr. At all events, it is universally allowed that, from the period of those strangers settling among them, the Greeks assumed a new charicter, nnd exhilited in some respects the munners of a civilized nution. The dawnings of a national religion began to appear ; for the Titans were a religious people. They taught the savages to worship the Plicuician gods, Ouranos, Saturn, Japiter, ete., who were nothing more than deitied heroes; and by a progress of ideas not unnatural, this rude people confounded in after times those gods with the Titans who introdnced them.-TYTLen's Hist., Book 1, ch. 6.
1866. EMIGRATION, Military. Guths, The march of Theodoric must be considered as the emigration of an entire people; the wives and children of the Goths, their aged parents, and most precious effects were carefully transported; and some idea may be formed of the heavy baggage that now followed the camp, by the loss of two thousand wagons, which had been sustained in a single netion ia the war of Epirus. For their subsistence the Goths depented on the magazines of corn, which was gromad in portable mills hy the hands of their women; on the milk and flesh of their tloeks and herds; on the casual prodice of the chase, and upon the contributions which they might impose on all who should presume to dispute the passage, or to refuse their friendly assistance.-Ginbon's Rome, ch. 39, p. 9.
1867. EMINENCE, Cowardly. Roman Eimyoror Homertus. The Emperor Ilonorins was distingrished, above his suthjects, by the preeminence of fear, as well as of rank. The pride and luxury lin whieh lae was educated hat not allowed him to saspect that there existed on the arth any power presimptuons enough to invarle the repose of the suctessor of Angustus. The arts of thattery eoncented the impending danger, till Ahric appronched the palace of Milan. [lloworius fled from Alarie, the king of the Vis-igoths.]-Giuhon's Rome, ch. 30, j. 201.
1868. EMINENCE by Worth. IVenry Wilson. On the 2,01 of November, $18 \%$, Viar-President Witson, whose health had been gradmally failing since his inaugration, sank under a stroke of paralysis, und died at Washington City. Like Roger Sherman, he had risen from the shoemaker's bruch to the highest honors of his comtry. Without the learning of Seward and Sum-ner-withont the diplomatie skill of the one or the oratorial fane of the other, he nevertheless possessed those great ahilities and sterliag merits which transmitted his mame in after times on the roll of patriot statesmen.-Rimpatirs U. S., ch. 68, p. 562.
1869. EMOTION, Overpowered by. Empress Jusephine. [The imperial family and most illustrions officers of the empire were assembled nt the Tuileries to reccive from Napoleon and Josephine the offleial announcement, from each, of their intended divoree.] Josephine, holding a paper in her hand, began to read. But her heart was broken with grief. Uncontrollable sobs choked her voice. She handed the paper to M. Reynaud, and burying her face in her hands, sank into achair. [In the paper she declared her sacrifice of personal happiness in the interest of the French people, who had no hope of an heir to the throne from the present union.]-Abisotr's Napoleon 13., vol. 2, ch. 10.
1870. EMOTIONS, Hidden. American Iudian. Ite has little tlexibility of features or transpareacy of skin, and therefore if he depiets his passions, it is by strong contortions, or the kindling of the cye, that seems ready to burst from its socket. Ife cannot blush; the movement of the blood does not visibly represent the movement of his affections... le cannot paint to the eye the emotions of moral sublimity.-Bancrofis Hist. L. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
1871. EMOTIONS from Success. Veirton. Newton comld, therefore, at onee pat his conjectwe to the test of arithmetic. lie could ascertain two things with the greatest exactuess: 1, how much foree was required to keep the moon in its orbit; and, 2, with how much foree the earth did attract the moon, supposing that the law of attraction, as established by Galileo, held goori. If these two calculations agreed, his con-jerture was adiscovery. He tried them. They disl mot agree. Busy with other investigations, he laid aside this mquiry for nineteen years. He then lourned that he, in common with all the English astronomers, was in error as to the disthate of the moon from the earth. This error being porrected, he repented his enleulations. When be hal brought them so near to a conelision that he was all but sure of the truth of his theory, he hecome so agitated that he was unable to go on, and he was ohliged to ask $a$ frient to complete them. When they were brought to a close, lae saw that his youthful thought was indeed a sublime, demonstrated truth. Thas it was that the grant law of the attraction of gravitation was diseovered-the most hrilliant and valuable discovery ever arlieved by $a$ human mind.Cycloipeda of Blog., p. 2 ita .
1872. EMPLOYMENT, Agreeable. Audubon. One of the lappiest men, nad one of the most interesting characters we have lad in America, was Jolm James Aulubon, the celebrated painter and biographer of American hirds. He was one of the few mea whose pursuits were in perfect ancordance with his tastes and his talents.
Up with the dawn, and rambling ahout all day Up with the dawn, und rambling ahout all day, he was the happiest of men if he returned to his camp at evening carrying in his game-bag a new specimen with which to enrich his collection. Ite had no thought whatever of publishing his pictures. "It was no desire of glory," he assures us, " whieh led me into this exile; I wished only to enjoy nature."-Cycloredia of Bioo., p. 163.
1873. EMPLOYMENT, Humble. Washington. He became convinced of the defective nature of the working animals employed in the agriculture of the Southern States, and set about remedying the evil by the introluction of mules, . . . the mule being longer-lived, less liable to disease, requires less food, . . . more serviceable. . . . He received a present from the King of Spain of a jack and two jenuies. . . . The jack, called the Royal Gift, was sixteen hands high. . . . Lafayette sent out a jack and jennies from the island of Malta. [Washiugton bred ve:y superior mules from his coach mares.]-C'catis' Wasiington, vol. 1, ch. 22.
1874. EMPLOYMENT, Opportune. Stephen A. Douglas. In the autumn of the year 1833, at the town of Winchester, in Illinois, there was to be a great auction sule of property, which drew to the place a large concourse of people from the neighboring country. When the sale was about to begin, the antioneer was still unprovided with nelerk to enter the goods as they were sold. and he looked about for a person to perform that indispensable labor. At that moment he noticed on the outskirts of the crowd a pule, short, sicklylooking young man, with his coat upon his arm, appareatly about nineteen, a stranger in the vieinity, who looked as though lie might be able to write and keep accounts well enough for the purpose. Ite hailed him and offered him the place of clerk, at two dollars a day. It so happened that this young man was in very pressing need of employment, for he had recently arrived in the State, and having walked into Winchester that morning with all his worldly effects upon his person, including a few cents in his pocket -and but a few-he was anxious how he should get throngh the werk. He had not a friend within a thousaud miles of the spot, mad hise entire property would not have brought under the hummer *5. He necepted the ellerkship, and monnted to his phace near the anctionerr.-(' r clopedia of Biot., p. 196.
1875. EMPLOYMENT refused. Olicer Gioldsmith. Ite apphied at one phace, we are told, for employment in the shop of a country apoliecary; but all his medical selence gathered in foretign unlversities could not gain him the management of a pestal and mortar. He even resortel, it is sinid, to the stage as a temporary expedient, and flgured in low comedy at a country town in Kent.-lavina's Goldsmitif, elh. 6, p. 52.
1876. EMPLOYMENT, Soeking. Joln Fitch. [The great inventor. His wife was a vixen mad uacadiurable.] Ilenceforth he was a wanderer. Trulging along the rond, he offered himself as $a$ farm-laborer ; bat was refused on account of his slender and weakly frume. Ife tried to enlist as a soldier, but could not for the same ranson. Ite roamed the comutry, clemuing clocks from house to house. At lingth, ufter many wanderings, he rearhed Trenton, where he lived awhile on three pence a day, making lrass buttons, and selling them aloutt the comatry. Having obtained a few shillings of his own, he invested them in the purchase of an old brass kettle, which he made up into buttons and sold to great alvantage.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 140.
1877. EMPLOYMENT, Unworthy. Roman Eimperor Honorius. Honorius was without passions, and consequently without talents; and lis feelle and languid disposition was alike incapable of discharging the duties of his rank, or of enjoying the pleasures of his age. In his early youth he made some progress in the exercises of riding and drawing the bow ; but he soon relinquished theye fatiguing occupations, and the amusement of feeding poultry becume the serious and daily care of the monarcls of the West, who resigned the reins of empire to the firm and skilful hand of his guardinu Stilicho. The experience of history will countenance the suspicion tuat a prince who was born in the purple received a worse education than the mennest peasant of his dominions; and that the ambitions minister sufferel lim to attain the age of manhood without attempting to excite lis courage or to enlighten lis understanding. . . The son of Theodosins passed the summer of his life, a captive in his palace, a stranger in his country, and the patient, slmost the indifferent, spectator of the ruin of the Western Empire, which was repeatedly attacked, and finally subverted, by the arins of the barbarinus. In the event ful history of a reign of twenty-cight years, it will seldom be necessary to mention the name of the emperor Honorius.-Ginbov's Rome, ch. 29, p. 188.
1878. Roman Emperor Theorlo. sius. The ample leisure which he aequirel by neglecting the essential duties of his high offlee was filled by idle amusements and unprofitable studies. Hunting was the only active pursnit that could tempt hin leyond the limits of the palace; but he most assiduously labored, sometimes by the light of a midnight lamp, in the mechanic occupations of painting and carving; and the elegance with which he trunseriled religious books entitled the Roman emperor to the singular epithet of Calligraphes, or aftar writur, Srparnted from the worlil loy an limpenetrable veit, Theodo. shis trustul the persons whom he loved; he loved thoso who were neenstomed to amuse and flattur his fudolence; and as he never perused tho jujers that were presented for the royn signature, the arts of lnjustice the most repugnont to his character were fiequently perpetrated in hls hame.-Ginnov's lome, ch. 32, ]. 354.
1878. ENCOURAGEMENT, Timely. Luther: As hather was passing to the assembly room of the diet, in noted commander, George von Frundsberer, touched him on tho shoulder and suld, " Ify dear monk, thon art now about taking is step the like of which nelther I nor many a commander on the ha"dest-fought buttle-field has ever taken. If thou urt dght and sure of thy eanse, proceed in Goll's name, and be of good checer; God will not forsake thee."-lemin's I. ${ }^{-}$. THEN, ch. 9, 1. 85.
1880. $\qquad$ Columbus. [His crews threatened mutiny.] Fortumately the manifestations of the vieinity of lamd were sach on the lullowing day as no longer to admit a doubt. Busides a quanity of fresh weeds, such as grow ia rivers, they suw a green fish of a kitud which keeps about rocks ; then a brunch of thorn with lerries on it, und recently sepmated from the tree, flonted by thent ; then t'acy picked up a reed, it small board, and, above all, a staff artificially carvel. All gloom and mutiny now gave way to sunguine expectation; and throughout the day each one was eagerly on the wateh, in hopes of being the first to discover the long-sought-for land.-Ihving's Columbus, Book 3, ch. 4.
1891. ENCOURAGEMENT, Visionary. Columbus. He says, abont the festivnl of Christmas, when menneed by Indian war and domestic rebellion, when distrustful of those around him and apprehensive of disgrace at court, he sank for a time into complete despontency. In this hour of gloom, when abandoned to despair, he heard in the night a voice addressing him in words of comfort, "O man of little faith ! why art thou cast down? Fear nothing, I will provide for thee. The seven years of the term of gold are not expired ; in that, and in all other things, I will take care of thee." The seven years' term of gold here mentioned alludes to $n$ vow made by Columbus on discovering the New World, and recorded by him in a letter to the sovereigns, that within seven years he would furnish, from the profits of his discoveries, fifty thonsand foot and five thousand horse, for the delivernace of the holy sepulchre, and an additional force of like amount within five years afterward. The comforting assurance given him ly the voice was corroborated, he says, that very day, by intelligence receiverl of the diseovery of a large tract of country rich in mines. This imaginary promise of divine aid, thus mysteriously given, uppenred to him at present in still greater progress of fulfilinent. The troubles and dangers of the island had been succeeded by tranquillity.-Inving's Columbus, Book 12, ch. 7.
1882. END recorded, The. "Charter Oak," In 1686. . Andros was made roynl governor of New England. . . . On the day of his arrival [at IIurfforl] he invaded the provincial assembly while in session, seized the minutes, and wrote Fiais at the lootom of the page. He demanded the immedinte surrouder of the colonalal rharter. Governor Treat phealed long nad enrnestly for the precions docmment. Audros was incxomble. The shades of evening fell. Joseph Wadsworth foumd in the gathering tharkness min opportunity to cone al the eherished purehment -uded which has made his name mod the name of a tree lmmortal. [The liberties of connerti rat were restormi two yenrs hater. J-Ramparis U. S., ch. 21, p. 191.
1848. ENDURANCE, German. Gineral lim. íl Morgon, [ol Revolutiomary fame, said:] $\boldsymbol{\Lambda s}_{4}$ to the inghting part of the mitter, the men of nll mations are pretty mondalike ; they theht as moch as they find unecessmry, mul mo more. But, sir, for the grand essential in the composition of the good soldier, give me the Dutehmin-he starves acell. -Custis' Wanimniton, vol. 1, ch. 12.
184.t. ENEMIES, Detraction of. "Adrocutu* rliaboli." In the Rommn Cuholic Chureh the person who shows canse against the canonization of one proposed for suinthood is calied adrocatus ditboli. IIe insists upon the weak points in the good man's or woman's life. Hence the nume is sometimes applied to all who delight in detracting from the characters of good men. Most men have their adroentus diaboli.-Amemcan Cycloremi. "Advocate."
1885. ENEMIES divided, Spaminh Armada. The Armadn luy off Calais, with its largest ships ranged outside, "like strong castles fearing no, assanlt, the lesser placed in the middle ward." The English ndminal rould not nttack them in their position without grent disadyantage, but on the night of the 29th he sent eight fire-ships among them, with nlmost equal effect to that of the fire-ships which the Greeks so often employeal agninst the Turkish fleets in their hate war of independence. The Spmiards cut their cables, and put to sen in confusion. One of the hurgest galensses ran foul of another vessel, and was strandel. The rest of the theet was sentered about on the Flemish const, and when the morning broke it was with ditliculty and lelny that they obeyed their ndmirn's sigual to range themselves romal him near Graveliness. Now was the golden opportunity for the English to nssuil them, and prevent them from ever letting loose Parma's flotitha ngainst Enghand, and nobly was that opportunity used. Drake and Fenner were the first English captains whontacked the unwieldy levintluns.-Decisive Batries, 冬 430 .
1886. ENEMIES neglected. Intimans. The shepherds were converted intor robbers ; the linuds of robbers were collected into an army of ronquerors; as fur as Ispahan and the Tigris, Persia was aftlieted by their predntory inroads: and the Turkmans were not inshamed or nfraid to measure their courage and numbers with the proudest sovereigns of $\Lambda$ sin. Massoud, the son and successor of Mahmud, had too long neglected the advice of his wisest Omrahs. "Your encmies," they repentedly urged, "were in their origin a swarm of nuts; they are now little snakes; and, unless they be instantly crushed, they will aequire the venom and magnitude of serpents."-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 57, p. 500.
1887. ENEMIES, Partiality to. Philip of Macedon. Scarcely was he sented on the tiarone, when he was attarked from every quarter. The Illy-rimens and the liemmines made inronds upon his tirrlortes. Two rival princes, P'mesnins and Arginis, relations of the last monareh, disputend his itite, eurel chiming the soverelgnty for himsilf. The Thrarinns urmed for Punsmins, the Ahenhans for Argaris. Philip disarmed the Pironinns by brikes and promises. The Thanchns were wom by a similar poliny. Ite gained a vic:tory over the Athenimas, in which his rlval Ar-the secourity of his title to the throne, heatalacd with the prople of Athens the character of extrime moderation und generosity, by seuding back to thrir comentry, without ransom, all the prisoners he had taken in buttie. In this manner, by the most dexterous policy, he removed a purt of his enemids, that he might have the rest at his merey.-'Tytuen'sllint., Book D, ch. 3, p. 169.

18NR. ENEMY, Generons. I, uther. Miltitz [the Pope's nmbonssador] had mode an appointment to meet 'Tet\%el at Altenburg, in Snxony, to reprimand him for his excesses. But the latter, fearing the popular wrath, dill not dare to undertake the journey. After Miltit\% had concluded his conference with Lather, he went to Lejpsic. and meating Tetzel he miministered so severe in reproof that he sickened and diad of chagrin in a Dominican cloister, July 4, 1519. Luther wrote Tetzel a comforting letter during his sieknessan evidence of the nobility of soul and largeheartedness of the great Reformer.-Rein's LedTHER, cli. I, p. 50.
1889. ENEMY, Woapons from the. Rerolutionary Witr. [For Sumter's regiment in South Carolima] lmillets were cinst of pewter, collected from housekeepers. With searcely three romids of cartridges to a man, they could obtain no more but from their foes; and the arms of the dend and wounded in one engagement must 'quip them for mother.-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 10, ilh. 15.
1800. ENERGY complimented. Napoleon $I$. With such tremendons energy did he do this [nttack English nud Anstrinn nrmies], that he rereived from his antagonists the complimentary solriguct of the one handred thousend men. Wherever Napoleon made his appearance in the fich, his presence alone whs considered equal to that force.-Ahmott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 19.
1891. ENERGY, Expression of. General Grant. [At the battle of Fort Donelson, when rady for the fimal assault, General Buckner, the Confolerate commanler, proposed an armistice to settle terms of (apitulation.] Grunt wanted no armistier. Ife knew his alvantage ; . : he replied : " Fo terms but unconditional and immedinte surrender can be accepted. I propose to move immediutely upon your rorks." [Buckner surrender-ed.]-IIeadiey's Grant, p. 68.
1892. ENERGY, Individual. Tribune Rienzi. Never perhnps has the energy and effect of a single mind been more remarkably felt than in the sudden though transient reformation of Rome ly the tribune Rienzl. A den of robbers was converted to the discipline of a camp or a convent ; patient to hear, swift to redress, inexorable to punish, his tribunal was nlways accessible to the poor and the stranger; nor could birth or dignity or the immunities of the Church protert the offender or his accomplices. The priv

Iloged houses, tha privato mandumries in IRome, on which no otllear of justice would presinno ta trespass, wero abolished; and ho uypled the tinber nand fron of thelr marriendes in the fortithenthons of the C'mitol. - Cimins'n Rosme, ch. \%o, 1. 477.

1*PB. ENERGY, Military. Empiome Trojun. Careless of the dillerence of sedenolss and of ell. mates, lae marched on font, and marchended, overo the suows of ('aledonin ntul the sultry phatus of Upper Eigypt ; nor was there a province of the empire which, in the course of hils reign, was not homored with the presence of the momirels. -Guhlos's lRombi, ch. 1, 1). 0.
189.1. ENERGY of Patriotiam. Israil I'utuam. A.1). 1775. On tho marning [followhing the tight at Concord) . . . Isruel l'utnam, . . . in leather firock und upron, was assisting hired men to buikd a stone wall on his furm, when ho heard the ery from lexington. Lemving them to continue their task, he set otr instantly for rouse the militia ollfcers of the nearest towns. On his return he fonmed humdreds who hand mostered nud chossen him their leader. Issuing orders for them to follow, he himself pushed forward, without rlangring the chareked shirt he land worn in the fied, und reached Cumbridge nt smarise, Juving roble the same horse one hundred miles in elghteen hours.-I.avchor"'s U. S., vol. T, (1). 29.

1*DS. El.ERGY, Success by, Wolsey. ['Thomas Wolsey, ulterward tho great cordinal, was a priest at Magdalen College, umb subseduently Chmplain of Tenry VII.] Ilis promotion in that court arose out of his mpencity tos seize upon atlt nernsion for the display of renmarkuble energy. It is un attributo of genias thus to make its opportunities, white the ordinary mun pisses them liy. [Wolsey was sent ne a contidnatial messenger to the Emperor Maximilim, then in Flanders.] Having received his instructions from the king, he left Richmond nt noon, took the ferry-boat at Gravesend, went on with horses to 1)over, hud a quick passage to Cabais, discharged his commission to the emperor on the second night, travellen buek to Culnis the next dny, nul was again at Richmond on the forrth evening. This was an extrnordinary jouruey for those times. Presenting limself to the king on the following morning, he whs angrily asked why lie had not set forth on histravel. [IIenry presentad him with the dennery of Lincoln.]-K Nuart's ENG., vol. 2, ch. 16, p. 205.

189f. ENERGY, Surpassing. Mhhomet II. [To the unbossadors of Constuntine, who protested fgainst the ereetion of $n$ threatening fortress :] "ileturn and inform your king that the present Ottoman is far different from his predecessors ; that his resolutions surpass their wishes; and that he performs more than they conld resolve. Return in sufcty ; but the next who delivers in similar message may expect to be flayed nlive." After this declarntion Constnntine, the first of the Greeks in spirit us in rank, had determined to unsheatho the sword, and to resist the approach and establishment of the Turks on the Bosphorus. -Gibbon's IRome, ch. 68, p. 375.

189\%. ENGINEERS, Service of. War in Netherlands. When we contemplate [William, Prince of Orange] this feeble-lodied man, with the most haroic spirit, one day in the tremehes, another day on horselnek from worning till night, . . We chn understanil the contilence he won; but while we adaire the persoverane of Whilimin and the modamed cournge of all tha traops of the allios, we must not forget that much of the surcerss was due to the selence of the anginerr, Corloorn, tho great rival of Vanbua. - TNiait's ENa., vol. 5, fli. la, p. 180.

180w. ENGRAVING invented, Mrzzotinto. It was lusented by the colebrated l'rinco Rupert. woin of the lilector l'alatine, ulsout the your 1650 ; Had the hint was conceived from observing this rifect of rast upon a soldicres fusil, ln envering the surface of the iron with inmamerable smali Inoles at regular distunces. Rujert, who was a grout mechaniend geniusamd virtuoso, concladed that a contrivamec might le fonnd to cover a phato of eopper with sucha a remular gromad ol holes so closely plerced ns to give a hlack imporession. which, if sernped away in proper parts, would leave the rest of the pmorer white; that thas light, aud shata might he us thacly blemeded, or us strongly dlathgnishod, ns by the pemeil in palating. Ile triol the experinumat hy means of nin indented sted roller, and it sucecorded to his wishes. $\Lambda$ cremaluted chlsel is now used tos make the rough gromed in place of the roller. This nrt has been brought to very high perfection. Its chmrncteristic is a soltuess eqjunl to that of the pencil, and it is therefore patticularly adnjeted to portruits; and nolling execpt tho power of colors con express flesh more nuturnlly, the flowing of hair, the folds of drupery, or tho reflection from polished surfaces. Its dlafect is, that where there is one great miss of slande in the picture it wants an outline to detach amb distinguish the different parts, which ure thus nlmost lost in one entireshade ; but in the blendlag of 'irht and shade there is no other mode of engrave that appronches to it in excellence. 'TYTten's IIIsT, Book 6, ch. 22.

1899, ENMITY, Persistent. Gato. [Cuto gave] a stronger instance of his enmity to Curthage ; he never gave his opinion in the Senate upon nny other point whatever withont mbling theso worls: "And my opinion is, that Ćn thingo should be destroyed." Seipio, summmed Nasica, made it a point to maintain the contrary, and conchuded nll his speeches thus: "And my opinion is, that Carthage should be left standing." Phevtareli.
1900. ENMITY, Race. Norma us. In no conntry has the eninity of race been carried further than in England. . . . Ilis ordinary form of indignant denial was, "Do you take me for an Englishman?" 'Tho descendant of such a gentleman one hundred years later was prond of the English name.-Macathay's Eno., ch. 1, 1. 15.
1901. ENTERPRISE, Vast. Pucific lailroad. This vast enterprise was projected ns early as 1853 , but ten years elapsed before the work of construction netually begran. The first division extended from Omalia it Orden, . . a thousand and thirty-two miles; the western division, called the Central Pacifie, . .. from Ogden to San Francisco, a distance of eight hundred and eighty-two miles. On the 10th of May, 1869, the great work was completed.-RidPath's U. S., ch. 68, p. 553.
1802. ENTERTAINMENT, Gonlus for, Punlus Amilins. [After Panlus Amillus hud sulndued the Macedonlins, ho mude grent entertulunents. $]$ And he showed so just adisceriment lin the ordering, the plucing, and salutling of hls gnests, ind in distingulshing what degree of civility wis due Ho every min's rank nud funlity, thit the Croeks were numzed nt hifs knowledige of mintiors of mere pollenoss, nnd thint mald his grent nethons even trifles ald not escupo his nttontion, but were conducted wilh the grantest derorum. I'lint whileh afforded hime the highose sullafaction was, that, notwithstanding the magniticemere and vartety of his preparations, he himaself gave the grentest phensire to those lie intortalnod. And to those that expressed their momirnton of his mamgement on these ocensions, he sald that it regulred the smane genlits to druw up an army and to order an enterintmment ; that the one might be most formidnhle to the enemy, mel tho other most ngreenble to the compuit.-I Pbe 'raitein's Pavide Amililich.

190B. ENTHUSIASM, Patriotlc. "Imlepen. dence Ifill." All day long the old bellman of the Stite llonse had stood in the steeple, rendy to sonnd the note of freedon to the city und the untion. The hours went hy; the griny-haired vetemn In the belfry grew discoumged, and began to may, "They will never do it-they will never do lt" [i.e., sign the Deelmathon of American Independencel. Just then the lad who had heen stationed below rim ont and exelnimed, at the top of his voice, " Rlong I ring !" mol the aged pntriot dild ring as he never did before. . . . Fverywhere the decharation was recoived with enthasiastic: applane. - Ridpatio's U. S., ch. :39, p. 309.

1DO&. ENTHUSIASM, Persistent. Lorel Nelson. [At the battle of Copenhagen, $18 t) 1$, Nelson was vice-admiral, and led the nttack ngainst the Danish fleet. By necident one fourth of the flect were unable to purticipate, and the battle became very destruetive. Admiral Parker, a conservative and aged oflleer, secing how little progress was made after three hours' corflict, rignalled the fleet to discontinue the engagement.] That sigmal was No. 39 . Nelson contimed to walk the deck, without nppenring to notice the signal. "Shall I repent it ?" snid the sigmal lieutenant. "No; acknowledge it." Ife turned to the captain: "Yon know, Foley, I have only one eye. I cru't see it," putting his glass to his blind eyo. "Nail my signnl for close nction to the mant," cried Nelson. [The buttle wasia success, and the Dunish flect destroyed. J-Kinuar's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 23, p. 404.
1805. ENTHUSIAgw for Philosophy. Arehimedes. It is relnted of him, that being perpetually charmed by a domestic siren-that is, his geometry, he neglected his ment and drink, and took no eare of his person; that he was often carried by force to the buths, and when there lie would ninke mathematical figures in the ashes, and with his finger draw lincs upon lis borly when it was anointed ; so much was he transported with intellectual delight, such an enthusiast in science. And though he wis the author of many curious and excellent discoveries, yet he is said to have desired lifs friends only to place on his tombstone a cylinder containing a sphere, and to set down the proportion which the contain-Ing solid hernes to the contahed.- P'seranen's Malteritus.

1DOE. ENTHUSIASM, Romarkable. Jwan of Aro. She honestly leelieved herself inspifiel hy lonven, nind she finfused into others that belle.f. An enthusinst herself, she thlled a dispirlted seldlery und a dempulrlig people whth enthusinsm. The grent sereret of her sineeses was tho boldinens of hor nttucks. - Kinteitr's Eisu., vol. シ, elı. 4, 1). 87 .

190\%. ENTHUSIASM, A Solder's. Diftle of Mamasmas. | A Confederinte soldier, wombind lin tho bronst, was bring carriad oif the dield hy hly commanles. An ofllarer expressed his syumpithy.] "Yes, yes!" was his roply, "they havo dono for me now, but my father's there yet ! ournrmy is there yet! our eanse is there yet !" numl ralsling hlmself from the nrms of his companions, his fuce lighting up like a stubonn, he cried with nan conthasiasm l shall never forget, "nnd Liborty is there yet!" llis spmanoulle excrilon was too mach for hin! ; . . heswooned away.-
 1. 121 .
1808. ENTHUSIASTs, Gospel. Q"okrrs. George Fox did not fail by letter to cutceliso Innocent XI. Ploughmen und milkmaids, becoming finerant preachers, sommed the nlarm throughout the we rld, mind nppealed to the ronsciences of Puritans nud Coviliers, of the Popo and the Grina 'Turk, of the negro und the suvage. The plans of the Quakers designed no less thun the establishment of 11 universal religion; their nposiles monde their wny to lonne nad Jerusalem, to New England and Egypt ; and somo were even moved to go towari Chimand Japan. The rise of the people called Quakors is one of the memorable events in the history of man. It marks the moment when intellectual frecdom was chamed unconditionally by the peoplo as an finnlienmble birthright.-B.ancuorn's $\mathbf{L}$, 心., eh. 16 , vol. 2.
1809. ENVY rebuked, Olirer Goldsmith. Leon another occosion, when Goldemith confessed hinself to be of un envious disjosition, I contended with Johnson that we ought not to be nngry with him, le was so enndid in owning it. "Nay, sir," said Johnson, " we must be angry that a man has such a supernhumbance of an odious funlity thant he camnot keep it within his own brenst, but it boils over." In my opinion, however, Gohalsmith had not more of it than other people have, lut only talked of it freely.-Bosweia.'s Jolin. SON, P. 220 .
1910. ENVY of Reputation. Aristides. At the time that Aristides was hanished, when the people were inseribing the mmmes on the shells, it is reported that an illiterate hargher came up to Aristides, whom he took for some ordinary person, and giving him his shell, desired him to write Aristides upon it. The good man, surprised at the adventure, asked him whether Aristides hul ever injured him. "No," said he, " nor do I even know him ; but it vexes me to hear him everywhere called the Just." Aristides made no answer, but took the shell, and having written his own name upon it, returned it to the man. When he quitted Athens, he lifted up his hands toward Heaven, and, agreenbly to his character, made a prayer, very different from that of Achlles-nmmely, that the people of Athens might never see the day whieh should force them to remember Arlathles.--Literaticios Aitstione.

1011. ENVY, Unhappiness of. Hency III. [After his vidory over the German maxillarien] the king returned to Paris, where he made his triumphal entry, . . . Dit fonmi, to his extreme mor tifleation, that the entire credit and glory of the campaign was assigned by the Parishans to thelr thlol, the Duke of Gulse. "Nand has slatn his thousumde," reted themultitude, "hat David him ten thonsump."-SteDen's' Fuance, ih. 1\%.

1914. EPIDEMIC, Dentructive. Firlin. [In 1818 the liridsh army In Indlaj was enamped in low ground, on the lanaks of a tributary of the human. The Indlan cholern morbos had ase cended the walley of the Ganges, and remblaing the emmp of the maln British nrmy destroyad, In a lithle more than a week, one tenth of the number there erowded together. - Knobures Enct., vol. 8, ch. 12, 1. 417.
1918. EPICURES, Reputed. Eing/ixh. ['The Engilsh people were called (phenes liy the imporerisheal Serots, who opposed the unlon of the two mations. They were salal to be] levoted to Dutch cablages and whenten bread, and despising bonast kate amil matmenl, - Knamir's Ena., vol. 5 , ch. 21, p. 32:
1914. EPISCOPACY, Flotitlous. Roman. [Reign of dames 11 . Adda, the 1'ope's numido in Einghand, hat, by athetion often used In the Church of Rome, been hately rabed to the eplscopal dignity without having the charge of any see. He was called Archbishop of Amasia, the birthphare of Mithridates, an ancient city of which all trace had long disappeared. - Ma. caulay's Ena., ch. 8, p. 240.
 fommer of Yale College.] Elihu Yale lived to the age of seventy-three years, dying in 1721, und was buried at Wrexum, In Wales. The epitapl: on his tombstone is still legible. After the date of his blth and denth these lines follow :
Born in America, in Europe bred,
In Africa travelled, and in Asia ween,
Where long he lived and thrived: at Lomilon, tenul.
Much good, some ill, he did ; so hope all's reven, And that his soul through merey's gone to heaven.
You that survive and read, take care
For this most certain exit to prepare ;
For only the actions of the just Smell sweet and blossom in the dust.
-Cyclopedia of Brog., p. 594.
1816. EqUALITY, Religious. Mohammedan. One of the princes of Roman Syria, Djabalah, adopted the fuith of the conquerors. . . . Omar took him along with him, at the epoch of the pilgrimage, to accomplish the rites of Islamism at Medina. The Syrinn prince, arrayed in silkenapparel, and wearing a crown decked with priceless pearls-which resembled the car-drop of Maria, of which this princess had made a present to the temple of Mecea at the moment of her conver-sion-followed by magnificent horses of Nedjid, which his slaves were leading by the band, uccompanied Omar in his stations around the holy edthe A Bedonin of the tribe of Fazara, who wis walking behbin hilin, trod on the tail of his cloak, and malo it fall from lis shomblers. Djabalah turned uromil angry, gave this man $n$ winju: and cout him on the fares. The Fearian chatame of Omar satisfactoon for thas ontrage: "Thant linst strleken hlm ?" naked the Klunlif of 1) jnbahah. "Yes," replicel the hater, " and hat for my veneration for the Kima, I woald have ilo. veln his lanal whith my sword." "Tlath avowent. the met," rejohed (omar ; "thom mant parchame then from the offended parly a desistane from the complatat." "And if 1 ann mavilliag to ino It $y$ ". "Than thon witt he subjere to the peratiy of retalintion. I wal oriler that thas Bedomian Natl strike thee upor the face, as thon hase witioken him." "But I nin aking, and he la but na ol, scure fallvidual." "Tho klug ne:d the" heygar are cumal before the Mussulaman iaw: thon hast. ovar him but the supertorlty of physionl lorre." "I had thought I would be still more homered In Islamism than in my former religion." "No more worls; sutisfy the pomplahant, is submit 1817. EQUALITY, Sentimental, Nifumien $l$. [He professerl to belicue in the nobility of merit and the equally of men. Darat soright Napoleon's sister (aroline for a bride. "Marat Murat l" sahal Napoleon, thonghtfully mid hevitatingly. "Ile is the son of man-kerper. In the elevated rank [of First Consul] to which I have uttalued, I cannot mix my hosid wifl his." [IIe afterwaril comsented as a matter of polley.] - Anhotres Napolgon 13., vol. 1, ch. 16 .

1818. EQUIVOCATION deolined. , John Muss. Hus,. . railed agaiust the eeclesiastionl hior. archy and the disorterly lives of the popes ami bishops. Ite was ritell to aplegor before the council of Constance, and was exmmiaed touching the most olnoxious passages of his writings. To deny the hierurchy, and to repronel the wonduct and morals of the bishops, were sutflecint crimes in the judgment of a eonncil of these hishops, and lluss was condemaed to be hur.: alive. He might have saved his life by simply deelaring that the alijured all his errors. Tho Emperor Sigismund, who wanted to save him, thus rensonch with him: "What harm can there be," sail he, "in any man decharing that he wh. jures his ctrors? I nm ready this moment to declare that I abjure all my errors; " lat John llass was too sincere to save his life by an elfuivocation, and he suffered death with heroic com-age.-Tythen's IIfat., Book 6, ch. 11 .
1919. EQUIVOCATION, Ingenious, Reign of Jomes II. [Willinm, Prince of Orange, issuet it manifesto announciag the invitation of the presates to an invision of Enghand.] Bishop) Compton was ealled into the royal closet and asked whether he believed that there was the slightest ground for the prince's nssertion. The bishop was in a strait, for be was himself one of the seven who had signed the invitation; and his conscience, not a very enlightened conscience, would not suffer him, it seems, to utter a direct falsehood. "Sir," he said, "I um quite contident that there is not one of my bretliren who is not as guiltless as myself in this matter." Tho equivocation was ingenious; but whether the difference between the sin of such an equivocation and the sin of a lie be worth any expense of

Ingemity may prerhips be doultend. The ktage wild: "lout I think it inceresmery thit yoms shonlal pmbitely nguinet your in the prineres derelaration." The bimbop sory maturally logegal that he might be allowed to remb the puper whith her was reymired th remtrallet; but the klige womld mot sutter him to lowkint It. (It another Intorview, / whon Gimpitoris lirus canm he pmrriol the question raviad. " I gate your Majouty my answor yono

1820. EQUIVOCATION, Oracular, Filf. ['onstanthe war "ppromehing the dity with "grent ed the slbyllowe books. The gumedians of these andelent orieles were as wall varsed hat the arte of this worlday they were fanorant of the sererete of fate; whd they returned him a very prodent an-secerere their reputation, whentever shomblat be the

IDRI. ERROR from Vastacss. Lirplorer. foreking atwertern passage from Vinrope to

 Brazil in the millite of beromber. Ite then stererol to the somth, bud, salinge close in shorer, lowked ont mindmaly to thil a lireak in the conthent whida wombldet him into the gremt oremo that washat the shores of Asia, mat encireleol the rioh ishande al' which he was lin guest. 'The larme month of the la llata lured him in at length. He entered it, but diseovering sonn that it was only a river, he dropped down the atresern, mad resimed his run mong the const, -

192ta ESCAPE by Bravery. Ihitle of Ihatings. [Williamble Nomanaliferserol his troops:] Thure will be no nately in asking guarter or in flght ; the linglish will mever love oreparen Norman. Frlons they were, and felons they are ; false they were, mal false they will be. Show mo veaknoss townrd them, for they will have no pity on yon; nether the cownid for romaing well, nor the holl man for smiting well, will he the better liked ly the English, nur will any he the more spared on either necomat. fon may tly to the sem, hat you can tly no farther ; you will thal nother ships nor bridge there; there will he bo sailors to receive yon; mat the English will wertake you there, nud shay you in your shame. More of you will die in light itan in battle. Then, us thight will mot serime yon, fight, nal you will compure.-Decratie Battheis, Ş 308.

194:2. ESCAPE diffloult. $I_{1}$ uthor. Luthor's friends, fearing that lee wonld not be permitted to depart from the city, provided for him a horse and an old companion at arms, and dismissed him at night through a seeret gate in the city walls. Thus he eseaped upon a bard-riding trotter, in his monk's cont, without boots or pants, spurs or sword, travelling about forty miles before he sought rest. When he dismounted at the inn at Monheim he could hardly stand, and for weariness fell down upon the straw.Jein's Luther, ch. 5, p. 5.0 .
1924. Estrangement, Connublai. William and Mary. A time would eome when the prin-coms [Mary], who hat beet edncated oary b1 work embirondery, to play on the mpinet, nud to roud the Bible and the "Whole Dnty of Man," womlal he the chiof of atreat monarchy [the Eughishi), and womb hold the lablane of biarope. while her foril | Willinm, Prince of Orange, | unt: bitions, versad in affalrs, and leit on great entrpulises. would hold power only from lier lomimy and durlug her phomisere. . The Princens of Orange hal mot the falntest sumpicion of her hastand's Peolinge. Diar preereptor, Bishop Compton, had hastruided her carefally in rellg. lom, tud had espere hally gharded hor midndugainat Ioft her profomadly ggormit of the English comstilullin mal of har own pexition. She knew that hor marriage vow homal her to obley her hastmad; and it fuad never ocerored to har that the roblaton in whith they stoud to curch other might one diny be finverted. she had lerent nitue yours martion bufore she diseovered tho cmase of W'illam's diveontent : nor womld sho cover have lamed it from hamedf. In gemeral, his temper inelined him rather to broesl over hifs griofs than to ghe uttermace to them: nad in thas particular case his lipes wree mealed by a very matural dellaney. At length a empleto "xphanaton nod recomellintion ware hrought about by the ngency of (illbert Burnct.-NA. cantay's lina., ch. 7, p. 161.
1025. ETIQUETTE burdensome. lilinaril IV: [ fn 1.166 n I Bohenrinn nobleman mad satte were (entertained ly Elward IV.I I Inving heen frastad himesilf . . . he was comducted hato a costly ormamentel room, where the gueen was to dine. "The yuren sat dow 11 a gollem stool, mbine nt her talblo: and her sister stood far bulow her. 'r and the king's vhen the queen spoke to [them] they kneene sown every time before ber, nat remained kneeling until the fluern drank water. And inl hor landee and maids, und those who waited upon her, even grent lords, had to kneel while she was enther, whieh continued three hours. After dlimer there was dhneing. but the guepn continued sitting upon her stool, num her mother $k$ nelt before her."-Kniant's Ena., vol. D. ch. 11, p. 170.
1926. ETIQUETTE, Quentions of. Amerifor. In the tirst monthe of his udintinistration Wash: ington was much vexed about puestions of ceremany mad eticuette. How should he mpear in public? Jlow often? Whant kind of entertuinment should he give ? What title shombld he bear, and in what manar be introluced? . . . It, must not, on the one hand, demenn himself like a king, surromaded with peers and courtiers; mor, on the other hand, must he degrate his high olleo by such bunt democratic ceremonies ns would render himself ridiculous and the Presidency contempibible. In this embarrassment Wishington sought lhe advice of Adams, Jefferson, Hamilton, and others. . . . Adams, in answer, would have much ceremony; Jefferson, none at nll. The letter said: " 1 hope that the terms Excel lency, IIonor, Worship, Esquire, and even Mr. shall shortly and forever disippear from among us." I Inmilton's reply favored a moderate and simple formality, and this view was adopted by Washington.-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 46, p. 365.
1927. ETIQUETTE, Restraints of. Princess Anie. The princess becme impatient of the re-atrainta which ctiguette fimposend on her. She romild not lenar the wordis Madam nod Royal Ilighoens from (Sarmh Churehill) the lijes of one who was more to her than in sister. . . Arate was Mrs. Morley ; Lady (Churchill wan Mru. Frefomun: and moder thone childish names was carried on, during twenty yeurs, a eorrexpmodence

 1. 2: ZH .
 ry lace. Wishlugtoni . . "Firmi in wur, tiest in pence, und firat lit the hemers of his combrymen." -Cun'tia' Wamilinotos, vol. I, ch. 16.
1920. EVABION, Decoptivo. Ntmurl John. mon. [ILe wrote for the didweturer.] Johnsmin's naylog, "I have no part in the paper loeyond now nuld then $n$ motto," may meen laconsistent with his being the mithor of the papers marked $T$. But he had, at thile thene, written only ones munber ; und besides, even at any nfter beriod, ho might have used the same expression, consider$\operatorname{lng}$ It ny n point of honor not to own them; for Mre. Willims told mo lhat, "as he had girwn those ossays to Dr. Bathurst, who sold them at two guinems ench, he never would own them: may, he used to say he dld not arite them: but tho fuet was, that he dietatad them, while Inthurst wrote."-Bonwridis Jonnson, p. the.

10B0, EVABION, Legal. Rurerach. It is suid, that when the monlnessadors from Lacediemon came. to Athens [to arrange the terms of peace, they were deterred by a decree ugninst the Megarenslans, their enemiow]. Pericles pretended there was a law which forlade the taklag down uny thblet on whieh a derere of the people was written. "Then," naid I'olyarces, one of the nmbnasadors, " do not take it down, but turn the other side outward; there is no law ugninst that." Notwithstunding the plemsuntry of this naswer, lerricles relentel not in the leant.- l'autahen's Pehicheq.
19B1, EVIDENCE, Abundant. Impoasible. [Malomet was luelined to jeatonsy, yet hej published "taw of domestic peace, that no womm should be condemned unless four male witnesses had seen her in the aet of iudultery.-Gmmos's Romis, ch. 50, p. 150 .
1932. EVIDENCE, Circumstantial. Niro's persectution. When once the Christians were pointed ont to the popalar vengeance, many rensons would be uldaced to prove their connection with the conthgration. Tremples had perished -and were they not notorious anemins of the temples? Did not popular rumor charge them with nocturmal orgies and Thyestienn fensts? Suspicions of ineendiarism were sometimes bronght agninst Jews; but the Jows were not in the habit of talking, as these sectaries were, about a tire which should consume the world, and rejoieing in the prospect of that tiery consummation. Nay, more, when Pagans had bewailed the destriction of the elty and the loss of the anefent monuments of kone, had not these pernicioms people nsed mombighous langunge, as though they joyously recognized in these events the signs of a coming end ? Even when they tried to suppress all ontward tokens of exultation, fad they not listened to the fane and lamentations of their fellow-citizens wit's some sparkle in the eyes, mud had they not maswared with somedhing
 D.sy, ch. 4, p. 3\%.

19:BE, EVIDENCE, Confloting. Vitpulion $I$. [After defenting the moblin the atreets of limis. it tisi-woman, of enormons rotundily of permon, exhorted themob, witl: the mont veliement voludility, not to dlaprerse, e "elthing, " Never mathi these coxcombs whin cpuldete on their mhomis. dars ; they care not if wo poor peoplenil starve, if they cun loit ferel well nud grow fitt !" Napoleon. whos was thiln anal mengre us a slandow, turned to her and maid: " laook Ht mer, my goned womun, and tell me which of us twos is the futter." 'Tho Amazon wascompletelydiseonecerte I hy this hapby repartere, and the crowd In gocil hamoor dise permed.-A miert's Naboh,eon 13., vol. I, ch. 3.

19:3.A. EVIDENCE, Conatruotivo. Tritel of Strufford. Never did an arralgned privoner reply with grenter majesty of innoserence than did Struford in his hast dafonce heforo his neensers and his klug. Neither Athens nor Rome records any incident of more trugic subllanty la tho united unnals. " 'rmible to thal la my conduet," said strufford tolols judgres, " migthlag to whileh might be upplided the mune or pmilshasent of trason, my conemben have invented, In dethane of all law, a chain of constructive and nceomaslative evidence, by which my netlons, allhough lunocent and huthble when taken reparately, vewed in this colle ered light, berome tronsonahle. It is hard to bequestioned on a law which cannot be shown. Where hath his tire hinh hid ${ }^{2}(1)$ many humlreds of years, without smoke to diseover ft, till it thas basses forth to consume mo and my children? It is better to be withont lawn altogether than to persumde ourselves that we lave laws ly which to regulateoner conduct, and to flad that they consist only in the ellmity and urbitrary will of our nceusers. If a man sails upon the Thames in alonat, und spolits himself upon an anchor, nud wo buoy be fonting to disenver it, he who owneth the inechor shatl make sutisfaction; lont if a buoy be set there. every one passeth it it his own peril. Now, whore is the mark, where the tokens upon this crime: to dechare it to be ligh treason? It has remained hidflen under the water; as haman prudenes or innocenee conld preserve we from the puin with which it mancers me. For two hundred and forty years cery speries of 1 remon has bern dethed, and during ilme long space of lime I anm the tirsi, I nm the only exception for whom the defluition has beon enlarged, that I may be anveloped in its meshes. "-Lamantintis Cnonwelt, p. 11.

1935, EVIDENCE, Convincing. Samur'Johnson. After we came out of the church, we stood talking for some time together of Bishop Berkeley's ingenious sophistry to prove the nonexistence of matter, and that everything th the universe is merely ideal. I oliserved, that though we are satisfied his doetrine is not true. it is impossible to refute it. I never shall forget the alacrity with which Johnson answered, striking his foot with mighty force against in large stone, till he rebounded from it, "I refute it thus."-Boswelle's Joinson, p. 131.
1036. EVIDENCE discredited. James $I T$. James informed this great nssembly [of notubles] that he thought it necessary to produce proofs of the birth of his sin. The arts of bad men hud poisoned the publie mind to such an extent that very muny believed : !e Prince of Wales to be n supposititions child; but Providence hud grneionsly ordered things so thint scurcely uny prince had ever come into the word in the presence of so many witnesses. All who were present appared to be satisfled. The evidence was instantly published, und was allowed by jurlicious and impurtial persons to be decisive. IBut the judicious nre always a minority ; und scarcely anjonly was then impartial. The whole nation was convinced that nll sincere papists thonght it a duty to perjure themselves whenever they could, by projury, serve the interests of their ('hurch. Men who, having been bred Protestunts, had, for the sake of lucre, pretended to be converted to popery, were, If possible, less trustworthy even than sineere pmpists. The depositions of all who belonged to these two classes were therefore regrarded as mere nullities. - Macaclay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 434.

1937\%. EVIDENCE, External. Gnowtics. As the Christiun religion was received, at tirst, by many, from the conviction of its truth from external evidence, and without a due examination of its doctrines, it was not surprising that many who called thenselves Christians shouli retnin the doctrines of a prevailing philosophy to which they bave been acenstomed, and endeavor to accommorlate these to the system of revelation, which they found in the sacred volumes. Such, for example, were the Christian Gnosties, who intermixed the doctrines of the Oriental philosophy concerning the two separate principles, a good nnd un evil, with the precepts of Christianity, and almitted the authority of Zoronster, as an inspired personage, equally with that of Jewns Christ. Such likewise were the sect of the Ammonians, who vainly endeavored to reconcile together the opinions of all the different schools of tl.a pugun philosophy, and attempted, with yet greater absurdity, to accommodate all these to the doctrines of Christianity. From this confusion of the pagan philosophy with the plain and simple doctrines of the Christian religion, the Church, in this period of its infant state, suffered in a most essential manner. - Tythen's IIist., Book 5 , ch. 4.
1983. EVIDENCE of common Fame, Monmouth's Rebellion. The faet that Monmouth was in arms aguinst the government was so notorious that the bill of attainder became a law with only a fuint show of opposition from one or two peers, and has seldom been censured even by Whig historians: yet when we consider how important it is that legislative and judicial functions should be kept distinet, how inıportant it is that common fame, however strong and general, should not be received as a legn! proof of guilt, how important it is to maintain the rule that no man shal: be condemned to death without an opportumity of defending himself, and how easily and speedily breathes in great principles, when once mado, are widened, we shall probably be disposed to think that the course taken by the Parliament was open to some objection. Neither house had before it anything which even so corrupt a julge as Jeffreys could have directed a jury to eonsider as proof of Monmouth's crime. - Machulay's Eng., ch. 5, 1. 588.
1838. EVIDENCE, Foroed. Knights Templars. On the 13th of October, 1307, not only Du Moliy, but nll the Knights Templars throughout the realm of Frunce, were nrrested und thrown into prison; and Philip [IV.] proceeded in person to the vast fortress of the Temple at Paris, of which he took forclble possession. Certaln secret revelations had been made to the king by two renegrde niembers of the Order, who had been condemned for gross misconduct and imprisoned for life ; and the Templars were charged upon their testimony with the most monstrons crines, ineluding systematic blasplemy and impiety, shameless immorulity, and deliberate apostasy from the Christinn fulth. One hundred and forty of the prisoners were immediately examined before the Grand Inquisitor at Paris; and the severest tortures having been employed to extract eonfession, admissions were obtained which seemed to a grent extent to establish their guilt. -Students' Firance, eli. 9, § 19, p. 188.
1940. EVIDENCE, Impossible. Mutiny. In their secret conferences they extelaimed against him as a desperado, lent, in a mad phantasy, upon doing something extravagnne to render himself notorious. What were their sufferings und dangers to one evidently content to sucritice his own life for the chance of distinction? . . . As an effectund menns of preventing his complaints, they might throw him into the sea, and give out that he land fallen overboard while busy with his instruments contemplating the stars; a report which no one would have either the inclination or the means to controvert. Columbus was not ignorant of the mutirou ~ disposition of his crew, but he still maintained a serene and steady countennnce; soothing some with gentle words; endeavoring to stimulate the prlde or avarice of others, and openly menacing the refractory with signal punishment, should they do anything to impede the voyage. -Irving's Coínmbes, Book 3 , ch. 4.
1941. EVIDENCE, Indispntable. Coat of Mail. [In 1405 Archbishop Serope joined a rebellion against Henry IV. IIe was taken and beheaded. The pope claimed that the king had no jurisdiction over a prelate--that it was an offence agninst the Chureh, and he] issued a temporary sentence of excommunieation against all who had been concerned in his denth. There is a story [that Henry] charged a messenger to deliver the armor of the archbishop to the pope, with these words of the brathers of Joseph: " Lo! this we have found ; we know not whether it be thy son's coat or no."-Kniairt's Eng., vol. 2, eh. 3, p. 50.
1942. EVIDENCE, Inferential. Ciesar. [The young desperado Clodius evidently sought to corrupt the wife of Casar.] Ciesar . . . divorced Pompeia; yet, when called ns an evidence on the trial, he declared he knew nothing of what was alleged against Clodius [who was reputed to have injured her virtue]. As this declaration appeared some what strange, the accuser demanded why, if that was the case, he had divoreed his wife: "Beemuse," said he, "I would have" the chastity of my wife clear even of suspicion." - Plutairch's Cesare.
1943. EVIDENCE manufactured. Nicias. [The Athenim general] gave not only to those who deserved his bounty, but to such us might be able to do him harm ; and bad men found resources in his fears, as well as good men in his liberality. . . T Teleclides introduced a trading informer speaking thus: "Charicles would not give one mina to prevent my declaring that he was the first-fruits of his mother's amours; but Nicins, the son of Nicerutus, gave me four. Why he did it, I shall not say, though I know it perfectly well. For Nicias is my friend, a very wise man besldes, in my opinion. "-Plutancir's Nictas.
1944. EVIDENCE perverted. Mfahomet. Some authors consider the fits of the prophet as the principal evidence of his mission.

They were preceded by great depression of spirits, and his face was clouded ; and they were ushered in by coldness of the extremities and shivering. Ite shook as if he were suffering from ague, and called out for covering. His mind was in a most painfully excited stnte. IIe heard a tinkling in his ears, as if bells were ringing, or a humming, as if bees were swarming round his lead, and his lips quivered; but this motion was under the control of volition. If the attack proceeded beyond this stage, his ryes became fixed and staring, and the motions of his head convulsive and automatic. At length perspiration loroke out, which covered his face in large drops; and with this ended the attack. Sometimes, however, if he had a violent fit, he fell comatose to the ground, like a person who is intoxicated; and (at least at a later period of his life) his face was flusbed, and ins respiration stertorous, and lie remained in that state for some time. The bystanders sprinkled water in his face.-Note in Ginnon's Mairome't, p. 53.
1945. EVIDENCE of Prejudice. Jemes $I$. In the second year of this reign was franed ancther plot, . . . one of the most infernal that ever entered into the human breast to conceive-the Gunpowder Treason. . . . This conspiracy . . . had for its object to cut off at one blow the king and the whole body of the Parliament. . . . It had origimated from the disgust and disappointment of the Catholics, who, on the accession of James, the son of a Cutholic, had formed to themselvesillusive hopes of the establishment of their religion.

The conduct of the king in the punishment of this conspiracy was an instance of moderation, if not of humanity. The majority of his people would have gladly seen an utter extinction of all the Catholics in the kingdom. But James confined the vengeance of the laws to those only who were actually engaged in the plot-a measure which was ly a great part of his subjects construed into his own tacit inclination to favor the popish superstitions-an idea, of which the albsurdity was yet greater than its illiburality.'Tytleits IIstr., Book 6, ch. 29.
1946. EVIDENCE, Presumptive. Rrign of Churles $I I$. [1)uring the tight occasioned by 'Titus Oates' pretended popery plot.] Edward Coleman, a very busy and not very honest lioman Catholic intriguer, lud been among the persons accused. Search was made for his papers. It was found that he lad just destroyed the greater part of them ; but a few which had escaped contained some passages which, to minds strongly prepossessed, night seem to confirm the evidence of Oates. . . . But the country was not then inclined to construe the utters of papists candidly ; and it was urged, with some show of reason, that if papers which had been passed over as unimportant were flled with matter so suspicious, some great mystery of iniquity must have been contained in those documents which lind been carefully committed to the flames.Macaulay's Hist., ch. 2, p. 218.

1847 EVIDENCE, Purchase of. Reign of James $1 ;$. [Papists] nccused [William Donglas,] the treasurer, not only of extenuating the crime of the insurgents, but of having simself prompted it, and dial all in their power to obtain evidence of his guilt. One of the ringleaders, who had been taken, was offered a pardon if he would own that Queensberry had set him on ; but the same religious enthusiasm which had impelled the unhappy prisoner to criminal violence prevented him from purchasing his life by a calumny. IIe and severnl of his accomplices were hanged. [James sought to advance the Catholic religion in Scotland, and a riot ensued.]-MAcaulay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 107.
1948. EVIDENCE, Refuted by. Peculation. The younger Scipio (Asiaticus) was soon after impeached for the same crime which had been matter of accusation against his brother. The tribunes, it seems, were determined to have at least one victim from that illustrious house of the Cornelii. Ile was condemned to pay a heavy fine, as is generully believed, upon false evidence : for when his whole property wan seized, his poverty disproved the ealumnious accusation, and the Senate decreed him a high recompense for the injury he had sustained. -TyrLER's Hist., Book 3, ch. 9, p. 381.
1949. EVIDENCE rejected. Roman General Belisarius. Before her marriage with Belisurius, Antonina had one husband and many lovers; Photius, the son of her former nuptials, was of an age to distinguish himself at the siege of Naples; and it was not till the autumn of her age and beauty that sle indulged a scundalous attachment to a Thracian youth. Theodosius had been educated in the Eunomian heresy ; the African voyage was consecrated by the baptism and auspicious name of the first soldier who embarked; and the proselyie was adopted into the family of his spiritual parents, Belisarius and Antonina. Before they touched the shores of Africa, this holy kindred degenerated into sensual love; and as Antonina soon overleaped the bounds of mos esty and caution, the Roman general was alore ignorant of his own dishonor. During their residence at Carthage, he surprised the two lovers in a subterraneous chamber, solitary, warm, and almost naked. Anger flashed from his cyes. "With the help of this young man," said the unblusling Antonina, "I was secreting our most precions effects from the knowledge of Justinian. "-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 41, 1). 184.
1950. EVIDENCE, Religious. Joan of Arc. The English, wild with hate and humiliation, urged and threatened. So great was their rage against the Pucelle, that they burned a woman alive for speaking well of her. If the Pucelle herself were not tried, condemned, und burned as a sorceress-if her victories were not set down as due to the devil, they would remuin in the cyes of the people miracles, God's own works. The inference would be that God was against the English, that they lam been rightfully and loyally defented, and that their cause was the devil's. According to the notions of the time, there was no medium. A conclusion like thls, intolerable to English pride, was infinitely more so to a govermaent of hishops like that of England, and to the curdinal, its hemd. Micmelet's Joan of Auc, p. 29.
1951. EVIDENCE, Secondary. Snmuel Johngon. As to the Christian religion sir, besides the strong evidence which we have for it, there is a bulance in its favor from the number of great men who have been convinced of its truth, after a serions consideration of the question. Grotius was an acito man, a lawyer, a man accustomed to examine evidence, and he was convinced. Grotius was not a recluse, but a man of the world, who certainly had no bias to the side of religion. Sir Isaac Newton set out an infidel, and came to be a very firm believer.Boswelle's Joinson, p. 125.
1952. EVIDENCE, Blendor, Triul of Strafford. Strafford was brought to trial; he defended himself with great ability. The charge upon the whole was eertainiy relevant ; but though it was uppareut he had acted with great intemperance and indiseretion, nothing was proved wheh was sufficient to justify a penal conclusion. His enemies now found it necessary to uttempt a new mode of prosecution, und this was the most unjustifinble part of their procedure. A bill of attainder was brought into the IIonse of Commons, in which the principal proof adduced of Straf. ford's guilt was a scrap of paper in the handwriting of Sir Henry Vane, consisting of notes taken of a debate in the privy conncil on the subject of the war aguinst the Scots, in which Strifford was said to have urged the king to go on to levy the ship-money, and to have hinted that he was now absolved from all rules of government. Six counsellors, together with Vane, lad been present at this debate. Four of these declared that they recollected no such expressions of Strafford's ; the other two conld give no evidence, us one had left the commtry and the other was a state-prisoner. Vane's evidence, therefore. stood single und unsupported; yet a majority of the Commons passed the bill of attainder; and the Peers, intimidated by these violent and desperate measures, which made every man tremble for his own safety, [approved.]Tytler's IIlst., Book 6, ch. 29, p. 403.

195\%. - Roman Emperor Domiticen. The monster-for such his life declared himcontrived, like some of his unworthy predecessors, for awhile to coneeal his vices. He affected to show a moderation and a love of justice, which gave promise of a huppy reign ; but his maturnl position soon unveiled itself. Aninsurrection, which happened at that time in Germany. gave him an opportunity of satiating himself with blood. The rebellion itself was speedily quelled, but its consequences ware long deplored in the innumernble murders of the most respected among the citizens, for which the bare suspicion of having been concerned in the rebellion afforded always a sufficient pretext. Informers, that despicable brood, the scourge of men of worth, began again to swarm throughout the country ; slaves were bribed to give evidence against their masters ; pretenders to astrology were appointed to draw the horoscope of the prineipal citizens, the emperor ordering those to te put to death to whom fortune promised anything grent or successful.-Tytlea's Mist., Book 5, ch. 3.
1954. EVIDENCE by Symbols. Barbarians. Some of the northern larbirons nations use, at this day, a more of muthenticating contracts by symbols, which is a nearer approach to the solemnity of writing. After the agreement is made, the parties cut a piece of wood irregularly into two tullies; ench party keeps one of these, and both are given up and destroyed when the bargain is fultilled. A custom of this kind supposes a state of society where all agreements are of the simplest nature ; for these tallies, though they might certify the existence of a contract, conld never give evidence of its tenor.-TyTler's IItst., Book 1, ch. 3.
1955. EVIL overraled. Henry VIII. The origin of the Reformation in England is to be traced to a cause still more remote from the renl interests of religion than that which gave rise to the Reformation in Germany. As carly as the middle of the fourteenth century, the learned Wicliffe had begun an attack against many of the abuses in the Chureh of Rome, both in his sermons to the people and in his writings. . . . Such was the state of things at the beginning of the reign of Henry VIII., who was a prince zealously uttached from education to the doctrines of the Church of Rome; but he was yet more addicted to the unrestrained gratification of his passions, and this, in fact, was one of the minor though immediate causes of the Reformation in Eng-land.-Tytler's IIist., Book 6, ch. 20.
1956. exaggeration, Barbarian. Majesty. The marbarian princes [onderiattila] confessed, in the langunge of devotion or flattery, that they could not presume to gaze, with a steady cye, on the divine majesty of the king of the IIuns.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 34, p. 391 .
1957. EXAGGERATION detected. Samuel Johuson. The king then asked him what he thought of Dr. Hill. Johnson answered that he was an ingenious man, but had no veracity ; and immediately mentioned, as an instance of it. an assertion of that writer, that he had seen objects magnified to a much greater degree hy using three or four microscopes at a time thail by using one. " Now," added Johnson, "every one aequainted with microscopes knows that the more of them he looks through the less the object will appenr." "Why" replied the king, "this is not only telling an untruth, but telling it clumsily ; for, if that be the case, every one who can look through a microscope will be uble to detect him."-Boswela's Joinson, p. 151.
1958. EXAGGERATION, Impious, Political. There was hunched from the Ihague, in Mareh. 1652, a virulent royalist piece in Latin, under the title of Regii sanguinis clamor ad calum (Cry of the King's blood to IIeaven against the English parricides). Its one hundred and sixty pages contained the usual royalist invective in a rather common style of hyperbolical declamation, such as that " in comparison of the execution of Charles I., the guilt of the Jews in crucifying Christ was as nothing."-Milton, by M. Pattison, ch. 10.

1D5D. EXAMINATION needless, Samuel Johnson. Mrs. Montague, a lady distinguisled for having written an essay on Shakespeare, being mentioned. Reynolids: "I think that essiny does her honor." Jomnnon : "Yes, sir, it does her honor, but it would do nobody else honor. I liave indeed not rend it nll. But when I take np the ead of a web, ind find it pack-thread, I do not expect, by looking farther, to find embroidery." -Bosweils's Jollnson, p. 164.
1060. EXAMPLE followed. Death. [The Moguls invaded Ohina.] The obstinate remnant of independence and hostility was trunsported from the land to the sen. But when the fleet of the Song was surrounded and oppressed by a superior armament, their last champion leaped into the waves with hils infant emperor in his arms. " It is more glorious," he cried, " to die a prince than to live a slave!" A hundred thousand Chinese imitated his example; and the whole empire, from Tonkin to the great wall, submitted to the dominion of Cublif.-Gibbon's Rome, ell. 63.
1061. EXAMPLE, Inatruotion by. Gauls. [Siege of Rome.] Some of the barbarlans employed in the siege, happening to puss by the place where Pontius had made his way by night up to the [LKoman] Capitol, observed many traces of lis feet and hands, as he had worked limself up the rock, torn off what grew there, and tumbled down the mould. Of this they informed the king, who, coming and viewing it, for the present said nothing; but in the evening he assembled the lightest and most active of his men, who were the likeliest to climb any difficult height, and thus uldressed them: "The enemy have themselves shown us a way to reach them, which we were ignorunt of, and have proved that this rock is neither innccessible nor untrodden by linman feet. What a shmme would it be, then, after having made a beginning, not to tinish; and to quit the pluce as impregnable, when the Romans themselves have tauglt us how to take it! Where it was easy for one mun to ascend it cannot be difficult for many, one by one." . . . The foremost, laiving gained the top, put themselves in order, und were ready to take possession of the wall, and to fall upon the graards, who were fast asleep; for neither man nor dog perceived their coming. However, there were certuin saered reese kept near Juno's temple. . . . They immediately perceived the coming of the Gials, and running at them with all the noise they could make, they nwoke all the guards. - Pleviancin's CAmilhus.
1962. EXAMPLE, Power of. P'etriotism. A. D. 17\%4. But what most animated the country was the magnanimity of Boston ; "suffering amazing loss, but determined to endure poverty and leath rather than betray America and posterity." Its people, under the eyes of the [13ritish] general, disregriding alike his army, his proclamations against a provincial congress, and the British statute against town-meetings, came together, nccording to their ancient forms; and with Samuel Adams as moderator elected delegates to the next provincial congress of Massat-chusetts.-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 16.
1863. $\qquad$ General Jackson, 1812. During the winter Jackson's troops, unprovided and starving, became mutinous, and were going home.

But the general set the eximple of living on neorns; then rode before the rebelious line, and threntened with death the flrst nutineer that stirred. And no man stirred.-lRidisatin's U. S., ch. 50, p. 403.
1964. - John ITusis. A few months ufterward Jerome of Prigue, the disciple and the frlend of John Ilass, underwent the same fate with his master. He was aman of superior tnlents and of grent eloquence. The fear of death whs at first too powerful, and he signed a recmetation of his opinions; but no sooner hud ho heurd how his master hud encountered death than he was ashamed to live. He publicly retracted his recantation, preached fortli his doctrines, and was condemned to the fhmes. These exceutions were attended with consequences to the emperor of which he had little expeetation. The succession to the kingdom of Bohemia was opened to him by the death of his brother Winceslaus; but the Bohemians were so exasperated at the fate of their two countrymen. that it cost Sigismund a bloody war of sixteen years' continuance before he acquired the fult possession of these dominions. -TyTLER's Mis'r., Book 6, ch. 11.
1865. -_- Peter the Great. The Strelitzes, a body of militia consisting of about 30,000 men, like the Turkish Janizaries, liad frequently embroiled the empire by their seditions. Peter determined to abolish entirely this dangerous body, and for that purpose began with the formation of a regiment, which, by degrees, he increased to the number of 12,000 men. To set an example of subordination to his nobility, he served himself in the quality of a prlvate soldier; thence advancing gridually to the rank of captain and general officer.-TyTLER's Ilist., Book 6, ch. 35.
1966. EXAMPLE quoted. Samull Johnson. Dr. Percy called upon Johnson to take him to Goldsmith's lodgings; he found Johnson arrayed with unusual care in a new suit of clothes, a new hat, and a well-powdered wig, and conld not. but notice his uncommon spruceness. "Why. sir," replied Johnson, "I hear that Goldsmith, who is a very great sloven, justities his disregard of cleanliness and decency by quoting my pructice, and I am desirous this night to show lim a better example."-Inving's Golinswitht ch. 12, p. 91.
1967. EXASPERATION, Rashness of. Colonel Ethan Allen. A.d. 17\%5. [IIe failed in the attempt to surprise Nontreal, and was taken pris. oner.] At the barrack yard in Montreal, Prescott, a British brigadier, usked the prisoner, "Are you that Allen who took Ticonderoga ?" "I min the very mam," quoth Allen. 'Then Pres. cott. in great rage, called him a rehel and other hard names, and raised his cane. At this Allen shook his fist, telling him : "This is the bectle of mortality to yen, if you offer to strike."Banchort's U. S., vol. 8, ch. 52.

1D68. EXCELLENCE, Cost of. Time. Antisthenes. . . when he was told that Ismenias played excellently upon the flute, answered properly enouglı, "Then he is good for nothing else; otherwise he would not have played so well." Such also was Phillp's saying to his son, when at a certain entertainment le sang in a very agrecable and skilful manner: "Are you not ashamed to sing so well ?" It is enough for a prince to bestow a vaennt hour upon hearing others sing; and he does the muses sufficient honor if he attends the performances of those who excel in their arts. . . If a man applies himself to servile or mechanien employments, his industry in those things is a proof of his inattention to nobler studies.-Plutancis's Pemcles.
1969. EXCESS, Reaction of. Execution of Charles I. His long misgovernment, his innu. merable perfidies, were forgotten. His menory was, in the minds of the great majority of his subjects, associated with those free institutions which he had, during many years, labored to destroy ; for those free institutions had perished with him, and, amid the mournful silence of a community kept down by arms, hal been defended by his voice alone. From that day began a reaction in favor of monarehy and of the exiled house-a reaction which never ceased till the throne had again been set up in all its old dignity.-Macaulay's Eng., eh. 1, p. 120.
1970. EXCESSES, Ruiaous, Charles XII. [King of Sweden.] His character, in a few words, is well summed up by Voltaire: " He carried all the virtues of $n$ hero to that excess that they hecame as dangerous as their opposite vices. The obstinacy of his resolution ocensioned all his misfortunes in the Ckraine, and kept hin five years in Turkey. His liberality degenerating into profusion ruined his kingdom of Sweden. IIis courage pushed to temerity was the occasion of his death. His justice often amounted to cruelty; and in the last years of his life the maintenance of his authority approached to tyranny. His many great qualities, of which a single one might have immortalized another prince, were the ruin of his country. He never was the first to attack, but he was not always as prudent as he was implacable in his revenge. He was the tirst who had the ambition to be a conqueror without the desire of aggrandizing his dominions. He wished to gain empires only to give them away. His passion for glory, for war, and for revenge prevented his being a good politirian, a quality without which there can be no grent conqueror. Before he gave battle, and after he gained a victory, he was all modesty ; after a defeat he was all resolution, rigid to others as to himself, counting for nothing the fatigues or the lives of his subjects any more than his own. He was, in short, a singular man rather than a great one-a character more to be admired than imitated.-Tytlen's Mist., Book 6, eh. 8 T, p. 482.
1971. ExCIse, Laws of. First English. The tirst imposition of a tax known as excise was by the Parliament after the civil war. Beer, ale, eider, and perry were so taxed in 1645. The Royalists raised money by a similar tax. These duties were continued at the Restoration, with additional imposts on the new luxuries of tea and coffce. In the reign of James II. there was a temporary excise upon wine. In the reign of William distilled liquors were thus taxed. The customs duties were greatly diminished by frauds of enormous magnitude. - Knight's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 4, p. 69.
1972. ExCISE, Unexecuted. Robert Burns. [When excise officer,] a woman who had been brewing, on seeing Burns eoming with another excise man, slipped out by the back door, leaving a servant and a little girl in the house. "Has there been ony brewing for the fair here the day?" "Oh no, sir, we hat nae license for that,", , swered the servant maid. "That's no true," exelaimed the child; " the muckle black kist ls fou' 0 ' the bottles o' yill that my mither sat up a' nicht brewing for the fair." . . . "We are in a hurry just now," said Burns, "but when we return from the failr, we'll examine the muckle black kist."-Sinamp's Bunns, ch. 5.
1973. EXCITEMENT, Delusive. William of Orange. [In Devoushire] the very senses of the multitude were fooled by the imagination. Newsletters conveyed to every part of the kingdom fabulous accounts of the size and strength of the invaders. It was affirmed that they were, with searcely an exception, above six feet high, and that they wielded such huge pikes, swords, and muskets, as had never before been seen in Eng-land.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 9, p. 402.
1974. EXCITEMENT of Disoovery. California Gold. In the evening of February 2, 1848, James Marshall suddenly rode into the forthis horse forming, and both horse and rider spattered all over with mud. The man was laboring under wild excitement. Meeting Captain Sutter, he asked to be conducted to 11 room where they could converse alone. The astonished Sutter complied with his desire, and they entered a secluded apartment. Marshall closed the door, and asked Captain Sutter if he was certain they were safe from intrusion, and begged him to lock the door. The honest Sutter began to think the man was mad, and was a little alarmed at the idea of being locked in with a maniac. He assured Marshall that they were safe from interruption. Satisfied, at length, upon this point, he took from his pocket a poueh, from which he poured upon the table half a thimbleful of yellow grains of metal, with the exclamation that he thought they were gold. " Where did you get it ?" asked Captain Sutter. Marshall replied that, early that morning, the water being shot off from the millrace, as usual, he noticed, in passing along, shining particles scattered about on the bottom. He picked up several, and, finding them to be metnl, the thought had burst upon his mind that they might be gold. Having gathered about an ounce of them, le had mounted his horse and ridden forty miles to impart the momentous secret to his employer, and bring the yellow substance to some seientific test. Captain Sutter was at first disposed to laugh at his exeited friend. Among his stores, however, he happened to have a bottle of aqua-fortis, and the action of this powerful aeid upon the yellow partieles at once proved them to be pure gold!-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 525.
1975. EXCITEMENT, Popular. Assassination of Cesall. Mark Antony took advantage of these fa'orable dispositions. The body being laid on a couch of state in the forum, he mounted thrconsul's tribunal, and after rending the decree of the Senate, which had conferred upon Casar even the honors due to adivinity, he entered into an enumeration of all his illustrious achievements for the glory and aggrandizement of the state; he then proceeded to recount the exampley of his clemency, and lieightened all his virtues with the mont pathetid eloquence. "By these titles we have sworn that his person should be held sacered and Inviolable ; and here," said he, " behold the force of our oaths." At these words he lifted up the robe which covered the body, and holding it out to the people, who melted lato tears, he showed it all covered with blood and pierced with the dargers of the conspirators. A genmal cry of vengennce was heard.-Tyther's Mint., Book 4, ch. 2, p. 416.
1976. EXCOMMUNICATION or Money. Priparl. [Henry III. had received at the hands of the pope the crown of Sidly for his son Edmund.] The pope had really advanced a harge sum, which Honry could not repay ; and a Roman agent came before Purliament, and followed up his demand for instant payment by a threat of excommunication and general literdict.-KNiont's Evi., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 367.
1977. EXCUSE abandoned. Ligarius. In Pompey's party [against Clesar] there was one Quintus Ligurius, whom Cusar had pardoned, though he had borne arms against him. This man, less grateful for the pardon he had received than offended with the powers which made him stand in need of it, hated Ceesur, but was the intimate friend of Brutus. The latter one day visited him, and finding him not well, said, " $O$ Ligarius! what a time is this to be sick!"'Upon which he raised himself on his elbow, and taking Brutus ly the hand, answered, "If Brutus has any design worthy of himself, Ligarins is well." - Plutarcios Marcus Brutus.
1978. EXCUSES, Ignominious. James $I I$. [He had been accused of aeting] undutifully and disrespectfully toward France [the national enemy of England]. He led [the French minister] Barillon into a private room, and there apologized for having dared to take so important a step [as to call a Parliament] without the previons snnction of Louis. "Assure your master," said James, "of my gratitude and attachment. I know that without his protection I can do nothing. I know what troubles my brother brought upon himself for not steadily adhering to France. I will take good care not to let the houses meddle with foreign affairs. If I see in them any disposition to make mischief, I will send them about their business. Explain this to my good brother. I hope that he will not take it amiss that I lave neted without consulting him."-Macadiay's Eng., ch. 4, p. 425.
1979. EXECUTION, Bratal. Duke of Monmouth. The hangman addressed himself to his oftice ; hut he had been disconcerted by what the duke had suid. The first blow inflicted only a slight wound. The duke struggled, rose from the block, and looked reproachfully at the executioner. The head samk down once more. The stroke was repeated again and again; but still the neek was not severed, and the body continued to move. Yells of rage and horror rose from the erowd. Ketch flung down the axe with a curse. "I camnot do it," he said; "my heart fails me." "Thke up the axe, man," cried the sheriff. "Fling him over the rails," roured the mob. At length the axe was taken up. Two more blows extinguished the last remains of life; but a knife was used to separate the head from the shoulders. The crowd was wrought up to such an ecstasy of rage that the executioner was in danger of belng torn in pleces, and was conveyed awny under a strong gund.-Macailay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 581.
1980. EXECUTION, Inhuman. Kirke. [Commander under James II.; execution of rebels under the Duke of Monmonth.] The sign-post of the White Mart Inn served for a gallows. It is said that the work of denth went on in sight of the windows where the ofllecrs of the Tangier regiment were curousing, and that at every health a wretch was turned olf. When the legs of the dying men quivered in the last agony, the colonel ordered the drums to strike up. He would give the rebels, he said, music to their dancing. -Macaulay's Eno., ch. 5, p. 587.
1981. EXERCISE, Important. Military. So senslhle were the IRomans of the imperfection of valor without skill and practice, that in their language the name of an army was borrowed from the word which signified exercise. Military exercises were the important and unremitted object of their discipline. The recruits and young soldiers were constantly trained, both in the morning and in the evening, nor was age or knowledge allowed to excuse the veteruns from the daily repetition of what they had completely learned. Large sheds were erected in the winter quarters of the troops, that their useful labors might not recelve any interruption from the most tempestuons weather; and it was carcfully observed that the arms destined to this imitation of war should be of double the weight which was required in real action.---Gibbon's Rome, ch. 1, p. 12.

198\%. EXERTION, Absorbed by. Napoleon $I$. [The night before the battle of Waterloo.] For eighteen hours the emperor had tasted neither sleep, repose, nor nourishment. His clothes were covered with mud and soaked with rain. But regardless of exposure and fatigue, he did not seek even to warm himself by the fires.Abвott's Napoleon B., vol. 2, eh. 27.
1983. EXHIBITION, Immense. Centennial. The entire area of the ground floor [of the Main Building] was 872,320 square feet; of the floors of the projections, 37,344 feet ; of the tower floors, 26,344 , making an aggregate area of 936,008 square feet, or 21 and 180 acres! The ground floor proper covered a space of a little more than 20 acres. [Length, 1880 feet ; breadth, 464 feet ; general height within, 70 feet; principal areades, 100 feet high.]-Ridpatin's U. S., ch. 88, p. $57 \%$.
1984. EXPECTATION, Delusive. Columbur. [On his second voyage.] One old man brought two pieces of virgin ore, weighing an ounce, and thought himself richly repaid when he received a hawk's bell. On remarking that the admiral was struck with the size of these specimens, he affected to trent them with contempt, as insignificant, intimating by signs that in his country, which hy within half a day's journey, they found pieces of gold as big as an orange. Other Indians brought grains of gold weighing ten and twelve drachms, and declared that in the country whence they got them there were masses of ore as large as the head of a child. As usual, however, these golden tracts were always in some remote valley, or along some rugged and sequestered stream; and the wealthiest spot was sure to he at the greatest distance-for the land of promise is ever beyond the monntain. - Iuvina's Col.umaus, Book 6, cli. 8.

19w5. EXPECTATIONs, Popular. (iail Wior. It was suid ut the beginaing of the wir that while eotton would " bring Enzope to its knees," the Southern privateers would cut up the commeree of the North, and soon lorlag the mercenury und money-making splsits of that section to repentance. Nelther result was reallzed.Polhardin Fimet Yeal of tie Waf, ch. 8, 1. $21 \%$.

1D86. EXPEDITION, Remarkable. Fernando re Woto. At hls own dictution he was . . . appointed [A.L. 1537] goveruor of Cuha and Florida, with the privilege of exploring and conquering the lntter conatry. . . . A great company of young Spaniards, nearly all of them wealthy und high born, flocked to his standard. Of these he selected 600 of the most gallinnt and daring. They were clad in costly suits of armor of the knightly pattern, with alry searfs and silken embroidery and all the trappings of chivalry. Elaborate preparations were made for the great conquest. . . . Arms and stores ; shackles for the slaves; tools; $\qquad$ bloodhounds were bought and truined fo" the hanting of fugitives; cards to kerib the young knights excited with gaming ; twelve priests ; unl, last of all, a alrove of swine to fatten on the maize and mast of the country. . . . After a year of impatience und clelay . . . the gay Castilian squulron, ten vessels in all, left the harlor of Sin Latas to conquer imaginary empires in the New World. [A constantly wasting number marched from Florida northward and westwarl, until overconte by melancholy and exhaustion. De Soto died, and was buried in the Mississippi River near Natelacz. Mexico was no longer sought. After grent sufferings the 311 heart-broken figilives reached the Gulf.] Thus ended the most marvellous expedition in the early history of our country.-RnDPATI's U. S., ch. 4, p. 66.
1987. EXPENSE, Divisions by. Thirteen States. After [the Revohitionary War] the tirst great daty of the new goveriment was to proviale for the payment of the war debt, which had now reached the sum of $\$ 38,000,000$. Congress rould only recommend to the several States the levying of a sufficient tax to meet the iadebtedness. Some of the States mule the required levy ; others were dilatory ; otlaers refused. St the very outset the govermment was balked and thwarted. The serions trombles that attended the disbanding of the urny were truceable rather to the inability than the intlisposition of Congress to pay the soldiers. The princely fortune of Rohert Morris was exhausted, and himself brought to poverty in a vain effort to sustain the credit of the government. For three years after the treaty of peace public affairs were in a condition bordering on chaos. $\qquad$ It was seen unless the Articles of Confederation could be replaced with a better system, the nation would go to ruin. [Hence came tho present national union of the States.] -Ridpatii's U. S., ch. 45 , p. 358.
1989. EXPERIENCE, Gaidance of. Bartholomew Dhas. [Exploring the west coast of Africa.] As the ships adranced toward the south, the astonishment of the navigators was unbounded

When they found the weather dally growing colder. Thls whs contrary 10 ull past experience. No Laropera lum ever before gone fur enough sonth of the equator to discover that the temperature lowers as you go south of the equator in the same proportion as when you go morth of it. This fuct was the flrst grent discovery of Dias and his followers. - Cycloprinta ob Bion., 1. 285.
1989. EXPERIENCE, Needless. W'ar of 1812. The waters of Lake Eric were commanded by a British squadron of six vessels, carrying sixiythree guns. It was seen that a successful invision of Canada conld only be made by first gaining control of the lake. This serious undertaking was inposed on Commodore Oliver II. Perry, of Rhode Island, a young man not twenty-cight years old, who had never been in a naval battle. IIs antagonist, Commorlore Barclay, was a veterun from the sea-service of Europe. With indefatlgable energy Perry directed the constructlon of nine ships carrying fifty-four guns. [ $\Lambda$ fter the battle] he sent to General Harrison this fitmous despatch: "We lave met the enemy, and they are ours-two ships, two brigs, one schooner, and one sloop."-lRidpatit's U. S., eh. 50, p. 401 .
1900. EXPERIENCE, Personal. John Howard. [The vessel in which be was sailhing for Lisbon was captured by a French privatcer, und all on board were made prisoners of war.] He now . . . was called to endure the anguish "which wretel es feel," and which he spent laborious years in assuaging. The privateer was forty hours in reaching the nenrest French port; and during that time the prisoners had not a drop of water nor an atom of food. Arriving at Brest, they were thrust into a filthy dungeon under ground, and there agnin they were kept miserable hours without nourishment. At length a joint of mutton was thrown down into their dungeon, like meat lnto a dog-kennel ; and this, for want of a knife, they were obliged to tear to pieces with their lauds. For six days and nights they were detained in this damp and stinking hole, ghawing bones, and sleeping upon wet straw. [This was the leginning of bis great life-work in umeliorating the sufferings of prisoners.]-CyClopedia of Broa., p. 34.
1991. EXPERIENCE, Test of. Samurl Johnson. The conversution then took a philosophical turn. Jounson : "JIuman experience, which is constuntly contridicting theory, is the greatest test of truth. A system, built upon the diseoveries of a great many minds, is always of more strength than what is produced by the mere workings of any one mind, which, of itself, can do little. There is not so poor a book in the world that would not be a prodigious effort were it wrought out entirely by a single mind, withont the inic of prior investigators. The French writers are superficial, because they are not scholars, and soproceed ujon the mere power of their own minds; and we see how very little power they have. "-Boswell's Joinson, p. 125.
1992. EXPERIMENT, Incomplete. Professm Benjamin Silliman. [The great American scientist. ] An instance of the lecturer's want of skill used to be related by Professor Silliman. After informing the class, one day, that life could not be sustaiued in hydrogen gas, a hen whsplaced under a bell glass flled with hydrogen. The hen gisped, kieked, and was still. "There, gentlemen," suld the lecturer, "you see she Is dead." He hand no sooner uttered these words than the hen overturned the bell ghss and thew seremming neross the room, flapping with her wings the heads of the students, who roared with hughter.- Cychobidia on Broa., p. 507.

190:3. EXPERIMENT, solentific. Incitc Neirtou. On the day of Cromwell's denth, when [Sir Isame] Newton was sixteen, agreat storm raged over all Enghand. He used to say in his old age, that onthat day he made his first purely scientille experiment. To nseertain the force of the wind, he first jumped with the wind and then ngainst it; and by compuring these distances wi't the extent of his own jump on a calm day, he was rinabled to compute the foree of the storm. When the wind blew thereafter, he used to saty it was so many feet strong. - Crchoremis of Bhog., p. 24S.
199.f. EXPERT by Practice. sir Giorge deffreys. During many years his chicf business was To examine and crossexamine the most hardened miseremats of a great cupital. Daily contlicts with prostitutes and thievescalled out and exerdised his powerss so effectually, that he berame the most consummate bully ever known in his profession. All tenderness for the feclings of others, all self-respect, all sense of the beeming, were obliterated from his mind. He negnired a houndless command of the rhetorie in which the volgar express hatred and contempt. The profusion of maledietions and vituperative epithets which composed his vocabulary could hardly have been rivalled in the fish-market or the bemrgarden. IIis comntenance and his voice must atways have been ummiable; but these natural advintages-for such be seems to have thought them-he had improved to such a degree that there were few who, in his paroxysms of rage, could see or hear him without emotion. Impudence and ferocity sut upon his brow. The glure of his eyes hal a fascination for the unhappy victim on whom they were fixed; yet his brow and eye were said to he less terrible than the savage lines of his month. Ilis yell of fury, ins was said by one who had often heard it, sounded like the thunder of the judgment-day. These qualitications he carried, while still a young man, from the bar to the bench.-Mncaviay's Exi., ch. 4, p. 418.
1995. EXPLANATION, Relief by. Loutis Philippe. [A disguised exile, with a great reward ollered for his arrest.] Once, and once only, he heard his ancestral name pronounced. Having spent a day in the country with the family at whose house he boarded (in Christima, Norway), just as they were about to summon their velicless to return to the town, a young man of the party eried out in Frencli: "The carringe of the Dnke of Orleans!" Penetrated with aharm, the prince had self-control conough not to betray any agitation; and secing that the young man did not look at him, he ventured to inquire in a careless tone why he had called the Duke of Orleans' carriage, and what relations he had with the duke. "None," replied the youth; "lut when I was at Paris, whenever we came from the opera, I heard repeated from all quarters,
'The carriage of the Inke of Orleans.' I have been more thun once stunned with the noise, and I just took it into my head to make the same exclamation." the prince, ns may be imarhed, was much relleved by this explanation.Cycloredia of Biog., p. 506.
1906. EXPOSURE of Purpose. Jirmes If. Charendon, Lord-Dientemant of Iroland, nud llalifix, Lord-Treasurer of Eughand, two noted l'rotestunts, were dismissed from ollce.] Tho dismission of the two brothers is a great epoch in the reign of dumes. From that time it was chear that what he really wanted was not liberty of conselence for the members of his own chureh, but liberty to perseceute the members of other charehes. Pretending to abhor tests, he had himself imposed a test. He thonght it monstrons that able and loynh men should be exphoded from the public service solely for being Roman Catholics. Yet he had turned ont of oflce a tronsurer whom her admitted had heen both loynd and alle, soldely for being a Protestant. The ery was, that a general proscription was at hand, and that every public functionary must mako up his mind to lose his sonl or lose his phace. Macathay's Ena., ch. 6, p. 148.
1997. EXPOSURE, Threat of. Reign of Jumes II. [Tvreomel was maxious to be lord-Lientenant of Ireland.] All opposition, hownew, yielded to Tyreonnel's energy mud enming. Ilo fawned, bullied, and bribed indefatigably. I'etress help was see ured by thatery. Sunderhamd was plicd at once with promises nad menaces.

Tyrconnel threatened to let the king know that [Sunderland] the lord president hud, at the Friday dimers, deserined his Majesty as a lool, who mast be governed either by a woman or by a priest. Sundrerhad, pale and trembling. offered to prorure for Tyrconnel suprome military command, enormous uppoint-ments-anything but the vice-royalty; but all compromise was rejected ; und it was necessary to yield. . . With a chain of perrls he... bonsted. . . he had purchased the support of the quecn. [He succeded.]- Macathay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 145.

199\%. EXPULSION of Scholars, Jumes IT. TThe fellows of Magdalen College refused to vote for James' nomince for president, as he favorad the overthrow of the Protestant faith.] Then the king, as he had threatened, laid on them the whole weight of his hand. They were by one sweeping edict condemned to expulsion. Yet this punishment was not decmed sufficient. It was known that many noblenien and gentlemen who possessed church patronage wonld be disposed to provide for men who had suffered so mush for the laws of England and for the Protestant religion. The High Commission therefore pronounced the ejected fellows incapable of ever holding any chureh preferment. Such of them as were not yet in holy orders were pronounced incapable of receiving the clerical character. James might enjoy the thought that he had reduced many of them from a situation in which they were surrounded hy comforts, and had before them the fairest professional prospects, to hopeless indigence. But ali these severities produced an effect direetly the opposite of that which he had anticipated. [Sce No. 2.]-Micatiay's Eng., ch. 8, p. 279.

19OD. EXTERMINATION, War of. Queen Aune's Wetr. The Indians vinished when thelr homes were linvided; they could not be redued by the usianl methods of warfare; hence a bominty was olfered for every Indinn sealp; to reguhe forees . . . the grant was $£ 10$; to volinlerers in actand sarvice twice that sum ; lut if men would of themselves. . . make up parties and putrol the lorests in siourch of ladinas, as . for wild hemsts, . . Eino per scolp.-bis. cuoprest. S. vol. is, ch. 2l.
2000. EXTORTION oomplete. $E \backsim \|!a n d$. Longrehmap (who land charge of the binglish Governmont in the nhsence of lichand l., the whole kinglom, that they did not lemve a mun his helt, it woman her neciklnere, nor n noblemmn his ring. - KNuarr's ENa., vol. 1, ch. 22, 11. 315.
2001. EXTORTION, Cruel, Jeirsil [In 1211] the memorahle expedjent of druwing a tootls daily from a Jew at Bristol, intil he pmid down 10.000 marks, is recorded in connerction with the expedition of [King ,John] into Irehand. KNituri's EN(6., vol. 1, eh. 23, 1. 3339.
2002. - Matasarlhurtts Colony. The summer of 1621 was unfruitful, and the pilfrims wore brought to the point of starvation. To make their condition still more grievons, it now eompany of emigrants, without provisions or stores, urrived, and were quartered on the colonists laring the fall and winter. For six months torether the settlers wore obliged to subsist on half-allownere. At one time only a few grains of parehed corn remanined to be distibuted, and nt mother there was nbsolute destitntion. In this state of affuirs Engrlish fishing vessels eame to Plymonthand charged the starving colonies two priees for food enongh to keep thein alive. - Ridpatio's U. S., ch. $13, \mathrm{p}, 125$.
2003. EXTORTION, Dllemma in. Henry VII. The ehief aim of the king was the necummbation of a trensure which should relieve him from the need of ever uppenling for its nid. Subsidies gronted for the support of wars which Henry evaded formed the lase of royal treasure, which Wiss swelled by the revival of dormant elaims of the Crown, by the exaction of fines for the breach of forgotten tenures, and by a host of petty extortions. Benevolences were ugain revived. A dilemma of IIenry's minister, which received the mmme of " Morton's fork," extorted gifts to the exehequer from men who lived handsomely on the ground that their wealth was manifest, and from those who lived plainly on the plea that economy had made them wealthy. Still greater sums were drawn from those who were compromised in the revolts which checkered the king's rule. -IIis't. of Ena. Peorle, § 446.
2004. EXTORTION of Government. Charles I. [In 1633 Charles I. employed a commission to harass every owner of a new house, by levying enormous fines or commanding the houses to be pulled down. There lind been proclanmtions by James and Charles age "ust the increase of buildings in Iondon, in order to preserve the heath of the city; fines were aceepted in lien of removal of buildings. A Mr. Moore was tined $\mathbf{8} 2000$ by the Star-Chamber for not having pulled his houses down by Easter.]-Kinilit's ENG., voi. 3, ch. 26, p. 416.
2005. EXTORTION misnamed. Ediourd $I V$. Edward IV. had been neronstomed to plunder his subjects mader the mane of "Benevolences," which practice the Duke of Buckingham detined to be "that every ninn shonk phy, not what ho of his own gool-wlll list, but what the king of his own gooil-will list to take." - Kinatir's Eivar., vol. 2 , ch. 12, p. 100, 2000. EXTORTION, Outrageons. Romutus i/ Briton. [The lkoman ollleinls, alter the compuest of briton, selzed upon the corn, nind made the poople luy it for their own eonsmaption. Kinum's ENa., vol. 1, ch. 3, p. 35.
2007. EXTORTION, Royal. Hichard II. In the fuce of his deelared nmmesty for all olfoneres, he extorted lines from thfecon connties, to whoso popmlation le imputed crimes commerted with the levying of urms in $1: 387$ [eleven yenrs previons ]. Under forced confession of treason dono at that priod, le compelled rich indlvidanls to give blank obligations, which his olllerers thlled up with large sums, having no limitation lat their despotie duprice.-KNicum's ENo., vol. ¿, ch. 2,1 . 32.
2008. EXTORTION, Submission to. Mfrels Crassins. [lle was charged with wasting] his money upon those who made a trade of imperachments to prevent their doing him nny harm ; it was a circumstnace which exposed him to ridienle, and unworthy, perlaps, of the chmrncters of Pericles and Aristides, lnt necess:ary for him, who had a timidity in hismoture. It was a thing which Lyeurgus the orntor afterward made a morit of to the peopla: when ecnsured for having longht off one of these trading informers, "I rejoice," suid he, "that after being so long employed in the ndminist rution, I mu discovered to have given money, und not tuken lt."-I'LUtarchis Nicias and Chassus Combared.

200D. EXTRAVAGANCE, Domestic, Richared II. Rielinrd's houschold eonsisted of ten thousund persons; he had three hundred in his kitehen ; .. ull his offices were furnished in like pro-portion.-KNigit's Ena., vol. 2, ch. 2, p. 23.
2010. EXTRAVAGANCE in Food. Coffec and Tea. In the reign of George I. it was held that "the linxury of the age will he the ruin of the mation ;" one of the proofs of this degeneracy was that "the wholesome lreakfinst of watergruel and milk pot tage is changed for coffee and ten."-Kniait's ENa., vol. 5, ch. 2, p. i24.
2011. EXTRAVAGANCE, Oppression by. Charles I. While the people were starving leneath the weight of oppression and foreed loans, so that for the first twelve years of the reign of Charles I. searcely any one dared to call his property his own, and a morning never rose upon an English fanily which was not dreadel as the possible herald of some new oppression, it is quite curious, and moves to a natural indignation, to notice the enormous sums expended by the king on diamonds, jewels, and chains of rold, either for himself or for personal presents. We read of $£ 10,400$ paid to e e William Rogers, n goldsmith ; we read of $£ 10.000$ paid to Philip; Jacobson, a jeweller, for a ring, etc. ; we rearl of ezo(0) paid to Henry Garway, Esq., for one lurge thick tuble diamond; we read of $£ 8000$ puid to Sir Manrill Abbott for a diamond set in a collar of gold; and, in fact, their lie before us a long catajogue of similar items，indicating the reckless extravagince of the king．－Hoon＇s Cぃ口м

2012．EXTRAVAGANCE of wounded Pride． Aged William Pitt．［13y uesepting the perage us Lord Chatham he lost his popularity with the people and his power with Parlimient．］$A$ morbid restlessness now led him to great and ex－ travagant expense．in whlel he vied whla those who ware mo more than his eigals in the peer－ age，but who were hesides the inheritors of vast estates．IIe would dirve out with ten outriders amil with two carriages，ench drawn by six horses， lifs vain marulleenco deceivet nos one but him－ self，and was but the poor rellef of humbled pride．－IBaNc：umi＇s U．S．，vol．6，ch．31．

2018，EXTRAVAGANCE rebuked．Weshingtou． A singleslind was ramght In the Delaware in Fels－ rumy．．．When the tlah was served，Washing－ fon suspected a departure from his orders tonch－ ing the provision to bo inade for hils fable，and sind to Framees，．．＂What fish is thin＂＂＂ $\boldsymbol{\text {＂}}$ ghad，a very thae shal，＂was the reply ；＂I knew your Excellency was particularly fome of this kind of fish，and was so fortunate as to procure this one in market－a soiitary one，and the flrst of the season．＂＂The price，sir；the price ！＂ continued Washington，in astern，commmming tone；＂the price，sir ？＂＂Three－three－three tollars，＂stammered the conseience－stricken stewinit．＂Take it awny，＂thmalered the chief－ ＂take it away，sir ；it slanll never be suad that my table sets such an eximple of luxury and extravigrance．＂－CUstis＇Wasianaton，vol． 1 ， ch． 21.

2014．EXTRAVAGANCE，Ruinons．Romans． ［Cinto the Censor reproved the Romans for their extravagant linbits．］One day when the Rommas clamored violently and unseasonably for a dis－ tribution of corn，to dissuade them from it he thus begran his aldress：＂It is a dimlenlt task，my fellow－citizens，to speak to the belly，because it hath no cars．＂Another time，complaining of the luxury of the Romans，he satid：＂It was a hard matter to save that city from ruin，where a fisl？ was sold for more than an ox．＂－Plutancin＇s （iato．

2015．EXTREMITY，Desperate．Siege of Rome． ［See No．2079．］A crowd of spectres，pule ami cmacinted，their bodies oppressed with disense and their minds with despair，surrounded the palace of the governor，urged，with unavail－ ing truth，that it was the cluty of a master to muintain his slaves，and humbly requested that he would provide for their subsistence，per－ anit their flight，or command their immediate execution．Bessas replied，with unfeeling tran－ quillity，that it was impossible to feed，unsnfe to dismiss，and unlawful to kill，the subjects of the emperor．Yet the example of a private citizen might have shown his countrymen that a tyrunt cammot withhold the privilege of death．Pierced by the cries of five children，who vainly called on their father for bread，he ordered them to follow his steps，advanced with calm and silent despair to one of the bridges of the Tiber，and， covering his face，threw himself headlong into the stream，in the presence of his family and the Roman people．－Gibbon＇s Rome，ch．43，p． 255.

2016．EXTREMITY，Miserable，Britons．Pul－ cheria，the sister of Theodosius，who had in real－

Ity governed the empire during the whole reign of her wenk ani insigniticant brother，now bolif． Iy placed luerself on the throne，and tat the sama time married Mareinnus，in aoldier of fortune，and their joint－titie was acknowledged by the Eastirn Emplire．The West was in the lowest atate of imbecility．Rome，unable to defend her prow． inees，allowad them to drop afl without an at． tompt to retain them．It was at this thme that the Britons，hy a very melancholy deputation， limplored the lamans fo proteret them against the liets and Srots．＂We arre＂sajal they，＂in the： ntmost misery，nor have we miny refuge delt us ； tho burburinas alrive us to the seta，the sen ilrives us imek＂pon the barharians．＂In return to this miserable supplication，the Jomans gave them fo moderstind that their own situation was such that they conlal now afford them nothing hat compassion．－Ty＇tinhis IInt．，Jook 5，chi． 5.

2017．EYE，DIgfigured．S九muil Julnson． Yomar Johmson had the misfortume to be murla allicted with the serofula，or klag＇s ovil，which distlgured a eoumtenance maturally well formod， and hart his visual nerves so muidh，that he dial not see at all with one of his ryes．though its aplearance was little different from that of tho other．There is among his prayers one inseribed ＂When my Eve vas restorvel to its use．＂－13os－ Welli＇s Joinson，p． 6.

2018．EYES，Useless．Siamose Junks．Great elumsy junks were lying here and there at anchor，with two grent cyes in their prows，to let them see their way on the mern－the matives believing that they are as necessiry to a ship as to a man．［Scen at Bangkok．］－Genvilal． Ghantis Thavelis，p．36：．

2015．FACTIONS，Dangerous．Coustantinmple． The city．．．had been harassed during the two last reigns with violent popalar factions，which had arisen from the intemperate fondness of the people for the diversions of the circus－a strik－ ing indiention of the most irretrievable degener－ aey of nutional charncter．The factions took the names of the green，the blue，and the real， from the dresses worn by the chariotcers of the different parties．Justinian espoused with zenl the fuction of the blne，while his queen Theor－ dora，with equal intemperance，took part with the green．lier party proceeded so far as publicly to insult the emperor；and upon the punish－ ment of some of their ringleaders took up arms to avenge their cause，and proclained Hypatius， a man allied to the blood－royal，for their non－ arch．Justinian appeared and offered intem－ nity，on condition of their returning to lheir duty，but they compelled him to retreat for safuty to his phace．－Tytlen＇s Mist．，Book 5 ，ch．$\overline{\text { F }}$ ， 1． 23.

2020．FACTS assumed，Avistotle．II：mis－ states many things which he conld have veritienl with the utmost ease．He says，for example， that a man has more tecth than a woman，and that the ox and the horse have each a bone in its heart．Mice，he informs us，die if they drink in summer ；and all animals bitten by mail dogs go mad，except man．Ile also says that loorses feeding in meadows suffer from no disease ex－ cept gout，which destroys their hoofs，and that one sign of this disense is the appearance of a deep wrinkle beneath the nose．－Cyclopedia of Biog．，p． 562.

2021．FAILURE，Beginning with．Jemos－ thenen．In his flent udilress to the people ．．．wins lunghod it mud laterrupted by their elmuors ：for the vooleneo of his manner threw him into a confuston of pertores，and in distortion of his nggumont．Beside，he had n weakness and it stammering in his volce，mad ut wnit of lirath， which catised simelt a distruction in his diseonime llut It was dithentt for tho madience to under shand hime．At list，upon his quiltlog the us－ nembly，finnomus，the Thrmelnm，it thminow ex Iremely old，fommd hinn windering in adejoceted condition in the lirsens，mad took upon him to set hinn right．＂Y＇ou，＂suld he，＂have an num－ ner of speaking very like that of lerricles ；and pot you loso yourself out of mere timblity and iownudice．广ou nelther benr up nerniost the tomults of a popular assombly，new prepare your hody by excredse for the latior on the rostrim， but suifer your parts fo wither away la nogh－
 TIIENES．

2022．2．FAILURE，Cause of，l＇iist（＇ilhtr．＇Tho cuble was fonnd，pieked up，nud joined to tha rest ；mal this wonder of the world whe neeome plished．The rable was taken out of the overan where it was two nud n lanlf miles deep）．＂In taking＂ul）the tirst calle，＂Dr．Cooper contimmed， ＂the ratise of the thrst failare was diseovered． In pmssing it into the vat mamafnctured for it where it was intended to lio under water，the workmen neryerefed to keep it hmmersed，nod on one oremsion when the sun shone very hot down into the sut，its rays melted the quthe－porshan，so that the copper wire faside sunk down agninst （＇oollen，〕．： 7 ．

2023．FAILURE，Dlscouragement by．Jishop MKendrer．Hle became celebmited as a pulpit orator，jet he hardly escoped total disconntiture In his flrst tring．At one of his appointments， ufter singing und prayer，he took his text，und attenntenl to look at his nudience；but such was his embarrassment，that he could not lift his eyes from the libletill he finished his sermon．After the sermon his host left the honse，supposing the prencher would follow him ；but not secing liim he returned to the chureh，and there found him seated on the lowest step of the pulpit stnirs，his fine covered with his bunds，looking forlorm ind dejecterl，as if he had not a friend on enrth． He invited him to go home with him．M＇Ken－ dree salel，in a mournful tone，＂I inn not fit to go home with anybody．＂－STEvexs＇M．L． （＇HuBch，vol．3，1）．（2．）．

202 1．FAILURE at First．Tatte of Molritz． l＇rederick＇s first battle was fought nt Molwit\％， and never did the carecr of $n$ grout commander open in a more inanspicions manner．

The Gavalry which he eommanded in person was put to flight．Unaccustomed to the tumult und car－ nage of a field of lattle，lie lost his self－posses－ mion，and listened too rendily to those who urged him to save himself．His English gray cnrried him many miles from the field，while Schwerin， though wounded in two places，manfully upheld the day．The skill of the wid field－marshal and the steadiness of the Prussian battalions previil－ ed ；and the Austrian army was driven from the field with the loss of 8000 men．The news was carried late at night to a mill in whieh the king lind takein whelter．it gave him a bltter pang． Ho was successfal ；but he owed his suceess to dispositions which others lind mude，und to the valor of men who had fought whlle ho win fly－ ligy．So inpromising was the flrst upporarinco of the rreatest wartior of that nge 1－Macat－

2013．FAILURE by Inoompetence．Jumanion of C＇anculte．Vast propmontions were now mule for the Invision of C＇umula［by the Iritinh］．．．． But fer the utter ineompretence of［Sir Ilovenden Whaker］the minirnd，suecess would hinve been ussured．J＇orsix wacks in midsmmmer the great Hecet lay dilly in lboston harbor．Sir I Lovenden was getthar ready to sall．．．．The Imdians cine－ ried tho news to C＇mmeda，and evory day maled streagelh to tho ramparts．At last．on tho stoth of July，when no further excuse could ho invonted． the shijes set mall for tho St，lawrence．．．．（）n the ${ }^{2 n} d$ of August wero anveloped $\ln n$ log． The wind blew tard．．．．The commander wis cansloned to remasin on deck，hat ho puibely went to hed．．．．Dight of his best vessels acru dushed on the rocks ．．．84．nuen went down．．． A council of war was held，mud all voted that it wins fimpossible to proderd．In a letter to tha English Govermmont，Walker exprosised grent Lratitude that hy the loss of 1 （Hoo men the rest had been saved from froezing to death at Qucbec． －Kinl．atis U．S．，（h．17，p．15．

2028．FAILURE，Lesuon of，Minurius．Mi－ nucias，the Roman genernl，was envions of the suceress of Fulbins Maximus，who had bed tho chicef rommand of the Roman army operating ngrainst lammihal．Lle obtained command of $n$ part of tho army，and was overwhelmingly de－ feated by the Cartlmginians in minnwisenttack．］ Minucins，having cailed his men togethor，ho thus expressed himself：＂Friends nnd fellow－ soldiers ！not to err at atl in the manngement of grent alfairs is above the wisdom of men ；lat it is the patt of a pradent and a good man to learn， from his errors and misearringes，to correct hins－ self for the future．．．．I confess．．．what I comad not be bronght to be sensible of in so long atime， I have learned in the smmll compass of one duy that I know not how to commmad，but hove need to be under the direction of mother ；and from this moment I bid udien to the nmbition of get－ ting the better of a mmn whom it is an honor to be foiled by．In all other respects the dictator slmall he your commmader；but in the due expressions of gratitude to him，I will be your leader still， by being the first to show an example of obedi－ ence and submission．＂－Pherallou＇s Fabics Manimes．
2027．FAILURE in Lifo．Jiobort Burns．If success were that which most secures men＇s sym－ puthy，Burns would have won but littie regnrd； for in all but his poetry his was a defented life－ sad and henrt－depressing to contempinte beyond the lives even of most poets．Perliaps it may bo the very fuet that in him so much failure and shipwreck were combined with such splendid gifts，that has attracted to him so deep and com－ passionate interest．－Sirairp＇s Buirns，ch． 1.

2028．FAILURE，Bignal．Spanish Armada． This vist project was dissipated like a summer＇s cloud．The English met the Invincible Armada with 100 ships of smaller size and 80 fire－ships． The thre－ships attacked them in the night，which threw them futo the ntmont enofusion ; inn angugenent crisited, 's whelithe binglish wore Pavored by a storim, which drove thespminaris upon the rocka minl mund-bunks, mod only in armument returned tonguin. Whan lintelligence: of this great maliomal minfortune urelved at Madrid, the Ixdavior of I'hilip $|11$.$| upens that on-$ thought myself' e muitch fior the pereres of live!laturl. but 7 did mot prekent to fight aldaione the chementa." -'I'vitidien Hint., Hook 15 , eh. zit. p, Bio.

2029. FAILURES misunderatood. (iforge Whitefield. [The burning of Whitetlelid's (orphom Honse, near Anvinmali, oerosloned the falbire of the ostensibio deslgn of its formdior, but | it hat de:complished ingreater result, which was destined never to fail : it had been the centre of Ameri. con uttruction to its fombler, fud prompled his thirteen phasages neross the Athntie, nud hud thas led to those extroordinary evangelian hinors nud travels, from Georgin to Maine, which gnick ened the spiritual llie of the continent.- Sote VENN' M. 4. Cliutceit, vol. 3, p. 50.
3083. FALLURES in Profeasions. Glier Goldsmith's. [He met lemon Gohlsmilli.] 'This amgust dignitary was plansed to discover signs of talent in Oliver, and suggesented that ns he land attemptad divinity and luw wiliout suceress, be mbonld now try physic. 'I'le ndvice come from too important as sumere to bo disregarded, and it was determined to send him to Edlinhmreris to commence his studies. 'The demm having given the melviee, adeded to it, we frust, his blewsing, Int no money ; that was furnished from the werntior purses of Goldsmith's brother, his sister (Mrs. IIodsunt, mul his ever-rendy uncle, Contarine.

 ch. 3, 1. 3i.
2031. FAILURES surmonnted. Atloutic Citble. After u fow works of surcessalul operistion, the flrst Anantle cable, huld by Mr. Findilin 1858, had coused to work. The friands of the enterprise were grestly disheartened. Not so with Mr. Fhelil. . . . Ilemade tifty voynges across the Atlantic, and fandly secured sulle iont cupital to begin the lnying of the second cable . in 1805. When the steamer Great Eastern lind proceated more than twolve humdred miles [from Irehund], . . . The cable purted and wis lost. Six millions of money lud been wpent in unsucecssful uttempts, lut still he persevered. In July of 1866 a third cuble, two thonsand miles in length, was coiled in the Great. Eastern, and agnin the vessel started on her way. This time the work was completely surecessful. After twelve yenrs of unremitting effort Mr. Fiolil received agold medal from the Congress of his country and the plaudits of all civilized untions.-Ridpatios U. B. , ch. 67, p. 545.
2032. FAITH conditioner. John Bunyan. Jis wife had been overtaken by a premature confinement, and was sulfering ucutely. It was at the time when Bunyun was exercised with questhons about the trith of religion altogether. As the poor woman lay crying at his side, he hat suid, mentally, " Lord, if Thou wilt now re-anove this sad alliletion from my wife, and canso then 1 shatl kown that. 'Thon canst dixerarn the more sererel thoughts of the lemit." In to moHent tha phla ransal, nud whe lioll hoto aterp marpinad at tho lime, forgot what hand happened land commiltal himand ly a slmilar murntal an rondel and dial dise ern hls thomerlats. (boal hum diseromed this serooml thomght niso, und bu jumislimg hla for lt bud punished him ut the names lime for the donbt whisls he lmel nllowed hism-

20:3:3. FAITH, Defenders of tho. /lewr/l lllf. One ol' the thral ehampions of llie sere of lonme Who took inp his pen ngahast Inther was leary Vlli., King of Faglasd-the proson who wa shand see leemone t few yours ulterwarl the most inveterato conemy of the pope's jurisalietion.
 the sehooln, aud was lond of phasing lor a man of learning, mal un ndept hathe vain philowojhy of the times. He asked leave of leo to remdamid to exmane the works of lather, which at that time were prohibitad matir puln of exoommanientlon ; ambla it short time le composed a trentise in defence of the seven sucrmoments, ngalust. the rtticks of luther, which was receivill by lope Lao(who vory probmbly never reml it) with the highesi upprobation. I Ienry mal his nuceres. sors (lu return lor this service elone to the chareh) had Hor title griven them ol Defourlers of the 2033. FAITH despised. sicience. A just anul severe censmre has bern intlicted on the law of [the limperor Jalinn] which probibited the Choristhans from tenching the arts of grmmonar and rhetoric. 'The motives allege by the emperor to justify this partinl mul oppressive memasure might command, during his litetime, the silence: of slaves and bise applanse of thatorers. Julian abmeses the mmbigmons memning ol a word which might le indilferently mplied to the langunge and the religion of the Grecks; he contemptnonsly olmarres, that the mon who exalt the merit of implicit faitlare untlt to cham or to enjoy the advantages of seience; and he vainly contends, that if they refuse to mblore the gods of llomer and Demosthenes, they ought to content themselves with expounding lanke and Matthew in the ehmrches of the Gabloans.-Gibbon's ROME, ch. 2:3, p. 442.

2035. FAITH, Fed by. Goorge Muller. Children's clothing, wenring ajpirel, new and seo-ond-hand, material for dresses, ladies' bars, pincushions, ne lle-onses, toilet-covers, antimucassars, pen-wipers, sofn-cushions, etc., etc., were rereived and disposed of for the lenetit of the institution. Sometimes it would lappen that at nine o'elock in the morning there were no provisions in the honses, neither was there money in hand to purchase the food needed for the dinner; then, in answer to the earnest cries of those who were engaged in the work, money was recelved in time to procure supplies und get the meal ready by the dinner hour at one oclock :
but often afterwaril thare wam mothang left for moper．Another united prayer monting was， thereforn，bind，la order that thry mhat heseredi the Lard morelfully to mperor on their locinalf：

20830．FAITH Invlgorated．Difthullion．＇Thi＇ rontomporurhis of Moses athal Joshan hand lufinlal with cardess fimbliferoner the most matalag mig－ nelos．Uudar the pressure of every emhmity， the bellef of those mirmetos lan gromerved the Jows of a later period fronn the anivermal onata． gion of lisulatry；and in contrmilithon to cerey kaown principle of tho latana mind，that slagus． far poojsle secom to jutvo ylelded a strongrar and usore remby assent to the trallitoms of thedr res． mote ancestors than to the evdiderer of their own

2037．FAITH，Llving by，（ifori／f ，INller，It to live without may repular facome．（ionl never alowad him nor fis fimily to want，mat，wils the Apostlo I＇and，lue was gronernlly mble to suy，
 howevor，it is rigitit to state，that thanes wiflount mumber his finth was sotrly tried－berenose when （iod glves faith lle always tries it ：lat when－ ＂war thare was mos momey left，fantend of lwing diseomruged，he mad lais teloved wife womil kured down and usk（bod grarionosly to semil them help：whish，soonor or later，was invarha－ lly gramted．Somothmes it hapjrined，too，that mite omly was thore no money left，but that nlf the brovinions likewine in the lamese wrow goma －a rying state of thangs indead；the farid never sutfered them，howevar，fore eonlomaided． ——IFE of Gbollat：Mble：l，p．シ4．

2086．FAITH，Power of．I＇uritatus．＇There is nothing more remarkabie，in the course of this rivil war，than the fact that men who had just come fron the market and plongh should meet the Cavaifers on their own ground，and de－ feat them．The Roynilsts prided themselves on their military eharacter；war was their trade nad thatir bosast ；swordsmen，they professom to be skilled In all the discipline and practice $\cdot$, the tiedd．It was their ancestral character；it was the crest and crown of their feadalisin，and，de－ featad in war，they had nothing further to bonst of．How was it？The history we have given in some degree explains it ；lat the principal rea－ son，after all，is fommd in the higher faith．Jook at the wateliworids of the two nirmites as they rushed on to eonlliet：＂Truth and IPace ！＂ ＂Gral is with us！＂＂The Lord of Itosts ！＂such mottoes contrust favombly with＂The King and Quern Mary l＂＂IIey！for Cavnliers！＂or even that of＂The Covennint！＂These men charged in Inttle as if bencath the eye of（iod ；to them it was no play．but business：they knew that they rushed on，many of them，to their death， but they heeded not，for their spirit＇s eye camghit visions of wailing elariots of fire，and horses of tire，hovering round the field：und they ad－ vanced to the contlict，mingling with the ronr of musketry and the clash of steel the sound of pasalms and spiritual songs．－I Ood＇s C＇mombei， ch．6，p． 103.

2039．FAITH，Victory by．Sir ITenry Jitne． ［After the restoration of Clarles II．，Sir Ilenry Fane，who supported the Commonwealth，was promosinced guilty of treman，and conflned in tho Power Ilis cmermios urged hly execition．Ila writex his wifo from primon：｜＂I＇they that preses so cornemity（os curry on my trlal dolltia know What presemere of（lod may le atforiled me la lt， in my lualy，by ilfo or by denth．Nor cun thay， I man nite，Imagine how maril I desiro tis la din． molved atal bo with（＇iarist，which of all thluge
 linusiand，vol．4，ils．11，1）．Lbtu）．

20．10．FAITHFULNEAs rewarded．Hy the I＇rople，［ln lisi7 Willian Jrymmo wian bromghit uj）from hife prison with his mirs mewal on，to lo， jinnalad by the Ntar－Chamber for pulilishitig it book ngrinat Sublanth－loreaking，Alao rama and lis a iract．Aud IRolnert Bustwhek，who lind were timed ésono，to bedegradad tran their pros． fiesmons，to le phaced In the pillory，tos lavo their brumbed，und to bo contined for lifo In distant prisons．Therere years hator their princtules have luorne frait．＇Their pethions remela the Honse． These prisonuers ware orilered to lee bromght to Lamion．ISurton and Pryme made a triampl． ui cutry．Baillog naty，＂Never liere such a like show ：about a thousand horser，and，as somes of gond note say，nowe four thomand；alove a fundred comches had，as many saty，aloove two humalred．＂bastwick returned with triampets sounding，and torelues burning，and a tizousamd horse for hals convoy．］－KNioh is Ena．，vol．3， ch．28，1． 444.

20．11．FALEEH00D，Confirmed in．Charles I． Cromwell，we belleve，nil along tised the eiremi－ stances as they transpired as bext ho comld． What womid we have had him do？When the king was conguered，would we have had hion piace the conguered tyrant onee more upon the thioms． without any promise or constitution ：We lave secen that there was no relinnce on his faith ； yet there are those who have ever a good word for him．But ho could not be true，he rould not be sincere．＂I wonder you don＇t leave off this abominable custom of lying，George，＂said Lord Muskerry to the eelebrated George Rooke， when they were sulling together．＂I can＇t help it，＂salit George．＂Pooh I pools l＂suid his lordship；＂it may be done by degrees．Suppose you were to lrigin by nittering one truth aday！＂ If Charles lind only told the truth＂by degrees，＂ lind he been sincere only now and then，lis mighat have been saved！He slgned the death． warrant of his best friend and strongest servant， Lord Strafford，after lee lad most faithfully pledged that he would rather lose his erown than perform such an act of unfenlty，and＂on the word of a king＂bernme a proverb and byword from that circumstance through all ages．Then came the revelations of the letters seized on the field of Naselby．Then，when the king was in the power of the Parliament，Cromwell desired io suve him，and Cromwell was willing to do so． The king land appealed to him，in his despair， from the Isle of Wight；and the letters，in the saddle－lags of the ling＇s private messenger，to the gueen in France，seized at the Blae Boar，in IIolborn，revended the king as saying of Crom－ well，whose hand was gracionsly at his own [urfil maving him, " Jle lhinks that I muy eonfer upen hlm tho Niarter mud thes Star, but 1 shall know in good linue how to tit his norek to it hat.

20.12. FALBEHOOD, Governmental. /hnajurto. It is ditileult to determinte whether his prowlas. mintions to the jexinle of bigy pt or tifs despatioh.
 mumber of lises and exaggerations in reforane for
 ch. 蚛, p, ikl.
2018. FALSEHOOD, Orowth of, Nimuel Juhn. woul. Whille Wir werre at hremkfint, dohinsong give solf proctiseal whin the utmost monselentionsness : 1 mestn a merict nttention to truth, even in tho most minnte partendurs. " Aerouston your chilidren," malilho. "" constantly to this ; If a liling happrened at one window, anil they, whon relating it, say that it finppened at amother, flo not let it pass, but instantly charek theni: yon lon mot know wheredoviation from trith willemd," .
" It is more from coredessmess ubout trith than from intentomal lying that tione is no muid
 p. 3th.
20.4. FALSEHOOD justified. $\quad 3 y$ Ifxitits. [When iloury Gurnet, a desuit, Was trieni its a conspifator in the (inupowider Piot, he explemsed his gencoul prinelples in a paper written before his irinl. Ile had beren male grivy to the despan throngli the confessional.] "Cencerning e"pufv. ocation, this is my opinion : in moralafinirs, and in the common intercourse of lifi, when the truth is asked among friends, it is not lawful to use efuivocation. Jhit in cuses whore it becomes wecessury to an individval for his dofence, or for avolding any injustice or loss, or for obtaining any important aivantage, without danger or mischief toany other person, there equivoention Is lawful." In an eximimation nfter the trial he goes furthor, and holds thit an onth might be hiwfully used to contirm a simple cinivocation. "In cases of lawfinl equivocation, the specech by equivoention belng suved from it lie, the sume speech, without perjury, may be confirmed by onth, or by any other usual wity, though it were by retolving the sutrament, if just neressity so repuire."-Kniant's ENo., vol. 3, ch. 21, p. 337 .
2045. $\qquad$ Siemuel Johnson. Ialked of the ensuistiand question, Whether it was allownble at any time to depart from Tiruth? Jonnanin : "The general rule is, that Truth shonlit never le viohnted, because it is of the ntmost importune to the comfort of life, that we should have is full security by mutnal faith; mad ocerasiomal ineonveniences should be willingly suffered, that we may preserve it. There must, however, be some exceptions. If, for instamee, a morderer shomblask you which way a man is gone, you may tell him what is not true, beconse you are mader a previons obligation mot to betray a man to a murderer." IBonweita: "Supposing the person who wrote 'Junins 'were nisked whether he was themuthor, might hedeny it ?" Joinnson : "I don't know what to styy to this. If you werr sare that he wrote 'Junins,' would you, if he denied it, think as well of him afterward? Yet it may be urged, that what is man has a right $\omega$ osk yon may refuse to com-mombente: has thore is no of hor offectual monfor of prowerving oserrot intil milligerthat merret, the diseovary of whifelt muy be vary fiurtfit to Yon, hut a flat doninl: for if you aro sitent, or Presitate, or eve in, it will twe hold mphivilent to a confession. Isut stay, wir ; hore is unother cise.

 ho buil, I mhomlif hold mysif at liberty lo dony it. us Is'ing nular a provions promise, sexpress ur tmpliail, to comemilit. Now whint 1 omght. to du for tho unthor, miny I not do for mysulf ? But I deny thr haw fulmess of tolling a lie to a siok mun, for fine of alarming him. Jou linvo no business with conserguences; youn are to till the trith. Ifeshles, you are not surn what ditfiect gour tolling hin that hor is fin changer may finve. It may liring his distemper to a crisis. und that may eure hinis. (of uli fyhng, I huve the greatest abhorrenoe of this, bermase I Indinve Jlonwbi,h's Johinnon, b. fidl.
20.16. FAME belated, John Quinry Adima. Ills enrier wis fin miny respects remorkathes. Hes land becon miniater to flve different Enroperan eonrts, Semator of tho Cinited States, muphinted to the Sujpreme beuch, had beon eight years Sec: rethry of Shatr, und four years l'resident. . . . Ihat it may fairly be dombted whether if his presfilency hal relosed his jublie iffe, hls fime would luve attrueted sirecinl observatlon. . Jint in his sixty-llfih yiar, when the publie life of the most frivorid ifrisis to a close, the noble nud shinlug cureer of Mr. Adams hegran. Ite enteral the Ilonse of Representalives fil 18:11, nind for the remaindar of his life-a perion of seventeen yemes-he win the one grand ingre in that assembily. . . . Ilis warfare. . . in finvor of the timmblest to petition for redress of grievinces aro among the memoruble events in the parlament. ary history of the United Stutes. It wis lan largo degree the morul courage of his position that flrat thxed the attention of the country, ind then uttructed its mimirution. - Blaine's 'TWenty IEAmaf Condilens, p. 69.
20.17. FAME by Competition. Sir Hilliats I'trry. In orider to be very museh distingu'shat In this hasy world, it is nocessury to do something that noborly cise ever did. Kdmiral Parry eonlid boast that he land been nearer the North Pole thinn my other human beling. It is coultful if 11 polar bear over went nearer, or even is send. Four handred and ninety-tive miles morn would hive bronght hin to the pole jtself, and he wonlid have lived forever in history as tho tirst man who ever performed that fent.-Cyeto. pedia of Btoci. lי. 38i.
20.18. FAME, Costly. Sir Wilter Seott. In those dings of high postage Seott's bill for lettors conch purcels, they were a perfect ruinution." On onf onemsion a mighty pueknge cume by post from the Inited States, for which Scott fuml to puy Et sterling. It eontnined ans. phay culled "The cherokie Lovers," by a young latiy of New York, who legged Scott tu rime ind eorrect it, write a prolognennd epilogne, get it put on tha stiuge at I)rury Lame, and negolinte with Constahe or Murriny for the copyright. In nbout in fortnight another packet not less formidable nrrived, clanged with a similnr postuge, whiche

Seott, not grown cautions harongh experience, recklossly openerl ; out jumperda duplicate eropy of "The Cherokec Lovers," with a second letter from the abthoress, stating that as the weather had been stormy, and she fenred that somethi ary might have happened to her lormer ms., she has thonght it prodent to send him a duphiate.Hutron's Scotr, ch. 1\%.
20.19. FAME by Discovery. Lionth-retat I'cessitye. Martin Frobisher, un Englishoma, well versed in varions muvigation, had revolven' hae design of accomplishing the diseovery of the North-western phssuge, esteming it" the only thing of the world that was yet left undone, by whidh at notable mind might be made famons and fortu-mate."-Bancuofy's IIst. of" L'. S., vol 1, ch. 3.
2050. FAME, Distant. Linroln. Since Garibaldi overthrew the Boarbon King of Nuples, and the unification of Italy, si: ily me felt the spicit of the age, and various modern improvements have been made, and among them the laying out of several new ivemues, one of which hears the name of lincoln.-Tbayels of Gevierala Grints, p. 106.
2051. FAME, Impostor's. Reign of C'hates II. The tule of Oates . . sullicient to convulse the whole realm, would not, until confirmed by other eviderice, suthce to destroy the humblest of those whom he hat necused ; for, by the old law of England, two witnesses are necessary to establish it charge of trenson. But the success of the first impostor produced its natural consequences. In a few weeks he rad heen raised from penury and obseurity to opulence, to power which made him the dread of princes and nobles, and to notoriety such as has for low and bad minds all the nttractions of glory. He was not long without concljutors and rivals.-Macaliais's Evi., ch. 2, p. 222.
2032. FAME by Infamy. Axwexsinction. A your ${ }^{\text {r }}$ Saxon, twerty years of age, named Von der sulhn, was arrested in Paris. He confessed that it was his intention tonssassimate the erperor, and thus to immortalize his own mame ly connecing it with that of Napoleon. [He was confined, but not executed.]- Abmort's NimoLeon B., vol. 2 , cn. 11.
20.53. FAME, Locality for. Nippoleon $I$ " Europe," said he, "presents no ficlds for glorions exploits; no great empires or revolutions are to be lound but in the East. $\underset{\sim}{3}$. [He conglucred
My rlory the Italians ind the Austrians.] .f. My crlory is deelining. This little corner of Europe is too small to supply it. We must go to the East. All the great men of the world latve there acguired their celebrity."-Amotres Namoneon B., vol. ${ }^{1}$, ch. 10 .
205.f. FAME, Perverted. Columbus. Of all the wrongs done to the memory of Colambus, perhaps the greatest was that which robbed him of the name of the new continent. This was bestowed upon one of the ieast worthy of the many adventurers whom the genius and success of Columbus had drawn to the west. . . . [Amerigol Vespucci's only merit consised in his recornition of the fact that the recent discoveries were not a portion of that India already known, but in reality another continent.-Ridpatu's $\mathbf{C}^{\prime}$. S., ch. 3, p. 59.
2055. FAME, Posthumons. Columbus. Columlus. . . in his lifretime met with mondequate recompense. Theself-love of the Spanish monarch was offended at reeriving from a foreigner in his (mploy benefits too vast for requital; and the contemporaris of the great mavigator perserented the merit which they could not adepuately re-ward.-Buncuofr's 'llast. or ['. S., di. I.
2056. Fame regarded. Ciero. In Jeeentber it was known that an agrarian law would be at once proposed mater phea of providing for Pompey's troops; and Cicero had had to decide whether he would act in earnest in the spirit which he had begun to show when the tribunes hill was under "liscoussion, or would fall back upon resistance with the rest of his purty, or evade the dilliexult dilemma loy groing on forcign service, or else would simply absent himself from Rome while the struggle was going on. "I may either resist," he said, "and there will ine an honorable tirht; or I may do nothing, und withdraw into the country, which will be honorable also; or I may give active help, which I am told Chesar expectis of me. . . . What will history say of me six hundrad years hence? I ammore afraid of that than of the ehatter of my contemporaries."-F'roude's Cesar, el. 12.
2057. FAME, Sudden. Tord Byron. The fame, however, of Lord Byron dates from his twentyfourth year, when the publication of the tirst eantos of "Childe IIarold" revented to England the full splendor of his talents. . . " 1 awoke one morning," said he, "and found myself fitmons.". . . Such was his popularity at one time, that ten thousand copies of one of his poems were sold on the day of its publication at a price equal to nearly $$ 10$ tach. But his errors as a man soon lost him the esteem of his countrymen ; le was almost as extravagant as lis father, and guite as dissolute, and, like his father, he squandered the fortune of his wife aiter he had ceased to be a husband to her.-Cyclopedia of Bog., p. 294.

205*. $\qquad$ "Brrner's Street Hoax." [Theodore llook bet $n$ guinea that in one week he could make a neat and modest house the most famous in all London.] The bet was taken. and in four or five days Ilook had written and posted one thunsuad letters, annexing orders to tradesmen of every sort . . . all to be executed on one particular day, and is nearly as possible at a fixed hour. From "wagons of coals and polatoes, to books, prints, feathers, ices, jellies, and cranberry tarts," nothing whatever available to any humain being but was commanded from scores of rival dealers, scalterediall over thecity. ...The mayor and his chaplain were invited to take the death-bed confersion of a perulating common comoriman. There also came the Governor of the Bank, Chairman of the East India Company, the Lord Chief Justice, and the Prime Minister, . . . his Grice the Archhishop of Canterlury, and his Royal Highness the Commander in Chicf. [All came at the call of Ilook's hetters.] They could not all reach Berner's shed. - Smales' Bumef Bhogruphes, p. 354.
2059. FAME, Trials of. Sir Walter Scott. At one time as many as sirtcen parties of visitors applied to see Ahbotsford in a single day. ftrangers-especially the American travellers.
of that day, who were much lens retiecent und more irrepressible than the Americm travellers of this-would come to him withont introluctions, facetiously cry out " Prodigions!" in imitation of Dominic Sampsen, it whatever they were shown, inquire whether the new home wats called Tullyveolan or Tillytudlem, cressexamine, with opera note-books, as to Scott's age and the age of his wife, and appear to be taken guite by surprise when they were bowed ont without being asked to dine.-Hutron's Scertr, eh. 12.
2060. FAME undesired. Einperor Meximin. The emperor of the East commanded a disciplined and veterm army of above $\mathbf{6 0 , 0 0 0}$ men: and !icinius, who had collerted about 30,000 ) Illyrians, was at first oppressed by the superiority of numbers. His military skill and the tirmuess of his troops restored the day ant obhaned a decisive victory. The incredible speed which Maximin exerted in his llight is mueh more eclebrated than his prowess in the battle. 'Twenty-four hours afterward he was seen, pale. trembling, and witlonut his Imperial ornaments, at Niconiedia, one hundred and sixty miles from the place of his defeat.-Gibson's Rome, ch. 14, p. 486.
2061. FAMILIARITY, Ill-mannered. Jemes Hoyg. [Sir Walter scott's poet-I'riend.] In a shepherd's dress, and with hands fresh from sheep-shearing, he came to dine for the first time with seott in Castle Street, and linding Mrs. scott lying on the sofa, immediately stretched himself at full leugth on another sofa; for, as he explained afterward, "I thought I coule not do better than to imitate the lady of the house." At dinner, as the wine passed, he adsanced from " Mr. Scott," to "Shirru" (SheriIf), "Scott," "Walter," and finally "Wattir"," till at supper he convulsed every one by addressing Mrs. Scott familiarly as "Charlote."-hutton's Life of scott, eli. 6.
2062. FAMILIARITY, Mistake of. Mary Queen of Scots. The pare of the Marechal de Damville, the young Du Chatelard, had remaned, as we have seen, at Ifclyrood, for the purpose of entertaining his master with letters about all that related to the queen, his idol. Du Chatelard, treated as a child by the phatul indulgence of the queen, had conceivel for his mistress a passion bortering on matness. The quecen hat encouraged him too much to retain the right of punishing him. Du Chatelard, constantly admitted to the most intimate familiarity with his mistress, ended by mistaking sport for eamest, persuading himself that she only desired a pretext for yielding to his audacity. The hadies of the patace discovered him one night hidden unter the queen's bed ; he was expelled with indignation, but his boldness wis placed to the account of the thoughtlessuess of his age and character. Raillery was his only panish. ment.-Lamartine's Maby Qieen of Scots, p. 15.
2068. Families, 0ld. Athms. People are mistaken who suppose that we have in America no old families. We have perhaps as many as other eountries, only the torrent of emigration, and the suddenness with which new fortunes are made and lost, conceal the fact from our observation. The Adams family, for example, which descended from Thomas Adams, one of the first proprictors of Massachusetts, has gone on steadily increasing in wealth and numbers from 1620 to the present time, und the family estate still comprises the lames origimally bought by tho Alams who was grandfather to the aecond President of the United States. Jola Adums died worth $$ 100,000$. II is som, John Quincy Adams, left, it is said, twice as much; and his som, Charles Francis Adans, late ministar to Lonton, is supposed to be worth $$ 2,000,000$. Crecebedia of bloa., p. 173.
2004. FAMILY, Benefits of the. Luther. In phace of the monk's cowl the labitit of the citizan was assumed. Becamse of this the heart of the German people went out to the great Reformer. As a strugrling monk he excited wonder and surprise. But as al hashand und father he is loved and revered by the German people.Rhin's Luther, ch. 16, p. 13i.
20035. FAMILY deteriora' , , the. Even in the days of 'Jiberims the $\therefore \cdot$ an. as Tacitus tells us, had rushed headen int., it e most servile thattery, and this would mo. bia $\%$ been possible if its members land not beca tansted by the prevalent deterioration. It was before the once grave and pare-minaled Senators of Rome-the greatness of whose state was founded on the sanctity of family relationships-that the Censor Mechlins had declared in A. U.c. 602, without one dissentient murmur, that meraiage could only be regurded as an intolerable necessity. Before that same Senate, at un earlier period, a leading consular had not scrupled to assert that there was searcely one among them all who had not ordered one or more of his own infaut children to be exposed to death.-Fabraris Eably Days, eh. 1, p. 7.
2066. FAMILY discord. of Cherles $I V$. of Spain. [Prince Ferdinand accused his mother, Lonisa Maria, of shameless licentiousness with one of the king's body-guard named Godroy. Whe eharged him with ignoble birth, her husband not being his father. Napolcon was solicited to favor each sitle in the possession of the throne of Spain. Ile hede mn interview with all.] The imbecile old king brandished over the head of Fertinand a long pold-headed cane
loaderi him with reproacl:es and imprecations. Suddenly tie mother . . . fell upon the culprit. $\quad$ flood of most uncourtly epithets she poured upon the vietim. . . . As Napoleon lel't the room he exelaimed. . "What a mother I What a son !"-Absotres Nipoteon B., vol. 2, ch. 1.

206\%. FAMILY interest. Theotoric. [The conquest of ] Italy. . . was fimally decided by the abilities, experiemee, and valor of the Gothic king. lumediately before the battle of Verema he visited the tent of his mother and sister, and requested that on a day, the most illustrions festival of his life, they w.uld adorn him with the ricla garments which they had worked with their own hands. "Our glory," said he, "is mutnal and inseparable. You are known to the work as the mother of Theodoric ; and it becomes me to prove that I am the gennine offspring of those heroes from whom 1 claim my descent."-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 39, p. 10.
2068. FAMILY kinship. Lines. Among civilized nations the family is so constructed that the lines of kinship diverge romstantly from the line of deseent, so that collaternl kinsumen with each generation stand at a still gronter remove from each other. this is trurable to the establishment of a male line of descent. In the Indian fumily this is all reversed. The dessent is established in the female line. . . . 'Ties of kinship converge upon ench other until they all meet in the granddanghter. . . . Every granisou mod gramldanghter was the grandson and grunddanghter of the whole tribe. . . . All the un'les were reckoned as his fathers; also all mothers' sisters as mothers; all the cousins were sisters and brothers; all the nieecs were dnughters; all the nephews, sons.-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 1, p. 46.
2069. FAMILY, Prestige of. Ii ish. The dis. tinction between those Irish who were of Celtic hoodand those Irish who spring from Stronghow and De Burgh was not altogether effaced. . . . In the preceding generation one of themost powerful of the O'Nifills refused to pay any mark of respect to a Roman Catholie gentleman of old Norman descent. "They say that the family has been here four hundred yenrs. No matter. I hate the elown as though he hat come here yes-terday."-Macaulay's Evg., ch. 6, p. 121.

20\%O. FAMILY, Religion in the. Mahomet. Islamism commenced like a family. It was practised for a long time in the dwelling of Muhomot, before it wasdiffused and exereised in any meeting of the Khoreishites. The first of the fnithful were himself, his wife, his nephew, his daughters, and his domestics. Ie seems to have been long content with this conversion of himself and hoisehold to the pure faith of Abraham, hoping that God would be content with this restricted worship, and would not ask of him a more oncrous propagation of the truth.-LAMARTINE's 'Turkey, p. 69.
2071. FAMILY, Responsibility to. Rign of Jumes II. Every battered old cavalier who, in return for blood and lands lost in the royal cause, had obtained some small place under the keeper of the wardrobe or the master of the harriers, was called upon to choose between the king and the church. The commissioners of customs and excise were ordered to attend his Majesty at the treasury. There he demanded from them a promise to support his policy, und directed them to require a similar promise from nll their subordinates. One custom-house ofticer notified his submission to the royal will in a way which excited both merriment and compassion. "I lave," he satid, " fourteen reasons for obeying his Majesty's commands, a wife and thirteen young children."-Macaulay's Exit., ch. 8, p. 313.
2072. FAMILY, Sanguinary. Ctertr's. On the parents, and the three sons in sucecssion, the hopes of IRome were fixed. But Germanicus was poisoned by order of Tiberius, and Agrippina was murdered in banishment, after the endurance of the most terrible anguish. Their two elder sons, Nero and IDrusus, lived only long enough to disgrace tlamselves, and to be foreed to die of starvation. The third was the monster Gains. Of the three daughters, the youngest, Julia Livia, was put to death by the orders of Messalina, the wife of her uncle Claudius. Drusilla died in prosperous infamy, and Agrippinn the younger, after a life of crime so abnormal and so detestuble that it throws into the slade even the monstrons crimes of many of her contempornries, murdered her husland, mal was murdered by the orders of the son for whose sake she had wated through seas of blood.
'That son was Nero! Truly the palace of the Cresars must lave been hamited by many a restless ghost, and amid its vast and solitary chambers the guilty lorils of its splendor must lanve feured lest they should come upon some specetre weeping tomis of blood.-Farizai's Eabiy DAYs, eh. 1, p. 13.
2078. FAMILY, Sorrowful. Martyr's. [At two oclock in the norning 1)r. Rowland Tinylor was delivered to the sheriff in Aldgate.] Now when the sheriff and his company came against St. Botolph Chureh, Elizabeth, his daughter, cried, saying, " O my acar father ! Mother, mother, here is my father led away !" 'Then rried his wife, " Rowlam, Rowland, where art thon ?" for it was a very dark morning, that the one could not see the other. In. Taylor answered, "IDear wife, I am here," and stayed. The sherift's men would have led him forth, but the sheriff said, "Stay a lithe, masters, I prny" you, and let him spenk to his wife ;" and so they stayed. Then cume she to him; and he took his danghter Mary in his arms, and he, his wife, and Flizabeth kneeled down and snid the Lord's Prayer ; at which sight the sheriff wept apace, and so did divers others of the company. After they had prayed, he rose up and kissed his wife, and shook fier loy the hand and said, "Farev, ell, my dear wife; be of good comfort, for I am quiet in my conscience. God shall stir up a father for my chiklren." Then lie kissed his daughter Mary and said, "God bless thee; I pray you all stand strong and steadfast unto Christ and Ilis words, and keep you from idolatry." Then said his wife, "God be with thee, rear Rowland. I will with God's grace meet thee at Iadleigh." [ Afterward he said :] "Come hither, my son Thomas;" then John Hull lifted up the child, and set him on the horse before his father. Then lifted he ip his eyes toward heaven and prayed for his son, laid his hand on the child's head, and blessed him. [He then went to the stake.]-Kniont's Enti., vol. 3, ch. 6.
2074. FAMILY, Substitutes in the. Indians. When one party prevailed, it was a rule to pursue their success by an undistinguishing rarnage, as long as the enemy gave the smallest resistance. When that was over, they bound and carried off the prisoners, who were reserved for the most cruel and tormenting death. This the captives ther aselves knew; and were prepared for. They liad, however, one chance of life; for, on returning to their village, the victors made offer to cach family of a captive for every relation they had lost in the war. This offer they might either aceept or reject. If aceepted, the captive beame a member of the family ; if rejeeted, he was doomed to die under the most excruciating tortures. In these extcutions the women would bear their part, and seen, actuated by the spirit of furies. What is most remarkable is the fortitnde with which these unhappy wretches submitted to their fate. There was a contest betwaen them and their tormentors which should exceed, these in infloting, or the others in enduring the greatest ex-acerbations of pain. It is even said that by lusults they endeavored to provoke their executioners and stimulate their fury by telling them of the crueltles they had themselves intlicted on their countrymen.-Tytleris IIsti., Book 6, ch. 21 .
2075. FAMILY afferings. House of the Cipsars. It has been well suid that no puge, even of Tucitus, has so sombre and tragic an cloguence as the mere Stemma Castrum. The great Julius, robbed by death of his two daughters, was succeeded by his nephew Augustus, who, in ordering the assassination of Cesarion, the matural son of Julius by Cleopatra, extinguished the direct line of the greatest of the Casars. Augustus by his three narriages was the futher of but one daughter, and that daughter disgraced his fumily and embittered his life. IIe saw his two elder grandsons die under circumstances of the deepestsuspicion; and being induced to disinherit the third for the asserted stupidity and ferocity of his disposition, was succeeded by 'Tiberius, who was only his stepson, and lud not one drop of the Julian blood in his veius. Tiberius had lut one son, who was poisoned by his favorite, Scjanus, before his own denth. This son, Drusus, left but one son, who wus compelled to commit suicide by his consin, Gaius; and one daughter, whose son, Rubellins ${ }^{1}$ litutus, was put to death by order of Nero.Fabrar's Early Days, ch. 1, p. 13.
2076. FAMINE, Bratalizing. Athenians. [Athens was besieged by Demetrius, and famine followed.] In the course of it many dreadful things happened, and this is related among the rest. A father and has son were sitting in the same room, in the last despair; when a dead mouse happening to full from the roof of the house, they hoth started up and fought for it.-Plutancu's Demetrius.
2077. FAMINE, Cannibals in. France. A fearful famine, by which France was visited in 1033, oceasioned throughout the country miseries almost unparalleled in history. For three years in succession the harvest had failed.
Food was oltainable only at exorbitant prices; and the poorer classes . . : were driven at last 1 , the most revolting expedients to appease their hunger. An innkeeper near Macon was burnt alive for havit massacred no less than fortycight unhappy wayfarers, whose bodies had afterwavd been devoured. IIuman tlesh was publicly exposed for sale in the market of Tour-us.-students' Fuance, ch. 7, & 8, p. 110.
2078. FAMINE, Depopulated by. Bengal, 1. 0 . [In 1770] there was a terrible famine in B gal, in which it is supposed one third of the imhabitants perished.-Knignt's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 21, p. 334 .
2079. FAMINE, Distress of. Rome. A.D. 546. Totila proceeded, not to assault, but to encompass and starve, the uncient capital. Rome was utficted by the avarice and guarded by the valor of Bessas, a veteran chief of Gothic extraction, who filled, with a garrison of 3000 soldiers, the spacious circle of her venerable walls. From the distress of the people he extracted a profitable trade, and secretly rejoiced in the continuance of the siege. It was for his use that the granaries had been replenished ; the charity of Pope Vigilius had purchased and emburked an ample supply of Sicilinn corn; but the vessels which escaped the burbarimes were seized ly a rupacions governor, who limparted a scunty sustenance to the soldiers, and sold the remainder to the wealthy Romans. The medimmus, or fifth part of the quarter of whent, was exclunged for seven pieces of gold ; tifty pieces were given for an ox, a rure and accidentul prize; the progress of funine enlunced this exortitant value, and the mercemaries were tempted to deprive themselves of the ullowance which was seareely suflicient for the support of life. A tasteless and unwholesone mixture, in which the bran thrice exceeded the gunntity of llour, appensed the hunger of the poor ; they were gradually reduced to feed on dead horses, logs, cats, and mice, and eagerly to snateh the grass, and even the nettles, which grew among the ruins of the city.-[ See No. 2015.] Gumon's Rome, ch. 43, p. 255.
2080. FAMINE, Resourcein. Horwes. [When Bomparte's army was retreating from Moscow, during a month there were mo rations, and dend horses were the only resource.]-Kniont's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 30, 1. 859.
2081. Famine, Trials of. Ilymouth Colony. The urrival of new emigrunts, who came unprovided with foos, compelled the whole coiony, for six months in succession, to subsist on haifallowance only. "I have seen men," snys Winslow, "stagger by reascon of faintness for want of food." $\qquad$ . lin the third year of their settlement their victials were so entirely spent that "they knew uot at night where to have a bit in the morning."

When a few of their old friends arrived to join them, a bster or a piece of fish, without bread or arything else but a cup of fair spring water, was the best dish the whole colony could offer.-Bancrort's U. S., vol. 1 , eli. 8 .
2082. FAMINE by War. Cumuta. a.d. 1758. In the generul dearth [cuused by the prolongation of the war] the soldiers could receive but a half pound of bread daily; the inlabitanis of Quebee but two ounces. . Artisans and day laborers were so enfeebled that they were untit for toil, and tottered from debility.-Bancrofts U. S., vol. 4, ch. 13.
2083. FANATIC, Insane. Puriton. A mad tailor, named Ludowick Muggleton, wandered from pot-house to pot-house, tippling ale, and denomeing etermal torments aguinst those who refused to believe, on his testimony, that the Supreme Being was only six feet high, and that the sun was just four miles from the earth. George Fox had raised a tempest of derision hy proclaiming that it was a violation of Christian sincerity to desigmate a single person by a plural pronoun, and that it was in idolatrous homage to Jamus and Woden to talk about Juniary and Wednesday.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. $\underset{\sim}{2}, \mathrm{p} .153$.
208.1. FANATICISM, Danger from. Reformution. Karlstadt forbade the paying and taking of interest on money loaned, and even went so fur as to recommend the introduction of the system of polygamy as practised liy the ancient Hebrews. [Luther wrote the elector] he thought that Karlstadt had always ignored the praise of Christ, and that he wouk? always do so. "His own insane desire for fame and praise has brought him to this. He has proved to be our most dangerous enemy, so that I am inclined to believe the poor, miserable wreteh is possessed of an evil spirit."-Rein's Luther, ch. 14, p. 125.
2085. Fanaticism, Idolatrous. Bexsictinus Antonines. In a solemm proesssion through the sitreets of lrome, the way wis strewed with gold dust ; the black stone, set in precious gems, was placed on a chariot drawn by six milk-white horses, richly enpmisoned. The pious emperor held the reins, und, supported by his ministers, moved slowly barkward, that he might perpetually enjoy the felicity of the divine presence. In a marnificent temple raised on the Palatine Mount, the sacritices of the grod Elagabalus were celebrated with every circumstance of cost and solemnity. The richest wines, the most extraordinary vietims, and the rarest aromaties were profusely consumed on the altar. Around the ultar a chorus of Syrim damsels performed their lascivious dances to the sound of barbarian music, while the gravest personages of the state and army, clothed in long Phenician tunics, olliciated in the meanest functions, with affected zeal and secret indignation.-Gibnox's Romes, ch. 6, p. 171.
2086. FANATICISM inflamed. Orlecens. And the Pucelle, left hehind, found herself alosolute mistress of the city, where all authority but hers seemed to be at an end. She carneolled round the walls, and the people followed her fearlessly. The next day she rode ont to reconnoitre the English bastilles, and young women and children weat too, to look at these famous bastilles, where all remained still and betrayed no sigu of movement. she led back the crow, with her to attend vespers at the church of Saint Croix; and as she wept at prayers, they all wept likewise. The citizens were heside themselves; they were raised above all fears, were drunk with religion and with war-seized ly one of those formidable accesses of fanaticism in which men can do all and believe all, and in which they are scarcely less terrible to friends than to enemies.-Michelet's Joan of Arc, p. 14.
2087. FANATICISM, Miracles of. Test. [A litter contest existed between the Catholics and Arsenite faction in the thirteenth century.] In the confidence of fanaticism, they had proposed to try their cause by a miracle; and when the 1 wo papers that contained their own and the adverse canse were cast into a fiery brasier, they expected that the Catholic verity would be respected by the flames. Alas ! the two papers were indiscriminately eonsmmed, and this unforeseen accident produced the union of a day, and renewed the quarrel of an age.-Gnibon's Rone, ch. $62, \mathrm{p} .15 \mathrm{j}$.
2088. FANATICISM, Religious. "Prophets." Three of the prime movers eame to Wittenberg luring the Christmas holidays in the year 1521 . They were curious fellows in warlike attire. Wonderfirl experiences did they relate: God had conversed with them ; they could foretell future events; in short, they claimed to be prophets and apostles I Melanchthon thought that they were possessed of a particular spirit, whatever be its nature, and that Luther alone could determine its true charucter. But Luther did not wish to return on that account, especially since it was not the desire of the Elector. He wrote to Melanchthon, and also to his friend Ansdorf, that the prophets of Zwickan should not be heard at once, but that the matter should quictly take its course. An investigation of their chams to a special calling should be held, and their spirits should be tried aceording to the ndvice of St. Jomin(1. $4: 1$ ), whether they le to Cowl.-Rein's Lether, ch. 11. p. 103.

20mb. $\qquad$ - Gunporder Plot. [IIenry Garnet, a (atholic priest, received through the confessional information of the Gumpowider Plot, which he did not reveal. He defended his course with ability. He acknowledged] that he had done more than he conld excuse by law in having concenled his privity to the design, yet he maintained that " he had acted upon a conscientions persuasion that he was bound to disclose nothing that he had heard in sacramental confession." -Knigirt's Evg., vol. 3, ch. 21, p. 336.
2090. $\qquad$ Peter the Jermit. In this austere solitude his body was emaciated, his funcy was intlamed; whatever he wished, he believed ; whatever he believed, he sazo in dreams and revelations. From Jerusalem the pilgrim returued an accomplished fanatic; but as he exeelled in the popular madness of the times, Pope Urbun II. received him as a prophet, applauded his glorious design, promised to support it in a general council, and enconraged him to prochin the deliverance of the IIoly Land. [Thus begm the crusades.]-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 58, p. 538.
2091. - Fifth Monarehy. The FifthMonarchy men rose on the 6 th of January, 1661, under their old lender, Thomas Venner, the wine cooper. Some fifty or sisty of them, after an encounter with the feeble mumicipal police, marched to Caen Woorl, near Ifighgate, and having leen there concealed for two days, returned to encomer the trained bands, and even a regular body of guards, in the confidence that their cause-the establishment of the reign of Christ on earth, and the suppression of all other author-ity-would be miraculously upheld. The capital was in fearful alarm; the shops were shut; the city gates were barricaded. But these wild men drove all before them, till a rally was made, and they were for the most part slanghtered, refusing quarter-Kinight's Exi., vol. 4, ch. 15, 1. 251.
2092. $\qquad$ Fifth Momurrhy. [In 1657 there was a great tunult in Loudon over the Fifth Monarchy. The Assyrian monarchy, the Persim, the Greek, and the Romam, being all four extinet, it was amomered that the Fifth Mon-archy-the greatest of all-the reign of the saints on carth, was at hand. Thomas Vemer, a wine cooper, with its standard of the Lion of the tribe of Judah, was to proclam it as its herald on the 9 h of $\Lambda_{\text {pril, on Mite End Green - a troop of }}$ horse arrested the Fifth Monarchy.]-Kinghits Eng., vol. 4, ch. 13, p. 206.
2093. - - Protestont. [When Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, was on the scaffold,] the Dean of Peterborough, Dr. Fleteher, standing outside the rail, directly before her, began an exhortation; but she stopped him, saying: "Mr. Dean, I am settled in the ancient Catholic Roman religion, and mind to spend my blood in dofence of it." The pertinacious diginitary replied.
with more zeal than eharity, "Madum, change your opinion, und repent of your former wickelnuss, and settle your faith only in Jewns Christ, by Itim to he saved." Mary tohd him to trouble himself no further ; and shrewshury and Kent said they would pray for her. She thanked them; "but to join with you in prayer I will not, for Hat you and 1 are not of one religion." The dean then prayed atoud from the English liturey ; and Mary, with stealfost voice, laving in her hand a crucifix, hegan to pray in Latin ; and she thanly prayed in English for Clurist's alllicted church, for her som, and for the Queen of England. The callous Barl of Kent was not moved even ly this solemn (arnestacse, but told har to "leave those trumperies." Such is famaticism, from whatever perverted view of the religion of love it may spring.-Kviart's Ena., vol. 3, el. 13, p. 203.3.
209.1. FANATICISM, Scandalous. Quther. [In 1056 James Nayler, one of the new sect of Quakers, in his frantie enthusiasm had prochamed that the Redeemer wasincarnate in lis person; and he had given a great public scandal in going about in a state of undity. The madman marrowly eseaped hanging.]-Knitut's Evi., vol. 4, ch. 13, p. 203.

20D.j. FANATICISM, Visions of. C'unsiders. Their victory, or even their attempt, would immortalize the manes of the intrepid heroes of the cross ; and the purest piety rould not be insensible to the most splendid prospect of military glory. . . . The vulgar, both the great and small, were taught to helieve every wonder, of lands flowing with milk and honey, of mines and treasures, of gold and diamonds, of palaces of marble and jasper, and of odoriferons groves of cinnamon and frankincense. In this earthly paradise each warrior depended on his sword to carve a plenteous and honorable establishment, whieh he masured only by the extent of his wishes.-Glbbon's Rome, ch. j8, p. j.jo.
2096. FAREWELL to Country. Napoteon I. [A captive, and stiling for St. Helena. Beholding the recoling vision of his native land,] he then uncovered his head, bowed to the distamt hills, and said, with deep emotion, "Land of the brave, I salute thee! Farewell! France, fare-well!"-Aumott's Napoleon 13., vol. 2 , ch. 30.
2097. FAREWELL desired, A final. James $I I$. [When James 11. left Framee to head an insurrection in Ireland, Louis XIV. said at their parting, " The best thing I can desire for you is never to see you back again."-Kxidnt's Eng. vol. 5, ch. 6, p. 81.
2098. FAREWELL, The last. Chrixtict/s. [Maceai], a probationer preacher, was arrested] for joininer the insurgents in Scotland against Charles 11 . He died in torture, having a pair of iron bonts on his legs, with wedges driven hetween iron and flesh. He was in rapture of soul ; his hast words were, Farewell, sun, moon, and stars-farewell, kindred and friends-farewell, world and time-farewell, weak, frail body -weleome, eternity - weleome, angels and saints -welcome, Saviour of the world, and welcome, God the Julge of all.-Knight's Exg., vol. 4, ch. 17, p. 297.
2099. FAREWELL, A touching. Wetshingtons. [Nine days after the evacuation of New York ly the British] Washington assembled his ollicers, and hade them a than adien. When they were met, the chicftain spoke a few affectionate worls to his comrades, who cmue for ward in turn, and with tears and sobs, which the veterans no longer cared to concend, bade him farewell. Washington then walked to Whitehall, followed by a vast concourse of citizens and soldiers, and thence departed to Amapolis, where Congress was in session. On his way he pansed at Philadelphia, and made to the proper oflleers a report of his expenses cluring the war. The aroomt was in his own handwriting, and covered a total exponditure of $$ 74,485$, hil correct to a cent. Whe route of the chief from Pumbs' Itook to Aumapolis was a continuous triamph. The people by humdreds and thonsands flocked to the villages and rondsides to see him pass: gray-haired statesmen to speak words of praise; young men to shout with enthusiasm ; madens to strew his way with flow-ers.-Ridiatios U. S., ch. 44, p. 3\%5.
2100. Farmer, An unsuccessful. Isfofe Nitrton. Isame was taken from school to assist his mother in the mamurement of her farm. But mature claimed him for higher work. He could not be a farmer. Being sent to market once a wek, with an aged and faithful servant, no sooner were the lorses put into the stable than he would shat himself up in a garret with his looks, till the produce was sold and it was time to return. In summer he would choose a shaty nook on the rond-side, out of town, and there await the return of the wagon. If lee was sent to the fields to watch the sheep and cattle, he would be found, hours after, perched in a tree, absorbed in a book, or on the banks of a stream. eagerly watching the operation of a waterwheel; white the cattle, perhaps, were rioting in a corn-fied, and the sheep were wandering down the road.-Pahton's Newton, p. 76.
2101. $\qquad$ Elmund Burke. The reader may smile as he recognizes the ardor, the carnestness, the fervid gravity of the political speeches, in letters which diseluss the merits of carrots in fattening porkers, and the precise degree to which they should be boiled. Burke throws himself just as engerly into white peas and Indian corn, into cabbages that grow into head and cabbages that shoot into leaves, into experiments with pumpkin-seed and widd parsnip, as if they had been details of the Stamp Act, or justice to Irehand. When he eomplains that it is searcoly possible for him, with his mumerous avocations, to get his servants to enter fully into his views as to the right treatment of his crops, we con easily understand that his farming did not help him to make money. It is impossible that he should have had time or attention to spare for the effectual direction of evell a small farm. - Momey's Burke, ch. 6.
2102. FASHION, Depreciated by. Science. Charles [1I.] himself had a laboratory. . . . It was almost necessary to the charater of a fine gentleman to bave something to say about airpumps and telescopes; and even fine ladies, now and then, thonght it becoming to affect a taste for science, went in coaches and six to visit the Gresham curiosities, and broke forth into cries of delight at finding that a magnet really attracted a needle, and that a microscope really made a tly look as large as a sparrow. . . . It is the unjversal law, that whatever pirsuit, whatever doctrine becomes fashionahle, shall lose in portion of that dignity which it hind possessed while it was contined to a small but earnest minority, and was loved for its own sake alone. It is true that the follies of some persons who, withont any real apitude for seience, professed is passion for it, furnished matter of contemptaous mitth to a few malignont sutirists who belonged to the preceding generation.-MacatLAY's ENG., ch. 3, 1. 380.
2108. FASHION diaregarded. Benjamin Fhanhlin. December, 17\%6. Franklin [the Amerienn commissioner] reached Puris, . . . and was welcomed with wonderful unanimity. IIis fume as a philosopher, his umfailing good-humor, the dignity, self-possession, and ease of his inmmers, the plainness of his dress, his habit of wearing his strnight thin gray hair without powder, contrary to the fashion of that day in France, noted as a spell.-Bancrofr's U. S., vol. 9, ch. 16.
2104. FASHION, Struggle for. French. Hats were a French invention of 1449 ; a belted knight writes: "Send me a hat and a bonnet ly the sanie man ; and let him bring the hat on his head, for fear of misfashioning of it."-Knight's End., vol. 2, ch. 8, p. 121.
2105. FASTS, Religious. Early Methotists. Four fasts were appointed for ench yeur on every circuit, and the prenchers were ordered to write on all class papers: "The first Fridny after every Qunrterly Meeting is to be observed ins a day of fasting and prayer." The carliest historian of Methodism remarks that it was the custom of its people " to observe formerly all Fridays as days of fasting or abstinence."-STEvens' M. E. Churci, vol. 2, p. 134.
2106. Fate, Belief in. Mohammeduns. The Koran inculcates, in the most absolute sense, the tenets of fate and predestination, which would extinguish both industry and virtue, if the actions of man were governed by his specuhative belief. Yet their inthuence in cvery age has exalted the courage of the Saracens and Turks. The first companions of Mahomet advanced to battle with a fearless confidence; there is no danger where there is no chance; they were ordained to perish in their beds; or they were sufe and invulnerable amid the darts of the enemy. -Gibbon's Mahomet, p. 39.
2107. FATHER, A confiding. John Milton's. There is no attempt on the part of Milton to take up a profession, not even for the sake of nppearances. The elder Milton was content to provide the son, of whom he was prond, with the neans of proseeuting his eccentric scheme of life, to continue, uamely, to prepare himself for some great work, natore unknown. For a young man of simple labits and stadions life a little suffices. The chief want is books. - Militon, BY M. PatTison, ch. 3.
2108. FATHERHOOD, Experience of. Agesiloms. Agesilaus [the Lacedremonian king] was certainly a most affectionate father. It is said, when his ehildren were small, he would join in their sports; and a friend happening to find him one day riding among them upon a stick, he desired him " not to mention it until he was a father himself."-Piutarcin's Agesilaus.
2109. FATHERHOOD uppressed. Nir of Rebellion. [At the bittle of Minvern llill in Virginla] the son of [Confedernte] Major Peyton, but fiftecen yonrs of age, called to his father for help. A buill lum shattered both his legs. "When we have hriten the enemy, then I will help you," unswered Peyton; " I huve here other sons to lead to glory. Forward!" But the column had ndvanced ondy a few paces when the major himself fell to the rarth a corpse.-DoLhard's Second Yeall of the Walt, p. 323.
2110. FAVORITISM, scandalous. Charles $I T$. Whocver conld muke himself agreenble to the primes, or conld secture the goonf ofllees of the mistress, might hope to rise in the world withont rendering my service to the government, withont being even known by sight to any minister of stute. This comrtier got a frigate, mad that a company; in third the pardon of a rich offender; in fourth, $n$ lense of crown land on easy terms. If the king notified his plensure thint a brietless lawyer shonld be made a juige, or that a libertine laronet should be made a peer, the gravest counsellors, after a little murmuring, snbmitted.-Macaclay's Eng., ch. 3, 1. 340 .
2111. FEAR conquered by Faith. Moravians. [When Johm Wesley came ns a missionnyy to the American colonists and Indians, he had not obtained the experience of the conscious favor of God. While on his passage, in the midst of $n$ fearful storm which endungered the lives of all, he observed the calmness of a little bund of Moravian pussengers who were holding religious service. When in the midst of the psalm which they were singing, ] the sea broke over the ship, split the mininsil into pieces, and poured in between the decks as if the great deep lind already swallowed then up. $\Lambda$ terrible outcry arose from the English, but the Mornvinns ealmly suug on. Wesley asked one of them, "Were yon not afraid ?" ILe answered: "I thank God, "uo." "But were not your women and children?" "No; our women and children are not afraid to dic."-Stevens' Metiodism, vol. 1, p. 78.
2112. FEAR, Contagious. Romans. They had never yet looked Germuns in the face, and imagination magnifies the nnknown. Roman merchants and the Gauls of the neighborhood brought stories of the gigantie size and strength of these northern warriors. The glare of their eyes was reported to be so fierec that it could not be borne. They were wild, wonderful, and dreadful. Voung officers, patricians, and knights, who had followed Chesar for little mild experiencre, began to dislike the notion of these new enemises. some applied for leave of absence; others, though ashamed to ask to be allowed to leave the army, cowered in their tents with sinking learts, male their wills, and composed last messages for their friends. The centurions cuught the alarm from their superiors, and the legionaries from the centurions. -Frocde's CESAR, ch. 14, 1). 32.
2113. FEAR and Courage. W'ar. [While at war with eaeh other a snitl company of Thebans under Pelopidas unexpectedly met their Lacedæmonian enemies on the road.] As soon as they were perceived to :he passing the straits, one ran and told Pelopidas, "We are fallen into the enemy's hands." "And why not they," said lee, "into ours y"-Phetahci's Peloribas.
2114. FEAR, Government by. Englenel. [Edmund Burke satid of the success of the Revolutionlsts of France:] I believe very few were ulle to enter into the effects of mere terror. $\qquad$ For four years we have seen loans madr, trasuries sapplied, and armies levied and maintained, more numerous than France ever slowed in the theld, by the effects of feme wonc.-KNidirts Eng., vol. 7, ch. 15, p. 268.
2115. - - - School. Fashion, and even convenience, soon persuaded the eonguerors of Rome to assime the more elegant dress of the natives; but they still persisted in the use of their mother-tongue ; and their contempt for the hatin schools was apphaded by Theodoric himself, who gratitled their prejudices, or his own, by deelaring that the child who had trembled it at rod wond never dare to look hpon a sword.Gibifon's liome, ch, 39.
2116. FEAR overcome. Jorm of Arc. In the midst of her trimph deanne still remaned the pure, tender-henited peasant girl of the Vosges. Her tirst visit as she entered Orleans was to the great church, and there, as she knelt at mass, she wept in such a passion of devotion that " all the people wept with her." Her tears burst forth afresh at her first sight of boodshed and of the corpses strewn over the battlefiehl. She grew frightened at her first wound, and only threw off the tonch of womanly fatar whiz she heard the signal for retreat.-Mist. of Eso. People, ss 431.
2117. FEAR, Panic of. Rome. Meanwhile the report reached Rome that Cresir hand crossed the Rubicon. The uristocracy had mursed the pleasant belief that his heart would fail him, or that his army would desert him. His heart had not failed, his army had not deserted; and, in their terror, they saw him already in their midst like an avenging Marins. He was coming. His horse had been scen on the Apennines. Flight, instant flight, was the only safety. Up they rose, consuls, pretors, semators leaving wives and eliildren and property to their fate, not halting even to take the money out of the treasury, but contenting themselves with leaving it locked. On foot, on horseback, in litters, in carriages, they fled for their lives to find safoty under Pompey's wing in Capua.-Fnocde's CessAR, ch. 21.
2118. FEAR of Retribution. Reigh of Jemes II. [Lord sunderland, his prime-minister and tool, apprehended the revolution which dethroned James.] Visions of an innumerable crowd covering Tower Hill [the place of execution], and shouting with savage joy at the sight of the apostate [who sought to betray dames to William, Prince of Orange], of a scaffold hung with hatack, of [Bishop] Burnet reading the prayer for the departing, and of Keteh [the executioner] leaning on the axe with which Russell and Monmouth had been mangled in so butcherly a fitshion, began to haunt the unhappy statesman.-MacadLay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 411.
2119. FEAR, Shameless. Duthe of Monmouth. [His rebellion against James II. was suppressed.] The spoiled darling of the court and oi the populace, accustomed to be loved and worshipped whereverthe appenred, was now surrounded by stern jailers, in whose eyes he read his domi. Yet a few hours of gloomy seclusion, and he must die a violent and shmeneful death. His heart sank within him. Life secmed to be worth purchasing by any lomiliation; nor conld his mind, always feclile, and now distracted hy terror, perreive that humiliation must deqrade hint could not save him. . . . Il wrote to the king. The lelter was that of a man whom a cruven fear lad made insensible to slume. Ite professed in velemont terms his remorse for his tremson. Ite aftirmed that, when he promised his consins at th llague not to raise troubles in Eughom, he lud fuily memt to kerp his word. C'ihmpily, he had afterward bera seduced from his allegiance by some horrid people who had hented his mind by calumnies and misled him by sophistry: but now he abhorred them; he abhorred himself. He berged in piteons terms tlat he might be almittel to the royal presence.-N. caulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 5it.
2120. FEAR, Stranger to. Colomy of Cienrgit. A Cheroke app"aredamong the English. "Fear nothing," sail Oglethorpe [the governor], "but speak freely;" and the mountainer unswered, "I always speak frecly. Why should I fear? I nm now among fifoids; I never feared even among my enemies."-Banchoft's U. S., vol, 3, ch. 24.
2121. FEARLESSNESS, Astonishing. Rimans. [ILannibal's approncll to Rome.] Hamibul was astonished by the eonstancy of the Senate, who, without raising the siege of Capua, or recalling their seattered forces, expected his appronch. He (nemmped on the lanks of the Anio, at the distance of three miles from the city; and he was soon informed that the ground on which he had pitched his tent was solel for an adequate price at a publie auction, and that a body of troops was dismissed by an opposite roul, to re-enforce the legions of Spain.-Gibnow's Rome, ch. 31, p. 245 .
2122. FEARLESSNESS, Boyish. Beurdict Arnold. He was no common boy. The most striking trait of his character was femrlessness. He would place himself in situations of extreme peril, for no other motive than to terrify his clders, or to "show off" his courage. . . . It was often the duty of the boy Arnold to carry lages of Indian corn to a mill, two miles from home, himself riding upon the bags that were thrown over the horse's back. While he was waiting for his grist, it was his delight to astonish the miller with his wilt, daring tricks. As he was bathing in the mill-stream, he would seize hold of one of the spokes of the great waterwheel, and go around with it, now dangling in the air, now buried in the foming water, while the miller stood horror-stricken at his reeklessness. He was a most daring and headlong rider. Horses that he was accustomed to ride were observed to fall into bad habits, such as kicking, starting, and rumning away.-Cyclopeda of Brog., p. 229.
2123. FEARS, Imaginary. Ciesar. Sixty thousand picked men left the Gauls' camp before dawn ; they stole round by a distant route, and were allowed to rest concealed in a valley till the middle of the day. At noon they came over the ridge at the Romans' back ; and they had the hest of the josition. Deing ahle to attack from general assanit on all sides, und for udetermined sally by Voreingetorix from whin. Thas before, behima, amb everywhere, the leghons were assulled ut tho sime noment; mal ('asane obs. serves that the cries of lattle in the rear areal. ways more trying to mon than the thereest onset unon them in front; leremase what they emmot see ther immerine more formidnhle than it is, und they depend lor their own safoty on the commere of ouldes. [l'asar's grenias satid the army.]-

212. FEAST, Intellectual. Mahomet. Ite nssemalad his rehatives to the number of forty, at a feast sorved in the comrt of his homse, ins wis the usage of the armad commeils which preceded great revolutions amoner the Aralns. 'They were all the sons mote! descorindants of his molele am! udoptive lather, Jhontaids, The hanguet, forgul, like the lifie of the clesert, was composed hat of it leg of mutton mal some riore. Mahomet silutplied its mengremess by the matriment of the soni ; he entertained his ge ests with so much inspirntion and persuasion that thay folt themsolves guite sitistied by his words. 'These simple minds, nstonisher to thad they hat their thll despite the pitiful supply upon the fable, attributed to the magic: of the infermal spirits this charm and repletion, which ware but the nugic of the divine word. 'llay retired mensy, interoorating eath other, and promising not to rotom to expose themselves to sumeli conchantments.-Lasmats-

2125. FEES, Extortionate. , Jrilirs. [Jt that day a jailer had no salnyy, but was supported chictly by fees extorted from the prisomers on their leaving jail. Custom land established, with the foree of law, that every prisoner, whether folon or debtor, whether diselarged becmase the jury had aecintted him, or bermuse no bill of indletment was found nguinst him, or leomuse his term of imprisomment lad expired, should pay, before leaving the jail, a fee of 1 ns. $4 d$. to the jailer, and another fee of ${ }_{2}$. to the turnkey-about \$5 in all. If a prisoner could not pay this sum the jailer was allowed to keep him in prison till he could. . . [John] IIoward discovered one man who . . . had been contined four yerres soldely becanse . . . unable to pay the faes for alelivery. Te fennd some prisomors, who had been proved innocent, amd ngatinst whom no hill had been found, still lamguishing in a lombsome dangeon, becanse there was no one on carth able and willing to lend them the tribling sum of $19 \mathrm{~s} .4 \%$., while the comnty was at the expense of supporting them, Such frightful abuses . . . ('ome of great men putting their duties mon deputies.CyCloredia of Bion., 11. 42.
2186. FEMALES, Imitation of. Thesf"s. [When Thesens went wilh a tribuse of scever young mon and as many virgins to be sacritieed in the labyrinth at Crete, or save themselves by destroying the Minotanr, ] he did not take with him all the virgins upon whom the lot had fallen, but selected two young men of his acquaintance who had feminine and florid aspects, but were not wanting in spirit and presence of mind. These by warm bathing, and keeping them out of the sun, by providing unguents for their hair and complexions, und everything necessary for their dress, by forming their volice, their manthey passed among the virgins dengened for ('rete, mel no one comblilisecon the dilference. -

-2127. FESTIVAL, A coronation, lillirarld $I$, [(tn the 10th of Aurust, 1:2.t, King lilwarllt. amd his queron were drowned at Wiestminster.] The conomation fenst perents $n$ curious illustrathon of the rude luspitality of that ure. . . . I'lere were two halls : . . . many new lanlls were built up, in whing mbles were in wed in the gromal, at whiel nll who ramu- prineos, nothes, the rich, and the puor-were feasted for tiftern days. Inmumemble kitebens were binlt beside the halls, and mumberless lemben ramblrons were phaced ontside the kitcherns, for ndelitionnl rooking. Oxern, sherep, ind phes were consmmerl in munnhers rexeeding those of acrowiled market diny in rerent Smithtlolal; and lamolomhall market at ('laristmas coulal not vie with this royal pealtryshow. The l'iperolls record that three handred barrelsof wine were juredasied for thinoremsion.

219*. FIDELITY tested. Kommen Geweral Belisaritus. lle marrled to the gintes of Rome, which surrendered withont inn attack; he possessed himself of the city, and with 5000 mom undertook to defend it ngrinst 100,00 of of the rebel Ostrogothe, who sul down to hesiege him.... After varions suceesses the Goths the aselves, thled with udmiration at the chamotal of Belisarins, repuested him to aceept of the crown of Italy; but lat generous and heroice man refased the offor of a kinglom, incapmble of betraying the interests of his soveraign, although he luat repeatedly experieneed his ingratitude.-Trr-

2129. FIGHTING in Death, lerwiats. [When Alexamber defeated Darias, tha l'ersinms were completely routed.] A fiew of the best und bravest of them, indeed, met their death before the king's ehariot ; und falling in henjs one upon mother, strove to stop the pursuit; for in the very pangs of death they elang to the Macedoninus, mid ranght hohl of their horses' leass as they lay upon the ground.- Phavinen's ileExANDER.
a130. FIGHTING, Desperate, lattle of Maubenfe. [Cacsar's wars in Gaml.] The Nervii fonght with a cournge which filled Cresar with udmiration : men of greater spirit he said that he had never seent. As their first ranks fell, they piled the bodies of their comarades into henps, and from the top of them larled back the lioman javelins. They would not tly ; they dropped where they stool; and the battle ended only with their extermination. Gut of 600 senators there survived hat there: out of $60,000 \mathrm{men}$ able to bear arms, only solo. The nged of the tribe, amel the women and ehildren, who had been left in the morasses for seenrity, sent in their surrender, their warriors lecing nill dead.Fuovene's C'ieshir, chi 14.
2131. FIGHTING and Praying. $\Lambda$ amiral Bhake. It was against those splendid Spunish galleons and vodia-built merchantmen, their holds full of the sicest products of the far Westfoid and silver, pearls and precious stones, hides, indigo, cochincal, sugar, and tobaceo-that he nod his men set forth ; and uhmolunt were the tremsures of sparkling silver pieces which fell into the horny huntsor isake's men. Ile mate his first seizane on this venture, and went it home; the bilion was ronvered to London, undire the charge of sohlicres, and eight-mai-thinty waronJomels of silver reved along through the streets of London to the 'Tower, anid the eherertiol apphase of the multitule. Blake did mot come home; he was still out on thase distant sems wating for, and ready to pomene mon, more prizes. Parhapes many of our readers will think It a dillle ult thing to concelve of this warlike sinilor as a God fomring man, following 1 p all this misehief aganst the spmande in the from of the fard; but it was evenso; bot an onth was heard on board his vessel or vessels, the ordimances c $^{*}$ religion wore followed up punctilions. ly. Why not? he was fighting the canse of treedommad lath nganst poprry madabsolutism, and Cheir persecoutions; mai wheremsspain mad Rome dand made Protestants ceverywore tremble, this diustavise of the seas, in tirn, made sigmin and Rome to tremble, nad perhaps stirred some new thoughtsmbout Protesiant heroism within their aruel souls. He mplars to have seen phanly the phere in which he had to phay his part. "It is wot for us," said he, "to mind state affairs, hut to keep the foreignors from fooling us:" and his name becomens temible to the foes of Enghund on the sem as (romwell's on the limit.-Doon's

2132. FILTH and Disease, Eingland. The sweating-siekness was the terror of lingland at the begiming of the sixteronth rentury, as the plague was in the saremternth mad the eholera in the aineteenth. Filth and imperfert ventiation were momer the matin ansers of epidemic divenase in each of these promis.- Kivaris's Enob, vol. 2 , ca. 15, p. 2it.
2133. FILTH, Equality in. Jituil Wibwtcr. ] haniel Wehster when $a$ had . . Was one day called up by the teacher for punishument. His hads happened to be very dirty. Knowing this, ho spit upon the palm of his right hami, wiping it off on the side of his pantaloons. "Give me your hand," said the tencher, very sternly. Out went the right hamd, partly clemsed. The teacher leoked at it a moment, and said, " Dmaiel, if you will tind another hand in this room as tithy as tnat, I will let you off this time !" Instantly from lehind his burk came the left hame. "Here it is," was the realy reply. "That will do," said the teacher", " for this time; you can take your seat, sir."-Rasmosids hancons, p. 748.
218.f. FINANCE, Delusions in. John Lirtr. [A Scotehman sha financiered for Louis XIV.] A bank was Law's first scheme-capital $6,000,000$ francs, in shares of 5000 frames each; the shares to be paid for in four instalments-one fourth in coin and three fourthe in regyel bomals at their par valac! . . Aill tax-gatherers [were ordered] to feceire the notes of the bank in payment of all sums due the govermment. To the bank was soon added a company, called the "Company of the West," designed to settle and trade with the French province of Lonisiana. Shares in this company where also purchasable with the same royal bonds at their par value, with the addition of a small perecentage in coin or hank-mutes. A " Guinem Compmey" was also started for thading with the eonst of X fricat. . . The selormes laving berol hamelod, the next thing was to impose upon the credulity and inthame the avarice of the pulalie. A harge cugraving was pusted... exhihiting a momer of Loulsinma tadimes ronning to moet agroup of Fremelmen, each hodding out a phere of gold. |The collapme of these selomes was more aston
 p. 1in.
2185. FINANCE, Fraudulent. Rome. A.D. int. The improvement of the revernes was commit. teri to Alexander, a subte seribe, long prace tised in the frame mat oppression of the Byamtine sehooks, and whose mane of 1 wetliction, the scisem was drawn from the dexterons artithe with which he redued the size, withomt defteing the figure, of the gold coin. Instend of ex. pediting the restoration of pace and industry, he imposed a henvy assessment on the fortumes of the lalims.-Gmmon's Rome, ch. 43, p. 252.
2136. FINANCE, Patriotism ln . William of Oronge'. 'The city of Lomdon maderiowk to extrinte the prince from his thamedial allle ulties. The common conncil, by amanimous vote. engaged to that hime deon,000. It was thought a great proof, both of the wealth and of the publie spirit of the merehants of the capital, that in forty-right hours the whole sam was raised on no seceurity lat the princers word. A few weeks before dames had heen mable to procure $n$ much smaller sum, though be hat offored to pay higher interest, nud 10 pledgo vahable property.-Macautar's Exa., (th. 10, p. bito.
2137. FINANCES, Unsoundness in. Restoretion. [The selfish and protligate growemment of Charles 11. appropriated moness desigued to support the mavy. The Duth invaded Enghand, and found sailors demoralized and ships rotting in the ports. Many Euglish satiors on Dutch ships cried out to their compmions,] "We did heretofore fight lor tickets; now we fight for dollass." . . . The sailors' wives went up and down the strerts of Wraping, crying, "This comes of your not paying our hashamis." [Jige hand reeceived a dishomor arever to be wiped off, from the corruption of mational homor at the fountain-hemi.]-KNucint's Exi., vol. 4, ch. 17, p. 29 s .

213*. FIME nullifled. Charles $I$. [1I- presenteri a declaration ngainst illergal haxation mad innovations in the religion of the State: Parliamont was not reasembled for eleven years.] Eliot was fined tenoo ; he very likely inerensed the spite of the king by taking precautions arainst his pouncing upon this valuable little peentation ; he said he hat two cloaks, a few hooks, a fow pairs of boots, and that was all his personal smbstance, and it they could harn this into $£ 2000$, much grood mirht it do them. So the sheriffs appointed to seize upon his possessions in Cornwall, for the king, were ohliged to return a nihil.- LOod's Cromwell, ch. 3, p. 75.
2133. FIRE, Ancient. Persians. The ancient religion of Zoronster, too, is yet preserved among the Persian Guebres, who pretend in their temples to have kept alive the sacred fire from the days of the great founder of their religion down
 (h. 2:3, p. 2m1.
21.10. FIRE, Calamity by lime liore is the mont juwerfal andent of lifo and death: Han raphe mischied may be kholhel and propagnted by the hadnatry or merglgenee af monkhad; ani every pricel of the foman amols is marked hy the revertition of shailar calamiter. A memosrable conthagration, the gullt or misfortuan of Nieross reign, comitaned, thongh with meghan furs. efther she or bhae days. Immomerable buildings, arowdend In clowe aind arooked streets, supplial propertal find lor the flaties ; mad when they ceased, four only of the fourteen regions were haf entire: there were totally destroged, and seven were delimmed ly tiae rellise of smok-
 (h. 71, p. 52l.
2111. - Rome. In the tenth ymar of the reige of Nore, the eapitat of the ampire was attlicted by a lloe which raged brevond the memory or example of former ages. The monbuments of Grepian art and of Roman virthe, the trophien of the Punic and (Gallie ware, the most holy tomples, and the monst splemelid palacers wire involverl in sha common destrumetion. Gmmons Rosme, ch. 16, 1. 1\%.
2142. FIRE, Destruction by. I? Giarerminent. Lonis XIV., mable to mantain his conyluests... gave orders for the wholesale devastation of the Prathinate ty tire and sword, for the purpose of preventing the enemys army from reocropying the comatry. This inhumanderree was inst: tiy carried into execution, and with far mome trous eflecet than in the former sompaign unter Turenne. Inaving warned the popalatio in to retire, the French generals sot tire 10 I Ledielherg. with the mugnifleent palace of the electors, and redueerl it to a mase of blackened ruins. Manheim, Spires, Worms, Oppenheim, Bingen, wero condemned in succession to the llames. Crops, tarms, vines, orchards, frult-trees, were all destroycd; mo! this once rich and smilling land was converted into a desolate wilderness. The houseless peasants, to the number of a luandred thousanal, wadered nhout in ubject misery, impreating the vengeance of Heaven upon the heartless tyrant who had mased their ruin.-

21.13. FIRE, Destructive. Grutk Fite. The principal ingredient of the Greck the was the maphthe, or liquid bitumen, a light, temuctions, and intlammable oil, which prings from the earth, and catelors tire as soon as it comes in comtact with the air. The naphtha was mingled, I know not by what methods or in what proportions, wihh sulphur and with the pite h that is extracted from everrreen tires. From this mixture, which prowherd a thick smoke and a lome explosion, procerded a fieree and obstimate flame. which not only ruse in prepenticular aserme, but likewise burnt with effal vehemence in descent or hateral progress; instead of being extinguished. it was nourished and quickened ly the element of water ; and samb, urine or vinegar were the only remedies that could damp the fury of this powerful agent, which was justly denominated by the Greeks the liquid or the maritime fire. . . . This important art was preserved at Constantinople, as the palladium of the State ; the galleys and artillery might occasionally tre lent to the alliey of leme ; bint the composition of the Gruek tire wascomededen with thas mast jonlous serpuph, and the terror of the paemice was har remed mad prolonged ly their igno.
 1. ${ }^{2}$

 silibe to cury on the splitimal instrumiche of the 1"ople ly the established elerey (the marlsh thurehow thelue lo rulas), and therefore ansem-
 Independents ware not visited with the prandties of the Consratiele A.t /whelh fornd tive or more Non-conformists to mite in hulequadent worship). "It wa "says baxter, " wh the thrst. "thing too gross to forbid un thalone propte all worshipplag of (hom, with tow great rigor ; wnd if they had heen so fordidden, peverty had laft then on lithle to lose as wond have nate them
 (f). IN, p, :thi.
21.tid. FIRE, Holy. Alter of Iupiter. [After the Cireks lowd deleated the Persimes they of treve macriber.] They wroe directed by dpollo, " T'o buld an atar to Jopiter, the deliverer", but extheguished all the fire in the conntry (becanse it had bern polluted by the hat mames), und supplind themselves with pure fire from the eommon altar at Delphi." Herempon the Grecian generats went all over the comblry, und cansed the firms to be put out ; nal Enchidus, it Phatma, umber. taking to fetch llre, with all imagimable speotl. from the altar of the god, went to Delphi, sprin kled and purifed himsedf there with water, put a crown of haurel on his hatal, took five from the altar, and then hastened lnach, Io Phatea, where he arrived before sumset, thas performing a journey of a thousand furlongs in one day. But having saluted his fellow-citizens, and delivered the fire, he fell down on the spot and presently explred. The Plateans carried hin to the temple of Dlam, surnamed Eucleia, and lmried him there, putting thes short inseription on his tomb: "Here lies Euchidus, who went to Delphi, nut returnel the same day."-Dietaben's Aleisil nes.
2116. FIRE, Ignorance of. Presific Islanders. The inhabinutsof the Marim Ishmids, when they were diseovered by Magellan in 152t, had, till that time, never sern fire, and expressed the utmost astonishment at it. They believed it to be an mimal which fixed tuedi won wood and fend upon it, and when approaching so near as to he burnt, they thought they were bit by it. The inhabitants of the Philippine and Canary Islands were, at their first discovery, in a state of equal ignorance-D'TLE:B's IHsT., Book 1, ch. T, 1. 59.

21:17. FIRMNESS, Call to. Willium III. [William of Orange, ufterward King of England, suid he learnol a word while crossing the English Chamel which lim would never forget.] When in a great storm the captain was all night erying out to the men at the helm, "Stealy ! steady! steady!"-Kxigit's Exa, vol. 4, ch. 70, p. 330.
21.14. FIRMNESS, Effect of. Alexander Nenerus. While the cmperor hay at Antiorh, in his

Dereshan expedition, the paticularson wheld we sobldiers, who had heen ilscovereyl ha the Imas of women, exefted a sedtion in the legion to whirh they brdonged. A sabder uscender his tribumal, and witionasent trmasesw represented well as his latle : ible resolut ion, of correst the then whes introdnasel by his hapme prederesser, and the relaxed withont the rula of the Rumm mane aud emphes. 'Theri whaners interrupted his mild expustulation. "Reserwe yone shout," sulid the madauntel empreror, "till yon take" the tield againat the Pervians, the (terrumas, and the Narmathan Be silent in the presen of your sen creten , whe bencfactur, wha hestows apon yon the wirn, the clothag, mad the money of "the proviaces. Bat silent, or 1 shall no longer style you sohlicrs, but ritizens, if those inderd who itisclaim the lave of Rome deserve to tee ranked amang the matace of the perple," How mates inllamed the fury of the legion, and thedr bran-
 " your courare . . wombld be mor nowly disphayed on the ind of matte ; me yon may distroy, you camoot intimblate; and the serere junice of the repmblie would punisha your rime detd on venge my death." . . . Tha mineror pronomad arms!" ['They were overwhelaned wilh shane nand repenture.]-Ghmos's Rone, chi. 6, p. 183.
2140. Fishing, Fraud in. Anteny. [When visitime Cleophatra in Eegpt li" was guilly of many follies.] He was a tlahing ome day with Cleopmatra, and hat ill suceess, which, in the presence of his mistress, tae looked aponas a disgrace: he therefore orderel one of his assistmats to dive mad put on his hook suth as hat been taken before. This seleme he put in practice three or fome times, atad Cleopatra pererived it. She mfectel, however, to be surpriseri at his suecess: expressed her woader to the prople nbout her; and the day following invited dhem to ste fresth proofs of it. When the day follans ing cune, the vessel was crowded with perphe: nuil as soon as Aatony had let down his line, she ordered one of her divers immediately to pit a sult tish on his look. When Antony foumd he hayd caught his fish, he drew up his line ; and this, as may be supposed, oceasioned no smat! mirth manong the spectators. "Go, general!" sainl Cleopnatra: " leave fishing to us peety priaces of Pharos mal campus ; your game is cities, kingdoms, and provinces." - Dicetancirs An'. tony.
2150. Fiag, a despised. United States. [During the war with Enchand in 181?.] In the course of the year 250 ibritish ships, carrying 3 Ho0 sailors and cargoes of immense vilue, were captured by American ernisers. . . Franee was well pleasem.

For awhile the Eng. lish themselves wore well-nigh puralyzed. Thi British newspapers burst forth rariug, and deClared that the time-honored thag of Enghand had been disgrared "lyy a pieee of striped banting flying at the mast-head of a few tir-built frig. ates manned ly a haudful of outhws!" Aul the comment, though stated in unpleasant language, was trac! - Rideratu's C'. S., ch. 49, p. $34 \times$.

2151 . FLAG, Devotion to the, Symont dexin r.
 Hee [Brifish] Ahert pournd atempent of balle afon the port [fullivan, soush (arolima); lat thes walls, built of the spongy palantio, were little the garrison lomght likn velermas. - IRapratais C. S., ch, 30, p. 318. In the fort, Willam das ber, a sergenat, perceived that the thag hat heron cut down liy a hall from the memy, and hat fallea wer the ramparts. "Colencol, satill lie to Moultrle, "don't led 14 thght withont a tlag." "What ran you do "" asked Nonltrife: "tho staft is hroke in off." "Then," saitl dusper. " l'll fix it on a hatherd, and place it ons he bertom of the bastion next the enamy:" mod haphag brough ancoubramure, sum hraving the thitkest Ilre from He ship, he took up the flug, returncl whith it in safety, and phated it, as lie hand promisert, wa the
 H. ch. (it).
2152. FLATTERY, Artful, (intive Quen \%emoliz. When the Syrinu gueco was brought into the preserece of Aurelina, be steruly mbind har how she land pressumat to rise in artay turanst the emperory of Rome. The answer of Zanohia was a purnent mixture of respert and firmaess. ${ }^{-1}$ Becomse I distained to comsider as Roman cmperors an Aureolon or a Gatlientas. fou alonse I arknowledge as my conqueror and

2153. Flattery, False, Henry VIII. [Rleh, the Simaker of the Ilonse of Comanons in 15: compared Ilenry [VIII.] to solomon for prudenee, to Shmson for strength, mad to Ahsalom for beanty-the very sun which warmed and enilghtened the universe. [Ilistory distingulshers him as the liemations :yrant and infamons hosmani of six suceessive wives.]-K vian're Esia, vol. 2, ch. 23, p. 380.
2154. FLATTERY, Fulsome, Jimes 1. [IIe was called the " wisest fool in Christembon." His vanity was abuadantly gratitied in being khig of Grent Britain and Ireland-an absolate king as he believed-ami not only a king, but a master of all learning, and repectinlly of theologinnl learning, of whon his chaneelor deelareil. at the lhanpon Court conference, that never since our Saviour's time had the king and the priest been so wonderfully united in the same person. . . Tlis tigure was magainly ; his babits were slovenly; he was by mature a coward.Kinurt's Enti, vol. 3, cli. 20, p. 349.

215\%. FLATTERY, Irritating. Firederick the Great. iVolaire was made a member of the court with greal honor.] But even amid the delights of the honeymoon, Voltaire's sensitive vanity legan to take alarm. A few davs after his arrival he conk not help telling his niere that the nmiable king ham a trick of giving a sly serateh with one hand while pating and stroking with the oher.-Macathu's Fuederid $k$ the Gueat, p. 63.
2156. Flattery resented. Alexander. While sailing down the Mydaspes, Aristobulus. a mesu sycophant, who had composed a marration of the king's battles, was readarg to him for his amusement the accounts of the Indian expedition, in whid the writer had exaggerated in many eireumstances palpably beyond the truth.
 indigmation finto the river, idllug the anthor that hos merlfed the mame tromement for laving abs surdly andencored to magnify liy thetion those

 How 2t, ch. 4, p. 1t:
2157. FLATTERY rewarded. Lircemirr. (Onof his thiterers. . . procureal a derver that iomer trins, whenever he visted Athens, whould lx. rocedved with the mame lonors thent wrore pald to Ceres and lhachas; and that whorver oxeroded therest fin tho splemior and magnifionere of the reception ho gave late prinee shoulal huve money out of the Promsury (a) emable hati to met uj) shameres of adulation concluded whth ilneir changfing the mame of the month Vumarkion to bimetrion, whll calling lloc lant day of evory month Demetrias: mel thr Ihomasio, or fonsts of Bue-

2150. FLEET, Immense, lurerlew. Heraclinn, t'onnt of $\mathbf{A}$ frima, who, under the most dilll-ed with ader loyalty the dane of Itomerlas, was tempted, in iluy year of his consilshilp, to nssame the eharacter of a relerl ant the tithe of emperor. The ports of $A$ frien were immedlately thled with the maval forces, nt the hemel of whlele le prepured to invade Italy : nom his there, when it cast aneloor at the month of the 'lilser, inderel surpmased the llecets of Xorxes und Alexumer, if all the vessels. including ther roynl gatley nimd the mmallest boat, did artanlly momont to ihe incredible mamber of $\mathbf{s i z}^{2} 00$. Vet with such marmanent, which might laver subverted or restored the sreatest impires of the emeth, the Alrian asurper made n very faint and ferhile improssion on the provineres of his rival. As he marehed from the iort, along the roud which leade to the gates of Rome, he was emoombered, territled, and romed by one of the fmperial raptains ; und the lord of this mighty hosi, dosarting his fortune and his frionds, finominionsly tled with a single ship, Gimbon's lRome, ch. ;31.
2159. FLOGGING, Comfort under. Itr. Gum.
 Rommen Catholiersm. Jejgn of Janmes II.] The day appointed for the thogeting rame. $A$ whij of nime lashas was used. Tharee lumelred and seventeen stripes were inflicted; hut the sufferer never winedel. De nfterward said that the pain was cracl, late that, as lie was clragged at the tail of the eart, lee remembered loon patiently the eross had been borne up Nomet Calvary, and was so murbigeported by llee thought that, but for the ferm of inemring the suspicion of vanglery, he would have sung a psalm with as tirm und cheerfal a voice as if he hamb heen worshipping God in the eongregation. -Macaulay's Eno., (h. 6, p. 99.
2160. FLOGGING, Excessive. Titus Oates. 「TTi-was flogred seventeen hundred lashes in two days.] Flogging umber the government of James II. became a favorite punishment. -KNiGHI's Eng, vol. 4, ch. 24, p. 387.
2181. FLOWER, Mysterious. Colden Rose. The mission of Miltitz was to deprive Iather of his patron's support, and then to lequ him away to Ifomse To this rind the pupal ninhansador ap-golden rose. 'Tlils wis " "t very prectoine mind "11ysterfons presell," which tho pojer was mecoms

 Milltz was comonlashomed to proment thla golden rose to the filecter of Ansony, to the falent that trate the hast of lirederiok, wo that hemghet re. regard, and he disposed wilh glowhig ardor to entry ente the macred whenes of the Pope. At lanet thes much was expereted In leome prom tho frugraner of tho guldan rose. Irreverent wits remurked, thut if lhe rose had urrived somer in Whemberg les perfume womld lutio heren moro ugremble: for it had lost fis frogranere on thes rh. 6, I. IN.

914is. FLOWERS in Blood. Win of the homes.
 Margaret of Anjom to Ilenry VII.] The Dako of Blourester wasarrested moon ufter on an neensallon of trankon, hind was mext mornlag found protured the remest disgust lin the mimels of the poople ngrainat the groen mad the rordinal of Wine-hestar, amol remered the kimers mone, who was supposid at lemst to commemance these emormities, looth odions mad despleable. It was the time for $n$ compretion to start forth and torvail himself of this general illsatfection to the prince on the throne. This rompetitor was Rlcharel, dake of York, in deseremhant, hy the mother's side, fromi Lionel, who was one of the sons of Edward IIJ., and celder brother to Jolm of (ianant, from whom the present monarel was descemedel. lalelurd, therefore, stood phalaly in right of suseexsuion lufore llenry. Ile hore for his ebsign a White rose, whila I Lenry boren red one ; and this circomstance gave the mame to the two fuctions which deluged Enghand in bleos. - Tromen's IIs'r., 1300 k 6, ch. 14.
2163. FLOWERS, Influence of, Homedwisorth. [The poct's mother diad when he was ritart years old.] I remembere my mother only in some few situntions, one of which was her pinning a nosegny 10 my breast when I was going to caterhism in the chmelh, as was chatommry before Easter. - Mybits Wonnswontu, ch. 1.
216.1. FOGYISM, Judicial, Learning needless. Lard ('amplell says, " I lave hemril the' hate Lord Eillemborough, frem the bench, regret the clange [rechairimg lawyers to plead in Englishinstaml ol latin], on the gromad that it las had the temeloney to make nttorneys illiterate." K nariv's ENa., vol. 6, vh. 4, p. 66.
2135. FOGYISM an Obstacle. Mfunufirtures. An art of 1 bits recites, that the woon mod timber of the crown in the forest of Demn land become totally destround. The manufacture of iron was unperpular. Many sidd, "It were well if there were no iron works in England, and it was better when no iron was made in England; the iron works destroy dll the woods, and forelgn iron from Spain will do hetter and last longer."Kniour's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 1, p. 12.
-1166. FOGYISM unvelled, /iritixh. It Im mut.

If is mow the fashion lo place the gohloll a leatitute af' romifurim the what of while would frestlemelal lanes of ome towns; mal when men dieal fatore lat the lanes of our lowns than they 2lis\%, FOLLOWER, An inferior. limk lim.

 Itexins tol the jarkal, who is alil to follow tho जeps and to devonir the leavinge ol the lion.
 mage af the 'raterustade, the'y were amply rocom

 ing che day, in a prase lome, on llue pration of virtue, whín he ohsorvad his mulitors alropliug silmbley and motasense, whell hamedintely a great erowal gathereal nround him. "Siere," suld la', "low willingly a fion is listemed lo, whern a 2169 . FOLLY incurable. , $/$ (times $/ \Gamma$, Jams'4, an tisual, cmate to the help of hiv entomies. A Helter from him to the comvention had just arrived in lambon, . . No member of either homse valural to propose that a paper which eane from such it guarter should le remd. The combents, lowever, ware well known to nll the town. Ilis Majesty exhorted lime Lords and ('omsmons mot to despair of his clomenery, mad grasciously assured them that he would giardon those who hial betrayed him, some fow excepled. whom he dial not name. How was it possible to domayhing for a prince whos, vampinished, doserted, hanished, living on almes, told those who were the arbiters of his fate that, if they would set himon his throne again, he wombl orily hangr af few of thesm. [After the overthrow of James a eonvention met to dispose of the throne.]- 2170. F0LLY, Learned, Dixputere IPericles was abmed ly his som Nambipurin in his mamnur: ) He exposed and ridiculed the compmy hae kep in his homse man the compersations he held with the philosephers. Ite saill that Epitimius, the Pharvalim, laving underignedly killed a harese with a javelin which he hrew at the pultlie games his father sperat a whole day in disputing with Protugorns which might he properly dermed the canse of his demb-the javelin, or the man that threw it, or the president of the games-- D'lutanchis Pehimes.

2171. FOLLY rebuked. Jow of Arc. At Bonrges, when the woman prayed lier to tomeh evosses and chaplets, she begrn langhing, and said to Dame Darguerite, at whose honse she was staying. "Touch them yourself ; they will be just as good. "-Miciellet's Joan of Auc, p. 25.
2178. FOLLY, Religlous. Figmtian*. Theex.

 the doge or the cont were kiph in His encloned al to their wormbip. Thoy wore ronshantly at-

 "rer they supprised momb wreanhle to their pulate.
 H:

 "romind their lage mind nowks; mal when the Ntas.

 tho whole provinco was tillay wlin lanambitho:

 the proformanter of the mom stmpthons finteral

2178. FOOD, Abominable. Tiertirk. Corn is a brilky und prrivhable: commomity: and tho sary for the sulsisterne of out troopses, finst be teswy tranjported by the lahor of meat or horses.

 supply of tlesh mul milk; in the far greater part of the mandivated wante the vergentlon of the phaces so extromely harren that the harily catto of the North ramot thad some lobemble pasture. 'The supply la maltiplicel and prolomiged by the molistingritshing appetite und putbent ahsthanco of the 'Thartars. They imlitferemtly faed on the tlesh of those anfanile that have bere killed for the table or lave died of diventare. IIorsethesh, which in evary are and eomuitry has been proseribed by the civilizad mations of Einrope and Asia, the'y devour will perouliner gromeliness : and this singular lante lacilitu tes the mareess of their military operntions. I'he netive a malry of Scythis is always followed, in their most distant and rapid incursions, by nu megunte mumber of spare horsas, who miy be ocomsomally used, eilher to redouble the speed or to matisfy tho hamger of the barbarimis. - Gibibox's Romes, ch. © 23 .
217.1. FOOD, Animal. King of the IJwns. Thi dress af Attiln, his arms. mid the furniture of lis. horse were plain, withont ormament, and of atingle eolor. The royal table was surved in wooden cupse mul phateres ; thesh was his only forel: and llee congueror of the North mever tusted the luxiary of leread. - Gimabos's Rosmb, (1). :4.
2175. FOOD, Changes in. Rign of ('hutles II. The rotation of crops was very inporeferily tur-1o kerep [eattle] nlive dhring the semson when the grans is semnty. They wore killed in grent numbers, and salted at the begraning of the eold weather: und during severnl monlis even the gentry tasted scarcely any fresh animal food, except gimennd river fish. In the reign of lIenry VII, fresh meat was never eaten, even by the gemilemen attendant on a great earl, except during the short interval between minlsummer and Michaclmas. But in the conrse of two centuries an improvement hatd taken place; and mader Charles II. it was not till the beginning oi November that fumilies laid in their stock of salt provisions, then called Martimmas becf.-Ma. 'avlay's Eva., eh. 3, p, 293.

2176. F00D, Chosen. Lord Pitheratm. It is reported of Lard pabmerston, the hate prime minister of England, that whenever he enguged a new cook he used to suy to him: "I wish you to prepare what is called a good table for iny guests; bu tor me there must always bea leg of muttonandan apple-pic.". $\qquad$ 1 life like this Lord ${ }^{2}$ almerston letl for difty-seven years, sup) porting bie animal man on such fare nse roast mutton and apple pie. Ilecould not lave done it on turtle and venison, still less on our Ameri can hot bread, buck wheat cakec, and fried meat. --Cycloperda or Bior., p. 499.
2177. F00D, Dangerous. I'wism F'tret. The Indaths. . . brought . . . cakes of a kind of hreal called cassava, which constituteda principal part of their food, and was afterward an important article of provisions with the spaniards. It was formed from a great root called yuen, which they cultivated in fields. This they cut into small morsels, which they grated orseraped, and strained in a press, making a broad lhin cake, which was afterward aried laral, and would keep for a long time, being sterped in water when caten. It was insipid, ent mourishing, though the water strained from it in the preparaion was a dadaly poisea. There was another kind of yuca destitute of this poisonous quality which was eaten in the root, "ither boilod or roasted.-lrving's Colcmars, Book 4, ch. 15 .
2178. F00D, Extravaganse in. Siugiug Birtls. EA opus Clodins, a famous Roman artor, lived in the most lixurieus mamer, and once served up) a dish of singing hirds that cost $$ 4000$ at a binsa fuct- Am. Cyclopedia, " Evorrs."
2179. F00D, Figure by. Spertems. The first intention of their spare diet, a subordinate one, is to make them grow tall. For when the animal spirits are not too much oppressed by a great quantity of food, which stretches itself out in brealth and thickness, they mount upward by their natural lightness and the body casily nond freely shoots up in height. This also contributes to make them handsome; for thin and slender habits yiell more frecly to matere, which then prives a tine proportion to the limbe, white the heavy and gross resist her by their weight.Plutarcis's Lycerges.

2180, F00D, Mind affected by. Mfthemet. [The Arabs relate that the king of Persia. hearing the renown of Mahomet.] asked: "What aliment is he fed upon \%" "Bread and chrese," it was replied. "So I thought," rejoined the monarch, "For milk and dates could iot produce this sub-thety."-Lamartine's 'Turkey, p. 66.
2181. F00D, Poor. Englend. Meat was also cheaper, but was still so denr that there were anndreds of thousands of families who searcely knew the taste of it. In the cost of whent there has been very little change. The average price of the quarter, during the last twelve years of Charles II., was fifty shillings. Bread, therefore, such us is now given to the inmates of a workbouse, was then seldom seren, wen on the trencher of a yeomm or of a shopkerper. The ereat majority of the mation lived almost entirely on rye marley, and omes. - Macaulay's Eva., ch. 3, 1. 391.
2182. F00D, Public. Sipriten Tables. The whole citizens of the republie were divided into vicinages of fiftern families, and carch vicinage had a common lable, where all were obliged todim. . . without distinction of ranksthe kings, semators and maristrates, indiceriminatrely with the people. Itere ail partom of the same homely fare, dresed in the simplest and most frugal manner. At those public bables the bouth nol only learnod modeation and temperance, lat wisdom and grod morals. The conversation was regulated atad preareribed, It thrned solely on surfi subjerets as wemedel to instil into the mints of ther rising scencration the principles of virtue, ame that ather ion for their combtry which characterizes the worthy citizens of every govcmment, but was peroliarly aminent mular the
 ch. 9.
 I never knew any man who relished good mating more than he did. When at table he was totally absorbed in the businses of the moment his looks seemed riveted to hin phate ; mor would he, unless when in very high company, saly one word, or even pay the leait attention to what was salid ly others, till he had satistied his appetite. which was so fierere, and iadule ed with such intenseness, that while in the are of enting the veins of his forela ad swelled, and grenerally a strong perspiration was visible. To those whose sensations were delicate this rould not mut he disgnstiag; and it was donhtless not very suitable to the character of a phibsophaer, who should be distingrished by self-commatal. Boswela's Jomsion, p. 130 .
9181. F00D, Suspicious. Hatering-place. Enig. lam, however, was not, in the se enternth century, destitute of watering-phaces. The arentry of Derhyshire and of the meighboring comaties repaired to Buxton, where they were rowded into low wooden shacls, and regaled with oatrake und with a viand which the hosts called mutton, lout whish the gucses strongly suspected to be dog.-Macathars Enc., ch. 3. p. 3 ?
2185. FOOD, Variety in. Emperor Elaf(f)alus. The invention of a mew satuce was liberally rewarded; int if it was not relished, the inventor was confined to eat of nothinge else till he had discoverd mother more agreable to the imperind palate. -Note in Gbbions: lionte, (ch. 6, p. 1 2).
2186. FOOD, Wonder in. Lomdon. The greatest wonder that Londom presented to a Ni... Ze, lander, who was brought to England some yars ago, was the mystery of feeding an immense population, is he saw neilher catte nor cropis.Knigut's Exa., vol. &, chi. 22, p. 388.
2187. FORCE, Distinguisbed by. Churle: M/wtel. [The deliverer of Europe from the Saracems.] The Arabian fleet might have sailed without is maval combat into the mouth of the Thames. Perhaps the interpretation of the Koran would now be taught in the schools of Oxford: and her pulpits might demonstrate to a cireumeised people the sanctity and truth of the revelation of Mioneret. From such calamities was Christendom delivered by the genias and fortune of one man. Charles, the illegitimate son of the elder Pepin, was cootent with the titles of mayor or lake of the Fronks; but he deserved to become the futher of a line of kines. . . . The epithet of Martel, the Mrommer, which has been added 3n the mane of charles, is exprescive of his weighty and irresistible strokes. - Ganmos's Rome., ch. in.

 thays after the $2 t h$ of April, while returning from Stirling, where she had heen visiting her nom, Bothwell, with a body of his friends, awaitad her at A mond Bridge six miles from Edinhargh. He di.momed from his horee respertfully took bod of the bridal of the tuecens patfry, feigned as slight eompulsion, and conducted his volumary captive to the eastle of Dunbar, of which he was governor, as warden of the borders. There she passed with him eight days, as if suffering viskence, and returned on the sth of May with him to didinturgh, "revigued." she said, "to marry with her consedt him who had dioposed of her hy force." ?luis comedy deceived no one, but saved Mary arom the open acensation of esporsing from choice the assassin of her husband. Bothwell . . . hat three other wives living l3y gold or threats he got rid of two, and he divorced the third: . . . to sceure this divorer, he conseated to be foand guilty of adultery-Lamamtineis Maig Queen of scots, p. 31 .
2189. FOREIGNERS, Antipathy to. Efyptioms. We have seen the Eirypians, a people remarkable for their early cis ilization, for the antiquity of their government, the systematic order of their rivil policy, the wistom of many of their laws, and their singular progress in the arts, at a period when almost all the nations of the carth were sunk in ignorance and barlmrish. It most, therefore, without doubt, appear extraordinיry that, with all these alvantages, the charatere of this people was held extremely low, and even despisable among the rontemperary mations of anticuity. This pecularity may, perhus, be traced up to a single canse. They were a peophe who chose to sequester themselves from the rest of mankind, a d obstinately or fastidionsly refused all correspondenee with other nations. They were not known to them by their conquests; they had no comertion with them by their commerce; and they had a rooted matipatly to the manners, and even to the persoms of all stram-gers.-TYTieer's Histr., Book 1, ch. 4.
2190. FOREIGNERS dishonored. Athens. It was a law at Athens, that every citizen who had it foreigner to his mother should be deemed a bastard, though born in wedlock, and should conserquently be incapable of inheriting his father's estate. - Phetaben's Themistocles, Langhorne's Note.
2191. FOREIGNERS feared. Sparta. [Lycurgus forbid strangers] to resort to Sparti who rould not assign a good reason for their coming ; not, as Thucydides says, out of fear they slound imitate the constitution of that city, and make improvements in virtue, but lest they should teach his own people some evil. For along with foreigners come new subjects of discourse; new discourse produres new opinions ; and from these there necessarily spring new passions and desires, which, like discerds in music, would disturb the established government. He therefore thought it more expedient for the city to keep ont of it corrupt constoms and manners, than even to prevent the introduction of apestilence-P'Pdetrancies Lrecrocs.
2192. FOKGERY confessed. Thed. T- jum the arcession of Philip [ 1.1 .] Rohert, Count of Artois, berame one of the most influential and fowerfal persens in the kingelom, and he determined to make a third attempt to rerower the possessioms of his ancestors. it was not likely, howeore, that the court of Pects would be indured ter rewere its former judgments, exerpt upon the strength of fresh and conelnsive evidence: and the count aceorelingly gave out trot ertain missing documents had lately cothe to light which would cstablish his chim heyoud dispute. The trial proce eded, and Robert sprincipal winness a young lady of Bethune, named Jeanme de Divion, at lengrth produed a packet of papers. which hat hitherto tren secreted, she said, by the late Bishop of Ams, the Friend and minister of the last Comut oi Artois, and phaced in her hamas hy the decensed prehate on his death-berl. Among these papers was a deed ly which the comoty of Artois was formerly bequeathed to l'hilip, son of Rohert M., and father of the present chamant, who woule of course hase succeded as the matural heir. The evidence, however, upon this critisal point being severely sifted, the witnesses hegan to hesitate, grew confusedi, presaricated, contradieted each other, and the Demoiselle de Divion, struck with remorse, at length confessed that she had heen guilty of a wholesale forgery, denomeing at the same time Jeanne of Vabis, Robert's wife, as her aceompliee in the frand. . . . Jeame de Divion was at once condemmed, and paid the forfeit of her erime by being burnt at the stake, together with athers of the perjured witnesises. -steresis' Fbance, ch. 10, s.3.
210;3. FORGERY, Converient. Itmm Em. peror Carimes. A contidential serretary. who had acquired uncommon skill in the art of furgery, delivered the indolent emperor, with his own eonsent, from the irksome duty of cigning his mane.-Gublon's Rome, ch. 12.
219.4. FORGERY, A delusive. Hillimm of On ange. [1Fe hatl insaded Enghad. A manifesto appeared sader the apparent hamd and acal of the prince.] Vengeance alicon from the usages of Christian and civilized nations was denomed arainst all papists who should dare to expouse the rosal callse. They shombld te treated, not as soldiers or gentemen, bat as freebooters. The ferocity and licentonsness of the insading army, which had hitherto been restrained with a strong hand, should be let hose on them. Good Protestants, and esperially those vho inlabited the eapital, wore aljured, as they valued all that was dear to them, and comminded, on peril of the princes highest displensure, to seize, disarm, and imprison their Roman Catholie neirghors. This document, it is said, was found by is Whig bookseller one morning under his shop door. lle made laste to print it. Many copies were dispersed ly the post, and passed rapidly from hand to hand. Discerning mea had nodifticulty in pronomeing it a forgery devised by some moquitt anu moprineipleal adventurer，such as， in troubled times，are always busy in the lonlest and darkest othees of faction．But the maltitude was completely diped．－Macavoay＇s liNa．，ch． 9，p．4！1．
2105．FORGERY，Perilous．luris．A．n． 1412. ［When Nipobleon wis retreating from Mascow，］ an otlierer hy the matme of Mallet forged ant at－ count of the death of Napoleon．Avaling himself of the panis：which the amomerernemt （abused，he gathered aromad hime atew hamdred of the National（imard，amd make the mont athda rious atfompt 10 take into his own hamls tho reigns of powor．＇Theroms，virator，howerer，was 13．，vol．2，（㢈．11．

2198．FORGETFULNESS desired．T $T / \neq 1$ ：st＂ mos．When Simoniles oflered to teals＇Tho rather tratrlate the arl ol forertine forlofter romember what I womlal mot，and cambot forerat
 I．NifhonsE：＇Note．
219\％．FORGIVENESS，Christiar．The Turk． ［Romatmux］tho suocessor＇of（onstantine，jn a plo－ Coman habit．was led into the lowkish divan，and commantlond to kiss the erwerd before the bord lan，starting from his thoone，is sad to have platital his foot on the neek of the laomen em Wp Jr－Van asked him what treatment he expert ＂mperen di－ylaty the frembon of his mind．＂Il it yon livan to prida，yoni will drag me at your combtry．＂＂Intl what，＂rontimmed the sultas） ＂Would have bera your orat hehavior hatid fort－ tune smile on your armas ？＂The reply of the Greek heltys as：atiment which protemo．ibil －ren gratillide，shoult？hate tangrial him to sul）

I Wonld have intlicted om thy looly many a stripe．＂＇Jhe＇Turkish compur－mo miled at the insolence of his caplive；ob－orver that the （＇hristian law inealeated tha love ot ememase and forerivenos of injurus：and mohty declaid that la Womblat imitate all example which me cont

21\＄m．FORGIVENESS for the Dead．Thuler＂

 for a monemy upen las．sarllo mutilated borly strefohed won the gery ficid，amel satid，with －motions which every gemerois latir will ma－ derstand，＂I regret mot having hem ablato speats
 I hat loner forgothen＂vorything．＂－Inamor＂s

2199．FORGIVENESS，Genarous．dwh $H^{\circ}+\infty$ tey．Joseph Jipalford was for many years the travellins（ompanion of the Rev．John Wesley， thed considered bo assistance to him too sarvile， hat was sulbject to changes of temper．Westoy directed him to carry a package of letters to the post：Bratford wished to hear his sermon tirst ： Westey was urgent and insisted；lamdlord re． fused，＂＇l＂hen，＂said Wesley，＂you and I must pilt．＂＂Very goed，sir，＂replied Bradford． Tloy slept aver it．On rising the next morning Westey necosted his old friened and asked if leo had considered what he had satid，that＂they must part．＂＂Yos，sir，＂replied Bradford． ＂Amel must we part ？＂impuired Wresley． ＂lolase yoursell，sif，＂was the reply．＂Will you ask mep pardon＂rejoined Wesley．＂No． sir．＂＂Yon wont＂＂Ňo，sir．＂＂Then I will ask yours：＂replied the great man．Bradford madred maser the evamples，and wept like at

2200.

$\qquad$ ——． Lennix STi．［When Jouin hams，who sint at deputation to ask pation ． lone indignitios which he had suldered while a pris－ oner in that aity，were dismissed with the gromer
 （o）me the King of France for resent the injurioc

2201．FORGIVENESS impossible．INirorm of Josephime．It is the great athl lhe ineffable stain which rests tipen the damater of Napoleon． Josephine the erentle，the lovines，the marnani－ mons，lorgave him．The worli never cati． Naboteon himself was constrained to confess

200．FORGIVENESS，Prospective．Froter－ reminded him at the need ol romlession of sin．］ ＂Well－is thro anylling more＂：Out with it， thers latto now lhan ton late ！＂［And certain come 1 wher revicer．］．．．＂And then there is foreiveness of cmemies ：yomr Majesty is bomal to forgive all mon，or how ran yon ask to be forqiven ？＂＂ 11 ell，J will：I do．You Feekín ［his wile，Queren sophie］，write to your brother
 I lorgave him，diodin jueace witilhim．＂＂better iner Jlajesty should wate at onere＂sugerests Rololf．＂N゙o，afler I am deat，＂persists the son of hature，＂hatat will he salder ！＂An unwedgeable amd gatarled hig block of mamhood and simplicity and sincerity；such as we rarely get sight of among the $\quad$ mexhern sons of $X$ dam，among the： crowned sons moarly never．At paring he said to Rodoff，＂Yon（ $\operatorname{Eir}$ ，Ilo）alo not spare me；it is right．You do your duty like an homest（＇hrisitian vol． $2, \mathrm{pl}$ ，（ixl－（is：）．
2808．FORSAKEN，Justly．Jt 1 mis $/ /$ ．On the morning of the atith［his Protestant danghter］ Anme＇s apartment was fommel cmpty ；the con－ stermation was preat in Whitehall．The hadies of her bedechamber ran wa and lown the courts of the plater，scromang and wringing the io hamels．．．．du the midst of this distress and tor－ ror arried the bews of Prince George＇s flighl． The cormide who brought these ofil tidings was fast followed by the king himself The even－ ing was rlosing in when dames arrived，and was informed that his danghter had disappeared． After all that he had suffered，this aftliction forerd in cry from his lips．＂God help me，＂he said；＂my own ehilelren have torsaken me 1 ＂－ MACALLAY゙s livis．，ch． 9, p． 480.

220:. FORTITUDE, Esteem for. Mucius. [He ratered into the camp of Porsem, a powerful Italian prineer, tonassassinate him. Not knowing which man was Porsema, le killed the wrons man.] L'eon this he was seized and examined. Meantime, as there loppened to be a porable altar there, with tire upen it, where the king was whont to ofler starifice. Hucins thrust his right hand into it; and as the flok was burning, he kept looking upon Porsconal "rith a firme and menaring aspert, umtil the king, astomished at his fortitude, returned him his sword with his own hathe. He revedsed it with his left hatud, from Whenee we are told he hatd the surna me of serereht, which signitios left-handed; an.l thas adTressed himself" to Porsma: "Your threatenings I rerarded mod, but an cotupered by your generusity, and ont of gratitude will dechare to yon What no fore should have wrested from tme. There are three humdred Romans that have taken the same resolution with mine, who bow walk a! bout your emp, watching their opportunity. It was my lot to make the first attempt, mad I am not sorry that my sword was directed by lortume ugainst another, instead of a mam of sio much honor, who, as such, should mather lo a friend than an enemy to the Romans." Porsema believed this areoumt, and was more inclined to harken to terms, mot an much in my opinion through lear of three hamdred ascinsims, as admiration of the dignity of the Roman valor.Phetaben's Pindenia.
2205. FORTITUDE, Puritanic. Muyh Petwers [Once ministar of Sulem. C'ondemned for regi-cide-d math of Charles [.] De was allowed an rotmeil. ... At the gathess he was romperled to wat white the body of his friched ('orks', whe had just bern hanged, was eut down and guartered before his cyes. "How like yon his?" wied the examoner, rubbing his homdy hamds. "I thank (rexl," roplien the martyr, "I am mot terrificed at it : you may doyomr worst." Tohis friendsherail," Werjnot forme; my hate is fall of comfort. "-Baceromers [", A, val. 2 , (h) 11 .
 (ireat was whe agitation of the inhabitants, therelore. when they behed one of the shipestanding up) the river ; but when they learned that she rethened in trimuph from ine discovery of a world, the whole community broke forth intu tramspots of joy. The bedls were runs, the shops shat, ali business was sitspended; for a time there was mothing but hurry and tamalt. some were anxions to know the fate of a rela tive, others of a trimel, and all to leam the particulats of so wonderfal a vasage. When (ob hambas handed, the multitude themered to see and welcome him, and atmad proeession was formed to the prineipal chared, to return thanks to God for so signal a diseovery mate by the people of that place-forgettiag, in their cexilattion, the thonsand dilliculties they had thrown in the way of the enterprise. Wherever Cohmbus passed he was hailed with shouts and acelamations. What a contrast to his departure a few months before, followed by murmurs and execrations : or, rather, what a contrast to his first arrival at Patos, a poor pedestrian, craving bread and water for his child at the gate of a convent ! -Lhung's Columhes, Book 5, ch. 5.
2207. FORTUNE, Contrasts in. Inheritence. " ILow differen:," stitl the younger And"onicus, " is my situmtion from that of the son of Philip! Alexander might comphain that his fither wonld leave him nothing to compure ; ahs! my grame sire will leave me nothing to lose."-GMmos's Home, ch. 63.

220d. FORTUNE, Favors of. ('hurlis l'. The: siege of Metz is one of the most memorable episodes in the strugqle betwen the rival houses of Francenal Anstria. For two montlis the Improialists. . . battered the walls with a ceatseless fammonade, and exhansted atl other resomeres of the art of war, with a total want of sumpess. The defenders repaired by night We heaches effered by the enomy dhring the day. . . . Thomsamels were slatn ly the well-rlireeted fire from the ramparts; and as the winter alvanoed, the hesiegers sutfered still greater losses from the pitiless severity of the weather, from sickness, hardship, and famine. The siege become at length evirlently hopeloss ; and (Tharles, bitterly observing that "Fortume, like the rest of her sex, fivored the young and nerglected those advamed in years,"
 (1. $15, \ldots 4$
12009. FORTUNE, Forsaken by, $L$ (mis X $/ V^{\top}$. Loulis reeeived the news of the disheartening reverses [of his forees at blenheim nod Ramillies] with momoved composure. Ilis behavior to the matortmate marshal V'illeroi was magmanimoms. " Housicur le Marechal," said the king, when be made his appotimmee at Vorsailles. ${ }^{\prime}$ at ontr are one is mon longer fertmate."——rements'

22: FO. FORTUNE reversed, W whe of Erter. Atter the trimmph of the Vorkists Edward IV. Wis rowned, and Lanemstrians went into "xile aml lowert: " homs of them," saty ('amines, "were reduced to suchestremity of Want before the buke of Burgumdy rexedyed them, that mot common bergat conld have hern ingreater: f w one of them, who was Duke of Exctor, but who concoaldellis hatme. follow ing the Dukn of Burentaly's tran hamefont and hate-larged, dowging his bread from daor to doos. 'This matn wis mest of the hombe al' Lam(atstar: hat marrimd Kingr Edwards sister ; and being afterward known. hand a small pronsion Einc.. vol. 2, (h, 10, 1r, 1j1
22:11. ——. Dimtax. L Kacking of ('on stamtiongle lyy rrusulers.| llis stately pabam hat! been redured to whes - amd thi semator [ Nicrets], with his fimily and friemds, fommen ohsorme shelter in another house, which he pos sessed near the chareh of st. Soplisa. It was the doon of this mean habitation that his friemd. the Venctian merelant, suarded in the disguise of a soldiar, till Nicetas could save, by apre(ipitate dight, the relies of his fortane and the chastity of his danshter. In a cold. wintry satson, these fugritives, nursed in the lape of prosperity, departed on foot: his wife was with Whild; the desertion of their slaves comperlled them to carry their baggage on their shoulders; and their women, whom they placed in the centre, were exhmed to conceal their beanty with dirt, instend of adorning it with paint and jewels. Every stoj was exposed to insult and dan-ger.-Ghbinon's Rome, ch. 60.

2LI2. FORTUNE, Reverses of. Begfar. Jolm of Cuphadocin. whose ations land deserved a thomsame deatha, was at last rombemmed for a erime of which he was inmorent. I great minister, who hatd beren invested with the homors of consulamd patrician, was ignominionsly seourged like the vilest of malefactors: a tatrered rloak was the sole remmant of his fortmone; he was transported in a tark tothophore of has tanisho. ment at Antinopolis in Eper Eqgyt, and the prefect of the bast berged his bread thromerh the rities which had membled at his mane. - (immnox's lomme ch. 40 .

2LI:3. FORTUNE, Sensitiveness of. Timotheun. The enconies o" Timothems aweribed all his suceress to fortume, and got a pioture drawn in whic. he was represented asleep, mad Fortune by his side fakiner citios for himin her net. Upon this lac gave way to an indecent passion, and complained that le was robbed of the glory due to his achievememts. Vay, afterward, on his return from a certain expedition, le adelressed the people in these terms: "My follow-citizens, yon mast acknowledge that in this Formme lus no share." It is said the gooldess pigued herself so far on bedige revengred on this vanity of Timotheus, that he could never do anything extmordimary afterward, but was battled in all lis undertakings, and became so obmoxious to the people that they banished him. - Plerameris SyLha.
2214. ERAUD, Gigantic. Simth sire Sileme. [In July of 1720 ] the crowds of those that possess the redecmable annuitios is so great that the bank... lans been foreed to set tables with clerks in the strects. The $£ 100$ shares went up to $£ 1000$ in August. [The company sought to lessen the number of their competitors. A panic ensued.] By the middle of September holders of Sonth Sea Stock were crowding the Exchange, not as buyers, hat as more eager sellers. The stock was at 8,00 on the 18 th of August; in a month it lad fallen to 410.

En the 29th of September . . . it was $17 \%$. [The comstermation was inexpressible; thousands of families were reduced to beggary ;] merchants. lawyers, physicians, clerey, passed from their dream of fabulous wealla and from their wonted comforts into poverty. Some died of broken hearts, others witholrew to remote parts of the world, ind never returned. [The sufferers reproandacd every one but themselves who songht sudden waith by grambling rather than loy work.]-KNinit's ENG., vol. 6, ch, 3, p. 40.
2215. FRAUN, Governmental. Churles $I I$. The first oloject of charles was to oltain from the Commons staplies which might he employed in excentins the secret treaty [with France].

It was necersary to have recourse to frand. The king accordinery professeri ancai rat for the principles at the Triple Alliance, and pretomded that, in order to hond the ambition of Francer in chacek, it would be necessary to andement the fleet. The Commons fell into the sume, and voied a gramt of $£ 800,000$. The Parlament wats instantly prorogned; and the court. thas emancipated from control, proceded to the exerntion of the great design.-Macaliay's Exfi., ( ${ }^{2}, 2,1$, 2t) 2216. FRAUD, Suspicions of. First Cuhle. This was placed upon two ships, which were to moert in mid-oeran. They did mert: the two embls of the cable were joimed and latid down suceressfully. At the Newfommalland end four lumdrad messages were received from Einoope, when the eurrent herame weaker and weaker, and timally consed tomake ney mechanleal move. ment. On this sidr people were sceptienl ; few belineved that any mossage had been sent at all; they :onked upon the whole thing as a gigantie
 1. 26 .
2417. FRAUD in Trade. "I Iomest Lerther." [ In liab larliamont passed] acts to protect the pmblia against the frmmes of money-making tradesmen: to provide that shoes and boots shonhid be mate of loonest leather ; that food should be sold at fair prices; that merchmats shomld part with their roods at fair protits. Kxigur's Exa., vol. 2, ch. 23, p. 369.
2218. FREEDOM, Determined for, William Whellure. Wallace in September, 1297, encomped near Stirling, the pass between the north and the sonth, and awated the Englisit alvance. It was here that he was fomal by the English army. The offors of John of Wireme were scornfully rejected. "We have come". suid the Scottish lader, " not to make joace, but to free our country." The position of Wallace behind a loop of Forth was, in fict, closen with consummate skill. The one bridge which crossed the river was only lroad cuongh to admit two horsemen abreast ; and though the English army land been passing from daybreak, lat lonlf its force was neross at noon, when Wallace closed on it and cut it, after a short combat, to pieces in sight of its comrades.-MINT. OF ENG. Peoille, § 291.
2219. FREEDOM of Speoch. In Parliament. [James I. attempted a despotism in the government of England.] On the 18th of December, 1681, the Commons deliberately recorded their opinions in a memorable protestation, in which they solemmly athrmed that the liberties and jutrisdictions of Parliament are the ancient and undonbted birthright and inheritanee of the subjects of England ; that the affats of the king and the State, of the defence of the realm, and of the Church of England, the making of laws, the redress of grievances, are proper sibbjects of debate in Parlament ; that in handling such business every member of the Honse lath, mad of right omght to latve, freedom of suecels; and that every member hath like freedom from all impeacinment, imprisomment, and molestation, except by the censure of the llouse itself. KNinit's ENa., vol. 3, ch. 24, p. 38:.
2420. FRIEND, Chosen. Aleartuder's. IIephostion was the constant companion of his pleas. ures, and dear to him through the sweetness of his matare; they were nearly of the same age, but Itephastion was the more handsome. When tysigambis, the captive mother of Darius, entered Clezander's tont, she threw herself at Ilephasstion's fed ; he modestly retired, and the empress felt ahashed at her mistake. The wemerons eongueror said, "You have mot crred, madam, for he too is Alexamber marched throterh l'i a wiblen , .ang leave है। know of ench prople whether they would have him pass as a friend or as an enemy. All the rest rereived him with tokens of friendship, mad showed him all the civilities in their power on his way : but the Trallians, of whom Nerses is said to have bought a passage, demanded of Agesilans 100 talents of silver, mad as many women. Iteanswered the messenger ironically, "Why did not they then come to receive them At the same time, he marched forward, and findiar them drawn up to oppose him, he gave them battle, and ronted them with great shanghter. Ite sent some of his people to put the same gubetion to the King of Macedon, who answered, "I will consider of it." "Let him consider," said he; "in the mern time we mareh." The king, surprised tund awed by his spirit, desired bal's.

2222. FRIEND, Obsequious, (ifsart's. Oneobsequions semator proposed that every woman in Rome should be at his disposition, and tilthy libels agrinst him were set tloating moder the surface. The objest, he perfectly understood, " was to draw him into a position more and more invidious, that he might the sooner perish."Fhoede's Camak, eh. 26.
2223. FRIEND in Sickness, A. Prince of Orange. [seized by the small-pox.] The public constermation was great. . . . IIs escape was attrib). uted partly to his own singular edmanimity, and partly to the intrepid and indefatigable friendship of Bentiack [a noble Batavian]. From the hamds of Bentinck alone William took food and medicine. By Bentinck alone William was lifted from hed and laid down in it. "Whether Bentinck slept or not while I was ill," said William to Temple, with great tenderness," I know not ; but this I know, that, through sixtern days and nights, I never once called for anything but that Bentinck was instantly at my side. [Bentinck took the disease, but recovered.] [Sec No. 2235.] - Macaulay's Eng., cla. 7, p. 15̃̃.
2224. FRIEND, A sordid. Oliver Goldsmith's. [He went out to see the world, and fell short of cash to return home. Called on an ohd " friend." I again renewed the tale of my distress, and asked "how he thought I , ould travel above a hmodred miles upon one half crown?" I berged to borrow a single guinea, which I assured him would be repaid with thanks. "And you know, sir," said I, "it is no more than I have done for you." To which he firmly answered, "Why, look you, Mr. Gohdsmith, that is neither here nor there. I have paid you all you ever lent me, and this sickness of mine has left me bare of eash. But I have bethonght myself of a converance for you; still your horse, and I will furnish you a murl betfer one to ride on." I readily grasped at his proposal, and berged to see the nagr; on which he led me to his bed-ehamber, and from under the bed he pulled out a stont oak stick. "Here he is," suid he ; "take this in your hand, and it will carry you to your mother's with more salfety than such a horse is you ride." I was in donbi, when I got it into niy hand, whether I should not. in the first place apply it to his phate.-Inving's Golensmitu, ch. 3. p. 34.
2t25. FRIEND, A welcome. Latiay itte. At last the Republicans of Framer, displemsed with the double-dealing of their govermment, berm to embark for America. Foremost of all came the gallant young Marquis of Lafayctle. Thomgh the [French] king withheld permission, thourh the British minister protested, though finmily: aud home and kimlred beckoned the youthini nobleman to return, he left all to theht the battleof freedom in another land. Fitting a vessed at his own expense, he cluded the oflicers, and with the brave De Kall amd a small company of followers reached Georgetown, Sonth Carolina, in 22248. FRIEND, A wounded. "Stowezeull Jucksom." [On the ded of Nay, 1863, he led a hestructive attack on the right wing of Gencral Hooker's Union army.] As night came on, with ruin impending over the Federal army, the brave Confederate lender, riding through the gathering darkness, received a colle'y from his oren liues, und fell mortally woumded.-Ridirati's U. S., ch. 6i5, p. 518.

2227. FRIENDS in Battle. Locked their Shields. Being placed together anong the hemvyarmed infantry, and fighting with the Areadians, that wing of the Lacedrmonians in which they were gave way, and was broken; whereupon Peclopidas and Epaminondas locked their shields together, and repulsed all that attacked them, motil at last Pelopidas, haviag received seven large wounds, fell upon a henp of friends and enemies who hay dead together. Epaminondas, though he thought there was no life left in him, yet stood forward to defend his body and his arms, and being determined to die rather thata teave his companion in the power of his enemies, he engrged with numbers at once. Ile was now in extreme danger, being wounded in the breast with a spear and in the arm with a sword, when Agesipolis, King of the Lacedamonians, brought succors from the other wing, and, beyond all expectation, delivered them both.-Plétasen's Pelopidas.
2228. FRIENDS, Complemental, Lutly Church. ill-Princess A nue. Differences of taste, understanding, and disposition are no impediments to friendship, and . . the closest intimacies often exist between minds each of which supplies what is wanting to the other. Lady Churchill was loved and even worshipped by Anne. The princess could not live apart from the object of her romantic fondness. She murried, and was a faithful and even an affectionate wife ; int Prince George, a dull man, whose chief pleasures were derivil from his dinner and his bottle, wequired over her no intluence comparable to that rxereised by her female friend, and soon gave himself up with stupid patience to the dominion of that vehement and commanding spirit by which his wife was governed. [ilso see No.

2429. FRIENDS, Discouraging. Luther's. "Go to your cedl and pray, my brother, that the Lord will have merry mon you"-thus said many a one that thought so vast an umbertakingr by an insiguiticant monk against the pope-of whose might and intlume kings were afraidwould surely come to grief. "Dy dear Brotiter Martin," said an aged Westphalian clergynan, "if you can do away with purgatory and the trafle in indulgenses, you are indeed a great man! ! . . . Lathers prior and sub-prior cante and entreated him not to bring reproach upon his order, for the other arders were nlemuly lemping with joy, saying that they were not the only ones guilty of offences, but that now the Augnstiminus ware also in the the and bearers of shane. Lather replicil to them, "Dear fat thers, if this work has not treen begm in (gorl's mane, it wift soon come to manght ; hut if it has heen bermin in Ilis mane, then let lim rule as He will!"-Reis's hatuen, rh. 4, p. $4 \pi$.
2230. FRIENDS, Faults of. N 1 poleon $I$.
 presented] to all the compmions [ who had chose"n to go into exile with himp aml the domesties of the Emperor, stating that they were at liberty to leave si. Ifema and return 10 Europe if they wished to do so. If they desired to remain they were required to summit to all the restriotions which might be imposed upon the cmperor, and remaning on the drea y rock daring the lifetime of the emperor. All promptly signed it [to remain] but Generad Bertand. IIfs lesitation womded the feelings of the emperor. He simply remarked, however, "Bertrand is always the same. Although he constantly speaks of going, when the time comes he will not have the courage to leave. We must be able to love our fricnds with all their fimalis."-Abmerters Napoleon, vol. 2, ch. 31.
2231. FRIENDS, Unlike. Intifit, - Burmt. Halifax and Bumet had long been om terms of friendship. No two mun, indeed, could resemWe cach other less. Burmet was ut', riy destibute of delicacy and tact. Halifan's tinte was fistidious, and his sense of the ludicrous morbidly guick. Burnet viewed every act and every (hamater through it mediam disiorted and eolored by party spirit. The temdency ol thatifax's mind was always to see the lantis of his athes more strongly than the fantes of his opponents. Burnet was, with all his infirmities, amb through all the virissitudes of a life passed in ciremmstances not wery faw mble to piety, a sincerely pious man. The secptima mat sareastic halitix laly under the imputation of indidelity. Halifias, therefore, often incurred Burnct's indignamt ernsure, and Burnet was often the but of Ibalifas keen and pelished phasatry. Ye they were hawn to certh other ly a matnal atration, likedl ath otherss oonversation, appreciated eard other's abilities, interchanged opinions freely, and interchangerl also good ollices in peribois limes. |lond Halilax was a statesman, and Bi-hop Burnet the religions adviser of Quem Mary.]-Dacallay's Evis., ch. 9, p. 499.
2232. FRIENDSHIP applauded. Nicpelemi $l$. [In 1 R0) there was a notable meeting of kings: and emperors at Erfurth. Princes and contiers were mumerous.] The town was ithmimated. A tragely developing the moblest tratis of haman mature was performed ly the most anom phished artors of Frame. [Emperor] Alexamder [of Russia] sat by the side of Napoleon. Is the semtiment was expressed from the stage,
"The friendship of a great man is a gilt from the gods!"
Alexamder gracefully rose, took the hand of Napoleon, and bowing satid, "I experience the truth of that sentiment to-day." An instinetive burst of applanse from a pit full of princes, nobles, and kings shook the walls of the theatre. -Abbutr's Napoleun B., vol. こ. ch. З.

22:3:3. FRIENDSHIP, Commanding. Rigign of Jamestil. Ever since the reign of Edwaril III. the 'Talbots had sat mangr the perers of the realm. . . The Earl of Shrewshary was Charles Talhot.] His pur was pleasing, his temprer singularly swe his parts such as, if he. hand luen horn in at imble rank, might well have raised him to the la ight of civil greathess. All these ndvantages her had so improved, that before he was of age he was atlowed to be one: of the tinest gembemen and tinest seholars of his time.... though his principhes were mistemdy, his impulses were so generons, his temper si bland, his manners so gracions and ensy, that it was impossible not to lowe him. He was emy athed the King of Hemrts, and never, through a longe, eventhol, mad cherkered life, lost his right to that mume.-Mtearlay's Ext., di. s, 1. 296.

22:3.1. FRIENDSHIP, Complemental. IFilliims of Ormenfe. [see No. 20.35.] The friends [Wilhimm and Bentinck] were indeed made for cach other. William wanted neither aguide nor a thattrer. Having a firm and just reliance on his own judgment, he was not partial to counsellors whor dealt much in suggestions and objertions. At the same time, be hatd too much discermment amb too much clevation of mind to be gratitied by sycophancy. The contidant of such a pance ought to be a man, not of inventive remins or commaming spirit, but brave and Tithfiul, (cipabhe of exerenting orders punctuntia; of kepping secrets inviolably, of observing facts vigilamty, and of reporting them truly : and sum a man was Bentinck.-Macaliay's Exti, (h. 7.1 1. 1.9).

2-2:3.5. FRIENDSHIP, Confidential. Hilliem,

 Whom wom his admirers erneratly areomed the mos distant and frigid of men here forgens all dintiactions of ramk, and pours out all his frethers with the ingemuonsness of a shoobthor. Ho imparts without reserve secrets of the highat moment. Ile explains with perfect simplicity vant de ighs affecting ath the gevermments of Fiurope, Mingled witil his communications (1n such subjects are other commanications of a ver different, hat pert is mot of a lose inter. - ting kind. All his adventures, all his persomal feelings, his lomg rum after chomous stige, his caromials on st. Wuberts diy, the grewth of his plantations, the failure of lis melons, the state of his stud, his wish to procu an ansy pul-mage for his wife, his vexation at lemrning that one of his homshold, after ruining agirl of good family, refused to marry her, his tits of sea-sickmes, his' (romghs, his healaches, his devotiomad moods', his gratitude for the Divine protection after a great essale. his struggles to submit himself to the Divine will after a disastar, are descrihed with an amiable marrulity harity to have been expected from the mosi disered and sedate staterman of the age.-Macachav's Eng., ch. \% 1. $15 \%$.

22:36. FRIENDSHIP, Confirmed. By Money. Frederick,. . . hae Elector of Saxony-a bohl man and a hard drinker, . . . was hought into the confederacy [against the encroachments of France under Louis XIV.] by the promise of money. "For," said he, " wus friendships, though everso good, must be contirmed hy presents."KNult's ENa, vol. 5 , (ch. 8,1 . 134 .
2237. FRIENDSHIP by Contrast. Froldrid the (ircet. [The inthled] . . Marguress D'Argens was mong the king's favorite compmaions, on incorant, as it would serom, of the strong opposition between their charabers. The parts of D'Areme were good and his mamores those of a thishod Freuch gronteman; lat his whole sond was dissolved in sloth, timidity, and sell-indulgeme. . . Ile was the slate of dreamsamd omens -would not sit down to the thble with thirtern in eompany, thmed pale if the salt fell toward him, berger his guests mot to crose thair knives and forks on their platers, and would not for the woid eommence a journey on Friday. Dis health was a subject of consiant anxioty to him. Whenever his heal ached or his pulse beat puick, lis dastardly ferars and effeminate premmations were the jest of all Berlin. All this suited the king's purpose admirably. He wamed somelonly hy whom he might the momed, and whom the might despise. When he wished to pass luaf an homer in easy, polished conversation, D'Argens was an exrellent companion; when he wanted to vent his spleron und contempt, D' $\mathbf{A}$ rgens was an excellent butt. - Macachay's Frederick mate Gheat, p. 5is.

2223*. FRIENDSHIP, Controlling. Alextude ${ }^{\circ}$ Pope. Pope resembled one of the inferior bodies of the solar system, whose orbit is ilependent ppon that of some more massive planet ; and having beren at satedlete of swift, he was now swept into the train of the more imposing lbolinghroke. -Myer's Wordsworiti, ch. 7.
22:39. FRIENDSHIP, Inseparable. Jigmicme I. [After his burial at Sit. Helenal] the hevoted homseloold of Napoleon sadly embarked for Enrope. . . One of their number, however, SorErabt IInbert, in the enthasiasm of his deathfoss devotion, redised to abmadon even the grave af the emperor. For ninctern years he rontimued at st. Ifelena, daily guarding the solitary lombl ; and when . . . they were remowed io pepere on the banks of the seme bermath the fome of the Imvalides. . . . hais fathful mevant hallowal them to their last mesting-jlace. - In Jurn' Simoleos 13., vol. : ch, 31 .

22 10. FRIENDSHIP, Perilous, Jomit burns. [Winh smagelers and allonturors at Irving.]
 alsequintance of a freer mammer of thinking amel living that he hat bern tised to, whone somety prepared him for owerleaping the homble of rigid virtue which had hifhertor restrained him." ()ne (ondmanom, a sation land of wild life and bome and irrequmar habits, had a womberful fasdination for Burns, who admired him for what he thought his indepermbenor and marnanimity. " He was," says Burus, " the only man I evip kitew who was a greater fool than myself where Woman was the presiding star ; but lis spoke of hawless love with levity, which hitheren I had regigrded with horror. There his friendatiop ded me co mischitf'."—SHAkP': BtRNs, ch. 1.
2241. FRIENDSHIP repaired. Somuel dohnson. Ihe suid to Nir Jushua hayoold.: "If a man does not make new acquantance as he advances through life, he will andol find himself left alone. A man, sir, should bade his lriend-
 p. 80 .
 luve onte of his school letters, in whirh har repromeloss one of his lipicmeds for beemiminer his last letter " My dear Jyon," instrad of ". My dearest Jyyrom." Ia the defence of his firiende hie was a very valant champon. One of them being wrak from arerent sickness was ill-titted to hght his way in a prent connonise of rongh bogs, mad Byroin said to him: ". Iarness, if any one bullies yom, tell me, mad I'll thrash him if I ran." Ite kept his worl, und the two buse re-

24.13. FRIENDSHIP, Treacherous. J $/ 7 m$ m $l$. [ In 1616 Jumes J. ordered the arrest of the Ear] of Somerset, one his lavorite, on suspiajon of a eomanertion with the murder of 'Thomas ( Orarbury, in the 'Tower.] Tho king had a lomblome way of lolling his arms about his finvorites' nocks, mad kissing them. In this prosture the messenger with the warrant fombl the king with Somerser, suying, "When shall I wer them ngain!". . Somerset exthimed that never surl an atlront was offered to a perer of England in presence of the king. "Nily, man," said tho king ; "il" (oke" (the Lord (hind Jastiore) "sends ler me, I must mo;" and whin he was gone: "Now may the Ibere go wilh there" said the king, "for "will nover ace thy fine any 22A4. FRIVOLITY, Shameful. ('h"rles I I 。 The Jutch theet sabled inp the Thames and burnad the ships of war which hay at (Chatham. It Was said that on the very day of that ereat hat miliation the king frasted with the lardies of lis seraglio, and amberl himself with hamting Exti, (ll. : , j. 170 282.15. FRUGALITY, Misapplied, $\quad(/ / 11 / 1 \times I I$. Our relations with lioreigu condrts hat berol put on the most reonemiad footing. Inthis frusality there was nothing latulable: Charles was, as thenal, nitrgatly in the wrome plate, and viere was starved that rourtiers misht be pampered. The expense of the naty, of the ordnather, of pemsions to nerely old oflicers, of mis. sioms to forefign courts, mist seem small indered to the prement grencration ; lout the persemall lavorites of the sovereign, his ministers, and the eratures of those ministers were gorged with 20~。

2:216. FRUGALITY, Plan of. Irivi Printer. of laving imbonden," lave hearelhim redate. wats an Jrinh painter, whom he knew at Birmingham, and whohad practised his owan preceptsof eqomomy for several years in the Britind eapital. Ihe ansurtel Johman, who, I suppose, wa, then meditating to try his fortume in Lomdon. hat was apprehensive of the expense, " that f"30 a yort Wamenough tornable a manto live there without beiner contemptible. Heallowed flll for elothes and linen. Ife said a man might live in a garret at 18 el. a week: few people would inquire where he lodged : and if they did, it was easy to suy, "Sir. I am to be found at such n place." By sombe hours avory day la vary good compuny ; lar might dlae for tif., brenkfast on bremal amb milk for a pernay, and do without supper. (On clan-skirt-diy lie went abrond and puid visits. - Bonwethís Jounson, 1. Dib.
2247. FUNERAL oritioised, (ff C'hurles /I, [lumer reigin of his brother Immes II.] The fimeral adled forth mutel remsume. It wonde, indered, hardly lave beern aceominted wortly of n moble amd opaleme sul)ject. The Tories gently hhmad the now kinges parsimony; the Whigs sheered at his want of mataral differtion ; mad the thry Covamoters of Scothand exultingly pro. chatmed that ther couse demomerer of old agrimst wioked princes hati been signally faltilled, and that the departed lyrant had heren buried with the hurial of nu ass.-Dtacivian's Exa., (H. 4, 1. $41: 3$.
24.8W. FUNERAL Customs. From the Ro. maths. Otir fumeral images and customs are Romman- the cypress abl the yow, the Howars strewn upon the graves, the black formourning. -Kntint's ENu., vol. 1, (l). 3, j. 49.
22.15. FUNERAL, An expensive, Q"ef Morys. The funcral lof Quern Mary rost 174.
2050. FUNERAL, Fatal. Ciotorge C'mming, I'remier. 'The fancral of the lonke of York took phace at Windeor on the night of the eboth of Jamary, . . . 'The C'abinet ministers were marshalled hy the heralds in the nave of st. George's Clmael two homs before the arrival of the funcral procession. The night was hitterly cold. As we onrselves looked down from the organ loft upon the greatest in the lamd, thus domand to stand upon the wnmatted pavement, shivering. and shilting thoin uncasy positions, weobserved the oldent man in the Cabinet taking bery wise precations lor his persomal comfor mad safery. One who was hy the side of Mr. gestion to the chamereblor that ha should lay down his cocked hat and stame upon it. The chancellor's hembth was proserved by this pre(antion. The funcmal of the duke proved fatal to Mr. Canning. He canght a cold there whicd resulted in an fllness from whirll he never really reconered.-KNiartes EN(i., vol. 8, ch. 11, p. 202.

22Si. FUNERAL, Honors of. Julius ('irsulris. Part proposed to carry it to the Temple of Jupitor, in the Capitol, and to burn it muler the (eves of the assassins ; part to take it into the Sernate homse and use the mereting-plate of the Optimates a seronad time as the pyre of the peopless friemb. A few legiommies, perhaps lo spare the city a menerad comblagration, advisod that it should be consumed where it lay. The phat form was lorn up) and the broken timbers piled into a hatp. Chair: and benches were thrown on to it, the whole rowal rushing wildly to add : chip or splinter. Artors thang in their dresses, mandrims their instmments, sobliers their swords. Women adeled their neckilares and warfs. Dothers brought of their ehabdren to contribute loys and playthings. On the pile so composed the body of Caesar was reduced to anhes. The remains were colleceded will atfeetiomute rare and deposited in the tomb of the C'esurs, in the C'mmpus Martins.-Fbotimis (CFMAI, Ch. 2\%.

 of fimernl rites they comsidered ns one of the greatest enhanities. The Eugypthans did not, like most other mathos, consign the bolles of thedead todestruction; they presorved them hy extrandinary solemoty. But these fancral honors ware never hestowial maless in virtue of $n$ soleman and judichal derere. A eoturt composed of forty jublires granted laejr warmat lor every funcral. 'l'be chanalarol' the decemsed was rig. ormasly investignted, mul if may criminal or ineproper comdurt was proved, the customury lonors wore rediased to him. If his life had been virtuous mul exompt from wll blame, u publia: punegytic was fromonneral on his memory, mud permission was granted for the ismal combulming and obsequices. The most singuhar and at the same time the most admiruble ciremmstance attemding this custon 1 was, that the soverejgns themsedves, thongh vemerated daring their lives with un nlmost silperstitionts regitre, which forbude all serutiny juto their actions, were yet after denth subjectat to the same rigorous and impurtial inguest wibl the memnest of their sulb. jecets; ind l ionorus assures us that some of the Eagptian kings had bean deprived of funeral $0^{\prime}$. segitios, and their momories thas consigned to inlamy, by the jurgment of that solemm tribu-2253. FUNERAL, Humble. Pompey. [His assussimators] ('ut off his head and cast his maked borly woon the wand, where $n$ faithfal slave wha had attended him, stenling to the phace during the silence of the night, madea small fumeral pile from the fragments of $a$ boat, and burnt the body, anrying the ashes to Cordelia.- 'l'y tlea's Mis'., 13ook 4, cli. $\underset{2}{ }$, p. 410.

2655. FUNERAL, Immense. Ibroham Lin. coln. ['lhe funeral eortegestoppod ut Now York en ronte for springtield. III. The remans of the assussimated President were exhibited at the City Jall.] Al] through that day [Apri] 2.t, 1866] und the succeoding night the endless strean poured in, while ontside the Park, Brondway, and the phtire area of Printing lonase Stuare, reaching ap) (hatham Stret and East Brondway, as far as the rege conlal see a vast throng of people stoml silent and bopreless, but still expectant, of a chame tornter and see the body of the murlered I'resileme. Not less than 150,000 persons ohtained affmiscion, and not less than twice dut mumbor hiod watod for it in vain. . . On the 25th, . . . exerorted by the finest military display pere seen in Now York. and followed in procission ley grent nombers of ber citizens, the car moved throngh the principal streets. $\dot{t}$ the depot.-lisymonds LIN(OHN, ch. 21, 1. 710).
2255. FUNERAL, Impressive, Jnlins Castro's. ('asar's body, after rimaining till evening on tha Hoor of the Semato-honse, had heen carried home in the dask in " litter by threre of his servants. and was now lying in his palace. If it was not to be thrown into the Tiber, what was to be done with it? . . . Though Chece had adviscel in the Senate that the discussion whether Casar had deserved death should not be raised, yet it was plain to him and to every one that, mitess C'asar

Was held gulty of conspiring ugainst the ('onstltuthon, the mirider was and would be regarided us $n$ mont execrable crime. Ite drendend the effert of a publife fimeral. . . 'Ther baly was bromerht down to the Formonad placed upen the Rostris. The dresu had not lerell changed; the gown, ga-hed with daurers mid soaked hin bood. was still wrapped abom it. The will was rend first. "iecrosatid: . . "'Poward the geds he was High l'riest. 'To som he way Consul ; to the army he wa lmprator: to the enemies of his come try, Di-tators. In sum la' was Phator latrife. Suld this your father, your Ponthex, the hero.
 - tleal, mat by disemse or mere, not by war or visitation of God, but here at home, by eomspirary within your own walls, shan in the semate hoinse, the warrior umarmed, the paremaker maked to his foes. The righteons jutere in the seat of judgument. He whom no forizn enemy could hart has been killed hy his fellow-comin-trymen-lie, who had so often shown meres, by those whom he had spared. Where. Chesar, is your love for mankind? Where is the sucredness of your life? Where are your laws: Here you lie inurdered-here in the Formm, throurh which so often you marched in trimmph wremthed with garlames ; here upon the Rostra from which you were wont to address your people. Alas for your gray latirs dabbed in howed! mas for this lacerated robe in which you were wressed for the samerite !"-Fhotine's Cowsan, ch. 2 i .
2256. FUNERAL panegyrics. C'riticised. It was an ancient cutom in the funcrals, us well as in the triumphs, of the Jomans, that the voice of praise should be corrected by that of satire mol ridienle ; and that, in the midst of the splendid prigeants, which displayed the glory of the living of of the demb, their imperfections should tum tre pomemaled from the ryes of the world. This custom was practised in the funeral of Jutian. The eomedians, who resomed his contempt and aversion for the thentre, exhibited, with the applanse of a Christian modience, the lively mid exagernoled represemation of the fianlis und follies of the dereased emperor. His various character and singular manners iforded sumple seope for phasiatery and ridionde. In the exercise of his uncommon talents he often descended below the majesty of his ramk. Alexander was transformel into liogenes; the phiiosopher was derraded intisapiest. The purity of his virtue was sullied hy exeressiw vanity; his superstition disturbed the peare and embangered the safety of a mighty empire ; mad his irrexular sallies were the leses entithed to imblalgence, as they apmared to be the laborions offorts of art, or even of atfectation. Ther remains of Jolian were interred at Tarsus in ('ilicia ; his stately tomb arose in that city, on the banks of the cold :and limpid ('ydmus.-(Emmos's Rome, -h. ${ }^{2} 4$.

22:57. FUNERAL, Patriotic. Bustum, A.d. 1750. A mumbry of boys chased Richardson [an informer] to his own house and threw stones. Provoked but uot embangered, he tired among them and killed one of eleven yars old, the son of a poor German. At his fumeral five humbred children walked in front of the hior ; six of his school-fedows hedd the pill: and mon of all ranks moved in proerssion from Lilherty 'Iree to the 'Town Honse, and thenere to the "' harying. plare." Nohdiers and sillerers looked om with 41.

2LS5N. FUTURE LIFE, Bollefin. firmilx. [With the Gimis) it was a common practice to contract dehtes with a stipulation that they should be payable in the next stage of existenere Henee, latters were thrown upon the fineral pile, that the dereased might carry to his rehatives ami fricols in Parmilise information of the wishes nud prorevelings of those who remaned on enrth. And thas, "pon the denth of a chieftuin, whatever he had most valued in this life-urmor, ormments, horses, dogs, sometimes even his honsehold ser-vimis-were either burned ar interred with him. that he mirht resume his treasures at his cotrance ou a higher sphere.-Stubents' France, chi I, $\leq 10$.
22559. - Prains. Man heromess sulijert to death in ronsequence of his sims; but when the period urrives that the whole inhabis thats of the earth shall be converted to the relig. ion of Zoroaster, then shall be the resurrection "I the dend, with their emrthly bodice mad sonls. The just shall be separnted from the unjost, tho former to be translated to Paradise, where they shath anjoy the highest pieasures, both of sonil and boly; the later to be pmitied for an uppointed space in burning metals, and clennsed from ull their offeners; after whieh all created buings shall enjoy the most perfect happiness forever. Ahrimun mid his evil genii sluml undergo the same paritication ; and after lis limited pumishment even he shall patake of the joys of eternity, repeat the Zemdevesta, mad join with all beings in the prases of Ormuzd. - TyTLeh's IInt., Book 1, ch. 11, p. 123 .
2460. FUTURE overlooked. Ifnorance. The Indian who fells the tree that he may gather the fruit, and the Arab) who plunders the caravans of commerer, are actuated by the same impulso of savage nature, which overlooks the future in the present, mad relinguishes for monentary rapine the long nad secure possession of the most important hlessings. And it was thus that the shrine of St. Peter was profaned by the thought. less Romans, who pillaged the offerings and womberl the pilgrins, without computing the mumber and value of similar visits, whieh they prevented by their inhospitable sacriage.-Gnimos's Rome, ch. 69, p. 425.
22261. FUTURITY disclosed. Impostors. With a rude and unenlightemed people there is mo bassion more strong than the desire of pemetrating into futurity. It wonld seem that the less the human minil is aded by experienee, of anabled from extensive knowledge to form prohable conjertures of the future from the pasi, the more it is apt to wish for and to belice the possihility of some serect art or method of obtaming such anticipated views. All barbarons mations have their angurs, their sorecrers, or their oracles. The Cibatian savages have in every tribe a few crafty impostors, who pretend to foretell future events hy visions, which they have in their sleep, and who are thence termed dreamers. When the tribe marehes to war, these dreamers constantly attend in the rear of the troop. and no measure is ventured upon till they thi menand wonmen，wholenal in charms and in cantutions，and wre firmly believed to bave tha power of diaxnelnsing good and rvil lottome at their phosimere．＇lhe somerties of the laphatiot are woll known，amd the meromd sight al the Sicollish llighlamiers；all prowerd fomen themane

20262．GAIN or Loss．The Tirfar．dWhorn the inhbitibants of the compureded aty al laphon revoled aralast lhe anthority of l＇imomel lae：

－22t6：B．GAILANTRY，Inconsiderate，olirro fordemith．While strolling obse diny itt these aradens，he met there fomules of the family of a respuetable trade：sman to whom he was umber some ohligation．With his prompt dispusition （1）oblige，be comducted them uboul the garden， treated them to tea，us．al ran upa hill in the mast open－hamded bumber imagrimatho；it was only when hee come to paty that le lomad himaedf in one of his old dirmimas－he hat sut the wherewithal hais perke＂A mene ol perplex－ ity now took wher lnetwen him and the witer， in the misht of which came up some of his mo－ qumintannes，in whose reves lar wisher］to stand particularly well．＇Thiscompleded his mortilion－ tion．There was mu conceatiar the awkward－ uess of his prosition．The sherers of hor waiter revended it．IIs acepmintanoes anmod them－ setves lor sombe linu it his pexpeolnar，professing their imability to relieve him．When，however， they hatel enjoyerl thejr hanter，the water was the hatien with flyimg colors．－Invincts Giors－ s．MTH，（h．12，1）！！．
 As Alexamber［severusi］was a mods and duti－ reins al goverment wore in the hambs of lan Women－of hismother Mamem，ami of Masis，his esperially those wimotern E゙irnge，the wallant spirit ol＂hivalry athel the law of sumeresion have acromstomed as to allow a sugular exvertion｜to the remtinemont of the female siex to domes lie iblirl；ant at woman is often ateknowledged which she wonld be decmed inempabit of exer－ rising the smallest empleyment，ajvilor military． －（imume＇s Rombi，ch．6，p．I符．
 ［When Fox wirs opposing，as a motuber of the fovernment，the petition of soms of the clerey， Gibhon writes：＂（hames Fox prepardel himself for that holy work by passing twenty－1 wo hours in the pions exereise of hazard；lis devotion only，cost him abomt £OOO an hom－in all，$£ 11$ ． 000．＂［In $17 \% 9$ Lord Corlisle wrises：］＂（＇harles tells me that he has not now，nor hats had for some time，one gruinea，and is happier on that ac－ count．＂［Je nast lave felt the degradation of his situation when he borrowed money of chals－ waiters，nnd saw his goonls seized for execution．］ －Knigit＇s Exa．，vol．7，ch．6，p． 105.
2266. Earl of Sumerland．［Reisn of James II．］His ill－luck tit the lazard－table was

Nubl that his restates wero daily heoomitar more aul mare comentared．In the hese of extricat－ ine himatif from his embarrasaments．ha betray－ erl ta）Bariblon all the selbemes aiver or formee

 portant a mindstor．Somly consemted to go nas

 rercive lios sum yourly，and that he shombl，in return，asedt nif his inthence to prevent the renserombline of the l＇arlament．－Vinvelay＇s Eixa．，ch．6，1r，it． 22467. $\qquad$ Softion－IImmes．Into these

 Wero bot ashamedi to sakia their money againat the money of the most inlimome of sorifyy．The ＂people of quality＂wore not ashatmed of their compmatus till the lisht of publie ophinion was 1）．4：3．

2266．GAMBLING，Escape from．Hillarforce． ［When］＂Hmar amd rich，he went lo lamdon us Dember of Patiament．II wrikes his expe－ rienere：］＇The very＇thes time I went to lionile＇s I won en guinens of the Dake of Norfolk．I lwe Jonged at that time la tiver（habs．The tirat time 1 was at Browlese，searery knowing atoy ome，I joined，from mano shymess，in jhy at the faro． table，A friond who knew my inexperienere，mad ralled ont to me，＂What，Wilherforere，is that yon ？＂Tle bank kerper rementeri the interfor－ was persmaded to kerp）the bank at a faro－hahe：

 suss his soll．＂herose the wimber of thote．Mach of this was lose hy home howore only heirs 10 future fortuncs，imel reoblel not the fefore met surch a call withont incomveniomer．The pain lar felt at thejr amosiane cored lime of a laste Which sermed late too likely to beoome predomi－ wrold：＂ 11 is in vain to look for comrorsation－ where we might experet to timd it in the greatest is almost mathilated by miversal enteldayimg．＂ －KNume＇s Exis．，vol．T，ilı，6，p．1116．

24270．GAMBLING，Losses by．$\quad$ ilidun．In Jnly． 1776 ，he writes：＂I have molone mysell＂， ：mid it is to mo jurpose fo ronceal fom yoil my alominnhbe malnees ambl folly．I never lose so moll in tive times as 1 hase fornight，and am in deht to the house for the whole．＂［lle lowi． £10，000．］－Kミ1，

22：271．GAMBLING，Passion for，Eu！fleml．A．い． 175）．Perrs went out of town to lárhmond to play at whist on Saturday and sumday ；amd Lord sumdwich，a minister of state．when he hunted with the Duke of Cumberland carried diee in his poeket，to throw a main nonder a tree when the homids were at fault．－Knigire＇s Evi．，vol．6，ch．12，1． $19{ }^{\circ}$ ． phay was han the migulng phensire of wemedy IIt every coou try In Earonn. Lomid XIS. What his nimer in a vingle night. Migh play, ha though, leremen arineess of the royal honse of al hi reart. John Law, coal, midroif, wablat ray pras. A stour bomban preserded ham wo hemviar had to enrye home that the one he 227:R. GAMBLING, Ruinous. $\quad$, whimemith. shot bur baken to" wer the worla."J A mew

 'Tomple. ["ndormatrely, he foll in complaty at bublin with a dowemimon acematatacre one

 (h. 4. p. 3 3.
 SI. John writer in litat j Yom ank me how play uses bue this your! I ann surry los so very ill. as it has already, vime Octulier, baton teman myself acon by the comohments of : plate or military profeimem, having vold be oblare weminger in": minerjly.

If ruined, there were
 "ife, Hnary St. Aldan beame Lord Bolinghroke. is gone 10 Buth in pursuit of a lady, who he slac has arcepted his proposal."-Kxithers ENG., wh. \%, ch. if. p. 10:3.
2295. GAMBLING, Universal. s.n. 1194. Thw passion of phying for money was so miversal. Hat in the crusate, in which nll ranke of ment were engaged, the Kings of England and Franee made the most stringront regulations to keren gambling within limits. No man in the army was to play at any kind of game for moner, with the exception of knightes and the elergy, and no knight or clark was to lose more thim
 1. $3: 31$.
2276. alambling, Vice of. l'mlific. Petro nins Maximus, a wealthy semator of the Anician fmaty, who had beentwice consal, was pomssessed of it chnste and bemtiful wife; her ohstimate resistance served only to irritate the desires of Valentinian ; and he revolved to accomplish them either by stratagem or foree. Deep groming wiscore of the viere of the comrt : the remfrom Maximis a emoviderable sim, meourteonsly wated has ring a a wercirity for the dedt, "ith all arder. in her hastmades mame. That she
 The 'manderethe wife of Maximis way con

 |xasint wha killad onte of them, thansth lat his
 This avtramilnary geme-fur was mitigatel liy Ilmorima. and thally repated ly dmatiam.

$22 \%$ GAMES, Beneficial. Anomet. In n ror
 1 I :un- ol thar institutan, of the mos im.
 Ho. 1 in promoting in the yomth a h: 少: and of wat, wro of the blthem improtane a mont was the fremontasmbling torether of the inhatrames of all the staldes of (rreere, and has from mative of plasare and momsement, to Wh..' was joinel lla notion of ferforming a duly of redision and indalging in every species of testivits, they rombld not avoid cromidering and oher as brellaren and fellow-ditizens. Whaterer were the politiond interferemere of the surveral siatso or thodrmationalanimosities, every Lrutue of this kiad was al hast for the time ob). libreated. Tharevides intorms us that all hostile ambitics. Another comserpuence of thowe mere inge was 'he disemimatom of knowledere, arts, dhat allamugh the ehief contests in lar salered games were thase in the martial amd athle tie excrefics, there were likewise trials of skill in pordry. hivary and mosie: mal it is chiefly to these lather "xirejses of gronius that wo mant at tribute the cminemer of the Greeks in thome sefonces where all the mations of emtiguity. Troter's lhstr., Book 1, ch. 7, p. (itit.

2279. Games, Employment in. Militrry. In a longeomtimed war at a distancr, as that of Troy the wimer season was spent in the camp, andithere wis at complete eessation of hostilities. Dietys of (rete informs us that the Greeks durine the winter exardised themselves in a variety of games, whicl: tomded to relieve the anxiety of the troops, and keep up the martial spirit. The game of chess is said to have been invented by Palamedes during this tedions siege. -Tytlen's IInst., Book 1, wh. $\delta$.

 TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Scinnces Corporation

2280. Games, Passion for. Grecks. This pas. sion of the Greeks for slows and games, extremely landable, and even bencticial, when contined within die homds, was earried, at length, to a most blamable and pernirioms exeress. The victor, in the Olympic games, who hat ganed the first prize at runing, wrestling, on driving a chaciot, was erosned with higher homors than the genemal wholad ganed a lecisive hatte. lis praises were sung by the poets; lie had stathes, and even temples, dedieated to his mame. Cicero remarks that among the Greeks it was aceounted more ghomons to carry off the palmat the Otympic ganes than among the Romans to have obtained the honers of a triumph. Of these bations it was emsy to foretell which was doomed to be the master, and which the slave. -Tytler's IIsst., Book 2, eli. 8, p. 238.
2281. GAMES, Use of. Simual Johnson. Johnson, i believe, did not play at draughts after leaving college, by which le suffered; for it would have ufforited him on innocent, soothing relief from the melancholy which distressed him so often. I have heard him regret that he had not learned to phay at cards; and the game of dranghts we know is peculiarly calculated to fix the attention without straining it. There is a composure and gravity in draughts which insensibly tranquillizes the mind ; and, according$1 y$, the Dutch are fond of $\mathrm{i}^{\text {t., }}$ as they are of smoking, of the sedative intluence of which, though he himself never smoked, he had a high opinion. Besides, there is in draughts some exercise of the faculties; and, accordingly, Johnson wishing to dignify the subject in his bedication with what is most estimable in it, ohserves: "Triflers may find or make anything a trifle; but since it is the great clarncteristic of a wise man to see events in their canses, to olviate consequences, and ascertain contingencies, your Lordship, will think nothing a tritle by which the mind is inured to caution, foresight, and circum-spection."-Boswell's Johnson, p. 85.
2282. Gaming condemned, Napoleon I. For gaming in all its branches lie manifested ... through the whole of his life the strongest disapproval. He ever refused to repose confidence in any one who was addicted to that vice.-Anbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 4.
2293. Generalization, Vicious. Arphists. As all the strength and skill of the Sophists lay in the application of general argments to the questions which they canvassed, nothing more was necessary for their confutation than to bring them to particulars- to set out by some simple and self-evident proposition, which being grantod, another followed equally undeniable, till the disputant was conducted, step by step, ly his own confessions, to that side of the question on which lay the truth. No method could be devised more effectual than this for the detection of sophistry; and the Athenian logicians very soon found that their general aposatus of argument would not avail them against so subtile an antagonist. They lost all credit and reputation as philonophers.-Tstaen's Mist, Book 2, ch. 9, p. $26 \%$.
2284. GENERALS, Toomany. Mircedoniens. When Micion mareloed a consideruble corps of Macedonians and mercenaries to Rlammos, and ravaged the sea-const and the adjacent comotry, Ploceion advancre! mgainst him with a body of Athenims. Oo this oecasion a momber of them were very impertinent in pretending to die tate or advise him how to procect, One counsidled him to secure ouch un emincme, another to send his cavalry to sulla a post, and a third pointed out a platro for atamp. "Havens!" said Phorion, "how many generals we have, and how few

220.is. GENERALSHIP, Successful. Pimpey. Romace hatd put ont her real strengits, and at onee, in brefore, all oplowition went down before Lere. Asia was completely comurered up to the line of the Euphrates. . . I trimmphan inseription in Rome dechared that Pompey, the people's general. hat in three years eaptured 1500 cities. and had shin, taken, or redued to submission, 12,000,000 lmaman beinges. He justified what Cicero had foretold of his monal uprightness. In the midst of opportunities sued us had fallen to no commander since Alexander, he butraged no woman's honor, and he kept his hamets clean from "the accursed thing." When he returned to Rome, he returned, as he went, jersomally poor, but he filled the reasmy to overtlowing. Frorjais CAEAR, ch. 10.

22S6. GENEROSITY, Artful, Roman Emperor Tuteitus. When Tucitus was elected by the Senate, he resigued his ample patrimony to the public service, an act of generosity sperions in appearance, but which evidently divelosed his intention of transmitting the eupire to his de-scendmis.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 12.
2287. GENEROSITY, Easy, Prpe Alexender VI. Several catues imperled the career of English discovery during the greater part of the sixteenth century. The next year after the new world was found the pope, Alexa nder VI., drew an imaginary line north and south, three hundred miles west of the Azores, and issued a papal bull, giving all ishats and commtries west of that line to spain. Hemry VII. of England was himself a Catholic, and he did not care to begin a eontlict with his Clunell by pressing lis own claims to the newly found regions of the West. Lis son and sucecssor, lIenry VIII., at first adopted the smme policy, and it was not till after the Reformation had been neeomplished in Englamd that the derision of the popee emme to be disregurdec, and timally despised and haughed at.-Rideatirs C. S., ch. 6, j. is.
2288. GENEROSITY, Example of. Re\%, John Harcard. After struggling with disease for about a year, he died of consmintion. When his will was opened, it was fomm that he had left his whole library of two hundred and sixty volumes and one half of his estate to the proposed col-lege-his extate being worth mearly £1600 sterling. Provided thus with if fuad of nearly $£ 1200$, the trustees went forward, crected a building, established the college, and couferred upon it the name of its first benefactor. The example of John Harvard was more beneficial even than the money which he bequeathed, for it inspired as large number of other persons with generous feelings toward the infunt institution.-CyenoPEDIA OF BIOH., p. 583.
2289. GENEROSITY, Indiscreet. Wohammealan. A dispute had misen, who, among the citizons of Mecen, whs entitled to the prize of generosity; and a surcessive upplication was made to the three who were deemed most worthy of the trinl. Abdallah, the son of Abbas, had madertaken a distunt journcy, and his foot was in the stirrup when lie heard the voice of a suppliant, " 0 son of the uncle of the apostle of God, I am a traveller, and in distress !" He instantly disnounted to present the pilgrim with his cemel, her iech caparison, abia purse of 4000 pieces of gold, exrepting only the sword, cither for its intrinsie value, or as the gift of an honored kinsman. The servant of Kais informed the second supplimet that his master was asleep; but he immediately added, "Here is a purse of rooo pieces of gold (it is all we lave in the house), whed here is an order that will entitle you to a cmmel and a slave;" the master, as soon as he awoke, praised und enframehised lis faithful stewned, with a gentle reproof, that by respecting his slumbers he had stinted his bounty. The third of these heroes, the blind Arabah, at the hour of prayer, was supporting lis steps on the shoulders of two slaves. "Alas!" he replied, "hy coffers are empty ! but these you may sell, if you refuse, I renounce them." At these words, pusling away the yo'ths, he groped along the wall with his staff.-Gimon's Rome, ch. 50.
2290. GENEROSITY, Noble. Benjamin Fronklin. When, at the age of seventeen, he lamed at Philadelphia, a rumaway mprentice, he had one silver dollar and one slifling in copper coin. It was a fine Sunday moning, as probably the realer remembers, und he knew not a soul in the place. Ite asked the boatmen nopon whose boat he had come down the Delaware how much he had to pay. They answered, Nothing, becanse he had helped them row. Franklin, however, insisted upon their taking his shilling's wortl of coppers, and forced the money upon them. An loourafter, having bought three rolls for lis breakfast, lie ate one, and gave the other two to a poor woman and her child, who had been his fellow-passengers. These were small things, you may say ; but rementher, he was a poor, ragged, dirty rumaway, in a strange towa. -Cycloledia of Buge., p. 129.
2291. $\qquad$ Peter Cooper. [Erection of Cooper Institute.] He bought the first lot about thirty years before he began to build, and from that time continued to buy pieces of the gromai as he could spare the noney. In 18 int the whele block was lis own, and he began to erect thereon a nassive structure of stone, lnick, and iron, six stories in leight, and fire-proof in every part. It cost $\$ 00,000$, which was all the fortune the founder possessed, except that invested in his business. In 1859 he delivered the property, with the joyiul and proud cousent of his wife and children, into the hands of trustees, and thus placed it forever beyond his control. Two thousand pupils immediately applied for admission, a number which lins greatly increased every year, until now most of the departments are filled during the winter senson with attentive students. Fronithe beginning, as many as three thousand persons used the reading room every week.-Cyclopedia of Bion., p). 579.
2292. GENEROSITY, Patrlotic. North Cierolina to Boston. A.D. 1774 . At Wilmington . . . the sum of $\mathrm{E}_{2} 000$ currency was rased ia a few days; the women of the phace gave liberally ; Parker Quinee offered his vessel to mury a load of provisions, freight free, and master and mariners voluntered to mavigate her without wages. - Bancrof's's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 5.
2293. - Sinth Carolime to Bestom. A.b. 17at. [13osten port was closed by the lort Act, and the peeple begun to suffer.] The colonies vied with earla other in liberality. The reeord kept at Beston shaws that " the patriotio and grenerous people" of South Carolina were the first to minister to the suffarers, seading carly in duat two latadred harrels of rice, and promising cight hundred more.-Bancmorr's U. S., vol. i, ch. 5.
229.I. GENEROSITY, Sincerity in. ('\%omirell. He was moved to tenes, when he hard of the sulferings of the people of the valleys. He sent immediately the sum of ${ }^{\prime 2} 2000$ from his own purse to aid the exiles. He appointed a day of humiliation to be laeld thronghout the kingdom, und a general collection on their behalf. The people heartily responded to his call, and testitiod their sympathy with thair distressed brethren by rusing the sum of $\leq 40,000$ for distribution among them.-Hood's Chomwela, ch. 16, 1. 213.
2295. GENIUS, Advance of. Istife Nection. This great man, whose genius far ontshone all who have gone before him in the bath of philosophy, and who has, periaps, exhausted the most important discoveries of the law of mature, so as not to leave to posterity the possibility of eclipsing his fame, Inad, it is certuin, made the greatest of his discoveries before he had attained the age of twen-ty-four. Before that early period of life he had discovered the lacory of maiversal gravitation. Dr. Pemberton, who has given ma excellent view of his phatosophy, informs us that Newton, its he sat one day alone in a garden, fell into a revery or speculation on the power of gravity. It oceurred to him that as this power is not foumd sensibly to diminish at the remotest distance to which we com aseend from the centre of the carth-for instance, at the (op) of the highest momitains-it was not amreasomable to suppose that it might extend much farther than was usnally thought. Why rot (sidil he to himself) as high as the moon? and if so, her motion must be influenced by it. Perhaps it is that which retains her in her orbit! Ilowever, though the power of gravity is not sensibly weakencti in the little change of distance at which we can phace ourselves from the centre of the carth, yet it is very possible that so high as the moon this power may differ much in strength from what it is here. To make an estimate what might be the degree of the diminution, lee considered with hime!f that if the moon be retained in her orbit by the force of gravity, no doubt the primary planets are carried round the sun ly the like power ; and by comparing the periods of the several planets with their distances from the sun, he fonnd that if any power like gravity held them in their courses, its strength raust decrease in the duplicate proportion of the inerease of distance. Supposing, therefore, the power of gravity, when extemied to the moon, to deerame in the same proportion, le eomputed whether that foree would be satlecient to keep the moon in her orbit, and he found it would be sumberent. Newton had now the satisfartion to pereeive that this jnquiry, which an mecialental thought had given rise to, led to the diseovery of a minvorsal law of nature, which solval the most striking of her phenomema. It is thos that renius procerds, step by step, from the simplest prin(iples to the most sublime conclusions. - Tro' b.in's IIIs'r., Book 6, ch. 36 , p. 490 .
220)6. GENIUS, Age of. Athrmitms. Athens, altur her presime trin:mphs, atopted the philosuphyol lonim and the rhetorie of Siedy ; and these sumbios bermme the patrimony of it eity whose inhabitints, alout thirty thonsand males, conthensed, within the periond of a single life, the renius of ares and millions. Our somse of the dimnity of haman moture in exalted by the simple racollection that Isocrates was the companGon of Plato and Ximophon : thai le assisted, perbaps, with the historian Thucydieles, at the tirst reprosentations of the EDlipus of Sophocles and the Iphigronia of Euripendes; and that his pupils Sisehines amd Denosthenes contenderl for the crown of patriotism in the presence of Arisoble, the master of Theophirastas, who taturht at Athens with the foumbers of the Stoie and Epicuran sects.-Gimmon's Rome, ch. 40.
2297. GENIUS, Ages of, Atfe of Leo N. Thure are perions in which the hamim genins seems 1 " furn stronsly to one particular direction. In one priod the reasonimer faculty seems rhietly to deliglat in rontemplating its own powers, the nature and operations of the mind ; in another, perhaps the imagination reigns predominant, and the general taste is attrated to works of tancy in poetry or romance. In another era the meehamie or the usoful arts engross the general attention, and are cultivated with high success ; in a fourth, as in the perion of whiel we now treat, the popular taste delighted in the contemplation of the beintiful. -TyTLer's IIst., Book 6, cli. 23, 1. 317.
2298. GENIUS by Ancestry. John Milton. A host of eminent men have traced the first impulse of their genius to their mother. Milton always acknowledged with just gratitude that it was :o his father's discerning taste and fostoringer care that he owed the encouragement of his stublies, and the leisure whic! rembered them possible. We has registered this gratiande in both prose and verse.-Minton, by M. Pitrinon, ch. 7.

2:299. GENIUS, Ascendency of. Hillitrm. Pitt. [See No. 2835̄.] "I wm sure," said he to the Duke of Devonshire," I ran save this country, aml nobody else can." For cleven weeks Englamel was without a ministry. [On his alismissul in April no man had dared to atceept his place.] So long was the agrony, so desperate the resistance, so reluctant the surrender. At hast the king [George III.] and the aristocracy were atike compelled to recognize the ascendensy and yied to the gnidance of the man whom the nation trusted and loved.-bancroft's L. S., vol. 4, ch. 12.
2300. GENIUS, Belated. William Corpper. [Mrs. Unwin, his best friend, took care of him while insane.] Mrs. Cnwin, who had terrible reason for stmying lis ense, silw that the thing most wanted was comorenial employment for the mind, nud sle incited him to try his hawd at poetry on a larger seale. He listened to her mivice, and when he was nearly tily yans of nge bereme a port. Ite had nopuired the facolty of vorse-writing, as we havesien; he had even to some extent formed hix monner when he was jommg. Sge mast by this time have quenclud his tire mol tumed his imarimation, sif that the didacticestyte wombl anit hi:nlest. In the length of the interval between lis (arly poems and his great work he resembles Milton; lut widely Tilferent in the two cames had been the arrent of the intervening yeirs.-Simitu's Cowren, ch. 4.
2831. GENIUS in Childhood. Olire? Goldamith. Butore la was vight yours old Goldemith had contrated a habit of seribbling verses on smath seraps of paper, which, in a little while, lae wonld throw into the tire. A few of these sibybline leaves, however, wrere resered from the hlames amb conveyed to lis mother. The goorl woman read them with a mother's delight, and saw at once that luer son was a grenins and ab poet. From that time she beset luer lamshand with solicitations to give the boy an eduration suit-
 1. 16 .
2302. GENIUS, Constructive. ('tis(t). [lIav. ing ariven tha (rermans wht of Gund, las fletermined to terrify them by an invasion of their own comntry.] They lecgered Casar to show himself among them, thourgh his stay might be but short, as a proof that he had power and will to protect them ; and they offered him boata and barges to carry his army over. Ciesar decided to gro, but to ago with more ostentation. The objeret was to impress the German imagination ; and lonts aml barges, which might not always be ohtainable, woukd, if they seemed essential, diminish the elfect. The legions were skilled workmen, able to furn their hand to anything. ITe determined to make a bridge, and he chose Bon for the site of it. The river vas broad, deep, and rapid. The materials were still standing in the forest ; yet in ton days from the first streke that was dellivered by maxe, a bridge had been made stameling tirmly on rows of piles with a road over it forty feet wide. A strong garard Was loft at eath end. Casar marehed across with the legions, and from all sides deputations from the astonished people poured in to beg for peace.-Frotine's ('EsAR, Ch. 16, p. 39.
2303. --. Nir Istatec Nerton. [In youth] he constructed also th lour-wheeled carriaue, propelled by the person sitting in it. To amuse his sehoolfellows, he made very ingenions kites, to the tails of which be attached lanterms of crimpled paper, which, heing lighted by a candle and sent up in the evening, atarmed the rustises of the parisil. Ohselving the shadows of the sum, he marked the hours and half hours by driving in pegs on the side of the house, and at length perfected the sun-dial which is still shown. Without an instructor he learned to drive so well as to adorn his room with the portraits of his schoolfellows and teachers, the frames of which were very elegantly made by his own hand. . . . For the young ladies of his acquantance be was never weary of making little tables, ehairs, eupboards, dolls, und trinkAN. - C'YClol'EDIA OF B1OM., P. 247 .

230&. GENIUS, Co-operative. Ikalue Núrton. Suppose an apple should fall from the moonthen what? It appears to have been at this point that the great Conjecture oceurred to his nind: Perhaps the same force that draws the apples to the ground holds the moon in its orhit! Now, but for the labors of the giants who had preceded him, this mighty thought wonk have remaned is conjecture. Those giants, however, had learned the magnitude of the monn, its distance frem the curth, und the force of the ewth's attraction at any distance. Newton could, therefore, at once put his conjecture to the test of arithmetic. He could ascertain two things with the greatest exnetness: 1, how much force was required to keep the moon in its orbit ; and 2 , with how much force the earth did attract the moon, supposing that the law of nttraction, as (stablished by Galileo, held good. If these two calculations agreed, his conjeeture was a discovery. He tried them. They did not ngree. Busy with other investigations, he luid nside this inquiry for mineteen years. Ife then learned that he, in common with all the English astronomers, was in error as to the distance of the moon from the earth. [His work now proved correct.]Parton's Newton, p. 83.

ゆ305. GENIUS, Creation of. Declaration of Independence. This immortal State puper, which for its composer [Thomas Jefferson] was the aurora of enduring fame, was " the genuine effusion of the soul of the comatry at that time," the revelation of its mind, when in its youth, its enthusiasm, its sublime confronting of danger, it rose to the highest creative fwwers of which man is capable.-bancrorg's U. S., vol. 8, ch. 70.
2306. GENIUS disdained. Robert Fulton. In September, 180f, the fimous Clermont, one hundred and sixty tons, was completed. Monday, September 10, was the day appointed for a grand trial trip to Albany, and by noon a vast crowd had assembled on the wharf to witness the performance of what was popularly called "Fulton's Folly." Fulton himself dechares that, at noon on thiat day, not thirty persons in the "ity had the slightest faith in the success of the steamboat; and that, as the boat was putting off, he heard many "sarcastic remarks." At one o'clock, however, she moved from the dock, vomiting smoke and sparks from her pine-wood tires, and casting up clouds of spray from her uncovered paddle-wheels. As her speed increased, the jeers oif the ineredulons were silenced, and soon the departing voyagers canght the sound of cheers.-Cyclonedia of Biog., p. 157.
2307. - -. John Fitch. It namally requires several gencrations to perfect a great invention. The steamboat was still very imperfect; it frequently got out of order and made no money. Poor Joln Fitch formed another company, and began another steamboat; but the faith and the money of his coadjutors gave out lefore it was finished. He petitioned Congress for help. He sought the nid of State legishatures. IIe even went to France. All was in vain. No one believed the steamboat would ever pay, and few could see in this poor scarecrow, this pallid, gaunt, and rngged Yankee, one of the ablest natural mechanies that ever lived. He used to slink, in his dirt nad rags, nbout Philatelphia, an object of compassion to some, and to others an ohjeret of derision and contempt. But start the darling topice of the stembent, and the whole man was chamerd. Fire sparkled in his are, elonnence thowed from his tongue. Jising to his full statmer, and lifting his long, lem nrm, he would exrham: "You and 1 will not live to see the day, but the time will cone when stembents will he preferved to all other modes of conveyunce; when stemmamats will aseond the western rivers from New Orleans to Wherting ; when stemmoats will crose the ocean! dohnny Fitch will be forgothen, but other men will cirry out his idens, an! grow rich and great upon them." Those who listened to such harangues ns these wonk exchange ghances, as if to say, "lle is a good fellow enongle: what a pity be is nad !"-c'redresdia Of Bioa., p. 151.
2308. GENIUS disparaged, Ciforge Hiswhingtin. The march thither [to winter puarters at Valley Forge] occur ied four days. Thomsands of the soldiers were without shoes, and the frozen ground was marked with bloody footprints.
. Log calins were built for the soldiers:
it was a long and dreary winter; moming and anguish were hard in the camp, and the echo fell heavily upon the soul of the commander. These were the darkest days of Washington's life. Congressin a measure abondoned him; the people withheld their sympathies. The hrilliant success of the amy of the North was unjustly conpared with the reverses of the army of the South. Many mon high in military aind (ivil station left the great loader unsupported in the hour of his gridf ; even samud Adams impatient uader calamity, withdrew his contidence. Thene was a miserable conspiracy houded by generals Gates, Conway and Millin. Washinerton was to be superseded, and Gates or Lee [who proved cither a crank or a trator (see No. 1645) was to be made commatader-in-cliet. But the atienation was only for a moment ; the al legiance of the army femained unshaken, and the nation's confidence in the troubled chicflain became stronger than ever.-Ridpatia's C . S., ch. 40, p. $32 \overbrace{}^{\circ}$.
2309. GENIUS, Eccentricity of. Simuel Johenson. Mr. Hogarth came one day to see Richardson, soom affer the execution of 1)r. Cameron, for laving taken arms for the house of Stuart in 1745-6 6 : and being a warm partisan of George II., he olserved to Richardson that certainly there must have been some very unfavorable circumstances lately discovered in this particuhar cose, which had induced the king to approve of :un execution for rehelion so long after the time when it was committed, as this had the appearance of putting a man to death in cold blood, and was very unlike his Majesty's usual clemency. While he was talking, he perceived a person standing at a window in the room, shaking his head, and rolting himself alout in a sirange, ridiculous mamer. IIe eoneluded that he was an idiot, whom his relations had pat under the care of Mr. Richardson, as a very good man. To his great surprise, however, this figure stalked forward to where he and Mr. Richardson were sitting, and all at once took up the urgument, nod burst ont into an invective against George II.-Boswelif's Johnson, p. 3 J.
2310. -. Samuel Johnsom. One instance of his nbsence and proticularity, us it is charncteristic of the man, may be worth relating. When he and I took a ionmey together into the West, we visited the hate Mr. Banks, of Dorsetshire; the eonversation turning upon pirtares, whid Johmson cond not well see, he retired to a corner of the room, stretching out his right leg as far as he could reach hefore him, then bringing up his left leg, mad stretching his right still further on. The old gentlemun observing him, went up to him, and in a very courteons manner assured him, thourh it was not a new house, the flooring was perfectly safe. The Doctor started from his revery, like a person waked out of his sleep, but spoke not a word. Boswell's Joinson, p. 3ī.
2311. - - Semnel Johnson. While talking or even mosing as he sat in his chair, he commonly held his head to one side toward his right shonlder, and shook it in a tremulons manner, moving his boly backward mad forward, and rubbing his left knee in the same direction, with the palm of his haml. In the intervals of articulating he male various sounds with his mouth, sometimes as if ruminating, or what is called chewing the cud. sometimes giving half a whistle, sometimes making his tongue play backward from the roof of his mouth, ins if clucking like a hen, and sometimes protruding it against his upper gums in front, as if pronouncing (puickly under his brenth, tom, ten, too-all this accompanied sometimes with a thoughtful look, but more frequently with a smile. Generally when he had concluded a period, in the course of a dispute, by which time he was a good deal exhausted by violence and vociferation, he used to blow out his breath like a whale. This I suppose was a relief to his lungs, and seemed in lim to be is contemptuous mode of expression, as if he had made the arguments of his opponent fly like chnff before the wind.-Boswell's Jomsson, p. 135.
2312. $\qquad$ Samuel Johnson. He received me very courteously; but it must be confessed that his apartment and furniture and morning dress were sufficiently uncouth. His brown suit of clothes looked very rusty; he had on a little old shrivelled unpowdered wig, which was too small for his head; his shirt-neek and knees of his brecelies were loose; his black worsted stockings ill drawn up ; and he had a pair of unbuckled shoes by way of slippers. But all these slovenly particularities were forgotten the moment that he began to talk.-Boswell's Johnson, p. 109.
2313. GENIUS, Enterprise of. Cromicell. England had never been more than a third-rate power in Europe; and the other nations were in the height and heat of their grandeur and fame. Spain, witha population of about thirty millions -it had deelined recently ; in the time of Charles V. its population had been about thirty-six millions; and the population of England at this time could not nave been six millions-[Spain] was the kingdom of the Inquisition, the chief land of the Romish power; with her continents of golden isles in the west, her possessions oi gold in her own country-haughty, defiant, and strong. Spain Cromwell determined to ernsh. France was powriful. Only recently had she known the momarchy of ILenry of Navarre nad the statesmanship of Richelinta. Ifer destinies were now gulded by the willest man nnd most fox-like statesman in Europe, Curdinal Muzarin. 1 lim Cromwell treated as a valet or a footman, nad his power lay humbled and stricken beforo the genins of the buif farmure statesman.Hood'n Chomwela, ch. 16, p. ¿10.
2314. GENIUS, Failures of. Foutliful Ports. Shelley nov logan to yam for fame and publieity. Niss Shelley speaks of a play written by her brother and har sister Elizabeth which was sent to Matthews the comedian, and courteonsly returned as unflt for neting. . . . Medwin gives a long necount of a poem. . Composed hy him in concert with Shelley. . . They sent the munnscript to Thomas camphell, who returned it with the observation that it contained but two good lines-
" It seem'd as if an angel's sigh Had breathed the plaintive symphony."

-Svmonds' Sheldey, ch. 2.

2:315. Genids, Hereditary. James Writt. It is said to require three generations to make a gentleman. We sometimes tind it has taken ihree generations to make a genins. The grandfaher of Jumes Watt was a temelher of navigation, well skilled in mathematics, and a very ingenious and worthy man. The father of the great inventor was in shipwright, noted for his skill and enterprise.-Cyclomedia of Broa., p. 141.
2316. GENIUS, Imitation of. Columlus. $\Lambda$ shallow courtier present, imputient of the honors paid to Cohmbus, and meanly jealous of him as a foreigner, ubruptly asked him whether he thought that, in case he had not discovered the Indies, there were not other men in Spain who would have been capable of the enterprise? To this Columbus made no immediate reply, but, taking an egg, invited the company to make it stand on one end. Every one attempted it, but in vain; whereupon he struck it upon the table so as to break the end, and left it standing on the broken part; illustrating in this simple manner that when he had once shown the way to the New Work nothing was easier than to follow it.-Irving's Columbus, Book 5, ch. 7.
2317. GENIUS impoverished. Homer. Homer, of whose birth both the place and the em are very uncertain, is, according to the mosi probable opinion, believed to have been a native of Ionia, and to have flourished . . . nine hundred and seventy years before the birth of Christ. This illustrious man, the father of poetry, was probably a wandering minstrel, who earned his subsistence by strolling from one city to another, and frequenting public festivals and the tables of the great, where his music and verses procured him a welcome reception. . . . It has been justly remarked that from the poems of Homer, as from the fountain of knowledge, the principal authors among the ancients have derived useful information in almost every departmentmoral, political, ind scientific -Tytren's Hist., Book 2, ch. 8, 1. 238.
2318. GENIUS, Late evidence of. Sir Walter Scott. Scott's genius thowered late. "Cadyow Castle," the first of his poems, 1 think, that hus indisputable genius plainly stamped on its terse and tiery lines, was composed in 1802 , when he was alrealy thirty one years of nge. It was in the same year that he wrote the tirst ranto of his tirst great romane in verse, "The Lay of the Last Minstr ," a poem whicholld not uppar till 180in, when he was thirty-four.- IICTron's Lafis of scoter, ris. 5 .
2319. GENIUS, Manifold. Napoleon $I$. "Singular destiny," exrlaims Thires, after perusfng volumes of manusertpts from his pen, "of that prodigions man, to be the greatest orriter of lis time, while he was its grentest captrin, its grecatest legishator, Its areatest alministrator.'" Abrott's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 38.
2320. GENIUS, Merit of, Cromicell, The wisest, who have leen disposed to form an opinion adverse to the great English Protertor, have confessed themselves compelled to puse brefore promouncing ; others again have ransucked the urehives of State paper offices, the heaps of dingy family letters and scrolls, every shred of paper learing Oliver's mame that could be brought to light has been produced; and the result is, that no mame, perhaps, in all history stands forth so tramsparent and clear, so consistent throughout. It is the most royal name in English listory, rivalling in its splendor that of Elizabeth, the Edwards, and the IIpnrys ; outshining the proadest names of the Norman, the Plantagenet, or the 'Tudor.-Hood's Cromwell, ch. 1, p 20.
2321. GENIUS misdirected. A whlum the Ornithonegist. He engaged. . . in various branches of commeree, mone of which suceceded with him, his mind being preocenpied liy his fatvorite study. Ilis friends colled him "fool" -all excepting his wife and chikren. At hast, irritated by the remarks of relatives nom others, he broke entirely away from the pursuits of trade, and gave himself up wholly to matmal history. Ife ransateked the woods, the lakes, the prairies, and the shores of the Atlantic, spending years away from his home and family.Shiles' Brief Biograpiles, p. 175.
2322. GENIUS misjudged. Thomas Gray. [Author of the "Elegy." I dined with Johnson at Mr. Thrale's. He attacked Gray, calling him "a dull fellow." Boswella: "I understand he was reserved, and might appear dull in company ; but surely he was not dull in poetry." Jomnson : "Sir, he was dull in company, dull in his closet, dull everywhere. He was dull in a new way, and that made many people think him great. He was a mechanienl poet." He then repeated some ludicrous lines, which have escaped my memory, and said, "Is not that great, like his Odes ?"-Bosweli's Joinson, p. 241.
2323. GENIUS, Mortality of. Early Derth. Such reflections are forced upon us by the lives of three great English poets of this century. Byron died when he was thirty-six, Keats when he was twenty-five, and Shelley when he was on the point of completing his thirtieth year. Of the three Keats enjoyed the briofest space for the development of his extraordinary powers. His achievement, perfect as it is in some poetic qualities, remains so immature and incomplete that no conjecture can be hazarded about his future. Byron lived longer, yet he was extinguished when his genius was still ascendant. . Shelley's early death is more to be regretted. Tnlike Keats and Byron, he died by a mere aceident. His taculties were far more complex. and his aims were more ambitions than thairs. LIe therefore needed length of years for their coordination; and if a fuller life lad bere alloted him, we have the cortalnty that from the discords of his youth he would have wrought a rlar and lucifl harmony.--Symonos' Sheidey, ch. 1.

2:32.1. GENIUS originating. Blaise Pheronl. [Iuventor of the mrithonctical calculating machine and of the ommibus system, melopted ly rities.] A kind of club of geometers met at the Passal home every week, and there was contimed conversation upon problems of geometry ut tho tuble in the evening. To thwirt the awakned curiosity of his son, the father nhstained from such conversation, locked up all the mathematirul books, and endenvored in every why to keep the boy from so much ins knowing whint grometry was. These precmutions were mavailing, The inkling of knowledge, which the lad coond not lut gather in such a house, so inthmed his desire for more, that he employed his leisure in contriving " system of peometry for himself, aided only by a piece of charcoal and some brards. Ilis father, coming into his room one day, found him so deeply aborbed in this pursulit that the boy heard nothing of his approtel, but contimed poring over his timugles and rircles until he whs sturtled into consciousness by hearing his father ask, "What are you doing, my son ?" Fnther and son were equally moved-ithe son to he deterted in devouring forbidden fruit, the father to discover that this youth of thirteen hud effected a demonstrution of the thirty-second proposition of the first book of Enelid. Without even knowing the names of the figures, he had advanced so far. He called a circle a " romod," mad a line a" bar," but he understood the ruelimentul principles of seience.-Cyclofedia of Biog., p. 99.
2325. GENIUS overlooked. John Milton. The neglect of the merit of Milton during his own life is sufficiently known. Hume, in lis " IIistory of England," $\qquad$ marks the small regard that was had for this great poet, even hy the party to whose service he had devoted his talents. Whitelock, in his Memorials, talks of one Milton, a blind man, who was employed in translating a treaty with Sifeden into Latin!-TyTler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 36.
2326. GENIUS, Perils of. Jomathan Swift (Derrin). In his latter years [Swift] looked some time on his first great work, and then, shutting the book, exclaimed, "Good God ! what a genius I had when I wrote that!" A genius indeed; hut how fatal a possession! What miserics of disappointed ambition, and then what horrors of crushed misanthropy it brought with it !Knigit's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 28.
2327. GENIUS, Power of. Olieer Cromucell. Cromwell was one of those rure men whom even his enemies cannot name without acknowledging his genius. The farmer of Huntingdon, accustomed only to rural occupations, unncticed until he was more than forty years old, engaged in no higher plots than how to improve the returns of his farm and fill his orehard with choice frut, of a sudden became the best oflicer in the British army and the createst statesman of his time ; subverted the English constitution, which had been the work of centuries ; hedd in his own grasp the literties which the buglish people had tixed in their affertions, and rast the kingdoms into a new monla. Religions peacer such ns England till now had never seren, fombinad moder his calm modiation; justice fonnd its way wen among the remotest Highlands of Soothand; commerce filled the English marts with prosperons activity under his powerfin profertion; his theets rode trimmphant in the West Indies; Nova brotia samitted to his orders withont a struggle ; the buteh berged of him for prare as for a boon; Lonis XlV. was humiliated; the pride of Spain was humbled; the Protestants of Piedmont breathed their prayers in security ; the glory of the English mane was spread throughont the world.-B.ancerowes U. S., vol. 2, ch. 11.
2326. GENIUS, Practioal, Piter the Givert. II, resolved to go himself to IIolland, Enghamd, and Italy, to acquire a better knowlenge of the mechanie arts. He was twente-tle ve years of agetall, strongly built, of fresh complexion, and of very ensy, familiar mamars, though in his minn and hearing " every inch a king." Le Fort, his old tutor, and now his Lord Ifigh Adminal, areompanied him. The czar, on this occusion, travelled incognito, passing as a mere momber of a grand cmbassy, which was composed of three ambassadors (Le Fort was one of them). four chief secretaries, twelve gentlemen, six pages, one eompany of the imperial gatards, tilly in mubler, and se wral servants-the whole cortege numbering two hundred and tifteen persons. In this company the czar was nothing lat an attaché, and wasattended only by one valet, once footman, and indwarf with whom he used to ammse himself. I need mot dwell upon this memorable journey of a your amd a half: who does not know that the czar labored with his own hands at Amsterdam as a ship enpenter, and that he travelled over half of Europe, visiting workshops, factories, hospitals, and everything that could instruct a monareh of such a comntry us Russia was in 1697 ?-Cyclonedid of Brog., p. 430.
2329. GENIUS, Precocious. William Cullen Bryant. William Cullen, a bry of thirteen, who, young as he was, was already somewhat famons in his native connty as a poet. At nine he had written harmonions verses, and at ten he had composed a poem for a school exhibition, which was thought good enough for publication, and was actually published in the county paper. And now this gifted boy, moved by what he hamd of the terrible enibargo, and the more terrible Jefferson and the Democratic party, wrote a poem, in the heroic mensure, contitled "The Embargo," in which he endeavored to express the feeling of New England respecting the course of the general government. The poem was published in pamphlet form, and was so well rereived in the county that, a year after, it was republished in a little thin volume. . . The lad was nearly fifteen years of age when this volume of thirty-six pages saw the light. It contained poems so extraordimary, that it was thought necessary in the preface to print a kind of certificate, declaring that the athor was really only a boy!-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 730.

2bis30. GENIUS, Prodigtoun. Nípelioul $I$. Napoleon, having thas mate his arrangements for the tervithe rontlict of the ensumg day the batele of Joma and Anerstadt ], retined to his temt, alonat midulght, and rabmly sat down to draw up a pren's frmele' school.-Amortis Naboibon B., vol. 1, chl. 35 .
2:331. GENIUS, Proof of. Binjumin firmhlin. The anthor of the first terny made betwera tho Cuited states and a forrign mation | was the son]. . . of a mamfar threr of somp mal (:andles; . . the walls of a candeshop wore too marow for his asphing genins. At the age of twolve he was apmenticed to his brother to learn the art of printing ; but the brother bat him, and he ram off to New York. There he found no rmployment. In 1 iow har repaired to philadedphia. . . and rose to distinction. . . . He fommded hae thrst rireulating library in A merical berame a man origimated the American Philosophical society; discovered the identity of cledridity and lightning ; made himself known to both hemi-pheres ; respoused the cause of the patriots: and de woted the unimpaired encrgies of his old age to perfreting the American linon. The mame of Franklin is one of the brightest in the history of any mation.-Radpatis's E. S., ch. 41, p. :330.
23332. GENIUS, Remarkable. Benjamin Frunklin. The gemins of 1)r. Framklin shome with a perebiar hastre. At the gay comet of Lomis XVI. he stood as the represemative of his comatry. No mation ever had an ambassudor of greator wishlom or sagacity. Mis reputation for lemuing had preceded him; the dig:ity of his dememon and the simplicity of his manars added to his fame. Whether as philosopher or diphmatist, no man in that great rity of fashion was the equal of the venerable Ameriem patriot. llis wit and gronial humor made lim udmirel; his talents and courtesy rommanded resinet; his patience and perseremace gave him tinal suc-cess.-Rimpatu's llast., ch. 41, p. 329.
2333. GENIUS, Resources in. Gesatr. Resource in difliculties is the distinction of great genemas. Ile had observed in Eritain that the ronst fishermen used boats made out of frames of wicker covered with skins. The river banks were fringed with willows. There were hides in abundane on the carcusses of the animals in the camp. Swiftly in thene vessels the swolten waters of the segre were crossed ; the convors were rescued. The broken bridges were repairal. The communications of the Pompeians wero threatened in turn, and they tried to fall back over the Ebro; but they left their position omly to be intercepted, and after a few feeble striggles laid down their arms.-Frocde's C.esalk, ch. 22.
2334. GENIUS, Rewards of. Dr. Morton. [Practical use of ether was discovered by him.] This great discovery brought upon the diseoverer, during the rest of his life. little but vexation and hitterness. As the process could not be patented, he wasted many years and many thousands of dollars in trying to induce Congress to make him a grant of public money He did not succeed; and although be rereived considerable soms from hospitals and medical colleges in reeognition of his right, he became at last a hankrupt, und the sherifthed his extate. Jlis cirem: stancers afterward improved, but he died upon his farm in Maswhimesella, a liow years ngo. a eomparatively poor man.-('ychorledia of Broo., p). tite.
2:3ib5. GENIUS, Subjeots fu:. Wiltm. Mrs. Kemnicot related : livhg saying of Dr. Wohmson to Miss Hammh More, who had expressed a wonder that the poet who had written " Baradise Lost" should write surh poor sombets: "Milton, mathm, was a grinius that coold cut a Colosins from a rock, but could not carve heads bun cherry-stones. "-Boswelhis donsBon, 1. 520.

2:3:36. GENIUS, Success by, Nom of Whrarid III. The Bhack Prinere, with an army of 12.(910 mon, wis sent into Framere, and corried devishe tion into the hent of the kinglom. Jolin took the field against him with (ii),000 men, and advanced towned Poictiors with the design of surroumdine and cutting him off at once. The misitary skill displayed by the princein the armangment of his little army was admimble. He romtrived to give them the appenrance of mombers, white he even diminished them in rality, by phacing a comsidemble borly of his troops in amhuseade. The Fremelh had to marel through a lane to the attack. The lanek Prinere withone division oprosed them on the front, while his main body, divided intotwo, poured down upon their lengthened thank. The confnsion of the enemy was completed hy the troops in ambusende, and this immense mimy was dispersed and coit to pieces. King John himself, with one of his sons, was taken. The moderation of the Prince of Whles was equal to his heroism. In trated the captive monarel with every distinction due to his rank ; he refusen to be seated in his presence ; and when he conducted his royal prisoner to London amid the uredimations of the people, he rode himself on the left hamb on a small blark palfrey, while John upon the right was mounted on a horse remarkable for his lomuty and rich accoutrements. Thus, two monarelis were at the same time prisoners in London-bavid of Seotland und John of France. -Tythen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 12, p. 109.
2337. GENIUS, Successful. Turk, Orkhan, the chief of a petty tribe of Turkish shapherds, came to compuer without urillery that capitai of Nice, whirh 500,000 Latin crusaders, commanded by the first princes and the first captains of Christendom, had not been able to conquer after seven werks storming, with all the appliances of Europe.-Lamantines Tchisi, 1. 215.
2338. GENIUS, Superstition of. Simmul Iohmsom. It appeared to me some superstitions habit which he had contracted early, and from which he had never called apon his reason to disentangle him. This was his anxious care to go out or in at a door or passage ly 1 certain mumber of steps from a certain point, or at least so as that either his right or his left foot ( I am not certain which) should constantly make the first actual movement when he came close to the door or passage. Thus I conjecture for I have upon innumernble occasions, olsterved him suddenly stop, and then seem to connt his steps with a dcep carnestness; and when he had neglected or gone wrong in this sort of magical movement, I have sell him go back ngah, put himself in a proger posture to herin the ceremony, mat, having gomo through it, break from his abstmetion, walk briskly on, bud join his compmion.-Bowweatis donsinos.

2:3:30. GENIUS, Time for. Rerirat. in the revival of letters the youthitil vigur of the immgimation, after a long repose, mitional cmmation, "thew religion, new hanguges, mad a ns world, (milled lorth the grains of Europe.-(inbuon's Rome, vol. 1, ch. 2, p. 20.
23.10. GENIUS, Timely. Iverte Nortion. In no other mind hape the demonstrative fiucolly and rxcellence and perfert hurmony. Pirhoms in ant uge of Scotists and Thomiste even his intrllect mighat have rom to wate, as many intelle fer ram to waste which were inferior onls to his. Happily, the spirit of the uge on which his lot was cast gave the right dirertion to his mind ; mad hi mind reacter with tenfold fore on the phirit of the age. In the yar lasio his fime, though splendial, was only thaning ; but his genins was in the merid-im.-Mncatlay's Ena., ('l. 3, p. 383.
2:BAA. GENIUS, Toils of, liryil. Seven yomrs the pert is said to have cxpended in the composition of the Gergics. and they rould whe brinted in atoont seven cohmons of an ordinary newspaper. Tradition reports that he was in the habit of composing a few lines in the morning, and spemblimg the rest of the day in polishing them. Camplell used to say that if a poet mate one grood line $n$ week, he did wery well; but Moore thought that if a poct did his duty he combld get a line done every day. Virgil seems to have arromplished about four lines $n$ werk: lint then they have lasted eightern hundred years, and will hast cighteen hundred years more.-Cychoredia of hios., p. 139.
23.12. GENIUS, nappreciated. Wixhinytom. A.D, 1777. [Victorions at Bramlywine, the British were adyancing on Philadelphin.] John Adams blamed Washington without stint.
"O lleaven, grant us one great soml! One leading mind would extricate the best couse from that ruin which scems to awat it."--Banchofr's C. S., vol. 9, ('h. 23 .
23.3. GENIUS uncontrolled. Elmm:" Burke. No man had a better heart or more thoroughly hated oppression ; but he possessed mother experience in affairs nor tramfuil judgment nor the rule over his own spirit, so that his genias, umber the impalie of his bewidering passions, wrought much evil to his comotry and to Emope, even while he rendered noble service to the canse of commercial freedom, to Irehand and to America. -B.anchort's U. S., vol. 5, ch. 15.
2:B4. GENIUS, Undiscovered. C'ol $1 / m b u s$. lte applied himself first to the state of Genom, of which he was a sulyect, amb hmmbly solicited the publicaid for assistance to attempt some dispoveries in the western seas. He was treated us a visionary by his countrymen,and with the same ill success he made application to the courts of Portugal and of England. He then betook himself to Spain, where, after fruitless soiicitation for several years, he at length obtained [help] from Ferdinand and Isabelia.-Tytleris hist., Book 6, ch. 21, p. 305.
223.55. Admiret Blakre. Such whe lkobert Blake, when, tht tifty years of age, he was culled forth to an entrely new word of work, and from a gemeral on the thedd to tremd the derek as an adming on the Nems. Excellent as the serviee was which he had rendered as a soldler, we shoubal seareely have heard his mame hat that he added to all that land gone before the renown of a sailor whose mame shines as an equal hy the side of Drake, Nelsom, Collhgwood, and Ifood; and yet how strange it seems that he should rise to the rank of a tirst-rate English semman after his tiftieth year' strange that he should have been equal to stich victorious flghts ! mad yet prohably fin our day he would not have pmassed cither a eivil or an uncivil service exmmanation. - Hood's Cuomwela, ch. 15, p. 205.
2346. GENIUS, Work of, Eluminonedas. The ancient historians have ranked him among the grentest heroes and most illustrions charinters of antiguity. . . As a gemeral, there needs no other eriterion of his merit than to compare the situation in which he found his comntry-c.aslaved, oppressed, weak, and inconsiderathewith that in which he left it-the most formid. nble power in Grecec. As a private citizen, his socinl virtues, the generosity of his disposition, a total disregard of wealth, which his high amployments gave him un casy opportunity of accommulatiag, his cminent philosophicul and litcrary genins, and, above all, a modest simplicity of demeanor, which adeded lustre to .11 h his mumerons necomplishments, were the distinguishing fentures of his character. With him the glory of his country may be sald to have been born und to have died; for from the inauspicions day of his denth the Theban power vinished at once, und that Bcotian republic sunk again into its origimal obseurity.-Tytlen's IIst., Book 2, clı. 3, p. 167.
2847. --. Lyсиryия. " Не аррренred," says Plato, "like a god among men." Ite remized and netually excented what the greatest philosophers have sareely dared to imagine: to raise men above the passion of interest, above pain, abeve pleasure; to extinguish in them the strongest propensities of nature, ind to fill their whole souls with the love of glory and of their country.-Ty'tlen's IIsTr., Book 1, ch. 9, p. 68.
2348. GENTILITY by Restraint, Sa muel Joluson. An clegimt manner and ensiness of behavior are nequired gradunlly and imperceptibly. No man can say, "I'll be genteel." There are ten genteel women for one gented man, becanse they are more restrained. A man without some degree of restraint is insufferable; but we are all less restrained than women. Were a woman sitting in company to put out her legs before her ns most men do, we should he tempted to kick hem in.-Bosweln's Jounson, p. 303.
2349. GENTILITY, Vicious. Samuel Johnson. Boswela: . . . The genteelest characters are often the most immoral. Does not Lord Chesterfield give precepts for uniting wickedness and the graces? A man, indeed, is not genteel when he gets drunk ; but most vices may be committed very genteelly : a man may debauch his friend's wife genteelly; he may cheat at cards genteelly." Hicky: "I do not think that is genteel." Bos-

WFilı: "Nir, it may mot he likna grontleman, lut lag two different things, one memans axtortor grace: the other, homor. It is revtain that a шын may bo very lomooral with extertor grace.
 wicked charmeter. 'Tom Jervey, who dled tothor day, hough a virdoma man, was onde of the genterelest menthat ever liverl," 'Jon lavies instunced C'larles II.-- Buswellis's Johsson, 13. 245.
9350. GENTLENESS, Power of. ('lrixtith. Mr. Marsli, of Donsul, rclatin of an Armenian, mamed Johan, that when liviag at constantinople the was hired ly persecouting Armeninns to strike it whtehmaker. The latter, upon rereviving the blow, molyy prayed, "May (iod bless you." This remarkable nnswor was cethretunl: "for," suid John, in allasion to the allair, "I could not strike ngain, und nt night I mid to the money, "Instand of my enting you, yon will ent me "'," 22351. $\qquad$ - Irrhibited. Before his conversion Rev. Mathians doyce was a fearfully wieked man. When fifteen years old he came near murdering the chiled of his master with a puir of shasis; when nineteen he ran from home to calist on a man-of-war, nand made an nttempt to kill himseil. He beame a gambler,mad nttompted to murder a young man whom he lad led into vier ; be sink into drunkenness which nemrly coused his demin. Ile was drawn by the crowil to hear Mr. Wessey preach, who obtained gredit powar over his mind by one of his simple and characteristic acts of tenderness toward a child. He snys: " What endeared him still more to me was secing lim stoop down and kiss a little child that snt on the stairs of the pulpit." For thirty years he wats a pure, devout, and surcessfal minister.-S'TEVENs' METHODINM, vol. 2, p. 308.
2354. GESTICULATION a Specialty. Ancient Aetors. The ancient netorsused in their performance n great deal of gesticulation, which was requisite, from the inmense size of their thentres, in order to supply the defeet of the voice.

A violent and sirongly marked gesticulntion was therefore in some degree necessary; and this led to a very extraordinary practece in the latter period of the Roman theatre-namely, that there were two persons employed in the representation of one character. Livy, the historimn, relates the particular incident which gave rise to this prnctice. The poet Livins Andronicus, in acting upon the stage in one of his own plays, was ealled by the phandits of the mulience to repeat some farorite passages so frequenty, that his voice became inamdible through hoarseness, and he recpuested that a boy might be allowed to siand in front of the masicians and recite the part, while he himself performed the consomant gestienlation. It was remarked, says the historian, that his action was much more free and foreible from being relieved of the labor of niternnce; and hence it hecame customary, ndils Livy, to allow this practice in monologues, or soliloqules, and to require both voice and gesture from the same actor only in the colloguial parts. We have it on the authority of Lucian that the same practice came to be introduced upon the Greek stage. Formerly, says that author, the same actors both recited and gesticu-lated ; lont as it was ohserver that the conitnumb motlon, hy affecthig the bremthing oi the ator, was an linpediment to distinct recitation, it was juiged better to make one actor realte and mother gesticulate.-'TyTlwin's Щis\%, Book : ch. 8, p. 250.
2353. GHOBT, An Improviaed. Olirer Goldmuith. At another of these mertings there wiss min enrnest dispute on the fuestion of ghosts, oome being flrm believers in the possibility of depmeted spindts returning to visit their frimis nul fumiliar haunts. One of the disputhots set suil the next day for Lomlon, but the vessel put buck through stress of wenther. Ilis return was unknown except to one of the bellevers in ghosis, Who concerted with him a trick to le played off on the opposito purty. In the evening, at a meeting of the students, the discussion was renewed; and one of the most strenuons opposers of ghosts was asked whether he considired himself proof ugatnst ocular demonstration? He persisted In hisscotting. Some solemu prosess of conjurntion was performed, and the comrade supp ased to be on hils way to Jonden male: his appearance. Tho effect was fatal. The unbeliever fainted at the sight, and ultimately went mad.-Inving's Gohidsmitit, eh. 4, p. 30.
2354. GHOSTs, Beliof in. Semuel Johntou. Of John Wesley, he suid: " He can talk well on any subject." Boswelı: "Pray, sir, what has he mude of his story of the ghost ?" Jomsion : "Why, sir, he believes it ; but not on sutlleient mothority. Ite did not take time enough to examine tho girl. It wis at Neweastle, whore the ghost was said to lave uppenred to a young woman several times, mentioning something alout the right to fin old house, ndvising application to be made to an attorney, which was done; and at the sume time suying the nttorney would do nothing, which proved to be the fact. 'This,' says John,' is a proof that a ghost knows our thoughts.' Now (laughing) it is not necessary to know our thoughts to tell that an attorney will sometimes do nothing. Charles Wesley, who is a more stationary man, does not believe the story. I am sorry that John did not take more pains to inquire into the evidence for it." Miss Sewaind (with an incredulous smile): " What, sir I about a ghost ?" Jonnson (with solemn vehemence): "Yes, madum ; this is a question which, after five thousand years, is yet undecided-a question, whether in theology or philosophy, one of the most inportant that cin come before the human understanding."-Boswellis Johnson, p. 382.
2355. GHOSTS, Fear of. In Sitm. [When a death oceurs), after a duy or two the coflin is renoved, not through the door, but through an opening specially made in the will, and is escorted thrice around the house at full speed, in order that the dead, forgetting the way throngh which he has passed, may not return to molest the liv-ing.-General Grant's Tinavels, p. 382.
2356. GIFT, A dangerous. Samuel Johnson. Tom Hervey had a great liking for Johnson, and in his will had left him a legacy of $£ 50$. One day he said to me, "Johnson may want this money now more thin afterward. I have a mind to give it him directly. Will you be so good as to carry a $£ 50$ note from me to him ?" This I positively refused to do, its lie might, per-hops, have knowked medown for iosulting him, mad heve afterward put the note in his porket. Bat I mild if diarvey would writo hima letter. and collose a kion note. I should take care to dellver II.-Bonwehi's Jomsnos, p. 149.

2:357. GIFT, A rejected. Nifurtoon I. [The Dake of Modanim suct for pence. | When, in tremy with the Duke of Moldm, the (omminsury of the Frencla army rame to Napoleon nuil nuil, "'Tho brother of the clake is lare with $$ \mathbf{8 0 0 , 0 0 0}$ In gold. . . . Ite comes in the mame of the duko to bee yon to arerpt them, and 1 andvise you to do so. The money belongs to you. Take it without serupte," . . "I thank yon," replled Napoleon, coolly; "I shall not, for that sum, place myself in the power of the Inke of Modema." The whole contrifation want into thas army chest.-Abmotris Nifoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. $\%$.

235\%. GIFTS of Affection, Nirpelcom $I$. [After hils restoration to the throme he visited tho schoot he bud antabished] at Eeomen for the orphan diughters of the members of the lacrion of llonor. [1te was rewervel with intense enthashasm.]. . One of the yoming ladies ventured to slip a ring upon Nipoleon's finger. Emouraged hy the smile of the emperor, tha rest, fushing upon him, seized his lands and covered them with these ple plyes of love and gratitule. "Young ladies," naid the emperor. "they shall be as precions to me ns the jeweds of my crown." On retiring to his carringe he exclaimed, with moistened eves, "This is the helght of hupphess; there mee the most delightful moments of my life !'-ABnottis Niaroleon 13., vol. 2, ch. 20.
2859. GIFTs, Bridal. Of Plurilia. The mar. riage of $\Lambda$ dolphus and Placidin was consummated helore the Goths retired from Italy ; and the solemn, perhnps the nmiversary, dhy of thrir nupti.als wis afterward celebrated in the houso of Ingenuus, one of the most illustrious citizens of Narbonne in Gaul. The bride, attired and adorned like a Romun empress, was placed on a throne of state: and the king of the Goths, who assumed, on this occasion, the Roman habit, contented himself with a less honorable sent by her side. The nuptinl gifı, which, acoording to the custom of his nition, was offered to Placidia. consisted of the raro and magnifirent spuils of her country. Fifty bemutiful youths, in silken robes, curried a lasin in mach hand ; and one of these basins was tilled with pieres of gold, the other with precious stones of minestimable value.-Ghmins's Rome, ch. 31.
28360. GIFTS, Fictitious. Siege of Reme. The Goths were apmenensive of disturbing, by any rush hostilities, the negotintion to which Belisarius had craftily listened. They credulously believed that they saw no more than the vanguard of a tleet and army, which already covered the Ionian Sea and the plains of Campanin ; and the illusion was supported by the haughty language of [Belisarius] the Roman genemot, whon he gave nudience to the ambassadors of Vitiges. After a specious discourse to vindicate the justice of his cmuse, they declared that, for the sake of peace, they were disposed to renounce the possession of Sicily. "The emperor is not less generous," replied his lieutenant, with a disdainful smile, "in return for a gift which you on mo.s'м [Roms, ch. d1.

2HBAL. OIFTS, Rare. Ti, loymity. 'flor gifts mesis presented to the limperor Basil, her melopt.

 silk and linen, of varions nse and clemomimation ; tho silk was palnted with Ile 'Jyrian dyer, und stlorned by the fabors of the viedede: ind the linen was so expminituly the, that an entire pione might le rolled in the lallow aly ande.-(iarmon't Rome, ch, 5is.
 court of a l'ortaguese king the compans was first merionsly stanlied. There, low, were ronstruded ther tirat thbles of the sums derelimations, for smil. ors' use ; and there wat tirst diselosed the modern moele of taking olseq vatlons of the sum. Isy borthguese mavigators the hands lying of the dfriome conas-the Azores, Madelrins, ('use Verden, mad whers-were diseovererl. l'orthguree saloms tirst ventured down along the comat of Miria'a; flost visited the uegro in his mative homb: first saw the elaphant: flast Irought to finrope pepper, ivory, ind geld dast from the shores of Gumeat first phanted the croses men those dist:mit comsta ; first saw that remote headhabl which was alterward named the Cape of Goosl Hope: first donbled the cinpe, and sus reabled by seat the East Indies. These were great ichlicerments, serond in importance only to the diseovery of a now continomt, and sarpassing even that in dilllenly and danger.-C'ioloIEDAA OF JBHO., P. 28:3.
23383. GLORY, Enduring, Ciomlorss. [Agesilans, the farerhemomian kingr might have led 'ligrames, King of Armenin, captiveat the wherels of his chariot: he rathor chose to make him ata ally : on which oerasion he made tase of that memorable expression, " I preder the glory that will has forever to that of tidny."-PLurancen.
 of Elwarl lll., which was of fifty-ome yemms dumation, is, on ihe whoto, revtandy one of the most glorions in the ambals of fingland ; nor is it alome the splandor of his foreign victo. ries whieh has contributed to remder the memory of this king great and illustrions. Itis forejgin wars, hough most eminently sucerssfal, were undher founded in justine nor produrdive of my shlistantial bemofit io the mation. But bagland in his lime enjoyed domestic tranguillity. Lis nobles were overawed by the spirit and valor of their sovereign, and his people attachad to him on areoment of his arts of mumifiernce and his silulary laws.-Tr'raEi's IIs'r., Book 6, ch. 12.

2iB65. GLORY forgotten. Pyramids. Of the purpose for which hose obelisks were reared we can only form conjectures, as the ancient writers give us no information. It las been supposed that they were intended to serve as gnomons for astronomical purposes, or to detemmine the length of the whar year liy the mastire of the moridinn shatown; fout their simmilon "pon meven the hivary of the milon, we lor lire rerglaters of tionsof tho Nilo. . . . But modilare thenge nor tho buililere of those miructures are known whla nuy romarks, of the vinily of surd molcotakliggs. -

2:BA3S. GLORY to God only, ('romirell. f('rome.

 lumal of (bot, and to line nlone give the glary, liNa., vol. I, (•h. is, j. 1".

2:367. GLORY, Military, Trujun. Trajun wns mmbithoms of finme: mmd as lomig ns manklime shall contimue to bestow more litural applatise on their destroyers than on their hemefuctors, the thirst of mblitiry hlary will ever be the vice of the most exalted charathrs. The praves of Alexander, trunsmitted by a sucursislon of pords amd historianm, lad kindlad a dangroons cmulalion in the mind al Trajan. Dike him, the the mations of the East ; but he banemted with at sigh that his adranced ngesenres. y left hime my hopres of expalling the renown of the son of Plibip. Yet the Euceress ol' 'I'rajan, fowevor tmasient, was rapid and specious-Gimmos's liome, ch. 1.

2B63. GOD, Conception of. Americal" Indians. The (iod of lhe satage was what the metaphysician endemvors to express by the word sulbstance. The red man, unacernstomed to gronernlization, ohtained noromerphion of an mbsohte sal). shance, of a self-exislent being, bat saw a divinity in every power. Wharever there was being, metion, or action, there to him was aspirit.
When he feels his palse throb or his heart beat he knows that it is a spirit. . . . Faith in the Great Spirit . . . infonal inself into the henrt of the remotest tribes. - B.anchow's U. S., vol, 3, ch. 2d.
 Aro found rough soldiers in the army of Charlas Vll.] These brigands, it is true, hit upon stange means of recomeiling religion and rohbery. One of them, the Gaseon Sat lifere gave verit to the original ramark: "Were God to furn man-at-irms, Ite would be a phonderar ;" and when he went on a foray, he offered up his litte Gaseon praver withoit amaring loo mimutoly into his wants, comoreiving lhat ded would lake in hint: "Nire God, I pray iher to do for Jat IIire what lat lire wondd do fer there wert thou a (aphain and wort Ja llire God."-Mictas-

2370. GOD, Existence of. Itheisks. [During the Rejign of Terror the Fromels were derdareil to be a mation of atheists by the Natiomal $A$ ssembly ; but a brief experience convinced them that a nation of atheists could not long exist. lRobespierre then] proclaimed in the Convention that belief in the existence of a God was necessary to those principles of virtue and morality upen whilh the republier was foumded; mul on the 3 th of May the malomal representatives, who hand so lately prosernterl themselves before the fionddose of Kerison, voted by arelamation that "the Frweh pepple meknowle the the existence of the supreme Bubs, mal the immortality of

2:3\%1, GOD our Father. Eithitionas. Alexinn-
 than philosophor; mad the saylug of his that phensed hime most was that hill medi mre gov. aromed by doal, for In everything ther which rules or goveros is divine. But Alexmader's own maxim was more agreenhle to sombil philo:ophy; ; hatil: " dod is the common Futher of men, but more purtionlaty of the gowd nul

9B72, GOD, Firat for. Themates Mare. Young ns he wis, More mo socomer guitted the university than he was known throughout burope as one of the formost thenes in the new moveinchi. . . . In a higher, beramse la a sweeter mat mane lovalile form than Colet, More isthe represemative of the religions tembency of the: new learning of England. The young haw stadent who hughed at the superstition and asecticism of the monks of his diy wore a hatr shirt next his skin, mill schooled himsilf by penances for the wedl he desired momig the (arthinshans. It won clomateriatic of the man that anomig atl the gray, protlgate selobats of thas Itablan Remaissamee, he chose bis the objoet of his admiration the diserple of savonarola, lien (1) Mimmbola. Freethinker as the higots who listened to hifs diring speremathons termed him, his eye would brighten and his tongue finter as he spoke with fithends of heaven mind the aflerlife. When he took ofllee, it was v: th the opern stipulation. "Fisst tolook to Gorl, a w after Goal

2378. GOD, Ideas of. Philosophers. Of the four most celebrated seloobls, the stoics mad the Phtonists endeavored to reconcile the jarring interests of reasen and plety. They have left un the most sublime prosfs of the existence and perfeetions of the first canse ; but us ic was impossible for them to conceive the remtion of mates, the workmun in the stoie philosoplyy was not suthcienter distinguished from the work: while, on the contrary, the spiritmal Gend of Platomal his diseiples resembled min iden rather than a sub-stance.-Gmbos's Roms, ch. : 2 .
238.1, GOD, Ignorance of. Siafe. [Zayal, one of the sitres of Meech, brokeopenly with the religion of his comery; he blatiphemed heroically the godsof the khoremhites ; he wished to taved into foreign hands and to take connsel of their sages. Jitis fanily cumsed him to be kept hy fore at Merca, elosely watehed hy his wife kiphyin. Ite sighed umder the constraint he was thas sibhjected to. Ite was somet imes overhened, with his mack against the wall of the temple, to say with bitterness to the mknown Gom who was agitating his conscience: " Lnen, if I only knew how thou wouldst be served and mored, I would ohey thy will ; but I an in ignomance.". . . IIe thein prostrated his faceaguinst the groand and moistened the placo with his tems.-Lamantine's Turker, p. 60.
2375. GOD inviaible. Reverted. [The Ishmaclite Arabs have a tradition, which says Abrahan was concomed batab, when an lafant. hrotuse of the perserention of Nimrond. There hos lite llent in his cavern. him tirat egression from it wis hy night. Thar tirmoment of challent, Hillog with lominome remtures that thonted in the ether, reveated to him (iond. Guly he was not yet able to dixthgish 1 lim from illis works. A star resphombent heyond the ohbers tirst arrested his dazaled eyes: "There is my dod!"exclum. ed he to hiniself. Jresently tive sar deseconded and illany meared in the horizon. "No," satid her, "that cmanot he the (iosl whon I adore." Si" with mevernl other comstedlatons. A fterward thes mon" nrose: "Thery la my (ionl" cried he. And it set. "No, it is mot my dod." In flone. the sum arose majoseleally hathe Fast, nt the horder of the forrsi. "Mere, truls, is my Gool," suid ha; "it is harge and dazaling luyomd nill whers." The wat ar complished his carrer, and went down la the horizon, leavhge the mante of night upon the earth. "That la not still the (bond I book for to atore," mutered penisively the lafant desthed for: the mboration of the divinty invisible, hmmevible, nut etermal. He returned to his cavern to merek his God lin his own semb.Lamaitinge' T'uhkey, p. 41.

22876, GOD, A political. Fiext Iudiun. The roHgion mad government of Thilhet form one of the mose exirnordinury phenomem in the history of munklud. The klugiom of Thilet is governed by a yobug man premontlug a living gool, who foralled the Grout dama, or Dhad Lamm. De resides in a pugola or temple upon 14 mountah. where he las seen contimully mflthig in a crosslegged posture, without tipaklag or moving, excrpt sometmes lifthyg his hand, when he upproves of the mbliesses of his votaries. Ile ap-between tweroty mid thirty yaurs of age. ivot only the people of Thibet, but the neiphboring priaces, resort to the shrine of the hmm, amid bring thither the most mugnltient presents. Th. hama is both the natiomi god and the sovareign. He appoints deputies under him, the chioe of whom is called the Ti pm , who manges the temporal nthise of the kingdom, wheh it is heneath the dignity of the hama ever to attend to. The arention of thls prince or god is kept a most mysterious secret thy the priests. When it is tho misfortune of thla poor image of divinity mal sovereiguty to fall side, or to lose his youthfil appemance, he is pat to death by the prlests, whe have alway mother yom min whom they have privately edurated had properly tmined to supply his phace. Thus the religion of the lamat is nothing else than an artfal contrivance of the priests of Thibet to engross to themselves the sovervignty and absolate government of the comatry.-T'yThtis IIIsT., Book 6, ch. 23 , 1. $3: 3$.

2:377. GOD, Presence of. Mithomet. Three dnys Mahomet and $\lfloor\mathrm{Ali}\rceil$ his compmion were comcealed in the cave of Thor, at the distance of a lagae from Mecea; and in the close of ench evening they received from the son and danghter of Abubeker a seeret supply of intelligence and food. The diligenee of the Koreish explored every haunt in the neighmrhood of the eity; they arrived ut the entrance of the cavern; but the providential decult of a spider's web and a nigeon's nest is sipposed to convince tiem that the place was solitury and inviolate. "We are is a t. Ird," repiied the peophet ;"it is Gol himself." No sooner was (be pursuit abated than the two faritives issurd from the roek and monnt. el their ce. nels. -Gubson's Rone, ch. 50.
3378. -- ILuron Clier [Bvehouf, the Jesuit misionary, visited the ham ons.] 13efore you came to this comery the great warrior Almsistari) . . . Would say, When I lave incurred the greatest perils, and have alose esenped, I have suid to myself, " Some powerful spirit has the grardianship of my days;"; and he professed his belief :a Jesus as the good genms and protector whom he had meousciously adored. Banchort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. :0.

2'079. GOD required. The Sbill. [Timour the Tartar desired a miversal confuest, saying the earth was too small for more than one master.] "It is too small "o satisfy the ambition of ngrent soul." "The ambition of a great sonl," snid one day to him the Sheik of Samarcand, "is not to be satisfied by the possession of a morsel of earth added to another, but by the possession of God, alone sufheient'y great to fill up an infinite thonght."-Lamaitine's Tuhkey, p. 310.
2380. GOD, Severlty of. Srendinavians. Odin was their principal divinity ; . . . to him they uttributed every chamater that could inepire fear and horror, without any mixture of the amiable or mercifil. He is called in the Edda the terrible and severe God, whe father of carnage, the avenger, the deity who marks out those who are destined to be shin. This terrible God was held , be the creator and father of the uni-verse.-Tr rleu's IIstr., Book 5, ch. 6.
2381. GOD, sons of. Christuans. IIow decisive a proof is this of Cromwell's genius, this enlisting the reiigions enthusiasm of the country on the side of the Parliament; thus fronting the idea of lofty birth with Divine ancestry-loyalty to the king with loyalty to God-immense possessions with heirship to a Divine inheritance-and obedience to the laws and prerogative of the monureh with obedience to those triths engraven on the "tables of stone," hut written by the Divine Spirit on " the fleshly table of the heart," in the heroism of discipine and faith and prayer. -Hood's Cronvell, ch. 6, p. 100.
2382. GOD, Views of. Comforting. On one occasion he requined a Saxon peasant to repeat the Creed. Ite began, "I believe in God the Father Almighty," when Luther stopped him and asked, "Whet is Almighty?" The peasant replied, "I do not know." "You are right, my dear fellow," responded Luther ; " neither I nor all the learned men can tell what God's power and might is. But do you continue to believe in all simplicity that God is your beloved and faithful Father, who as the Only Wise can and will help your wife and children in every hour of ned."-Rein's Lutiler, ch. 16, p. 149.

238:. GOD, Vision of. Anerican Indians. On approaching maturity, the young Chippewa, anxious to behold God, blackens his face with charcoal, and building a lodge of cedar houghs, it may le on the summit of a hill, there hegins his fast in solitude. The fast endures, perhaps, ten days, sometimes even without water, till, excited by the serverest irritntion of thirst, watehfuluess, and fimine, he beholds the vision of Goui, and knows it to be his guardian spinit.-Banchoft' U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
2384. GOD, Voice of. Jorm of Arc. Her own words describe them inest. " $\Delta t$ the age of thir teen a voice from God came to her to help het in ruling herself, and that the voice came to her ubout the hour of noon, in summer time, whilo she was in her futher's garden. And she had fastel the day before. Aid she heard the voice on her right, in the direction of the church; and when she heard the voice, she saw also a bright light." Afterward St. Michuel and St. Margareb mad St. Catharine arpened to her. They were ulways in a halo of glory ; she could see that their heacis were crowned winh jewels; and she heard their voices, which were sweet and mild. She did not distinguish theirarms or limbs. She hemrd them more frequently thm she saw them; and the usial time when she hemrd them was when the chareh bells were sounding for prayer. -Decisive Battles, \& 373.
2385. GOD, will of. Crusoders. From the synod of Patacentia, the rumor of his great design had gone forth among the nations ; the clergy on their return had preached in every diocese the merit and glory of the delivernnce of the Holy Land; and when the pope nscended a lofty scaffold in the market-place of Clermont, his eloquence was addressed to a well-prepared and imphtient audience. Ilis topirs were obvious, his exhortation was vehemen, 1 s. suecess inevitable. The orator was interrupter' .he shout of thousands, who with one voice nd in their rustic idiom, exelaimed nloud, " God wills it, God wills it." "It is indeed the will of God," replied the pope; "and let this memorable word, the inspiration surely of the Holy Spirit, be forever udopted as your ery of butle, to animate the devotion and courage of the champions of Christ. His cross is the symbol of your salvation ; wear it, a red, a bloody cross, as an external mark, on your breasts or shoulders, as a pledge of your sacred and irrevocable engagement." The proposal was joyfully aecepted; sreat numbers, ?oth of the elergy and laity, impressed on their garments the sign of the cross, and solicited the pope to march at their head.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 58, p. 543.
2386. GODS, Dercent from. Spurious. There was a woman in Pontus who gave it out that she was preguant by $A$ pollo. . . . When she was delivered of a sun . . . gave him the name of Silenus. Lysander took this miraculous birth for a foundation, and raised all his luilding upon it. He made choice of such assistants as might bring the story into reputation, and put it beyond suspicion. Then he gotanother story propagated at Delphi and spread at Spara, that certain ancient oracles were kept in the private registers of the priests, which it was not lawful to touch or to look upon, until in some future age a person should arise who could clearly prove himself the son of $A$ pollo, and he was to interpret and publish those oracles. The w... thus prepared, Silenus was to make his appearance, as the son of Apollo, and demand the oracles. The priests, w:Ho were in combination, were to inquire into every article, and examine him strictly as to his birth. At last they were to pretend to be convinced of his divine parentage, and to show him the books. Silenus then was to read in public all those propheces, purticulaty that for which the whole design wns set on footnamely, that it would be more for the honor and interest of sparta to set aside the present race of kings, and ehooso others out of the best and most worthy of men in the commonwealth. But when Silems was grown up, and came to undertake his part, Lysamder had the mortitication to see his piece miscarry by the cowardice of one of the actors, whose heart fuited him just as the thing was going to be pat in execution. However, nothing of this was discovered while Lysmeder lived.-Plutarcios Lysander.
2387. GODS, Great. Persintasion-Force. [Themistoeles said to the Adrians when he wishad u, exhort money from them :] He brought two gods nlong with him-Persutasion and Force. They replied they had alsc, two great gods on their side-Poverty and Despair, who forbade them to satisfy him. - Plucrabci's Themistocles.
2388. GOLD, Craze for. Emigrants to Jumestown. [Second lot of emigrants.] The newcomers were chictly vagabond gentlemen and goldsmiths, who, in spite of the remonstrances of Smith, ... believed they had discovered grains of gold in a glittering earth. . . . "There was now no talk, no hope, no work, hut to dig gold, wash grold, refine gold." Newport, the commander, . . . believed himself immeasurably rich, as he embarked for England with a freight of worthless cartl!.-Bancrofy's Hist. of C. S., ch. 4.
2389. GOLD, Delusion of. Iondoners. One of Frobisher's ships . . . proceeded to the northwest [seeking a passage to India north of Hutson's Strait], $\qquad$ he came upon an island which he supposed to be the mainland of Asia; to this he gave the name Meta Incognita. North of this island he entered the [Frobisher's] Strait, carrying home with hiin . . a stone which was declared by the English refiners to contain gold. London wis greatly excited. Queen Elizabeth herself adted a vessel to the new fleet which in . . 1577 depa "ted for Meta Incognita to gather the precious metal by the shipload. . . . The suminer wis unfavorable. [The ships returned empty after passing great perils.] Were the English gold-hunters satistied? Not at all. Fifteen new vessels were immediately fitted out. . . . In $1578 \ldots$ the third voyage was begum. This time a colony was to be plented in the goldregions, . . twelve of the ships were to be freighted with gold-ore and return to London.

They encountered icebergs more terrible than ever. The vessels finally reached Metn Incognita and took on cargoes of dirt. . . . The provision ship now slipped away and returned to London. . . . The colony which was to be planted was no longer thought of. Faith in the shining earth which they had stored in the holds gave way, and so, witl ... several tons of the spurious ore, . . the thips set sail for home. The El Dorado of the Esquimaux had proved an utter failure.-RidiAtris U. S., ch. 6, p. 80.
2390.
 Spaniards. In the year 1526 Charles V. appointed the unprincipled Panfilo de Narvaez governor of Florida, the usual privilege of conquest. . . . His force consisted of 2 fio soldiers and forty horsenem. The natives treated them with suspicion, and, anxions to be rid of the intruders, beran to hold up their trinkets and to point to the nortl. The hint was eagery taken ly the avaricious spaniards. . . They struck bofdly into the forests, expecting to find cities and enpires, and found instead swamps and savages.

A spumlid village of forty calins . . was the mighty eity to which their guides had directed then.. . . 'ricy reached the sent at the harbo: of st. Mark's. . . With great labor they constructed hrigantines, and put to sea in the vain hofe of reaching the Spanish settlements in Mexieo. . . . They were thrown upon the shore, drowned, slain by the savages, . . until fimaly four miserable men, of all the ardventurons company, . . . were rescued at . . . Sam Miguct on the Pacific eorast. . . . The story can hardly be paralleled in the anmals of sutfering and leril.--linmarn's Č. S., ch. 4, 1. 63.
2391. GOLD vs. Labor. Hernctuth Corten. Being then nindtern, he took passuge in a merchant vessel, and after a most tempestuons passage reached the ishand of Hispmonola, then the seat of Spanish power in Ameriea. Ite was at that time a very handsome young man, graceful, self-contident, a superior swordsman and horseman, and highly aceomplished in all warlike exercises. On lenving the ship he went nt once to the honse of the govemor, a friend of his family. The governor being absent upon an experdition, his secretary received Corte\% with politeness, nud, by way of encouraging a newcomer, assured him that the governor, upon his return, would doubthess allot to him a liberal tract of hand. "Land!" said Cortc\%, "I come to find gold, not to plough the ground like a pensant."-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 318.
2692. GOLD, Ruined by. John A. Sutter. [The discoverer of grold in Californin.] People often sny what they would do if they should find a goid mine, evidently supposing that a man who finds a gold mine is made rich of course. But this, it appears, is not always the case. Neither the man who diseovered grod in California nor the man upon whose land it was discovered have been benctited by it. On the contrary, the discovery ruined them both, and both are to-day poor men.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 522.
2393. GOOD, Doing. Drily. [Alexander the Great found in Persia] philosophers, [who were] so called from their going naked. [They] were divided into two sects- the Brachmani and the Germani. The Brachmani were most esteened because there was a consistency in their principles. Apuleius tells us that not only the scholars but the younger pupils were assembled about dinner time, and examined what good they had done that day ; and such as cound not point out some act of humanity or useful pursuit that they had been engaged in were not allowed any dinner.-Pletarcios Alesander. Langhonne's Note.
2394. GOODNESS, False. Chatriluus. [The Grecian] was so remarkable for the gentleness of his disposition, that Archelaus, his partner in the throne, is reported to have said to some that were praising the young king: "Yes, Charilaus is a good man to be sure, who cannot find in his heart to punish the mad."-I'lutancin's Lycungus.
2395. GOODNESS, Greatness of. Iericles. When lee was at the point of death his surviving friends and the principal citlzens sitting about his bed discoursed together concerning his extraorlinmry virtue and the great muthority he had enjoyed, and enumerated his various exploits and the number of his vietories; for while he was commander-in-chief he had erected no less than nine trophies to the homor of Athens. These things they talked of, supposing that he attended not to what they said, but that his senses were gome. He took notice, however, of every word they had spoken, and therempon delivered himself audibly as follows: "I um surprised, that while yon dwell upon and extol these acts of mine, thourh fortune had her share in them, and many other generals have performed the like, you take no notice of the greatest and most honorable part of my character, that no Athenian, through my means, ever put on mourning." -Pletarcin's Pericles.
2396. $\qquad$ Puritans. Those who hated the Commonwealth acknowledged that England never stood higher than when she demanded justice for a few poor cultivators of the Alps-those who had kept the truth
"When all our fathers worshipped storks and stones."
[Cromwell, by envoy extraordinary, had remonstrated agrainst the crueltics to the Vinulois. By his firmmess and emrnestness he secured to them their ancient liberties.]-Knititris Exg., vol. 4, ch. 18, p. 198.
2397. G\%ODNESS, Terrified by. Ifenry III. [In July ol 1261 IIenry lII.] was at Westminster; and being in his pleasure barge on the Thames a thunder-storm came on, at which he was alarmed, and landed in the garden of the Bishop of Durham. De Montfort was in the palace of the bishop, mod went forward to meet the king. "What do you fear, sir'?" said the carl; "the storm has passed over." The king replied, "I fear thunder and lightning beyond measure ; but by God's head! I fear you more thim all the thunder and lightning in the world." [The earl was a patriot and the foremost man of his times.] - Kivignt's Enci., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 3 亿. .

2is9s. GOSPEL, Heavenly. Sirilor. [John Tunnell, one of the carly Methodist preachers of that ehurch in America, was so pale he resem-bled- a dead man; but his voice was strong and musical, and his style was eloquent. A sailor was one day passing where he was preaching. He stopped to listen, and was olsserved to be much affected. Afterwarl meeting with his companions, he said :] "I have been listening to a man who has been dead, and in lieaven; but he has returned, and is telling the people all about that world."-Stevens" M. E. Churen, vol. 2, ch. 6, p. 38.
2309. GOSPEL, Triumph of Paganism. The ruin of paganism, in the age of Theodosi is perhaps the only example of the total exturpation of any ancient and popular superstition : and may therefore deserve to be considered as a singular event in the history of the human mind.-G1bbon's Rome, ch. 28, p. 131.
2400. GOSSIP, Sorviceable. Omar. [One of Mahomet's converts, named] Omar, wishing to let lis conversion transpire mong the Khoreishites without avowing it himself, went, on leaving the meeting, to the honse of a Khoreishite notorions as a newsmonger and for his impotence to keep a secret. " Listen," said he to him, "but do not betray me; I have just made a secret profession of fuith to Islamism." The newsmonger runs immediately to the $v$ stibule of the Kmam, the labitual resort of the idlers of Meeca, erying aloud that Omar had apostatized the idols, and was become perverted like the others. "Thou liest," said Omar to him, coming up behind him; "I a n not perverted, I am converted, I nm a Mussulman, I make confession that there are no other gods but the only Gorl, nud that Mathomet is the levember of that God."-Lasastine' Tulkey, p. 90.

2&01. GOVERNMENT, Arbltrary: British. The most general cause of the American Revolution was the right of arbithary govermment, chaimed by Great Britain and denied by the colonies. So long as this claim was asserted by England only is a theory, the contlict was postponed ; when the English Government began to enforce the principle in practice, the colonies resisted. . . There were also many subordinate causes tending to 'ring on a contlict.-Ridpatn's U. S., chl. 37, p. 285.
2402. GOVERNMENT, Art of. Diocletian. Nor were the vices of Maximian less useful to his benefuctor. Insensible to pity, and fearless of conseguences, he was the ready instrument of every net of cruclty which the policy of that artful prince might nit onee suggest and diselaim. As soon as a bloody sacritice had been offered to prudence or to revenge, Diocletian, by his seasonable intercession, saved the remaining few whom he had never designed to punish, gently censured the severity of his stern colleague, and enjoyed the comparison of a grolden and an iron age, which was universaliy applied to their opposite maxims of government. Notwithstanding the difference of their charachers, the two emperors maintained, on the throne, that friendship which they had contracted in a private station. The hanghty, turbulent spirit of Maximian, so fatal afterward to himself and to the public peace, was accustomed to respect the genius of Diocletian, and confessed the ascendancy of reason over brotal violence.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 13, p. 405.
2403. GOVERNMENT, Atrocious. Reign of James II. A.D. 1685. The history of our coio nization is the listory of the crimes of Europe. Thus did Jeffreys contribute [by condemning to transportation and sale of convicts] to peophe the New World. . . . Kidnapping liad become common in Bristol; and not felons only, but young persons and others, were harried across the Athantic and sold for money. At Iristol the mayor and the justices would intimidate small rogues and pilferers, who, under the terror of being hanged, prayed for transportation as the only menns of saffety, and were then divided among the members of the court [who sold them]. The trade was exceedingly profitablefar more so than the slave-trade-and had been conducted for years.-Bancroft's U. S., ch. 14.
2404. GOVERNMENT, Coerced. Charles I. There was yet one last expedient which, as the king tlattered himself, mirht save him from the misery of facing unother llonse of Commons. Departing from the uninterrupted practice of centuries, he called a great comeil consisting of peers alone. But the lords were too prudent to assume the uneonstitutional functions with which he wished to invest them. Without money, without credit, without muthority even in his owr camp, he yichled to the pressure of necessity. The houses were convoked, and the elections proved that, since the spring, the distrust and hatred with which the government was regarded had made fenful progress. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 89.

2HOS. GOVERNMENT, Complex. In Illund. [Willinm of Orange meditated an invasion of Enghund.] It seemed very donltful whether he would te able to oltain the assistance of a single battalion. Of all the difticulties with which he had to struggle, the greatest, thongh little noticed by English historians, arose from the constitution of the Batavim republic. No great society has ever existed during a long course of years under a polity so inconvenient. The StatesGencral could not make war or peace, could not conclude any alliance or levy any tax, without the consent of the States of every province. The States of a province could not give such consent without the consent of every municipality which had a slare in the representation.Macaulay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 381.
2.106. GOVERNMENT, Concentrated. Reign of George III. [It was resolved to tax and otherwise oppress the American colonics.] It would seem that the execution of so monientous a design must have engaged the attention of the whole people of Eagland und of the civilized world. But so entirely was the British Government of that day in the hands of the few, and so much was their curiosity engrossed by what would give influence at court or secure votes in the House of Commons, that the most eventful measures cver adopted in that country were entered upon without any observation on the part of historians and writers of memoirs at the time. The ministry itself was not aware of what it was doing.-BaNcroft's U. S., vol. 5, ch it.
2407. - Louis XIV. Louis imbibed the most extravagant ideas of the nature and extent of the royal prerogative. .. . He aimed to concertrate in himself individually all the - powers and functions of government. The sovereign, in his view, was. . . the fountain and author of all law and all justice. This theory he was aceustomed to express in the well-known apothegm, "The State is myself."-Stconents' France, ch. 21, Ş 1.
2108. GOVERNMENT confused. Nero Jersey. It was almost impossible to tell to whom the jurisdiction of the territory rightfully helonged. So far as the eastern province was coneerned, the representatives of Carteret chamed it ; the Governor of New York claimed it ; Penn and his associates claimed it. As to the western province, the heirs of Byllinge claimed it; Lucas, Laurie, and Penn ehained it ; the Governor of New York claimed it. Over all these stood the paramount chaim of the English king. From 1689 to 169 there was no settled form of government in the territory. And for ten years thereafter the colony was vexed and distracted with the presence of more rulors than any one province could accommodate.-Rimis'rit's U.S. ch. 24, p. 207.
2409. GOVERNMENT, Dangerous. Decemirs. Whatever we may judge of the designs of these decemvirs, it is certain that they endeavored to maintain their authority by extreme vioknce, and as certain that they becmine almost immedintely the objects of pulilic indignation. From their first nppearance in the formm, they were prereded lyy twedve lictors, who constantly carriad the fusees armed with axes. Their suite was commonly composed of a number of the most liecntions patricians; protligutes loaded with delet or stained with crimes; men whose pleasure lay in every species of disorder, und who contributed a despernte uid to those ministers whose power proterted them in their lawless exresses. . . Such was the miserable situation of Rome under her new governors, that many of the principal citizens betook themselves for refuge to the allied states.-Gibion's Rome, Book 3, ch. :̇, p. 336 .
2110. GOVERNMENT, Demoralizing. Bad. The horrid practice, so amiliar to the ancients, of exposing or murdering their new-horn infants, was become every day more frequent in the provinces, and especially in Italy. It was the effect of distress ; and the distress was principally occasioned by the intolcrable burden of tixes, and by the vexatious as well as rerucl prosecutions of the officers of the revemuengninst their insolvent debtors. The les gipulent or less industrious part of mankind, insteal of rejoicing in an increase of family, deemed it an act of paternal tenterness to release their chidren from the impending miseries of a life which they themselves were unable to support. [Such was the condition of the Roman people early in the fourth century.]Gibbon's Rone, ch. 3, p. 94.
2411. GOVERNMENT, Destitute of. Neic Jersey. For twelve years the whole province was not in a settled condition. From June, 1689 , to August, 1692, east New Jersey had no government whatever, being, in time of war, without military officers, as well as without magistrates; and afterward commissions were issucd by two sets of proprietors, of whieh cach had its alherents; while a third party, swayed by disgust at the confusion, . . . rejerted the proprictaries alto-gether.-B.incroft's U. S., ch. 19, vol. 3.
2412. GOVERNMENT detested. Charles II. The roar of forcign guns was heard, for the first and last time, by the citizens of London. In the council it was serionsly proposed that, if the encmy advanced, the Tower should be abandoned. Great multitudes of people assembled in the strects, crying out that Enghand was bought and sold. The honses and carriages of the ministers were attacked by the populace; and it seensed likely that the government would have to deal at once with an invasion and with an insurrection. The extreme danger, it is true, soon passed by.-Micaclay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 180.
2113. GOVERNMENT, Dictatorial. Gustirns III. He declured that, in future, the king alone should have power to convene and dissolve the legislature ; that the king should have the absolute command of army and mavy, and the power to appoint and remove all othicers, militury, naval, and civil; that, in case of necessity, of

Which the king aloue was to be the judge, le should impose faxes without romsulting the Sonate; that the sromate shonld discriss no subjerts except those proposed by the king ; but that no olfensive war should be madertaken withont their consont. He then dechared the semate dissolved, ind its mombers dismissed from all their employments. We concladed by taking in psalmbook from his 'pocket, and pave out athanksgiving hymm, which the whole assembly rose and sing. . . . The king's trinmph was complete. Intwo dives Sweden, from being the most strictly limited momarchy in Europe, became ome of the most ubsolute.-CyChonemia of Brog., p. 343 .
2414. GOVERNMENT difficult. Sots. Though the soottish Parliament was obsecpuious, the Seottish people had always been singularly turbulent and monovermble. 'They had butchered their first James in his bedehmber; they had repeatedly armyed themselves in arms agrainst James II. : they lad slain James IlI. on the the tield of battle; their disobedience had broken the heart of James V.; they had deposed and imprisoned Mary; they had led her son captive ; and their temper was still as untractable ase ever. Their habits were rude amd martial. All along the sontluern border and all along between the IIighbands and the Lowhands ranged an incessant and predatory war.-Machenay's Exa., ch. 1, p. 87.

2』15. GOVERNMENT, Discordant. Aere. [Under the Crusiders.] After the loss of Jerusalem, Acre, which is distant abont seventy miles, became the metropolis of the Latin Chiristians, and was adorned with strong and stately buildings, with aqueducts, an artificial port, and a double wall. The population was increased by the incessant streams of pilgrims and fugitives; in the patuses of hostility the trade of the East and West was uttracted to this convenient station ; and the market could offer the produce of every elime and the interpreters of every tongue. But in this conflux of nations every vice was propagated and practised ; of all the disciples of Jesus and Mahomet, the male and female inlab)itants of Acre were esteemed the most corrupt ; nor could the abuse of religion le corrected by the discipline of law. The city had many sovcreigns, and no government. The kings of Jerusilem and Cyprus, of the house of Lusigman, the princes of Antioch, the counts of Tripoli and Sidon, the great masters of the hospital, the temple, and the Teutonic order, the republies of Venice, Genoa, and Pisa, the pope's legate, the kings of France and England, assumed an independent command; seventeen tribunals excreised the power of life and death; every criminal was protected in the adjacent quarter; and the perpetual jealousy of the nations often burst forth in aets of violence and blood.-GisBON's lROME, ch. 59, p. 46.
2416. GOVERNMENT disgraced. George Villiers. George Villiers, afterward Duke of Buckingham, on whom the king, in the space of a few years, lavished all possible honors, . . . was devoid of every talent of a minister ; he was headstrong in his passions, imprudent, impolitic, and capricious. He was distinguished by a romantic spirit, which led him into the nost extravagant excesses; and the indulgence of his favorite passions had their intluener even upon the publice measHres of the mation. We projected an athsurd expedition of Charles, the Prince of Wates, into Spain, on a visit, in diseruise, to the lnfinta, the danghter of Philipi IV., who had iseen proposed to hifin as a desirable matelo. Their alventures on this expedition have more the air of rommere than of history : lont Buckingham was the hero of the piece. Ite filled all Madrid with his hintrignes, his amonrs, semodes, challenges, and jealonsies. IIe insulted the prime-minister Olivarez by openly making love to his wife, as he did ufterward, with still more folty and insolence, to the Qucen of Frunce; in short, the projected matcli with the Infunta seemed to he the least ohject of Burkinghan's jommey, and it accordingrly was never comeluded.-TruLER's Mist., Book 6 , eh. 29, p. 398.
2.117. GOVERNMENT, Disordered. Reign of Common?". The negligence of the pulblic ad. ministration was betraged, soon afterward, by anew disorder, which arose from the smallest begimings. A spirit of desertion began to prevailumong the troops ; and the deserters, instead of seeking their safety in thight or concealment, infested the highwins. Maternas, a private soldier, of a daring bolduess above his station, collected these bands of robbers into a little army, set open the prisons. invited the slaves to assert their freedon, and plundered with impunity the rich and defenceless cities of Ganl umd Spain. The governors of the provinees, who had long been the spectators. and perhaps the purthers, of his depredutions, were at length roused from their supine imdolence by the threntening commands of the emperor. -Gibison's IROnE, ch. 4, 1). 107.
2418. GOVERNMENT, Divine. Royal. It was gravely maintained that the Supreme Being regarded leereditary monarehy, as opposed to other forms of government, with peculiar favor; that the rule of succession in order of primogeniture was a divine institution, anterior to the Christian, and even to the Mosaic dispensation; that no human power, not even that of the whole Legislature-no length of adverse possession, though it extended to ten centuries, could deprive the legitimate prince of his rights; that his authority was necessarily always despotic; that the laws by which, in Enghond and in other countries, the prerogative was limited, were to be regarded merely as concessions which the sovereign had frecly made and might at his pleasure resume ; and that any treaty into which a king might enter with his people was merely a declaration of his present intentions, and not a contract of which the performance could be demanded. [Reign of James I.]-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 66.
2419. GOVERNMENT, The earliest. Monarchy. We may, therefore, fuilly presume that a limited monarehy was the earliest form of regular government among the anejent nations. The seriptures, as well as the profane historians, bear evidence to this fact. A republic is an idea too refined and too complex for it rude people to form ; and despotic monarehies arise only after extensive conquests, and a great enlargement of empire.-Tytlen's Hist., Book 1, ch. 1, p. 20.
2420. GOVERNMENT, Economical. Washington. When Washington came to the Presidency, one of the first acts was to name the young West Indian-then but thirly-three years of age-to the most diflleult post in his uduministration-that of secretary of the trensury. Albert Gallatin, who becanie secretary of the treasury twenty years after, said that Alexumder Hamilton had so regulated the business of the otthe as to make it a sinecure for his successors; and I have been informed that as late as 1880 the lmasiness continued to be done upon the plans and methods established by Hamilton ut the heginning of the goverument. From this position, after four years of service, he was compelled to retire, hecause the salary would not support his fimily. -Cyclopemid of Broa., p. 474.

2H21. GOVERNMENT, Farcical. Constintine. Some of these ollleinl ensigns were really exhibited in their hall of audience ; others preceded their pompons mareh whenever they appented in public : and every circumstance of their demeanor, their dress, their ornaments and their train was calculated to inspire a deep reverence for the representatives of supreme majesty. By a philosophic observer, the system of the Romm government might have been mistaken for a splendid theatre, filled with phayrs of every character and degree, who repeated the hangage and instated the passions of ticir original motel. -Gibbon's Rome, ch. 17, p. 108.

2&22. GOVERNMENT, Fraudulent. Cromicell's. After a debate of three days the Parliament, of whom a great majority were now most sincerely desirons of an accommodation, passed a vote, by which it was dechared that the king's concessions were a reasomable foundation for the llonse to proceed upon in the settlement of the kingdom. The vote was no sooner heard than Cromwell marched into London, surrounded the House of Commons, and suffering none to enter but his own party, exchaded about two hundred of the members. Thus there remained about sixty of the independent party, sure and unanimous in their intended mensures. The vote agreeing to the king's concessions was now rescinded, and mother passed, declaring it treason in aking to levy war against his Parliament, and appointing a high court of justice to take trinl of Charles' treason. This vote being sent up to the House of Lords was rejected without a dissenting voice. But this mockery of a Parliannent was not thus to be stopped in their career. The next vote was that the Commons of England have the supreme authority of the nation, independent of either king or peers. Cromwell himself was ashamed of the glaring illegality of these proceedings, and apologized for his conduct by deelaring that he had a divine impulse that the king had been abandoned by Heaven.'Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 30, p. 408.
2423. GOVERNMENT, Genius for, Alfred the Great. Alfred divided nll Enghand into counties; these he subdivided into hundreds; and the hundreds again into tithings. Ten neighboring householders formed a tithing, a fribourg, or decemnery, over which one man was appointed to preside, called a tithingman or borgholder. Every householder was answerable for the conduct of his family, and the borgholder for the conduct of all within his district. Every man was punished as an outhw who did not register himself in some tithing ; and none could change their habitation whthout a warrant from the tithingman or lorgholder. When uny persont was needised of a crime, the borgholder was summoned to muswer for him; if he declined to beome his security, the criminal was committed to prison till trial. If he escolped hefore trial, the borgholder wiss subjected to a peomalty. The borgholder, In deciding disputes or small hawsuits, summoned his whote decennury or tituings to assist him. In maters of grenter importance, in appeals from the decemary, or in controversies arising between members of different decennaries, the canse was bronght lefore the humbed, which consisted of ten decembiries, or one handred families of freemen, mod which was regulirly assembled every four weeks for the deciding of caluses. Their method of deciding deserves particularly to be noticed as being the origin of juries, that inestimatbe privilege of Britons.-Tytleris 11 ist., Book 6, ch. 5, p. 110.
2.12. $\qquad$ Richelier. The factions nobility began to excite napw disturhances, which Lonis XIII., who was now of age, had neither the diseretion nor the ability to compose. These commotions were increased by religions differences, for the Protestants, who had cujoyed an monotested trampuillity under Itemry IV., and for a while under the minority of Louis, were now exposed to fresh persecutions, They were obliged to take up arms; and a political and at religions war raged with equal violence at the same time. The king, umid these commotions. was obliged alternately to bribe his own servants and to negotiate with his robel nobility. While public affairs were in this situation Mary de Medieis had the address to loring the new favorite Sichelien into the comend, agrainst the inclination of the king and his favorite counsellors; and in a very short time this great politician completely grined the confidence of his royal muster, and sigmally displayed his splendid abilities in quieting all disorders nad raising the French momarehy to a very high piteh of splen. dor. The Cardinal de Richelien entered on his administration with that vigorous activity which marks a bold and daring spirit. . . . Michelieu was a mun whose genius was truly astonishing. He was negotiating at one time with ail and against most of the sovereigns of Europe.
formidable cable at court was secretly undermin. ing his power. Gaston, Duke of Orleans, the king's brother, detested the Cardinal de Richelien; Mary de Medicis was jealous of that very power which slie had contributed to raise ; and most of the nobility were his secret enemies. This illustrious man, whose intrepidity was equal to all situations, suppressed these cabals in a manner which astonished all Europe. The most surprising circumstance in the whole of these trunsactions is, that Cardinal de Richelien found himself able to make such exertions of the most despotic power while the motion were his enemies. Ile surmonnted all opposition ; and while the genius of most men, even of great abilities, would have found it sutficient occupation to wage war against those cabals and factions which were continually meditating his downfall, this extraordinary man not only completely foiled the schemes of his enemies, but found means to raise the kingdom of France to a most flourishing condition at home, while he extended her glory and influence over all Europe.-TyThen's IIst., Book 6, ch. 32, p. 443.
2.125. GOVERNMENT, Growth of. Necesmary. What fiction ean be more absurd and incredible than to suppose anyignorant and rude youth, the lemder of a genes of maditti, or the chief of a troop of shepherds, fmmediately after he had reared the turf walls of his projected clty, calling torether his followers, and delivering a fabored and methodeal oration on the nature of the different kinds of government, such as he had henrd existed in Greere and other mations, desiring his hearers serionsly to weigh the advanthges nad defeets of those different politieal constitutions, and modestly concluding with a declaration that he ls ready tonecode with rheerfurness to whatever form they, ln their aggregate wisdom, may decree? On this ahsurd tiction Dionysins rears the structure of a finely attempered constitution, all at once framed aud adopted by this troop of barbarians. [Romuhis founding lome.]-Tytlen'slist., Book 3, ch.2, p. 303 .

24S6. GOVERNMENT, Imperfections of. British. The English long enioyed a harge measure of freedom and lappiness. Though during the feeble reign of llenry VI. the state was torn first hy factions and at length hy civil war ; though Edward IV. was a prince of dissolute and imperions character; though Richard III. has generally been represented as a monster of depravity ; though the exactions of Henry VII. caused great repining, it is certain that our ancestors, under those kings, were far better governed than the Belginns under Philip, sammed the Good, or the French under that Lonis who was styled the father of his people.- Macaulay's Hist., ch. 1, p. 3 .

242\%7. GOVERNMENT, Impraoticable. Jitmes II. James was the instrument of his own mistortunes, and ran headong to destruction. In a government where the people have a determined share of power and a capneity of legally resisting every measure which they apprehend to be to their disadvantage, every attempt to change, in opposition to their general desire, the religion or civil constitution of the country, must be impracticable. The Roman Catholies in Enghad were not at this time one hundredth part of the nation. How absurd, then (us Sir William Temple told his sovereign)-how contrury to common-sense was it to imagine that one part should govern ninety-nine who were of opposite sentiments and opinions! Yet James was weak enough to make that absurd and desperate attempt. The nobility of the kingdom, by natural right the counsellors of the sovereign, were obliged to give place to a set of Romish priests, who directed all his measures; and James, as if he was determined to neglect nothing which might tend to his own destruction, began his reign by levying, without the authority of Parliament, all the taxes which had been raised by his predecessor; he showed a further contempt of the constitution and of all national feeling ly going openly to mass; and though in lis first Parliament he solemnly promised to observe the laws and to maintain the Protestant religion, he, at the same time, hinted in pretty strong terms that if he found them at all refractory or backward in granting such supplies as he should require, he could easily dispense with calling any more nich assenblics. -Tytlen's IIstr., Book 0, ch. 30, p. 424.
2426. GOVERNMENT, Indisorest. JItmes I. Durfing two hundred yruis all the soverefgus whon had ruled England, with the single exception of the minfortmate II enry V1., had been strongminded, high-spirited, courugeons, and of princely bearing. Almost all had possessed ablitiles alove the ordimary level. It was no light thing that, on the very eve of the derisive stringige hetween our kinges and their Parlinments, royalty should be exhibited to the work stammering, slobbering, shedding manaly tears, trembling at a drawn sword, and talking in the syle alternately of a buffoon and of a pelaggigue.-MAcailhay's Eng., cli. 1, p. 68.
2428. GOVERNMENT, Insulted. (itizon Genet. The Jacolins of Funce had belanded the king and abolished the monarchy. ('itizen Genet whes sent by the new French republic us minister to the Luite! States. . . . IIr was rrected with unbounded enthusiasm. Taking advantage of his popularity, the ambassador began to abuse his muthority, fitted out privateres to prey on the commerce of Great Britain, planned expeditions ngainst Lonisiama, and althongh the President had alrendy issued a proclumation of neutrality, demanded an alliance with the government. Washington and his Cubinet firmly refused, and the andacions minister threatened to appecel to the prople. In this outrageons conduct he wassustained hy the Anti-Federal party, and for a while the government was endangered. But Washington stoon mmoved, dechared the course of the French minister an insult to the sovereignty of the United States, and demanded his recall, and Genet was superseded.-Ridpath's U. S., el. 46, p. 368.
2430. GOVERNMENT without Law. American Indiens. There can be no society without govermment; but among the Indian tribes ... there was not only no written law-there was no traditionary expression of law; government rested upon opinion and usage, and the motives for usage were never embodied in langrage. No ancient legishator believed that human society could be maintained with so little artifice.Bancroft's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
2481. GOVERNMENT of Majority. Rhode $I_{s l}$ and Colouy. All the powers of the colonial government were intristed to the people. A simple agreement was made and signed by the settlers, that in all matters not affecting the conscience they would yield a cheerful obedience to such rules as the majority might make for the public welfare. In questions of religion the individual conscience should be to every man a guide. When Massachusetts objected that such a democracy would leave nothing for the magistrates to do, Rhode Iskind answered that magistrates were wellnigh useless.-Ridpatir's U. S., ch. 22, p. 194.
2432. GOVERNMENT, Menace of. Charles II. The moderation of this assembly [the Parliament of 1640$]$ lus been highly extotled by the most distinguished Royalists, and seems to have caused no small vexation and disappointment to the chiefs of the opposition ; but it was the uniform practice of Clurles-a practice equally impolitic and ungenerous-to refinse all comptiance with the desires of his people till those desires vere expressed in a menacing tome.-Macatiay's Enci., ch. 1, p. 81.
2.AB3. GOVERNMENT, Military. ('rmurell's. In the summer of 1647 , about twelve mombs after the last lortress of the Cuvaliers luad sahmitted to the Parlianent, the Parliament was comprelled to submit to its own soldiers. Thirteen yenc followed, daring which Enghand was. mader vasions manes and forms, really governed by the sword. Never before that tiane or siare that time was the civil power in our econatry subjected to military dictation.-Macatlay's Eve., (ll. 1, p. 112.
2.13.L. GOVERNMENT misdirected. Pijury. Ciptain John Nutt was one of the most during sea-devils of that lawless time. He was an matakable man. . . . While a pardon without restitution was ia progress, Ahmimal Elliot did manage to get pows saion of him. . . . The pirate was more powerfal than the admiral. . . Suchaburemeer as Nutt-an immensely wealthy man, a daring, resolute man-had finends at court. . . . It is marvallons to relate that Nutt was permitted to become the aceuser of the momiral-hat anmiral Who had tirst bean congratalated by Conway the Secretary of State, . . . who had been told by letter that he was to receive the king's thanks mad to kiss the king's hand in acknowledgment of his reache of the western combties and sens from Nutt's piracy, plander, mad murder. That admiatal, . . for that very tmasaction of seizing that pirate, the month following lay in the Marshalsea prison upon some frivolons pretences; while the happ, blithe-hearted pirate and plunderer stepped forth with a free and uncondition${ }^{11}$ pardon to renew his pleasant adventures upon the seas.-lloon's Chomwell, ch. 3, p. 51.
2.EP5. GOVERNMENT mismanaged. Colony. In September, 1609 , there remained at Jamestown a colony of four hmedred and nincty persons, well armed, well supplied, and well sheltered. luat such was the vicionsness and profligacy of the greater number, and such the insubordination and want of I oper lendership, ufter [John] smith's depurture, that by the berimning of winter the settlement was face to face with starvation. . . Cold and honger completed the terrors of a winter long remembered wittas shader, und called the starving time. $\mathrm{B}_{\mathrm{y}}$ the last of Mareh there were only sixty persons ulive, and these, if help had not come speedily, conld hardly have hived it fortnight.-Ridratin's U. S., ch. 10 , 1. 106.
2.136. gavernment, a model. North Caroline. The philosopher John Locke was employorl hy Nir Astley [Cooper, Earl of Shaftesbury] and his associntes to prepare the constitution. The legislation of the world furnishes no paralled for the prapons absurity of Loeke's performance. From March until July of 1669 the philosopher worked away in the preparation of his grand modd. . . . Politieal rights were made dependent bpon hereditary wealth. The ofticers were put heyond the reach of the people. There were two grand orders of nobility. There were dukes, earls, and marquises; knights, lords, and esquires; baronial courts, heraldieceremony, and every sort of feudal nonsense, . . . for a few colonists who lived on venison and potatoes, and paid their debts in tobacco. . . . After twenty years. . . they roneluded that an empire.

28:877. GOVERNMENT, Moral. Optimizm. Tho fashiomable philosophy then was that of lopre's " Dissay on Man;". . . it was cominually fuoted in society. It was very common to heir such expresilons as, "Whatever is, is right "" "l'artial evil is the genemal good ;" "This is the best of possible worlds ;" "Eath creathere is as lampy us is comsistent with the lappiness of the whole:" Sentments of this kind we now call "Optimism." In the midst of all this slablow talk came the tidings of an appalling catus trophe [the carthuake at Lishon], which struck every soul with anazernent mad terror, as if to show the futility of all haman attempts to lorm a consistent theory mespecting the govermment of 2AB8. GOVERNMENT, Municipal. Origin of. In the next phare, the towas or borouglas, which were then tied dowa hy a sort of vassaluge mad rlientship to the mohes, began now to pirrlase their immmity ; and instead of being catierly governed hy these mobles, to whom the magisIrates were no more than servants and stewards. while they exereised themselves the supreme civil and criminal anthority, and imposed what taxes or exactions they thought tit, the towns now acquired a right of choosing their own maristrates, who were responsible to the public ; they freed themselves from those arhitrary impositions, and were governed by their own municipul statutes, subordinate to the public laws of the kingrlom. Thus the municipal government began, in many of the towns of Emrope, to take the place of the feudal.-TyTLen's Mist., Book 6, ch. 10, p. 165.

2439. GOVERNMENT needless. North Citrolinu. The people, withont molestation, enjoyed their widd independenee. It was the liberty of freemen in the woods. "North Carolian," like mocient Rome, was famed "as the sanctuary of runaways ;" seventy years after its origin Spotswool describes it as "a country where there is scaree any form of governmont:" and it long continned to be said, with but slight exuggeration, that " in Carolina every one did what was right in his own eyes, paying tribute neither to Goilnor to Chesar."-Bancuorv's C. S., vol. 3, ch. 19.
2.140. GOVERNMENT, Neglect of. lipates. During the recess of $16 \%$ Eliot travelled to the West. As he passed nong, news reached him of the cruel mischief intlicted by Turkish pirates, who, from under forts and castles left helpless and unguarded, sprung on English ships. The westorn sen, with all the villages lining its coasts, was ratirely at their merey; all trade was interrupted, and the number of Christinns captured to be sold into slavery during the outrages of three months could not be less than twelve landred. There were wailings for fathers and sons, for brothers, for hasbames and wives. Meantime the ships of the nation hy in harbor, men and provisions on board, and government careless of the intlictions on its sub-jeets.-Hood's Cromwell., ch. 3, p. 57.
2441. GOVERNMENT, Nominal. Monarch of England. The king reigned, but by the theory of the constitution was not to govern. He apo pared in the Privy Comell on ocensions of state ; But Quen Anme was the bast of the English momare has to niteme the debaters of the Lomse of Lords, or to prestle at a mereting of the min-istry,-Bancromt'm U. S., vol. t, ilh. 3.
2.422. GOVERNMENT, Odloun. Kmmp P'wlin. mont. 'The long purlhment of the yents' charation, christemed, by one of those contemptions desigmations which mark popular disgust, The himm, a term suggested by Its appurently interminable sessions mpon the benches of Wextminster, had thoronghly wemped ont the people of Enghand. The Cong larangues of the Paritans, the higoted diseonsses of tha saints, the persomal itipopalarity of the domagognes, the antl-sochal absurtitios of the Levellers, the marter of an ineocent mad lureie momerch, which jemetrated the conscience of the mation with remorse, the imposts and slanghters of the civil war, thally, the henviness of that tanomaons tyrung which the prople endured more impatiently than the : bitoracy of a chorions mame-all these combined oljecetons fell lanck la nectamblated orlinm amb riblime on the Parliament.-Lamamman's ('HOMWELL, ). 57.
24.43. GOVERNMENT, Outrages of. Virginit Colomg. An mristocratic party which had arisen in the colony obtadned control of the IIonse of Burgesses. . Episcopalianism was rgain established as the state religion. A proseriptive ordinance was passerl ugainst the Buptists, mal the peace-loving Qukers were flued, persecnterl, and imprisomed. Burdensome tuxes were laid on persomal property and polls; the holders of large estates wereexempt, mind the poorer people atilieted.. . . The biennial election of burgesses was nbolished, so that the existing assembly continued indetinitely in power. . . The tranny outdid England ; . . . then came open resistance. - Ridpatios U. S., ch. 12, p. 110.
2444. GOVERNMENT, Paradoxical. Remblic. It may, indeed, be confidently usserted that there never was that govermment calted a republic, which was not ultimately ruled by a single will, and, therefore (however bold may seem the parados), virtually and substantially $n$ monarely. The only difference between governments, with respect to the political freedom of the subject, consists in the grenter or the smuller number of restraints by which the regulating will is con-trolled.-Tytler's Hist., 13ook 2, ch. 6, p. 216.
2445. GOVERNMENT, Patriotic. Cleomenes. Ine began by the judicious measure of attaching the army to his interest, securing the confidence and allegiance of all the principml othicers, and dextrously removing from command such ins he julged to be unfriendly to the revolutionary design. Several of the richer citizens, und even some of the Epliori, from whom lie expecterl opposition, were on various pretences banished or put to death. Trusting to the ready eo-operation of the lower orders, he then asseminled the people, and detailing the great benctits to be expected from a complete change of system, proclaimed the abolition of all the debts, and heginning by divesting limself of the whole of his property, made n new partition of the lands of the republic, and restored the ancient plan of education, the institution of the pullic tables, and, in a word, as nearly as possible, the long-frrgotten regimen of Lycurgus. Cleomenes was hailed the seromed founder and father of his comery, and Grece resoumted whila his praise.-TyT-

2.146. GOVERNMENT, Powerless. C'lony of Virginit. The bargesses had many priviliges, but very lithle power. They might dhenses tho affairs of the colony. Int conid not comerol them : pass laws, hat conik not cufore them; dechare their rights, bat comald mon sereure them. . . . No law was binding wa'il ratifed hy the rompuny In Enghand. Only one grat bendit was gainedthe freedom of debate. Wharever that is recorsnized, liberty must soon follow.-Rumestris U. S., ch. 1i, p. 110.

2:S7. OOVERNMENT, Provisional. Flight of Jomes $I I$. The peres repmired to Guidlail, mad were receivel there with all honor by the magistracy of the city. Ia siticthess of haw, they wre no bettor cititited than nay other wet of persoms to assume the exeromive adminhatront. But it was necessary to the puhlire safiety that there should be a provisiomal government, and the eyes of men maturally hural to the liereditary magnates of the reabm. The extremity of the danger drew Suncrolt forth from his pulace. He took the chair; nad moder his presidency the new Arehbishop) of York, the hshops, mil twenty-t wo temporal lords determined to draw up, sulseribe, und pablisla a decharation. ['They took the responsihility of tempormily condacting the government.]-Incadtay's Exa., ch. 10, 1). 511 .

2AM8. GOVERNMENT, Reaction in. Geovge III. A.1. 1766. [The Stump Aet was repeated by Parliament.] The king, who regarded the repeal of the Stump Act as "af fatul complinure," which han forever " womated the majesty" of England, and "planted thorns" mader his pillow, preferred the hazard of losing the colonies to tempering the British claim of nhsolnte authority. ... "The coming hour" was foretold "when the British Augristus would grieve for the olscuring of the glories of his reign by the loss, not of it province, lout of an empire more extensive than That of liome ; not of three legions, but of whole nations." No party in Englaud could prevent an instantaneous renction.-Banchoft's C . S. ., vol. 6, ch. 25.
2449. GOVErnment, Restraints of. Flight of James $I I$. Legitimmte mathority there was none. All those evil passions which it is the of fice of govermment to restrain, und which tho best governments resirain but imperfectly, wero on a sudden emancipated from control: aviarice, licentionsmess, revenge, the hatred of sect to sect, the hatred of mation to mution. On such ocensions it will ever be found that the humm vermin which, neglected by ministers of state and ministers of religion, barburous in the midst of civilization, heathen in the midst of Christimity, burrows, among all playsical and all mornl pollution, in the cellars and garrets of great cities, will at once rise into a terrible importance. So it was now in London.-MacauLay's Evg., ch. 10, p. 514.
2450. GOVERNMENT revolntionized. Rman. The creation of the Tribunes of the people is the era of a change in the Roman constitution. The Vnlerian law had given a severe blow to the aristocracy, or party of the patricians; and the creation of popular magistrates with such high powers had now plainly converted the government into $n$ demorracy. . . . But the immedinte chnse of things combing to an open rupture was, as we lave senta, the fatolerable burden of the debts owing by the poor to the rich. This grlevance berome at length so gemera, from the frepuency of the millary compalgne, in which every solder was ohliged to serve nt his own clarges, and from the ravages committed on the lands by the hostile armes, which reduced the poorer sort cutirely to berggiry, that the plehelans began to look upon their order as born to a state of hereditary servitude. Hence that despernte mensure of abmadoning the city and ancomping in arms tupen the Mons sitere. All that the penple at this thate desired was not power, but a refief fromoppressionnad cruclty. And had this just chatm been readly listeneid to, and a relief granted to them, if not by an cutire abolition of the debts, at lemst by represwing the emormons usury, und taking awny the inhuman rights of slavery and of corporal punishment, this people would, in all prohability, have checrfally refurned to order and submision, and the Roman consthation might loug have remuined, what we have seen it was at Itrst, ardutocrutiond. But a torrent imprudently resisted will in the acquire that impetnous fores which carries everything before it. The putriciuns, sensible that they had pushed matters to a most alarming extreme, and now thoroughly intimiduted, were obliged to grant the demand of creating popalar magistrates. - TyTlen's Hist., Book 3, ch. 3, p. 316.
2.151. GOVERNMENT, Ridioulous. Iferelititry Monarehy. Of the various forms of government which have prevniled in the world, an hereditary monarchy seems to present the fairest seope for ridienle. Is it possible to relate withont 1 min digmant snile that, on the father's decense, the property of a nation, like that of a drove of oxen, descends to his infant son, as yct unknown to mankind and to himself; and that the bravest warriors und the wisest statesmen, relinguishing their nutuma right to empire, appromeh the royal cradle with bended knees mud protestations of inviolable tidelity?-Gimion's lRome, ch. 7, p. 18.
2452. GOVERNMENT, Rights of. Neo Yook Colony. New York had heen reconpuered from the Dutch, and Sir Edmund Andros ap. pointed governor.] The principles of arbitmry government were openly avowed. Thaes were levied without nuthority of law, and the appeals and protests of the people were treated with derision. The chmor for a popular assembly had been so great that Andros wis on the point of yielding. . . . The Duke [ef York wrote] popular assemblieswere seditious and dangerous; that they only fostered discontent und disturbed the pence of the government; and, fimally, that he did not see any use of them.-Ridi'ath's U. S., ch. 20, p. 174.
2453. GOVERNMENT, Ruinous. Roman. The agriculture of the Roman provinces was insensibly rumed, and, in the progress of despotism, which tends todisappoint its own purpose, the emperors were obliged to derive some merit from the forgiveness of debts or the remission of tributes, which their subjects were utterly incapable of paying. According to the new division of Italy, the fertile and happy province of Cumpmila, the seene of the early victories and of the dellecions retirements of the citizens of Rome, extended betwern the seanal the Apennhe from the Ther to the silartis. Withan sixty yeurs after the death of constanther, und on the evidence of an metual survey, nu exemption was gramed in favor of ibno.0no Engrlish acres of desert and macoltheated hand, whels manounted to one elghth of the whole curfine of the provinere. As the lootsteples of the hartarians hat not yed heren sern in laby, the canse of this mazalng desolation, which is recorded in the laws, can be nseribed only to the mhinistration of the Roman emperors.- (inamsis Rows, cl. 17, p. 144.

2.464. GOVERNMENT, Scriptural. Jion Iferen Codon!. The tirst yar there was no government exerpit a simple covemant, finto which the settlers entered, that all would be obedient to the rutes of scripture. In June, 1639, the leading mea of New linven lecha a converation in abern tand formally adopted the bible as the eomatitu: ion of the State. Everything was conformed to the relighons stundard. The goverument was culled the Ilouse of Wisdom, of which . . . [sev[ll men] were the seven pilhers. Nome hit chureh-members were ndmiticed to the rights of eitizenship.-RIDPatu's U. S., ch, :2l, p. lss.
2455. GOVERNMENT, Spirit of. II"nor-Frar-Firthe. The nuthor of the "spirit of Laws" [Dr. Adnm Ferguson], a work which must ever be regneded as the production of a most enlightened minal, has built a great dend of phasible and ingenious remsoning on this genemb iden, that the thredistinct forms of govern ment, the momarchical, the despotie, mul the republiean, are influcnced by three sepurate principles, upon which the whole system in cach form is constructed, mad on which it must depend for its support. "The principle of the monarchical form," says Montesquicu, "is honor ; of the despotical, forr' and of the republican, virtue:" " position which, if truc, would at onee determine to which of the three forms the preference ought to be given in speeculating on their compurative degrees of merit.-TyTLer's IIssr., Book 2, ch. 6, p. 218.
2456. GOVERNMENT, Strife In. English Barons. For the first nud hast time in her history England was in the hands of the baronage, and their outrages showed from what horrors the stern rule of the Normun kings had saved her. Custies sprang up everywhere. "They filled the hand with castles," says the terrible annalist of the time. "They greutly oppressed the wretehed people by making them work at these castles, und when they were finished "they filled them with devils and armed men." In each of these robber-holds a petty tyrant ruled like a king. The strife for the crown had broken into n medley of fends between baron and baron, for none could brook an equal or a superior in his fellow. "They fought among themselves with deadly hatred, they spoiled the fairest lands with fire and rapine; in what had been the most fertile of counties they destroyed almost all the provision of brend." For, fight as they might with one another, all were at one in the plunder of the land. Towns were put to ransom. Villages were sacked and burned. All who were deemed to have goods, whether men or wonmen, were carried ofit and flung finto dungrous and torturedtill thoy yinded upthelr woith. No ghastlier pucture of it mation's misery has aver lu'en puintad. . ."'They bangerd up men by thede feet mad monked them with lonl smoke. Nome were hanged up by thair thambes, others ly the homd, mal burnimg things ware innge on to their lent.
 writhed thems till they wont to the Irala. 'I'lay jut mon lute prisons where milors and snakes find tomds wore comwling, nud so they tormanterl them, Some they put into a chent, shant and marrow, and not derpe, mad that had mharjs stomes within, and forced men theroln so that they luroke

2.157. GOVERNMENT, A strong. ('romirill's. While he lived his powor stoon firm, an object of mingrled nvorsfon, almiratlon, amd drand to his subjerets. Few, indered, loved has government: but those who hated lt most hated it less than they lomed it. Ilad jt been a wodse gove comment, it might, perlajes, have bern over. larown in spite of nll lits strangth. Ind it leern a worker goverumsont, it would cartainly have leren wrorlarown in spite of nll its merita, l3nt It lad moklemtion rmongla fondatain from thone oppressions which drive men mad ; and it had a foree mal racrery whlah mome but men driven mad by apmexsion would venture to cheomater. - Mariavbiv' Vina., ch. 1, p. 13t).
2.15凶. GOVERNMENT, Succession in. Americull Imliutus. 'Theraucerssion depernded on birth, and was inherited throner the female line Even momory the Narmanaselts, the collengue of Cabonjens was his mephew. 'This rule of deseent, which sprong from the general licentionsmess. and was known throughout varions lamilles of tribes, was wialely observed. - $13 . a n c h o{ }^{2}$ 's C . S., vol. 3, ch. 2.).
2.459. GOVERNMENT, Trifles in. Time of the Revolution. Duriner twonty yenrs the chicef employment of busy and ingenions men had been to frame coustitutions with first magistmates, without thrst magistrates, with hereditary semates, with semates ajpointed by lot, with ammal searates, with perpotaml senates. In these plans nothing was omitterd. All the detail, all the aomenchatwe, all the ceremonial of the imaginary govermuent was fully set forth, Polemarehs mud Phylarides, Tribes and Galaxies, the Lord Archon and the Lord Strategus; which batlot-boxes ware to he green and which red; which latls were to lee of golid mal which of silver: which magistrates ware to wear hats and which bhack velvet eaps with jeaks; how the mace was to be carried, and when the heralds were to moneover -these and $n$ hamelred more such trithes were gravely considered and arranged by men of no common eapacity and lemrning. - Macaulay's Eng., eh. 3, 1. 3ั~8.
2.160. GOVERNMENT, Unfltted for. Richard I. Richavd I., surmaned Cour de Lion, had all those qualities which gain the admiration of a romantic age, but few that could conduce to the lappiness of bis subjects or commnnd the approbation of posterity. The whole of his reign was a tale of romance, intrepid valor, imprudence, and misfortune. All Europe was at that time infected with the enthusiasm of the holy wars, and Richard, immediately upon his aceession, prepared to signalize himself in an expedition to Palowtine, whids his conderlenere, or rather his rommanle turn of mind, represented to him na the only theld of real glory for a christion prince. IAtile regurdfing of the interents of his prople. he raked an hmonense sum of money, by atl tha varions methols of urbiarary anforeriment, und formbig a loague with Philis) Augustus, Fling of gosithon, thomgh with lase generosity, the two sos.

 6, '/. א. J. 1.H.

 mal lords as woll as commoners offered lhemsolves at market; wo that "If Amerion," sald fome yans the money she spemls for the fastifons aind thacrles and fopperlaes of thas comatry, she might lay the whole Pa:lhment, mbintry mad all. [This was the [andrament to which tho ('omtinental ('omgress mperaled.]-IBANcinofr's U. S., vol. \%, ('l. 16.
2.184. GOVERNMENT, Weakness of, I mmom . ('irero... tohd ('atiline that under the powers which the semate had conforred on him he might order his fastamt exeroblon. ITe detailed Contiline's past cmormitios, whalel he land forgoten when he somght his friemdship, and he ended in bideling him leave the dity, go mal john Manlius and his mony. Never lad Cierno bern grentur, mad mever did omatory end in a more absurd com-fesmal that he chared mot. There was mol a dount that ('atilime was merlitating a revolation-lat. a revolation was preatacly what half the worla was wishitig for, Rightly remd, those sombding baragraphes, those momil demuncintions, thowe ajprals to history and juntriotie sontiment, wore the funcmal knell of the Rommn Commonwenlth. -Fhoude's C.enar, ch. 11.
2.AB3. GRADUATION, Dlshonorable. IIngh Miller. IIe was beroming a big, wihl, insuborling-mateli with his sehoommstor, he left sehool [smarting waler his deleat].-SMaLEs' Bhafr Brocilaplites, 1). 91.
2.8.1. GRATITUDE expressed. Chierles $I I$. Richard Pendered, (Harles introlumed to his Court, styinge, "The simplest rustic who serves his sovereign in the time of need to the utmont extent of his ablity in as deserving of our com. mendation as the victorious lemer of thousands. Friend Richard," continued the king, "I mm ghad to see thee: thou wert my preserver and comluctor, the bright star that showed me to my Bethlehen, for which kinduess I will engrave thy memory on the inblet of a faithful heart." Turning to the lords, the king said, "My lords, 1 pray you respect this pood man for my sake. Master Richard, be bold und tell these lords what passed mmong us when I had quitted the onk at Boneobel to rench Pit Lenson." [When Charles lad been defented he was nided in making his escape to Frunce by Penderel.]-Hood's Chomwell, ch. 13, p, 174.
2465. -_-. Samuel Johnson. Amid this cold obseurity, there was one brilliant circumstance to cheer him-le whs well nequaint.
al With Mr. Henry Itervey. . . . Not lomg hefore his denth. . . hos descrithed his curly friond, " Harry Ilerviy," thas: " He was n velons amm, I will love hlm,"-IBoswbilim Jounton, p. 2i.

218B. ORATITUDE, Improvident. "lime"

 nlaned by his firlomi whth money for tho jommey. Linlacklly, he rimbled into the garden of a thorint just hefore pulithig layden. The thlipmanda was still prevalent la Ilollind, and some spereles
 In wandering through the gurden (Boldsmith roce ollertend thint has Uncle Combarlase was atalipfinurber. 'Tho thought sumbenly st ruck hilas that here was an opportunity of textifylag, ln it dellente mannor, his sernse of that gereromas muchers past kinchesses. In an instant his hand was in hls pocket; a mumber of choleeand costly tullproots wero purchnsed und pueked up) for Mr. Conturlne: und It was not until he land pald for theon that be hethonght himself that he hind ment sill the money horrowed for his travelling ex. penses. Too prond, however, to giverp his journey, und too slumefnced to make nomother nppend to hils lirlome's libernlity, ho determined to trivel on foot, mat depend npon olanme nat good-hack for the incins of getthig forward; ind it is suid that he netumlly setoff onn tour of the Continemt, in Februnry, 1785 , with but one spare share, a flite, and in shagle guinen. -Inviva's Gela)NMITII, ch. 4, p. 4T.
2487. GRAVE, Possension of, Ifirold II. [When Willhim of Normandy invinded England Harold Il., Kíng of the Anglo-Siaxons, met 'lostig, his own brother, who had come to aid Willjan.] IImold wombl have megrotinted with his brother ; but when 'Tostig asked what the king of Norwny should lave, the Siaxom manwered, "Seven feet of earth for a grave." a. 1.1006 . -Kinitit's ENG., vol. 1, ch. 13, p. 180.
2.183. GRAVITY by Disoipllne. Comstuntins. From Milme to lrome
he nppronehell with. in forty miles of the city ; the mureh of a prince who had never vandulahed $n$ forejgn enemy assumed the nppenrance of a triamplial prosecsion. IIis splendid traln was composed of nll the ministers of luxury; but in a time of profomad peate lat was encomponsed by the grlittering nrms of the numerous stgatadrons of his grarids and euirmssiers. Constantias sat alone in a lofty ear, resplendent with gold and precious gems; und except when he bowed his hean to pass untler the gates of the eities, he nffected a stately demennor of intlexible, and, as it might seem, of insensible gravity, The severe discipline of the Persinn youth had bees introduced by the eunuehs into the Imperinl palace ; aml sueh were the habits of patience which they hud inculeated, that during a slow and sultry marel he was never seen to move his hand toward his fince, or to turn his eyes either to the right or to the left.-Ginbon's IRome, eli. 19, p. 217.
2468. GREATNESS, Blot on. Dryelen. Dryden was f sor and impatient of poverty. He knew little and cared little about religion. If uny sentiment was deeply fixed in him, that sentiment was an aversion to priests of all persuasions.
Finding that if he continned to call himself a Protestant his services would be overlooked, he derdared himsilf a puphat. 'The klng's |. purshanay lintuntly relnxul. Itrydrin was grati.
 ployed to deferul hls new rulighon looth in prowe atul havere. . . 'There will nlways be a strong prestanption ugalast the simeriby of a conver. shom ly whidh the convert is a dirent gulnev:-

2.170. GREATNESS burdensome, Jliter ('romrell. [When ('romwoll was In thr height of his mother at the momod of at maskre wombl olten

 it lurst of disappolatment matid the eonten-

 p. $18 \%$.
2.171. GREATNES8, Burted. Alsimmer the Creat. Findlag the tombot ('yma brokern ope'n, he pht the nuthor of that sumpilege to donth, though a nutive of l'ella, und a persion of somme disthuction. Ilis mome was l'olymuchas. Aftrer he had remel tho rpitaph, which was la the Persinu langramge, he ofdered it to he laseribed nlaso In Greek. It wis us follows: "() MaN! whomoHEEH THOU AITT, AND WHENMOEFEI THOU COMEN' (FOH COMA: 1 KNOW THOU WHIT), t AM C'

 Eht my mody." Alexamber was much alleretel at these words, which phacell before lim in so stronge $n$ light the uncertninty mal vidissitude of 2172. GREATNESS by Contrast. ('hirtemuque. The appellation of great hass been oltan bextow. ed, ind sometimes deserved; but charlomange is the only prince in whose favor the titlo lase been indiswoluhly bemded with the name. 'That name, with the addition of suint, is inserted in the lanmom calembar: nul the subint, by a me feliedy, is crowned with the prolsestof the hintorians mud philosophers of membightemed uge. Dlis reat merit is dombthess conhamed by the Imatharism of the mation and the times from which hee emerred; but the aporereat marnitule of mobjoret is like. wise onhared hy mu uncepunl comparisom; mud tho ruins of laturgra derive a casmal splemelor from the nakedness of the surrounding desert. -Ghlimon's lRomb, ch. 30, p. 44.

247:3. GREATNE8S, Downfall of. Columbus. [Bobadilla late put him in irens on the necusation of melventurers.] So violently had he been trented, and so savage were the passions let loose against him, that he feared he should be suerithed without an opportunity of being heard, and his name go down sullied and dishomored to posterity. When he beheld the oflrex enter with the gund, he thought it was to conduct him to the seaffold. "Villajo," said he, mournfully, "whither are you taking me ! " To the shij, your Execllency, to embink," replied the other. "To embark !" repented the udmirnl, earnestly; "Villejo, do you spenk the truth?" "By the life of your Excelleney," replied the honest officer, "it is true !" With' these words the ndmiral was comforted, and felt as one restored from denth to life. Nothing can be more touching and expressive than this little colloquy.-Irving's Columbes, Book 13, eh. 7.
2.87.1. GREATNESS, Dream of. C'romirell. ()] Jver himarle "often averrol, when he was ut the helght of his glory," that, on a mertaln night, In lily rhildhomel, lin "sinw in glymile of his trod, mat buld him that ho shomile tre the thon Hae word kia!! mad," conthmes the revercial marrator", " though lae was tohl of the folly as Well as whekerlocss of such un asmertlon, he persplated in it for whifla ho was thagered by Hr. Beard, at the parthendar ilenige of his fulher ; notwhlastanding whill, lue womblem somethos rejent it to his Pinclo silowart, who told him it was traltorous to redate it. - lloobs's C'moshw bis. ch. : p. p. 31 .
2385. GREATNESS, End of, Sillulin. The Turks and Christlans lin loukethe were, In the menn time, matumly extermimathg mal destroy. ing rach oher, when a new chander nppened on the stage, who, in all resperets, was one of the grentest men who have morned the nmals of the world ; thls was suladin, the neplew of Nonredilln, the sultan of Girypt. In il very short spme of the he had overmin Syrh, A rubha, Persla, mad Mesopotamla, und now formed the design of the conguest of Jorusatem, then mader the dominion of the Christian prince, Guy of Lasignan. . . [ DIe was defented by Richaril the Liom.] Soon after dled the illustrions Suladin, beaving behind him the character not only of one of the most heroie, but of one of the best of princes. In hls last Illness, Instend of the imperial maigns which used to ndorn the gates of his palace, he ordered wholing-sheet to be hung up, while a slave proclatmed, with a lond voice, "This is all that Sahadla, the eompueror of the East, has obtained by his victories!" Ife bequenthed by his hast will a harge sum of money to be distribited equally mong the poor, wheth. er they were Mohammedans, Christime, or Jews, intending, as Voltaire well remurks, to temeh, by his bequest, that all men are brethren, and thit when we nissist them we ought not to inguire whint they brliere, but what they feel. Thls great prince died in the year 1195.-Tythenis IIst., Book 6, ch. 9, p. 162.
2A76. GREATNESS, Fiotitious. Alfonso d'Alonquerque. Three hundred and tifty years ago it was as fruniliar and famons as the numes of Napoleon, Wellington, and Washington now are. Ite was generally spoken of as the great
"mqueryue ; sometimes as the " Mars of Portuand to this day the Portugnese regard him the greatest man of their greatest age. He was certainly one of the most successful of conquerors, and excelled all the commanders of his time, except Pizarro and Cortez, in butering down other people's towns, and carrying off their gold, silver, and diamonds. On one vecasiom, we are told, his booty umomed to $n$ sum equal, in grecobacks of 10 -dhy, to $$ 100,000,000$; but no historian has taken the trouble to inform as what offence the people of Malacca had committed, that they should be subjected to this heavy fine. At thai day all Christians appear to have been fully convinced that the heathen had no rights which Christian:: were bound to respect. -Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 311.
2477. GREATNESS of Goodness. Chomo de' Medici. Perhaps there never was a frmity which dewerved bettom of mankind linn that of the Mad. Ind. ('osmo des' Madid, who was born in tho year 1:388, Itval ns a private aith in of Florenere, whont courting ramk or tht les, though the wrath whild he had mequired hy commerere miphe have raverd him to a lovid with the mone pewerfal of tho Earoperm priners. 'The nse he mald of his thehes was (1) relteve the por, to perform the cmbelliwh mat to rathe his commtry, mid to promote the cultivaton of the sclences mal the arts, by foviling to Flormer from every guirter men rminent for thois lenruhug mad tulents. Ifedied distingulshed by no dtadems nor splemild apthets of homor, mit known by that most homoratite of humin tithos, the Fithere
 1. 214 .
2.17n. GREATNESS imponalble, Firthee wulet" Churles $/ X$. The eolony of the Iluguemosat the wouth spring from privite conterprise ; in govermment which rould devise the masalere of St. Bartholomew was nether wortly nor ntble to fomid new States.-Banchoft's Itist, of U. S., ch. 1.
9.17d. Greatness, Multiplex. Juliua Cirar. Lord by ron wrote : "it ls possible to be a very great man, mad to la stlle very linferior to Jolins Cusar, the most romplete charncter, so Loril bueon thought, of nll matigulty. Nature serms incopable of such extraordimury combinations as composed his versatile rapacliy, which was the wonder even of the Rommen themselves. Tho tirst general ; the only trimphumt polithehn: thferior to none in point of eloguerce: comparablo to nay in the ntainments of wistom, in in age male up of the greatest commanders, statesmen, orators, mad philosophers, that ever appeared in the world : an mathor whomposedn perfect speclmen of militury mands in his traveling carrage; at one time in a controversy with Cnto, at another writing a trentise on pmanling, nad collecting $n$ set of good sayings; fighting and makiag love at the same moment, and willing to nhandon both his empire and his mistress for a sight of the foumtains of the Nile. Such did Julins Chear appenr to his contemporaries, and to those of the subsecpuent ages who were tho most fuclined to deplore and execrate his fatal gendus."-Note in Grbion, vol. 1.
2.180. GREATNESS, Patriotio. Crom veell. Some have comprared him with Napoleon-Napoleon I.- to his llisadvantage. Bat we shall soon see the justice of that critichm which finds the grentuess of Nupoleon ruther in that he did his work on stilts ; he performed his work in a large ambitious manner, and strode to and fro in self-conscions exaggeration before the eyes of Europe. Cromwell performed his work on our own island, but he did not leave it. He humbled the proud empires of Europe by a gluace. It took battles to raise himself to his phace of Protector, bat he became the Dictator of Europe hy the magnetism of a great intelligence. From his comacil-chamber in Whitehall he dietated his own terms. Alwnys lé it be remembered that Napoleon I., in order to retain his power, directed nll the energies of his country awny from any, even the slightest, attempt nt domestic reform of his own land, where reforms of every kind were so much needed; and le decimated the unhappy peophle of hifown latad by rmimalinu thom la the eonthgrathons of martal ghory，mad enrriad everywhere the thinners and mplas of confluent， ta oreler that he might dazale liy the tintae of his great millary dledatorshij）．＇l＇s our findignant fummaliy Najoleon looks liku u puns，molfex． gugerathig chilit，contrasterl whit the firmor of sit．Ives．Jmeanlay well pusinte onit low greatly It would thive brento the interente of（＇rommell＇s mmblem to have plongeit his comintry fite a great biuropent whr，and how fortlle were the

 protertar of I＇rotestantlanis lit linroje＇，Ilkn monther Ginsfavis Aifolphos，how promper nt his call for sitill a ratse would have lomed up that mighty wring of which he was the chilel，umb whind hand regariled his valere，throngh sot many wall－fonglat thelils， 14 the very volue of the laril of Ilosts sperak lig to men．The hud no suchimus． hillon：only to merve life eonatey us best lee ronlat，imd Protestantism nlways，In all penerofil

2ssi．GREATNESs，Proof of．liobret Burus． Grat men，greme events，grent ejoches，It has Inerin suld，grow as we reeode from them；nind tho rute nt whilh they grow fin the estlunton oif men is in some nort amensure of theif grouthess． I＇ried by this standard，lharins munt be great ha－ deed；for dirling tho dighty yenrs that have passed since his denth mon＇s lnterest la the munt himself and their extimate of his gentis have been stendily lneremsing．Einch dermbe since lar elled has prodised at lonst two biographies of

24日2，GREATNE88 reoognized．Rir／fli＇u．AI． though it wiss hy nomemas intended to instow on IRlchelien the that place In the mdministrin－ tlon，he had not been six monthe ln otllee before his suprenury was fully understood and rerog－ nized hy the king，the commeil，the court，nad the whole natoon．Every depmrtment of the publle nerviee soon felt the irresistible energy of fids character，and hise extroordinury copucily for the gremt task of govermment．－STCDENTA Fiance，ch．19，\＆

9．183．GREATNE88，Throofold．Froncis $I$ ． ＂Three of this monurch＇s eleeds，＂siys Marshin！ Tavames，＂have justly procured for him the title of Griat ：the victory of Marignano，tho res． torntion of letters，and his single－handed resist－ ance to the combined powrers of Europe．＂－ Students＇Filance，ch． $14, \stackrel{N}{16}$ ．

2484．GREATNE88 with Vice．IIn n mibel．Ilis hokness in molertaking aperilous enterprive was ecpunlled by his pridence in combucting it． IIis strengeth，neither of body nor mind，wase ever seen to yield to the severest labor．Insensible alike to heat or colat，his food and drink were limited to the nocessities of nature，never in－ dulged to gratitication．All bemorsof the daty or night were to lim alike，whether for duty or re－ pose ；what could the spured from the former was given to the hiter：no applinnces were wanted －no soft coueh or silent retirement．Often was he seen，amid the bustle of a military post， smatching a brief repose on the bure ground，his cloak his only covering．Ife affected no sijue． riority of dress；valuing himself only on hisarms and on his horses；himself the hardiest foot． soldfer mad the mont gallant horsemmon ；lie thrat enormous vioes，by the most lihomonor remelty， by worme：than l＇unte perthly，by the ntter disre－

 13．\＆゙さ．

98N6．GREATNESS by Wisdom，dlermmler， Alexmalria wore rioted in the comara of Nex－ these whileli justly entitle the Macerloninato thes nit jryulntion ind of Inchastry，ho reprifeal thos momimionts of hals renl pilary，penterdiy might luve ngrued in bentowlag on him an cpithet nyoungmons to thint by whileli he is yot kisown nisong the tornmlas of Indin－the mighty Mor．

9898．GRIEF，Conjugal．Thoman Jeffirmon． One oft her chlletron lumg given in mont alterethgr grlef ut licr denti，＂For fenar montis，＂who Nays，＂hre was never ont of ralling；when not at her hedende，he wis writing in th small room whlell opened elome nt the hend of her tred．$\Delta$ ． noment lafore the chasing secenc he was led from Nister，who，with grent ditlioulty，got him into longe laserinible that they foatred he never wonld revive．The scene that followed I did not wit． tuss：lut the vholenee of his comollon，when nlmost hy stenld 1 entered lifs room nt night，to this day I dare not trust myself to deserther．IJ kept his roont threo wocks，and I was never is monnent from him side．Ite walked ulmost ln－ ressuntly，night and diy，only lylng down oecu－ sionally，when nuture wan complately exhansted， on a pallet that had been brought in diring his long falnting tlt．Whenat linst he left his room， he rode ont，und from thint time he was lnces－ santly on horselbick，rambing nhout the monn－ thln in the lenst frequenterl ronds，und just ns often throngh the woods．＂－CyClonedia of Bro（1．，1）．2．2．i．

2．487．GRIEF，Fatal．Artorerxes．Artaxerxes soon nfter died of 16 broken heart．Inarlus，his cldest son，togrelher with flfty of his matimal brothers，had conspired ugnlist their father，but their designe were defeated，noml they were all put to denth．Oflhas，the third of his lawfin sons，sucrected him This monster land mule lis way to the throne by motelering his edder brotlue mad to sercure his possession he mar－ dered all that remained of his kindred，－TrT＊ LEM＇s IIst．，IGook D，ch．3，p． 168 ．

2488．GRIEF，Publio．Trmatem token．In 1187 Jevusialem wus surrendered to Suladin．Then went forth dep lamentation throughont Europe． A pope died of grief． $\mathbf{A}$ king wore sackeloth． Other sovereigns tremibled for the sufety of their own possessions．－Kinithr＇s Env．，vol，1，ch．21， 1， 304.

2489．GROVEs，Worship in，Ancients．The only temples in Germany were dark and ancient groves, consernted hy the reverence of succerding generations. Their secret gloom, the innanincal residence of an invisible power, ly presconting no distinct ohject of fear or worship, innpressed the mind with a still deeper senve of religlous horror ; und the pricsts, rume and illitcrate as they were, had been tanght by experionce the nse of every arditice that cond preserve and fortify impressions so well suited to their own interest. -Gthmon's iRone, ch. 9, p. 270.

24BD. GRUMBLING over Failures. Nilwon. [ We misseci the French thed, carrying 3 bonajorte to Egypt; when he returned co Sicily to redurnish, there was great complaint in England.] Jourmalists talked of naval mismamagoment and of worr out captning who we.e langing noont the Arlmirnlty asking for employ ; marvelled at the raslmers of Lord St. Vincent [admiral] in sending so young a commander upon so great un enterprise. - innigit's Exa., vol. 7, ch. 20, 1. $35 \%$.
2491. GUARD, Indgnificant. Cortoz. Velasquez, the governor of Cuba, jenions of that success which ine was informed had attended the Spanish arms in Mexico, sent an army of 801) men to supersede Cortez, and to assume the government of the country. This intrepid man, leaving his conquests to be secured by fourscore of his soldiers, nttncked with the rest of his troops the army of Ve'asquez, elefeated then, and forced them to submit to his command as their geneml. At his return to Mexico he found his Spuniards besieged in their quarters. The Mexicans had attempted to set ut liberty their captive monarch, and on the si ght of the Spanish nrmy pouring down upon them in immense numbers they attucked them with the most desperate fury. A horrible earnage ensued, which Nortozuma himself endeavored to put in stop to by offering limself a medintor between the Spaninrds and the Americans. The pusillanimity of this proposal struck his own subjects with the highest indignation, and an enraged Mexie:aiz pierect him to the heart with ajavelin. -TyTLen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 21, p. 310 .
2.192. GUIDE, The unseen. Constantinc's. Writers deseribe the mocturnal vision which appeared to the fancy of Constantine as he slept within the walls of Byzantium. The tutelar genius of the sity, a venerable matron sinking moder tie weight of years and infirmities, was suidden]y transformed into a blooming maid whom his own hands adorned with all the symhols of Imperial greatness. The monarch awoke, interpreted the auspicions omen, and obeyed, without hesitation, the will of IHeaven. The day which gave birth to a city or colony was celebrated by the Romans with such ceremonies as had been ordained by a generous superstition ; and though Constantine might omit some rites which savored too strongly of their Pa zan origin, yet he was anxious to leave a deep impression of hope and respect on the minds of the spectators. On foot, with a lance in his hand, the emperor himself led the solemn procession, and directed the line, which was traced as the boundary of the destincd capital, till the growing circumference was observed with astonishment by the assistants, who at length ventured to observe that he had already exceeded the most ample measure of a great city. "I shall still advance," replied Constantine, " till Me, the Invistble fudde who murches before me, thinks proper tostop." Without presuming to Investignte the matare or motives of this extraordinary conductor, we shall content ourselves with the more hmmble task of describing the extent and limits of Constantinople.-(inmon's IRome, ch.17, 1. 0.5.
2.19B. AUIDES, Blind. Bibliral. A learned Oricntal, having been to visit the library of a French convent, writes thas to his friend in Persial concerning, what had passed: "Father," said I to the hibrarimn, "what are these huge volumes whirh till the whole side of the library"" "These," said he, "are the interpreters of the Seriptures." "There is "prodigious number of them," replied I ; "the Seriphures must have been very dark formerly, and be very clear at present. Do there remain still any doubts? Are there now any points contested "y" "Are there !" answered he with surprise-" are there! There are almost as many as there are lines." "You astonish me," said I; "what then have all these muthors been doing?" "These anthors," returncd he, "never searched the Scriptures for what onglit to be believed, but for what they did believe themselves. They did not consider them as a book wherein were aontained the doctrines which they onght to receive, but as a work whieh might be made to authorize their own ideas."
2494. GUILDS, Establishment of. Tintfth Century. In all of the truling commonities there were stringent regulations for ? oy ing and selling, enforced by the universul molinery of guilds. This organization was as complete as that of the military system of feudality ; and as the lora controlled his tenant and received his fealty, the temant commanded his socnman, tund the socmmn his serf, so the chief of a guild inled over lis company, and his company over their apprentices, und their apprentices over their servants.-KNight's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 22, p. 322.
2495. GUILT, Division of. Assmasilus. [13y the enemies of Mahomet.] IIis death was resalved, und they agreed that a sword from each tribe shonld be buried in his henrt, to divide the grilt of his blood and buftle the vengeance of the Hashemites. An ange: or a spy revealed their conspiracy ; and tlight was the only resource of Mahomet. At the dead of night, accompanied loy his friend Abubeker, he silently esamed from his house; the assassins watched at the door, but they were deccived by the figure of Ali. who reposed on the bed, and was covered wlth the green vestment of the apostle. -Gibbon's Rome, ch. 50, p. 124.
2496. GUILT, Evidence of. Sudden Denth. [In 10.22 Edward (III.) the Confessor was banqueting at Windsor.] At the king's banquet Sat Godwin [a powerful Saxon noble], in the house where his daughter was again the queen. Edward in a dispute hinted thut the earl was accessory to the death of his brother Alfred. He stood up to aver his innocence, and fell speechless to the earth. Other writers say that he invoked Heaven to choke lim by the bread which he was alout to swallow if that guilt was his; and that he was choked.-KNight's Exa., vol. 1, ch. 13, p. 171.
2497. HABIT, Power of. Civilization. [The early Greeks were cmmilnls.] Necessity only, in the mest savige mations, could at first get the better of the strongest instinet ; but that ouce overcome, a halhit is soon nequired, and will not le haid asitle as long as subsistence remains in any degree procarions.-Tytlek's [list., Booh 1, ch. 7, p. 60.
2198. HABITS, Personal, John Milton, His habit in early life had been to study bate into the night. After he lost his sight he changed his hours, and retired to rest at nine. In summer he rose at four, in winter nt five, and began the day with having the IIebrew seriptures read to him.
"Then he contemplated. At seven his man came to him again, and then read to him and wrote till dimner. The writing was as muelias the reating" (Aubrey). Then he took exercise, either wilking in the garden or swinging in a machine. His only recrention, besides conversation, was musie. He played the organ and the lass-viol, the organ most. Sometimes he would sing limself, or get his wife to sing to him, though she hum, he suin, no enr, yet a good voice. Then he went up to his study to lee read to till six. After six his friends were admitted to visit him, and would sit with him till eight. At eight he went down to supper, usually olives or some light thing. He was very abstemious in his diet, having to contend with a gouty diathesis. He was not fastidious in his choice of meats, but content with anything that was in senson, or easy to be procuret. After supping thus sparingly, he smoked a pipe of tobaceo, drank a glass of water, and then retired to bed. He was sparing in his use of wine. His Samson, who in this as in other things is Milton himself, allays his thirst "from the clear milky juice."-Pattison's Milton, cli. 12.
2499. HAIR changed. Early Gray. [Timour the Turtar is suid to have been very beautiful in person during his carly life.] One thing alone, according to the Tartar historians, contrasted with this youthfulness and grace of his countenance: it is the hair, which turned gray upon his head almost in the cradle. This phenomenon. which recalled, say his painters, the gray luir of the popular hero of the Persians, Sam, of whom the exploits are celehrated in the Shalnameh, had contributed to druw upon the young Timour the attention and respect of the Tartars. They suw in it a sign of precocions maturity, indicated by heaven in that crown of wisdom on the brow of a boy. They conceived it the augury of a eonsummate intellect, with a heroic heart. Heprided himself on this disgrace of nature as a privilege of heaven. These white hairs on the cheeks of twenty set off the lustre of his complexion, and impressed a strange, but rather agreeable than ungraceful, character upon his beauty.Lamartine's Turkey, p. 305.
2500. HaIr, Manly. Cutting. As it was then the custom for such as had arrived at man's estate to go to Delphi 10 offer the first-fruits of their hair to Apollo, Theseus, the legendary founder of Attica, weat thither, and the place where this ceremony is performed, from him, is said to be yet called Thesen. He shaved, however, only the fore part of his head, as Homer tells us the Abantes did ; and this kind of tonsure, on his account, was called Theseis. The Abantes first cut their hair in this manner, not in initation of the Arabims, ns some tmagine, nor yet of the Mysians, hot leemuse they were a warlike people, who loved close fighting, mul wore more expert in it than my ether mation. That ther might not, therefore, give at vantage to their enemies by their hatir, they took eare to cut it off. And wo are informed that Alexander of Macedon, having made the same olservation, ordered his Macedonim troops to cut off their bemrds, these leing it ready handle in matle.-Pievaren's Laves.
2501. HAIR, Pride in. Ifoman Emperor Julimn. His botly was covesed with hair: the use of the ra\%or was contined to his head alone - and [he] celelnates, with visible complowney, the slmggy and popmlous benrd, which ie fondly cherished, after the exmmple of the phitosophers of Grece. Had Julinn consulted the simple dictutes of reason, the first margistrate of the Rome is would have seorned the affectution of Dingenes, as well as that of Darius.-Ghinon's Rome, ch. $2 \geqslant, \mathrm{p} .398$.
2502. H.AIR, Princely. Long. The Frunks, whose monarehy was still conthed to the neighbortoon of the Lower Rhine, had wist 'y established the right of hereditary succession in the noble fanily of the Merovingians. These princes were elevated on a buckler, the sympal of military commund; and the roynl fishion of long lmir was the ensign of their birth amd dignity. Their thasen loeks, which they eombed mul dressed with singular care, hung down in flowing ringlets on their buck and shoulders, while the rest of the mation were ollhged, either hy haw or custom, to shave the hinder purt of their hend, to com, their hair over the forehcad, ant to content themselves with the ornament of two small whiskers.-Gibibon's Rome, ch. 34, p. 428.
2503. HAIR ridiculed. "Rownherd." Of the orgin of the latter, Mry. Mutchinsom gives the following account: " When Puritanism grew into a faction, the zealots distinguishel themselves, both men and women, by several affections of habit, looks, and words, which, had it been a real declension of vanity, and cmbracing of solriety in all those things, had been most com mendable in them. . . Amon? other affected habits, few of the Puritans, what degree soever they were of, wore their luir long enough to cover their ears; and the ministers and many others cut it close round their heads, with so many little peaks, as was something ridienlous to behold. From this custom of wearing their hair, that name of 'Roundhead' luecame the scornful term given to the whole Parliament party, whose army indeed marehed out so, but as if they had been sent out only till their hair was grown. Two or three years afterward, however," she continues (the custom, it may be presumed, having declined), "any struger that had seen them would have inquired the renson of that name."-Hood's Cromwell, ch. 6, p. 98.
2504. HAIR, Uncombed. Ilarald II. [Saxon King of England.] Lerend told how one of its many rulers, IIarald of Westfold, sent his men to bring him Gytha of Hordaland, a girl he had chosen for wife, and how Gytha sent his men back again with taunts at his petty realm. The taunts went home, and Harald vowed never to clip or comb his hair till he had made all Norway his own. So every spring-tide came war and hosting, harrying and lomrnhge, till n great fight nt Inafurstiond settled the matter, and Inarald "Ugly-IIend," ns men called him while the strife lasted, was free to shear his locks again and became liarald "Fair-IIair."-IIs'r. of ENG. PeoPLE, 冬 $7 \%$.
2505. HAIR, Use of. Spartans. They let their lair, therefore, grow from their youth, but took more particular care, when they expected an action, to have it well combed and shaning, remembering a saying of Lycurgas, that " a large head of hair made the hatudsome more gracefnl and the ugly more terrible."-Plutaben's Licenacs.
2506. HALLUCINATION, Realistic. J/artin Tuther. In October, $1521, \ldots$ he passed many a day in melancholy and depression of spirits. At such times he believed himself tormented of the Evil One. . . . [He relates: ] "It was in the yenr 15:2 that I wa. in Patmos at the Wartburg, alone in my little room, no one being permitted to come to me save two parges of honor, who bronght me food and drink. They had bronght me a bag of hazeluats, of which I ate from time to time, and which I locked it, in a chest. One evening on retiring I heard some one at the hazelnuts, cracking one after another with force against the rafters; then the noise approached my bed, but I cared little for that. After I had failen asleep) there began such a tumult in the stairway, as if threeseore barrels were being thrown down. I arose, went to the stairs, and cried ont, " Irt thou here (meaning the Evil One)? So be it !' I then commended my soul to the Lord Jesus Christ, of whom it is said . . . 'Thou hast put all things under his feet,' and retired to rest. For this is the best method to expel him (the devil)-(lespising him and ealling upon Christ. That he cannot endure." But fimally, when Sutan exceeded all bounds, as tiae legend records, Luther threw his inkstand at him, and he never returned ngrain.Rein's Lutiler, ch. 10, p. 97.

250\%. HANDS, Fortune in. Omar. Omar amnestied all the Arabs who, after the denth of Mahomet, had hesitated in their fuith. This amnesty and the report of his triumphas led thousands of Massulmans to tlock beneath his banners. Amr, clief of those insurgents, a warrior of colossal stature and an arm of iron, brought him 2000 combatants. "What pay dost thou ask ?" said Omar to lim, joking, "since thou must by thyself be worth several men." "A thousand dirhems for this," replied Amr, with his head upon his left side ; "a thousand for this," added he, striking upon the right side; "and in fine, a thousand for this," continued he, striking, upon liis heart. "Very well," said Onar, smiling, " I assign thee three thousand dirhems." Thensurveying him from the heat to the feet and admiring his gigantic height: "Praise be to God, who las created Amr !"cried the Khalif. II sent him to join the army then forming on the banks of the Euphrates to attack Persia.-Lamantine's TURKEy, p. 168.

250S. HANDS, Hundred. Vtnquished. Egaon, a famons giant of antiquity, was the son of Titan and Terra. He is descrilyed as having possessed one hundred hands. IIe was vancuished by Jupiter and loaded with chains.-An. Cx. clopedia, "EQAON."
2509. HAND-SHAKING, Weariness of. Gen eril Givent. [When abrond lie was usked if he did not tire of so much lmnd-shaking. "Yes," said he," I . . . think hand-shaking a great nuisance, uml it should be ubolished. In 1805 it was awful with me ; I thought I conld hardly survive the task. It not only makes the right arin sore, but it slocks the whole system, and mints a man from writing or attendiag to other duties. It demornlizes the entire nervous mud muscular system."-'Travela of General Gilant, p. 57.

2510 . HANGING, Forecast of. Putriots. When the members were siguing the Decharation [of Independence] Benjamin Inarison, of Virginia, an enormonsly corpulent man, looking at the slender, withered form of Elbridge Gerry, of Massachmsetts, said: "Gerry, when the hanging comes, I slanll have the arvantage ; you'll kick in the air half an hour after it is all over with me." It was about this time, too, that Franklin achieved one of his celebrated witticisms. "We must all linng together in this business," said one of the members. "Yes," said Franklin, " we must all lang together, or, most assuredly, we shall all lanir separately."-C'rClopedia of Brog., p. 349.
2511. HANGING, Publio. Semuel Johnson. He said to Sir William Neott: "The age is running nad after innovation; and nll the business of the world is to be done in a new way; men are to be hanged in anew way; Tyburn itself is not sufe from the fury of innovation." It havirg been argued that this was an improvement"No, sir,"said he, eagerly, " it is not un improvement ; they object that the old method drew together a number of spectutors. Sir, executions are intended to draw spectators. If they do not draw spectators, they don't unswer their purpose. The old method was most satisfactory to all parties: the public was gratified by a procession, the criminal was supported by it. Why is all this to be swept away $?^{\prime \prime}-$ Boswell's Jonnson, p. 488.
2512. HANGING a Remedy. Cromucell's. Terrible also was the contest of Clonmell, before which Cromwell sat down with the resolution of fighting and of conquest. Many persons were here taken, and among them the celebrated fighting Bishop of Ross, who was carried to a castle kejet by his own forces, and there lianged before the walls, in siglit of the garrison; which so discouraged them that they immediately surrendered to the Parlinment's forces. This bislop was used to say, "There was no way of curing the English but by langing them."-Hood's Cromwell, cli. 11, p. 143.
2513. HAPPINESS vs. Amusement. George Story. He sought happiness in floriculture and angling, in cards and in drinking, without suecess. Ile went to the Doncaster races, and says : "As I passed through the company, dejected and disappointed, it ocenrred to my mind, What is all this immense nultitude assembled here for ? To see a few horses gallop two or three times around the course as if the devil was in them and their riders! Certainly we are all mad, we are fit for Bedlam, if we imagine that the Almighty made us to seek happiness in such senseless amusements. I was asliamed and confounded , and determined never to be seen there any more." [He bercame a faitiful minister.]-Stevhas' Methodmm, vol. 3, p. 246.
2514. HAPPINESS compared. Semut Johnson. I mentioned llame's notion, that all who are happe are equally happy: a little miss witha new gown at a dancing-school hall, a general at the head of a vietorious army, and an ormor, after laving made un eloquent speech in agreat assembly Jounson. "Sir, that all who are hap. py arc equally lappy, is not true. A peasant and a phiiosopher may be equally satisfice, but not equally lapy. Inapiness consists in the multlpicity of agreenble consciousness. A pensime has not eapacity for having equal huppiness with a philosopher." - Boswell's Jonnson, p. 141.
2515. HAPPINESS, Constructive. Samuel Johnson. Pound St. Paul's chureh into ntoms, and consider uny single atom ; it is, to be sure, good for nothing ; but put ull these utoms together, and you have St. Paul's C'hurch. So it is with human felicity, which is mule up of many ingredicnts, each of which may be shown to be very insignificant.-Boswelli's Jounson, p. 121 .
2516. HAPPINESS, Domestio. Rerifn of James II. [The Dake of Monmonth was bunished at the time of the coromation of James II., his rival for the throne of England.] The prospect whic'1 lay before Monmouth was not a bright one. There was no probability that he would be recalled from banishment. On the Continent his life could no longer be passed amid the splendor and festivity of a court.

He retired to Brussels, accompanied by Henrictta Wentworth. Baroness Wentworth, of Nettlestede, a damsel of high rank and ample fortune, who loved him passionately, who had sacriticed for his sake her maiden honor and the hope of a splendid alliance, who had followed him into exile, and whom he believed to he his wife in the sight of Heaven. Under the soothing influence of female friendship his lacerated mind healed fast. He seemed to have found lappiness in obscurity and repose, and to have forgotten that he had been the ornament of a splendid court and the head of a great party, that he had commanded armies, and that he had aspired to a throne.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 496.
2517. HAPPINESS, Receipt for. Plato's. The maxim of Plato is, that the man who would be truly happy should not study to cularge his estate, but to contract his desires. For he who does not restrain lis avarice must forever be poor.-Plutarciis Sertoriús.
2518. HAPPINESS in Simplicity. Quakers. When Peter, the great Russiau reformer, attended in England a mecting of Quakers, the semiharbarous philanthropist could not but exclaim, " How happy must be a community instituted on their prineiples !" "Beautiful !" said the philosophic Frederick of Prussi:t, when a humdred years later he read the account of the government of Pennsylvanin; "it is perfect, if it can endure."-B.-
2519. HARANGUE, Incessant. Bonaparte. [When Lord Whitworth was sent as British ambassador to Bonaparte, in 1803, he asked an explanation of French aggressions, made in violation of treaty agreemeut.] Bomparte haraugued him for two hoours, Loril Whitworth in viin try. Ing to put in a word. - Knigirr's Eng., vol. 7, ch. $24, \mathrm{p}$. 420 .
2520. HARDSHIPS, Military. Roman Legionaries. Besides their nrms, which the legionaries scarcely considered us an encumbrance, they were laden with their kitehen furniture, the instruments of fortification, and the provision of muny days. Under this weight, which would oppress the de.icary of a modern soldier, they were trained by a regular step to advane in about six hours near twenty miles. On the upparance of min encmy they threw aside their laggage, nul by ensy und rapid evolutions converterd the colimin of mareh into an order of buttle.-Ginhon's Rome, ch. 1, p. 19.
2521. HARDSHIPS, Success by. Chuturey $J_{e}$ rome. [The inventor of muchine-made Yankeo clocks.] After working awhile at the dials, he started with two others on a tour to New Jersey-they to sell the works of clocks, and he to make the cases for them. They travelled in a lumber-wagon, and currier'. their own provisions. By this time the clockmakers of Connecticut had so systematized their business that they could sell a pretty good clock that stood seven feet light for $$ 40$. [Formerly costing ubout $150.] Channcey Jerome worked nbout fifteen hours a day that winter at case-making. . . . He well remembers passing through New York, und seeing the crowds of people walking up and down Chatham Street stopping a man to ask him what was the matter. At New Haven-where he afterward lived in a splendid mansion-he walked about the streets eating loread and cheese, and carrying his clothes in a bundle.-Cyclopedia of Bloc., p. 212.
2522. HARMONY, Fear of. Ancients. As the writers upon physics say that if war und discord were banished the universe, the heavenly bodics would stop their course, and all generation and motion would cease, by reason of that perfect harmony, so the great Lawgiver infused a spirit of ambition and contention into the spartan constitution, as un incentive to virtue, and wished ulways to see some difference and dispute among the good and virtuous.- Plutaren's Agesilaus.
2523. Harvest, a lost. Golden. Antigonus conceived some suspicion of Mithridates from a dream. Ite thouglit he entered a large and beantiful field, und sowed it with filinge of gold. This produced a crop of the stme precious metat; but coming a little after to visit it, he found it was cut, and nothing left but the stalks. As he was in great distress abont his loss, he heard some people say that Mithridates had reaped the golden hervest, and was gone with it toward the Euxinc Sea.-Plutanci's MabcusCbasscs.
2524. HASTE, Defective. Art. It is snid that when Agathareus the painter valued himself upon the celerity and ease with which he dispatched his picces, Zeuxis replied, "If I boast, it shall be of the slowness with which I finish mine." For casc and speed in the exccution seldom give a work any lasting importance or exquisite beauty ; while, on the other hand, the time which is expended in labor is recovered and repaid in the duration of the performance. - Plutarcio's Pemicles.
2525. HASTE, Needless. Admiral Irakic. A match at bowls was being played, in which Drake and other high ollters of the theet we:e engaged, when a small urmed resed was seed rumisg before the wind into Plymouth harbor with nill suils set. IIer commander handed in haste, mad eagerly songht the phace where the English lord admiral and hiss eaptains were standing. Ilis name was Fleming; he was the master of a Scoteh privateer ; and he fold the English offeers that he had that moming seen the Spunish Armadn off the Cornish coast. At this exciting information the captains legan to hurry down to the water, and there was ashontIng for the ships' bonts; but Drake coolly checked his comrndes, and insisted that the mateh shotdd be played out. He said that there was plenty of time both to win the game and beat the Spaniurds.-Decrsive Batries, §̊ 398.
2526. HATRED, Savage. French rs. Italians Mary de Medicis disgrusted the French, in the first place, by her partiality to her countrymen, the Italians. Concini, a Florentine, $n$ high frovorite of the queen regent, was advanced to the dignity of a marshal of France-n sulficient reason for rendering the queen nod her minister odious to the nobility and to the kingdom. The Marechal d'Ancre, for such was the title he assumed, trusted too much to the favor of his mistress and to the appearance of power, which was its consequence. The nohility combined against him, and he was assassinated in a most inhumam manner in the pulace of the Louvre. The populace, in that spirit of savage cruelty which in all scenes oi disorder seems to be characteristic of that nation, are said netually to have torn his heart from his body and devoured it.-Tyteer's iIstr., Book 6, ch. 32, p. 442.
2527. HAUGHTINESS, Lordly. Sipor: [The Persian tyrant-king.] At the time when the East trembled at the mame of Sapor, he received a present not unworthy of the greatest kings-a long train of cumels, laden with the most rare and valuable merchandises. The rich offering was accompanied with an epistle, respectful, but not servile, from Odenathus, one of the noblest and most opulent senators of Palmyra. "Who is this Odemathus," said the haughty victor, and he commanded that the presents should be cast into the Euphrates, "that he thas insolently presumes to write to his lord? If he entertains a hope of mitigating his pumishment, let him fall prostrate before the foot of our throne, with his hands bound behind his lack. Should he hesitate, swift destruction shall he poured on his head, on his whole race, and on his country." [Odenathus resented the insult, und met the Persinn king in arms, and compelled his retreat beyond the Euphrates.] The voice of history, which is often little more than the organ of hatred or flattery, reproaches Supor with a proud abuse of the rights of conquest. We are told that Valerinn, in chains, but invesiod with the Imperial purple, was exposed to the multitude, a constant spectacle of fallen greatness; and that whenever the Persian monarch mounted on horseback, he placed lis foot on the neek of a Roman emperor.-Gibbox's Rome, ch. 10, p. 318.
2598. HEALTH following Disease. Cholera. [In 1832 England was visited with the cholera, which] left a real blessing bohind it. The care of the public health trom that time berome a duty which mo ministry conld unglere, and which phaced us in a condition not only to mitigate the cvils of any pest in recurring semss hat to elevate the whole body of the preppla in habits of clemaness mad eonfort, mad to prolener the duration of life in village and in city, in the pleasmit fields and in the close factories.-KNignt's Ext., vol. 8, ch. 16, p. 293.
2529. HEALTH, Heroism without, I'illiam III. Willia.a III . . . . had a thin and weak borly.

Ite was alwnys asthmotiont, mad the dregs of the small-pox fatling upon his hungs, he hat a constant decp cough.-Kinigit's Exi., vol. 5, ch. 5, p. 65.
2530. HEALTH prized, Arabs. The custom of the sedentary Ambs in good circumstances and living in towns, was what it is at this day. They sent their sons to nurse into the familles of the nomnd Arabs living in tents. The object of this sort of ndoption wns twofold: in the first place, the child contracted amid this rural and pastoral dife a sounder health and more maseuline habits ; and secondly, the affection that grew up between the child und the nomadic family wherein he had been suckled nnd had commenced his life gave to the powerful family to whom he owed his blood mindissoluble clientage among the tribes of the country.-Lamartines Tur. KEY, p. 55.
2531. HEALTH by Travel. Wieslington Irv ing. I am too weak to take any exercise, and too low-spirited half the time to enjoy company. "Was that young Irving," nsked Judqe Kent of his brother-in-law, "who slept in the room next to me, and kept upsuchan incessant cough churing the night ?" "It was." "He is not long for this world." This lugubrious judement of the great jurist was shared by the family of Irving, who determined to send him to Europe. .. . He started on the 19th of May, 1804 . "There's n chap," said the captain, "who will go overboard before we get across." . . . lrving set out from Gravesend on the 18th of January, 1806, and reached New York after a stormy passage of sixty-four days. He had contradieted the prophecy of the ciaptain with whom he origimally sailed-ihat he would go overboard before he got across; and of Judge Kent, who declared he was not long for this workd. He returued in grood heulth, and resumed his legal studies.Stoddard's Imving, p. 17, 18, 23.
2532. HEARERS, Unappreciative. Stmuel Johtnson. His noble friend, Lord Elibank, well observed that if a great man procured an interview with Johnson, and dill not wish to see him more, it showed a mere idle curiosity, and a wretehed want of relish for extraordinary powers of mind. Mrs. Thrale justly and wittily acconnted for such conduct hy saying that Johnson's conversation was by much too strong for a person acenstomed to obsequioushess and thattery; it was mustard in " yonnuy child's mouth! Boswell's Joinson, p. 465.
2533. HEARING, Released from. Congregation. [King Jmmes II. commanded his Liberty of Conscience act to be rend by the unwilling clergy in the churches to the unwilling hearers.] One, more pleasantly than gravely, told his people that, thongh he was ohliged ti) read 1 , they were not obliged to hear it; and he stopped till they nll went ont, and then he read it th the walls.-Kviout's Eva., vol. 4, eh. 20, p. 420 .
2634. heart, a broken. Miss Perronet. $\boldsymbol{\Lambda}$ gentleman so called had, by the utmost assidaity and inummerable professions of the tenderest affeetion, gatined by slow degrees luer love. The time of the marringe was fixed, the ring was bought, and the wedding-clothes were sent to her. He cane a week before the day, and continned to now the most ardent regaril ; but at a later visit, sitting down very carelessly on a chair, he dechared in the coolest manner that he had changed his purpose; that he had the m mistaken, did not love her, and comdd not marry here. He walked away leaving her dumb with grief. The sorrow which she emdnavered to conemb preyed upou her spivits. till, there or four days after, she suddenly laid down, and in four minntes died. "One of the ventricles of her henrt hurst, so she litemally dien of a broken heart."-steress Metmodrar, vol. 2 . p. 262.
2535. $\qquad$ . By IIaskingtom Irring. [A friend handed Byror a copy of the "Sketeh Book" shortly hefore his death.] He turued to the "Broken II art." "That," said he, "is one of the tincest things ever written on carth, ami I wnot te har an American rend it. But staydo you know Irving ?" I replicul that I hamd nevir seen him. "God bless him!" exelaimed Byron. "Ite is a genius; and he has something better than genins-a heart. I wish I conld see him, but I fear I never slanl. Well, read the ' Broken lleart'-yes the 'Broken Heart ' What a word!"In elosing the first paragraph, I said, "Shall I contess it? I do believe in broken hearts." "Yes," exchamed Byron, "and so do I, and so does everybody but philosophers and fools!" While I was reading one of the most touching pertions of that mournful piece. I observed that Byron wept. He turned his eyes upon me, and sain, "Yor see me weep, sir. Irving himself never wrote that story without weeping: nor can I hear it without tears. I I lave not wept much in this world, for tromble never brings tears to my eyes, lant I always have ten's for the ' Broken Heart.'" [See No. 3351.]Stoddardis Irving, p. 40.
2536. HEART, Hardened. James IT. [Trinl of Benjamin Ilewling for rebelling under the Duke of Mommouth.] Even Jeffreys was, or pretended to be, inclined to lenity. . . . Time was allowed for a reference to London. The sister of the prisoner went to Whitehall with a petition. Many courtiers wished her suceess, and Churehill [the Duke of Marlborongli], among whose numerons faults cruelty had no place, obtained admitt:ance for her. "I wish well to your suit with all my heart," he said, as they stood together in the ante-chamber; "but do not flatter yonrself with hopes. This marble"-and he haid his haml on the chimney-piece-" is not harder than the king." This predietion proved true. Benjamin Hewling died with dauntless courage, amid lamentations in which the soldiers who kept guard round the gallows could rot refrain from join-ing.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 000.
2537. HEART, An honest. Fortress. The first of the family [of Stephen Colonna] in fame and merit was the elder Stephen, whom [the poet]

Petrareh loved and isteemad ns a hero superior to his own times, and not unworthy of ancient Rome. Pirsere tion and exile displayed to tho mations his abilities in peace and war; in hisstress he was an ohjout not of pity, hut of reverence; the nspect of danger provoked him to avow his name and country ; and whin be was asked, "Whare is now your fortress ?" he laid his hamd on his heart, and mowered, "llere." - Ghimon's lonam, ch. 69, p. 463.
2533. HEART longing for God. Armma/ra Thmbiran. [He was n] Ifindon of high family, and relebmatel for his knowledge; bal made bilgrimages of many thonsande of milos, to serek rest to his infulting mind. Ile it last mot with some mative Christians . . . mud with ('arver the missionary. [He begme toseek the trith.] when some of his disciples attempted to mary him ofl ; he aprented to the magistme at Nadras, wemring his hathen robes in the court, for the last time, thant he might be identitied as the heme of the order. Before the oflerer amb a areat multitude he hore this eherpuent testimony for Christianity. Alhuding to lis piggrimages, he said: "Fifiy yars of my life have been thas spent. I songlit all heathen books, but found nothing for the sonl. I have tatith many homdren disedples, as yom know. Idiseovered nothing in heathen books, in heathen temples, in hotuhen erremonies, to satisfy my spirit. I met with this misiomary, and he opened to my mo derstanding the way of salvation. Idetermined to abandon heathenism. By heathenism I got moncy in abomance, and honers. I was worshipped by my disciples; but my soul shrumk thack at its blatplemy against the Gul of whom I had heart.

I wish to be baptized in the mame of Jesus, and to temelo othersalso of this Suviour."-Stevers' Merthodism, vol. 3, p. 347.
2539. HEART, Obdurate, Murderer. The Earl of Ferrers, an infidel and a drimkard, . . . murdered his steward for rendering assistance to his lady, who hat been compassionately separated from him by act of Parlimment. The Honse of Lords combemmed the wretched nobleman ; he was to be executed and his body dissected. Itis brother . . . [and others, both men and women] sought to mouse him to a sense of his moral peril. Le was prayed for in the clurches; thit he remnined unmoved. He spent the evenings of his imprisonment in phaying piguct; he demanded intoxicating drinks; the night before his excention he had liamlet rend while he was in bed, and lanf on hour before le was carried to the gallows he was employed in correcting verses which he had composed in the Tower. Dressed in his wedding clothes, decked with silver embroidery, he rode to the gallows in his carriage, drawn by six horses, and accompanied by troops and a hearse. He died without penitence and apparently without fear.-Stevens' Methodisa, vol. 2, p. 20.
2554. HEAVEN, A carnal. Mahomet. It is natural enough that an Arabian prophet should dwell with rapture on the groves, the fountains, and the rivers of paradise ; but instead of inspiring the blessed inhabitants with a liberal tasto for harmony and science, conversation and friendship, he idly celebrates the pearls and diamonds, the robes of silk, palaces of marble, dishes of gold, rich wines, artificial duluties, mumerons nttendants, and the whole train of sensual mad costly lixury which beromes Insiph to the owner even in the short pertod of this mortal life. Seventy-two houris, or black-eyed girls of resplendent benuty, blooming youth, virgin purity, and exquisite sensibility will be created for the use of the mennest believer: a moment of plensure will he prolonged to a thonsmad yars, and his faculties will be increased at hundredfold to rember him worthy of his felicily. Notwithstunding a valgar prejudice, the grates of heaven will he opern to both sexes; but Mahomaet has mot specitied the male compmions of the female elect, lest he should rither alarm the jealonsy of their former husbmats or disturb their felieity by the suspicion of the everlasting marriage.-Grinows Minomet, p. 30 .
2541. heaven, Division of. sirctendmry. The infinite variety of heaven thas arranges liself, in general, intotwo kingdoms ; specitically into thre leavens: and in particular, into innumerable societies. The two kingoloms are respectively called celestial and spiritual. The angels forming the celestan kingdom are characterized hy their exceeding love of the Lord and of goorlness; and the angels who form the spiritual kingrlom ure distinguished by their exceeding love of their neighbor and of truth. The celestial angels are immensely wiser than the spiritunl, nud their blessedness is ineffable. Specifically there are three henvens, perfectly distinet, called the first heuven, the second or middle heaven, and the third or highest heaven ; or they may be called external, internal, and inmost ; or naturad, spiritmal, and celestial. . . . The external, tirst, or natural heaven, is formed of those who, from a principle of obedience and duty, live in necordanee with the Divine will. The second, spiritual, or middle heaven, is formed of such as love truth, delight in things intellectual, and at the same time are in disinterested love to the neighbor. The inmost, third, or celestial heaven is formel of those who, full of love to the Lord, are in innocence.-White's SWedenвоня, ch. 13, p. 104.
2542. HEAVEN, Materialistic. Boszell. I remember, many years ago, when my imagination was warm, and I happened to be in melancholy mood, it distressed me to think of going into a state of being in which Shakespeare's poctry did not exist. A lady whom I then mueh admired, a very amiable woman, humored my fancy, and relieved me by saying, "The first thing you will meet in the other word will be an elegrant copy of Shakespeare's works presented to you." Dr. Johnson smiled benignantly at this, and did not appear to disapprove of the notion.-Boswels's Jonnson, p. 387.
2543. HEAVEN, Views of. Adaptution. "Grace and Peace in Christ. My dear littie Son : I rejoice to hear that thou art learning diligently and praying faithfully. Continue to do this, my son, und when I return home I will bring you some beautiful toys, representing an annual fair. I know of a delightful garden in which many children are found, dressed in golden clothing; they gather beautiful apples, pears, cherries, and plums; they also sing and leap, and are happy ; they have beautiful little horses, with golden bridles and silver saddles. Thereupon I asked the man, whose garden it is, to whom these chiddren belonged. He nuswered, "These are the chiddren that love to pray und learn, mad that are pions.' Then suid 1 . 'My dear sir, I too lave a son, mamed Johmile Lather ; could not he niso come into this garden und ent such beamifulaples and pears, and ride such little horses mud pluy whith these chiddren ?' And the man said, 'If he loves to pray and to stady, and is pious, he shall likewine go to heaven, mul with him Lippos and dose [sons of Nehuchthon and Jomas!. Aud when iney all return they shall have tifenamd thates and drmas, and all sorts of stringed iustruments: they shat also dance, and shoot with small (row-hows.' And he showed me a beautiful phet in the gareden set apary for thancine ; there I satw hanging real golden fifes and drums, mod tine silver crossbows. But it was cuite carly, so that the chit dren had not yet eaten their mean. Hence I could not watit to see them dance, and I said to the mun, 'I will hurricdly go mol write my little son Johmie all about these things, so that ho may pray diligently, study well, and be pions, und nlso cone into this garden. But he has an ame Lema, whom he must take along with him.' Then the man replied, 'Let it beso: goond write him all mbont it.' 'Therefore, my dear little son Johmic, kerp on stadying and praying. and tell Lippus and Jost that they also study and pray, mad then you will all together cone into this garden. Iferewith I commend ther to Almighty God. Grect Aunt Lema with a kiss from me. Thy dear father, Martinus Luther."-Rens's LU'THER, ch. 16, p. 149.
25.4. HEAVEN visited, Mrthomet. His dream of a noctumal journey is scrion y described as a real and corporen transaction. A mysterious animal, the Borak, conveyed him from the temple of Mecea to that of Jerusalem; with his companion Gubriel he successfully asceuded the seven heavens, and received and repaid the salutations of the patriarchs, the prophets, and the angels, in their respective mansions. Beyond the seventh heaven Mahomet alone was permitted to proceed ; he passed the veit of unity, appronehed within two bow-shots of the throne, and felt a cold that piered him to the heart when his shoulder was touched by the hand of God. After this familiar thongh important conversation he again descended to Jerusalem, remounted the Borak, returned to Mecea, and performed in the tenth part of a night the journey of many thousand yemrs.-Gibbox's Manomet, p. 26.
2545. HEAVEN, The Warriors'. Scandinarians. The wny in which the departed heroes pass their time in Valhalla, or in the padace of Odin, is described in several places of the Edda. They have every day the pleasure of nrming themiselves, marshalling themselves in military order, engaging $\geqslant \perp$ battle, and being all cut to pieces; but when the stated hour of repast arrives their bodies are reunited, and they return on horseback safe to the hall of banquet, where they feed heartily on the flesh of a boar, und drink beer out of the skulls of their enemies, till they are in a state of intoxication. Odin sits by himself at a particular table. The heroes are served by the beautiful virgins, named Valkirie, who officiate as their cup-bearers; but the pleasures of love do not enter nt all into the joys of this extraordinary Paradise. These notions of religlous beibef among the seandiandans, arising from a native ferocity of character, had a strong effect on their mational manners and on the condinct of individuais. P'iacing their sole delight in war and in the slanghter of their enemies, they had an absolnte contempt of danger and of bodily paln.-Tytlebis Ifast., Book 5 , ch. 6.
25.16. HEEDLESSNESS, Loss by. (ioldsmith. I went to Cork and converted my horse, whieh you prize so much higher than Fiddiehack, into cash, took my passage in a ship hombi for Amerlen, and at the same time paid the eaptain for my freight and all the other expenses of my voynge. But it so happened that the wind dil not answer for three weeks; and you know, mother, that I could not command the elements. My misfortune was that, when the wind served, I happened to be with a party in the comntry, and my friend the captain never incpuired after me, lout set sail with ns mueh indifference as if I hind been on board.-Inving's Goldsmitia, ch. 3, p. 32.
2547. HELL necessary. Presidevt Andreno Jackson. [1Iere is] his famous reply to a young man who objected to the doctrine of future punishment. "I thank God," said the youth, "I have too much good sense to helieve there is such a place as hell." "Well, sir," said General Jaekson, "I thank God there is such a place." " Why, general," nsked the young man, " what do yon want with such a place of torment as heil ?" To which the general replied as quick as lightning, "To put such rascais as you in, that oppose and vility the Christian religion." The young man said no more, and soon after found it convenient to take his leave.-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 538.
2548. HELL, Temporary, Mohammedan. According as the shares of guilt or virtue shati preponderate, the sentence will be pronounced, and all, without distinetion, wili pass over the sharp and perions bridge of the nhy is; but the innocent treading in the footsteps of Mihomet will gloriously enter the gates of paradise, while the guilty wili fall into the first and midest of the seven hells. The term of expiation will vary from nine hundred to seven thousand years ; but the prophet has judiciously pronised that ail his disciples, whatever may be their sins, shail be saved by their own faith and his intercession from eternal damnation.-Gibbon's Maironet, p. 30.
2549. HELP, Fictitious. Julian the Apostate confiscated the whole property of the chureh; the money was distributed among the soldiers; the lands were added to the domain; and this act of oppression was aggravated by the most ungenerous irony. "I show myself," siys Juiian, "the true friend of the Gaiilenns. Their admirable law has promised the kingdom of heaven to the poor ; and they will advance with more diligence in the paths of virtue and salvation when they are relieved by my assistance from the load of temporal possessions."-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 23 , p. 454.
2550. HELPERS, Dependence on. "Auxiliaries." The safety and honor of the empire was principally intrusted to the legions, but the policy of Rome condencended to adopt every usefill instrument of war. Considerable ievies were reguiariy made among the poovinchals, who had not yot deserved the homorable distinction of Romans. Many dependent princes and commmities, dispersed romme the frontiers, were permitted for a while to hohd their freedom and security by the lemure of military, service. Even select troops of hostile barlarimas were fre andy compelled or permaded to comame their dangerons valor in remote almates, and for the benctit of the state. Althese were incluated mader the renernl mame of maxiliaries: ami howsorver they might vary urcordiner to the diflerence of times and circumstares, their monbers were seddom much inferion to thase of the legions themselves, Ghmosis Rome, ch. 1, i) 17.
2551. HERITAGE of Disposition. Frolerick $I I$. Frederick, it is true, by mo memes relinguished his hereditnry privilege of kicking nnd cmigelhing. Ifis practice, however, as to that matter differed in some important respects from his father's. To Frederick William the mere circhnstance that any persons whaterer, men, women, or children, Prussians or forcigners, were within rench of his toes and of his cane, appeared to be a sufticient renson for proceeding to belabor them. Frederick refuired provogition as well as vicinity; nor was he ever known to intlict this paternal species of correction on any but his horn subjects.-Macallay's Finedehick the Gheat, 1 ). 25.
2552. HEREDITY, Failure of. Eirthquake of Lisbon. It was this catastrophe which was the means of calling into exercise the latent benevolenee of John ITownrd, who is now styled in nll lands and tongues "the philanthropist." The father of this benevolent being was noted for his penuriousness.-Crcloredia of Biog., p. 31 .
2553. HERESY fined. Domutists. [During the persecution of the Donatists by the Catholies, a] regular scale of fines, from ten to two hundred pounds of silver, was curiousily ascertained, aceording to the distinctions of rink and fortune, to punish the crime of assisting at a schismatic conventicle; and if the fine had been levied five times, without subduing the obstinacy of the offender, his future pmishment was referred to the discretion of the Imperial court. By these severities, which obtnined the warmest approhation of St. Augustin, great numbers of Donatistswere reconciled to the Catholie Chures; but the fanaties, who still persevered in their opposition, were provoked to madness and despair, the distracted country was filled with tumult and bloodshed; the armed troops of Circumeeliions alternately pointed their rage against themselves, or agninst their adversaries; and the calendar of martyrs received on both sides a considerable augmentation.-G1bbon's Rome, ch. 33, p. 373.
2554. HERESY hunting. Roger Williams. The banishment of Roger Williams, instead of bringing peace, brought strife and dissension to the people of Massachusetts. The ministers were stern and exacting. Every shade of popuJar belief was closely scrutinized; the slightest departure from orthodox doctrines was met with the charge of heresy, and to be a heretic was to herome an obtomst. Sill. the advocutes of free oppinion multipliod. Tle cloreve not with. standing their grent intherere mong the people. felt lanerure. Redigions debates breme the order of the day. Exery sormon had to puss the or. dead of revir.w mad criticism. - Ranontien L'. S., ch. 13, p. 123.
2555. HERESY, Madness at. Jhilip $I t$. Philip returned in trimuph to Spaln, where his arelve mind, now at ease from foreign listurlssucers, began to be dispuieterl on the seore of religion, mal he lad down a thed resolution to ex tirpate exery sure of heresy from his dominlons. The Inanisition was lavested with all the plenitule of the powers of persecoutem. It is womberful bow marh the spirit of this tyrmet coinc ideal with that of his consort, Mary of Eareland: maly Mary burat the Protestants nt once, and Philij prepurel them for that ceremony by rack and tortures. The King of Span, hearinge that there weresome hereties ina valley of l'iedmont. I wrimering on the Milanese, sent orders to the Governor of Milan to despatel a fow troops that way, and concluded his order in two remark:able words-" "fhorrud toless"-hung them all. Beine informed that the same opiniens were contertained by seme of the indabithats of Culatria, he ordered one half to be hanged and the other burmed; the conserfuences of these cruelties were wind he did not foresse- the loss of "third part of his dominions. - Treteeres Histr, biook 6, rh, 26, p. 362.
2.5.56. HERESY, Suppression of. By Latr. FWilliam III. whtainel the passage of an act of Parliament] by which it was provided that if any person who hid been edneated in the Christian religion, or had made profession of the same, should by writing, prowhing, or teaching deny the Loly Trinity, or deny the C'hristimn religion to be trie, or the IIoly seriptures to be of divine authority, he should for the first offence be disqualiticd for any ofllee : for the second, be rendered incapable of bringing any action, of purchasing lands, or of being guardian, executor, or legatee. Ite was, moreover, to be subject to three years' imprisonment. With the exception of the part relating to the denial of the Holy Trinity." the law still remains unrepeated or ummoditied. "-Kvigit's Evg., vol. $\tilde{5}$, ch. 13.
2557. HERETICS terrified, C'ruclty. [In 1166 about thirty German men and women had settled at Gxford, whose lives were perfectly blamelews: and their opinions, whatever they might he, were not very intractive, for they had obtained only one proselyte, a woman of humble station. [They were ln ught bef.ne the Syood.] They answered perversely and erroneously eoncernine the sacriments. $\qquad$ This was the first cbullition of heresy in England since the differences of the days of Augnstin. An example was to be made; and the wretched exiles were branded, whipped, and turned out maked and bleeding into the fields, in the depths of winter. None dared to succor them, none to pity, and they all miserably perished.--Knigut's Eva., vol. 1, ch. 20.
2555. HERETICS, Vengeanoe against. Corpre. [In 15.56 the commissioners of Cardinal Pole] not only burnt all the English Bibles and other heretical books, but went through the farce of making a process against the body of Peter

Martyr's wife, who had been buried hane of the charehes. They could thal no withesser who lad heard her ilter any lieresies, for she conld *pak no Englists. Sonudar the direethon of the cardimal they transferred her borly to a dung. hill upon the plea that she had bero 15 mun, mat ham died ex'ommoniented. A serene equally dis. gusting was perpetrated by Pole's commissioncrest Chmbridge. They lath the churehes of St. Mary's mal Sit. Nichumpls muder finterdiet, beranse the bodles of the grem reformers, Buecrand Fagins, were buried in them. The demd wero then cited to apporr ; hat not amawering to the summons, they were juiged to be obstimite her. eties, and their horlies were to be taken out of their graves and delivered to the secolur power. On the tith of February these hodies were publicIy burnt, according tio the ancicut cerchonies, which Rome had fomed so dferetme in the cose of Wyclife.-Kinuar's Enti., vol. 3, ch. 7, p. 160 .
2559. HERMIT, Mysterious. At Fitgara Fitlls. Ilis ussumed mame was Ahbot. Ite ocerupied as hint on Goat Iskad. ILismporarance and necomplishamens indiented that he had once been favored by fortune, hat he would never give any clew to his past history. He whs wont to write in English, Spmish, Italim, and Latin, and to destroy the eompositions ass soon as made. The ishand beame too murh frequented for him, and he removed to the mandund. It was his habit to bathe thre times a dhy in the river; one moruing in the yen 18:35 the ferryman saw Ahot's elothes lying on the lmak, bint no trace of their owner. He never ifterward mode his uppenmace, and no doubt was drowned.-Arpleton's Cycloredia, "Abhot."
2560. HERO, Patriotio. William Wralluce. In this state of miversal despondency arose William Wallace, a man who deserves to be mumbered among the heroes of antiquity With no advnntages of birth or fortune, conscious of his persomil merits alone, with an invincible spirit, a courage equal to the greatest attempts, aud every requisite quality of a consummate genemal, he midertook to retrieve the honor and the liberties of his country. $A$ fow patriots joined him in that glorious attempt, and his confessed superiority of merit bestowed on him the rank of their clief and leader. Taking advantage of an expedition of the English monarch into Flauders, while the government of Scotland had been intrusted to an imperious viceroy, Wallace, with his associates, began hostilities by an assanlt upon some of the strongest casthes which contained English gurrisons. Of these they made themselves masters by force or by surprise.-TyTlefis IIIst., Book 6, ch. 12, p. 191.
2561. HERO, Unsurpassed. Miley Molnc. [De facto king of Fer mad Morocco.] This Muley Molne whs a prince who, in some circumstances of character, was equal to the greatest heroes of ancient Greece or Rome. There does not exist in history a nobler insthnce of intrepldity or greatness of soul than what this man exhibited in his dying moments, in that remarkable engagement. Moluc was in full possession of the empire of Moroceo at the time when his dominions were invaded by Don Sebastian ; but he was fast consuming with a distemper which he knew to be incurnble. He prepared, however, for the reception of an formilable an enemy. Ite wis inded reduced to such wenkness of hody, that on the day when the last derisive battle was to be fought le did wot expect to live so long as to know the fate of the engugemant. He phamed himself the order of batle. nud belag enrted on in litter throngh the ranks, andenvored, by his volece mad grestare, to milante his troops to the utmost exerilons of cournge. Conselons that the fate of his fimily and of his kingrlom deprended upon the lasue of that day, he gave orders to his prinelpal ollecers, that if he diod during the engagement, they shond concend his denth from the army, and that they should from time to thone ride nip to the litter in which he was entried, muder pretence of readiving orders from him as usual. When the battle had continued for some time, Muley Molue perceived with great anguish of mind that his troops in one quarter began to give way. He was then near his hast agonles; but collecting what remadned of strength mad life, he theew homself out of the litter, rallied his nrmy, and again led them on to the charge. Quite exhmasted, he fell down on the fledr, and being carried lmek to his litter he latid his finger on his mouth to enjoin secrecy to his offleers who stood around him, nad expired a few moments after in that fasture. [The Moors were victorious.]-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 26, p. 368.
2562. HEROES, Dead. Turks. In their publle perils the Turks make invocation to the name of Solyman. He appears sometimes in battle athwart the smoke of the camon, mounted on a white steed and surrounded by divinttied heroes. [Solymma was marvellously successful in the conquest of Europen cities.]-Lamartine's Tubkey, p. 282.
2563. HEROES for Freedom. Toussuint L'Ouverture. [Toussaint L'Ouverture, n colored man, had the military genius nud the political sagacity to establisli the civil and military dominion of free negroes in the Island of St. Domingo ; he became the undisputed head of the government. Was compuered and taken to France by order of Bonaparte.]-Kinient's Exg., vol. 7, ch. 24, p. 418.
2564. HEROISM, Admirable. Lafayette. The young and high-spirited Marquess de Lafayette. afterward so celebrated in the Revolition, cquipped a ship at his own expense, and proceeded to join the army of the American patriots under Gencral Washington.-Students' France, ch. 24, 冬 20.
2565. - Prince Condé. [In 1569, on] the 13th of March, Coligny [one of the Protestant leaders], with the rear guard only of his army, was surprised by the Duke of Anjou near Jarnac, on the Charente. Condé, summoned to the rescue, galloped to the scene of action with 300 cavalry, but found the admira's troops already overpowered and in disorder. The gallant prince, theigh he had been wounded in the arm the evening lefore, instantly headed an impetuous charge, and at the moment of engageing received a kick from a vicious horse, which fractured one of his leg. "Nobles of France !" he exclaimed, " behold in what a condition Louis of Bourbon goes to battle for Christ and his country!" His horse was soon killed under him, und the prince foll helphese in the midat of the ememy. A dexpernte cmatliet took phace aromad his boly, but his detembers were borme down by mumbers and slalh nlmost to aman.

 commander of the urmy of Fruncis I, ngatinst the Milanese wis defented, nod in a combat on the Sespia [he] received asevere wotud, whichampelled him to resign the commmand to the ('hevalier lhyyarl mad tho Count de St. Pol. A desprente struggle followed, In the course of which the noble Bayard, linving resisted for some time the whole strength of the enemy, and thas socured the retrent of the Frend army, was mor. tally womaded ly it musket-shot in the folns. Ho chaved himself to be placed at the foot of a tree. with hils face still turned toward the enemy, und In this pasition calmly prepared himself for death. The Constuble bourbon rode up soon afterward, in hot pursuit of his flying comarymen, mad addressed the expiring hero ln words of respectful symputhy. "I 1 mm no oljeect of compassion," returned Buyurd; "I die as becomes a soldier and a man of honor; it is yourself who are to be pitied-you who have the misfortune to be fighting agninst your king, your country, unl your ouhh."-S'tudents' Finance.
2567. HEROISM, Persistent. Mohammedan. The Mohammednus were invading, with Bern) soldiers, the territory of Palestine, that extemes to the enstwurd of the Jordan. The holy banner was intrusted to Zeid. . . . Zeld fell, like a soldier, in the foremost ranks; the death of Janfar was heroic and memorahle: he lost his right hand; he shifted the stamdard to his left; the left was severed from his boily; he embraced the standard with his bleeding stumps, till he was transfixed to the ground with fifty honorable wounds.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 50, p. 141.
2568. HEROISM in Suftering. Loved Velson. [Nelson was womaded in the batte of the Nile, und was carried below to the eock-pit.] The effusion of blood being very great, the wombl wis held to be dangerous, if not mortal. The surgeons left their wounded to bestow their cure upon the first man of the flect. "No," suid Nelson, "I will take my turn with my hrave fellows."-Knight's Enci., vol. 7, ch. 20, p. 356.
2569. HEROISM, Tarnished. Fenedict Arnold. In the midst of the general gloom the eountry was shocked by the rumor that Benediet Arnold had turned truitor. And the news, though hardly creditable, was truc. The brave, rash man, who on behalf of the patriot cause had suffered untold hardships and shed his hood on more fields than one, lad bloted the record of his heroism with a deed of treason. [He was promoted to major-generalship for gallant behavior. Marrying an extravagant wife, he] entered upon a career of lixury and extravagance which soon overwhemed him with debt and bunkruptey. In order to keep up his magniticence he liegan a system of frauls on the commissary depmrtment of the army. His bearing toward the citizens was that of a military despot; the people gronned under his tyramy, and charges were preferred against him liy Congress.

By a court-martial on two charges, and by order of the court was mildly reprimanated by Washington. Irofesstag mosomaded patiotism, [ha- butraved the fortress int Wiss Point to Major Anme for Britwh gold, and theil to the conemies of his comentry.] - Rinpirits E. S., ch. 43, p. 342.
2570. HEROISM, Unfaltering. C'iptain Jitmes Laervare. He readvad a chatlenges from Captaln Broke, of the British Frigute Shamon, to come ont of [Boston lurbor] and thpht. Law.
 hils cegulpments were buromplete und hls errw ill-ussorted, slek, ind half matinoins. But he wis young, the favorlte of the maton: tred with apphanse [over hils recent suctecsses ], he went unhestatingly to mert hls foe. . . . The datle was ohstimate, brief, Ireadful. In a short time every otherer who could direct the movements of the ('hesmprake was elther killed or wombded. The brawe young lawrence wis struck with a musket-Imil, and fell dying on the hloosly deck. As they hore himdown the hatechway lie gave in ferdele voice his last herole order - ever after the moto of the Amertem sailor -"Inate give up the ahip!" The British were already leaping on the deek, nul the thar of Enghand was holsted over the shattered vessel. -Rimpatios U. S., ch. 50, p. 406.
25571. HETERODOXY, Evidence of, Ihutius. [The par riareh of Constantinople] assumed the title of (benmenical or Genemal Patriareh, and accused all the western hishops of heresy, not only for adhering to the Roman pontiff, but for varions heterodox articles of doctrine mad unchristhan practices, such, for exumple, as using unleavened bremb in the sucrument, cuting cheese and egges in Lent, shaving their benrils, mud lastly, that they prohibited priests to murry, and separated from their wives such married men as chose to go into orders. The hast of these articles, he alleged, gave rise to the most semnchalous immoralities.-Tytlen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 6, p. 9 .
2578. HISTORY, Divisions of. Ancieut and Moder'n. A remarkable revolution now awaited the empire, which, from a slender beginning, effected a surprising change on the grent theatre of hummn affuirs. This was the rise of Mahomet and his religion. But here we fix the termination of ancient listory, and the commencement of the modern. Previous, however, to our entering upon this second and most important part of our work, we shall consider, with some attention, the manners, genias, lans, and policy of those Gothie nutions who subverted the Roman empire in the West, and, establishing themselves in every quarter of Europe, are justly considered, at this day, as the parent stock of most of the modern European mutions. [A.D. 5 \%io.]-Tyrler's Hist., Book 5, ch. 6, p. 26.
2573. HISTORY, Fictions of. Of ancient Britain. [From history of his times, hy Laonicus Chaleondyles,] the most singular circumstance of their manners is their disregard of conjugal honor and female chastity. In their mutual visits, as the first act of hospitality, the guest is welcomed in the embraces of their wives and daughters; among friends they are lent and borrowed without shame; nor are the ishnders offended at this strange commerce and its inevitable consequences. Informed as we nre of the customs of Old England, and assured of the virtace of our mothers, we may smillent the eredulliy, or resent the lajustion, of the Greek, whos must have confommed a modest malute with a
 the may temelo mimpromat leswon: to illstrist. the necomints of forelgu nud remote mathons, nud to suspend our lucllef of every tule lint derdates from the laws of miture mid the rimmeter of 257.4. -- Ibocuhontios. In shors, of the events which orrurred In Virginin durlag the tirst ten years of the colong's sxistence, we have swen distinct sourees of Information, wll but one of which are the produclons of ment whas had lived in the colony; but in none of them is there an intimution that l'ocuhontus snverd the life of Cuptain Nmblh. Two of these murratlves romain several particulars of the life and thenth of this Indinn girl, mad the nutiors of them hand In strong inturest incexilting her reputailon.

 nad apponch the true Poculamins, the dampy, dingy little notuaw whom John Rolfe murried, and the comed sunt to lingland to ndvertise forlorn Virginia!-Cychombeda of Brogharns, 1. thite.
2575. - - Sir Inate Nerton. The story of his dog linmond throwing down a lighted camdle among hi4 papers, by which the labors of years ware consmined, and of Newton's cabmly snying, "O Diamond, Dhanond thout fitile knowest the mischief thou hust done," is not truc. The cande was left by his own carelessness in such in position that fit set fire to the pm. pers without the intervention of $a \log -a m$ mi. mal he never kept. Nor did he contemplate his loss with the slightest appronch to philosophic culmness. On the contmry, it nlmost drove lifm out of his senses, and It was a month before he had regained his tranquillity. The story also of his using his wife's finger, in a fit of nlisence of mind, to press down the tolaceo in his pipe, is liable to two slight objections: 1 , he never had a wife ; 2, he never smoked. Beling once usked why he never smoked or took sniff, he naswered, "I will not make to myself any ne-cessities."-Panton's Newton, p. 93.
2576. HISTORY, Influence of. Nicola Rienzi. The study of history and eloquence, the writings of Cicero, Seneca, Livy, Cessar, and Valerius Maximus elevated above his equals and contemporaries the genius of the young plebeian; he perused with indefatigable diligence the mannscripts and marbles of antiquity ; loved to dispense his knowledge in fumiliur language ; and was often provoked to exclaim, "Where are now these Romans? their virtue, their justice, their power? why was I not born in those happy times?" [He became the deliverer of Rome.]Gibuon's Rome, ch. 69, p. 447.
2577. HISTORY misinterpreted. Cromucell's. We cumot rendily find the instunce of another personage in history whose acts and memory have been the subjects of such conflicting theories as those of Cromwell. The unphilosophical and paradoxical verdict of Hume, the historian of England, that he was a fanntical hypocrite, may now be dismissed; we suppose thit by all parties it is dismissed, with the contempt to which it is only entitled, to the limbo to which it properly belougs, with many other of the history. Hnmers eharacter as min historiam has Brodle, whane upon ity virady has berin entirely destroyed; mind even the (anerterty Revicon many yenes simes diathetly slowed in low many instanior has produdies have permitted him to distort evidemer, and even to gurble diexments. - llomis C'lomwbit., ch. 1, 1. 15.

257*. HISTORY, Miataken of. C'romerll. The name of Cromwell up to llo presem pertad has bren indatitad with ambition, arafthess, usurpation, forocity, mat tyrmny; we think that his true character is that of a famatic. History is llke the sibyl, and only revenls her sererets to time, leaf by lear. Hitherto she has not exhibited the reat mature and composition of this haman enig. man. He has been thought a profommi pelitionn: he was only an cminent sechurim. Par-sighted gard, Bussuct, and Volmire, have all been mistukill in ('romwell. The finit was not theirs, but belonged to the epord in which they wrote. Authentie dormments had mot then seren the light, and the portalt of Cromwell had only lreen puinted by his chemics. -Lamar'ine's ChomWELA., p. I.
2579. HISTORY overlooked, sinutor Y'ules of F'lorith. [He withdrew from the sematre when his state sereded, and wad in purting:] "The state of Florida . . . had decided to recall the powers she had delegated to the Federal Govermment, and to nswme the fill exercise of her sovereign rights as an independent . . . commonity." At what particular period in the history of the Amerdean conthent Florida had enjoyed " sovereign rights," by what process she had ever " delegated powers to the Federal Goverument," or it ivhat time she had ever been an "Independent . . . community." Mr. Yulee evidently preferred not to inform the spmate. [Florida was not one of the original Stutes.]-[Blane's Twenty Yearis, ch. 11, p. 244.
2580. HISTORY, Partiality of. Thomas Crom. vell. The history of this great revolution, for it is nothing less, is the history of a single man. In the whole line of English statesmen there is no one of whom we would willingly know so much. no one of whom we renlly know so little, as of Thomas Cromwell. When he meets us in IIenry's service he hai already passed middle life ; and during his earlier years it is hardly possible to do more than disentangle $n$ few frugmentary facts from the mass of fable which gather round them.-Hist. of Eno. People, S 5 ñ6.
2581. HISTORY, Providence In. Battle. The French were defeated at Turin, nond the whole country was abmaloned to the emperor; while in the menn time his son, the nrehduke, was proclaimed at Matrid ; and Philip V., on the point of losing his kingelom, had thoughts of evacunting Spain altogether, and establishing his dominion in America. This desperate resolution, how ver, was changed upon the victory of AImanza, where the Dlice of Berwiek, the natural son of James II., defeated the imperialists with their allies, and restored the spirits of the desponding monarch.-Tytlel's Hist., Book 6, ch. 34, p. 466.
2582. HISTORY, Rewritten. Oliver Cromwell. The evident contradictions of the historians of his own thed other conatries who hat inveriably "ahibited him ins a fantuslle tyrme mai a melli. dramatic hyperrite, induced Mr. C'arlyk todhank.
 pone ina there might be fomini nother ('romwerls, ed hy that instinet of truth and fogie in which is comprised the gemis of crudite divenvery, Mr. ('arlylh, himself possersuing the mpirlt of a seretiary, mind delighting in an indeprodent rontrac, inndortook to memred oni and exmmbe all the corresponidence buriod in the dephlis of publie or private arehives, and in which, at the different dates of his immestic, militury, and politionl llfe, Cromwell, wheme thinking that be should thas paint hinself, hus in fuct done so for the sturly of posterity. Suppled with these trasures of trult and revolation, Mr. ('mriyle shat himself ily for some yemrs in the solitule of the comutry, that nothing might distruct his thonghts from his work. Then having collected, cinswid, sumdicol. commented on, mad romrunged these volumi. mons lelters of his berob, and having resisedtuted. us if from the tomb, the spirit of the man mai the nge, be rommitted to Europe this hitherto unpulishad correxpondence, shying, with more renson than dena dueques Ronssenni, "Recedre, and reme: brhohd the trac Cromwell !"-Lasmatine's Chosmbid, p. 1.

25*B. HISTORY, Romance of, Derisire Loves. Arleth's pretty fert i winking in the lironk mate her the moiner of Willinm the Comporer. Had she mot thos faseinated Duke kohert, the Lils. eral of Nomandy, Harold would not hase fallen at Iastings, no Xuglo-Norman dymasty could lanve arisen, no British empire. The retlection is sir Francis Palgrave's : and it is emphatically true. If any one should write a history of "Decisive loves that have materinlly intluenced the Iramn of the world lin all its subseguent scenes," the daughter of the tanuer of Falnise wouli deserve a conspienous phace in his puges.-Decisive Battles, si 273.
258.4. HIsTORY, Slandered by, Christians. " Nero," shys Theitus, "exposed to nceusition and tortured with the most exquisite penalties a set of men detested for their enormities, whom the common people called 'Christinns.' Christus, the fom the reign of Tiberins by the Procurator Pontius Pilate, and the deadly superstition, suppressed for a time, began to burst out once more, not only throughout Judea, where the evil han its 1 ot, but even in the eity, whither from every quarter all things horrible or shmmeful are drifted, and find their rotaries." The lordly disdain which prevented Tucitus from making uny inquiry into the real views and character of the Christians is shown by the fact that he catches up the most baseless allegntions agninst them. He talks of their doctrines as savage and shameful, when they breathed the very spirit of pence and purity. He charges them with being animated by a hatred of their kind, when their central tenct was an miversal charity. The masses, he says, ealled them "Christians;" and while he almost apologizes for stanining his page with so vulgar an appellation, he merely mentions, in passing, that, though innocent of the charge of being turbulent incendiaries, on which they were tortured to death, they were yet a set of Hish'н lishi,y ISive, (fi, is, j), ill.

 British Masemin conslate. I han lohi, of four lollo volinges. 'The more contalogite! Wo lave fathis rity several collecetors of Nhakespertan llerature. ame of whom las ent together a whole ram full volumes, all of whali rolate, ln somo way, to Stukesperse. Nevortheloses, the substance of what we rinlly know of the mun and his life can be stated in one of lluse sloort attleles. - C'yctores:-

'SNA. HOAXES, success by, Wrishingtom Troing. [Irvhig's limmorous natire, "T'lue Clty of Ne, York." Astupembous honax, It was lanmeloed whth H.serioss of small homaxes, the flist of 25, 1800 , in the shape of a paragraph nurruting the disuppenture from his lochring of a small, elderly gentlomun, by the mume of Knlekerbocker, Ife was stated to be dressed in an old black cont nud a cocked lat, and It was Intimated that there were some rasasoms for belleving that he was not in his right mind. Grent ansiety was fell, mud muy Information conereming hlim woulid lae thankfully received at the Columblan Hotel, Mullerery Stred, or at the otllee of the puper. 'This freder was followed in a week or two by a comnambeation from " A Trisvellere" who professed to havencen lim.

Tendays later (Novem-
 Independent Cobmabinn Itoted, inserted a cord in the smme papar, in which :a derclarod that there had bren fomme in the room of the missing man, Mr. Dedrleh Kinickerbocker, v curions hinel of a rrittro bosk, in his own lammerlting ; und he wishad the colitor to notify him, if he was alive, that if he did not return und pay off his bill for bourd he would have to dispose of his book to satisfy him for the same. The bait took.

The "Mistory of New York," which wats published in this eity on the 6th of Deecember, 1809, Wan a nacress in bacore ways lhan one. Its whine and satire amosed the lovers; of wit and bamor, and its irreverence toward the carly Dutch settlers of the state amoned and angercil their desecudiants. Between these two chasses of rembers it was mash talked about amd hargely circulated. -STODD.ARD's Invind, p. 28.
2587. HOBBYIST ridiouled. Colımbus. Dur. ing all this time he was exposed to continual scoffs and indignities, being ridienled by the light and lgnormit as a mere drenmer, and stigmatized by the illiberal ns an ulventurer. The very chililren, it is said, pointed to their foreheads ins he passed, being tumght lo regard him as a kind of madmun. The summer of 1490 passed away, but still Colmmbins was kept in tantalizing uad tormenting suspense. - Inving's Conumien, Book 2, elı. 4 .
2584. HOLINESS, Flotitious, Mhemet. Such were the calm und rational precepts of the legrislator; but in his private conduct Mahomet indalged in the appetites of a man, and abused the claims of a prophet. A special revelation dispensed him from the laws which he hat imposed on his nution; the femule sex withont reserve was abandoned to his desires; and this singular prowentive axdtend the anve rather than thes manulin, the vemerntion ruther thon the envy of $510,18,1411$.
2589. HOLY spirit profensed. V/ıhommt. Tha picty of Mosem anil of ('hrist rejoleced in tho ns.

 I'araelota or Iloly (dhost Wias preflegured fin the lomot, the gremtest mad the last of the ngmatles of God.-Gimbon's llomit, ch, 50, p. 106.
2500. HOMAGE, Diggusting, ./hmos //. [di-of athelitious bis fopric $\{$ Ada, wenring the robes of his mew ofllor, jolned the rirele in the queren's приrtments. Junes foll on his knees la lio pres. enco of the whole contri, tand implored n blessing. In white of the resimhtas fimposed by ctiquetlo, the intombliment amb dinghat of the bestamers conld not be concombed. It wins long, fadede slace an English soverolgn land kincle to morth man, - Macal'i,ay'н ENG., (li, 8, p. 249.
2581. HOMAGE unsurpassed. Si,muel fohmann. IIIn resperet for the: hlerarelyy, and particularly the allgntariow ol the chareh, has beren move than once exhilhited ln the eorme of this work. Mr. Sewaril saw him presented to the Arehbshop of lork, and dempibed his bow to an arehbishop as sucha 4 stadied elaboration ol homago, such nn extraslon of llmb, such allexion of loriy, us latve sedion or ever been edulled. - Boswedais JOINMON, 1. 401.
2502. HOME beautified. Sir Witter Sontt'sfirst. If in first country loome was the cottuge ut lassswade, on the Eisk, ubont six miles from Edinburgh, whlils he took in $1298, n$ fow months after his marringer, and retained till isill. It wasajpretty lithe rottare, in the In:utitlation of which scott folt orent pride, and whero he exereised himself In the small beginningsof those finters for attering and planting which grew so mpidly upon him, and it hast enticed hlan futo casile-builiding and trees-culture on $n$ clangerous, not lo say ruhions, scole. One of Scott's intimato frients. . . . Nr. Morriti, walked . . With Scott fori yentsafter ho had left it, and was taken out of his way to seo it. "I lave beren hriuring you," he said," where there is little enought to be seren, only that Seoteh cotto: ; lut though not worth looking at, I conum at pass it. It was our tirst conntry house wisu sewly married, amd many a contrivane it lud formke it comiortable. I mude a diningtable for it with my own latinds. Look at theso two misemble willow trees on cither side the gate into the enclosure ; they are tied together at tho toj to be an arch, iml a cross male of two sticks over them is not yet deenyed. To be sure, it is not much of a lion to show a stranger, but I wanted to see it ugain myself, for I assure yon thut ufter I had constrictud it, mammat (Mrs. Seott) and I both of us thonght it so fine wo turned out to see it by moonlight, and walked buckward from it to the cottage-door, in admiration of our own magniticence and its pictarespue effect."-HUTTON's LIFE OF SCOTT, Ch. 7.
2593. HOME, Common. Romatn. The houses of private citizens, nud even those of the higher clnsses, were of a very modernte size during tho times of the republic. The Romans appear to of thoir balldinge consisted of visilbules amid wher, mal natally of whe thons. The different the gallery or pertion. 'I'heseaprothemes, caropt the trimlininn or tall, where they sut nt mande, spluare whalow ment the cellhge. The furniture of the horme mat lte alecorntons wrore simplo, the walla armanemed with fresco pminlag lo a light n girden behliad for the cultivition of veredabhes, and a fow trees to yldel at refremhing shande.
 1. 4.5.
2501. H0ME denerted. Laminurs, The voof. who wished to thad a gent lemm eommonly inked, not whether hollved la Fhet Sireet or Chanery the Raluinow. [Rejgn of Charles 1I.]-Nacau 1, AY's Eiva., ch, i, p. 3中, 2505. HOME, A palatial, Rimuth. Afterilliner the youth repnimed to the C'monges Mar. thas, and apont the lanars till sanset in in variety of sports amatathetie axeremess. The ehater elases retired for m hour to repose, and then pusseal the nfturnom in thelr portheos or gatherles, which, in the house of every man of rank, formad a consplenons purt of the bulliting. Many of these were open to the air, supported on pillare of stone or marble, maler which they enjoyed the exprofe of walking, and sometimes of behge enrmed in their litters. Other gatlerhas were sheltered from the nir and lighted by windows of a transparent tale or lapis spue ularis. which supphed theplace of ghass. These covered gullerhas were ormanented in the richent mamer and with the most expensive decorations-gilded roofs, paintinger on the walls, mad stathes in the niches-mad ndjointag to them were their libraries, which, in the latter days of the republie, became an artiele of arent expense, and on the furnishing of which the higher clanses expended much tante,-TYTHER's MIsT., Book 4, ch. 4.
2506. HOME, A shaded. Puritrn's. Cromwedl's. . hommehold was not so muphensunt for the imagimation to linger nomas some may think, The life of the P'uritun home revents the Churel life of the perion; ; even the nir wow laden with mysticiom-a thonting mysticism pervalded almonst the whole theology of ithe time : "mystic mun (an) hever be a very mery man. The recrentions of the Puritan hones were rechered to the murrowest compuss compatble with goond sense and gool tavte. Whkes wore abolished, May-johes palled down, and cocktights and bearlmitings bromelat to an emb. Neantime the Puritan wist not de titute of recreation: there were nice tlower gardens for the lalies and brave tied sports for the gentlemen; but the daily life of the Puritan was bronght within a compass which, while it did not prohilit the joke and the merry langht. most, we fancy, have often and usally shaded down life to a sternness and habsitual severity very much in larmony, it may be, with the serionsness of the times, but not rethecting that cheerfulness which $n$ wiser and wider view of God and truth and nature would create and permit. - Hood's Cromwell, ch. 15, p. 196.
25697. HOME, Thoughtful of. Jhrohirm Lin.
 Provilat be the lepulblem (onvention at compuny, whe was prese'it, weote om a merap of paner. . Nr: Lheoln: Vom are momhate don the
 Mr. Lhacoln. Ho lowiked at it la sildemer, anhat the shomen of thase aromad hime: then rlashe mad puttiog lt in his purket, he wate, iquetly, "There In a little woman dowit to our homse who womlas Hke to hemr that-l'll go down and tell her."Ravmons's lancolin, (th, il, p. 10.4.
2509. HOME LIFE, Bavagen'. dmericin Inf. inns. The suviges are prond of halomess, At homes they do lithle but arose thedr arme mad ardluig all thedr possansions on the resialt; or matt in comedt, or siug mas cat, or play niad slerp. The greatest toils of the men were to ure a lant out of a tree by mans of thre mind a stome butchet, to repmir their cublins, th get ready lastrumente of whe or the chase, mat to adorn their persons. Womm is the hatorer. woman luars the bordens of life. The ferel that Is ruised from the carth ls the fruit of her Indastry. With mo hastrument but a woralen mattock or in shomblerblate of the biflulo sha plants the maize, the bemes, and the pmoning vines. She Irives the hadkirils from the corntield, breaks the weedes, und. . . gathers the harvont. She and prepares for whiter the store of wild fruits: whe hings home the game which her hashand lans killed; she bears the wood and draws the water mat spremls the repost. . . The Ind han's wife was his slave, and the mamber of his slaves whe the eriterion of his weath.-BAschorts U. s., vol. 3, ch. 22.
2300. HOMES, Fllthy, Éngltme, 1500. [Erasmus, the Dutch writer, deseribes the homes of the Ehglisha as he suw them.] The English so constructed their rooms ats to minit no thorough dratt.

The thoors are mostly of clay and strewed with rushes. Fresh rushes are periodscully ladd over them, but the old omes remain for in foumdation for perhaps twenty years together. [The abominations which krasmas mentions as collerend in these surerswive layers need not le mentioned.]-K Nitint's Exa., vol. 2, ch. 15, p. $2 \pi 4$.
2000. HOMES, Robbed of. ('hrowke Inclians. These were the most eivilized and homme of ald the Indim bations. They had adopted the munners of the whites. They han plomant fams, goodly towns, sehools, printing-presses, a written code of haws. The Government of the Cnited States hat given to Georgian pletge to purchase the Cherokee lande for the benefit of the state.
[Cujust State legrishation roblech them of therir rights.] The Indians then apporaled to the I'resident [Jacksom]. . . Ile rerommended their removal. . beyond the Mississippli. . . . More than $8.0,0 \%, 000$ were paid them for their hames, but still they clung to their homes. At hast General Seoft wasordered to remove them to the new territory, using force if necessary.-Ridpatio's U. S., ch. 44, p. 430.
2601. HONESTY assumed. Oliver Goldamith. The comprny was of a familiar, unceremonious kind, deliglating in that very questionnble wit which consists in phaying off practical jokes upon rach other. Of one of these Goldsmith was made the butt. Coming to the clubone night in "lanckney comela, he gave the couchman ly mistake a guinea instend of a shilling, which he set down as a dead loss, for there was no likelihood, he sald, that a fellow of this chass would have the honesty to retirn the money. On the next club evening he was toid a person at the street door wished to speak with him. Ite went forth, lut soon returned with a radiant countenance. To his surprise and delight the conchman had actually brought back the guinen. White 1 a launched forth in prolse of this unlooked-for piece of honesty, he dechared it ought not to go tarewarded. Collecting a small sum from the club, and no donbt incrensing it largely from his own purse, he dismissed the Jehu with many encomilums on his grooi conduct. He whs still chanting his praises when one of the club requested a sight of the guinea thas honestly returned. To Goldsmith's confusion it proved to be a counterfeit. The universal burst of laughter which succeeded, and the jokes by which he was assailed on every side, showed him that the whole was a hoax, und the pretended conchman us much a counterfeit as the guinen. He was so disconcerted, it is said, that he som beat a retrent for the evening.--Imvina's Goldsmitis, ch. 19, p. 128.
2602. HONESTY confessed. Shovel. [When James II. sent his Jacobite emissary to seduce the commanders of the British navy, he reported that Sir Cloudesley Shovel was incorruptible. "He is a man not to be spoken to," was the emissary's tribute.]-KNigut's Evg., vol. 5, ch. 21, p. 332.
2603. HONESTY of Convintions. Wm. Penn. A.D. 1671. Never fearing to openly address a Quaker mecting, he was soon on the road to Newgate, to suffer for his honesty by a six months' imprisonment. "You are an ingenious gentleman," suid the magistrate at the trial ; " you have a plentiful estate; why shomld you render yourself unhappy by associating with such simple people "" "I prefer," said Penn, " the honestly simple to the ingeniously wicked." -Banchoft's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 16.
2604. HONESTY, Ludicroas. Diary. "A Spiritual Diary and Soliloquies, by John Rutty, M.D." Dr. Rutty was one of the people called Quakers, a playsician of some eminence in Dublin, and author of several works. This diary, which was kept from 1753 to 1775 , the year in which he died, and was now published in two volumes octavo, exhibited, in the simplicity of his heart, a minute and honest register of the state of his mind; which, though frequently langhable enough, was not more so than the history of many men would be, if recorded with equal fairness. The following specimens were extracted by the reviewers: "Tenth month, 175323. Indulgence in bed an hour too long. Twelfth month, 17. An hypochondriac obnubilation from wing and indigestion. Ninth menth, 28. An over-dose of whiskey. 29 . A dull, cross, choleric day. F. t month, $1757-22$. A little swinish at diunci and repast. 31. Dogged on provocation. Sccond month, 5. Very dogged or snappish. 14. Snyppish on fasting. 26. Cursed snappishness to those under me, on a bodily indisposition. Third month, 11. On a provocntion exereived a dumb resentment for two days instead of scolding. 22. Scolded too vehemently. 23. Dogred arain. Fourth month, 29. Mechanically mud siafully dogged."-Boswela's Jounson, p. 342.
2605. HONESTY, Official. Abubeker. When Ababeker assumed the othice of caliph he eajoined his daughter Ayesha to take a strict accomat of his private putrimony, that it might le evident whether he were enriched or mopoverished by the service of the state. He thought himself entitled to a stipend of three pieces of gold, with the suflicient maintenance of a single camel and a black slave; but on the Friday of each week he distributed the residue of his own and the pulbic money, first to the most worthy, and then to the most indigent, of the Moslens. The remains of his wealth-a coarse garment and five pieces of gold-were delivered to hls suceessor, who lamented with a modest sigh hisa own imbility to efunl such an admirable model. -G1bhon's Trone, ch. 51, p. 1 \%is.
2606. HONESTY, Promotion by. Pompey. History has dealt tenderly with liin on aceount of his misfortuncs, and has ?ot refused him deserved admination for qualities ns rare in lis age as they were truly excellent. Ilis capacities as a soldier were not extraordimury. He had risen to distinction by hishonesty. The pirates who had swept the Mediterranean had bought their impunity by a tribute paid to senators and governors. They weresuppressed instantly when a commander was sent against them whom they were unable to bribe. The conquest of Avia was no less ansy to a man who conld resist temptations to enrich himself. The worst enemy of Pompey never charged him with corruption or rapneity. So far ins he was himself concerned, the restoration of Ptolemy was gratuitons, for he received nothing for it. His private fortume, when he hand the world at his feet, was never more than moderate; nor as a politician did his fanlts extend beyond weakness and incompetence.-Froude's Casan, ch. 23.
2607. HONESTY, Public. Italy. [Early in the sixth century Italy, being a] country possessed of many valuable objects of exchange, soon attracted the merchants of the world, whose beneficial traftic was encouraged and protected by the liberal spirit of Theodoric. The free intercourse of the provinces by land and water was restored and extended; the city gates were never shut either by day or by night ; and the common saying, that a purse of gold might be safely left in the fields, was expressive of the conscions security of the inhalitants.-Gibbon's Rone, ch. 39, p. 27.
2608. HONESTY in public Life. Oliver Cromvell. [Cromwell the Protector left no wealth to his family, notwithstanding the high positions which he occupied and lie opportunities of enrichmentat the expense of the State.]-Knigit's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 14, p. 217.
2609. HONESTY punished. Greek Emperor Theodore Lascaris IT. On a march in Bulgaria he consulted on a question of policy his principal ministers; and the Freek logothete, George Acropolita, presicied to offend him by the declaration of a $f \in$ and honest opinion. The em peror half unsleathed his cimeter ; but his more deliberate rage reserved Acropolita for a baser punishment. One of the first officers of the empire was ordered to dismount, stripped of his robes, and extended on the ground in the presence of the prince and army. In this posture he was chastised with so many and such hany blows from the clubs of two guards or executioners, that when Theodore commanded them to cease, the great logothete was sarcely able to rise and crawlaway to his tent. After a sechusion of some days he was recalled by a peremptory mandate to his seat in council ; and so dead were tine Greeks to the sense of honor and shame, that it is from the narrative of the sufferer himself that we acquire the knowledge of his disgrace.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 62, p. 144.
2610. HONESTY, scarolty of. Pluto. [Plato was invited to lecture before Dionysins the tyrant.] Justice was the... topic ; and when Plato asserted the happincs. of the just and the wretched condition of the unjust, the tyrant was stung ; and being unable to answer his arguments, he expressed his resentment against those who seemed to listen to him with pleasure. At last he was extremely exasperated, and asked the philosopher what business he had in Sicily. Plato answered that he came to seek an lionest man. "And so, then," replied the tyrant, "it seems you have lost your labor."-Plutarcie's Dion.
2611. HONESTY, Unquestioned. Washingion's. So noted for excellence was evcrything bearing his brand, that a barrel of flour stamped "George Washington, Mount Vernon," was exempted from the customary inspection in the West India ports.-Custis' Wasimington, vol. 1, ch. 2.
2612. HONOR, Appeal to. Boman Emperor. Gallienus often displayed his liberality by distributing among his officers the property of his subjects. On the accession of Claudius an old woman threw herself at his feet, and complained that a general of the late emperor had obtained an arbitrary grant of her patrimony. This general was Claudius hionself, who had not entirely escaped the contagion of the times. The emperor blushed at the reproach, but deserved the confidence which she had reposed in his equity. The confession of his fault was accompanied with immediate and ample restitution.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 11, p. 334.
2613. HONOR, Dangerons. Emperor of Rome. [The preceding emperors liad been murdered each in their turn during fourscore years.] The troops, as if satiated with the exercise of power, again conjured the senate to invest one of its own body with the Imperial purple. The seuate still persisted in its refusal, the army in its request. The reciprocal offer was pressed and rejected at least three times, and while the obstinate modesty of either party was resolved to receive a master from the hands of the other, eight months insensibly elapsed; an amazing period of tranquil anarchy, during which the Roman world remained without a sovereign, without a usurper, and without a sedition.-Gibron's Rome, ch. 12, p. 367.
2614. HONOR, Debts of. Gambling. [The German barbarians were deep gamblers.] Their debts of honor (for in that light they have transmitted to us those of play) they diseharged with the most romantic fldelity. Thie desperate gamester, who had staked his person and liberty on a last $t^{1, r o w}$ of the dice, patiently submitted to the decision of fortume, and sulfired himself to le bound, chastised, and sold into remote slavery by his waker but more lueky antagonist.-Gibhov's Rome, ch. 9, p. 201.
2615. HONOR, Humility with. Lord Byron. He was a schoolbey, ten years ohd at the time, living in Scothand with his mother, who had an income of $£ 135$ a year, equal to about $$ 25$ a week In our present curreney. All at once came news that Lorl liyron, the grand-uncle of the boy, was dead, leaving no heirs to his title and estates exrept this poor widow's son. Imarine the effect upon a forward, sensitive, bashful, imaginative boy-painfulty ashamed because he had a lame foot. It seems that he was puzzled at first with his new lordship. The day atter the news arrived he rna up to his mother, mad said. " Mother, do yon see any difference in me since. i berame lord: I see none."-Cyclopedia of Biok., p. 289.
2616. HONOR misplaced. Mujor Audre. [Having been executed by Washington as a confessed spy,] his king did right in offoring honomble rank to his brother, and in yranting pensions to his mother and sisters, but not in raising a memorial to his name in Westminster Abbey, Such honor belongs to other cuterprises and deeds. The tablet has no fit place in a sanctuary, denr from its momments to every friend to genfus and mankind.-Bancrort's U. S., vol. 10, ch. 18.
2617. HONOR, National. Romems. [During the reigns of lladrimand Antoninus Pius] the Roman name was revered among the most remote nations of the earth. The fiercest barbarians frequently submitted theirdifferences to the arbitration of the emperor, and we cre informed by a contemporary historian that he had seen ambussadors who were refused the honor which they came to solicit, of being admitted into the rank of subjects.-Gibson's Rome, ch. 1, p. 10.
2618. HONOR, Test of. John II. the Good. John was sent back to his dominions on promise of a large ranson; but he was without finances, without soldiers, for they refused to obey him, and without credit ; yet he had a strong principle of honor, for, being unable to satisfy the conditions of his liberation, he returned to England, surrendered himself once mare a prisoner, and died soon after in London. Note.-It was a noble maxim of this prince, "That if good faith should be totally forgotten by the rest of mankind, it ought still to find a place in the breast of princes." It has, however, been conjectured that John's strongest motive for returning to England was a passion he had conceived for the Countess of Salisbury, one of the most beautiful women of that age.-Tytleer's Hist., Book 6, ch. 12, p. 199.
2619. HONOR, Vanity of. Queen Mury. [Mary Queen of Scots, in her illness, was subject to great melancholy, which she expressed often hy the exclamation, I could wish to be dead !Knigit's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 9, p. 144.
2620. HONOR in War. Nipolcon. [When he escaped from exile at St. Elba the army welcomed him, and Louis XVIII. 1led. At the Tuileries, in Napolcon's former cabinet, were found] a portfolio . . . containing the private and confidential papers of the king. They were safe in the kecping of Napoleon ; his pride of claracter and delicate sense of honor would not allow bim to pry into these diselosures of the private life of his enemies. He ordared them all to be sented, anal to be sent by adespateh to their owner.Aubott's Naboleon IB., vol. 2, ch. 26.
2621. HONORS, Burdensome. Grant-Alfonso. [When General Grant visited Alfonso, King of Spain,] Grant spoke of the sympathy the death of his wife created in $\Lambda$ merica. The king suid they had been very happy together, and she had helped him bear the burdens of the kingly othce, which were extremely irksome to him Grant replied that the eight years of his Presidency had been the most harassing and weary ones of his whote hife.-General Grant's Travels, p. 2:99.
2622. HONORS, Compulsory. Sturninus. [ITe was appointed to command the Eastern Empire under Emperor Probus.] That general, a man of merit and experience, was Iriven into rebellion by the absence of his sovereign, the levity of the Alexamilian people, the pressing instances of his friends, aud his own fears; but from the moment of his elevation he never entertained a lope of empire or even of life. "Alas !" he said, "the republic has lost a uneful servant, and the rashaess of an hour has destroyed the services of many years. You know not," continued he, "the nisery of soverelgn power; asword is perpetaally suspended over our head. We dread our very guards, we distrust our compmaions." [He was soon destroyed.]-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 12, p. 383.
2623. HONORS demanded. Cromirell. Not an iota of the lonors due to a crowned head would he dispense with when negotiating, as the Protector of England, with the proudest monarchs of Europe. Spain ylelded, with little hesitation, to accord to him the same style as was clamed by her own haughty monarehs; but Louis [ XIV.] of France solaglit, if possible, some compromise. His first letter was adtressed to " His Most Serene IIIghess, Oliver, Lord Proteetor," 'te., but Cromwell refused to receive it. The more familiar title of "Cousin" was in like manner rejeeted, and Louis and his crafty minister, the Cardinal Mazarin, were compelled to concede to him the wonted mote of adilress between sovereigns: "To Our Dear Brother." "What!" exclaimed Lonis to his minister, " shall I call this base fellow my brother ?" " Ay," rejoined his astute adviser, " or your father, if it will gain your ends, or you will bave himat the gates of Paris !"-Hood's Cronwell, ch. 16, p. 215.
2462.1. HONORJ, Miserable. Aged Emperor Tar. itus. The slory and life of Tacitus were of short duration. Transported, in the depth of winter, from the soft retirement of Campmaia to the foot of Mount Cancasus, he sunk under the unaccustomed hardslips of a military life. The fatigues of the body were aggravated by the cares of the mind. . . . The angry and selfish passions of the soldiers. . . . soon broke out with redoubled violence, and raged in the camp and even in the tent of the aged emperor. His mild and amiable character served only to inspire contempt, and he was incessantly tormented with factions which he could not assuage and by demands which it was impossible to satisty. . . Its last hour was hastened ly anguish and disappointment. It may be doubtfu! whether the soldiers imbrued their hands in the blood of this innocent prince. It is certain that their insolence was the canse of his death.-Ghbon's Rone, ch. 12, p. 373.
2625. HONORS, Premature. Bolirar. [The Washington of the States of Colombia.] Spain renewed the war, and Bolivar was called again to the supreme command. Three hore bloody campaigns were necossury before the Spmanards were wholly and finally expelled from the soil of Colombin, by which name the confederated republics were called. In 1825 Bolivaronce moreabdicated the rictatorship. An equestrian statue having been decreed him by the corporation of his native city, he deelined the honor, saying, "Wuit till after my death, that you may judge me without prejudice, and accord to me then such honors as you may deem suitable ; but never rear monuments to a man as long as be is alive. He can change, he can letray. You will never have this reproach to make to me; but wait a little long-er."-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 490.
2626. HONORS resigned. Diocletian. It was in the twenty first year of his reign that Dlocletian executed his memorable resolntion of abdicating the empire, an action more natural'y to have been expeeted from the elder or the your ve Antoninus than from a prince who had $n=v e r$ practised the lessous of philosophy either in the attainment or in the use of supreme power. Diocletiman aepuired the glory of giving to the world the first example of a resignation, which has not been very frequently imitated by succeeding monarchs. $\qquad$ [He was only fifty-nine.] it was time to put an end to the painful strugglo which he had sustained during moro than a year, between the care of his henith and that of his dignity.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 13, p. 441.
2627. $\qquad$ -

Charles $V$. The andicathon of Charles appears to have been hastened hy the vicissiturle of fortune; and the disappointment of his favorite schemes urged him to relinquish a power which he found inadequate to his ambition. But the reign of Dincletian had fowed with a tite of uninterrupted success; nor was it till after he had vanguished all his enemies and aceomplished all his designs that he seems to have entertained any serions thoughts of resigning the empire. ... [He was fifty-five years ohl, and] reguired indulgence and relaxation ; the latter compelled him to direct, from the bed of sickness, the administration of a great empire. IIe resolved to pass the remainder of his days in honorable repose, to place his glory beyond the reach of fortme, and to relinquish the theatre of the world to his younger and more active as-sociates.-Grimbon's Rome, ch. 13, p. 441.
2628. HONORS, Unexpeoted. Miss Sallie Thompson. [A Massachusetts girl, daughter of "Count Ramford."] Rumford assumed the command of the Bavarian forces, and by his firmness and presence of mind prevented either French or Austrians from entering Munich. The considerstion in which he was held is illustrated by the fact that the elector made Miss Thompson a countess of the empire, conferring on her a pea-sion of $x^{2} 000$ " year, with literty to enjoy it in any comatry where she might wish to reside. The New Enghand girl, brought up in the quiet bule of Concorl, tramsphanted thence to Londom, and afterward to Munid, was subjected to a somewhat trying ordeal.-T'vabina's Coters Rumfond.
26929. HONORS, Unmerited. Fimperor Carinns. With the senators C'arinus afferted a lo' and regal deweanor, frepuently decharing that he designed to distribute their estates among the populace of Rome. From the dregs of that popnlace he selocted his favorites, and even his ministers. The palace, und even the Imperint table: were tilled with singers, haners, prostitutes, and all the varions retime ot vice and folly. One ol his doorkerpers he intusted with the government of the rity. In the room of the Pretorian preferd, whom her put to death, Carimus substifuted one of the ministers of his looser pleas-ures-GImmon's Rome, 'h. 12, p. 39:3.
2680. HONORS won by Merit. "Win his spars." [Bathe of ('reey, 1346.] The comuts of Alengon and Flanders at length disengaged themselves, and wheeling round, mate in des. perate onset on the first division of the English, fommanded by the young Prince of Wales. The prince fonghi heroicully, but finding himself' bardly pressed, sent to cutreat his father to support hin with the reserve. The king, who wath:hfol the battle from a windmill, first satistled himsolf that his son was neither dead nor disabled, and then declined to move to his assistance. "Let the boy win his spurs," said lee; " for, if Ged will, I desire that this day be his, and that all the honor of it shall remain with him and those to whon I have given him in charge." Thus encommged and excited, the English stood as immovable as a rock."-Stroents' Fiance, ch. 10, 苍 7 .
26831. HOPE, Happiness in. Sitmull Johmson. Ile this day enlarged upon Pope's melancholy renturk, " Man never is, but always to be blest."
Ife asserted that the present was never a happy state to any human being ; but that, as every part of life of which we are conscious was at some point of time a period yet to come, in which felicity was expected, there was some happiness produced by hope. Being pressed upon this subject, and asked if he really was of opinion that thongh, in general, happiness was very rare in human life, a man wis not sometimes happy in the moment that was present, he answered, "Never, but when he is drunk."-Bosweld's Jomsson, p. 248.
2632. HOPE a Treasure. Perdircers. [Alexander the Great was generons to his friends.] Thonght his provision was . . . small, he chose, at has embarkation, to inquire into the circumstances of his friends; and to one he gave a farm, to mother a village; to this the revenue of a borough, and to that of a posit. When in this manner he had disposed of almost all the estates of the crowd, Perdiccas asked him what he had reserved for himself. The king nuswered, "1Hope." "Well," reptied Perdiccas. "we who shate in your labors will ulso take part in your hopes." In consequence of which he refinsed the estate allotted him, and some others of the king's friends did the same.-Pievanch's AlExindelt.
26:335. HORSE, An honored. By Wiakhiugton. The charger which bore him when he received the sword of the vanduished [Cornwallis] . . . was a chestnut with a white face and legs, and was ralled Lelsom. . . . After the war was over it was nu ver mounted more, but . . well cared for. . . . It died of old age at Momi Vermon many years after the Revolution.-Centss Wasulanton, vol. 1, ch. 2.
2633. HORSEMEN, Expert. Seythimens. The Srythinns of every age have been relebrated as bold and skiffal riders; and constant practice hand sented them so firmty on horseback, that they were smpposed by stringers to perform the ordinary duties of civil life, to eat, to drink, and even to sleep, withont dismonnting from their sterels.-Ghmon's Rome, ch. 26, p. 9.
26835. HORSES, Care of. Wushinyton's. 'The President's stables at I'hiladelphia were moder the care of German John, und the grooming ot the white elargers will rather surprise the notarns. The night before the horses were . . to be ridden they were covered entirely over with white paste, of which whiting was the principal component part : then the animats were swathed in body-clothes and left to shece on chean straw. In the morning the romposition had become hard, was well rubbed in, and curried and brushed, which proeess gave to the coats a bxamtiful rhossy and sutin-like appearance.Cheris Waningoron, vol. 1, ch. 20.
20330. HORSES in War. Troy. Troy was taken three times: the first time liy llereales, on arrount of Laomedon's horses; thie second time by Agamemnon, through means of the wooden horse ; the thirl hy Charidemus, u horse happening to stand in the way, and hindering the Trojans from shotting the gates so quickly as they shomid luave done.-Pletancit's Skitomius.
2637. HORTICULTURE, Pleasures of. Thiodoric. [The Gothic King of Italy.] After the example of the last emperors. Theodoric preferred the residence of Raveman, where he cultivated an orelhard with his own hands.-Ginhon's Rone, ch. 89 , p. 25.
2638. $\qquad$ Niopeteon. I. [When in exile at St. Ielema his physician recommended digging in the groumd.] Thingsaromed soon as sumed a different asped. Here was an exeava tion, there a masin or a road. We made alleys, grottoes, cascades. We planted willows, oaks, beach-trees, to give a little of $\because x$ around the honse. . . We sowed b .as and peas.Abuott's Napoleon 13., vol. 2, ch. 33.
2639. HOSPITALITY appreciated. Roman. It was a gencral custom, in preparing for a luxurious meal, to take a vomit a short time before sitting down to table. This was not regarded us a mark either of glatony or epicurism, but was lield to be done in compliment to the entertainer, that his gruest.s might be emabled to carry off a greiter guantity of his good fare. When Jnlius Chesar paid a visit of reconcilement to Cicero by inviting himself to sup with him, he took care to let 'icero know that he had taken a vomit beforehand, and was resolved to make a most enormons meal; and Cicero tells us he kept his word, which, for his own part, le took very kindly, and as it mark of Ciesar's high polite-ness.-Tytiekis llast., Book 4, rili. 4, p. 450.
2840. HOSPITALITY without Charity. English. [An Italian traveller of 1509 ridienles Engrlish ostentation in fensting. I They think that no greater honor cm be conferral or received than to invite others to ent with them; and they would sooner give five or six duments to provide un entertainment for a person than a groat to assist himi in uny distress.-Knioirt's Eno., vol. 2, ch. 15.
2641 . HOSPITALITY, Courtly. Louis XIV. [To Jumes 1I., the fugitive king of Enghond.] Suint Germain's hat now been selected to he the abode of the royal fimily of England. Sumptious furniture had been hastily seut in. The mursery of the Prince of Wales hat been carefully furnished with everything that an infunt conld require. One of the attendhnts presented to the cqueen the key of a superb) casket which stood in her apartment. She opened the ensket, and found in it six thonsmed pistoles. On the following day James arrived at Saint Germain's. Louis was alrealy there to weleome him. The unfortunate exile bowed so low that it seemed as if he was nbout to embrace the knees of his protector. Louis raised him, and embraced him with brotherly tenderness. "The two kings then entered the quen's room. "Here is a gentleman," said Lonis to Mury, " whom you will be ghal to see." Then, after entrenting his guests to visit him next dny at Versmilles, and to let him huve the pleasure of showing them his buikdings, pietures, phatations [he gave him $£ 45,000$ sterling a year and $£ 10,000$ for his out-fit].-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 10, p. 505.
2642. HOSPITALITY, Duty of. Abraham. [The Arabs have at tradition that the] first time Abrahm visited Meeca he stoppedat the door of Ishmael and called him by his mame. Amarn, the wife of Ishmael, came to the door. "Where is Ishmael ?" inquired the putriareh, without dismounting. "He is humting," replied Amara. "Have you nothing to give me to eat ? for I cannot come down." "I have nothing," smid Amara; "this country is a desert." "V Very well," rejoinel Abruham ; "say to your husband timt you have seen a stranger, describe to him my figure, and tell him that I recommend him to change the threshohl of his door." Amara, on the return of Ishmael, acquitted herself of the message. Her hasband, offended that she luad refused his father hospitality, repudiated her, and married a woman of mother tribe, named sayde. Abrahmm returned some time after to visit his son. He was absent. A young, slim, and graceful woman cane to the threshold of the door to make reply to the stranger. "Have you some nourishment to give me ?" asked Abraham of his daughter-in-hw, without making limself known or dismounting from his horse. "Yes," suid she in an instant. . And going into the house, she returned soon after, presenting to the traveller some cooked venison, milk, and dates. Abraham tasted the edibles, then blessed them in saying, " May God multiply in this country these three species of nutriment."-Lamartine's Turkey, p. 44.
2643. Hospitality, Faise. Roman. Hospitality was formerly the virtue of the Romans; and every stranger who could plead cither merit or misfortune was relieved or rewatled by their generosity. At present, if a foreigner, perlups of 110 contemptible rank, is introduecd to one of the proud mad weathy semators, he is welcomed indeed in the first madience with such warm professions and such kind inguiries that he retires, enchanted with the uffability of his illustrious friend, and full of regret that he had so long delayed his journey to Rome, the native sent of manners, as well as of empire. Secure of a favorable reception, he repents his visit the ensuing day, und is mortified by the discovery that his person, hits mame, and his country are ntrendy forgonten. If he still lans resolution to persevere, he is gralually numbere! in the train of dependents, and obtnins the permission to pry his assiduous and unprofituble court to a hanglity patron, incapuble of gratitude or friendship, who senrecly deigns to remurk his presence, lis depurture, or his return.-Ghbon's Rome, ch. 31, p. 256.

20i44. HOSPITALITY forgotten. Benedict Armole. [He led the British to hurn New London, Comn.] Men who hal known him in other days asun enterprising trader recognized him as he sat upon his horse, culmly surveying the progress of the flames. He hal the effrontery to enter a house where often he had been homorably entertained as a guest, and there satisfy his hunger from the plunder of the pantry ; and when he lad finished his repast he ordered the house to be fired. Ite is suid to have expressed his regret that he cound not go is far as Norwich, and burn the very honse in which he was born.-Cyclopedia of Blog., p. 231 .
2645. HOSPITALITY painfaI. To Lombavds. While Alboin served under his father's standurd, he encountered in battle and transpierced with his lance the rival prince of the Gepide. The Lombards, who mpphanded such early prowess, requested his father, with unanimous acchamtions, that the heroie youth, who land shared the dangers of the tied, might be admitted to the feast of victory. "You are not unmindful," replied the inflexible Aulesin, "of the wise customs of our ancestors. Whatever may be his merit, o prince is incapoble of sitting at table with his father till he has received his arms from a fordign and royal hand." Alboin bowed with reverence to the institutions of his country, selected forty companions, and boldly visited the court of Turisuml, king of the Gepidx, who embraced und entertuined, aceording to the lnws of hospitulity, the murlerer of his son. At the banquet, while Alhoin oceupied the seat of the youth whom he had slain, a tender remembrance arose in the mind of Turisund. "How dear is that place! how hateful is that person l" were the words that escaped, with a sigh, from the indignant father.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 4i, p. 389.
2646. HOSPITALITY, Reluctance in. Fier. Thomas Ware. [He was one of the early Methodist prenchers. On one occasion lee stopped at the house of a Captain Sears, whom he tirst reproved for his anger towurd his barking dogs, and then applied for entertainment. I Thr eaptain paused a long time, looking steadily at him, and then said, "I hate to let you stny the worst of any man I ever saw; but, as I never refused a stringer a night's lodging in my life, you may alipht." The cmptain soon hecame a Christiun and $n$ lifelong friend.-Stevens' M. E. Cuunca, vol. 2, p. 306.

20A7. HOSPITALITY, Saored. Arichs. The Arubs pushed to superstition their respert of hospitality. Their most inveterate enemy found refuge, security, and even protection, as soon as he succeeded in touching the cord of their tents. or the gown skirts of their wives.-Lamabrine's Тиикеу, p. 47.
2648. - - "Selt." In n nocturnal visit to the treasure of the prince of Sistan, Jacob, the son of Leith, stumbled over a lump of salt, which he unwarily tusted with his tongue. Sult, among the Orlentals, is the symbol of hospitality, and the pious robber immedintely retired with.out spoil or damage.-Gibbon's lRome, ch. 52, p. 327.
2649. HOSPITALITY of Savages. Columbus. Thelr kindness und gratitude could not then be exceeded, and the mareh of the army was continumbly retarded by the hospitality of the numerons vilhages through which it passed. Such was the frunk communion among these people that the Indians who accompanied the army entered without ceremony into the honses, helpiag themselves to anything of which they stood in need, without exciting surprise or anger in the inlabitants; the latter offered to do the same with respect to the Spaninrds, and seemed astonished when they met a repulse. This, it is probable, was the case merely with respect to articles of food ; for we are told that the Indians were not carcless in their notions of property, and the crime of theft was one of the few which were punished among them with grent severity. Food, however, is genernlly open to free participation in savage life, and is rarely made an object of barter, until habits of trade have been introduced by the white men. The untutored savage in almost every part of the world scorns to make a traffic of hospitality. Irving's Columbus, Book 6, ch. 9.
2650. HOSPITALITY, Spirit of. "Indgings." Johnson said once to me: "Sir, I honor Derrick for his presence of mind. One night, when Floyd, another poor nuthor, was wandering about the streets in the night, he found Derrick fast asleep upon a bulk; upon being suddenly waked, Derrick started up : My dear Floyd, I am sorry to see you in this destitute state; will you go home with me to my lodgings?"'-Boswell's Joinnson.
2651. H0spitality, Universal. American Indians. The hospitulity of the Indian has rarely been questioned. The stranger enters his cabin, by day or by night, without asking leave. . . . He will take his own rest abroad, that he may give up his own skin or mat of sedge to his guest. Nor is the traveller questioned as to the purpose of his visit; he chooses his own time freely to deliverhis message.-Bancroft's U.S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
2652. H0spitals, Mohammedan. Imarets. [Orkhan, the Mohammedan conqueror of Nice, founded there] the first hospitals charged to feed the poor by obligatory donations from the faithful. These hospitals, suggested by a prescription of Mahomet, which claimed a portion of the revenues of the rich for the indigent, were called imarets. Orkhum himself, after the example of the prophet mad the Khulifs, used to distribute soup there to the poor of Nice.-Lamantine's Tirkey, p, 216.

2653\%. HOSTAGE, Safety by. Cortez. [IID invadel Mexico.] Millions of nutlves who nwarmed uromd him were becoming fumiliar with his troops, and no longer believed them immortal. There were murmurings of mu outhreak which threatened to overwhelm them in an hour. In this emergency the Spanlsh genasal alopted the bold and anscrupulons expedicut of seizing Montezuma und holding him as a hostage. X plansible pretext for this outrage was found.-Rid. Patie's U. S., ch. 4, p. 50.
2654. HOSTILITY, Supreme. William of Orange. Yet even his affection for the land of his birth was subordinate to mother feeling which early became supreme in his soul, which mixpd itself with all his pussions, which impelled him to murvellous enterprises, which supported him when sinking under mortification, puin, sickness, and sorrow, which, toward the close of his cnreer, seemed during a short time to langrish, but which soon broke forth agnin fiercer than ever, and contimued to mimate him even while the prayer for the departing was read at his bedside. That feeling was emmity to Framee, and to the magnificent king who, in more than one sense, represented France, and who, to virtues and accomplishments eminently French, joined in large mensure that unguiet, unserupulous, and vainglorions ambition which has repeatedly drawn on France the resentment of Europe.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 169.
2655. HOTELS, First established. Englent. [In the thirteenth century] there were drinking houses for wine, and alewives sold beer; there was no establishment at this period which supplied, besides drink, food and beds. It was not until the middle of the fourteconth century that the hostel or tavern had its origin.-KNiant's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 26, p. 399.
2656. HUMANITY, A common. Sinful. Says the Duchess of Buckingham to Lady Jinting. don, who had asked her to come and hear Whitefield: "I thank your ladyship for the information concerning the Methodist prenchers; their doctrines are most repulsive, and strongly tinctured with disrespect toward their superiors, in perpetually endeavoring to level all ranks and do away with all distinctions. It is monstrous to be told you have a heart as sinful as the common wretches that crawl on the earth. This is lighly offensive and insulting; and I cannot but wonder that your ladyship, should relish any sentiments so much at variance with high rank and good breeding. I shall be most happy to come and hear your favorite preacher." Her Grace's sentiments towarl the common wretches that crawl on the earth were shared, we may be sure, by her Grace's waiting-maid. Of humanity there was as little as there was of religion. It was the age of the criminal law which hanged men for petty thefts, of life-long imprisonment for debt, of the stocks and the pillory, of a Temple Bar garnished with the heads of traitors.-Smytris Cow PER, ch. 1.
2657. HUMANITY deified. Julius Cosar. His person was declaned sacred, and to injure him by word or decd was to be comnted saerilege. The fortune of Ciesur was introduced into the constitutional onth, and the somate took a solemn pledge to muintain his aets inviohate. Fi mally they arrived at a conclasion that he was not a man at all; no longer Cains Julias, but Divas Julias, a god or the son of a grod. A temple was to be built to Cresuras mother Quirinus, and Antony was to be his priest. Casar knew the meming of all this. He must aceejt their flattery and hecome ridiculons, or he mast alppear to treat wita contumely the semate which offered it.-Frocide's Ceman, ch. 26.
265s. HUMANITY, Dwarfs of. Of the Mon. Swedeuborg tells us that the Lamarimes are dwarfs, like beys of severn yars old, with robust bodies and pleasant combennaces. They do not speak from their lungs, on accoment of the attenuated mature of their atmospliere, but from a 'juantity of air collected in the aldomen.White's Swedenhoua, (h. 14, p. 133.
2659. HUMANITY, Generous, Simurl Johnson. His gererous humanity to the miseruble was almon beyond example. The following instance is well attested: Coming home late one night he found a poor woman lying in the strect, so much exhansted that she conld not walk; he took her upon his hack and carried her to his house, where he discovered that she was one of those wretched females who had fallen into the lowest state of viee, poverty, and disense. Instead of harshly upbraiding her, he had her taken care of with all tenderness for a long time, at a considerable expense, till she was restored to health, and endenvored to put her into a virtuons way of living.-Boswemis Jominson, p. 531.
2660. HUMILIATION, Abject. Lorel Clurenvan. The viceroy had scarcely returned to Dublin from his umpleasing tour when he recoived letters which informed him that he had incurred the king's serions displensure. His Majesty-so these letters ran-expected his servaits not only to do what he commanded, but to do it from the heart, and with a cheerful countenamee. The lord-licutenant had not, indeed, refinsed to co-opernte in the reform of the army and of the eivil administration, but his cooperation had been reluctant and perfunctory. Ilis looks had betrayed his feelings, and everyhody saw that he disapproved of the policy which he was employed to carry into effect. In great anguish of mind he wrote to defend himself: but he was sternly told that his defence was not satisfactory. Ife then, in the most abject terms, declared that he would not attempt to justify limself; that he acequieseed in the royal juidgment, he it what it might ; that he prostrated himself in the dust ; that he implored pardon ; that of all penitents he was the most sincere ; that he should think it glorious to die in his sovereign's canse, but found it impossible to live under his sovereign's displeasure. Nor was this mere interested hypocrisy, but, at lenst in part, unaffeeted slavishness and poverty of spirit ; for in confidential letters, not meant for the royal eye, he bemoaned himself to his family in the same strain. He was miserable; he was crushed; the wrath of the king was insupportable ; if that wrath could not be mitiguted, life would not be worth having. The poor man's terror increased when he learned that it had been determined at Whitehall to recall him, and to appoint, as his suceresor, his rival and calumnimor, Tyreonacl.-Maciviay's Eng., ch. 6, 1. 133).

2B6if. HUMILIATION, Barbarous. Bly Timour. Ahmed Arabslanh likewise rehates another outrage, which Bajazer [the eaptured Ottoman sultan] endured, of a more domestic and tender mature. Ilis indiscrect mention of women and divoress was deeply resented by the jealous Tartar : in the fast of victory the wine was served by female cupheraress, and the sulan heheld his own coneubines and wives confommed among the slavers, and exposed without a veil to the eyes of intemperance. To exerpee a similar indignity, it is said that his sucressors, except in a single instance, have ahstuined from legitimate miptials.-Gmmon's Rosme, (li. 65, ן. 269.
26602. HUMILIATION by Defeat. Romansat Gandium. The Samnites, strprising them in a marrow defile near that town, haci it in their power to sut them off to a man. Pontins, the general of the samnites, made the whole Roman army, with the consmls at their head, maked and dismrmed, pass under the yoke. . . When the dreadful ceremony began, and when they saw the garments toru from the luacks of the consuls. and those men whom they had been accustomed to regard with vencration thas ignominiously treated, every one forgot his own calamity, and, filled with horror, turned aside his cyes, that he might not behold the miseralle lamiliation of the rulers of his comntry. It was evening when the Roman army was sulfered to pass out of the detile; and when night came on, naked and desstitute of everything, they threw themselves down in despair in a fied nemr the eity of Capm. The magistrates, senators, and chief men of the place repaired to the spot where they lay, und endea vored to comtort and soothe their distress; but they spoke not a word, nor ever raised their heads from the gromnd. The next day they proceded in the same melanclably dejection to Rome, where their disaster had occasioned the ntmost constermation, and the whole dity had gone into mourning.-Tytlen's IIst., Book 3, (h. 7, p. 353.
26683. HUMILIATION with Insult. Henry VT. Pope Celestinus, while IIenry VI. was kneeling to kiss his faet, took that opportunity of kicking off his crown. He made amends to him, however, for this inmolence, by making him a gift of Naples and Sicily, from which IIenry had extirpated the last of the Norman princes. -Tytleer's IIfst., Book 6, ch. 7, p. 130.
2664. HUMILIATION, Insupportable, Oliver Gohldmith. Ite forthwith gave a supper and dance at his chamber to a number of young persons of both sexes from the city, in direct violation of college rules. The unwonted sound of the fiddle reached the ears of the implacable Wilder. IIe rushed to the scene of monallowed festivity, intlicted corporal punishment on the " father of the feast," and turned his astonished guests neck and heels out of doors. . . . This filled the measure of poor Goldsmith's humiliations; he felt degraded both within college and without. He dreaded the ridicule of his fellowstudents for the ludicrons termination of his orgie, and he was ashamed to meet his eity ae-quaintaners after the degrading chastinement irceived in their presence, mad after their own lgnominions expulsion.-Iuving's Gobinsmitu, ch. 2, p. 2.
26035. HUMILIATION, National. Arcerssien of Jumes II. It was mot without many misgrivings that Jumes had determined to call the estates of his realm together. The moment was, indeed, most auspia ions for a general clection. Never since the necossion of the house of Sthart had the constituent bodies been so favorably disuresed toward the conrt. But the new sovereign's mind was haunted by un apprehension not to be mentioned, ceen at ihis distane of time, without shame and indignation. Ile was afralil that by summoning the Parliament of Enghond he might incur the displeasure of the king of France.-Macaulay's Eno., eh. 4, p. 42:3.
2666. humiliation, Painful. Attillis. [Formerly Emperor of Rome.] When the cothes, two years after the sicuge of Rome, establisheri their puarters in Gam, it was mathral to suppose that their inclinations could be divided only between the Emperor IIonorius, with whom they hand formed a recent alliance, and the degraded Attahs, whom they reserved in their camp for the occasional purpose of acting the part of a misician or n momarch.-Gimmes's lRome, ch. 31, p. 306.
2667. HOMILIATION, Proof of. Indum Giautlet. The Romnns in their trimphal processions exhibited captives to the gaze of the Roman people; the Indian conrueror compels them to run the gantlet, through the women and chiddren of his tribe. To inflict blows that camnot be returned, is proof of full success and the entire humilintion of the enemy ; moreover, it is an experiment of courage and patience. Those who show fortitude are applanded; the coward becomes an object of scom-Bancrofy's U. S., vol. 3 , ch. 22 .
2668. HUMILIATION, Royal. Wheventh Cintury. [Frederic, surnamed Barbarossa,] was summoned to go to Rome to receive the imperial crown from [Pope] Ailrian IV. The emperor promised that he would make ar attempt ngainst the life, the person, nor the honor of the pope, the eardinals, and the magistrates. A knight, completely armed, made this oath, in the name of Frederie Barbarossal ; but the ceremonial required that when the pope came out to meet lim the emperor should prostrate himself on the ground, kiss his feet, hold the stirrup of his horse while he mounted, and lead him by the bridle for nine paces. Frederic refused at first.

Ilis indignation broke out immediately in the plainest terms when the deputies of the people of Rome informed him that they had chosen him, though a foreigner, to be their sovereign. "It is false," said he ; "'you have not chosen me to be your sovercign ; my predecessors, Charlemagne and Otho, conquered you by the strength of their arms; and 1 am, ly established possession, your lawful sovercign." ... The troubles of Italy at last compelied him to measures which his haughty spirit could very ill brook. He acknowledged the supremacy of Alexander III., he condescended to kiss his feet and to hold the stirrup, and to restore what he possessed which had at any time belonged to the holy see.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 7. p. 129.
26688. $\qquad$ Hrary II. [l" 1184.] on ton during the night, and as he saly the conthedral towers of C'anterbury looming in the gray dawn, he alightend, and walkel in peritential garb, harefoot into the city. IIr haclt wt the Tomb of Berket in derep hamiliation. The Bishop of London preachach, mad maintained that lionry had thas appealal to Heaven in nwowal of his inmoreme of the guilt of bood. Than the great king, before the assembled monks and rhapter, poured forth his coutrition for the passiomate exchamution which had hern sor rashly interpreted $["$ ls there no some to deliver me: from this turbulant pricst ?" Four knights afterwardassassimatedibecket ]; and he wasseonarged with a knotem corrl. It. spent the nip!! in a dark reypt, and the next day rode fasiang to Lomdon--KNicirts Ena., vol. 1, ch. 21, p. 301.
2670. HUMILITX, Christian. N. Berwirt. In sperech, in writing, in artion, Bermard stood high above his rivals and contemposaries: his rompositions are not devoid of wit and docpionce: and he serems to have preserved as muell reason and homanity an may be reconciled with the daracter of a saint. In a secular life he would have shared the seventh part of a private inheritance ; by a vow of poverty and pemance, by closing his cyes against the visithle word, by the refusal of all ecellesiastical dignitios, the abbot of Clairvans became the omele of Europe and the foumaler of one hundred and sixty romvents. Princes and pontiffs trembled at the fredem of his apostolical censures; Framere, England. and Milan consulted and obeyed his juligment in a srehism of the church; the debt was repaid by the gratitude of Innocent II. ; and his surcessor, Engenias III., was the friend and disciple of the loly bernard. It was in the prochamation of the second crusade that he shone as tha mis. sionary and propinet of God.-Gambox's Rome, ch. 39, p. 13.
2671. - -- Godfrey. [When the Crusaders had taken Jerosalem thre] unanimons voice of the army prochimed Godiree of Bonillon the first and most worthy of the champions of Christendom. IIs magnaminity acepted a trust as full of danger as of glory : but in a city where his Saviour had heen crowned with thorns, the devout pilgrim rejected the name and ansigns of royalty; mad the fomuder of the kingdom of derusidem contented himself with the modest title of Defender and Baron of the IIoly Scpulchre.-Gnume's Rome, ch. is, p. 593.
2072. HUMILITY, Mohammedan. Mihomet. IIf apparel was that of the poor-the coarsest cloth of sheep's wool, the cinctures woven from camel's hair ; he rejected, as an artirle of luxury and vanity, the white turbans of Indiam cotton worn ly his warriors. Ile lived upon dates and the milk of his shece, which he did not distain to milk himself. He but rarely made use of the hand of his slave for the most disagreeable services of the honse. He went to fetch water from the well, swept and washed the boards of his floor. Seated on the ground, upon his mat of straw, he mended himself his smolals and siteled his worn garments.-Lamabtine's Turkey, p. 15is.
2878. --. - Mruhomet. The good sense of Mithomet despised the pomp of royalty; the aposile of tin submited to the mental otlleres of the fatuily; he kimbled the tire, swept the thoor, milked the ewos, mal memeded with his own hamds his shoes nind his wooleng garment. tisbaining the pemamer and morit of a hermit, le observed, without edlort or vimity, the abstemions diet of an Arub umd a solilier. (On solemin oceasions he fiensted hls compmonions with ristle umi lospituble plenty; but in hls domestle life many werks wonld clapse withont a flre being kindiled on the hemath of the prophet. 'l'ue intridiction of wine was contmaned by his ex. ample: his hangrer was appensed with in spmor ing allowane of burloy-bread ; he delighted In the taste of milk mal honey ; but his orilimury food consisted of dates and water. Gimmes Romé, (•J. 5t), 1). 148.

208\%4. HUMILITY and Pride united. Thomms Becket. [Thomats] Bereket wore coarse suckreloth made of goat's hatir from the arms to the knees, but his onter garments were romarkable for their splendor and extreme eostliness, to the end that, thas doceiving luman eyos, he might plense the sight of ( a ol. Thus writeshis panegy rist Ilove. den, -Kinurit's ENa., vol. 1, ('l. 20, p, 204.
$\mathbf{2 6 7 5 .}$ HUMILITY, Viotor's. Charle's V/II. Charles int ont [for the eondinest of Italy]. Incensed at hif perfidy, he besiegred the pope in the castle of St. Angrolo. Nexnniler VI. was at length forced to sare for an nceommodntion; and then the French momareh, with grant devotion, kissed his holiness' feet ind served him with water to wash his hamels. -TyTLeris IInst., Book 6, (h. 13, p. 215.
2676. HUMILITY, Wisdom by, Ntatixman. ship. 'Tha formation of politionl institutions in the United States was not effeeted by giant minds or " nobless after the flesh." American history knows but one avenue to suecess in Ameriean legislation-freedom from aneient prejulice. The truly grent lnw rivers in our colonies first became as little children. In framing constitutions for Carolina, [Jolnn] Loeke forgot the fundamental principles of pructical philosophy.-Bancrof's U. S., vol. 2, eh. 13.
2677. HUMOR admired. Abrahum Lincoln. [To a party of friends he said :] There is a chap, out in Ohio who has been writing a series of letters for the newspupers over the signatime of Petrolemin V. Nasby. Some one sent me in pamplalet eolleetion of them the other day. I am going to write to "Petrolemm" to come down here, and I intend to tell him, if he will communicate his talent to me, I will sooap places with him !-Raymond's Lincoin, p. 744.
2678. HUMOR, Fondness for. Abruham, Lincoln. [Frank 13. Carpenter says :] I never knew, him to sit down with a friend for a five minutes' chat without being " reminded " of one or more incidents about somebody nlluded to in the course of conversation. In a corner of his desk he kept a copy of the latest himmorous work; nud it was frequently his habit when groaty fatigucd, annoyed, or depressed to take this up, and read a chapter with great relief. Raymondis Lancolin, p. 744.
2679. HUNGER, Insatiable, Gold Seekers. A man came in one morning and reported that his comrades were some miles distant in the desert country, dying of starvation. [John A.]

Sutter instantly lomeded it fiow of lils best mules with provisions, and dexputcherl liam to the reliof of the perishing mond, under the piddanee of two Indinns. The starving party whes so large that the supplies were insintheriont. After monsmuing the provivions, they kille the mules umd ute them; ihen they killed the f wo ludhus umd devomred them; mad evon ufter that, when some of their own nomber foll exhansted, they

 St. Helent, . . on the Eth of Mny, I82I, died Napoleon Bomuparte. . . . $A$ hurricane swept wor the ishand us he was dying, slonkling houses to their foumdation mad teming up the largest trens. We cammot avoid thinking of the similar phenomenon that attended the ilenth of Cromwell. . . . T'o Napoleon the war of the elements semed as if "the noise of battle hartled in the air," mul he died uttering thr words, T'éte $d^{\prime} A r$ mér. - KNamt's ENG., vol. 7, (h. 1t.

206w. HUSBAND, Dignity of the. After the Mrwolution. [Cudar William's prrsomal governmont Parliannent diseussed the question of the fithare rulers of the ratm.] The prince, trie to his promise that he would leave the sedtlement of the goveroment to the Convention, hul malntained an impenctrable resurve, and had not nufl'rerlany word, look, or gestare, indicative either of satisfuetion or of displensure, to esconpe him. One of his comatrymen, who hind n large share of his contidence, hand been invited to the moeting, mud was carnestly pressed ly the peers to give them some information. He long exensed himself. At last he so finr yiedded to their urgency. ns to suy, "I enn only guess ut his Ilighness. mind. If you wish to know what I gness, I guess that he would not like to be his wife's gentleman usher ; but I know nothing." "I know something now, however," sitid" Innby. "I know enongl, and too much."- Macaulay's ENG., ch. 10, j. 691.
2682. HUSBAND, A good. Cato the Censor. lle used to say that they who beat their wives or chilelren laid their sacrilegrous hands on the most snered things in the world; mind that he preferred the charucter of a good husband to that of a great senator.-PLetancits Cato.
2083. HUSBAND governed by Wife. Ceoige II. In Qucen Curoline George [II.] for ten yenrs of his reign had such an udviser and friend ins few sovereigns have ever been blessed with. She possessed the rare wisdom-difficult even in private life, but fur more diflicult in the relntions of a king und his consort-of governing her hushund withont nipenring to govern. She never offered an opinion when any matter of State was disenssed between the king and his ministers in her presence; lut her opinion was ever certain to prevail. - Kniant's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 4, p. 59
2684. HUSBAND vs, Lover. Queen Elizabeth. Among those who chiefly distinguished them. selves in these Spunish expeditions was the young Earl of Essex, a nobleman of great courage, fond of glory, und of a most centerprising disposition. IIe possessed no less the talents of a warrior than of a finished courtier ; yet his impetuosity was upt to exceed the bounds of prudence. He was hanghty and uiterly impatient of adviee or control. Elizabeth, then almost sixty years of age,

Was sulten with the permomal charms of this inecombplished youth; fore it was peculher to the quero, that though she lamd always rejeded it hushami, sha was passhomitely fond of laving a lover. 'I'he flattery of her conrtlers lame prossuadad hex that, though wrinkled mud even deformerl, slac was yot young und bernutiful ; mud she Was not sansible of any dispurley of choosiag Eisex for her partuer in all the masks at court.

 1]. [ILis danghter Mary was wife of Willam of Oringer, whos drove dinnes from the: throne. On the present ocension, however, she judged that the claim of Jumes to her obedience onght to yiedd to a elnim more smored. And, indect, all divinesumb publiepstsugree hin this, that when thr daughter of a prince of one comatry is murriod to a pirince of another comatry, slee is loound to forget her own people mad lar finther's honss. und, in the event of a rupture between heve haslamil and her jurents, to side with her husband. This is the undonbted rule even when the haslmal is in the wrong ; and to Nary the enterprise which Willinm medituted appeared not only just, but holy.-Macaulay's ENi., ch. 9, p. 380.
2886. HUSBAND, Servitude of. Belinerius. [Alter his compuests of lialy and his victory over the Persima] Belisurins reposed from his toils in the high station of general of the Enst und eount of the donnesties; und the older consuls und patricians respectfully yielded the preeedency of rank to the peerless nerit of the tirst of the leomans. The first of the Rommans still subnitted to be the slave of his wife. [Sce more at No. 1949.]-Giamin lRome, ch. 43, p, 263.
20887. HUSBAND, A viclous. of Mary Queen of Scots. The consort of Mary male an ill return to lier affection; he was n weak man, an abandoned profligate, ind adilieted to the meanest of vices. Pleased us she had leen at first with his person und exterunl necomplishments, it was impossible that her nffertion should not at length lave given phace to disgust at a charaeter so worthless and despienble; and Darnley, enrageal at her increasing eoldness, was tanght to believe that he was supplanted in the queen's affections by the arts and insinnations of a favorite - a despicnble one indeed - the musicinn Rizzio, whom Mary had promoted to the oftice of her seeretary. . . A new plot was alevised by Morton and Lethington, of which the weak and vicious Daruley was mude an netive instrument. The queen whis then far advanced in her pregnancy, when, as she was one evening at supper in $u$ private upartment of her palace, along with the Conntessof Argyle, while her secretary Rizzio and some other of her donestices were in waiting, the Earl of Morton, with one hundred and sixty men, took possession of the palne e a few ruftians in arms loroke into the apartment, Darnley limself showing the why by a private slatrease; they overturned the fible at which the queen sut, and seizing the seeretary Rizaio, who clung for protection to the graments of his mistress, they stabhed him to the heart, and thence dragging him into the ante-chmber, lad him dealwith numbe"less wounds. -TyTLER's IIIst., 13ook 6, ch. 28, p. 386 .
2688. HUSBANDRY, Changes by, Caliph Omar. He requested that his lieutenant would place before hat eyes the realin of Phasmoh and the Amalokites ; ind the answere of Amorour is hilbits a lively mad not unfailafal pheture of that ful, ligypt is a rominnomid of black emeth nad ared simul. . . Acoording to the vicissitules of the semsons, the face of the comatry is monded

 Rome, リh. 51, 1י 233.

28*8. HUSBANDS, Good. Romoms. |'Tho Silbines nttucked the Romums, who had corrled "way their hanghters and made them wives. Tlue women rushed between the armbes mad phedel fior puter, speaking temderly to boik sides.] The gemerals provereded to m conferener. In the menn tinnc tha womode presented their lanshands and children to their fiathers mad lirothers, bromght refreshments to those that wanted them, und carried the wounded home to be cured. Here they showed them that they had the ordering of their own houses, what attentions their lasbande paid thean, and with what resperet and indhlgance they werve trented. Upon this a pence was concladide, the conditions of whiel wore, that suth of the women as chose to remain with their hoslmads should be excmpt from all habor mul drudgery, except spinning : that the elty shombl be inlmbited by the lomans and Sablues in common, witl the mane of Rome, from Roms-ulus.-PLuTAMOU'~ Rumulis.
S680. HUSBANDS to love. Wires to Obey. [Mary, wife of Prince Willinm of Ormuge and the heir apparent to the English throue, was asked what her hashand the prince slanald be if sho berame queen. She endled in her hasband and] she pronised him he should always bear rule; und she asked only that he would obey the command of "Husbamls, love your wives," as sha shoukd do that, "Wives, be obedient to your husbunds in all things."-1 Night's Ena., vol. 4, ch. 27,1$) .432$.

26D1. HYPOCHONDRIA, Congtitutional. Will. wim Cowper. When Cowper was thirty-two, and still living in the Temple, cume the sad and decisive crisis of his life. He went mad, and attempted suicide. What was the source of his madness? There is a vague tradition that it arose from licentionsmess, which, no doubt, is sometimes the canse of insunity. 13nt in Cowper's case there is no proof of anything of the kind. . . The trinth is, his malady was simple hypodiondria, laving its somed in delicacy of constitution and werkness of digestion, combined with the influence of meluncholy surroundings. . . When its crisis urrived he was living by himself without uny socicty of the kind that suited him (for the excitement of the Nonsense Club was sure to be followed by reaction) ; he had lost his love, his father, his home, and, ins it lappened, ulson dear friend ; his litile patrimony was fast dwindling uwny; he mast lave despaired of suceessin his profession ; mol his outlook was altogether dark. It yiolled to the remedies to whichlaypoehombria usmally yields-air, excreise, smashine, checrfal socioty, eongenial orcupation. It eame with Junary and went with May.-Smitu's Cowiper, ch. 1.
2692. HYPOCRISY, Brazen, Pope Adrian VI. [After the capture of Rome by the emperor

Charles V. thay helphess pope was trented with gross imdignity, und elosely imprisomed in the Cinstle of St. Angelo. ('luirles, with grotespluliypererisy, professed the ilerperst distress it ilio misfortunes of the boly finther, mad ordored publie prayers in all the chareloes of spmin for his 2308: HYPOCRISY, Diplomatio, Bimetperts. [Ia Eyypt he sought to concilinte the peophe by publishing: " We Freurhmen are true Mussulmans. Thue not we destroyed the peper, who called upon Earope to make war upon Hac Mussulmunsy lave we not destroyed the kinights of Matat heconsis these madmen leslieved that God had calked them to make war upon Massaimuns "f" Afor ohtaining possassion of Cuiro, "' 'The Favorite of Victory' was sented in the grand mosegue nt the Fenst of the Prophets, sit. ting cross-legged as he reprited the words of the Korma, und edified the sucred college by his piety."-Knient's Ena., vol, 7, ch. 20, p. 3it.

260.1. HYPOCRISY exposed, Charles II. Two pupers, in whirh were set forth very roncisely the argummats ordinurily used by Roman Catiolies in controversy with Protestants, had beren found in Clurles's strong-hos, mind nppenered to be in his lundwriting. These papers James showed trimphantly to severul Protestants, und declured that, to his knowledge, his hrother had lived and died a Roman Catholie. One of the persons to whom the mannscripts were exhibited was Arehbishop Suncroft. He rend them wilh much emotion, und remuined silent. Such silence was only the maturn effee of a struggle between respect mad vexation. - Macaltay's Eva., eh. 6, p. 41.
2605. HYPOCRISY in Friendehip. Itwiew Or-lemus-Burgundy. These rivala gave every ontward token of restored confidence and moity, even sharing the same couchnt night ; but the extreme care which ench bestowed in fortifying his hotel, mud guarding ugainst surprise, bet rayed the decpdistrust concealed benenth the mask of ree-onciliation.-Studenta' Fbance, ch. 11, $$ 7$.
2606. HYPOCRIEY invited. Puriturs. One of the first resolutions adopted hy Barebones' Parlimencot, the most intensely Puritanical of all our political nssemblies, was that no person should be udmitted into the public serviec till the llouse whould be sutistied of hifs real godilness. What were then cousidered as the signs of real godliness, the sad-colored dress, the somr look, the straight hair, the masal whine, the speceh interspersed with quaint texts, the ahomerrence of comedies, curds, and hawking, were ensily counterfected by men to whom nili relig. ions were the sume. The sincere Purituas soon found themselves lost in a multitude, not mereIy of men of the world, but of the very worst sort of men of the word. - Macaday's Eng., ch. $\stackrel{2}{ }$, p. 155.
2697. HYPOCRISY, Religious. Dukes Orletus - Burgundy. On the 20 th of November, 1407, the two consins heard mass and partook of the holy sacrament together at the church of the Angustins. Never was there a blacker instance of sacrilegions hypocrisy. At the very moment when he thus profaned the most solemn rite of Christianity, Jean sans Peur had deliberately doomed his enemy to a bloody and violent death.-Students France, ch. 11, $$ 7$.

2600n. - Romen Ihiluwerphers. Viow ing with "smile of pity and fadulgence the varions arrors of the vulgur, they diligemtly prustised the ceremonies of thedr fathers, ileventi Iy frepuented tar temples of the gols, nad some. times condemernding to net upart on the thentre of sumerstition, they eoneraled the sentiments of III atherist under the sacerilotal robses. Reasenirs of such a temper were scarcely inelined to wringle about thelr respeetive modes of fillh or of worship. It was indifferent to them what. shange the folly of the multhude might choose to ussume: und they appronched with the same inward contempt and the sume (extermal rever. (nte the atars of the Libyum, the olympian, of the C'upitoline Jupher.-Gimuon's lome, ch. 2 , 1. 37.
2600. HYPOCRITE, An accomplished. "Inch" Thellort. Whenever he opened his moulh, he mated, cursed, and swore with such frmatie violenee that supprthcial olservers set him down lor the wildest of liberthos. The multitude wns umble to concefer that a man who, even when solver, was more furions anid bonstful than others when they were drunk, and whe semed nterly incupmble of disgrising my emotion or kerepingmay acrert, coudd renlly be a cold-hented, far-sishited, seheluing sycophant: yet such at mun was 'Tatbot. In ruila, his hypocrisy was of a far higher nad rater sort than the hyporerisy which hat thourisher in Burebones' Pritiament; for the consummate hypocrite is not lie who conceal- vire behind the semblanee of virtue, but he who makes the vice which he has no objeertion to show a stalking horse to cover darker and more protitable vice which it is for his interest tohide. - Macal hay's ENo., Ch. 6, p. 45.
2700. HYPOCRITE, Epitaph of the. ricek Emperor. [The Emperor Alexins was by the clergy estermed " (liristim.] But the sincerity of hia momal and religious virtues was suspereted by the persons who had passed their lives in his familiar contidence. In his last hoars, when he was pressed hy his wife Irene to alter the suceession, he raised his head, and breathed a pious ejamhation on the vunity of this wordd. The indigmant reply of the empress may be inseribed as an (epitaph on his tomb: "'ou dic, as you lave livel-A iryocrite :"-Gmison's IRone. ch. 48, p. 600.

27e1. IDEAS, Penalty for. John Milton. Proud, reserved, self-comaned. repellent, brooding over his own ideas, not cmsily admithing into his mind the idens of others. It is indecd an erroncons estimute of Milton to atribute to him a hard or mastere mature. He luad all the guick sansibility which belongs to the poetie temperament, mid longed to be loved that he might hove again. But lie had to pay the pemalty of all who believe in their own ideas, in that their idens come between them and the persons that approach them, und constitute a mentad barier which emn only be broken down hy sympathy. And sympatliy for idens is hurd to find, just in proportion as those idens are profomd, far-reaching, the fruit of long study und meditation. Hence it was that Milton did not associate readily with his contemporaries, but was nffable and instructive in conversation with young persons, and those who would approneh hini in the attitude of disciples.-Pattison's Milton, eli. 11.
2702. IDLENEss, Burden of. Siucturns. 'Tlu' Insipid amb imatior lifio al the spartume was mecordlugly a propetmal subjuct of millory to the rest of the (ireeks, mad to none more han to the lasey, restless, und volatile Athenhass. I'o this hhader, whis some one was vamelhig to him the contempt whish the Larexdemonhans lind for deats: "It is no womder," suld he. "sinee it ro

 $11: 8$

270:8. IDLENESS punishod. /brofirm. Niurly 1ヵ"mym whall le set nt work nt the klug's "hatges, some bifover, mal some at the pher Where the waire hath hroken ha on the hand, unil other more phares. Then if they linll to idlemess, tho idter shall her had hafore in justire of the poare and his finult writurn ; then if he be takin islle ngain in unother phare, he shall be known where his dwelling is, so ut the seeond mention har -hall be burned the the hand: and if he fail the thitrd time he shall die for h . [ln liz3t it was whipplag for the thest offerere, whipping for hae verond offence, mand) the where purt of the gristle of the right ene eleme rat off. [For the third olfence, imprisemment in the juil, ] and in the next guarter serssions, if indieted of wanderiner. loitrering, and idleness, und fomad erulty, "Ho shall have judgmont to suifere pains mid "xceution of denth ne a felon and as mememy of the Commonwenth, "-KNigirt'n Eva., vol. : $\underset{\text {, }}{ }$ (11. :21, 1, 342.
270.4. $\qquad$ Athrus. It whe a punishwhererime at Athens to be idle, man every citizen was compelled to industry and to the utmont ex. artion of his talents. It wis not enough that cirlh should rhoose himself a purtionhar profession. The court of Areopmgis inquired intorand nsererthined the extent of his funds, the umount of his expenditure, and conserguently the memare of his imilustry und economy. - TYquen's IIstr., Book 1, (h. 10, 1). 108.
2705. IDOL, A helpless, Brahmin. The putgoda of Summe was sitmate on the promontery of Guzarnt, in the neighborhood of lin, one of the has remaining possensions of the Portuguese. It wa culowed with the revenue of two thonsamd vilhges; two thousnal Brahmins were consercatel to the service of the Deity, whom they Washod ancla morning and avening in water from the distant Ganges ; the subordinute ministers eonsisted of three lamdred masicians, three hundreal barbers, mad five humdred dancing girls, ronspircuons for their hirth or memuty. Three sides of the temple were protected by the ocem, the marrow isthmus was fortified by a matural or artiticial precipice; and the eity imbl aljucent commery were propled hy a mation of fumatics. 'They confessed the sins fand the punishment of Kinnoge and Delhi ; but if the impious stranger shouli presme to approach their holy precincts, he would surely be overwhemed by a blast of the divine vengeance. By this challenge the faith of Mahmul [the Turk] was mimated to n persomal trial of the strengeth of this Iadian deiity. Fifty thousiand of his worshippers were pierced ly the spear of the Mossems; the walls were sealed; the saneluary was profimed; and the conqueror aimed a blow of his iron mace at the head of the idol. The trembling Brahmins his misum: nad it "as urged hy the wisent comnwonid not colange the herivisot tha (Gentomes and that sull in simt might be derlimed to therere plied the sultan, " are sperelons mad strong ; bat

 rended in the belly of the statue, "vphined th Nome degree the devont prodigatly of lare Brah mins. The fragmente of the idel were diverih.

2706. idolatry of Herolam. C'l" "di"s. [When har whemed from the compurst of Britala] the n'my suluted him with the tithe of Smprator: and he returned to Romer, to aswame the mame of Britamileus, mad to be worshipped asa grol. Kinumber Eisa., vol, 1, ch. 2, p. 10.
2707. IGNORANCE of Bigotry. RCiqu oft ('hurles II. I) ivanes who were har lemat of the undremities and the dellght of the caplat lemed towarel consiltutional princlples of gov. ermment, lived on Priendly lerms with Press byterfans, Indepmodents, buil Buptista, would ghadly have serma a full toloration grounted to all Protestunt seres, mil would evon lave comsented to make atternitions in the liturgy for the purpose of comaliating honest and emadid Nonconformists. But surh latitudhurianism was hehi in horror by the comatry purson. Ife wns, indhed, prouder of his ragged gewn than his superiors of their lawn and of their semplet hoods. The very conseloushess that there wins litte in his word ly circumstances to distingulsh him from the villugers to whom he preariged, led him to hold immoderntely high the dignity of that satcerdotal oflle whidh was his single fitle to rever. eme.-Macadhay's Eno., ch. 3, p. 310.
2706. IONORANCE confessed. Simmel Johnson. A fow of hiv dethitions must be mlmittond to be ervoneons. . . . A haly one usked hitm how he cume to define lontern the kine of a horse: instemal of making in elnbornte dofence. ans she experted, he nt once miswered, "lgnorance, madam, pure ignormacr." [Aulhor of Dictionary, ete.]-Boswela'n Jonsson, p. 76.
2709. IGNORANCE, Folly of. Wist Indimens. They guve their own inland of Itayll priority of existence over nll others, and lelieved that the sum and moon origimally issued out of a 'nvern in the ishand to give light to the word. This eavern still exists, uhont seven or cight lemgues from Cape Francais, now C'nge Inytien, and is known by the name of La Voute id Dinguet. It is about one hundred and flity feet in depth, and nearly the smme in height, but very marrow. It receives no light hot from the entrance, and from a romed hale in the roof, whence it was said the sun and moon issued forth to take their phaces in the sky. -lavina's Comemass, Book 6, ch. 10.
2710. IGNORANCE, General. Reign of Charles II. The elergy had also lost the ascemdency which is the natural reward of superior mental cultivation. Once the cire onnstance that 1 man roubd read had raised a presumption that he was in orlers: but in in age which prodnced such laymea as William C'eciland Nicholas Bacon, Roger Awhum and Thoman similh, Wilter Midmay and F'rancis Wilsingham, there wis moremsin for ralling away predutex from their illosersen 10 negotiate treatien, thsuperintend the Amberes, or

 b. 3013.
2711. IONORANCE, Geographioal. Ciptrion John Nmilh. With nommany of sis binglishomen
 Chlekaloming tever. It was gromerally belle ved by the peroplo of damestown that hy polng inp an opintors. but lommoral it beroluse of the opportunity it gave him to explore new tertitary. The rest might dig imaghary geldi hust and hant for the Phettle: be would were the combtry mad mup the comere of the diver.-Rabratise U. S., (h. 13. 1. 98.

471:2. IONORANCE, Impodiments of. Cinim. bies. ['Ther comsedlow of lher kitur of Spain urget] agalase it west warl vogure of diseovery l 'The the historionl fomblathons of on faith, . . . womld the to maintalat that there were untone not desurvided from Adam ; . . In lar pealme the henve

- cosering of atront : . . . they brought up the Ghimera... of the Lisvippurtahbe heat of the: torridenome. Evell granting blacerald bo pasued, they observed that the ciferminerente of threre years to tha voyare, and thase who should machertake it mast perish of hunger mal hisest, from the imposibility of curving provisions for so lonk a preriont. Ite was tolit, on the millority of Epicuras, lhat admitting the carth to bspherimal, it was only inhmhitable in the northeron hemisphere, and in that section only was antos pied hy the lavavens; that the opposite half was a chaos, 1 gult, or a mere waste of water. Not the least absirit objection molvancell was, that whouht in ship even surcered in reachinge, in this wny, the extremity of India, she comble never enet tonck ugain: for the rotundity of the elole wonla present a kimb of mountain, up, whin it would he impossible for her tosail with the most fawor-

 While such was the state of ulfiaiss in the Eust. the Venethans, who had hitherto engrossed tha: whole trade from India, by merons of the Rad Sea nud the port of Aldxablria, soon perrecised that this most harative conmerre was on the point of amihilation, and that every alvantuge of the Indim tade mast now be trmasererel to the Portugumes. Varions expedients were thomght of to obviate these impronding misfortuncs It whe the interest of the Sultan of Eirypt to concur witls the Vinetians in support of a trate from which he as well as they halderived grent benctits. A plan was meditated for some time of chating throngh the Isthmas of sue\%, mon thas joining the Meditermanan mal the Redi Nen; but the Egyptians were apprehensive that their low and that country might be drownol alogether in this atempt, and therefore the project was 6, ch. 18, p. 2\%\%.

2714. IGNOKANCE vs. Negligence. N'imuel Johmson. [At school.| Mr. Munter, the hemi-

 andil be. "tolnem lus unturevifilly; and be dial not kiowing it thog, ins for negkething to kiow It. He womld ank a lay a guestion, and if hee did not mower to he woild beat him, whithont comadidering whether he hat "1n "pportunty of knowing foow to nnawer it. For bustunce, he wond rall "p" loy mad avk him Lath for " cmandeatick, whith the hoy rombla mot expet to low ushed. Now, nir, if " hey coblal allow of ary

2715. IGNORANCE, NIght of. Einglunll. Allor
 poxderior to him ubout tifty senrs. lintrufuced of whinh he himsilf, a mow neromplished thararter, presussedt armarkahle shure. Ile enconaged lemrulage not ouly be hisown enumple. but by fonnting sembarien inal rewirdine hor hatore of ingentome men. Bitt these finvorable ranere hid harharism of hils sucereswers than hy the ceotimand disertere of the kingeton from the Danish lineurstons: and from the uge of Slired
 "lome night of the mont illiberal lgnomance.-

2716. IGNORANCE, Offiotal, Inher of Nirof the Trensary minder deome 11 ., was matignohud marcherl toc'upe Breton. "Where ili 'uy Hot 1 ramsports:" was asked. "Transports onl Tue: "I hell you they murehed by lanl.
 C"pre Bretom an ishond It was pointed ont on his informant, cjuculated, "Egul! I'll go dif rertly mad tell the king that Cape lbreton is an 2717.     -         - Duke of Nurersfle. For minister for British Amerien; yet to the hat the statesman who was so decply verven in the statistias of elections knew little of the contiment of which he was the gumrdiun. It mddressedl lethers, it used to be conthlently sail, to " ' ha island of New Enghand," and ceinht not tol: but that Jamian was in the Moditermanem. Itapse of colonial memorials and bettres remained murend in his ofllee ; mol it paper was almost sure of neghere unless some ngent remained with him to sec it opemed.-Banehoft's U. S., vol. 4, ch. 1.

2718. IaNORANCE, Professional. Nary. Most of the Nhips which were alloat were commanded by men who lud not been bred to the san. Greal therts had been intrusted to the direction of Rupert and Monk; Rupert, who was re:nowned rhietly as n hot and daring ravalry otlicer, and Monk, who, when he wanted his whip to tack to larbonrl. moved the mirth of his rrew by calling ont, "Wheel to the left "" But ahont this time wise men began to pererive that the rapid improvement, both of the art of war and of the art of unvightion, muld it necessary to draw a line between two professions which

2719. IONORANCE, Royal. İentern Einpil'f. 'I'ho rldor distin, us lio is distingilished from
 ascrembed the Byzantine lhome ne thes nge of tixtyelight yemrs: nul, hurl lus beron loft to hls own gullunco, evory monnent of $n$ nine yrurs propriaty of thedr rlablece. Jils lanormace was shaliar io that of Thosolurle; und It in romarknhlo that ln nango mot dowitule of lemrnhag I wo contempornry momarchas had mever leron instrint-Rombi, rl. 40, 1. 4*.
2720. IGNORANCE, Stubborn. Inquiwitors. In where ho wis primitiod to speritk lin hils deforice

 onstrate the truth of the Copernicun systerm, ins he lime Ixan wont to do at Ihe university. Ilis necusars, ignorant of selefore could mot comsprolenal his reasoming. . . 'l'lory broke in 11 mon hls urgumernts with louil onilerles, nerousingr an of bringing scomblal upon the charrdi, and ruputing over andover the pussuge of the Bible whitel decares llait dosbana rommanded the sim amed moon to stand still, mind they obryed him. In vain Galileo raminded them that the Biblo alwo mays that the heavens are nolid and are pollshad like n mirror a $^{\text {e brass }}$ in vain ho pointed out that the bunguge of the Biblo is invarinbly conformeri to the state of selenere int the time when it whe written. The assumbleal priests only shirugged theirshoulalers at his remsoning, or lnterruptcd hlm with derisive und contomptuous shouts.

2721. IGNORANCE, Superstition of. Ancicuts. The ancients, who had a very fiant and imperfect knowlealge of the great jeninsula of Afrien, were sometimes tempted to lneliove that the tor' rid zone mast ever remmin destinte of inlmbitmonts; and they sometimes ammand their fancy by tlling the viennt space with homdless men, ir rither monsters; with laorned und eloven-footiod sutyrs; with finbulous centanrs, and with linman pyimies, who waged a loold and doubtful warfirnaguinst the emmes. -Gaban's lkane, ch. 25, p. 5 if.
2722. IGNORANCE, Unappreciative. Utility. [When the army of Galerins sirkinl the camp of the ronted Persimss in] lmer of shining leathor, filled with pearls, fell into the hunds of a private soldier ; he arafully preserveal the bag, but he threw awny its contents, julging that whatever was of no use eoula not possibly be of any value. -Gibion's Rome, (h. 13, p. 425.
2723. IGNORANCE, Zealons. Crusaders. [Among the Crusuders] the chicfs themselves hud an imperfect notion of the length of tie way nud boke of Normands, if place whose powet, repu-

 favor, 'l'his velebrater! prlare wav loc mataral Lor of ulurtir of lininine. Illogillmaney In thone lons. Ho hail lowiruggle will in urrogant nobithise crown; but lio very mily showal a genhes

27心6. ILLITERACY compersated. (',l. H'illiam Winshinffon. ['olomel 'lurloton was tumb:
 lifs crimel mad raserndial disposlifon lic was mont lacurtily dospisal by tho republloms.
 fallow, lurilly uhfe to write hix anime. " . Ih, colomol," naid Mrs. Jones, "you ought to know betfor, far you bexr on youlr preson pront that ho knows very wall home to minkir hin molik." lllo had heron severely wombled in himbuml |-Nores in C'untis' Wanilinoton, vol. 1, di, li.
2787. ILLUSTRATION by Analogy. Iir. Nimmel, fuhnems. Johnam prepmied a reply to his assmihants, in which he drew ant rhborito parallel between Jnlinn and Jnmes, then lake of Fork. Julinn land durfig muny yemav pretrond(al to uhhor inlohatry, while in licirt un indolator. Julhan land, to serve tima, ocraniomally atlertod punished cities which were zambon for the trua religion, by taking nwny their manicipal priviloges. Julian tual, by his thattorers, hean colled the Just. Jimes was provokid leyond imblimace. Johmson wins poserented for it libel, convieted, mad condemmed to a thar, which he hal no monns of pmying. Ife was, therelote, kret in juil: nud it soxmod likely that him conthement wond end only winh his lile.-Macsulay's ENo., 川h. 6.
2749. ILLUSTRATION, Information by. l'inting. One step turther in this procens is the cexpression of idens hy puinting. When the Spmeiards arrived in Moxico, the inlabitnats of the sea-coasts sent intelligence to their emperor, Monteximm, by a luge cloth, on which they hat cares fully depicted everything they had seen of the: nppearance and progress of the invaders. - Trother'n Hist., Book 1, ch. 3, p. 26.
27628. ILLUSTRATIONS, Use of, flbrahum. Lincoln. Much has been stid ot Mr. Lincolnis habit of telling stories, and it combla soarcely be exnggerated. He had a keen sense of the humorous ind the ludicrous, and relished jokes and mevolotes for the amusement they nfforded him. Ikin story-telling was with him rither : mote of statines and illistrating fincts and opinions than anything else. Thore is a great difference among men in the manner of expressing their thoughts. Some are rigidly exare, und give everything they stey a logioal form ; othors express themselves in therres und by illustrations drawn from mature or history. Mr. Lincoln often gave clearmessand force to his incas by pertinent ancerlotes and i]lustrations dramo from daily life-Raviond's LINColin, ch. 2l, p. Fill.

678:B0. IMAGE, Supernatural. Imaye of Chrixt. The perfect impression of Ilis fuce on a pince of linen. | The imare af Edessa was preserved with respect and gratitule; and if the Armenians rejected the legrad. the more rredulons Greaks adored the similitucte, which was not the work of any mortal pencil, but the immediate creation of the divine original. The style and semtiments of a Byzantine hymm will declare how far their worship was removed from the grossest idolatry. "How ean we with mortal eyescontemplate this imugre. whose celestial splendor the host of heavan presumes not to behold: IIe who dwells in heaven condescemds this day to visit us by His vencrahle image ; lle who is seated on the chernbim visits us this day by a pieture, which the Father has delineated with 1 lis immason ate lame which le has formed in mineffable mamber, and which we sametify by uloring it with fear and love." Before the end of the sixth century these images, murde withont hands (in Greek it is a single word). were propargited in the campes and eitfes of the Eastern empire ; they were the objeets of worship and the instraments of nimacles; and in the hour of danger or fommalt their venerable preseuce could revive the hope, rekindle the conrage, or repress the fury of the IRoman le-gions.-G: Bibon's lRoms, eh. 49, p. 6.
2881. IMAGES in Churches. A.D. 300. The public reiggion of the early Catholies was miformly simple and spinitanl ; and the firvt notice of the ase of pictures is in the censure of the comet of Illiberis, three handred years after the Christian era. At first the experiment was made with cantion and scruple, and the vencrable pictures were diserectly allowed to instruct the ignorant, to awaken the cold, mad to gratify the prejudices of the heathen proselytes. By a slow thongh inevitable progression the honors of the origimal were transferred to the copy; the devont Ghristian prayed before the image of a saint ; and the Pagan rites of genuflection, lmminaries, and inconse again stole into the Catholie Chureh. The seruples of reason or piety were silenced hy the strong evidence of visions und miracles: and the pietures which speak and move and bleed must be endowed with a divine energy, and may be ronsidered as the proper objects of religions adoration.

The use and even the worship of images was firmly established before the end of the sixth century. . . . The first introdiction of symbolie worship was in the veneration of the cross and of relics.-Gmmon's Rome, ch. 49,1 . 2.
2732. IMAGES, Worship of. A.D. 842. I shall only notice the judgment of the bushops on the comparative merit of image-worship and morality. A monk had concluded itruce with the demon of fornication, on condition of interrupting his daily prayers to a pieture that lang in lis cell. His seruples prompted him to consult the abbot. " Rather than abstain from adoring Christ and lits Mother in their holy bmages. it would be bettar for you," replied the casnist, "to miter every hoolhal nad visit every prostitate in the city."-('mmon's IRome, ch. 4!), 1. 34.

2783:. IMAGINATION, Active, Buny/f". ILe suw evil spirits in monstrons shapes, nime tiemes hlowing thames out of their nostrils. "Once," says a Thograplee who knew him well, and hid leard the story of his visions from his own lips. " he dremmed that he saw the face of henvern as it were on tire, the firmament crackling and shivering with the moise of mighty thomer, mal an arelangel tlew in the midst of heaven, someling a trompet, and a gloriens throne was sented in the enst, whereon sat One in brightnoss like the moming star. Lpon whicli he, thinking it was the emd of the world, fell upon his kneres amd said, 'Oh, Iord, have merry on me! What shadl I do? The bay of midgment is come. and I ath not prepared. "-Fnocde's Bunvan, ch. l.
