27834. IMAGINATION corrected. W"wshington Irring. Ilis next litarary finvorites were" "Robinson Crusoe" and "Sindbad the Sailor," and a collection of voyages and travels, entitled "The Worlal Displayed," which he nsed to rend at night by the glimmer of secreted randles after he had retired to hed, and which begot in hima desire to go to sea-a strong desire that by the time for left sehool almost ripenced into a determination to rim away from home and be a sailor. It led lim, at any rate, to try to ent salt pork, which he abominated, and to lie on the lard thoos which, of course, was dista ieful to, him. These preliminary hardships proved ton mucle for his heroism, so the notion of becoming a gallant tar was relnctantly abamioned.S'tombaids Irvina, p. 13.
27835. IMAGINATION, Delusions of. Spanish biplorers. America was the region of romanco. where the heated imagimation conld indulge in the boldest delusions; where the simple natives iguornntly wore the most precions ornaments : and by the side of the cienr runs of water the sands sparkled with gold. - Banchorr's His'r. of U. S., vol. 1, ch. '2.

2\%836. IMAGINATION, Diseased. Poet Shelley. Townd midnight on the 18 th of July lbyron recited the lines in " Christabel" abont the lady's brast; when Shelley suddenly started up, slarisked, and fled from the room. He land seen a rision of a woman with cyes insteal of nipples. . I[e was writing motes inpon the phenomena ot sleep. . . . Mrs. Shalley informs us that the mere effort to remember drams of thrilling or mysterions import so distmbed his nervous system that le lad to relinguish the task. At no period of his life was lue wholly free drom visions which ind the reality of facts, Sometimes they ocenred in sleep, and were prolonged with painful vividness into his waking moments. Sometimes they scemed to grow out of his intense mediation, or to present themselves before his eyes as the projuction of a powerful inner impression. All his sensations were abmormally aente, and his everartive imarimation confused the border-lands of the actual and the visionary.-Sinonds' ShetLEN, ch. 4.
fuculties are clouded; when denth removes our clay coverings, the mystery will be solval."Symonds' Shelley, ch. 6.
2746. Immortality, Faith in. Araba. [Some of the Arubs think] the life of man to the but one of those infinite periods of existence to be renewed in other worlds and nuder other forms. When an Arab died, his finest camed was ticd to a stake heside his grave, and laft, expire of hanger upon the body of its maste in order that he should be furnished with his mbl. itual monas 'a, in the region to which death had introducel him. -Lamamene's Tuakey, p. 46.
27.17. IMMORTALITY, Hope of. Raleigh. SirWulter laleigh, the night before his denth, wrote these lines on a blank leaf of his Bible:
" E'en such is time; whu tukes in trust Our youth, our joys, and all we have, And pays us but with age mad dast ;

Who in the dark and silent grave, When we have wanderd all oar ways, Shuts up the story of our days.
But from this earth, this grave, this dust,
The Lord will raise me up, I trust."
-Knight's Eng., vol 3, ch. : 24 , p. 376.
2748. IMPATIENCE, Disagreement by. Alsrsuder Hemilton. This impatience and discontent led finally to a rupture between General Washsington and his aide-de-cmmp. . . . Itamilton himself hats related: "Two daysugo . . . the generai und I passed each other on the stairs; he told me he wantel to sporak with me; I unswered that I wonld wait upon him immediately. I went below and delivered Mr. Tilghman a letter to be sent to the commissiny, containing an order of a pressing and interesting nature. Returniag to the genera, I was stopped on the wily by the Marguis de Lafayette, and we conversed together about a minute on a mater of hasiness. De can testify how impatient I was to get back, and that I left him in a manner which, but for our intimacy, would have been more than abrupt. Instead of finding the general, as is usmul, in his room, I met him at the head of the stairs, where, accosting me in an angry voice, 'Colonel Hamilton,' said he, 'you have kept me waiting at the head of the stairs these ten minutes ; I must tell you, sir, you treat me with disrespect.' I replied, without petulaney, but with decision, 'I am not conscious of it, sir ; but since you have thonght it necessary to tell me so, we part.' ' Very well, sir,' said he, 'if it be your choice,' or something to that effect, and we separated. I sincerely believe my absence, which gave so much umbrage, did not last two minntes. In less than an hour after Mr. Tilghman came to me in the general's name, assuring me of his confidence in my ability, integrity, usefulness, etc., and of his desire, in a candid conversation, to heal a difference which could not have happened but in a moment of passion. I requested Mr. Tilghman to tell him, first, that I had thken my resolution in a manner not to be revoked."Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 473.
2749. Impatience, Folly of. oliver Goldsmith. Goldsmith adverts, in his own humorons way, to his impatience at the tardiness with which his desultory and unacknowledged essays crept into notice. "I was once induced," says he, "to show my indignation ugrainst the public by discontinuing my efforts to please, and was bavely resotved, like Raldigh, to vex them by burning my manuseripts inn passion. Upon rethection, however, I considered what set or hody of people would be displeased me my rashmess. The sun, after so sad un aceident, might shine next morning as bright as usual ; men might langh and sing the next day, mad transact bosiness as before; and not a single ereature feel uny regret bot myself. . . Perhaps all ( Fr . Strect might laugh ut my fate, and self-upprov ing dignity be umble to shich me from ridicole." -Imvinots (iol.dsmitit, ch. 9. p. 66.
2750. IMPEACHMENT, Escape from. President Juhnson. Concerning the reorganization of the Southem States, the reml question at iswe was whether a rivil or a militury method ought to be ulopted. . . The Prosident hat urged [the formere]; . . in Congress the opposite opinson prevailed. . . On the 21st of Fehruary, 1868, he notitied Elwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War, of histlismissal from oftice. The act was regarded hy Congress as a usurpation of authority, and a violution of law on the part of the President.

Articles of impeachment were agreed to by ihe IIonse of Re, resentatives. . . . Ont the D6th of Muy . . . the President was acquitted. But his conpe was very marrow: a two-thirds majority [of the Semate] was reduired to conviet, and bit one vote was wanting.-Ridpath's U. S., ch. 67, 1. 550.
2751. IMPORTUNITY, Victim of. Churles II. IIe was a slave without being a dupe. Worthless men and women, to the very hottom of whose hearts he suw, iund whom he knew to he destitute of affection for him and undeserving of his confidence, conld easily whealle him ont of titles, places, domains, State serrets, and pardons. He bestowed mach, yet he neither enjoyed the pleasure nor actpired the fame of beneficence. He never gave spontaneonsly, but it was painful to him to refuse. The consequence was, that his bomety generally went, not to those whodeserved it hest, nor even to thove whom he liked best, hat to the most shampless and importumate suitor who cond obtain an madience.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. .2, p. 1is.
2752. IMPOSSIBILITIES accomplished. Bridge at Lodi. A. D. 1796. [Nupoleon proposed to eross the bridge at Lodi in the face of the Austrim batteries that swept it.] " 14 is impossible," said one [of his ollieers], "that my men can forre their way across that narrow bridge, in the face of such in amihilating storm of balls as must be encountered." " How ' impossible !" exclaimed Napoleon; "that word is not French." [ Nupoleon, bearing a stamdard, was the second actoss.] - Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 5.
2753. IMPOSITION, Artful. Alexander. It was impossihle to retain the territory he had overrin ; and his troops, foreseeing no end to their labors, positively refused to proceed. With a sensible mortification to his pride, he was forced to return to the Indas, after rearing, as monuments of his conquests, twelve altars upon the castern banks of the Hyphasis, of enormons height, on which he inseribed his own name, with those of his father Ammon and his brothers Itereules and Apollo. He is said also to have traced a cump in the same place of three times the necessary extent, surromding it with a strong rampart and fosse, and to have huilt in it enor-mons stables for horses, with the mangers of ${ }^{\prime}$ most extraordinary height. Ife is, in like manner, said to have eatased suits of armor to be lomied in the earth, of size far exceeding the hanatn proportions, with bedstends, and all other utensils on a similar gigantio scale. -TyTLEA's Hist., Book 2, eh. 4, 1. 190 .
275.4. IMPOSITION, Officlal. William Coir. fr'r's Letter. ['oo Rev. John Newton,] the junior son of Molly lBoswell. Ite had stolen some ironwork, the property of Griggs the butcher. Being convicted, he was ordered to le whipped, which operation he molerwent at the cart's tail, from the stone-house to the high areh, and back arain. ITe seremed to show great fortitude, but it was all an imposition upon the publie. The beadle, whe performed it, had filled his left hand with yellow ochre, throngh which, after every stroke, he drew the hash of his whip, Jeaving the appearance of $n$ wound upon the skin, hat in reality mot hurting him at all. This being perecived by Mi. Constable H., who followed the beadle, he "pulicel his cane, withont any such management or precaution, to the shonlders of the too mereifulexecutioner. The scene immediately bereme more interesting. The beadle could by no means be prevailed upon to strike lard, which provoked the constable to strike harder ; and this donble Hogrging continued till a lass of Silver End, pitying the pitiful bendle thus suffering under the hands of the pitiless constable, joined the proression, and piacing loerself immediately behind the latter, seizal him ly his capillary clab, and pulling him lackward by the same, slapped his face with a most Amazon fury. This eoncatenation of events has taken up more of my paper than I interned it should, but I could not forbear to inform you how the beadle thanshed the thief, the comstable the beadle, and the lady the constable, and how the thief was the only preson concerned who suffered nothing. -Smitis CowPER, ch. 7.
2755. IMPOSTOR, Contemptible. Lambert Simnel. 'The reign of IIcury VII. was disturbed for awhile by two very singular enterprises. The Earl of Warwick, son of the late Duke of (iarence, had been confined by Richard in the Tower, and by his long imprisonment was totally unknown, and untequinted with the world. One Simon, a priest of Oxford, trained up a young man, Lambert Simmel, the son of a baker, to counterfeit the Earl of Warwick's person, and instructed lim in the knowledge of all the facts which were necessary to support the imposture. We tirst made his public: appearance in Inblin, where he found many to esponse his eanse, and le was there solemnly erowned King of England and Ireland. Thence passing over to England, he ventured to give battle to I Fenry near Nottingham. Simnel, with his tutor, the priest, were both tuken prisoners. The priest, who conld not be tried by the civil power, was imprisoned for life ; and the impostor himself, who was too mean an object for the revenge of IIenry, was employed by him as a seallion in his kitchen.Tytler's IItst., Book 6, eli. 14, p. 229.
2756. IMPOSTOR, Deceived by a. Perkin Wier. beck. The old Duchess of Burgmondy, sister of Edward IV. and widow of Clinrles the Bold, who wished ly all means to embroil the government of IIenry, caused a report to be spread that the young louke of York, who, along with his brother Edward, was hitherto behieved to have Ineen smothered in the Tower by Richard III., was stlll alive, und she soon after produced is young man who assumed hifs name and elanr acter; this was Perkin Wurbeck, the son of a Jew broker of Antwerp, a youth of great per. somal lematy and insimuting address. The found means, for a considerable time, to carry on the dereption, and seemed, from his valor and alvilities, to be not undeserving of the rank which he usiamed. For tive years lie supported hiscanse by foree of arms, and was aided by a resperetable proportion of the Engrlish nobility. laness IV., King of ticothand, esponsed his interest, ind gave hine in marriage a relation of his own, a daughter of the Earl of Inantley. . . . [lle Was captured and sentenced to perpitual impri-sonment.]-TYTLER's IIIst., Book 6, (h. 14, 1. 229.
2757. $\qquad$ Reign of Jomes II. In 160x, when England had long enjoyed constitutional freedom under anew dymasty, the son of an inn-keeper passed himself on the yeomanry of sussex as their leboved Monmouth, and defranded many who were by nomenns of the low est class. Five hundred pounds were collected for him. The farmers provided him with " horse. Their wives sent him haskets of chickrons and dueks, and were lavish, it was said, of favors of a more tender kind ; for, in grallantry at least, the comnterfeit was n not mworthy representative of the origimal. When this impostor was thrown into prison for his framd, his followers mantaned him in haxury.-Macatiany's Ent., ell. 5, p. 583.

275\%. IMPOSTOR pnnished. Reign of James II. Such was the devotion of the people to their unhappy favorite, that, in the face of the strongest cevidence ly which the fact of a death was evor verified, many continued to cherish r hope that he was still living, and that he would ngain nppear in arms. i person, it was said, who was renarkahly like Mommonth lad sate. rificed himself to save the Protestant hero. The vulgar long continued, at every importint erisis, to whisper that the time was at hand, and that King Mremonth would soor show himself. In 1686 a knave who had pretended to be the duke, and had levied contribution in several villages of Wiltshire, was apprehended and whipped from Newgate to Tyburn. - Macallay's Ena, (b. 5, p. 583 2759. IMPOSTOR reproved. General Giant. [Early in the war ais command were marching in Missouri. One of the lieutenants obtained refreshments for himself and friends by nssuming to he Gencral Grant and statf. Grint came to the same house for refreshments, and was curtly told he could have nothing, becanse General Grant and staff had eaten everything exeept a pumpkin-pie. Grint gave half a dollar for it, and requested the woman to keep it till sent for. When the army halted, parade was formed, and expectations aronsed by so unusual a cireumstanee when on a long mareh. The following order was read: "Lientemant Wicktield, . . having on this day eaten everything in Mrs. Selvidge's house, at the crossing, . . . except one pumpkin-pie, Lientemnnt Wickfield is hereby ordered to return with in escort of one huudred cavalry and ent that pie also.- I. N. Grant, Brigadier-General ('ommander."' It is impossible to describe the effere . . . on the troojs.-lis.anher'r (illint, p. jo.
2760. ImPOSTOR rewarded. T'ithes Ontes. A worthless impostor, one 'Titus Oates, who hat more than once changed his religion, now set the whole nation in a ferment hy the discovery of a pretemed plot of the ('itholies. He assertad that the pope, claiming the soverrignty of England, had intrusted the exercise of his power to the Jesuits, who had alrealy got patents for the principal ofllers of the kingdona ; that Ifty Jesuits had undertaken that the king should be assassinated, and the crown bestowed on the Duke of York, who, if he drelined it, was likewise to be murdered; that the Jesuits, who it was supposed hat already almost reduced Lonflon to ashes in the late dreadful fire, had planned another fire and massacre, with which they intented to begin the execution of their project.

The informer received the thanks of Parliament, with a pension of $£ 1200$ sterling. -TyT. ler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 30, p. 421.
2761. IMPOSTURE, Political. "Voice in the Wutl." [In 15.94, when England was disquieted by the partisans for Catholic Mary on the one side, against those of Protestant Elizabeth on the oth[r.] imposture availed itself of the prevailing discpuiet to stimulate the superstitions by a pretended voiee in a wall, which was silent when "God save Queen Mary" was uttered, but which erien, "So be it" when "God save the Lauly Elizabeth" was pronounced. More than 17,000 persons were collected round this house. -Knimit's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 5, p. 72.
2762. IMPRESSIONs, Early; William III. [William, Prince of Orange.] The Dutch langruge was the language of his nursery. Among The Dutch gentry he had chosen his carly friends. The ammsements, the arehitecture, the landseape of his native country had taken holll on his heart. To her be thrned with constant fondness from a prouder and fairer rival. In the gallery of Whitehall he pinal for the familiar house in the wood at the Hague, and never was so happy us when he could guit the magnificence of Windsor for his far humbler seat at Loo. During his splendid banishment it was his consolation to rreate round him, by buikling, planting, and digging, a seene which might remind him of the formal piles of red brick, of the long canals, and of the symmetrical flower-beds amid which his early life Ead been passed.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 168.
2763. IMPRESSIONS, Tragical. Churles $I$. Then tiking the little Duke of Gloucester, who was only tive years old, upon his knees, and desiring to impress upon the mind of the infant, by a tragical image, the counsel which through him he addressed to all the fumily, "My child," said he, " they are going to cut off thy father's head!" The boy gazed with anxious amol astonished looks upon the countanance of the speaker. "Yes," contimued the king, seeking to fix the terrible remembrance by repetition, "they will cut off my head, and perhaps make thee king! But pay attention to my words: thou must not be made a king by them while thy elder brothers, Charles and James, are living. They will cut off their heads also, if they can lay hands on them, and will cond by cutting off thine. I thare fore command the never to be male a kiag by them." 'The chile, whe was impressed with the mournful serone and solemn warning, apparared sullile aly struck hy a light and, a sense of oloedience bryond his uge. "No," he replied, "I will not consent-they shall never make me a king. I will be torn to pieces tirst!' Charles, in this infuntine heroism, rerognized a voice from hemven, which assured him that his pesterity would be true to themselves in seeking to restore the throne after his decense. Ite shed tears of joy as he surrendereal back the Duke of (ilonrester to the arms of the jailers. - Lamabrive's Chomweli, p. 40.
2764. IMPRISONMENT, Long. Joh"l Bu". yan's. Such was the worle-famons imprisomment of John Bunyan, which has been the sulbject of so much cloquent dechmation. It hasted in all for more than twelve yours. It might huve conded nt any time if he wonlil have promisid to confine his addresses to a private cirele. It lide end after six years. Ite was released under the first declaration of indulgence; but as he instantly recommenced his preaching, he was arrested again. Another six years went by ; he was again let go, and was taken ence more immediately after, preaching in a wool. This time he was detained but a few months, and in form more than reality. The policy of the government was then changed, and he was free for the rest of his life.-Fuocde's Bunvan, ch. 6.
2765. IMPROVEMENT opposed. Elias Ifine. Like wht the other grent inventors, Mr. Inowe found that when he had completed his machine his lifficulties had but legun. After he had brought the machine to the point of making a few stitches, he went to Boston one day to get a tailor to come to Cambridge and arrange some cloth for sewing, and give his opinion as to the quality of the work done by the machine. The comrades of the man to whom he first applied dissuaded him from groing, alleging that a sew-ing-machine, if it worked well, must necessarily reduce the whole fraternity of taikors to beggary; and this proved to be the unchangeable ronviction of the tailors for the next ten years. It is proballe that the machines first made wouht have been destroyed by violence hat for another fixed opinion of the tailors, which was, that no machine rould be mude that would really answer the purpose.-Cyclopedia of Biot., p. 683.
2766. IMPROVEMENT repressed. Social. [In the beginning of the eighteenth century] the facilities possessed by the people of pass. ing from one occupation to :mother occupation were very limited, and the power of what we term rising in the world was equally restricted. In the locality in which a laborer was born he gencrally remained to the end of his life.

The sovere enforcement of the laws of apprenticeship kept a man forever in the particular pursuit for which he had served seven years of dreary education.Knight's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 4, p. 48.

2767 . IMPTLSE, Success by. Sylle writes in his Commentaries that his instamtaneous resolutions and enterprises, executel in a manner different from what he had intended, always suceceded better than those on which he bestowed the most time ami forcthourht. It is plain too from that saying of his, flat ho was horn rather for fortunc than war, that he attributed SYla.l.
2768. INAUGURATION, Joyful. W'וNhimgtom's. When all was hashed into silenere, Washington hagan rose, amel came forwame, and stood in view of atl the people, with the Vice-presielent on his right und Chancellor Livingston, who was 10 administer the onth, on the left. When the chaneellor was abont to lagrin, the serpetary of the Semate helal up the Bible on its crimson cushion ; and while the oath was rend, Washington hid his hand upou the open book. Whern the rembing was finisloel, lue said, with great solemnity of manner" "I swome sohelp me Got !" After which he bowed and kissed the book. 'The ehancellor then, waving his hand toward the people, eried out, "Long live George Wishsington, President of the United States!"-CrCLOPEDIA OF BHOM., Ch. 20 .
2769. INAUGURATION, Mystic. Togrul. [The Sultan of Turkey.] After the chastisement of the guilty and the restoration of beace, the royal shepheril uecepted the rewarel of his labors; ant $n$ solemn comedy representend the trimmph of religions prejulire over barlmotin power. The Turkish sultan ambarked on the Tigris, lnmed at the gate of lacea, ami male his public entry on horseback. At the palacegute be respeatfinlly dismonnted and walked on foot, preceded by his emirs withont urms. The calipl [Cnyem] was seated behind his blatek veil; the black garment of the Abbassides was cast over his shonderes, and he held in his hand the staff of thenpostle of God. The confueror of the East kissed the gronnd, sterod some time in a modest posture, and was led toward the throne by the vizier num abinterpeter. After Togral had seated himself on another throne, his commission was publicly read, which dealared him the temporal lientenant of the viear of the prophet. Ile was successively invested with seven robes, seven climates of the Arabian empire. Itis mystie veil was perfimed with nusk; two crowns were placed on his heat, two cimeters were girded to his side, as the symbols of a double reign over the East and West.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 5\%, p. 510.
2770. INAUGURATION, Simplicity of. Thomers Jefferson. The Presielent-elect. . . was dressed in platin cloth, which was very immsual at that time, as we may see in old portrats. IVe came out of his longings umattembed, and mommed his horse, which had been watiting for him before his door. IIe rode to the Capitol, maccompanied by any friend, and withont a servant. and when he had reached the building le dismonnted without assistance, and with his own hamds tied the horse to a paling of the fence. He wis received at the steps of the Capitol by a large number of his political friends, who absolutely would not permit him to carry ont his intention of going alone to the semate-chamber to take the oith of office. A kind of procession was formed, and they walked together to the apartment.-Crecopedia of Bion., p. 353.
2771. INCAPACITY, Official. Bibulus. The weather was wild. Even of transports he had but enough to carry half his army in a single trip.

With such a prosperet and with the knowlethre that if he remelem (ireererat all he would have to lamel la the immediate neightorhood of Pomparys fuomous host, surprise has beron expressed that ria, kerping his legrions togralicer. But Ciasar had won many vicoloriss by aperaring whare ho was lemst expeeterl. Ite likerl well to thesemel like n bolt out of the blat sky ; and for tha very reason that ao ordianty person wonlel unther such cireamstances lave thought af attemp. ing the passage, he detomined to try it. Lomer marches exhansted the troops. In bad wathar the comemys fleet profermed the harbors to the open sea; and perlaps he had a forther and spectial ground of contilence in knowing that the oflicer in charge nt Corfa was his old acomaintanee, Bibuhas- Bibuhas, the fool of the aristocracy, the buit of Ciocero, who bad failed in everything which he hal umblertaken, and hat been thanked by Cato for his ill suceesse's. Cu'sar knew the mon with whom he had to deal. Ila knew Pompey's incupurity; he knew IBibulus's inempacity.

2772 . INCENDIARY punished. Romuln. Affer the previons coremony of whipping, he himsilf was delivered to the thames; and in his example alone our reason is tempted to appland the: justice of retalintion.-Ginmon's loone, ch. 44, 1). 372.
2778. INCONSISTENCY of Character, I'ity. Ten a point of homor Monassem, the Mohammedan general, had sacritied a thomishing eity, two finmelred thousand lives, mal the property of millions. The smme caliph desecmed from his horse and dirtied his robe to relieve the dist ress of a decrepit old man, who, with his halen ass, had tambled into a dited. On which of these actions did he rethert with the most pleasure when he was summoned by the angel of teath: -GBbon's Rome, ch. $52, \mathrm{p}$. 320 .
2774. INCONSISTENCY, Christian, Effect. [The Emperor Julinn is known in hisiory ns "the Apostate."] The canse of his strangeaml fatal upostasy may be derived from the early period of his life, when he was left an orphan in the lands of the morderers of his fanily. The mames of Christ nnd of Constantins, the idenof slavery und of religion, were soon associated in a yeuthful imagination, which was susceptible of the most lively impressions. [Constan. tius mordered his futher amd mother and imprisonct him during his youlh. J-Gibubon's Rome, ch. © 3 , p. 410.

2775 . INCONSISTENCY, Disgraceful. Willitem Penn. [Ser No. 1842.] Then l'enn tried a gentler tome. IIe had an interview with IIough and with some of the fellows, and, ulter many professions of sympathy and friendship, began to hint at a compromise'. The king could not bear to be crossed. The college must grive way. Parker must beadmitted. Buthe was in very bial health. All his preferments would soon be vucant. "IIow should you like," said Penn," to see Doctor Ilough Bishop of Oxford ?" Penn hud passed his life in derdaming mganst a hireling ministry. He held that he was bound to refuse the payment of tithes, and this even when he had bought land chargeable with tithes, and had been allowed the value of the tithes in the purchase-money. According to his own prin. ciples, he would have committed a great sin if he hat interlered for the propgese of ohtaining a beneflere on the most honorathe terms for the most pions divine. Yet to suctr a degree had his manners been corrupted hy evil communisations, and his understanding ohsecured by inordinate zeal for a single object, that he did not sernple to become a broker in simony of a pectliarly disereditable klod, and to use a bishopric as a buit to tempt a divine to perjury.-Macaulay's Eni., el. 8, p. 275.
2776. INCONSISTENCY by Self-Interest. Samiwel Johnson. Inving defined the word pension as "pay given to a State lireling for truson to his country," he himself became a pensioner; and . . . with small hire. . . set about the task of his work-masters. in $n$ tract ealled "Traxation no Tyramy," he echoed to the crowd [the wishes of the ministry ngainst America]. Banchort's U. S., vol. 7, ch. ©4.
2777. INCREASE, Ineffective. George III. A.D. 1775. [iIe was determined to crush the opposition of the Amerienn colonies.] When he announced that a numerons body of German troops was to join the British forces, [the Duke of] Grafton [keeper of the privy seal] answered earnestly: "Your Majesty will find too late that twice the number will only inerense the disgrace, and never effect the purpose."-Banchorit's U. S., vol. 8, ch. 51.
2778. INDECIBION of Timidity. Conspirutor. [Gaston of Orlems and Count de Soissons entered into nconspirucy ugainst the life of Richelien.]. The unsuspecting minister descended the stairease surrounded by the conspirators, and at this moment his fate hung upon a thread. But Gaston's nerve failed him: he besitated to give the appointed signal ; the rest dared not strike without his orders; they separated, und the cardinal esenped.-Students' France, ch. $19, \leqslant 12$.
2779. INDECISION in Wrong-doing. James II. [The clergy had generally refinsed to read the king's anti-Protestant manifesto.] Even the king stood aglanst for a moment at the violence of the tempest which he had raised. What step was he to take next? He must either advance or recede; and it was impossible to advance without peril, or to recede without humiliation. At one moment he determined to put forth a second order, enjoining the elergy in high and angry terms to publish his dechration, and menacing every one who should be refractory with instant suspension. This order was drawn up and sent to the press, then reealled, then a second time sent to the press, then recalled a second time.Macaulay's Eng., ch. 8, p. 328.
2780. INDEPENDENCE, American. Sumuel Adams. [The governor of Massachusetts, in October. $17 \% 3$, wrote Lord Dartmonth, the colonial secretary, that Samuel Adams] wns the first person that openly and in any public assembly declared for atal independence. Knioht's Eno., vol. 6, ch. 22, p. 337.
2781. INDEPENDENCE, Childish. Young Samvel Johnson. One day when the servant who used to be sent to school to conduct him home not having come in time, be set out by himself, though he was then so nemr-sighted that he was obliged to stoop on his hands and knees to take

Hyew of the kemed before he ventured to step over it. Hisschoolmistress, afrald that he might miss his way or fall inta the kennel, or be run over by a rart, followed bim at some distance. He happened to turn about and perecive har. Feeling her careful nttention as an insult to his manliness, he ram hack to hor in a rage, and beat her ns well as his strength would permit. -Bonwela's Joinnon, p. 5.
2782. INDEPENDENCE, Deolaration of. Am. rrictun. Thans, on the 4 th ol July, was comploted what has been not unjustly termed "the most memorable public document which hilstory records."-Kiniait's Ena., vol. 6, elı. 28, p. 367.
2788. - Comgress. August 3, 1776. The members of Congress, having no army but a trunsient one, no eonferderation, no treasury, no supplies of materials of war, signed the Decharation of Independence, which hat been engrossed on parchment.-BAncrofts U. S., vol. 9, ch. 2.
2784. INDEPENDENCE defeated. Camadian. In the litter part of 1837 there wasan insurrection in Cannda. $A$ portion of the people, chissatistied with the British Government, broke out in revolt, and attempted to establish their independence. The insurgents found much sympathy and encouragement in the United States. . . . Seven hundred men [from New York] seized and fortified Navy Islund, in the Niagara River. The loyalists of Cunada nttemptel to capture the place, nod failed. They suceeeded, however, in firing the Caroline, the supply-ship of the adventurers, cut her moorings, and sent the burning vessel over Niagara Falls. . . The President [Van Buren] issued a prochamation of neutrality, forbidding interference with the affairs of Canada. The New York insurgents on Navy Island were obliged to surrender, and order was re-stored.-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 55, p. 438.
2785. INDEPENDENCE determined. Algernon Sidney. While hunting with Louis XIV. . . . in a royal park near Paris, . . . the king was so captivated by the stranger's horse that he determined to possess it, and sent a messenger to ask the owner to name the price and deliver the animal. This was the king's way of buying anything upon which he had fixed covetous eyes, and no one ever presumed to refuse him. But this Englishman, to the sur. prise of the messenger, and to the great irritation of the king, replied to the proposal that his horse was not for sitle. The haughty monarch caused a liberal price for a horse to be counted out, and sent it to the Englishman, with a positive order to accept the snme and surrender the animal. An exile from his mative land, where, at that bad time, there was no justice for such as he, where king and ministers were the paid servants of the French monarch, he seemed to have no choice but to obey. But this was a man of the heroic type. He drew n pistol, and shot the horse thongh the hend, saying: "My horse was born a free crenture, has served a frem man, and shall not be mastered by a king of slaves." There you have Algernon Sidney, the blumt, brave, noble-minded Republican, among the first of his time and country who elearly understood the rights of man and the just foundation of human government-the forerunner of our Jeffurson und Madisoni. - Cycloredia of Biog., 1. 807.
2786. INDEPENDENCE, Domestic. Warkingtom's Mother. George Washington asked her to come und live with him ut Mount Vernon. "I thank you, George," she suld, "but I prefer leing independent." And so to the hast she lived In her own plain farmhouse, und superintended the calture of her own neres, not distalning to lator with her own hands. When Lafayette visited her he foumd her at work in her garden, with her old sun-bonnet on, und she came in to see him, saying, " I wonld not puy you so poor a compliment, marguis, us to stay to change my dress."-('yClopedia of Bion., p. 11 .

27末7. INDEPENDENCE, Ministerial. Metharlists. [In 1796 I)r. Coke presided at the session of the Methodist Conference held at Baltimore ; and one of the striking featnres of this good Englishman's eharncter was, that he was inpatient of contradiction, and not wholly insensible to his own personal importance. He had on this oceasion introdtreed some proposition which seemed to some of the prenehers a little dietatorial; and one of them, an Irishmm, by the name of Nathews, . . sprung to his feet, and cried out,'" Popery $\mid$ Popery $!$ Popery "'" Dr. Coke rebnked the impulsive rudeness if Mathews. While the conference was now in a state of great suspense and agitation, Dr. Coke seized the paper containing his own resolution, and tearing it up, not in the most moderate manner, looked round upon the prenchers, and said, " Do you think yourselves equal to me ?" Nelson IReed instuntly arose, and said: " Dr. Coke has asked whether we think ourselves equal to him; I answer, Yes; we do think ourselves equal to hion, notwithstanding he was edueated at Oxford, and has been honored with the degree of Doctor of Laws; and more thin that, we think ourselves equal to Dr. Coke's king." [The doctor saw his error, and asked pardon.]-Stevens' M. E. Ciulici, vol. 2, p. 70.
2788. INDEPENDENCE, Natural. Julius Carsar Casur was now eighteen, his danghter Julin laving been lately horn. He had seen his purty ruined, his father-in-law and young Marius killed, and his nearest frients dispersed or murdered. . . . The dictator had his eye on him, and Sylla had seen something in "the youth with the loose girdle" which struck him us remarkable. Closely conneeted thongh Cresar was both with Cinna and Marius, Sylla did not wish to kill him if he could help it. There was a cool calculation in his cruelties. . . . Making a fuvor perhaps of his elemency, he proposed to Olesar to break with his liberal associntes, divorce Cinna's danghter, and take such a wife as he would himself provide. If Pompey had complied, who had made a position of his own, much more might it be expected that Cwsar wonld comply. Yet Cesar answered with a distinct and unhesitating refusal. The terrible Sylla, in the fulness of his strength, after desolating half the homes in Italy, nfter revolutionizing all lRoman society, from the peasarits cottage in the Apennines to the senate-honse itself, was detiod by a mere boy! Throughout his eareer Ciesar tisplayed always a singolar indifference to life. He had no sentimental passion about him, no Byronic mock-heroies. He had not muth hellef rither $\ln$ (iod or the gools. On all such questions he ohserved from first to !ast a profombl silence. l3it one convictlon he had. He intended, if he wns to live at all, to llve muster of himself in matters which helonged to him. self. Sylla might kill him if he so plensed. It was better to die than to put away a wife who wis the mother ol his child, and to marry some other woman at a dietntor's hidding. life on such terms was not worth keeping. - Finotne's C'enalt, ch. 8 .

27 $\mathbf{2} \boldsymbol{\sigma}$. INDEPENDENCE necessary. Archbishop Anselm. The bolelness of Anselm's nttitude not only broke the trudition of ecclesinstical servitude, but infused through the hation ut large n new spirit of indopendence. The real character of the strife appents in the primate's answer when his remonstrances agrainst the lawless exactions from the charch were met by a demand for a present on his own promotion, ind his trst offer of $£ 500$ was contemptuously rofused. "Treat me as a free man," Anselm replied, "and I devote myself mal all that I have to your service ; but if you treat me as a slave you shall have neither me nor mine." A burst of the red king's [William] fury drove the arehbishop from court, and he finally deeided to guit the comntry ; bit his example fiad not been lost, and the elose of William's reign fomnd a new spirit of freedon in England with which the grentest of the conqueror's sons was glad to make terms. IIst. of ENG. Peorie, s. 116 .

2\%80. INDEPENDENCE proclaimed. American. On the 7th of June, 1776, Jichurd IIenry Lee, of Virginin, offered aresolution in Congress decharing that the united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States; thint they are absolved from nll allegiance to the British crown ; and that all political conneetion between them and Grent Britain is and ought to be dissolved. A long and exciting delute ensued. .
On the 1st of July Lee's resolution was taken up, and at the sume time the committee's rejort was laid before Congress. On the next day the original resolution was adopted. During the $3 d$ the formal declaration was debated with great spirit. . . . The discussion was resmmed on the 4th, and at two o'elock in the afternoon of that nemorable day the Declaination of AmeitICAN INDEPENDENCE was adopted by a unani. mous vote.-Ridpatii's U. S., ch. 39, p. 309.
2791. INDEPENDENCE, Profitless. Stmuet Johnson. [The Crown bestowed on hinn a pension.] I tulked of the numerons retlections which had been thrown out against him on aeconnt of his laving accepted a pension from his present Majesty. "Why, sir," said he, with a hearty langh, "it is a mighty foolish noise that they make. I have accepted of a pension as a reward which has been thought due to my literary merit; and now that I have this pension, I am the same man in every respect that I have ever been; I retain the same principles. It is true that I cannot now curse" (smiling) " the I Ionse of Hanover ; nor wonld it be decent for me to drink King James' health in the wine that King George gives me money to pay for. But, sir, I think that the pleasure of eursing the House of IIanover and drinking King James' health are amply overhalanced by 5300 a year. "-Bos weld's Jonnson, 1. 119.
2792. LNDEPENDENCE, Religlous. ('romorell's Time. 'They helif the Preshytoritus la as great ubhorremee is those of the church of Enghand. Thry pretemded to immediato inspiration from hosivin; rejected all ereloshastical estahlish. mornts ; disdaned all rorerls amb systems of lo-lirf ; ami, dospising cever distinction of governors nad goverined, hald bll men-kligg, mobllity, and comenoms-to be upon a level of equality. ()f this seret Cromwell was onde of the rhief tivated, but very superior genius-- m man whose peculiar doxterity lay in discovering the characters and taking advintage of the weaknesses of mankind. Ite was in religion at once an enthosiast mod a hyporerite ; in jolitionl mattors, both a loveller anil a tyrunt; and in common life, cantions, smble, nind ciremmspect; at the sume time he was daring und impetions. - T'y'Tti:a's HINT., Book 6, ch. 29 , p. 406.
2798. INDIFFERENCE, Cruel, Julius Cosule. They were expreted to deromate the dity with new ormaments ami to entrrtain the people with magniticent spectacles. If they fall short of publice expectation, they werd look no further for the suffrages of their many-lamaded master.
(iswar, either wore ambitions or leses comfidout in his services, raised an new and costly row of colnmas in front of the Capitol. Ife built $n$ temple for tha Dioscori, mad he charmed the populace with a show of ghalintors umbsually exdersive. Personally he cared mothing for thesesmarnianry exhibitions, nod he displayed his indifference ostentationsly liy reading or writiog while the butchery was going forward. But he required the favor of the multitude, and then, as always, took the rond which led most directly to his end.-Fuovies's Cresalt, ill. 11.
2784. INDIFFERENCE, Roligious. Churles $I I$. Charles [II.] was a hentlless voluptuary, mal seltish in his craving for ense and plasure. Secretly a Papist, openly a scoffer, Episcopulinn, Presbyterian, or Imblemendent might harass eardi other, so that Charles wis quiet. - Knidior's Ena.,vol. 4, (h. 14, p. 934.
2795. INDIGNATION expressed. Putiots to a Tory. A.n. 1774. The people of Plymonth were grieverl that Grorge Watson, their respected townsman, was wilfing [to be it member of the Tory council appointed in Massachuspetts by Goveruor Gates]. . . On the tirst lord's day after his purpose was known, as soon as lie took his seat in mecting, his neighbors and friends put on their hats before the congregration and walked out of the honse. 'The extreme public indignity was more than he conld bear. As they passed his pew, he hid his fare ly bending his head over his cane, and detemmined to resign. Banchoft's U. S., vol. 7, ih. 8.
2796. INDIGNITY deserved. Jubu. Before he was prator he was engaged in defending Misintha, a young Namidian prince, who hitd suffered some injary from Hiempsal, the father of Juba. Jnba himself enme to Rome on the occasion, bringing with him the neans of in ' 1 encing the judges which Jugurtha had found so effective. Ciesar in his indigmotion seized Juba by the beard in court.-Frotde's Cessan, ch. 28.
2797. INDISCRETION, Destructive. Passiou. [The Emperor Valentinian drew his sword-the first sword he aver drem-ind phinged it in the breast of Ethas, the gedicral who had maverl his empire but excited his envy.] 'Therinperor was confonaded ly the honset retly of a Roman, whose approbathon he had not disdained us solirit. "L am lenornat, sir, of your motives or provocatons ; I only know that you have ueted like a man whocuts off his right hand with his lelt."-Giunow's liosie, ch. if, j. 455.

27D8. INDISCRETION, Pre-eminent. / Bishopp Burnet. Burnct was allowed by his fricmels and mimirers to be the most ollicionis amb inilisereet oft mankind; but the sagarions prince perecived that thas pashing, talkative divine, who was atways blabhing serrots, asking impertinent puestions, obtruding umaskrd adviare, was nevertheless an mpright, courngeons, and able man, welt arguninted with the temper and the views of British serets amd factoms.-Macadiay's ENGi., (cit. 7, p. 10is.
2708. INDULGENCE, ConstitutionsI. Samurl Joh unon. [Hle empuged to 1 rutislate" A Voyare to Mbyssinia" from the French into English. Ife began, amil the priater] was set to work with what was realy, and Johnson chagged to supply the press with copy us it shonlil he wanted; bit his ronstitutional indolence soon prevailed, tand the work was at a stand. Mr. Ifeetor, who knew that a motive of limmanity would be the most previling argument with his friend, went to Johnson, and represented to him that the printer could have no otheremploymont till this undertaking was tinishad, and that the poor man und his family were sulfaring. Johnson upon this exerted the powers of his mind, thongh his borly was relaxed. He lay in bed with the book, which was a puarto, before him, and dis: tated while Ilector wrote.-Boswela's Jounson, [1. 17.
2800. INDULGENCE given to Sin. Pruauce. [During the time of Charlemagne the more ordimary offences of formication and adaltery, of perjury nud suerilegr, of rupine and murder, ware expiated by a peamace, which, acoording to the varions eircomstances, was prolonged from forty days to seven years.] $\Lambda$ literal necomplishment of penance was indeed impracticnble : the guilt of adnltery was maltiplied by daily repertition ; that of honicide might involve the massacre of a whole people ; catch inct was separnteIy numbered; and in those times of amarelly and vice n modest simer might easily ineur a delt of three hundred years. Itis insolvency was relieved by a commatation, or indulgence; a year of penamee was apprecinted at twenty-six soliti of silver, aloout $£ 4$ sterling, for the rich; nt 3 solidi, or 9s., for the indigent; and thase alms wore soon itppropriated to the use of the church, which derived, from the redemption of sins, an inexhaustible source of opmlence and dominion. A delit of three limulrad years, or $£ 1200$, Wis enough to impoveris! aplentiful fortume; the searcity of gold :and silver was supplied by the alienation of land ; and the princely donations of Pepin and Charlemagne are expressty oven for the remedy of their soul. It is a maxim of the civil law that whosoever cannot pay with luis purse must pay with his body; and the practice of flagellation was adopted by the monks, a cheap though painful equivalent. By a fantastic arithmetic, a year of penance was fuxed at three thousumd lashers ; und surfle was the skill unt patienere of 11 fanous hermit, st. Dominic of the Iron Cuirass, that la six thys he could diselarge an cuthe century by a whippinge of three hamareend thonsand stripes. Ifls example was followed by many perifituts of cepted, a sturdy diveiplimurian might exphate on his own lacek the sins of his benefactors. These compernmations of the purse ame the person introdued, in the cle venth enotury, omore homornble mande of satisfactom.-Gmimon's Rome, eh. 5s, D. 51.

2mol. INDULGENCES, Cargo of. I'tuml. [In 150:3 Thomms White, of Lamion, ruptured in a Spanish verest two millions of pupal hatls for
 1. 206.

240\%. INDULGENCES, Papal. Titzel. The form of the absolution ixsued by 'letzel was as follows: "1 anowse the from all erolosiastien rensures, and from thll thy sins, how emormons socver ; athl by this phemary hadulgence I remit thee all manmer of pminhament which thon onghtest to sublier in purgatory. Abil I restore the to the satrements of the chinteh, and to that innocence nam purity which thom hulst at thy haprtisme ; so as, at death, the gates of heell shinll be shat agrainat there, and the gates of paradise shatl be laid open to recelve thee. In the mane of the Fialior, and of the son, und of the IIoly spirit. Amen." - Keith's Llist. of' Siotlenal, Introml., 1. 4. -Nore in 'TyThen's Hist., Book 6, ch. eno, p. 2!)
2803. INDULGENCES, Sale of. (herrch-buill iun. A projece had likewise been set on foot ly lis predecessor, Julius II., which Leo kecoly mopted, und which required a prodigions sum of moner to curry it into exeeution. This was the buidding of St. Peter's Clureh at Rome, a fabrie which it was intended should surpass all the magniticent struetures that hat ever been reared by the art of man. For the construction of this noble calitiee, and to supply the luxuries of his court, Leo X. hall recourse (to use an ex. pression of Voltare) to one of the keys of St. Peter, wopen the colfers of Christimes. Under the pretence of a crasale against the Turks, he instituted through all Christendom a sale of indulgences, or releases from the pains of purgatory, which a pious man might purchase for a smath sum of money either for himself or for his friends. Public oftiees were appointed for the sale of them in every town, and they were farmed or leased out to the keepers of taverns and har. nios. Their eflleacy was prochamed by all the prealhers, who maintained that the most atrocious offences arginnst religion might be expiated and forgiven ly the purehase of a remission. A Dominiem friat of the name of Tetzel, a prineipal arent in this extroordinary and most ibomimable merchundise. was wont to repent in his public orations this blasphemons assertion, "That he himself had saved more sonls from hell by these imdulgences than st. Peter had converted to Christianity by his preaching."T'volen's IItst., Book 6, ch. 20, p. 291.
250A. INDUSTRY, Education In. Samuel Johnson. At the inn where we dined the gentlewoman said that she had done her best to educate her chidenen; mad, particularly, that she had never sulfered liem to bra moment jalle. dome Nin: "I wish, malum, voll womble edienter me:

 klle." Jomsson: "Eny, madam, It is very tome; mad thent gronteman there" (pobinting to mere) "has ther sent him to (ilasgow, where ho comitimed to where he will lue as bile us exere." 1 askerl hitu privately how he rould 'xpmes mes.-Bus. while's Jeminens, f. 1?s.

ENOS. INDUSTRY, Exponition of. Timume.
 tal all the oflleress a ch chid ${ }^{\prime}$ men for a mational conneril. When nssembled! there was an exhibl. tion of all the hmbinstry, of all the arts, mat all the truales of the workd, as lar ass subjeet to the laws of the Khun. The mose "xpert urtisans displayed there the maner-worksof the fremese sions; in their shopes they arerted trophies, urelhes of tlowers to represent the vidories, wherein they showed supritior skill in the retinements of their vardons trades. The jewellers exhibited pully mibiex, gremalines, amb supphires, withan mathity of pieces of rock erystal, of coral mat of agate: A vast momphithotie was ereetelf for the ladies, in front of which played the masicimes, with all the species of monsements. 'There was also) an umplithentre assigned to all the tmales, and comaining thas a bundred compurtments.Lamantinén Tumkey, p, 30 .
2506. INDUSTRY, Happiness by. Eugliwh. [Early in the rightemth eentury] the preater momber of fashiomable women "spent their hours in un indolent state of body and mind, without "ither recerations or rettections." Stimnlants, if we may believe the censor, were sometimes resorted to: "Palestris, in her drawing. rom, is supported by spirits, to keep of the return of spleen and melancholy, before she an get over half the day, for want of something to tho; while the wench in the kitchen sings and scours from morning to night." - KNimer's ENa., vol. 5, ch. 27, p. 418.
2807. INDUSTRY misapplied. Jumestorn Colony. The kind of industry which Smith had encouraged in the colony was now hurghed at. As som as the weather wonld permit . . [the colonists] hegun to stroll about the comintry dig. ging for gold. In a bank of simel . . . some glittering purticles were found, und the whole settlement was in a haze of excitement. Martin [a member of conneil] . . in imagimation suw fimself loaded with woulth and honored with a peerage. [Another member] . . . laving filled up one of his ships with the supposed gohddust, then suiled up the Jumes River to find the Pacifie Ocema. Fourteen weeks of the precions springtime, that ought to have been given to ploughing and planting, vere consmmed in this stupid nonsense. Even the ludians ridiculed the madness of the men who for imaginary grains of gohd were wasting their chances for a crop of corn.-Rimpatir's U. S., ch. 9, p. 102.
2808. INDUSTRY, Proof of. Calloused IIands. [The persecutors of the Christians during the reigu of Trajan fomm [ the gramdsons of St. Jude the apostle, who himself was the brother of Jesus

C'lirist. Their amtami pretomions to the throne of thavid might prompentirat the resperet of the people, and exerite lla jealousy of the governor. . . W'hen they were exabilated rompernlag thedr fortane mad orerupation, they showed their Wat theyderiverl their whole sulisintence frome the sterlhig. 'The gromdenion of' sit. dude were dis.

 mon's Rombi, ch. lif, j! :
 [Tha law at A masis ordalued every ladivaluad

 A cupitnl punishonent, it is said, whe derereod ugninst the person who conld not show that ho procared it hy honest membs. Wre shall observe 4 similar trentment of the Athenitur reponblis.

2N10. INDUSTRY saorifioed to Pride. (\%orlos f. [l)uring the rejen of ('harlas ]. ] ull shons in ('heapsdde mad lamburd Strent, exerpe those of the goddemiths, ware comimatided to be slint up, that the greut avemue to the cathedral might mot exhibit any trace ol valgar indastrios, and that when formigners weat to see the Sard Mayor's procession, they might mot be offomeded by hitels-
 vol. 3, ch. 2th, p. 42, 2811. INDUSTRY, standard of, Le cthern Apron. [While Timour, the eonapering Turtar, inviting whole populations to his gigmutic huntiag parties, those immges of the plensimes of Tartary, Ispmann, ocoupled by the viar gamal of his urny, arose nt the drum summe of a pal riotic: blucksmith, whon lanisted as a standurd his lentl-30to 'Turtars, und delivered the rity from their

2812. INDUSTRY, Virtue by. Corrortiof. It was reported by llamibal that, in order to preserve lis troops from the dangerous temptations of inloness, he had obliged thein to form large plantations of olive trees nowing the const of Afría. Froma a similar prineiple, Probms exerrised his lerions in covering with rich vineraris the hills of G:anl and Pambonin, ume tworonsiaterable spots are describad, which wore cotirely dug und planted by military lahor. . . One of these :. . by converting into tillage a birge and umbenithy tract of marslig gromud. . . An army thise employed romstitnted perhaps the most naseful us vell as the bravest portion of Remam subjects.-(Gumun's IROME, ch. 1\%, p. 385.
 treat. [At the beginming of the rivil wat the Purliamont's troops wore defeated in a skimmish nt Worcester. $A$ witness suys :] "The liantentant commanded his to whed abont ; but our fentlomen, not yet well miderstanding the difference between wherling about mmel shifting for themselves, their backs leing townrd the enemy whom they now thonght to be close in the rear, retired to the army in a very dishonomble man-ner."-Knigit's" LnG., vol. 4, ch. 1, p. 3.

SWIA. INEXPERIENCE, Prosumption of. Fomth. Fimllins luvhig fohned Nustrn, lmarehed in good order agatust liw. Vuedonhtus. IBut When he waw the dixposition und number of their foreren he was ustomishad, Hul stomel will to consdeler what was proper to be dome. Jomenpora the young ollleres, cager for the ringugroment, and pmrilouhtary Nushen, Huslued with him muceress it Monnt (Ofinphas, pressed ilp to him, alld begged of hinis to lemel them forward withond dolay. A'milins omby smiled and satd, "My frlemel, il I Wan of gomr ago I should reviablaly do so; lout the many viotorles 1 liuve gndaed liave made mes ohmorve the errors of the valiculsheal, and lorbid mo lo give lmotle lmmodintely aftor a mareh lo at urayy well drawn Hp, and cerry winy pre.

DW15. INEXPERIETCE romoved. I!!/ I, INM. "Vure yon ver la a buttle ${ }^{\circ}$ " usked the I'rimer of ('unde of the young l)uks of (Xloneester, son of Churlex I., who limi joined himens a volumterer [to (onghge in the batle of "the l)owns," hefore Dinkirk!. The prinee unswered in the nognther. "Wall." miturned ('onde, irrituted by the luraparaty and olstinary of the spanimeds, "in The conrse of half un hour yon will sere has lose oure." His words were fully veritled ; tha Sipanish urmy was totally overtlirown, and disperted in all dhectioms.-Stomente' Fins(es, ch. :20, $\stackrel{y}{8} 10$.

2NE (6. INFAMY posthumous. Rem"t" E'mperor Commotios. [ $\backslash$ fter his unsussinution thre] membory of Commodns was lormaded with ctormal infanys. The mames of tyman of ghaliator, of publie cnomy, resomaded in arery cormer of the homse. They decreed in tumaltumas votes that his homors shoulal be reversed, his litles erased from the publir: monmments, his staturs thrown down, his hody drurged witl a loook into the stripping-roon of the glatiators, to satiate the pablice fury; and they exprossad mome indiguntionngainst lhose otlicionas servinats who hat ntrendy presumed to screren his remains from the justice of the scmutr.-(iflomon's Rome, rh. 1, 1). 118.

20凶17. INFAMY, Stain of. Frewrlitmrn. Imdiatha. 'The Imericmas were sumblethly nssailed by . . . 1005 british and ladians nider (onthmand of Gencral Proctor. $I$ sevare lattle was fomght. . . Gencral Winclacster having beron taken by the curmis, advised his fomers 10 enpitulate malor a plodere of protertion given hy Proctor mat his mbordimutes. Assomen asthersirrathlar was math the lbeitish general went off at a rapid rate to relura to Madden. 'Jhe Aurrioan womblad ware lalt to the mererg of the serveles, who at once began their work wibh tomalanwk nud scapping kinife und torch. The two houses into which most of the wommerd hat bern crowded were lired, while the painted burburinns stood around them and bimbled batk into the flumes whoever attempered to esconpe. The rest of the prisoners were dragired away, throngh untold sufferings, to Detroit. . . This shameful come paign has fixed on the name of Proctor the indelible stain of infumy.-lRidnatu's U. S., ed. 50, p. 400.
2818. INFANTS in Heaven. Siredenborg. As soon as jufants are rased from the dearl, whir! takes place immediately after deconse, they aw carried up into heaven, und delivered to the care of angels of the female sex, who in the life of the borly loved lufints temderly, and at tho sime thme loved dad. By thase gooblamels they are edoseated and bromght ip natll they ut tain an sulable age, when they are transterrid to other tenchers. They grow up nod become young mon and women; are lantructed in whe domand trataed In the datios of the henventy life: and when thele character is fally devel. oped they become sothed in some noedoty, rither of the cilesthat or aphritmal klagelom, in agreer ment with their inherited penhas or disposition. -Whitein Swboenmen, ch. 13, p. $11 \%$.
2W18. INFATUATION, Dentruotivo. Nem.
 bime, the wife of his friend otho, and one of the most cruel and cold-blonded latrigners amid the abmadoned society of Roman matrons. Noro was larelly smitten with her infantlo fentures, the soft complexton, which was preserved by daily lmathing in warm asses' milk, her assmmed modesty, lur genial remiversation and aprightly wit. was expecially emehanted with her soft, anamant hair, the civy of Roman beantes, for whieh be invented the fantustie, and to Roman writers the supmemely hadiorons, epithet of "wmher tresses." D'rom the day that he first saw Poppard a hemdong deteriomation is traceable in his character. She establishod a complete intluence over him, aml drove him by her tannts and allurements to that crime which, evell nmong his many anormities, is the most damning bot "pon his charactor-the murder of his mother. She livent in dally dreme of assassinntion. IIer watehfulterss evided all attempts at poisoning, and sha was partly proterted against them hy the curreut lletion that she had fortified herself by the use of mutidotes. Plots to murder her by the apparently acecidental fall of the fretted roof inone of the chambers of her villa were frustrated by the warning which she received from her spies. At hast Anicetus, 11 freciman, admiral of the the at Misenum, promised Nero to secure her con inan unsuspicious manner by means of a ship which should suddenly fall to picees in mid-seat. Nero invited hor to it hunquet at Baiae, which was to be the sign of their public reconciliation. Declining, however, to sail in the pinnace which had been surreptitiously fitted hip for her use, she was carried to hor son's villa in hor own litlor. [The weighted canopy was made to fall, but she escapedf] . . bolts were withdri, wn, and the ship fell to pieces, but she swam ushore, nad was soonafterward assassimated.-Fablean's Eamiy Days, p. 2t.
2820. INFATUATION of Pride. James $I I$. James was bent on ruining himself, and every attempt to stop him only made hint rush more eagerly to his doom. When his throne was secure, when his people were sulmassive, when the most olsequious of Parlimments was aquer to anticipate all his remsomable wishes, when forcign kingdoms and commonwealths pid emulons court to him, when it depended only on himself whether he would be the arbiter of Christendom, he had stooped to be the slave and the lireling of France. And now when, by a series of crimes and follies, he had suceceded in alienating his neighbors, his sulijects, his soldiers, his stilors, his children, and had left him-and nor refnge but the protectlon of France, hee was laken with a tit of prhde, and determined to assert his indepondence. That help which. when he elld ben want it, he hal areepted with Guomilnious tears, he mow, when it was indis. pensable to him, threw contempthonsly away. Haviug been alijeret when he might, with proprety, have teren panctilions in maintnining hife dignity, he became ungratefully langhty at a moment when haghtheres mast bring on him at ane ederision and rain. Ile ressented the friemaly intervention which might have saved hitu. Wan "wor king so used? Was he at chlled, or midiot, that others most think for him?-Nacautay's Eiva. (ll. 9, 1. 416.
&nill. INFECTION feared. Pint ficlet. On the cant was a theld not to be pmssed withont a shadler hy any Lamboner of that age. Theres, ans la a phace far from the humes of mem, land been dug, twouty yars bofore, when the eremt phane was raghag, a pit into which the denderarts hat nighty shot corpses hy scores. It was pepmarly believed that the carth was derply tuinted wilh Infecthon, mad could not be disturbed withont imminent risk to haman life. No fomindions were latid there till two generations had pmsed without any return of the pestilemere, and till the ghastly spot had long leedi surrounded with huidingg.-Magaulay's Eivo., (ll. 3, p. 13:3.
 One fuct reoorded by sirabo affordsa vory striking preof of the great lignorance of the ancients with respect to the sithation evern of those kingdoms with which they had intereourse. When Aldxamaler the Great marehed along the banks of the Itydnspes and Acesima, two rivers which fall into the lalus, he olserved that there were many crocodiles in those rivers, und that the comatry produced heans of the same sperits with those which were common in Egypt. From these cireomstances he concluded that he hat discovered the somrce of the Nile, and prepared a fleet to sail down the Ityduspes into Egypt. -T'Y'i.EIt's Itist., Book 6, ch. 17, !. 2ifi.
2823. INFIDELITY, Dishonest. S 1 (mulul, Ithnson. I told him that a foreign friend of his, whom I bud net with abrome, was se wretchedly perverted to indidelity that he treated the hopers of immortulity with brutnl levity, min said, "As mun dies like " dog, let him live like ndog." Jomnoon: "If he dies like a doge the him lie like a dog." I added that this man said to me, "I hate mankind, tor I think myself one of the hest of them, and I know how hidid Imm." Itomssos : "Sir, he must be very singular in his opinion if he thinks himself one of the best of men, for none of his friends thank hins so." Ile sata, "No honest mam could be at Deist, for no man conla be so after a fair cexamination of the proofs of Christianity." I mamed Ilume. Jomison: "No, sir: llume owned ton clergyman in the hishoprie of Jurham that he hat never read the New Testament with nttention." - Boswela's lounson, p. 141.
2821. INFIDELITY, Escape from. Be 1 jutmin Franktin. The son of a rigid Calvinist, the grandson of a tolerant Quaker. . . . seeptical of tradition as the basis of faith, he respected reason rather than authority, and after a momentary lapse into fatalism, escaping from the mazes of dixed deerees and free will, he grained with incrousing yonra nin incrovaing truat la the wome " of all the rolligions" lit the colombers hu

 fore: when philowophy loceverol lound sulames.

 works werg willen la rolrement, but ho was lug ils rays. Ilo was lis idol, mind conitiol its hlohatry. . 'l'lee compherent vourtler of sow.

 wat for sumbes ut the toillot of the Fremelh khag's the Nomirnmia of the nomtl: willlag to what his "yos ont the sarrows of the massers, If the great would but lisor inen of lelteras. . . He praised ruled the worlit by his villowe : Whent the líronell klag look al prostlolle for a mistross,

2*28. INFIDELITY, Metaphysioal. l'murtuinl. Athelsm is u folly of the metnpliynieinn, not the folly of hammat motire. Of Navnge Ilfe, Rager Willinms derehred that he had nevor lound one matlve Ameriomin who dended therestance al God; ln rlvllizel life, when it was suid of the court or Froderick that the place uf king's utheist was vinenut, the plle was fiolt nes the mast biting sarcism. Inthlelity grins the viotury when she wrestles with liypurrisy or with suprerstition, but inver whan its matngronist

2027. INFIDELITY, Peril of, simmmel John. son. IInme und other scoptiend inmovators nre vinin men, und will gratily themselves at may expease. Truth will not inford sufllecient food to their vanity, so they lanve betnken themselves to error. Truth, sir, is a cow whicle will yleld such prople mo more milk, nuil so they are gone to milk the bull. If I conlal have mllowed my* soll to gratify my vanity at the expense of truth, what finme might I lave arquired! Everything which IIume has mivanced ughonst Christimnity land passed throngh my mind long before lie wrote. Alwnys remember this, thit ufter in sysfem is well settled mon positive evidence, $n$ few purtini objections ourht mot to shake it. Tho lmman mind is so limited thant it rammot take. in all the parts of a sishject, wo that there may be objoctions raised ngninst mything. There are oljowtions agninst aplentw, nom objoct ions ugainst a retcumb; yet one of them must certhinly le truc. - Busweli's Jounson, p. 123.
2898. INFIDELITY, Secret of. Samuel, Johmmon. [T'0 Genorn] Paoli.] The gomernl asked hin what he thought of the spirit of inflidelity which was wo provalome. Jouncon: "Sir, thís Eloom of intidelity, I hope, is only a trmasiont rloud phssing through the hemisphere, which will somb be dissiphted, and the sun break fortli with lis usual splendor." "You think, then," mad the genoral, "that they will clange their principleslike their clothes." Jomsaon: "Why, sir, if they bestow no more thomight on prineiples than on dress, it must be so," The general thiclity wan owlige to a denire of mbowing rour.

 finturity us abjorts 1 wh whili to divplity It.

 her that the limpurar ('hurlen V', whels he reat "pern the tombentom of " Apmivi mohlominn, 'Hore llew eme who mever knew fone,' wittily mall. "Thern lie severe manifed a emadle with hít arlonsly fin the work of dosituetlon, itivididitity the paist, yet mamble to eonstruct the fintare. for gomel goveromaint la mot the creathon of nerep:

 rulas inte leer dellght: leer lespalr may atim ulate to vohuthomasmess mat revernge; she mever kladled with the dininterevted love of man. -

2*SBO. INFIDELITY, Weakness of. Síjwolern 1. A whole komernthon lund krown if in Franco withent any knowledge ot ('larlstianity. Cor-
 'Theonhilanthropists, who ghamed as the Inals of theitr nystem somse of the mornl preerepte of' tha guspert, divasted of the sublime sanctions of C'latisThaity, [Nupoleonsmill of them:] . . . "'they
 ors. . . Thr gaspel nlone has cixhilited a complate assemblage of the prinejples of mombity divested of all ulosurdity.

Do you wisla io mee that whleh is really sublime: "Rojent tha lard'a Pruyer. Sucll chahusinsts nre ouly to be

 son. Dr, Admms had distingulabed himsolf by nn inble maswer to Invid Ilame's "Essny on Mirneles." He todd me he hal once dined in compuny with Hume in Loudion; that Ilame shook hander $v$ ' him, und suid, "You lave trented me mucas tetter thmn I deserve:" nind that they exelnanged visits. l took the liberty to object to trenting an inflidel writer with smooth civility. Whare there is a controversy comcerning a pas. sage in a classic nathor, or concerning n fuestlon in untiguities, or nuy other subjeet in which human hapjiness is not dopliy interested, a man maty trent his antagonist willi politeness mad even respect ; but whare the rontroversy is concerning the truth of religion, it is of such vast importunce to him who manintins it to olbtnin the vjetory, that the jerson of an opponent ought not to be spared. If it nun firmly brlieves that religion is un invalmalde trensure, he will consider n writre who endenvors to dejrive mankind of it as a robber; he will look upon him ns odious, though the infidel might think himself in the right. An mbundoned proflignte may think that it is not wrong to debanch my wile: but slanli 1 , therefore, not detest him? mul if I eatch himin mak. ing an attennt, slall I trent him with politeness? No, I will kick him down-stairs, or run him through the body-that is, if I renily love my wife, or lave a trae rational notion of honor. An intidel, then, shall not be tremted hamdsomely by a Christian merely becnuse he endeavors ull the rlans. ('umerom of Cor-hild was rlouht ful. Itre was told: " "If this prinere onere meta has syom uson yon he will makr youl do whatever liw plouses."' 'The result verithed ther remark.
 1. 枵?

amish. $\qquad$ Ni,judren I. Incradlhlena It may nipear, Napmiden, while thus delaming thenin [ha soms of Churlom IV., king of Nomin, crombing over thelr mials, that they brepmul his warm admitrers and fremis. They exulted in his Illomimalons and homitres. Nothlag in Napoloon's whole curver more strikingly than this Nabobion 13., wol. : all. 1.

 was to Napoleon a lerily of ten homsand horsemen, ever rembly for a ressishlose charge; Lammes was a phalanx of lifuntry, bristling whin lay youta which nediber artilery nor colvintry comblat bit tor down: Angeromin wis an memed columin, invinellole, black, denar, masyy, impelloons, resistloss, moving with glgantie trend wherever the tiager of the conguror pointel. These were but themembers of Nupoleon's honly-the limbe ohedient to the mighty moul that swayed them.Ahbort's Napoldon 13., vol. 1, ch. 14.
28825. - William lift. A privnte mun in Enghand, in ruddle Ifie, with no forlume, with no purty, with nostrong family romareions, having fuw votes mader his sway in the llonsiof Commons, nud perlaps not one in the Itonse of Lords-a forble valetudimarian, shonning plensure nal soreinty, hunghty mul retired, und half his time disubled by the ngonies of hereditary gout, was now the honge of the English world [when the Whig aristocracy hand failed to conginer Camila].-Banelonft'm U. S., vol. 4, cli. 11.

2ws36. -- George Wishingtom. So powerfal were the President's views in determining the actions of the peophe, that Jeffersom, writing to Monroe at Parls, said: "Congruss lus miljourneal. You will see by their proceedlags the trath of what I nlways told youmamely, that one man outweighs them inl in inlluene over the perople, who support his julgment mganst their nwn gat that of their representatives. Rapublionnism resigus the vessel to its pilot."-lRampatirn U. S., ch, 46, p. 371 .

288:37. - Inlius (insar. [llis soldiers had been styide "brothers in mans." In consequence of matinous condurt he called them "quirites"-phin citizens.] The familiar word wis now no longer heard from him. "You saty well, gnirites," he answered; "yon have hahored hard, and you have suffered mulh; you desire your discharg-you have it. I discharge yon who are present. I discharge all who have served the time. You shant have your recompense. It shall never be said of me that I made vere of you when I waw In dunger, amil was nugratefal loy yout whellow pril was pmat."
 munt leghomarios, promil of their mehorvoments, nual ghorylug in the ir prent rommaniler, hit the familhar form und vopere, the .ards, every sintenere of which they knew that he memni. rot the'm to the lavirt. "They were humbled. they begeed to bre forgiven. 'Thery mathl thay woild go whh him to A fricn, in to the worli'm UNABN. INFLUENCE, Ponthumous. I'mint/an. tiar'. If ('onstantine rerkoned amonig the favors of fortume the denth of hise cildest soms, of his uninterripted llow of privnte an wall ins puhbili. fellolly lifl the thirtleth year of his rign-a Augistus, had herin brimitted to relebatate.

 ton menths: und it the mature ngin of sixty four.
 Hfe. . . in the sulmotos of Nicomedin, whither he t.and redirel for the hermelte of the nir, and whith the hope of rerruling his exlansted strempth hy the use of the warm lathes. The exeresive ilanionstrations of grlef, or al lanst of monruing, surpusmed whatever lual laren practised on miy former ocrasion. Notwlthstanding the rhins corpses of the deromed compror, werording to his hast recpuest, whes transported to the etty whinh was destined to pronerve the amme mil mernory of its fomber. The turly of c'onstuntiase, mborned whth the vatin symbels of gremt. ness-the parple and dinderm-was depositad on a golden bed in one of the apartments of the palace, which for thit purpose hand loren spicondidly furnisherl und illumbuted. 'The forms of the court were strictly maintained. Every day, at the appointed lootrs, the principul oflleers of the state, the army, and the homseloold, uppromehing the person of their soverelgn with bembed knees nal a composed conntemance. offored hacir respectful homage as surionsly as if he lud been still ulive. From motives of policy this theatrical representation was for some time continued; nor could dhatery neglect the opportunity of remarking that Constantine alome, by the prentiar induigence of Henven, hand reigucil after his denth.-Gimmen's Rome, ch. 18, p. 173.
28:39. - - Napmiteon I. [Nupoleon hum repuested hat after his denth his body shond be buried in France. It was denied." 'The aristorruts of Europe feared Napoleon even in his grave. The governor could not consemt, not withastanding the most affecting supplications on the purt of Madame Bertrant, to alow even the stomachand henrt to be removed. - Anbot't's Naporeon B., vol. 2, ch, 34.
2840.
fter the sultu's downeldin. Some years callem plowd in the wrety oppressed subjeet Noureddin, Nourcddin, where nrt thou now? Arise, arise, to pity and protect us !" A tumult wis apprehemed, and it living tyrunt blushed or trembled at the name of alepmited monareb. -Gmion's Rome, ch. 50, p. 17.

2禺11．INFLUENCE sacrificed，Jwmes II．［Roy al progress through linghand．］On the ronid the royal train was joinced by two courtioms whos in temper and opinions diflered widely from earh other．［William］Pemn was nt CHester on 4 pastoml terme．IVis pombarity und anthor－ ity among his brethren had erratiy derelined since he had berome $n$ tool of the king and of the desuits．Ile was，howeror，most aracionsly received by James，who even rondescended ta for to the（Quaker moeding．and to listen with clecency to lis friend＇s molodions edopuenco． Tyreonmed ind crossed the seas from Dublin to grive an arcount of his administrmion．－M． CALBAY＇s ENG．，（h． $\mathrm{K}, \mathrm{p}$ ．2\％．

2未．12．INFLUENCE，Strange．C＇atherine Sid－ ley．［Mistress of James II．］Persound charms she halnome，with the exceprion ol twolnilliant eyes，the listre of which，tw men of clelieate taste，sermed ticerer and unfeminine． 1 frr form was lean，lece comatemance hargard．Chatres， thongh he liked hor comversition，hathed nt her merliness，and sild thet the pricest must have refommended lar fo his brother by wry at pess－ mase．．．．Catherine hersedf was astonished at the violemee of his passion．＂It annot be my heanty，＂she said，＂for he mast sed that I have none ；and it comnot be my wit，for he has not cuomgh to know that I have anyy．＂－Macactay＇s ENa．，（h．6，p，63．

28．13．INFORMATION，Importance of Bluch： Ilourk．The troops of Gencral Atkinson wagred a vigorous campaign against the Indians，
and made Black liawk aprisoner．Thes ribtive chicftain was taten to Washington and the great dities of the east，where his understand－ ing was opened as to the power of the nation agranst whirh he had buen foonsh enongh to lift his hatchet．Refurning to his own people， ne advised th．sm that resistanoبe was hopeless． The warriors then abondoned the disputed lands， and retired into Iowa．－Ridpatie＇s E．S．，ch． 44，p． 430.

28：A．INFORM．：ION，Pleasing．Abraham Tincoln．When the telegram from Cumberdand Gap reached Mr．Lincoln that＂firing was henrd in the dircetion of Knoxville，＂le remark－ ed that he was＂ghad of it．＂Some person pres－ ent ；．．could not see rhy．．．＂Why，you see，＂responded the President，＂it reminds me of Mistress Sallie Ward，a neigabor of mine， who had a very large family．Oceasionally one of her numerous progeny would be heard crying in some out－of the way place，upon which Has． Ward would exclam，＂There＇s one of my ehil－ dien that isin＇t dead！＇，＂－Raymond＇s Liveonin， 1． 5 ．

28．15．INFORMERS rejected．Romum Emplo－ ror Vespasian．Vespasian wis mmong those few princes whose character has changed for tho better on their arrival at empire．Augustas， from a，vicions and eruel man，berame，if not a virtuoses，in many meseets：madmirable，prince． Vespasion had ingratiated himsedf hy the most servibe flatery with Caligula and Clambins，and ratised himself ly degrees from the meanest sta－ tion to rak and distinetion．tlis character before lee cane to the empire was at the best ath equiveral one ；but no sooner did le momat the throne than hat thesesubpicions were at once shown to be unfounded．Ne grive a geueral bardon to all who lad bera fombl in arms arainst him．We atlowed every ritizen，pro－ vided he spoke only of his own grievinoes，to lunve frece acoess to his person，but declared war against that ile ruce of pensioned informors which hud mu．ipliad so excerdingly during the preceding reign，－－TצTuEル＇s IIsT．，book 5 ，ch． $1, \mathrm{p} .491$.

48．16．INGENUITY vs，Difficulties，Augusthe． ［＇Trunspu：ing Lirypian obelisks to Rome．］ Those immense masses，consisting of one entire black of granite．wore hewn la the gumries of Epper Eigypt，whence they ware eomvered by wher to the phace where they were to be dreeted． Thereontrivance for transporting them is（lescrib）． a d ly Pliny，and is erpually simple and ingrenions． The Nile runs nein to the hase of those monn－ tains where the fharrios we sithated．A canai was cut from the river to the spot where the ohelisk lay，and made to pise muder it，so ns to leave the stone supported ly its two extremilies resting on aither lank oi the canth．Wwo brond boats ware then loaded with a great weight of stomes，so as to sink flom so doop in the water an to nllow them to pass fridy nuder the obe－ lisk；when immodiately maliar it．the stones were thrown out ；the boats，of consequence ［raised und lifted the obelisks］．－TY＇TLER＇s lis＇r．，Book 1，（h．4，1．3！．

28．t7．INGENUITY，Practical．Benj．Frant－ lin．When the sedentitic workd began to inves－ tigate the wonders of clectricity，Franklin ex－ relled atl observers．．．．In the summer of 1750. going out into the flelds，with no instrument but it kite，no companion but his son，he es rablished his theory by obthining a line of con－ nection with a thumber－ctomd．For did he ecase until he had mude the lightning a household pastime，taught his family to atoln the subtile fluid in its inconceivably rapid leips between the eurth and the sky，and eompelled it to give warning of its passuge by the harmless ringing of belts．－Bancroft＇s U．S．，vol．3，ch．23．

2\＆48．INGENUITY of Savages．Hatchets． The Nortl Americam Indimns，having no iron， use stone hatchets in cutting down the largest trees．They found，says Charlevoix，in his＂Trav－ bis in Canada，＂a very hart and tough species of tlint，which hy great labor they shampened for the head of the instrument．The difticulty lay in fustening it to the handie．They cut off the lop of a young tree，and making a transverse slit，insert the stone into the opening．The parts of the tree growing together close so firmly upon the stone that it is impossible to move it．Then they ent the tree of such length as they judge sufiteient for the handle．－TyTlere＇s IIst．，Book 7，ch．3，p． 31.

2des．INGENUITY，Success by．Columbus．On the 13 th of September，．．about two handreal leagnes from the iskand of Ferro，Columbus for the dirst time noticed the variation of the needle， at phenomenon which hitd never before been re－ marked．LIe perceived about nightfall that the necde，instequl of pointing to the north star． varied about hatf a point，or between tive and six degrees，to the mortli－west，and still more on the following morming．

The variation in－ ereased as he idvanced．［li was feared they were entering another world，and the compass would lose its virtues．］Columbus tasked his science and ingenaty for reanoms with which to nlay their terror. He observed that the direction of the needle was not to the polar star, lint to some thxed and invisible point. 'The variation, therefore, was mot cansed by any fallary in the compass, but by the movement of the north star itsolf, which, like the other henventy boolies, luad its ehanges and rovolutions, uml every day deseribed is cirele round the pole. The highopinfon which the pilots entertained of Colmmbus as a profomme nstronomer gave weight to this theory, ame their alarm sabsided. - Invisa's

2850. INGRATE, Cowardl\%, Rityn of shemes II. [James lurton had leene ringured in the Rye llonse Plot, but aseriped by ihe aid of an nged Chrintan mamed Elizaboth Gamont. Ite lad rebelled umber the Duka of Nommonth, and thed to the home of a poor harber nomed John Fembey. I Ie knew that a reward of élot) had been offered by the govermment for the apprehension of burton; but tha honest man was in(apable of betraying one who, in extreme pe-il, hat come under the shadow of his root. The mger of James was more strongly excited agrainst those who harhored rebels than agninst the rebels themselves. He had publicly decelared that, of all forms of treason, the hiding of traitors from his vengrance was the most unpardonable. Burton knew this. He delivered himself up to the governmont, mal he grave information agninst Fernley amd Elizabeth Gannt. They were brought to trial. The vilhin whose life they had preserved had the heart and the forehend io appear ats the principhe witness agninst them. They were convicted. Fernley was sentenced tos the grallows, Elizabeth Gamit to the stake. Macalday's Einu., ch. 5, p. 615.
2851. INGRATITUDE, Base. Richeliell. Louis XIII. owerl all his sucecess for eiginteen years to the womberfal genins of Richelien; when that most noted statesman of his day died, his coldheartul remark was simply this, "There is a gratt politician gone!"-Students' Fuance, ch. 19 , 17.
2852. - Brutus. What Brutus is chietly blamed for was his ingratitude to Cusar. He owed his life to his finvor, as well is the lives of those prisoners for whom he interceded. Ife was treated as his friend, and distinguished with partienlar marks of honor ; and yet lie imbrned his hands in the blood of his bemefactor. - Plat: Tanch's Breutus.
2953. INGRATITUDE, Filisl. Sons of Meury $I T$. Prince II enry [eigintern yenors old], at the instigation, it is believed, of his futher-in-law [Lonis of Franee] set up a pretension to divide the royal power with his father, and demmaded that the king shonld resign to him either England or Normandy. In the same spirit Richard, the boy of tiftem, clamed dipuitaine, because he had performed homatre to Louis for that duchy ; and the other boy of fourteen, Geotirey, claimed the immerliate possession of Brittany. The rebellious sons thed from the connt of their futher to the French king, and their mother soon fol-lowed.-KNuat's ENa., vol. 1, ch. ¿1, p. 299.
2854. INGRATITUDE, Official. Jumris $I I$. [The Rominn Catholic king somght to overthrow the Angrican Chareh by illegal and violent momins.] There was no prebendary, no rector, no virar whose mind was not hanted by the thonghts that, however guitet his tomper, however ohscare his sithation, he might, in at fow. months, be driven from his dwellinir by an arbitrary edide, to beg in a ragered cossook :vith his wile und children, while his freehold, seromed to lim by laws of immemorial matiquity und by the roynd word, was ocempied by some aposiate. This, then, was the reward of that heroieloyalty nevar once fouml wanting through the vic:issituder of fifiy tempestuons yours. It was for this that the clereg had endined spolintion und persecotion in the canse of charles I. lt was for this that they hatlsupported Charlos II. in his hard contest with the Whig opposition. It was for this that they had stool in the front of the battle ngininst those whosomght to dospoil James of his birthrierht. To their tidelity alone their oppressor owed the power which he whs now employing to their rum. - Mactatray's ENG., ch. 8, p. $9 \times 1$.
285.5. INGRATITUDE, Political. (ivecill 1)P. mocrucy. Ejuminomids mud lelopidas, on thejr return to 'lobles, were uecessed of having retainad their eommand fome montlis heyond their commissions while engaged in the Prepomesian expedition. This. on tha sperions pretext of is strict regard to militury duty, Was adjurdged to be ateapital offence, and the peopse wereon the joint of condemming to death those men who had not only resened their country from servitude, but raised the Theban name to the highest pitch of glory. Epaminondus madertook to defend the conduct of Pelopidas by taking the whole blame upon himself. "I was," suid he, "the anthor of those measures for which we stand here atecused. I had indulged a hope that the sigmal sueress which, moler our eonduct, has attended the Thebun arms would have entitled us 10 the gratifude and not to the consinte of our conintry. Well! let posterity, then, be informed of our crimes and of our punishment ; let it be known that Epaminomdas led your troops into the heart of Laconia, which no hostile powir till then hat ever penetrated; that his crime was that he abased the grory of Sparta, and brought her to the brink of ruin ; that he mule Thebes the most ilhastrions of the Grecian Shates; let it be inscribed on his tomb that death was the reward which his eountry decreed for these services." The Thebans were ashmmed of thoir own conduct; the judges dismissed the eharge, and the people atoned for their ingratitnde by the strongest expressions of praise and admiration.-TYTLER'S IIINT., Book 2, ch. 3, 1. 165.
2856. - - Atheniares. [When Themistocles, the distinguished Athenian general, was yommgh his father, to dissmale him from anceptingr any public employment, showed him some old malleys that lay worn ont and neglected on the sotashore, just as the populate newrect their laders when they have no further service for them. Pharinech's Themistoches.
2457. INGRATITUDE, Shameful. Fintucis Bitfon. [la 1601, on the trial of the Earl of lissiex for rebellion, Jraneis Bacon was one ot the fueenis eounsed employed agrainst him.] Ito was boumd to Fssex by a common ohligations. The gencrous earl had griven him an estate, becanse be could not procine for him a lucrative appointment. Bisex had strugrgled agranst the ill-will of the Cerils toadvance bacon's formans. in semson und ont of semson. Yet upon the trind Bucon suid stronger things against his friend than were urged by his bitterest adversaries. [ He made the severess comparisons, which nwakemed a general indigmation. He afterward wrote an "Apology" of his comdurt on this triml.] Knicut's Eina., vol. 3, ch. 18, p. 289.
2858. INHERITANCE, Household-goods. Fingland. Common utensils were transmitted from generation to gencration. . . . John Buret, of Bury, in 1403 bequenths to his niere great earthen pot that was my mother's." 'Wives had a life interest in "stinlf of househoid," which was bequenthed to deserend, after the deceme of the wife, article by article, to relatives und friends. 'The riches so handed down are such as pottle pot and a guart pot, a pair of tongs and a pair of bellows. Roger Rokewoode bequeathes to his son leobert . . a brass pot, 1 Wo brass pans, six pewter dishes, form sancers, and three platters of 1 ewter, " feather bed, a pair of shects, and a pair of bankets.

The delieieney of household comfort is sullicientIy shown by such minute descriptions of old and memn chattels, of little value now, bat then estimated in proportion to their searcity. Kxiomest Evti, vol. 2, (h. \%, p. 120.

2We.9. INHUMANITY, Commercial. Cuto. One of his sayings has cxposed him to just censure"A master of a family should sell off his old oxen, and all his eattle that are of a delicate frame, ull his sheep that are not hardy; he shoukd sell his old wagons, and his old implements; he shoneld sell sueh of his slaves as are old and infirm, and everything else that is old and useless." -Cyclopedid of Biog., p. 422.
2860. INHUMANITY of Man. E'uglish A/mes. tors. Our English ancestors were less humane than their posterity: The disejpline of workshops, of schools, of private families, though not more efficient than at present, was infinitely harsher. Masters well horn and bred were in the habit of beating their servants. Pedagogues knew no way of imparting knowledre lut by beating their pupils. Insbands of decent station were not ashamed to beat their wives. The umplacability of hostile factions was such as we can scarcely conceive. Whigs were disposed to murmur because Strafford was suffered to die without secing his bowels burned before his face. Tories reviled and insulted Russell us his coteh passed from the Tower to the scaffold in Lincoln's Fieds. As litte merey was shown by the populace to sufferers of a humbler rank. If an offender was put into the pillory, it was well if he escaped with life from the shower of brickbats and paving-stonses. If he was tied to the cart's tail, the crowd pressed round him, imploring the hangman to give it the fellow well, and make him lowl. (ientlomen arranged parties of plensure to Bridewell on court days for the purpose of seeing the wreteled women who beat hemp there whipped. A man pressed to death for refising to plead, a woman barned for coining, excited less sympathy tham is now felt form galled horse or an over-drivenox. Fights, compared with which a boxing mateh is a refinctiand humane spectacle, were among the favorite diversions of a large part of the town. Multitudes nssembled to sree ghadiators hack each other to pieces with drudly wempons, and shounci with delight when one of the eombatants lost a finger of an rye.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 8, p. 304.

2w61. --. Spaniards. The conduct of the Spaniards toward the inhabitants of these mew-diseovered eometries, and the cructies ex. erised by them under their first governors, fur. nish a subject which it were to be wished, for the honor of humanity, could loe forever veiled in oblivion. Religion and policy were the pretexts for the most ontrgeons acts of inhmmanity. Avarice, which the more it is fed is still the more insutiable, had suggested to some of these rupacious governors that the inhabitants of the New Worled had diseovered to the Spaniards but a very small proportion of treasures, which were inexhanstible. The missionaries encouraged the iden, and insinuated, at the sume time, that the most proper method of obtaining an absolute authority over these new subjeets was to convert them to the doctrimes of Christianity, for which purpose the priests were to be furnished with every authority sufticient for the extirpation of dolatry. The fuvorite instruments of conversion employed in these pious purposes were the ruck and the scourge. While some, to eseape these miseries, put an end to their life with their own hand, others, flying from their inhuman persecutors into the wools, were there hunted down with dogs, and torn to pieces like widd beasts. In a little time IIspanioha, which contained three millions of inhabitants, and Cuba, that had above six hundred thousand, were absolutely depopulated.-Tyther's IIsist., Book 6, ch. 2I, p. 309.
28642. INHUMANITY, Professional. Jeffrels. As judge at the city s-esions he exhibited the same propensities which afterward, in a higher post, gained for him an menviable immortulity. Aready might be remarked in lim the most odious vice which is incident to human nature at delight in misery merely as misers. There was a fiendish exultation in the way in which he pronounced sentence on offenders. Their werping and imploring seemed to titillate hir voluptuonsly, and he loved 10 seare them into fits, hy diating with luxuriant amplification on all the details of what they were to sutfer. Thus when he had an opportunity of ordering an mbucky alventuress to be whipped at the cart's tail, " Iangman," he would exclaim, "I charge you to pay particular attention to this haly. Seourge her sommely, man! scourge her till the bood runs down! It is Christmas-a cold time for madam to ship in' See that you wam her shoulders thoronghly !"-Macaulay's Enci., ch. 4, p. 418.
2863. INHUMANITY, Revenge for. Reifn of Charles II. The prisons were hells on earth, scminaries of every crime and of every disense. At the assizes the lean and yollow culprits bronght with them from their cells to the doek an atmosphere of stench and pestilence which sometimes avenged them signally on bench, bar, and jury. But on all this misery society looked with profound indiference. Nowhere could be found that sensitive and restless compassion which has, in onr time, extended a powerful protection to the factory child.-Macaulay's ENa., ch. 3, p. 395.
ambit. INITIATION, Terrifo, Romen Limperor Jthlut. He obtained the privilege of a solemn intintion into the mysterios of Elemsis, which, amid the general deeny of the Grecian worship, still retained some vestiges of their primeval sametity ; mud such was the zonl of Julian, that he afterwated invited the Elensinian pontift to the court of Ganl, for the sole purjose of constammating, by mystic rites nad sucritices, the great work of his sanctitication. As these ceremonies were performed in the depth of eaverus, and in the silence of the night, and as the inviohable seceret of the mysteries was preserved by the diseretion of the initiated, I shall not presime to describe the horrid somads and fiery apparitions which were presented to the senses or the inarimation of the credulons uspirmat, till the visions of comfort and knowledge broke upon him in a blaze of celestind light. ... From that moment he conser rated his life to the service of the gols.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 23, 1. 418.

2t665. INJURIEs, Forgetful of, Julihes Curar. Domitius Ahenolnobus, betieving that for him at least there cond be no forgiveness, tried to esarape, and was killed. The rest were pardoned. So emded the battle of Pharsalin. A handred and cighty standards were taken and all the eagles of I'ompey's legions. In Pompey's own tent was foumd his secret correspondence. implicating persons, perhaps, whom Ciesar had never suspected, revealing the mysteries of the past three years. Couriosity and ceren prodence might have tempted him to look into it. Ilis only wisi: was that the past shonld be forgotten; be burnt the whole mass of papers unreat.Frohde's Cwhil, ch. De.
2566. INJURIES, Redressing. L'uights. The Gothic kings had the highest pride in redressing wrongs and grievances; but in this honorable employment the wrongs they committed were often greater than those they redressed, and in the vindication of the honor or fame of a mistress a real and most atrocions injury was frethently committed in revenge for one purely ideal. Their religion, teo, was of that extruordimary cast, that, thourh professedly superior to all other duties, it always in reality acted a part subordimate to military fame and the honor of the ladies. It is contessed ty one of their greatest encomiasts, M. St. Pallaye, that their devotion consisted chactly in the observance of some extermal ceremonies, and th the greatest offences might he casity expiated be a peomede or a pitgrinater, which furnished an agremble LIsT., Book B, ch. '1), p. 169.
2867. INJURIE Reparation of, Latcs. A.D. 60\%. [By the iaws or Pitheltert, one of the carly British kings, ] it wa not held that damages, to use a famitiar worl of exphamation, were to be paid withont resperet of persons, but that a bishop was to be compensated elevenfold, and a clerk threefold of the vahe of any stolen proparty. The amends, atonement, or indemnitication was 'alied "bot." The king's "bot" was alows the largest, except in the case of the bishop, who had twofold higher compensation for theft than even the king., If a man slew another in the king's "tun" (dwelling with lands "purtainingr, he was to pay sols.; if in that of "an "eorl" (jarl, noble), 12e. The slayer of the "hafieta" (loaf-enter, domestic) of a "reorl" (churl, freemmin, not noble) was to, atone for 6 s. The mutilation of ma "esne" (shave) was to be compensated to the owner at the full worth of the slave. The peomaties to persomil injuries to freemen are ameng the most curious of these chooms. It was no!" "an ive for an eye und a tooth for a tooth," bat the eye had a pecomiary matue, and so hai the tooth. The evil consegurnee of the intliction, und not the motive of the offemeder, regulated the amonnt of the nmends. This if the car was struck off, the "hot" was 19s.; but "if the other ear hear not, let the "hot' the made with dins." In all cases of deftalt of payment the remedy Was prompt and effective-thie offender became " penal shave. - Kivierts Ext., vol. 1, ch. 5, 1. $\% 0$.
2868. - Romums. Thu mude jurisprutence of the deremvirs had confoundedall hasty insults, which did not mmonnt to the fracture of a timb, ly condemning the agrressor to the common penalty of twenty-five cesses. But the same denomination of monery was celued, in three centuries, from a ponnd to the weight of a half an ounce; and the insoldere of a wealdhy Roman indulged himself in the cheap amusement of brenking ambl sutisfying the haw of the twolve tatbes. Veratins ran through the streets striking on the face the inofiensive passemgers, and his attewdant purse-bearer immediate ty silented their clamors by the legal tender of twenty-tive pieces of copper, about the value of 1 s.-Gibmon's lome, ch. 44, p. $3 \% 0$.
2869. INJURIES, Sensitiveness to. Foltaire. Itis fume had raised him up enemies. His sensilbility gave them a formidable alvantage over him. They were, indeed, contemptible ussailants. Of atl that they wrote against him, nothing has survived except what he has himself preserved. But the constitution of his mind resembled the constitution of those bodies in which the slightest seratela of bramble or the bite of a gmat never fails to fester. - Macaulay's Fhenemick the Great, p. 58.
2870. INJURY, Mutual. Charles I. - Rupert. Prince Rupert has often been called the evil genins of Charles, but it would perhaps be quite as true, if not more so, to designate Charles as the evil geuius of Rupert. There is, no doubt, a not unatural prejudice against the prinee, as a foreigner, commanding the royal army against the arms of the Parlimment and the people.Hood's Cromweri, ch. 9, p. 128.
2871. INJUSTICE with Cruelty. Callias. [After the hattle of Marathon one] of the harharians happening to meet [Callias, the torchhearer,] in a private place, and probably taking him for a king, on account of his long hair and the fillet which he wore, prostrated himself before him, and taking him by the hand, showed him a great guantity of golid that was hid in a well. But ('alians, not less cruel than unjust, took away the gold, and then killed the man that had given him information of it, lest he should mention the thing to others. - Picurabcits Amstides.
2872. INJUSTICE reproved. Puritthes. A.D. 16it7. The Mohawks committed mages near Northampton on the Connecticut River, and the general court of Massuchusetts addressed them a letter: "We never yet did any wrong to you or any of yours"-stich was the langange of the Puritan diplomatists-" neither will we take any from yon, but will right our people according to jusifice."-Bancroft's U. S., vol. D, ch. 14.
2E73. INJUSTICE, stigma of. Ciccro, Cicero imagined that the world looked upon him as its saviour. In his own eves le was mother IRomuhas, a second fonder of Rome. The world, unfortumately, had formed an entirely different estimate of him. The prisoners had been killed on the 5 th of Deecmber. On the last day of the year it was usual for the out-going consuls to review the events of their term of olllce before the Senate; imd Cicero had prepared a speech in which he had gilded his own performances with all his elorpuence. Metelhis commenerd his tribumate with forbidding Cicero to deliver his oration, and lorbidding him on the special gromme that a man who had pot Roman (itizens to death without allowing them a learing did not himself deserve to be heard. In the midst of the confusion and uproar which followed Ciecro could only shriek that he had saved his country, a declaration which could have heen dispensed with, since he had so often insisted upon it already without producing the assent which he desired.-Froude's Casan, ch. 12.
2874. INNOCENCE, False. "Bet Flint." Poor Bet [a woman of the town] was taken up on $a$ charge of stcaling a comoterpane, and tried at the Old Bailey. Chief Justice-, who loved a wench, summed up favorally, and she was acepuitted. Alter which Bet said, with a gay and satistied air, "Now that the countermme is my onon, 1 shall make a petticont of it."-bosweldi's Jolinson, p. 461.
2885. INNOVATION resented. Peter the Grect. Mematime the absence of the Czar had given occasion to some disturtances in the empire. The spirit of imnovation which he had alrealy slown, and the further fruits expected from his forcign travels, gave great disgust to a harbarous people wedded to their ancient manners. The ambition of Sophia fomented these disequiets, and the Strelitzes had determined to place that princess upon the throne. At this important juncture Peter returned to Russia; he found it necessary to make a most severe exertion of his power ; and he took that opportunity of entirely annihilating that dangerons borly of the strelitzes who by this revolt furnished him with a just pretext. They had marehed in arms to Moscow. The rerulin troops of the Czar, hended hy Gordon and another foreign oflicer, attacked and totally dofeated them; a vast number was shain; their leaders who were taken prisoners were hroken upon the wheel: two thonsand were hanged upon the walls of Moscow and on the side of the high roads, and the rest banished with their wives and children into the wilds of siberia. Thas the whole of this formidahle body was destroyed, and their name abolished forever. The astonished Russians beheld this dreadful example with silent terror, which paved the way for an easy sub)mission to all those imovations which the czar afterwards made in the constitution, police.
laws, and customs of his empire.-Truther's Hiat., Book 6, ch. 3i, p. $4 \pi 6$.
2a76. INNS, Attractive. Eingland. In the seventeenth century Fughond aboumided with excellent inms of every rank. The traveller sombtimes, in a small vilhare, lighted on a public house such as Waton has deseribed, where the brick floor was swept clean, where the walls were stuek round with bullads, where the shects smelt of havender, and where a hazing fire, a rup of goorl ale, and a dish of tronts fresh from the neighboring brook were to be procured at small charge. At the larger houses of entertainment were to be foumd beds lung with silk, choice cookery, and claret equal to the hest which was drunk in Loudon. The innkeepers too, it was said, were not like other innkerpers. On the Cominent the landlord was the tyrant of those who erossed the threshold. In England he wis at servant. Never was an Englishman more at home than when he took his ease in his inm. . . . The liberty and jollity of inns long furnished matter to our novelists and drumutists. Johnson dechared that a tavern chair was the throne of homan felicity ; and Shenstone gently complained that no private roof, however friendly, gave the wanderer so warm a welcome as that which was to be found at an inn.-Macatlay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 359.
2877. INQUISITION, Abominable. In Spuin. A wise and vigorous though a severe administration characterized the beginning of the reign of Ferdinmod and Isabella. Spain was at this time in great disorder-the whole country was: prey to robbers and outhaws. Even the nobility lived by depredution, and defonded themselves in their castles aguinst owery legal attempt to restrain their viobence. The new momardis of castile and Arrigon determined to repress these enormities. The castles of the piratical nobles were maed to the gromat. The othee of the Santa II Crmandal, or lloly Brohherhood, was instituted for the detection ind punishment of murders, thefts, and all atrocions crimes. Butamid these landable cares, the nbominmble tribunal of the Infuisition was furnished with such an extent of powers that, under the pretence of extirpating heresy and impiety, the whole kingdom became a seme of hood and lowror. The fortnoes and the lives of individals were entirely at the merey of the grand inquisitor and his associates. It was never allowed to a rriminal to be confronted with his aecoser, nor ceen to he informed of his rrime ; the sole method of trial was by exposing the minapy wret ch to the most extreme tortures, which either ended his life in agrony or forced a confecssion of his guilt, which was expiated by rommitting him to the thames. lt is computed that after the appointment of Torquemada, the inquisitor-general of spain, there were six thousand persons hurnt in the short space of four years.-Tythens: Insst., Book 6, ch. 15, p. 218.
2878. INQUISITION, Romish. Fithere. With a view to eonsolidate the conquest, the Inquisition was formally established at Toulonse by a council held there in Nowember, 192?, the office of inguisitors being intrusted to the order of the Dominicans, or Friars Prearchers. . . . Its proreedings took place in servet; no advorates were permitted to plead, no withesses were produced.

The object was to extort the confersion of erime through the moral and physial prostration of the miserable victim; and to thisem the most iniquitons and revolting meme were employed with. out seruple; the mose subthe trickery, the most unblashing derecit, the most ruthless torture. On erertain oreasions, whid som berame ferguent, the LIoly Othere pmblisherd its sentenees and intictadits pinishments. Of the hater there were three degrees; those who had made absolute smbis. sion, and were deemed the lonst criminal, were mdmitted to pemance; those who had not given complete satiafaction (the most mamerons chass) were immured for lite in prison ; those who stultbornly refused to confess, or who rednpsed after confession, wre committed to the flames.-Stedenter Finsele, chi 9, 咅 2.
2879. INSANITY, Capacity with. Giourfe III. At the moment of passing the Stamp ACe, George III. was crazed.
[lle had] thught the worth that a bit of parchment bearing the sign of his hand, semwled in the flickering light of clomed reason, condi, mater the British constitution, for the fall legislative ofllee of the king. Had he been a private man, his sigmature cond haw given validity to no commission whatever.Buncroft's U. S., vol. i, ch. 11.
2880. INSANITY feared. Sirmuel Johmsm. To Johnson, whose sumerme enjoyment was the exare ise of his rason, the distarbance or ohsempation of that faculty was the evil most to be dreaded. Insanity, therefore, was the object of his most dismal apprehension ; and he fancied himself seized by it, or approaching to it, at the very time when he was giving proofs of amore than ardinary somodness anil vigor of judgment. Boswbilis Jolusson, 1. 12.
28W1. INSANITY, Moral. ('ambyses. |The Persian monareh and sen of Cyrus.] Itis conduct was such an to bear every mark of insanity. In an inconsiderate expedition against the Nathiopians, he threw away the greater part of his army. Fifty thonsand men, sent into the deserts of Ammon, perished through fiatige and fanine. With adeliberate parpose of wantonly exasperating the Egyptians, who weredisposid to the most pateablesubmission, Cambysesordered the magnificent temple of Theles to be pillaged fund burnt. At the celebration of the festival of Apis, at Memphis, he stabbed the sacred ox with his poniard, ordered the priests to be scourged, and massalcred all the people who assisted at the sateritice. He put to denth his brother smerdis, because he dreamed that he saw him seated on the throne; and when his wife and sister. Meroe, hamented the fate of her hrother, he killed her with a stroke of his foot. To prove his dexterity in arrhery, he piereed the son of his favorite Prexaspes thourh the heart with an arrow. -Tytheris Herr., book 1, ch. 11, p. 116.
2882. INSANITY, Perils from. Sir Wilter Scott. At the age of eighteen months the boy had a teething-fever, ending in a life-long lameness; and this was the reason why the child was sent to reside with his grandfather . . at SandyKnowe, near the ruined tower of Smailholm, celebrated afterward in his bablad of "The Eve of St. John," in the neighborhood of some fine crags. To these crags the housemaid sent from Edinburgh to look ifter him used to carry him
4), with a design (which sur confensed to the honsekerpers)-dur, of course, to incipient in-sanity-of mardering the child there mad hary ing him in the moss. Of eourse the maid was dis. missed.-Hurtos's Life of seover, ch. I.

2amis. INSANITY, Religious. Hilliam fors. per. [llis life had herome an mhost emdless romal of devotiomal exereises, withont reerention.] His mode of life muder [Rev. John] Newton was enomgh to areonme for the return of his disense, which in this sense may be fairly laid to the charge of religion. If again went mad, fancied, us before, that he was rejeeted of Menven, censed to pray as our helphessly doomed, und agnin nttempted suicide. Newtomand Mrs. Unwin at first treated the disense as a diaholieal visitation, mad "with deplorable consistency," to berow the phrase ased by one of their fricinds in the cuse of Cowper's desperate abstinence from prayer, uhstaned frome calling in a physician. Of this, again, their religion monst bear the reproach. In other mesperes they behaved adminably. Mrs. Unwin, shat up for sixteen monh with her unhappy parture, tended him with unfailing love; mone she did it, for he could benr no one clse nbout him ; though, to make her part more trying, he had concerved the insane iden that she hated him. Seldom has a stronger proot beem given of the sustaning power of affection. Smors Cowrer, ch. 3 .

2wot. INSANITY, Royal. Giorye III. [He was incuparitated for the daties of his position, at varions times, from insanity; during the last nine years of his life he was in a demented con-dition.]-Knitht's Exg.
28855. INSENSIBILITY to Suffering. Willim, Pran. William Pemm, for whom exhihitions which humane men generally avoid seem to have had a strong attraction, hastened from (Chempide. where he had seen Cornish hanged, to Tyburn, in order to see Elizabeth Game barned. Ite afterwarl related that, when she calmly disposed the straw about her in such a mamer as to shorten her sufferings, all the hystanders burst h..f's Eng., ch. 5, p. 616.
2886. INSINCERITY, Blemish of. Julius C'psert. So euded (icero, a tragic combination of magnificent talonts, high aspirations, and true desire to do right, with an intirmity of purpose mad $n$ latent insincerity of character which nemmalized and conld almost make us forget his nobler cpalities. . . . In Cicero nature half made a great man and left him uncompleted.-Froude's Chesate, ch. 2\%.
2867. INSINCERITY of Jesuits, $D$ issembling. [When, in 1580, the Jesulits invaded England, they maintained that Queen Elizabeth was not only a heretic hat also a hisurper, and that the pope had a right to deprive her of har crown.] Gregory XIII, opened the door for the evasion of this charge by granting to Rominists permission to dissemble, under the color of an explanation, "that the bull should be considered as always in force against Elizabeth and the heretics, but should only be binding on Catholics when due execution of it conld he had"-that is, that they should obey till they were strong enongh to throw off their allegiance.-Kniait's Enti, vol. 3, th. 12, p. 180.

DNW＊．INSOLENCE，Consummate，Jetf＇ryms＇． The renegade soon fonnd a putron in the obdume and revengrefil Jumes，but was always regarded with seorn and disgenst by Charles，whone limelts． great as they were，lude wo atllaty with fase－ lemee and croclty．＂＇lhat man，＂said the king， ＂has no lemraing，no semse，wo monneps，und more inumalence than ten curled street－walkers．＂ Work was to be done，however，whirla could le trasted to no man whe reverenced law or was selasible of shame ；and thas Jeffieres，nt ana are at which a marrister thiaks himself fortunate if he is emploved to leat mimportant emase was mate chich justice of the King＇s luench［by

2《W9．INSOLENCE，Ecclesiastical．Pope Gref ory l＇Il．［Being deposed by the popee．］Henty ［li．］，now rediced to extremity，was forced to deprecate the wrabla of that powior which he land formerly so mued despised．Atended liy afiew domestices，he pussed the Alps，and tinding the pejee at C＇mosin，he presented himself at his holi－ ness＇gate，without either gamads or attendants． This Ensolent man ordered him to he stripped of his clothes，which were exelanged for a lair－ clorlh：und after making him fast for three days， condescruded to allow him to kiss his feet，where he obtained absolution，on comblition of twait－ ing amd conforming himself to the semtence of
 ch． 7, p． 128 ．

2890．INSOLENCE，Official．James $I I$ ．［大＂e more at No．18t2．］（On the day after his uri－ val the fellows of Magdalen Collegre were of－ alered to attend him．［They lad voted against his wishes for a Protesant President．］IIe trented them with an insolence such as had never been shown to their predecessors by the luritan visit－ ors．＂You lave not dealt with me like gentle－ men，＂he exelamed．＂You have been mmman－ werly us well as mudutiful．＂They fell on their knees and tendered their pertition．He wonkd not look at it．＂Is this your Churelh of England loyalty：I conld not have believed ilat．so many men of the Chureh of Enghand woulal have been concerned in this business．Go homse．Get you gone， 1 nmking．I will be obeved．Go to your ehapel this instant and admit the Bishop）of Ox － forl［the king＇s Roman Catholice nomince for president］．Let those who reluse look to it． They shatl feel the whole weight of my hand． They shanl know what it is 10 incur the displeas－ ure of their sovereign．＂
［They retired 10 their chapel，and］declared that in all things law－ ful they were ready to obey their king，but that they wonld uot violate lheir statates and their oaths．－Macatlav＇s ENG．，ch．8，p．2\％ 23.

2母91．INSOLENCE resented．Of Darius．Pre－ viously to tho commencement of his expedition， he sent，acoording to a mational custom，two heralds into the eountry which he intended to iuvade，who，in their master＇s mame demanded earth and water，the usual symbols of subjection． The insolence of this requisition prowoked the Athenians and Spartans into a viohation of the law of civilized nations．They granted the re－ quest of the ambussadors ly throwing one of them into a diteb and the other into a well．－

2892．INSOLVENCY，Governmental．Reign of Charles II．Ashley and C＇lifford［umembers of
his onbinct］propeosed a thagitlons breath of public finith．＇The goldsuithas of＇Loudon were then not ondy dealers in the precions metals，lnit also bankers，and wore in the lmbit of advationg large sitms of money to the govermment．In return for these advanees they received assign－ ments on the reverne，and were repnid with in－ terest as the taxes came in．Aloont $£ 1,300,000$ had bero in this way intrinsted to the homor of the State．On a sudilen it was amonomed that it was not convenient to pry the principul，mul that the leuders mast content themselves with interest． They were conserpucatly wambe to meet their own chgngements．The Fxchmage whe in an uproar ；several wral merematile homses luroke； and dismay and distress spremd through all so－

2＊9：3．INSPIRATION，Claim of．hing of the fioths．$A$ In Ialinn liermit，whose zenl und sume－ lity wereresperted by the barlariman themselves， encematered the victorions monareh，and boldly demonured the jusligmation of llemven arainst the＂uphessors of the enth；but the suint hin－ self was confomaled by the solemu usseveration of Daric，that he felt a secret und pretermatural impulse，which direeted and even comperled his mareh 10 the gates of Rome．－Gimbon＇s Rosis，（h．31，］．：249．

2＠D．I．INSPIRATION，Professed．＂In＇／＂of Arc＇． The sorceress was eightern youts of age ；she was a beantiful and most desimble girl，of good leight，and with a sweet and leart－tonching roice．She entered the splendid circle with all hamility，＂like a joor little shepherdess，＂ distinguished at the dirst glanere the king，who had jurposely kept himself amid the cerowd of courtiers ；aid althomerh at first he maintained that he was not the king，she fell down und em－ brared hisknees．But as he latal not been crown－ ed，she only styled him damphin．＂Gentle dan－ phin，＂she udelressed hims，＂my mame is Jehanne la Pirelle．The King of Jieaven sends you word by me that you shall le consecrated ind crowned in the city of Rheinss，and shall be lien－ temant of the King of Ileaven，who is King of France．＂－MtclebiET＇s Joan ow Alic，〕． 9.

2あ95．INSPIRATION，Proof of．Iomil of $A m$ ． （＇harles dexignedly dressed himself far less richly than many of hiscourtiers were anparelled，nud mingled with them when Jomn was introduced， in order to see if the Moly Misel would uddress her exhortations to the wrong gerson．But she instantly singled him out，and kuecling belore him，sade：＂Most moble dauphin，the King of Heaven manomeres to you by me that you shall be anointed and crowned king in the city of Rheims，and that you shatl be IIis vicegerent in France．＂II is features may probably lave been seron hy her proviously in portraits，or have been desaribed to her by others；but she herself be－ lieved that her Voices inspired her when she ud－ dressed the king：and the report soon spremd abroad that the IJoly Maid had fomed the kingr by a miracle．－Decisive Batrites，冬 374 ．

2896．INSULT more than Injury．Araby．The nice sense of honor which weighas the insult rath－ er than the injury sheds its deadly venom on the fuarrels of the drabs；the honor of their wom－ en and their berords is most cusily wounded；an indecent action，a contemptuonis word，can be expiated omly by the blood of the offender ；and such is their patient inveteracy, that they expect whole monthes and yars the opportunity of revenge. A tine or compensation for murder is familiar to the burburimas of every age ; but in Arabia the kinsmen of the dead are at liberty to werplt the utomement, or to exeroise with their own lamds the haw of toleration. - Gamos's 1Rome, ch. 50, p. 88.
2NOT. INSULT to Jealousy. Inorying. [The aristorracy were mad at Cesar.] (como, one of the most ilurivine towns in the north of laty, had been enfranchised by (evesar. An eminemt citizen from (omo happenine to be at Rome. Marcellus publicly lopged him, and bade him go bark and tell his fellow-townsmen the value of Casir's gift to them. - Fhorden's C.es.an. ch. 20.
2498. INSULT, The last. Cipurters. A single knight could impurt, aceording to his judgment, the chameter which hereevived; and the warlike sovereigns of Europederived more glory from this persomal distinetion than from the las. tre of their diadem. This ceremony, of which some traces may be found in Tacitus and the wonds of Germmy, was in its origin simple and profiane : the candidate, after some previons trial, was invested with the sword and spurs; mal his check or shoulder was tomeloed with a slight blow, as an emblem of the last alfront which it was law ful for him to endure. - Gibuos's Romis, ch. 58, p. 562 .
2899. INSULT, Political. To Williem l'itt, Prime Minister. Pitt, on the 2 ath of July, went to pay Rockingham fex-prime-minister and leador of the aristocrncy ${ }^{\dagger}$ a visit of respect, and had passed the threshold, when the young chief of the great Whig fnmilies, refusing to receive him, turned the venerable man of the people from his door. But he was never afterward able to resume oflice, except with the friends of the minister he now insulted.-Bnacnort's L. S., vol. 6, ch. 26.
2900. INSULT, Rebellion from. Persicens. The Persinn Emperor IIormonz was jealous of his successful and loyal General Bahram ufter his great victory over the Tarks. And no sooner had Bahram collected and reviewed his forres, than he received from a royal messenger the insulting gift of a distatf, a spimning-where, and a complete suit of female appared. Obedient to the will of his sovereign, he showed himself to the soldiers in this unworthy disgruise; they resented his ignominy and their own; thont of rebellion ran through the ramks; and the general aceepted their oath of fidelity and vows of revenge.-Gibmos's Rome, ch. 46, p. 434.
2901. INSULT, Remembrance of, Ditrius. The Ionims, with their Athenian allies, ravaged and burnt the city of sardis, destroying the magnificent temple of Cybele, the tutelary goddess of the country ; but the Persians defeated them with great slanghter, and compelled the Athenians Inastily to re-embark their troops at Ephesus, glad to make the best of their way to Greces. This insult, however, sumk deep into the mind of Darins, and from that moment he vowed the destruction of Grecee. That his resolution might suffer no dehy or ;hbatement, he cansed a crier to procham every day when he sat down to tuble, "Grent sovereign, remember the Athenians, "-Tvpien's Hest, Book 2 , ch. 1, p. 1:3.
90022. INSULT, Stinging. ('olonel Torletom. Turleton [a emphared British oflecer of C'ornwallis' army] was speaking sareastically of (obonel [Willinm] Washington in the presence of Mrs. Ashe. "I would be happy to sece coloned Washington," he said, with a sherr. Mrs. Ashe instantly replied, "If you hasl looked hehind you at the mithe of cowpens you wond have emjoyed that peasure."-c'spres Wisminaros. vol. 1. ch. 6 .

290:3. INSULT, An unconscious. Jitmers $I /$. [The young grmolsons of William Killin had treen leqally mordered hy the mometer. Infreys. Decause of their reli;ions faith. 'The king wishall to gain the Dissenters, to use them ngainst the Established Chureli.] The hearthess and vemal syeophants of Whitchall, judging he themselves, thought that the ohd man would be easily propitiated by an alderman's gown, and hy some compensation in money for the property which his gramisons had forfeited.

Killn was ordered to attend at the palace. Ite fomad a brilliant circle of noblemen and gentlemen assembled. James immediately efone to him, spoke to him rary graciously, and comeluded hy saving, " 1 have put vou down, Mr. Killn, for ani alderman of Lomden." The old man lowked fixedly at the king, burst into tears, and mate minwer, "Sir. 1 an worn out ; I am mitit to serve Your Majesty or the dity. And, sir, the danth of my poor boys broke my heart. That wound is as fresh as ever. I shall earry it to my grave." The king stood silent for a mimute in some comfusion, mad then silid, "Mr. Killin, I will tind a balsam for that sore." Assuredly James rid not mem to say anything erved or insolent.

They are the worils of a bard-hentad and low-minded man, nable to conceive any laceration of the affections for which a phace or apension would not be a full compensation.Macallay's Eng., ch. 7. 1. 212.
290. INSULTS, Argument by. Simmer John. soncs. The great leximerrapher, spoind by the homage of socicty, was still more prone than Goldsmith to lose temper when the argument went against him. He conld not brook nppearing to be worsted. but would attempt to bear down his adversary by the rolling thunder of his periods; and when that failed, would become downright insulting. Boswell called it "having recourse to some sudden mode of robust sephistry ;" but Gohdsmith designated it murh more happily. "There is no arguing with Johuson," said he, "for irhen his pistol mexsecs fire', he' knocks yom domen rith the butt emel of it."-Imving's Goubsmiti, ch. 19, 1). 12 \%.
2905. INSULTS with Misfortunes. Jitmes $I I$. [When his perversity hanl ruined all his prospects, he called a comail of eminent men. Ener. land was now invaded by Willian of Ormuge.] Then Clarendon rose, and, to the astonish. ment of all who remembered his hom professions of loyalty and the agony of shame and sorrow into which le had been thrown, onty a few days hefore, by the news of his son's defeetion, broke forth into a vehement invertive against tyrmmy and popery. "Even now," he said, " his Majesty is raising in London a regiment into which no protestant is admitted." "That is mot tran", "ried James, in gremt meltathon, from the heme of the honri. Charendom persisted, and left this offensive topio only to mass to a tople still more offensive. He merensed the unfortumate king of pasillanimity. Why retreat from Salishory? Why not try the event of a I attle : Combla people be blated for submitting to the invader when they saw their soverelgn rut awy ne the head of his atmy? Inmes feld these Insultskerenly, nad remembered them lomg. -Macablay's ExG., M. II, 1. de:.
2906. INTELLECT clouded. Actireg, IH. Ils legnl knowledge, inderd, was merely such as he hand pickeri nut in practice of no very high kind : but he had our of those happity eronstituted intellects which, arross labyrimitisol sophistry and thronght masses of immiterlal facts, go strmight to the true point. Of his minderet, however, he seldom had the full use. Even in civil ceiases his male volent and despotic temper perpertually disordered his julgment. . . . IIis looks and tomes had inspired terror when he was merely a yomar advocute struggling into practice. Fois that ho was at the head of the most formidable tribuma in the rembin, there were few indeed whodid not trembie before him. Evell when he was moler, his violence was sufliciently frightful; but in general his reason was overclonded and his evil gassions stimulated ly the fumes of intoxication. ILis evenings were ordimarily given to revelry: People who saw him only over his bothe wonld have supposed him to lie a mangross indeed, 2907. INTELLECT, Dullness of. John II:Mrrerd. John Howard, therefore, was a decidedly illiternte man. Ile spedled very incorredly, mil expressed himself on paper in the most awkward and bugrammatical manare. Ife was probably a dull boy, as be was rather a dull man. There is no question that, in point of mere intellect, he was not much nhove the nverage of English tradesmen.-Cyclopedia of Biog., 1. 32.

2908. INTELLECT, Parsimoniona. Later Grecks. The Greeks of Constantinople, after purging away the impurities of their valgar specech, acquired the free nse of their ancient language, the most happy composition of hmman art, bud a tamiliar koowledge of the sublame masters who had phased or insirueted the tirst of mations. But these advanages only tend to aggravate the repronch mad shane of it degemerate people. They held in their lifeless hamils the riches of their fathers, withont inheriting the spirit which had created and improved that sacred patrimony; they road, they praised, they compiled, but their hanguid somils semed alike incapable of thought and artion. In the revo?ution of tem combices, at a simgle diseovery was made to exalt the dignity or promote the happiness of mankima. Not a single idea has been added to the specolative systems of amtiguity, and a succession of patient disciples became in their furn the dogmatie teachers of the next servile generation. Not a single composition of history, philosophy, or literature has been saved from ohlivion lyy the intrinsic beanties of style or sentiment, of original fancy or reve of sinceressful imitation.-Gbmon's Rome, (h. $53, \mathrm{p}, 351$.
2909. INTELLECT, Uncultivated. . 1 morica/n Indians. The red mann lans miltude at imitatlon muther than havention ; he learms eanily: his matural logie is correct and diseriminatimg, und he seizes on the nifest disthethons in comparing objects. But he is deticicent in the power of imngimation to rombinc mad hring unity into his thoning fancices, and fathe faculy of fibstaction to tift himself out of the dominion of his immediate experience. Ite is nently destlute of absstruct moral trolt-of fencrol prindibles; nud
 sugnedy of the senses, andin judgments resting on thein, he is inferior in remson and the momin (h. 22.
2010. INTELLIGENCE, Poverty of, Simull dohnsen, Sipenking of a dull, tiresome fellow, whom he chunced' to mert, lic suidi, "That felhow serens to me to pensess but one blem, and that is 14 wromg olle."-Boswethis Jomsens, 11. 17\%.
2011. INTEMPERANCE, Ancient. " Fic'mut lings" pased the in time in baturesting mad dromkenness, in idlle bulk mud gambling. - Kiviourts Ent., vol. 1, ch. 11, 1. 221.
2014. - - Alerometer. Alexamder, ass soon as he retired from the fumeral pile [where an Indian primere mancd comans had heron consumed |, invited his friends and oblle ers to supper, and, to rive life to the caronsm, promised that the man who drank most should be erowned for his victory Prommehns drank four measures of crown, which was worth a talent, but survived it only three days. The rest of the guests, us ('harles tells us, drank to such a degree that forty-one of them lost their lives, the wonther roming upon then extromely cohd during their 2918. INTEMPERANCE a fine Art. (yrus. [Cyrus wrote the bacedamonians for nssistmace. In his letter hel spoke in very high terms of himself, telling them he had in grenter min more princely heart than his brother ; that he was the better philosopher, being instructed in the doctrines of the Nhati, and that he could trink and bearmore wine than his brother.-Phetaben's A1RTMNENX1:N.

2914. INTEMPERANCE, Blight of. Edgat Allen Per. [1Ic was engaged to marry one of the most lrilliant young women of New Enghand. After the Imns were pmblished he was seen] reding through the streets of the city which was the faly's home: and in the evening that should lave been the evoning before the Inidal, in his drunkemmess he committed at her house such outrages as made meressary a smmons of the police, [H0 was afterward fomen in the streets of Batimore drank and dying, mad closed his life in the hospital. J-simiks Braef BograPInEs, p. 341.

291\%. INTEMPERANCE, Burdens of. Benjumin Frathkin. [He took a young Boston friend with him on his return to Philudelphia.] On the journey [young] Franklin discovered that his friend had become a slave to drink. He was sorely pharued and dispraced by him and at last the youmg drumkard had spent all his ney, and had no way of selting on lint by Franklin's nid. ... Jhesharrol his purse with him till it was empty, and then begun on some moncy which he hat berol intristed whth for unother, and so got hhon to Philadelphin, where be still nesisterl hhar. It was seven yours before Franklin romhd
 p. 130).
2916. INTEMPERANCE destroy Charaoter,
 —"do-mothing khuss"-expresses very uplly the eharmeter of the hast deserembants of the honise of Clovis. At the moment when chromstamers demumded from the seropunts of the Frankish throne at more than wrimary shate of talent and forceaf character, they lapsed into a state of innberility and luskuithenure, both lratily and mental. Intomperamer and delamolury entalled on them premature deremitude; few uthined the mathreage of manhood ; they rarely mpenered in publio, except at the ammal paremat of the 2917. INTEMPERANCE, Churohly. "Whit-sun-ales." [In the latter purt of the sixterenth cemtury.] at the season of Whitsuntide, when the spring was ealling up " a spirit of lile in evorythhng," thore was a parish feast, which tho: chareh-wardens had prepured for hy an ate-brewing [ralled ('lumeh-ale] ; and the protit that was made by illling the lhack-jacks of the jovial combtrymen was nppliod to the repmirs of the chureh. Fancy-fairs have superseded Whitsum-ales.-KNiumi's Ena., vol, 3, ch. 16, 1. 2jt.

2918. INTEMPERANCE common, E'ullı $\quad$ I, 1593. [Stubbess says] every comutry, city, town. vilhge, and other places hath abondanor of alehouses, taverns, and inns, whichare so framght with malt-worms night und day that you would wouler to see them. [Knight sigs] Here ware punishments for low dehmehere surh as the Irankard's cloak. Agatnst this growing sin. which was ererping up from the permant and mechanie to the yomman and the eourtier, the prenehers lifted up their voires in the pulpit, and not always in vain, - Kivisiut's E.vi., vol. 3, ch. 16, p. 242.
2910. INTEMPERANCE in Court. Triul of Strafford. [On the trial of Stmollord by Parlinment it is said that] after ten firlock botthes of beer and wine ware going from mouth to mouth without cups.-KNidir's Exis, vol. 3, rh. 28, p. 450 .
2020. INTEMPERANCE, Crime by, Euqlumet, 1750. [Jn 1750 llenry Fielding gives] his experience as a magistrate. "Wretches are often bronght before me rharged with theft or rohbery, whom I an forced to contine lifore they are in 14 eondition to be examined ; and when they have afterward become soler, I have plainly perceived, from the state of the cuse, that the gin alone was the eatuse of the transgression." . . . In 1751 Mr. Pother, a rising member of Parliament, "produced several physiciatis, and masters of workhouses, to prove the fatal consequences of spiritnons liquors, which laid waste the meanor parts of the town, and were now spreading into the country."-Knigirt's Ena., vol. 6, ch. 12, p. 191 .
2921. INTEMPERANCE, Crimes of. Working Classes. The awful misusc of the labor of children mad women [th the British colliories] pro. reederd, not from the necessithes of the eolliar's family, hat from his own gross mad selosami laditgencers. It was in pevidence that many of the miners workend only cight or nincelays in in fortaight, and then spent the harge entulnes of lwa thirds of their workluge time in drinking mul gambling.

2022.8. INTEMPERANCE, Custom of. lin!land, 17t2. 'The Duke al Newensile gian "t grent dimer at Claremont to his rollenghes. Thesers. vants, as was elastomary at this period, all got plenty, mul quests were cordially welcomed to it : but, as the hathit of drinklag to "Mores was general in the rlass to whirh lae belonged, nul as his fortume did not mahle him to intoxicate harge assomblios daily with celaret or camary, strong bexe was the ordimary bevernere. The gmanty of here comsumed int thone days was inderel chormons: for bere then was to the midalle hat all that wince, dea, madiarleut spirits mow are. It was only at er ent homase of oug grat ocrasions that fore ign driak was phaced on tho batad. Thas hadies of the homer, whose hasimess it had comb-the dishes hand been dovoured, amd left the gen-

2022:. $\qquad$

 jollity of the afternomin was oftern prolonged till the revellers were laid mader the table. -MA-

29924. INTEMPERANCE, Debased by. Nifioleone $I$. "The binglish," said he: "upe:ar lo profer the bottle to the sondity of their halies, as is exmmplitad by dismissing the ladies from the table, and remainime lor hours to driak and intoxiate themselves. Wire I in Enghand, I should ertatily lave the tathe with the ladies." - Abburre Nípobos 13., vol. 1, rh. \%.
2925. INTEMPERANCE, Diseased by. Al/- very minfind and lingering disorder. Iis body, swilled hy an intemperate course of life to in mwiedely corpulener, wis rovered with uleers, and devoured hy inmomerable swarms of tlose insects which hase given their mame to a most lomthsome diseast.-(inmons's Rome, eh. 14 , p. 470.
29926. INTEMPERANCE in Eating. Solimal. Soliman [the Sohammedancoliph] olicel of an indigestion in his ramp near Kinnisrin or Chateis in Syria, as he was preparing to leme against Constantinople the remaining forces of the East. Note. - The caliph had amptiod two baskets of egge and of tigs, which lor swallowed altermately, and the repast was concholed with marrow and sugar. In one of his pilgrimages to Meen, Soliman ate, at a single meal, seventy pomegranates, a kiel, six fowns, and a huge quantity of the grapes of Tayde. If the bill of fare be correct, we must admire the appetite rather than the laxury of the sovereign of Asia,-Gribion's Rome, ch. $5 \mathrm{D}, \mathrm{p} .280$.
2027. - - Sumul Johman. It must be owned that Johnson, though he courd be rigidly abstemious, was not n temperate man either in eating or drinking. Ile could refrain, that he had finsted two days whihon ineonvernbince, and that he had mever then loungry but oure. 'They who trehed whth womber how mols berat apmall aravions when his dinner was to hiv tasle; combld mot mally comende what ler must have mant by hanger ; wind mot only was here. markable for the extmondmary quantity which a very nier diseremment the whore of rook. ery:-Benw bla's domsuon, 1. I:
21029. INTEMPERANCE, Example of. Fin' the' Sumus. ['The spartans land many shaver called Hetotes. Somethmes they marde them drink montil they were intoxiented, and in that condition leal them into the gmblic lualls, on show the romer men what drunkemess wat. They orderend hom to sine menth somge and to dance ridiculons daneres lat not to modelle with any that were

2020. INTEMPERANCE, Fatal. Lumis. J. 110 expired at Vincembes of a disorter orastomed by drinking wine immoderately whon wer heated le a game at ball.-stubents fasser, 21030. $\qquad$ Athertertio. F Athatario, the yomer (dothio king of latys, was abmetomed to wine, and at the age of sixterem was comsmest by premature intempranere.]-(inmos's Rome, (h. 41, 1, 119.

29 is. $\qquad$ diy ufer he hand given Triterntere fla firent. One why ufter he hand given Nemer has (one al his come manderes a smmplems treat, the went, acerording Io custom, to rifenh himarif in the hath in order to retire to rest. But in the mem lime Medins came and invitod him to take part in a carousing, and he could mot dery him. There he drank all that night and the next day, matil at hat he fomad a fever coming upon hitu. It did not, however, seize him as he was drinking the alip of Thercales, nor did he tima a sudelen pain in his thack, as if it had theen pierered with a spear. These are aremmstane invented by writers, who thought the eatastroghe of so moble a trag. "dy should be something alferting and (axtran" dinary. Aristobulus telles us that in the rage of his fever and the viohene of his thist he took a dratght of wine, which threw him into a frenzy, and that he died the thirtiofl of the month $D$ be -

29:32. Intemperance of Females. Jobility. a.d. 1606. [Jimes I., having receised at liberal subsidy from larliament, ] indulgeal in every species of disgunting excess, in which the royal example was so eneouraging that . . . the badied abandoned their sobriety, and were seen to roll about in intoxication.-Kxarres Eva., vol. 3, ( h . 22, p. 839.
2933. INTEMPERANCE fostered. Hugh Milber. "The drinking usuges of the [stom" mat sons'] prolession in which 1 habsered wore at this lime many; when it fommlation was haid, the workmen wore treated to drink; . . . when the walls were levelled for laying the joists; . . . when the huiding was tinished : . . . whernamapprention joined the squad: $\ldots$ when his. " apporn was washed:". . . when his time was out, and occasionally they learned to treat one another. [Miller soon berame a tectotaler.]-Smares' Brief Bioghapimen, p. 9.4.

2dib I. INTEMPERANCE and Genius. Id dixem. llemr Nwilt: " I dimol with Mr. Addlemen and biek Nthart. 'They were half l'uldierl, but mot 1: for 1 miverd witer with my wher, und loft

298B5. INTEMPERANCE, Govornmental. Drombin lerliament. The l'arlament whimh net at Eidinhurgh on the lat of dambary, lall, has leron homerd with the name of "the dranken barliament." |Bishop|Burnet sng: " " 11 was" ma, der it wasso, whem the menof atfars were almost
 ch. 118, 11. 2ix.

2dis6. IN TEMPERANCE through Hospitallty.
 tenth century| the lartmorose hospuitality that ha. duced "semfemen to laink it was one of the bonors of their homses that nome mas growt of them solver," was a little werring mway.-Kvarar's Ena., vol. in, ch. 4, p. it.

20:37. INTEMPERANCE, Loss by. Shphen . I. Dinety, On. On the breaking out of the retheliton, in Isth, he gave hiv hamd to . Dhaham Jincoln, and engige to stand he him in his cefforts to save the combly ; all hife errors were instantly forgiven. Bhat his daye were mumbered. Buring his heremben haters of the previons yeme he hat sustained himsell hy deep draghts if whiskey ; mad his constitntion gave way at lle wry time when a new and mobler career opened np before him. . When 1 saw him last he was standing on the balam. the Metropelitan Hotel in New

20:36. INTEMPERANCE manifested. Offe"sire. I hemel him [Johnsen] onere give a very judicions practial atvice upon this subjeret: "A man who has lacen drinking wine at all free. ly shonle never go into is new company. With those who have partaken wine with him be may be protty well in unisom; lat he will, probably, he offerisive, or appear ridiculons, to other peophe."-Besweth's Jonssos, p. ?it

29:39. INTEMPERANCE, Perils of. Fetrut frem Iterome. On the 9th of Nowember Niphotem reached smolensk. Ite had hoped to tind sleelter, clohing, and provisions. Ile found only main and famine. There was brandy in abondance: The soldiers in despair drank to utter stuperfetion, and during the night perished miserably in the icy streets. In the morning the pavement was coveral with the frozen berlies of the deal.-Amorres Nabolbos B., vol. 2 , ch. 14.
2985. - Inditms. LAfter the surrender of Fort William Itemry, at Lake (George, to the leremeh,] a salfe escont was promised to For Edward. . . Cnforthmatrly the Indians proevered a duantity of whiskey from the Eng. lish camp. Maddened with intoxication, and in spite of the utmost exertions of Monteabm and his olliecers, the savages fell upen the prisoners, and bergn a massacre. Thirty of the English were tomahawked. . . . The retirement... berame a panic and a rout.-Rapatu's U. S. (1. 3. 3. p. 2\% 29.3. Intemperance, Power of. Wir. The intemperate thirst of strong liquors of ten which art or bather had bextewert thene mad into laty by the proveret of the rich firs and wars of the sisteenth comblay, worn allame hy the promise of plonterons puatere in the pros.

 ness, the most illiberab, hat mot the most dangere ous of 'min' vices, was sometimes capable, fin a less rivilizel state of mankind, of orrashominer a hatile, a wat, or a revolution.-( (inmos's Ramo (h. 1), 1), 2l:
2912. INTEUPERANCE prolonged. Dimgsius. The reins of that monarehy which hienysins vainly called adamantine fell gradually from the lowe and dissolute hand that held them. This yomg prince, it is satid, would continue the serne of intoxidation for nimety days without intermission, during which thine mo sober persen was mbinted to his comrt, where all was fronkenmess and buffoonery, revelry uad riot.-l'uvallen.
20.13. INTEMPFRANCE-PROPERTY, Comsumption. [C'ntothe c'rnsur wasone day] pointing (t) a man who had sold a patermal estite near tha senside; lire pretended to atmire him ats one that was strongen than the sen itself; "For," sath he, "what the sen could not have swallowed without dillleulty, this man lans laken down wilh all the case imagimahe."-l'atancoin Cato.
29IA. INTEMPERANCE, Rellgion againat, in the part of the comitry where he livedi procured amecessary ale-housses to be put down in all the towns: and if any one that he heard of sulfered any diserder or debanchery in his hense, he would not suffer him to lirew my more. Ite was a litle severe ngainst drunk "meness, for which the druakiatis would somustimes rail at him. - Kviants Eva, vol. 4, cll. 11, 11. 172.

29 15. INTEMPERANCE renounced. Nin'mitus. They renounced that brutal intemperane to which all the other branches of the preat Ger. man family were too mod inclined. The polite luxary of the Norman persented a striking con: trast to the coarse voracity and drunkemess of his Saxon mal Danish neighbors. He loved to display his matritiorence, mot in lmge piles of food and hogshends of strong drink, hut in harge tund stately edifiese rich armor, gallant horses, choiec fatcons, wellordered touruments, bampucts deliente rather than aboudant, and wines remarkable rather for the ir exquisite tharor than lor the ir intoxicating power.-Macavarys Eva., ch. 1, p. 11.
2916. INTEMPERANCE, Revenue from. stute. [The mational debt of Great Britain was bequan hy borrowing ten millions of money to carry on the war of William III, arginst Louis XIV. The loan was secured ly $]$ An Act fer granting to their majesties certains otes and duties of exrise pon beer, ate, and other litpors." - liviants liva., vol. 5, ch. 10, p. 1.10 .
2917. INTEMPERANCE, Shameful. Meign of James //. There weretwo Protextant mumbers of the eabinet who took no decinled part in the

 vated by intempraner. At a dhmer whild a wembley alderman gave "o wo me of the hatheng members of the gencerment, the hard trasider be lad reyline home hy the watchatha, or to lall buder the tat he. Whatit wering out the bace hamaof the Eincrinh mus.. . The president wheit roncoctinge a fresh bewl of puoch te a ruhicoma divine, whome rallinge, acrobthy to the thery of that age, is as much devenem to the conksere is hamging trom ho timger as by the hand and cous-

29.1M. INTEMPERANCE, shameless. Eimglish,

29 19. INTEMPERANCE endangers the State. Butth of (iermentorn. 'The delay in the mrival of the mmanition wagoms was prollue tive of the most wrimus romequmeres in the uetion of the surcerding day for the Americmas). The general oflerer to when the blame of this delay "iss atheched was afterward diseovered in a state of hatexicontion, lying in the corner of a fance. [ 1 II the midst of the battle the anmmition failed.] Ilo was brought fon court -martinl and anshimed. -C'nstis' Wantingion, vol. 1, ch. J.
2950. INTEMPERANCE, Strange. Tirturs. The wines of a happier climnte are the most grateful presemt, or the most valuable commodity that rath be oflered to the Tarturs; and the onily example of thoir industry semens to comsial in the art of extracting from maress milk a fermonted liguor, which passesses at very strong pown of drinking gin, additional duties were inposerd from tine (o) tinue : and the consumption: of the liguid tire lwame grablally diminisher not so much, perhaps, ly the "pration of the duties us ley the promeral inprovement of all classes of sonity. Drmakenes in the time of George II. wan the vice of the high as well as lhe low. When it became adisgrace for a gentleman to le drunk, it misht remonably be experefol that the artisin would see that his own fhatacter and his own happiness were compromisel by drunkin-

29.31. INTEMPERANCE, Suppression of. $B / y$

2952. INTEMPERANCE, Victim of. Survilan. The same night in which Sherrdan hal eleretatien! Parliament with his clopuence he might hatve been picked up drunk inthe streets. - Kivnurts

295:. - Rolurl Burns, havinu romb from his plomet to herome the spoilod child of Edinhurgh soridy, fell into hahis af intem-

205. - - Dabret Burns. Early in the month of Jummry, when his hatha was in the course of improvement. Burns tarriol to a late hour at a jovial party in the Globe tavern. Before returning lone, he unlackily remained by the efferets of the lipuor lae land drumk, foll
 A fatal chill jermetrated lak lomers frame. In this litte medident, and mot hat the pressure of peverty or allareprite, or wombled forlings or $n$ brokin heart, trity lay the detor. minlag canse al' the sally nhontened dase of bur lave hern a man whose brain wan permanebly lajumad hy aloohol, and wa injored that thero was mosafory for himexept ln lotal and rermal absthemere from wery lntoxleathig drink. I lave oftem hourd tho late N. P. W'illis sperak of Pores

 E"ef Mirfor, ol" which Mr. Willis was ome of the erlitors. L'ore, he womld saly, was nsambly one of the mest dulat, regular, and fontlemmilike of mon, remarkably neat in his person, rlagant and orikerly about his work, und wholly wexreptionable lin comdant and ilemeamor. Jint in a weak moment, tompled, perhaps, bey a friemd of hy the devil (Opportanity, ho woild take one erlase of wian or lifuor. From that moment he was another belar. Ifis sulf control was gome. An Irresistlble thirst lor stronge drink possemaded him, amd he would drink and drink mad drink, as long as he conld lift a ghass to his lipes. If heromble mot gey fond ligutor, ho wonld drink land: all he dosired was something flererly stimulating. Ile would frepuently keep this up for severai diys amd nights, until, in finct, his system was piriferdy exhenteded, amil he had berin taken helpless amd imresisting to bed. - CyColemona on JBua. 1. 1316.
2054. INTEMPERANCE, Wages and. "('ider W'ages." [. Whout the elose of Heseventeonth cerntury began a rustom which han continuted matil the present time. It was] "the payment, by the firmer, of a portion of his lahorors' wares in and the donth. The great railronds and thoronthfares ran liast and West. Emigration flowed from the last to the West. Betweren the North and Sonth licere was little travel or interobange of opinion. From want of acquaintance the peorple, withont intendingit, berame estranged, jealous, sunpicions. They misjulged each others motives: they misweresented ench other's beliefs amb purpas. they suspected ench other of dis:honesty and it. $\quad \therefore$ Before the outbreak of the war the people of the two sections looked upon each other almost in the lighat of different nation-alitios.-RundTH's U. S., ch. 62, p. $4 \times 9$.

2957. INTERCOURSE, Unity by, L'nitel States. 'The third comse of' the rivil war was the'

295\%. INTEREST prohibited. lirign of Mr'ury TIII. It is worthy of motice that in this rejarn, likewise, the interest of money was first tixed by law in liagland. While this continued an arbittrary matfor-that is to say, while the prohilaitions of the canon law were in full force, which, as we formorly remarked, comdemned all interest as illegal and contrary to the express command of Scripture-its exaction, being kept socret, was beyond measure exorbitunt. Twenty amd thirly prer went were, in the fourteenth ecentury, ueishment of nsary, limited the legni interest ta ters per cent, at whish rate it condimand ill ufter

2955\%. INTERPRETATION unrestricted. $\quad / y$ - wrare varionsly rolated, the sumed haterpervers wate it liberty to welert lar mont eonvenient Chromastancos; and as they tramshated an arbi. trary cipher, they comble eximet from any fathe systom of relighon and philonople. 'Tlue laselthe diveotary of somine moral precepl or some phaturd the revolution of the sun leetwrentho trephes, or the nopmation of the haman soml Irom vice ami error. ['lime ol Jullan.]-Ciar.

 hon. |A jremeli luphirer askel (bonemul (trant, when in Jurls, " " How aldily than ont President "" "Wre were mamble to comprehemed anch other," " Jow was that \%" I sald, with astomishmont. "Simple enongh; I dhen't understand a word of Fremela; the marhad doesat kbow il word of Euglish. He bowed to me; I howerl to him. He extended his hand to me: 1 "xtemedel wine to him. Thbem all was over."-

2061. INTIMIDATION successful. C'uptrint John Fimith. Smith's tirst ame chief raro was to make a proper imple ssion ripon the minds of the savages. . . Ileorelered the twormanon whied he had promised to give to | Kingr] Powhatan 10 le bronght ont and lomded for the mazale with stomes. 'I'Ien, mader the preteme of teaching the Indians rimumory, he had the pieces discharged among the tree-tops, whirh wore bristling with icirles. 'There was a terrible erash, and the savages, cowering with fear amd amazemont, coukl not be indmed to tonch the fearfal engines. - Rinpatu's L. S., ch. 9, p. 101.
2906. IN TOLERANCE and Immorality, Charlrmagme. Clarlamagne was fully cetmal to any of those sovareigns to whom history awards the mane of Great, if he did not sumpas them all. Jlis two greal fandes were lis religions intolerance, which carried binn into the most sangrimary excesses of imhoman rmelly, mon his laxity of persomal morals. -stements' Fances, 294B3. INTOLERANCE, Protestant. Ti Romumists. [ln 1698 was passod] the " Aret for the further preventing the growihof Popery ;" it reobites that there has been a greater resort into this kingdom than formerly of popish priests, bishops, und Jesats. Any person npprehembling and proseruting to conviction any bishop, priest, or Jesnit, for saying mass or exorrising any priostly fanction, is to reecive n reward ol $£ 100$. Tho punishment of such convicted persons, or for a papist kecping a school, is to be prepetmal lmprisomment. Every jerison elneated in the popish religion upon attaining the are of eighteen, to lake the outh of alleriance and supremacy, and subseribe the decharation arainst transubstantiotion und the worship of saints, and in default of of purehasiug linity, or of fotheriting landsinader may dever of limilation, lize bext of kin being a protestant, forenges sich devised latils durfigg

29BL. INTOLERANCE, Religlous. l'miter ('tormotures. | In ibiol larker, ifferwand Bishop of ()xford, was Indslermet townel Nomeonformists.
 leforg romplided wath, must Ine restrained with smore jesemplory mai wavididing rigor than ENG., wh. t, H. 10, 11, 311.
20035. INTOXICATION, Responsibility for. Murder: |Bedivilus, the gremt Romann genment, was dist inguished by his thrmases and sevority. 'T'wo ol the Jhan, wholan elrunkens plarrel ham slath one of thejr fidlow-soldiors, were lastantly shown to the nemy stispermbed on atol'ty gibher. 'The tualional dignity was resented by theif comastrymen, who dimelalmed the servile laws of the: empire, mal asepted the free privilege of Neythan, whersa small the was allowed to explate the lomel, and the Remams were bot averse for therex. ample of disurder and intpunty. Oht the riving seditions was upposed by the mathority mad rlo. gurnere of the gracernt ; mind he reprexanted to the assembind troops the ohligation of justice, the indurtance of discipllase, the rewarls of picty anid vistase and the mapardomble ernilt of matrdor, which, in his rpprehension, was nggravated rather than examed by the viere of intoxieations. - (imbins Romb, coli. 11, p. 1:1.

20086. INTRIGUE, Genius for. Finom de Beal"mumblis. A.D. 1774. "Isthere," saill he thromgh In Sartines, the hand ol the poillee [to lomis XV1., twonty yoursal age, ambabsolate momarch of Framere], "mything which the king wishes to know mone and at onec-anything which he wishes done putekly mad servetly, here min I, who have at hisservice a homd, a hempt, arme, nad no tongue."-B.ancmorrs C.S., vol. 7, ch. 1.
2067. INTRIGUER, Successful. Simelertumd.
 other aromplished thaterers and negrotintors, he was far mone skilful in the art of rembing the characters and practising on the weaknesses of individuals than in the art of diserming the feedings of great masses and of loresoring the appromela of great revolations. Wr was adroit in Intrigue: and it was dilleult even for shrewal and experioned men, who had beron amply formwarned of his prertidy, to withatamd the lisedmtion of his mamer, imil to refinse credit to his professions of attarhment ; but he was so intent on observing and compting particular persoms, that he forgot to study the trimper of the mation. Te therefone miscoiciblated grossly wilh resperet to all the most momentoms events of his time. Every imperinat movement and relound of the public mind took him by surprise: nod the world, mable to understind how so clever $n$ man could be bind to what was clearly disererned by the politicinas of the colfee-honses, sometimes attributed to deep design what were, in truth, mere blumders. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. ${ }^{2}$, p. 231.
2968. INVENTION by Accident, Spinningjenny. In 1767 James Margreaves completed his Harkemaes roilage bedng ancidentally ower. Inrmad, it was alserverd that the wherd inmel the wibdie continned to revolve. It the pasition of tho wheed of lis side the spindle trember perpen and forthwils conseructed amalliplying wherd.
 Ilis jombors melghinars broke into his horser, de. streval his lavelition, mad comindled him to lly for his life to Notlingham. [lle took out " pai to the Sonthern ditas, and hife ll was that ford to the dise arding of wres lir the worka of Yanker Flocks. On the voyage the wood would swall Jerome was depressed from a lomporary lall ita the busimess, and much trombled with this new ditllondty, the hem dartud into his mbind that

 'The Verould hat collerted rever shipthat they or theis nllies possessed toriefomi themselves. I'hey had two limbirol und twenty sail in uli - a forece considering ita flametor, extremely for midable. Their vesseds were tow strong to be rim down. The galloge carriod tomets; but the bows mad sorise of ilue Vibneti were still tom lofty to be remelal ethertively by the Romm javedins. The Romans hat the mematage in sued ; hat that was all 'They low, however, had their ingenuitios. 'I'hey liad stmdied the construction al the Brotors ships. "They had provialed sicklos with lour hamelos, with which they propessed to matela the halyaris which helal the worghe of the homy lemher sails. It was mot dillicult to do, if, as is probmble, the hat gards wore made fasi, not to the mast, lat tu the ganwale. Swopping mpidly alongside they conded easily rut them ; the sails would fall, and the verseds womid be ummamareable.-Finotobe:s 2971. INVENTION appreciated, Imrirlmm. [1)r. Eilmumd Cartwright, aclopergman, invented the power-loom in 178t: and in 1807 parliament granted him $£ 10,000)$ for the gowd savier ho had remelered the public by his invention of 2974. INVENTION, Benefit of. (itmmm, I\| the matile of Angom the main loody itself was supported on the blanks and in the rear by dae brivest spumblrons of the reserve, commanded by the sons und grandsonsol Timonr. The congiveror of IIndostan ontentationsly showed : line of elophants, the arophies rather than the instraments of virtory ; the wse of the dirock fire was familiar to the Doguls and Ottomans: but had they borrowid from Enrope the revent invention of gunpowder and cmmon, the artiticial thunder, in the hauds of either nation, must have turned the fortume of the day,-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 65, p. 265.

2973. INVENTION, Comfort by. Ear thenware. [In 1763 Josiah Wedgwood, amechamic.
discovered a poocess of manufacturing a cheap and exceldrat carthenwarr, which removed] the pewter dishes from the dingy mows in the trindesman's kitchen, and superseded the worden phatter and the lorown dish of the foom man's coltare. -KNuill's EN(i., vol. 7 , (1). 3, 1). $\%$.

29\%I. INVENTION, Crisis of. Elias Moire. One day, in $14+t$, the thonght thashed 1 pon him, Is it nue essary that a mat! ine should imitate the performamer of the hamd: May there not low another stiteh \% This was the revis of the invern tion The iden of uanir two thres is, and form ing a stitels by the aid of a shattle and a courved needle, with the eyenear the point, soon ocemred to him, and he felt that he ha' invented a sewingmachine. It was in the month of October, 18t4, that he was able to convince himerelf, hy a rough model of wood and wire that sueh a machine as he had projected wonld sew. -Cscharentid of Biog., p. 680.
2975. INVENTION, Discouragement in. Jttmes Watt. I havenow brought the engrine neme acomclasion, yet am not an iolea nearer that rest I wish for than was four vearsaro. llowever, 1 am ensolverd io do all I cain to carry on this husiness, and if it does not thive withme I will hay aside the hurden 1 cannot carry. of all things in life there is nothing more foolinh than inverit-

2976. INVENTION, Failure of. Fronele Wishlington. We find in his diary many such entries as these: "Npent ti.e greater part of the day in making a new plougri: of my own inventio: ." "Peter (my smith) and I, after several efforts to make a plough after a new model, partly of my own rontriving, were fain to give it over, at
 p. 12 .
2977. IN VENTION, Genius for. Almohnm Lineoln. It is an attempt to make it an masy matter to transport vessels ower shoals and smags and sawyers. Themain ideal is that of an apparatias resembling a noiseless bellows, placed on each side of the hull of the craft. just below the water-line, amd worked hy an old lat not comsplicated system of ropers, valves, and pullers. When the keed of the vessel grates. . . these bellows are to be tilled with air: and thas buoyed up, the ship is experted to tloat.

The model is [at the Datent Otlicer] about riahtern or twenty inches lung. . . . whittler! with a knife ont of a shimgle and a cigar-hox. - R.avaonis's Lincome ch. 1, 1. $4 ?$.
2978. -- Chinese. The Chinese have had a manufactur- of glass for two thonsand years ; they have made paper of the bamboo from time immemorial ; and they invented the art of printiner in the time of Julius Ciesar. The use of grmpowder they have possossed beyond all memory, but ther employed it only in ornamental tireworks. They hate been great observers of the howerns, and protio. ients in astronomy, from time inmomorinl. They were accuabined with the compass, but only as a matter of enriosity, not applying it to navigation. TrTLelis ITIs't., Book 6, ch. 24, p. 340.
2979. - - James H'att. A Masons' lodge in Glasgow desired to have an oryan, and he was askod to buikl it. Jle was totally destitute of a musical car, and could not distinguish one note lyom another. But he acoretom the olfer. ITe stadied the philosophical theory of mosic, and fomme that seionce wonld be a substi-Gildillles, l. 14.
2980. INVENTION, Great. Spinning Machime. [Richard Arkwright, lom in l'reston, Enerland, a berber lis trade, invented the mina ning-marbine in $176 \dot{x}^{-}$] Ton venra after therlate of his tirst patent his conterprise was requmed hy many as a douht ful novelty. [llis right to his juventions was cratested, and hi., monopoly inval. ed un every side.] ln Octoher, 17a!. a mill whwh he had areded in the neighborhome of ('horley was burned by a moh, who in a similar manner destroged the cotton-spinning mathines
 Preston.-KNuin's ENi., vol. 7, ch. 3, p. 44.
29s1. INVENTION, Growth of. Simuel F. B. Worare. There is no instance on record, I believe, of a great invention completed by ... ond man. Esually an invention of first-mite importance is originated in one are, and bromegt to perfection in another ; mal we can sometimes trace its prog. ress for thousands of years. Probibly sosimple a matter as a pair of seissors-one of the oldest of inventions-was the result of the cogitations of many ingenious mimbs, and has molergone improvements from the days of Pharaoh to those of langers & Sons. The most remarkable case of rapid invention with which I am aropainted is that of the sewing-mathine, which, in twenty. five gears, has been brought to a point mot distant from perfection. But, then, thensermeds of ingenions minds have axerted themselves ineon it ! Fn the Patema othice at Washington no iess than thirteen homdred de ices and inprove monts have 'eern putented relating to this heratilul contri-vance.- ('ycuopredid OF Bioq., r. 604.
2982. INVENTION, Preservation by. Greek Fire. The invention of the Greck fire did not, like that of gumpowder, probluce a total revolition in the art of war. To these licuide combnse tibles the city and emprire of Constantine owed their deliverance: and they ware employed in siegres and sea-fights with ierrible effect.-GibHON's ROME, ch. 53, 1. 36\%.
2983. INVENTION, Saved by. Thu, Stite. The only hope of :alvation for the Grcek Empire and the adjacent kinglems womld have been some more powerfal weapon, some diseovery in the art of war, that should give them a dedisive su. periority oser their Turkish foes. Such a werpe on was in their hands; such a discovery had been made in the critical moment of their fate. The themists of China or Europe had foumd, by casmal or elahorate experiments, that a mixtime of saltpetre, sulphar, and charcoal produces, wilh at spark of tirr, a tremembous explosion. It was soon olsereved that if the expmasive force wore compressed in a strongr tulie, a ball of stone or iron might he expelled with irresistible and destructive velocity. The mrecise erat of the inrention and application of cranpowder is involver in choubtfal traditions and equivocal language ; yet we may clarly discern that it was known before the inidalle of the fonterenth century ; and that before the end of the same the thee of artillery in battles and sieqes, by sea and lanel, was fimiliar to the states of Germany, Italy, Spaia

Framer，and Englamd．－（inmos＇y Ronde，di．Gis， 1）． $2 \times 4$
29W．I．INVENTION，Usefui．（＇lum＂ry hermer． It inventerl the cheap brase chork，as now made．He it was who invented the ingenious mathinery by the ase of whicha those clocks can be manfartined foratanth of the sum for which they could he produced by hand．He it was whe first sent lamker clorks to foreign eomantrins．Ite it was w？tirst made the er clocksat any thing like the present rate of sperd or on any thing like the present sable．During the tifty years that he han bern in the lmsiness，he superintended the mamufature of perlun，．．ten millions of clocks，amd he has brought the machinery for making them to such a point that six men can make ile wheds for one thousand docks in ten

29m．t．INVENTION，Useful．Pit－iron．［1］r． Wohn Robbuck，a physician at Birminglam．was the tian to smolt iron ly pit－coal．ILe also in－ vented the process for converting cast iron into I．is．

2906．INVENTION in Youth，The＂Multe，＂ framber（rompton was sisteren yemri old when， in lital，he invented the＂mule．＂which citatered Lixt，vol．T，ch．3，P． 46.
290：＇．IN VENTIONS， $\mathbf{C o}$ operative．Ahirright －Hett．The patert for the spinning－frame was baken ont in 1abg，the very vear in which ，whes Walt patented his intprovedstemerngine．which was to kecp this spiming－frame in motion．－ （＇valomenti of Boci．p，\％ll．
298＊．INVENTIONS and Politics．C＇oftom Gim． ［Ge of the subordinate canses of the ejvil war］ was the invention of the cotton gin hy ．．．Eli Whitnes－in 1793，．．．of Massulhusefte．．．．The industry of the cotton－growing States was paral． yad by the tedionsuess of preparing the satap for market．Mr．Whitury undertaok to remose the diftioulty and suceredent in inventing a gin which astonished the beholder by the rapidity and exerlence of its work．From being protit－ fess，cotten berame the most protitable of all the staphes．．．Whatneys gin added a thousand mill－ ion dollars to the revemes of the sonthern stat－s．．．．Jus in proportion to the inereased profitableness of cotton，slavelaber became im－ portant．slaves valuabie，and bhe syatem of slat very a fixen and deep－rooted insitution．—Ras． PATH＇s L．K．，cl．62，1．4ni．
 Merse．During the vogage of her parke ship sully．from Ifavre to Niw York，in October， $1 \times 30^{2}$ ，a conversation arose one lay in the cabin upon electricity and magnetism．Dr．（harless． Jiakson，of Boston，described ：m experiment ro． cemty made in Paris with an ceretro－magnet，by meatio of which electricity had been transmitted through agreat length of wire，arranged in cir－ elda amat the walls of a lange aparment．Tha tramsmiseson had leen instantaneous，and it aremed as though the thight of elactricity was too rapid of he measured．Among the irvonp of patachares，no one listened more atentively to Dr．Tackeon＇s recialal than a New York artist， named samued Finley Breese Morse，who was returning from a three years＇residene in Europe，
whither he ham gone for improvernent in his art． ＂Why．＂suid he，when the doetor had tinished， ＂if that is so，ami the presernce of electricity combl tre mand visibla in thy dosired part of the （ireuit，I ser mo mavon why intelligence mirl：t not be tansmitted instmbateonsly by ofedrid－ 1y：＂＂How combanient it wombl he，＂added one of the passengers，＂il＇we conded senden mew in that manner＂＇＂Why can＇t we ？＂asked Morse fas－ cinated by the iden．From that hour thesubjeet ortupiol his thotight－：and ba begun forthwith to exorefe his lanke ingombity in devising 1）．bit？

299O．INVENTOR，Trials of the．．wh＂Fitch． In all the records of invention there is no story more sall mal afferting than his．Poor he was in many suses－poor in purse，poor in appear ance，poor in spirit．Jle was born poor，lived poor．died poor．．．．If there aver was a true inventor，this man was ome．He was one of those rager sombs who would，litesally，coin their own Hesh to carry their point．Itionly utterem the obvious truth when he said，one dive in a rexisis of his invention，that if he could get flot ly cut－ ting oft one of his begs he would grally efive it （1）the knife．

In 1790 he had the tirst steam－ boat ever eonstructed that answered the purpose

2991．INVENTOR wronged．$E / i=\| \% / m y$. ［＇Thre cotton gin alded a thousamed miltion dol－
 ratis．］Llow murh did the inventor rain by it？ Not one doblar ！Associating himself with a man of rapital，he weat to（omberdient to set ap a mamufactory of cotton gins．But the simplicity of the machine was sut h that moy gool morehanic Whos saw it could make omb ：and long before Whitocy was ready to stpply machines of his own making there were great mbmbers in opera－ ban all overtherotton Siates．Inis patent proved tobe wo protertion to him．If he brought a suit for its infringement．＇w Southern jury would give him a verdict．loe strugerled on mgamst ad－ verse intlucures for fift．：yers．In 180）whern his patent expirad，he sate un the contest，and witharew from the businms a peorer man than he was on the day when he went，with his hand－ ful of cottom－podis，into Mrs，（iremon $\circ$ basoment．
 1）． 161 ．

6992．——．John hat．［John Kay is supposed to have invented the first spinning－mat． Chinc，about 1760，in Yorkhare，England．ILe invented the＂By－shattle．＂by which a waver －ond weave i wieq as fast as hefore．］Ite was mobled ont of the cometry，and dicel in a forexom

2999：3．INVENTORS remunerated．Stourl $/$ ．It Was ten frars Jofore landlon and Watt dorived any protit from the discovery［at the steimern－ gine minde by the latter．They had fo strugerle
 vol．7，ch． 3 ，

699．1．IN VESTIGATION opposed．F＇iルぃいrial． ［Juring the reign of（＇harles Il．］Pepys records that in the lord treasurer＇s acoounts there was a smm mancombed for of over two millions ：amd that it was thought that over $£ 400,000$ of the money voted for the war had vone into the privy
purse．We then says that a motion of a commis． sjon toinspert the acromnts＂makes the king and condt mad，the king having qiven oreder fory ford elamberlain to semel to the playbonses and brothrés，to bid all the larlimment mien that were there wa to the latiament presently．＂The times were altered since they were to lye somght for in rharela＇s and conventioles．－ExNatires ENa，vol．4，川h．15，p．S24． 2998．INVESTIGATION resented，$/ . m+1$（lu） curlone．［Rojgen ol＇（＇harlos II．｜＇The govermment ergated with We Enited lroviners．＇The IJoms of C＇ommons readily voled sums unc－Natmpled in one history－sums axcerling thon when hat －npported the armios and tlects of＇（＇romwed at the time when his power was the terror ol n＇ the workl．Bat such was the extravagance，dis． homesty，and inompaedty of those who had stac－ cereded to his mothority，that this liberality proved worse than mseless．＇The strefiphants of the connt，ill－（quatitied $t^{\circ}$ ）eontend arginst the gratat men who then direetad the arms of I Iollame－ agatast suchatatexman as low Witt，and such a commandar as le leastor－mate lomtmos rapid－ ly，while the sailorsmonined l＇rom very homerer， while the dorkyords were unguareled，while the ships were leaky and withomit rigering．It was at lengeth determined to abmaton all selemes of of fensive war ：and it soon appured that even ale－ funcive war was a task toobarel for that adminis tration．．．．But when the Commons beran to inguire in what manmer the moner veted for the War had beren wasterl，athel to examine into the imdernation．Such imfuiry，seoording lor him，
 （1． 2, 〕．17！

2096．INVESTIGATION，Startling．f＇réli： Mobilier．The（＇realit Mobilior ol＇Amariet wis it jomatock company，organizal in 1 sti：3 for tha purpose of facilitating the eonstruction of publar dertaken to build the Paceitic Raileoal purehased the eharter of the（＇redit Mohilier，and the（：ap）－ protitable：．．The shák row rapiolly in vilue．］ ctartling fact that mach of the stork those members had voted eorruptly on the lexis－ lation atfecting the lametio Railmad at anco inverigetion，in the contre of white many sam

 －hipof the lamd．［Peter］Minnit［ther lader of the

 －－for mone tham twonty thousamd ancos，－Bins

2906．IRON，Importance of．Filflelud．What

11．and Eneland supplying the whole world
 11－Womben walls．＂and Enelamd lmalding iron nips－maner iron as the ereat material of the strutive art－overing the whole ishnod with iron roads lor rehides drawn ly iron engines． commerting oppositu hills lyy iron viaduros，amd arrying fron briclges over the marrowest river and the brombest extuary－the Engrand ol every tool amb every mathine jronlaced foom iron，and the Enghand with searcoly fron anomgh to make 1）． 11.

29999．IRON prized．Eitly（ircthe．It is propur to observe that itom，thongh known hefore this feriod，was a rame metal，and aceomated of high value．Arhilles proposed a hall of inomas one of the prizes in the lumeral games which lat cole－ brated in homor of Patroc＇las．It was bad nsed in the labriation ol＇weapons of war．＇These were formed of copper hardened ly an admixt－ ure of $\mathfrak{l i n}$ ；and even in murl latar periods the： Rommen swords were of the same eomponmel

 ［In their early history］themosi formilable States of Gemmany affered to emeonapass their territo－ ries with a wide frontier of solitude and devas－ tation．The awful distance preserved by their nefighturs antested the leror of their arms，and insome measure defemed them from the dan－上er of umexpected incursions．－－Gibiton＇s Rome， （＇h．！，1．2\％）．
：BOOI．ITINERACY，Ministerial．Methodist． ［The tirst Debhodist Jwarlers in Americat
 lWit the（kemeal Gonference limited the period of pastoral servier fotwosucerssive years io the samo chatige ；hitherto there hatl beres no re strichion，abd somm hat heren three yans in ont appointment．In lsif the limitation was ex． vol． $4,1,1 ; 1$.

30012．JE ILUUSY，Appeal to．loltaire＇s．［Ite Was invited lo ro－itla at Fredericels＇s conart．Itis ararice norasioned hesitation．］Fracerick，with －r ent dexterity，affered indifference，and secomer inslined to i：，ander his idolatry to lincularel d＇Amand．！lis Majosty even wrote some had verses，of which the semse was，that Voltaine was ascting sum，and that Imand was rising．（foonl－ matured friendes som carried the lines to Voltaire． It wis in his terel．He jumperl whe in his shirt． dancerl ahout the room with rage ame sent for his pasiport atad his post－hosses［and want to Pros－
 1． $1: 2$
is003．JEALOUSY，Cruelty of．（＂mmmentis．（）mu

 amphitheatro，in assissin，who wated his peas－ situe rushmel y！om him with a drawn swerd， loudly exclamings．＂The serette semde yout this．＂ The mentiow prevented the derel：the asswsin was mized hy the ernates，and immodiately re－ valled the andhore of the eanspirares．It hamberen formen，not in the State，hat within the walls of the palace．Latilla，the emperores sister，and armed the momerer atainst her bothery lite．－ （rimbois lionde，if．1，1）． 104.

3001．JEALOUSY，Extensive，Fítht．Ilulal－ bah was the most beamtilul and mondent of the Arahian gonth : and in the lirs night, when la commmanated his marriage with Anima, of the moble pace of the Zalarites, two humdred virgins neresad to have expired of jatonsy and despair. - Cimbos's Romer, ri, in, 10. 100.

:300.j. JEALOUSY, National. E'mplish. [In 1ist the pephle of England were semerally unit. ad with the government in the prosecution of the war arainst the Ameriomandonies. France had come to theirad and prejudice in England was ver. atrong gainst hat combery I Hartley writes onsy between Eunghend and France, that this coninter wobld tiefle lor a straw to the hast man and the last shilling moner than he dientad to 1. +2א.
:BOOt\%. JESTING, Danger of. Them retizin!!. Thespis began to change the form of tragedy, and the novelty of the thing attrate many sume tators: for this was before any prize was proposed for those that exerelled in this resyed. Sofon, who was aldays willing to har and to leam, and in hisold age inore inclined tomything that might divert and entertain, parlicularly tomasic and grood fellowship, wemt to see The pis himself exhibit, as the custom of the anciont ports was. When the play was domes he rathed to Thespis, and asked him if he was wot ashamel to tell wo many lies before wi, greal an asembly Thespis answered it was 131 great mater, if be spoke or acted on in jom. Tow which sellomer plicd, striking the ground violently will low tath, quickly find it in cur contract-and agrements.

:300\%. JESUITS abolished, Kiighto with ('íntury. Bonks were written withon manber to exporim their artiliece and ambition. Thoir frands, their wices and aren atrodons remes were bondly proclamed ; and it wat ursed. With great reasom, that the doctring whirh they talish and the bereder that their power and (ern persomad se Gurity was in damer. and the deante were sumcosicaly (xpollol from France, from spain, leragth was the influcture of the homse of bome bon with the Holy sere, that the order wasen tirely suphersed and atholished in 17a3. - Tyr.

300w. JESUITS, Achievements by. Mixtimguis// ad. Before the order hand existed a humberd sears, it had tilled the whold woth with memm.

 a list of aem so varionsly distingrished ; momehal of fereling amd action. There was norerion of the efober, no wallk of sparatative of at active lifer in which Jentits were mot to be fomme. They ernded the combersof kines. They deci phered Latin inerpiptions. They obarrved the motions of dupiters satedlites. They puhthed Whole libaries, controwery. Gimisiry, history, treatises on ontics, Alatio indes, edtions of the fathers, madrigals, caterhims, and hampons.

The libreal chacuion of youth pasial ahmont contirely into their hamds, find was comblucted hy them with conspicuous ability. They apear in have diseovered the precise pome to which intel lerthal culture con be carried without riak of
 (ll. ti, p. 5t).
8009. JESUITS, Assassination by. //i ury /I: A daring attempt [was made upon his lite by a pomen desuit named (Chaster, who wounded hinn in the month withad digeras har re conered Paris lrom Amions. This rrime wis imputed, with or without reasem, tu the instigation of the kine of Span: it furnishod gromal for an exmphary ( bastivement of the order of the Jesuits, who were sentenced to banishment from the kingdom wibsin tiftern dase by a derere of the Parliament of Paris. [lla was killed by a monk.]-S're-

3010. -- Williom of tremere. William, Prince of orange, hand fallen beneath the how of an assassin, hired, it is more than susperted, by the King of Spam, and directed by the ketping : wnd he had learned from them to ah) for dansenism thite as much as la ahborred Protutatiom, and wey much mote than he abhorem atherism. Smanemt XI., on the other bamel, leanel to the Jamemist opinions. The comenpuence was, that the sexdety foumd itsedf in asituation wever entemplated"hy it. foumber. The Jesuits were estramgel fromi the supreme pontill, and they were domely allied with a priner who prodamed himself the champion of the datlican libertion ond the ememy of thra-3014. JESUITS, Mission of, (issmuntital". Thay glided l'rom one Probestant commery to : an other moder innumershb dixuixas as gay casaliers, ans simpla rustics, il puritan pratelars. They wandered to commtrion hieh meither mercamile avidity nor liberal curbuily had ever impelled any sfanger to explone fine were tobe formd in the garl) of Mandation- wherintembing the observatory at Prkin. Thes were to be foumd. spade in hatad. teachene the ramiments of asriculture to the satages of P'aragnas. Yo. whaterem might be theif rexilemere whatever might be their rimployment, llarir suitit was the samberntire dration to the centmon (athor, impicit obedience th the exatral andmority-Ma-

:3011. JESUITS estranged. Reithu of Jomes II. Lomis XIV. Was now hof chicl support.
 1. 37.

 [When Guidn Fawlice was examine a altor his

 by the pope, " wan the riply. "How so ?"

 of the ("hasely uf Rome," is the explamation.
 Eng on that previlons ath of Nowomber to Dunthareln, which was the phace of rateroms. by armagement.! They were all loblowers al tie Jesuits. There were none of the comspirators who belonged to the more loyal herly of ('atho-lies, wo were guded by the seedular priesthond.

301.1. JESUITS, Popularity of. Eicylternth ('intury. It was not strange that people of ath ramke, mail apecially prople ol' the highest ramks, rrowed to the comfessionals in the Jesuit tomphes, for from thoser confessionats nome womt discontented away. There the priest was all things to all mon. lte showed just so much riger as might out drive those who knelt at his spirithal tribunal to the bominicam or the Francisent Chureh. If he had to deal widn a mind truly devont, he soke in the saintly toneol' the primitive fathers; but with that very large pate of mankind who have religion enough to make them tucesy when they do wrong, and not religion enongh to kerp them from doing wrong, he followed a very different systom. Since ber corid not recelam them from guit , it was has busineses to save them from remorse. He had at his command an immense dispensary of thodynes for
 p. 5.
301.3. JESUITS, Power of. Eithterenth C'entury. Strimgely were wood and exil intermixed in the eharacter of these cellebrated brethren ; and the intemisture was the seecet of their gigantic power. That power conld never have helonged to more hypocrites. It cond nower have belonged to rigid moralists. It was to be attanedonly by men sincerely enthasiastio in the pursuit of a great emel, and at the same time unserupulone is to the choide of means. - Macas: Lay's Ext., ch. 6, p. 53.
3016. JESUITS, Purpose of. Lighternth ('ciltury. The Jesuits, therefore, to the three vows of powerty, (rhastity, and momastic obedience added a fourth, which was implicit de votion to the pope. The manifest mility of this institution to the support of the holy sece procured them from Pope Paul Ill, an apostolic bull, granting them the most ample privileges. it was somin percerived that, if contimed to thair choisters, their wility would be too much circomseribed.' 'They were allowed to mingle in the wordd, and to take a share in all the adive conerems of publie life, which it was their duty to inthence mat dieert assidmusly towart the great end of extablishing the power and anthority of the popedom; and this end, it mast be ewind, they most zeatonsly promoted. L'uder the command of a superior, or general of the order, whose instruetions they were bound to reroive with implicit submision, they dispersed themselves over the greateat part of the erlobe. By the most insinnating arts they courted the finor and wrought themedves into the contidence of statesmen, of civil and reclesiastieal govermors, and of soverdign primes ; and operatiag on all to the same parpowe, and regularly communicathag their intelligenere to their heat, from whom the received their instruetions. the whole (atholi- world Wats in a maner direded by one great and pervadiner system of poliey, which centred in the estahlishment of the pepers supreme : ral and -pirithat jurisdiction.-TyTher's Itar.. Book 6, ch. 19, p. 2x.i.
3017. JESUITS, Rescued by. lifury. In t!a sixternth remtury the pontificate, expensed to new dangers more formidabte than had ever batiore theretened it, wes sived by anew religiomsorter, which war amimated hy intense collhusiasm and organizel with expliisite skill. When the Jesuits rame to the resclue of the papmey, they fomed it in extreme peril: but from liat mas ment the tide of batle turned. Protestantism, Which had, during a whok generation, carricol all before it, was stopped in its progress, tund rapidly beatell hack from the foot of the Alps to the shores of the Baltie.-Macambis's Enci. (h. (6), p. 50).
:3018. JESUITS, Self-sacrifice of. Beneroldine. When in our time a mew and terrible pestikence passed romen the glowe; whan in some great ritios fear had dissolved all the ties which hold soreidy together: when the serolar clergy hat Ifeserted their theres: when medical succor was not to be purchasced by gold; when the strong(sit matural afferetions had yielded to the tove of life, wen then the dennit was lomad hy the patlet which bishop amd curate, physicimand murse. lather and motiner, had deserted, bending over infered lips to catch the faint are ents of conferssion, and holding up, to the hast, before the expiring penitent, the imagre of the expiring IRe-deemer:-Macartay: Ext., ch. B, p. in.
3019. JESUITS vs. the Stste. In Eiuglimil. [The de:uits invaled Eughand in 158t, for the purpose of restoring it to the Roman faith. It was a principle with them that the pope had a right to deprive kings of their crowns, whith could not be dembed. Ther were se verely pme ished when they obsthately maintained the pope's bull deprivig the gheen of the crown.] Kxicur's Exa., vol. 3, ch. 12, p. 180.
2020. JESUITS suppressed. Biy (iorerument. They had heen expelted from Portugal, in 1750 with many odions diremmstane of severity. In 1764 their suciety wis suppresed in France, and their property contiseated. In 1767 the members of the oriter were driven out of Spain. On the 3lst of July, 1atis, the socicty was abolished by Pope (lement XIV. [Their fumetions, houses, and institutions were abolished.]Kxignr's Exa., vol. 6, (h. 21, p. $322^{2}$.
3021. JESUITS, Vices of. Imsincerity. It was allegred, ind not without foundation, that the ar dent publics spirit which made the Jesnit regardless of his ease, of his biberty, and of his lite made himalso regardloss of truthand of mercy that mo means which cond promote the ... terest of his religion secmed to him unlawful, and that hy the interest of his religion he too offen meant the interest of his society. It was allerged that, in the mose atrocions plots rerorded in history, his agency could be distinetly traced ; that, constant ouly in attachment to the fratemity to which he belonged, he was in some comeries the most dingerons encmy of fredom, and in others the most dangerons ememy of or der.-Maratt.ay's Exc., ch. 6, p, 5.

BWZ2. JEstits, Victories of Fictitious. The mighty vietoric's which lee [the Jesuit] boasted that he had ach ored in the eamse of the ('hure here, in the juldement of many illastrions members of that ('lomed, rather apparent than renl. He and. imbed. batored with a wonderful show of sucoess to reduce the worl under her laws, hut he had done so by re :her liws to suit the temper of the werlit. :n

motele standard fixed by divine preerent und rx. ample, he had lowered the standind till it was beneath the average level of haman mature. Ife gloriod in maltitudes of romerets who had heren lmptized in the remoteregions of the lass; Int it was reported that lion some of these conserts the finetson whiele the whole theology of the Gosper depends had bern commingly concented, and that othere were permitted to avoid perseention by bowing down before the imaresof fatse mods. while intermally repeating bators and Aves. -

30-2;B. JEWELRY, Passion for. $H / 1 r y$ ! $/ /$. [ It is suid] his desire for the aneutrement of jew-
 alone lat spent $£ 110$, bioto. It apjears . . . Ihat this investment of momey in jewels was a part of the habitum prudence of the king. - KXarats ENo., vol. 2, (ch. 15, 1). 2336.
3022. JOKE accopted. Larctitmomions. I. 11 the public tables, where all the people ate in common, ] they wereallowedtor jest without somrility, and were not to take it ill when the raillery was returnecl. For it reas reckonned arorthy of it Latiodermonial" toberor jost ; but if any ome's patiencer fated, he hat only wo desire them to he faidet, and they lelt off immediately.-Porrancu* IJVES.
3025. JOKES, Practical, Fivelerick the liwert. Ife had one taste which may be pardoned in a ber, hat which, whem habitanly and deliberately induged in by a man of matiore ageamel strong moderstameling, is almost invariably the sign of a bad heart-a laste for severe practical jokes. If a friend of the king wis fond of dress, oil was thang over his richest suit. If he was fond of money, some prank was invented to make him dishmese more than he could spare If he was hypochomdriasial, he was mate to believe he had the dropsy. If he particularly sot his heart on visiting a place, a letter was forged to frighten hian from going thither.-Macariay's Fren-

302Z6. JOURNEY, Bridal. Thomurs .J.tf'rsom. At sunset they reached the seat of one of their neighhors, which was cight miles from Jonti-celho-the road to which was a rengh monntain track, mpon which the suow lay to the clepth of two fert. Late at night, exhaisted with their long jommey, and penctrated with the cold, they reathed the homse, to timd the tires all ont, amid the serv. is all gone to their own eabins for the night. Not a light was lomrning ; not at surk of the was left ; not a morsel of food comid be fomad; and not a creature was in the house. This was a sorry weleome to a bride and bridegroon; but they were young and merry, and 3027. JOURNEY, Tireless. Towth r'mtmry. I matron of Pelopomensus, who had cherished the infant forfunes of basil the Macedonian, was exceited by femberness or vanity fo visit the erreatness of lier adopted son. In a journey of tive hunatred miles from Patras to constantinople, ber age or indolemer deelined the fatiguc of a horse or carriage ; the soft litare or bed of batnielis was transporte! on the shomblers of ten robust shates : amd as they were relioved at easy distameses a band of three humber were selected for the performance of this selvice. the was (entertained in the Byzantine palue with filial lRomk, (ll. 5is, p. 3is.

304W. JOY of Discovery. Ciclilur. Hrinvented the thermometrev ant improved the compatis. Hemring ond day, by chance, that some one in IIolland had invented acomtrivance by which distant ohjects romld be seen ats themish they ments which, in aliew dings, resilted in the cotsstruction of " lateseopr. At once he began to nse the new instrment in the study of the heare ras. To his boundless womder and delight, lee discovered that the moon, like the earth. lime her momatains nud her valleys; that the planet dathat the Milky Way was composed of immmerable stars; and that there were spots mon the 30.20. JOY, Fatal. Erphorers. Dias hat stationed a small storeship in one of the bity on the const al (imincal, which he left in charge al at purser and asmall erew. During his lomg albselnce disease hat redneed the monsher of this little band, matil nome remained hat the purser and two or there sick, despairing salans. When at hast the purser saw in the distance the wedlknown vessel of his commmander, surli was the whock of his joy that he fell deat upon the derek 33030. JOY intoxicating. Wellington. [When Wrellington was pursuing the routed French from Wraterloo, he rode with the mbanced ganed.] (ohonel liervey, who was with him, alvised him to desist, as lice combtry was growing leas opem, amd he might be fired at hy some stragelers frome lowimd the hedges. " Lat them fireaway," be replicd: "the battle is won, amd my life is of no valhe now."-KNum's ENG., vol. 8, ch. 2,1 . 36.

3031. J0Y, Public. Rdign of Jomes $I I$. [Acfuittal of the seven hishops who refused to join the king in overthrowng the Protestant faith.] The jury appeared in their box, and there was a Jreathless stilhess. Sir Sammed Astry spoke. "Io you timd the dofemdants, or any of them, puilty ol the misdemeanor whereof they are imparbibed, or not gnilty ?" Sir Roger Lamerley unswered, "Not guilty." As the words passed his lijs, IEalifas ipmong upand waved lis lata. At that signal benclus amd willerices mased it shout. In a moment ton thonsind prosens, who coowled the preat hall. replied with a still loudar shout, which mate the ald oaken roul crack; and in another moment the immmerable throngr without sot up at third hozai, which was hearil at Temple Bar. The boits which covered the Thames gave an answoring chere. A jeal of gumpowder was heard on the water, and amother, and amother : and wo. in a few moments, the ghat tidings wont flying pase the suvor and the Friars to lomalon Ibridere, and to the forest of masts below. As the news spread, streets amd syuares, maket-plates and eoffer-houses, broke forth into atelamations. Vet were the acelamat tions less strange than the wereping : for the feelings of men hat been womm? up tosuch a point, that at lengeth the stern Engrish mature, so lithe used 10 ontward signs of emotion, give way, and thousinds sobbed aloud for cry joy:-

30:B2, JUBILEE, National. Rritish. |The 2th of October, 1849, | was relebrated throurhout the kinglom [or" Grat Britain] as "the Jubilee" -the tiftieth manerrsary of the aeerssion to the throne of (iborge Ill.-Kniamt's Eng., vol. 7 ,

:BO:BAB. JUDGE, Dishonorable. Idign of Jtmes f1. It was, indered, necessary to go very low down in the lagal protession belione men conlal be foumd willing to moder such services as wre now required. The new chief justicre, sir Roh(rt Wright, was ignorant to a proverts: yet if normee was not his worst lault. His vices had ruined him. He had risorted to infinmos ways of rasing money, and had, on one occasion, mode a false alldinvit in order to obtain posses. sion of Esoo. Poor, dissolute, amd shameless. he had berome one of the parasites of Jellreys, who promoted him mud insulted him. Such was the man who was now sclected by James to be lord rhief justice of Enghand. MacaiLay's ENG., ch. 8, p, 253.
30B.1. JUDGES despised, Athemiams. Anacharsis having seen an assembly of the people at Athens, said he onces surprised at this, that in Greece rise man phaded cunses, and foels ditermined them.-Pheraren.
3035. JUDGES, Impartial, L'"rly Grecks. They were chosent from annong the wisest and mosi respectable of the citizens, and in the latter times consisted principally of such as had conjoyed the dignity of archoms or chief magis trates. They held their meetings in the apon air, upon an eminence in the midula of the city, and determined all causis during the night ; for these two rensons, as Athemans informs us, that neither the number nor the fices of the juiges being known, there might be no attempls to corrupt them; and that, as they neither saw the $1^{\text {paintilf nor defendant, their decisions might } x^{2}}$ quite impartial. -T'ruen's Ihst., Book 1, ch. 6, 1. 50.
3036. JUDGES, Justice by. Amient Rersidus. The sovereign, in "ertain canses of importance, sat himself in judgment; though in the ordinary adminimetation of justice there were a certain number of judges chosen, on account of their acknowhediced wisdom and probity, who made regular eircuits thromgh the provinces, and attended the soveraign in his samed visitations of hivedominions. These held the ir ollices for life, inu were removable in cases of malversation. The story is well known of the julge who, being suilty of corruption in his high function, Wat by ('anbyse condemmed to be hayd alive, and his skin humg ower the seat of judement. -

30:37. JUDGES, Partisan. Reign of Jemes II. Vast mubers of those mhappy prisoners who wore taken after the defeat of Mommonth were hanged withoul any form of trial: mad the rxecrable dudere defreys fillod the kinglom: with daily exerntions under the sanction of justice. Many of these trials were atfended with the
 to the king dor jardon wore chereked by a derdit ration that he hat promised to forgive nome who shonld be legally rondemmed. "When the bench is under the direction of the cabinet. trials are conspiracies, and exeentions are mur-ders."-TyTwis's Ilsw., Book 2, ch, 30, p. 42.

BU:BX. JUDGES, Reputable. Itheriall. The jugg's of the Amomgus were chosen from tumong the 'r ost respere iathle of the ritizeras, and were sememas such as had diselatiged the oflde of arrhon. The nost srrupulous altontion was paid to charnter in the election of the junges. The slightrot impratation of immoral a sinlevity, was sumberent to diequalify froms hatining at seat in that tribuma, of to forlicit a place atter it hat bedn conferred. To be lound in a tavern was such a stain on the character oft a julge that it wis demond a sublident remsen of exclusion from that oflice. " Let no Areoparite," says thr A thenim haws, "compene a comedy." That judge was jusily thonght to have prosititut. ed his character who had stooped to employ his talcuts in furnishing a trevolons amusement for
 1. 102.

30:30. JUDGMENT, Dishonest. J/tmes $I I$. [James wiohod a justithation for apointing (ntholies to omber contrary to law. | Jones, the chicet justice of the common Pleas, a man who hal never before shrum from my dradgery, however cruds or sirvile, now held in the royal closet lampage which might have become the lips of the purest maristrates in our history. He was phanly toh that he mast sive up eithar his opinion or his phace "For my phace," he answered, "I care little, I am ohd and wom out in the service of the crown : hut I am mortitimd to lind that your Majosty thinks me capable of "wing: julforent whithone but an igno ramtor is ishonest man conh give." "I am cletermined," said the king, "to have twelse julges who will he all of my mine as to this matter." "Your Majesty," ansveren Jones, "may limed twelve judges of your mind, hut hardly twelse lawyers." Ite was dismicod. - Macuthay's Enf., ch. 6, p. Tb.
3010. JUDGMENT, Duplicity in. Frathrix Forth. [Lad (anildford.] He had semse emourh to perceve from the tirat that Gates and Bedfore were impostors; hat the Parlimment and the country were greatly exited; the envermment had yiclded th the jresesure; and North was a man not to risk a goox place for the sake of justice and hamanity. Areordingly, while he was in secret drawing up a relatation of the whold romance of the Popish Plot, he derfared 11 puls. lie that the truth oi the story was as phain as the sun in heavern, and was not ashamed to brew beat, from the seat of judgment, the unfortmathe Roman Cathodis who were armaiged before him for their lives.-Macmbay's Fina., (h. 3, 1. $25 \%$.
30.11. JUDGMENT by Experts. Froderich the Grent. It newermermed to him that a body of men whose live were pased in adjudiating on tuestion of avil right were more likely to form corred opinions on such questions than a prince whose altemtion was divided betweren a thousand ofjects, and who had probably never read a law-hook thromph. The resistanee opposed to him by the ritmats inthamed him to fury. He reviled his whandlor. He kicked the shins of his jutgres. Ihedid mot, it is true. intend to act unjustly: He firmly believed that he was doing right ind defomding the canse of the foor against the weathy. Yet this well-meant matheling probably did far more harm thata all the explosions of his avil passions dar－ fing the whale of his long reign．－Marations＇s

BOA2．JUDGMENT，Mistake of．（icorgf $/ / /$ ． ［Georgelll，informed his sereretary，Lomel North， mmmediately after＂＂the Boston tea party，＂that Gencral Gigre was willing to rethrin to bostom sund gued the disturbance． $\mid$ Four reqiments sont to Boston will，le thinks，be sullietent to pre vent any disturbuce．－Kivants ENa．，vol．6， ch． $24.13,334$.

BOIAB．JUDGMEIFT，Partlality in，Retg＂uf Satmes $/ I$ ．Nome of the English mobles enjoserd a harerer mearare of publie fisor than（＇hisiles Suckville，Earl of Dorset．He was，indeed，a remarkable man．In his youth low had been one of the most motorious libertines of the wilal time which followed ther Restorntion．He hud been the terror of the eity wateh，hand passed many nights in the rommd－hotme，and had at least once ocerppied a cell in Newgate．Ilis passion for Betty Morrice and for Nell（ $\ddagger$ wyma，who always called him hor（＇larles the First，had given no small amasement and scandal to the town．Yet， in the mides of tollies and vices，his commareoms spirit，his tine undershanding，and his matural goodness of heart had been conspicuous．Men stid that the excesses in whind he indalered were common between him and the whale race of gay young cavaliers，but that his symanthy with fumana sulfering and the granerosity with which he made reparation to those whom his freaks land injured were all his owno．Dis assoriates were astonished by the distinetion which the puble made betwen him and them．＂He may do what be chooses，＂said Wihnot；＂Jue js never in the wrong．＂The judgmant of the world be－ came still more lavamble to Darset when he lat bern sobered by time and marriage．IVis grace－ ful manners，his brilliant eonversation，his soft heart，his open hamd，were universally pratised． No day passerl，it was said，in which some dis－ tressed family hat not ration to bless his name． －Mnciviay＇s EN（：，（h．8．p．397．

30A\＆．JUDGMENT，An unfortunate．$L o \| i s$ XVI．Lomis XVI．Wik full of exorllent inten－ tions，pure in momads，mot deficjant in matural good semsas，mal meerely andious for the wel－ fare of his mblojecta：but he was dimblent and timjd to，tamb，lamentahly wanting in strengeth and conergy of character，abd，by an monformate fatality，always dixposed both tis be firm noml to Fいいど
：30 15．JUDGMENT－DAY anticipated．Vıho－ met．Ilis mortal disense was a fever of fomer． teen days，which depmed him hy intervals of the bse of reasom．Ls soom ats be wis consejous of his danger，he editical his bretheren by the ha－ mility of his vintue or penitence．＂V＂there be any man，＂mad the apostle from the pulpit， ＂Whom I have unjustly scourged．I submit my own bark to that lash of retaliation．Have I as－ persedt tho reputation of a Mussuhman ：Iot him prownim an！fimats in the face of the comerege－ tion．Jaw ans one been despoiled of his goods ？ the little thai I possess shatl eompensate the principal amd the interest of the debt．＂＂Yes．＂ replina a roice from the crowd，＂I am entited to thace drachoms of silver．＂Mahomet heard

Hureomphant，satistied the denamal，amel thanked his ereditur for mernsing hime in this world
 M．ilosmbir，j）． 41 ．
：30．16．JUDGMENT DAY，Fear of．s＇$/ m / \prime \prime l$ bilu lo such a degree al hope as not to be but man may have such of denvere ol hope as to kerp him quit．Vom sere I tim net quicet，from the vehemence will whichl lalk；but l da met do． spair．＂Jiss．Abisms：＂You weom，vir，to for． red the merits al our Redeemer．＂Jonsivan： ＂Matiam． 1 do not forgret the merits of my Re－ decomor：but my Redeemor lass sad that lle will set sombe on Ilis riarlit hand and some on llis Irft．＂Ilo was in gloomy aritation，and said． ＂l＇ll have no more ont＂．＂－Beswhat，＇s Joms． NaN，b．EDt．

BOIT．JURISPRUDENCE，Origin of．$R=m m, l$ ． Rommlus，Nomar，amd Sorvins Thullits are relo－ brated as the mos anciont legislators ；and ableh of them clatus his pecobliar jart in the threcefold division of jurispratence．The lawsof mariage： the ematation of children，and the anthority of parents，which may serm to draw horis origin from matmre itsidf，are ascribed to the umbatored wisdom of Rommlas．The law of motions and of religions worshij，which Nima introhlueded，was derived from his mednmal converse with the nymph Egerin．The ciril lnw is atributed to the： experience of servius ；he bahane dhe rights and fortumes of the seven classes of citizens，ambl gutuded，by filty new regulations，the observanuer of contructisimel the punishment of crimes．－Gins． נon＇s Rome，ch．44，p．30l．
\＄30．1凶．JURY coerced．Licign of Jomes $I I$ ． ［Aliee Lishe was arerosed］of high treasont for shedtering relsels defated with the Duke of Mon－ month．］The jury rotired，and rematned lomis in consultation．I＇lae judge grew impationt．It Was Jeffreys．］JIC rimhl mot comerive，lue side． left the box．He sent a mossediger to tell them that，if thes alid not instantly return，lue would adjourn the court amd look them tip）all night． Thus jut to the Iortare，they came，lomt rame to say that they doubted whether the chatere hat been made sut．Jofferesexpostulated with them vehemently，andafter another comsultation，des gave a relicetat verdict of grailys．On tho fol－ lowing morning senteree was promomerel．Jel－
 borned aldve that very afternom This oxecess of barbarity mover the pity anel imbignation

3019．JURY，A determined．Ta if／＂of＇Jothe＇s

 throw of tha l＇motestant fitith．It watsalsoblatt ly meressary for wath the otiorers who wateheti
 in the interest of the reown，and might，if not canofolly observed，have lumished at comally juryman with fusd，which would have enthled him watare sut the othere elowen．Stride gitad was therofore kopt．Not even a camdle tolight a pipe w．ss permitted to entor．Some basins of water for washing were sulfered to jans at alome four in the morning．The jurymen，riging wjth therst, soon lapped up the whole. (ireat numbers of people walked the neighboring streets till dawn. .. . At thest nine wero for uequitting and there for convictlig. ' Two of the mimority soon gavie way; but Arnolif was obstimate. J'homas Alistin, in cometry hantleman of grent estate, who hand paid close attention to the evidence and sjoceromes, and lind taken full motes, wished to nrgite the question. Arindel decdined. He was not used, lie dogigedly suid, to mensoming mind debating. Ills consedence was not satistled ; and he shombd not nefuit the bishops. "If you come to that," suld Xustin, " look nt me. 1 nam the largest and atrongrat of the twodve; and befored find such apetition as this a libel, here will 1 stay till I mon no higerer than :t tohnero pifue" It was six in the morning briore Armold yideled. [See
 1. 35:3.
30.50. JURY imprisoned. For lirelict. [In 15\%.l, on the trind of Sir Nichohas Throrkmorton, the julges and comasel heaped serensation upon accusation, perplexal him with guestlons, and wrently exhorted him toronfess his guilt. 'They read ovier garbled evidence not taken in open court, and refuired him to answor each sepamie charge as probluced. 'The talent mat energy of Throcknorton produred a surprising resalt. Ilo wats arepuited.] The court immeiliately after the trial committed the jurry to prisom. four made a submission, and were redensed. Fight reonained in continement for mans months; and When bremerht lefore the combid in the: Star Chamber were sontenered to the payment of tinormons times. It was more than a century before the infumons system was discontimmed of punishing juries for verdicts in Stato prosecutions that wre not agreeable the the rown.-KNabires Enci., vol. 3, ch. 4, 1, 6\%.
 ing the "IReign of Terror"] nresolution was... passed in the (onvention anthoriziner lhe jury, When there days hat heren spent in hat investigtotion of a case, fo decelare themselvas satisfied, withon! watiner for further ploadings ; thls lo fre mons justitiation was at onee ated upon, and the Girondists were sentereed to death.-STOTdents Fhance, eh. 27. sit.
3052. JURY perverted. $B_{y}$ (\% r!y. In 1683 . . . the sherills could patek the jurymen upon State trials ; the jurymen would be exhorted froba every palpit to believe, upon anthority of the Scriptures, that, as all resistane to anthority wats a sin, the stupport of anthority in all its desires Was a virtur. When a subjert stood at the bar, indieted for treason or misclemeanor of the kinges command, it was nereessary for the comatry's peace that the crown should have its wished-for verdiet. - Kviont's ENe, vol. 4, ch. 23, p. 369.
3053. JURY, Unterrified. Tial of Williom Pemu. A. D. 1670. Ite wasamagned for having spokenat a Quaker meeting. . Amidangry ex clamations and memares, he proceceled to plead carnestly for tha fundamental laws of England; and as he was luarried out of court, still reminded the jury that "they were his juderes." Dissatisfied with the dirst verdict returned, the recorder Leape-l upon the jury every opprohrious epithet. - We will have a verdicthy the help of God, or you shall starve for it." "You are Englishmen," said Penn, who had again been brought to the lur : " "mhal your priviloge, give not awny your right.". . At lasit the jury, who had received no refreshiments lor two dinginalit wo nightis, on the third day gave burde verdict, "Not guilty." The recomber thed thern forty marks aphere for their independence. - Banchors's $\mathbf{C}$. S., vol. 2 , ch. 16.
305.4. JUSTICE by Combat. Gaml. Thirtuls by single combut gradually obtulned superbor rredit mind mithority among a warlike people who combl not hedieve that a hiave man aleserved to sulfor, ur that acownid deserved to live. Both in rivil and eriminal procerdings the phantiff or theroser, the defendant, or even the withess, were expeosed to montul chatlenge from the mintugenist Who was destitute ol legal proofs ; nucl it was incumbent on thern cibher to dessert their cansi or pabidely to maintain thoir homor in law liats of buttre. 'They fonght cither on froot or horsebuck, aceording to the custom of their mation ; and the decision of the wword or lanee was ratithed hy the sametion of Ihenven, of the julgo. and of the people.-Gimuon's IRomes, Sh. 38, p. 594 .
3055. JUSTICE, Even. dristiles. Ho was carrying on aprose ention agninst his chemy, and after he had brought his charge, the juilanes were goiner to pass sontence; without learing the persom acrused, he rose uj) to his assistancor, ratrouting that he might be hoard, ame have the privilege which the laws allowed.-Plutanen's Anlstimes.
3056. JUSTICE exceeded. 13ajazet. [Frunch priners who had becon taken contive by the ottoman l3ajazet 1. Were the witnesses of his zaal for justio.e. I In their presence, and nt his command, the belly of one of his chamberdans was cut open, on a complaint against him for drinking the goat's milk of a poor woman, The strangers wore astonished by this act of justice, lout it was the justice of a sultan whodisilatins to balame the weight of evidence or to measure the deegrecs of grilt.-(inmbon's IRomes, ch. 64, 1). 24 !
3057.
$\qquad$ -. Thuphilus. ['The IRoman -maperor.] A poor woman threw lererself ut the "mperor's fert to comphain of a pewortal neighbor, the brother of the empress, who hat rated his palace-wnll to surh an inconvenient height, that har humble dwelling was excluded from light and air! ()n the proof of the fart, instead of grantingr, like an ordinary judge, sutticient or ample damases to the phaintiff, the sevoredyy dijudered to her nse and benefit the pataer amil the ground. Nor was Theophllas ront wit with this extravarant satisfiaction ; his zeal (an)verud at (ivil trespass intoa criminal act ; and the woftertunate patricinm was stripped amel soourged lin the publie place of Constantinople-Gibbos's ROME, ch. 68, 12. 59:3.
3058. $\qquad$ Emperor Juliarn. [The Emperor Julian was superiorj ou the last trmplation of virtuons minds, an indiscreet and intemperate zat for justice; he restrained, with calmaness and dignity, the warmoth of an advocate who prosecuted, for extortion, the president of the Narbonnese province. . Who will ever be found grilty," exchamed the vehement Delphidins, "if it he emongh to deny ?" "And who," replied Iulian, "will rver be innocent, if it be sullicient to aflirm ?"--GibBON's Rosme, ch, $19,1,244$,

305\％．JUsTICE by Force．Sir litumis Itratie． ［While eagaged in the stave troule tho sipmalaris uttucked the the will whieh hernileal．］（＇aphain Drake sumereded in resoning his ship from the foe；but ho resclued England aruined man．Xl． Hongh the Khug of spalu was ntranty maditather the coblepues of Enghand，the two hations were stlll at ganer，and（＇apotain Drake thoroform ap plied to the spamish（iovermment for the restora tion ol the proprory unluwlilly serizol．Div do－ mande being dismenatedel，he swore to take by borow what hud beron lenticd to his solicitations．
 trived to＇efulp and arm two small verseds，fund ohtainod from the fucell a eommonsion sublt as was rectuisite for his purposed．domed by a thard ly deserombed upon the comets of New Gemmala， phombered the setthements，burnt the Spmosh shipping，amd hedel the whole region at his mer－ digious booty－anough to make him ome of the of 13on．J．：his．

BOABO．JUSTICE，Governmental．Rommm．｜Barly in the：sixth centhry the Jews were insulted in persom，their｜＂flicts were pillaged，mat their symugerues ware lomat by tho mad peponlace of Ravenna und Rome＇，inhamed，ns ft shombl serem，by the most frivolous or eximangant pre tences．The goveroment which combidnerlewt． wondd have deserved such un abt mage．A legral imguiry wis instamly direoted ；and as the ata－ thors of the fommit had escapied in the crownd， the whole commanity was combemmed tor repair the damage：and the obstanate higots，where－ lused theire eomtributions，were whipued thongh the streets by the hami of the exeentioner．This simple act of justice exasperated the diseome tent of the（＇alholies，who applanded the merit and patianceof these foly

SOOBI．JUSTICE honored．（ithute the limet． ［＇：11n！t＇． the first Danish king al Linghmel． in his letter lo｜＂all the mations of the Emglish，＂
hats one passagn which may make ns ho－
 ＂omupting－＂And now he it known unto you all that 1 have dediatad my life lor rod，to gov－ ern my kingrloms with justice，and to oharve the right in all thinges．If in the time that is past，and in the violeme amd carrelasiness of my youhs． 1 hatw violated justice，it is my intomioni， by lle help）of（God，w make full eminpensation． Theretore 1 bege amd cormanod these bo whom I have intrusted the gevermmeme，as they wish to preservemy good－will，atml satve their own souls， fo do mo injustice rither to joor or rielt．Lat those who are noble，and those who are not， equally ohtain thoir rights，acoroling to tha haws， from which no deviation shat be allowed，vither from fear of me，or throngh favor io the powerful，or for the purpose of supplying my treasiry．I want no money raised by injustice． ［A．1）．10：35．］－KN1：11ヶ＇s Ex（t．，vol．1，（H．11， 1． 158.

3062．JUSTICE，Impartiality of．Romutn．Tar－ guin was at this fime in Etrmuin，where he pro－ vaicel on two of the most powerful rities，Veit and＇larguinii，torsponse his ranse．These states sent ambassadors to IRome witha formal reeguisi－
tion that the exilid prince might be allowed to return．．．．Thi purpose they gatact hy a liher－

 two soms of bratus mat the mephews of（ollati

 （．1．：3．1．30：）．

30（3：3． $\qquad$
$\qquad$ ． 1 Tッドッ．
［．$=$ Malınnal the（hamevile ant in the l）ivan，an mohats，－ ＂home al＇＂＇Tumkh soldier who hat driven him

 it，and ourself in person will juleremal punish Envested the homse with his gratily，mal extion－
 the eriminal，who deal beren siderd in the ate of rapine and adultery．Dther thervarention of his sentenew the lights werrerokindled！，Mahmmel foll prostratr in prasiry，innd rising from the gromand． with the voracionsats of hamer＇s．＇Ther pone man，whose injory ly hat avenged，was mable the courteons monarelt eombeserombed to cxplain the motives ol this singulat belatrion：－I hand reason to susperet that bome，exief）t ome of my and I extinguished tha lights，that my jusioro might be hime and inexorable．Ny praver was a thankserving on the disenvory of har offender ： and so jaindal was my maxioty，that I had patserl three days wiblont fiogel sime the tiry moment
 1）． 113
：50BE． $\qquad$ Ih，reneler．It is sald that his ears wibh his hamd，while tha plathtill was operning the imbiofment，that he mixht reserve it perforety monejudiered for hearing the dofond－

 in eighty dabs，there formser tha chateres aganct hime．This was mo of the moekeries of the latal rule in England．＇There were priann－ Walls hetworn the arohbinhopand lamme，amd at the ebld of the time le was derebared romtumat rions．－Kivain＇s livi．，vol．3，（h． 6.

30（ifi．JUSTICE for Money．Efy／titus．I hmmeded of the prine ipal Alexamelriams came fo Italy wilh at remomstrame lagainst the appoint－ ment of Ptolemy to tha Eqyptim fhromel ；and had they bromelit moncy with them they miarht have had a resjectlind hearing．But they lad brought nome of not emongh，mat Ptolemy，se－ cure of his patron＇s support，hired a paris of bameliti，who set on the deputation when it hand－ ed，and killed the greater part of its members． －Floovit＇s CissAh，ch．15．

3047．JUSTICE outraged．Jeffrys．The chien justice was mat scecmmatating a fortmo ont of the phonder of $n$ highor chane of Whiges. He Wrated largely in pardons. Dlim mond las ratise trasaction oit this kind was with a mentroman that his only erime was the wemblh which he hat mberterd from his lather, an minemt haser, who had lwen in higholle ermiler the lerotector: No expetions were spared to make ollt a dise fof dintogalty | by the crown. Merey was alfomdes some prisonery on comitton that they wombl har avidene agninst Pridemix. The malontmate man lay long in jail, athd at lougth, weremone hy teot for his liberation. This great sum whe rereived by belfreys. He bought with it mustate. to which the people gave the mame Aceddama, from that aceured fled which was parehased with the price of hanoent beren.-Macactar's ENa., ch. 5, p, 6ity.

300\%. $\qquad$ Jeffereys. ['Trial of relolels moder the Dukn of Monnouth.] Joflreys reached Dorehester, the principal town of the comaty in whid Monmorth had lamded, and the fultelal massace began. "The court washung, by order of the chicf-justice, with searlet ; and this inme vation secemed to the multitule to indiente a bleoely purpmes. It was also rumored that. when the clergyman who preached the assize sumbon enfored the duty of mercy, the ferodous month of the judge was distorted by an ominoms grin. These things mate men mugur itl of what was to follow. -Macatary ENo., (h. 5. 1). 596.
3009. JUSTICE, Partiality of. Profeswed. The' mistocles, who was an agrecable companion, graned many frionds, and beeame respectable ia the strenght of his pepmarity. Thus when he was told that he wonld govern the Athenians extremely well, if he would but do it withont respect of persons, he said, "May I newor sit on a trihual where my friends shall not tind more favor from me than strangers."-Ples. T.Atcu's A bistibes.
3070. JUSTICE, Partiality in. Agesilaths. Agesilaus, indect, in other renpects wits strictiy and inllexilny just; but where a man's frimols are concerned, he thought 14 rigid or atral to justion a mere preteme. There is still shant a short letter of his to lIydredas the (aman, which is aproot of what we have said: "If Ne ins is imat. cent, actuit him; if he is not innocem, weruit him on my aceome ; however, be sure to netuit him. "-Pietanen's Aobsalat's.
3071. JUSTICE, Poetio. Cardimal Holsty, Inalde (romwell the coercion of juries and the manarement of judges reatered the courts mer monthpieces of the royal will: and where even the shadew of justice proved :an ohstade 10 boodshed, barbianent was brought into play 10 pass bill afler hith of atainder. $\because$ II e shatil be judged ly the bloody laws le has himand mate," was the iry of the council at the moment of his fall, and liy a singular metmand the crowning injustion whieh he sought io introduce even into the practice of attaindir-thecoudemmation of a

3072. JUSTICE, Public. Origin. Among the Englinh, as among all the races of mankimel, justice lanl wriginally spoug from rach man's jersonal action. There had been a time when every

Preman whe hix own avenger, But even in the that traces this right of wid defenee was helug mondilded mad resitided by a growing sense of puthlie justice. "The" homilwite," or compenamtion in money for juremil wrong, was the tirst - Ifort of the tribe as a whole 10 regulate prome pevenge. The treeman's hife and the Premma's limb hal and on this mistem its legal priee. "Bye for ele" man the rimgh conde, and "life for lites" or for ench fald damages. We sere a finther stej towatil the absern reeognition of a wrong as done, not to the hadividual man, but to the pephle at large in another enstom of ourly date. The prico of life or limb was paid. not ley the wromgrdoe to the man be wronged, but ly the limily or lonse of the wrong dour to the fimily of house of the wrougenl. Wrider and law were thas made to rest in cuch little group of people upon the blowd-homed whidr kint its 307:3. JUSTICE, Satinfaction of. Mahomet. [When hear his com, Mahomed] made an rifon to obtan himself the gener mad pardon of the living before presecting himself hofore hif Juige: Sistained berm, ath the arms by his two cherished - liseiples. Abubeker and Ali, he trailed himself along to the pulpit of the mosince. and suid, with a feeble voler: " Shassimans! il I have ever maltreated aty among yon, let him now comes and strike me in turn. II I have offended may of you by watd, let him return insult for insult. If I have taken from why his property, lot him take all hat 1 jossuss upon the earth. And these are ant vain words: let no ons, in doing himself justior, appreheml my resentment. Resentment and anger nere not in my chaneter." A 1ran lared to step from the crowd and chim of him a cone maled ileht. "Help thyself," said the prophel ; " it is letter to hlosh in this life before ment. for one's injustice, than to hhash in the other werd betore Geif."-Lamamente'n Ti'RKEY p. 148.

307 1. JUSTICE, systematized. Charlemagni. still further to harmonize the diseordant parts of his coupire. Chutemagne divided the pros inces into different districts, ench of which contained soveral commes. It aholishect the mariont enstom of governing them ly dukes; and in their phare herpointed three or fon roynl avoys, (alloul Misse Domimici, to govern mall province or Misxeticom, obliging thetn to an exact visitation of in cery three mentis. These enobs held four courts in the year for the administrittion of justiar: :and the arrangement in whid the business of these courts was condacted reHects the highost homer on the character of ( harlemarne. The camses of the poor were flest hard, next those of the king, then the causes of the elargy, and lantly those of the perpla at $30 \% 5$. JUSTICE, Tardy. ('romirell. Itis government was strong. Charles 1I. followed, and his govermment was cowardly, contemptible, and weak. Then, at leneth, tirily justice was done to the memory of oliver. Everywhere men mag. nitied his valor, prons, amd paitrotism. Every. where it wats remembered low, when he ruled, all foreign powers had trombled at the name of Enghat : how thestates- demeral, now so haugh$1 y$, had crouched at his feet ; and how, when it was known that he was mo more, dmetertante childrens sun aloug the remula monting for fory calling the wh seldiers of the ('manomwetah

:BO7 (3. KIDNAYPING by Government. Licig! of domes /I. [The viled Bishop Buruet was a tians weve himal will gerat sums of money for fore sigmature in the ollher of the serectary of

:307 \%. KINDNESS, Rellgion of. Rer. duhn Nire. tone. Nexi flichexa there were is him not only man happinces mid mise ry ; now, il I ran hine lant the smallest hit from cole henp ame inded it to the other, I curry a print; if, as I go home, a child has droppod a luall porms. and ly piving It unother I em wipu away its tears, I fay I have

307*. KING of Fanatics. Ithu becrold. [The
 sion of the city of Munster, where they preacherl their doetrimes wh such ithed that ine peoples, inspised with fremos, expellod then hishop, mat dechared that they would have noother getrernor than Gext Almighty. Mathias, who was their chief prophet, laving beren killed in andy from laid siequ of it dohn Boreshl, a journeyman tailor, who hal been distimgished by the mame of back of laven, cancod himbelf, will grent twode : ity orer all the lower fiemonay une of his fa voride tellots was polygamy : and lerest a most itlastrions example hamself by marying fonderen wives. (tme of his wives having expressed some ately cul oll her hemd, and the thirtern others danced round her beoly with transports al joys. Munster heing closely besieged, this fanatie definded the city obstimuldy for twe low monthe: but he feds at lemath a viotim tothe treathery at sume of his own followers, and his emomis.

:307!. KING, An infant. ./ $1 /$ e's. \|hon Sary ahelicated the throme of semband. Damex. hep infant som, was bome to the lligh ('humel of Stirling ; the abdicationof his mother was ratal ; Knos promeded the ehild was reowned; the lords took the oaths of allegiance ; and the infant of thirtern months was carrieal bath to his cradle.]-Kinigures Eng., vol. :3, it. 10, p. 15e.
:30M(

 and Lomolon.-T'ル, p. :0 \%

 a *rond king, who dows mothing but dras : latge incomes. This mexoml kimg, whlly motugh.
 mand by his lathor, whas peaty almimel dmar-

BOW2. KING, An unklngly, dmmis $/ / 110$

 slightly whon the wet end it "makin; hia loge were very watk, som have thought thomgh somur loul play in his sunht, und the wrakness

BOWB. KINGS unhappy. HWiat III. IV. todel the Jake of Hamilton "he wishet he wetw "thonsanal miles from Emghand, ame that ho hat never heren king of if." |Ha was monosed be the manatriotie bickerings in [arliament.]- of them, suluriag tot the rest in hith amb pras

 at tirst were mach exisperated, bat aftemward, time Jill. :mal in a short time thinge sureveled be-and the peophe bespitable: . . Dherione besion wher homorspaid to Romat, they Alom theircity. as & bee wan the cmase of its heing lails, after lier arose for the women to sullot lheir rolations and they hat furmed the ships, wad sumblaiml al en-

:BOW.3. KNEELING to God only dhamime

 -1ruct the prosecelines on the sorutiny :and to int uence] the high hailiff in ceretain rofurns of the iuhabitants of Westminchat When he was brought to the bar to receive his sentence of close committal to Newgate he refused to kned, as commanded by the Speaker. The sperker called out, "Your obeisisiees! sir, your obeisances!" and then, "Sir, you must kneel." 11 e replied, " Sir, I heg to be excused; I never kneed but to Gorl." The speaker repented the command with great warmth. Murray answered, "Sir, I am sorry I camnot comply with your request : I would in anything else." The speaker cried, "I call upon you again to consider it." Murray answered, "Sir, when I haverommitted a crime I kneel to God for pardon ; but I know my own imocence, and cannot kned to anybody else." The Speaker ordered the sergennt to take him away and secme lim.-Knignt's Enti, vol. G, ch. 12, p. 186.

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

3086. KNIGHTHOOD, Ceremony of. Cuiralry. The candidate for that honor was previously prepared for it by the most anstere fasts. Ife was obliged to spend a whole night in a chureh in prayer, to make a solemu and full confession of his sins, to receive the holy cucharist, and to lave his body purified by bathing; then he was again intreduced into the chureh, where he presented to the priest a sword, who, giving it his benediction, hung it round the neek of the novice; he again, taking it off, presented it to the knight, or chief, who was to confer the honor upon him; and falling down on his knees, and joining his hands, after solemnly swearing to maintain the caluse of religion and chivalry, he reccived from him the spurs, the halberd, the coat-of-mail, and the sword. Then the chicf, embracing lim rouad the neck, and gently striking him three times with the that part of his sword upon the shoulder, finished the ceremony by pronomncing these words, "In the name of Gool, St. Michael, and St. George, I make thee a knight. Be valiant, luerly, and loyal."-TyrLerl's IIIst., Book 6, ch. 10, p. 167.
3087. KNOWLEDGE desired. Samucl Johnson. He observed, " All knowledge is of itself of some value. There is nothing so minute or inconsiderable that I would not rather know it than not. In the same manner, all power, of whatever sort, is of itself desirible. A man wouk not submit to learn to hem a rufle of his wife, or his wife's maid ; but if a mere wish could attain it, he would rather wish to be able to hem a ruffle."-Bosweli's Joinson, p. 250.
3088. KNOWLEDGE, Eagerness for. The Poet Shelley. No student ever read more assiduously. He was to be found, book in hand, at all hours ; reading in scason and out of season ; at table, in bed, and especially during a walk; not only in the quiet country, and in retired paths; not only at Oxford, in the public walks, and High Strect, but in the most crowded thoroughfares of London. Nor was he less absorbed by the volume that was open before him in Cheapside, in Cranbourne Alley, or in Bond Street, than in a lonely lane or a secluded library.Symonds' Sifelley, ch. 2.
3089. KNOWLEDGE, Happiness by. Socrates. With regard to the pursuit of knowledge, Socrates held that all science was contemptible which did not tend to the happiness of man, by the regulation of his conduct in society; that the most beneficial wisdom is to be intimately acquainted with ourselves, to see our errors and defeets, that we may be enabled to amend them. -Ty'rler's Hist., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 268.
3090. KNOWLEDGE, Humility far. Divine. [Rev. Thomas Coke, Lh. b., a grudnate of (oxford, found in bevonshire an untutored but intehligent Methodist, a class leader of the rustics in the neighborhood. The nature of fath, justitication, regeneration, and the evillences which attend them-the " unsenrehable riche's of Christ"-were themes upon which the clergyman found he could be instructed by the unlettered pasant. Heacknowledged that he owed to him greater obligations " with respeet to the me ons of finding peace with God and trampuillity of mind than to thy other person."-Stevens' M. E. Cncien, vol. 2, p, 152.
3091. KNOWLEDGE without Learning. $P_{c}$ ter Cooper, LLA.I). With no proclivity to classical or philosophical learning, he was through life a diligent stodent of hmman afrairs, and nothing that eonecrned the well-being of his fellow-men escaped his notiec, from his nearest neighbors wo the mightiest changes in the conditions of nations. So that, while he could not be called a man of learning, he was pre-eminenty a man ot knowledge. He was an motiring student of nature and art ; the mingling of those two made up his whole life; they eniminated at hast in the Institute, which represents their blemding. Life of Pleter Cooler, by Lesten, p. 12.
3092. KNOWLEDGE, Limitations of. Aristotle. $\Lambda$ great hody of his writings is yet preserved, and is suthicient to warrant our estimation of Aristotle as one of the most vigorous and comprehensive geninses that ever the world has produced. . . . The vanity of Aristotle prompted him to ain at universal knowledge; and professing to cinbrace the whole circle of the sciences, he only manifests the more signally his superficial knowledge in many departments, and his presumptuous rashness in deciding questions beyond the reach of human intellect. These palpable defects have injured his legitimate reputation in these branches of seiente in which he is truly excellent.-Tytlen's Hist., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 275.
3093. KNOWLEDGE, Progress of. Aristotle. Mír. Lewes makes a remark concernint Aristothe: "It is the glory of science to be constantly progressive. After the lapse of a century, the greatest teacher, on reappearing ameng men, would have to assume the attitude of a learner. The rery seet smon by himself vould have sprung up into a forest to obscure the rien. But he who rejoices in the grandeur of the forest must not forget by whom the seels were sown. His heritors, we are richer, but not greater than he." This is a just and beautiful passage. There is not an intelligent boy or girl in a well-conducted school who could not set Aristotle right on a thousand points of science, who could not laugh at many of his mistakes; and yet it is not less true that he was one of the greatest intellects that has cver appeared among men.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 5 53.
3094. KNOWLEDGE, Promotion of. Jarel Sparks. [Dr. Jared Sparks went from the carpenter's bench to the Presidency of Harvard College.] He was a Connecticut boy, born as long ago as 1789 , and as poor as any boy that reads this book. Me carned his living as soon as he was stromer abough to widd a hoe or drive a plongh-horse. bey working, on a rough, stony Comnectiont harm ; and when he had grown to be a proty stont hat, he was oerasiomally ant ployed in as saw-mall of the neighberhool. When the time rame for him to leam a hasiness lete apprentiond himself to a carpenter, and le worked diligently at this trade for two years. When he was twenty years of age he was still hammoring. planing, and mortising as a carpenter"s appentiece. But during all this time, wheder working on a farm, or in the saw-mill, or in the: earpenter's shop, he spent his leisure hours in reading and tudy. Ile had a most extrabrdina-
 p. (il!).
309.j. iNNWLEDGE, Sacrifices for, Benjo. min Frouklin. Benjamin being a printer's apprentice, he was more and more puazled to gratify his love of knowlerge. But one day he hit upon an expedient that brought in a little cash. By wading a vegetarim book, this hard, calcohatiner Fankee lad had beren led to think that prople could live beter withont ment than with it, and that killing innorent animals for food was cruel amd wicked. So he abstained from mat althegther for about two getres. As this led to some inconvenienere at his homeding-house, le male this comming proposition to his master : " Give mo one land the money you pay for my board, and I wili board mysilf." The mastor consenting, the apprention lived cutirely upon surh things as hominy, bread, rice, and potatoes, and found that he could at andly live upon half of the half. What did the ealeabating wretela do with the money? Put it into his money-hox? No: he laid it all out in the improvement of his mis. l.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 129.
$\mathbf{3 0 9 6}$ - - - John Fitch. [The inventor.] Finding in old arithmetic in his father's house, he studied it in the evenings till he had mastered it. He heard one day, when he was eleven years old, of a wonderful book called Salmon's Geography, which, he was told, would give hinin information about the whole world. But, alas! the price was ten shillings. After vainly entreating his father to buy it for him, he hit upon a plan for rasing that chormous sum himself. There were some bands upon his father's farm, too light to le reached hy the plough, which were not cultivated. His father consented to let him plant potatoes there, and to have the produce limself, provided he worked the land only on holidays, or atter his regular work was done. [The produce came to ten shillings, the book cost twelve shillinars, and his father made him pay for the seed potatoes. So he incurred a debt.]-C'renoPEMA GF BIGG., p. 148.
3097. KNOWLEDGE, Theft of, Stilpo. Jemetrius [the Mactolonian general, having taken the city of Megarn, was] satistied with expellinge the gatrison, and declared the dity free. Ansid hies transactions, be bethought himself of Stilpo, a philosopher of gro at reputation, who songht only the retirement and tranfuillity of a studions life. He sent for him, and asked him whether they had taken anything from him. "No," said Stilpo." I found none that wanted to steal any knowledge."-Pletarcis's Denermes.
3098. LABOR vs. Capital. England. The common people of that age were not in the labit of meeting for publie disenssion, of haranguing. or of extitioning Parliament. No newspaper pleaded their canse. It was in ruble rhyme that their love and hatred, their exaltation amed their disuress, foman uttorance. A revent part of their history is to be learned only from their balads. One of the most remarkable of 'he popular has chanted about the streets of Nomwirh am? Lecels in the tinse of Charles 11. may still be read on the origimal bromelside. It is the veloment and bitter ary of lator agimes capital. It describes the groof old tinaes where every artisan amployed in the woollen manutiacture lived as well as a farmer. But those times were past. Sixpence a day now was all that cond be carmed by hame haloor at the loom. If the poor complained that they could mot live on suchapitance, they were toht that they were free to lake it or have it. For sor miserible a recompense were the produecers of wealth compelled to toil, rising andy and haying down late, while the master chothier, cating, sherping, and inlling, berame rich ly their exertions. A shalling it day, the poet diedares. is what the waver would have, it justice were 3099. LAROR degraded. By ('marity. [1n 1N3L the laborors of Englamel] believed, as they hat long been eneomaged by the magistrates to brlieve, that the parish was hound to tind work and piy wherever there was no protitable work to be dome. [In Enghand was the parish gravelpit.] The gravel-pit lowered the wates of all agricultural labor, by confomating the distinetions between inchistry and idlemess, between strength and weakness, between dexterity and clumsiness. All the moral qualitications that made one baborer more valuable thim another were broken down. And so when the weckly pitance for unprofitable lathor was doled out by the oversen of the poor-when the famer equalized the rate of wages by reducing his plough. man and carter amost to the level of the gravel diggers, and sent their wives to the overseer to make $n$ ) by allowance the just payment of which the were defrauded-the peasantry took to burning ricks and breaking matines.-KNigut's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 16, p. D8~.

3100. LAB0R, Deliverance by. "Apron." The Saracens confoss a loss of $\quad$ ano mon ; and the buttle of cindesia is juslly desseribed by the epithets of obstinate and atrocious. The stamdard of the monarchy was werthrown and captured in the fiedr-a leathern apron of a blacksmith, who in ancient times load arisen the deliverer of Persial but this hatge of heroic porerty was disguised, and amost concealed, by a profusion of precions gems.-Gmbon's Rove, ch. 51, p. 179.
sin1. LABOR, Evening. English-Irish. The Irish laborers close the diy with a game on greasy cards, or lying stretched before the tire. In England, when the labor of the day is over, it is usual for men to betike themselias to some other labor of a different kind. In the northern parts of that industrious land the inhabitants meet, a jolly crew, at one another's houses. where they merrily and frugally pass the long dark winter evenings, several families ly the same light and by the same fire working at their elifferent manufactures of wool, finx. or hemp, company meanwhile mutually cheering and pro-woking to baner. In certain other parts you may ser, ont : stmmer's exaling, the common hatore ars sitting along the strets of at town or vilhere, each at his own door, with a coshion briore hime. making bonc-lace, mat arning more in on arening's pastime than an Irish filliti'y would in a whole day. A las! for the bond-lace makers. Their indinstry was almost extinguished by the inexorable marthate (the bobbin-net-frame in (ch. 2, p. 19.
 fon. Ile bwnod one limalred and one rows, and vet had to buy butter sometimes for the use of his fanity. Wonld the rader like to know the reason? General Washington himself tells us. Ife mentions in lis diary that one morning in Fubuary, 1760 , he went ont to where" my carpenters" were hewing-the said carpenters being back slaves. "I fomed," he wrote, "that four of then-namely, George, Tom, Mike, mal young billy-had only hewed one hmalred and iwenty fert since yesterday at ten ocdock." Surprised at this mengre resilt of a day's moor of four men, he sat down to see how they mamgerel. ['uler the spell of the master's eye they worked faster, but still in a wonderfally bongling and dawding manoer. He records that, after they lam prepared a log for cotting into lengtlis, " they spent twenty-five minutes more in getting the cross-ent saw, standing to consider what to do, sawing the stock in two places," ete. IIe formil that the four men had dome exactly one man's work the day hefore, supposing they could work no faster than they lad done while he watched them, and that one intelligent, active laloorer could do nbout as much hewing in two days as they would in a week. Itere we have the reason why a man possessing one loundred and one cows had to buy butter.-Cyclopedia of Biof., p. 13 .
3103. LABOR, Forced. Defence. [In anticipation of a French descent upon the consts of England,] there is a statute of 1512 for the special crection of bulwarks from Plymouth to Land's End, and in all other landing-places. . . . To as. sist hicir country against invasion necessarily demands some personal privation from the high and the lowly. But the government which enaded that an the inhabitants of the maritime districts should be compelled to work at such batwarks, with their own instrmments, and to rereive no compensation for their toil, was a govrument that hesitated not to rob the poor of their only eapital, their power of labor, to spare the rich, wiose property was chietly imperilled by the prohable assanits of a hostile foree. Those who came not to work and to starve, at the semmons of the misyors and constables, were to be committed to prison. The buiders of the byramids, with their scanty fare of onions and earlic, were in a happier condition than the free English mader ILenry VIII.-KNigut's Eva. vol. 2, ch. 16, p. $26 \pi$.
:104. LABOR honored. Itreatum Lincoln. [ln 18:30 Thomas Lincoln moved to Macon Co. 1II. 1 te immediately erected a $\log$ eabin, and with the aid of his som, who was now twentyone, proceded to fence in his new farm. Abraham lat litte folea while . . . manling the rails . . . be was writing a page in his life which would be read by the whole ration years afterward. . . During the sitting of the Republican State (ousention, at becatur, a hamer attachend to two of these rails . . . Was broment into the assemblage, and formally presented to that body,

They were in demand in every state of the Chion.-RAymonds Liveotin, ch, 1, p. 20.
3105. LABOR by Impressment. Wilirard III. In 1349 his lottersepatent went forth to press luewers of stome, carpenters, mol oflere artilieers; and the same primeiple of impressing workmen
 vol. 1, ch. 30, p. 469.
:B106. LABOR lost. Audmbon. After tiftern years of such a life us this [lorest life] he paid a visit to his relations in Philadelphia, arrying with him two hundred of his designs, the result of his laborions and perilons wanderings. Being obliged to lenve Philudedphia for some weeks, he teft these in a box at the honse of one of his relations. On his return, what were his horror and despair to diseover that they were totally destroyed hy mice: " A poignant thme," lie relates, "pierced my hran like anarrow of tire, and for several weeks I was prostrated with fever. At length plysian and moral strength awoke within me. Again I took my gun, my game-bag, and portfolio, and my pencils, and phaged once more finto the depths of my forests."-Cycloredia of Bros., p. 164.
:3107. LABOR, Machinery relieves. Chunges. ['The Yorkshire clothier, nbout the close of the seventeenth century, kept] his one horse to fetelh home his wool and his provisions from the market, to carry his yarn to the spinners, his manufactures to the fulling-mill, and, when finished, to the market to be sold.-Kvigut's Eva., vol. 5, ch. 2, p. 27.
3108. Mining. De Foe says: "We saw the poor wreteh [al lead miner in Derbyshire] working and heaving himself up with diffientry. . . De whs clothed all in leather ; had a cap of the same witnout brims, and some tools in a little basket, which he drew up with him. ... Beside his basket of tools he brought up with him about three fuarters of a handred weight of ore." [He worked sixty fathoms deep. lle ascended ly anarrow, sfuatreopening, in the angles of which pienes of wood were inserted.] Such was mining in the days before the steamengine. -Knigit's Enci., vol. 5, ch. 2, p. 21.
3109. LABOR misapplied. Great Wall of China. [Gencral Gramt visited it, and said :] "I believe that the labor expended on this wall could have built every railroad in the Cnited States, every ramal and highway, and most if mot all ohr (ifies."-(benemal Ghant's Travfles, p. 464.
3110. LABOR oppressed by Law. England. A.b. 1388. [In 1388 it was] cusected " that he or she which use to labor at the plough and cart, or other labor or service of husbandry, till they be of the age of twelve years, from thenceforth shall abide at the same labor, without being put to my mystery or handicraft ; and if any covemant or hond of apprentice be from henceforth made to the contrary, the same shall be holden for none." Another enactment of the same Parliament is to the eflect that artifieers and men of reaft. sprants and apprentioes, shatl be romperlerl to serve in the larvest, to rent, gathere, allul bring int tia cerm. $\qquad$ Ablo and lemalo
 of their term, to goto to mother place, withont letfors testimonial nimber the kingres seal, intrunterl for llat purpose to some good man of the hamdred, mper, wapratake, city, or borougla : wandering withont surh betters they were pelt in the

:3111. LABOR oppressed, $S_{1 / /}$ Lair. [In 1349] the sitatute of laboreris was passed. Its preamble read: " Becanse a groat part of the persple, and esperially of workmon and servants. late died of the pestilenere, many, sering the mecessity of masters and great scarceity of sorvants. will not serve manss they may rexdive exeessive wages." . . . It was chacted "That every ablebodied man amd womm, not being a mere lame or exercising any raft, or laving estate or land, should be bounden to serve, whenever reguired so to do, at the wages acenstomed to be given in the twenticth year of the king, and in tive or six vars mext before. If any man or womnn, free or lomel, . . . would not, he or she should be committed to the next jail." It also remated that laborers departing from thedr service should be imprisoned, and that those mastere when consentad to give the higher wages should be liable to be mandeded in tomble the amount paid or promised. The statute then goes on to apply the same regulations to all artitiecers-sadillers, skinners, . . . cordwainers, hailors, smiths, carpenters, masons, tylers, shipwrights, carters. Noperson shomild give alms to sumelas might be able to labor. . . . Inder pain of imprismment. But the has of nature were too strong for the haws of policy. Two years later we have another statute. . . . A srate of wares is then sed for laborers in hashandry ; and lhe wages of carpenters, masons, tylers, amd others coneerned in building are also fixed. The principle of conlining the laborer to one locality is astablished hy cmacting, with the expeption of the inhabitants of stafford, Lamenshire, Derhy, Craven, and of the Welsh and Seoteh marches, who may come and go to other places in harvest time-" that none of them groth out of the town where he dwelleth in the winter, to serve the summer, if he may serve in the same lown."-KNigints Exa., vol. 1, ch. 30, 1. 4it.
3112. $\qquad$ Firere Wrafes. [About 1597 Parliament enarted that rates of wages were to be settled anmually by the justioes in sessions assumbled. The rite so setthed having been approved by the Privy Council, was to be proclamed by the sheriff ; and the payer and reeciver of higher wages were sulijected to tinceand imprisomment. All ande-bodied haborers wandering through refusill to work for sulde wages were styled "rogutes and vagabouds," and sulbject to crucl punishments.]-KNumers ENG., vol. 3, ch. 1\%. p. 2\%1.
3113. LABOR, Profitless, (o'ton. This jod, Which is aboat as large as a hen's egre, harsts when it is ripe, and the conton gushes ont at the top in a heautiful white flock. If you examine this flock elosely, you discover that it eontains cight or ten large seceds, mach resembling, in size and shape, ihe seeds of a lemon. The fibres of the cotton adliere so tightly to the seeds, that

 Was this lact that rendered the rasine of rotton so litale protitable, and kept the Sontlem Sutas from shariner in the properity enjoved has the States of the North, alter the clase ol the Revo-visiting Mrs (ireron] hat berom romsorsing lor sombe fime. the ideal was statted that perhaps this work eombl ho dome by a machime. Mrs.
 my youmer ficund, Mr, Whimey; hi can makr anything." Few words have ever been spmetn memotiable comserperneres as this simple oherevation of Mrs. Nathaniel (ireeme. [See No. :9901.]

311.1. LABOR prolonged, Fourtir $1 / L_{m} / r^{\prime}$. [13y a statute of 1495 it was recpuired that from the midelle of Marell tothe midelle al Seplember every laborer and alliticer was folm at his work hefore five orelook in the morninge, and le was to depart mot till betwern seven and eight in the eveningr. In this season he was to have half an hour for bradifast, an hour for dinnor, amd half an homer for his " nonometr: " nud from the mitl. dle of May to the middle of Augnat he was to have half an hour for sleep) in the day. From Scplember to March lae was to be at his work "in the springing of the day, and depart not till night of the same day.."- Kinimitres Evar. vol. 2, (fh. 7, ן. 113.
3115. LABOR reduced, $B y$ Marhinery, [Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin, and invited inspertion.j The genteracen saw, with mobomaled wonder and delight, that ond man, with thi, young Yankee's engine, could clean as much rotton in one day as aman could clean by hand ina whole winter. The cottong giown in a hares plantation condel be separated from the seed in at few days, which before refuired the constant lat bor of a lmmalred hands for several momilis.Cyclorlemin of Buog., p. 161.
3116. LABOR, Remarkable. Jolen Wraley. IIe preached 42,400 surmons aftor his return from Grorgia-more than tilterna werk. [lledied in the righty-righth year of his age after preaching the gospel for sixiy-four vears.] IVis public life stands out in the history of the world umquestionably pre-eminemt in religions babors above that of any obher man since the apostolic age. Stevens' M. E. C'uenci, vol, •, 〕, 990.
3117. Labor respected. Vifuleon $I$. [It st. Helema.] Some slaves, with heary hmedens on their shombders, ame toiling uje the narow path. Mrs. Baleombe, who was on her voyage to England from Bombay, . . . in rather an angry tond ordered them to keep hark. But the emperor, making roon for the slaves, tumed to Mrs. Batcombe, amd said, millly, "Rexpect the hurden, madamo.'"- Ammotr's Nimoleon B., vol. : ch. 30.
3118. LAB0R, Success by. Jumastorn C'olomy. Many circumstaneesimpeded the progress of the oldest Virginia folony. The tirst settlers at Jamesfown were idle, improvident, and dissolute. (If the one hundred and five mon who eame . . . in the spring of 1607 , only twelve ware eommon lat borers. Tlere were fontrententors and six or ejght masons and blacksmiths, hut the hack il mechanise was eompernated by a long lial of phating un amerian state on the , Dames River colony perislued before nutumn." Fol. 1, ch. 4.] 3119. LABOR, Wages of. Smull. [In lar lac. giming of the eighteenth centurs, he average Wige paid toa farm-lahorer was as., without forch.

 of the laboring man's family. Some consider 1.s. Whave hat it predasing power "gan to ex.
 (h. I, I, in.

3120 . - Sitmult Johmam. Raising the wages of day-htorers is wrong ; for it doses not make them live better, but only makes them inder, amb idleness is a wey than thing for humato nature.-Boswera's doiveos, p. 48.?.

B121. LABOR, Youthful. Thumber Werl. My first employmern, when ateme eight venrs ohd. was in blowing a backsmith's bellows for a Mr. Reeres, who gave mesis cents a day, which con(ributed so murla toward the suppert of the famiiy. I vand upon a box to (mable me to remel the handle of the bellows.

1 got a sitmation as cabin-boy on bearal the sloop Ramere . . in my nintly var.-Lame of Thitadew Wemb, vol. 1 , ch. 1.
3122. LABORER honored, The. Ahfolonymus. The Pheruiciams had suffered mued oppression under the Persian yoke, and were thos glad to be emancipated from its tyramy. Strito, the king or gevernor of Sidon, attempted in vain to maintain his province in its allegiance; he was deposed, and Dlexamder having allowed his finvorite 1 hephestion to dispose of the crown, he conferred it on Abdetongmus, a man of great worth and virtue, and of illustrions and even royal desecent, but whom misfortunes had redifed to seek a subsistence by mamal labor.Tythelis Hist., Book 2, ch. 4, p. 184.

3123 . LABORER impoverished. English. The laborer of the dighteenth century never nte wheaten hread. . . Teat and sugar, the comforts of the monern cottage, were wholly for the rich. Fresh meat was eaten only twice a week by half the working people, and never basted at all by the other half. The salt to cure the tlesh of his hog whe very dear and frightf folly mwholesome.

Woolen clothing of every sort was fir dearer then. Linen was almost beyond the rench of his wifo' and children. 'There were no chap calieoes for their shirts, no smart prints equally cheap) for their frocks. His hovel, with " one chimney," was unghaed, and its thatched roof and battered wallsoffered the most miserable sheltor. Furnitore he had mone beyond a bencla ind a platk on trestles, an iron pot, and a hasin or 1 wo. he land the ague, and his children died of the smallpox without medical idid. . . The had not the slightest clance of going out of his condition theoush educntion. . . . Mis chiddren were shut oat of any bronder view of life than that of their native hamlet; for charity schools, few and mean as they were, . . . were only established in some favored towns. The farmers and the small frepholders were, with the exception of their greater command over the necessaries and comforts of life, at no great elevation above the husbandman,

Who worked for wages. - Kindurs Eiva, vol, it. ch. I.

B121. LABORERS despised. $B_{y}$ Nimimans. The Normans hrought inte binghan to contempt for the hatming people, the serfs, the villehn, .. which did not exist in may stuld deqree tefore the Norman complest. The peasant was in every respect in bondage. His foredgum mater phundered him and helel him in contempt. . . . The humblest catsin and the comesest fare were thourht almost tow goon for the vilhin. "Why shombld villeins cat herf or any dainty fors?"
 Ext., wol. I, ch. 2. 1 , 32,
:3125. LABOPERS ignored. Magnu Churtu. Sucla were thestipulations in fasor of the higher orders of the state, the barons, the clorgy, the lamdholders, and freemen. But that purt of tha people who tilled the gromel, who constituted in all probability the majo.ity of the bation, seem to have bern very lighty ronsidered in this great charter of fredom. They land but one single clamse in their favor, which stipulated that no villein or rustic shonld by any fine be bereaved of his carts, his phoghs, and instruments of husthandry : in ofluer respects they were considered as a part of a property belonging torn estate, and were transferable along with the horses, cows, and other movables, at the will of the owner.-'T'versen's Htser., Book 6, ch. 8, p. 149.
3126. LAND, Division of. Benctivitl. One ecrain effer of the crusales must have been great changes in tervitorial property throughout the kingloms of Europe. The nohility and barons who went on those expeditions were obliged to sell their lands to defray their charges. The lands passed into the hands of other proprietors, and their former masters, such of them as ever returned to their country, had expended the whole of their fortunes. This fuctuation of property diminished the weight amblinfluence of the greiter barons, and weakened the aristormtical spirit of the feudal system. The hands of a single lord were likewise divided among a mumber of smaller proprictors, for few individuals were then opulent enongh to have purchased entire lordshins. This would necessurily diffuse a spirit of independence, and bring men nearer to an equality of property.-TyTher's ILIst., Book 6, ch. 10, p. 165.

3127 LAND, Ownership of. Engleral. A landeal proprietor who held an estate muler the crown by knight service-and it was thas that most of the soil of England was held-had to pay a large fine on coming to his property. Ite could not alienate one acre without purchasing a license. When he died, if his domans descenct(ad to an infant, the sovereign was guardian, and was not only entitled to great part of the rents during the minority, but could require the ward, under heavy penaities, to marry any person of suitable rank. The chief bait which attracted a needy sycophant to the court was the bope of obtaining, ns the reward of servility and thatery, a royal letter to an heiress. These abuses had perished with the monarhy.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 143 .
3128. LAND, Unimproved. Reign of Charles II. The arable land and pasture land were not supposed by the lewt polltical arithmetichans of that age to monout to untech more tha late the af of the kirertom. 'Tha remainder was larleved to consist of moner, forent, and fers. Thera eomputations are strongly eontirmed by the roatbooks amd maps of the seventerenth rentury. From those books and majse it is clear that many rontes which now pass through ath emolless suleeession of orehards, hay-tiehls, and bean-tichas, then ran through nothing bit heath, swampand 3140. LANDS, Hereditary. Fircutel. Toconciliate the atbertions of the soldiery was a very material olsjeer with the first comperors : and lor this purpose mo policy seemed more wroper than to assign to them gitis of portions of land in the provinces where they were stationed. This, we thal, was the rase evenin Italy, as we may learn from the first and nintle ecogenes of Virgil. Of these distributions of hand we time frefucht mendion among the mexient Roman lawyers. They became more freguent among the lafter emper. ors, who found it neressary to rount the favor mat support of the army, bow berome the disposers of the imperial diadem. These distributions of land were at first only for life. The tirst who allowed them to descend to the leeirs of the grantees was Alexander Severus, who, ins Lampridius informs us, pernitterl the lucits of the gruntees to enjoy their possessions, on the express condition of their following the profession of arms. Constantine the Great in like mammer made grifts of land to his princlpal otlecers, perpetual and berediary.-TYTaEr's IIst., Book 6, ch. 2, p. 6i).

3130. LANGUAGE, Adaptation of. Firef amd Romatn. The two languages expreisel at the same time their separate jurisdiction throughout the empire; the former as the natural idiom of science; the latter as the legal dialect of public transactions. Those who mited letters with business were equally conversant with both; and it was almost impossible, in any provinee, to tind a Roman subject, of a liberal celacation, who was at once a stranger to the Groek and to the Latin language. -Gibbon's Rome, ch. Q $^{2}$ p. 47 .
3131. LANGUAGE, Contempt for. Buttle of IIastings. When the English fall the Normans shout. Each side taunts and defies the other, yet neither knoweth what the other sathe and the Normans saty the English bark, horamse they understand not their speech.-Decisive B.atrides, $\leq 327$.
3132. LANGUAGE and Manners. Romons. So sensible were the IRomans of the influenee of language over mational manners, that it was their most serioms care to extemd, with the progress of their arms, the use of the Latin tongue.-Ginbon's Rome, ch. 2, p. 44.
3133. $\qquad$ - Early. Lamgmage, in the early perioxs of every nation, is in a very rude condition, and it is in this imperiection and apparent barrenness of the lamarage that we shall find one canse for the lofty tonc assumed by the poetry. The words are few, but they are invariably expressive. They are descriptive of the strongest passions, of the deepest feclings of the human heart-of patriotism and valor, of grief and joy, of trimmph and despair, of love and hatred: of sueh fectings as arr to be fonnd among rever mondtivated peoplo-when mature is cortainly comparatively in a savage stata : When tome of those fantastie num artiticial jabas. and therefore nome of thone low and insipid expressions have been int rodared, whiela invariably aroompany tle process of hasury ame retinemant. In the ancient haguages of a rude people we timd no redmodan'y of rexpletives, mo bumeressary worls, 1 on moneming symonymes, beratuse langrange is formed to deseribe what pasoce it the minds or hefore the reres of those who the it. EWen in thedr common discomrse, and still mort in thoir war-songs, or their soldma hamengucs, the spenkers were actatlly compedted to be nervons, concise, and lirequently metaplorical. The high-down nod tigurntive style mat have then becone as mach a matter of meressity, owiber to the barremoses of the langenge, as the eqfect of taste or imarimation. Whenman tiral fonnd himself in society, the Almighty, in the languare which Ile crated for hini, did not furnish him with what was caleulated to delameate the minuter feelings of the heart, or the more detailed nand delicate serenery of nature, but with that broad and boder peneil which rould deseribe those contlictiag pussions which then tore his mind, or those awful solitutes with which he was then currommed.-TyTikn's Ilist., Book 4, ( h. 3, 1). 426.
313.1. LANGUAGE, Origin of. Sitnutel drhnsom. Talking of theorigin of languagr. Jomasus: " It must have come ly inspiration. I thomsmel-nay, a million of rhildren condd not invent a haggiage. While the organs are plable. there is mot mulerstambing emomgh to form a languare; by the time that there is matervamdiner enomgh, the organs are hecome stitf. Wo know that after a certain age we cammot learn to pronomme a new language. No forcigner who comes to Eushand when mavanoed in life evel pronomuces Engrish tolerably well ; at least, such instances are very rare. Whern I manatain that language most lave come by inspiration, I do motmean that inspiration is rexpured for rhetorie, and all the beanties of language ; for when onee man has langmage, we cmonconve that he may gradually form modifications of it. I mean only that inspiration seerns to me to be necersary to give man the faculty of speedh ; to inform him that he maty have sperech; which I think lie could no more find ont without inspiration than cows or hogs would think of such a faculty."Boswelfs.jollnion, 1). 49\%.
3135. LANGUAGE, Paradisaic. Porxi,". [Mahomet reeommended the Persitu lamprand to the use of piradise, it being a smooth amd clegrant ifliom.]-Gmmon's Rome, (ch. 42, p. 216.
3136. LANGUAGE, Training in. Romans. Next to this care of the mother, or the female tutor, in instilling the rigrid prine ijpe of patriotic virtue, a very remarkable degree of attention appears to have been bestowed by the Romans in accustoming their children to correctness of language and purity of expression. Civero informs us that the Gricorhi were educated $n o n$ tam in gremio quam in sermone matris. And in speaking of Curio, who was one of the best orators of his time, he adds, that without possessing the rules of he art, mad without any knowledge of the laws, he had uttained to eminence merely from the elegame and purity of his diction. 'This attention to the lamgage of chideren may uppear, it these modern days ath absurd mad nseless retinement. Anomer the Romans it was mot thourht so. Thay were well aware how much the math is inthemed by the earliest int. pressions and habinot intanes. They suspereted, and not withont jua gromils, that they who became faniliar with the langatere and expresesons of their shaves were likely to be initiated alow in their vieres, ath to herome rexoneiled to their ideas of servility and deremdener. That mbutuity upon which this prophe so tumeh prided themselves in the more advaned periods of the commonwealtla was nothinge else than a certain manly acgater. which distinguished the Roman ditizens from thase nations whon they aromot-considered fanetionsmess an a seasoning of the hard exarese and diet, and therefore ordered it to bake phare on all proper orrasions. in their common enteraimantas and parties of plensure.
 1. 4.3.
:3137. LAUGHTER, Importance of. L,y"ur:/us.

:31:36. LAW, Above. Jimes II. It was deter. mined that the muncio shouble go to court in solemon processinti. Some persoms on whose ohedience the king had commters showed, on this orcasion, for the tirst time, signs of a mutimos. ppirit. Among these the most conspiemons was the second temporal peer of the realm, Charles Seymour, commonly called the proud Duke of somerset. He was, in truth, a man in whom the pride of birth and ramk amounted almost to a disease. . . Some membere of his fimily implored him not todraw on himself the royal diepleasare, but their rutreaties prohued no effert. The k.ng himself expostulated. "I thought, my lord." said he, "ihat I was doing yout a great honor in appointing you to escort ha minister of the first of all crowned heals." "Sir," said the duke, "I am adsised that I camot obry your Majesty withont breaking the law." "I w:ll make you fear meas well is the haw," answered the king, insolently: "Do you not know that I am ahove the hav", "Jour Majesty may be above the law," rppled somerset, "hot I an not ; and while' I ohey the law I fear nothing." The king turned away in high displeasure, and Somerset was instanly dismissed from his posts in the household and in the army. [James som after was a fugitive amian exile.]-Macactay's Evic., ch. &, p. 2.00).
3139. LAW, Delay of the. Jwhen Mrimpolen.
 an illemall tax of 318 , bid. "There were six weeks of solem pleading in the Exchenper Chamber before all the judpere-the arreatist canse that ever was tried in Weaminster Itall-followed hy many monthas of judicialdeliberation, before the king's right to enforce the tax of ship-money wats adjudged to be lawful. Diampenten refiased to pay zors assessed upon his lands. The formal pleadings upon the writ ornpied tive months before the question came to be argued. The specches of the crown hawers and of hampden's counsel occupy one hundred and siventeen pages in Rushworth's folio volume. After these protracted argmonets before the judgers, three terms were orempied by theor in giving their opinions. They wreve mil arred intheir judg. ment. It was inally deedided that the tax was

:31.10. LAW, Ignorance of. Rimimen. It was reckoned dishomorable for any person of the patrician ramk not to have thonoughly studien the haws mad the constitution of his comintry. In one of the laws of the Roman panderes an ancedote is recorded of sulpitins, a grentlemmen of the patrician order, who had ocrasion to resort for advice to Quintus Mucius Somevola, then the most cminem lawyer in Reme. - Truten's Itser., Bewk t, ch. 8, p. 42is.
3111. Law levels all. Eimperor Julien. During the games of the circus be laul, imprudently or designedly, performed the mummission if a slave in the presence of the consul. The monent lue was reminded that he had trespassed on the jurisuliction of "mother magistrate, he condemmed himself to pay a tine of ten pounds of gold : and contraced this putbic ocrasion of aleclariang to the worlat that he was sutheect, like the rest of his fellow eitizens, to the laws, and wen to the forms, of the repmblic.- (immos's Rome: (h. 织, p. 40)3.

31:12. LAW, Majesty of. Protection. The poorat man in his coltage may bid retiance to all the foress of the crown. It may be frail; its ront may shake; the storm may enter it ; lout the King of Eugland ramot ater it. All his power diares not croses the threshold of that rained temement. [sperh of Chatham.]-K vigints Ente., vol. 1. ©h. 12, p. 166.

314:3. LAW, Mockery of. Rmmans. The govaroms of the provineres lejug chosen from those who hawe berin consuls or pretors, were necessarity members of the semate: Peculation and axtortion in these high functions were offences in the theory of gravest kind; but the offendar contal only be triad lefore al limited number of his peers, nud a grovernor who had phandered a subject state, sold justice, pillaged temples, and stolen all that he condel lay hambls on, was safe from ponishment if he rethirned to Rome a milliouaire and would anmit others to a share in his spoils. The provincials might semd deputations to complain, but these complaints came before men who hatd themselves governed provinces or clse aspired to govern them. It had been proved in too many instances that the law which professed to protect them was a aere

314.1. LAW, Novice in. Petrick Henuy, Ife married at eighteen ; attempted trade ; toiled sucressfully as a firmer: then with buoyant mind resolved on becoming a hawer ; and answering 'gestions successfully by the aid of six weeks standy of Coke upon Littheton tmad the statutes of Virginat, he gatiod a license as a barrister. For three years the novice dwelt mader the roof of his father-in-haw, an innkeeper, . . ignorant of the spidnce of law, and slowly learning

31.15. LAW overturned. Clurles II. Memwhile rapid strides ware made toward despotism. Proelamations, dispensing with acts of Parliament, or enjoining what only Parliament cauld lawfully enjoin, appeared in rapid succession.

Of taratedicts, the mast lmprant was the bere peral haw agains Roman Cathodies were at one sot anide hy man muthority; mat, that the rad ohjoet of the measure might mot the prowived, the haw arainal probestand Nonemformiste were also suphemded. - Macont.ay's Exi., eh, : 1. ${ }^{2}$ the midhlle of the rigitueculh rentury Parson Adams is taken before a fox lumting fustion. whol will not an oncorombem him to the hame man. "No, mo: gou will be asked what yom have to say for yourself when you come on gime trind; were mot trying you now; I shall maly commia you to gati." In vain the peor curato askel, "Is it no pmaishment, sir, for an Immo cemb tan to te several months in gan ?" His millimus would have been signed had not a bystamder athrmed that Mr. Adams was a clergymanand agrontemanof gool character. "Then," said the justice, "I know how to lrehave myself 10 a gentlemam as well as mother. Noberdy ean sayy I have committed a gentleman since lave bern in the rommission." - Kxamors Exa. wh. i. (h. 6. p. It)X.
31.17. LAW, Sacredness of. Lirmetes. He was semtemeol, after an imprisomment of thirty days. todrink the juice of hembock. That time he pent as hecame the hero and the phitosenpher. IVis friduds had prepared the means of his escope, and arnestly endeavored to persuade him to attempt it ; bitt he convine ed them that it is a crime to violate the haw, deen where its sen
 p. 1.51.

B1.1世. LAW, Supremacy of. Nectssery. [Charles Il., in 16:3, in delinuce of haw, made the " Derharation of Lmdulgence." Mr. Alderman Love, one of the members [of Parliment] for the city of Lomden, opposed the declaration. A mamber said to him. " Why, Mr. Love, yon area Dissenter yourself: it is very magratefinl that you who receive the bemetit should objeet against the mananer." He replied: "I ama Dissenter, nul thereby unhappily ohmoxions to the law. The law against the Dissertars I should be glad to see repeabed ly the sime anthority that made it; bat while it is a law the king commot ream it hy prochamation: and I had much rather see the bissenters suffer from the rigor of the law, thougir 1 suffer with them, than see all the laws of Eng. land trimpled under the foot of the prerogative, as in this example."-Kivititrs Exa., vol. 4, ch. 19, p. 3:3.
31.19. Law suspended. Rome. It hat long beren the rule at Rome that no oflleer of justice or finame comblemer the dwelling inhabited by the minister who represented a Catholie State. In process of time, not ondy the dwellings, bit a latge precinct round it, was held inviohalde. At lengeth half the city consisted of privileged districts, within which the papal government had no more prower than within the Louste or the Escurial. Every asylum was thronged with contrab,uml fraders. framdulent bankrupts, thioves. and assassins. In every usylum were collected magazines of stolen or smuggled goods. From every asyhm ruthians sallied forth nightly to plumier ind stab. In me town of Christemiom, consequently, was law so impotent and wicked.
mas somadarions as in the andent eapital of religion and rivilizatom. On this subjeret Innocent felt us hecome a prisest and aprines. Ile declared that he would recoive mo mabasader who insisted on a right so destrutive of order and mo-rality.-Dncathay'm ling., (in. 9, p. dote.
is150. LAW, Technicalities of the. Pilyrim Pithers. Llong soought a patem of the Lombon Compmy for a home in the Ansriean widarmess.] At hast, in 1619, its mombers, in their open romat, writes one of the Piturims, "demanded mur culs of going ; which being mbated, they suid the thing was of (ion, mad granted a large patent." Being taken in the mane of one who failed to aexompuny the expedition, the patent was never of the least servioe.-Dancmom's 1 . S., vol. 1, ch. 8.
3151. LAW, Unprotected by. Reigut of ,limes II. [Protestantiam hat beron surpressed and (atholicism promoted in [redand.] Those who had lately beron the lords of the ishand now reved ent. in the hithermess of their soms, that they hand become "prey amd "langhing-stock to ineir own sert's mud menials; that honses were burned ame antiestold with impmity ; that the mew (catholic] soldiers rammed the comatry, pillaghes, insulling, ravaging, maiming, tossing one Protestant in a blanket, tying up another by the hair, and scourging him; that lo appalal to the law was vain; that Irish juiges, shrifls, juries, and witnesses wore all in league to sater lish criminals, . . The whole soil would soon change hands. : In every netion of aje:ment muder the ulministration of [borl-lientemant] Tyreonal, judgment had been given for the native against the Eng-lishman.-Nacartay's ENis., dh. 16, 1. $14 \%$.
s152. LAW, Without. English Culinet. Fidw things in our history are more corions than the origin und growth of the power now possessed by the cabinet. . . . During many years old-fanhioned politians continued to reiratd the cabinct ns an man istitutional and dangerous loord. Nevertheless, it ronstantly herame more ani more important. It at lenigth drew to itself the chicf cxecutive power, and has now been regarded, during several genemtions, as an essential part of our polity. Fet, strange 10 say, it still continues to be aitoger ther unknown to the haw. - Macablay's Eve., ch. 2, p. 197.
3153. LAWS, Broken. The Romuth C'onsul. Tarpuinius Supermashan thanpled onall the constitutional restrains and on all the weghations of the preceding sovereigus. He had ne co as. sambled the semate, nor called together ' an porople in the Comitia. He is corn sald a have destroyed or broken the tablets on which the laws were writen, in order to ellace all remembance of them. It was neressary, therefore, after hisexpulsion, that new tablets shomk be framed.Trutere's Hist., Book 3, (hl. 3. p. 309.
3151. LAWS disregarded. Amerian Colomics. [The hupertation Act of Parliament wats passed in 1733.] Exorbitant duties were laish on all the sugar, molasses, and rum imported into the colonies. At first the payment of these morensimable customs was evaded by the merehants, med then the statute was openly set at mught. in 1750 it was futher emacted that iron-works should not be erected in America. The manulathre of steel was specially forbidden, and the felling of pines

:315.5. LaWs, Enforcoment of. (icmul. When Anacharuis bincw what sulon was ubont, he hasharl. . . at the almartity al imagining ha conded restrain the avarice mad hijustice of hinciti-lon replien : "Man keep the ir agreemems when it is ate mbumage to both partion not to bratik them:" "mod he womld su frmme his laws as to more for their interest to olsarve than to trans-

3156. LAWS, Obsolete. Eifforch. Henry VIT. anforecdubolete hass, in order toobtain money from the walthy London merchants, in which false witmesses, ealled promoters, were systemati-
 p. 211 .
:3157. LAWS, First printed. Einghtind. [In the Engrish peophe are enaedel in He English tongue. But heyond this, there ure hare first haws in our hand which wrerever printed. - K shants Enc., vol. 2, (h. 12, p. 20t.
3158. LAWS, Proposal of. Ithminns. It was a singular perabiarity of the constitution of Athems, mod, as Plotarch informs ns, likewise of The hes, hatafter a haw was voted and passed in the ussembly of the preople, the propesire of the haw minh have been cited in the ordinary cival courts, tricel, ant brought to punishment, if lhe court was of opinion that the law was prejudi iat to the public. This pecoliarity is notieced in one of Mr. Mume'spentitical (ssayss © © Of Seme Remarkable ('ustoms'), amd that anthor mentors sereral examples in the Grecian history, among the rext the trial of C'tesiphom, for that haw which he hat proposed and carried. for rewarding the services of Demosthenes widh a crown of gold-a trial which gave occasion to two of the mast splenetid and mimated orations that remain to ns of the composition of the ancionts- the orations of Aschines and Demosthenes. - TyThers Dist., Bowk 1, (h. 111, p. 101s.

S159. LAWS, Severe, Silm, Shom rejealed the haws of Draco, dexept hase concerning murder, hectuse of the wererity of the punishments they appointed. which for amost all offenees were capital : even those that were convicterd of iollemess were to suffer death, and such as stole only a fow apples or potherthe were to be pumished in the same mamer as sarerilegions prosems and murderers. Hener a saying of Demades. who lived long after, was murde momired, that Draco wrote his law $\leq$ not with ink, but with blood. Anel he himsedf being askel why he made death the punishment for most offeneres, answered, 'simatl ones deserve it, and I can lind no greater for the mont heimons. "-Phetrnen's sobos.
3160. --. Ettpthen. The pemal laws of Egypt were remarkably severe. Whoever had it in his power to save the life of a citizen and neglected lat duty, was punished as his murder-mosh limitathon, meording to circmmanows. It sth was fomal murdertal, the city within whan bumale the murder had bext comanitter was

 were combermed to the sume puni-hment which the calumbinted persen ather had or misht have sutfered, had the calumby lexan hallevoil. The - itizell who was so base cis todiselone the werets of the State to its conemine was pminhed by the - bitting ola of his tongue ; and the forger of pub. lic instrments or private derels, the comenterfiter of the conrent coin, and the nser of halse wedghts and measures, were rondelmed to herve hath their hands cint off. The has for the preservation of the chasity of women were extremely rigit: cmasenlation whe the punishment of him who violated a free woman, mid burning to denth was the pmishment of madnlterer.-Tvaranis Mistr. Book 1, ch. 4, p. 3\%.
3161. LAWS, Sumptuary. Romems. In oriler, if pewible, to restrin such extreme luxury, a variely of smpphary laws were promblated frem time to time, some of them limiting the mumber of dishes, others the momber of giests. and of hers the expense to be bestowed on an entertiinment; but al! these attempts were completely unsuceresting. How, in effect, combl it haver bee possible to bring hack uaciont simplicity, miness they could have also recalled nuedent jois: (riy? When n state has once berome wemerally with their fortunes, ohberwise the poor would wamt employmen and subsistence. It is luxury that is silently levelling that ine gindity, or at least kerping fortines in a constant thecthation.
We maly winh that Rome had remained peor nind virtuona; but, being once great and op aldent, it was to have repuired an impossibility that she shomb hot have heen hinurions. - Tyterats

3162. --. Rement ('esar made an effort, in whid Angustus afterward inutited him, to cherek ho haxing which was catinge into the Roman ehamater. He ferbate the jide foung particians to be carried about by slaves in littore. The markets of the wodd had ben ranacked to provide dainties for there gentlemen. IFe ajppointed inspertors to surver the dealders stalls, and orcasiomally prohibited ilishes were carried off from the dimaer-table umder the eves of the disappointadguests. Encmies enongric cesar made by there measures: but it condil not be said of him that he allowed indulgeners to himself which he interdicerel to others. Dis domestic reonomy was strict :mal simple, the aceomats being kejt to a sesterere. Dis frugality was hospitable. Ite had two tilles alway-one for his civilian friemels, anonher for his otlicers, who dined in mitorm. The food was plain, but the best of its kind: and he was not to be played with in suld matters. An unlucky laker who supplied his gucsts with breal of worse quality than he furnished for himself was put in chains.-Frocde's C.esha. ch. 20.
 Whan the lacerlamonham had born de dement at fing any mhliton, retrenchment, or chamer, wemt

 anthority the day followinge and whan it for ever by this nimus he promeded to the state

 wher la.w ally simple, anl were impresed oin the menner of the youth by their paremte mand mally "olbored by the daily pratione of their

:3143.5. LAWYER, An ignorant. Jublius C (ifllı. linbline ('otta, whor alliected to lar thunght an (ap)
 lor. "P'rqhajs," suin! ('ierero, "you think I

:31483. LAWYERS, Arts of. Linman. In the deeline of Ramain jurisprudence, the ordinary pomanion ol lawyers was pregmant with mischief and diserace. The mohe art, which hand once heren preserved as the stered inheritume of the palleicians, was fallen into the lands of freedmon and pleporians, who, with rombing rathew than with skill, exereised a sordid amd proniinto limilies for the purpose of fommenting dif-

 rent. (Others, recolase in thoir chamberes, maintained the dignity of legal professors by turnishing a rich reling with subtheties to comfonme the plimest trubls, and with arguments to rolor the most monastinabie pretensions. Thar splemelial mad popmbar chass was composed of the atcofates, who dilled the Formon with the somad of theire turesial and lopumeions rhetorie. ('areless of fame and of justion, they are deseribed, for the mast part, as fromont and raparious grides, who conducted their clionts throngh a maze of experner, of delay, amb of disappointment ; from whence, after a tedions series of years, they were at longth dismissed, when their patience and fortme were almost exhamsted. - Gimbos's Rome, ch. 17, p. 103.
3167. LAWYERS, Hatied of. By Cromutus. The Germans, who exterminated Varns mad his fregons, had been partienalarly offended with the lioman have and lawyers. inn of the bationtians, after the effeetual precountions of rutting but the tongute of an advocate, and sewing if] his month, observed, with monch satisfaction, that the vijere eondal ho lomger hiss.-Gibmon's Rome, ch. 33, p. 399.

316*. LAWYERS imprisoned. For l)eceit. [The statute of 1275 ] provided that no sergeant or pleader should use deceit to beguile the court, motr than a yent and a hall altore her hat do.

 almbulys which the geverumbent formol in sup

 that at leat char of thir two rhief law olllore

 - hances, it was thonglat desimbla Hoat there shomal be a division of labor. Inatornery, the diminished by his comsedontoms sotiplos, was mate somme amemble lor his want of talernis. When the movernment wivhed to rafiner the law, recource wan hatil to Sillyer. When the
 Was had to Powis. Jhis armandement lasted till the king obtained the servires of ant mdrocalle Whar was at once havil that l'owis and abler

;B171. LAYMEN ignored, Ninth (int"ry, It is corious tos remark that while the rerys ware stemblily aming at temporal power, serolar promes, as il interehamenge ehatater with thent, serdit to hava fixad their ehiof attention on sjuritmal romberos. The momastio life was now universally in the highest esterm, amblaothing condel equad the vemeration that was paid tos surd at devoted themselves to the siteral ghomon athe imbolence of a convent. . . . Kings, Tukes, aml rounts, regatoling their sexular duties as mean and sordid, belold with contemint everything that regarted this world, nod, ahambuming their thantes and temporial homors. shat themselves up in momasteries, mal devoted themselves contirely to the exoreines of praver and mortitiontion. Others, whose zeal hial mot led them gute so far, showed their reveronce for the charelt by employing ecolesiastios in every department of serolitr goverombent. It this time all embansies, nergotiations. and tratios of State: were comblured by monks and abbots, who mont matarally contrived that all pmblic measares should eontribate to the great cand of advancian the sovercign and parmamant jurisoliction ol the
 IIs'r., Book ti, ch. 4, 1. 95.
3172. LEADER, Matchless. Ih nry Clu!!. Oth. ar men have excelled him in speritic powers, bat in the rare combination of cualities which constitute at once the matchless leabler of party and the statesman of consmmmate ability amid pasad by may man -paking the limglish tomgon.
 1. P. IIN.

 : औl

 self an Ejpiscopallan, lar chase allidelon with combors, be loft all to shate bere destiny of the lastand of being forcol nlways for follow, ithsisterl that it somild land in lis torn. Acomed. ingly, the lail undertowk lhe elunger, and as it atrerible mathore ; mal the lame. Whith was thus ohliged, against matame to follow a gride: that eonh neither ser mor hear, stlfered likewise

BI7\%. LEADERS, Change of, R"Minms. Hy the shops, fommbrios, car-works, and depols of supplies, "pon the pressasion of which so mund depemeled. At the very lxariming of the siege the cantions and skillol (eronemaldohnston wassuperseded hy the rash hut daring (Gomeral. IS. Ilaod. It was the policy of the latter to tiont at whatever hazard. On the 20th, edel, and ixth of duly he made three despronte assamite on the Chion lines around Athata, but was repmesed with dremadfal the Comfedoratos lost more men than obonston had lost in all his masterly refreating and fighting betwern ('hattamogra and Atimata. For' more than a month the siege was pressed with great vigor. At has, by an incantions movement, IIood separated his army : Niberman thrust a collame between the two divisions ; and the immediate evacuation of Athanta followed. On the 2d of September the Union wrmy marched inte the captured eity. Since leavinir ('hatarnoogi Gencral Shemman had lost fully 30,000 men; and the Confedorate losses were evern Ereater. . . [On the 15 th of Derember General Ilood Was defonted at Nashville.]. . . The ('onfederate army was ruined, and the rash genernl who had led it to destruction wins relieved of his command. ---Rinpatirs C. S. , (h. 66, p). 526.

3176. LEADERSHIP, Omen of, Tierquin. Tarquin, during some of his wirs, had vowed to ereet a temple to Jupiter, Jino, and Minceva; but he lived only to see the work begnan. In diarging for the fommation of this strueture, on the hop of the 'Torpelan Hill, the kull uf a mun was

:BI77. LEARNING dishonored, ./wmo.s //. | 110

 fulsion oinly ly n timuly retrent. IV luml then sons trecoms motorions there for every kind of sporchless will liguors. Ifo was celebraterl for lanmots of libertines. It lougth he had furued of lis vilo calling, amil had reooived money form a grave and relimions motity in which lhe same dal miven ly his depmoity was still froh. - Ma-

:BI7w. LEAR. ING esteemed. I', Juritans were bot distiuguished for any capri(ious distike of musie. ulure lle ranfings uf No man was more agere than (romweil himsell' out scholars for fulalie emplayments. . . . Ilis monts as its elecorons pioty. "l'he love of masic was with hblu nlmost, a jussiom, as it was with Milton.-KNurtis Eva., vol. 4, ell. 11, 1). ITB.
:1178. LEARNING honored. Tirtil'. ['Timour the 'lartar was oure of the inost embel rompturors. |
 teeted the lemened men of the eompuered rity 'The mistocraty of haman thoumht and wistom appeared to him to form an exception to that hosmanity which he despised to the extreme of 3180. LEARNING, Secuiar, Rijutit. [Edmuml Rich was Archbishop of ('minterbury-a saint also.] Evon knowledge brought its fronhes ; the old Testament, which, with ta comy of the Dereretals, long formed his sole library, frowind down mpon a lowe of secular learning, from whicl Edmand fomed it hard to wemn himself. At last, in wime hour of dremm, the lorm of his dead mother lloated into the room, where the tarder stood among his mathematical diagrams. "What are these "' she secumed to say; and, soizing Edmund's right hand, she drew on the juln there circles interhaced, ench of which bore the mame of a person of the Christian Trinity. "Be these," she eried, ns thr tigure farled "Way, "thy diagrams henceforth, my son."-

31母1. LEARNING, Superficial. Semuel oohnson. He detended his remark upon the generai

But（romwell＇s seruplas were not violent；he had oher objections than what preceded from his own inclinations．He dreaded the resent－ ment of the army．－TyThere＇s Itstr，Book 6， （1．．31），p． 415 ．
：3190．LegISLATION ridiculed．British Pro－ hibition．Nhmufactures were forbidhea in the colonies．Shen s．it：：］＂Catching a monse within his Majcatys cutonies，with a trap of our own making with te de med，in the ministerial cant， an infamons，atrocions，and nefarious crime．＂－ B．wckort＇s l＇．S．，vol．5，（h． 14 ．

3iO1．LEüISLation，special．Emperor Jus－ titrien．［That he mirht matry a prostitute．］a law was promu＇rated in the name of the Ent－ peror Justin，which abolished the rigid jurispru－ dence of anticuity：A glorious repentance（the words of the ectici）wrs left open for the unhapy females who had prostituted their persons on the theatre，and they were perinitted to contract a legal union with the most illustrions of the Ra－ mans．This indulgence was speedily followed ly the solemn muptinds of Justintan and Theodora： her dignity was grachally exalted with that of her lover．－Gmmosis Resme，ch．40，p． 52.

3192．Legislation，Strange．Aulteo Juck－ son．In $1 ; 96$ he was dected to the Honse of Representatives from the new state of Temnessee． Here his turbulent and wilful disposition mani－ fested itself in full force．During the next year he was promoted to the Senate，where he remain－ ed a year，rithout muking aspecch or costing a vote．He then resigned his seat，and returned lome．－Rimentis＇s U．S．，ch．i4，p． $4 \approx$ i．

3198．LEGISLATION suejended．＂Eleven Fears．＂Now commenced a new e：a．Jany Euglish kings hat occasionally committed un－ constitutional an ts，but none had ever systemati－ cally attempted to make himself at despot，and to reduce the Parliament to a mullity．Such was the end which Charles distinctly proposed to himself．From March，16：9，to $\mathrm{N}_{1}$ rill， 1340 ，the houses were pet convoked．Never in our history had there been an interval of sleven years be－ tween Parliament and Parliament．Only once had there been an interval of even half that length．Maca：has＇s Evt．，eh．1，p．el．

319．I．LEGISLATION unintelligent．Stamp Act．［Uf the Stamp）Act，which oceasioned the Revolutionary War，］Walpole says：＂This fa－ mous bill，little undersood here at that time， was less pttembed to．＂［Knight says there was］only a feeble debate and one division．It was passed in the Ilouse of Lords withont a de－ bate or division，－Knigut＇s Evg．，vol．6，ch．17， 1． 22.2

3195．LETTER，Decoy．Washington．Wash－ ington had written a letter to ．．．Lafayette， then in Yirginia，which he cemsed to be inter－ cepted．In the letter he remarked that he was pleased with the probability that Earl Cornwal－ lis would fortify either Portsmouth or Old Point Comfort，for icere he to tix upon Yorktown， from its great capabilities of defence．he might remain there snagly and unharmed，untila supe－ rior British ticet would relieve him with strong re－enforcements or embaris lim altogether．This fated letter quieted the apprehensions of the British commander－in－chief．－Custis＇Wasming－ ton，vol．1，ch． 6.

3196．Letter from Heaven，The Pope＇s． ［The pope nided his usirpation of the crown．］ Pepin prepared to diselarge his obligntions to the see of Rome，of which he was reminded by a most extruordinery letter from heaven．written by Pope Stephen IIL，the sucerssor of Zachury， in the characier of st．$P$ ，ter．L ruged by this invo． cation，he passed the $A l_{p}$ s，and compelled thic Kine of the Lomburds to evarnate the greate part of his territories．Ilis conguests put him in pessession of agreat part of Italy．－Tythen＇s H1．ヶT，Book 6，ch．2，p． 60 ．
3197．Letters，Civilization by．Germans． The Germans in the $1:$ e of＇Theitus were mat＇－ quainted with the use of letters；and the use of letiers is the principal cire monstance that distin－ guishes a civilized people from n hered of savages， incapable of knowledge or retlection．Without an artiticial help the memory soon dissipate＇s or corrupts the ideas intrusted to her charge ；and the nobler faculties of the mind，no longer sup－ phed with models or with materials，gradmally furget their powers ；the julgment becomes feebte and lethargic，the imagination lamguid or irreg－ mar．－Gmbor＇s Rome，ch．9，p． 257.
3198．LETTERS，Mystery of．Captain Joh； simith．［When a prisoner in the hamds of the Indin⿻日土 ${ }^{\text {f }}$ le mangred to write a letter to his countrymen，telling them ol his conptivity and their peril［from nttack］，asking certain artioles， and regnesting that those bearing the note should he thoroughly frightened oefore their re－ turn．This letter，which semed to have shech mystabe＂power of carrying intelligence to a distance ，not lost on the lndians，who dread－ ed the w or more than ever．When the war－ riors bearing the epistle mrived at Jmestown and found everything preciscly as Smith had said，their terror and mimzement knew no bounda－ all hourght of attacking the settlement was given up．－Ridpata＇s CV．S．，ch．9，p． 100.

3199．LEVITY，Characteristis．French．Tho passion for religious warfare was not yet extin－ guished in Europe；a new expedition was fitted out in the vear 1202，under Baldwin［I．］，Count of Flanders，consisting of about 40,000 men． The olijert of this crusade was different from all the rest，and its leaders，under the cloak of a holy war，proposed，instead of extirpating the intidels，to dethrone the Emperor of Constanti－ nople．．．．Baldwin mad his army ．．．laid siego to Constantinople；he took it almost vithont re－ sistance．The crusaders put all that opposed them to the sword；and it is remarked，as strong－ ly characteristic of a spirit of national levity， that the French，immediately after a scene of massacre and pillage，celebrated a splendid ball， and danced with the ladies of Constantinople，in the sanctuary of the chureh of St．Sophir．Thus Constantinople was taken for the first time，sack－ ed，and plundered by the Christians．－Tytlen＇s Ihstr．，Book 6，ch．9，p． 161.

3200．LEVITY contrasted．French．A civil war was kindled in Paris，of which the object was the removal of the Cardinal Mazarin．The fortune and the power of this minister naturally excited envy，and gave rise to cabals to pull him down ；and the maladministration of the finances， the distresses of the State，and the oppression of the people，by a varicty of new taxes，were suf－ ficient to render these discontents universal．The Parliament, which saw ediets pronounced for taxes, withont heing, as usual, eontlomed by them, expressed anopenand violent disapprobntion of Duanrin's medesures.

The gay latmor of the French, that spirit of levity which furns everything into ridiacule, was never nore conspicuolis than in this war-a strong contrast fo the tember that elmaracterized those civil commotions, which almost, at this very time, hat drowned Engrand in bood. 'The grievances of the Enarlish prompted to a serious, a gloomy, and a desperate resistunce, which embroined the whole mation, and embed in the dostruction of the comstitution. The ervievances of the Freneh kindled the eivil war of the Fronle, but nfforded to this volatile people nothing more than the oceasion of anagreenble confusion, and a tit subject for hampoons and hathats. The Parisians mareled out to attack the royal army andorned with plumes of fenthers und tine mosegnys ; and when the regriment of the Coadjutor de Retz, who whs nominal Archbishop of Corinth, was defeatal by the Royalists, they called this engramenent the first epistle to the Corinthinns. The women ladi as active a share in these proceedings as the men ; and the Duchess of Longueville actunlly prevailed on the great 'Turenne to leave the king's purty, and revolt with his army to that of the rebels.-Ty'isa's Mis'r., Book 6, ch. 34, p. 454.
3201. LEWDNESS, Habitual. Charles $I I$. Ie did not merely indulge his passions ; his neck bowed to the yoke of lewdness. He was attached to women, not from love, for he lat no jenlcnsy, and was regralless of intidelities; nor cantirely from delnuch, but from the pleasure of living near them, and samentering in their compmoy. IIis delight-such is the record of the royalist Evelyn-was in " concubines, and rattle of that sorit ;" num up to the last week of his life he spem his tima in tissolntemess and listening to love-songs.-BANcreat's U.S., vol. ㄹ, ch. 11.
3202. LIAR, Proverbial. Reign of Jumiss II. Richard Talbot. Jat long before carbed the nickname of Lring Dick Tallot; and at Whitehall any widd fietion was commonly designated ats nue of Jiek J'albot's truthes. Ife now daily proved that he was well cutitled to this unenviable erputation. Indeed, in him mendacity was almost a diseatse. Ile would, after griving urders for the dimmission of English ofticers, take them into his closet, assure them of his confidence:and frieodship. and implore Ineaven to eonfound him, sink him, blast him, if he did not take good care ol their interests. Sometimes those fo whom he hat tims perjured himself learned, betore the day closed, that he had cashiered them.- Macaithy's Exa. , ch. 6, 1. 134.
3203. LIBEL, Trials for. Jillinm Ifint. The thace trials of William Hone are amoner the most remarkable in our [J3:itisit] constitutional history. They produceet more distinct effects upon the temper of the country than any public proceediners of that time. [They tanght the govermment that the diffusion of knowledge is the best correetive for a seditious and irreligions press. Willian Hone was a bookseller, who vended his wares in a little shop in the Old Bailey, On the $18 t h$ of December, $181 \%$, he is brought for trial to Guildhull as a libeller. He had written a series of political satires, He was a woll-read man, of remarknble ability, but ho made n tinancial faihure of every enterprise which he umdertook. IVis clothes were thremblhare. And being too poor to hire connsel, he plead for himself hefore the jury, and dofended himself arainst the prosecution by the attorney-general. Je was charged with writiog a purory on tho Caterehism, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments. The offence was it libel. Itono real in dofence purodies, writen by anthors. from Martin Lether to the edibor of Jitackeromed's Muguzine. He was urquitted. 'Tho lord chiefjustice was mortitied at his acepuittal.] Jleswores that, at whatever cost, he would preside in court mext day himsell', so that conviction might bo rertuin. [He was churged with writing] a profane libel on the ditany. ['The jury acepuitted him. The lom rhiof-justien hle next day bronght him to answer to an indietment forl publishing " parody on the cread ois St, Athanasius, called "The Sinceurest's Creed." [Hore was urain nequitted. Ite becane very popalar with the masses, and his writiugs had an immense sule.]-Kingur's Jive., vol. 8, ch. 5, p. 86.
3004. LIBERALITY, Cloak of. Commodits. [The infimons Roman emperor.] To divert the publio covy, C'lennder, under the emperor's mame, erected haths, porticos, ind places of exercise, for the nse of the people. Ile tlatered limself that the Romans, dazzled and ammsed by this apparent liborality, would be less affected hy the bloody scenes which were anily exhibited; thint they would forget the denth of Byrrhus, $a$ semator to whose superior merit the late empero: had granted one of his danghters ; und that they would forgive the execution of Arius Antonimas, the last representative of the mome and virthes of the Antonines.-Ginibos's Rome, ch. 4, 1. 106 .
3205. LIBERALITY in Opinions, Joh $n$ W F ley. [When Wesley was eighty-six years of age he hoasted that the Methodist Chureh] "requires of its members no conformity, either in opinions or morles of worship, but Intrely this one thing, to fear God and work righteousnoss. "-STEveis' Ménodism, vol. 2, p. 388.
3206. LIBERALITY unoertain. Charles $I$. Ie relied, indeed, chictly, for pecuniary aid, on the maniticence of his opulent sdherents. Many of these mortgaged their land, pawned their jewels, and hoke up their silver charges nad christening bowls in order torassist him. But experiener has fully proved that the voluntary liberality of individunk, even in times of the grentest excitement, is a poor finamedial resource when compared with sevoreand mothodical taxation, which preses on the willing and unwilling alike.-MIChEhar's Enci. ch. 1, 1. 106.
3007. LIBERTIES demanded. Magnar Chuerta. A chirter very livorible to the liberties of the popple, and tending tw abridge the power of the sovereign in many abital artieles, had heen granted by Jenry l. A copy of this charter, which had never been followed by uny substantial effect, came into the possession of Lamgron, who, in a conference with some of the principal barons, proposed that, on the ground of these concessions from his predecessor, they sloukd insist that Johm should grani a solemn confirmation and ratifiention of their liberties and privi. leges. The barons bound themselves with an oath to support their claims by a vigorous and stenty porseverance. Anapplication was alrawn up and presented to the sovereign, who, unwill ing to yield and yot mable to refuse, appealed to the holy see. The pope [Imocent IIl.] had now an interest to support his vissal, and he wrote instantly to England, requiring by his supreme anthority that all eonfederncies anong the harons which tonded to disturb the peace of the kingrlom should te immediately put an end to. This recpuisition mot with its just disregard. The assoriated barous had taken the most etfect mal measures to enforce their chams. Thev harl assembled an army of 2000 knights, and a very momerous boly of foot. With these fore'es they surrounded the residence of the court, which was then at Oxford, and transmitting to the king a scroll of the chiof articles of their demand, they wereanswered, that he had solemnly sworn never to comply with any one of them. They proreeded immediateiy to hostilitios, laded siege to Northampton, took the town of Bedford, ame marched to Lomolon, where they were received with the acclamations of all ranks of the people. The Kingr [.John], who found his partisans daily abandoning him. began now to alalk in a more suhmissive strain, He offered first to sulmmit all differences to the p pere, and this being peremptorily refused, he at lengtl acpuanted the confederates that it was his sapreme pleasure to grant all their demands. At Rumnymede, between Staines and Windsor, a spot which will be deened sacred to the latest posterity, a solemn conference was held between John and the assembled barons of Fingland, when, after a very short debate, the king signed and sealed that great charter, which is at this day the foundaTion and hulwark of English liberty - Madina C'inarta. - 'T'Tlen's His'., Book 6, ch. 8, p. 142.
3208. LIBERTIES Iost. Mersachuretts Colony. Sir Edmmal Andros hat been . . . appointed royal grovernor of all New England. His eommission ought to have been entitled an articte FOR THE DESTRUCTION OF COLONLAL LIBERTY.

- The scarlet-coated despot landed at boston on the 20th of December [1686], and at once began the work of demolishing the eherished institutions of the people. . . . Nothing might be printed without his [censor's] sametion. Popular representation was abolished. Voting by ballot was prohilited. Town meetings were forbidelen.

The public schools were allowed to go to rim. Men were arrested without warrant of law. . . . Thas did Massachansetts lose her liberty.—liniestirs U. S., ch. 15, p, 146.
3209. LIBERTIES unprotected. Ieign of Jomas II. In I reland . . . panio spread fast among the English when they found that the viceroy [Lord Clarendon], their fellow-countryman and fullow-Protestant, was umable to extend to them the protection which they had expected from him. They heran to know hy bitter experience what it is to be a subje caste. They were harassed by the natives $w$ aceusations of treason and sedition. Thi- Protestant had corresponded with Monmouth; that Protestant had said something disrespectful of the king four or five years ago, when the Exclusion Bill was under discussion; and the evidence of the most infamous of mankind was ready to substantiate every charge. The lord-lieutenant expressed his apprehension that, if these practires were not stopped, there would soon be at Itblin a reign of terror similar to that whind he had seen in London, when every man licld his life und honor at the mercy of Oates and Bedloe.-Macallay's Exa., ch. 6, 1). 129.
3210. LIBERTINE, The aged, Lovis XI. Libertinuge must be observed in an old man, to leman all its buseness. It takes the experience and daring hardihood of semsual age to be thoroughly depraved . . . . In the old voluptuary semsmality springs from infilelity in the mornl existence. . . . The absolute king of France, now that he was growing old, almadoned himself to unlounded dissoluteness, and while le trembled lefore the unknown future, and dared not hear denth momed, he filled his remaining days with lowd pleasure, in whied Richeliea, a protligate of seventy-1wo, was his counsellor.-B.nchofr's U. S., vol. 6, ch. 48.
3211. LIBERTY, Celebration of. Iirris. [In 1790] it was resolyed that the anniversary of the taking of the Bastile should be honored liy a magnificent festival in the Chanp) de Mars-a grand federation, to which deputies shoukd come from evary one of the eighty-three departments of France. To prepare an immense amphitheatre for thas grathering, . . . 12,000 workmen wre employed. But they worked too slowly. All Paris then went forth to dig and to move earth-all elasses, men and women, coming in the early morning . . . and returning hone by torehlight. [Three hmolred thousand persons were present on the 14th of July, sated on the grass, in the mudst of a pouring rain. All swore to be faithfal 10 the nation, the law, and the kingr. The king swore to maintain the constitution.]KNight's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 10, p. 188.
3212. LIBERTY, Champion for. Lafayette. In spite of the remonstrances of England, America, and the friends of liberty everywhere, Lafayette remained a prisoner. To every demand for his liberution, the Austrian Govermment replied, with its usual stupidity, that the liberty of Lafayette was incompatible with the safety of the governments of Europe. IIe owed his liberation, at length, 10 General Bonaparte, and it required all his great authority to procure it. When Lafayette was presented to Napoleon to thank him for his interference, the First Consul said to him: "I don't know what the devil you have dome to the Ausirians, but it cost them a mighty struggle to let you go."-C'yClopedia or Biog., 1, 484.
3218. LIBERTY, Cloak of. Criminuls. [During the Reign of Terror the] entlasiastic ane ${ }^{1}$ noble-bearted Madame Roland was led to the seaffold. . . . On passing before the statue of Lib)erty, which was ereeted at the Place de la Révolition, she apostrophized it in the memornble words, "O Liberty! what crimes are committed in thy name !"-S'tudents' France, ch. 27, 家4.
3214. LIBERTY, Defence of. English in Ireland. [James II. sought the overthrow of Protestantism.] Already the designs of the court began gradually to unfold themselves. A royal order came from Whitehall for disarming the population. This order [the viceroy in Ireland] Tyrconnel strictly executed as respected the English. Though the country was infested by predatory bands, a Protestant gentleman conld scarcely obtain permission to kerep a brace of pistols. The mative peasuntry, on the other ham, were suffered to retain their wempons.-M.Menelay's Ene., ch. 6, p. 12 s.
3215. LIBERTY, Delusive. Romaths. The infatuated Romans now believed themselves a free people, shace they had no longer to thght for their liberty. It was the policy of Augustus to keep up this favorable delusion, by extraordimary marks of indulgence and muniticence. He gratified the people by eontimally amosing them with tbeir favorite games and spectacles: he affected an extreme regard for all the anciont popular eustoms ; he pretended the utmost defference for the Semate ; he reestallished the Comitia, which the internal commotions of the govcrament had provented from boing regularly held; he flatterel the people with the ancient right of eleeting their own magistrates; if he presented emadidates, it wasonly to give a simple recommendation, under reservation that they should be judged worthy by the people, and the people, on their part, could not but regard as the most certain symptom of desert there commendation of so gracious a prince. It was in this manner that Augustus, by the retention of all those empty but ancient appendages of liberty, coneealed the form of that arbitrary momarchy which he determined to maintain.-Tyther's Hist., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 476.
3216. LIBERTY, Devotion to. Lafayette. By the time he had left Anucrica, at the close of the war, he had expended in the service of Congress 700,000 franes-a free gift to the eause of liberty. One of the most pleasing circumstances of Lafayette's residence in America was the affectionate friendship which existed between himself and General Washington. He looked up to Washington as to a father as well as a chief, and Washington regarded him with a tenderness truly paternal. Lafayette named his eldest son George Washington, and never omitted any opportunity to testify his love and veneration for the illustrious American. Franklin, too, was much attached to the youthful enthusiast, and privately wrote to General Washington, asking lim, for the sake of the young and anxious wife of the marquis, not to expose his life except in an important and decisive engagement.-Crclopedia of biog., p. 479.
3217. LIBERTY in Disguise. Barbariuns civilized. The western countries were civilized ly the same hands which subdued them. As soon as the barbarians were reconciled to obedience, their minds were opened to any new impressions of knowledge and politencss. The language of Virgil and Cicero, thourh with some ineviable mixture of corruption, was so universally adopted in Africa, Spain, Gaul, Britain, and Panonia, that the faint traces of the Punic or Celtic idioms were preserved only in the mountains, or amoug the peasants. Education and study insensibly inspired the natives of those countries with the sentiments of Romans; and Italy gave fashions, as well as laws, to licr Latin provincials.-Gibion's Rome, eh. 2, p. $4 \overline{5}$.
3218. LIBERTY, Emblem of. Liberty Pole. A.D. 1770 . [After three repulses the British soldiers cut down the citizens' pole in New York.] The Sons of Liberty, purchasing a piece of land near the junction of Broadway and bowery erected a Liberty Pole, strongly gunrded by lron hands and bars, dechly sunk into the carth, and inseribed" Liberty anilloroperty."-B.Ninerofts U. s., vol. 6, ch. 43.
3219. LIBERTY ondangered. Fiugitive Slare Later. It allowed the persomal liberty of a man to be peremptorily derided by a linited States commissioner, acting with absolute power and without appal. For a chain execeling *20 in value, wery citizen has the right to a trial by jury; but by this law the borly, the life, tho very soul of a man, possibly a frecoborn citizen, might be eonsigned to perpethal enslavement on the fallible judgment of a single otheinl.

The commissioner,
in the event of his remanding the alleged fugitive to slavery, re cerved a fee of $$ 10$, and if heredjudgeed him to be free, only sit.-13 hane's Twenty Ye.uns of Conimess, p. 98.
3220. LIBERTY, Enthusiasm for. I, fifyettc. Derembe:, lit6. When [Deme, the American commissioner, told Lafayette phainly that the credit of his govermment was too low to furnish the volunteers [from Framer] a transport, "Then," said the youner man, "I will purchase one myself." . . . At his own cost he bought and secretly freighted the Victory, which was to carry himself, the veteran De Kilb, and twelve other French oftieers to America. . . . At the age of nineteen it secmed to him an amusement to he presented to the kine arainst whom he was going to fight.-BANcuor's U. S., vol. 9, ch. 16.
3221. LIBERTY, Government for. Roman. [When the consuls were elected] they immediately exereised an act of jurisdiction, ly the mamumission of a slave, who was brought before them for that purpose; and the ceremony was intended to represent the celebrated action of the elder Brutus, the author of liberty and of the consulship, when he admitted among his fellow-eitizens the faithful Vindex, who had revealed the conspiracy of the Tarquins.-Gmmos's Rome, ch. 17, p. 111.
3242. LIBERTY lost. Athenians. The aversion to restraint assumes the same external appearmee with the love of liberty; but this eriterion will emable us to disting i.ish the reality from the counterfeit. In fact, the spirit of iberty and a gemeral corruption of mamers are so totally adverse and repugnant to each other, that it is utterly impossible they should have even the most transitory existence in the same age and mation. When Thrasybulustelivered Athens from the thirty tyrants, liberty came too late ; the manners of the Athenians were irretriceabiy corrupted ; licentiousuess, asarice, and dehanchery had induced a mortaldisense. When Antigomus and the Acham States restored liberty to the Spartans. they conld not enjoy or preserve it ; the spirit of liberty was ntterly extinct, for they were a corrupted people. The liberty of Rome could not be recovered by the death of Cessar ; it had gone forever with her virtuous manners.Tytler's Hist., Book 4, ch. 6, p. 465.
3223. LIBERTY, Love of. E'nconquerable. Such was the result of the Flemish war-a memorable struggle, as proving for the first time that it was possible for a small feudal State, if well organized and animated by a fervent love of lib. erty, to resist successfully the will of a despotic suzernin, mal to hamble the pride of a grent milltary kingrlom.-S'i Unen's' Fiance, ch. 9 , 处 15.
322.I. LIBERTY, Martyr for. Sïr Henry Vene. [Executed by ('hurles Il., A.s. 166".] " IBlessed] he Goul !" "xalaimed he, as he hared his neek for the nxa. " I have kept a conselence void of offence till this day, and luve not doserted the righterns rause lor which I suffor." 'That eanse wits demonemtie liberty; in the history of the world he was the tirst mintyr to the principle of the paramonat power of the people. . . . 'The manner of his denth was the almimation of his times.-BaNcuoris U. S., vol. 2, ch. 11.
3225. LIBERTY of Mountaineers. By Arms. [In Ganl.] Of the mative barbarimas, the Celtilerinns were the most powerfal, as the Cintabrinns mul Asturims proved the most ohstime. Confident in the strength of their monntains, they were the last whosubmitted to the arms of Rome, and the tirst who threw off the yoke of the Arals.-Gimuon's lRowe, cs. 1, 1. $2 \sim$.
3226. LIBERTY, Personal. ILubets Corpus. The fumous act of Ihebers Corpus was likewise the work of this Parlimment-one of the chief securities of English liberty. By this excellent statnite, the nature of which we shall hereafter more fully consider, it is prohibited to send any one to a prison beyond seas; no judge, under severe pennties, must refuse a prisoner a writ of habers corpus by which the juiler is directed to produce in romit the body of the prisoner, and to certify the canse of his detainer and inprisonment ; every prisoner must be indieted the first term after his rommitment, and brought to trial in the subseguent term. A law of this kind, so favorable to the liberty of the subject, takes place in no govemment except thar of Britain, and even of itself is a snfficient argument of the snjeriority of our constitution to that of all other gov-cruments.-Trtlek's Ilist., Book 6, chs. 30 , p. 422.
3227. LIBERTY, Proclamation of. Abraham Lincoln. On the 1st of Jaman'y, 1863, the Pressident $\mathbf{i}$ sined one of the most inumertant documents of modern times-the enanciration mbociamation. The war had been begun with no well-defined intention on the part of the government to free the slaves of the South. But the President and the Republiean party looked with disfavor on the institution of shavery ; during the progress of the war the sentiment of nbolition hud grown with grent rapidity in the North; and when at last it berame a military mecessity to strike a blow at the labor-system of the Southern States, the step was taken with but little hesitancy or opposition. Thas, after an existence of two hundred and forty-four yenrs, the institution of African slavery in the United States was swept away.-Ridpatir's U. S., ch. 65, p. 511.
3228. LIBERTY protected. Eleventh Century. At a period when the feudal oppiession was at its height and the condition of the commonalty, through the greater part of Europe, was in the lower shage of degradation, one of these small Chrisian kingrdoms exhibited the example of a people who shared the sovereignty with the prince, and wiscly limited his arbitrary government by constitntional restraints. This was the kiugrdom of Aragon, in whieh not only the representatives of the towns hand a semt in the Cortes, or mutiombl assemblies, but matheer was elected by the people, furmed a Justiza, who wiss the supreme interpreter of the law, and whose recornized duty it was to proteret the rights of the penple agninst the eneronchments of the erown. This othrer, whose person was sacred, was chosenfrom among the commoners; he limd a right to julge whether the roynl edicts were agreenble to Inw before they could be carried into effect ; and while the king's ministers were nuswernble to him for their emoluct, he was responsible to the Cortes alone. This grent offleer had likewise the privilege of recelving, in the name of the ing this ceremony le held a maked sword, pointed nt the breast of the sovereign, whom he thus addressed: "We, your equals, constitute you our sovereign, and we solenmly engnge to obey your mumlutes on condition that you protect us In the enjoyment of our rights; if otherwise, not."-Ty'riser's Hist., 13ook 6, ch. 7, p. 126.
3229. LIBERTY by Reaction. William the Conqueror. Willinm, in short, through the whole of his reign, considered the English as a conguered nution. Uuder the Anglo-Snxongovernment the people lad enjoved a very consideruble portion of freedom. The grenter burons, perhaps even some of the lamolholders, had their share in the government, by their plare in the Wittenugenot, or assembly of the Stutes. Culer Willinm the rights nud privileges of all the orders of the State seem to have been amihilated and overpowered by the weight of the crown; hut this very circumstance, unfinvornble as it mny appear to the people's liberties, was, in fact, the very cause of the subsequent freedom of the English constitution. It was the excessive power of the crown that grve rise to aspirit of union among the people in all their efforts to resist it ; and from the want of that spirit of union in the other feudnl kingdoms of the continent-a spirit which was not excited in them by a total extinetion of their liberties as it was in England by the whole career of Willinm the Conqueror-we can casily account for the great difference at this day between their constitutions and ours, with respect to political frecdom.-Ty'teris IIst., Book 6, ch. 8, p. 133 .
3230. LIBERTY in Religion. Jtmes II. Ile had, as supreme ordinary, put forth directions, charging the clergy of the establishment to abstain from touching in their discourses on controverted points of doctrine. Jhus, while sermons in defence of the Roman Catholie religion were prenched on every Sunday and holiday within the precincts of the royal palaces, the Chureh of the State, the Chureh of the great marjority of the nation, was forbidden to explain and vindicate her own principles. The spirit of the whole cleriend order rose ngainst this injus-tice.-Macallay's Eng., cli. 6, p. 84.
3231. LIBERTY, Religions. Colony of Marylaud. The foundution of Muryland was peacefully and mpppily laid. Within six montlis it had advanced nore than Virginia lud in as many years. . . . Every other country in the world had persecuting laws. "I will not"-such was the oath of the Governor of Mnryland-"I will not by myself or any other, directly or indirectly, molest any person professing to believe in Jesus Christ, for or in respect of relighon." Bancroft's'U. S., vol. 1, ch. 7.

3232. LIBERTY secured. Mregnit C'hartu. With respect to the people, the following were the principal elauses ealeulated for their benefit. It was ordained that all the privileges and immunities granted by the king [John I.] to his lmrons should be also granted by the barons to their vassals. That one creight and one meature should be observed throughout the kingdom. That merehants should be allowed to tramsuct all business without being exposed to any arbitrary tolls or impositions; that they, and ull freemen, should be allowed to go out of the kingdom and return to it at plemsure. London, and all citiesand borourhs, shall preserve their narient liberties, immunities, and free customs. Aids or taxes shall not be required of them, except liy the consent of the great comeril. No towns or individuals shall be obliged to make or support bridges, unless it has been the immemorial custom. The goods of every freeman shall be disposed of according to his will or testament; if he die intestate, his heirs at law shall suceed to them. The king's courts of justice slanll be stationary, and shall no longer follow his person; they slmill be open to every one, and justice shall no longer be bought, refused, or delnyed by them. The sheritfs shall be incapacitated to determine pleas of the erown, and shall not put any person apon lis trial from rumor or suspicionalone, but upon the evidence of hawful witnesses. No freeman sluall be taken or imprisoned, or dispossessed of his free tenements or liberties, or onthwed or bmished, or any way hurt or injured, unkess by the legal jutgment of his peers, or by the late of the lemel; and all who suffered otherwise in this and the former reigns shall be restored to their rights and possessions. Every freeman shall les fined in proportion to his fanlt, and no fine shall be levied on him to his utter ruin.-TyTlen's Mist., Book 6, ch. 7, p. 149.
3233. LIBERTY of Speech denied. The Commons. [In 1593 the lord-keper replied to the Commons in the name of the queen, when they asked for liberty of speceh.] Privilege of speech is granted, but you must know what privilege you have : not to speak every one what he listeth, or what cometh into his brain to utter that; but your privilege is aye or no. Wherefore, Mr. Speaker, her Majesty's pleasure is, that if you pereeive any idle heads, which will not stick to hazard their own estates, which will meddle with reforming the church and transforming the Commonwealth, and do exhibit any bills to such purpose, that you receive them not, until they be viewed and considered by those who it is fitter should consider of such things, and can better judge of them. - Kinigints Exis., vol. 3, ch. 17, p. 262.
3234. LIBERTY vs. Tyranny. Roman Senator Boethius. In the last gromy season of Theodoric [the Gothic King of Italy] he indignantly felt that he was a slave ; but as his master had only power over his life, he stood without arms and without fear ugainst the face of an angry barbarian, who had been provoked to believe that the safety of the Senate was incompatible with his own. The Senator Albinus was accused and already convicted on the presumption of hoping, as it was said, the liberty of Rome. "If Allinus be criminal," exchamed the orator, "the Senate mad myself are all guilty of the same crime. If we are innocent, Albinus is equally entitled to the protection of the laws." These laws might not have panished the simple and larren wish of an mattamble blessing, but they would have shown less indulgence to the rash ronfession of Boethias, that, had he known of a conspiracy, the tyrant never should. The udvoate of Alhims was som involved in the danger und perhmps the guilt of his elient.-Gimmon's Rome, ch. 39, p. 35.

3235. LIBERTY, Unexpected. Geurge Whash. ington. A.b. 17T4.' Anddressing a royal ollicer, lue said :] "It is not the wish of that govermment [Massachusetts] or any other upon this continent, separately or collectively, to set up for independence; but mone of them wili ever submit to the loss of those rights and privileges without which life, liberty, and property are rendered totally insecure."-Banchor"'s U. S., vol. 7, ch. 13 .
3236. LIBERTY and Union, Somitecs of. The Netherlands divide with England the glory of having planted the first colonies in the United States; they also divide the glory of having set the examples of publie freedom. If England gave our fathers the idea of a popular representation, the United Provinces were their model of n federal union.-Bancror"'s L. S., vol. 2, ch. 15 .
32337. LIBERTY by Vigilance. British. In the Middle Ages the state of socicty was widely different. Rarely mol with great differulty did the wrongs of individunls come to the knowledge of the public. A man might be illegally confined during many months in the castle d Carlisle or Norwicll, and no whisper of the trans. action might reach London. It is highly prol)able that the rack hat locen many years in use before the great majority of the nation had the least suspicion that it was ever employed. Nor were our ancestors hy my memns so much alive as we are to the jimportance of maintaining great general rules. We have been taught by long experience that we camnot, without danger, suffer any breach of the Constitution to piss unuo-ticed.-Macallay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 31.
3238. LIBRARIES, Ancient. Arobiem. In every city the productions of Arahic literature were copied and collected by the curiosity of the stadions and the vanity of the rich. A private cloctor refinsed the invitation of the sultan of Bochara becanse the earriage of his books would have reguired four hundred camels. The royal library of the Fatimites cousisted of one hundred thonsand manuseripts, clegantly transerihed and splendidly homad, which were İent, without jealousy or avarice, to the students of Cairo. Yet this collection must apjear moderate, if we can believe that the Ommiades of Spain had formed a library of six humbred thousand volumes, for-ty-four of which were employed in the mere catnogue. Their capital, Cordova, with the adjacent towns of Malaga, Nlmeria, and Mureia, had given birth to more than three hundred writers, and above seventy public libraries were opened in the cities of the Andalusian kingrlom. The age of Arabian learning continued about five hundred years, till the great eruption of the Moguls, and was cocval with the darkest and most the sum of scirine has arisen in the Vost, it should seen that the Oriental stadies have langaished mind derlined.-Gimbon's liome, ch. $5:$, j. 302 .

32:39. LIBRARIES, Subsoription. Jenjumin Frouklin. He invonted the system of sulisarip)tion libraries, amd lad the fomblation of one that Was loner the most eonsidernlole library in Amer-

32.10. LIBRARY destroyed. Ale, rimiritı. P(o)emy soter fommed the famous libitury of Xl . examdria, that immonse treasury of limerature, which, in the time of his sen l'tolemy l'hilatelphus, contained nbove one handred thonsami volumes. It was stili enlarged by the surceredingr monarehs of the same race, till it momomed, it length, as sirabo informs us, to seven himelreal thousamd volumes-a collection guite prodigions, when we consider the eomparative lator and expense of amassing books before the invention of printing, amd since that cra. This immense library was burnt to ashes in the war which Julius Cusar wared with the inhabitants of Alexandria. Arljuininer to this was a smaller library, which escaped the eonthumation at that time, and which became, in the course of ages, very considerable: hat, as if fate had opjosed the progress and continmance of Eiryptian litorature, this secomd library of Alexamitria was burnt, about eight hamdred years afterward, when the Saracens took possession of Eirypt. The books were taken out hy order of the Caliph Omar, and used, for six months, in supplying the fires of the public laths. "If these books,"sitid Omar, "comtain nothing but what is in the Alcorm, they ure of no use ; if they contain mything not in it, liey are of no consequence to salvation ; and if anything contrary to it, they are dammable, and ought not to be suffered."-TyTLER's IIs"., Book 2, ch. 5, p. 192.
3241.

- p.

Constantinople. [The royal college of Constantinople was burnt in the reign of Leo the Isaurian. In the pompons style of the nge, the president] of that fomblation was maned the Sun of Seience; his twelve associates, the professors in the different arts and fnculties, were the twelve signs of the zorliac ; a library of thirty-six thonsand five linndred volumes was open to their inquiries; and they could show an ancient manuseript of IIomer, on a roll of parehment one hundred and twenty feet in length, the intestines, as it was fabled, of a prodigious serpent. But the seventh and eighth centuries were a period of diseord and darkness; the library was burnt, the college was abolished, the Iconoclasts are represented as the foes of antiquity ; and a savage ignorance and contempt of letters has disgraced the princes of the Jeraclean and Isaurian dynastics.-Gibbon's IRome, ch. 53, p. 378.
3242. LICENTIOUSNESS authorized. Mfhomet. In his adventures with Zeineb, the wife of Zeid, and with Mary, an Egyptime captive, the amorous prophet forgot the interest of his reputation. At the house of Zeid, his freedman and adopted son, he beheld, in a loose undress, the beauty of Zeineb, and burst forth into an ejueulation of devotion and desire. The servile, or gratefnl freedman understood the hint, and yielded without hesitation to the love of his bencfactor. But as the filial relation had excited some doubt and scanclat, tha Surel Giabriel descended from heaven to ratily the deed, to anmal the adoption, and quatly to reprove the apostle for distruating the induligence of his Ger. Once of his wives, Hatuan, the daughter of Onar, surprlsed him on her own berl, in the embrace of [Mary] his Earptian ratptive; she promised secrecy and furgiveness; he swore that he would remonnce the possession of Mary. Both parties forgot their ragagements : and Gabriel againdescended with a chapter of the Koran, to nbsolve him from his math, amel to exhort him frevely to enjoy his captives thal concubines, withont instening to the clamors of his wives. In a solitary retrent of thirty days he labored, alone with Mary, to fultil the emmmands of the angel. Whan his love and revenge were satiated, he smmoned to his persence his eleven wives, repronded their disoInedicnce and indiscretion, and threatencel them with it sentence of divorce, beth in this work and in the mext ; adrendful sentence, since those who had ascemided the hed of the prophet were forever excluded from the hope of a second mar-ringe- (Gimbon's lRome, (h. bu, p. 1ito.

32-2B. LICEN TIOUSNESS, Fashionable, Milan. A.1. 179\%. [Napoleon lund contuered Italy and Anstria, and was the most famons man in Enrope. Alter the war, with Josephine le resided for a time at Milan.] Every concejvalle temp. tation was at this time presented to entice Niapoleon into habits of licentiousness. . . . The corruption of those davs of intidelity was such that the halies were jablons of Josephine's exclusive influence over her ilhastrions spouse, and they exerted all their powers of fascination to lead him astray. - Annotr's Naroleon B., vol. 1, (l). 9 .
324. LICENTIOUSNESS, Literary. John Dryden. Not a line tending to make virtue contemptible or to intlame licentious desire woull thenceforward lave proceded from his pen. The truth unhappily is, that the dramas which he wrote after his pretended conversion are in no respect less impure or profane than those of his youth. Even when he professed to trunslate he constantly wandered from his originals in searelt of images which, if he had found them in his originals, he ought to lave shumned. What was bad became worse in his versions. What was innocent contracted a taint from passing through his mind. He made the grossest sutires of Juvenal more gross, interpolated loose descriptions in the tales of Boccaccio, and polluted the sweet and limpid poetry of the Georgries with filth which wonld have moved the loathing of Virgil. - MaCaclay's ENg., ch. 7, p. 184.
32.15. LICENTIOUSNESS, Pontifical. Clement VI. Clement was ill-endowed with the virtues of a priest ; he possessed, however, the spirit and magnificence of a prince, whose liberal hand distributed benetices and kingdoms with equal facility. Under his reign Avignon was the seat of pomp and pleasure ; in his youth he had surpassed the licentiousness of in biron; and the palace-nay, the bed-chamber of the pope, was adorned or polluted by the visits of his female favorites.-Gibion's Jome, ch. 66, p. 294.
3246. LICENTIOUSNESS prevalent, Reign of Chirles II. [After the overthrow of the Puritans] men flew to frivolous amnsements and to criminal pleasures with the greediness which long and enforced nbatinonce naturally nroduces. Thomes lobbes had . . . relaxed the obligations of motality, nud degraded relligion into amoreaffar of state. Ilohbista som berame an abmost essential part of the character of the flae gentleman. All the lighter kinds of literature were deeply tainted by the previling lierotiousnes. Poetry stooped to he the pander of every low desire. Ridicule, instemd of putting guile and error to the blash, turned her formidaGle shafte agninst imoneence and truth.-Wacachar's Exa., ch. 2, p. 169.

32:17. LICENTIOUSNESS, Regal. Lomis NV. When the personal attrelions bot Marchionesis of Pompadour| began to wane, she had the address to mantain her empire over the king, hy sanctioning, if she did not netumliy surgrest, the infamons establishment ealled the pare aux Cerfs, which was neither more nor less than a seraglio, after the fashion of the Oriental monarelis, formed by Louis in a beantiful retreat belonging to his mistress mear Versailles. The favorite thas seeared herself against the rise of any dingerous rival who might dispute her supremacy y but the spectacle offered theneceforth by the French court was a flagrant oundure to every priaciple of public decency, nad prodiced results in the highest degree prejudicinl to the royal an-thority-Students' Fhince, ch. 24, 1.
3248. LICENTIOUENESS, Ruinous. Deryobert. The private life of Darobert was marked by gross licentionsuess. He is said to lave had, at The sume time, three gucens-consort, besides mumerous mistresses. These excesses, added to the havish expenditure of his court, in the course of a few years exhansted his revemues $;$ and in order to raise money, he began to confisente the estates of nobles who offended him, imposed exorbitant taxes, revoked ticfs which had been granted in perpetuity, and exacted heavy contributions from rich ehurches and abbeys. - Stedents' France, ch. 4, : 7.
3249. LIFE, Aim In. Diogenes. Diogenes held that the practice of virtue was man's chief end of existence; that as the body is strengthened by aetive labor, the mind is invigorated and kept in health by a constant tenor of active virtue ; that even the contempt of pleasure is a solid and rational pleasure ; that self-upplause is a sufficient reward to the wise man; while glory, honors, and wealth are only the bait of feols; that the consummation of folly is to be loud in the pruise of virtue without practising it ; that the gods refuse the prayers of man often from compassion. -Tytlers IIist., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 269.
3250. LIFE, Ambition of. John Milton's. The ruling idea of Milton's life, and the key to his mental history, is his resolve to produce a great poem. Not that the aspiration in itself is singular, for it is probiblly shared by every young poet in his turn. As every clever sehooltoy is destined by himself or his friends ta become lordchancellor, and every private in the French army carries in his haversack the baten of a marshal, so it is a necessary ingredient of the dream on Parnassus, that it should emboly itself in a form of surpassing brilliance. What distinguishes Milton from the crowd of young ambition, audax jureutu, is the constancy of resolve. He not only nourished through manhood the dream of youth, keeping under the importunate instincts which carry off mow ambitions in midelle: life lato the pursiit of place, protil, homor-the: thorns which spring up and smother the wheit - but carried ont his dremm in its integrity in ohd age. He formed himself for this achevement, and for wo othor. Stady at home, travel abroad, the m. na of politieal controversy, the public serviee, the practle of the domestic: virthes, were so many purts of the schooling which was to makea poet.-l'artisos's Matas, ch. 13.
3251. LIFE, Changes in. Sommel Ifmatom. Ilis semmation from his friends at the stemmbat. was a louching secme. He was a young man, for he had not passed his thirty-difin yemr. IIe was in the vigor and strength of enrly manood. He had filled the highest stations, and been crowned with the highest honors his state coobld give. They knew the history of hisemrly life, and they fole pride in his character. he was litamaly it man ol' the people, and they lowked forward to his futurend vane ment with all the pride of kindred ferelings. A stom had sudhenly bust apon lis path. [lu an manpy married life of three months. Me returned to the Cherokee Indians. Ite remained three years. Became the deliscrer of Texas.] But it was a voluntary exile from seenes which only harrowed his feelings white he stayed, and the Providence which had shaped out his future life was leading him in a mysterious way thromen the forests to fommat a new empire. Lat those who langh at a Divine Providenee, which watehes over its chosen instrmancuts, sneer as they read this; they are welcome to theircred.-Lestenis Ifocston, p. 4?.
3252. - -. Cuptain Cook. At thirteen (which was in the year 1it1) he was apprentieed to a dender in dry goods near one of the seaport towns of Yorkshive, and passed his time in carrying home purcels and waiting upon customers. He did not like this occupation ; and thesea, the open sea, was ever before his eyes, alluring him to a life of adventure. II is father $d$ ying, he per suaded his master to give up his indentures, mad restore him to liberty. He hastened to the port, and binding himself apprentice to the owner of is cond-vessel, he went on board in the capacity of eabin-boy. Certainly, if a dandy naval ofticer had cast his eyes upon this cont-blackened cabinboy, and had been told that that boy would die a post-eaptainin the royal mavy of Great Britain, he would have haghed the prediction to scorn.Cycloredia of Brog., p. 379.
3253. LIFE attests Character. ITumble. On the decense of Zeno, the emperor. Arinduc, the daughter, and mother, and the widow of an emperor, gave her hand and the inmerial title to Anastasius, an aged clomestic of the palace, who survived his elevation above twenty-seven years, and whose charucter is attested by the acelamattion of the people, "IRcign as you have lived!" -Gimbon's Rome, ch. 39, p. 5.
3254. LIFE, Choice in. Parable. The Arabs express this ly a parable that incarnates, as is their wont, the Word in the recital. King Nimrod, say they, one diy summoned into his pres,ence his three sons. He ordered to be set before them three urns under sen. One of the urns was of gold, the other of amber, 1 se third of clay. The king bale the eldest of his sons to choose among these urns that which appeared to him to contain the tremsure of areatest price. The chlost chose the vise of gold, on whidh was written the womd Eimpire; he openellit, nud lonmed it full of howed. Thes second took the vase of amber, wherron was writen the word filory; he opened It , and fonmd it foll of the andes of mem who had made a great sensation in the world. The third son took the only remaining vase, the clay one; he opened it, and found it guite empty ; lint on the bottom the potter had haseribed the mane of Gim?. "Whide of these vases weighs the most ?" nakid the king of his comrtiers. The men of ambiton replied it was the vase of gold ; the poetes and eongur ors, that it was the amber one ; the sures, that it was the emply vase, becanse a single leter of the mame of God was of more weight than the entire globe. We are of the opinion of the sages. We believe that the grentest thingsare grent bat in the proportion of divinity which they contann. Lamahtine's Tirkey, p. 30.
3255. LIFE, City. Siamuel Johmson. I suggested a doubt, that if I were to reside in Lomdon, the expuisite zest with whioh I relished it in occasional visits might go off, and 1 might grow tired of it. Jonnson : "Why, sir, you thin no man, at all intellectual, who is willing to leave London. No, sir ; whenaman is thred of London, he is tired of life; for there is in Loudon all that life can ufford."-Boswela's Jounson, p. 345.
3256. LIFE degraded, Romans. Only a little above the shaves stood the lower class, who formed the vast majority of the freeborn inhabitants of the Roman Empire. They were, for the most part, beggars and idlers, familiar with the grossest indignities of an unserupulons dependence. Despising a life of honest industry, they asked only for hread and the grmes of the circus, and were read to support any government, even the most despotic, if it would supply these needs. They spent their mornings in lounging about the Forim, or in daneing atiendance at the levees of patrons. . . . They spent their afternoons and evenings in gossiping at the Public Baths, in listlessly enjoying the prolluted plays of the thentre, or looking with tiere thrills of delighted horror at the blooty sports of the arena. At night they crept up to their miscrable garrets in the sixth and seventh stories.-Farmaris Eably Days, ch. 1, p. 3.
3257. LIFE delusive. Edirird Gibbon. Twenty hours before his death Mr. Gibbon happened to fall into a conversation not uncommon with him, on the prolable duration of his life. He said that he thought himself a grood life for ten, twelve, or perhaps twenty years. About six he ate the wing of a chicken and drank three glasses of Madeira. After dinner he becume very uneasy and impatient, complained a good deal, and ap)peared so weak that his servant was alarmed.Morrison's Gibbon, ch. 10.
3258. LIFE, Destruction of. Crusades. In these two unfortunate expeditions of Lewis IX., it is computed that there perished $100,000 \mathrm{men}$ : 80,000 had perished under Frederie Barharossa, 300,000 under Philip Augustus and Richard Cour de Lion ; 200,000 in the time of John de Brienne ; and 160,000 had before been sacrificed in Asia, besides those that perished in the expedition of Constantinople. Thus, without mentioning a crusade in the North, and that afterward to be taken notice of aguinst the Alhigenses, it is a remomable computation to estmate that two millions of buroperans, In these expelitions, werte buried in the East.-Tymemen Ihet., Book B, ch. 10, p. 165.
:3RSN. LIFE, Farewell to, , Fohn Quinry Allims. The last wordsof Johen (enincy Silame are sald to have been, "This is the last of math; Inm con-tent."-Amemean Cyclabema, " Joms Qure cy A oams.'
32(30). LIFE forteited, By Nrolert. Edward Gihhon's . . . malady was ilropy, complicated with other dimorders. Me hat mant stramely neglected a very dangerons symptom for upward of thirty years, not only having falled to take mediead adviceabout it, bat evenavoding alallasion to it to hosom fricods like Lord shatheld. But fonger concealment was now impossible. Je sent for the cminent surgeon Fargular. . . . Thus, in conserpurne of his own strmuge self-nergert and improdence, was extingushed one of the most richly-stored mimls that ever lived. Ocenrring when it did, so mar the last smmons, Gibbon's prospective lope of continued life" "for ten, twelve, or twenty years" is harshly pathetie, and full of that lrony which mocks the vain cares of men. But, truly, his forecost was not irratiomal if he had not neglected ordinary precautions. Mormison's Ghbon, ch. 10.
3281. LIFE, Future. American Padiams. The dying chie in sometimes arrayed himself in the garments in which he was to be burjed: . . . and when he had given up the ghost, he wasplaced by his wigwam in a sitting postare, as il to show that though life was spent, the principhe of heing was not gone : and in that posture he was buricil. Everywhere in Ameriea this posture was adopted at burials.-Bancror"'s IIstr. U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
3262. LIFE, Impediments in. Simulel, Johnson. Itis figure was hargeand well formed, and his comintemane of the cast of an ancient statue: yet his appenrance was rendered strange and somewhat uncouth by convulsive cramps, by the sears of that chsiemper which it was once fmagincd the royal touch could cure, and hy a slowenly mode of dress. He had the use only of one eye; yet so much does mind govern and even supply the defiriency of orgams, that his visual perceptions, as far as they extended, were uncommonly fuick and aecurate. So morlsid was his tumperament that he never knew the natural joy of a free and vigorous use of his limbs: when he walked, it was like the struggling gait of one in fetters; when he rode, he had no command or direction of his horse, but was carried as if in a balloon. That with his constitution and habits of life he should have lived seventy-five yoars is a proof that an inherent vicida vis is a powerful preservative of the human frane.-Boswell's Jollnson, p. 565.
3263. LIFE, Indestruatible. Animols. The Indian helieves also of coch individual animal that it possesses the mysterions, the indestructible principle of life ; there is not a breathing thing but has its shade, which never can perish.-BasCrofr's IItst. U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
3264. LIFE, Inficence of. A Good. [A young man in a fit of anger struck out one of Lycurgus' eyes with a stick. The offender was surrentered to him for punishment.] He took him into his house, but showed him me ill trembatht idture by word or metion, only ordering him to wat num hime, Instand of his gesind servantsabd attomdants.
 whthont momurhg, did as he was commanded. Living in this mamur with Lyengens, mad hav
 Foodmos of his hamet, hiswtict tempermane and faderiatigable hadustry, he told his frimeds that Lesergend was mot that proud nud suvere man he might hase heren aken for, but, atwereall others, gentle and engaghg in his behavior. 'This, theot. was the chastisement, and hils pumisharnat he suffered, of it widd and heodstrong yomg man to hacome a very modest and prident ritizin.-Pos: ranurs Livermar.
32455. LIFE, Inner. "Inner Vinies." Bacom hardly proceeded treyond the provlace of matural philesiophys. He compurad the shithle vishoms. in which the rontemphative sonl indalges, to the spider's wed, mind sumered at the oll ins frivolons and empty ; but the spider's w... is resentina tos the spher's well-heing, and for his neghert of the imer volus Baren paid the terrible pemalty of a life diseraced by thatery, altishomes, and mem complimice-Biscmory's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 16 .
32266. LIFE, Insignificant. Bibulus. Cusar had tonched the right point in congratuhting (iecero on his military exploits. His fricuds in the semate hand been less drliente. Bibulas had howe thanked lor hiding from the Parthimas. When Ciecro had hinted his expertations bof receiving a trimmpin, the simate hat passed to the order of the day. "Cato," he wrote. * treats me seurvily. He gives me prabe for justier, clemency, mind integrity, which I did mot want. What 1 did want he will aot tet me have. Cusar promises me evrything. Cato has given n twenty days thankgiving to Bibutus. Pardon me, if this is more than 1 can bear. But I am relieved from my worst fear. The parthimas have loft bibulus half alive."-Fuocde's Casin, (h. 20).
3267. LIFE lengthened. Oue Forrth. [Statisties show that between the gears 1693 and 1790 the expectation of human life in England had increased one fourth, resulting from great social advancement, temporal prosperity, and from less frequent and less hatal epidenics.]KNighr's Evet, vol. f , ch. 10, p. is.

326玉. Life, Measure of. Chitles XII. Having read a Latin life of Alexander, some one asked him what he thought of that compueror. "I think," said he, ", that I should like to resembie him." " But," said his tutor, "Alexander lived ouly hirt $y$-two yerrs." "Ah," repled the prince, "and is not that enough when one has conquered kingdoms?" When his father heard of this reply, he satil: "Here is a boy who will make a better king than 1 am, and who will go farther even than Gustavus the Great."-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 433.
3269. LIFE, Miserable. Roman Slaves. At the lowest extreme of the social scale were millions of slaves, without family, without religion, without possessions, who had no recognized rights, and toward whom none had nny recog. nized duties, passing normally from a childhood of degradation to a mamhood of hardship and an old age of unpitied neglect.-Farmar's Earhy Days, p. 2.
 Burns, hathr conrwe of mature, might yot have hern llving ; but hiv shomt lifo whe mende In toll and jromary; ami he died, in the prime of him manhond, mbrather and neglereded; and yet al. remely a brive matasolenth shines over his dast, and more than one sphendid monnmant has fereli ratred In whar places to hla limane: the momet where ho lampulshed in powarly is colleal by his have beren prond to appear as hiv commantators und ulmhers, und hore ls the siath marrative of Ihls lifte that has lown glven lo the world:-

 fullity of mind. 'The torm hy which la marked theotijert of hle philosophy contribulal mand to facrease the mumber of his illariples. "The stle

 joet of all his actlons. 'The purpose of philose haws. Vher therofore was folly, innd virlur the
 eh. 1, 1. 27!).
3278. LIFE, Opening In. Abrahim liucoln. When ninetern yours old Nhrahnm Limeoln, moved prefhape erpanlly by the desire to carm an lomost livelihood, in the shape of " tow dollars in month and lomad," and ly compissity to sior more of the world, made a trip down the Misasuppt to New Orlmans in a that-font. Je went in combpany with the son of the owner of the bont, who intrusted a valuable cargo tos thelr care.-KayMonis's Lancons, ch. 1, !, 2.2.
3273. LIFE, Price of. IInman. The national inequality established loy the Franks, in their criminal procerdings, was the last insult and monse of compuest. In the cinlm momomts of legislation they solemmly pronommeal that the life of a Koman was of smmller value than that of a Imrbarinn. The Antrustion, n mame expressivo of the most illisitrions hirth or dignity amoner the Fronks, was "pprechated nt the smm of six Inmelred pieces of gold; while the noble provincind, whowas admitted to the king's tahle, might be legally morlered nt the expense of thare limadred pieces. Two lmmdred were dermed sniticient for a Frank of ordimary condition; but the menner IRommas were exposed to disgrace and danger by atrifiag eompronsation of one hanIred, or even tifty, pieces of gold.-Gabion's Rosie, ch. 38, 1). 644.
3274. LIEE, A protected. Wishington's. [The Indinns contentrated the nim of their rifles ou him at Brandock's defeat, but he esenped injury. Sinty-four Isritish officers were killed or wounded. ind Wishangton was the only monnted ollieer left. A thistingnished chief said] 'twas all in vain ; a power mightier than we shielded him from harm. IIe cannot die in battle. . . . Listen! The Great Slirit protects that man, and guides his destinies ; he will become the chief of nations. [At the battles of Princeton, Germantown, and Monmouth he was peculiarly exposed, yet uninjured.]-C'csmis' Wasmington, vol. 1, ch. 11.
3275. LIFE, Public. For Others. As Pelopidas . . . was departing for the army, his wife, who followed him to the dowe besought thim, with terars, to take care of himsilf; he maswered: "My dear, private permons are to be alvelved to take cure of themselves, hat presoms in a public character to bike care of others. "-l'ctanen's 1'slomplbas.
:3276. LIFE, Purpose in. Joh" Miltom. A resmbug hilder, but renlly larel at work, in his fathere house at llorton. 'The intimation whiteh the had ghen of his parpose for the somber had bromor, in leth, "an inward prompt lage whith grows dinly upon me, that hy hator and intent study, wheh l take to be my pertion in this lite, joined whth the strong propensity of nature. 1 might perhape leavesomething se written to after times as ther shombld not willingly

:3277. - - Diter (imper. Conper Instithte is that exoming sednot which Preme (bos) per resolved to fomblis lomes aro as $1 \times 10$, whon the was a comed-maker's apprentice looking about in Niew York for inhe where be could get inatraction the the evening, but was mable to tima it. Through all his citerer, as a cabinet-maker, Frocer, manafacturer of plac, and tron fommer, he never lose sight of this ohject. If he hath a fortunate yemr. or mateasineressful spereuhtion, he was gratitied, not that it incromsed his wealth, bat heconse it brought him nearer to the matization of his dremm.-Cycionema of Bhoa, p. 517.

327\%. LIFE, Qualfication for. bilurotion. Ilis som Alexamber bring then forteren yars of agre, Philip invited Aristotle to reside in his comrt, and take charge of the prince's edacation. This was the greatest homor which a king could then bestow "pon a man of lemang. Aristothe acecpted the invitation. Ite was recerved at court with the greatest homor, and Alexander wecmase tenderly attached to his instructors. It said once that he homored Aristotle no less than his cown fabher ; for if to the one he owed his life, he owed to the other that which made life worth having.-Cyclomedn of Boed., p. 5.56.
3279. LIFE, A rational, Romath Einqueror Alex. onder. [. Nexmmer rose arly; the first moments of the day were consecrated to private devotion, and his domestic chapel was flled with the images of those heroes who, by improving or reforming haman life, hatd deserved the grateful reverence of posterity. But as he deemed the service of mankind the most acepptable worship of the gods, the greatest part of his morning hours was employed in his council, where hedisenssed public alfairs and determined private canses with a patience and diserction above his years. The dryness of business was relieved by the charms of literature; and a portion of time was always set apart for his favorite studies of poetry, history, and philosophy. The works of Virgil and lorace, the republies of Plato and Cicero, formed his taste, enlarged his understunding, and gave him the noblest idens of man and government. The exercises of the body succeeded to those of the mind ; and Alexander. who was tall, active, and robust, surpassed most of his equals in the rymnastic arts. Refreshed by the use of the bath and a slight dinner, he resumed, with new vigor, the business of the day; and till the hour of supper, the principal meat of the Romans, he was at-

Tomuled by his acretaries, with whom be read and mowered the multitudie of lithers, memor rials, and pertitions, hat mont have beren micressedi to the maser af the sremest part of the: work. Ills hatile was servad with the mose frugal simplloty; and whenever lie was at liberty to consult lik own harlimation, the company

 inviteri. 'I'helr comversation was familiar mil enlivemed hy the reedal of somer planing canismmmond to the bables of the rich and lusuri-at the proper hours his palace was opron (o) all hls subjerels, hat the volion of a crior was hard, as in the Eilensininn mystares, pronomuring the same sahutary almonition: "Lat nome enter hose holy cent minu."-(illios's lowas, ch. b. p. liv.

:32m(). LIFE regulated, staics. The virtur of the Staice was mot a phelpher of trampiland
 atclive, and vigorons dexertion. It was the daty of man to exarrise the faculties of his mind in arcuminting himself with the miture, the canses, and the relations of every bart of that universe which heseres uround him, that he may truly malerstami his own place in it and the dathes which her is destimed mal called on to fultil. It is iummbent on mun likewise to exrecise his facolites in the discerning and distinguishing those thinge ower which he has the power and control, and those which nre beyond his power. and therefore ought not to be the objeets of his are or his attention. All things whitever, accorting to the Stoics, fall under one or the other of these descriptions. Too hie chase of thinges within our power belong onr opinions, our dosires, affectioms, embenvors, aversions, and, in a word, whatever may be termed our own works. To the chase of things heyomd our power beiong the body of man, his grools or possessions, honors, dignities, ollicos, and gremerally what eamot in termed his works.-Tythen's Ilist., Book \%, ch. 9, p. 279.

32W1. LIFE, Rules of. Sicterilmarg. Iliy " Rules of Life" [were]: 1, often to read nanl meditate on the Wort of Gox : ${ }^{2}$, tos submit cerything to the will of Divine Drovildence; 3, to observe in everything a propricty of beinvior, and to keep the conscionce elear; 4, to disehnrge with fidelity the functions of my employment and the duties of my ofllee, and io rendel myself in all things asefal to suciety. - Wintsis sivedenhome, ch. 7, p. 61.

328\%2. LIFE, Secret of. Juvinh Quincy. It concerns us all to know the secrec of sumh henth and longevity as this. Ilis father died very young, and his mother in middle life. Nor had any of his paternal ancestors lived beyond seventy four. $\qquad$ In the first place, he was strictly temperate in the use of intoxicating drinks, almost to total abstinence. At breakfast and at night he ate moderately and of plain food. At dinner, which he had the good sense to eat in the middle of the day, he nte heartily of whatever was set before him. He diseovered, many years

Hge，how innportant perfert clembliness is to the preservition of hemble，and he mate a frepternt use of the bath－til），the theshelomesh，mat the landr gloves．He was an exeredingly emrly riser．Ile was addeled to no vire whatever．Ilis life was passons which wiste the vibilly and pervert the chmoneter．All his objoctes were sildehasa rathomal athe virtaons man conlel phrsme withont seif re－ promels，mal with the approbntion of the whe amd good．＇Tlas ilving，he nttahed nemoly to the nge of nincty thrae．enjoying life nlmont to the last hour，mal paserd away as pencofally mal painlesmly as a child goes to wherp．Ilo whe that treme odd ner．Itis the sut of terth he kejt ent lire entil his danth：amel this，nos domht，lemi mush to do with preserving the hembth of his bouly anta tha propertions of his comatemance．

 ［ Mr：Churles F＇，Browne．｜Wherever he loretured， whether ln New Enghand，Californin，or Lom－ don，there was sareto he a knot of youner follows to gather rombl him，mul go home whblim to his hotel，orlere supper，mat spend half the night
 lhis will be fatal la thae ；but when the nightly enrouse follows an evening＇s performance before nu mudiencer，und is surereded by a railrond jomr－ ney the next day，the waste of vitality is fiome fully ruphi．Five yeurs of such a life thashed poor Charles Browne［Artemas Wind］．Ile eljed he now lies huried at the home of his rhilathoorl in Maine．．．．He wns not miler drinker．Ile wis mot a man of strong uppetites．It whe the nights wasted in eomvivinlity，which his system neded for slecp，that sent him to his grove torty years before his time－Crchoreman of Buac．， 1． 748.

332．LIFE，Simplicity of．Junkiromplsman． The lardy luckwoodsman，clad in a humting shirt and ilecer－skin leggings，armed with n rithe， ＂powder－horn，and aponeli for shot and bullets， $n$ hutchet nud in hunter＇s knife，deserended the momotains in the gucst of more distant lamels， which he forever fangined to herieher nad love－ lier than those he knew．Whorever he tixed his halt，the hatehet hewed logs for his a abin mod bhaced trees of the forest kept the reeords of his title－deeds．－Bancrofr＇s U．S．，vol．7，ch．15）．

3285．LIFE，Start in．Aleweme＇r stephens． The most part of his youngrer days had beron passed in the ordinary furm hators of a Nouthern plantation．His earliest practior in these habors would seem to have been in corn－dropping，an art in which he soon becume an expert．At the nare of eleven le commenced plonghing，and liy the following year was one of the reguhr plonghers on the farm．As he also ran all the errands， Was mill－boy，shop－boy，and did，in fnet，all the little jols that full to a lud so situated，it will readily be perceived that his opportunities for schooling mast have beon fow and far between． －Nohton＇s Life of Alexander Stepiens， ch．1，p． 1.

3286．LIFE，A successful，Washington $I r$－ ving．The life of Waslington Irving was one of the brightest ever led by minnthor．He discov－ ered his genius at an carly age；wins gracionsly

Wedeomed hy his conmtrymen；maswerad the literary eomelition of the protion when he np－
 gulabel phace In the republle of letter＂was gencromsly rewnriled for his work：＇hambed his contemporaries by hils molahility mol monlenty ； lived loug，wisely，happily，mal dhed $n 1$＂rign ald nere，in the finares of his powerm and his

：3247．LIFE，Training for，Jewi，l（！minry．

 whe it that，in $n$ worlle so full of the whe，the miserable，aml the mafortumata，dowinh（aniney shomld lume liveri no longe med enjosed．during superintanded hy orse of the best mothers a buy ever lume ；mul this was the thest emase tooth of the lengel and of the happhatess of hiv life．＇This mdmimble mother was norarafind lest luer fond－ ness for lier only som shombl anser her to fininlgo hlm to his hario，that she even refinimed from canessing him，moi，fin all that sho dide for him， thourht of his weifure thist．and of her own plemsare last，or ant at all．＇To harilen hin，sho nsed to huve him taken from n warn bed in winter，as well as lis sumburr，and carn iod down torn cellar kitchon，mad there dipped throw times In a tuh of cold water．she evern neromatomerd him to st in wot fore，mad endenvored in all ways to tonghen his physien system namind the wainamd tanr of life．［Sec No． $3 \pm 8$. ．］－C＇sclo－ DEDAA OF BIOM．，1．749．

32ब末．LIFE，Unclvilized，Indian．In mid－ winter of 170：3－4 the town of lbertiold was de－
 tomahnwked．$\quad$ humdred nul twelve were irngerel into enptivity，The prisomers，many of them women ind ehildren，wore ohliged to march to（＇manda．The smow liy four fed dopp． The poor wretelos，hagenel with fome mad star－ vition，sumk down mad diad．＇Tla＇dondly hantehot hang ever above the hemels of the froble nand the siok．Ennied Willimms，the minister＇s wife，fininted by the wayside；in the presence of her hushand and tive conptive children hor brains werr dashed out with a tomanhaw ．These who survived to the end of the journey ware after－ Ward ransomed amd permitted to return to their desolnted homes．A danghter of Mr．Williams rambined with the saviges，grew up among the Mohnwks，married a chieftain，mod in after years returned in Indinn garh to Decredeld．No en－ trenties conld induce her to remnin with her friends．The solitude of the woods and the so－ riety of her tawny hushmed had previled over the charms of civilization．－RnDratits $\mathcal{L}^{*}$ ．S．， ch．17，p．154．

3289．LIFE Unhappy，Semuel Johnson．He used frepuenily to observe that there was more to be endired than enjoyed in the gemeral con－ dition of human life ；and frequently quoted those lines of Dryden ：
＂Strange cozenage ！none would live past years ngain，
Yet all hope pleasure from what still remain．＂
For his part，he said，he never passed that week in his life which he would wish to repeat，were sat thged tor make the propnonal to hime- Ihas. WERA, dollswn, p. lit.

 has alrealy revolintionizal farmbing la lan olid
 hest friemil in the New. it was he whangllend

 Hzed chamemb, and he who fomme mit how los convert whinkry lalu tolerable hemaly. Ilis

 thor devoloynal hy his colehinted juphl annl atim whith he anil his conteloperarias valued is meroly a lantura made of wire katar, way the result of ma exhandice lavestigation of the nas. firre amb remposition of fla explonise gas. - denere of the timses, the anill of homel misht be mad shand ridiculoms diligencer : mad the pros-pration of larturing lobar atil reverge for a 4.5. 1. 41.

:32022. LIFE, Vantty of. Trimmphat Promession. ['lhe [rual soldier Belisarias] obtained pho honors of atriomph, a coremumy . . which reserverl for the alaspicions arms of the ('iesars. From the palare of Belisarins the procersiom the hippextronte. . . . Ther werbla of mations was disphyed, the trophies of martial or ctleminate laxury; ride armor, golden thrones, mad the clariots of wate which had bern ased by the Vandal quenen; the massy limenture of the royal hampurt, the splembor of proerous stomes, ilue elegant forma of stalmes amd vases, the more sulsatantial treanare of gold. . . A long train of The moblest Vimatals reluctandy expused their lolty stature and manly commenamor. (felimer [the raptive Fondal kingr] slowly alonnced: he was clatel in a jumple robe, atml till manatajed the majesty of a king. Not al lear evaidend from his cyos, not it sigh was hearel; lont his pride or piety derivel some sereret consolation from the woris of Solonnon, which he repentedly promounced, Vanity! vasity! Alf is vanity! lustead of ascembling a trimmphal ear drawn by four horses or clephants, the modest compueror marched on foot at the head of his brave companions: his prudince might decline mu homor too comspicuons for a subject, mul his mutrmanimity riorht justly disclain what had leen su often sulli th by the vilest of tyrunts.-Gmmon's Rome, ch. 41, p. 139.
3393. LIFE, Vision of, Strong and Teak. Truly ullecting is the innginary spectacle, so lhat litila obat la its grasp was la deal death.

 "ridis denth warmat; it was io gramp the Irum-- levon of roynlty mul powno: lt was for fold the

 What a crownd of varylage changex slall it notrow

:53D.I. LIFE, Wandering. Tirtars. 'Tho wint droiner 'Turtary follow at this chay the life of thes

 'They drive hefore them their Ilorks mad herils;

 till the contatry sipplies mos bure ganme for tha
 the P'orsians, and the 'lurks, for money, with Which they purehave (loth, silks, stalls, und up):
 tire-arms, whioh they are verydesteroms nt mak. lage, nomd it is nlmosist the only merdmaical art which thevexareise. They diselnin every other lue lomomble: maless that of hanting. When $n$ man, from ace, is inctuatile of partaking in the nsimi ocelypation of his tribos, it is constomary wilh "hem, as it is likewise will the (inmolinn savages, to build him asmall hat upon the lmaks of a river, adel, giving him mone provislons, lonve him to die, withont taking may further
 1. 33:
30295. LIFE, Wasted. Chates II. Ho wished morely to be a king such us lomis XV. of Fruncer afterward was-n king who combid draw without limit on the trensury for the gronjtiontion of his private tastes, who conld hire with wealth and lomeors pervoms capmble of assisting him to kill the time, nnd who, even when the State was lrought hy malmhminatration ta the deptles of lumilintion amel to the brink of ruin, combl still exclude unweleome truth from the purliens of his own serarlio. und reluse to see had hear whatevar might disturb his lasurious repose.
lis favorite vices were precisely those to which the Puritans were least indulgent. He combl mot get through one day without the help of diversions which the I'teritans regnrded as sinful.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 159.
32016. LIGHT, Contribution of. "Mang out your hights." The steeple of IBow Chureh, erected in 1 ind , had lanterns, "which were mennt to have been glazed," says stow, " mod lights phaced nightly in them in the winter, whereby travellers to the city might have the better sight thereof.
nom not to misw of their ways." 'I'ho mayor eommanadeal a century carller that lantorms and on wfater evenfage. "Hong ont your lights" iBe21)7. LIGHT Introduced, Lomfon Strofs. In the last your at llae roikn af tharlem II. Incuas a mand of the areat berly of the peopsle as revolis.

 jocetor. Hamed Eatward Ifomits, whtainal icteres patemt, wonseyfigto bims, for atrom of years, the "xoluaive right of lighting ips lamolom. Ve masdranok, for a morlerate considerations, to plare a mix to twolve of the rlock. 'Jhoser who mow mer the empital all the yeur romal, from dank to dawn, blazing with asplomilor comapurad with to think of Heminges lanterns, which rifinmor-part of ond nighit tif three. - Nacaulay'm Eivo., ('1. i), 1. $3: 360$.

 was l!ghtor by gas. 'Ilae orighimal gas comapany, whose exmmpla was to lee followed, mot amly by uil Enghani, lut by the whole rivil.
 In Parlinment ins rapacions monepolists, fintint upon the rubin of astablished bidustry. The miventurers in gasilatit etid more for the preventhen of reme than the govermmont hat dome since the days of Slirmid. [It was salel to ln ruinous to tise whale-dislorios mad to lioe sern-Ch. 6, 1). ibi.

324D. LIGHTNING, Fear of. Sifjeratition. The puhlicerxuered that [the Einjeror ('nrimus,] the suceressor of [the Roman Emperor] Cinrus. would pursue his futher's footstejs, mad, without allowinir the IPersinns to recover from their comstermation, womid advance sword in lamel to the palaees of Susa and Erchatana. Bnt the leghons, however atrong in mombers und diseipline, were dismme + by the most abiject superstitiom. Notwithetmaling all the arts that were practised to disingise the manner of the hate emperor's denth, it was lound impossible to remove the opinton of the multitule, nud the power of minion is irresistible. Pluces or persons struck with light. ning were considered hy the ancients with pions horror, as singularly devoted to the wrath of Henven.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 12, p. 393.
3300. $\qquad$ Mother of Wrashington. One weakness nlone belonged tothis lofty-minded and intrepid wommen. It was a feur of lightbing. In enrly life a female friend had been killed nt her side while sitting at the table.
The mitron never recovered from the shoek.
On the appromeh of in thonder cloud she would retire to her chamber, mind not leave it "gain till the storm had passed over.-Custis' Wasiington, vol. 1, ch. 1 .

3301, LIQUOR-TRAFFIC ve. Sabbath. France. When lbompurte was hanished to Elha, and Louis XVIII. was restored to the throne of mad billaral table-kergera thosught that motyrmany rould be erual to that of chalate thoir es.

:3iBO2. LITERATURE, Concolt in. Iimisw of by thidr naked noml "mprosiming simplinlly;

 wit sre the farthent remberal froin the monlels whan thay affert to rimmlate. In resery pages our thate nind remson info whated by the chofore ante pharnacology, the diveord uf images, the child.
 the juinful nttompt to elevate themselver, to as-
 Ing in the sunoke of ohserurity mul exagegerntion. Their prose is somating to the viclens atlecention of justiy; their puetry is sinklig below thes that.
 ( 11,53 , 1, 281.

3330:B. LITERATURE, Effects of, Jilitary. Wr arre tuld that lu the suck of Jherne the Guths lual collectad nill the litararkes, mal wore on the fwint uf setthig the to this funcral pile of Grerinis lenrminge, land wot one uf thefr chlofs, of thems from the design by "ate prolmome olser-to the sturly of books, they womlit nesor mply themselves to tate exorelse of mrms. 'Ther magrhons comasellor (shonld the trothol the act be mimitted) reasomed like an fanorant lmotmana. In the most polite and powerfal mations gralis of cvery kind las displayad itsolf nlont the sume bran the nge of mifitury virtue und survess. (ithmun's lRome, ch. 10, p. i3l.t.
i3:30.1. LITERATURE, Famein. Limithel Of the thirly "Ineirs of famo" (anthors ami poets) who wropy nlumt soven hamired pare of dohmson's bingrmphios, there nre omly uhont seren whom the world has not very " willingly fet die." Rowe, Prior, Congreve, (iny, ure still talked ubont. diflisen mad sivift ure remel for their prose. Pope is nlmost the sole mance in portry that is mot partinlly or lomantionlly someat uj in the "mommment of hamisharl mints."-Lixigirt's Einu., vol. 5, ch. 23, 1. 415.
:3305. LITERATURE, Genius in. Tasio. IIo is prealiarly exccllent in the lelinention of lis. charncters. . . . It is mow generally nllowed that Boile and and Addison lave mach undervalued the merit of Tasso, when, in contrasting him with Virgil, they speak of the tinsel ormments of his poems compared with the gold of the other. Tassu, though not on the whole socorrect a poct as Virgil, lua his strokes of the sublline-his golden passuges-which will stand the test of the severest criticism. In point of fancy and imugination no poet has gone beyond him: witness the description of his enelanted forest ; nor have we anywhere more beantilul examples of the true mithetic.- TyTler's IIst., Book 6, ch. 36, p. 493 .

3306, -_ Ariosto. A work . . . (nhout the middle of the sixteenth cent ury) appeared in Italy, which engrossed the attention of all the literary world. This was the "Orlando Furioso " of A riosto, ata epic poem, which, with a total disregsird of all the rules of this speries of composition, whithout plan, without prohability; without morality or decency, has the most captivating charms to all who are possessed of the smallest degrer of gremame taste. Orlando is the bero of the piace, and ine is mad. Eight books are consumed before the lares is introduced, and his tirst appatance is in bed desiring to sleep. His great phrpose is to tind his mistress Augelica; but his seareh of her is interrupted hy co many adventares of other knights and damsels, eneliof them pursuing some separate object, few of which have any necessary relation to the piece, that it hecomes almost impossible to peruse thi: ,oem with any degree of ronnection between the parts.

The reader must hant for . . . [any ale] throw ch a dozen books, for it is often cut short in the most interesting part, and resimed at the distance of five or six cantos, as abruptly as it was broken off. There is no good moral in the adventures of the mad Orlamdo, and the scenes which the poet deseribes are of fen most grossly iniecent.-Tyther's Hisir., Book 6, ch. 36, p. 493.
3307. - - Witon. From the date of the Gernanlemme Liberata of Tasso, the genius of epic poctry scems to have lain aslecp for above a century, till the days of Milton; with the exception only of the Fairy Queen of Spenser, which lis many detached passages abomading in beanties, but, as an intricate and protracted allegory, is dry and tedious upon the whole. The merits of the Paradise Lost have ben so admirably ilhstrated by Aldison in the spectetor, and the work itself, as well as his criticism, are so generally known, that it becomes entirely unnecessary in this place to bestow much time in characterizing it. Compared with the great epic poers of antiquity, the Iliad, the Odyssey, and the Æncid, the Paradise Lost has more examples of the true sublime than are to be found in all those compositions put together. At the same time, if examined by critieal rules, it is not so perfect a work as any one of them ; and there are greater instances of a mediocrity, and even sinking in composition, than are to be found in any of those ancient poems, unless in the sixth book, which is almost one continued specimen of the sublime. It is but seldom that the poet sustains himself for a single page without degenerating into bombast, false wit, or obscurity.-Tytlen's IIst., Book 6, ch. 36, p. 493.
3308. $\qquad$ John Dryten. In the end of the seventeenth century lyric poetry in Engsand was carried to its highest perfection hy Oryden. The ode on St. Cecilia's Day has never since been edtualled; and it may even be pronomed equal to the best lyric compositions of antiquity. The genius of Dryden, as a poet, was universal. As a satirist, he has the keenness without the indelicacy of Horace or Juvenal. In this species of composition his Mackflecknoe and Absalom and Achitophe have never been surpassed. He excels Boilean in this respect, that the satire of the French poet is too general, and therefore falls short of its great purpose, which is to amend. The anthor who makes mankind in general the subject of his censure or of his ridleule will do no good us a reformer. Dryden, us a fablulist, dlsplays a very lapley turn for the poetical narrative, mad though the subjecets of his fables are aoi his own, they are in general well chosea. The nerit of his dramatie pieres, thongli eonsiderable, is not very ligh. Ile errtainly possessed that iuvention which is the tirst quality of 14 drmmatic poet; but he is very detheient in the expression of passion, and in his finest seches we are haclime: more to admire the art of the poet than to participate in the feelings of his characters.-TyrLen's IIst., Book 6, ch. 36, p. 496.
3309. $\qquad$ Shakespeare. Themerits of Shakespeare have often been analyzed, and are familiar to every person of taste. IIe cammot be mensured by the rules of criticism-he understood them not, and has totally disregarded them; but this very circumstance has given room for t':ose bematies of uneontined mature and astonishiner ebullitions of genius which delight and surprise in his productions, and which the rules of the drama would have mueh confined and repressed. I know not whether there is not something, even in the very absurdities of Shakespeare, which tends, by contrast, to exalt the lustre of his beanties and to chavate his strokes of the suhlime.-Tytlek's Mist., Book 6, ch. 36, 1. 496.
3310. LITERATURE, Honors of. Milton. [See No. 330\%.j The negrect of the merit of Milter during his own life is sufficiently known. Hume, in his IIstory of England, mentions an ancedote which strongly marks the small regard that was had for this great poct, even by that party to whose service he had devoted his talents. Whitelocke, in his Memorials, talks of one Milton, a blind man, rho iras employed in translating a treaty aith Sireden into Latin!-Tytlea's Mist., Book 6, ch. 36, p. 494.
3311. LITERATURE, Importance of. Fame. The vigor with which Aitiln wielded the sword of Mars convinced the world that it had been reserved alone for his invincible arm. But the extent of his empire affords the only remaining evidence of the numbe: and importance of his victories; and the Scythian monarcl, however ignorant of the value of srience and philosophy, might perhaps lament that his illiterate subjects were destitute of the art which could perpetuate the memory of his exploits.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 34, p. 397.
3312. LITERATURE, Opportunity of. Alexander Pope. External conditions pointed to letters as the sole path to eminence, but it was precisely the path for which he had admirable gualifieations. The sickly son of the Popish tradesman was cut off from the Bar, the Senate, and the Church. Physically coutemptible, politically ostracised, and in a humble social position, he could yet win this dazzling prize and forec his way with his pea to the highest pinnacle of contemporary fame. Without adventitions favor, and in spite of many hitter antipathies, he was to beeome the acknowledged head of English literature and the welcome companion of all the most eminent men of his time. Though he conld not foresee his career from the start, he worked as vigoronsly as if the goal had already been in sight.-Meyen's Wordswonth, ch. 1.
3313. LIterature, Pleasures of. Churles fames For. [When Fox, the great orator and man of the word, withdrew, disaffected, from the excitements of polities and from lis place in Parliament, he employed his time in] rending the llind; writing of Prior, and Ariosto, and Dryelen, and La Fontaine; going through Lacretios regularly; and taking up) ('lancer upon his nephew's sugrestion. It is pleasamt to see how literature can fill up an whing void, however creat-

3314. LITERATURE and Poverty, Sirmuel Johasin. Inr. Samuel Iohnsen ... came to London, a literary udventurer, in 1 zisi. He was long destined to bear the poverty and to encomater the supposed degratation that surrounded the anthor who wrote for subsistence-the suecessor of the author who wrote for preferment. [lle swallowed the seraps from the bookseller Cave's table, hideden belind a sereen to concent his ragged clothes.]-Kingit's Exi., vol. 7, ch. 5, 1. 85.
3315. Literature, Preservation of, Monkery. However absurd to the cye of remson and philosophy may appear the principle which led to monastic seclusion, the obligations which learning owes to those truly deserving characters who, in ages of harbarism, preserved alive, in their seeluded eloisters, the emhers of the literary spirit, ought never to be forgotten. The aneient chassics were multiplied hy transeripts, to which undoubtedly we owe the preservation of such of the Greek and Roman authors as we now possess entire. Even the original labors of some $i$ those monkish writers are possessed of considerable merit, and evince a zeal for the cultivation of letters, which does them the highest honor.-TyTLer's Hist., Book 6, ch. 16, p. 245.
3316. Literature, Profligate. Reign of Charles II. The protligacy of the English plays, satires, songs, and movels of that age is a dect blot on our national fame. The evil may easily be traced to its source. The wits and the Puritans had never been on friendly terms. There was no sympathy between the two classes. They looked on the whole system of human life from different points and in different lights. The earnest of each was the jest of the other; the pleasures of each were the torments of the other. To the stern precision, even the innocent sport of the fancy, seemed a crime. To light and festive natures the solemnity of the zenlous brethren furnished copious matter of ridicule. - Macaulay's Ilist., elh. 3, p. 370.
3317. LITERATURE, Recompense of. Alexander Pope. Between $1 \% 15$ and 1725 Pope completed the Iliad and the Odyssey. Never was literary labor in those times more aboudantly recompensed. Pope received nearly $£ 9000$ from his subscribers and his publisher as his elear gain from these undertakings.-Kiviout's Evg.
3318. Literature, Restoration of. Arubs. It is generally admitted that the Arabians were the first restorers of literature in Europe, after that extinction which it suffered from the irruption of the barbarous nations and the fall of the Western Empire. Alout the beginning of the eighth century this cuterprising people, in the course of their Asiatic conquests, found many manuscripts of the ancient Greek anthors, which they carefully preserved; and in that dawn of mental improwement whiclo now began to appear at Bagdal, the gratification which the Arabians received from the perisal of those manuscripts was such that they requested their culiphs to procure from the Constmatinopolitan emperors the works of the best Greek writers. These they transhated into Arabic ; but the anthors who chicer. ly engared their attention were those who treated of mathenatical, metaphysical, and physient knowledge. The Arabians continued to extemd their conguests nad to commmaicate their knowlcalge to sone of the Europent mations, whicle at that time were involved in the greatest ignorance. -TyTleh's Hist., Rook 6, ch. 16, p. D. 44.

3:319. LITERATURA: ridiculed. C'rusaders. [They pillaged Constantinople.] To expose the arms of a people of seribes and schohars, they affected to display a pen, an inl horn, a: : a sheet of puper, without discerning that the instruments of seience and valor were alike feeble and useless in the hamis of the modern Greeks.-Ginnos's Rome, ch. 60, j. 93.
3320. LITERATURE,Vicious. Reign of C'harle: II. Of that gencration, from Dryden down t" Darfey, the common characteristic was hardhearted, shameless, swaggering licentionsness, at once inclegant and inhman. The influence ot these writers was doubtless noxious. yet lass noxious than it would have been lod they been less depraved. The poison which they ulministered was so strong that it was, in long time, rejeeted with masen. None of them understood the dangerous art of associnting imatres of unlawful pleasure with all that is endearing and ennobling. None of them was aware that a certain decorum is essentinl even to voluptuousness; that drapery may be more alluring than exposure ; and that the imagination may be far more powerfully moved by delicate hints which impel it to exert itself than by gross descriptions which it takes in pas-sively.-Macatlay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 373.
3321. Litigation, Period of. Fifteenth Century. One of the most remarkable features of socicty in this period [A.D. $1450-148^{5}$ ] is the incessant litigation. Every gentleman had some knowledge of l.ıw, and his knowledge never rusted for want of practice.-Knigirt's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 7, p. 109.
3322. LITTLE THINGS, Importance of. Span. ish War. [The Duke of Wellington wrote in his despatches from Portugal to the government:] The people of England. . will not readily believe that important results here frequently acpend on fifty or sixty mules, more or less, or : few bundles of straw to feed them.-Kvigut's ENa., vol. 7, ch. !0, p. 538.
3323. LITURGY opposed. Sents. Charles [I.] and Laud determined to foree on the Scots the English Liturgy, or, rather, a liturgy whieh, wherever it differed from that of England, differed, in the judgment of all rigid Protestants, for the worse. . . . The first performance of the foreign ceremonies produced a riot. The riot rapidly became a revolution. Ambition, patriotism, fanaticism, were mingled in one headlong torrent. The whole nation was in arms.Macaulay's Eng., eh. 1, p. 88.
3324. LOAN, A hopeless. Samui Johnson. The heterogencous composition of human nature was remarkably exemplified in Johnson. Ilis therality in giving his money to persons in distress was extraordinary. Yet there lurked ubout him a propensity to pultry suving. One day I owned to lifm that "I was ocrasionally tronbled with a fit of marromoness." "Why, sir," sald he, "so an I. But I do mot tell it." Me las now aml then borrowed a shilling of me; and when I naked him for it agrain seemed to be rather ont of hmmor. A droll little circumstance once occurred : as if he meant to reprimand my minute exactness ns a creditor, he thas addressed me: "Boswell, lemel me sixpence-mot to be repaid.'"-13osiveth's Jonnson, 1). 489.
3325. LOBBYIST, A successful. Murcus Crassus. As he clespuired of rising to un equality with him [Pompey] in war, he betook himself to the administration ; and by paying his court, ly defending the impenched, hy lending money, and liy assisting and canvassing for persons who ntood for offlees, he gained an anthority and inthence equal to that which Pompey acquired by his military nchicvements.-Pbu'tarcir's Marces Crassive.
3386. LONGEVITY, Causes of. John Tocke. Whenever it was possible he preferred the quict life and pure air of the country to the many attractions which the capitnl must have offered to a man with his wide nequaintance, and with so many political and literary interests. In diet he proctised an abstemiousness very rare among men of that age. Jis ordinary drink was water, and to this hubit he attributed not only his length of years, but also the extraordinary excellence of his cyesight. Till recently a curious relic of Locke's water-drinking habits was preserved in the shape of a large mortar of spongy stone, which acted as a natmal filter, mud which he used to eall his brew-house. IIe was assidhous in taking exercise, and was specially fond of walking and gardening. In the latter years of his life he used to ride out slowly every day after dinner. [lle had feeble health from his youth.] -Fowler's Locke, ch. 7.
3327. LONGEVITY by Prudence. Peter Coper. Peter was the fifth of nine dhildren, of whom seven were boys. He seemed not to inherit in strong constitution, and in his case, as in so many others, the fact that he rached soadvanced an age coukd he attributed only to his living so natural a life ; that he subjected himself to no influences or exposures which eut off the great mass of men in civilized countries from living out their natural lives. He owed his longevity chiefly to himself.-Lester's Life of Peter Cooper, p. 10.
3328. LORD absent, The. House of Commons. A few of the memhers who dissented, . . . continuing to ocelpy the llouse of Commons, Cromswell sent one of his officers to turn them out. This officer, a Colonel White, entering the house, demanded what they were doing there; the chairman answered, "They are seeking the Lord." "Then," said White, " you may go elsewhere, for to my certain knowledge the Lord has not been here these many years ;" so saying he turned them out of doors. Thus the supreme power became vested in the council of officers, [who nominated Cromwell Lord Protector of the three kingdoms]. -Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. $30,1.414$.
3342. LOSS, Gain by partial, ITommibul. [1Inv. Ing conduered Spain, ] he left Ilanno, with 11, (0) men, to retain possession of the newlyconguered country; and he further diminfshed his army by sending home as many more of his Spanish soldiers, probably those who had most distinguished themselves, ns un earmest to the rest, that they too, if they did thedr duty well, might expect a similar release, and might look forward to return erelong to their homes, full of spoil und glory.-AnNoLD's IIANNimal, 1. 9.
3330. LOSS, Inevltable. Buttle of Sedgemoor. [Rebellion of the Duke of Monmouth ngainst fanes II.] The . . . divistons of the royal army were in motion. The Life Gunrdsand Blues cume pricking fast from Weston Zoyland, and seattered In an instant some of Grey's horse, who lad attempted to rully. The fugitives sprend a pante nmong their comrades in the renr, who hat charge of the ammunition. The wagoners drove off at full speed, and never stopped till they were many miles from the field of hattle. Monmouth had hitherto done his part like a stout and able warrior. He had been seen on foot, pike in hand, encouraging his infantry ly voice nud by example. . . . IBut the struggle of the hardy rustics could not last. Their powder nud ball were spent. Cries were henrd of "Ammunition! for God's sake, ammunition!" l3ut no ammunition was at hand.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 564.
3331. LOSSES, Disparity In. Buttle of Neio Orleans. Earthworks had been constructed, and a long line of cotton lanes and sumd-bags thrown up for protection. On the morning of the memorable 8 th of Jammary the British moved forward. They went to a terrible fate. The battle began with the light of carly morning, and was ended before nine o'clock. Pakenham hurled colmm after cohmon against the Anerican position, and column after column was smitten with irretrievable ruin. Jackson's men behind their breastworks were nlmost entirely secure from the enemy's fire, while every discharge of the Tennessee and Kentucky ritles told with awful affect on the exposed veterans of England. Pakenham, trying to rally his men, was killed; General Gibbs, second incommand, was mortally wommed ; General Keene fell disabled; only General Lambert was left to call the shattered fragments of the amy from the field. Never was there in a great battle such disparity of losses. Of the l3ritish fully 700 ware killed, 1400 wounded, und 500 taken prisoners. The American loss amounted to 8 killed and 13 wounded.-Ridpatis's U. S., ch. 51, p. 418.
3332. LOST, Seeking the. Sir John Franklin's Crew. This prolonged seareh for a handful of men presents a curious contrast to the recklessness with which human life is frequently risked and destroyed. We kill 40,000 of one another in a great battle without the slightest remorse; lint if a poor little child goes astray in the woods, the population of half a dozen towns engages eagerly in the search for it, day and night, till its fate is ascertained. Thonsands of England's people are permitted to perish every year for want of food and care, and no one regards thefact ; but let a few men be lost in the polar ice, and the resources of the empirc are lavished in the endeavor to rescue them. Such a creature is man !-CyClopedia of Biog., p. 400.
3333. LOT, Choive by. Tirkmens. The victorious 'Turkmuns immediately procended to the clection of a king; and if the probable tale of a Latin historian deserves any credit, they determined by lot the choice of their new master. $A$ momber of arrows ware suceressively inscribed with the mane of a tribe, a family, and a candidate; they were drawa from the hande by the hamd of a child. - Gumos's lome, ch. 57, 1. 507.
3833.1. LOTTERY, Profltable. Piter Cimper. In his reventecnth year, stirred with a higher ambition, the boy came to New York to start in life for himself. He had necumulated $$ 10$ of his own money, and, thinking to augment it rapidls, he invested his capital in a lottery ticket. Me lost it, of course, as millions of older fools have since. But he never regretted it, and lie often recalled the fact with good-humor and thank fulness, for he said it was "the chenpest picee of knowledge he ever bought."-LESTER's LIFE of Peter Cooler, p. 12.
3335. LOVE, The abode of. "Agapemone." In 1246 the Rev. Henry Prince, a curate of Charlinch, Eng., united with several members of his chureh in founding an establishment near Spaxton, called by them the Agapemone. They possess a long file of elegant buiadings, where they live professedly in the most refined pleasure. The cusine is admirable. The "turn-out" in the afternoon consists of a graceful barouche drawn by four thorough-bred grays, preceded by outriders and bloodhounds, and necompanied by a mounted escort. Thus duslingly "the family of love" was wont to take the air.
Without care, in a benutiful spot, amid sound of music, delicious cookery, and all those applinaces which to the sensualist makes even minture more delightful, they lived in their ense in much enjoyment, and mocked at the religious communities outside their extensive walls for their seriousness and their cares. They rode out on gallant horses, they followed the hounds with keen delight, played at all :mamer of manly sports within their own grounds, and took especial joy in a game peenliar to England, called " hockey," whieh they played on Sundays to the disedification of their neighbors around. Their property is considerable and in common, and, stringe to relate, all their converts have been from among tue wealthy. The relations between the sexes are not of a grossly sensual mature, as might be inferred from the title of the seet.
They enter upon matrimonial unions while the attraction lasts, or until a new one supersedes it ; but one partner at a time is all that is allowed to any one. They profess to be Trinitarians, and hold to the Apostles' Creed. They now declare that they do all things for the glory of God.

They renounce prayers, but sing hymns of praise-Am. Cyclopedia, "Agaremone."
3336. LOVE, Aocidental. Sir Walter scott. One Sunday, about two years before his call to the bur, Scott offered his umbrella to a young lady of much beauty who was coming out of the Greyfriars Chureh during a shower; the umbrella was graciously accepted; and it was not an unprecedented consequence that Scott fell in love with the borrower, who turned out to be Margaret, daughter of Sir Jolin and Lady Jane Stuart Belches, of Invernay. For near six years ufter this Seott indulged the lopere of marrying this hady, and it does not seem doublef that that lady herself was in part responsible lion this lan-pression.-II "tron'e Life of scopre, ch. 3.
3BRT. LOVE, Active. (icm:ge Whitefich. The duviere of Whitetield's seal was at winger heart, noaring above the globe, and the moito, Astra pethmus. - Sol:Ther.
3BFBA. LCVE, Battle of. Lorris. [Aidoneus, king of the Molossimes, | named his wifi- Proserpine, his dughter Core, and his doge © ©rberns; with this dog he commanded all his danghter's suitors to flyht, promising her to him that should overcome him.-Pictanen's Theseds.
3388. LOVE, Changed by, Another Buly. Cinto the Censor nased to say the sombot a lover lived in the body of another.- I'surnin'in.
38.10. LOVE, Conjugal. Nitpelenn $I$. While these scenes were conspiring [in oproning tho Italian campaign] Napoleon did not forget the: bride he had lef in Paris. Though for seven days and nights he had nllowed hinimelf no quict meal, no regular repose, and lam not taken off either liis cont or his boots, lie fomme time to send frequent and most aflectionate, though very slort, notes to Josephine. - Anmotre's NAroleton B., vol. 1, el. 4.
3341. LOVE, Disappointment in. lioscinako the Pole. He left his mative country from a disappointment in love; and devoting limself to fredom and humanity, in the autumn of 1776 he entered the American army as an ofticor of engineers. [lle was a grand soldiev, and fall in the war.]-Binchoft's U. S., vol. $)_{1}$ (ch. 19.

3BRIP. LOVE, Infatuation of. MINy Stuart. Du Chatelard [her puge], surprised an serond time hidden behind the curtains of the que'en's bed, was sent to trinl, and comdenmed to death by the judges of Edinburgh for a meditated tratison. With a single word Mary might have commuted his punishment or granted lifm pardon, hat sho ungeneronsly almodoned him to the executioner. Ascending the scadfold crected belore the windows of Ilolyrood Pakaer, the thentre of his mandness and the dwelling of the (firedn, he faced death like a hero and a port. "If," suid he,"I die not vithout reproarh, like the ("hevalier Bay. ard, my nucestor, like him I die, at lases, rithout feur." For his last prayer he recited Ronsard's beantiful Ode on Death. Then, casting lifs last looks and thoug'ts toward the windows of the palace inhmbited by the charm of his life and the cause of his death, "Farewell!" he crical, "thou who art so beantiful and su crucl ; who killest me, and whom I emnnot came to love !"Lamartine's Quebn of Scots, p. 16.

33-4B. LOVE, Juvenile. Nitipoiteor. When Napoleon was but five or six years of age lie was placed in a school. . . . There a fair-haired little maiden wout his youthful heart. It was Napoleon's tirst love. Ifis impetuous nature was all engrossed by his new passion, and he inspired as ardent an affection in the bosom of his loved companion. . . . He walked to and from school, holding the liand of Giacominetta. He abandoned all the plays and companionship of other children to talk and muse with her. The older hoys and girls made themselves merry with the display of affection whieh the loving couple exhibited ; . . . [this] exerted not the slightest influ. ence to abash Napoleon. - Anboty's Nimoleon B., vol. 1, eh. 1.
33.1.A. LOVE a Necessity. C'ummerrs. [Napoleon's soldiers dragred their dismembered camon over the Alps.] It was now the great glory of these men to take eare of their gans. They loved temelerly the merriless monsters. They lavished maresses and terms of emberment upon the glittering, polished, denth-dending bass. The heart of man is a strange enigma. Even when most dermere it needs something to love. These blood-stained soldiers. brutalized by viee. amid all the horrors of batte, lovingly fondlec: the murderons machines of war. . . 'The uareleating gun was the stern cannonerers lady-love. He kissed it with unwashed, mustached lips. .. Affectionately he named it Mary, Emma, Lizzie.-Ahaott's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 19 , 33.15. LOVE, Passionate. Poet Shelle?, Shelley fell suddenly and passionately in love with Godwin's daughter, Mary. Pencock, [his intimate friend, says] as to the overwhelming mature of the new attachment: "Nothing that I ever read in tule or history could present a more striking image of a sudden, violent, irresistible, uncontrollable passion, than that under which I found him laboring. : . Between his old feeling toward Harriet [his wife], from whom he was not then separated, and his passion for Mary, he showed in lis looks, in his gestures, in his speech, the state of a mind 'suffering, like, a little kinglom, the nature of an insurrection.' His eyes were hioondshot, his hair and dress disordered. He eanght up a bottle of laudimum, and said, 'I never part from this.' "-Symonds' Siteliey, ch. 4.
3346. LOVE vs. Prudence. Agesiltus. [Agesilaus was very ardent in his friendships.] There were, indeed, times when his attachments gave way to the exigencies of state. Once being obliged to decamp in a hurry, he was leaving a favorite sick behind him. The favorite called after him, and carnestly entreated him to come back; upon which he turned and said, " How little consistent are love and prudence! !"-Pletarcis's Agesilaus.
3347. LOVE, Religion of. Nupoleon $T$. [Napoleon said to Montholon at St. IIelena :] "Alexander, Cesar, Charlemagne, and myself have founded empires; but upon what did we rest the creations of our genius? Upon foree. Jesus Christ alone founded His empire upon love ; and at this moment millions of men would die for Ilim. I die before my time, and $15 y$ body will be given back to worms. Such is the fate of him who has been called the great Napoleon. What an abyss between my deep misery and the eternal kingdom of Christ, which is proclained, loved, and adored, and which is extended over the whole earth! Call you this dying? Is it not rather living? The death of Christ is the death of a God !'-Aibiott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 14.
3348. LOVE, Romantic. Geoffrey Rudel was a mad poet, who fell in love with the Comutess of Tripoli, whom he had never seen, and who, being afterward blessed with a sight of her, droppeil down dead for joy.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 16, p. 948.
3349. - - Samuel Johnson. A young woman of Leek, in Staffordshire, while he served his apprenticeship there, concelved a violent passion for him; and though it met with no favorable return, followed him to Lichtield, where she took lodgings opposite to the house in which he hred, and indugred her hopeless thame. When he was informed that it so preyed upon her mind that her life was in danger, he with a generons lumanity went to her and offered to marry her, but it was then too late ; her vital jower was exlansted; and she actmally exhihited one of the very rare instances of dying for love. She was huried in the cathedral of Lichtteda; and he, with a tender regard, phaced a stome over leer grave.-Bosweta's Jominson, p. 5.
3350. $\qquad$ poet shelley. Nearly the whole of the winter was spent in Naples, where Shelley suffered from depression of more than ordimary depth. Mrs. Shelley attributed this gloom to the state of his health; but Medwin tells a strange story, which, if it is not wholly a romanee, may botter acconnt for the poet's melaucholy. Ile says that so far lack as the year 1816, on the night before bis departure from London, "a married lady, young, handsome, and of noble connections," came to him, avowed the passionate love she had ronceived for him, and proposed that they should tly together. He explained to her that his hand and heart had both been given irrevoenbly to mother, and, after the expression of the most exalted sentiments on both sides, they parted.-Symonds' Shelley, ch. 5.
3351. LOVE, Shadow of. Weshington Irring. He had passed throngh tronbles which had deepened his knowledge of life, having lost his father, who died shortly before the completion of "Salmagundi," and his mother, who died about ten years later, and whose denth was still fresh in his memory. Between these two sorrows came the tragedy which darkened his young manhood, and was never forgotten-the death of Matilda Hoffman, the young lady to whom he was attached, who closed her brief existence at the age of eighteen, while he was composing the amusing annals of Mr. Diedrich Knickerbocker. -Stoddard's Ikving, p. 35.
3352. LOVE, Supremacy of. Domestic. [Queen Elizabeth required obedience. $\Lambda$ domestic aneddote illustrates this prineiple of her conduct. Harrington says] the queen did once ask my wife in merry sort, " how she kept my good-will and love, which I did always maintain to be rruly good toward her and my children." My Moll, in wise and disereet manner, told her Highness "she had confidence in her husband's understanding and courage, well founded on her own steadfastness, not to offend or thwart, but to cherish and obey; hereby did she persuade her husband of her own affection, and in so doing did command his." "Go to, go to, mistress," saith the queen: " you are wisely bent, I find; after such sort do I keep the good-will of all my husbands, my good people; for if they did not rest assured of some special love toward them, they would not readily yield me such good ohe-dience."-Kingut's ExG., vol. 3, ch. 18, p. 284.
3353. LOVER, A fallen. IIernando Cortez. Spanish girls were kept almost as secluded, and guarded almost as curefulty, as the ladies in the harem of a Turk. Therefore, when a young man feli in love, instead of ringing the door-bell and someling in bis card, he often made a rope ladder, and surveyal the residince of the young lady, with a view to asecertain the best mode of getting upon her balcony or into har whidow. Our alventurer proceded in this mamer. In sealing the wall of the garden which enclosed the house wherein lived the objeer of his passion, he fell to the gromad, and injured himself so suriously that it was long before he reoovered his healih.-Cychoredia of Brog., p. $31 \%$.
335.1. LOVER, Fickle. Rolvert Burns. For several years love-making was his chicf ammement, or rather his most serions business. His brother tells us that he was in the seeret of half the love aftairs of the parish of Tarbolton, and was never without at least one of his own. There was not a comely girl in Tarbolton on whom he did not compose a song, and then he made one which included them all.-Suamp's Berns, ch. 1.
3355. LOVER, A youthful. Lor d Byron. When tirst he imagined himself the victim of the tender passion he was only eight years of age; and he cherished so fond a recollection of hisis infant flame, that when, it the uge of sixteen, his mother carelessly told him that his "old sweetheart, Mary Duif," was married, he was nearly thrown into convulsions, which so alarmed his mother that she avoided mentioning the sulbject to him ever after. At twelve he thought himself madly in love with a beautiful cousin. "I contrl not sleep-I could not eat-I conld not rest," he afterward wrote. The last of his boyish passions, which seized him when he was fiftern, before it was possible for him to have been really in love, was not so violent as his first ; but he always spoke of it as something exceedingly serious. The lady was much older than himself, and very properly regarded and treated him as a school-boy.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 291.
3356. LOVERS, Rival. Thomas Jefferson. Mrs. Martha Skelton [had many lovers, and] among all her lovers he was the favored swain. The story goes that two of his rivals arrived at the same moment at the widow's house, and were shown into a room together. It happened that, at that moment, Mr. Jefferson and Mrs. Skelton were singing and playing together, their voices being accompanied by her harpsichord and his violin. The song was a tender and plaintive melody, and they performed it as two lovers might be expected to execute a piece of music which enabled them to express their feelings to one another. The rivals listened for a few moments, and then retired, to return no more on the same errand.-Cyclopedia of Brog., p. 22l.
3357. LOYALTY esteemed. Cromirell. We think this is the moment to say a few words upon that other ever difticult prohlem, What were Cromwell's intentions with reference to himsel: and to Charles [1.] ! We cannot see that there is foundation for any other thought than that Cromwell especially intended to preserve English law; and to him, we dare say, a king was not more sacred than a man, and a lawless king not so sacred as an obedient and law-keeping man. Hood's Cronwell, ch. 14, p. 179.
3358. LOYALTY, Unreserved. Widon Windham. [.ffer his defeat charles I. was] conveyed to the residence of a widow named Windham, who had lost her hushand and three chlest sons in the c"ase of Charles I., and with mashaken devotion now offerril her two surviviry omes to the successor of the dermpitated monn. . cha. She rereded Charles, mot asa fingitive but as a king. "When my hushand hay on his denth-leed," said she, "he ralled to him our tive sons, and thas malressed them: 'My chilhern, we have hitherto enjoyed ealm and poacofnl days under our Hrece hast sovereigns; but 1 warn you that I see clouds and tempents gathering over the kingdom. I perceive factions springing up in every quarter, which menace the reposi of one heloved conntry. Listen to me well: whatever turn events may take, be ever true to your lawful sovereign; ohey him, and remain loyal to the crown! Yes,' added he, with vehemence, 'I charge yon to stand by the crorn, cren though it shomild hong apon e bush!' These last words congraved their duty on the hearts of my children," contimed the mother, "rad those who are still spared to me are yours. as their thead brothers were given to your father." -Lamartinés Chomwele, p. 54.

3:359. LOYALTY, Vigorous, Bismarek. At is beer saloon much frequented by Conservatives, Bismarek, one evening, just as he lad taken his seat, and was about to drink his first glass of beer, overharil a man, whosat at the next wble, speak of a member of the roval fumily i.s a particularly insulting monner. Bismarck rose, and, lifting his glass of beer, thandered out, "Ont of the house! If yon are mot off when I have drunk this beer, I will break the glass on your head!" Upon this there was a wild commotion in the room, and lond outeries, but Bismarek drank his glass of beer with the utmost composure. When he had finished it he smashed the a;iass upon the offender's head. The onteries ceased for a morzent, and Bisrarck said, quictly, "Waiter, what is to pay for this broken glass ?" The manner in which this outrage was commit-ted-Bismarck's commanding look and bearing -carried the day; the beer-drinkers upplauded the act, and the man dared not resent it.-Cyclopedia of Brog., p. 632.
3360. LOYALTY, Zealous. Puritans. The Puritans, even in the depelis of the prisons to which she [Elizabeth] had sent them, prayed, and with no simulated fervor, that she might be kept from the dagger of the assassin, that rebellion might be put down under ber feet, and that her arms might be victorious ly sea and land. One of the most stubborn of the stubborn sect, immediately after one of his hands had been lopped off by the executioner for an offence into which he had been hurried by his intemperate zeal, waved his lat with the land which was still left him, and shonted, "God save the Queen !"-Macallay's Evg., ch. 1, p. 58.
3361. LUCK, Days of. Ancient. The month Thargelion (May) was also remarkably unfortunate to the barbarians; for in that month Alexander defeated the King of Persia's generals near the Granicus, and the Carthaginians were beaten by Timoleon in Sicily on the twenty-fourth of the same-a day still more remarkable (according to Ephorus, Callisthenes, Demaster, and Phylarchus) for the taking of Troy. On the contrary, the month Melugitnion (August), which the Beootians call Penemus, was very unlucky to the Greeks: for on the saventh they were beaten by Antiputer in the buthe of Cramon and utte:ly rained, mad before that they were defeated hy Philip at Cheronen. Aind on that same day, month, und year, the troms which moder Arehdamms made a deseent upon laty, were ent to pieces by the barimethas. The Carthaginims lave set a mark upon the twentysecond of that month as in diay that has alwiss brought upon them the greatest calanities.Pletaren'a Camblita.
3362. LUXURY, Employment by. To the Poor. Under the Roman empire, the labor of an industrious and ingenions people was variously but incessuntly employed in the service of the rich. In their dress, their table, their houses, nud their furniture, the farorites of fortune united every reflucment of convenlency, of elegance, and of splendor-whatever could soothe their pride or grutify their sensuality. Such refinements, under the odions name of luxury, have been severely urraigned by the moralists of every are ; and it might perhaps lie more conducive to the virtue, as well as happtness, of mankind, if alt possessed the necessaries and none the superthuitles of life. But in the present imperfect condition of socicty, Inxury, though it may proceed from vice or folly, scems to be the only means that can correct the unequal distribution of property.-Ghmon's Rome, ch. 2, p. 67.
3363. LUXURY, Dangers of, Puritans. [In 1593] Thomas Nash, whom the Puritans counted among the wieked, . [says:] "We must have our tables furnished like 'poulterers' stalls, or as though we were to victunt Noali's Ark again.

What a coil have we, this eomse and that course, removing this dish higher, setting another lower, and taking away the third! $\Lambda$ general might in less space move his cump than they standing dispose of their gluttony. . From glattony of ments let me descend to superfluity in drink-a sin that, ever since we mixed ourselves with the low countries, is counted hom-orable."-Knight's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 16, p. 249.
3364. LUXURY denied, Orforl Friars. [St.] Francis made a hard fight against the taste for sumptuous buildings and for greater persomal comfort which charncterized the time. "I didn't enter into religion to build walls," protested an English provincial when the brethren pressed for a larger house; and Albert of Pist ordered a stone cloister, which the burgesses of Sonthampton had built for them, to be razed to the ground. "You need no little mountains to lift your heads to heaven," was his scornful repty to a claim for pillows. None but the sick went shod. An Oxford friar found a pair of shoes one morning, and wore them at matins. At night he dreamed that robbers leapt on him in a dangerous pass between Gloucester and Oxford with shouts of "Kill, kill!" "I am a friar," slyicked the terrorstricken brother. "You lie," was the $i$ istant answer, "for you go shod." The friar lifted up his foot in disproof, but the shoe was there. In an agony of repertance he woke and flung the pair out of the window,-Hist. of Eng. PeoPLE, & 208.
3365. LUXURY, Evil of. Spartans. In . . . the regulation of manners one single principle influenced the whole plan of Lycurgus. Luxury is the bane of society. Let us see in what manner

The particular institutions of the Spartan legishator were calculated to ghard agahast hat power[ul source of corrupition. The inequality of possessions was, in the tirst phace, to be corrected, which could not be done withont anew partition of territorial property. This was in all prohnbility the greatest of those difllerulties which Lycurghs had to encounter.-TyThen's IIstat., Biook i, ell. 9, p. 91.
33366. LUXURY, Excess in, Aleacmider Alexander the Grent, after the concurest of Parsia, found that his great oflieers set mo boumds to their luxnry, that they were mont extravagantly deliente in their diet and profuse in oflar respects, insmanch that $\boldsymbol{\Lambda}$ gron of Thes wore silver mails. in his shoes: Leonatus had many camel londs of curth brought from Egypt to rul, himsedf with when he went to the wrestling-ring: Philotas had limeting-nets that would enelose the space of a hundred furlongs; more made use of rich essences than oil iffer bathing, and had their groms of the bath, as well us chamberlains who excelled in beel-making. This degeneracy he reproved with all the temper of a philosopher.Pletahch.
3367. LUXURY misplaced. Romume. [The Romuns under Pompey were defented at Pharsalla by Casar.] The camp itself was a singular picture. LIonses of turf had been built for the luxurious patricima, with ivy trained over the entrances to shade their delicnte faces from the summer sun; couches had been laid out for them to repose on after their expected victory : tables were spread with phate and wines and the daintiest preparations of Roman cookery. Cresar commented on the seene with mournful irony. "And these men," 're suid, "accused my patient, suffering army, which had not even compmon necossaries, of dissoluteness and protligacy !"-Fuovie's Caesar, ch. 22.
3368. LUXURY, Nanseous. TUburen. [AtCuha Columbus and his men] for the first time witnessed the use of a weed which the ingenions caprice of man las since converted into an miversal lnxury, in detimee of the opposition of the senses. They beheld several of the matives going about with firelrands in their hands, and certain dried herls which they rolled up in a leaf, and lighting one end, put the other in their mouths, and continued exhnling und pufling out the smoke. A roll of this kind they called a tobacco, a name since transferred to the phant of which the rolls were made. The Spaniards, although prepared to meet with wonders, were struck with astonishment at this singular and apparently nauseous indulgence.-Iming's Columbus, Book 4, ch. 4.
3369. LUXURY and Poverty. Roman. Every age in its decline has exhibited the spectacle of selfish luxury side by side with abject poverty ; of-" "Wealth, a monster gorged but nowhere and at no period were these contrasts so startling as they were in imperial Rome. There a whole population might be trembling lest they should be starved by the delay of an Alexandrian corn-ship, while the upper classes were squandering a fortune at a single banquet. drinking out of myrrhine and jewelled vases worth hundreds of pounds, and feasting on the bratus of pearocks and the tongues of nightingales. As a consermence, disense was rife, men were shert-llved. $\qquad$ . . $\boldsymbol{\Lambda}$ At this very time the dress of Roman hadies displayed ma mahentionf splendor. The evder Pliny tells us that he himself saw Lollia pablima dressed for a betrothal feast in a robe entirely covered with pearls and emeralds, which had cost $40,000,0$ ono sesterees, and which was known to be less costly than some of her other dresses. Ghatony, emprice. extrwagance, ostentation, impurity, riopul in the heart of a sordely which knew of no other mons by which to break the momotony of its weariness, or alle viate the magnish of its ilemair. -Fabmars Einmis Datio ('h. 1, p. 3.
3370. LUXURY repudiated. Primitice (hristiams. They were vainly aspiring to initate the perfectionof angels; . . ids dained, or . . . afferemp to disdain, every emrthly and corporeal delight. Some of our senses, inded, we necessary for our preservation, others for our subsistence, and othersagan for our intormation: and thas far it was imposible to reject the use of them. The flast sensation of pleasire was marked as the first moment of the ir aboses. The unfeeling cmulidate for heaven was instructed, not only to revist the grosser allarements of the taste or sinell, but even fo shut his cars agatist the profame hamony of somnds. and to virw with indifference the most finished productions of homan art. Gay apparel, magnitioent honses, and clegant furnibure were supposed to mite the double guilt of pride and of sensuality a simple and mortiticed appearance was more suitable to the Christim who was certain of his sins and doubtful of his salvation. In their censures of lanary, the Fathers are extremely minute and circumstantial; and amongr the various articles which excite their pious indignation, we may emumerate false hair, garments of any color except white, instruments of music, vases of grold or silver, downy pillows (as Jacol rejosed his head on a stone), white bread, foreign wines, public salutations, the use of warm laths, and the practice of shaving the bead, which, according to the expression of Tertullian, is a lie against our own faces, and an impions attempt to improve the works of the Creator.-Gimbox's Rome, ch. 25, p. 548.
3371. LUXURY, Senseless. Roman Ferst. The expense ridiculonsly bestowed on these entertaimments, and the labor employed in collecting the rarest and most costly articles of food, exceed all belief. In this, as indeed in every other opecies of luxury, there was the most capricious refinement of extravargance. Suetonius mentions a supper given to Vitellins by his brother, in which, anong other articles, there were two thousand of the choicest fishes (lectissimorum piscium), seven thousand of the most delicate birds - one dish, from its size and capacity, was named the egis, or shield of Minerva. It was filled chictly with the livers of scari (a delicate species of fish), the brains of phcassints and peacocks, the tongues of parrots (imagined, probably, to be tender from their much chattering), and the beilies of hampreys, bronght from most distant provinces. This may serve as some specimen of the luxury of the Roman suppers.-Tytlem's Hist., Book 4, ch. 4, p. 450.
3372. LUXURY, Unsatisfying. Buian. [The chagan of the Avars, a barbarian prople who insabend sumbern Eurone.] We winhed, at the expense of the emperer, to repose in a golden bed. The wealih of Constantineple mand the skilful dillgence of her artists were instantly devotend to the gratideation of has caprice: lat when the work was halshed he rejected with seorn a present somarorthy the majesty of a great king. -Gnanos's Rosme, eli. 46, p. 4.43.
3378. LYING, Polite. Srmul Johmson. [IITs stady] seremed to be very favomble for retirement asal mediation. Johasen told me that he went up) thither without mentioning it to his servant when le wanted to stady serare from interruption: for he would not allow his servan to say he was not at home when he really was "A servontes strict regard to truth," said he, " must be weakened by such a practice. A philosepher may know that it is nerely a form of denial; but few servants are such nice distinguishers. If I aeconstomaservant to tell a lie for me. have I not reason tonplochernd that he will tell many lies for himse $f$ ? " B Boswem, 's Jomssos, p. ío.

3:37.A. MACHINERY, Benefts of. Clocks. Fighty vers age a good lamily clock cost from a mil in the wall. and were womad by belling a string. At that time the State of Commed. icit alrealy took the lemd in the business of clock-making, and we time it mentioned, as a great wonder, that in 1s04 three handred and tifty clocks were made in Commerticut. The business was done in a very simple and primitive mamer. A man would get a few clocks finished, then strap four or tive on a horse's back, and go off into an adjacent county to sell them, offering them from door to door. At a later date some makers got on so far as to cmploy one or more agrents to travel for them. At the present time Comnecticut makes six hundred thonsand clocks per annum, and sells most of them at less than $5 cach. Before the war some makers sold their cheapest clocks, wholesale, at 50 cents each, their good clocks at se, and their leest at ahout $4. The marvellous cheapucss and excellence of these time-ketpers have spread them over the whole earth.-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 209.

3375. MACHINERY a Means. Semuel Johnson. Mr. Fergnsson, the self-tunght philosopher, told him of a new-invented machine which went without horses; a man who snt in it turned a handle, which worked a spring that drove it forward. "Then, sir," said Johnson, "what is ganed is, the man has his choiee whether be will move himself alone, or limself and the machine too."-Boswell's Jonnson, p. 167.
3376. MACHINERY, Triumph of. Cencks. Never have I seen more original and startling mechanical effects than are produced by Jerome's clock-making machincry. Think of one man and one boy sawing vencers enough in one day for three hundred elock-cases ! Think of six men making brass wheels cnough in a day for one thousand clocks! Think of a factory of twenty five persons producing two thousand clocks a week! Think of a clock being made for 40 cents! All this is chiefly due to the patience and genius of Chituncey Jerome.-Cyclopedia of biog., b. 214.

3:377. MADNESS effective. Jumes Otis. [The Masachasitis patriot pmhlished n book ngainst in England. I cord Manst!dd, wholmed remdit, rebuked those who spoke of it whth contempt. But they rejohnenl, "The man is man!!" "What then !" maswored Mnastield. "one mad man ofton makes many. Dassmind olo was mad-mo. bondy dombted it: yer lior all that he overturned
 vol. 5, ch. 10.

337凶. MAGIC, Bellefin. ('ulımbus. ['Io the Sn his lattor from, Jamaien, that the prople of ('ajari amel its vicinity are grem enchanters, mal he intinntes that tha two Talinn pirls who had visited his ship hul mugie powider romeended about their persoms. He adele that the sators attributedall the delings and hardships axperjenced on that coast to their being mader the intherne of some evil spell, worked by the witelarenft of the motives, and that they still remained in that bedief.-luvina's Colasuca, book 14 , eh. 3.

3378. MAGNANIMITY, Admirable. Trial of Sir Ifrary Vient. Ile hat asked for commsel. "Who," eried tho solicitor, " will dare to spenk for you, maless you cman call down from the gibbel the heads of your lellow traitors ?" "I stand single," sajid Vane; "yet, being thons leftabone, I tun not afraid, in this grent presence, to henr my wimess to the ghorions comse [of pepmar libery], nor to seal it with my blood.".-B.ancloori's L. S., vol. 2, ch. 11.
3380. MAGNANIMITY, Noble. General Hobrit E. Lee. [At the batile of Gettysharg an English otherer says :] I suw General Wilcox come by to him, and explam, nlanost erying, the state of his brigrule. Genernl Lee immediately slook hamds with him, and said, cheerfully, "Never mind, general, wll this has been my fitult; it is I that have lost this fight, and you must help me out of it the best way you can." In this way I saw General Lee encourage and reanmate his somewhat dispirited troops, and magnanimously take upon his own shoulders the whole weight of the re-pulse.-Polialld's Second Yeale of the War, 1. 355.
3381. MAGNANIMITY of Savages. Ononelegas. A.D. 168 \%. [Louis XIV. required lroquois Indians for galley-slaves.] By open hostilities no captives could be made; and Lamberville, the missionary among the Onondagis, was unconsciously employed todecoy the Iroquois chiefs into Fort Ontario. [They were pat in irons and sent to France.]... ifeantime tite old men of the Onondagas summoned Lamberville to their presence. " We have much reason," said an aged chief, " to treat thee as an enemy, but we know thee too well. Thou hast hetrayed us, but treason was not in thy heart. Fly, therefore, for when our foung braves shall have sung their war song they will listen to no voice but the swelling voice of their anger." And trusty guides conducted the missionary through by-paths to a place of secu-rity.-Banchoft's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 17.
3382. MAGNIFICENCE vs. Happiness. Abdalrahmans. [See No. 3383.] In the West the Ommiades of Spain supported, with equal pomp, the title of commander of the fathofal. Three miles from Condovn, in homor of his favorite sultama, the thirel mad gratest of the Alahalrahmane constructad the dey, malace, umd gardens of Zelorn. Twontr ive yairs, und above three milllons sterllug, were emploged hy the fommer ; his lineral tuste lovited the artist of comslantinnole, the most skilful sculptors and morhiterts af the are ; fand the buldings were sustuined or adorned by of (incek and Italian marble. The hall of ambience Was incomsted with grold and pearls, and a grent basin in the cerbere wiss surmonded with the curt-
 In a lolty pavilion of the gardens one of these mate, was replemished, not with water, lntt with mon, his wives, concolhines, and batek vimuths amominted tosix thomsamel three homiderel perions ; and he was attembed to the theld hy a gramel of twolve thomsand horse, whose le lts and eimeters were studided with goli. It may lee . . . of some tse . . . Wtranseribe an anthentie momorial which was found in the closet of the deremend caliph. "I have now relgined above thfty jears in vietory or pence, belowed hy my sulnjeets, dreaded by my enemies, and respected by my allios. Riches and homors, power and plensiare, have wated on my eall, mor does nuy enrthly blessing nipear to have beren wanting to mey folicity. In this situntion I havediligently mambered the dass of pure and gomume hapiness which have fallen to my lot: they amomat to fomiteen. () man! place mot thy contidence in this present worlil!"(HumiN's IROME, Ch. 5i, p. B98.
3383. MAGNIFICENCE, Oriental. At Purflud. The glorics of the [aliph's] connt ware lirightened rather than impared in the derline of the empire, and a Greck ambassador might admire or pity the magnificence of the feedne Moctader. "The caliph's whole army," says the historian Abulfeda, " both horse ind toot, was nuler arms, which together made a body of 160,000 men. Jis state otllecrs, the favorite slaves, stood near him in splendid appurel, their belts glittering with gold and gems. Near them were 7000 emmels, 4000 of them white, the remainder hack. The porters or door-keepers were in number 700 . Barges and boats, with the most supreb decorations, were seen swimming upon the Tigris. Nor was the palace itself less splendid, in which were hung up 38,000 pieces of tapestry, 12,500 of which were of silk embroilered with goll. The carpets on the floor were 22,000 . $\mathbf{\Lambda}$ humdred lions were brought out, with a keeper to each lion. Among the other spectacles of rare and stupendons luxury was a tree of gold and silver spremling into eighteen large branches, on which, and on the lesser boughas, sat a variety of birds made of the same precions metals, as well as the leaves of the tree. While the machi. nery affected spontancous motions, the several birds warbled their natural harmony. Tbrough this scene of magnificence the Greek ambassador was led by the vizier to the foot of [Moctader's] the caliph's throne."-Gibison's Rome, ch. 52, p. 298.
3384. MAGNIFICENCE, Royal. Arcadius. [Emperor of Rome.] The eloguent sermons of St. Chrysostom celebrate, while they condemn:
the pompons luxury of the rejgin of Armilins. "The emproror," says he, "weare on his hand etther a diadem or a crown of gold, derorated with precelons stones of inesthmable value. These ormments mad his purple garments are reserved for his sacred personatome; and his robes of stlk are embroided with the thgures of goldend dagenas. llis throme is of massy gold. Whenever lue appate in puble he is surfoumded by his courtiores, his grards, mad his attembats, Their spars, their shidhts, thele cuimeses, the brhlles and trappinges of the he horses, have either the substame or the apyename of gold ; and the hares splendid boss in the midst of their shided is cuncireled with smather hesses, which represemt the shape of the haman eye. The two mules that daw the charlot of the momared are perferely white, and shining all over with goll. 'The charint itsolf, of pureame solidgold, at mexts the adairathon of the spectators, whe contemphate the purple cortains, the suow carper, the size of the precions stones, and the resplembent phates of gold, that glitter ns they ure agitated by the motion of the corriage. The lumprial pietures we white, on a blue gromad; the rinperor "ppears sented on his throne, with his arms, his homses, and his gmods beside him, , mad his vanguishad emomies in chanias

3385. MAIDEN, A military. Romin. [Damgh. ter of the Prefect Gregory- Afrian invision of the Arabs.] The danghter of crecrors. a matid of incomparthle bematy mad spirit, is sudid to lase fonght hy his side ; from her earliest youth she wis traned to momet on horselmack, to draw the bow, nud to wield the cimeter ; and the richmess of her arms nul apparel were compingous in the foremost ranks of the lattle. Iter ham, with a lamdred thonsand pieces of gold, was offeren for the hemd of [Abdallah] the Arablian genema, mal the youthe of Africn were excited by the prospect of the glorions prize. At the pressing solicitation of his brethren Andallah withdrew his person from the fiedd; but the sin necens were discouraged by the retreat of their leader, and the repectifion of these equal or unsuecessful contlicts.-Ginsbon's Rome, ch. 51, p. 237.
3386. Mails detained. Rcign of Jemes II. [Jumes was trying to coerce Parliament to grunt politien relief to the Roman Catbolies.] While the contest lasterl, the ansiety in London was intense. Every report, every lime from Edinburgh, was eagerly devourel. One day the story ran that Ilamiton hal given way, and that the government would carry every point. Then came intelligence that the Opposition had rallied, and was more ohstimute than ever. At the most critical moment orders were sent to the post-office that the bags from Seotland should be transmitted to Whitelall. During a whole week not a single private letter from beyond the Tweed was delivered in London.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 114.
3387. MAJORITY, Rule of. Condemned. Their idea [the people of the north] of government may be briefly stated as the sovereignty of numbers. . .. Acrording to the interpretation of the Yankees, the body politic ought simply to have a political organization to bring out and enforce the will of the majority. . . . The Northern idea was materialistic : it degraded politicnl authority, becanse it despoiled it of its moral offices, and represented it as an accident determined by a comparison of nombers. It destroyed the virtue of minort.
 it late the foumbations of a despetism mone tertble than that of my sibgle tyramt: destroyed moral comage in the people ; broke down all the Martores of cooservatism, and sabsituted the phatise, "the mujority muat gecer" " lion the cron-SBWN. MAJORITY, An unconquerable. E'ng. land. Dhames II. songht the overinmw of the bs tabllshed (lhureh amd the promation of the Roman Catholic faith. 1 The propertion which they bore to the popmation of binghon was very mach smmeller thanat present.

Forty-ahar ittictles of the inhalitants of the kingedenn, forty nime tifticthen of the property of the kingedom, allasest all the political, legal, mul military ahility and knowledge for foumd in the kingidom, were Protestant. Nowertheless, the king, muler a strong infatmation, had determined io nse his vast patromare an a mome of makimg poorlytes. To be of his Clarela was, in his view, fle tirse of all guatitcontions for ollece. Tolne of the mational Charrla was a pesitive disatualiticution.- VacauLAY'~ Eno. Cli. K, j. 219.
3380. MALIGNITY, Parental. Ti, Fromerick [the (ireat]. Ile asked puzaling (pucotions, and lirought forward arguments which seremed to savor of something different from pare Latheranism. The king shsperted that his son was inelined to le a heretis of some sort we other. whether C'alvinist or atheist, his Majesty diul not very well know. The molimary malignity of Frederick William was bad mongh. He now thought malignity a part of his duty as a Christimn man, mid aft the eonsicionce that he had stimulated lis hatred. The thate was hroken, the French books were sent out of the palace, the prince was kicked mad eadredled mal pullerl ly the lair. At dimer the phates were harlet at his head; sometimes he was restricted to bread and water, sometimes he was forcell to swallow food so manscous that he eomald mot kevp it on his stomach. Once his father knockedhim down, araged him along the floor to a window, and was with dithenty preventel from strangling him with the cord of the rurtain. The queen, for the crime of not wishing to see har son murdered, was subjected to the grossest indi;nities. The Princess Wilhelmina, who took her hrother's part, was treated almost as illas Mrs. Brownrigg's apprentices. Driven to despmir, the unhappy youth tried to run nway; then the fury of the old tyrant rose to madness. The prince was an ofticer in the army; his tlight was therefore desertion, and, in the moral corle of Frederick Willinm, desertion was the highest of all crimes. [Execution would have followed but for the inlervention of others.]-Macaclay's Frederick tile Great, p. 13.
3390. MAN civilized. Chenges in America. [See No. 3398.] Man is still in lurmony with mature, which he has subdued, developed, and adorned. For him the rivers that flow to remotest climes mingle their waters; for him the lakes gnin new outlets to the ocean; for him the areh spans the flood, and science spreads iron pathways to the recent widderness; for him the hills yiell up the shining marble and the enduring granite; for him immense rafts hring down the: forials of the interior ; for hime the marta of the rity father the promlere of ail rdines, und Ilbraries collect the works of avery lunguage and lent by refhement, and the virtue of the romentry

 vol. : wh. li.
:3:391. MAN defined. Ilutw. I'lato hurl dellued

:33A2. MAN regenerated. I'nalilfinl. |'Ti.

 uf Prrapulia. Jlo filt sombery lowned the or is it that! the somes have vegetatednfter befors

:3:39)B. MAN, An honest. Lixfimulud. |('irrli-
 ". There is "olomish in him," said lat, "to maike of applicatian wofe remarkable. Duriag the Wholo of his rojgn ho habored regularly in his 3330. L. MAN, Misation of. Stuies. The Stoices believel the minveres to le the work ol' n . . . Bring whose providence comtinmally regnlates the wholde, . . . so the to prohlame the greatest possible wan of genernl good; so they regamidel mannsa principal instrument in the himal of (aod to neromplisis that great purpose. The (rentor, therefores. $\qquad$ had so framed the mornl constithtion of man, that ho finds lis own chinef lapsisiness in promoting the welfore ant happiness of his fellow-cruntures. In the free consent of mun to fuitil this cud of his being, by acoommodhating his mind to the divine will, and thas enrenvoring to slisidarge his part in soriety with cheerful zoal, with perfect integrity, whth munly resolation, abd with an entire resigmathon to the decres of Providemer, lices the smbinn esseme of hiss duty--'r'rivir's IIIs'l., Book a, chi. 0 , 1. $27 \%$.

3B1DS. MAN, A monster. Bomapoite. [Mr. Jeflerion] has given his testimony agranst the charautar of Napoleon: . . " "If lie could suriously and repeatedly athrm that he had raised himself to power whithont ever haviner committed a crime it proves that he winnted totally the sense of right and wrong. If lue could consider the million of human lives that he lime destroyed, or cansed to be desiroyed; the desolations of countrics, by plamberings, binnings, und fanine: the dethronement of lnwful rulers of the world, without the consent of their constituents, tos phee his brothers and sisters on their thrones; the cutting up of established societies of men, and jumbling them discordantly together nt his cnprice: the demolition of the fairest hopes of mankind for the recovery of their rights and the amelioration of their condition ; and ath the numberless train of his other enormities-the man, I say,

Who ronled comstider nil these as no rerimen, must humd shombl hare luren lifleed for shiy him. "-

SBBDB. MAN or a Mouse, A. Molvert Morris, of lhiladelphia. |'lhe thanelal helper of Wastions. ton during the lavolathon altarward angeged in uivion is proof of that whions nind prodence whild govern all pour woris ame motions: lut. my dear groneral, i ran never do thinges in tha smanll: I mmat be cithor "t mat" "r "t momas',"— ('InTis' W'anilivaton, vol. I, fle. lis.

(BiBO)7. MAN, Origin of. Wint lueliurs. fino from at . . © "perture, the small meqs froms 4 lithe remany.
 wabiering on one ocerasion nour 1 sinall lake.
 the troes, which prowed to le woment. (On nttempting to ratels them, however, they were fombel to be as slippery ase erls, so that it was ine possible to horlil them. At hengell they empioyed certain mond, whose latods wore rembered rongh by a kind of leprosy. These sucereded in seroming four of theso sifpery fomales, from whon the word was propled.-Invand's Cut, ', M1M's, Book 6, (hs. 10.
:389w. MAN uncivilized. Amcriran finlians. Man, the oeropmat of the soil, was as untamerd as the savige sereng, in harmony with the rade matare by whinh he was surrounded-n vagrant wer the continemt, in eonstant warfare with his fellow-men-the bark of the bireli his cmaes : strlags of shelis his ormanemts, his recorel, mad his coin; the roots of monenltivated piants amonir his resonrees for foonl ; his knowledge in archif. tecture surpmssed hoth in strengthand dambility by the skill of the benver; bented saplings the beams of his homse ; the branches man rimal of trees its root ; drifte of leaves lis couch: mats of bulrushes his protection ngainst winter's cold; lis religion the adoration of nature ; his morals the promptings of undisciplined intellect; disputing with the wolves mal hears the lordship of the soil, and dividing with the spuirrel the wild fruits with which the miversin woodlands uboumled.-Bancrorr's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 15.
3399. MANEUVREs ignored. Directness. [One of Aclmira! Neison's freguent injunclions was :] "Never mind mancuvres: nlwiys goat them." -KNigit's ENG., vol. 7, ch. 20, p. 357.
3400. MANHOOD, Complete. Julius Cisar. In person Cuesur was tall and slight. Ilis feat ures were more retined than was usual in Roman faces; the forehend was wide and high, the nose large and thin, the lijs full, the eyes dark gray like an eagle's, the neck extremely thiek and sinewy. llis complexion was pale. Ilis lenrd and mustache were kept carefully shaved. Ifis hair was short ami nuturally seanty, falling off toward the end of his life and litiving him partially buld. Lis voisc, especially when le spoke in public, was high und shrill. Hishealth was uniformly strong antil his last year, when ho lather, and sorupulomaly mont In all him luthis, atesteminus la his found, and rarelese in what it comsisteal, rarily or mover tomblifig wine, mad descrihing any mew perolle. Ita was ath mhlote In unty life, almindibe la all manly excrelones, andid alremels, be rode ar remarkathe horse, which it was ohservere of him that lie was the triont of

 was guict and gentloman-like, with the matural courtesy of high-breedhag. On an oreraslon whell lee was dinhas some where the other guests fombil the of tow rancha for thein. ('iesur took it whlsout rebark, to spare has entertaharers fereliges. When on a fouracy thromgh a forest whith his frlend opphas, he came one blyht to a hat where there was asingle hed. "pplus heligg unwell, ('issar gave lt up to him, and slept on the gromad. -Fimpe'h Cingall, di. dy.
8.SO1. MAMHOOD deterlorated. Ancient Greeces [A.D. 3Bm.) Corloth, Argos, Npmra, velded without resistance to the arms of the Giothos ; and the most fortumate of the limbilitunts were savel, by death, from leholding the shavery of thelr fimilles and the conthagration of thelr ifthes. The vases and stathes were distrinbited among the marharians, whth more repard to the value of the materials than to the cleganee of the workmanhip; the female enplives wht mitted to the laws of war ; the cajoyment of hematy was the rewarl of valor ; and the Greeks conld mot remomably complain of an atmase which was justitled by the example of the heroie thes. The descombants of that extromedinary people, who had consldered valor and dixelplime as the walls of Spurta, no longer remembered the gencrons reply of their ancestors to an invader mome fommilable than Alaride. "If thou art a god, thon witt not hart those who have never hajared thee; if thou art aman, advance, ate: thon will time men rqual to thyself."-Ghbibon' Rome, ch. 30, p. 194.
3802. MANHOOD evinced. (inothe, in Gocthe we discover ly far the most striking instance, in our time, of is wrlfer who is, in strict npeeech, what philosophy cm call a man. He is nether woble nor plebeian, neither liberal nor servile, nor intldel nor devotee; but the best excellence of all these, joined in pure mion-" a clear and universal man." Goethe's poetry is no s parate faculty, no mental handieraft, but the voice of the whole lurmonious manhood-nay, it is the very harmony, the living and life-giving harmony of that rich manhood which forms his poetry. Alf good men may be called poets in act or in word ; nll good poets are so in both. Carlyle's Goethe, ch. 1.
3403. MANHOOD exhibited. Dr. Rorland Titylor. Taylor, who as a man of mark had been one of the first victims chosen for execution, was arrested in Londou, and condemned to suffer in his own parish. IIis wife, " suspecting that her hushand should that night be carried nway," had waited through the darkuess with her ebildren in the porch of St. Botolph's beside Aldgate. "Now when the sheriff his company came against
 - Oh, my poor father! Mother' mother: here is hatid, Rowland, where urt thon:" for it Wan a very dark mominge, that the one conlid mot wer the wher. Dr. 'linylor auswered, 'I uns here, dene mustore, I pray you, and lat him anotik le his dumghter Mary la hisa armas, und her mid hif wita tund Elizalntli kuelt dewn and mald the Latid's pruver. At which shat the sherifl wopt "pow?, and shouk her hy the lamad, nad suld. "Furewell.

 my children." . . Then matd his wife, "tionl he with there denr kowhand! I will, with foul's Tinylor was morry mad eheerfal an one hat meconiated himself going to a most plemant hans. quet ur bridal. . . . (oming within two miles of Ihadeigh, hedesired to light off his lumer, whids done he lenpeol nad wet it frisk or twatn as ment combunty do for dancloge. "Why, manter doc: tor," quote the shariff, " how do you now "" He answered. "Well, Goxd be pramal, mastar sheriff, nevor bettor : for mow I kmow 1 an abmont at home. I lack bot past twomiles to go over, and I ann even at my Fither's home! "H:atc. of Ena. Peorles, side.
B.10.4. MANHOOD, Forecast of. Nim $H / m$, on. Aud yet, this rimning wibl hamone the Indlans, slecping on the prownd, clansine wide gume, living in the foreste, and rembing llomur's Illad withal, seemed a pretty strange husiness. and prople usel to say that Sum IIonsion would either be a grent hadinu ehief or die in a madhomse, or be governor of the sinte-for it was very certain that some strange thing wobld overtake him!-Lantrita lhocton, p. 18.
3.405. MANHOOD, Honest. Cromirell. We may have too little ceromony as well as too minh. It does mot matter math, hat we do rather like our servant to faje at our simbly dowe before coming in, athough we do not are about her handing curd letters on a silver salver. When animssadors crowded Cromwell's court from all the states of Euroje, some of them, in deference to the usualities of royaly, desirad to kiss his hand ; but, with manly dignity, he retired buck two or three steps higher, to liis throne, howed to the doputation, and so closed the audience. A man, we ser, who will not bute an inch of his mation's digniny, nor wear more than his manhood for his own. As he would not alopt the clenignation, so he would not permit himself to play at being a king.-Hood's Chomwell, ch. 15, p. 199.
3.106. MANHOOD, Model. George Withington. His faculties were so well balanced and combined that has constitution, free from excess, was tempered evenly withall the elements of activity, and his mind resembled a well-organized commonwealth; his passions, which had the intensest vigor, owned allegiance to reason: and with all the fiery quickness of his spirit. hisimpethous and massive will was held in cheek by consummate judgment. He had in his compc-

Nitlon a colm which gave him in mennontes of

 vol．$i, i l \mid, 3 \%$ ． is A1）7．MANHOOD，Physical．Winshinifton． （heneral Wrashbugton stoond mix feet thene la hiv Nifunge，and in the priane ol hiv lifo was marrow．Ilis form was wall propmithomed atid －venly devedoped，so that lie cirriad hin tallares gracifully，mul lowked strikingly well on herwe－
 －wy tigure lhan hav when ho was a yonng man： it was only in liter lifio lhat lils movimonta Brow．，p． 8.

2．10才．MANHOOD recognized．Imeint Girs
 tion，are vohnmary asmechations for matand do．

 Chavelf otillege to sulbolt hiv private opinions fare of his assuriatios．The（iomman tribere were comfented with this rule Dut liberal ontline of politian sochoty．As soon as 12 youth，lorn oí ha was introndered lato the general comatil of his commtrymen，solemmly invested withat shleld mad spertr，and mopted ns an ripml mid worthy member of the miltary commonwenth．－Gin－ HON＇H ROMに，（I），9，1）．©（H．

3．100．－Amicht Germans．The govermmont of the Germanicemations，whero at vast number of cं－tached tribes were anch mater the commanmi of an independent rhiof，and the condition of individuals，whose nlmont comstant ocebpation was war，were a necessary eanse of that exclusioe regard which was puid to the pro－ fessbon of arms，fis comparivon with whiche every other employment was esteemed medn and un－ importnat．It was custommry in muny mutions that the first introduction of youth to the ocen－ pations of manhood was attended with peculiar reremonies mad distinguislued solemnily ；und this，fomong the German mations，it was ex－ tremely maturn that the goull shonld te intro－ dued with partieular ceremonies to that military profession in which le was to be engaged for fife．The chief of the tribe，mador whose ban－ ner all his vassals were to tight，lestowai，him－ self，the sword mid armor upon the ！ing sol－ dier，as a mark that，being conferreil is him， they were to be nsed at his comm $m$ ．．．and for his service aloue．－Tytheis＇s IIst．，Book 6， ch． $10, \mathrm{p} .167$.

3．410．M．ANHOOD tented，Williom of Orange． If his battles ware not those of a grent tactician， they catitled him to be culled a grant man．No disaster conld for one moment deprive him of his firmness or of the entire possession of all his faculties．．．．Ite was proved by every test；by war，by wounds，by painful nud depressing mal－ adies，by raging seas，by the imminent nud con－ stant risk of nssussination，a risk which has shak－ en very strong nerves，a risk which severely tried even the admmantine fortitude of Crom－ well；yet none could ever discover whint that thing was which the Prince of Ormage fenred． Itis advisers could with difticulty indnce him to

 of thoisamde of hiave wartiors，drow forth the

 himself like a uman who solught for datis：was always formanat la the charge and lant la the re－ trent；fonght，nword lin lomind，In the thlekent prose：find with a musket hall in his grim and bis gromind and waverl his hat ander the hotest

：B11．MANIA，Popular，fruniders．［In 1000］ the pentont shos hif oven liku hormes，nutl，yok： big them tor a mat，migroterl with his wile mod chilitren；mad the chililren，whemever they ap－ pronched a town，crled out，＂Is this derusa－

 through the most remote partas of Chantlan bia． ropr．

Anthey passed thromerh the pophons citles of ficrmany the mpirit of funntionl lutred ．．．incited the multitule to pillage mad massa－ rer the dews．－KNatit＇s EN（t．，vol．1，ch．16， 1． 28.

3ils．MANKIND distruated．（＇herles $I I$ ．was ndilided heyond monsure to semsual fudulgencer， fond of samiterfing mal of frivoloms amasoments． fincupalio of self－tlenlal mad of exertion，withont fath in luman virtue or in laman attachment， withont desire of renown，mind withont sensibil－ ity to rejronch Areording to him，every per－ son was to be bought．But some poople ling－ gred suore nbout their prime thun others；nind When this hurgling was very obstimate und very skilful，it was colled by some tine mome．The ehief trick by which clever men kept th the price of thejr abilities was called integrity．The chiof trjek lyy which humelsome women kept up） the prise of thedr lennty was called modesty．．．． Thinking thus of mankind，Churles maturally cared very litile whint they thought of him．Ilon－ or mal slame were senrcely more to him than light and darkness to the blind．－Macaulay＇s ENt．，ch．2，1）． 150.

3A13．MANKIND，Inequality of，Strmuel Johnson．On his favorite sulbject of subordina－ thon，Johnson said：＂So far is it from being true that men nre maturally equal，that no two people can be half an hour together but one shall ne－ quire an evident superiority over the other．＂－ Boswellis Johnson，p，142．

3414．MANKIND，Prosperity of，Age．If a man were called to tix the period in the history of the world during which the condition of the human race was most happy and prosperous，he would，without hesitation，name that which elapsed from the death of Domitian to the acces． sion of Commodins．The vast extent of the Ro－ man Empire was governed by absolute power， under the guidance of virtue and wisdom，－Gib BON＇s ROME，chi，3，11． 95.
:BAB. MANNERS, Bunt. Jiomemer. Tlow

:BAB. MANEERS changed, Rimutus. 'Tlıum

 R

 mentw of allfurent colors, mal likewhe literiliet

 the bobive fur lta enartincont mo longere existerl.
 getthig that mondeat rearive whirh las their sex's highest ormment, they maned out into the ored, butle by chamor nad hy blamblaments, to engage thelr votes for the nbrogathon of thisumious stathir. It was no womeder that the rigid virthe of old Cato, then consul, was inhlamed will Book 3, ch, 9, p. 3\%

3.IT7. MANNERS, Effect of. Simucl Juhnson. The ditference, lie ohserved, betweron in well-hred amd un lll-bred man is this: "One fimmedhately nttruets your llking, the other your averslon. Fon love the one till you thad renson to hate him: you hate the other till yout find reason to love him." - Bosweali's Jontinson, 1). 5.31 .
3.118. ———Stmuel Johnson. I land the resolution to ansk Johnaon whether he thonght that the roughness of lis manner had been an advantage or not, and if lie would not have done more goord if he land ben more gentle. Jounson : "No, sir ; I have done more good as I ann. Olsecenity and inpicty lave nlways been repressed in my compriy." JBosweLs.: . . "Grenter liberties lave lieen taken in the presence of a hislop, though a very good man, from his being milder, and therefore not commonding such awe. Yet, sir, many people who mighat have been benefited by your conversation lave been frightened awny, A worthy friend of ours has cold me that he has often been afraid to talk to you." Jolinson: "Sir, he meed not have been afraid, If he had anything rational to say. If he had not, it was better lie did not talk. "-Bosweld's JOIINSON, 1). 523.
341. MANNERS neglected. Simuel Johnson. The late Alexamder, Earl of Eglintome, who loved wit more than wine, and men of genfus more than syeophants, lata great admira-

 Jollingos, p. lity.

 the worlil. loplnula him to pint alf his lat lo intiv,

 vol. : 2 , ch, 11 .
:SI2A. MANNEHS, Unreflned, Juhmson. He observed: "'lle krout la Fraser live very man shops of Purls we memit the ment buthe matcookery of the Fremel was foreed upon them by less thay ndiled same taste tolt. 'The Fremela are nin Imdelicate people: they will spit upon uny place, At Madane _- 's, it litering lindy of rank, the footman took the sugner ln fils tharers, nul inrew it into my eoffere. [wis going to put it aside: bit hearing it was made on [mipesse for me, I e'en tisted 'Ton's thagers. The same lady would needs make ter à l'Amghise. 'The sponit of the texpot did not pund freely; slie mule the footnan blow into il."-Boswehis's Jollivins, 1. $2(34$.

BHAS. MANNERg, Urbane. Chorles II. The morning light begrn to peep thronghte windows of Whitehnll, and C'harles desired the ut. tendants to pull uside the curtains, llat he might have one more look at the day. Ile remarked that it was time to wind wo ne elock whitela stome near his bed, These little circumstances were long remembered, becanse they proved lnyond dispute that, when he dechared himself a Roman Catholic, he was in full possession of his finculties. Je apolorized to those who linit stowd round him nll nifit for the tromble which be land cansed. Jle lad been, le sadi, a most monenscionable time dying, but lie loped that they would excuse it. This was the list glinpse of that expuisite urbanity, so often found potent to elurm away the resentment of a justly inecused nation. - Macaulay's Enu., eh. 4, 1). 408.
3.123. MANUFACTURES, Exhibition 0\%: Bustom Common. A.D. 1754. At Bostom a soricty whs formed for promoting domestic mannfactures; on one of its anniversuries three handred Foung women appeared on the common, clad in homespun, seated in a triple row, each with a spinning-wheel, and each busily transferring the flax from the distaff to the spool-Bancrofers U. S., vol. 4, ch. 4.
3.12. MANUFACTURES fostered. Flemish. After the establishment of the fremt mart of Bruges, the Flemings began tos apply their whole indistry to the establishment of mamfintures, and Baldwin, the young Comnt of Flanders, chcomarad this spirit by hestowing privileges and immanities on the merehnats and manufiecturars. Itis suceessors, however, possessed a very different spirit ; they recalled these immmaties; and the conseduence was, that the manufacturers left Fhamers and settled in Brabamt, where the dukes of that prownce shewed them for some time all maner of favor. This, however, did not long continue. The revocation of their immunities, by some impolitic sovereigns of that province, innished trade and manufactures from Brahant, as it had done from Flanders.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 17, p. 262.
3.125. MANOFACTORES, Monopoly in. Ihetters. In the land of furs it was found that hats were well made ; the London company of hattors remonstrated; and their craft was protected by an act forbiding hats to be transported from one plantation to another.
' None of the phantations should nanufacture iron wares of any kind whathocver :" and the honse of peers adiled a rlanse prohibiting every " forge going by water for making bar or rod irom."-Bancroft's U. S.
3.126. MANUFACTURES restricted. Ricign of Charles II. As carly as the reign of Elizabeth there had been loud complaints that whole forests were cut down for the purpose of feeding the furnaces, and the Pariiament had interfered to prohibit the munufacturers from hurnin; timber. The manufacture consequently lancuished. At the close of the reign of Charles II. great part of the fron which was used in the conntry was imported from abroad.-MaCadlay's Evg., chi. 3, p. 296.
3.297. Marching, Prodigious. Spertiens. After the lattle had been fonght [at Marathon], but while the dead bodies were yet on the ground, the promised re-enforcement from Sparta arrived. Two thousand Lacedemonian spearmen, starting immediately after the full moon, hat marched the hundred and fifty miles between Athers and Sparta in the wonderfully short time of three days. Though too late to share in the glory of the netion, they reguested to be allowed to march to the battle-field to behold the Medes. They proceeded thither, gazed on the dead lodies of the invaders, and then, praising the Athenians and what they had done, they returned to Lacedæmon.-Decisive BatTLES, & 48.
3428. Maniner, Famous, Discocery of America. The enterprise of Colnmbus, the most memorable maritime enterprise in the history of the world, formed between Europe and America the communication which will never cease. Bancroft's Hist, of U. S., eh. 1.

34C9. MARINERS, Cautious. Portuguese. Till the middle of the fifteenth century none of the nations of Europe had ventured to sail out of the eight of their coasts. Their vessels were flat-hottomed and extremely shallow ; and as they followed in their navigation every turning of the coast, which exposed them continually to shifting and contrary winds, it was not musial that is voyage, which would now be performed in a fow moths, hasted at that time fon or five yars. We lave alrealy remarked the very limited knowledge which the Greehs and Romans pessessed of the habitable globe. The Eastern Ocem was known only hy name, and the Athantie scarecty attempted out of the sight of the const of Europe. It was supposed that all to the west was an inmense extent of accun.Tytleei's IItst., Book 6, ch. 18, p. $\mathfrak{2} 66$.

3a:30. Marksman, Royal. Commorlis. The Emperor Commodus, elated with praise which gradualy extinguisher the innate sconse of shme. resolved to exhilit belore the eyes of the Roman people those excreises which till then he hatd derently contined within the walls of his palare, and to the presence of a few favorites. (On the appointed day the varions motives of flattery, fan, and curiosity attracted to the amphitheatre an fummerable multitude of spectators; and some degree of applause was deservedly hestowed on the nueommon skill of the imperial performer. Whether he aimed at the head or heart of the animal, the womed was alike certain and mortal. With arrows whosc pint was shaper into the form of a crescent, commolus often intercepted the rapid carcer, and cut asmder the long, bony neek of the ostrich. A panther was let loose; and the areher waited till he had leaped upon a trembling malefartor. In the same instant the shaft flew, the beast dropped dead, and the man remained momurt. The dens of the amphithentre disgorged at onee a handred lions; a hamdred darts from the unerring hand of Commodus laid them deai as they rim raging around the Arena. Neither the huge bulk of the elephant nor the scaly hide of the rhinoceros could defend them from his stroke. Ethiopia and India yielded their most extraordinary productions; and several animals were slain in the amphithentre, which had heen seen only in the representations of art, or perhaps of fancy. In all these exhibitions the securest precautions were used to protect the person of the Roman Hercules from the desperate spring of any savage, who might possilly disregard the dignity of the emperor and the simetity of the god.-Gib"'on's Rome, ch. 4, p. 113.
3431. Marriage, Ceremony of. Fiom the Romens. Our narriage ceremonics are all Ro-man-the ring, the veil, the wedding gifts, the groomsman and bridesmaids, the bride-cake.Knight's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 3, p. 49.
3432. MARRIAGE cheap. Alexander Feith. [The Rev. Alexauder Keith, soon after the passage of the Marriage aet, had the reputation of marrying very chenp.] Many came to le married when they had half a crown in their pockets and sixpence to buy a pot of beer, and for which they had pawned some of their clothes. . . . His motto was, " Happy is the wooing that is not long a-doing.". . . Six thousand a year were married at his chapel.-KNight's Evi., vol. 6, ch. 12, p. 194.
3.433. MARRIAGE, Choice in. Samuel Johnson. Boswela: " Pray, sir, do you not suppose that there are fifty women in the world, with cany oue of whom a man may be as happy, ar vith any one woman in particular !" Jonsson: "Ay, sir, fifty thousand." Boswelal: "Then, sir, you are not of opinion with some who imagine that certnin men and certain wonen are manle for ach other, and that they can-; not be happy if they miss their comberpats."
 riages would in general be as happy, and often more so, if thry were all made by the Lord Chancellor, upon a due consideration of the charactersand cirenmstances. widhont the partios having any choiee in the matter: "-lboswembs Jomsinon, 1 , $28: 3$.
3434. MARRIAGE by Coercion. Willirm Hint. Auld Wiats som Willima, eaptured by sir Gideon Murray, of Elibank, during a radd of the Scotts on Nir Gideon's hads, was, as tradition satys, given his choice between heing hanged on Sir Gideon's mivate gallows, and marrying the ugliest of Nir Gideon's three ugly danghters. Meiklemouthen Meg, reputed as cirrying off the prize of ugliness among the women of four counties. sir William was a handsome man. He took three days to consider the alternative proposed to him, hut he chose life with the large-monthed lady in the end; and found her, according to the tradition which the poet, her descendant, has transmitted, an excellent wife, with a fine talent for pickling the beef whiels her husband stole from the herds of his foes. Meikle-mouthed Meg transmitted a distinct trace of her large mouth to all her descendants, and not least to him who was to use his " meikle" month to best alvantage as the spokesman of his race [Sir Walter Scott].-Hitron's Life of Scott, ch. 1.
3435. Marbiage declined. Quein Elizabeth. [Queen Elizabeth was urged by the House of Commons to become a married woman. She strongly expressed her constant preference for the unmarried state.]-Knight's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 8, p. 109.
3436. MARRIAGE, Denial of. Honoriu. The sister of Valentinim [the Roman emperor] was educated in the palace of Ravenar; and as her marriage might be productive of some danger to the State she was raised, by the title of Augusta, above the hopes of the most presimptuous subject. But the fair Monoria had no sooner attained the sixteenth year of her age than she detested the importunate greatness which must forever exclude her from the comforts of honorable love. In the midst of vain and unsatisfactory pomp Honoria sighed, yielded to the impulse of nature, and threw herself into the arms of her chamberlain Eugenims. Her guilt and shame (such is the absurd limguage of imperious mim) were soon betrayed by the apparances of pregnancy; but the disgrice of the royal family was published to the world by the imprudence' of the Empress Placidin.-Gibbox's Rome, ch. 25, p. 431.
3437. Marriage, A detested, Mury Queen of Scots. [After Mary Queen of Scotshad secured, as was believed, the murder of her first husbind, sle soon called upon Craig, a Protestant minister, to proclaim the bams of matrimony between herself and Bothwell. which he did in the High Chureh, adding,] I take heaven and earth to wituess that I abhor and detest this marriage. -Knigitis's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 9, p. 147.
3438. MARRIAGE, Disappointment in. David Crockett. He soon fell in love agaiu, at a ball, and, before the evening was finished, he wasengafed to be maricel, and it day was apmointed for him to amomece the fact to the ginl's purents. On the appointed diy he started for the yomig lady's mbode, but fatling in on the way with a gay party, he spent the whole night in a frolie; and when, the next morning, he appromeded the honse of his lady-love, he learned that she was to be married that evening to amother man. It is riding-whip slip]ed from his hamb, his juw fell, and he sat on his horse staring wildly at his informant. Ife recovered his spirits, hewever, went to the wedding, and danced all nigh, the merriest of the metry.-Cycloredia of Bioo., p. 666.
3.183. MARRIAGE dishonored. Time of Nero. Fanily life among the loonans had once been a surered thing, mad for five hundred mad twenty years divoree lad been mokown anong them. Culer the empire marriage had come to be regarded with disfavor and disdain. Women, as Shenca says, were murided in order to be divored. and were divorced in order to marry ; and noble Roman matrons comited the years, not by the consuls, but by their disearded or disearding husbands.-Fambar's Eahly Days, 1). 5.
3440. MARRIAGE, Dowry in. "Oren." At the age of twelve [Abyssinim] youths entertain views of mutrimony. Oxen form the hasis of their selection-that is to say, they marry the girl whose father can provide then wit h the most oxen. The chosen fair one need not be over nine years of age.-Aprleton's Cycloredla, "Abrisinia."
3a41. MARRIAGE, Early. Eight Years Old. [In 1396 Richard II., a widower, married lsabella, daughter of the King of France, she leing only eight yenrs old.]-Fivigut's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 2, 1. 27.
3442. - - Mrthomet. Ayesha . . . was donbtless a virgin, since Mahomet consummated his nuptials (such is the premature ripeness of the climate) when she was only nine years old. -Gibbon's Mahomet, p. 55.
3443. MARRIAGE encouraged. Orifin. The first sovereigns of all nations are said to have instituted narriage - Menes, the first king of Egypt; Fohi, the first sovereign of China; Cecrops, the first legislator of the Greeks. The earliest laws of many civilized antions likewise provided encouragements for matrimony. By the Jewish law a married man was for the first year excmpted from going to war and excused from the burden of any public office. Among the Peruvians he was free for a year from the payment of all taxes. The respect for the matrimonial union cannot be more clearly evinced than by the severity with which the greater part of the ancient nations restrained the crime of adultery.-Trtier's IIs'r., Book 1, ch. 3, p. 23.
3444. MARRIAGE excased. Henry VIII. His forth wife was Anne of Cleves, who did not retain his affections above nine months. He represented to his clergy that at the time he married her he had not given his inward consent; but it is less surprising that a monarch of this character should urge such an excuse, than that his clergy and Parliament should sustain it. Anne was divorced.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 20, p. 303.
3.s5. MARRIAGE, Extraordinary. J, It Jowarel. In his twenty-tifth yemr he had a long and dangerous illness. When he was first seiked he was living in lodgings near london, where he fancied lie was thot treated with the attention his case demanded. Ile conseguently removed to the honse of a widow, who was herself a confirmed invalid, and fifty-two years of age. This lady, who possessed a small Bndependence, nured him daring muny montles with such tender care that he felt toward leer an umbounded fratitude, and nupon his recovery he offered her his hand. . . . This singular mariage let ween a man of twenty-five and a wommen of tifty-two was prohluctive, us IIoward always averred, of nothing but happiness. After two years and a lalf of tranquil felicity the lady died.-Cychorema of Bioti., p. 33.

3-46. MARRIAGE, A forced. Princess Ame. [In 1490 Maximilian, King of the Rommens, wanterl the Princess Anne, the richlieiress of Francis, and with her the duchy of Brittany; and she entered into a contract of marringe with him.] Charles of France now put forth his pretensions to the hand of the lady. The contract was void, le said, becanse Brittany was a fief of France, and the lord conld control the marriage of an heiress who was his vassul. The argmment was supported by the emphatic presence of a French amy ; the princess, who resisted till resistance was no longer possible, was forced into a marriage which she hated and into the conelnsion of in treaty which placed the provinee, so long independent, under French rule.-KNigirt's Eig., vol. 2, ch. 13, p. 217.
3.47. MARRIAGE, A fortunate. Joltn Alloms. He was admitted to the bar, mud, returning to his father's house, endeavored to set up in the practice of his profession. IIis father lived then at Braintree, a small and obscure town fourteen miles from Boston, where there was very little chance for a young lawyer. For some years his gains were small and his anxieties severe. It was not until after lis father's death that his circumstances were allevinted, and he was enabled to marry. His marriage was one of the most fortunate ever contracted in this world; for not only was the lady one of the most amiable and accomplished of women, but, being a member of a numerous and influentinl family, she brought to her husband a great increase of business. He was then twenty-nine years of age.-CycloredIA OF Biog., p. 175.
3448. MARRIAGE, Happy. Peter Cooper. In 1814, before the war ended, lie contracted that exquisite marriage which gave lim fifty-five years of domestic happiness, as complete, as unalloyed, as mortals can ever hope to enjoy. It is believed by memhers of his family that during that long perior of time there was never an act done or a word spoken by either of them which gave pain to the other. They began their married life on a humble scale indeed. When a eradle became necessary, and he was called upon to rock it oftener thin was convenient, he invented a selfrocking eradle, with a fan attachment, which he patented, and sold the patent for a small sum. Cycloredia of Biog., p. $5 \% 2$.
3.49. MARRIAGE in Heaven. Sioedenborg. Swedenborg, in his treatise on Conjugal Love, first speaks of marriages in heaven. He shows that a man lives a man afier death, mad that a woman lives a woman; and since it was ordatined from cration that the wommen should be for the man, and the man for the woman, and thas that ench should le the other's, and sinse that love is immate in both, it follows that there are marringes in heaven as well as on earth. Damiago in the heavens is the conjunction of two into one mind. The mind of man consists of two parts, the understanding and the will. When these two purts act in unity, they ure called one mind. The moderstamding is predomintme in man, and the will in woman ; lont in the marriage of minds there is no predominance, for the will of the wife becomes nlso the will of the huslnmed, and the understanding of the hastmand is mlso that of the wife; because earch loves to will and to think as the other wills and thinks, and thas they will amd thirk mutanlly and reciprocally. Itence their romjunction ; so that in heaven two marricd partners are not called two, but one angel. -Wilite's Swedenibora, ch, 22, p. 191.
3.450. MARRIAGE, Ill-chosen. Catherine of $R$ nssia. [She was the dhurliter of a German prince, and married Peter, a dissiputed, valgar, cownrdly lassian prince.] On arriving at Moscow, in her fifteentle year, she was presented to her future husband, and, it is suid, conceived for him so profound a disgust that she fell sick, and was unable to reappear in public for several werks. She submitted, however, to $1 \times$ fate, and, after leing laptized into the ined $\because$ reh nonder the mame of Catherine, sl $-1, a s$ married to the imperial prince-he being seventeen years of age, and she sixteen. Schlom has there been a more ill-assorted union. Catherine was born to command, Peter was born to serve, She was a young lady of wit, information, and good breeding; lie knew no pleasures beyond those which he could enjoy in eommon with the besotted ofticers of the lmperial Guarl.-CreloPEDIA OF JBiog., p. 403.
3451. MARRIAGE, Ill-mated second. Jovis WII. The young Princess Mary, the sister of tho English king, wasmarried to the widowed Louis. But this lasty matel was followed by unforeseen and melancholy consequences. The king, whose health was declining, had for some time restricted himself to the simplest and most regnlar habits of life, dining early, and retiring to rest at sunset. In the society of his beantiful and light-hearted bride he was now indueed to engage in a round of exciting festivities, jll suite ${ }^{1}$ to his years and infirmities; his strength rapidly failed during the antumn, and lee expired at the pulace of the Tournelles, in the fifty-fourth year of his nge, on the 1st of January, 1515.-STudents' France, ch. 13 , 冬 9 .
3452. MARRIAGE, Imported for. Tirginians. In this condition of affairs Smith was superseded by Sir Edwyn Sandys, a mnn of great prudence and integrity.... By the influence of Sandys and his friends ninety young women of good breeding and modest manners were induced to emigrate to Jamestown. In the following year sixty others of similar good character came over, and received a hearty welcome. The statement that the early Virginians bought their wives is absurd. All that was done was this: wlien Sandys sent the first company of women to America, he charged the colonists with the expense of the voyage, a measure mude necessary by the fact that the compuny wasulnost bankrupt. An assessment was made according to the nimber who were brought over, and the rate fixed at a hundred and twenty pounds of tobneco for each pas-senger-a sum which the settlers cheerfully mid. The many marriages that followed were celebrated in the usual way, and nothing further was thought of the transaction. When the second shiplond came, the cost trunsportation was reported at a hundred und fifty pounds for each passenger, which was also puid without complaint.-Ridiratir's U. S., elf. 11, p. 111.
3.453. MARRIAGE, Inanspicious. Andren Juck: son's. [Young lawyer Jackson bonrded with Mrs. Donelson at Nashville, Tenn.] He soon discovered that Mrs. Roburds [her daughter] lived very unhappily with her husband, who was a mun of violent temper and most jealous disposition. Foung Jackson had not long resided in the family before Mr. Robards began to be jealous of him, and many vicient scenes took place between them. The jealous Roburds at length abandoned his wife, and went off to his old lome in Kentueky, leaving Juckson master of the field. . . A rumor soon after reached the place that Robards had procured a divorce from his wife in the legislature of Virginia, soon after which Andrew Jackson and Rachel Donelson were married. The rumor proved to be false, and they lived together for two years before a divorce was renlly granted, at the end of which time they were married again. This marriage, though so intuspiciously begun, was an eminently happy one, although out of doors it caused the irinscible Jackson a great cland of trouble. [See No. 105.]-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 534 .
3454. MARRIAGE, Incestuous, Ancient. The freedom of love and marriage was restrained among the Romans by natural and eivil impediments. An instinct, almost innate and universnl, appenrs to prohibit the incestuous commerre of parents and children in the infinite series of uscending and descending generations. Concerning the oblique and collateml branches, nuture is indifferent, reason mute, and eustom varions and arbitrary. In Egypt the marringe of brothers and sisters was admitted without scruple or exception ; a Spartan might espouse the danghter of his futher, an Athenian that of his mothcr; and the nuptials of an uncle with his niece were upplauded at Athens as a happy ninion of the dearest relations.-Gibibon's Rome, ch. 44, p. $3 \overline{5}$.
3455. MARRIAGE, Indecent. Queen of Scots. Tosatisfy the public opinion, however, Bothwell was tried by his peers for the murder of 1 arnley, and no evidence being brought against him, he was absolved by the veralict of a jury. The queen, who had never believed him grulty, had now, as she thought, a perfect assurnnce of his innocence. He stood high in her favor, and, prompted hy ambition, began to aspire at the dangerous honor of obtaining her hand in marringe. These views being known to Murray and his associates, seemed to afford, at length, a most promising menns for accomplishing the ruin of Mary, and throwing into their hands the government of the kingdom. It now, therefore, became their great object to bring about the marriage of Bothwell with the precn ; a formal deed, or bond, was for that purpose framed by the Earl of Morton and the char nobility of his party, recommending Bothwell, in the strongest terms, as the most proper person she could choose for a hushand. Mury gave in to the share ; she married Bothwell, a measure which is the most indefansible purt of hor conduet; for however she might have been persumbed of his innocence, of whith this recuest of her chief nobility was certainly a very strong testimony, yet the public voice still polnted him out us an ussoriate in the marder of her husband; and to marry this man was a measure as indecent us it was ruinous and impol-itic.-Tytlek's Hist., Book 6, ch. 28, p. 387.

BS56. MARRIAGF to Industry, Subines. When the Subines, after the war with the Romans, were reconciled, conditions were obtuined for the women, that they shoudd not be obliged hy their hushunds to do any other work besidle spinning. It was customary therefore, ever after, that they who gave the bride, or conducted her home, or were present on the occasion, should cry out, amid the mirth of the wedding, "Thelasins ": intimating that she was not to be employed in any other fabor but that of spinning. - PLerancit's Rowltues.
3457. MARRIAGE, Informal. Duke of Monmonth. [The day before his execution for reheldion hishops Fen and Turner visited the prisoner.] I[e maintained that his comection with Lally [IIenriotta] Wentworth was blameless in the sight of God. Ife had been murried, he said, when a child. Ite had never cured for his duchess. The hapjiness which he had not found at home be had songht in a round of loose amonrs, condemned hy religion and morality. Heurietta had rechamed him from a life of vice. To her he had been strictly constant. They had, hy common consent, offered up fervent prayers for the Divine guidance. After those prayers they had found their affection for eacio other strengthened; and they could then no longer doubt that, in the sight of God, they were a wedded pair. The bishops were so much senndalized by this view of the conjugal relation that they refused to administer the sacrament to the prisoner.-Macatlay's Eng., eh. 5, j. 577.
3.58. MARRIAGE, Irregular. Robert Burns. Jean Armour, the daughter of a respectable mas-ter-mason in that village, hat the chief place in his uffections. All throtigh 1785 their courtship had continued, but early in 1786 a serect and irregular marriage, with a written aeknowledg. ment of it, had to be effected. Then followed the father's indig' . in that his danghter should be married to so, ald and worthless a man as Burns ; eompulsion of his daughter to give up Burns, and to destroy the document which vonched their marriage; Burns' despair driving him to the verge of insanity ; the letting loose by the Armours of the terrors of the law ngrainst him; his skulking for a time in concealment: his resolve to emigrate to the West Indies, and become a slave-driver. . . In September of the same year Jean Armour became the nother of twin children.-Sianki's Berns, ch. 1.
3459. MARRIAGE, Kingdom for. Eurl Godvin. [In 1042 Earl Godwin foreed his daughter Edith upon Edward the Confessor, the king of about half of England, a man of forty, suy.
ing.] Swear to me that you will take my danghter for your wife, and It will give you the king. dom of Enarland. [Edward was unwilling to receive the kingilom with such an encumbrance.]Kivigitr's Exi., vol. 1, ch. 12, 1. 167.
3.60. MARRIAGE, Loone. Romams. Marriage, which under the ancient Romans was the most sacred of ties, had becone the lightest and the loosest. Cirero divorced Terentia when she whs old and ill-tempered, and married a young woman. (Guto made over his Marcia, the mothar of his chideren, to his friend IIortensius, and took her halek as a wealthy widow when Itortensius died. Pompey put awny his first wifeat Sylla's hidding, and took a second, who was alrealy the wife of another man. Camar, when little more than a boy, thared the Dictator's displeasnre rather than eondescend to a similar com-pliance.-Fholde's C.ebah, eh. 12.
3461. marriage, Mediation in. Isauc Neicton. One Mr. Smith, a clergyman of the neighborhood, who had a good estate, having attained middle age, and being still a machelor, one of his parishioners advised him to marry. He rel ied that he did not know where to get a grod wife. "The widow Newton," said his friend, "is au extraordiany good woman." "But," said the clergyman, "lhow do I know she will'have me? and I don't care to ask and be denied. But if you will go mand ask her, l'll pay you for your day's work." The gentleman having performed hisermand, Mrs. Newton answered that she would be gruided in the affair by the advice of her brother. Epon receiving this answer, the clergyman deppatched him to the brother, with whom the marriage was nrranged.-Pantos's Newtos, p. it.
3462. MARRIAGE, Meoknens in. "Count ILumford." [Benjamin Thompson, of Massachusetts, was Count of the Holy Roman Empire.] In Concord, at the time of Thompson's arrival, there dwelt the widow of a Colmel Rolfe with her infant son. Der husinand had died in Decemher, 1:71, leaving a large estate. . . . Rumforl, somewhat magnlantly, told his friend Pictet in after years that she married him rather than he lecr. She was obviously a woman of decision. As soon as they were ehgaged, mold comricle, left by her father, was tished up, and, therein monnted, she earried her betrothed to Boston, and committed bim to the care of the tailor and the hairdreser. This journey involved a drive of sixty miles. On the return they called at the house of Thompson's mother, who, when she saw him, is reported to have exclaimed, "Why, Ben, my son, how could you go and lay out all your winter's earnings in fincry ?", Thompom was nineteen when he marrial, his wife being thirty-three.-Tyndala's Cocita Rumpord.
2463. marriage, Modes of. Romens. There were three different modes by which marriage rouid be contracted tomong the Romans. The marriages of the patricians were celebrated in the presence of ten witnesses, and with a variety of religious ceremonies peculiar to their order. The plebeians married after two different forms: the one was by a species of sale, emptio venditio; and the other by the simple cohabitation of the parties for a year, which by law constituted a marriage.-Tytlen's Mist., Book 3, ch. 6, 1. 340.
3.164. MARRIAGE for Money. Cicero's. Cicero's freedman Tyro afllrms that he married his serond wite, after the divorce of hils first, for her wealth, lhat it might emble him to pay his dehts. She was, fudeed, very rich, and her forttune was in the hands of Cicero, who was left heer guardian. As his dehts were great, his friends and relations persunded hifu to marry the youngr lady, notwithstmading the dispurfy of years, and satisfy his creditors out of her fortune. -Pletalicies Ciceno.
3.465. $\qquad$ Lored Byron. Having squandered hisown fortune and that of his first wife, and inurred hamense debts, he cast his eyes upon Mism Catherine Gordon, a silly, romantic scotch girl of ancient family and large fortune, and openly avowed his intention to marry her for the sole purnose of paying off his debt:s. In money, stocks and land, the young lady possessed property equal to about a quarter of a million of our dollars, all of which, with her hand and heart, she bestowed upou this handsomae, fascianaing, und despicable debanchec. Before the honeymoon was over a crowd of ereditors came upon the husbmad of this fine estate. First, all the ready money was paid away-£3000. Next went the bank stock and fishery shares- $£ 1000$ more. Then, $£ 1500$ worth of timber was eut from the estate and solch. Next, fa000 were raised by a mortgage on the estate, and all paid to creditors. Finally, when they had been married less than two years, the estate was sold, and all the money which it yielded was poured into the botomless pit of Captain Byroa's debts, except a small sum necessary to secore Mrs. Byrou the anvual pittance named above. When he had wrung from her mll that she possensed, and even made away with part of her little annity, be ahndoned her and went off to the continent, leaving to her care their only son, a boy three years of age. . . . She loved him to the last.-Crclopedia of Biog., p. 290.
3466. - - Chivelry. The old days were passed, when the knight knelt at the feet of his lady-love, and went forth to the tournament to challenge min to produce her equal in benaty and virthe. The knight now ascertained what portion the lady's father would give, and he bargained for the uttermost crown. The mother made no hesitation in speaking boldly to "powerful person for a daughter, "to "get for her one good marriage if he knew any." [A.1. 1450-148j.] - Knicirt's Evg., vol. 2, ch. 8, 1. 123.

3:167. MARRIAGE without Money. Themistocles. Two citizens courting his daughter, he preferred the worthy man to the rich one, mand assigned this reason-he had rather she shoukd nave a man without money than money without a min.-Pletarcits Ciceibo.
3468. MARRIAGE, Morals in. Semuel John. son. "In religion men and women do not concern themselves much about difference of opinion ; and ladies set no value on the moral character of men who pay their addresses to them ; the gratest protligate will he as well received as the man of the grentest virtue, and this liy a very good woman, by a woman who says her prayers three times a dny." Our ladies endeavored to defend their sex from this charge, but he roared themdown. "No, no: a lady will take Jomathan Wild as readily as St. Austin, if he has three-pence more; and, what is worse, ber parents will give her to him. Women have a perpetual envy of our vires; they are less vicions than we, not from choice, but bramse we restrict them; they are the slaves of order and fashion ; their virtue is of more consernence to us thm our own, so far us eoncerns this world.' - Boswele's Joinson, p. 5is.
3468. - - Needful. When a proposnl was made to Oliver Cromwell that Charles [II.] should marry his daughter, the Protector objected his "debmuched hfe" as an insnpernble difficulty.-Kingut's Eng., vol. 4, eh. 14, p. 231.

3a70. MARRIAGE, Name by. Charles $I T$. Charles, while a wanderer on the Continent, had fallen in at the Hague with Lucy Walters, a Welsh girl of great beauty, but of weak understanding and dissolnte manners. She becane his mistress, and presented him with a son. A suspicions lover might have had his doubts; for the lady had several admirers, and was not supposed to be cruel to any. Charles, however, readily took her word, and poured forth on little James Crofts, as the boy was then called, an overtiowing fondness, such as scemed hardly to belong to that easy but cool and carcless nature. Soon after the Restoration the young favorite, who had learned in France the exercises then considered necessary to a fine gentleman, made his appearance at Whitehall. He was lodged in the palace, attended by pages, and permitted to enjoy several distinctions which had till then been contined to princes of the blood royal. He was married, while still in tender youth, to Anne Scott, heiress of the noble liouse of Bueclench. He took her mame, and received with her hand possession of her ample domains. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 233.

3f71. MARRIAGE, Promoted by. By Government. Majorian, the Romam emperor, conceived that it was his interest to increase the number of his subjects, and that it was his duty to guard the purity of the marriage-bed ; but the means which he employed to accomplish these salutary purposes are of an anbiguons and perhaps exceptionable kind. The pions maids, who consecrated their virginity to Christ, were restrained from taking the veil till they had reached their fortieth yenr. Widows under that age were compelled to form asecond alliance within the term of five years, by the forfeiture of half their wealth to their nemrest relations, or to the State. Cnequal marriages were condemacd or amulled. The punishment of contiscation and exile were deemed so inadequate to the guilt of adultery, that if the eriminal returned to Italy, he might, by the express declaration of Majorian, be slaia with impunity.-Gimton's Rome, ch. 36, p. 479 .

347\%. MARRIAGE, Proposal of. By Women. Kadidjah became attached to Mahomet.] She did not dare, according to the Arabian usage, to speak herself to him of her feedings. She had it done by an old man attached to her house. The messinge which she sent by him ran tis follows: "My cousin, the relationship that exists between our families, the precocions consideration that surromids thee, thy wisdom and thy fidelity in the condact of my caravans, combine to make me desire to be thine.'-Lamamine's Turkey, p. 64.
3478. Marriage by Proxy. Anne of Brittany. The young durhess.. . . Iesieged hy contending suitors for her hand, was at length induced. by the counsels of Dunois, to favor the pretensions of Maxinilian of Austria; mal a marriage between them was secretly solemuized by proxy in the summer of 1490 , all forms being carefinlly observed on the occasion whieh could tend to make the contract hinding and irrevocable.Students' Fllance, ch. 12, § 13.
3474. $\qquad$ Prince Arthur. In 1499, when [Prince] Arthur had reached his twelfth year, the marriage ceremony was performed, the Spanish princess being represented by proxy: [She was (atherine of Aragon.] - Kivigur's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 15, p. 235.
3475. - Ilearellyn-Eleanora. Before the death of the widow of Lecicester [Simon de Montfort], in 1275, the young Elemama [her daughter] was married by proxy to [Llewellyn] the Welsh prince, who kept that faith to the poor and exiled orphan which he had vowed in the days of her prosperity. - Knigitr's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 25, p. 383.
3476. MarRiage, Recklessneas in. Princess Ihonoria. [See No. 3436.] Her impatience of long and hopeless celibacy urged her to embrace a strange and desperate resolation. The name of Attila was familiar and formidable at Constantinople ; and his frequent embassies entertained a perpetual intercourse between his camp und the imperial palace. In the pursuit of love, or rather of revenge, the daughter of Placidia saerificed every duty and every prejudice, and offered to deliver her person into the arms of a barbarian, of whose language she was ignorant. whose figure was scarcely human, and whose religion and manners she abhorred. By the ministry of a faithful emmeh she transmitted to Attila a ring, the pledge of her affection, and earnestly conjored him to clam her as a hawfinl spouse, to whom he had been sceretly betrothed. These indecent advanees were received. however, with colthess and disdain.-Gibbon's Rone, ch. 3ī, p. 431.
3.177. Marriage of Relatives, Widdle Ages. The subserviency of . . . [Robert II.] to the domineering spirit of the popedom lad its matural effeet in exciting the holy fathers to further exerrises of authority. Robert had been exconmunicated for marrying his relation; and lis grandson, Philip I., was exconmmicated for divoreing a lady who was lis relation, to make why for a mistress. Of all the superstitions of these times, it was not the least prejudicial to the welfire of States that the marriage of relations, even to the serenth degree was prohilsited by the Chured. Henry, the father of Philip I. of France, to whom ahmost all the sovercigns of Europe were related, was obliged to seek a wife from the barharons empire of Rasisia. - Tythen's Hist., Book 6, ch. T, p. 123.
3.178. MARRIAGE repeated. Julins Cusar. It is characteristic of the manners of the age that Julius Cesar had married four times, Augustus thrice, Tiberius twice, Gaius thrice, Clandius six times, and Nero thrice. Yet Nero was the last of the Cresars, even of the ndoptivo line. No descendants land survived of the offspring of so many unions, and, as Merivale says, "n large proportion, which it would be tedious to culenlate, were the victims of domestle jealousy and politic nssmssimition."-Fahmar's Early Days, ch. 1, p. 13.
347D. Marriage, Repetition of. Condemned. The primitive idents of the merit nud holiness of celibacy were preached by the monks and entertuined by the Greeks. Marriage was allowed us a necessary means for the propngation of munkind ; after the denth of either party the survivor might satisfy, by a second union, the weakness or the strength of the flesh; but a thirel marringe was censured as a state of legal fornicution; and a fouth was a sin or a scandal as yet unknown to the Christime of the East.-Ginnon's Rome, ch. 48, p. 602.
3480. MARRIAGE, Romantio. Garibaldi. Once, when in a melancholy mood, ufter seeing sixteen of his beloved Itadian comrades perish by shipwreek, he thought to relieve his sndness hy marrying. He canght sight in a window of a graceful femmle form. Ife knew not who she was, nor to what family she belonged ; but something tid him that she was the destined woman. $\Lambda$ friend introduced him that very day, and ere many weeks had rolled by he was her husband. In many a rough campaign she marehed by his side; on many a voyage slie shared his cabin; and she died, at last, of fatigue and exposure in Italy, leaving three children to mourn her loss. The great, soft-hearted Garibaldi has ever since reproached himself bitterly for having taken her away from her safe and happy home to share the lot of a soldier of liberty. Over her dead body, he says, he prayed for forgiveness for the smof taking her from home. She, however, had never repined, but really seemed to enjoy the life of battle and adventure which her hushand led.-Cyclopedata of Biog., p. 495.
3481. MARRIAGE, Second. Simuel Johnson. A gentleman who had been very manhpy in marriage married immediately after his wife died. Johnson said [to Dr. Maxwell] it was the trimmph of hope over experience.-Boswell's Jomison, p. 1 \%\%.
3482. $\qquad$ Stmuel Johnson. When I cousured a gentleman of my acquaintance for marrying a second time, as it showed a disregard of his first wife, he said, "Not at all, sir. On the contrary, were he not to marry again, it might be concluded that his first wife had given him a disgust to marriage; but by taking a second wife he pays the highest compliment to the first, by showing that she made him so happy as a married man that he wishes to be so a second time." -Boswell's Joinson, p. 160.
3483. MARRIAGE, Secret. Spartan. The Spartan marriages were performed in secret ; the lusband stole away, or forcibly carricd away, his wife; she was dressed for some time in man's apparel, to conceal her ; while the husband continued to sleep as usual in the public dormitorics with his companions, and to see his wife only by stealth, till the birth of a child made him known at once as a husbmad and a father. -Tytler's Hist., Book 1, ch. 9, p. 94.
3.184. MARRIAGE seoured. Auction. Herodotus. . . relates a slingulur pructice which previled among the Assyrims with respeet to marriage, though it seems to luve a nuturnl fourdition in the custom above mentioned, which prevuiled in most of the uncient mations. In every village, suys that author, they brought together once in the year all the young women who were marriagemble, and the public crier, beginning with the most beautiful, put them up to anction one nfter another. The rich paid nhigh price for those whose figure seemed to them the most agreenble; and the money raised ly the sale of these wis assigned as in portion to the more homely. When it was their turn to be put up) to sale, each womm was bestowed on the man who was willing to necept of her with the smallest portion; but no man was allowed to carry off the womm he had purelused, miless he gave secarity that he wonld take her to wife; mad it nfterward it happened thit the hushand for any cause put uwny his wife, he was obliged to pay back the money he had received with her:Tytlen's IIst., Book 1, ch. 3, p. 24.
3485. MARRIAGE, Selection in. Russiams. The lhassinns, who have borrowed from the Grecks the greatest part of their civil and ecclesinstical poliey, preserved, till the last century, n singnlar institution in the marringe of the Czar. They collected, not the virgins of every runk and of every province-a vain and romantic idea-but the laughters of the principal nobles, who awaited in the palace the choice of their sovereign. It is nffirmed that a similur method was adopted in the muptials of Theophilus. Witha golden apple in his hand, he slowly walked between two lines of contending beanties; his eye was detained by the charms of Ieasia, and in the wwkwardness of a first declaration, the prince could only observe that, in this world, women had been the cause of much evil. "And surely, sir," she pertly replied, " they, have likewise been the occasion of much grood." This nffectation of unseasomable wit displeased the imperial lover; he turned aside in disgust ; Icasia concenled her mortification in a convent ; and the modest silence of Theodora was rewarded with the grolden apple.-Gibion's Rone, ch. 48, p. 594.
3486. MARRIAGE, Sensational. Luther. The wedding ceremony took place in the customary manner. Bugenhagen pronoune them man and wife, and ndded God's blessing. The wedding-rings of Lather and Catharine, the gift of a friend, have heen preserved in the Museum of Brunswick. They are artistically made, and bear the inscription, "What God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."... In a fortuight thereafter the usual wedding festivities were held, to which Lather invited his parents and friends. From the university Luther received a finely engraved silver tankard, now in possession of the University of Greifswald. The electoral court furnished a ronst of venison, and the city authorities $n$ generous supply of wine. . . . And thus the unprecedented had happened -an expelled monk had married a runawny nun! Great was the talk and the commotion that ensued! Luther's enemies derisively reminded him of the old legend that of such a union Antichrist would be begotten. Many of his best friends, Melanebthon among the number, were tronbled about his act.-REIN's LuTHER, ch. 15, p. 134.
3.187. Marriage, a splendid. Priuce Rupert. In 1613 the murringe ol' Elizahneth of Engfand, the danghter of James I., was solemnized, in her sisteenth yonr, with the Priner lanatine. the Elector of Bohemia. If we may judge from contemporaneons chronicles, the beanty of this only surviving sister of Charles was singular ; she was called the "Pearl of Britain" and the " Qucen of llearts;" while the charming symmetry of her form nod femtures are sad to lave been emhnneed hy the exquisite play of soft expression over her face. It has been sald that history borrows the colors of romance when she paints this fair young princess on the morning of her maringe, as she passed nlong to the chapel over a gallery raiced for the purpose, glowing in all the lights of loveliness mat majesty, armyed in white, her rich dark hair falling over her shoulders, and on her head a erown of pure gold; one hand locked in that of her brother Charles, mod the other leaning on the arm of the old Earl of Northampton ; her train of noble bridesmaids followed on her steps. It is suid that Eughand had never seen the equal to the sumptuous splendor of this marriage ; the bravery and riches were incomparable, the gold, the silver, the pearls, the dimmonds and every variety of jewels. The king's, fuecn's, mil prince's jewols wore valued nlone int fe000,000 sterling. Then came magnificent masgues, and the mock fight upon the Thmmes; mind then some gay masulue representing the marringe of the Thmes and the Rhine; and at night fireworks blazing over London. For the marriage was vely popular, and was supposed to be a good omen for the cause of Protestantism.Hood's Chomwela, ch. 9, p. 128.
3.188. MARRIAGE, Surprise by. John Mitton. In the carly part of the summer of 1643 Nitton took a sudilen journey into the country, " nobody about hin certainly knowing the reason, or that it was noy more than a journey of recereation." He was absent about a month, aurl when he returned he brought back in wife with him. Nor was the bride alone. She was attended " by some few of her nearest relations," and there was fensting and celebration of the nuptials in the honse in Aldersgnte Street. . . . Milton, with a poet's want of cantion, or indifference to money, and with a lofty masculine disregard of the temper and character of the girl he asked to share his life, came home with his bride in triumph, and held feasting in celebration of his hasty and ill-considered choice. It was a begiming of sorrows to him.-Militon, hy M. Patitison, ch. 5.
3189. MARRIAGE, Uncertain. Rrign of Elizabeth. When Parker [Arehbison of C'imterhury] was firm in resisting the introdaction of the cruditix or of eelibacy, Elizabeth showed her resentment by an insult to his wife. Married ladies were addressed at this time as " malam," ummarried ladies as " mistress;" but the marringe of the clergy was still unsanctioned by law, for Elizabeth had refused to revive the statute of Edward by which it was allowed, and the position of a priest's wife was legally a very doubtful one. When Mrs. Parker, therefore, ad vanced at the close of a smmptions entertains ment at Lambeth to take leave of the queen, Eliznbeth felgned a momentary hesitution. " Mudam," she suid at last, " I may not eall you, and mistress I am loath to call yoil lowerere, I thank you for your good checr."-IIst. of Ena. Peolie, $\ddagger 703$.
8.400. MARRIAGE, Unendurable, Juhn Mitton. In his thirty-tifth year, just as the civil war was netually beginning, he went into the eountry, telling no one the object of the journey. A mouth after he returned home a marricel man, bringing his wife with him. She was agood enough country girl, the dhughter of inn ald friemd of Milton's father, hat as unsuitable a wife for John Milton as any womm in England. She was ruther stupid, very ignorant, fond of phensure, acenstomed to go to rombtry halls and dance with gay young oflheres. Dilton wasa grave, anstere student, nhisorhed in the weightiest puhlic topies, mud living only in his hooks and in his thonghts. The poor girl fomme his home so intolerably dull, that, after a short trial of it, she asked 'enve to go lome for a short visit, and, being it home, she positively refused to go brick. Ite was not less ilisgusted with her ; and his sufferings lemeling him to study the great questions of marriage and divorese he rame to the condasion that divorce ought to be about as free and about as easy ins mariage. Jo published divers pmonhlets on this sulijert, the substanse of whieh is this: that when man und wife, after a fair und fall trial. find ther cmonot live together a peace, and both deliberately rhoose to separate, there ought to ber no legal obstacle to their doing so, provided always that proper provisiou he made for the support and edncation of the ehideren.-Cyclopedia of Вики., p. 170.
3491. MARRIAGE, Unequal. Sommel Johnsom. A young lacly, who had married a man much her inferior in rank, being mentioned, a guestion mose how a wommens relations should behave to her in such a sitmation. . . . 1 contended that she ought to be treated with min intlexible stemblibess of displeasure. . . Jomason : "Madam, we mast distinguish. Were I a man of rank, I would not let a danghter starve who had made a mean marriage ; bat having voluntarily degraded herself from the station which she was originally entitled to hold, I would sup)port her only in that which she herself hand chosen, and would not put her on a level with my other danghters. You are to consider, madam, that it is our duty to maintain the subordination of civilized soriety : and when there is a gross and shamoful deviation from rank, it shond be punisherd so as to deter others from the same perversion."-Boswela's Jonsion, p. Detl.
3492. MARRIAGE, Unfit for. Simul Jolunson. Marriage is the best state for man in general ; and every man is a worse man in proportion as he is unfit for the married state.-BosWell's Jonnson, p. 282.
3493. MARRIAGE, Unhappy. Shakesperere. Now we come to the great calamity of Shakespeare's life. One of his father's friends was Richard Lhathaway, a substantial farmer near Stratford, who had a danghter, Anne, eight years older than Shakespeare. When he was a boy of eighteen and she a woman of twenty-six they were married; nul tive momths after thelr flent rhild wis born. No one who has murh knowlergre of hannan nuture nereds any evidence that such it marthge was a ceasedess misery and shame to him as long nes he lived. The immy ] mssages of his works in whle hunfavornhle virws sue siven of the lemate eharacter rexemb the melanelogly futh. The ill-starred comple land all of whom were hom lefore the father was twenty one-the two hast-nanad being twins.

There is at good reason to brelleve that from bis twentr-flost year he had nevor been a husbund to his wife, mud really lad no home. -

3.19.I. MARRIAGE, Unsafe. Mity Queen of Srote. She was recrurded us aceersory to her lussbund's assassination.] "Would you like to marry my sister of Scotland :" ironitally usked Elizaibeth of the Earl of Norfolk, who was believed to lie smitten by the charms of his prisoner. "Mudam," replied the enrl, horrified at such an inlen, "I slabll never esponse a wife whose husbind cannot lity his hend with safety on his pillow. "Lamattine's Many (QUEEN OF Scots, 1. 38.
3495. MARRIAGE, Vow of. C'uptain Cook. During one of his visits to Fingland ho married at girl fifteen years of ure, whom he had held nt the baptismal font in har infancy, and whom he lud then sadd he would marry. He was nineteen when lie made this vow, and thirty-lour when he fultilled it. Ile was a snilor in it eonl ship when he held the laby in his arms at the altur ; he was a rising naval officer when, to the same altar, he led the blooming bride.-('yctooPEDIA of IBIOA., p. 380.
3.196. MARRIAGE, A wicked. Mily Guepn of tiots. [Bothwel] issassimuted Darniley, her husband. See No. 2188.] She only refused Bothwell one thing-the tutelage and gunrdianshij] of ler son, who whe kept at Stirling. Violent and noisy equarrels took place about this at IIolyrood, even on the evening before the marringe of the widow and lier husband's ussussin. The French ambassador heard the turmoil. Bothwell insisted, and the queen, determined to resist, called loudly for in dagger whorewith to kill hersielf. "On the day after the ceremony," writes the ambassador, "I perreived stringe clouds on the countriances both of the queen and her hasband, which she tried to exruse, satying that if I satw her sal it was lurainse she hind no reason to rejoice, desiring nothing but death." -Lamaitinfis Maky Queke of Scots, p. 36.
3.19\%. MARRIAGE, A worthy. John Allims. A few days nfter. John $A$ dimms land heen pressented to George IlI. nand Quren Charlote, his wife and dinghter ware obliged, by the established etipuctite, to take part in a similar ceremony. Mr. Adams had an advantage over almost all the revolutionary fathers in possessing a wile who was fully his equal in undersianding. The wives of Washington and Franklin were most estimable ladies, lut they had no intellectual tastes, and would hatrdly have held their gronnd in a conversation upon literatare or science. Mrs. Adams, however, was really a very superior woman. Besides having an ample share of Fiankee sense and shrewdness, besides being an excellent mannger and housekerper, she was fomd of books, persossed constalerable knowledge, and wrote lotters guite un sprightly mal catcritaining, mat murh more seonsible mal hnstructive, than those of Malame ale Sévigné or Lady Mary Wortly Montagit, who are so famonis for their letters. Whan we rend hor ex. collent ephstas, wo con hardly believe, what is nevertheless true, that she was born and bred in a comntry pursomage in New England, mad never went to sifhool one day ln lier life. She owod her excerlent educntion wholly to ber parents and relations, and to her own remarknhle quick. ness of mind. - C'iclorition of IBio(b., p. 186.
3.88. MARRIAGES, Hixed, Romans. A just regurd to the purlty of descent preserves the harmony of pmblicind privite life; but the mixture of forcign blood is the frust ful source of disorder and discord. Nuch had ever heen the opinion and pructice of the suge Romnns; their jurisprudence proscribed the marringe of a cltizen and a strunger; in the dhys of frecelom mind virtue a semor would have scorned to match his dnughter with a king; the glory of Mark Antony was sullied ly an Egyptinn wife ; and the limperor Thitus was competled, by populur censure, to dismiss, with reluetnnere, the reluctnnt 13 erenice. This perpetnal interdict was ratitied by the fintulonss sanction of the great Constantinc.- Gismon's /ROME, rh. 51, p. 3 3n9.
3.199. MARRIAGES, Roman. C'ustoms. Experience has proved that suvages are the tyrnits of the femme sex, and that the condition of womnn is usually softened liy the refinements of social life. In the hope of a rolmst. proereny, Lyenargas had delayed the semson of marriage ; it was fixerl ly Numa it the tender age of twelve venss, that the Roman hashand might erlaconte to his will a pure nmd oberlient virgin. Aerording to the custom of matiguity, he lought his bride of her parents, and she fillilled the comption by purchasing, with three pieces of copper, a just introduction to his house and household deities. A sucrifice of frints was offered by the pontiffs in the presence of ten witnesses; the contracting. parties were seated on the sume sheerp-skin; they tasted a salt cake of far or rice; and this comfiareation, which clenoted the ancient food of Italy, served as an cmblem of their mystic union of mind and body. But this union on the side of the woman was rigorons amd unc(ubal ; and she renomeed the name and worship of her father's house to embrace a new servinule, decornted only by the title of adoption, a tiction of the law, neiflier ratiomal nor elegant, bestowed on the mother of a family (her proper appellation), the strange characters of sister to her own children, and of danghter to her hasmand or master, who was invested with the plenitude of paternal power. By his judgment or eaprice her behtvior was mppowed or censured or chastised; he exeredsed the juristliction of life and death; and it Was allowed that in the cases of adultery or drankenness the sentence miant be properly inthicted. She acquired and inherited for the sole proft of her lord ; and so elearly was woman dofined, not as a jeraon, but as a thing, that, if the origimal title were deficient, she might be claimed, like other movables, by the use and possession of an entire yenr.-Gibinon's Rome, ch. 44, p. 345.
3500. MARTYR, A false. Reign of Jelnes II. [Rochester, the Lord Treasurer, had sat in a tribunul whleh perserdited the Finhblished Charch; to savo his ollue he alfectad lo dombt her orthodoxy. [See (olller, Love of, No. 3sit.] Vethe was "xtolled by the great baly of charehmon ns it he lad berom the havest mud purest of martyrs. 'The: Old mad New 'Testaments, he Martyrologias of Guseblas nod of Fox, wore ramsacked to that parablels for his licrole ploty. lie was Dianiel in the den of lions, Sharlach in the thery finmace, Peter in the dingeon of llerod. Pani nt the larer of Nero, Ignuths in the maphithentre, latimer at the ntake. - Mactiveay's EiNi., ch. 6, p, 144.
3501. MARTYR, A sinful. Linrd ('hurrhill. The most renurkable letter was from Churchill. It was writton with that matural chopuence which, illiterate ns he was, he never wated on gront oocuslons, and with an air of magnaninity which, perfldous as he was, he cond with singular dexterity assume. The Princess Anne, he suinl, hat communded him to nssure her ilhastrious relatives at the Hague that she was fully resolveal, by God's help, rather to lose her life than to be guilty of apostasy. As for hinself, his places nud the royal finvor wrere as nothing to him in compurison with his rellgion. Ile concluded by decharing, in lofty language, that, though he could not pretend to havelived the life of a suint, he should be found ready, on oceasion, to die the death of a martyr. - Macaulay's ENo., ch. 7, p. 240.
3502. MARTYRDOM coveted. Quakers in Masmichisetts. Sone of the Qunkers were extravarint and foolish; they cried out from the windows at the inagistrutes and ministers that passed by, and mocked the civil und religions institutions of the conntry. They riotously interrupted public worship; and women, forgetting the decorum of their sex, und elaiming a divine origin for their absurd caprices, smeared their faces, and even went maked throngh the streets. [Yet] . . . a fanlt agniast mammors may not be pmashed by a crime ngrainst mature. -Bancilofris C'. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
3503. - Eurly Christians. We can more casily admire than imitate the fervor of the thst Cliristimus, who, according to the lively expression of Sulpicius Severus, desired martyrdom with more eagerness than his own contemporaries solicited a bishopric. .

Some stories ure related of the cournge of mariyrs, who actually performed what Igniatius had intended, who exusperated the fury of the lions, pressed the eaecutioner to hasten lis office, che erfully lenpeat iuto the fires which were kindled to conssume them, mad discovered a sensation of joy mad pleasure in the midst of the most expuisite tor-tures.-Ghmon's Romse, ch. 16, p. 41.
3504. MARTYRDOM, Devotion to. John Khor. Knox was the Savourroh of Edinhurgh; as overbearing, popular, and cruel as he of Florenee, he stood alone between the people, the threne, and the Parliament as a fourth power, representing sucred sedition-t power which claimed a place side hy side with the other powers of the State; a man more to be feared by the queen because his virtue wis, so to spenk, a kind of famatical conscience. To lecome a martyr or to make martyrs for what he believed to be the cuuse of God were to him indifferent. He was ready to give himself up to the death, and why should he hesitate to devote others to the seaffold :-Lamahtinein Miny Quelen of scotn, p. 11.
3505. MARTYRDOM, Eminence by. Thomacs Berfert. After astormy parlay with him in his chamber, they withitrew to arm. Thomms was harried by hiselarks into the cathedral. hat us he rearhal the steps lading from the transept to the cholr, his pursiners burse in from the cloisters. "Where," cried Iteginuld Fitzusse, in the chask of the dimiy lighted minster-" where is the trattor, Thomme Becket ?" The primato tumed resolutely batek: "1tere min I, no traitor, hot a priest of God," he replied, mul ugatudeserming the steps, he phe a pillar, ind fronted his foes. All the bravery and violence of his ohd kinighty life seremed to revive in Thomas as he tossed burk the thrents nand demands of his nssailants. "You are our" prisoner," shouted Fitzurse, mul the four knights scized him to drug him from the church. "Do not touch me, Reginald," cried the primate: "pundrer that you ure, you owe me fealty :" and availing himself of his persomal sirength he shook him ronghly off, "Strike, strike," retorted Fit\%urse, and blow nfter how struck Thomas to the ground. A retainer of Ranalf de Broc with the point of his sword scuttered the primate's brains on the grownd. " 1.el us be off," he cried, tri-: umphantly ; "this traitor will never risenguin." The brutal murder was pererved with it thill of borror throughout Christembom; minacles were wrought at the martyr's tomb, he was canonized, and became the most popular of English saints. The stately " murtyrfom" whieh rose over his relies at Canterbury secmed to embody the triumph which his hood lad won.Hist. of Engi,isit Peohle:, 冬 138.
3506. MARTYRs, Fanatical. Donutists. Many famties were possessed with the horror of life and the desire of martyrdom, and they deemed it of little moment by what means or by what hamds they peris. d, if their conduct was sanctitied by the intention of devoting themselves to the glory of the true faith and the hope of etermal happiness. Sometines they rudely disturbed the festivals and profaned the temples of paganism with the design of exciting the most realous of the idolaters to revenge the insulted honor of their gods. They sometimes forecd their way into the courts of justice, and compelled the affrighted juige to give orders for their inmediate exceution. They frequently stopped travellers on the public highways mid obliged them to inflict the stroke of maryrdom, by the promise of a reward, if they consented, mind by the threat of instant denth, if they refinsed to grant so very singular a favor. When they were disappointed of every other resource, they announced the day on which, in the pressuce of their friends und brethren, they shombl cast themselves hemdiong from some lofty rock; and many precipiecs were shown which had nequired fame by the number of religions sutcides. In the netions of these desperate cnthusinsts, who were admired by one party ats the martyrs of God and abhorred by the other as the vietims of Satan, an impartial philosopher may discover the influence and the hast almase of that intlexible spirit which was originally derived from the character and principles of the Jewish mation-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 21, p. 363.

S507. MARTYR8, Firat. Eingliwh, [|n 15inj John Rogers was birnt int the stake in Simiththeli, lawrence samulers was harnt nt Coven. try, John Hooper was lumat at Bloncester, mai Rowlami 'raylor was liment at Imaleigh. These were four of the tiset Jrotestont martyrs binent in Einglnmal.|-K゙Nunt's ENo., vol. i3, cls, 13. j. 70.

B50§. MARTYR8, Misalonary. Jsamit Irienta. Broburif was wrt aburt on a mentlold. They (the Mohawks) ent bis lower lip mal his noser, njplied burning torehes to his body, burmed his gioms, mad thrist host iron down his thront. The delicate lallomand was atripperi maknd, mul enveloped from hadi to foot with limek fiall of rosin. Brought into the presence of Broheraf, hexclamed, "We are malle a sprotacle monte the worth, and to mugeds, and men !" The pine mark was set on tlee, ami when lt was in a hlaze boiling water was pented on the beade of both the mixsionaries, 'The voice of lallomand was choked by the thick smoke; but the tire having shappod his bomds, he lifted his bunds to beave. en. Brehanf was sealped while yot alive, and died after a torture of three hours ; the sniferings of lallemand wore protracted for seventern hours. The lives of hoth had been a contimual 3509. MARTYRS tortured. B!/ Vero. Imagine that uwfind scerne, one witnosed, . . in tho sphare before it. Peter's at Rome! Imagine it. that we may realize bow vast is the change whieh ('Iristianity has wrought in the forlings of mankind! There, whare the vast dome now rises, were once the gartiens of Noro. They were thronged with gay ratowis, momong whom the emperor moved in his frivolons degrmintions, nand on every side were men dying slowly on their cross of shame. Along the paths of those gardens on the nutamm nights were ghastly torches, blackening the ground benenth them with streans of sulphurous piteh, and ench of those living torehes was in martyr in his shirt of fire. And in the nmphitheatre haril lyy, in sight of twenty thousand spectutors, fumished dogs were tenring to pieces some of the brist and pur. est of men and women, hideously dispuised in the skins of bears or wolves. Thus did Nero Imptize in the blood of martyrs the city which Wins to be for agres the capital of the world :Failiali's Eabliy Days, ch. 5, p. 39.

3510. MARTYR8, True. Syriom Doctors. Anong the suppliants mad captives Timour distinguished the doetors of the law, whom he invited to the dungerous honor of a personal conference. $\qquad$ To these cloctors he proposed a captions puestion, which the consuists of Bokhara, Sumarcabl, and lierat were incupable of resolving. "Who are the true martyrs, of those who ure slain on my side, or on that of my enemies?" But he was silenced, or satisfied, by the dexterity of one of the cadhis of Aleppo, who replied, in the words of Mahomet himself, that the motive, not the ensign, constitutes the martyr ; and that the Moslems of either party, who fight only for the glory of God, may deserve that sacred appellation. -Gibbon's Rome, ch. 65, p. 262.
3511. MARVELS, Age of. Age of Thesens. It is principility on the age of Theseus that the Greeks have indulged their vein for the marvel:
loms. Everthing insupremathmal andevary grant mam is elther a god or a domi exol. Thee mont probablar mentre of this 1 conceive to be that the prlaces, who hal thon lerome renlly powerfal, und exercised it high control over theirsalijceets, takfing mivminge of the mipurstitlons charater of the thmes, ubil of the people's credality, as. Numed to themselves it divine origin, in order the better to support their new mathority. lave ing at all thenes ille priestes under their intluence. thay could elo this with grent facility, ly inselituting religions rites in honore of the it divime progentoms : and if they conld thas prevall so far as to puss with their contempornries for the offspring of the godis, it is no wonder that the surereeding uges shombil retnin the same dian of them. - T'viderin list., lbook 1, ch. 8, i. 70 .
83512. MAsQUERADE, Doadly. C'mile's IT . The young memurel! was mufertimntoly scizedi with in deprivation of his intellerts, which broke out in the most droudful tits of molness. Thas ingormace of men in these nges atitributed this fintal hut miturn colamity to the elforts of witcheraft. In laninn lady, the wifu of his brother, the Duke of Orlems, was neremed as the muthor of his misfortmos, nul the suspidem was incransed by a very strmane nceblent. In a mans. rucerade at count the king uppenred in the grarb of a widd man, covered with loaves, which were stmek with jitch upon $n$ riose hnbit of linen, nui he led in elmins four other sutyrs, olressed fin the sume mamer. The Jake of (O) fems, who held a burning lorcd. "pprosehed aceidentnily too near these combustible kndehts; one of the bubits took flre, and the forme satyrs, who were four of the principal nobility, wore burnt to death. The king escujed with life, lat was seized with a dreadful itt of frenzy. To relieve him, they sent for a magician from Montpelier, and he became somewhat better. The fact was, his disense had lucid intervols, and in these he sometimes resumed the management of his kingitom-whieh was of the worst eonsefuence 10 France, for no monsure was ever pursued to min end or with stability.-TyTseris lifist., Book 6, ch. 13.
3513. MASSACRE, Evidence of. Iomis II. The Orientai writers confess that Louis might have escuped, if he would have theserted his subjects; he was made prisoner, with the greatest part of his nobles; nil who could not rederm their lives by service or ransom were inhumanly massacred ; and the walls of Cairo were decorated with it circle of Christinn heads. The king of France was londerl with chains., [Attack of Crusuders on Minsoura.]-Gininon's Rome, eh. 59, p. 43.
3514. MAssACRE, General. Goths, [The Goths invaded Thrace.] After a long resistance. Philippopolis, de'stitute of succor, was taken by storm. A hundred thousand persons are reported to have been massacred in the sack of that great cily.-Gimmon's Rome, ch. 10, p. 291.
3515. MASSACRE, Immonse. Lonilon. Suetonius Paulinus, under the Einperor Nero, . . . [was sent against Britain.] The Britons, more exasperated than intinidated, were all in arms, and, headed by Bondicen, Queen of the Iceni, had attacked several of the Roman settlements. Suetonius lastened to the protection of London. The Britons, however, reduced it to ashes, mas sacred the inhahitants that remanned fo it, putthing to death 70,000 of the jomans and their allies. Suetomins revenged these losses liy a deelsive vfetory, ilt which 80,000 britems fell th the fleld. Boadicen, to eserpe shavery or an ignominous death, put nu cint to her own life hy pot-som.-TyTlem's Hist., Book 6, ch. 5, p. 10.4.
3516. MAssacRE by Mob, Diris. A.D. 1.118. On the lith of Jume . . . the perple broke open the prisons and private honses where the Aramesmaes were conflised, [amd] mossacred thon vic:thas in one morning. - KNicia's lina., vol. ${ }^{2}$, ch. 5, p. (is.
3517. MASSACRE of Patriots. Josim. On the Thla of March a more serionsallthentty ocecurred in Boston. Analtereation lad taken place betweren a purty of eltizens nud the solellers. A crowd gnthered, surromaded ('aptain Preston's eompany of the eity ermard, hooted at them, and dared them to tlre. At length the exispernted sobdters discharged a volley, killing three of the chtizens, nut wountling nevernl others. 'This outruge, known as the Boston massiore, created a profonatid sithsutlon. The clty was ublaze with exaltement. Several thomsamil men assembled umder nems, Governor Jutchlnsom came ont, prombing that justlee should be done, mal trylug to appease the multitude. Tho brave Summid Silams spoke for the people. An immadinte whlulrawnl of the troops fiom the cliy was demmaded, and the governor was ohligeal to yiclal. ('aphatn Jress ton and his eomprany were arrested and tried for murder. The prosecution was conducted with gront spirit, and two of the ollenders were convicted of manslaughter. - IRimistu's U. S., ch. 37, 1. 204.
3518. MASSACRE prevented. J it mes to in $\pi_{\text {. }}$ The savares earefally eoncealed their minolerous parpose. Lintil the very elay of the masmacre they continued on terms of friemiship with the English. They came ummolested into the sattlements, nte with thetr victims, borrowed boats and gans, made purchases, and give not theslightest token of hostility. The nitnek was phanned for the $22 d$ of March, at midday. At the fatal hour the work of butchery begin. Every hamlet in Virginia was attacked by a bund of yelling larbarians. No age, sex, or condition awakened an emotion of pity. Men, women, and children were indiserimimately slaughtered, until 347 had perished under the knives and hatehets of the savages. But Indian treachery was thwarted by Indian faithfulness. . . . 1 converted red man, wishing to save an Englishoman [of Jamestown] who hide been his friend, went to him on the night before the massacre, and revenled the plot. The alarm was spread among the settlements, and thas the greater part of the colony escaped destruction. But the outer plantations were entirely destroyed. - Ridpatir's U. S., ch. 11, p. 112.
3519. MAssACRE, Punished by. By Russians. 1When Warsaw capitulated, in 1794, the Russian commander Suwaroff had put to the sword 20,000 wretched inhmbitnats of the suburb of Praga.]-Knigirt's Ena., vol. 7, ch. 17, p. 315.
3520. MASSACRE by Treachery. Roman. The punishment of a Roman city was blindly committed to the undistinguishing sword of the barbariuns, and the hostile preparations were concerted with the dark and pertitlons artitice of an tllegal eonspiracy, 'The people of 'Thessalonlen wero tremeherously ínvited. In the mano of the'te soverelgit, to the githes of the C'Ireus ; und suteli was thelr dasathate avillty for thone mansements, that every considerallon of fear or suspilefon wis ellsregirded by the momeroms speretutors. As noon us the insembly was come plete, the moldicrs, who lind sereretly been prosted round the ('Jrens, recolved the slgmal, mot of tho races, lout of a gromeral massacere. 'Thas bromiseroons crumage contimued three hours, without altserimination of strmerres, of matlves. of uge or sex, of lmoerence or philt; the most moderato aceonnts state the mumber of the slaten at Fools, und it is nill and by some writers that moro of botherle. ['herodostis was the cmperor who

83541. MABSACRE, Wholesale, wleucia. [Wir

 Rosm, ch. 8, 15. 2.1:.
:B542. MASSACRES, Rellgtous, Fruch Rer. olntion. ['Wha Revolutionints, on the Bd of Septomber, 1782, mussucreal 200 priestes at the ('hureh of l) ('urmes.) 'flaroughont that aight of horror the eity whith iwo himelred and twonty yours before had been pollated by the masnatere of St. Bartholomew, ut the commatad of a crowned bigot, in the mane of religion, was agule pollated hy a massutcre as friphtinl, at the command of furlons demugognes, in the mane of Liberty. At the prison of Abbaye, nfter a few marders in the nftermoon, a gemena slamghter look phace us nifht drew ons. |'The prison of Lat Forere was emptled in the same man-ner.]-KNiniry's ENu., vol. 7, ch. 12, j. da0.
3528. MASSES aroused, The, Remolution. Tlat no net of his [Charles J. I should he winting to justify the opposition of his ememfes, he went mext diny to the llonse of Commons, nttended by desperndoes-" soldiers of fortune"-arr ed with partisan, pistol, nud sword, to selze the members denounced. This sorne lans been so often deseribed that it were quite a work of supererogation to deseribe it ugain lere. Let all be stimmed up in a word. Irecoucilintion between the king and the Parliament was now finpossible. The privileges of the IIouse had been violated in a manner in which no monurch hat dared to violnte them before. And such a parlimnent !-men of the most distinguished cournge nud intelligence in the kingdom. The members he sought hand esciped through the window. They fled in haste to the city. Thither the most distinguished members of the IIouse followed them. They were protected by the ('ommon Council from the king, who hiniself followed them to the city, demanding their bodies; but in vain. Ile was his own oflleer, both of inilitary and police; but as he went along, the growls of "Privilege, privilege-privilege of Parliament," greeted him everywhere. One of the crowd, bolder than the rest, appronehed his carringe, shouting, " To your tents, O Isrnel!" The king land given the last drop to fill up the mensure of contempt with which he was regarded. IIe had struggled with his Parliament and

Lic was hustecomafial. Jere whs a hint for such
 the land pontred in, fronn vast luallow of ilie pens. ple dev-laring their intiontion to matind by the

 And wor may gather the state of domestle comb fumbon from the lary that the women petitionel.

 brought hack in irlamph to tho llonser, ambly the penting of martial muale', thase waving from the masthembs of all the versaly oth ther river, tho Jong jura assion of clly harges-for nt lhat diny most preal tidumplan promexions lowk place on ped finto the llonse, the llomse rising to rivelye them, Charles tlat to Hampion Conirt, nor did he ser his palne at Whiteliall ngain untill he lwo.
 gueting honse to the madfolid. - lloobs's C'mom. Whili, (fl. 4, p. 00 .
350.4. MASSES overlooked. J!y Ihistorioma. Nothlige has yet heen math of the great body of terded the osen ; who toblimiat the lomes of Norwheh and manared the l'orthad mone for St. Punl's ; mor can very much the suid. The most mumbroun class in procelncly tho class respecting which we hase the most mengre information. In Ghose tinues [of the Rastoration] philanthropists did not yot regurd it as n sucred duty, nor lund denngrogace yet found it a lacrative irnde. to expintinte on the distress of the laborer. Ilistory whe los) burch oceupied with courts and camps to mpare 11 line for the lint of the pemsunt or for the garret of the mechmaic. Macallayy's Ena., ch. 3, 1, 34.).
35325. MAsses, Power of the. Stamp Act. The 1st of Novermber come. Dut that day the Stamp Act wis to take effect. Inring the ximmanergrent qumbitios of the stamped puprer had beran prepared and sent to Americn. Tra boxes of it were seized by the people of New lork, and openly destroyed. In Commecticut the stamp-oftlecer wis threntened with langing. In Boston honses were destroyed, and the stimpsegiven to the winds amd flames. Whole cargoes of the ohnoxious pmper wereshippod to Englamb, and every stamp ohlicer in Amerian was obliged to resign or leave the country. By the 1st of November there were scarcely stamps enough remaining to furnish uf. ter times with specimens. The duy was kept as a day of mourning. The stores were dosed; flags were hung nt haif mast; the lnells were tolled; chligies of the authors und uhethors of the Stannp Act ware borne about in mockery, and then burned. The people of New Humpshire formed a funeral procession and buried a coffln bearing the inseription of Liberty. A curtoon was circulated hinting at union as the remedy for existing evils. The picture represented a smike broken into sedtions. Ench joint was labelled with the initials of a colony ; the hedd was marked "N. E." for New England, and the title was "Join or Die!" - Ridpatis's U. S., ch. 37, p. 291.
3526.

Boston Tea Party. On the 16th of December the dispute was settled in a memorable manner. There was $a$ great town moertng, at whileh woven thousanad pronple were ....

 nhout to mifourn when a warewhong was heard.
 the down of the Old sumth Charels. 'Jhe crowd followed to (iritla's wharf, where the three ten-gulit. 'The diagularil mons qualokly bourded tha fontred the contentes lato lhe sell. Nuch wins tho

 [1. 24\%

36tz7. MATERIALISM correctod. Riukrmin of materlalisin ; natl get when he thomglit on roligion, his mind passed beyoml rlimmer on serets lof fatin in God: when he wrote on julitles lan fommaled the freedoms of hiln conntry on primeljales ligg eye on mature he passed nlwiys from the effoct to the chase, from dudivhlinil "pronaraces (1) halvershl lawn.-l3ancitome'n ['. S., vol. 3, (1). 94.
 James II. [lt wis nus]selod thint ciutholla dames Intended to produce a spurlous heir.] The folly of some Roman C'atholles conflrined the valgar prejudlee. They apokes of the nuspledome event ns strunge, is mínembous, us an exertion of the same Divine jower which land made Suruh 10 the prayers of Jlmamit. Mary's mother, thos Dnchess of Nodema. had latel. died. A whort lime before her death she has wan said, implored the Virgin of Laretin, fervent vows and rich offeriugs, to bestos on James. The king himmelf lund, in the promeding Augumt, turned aside from hls jrogress to visht the Holy Wed!, and had there besonght Saint Whalfred to ohtain for him that boon wihout which his grent dexignes for the proparation of the trie faith could be lut imperfectly exceuted. The inipru. dent zealots who dwatt on these miles foretold with conthbence that the unlorn infant would boaboy, and offered to back their opinion ly laying twenty guinens to one. Heaven, they uthrmed. would not lave interfercel lint for a gient end. One funntic unnounced that the quecu would give birth to twins, of whom the elder would be King of Enghand, and the younger Pope of Rome. [(Qucen] Mary could not conceal the delight with which she heard this projhecy: and her ladies fomme that they could not gratify her more than by talking of it. The Rommn Catholies wonld have acted more wisely if they had spoken of the preguancy as of a natural event, and if they liad lwrne with moderstion their unexpected grood fortune. Their insolent trinmph excited the popuhar suspicions. From the Irince mind Princess of Denmark down to porters and laundresses, mobody alluded to tho promised birth without a sneer. The wits of London deseribed the new miracle in rhymes which, it may well be supposed, ware not the most delicate. The rough conntry squires roared with laughter if they met any one simple enough to believe that the qucen was really likely to. be again a mother.-Macaclay's Eng., ch. 8, p. 287 .
issid. MATERNITY, Pasalon of. Indinn squar. The spuitw lovers lior chillil whlh instinether pas shon : $n$ nal if whe does nos manifent it by lively curoses, hor temberness is real, winkeful, and constant. Nosmvige mother ever trusted her lmise nway lin own chlld to surekle that ot another, -

BSIBO, MATHEMATICs, Acoursoy In, Biny/. tions. 'l'he nits and solonien uro laderal wos littmumely commeded, that there cmin bee no grout progress la the onte without a propertlonal nif. vincement in the other: se, for extmiple, nrehttecture, whleh répuires a knowlealgo of geonetry nond the linws of merelunilos : the working of says Millot, "He Figypthas surveylng there lands whin prevision, diviribulbig the: waters of the ness the huronse of the river, makhing and rme thace, mal calculating the revolutions of the stars, we mast suppose them to lute athatod aronshloruble problefory in the writere of matheof the zother into I wedves sigus, whith argues a consilemble adramoement in astronomy."-

BSIS1. MATHEMATICS, DeficienoyIn. Suth Aucriouns. The Ahiponians, a trilie of South Aneriom Indians whofinhbit neliserict In I'urn-

33):3. MATHEMATICS, Genius for, Zerth Col. burn. Durfing this Arst yanr of his exhibition he solvod she fouestions as the following, in periouls of time virying from three seconds to one minnte: "How many secomis are there in many strokes will a rlock wrike in 2000 years ?" Answer: $113,880,000$. "What is the product of 12, 225 , mbliplled by $122: 3$ ?" Answer: 14,951, $1 \%$ " What is the stumre of 1448 ?" Anwer: $2,000,601$. "In seven neres of corn, with 17 rows to meh nere, $6+4$ hills to ench row, 8 eurs to ench hill, and tho kermels to each mar, how many kernels are there ${ }^{\prime \prime}$ Answer: $9,139,200$. Practice gave him greater fincility. The next year he performed sum problems as these: "How many lomirs are there in 1811 yenrs?" Answer (in twenty seromils): 15,864,360. "HIow many secouds in 11 years?" Answer (in fowr seconds) : $34(3,8000,000$. "What sum, multijsied by itself, will proluce 908,001 ?" Answer (in three seconds): 899. "Hownuny hours in 38 yeurs " montlis and 7 days ?" Auswer (in six seconds) : $3: 4,488$. . . The number $4,204,967$.297 was proposed to him to find tho factors. Now, certain French mathematieinns had asserted that this was a prime anmber ; lut the German, Euler, had discovered that its factors are 641 and $6,600,417$. This wonderfal loy, then aged eight years, by the mere opration of his mind, named the fuctors in about twenty sec-onds.-Ciclopedia of Biog., p. 82.
3333. MATHEMATICS, Precocity in. Zerah Colbrrn. [When n little boy six yeurs of nge, in hls Verniont home, his finther, having overlueard him say, "Three times twelve are thirty-six,"] balf in joke he aske? him: "IIow numeh is 13 thmes $177^{\prime \prime}$ 'Ihe loy fnstanily pavo the correct auswer, 1201. "1 conld not fiavo ixeat more surprlserl," the father used to may, "if $1 t$ matn lind spring ont of the enrilh unin stond creet beo fore lle." The loy who could not tell a 4 from it 0 possems.al the jrowar of mintiplylug four ligures by funr tiguris, whll unurring cer. talnty, fin atmit ten sumbls. - C'setorbibia of IBon., p. 78.

B6:BA. MEANNESE, Hatred of. Thuckrroy.

 doulits the stablity of wory mios. Kout last it grew to lat the rase will 'Thackering. 'There was moro hope that the elty shombled ter maver la'mine were to dejernd onl ben who were nol shobs. Alf this aroser frome the keremase of his visfon linto that whilell was really ments. But that keronitens becume wi ngeravintal by the Intensernex of hi-his eyes an a foul slabu. lubllabla, as we saw, dinmmed ono poor man to a wrotelod fmomor. lality, und mather was called pitilessly owre the comls bermase be land mixed a grain of thatery whln a bushel of truth. Thuekrey tells as that he was larn to linnt ont moobs, ancertala
 'HACKEILAY, (h. 2.
35533. MECHANICS despised. Archimeles. King Hlero . . . intremted him to turn his urt from abstracted monions to mattors of wimer, and to make his reasonings more intellyible to the generality of mankind, upplying then to the uses of cominon life. The first that turned thedr thoughts to mechanics, a branch of ktowledge which came ufterwurd to be so mich admirchl, were Eudoxus nud Arehytas, who thas give a varicty and an figreable turn to geometry, nul conflrmed certaln problems by sonsible experiments and the use of Instruments, whileh conlal not be demonsirited In the way of theorem. That problem, for example, of two menn proportlonal lines, which cannot be found out geometrically, and yet is so neenssury for the solnthon of other questions, they solved mechanically. by the assistance of certain insiruments culled mesolabes, tuken from conic sectlons. But when Plato inveighed ugainst hem, wilh great imlig. nntion, as corrupting and debnsing the excollence of geometry by making her descend from incorporcal und intellectual to corporeal amd sensible things, nnd obliging lier to make use of matter, whiels requires much manual lator, and is the ohject of servile irades, then mechanics weresepurnted from geometry, und, being a long time despised by the philosopler, were considered as a bramel of the militury art.- P'd. tarcits Mabreblide.
3536. MECHANICS disparaged. Larcilipmonians. One of the grintest priviloges that Lycurgus procured for his countrymen was the onjoyment of leisure, the conseguence of his forbialding them to exercise any merhanic tracle. It was not worth their while to take great pains to ruise $n$ fortune, since riches there vire of no neconnt; and the If hotex, who tilled the ground, were answerable for the produce.-Pletancu's Lyculade.
3537. MECHANICS, Hereditary. East Indian. The tribe of mechunies is branched out into as mony subdivisions as there are trades, and no man is allowed to relinquish the trade of his fore-fathers-a very singulir system, which, as we formerly mentioned, prevalled likewise among the ancient Egyptians. Iresides these four principal elasses [viz., Bramins, soidiers, husbandmen and mechnnies,] or tribes, there is a fifth, that of the pariahs, which is the outeast of all the rest. The persons who compose it are eliployed in the mennest otices of society. They bury the dend ; they are the seavengers of the town ; und so mach is their condition held in detestation, that if uny one of this elnss touehes a person belonging to miny of the four great castes, or tribes, it is nllowable to put him to death upon the spot. All these classes, or custes, are sepnrated from each other by insurmountuble barriers; they are not allowed to intermarry, to live, or to eat together, and whoever transgresses these rules is hanished as a disgrace to his tribe. -TyTlels's Hist., Book 6, ch. 23, p. 337.
3538. MECHANIC8, Patriotism of. Carpenters of Boston. A.D. 1774. [The port was closed, the capital removed to Salem, and the city oceupled by British troops.] All the while the sufferings of Bosion grew more and more severe ; yet in the height of distress for want of employment its curpenters refused to construct barrucks for the [British] aimy.-BaNCROFT's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 10.
3589. MECHANICS, Patriotism of. Carpenters of Philudelphia. A, D, 1774. [The Continental Congress convencd in Philadelphia.] Tlee members of Congress, meeting at Smith's tavern, moved in a body to select the place for their deliberations. Galloway, the Spenker of Pennsylvanla, would have hud them use the State House, but the carpenters of Philadelphia offered their plain but spucions hall; and from respect for the mechanies, it was neecepted by a great majority. - Banchoft's U. S., vol. 7, rh. 11.
35.1 . - . Civil Witr. [They were of greatest service to Parlinment in the war of the Revolution.] The men of London taken from the loom and anvil, from the shops of Ludgate or the wharves of Billingsgate, stood like a wall.
Prince Rupert himself led up the ehoice horse to charge them, and endured their storm of small shot, but could make no impression upon their stand of pikes. . . The contempt of the Cavaliers for the "base mechanicals" was one great cause of the triumph of the lRoundheads. . . . They had an ever-present belief that they were doing " the Lord's work ; " and whether starving in a fortress or ridden down by men in steel, they would not be moved.
"With dread of death to flight, or fonl retreat." -Kniaht's Eng., vol. 4, eh. 2, p. 24.
3541.
time of the Revolution, the mechanics' apprentices in London were ardent in their endeavors for the destrnction of despotism.]-Knigirt's Eng., vol. 3 , cli. 30, p. 489.
354.2. MECHANICS, Practical, James Watt, The mechanical dexterity he acquired was the foundation upon which he built the speculations to which he owes his glory, nor without this manual training is there the least likelihood that he would have become the improver and almost the creator of the steam-engine.-Smiles' Brief Biograpilieg, p. 4.
3543. MECHANICB, Taste for, Sir Invetc Nein. ton. From chililhood Newton exhibited a remurkable talont for mechanies. His favorlto pluythings were little suws, hummers, chisels, nnd hutehets, with which he mude many curious and ingenious maehines. There was a windmill in conrse of crection near his home. IIe watehed the workmen with the gremtest interest, ara constructed a small model of the mill, whieh, one of his friculs suid, was "us clemn mid curions a piece of workmmashij) as the original." Ite was dissatisfied, however, with his mill, because it would net work when there was no wind ; and therefore be added to it a contrivance by which it conld he kept in motion by amonse. Ilemmde a water-clock, the motive jower of which was the dropping of water upon a wheel. Every morning, on aretting ont of hed, the boy wound up his clock by suppling it with the water requisite to keep it maning for twenty-four hours. -CyCloleddi OF l3iot., j. 247.
3544. MESHANICS, Wages of. Thirternth Century. The dnily pay of curpenters, masons, and tylers was $3 d$. with keep, and $4 d$. one half penny without. - KNigint's ENG., vol. 1, ch. 27, p. 408.
3545. MEDDLING, Destruction by. Flood. [West Indinns to Columbus.] They snid that there once lived in the islund a mighty cacicue, who slew his only sen for conspiring against him. Itcaife.ward collected and pieked lis bones, and freserved them in ugourd, is was the custom of the matives with the relies of their friends. On q subsecuent day the encigue and his wife opened the grourd to contemplat the bones of their son, when, to their astonishment, seveml fish, great and small, lenjed out. Upon this the caeipule closed the gonrd, and plased it on the top of his house, bonsting that he had the sea sh'it up) within it, and could have fish whenever he plensed. Fuar brothers, however, who had been born at the same birth, and were curious intermeddlers, hearing of this gourd, came during the absence of the cacique to peep into it. In their earelessness they suffered it to full upon the ground, where it was dashed to pieces; when, lo ! to their astonishment and disnaty, there issued forth a mighty flood, with dolphins, and sharks, and tumbling porpoises, and great spouting whales; and the water sprend, until it overflowed the earth, and formed the ocean, leaving only the tops of the mountains uncovered, which are the present islands.-Invina's Colvaibus, Book 6, ch. 10.
3546. MEDDLING reproved, Bishop Burnet. [The intimate friend of William Prince of Orange, whose invading army had just landed in Englmul.] As soon as Burnet was on shore he hastened to the prince. An amusing dinlogue took place between them. Burnet poured forth his congratulations with geunine delight, and then eagerly asked what were his IIighness' plans. Military men are seldom disposed to take counsel witl gownsmen on military matters, and William regarded the interference of unprofessional advisers, in questions relating to whr, with even more than the disgust ordinarily felt by soldiers on such occasions. But he was at that moment in an excellent humor, and instead r.f signifying his displeasure by a short and cutting reprinand, graciously extended his hand, and answered his chaplaln's question by another question: " Well, doctor, what do you think of predestination now?" The reproof was so alelicate that Burnet, whose perceptions were not very fluc, dill not pereedve it. He answered with gicat fervor that he should never forget the signul manner in which Providence had favoreal their undertaking.-Macadlay's Eno., ch. 9, p. 446.
3547. MEDIATION rejected. Jumes II. Inatead of berming a melliator [between Catholics and lrotestants, he becmme the flerenst and most reckless of purtisans. . . . The contest w"s terrible. The effect of the insune nttempt to sul). jugute England by menus of Irelamd was that the Irish became hewers of wood and drawers of water to the English. The old proprictors, by their effort to recover what they had lost, lost the grenter purt of what they had retained. The monentary aseendency of popery produced such in series of hurbarous laws agyinst popery as made the statute-book of Irelind a proverb of infumy throughout Christendom. Such were the bitter fruits of the poliey of Junes.-Macaelay's Eng., ch. €, p. 120.
3548. MEDIATOR, Temporizing. William Penn. [Magdalen College hum refinsed to elect to the presidency the noninee of James II.] The king, grently incensed nod mortified ly his def ent, quitted Oxford. . . . His obstinncy mad violenee land brought him into an embarrnssing position. He had trusted too muin to the effect of his frowns and angry tones, and hull rashly staked, not merely the eredit of his administration, but his pussonal diguity, on the issue of the contest. Could he yield to subjects whom he had menaned with raised voice and furious gestures ?... The ageney of Penn was employed. He had too much goorl feeling to upprove of the violent and unjust proceedings of the governuent, and even ventured to express part of what he thought. James was, as nsual, onstinute in the wrong. The courtly Quaker, therefore, did his besi to seduce the college from the puth of right. He first triel intimidation. Ruin, he said, impenderl over the society. The king was highly incensel. The cuse might be a hard one. Nost people thought it so. But every child knew that his Majesty loved to have his own way, and could not bear to be thwarted. Pemn therefore exhorted the fellows not to rely on the goodness of their cause, but to submit, or at least to temporize. Such counsel came strungely from one who had himself been expelled from the university for ruising a riot nthout the surplice, who had run the risk of being disinherited rather than take off his hat to the prinees of the blood, and who had been sent to prison for haranguing in conventicles. He did not suepeed in frightening the Magdalen men. [See No. 1842.]-MA. callay's Eng., ch. 8, p. 274.
3549. MEDIATOR, Unfaithful. Jumes $I I_{\text {. }}$ Unhappily, Jumes, instearl of becoming a mediator, became the fiercest and most reekless of partisans. Instead of allaying the animosity of the two populations, he intlumed it to a height before unknown. He determined to reverse their position, and put the Protestant colonists under the feet of the popish Celts. To be of the established religion, to be of English blood, was in his view a disqualification for civil and military employment. He medituted the design of again contisenting and agaln portioning out the soil of latif the island, and showed his inclinution so clearly that one cluss was soon agitated by terrors which he afterward vainly wished to soothe, and the other ty hopes whle he afterward vainly wished to rea train. Buit this was the smallest part of his guit and mudness. He deliberately resolved, not merely to give to the uborigimat inhabitants of lrehum the emire pos ssion of their own comntry, but also to nse them as his instruments for setting up arbitary governma:at in Enghud.-Macaclay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 126.
3550. MEDICINE, Advance in. Reign of Chartes II. Mecticine lad in Enghand beeone mexperimental und progressive science, and every tay mate some new ulvince, in defisure of Iip. poerates and Galen. The attention of speculative men had been, for the first time, directed to the importunt subject of sanitury police. The grent plague of 1665 induced them to ronsider with care the defertive architecture, draining, and ventilation of the capitul. The great fire of 1666 afforded un opportunity for efferting ex tensive improvements. The whole mater was diligently examined hy the Royal Society; and to the suggestions of that body must be partly attributed the chan: which, thongh far short of what the public welfare required, yet made a wide difference between the new mind the old Loudon, and protably put a final close to tho ravages of pestilence in our country.-MacacLay's Evg., ch. 3, p. 381.
3551. MEDICINE, Aversion to. George Wieshington. His illnesses were of rare occurrence, but purticularly severe. Ilis aversion to the use of medicine was extreme; and even when in great suffering, it was only by the entreaties of his lady and . . . Dr. James Craik that he could be prevailed upon to tuke the shightest prepara. tion of medicine.-C'estrs' WasmingTos, vol. 1, ch. 2.
3552. MEDICINE discarded. Napoleon I. [Las Casas writes:] "The emperor las no faith in medicine, and never tukes nny. IIe hud adopted a peeulinr mode of treatment for himself. Whenever he found himself unwell, his phon was to run into an extreme the opposite of what had happened to be his habit ut the time. This he calls restoring the equilibrium of nature. 1f, for instance, he had reen inactive for a length of time, he would suddenly ride about sixty miles, or hunt for a whole duy." . .] [He also said :] "My remedies ure fasting and the wirn bath." -Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. D, ch. 30.
3553. MEDICINE, School of. Fïrst. The treasures of Grecian medicine had been communicated to the Arabian colonies of Africu, Spain, and Sicily, and in the intercourse of peace and war a spark of knowledge had been kindled ant. cherished at Salerno, an illustrious city, in which the men were honest and the women beautiful. A school, the first that arose in the darkness of Europe, was conserrated to the healing art ; the conseience of monks and bishops was reconciled to that salutary and lucrative profession ; and p crowd of patients, of the most eminent rank and most distant climates, invited or visited the physicians of Salerno.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 56, p. 462.
3554. MEDITATION, Peculiar. Sinedenborg. Swedenborg was gifted with peculiar powers of respirntion. From early childhood, when on his knees at prnyer, and nfterward when engnged in profound meditation, he found that his natural respirntion was for the time suspended. . . He writes: "My respiration has been so formed by the Lord as io enable me to bre the inwardly for a long period of time, withot the aid of the extermal hir, my respiration being directed within, und my outward senses, ns well ns netions, still continuing in their vigor, which is only possible with persons who linve been no formed by the Lord. I have also been instructed that my brenthing was so directed, without my being aware of it. in order to enable me to be with spirits, and to speak with them." - White's SweDeniohta, ch. 8, p. 67.
3555. MEDIUM, Fraudulent. Counterfciting. The account was as follows: "On the night of the 1st of Fehruary muny gentlemen eninent for their rank and character were, by the invitation of the Rev. Mr. Aldrich, of Clerkenwell. assembled at his $1_{1}$ ouse, for the examination of the noises suppossd to be made by a departed spirit, for the detection of some enormon. crime. About ten at night the gentlemen met in the chamber in which the girl, supposed to be disturbed by a spirit, had, with proper caution, been put to bed lyy several ladies. . . . The supposed spirit had before publicly promised, by an alimative knock, that it woild attend one of the gentlemen into the vanit under the church of St. John, Clerkenwell, where the body is deposited, mul give a token of her presence there, by a knoek upon her cottin; it was therefore determined to make this trial of the existence or veracity of the supposed spirit. While they were inquiring and deliberating, they were summoned into the girl's chamber by some ladies who were near her bed, and who had heard knocks and scratches. When the gentlemen entered the girl declared that she felt the spirit like n monse npon her batek, and was required to hold her hands out of bed. The company at one o'dock went into the chureh, and the gentlemen to whom the promise was made went with another into the vault. The spirit was solemnly required to perform its promise, but nothing more than siience ensued; the person supposed to be acensed by the spirit then went down with several others, but no effect was perceived. $\qquad$ It is therefore the opinion of the whole assembly that the child has some art of making or counterfeiting a particular noise, and that there is no agency of any higher cause."-Note in Boswehi's Jomnson, p. 11~.
3556. MEEKNESS, Christian. I'ucrowned. [The Crusaders having taken Jerusalem and made it a Latin kingdom, offered it to] Godfrey de Bonillon. That excellent prince accepted the high homor conferred upon him, but refused, in his pious humility, to wear $a$ diadem of gold and jewels where his Redemer's brows had been lacerated by a crown of thoms.-Stcdents' France, ch. 7, s 17.
3557. MELANCHOLY, Characteristic. Aborigines. The red man was, it his best estate, an unsocial, solitary, and gloomy spirit. He was a man of the words. He commmued only with himself and the genius of solitude. He sat apart. The forest was better than his wigwam, and his wigwun hetter thm the village.- IRidpath's U. S., ch. 1, p. 45.
3558. MELANCHOLY, Depresmed by, Charles 1 . The hast ypars of Charles were the most tumultuous und the leust successful. The load of cares, und the diftenkies which surrounded him on every side, at length entirely overpowered him. The vigor of his mind was broken, his nuimnl spirits were exhnusted, and, in a state of despondency and mehneholy dotage, he abdicated the empire, and renounced the world at the age of filty-six. This celebrated resignation, though prompted by dejection of spirit, was conclacted with some policy, und with a regurd to the interest of those who were to come after him. -Tythen's Hist., Book 6, ch. 19, p. 286.
3559. MELANCHOLY, Excusable. John Milton. Milton was, like Dante, a statesman and a lover: and, like Dinnte, he had been unfortunate in mbition and in love. He had survived his health and his sight, the comforts of his home, und the prosperity of lis party. Of the greac men by whom he had been distinguished at his entrauce into life, some lad been taken awny from the evil to come ; some had curried into forcign climates their unconquerable hatred of oppression ; some were pining in dungeons; and some had poured forth their blood on scaffolds. Vemb and licentious scriblelers, with just sutheient talent to clothe the thoughts of a pundar in the style of a bellman, were now the favorite writers of the sovereign and of the public. It was a loathsome herd, which could be compared to nothing so fitly as to the rabble of Comus, grotesque monsters, half hestial, half human, dropping with wine, blonted with gluttony, and reeling in obscene dances. Amid these that fair Muse was placed, like the chaste lady of the Masque, lofty, spotless, and serene, to be clattered at, and pointed at, und grinned at, by the whole rout of Sityrs and Goblins. If ever despondency and asperity could be excused in any man, they might have been excused in Mil-ton.-Macallay's Militon, p. 35.

3560. MELANCHOLY inherited. Samuel

 Joh nson. Mr. Michnel Jolinson [the father of Samucl] was a man of a large and robust body, and of a strong und active mind; yet, as in the most solid rocks veins of unsound substance are often discovered, there was in him a mixture of that disease, the nature of which eludes the most minute inquiry, though the effects are well known to be a weariness of life, an uneoncern about those things which agitate ine greater part of mankind, and a general sensation of gloomy wretchedness. From him, then, his son inherited, with some other qualities, "a vile melancholy," which in his too strong expression of any disturbance of the mind "made him mad all his life, at least not sober."-Boswelle's Jomison, p. 4.3561 $\qquad$ -_. Samuel Johnson. Tulking of constitutional inclancholy, he observed : " $\AA$ man so aflicted, sir, must divert distressing thoughts, and not commat with them." Boswelis: "May not he think them down, sir?" Jomsson : "No, sir. To attempt to think them doren is madness. He should have a lamp constantly burning in his bed-chamber during the night, and if wakefully disturbed take n book, and rend, and compose himself to rest. To have the management of the mind is a great art, and it may be uttained in a considerable alegree by experience and habitual exercise.

Lit him take a course of chemistry or a course of rope-haneing, or a course of anything to which he is indined at the thene. Let him contrive to lave as many retreats for his mind as he can, as many things to which it san lly from itself."Boswell's Joinnon, p. 2;
3532. MELANCHOLY, Natural. Stmmel Johnson. The "morbid melancholy" which was larking in his constitution, mid to which we may aseribe those particularities, . . . gathered such strength in his twenticth year as to allitec him in a dreadfal manner. While he was at Lichticla, in the college vacation of the year 1729, he felt himself overwhelmed with a horrible hypochondria, with perpetual irritation, fretfulness, and impmience, and with a dejection, gloom, and despair, which made existance misery. From this dismal malady he never afterward was perleetly relieved.-Boswem's JomeBON, p. 11.
3568. MELANCHOLY, Philosophy of. L'nfathomable. Iteraclitus, whose disposition [was] the reverse of that of Democritus, accounted everything a matter of melancholy. He seems to have been endowed with the austere spirit of a Carthasian; for, rejecting the chief magistracy of his native city, Ephesus, on account of the incorriginle vice' of its inlabitants, he betook himself to the desert, and fed upon roots and water, making the beasts his companions in preference to man. He wrote a treatise on Nature, in which he made fire the origin of all things; but this fire he conceived to be endowed with mind, and to be properly the anima mumdi, or the Divinity. 1 lis writings were purposely obseure, whence he got the epithet of . . . the dark philosopher. It is said that Euripides having sent this treatise on Nature to Socrates, the latter, with his acenstomed modesty, gave it this character, that all that he could mederstand of it seemerl good, and that what had surpassed his moderstanding might likewise be so.-Tytler's IIIst., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 266.
3564. MELANCHOLY, Religious. George For the Quaker. A.d. 1644. The mind of Fox as it revolved the question of human destiny was ag. itated even to despair. . . . Abandoning bis tloeks and shoemaker's bench, he nourished his inexplieable grief by retirel meditations, and . . . songht in the gloom of the forest for a vision of God. He questioned his life; but his blameless life was ignorant of remorse. He went to many "priests" for comfort, but found no comfort from them. . . Some advised him to marry, others to join Cromwell's army. . . . His restless spirit drove him into the fields, where ho walked many nights . . . in misery too great to be declared. Yet at times a heam of heavenly joy beamed upon hissoul, and he reposed, as it were, serencly on Abrahan's bosom.-Banczoft's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 16.
3565. - Puritans. We may think of Cromwell standing in the market with his fellow-tradesmen, and striding through those fields, and by those rondsides, and by the course of the stream, then sedgy and swampy enough. What thonglits came upon him, for was le not fighting there the same hattle luther fought at Erfurth? He was vexed by fits of strange black hepurdoodria. Dr. Simeot, of Ihutingdon, "in shadow of menning, much maniner rxpressions," intimates to us how marh he suffered. Lle was oppressed with drealful conscionsmess of sin and defect. Ite groaned in spirit like lanl, like later saints- Bunyan, for instance. The stanted willows and sedey waterrourses, the thags and reerls, would often cero back the monninge words, "Oh, wretched man that I an!" What concoption had he of the rourse lyhg before him? What knowledge had he of the intentions of Providence ronrernine him? life lay hefore him all in shatow. For fifteen years he appears to have had no other conerrn than "to know (hrist and the power of Mis resurrection, amd the fellowship of Iis sulferings."-IIoon's Cbomweli, ch. 2, 1. 44.
3566. MELANCHOLY resisted. Samurl Tolinson. Johnson, upon the tirst violent attack of this disorder, strove to overrome it by forible: exertions. IIe frequently walkel to Birmingham and hack again, and tried many other expedients; lut all in vain. llis expression concerning it to me was," I did not then know how to manage it." llis distress berame so intolerable, that he applied to Dr. Swintin, physician in Lichficlld. Ife mentioned to me now, for the first time, that he had been distressed live melancholy, and for that reason had been ohliged to lly from study and meditation to the dissipating variety of life. Against melancholy he recommended constant becupation of mind, a great dend of exereise, moderation in eating and drinking, and especially to shun drinking at night. He said melancholy people were apt to tly to intempermace for relief, but that it sunk them much deeper in misery. It observed that laboring men who work hard and live sparingly are seldom or never troubled with low spirits.-Boswelle's Joifnon, p. 12.
3567. MELANCHOLY, Royal. Gucen Elizabeth. From the death of Essis the quen, now in the seventieth year of har are, seemed to lose all enjoyment of life. She foll into profount melancholy ; she retlected then with remorse on some past actions of her reign, and was at times under the most violent emotions of anguish and despair. Her constitution, cufeehled by age, very soon fell a vietim to her mental disquictude ; and pereciving her end approaching, she deelared that the succession to the crown of Enghand should devolve to ler immediate heir, dames VI. of Scotland. - Tytleer's IIss\%., Book 6, ch. 28, p. 394.
3568. MEMORIALS, Enduring. Language. It is one of the surprising results of moral power that language, composed of flecting sounds, retains and transmits the remembrance of past occurrences long after every other has passed away. Of the labors of the Indians on the soil of Virginia there remains nothing so respectable as would be a common ditch for draining lands; the memorials of their former existence are found only in the names of the rivers and mountains.-Bancroft's E. S., vol. 1, ch. 6.
3509. MEMORIALS, Odd. Oll Shoes. [In 1612 Thomas Coryat,] having walked over many countries of Europe, hung up in his parish chureh as a memorial the one pair of shoes in which he had tradged nine hundred miles. Knioht's Ena., vol. 3, ch. 22, p. 347.
3570. MEMORY, Blander of. Goldsmith. One relates to a venerable dish of peas, served up at Sir Joshna's table, which should have been green, but were any other color. A wag suggestal to Goldsmith, in a whisper, that they should be sent to Hammersmith, as that was the why to turnem-green (Turnhmm Green). Goldsmith, delighted with the pun, endenvored to repent it at Burke's table, but missed the point. "That is the way to meke 'em green," said he. Nobody langhed. Ite perceived he was ut fault. "I mean that is the road to turn 'em green." A dend panse and a stare ; " whereupon," adds Bennelere, "he started up disconcertedandabruptly left the table."-luvina's Goldsmiti, eh. 34, p. 201.
3571. MEMORY, Excellent. Simul Johnson. He was uncommonly inguisitive ; and his memory was so temeious that he never forgot anything that he either heard or reacl. Nr. Meetor remembers having reeited to him eighteen verses, which, after a little pmuse, he repeated verbatim, varying only one epithet, by which he improved the line.-Boswell's Jonsson, p. 9.
3572. MEMORY, Extraordinary. Popt Shelley. His powers of memory were extruordimary, and the rapidity with which he read a book, taking in seven or eight lines at a glance, and seizing the sense upon the hint of lending worts, was no less astonishing. Impatient speed and inclifference to minutie were indeed among the cardinal qualities of his intellect. To them we may trace not only the swiftness of his imaginative flight, but also his frequent sutisfuetion with the somewhat less than perfect inartistic execution. -Symonds' Shelley, ch. 2.
3573. - William III. William III. had a memory that amazed all about him. Knight's Enc., vol. 5, ch. 5, p. 66.
3574. MEMORY, Marvellous. Napoleon I. He received all letters, read them, and never forgot their contents. $\qquad$ So retentive was his memory, that seenes over which he had onee glanced his eye were never effaced from his mind. IIe recollected the respective produce of all taxes through every year of his administration.-ABbot't's Napoleon B., vol. 2, ch. 3.
3575. MEMORY, Patriotic. Abraham Lincoln. [He closed his first inaugural address, amid the threatenings of civil war, in these words :] "The mystic cord of memory, streteling from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."-IRiymond's Lincoly, ef. 6, p. 169.
3576. MEMORY trained. Abraham Lincoln. [He became a storekeeper and postmaster.] He was still employing every opportunity offered him to improve his mind. IIe had mastered grammar, and occupied his leisure time in general reading, taking care to write out a synopsis of every book he perused, so as to fix the contents in his memory.-Raymond's Lincoln, ch. 1, p. 26 .

357\%. MEN, Angelic. Sioedenborg. The heaven of angels is formed from the human race, all angels having lived the life of men, and none having been so created; and as the perfection of heaven increases to eternity with the increase of regencrate men from the world, it follows that the earth will never cease to exlst, nor men to live and be born upon it. The world is the seminary of heaven. ILeaven depends upon the world for its growth, increase, and perfection. Henven could not exist without worlds. White's Swedenbohg, ch. 12, p. 95.
3578. MEN vs. ADimals. Napoleon $I$. The night after the battle of Bassano. . . . Nupoleon rode over the plain. . . . covered with the hodies of the dying and the dead. . . Suddenly a dog sprang from beneath the cloak of his dead master, and rushed to Nupoleon, as if frunticly imploring his aid, and then rushed back again to the mangled corpse, licking the blood from the face and the hands, and howling most piteonsly. Napoleon was deeply moved. . . . Many years afterward he remarked: "I know not how it is, but mo ineident יpon any field of battle ever produeed so deep 'n impression upon my feelings. This man, thought I, lies forsaken of all but his dog. . . . I had with tearless eyes beheld. . . thousunds of my countrymen slain, fand yet my sympathies were almost deeply and resistlessly moved by the monrnful howling of a dog!"Ambott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 6.
3579. MEN, Courting great. Samuel Johnsm. I talked of the mode udopted by some to rise in the world, by courting great men, and asked him whether he had ever summitted to it. Jounson : "Why", sir, Inever was near enough to great men to court them. Yon may be prudently attached to great men, and yet independent. You are not to do what you think wrong: and, sir, you are to ealeulate, and not pay too dear for what you get. You must not give a shilling's worth of court for sixpenee worth of good. But if you e:m get an shilling's worth of good for sixpence worth of court, you are a fool if you do not pay court."-Boswell's Jonnson, p. 141.
3580. MEN, Periods of Great. Discoverers. Copernicus, the son of a Prussima surgeon, was born in 1473, ten years before the lirth of Lather, and thirteen yeurs before the discovery of America. Great men appear to come in groups. About the same time were born the man who revohutionized seicnee, the man who reformed religion, the man who added another continent to the known world, and the man who invented printing. So, in later times, Watt, the improver of the stemm-engine, Hargrave and Arkwright, the inventors of the spinning machinery, began their experimentsulmost in the sume year.-Crclopedia of Biog., p. 204.
3581. MEN, Providential, Great. Cromurell. Doubtless, as we have often hearl, great men are the oubbirths of their time; there is a provitence in their appearance, they are not the product of chance ; they come, Gorl-appointed, to do their work among men, and they are immortal till their work is done. We should not, perhaps, speak so much of the absolute greatness of the men of one age as compared with the men of another; they are all equally fitted to the task !of the day. Let the man who most hates the menory of Cromwell ask not so nuch what the hund und the hw were with him, us whint thry must Inevitably have been without him. Jemove the leading man from any time, mad you lorenk the harmony of the time, you destroy the work of that age ; for an age camot move without its great men-they inspire it, they urge it forward, they are its priestsand its prophets mad its monarehs. The hero of a time, therefore, is the history of a time; he is the focus where influences are grathered, and from whence they shoot ont. It has bern said that all institutions are the projected shadow of some great mon, he has absorbed all the light of his time in himself ; perhaps he has not created, yet now he throws forth light from his mame-clear, steady, practical light, that shall travel over a century , his mame shall he the synonym of an epoch, ind shall include all the events of that uge. Thasit is with Cromwell.-1Iood's Chomwehi, ch. 1, p. 20.
3582. ———. Churlemagne. [M. Guizot says:] "Why a grent man eomes at a particular cpoed, and what fore of his own he puts into the development of the world, no one can say. This is a secret of lrovidence; but, nevertheless, the fact is certain." Such a man does come to put an end to amorchy and social staguation-a terrible and often a tyrannical power. Sucha mun was Charlemange. De Irove buck the barbarian forees that were pressing forward against the establishment of European civilization by his power us a condueror. He reduced the scattered rlements of authority and justice into a system by his skill as an administrator. He gave the grape of the south to the shoras of the Thine, mal otherwise extended the domain of fertility, us a physien improver. ILe raised up the ren! civilizing power of knowledge to render his trimmples of war and peace of permanent utility by his zeal us a patriot and his zenl as a student.-Knigirt's Exa., vol. 1, ch. 6, p. 7i).
3588. MEN, Imaginary. Americrens. The earliest books on Anerica contain tales as wild us fancy could invent or credulity repeat. The land was peopled with pygmies and with giants. The tropieal forests were suid to coneent tribes of negroes; and tenants of the hyperborean regions were white, like the polar benr or ermine. Jneques Cartier had hemrd of a nation that did not cat ; and the pedant Lafitan believed, if not in a ruce of headless men, at least that there was a nation with the head not rising above the shonl-der.-Banchoft's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
3584. MEN, Large. King Freelerick William. The ambition of the king was to form a brigade of giants, and every country was rimsacked by his agents for men above the ordinary stature. These researches were not confined to Europe. No head that towered above the crowd in the bazaars of Aleppo, of Cairo, or of Surat could escape the crimps of Frederick Willinm. One Irishman more than seven feet high, who was picked up in London by the Prussian ambassador, received a bounty of nearly $£ 1300$ sterlingyery much more than the ambassador's salary. This extravagance was the more absurd because a stout youth of tive fcet eight, who might have been procured for a few dollars, would in all prohability lanve been a much more valuable soldier, - Macaulay's Fredeirick the Great, 1. 8.
3585. MEN, Misplaced. James II.-Raleigh. On a cold October morning, in 1019, a great . crime was perpetrated. . . . That 1hne old English gentlemm, Sir Walter Raleigh, was brought forth to the scaffold in Puluce Find. Perhaps the reader is searcely able to repress the feeling, even now, of abhorrent fadigmation that such it miseruble plece of lonthsome corruption as dumes sloould have been able to order the death of so grent and magnanimous a man. It was on the 29th of October, when the onlleers went into his room to toll him that all was in rendiness for his execution, they found him smoking his last pipe and drinking his lust cup of suck, remarking to those who came to fetch him that " it was a grood liquor, if a man might stay by it." Je said he was rondy, und so they set forth.-IIood's Chomwelh, ch. 2, p. 37.
3586. MEN, self-made. William I'itt. [ITo was first vice-treasurer of Irelnad, and shortly after promoted to be paymuster-generul.] Pitt, withont wealth or high lirth, had made himself the marked man of his time . . . . In fivo years he raised a dispirited mation to an muprecedented height of honor and jower.-Kiniant's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 12, 1). 179.
3587. MEN, similarity in. Bubes. A story is told, how many yums since, before the age of ruilways, a nobleman and his lady, with their infunt child, travelling in a wild neighborhood, were overtaken by a snow-storm and compelled to seek shelter in a rude shepherd's lut; when the nurse, who was in attendance upon her lord and laly, began umilressing the infant by tho side of the warm fire, the inhabitants of the hut gazed in awe nud silencent the process. As the little one was disrobed of its silken frock and fine linen, and rich dress after dress was taken away, still the shepherd and his wife gazed with awe, until, when the process of undressing was completed, and the maked buby was being washed and warmed by the fire, when all the wrappages and onter husks were peeled off, the shepherd and his wife exelnimed, "Why, it's just like one of ours l" But it is a very difficult thing to understand that kings nud queens and princes are just like one of us when their stato robes are off ; and thus the adventures of fugitive Charles [II.] derive their interest and sanctity from the supposed importance of the person, and the worship with which he is regarded arises from the sense of the place he fills, and his essentinl importance to the future sehemes of Almighty Providence.-Hood's Chomwell, chi.13, p. 169.
3588. MERCY, Provision for. Abraham Lineoln. His doorkeepers had standing orders from him, that no matter how great might be the throng, if either senators or representatives had to wait, or to be turned away without an audience, he must see, before the day closed, every messenger who came to him with a petition for tho saving of life.-Raymond's Lincolin, p. 736.
3589. MERIT, Evidence of. Ruler. IIe who is born in purple is seldom worthy to reign; but the elevation of a private man, of a peasant. perhaps, or a slave, affords a strong presumption of his courage and capacity.-Gibbon's Rome, clı. 52, p. $32 \overline{5}$.
3590. MERIT, Force of, Foet Terence. Terence made his first appearance when Crecilius was at the beight of hils reputation. It is suhd that, when he otfored his thest phy to the Fidiles, they sent him with it to Sheclius for his juderment of the piere. Clecilins was thenat supper ; and as the young bard was very memaly dressed, le was hid to sit brimed on a low stool, mid to read his composition. Senrely, however, had he reard a fow sontences, when Cucilias desired him to appronch, and placed him at the table next to himself. His reputation arose at one to such a height that his "'Emmebus," on its tirst mpearance, was publicly performed iwied ench day.-'TYThisi's IItst., Book 4, ch. i], p. 430.
3501. MERIT, Ignorance of. Sierucens. [At the saeking of Madayn in Persin.] From the remote ishands of the Indinn Ocenn a large provision of cmmphire had beren imported, which is cmployed with a mixture of wax to illuminate the pulaces of the East. Strangers to the name and properties of that odoriferous gimm, the suracens, mistaking it for salt, mingled the camphire in their bread, and were astonished at the bitterness of the taste. One of the apartments of the palace was decorated with a carpet of silk sixty cubits in length und as many in breadth; " paradise or garden was depictured on the gromed ; the flowers, fruits, and shrubs were imitated by the figures of the gold emiroidery and the colors of the precions stones; and the ample sumare was encireled by a variegated and verdant border. The Aruhim general persuaded his soldiers to relimpuish their claim, in the reasomable hope that the eyes of the cabiph would be delighted with the splendid workmmeship of mathre and inlustry. Regardless of the merit of art and the pomp of royalty, the rigial Omar divillea the prize among his brethren of Medina; the pieture was destroyed; but such was the intrinsic value of the materials, that the share of Ali alone was sotd for 20,000 drams.-Gibnos's Rome, elh. 51, p. 187.
3592. MERIT, Nobllity by. Napoleon I. [The Austrinn] Emperor Frimcis. . . Was extremely anxious to prove the illustrions cleseent of his prospective son-in-law. . . . Napoleon refused to have the account published, remarking, "I hal rather be the descendant of an honest man thim of any petty tyrant of Itnly. I wish my nohitity to commence with myself, and derive all my titles from the Frencli people. I am the Riidolph of Hapsburg of my family. My putent, of nobility dites from the lattle of Montenotte." - - bbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 1.
3593. Merit, Partial. Sitmurl, Joh nson. IIe talked very contemptuonsly of Churchill's portry:. . . "No, sir, I called the fellow a blockhead nt first, and I will enll him a blockhend still. However, I will acknowlelge that I have a leetter opinion of him now than I once had; f'or he has shown more fertility than I expecteri.' To be sure, he is a tree that cannot produce goai fruit ; he only bears crabs. But, sir, a tree that produces a great many corbs is hetter tian a tree which produces only a few. "-Boswele's Jounson, p. 115.
3594. MERIT, Promotion by. Anglo-skrans. The Saxons, who enjoyel the same liberty with all the ancient Germans, retained that political freedom in their new settlements to which they had been accustomed in their own country. Their kings, who were no more than the chiegts of a chan or tribe, possessed no greater mithority than what la commonly anmexed to that character linall hormrous mations. The chief, or king, was the thist among the citizens, hot his anthority depended more on his persomil abilities thm on his rank. "He was even so far considered as on $n$ bevel with the people that as stated price was tlxed on his head, and a legat the was hevied on his murderer ; which, ulthough proportioned to his station, and superior to that paid for the life of a subject, was a sensible mark of his subordimation to the commmity."-'Ivtuen's Hist., Book, 6, ch. 6, p. 117.
5595. MERIT, supremaoy of. Nipoleon $I$. [When wenty-six yours of age he was made commander-in-chief of the army of Italy, with veteran offeres under him.] There were many very hemififland dissolute females in Nice, . who, tratheking in their charms, were living in great wealth mad voluptuousness. . . . Their atlurements were unavailing. :. He had no religious seruples to interfere with his indulgences. ... "I pursued a line of conduct in the highest degree irrepronchable and exemplary. . . . My supremacy could be retained only by proving myself " better man than any other man in the army. Ihad I yieded to human weaknesses I should lave lost my power."-Abbotry's NapoLeon 13., vol. 1, chi. 4.
3596. METAPHYSICS, Contempt for. Jipo. loon I. [After overcoming the Austrinn army] he entered the celebrated university [at Pavial], necompmied by his militury suite. With the utmost celerity he moved from class to class, asking questions with such rapidity the professars could hardly find time or breath to answer his questions. "What class is this ?" he inguired, as he entered the first recitation room. "The class of melaphysies," was the reply. Nipoleon, who hand but very little respeet for the uncertain deductions of mental philosophy, exclamed, vary cmphatically. "Bah!" and took a pinch of snuif.-Anhott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 5.
3597. METHOD, Regulated by. John Thestcy. "John Wesley's conversation is good, hat he is never at leisure. He is always obliged to go at a curtain hour. This is very disagreeable to a man who loves to fold his legs and have out his talk, as I do."-boswell's Jonsison, p. 361.
3598. MIND vs. Body. Columbur. [IIe sjent five months exploring the West Indies, nmid great hardships and perils.] The moment he was relieved from all solicitude, and beheld himself ia a known amd tranquil sea, the excitement suddenly ceased, and mind and body sank cxhausted by almost superhmman exertions. The very day on which he sililed from Mona he was struck with a sudden malady, which deprived him of memory, of sight, and all his faculties. ILe fell into a decp lethargy, resembling death itself. His crew, alarmed at this profound torpor, feared that death was really at hand. They abandoned, therefore, all further prosecution of the voynge, and spreading their sails to the cast wind so prevalent in those seas, bore Columbus lack, in a state of complete insensibility, to tho harbor of Isabella [from whence he had sailed]. -Imving's Colcmates, Book 7. ch. 7.
3598. - William Prince of Oraugr. The audncity of his spirit was the more remarknble lecause his physieal orgunization was unusianlly delleate. From thelith he hud heren weak und sickly. In the prlme of manhood his complaints lan been aggravated by a sevore uttack of small-pox. He was asthmatie and consumpuive. Ilis slenter frame was slankea by a constant honise eongh. Te could not sleep antess his hend was propped by several pillows, and conda seureely draw his breath in uny hat the purestair. Cruel hendaches frequently tortured hin. Exertion soon futigued him. The pliysicians constantly kept up the hopes of his cmenio's by fixing some date beyond which, if there were anything certain in medieal science, it was inspossible that his broken constitution could loold out. Yet, through a life which was one long disense, the force of his mind never fuiled, on uny grent oceasion, to beur up his suffering and languid body. - Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 155.
3600. MIND, Entertainment of. Dr. Camphell. [Dr. Cumpbell is tuken to dine with a citizen of London. He says :] I'll do so no more, for there is no entertainment but ment or drink with that class of people.-KNıan'r's ENG., vol. 7, ch. 6, p. 113.
3801. MIND, Infirmities of. Universal. It is a very uncient renurk, that folly lus its corner In the brain of every wise mun ; and certain it is, that not the poets only, like Tusso, lunt the clearest minds-Sir Isuac Newton, Paseal, Spi-noza-huve been deeply tinged with insanity. . . . It was at least nutural for l3radford and his contemporaries, while they neknowledged his [Rogrer Willinms] power as a preucher, to estecin him unsettled in judgment. - Bancrofis L. S., vol. 1, ch. 9.
3602. MIND, Surroundings of. Cromirill. Robert Cromwell, futher of the future sovereign of England, loronght up lis family in poverty. ... The poor, rongh, unyielding nature of this moist country, the unbroken liorizon, the muddy river, eloudy sky, and miseruble trees . . . were culculuted to sadden the disposition of a child. The character of the scenes in which we are brought up impresses our souls. Great funaties generally proceed from sud and sterile countries. Mahoniet. spring from the scorehing valleys of Arabin; Luther from the frozen mountains of Lower Germany ; Culvin from the inanimate plains of Picardy; Cromwell from the stagnant marshes of the Ouse. As is the place, so is the num. Lahartine's Ciombeli, p. 5.
3603. MIND, Undeveloped. Reign of James II. [The Roman Cutholic country squire.] The disnbilities under which he lay had prevented his mind from expanding to the standard, moderate as that standard was, which the minds of Protestant country gentlemen then ordinarily attained. Excluded when a boy from Eton and Westininster, when a! auth from Oxford and Cambridge, when a man from Parliament and from the bench of justice, he generally vegetuted as quietly as the elms of the avenue which led to his ancestral grange. IIs corn-fields, his duiry and his cider press, his greyhounds, his fishing-rod and his gun, his ale and his tobacco, occupied almost all his thoughts. With his neighbors, in spite of his religion, he was generally on grod terms, 'They knew him to be unambitions nad lnoffensive.-Mical'tay's ENa., di, 8, p. 306.

83BC. MIND undisturbed. N'tmurl Johmsom. Whara a proson was mentioned who said. "I have lived tlity-ome yeurs its this world without having had ten minutes of muensiness." Jo excluimed, "The man who suys so lies : he nt. tempts to impose on haman credulity." Tho Bishop of Excter in vain observed that went Were very different. Itis Lardship's manare was not innpressive, and I learmed niterward that Jolnason did not find ont that the person who talked to hian was a prehate ; if he lumd, I doult wot that he would have treated hin with more resject.-Bonw Elli's Johnson, 1. 516.

3BD5. MIND, Voratility of. Queen Elizabeth. Elizubeth could tulk poetry with Spensor umd philosophy with Bruno; slie could dincuss erle phuism with Lilly, and enjoy the chivalry of Essex ; she conld turn from lulk of the lust fushions to pore with Ceril ovor desputches und treasury-books; she could puss from trucking truitors with Walsingham to settle points of doetrine with Parker, or to calculate with Frobisher the chunces of a north-west pussuge to the Indies. The versatility and muny-sidedness of her mind enubled her to understund every phase of the intellectual movenent about her, and to fix by a sort of instinct on its higher representatives. Hist. of Eng. Peolice, § 710 .
3606. MINDS, Narrow. Chetrerteristic. Defoe, in general no illiberni jutge, complained of the imeonveniences of Jristol-its narrow streets, its narrow river, atad "also nnother narrow-lhat is, the minds of the greuerality of its people." Kniumt's End., vol. 5, clı. 1, p. 7.

360\%. MINISTERS constrained. Malomit. Aboutaleb, clreading the calamities which would aftlict the people through the civil war which the obstinacy of his nephew was about to provoke, besonght the deputies to wait, and sent to call Mahomet. "Avoid then," satid he to him in their presence, with a tone of reproachand paternal puin, " to bring wpon ther and thise the calamities that now menance us." "Oh, my uncle," replied Mulomet, sudly, "I would wish it were in my power to obey thee without a crine ; but though the sun were made to deseend upon my right und the moon upon my left, to compel me to silence, and though death were set before me face to face, to intimidate me, 1 wond not give up the work which I am ordered to attempt." In speaking these words he wept with regret at not being able to gratify his uncle, and being inevitably cast off by hinu in consequence. He made some steps to lave the assembly; but Aboutaleb, affected by lis countenunce and editied by his conviction, said to lim, "Come back, my brother's som." Muhunit approached him. "Well," said the uncle to him, " go on prophesying what thon willest, neverI vow it here before thyself and thy uecusersshall I abmalon thee to thine enemies."-LamanTLNE'S TURKEY, 1. 76.
3608. MINISTERS, Discreet. Pugans. [Julian the Apostate endeavored to elevate the pagan religion of the Romans. IIe said :] When they are summoned in their turn to olficiate before the altar, they ought not, during the appointed numbev of days, to depar: from the precinets of the temple ; nor should a single day be suffered to clapse without the prayersand the sacriflee which they are obliged to offer for the prosperlty of the State nad of ladlulduals. The excreise of their sacred functions requires an immanolate purity, both of mind and horly; and even when they are dismissed from the temple to the oceuphtons of eommon life, it is incmubent on them to exced in decency and virtue the rest of thelr felloweitizens. The priest of the gods should never he seen in theatres or thverns. His conversation should be chaste, hifs diet temperate, Jils frlends of honorable reputation; anm if he sometimes visits the Formm or the Palace, he should nppear only as the advocate of those who have vainly solicited cillur justice or mercy. His studies should be suited to the sanctity of his professlon. -Gmion's Rome, ch. 23, p. 420.
3600. MINISTERS, Salary of. £ $£ 0$ to find. [In 1688 cminent clergymen's income was dit. The lesser elergymen tion.]-KNight's Eng., vol. 5 , ch. 3, p. 36.
3610. $\square$ Paid in Tobaceo. [In 1754, in the colony of Virginia, tobaceo] was the measure of value, and the prineipal currency. Putlie offleers, ministers of the chureh, had their salaries paid at so many anmul pommes of to-bacco.-Kininte's Exo., vol. 6, ch. 13, p. 207.
3611. MINISTERS, Wives of. Duties in 1,547. [Her duties were to see that his dairy was ke]t sweet, his wool converted into usefill raiment, his strawbery phants trimmed and watered, atad his bees hived ith due season.]-Kintint's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 20. 1. 488.
3612. MINISTERS, Work of. Lay. It may be attrmed that not only was Metholism found. ed in the New World by local prenchers-hy Embury in New York, Wehb in New Jersey and Peansylvania, Strawbridge in Maryland, Neal in Camada, Gilbert in the West Indies, and Black in Nova Scotia-hut that nearly its whole frontier mareh, from the extreme north to the Gulf of Mexieo, has been led on by these hume ble laborers.-Stevens' M. E. Cilucis, vol. 2, p. 139 .

36!3. MINISTRY, Call to the. By a Text. Two of the early Methodists, whose names were Owen and Carpenter, had frequent conversations about their duty to proclaim the gospel. They agreed to settle the duestion by opening the bible and following the lead of the first passage which presented itself. Owen opened the Bible, and the first sentence his eyes fell upon was, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel." Carpenter said, "I cannot." Owen said, "I will:" the thing with him was settled.-Stevess' M. E. C'nciecir, vol. 2, p. 334.
3614. - - Methodists. [At the third Wesleyan Conference three tests were given to decide the question for those who felt called to preach the grospel.] "Inave they gifts, prace, and usefunces: First : Do they know God as a pardoning God? Have they the love of God abiding in them? Do they desire and seek nothing lut God? Are they hory in all manner of conversation? Sceond: Have they gifts (as well as grace) for the work? Have they (in some tolerable degrec) a clear, sound understunding? Iave they a right judgment in the things of God? liave they a just conception of salva-tlon loy faith? And has God glven them any degree of ntterance? Do they speak justly, rendlly, elearly ? Third: Inve they fruit ? Aro miny truly convinced of sin, and converted to (rod by their preaching? As loug as these threo marks concur In any, we belleve," ntllmed the C'onference, " that hels ralled of Goil to preach. These we receive as an sufficieat proef that he is moved thereto by the ILoly Ghost;" a decelslon which has never been essentlally moditied [hy the Methodist Chureh. -S'tevens' Methodis.i, vol. 1, p. 316.
3615. MINISTRY, An early. Rev. Richard W'atson. This eminent theologian of Wesleyan Methoolism contered the minhstry when slxteren years old. He was remarkable in childhood for the precority of his facultics. - Stevens' Metinodism, vol. 3, p. 81.
3616. MINISTRY, Expelled from the, Rer. Sumuel ,Jolenvon. It was resolveri thant, before the pminishment was inflicted, Johnson should be degraded from the priesthood. The prelates who had beren charged by the erelesiastical commission with the care of the diocese of London eited him lefore them in the rhapter honse of Saint laul's Cathedral. The manner in which he went through the ceremony male a deep impression on many minds. When he was stripped of his sacred rohe, he exclaimed, " You are taking awny my gown berause I have tried to keep your gowns on your lucks." The only purt of the formalities which seemed todistress him was the placking of the Bible out of his hand. Le made a faint struggle to retain the sacred book, kissed it, and harst into tears. "You cannot," he said, " deprive ne of the hopes which I owe to it." [ [IIe had written tracts against Roman-ism.]-Macalday's Eng., ch. 6, p. 99.
3617. MINORITY, Power of, James II. Then followed an auction, the strangest that history has recorded. On one sicu the king, on the othar the Church, began to bid eagerly against each other for the favor of those whom up to that time king and Churels had combined to oppress. The Protestant Dissenters, who, a few months before, land been a drespised and proseribed class, now held the balance of power. The harshmess with which they had been treated was universally condemned. The court tried to throw all the blame on the lierarelay. The hierarely flung it hack on the court. The king declared that he had unwillingly persecuted the separatists only because his nflairs had been in such $n$ state that he could not venture to disoblige the established clergy. The establishec? elergy protested that they liad borne a part in severitics uncongenial to their feelings only from deference to the authority of the king.Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 190.
3618. MINORITY, Power of. Cromucll. Cromwell laving a design to set up himself, and bring the crown upon his own head, sent for soane of the chief city divines, as if he made it a matter of conscience to be determined by their alvice. Among these 1 ; the leading Mr. Calamy, who very boldly opposed the project of Cromwell's single government, and offered to prove it both unlawful and impracticable. Cromwell answered readily upon the first head of unlawful, and uppealed to the sufety of the nation being the supreme law. " But," says he," pray,

Mr. Calnmy, why impracticable ?" He replled, "Oh, It is agnanst the volee of the nation ; there will be nine in ten agalust you !" "Viry well," says Cromwell; " bitt whit if I shond disarin the nine, mad put the wword in the tenth man's hand-would not that do the business ?"-Note in Tytien's lis'r., Book 6, ch. 30, p. 416.
3619. MINORITY, Prenumptuoun. Annexing Englamt. The lave to James was the lin in of the Euglish klug's Chughter, Marguret 'Tutor. For the yenrs the negotiations dragged warily along. The bitter hate of the two peoples block. ed the way, mal even Il ury's ministers objected that the Euglish crown might be made liy the match the herituge of a seotish kligg. "Then,"," they sald, "Seothand will manex Enghani." "No," said the king, with shrewd sense; " in such a case Eughand would unnex seothand, for the grenter always draws to it the less." IIls steady pressure at last won the day. In 1502 the marriage trenty with the scot klag wis formally conchaded; and gulet, ns Henry trusted, secural In the north.-DIst. of Exa, People, §500.
3020. Miracle, Fraudulent. Weqning Virgin. At Loretto there was manage of the Virgin, which the Chureh represented as of celestin! origin, mad which . . seemed to shed temrs in view of the perils of the Papary. Napoleon sent for the sacred inage, exposed the deception, by whieh, through the instrumentality of glass hends, tears uppeared to tlow, and imprisoned the priests for delading the people with triekery which tended to bring all religion into contempt. - Ambot't's Naboleon B., vol, 1, ch. 7.
3621. MIRACLES, False. Delphic Priests. The town of Delphi, famons for its orncle, was a tempting object of plumder, from the trensures accumulated in its temple. These were snved by the lumdable artitice of the priests. After ordering the inhalitants of the town to quit their honses, and tly with their wives and children to the momntains, these men, from their skill in that species of legerdemain which can work miracles upon the rude and ignomnt, contrived, hy urtiticial thmulers and lightnings, accompanied with horrible noises, while vast fragments of rock hurled from the precipises gave all the appearance of an rarthyanke, to crente such terror in the assailing Persians [under Xerxes], that they firmly believed the divinity of the place land interfered to protect his tomple, and thed with dismay from the sacred territory.-Tytlen's IIIst., Book 2, ch. 1, p. 134.
3622. - - - Mfilomet's. The votaries of Mahomet are more assured than himself of his miraculons gitts, mal their contifence and credulity increase as they are further removed from the time mud place of his spiritual exploits. They helieve or athm that trees went forth to mect him ; that he was soluted by stones; that water goshed from his tingers; thint he fed the hungry, cured the sick, and raised the deat; that a bean gromed to him; that a eamel complained to him; that $n$ shoulder of mutton informed him of its heing poisoned ; and that both animate and inanimate mature were equally subjeet to the upostle of God.-Gibbon's'MainomET, p. 25.
:3623. - - Mrahomet's. A mysterious animal, the Boak, conveyed him from the temple of Meren to that of Jerusalem: with his compmitot Gubried he successively ase ended the seven henvens, und recelved mal repmid the salutations of the patrarelas, the prophets, und the angels, in their respectlve manslons. Iseyoud the seventh heaven Mahomet nlene was permitted to procered: he passed the vell of unity, upproached within two bow shots of the throne, and felt a cold that pleread him to the henrt when his shoulder was tourbed by the hamd of God. After this fimillar thomeh importunt conversation he ugain deseconded to , arusulem, remomed the lBorak, returned to Ner(in, "al preformed in the tenth pert of the night the jonntrey of many thonsmind yours. Aerording to another legend, the apostle confounded in a mitiond assembly the mallelons clanlouge of the Kioreish. Jlis resistless word split asmder the orb of the moon; the obedient phanet stooped from her stathon in the sky, uceomplished the seven revolutions round the Comba, saluted Mahomet in the Arabinn tongue, and, sumfdenly eomatrating her dimensions, entered at tho collar, mad iswued forth through the sleeve of his shirt.-Gbhion's Rume, ch. 50, p. 113.
3044. MIRACLES by Martyra. Cutholic. [The disoberlience of the Catholies of Tipmsn in Afrien toward the Arim bishop appointed over them, exnspernted the] cruclty of llmmeric. A militury count was despatched from Carthage to Tijman; he collected the Chtholise in the Formm, and, in the presence of the whole province, deprived the guilty of their right hands and their tongues. But the holy confessors contimned to speak without tomgues; mad this mivarle is attested by Vietor, un Afrian bishop, who puhlished a history of the perserution within two years after the event. "If any one," says Victor, "should tonbt of the truth, let him repair to Constuntinople, und listen to the clear und perfert langunge of Restitutus, the sub-dencon, one of these glorious sufferers, who is now lodged in the palnee of the Emperor Zeno, and is respected by the devont empress." At Constantinople we nre astonished to tind a cool, a learned, and unexreptiomable witness, without interest mal withont passion. Aneas of Gaza, a Platonic philosopher, lus aceurntely described his own ohservitions on these African sufferers: "I snw them mrself; I henrd them spenk; I diligently inquined hy what menns such marticulate voice cond be formed without my organ of speech; I nsed my eyes to exmmine the report of my curs ; 1 opened their mouth, und saw that the whole tongue had been completely torn away by the roots-an operation which the physicians generally suppose to be mortal." The testimony of Anens of Gaza might be confirmed by the superthous evidence of the Emperor Justinian, in a perpetual erlict ; of Count Marcellimus, in his chronicle of the times; and of Pope Gregory I., who had resided at Constantinople as the minister of the Roman pontiff.-Glbbov's Rome, ch. 35, p. 557.
3625. MIRACLES, Modern. Pascal. Pascal was fully persumed that miracles were still per formed in this world. One of his nicces was af. Hicted, for three yeurs and a half, with a fistuia in the tear-gland of one of her eyes, which the most eminent surgeons of Paris pronounced incurable. The mother of the child, acting upon the advice of Paseal, took her to chateh where was presurved what was ealled "the lioly thorn" - Thit is, one of the thoris of C'lirlst's rrown of thorus. 'The thetila was then sol land that mater ran from it, wot only throngh the 'yr, lat from the nose aud month. "Neverthelons," she niys, "the child was cured, la a monarit, hy the fotich 83t324, MIRACLES, Monkish, Leqfudur!. ['The Egypthan and Syrian monks wormeronsiderat the filvorltes of heaven, mad were accustomed to cire Inveterate dismases with a tonch, a word, $]$ or a distant message, and to bxpel the most obstinnte demons from the sonles or batios whleh they jume nessed. 'They familliarly meoonted, or lapmitoms. ly commanded, the llons nud surpents of the desorts: Infused vegetation into a sapless truak; suspended fron on the surface of the water; pussad the Nilo on the luek of a crocodila, and refreshed themselves in a thery furnmer. ritiese extravigunt tates, whichanday the fleton, without the gening, of poctry, linve sertously affected the runan, the faith, and the morals of the C'iristinns.-(hmmon's Rome, chs. 37, 1. 540, 8327. MIRTH, Ill-timod, Cromircll. [Tria] of Charles I.] Another of hils relntions, Coloned Ingolishy, entered the hall aceidentally while the oflleers were signing the serntence of the ParHament, and refosed to set his mame to an act that his conscience disapproved. ('ronwell rose from has seat, mad chasping Ingoldshy in his arms, its If the deatli-warmint of the king was n comp frolle, curried him to the table, and giliding the jern in his hand, forerel hinn to shan, with a langh and a joke. When all land nillived thrir manes, Cromwill, as if manble to contain his joy, smatehed the pen from the tharess of the lasi, dipped it anow in the ink, and smeared the finee of his next neighlor, cither thaking or not thinking that in that ink he beheld the blood of his king.-L.AMAltine's C'romwelis, p. 4.4.
 1. 11) 1 .

3028. MISFORTUNE, Born to. C'harles $I$. There were many matortmate circomanamees Which combined fo lring about the malnypy doom of Charles I. Ite was motortmante in his own mature, in himselt; it was mandyy that one with a hature so wenk mad a will so strong should be called won to lace men and circomstances such as he found arrajed arninst him. But we have nlways thought the most unfortamate in the life of Charles 'Nhave bean that he $^{\text {and }}$ was the som of his father, 'The mome ol' James I. lus berome, speraking on the best anthority, syaonymons with every sembinent of contempt. It is rutite doubtfal whether $t:$ singre fentare of character or a single incident in his history ean command anchallenged regard or respect ; that about him which does not provoke indigmation excites Inmghter. Ilis conduct us sovereigu of his own country, of Seothand-before he suceerdad to the throne of England- Whs such as to awaken more than our suspicion, beyond doulet to rouse oni abhurrence. Ife has locen handed down throngh history an a great investigator of the mysteries of kingernft; but the record of the criminal trials of Scotland shows that he chietly exereised his sagacity among liose mysteries for the purpose of procuring vengennce on those monsters of iniquity who had sneered at his person or undervalued his abilities. Whenever his own perann was reflected on lie followed the de lingtant like a punther prowling for hide prey;
 fuvaluable work on the criminal trinls af scotland, he never finlled in jursuling his videlm to death.-LIom's C'nomweili, ch. :3, p. idt.
:BABP, MISFORTUNE, Cruolty with. 1 mer . irth luttions. 'Tho nged mmil lnthrm mot with linto temberness [from the limiling tribesp. The lumters, as they roatu the wilderuess, desert their old ment if provisloms fail, the forlile drop down amd are lost, or lifo is shortond ly a how. . . Those who dingerel amomg than [with times meglected, mal somethmes put to denth.Banchori'h U. S., vol. 3, cli. dis.

36:30. MISFORTUNE, Followahip in. L.urien Pomerarte. Whan Nupoleon was Imprinamed upon tho rock of St. Ielena, Lucicu apyled to the Britlish Government for permission to shime his captivity. Heofered togo, with or withont. his wife mal chlden, for two yenrs. Il engaged not to onension my magmentation of the ex pense, mat promised to submit to evory restricthon phaced upon his brother. - Anmotr's NimoIEON 13., vol. 2 , ch. 1.

3B31. MSFORTUNE overruled. Olier Gollesmith. [Ile internded to satil for Iloiland ; was diverted by jovial compmolons, and suiled for Bordenmx.] It seems that the ngreemble eonnpanions with whom our greenhorn hud struck up such a sudden intinatey were scotelmen in the French sorvine who land been in feotland anlisting recruits for the Frencla mony. In vinin dodismith jrotestod his inmoreme ; lie was marched off with his fellow-revellers to mison, wheme he with dillenly obtaned his release at the end of a formight. With his enstomary facility, howover, ut pallating his misadventures, he fomad everything turn ont for the best. Ilis imprisomment saved his life, for during his detontion the ship proweded on her royage, but was wrecked at the month of the Giromar, and all on bondrl perished. - Inving's GOLANMiTM, (h. 5. [. 4

36:32. MISFORTUNES, Effect of. Freterimk the Great. [l3y the misiortmes of war and the loss of his mother, ] the most rynionl of men was very mhappy. Ilis fuce was so haggard mad his form so thin that when on his return from Bohemia he passed through Leipsie, the people hardly knew him again. Ilis sherp was broken; the temes in spite of himself often started into his eyes; and the grave begnen to present itself to his ngrituted mind ns the best refuge from misery mal dishonor. . . . He nlways enried abont with him a sure murl sperdy joison in $n$ small ghass case; and to the few in whom he placed contidence be made no mystery of his resolu. hion.-Macallay's Fhedenuck The Gileat, p. ${ }^{\circ} 0$.

36B33. MISSION in Life. Williom Prince of Orenge. [Ho had been invited to invale Eng. land, to rescue it from tyranny and Catholicism.] IInndreds of Calvinistic prestehers prochaimed that the same power which had sot apart Sumson from the womb to the the scourge of the Philistine, und which had called Gialeon from the hareshing-floor to smite the Midinnite, had raised up William of Orange to be the champhon of all free mations innd of all pure clinrelies: mor wis this notlon whthout lullineneoon hisown mind. 'lo the contidence whlel the herole fathllst placed In hlahigh destlay and in his sucred cunse is to lo purtly attrlbuted his singular lndifieronce to danger. Ife had n great work to do: mad till it wist dome, nothligg rombl harm him. Therefore it was that, In splte of physichans, bereovered from malndies which seemed lopholess; that lmads of assussins comspired la Valn igninst hils life: that the opron skiff, to whicli he irusted hlmself lin a kitulows night, on araging ocean, and nemr a treacomotas shore, brought him sule to lind; and that, on tweuty thelde of latile, the cambon-bulles passad hilut to the right und left.-Mncistiay's Eisti., eh, it. 1. $17 \%$.

B6B4. MISSION minjudged. Strangers, [King Lomis ['hilippe und his brothers visited Amoricn, Hud wemt West in diagulare. In a log-tavern of a single njartment, whereln the guesis sopt on the flose amd the handlord mad his wife on the only bedatend, the dake overheard the lumplord, in the night, suying to lise wife what a pity it was that flaree such promising young men should be roming about the comntry withont oljecet, insteal of haying lame in that settlement and extablishlag themsolves respectubly. -

36335. MISSIONARIES, Diacoveries by, Cuthalic. Years hefore the l'iggrims anchored whthin C'upe Cod, the Roman Charch had been planted, by missiomaries from Frunce, in the Eastern tions 'Frunciscan, the companion ot C'himphain, had pernetratud the hands of the Mohawks, lamd presed to the north into the hanting-grounds of the Wyandots, and, bound by his vows to the life of $n$ begrar, jaul, on foot, or pudaling a bark emnnoe, gone ouward rind still onward, taking ulas wif the suvages, till he remehed the rivers of lake llmom, Bancmores $\mathrm{L}^{\circ}$. S., vol. 3, ch. 20.
36336. MISSIONARIES, Heroism of. Jesmits. Immedintely on its institution their missionaries, kimdeel with a heroism whied defled every charev and endured every toil, made their way to the ends of the earth ; they rnised the emblem of man's salvation on the Molnccas, in India, in Japan, in Cochin (hima: they penctrnted Ethiopin, and reached the Nhyssinimas; they phanted missions among the Catrees; in Culffornia, on the lanks of the Marmanon, in the jluins of l'araguay, they invited the wildest of lambarians to the civilization of Christhanty.-BANCRoFt's C.S. vol. ; ch. :

36:37. MISSIONARIES, Zealous. Irish. Putrick, the that mismionary of the islamel, had not been half a contury dead when lrish Christianity flung jtselt with a thery zod into lontle with the mass of heathenism which was rolling in upon the Chrjstima worla. Irish missionaries lubored anong the licts of the IIghlands and nmong the Frisims of the northern soms. An Irish missionary, Colmmb, foumded monasteries in Burfundy und the Apennimes. The Canton of St. Giall still eommemorntes in ils mame another Irish missionary before whom the spirits of tlood and fell thed whiling over the waters of the lake of Constamere. For a time it secmed as if the courne of the womld's history was te he chamend ; as If the older Coltle race that Roman nind (iar mun hud swept lsofore: them lind turned to the moral conquest of their compurars ; ins if Cevile and not Latin Chriah halty was to mould the destlulem of tho churchers of the West.-Ilin's. of Enolinit Protick, 大寸 40.

B6B3w. MIssionary, a talse. Cortez. Six lirgo vessuls were sprollly e'quipped, mind throw hime dred men eagorly volunteered to follow it lember nromely known for his couruge mad skill. Thos orders given by Velasigued to the commmmader of the experlitlon rinjolued it upon hime to lems grontly and llerally with the Mrexleans, shace the gramd objects in viow were, thast, and above ull, to convert them to christlmaty ; seromdly, to open with them a pererful, honest commerere: num, lastly, to gret such a knowledge of the comnIry and its walers as wombl be of ase to fatare 83630. MISsIONs by Conquest. Ficilure' 'The king [of l'orfagnl], anturing warmly into hiv [ \llonse d' \lbuguerefur] views, quve himasorrref commission as (ioveruor in ('hief of the Inalies, wilh powers nlmost nleonote, nud with orileres to go mut merely as aptain of onc of the shipes of a tleet, und, on ratiching ladia, to produce his commission and assmme the supreme command. Ila we suil in liself, in the tlityfonthty yenr of his age, commanding one vessiel of a the of of fourteren sail. Ilis comminsion expressly stated that the kinges tiost objocet was the spread of C'hristinnity, and that to this ond all whers ware to lue strictly werondary. [Indiat wins 11. 1)F 13iou., 1. Slis.

 selves with religions notions, mal the amperor Was very justly uprehensive that this firvor shown by the Smanards nend Portugnese for the eonversion of his subjects was but a preparative to their desjgns agninst the empre itself. . . . Still, however, the indingence of the emperar allowed when "Spunisli ship happened to be themen by the I Buteh, near the ('ape of Good Itope, on ruese ofllere to the court of Spain. containing the project of a conspirncy for dethroning and putting to denth the Emperor of Jmma, and saizing the govermment. The lutch were jealous of the lucative trade carried on by tho pamiands in this commtry, amd immedintely conveyod intelligence of this conspiracy to the conrt ol dapan. The Portuguese ollieer was wized, and ronfessel the whole desinn. He was inmedintely put to death, and the cmperer, in a solemm as. sembly ol his mobles, pronomoned an ediet forbidelinig. on pain ol dealh, any of his sulyjects lenviny the kingedom, und commanding that all the Sjaniardsand Portugnese should be instantly expelled from Japman ; that all Christian converts shoukd be imprisomed, and offering a very high reward for the discovery of any priest or missiomary who should remanin in his dominions, The Cluristians actunlly rose in arms, and were mad enongh to attempt resistance, but they were overpowered mad expelled to a man, -TYTLEN's H1sT., Book 6, ch. 24, p. 250.
3611. MISSIONS develop Science. Columbus. [Diseovery of maknown lands.] A decp re-

Lighons armhenent mingied with hife moditations, but it wax of a sublime mullofty klial : lie lankeni chosen from umong mell for the uceomplish: thent of lts high purposer : lee remi, as lar suppased. his romitemphated diseosery foremoh in Holy W'rli, mad shatowed forth darkly la thos my athe revelatoms of the prophets. The embat the earth were to be homght together, sum all m-the lumbere of the Redermere. Thits wasto la the trlamplamit consumabation of his colerprise, bringhg the remote mal ank enrth fato ronsmunton with Christinn Earope; earrying the llegh of che true fath finto benight. cil anil pugan lanis, and gathering their comatleses mitioss cumber the boly dommintur of the thasinatie liten, or mather male a klad of mental vow, which romalamel more or lese preselat to his mbin mintil the very day of hestenth. He determinad that, stionid his projectide enterprive be successfin, lie would devote the protits arising from lals maliciputed diseoweries to 12 ritusule for the rescoue uf the holy sepulehre from the power of the fathels.-Luvisa's Cobcmates, Book a, ch. 4,5 .
 Spmatares, soon uffer they whtumed the sovereifuty of Portugnl, availiol themselver of the discovery of these fishads, and beghu to corry on an lmmense trule to the const of dapm. Tha Japmise were ford of this lintrocomese, mul the emperor abrouraged it: hat this favorable disposition was nothing more than mine intive to the amblion of the Spmatiaris to alan the aboselute soverefingy of the country. For this purpose liey began by their usunf mole of rmployese to the Christhan religion. Legions of priests were sent over, inn so zealons were they lithedr function, that toward the emb of the sixteemb century they bonsted that the number of their new converts nmonated to mo less than boos, shon. [Se Missions Destroyed.]-TYThen's ILA*. Book 6, ch. 24, 1. 2:0.
36.as. MIssions to besustained. Welrille $B$. Cor. [lle was ubout to emburk an a misxiomary to Liberia, und dio a martyr's dontli.] Ton stident of the Wesleym Eniversity he remarked, "If I die in Africu, you must come nend write my epituph." "Whint slull it be ?" nsked his young friend. "Write," he replied, '" ', Let n thousand fall before Africu he given in.'" [In less than flve months after his nrival, in 18:33, he slept in mandicm grove.]-Stevens' M, E. Ciubra.
364.4. MISsIONs, zeal for, Dr. Thomas Ceke. [A friend remonstrited wilh Dr. Thomas Coke when he proposed to go to Imblia at his own expense and there establiwh Wesleyan missions, he leing nearly seventy years old.] Ine replied: "I am now dead to Europe and alive for India. God ITimself has said to me, Go to Ceylon! I would rather be set naked on its const, and without a friend, than not to go. I am learning the Portuguese language continually."-Stevens' Metnodism, vol. 3, p, 330 .
3645. MIstake, Enconraging. Columbus. The grent mistake with Columbus and others

Whe, shared hifs ophinhose was but conderning tho tigure of the curth, bui thregurel to its size. Ilo mad ur twave thonsmad milew in etreminderence. Ine therefore "onthlontiy expereted that after matithig about threw thonsmi milfes to the west ward Ine shouid arrive at the Biant fidilies: and to do that was the mos grent purpose of his life.-

:36 16. MOB, Torrifying. Drait. ont the int
 greses, und iwo monthe afterwarl the Irvishtent

 bat forty the yours were subjore to the requind. thon. 'I'he mensitre was bilterly demonareid by the opponems of the war, mind in many places likh of Inly, in the rity of Niow Sork, "1 vist mubl rowe lit urms, demolishad the binthifugs whels were oredpind by the provose mandiats. burnel the colorent onphan nyy ham, wtareked the pollor, and killed ahout a handral prople, most of whom were ingroes. For three chys the ans. thorifon of the chty were wet int latimate. On the seromed chay of the retge of terror Governor |lloratho| sicymonr arrived amd melressed the meb in a mili manamerd way, prombsing that the 'res to disperse: l lint they gave little hered to his medlow mbmoniton, mind went on with the work of dentrution. Gemerni Wiool, commamider of the millany diatrin of New Fork lhen look the mater in hamel : but the troops it his dispessal were at thes amble to overawe the lasurgents. Some volunterer regiments, lowever. come frooptug home from Gettysumg ; the Mrompolithn Pollece eompanies were companely organiz.i, und the rombinad foreres som ernashed the fasimeretion with a strong hami. . . On the 19th of Angust President Lhmoln issucil a proclamation suspornding the privile gen of the writ of helbits
 ch. 05, p. 523.
36.17. MODEETY, Consplouous. $B e n, j \neq \mathrm{min}$ Frablin. [When very yomag, he hal remarkable suceress in his business enterpolse mal in galning inthential friemals. She sureess, Deservend.] The intelligent and highly cultivinted Lagm bore testimony to his merits before they hul burst upon the work: "Our most ingenions printer has the clemrest melerstmating, with extreme modesty. Ite in certainly mextroordinmry man, of a singuhar good juilgment, but of equal modesty."—13ancrobrta L. S., vol. 3, ch. 23.
3648. MODESTY of Genius. Istac Nirton. So lithe did he value the glory of his diseoveries, that he was with dille ealty induced to nuke them? known to the word, laving in mortul ireml of being drawn into controversy. Some of his most brilliment diseoveries remained umpublished for several years. And when, at hast, his Principin had uppeared, which contained the results of his studies, he land to he much persuaded before he would consent to issue a second edition.-Panton's Newton, p. 8i, 3649. MODESTY, A Hero's. Gitribaldi. When the successful villainy of Louis Nupoleon had ruined the cuse of Italian independence, Guribaldi was one of the humdreds of brave men who sought an asylum in the United States. At mid-of enomre, he was at onco mollelted to make mex ex hibition of himself, or, is wo suty, "acoept in ovation," He moxlestly askeal to the excoused. Nuch un exhlbitlon, lae mald, was not noerosary, and comble not lielp tho chase; mor would the Amerie'an people, ho thamght, esterm him tho lass becoust he vedled hils morrows la privacy. All he ankel was to lay allowed to eurn his living by bourst labor, and rematin tmiler theproterition of the Ximeriont thag until the time should come for rennwing the attempt which tramon had fenstratedonly for atime, From lofing a genoral in commanil of unarmy, (inribalall lecamoan Stater ralling of marimer: - C'ictormina of Btoci., 1. 4103.
83850. MODESTY unopposed, John Jimetri. It has lreerl the lot of many philanthropistesto encounter oblempy amb opposidion In their eflorts to benotlt mankinel. It was Howard's happier fortume to enjoy, at all thmes, the approval of his comatrymen, and to receive needfal nid from persons In anthority. IIe was so devolil of all jure tencr, and went about hls work ln such a puict, enturst manner, and gave such unguestionable proofs of the benevolence of his motlves, that the enmity of men whose evil proctiores he exposeal was disarmad, and all others obsarviel his procordlage with ndiniration. Ilis rank, too, as a gentleman of imfopendent property, grontly fucilitated his labors, und when he lial jublidy reecived the thanks of the I Lonse of Commons, he laml a kind of oflle ind eharactor, which opermal to lim the doors of every jall the moment ho presented hlonself. Ilo parsmed his investlgntions In a very haslness-like manner, carrying wihh him a ruie wifl which to measare the dangeons, a mair of srales for wolghing the allowance of food, mand a momorumban book in whirh to recoril

3351. MONEY - AFFECTION. Tiestoration. When the commissioners of larlinment eonveyed to Charles [1I.] information of the abolition of the Commomwentth, Lord Grenville preceded them with the best proof of loyalty und affee-tion- $£ 4500$ in gold and a hill of exrlamere for £25,000.-KNiont's Ena., vol. 4, ch. 14, ]. 236.
3652. MONEY, Changed Value of. Derrerreed. [The relative value of money in the thfteenth centary was tlftern times greater than at the present day.] - KNigitr's Exa., vol. : 2 , ch. 8 , p. 121.
3858. MONEY, Corrupted by. ,James $I I$. Barllon [the French minister] received them civi]ly. Rochester [prime-minister of Jumes II.], grown bolder, proceeded to ask for money. "It will bo well lated out," ho sain ; " your master cannot employ his revenues better. Represent to him strongly how important it is that the King of England should bo dependent, not on his own people, but on the friendship of France alone.". Barillon hastened to communicate to Louis [ XIV.] the wishes of the English Government; but Louis had already anticipated them. His first act, after he was apprised of the cleath of Charles, was to collect bills of exchange on England to the amount of 500,000 livres, a sum equivalent to about $£ 37,500$ sterling. [See Hinct., ch. 4, p. 485.
365.4. MONEY, Dangers of. Sjwifums. Xill. taken Athens hos it to Npmeta many rleh spolls und 470 talents of silver. 'I'her roming of this luge mass of wealile crabled arrat disputes 116 Hparta. Muny relebrated Laysumber's pralsis, and colled it: others, who were betfer neginalitiol with the unture of thinges, and whln thole constitation, were of yulto amotherophason; they looked thon of the laws of ligerurgens ; tum they expressed their ajproherusions louilly, that, in process al thme thry might, by a chango in thelr manner's, puy fulloltely more far this monney than it was worth. I'he event justithed their l'ears.-l'a.e-

:B655. MONEY debased. With Irom. [T,jcurgus, the lacerdarmonian lawgiver, wishing to prosTlue an expality of wealth, ) stoppod the currobey of the golal and wilvor coln, anal ordired that thry whonld make tase of lron money only' then to a great gumatity and weight of this be, assigned but a suall vilue, so that to lay Ip 10 mina a whole room was required, and to remove It nothlong lews than a yoke ol oxers. When this bermme current, many kinds of finjustle censed In Latcelarmon. Who woililsteni or take a lirilse. Who womld defruml or roh, when he combl not eomemb the hooty; when lae condil neither be dignilhed by the posmession of ti, nor, If cut in pieres, be sirved by fos use? For we are fold that when bot they duenehed it favinegar to make it brittle and ummalleable, und ronserpently untle for any other nervice. In the next phace, he exeladed umprotlable amal sajuriluons arta; Inifeed. if he hal not done this, most of them wonld have fallen of themselves, when the new monny towk where, as the mamufacturers eond wot lue disposed of. Their iron eoin wonld not pass In tho rest of (ireece, lut was ridicalod and despised, so that the Spartans had no menas of porrchasing any forejgn or corions wares: nor dial any mer-chant-ship unhade in their harbors. 'There wore not even to be fonmi in all their country ejther sophists, wamdering fortame-tellers. kerpers of infumons honses, or elenlers in gold und silver triakets, becanse there was mo money. Thas Jnxary, Josing by degrees the memns that cherishod inm sujported it, died away of itself; even they who had great possessious lam nomdvantage from them, since they conld not be displayed in publie, but mast lio useloss, in unregarded repositories. - Plutancie's Lye'viequs.

S656. MONEY declined. Pension. Ifalifax . . . offered in pension to (Nexameler] Poper saying that nothing should be demanded of him for it. The young poet hud not corned an indepenlence, and was in ferble hemlth. "I wrote," lae says, "to Lord Ihalifax to thank him for his most obliging offer, saying that I had considered the nutter over fully, and that anll the difference that I could find in having and not having a pension was, that if I lad one I might live more at large in town, and that if I had not, I might live happily enough in the conntry. So the thing dropped, and I had my liberty without a coach."-KNiGirt's Eno., vol. 5, ch. 26, p. 416.
3837. MONEY deprecisted. "Clipped." The milled money dimppeared almost as fust as it was coined, and the hammered money was clipped and pare' more and more, till it was often $\mathrm{i}^{\text {a }}$. worth haif or even a third of the sum for which it passed. At Oxford, indeed, u hundred pounds' woril of the current silver money, which ought to lave weighed lour humdred ounees, was found to weigh only a hundred und sixteen. Every month the state of things was becoming worse und worse. The cost of commodities was constantly rising, and every payment of any anount involved emdless altercations. In a bargain not only had the pried of the article to be settled, but anso the valae of the money in which it was to be pidi.-Fowlenis Lojke, ch. 6.
 All commercial transuctions land become disarranged ; moone knew what he sas really worth, or what any commodity might cost him a few months henee. Matmay, who has given a most graphir description of the tinancial combltiou of the comotry ai this time, hardly exaggerates when he says, "It may be doulited whether all the misary whieh had been intlicted on the Eurlish mation in a quarter of a century by bad kings, Imal ministers, lad parliaments, und bad judges was erpual to the misery cansed in a sinshle year by hai crowns and had shillings.' Fowieris Lecke, ch. 6.
3659. $\qquad$ Continental. The financial erealit of the mation was sinking to the lowest chb. Congress, laving "o silver and gold with which to rneet the necummlating expenses of the war, hand resorted to jaiper money. At first the expedies:t was successful, and the continental hinls were reecived ut par ; but us one issue followed another, the value of the notes mpidly diminished, until, by the middle of 1 Foso, they were not worth two rents to the dollar. To argravate the evil, the emissaries of Great Britain rxecuced wounter loits of the congressional money, anc: owed the sparions bills hroadeast over the land. Business was paralyzed for the want of a currency, und the distress became extreme; but Robert Morris and a few other wealthy putriots come forward with their private fortunes and saved the suftering colonies from ruin. The mothers of Ameriei also lent a helping hand; and the patriot cimp was ghaldened with many a contribution of food and clothing which woman's sateritioing care had provided.-Rinnatin's L. S., (h. 4.3. p. $3+3$.

36i(il). MONEY disregarded. Simmil Adums. ITr was. . I Wo and forty yours of age; poor, fond so ceatented with poverty that men consured himas " wanting wisdom to estinate riches at their just value." But he was frogal and tem:erate; and his prudent and indusirions wife, cudowed with the best qualities of a New England woman, knew how to work with her own hamis, so that the small resources, whieh men of the leist opmlent class wonld have deemed a wry imperlect suppert, were sutlicient for his simple wints. Yet such was the union of dignit; wibia reonomy, that whoever visitad him saw arommal hin every circumstance of propri-ety.-Bancrore's U. S., vol. 5, eh. 10.
3661. MONEY, Earning. Abrakatn Lincoln. I was about cightera years of age. I belonged, son know, to what they call down South the
"serubs"-people who do not own slaves are noboty there. [le constructed a little tlat-hont to take produce to market. Two men engared him to take themselves and their trunks ont into the stream to the stenmboat.] I sculled them out to lie steamboat. They got on board, and I lifted up their heavy trunks, and put them on deck.

Euch of then took from his pocket a silver hnlf dolhar, and threw it on the floor of my boat. [He expeeted only two or three bits.] I could searcely believe my eyes when I suw the money. $I$ could scartely credit that $I$, a poor boy, lum earned a dolhar in less than a duy; . . . the world seemed wider and fairer before me. I was a more hopeful and contident being from that time.-Raymond's Lineoln, p. 754.
3668. MONEY expensive. Churles $I$. ITe was reckless in his extravigunce, he would listen to no advice, his embarrassments increased daily ; he did not like parlimments, und withont parhamonis how could he oldain a parlimmentary grant? So he ordered the sheniffs of all the commties to demand of all persons of substance, within their respective limits, a free gilt proportionate to the neerssities of the king; the sherifls also were ordered to take strict cograzanee of all persons who refused to contribute, and the lames of such given in to the Privy Council were marked ont for perpetual harrying and hostility by the court. Ile did not gain mueh by this obnoxious and arbitmary scheme-only about $£ 50,000$, it is sadid lunt it lost him the contidence mud the afection of the entire nution.-LIOOD's C'romweith, ch. 2, p. 39.
3663. MONEY, Love of. Jeirs. Immediately after the conguest of Gramada he [Ferdinand of Spain] expelled all the Jews from the kingrom -ll most impolitie step, which deprived Sphin of absut 150,000 inhabitants. The greatest part of these took refuge in I'ortugal, and carried with them their urts, their industry, and their commerce; the rest sailed over into Afica, whero they were still more inhumanly used than in Spain. 'The Moors of that country are sad to have ripped open their bellies in order to seareh for the gold which they were supposed to hev : con'ealed in their bowels. -TyTlen's IInst., Book 6, ch. 14, p. 219.
3664. MONEY, Meanness and. Jenry $I T I$. [King tlemy III. male the royal ollice a trade.] History presents him in seureely any other light than that of an extortioner or a begrar. . . . The records of the exchequer abundantly show that for forty years " there were no contrivances for ohtaining money so mean or unjust that he disdained to practise them.". .. The pope had more than an equal share of the spoil. - KNigur's Ena., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 361.
3665. MONEY, Paper. Manufucturad. [John Law, a scotch idventurer who had made a furtune at the gaming-table, proposed to retrieve the immense piblic ileht of France by the following system :] Indefinite issue of paper money, which was to be sulstituted for the precious metals as the circulating medinm. Gold and silver, he argued, have no real, liat ondy a conventional value; the supply of them is limited, and cannot be inereased at pleasure. If, then, their value can be trunsferred to paper, which enn easily be issued toany desired amomot, it is evident that mational wealth may be augmented to an almost inconcelvable extent. $\Lambda$ bank was opened in 1716 , but at first only as a private enterprise. Its success was rapid and complete ; and in December, 1718, the regent converted it into a roynt bank, the State becoming the proprietor of the whole of its twelve himdred shares. - Stedents France, ch. 22, St 4.
3666. MONEY, Paper. Assigntets. To meret the urgency of the moment, the corporation of laris contracted to take a certain portion of the [estates of the church, all of which had been contiscated, and] which was to be resold in course of time to privats individuals; other memicipalities followed this example; and as they were unable to pay in specie, they were allowed to issue bonds or pronissory notes, secured upon the property, which the creditors of tho State were to accept instead of money. It was thus that the fat mous system of assignats took its rise. Theseassigunts were afterward issuced upon the credit of the govermment, and, a foreed currency being given to them, they were made to answer all the purposes of coin. Fat as the value of tho assignats depended soiely upon public credit, the subsequent rapid march of the Revolution reduced them at length to a state of utter depreciation. They were reissued from time to time in immense quantitics, but became altogether worthless in the end, the amount in cireulation far exceeding the whole value of the property which they professedly represented.-Students' Fhance, ch. 26, § 4.
3667. - Bankmeptcy. The assignats, which were still a legal tender, realized no more than the two hundredth part of their nominal value. At length, after the issue of paper money had reached the almost incredible amount of forty-tive thousand millions (eighteen lundred millions sterling), it was found utterly impossible to maintain it in circulation ; the as--ignats were refused by all classes, from the highest to the lowest, throughout France. The government now determined to withdraw them, and sulstituted for them a new kind of paper currency, called mandats territora in $x$; theso mandats were charged upon the landed estates belonging to the nation, and entitled the holder to a certain specitied amount of that property, according to the valuation made in the year 1790. The assignats were suppressed, and the plate used for engraving them broken up, in Mareh, 1796. The issue of the mandats was an improvement. since they represented a substantial vulue in land, for which they were exchangeable at any moment; but aftera time they also fell into discredit, and could only be negotiated at un enormous discount. The measure led eventually to a bunkruptey of no less than thinty three milliards of francs. - S'tudents' Fliance, ch. 27, § 12.
3668. $\qquad$ American Colonies. The first effect of the unreal enlargement of the currency appeared beneficial, and men rejoiced in the seeming impulse given to trade. It was presenily found that specio was repelled from the country by the system ; . . . far from remedying the scarcity of money, it excited a thirst for new issues. $\qquad$ Commerce was corrupted in its sources by the uncertninty attending the expressions of value in every contract.- Ba ncroft's U. S., vol, 3, ch, 23, 3648. Ligal Tender. The fort. unes of the war had becin wholly on the slde of the French and their allien. But New England was now thoroughly arousel. In order to provide the whys and means of war, u colomial congress was convened at Now York. Here it was resolved to attempt the conquest of Camada by marching an army ly way of Lake Champhair ngainst Montran. At the same time Dasanchusetts was to co-operate with the land forces by sending a fleet, by way of the st. Lawrence, for the reduction of Quebec. . . . Vexations delars retarded the expedition matil the middte of October. Mennwhile an Cibmaki lndinn lad carried the news of the coming armament to Frontenare. Governor of Canala; and when the theet came in sight of the town, the castle of St. Louis was as well garrisoned and provisioned as to bid detiance to the English forces. The opportunity was lost, amd it only remained for Phipps to satl back to Boston. Fo meet the exp"... of this unfortunate expedition, Massachus 1 : oblired to issue bills of credit, whic! -.... made $\varepsilon$ legal tender in the payment of de $\quad$-ru: was the origin of paper momey in Ann in:- - lios patils U. S., ch. 16, p. 149.
3670. MONEY, Power of. Political. [Bsex having offended Queen Elizabeth she refused to renew his patents for the valuabic monopoly of swect wines when they expired, saying,] In order to manage an ungovernable beast, he must be stinted of his provender.-Kxigint's Exg. vol. 3, ch. 18, p. 285.
3671. - Samuel Johnson. In civilized society personal merit will uot serve yon so much as money will. Sir, you may make the experiment. Go into the strect, and give one man a lecture on morality, mul mother a shilling. and see which will resperet you most. It you wish only to support nature, Sir William l'etty fixes your allowance at $x=3$ a year ; but as times are much altered, let us call it titb. This sum will fill your belly, shelter you from the wenther. and even get you a strong lasting coat, supposing it to be made of good bulls hide. Now, sir, all beyond this is artiticial, mad is desired in order to obtain a greater degree of respect from our fellow-ereatures. And, sir, if $£ 600$ a year procure a man more conserquence, and, of course, more happiness, than $x^{6}$ a year, the same proportion will hood ns to $£ 6000$, nad so on, as far as opulence can be carried. Perhaps he who has a large fortune may not le so happy as he who has a small one ; but that must proceed from other causes than from his having the large fortune; for, cateris paribus, he who ts rich in a civilized socicty must be happier than he who is poor ; as riches, if properly used (and it is a man's own fault if they are not), must be productive of the highest advantages. Money, to be sure, of itself is of no use, for its only use is to part with it.-Boswell's Jonnsun, p. 121.
3672. --. Didius Julianus. [IIc had purchased the throne of the IToman Empire at auction.] He had reason to tremble. On the throne of the world he found himself without a friend, and evea without an adherent. The guards themselves were ashamed of the priuce whom their avarice had persuaded them to aceept : nor was there a citizen who did not coasider his elevation with horror, as the last insult on the Romm name. The nobility, whose eonspicuous station and ample possessions exacted the strictcst cantion, dissembled their sentiments, and met the affected civility of the emperor with smiles of compheency und professions of duty. But the people, secure in their numbers and obscurity, gave a free vent to their passions. The streets and pablic phaes of Rome resounded with clamors and impreentions. The emraged muititude aftronted the person of Julian, rejectad his tiberality, and, conseions of the impotence of their own resentment, they culledaloud on the legions of the frontiers to assert the violated majesty ol the Rommn Empire.-Ghmos's Rome, ch. 5, p. 129.
3673. MONEY, Pressure for. Regent Duc de Orleme. There had been a very large amman deticit for fifteen successive years, which had heen made up by selling ofllees and borrowing money. When the regent took the reins of power; he found, 1 st, in almost ineateulable delt ; $2 d, 800,000,000$ franes then due; 31 , un empty treasury. Almost every one in Piaris, from princes to lackeys, who had any property nt ail, held the royal paper, then worth one fourth its apparent value. What was to lie done? They tried the wildest expedients. The coin was adulterated; new bouds, similar to those we eall "preferred," were issued; men, euriched by apecolating upon the necessities of the government, were squeezed until they gave up their millions. If a man was very rich, and not a nobleman, it was enough; the Bastile, the pillory, and contiscation extrated from him the wherewith to supply the regents drunken orgies, the extravagance of hismistresses, mad the pay of his troops. Seryants aceused their masters of possessing a secret hoard, and were rewarded for their pertidy with one half of it. Rich men, trying to escape from the kingdom with their property, were hunted down and brought back to prison and to ruin. Once they seized fourteen kegs of gold coin, hidden in fourteen pipes of wine, just as the wagons were crossing the line into Holland. One great capitalist escaped from the kingdom disguised as a hay-petdler, with his money hidden in his hay. The whole number of persons arrested on the charge of having more money than they wanted was 6000 ; the number condemned and tined was 4410, and the amount of money wrung from them was $400,000,000$ franes. - Cycloredia of 13100., p. 453.
3674. MONEY vs. Merit. Mocz. Many fictitious descendants of Mahomet arose after his death. One of the Fatimite caliphs silenced an indiserect question ly drawing his cimeter: "This," said Moez, " is my pedigree; and these," casting a handful of gold to his soldiers-"" and these are my kindred and my children."-Gnbon's Rome, ch. 5, p. 166.
3675. MONEY vs. Religion. Dutch. A fleet was necessary for the reduction of Rochelle, where the Calvinists, who then suffered great persecution, wereattempting to imitate the example of the Jlollanders, and throw off their subjection to the crown of France. The cardimal found it impossible to fit out an armament with that celerity which was necessary, and he concluded a bargain with the Dutch to furnish a fleet for subduing their Protestant brethren. An opportunity thus offered of making money, tho Dutch had no seruples on the score of conscience; and they fought for the Cutholic religion as keenly as they had done hulf a century before for the Protestant.-TyTheris Mist., Book 6, ch. 35 , p. 443.
3676. MONEY, Rule of. Reign of William and Mriry. The ilonting credits of commerce, aided by commercial nccumulations, soon grew powerful enough to balance the landed intereat: st ck aristocracy competed with feudalism. So imposing was the spectacle of the introduction of the eitizents and of commerce as the arbiter of allinnces, the umpire of factions, the judge of war and pence, that it roused the nttention of speculative men. The gentle Addison. . dechared nothing to the more reasomble than that "those who have engrossed the riches of the nation should lave the mamarement of its public treasure, and the direction of its tleets and armies."-banchort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 19.
367\%. MONEY, Serviceable. Incitement. The value of money lus been settled by genernl consent to express our wants and our property, as letters were invented to express our ideas; and both these institutions, by giving a more activo energy to the powers and passions of human nature, have contributed to multiply the objects they were designed to represent. The use of gold and silver is in a great measure factitious ; but it would be impossible to enumere'c the important and varions services which agriculture and all the arts lave received from iron, when tempered and fushioned hy the operation of fire and the dexterous hand of man. Money, in a word, is the most universal incitement, iron the most powerful instrument, of luman industry ; and it is very ditticult to conceive by what memes a people, neither actuated by the one nor seconded by the other, could emerge from the grossest barbarism.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 9, p. 260 .
3678. MONEY, Throne for. Romen. After the atrocious murder of Pertinax, the Pretorian guards treated with Sulpicianus, the emperor's father in-haw, for the bestowment of the throne.

He had already begun to use the only effectiml argment, and to treat for the imperial dignity; but the more prudent of the Pratorians, apprehensive that, in this private contract, they should not obtain a just price for so valuable a commodity, ran out upon the ramparts, and, with a loud voice, prochimed that the IRoman world was to be disposed of to the best hidder by public anction. This infamous offer, the most insolent excess of military license, diffused a universal grief, shame, and indiguation throughout the city. It reached at length the ears of Didius Julianus, a wealthy semator, who, regardless of the public calnmities, was indulging himself in the luxury of the table. His wife and his daughter, his freedmen and his purasites, easily convinced him that he deserved the throne, and carnestly conjured him to embrace so fortunate an opportunity. The vain old man hastened to the Pratorian camp, where Sulpicinnus was s:ill in treaty with the guards, and began to bid against him from the foot of the rampart. The unworthy negotiation was transucted by faithful emissaries, who passed alternately from one candidate to the other, and acquainted each of them with the offers of his rival. Sulpiclanus had already promised a donative of 5000 drachms (above £160) to each soldier; when Julian, eager for the prize, rose ut once to the sum of 6250 drachms, or upward of $£ 200$ sterllag. The gates of the camp were instmatly thrownopen to the purchaser ; he was dechared emperor, and received an oath of alleginuce from the soldiers, who retained homanity enough to stipulate thit he should pardon and forget the competition of Sulpicianus. . . . Julian was conducted into a private apartment of the baths of the palace, and beheaded as a common criminal, after having purchased, with an immense treasure, an anxious and precmious reign of only sixty-six days.Gimbon's Reme, ch. 5, p. 127.
3679. MONEY, Use of. Stimucl Johnson. . A friend of ours was living at too much expense, considering how poor an appearance he made. " If," said he, " a man has splendor from his expense, if he spends his money in pride or in plensure, he has value; but if he lets others spend it for him, which is most eommonly the case, he has no advantage from it."-Boswela's Jonnson, p. 359.
3680. $\qquad$ Mrucim. It was a maxim with Alexander and Philip to procure empire aith moncy, and not money by empire, and who, by pursuing that maxim, conduered the world. For it was a common saying that it was not Philip, but Philip's gold, that took the eities of Greece. As for Alexander, when he went upon the Indian expelition, and saw the Macedonims dragging after them a heavy and unwieldy load of Persian wealth, he first set fire to the royal carringes, and sien persunded the rest to do the sime to theirs, that they might move forward to the war light and mencumbered.-Plutancn's Pacles Smalics.
3681. MONEY wanted. Richard I. [Richard I., the Crusalder,] exhilited his roynl spirit in one universal swoop of extortion and corruption, to raise money for his great adventure in the East. . . He put up the crown demesnes for sale. Hie sold the public offices. IIe sold eartdoms. Ife sold the chaim which Ilenry had asserted to the right of homage for the crown of Se lamel. . . "I would sell London, if I could find a chapman," he exclaimed. . . . When this wholesale dealer turned after an absence of four years, he forcibly resumed the lands which he had sold, and turned out the offleers who had 1"urchased their phees.-Kxugur's Eng., vol. 1, ( $21, \mathrm{p} .307$.
., 392. MONEY enforced, Worthless. Brass. [Ja: IL. in Ireland] issued a coinage of brass mon : which was to pass as sixpences, shillings, and half crowns. Eight half crowns of this money were not intrinsieally worth twopence. The tradesmen of Dublin, if they refused the money, were threatened to he hanged by the provest marshal. The government decreed that no covetous person should give by exchange of the currency intolerable rates for gold and siver, to the great disparagement of the brass and copper money, under piin of death.-Knight's Exg., vol. 5, ch. 7, p. 96.
3683. MONKERY, Early Progress of. Popular. [The popular monks,] whose reputation was connected with the fame and success of the order, assidnonsly labored to multiply the number of their fellow-captives. They insinuated themselves into noble and oputent fumilies; and the specious arts of thattery and seduction were eluployed to secure those proselytes who might hestow wealth or dignity on the monastic profession. The indignmit futher bewailed the loss, perhaps, of an only son; the credulous maid was betrayed by vanity to violate the laws of nature ; and the matron aspired to imagimary perfertion, by renouncing the virtues of domestic life. Panla yieded to the persuasive eloquence of Jerom; and the profane title of mother-in-law of God tempted that illustrious widow to conser rate the virginity of her daughter Eustordium. By the adviee, and in the company of her spivitual guide, Patala abandoned Rome and her infant son ; retired to the holy village of Bethlehem; fonnded "hospital and four monasteries ; and acquired, by her alms and pemance, an eminent and conspicuous station in the Catholic Chureh. Such rare and illustrious penitents were celebrated as the glory and exmmple of their uge; but the monasteries were tilled by a crowd of obseure and abject plebeians, who gained in the eloister much more than they had sacrificed in the world. -Gibnon's Rome, ch. 37, p. 527 .
3684. MONKERY, Origin of, Body subjugated. It was a doctrine, both of the Stoic and Platonie philosophy, that in order to raise the soul to its highest enjoyment, and to a communion with superior intelligenees, it was necessary to separate it from the borly hy mortifying and entirely disregarding that earthly vehicle, which ehecked its flight and chaiced it to the mean and sordid enjoyments of the senses. These prevailing notions of the heathen philosophy, joined to a mistaken interpretation put upon some of the precepts of the gospel, contributed to inspire some enthusiastic Christians with the same idens. The first of these who thought of separating themselves from society were a few who, after Constantine had restored peace to the church, being now free from jersecution, began to conceive that since they were no longer exposed to the persecutions of temporal power, they ought to procure for themselves voluntary grievances and afflictions. In that view they betook themselves to wilds and solitudes, where they spent their time in caves and hermitages in alternate exereises of levotion nad in rigorous acts of penance and mortification. Some of them loaded their himbs with heavy irons ; others walked naked till their bodies acquired a covering of hair like the wild beasts; and others chose still more nearly to ally themselves to the brute creation, by actually grazing with them in the fields.-Tyther's Mis'., Book 6, ch. 3, p. 82.
3685. MONKERY, Success of. Early in Fourth Century. The reputation which these persons acquired for superior sanctity, and the extraordinary blessings which were believed to attend their pious vows and prayers, naturaly procured them many remuneratory donations from those who believed they had profited by their intercessions. Some of the holy men began to lead a very comfortable life; and still pretending to bestow all their superfluities in arms and charitable donations, they retained as much as to enabe them to pass their time with much case and satisfaction. Toward the end of the fourt' century these monks or hermits had multiplied in such a manner that there was not a province in the East that was not full of them. They sprend themselves likewise over a grent purt of Afrien, and in the west they penetrated within the bishoprie of lome, and soon bermane very numerous over all Italy,-TY'taEu's Ilast., Book 6, ch. 3, p. 83 .
3886. MONKS, Artistic. Euqlish. [Dunstun required lhat the monks shonld] redieate tha hours sprured from the service of religion to the pursuits of lenrming nud the arts. . . . They would be the urtists of their time-the architerets and the painters. [A.d. 958-975.]-Kinabrris Live., vol. 1, ch. 10, 1. 142.
3687. MONKS, Wealthy. Itoly. St. Benedict, who introduced monachism futo Itnly, was the founder of that particular order catled Benedictine, which has distingrished itself in most of the countries of Europe by the ambition of many of the brotherhood, as well as by the enormons weulth which they found means to necumulate ; nud, we ouglit to add, by the laborious learning whieh some of them displayed. Benediet was an Italian by birth; he had stadied at laome, and soon distinguished himself by his talents as well as superior sanctity. An affectation of $\sin g u$ larity, probably, made him retire, when a vary young mon, to a eave at Subiaco, where he remanded for sone years. Some neighboring hermits chose him for their head, or superior; and the donations which they received from the devout and charitable very soon enabled them to build a large monastery. The reputation of Benediet increased daily, and he beran to perform mirncles, which attracted the notice of Totila, the Gothie king of Itnly. The number of his frinternity was daily angmented, and it beame customary for the rich to monke lage domations. . . . Benediet, finding his fraternity grow extremely numerous, sent colonies into sicily and into France, where they flirove anazingly. IIence they transported themselves into Engrind ; and, in a very little time, there was not a kingrlom of Europe where the Bencelictines had not obtained a footing.-Tytler's Mis't., Book 6, ch. 3, p. 84.
3638. MONOMANIA, Rashness of. John Brown. On the quiet morning of October, 1859, with no warning whatever to the inhabitants, the United Ntates arsemal at Harper's Ferry was fonnd to be in the possession of aninvading mob.

By the opening of the second day a foree of 1500 men surrounded the arsemal, ind when the insurgents surrendered, it was foumd that there had bern but 22 in all. Four were stillalive, juchading their lender, John Brown.
conceived the utterly imprncticable scheme of liberating the shaves of the south by colling on them to rise, putting arms in their hands. Governor Wise stated that during the fight, while Brown held the arsenal, with one of his sons lying dead beside him, another gasping with a mortal wound, he felt the pulse of the dying boy, used his own musket, und coolly commanded his men, all amid a shower of bullets. . . . While of sound mind on most subjects, Irrown had evidently lost his mental halance on the one topic of shavery.-Blatine's 'Twenty Yeales of Congress, vol. 1, p. $15 \overline{5}$.
3689. MONOPOLIES enconraged. Trign of Charles I. [About 1630 Charles I. granted a patent ton compuny of soap-makers, who should he the sole manufucturers in England. They were produced. The govermment obtained $\mathrm{E}^{2} 00,000$ by this and simihar devices. Grent opposition was aroused. The women petitioned ngrinst it. There was searcely un industrial ocenpution, from the sule of conds to the collection of mus, that was not mate the subject of a monopoly.] —K мuin's EN(i., vol. 3, ch. 26, p. 416.
3690. MONOPOLIES, Unpatriotic. Olive? Cromisell. [In 1650, while (ronnwell was prosecoting his cumpaign nguinst ('larles II. In Scotland, he wrote the speaker of the Parlinment. urging the reformation of many almses, miding.] If there be my one that makes many prote to make a few rich, that suits not a Commonwenth. -KNuilt's ENu., vol. 4, ch. 9, p. 135.
3601. MONOPOLY aboliahed, Land. The ambition of the prineipal plebeinas was now sutinfied (by electing one of their number to the ofllee of Prutor], and the patricians had in return some smmll gratificution by these new offices. It remained now only thut the populnce should likewise be gratitied, and this was done by the Licinian law, which emacted that no Roman citizen should possess nbove tive hundred acres of hund, and that the surplus should be distributed at a settled and low rite of price mongr the poorest of the people.-TrTLEil's Hist., Book 3, ch. 6, p. 350.
3492. MONOPOLY, Commercial. C'harles II. The Virginims soon foumd that they latd exchunged a republican tyrant, with good principles, for n monarchienl tyrant, with bad ones. King Charles II. was the worst monarell of modern times, and the people of Virginia had in him and his govermment a sperial eanse of grief. The commercial system of the Commonwealth, so far from being abolished, was re-emated in a more hateful form than ever. The new statute provided that all the colonial commeree, whether exports or imports, should he carried on in English ships. The trade between the colonies was burdencel with a heavy tax for the benctit of the govermment, and tolaceco, the staple of Virginia, could be sold nowhere lut in England. This odious mensure gave to English merchantmen a monopoly of the earrying trade of the colonies, and by destroying conpefition amoner the layers of tobace robbed the Virerinians to that extent of their leading jroduct. IRemonstrance was tried in vain. The cold and selfish monarch only sneered at the comphints of his Ameriean subjerets, and the eommercial ordinances ware vig-
 p. 118.
3693. - . Narigation det of 1660. " Fo merchandise shall be imported into the plantation but in English vessels, mavigated by Englishmen, under penmlty of forfeiture."
Fone but native or naturalized subjects shond become a merchant or factor in any English settlement-exchaling the colonists from the benetits of foreign competition. [Later] a new bav prohibited the importation of Eurojeran commodities into the colonies, execpt in Euglish ships from Enghand, to the cud that England might be made the staple, not only of colonial prouluctions, but of colonial supplies. . . . The Navigation Aet contaned a pledge of the ultimate indepmonee of America.-Banchorts U. S., vol. : 'th. 11.

36D4. MONOPOLY, Consolence vs. leter Cooper. Inppoculng to control in small fiterest in the grent (cooper lron Works at Trenton many years ago, [to Mr. Lestor,] he said, "I do not feed quife rasy nbout the amount we are making In the production of one thing in our works at Trenton. Workiog under one of our patents, we have a monopoly which seems to me nonething wrong, that we nlone are manafacturing, ete. Everyborly has to come to us for it, and we are making money too fast ; it is not right." "Well," 1 replied, "you can get over that trouble very ensily by reducing the price, even if you are not obliged to." "That is it," said he ; "nand It shatl be done. The workl needs this thing. and we are making them pay too high for it; if it were a mere matter of funcy, or luxury, or tuste, I should feel differently nbout it ; butas it is a very necessary article, I must do something abont it."-Lesteris Life of P'etear Cooper, p. 18.

3695, MONOPOLY, Exasperating. Reign of Churles $I$. Every item almost was taxed. Hackney conches were prohibited becanse sedm chairs appeared for the first time, Sir Sanders Duncombe having purchased from the king the right to carry people up and down in them.-Hood's Chomwell, ch. 4, p. 84.
3696. MONOPOLY and Famlne. Cleander. [During the reign of the Emperor Commodus] pestilence and famine contributed to fill up the measure of the calamities of lkome. The first could be only imputed to the just indignation of the gods; lut a monopoly of eorn, supported by the riches and power of the minister, was considered as the immedinte cause of the second. [Cleander was the emperor's favorite].-Grisbon's Rome, ch. 4, p. 109.
3697. MONOPOLY in Land. To the Plymouth Conncil. King James issued to forty of his subjeets. . . the most wealthy and powerful of the English mobility, a patent which, the history of the world, has but one parallel. ...The territory, . . . from the Allantic to the Pacitic, . . extended in brendth from the fortieth to the forty-eighth degree of north hatitude; . . . that is to say, nearly all the inhabited British possessions to the north of the United States, all New England, New York, half of New Jersey, very nearly all of Pennsylvania, and the whole country to the west of these states, comprising, and at the time believed to eomprise, more than a million of square miles. . . . The grant was absolute and exclusive.-Bascrofr's U. S.. vol. 1, ch. 8.
3698. MONOPOLY of Manufactures. Act of Pitrliament. "After the first day of December. 1699, no wool or manufacture made or mixed with wool, being the produce or manafucture of any of the English plantations in America, shall be loaden upon any hosse, cart, or other carriage, to be carried out of the English plantations to any other of the said plantations, or to nny other place whatsoever." The policy was continued by every administration. "Should our. . . commercial control be denied," suid the elder Pitt, seventy years afterward, "I would not sufter even a nail or a horseshoe to be manufactured in America."-Bancroft's C. S., vol. 8, ch. 19.
3699. - - Act of 1072. Parliament . resolved to earchode New England merchants from eompreting with the English1 in the markets of the sonthern phatations. . . . America was [later] forbidden not merely to manfacture those urticles which might compete with the English in forcign markets, but even to supply herselt" with those articles which her position enabled her to manufacture with success for her own wants.-Banchort's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 11.
83700. $\qquad$ Neo $A$ msterdam. a.d. 1029. The eolonists were forbidden to munufacture uny woollen or linen or cotton fabrics; not a web might be woven or a shuttle thrown, on penalty of exile. To impuir the monopoly of the Duteh wenvers was punishuhle ns perjury.B.anchort's U. S., vol. 2, th. 1 .
3701. MONOPOLY, Powers of. Senter Windom. [carticld's secretary of the Treasury,] in a letter to the Anti-monopoly League, it their public meeting at the Cooper Institute, on the 21st day of Feliruary, 1881: "I repeat to dany, in substance, words nttered seven years ago, that ' there are in this country four men who, in the matter of taxution, possess and frequently exercise powers which neither Congress nor any of our state Legislatiares would dare to exert-powers which, if exerelsed in Great Britain, would shake the throne to its very foundation. These may at any thene, and for any reason satisfactory to themselves, by a stroke of the pen, reduce the value of property in the United States by hundreds of millions. They may, at thelr own will and pleasure, disarrange and embarrass business, depress one city or locality and build another, enrleh one individual and ruin his competitors, and, when complaint is made, coolly reply, "What re you going to do ?"'"-lester's Life of Petell Coorer, p. 54.
3702. MONOPOLY resisted. Gorernmental. The encroachment was, as usial, patiently borne, till it became scrious. But at length the queen took upon herself to grant patents of monopoly by scores. There was searcely a family in the renlm which did not feel itself nggrieved by the oppression and extortion which this abuse naturally caused. Iron, oil, vinegar, coal, saltpetre, lend, starch, yarn, skins, leather, glass, contd bo bought only at exorbitint prices. The Itouse of Commons inet in an angry and determined mood. It was in vain that a courtly minority blamed the speaker for suffering the ints of the quen's Highness to be called in question. The language of the discontented purty was high and memacing. and was erhoed ly the voice of the whole nation. . . She, [Queen Elizabeth,] however. with admisable judgment and temper, deelined the contest, put herself at the head of the reforming party, redressed the grievance.- Macadhay's Exig., ch. 1, p. 50.
370:3. MOODS, Reaction of. William Corper. It was, perhaps, while he was winding thread that Lady Austen told him the story of John Gilpin. Ite lay awake at night lamghing over it. and next morning produced the ballad. It soon became famous, and was recited by Henderson, a popular actor, on the stage, though, as its gentility was doubtful, its anthor withheld his name.

He afterward fancled that this wonderful piece of hamor had been written in a mool of the deepest depression. Probably he had written it in an interval of high spirits between two such moods.-Smitu's Cowrer, ch. 5.
3704. MORALITY, Conventional. Shelliy's Fither. Mr. Timothy shelley was in no sense of the word a bad man; but he was everything which the poet's father ought not to have been. in ( Clourh's rigious opintons might be summed up in Clough's epigram:
" At church on Sunday to attend Will serve to keep the world your friend." Ilis morality in like manner was purely conventional, as may be gathered from his telling his eldest son that he would never pardon a mexalliance, but would provide for as many illegitimate children as he choose to have.-Simonds' Shelley, ch. 1.
3705. MORALITY denied. Ioman Catholic. There was among the Euglish a strong conviction that the Roman Catholic, where the interests of his religion were concerned, thonght himself free from all the ordinary rules of morality-may, that he thouglat it meritorions to violate those rules, if, by so doing, he could nvert injury or scaudal from the chureh of which he was a member. Nor was this opinion destitute of a show of reason. It was impossible to deny that IRoman Catholic casuists of great eminence had written in defence of equivocation, of mental reservation, of perjury, and even of assassimation. Nor, it was said, had the speculations of this odions school of sophists been barren of results. The massacre of Saint bartholomew, the murder of the first William of Orange, the murder of Henry 111. of France, the numerous conspiracies which had been formed against the life of Elizgheth, and, above all, the gunpowder treason, were constantly cited as instances of the close sonnection between vicions theory and vicions practice. It was alleged that every one of these crimes had been prompted or applanded by Roman Catholic divines.-Macathay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 6.
3706. MORALITY, Philosophic. Socrates. Socrates founded all his morality on the belief of a God who delighted in virtue, and whose justice would reward the good and punish the wicked in an after state. Of consequence, he believedin the immortality of the soul. IIe held that there were intermediate heings between God and man, who presided over the different parts of the creation, and who were to be honored with an inferior worship. He believed that virtuous men were particularly favored by the Divinity, who more especially manifested his care of them by the constant presence and aid of a good genius, who directed all their actions and graved them by sceret monitions from imponding evils; but on this subject, as he declined to express himself with precision, it has been reasomably conjectured that he alluded merely to the intluence of conscience, which extends its power to the virtuous alone, and deserts the vicions, abandoning them to the just consequences of their crimes. Tytlen's Jist., Book 2 , ch. 9, 1, $26 \%$.
3707. MORALITY vs. Refinement. Rome. [Era of the destruction of Corinth and Carthage.] This was the ers of the commencement of a taste for the the arts at Rome, to which the knowlelge of Asiatic luxuries had surecesfally paved the way. " IIow happy for mmanind," says Abbé Millot, "rould an nation be distingruished at once for its virtue and its refincment, and hecome polished and enlightened while it retained a purity of morals!", But this is a bemutiful im-possibility.-TYTree's Hist., Book 3, ch. 0, 1. 384.
3708. morality, shallow. ('leriral. [Rev. William Grimshaw, before his conversion, was curate of Inworth, in Yorkshire.] Jle hand stadied at Cambridgre, and wont from the miversity to his clerieal duties, corrupt in his morals and nusound in his opinions. Content with the perfunctory performance of his purish duties, ho considered himself a fair example of the clerical manners of the times; especially as it is said that he refrained, as much us possible, from, gross swearing, unless in "suitahle rompany," and when he got drunk would take care to sleep it off hefore he went home. -Stevens' Methomsm, vol. 1, p. 258.
3709. MORALITY preserves the State. Romens. That the extinction of the liberties of the Roman prople and the downfall of the commonwealth were owing to the corruption of the Roman manners, there camot be the smallest doubt; nor is it difticult to point out in a few words the cmuses of that corruption. The extent of the Roman deminions toward the end of tie republic proved fatal to its virtues. Whilo contined within the bounds of Italy, every Roman soldier, acrustomed to a life of hardship, of frugality, and of industry, placed his chief happiness in contributing in war to the preservation of his country, and in pence to the maintemance of his family ly honest lahor. A Stato of this kind, which knows no intervals of case or of indolence, is a certain preservative of good morals, and a sure antidote against every species of corruption. But the conquest of Italy paved the way for the reduction of foreign nations; for an immense acquisition of territorya tlood of wealth-mad an acquaintance with the monners, the luxuries, and the vices of the nations whom they subdued.-Tytlea's Hist., Book 4, ch. 6, 1,. 468.
3710. - Romans. If the morals of the people he entire, the spirit of patriotism pervading the ranks of the state will excite to such exertions as may soon recover the national honor. Of this truth the Roman State afforded at one time a most striking example. When Jannibal was carrying everything before him in laly, when the Roman name was sunk so low that the allies of the republic were daily dropping off, and the ltalian States seemed to stand aloof and leave her to her fate, there was in the manners of the people, and in that patriotic ardor which can only exist in an morrupted age, a spirit of recouvalescence, which speedily operated a most wonderful change of fortunc.Tyther's Mist., Book 4, ch. 6, j). $46 \overline{3}$.
3711. MORALS by Chastisement. Edmund Rich. Edmund, hand in hand with a brother Robert of his, begged his way as poor scholars were wont to the great school of Western Christendom. Here a damsel, heediess of his tonsure, wooed him so pertinacionsly that Edmund consented at last to an assignation; but when he appeared it was in company of grave academicul ottheinls who, as the maliden declared in the hour of penltence which followed, "strnightway whlpped the offending Eve out of her."IIst. of Eng. Peolle, s 164.
3712. morals degraded, Aristocrary. For years lind it been whispered that the llouse of Austriashould unite itself firmly with the Honse of Bourbon, and now the Empress Marin Theresa, herself $n$ hereditary gueen, $a$ wife and mother, religious even to bigotry, by in antograph letter caressed endearingly the Marchioness de Pompudour, one the French king's [Louls XV.] mistress, now the procuress of his pleasures, to win her inthence for the alliance. -Bancroft's U. S., vol. 4, ch. 12.
3713. MORALS examined. Athenitun Officints. The Areopagus, by an inguiry termed dokimasion, inquired into the life and mornls of all who held oftiees in the State, and such as could not stimel the serutiny were not only incapacituted foremploy, but declared infamous. Such was the award like wise ngainst a son who should refuse to support his indigent parents.-Tythen's Hist., 33ook 1, ch. 10.
3714. MORALs, Exceptional. Nio England Colonies. One might dwell there "from year to yeur and not sce a drunkard, or hear min oulh, or meet a beggar." The consequence was universal health-one of the chief elements of public happiness. The average duration of heman life, as compared with Europe, was doubled.. . . Ehey are the parents of on third of the whote white population of the United States. . . . Ench family has multiplied on the average to one thousand souls.-Banchofr's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
3715. MORALS, Grounds of. Direrse. The philosophers of Greece deduced their morals from the nature of man, rather than from that of God. They meditated, however, on the Itivine nuture, as a very curions and important speculation; and in the profond inquiry they displayed the strength and wenkness of the himan understanding.-Gribios's Rome, ch. 2, p. 35.
3716. MORALS, Importance of. Politics. No nation has athorded n more striking example than the Romuns have done of the necessity of gool morals to the preservation of political liberty and the happiness of the people. This is a doctrine of so much importance, that it camnot be too seriously consilered nor attended to. UnIike, in this respect, to many other political truths which are interesting only to statesmen, and those who conduct the machine of government, this truth is of importance to be known and considered by every single individual of the community; becmase the crror or fant is in the conduct of individuels, and can only be munded ly a conviction brought home to the mind of every private man, that the reformation must be begun by his own virtuous and patriotic cndeavors. . . . Virtue is necessary, and indispensably necessary, to the existence of every government, whatever be its form ; and no haman institution where men are assembled together to act in concert, however limited be their numbers, or however extensive, however wise may be their governors, however excellent their laws, can possess any measure of duration without that powerful cement, virtue in the principles and morals of tha people. Quid leges sime moribus reme profticiunt, is a sentiment equally applicable to all governments whatever.-Tyrisit's Histr., Book 6, ch. 6, p. 46 t.
3717. MORALS, Rule In. Thalcs ta"! ! $h t$, "Neither the crimus of had men, nor even iheir thoughts, are concealed from the gools. Henliti of body, $n$ moderate fortune, and $n$ enlivated mind are the chicf ingredients of happiness. Parents nay expect from their childiren that obedience which they themsidves paid to their parents. Stop the month of shander ly prudene. Take care not to commit the smane fandt yourself which yon censure in others."-Trylen's llast., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 261.
3718. MORTALITY remembered, Afincourt. [At the Duntle of A pincourt, the Engrish heing but one to ten aguinst the Fremelh, hefore the action begran] they knelt lown, invoking the protection of Goxl; and each man put a small piece of earth into his month, in remembrance that they were formed of dast and to dust shound return. [They gained a complete vietory, with small loss to themelves, hat with a ferrible destruction of the French.]-Kinuar's Exa., vol. 11, cli. 4.
3719. MORTIFICATION by Failure. Ricign of James II. [10ord Castlemaine was Lherlish minister to Rome, where he was very ontrutations. See Maranay in context.] In the midht of these festivities Custlemaine had to sulfer crucl mortitications and humiliations. The pepe treated him with extreme coldness and reserve.
 swer to the request which he had beon instructed to make in favor of Petre [that the rule prohithiting Jesuits from preferment might be relaxed]. lnoocent [X1H.] was taken wilh a violent fit of conghing, which pat ancud to the conversation. The fane of these singular auliences sprad over Rome. Pasquin was not silent. All the curious mad tattling population of the idlest of cities-the Jesuits and the predates of the French faction only exeepted-layghed at Castlembine's discomfiture.-Macaleay's Evit., (h. 7, p. 248.
3720. MORTIFICATION, Hateful. Jotmes $I T$. [Forty thousand pounds had been rollee ten for the exiled Juguenots by Proiestant Englishmen. The Roman Catholie king had called for the money under political pressure.] The ling was biterly mortitied by the larpe amome of the collection which lud been made in obelience to his own call. He knew, he said. what all this liberality meant. It was mere Whigerish spite to himself and his religion.-Micathay's ExG., ch. 6, p. 73.
3721. MOTHER, An honored, Fre The Srante aceepted the initiative of the lreptorians, amd by sunset Nero was securely seated on the throne of the Roman world. The dream of Agrippinas life was aceomplished. She was now the mother, as she had been the sister and the wife, of an emperor; and that young cmperor, when the tribme came to ask him the watchword for the night, answered in the words -Optimae Mritri! "To the Best of Mothers!" -Fabrar's Eariy Dats, ch. 2, p. 20.
3\%22. MOTHER, A humiliating. Byron's. The worst enemy he ever had was his mother.

She was an fignorant, foolish woman, disagreeable in her apocaranece, vory fat and awkwari, capricions, nud of a viohent temper. She indalged him most lnjurfously, often permitting himi to absent himself froms selood for n woek at a thale, and when she wat ulgey with him, her rage was surdi as to render lici lichpless, and the boys would rinn uwhy firom her and latgel at her.

Ir. (ilemmide, the master of his sehool, denied him the privilegre of poiner lame on Guturday ; wheronpon Mrs. Byrom, imblignment beinir deprived of the soeldety of her son, would! E.0 to the selool, and pour out suth atorm of invertive in the doctor's parlor that the hoys in the school rown woulal hear luer, to the grent shame of the yommer lord. The schoolmaster once ovorbatide in boy suy to him: "Byron, sour mother is a fool." "I know it," was his sud reply.-C'VClol'EDA OF 13um., p. DOI.
3728. MOTHER, Influence of a. Francis $I$. [When Francis 1. of Francee] had renched his twenty-ilest rear, lie was still in complete sulijection to his mother,-Students' Fuance, ch. 14, 51.
379.4. MOTHER, A patristic. Spartan. Tho Presinns still continued tomaintain a formidable armament upon the sen, and the operations of the Erecks were now exerted to cleur the Airemen and Duditerrmean of their lostile squadrons. The anited tleet of Greece was commanded by Aristides und Panmmias; the latter $n$ man of hish birth and anthority, uncle to one of the Spartan kings, and regent dmong his mephew's minority, but himself infinmons for letraying bis country. He had privitely desputehed letters to Serxes, offering to facilitate to him the eonquest of Greece, and demunding his danghter in marriage as a reward of this sigmal sorvice. Fortunately his letters were interedpted. The trintor fled for protection to the temple of Minerva, $n$ sametury from whieh it was judged innossible to force him. Lis mother showed an example of virtue truly lacedremonim. She walked to the gate ol the temple, and laying down a stone before the threshold, silently retired; the sigmal was understond and venerated ; the Ephori gave immediate orders for building a wall aromed the temple, and within its precinets the traitor was starved to death.-TyTLew's Ilist., Book 2 , (.h. 1, p. 138.

38'2.5. ———. Som Mowston's Mother. [IIe conlinted in the ronkis, during the war with Eng. latul, and his livends dremed him disgraved and runcel.] But his mother gave her consent as she stood in the door of her cottuge, and handed her boy the musket: "There, my son, take this," she said, " und never disgrnee it; for remember, I had rathor all my sons should till one honorable Exave thatu that one of them shombl turn his hack on an enemy. Go, and remember, too, that while the door of my cottage is open to all brave mon, it is always shat agrinist cowards." He was soon promoted to be a sergeant.-LESTER'S llocston, p. 21.
3746. MOTHER, Power of a. Vapoleon $I$. le wis thus induced, in his disy of powor, to luring hatk a wayward mation of thirty millions from cheerless, brutalizing, comfortless mbelief, to the comsoling, emobling, purifying influences wf Christimaty. When, at the command of Nitpoleon, the church-bells began again to toll the hour of prayer on every hillside amb through evory valley of Firnnce; . . Whent the young In theirmuptials und the nged in their denth wert blessed by the solemmitles of gospel ministrithons, It was a mother's inthenee whiels inspires It datifial son to make the namice rlange whilels thos, in an hour, trmaformed Frume from it pagan to nominaliy a ('hristian hamd. Honor to Letitia, the mother of Nupoleon ! - - Anbotr's Napolikon 13., vot. 1, eli. 4.
3797. Napolen I. Napoleon ever regnreded his mother with the most profoumd respect ami nillection, the repentedly declared that the fumily were entirely lindehted to har for that physieal, futcllectand, and mornd trabing which prepned them to ascemd the lofty summits of power to which they timally nttalned . . . . We oftem said, "My opinion is, that the future good or bad conduct of a child depends entirely "ןon its mother." One of his flrst acts on attaining power was to starround his mother with every linxary which wealth could furnish . . . . Te cestablished schools for female educution, remarking that Frince needed nothing mo mucls to promote its regenerution ing goorl mothers. - -1 ihotris Nabolimon 13., vol. 1, ch. 1.
3798. MOTHER, Pride of a. Comelia. $\Lambda \mathrm{t}$ this period urose Tiberius and Caius (irncelnes, two brothers, of plebeinu bleod hy their futher's side, but cmmoled by civie honors, nimd on their nonther's side, lyy deseent from the illustrions Sicipio Afriemmis. Their mother, Cornelin, w. wont tostimulate their ambition by this generous reprouch: "Why, my soms, must I ever be cinlled the damgher of "Sipio, ruther than the mother of the Grucehi ?"-Ty'Lisu's Hist., Book 4, (.h. 1, 1). $3 \times 5$
3729. MOTHER revenged, A. HInnuh Dustin. A. $1.169 \%$ [She wis eaptured at Iaverlill, N.II., her home hurned, and bube killed. See No. 11\%. She] nud her nurse and a boy from Woreester find themselves on un island in the Merrimae, just above Concord, in a wigwam occupied by two Indian fumilies. The mother phnned eserpe. "Where woudd you strike," suid the boy, Sammel Leonardson, to his master, " to kill instantly?" and the Indinn told him where and how to sealp. At night, while the houseliold slumbers, the captives, two women and a boy, cach with a tomahawk, strike vigoronsly and fleetly, and with wise division of labor; and of the twelve sleepers ton lie dead; of one squaw the wound wasnot mortal ; one child was spared from design. The love of glory next asserted its power; and the gim and tomalizwk of the murderer of her infant, nod a bigg heiped full with scalpes, were choicely kept as the trophies of the heroine. The three . . . deserended to the Einglish settlements-B.ancmor"e's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 21 .
3730. MOTHER, A raling. Of Roman Emperor Aleanoler. The pride und avarice of his mother cast a shade on the ghories of his reign ; and by exacting from his riper yenra the samo detiful obedience which she had justly elamed from his unexperieneed youth, Mamea exposed to public ridicole both her son's character and her own. [hee Woman, Dominion of, No. 6052.] -Gibmon's Rome, с: ‘, p. 184.
;873!. MOTEER, s rowful. Ming Philip'q Wrer. Writes Mary Rowlindson : . . . "Some in the honse were thghting for their lives; others wallowing In blood; the house on fire over our liomls. . . . I took my children to go forth, lmilets thylug thilk ; one went through my side und through my poor child in my urnw." . . . An Indian massare followed. "There remmined nothing to mo but me poor wommed bube Jown I monst sit in the snow, with my sick child, the picture of denth, in my hap. Not the least crumb of refreshing cmme within elther of our monilos from Wednesilay to Suturday ulght, exerpt only a little cold water. . . . One Indim, then a seroud, und then a third would come and lill mo, lour muster will quickly knock your rhild on the heml."-Bancmort's L'. S., vol. 2 , cll. 12.
3782. MOTHER, Hostllity to a step. Miitou's langhars. Ite was left aguin a widower. Six yeurs later he married his third wife, who was twentyefight years younger than himself, who survived him for the long period of ilfty: tive years. This last marriage was embittered by ceaseless contentions between his danghters and his wife, of which Milton lays the blame upon his danghters. He says his wife was geod and kind to him in his blind old age, but that his daughters were undutiful and inhmmannot only neglecting him und leaving him alone, but plotting with his muid-servant to chent him in the marketing. . . He died in 1074, aged sixty-six years. Ilis property, which mmounted to $£ 5.500$ sterling, became the suhject of a laswsuit between the widow and the daughters of the poet. They had quarrelled over his dyingr. bed, and they quarrelled over his freshly made grave.-Cycioisedia of Biog., p. 170.
3783. MOTIVES, Higher. Mfohomet. [After the concuest of Dlecea. T The fugitives and a uriliunies complained that they who had borne the hurden were neglected in the season of victory. " Alas !" replied their artful lenter, " suffer me to conciliate these recent enemies, these doubtful proselytes, by the gift of some perishable goods. To your guird I intrust my life and fortuncs. You are the compmions of my exile, of my kingclom, of my pmadise."-Giminos's Rome, ch. 50 , 8. 139.

373 . MOTIVES, Morality in. Samucl John son. The morality of an artion depents on the motive from which we act. If 1 tling half n crown to a beggar, with intention to break his inead, and he pieks it up and louss victuals with it, the physical effect is good ; hat, with respect 10 me , the action is very wrong. So, religious exercises, if not performed with an intention to please God, avail us nothing. As our Naviour says of those who perform them Irom othermotives, "Verily, they have their reward."-Boswehi's Jomingon, p. 109.
3735. MOUNTAINS, Benefte of. Afrien. The cause of the periodical inumdation of the Nile hats been satisfactorily explained by Pliny . . . and nearly in similar terms by Dr. Pococke. The north winds, says this writer, which begin to blow about the end of May, drive the clouds formed by the vapors of the Mediterranean to the southward, as far as the mountains of Ethiopia, where, boing stopped in their course, and condensed on the summits of those mountains, they falf down in violent rains, which continue for nome months.-TyTlefis llist., liook 1, ch. 4, p. in.

38:36. MOURMINO In Bereavement. Gradel. [Numa, one of the flrst kings of IRome.] fixed tho thate of monrulag necording to the different nges of the decensed. He allowed none for a child that dled under three yours of nge; and for one older, the nemrning was only to last as many monthas as he llved yerre, provided those were not more than ten. The longent monrning wis not to continue above ten montis, after which spaere widows were permilted to murry again ; bat slie that took another huslaud before that lema was out was ohliged by his decree to sacritice a cow with calf.-P'u'taben's Numa.
3737. MOURNING, National. Asamsaination of Liuroln. In the great citien of the hand all business instmitly stopped; no man had the heurt to think of gain; thags drooperd half-mast from every winged messenger of the sen, from every charch-spire, from every tree of linerty. and from every public buiding. . . . Gratbally as the day wore om emblems of mourning were hung from every house throughont the town, and before the sun hal set every city ... wis enshiromded in the shadow of netional grief. . . . None deplered the crime . . . with more sincerity than those who had been involvel in the guilt of the rebellion.-Raymond's Lincolin, ch. 21, p. 70.
3738. MOURNING, Respectful. Death of Norshington. The news urrived in France. Numleon immedintely issucd the following order of the day to the army: "Washimgton is dead. That great man fought ugainat tyramy. He established the liberty of his country. Ilis memory will be ever dear to the fremen of both hemispheres, and especially to the French soldiers. who, like him and the American troops, have fonght for liberty and equmlity. As a mark of respeet, the First Consil orders that for ten days black crape be suspended from all the standariss and baners of the Republic."- Anbotr's Naroleon b., vol. 1, ch. 16 .
3739. MULTITUDE, Fickleness of the. Oliver Crommeil. [On Cromwell's return to London from his succeensful campaign in Ireland,] he was received with every homor that Parliament and rity conld bestow, nad by the enthasinstic neclamations of the people. Ite did not despise pepular applause, but he knew something of its intrinsic value. Some one said, "What a rrowd come to spee your Lardship's triumph!" It replied, "If it were to see me hanged, how many more there would be !"-Kinging Evi., vol. 4, (h. 9, p. 132.
3740. MULTITUDE, Unreasoning. Sheep. [Cato the Censor said] the Roman people were like sherp, for as these can scarce be brought to stir singly, but all in a hody radily follow their laders, just such are ve. The men whose counsel you would not take as individuals lead you with rase in a crowd.-Phetancuis Cato the Cदरsom.
3741. MURDER, Atrocious. By Alexamer. Philotas, a worthy fuvorite of Alexander, the only remaining son of his oldest and ablest general Parmenio, had received some vague information of a treasonable design against the life of Alexander, but delayed to mention it, prob-nhly from giving nocreilt to the informar. On the report reaching bis ears from it dilferent quarter, Aleximier, who wiss told int ther sman time that l'hilotas bud leeda informed of the design and refused lo commonlente it, fammintely conceived the nuworthy susplelon that his silhome nrose from his own concern in the romspirncy. On iow other gromends Philotise wis put to the (orit. nre, minl, fin the agony of piln, nttering Nome thang that bore the apmarame of comfonsing his oIfonco, which wis mothing more than in vaninl pleve of noghgence, he wis, by the commmad of Ahexntuler, stoned to doath. But this was not - mongh, 'lise nged I'armento, whan the king conchaled to be efther men mompliee lin the crime of his son, or at least to le fincopable of ever forgiving his punishment, was, by the same command, nssussinnted in his tent. - 'IV'r-

S3712. MURDER of the Innocents. hing liikard III. Blward IV., at the nge of fortytwo. [was] pulsomed, ins is supposend, hy his brother Richnrd, Duke of ©loucesters. Hi left $t$ wo soms, the eldent Edward V., a boy of thitteen venrs of nge. Gloucester, mamed Protector of the kingdom, gave ordere that the two prinees, forsecurty, shond be loigend in the 'Tow er. . The Duke of Buekinghum, the shavish hastrment of in momitions tyrmat, hat wrought upon a mob of the memest of the populace to derelare that they wished Richurd, Duke of Ghmerester, to necept the crown; this was interperted to be the voice of the mation. The arafty 1 . with affected soruphes and with much ain ar ance of homility, was at longh prevailed on to necept the crown. Dis clevition had bern purchased by a series of crines, and way now to be secured by an art of acommatated hover. Three assassths, by the command of Richare, entered at midnight the apartment of the Tover where the princes lay aslerp, mad smothering them in the bed-elobles, buried theen in a cornor of the hailding. - 'rymars Mast., Bowk 6 , ch. 14, p. 227.
3743. MURDERESS murdered. Agripininf. [The mother of Nero. Sho murdered har hashand, and was nssassinated by order of her som, whom har crimes had elevated to the throme.] The door was darkened by the entrance of Anicetas, with the trierarch lierculeins and the maval centurion Obaritus. "If you have come to inquire ubout my henth," said the undaunted woman, "say that I have recovered. If to commit a crime, I will not believe that you have my son's orders; he would not rommand a maricide." Returning no answer, the murderris surmunded her bed, and the trierareh struck her on the head with his stick. "Strike my womb," sle exchamed, as the conturion drew his sword; "it bore a Nero." These were her last words hefore the sank down slatin with mam, womels.-FAnhates Eahly Diss, ch. 3, p. 2it.
37.4. MOSIC, Artin. Stmucl Johneron. Gonopsmorar: "The greatest masieal performers have hut small emoluments. Giardini, I am told, loes not get ubove seven handred is year." Jomsson : "That is, imbed, but little fur aman to get who does best that which so many endeavor to do. There is nothing, I think, in which the power of art is shown so much as in playing on the fiddle. In nll other things we cun dormathing int flest. Any man will forgo a har of tron, if yom glve him ithamer ; mot ko "ell ns as ailth, but folerably. A minn whil saw " piere of wome, mad maki a lox, though a ntick, and he com do nothing." - Ihowela's Jomsines, p. 20\%.
37.45. MUSIC condemned. Syurton* Timo. thens the Mihesima [was] a cellebrated bithy ram-at ring to the larpe, for whith he was nevercly a'll. ished by the sage spartuns, who concluded that lixury of semul woild effemimate the prople.-

:37.46. MUSIC, Iniaginary. Junstm. Quick. witted, of temelous memory, a remdy and ilacht benkror, gny nul gealal in mildresw, inn artiat, a masicim, lie was at the sime time an imblefiti. guble worker at laoks, at huildine al handicraft. $A *$ his sphere bepall to widen we seo him followed hy at trin of puphls, busy with lit. cruture, writing, harping, painting, designing. One morning a lady summons him to her house: to design a robe whilh she is embroidering, und, as be bemds with her madenes ower their toil, his harp, hang upon the walls, sommis without mortal tomeh tones which the exelted ears around lrame into atogons antiphon- - Ilastr.

3717. MUSIC, Love of. Sixticnth Century. Manic was the espercial ant of the Elizabethan days. In every household there was the heve of musir, unt in many families it wos rollivatol nes an assentinl part of erlucation. The plain the of the Charel dit not malit the people for the matrigals of the tireside-exquisite componstions, which tell how mach of the highest enjoyments of a rethed taste belonged to an age which we are too njt to considher vary inforior to our own in the amentios of life.-Knatits Eng., vol. 3, ch. 16, 1. 250 .
37.4N. MUSIC a Necessity. Vimiltl. [Gelimer, the King of the Vumdals in Afrim, sought refuge from the lomans on an inaccessitho monntuin in Numidiat. From the poverty of the rude Moors he greatly suffered. Pharas, one of the Reman genernls, urged him by letter to as:cept the clencmey of the emperor. " "I am not insensibls," replied the King of the Vanduls, " how kind and rational is your advice. But I' cannot persuate myself to become the slave of an majust encmy, who has deserved my implacable hatred. him I hat never injured either by word or deed; yet he has sont "gninst me, I know not from whence, a certuin Belisarins, who has cast me locadong from the throne imt. His abyss of misery. Justinian is a man ; he is a prince ; does be not dread for himself a similar reverse of fortmate? I can write mo more; my grief oppresses me. Send me, I beseech you, my dear l'hatassend me a lyre, a sponge, mad a loaf of breal." From the Viandal messienger lhams was informed of the motives of the singular request. It was long since the King of A frica had tasted bread; a detluxion hatd fallen om his cyes, the elfect of fatigue or incessunt weeping; and he wished to solace the melmanhly hours by singing to the lyre the sul story of his own misfortanes. The hummity of Pharas was moved; he sent the three exiraordinary gifts.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 4, p. 137.
3740. MUSIC, Opposed to, Puritions. They held that " nweet minsie at tha firme delighteth the ears, luat afterward corrupteth anol depraveth the mime."-Linient's diven, vol (h. 16, p. 250.
3750. MUSIC a political Power. Pipulac sing. In lise lamd Wharton pabivaned a songe ridienaling King danes II. and Tyremanel, the lord-d"puty. | "The wholourmy," says Burnet, " mad at hast the prople of both city and conatry, were shinging it petoally." Whartonafterward boasted that ho land rhymed. Tannea out of his do minlons. Ile had produced a song like many other senges, of wondrous pupalarity, with little Intrinsicamit It was whistled andsug in every
 p. 410.
 Love for the art had unfortmately led tomamdae proference for the artist. 'lione is hamasio. an attractive hagrage withont words, which ma conselonsly creates sympathy, and whid gives the maslecian powerfal inlacme over the hatination of women of enttivated minds. The dobicions, impassioned, or heroie notes of the voice or of the lnsimment seen to brenthe somb in mal. son with those subline or touching chords. 'The music and the masidinn become, ns it were, one. Ikizaio, after having merdy furnished her with amosement in times of sadness, ended by buron:ing her contidant, and her favor speedity became manifest to all. The musieian, rapidly ele vated by her from his servile position to the summat of credit and honors, became, under the mane of secretary, the reigning favorite and the minister of her policy.-Laman'tine's Many, p. 12.
3752. MUSIC in Strife, Charles XII. Ho had a fleet bockading the port of Copouharen, und an army thmolering at its gates. "What is that whistling moise I hatroverisead ?" asked the king, as he was dicembarking on lla Danid shore, "It is the muskit-mils, sire," suid un oftleer. " (Good!" suid the king: " that shall bee my music hameforth."-Cyclarema of biona, p. 436.
3753. HUSIC, Taste for. Itulithe. In Italy, writes stecle, a cobbler may be heard working to nan opera tume : and " there is not a laborer or hamdicraft man that, in the eool of the eveming, does not relieve himself with soles and somatas." But, "on the contrary, our honest combtrymen have so little inclination to muside, that they seldom begin to sing till they are half drank." KNight's Enc., vol. ©, ch. 27, p. 431.
3754. MUSIC unappreclated. Gememal (irant. [At Bangkok in siam.] A grard of honor prewhed arms, the hand phayed the " Star-Spangled Banner," which was the tirst time they hall heard that air in the East, all the other bands they had encountered haboring under the delasion that our mational air was "Itail Cohmbin." As the greaeral does not know one tune from anobler, it never made m ofla differenceso far as he was con-ecerned.-Genbilal Ghant's Travehes, p. 364.
3755. MUSIC, Undignifled. Alilherdes. In the rourse of his education, he willingly took the lessons of his musters, but refused learning to play upon the thate, which he tooked upon as a mean art, und unbecoming a gentleman. "The use of the plectrum upon the lyre," he would say, " has that it lonver no possibility of wrakin!. "-I't.v"

8754. MUTINY, Courage againat. Jul保 fit sur. Jis soldlars. . . had drestrved admidally well, hat they were antorfonately overeonselons of their tar rita. Ill fatemtioned olloere land latight them to lonk for extravagat rewards. 'I iavir ex. |n" latiosa were nol fultilled; and whenthey sup)fomed that their labors were over, ther received
 'Ihev mulinied. . . The soldiers of the favored thean comar to hisu mat, with his usual fearlessness, tohl thens to bring their swords.
, 111 stend on' ralling liem " brothers in-armas," ns nsual, he called thern "eitizens," which was a disandsal fromanviore. 1 Again passlomately they implored fo he allowed on comblane with hiln. Ifo relented, but mot coltirel! " latall go who wish whoserve unwillingly." "All, all!"they ried ; " but ohe of us will lenve jom"-- and wot one Went. The mulany was the greatest peril, per!nins, to which cirsar hat ever lenem evposed. No more was sall. - Finotobe's ('As.sh, ih. 14.

Baj7. MUTINY, Cruel. Sir Ilemy Imason. In the suanmer of 1010 a ship, (ulled the Diseovery, Whs given to IIndson; nud with 4 vision of tho Indies ditting before lis imaginntion, he left Eng. hand, aever to return. 'The ronte to ('hima was at last revesled. So believed the great raptenia mul his crew ; lut salling farther to the west, the inhospitable shenes marrowed on the more inlaspitable sea, and IIndson found himself environed, with the terrors of winter, in the frozen gulf (Indson's lbay) of the Norlh. With unfal. tering courage he bore up until hls provisions Woreahmost coxhansted; spring was at hand, and the day of escape lad infoaly errived when the trencherons crew loroke ont in mitlay. They solzed IIndeen und his only son, with seven otluer faithful sators, bhrew them into an open shallop, and cust them off mong the iceberge. The fate of the illustrions marlener Inas never been known. - Rampiths [", S., ch. 8, p. 93.

375s. MUTINY by Disappointment. Second Toyntre. [A littlecolony was planted in the West Indies.] Beronard Diaz de Piva, a man ot some importance, who had hedrl arivil oftle nhout the condt, had cone ont with the expertitionas comp-roller; he secans to have presmamed apon his oltheial powers, and to have had arly ditforenees with the admiral. Diserusted with his employment in the colony, be soon made a faction anong the discomented, and propuad that they should take alvantage of the indisposition of Colambons to suize apon some or all of the tive shipes in the harbor, aud return in them to Spain. It wondid be arasy to justify their clandestine return, by preferring a complaint arainst the admiral, representing the fallacy of his enterprises, asml aceusing linm of gross deceptions and exargerations in his accounts of the countries. [The conspiracy was discovered in dae season.]-Inving's CoLumbus, Book 6, ch. 7.
：8750．MUTINY，Reform by，／hrifinh Niory，IM the loth of Xpill｜1\％10i｜laral Ifridjert，who mallo the wignal to prepure for men．＇The mallers of his thamaile，tho leogal（iourgen，lamemid of wrighing anchor ran up the shromis mad gave threr cheres．＇The mhouts were whend from every strike terror liato the herat of the Indileast conptala． Ailhough

 set at monght－althomph ivery ollicer win that from end whif，met In laril flown＇s cation to do－ the cx＇rention of summary jemishoment upon nuy

 the llonne of $t$ iombomsumal ont ta the Admiralty， setting forth their just doammeds whth temper mid discretion．｜＇Tibe phy athe pernions of tho nrmy

 ghisito of the purser．＇IMry hud short quantitles
 They ilemanded reform ind nlso pay while bin reforms were uanle．」－Kinairy＇s EiNo．，vol． 7 ， （1．）． 10 ．

3780．MUTINY of sailors．Mritish Viley．［1）n the $2 \boldsymbol{2}$ d of Nave 1 万9\％，the Heret int the Nore wore johned be four men－of－war and asiop which do－ serted from the theet blenckading the＇l＇exel．＇Their acts wre those of a forifon encomy．Thered lang －the pirnte＇s signal，whith implied no puartar would be given－was hoisted．Merchant ves． bels ware inforevpled．The mutinerers had not the supyort of the ohlor Aleces，and they were not mated among themsifes．Som all the vessels retarned 10 their duties witheat gaining nuy －oncessions from the govarument．＇The lember of the revolt was executed．］－KNuitres Eiva．， vol．i，（＇h．11），1． $3+0$ ．

3761．MYBTERIES，Inexplicable．Srmurl Dhbuson． 1 intronlumed the sulijabl of sucomi－ sight，mal other mysterions manifestations，the fuitilument of which，I sugrested，might lapporn by chamere．Jomsson：＂I＇es，sir，butt they limve lappened so often，that mankind luve agreed to thisis them mot fortuitous．＂I laiked to him a great denl of what 1 had sorn in Corsicm，and of my jntention to publish ntl are（ount of it ．Ile enconrased me ly saying，＂Vou cannot golo the bottom of the suliject；but all that yon tuil us will be urw to us．（iave us as many more． dotes as you cam．＂－1Boswrims＇s Johnson，b．142．

3762．MYSTICISM，Methods of．Monliery．A holy ubbe，superior of thonsinds of monks，cx－ planned：＂When you ure alone in your ceil， shut the door and sit in a corner．Elevate your inngrinationabove nil transitory and vain things ； rest your beard and your chin upon your breast ； turn your cyes nud thoughts townrd the minllle of your bedy where the navel is piaced，and worctif for ther mint of the moll．All will nt flat ＂phear lo you dlerorder，olserurity，cimfumbon． lhit If yon perwevere night amdiny，yon wll ex． the menl cilenevors the pince of the henrt，it cot．

 evor（ lager，her phacel the casalry in trona，lot tho

 －fromanamere which mowe that the alleged ort－
 fonmded fin mature．On thropprome hol the mony the ladinns geturally thel with lorror，and took rofngr in their homes．－Itivisu＇s Cobcabien， lhwe fl，rli．U．

3741．NAME abandoned，I＂seotlanel．［＇l＇ios Farl of Argyle whe rapheriod aftor n voln nt （tompt turelid mgalast Jumes II．］＇［ho man who bore the chlof purt in the arrest was mamal kidiloll．Un this ucomint the whole race of Ridelells was，during more thun 11 remtury，liedd in ubharrem e：hy the grent tribe of Cumpledl． Whhin living memory，whel a Ridedell visitad ＂fair in Argylosilire：hue found it weremary tu
 1． 510.

3786．5．NAME，Ald of a．Alcioumbr．Pyrrhis， taking night frefore fue not out he drombud that Alex－ ander the dreat callad hinn，und that when has rumu to him lu：found hims sick lu bed．hut was reweived with many ohbiging exprossions of friondship，und a promise of s！otele＇n assistance． l＇yrrlus nitid，＂Jlow can you，sir，who ure sick， will do it with my mane：；＂and at the same timo le momated n Nistan horse，mad seemed to lemd

37（Bib，NAME，Change of．Robrit．［liohert，son of Richard Il．，Wins｜Nombtimos stylod＂Roleret the Magnithernt，＂and more commonly＂Robs－ ert twe levii．＂－Kxuirr＇s lixu．，vol．1，eh．13， 1．Itis．
：3747．NAME，A detested，Jiffre／s．Jeffrcys had done his work，and riturncil to cham his re－ ward．Ile arrived at Windsor from the West， lenving carmage，monming，and forror Inthind hin．The hatred with which he was regnaled in Somareststife has no paralled in our hivtory． It was uot to tre gucurhed by time or by political chatuges，was long transmifted frome gencontion lu gencratiom，bud raced tioreely ngatast his innowent progreng．Whan he lad hern many ramt dama，whon his hatme and titie were ex－ innct，his gramblanghter，the Countess of Jom－ frit，ravelling aiong the western rond，was in－ suitod by the jopulace，and fomme that she could not safely vonture hersalf among the deseendants of those who hard witnessed the blondy nasizes． But at the court Jeffreys was cordinlly weleomed． He was a judge after his master＇s own henrt．－ Macachay＇s Eng．，ch．5，p． 610.
3748．NAME，Difference in．Vruimportant． When the ambassadors of Antiochus［the Great］

 culamanerw for ther are all Ayrlans, only divin.
 vinumeraininita.
83769. NAME talsifed. Cmquriors. 'The orli-milld and friamily appellation of the grenta of tho Koamana ; and the larbarlans of (ianl, more insperdally the (iothes, reprotedly derdured that they were lomand to tho peoplo by the thes of liompitatliy, and to the emperom liy the dinty of nilleghane and inllitary serviec. - (inumon's lionte, il. ill, [1. 315.
3770. NAME, A fearful, Rirhered I. If hero-Rdelard Plantagernet will shand high nmang the herones of thenge. Tho memory of Cione de liont. of tho lion hamed prines, was long dear and ghorions to his Engilsh suldjeets; mad, at the dlastame of aixty years, it wim colebrated in proverhial matyings by the gromelsons of tho 'Turks und Surmens, ngalnat whom he hud fought; his treturolous mane was employed by the syrina sublenly started from the way, his rider was wont to exchaim, " Dost thon think King Kichnrd is in that bushl "'-Giman's lionse, ch. 40, p. 3id.

3771 . NAME, A helpful. " Wickhinglow." At Rome lie was strongry tompted tor tarn painter ; nad it was there also that he wis the recipient of attentions more flattering than heroblel nereonme for until just as he was going awny. "Tell me, sir," maid a great leoman lanker, who had paid him [artionlar homor." "tre yom a relative of Gemeral Winshington?" Ite thas lemomed that he had heen indebted for moxpereded invitations and other rivilitios to his supposed relationship to our tirat Jresident. Mr. Irving, after telling this ancedote, tised sometimes tos adal to it maother. An Engrlish lady and hor dumghter pumaded in a gallery of art before a bust of Washineton. "Mother," said the damphter, "who wis Wash. ington?" "Why, my dear, don't you kuow? lle wrote the Sk"uli lhook."-Cycioredia or B100., p. Fixl.
37742. NAME, Posthomous. ('tisur. [Tlirallthority of $]$ ('asiar was so formidable in Romme, lhat it supported his friende even after be was dend. And a simple loy rose to the tirst rminence of power by adopting his mame, which served as a charmi arainst the ensy and the inHuence of Antony.-Pidualien.
3773. NAME, A terrible. Ginerul Juckivon. In the latter part of 1817 the Seminole Indians on the frontiers of Georgia and Alabuma becane lonstile. Home bad negroes nud treachorous Crecks joined the savages in their depredations.

Ginmeral (inhore, eommandunt of ajom on Fillut Itiver, wan ment bifo the Nombonle comintry, but affer dowsoylnge n few villagen him forres wire ticheral darksarn was thenordered torollect fiom and In the mping of $\operatorname{IN} / \mathrm{A}$ owerran the howile ufralil tor tight the matit whati llay latil masad

s778. NAMES, Burdened with. The Helmh. was of Welsis despont; and lar atrongly recome: menileal it to the W'elah to atope the mule of moss rivilzail matloms, in faklig fumily mumes, fonteme of thelr manner of ulding thele father's. and, jurlunpa, thele grandfathor's mame to their awn ('hrisilan one, ns Morgan up Williams, or
 WE:t., eh. 2, p. 2ll.
:3775. NAMES, Colncidenoe In. lhrm". In the midatle of the thirternth erntary, however,
 lige ut wheo through the thlekest elomd of igno-
 "n Entoper. Thas wis Itoger Bacon, nu English gronius is entilled most deservindly to the highost rank la the nunals of Eiroynena literntures. IIa was nequatinted with all the muriont langunges. nud fumiliar wita the workm of thofr best anthars. At that times, when every pretemer to knowledge drew his areed of selence liron the Works of $A$ distotle, nad servilely admared to has dogmas and opintons, the genins of Roger baron suw the insatheleney of that philosophy; ami he bergn to "plly himself with indefatigaino latustry to that mothod of investigation hy exproriment, and by the olservation of mature, which Was nfterward, it the diatancer of four conturles, so lumpily fursumed und so strombomsly recommended by in Illustrions philasopher of the same unme, Frameis LBacon, Lard Vorulnum. In the $\because$ Opus Majus" of XRoger lBueon he deremas that if it had beron in his prower, he would have burnt the whole works of Aristotle quine err"m studium non ent misi temperis amixsmo, et remene ervonis, et multiplicatio ignorantire. Acrordingly, this grent man, "plyying limself to the improvenment of philosophy by ohservation anel experiment, distinguishued himself ly some of the most important dincoveries in astronomy, in oftios, in ehemistry, in medicinc, and in merhanien. - I'ratan's lin't., l3ook 6 , ch. 16, p. 246 .
3778. NAMES, High-sounding. I'I Pinton. The streets ure narrow nod common, but they lave high-sounding mames, the Brondway of ('anton Weinir anllod " Bemevolence:" others are mamed " Preace," " bright Cloud," " Jongevity," "Early-13cestowad Blessings," " Everlasting Love," " One IInndred Grandsons." " One Thonsand Grumdsons," "Eive Inppinessers," " Refreshingr Breezes," "Aceummhted Bhessings," "Ninefold Brightuess," ete.-GENEilal Guant's Thavelas, p. 397.
3777. NAMES, Influence of. Gicrnment. The title of king lual urmed the Itomans arainst his life. Augustus was sensible that mankind is governed by manes; nor was he decerved in his expertation that the simate and people :rond submit to slavery, provided they were resperetfully masured that they still enjoyed their uncient frerdom. A ferble sonate and enervated people rherrfally acpuiesered in the plemsing illusion, as long as it was supperted by the virtue, or even liy the ?rublenere, of the suerecsers of Augustus. -Gmmos's Rome, ch. 3, p. 87.
3774. NAMES, Memorizing, Stomm! Jth, nson. Nothing is an we common than to mistake surnumes when we heir them core sly uttered for the first time. To prevent this, he insed not only to proa: יnee them slowly and distinetly, but to take the trouble of spelling them-a practice which I have often followed, and which I wish were gencral.-Boswhen's donsson, p. 489 .
8779. NAMES, Unimportant. Tiztory. Blake did not trouble himself with governing troublesome people ; his work hy in tighting Engham's -nemies and mantaining England's honor on the soas. First we find him in conflict again with the old land fore. Prinee Rupert, who had also beiak en himself to the waters. Blake followed him to the Tugus, trailing after him the Commonwealth's men-of-war with their homely ames of the Tiger, the: Tenth Whelp, John, Signet; lomely vessels no doubt, but they succeded in seattering lapert's vessels with their finer manes, and the prince, with the fragsanents of his theet, hurricelawny to the West ladies.-Itoon's ('monsvethe, cll. 16, p. :0.).
37880. NATION, Characterized. Intion. The Indians were strongly marked with national pecularities. The most striking elamateristic of the race was a certain sense of personcl inde"uthnce, vilfulness of action, freedon from restraint. To the red man's imagimation the idea of a civil authority which should subordimate his passions, curb his will, and thwart his purposes was intoterable. Among this people no common chterprise was possible unless made so by the concorrence of free wills. If the chicf!nin entered the war-path, his kinsman and the braves of other tribes followed him only becmase they chose his leatership. Ilis anthority and right of command extended no further than to be foremost in danger, most cuming in savage strategy, liravest in battle. So of all ilse relations of Indian life-Rnmatios Li. S., ch. 1, p. 44.
3781. NATION, A conceited. England. [A Venctian traveller says] they think there are no other men than themedves, and no other world but England; and whenever they see a handsome forrigner, they say that he looks like an Englishmam.-Kxicilt's Evg., vol. 2, ch. 1it, 1. 254.
3782. NATION, A degenerate. Vholummeltons. Othman was sucrectled by $A^{1} \mathrm{i}$, the son-in-law of Mahomet. This prince, whose mame is to this day revered by the Mohammedans, inherited, in many respects, the genius of his father-in-law.

The genius of the Arabians, fired by enthasiasm and invigorated by compuest, semed now in the train of carrying everything before it. It is wonderful what may be achieved by a people who are once in the track of glory. Nistions, in fact, seem to have their ages of brillbaney, when all is life, and vigor, and enterprise ; and these perhajs preceded, and again to be fol lowed by, an cra of immimation, wemkness, and dereneracy. It this splendid priorl of the history of the Saracens, their compuests were incredible. Within half a century from the first operning of the career of Mmomet they had raised an empire more extensive than what remained, at this time, of the dominion of the I (1). mans.-TyTLeit's Ilist., Bowk 6. ch. 1, p. it.
378:8. - - Moors. Spain was at this time chiedly possessed by the Morss. The Christians oeropied about a fomrth part of the cometry, nad hat the most barren of the whole. . . The Moors possessed the aest of the country. comprehembling Portugal. Their capital . . was the city of Cordow, a most delightful residenee, which they had alorned with every embellishmont of art and magniticence. These Arabims were at this time, perhaps, the most retined umb polished poople in the world. Laxury and planore at length corrupted the prinees of the Moors, and their dominions, in the tenth century, were split mong a mumber of petty sovereigns.-TYтtes's Flast, Book 6, ch. \%, 1. $12 \pi$.

37w.t. - - Englemd, 1ת:is. Effeminacy vamity, luxury, rapacity, maversally prevailed. Religion wis dexpised. The principle of honor was loat or totally cormped. The natiomal empaty was lowered. The mational spirit of defonce was impaired. - K Nitar's ENG., vol. b, ch. 14, p. : 12 .

378it. NATION, Heterogeneous. Rome. Rommlus. . . Duilt his city, laving seut for mersons from II etrurin, who (as i, usual in sacred mysteries), arcording to statal ceremonies and written rules. were to order and direet how everything was to be done. Fiest, a circular diteh was dug about what is now called the Comitiom, or Hall of Justice, nud the first-fruits of everythin,", that is reekoned either good by use or necessury by nature were cast into it ; and then ench bringing a small quantity of the curth of the country from whence hecame, threw it in promiscuously. This diteh had the name of Mundus, the same with that of the universe.-Plutabch's RomeLtw.
3786. Natic N, An inconsiderate, Feared. [William litt and Edmund Burke were England's famous statesmen.] In 1791 Pitt invited Burke to dine with him. After dinner Burke was earnestly representing the danger which threatened the comatry from French [revolntiomary] principles, when Pitt said, "Never fear, Mr. Biske ; depend on it, we shall go on as we are till the day of juldement." "Very likely, sir," replied lگurke; "it is the day of no judigment that 1 am afrad of."-Kinigur's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 11, p. 20 .
37W7. Nation, Prospective. Nen France. In the monh of Jamary, 1ind, Verrazzani left the shores of Earope. Ilis theet consisted at first of fonir vessels, but three of them wore damared in astorm, and the voynge was undertaken with it single ship called the Dolphin. . . . The whole const of New Jersey was explored, and the hills marked as containing minerals. The harbor of New York was enfered, and its safe and spacious waters noted with admiration. At Newport, R. I., Verrazzani anchored for fiftren dars, and a trade was again opened wi.h the Indians. Before leaving the phace tho the lilsvere inhe lirst ('y luad vhat rethe Ro. 1. 5. fat this ('hrjs. e coun ountry. was idencer. bellishrahians ed and ry and of the h cenpetty cminay pro inciple

The ational Enci., Romin1s from teries), a rules. was to Iall of that is try hy bringountry ously. sume Roscared. Eng. uvited Burke which evolu. fear. as we ikely. julle.

French sailows repaid the conldence of the matives by kidnapping a child und attempting to steal a defencelesis Indian grirl. Sailing from Newport. Verrazani contimued his explorations northward. The long and broken line of the New England coast was traced with ronsider. able mare. . . Passing to the east ol Nown Sootia, the bold havigator reathed Newfoumdand in the latter part of May. In July he returned to France, and pu, hed an meoman, still extant, of his great diseoverics. The mame of Now France was now given to the whole comatry whose sen coast hial been traced by the adrenturons (rew of the Dolphin.- Rumparnis C.S., ch, 5. 1. 70.

37ww. Nation rescued, A. Buttl' at Líl. then. [Frederick the Great agamat the Aumbimas, after sulfering great disusters. Jis comemies combined arainst loussia. Great was the valor slown an! the victory won. Ser No. 10:36.] The soldiers knew how the rese ne of their nation lung on that lattle: and as a gremadier on the told of carmage began to siug. "Thamks to to God," the whole army, in the darkness of (evening, standing amid thonsat of the dead. uplifted the hÿm of praise.-Baverorg's L. S. vol. 4, ch. ì.

37NO. NATION, Shameful. simill. The gums of the enemy rolled wo more romand the British const till Cromawell wat dome and Charles Stuart came hark; and then, indeed, even Lomion herself heard them thomdering up the Medway and the Thames. Thrks, pirates, and corsairsthese ware swept away of comser ; but in thase days spain herself wis but a kingrdon of rob)bersand bucenters. Waves of golden romance, what imagimation does not kindle over the storics of the Spanish Main! The power of Slain was there-Spain, the bloodiest power of Earope: Spain, the land of the Intuisition ; Spain, the disgraced. degraded land of every superstition. Aganst her (romvell dechaer war. AIliance wibh France, hostility to Spain, and we lave sem how the immortal blake and his fireships seoured those distant seas. That great sea-king!-Hood's Cuoswfat, (h. 16, p. 217.
3790. NATJONS contrasted. itheniths-Lit. redemenions. The mamers of the Athenians formed a most striking contrast to those of the Lacediemonians. It is, in fact, hardly possible to find a greater dissimilarity even in nations inhabiting the most opposite extremes of the earth. The Athenian fomme, rither in his rolish for serious business or in his taste for pleasure, a constant oerupation. The arts at Athens mat with the highest enomragement. The luxary of the rich perpethally employed the industry of the poor; and the seiences were cultivated with the same ardor as the arts; for the connertion of mental enjoyments with modarate gratitication of sense is the refinement of linxury. But in the pleasures of the Athenians, unless, iadeed, in the most corrupted times of the commonwealth, decency was most sirupulonsly onserved. We have seren those rigid restraints on the conduct of magistrates. La archon convicted of drumkenness was, for the lirst offence, condemmed to pay a heaver ane, and for a second was pmished with death. This gremeral decency of chatacter was much heightconed be a certain urbanty of manners, which aminently distinguished the A themimenabe ad the other states of (ifece.-TyTher's H1st., Book 1, ch. 10, p. 107.
3791. NATIONS, Union of. Commomrealth. Henry IV. devised at grand schemer, which emsisted in the formation of a confederacy or commonwenlth of mations, embracing within itsell, on a perfectly cqual footing, the ihree prevailing forms of Christimity-the ('atholie, the Latheran, mad the Reformed-and gnarmotering the free enjoyment of those politieal institutions which meh member might prefer. The assoreiation was to comprise six hereditary monarehies - France, Spain, Great Britain, Denmark, Sweden, and Savoy, or Northem Italy; six clective momarelies - the cmpire, lohand, ILungary. Venice, Bohemia, mad the Papal States; ani three repphlies-the Netherhands, switzerland, and the latian Republic. contaming Gemoa, Lucem, and other small provinces. . . . The erpuilibrimm thas (established was to be natintaine d by a lederal council or diet, the deejsions of which were to $\mathrm{l}_{2}$ e final in all cases of dispute: betwern the assuriated states.-stoments

:3792. NATIONS, Vanishing. Alymquins. It apperars that their origimal seat was on the othawa River. At the begiming of the seventernth rentury the Agonguias mombered fully a puarter of a million. The tribers of this great fanily werenomadic in their habita, romming fromone hanting gromen and river to another, aroording to the exigencies of tishing and the chase. Arriculture was but tittle estemed. They were di vided into many subordinate tribes, math havinis its local mame, dialeet, and traditions. When the? tirst European settlements were phanted the Al. gonguin race was already declining in numbers and inthence. Wasting disenses destroyed whole tribes. Of all the Indian mations, the Algoneguins suffered most from contact with the white man. Before h": rugressive spirit, his fiery rum, and his destru tive weapons, the warriors were mabe to stand. The race has withered to a shadow: only a few thonsands remain to rehearse the story of their meestors.-R1DPATI's C.S., ch. 1, p. 42.
3798. NATURE vs. Art. Sicmuel Johuson. Boswbia: "I am well assired that the people of Otaheite who lave the bread tree, the fruit of which serves them for bread, lamghed heartily when they were informed of the tedions proces.s neressary with us to have bread-ploughinge, sowing, Barrowing, reaping. threshing, grinding, baking.' Jomssos: "Why, sir, all ignorant savages will hath when ther are told of the atvantare of edvilized life. Wrere yon totell men who live withont houses how we pile brick upon brick, and rafter upon rafter, and that after :a house is raised to a certain heright it man tumbles off a scalfold and breaks his neek, he would hats heartily at our folly in buikding ; but it ders mot follow that me n are better without houses. No, sir," hobling up aslice of a good loaf, "this is better than the breal-tree."-BosWELA.'s Jounses, p. 216.
379.1. Nature, Demands of. Istitic Veiton. Early in his college carcer Newton would spend a whole nigh: $i^{\prime}$ : the solution of a mathematical problem, and would greet him [his friend] in the morning with a jogful salutation, seeming to be as much refreshed hy his success as if he hat spent the ulght in sleep. He would lenve his dinner untusted on the table, hour after hour, while be brooded over some mathematieal dithrulty, and at length order the dishes to be yemoved, not being aware that he lad no dimer. Nature will not suspend her laws even in lavor of her most illustrions interpreter. The bhom faded from his cheoks; his digestion beemme intpared, and a serioas illness threatened his life. He took warning, as he remarked, and " learned to go to bed betimes."-Pantos's Newton, p. 79.
3795. NATURE depreciatud. Stmurl duhn. *on. We walked in the evening in Greenwich Park. Ite asked me. I suppose, by way of trying iny disposition, "Is not this very fine ". Having no exquisite relish of the beations of mature, and being more delighted with " the busy hum of men," I answered, "Yes, sir ; but not equal to Fleet Strect." Joinson: "You are right, sir."-Bosweli's Jollnson, p. 127.
3796. NATURE, Irrepresaible, Andrent Jackson. The new President was a mutive of North Carolina, born on the Waxhaw, Mareh 15, 1767. His belligerent nature broke out in boythood. and his mother's plan of dev tang him to the ministry was hopelessly defeatud. - Rodenturs U. S., eh. 54, p. $4 \because 6$.
3797. NATURE misinterpreted. Provider. It was the fashion, ${ }^{*}$ the times to att tribute every remarkable event to the particular will of thi Deity ; the alterations of nature were comerted, by an invisible chain, with the moral and metaphysical opinions of the human mind ; and the most sagacious divines could distinguish, aceoreing to the color of their respective prejudices, that the establishment of heresy tended to produce an earthquake, or that a deluge was ' $t$ ', inevitable consegucnce of the prog. of sin and error-Gimbons Rome, (ll. ${ }^{2} 6, \mathrm{p}$ ) $\mathfrak{\sim}$.
3798. Nature, Relief in. Edm" d. Rurhe. It is sill a touching pieture to the historic imagination to follow him from the beat ant? violence of the Honse, where tipsy squires derided the greatest genius of his tims, down to tho calm shades of Beaconstiedd, where he would with his own hands give food to a starving beggar or medicine to a peasant sick of the ague: wiere he would talk of the weather, the turnips, and the hay with the team-men and the inrm-inatifl ; and where, in the evening stilhess, he woukd pa.e the walk under the trees, and retlect on the state of Europer and the distrations of his com-try.-Mordey's Relike, chi. 6.
3799. NATURB, Secrets of. Reigh of 'lurles II. The great work of interpreting niture was performed by the English of that age ?.s it hat never before been performed in any age hy any nation. The spirit of Francis Bacon was ahroarla spirit admirably compounded of andacity and sobriety. There was a strong persuasion that the whole word was full of seerets of high moment to the happiness of man, and that man han, by his Maker, heen intrusted with the ke'y which, righ'ly used, would give access to them. There was, at the same time, a conviction that in physics it was impossible to arrive at the knowledge of general lawsexcept by the careful onservation of particular facts.-Macadlay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 381 .

3$00. NAVIGATION undeveloped. A.D. 300. So imperfect in those times was the art of navigation, that orators have colebrated the daring cournge of the lomans, who ventured to set sail with a side-wind, and on in stormy day.-Gurmon's Rone, ch. 13, p. 41 .
3801. NAVY, A formidable. Inrincille $A$ mudi. Quent Elizaheth, who openly expoused the canse of the Hollamlers, had by one of her adminats, Sir Francis I rake, taken and plan. dered some of the Sberish settlements in Amorica. To revenge these injuries, Philip [II.] prepared for an invasion of the kinglom of lingland, and ectuipped the Invincible Armata, the most formidable maval armament that lad ever. been raised by any single nation. This immense armament cousisted of 150 large ships of war. mamed by 20,000 soldiers and upward of 8000 seamen, besides 2000 galley-slaves, and armed with 3000 picees of cammon. To co-operate with this prodigions naval force, 30.000 men were to be conveyed in tmonsports from Flanders, and a general insurrection was expected of all the (atholics in Britain to depose Elizabeth, anil place her eonsin, Dary of Scotland, upon the throne of Englaml.-Tytrer's His'r., Book 6, ch. 26, p. 369 .

364\%, NAVY, Need of. Peter the Great. II aext turned his atention to the reation of a have. His father, in pursuance of the same design, had cansed ene ship to be built for him in Hollame ; but that one ship, the whole navy of lanssin, had been burnt, and in all the empire there were hat wo men capable of navigating: a shi]. "eter sought out these two men, one of whom pated to be a man of groat ability ; and him the c\%ar promoted to the post of chinf comatructor. Workmen were brought from Holland; a mavy-yar! was established ; and soom the first vessel was lamehed.-Cyclobrema on By\%i., p. 429.
3403. NECESSITY, Law of C'uptain Joh" Simith. I Descenting Jumes River as far as IIampton Roads, he handed with his five compamions, went holdly among the natives. and began to offer them hatchets and copper coins in exchange for corn. The Indians only langhed at the prol:osal, t.id then mocked the half-starved fore: in ers lyy olfering to barter a piece of browd for Smith's sword and musket. Finding that growl treatment was only thrown away, the English formed the desperat reselution of fighting. Ite and his men fired a volley among the attrighted savages, who ran yelling into the wools. Going straight to their wigwams, he found an abundane store of corn, but forbid his men to take a grain matil the Indians should return to attack them. sixty or seventy painted warriors, hembed by a priest whorarried an idol in his arms, soon came out of the forest, and made a violent onset. The English not only stoon their ground, but made a rush, wounded several of the natives, and captured their idol. A parley now ensued; the terrified priest came and fambly begged for his s.e. $n$ deity, but Smith stood grimly with his musket across the prostrate idol, and would grant no terms until six unarmed Indians had loaded his boat with corn. Then the image was given up, beads and hatchets were liberally distributed among the warriors, who ratified the pace by performing a dance of friendship, while Smitit
.J. 300. of mavidaringr , set sail - - GiliThle A' "pouscel - of her (1) pln! 1 Hincer [.] pres of ling. Ida, the ad ever minense of war. of 8000 armed "te witlis were to , and it le (atha place throne ch. 26 , at. II ${ }^{\circ}$ III of al inie dehim in hVy of 'inpire igratin! , one of y; and if con n llol M Ilo d seom
1 HIA 01 " Johu Himp)mions, gan 10 change he proorespry ad for thool onglish g. Ho ighted Going melant grain them. 1 liy Cathe Tlie nade it capt\& $\because$ insket nt no ed his n up, buted ce lyy smit
and his men rowed up the river witha bont-load of supplies.-lindeath's U. B., ch. 0, p. 98.
3504. NECROMANCY, Proof of. "Familiar' Spirit." Dr. John Dee, an astrologer and magician, who went on casting mutivities and raising splrits till the duys of James I., had come Into repute in the midule of the sixteenth century ; and he got into trouble, aceording to his own account, through being suspected of "emdenvoring, by enchmiments, to destroy Queen Mary." In June, 15,5, some persons wereapprehended, "that dif culculate the king's and queten's and oy hady Flizalneth's nativity ; whereof one Dee wid Davy are arcused, that they should have a inmiline spirit." The familiur spirit was believed in, because one of their accusers had "immediately upon the accusation both his children stricken, the one winh present death and the other with hlinduess." --KNignt's Evic., vol. 3, ch. 7, p, 97.
3805. NEGRO, Blood of the. Boston Mresertere. [British soldiers proveked a quarrel in the sirectes of Boston, and were despised and insulted by the mol.] Three persons were killed, among them Attucks, the mulato. . . . Who at the time was epuetly leaning on a lomg stick. . . . Bight ware wonnded, two of themin mortally. Of all the aleven, not more than one hat hat myy share in the disturbance.-Baxchom's L. S., vol. 6, ch. 43 .
3806. NEGROES in War. Lmerioth ('monits. [In Parliament, A D. 19̃it, Lythlton, formerly Governor of South Carolina, favored coercion, and] explaned the inherent weakness of the Southro cotomies, and with obvions sativfaction intimated that "if a few regiments were sent there, the negroes world imbrue their lumds in their masters' bloud."-B.anckowr's C.S.s., vol. s, rl. 51.
3807. NERVOUSNESS evinced. Samuel Juhnsom. Such was the heat and irritability of his bloon, that not onty did he pare his mails to the quick, but scraped the joints of his tingers with a penknife, till they seemed quite red and raw. - Bobwela's Jomson, p. 489.
3808. NEUTRALITY onforced. Firmh Rerdution. [When Lonis XVI. was captured hy the revolutionists and returned to Paris, placards were posted announcing.] Whoever slmall apphad the king shall be Hogged; whoever shall insult him shatl be hanged.-Fivarr's Exc., vol. 7, ch. 10, p. 203.

3SOO. HEUTRALITY, Nominal. Ildmmit. Most destructive ol all the Confedmate vessels was the famons Alabama, built at Liverpool. Her eommander was Captain Raphace semmes. the same whon had cruised in the sumter. it majority ol the crew of the Ahbama were British subjects; her armament was entirely British; and whenever ocrasion required the british thar was carrich. In her whole carcer, involving the destruction of sixty-six vessels amel a lose of $$ 10,000,600$, to the merchant serviere of the United Shates, she never entered a confederate port, but continaed abroad, caphuring and hurning. Early in the summer of 1804 Semmes entered the harbor of Cherbourg. France, and was therediscovered by Captain Winslow, commandir of the steamer Kearsarge. The French Government gave the Coufederate captain orders do leabe the port, and on the 190 of June be went out to glve his antagonist battle. Seven miles from the shore the two ships closed for the death-struggle ; and after a desperate battle of an hour's duration the Alabuma was shattered and sunk. Semmes and a part of hils officers and crew were picked op by the English yacht Decrhound and carried to Southampton.-Rib1.stu's U. S., ch. 60, p. 533.
3810. News, Fatal. $D$ r. Viflentine Mott. The babiber of Dr. Mott at once begm to sponk of the awful news of that morning. The doctor, who had heard nothing of it, was overwhelmed with the intelligence fie turned as pule as demh. Jising from his chair, he shaggered to an adjoining room in searedn of his wite. "My dear," said he, "I have received such, in shock; President dincoln has been murdered." Having uttered these words, he sat down, atill dendly pale, and so freble that he could searedy keep his seat. Jle was sorn seizel with neute pains in the back, and appared to be overtaken, all at Guce, with the weakness usually attached to fourscore. Fre th that time he continued to yrow fectbor every hour, and after lingering ten lays berathed lise last-a vietim of the same blow that robled the nation of its chiet.- C':

:3WA1. NEWS, Writer of. Inerices in A.D. 1709. His brain, which was his restate, had ns regular and different products as other men's land. From the begiming of November until the opening of the (ampaign he writ pamphlets and let. ters in members of parliament or friends in the comntry. But sometimes he would reliave his orlinaty readers with a murder, and lived combertaty for a week or two upon strange and lamentable accidents. A little before the armies took the tield his way was to open yourattention with eprodigy; and a monster well writ was two guinens at the lowest prire. This prepared his remelers for the great and bloody news from Flanders in Jtme and July.-Findit's Ena., ch. 26, 1). 413 .
3512. NEWSPAPERS, Colonial. American. In 1740 the mumber of newspapers in the English colonies on the Continent had increaged to eleven, . . . one in South Carolina, one in Virginia, three in Pemosylvmia, $\qquad$ one in New York, and the remminhe five in luoston. The shecet at first used was lut of the foolscap size ; and but one, or aven half of one, was issued weckly. The papers sought support rather by morlestly telling the news of the day than by cugaging in contlicts: they had no politicni theories tornforee, no revolnioms in faith to hasten. - Baxcrov"'s U. S., vol. 3, ch. ¿3.
3813. NEWTSPAPERS deprecated. By Addizon. [At the oprening of the eighteenth econtury] newspapers multiplied. But evern Addisoneould not see that they were capable of beroming great instruments of public good. Ite says the people are made politic ians ly the pablication of State matters by the press: and adids, "One cumot. but he sorry that such a pernicious machine is arected among them."-Kinigntis Exa., vol. 5 , ch. 4, p. 61.
3814. NEWSPAPERS, Primitive Reign of Cherles $I I$. At the close of his reign mo news. paper was suffered to appen withont his allow. nece, and his allowance was given exclusively to the London Gazette. The London Gazette came out only on Monduys and Thursdays. The contents generally were a royal proclamation, two or three Fory ndidresses, motices of two or thrce promotions, an aceome of askirmish between the imperial troops and the Janissaties on the Danube, a description of a highwayman, an athnouncement of a grand cork-hght lretween two persons of homor, and an medverisemont offeriug a reward for a striyod dog. The whole made up two pages of moderate sizo. . . . The most important parliamentary delates, the mose insportant State trials recorded in our history, were pussed over in profermed silence. Ilaciliav's ENa., ch. 3, 1). 802.

3*15. NEWSPARERS, Directed by. Thi Titlor. [The prospretus of the Tiether, which appeared on the loth of April, 1709 , "profesced to tencl! 'politio persons what to think."']KNumots ENG., vol. 5, ch. ©6.
3816. NIGHT, Activity at. Mrenno the C'irithotminian. [Voyage of Ifrieun discovery.] ITe ohsorved from his theet, that in the daytime there was nothing to be secol upon the land, lut all was stillness nud silenee: lut in the night he heard the sonnd of varions monical instruments, and saw a grent mumber of flres lighted along the coast ; and we know that such is the appearance of a great part of the western coast of Africa at his day, that the savages in the daytime retire into the woods to avoid the heat of the sun ; that they light great fires in the night to disperse the beasts of prey; and that they are extremely fond
 (h. 8, p. 359 .
3817. NIGHT, Desire for. I'flington. IAt the battle of Waterloo his army was beginning to give war.] As he saw his lines melting uway lu repeatedly looked at his wateh, and then fixerd his gaze on the distant hills; and as he wiped the perspiration which mental anguish had extorted from his hrow, he exchamed, "Would to heavon that Bluchay oi night would eotue! !"- Ins. hotte's Naboleon B., vol. 2, ch. it.
3818. NOBILITY of Appearance, Vamitor. [Romultes was laken prisoner in batte.] When the youth was couducted to his house, Numitor Was greatly struck with his appearance, as he was very remarkahle for size and strength; le observed, too, his preseure of mind and the steadiness of sis looks, which had nothing servile in them, nor were altared with the sense of his present danger ; and he was informed that his actions amd whole behavior were suitable to what he saw.-Plotabcais Iromeles.
3819. NOBILITY hunored. Conftssion. Pompey had resolved we elastise the Itimerems for attempting to suppore his cmenios, when the orator Sthemis told him he would art wojusity if he passed by the persen that was guilty, and pmishod the innoeent. tompey usked him who was the gritity person, and le answered, "I am the man. I persuaded ny frierds, and compelled my racmios, to take the measures they did. Pompey, delighted with his frank confession and noble spirit, forgave him first, and afterward all the people of Himera. - Plevarem's Pomplex.
3826. NOBILITY, Patriotic. Sylla. Sylla. . . came to Prencste, where at first he fried the inbabitants, and lad them executed singly. But afterward, finding lie lad not loisure for such formalities, he collected them to the number of twelve thousumd, and ordered then to be put to lenth, excepting only one who had formerly entertained him at his honse. This man with a woble spirit told him he would never owe his life to the destroyar of his country; mud voluntarlly mixing with the crowd, he died with his fellow-citizens.- l'ivancu's Sybia.
3821. NOBILITY recognized. $/$ /mis $/ .5$. [Lonis IX. Was raphured by hae Suracums.] lle displayed in his moversity an unshaken tirmmess, dignity, and magmanimity, whieh extorted the admiration even of his savage eaptors. The Sarnern sultan som showed himself disposed to treat for the kingrs libevotion, aud demanded ns his ransom the restitution of Damietta, ame the payment of $1,000,000$ lezanits of gold. These terms wre areepted withont hesitation ly Louis ; and his moble character mate such tu impression upon the sultan, that he volunturily remitted 300 , (0) Decants of the stipulated suin -stidests'

3&22. NON-RESISTANCE, Christian. Primitive. Faithful to the doctrine of the apositle, who in the reign of Nerolad preacelaced the duty of wheonditional submission, the C'bristians of the there first centuries preserved their conscience pure and innocent of the gnilt of secret conspiracy or open rebellion. While they experienced the rigror of persecution, they were never prosvoked either to meet their tyrants in the fiedd, or indignantly to withdraw themselves into some remote and sequestered eorner of the globe.GHBuN's IRome, ch. 20, 1). 255.
3823. NON-RESISTANCE, Evasion of, St"! url Johnsem. Jonnson : "I do not sec, sir, that fighting is absolutely forbidden in seripture ; I see revenge forbidden, but not self-rlefence." Boswenı: " The Quakers sny it is-_' Unto him that smiteth thee on one check, offer him also the other." Jounson: "But stay, sir ; the text is meant only to lave the effect of moderating passion: it is plain that we are not to take it in a literal sonse. We see this from the context, where there are other recommendintions, which I warrant you the Quaker will not take literally ; as, for instance, 'From hin that would horrow of thee, turn thon not away, Jet a man whose credit is had come to a Quaker, and say, 'Well, sir, lend me &100; he'll find him as mivilling as any ofher mun. No, sir ; a man may shoot tho man who invades his character, as he may shoot him who attempts io break into his house."Boswell's Jonnson, p. 495.

3*2.2. NON-RESISTANCE tanght. Riign of Themes $I \Gamma$. The crudle of the heir apparent of the crown was surroumded lyy Jesuits. Deadly hatred of that charch of which le would one diny he the head would le stadiously insilled into his. infant mind, would be the gndiding principle oi his life, and would be lequeathed ly lime to his posterity. This vista of calamitios had mo cut. It stretched beyond the life of the youngest man living, beyond $t^{\prime}$ a irlitmentli century.

 tract, no excess oí crue ? rajontit al licen-
 justify his:

Some of them had delighted to exhibit the doetrine of non-resistance in a form so exagge ated us to shock common-sense and bumanity. 'They frequently und emphutieally remurked that Nero was at the head of the Roman Government when Salnt Panl inculented the duty of oisving magistrates. The fuference which they drew was that, if an English king should, without any law but his own pleasure, persecute his sutbjects for not worshipping idols, shond thing then to the lions in the Tower, shoukd wrap them up in pitehed cloth and set them on flre to lighic up Saint James' Park, and should go on with these massacres till whole towns and shires were left without one inhablant, the survivors would still be bound meckly to submit, and to be torn in pieces or ronsted alive withont a struggle.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 364.
3825. NONSENSE against Nonsense. Sicmuel, Johuson. Mrs. Thrate disputed with him on the merit of Prior. He attacked him powerlinly; said he wrote of love like aman who had never felt it: his love-verses were college verses.

Mrs. Thrale stood to her gion with great courage, in defence of amorous ditties, which Johnson despised, till he at last silenced her by saying. " My dear lady, talk no more of this. Nonsense can be defended but hy nonsense."Boswell's Johinson, p. 16\%.
3826. NOVELS, Contempt for. Napeleon $I$. Ilis contempt for works of tiction-the whole class of novels and romances-amonnted almost to indignation. IIe never could endure to see one reading such a book. . . . Once, when emperor, in passing through the saloons of his palnee, he found one of the maids of honor with a novel in her hands. He took it from her, gave her a severe lecture for wasting her time in such frivolous reading, and cast the volume into the Hames. When he had a few moments for diversion, he not unfrequently employed them in looking over a book of logarithms, in whith he always found recreation.-AbBottres Naboleon B., vol. 1, ch. 10 .
3827. NOVELS, Reading of. Excitemeut. [The Windsor hacksmith] got hoh] of Richardson's novel of " Pamela; or Virtue Rewariled," and used to read it nloud in the long summer evenings, seated on his anvil, and never failed to have a large and attentive audience. When the happy urin of fortune arrived which brings the hero and heroine together, and sets them living long and happily accordinge to the most approved rules, the congregation were so delighted as to raise a great shout, and proenring the chmorh keys, acmally set the parish bells ringing.-Knigitts Eng., vol. 7, ch. 5, p. 88.
3828. NUISANCE, Perpetuated, Reifn of Charles II. Saint James' Square was a receptacle for all the offal and cinders, for all the dead cats and dead dogs of Westminster. At one time a culgel-player kept the ring there. At another time an impudent squatter settled himself there, and built a shed for rubbish under the windows of the gilded saloons in which the first magnates of the realm-Norfolks, Ormonds, Kents, and Pembrokes-gave banquets and balls. It was not till these nuisances had lasted through a whole generation, and till much had been written about them, that the inhabitants applied to Parliament for permisslon to put up ralls mad to phant trees.-Macaclay's Esa., ch. 3, 1). 334.
3829. NUMBER, Small. Ridiculed. [When Iacullas, with a small amy, encomped before the army of Tigrames, he] made use of that celebratiol expression, that if they rame as ambassadors there were too many of them; if as soldiers, too lew. Phutalecil's Leculaces.
30330. NUMBERS, Disparity of. Curtis. Velasifuez, the Spanish Governor of Cuha, jeadous of the fane of Corterz, had despatehed a forme to Mexico to mrest his progress and to siperesedo him in commaml. The expedition was lerl by Pamil, de Niavaez, the same who was afterward (fovernor of lolorida. His forces consisted of more than 1200 wellarmed and well-discip. lincol soldiors, besides 1000 Indian servints and gutides. But the vigilant Cortez had meanwhile been informet by messengers from Verat Cruz of the movement which his enemies at home had set on foot against him, and he determined to actl his command only at the price of his own life and the lives of all his followers. He therefore instructed Alvarado, one of his subordinate oflicers, to remain in the capital with a small force of 140 men; and with the remainder, mombering less than zoo, he hastily withdrew from the rity, and procereded by it foread mareh to enomiter D) Narvaer on the sen-coast. On the night of the 26th of May, 15no. while the soldiers of the latter were puietly asleep in their (rmp nemr Vera Craz, Cortez burst upon them with the fury of despair, and before they could rally or woll understand the terrible onset, compelled the whole fore to surrender. Then, adding the general's skill to the warrior's prowess, he succected in inducing the concuered army to join his own standard; and with his forees this augmented to six times their original numbers, he began a second time his mareli toward the eapital.-Rnesatn's L.S., ch. 4, p. 60.
3831. NUMBERS, Disparity in. Soldiers. Followed, as it is said, by $2,000,000$ me"t, Xirexes, the descendant of Cyrus, invaded Greere. Thirty thonsant soldiers, under the command of Alexander, the son of Philip, who was intrusted by the Greeks with their glory and revenge, were sutlicient to subdue Persia.-Gimbon's lrome, ch, 8,1 .

36is2. --. Mamentins-Constantine. At the homd of abont 40.000 soldicrs, he marehed to phrounter an encony whose numbers were at beast four times superior to his own. But the amies of Rome, phaced at a secure distance from danger, were enervated by indulgence and luxwy. Lanituated to the baths and theatres of Rome, they took the tield with reluctimee, and were chictly composed of veterans who had almost forgoten, or of new levees who had never acruired, the use of arms and the practice of war. The hardy legions of Gant lad long defended the frontiers of the empire against the barbarims of the Noth; and in the perform. ance of that laborions service their yator was exereised and their discoline confirmed. There appeared the same difference between the leaders as between the armies.-Gibbon's Rone, ch. 14, p. 475.
3838. NUMBERS an Obstacle. Artarreries' Amembly. To suppress the idolnters, remite the schismaties, mid confute the ninhellevers, by the infallible decision ol ngenernl conncil, the pious Artnxerxes smmmoned the Magi from all parts of hils dominions. These priests, who hat so long sighed in contennt and olscurity, obeyed the weleone summons, and on the appointed day mppeared, to the mamber of ubont 80,000 . But as the delmeses of so tumaltuons massembly could not lave been directed by the nuthority of reason or intluenced by the art of policy, the l'ersim synod was relueed, liy suceressive operations, to 40,000 to 4000 , to 400 , to 40 , and ut last to seven Mugi, the most respected for their learming mal piety.-Gabos's Romes, (1). 8, p. 931 .
383.L. NUMBERS without Vict ry. Agineomit. [At the battle of $\Lambda$ gincourt there were probulhy ten times us many French as English. The men-at-arms of the former] wore heavy coats of ste el reaching to their knees, and heavy leg armor. The English archers, without armor, in jackets and loose hose, some even harofoot, went boldy on to meat the mailed chivalry. . . . The anormons numbers of the French ware the chief cause of their destruction. . . . The rear divisious, after the owerthrow of the first and sereond divisions, took to flight. In three hours this terrible tight was ower. . . . The English lons was 1600. . . Of the chivalry of Fance ife llower perished. . . . Eight thoussond genta nen of France perished in that field of carmage, of whon 120 were nobles bearing banners. [Sae No.4~1] -Knieitr's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 4, 1. (63).
3835. OATH of Allegiance. To Mahomet. Sus-enty-three men and two women of Medina Jatd a solemn conference with Mahomet, his kinsman, nad his disciples, and pledged themselves to each other by a mutual oath of fidelity. They promised, in the name of the city, that if he should be banished, they would receive him as a confethrite, obey lim as a leader, and defent him tos the last extremity, like their wives and ehildren. " But if you are recalled ley your commtry," they asked, with a flattering maxioty, " will you not atauslon your new allies $t$ " " All things," replind Ialmmet, with a smile, "are now common betwoen us ; your blood is as my blood, your ruin as my ruin. We are bound to arh other by the ties of honor and interest. I ans your friend and the ememy of your foes." "I But if we are kilhed in your serviere, what," exclames the leputies of turdina, "will be our reward !" "IPredias," repliad the prophet. "Sitreteh forth thy hamd." He strotched it lorth, and they reitcrited the oath of allegiance and tidelity.- (inmBoN's R

3Wi3í. OATH, A constrained. N'tron King //ire old II. [see No. 3840.] A messenger from Normandy soon arrived to remind jarold of the oath which he lad sworn to the dake [of Normandy] "with his mouth, and his hand nipon good and holy relies." "It is true," repliced thesixon king, that I took an oath to William: but I took it under constraint. I promised what did not belong to me-what I could not in any way loold ; my royalty is not my own ; I could not lay it down aganat the will of the conntry, nor can I, agranst the will of the country, lake a foreign wife. $A$ s for my sister, whom the duke clams that he may marry her to one of his chiefs, she lias died with. in the your ; would he huve me send her corpse?" -I)eciaive Battifin § 186 .
3837. OATH oval d. IRomans. [IIaving been promised rellef fre, their oppressions, they fouglat for their rulers, lot the pronise was broken.] The people, thus repeatedly mud shamefully deceived, were determined to be no longer the dupers of promises. The Semate, apprehensive of their spirit, hud ordered the consuls not to disband them, but to lend them withont the walls, on pretence that the conemy worestill in the field. The soldiers, ut the time of their enrolment, took an onth not to desert their standards till they were dormully dishanded ; but this onth thoy ehaded by laking their standards nlong with them.-TrTLER'S MET., Book 3, Ch. 3, p. 315.

3n36. OATH of Fidelity, soldier's. [The Roman soldier. $]$ On his first cintrance into the service an onth was alministered to him with every circamstance of solemmity. lle promised never to desert his stanclurd, to subuit lise own will to the commands of his lemulers, and to sacritice his life for the satet' af the emperor and the empire. The attacimuent of the Roman troops to their standarls was inspired by the united influence of religion and of honor. The goldencongle, which erlitereal in the front of the legion, was the object of their fomelest devotion ; nor was it esteenmed 1 ss implous than it was igrominious to abanion What sacred cusign in the hour ol danger.-GibHOY'A lome, (h. 1, 1). 12.
38:BO. OATH, A horrible. (tomapirators. [A conselirus was formed to murder the Roman consils. ] The youths thus engnged were brought to confor with the Aquilii, and all agreed to take agreat and horrible onth, by drinking together of the blood and tasting the entrails of a man sucrifieed for that purpose. This ceremony was performed in the house of the Aquilii; and the room 'lossen for it (as it. was mutural to suppose) was dark and retired. - Plevalecia's l'vinticolat.
38.10. OATH, A sacred. Ifrerold II. [Saxon king of lingland.] William [of Normandy] exncted more. IIc land caused all the bones and relies of saints that were preserved in the Normmn momusteries and whorches to be collected iato n chest, which was plamed in the comneilroom, covered over with a cloth of gold. Onthe chest of relices, which wore thus concealed, was laid a missal. The dake then solemnly addressed his tituhar graest and real captivo, nad satul to him, "I Iarold, I require thee, beforothis moble assemhy, to confirm by oath the promisers which thon hast male mo to atsist me inobnaining the crown of Enghad after liing Edwarel's death, to marry my damghter Adelat, and to send me thy sister, that I may rive her in mariape to one of ny barons." liarold, once more taken by surprise, and not able to deny his former words, approathed the missal, and laiel his hand on it, not know ing that the chest of relics was beneath. . . When Hatold rose from his knees the duke made him shand close to the chest, and took off the pall that had covered it, and showed Harold upon what holy relies he had sworn : and I Iarohd was sorely alarined at the sipht. [See No. 3836.]-Decisue bittares, 冬28t.
38.11. OATH, A test. Kition of Charles II. The terrors of popery were now revived, and the loudest compluints resounded from all (funters of the kingrdom. A bill was brought into Parlimment for imposing in test gath on all who should enjoy any pablic ollee. They were olliged to take the sacrament in the established elareh, mad to nt)jure the doetrine of transinstantiation: and. in conseguence of this new haw, to whirl the king was obliged to give his consent, his brother Jumes, Dake of York, lost his ofllee of high at-miral.-Tytleats lint., Book 6, chl. 30, p. 421.

38A2. OATHS, Strange estimate of. Jorius. By his alvice and example [the Pretorian prefect] the prinedpal ollicers of the state and army were obiged to swemr that, without listroning, in any, circumstances, to any conditions of penere, they would still persevere in perpetial and imphamble war against the enemy of the republic. 'This rash engagement opposed an insuperable lar to all future negotation. The ministers of 1 onorius were hearil to declare that If they lind only invoked the mame of the Deity, they would consult the publice safety, and trust their nouls to the mercy of Heaven; but they had sworn by the sacred hend of the emperor himsolf ; they hat tonched, In solemn ceremony, that august seat of majesty and wisfom; and the violation of their outh would expose them to the temporal penalticy of sacritege and rebellion.-Gmmon's Rome, ch. 31, p. 276.
3843. OBEDIENCE, Absolute. Ciarmuthirms. In a daring inroad beyond the Tigris, Abu Taher advanceal to the gates of the cupital with no more than 500 horse. By the specint order of Moctader, the bridges had been broken down, and the person or head of the rebel was expected every hour by the commander of the fathful. Inis lienlenant, from a motive of fear or pity, uprised Abu Taher of his danger, and recommended a speedy escape. "Your master," said the intrepid Carmathian to the messenger, " is at the head of 30,000 soldiers ; three such men as these are wanting in his host ;" at the same instant, turning to three of his companions, he commanded the tirst to plunge a dagger into his breast, the werond to leap into the Tigris, and the third to cast himself headlong down a precipire. They "heyed without th mirmur. "Rehate," continued the imam, " what you have seen ; before the evening your gencrat shall be chained among my dogs." Before the evening the camp were surprised, and the menace was exeruted. [The Carmathians wore a funatical tribe of Arabs.] Gmbon's Rome, (h. 52, p. 㴓.
3844. OBEDIENCE, Angry. Blatk Priure. Accordingly, in Jmuary, 1369, [Chartes V.] arddressed a formal summons to [Edward the "Black Prinee," and] the hero of Poiticrs and Navarrete, citing him to appear before him in the court of peers, and answer the complaints and aceusations of his Gascon vassals. "We wiil not fail," replied Edward, "to obey the order of the King of France ; we will proceed to Paris, hut it slabli be with bassinct on our head ; and 60,000 men to bear us company."-Students' France, cli. 10 , 16.
3845. OBEDIENCE, Ministerial. Mahomet. [Midhomet was at one time almost univeramly reprobated.] IIe preached all day when every man, woman, and child flouted him as an impos. tor. One day he returned home silent, prostratal, disrouraged, wraperd his bead in his cloak, lay down umon a mat, and fell asleep. Inspirathon, stlll more obstimate than the popular lindifference, revisited him during his slmmbr. Ifo heard a voice erying from his hemrt to him, "() thou who envelopest thyself in thy munte to slecep, arise, und go preach." He urose with the day, and went ont to preard as if he had the day brifore made a harvest of converts.-LAnamTine's T'UkKzy, ]. 80.
38.46. $\qquad$ Suellan Banis. [When Rev. Nathan Bangs, 1). D., ] was a young preacher, he become despondront because of the numerons ditheulties he experienced mid the absences of desired success, und resolved to almaton tho ministry. A slgniticant dremm relieved him. He thought he was working with a pirknee on the top of a basaltie roek. His museuhr arm brompht down stroke after stroke for hours, bat the rock was hardly indented. He suid to himself at last, "It is useless: I will pick no more." Suddenty a stranger of dignitiod mien stood by his side and spoke to him. "You will pirk no more "." "No more." "Were you not set to this task 9 " "Yes." "And why ubnindon it ?" " My work is vain ; I make no impression on the rock." Solennly the stranger replied, "What is that to you? Your duty is to pirk, whether the rock yields or not. Your work is in your own hands ; the result is not. Work on!" Ho resumed his task. The tirst blow was given with almost superhuman force, and the rock llew into a thousand picees. He awoke, pursurd his way back with fresh zoul and enerey, and a great revival followed. From that thy he never had pema "temphation" to give up his rommission. -Smevens II. E. Chumei, vol. 3, p. 4x.5.
;38.17. OBEDIENCE, Monkish. Jiyptirn. The actions of a monk, his words, mal ewen his thonghts, were determined by mintlexible rule, or a ripricions superion' ; the slightest offences wew enrrected by disprace or confinement, extriordianry fasts, or bloody thagelhation; and disobedience, murmur, or delay were ranked in the eataloguce of the most heinous sins. A blind submission to the commands of the athent, however absurd, or even eriminal, they might seem, was the ruling principle, the first virtue of the Egyptian monks: and their patience was freguently exercised by the most extravagant trials. They weredirected to remove an enomons rock; assiduonsly to water a barren staff that was planted in the gromid, till, at the end of three years, it should vergetaterad hossom like a tree; (o) walk into a ticery furnace, or to cast their infant into a deepp pond ; and several saints, or madmen, have beels immortalized in monastic: story by their thoughtless and femirless obedi-encr.-Grmox's Rome: cls 37, p. 599.
3848. OBEDIENCE, Outward. Soyitly. [In 1691 James II. Was urged by the loyal Ilighlanders who had comtimed in arms for himafter the accession of Willian of Orange to semb them re-enforcments. His Majesty replied that] his abilities to assist were exhmusted by the pressing neressities of Iredand. If they could stand out no longer he recommended "an ontwarl com-plituce."-Knight's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 9, p. 132.
3849. OBEDIENCE, Perfect. Aboubeker. Aboubeker, the successor of Mahomet, before pursuing along to Lebanon and the sea his mission and his conquest, wrote to Amrou, one of the most submissive of his diselples ; he ordered him to levy a momber of wartors monong the trikes, mad te condiet them to Damusems, to swell tha torrent of Islamism. Amron, who governed in peree his shepherd tribes, received this order with puin ; lut he did not lesitnte to obey. "J nm," suid he, fin has meswer to the coliph, "one of the arrow's of lsimmism; (iod has phaced the how du thy hamis it is for there to limuch the arrow to what dostination thon mayent choose."

3世50. OBSCURITY desired, Nitpol'om. [When Louisiana was coded to the United ritutes by France,] the upright mad conseientions Marbois Was especinlly maxions . . that no monblguons chanses sliould be introduced into the treaty. He commmaicated his troubles on this point to the First Consul, ulvising him that it secmed impossible to constluet the Treaty sonsto free it liom obscurity on the fmportant mater of bommbuies. Fur from exhibiting uny sympathy with his falthful minister's solicitude on this point, Bonaparte quictly informed him that " if an obsennity did not alrearly exist, it wonld perhaps le good policy to put one in the treaty.

The mequisition of Spanish Amerien may have heren expected, or at least dreamed of ly him,-Blane's Twenty Yealls of Conciresn, 1. 10 .

3*51. OBSERVATION, Acute, Bltelismith. [churles II. was secking to escape to Framere.] This secret, so long nud mimaculously kept, was only in danger of being betruyed at the moment When the young king, still disgruised, was tlying townrd the coast to place the seas between bis luad and the sword of Cromwell. II is loorse laving loosened a shoe, a furrier to whom he upplied to fastenis, with the quiek intelligenere of his trule, examined the iron, mod suld, in a low nond suspirious tone, "These shees were never forged in this conntry, but in the north of England. But the smitl proved ass disered and faithful ns the servant. Charles, remonnting his horse without diseovery, galloped loward the beach, where a skiff was waiting for him. The Continent a second time protected himfrom the pursuit of Cromwell.-Lamahtine's Chonweli, p. 54.
3852. OBSTINACY, Depraved, Appetite. [Cardinal Wolsey said of Ilenry VIII. when on his death-bed:] Rather than he will miss or wont any part of his will or appetite, he will put the loss of one half of his realm in danger. ....I have often kneeled before him in his privy chamber on my knees the space of an hour or two, to pershade him from his will and apperite, but I coukd never bring to pass to dissumbe him there-from.-KNrimt's ENG., vol. 2 , eh. 17, p. 279.
3858. OBSTINACY, Extraordinary. Jumes $I I$. It is probable a motion for opening a necgotiation with James wo ald have been made in the Convention, and would have been supported by the great body of hories, had he not been on this, us on every other occasion, his own worst cnemy. Every pos which arrived from Saint German's bronglt intelligence which damped the ardor of his allicrents. He did not think it worth his while to simmlate regret for his past errors, or to promise amendment. We put forth a manifesto trlling his people that it had been his constant (ario to govern them with justice and modration, and that they hand leen cheated into ruin by imugitary grievances. The effeet of his folly and obsthancy was that those who were most de. sirous to see him restored to his throne on fulr conditlons felt that, by proposing at that moment to treut with him, they should lnjure the emuse which they wished toserve.-Macaulay's Evil., ch. 10, p. 567.
3854. OBSTINACY, Immovable, James $I I$. The obstinute nad imperious nuture of the king gave great mivantuges to those whondvised hime to be them, to yield nothing, mad to make himself feared. Ilis mode of arguing, if it is to be so callad, was one not uncommon among dull und stub. born persons, who are necastomed to be surromnded by their inferiors. He asserted a proposition; and asolten as wher people ventured respectfully to show that it was erroneons, he nsserted it ngam, in exactly the sume words, and conceived that, by doing so, he nt once disposed of all objections. "I will muke no concessions," he offen repented: " my futher made concessions, and he was behomed."-Macadiay's Eng., chl. 6, p. 57.

3W55. OBSTINACY, Political. Jumes II. On the great day on which the bishops [who refused to joln the king in the overthrow of the Protestunt Chureh] were nequitted, mul on which the invitation was despatehed to the Hague [inviting William, Prince of Orange, to invade Enghand.] James returned from founslow to Westminster it 11 gloomy und agituted moox. He made an effort that ufternoon to appenr cheerful ; that the bonfires, the rockets, and, ubove nll, the waxen popes who were blazing in every Ifurter of London, were not likely to soothe him. . . Soon it began to be elenr that defeat mud mortiticution had only hardened the king's heart. The first words which he uttered when he larned that the objects of his revenge had escaped him were, "So much the worse for them." Within a week these words, which he. necording to his fushion, reperated many times, were fully expluined. He blamed himself, not for having prosecuted the bishops, hut for having prosecuted them before it tribunal where questions of fuct were deeided by juries, and where established principhes of law conld not be utterly disregarded even by the most servile judges.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 385.
3856. OBSTRUCTION, Jegislative. On the Latel Art. A few kemators, whon retuined their senses, saw the uselessuess of the opposition, and retired. Bibulas was of foller und tougher metal. As the vote was about to be tuken, he and his tribunes rushed to the rostra. The tribunes pronounced their vero. Jibbulus said that he had consulted the sky; the grots forbade further action being taken that day, and he dechared the assembly dissolved. Nity, as if a man like Casar could be stopped by a shadow, he proposed to sanctify the whole remainder of the year, that no further business might he transacted in it. Yells drowned his volice. The mob rushed upon the steps; Bibulus was thrown down, and the rods of the lictors were broken ; the tribumes who had betrayal their order were beaten. -Frocde's Cassai, ch. 13.
3557. OCCUPATION, Changes in, Peter Comper. At first bhash, this frequent change of buidness would seem to indicate mastability of purpose. He was thirty-birse yars ohd when he bought the ghe factory, and land hern in busimess for himself nine years, elanging from car-ringe-maker to woollen-rarder, and from woolbencarder to bentor, then beoming a cablantmaker, only to continue the business one yenr, when he sold out to arell a groerery store contiminig it only twelve months, and thally sold out this business to enrry on a gha fantory. Six changes in nine yours have very seddom mado anybody rich, bat the proof of his whelom was evident mongh, for every movement was for the better. He lad been stemdlly hermang his ancmanations. This hast change was to he permament. - Lesten's Lafe of l'men Combin, 1) 16.

3M58. OCEAN God'e Barrier, The, A Sutteren. [In the conguest of Africa they reached tha: Athutic. 1 'The carrer, thongh not the anal, of $\Lambda \mathrm{kbula}$ wis chaecked by the prospeet of a boma. less orema. He spurred his horse lito the waves, and raising his eyes to hemven, exchamed, with the tone of a famitie, "Great God I If my course were not stopped hy this sea, I would still go on, to the unknown kingdoms of the West, preallsing the unity of thy holy mume, and paiting to the sword the rehellions mitions who worship any other gods than Thee." Yet this Moham. medan Alexander, who nighed for new worlds, was mable to preserve his recent conguests.Ghmon's Rome, chi. 51, p, 242.
3858. OCEAN, Enchanted by the, Alerutuler. At last Alexander, after having spent full nine months in coming down the rivers, arrived at the ocean, where, gazing with the utmost engerness upon that vast expanse of waters, he imarined that his sight, worthy of so great a confuc ror as himself, greatiy overpaid all the loils lie had imdergone, and the many thonsamd men he had los to merive at it. Ho ihenoffered sacrifiees to the gods, uad partieularly to Nepmene: threw into the seat the bulls be had shughtered, and a great momber of goiden ("ups.--Romas's Histr, Book 15, 冬 16.
3860. ODIUM, Accidental, Litrl of Sitroftiond. Encouraged by these experiments of their poner [in reforming leghshative nbuses], a havier blow was ret meditated against the soveresen [Charles I.] in the imprachment of his lavorite minister. ... By a concurrence of acwidents this mobleman habored mader the stham of all the three mations of the British empire. The Scots regarded bim as the udviser of atl the measures chmoxions to that coontry ; the Irish whom he had governed as lord lientenant, had found himextremely arbitrary; and with the English, at least the Parliamentary leaders, it was suflicient canse of hamred that, having hegm pmblic life as an asserter of popular clams, he had in naturer age berome blee ehorf friend and eomsellor of the king.-Tytheis's Hist., Book 6, ch. 29. 1. 40).
3561 . ODIUM braved. John Aderms. One of the most homorable ations of his life was defending the British soldiors who participated in what is ealled the "Boston Massacre." An alecration laving arisen between the soldiers and some of the town's people, it ended in the soldiors tiring upon the crowd, is they allaged, in self-defence. Being put upon their trial for murder, John Adams braved the oblofity of defending them. It was homorable to the people of Boston that they slaubl have recognizal the right of those sol. diers, ollons as they were, to a fuir tria, and resperted the motres of the ir favorite ha volun-
 1. 176.

3432, ODORS cleansed, Scotch. Perliaps the mont enrions item memorhilizing the famons conther is in the [Worcester) corponiton records, whin reforeme to the poor sootch soldiers: " Daid for pitclo and rosin to perfnme the lath ufter the Noots, two shillings." Iadeed, that thas ohd lall needed perfumitug mad cleansing, for it was dremeded whith bood, but rabler tho hlow of the English than the scoteh; for lt was within its walis that the English Cavaliers mader a hast and desperate resistanere, and they were all cont to pieces or male prisoners. This was tho last and great decislve contliat ; the defant of Worcester settled the royal cause [of Chartes I.], and doomed ht, with his chicf mad his adherents, to bunishment, until the strong victor who had scattered the royal rabble at Worcester should himself be concured by denth.-IIood's CromWehi, ch. 13, p. 168.
3mbis. ODORS, Dangerous. Smell of Camels. The Irabs distained the maked bravery of their asacstors. lustead of wagons, they were nttended by a long train tof conmels, mules, and asses: the maltithde of these animms, whom they bedeceked with flags and stremars, arionored to swell the pompand magnitude of their host; and the harses of the encmy were oftendisordered by the unconth flgure and odions smell of the eamcls of the East. Invincible hy their pattence of thirst and hent, their spirits were frozen by a winter's cold, and the conseionsmess of their propensity to slew exacted the most rigorous precautions against the surprises of the night.-Giahos's Rome, ch. 53, p. 370.
386.4. OfFICE, Annoyance in. Lomans. Pompey did not think it beanath him to appear at the levee of Cicrero. The castom was to wait in the westibule or ante-chamber till the great man made his appenrance; to pay him some compliment, rouched either in wishes for his health or mancerrie on his talents. or congratulation on any promotion which might have oceurred, und afterward to neompany him-e either walking in his train, or ntemding by the side of his litterto the seame-house or to the formm, and thence (1) reconduet him home. The lower ranks and the more servile and parasitical courtiers, who had many such visits to pay, mast have necessarily begna very carly in the moming. Juvemal himmoronsly deseribes them as setting ont by starlight, and does not even give them time to tio thair parters. These visits Pliny calls ante-lucamu officia. Thuy wrer sometimes so troublesome to the great man to whom they were paid, that it was not umamal for him to goout by a lack door, and so give his visitors the slip.-T'ytlen's Hısт., Book 4, M. 4, [. 444 .
:3世65. OFFICE, Appointment to. By, Jiemes $I I$. He now prochimed that he had only been too uracious when he had condescemed to ask the ansent of the Scottish estates to his wishes. There was a Seotish Act of Supremacy which gave to the sovereign such a control over the Church as might have satisfied Henry VlII. Accordingiy, pipists were admitted in crowds to oflices and honors，The Wishoj）of Dinkedd， who，as a lord of Parilament，lind opeosed the govermment，was arhitrarily ejocted from hiskop， find a suceeqsor wis mppointed．（Querensberry was atripped of all hisemployments，und whs or－ slered to resming at EAlinburgh till the aceomats of the tremsury during life adoninistration ham Inen exmanind minl approved．As the represen－ tatives of the towns had lreen fonnd the most manamgrable purt of the Parlimment，it wis de： termined to make a revolntion in every burgh throughont the kingrlom．A shaihr change had recently been effectedi in Enghond by judlidin sentences，but in Scotland a slmple mandate of the prince wis thought suthliciont．All electlons of imgistrutes and of town coumeils ware pro． hilited，and tho king nswimad to himarlf the right of tllling nj the chlef mumbelpul olle：es．－ Micaulay＇s Enu．，（li．6，1）． 110.

3968．OPFICE，Changes in，Turis．In the Sthomin Einpire ．．．it ts estecomed it rule of excellent policy to miske frorpent clumges in these ofllces．Removal，therefore，is often prac－ tised whont cunse of discontont；hat as this ar－ bitrary change might convert a friemd into a dan－ gerous enemy，thero is most ermmonly a sutll－ cient canse alleged for sending the alegraded of－ flcer a bowstring along with the order for hils dismission．－TyTLeir＇s IIint．，Book 5，ch．13， 1． 213.

3967．OFFICE，Conditions for，Reign of James II．The president of the college［Mogilalenc］ died．One of the fellows，Doctor Thomas Smith， jopularly nicknumed Rabbi Smith，adistlnguish－ ed traveller，book－collector，antiguary，ami Gri－ contalist，．．．aspired to the vacant post．．．．lo had long heen intimately nequalnted with Par－ ker，Bishop of Oxford，and hoped to obtain by the taterest of that prelate a royal letter to the college．Parkar promised to dolils best，but soon reported that he haid found difflentik＇s．＂The king，＂he suld，＂will recomanend no person who Is not a friend to his Majesty＇s religion．What can you do to pleasuro him as to that matt ${ }^{\text {r } ? "}$ Smith answered that，if he became preskilent ho would exert himself to promote learning，true Christlanity，and loyalty．＂That will not do，＂ said the bishop．＂If so，＂sald Smith，man－ fully，＂let who will le president ；I cun prom－ jese nothing more．＂－Macaviay＇s End．，ch．8， p． 266.

3868．OFFICE declined，Royulty．At length Cromwell，with much relurtunce，was obliged to refuse that dignity which he most anxiously de－ sircd，and had taken such uncommon measures to attain．To console hlm for his mortifying dls－ appointment，the Parliament confirmed his title of Protector，to whleh they added a perpetinal revenue，and the right of appointing his snccess－ or．They give him nuthority likewlse to nane a house of peers，and he issued writs to sixty ancmbers，among whom were flve or slx of the old nobility，some gentlemen of family and fort－ ane，and tho rest oftleers who had risen from the meanest professions．But none of the old no－ bility would deign to accept of a seat in thils mot－ ley assembly；and by maming so muny of his Iriends to sit in the upper house，the Protector found he had lost the minjority in the IIouse of Commons，whith now began to dispute and op－ pose all his measures．Enraged at his disap．
phintment，he lustily dismolved this Parlinuent． us her hud done aevernl of the preveding．－－＇T＇ra－山にル＇м Hist．，Bowk 6，ch．30，1． 417.
：3＊B1）．OFFICE，Dlsllko for．Ainurath $I T$ ．tha Turk．Thu sultan，Amurnili Il，whe u prlaco of a singular character．No man was lattor thale no one why sulfond of allfe of guict mad rotiri－ mint． 1 de twleo resigned the crown，nud was twice prevalled on hy fils hashaws mad janizariox to reanme it．A most soletmin trenty hind bren comeltuled，in tho yonr 144，intweren him nud Ladishaus，King of l＇olund；and on the faith of this trenty，which gave peace to his domintons， Amurnth had devotex his days to retirement und the study of philosophy，lenving the gow rnment in the humels of his son Muhomet．－＇livelent IItat．，Buok th，ch．13，1， 200.

8879．OFFICE，Embarrassments in．A／frahiri tincoln．No one of his predere＇ssors，not even Winshington，ancounteral dilliculthes of equal magnitude，or was embed to perform dithes of citual responsibility．Ile was ifrst elected ly a minority uf the popular vote，and has clection was regrarded by a majorlty of the peopleas the imme－ diate ocrminon，if not the canse，of elvil war ；yet upon him devolved the necessity of carrying on that war，nud of combining and welding the en－ craies of the mation for fts successful prosecu－ tion，－Raymond＇s Lincola，ch．21，p．713．

3871．OFFICE by Favoritiem．Duke of Buck－ ingham．The demerits nud defects of Ihucking－ hum，now especially，became daily more obvions， and roused ln the minds of all noble Englishanein growing tudignation．Wo lave airealy spoken of the nserent，of thls man to power－lt is amllke anything in our history ：he simply had the graco mad bemty of a womme，without a woman＇s pre－ sclence and tuct．Ho dilighted in dejemdents and sulturs，never got beyond the court，and condd not minderstand the people．Ile could not comprelacond that the relgn of favorites was jass－ ed，and the reign of statesmen begun ；and that， us Eliot says，＂the old frenins of the kingtom is reawakening．＂Having very littlo of the states－ man hinself，he seems to have looked with cov－ ctous eye nind hund on the gains of the bucen－ neer，while utterly unpossessed of the luerenneer＇s grusp and strength．－Hoon＇s Chomwell，ch， 3. 1． 61 ．

3872．OFFICE，Honorary．John Imarari．In the year 1773 John Howard was appointell high sheriff of the connty of Bedfordshire，in which he resided．In England the sherifs are appolnt－ ed by the king，and he usually selects one of the leading gentlemen or noblemen of the county． who holds the ofllec one year．The disagrcenble duties of the pluce are performed by under－sher－ Iffs．Twiee a year the high sheriff，clad in showy robes of his olllec，rode ont of town in hls ear－ riage，and escorted to the town－hall，nmid the pealing of bells，the judges who came to hold the seml－annual court ；and in the evening he gave a ball，which was attended by the judges，tho lawyers，and the princlpal famiiies of the coun－ ty．Ile asso occastonally entertained at dinner the gentlemen of the neighborhoerl：and these were all the duties which custom and public opinion demanded of the high sheriff．As he received no sulary，and the office involved con－ sideruble expense，it was never bestowed except
 1. 41.
:SW78. OFFICF honored. Limperor Tretion. 'Trajan hlmself, nmbl the duthes of anverolghty", anjoged the grentest happhene which combld belong to a privite station. He walked through the st reets of liomer, whbont guard or attembant. as a privite lindifalual, more secoure fin the love and afferetion of him minjerets than In the strengila of an limperial retime. Ho livod whth his friemels on torma of the mont familiar fatoreomere: Jo shared in all the ir ammements: and there was between them wa luterelange of every klad mod venerable Trajan, whose character no jently mer. ited thesurmane nulversally given ham, Triejo. wus Optimus. Ilo dled at the uge of mixiy-three, after a relgn of nhotecoll yonrs, it perion during which home tany the mad to have hern truly hap-

3N7. OFFICE, Love of. Reign of , muen 11 . To the applase of the shemere friond of the Fintablished Chareh |hate lord tremourery Koche ester hum, indeed, very nlender claims. To save his phace, he had sat in that tribumal which had beenillegally created for the purpose of promsecuting her. 'Jo suve hls phare, he had given a dlahonest vote for digrading one of her most emfaent mindsters, had miferted to doulat her orthodoxy, had listened with the outward show of do(ility to teachurs who (fi led her sedismatical and herethenl, mad has otfored to co-n) erato strembously with her demellest enembes in their designs ngulinat her. The highest praise to which he was rontitled wis this, that he had shronk from the abjuring, for luere, the relighon in which he lam been brought up, which he betleved to lio Irme, and of which he bad long male an ostentations

3ब75. - - Regn of James $1 /$. || my Illegally mpolited by the king on the 13 , in if High Commissions| Rochester, disnpproving amd murmurimg, consinted to serve. Juch ns lue had to condure at eonet, he coubl not bar tornis it. Musch as he loved the ('hureh, be conted mod loring himself to surrithe for hor suke his white and the far larger motired emoluments oll his anfiee. Ile excused his conduet to others, mat perhaps to himself. by plembing that, as a commissioner, he might be able to prevent muell evil, mad that, if herefased to act, some person lessat tached to the l'rotest ant religion womld ln: fanme to replaces him. . . The ling offered lioche-ter a simple (hoice, to promomber the bishop] [Comp)ton] findty, or to guit the treasary. Rochester
 rin. 6, p. 89.

3-76. OFFICE purchased. Fimp roi Clumaliws. At tho time whenc Catisula was put to denth. Chadius, bis under, and the brother of (garmanjens, a mun whese venk and childish dy position had never rherished momhithous thought, lum conconded himself in a cormer of the phace lor fear of aswassimation. I moldier acridentally disrovering his retrent, sulntellimemperor. Whil Claudins was tromblingly begging lis life to he spared, some others coming up, they put him in a litter and carrind him to the camp of the promtorian guncls. There, as yet afrald, and uncore

 11. This wos the emplre lim! !he fine the firat tima was sill ichillil; hls conntemance whe that of un inliot, nod lids mind, marnally wak, hat mever by hls money. Whille he lure that orther, he happroded to he jerovoked at Chsir, uth satil to hho. angrily." 1 will nas my mathogly ngninst you." ('iesar insweral, latighlog. "Ion do will to Nyiti.s.

3.75. OFFICE, Quallficuons for, Roman. Ar( wrillag to the hiwn of Itome, her tirat maghatrate Was reguired in be a doctor of haws, an allen, of n phare at lrast forty miles from the city, with whate Inhabinnits he mant not be comberted in The election whs mumal ; a nevern sornthy was instlaterl int. The combluct of the deporting remntor: not, wed he be rerolled to the same otlites till nfte the exphation of two yoars. A llaneral sud reward; and hls puhlle: mppermane repre Rome, rh, il), 11 ithi.
3675. OFFICE, Resignation or. Shrmefle saw hamself reduced to the ultemative of resigning the empire, or of ly ing like his prederessone. Herchose the formor, mid immediately courlade el athanefal treaty with Shbinus, the brother of Vesmainu, thers prefere of Rome, by which be samed his life, olitabing, in return fire his resplymation of the empire the liberty of retiring to ('ampanin with a considerable yenrly pension. This trom, the distardly cmperor rend himself fo the !an, ple, ervine all the while like a chitel. Ite lhan sumbissivily prepared to strtp himself of all the ensigns of anthorits 'The spirit of the
 They compellod him to rofmen to his patace und ntthcol the party of sabimes, whor retired to the 3650. $\qquad$ Fiercieal. After having bes tablished an upparnmee of order in the meveral the faree, atfecten a wish to nhedionte his antherity, and return lo thas rank of a private citizon ; bint this was a piere of gross ntfertation. He con sulted Moremos, however, abd Marrus Agripen, Whether he whglit to follow his inclination. . This sereming moderation, Iowever, inereased way for ma extension of his pown Tramelt

3041. -.... Policy. In thomerenth year if hiv consulato A ignstus agmen pretembed in tesire to mudiate, and he netually informed the Semate that he had resiguel all abthority: lma hee was now seanre of the consequencre of this avowal. Fram those mercenary voires which hat, no douln, beon behind the scenes, well tration! ',

IMAGE EVALUATION

Photographic Sciences Corporation

this hypocritical farce, there was now one unlversal cry of supplication; entreatio.g him not to abandon that republic which he had preserved from destruction, aud whose existence depended on his paternal carc. "Since it must be so," suid he, "I accept the empire for ten years, unless the public peace and tranquillity shall permit me before that time to seek that ease and retirement which I so passionately desire." $\qquad$ The tenth year, the period which he had appointed for laying down his nuthority, had now arrived. Ile accordingly did so, and at the carnest entrenty of the people again resmmed $i t$; and so fond does he appear to lave heen of this solema faree, hat five times in the course of his government he amused the natio: with this empty pageantry of their pretendel power.-Ty'then's Inst., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 479.
3882. $\qquad$ Sylla. Sylla took another step which exeited universal surprise-he resigned the dictatorship. The naa who had destroyed above 100,000 of his fellow-citizenswho, in the course of his proscriptions, had put to death about 90 senators and above 2600 Roman knights-had courage to resign the absolute anthority he had acquired, to become a private citizen, and to offer to give an account to the public of his conduct. But he had gained partisans to his interest more powerful, if not so numerous as his enemies ; . . and, above all, he was the idol of the army, who hal all along profited by his measures and gained by his indulgence; he had given freedom to 10,000 slaves, and had gratified by revrards all his partisans. These were his guardians, and enabled him to walk with the security of an innocent man in that city which he had deluged with blood.-Tythen's IIIst., Book 4, ch. 1, p. 79.
3883. OFFICE, Rich Men for. Carthaginians. Aristotle has noted two cireumstances as defeets in the constitution of this republic : the one, that it was lawful for the same individual to excreise different offices of state at the same time; the other, that the poor were excluded from holding all offices of importance in the commonwealth. But the former of these may be found expedient and even necessary in the best-regulated governments, and the latter appears to be agreeable to the soundest policy; for in offices of high trust poverty might often prove too powerfill an incitement to a deviation from duty.-Tytler's Hist., Book 3, ch. 8, p. 358.
3884. OFFICE, Rotation in. Thebans. Edipus had two sons, Eteocles and Polynices, to whom jointly he bequeathed the sover signty of Thebes. Instead of dividing the kinglom, they agreed to govern it year after year alternately. Etcocles, at the expiration of his term, refusIng to sign, Polynices solicited the aid of Adraszus, king of Krgus, who espoused his cause, engaged several of the princes of Greece to assist him, and marehed against the Thebans with a powerful arny They ret:eated before the enemy, and betook themselves to their city, which Adrastus immediately took measures for assailIng. This is the first siege mentioned in Grecian history. . . . Thebes, after a long siege, gave no hopes of surrender ; both parties became tired of the war, and it was at length agreed to terminate it by a single combat between the rival brothers, Eteveles and Polynices-an issue for the quarrels of soverelgn princes which the humane reader of history will often find reason to wish had been moro frequently resorted to. Tho brothers fought under the walls of Thebes. and were both killed.-Tytler's IIst., Book 1. ch. 8, p. ${ }^{2} 5$.
$3885,-$ Bite Deeper. [Cromwel? aid :] New statesmen, liko fresh flies, bite deensaid :] New statesmen, liko fresh flies, bite deeper than those which wero chased away before then.-RnaHt's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 20, p. 324.
3886. OFFICE, Sale of. Prison-Warden. The warden of the Fleet [one of the London prisons for debtors] enjoyed a patent ofllee, to bo purchased ly a large payment to some minister of the crown. Jolm IInggins gave $£ 5000$ to Lord Clarendon for his patent. [It was made profitable by the fees paid. IIuggins sold his patent to others, I who made $£ 81+4 s$. per annum for lodging the prisoners; by the commitment and dismissiou fees, $£ \div 6618$. 8.8 . ; by liberty of rules, $£ 1500=$ by chaplains' fees, which they farmed out upon a small payment to the chaplain, $£ 813$ 168.; by rents of various premises, $£ 740$, making a total of $£ 4632$ 18s. $8 i$ i. per annum-K.iaut's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 4, p. 64.
3887. OFFICE, Seekers for. Abraham Lincoln. When the South was threatening civil war, and armies of officer-scekers were besieging him in the Executive Mansion, he said . . . ho wished he could get time to attend to the Southern question; . . but the office-seekers demanded all his time. "I am," said he, "like a man so busy in letting rooms in ono end of his house, that he can't stop to put out the firo that is burning in the other."-liaymond's Lincoln, p. 720.

3988, - - Abraham Lincoln. A new levy of troops required. . . the appointment of a large additional number of brigadier- and ma-jor-generals. Among the immense number of applications, Mr. Lincoln came upon one wherein the claims of a certain worthy (not in the service at all) " for a generalship" were set forth. But the applicant did not specify whether he wanted to be brigadier- or major-general. . . . The clerk. on receiving the papcr again, found written across its back, " Major-genernl, I reckon. Abraham Lincoln."-Raymond's Iincoln, p. 749.
3889. OFFICE, Selection for. Grecian EmpiroHis principal offleers having held a council upon his [Alexander's] death, it was agreed that the crown should be conferred on Aridæus, who took the name of Philip; and it was resolved that the child of Roxana, if a son, should share the empire with him. She was soon after delivered of a son, who was named Alexander, and whose right was accordingly acknowledged. This settlement of the empire jointly upon a weak man and an infant was the result of the jealousy of tho principal oflicers, who could not agree upon the choice of any one of themselves, while each thought he had an equal claim with his competitors. Those of the most moderate ambition would have been contented with the sovereignty of some of the provinces, while others aimed at an undivided empire.-Tytlen's Mist., Book 2, eh. 4, p. 195.
3890. OFFICE, Spoils of. Reign of James II. The sumptuous palace to which the populace of London gave the name of Dunkirk House, tho stately pavillons, the fish-ponds, the deer-park, and the orangery of Eisaton, the more than Italian luxury of Lham, with its busts, fommans, and aviaries, were among the many signs which indicated what was the shortest road to boumdess wealth. This is the true explanation of the unscrupulous violence with which the statesmen of that day struggled for oftice, of the tenacity with which, in spite of vexations, humilintions, and dangers, they clung to it, and of the scmadnlous complianers to which they stooped in order to retain it.-Macaulay's Enc., ch. 3, p. 289.
3991. Office, Terrorin. Emperor Augu*tus. With this daily augmentation of power, he was not without continual ahrms for his persomal safety. He was naturally timid, and the fate of Cacsar was ever before him. For a considirable time he never went to the senate-honse without a suit of armor under his robe; he carried a dagger in his girdle, and was always surrounded by ten of the lravest of the senators, on whose attachment he could thoroughly depend.-TyTlen's Ilist., Bgok 5, ch. 1, p. $47 \%$.
3882. OFFICE nnconditioned. Willitm of Or. ange. [A convention of the houses of 1 parliament were discussing the question of chamant of the vacant thronc. I Ife had hitherto, he said, remained silent ; he had used neither solicitation nor menare; the had not even suffered a hint of his opinions or wishes to get abroat ; but a erisis had now arrived at which it was necossary for lim to declare his intentions. He had no right and no wish to di, tate to the convention. Ail that he chaimed for himself was the privilege of declining any offlee which he felt that he could not hold with honor to himself aul with benctit to the pablic. Knother party wats for placing the prencess © [his wife, the daughter of King James II.] on the throne, and for giving to him, during her life, the title of king, and such a share in the utministration as she might be pleased to ullow him. He couht not stoop to suclia post. He esteemed the princess as much as it was possible for man to esteem woman ; but not even from her would he accept a subordinate and a precarious place in the government. He was so made that he could not submit to be tied to the apron-strings even of the best of wives. He did not desire to take any part in English affairs; lut if he did consent to take a part, there was one part only which he could usefully or honorably take. If the estates offered him the crown for life, he would :acept it. If not, he should, without repining. return to his netive combry.-Macachay's Exa., ch. 10, p. 597.
3898. OFFICE undesired. ('romarell. The following is a very characteristic letter to his son-in-law, and scems to admit us, in a very clan manner, into the mind of the Protertor on this subject: "Whitehall, 2ed Junc, 1655. To the Lord Flecticiod, Lord-Deputy of Ireland: Dear Charles-I write not often ; at once 1 desire thee to know I most dearly love thec : and, indeed, my heart is plain to thee, as thy heart can well desire. . . . It's reported that you are to be sent for, and Harry to le deputy: which, truly, never entered intc my heart. The Lord knows my desire was for him and his brother to have lived private lives in the country; and llarry knows this very well, and how difficultly I was persuaded to give him his commission for his present place. This I say as from a simple and sincere heart. The noise of my being erooned, etc., are simitar malicious figments."-Hood's Chomwell, ch. 15, p. 188.
389.4. OFFICE, Unfitted for. John Aldems. Appointed to go abroad as one of the ambassudors representing the infunt mation at Paris; but never was there a man less at home in a court, or less adapted by mature for a diplomatist. Ifo neither understood nor respecterd the peoplo among whom he lived, and whom he was reguired to gratify and conciliate. At the same time he was curionsly destitute of all that we call tact, while he was possessed with a vanity the most egregious that ever binded a man of real worth and ability. He offembed the French ministry; he perplexed Dr. Franklin, who was one of the greatest diplomatists that ever lived, as well as one of the most honest and simple; he excited the ridicule of French people. In a wortl, he was out of place in Frunce, and rendered his comatry little service there and less honor.-Cycloledia of Brog., p. 177.
3895. OFFICE, Unmerited. Naral. In 1666 John Shetheld, Earl of Mugrave, at seventeen years of age, vohnteered to serve at sea against the Dutch. He passed six werks on bomrd, diverting himself, us well as le could, in the society of some young libertines of rank, and then returned home to take the command of a troop of horse. After this he was never on the water till the year 1672, when be again joined the fleet, and was almost immediately appointed captain of a ship of eighty-four guns, reputed the finest in the mavy. Ife was then twenty three years old, and had not, in the whole course of his life, been three months aflont. As soon as he came back from sea he was made colonel of a regiment of foot. This is a specimen of the manner in which naval commands of the highest importance were then given, and a favorable specimen; for Mulgrave, thongh he wanted experience, wanted neither parts nor courage.-Macadlay's Exg., ch. 3, p. 281.
3896. --. Greek Emperor. [While monarch of the Eastern empire] Isaac [Angelus] slept on the throne, and was awakened only by the sonnd of pleasure ; his vacant honrs were anused ly comedians and buffoons, and even to these lmffoons the emperor was an object of contempt ; his feasts and buildings exceeded the examples of royal luxury; the number of his cunnchs and domestics amounted to wenty thonsand ; and a daily sum of four thousand pounds of silver would swell to four millions sterling, the annual expense of his household and table. His poverty was relieved by oppression; and the publie discontent was inflamed by equat abuses in the collection and the application of the revenue.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 60, p. 56.
3897. OFFICE, Unsonght. Abnbeker. After a reign of two years the aged caliph was summoned by the angel of death. In his testament, with the tacit approbation of his companions, he bequeathed the sceptre to the firm and intrepid virtue of Omar. "I have no occasion," said the modest candidate, "for the place." "But the place bes occasion for you," replied Abubeker, who expired with a fervent prayer that the God of Mahemet would ratify his choice, and direct the Mussulmans in the way of eoncord and oberli-ence.-Gilmon's Rome, ch. 50 , p. 154.
3898. OFFICER de eated, An. Torl Clltrendon. When the Duteh thert was in the Thames, it was againat the chancellor that the rage of the populace was chictly direoted. Itis winilows were broken, the trees of his garden cit downand a gibluet se: nj before his door. But nowhere was he more detosted than in the Itouse of Commons. - Macaulay's Ena., ch. 2, p. 183.
3899. OFFICER dishonored. Tartl Clurendin. [ Itis predecessor, Tyreomel, hal more intluence with the government than the incumbent of the olllee. The lord-lieutemant of Ireland] found himself a subordiate member of that administration of which he had expected to be the head. Ile complained that whatever he did was misrepresented by his detractors, and that the gravest resolutions touching the country which he governed were adopted at Westminster, made known to the public, diseussed at cof-fee-houses, communicated in hundreds of private letters some weeks before one hint had been given to the lord-lieutenant. Ifis own personal dignity, he said, mattered little ; but it was no light thing that the representative of the majesty of the throne should be made an object of contempt to the people.-Macaulay's Evg., ch. 6, p. 129.
3400. OFFICER, Treacherous. Aguinst Columbus. To insure regularity and desputch in the affairs relative to the new world, they were placed muder the superintendence of Juan Rodriguez de Fonseca, archdeacon of Seville, who was . . fimally oppointed patriarch of the Indies.

Enjoying the perpetuad though ummerited favor of the sovereigns, he maintained the control of Indian afficirs for about thirty years. IIe must undoubtedly liave possessed thlints for business, to insure him such a perpetuity of office; but he was maligmant and vindictive ; and in the gratification of his private resentments not only haped wrongs and sorrows upon the most illustrious of the carly discoverers, but frequently impeded the progress of their enterprises, to the grent detriment of the crown. This he was enabled to do privately and securely by his official situation. . . . He deserves to be held up as a warning example of those perficlious beings in office who too often lie like worms at the root of honorable enterprise, blighting, by their unseen influence, the fruits of glorious action, and disappointing the hopes of mations. - Invina's Columnus, Book 5, ch. 8 .
3901. OFFICERS, Surplas of. Alrulum Lincoln. Some gentlemen were once finding fault with the President becaise certain generals were not given commands. "The fact is," replied Mr. Lincoln, "I have got more pegs than I have holes to put them in."-Rivmond's LisCOLN, p. 749.
3902. OFFICIALs, Contemptible. British Colonies. [The Duke of Newcastle, minister of British Ainerica for twenty-four years,] would gratify his connections in the aristocratic families of England by intrusting the royal prerogative to men of broken fortunes, dissolute and ignorant, too vile to be employed near home, so that America became the hospital of Great Britain for its decayed members of Parliament and abauloned courtiers. Of such offleers theconduct was sure to provoke jeale us distrent and 10 justify perpetuad opposition.-Banchort's U. S., vol. 4, ch. 1.
3003. OFFICInLs, Superlativo. Comatantine's. A thousma barbers, a thousamd rup-bearers, a thousand cooks, were distributed in the several offlees of laxury ; and the number of cumbins could be compared only with the insects of a summer's day. The monareh who resigued to his subjerts the superiority of merit and virtue was distinguished by the oppressive magnitlcence of his dress, his table, his luildings, and his train. The stately palaces erected by Constanthe and his sons were decorated with many colored marbles and ornaments of massy gold. The most exquisite dainties were procured to gratify their pride, rather than their taiste ; birds of the most distant climates, fish from the most remote seas, fruits out of their natural season, winter roses, and summer snows. The domestic crowd of the palace surpassed the expense of the legions; yet the smallest part of thes costly multitude was subservient to the use, or even to the splendor, of the throne. The monarch was disgraced und the people was injured by the creation and sule of an infinite number of obscure and even titular employments; and the most worthless of mankind might purchase the privilege of being maintained, without the necessity of labor, from the public revenue. The waste of an enormoms houselold, the increase of fees and perquisites, which were soon chamed as a lawful delt, and the bribes which they extortel from those who feared their enmity, or solicited their favor, suddenly enriched these haughty menials.-Gnmon's lome, ch. 22, 1. 396.
3904. OFFICIOUSNESS, Offensive. Reign of Charles I. [The Earl of Strafforil's] attacks upon the illegraties of the last two years were as brave as hefore: the state of maritime affars -thestapension and violation of statutes. With much condemmation, however, a vote of five subsidies was granted to the king ; but the time e when the collection was to be made or the bill introduced was not mentioned. The House immovably resolved that both were to depend on the good faith of the king. It wits the greatest grant ever made in Parliament. The secretary, on helalf of the king, proceeded to thank the Ifouse, but coupled thanks of Burkinghan [himself] with thanks of the king. Sir John Eliot leaped up, and taxed Mr. Secretary with intermingling a subject's speech with the king's message: "In that Honse they knew of no other distinetion but that of king and subjects." Whereupon many of the llouse made exclamation, "Well spokien, Sir John Eliot!" - Hoods Cromwell, ch. 3, p. 72.
3905. OMENS, Ancient. Romans. Livy says : " At Falerium the sky was seen to open, and in the void space a great light appeared. The lots at Preneste shrunk of their own accord, and one of them dropped down, whereon was written, 'Mars braudisheth his sirord.'" These lots were lits of oak, handsomely wrought, with some ancient characters inseríbed upon them. When any came to consult them, the coffer in which they were kept was opened, and a chik, having first slaken them together, drew out one from the rest, which contained the answer to the querist's demand. As to the lots being slirunk, which Livy mentions, and which was considered as a bad omen, no doubt the priests had two sets, a smaller and a greater, which they played upon the people's superstition as they plensed. Cieero says they were very little regarded in his time.-I'lutargios Laven, Langllorne's Note.
3806. OMENS, Annoyed by. CHarles $I$. [When C'hurles I. was on trial, he was leaning upon his staif, which had a gohlen head. It broke off on in sudilen, und he confegsed to the Bishop of london that it made a grent impression npon him. He was behcaded.]- INiunt's Eva., vol. 4, ch. 7, p. $10 \%$.
3007. OMEN8, Presage of. Romiths. Now divination we know with some cortninty to have been ndopted by the Romans from the Eitroscons. Among that people everything was construed into a presuge; not only the extraordinary phenomem of nature, as thmoler, lightning, the aurora borealis, or the like, but the most insignificant uctions or ace idents, such as sneczing, mecting with an mimal, slipping a loot, or any of the most common oceurrences of life. Among an imorant and rude motion everything is attributed to a supernutural agency; but the Etrarians were not a rude nation, and therelore we con assign this natural propensity only to their love of those national habits which they had derived irom a remote antiquity. To a superstitions people, when presnges do not offer of themselves, it is a very natural step 10 go and seek them. The sacrillee of vietims presented often different appearances, according to the accidental state of the animal at the tine it was killed. The priests employed in the sacrifice, being leest acquainted with those appearances, are naturally consulted as to their interpretation. Thus they acquire the reputation of superior wisdon und foresight, and the augur and aruspex become an established jrofession.-Tytrek's Hist., Book 3, ch. 1, p. 289.

3P08. OMENS, Terrorized by. Suilors. [Columbus was on liis third voyage in the West Indies.] Great numbers of sharks, so abundunt and ravenous in these latitudes, were seen about the ships. This was construed into an evil omen; for among the superstitions of the seas it is believed that these voracious fish can smell dead bodies at a distunce ; that they have a kind of presentiment of their prey, and keep about vessels which have sick persons on board, or which are in danger of being wrecked. Several of these fish they catorht, using large hooks fastened to chains, and sometimes luited merely with a piece of colored cloth. -Invina's Columbus, Book 14, ch. 6.
3D@A. ONE, Encouragement by, Valerius. So great, indeed, was the slaughter, that . . . anch army laving a near view of their own loss, and only guessing at that of the enemy, were inclined to think themselves vanquished, rather than victorious. When night came on, . . . and both camps were hashed in silence and repose, it is suid that the grove shook, and a loud voice proceeding from it declared that the T'uscans had lost one man more t.ian the Romans. The voice was undoubtedly divine; for immediately upon that the Romuns recovered their spirits, and the field rang with acrlammtions; while the Tuscans, struck with feur and confusion, deserted their camp, and most of them dispersed. As for those that remained, who were not quite 5000 , the Romans took them prisoners, and plandered the camp. When the dead were numbered, there wero found on the side of the Tuscons 11,300, and on that of the Rommen as many exrepting one. Pletarcil's l'rimicola.
3910. 0NE, Power of. Chrixtialn. "The Socicly for the l'romotion of Chrintimn K nowledge" and also "The Soclety for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts" [were both eatablished about 1698 , mainly by one admirnble man, Dr.'Thomas Bray]. - KNiohr's Exa., vol. 5, ch. 13, 1). 206.
3911. OPINION disguised. Charles $I$. Whan (harles II, hal been defoted at the thate of Worcester nad was flecing toward France, disgruised as a surving-mun accompanied by his mistress, who rode lehind lim, the king's lorse cast a shoe. "What nows ?" said the servingrman to the smith. ${ }^{\text {a }}$ None since the heating of these rogues, the Scots; didu't hear that rogue (harles Stanrt hand been taken yet." [Charles thought that rogue onght to be hanged, und the smith upplanded him us an honest man for his opinion. ]-K vignr's ENr., vol. 54, ch. 9, 1). 142.
3912. OPINION, Growth of. American Inde. pendence. [Jay, 17\%6] Washington, at New York, freely and repentedly delivered his opinion: "A reeonciliation with Grent l3ritain is impracticable, and would be in the highest degrea detrimental to the true interest of America; when I first took the command of the army I abhorred the iden of independence ; lut I ann now fully convinced that nothing else will save us." [Public opinion whs affected in the same way.]Banchoft's U. S., vol. 8, ch. 65.
3913. OPINION, Topular. E'rroncous. [See No. 62:2: Zand Enrewarderl.] The ery of the whole nation was that min inposture had becn practised. Papists had, during some months, been predicting, from the pulpit and through the press, in prose und verse, in English and Latin, that a Prince of Wules would be given to the prayers of the Church ; mad they had now accomplished their own prophecy. Every witness who could not he corrupted or deceived had been stadionsly excluded. Amme had been tricked into visiting Bath. The primate hal, on the very day preceding that which had been fixed for the villainy, been sent to prison in defiance of the rules of law and of the privileges of reernge. Not a single man or woman who had the smallest interest in detecting the frond had been suffered to be present. The queen hut been removed suddenly and at the dend of night to Saint Jumes' Palace, berause that palace, less commodious for honest purposes than Whitehall, had some rooms and passiges well suited for the purpose of the Jesuits. There, amid a circle of zealots who thought nothing a crime that tended to promote the interests of their church, and of courtiers who thought nothing a crime that tended to enrich and nggrandize themselves, a newborn child had been introduced into the royal bed, and then handed round in triumph as heir of the three kingdohs. - Macallay's Eng., ch. $R$, n. $333 \%$.
3914.- P- Porerful-Leristing the British Texes. "We will hanve homespun markets of honens and woollens," passed from mouth to month, till it found its way across the Athantic. and alarmed the king in council; " the hadies of the first fortune shath set thr example of wearing homespim."-bancroft'a U. S., vol. it, ch. 14.
3915. - - Resisted. TThe Puritans had forbidden the celebration of Cliristmas in Fingland as a popish institution. See No. 8in, Christmas ('hanged.] On the next monisersary of the festival formidable riots broke out in many phaces. The constables were resisted, the magistrates insulted, the honses of moted zathes attacked, and the proseribed service of the day
 ch. $2, \mathrm{p}, 1 \mathrm{~s} 2$.
3916. OPINION, Prejudice of. History. To Sonthey, Cromwerl was hyporritical, always looking out for himself; he was comscions of a guilty ambition, he knew that he was doing wrong through the whole process of the struggle. IIe felt that he was a traitor, he knew that monarchy, aristocracy, and episcopacy were essential to the well-being of the commry; he overthrew them, mud yet he sought in some sense to retain their images, ndhough he had got rid of the things. Ife committed a great crime, he attained to the possession of soverrign powerby means little less guilty than Macbeth; but he dared not take the crown, and he dared not confer it upon the young Charles Stuart, because he knew the young man would never forgive his father's death, and if he could he would be altogether unworthy to wear his father's erown. What would not Cromwell have given, says Southey, whether he looked to this world or the next, if his hands had been clean of the king's blood! Such, in brief, was the portrait it pleased Rolsert Soutbey to portray! such was his theory of Cromwell's life.-llood's C'ronwela, eh. 1, p. 11 .
3917. OPINION, Pride of. Jtmes $I I$. IIe then produced a copy of the prince's mamifesto. [He was about to invade England.] " Sere" he said, " how you are mentioned here." "Sir," answered one of the hishops, " not one person in five humdred believes this manifesto to be genuine." "No !" cried the king, fiercely ; "then those five hundred would bring the Prince of Orange to cut my throat." "God forbid," exclaimed the prelates, in concert. But the king's understanding, never very clear, was now quite bewidered. One of his peculiarities was that, whenever his opinion was not adopted, he fancied that his veracity was questioned. "This paper not genuine !" he exclaimed, turning over the leaves with his hands; "am? not worthy to be believed? is my word not to be taken?"Macaulay's Eng., eh. 9, p. 455.
3918. OPINIONS subsidized. Cicero's. [Cæsar desired to be consul.] Cicero, though present in Rome, luad taken no part, and looked on in despair. The " good" were shocked at Pompey's precipitation. They saw that a civil war could end only in a depotism. "I have not met one man," Cicero said, " who does not think it would be better to make concessions to Cassar than to flght him. Why fight now? Things are no worse than when we gave him his additional five years, or agreed to let him be chosen consul in his absence. You wish for my opinion. I think we ought to use every means to escape war. lbut I must say what Pompey says. 1 camot differ from Pompey."-Frocide's Cs: sale, (li. 20 .
3919. OPINIONS, Character ln. ('rommell's Home. It is giveln to us to sere something of their home during the period of ahont ten years that (romwell remaned in quictude and sedusion. The spectacle of that home, the interior of it, is very amusing to Home und sumdry other historimes: for it would seem that there was prayer there, and the singing of hymos and xpiritual songs, and the reading of S.ripture, and commems, and even preachings, thereon. All this, to a man of IImmes sharicter, was mon laughable and incxpressibly comic.- Hoon's ('monWel.s, (h. 2, p. 43.
3920. OPINIONS, Concelted. Jctforwon Dawis. The rush of men to the latice tiedd. . . in every part of the South was beyond all former example ; and if the Govermment had met this mighty movement of the people with a eorresponding amplitude of provision and organization, the entise of the Sonth might have been reckoned safe beyond perad venture. Linfortunately President Javis was not the man to consult the sentiment and wistlom of the prople ; he desired to signalize the infalibility of his own intellect in every measure of the revolution, and to identify, from motives of vanity, his own personal genius with every event mad detail of the remarkable period of history in which he had been called ugen to art. This imprerious corceit seemed to swallow up every other iden in his mind. - Pos.hard's First Year of the War, ch. 11, p. 265.

3921 . OPINIONs, Diverse. Of Cromisell. ('romwell's letters have all at lengih been discovered and bound together, and their pubtiention has been the best vindication of the consistent integrity and healthfil whole-leartedness of the man. According to Carlyle, the faith of Cromwell never rested on any doubtful or insecure foundations. Whorver else might forsake him, hope and faith nevor deserted him. He never consented to take purt in any public affairs upon any compulsion less strong than that of conscience. IIe was guided by superior instinct and the practionl good sense of a man set apart by God to govern. He had no premeditated plan or programme to which to coniorm. On the other hand, his principles were never to seck. He saw the drift of circmastances, but he was nevertheliss to guide them, to use and control them, for the good of all. Ile had no persomal ambition ; he was distracted by no fear, dazzled by no honor. Southey's Cromwell was full of penitence for his treason against Charles. Forster's was full of penitence for his trenson against the republican chuse. Guizot's Cromwell was full of sorrow on account of his failure in clutching at sovercignty and founding a dymsty. The real Cromwell, according to Carlyle, has no penitence of any kind, no sorrow, save for the sorrow and sin, the sad heirlooms of our race. He was the great champion of the Puritan cause, a sworn soldier to defend the rights of civil and spirituab freedom; not to protect the interests of a party, but, so far as he could, to throw a shield over all, having only a zeal for what he honestly believed to be God's truth, one of those rare souls.
who could lay upon itself the lowliest and the loftiest duties; a dutiful don ; for a large part of his life a quiet comntry gentlemen; a tender hasband, a tender father; a daring julitiead leader; a great soldier; a man who knew men, and who could, as in his dentings with the subite Mazarin, while preserving his own interrity, twist subtle statesmen to his plensure ; al last a pwerful sovereign, soliving, praring, dying ; no hypocrite, no trator, but a champion and martyr of the Pronestant mud Puritanicol faith. Such is the Cromwell of Thomas Carlyle, and such the Cromwell of [Paxton llood].- Ifoosis Chonweha, ch. 1, p. 4.
3922. OPINIONS, Eiratic. John Milton. Lןon the points which interested him most densely, Milton knew that his understanding of the text differed from the standard of Protestant orthodoxy. That Godereated mater, not out of nothing, but out of Alimself, and that death is, in the course of mature, total extinction of heing, though not opinions received, were not singular. More startliner is his assertion that polygamy is not, in itself, contrary to morality, though it may be inexpedient. More offensive to the religions sentiment of his day would have been his vigorous vindication of the freewill of man against the reigning Calvinism, and his assertion of the inferiority of the Son in opposition to the received Athamasimism.-Mhiton, hy M. Partison, ch. 12.
3923. OPINIONS, Infallible, Juhn Mitton, Whatever he thonght, Milton thought and felt intensely, and expressed emphatically; and even his enemies could not accuse him of a shadow of inconsistency or wavering in his principles. On the contrary, tenacity, or persistence of idea, amounted in him to a serious defeet of character. A conviction once formed dominated him, so that, as in the controversy with Morus, he could not le persuaded that he had made a mistake. No mind, the history of which we have an opportunity of intimately studying, could be more of one piece and texture thin wis that of Milton from youth to age.-Minton, by M. Patmison, ch. 11.
3924. OPPONENTS, Regard for. C'romacell. He was the steadfast friend, notwithstanding episcopacy, of Arehbislop Usher: and far removed as lis own sentiments were from Universalism, he shichled from persecution John Biddle, called the Father of Unitarians, and, in consideration of his vorth, even granted him a pension of 100 crowns a year. Even Sir Kenclm ligby, Royalist as he was, found himself at the Protector's table, who no doubt enjoyed the mystical wanderings of his mind, and certainly did honor to his literary merits. He invited to his table, sometimes, men disaffected to himself ; notably more than once he invited several of the nobility, and after dinner told them, to their surprise, where they had lately been, what compuny they had lately kept, and advised them the next time they drank the health of Charles Stuart and the members of the royal family to do it a little more secretly, as the knowledge might not be so safe with some as with him.-llood's Cromwell, ch. 16, p. 200.
3925. OPPORTUNITX, Awaiting. Cromell. The only traces of the presence of Cromwell in the House of Commons for ten years, which the parlamentary anmuls retain, ure a fow words spoken by him, at long intervals, in defence of lis brehtren, the puritamic missiomaries, and in atuck of the dominnt Anglican ('hurehnod the Roman Cathotices, who ware again strugerling for supremacy. It might be sern, from the attention paid by his collomgues to the senteneres uttered with such religions fervor by the representative of lluntingedon, hat this genthman farmer, as restrathed in spereh as in his desire of pophlarity, was trentel in the llouse with that consideration which is nlways shown in doliberative assemblies to those men who are modest, sensible, silent, and eareless of appotation, but WELL, p. 19.
3926. OPPORTUNITY, Last. Jimes $I I$. If only mational animosity could in allayed, there conid be little doubt that religious inimosity. not lefor kept alive, as in Englamd, by cruel femal acternd stringent test acts, would of itself facle away. To assumge a mational animosity such as that which the two races inhabiting lic. land folt . . . was a work to which a wise und good prince might have contributed much, mal James would have madertaken that work with advantuges such as none of his predecessors or successors possessed. At once un Englishman and a Roman Catholie, he belonged half to the ruling and lulf to the suliject caste, and was therefore pecoliarly gualified to be a mediator between them. . . . Maving done this, he shond have labored to reconcile the lastile races to each other by impartially protecting the rights um restraining the excesses of both. He should have punished with equal severity the native who indulged in the license of barbarism and the colonist who abosed the strength of civilization.-Macatlay's Evg., ch. 6, p. 12.t.
3927. OPPORTUNITY, A lost, (ivil Hir. The whole Confederate force here [at sewall, Va.], under the command of General Lee, was nearly 20,000 . This formidable army remained for twelve or fifteen days within sight of the enemy, each apparently awaiting an attack from the other. Thus the time passed, when, one morning, General Lee discovered, much to liis surprise, that the enemy he had been so long hesitating to attack no longer confronted him. Rosecruns had disappeared in the night, and reached his old position on the Gauley. . . . Thus the second opportunity of a decisive battle in western Virginia was blindly lost, General Lee making no attempt to follow up the enemy, . . . the excuses alleged . . . being mud, swollen streams, and the leanness of his artillery horses.-Pot. lard's First Year of tile War, ch. 6, p. 173.
3928. OPPORTUNITY overlooked. Christina. [The daughter of the great Augistus Adolphus.] At a solemn assembly of the States, in the yenr 1654 , she made a formal resignation of the govermment in his favor [Charles Gustavus]. She set out immediately, in man's apparel, for Rome, but soon after left that city for Paris, which she ever afterward distinguished as her prineipal place of residence. The conduct of this singular woman has been variously judged of; she herself thought it glorious-and her panegyrist, Voltaire, holds it forth as much to her honorthat she preferred living with men who could think, to tho government of a people without literature. But how much nolner wonld it have been for thls philosophic queen to have bestowed her attention on the introdnction among her subjects of those sclences which tend to the good of mankind It was an evidence of a littio sonl to reprouch those with ignornuce, or barbarism, whom it should have been her study, as it was her duty, to huve cultivated and improved. It was not, therefore, surprising that a woman, whose conduct was evlidently regulnted more by caprico than by a sommd understauding, should repent of the step she had taken, and wish to resme that government sho had abolleated.Ty'leer's Ilist., Book 6, ch. 34, p. 456.
3829. OPPORTUNITY Providentisl. Purchaso of Iouisiana. The Uuited States, in consequence of favoring cireumstances growing out of European complications and the bold and completo statesmunship of Jeiferson, obtained a territory larger in urea than that which was wrested from the 13 ritish crown by the levolutionury war [for $$ 15,0 t 0,0100$ ]. It seems scarcely credible that the acquisition of Louisiana by Jefferson was denounced with a bitterness surpassing the partisan rancor with which later generations Juve been funiliar. No abuse was too malignant, yo epithet too course, no imprecation too anvage to be employed by the assailants of the great philosoplic statesman who laid so broad and deep the foundations of the country's growth and grandear.-Blaine's Twenty Ieans of Conoless, p. 8.
3930. OPPORTUNITY, Waiting for. "Malie me come." It was reported that when Pompedius Silo, an offlcer of the grentest eminence und muthority among the allies, said to Marins, "If you are a great general, Marius, come down and tight us," he answered, "If you are a great general, Silo, make me como down and fight." - Plutarcu's Makius.
3931. OPP08ITION, Benefits of. Christianity. The Christian doctrines were not more vigorously combated by the seculor arm than by the jens of the heathen philosophers. Porphyry, a Syrian by birth, and a man of grat abilities, Wrote a long and most laborions work against Christianity ; and Philostratus, one of the most cminent rhetoricians of that age, contrived a new method of attack, which was by drawing artful comparisons between tho life and doctrines of Christ and those of the nneient philosophers. These attacks, however, were, on the whole, rather serviceable than dangerous to the causo of Christianity, since they excited the zeal and zobilities of many of the ablest Fathers of the Chureh to defend its doctrines, and oppose, by their writings, the malevolent efforts of its enemies. The works of Origen, of Dionysius, Bishop of Alexandria, and of Cyprian, Bishop of Carthage, are read at this day with much pleasure and profit; and at the time they were written contributed, in a most eninent degree, to the advancement of religiou.-'YY'TEES's Mist., Book 5, ch. 4, p. 6.
3932. OPPOSITION of Folly. Street Lights. Ieming's scheme was enthusiusticalty applauded and furiously attacked. The friends of improvement extolled him as the greatest of all the benefactors of his city. What, they asked, were the boasted inventions of Archimedes when compared with the achevement of the man who had turned the noeturnal shales into noontiday ? In splte of these eloquent enlogies, the cause of darkness was not left undefended. There were fools In that nge who opposed the introduction of what was called tho new light as strennonsly as fools In our age have opposed the introduction of vaccluntion und railronds, as strenuously as fools of an uge nnterior to the dawn of history doubtless opposed the introluction of the plough nul of alphabeticalwriting. - Macaulay's End. ch. 3, P. 337 .
3983. OPPOBITION, Help by. Persecution. In 1070, when the net ugainst conventleles wus being re-enucted, for the overthrow of Nonconformists, Waller, the wit of the House of Commons, said of the Dissenters: "These people are like the children's tops: whip them, und they stand up; let them alone and they fall."Kniairt's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 19, p. 310.
3934. OPPOBITION, Impolitio. Traxation. We may observe that in this last effort to preservo their expiring freedom the Romans, from tho apprehension of a tribute, Jad raised Muxentius to the thronc. He exaeted that tribute from the Senate under the name of a free gift. They insplored the asslstance of Constantinc. He vanquished the tyrant, und converted the free gift into a perpetual tix.-Gibuon's Rome; ch. 14. p. 484.
3935. OPPOSITION, Pohtioal. President Tyler. The next mensure-a favorite scheme of tho Whigs-was the rechartering of the Bank of the United States. The old charter hat expired in 1836, but the bank had continued in operation under the nuthority of the State oi Pennsylvania. Now a bill to recharter was brought forward and passed. The President Interposed his veto. Again the bill was presented in a modified form, and received the assent of both IIouses, only to be rejected by the executive. By this action a final rupture was produced between the Presldent and the party which had elected him. The indignant Whigs, buffled by a want of a twothirds majority in Congress, turned upon him with storms of invective. All the members of the cabinct except Mr. Webster resigned, and be retained his place only because of a pending difficulty with Great Britain.-IRidpatu's U. B. ch. 16, p. 441.
3936. OPPOSITION yrepared. Politics. [Cæsar sought advancement to the consulship.] Tho Scnute had made up their minds to fight the batthe. If Casar went to the assembly, lBibulus. their second consul, might stop the proceedings. If this seemed too extreme a step, custom provided other impediments to which recourse might be had. Bibulus might survey the heavens. watch the birds, or the clouds, or the direction of the wind, and declare the aspects unfavorable or he might proclaim day after day to be holy and on holy days no legislation was permitied. Should these religious cobwebs be brushed away. the Senate had provided a further resource in three of the tribunes whom they had bribed. Thus they held themselves secure, and dared Casar to do his worst. Casar on his side was equally determined.-Froude's Cessar, ch. 13.
3937. OPPOSITION, Proof by. Samuel John. son. Ilis "Taxation No Tyranny" being men-thoned, he sall, "I think I lutwe not been attackedenough for it. Attack is the renction: I nev. ar think I have hit hard muless it rehomels." Bosweht: "I don't kuow, sir, what you would be at. Five or six shots of smatll arms in every newspaner, mad reponted comomadiar in panphlets, might, I think, satisfy yom."-Bosw El, i's Jolinson, p. 曻4.
3898. OPPOSITION useless, Woths. 'Tlur tromps of Colias and suerid expered the appomeh of the great Fritigern the leader of the revolied Gothal, ranged themselves umder his standard, and signalized their ardar in the sicge of Ihadrianople. But the resistance of the garriaon informed the barbarians that for the athek of regular fortitications the efforts of maskilful conrage are seldom effectan. Their general arknowledged his error, raised the siege, dechared that " he was at peare with stone walls," and revenged his disappointment on the aljacent come-try.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 26, p. 39.
3933. OPPRESSION, Dangerous. "Iom't treat on me." Gadsden fof Nouth (arolima, in 17ial presented the standard . . . to be used by the Ameriean navy, representing, in a yellow lled, a rattlesnake of thirter full-rrown ruttes, coiled to strike, with the moto, " forn't tread on me."Bancrort's U. S., vol. 8, ch. bid.
3040. OPPRESSION, Governmental. Specrh. [In 1795: Parliament phased a bill giving one magistrate the power of dispersing any nssembly, if in his slagle judgment the language of the speakers was calculated to bring the Government nito contempt ; and if twalve persons remained together for one hour after heing ordered to disperse, the offenders ware to be judged felons, withont benefle of clergy.-Kingits Evi., vol. 7, ch. 18, p. 324 .
3911. OPPRESSION by Ignorance. Reifn of Jemes II. A.1s. 1683 . ('nipepper and his combel had uraigned a printer for pablishing the laws. and ordered him to print nothing till the king's pleasure was known. . . The best proof which Charles II. had given of his interest in Virginia was the express instruction to allow no printingpress on my pretence whatever. The rule was continued under James II.-Danchor'tis $\mathrm{C}^{\circ}$. S., vol. 2, eli. 14.
3942. OPPRESSION reaisted. Thurution of Henry VIII. In every connty a tenth was demanded from the hity and a fourth from the clergy hy the royal commissioners. But the demand was met by a general resistance. revolt actually broke out mong the weavers of Suffolk; the men of Cambridge banded for resistance; the Norwich clothiers, though they yielded at first, soon threatened to rise. "Who is your captain ?" the Duke of Norfolk nasked the crowd. "His name is Poverty," was the inswer, "for he and his cousin Necessity have brought us to this doing." There was, in fact, a general strike of the employers. Clothmakers discharged their workers, farmers put away their servants. "They say the king asketh so much that they be not able to do as they have done before this time." Such a prasant insurrection as was raging in Germany was only prevented by the uneonditional withdrawal of the royal demand.-Green's Eng. Peoflee, 8539 .

3n is. OPPREssion, Royal. Withiam the Confurrar. Olue of the mast oppressive menmires of Willian the (omeneror was the emactment of the forent laws. He reservell to himself the exche. sive privilage of kolling game throughout all

 Not satintied with this severe and mosi impolitio masomere, William, to gratify his pasxion for the chase, laid waste a comatry of abont tifty milhes in circuit, drove out all the inhabitants, and there down the vilages, and cren charehes, wo make the New Forest in llamphire; thasexterminating at once above one handred thonsand inhabitants, many of whom prishoul from famine. It is not, therefore, wiflamit ranom that. lard Lyitelton remarks that Altila himsilf did mot more jostly desirve to be mand the stom rye of (ione than this merciless Norman. It was this severe restriction of the forest laws-this mark of sarvitude-that, above every other circomstance, lay lamey on the English, and, in the reign of the suceerding prince, excited at length those vigorous afforts which prodnced the nowt fiavorable concessions for the general liberty.Tytlem's Hent., Boois 6, ch. 8, p. 134.
3944. OPPRESSION, Scandalous. Irelanil. a.t. 1:63. Such was the lreland of the lrish-a ame guered people, whom the victors delighted to trample upon, and did not fenr to provoke. Their industry within the kingdom was prohibited by law, and then they were calumniated ar naturally idlo. Their savings combld not be invested on agual terms in trade, manufartures, or real propcrty, mad they were athed improvident. The gates of learning were shot on them, and they were dorided as ignornat. In the midst of privations they were cherernl. Suffering for generations uidder acts which offered bribes to treachery, their integrity was not dehanched: no son rose against his father, no friend betrayed his friend. Fildity to their religion, to which afllictions made them cling more closely, chastity, and respect for the ties of fumily, remained charmeteristics of the dewn-trodiden race.
Rolief was to eome through the contlicts of the Nowh Amerian colonies with Great 13ritain.Bancempr's U. S., vol. 5, ch. 4.
3945. ORACLE corrupted. Athrnitn. The Marelonian boully complained of the $\Lambda$ thenians as having tirst commenced hostilities ; and the artful dissembler [1Philip], still further to preserve a show of moderation, requested a renewal of the peace. A megotiation for that parpose was prolonged by him for iwo years. Demosthemes still raised his voice for war. It was "pon his ocrasion that, the Athenians having consulted the Delphian oracle, which advise? them to make peace, Demosthenes, in an animated harangue, openly insimuated that the oracle was corrupted, by declaring that the Iythia Philippized. The elognence of the orator prevailed over the counsel of the hireling priestess, and the Athenians took the field in great force, joined by the Theinas and their other allies.'Tytien's Hist., Book i, ch. 3, p. 174.
3946. ORACLE, Deceptive. Grecian. A hollow onk in the forest of Dodona, in which it was possible for a man to conceal himself while the aperture was artfully closed up, was likewise f:mous for its oracles, and the imposture was no doubt equally bemeficiad to itepriastand attemed mats, 'These were commonly mell of some art, who had hagemity cough to limme agulvend answers to the ginesthone that were pint to them: nond if the hempirer gave sum heonstruethon to the gencrally possible for the priests to comasture it neroviluge to the avent. Strmere! that ment should ever bedle ve that if the Deity shond stomp to hold interemorse whith hils cremtives, he would use the meran tricks ant subterfuges of a juggier. Yer these ornclas of the (Irecks wire for many ures bin high reputation, and had extensive por-
 -1.I. 7, p. 65.
39.17.- Diphie. A ravern at the foot of Momet Paninsus, mar Indphi, was remarkable lor exhaling a mephitie vapor, which, like that of the (irotoo hel ('mini in laty, land the ceffert of stupefying and slightly convilsing nu!. person who cane within lis atmosphere. Some fagenions men had the address to thrn this: matuma phenomenon to the ir own mbuntage nud the proitt of the neightworhooi. A lemple was built on the spot to Apollo, the god of divination. A priestess was procured whom habit soon cmabled to undergo the experiment withont dmuger: the raving expressions which the priests prombly itstancted her to utter, and which they interpreted us they thought ith, were received by the pophe us oracles, and her vivible comvilsions gave ample testimony to their lecing the effect of inspirn-tion.-Tythers liset., Book 1, cli. 7, p. bio.
39.18. ORACLE, Equivocal. Ielphic. Such was the state of Persia when Philip prepured for his great enterprise by sonding his lientemants Atalus mad I'armenio into Asia. As usami before all expeditions of importance, he consulted the Delphie ornele, and recelved the following response, equally applicable to the prosperous or unsuccessful event of the war: The bull is ready crooned; his end aproaches, and he rill soon be ancrificed. "The prophecy," suid Philip, "is quite clear: the bull is the momareh of Persin." The predietion speedily found its aecomplishment, but Philip himself was the vic-tim.-Tytleil's Itst., Book 2, ch. 3, p. 177.

394D. ORATOR, The great. Demosthenes. Demosthenes, the prince of the Greeinn orators. . . . land no advantages of birth or educntion. His father, a sword-cutler, or, as Juvenal has termed him, a blacksmith, laft him an orphon at the age of seven, to the eare of protligate gunrdians, who robled him of his small patrimony. But he possessed that native genius which surmounts every disudvantage of birth or situation. Ambition prompted him to the study of oratory; for, groing one day to the court to hear the pleadings in some cause of moment, he was so impressed with the eloquence of Callistratus, and so fired by the popular applause bestowed on that orator upon his gaining the suit in whiel he had plended, that he determined from that moment that this should be his road to eminence and distinction. No man, in this arduous course, ever strugghed with greater matural obstacles, or more happily overcame them. His voice was harsh and uncouth, his articulation indistinct, und his gestures nwkward and constraned ; hut, sensible of his defects, he labored night and day in private exarcises of elocution, till he completely subdurd them: and then, conthimen of his pow. ars, lue broke forth at onere the most distimguisherd arator of his nge,-T'Tlosu's Most., Book D, ch. 3, p. 171.
3050. ORATOR, Unsuccessful, Wieshington IPro ing. 'The new mhather was colled on to nttemi the dimer which the citizans of New York gave Dhekens, at which it was deedeled that he minst previle, and where he did preskle, with much trepidiatho, making one of the shartest dinnere speredes on record. "There," he sald, its he comeluded his broken sonteneros by proposiur the hanth of bickrins, ns the guest of the mution -" There! I told you' 1 shomld break down, and l've done it."-Srimodab's Invina, p. 40.
3951. ORAT0RS, Dangerous. Sorme Jenyms, [wrlting in favor of the Stamptax, sulde]: One method indeed has been hinted nt, innd lint one, that might render the exercise of this power just allod lagal, which is the introduction of representativer from the several colonies into that hady. But 1 have lately secoll so many spechmens of the grent powers of speech of which these Americtun, renthomen ure possessed, that I should bo afrad the sudiden importation of so much eloquence at once would emdanger the safety of Enghand. It will be much chenper for wh to pay their army than their orntors.-Banchorr's U.S., vol. 5, il. 11.
3952. ORATORY, Audience for. William Pitt. It was the great Willimm litt, the great commoner, who lund vanguished French marshals in Germany and French admirals on the Athantic ; who had conguered for his conntry one great empire on the frozen shores of Ontario, and another under the tropical sun neme the montlis of the Ganges. It was not in the nature of things that popularity sueli as he at this time enjoyed should be pernment. That popularity had lost its gloss before his children were old enough to understand that their finther was a great min. He was at length , wheed in situations in whleh nether his talents for administration nor his talents for debnte appeared to the best advantage. The energy and decislon which had eminently fitted him for the direction of war were not needed in time of peace. The lofty and spirit-stirring eloquence which had made him supreme in the Ilouse of Commons often fell dend on the House of Lords.-Macaulay's Pitt, p. 1.
3953. ORATORY desplaed. Samuel Johnson. Ife would not ullow much merit to Whitefield's oratory. "1Iis popularity, sir," said he, " Is chietly owing to the peculiarity of his manner. Ife would be followed by crowds were he to wear a night-enp in the pulpit, or were he to preach from a tree."-Boswell's Joinnson, p. 162.
3954. ORATORY disregarded. Pulpit. [In the midulle of the cighteenth century the eloquence of the English clergy] was of the tamest chazacter. A forcigner deseribes their sermons: "The pulpit declamation is a most tedious monotony. The ministers huve chosen it through respect for religion, which, as they affirm, proves, defends, and supports itself withont having any occasion for the assistance of oratory. With regard to the truth of their assertion, I appeal to themselves and to the progress which religion
thus inc＂conted makes in England．＂ Eva．，v．．．7，eh．6，p． 110, Talking of oratory，Mr．W＇ikes deseribed it as urcompunied with all the charms of perticul ex－ pression．Ioninson：＂No，sir ；orntory ls the fower of benting down your ndversary＇s argu－ bacats，and putting better la thair place．＂ Whakis：＂lut hais does not move the pas－ sions，＂Jolinson：＂lle mist be 4 weak man who is to be so moved．＂Witekes（mathig a cel－ ebrated orator）：＂Amid all the brilliancy of ＇s immgimaton，and the exuberame of his wit，there is a strange want of texte．It was obs－ served of $A$ pelles＇Vomus，that her flesta seremed and if she hat been mourished hy roses ；his ora－ tory would sometimes make one suspert that he eats potatoes and drinks whiskey．＂－13osw was．＇s Jolinson，1． 461.

3958．ORDERs，Conflicting．（iutuin Wiuds． forth．［In 160：3］Fleterner，the Govermor of New York，went to Hatford to assume command of the militin of the proviace．He bore a ＇ommis－ wion from King Willinm，but by the terms of the chartar the right of commanding the troops was vested in the colony itself．The generna as－ sembly refused to recognize the anthority of Fletcher，who，nevortheless，ordered the sol－ diersumder arms，and proceeded to read his eoms－ mission as colonel．＂Bent the drums！＂shouted Coptain Wadsworth，who stood at the head of the compmay．＂silence！＂suid Fletcher；the drums censed，and the reading hegan agoin． ＂Drum！drum！＂cried Whawworth；mad a seeond time the voice of the remder wasirowned in the uproar．＂silence！Silence！＂shonted the enraged governor．The danntless Wadsworth stepped before the ranks and suid，＂Colonel Fletcher，if I mm interrupted ngain I will let the sunshine through your body in an instant．＂ That ended the controversy．Benjamin Fleteher thought it better to be a living governor of New Fork than 14 dead colonel of the Connecticut militin．－Ridpatith U．S．，ch．21，p． 191.

3057．ORDERS neglected．Murshal Ney．Ney was ordered to alvance immediately with 40,000 men and take possession of［Quatre－Bras，there－ by preventing Blucher from re－enforeing Wel－ lington with $130,000 \mathrm{men}]$ ．．．．Had Ney brought up his foree to cut off the retreat of the Prus－ sians，as Napoleon had ordered and expected，not one of the enemy would have escaped，and ＂Waterloo＂wouli not have been．Ney ar－ rived near the place，and there rested his weary army by a short slecp，unsuspecting the activity of Blucher，who soon possessed it．Ney was so sure of it，le reported that］he was netmally in possession．－Abbottry Napoleon B．，vol． 2 ， ch． 27.
3958．ORDERS simple．Lord Nelson．［When Lord Nelson informed the commanders in his flect of his plan for the battle of Trufalgar，he stated few signals would be given．One direc－ tion was worth many embarrassing orders：］No man could do wrong who placed his ship close alongside of that of the enemy．－Knigirt＇s Eng．，vol．7，ch．25，p． 441.

3950．ORIGIN，Humble．J，hn Bunyan．＂I was of a low and inconsiderable generation，my father＇s house being of that rank that is mennest and most dosplsed of all fumilies in the land．＂ ＂I never went to nehool，to Aristotle or Plato． but was brought up in my father＇s house in a very moman con ithon，among a comp my of poor ＂omentrymon．＂＂Nevertheless，I b＂ess forl that by thivilour fie brought me late the world to par－ take of the grace and life that is by Chrlat in IIIs （hospel，＂This is the necome given of himatif and his origin by a man whose writinges have for two centurios aifectel the spiritual ophions of the English race in avery part of the world moro bowerfully than any look or books，except the Bible．－Finocmés Bunvan．ch．1，p． 1.
：3960．organization，Perfect．Siricty of Jesme．The astablishmant by layola was con－ temporary with the Reformation，the progress of whicla it was designed to arrest． $\qquad$ Its mem－ bers were，by its rules，never to herome prehates； their vows ware poverty，chastity，absoluto obrdience，and a constant rembliaess to go on missions against heresy or heathenism．－ban－ CHort＇s Li．S．，vol．3，ch．20）．
B961．ORNAMENT，Love of．Amrrictan Thid． tinns．The women ．．．glittered with tufty of clk hatr，brillimaly dyed in scorlet，and stringst of the vadons kiads of shells were their pearls and diamonds．The summer garments of moose and slecr skins wore painted of many colors． und the fairest fenthers of the turkey ．．．wero curionsly wrought fato mantles．The claws of the grizaly har formed a prond collar for a war－ chicf．．．．the wing of a red－bird ．．．decorateal their locks，A warrior＇s ．．．skin was also tat－ tooed with flgures．．．．Some hand the nose tipped with blue，the cyabrows，eyes，and cheeks tinged with bhack，and the rest of tho face red．．．．When they made visits．．．they paint－ ed themselves glorionsly．－B．ancoorr＇s U．S．， vol．3，ch．22．

3962．ORTHOGRAPHY exoused．Nipoleon I． ＂Do you write orthographically？＂suid he one day to his amanuensis at St．Lelena．＂A man orcupied with public business cannot attend to orthography．His ideas must flow faster than his hand cin truce．Ite has only time to place his points．Ite mast compress words into let－ ters and phrases into words，and let the seribes make it out ufterward．．．．＂His handwriting was composed of the most unintelligible hicro－ glyphies．He often could not decipher it him－ self．－Ambot＇s Napoleon B．，vol．1，ch． 5.

3968．OSTENTATION，Mertless．Demaratus． Demaratus，the Lacedemonian，who was then at court，being ordered to ask a favor，desired that he might be carried through Sardis in royal state，with a diadem upon his head．But Mith－ ropanstes，the king＇s eonsin－german，took him by the hand，and suid，＂Demaratus，this diadem does not earry brains along with it to cover；nor would you be Jupiter，though you should tuke hold of his thander．＂＇The king was highly dis－ pleased at Demaratus for making this request， and seemed determined never to forgive hinn； yet，at the desire of Themistocles，he was per－ suaded to be reconciled to him．－Plutarcir．

3964．OSTENTATION，Orlental，Chosroes． ［This Persinn king had his］favorite residence of Artemita，or Dastagerd，．．．beyond the Ti－ gris，about sixty miles to the north of the capl－ tal．The adjacent pastures were covered with

مock mad herds: the paradise or park whe replenbocks, and widd trats, mad the noble game of lions and theres wasesmetimes turnod lomese for the bulder memsurns of the chase. Nhine homdrendinnd sixty elphlanta were maintainod for ther ase or were carried hato the telit by 12,1061 great ammels were blled with bent males mad horsus, among whom the mames of shathita nul Barlis nre renowned for their spureit or heanty. Nix thomsamis gates; the servierof the buteror apartments was of :300n) virglins, the fatrest of X what some happy concoblan might eonsole her master for the age or the indilferene of Sima. The varions trensares of gold, silver, perms, silks, mud mromutios were deposited in a himilred sidhermanotes vinilss; und the chamber Biederered elenoted the acedental gift of tho whode which hal wafted the spoils of Iheraclites lato one of the Syrinn harbore of his rival. The vice of thatery, mad perhaps of tis:tion, is not aslamed to compute the : 0 , woo rich hangings that merned the walls; the (0,0)(0) columas of silver, or more probably of marble, and plated word, that supported the roof' ; thd the thomsnod globes of gold suspend. al in the dome, to imitate the motlons of the phanets and the eomstallations of the zodine.Gimbon's Rome, ch. 46, p. 46;3.
3965. OSTENTATION rebuked, P/ilitis. " $\mathrm{I}_{!} /$ Sin, be Less." Among the Macedominns / who went with Alexander to Persin] Philotas, the som of Parmenio, hat greater nuthority; ithe was valimit and lodefatignble in the theld, but he. affected an ostratation of wealth and a magriticence in his dress and table that was above the condition of a subiect. Beside, the loftiness of his port was altogether extravagnt; not tempred with any mintural graces, but formal und uncouth, it exposed him both to hatred and suspicion, insomuch that Parmenio one dhy satid to him, "My son, he less."-Phetamen's A dex. ander.

396U. OSTENTATION, Ruinous. Anthemins. The solemn inatuguration of Suthemius [ns emperor of Rome] was followed by the nuptials of his danghter and the patrician Kicimer ; a fortumate event, which was considered as the firmest security of the union and luppiness of the state. The wealth of two empires was cstentationsly displayed; and many senators completed thoir ruin by an expensive effort to disguise their poverty. All serious business was suspended during this festival; the courts of justice were shut; the strects of Rome, the theatres, the places of public and private resort, resounded with hymeneal songs and dances; and the royal hride, elothed in silken robes, with a crown on her head, way conducted to the pulace of Ricimer, who mad changed his military dress for the habit of a consul and a senator.-Gabos's Номе, ch. 36, p. 491.
3967. O8tentation, Vain of. Romans. "But this native splendor," says Amminnus, "is degraded and sullied by the conduct of some nobles, who, unmindful of their own dignity, and of that of their country, assume an unbounded license of vice and folly. They contend with ench other in the empty vanlty of ittes and watrmames, urd curbously s.lert, or lavent, the most lolty und wanorous "perdathons, Rohurrus ar Pathalas, Pagonhas or Tharasios, which may lappese the cars of the valgar withastonishment mad respert. l'rom a van ambition of parpertanting their memory, they nifect to maltiply their likriness. Ia stathes of bronze and marlile ; mor are they sutisthad undess thase statues are covered with pilates of gold; in bomomble distherthen. tirat granted to Achlius the consal, after her had of King Anthernis. Tha ostembaten of diaphyying, of magnitying, perhels, the remt rell of the estates whinh thay goseses in all the provtheres, from the riving to the setthge sin, provokes the jowt resentment of every man, whic recolleets that their jume mind invincible aneestors wore not disthguishal liman the mentest of the soldiers ly the delicary of their foed or the aplember of liae ir apmarel. But the madern nobles mensure ness of their chariots and the weighty magnithcence of thoir dress. Their fong rothes of sllk and purple thont in the whad; mad an they are neituted, by art or aceldent, they orecusiomally disoover the mader garments, the ridh tumes, anbroldered with the tiguras of varlonamimat..

If at any time, but more experinlly on in hot day, they linve cournge to snit, in 'heir paintal galliva, I'rom the Lacrame Lake 1 . their cheannt vilua on the nen-comst of Poteoll nad (nyetn, they compare theirown expeditions to the marehes of Chesar amd Alexander.-Gimues's Rowne, ch. i3), p. 2:4.

BMAN. Ostracism by Ballot. Athrnirms. The ostruchism was conducted in the following manner: (vary eilizen took n pleed of abroken pot,or a shall, on which he wrote the nume of the person he wanted to have mulshed, nud carried it to a part of the amrket-phace that wos nclosed with woulen rails. The magist rates then counted the mumber of the shells; and if it amounted not to six thonsiond, the ost racism stood for nothing ; it it dial, they sorted the shells, nud the person whose mane was lound on the greatest number was dechared an exile for ten vears, but with per-336i9. OsTRACISM, Evils of. Athenions. It was mot repuisite that a man shond ber nerosed of any arime wdeserve the sentence of the osimcism. It was enough that any person, either from his wenth, his uncommon talents, or even his eminent virtues, shonld hecome an object either of envy or of publir praise and mbiniration. When a citizen had nerived at that dugree of credit as to fall under either of those deserip)tions, and to offend by too much popularity, may individual of the people might demand in ostracism. The ceremony was his: every citizen who chose took a shell or piece of tile, on which, having written the mame of the person in his opinion the most obnoxious, he carrical it to a crebain phace in the form m , which was enclosed with rails, mad had ten gates, for ten tribes. Othicers were appointed to count the number of whells: for it they were fewer than six thousanal, the vote did not take place.
 TIDES.

Thus we finl, in the course of the history of this republic, that virtue, withont the imputation or suspicion of ambithons views, was frequenily the vietim of this permidebes low. It was 'mong'g that Aristides by his virties ham marited the ghorione apithet of juat; that epllinet, hat the cyes of the Athenian prople, was sallache drime. When Arisidere himendf was pasing by, billiterate mame of dristides. Why, what harm, my irland, sald the other, lias Armelden dome yon y Nome hear everyturdy enall him the' duat. '1'hucydiden, from whim. Athers had reedved the must emi-compuseal in hife exile that history fin which he

:BDTO. OU CCABT for Rellgion, Willuth. I'm". A. 1 . 1this. In Irebund. . . the undying Itres of renomed every hope for the path of lategrity . . " when abent two nad twenty yare of nge." . . . Theturaing to Finghad, beencomitered bitar morkings mad mornings, the finveritives of the priesta, the strangeress of nill his old compablons, . . and his fulher, it anger, turned him permiless onat of doors. 'The outenst, sumed froin ex-inn nuthor; . . . In the heyday of yomith wins consigned to 1 long and close fimprisomment in the 'Tower. Dix offeme was herexy.-Banemofte U. S., vol. 2, ch. 16.
sigt I. OUTRAOE, Horrible, Allmin. |The
 to domestic trenson mid female revenge. In a palace near Verom, whid had not heol areated for the larinarinas, he fenate i the companions of his arans: intoxidition was the reward of valor, nud to. King himself was trimpted, hy appetite or vania, to exeed the ordiam:y mensure of his intempermese. After draining many capachous bowtso Rhetinn or Falernian wine, de called for the skinl of Cunhmuad, the mohlest and mont precions ornament of his side-hosird. The colp of victory wasacepted with horrid npplanse hy the eirde of the Lombard chiefs. "Fill it nguin with wine," exclaimed the Inhimm rongurror-" illl it to the bri a: arry this gollet to the queen, and reghest in may nime that whe would rejoide with her father." In an agony of griof and rage, Rosamond had streugth to bitter, " Lat the will of my lord be obeyed!' mul, tomehing it with her lips. pronounced a silent imprecontion, that the insult shomble bashed awny in the blood

:397\%. OUTRAGE, Reaction of, Jintn of Are. The arms of Charles [V11.] pained more ndvantage hy the death of this heroine thmm, perhaps, they had done by her life ; for this piere of crudly contributed to render the government of the English extremely olious. Charles was every diy making some now eonguest, though it cost him fiftern years before he made his entry into Paris, and almost as many more before the Engbish were entirely driven ont of Franee-Tyrlek's Mist., Book 6, ch. 13, p. 200.
3973. OUTRAGE resented. Purent. Appius [one of the decemviri], sitting in judgment in his tribunal, had cast his eyes upon a young, womm of uncommon beauty, who duily passed throt. Fh the formin, on her why to the publice sebools. Virginin, a maiden of tiftern years of age, was the damghter of "pleta fann, " conturson, wh that thene nherent with the army. Aphiun had beer tiformed furmerly one of the thlhmes, then serving agninat the collony, and their marriage was to be celde paskion of this thagithon mugistente, whodeter. mined, nt all hazards, to mocure har as his prey. After many frolthens utternots to corrupt the tharlity of thome domestlos to whom V'rginins duad haft the charge of his dhughter (for she hand bost her mother, Aphine devised a sehome which the thonghat comblat mall to put V'irginia contire-dias, mus of his depmodemes, an infimmens and hile own property. Alarens pretomeded that shos wiss the damghter of one of his fromale shaves, who Ind :uld her when nu infant to the wife of Virghthes, who had no ehildren: He therefore pre-ad hy foree to corry her home to his lanse. [her father returned from the nemy to protert hers.

 thens fuited. With the most minamilleded offront-jadgre, derlaring that it was consistent w tha his own knowledge that the plen of Mircus was trice. He therefore gave his thmi mentence, that the shave should tre dedivered up to her law fal manter, mad ordered his oflerers to enforere, without delay, the exerution of his dererer. The soldiers were removing tha crowid, and Marcus, together will the dictors, wins advancling to melze Virginin, who clung for proterdon nround the neek of her futher. "'There is," snid he, "but one way, my dear chidd, to save thy homor and presurve thy liberte." 'Then sediang a knife from the stall of a busher-" 'Thus," kaid he, striking har to the henrt-" How I send thee to thy forefathere, anpolfoted and a free womm." Then turning to the iril in of Appius. "Thom monsiter !" crier he, " with thin hloos I devate thy hemal to the infi rima gode!" Appias, in a tronsfert of rage, called ent to the dictors to seize Virginius; but he, rushing out from the :orum, and making wny for himself with the knife which he leld ha his hamd, while the multitude favered his cescape, got safe withont the city, ind inrived in nfow hours at the compr.-T'rithelin hant., Book 3, ch. 5, 1. $3: 37$.
3974. PAGANIBM injurious. lice. The paran religion had no inlluence toward retining or improving the mernls of mankind. The ouly me. tributes which distinguisheat the hemben grols from the race of ordinary mon were their pewer and their immortatity. They were condowed with the same paswionsas homan creatures, and those distinguishing attributes of power mid immortality served, in ermarn, only to extend the messure and the enermity of their vieres. The example of their goads was, therefore, an incentive to rice fustend of rittre; and those rites with which many of them were worshiped, and which wereconceived to be peculinely acreptable to them, were often the grossest violations not only of derency but of hwmanity.-T'yraer's Hisw., Book 1, chi. 1, p. 1 3975. PAGANISM overthrown. By Alaric. The songs of Homer and the fane of Achilles had probably never reached the oar of the illiterate barbarian: and the chrixtion faith, which he had devoutly embrucol, tanght him to despise the imagins.ry deities of lome and Athens. The invaslon of the Goths, instrad of viadicatiag the honor, contributed, at lenst accidentally, to m tirpate the last remains of paganism; and the mysterias of Ceres, which had subsisted eighteen hundrid yents, did not survive the destraction of Elensis and the rentarities of Greece--Ginhon's loome, 'll. 30, p. 10.5.
3976. PAINTER, Celebrated, Reymolly. Sir Joshan Reynolds was the first Engrishman who added the faise of the clegant arts to the other glories of his country.-KNight's Exi., vol. 7, ch. 4, p. 67.
3977. PAIN IING illustrates. Scmuce Juhnson. When 1 observed to him that painting was so far inferior to poetry that the story, or even emblem which it communicates, most be previously known, and mentioned, as a antural and langhable instance of this, that a little miss. on seeing a picture of Justice with the seales, had exchaimed to me, "See, there's a woman selling sweetmeats;" he sairl, "Painting, sir, can illustrate, but cranot inform."-Boswela's JomaSON, p 530.

397 5. PaLace, a hamble. Turter's. The henses of the Tartars are no more tham small tents, of an oval form, which atford a cold and dirty labitation for the promiscuons youth of both raxes. The palaces of the rich consist of wooden huts, of such a size that they may be conveniently fixed on laige wagons, and drawn by a team perhaps of twenty or thirty oxen.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 26, p. 7 .
3979. PANIC by Contraction. Fin a neilll. In the first year of Van Buren's administraticu the country was attlicted with a nouctury panic of the most serious character. The preceding years had been a time of great prosperity. The national debt was entirely liquidated, and a surplus of nearly $$ 40,000,000$ had accumulated in the treasury of the United States. By uet of Congress this vast sum had been distribated among the several Staites. Owing to the abundance of money, speculations of all sorts grew rife. The credit system pervaded every department of business. The banks of the country were suddenly multiplied to nearly seven hundred. Vast issues of irredeemable paper money stimulated the speenlative spirit and increased the opportunities for fraud. The bills of these unsound binks were receivable at the land offices, and settlers and speculators made a rush to secure the public lands while money was plentiful. Secing that in receiving suel im unsound currency in exchange for the mational domain the Government was hikely to be defrauded out of millions, President Jackson had issued an order called the Specie Circular, by which the land agents were dirocted henceforth to receive nothing but coin in payment for the lands. The effects of this circular came upon the nation in the first year of Van Buren's administration. The interests of the Government had been secured by Jackson's vigilance, but the business of the country was prostrated by the shock. The banks suspended specis payment; mercantile houses failed, and disaster swept through every avenue of trade. During the months of March and April, 1837, the failures in Now York and New Otleans amounted to ubout $$ 150,010,000$. A committee of business men from the former city besought the President to rescind the speacio circular and to call a special session of congress. The former request was refused and the latar complied wih; but not until the executive was driven by the distresses of the country- - liospatu's U. S., ch. 5is, p. 337.
3980. PANIC, Financial. I'uited Stutes, 1873. In the antumu of 1873 oreurred one of the most disastrons fimandial panies known in the history of the United States. The alarm was grivea by tho failure of the great lanking-houst of Jay Cooko d Company, of Philadelphia. Other failures followed in rapid succession. Depositors everywhere hurriad to the banks and withdrew their money and specurities. Business was suddenly paralyzed, and many months ehapsed before comtidence was sufliciently restored to enable merchants and hankers to engage in the usual transactions of trade. The primary canse of the panic was the fluctuation in the volume and value of the mational currency. Out of this had arisen a witd spirit of speculation, which sapped the fommations of lusiness destroyed financial confidence, and ended in disuster.-Ridppatis's U. S., eh 68, p. 560.
3981. Englent. In Scptember and Octoher [of 1847] there had been such a pressure upon the merchants and! trader.s as hat nst hen experienced since the great panic of 182. Mereantile houses in London of the highest innuce suspended their payments. Corresponding disasters occurred at Manchester, Liverpool, and Glasgow. All the usual accommodation in the money market was at en end. In Getober the alarm spread into a general panic: the crash of eminent houses in London went on; in the country not only mercantile firms but banks were fuiling; the fronds fell rapidly; the exchequer bills were at a high rate of discount.Kiighr's Enc., vol. 8, ch. 30, p. 552.
3982. PANIC, Needless. Reign of Charles II. [The infamons Titus Oates announced a Popish piol.] The capital and the whole nation went mad with hatred and fear. The penal laws, which had begun to lose something of their edge, were sharpened anew. Everywhere justices were busied in searching hoases and seizing papers. All the jails were filled with papists. London had the aspect of a city in a state of sicge. The train-bands were under arms all night. Preparations were made for barricading the great thoroughfares. Patrols marched up and down the streets. Cannon were planted round Whitehall. No citizen thought himself safe unless he carried under his coat a small thail loaded with lead to brain the popish assassins. Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 219.
3983. PANIC, Night of. Flight of James $I I$. Jnst at this time arose a whisper which swelle-1 fast into a fearful clamor, passed in an hour from Piccadilly to White Chapel, and spread into every street aud alley of the capital. It was said that the Irish whom Feversham had let loose were marehing on London, and massacring every man, woman, and child on the road. At one in the morning the drums of the militia beat to arms. Everywhere terrified women were weeping and wringing their hands, while their fathers and hushands were equipping themselves for tight. Before two the cupitel wore a face of stern preparedness which might well have daunted a roal enemy, if such an cuemy had been approaching. Candles were blazing at all the windows. The public places were as brightas at noonday. All the great avenues were barricadal. More than 20,000 pikes and muskets lined atie streets. The late daybreak of the winter solstice found the whole city still in arms. During many years the Londoners retained a vivid recollection of what they called the Irish night. When it was known that there had been no canse of alarm, attempts were made to diseover the oririn of the rumor which lat produred so muel agitation.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 10, p. 510.
3984. PANIC, Unexpected. English, 1825. [It was preceded by a period of unusual prosperity. On the 3d of January the Royal speeeh to Parliament exulted over it.] "There never was a period in the history of this country when ull the great interests of the nation were at the sume time in so thriving a condition." On the $2 d$ of February he laments the evils of " the pecuniary risis.

The pecuniary crisis was indeed the most unexpected, the most astounding, and the most severe in its consequences ever produeed by extravagant hopes and exaggerated alarms. This pecuniary crisis universally ohtainel the name of 'The Panic.' . . . It was described by Mr. Huskisson as 'such a complete susponsion of all confldence as contridistinguished from commercial distress. . . . If the difficulties which existed in the money market lad continued only forty-eight hours longer, ... the effect would have been to put a stop to all dealings between man and man, except by way of barter.". . Before the close of the year sev-enty-three banks lad failed. . . . The total number of bankruptcies in 1825. was a. little above eleven hundred; in 1826 it was nearly two thousand six hundred."-Knight's Ent., vol. 8, ch. 11, p. 197.
3985. PANTOMIME in Jurisprudence. Roman. Among savage nations the want of letters is imperfectly supplied by the use of visible signs, which awaken attention and perpetuate the remembrance of any public or private transaetion. The jurisprudence of the first Romans exhibited the seenus of a pantomime; the worls were adapted to the gestures, and the slightest error or neglect in the forms of proceeding was sufticient to annul the substance of the fairest elaim. The communion of the marriage-life was denoted by the necessary elements of tire and water ; and the divorced wife resigned the bumeh of keys, by the delivery of whieh she has been invested with the government of the family. The manumission of a son or a slave was performed by turning lim round with a gentle blow on the cheek; a work was prohibited by the casting of a stone; prescription was interrupted by the breaking of a branch; the clinched fist was the symbol of a pledge or deposit; the right hand was the gift of faith and confidence. The indenture of covenants was a lroken straw; weights and scales were introduced into every payment, ard the heir who aceepted a testament was sometimes obliged to suap his fingers, to east away his garments, and to leap and dance with real or affected transport. If a citizen pursued any stolen goods inten arighbor's homer, he concealed his nakedness with a linen towel, and hid his face with a mask or basin, lest lee shouhd encounter the eyes of a virgin or a matron. In a civil action the phantiff touched the car of his witness, seized his reluctant adversary by the neck, and implored, in solemn lamentation, the aid of his fellow-ritizens. The two rompetitors grasped eath other's hand as if they stood prepard for combat before the tribumal of the pretor: lie commanded them to probluce the obs. jeet of the dispute; they went, intey returned with measured steps, and a clod of eurth was cast at his feet to represent the field for which they contended.-Gibhon's Rome, e'h. 44, p. 31 \%.
3986. PAPACY scandalized. Marozia. Marozia, the mistress of Sergius 111 ., and her sister Theodora, two women of the most :bardoned and flagitious rharneter, now ruled everything in IRome; and maintaining their aseendeney by the most detestable crimes, mad murders without end, they fllled the pontitical chair in rapid and monstrous surcession with their paramours or their adulterous offispritio.- TYyther's Ilist., Book 6, ch. 4, p. 101
3987. PAPER, Wealth by. In Eyypt. Firmus, the friend and ally, as he proadly styled himself, of Odenathus and Zenobia, was no more than a wealthy merchant of E, Eypt. In the course of his trade to India he had formed very intimate eonnections with the Saracens and the Blemmyes, whose situation on either coast of the Red Sea gave them ancasy introduction into the Upper Erypt. The Egyptians he inflamed with the hope of freedom, and, at the head of their furious multitude, broke into the city of Alexandria, where he assmed the imperial purple. coined money, published edicts, and raised an army, which, as he vainly bonsted, he was capable of maintaining from the sole profits of his paper trade. Such troops were a feeble defence against the approach of Aurelian ; and it seems almost unnccessary to relate that Firmus was routed, taken, tortured, and put to death.-Gimmon's Rome, ch. 11, !. 358.
3988. Paradise, The drankard's. Aucient Germans. Some tribes of the north seem to have embrnced the dectrine of transmigration ; others imagined a gross paradise of immortal drunken-ness.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 95, p. 271.
3989. PARADISE, Earthly. Demascus. Ti-- mour [the Tartar, reposed,] as was his custom, his army in the plain of Dumascus, called one of the four paradises of the earth. The plain of Damascus, shaded by its orchards, refreshed by its running waters ; the valley of Bevivan, in Persia; thic valley of the Euphrates, below lagelad; and, in tine, the fertile and humid phan of Samarcand, were to the eyes of the Thartars the four paradises promised to their nation. They took pleasure in traversing them and hatting there by turns.-Lamartine's Turkey, 1. 325.
3990. Paradise, Language of. Nushirran the Persion. At his command the most celebrated writers of Greece and Indin were translated into the Persian language: ; a smooth and elegant idiom, recommended by Mahomet to the use of paradise ; thoukh it is branded with the epithets of savage and unmusical by the ignoramee and presumption of Agathias.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 42, p. 216.

SDA1. PARADISE, Mussulmans'. Fire, The Mussulmans born in the mountains and valleys of Asia, the sons of sheplierds, have bronght with them into their very palaces the menory, the images, the passion of raral nature; they love her too much to bedeck lier. A woman, nhorse, a weapon, a fountain, a trex-such ure the five purndises of the children of Othmani-LamanTinés Turkey, p. 15.
3094. PARADISE, Sensnal. Mohammedan. It is natural comough that an Arabian prophet shombl dwell with rapture on the groves, the fountains, and the rivers of paradine but instead of inspiring the blessed inlabitants with it liberal faste for hamony and science, conversation and friendship, he idly celebrates the pearls add diamonus, the robes of silk, palaces of marble, dishes of gold, rich wines, artificial dainties, numerous attendants, and the winole train of sensual and costly Juxury, which lecomes insipid to the owner, even in the short period of this mortal life. Seventy-two IIouris, or blackeyed girls, of resplendent beauty, blooming youth, virgin parity, and exquisite sensibility, will be created for the use of the meanest believer ; a moment of pleasure will be prolonged to a thonstind years, and his faculties will be increased a hundred-fold, to render him worthy of his felicity. Notwithstanding a vulgar prejudice, the gates of heaven will be open to both sexes; but Mabomet has not specified the male companions of the female-clect, lest le should either alarm the jealousy of their former husbands or disturb their felicity by the anspicion of an everlasting marriage. This image of a carnal paradise las provoked the indiguation, perhaps the envy, of the monks; they deelaim against the impure religion of Mahomet; and his modest apologists are driven to the poor excuse of figures and allegories. But the sounder and more consistent party adhere, without slame, to the literal interpretation of the Koran; useless would he the resurrection of the body, unless it were restored to the possession and exercise of its worthiest faculties; and the union of sensual and intellectual enjoyment is reguisite to complete the happiness of the double animal, the perfert man.-Gibbon's liome, vol. Ë, ch. 50, (). 119.
3993. PARADISE, A strange. Mfohtmemedten. The siegres and battles of six campaigns had consumed many thousands of the Noslems. They died with the reputation and the cheerfnlness of martyrs ; and the simplicity of their faith may be expressed in the words of an Arabian youth, when he cmbraced, for the last time, his sister and mother: " It is not," said lue, " he delicacies of Syria or the fading delights of this world that have prompted me to devote my life in the cause of religion. But I seek the favor of God and Ilis apostles; and I have heard, from one of the companions of the prophet, that the spirits of the martyrs will be lodged in the erops of green hirds, who slaall iste the fruits and drink of the rivers of par ise. Farewtl, we shall meet ugain among the groves and fountains which God has provided for IIis elect."-Gibbon's IRome, eh. 51, p. 216.
3994. PARDON declined. Revolutionists. A.D. 1776. Patterson, . . . the British adjutant-gencral, was allowed to enter the American camp.

He asked to have his visit nerepted as the first alvance from the connmissioners for restoring pence, and nsserted that they had great povers. "From what appears," rejoined Wushing. ton, "they have power only to grant pardons; having committed no fault, we need no pardon; wo are only defending what we derem to be our indisputable rights."-Bancrorer's U. S., vol. 8 , ( 1.1 .
3995. - By the Innorent. [When Lord Itowr arrived off New York in July (17\%6) he adelressed a letter to I)r. Franklin as "his wortliy friend," ulso ollleial dispatehes, which wereconciliatory in their design.] Franklin replied in like spirit of former friendship, but suid as the dispatehes only showed that Lord Howe was to offer pardon upon submission, he was sure it must give his lordship pain to be sent so linr upon so hopeless a busincss.K:inint's Eno., vol. 6, clt. 23, 1. 272.
3996. PARDON, Hopeless of. Ayloffe. [AyJoffe was engraged in the Scoteh relellion under the Duke of Argyll.] He was taken prisoner, and carried to Glasgow. . . . A story was current smong the Whigs that the king [James II.] said, "You had better be frank with me, Mr. Ayloffe. You know that it is in my power to pardon you." Then, it was rumored, the captive broke his sullen silence, and answered, "It may be in your bower, but it is not in your nature." He was exceuted under his old outlawry before the gate of the Temple, and died with stoical composure. -Macallay's Eno., ch. 5, p. 527.
3997. PARDON made Odious, Jttmes $I I$. No English sovereign has ever given stronger proofs of a crucl nature than Janmes II. ; yet his cruelty was not more odions than his merey ; or, perhajs, it may be more correet to say that his mer'y and his cruclty were such that each reflects infamy on the other. Our horror at the fate of the simple elowns, the young lads, the delicate women, to whom he was inexorably severe, is inerensed when we find to whom and for what eonsiderations he granted pardon.-Macaulay's EnG., ch. 5, p. 607.
3998. PARDON, Plea for. Nipoleon I. [General Lajohais had been condemned to death for participating in the Bourbon conspiracy to as. sassinate Napoleom.] His only danghter, fourteen years old, who was remarkably beautiful, . . Withont communicating lher intentions to any one, set out alone and on foot for St. Clond. . . . By her youth, her beauty, her tears, and hor woe she [gained access to Josephine and her daughter Hortense]. . . . Napoleon had said . . . petitions must be in writing. . . . They contrived to introduce her to the presence of Napoleon as he was passing through one of the apartments of the palace. . . . The fragile child, in a delirinm of amotion, rushed before him, precipitated herself at his feet, and exelaimed, "Pardon, sire ! pardon for my father !" Napoleon, surprised, . . exclaimed, "I have said that, I wish for no sueh seenes. . . . Leave me, miss !" So suying, he turned to pass from her ; but the child threw her arins around his knees, and . . . with tears and agony . . . in every feature . . exclaimed," Pardon ! pardon ! pardon ! it is for my father!" " And who is your father ? . . Who are you ?" "I um Miss Lajolais,. . . and my father is doomed to die." . . ."Well, my child yes! For yoursake I will forgive your father." The suppliant fainted nud fell to the fioor. [In prison she fell upon her father's neek, unable to sprak. She fell luto meonsciousness, and when revived was a hopeless manine.]-Aubott's Naboleon B., vol. 1, ch. $2 \pi$.
3098. PARDON, Purohase of, Eridenec. [I.D. $14,00-148 \%$.] One testator wishes that $n$ Latin sentence shonld be written "on the forepart of the iron about my grave," with "the day and the year of the Lord of my departing from this world, and the pardon that 1 purclased to be written therewith."-Knigit's Eva., vol. 2, ch. $\mathrm{N}, \mathrm{p} .127$.
4000. PARDON without Reformation. Govcrnment. Capt. John Nutt was one of the most daring sea-devils of that lawless time. IIe was an untakable man, und he had several pirate ships. LIe commenced his career as gumner of a vessel in Dartmouth harbor bound for the New foundland seas. Coming to Newfoumdland, he collected a crew of pleasant fellows like himself: they seized a French ship, also a large Plymouth ship, then a Flemish ship, and, with these gray rovers, he played off his depredations on the fishing craft of the Newfoundhund scas, and reme back, too strong for capture, to the western coasts of England. Arrived there, this worthy phayed off new devilries: he tempted men from the king's service ly the promise of higher wages, and-what, alas I might easily he promised in those drary days-more certain payment ; he hung about Torbay, laughed nt threats, saffed at promises of pardon, although more than one offer had been made conditionally. The whole western country was in a state of dread, and mmicipalities poured their entreatica upon the council and upon Eliot in his office of viceadmiral. ... [The pirate was pardoned and honored, the faithful admiral was dishonored by the government. It was the work of bribery.] -llood's Chonwelle, ch. 3, p. 50.
4001. PARDON by Sympathy. Abrahum Lincoln. A poor womm from Philadelphia had been waiting, with a baby in her arms, for three days to see the President. [Her husband had deserted, and was sentenced to be shot.] Late in the afternoon of the third day . . . he heard the baby cry. "He . . . rang the bell. 'Daniel,' said he, 'is there a woman with a baby in the anteroom?' I said there was, and if he would allow me to say it, I thought it was a case he ought to see, for it was a matter of life and death. Silid he, 'Send her at once.' . . . The President pardoned her hasband. As she came out from his presence her eyes were lifted and her lips moving in prayer, the tears streaming down her cheeks." Saiel Daniel, "I went up to her, and pulling her shawl, said, "Madam, it was the baby that did it!" "-Raymond's Lincoln, p. 737.
4002. PARENT, A disappointed, John IIocard. For seven years he lived in the country with his wife. Nothing was wanting to his happiness but chikdren, which, for seven years, were denied him. Then a son was born, who filled up the measure of his joy. A few days after the birth of this child he left his wife in the morning to go to church, she being apparently as well as could be expected. On his return he found her indisposed, and a few minutes after, as he was handing her a cup of chocolate, she fell back upon her pillow, and immediately breathed her lust. . . . The boy, whom he hadobtained nt the price of his huppiness, was a large mud hentthy child; it lived to be the consoler of his solitude, but finally the shame and misery of his ohl nge. -Cycloiedia of Brof. , p. 40.
4003. Parents, Piger of, Roman. The paternal power was instituted or confirmed by komulns himself : and, after the practice of three centuries, it was inseribed on the fourtla table of the Deremvirs. In the formm, the Senate, or the camp the adult son of a Roman eltizen enjoyed the public and private riglits of a person, in his father's house he was a mere thing; confoumded by the laws with the movables, the cattle, and the slaves, whom the capricions master might alien. ate or destroy, without being responsible to any earthly tribumal. The hand which bestowed the daily sustenance might resume the voluntary gift, and whatever was necpuired by the habor or fortune of the son was immediately lost in the property of the father.-Gmmos's Rome, ch. 44, D. $3+1$.
4001. PARENTS, Sacrifice of. Chinese. Ninety [Chinese] cities wore stormed, or starved, by the Moguls; ten only escaped; mad Zingis [their commander], from a knowledge of the filial piety of the Chinese, covered his vanguarl with their captive parents; an unworthy, mad by dagrees a fruitless, abuse of the virtue of lis enemies.Gimbon's Rome, ch. 64, p. 209.
4005. PARENTS, Sorrow of. Heury $I I$. [About 1189 IRichard, son of the great Henry II., joined the French king, Philip II., against his father. Three other sons were also rebels against their father, and only his youngest son, Joln, remained at his court.] Philip and Richard took his castles, while Henry remained in at condition of unusual supineness. Ile was now broken in spirit. . . . He yielded almost without a struggle to the demands that were made upon him. . . . Throughout these unnaturnl contiicts he had rested his liopes upou his beloved John, to whom he had required his seneschal to deliver his castles in the event of his death. . . . He asked for the names of those burons who had joined the French king. The first name he saw was John. IIe read no more. The workl and all its troubles and hopes faded from his view. Ile turned his face to the wall, and exelaimed, "Let everything go as it will.". . His great heart was broken. On the Gth of July, 1189, Ilenry II. was no more.Kxumt's ENg., vol. 1, ch. 21, p. 304.
4006. PARRICIDE, Crime of. Impossible. Romulus appointed no punishment for actual parricides, but called all murder parricide, looking upon this as abominable, and the other as impossible. For many ages, indced, he seemed to lave judged rightly; no one was guilty of that crime in Rome for nlmost six hundred years; and Lucius Ostins, after the wars of Hamibal, is recorded to have been the first that murdered his father.-Plutarcis's Romulus.
4007. PARRICIDE, Punishment of. Romans. The parricide, who violated the duties of nature and gratitude, was cast into the river or the sea, enclosed in a sack; and a cock, a viper, a dog, and a monkey were successively added, as the most suitable companions.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 44, p 371.

400w. PARSIMONY, Costly. Jitmes $I I$. [It was customary at the coromation of the king to arrange a splentid prosession and to ride in state from the Tower to Westminster.] James ordered an estimate to be made of the cost of such a proeession, and found then it would mmont to about half us much as he proposed to expend in covering his wife with trinkets. Ile uceordingly determined to be profuse where heought to have been frugal, and niggardly where he might pardonably have been proluse. Nore than a hundred thonsand pounds were laid ont in dressing the queen, and the procession from the Tower was onitted. The folly of this course is obvious. - Macaulay's Exi., ch. 4, p. 439.
4009. PARTIALITY evinced. Jumes II. [He determined to owerthrow the l'rotestant failh.] All the special dispensations which he had granted had been gramted to Roman (atholics. All the laws whichbore hardest on the Preshyterians, Independents, and Baptints had been for a time severely executed by him. While Hales commanded a respiment, while Powis sat at the council board, while Massis held a demory, while breviaries and mass books were printed at Oxford bander a royal lieense, while the host was pablicly exposed in London wader the protection of the pikes and muskets of the Foot Guards, while friars and monks walked the streets of Lomdon in their rohes, Baxter was in jail; Howe was in exile ; the Five Mile Aet and the conventicle Act were in full vigor; ? 1 uritun writers were eompelled to resort to fordign or to seceret presses; $l^{2}$ uritan congregations conld meet only ly night or in waste places, and Puritan ministers were foreed to preach in the garb of colliers or of sailors. In soothand the king, while he spared no exertion to extort from the estates full relief for Roman Catholies, had demanded and obtaned new statutes of unprecedented severity against the Pres-byterians.-Macaltay's Evi., ch. 7, p. 186.
4010. Parties, Difference in. Euglish. It ought to be remembered that the difference bretween the two great sections of English politicians has always been a difference rather of degree than of principle. There were certain limits on the right and on the left whicla were very rarely overstepped. A few enthasiasts on one side were ready to lay all our laws and franclises at the feet of our kings. A few enthusiasts on the other side were bent on pursuing, through endless civil troubles, their darling phantom of a republic. But the great majority of those who fought for the crown were averse to despotism, and the ereat majority of the champions of pop)ular rights were averse to anarchy. Twiee in the course of the seventeenth century the two parties suspended their dissensions and united their strength in a common canse. Their first coalition restored hereditary monareliy, their second coalition rescued constitutional fredom.-Macaulay's Ena. . ch. 1, p. 94.
4011. PARTIES, Indepeadence of. England. [See above.] It is also to be notrd that thesetwo parties have never been the whole nation-nay, that they have never, taken together, made up a majority of the mation. Between them has always been a great mass, which has not steadfastly athered to either, whieh has sometimes remmined inertly neutral, and has sometimes oscillated to and fro. That mass has more than once passed in a fow yary from one extreme to the other, mat back again. Somatimes it las changerd sides merely becomse it was tired of supporting the same ine sometimes berenise it whs dismmyed by its own exresses, sometimes becanse it liad reppected impossibilitios and land bern disappointed. But whenerer it has lemed with its whole wedght in cilher direction, resistthe has, for the time, been imporsible.-Macas hav's siva., ch. 1, p. 95.
s012. PARTIEs, Natural. Tiro. The recess of the English Parliament lasted six weres. The day on which the Itouses met ngain is one of the most remarkalhe pords in our history. From that day dates the corporate existence of the two great parties which have ever simer altermately governed the comitry. In one sense, iudeed, the distinction which then herame obvious hand always existed, mad alway must exist; for it has its origin in diversities of temper, of understunding, and of interest, which are found in all socictios, and which will be found till the humm mind cases to be drawn in opposite directions by the charm of habit mal hy the charm of novelty. Not only in polities, hut in literature, in art, in science, in surgery and merchanis, in navigation and uriculture-iny, oven in mathematics, we find this distinction. Everywhere there is a class of men who cling with fondness to whatever is ancient, und who, ceren when convinced hy overpowering rensons that imovation would be breneficial, consent to it with many misgivings and forchodings. We find also everywhere another class of men sanguine in hope, bold i: speculation, always pressing forward, quiek to discern the imperfertions of whatever exists, disposed to think lightly of the risks and inconveniences which attend improvements, and disposed to give every change eredit for being an improvement. . . . 'Tlue cxireme section of one class consists of bigoted dotards, the extreme section of the other consists of shatlow nul reekless em-piries.-Macatlay's Eng., eh. 1, p. 91.
4013. PARTIES, Opposite, Romans. "In the Commonweath," he said, "there have always been two parties-the populares and the optimates. The populares say and do what will please the mob; the optimates say and do what will please the best men. And who are the best men ! They are of all ranks and infinite in num-ber-senators, municipals, farmers, men of hasiness, even libertini. The type is distinet. They are the well-to-do, the sound, the honest, who do no wrong to any man. The objert at which they aim is quict with honor. They are the conservatives of the State. Religion and good government, the Senate's anthority, tho laws and customs of our ancestors, public faith, integrity, sound administration-these are the prineiples on which they rest, and these thegy will maintain with their lives." [Address of Ciecro.]Froude's Cessar, (li. 15.
4014. PARTIES, Passion of, Roman. Clodius... impeached Milo for the interruption of the Comitia on the 18tho of November. Nilo appeared to answer on the $2 d$ of Febrmary ; int there was another riot, and the meeting was broken up. On the 6th the court was again held. The erowd was enormous. Ciecro lappily has left a minute account of the scene. The people were starving, the eorn question was jressing. Milo presented himself, and lompey came forwarl on the Ros. tra to speak. He wiss recedeal with howls and curses from 'lowlins' hired rullims, and his wioe could not be heard for the noise. ${ }^{2}$ ºmpey held on undameal, and rommanded ocrasiomal silene by the weight of his presence. Cholins rose when $\mathrm{P}^{\text {Pompry }}$ had done, and rival yedls went up from the Miloniams, Yells were not enough; dilthy verses ware smag in chorus about Chorlins and Coclia, ribald bestiality, delight ful to the ears of "Tully." ('gorias, pale will anger, called out, "Whor is murdering the people with famine ?" A thousiond horats answerent, " P'ompey!" "Who wants to go to Dexandria?" "Pompey !" they shouted hatin. ": And whon do you want to go?" " (rassus!" they eried. Passion had risen too high for words. The Cloblims bremn to spit on the Milonims: the Milomians drew swords and rit the hends of the Clodians. The workingmen, being unarmed, gon the worst of the contlict: and Clodius was flung from the Rostra.-Fuotne:s (.tsBAR, Ch. 15.
4015. Parties, Value of. English. The truth is, that thongh both partios have often serionsly erre 1, England could lave spared neither. If, in her institutions, freedom and order, the advantages arising from indovation and the advantages arising from prescription, have been combined to an extent elsewhere unknown, we may attribute this happy peculiarity to the stremous contlicts and aternate victories of two rival confederacies of statesmen-a confederacy zealous for anthority and antiquity, and a romfedracy zenlous for liberty and progress. Macartay's Eno., (h. 1, p. $\mathbf{9 f}_{4}$.
4016. PARTISAN, An effective. Rec, Jonathan Sorift. The Rev Jonathan Swift, of all party writers that ever inthenced public opinion, was the most mescrupulons, the most unjust, the most uncharitable, but incomparably the most able. -Kniarts's Exa., vol. 5, ch. d, p. 369.
4017. PARTISANS by Contagion, I'trlitement. [Swift humorously wrote :] 1 wish you had been here for ten days during the highest and warmest reign of party and faction that I ever knew or read of, upon the bill against Occasional Conformity. It was so universai that I observed the dogs in the streets much more contumelious and quarrelsome tham nsual; and the very night before the bill went up, a committee of Whig and Tory cats had a very warm and loul debate upon the roof of our house. But why should we wonder at that when the very ladies are split asunder into high-churels and low, nud, wit of zeal for religion, have hardly time to say their prayers?" -Knigit's Ena., vol. 5, ch. 17, p. 268.
4018. PARTY honorably changed. Lord Falkland. [Lord Falkland, who fell in the battle of Newberry, has been defended against the charge of apostasy from his friends in these words by Arnold:] A man who leaves the popular cause when it is trimmphant, and joins the party opposed to it without really changing his principles and becoming a renegade, is one of the noblest charneters in history. He may not have the clearest judgment or the tirmest wisdom; he may have been mistaken, but as far as he is concerned personally, we cannot but admire him. But such a man changes his party not to conquer, but to die. . . He protests so strongly against their exil that he chooses to die by their hands rather than in their compmy ; . . . his man is no renegule, bu apostate, fint the purest of martyrs; for what trestimony to truth can be wo pare as that which is given molocered by uny symperhy, given not against rmemies, amid apphading friends. Iom agranst fricols, maid mpitying or latferejoicing curmis"s And sucha mariyr was d019. PAssion, Parental. John Lirkie. Mr. Lacke never montioned him hut with gront respect and affection. His father used a comeluct toward him when young that he often spoke of afterward with great approbation. It was the being severe to him by keeping him in much awe and at a distance when he was a boy, but relasing. still by degrees, of that severity as he grew up, to be a man, till, he being become capable of it, he lived perfectly with him as a friend. And I remember he has told me that his father, after he was a man, solemaly asked his pardon for having struck him onice in a passion when he was a boy.-Fow bik's Locke, ch. 1.

4020. PASsion corrects Passion. Napoleon $I$. Napoleon [in his carly manhoorl] excluded him. self entirely from haunts of revelry and seenes of dissipation and from all those dissolute courses in which the young men of those days so rerklessly plunged; he adopted this course not apparenty from any conscientims desire to do that which is right in the sight of God, but from what has been called " the expulsive power of n new affection." Ambition seemed to expel from his mind every other passion ; . . nnimal passion even was repressed, and all the ordinary pursuits of worldly pleasure became in his view frivolous and contemptible. - Abnotre's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 3 .
4021. PASSION, Savage. Alectuder. Clitus, a general of great ability, and to whom Alexam. der owed his life in the battle of the Granicus, stood deservedly, on these accomets, in high fic vor and estem with his sovereign, who partict larly prized the ingenuous simplicity of his man ners and the honest freedom with which he was accustomed to utter his opinions or propose his counsels Amid the mirth of a lhnquet while the sycophant courtiers, in extolling to the skies the achievements of their prince, were drawing a depreciating comparison between the merits of Philip and of his son, this brave Macedonian had, with honest indigmation, reproved their meanness, and warmly supported the fame of his ancient master. Alexander, in a transport of rage, seized a javelin from one of the guards, and hurling it at the breast of Clitus, struck him dead upon the spot. The atrocity of the deed was instantly felt by the king, and, in the agony of remorse, he wonld have turned the weapon against his own bosom, had mot the attendants forcihly prevented him.-Tytler's Mist., Book 2, ch. 4, p. 192.
1022. PASSION simulated. Beeomes Reat. Esop, we are told, when he was one day acting Altrens, in the part where he considers in what manner he shonld punish Thyestes, being worked up by his passion to a degree of insunity, with his sceptre struck a sarvari wbo happened suddenly to pass by, and laiz him dead at his feet.-Plutarcis's Cuekg.
4023. PA8SION, Viulent. Saintel Johnson. It has been confidently related, with many embellishments, that Johnson one day knocked Os. bome down in his shop with a folio, and pat his foot mpon his neek. The simple truth I hand from Johnson himself. "Sir, he was hmpertiment to me, and I beat him. But it was not in his shop: It was in my own chamber." [Oshorne was his publishor.]-boswela's dounson, p. 38.
4024. PASSIONS concealed. Willittm, Prince of Orente. Ite was horn with violent jassions and quick sensibilities: but the strengeli of his emotions was not susperted by the world. From the multitude his joy and lins griof, his affection and his resentment, were lidden by a phlegrantic serenity, which made him pass for the most cold-blooded of mankind. Those who bronght him grood news conld seldom detect any sign of plensire. Those who saw him aiter a defeat looked in vain for any sign of vexation. IIe prased and reprimanded, rewarded and panisherl, with the stern trunguillity of a Mohawk chicf: but those who knew him woll and saw him nome were aware that umber all this iec a fieree the was constantly burning. It was selclom that angrer deprived him of power over himself; but when he was really enraged the first outbreak of his passion was terrible. It was indeed scarcely safe to approarll lim.-Macathay's ENa., ehs, 7, p. 156 .
4025. PASSIONS, Controlled by. Frederick Williem. The mind of Frederick William was so ill regninted that all his inelinations beeame passions, and all his passions partook of the character of moral and intellectual disense. His parsimony degrenerated into sordidavarice. IIis taste for military pomp and order beeame a nmnia, like that of a Duteh burgomaster for tulips. While the envoys of the court of berlin were in a state of such sepualid poverty us moved the haughter of foreign capitals-while the food of the royal family was so bad that even hunger loathed it-no priee was thought tooextravagant to pay for them. - Macachay's Frederick the EnEit, P. 7.
4026. PATERNITY inferred. Dr. Velentine Mott. I story is told of his rembliness in the lecture-room. A mother brought into the amphitheatre, one morning, an extremely dirty, sickly, miscrable-looking child, for the purpose of linving a tumor removed. Ife exhibited the tumor to the class, but informed the mother that le could not operate upon the child without the consent of her husband. One of the students, in his cagerness to examine the tumor, jumped over into the little enclosure designed for the operator and his patients. Dr. Mott, observing this intrusion, turned to the student, and asked him, with the most innocent expression of countenance: "Are you the father of this rhild?" Thunders of applause and laughter greeted this ingenious rebnke, during which the intruder returned to his phee erestfallen.-CyClopedia of Biog., p. 529.
4027. PATIENCE abused. Pericles. When a vile and abandoned fellow loaded him a whole day with reproncles and almuse, he bore it with patience and silence, and continued in public for the despateh of some urgent affairs. In the evening he walked slowly home, this impudent wreteh following and insulting him all the way with the most seurrilous langmge. And as it was dark when he canc to his own door, he ordered one of his servints to take a toreh and light the man home. - Pictaiscu's l'enicien.

IOLw. PATIENCE, Christian. I/ettyr. ['The edict of Diochetian agrainst the Claristians] Was torn down by the hands of a Christian, who oxpressed at the same time, by the bitterest inveretives, his contempt as wellas abhorrence for surh impionsamd tyramionl governors. . . . And if it be trac that he was a person of rank and edaceation, those diremmstances ceuld serve only to nggritvate his guilt. Ile was bant, or rather roasted, by a slow tire, and his exuentioners, zealous to revenge the persomal insult which had been of fored to the emperors, exhansted every retinement of cruchy witnout being able to sulalue his patience or to alter the stealy and insulting smile which in his dying uronies he still preserved in his conntemmere.-Gimmon's Rome, (h. 16, p. 65.
4020. PATIENCE, Endeavor in, William, Prince of Oremge. [Jis aim was the protection of Euroun from Louis XIV.] William had one great end ever before him. Toward that end he was impelled by a strong passion which appeared to him under the guise of a suered duty. Toward that end he toiled with a patience resembling. as he once snid, the patience with which he had onee seen a boatman on a canal strain against an adverse eddy, of ten swopt lmek, but never censing to pull, and content if, by the labor of bours, it few yards could be gained. Exploits which brought the prince no rearer to his olject, however glorions they might he in the estimation of the vulgar, were in his judgment boyish vanities, and no part of the real husiness of life.-Macallay's Eng., ch. 7, 1. 179.
4030. PATIENCE of Genius. Magn tic Telegraph. The magnetic principle on which the inrention dejends had been known since 1774, but Professor Morse was the first to apply that principle for the benefit of men. He lregan his experiments in 1832, and five years afterward succeeded inobtaining a patent on his invention. Then followed another long delay; and it was not until the last day of the session in 1843 that he proctured from Congress an appropriation of $$ 30,000$. With that appropriation was constructed, between Baltimore and Washington, the first telegraphie line in the world. Perhaps no other invention has exereised a more benefieent influence on the welfare of the human race.-lidePati's L. S., ch. 56, p. 446.
1031. PATIENCE, Nobility in. Alexander. Alexander [the Great] hazarded his person, by way of excreise for himself and example to others. But his friends, in the pride of wealth, were so devoted to luxury and case that they considered long marches and campaigns as a burden and by degrees came to murmur and speak ill of the king. At first he bore their censures with great moderation, and used to say there was something noble in hearing himself ill-spoken of while he was doing weh.--Plutaran's AlexANDER.
4032. PATIENCE, Sucoess by. Study. Buffon said, "Genius is patience." Stevenson, the inventor of the locomotive, declared that he surpassed the majorlty of mankind onty ha patience. Newton also ascribed his stecess in interpreting wature solely to his patience. Being asked one day how he hat discovered the law of gravitation, he repliocl, "By ineresmatly thinking nkout it."Pabton'a Newton, p. 01.

403is. Patience tried. John Nelson. [One of Wesley's preachers was reported to the commissioners for recruiting the army as a vagront, not luving any vasible means of support. He was pressed fito the army, where he begm to preach to the soldiers, und then whenever opportunity permitted. He was gric vonsly tormented by a strippling ensign, who hud him put in prison for reproving his profmity and for preaching, and when he was let ont threntened to chastise him. Nelson records that $]$ it eansed a sore temptation to arise in me, to think that $n$ wicked, ignorant man should thus torment me, and I able to tie his head and heels together. I found in old man's bone in me; but the Lord lifted up a standard when the anger was eoming on like a flood, else I shonld have wrung his neck to the ground und set my foot upon him.-Stevens' Metiodism, vol. 1, p. 210.
4034. PATRIOTISM abandoned. James II. A small knot of fanaties still continued to cherisha wild hope that they might be able to change the order of suceesslon. . . . It was to be hoped, they said, that the king might be able to establish the true faith withont resorting to extremities; but, in the worst event, he might leave his crown at the disposal of Lonis. It was better for Englishmen to be the vassals of France than the shaves of the devil. This extrmordimary doenment was handed nbout from Jesuit to Jesuit, and from courtier to courtier, till some eminent Roman Catholies, in whom bigotry had not extinguished patriotism, furnished the Duteh ambassudor with a copy. He put the paper into the hands of James. James, grently agitated, pronomed it a vile forgery, contrived by some pamphleteer in Holhnd. The Duteh minister resolutely answered that he could prove the enntrary by the testimony of several distinguished members of his Majesty's own church-may, that there would be no diffleulty in pointing out the writer, who, after all, had written only what many priests and many busy politicians said every day in the galleries of the palace. The king did not think it expedient toask who the writer was. - Macallay's Eng., ch. 8, p. 285.
4035. PATRIOTISM, Affecting. Mferia Thevesa. [Frederick II. suddenly made war against the young orphan queen at the beginning of her reign.] At the first sitting of the Diet she appeared elad in deep mourning for her father, and in pathetic and dignified words implored her people to support her just cause. Magnates and deputies sprang up, half drew their sabres, and with eager voices vowed to stand by her with their lives and fortunes. Till then her firmness had never once forsaken her before the public eye, but at that shont she sank down upon her throne, and wept aloud. Still more touching was the sight when, a few days later, she came before the estates of ber roalm, and held up before them the little archduke in her arms. Then it was that the enthusiasm of Hungary broke forth into that war-ery which soon resounded throughout Europe, "Let us die for our king,

Maria Theresa !'-Macaulay's Fibedehick tina Gheat, p. 36.
dOBB6. PATRIOTISM aroused. Revolutionists. The battle of Laxington tired the country. Within a few days an army of 20,000 men had gnthered :hout Boston. A llase of intreachments encompassing the city whs drawn from Roxhory to Chelsent. To drive Gage and the British into the sen was the common talk in that tumaltions camp. And the mumber constantly increased. John Stark came down at the hend of the New I Aampshire militia. Israed l'utham, witha lenther waisterat on, was helping some men to lmild a stone wall on his farm, when the news from Lexington came llying. Ilarying to the nearest town, he fonnd the militia alrendy mustered. Bidding the men follow as soon ins possible, he monnted $n$ horse and rode to Cambridge, in distunce of a hundred miles, in cighteen hours. Rhode Island sent her guotn under the brave Nathaniel Greene. Bencedict Arnold emme with the provineials of New IIaven. Ethan Allen, of Vermont, made war in the other direction.- Ridрати'н U. S., ch. 38, p. 298.
4037. Patriotism, Courage of. Scots. Edward [11.] now prepared, with an immense nrmy of $100,000 \mathrm{men}$, to reduce the conntry to submission and fultil the dying request of his father, by making in complete conquest of it. King Robert l3ruce met him nt [3anockburn, near Stirling, with 30,000 men. By an excellent disposition of the Scotish army, and the sigmal intrepidity and conduct of the king, the English were totally routed. A prodigious slunghter ensued, and the pursuit continued near one hundred miles, till the small remmant of this immense army was entirely driven ont of the kingdom. Edward marrowly escaped by flight to Dunlar, whence he was conveyed by seato his own deminions. This great and decisive victory secured the independence of Scotland, und fixed Robert Bruce firmly upon the thronc. It male $\mathfrak{a}$ deep impression on the minds of the English, and for several yeurs ifter no superiority of numbers could induce them to keep the fied against their formidable adversaries.-Tytlen's IIist., Book 6, ch. 12, P. 195.
4038. - Under Charles I. The whole nution was alarmed nul ineenser. John Hampden, an opulent and well-born gentleman of Buckinghamshire, highly considered in his own neighborhood, but as yet little known to the kingdom generully, had the eourage to step forward to confront the whole power of the govermment, and take on himself the cost and the risk of disputing the prerogative to which the king laid claim. The case was argued before the fudges in the Exchequer Chamber. . . . If money might legally be raised without the eonsent of Parlinment for the support of a flect, it was not easy to deny that money might, without consent of Parlinment, be legally raised for the support of an army.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 85.
4039. PATRIOTISM dead. Romans. The Numidinns were not very formidable enemies, but after a month or two half the Romans were destroyed and he remainder were obliged to surrender. About the same time, and from similar causes, two Roman armies were cut to pieces on the Rhone. While the great men at Rome were buidime palaces, inventing new dishes, nat hir-were at the gates of Italy.-Fmovorin C.Esath, (H. 4.
10.10. Patriotism In Death. The limenquo Pitt. [When Willian l'itt wan on his denth-hed. shortly after Napoleon's victorfas at C'lam and Austirlitz, the last wordy which he spoke, athont lualf :un hour lxefore be hreathed his hast, were 1 "My combry! Oh, my comatry!"一KNmar's Dixi., vol. 7, ch. 25, 1. 151.
1011. - John It It"pulen. ["، 0 ) lard, save my harding country!" were the hast words of lampulon, who was womated lana thght at the beginning of the civil war.J-Kiname's Exci., vol. t, ch. 1.
1012. PATRIOTISM, Deeds of. liaribildi. Guribaldi, however, remulaed, und was residing there, farming nad thshing, when the war he-to the tichl. Before low rasia saw ('aprera, what wonderful events transpired! The blowly trant of Naples driven from his throne! Sieily delivered from oppression! Nine millions of subjerts mided to the dominions of a constitutional king, Victor Emmanuel! Alt Inly one nation, exrepting atone the dominions of the lope and the province of Venctia! This wiss Gambbaldi's work. It was the marie of his mame, the tire of his patriotism, and his genias for command, that wronght theme marvels. The grateful king dexired tolvestow upon him some splendid reward, which Garihaldi firmly refusingr, the king prepared for him a pleasing surprise at his rocky home. After an absence of nearly two years, daribaldi returned to Caprera in Nowenbore, isbio, to spend the winter in repose. Whern be approwehed his home, he saw no ohject that he eould recognize. His rough and tangled farm haul been ehamured, as if by cuchantment, into Megrant groumels, with roails, paths, lawns, gardens, shrublery, and avemues. Dis cothge was gone, and in its placestood a villa, replete with every co:svenience withim mad without. As he walked from room to room, womdering what magician had worked this transformation, he observed a full-length portrait of King Victor Emmamal, which explained the mystery.-('rcloperima or Buog., p. 49t.
40.13. PATRIOTISM, Determined. Dirginia. A rumor arose that an English thect was ap)proaching for the subjugation of the colonies. The patriot leaders hedd a comet, and it was determined that Jamestown should be burned. Aecordingly, in the dusk of the evening, the torch was applied, an! the only town in Virginia laid in ashes. The leading men set the example by throwing firebrands into their own houses; others caught the spirit of sacrifice ; the flames shot up thiough the shadows of night: and Governor Berkeley and his followers, on board a Hope twenty miles down the river, had tolerably fiair wanning that the capital of Virginia coold not be used for the purposes of despotism. [Se No. 4067.]-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 12, p. 121.

AOAA. PATRIOTTSM disgusted. Bolictr. Like General Washington, Bolivar was less popular as a civil ruler than he hat been as a commander of armies. Disgusted int lengtla by the calommies with which he was assailed, he not only resigned the prowidency, bit detomined to leave his farewell letter: "The preserner of a fortumate seldier"," suld her, "however dininderested he may tre, is always dingerons in a state just met fref. I am tived of haming it heressantly repented that I "ish to make myself" "mperoin, mind to rame agatin the farene of the lacess. Everywhere my. actions nor miserperented. It is conongh. Ihate puid my debt to my comary mid to hamanity. I have given my home my hemblh, my forture, to the canse of liburty, mit as long as it wis la Ambrica is mo longer torn by war, nor pollated with the presence of an armed foe, 1 whatmw that my presence may wot be wn obstacle to the happiness of my fellow- eitizens. The welfare of my coumtry would monererondibe me to the land meressity of a perpetmal exilo, fin from the hand which gave me birth. Receper, then, my adiens, as a new proof of my ardent patriotism mad the pratiouhe love which I cherish for the people of Colombia."-Crchoreman of Broa., 1). 490.
40.15. PATRIOTISM a Duty. Luceldpmonians. The diseciphine of the Lacedemonians rontinned after the were mrived at vemes of maturity, for no man was at liberty to live ne he plensed, the city being like one great cmmp, where all had theire stated allowance, and knew their poblis: charge, etrel man concluding that her tews bor'll "mot fior'himwe $f f^{\prime}$, but for his country. Hence if they had no particular ordars, they employed themselves in insperting the boys, mod temehing them something useful, or in learning of those that were older than themedves.-Paranem.
4016. --. Lored Nelson. [When Lord Nelson was bearing down apon the French and Spanish tlects off Cape 'Trufingar, with his menof'whe armared in two lines, as previonsly designed, he asked (raptain Blackwood] whether a sigmal was not wanting. When Black wood answeresi that he thought the whole fleet knew what they were about, up went the signal which conveyed the immortal words, "Enghand expeets every mun to do his daty."-Kniant's End., vol. $7,(11.25,1), 447$.
40.47. PATRIOTISM, Educated, Rommens. To inspire that severe and rigid virtur which can alone support a demoeratic form of government, and to inculate that exclusive love of our conntry before which, in their early nges, every privite or persemal fecling was constraine to bow, was the firstand most saered luty of these noble matrons. The circumstances in which the commonwealth was situated in its carlicr uges made this absolutely neressary. It possessed none of those artificial modes of defence so generally employed by the modern nations. The improvements of modern warfare, which sabstitute skill so often in the place of valor-the fortifications of our morlern cities, which render them, in some measure, independent of the personal exertions of those who dofend them-hatd not been intro. duced among this virtuous people. Those refinements, also, in the arts and manufactures which exchange the little enjoyments of private comfort for the higher feelings of public happiness, and even that progress in the seiences which, however excellent in its genernl consequences, encourages certainly a spirit of exclu.
wion mont meongeonal to pmblice exartion-all these were either unknown or despised ha the severer ages of the Roman repmblic.--'Trtasers Mint., llook 4, ch, 3, p. 423.

SOA. PATBIOTISM, Effeot of. $I$ )utrh. Tho Flemish wero delemedian maval tighe ot Zorleksce, and fhilip himself ohtained a more liapopo-Lille . . . where the host of the finsargents, comamanded lisy the two sous of the exiled ('omat (hay de Dampierre, was itterly diseonathed, with that loss of then mon. Such, howerer, was the comergy and determanation of the stout-hemerted barghcrs of Fhanders, that within thare wesks they were emabled tomennee agninst the king with a fresh army of $00,0(0)$ men; and Philip, struck with admination of their patriotism amd damatless bravery, resolved to abandon the contast Fllin(1e, ch, 1), 各 14.
1019. PATRIC ISM, Enthusiastio. Brwili't Armole. The condition of Burgoyne grew more nad more criticul. On all sides the lines of ( iaters were closing aromod him. Dis supplies failed; his soldiers were put on purtial rations ; his ('amalian amd ladian allies deserted lifes stamdame. Bat the British gencral was conrageous and resolate ; he strengthened bis dedences and flatered hismen with the hope that ( ${ }^{\text {meneral }}$ Clinton, who now commanded the british army in New Iork, wond make n diversion in their favor. On the 7th of ()etober be lazardad amother battle, ia which be lost his liravest oflleers and mearly 700 privates. Theconlliet was terrible, lasting from two oblock in the afternoon till 1 wilight. At last Morgan's ritlemen singlexd out the brave Genernl Fraser, who commanded the British right, and killed lim. IIs disheartened men turned and thed from the llade. On the Ameriran side, Arnold, who had resigned his commission, roxte at full speed to liss olif commumal, and, withont anthority, became tho inspiring granins of the battle. He clamrged like a madman, drove the enemy lufore him, elmded Gates' aid, who was sent to call him back, burst into the laritisha eamp, and was severely wounded. The Amerienns were completely victorious.-R1oratits U. S. , eh. 40, 1). 32.3.
4050. PATRIOTISM exasperated. Mfrsutchusetts Colonists. A.b. 1774 . "If you value your" life, I ulvise you not to return home at present," Was the warning received by laggres from the town of Hardwicke, whose frecmen, with those of New Braintree amd of Greenwien, so resenterd disacorpting a place in the conand [of the 'Tory governor of Massachasetts], that they rowed he should nevor again pass the grent bridge of the town alive.-binchorv's L'. S., vol. 7, rh. 8.

40お. PATRIOTISM extinguished, France. From the hattor years of Lomis XIV. till the thirid guarier of the eighteenth century was all but closed, France had a governmeat at once so wenk mal wicked, so much below the cnlture of the people it oppressed, that the better minals of the nution turned away in disgnst from their domestic ignominy, and sought consolation in contemplating foreign virtue wherever they thought it was to be found ; in short, they became cosmopolitan. The country which lias since been the birthplace of Chauvinism put away national pride nlmont with pmssion.- Monminos'm (iluIMN, $\mathfrak{c h}, 7$.

105\%. PATRIOTISM, Faith in. Comques of April they mijonrned. "xperting a long mad des-trousiry hat the good-will of the people; tut at soldier in ardmal service; lardly mamomitlon ebongh lor a parade day : as for matlery, lave brass, amd two cohomes ; with no exeritive but fromernd to take command of the povimetial

4063. PATRIOTISM, Finance and, $P{ }^{\prime}$ Morris. dummary, 1777. |'lo rellive Washington's destitution ol funds la the darkest days of
 Robert Aorris | having coontributed math ol his uldephin, ronsing people from their beds to 'worrow money, and marly ha the day lae ment Wandington $int,0to, with the nuessuge, "Whatever I cati do shaill be done for the gomb of the serviee; If further orcasional supplios of moncy are neccsuary, yon may depend nuon my exprions cithar ju a publie or a private capacity."-

AOSI. PATRIOTISM, Indifferent. Giblon in Parlianment. [Hee No. 4D+1).] Ite never rone to the level of the ordimary citizen or even partisan, Who takes un exagremed view perhape of the imporiance of the politios of the day, bint who at any rate thoreloy shows a sense of social solidarity and the relams of civis communion. IIo colled himselt a Whig, but he had no zeal for Whig principles. lie votad standjly with Lord North, and gute approved of taxing and cooreing Ammrien into slavery ; but he had no high motions of the royal prerogntive, and was lukeWarn in lhis as in everything. With surla abNence of passion one might lave experted that be would be at least sharewd and sagacions in his judgments on politios. But he is mothing of the kind. In his familiar letters lae reserves generally a few lines for parlimmentary gossjp, amid clat about the weather amd family busi-ness.-Mohusison's Giburon, cli. 6.
4055. PATRIOTISM, Longing of. I'ilgrims. The love of mative land is a unversal passion. The Paritans in Holland did not former-eould not forget-lhat they were Englishanen. Dining thaje ten yenrs of residence nt Layden they did not cense to long for in return to the coantry which had cast them ont. Thomgh ruled by a heartless momareh and a bigoted jriesthood, England was their conntry still. Tha monmiliar language of the Jitch grated harshly on their ears. They pined with umest, conscious of their nbility ami willingness to do something which shond convince even King James of their patriotism and worth.-RuDustiss U. S., ch. 7,1$) 89$.
4056. PATRIOTISM, Memorial of. Bunker Hill. The year $184^{2}$ was noted lou the completion of the Banker IIill Momument. No enterprise of a similar character lad, in the whole history of the country, called forth so much patriotic enthusiasm. The foundation of the noble strueture was laid on the 17th of June, 1895, the cormer-stome being put fato its place by the venerable dafayotte: Dambel Wehister, then young in yeare and fame, wellvereg the oration of the day, while 200 R Revolntomary veturans, 40 of them survivors of the batte fomight on that throng to lowar lima. But the work of erectlon weat on whwly. More than $\$ 150,006$ were expendent, asad seventeren yemars chapend hefore the mad dead, was thasherd. At last the work was dome and the mighty colnma of Qutacy gramthe, diaty one feet spiare at the lase and two handred and twenty-one feet in lielghat, stood out sabllimely uguhist the clomis mul sky. It was chemad flitiag, however, to postpone the dediculben matil the next amiversary of the lmattle, and preparatons wre mate acoorilagys. On the 1 filla of Jume, $1 \times+3$, an immonse malit tade of people, luchinding most of the ilevolathonary soldlers who had not yet fallen, gathored fromall parts of the republie to witmese the lm posing reremony. Mr. Webster, now fall of years and homors, was chosen to deliver the address of dedication, a daty which he performed In a manaer so tomehlag and eloquent as to nold new lastre to hals fane as an orntor. The celebration was coardoled witha pable alimerergiven in Fanenil Inal!, the cradle of American lib-erty.-Ridiati'n U. S., ch. 56, p. 443.
4057. Patriotism, National, Putrick IFenry. A.D. 1774. [At the Colonint Congress in Philaddplaia:] " Bitish oppression has effaced the bomalarias of the several colonies; the distinctions hetween Virgiulans, Pennsylvanians, New Yorkers, and New Englanders are no more. I am not a Virginian, but an Amertean."-Banchort's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 11 .
4058. patriotism without Pay, George Wushington. [When George Washington accepted his commission from the Continental Congress, as commander-in-chitef of the American army,] he sadd no pecuniary consideration could have tempted him to aceept this arinous employment, at the expense of his domestic case and happiness; he had no desire to make a profit by it. Ite would take no pay. Ie wondd keep an exact accomat of his expenses, and those he doubted not wonld be discharged.-Kniout's Ena., vol. 6, ch. 23, p. 356.
4059. PATRIOTISM, Posaibilities of. American Colomies. "1low is it possible," asked the partisans of anthority, " that a people without arms, ammunition, money, or navy should dare to brave the foremost among all the powers on earth? .. Americmans are neither disciplined nor capable of riseipline."-Bancroft's U . S., vol. 7, ch. 16.
4060. Patriotism, Preservation of. Spanish Armade. [When the magniticent Spmaish armada was preparing for a descent upon the shores of England, the patriotism of the people was signally displayed.] A long course of prosperous indlastry might be supposed io have unfitted those who had been winning the spoils of peace for the defence of their country at a time of great national danger. . . . But the ancient spirit was not dead. In the midst of many differences of opinion among Protestants connected with the discipline of the Chureh, and with Romanists living under severe laws, there was to be, fanother year, sumbinn outharst of pariotisman would munfest that the love of comatry was nhoye all illvisions of crecd. That glortocis manifestation of antomal spirit in 1588 was also to show hat a pople does not weressarily hecome wenkemed la dhatare by a long conrse of prosperity, but that the accabablations of peace are the ral resompers of war. It is not lioe dif. fuston of comblorts and haxurles that remolers a nation mawarlike and upabsetle. It is the treactSag out of trace mitomalty by lawhess ralers-1 bee shatilng-41) of all the fomatains of independent thonght by shavish supersititon-that destroy the patriotism of a people, and make them incupable of lafending thelr homess.-KNontren Eiva. vol. 3, ch. 14, p. 214.
4041. PATRIOTISM, Protended. Sicountrels. Patriotisin laviag become one of onr tophis, Johnson suddenly uttered, in a strong, determined tome, mapothegra at which many will start: " Patriotisin is the last refuge of a scomndrel." but let it be considered that he did mot mean a real and pracrons love of onf conmry, bat that pretemed patrotism which so mans, in all ages and comotres, have made a rloak for self-interest.-Bonwehi'n Joinnon, p. 247.
4062. PATRIOTISM, Publio. Spertans. Lycurgus taught his citizens to think aothlag more disagrecable than to live liy (or for) thenselves. Like bees, thry netod will one lmpulse for the puble good, and always nssembled about their prince. They were possessed with a thirst of honor and enthasiasm bordering upon insanity, and hat not a wish but for their comatry. These sentiments are confrmed by some of their aphe orlsms. When Pedaretus lost hifs clection for one of the thre hundred, he went away rejoicing that there reve three hundred better menthen himbself foume in the city. Pisistratides going with some others, nmbassador to the King of Persin's lientemants, was asked whether they came with a public commission or on their own aceomat, to which he answered, "If suceessful, for the pullic; if unsnecessfal, for ourselves."- Pıe tarcu'n Lycumate.
4063. PATRIOTISM panished. Thomets Hethsford. Rebellion of 1676 . What was charged on him as rebellion, he denied to have been a sin. "Take notice," said he, as he came to tho gibbet, "I die a loyal subject and a lover of my country.". That country was Virginia. Hansford perished, the first native American on the gallows, a martyr to the right of the people to govern themselves.-Bancroft's U. S., vol. ${ }^{2}$, cli. 14.
4064. PATRIOTISM remembered. Athemien. By the Athenian laws children whose fathers were killed in the service of their ecuntry were nppointed to le edncated at the public expense. "Let the father," says the laws of Solon, "have the privilege of bestowing on that son $n$ funeral encominm who died valiantly fighting in the field. He who receives his death while fighting with undaunted courage in the front of the batthe shall have an annual harangue spoken to his honor."-Tytier's Hist., Book 1, ch. 10.
1065. PATRIOTISM, Reaponse of. George Wushington. A.d. 1768 . The customis tax was enacted for the colonies. At Mount Vermon conversation turned at this time on the dangers that overhung the country.
" Whenever my country calis ujon me," maid Washington, "I am remily totake my monket on my stonder," Banchort'e L. S., wol. 6, ch. :12.

4OA6, PATRIOTIBIE, Sacrifoes of, Themian Nif*on, Gorerner of' l'iryiain. (At the slege of lorktown] Lafayette mald to him, "To what purtictslar spot would your bxceileney dreet that we point the canmon $\gamma^{\prime \prime}$. . "There," promptiy ros phed the noble-minded, putriotle Nelson-" $t$ " that house; It is mher, mini is. . . the best one yo. con thad in the town; and there you will bo mont certuln to thad Lard Cornwalis and the British hendquarters."-Custis' Wasilinatos, vol. I, ch. 14.
1087. $\qquad$ Rebellion in Viryinia. a.d. 10is. As the slades of night descended, the vil. lage wis set on tre. Two of the best honses le. longed to the patriot lemiders Lawrenee and Drmmond. Each of them, with his own hand, kladled the thmes that were to lay his dwellhy In ushess. The little chureh, the newly-crertod State-louse, were consumed. Virginia offered [Jmmestown] Its only villuge as a victim for its freedom [from the oppressions of Charles 15 . hy the goveramor, Nir Willimm Berkeley]. [Sce No. 4043.]-Banchorn's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 14.

406\%. PATRIOTISM, self-sacrifioing. Itilion. The suracens hesleged the eities of Benceventum and Copin; nfter a vain nppent to the surecessors of Charlemagne, the Lombnris implored the clemency und nid of the Greek emperor. A fearless citizen dropped from the wills, passed the intrenchments, aceomplished his commission, and fell into the hands of the barburlans ans he was returning with the welcome news. They commanded him to asslist their enterprise, mal decefve hls conntrymen, with the nssurance that wealth and honors should be the rewnrd of his falsehood, and that his sincerity would be punished with immediate denth. He affected to yled, but as soon ns he was conducted withIn hearing of the christinns on the rampurt, "Friends and brethren," he cricol, with n lond voice, " be bold mad patient ; manintain the city ; your sovereign is informed of your distress, nud your deliverers are at hand. I know my doom, and commit my wife and chiklren to your gratitude." The rage of the Arabs confirmed hisevidence; and the self-levoted pariot was transpiarced witha hamdred spears.-Gtumos's IRome, vol. is, ch. 56, p. 445.
1089. PATRIOTISM, Steadfast. Pomponius. Pomponius, a man of some dignity, was wounded and taken [in battle]. Though much indisposed with his wounds, he wins brought hefore Mithridutes, who asked him whether if he saved his life he would become his friend. "On condition you will be reconciled to the Romans," said he, "I will ; but if not, I must remain your enemy." The king, struck with admiration of his patriotism, did him no injury.Pletarcie's Lucullus.
4070. PATRIOTISM atimulated. Queen Elizabeth. [The Spanish Armada was expected, and the invasion of England.] A camp was formed at Tilbury; and there Elizabeth rode through the ranks, encouraging her captains and her soldiers by her presence and her words. One of the speeches which she addressed to them during this crinds has heon preserved; and, thomgh oftern quoted, it munt not be omitted here. .. " "My loving people," whe sadd, "we have been protsuaded by some that are curefni of our mafety to take hed how wo commit ourselven to nrued multitudes, for fenr of trenehery ; but 1 nswire yon 1 donot desire to live to dinatrunt my faithfin nind toving people. lat ty mits fent: 1 have alwass no hehaved myself that, moder (iow, I have placed my chicefost stremgth mal suf equard In the logal harts mad goest-will of my suhberts: mul, therefore, I atin conk moong yom, ns yon see, at thls thme, not for my recrailon and disprot, hat being reselved, la the mhast nul hent of the buttle, to llve or dhe among youlll, talay down for my (Gonl, for my kingrdom, mal lor my people my honor nad my blood wen in the dust. I know l have the lody but of a weak and fero. hlo woman, but I luve the herirt mad atomuch of a king, and of a Klug of Enghand too, and think It foni neorn that Parma, or Simin, or may prince of Europe shomild dite to invale Che bordires of my renlm, to which, rather than any dishonor shatl grow ly me, I myself will take up urms, I myadf will be your general, judge, and rewardir of every one of your virties in the theld." Decinive Batrife. S 412.
d071. PATRIOTISM atirred. Stomp, Art. A.D. 17ili. Friday, the tirst morning of Fovember, broke upon a people manimonsly resolved on mullif yhy the Stanp Act. From New Ilmmphitre to the far south the day was introduced by the tolling of muthed bells; mhinte gums wore flred and penmants holated it lulf.mast, or a culogy was pronomaced on liberty, mad its karll somaded; and then ngin the note changed, as if she were restored to life., . Evern the chidren at their games, though iaza!; a:sle to spenk, emught up the generul chorus, . . " Lherty, property, and no stmmps."-Dancuove's C. S., vol. 5 , ch. 19.
f0ys. Patriotism, Surrender of. Neir Fork Merchants. A.1). 1zion. ['They recalled their decislon to nbstain from importing anything from Enghanl, and limited the restrlctions to ten.] "Send us your old liberty pole [iron-bound und iron-larred, deep set near junction of Broadway and Bowery-mere cut down by British soldiers,] for you have no further use for jt." said the Philade jphims. The students at Princeton burnt the New York merchants' letter by the hands of the hangman.-Banchort's U. S., vol. 6, eh. 44.
4078. Patriotism, Unseoming. Sertorins. [In consequence of the distructions of the empire, he was, while in spain, compelled to tght agninst the Romans. Yet, in fact, he was a true lover of his combtry, and his passion to be restored to it was one of the flrst in his heart. Yet, in his greatest misfortunes, he never departed from his elignity. On the other lannd, when he was victorions, le would make an offer to Metellus or Pompey, to lay down his arms, on condition he might be permitted to return in the capacity of a private man. Ite said he had rather be the mennest citizen in Rome than an exile with the commmad of all the other countries in the world. - Phetaracis Sehtomus.
4074. PATRIOTISM, Uneelfish. Bismarck. IIe adopted it as the aim of his publiclife " to smateh Germany from Austrian oppression," and to gather round Prussia, in a North German Confederation, all the States " whose tone of thought, menys wills Home of Brosema. "'luatmin this

 What mather if they hang me, prowiden the rope or 1310w., 1. Mis:

(1)75. $\qquad$ Giomerel lied. During tha Americmu Ravohalom, whild dioneral Rerol was prowdent of Congress, the British romminsion-sort the comse of his comatry. His reply wis, king is mot rich "oomgh to bus me."

SO74. PATRIOTISM, Vloloun. S'otrlimen. Samuel Johasm, . . Wan outrugeons upon his suppestion that my comentrymen " lowed Norot. land better than truils," saying, "All of themmay, not all, but droves of thello-womld entme up umel uttest anyiling for the homor of serot-land."-bonwbli's Jollenon, 1. Dibi.
dO77. PATRIOTISM, Vlolent. Frritc ment firm self retired within the fort. . . . In the erening a vast torch-light procession, rarrying a momfald nud two immges-onse of the goveraor and the other of the devil-ame from the inclos-now the park- lown Bromiwny, to within ten. . . feet of the fort, knoeked ut its gate, broke open the governor's comeh-homse, took ont his chariot, carried the images upon it romad town, mul returned to burn them, wlih his own corriages and sleighes, before his eyes on Bowling Grem, moder the guze of the gartson on the rumparts, and all New lork gatheral romml- - Bancromer'a U. S., vol. 5, ch. 19.
4078. PATRIOTISM of Woman. " ('1p)tciin Mol. Iy." She was the [ [risk] wife of a matross in Proctor's artillery. At one of the gums.. six men had beron kiffed or wombed. It was deemed un molu'sy gum, mid murmurs arose that it should be. . abmiloned. At this jumeture. while ('aptain Molly wasserving some water for the refreshment of the men, her hushamd recelised a shot in the bemd nul foll lifeless muler the wheels of the piece. The heroine threw down the pail of water, nad erying to her demel consort, "Lie therr, my darting, while 1 revenge yo," grasesed the rumbod the lifeless hand had just relinguishod, selt home the charge, mal called to the matrosses to prime and flre. . . . She kept to her post till night closed the aetion.- Crests' Wamington, vol. 1, rh. is.
4079. PATRIOTISM of Woman. Lefliat Iltiruh. Alter the battle of Germantown Wushington took up his hemdpuarters at Whitemarsh, twelve miles from Philadelphia. Winter was approarching, and the patriots begun to suffer for fook and clothing. Howe, knowing the distressed condition of the Americans, determined to surprise thior camp. On the cyening of the ed of Derember he held a cound of war, and it was derided to marela against Washington the following night. But Lydin Darrah, at whose house the comeil was hadd, overhemel the phan of the encmies of her comitry. On the following morning she obtamed a pissport from Lord Howe, left the sity on the pretence of going to mill, rode rapidly te 'he American lines, and sent

Informulhow of the improming atheck to Wiak

10mo. Patronage, Age of. laylo sitroure.
 mulder the putherion of sthate purticular moblenam, med foreling lhe thes of that comberelon murn lawerem favored these dides. A ribont, lomgh his putron, lint his murdorer was ohbuged to pay a there to lhe latter, as a compronation for his hase. In like mumer us low pili at the to the master for

 rif. 18, f. 111.

IOWI PATRONAGE, Dlvision of. Jumes $1 /$. Even [W'illinul l'men, intemperate und madis.
 to bure folt that the purthity whith when bonorsmil comolmonts were henpred on Roman Cuth. olles might not wamaturnly carite the jowlonsy of thor mition. $\qquad$ One of Prome's nelo mes wis that athe shonid be paserel dividing the pmotronnge of the rewwn into three coplul parts, nad that to one only of thone parts members of the chated of Lomer should le mimitted. Evell uniler such in armagement the members of the Chureh of Rome would have obtnined menrly twenty thes thelr fuir portion of otlle in appointments. - Ma-

40w2. PATRONAGE, Governmental. Ametirun Coblonios. In 1"tis Amerion had loren cinled "the hospital of lemgland," the places in the gift of the ere wh being fillied "with broken Memberes of larliament," of bul, if myy, principle, valets de chumbre, eloctionerrhug seoumbers, and even
 13. 310.

A0*is. Patronage, Ill-timed, Lurd Chentirfield's. [After complethig his dictionary, Sumurl Johnson wrote:] Siven yenrs, my lom, have now past since I wated in your outwari rooms, or was repulsed from your door [he had heron kept wating while inferior men were given andiencel], during which time I have bern pushing on my work through diflleulties, of which it is nselens to comphain, and hase brought it at last to the verge of publicniom, withont one act of assistance, one worl of porobragement, or one smile of favor. Such treatment I did not expert, for 1 never had "patron before. Is not a matron, my loril, our who looks with unconeren on a man struggling for life in the water, mal, when be has renched gromal, encumbers him with help? The notice which yon have bern pleased to take of my labors, had it bern early, had bren kind; hat it has bere delayed till I ain indifferent, and ramot anjoy it ; till lam solitary, mad camot impart it ; till 1 nm known, mal do not want it.-Boswera's Jomsion, p. 68 .

IOG4. PATRONAGE, Immense. Centemient. The daily attembunce at the exhibition gromels during the summer varied from iono to $2 \% 5,000$. and the interest in the Contenninl was intensitiod bear its close. The whole mumber of visitors atterding the exposition, ns shown by the registry of the gates, was $9, i 80,151$. The daily averuge athendance was 81,936 . The grounds were open for 158 days, and the fotal receipts for admis sion were W3, $^{3} 61,59 \%$ - Ridpa'u's U. S., ch. 68, p. 628.

 "ill the wermhits of hix own charch a shate ot

 In valo. 'thor pretomener is melvised, if' ever he hestemal of one ilftioth purt of the mathem. Gime Hry, the suerefary at war, the majority of the grent digalarlow of the homselablal, lioe majorley of the ollowes the army, arentway to be ('ath.

 Nama dleal nfter a relan of forty-llirew yours. Thring the whole of whide that the temple of tlon of a people dopeme on the chavitior of a noverelign. After athot Interregnum, 'Inlliss Hostilliss was alected to the llimone by the peos. ple, and combrmed by tho volee of tho Semole. This prince, of a very onposite charmelor from his predecessor, paid lltole regaril to hils relighones and parille: lanefontions. The temple of Jinmes was operued, nnal was not mbat darinir hile whole 10s7. PEACE, Commonwealth of. Willitm, Penn. [In the ostablishment of Pemnaylvana, Pemal. . Cleclared that liis alijeets wore to foumf a free rommonwonlth withont resperet to the eolor, race, or religion of the labatitants; to establishít refuge for the people of his own falth; num to enlarge the borters of the British empire.

10$8. PEACE, Dlagraoeful. Montrznmmet. Fur monthes there was nlmost incessunt tighting in tund aroumd the city ; und it beronmervident that the Spaniards mast inlimately be overwhedmed and destroyed. 'To suve himself from his peril, Cortez adopited a werond shamelass expedieni, more wioked than the first. Nontermant [who lud been capsured by Cortex] was comapelled to Lo upon the top of the patace in front of the griat segare where the besiogers wore gathered, and to counsed them to make peate with the Spaninrds. For a moment there was univarsal silence, then a murmur of vexation and rage, and then Montornman was struck down by fie javelins of his own subjeres. In a few days be diad of wretehedmess and despiair, und for a while the warriors, overwhelmed with remorse, abandoned the conlliet. But with the renewal of the strife Cortoz was ohliged to leave the city. fimally a groat batle was fought, and tlae Sjainish arins and valer triumplaed. In the crises of the stingegle the sarred Mexicm hamoer was struck down mal raptured, Dismay seized the hosts of puny warriors, and they dled in all di. rections.-Rideatis's L. S., ch. 4, p. (il.
4089. PEACE, Evidence of. Raign of Chumbes $I I$. There ware still to be se(on), on the capers of the sea-const, and on many inland hills, tall posts surmounted by larrels. Once these barrels land

 How rlaperei misue the In

AONO. PEACE, Fear of. I'min!!!. " | / thrrer

 atifutbon witl br ht ma rall. I lhomghi, whers lar was mpaking, of the nomertalation of war: lint I fishncore meltlelmost. Not only doses lie not serek

101). PEACE, Joye of, ifirr of $|x|=$ 'Thu: ugrants of the ['nitend States worn John (Qulney Adams, Jumus A. Buynrel, Ilrary ('luy, domihnin Ruswell, innel Albert (inllatin. Several montlis wore spent in merpotiathons, urd on the 己. Ith of bocilering on madness. DBefore the terms of wettlement combl be koown, the peoplle broke forth In univeras jubilio. Nobndy ntopped to Inguire whether the treaty was gonal or lad, lionombleor reanem for rejojelarg that a war which they lame persistently opposed as lmpolitie unt unjust was at an end. The leforerats ment lif) it double luaza, shominir li rat for Juckson's victory andaf. terward for peace. Nor coushl the comitry well be hamed for rejoiding that a conslle't thit bad 18,000 sullars was cobled. The war rloud rolled awny like nu ineubus from tho publie minel. lani*itis l. S., (M, 5l, 1). 414.

AOA2. PEACE, Messengers of. Alurviritn TMditus. That the words of friemelship might be Imasmitted andely through the wildarnosis, the rell men revered the percer-]ijes. The pervon of him that travelleal with it was narred; haroulal disarm the young wartior as by a spell, abal secure himself a fintess woleomi in vevy cabin.

A098. PEACE, Perpetual. l'r'ml/ Trfut!. "Wr have thrown the hatchet," salil the Mahawke, "so high in the air, and beyome the skies, that mo arm on earll can reach io bring it down."-

IOD.E. PEACE, Pledges of. Wتllitm P(nn. [On conference was apmoinfed wilh the native chiefs.

Pean, necompanied by a dew unarmed frimads, clad in the simple grirl of the Quakers, came to the uppointed spot. . . The chicftains, also umarmed, sat in a semicircie on the ground.

Stmoling before them and spraking by mo interpreter, he sitid: "My friends, we have nut on the broad pathway of good faith. Weareall one tlesh and blood. Being hrethren, no aulvantage shall he taken on elther side. When disputes arise we will settle them in connell. Between us there slall be nothing but openness and love." Thu ehiefs "eplled," While the rivers run and the sun shines we will live in jenee with the elildren of Willinm Penn." Noreerd was mude of the traty, for none was needed. Its terms were written not on deraying parchment, bat on the living hearts of men. No deed of violence or injustien ever marred the staced eovenant. The lndfans vied with the Quakers in kecping mbroken the pledge of perpetual pence. For more than seventy years, during whieh the province remained under the control of the Friends, not a single warwhoop was heard within the bordors of Pennsyivnnia. TV: Qunker hat and coat proved to be a better slefence for the wearer than cont-of-mail and musket.-Ridpatir's U. S., eli. 2j, p. 212.
4005. PEACE vs. Prile. Thebans. Thebes was now necessaril, anvolverl in a war with Sparta; but she hal the assistance of Athens. With this respectable aid she was, perhaps, a match for ber powerful antagonist, but she rlid not long enjoy the advantage of that alliance. Persia, which since the last peace had acquirett a title to mediate in the affairs of Greece, brought about an overture of accommorlation between the contending States. All articles were arreed upon, when a small punctilio exasperated the Thebans. They could not bear that their name should be classed among the inferior States of Grecee; and Sparta was devemined that it should.' Neither party would yield, and Thebes wis entirely struck out of the treaty, which was acceded to by all the other republies. [War followed.]-TYTLER's IIst., Book 2, ch. 3, p. 163.
4096. PEACE, Prinoipies of. Primitive Christians. The Christians were not less averse to the businese than to the pleasures of this world. The defence of our persons and property they knew not how to reconcile with the patient doetrine which enjoined an unlimited forgiveness of past injuries, and commanded them to invite the repetition of fresh insults. Their simplicity was offended by the use of onths, by the pomp of magistracy, and by the aetive contention of puolic life; nor could their humane ignorance be convinced that it was lawful on any occasion to shed the blood of our fellow-creatures, either by the sword of justice, or by that of war, even thongh their criminal or hostile attempts should threaten the peace and safety of the whole com-munity.-Gimnon's Rome, ch. 15, p. 555.
4097. PEACN, A provoking. Peace of Utrecht. A.D. 1713. By the peace of Uirecht Belgium was compelled to forego the advantages with which she liad been endowed by the God of nature ; to gratify commercial jealousy, Antwerp was denied the use of the deep waters that flowed by her walls; and afterward the Austrian efforts at trade with the East Indies were suffocated in their infancy. This policy was an open violation of international justice, a frand upon humanity, a lestriction by covenant of national industry and prosperity. It was possible that . . . a wise ruler might one day be penetratad with indignation at the outrage. . . . With regard to France, . . . England extorteri the covenant, that the port of Dinkirk should be not merely ahandoned, but filled up. A trenty of peace contained a stipulation for the ruin of a harbor !- BancizoFt's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 21.

408s. PEACE, Signal for. Marquette, the Jesuit Missiomary. [Exploring the Mississippl.] Nenr the latitude of $8 x^{\circ}$, on the Mississipi $: . " N o w . "$ thought Marquette, "we must indeed ask the nid of the Virgin." Arned with hows mind arrows, with clubs, axes, and bucklers, mold eontinual whoops, the natives, bent on war, embarkad In vast canoes, made ont of the trunkz of hollow trees; but, at the sight of the mysterions peacepipe held aloft, God tonehed the hearts of the old men, who ehecked the impetuosity of the young: and throwing their bows and quivers Into the canoes, as a token of pence, they preparada hospitable welcome.-BAncroft'sU. S., vol. 3, ch. 20.
d099. PEACE, Truce for. Truce of Gorl. [The Church in France mule great endeavors to repross violence and tyranny.] The result was the institution of the "Truce of God" (1041), which provideci that all hostilities, public and private, should be suspended from the Wednesclay evening in cach week until the following Monday morning, that period being marked out for sanctification in memory of the passion and resurrection of the ledeemer. The entire seasons of $\mathbf{A}$ dvent and Lent, together with all the great festivals, were included in this merciful prohibition. Offenders against the "Truce of God" ineיurred the penalty of death, which might be commuted, however, by peenniary fine; they were liable also to exconmunication and banishment.-Students' France, ch. 7, S 8.
4100. PEACE, Unusual. Temple. At the end of the first Punie war the temple of Janus was shut-an event which had not happened since the reign of Numa-that is, near five hundred years. In a few yenrs it was again opened, and never shut till the reign of Augustus.-TYTler's Hist., l3ook 3, ch. 9, p. 371.
1101. PENALTY, Excessive. Reign of George III. A.D. 1772. Hutchinson [Governor of Mis, sachusetts] wished to see a beginning of taking men prisoners and carrying them directly to England. There now existed a stutute anthorlaing such a procedure. . . . An act for the better securing of dockyards, ships, and stores, which extended to the colonies, made death the penalty for destroying even the oar of a cutler's boat or the head of an empty cask belonging to the fleet, and subjected the accused to trinl in any county in Great Britain.--Bancroft's U. S., vol. 6, ch. 47.
4102. PENALTY, Partisan. Reign of $\mathrm{f}_{\text {Imes }}$ II. The fame and fortunes of [the Earl on] Devonshire were . . . under a cloud. He had an unforiunate quarrel with the court, arising, not from a public and honorable cause, but from a private brawl. . . . He had gone to Whitehall ${ }^{+}$, pay his duty, anu had there been insulted by a man named Colepepper, one of a set of bravos who infested the purlieus of the court, and who attempted to curry favor with the gevernment by aff ronting members of the Opposition. . . . While this feud was at its height, the earl met Colepepper in the drawing-room at Whitehall, and fancied that he saw triumphand definnce ta the lully's countenance. Nothtug unseemly passed in the royal sight ; but, as soon as the enemies hail left the presence chamber, Devonshire proposed that they should instantly dechle their disputes with their swords. This chanlenge was refused. Then the high-spirited peer forgot the respect which he owed to the phace where he stood nud to his own eharacter, and struck Colepepper in the fuce with a cane. . . . A criminal information was filed in the King's Bench. . . . The judges wintad in a body on Jeffreys, who insisted that they should impose a tine of not less than E 530,000 . Macatlay's Evg., ch. 7, p. 231.
4103. PENANCE, Failure of. Experiment. Bartley Campbell, min Irish Papist, bectane profoundly awnened with anxiety for a better faith than popery land tanght him. He called on his: priest, who could not understand his ditlleulties. IIe said many prayers, submitted to severe penances, obtnined abso' ation, but found no relief to his troubled conscience. He mude a pilgrimage of forty Irish miles to St. Patrick's purgatory, at Loughbery, in Donegal County, where it was supposed all sins could be expinted. He went through the required ceremonies, nud reecived absolution from the officinting priest ; hut his conseience was more discuicted than ever. Befor he left again he applied to the priest. "Did not I give you absolution ?" asked the latter. "You did, fathor." "And do you .eny the authority of the Chureh?" "By no mems; hut my sonil is in misery. What shatl I do ?" "Do !" said the priest, " why, go to bed and sleep." "Sleep!" excluimed the awakened man; " no, father ; perhaps I may awake in hell." The priest threntened him with thorsewhip. The penitent hastened to a retired phace, threw himself on the ground, aud, with tears and groans, prayed for light from God. There he found peace in believing on Christ alone. He returned to the numerous pilgrims who were performing their preseribed penances upon bared and bleeding knees, . . . and exhorted them to seek God through Christ, assuring them that they should obtain peace, as he had.-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 3, p. 411.
4104. PENANCE, Royal. IHenry $I I$. He was alarmed by an irruption from William, King of Scothand. Returning to England, he found the ancient leaven of disaffection, on account of Becket's murder, revived, and violently fermenting in the breasts of his subjects. To conciliate their minds, te resolved on expinting his alleged guilt by the most solemn penance and humiliation. IIe walked barefooted through the city of Canterbury, and, on arriving at the cathedral, prostrated himself on the ground before the tomb of the martyr, und passed a day and night in fasting and prayer ; not satisfied with this mortification, he submitted his bare shoulders to be scourged by the monks of the chapter. Absolved now fromall his offences, reconciled to the church and to his subjects, he prepared to revenge the depredations of the Scots.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 8, p. 143.
4105. PENITENCE, Royal. Roman Emperor Theodosius. The public penance of the Emperor Theodosius has been recorded as one of the most honorable events in the annals of the church. According to the mildest rules $\subset$ ecelesiatical dis-(ipline, which were established in the fourth eentury, the crime of homicide was expinted by the penitence of twenty yars; and as it was impossible, in the period of human life, to parge the acemmulated gruilt of the massacre of Thessatomion, the murderer should have bern excluded from the holy commumion till the hour of his death. But the archbishop, consulting the maxims of religious poliry, granted some indulgence to the ronk of his ilhustrious penitent. . . . It was sutlleient that the emperor of the Romnns, stripped of the ensigns of royalty, should uppear in a mournfu' mad supplinnt posture ; and that, in the midst of the church of Mihan, he should humbly solicit, with signs and tears, the parton of his sins. In this spiritunt cure, Ambrose employed the varions methords of mildness and severity. After a delay of nbuut eight months Theodosins was restored to the communion of the faithful. -Ghimon's Rome, ch. 27, p. 117.
4106. PEOPLE, Spirited. Public Spirit. The contests with the natives, not less than with New England, di played the feebleness of New Netherland. The province had no popular freedom, and therefore uo publiespirit. In New England there were no poor ; in New Netherland the por were so numerous it was ditlleult to provide for their relief. The Puritans ensily supported schools everywhere, and Latin scanols in the larger villages; on Manhattan a Latin school lingered. . . two years, and was discontinued. In New England the people, in the hour of danger, rose involuntarily, and defended themselves; in the Dutch province men were unwilling to go to the relief even of villages that were in danger from the Indians, and demanded protection from the [East India] Company, which clamed to be their absohte sovereign.-Bancroft's LV. S., vol. 2 , ch. 15.
4107. PEOPLE, "Unreasonable," Tiberties. The people of New IImmphire were greatly exeited by the threatened destruction of their iiberties. Before Cranfiekd's arrival the rugged sawyers and lumbermen of the Piscataqua had conven ed a general assembly at Portsmonth. The first resolution which was passed by the representatives showed the spirit of colonial resistance in full force. "No act, imposition, law or ordinance," said the sturdy legishators, "shall be valid unless made ly the assembly and approved by the people." When the indignant king heard of this resolution, he dechared it to be both wicked and absurd. It was not the first time that a monareh and his people had disagreed. In November of 1682 Cranfield dismissed the popuhar assembly. Sueh a despotie att had never before been attempted in New England. The excitement ran high ; the governor was openly denomuced, and his chans for rents and forfeitures were sthabornly resisted. At Exeter the sheriff was bentera with clabs. The farmers' wives met the tix-gathchers with pailfuls of hot water. At the vilhge of Hampton Crimfield's deputy was led out of town with a rope round his neck. When the governor ordered ont the militia not a man obeyed the summons. It was in the midst of these broils that Cranfichl, unable to collect his rents, and vexed out of his wits, wrote to England legging the privilege of going home. The "unrensonable" people, who were all the time cavilling at his commission and denying his authority, were at lengih freed from his presence.- Rompatin's U. S., ch. $23,1.200$.
d10*. PERFECTION by Development. , /ohn Milton. 'Tlu: commonly received notion, therefore, with which anthors, ns they age, ne wont to comfort themselves, that one of the greatest feats of origimal invention abheved by man was berna ufter fifty, must be thas far moditiod. " l'armaise Lost " wiss composed after flfty, bat was comreiverl at thirty-two. Wence the high droree of perfece tion ratized in the total result. For there were combined to produce it the opposite virtues of two distinet perionls of mental development-the daring immgination and fresh rmotionat play of early manhood, with the exereised jadgment and clastemed taste of ripened years.-M1LTON, ny M. PuTTison, elt. 13.
4109. PERFIDY resented. Bo\|rbon. A most formidable combination seemed now ready to overwhelm Francis I., under which a momareh of less spirit and abilities than himself monst eertuinly have suceumbed at once. The pope, the emperor, the King of Englami, the Archduke Ferdinand-to whom his brother, Charles V.. lud ceded the German dominions of the lionse of Austria-were all united against the King of France.

. . .

 An iniquitons decree of the parliament of Paris, by whicat the eonstable [of 130 onrbon] was deprived of the whole estates belonging to the family of Bourbon, was the canse of an irreconcilable animosity, and of a firm purpose of vengeance now meditated by the constable ugninst the King of France. He immediately of fered his services to the emperor; and, like another Coriolamas, with equal valor und ability, and with equal infany, became the determined enemy of his commtry. The emperor received him, as may be believed, with open urms; lut in the brenst of every worthy man his comluet excited that detestation which it merited. Even the Spanish officers themselves abhorred his perfidy. "If the constable of Bourbon," said one of these generals, " should enter my house, I would burn it after his departure, as a place pollited by treason and perfidy.''-TyTher's IIrst., llook 6, ch. 19 , p. 280.4110. PERIL, Familiar. Forgotten. When Persia was governed by the devecndants of Sef, a race of princes whose wanton eruclty often stained their divan, their table, and their bed with the blood of their favorites, there is a snying recorded of a young nobleman, that he never departed from the sultan's presence without satisfying himself whether his head was still on his shoniders. The experienee of every day might almost justify the seepticism of Rustan. Yet the fital sword, suspended above him by a single thread, secms not to have disturbed the slumbers or interrupted the tranquillity of the Persian. The momareh's crown, he wehl knew, comld level him with the Iust; but the stroke of lightning or apoplexy might be equally fatal; and it was the part of a wise man to forget the inevitable calamities of human life in the enjoyment of the flecting liour.-Gimason's Rome.
4111. PERIL, Pleasure in. William, Prince of Orange. Sometimes, however, it seemed that he lad it strange ileasure in venturing his persom. It was remarked that his spirits were never so high and his manners never so gracions and easy as amid the tumult and carmage of a battle.

Even in his pastimes he liked the excitement of danger. Curds, chass, mud billiameds give him mo pleasare. 'The rhase was his favorite recrenfion ; and he loved it most when it was most hazamlous. Ilis lemps wore sometimes such thut lis boldest compmoions did not like to follow him. Ile seems even to have thourht the most harily tield-sports of Eingland etleminate, nod to have pined in the great park of Windsor for the game which he land bern used to drive to bay in the forcests of Guelders, wolves, and wikd boars, and hure stars with sixteen matlers.-MacaeLay's ENA. ('h. 7, p. 155.

III2. PERJURY, Punishment of, Romams. The corrupt or malidi,n:s witness was thrown heallong from the 'Iarprinn rock, to expante his falsehood, which was rendered still more fatal by the soverity of the pemal laws und the defieioney of written evidence.-Gimmon's laosk, ch. 44, [, 372.
4113. PERSECUTION, Arlan. Catholics. The Catholics, more especinlly moder the reign of Inmmeric, endured the most cruel mad iguorinions treatment. IRespectable citizens, moble mintrons, nand eonsecrated virgins were stripped naked, and raised in the air by pulleys, witl. a weight suspended at their feet. In this painful attitude their maked bodies were torn with scourges, or burnt in the most tender parts with red-hot plates of iron. The amputation of the ears, the nose, the tongue, and the right lmund was inflioted by the Arimns; and althongh the precise number cannot le defined, it is evident that many persons, anong whom a bishop and a proconsul may be named, were entitled to the crown of inartyrdom.-GibBon's Rome, ch. 37, p. 553.
4114. PERSECUTION, Artful. Roman Emperor Juliau. Me forbade the persecution of the Christians, whoni he represented as deluded men, the objects of compassion, not of punishment; but declared, at the same time, inat their frenzy incupacitated them fromall employments, rivil or military. Their law, he said, prohibited all qumrrels and dissensions; it was not, therefore, necessary that they should have the benefit of courts of justice to decide their differences. He prohibited them from teaching or learning gammar, rhetoric, or philosophy. These, he sahil, were pagan sciences, treated of by anthors whose principles the Christians were tanglit to abhor, and whose books contaimed tenets which mist shock the pure morality of their religion.-T'y'rien's Hist., Book 1, ch. 3, p. 519.
4115. PERSECUTION, Bloody. In Ireland. [Catholies arose agranst the Protestants.] They prolonged the martyrdom and sufferings of both sexes, that they might the longer revel in this infermal pastime. They cansed blood to fall drop by drop, and life to ebb by lengthened gasps, that their revengefnl fury might be the more indulged. The mntiders spread by degrees over every distriot of Ireland, execpt Dublin, where a feeble body of royal troops preserved the peace. The corpses of more than one landred thousand vietims, men, women, children, the infirm and aged, strewed the thresholds of their habitations and the fields that they lad cultivated in common with their destroyers. The flames in which their villages were enveloped were extinguinhedomly in their bood. All who escaped by bight the fury of their assussins, carrying their inlants in their arms to the summits of the mombains, perished of innuition and cold in the snows of winter. lrelamil appented to open, to hecome the tomb of hulf the sons she lad bronght forth.-Lan. p. 26.
1116. PERSECUTION of Catholics, Moryland. A.d. 1704. In the tund which Catholies hatd opened to Protestants $\qquad$ mass might not he suid publiely. No Catholie priest or hishop might utter lis faith in a voice of persmasion. No Cutholie might teach the yomg. If the wayward child of a paphest would but hecome an anostate, the law wrested for him from his parents a share of their property. . . Such were the methods nitopted "to prevent the grow th of Popery."-Banchoft's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 19.
1117. - Irehnd. A.b. 1763. Suech priests ns were permitted to reside in Irelund were required to be registered, and were kept like prisoners at large within preseribed limits. All " pmpists," exercising ecelesiastical jurisdietion, all monks, friurs, and regnlar priests, and all priests not then actual! in parishes, and to be registered, were banished from Ircland under pain of transportation, and on a return, of being hanged, drawn, und quartered.-Bancrioft's U. S., vol. 5, ch. 4.
4118.

Dilemma. [In 1568 the pope's anthority was nholished in Seotland, $]$ and all heretics and lienrers of mass were declared liable to various punishments. In 1584 Catholies in England were called upon to say if the pope were to absolve them from their onth of allegiance, and to nttack Engtund, what they should do, and which side they shonld suppori. The miserable, frightened men knew not how to extricate themselves from the dilemma. They answered that they would render unto Goil what wus God's, ind muto Ciesar what was Casar's ; but this evasion was interpreted into a confession by their judges. Thus the prisons were filled ; execution followed upon excention, and Catholicism in its turn had its martyrs. . . In 1584 all Jesuits, seminary priests, mud other priests were commanded by Aet of Parliament to depurt from the kingedom within forty days, on pain of being adjudged traitors; and penalties were to be inflicted upon those who, knowing any priest to be within the realm, slould not denounce him to a magistrate. These intolerant enactments produced the very opposite consequences that were contemplated by the legisla-tors.-Kniont's Evg., vol. 3, chi. 10, p. 181.
4119. PERSECUTION, Catholic. Iugucuots. [By Louis XIV. the] Intruenots were exeluded from all public functions, from the liberal professions, from the universities, from engaging in various brunches of commeree and industry. They were forbidden to intermarry with Catholies, and their children were enconraged to forsake the faith of their parents by being declared capable of choosing for themselves at the age of seven years. . . Squadrons of dragoons. . were quartered on the inhabitnats, who abmandoned themselves to every kind of brutal violence and excess, establisling a "reign of terror" wherever they appeared. These atrocious "dragonnades" completely broie the spirit of the wrethed bup ulation, nind they submitted in despmir. "Not a post arrives." wrote Madatite de Mamemon in September, 168.), "without bringing the king tidings which till him with joy; the conrersions tuke phace cery day hy thonsumds." Nixty thomsumd persons are said to huve cmbrated chatholifiven in Guicme in the course of ome month; 1 wenty thonsmad uhjured in Bearn; cighty thonsand in the two dioceses of Nismes med Nomtpellicer... On the 1ath of Oetober, 1685, he [Lenuis XIV..] signed the celdented derere culled the Revocation of the Einct of Nantes. Acting merecly by his own despotic muthority, the king numbled forever all the privileges granted to the Ituguenots by Itenry IV. and Louis XIII: : b solutely probibited ilie exercise of their religion throughout the kingelom, with the sole exception of Alsace ; ordered their temples to be levelled with the gronnd, and their ministers to quit Frane within tifteen days ; forbade the Reform. ers to follow their pastors into exile umder pin of confisention and condemnation to the gulleys; and regnired their children to be haphized henceforth by the Catholic priests, and ellumated as memhers of the Estallished Church. Frightful cruelties followed the muliention of this decrec. Multitudes of the Reformed, olsstinately refusing obedience, were eonsigned to lonthsome dungeons, racked with exquisite tortures, mid treated with every kind of ontrage short of netual murder. Numbers of females were immured for life in convents; infants were torn from the nrms of their mothers; property was destroyed, and whole districts laid desolate.-Stridents' France, cl. 22, §s 11.
1120. PERSECUTION compared, Massaehusefts rs. Netherlends. In Spuin more persons lave been burned for their opinions than Massaelusetts then [in 1658 ] contained inlabitants. Under Churles V., in the Netherlamds alone, the number of those who were hanged, behended, huried alive, or burned for religious opinion was fifty thousand, salys Father Paul ; the whole earnage nmounted, siys Grotins, to not less tham one hundred thousimol. Ameriea was guilty of the death of four individuals [who were Quakers]. -Banchof'ts C. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
4121. PERSECUTION of Covenanters. Mectings. [James II. procurred permil laws agninst the Scotel covenanters, providing] that the pmisismen of death and contiseation of land and goods should be nwarded agninst those who should preach in a conventicle under a roof. or should attend a conventicle in the open air, cither as preacher or mulitor-Knight's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 24, p. 384.
4122. PERSECUTION, Cruol. Jerr. A. D. 1189. [At the coromation feast of Riellard I.] the chief men of the dews came to offer presents to the king. They had been forbidden to come, but they came with gifts, muld were therefore bold. The common people . . . rushed upon the Jews, stripped them, and cast them forth out of the king's hall with wounds and blows. The citizens of London, following the example, attacked and murdered the Jews in the city, and burnt their houses. . . . At York a hody of armed men entered the city and commenced their work of plander and mussacre, by attacking the house of a Jew who had perished in the riot of London.

All the Jews of York then ehaned shelter in the rastle. They were udmitterl to the number of five hundred. The governor went away; and, upon his return, the Jews, andmed for their sifety, refused him remdmission. The fortress was attacked on all sides, mal riusoms were refused. Then the desperate ruce, all except a few, put the r wivesune children to death, and stabbeal each other, that they might mot fall into the hands of their cruel cenemies. The few who shank from this terrible self-sacritice were murdered. -Kniolit's Exti., vol. 1. ch. 21, p. 306.
4123. PERSECUTION, Exterminating, Alligenses. The crusading urmy, under the guidunce of the Pope's legate, Amany, Albot of Citemux, and Simon, Count de Montford, marched into Languedoc, nul besieged the town of Béziers, which was stormed on the $22 d$ of July, 1209. A horrible massacre ensued ; the whole population was indiscriminately put to the sword. One of the superior offlecers inquired of the Abbot of Citeanx how they were to distinguish the hereties from the faithful: "Shy them all!" returned the savige charehmen, "for the Lord knoweth those that are lis !" Not a living soul whs spured, and the eity was ufterward pillaged and reduced to ashes.-S'tudents' Fibance, ch. 8, s 13.
412. PERSECUTION by Goths. Athmaric [the Goth] distained the yoke of the [Romme empire, and of the gospel. The faith of the new converts was trieal by the persecution which he excited. A wagon, bearing atoft the slapeless jmage of Thor, perhips, or of Woden, was comducted in solemn proeession through the streets of the cump; und the rebels, who refused to worship the god of their fathers, were immediately burnt, with their tents and families.-Gusbon's Rome, ch. 37, p. 542.
4125 . PERSECDTION of Heretice. English. In the reign of Richard II , the Commons would not permit that the Chureh should imprison hereties without the king's consent. Now [A.d. 1401] hereties were to be burnt on the sole sentence of the ecelesiastical courts. . . . The first victim was William Salter, a London celergy-man.-Knigut's Ene., vol. 2, ch. 3, p. 45.
4126. PERSECUTION, Impolitic. IIuguenots. The edict of Nantes had been passed in the reign of Henry IV., giviner the Protestamts liberty of conseience, und hat wen confirmed by Louis XIII., under certain restrictions with regard to public worship. Louis [XIV.] revoked the edict; the whole IInguenot churches were demolished, the ministers banisherl, and, what was a refinement of persecution, the Protestiants were at the same time prohibited, under the severest penalties, from quitting the kingdom. That prohibition, however, was ineffectual, und above i00,000 people made their escape out of France, and, carrying with them all their property, found a weleome asylum in Gernany, Switzerland, Molhand, and Enghand. By this most impolitie measure France sustained a very severe loss, not only in the article of population, but in commerce and mannfnctures. [See No. 4144.]Tytler's Hist., Book 6, eh. 34, p. 462.
1127. PERSECUTION ineffective. Wycliffe, In 1441 the Council of Constance. . . decreed Lit the body of Wycliffe should le "taken from the ground and thrown far away from the lurinl of uny church." It was thirteen yours hefore this miserable vangennce was curved into effect, by disinterring and burning our tirst English reformer's boty, throwing his ashes into " brook. "The brook did convey his nshes into Avon; Avon into Severn; Severn into the narrow sems; they into the main ocean; mad thus the ashes of W yeliffe are the emblem of his aloctrine, which ls now dispersed all the world over." -Kniout's Ena., vol. 2, eh. 4, p. 54.
4128. PERSECUTION of Jems. Firence. In 1321] the popular fury was once mere alinerted against the unfortumie Jews, who never fuiked to suffer in every fresh outbreak of persecution. They were hurried indiseriminately to the stake. without the semblance of any julicind procedare : at Chinon, in Touraine, an enormous pit wav dug nemr the castle, a fire lighted at the bottom, mind one humdref and sixty wretched vietims of hoth sexes hurled, pell-mell, into the flames. The richer class were kept in prison until an aceomet had been obtained of their property und of the amount of their chims nequired by lenting money ; these the king transierred to his owit cretit; and a sum of 150,000 livres is said to have been thas added to the royal treasary. Students' IIftony of France, ch. 9, $52 j$.
4129. PERSECUTION by the Persecuted. Quctiers. In July of $16 \overline{5} 6$ the Qunkers began to urrive at Boston. The first who came were Ann Austin and Mary Fisher. The introduction of the plague would have occasioned less nham. The two women were caught and searched for: marks of witcheraft, their trunks were broken open, their books were burned by the hangman, and they themselves thrown into prison. After severnl weeks' confinement they were brought forth and bunished from the colony ; before the end of the year eight others had been arrested and sent back to England. The delegates of the union were immediately convened, and a rigorous law was passed excluding ull Quakers from the country. Whipping, the loss of one ear, und maishment were the penalties for the first offence; after a second conviction the other ear should be cut of ; and should the criminal again return, his tongue should be bored through with a red-hot iron. In 1657 Ann Burden, who had come from London to prench against persecution, was seized and beaten with twenty stripes. Others came, were whipped and exiled. As the law become more cruel and proseriptive, fresh victims rushed forward to hrive its terrors. The assembly of the four colonies again convened, and advised the authorities of Massachusetts to pronomee the penalty of death against the famatical disturbers of the public pence--Rideatio's C. S., ch. 14, p. 136.
4130. PERSECUTION powerless. Mertyrs. Bonner, Bishop of London, . . . nsked a youth who was brought before him whether he thought he could bear the fire. The boy at once held his hand without flinching in the thme of a candle that stood hy. Rogers, a fellow-worker with Tyndale in the trunslation of the Bible, and one of the foremost umong the Protestant preachers, died bathing his hamds in the flame " as if it lind been in cold water." Even the commonest lives gleamed for a moment into poetry at the stuke. "Pray for me," a boy, Willinm Brown, who had been brought home to Brentwood to suffer, "sked of the bystanders. "I wlll pray no more for thee," one of them replled," thum I will pray for a dog." "Then," said William, "Son of Gool, shine upon me;" and lmmedlately the sun in the elements shone out of a dark cloud so full la his face that he was constrained to look nnother way; whereat the people mused, h. cuuse it was sodark a little time before.-IIst, of Ena. Plohie, צ̀ 661 .
4131. PERSECUTION by Protestants. English. The Presloyterian Parliament of England became more violent for conformity than the Court of High Commlssion which the Purlinment land destroyed.

The imposition of the covenunt upon all the beneficed clergy was the dechration of un intolerunt tyranny aguinst the most con-scientious.-Knioht's Eno., vol. 4, ch. 2, p. 30.
4132. PERSECUTION of Protestants. Ireland. [Thiry thoussand Catholies, with Sir Phelim O'Nenl at their head, attacked the Puritan settlers in the north of Irehnd.] They weredriven from their houses in un inclement season. They fled to the hills and morasses, where they perished of hunger. They were put to death with all the horrors that only savages and fanaties can inflict. Women and children were murdered with relentless fury. Charendon says: " About forty or fifty thousind of the Eaglish Protestants were murdered before they suspected themselves to le in danger."-Knigit's's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 28, p. 464.
4133. $\qquad$ Francis I. In January, 1535, the king presided at a solemn ceremonial of expiation at Paris, after which six wretched victims were committed to the flames with horrible refinements of torture; a machine lad been invented by which they were alternately lowered into the fire and withdrawn again, so as to prolong their sufferings to the utmost.-Students' France, ch. 14, ş 12.
4134. - - Francis 1 . Francis disgraced the concluding years of his reign by measures of the most barbarous severity toward the unfortumate Protestants of Provence. The Vaudois, as they were called, a simple, inoffensive, and loyal population, inhabited a few obscure towns and villages in the vicinity of Avignon and Aix. Orders were suddenly sent down to the Parliament of Provence, in January, 1545 , to exterminate these helpless peasants, who were denounced as dangerous hereties; and the sentence was at once executed with a ferocions cruclty unparalleled in history. Three towns and twenty-two hamlets were totally destroyed; three thousand of their inhabitants, among whom were numbers of women and children, unresistingly butchered in cold blood; seven hundred condemned for life to the galleys. Similar horrors were renewed in the following year at Meaux, where sixty of the Reformel Church, all mechanies or peasants, were sentenced to various degrees of rigorons punishment, and fourteen were burnt together at the stake. [See No. 4145.]Studenty' France, ch. 14, $16.
4135. PERSECUTION by Puritans. In Massachuretts. A fine was imposed on such as should entertain any " of the accursed sect;" and a Quaker, after the first conviction, was to lose one ear; after the second, another ; after the third, to have the tongue bored with a hot iron. It was but for a very short time that the menace of these enormities found place in the statute-book. -Banchof"t's C. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
4136. PERSECUTION, Reaction of. Queen Mary's. The work of terror fuiled in the very ends of which it was wrought. The old spirit of insolent deflance, of outrageous violence, rose into fresh life at the challenge of persecution. 1 Protestant hung a string of puddhars round a priest's neck in derision of his bends. The restored immeres were grossly insulted. The old seurrilous buthuds against the mass und reties were heard in the strects. Men were gomded to sheer mudness by the bloodshed and violence ahout them. One miseruble wretch, driven to frenzy, stubbed the priest of St. Marguret's as he stood with the chntice in his hand. It was a more formidable sign of the times that acts of violence such as these no longer stirred the people at large to their former resentment. The horror of the persecution swept away all other feelings. Every death at the stake won handreds to the cause for which the victims dled. "You have lost the heurts of twenty thousand that were runk papists within these twelve months," a Protestant wrot: triumphantly to Bonner.-IIft. of Eng. 1'eorle, ś 662.
4137. - - Joan of Are. Twenty years afterward the two venerable friars, simple monks, vowed to poverty, and having nothing to hope or fear in this world, bear witness to the scene we have just described. "We heurd her," they say, "in the midst of the flumes invoke her saints, her archangel; several times she called on her Saviour. . . . At the hast, as her head sunk on her bosom, she shrieked, 'Jesus!'" " Ten thousund men wept. . . ." A few of the Euglish alone laughed, or endeavored to laugh. One of the most furious among them had sworn that he would throw a fugot on the pile. Just as he brought it she breathed her last. He was taken ill. His comrades led him to a tavern to recruit his spirits by drink, but he was beyond recovery. "I saw," he exclaimed, in his frantic despair-"I saw a dove fly out of her mouth with her last sigh." Others hacl read in the flames the word "Jesus," which she so often repeated. The executioner repaired in the evening to Brother Isambart, full of consternation, and confessed himself, but felt persuaded that God would never pardon him. . . . One of the English king's secretaries said alon ${ }^{1}$ on returning from the dismal scene, "We ure lost ; we have burnt a saint."-Michelet's Joan, p. 69.
4138. $\qquad$ Puritans. [In 1593 Archbishop Whitgift prohibited all pranching, reading, or catechising in private houses, if any resorted thereto not of the same family. . IIe drove the clergy to subseribe anew and more stringently to the queen's supremacy. The result was first a furious attack upon episcopacy in the pamphlets of Martin Marprelate; and then severe laws against the Puritans, which had no ultimate effect but that of fortifying their opinions, and ultimately making their cause the rallying point of civil and religions liberty.]Knight's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 16, p. 244.
4139. PERSECUTION, Sectarian. Bitter. The records of the Scottish Parliament were thick set with laws denouncing vengeance on those whe in any direction strayed from the proserib. ed pale. By anart passed in the time of lowns. mad hembling his spirit, it was a high arian 6 heat mass, and the thited whemer was apital. An are recenty passed, at the instane of , hanes [11.], made it death to preach in any Preshoterima romenticle whatwer, and even to atomi Evis. (lh. 0, p. 10).

I140. PERSECUTION, Selfish. Eimpror Nero. The voice of rmore arensed the compere as the inereminy of his own copital ; and as the mast incredible stories are the best adapted to the genins of an enaraded pophe, it was gravely reported and tirmaty believed that Nero, enjoying the cat hanity which he hat ocrasioned, ambed himsedf with singing to his lyre the destruction of ancient 'rony. T'o divert a saspicion, which the power of despotism was manile to suppress, the emperor resolved to substitute in his own plare some fircitions crimimals. "With this view," contimues Tacitus, "he inflicted the most exquisite tortures on those men who, under the valgar appellation: of Christians, were already branded with deserved infamy. They derived their name and origin from Christ, who in the reign of Tiberins had sumfered death by tha senteace of the procarator Pontias lilate."-Giahov's Rome, ill. 16, 1. 17.
4141. PERSECUTION, Severe. In Scotlanel. John Brown, a poor corvier of Lamarkshire, was, for his singular piety, commonly called the Christimu carrier ; . . . bhameless in life, and so peaceable that the tyrames could find no offence in him except that he ubsented himself from the public worship of the Episcopalims. On the 1st of May he was eutting turf, when he was scized by Claverhouse's dragoons, rapidly examined, convicted of nonconformity, and sentenced to death. It is said that even among the soldiers it was not easy to find an executioner, for the wife of the poor man was present. She led one little child by the hand; it was casy to see that she was about to give birth to another ; and even those wild and hard-hearted men, who nicknamed one another Beelzebab and Apollyon, shrank from the great wickedness of butchering her husband before her face. The prisoner, meanwhile, raised above himself by the near prospect of eternity, prayed lond and fervently as one inspired, till Claverhonse, in a fury, shot him dead. It was reported loy credible witnesses that the widow eried out in her agony, "Well, sir, well; the day of reckoning will come ;" and that the murderer replied, "To man I can answer for what 1 have doae ; and as for God, I will take Ilim into mine own ham!!"Macaulay's Evg., ch. 4, p. 464.
4142. PERSECUTION, shameful. Scotlund. Margaret Maclachhan and Margaret Wilson, the former an aged widow, the litter a maiden of eighteen, sulfered death for their religion in Wigtonshire. They were offered their lives if they would consent to abjure the cause of the insurgent Covamaters, and to attend the Episcopal worship. Thacy refused, and they were sentenced to be drowned. They were carried to a spot which the Solway overtlows twice a day, and fastened to stakes fixed in the sand, hetween high and low water mark. The elder sufferer

Was placed near to the advameing thood, fa the hope that her last agonies might terify the young ar into sulmission. The sighat was drembint: but the contruge of the survivor was sustained by an enthasiasm as lofty as any that is recorded in maty yrology. Sla saw the sea draw hearer and marer, bat gave no sign of aharm. She prayed and sang verses of premas thll the waves chol.ad har voice. When she had hasted the bitlemess of death, she was, ly a cracl merey, unbomed and restored to life. When she came to herselt. pitying fire uds and acighbors implored her to yidel. "Dear Margatet, only say (iod save the king !" The poor airl, true to her stern theoloHy, grasped out." Nlay Gorl save him, if" it be God's will !" lier friends crowded round the presibling oflecer. "She has suid it ; indeed, sir. she has said it." " Will slie take the nhjuration ?" he demanded. "Never!" she exthimed. "I am Christ's; let me go !" And the waters closed over her for the last time.-Nacaulay's Eng., ch. $4, \mathrm{p} .46 \%$.
1143. PERSECUTION from Superstition. $P^{\prime} t$ guts. If the empire hat been attlicted by any receat calamity, by a pharue, a famine, or an unsuccessfinl war-if the Thiber had, or if the Nile had not, risea beyond its banks-if the earth had shaken, or if the temperate order of the seasons had heen intermpted, the superstitions Pitgans were convinced that the crimes and the impiety of the Christians, who were spared by the excessive lenity of the government, had at length provoked the divine justice. It was not mongr a licentious and exasperated populace that the formu of legal proceedings could be observed ; it was not in mamphitheatre staned with the blood of wild beasts und gladiators that the voice of compassion could be heard. The impatient clamors of the multitude denounced the Christians as the enemies of gods and men, doomed them to the severest tortures, and venturing to acense by name some of the most distinguished of the new sectaries, required with irresistible velumence that they should be instantly apprehended and east to the dions.-Gil mos's Rome. ch. 16, p. 28.
414. PERSECUTION, Terrible. Loui* XII: (y, fainst Huguenots. [In old age he sought $t$, make] an atonement for the voluptuous profligatry of his life. Property was exposed to phander; religious books were burned ; children torn from their parents ; faithfil ministers, who would not abnadon their floeks, broken on the whed. Men were dragied to the ultars, to be tortured into a denial of the faith of their fathers : and a relapse was pmished with extreme rigor. The approach of death removes the fear of persecution ; bigotry invented a new terror ; the bodies of those who died rejecting the sacraments were thrown out to wolves mad dogs. The menn-spirited, who changed their religion, were endowed by law with the entire property of tiecir family. The dying father was made to choose bet ween wrouging his conseience by apostasy and leggaring hifs offspring by fidelity. All children were ordered to be taken away from Protestant parents. It became a study. . to intliet all the pain the human body could codure and not die. . . . Ten thousand perished. . . . Nalf a million of its best eitizens [were driven] into exile. [See No. 4126.] -Banchort's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 13.
4145. - - Vitulwis. The Vandois were wretehedly poor, and had been incersmatly the objects of aggression and persereation. In Jamary, 185is, a sudden determiantion was tak. en by the 'luringovernment to make them 'oneform to the catholle religion by foree. The whole of the inhabitants of three valleys were ordered to puit the comery within three duys, moder pain of denth mad ontisention of goods, maless they would become, or undirtake to hecome, Catholie. 'They sent their humble remonstanes to the court of Turin against thivediat. The remonstraneres were disergarded, and military exerenton way ordered. On April 1\%, 165\%, the soldiers, recruits from all countries-the Irish are sperdaly mentioned-ware let loose upon the umarmed population. Marder and rape and barning ure the ordinary hacidents of miliary exerintions. These were not enongh to satisfy the ferocity of the Catholic soldiery, who revelled for many days in the inflletion of all that brutal lust or savare eruclty con suggest to men. [See No. 4134.]-Mi.ton's Pattinon, ci. 11.
4146. PERSEVERANCE, Admirable. Colmmbus. Let those who are disposed to fuint under diblenlties, in the prosecution of my great and worthy madertaking, remember that cighteen yeurs chapsed after the time that Columbis conceived his enterprise before he was embled to carry it into effect ; that the greater part of that time was passed in almost hopeless solicitation, amid poverty, neglect, and tannting ridicule; that the prime of his life land wasted awny in the struggle, and that when his perseverance was flnally crowned with success, he was about in his fifty-sixth year. His example shoukl encourage the enterprising never to despuir.-Invina's Columilus, Book 2 , ch. 6.
1147. PERSEVERANCE Continued. Abruham Lincoln. Being asked by an "anxious visitor" what he would do . . . provided the rebellion was not subilued after three or four years of effort, . . . "Oh," stid the President, "there is no altermative but to kiep 'pegging aray!'"Raymond's Lancolan, p. wee.
4148. PERSEVERANCE, Earnest. Battle. [During the battle between the tlects of William III. and Louis XIV., in 1692,] Carter, rear-admiral of the Blae, broke the French line at the onset, was mortally wounded, find dying, exclaimed, "Fight the ship as long as she canswim!" The vietory was complete, the French tlying in every direction. [The French were attempting an invasion of England.]-Kniour's Exa., vol. 5, ch. 10, p. 149.
4149. PERSEVERANCE vs. Force. Irresistible. [Sertorius' army being defeated by the barbarians, he endenvored to] ronse them up out of their despondence. For which purpose, a few diys after, he nssembled all his forces, and produced two horses before them ; the one old and feeble, the other large ind strong. nud remarkible beside for a fine flowing tail. By the poor weak horse stood a rohust, able-bodied man, and by the strong horse stood a little man of a very contemptible appearance. Upon a signal given, the strong mian began to pull and drag about the weak horse by the tail, as if he would pull it off ; and the little man to pluck off the hairs of the great horse's tail, one by one. The former tugged and toiled a long time to the great diversion of the spertators, and at hat was fored to give inf the buint; the latter, without any dillantly, soon stripped the grent horse's tail of all its lair. Thenstertorlas rose up, mud suld: "Yousere, my priends nad fellow-soldiers, how much gremur ure the affects of persevermere than those of forere, mad that there are many things invinethle in their collertive capacity mud in a state of mion which maty gradually be overeomo, when they are once sipmated. In short, persevermer is irresistible. By this memns time nthecks and destroys the strongest things upon emth. Time, I say, who is the best friend mad ally to these that have the diseremment to ase it properly, and watch the opportmities it presents, nad the worst cmemy to those who will be rushing into action when it does not call them." By such symbols ns these Sentorins npplied to the senses of the burburimes, mad instruched them to wait for proper jumetares

4150. PERSEVERANCE, Obstinate. C'rusaders. The enthusiasm of the tirst erusate is a matural and simple event, while hope wats fresh, danger untried, and enterprise congendal to the spirit of the times. But the obstimate persevermace of Enrope may indeed excite our pity und mbmirntion ; that no instruetion shonhl have been drawn from constant and indverse experience; that the same confidence should have repentedly grown from the same fuilures; that six succeding generations should have rushed headlong down the precipice that was open before them; mid that men of every condition should huve staked their public and private fortunes on the desperate adventure of possessing or recovering a tombstone two thousand miles from their country.-Ginhon's Rome, ch. 59, p. 12.
4151. Perseverance in Oratory. Benjamin Disrarli. There was some curiosity resperting his début as an orator. . . . The gentlemen of the Itouse of Commons expected that Disrueli would make a fool of himself ; mad he did not disappoint them. His first effort was a ludierous failurehis maiden speech," being received with " lond harsts of langhter." The newspapers said of him that he went up like a rocket and came down like a stick. Writhing under the shouts of langhter which had drowned so much of his studied cloguence, he exchamed, in almost a suvage voice, "I have hegrun several times muny things, and have often suceceded at last. I shall sit down now, but the time will come when you will hear me." -Smiles' Bhef Brograplitis, p. 234.
4152. PERSEVERANCE rewarded, John Fitch. He did persevere. We cannot begin to relate the obstacles he encountered. A considerable volume would scarcely atford the requisite space. Poor, ragged, and forlorn, jeered at, pitied us a madminn, discouraged by the great, refused by the rich, he and his few friends kept on, unit, in 1790, they had a steambont ruming on the Delaware, which was the first steamboat ever construeted that answered the purpose of one. It ran, with the tide, eight miles an hour, and six miles against it.-Cyclopreda of Biog., p. 151.
4153. PERSEVERANCE, Scotch. Samuel Johnson. IIe mentionel a circumstance as characteristic of the Scotch. "One of that nation," said he, "who had been a candidate, against whom I had voted, came up to me with a civil stlutation. Now, sir, this is their way. An Englishman would have stomached it, and heen sulky, and never have tuken further notice of you; but a Scotchman, sir, though you vote ninetea thmes ugninst him, will accost you with equal complatsnuce after ench the, mat the twentieth thme, sir, he will get your vote."-Boswelais Jounson, 11. 483.
1151. PERsEverance, Suocess by. Chutles Goodycar. [The inventor of valemized rubber.] But Charles Goodyenr was a man who, having undertaken a thing, could not give it up. Ile struggled on for the yemrs-in debt, with in family, and expesed to the derision or repromehes af his frionds. Several thes he was in the debtors' prison. Ite sodl his elferts, he pawned his trinkets, he borrowed from his acequintunees, he reduced himself and his young family to the severest strats. When he comid no longer buy wood to melt his rubler with, his children used to goont into the tiedds and pick upsileks for the purpose. Alwaysupposing himself to be on the point of succeeding, he thought the quickest way to get his family out of their misery was to stick to India rubher.-Cyelobedia of lion., p. 218.
1155. PERSISTENCE, Undeviating. Columbus. Two boobies tlew on board the ships, hirds which, he observed, seldom thy twenty leagnes from hand. He somoded, therefore, with $n$ line of two hundred fathoms, but found no bottom. ISe supposed he might be passing between ishan's, lying to the north and south, but was unwilling to waste the preseat favoring breeze by going in search of them; besides, he had contidently nillimed that hand was to be found by keeping steadfastly to the west; his whole expedition had been founded on such a presumption; he shoald. therefore, risk all eredit and anthority with his people were he to appear to doubt and waver, and to go groping blinilly from point to point of the compass. He resolved, therefore, to keep one bold course always westwarl, until he should reach the const of Indin ; and afterward, if advisahle, to seek these islands on his return.-Invino's Columac's, Book 3, ch. 2 .

II56. PERSUASION, Eloquence in, Perieles. [Pericles gnined the surname Olympius. The comedies of the times] indicate that this title was given him chiefly on account of his cloguenee. For they tell us that in his haringues he thundered and lightened, and that his tongue was urmed with thunder. Thueydides, the son of Milesins, is said to have given a pleasant account of the force of his eloquence. Thucydides was a grent and respectable man, who for a long tue opposud the measures of Perieles; and when Archidamus, one of the kings of Lacedremon, asked him which was the best wrestler, Pericles or he, he answered, "When I throw him, he says he was never down, and he persuades the very spectutors to believe so."-Plutancu's Penicles.
4157. PEsTILENCE, Devastating. Eugland. The first and the greatest lasted from the 31st of May to the 29th of September, 1349 ; in this year we find charters and other documents, dated. as the year of the great pestilence. . . . It was cailed the Black Plague. . . . This disense originated m upper India and China, in 1346, and gradually spreading through Asia, in four years comprehended nearly all Europe. Boccaccio tells us in England the pestilence.. left scarcely a third part of the popmintion remaining, Thisis probnbly in exuggeration, - Knidut's Eno., vol. 1. chi. 30, 1. 460.
415w. PEstilence, Rapid. Rome. In a senson of excessive radns the Tiber swelled abowe its hanks, mad rushed with lresistible violence linto the valleys of the seven hills. A pestilential disense nrose from the staguntion of the del uge, mul so ruphid was the contaglon that fourscore persons expired ln mu hom fin the middst of a solemn processlon, which buphored the merey of heaven.-Ghuon's IRose, ch. 45, p. $41 \%$.
1150. PETITION denied. Anti-Slavery. In the light of the present day .. . It is hard for believe that during the Presidency of Mr. Vin Buren. . . the llonse of Representatives voted that "every petition, memorlat, resolution, proposition, or puper, fonching or relathig in any why or to my extent whatever to slacery or the abolition fleceof, shall on presentation, without muy further action thereon, be laid upon the table, without being debated, printed, or re-furred."-Blabie's Twenty Yeahe of Conchess, p. 24.
1160. PETITION, Immense. Chartists. [On the 10th of April, 1848, Mr. Fenrgus $0^{\prime}$ Commer presented to the Itonse of Commons the petition of the Chartists, which was sald to have recrived 5, \%06,000 signathres.]-Kniant's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 30, p. 5 की.
4161. PETITION, Right of. Eirly Abolitionists. These upostles of universal liberty hesieged C'ongress with memorials praying for such legislation as would curry out their designs.
Representatives from the slave-holding States. . . songht to deny them a henring. and deelared that the mere consideration of their propositions by Congress would not only justify, bit would inevitably precipitate a dissolution of the Union. Undaunted ly any form of opposition, the Abolitionists stubbornly maintuined their ground, and finally succeeded in creating a great popular exeitement ly simply insisting on the simple right of petition as inseparnble from free govermment and free citizenship. [John Quincy Adams was their champion for the right of petition.]Blaine's 'Twenty Yeais of Congress, p. 23.
4162. PETITION, Tender. For Strafford's Life. Men vote ummimonsly with their party, from fear of ench other, for mensures whieh, when tuken singly, they would abhor to think of. Man in a mass is no longer man-he becomes an element. To move this denf and crnel element of the House of Commons, Charles [II.] used every elfort to flatter the pride and tonch the feeling of these tribunes of the people. He wrote a most pathetic letter, bedewed with his tears, and sent it to the Parliament, to render it more irresistible, by the hand of a child, his son, the Prince of Wales, whose beanty, tender age, and innocence ought to have made refusal impossible from subjects petitioned by such a sup-pliant.-Lamartine's Chomwell, p. 14.
4163. PHILANTHROPY, Example of. John Howard. [He built neat cottuges, which he let to his tenants on conditions favorable to virtue and good order.] One was, that the tenant should go to chureh once every Sunday ; another, that he should never go to the ale house; another, that he should never gamble; ... children go to school: . . rent ahout $\boldsymbol{*} 10$ a year.
One of his nelghtors, too, ohserving what an ex. cellent effect a clem mui proper dwelling hus upon the mornls of a family, followed hils example, nud built a consilerable mumber of cottages; so that, in about ten reurs, the whole village was rehillt, und, from belag one of the mennest, dirtiest, mod most unhenithy places in the comnty, it becmue the prettlest, plemsuntest, and mont sulubrions village in that part of Eng-hand.-Cyelopreda of Bioni., p. 37.
1164. PHILANTHROPY, Experimental. John Ifirided. In one prison there were elgitt cells, sixteren steps below the surface of the earth, in size thirtwen feet by nine, whthout winlow or lamp, had ventilateid only by a funnel. Into therse dump, cold, ami noisome cells not "a ray of light ever penetrited, and "in them," stys Itoward, "poor creatures were contined, diny and night. for weeks, for months together." After only a few days conthement in one of them a man would cione ont yellow, emaciated, and amost out of his senses. IIoward was bever coutent merely to ascertain the existence of such dungeons; he went down into them himself, remained in them mo hour or more, conversed with their wretched inmates, and employed his [mensuring] rule, bis scales, and his thermometer to render his description exnet.-Cyeloredia of Biomi., p. 48.
4165. PHILANTHROPY, Practical, Jolin Hoorard. Howaril iegan by limproving the dwellings of his tenants. One after nnother he pulled down the nneient hovels, and huilt, in their stemi, neat and convenient cottages, containing never less than three rooms. To each cottage he attached a small garden in the rear for vegetables, and in front a little putch for flowers, surrounding the whole with a pretty picket fence. As the ground was low and marshy, he had it drained by a system of ditehes, which almost banished from the place the agnes and the fevers to which the inhabitants had before been subject. When he had completed one cottage, he let it to the man in the village who bore the best character for sobriety and industry, and he let it at the same rent that was paid for the wretched hits.- Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 36 .
4166. PHILOSOPHY, Advantage of. Fortitude. When a certnin stranger derided Dionysins at Corinth, in a very rude and scornful mamer, for having, in the meridian of his power, taken pleasure in the discourse of philosophers, and at last asked him what he had rot by the wisdom of Plato, "Do yon think." said he, " that we have renped no advantage from Plato, when we bear in this manner such a change of fortune ?"-Plutahcirs Timoleon.

416\%. PHILOSOPHY, Speculative. Impracticable. Speculative philosophers have seldom been good legislators; the history of great men affords not one example of the two characters combined. The Republic of Plato is still an ideal system of beantiful puerilities to statesmen: the Polities of Aristotle have seldom had a legishative copyist ; the Utopin of Sir Thomas More is still a Utopia, the source of proverbial expression to our language, but of no laws to our commonwealths; the new Atlantis of Bacon is yet a dream, notwithstanding its utilitarian suggestlons: Locke's fundmmental Constitutlous of Carolima were found impracticable ; and Rous. senu's Contra Social ranks only as nu exmmple of politicnl rhetoric.-Stevens' Metiodism, vol. 2, p. 303.

116w. PHYsician, Empirical. Surcemful. Louis XV. was. . . glven over hy the physichans, mal recelvel the last sucruments; but it violent remedy prescribell hy min emplife arrested the clisense, nul in the course of a few days he was pronouncedont of chuger.-ATvDenter Filance, ch. 23, 12.
4169. PHYSICIAN, Mythological. .Exrulipi"ra. He wis the goid of meliclue and the patron of the medlenl profession. The most common story makes him the son of Apollo. He went about lienling disenses mind ralsing the demd to life. Plato, gool of ILades, took ularm ut the lat. ter exploit, nad complained to Zans thut Wirulaphus was Invadhg his hallwick. IIrarkmowledgerd the justice of the complaint, and struck Esconhpius dend with in thash of lightuing. The serpent was his fivorite type.

The priests of the temple were the only regular prac(ithoners of mutluity, but in later times the priests took pupils and initiated them linto the mysteries of medicine, and these were regarded as regulnrly trmined physicians.-An. Cyetore da, " Esculapics."
4170. PHYSICIANS, Conmingling. Derdh of Charles II. All the medical men of note in London were summoned. So high did political animositfes run, that the presence of some Whig physicinns was regarded asan extroordinary circumstance. One Romm Catholic, whose skill was then widely renowned, Doetor Thomas Short, was in nttendance. Several of the preseriptions have been preserved. One of them is signed by fourteen doctors. The putiont wasbled largely. Itot iron was appliod to his hemd. A loathisome volatile salt, extructed from humm skulls, was foreed monto his month. He recovered his senses: but he was evidently in a situation of extreme danger.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 4, p. 402.
1171. PHYSICIANS, Disagreement of. Death of Charles II. The fourteen doctors who deliberated on the king's case contradicted ench other and themselves. Some of them thought that his fit was epileptic, and that he should be suffered to have his doze out. The majority pronounced him apoplectic, and tortured him during some hours like an Indian at a stake. Then it was determined to call his complaint a fever, and to administer doses of bark. One physician, however, protested against this course, and assured the queen that his brethren would kill the king among them. Nothing better than dissension and vacillation could be expected from such a multitude of advisers. - Macallay's Eng., ch. 4, p. 410.
4172. PHYSIQUE, Proof by. Representatives In 1695 the French court sent Harlay, the president of the Parliament of Paris, to sound the Dutch as to the possibility of a peace. Pale and very thin was the envoy. "Are you a sample," said the rongli republicans, "of the wreteled condition of France?" "Let me send for my wife," replied the clever lawyer, " and she will give you a notion of our thriving state." Knigitt's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 12.
 fummena ami s'emingly inexhmasibla lorrents potrime down #poll (bumantimplogava, an wo

 Was, hr lomad it impossible foprevernt continnal

 Har malortaking gave thema just rhan to bue maintadurl and supported pratuitously by mll brhavel with insulfermble insoleneremel folly; and mattors rame at lengils io that extromity, that it whan artomsly proposed by these new ('ritsuders to begin oprernifonsugaitint the latidels by the dastruction of Constantinople, the empitil Ilistr., Book It, ch. 9. p. 1 is8.
117. PIETY, Manly. (funterun NIT. Euroje Itrst lemrmed l'rom him the hanortinece ol Infint try. All Girmmay was astonislbed at the strict diveipline which, it the flrme, so rumbitnbly distiagnished the swedish army within their terrilories; all disorders wore pinishad with the utmost sevority, partienlarly impsely, theft, gambing, und dhelling. The Swerlísh urticles of war 'ufored frugntity. In the emmp, the king's trat not excrpterl, nether silver nor gold whi to be seen. The general's eye lookind as vigilantly to the morals nes to the matial lmavery of his wodiers; evory regiment was ordered lo form roumd its chaplain for morning und evening prayers. In ull these points the lawgiver was alan un example, $A$ simesre and urilent pirty exalted his courage. Eipuntly free from the conse intidehty which leaves the passions of the burbarian withont control, ind from the grovelling superstition of Ferclimund, who humbled himself to the dust before the Supreme Being while be lunghtily trampled on his fellow-(reature, in the lueight of his sutucess he was ever $n$ man und 1 Christian; in the lieight of bis devotion, a 4175. PIETY, Ostentations. Saluclin the Gideme V'izír. In faill mul prachice he was a rigid Mussulman; he ever deplored llat the defence of religion hud not allowed linm to necomplish tho pilgrimage of Necea ; but at the slated hours, five times each day, the sultan devoutly prayed with his brethren; the involmantar omission of fasting was sermpulously repaid: and his perusal of the Koran, on horseback between the approathing armies, may be quoted as a proof, how. ever ostentations, of picty und conrnge.-Gismon's RONE, ch. 59, J. :3.

II76. PIETY, Practical. Persiun Religion. Suct is the system of cosmogrony contained in these books of the Kendavesta, npon which the whole religion of the ancient Prersi was fomnded. The pracifical part of this religion consisted. tirst, in acknowledging and ndoring Ormosd, the principle of all rood, by a striet observance of purity in lhought, words, and netions; seeondly, in showing a proportiomal aletestation of Alirinan, lis producions, and his works. The most neceptable service to Ormusd was obscrv. ing the precepts of the Zendavesin, rending that work, nud repenting its liturgies. The chief monong tis forms of prayer are indiressed not directly to Ormusd, but through the medium of his grontent workn, the stan, the inoron, mat stars. - Trivicits llani., Book I, fl. 11, 1. 121.
1177. PIETY, Private, ('mmirill's. Nir John which we slomkl protably rassign to the slege of lold him whon atoy by $n$ very old womm, who had formerly nttended his mother lin the cupncity of midwife, "When ('romwell rume *ho. "I was theri but a young girl. Javing luard murli talk about the mun, I looked at him with wonder. Bring ordererd to take a pan of comls and nir his led, I eomble mot, durlige the "proution, forlsur perping ovar my shonder sev--ral bimes to observe this extruorilimary person, Who was senterl nt tho fin side of the rown untying his garters. Inving nirad the bed, I went ont, mad shatting the door after me, stopped mad perpod lirongh the keyhole, when I niw him rise from his seat, udvance to the lond, and finll on his knees, in whith nttitude I left him for nome timo. Whan returning ugadn, 1 foumal him still ut prayor ; Hnd this was his custom every night so lome ne lie stayed nt our bouse; from whicls I comednded lio must be a good mani. llow muny of us writers ind readers wombl stmal the leat of the keylole ?'-llood's C'hom whil, (h. 1, 1. D4.

A178. PIETY for Proft. Prraccutim. [In 1189, when the Jews in York harl been murtered, the bomis which they land deposited wible the oflleers of the enthedrat were obtained by their murderers mal hormed in the mave of the charch.] One grent objeet of the perseculion was necomplisberd. A lomd of debt was wiped off the es. tates of many a servant of the cross by the de struction of his victims, and with them the evi. dance of his own obligntions was destroyed.KNiait's ENo., vol. 1, eh. 21, 1. 306.
1179. PIETY in Publio Llfe. Willian Cecil. [Willinm C'cil, Lord lBurleigh, the fnithful eomusellor of Elizabeth for forty years, died in 1508 . ITe was the first of a generation of professioml statesmen. Je had ndeep nad nbiding sense of responsibility, Whalsinghm, secing him come in from prayers, wished he were us good a servant of Goil ns the lord trensurer. . . . The reply of burleigh is worthy to be hede in remembrance: "I hold it mect for us to ask Gol's grace to keep us somad nt heart who have so much in our power ; und to direret us to the welldoing of nll the people, whom it is casy for us to injure and ruin." -KNigur's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 18. p. 278.
4180. PIETY by Reaction. Stimuel Jolmsom. Boswesta: "They [women] are not more afraid of dealh than men are." Jonnson : "Becauso they are less wickeal." I)r. Avams: "They aro more pions." Jomnson: "No, hang 'em, they we not more pions. A wicked fellow is tho most pions when he takes to it. Ile'll heat you all at piety."-Bonw ehain Jomnson, p. 52L.

A181. PIETY, Reward of. Mohammedan. [The Mohammedan Kihalif] Nli had the bravery of Omar and the picty of Maliomet ; he wrote verses und maxims thint remain in Mussulman philosophy, if not quite as revelations, at least as inspirntions of Islam. Many of them rival the wistom nnd asecticism of the Cliristinns.

He oftern uttereal this in his goonl fortinne and in his reveres: " \|lo whol wonlel ter rlell whlout tremsure, powerfal whloult rimpler, " mervint
 af this world mud moke himself the servant of deal; for will thal thowe threer things In |Ihin." -

 It aremed as if, for the tivet thome the sulyaed broke 1 gom her mind lin its rent grumeleme, and

 Thar king lookerl eoblly on the alfalr, anil the roval flaneres wore abisolately alralued by the wirr. Nomse time mave be given tos replentsh therin. Jow comblatae draw on min exhatisted tremsury for 10 indosiore lo whled the king was whersel St. Angel watelod this stispense with trembling anxioty. 'The inext moment remssured him. With an enthosinsm worthy of herwelf take the enterprise for my own erown of tastile. and will pledge my jewols tos raise the noressary funds." This wis the promelest moment in the life of Isnledn; it stamped her remown forever as the patroness of the dincovery of the New Werld.-Isvina's Columbies, Book 2, ill. 6.

A1MAR. PIETY, Bincere. C'rommell. [Ellot Warburton. ' "And," snys that llvely nul prejudiced coulal have heren opemed, what womlal they lawe revealed ?" Well, they all have beren diseovereal, all have berol opened ; and wesmppose never. in the history of man, has there leeren presented surd u trunspirent wholeness. It is ome mirror of simple mobleness: every little noto, and revary fumily ephatle, and every letter to the state ofli-cers-all revenl the same min. "A single eyr, und n whole boly full of light.". . We have pictures given to us of his houscholil. Gpon the occasion of the signing of the treaty of ponce with Iollami, the anbassador gives an accoant of his reception nt the Protector's Comrt. IIow calm und quiet and dignitied theneronnt of that reception: Mnsle inaleed, was playing while they were dining, but after that the Protector gave out a hymn; und as he hamled the book to the umbusmalor, lae told him "that was the hest paper that had pussed betworn them as yot." Dignified and beantiful is the aroome of the gentle behavior of the Proteretor to the wife amd danghter of the mmbaseater. Then, after a watk on the banks of a jver for half an boome, the prayers in the fnmily: and so the cevening clowal-very much, inderi, surll a simple evening as wo and our friemds might spend to-gether.-Iloon's C'romwer.t, ch. 15. 1. 197.

Als. PIETY, Bupremacy of. Nilural Affectioms. [When Rome was takren liy the Gunls the vostal virgins attempted to escape.] They took, however, with them the choicest and most sacred things they had, and thed with them along the sille of the river, where Lueins Allinus, $n$ plobrian, among others that were making their escapo, was carrying his wife and children and some of his most necessary movables in a wagon. But when he saw the vestals in a leepless and weary comdition, carrying in their arms the snered syimbols of the gods, he immedintely took out his family and goods, and put the virkine fil the wagon, that they might make thelp of Alhimas. mal the vernerntion lie exprosed for

Ifあ. PIRACY, Ancient. Finglinh. Jake the only 'repp contionaly nomg from harbar ter lar. bor in romigh watiler: hint in sumotli water lheir swifthess tietod them ahnirably for the pirary by whit the mon of the the tribeswerealremdy making themselvers iremeded. Its that buttom cmabled them formern the verand an any formed the liontumen lino war-Inal. F'rom the thest the daring ot the linglisli race broke ont in the serrerey and sablemmess of the pirates' swoop, in the thereromess of thedre onsel, ill the emrelese gice with whilel they relzed chther nword or ant. "Foes ure they", samg a lloman puet af the time, " Herce beyomd other foes mal rimnlag us they are theree: the sen is their sehone of war and the storm their friomel they are sen-wolves that. prey oti lhe pillage of the worlal:". 'flar priacy of our futhers hal thas hrought them to the wheres of a land whielt, dear as it is now to binglashom, lum mot as yed bern troilden by

II*6. PIRATES, Connivance with. Ciorerument. The bucennerrs, conconraged by the sionnte's rombivance, wore more daring than ever. 'They hat berome n sern commmatity leal by highbern meventurers, who maintnineil out of their phamer ashow of wild magnitleence. 'The oars of the galleys of their commanders were plated with sifver; their cubins were homg with gorphy their trinmplas. Thay hal $n$ redigion a Wheir wwin, un Oriental medley called the Mysteries of Mithras. They hud captured nome jiblaged four humdrod considernhle towns, and had sjoiled the temple of the Grecian gods. They had maintnined nud extended their depots, where they disposed of their prisomers to the shavedenlers. Roman citizens who combl not ransom themselves, and could not conveniently be sold, were informed that they could go where they phensed; they were led to a phank projecting owar some vessel's side, nud were hidden depmetinto the sen. - Fluouder's C'sssin, ch. 10.
1187. PIRATES, Period of. Rommms. ('rate wns completely in their lmads also, uml they laml secret fricuds along the entire Merliterraneman shores. They grew at last into a thousamd sail, divided into sepumbobs mader sejarate commanders. They ware admirably amed. They roved over the watersat their plasime, attarkinir islands or commercial ports, phambring templess and warchouses, arresting every trationg vessel they eneonntered, till it last no Romman eomld go abroad on business save daring the winter storms, when the sea was comparatively elear. They thanted their snils in front of Ostia itself; they landed in their boats at the vilhas on the Italian const, carrying off lords and ladies, and bolding them to ransom. They leviod blackinail at their plensure. The wretelied provincials had paid their taxes to Rome in exchange for promiscd defence, and uo defence was provided. The revenue which onght to have been spent on the protection of the empire a few patricians wero dividhag momog themselvers．The pratem had cven marts In different shands，where their prisulurs were sold to the shavedenders：und for Ifferon yars mathing was done or even ntempted to put an end to wo propostaromes in emormity． ＇Therenw with which these lanerneers of the old word ware aventhally suppressed proved cons－ clasively that they existed hy comilvinee．It was diseovered at hast that harge sume land heero sellt regularly from（＇rete to some of＇the most disthgushord members of the aristocracy．－

Ilman．PITY reversed．fier the Injurer，The Catholie jampror\} Sigismond has acipulred the homore of a saint mad marlyr；bat the lands of the royal saint were stanined with the hoot of his buascout son，whom he lnhmmany sneritherd to the pride and resemtment of astepmother．Ite soom devovered his ertor，and lewalled the ir－ reparable loses．While sigismond embruend the： corpure of the imfortimate yonth，he recelved a severe almonition from one of his nttendants： $"$ It is mot hissiduation，o king ！It is thine whild desirves pity und lamentution．＂－（immon＇s Rome：ch． 38, p． 580.

IIMO．PLAGIARIBM a Felong．Ihoyarurth［Hay－ ward dediented his Lite of la miny IV．to the Barl of Exsex，wha was suspected of rebellion．Eliza－ buth askerl baeon whether he did not nee trenson in the book．Ite replleol that hej saw no trea－ som，hat very mach folony，for every second senterne was stolen from＇haeltus．－Kniant＇s Exi．．vol．3，ch．18，p． 286 ．

Indo．PLAGUE，Denolating．Widexpreat．It was ：lac inevituble eonserpuence of rupine und oppreston，which extirpated the produce of the present，und the hope of future hurveste．Fum－ ane is almost alwas followed by ephemien dis－ eases，the effect of sematy und anwholesmane foom．Other canses must，lowever，lave contrib－ uted to the furlous plague，which，from the yenr 2ind to the year 20.5 ，raged without intermption in every province，every city，nad nimost every family of the Roman Empire．During some time five thonsand persons dled daily in laome： and many towns that had escuped the hands of the barbininns were entirely depopulated．－Gm－ mon＇s Rome，ch．10，p． 82 ZO ．

1191．Plague，Destruotiva．Rome．Such was the universal eorruption of an air，that the pes－ tilenee which burst forth in ：！，fifteenth yenr of Jnstinian was not checkeri rallevinted by my difference of the selasons．in time，its first mat lignity was abated mud dispersed；the disense ahermately languished mad revived；bit it was not till the cad of a culamitons period of fifty－ two years that mankind recovered their health， or the uir resmed its pure ：ad salubrions qual－ ity．No facts have been preserved to sustain an accommt，or even a conjeeture，of the numbers that perished in this extruordimary mortality．I only thad that during three months five，and at length ten，thousmad persons died each day at Constantinople ；that many cities of the Enst were left vacant，and that in several districts of Italy the harvest and the vintage withered on the ground．The triple scourge of war，pesti－ lence，and famine afflicted the subjects of Jus－ tlnian ；and his reign is disgraced by a visible de－ crease of the human species，which has never theoll repaired in somo of tho falrest conatrien of the glole．－（Himun＇s Rome，eh．4i，p．207．
ABDE．PLEASURE in Bonevolenoe，John Hono． ared．All uneridote will serve to show how heartily his wife entered hito his phans．At tho close of a year，when he land male up his ane： counts，he fomed that ho had a baluner on hand， mal，us lar mate it a rule tosperid all hls ine ome， the proposed to his wife that they shesuld employ this sim lin viatthing lamdom．＂Whint＂pretty cottuge it would bulld！＂wild shes ；mad it cot－ tuge was buile with it necordingly．－Cycbonemana of Broci，pidy． －119if．PLEASURE before Bualness．ILenry 1＂Ill．wus nombing minded to truvil in the busy uffalrs of his renim．［Thealmoner，Thomas Wol－ sele $y$ ，wandd disburden the kligg of su weighty nclurge and tronblesome bisiness，putling the king la comfort that he shall wot weri to spure miny tinne of his plemsure for ming hasiness that as he，belog there and having the khag＇s anthor－ Ity und commumdment，dantited not to see all things antillelently furmished und perfected．－ Kinaur＇s ENa，vol．：ch．16，p． 265.

IIGA．PLEABURE，Dumorslising．Romane． The people of Rome，viewing，whith a secret plansure，the hamillition of the aristocraey，de－ mumbed only hrend and pmblle shows，amd were supplied with beoth ly the thernh land of Au－ gustus．The rich mil polle Itallans，who had almost universmally embraced the philosophy of Epleurns，enjoyed the present hessings of ense nud trmunillity，mud suffered not the plens－ ing dromm to lie interrupted by the memory of their old timmatuons freedom．－Gibhon＇s Rome， ch．3，p． 74.

4i95．PLeasure，Devotion to．Tirentines． Pyrrhis brouglit to the ald of the Tarentines ［ugninst the lRomans］an army of 30,000 men． He wos astonished that a war，in which they were a prluciput purty，dld not，in the least，inter－ rupt the amusements of that frivolous und disso－ lute people．They gave him some magalticent festivals，und then purposed to lenve him to fight，while they contlaned their entertuinments． This conduct，justly exciting both contempt nud indignation，Pyrrins ordered the thentres to be shut up，closed the puble nssemblies，where the Taruntines dilly eonsumed the time in frivolous talk，and mastering the eitizens，enjoined a con－ timued and rigorons exereise to every man who was capmhle of bearing urins．So severely felt was this duty，that it is suid a large number of the inhabitants netunlly fled from their comtry ruther thon suffer ndeprivation of their usual pleasires．－Tytler＇s IIıst．，Book 3，eh．7， p． 355.
4106．－－Alexander．Arrived at Eebatnna，Alexamier celelonted his entry into the ancient eapital of Media with magnifleent grmes and festivals，in which every rethement of luxury was contrived that could flatter the senses or feed the voluptuous passions．Whole days and nights were consumed in riot and debnuchery， in which the meanest soldier vied with his prince in the most unrestruined indulgence．－Tyther＇s Hist．，Book 2，ch．4，p． 193.

4197．PLEABURE，Extravaganoe in．Hunt ing．［Malek，the distinguished Turkish general，］ both in peaces and in war wav in atton and in the fletil lluntlag was the plenuare, mad even tha paskion, of the siltan, heif his trata surre of a 'Tarkind chase, for rich piente of gatme he bestowed a phere of gold on the pror, at whight Homement, at the expernse of the peophe for the cost matmisphof of the ammerment of kings, Ghumen Rone, ch. E, i. Del.

AIDW. PLEAsORE, Harmless. Simul dohnson. "Is het hurmises motestire very tume ?" Jomsan: "Nay, nir; lammens plensure is the lighasest prilse. Plasiors is a worl of dibbions fimport; phatiore is in gromeral dimugrons, and permelons to virtue: to be able lherefore to furwish pleasure that is lurmbes, phasme pure and mabloyde is as great a fower as man coll pose менs." "Thin was, perlaty, us ingentonsa difence tes comild be mule: still, however, I was not satisfled.-Bonwelaín Jounsos, D. 411.
A100. PLEASURE, Interruption of. Tifleyratud. [dfter the exile of Napoleon l. haratlied moverejgis were in comgrens it Vientin, with нeven handred ambasmiors. They were relieved in their tolls by feasthig and danchig.] Talleyrand was . . . making histollet for a ball.
Ills humin were wet with perfumery ; . . . two barbers were curling his hair. His niece . .
ran into the room with n note, . . marked secret and In haste. Taileyrand, looking up from the midist of his eurling irons, powders, and perfumes, reguested his niece to opern and read the mote. Shedidso, mat, turning pate, he exclahmed, "Heavens! Bomaparte has left Eilm! What is to become of my hall this evening ?"
"If $n$ thanderbolt," snys Allison, "had fallen in the midist of the brillimee assembledi in the imperial hall-room at Vlenma, It conld not have excited greater consternation than this simple an-nouncement."-Anurit's Nabobeon B., vol. 2, ch. 20 .
4200. PLEAsURE, Passion for. Athenians. In addition to these symptoms of chedine, luxury was extending her hinefal inthence, in enervating and corrupting the putriotic spirit. A taste for the productions of the the arts and a passionate pursuit of plensure had, in the Athenimn republic particuharly, entirely supplanted heroie virtue. Pocts, musicimes, seuptors, eomedims, were now the only great men of Attica. While the bewltching dramas of Sophocles and Euripides charmend the ears, and the semptures of Phidias, of (tyron, and Praxiteles faselanted the eyes of the retined and voluptuous Athenians, millitary glory was forgotten; and the defence of the state, no longer the care of its citizens, was rommitted to mercenaries, who filled both its tleets and its armies. -Tytlem's Mist., Book 2, ch. 3, p. 168.
4201. PLEASURE, Poriloas. Frederick $I$. [The elector pulatine of Bolemin.] Instend of devoting himself with untiring energies to the affairs of his kinglom, Frederick ewasted his time in amusements; instead of fllling his treasury hy a wise cconomy, he squandered his revenues by a needless theatrical pomp and a misplaced munificence. With a light-minded carelessness, he did but gaze at himself in his new dignity, and in the fll-timed desire to enjoy his crown, ho forgot the more pressing duty of seruring it on him hemi, -Thatry Yeane Wian.肖 18.

A204. PLEABURE, Parault of. Épicurus. The phitumphy, tow of the pagan world was bit ill calculated to supply the phase of relighon in the rethement uf morals. 'The deretrines of bperime, whith were highly prevalent ut the thine of the bith of chrini, liy reprementing stralat on the imingenence of thae posmions, and limitheg all lapppinese to the enjoymenter of the man mature ton rank litllo кuperior to that of the brites,-Tveten's Whe., Book 5, ch. 4 II. 2.
f40:3, PLEABURE in Binning. Somuel, John. son (waill to Miss Adhums: "Yout put we in mind of Br. Barrowhy, the pliysielim, whe was very fond of swlaces itesla. (b... day when he was enthg, it he naid, ' I wh' I "us a dow.' 'Why so e' salid somolocly ; '.... lo ws are wot allowed to cat your faverite meat.' 'Beranse,' suld he, I shembl then have the gist of cating it, with the plasure of siming.' "-Bownelai's Jollison, p. 5en dSDO. PLEASURE, Vitiatod by, Indronicus, [A Greek prince.] Andromidns the younger was lonehed with remorse, or fultinud with hmenness, or deceivel by negothation; plensure rather than power was his dim; und the lierone of manintaln$\operatorname{lng}$ a thonsund homads, a thousand hawks, and athousund hantsmen was wulbicieat to sully his fane und disarm his moblitin.-Gmon's Rose, ch. 63, p. 180.
4205. PLEABURE, Watering place. Euglinad. The passion for drinking mineral watersand for bathling in medicimal springs sent the fashiomable worid, in the beginning of the cighteenth ecutury, to a round of ldeness and dissjuation, of carilplaying und dancing, at the crowided eotages of Tunbridge Wells and the thshing hovels of Scar. borough.-Kniant's Ena., vol. 5, ch. 1, p. 10.
4206. PLEASURE, Wearisome. Chatles $I I$. [Churlos II. becoune celebratel for his prodigality and devotion to mere pleasare.] ]surnet writes: . . The king, who wis often weary of time, nud did not know how to get round the day, liked the going to, the llomse [of Parla. ment] as a pleasant divarsion ; so he went con-stantly.-KNiont's Eno., vol. 4, ch. 17, p. 305.
4207. PLEASURES condemned, Prritans. It was a sin to hang garhumes on a May-pole, to drink a friend's health, to lly a hawk, 'o hint a stag, to play at chess, to wenr love-locks, to put stareh into a ruff, to touch the virgimats, to read the Fairy Queen. Rules such as these-rules which would have appeared insupportuble to the free and joyous spirit of Lather, and contemptible to the serene and philosophicol intellect of Zwingli, threw over all life more tham a monastic gloom.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 76.
4208. PLEAsUREs, Expensivo. Metropolital. [In Rome and Constantinople, the two cupitals of the Roman Empire] the annual games of the theatre, the circus, and the amphitheatre cost $£ 4000$ of gold, (about) $£ 160,000$ sterling ; and if so heavy an expenso surpassed the faculties or the inclination of the magistrates themselves, the sum was supplied from the Imperial treasury.Gibbon's Rome, ch. 17, p. 112.
4200. PLEASURES of Sense. Vohimmerdan. Mahomet used often tosuy : "The things n this world that are most agreable to my heart and sanses are children, women, mind perfumes; bat I have mever tasted romplete lappiness but in 4210. $\qquad$ ——. Mahomet. Perfumes und women were the two sensmal enjoyments which his nature recfuired, und his religion did not forbid; and Mahomet allhrmed that the fervor of his devotion was inerased lyy these innocent pleasures. The lant of the rlimate inthmes the bloos of the Arabs, and their libidinous complexion has been noticed by the writers of anticfnity. Their incontinence was ragulated by the eivil and religions laws of the Koran ; their incestuons allin ees were hamed; the bomblless license of polygany was redaced to four legitimate wives or eonculoines; their rights both of bed and dowry were equitably determined; the freedom of divorce was discouraged ; adultery was condemmed as a enpital offence; and formication, in either sex, was punished with a hundred stripes. Such were the calm and rational precepts of the legislator ; but in his private conduet Wahomet induged the appetites of a man, and abused the clains of a prophet. A special revelation dispensed him from the laws which he had imposed on his mation; the female sex, without reserve, was abandonc ito his desires; and this singular prerogative exeited the envy rather than the seandal, the venemtion rather than the cavy, of the devout Mussulmans. -Gibmon's Mamomer, j. 5t.

4211. PLEASURES, Wasteful. Poet Shelley. Peacock [his first friend] also notices his habit of floating paper boats, and gives an minusing deseription of the boredom suffered by Hogir on oecasions when Shelley would stop by the side of pond or nere to Hoat a mimic navy, The not altorether apooryphal story of his having onee constructed a boat out of a bank-post-bill, and lannched it on the lake in Kensington Gardens, deserves to be allnded to in this connection. Symonds' Sireliley, ch. 4.
4412. PLEDGE, Temperance, F'ather Mathen's. Father Mathew's wouder-working pledge was as follows: "I promise, with the divine ussistance, as long as I continne a nember of the Teetotal Temperance Society, to abstain from ull intoxicating drinks, exeept for merlieinal or sacramental purposes, and to prevent as much as possible, by advice and example, drunkenness in others." When these words lad been slowly nttered, Futher Mathew, with uplifted land, pronounced a torief prayer: "May God bless yon, and give you strength and grace to keep your promise." To whiel he sometimes added, as be made the sign of the cross: "In this sign alone you may hope to persevere and conquer."-Cycloppenia of Biog., p. 111.

4v183. PLOT, A fictitious. The Popish Plot. Titus Oites, a clergyman of the Church of England, had, by his disorderly life and heterodox doctrine, drawn on him the censure of his spiritual superiors, land been compelled to quit his benefice, and had ever since led an infimmons and vigrant life. He had once professed iimiself a Roman Catholic, and had passed sot . 'ime on the continent in English colleges of the der of Jesus. In those stminaries he had hear. much wild talk about the best means of bringing Eng. land buek to the true Churels. From hints thus furnished he construeted a hideous rommence, resembling rather the dream of a sick man than uny transuction which ever took place lin the real world. The pope, he said, had intrusted the government of Enghand to the Jesuits. The Jesnits lind, by 'ommissions nuder the great senl of their society, uppointed Cutholic clergymen, noblemen, num gentlemen to all the highest offres in Church und State. The pupists hud burned down Sondon once. They hud tried to burn it downagain. They were at flant moment planning ascheme forsetting fire to all the shipping in the Thames. They were to rise at a sigmal nd nassa. (reall their Protestant neighbors. A Frencharmy wasnt the smme tine to lamel in Jroland. All the leading statesmen und divines of Einghand were to be murdered. Three or four seliomos had been formed for assussimating the king. He was to be stabhed. Ite was to be poisoned in his medicine. He whs to be shot with silver bullets.-Macallay's Ena., eh. 2, p. 218.
4214. PLOT, Im:ginary. Neqro. In the year 1 141 oecurred... "rise Negro Plot" [in N. Y.] Slavery was permitted in the province, und $n^{2}$. uroes constituted a large faction of the population. Several destructive fires had oceurred, and it was believed that they lad been kindled by inermaliaries. The shaves were naturnlly elistrusted ; now they became feared and hated. Some degraded women eame forward and gave information that the negroes had male a plot to burn the city, kill all who opposed then, and set up one of their own number as governor. The whole story was the essence of absurdity; but the people were alarmed und ready to believe anything. The reward of freedom was offered any slave who would reveal the plot. Many witnesses rushed forward with foolish and contradictory stories; the jails were filled with the necused; and more than thirty of the miserable creatures, with hardly the form of a trial, were convicted and then hanged or burned to death. Others were transported and sold as slaves in foreign lands. As soon as the supposed peril had passed and the excited people regained their senses, it came to be doubted whether the whole shocking affair hat not been the result of terror and fanaticism. The verdiet of after times has been that there was no plot at all.-Ridratu's U. S., eh. 20, p. 182.

4215, POET respected. Pindar. The Thebans, on a false report of his denth in Intile against the Illyrimos, hal expelled the Macedonian garrison, nud put to denth its commanders, Amyntas amd Timolaus. Alexander offered pardon to the eity on condition of absolute subunission, and the delivering ti]) of the prineipal offenders. The Thebans wre obstinate, and the consequence was that Theloes was taken by storm, and aloundoned to the fury of the Macedonian troops, who plundered amblestroyed it. Six thousand of the inhabitnats were puit to the sword, mud 30,000 sold to slavery. The priests, however, with their families, were 1 reated with reverence; and while the streets and fortificutions of the city were redinced to a mass of ruins, the conqueror showed his respect to the memory of Pindar by preserving from destruction the great poct's house, which was still oceupied by his descend. ants.-T'ytlen's Mist., Book 2, ch. 4, p. 178.
1216. POET, Terrorizing. Robert Burns. The farmers and the well-to-do people weleomed him gladly, and were prond that suc a a man had come to be in dweller in their vale. Yet the ruker comatry hads and the lower pensantry, we are told, lookedon him not without dremd, " lest he shond pickle and presserve them in sarrastic song." "Once at a pany wedding, when oue or two wild young huls yuarrelled, nod were about to tight, Burns rose up and suid, 'Sit down andor else l'Il hang you up like potato-loggles in sang to -morrow.' They censed, mid sut downas if the ir noses had been bleeding."-Shambes Burns, ch. 5.
4217. POETRY, Bad. Criticiect. Philoxemns, who was himself an excellent poet, uttempted to undeceive Dionysias in the favorable opinion he had of his own abilities, but was sent to the Quarries for the liberty le took. However, the next day he was restored to favor, and Dionysius repeated to him some verses he hal taken extraordinary pains with, expeeting his approbation. But the poet, instead of giving it, looked round to the guards, and said to them, very humorously, "Take me baek to the Qumrries."-PbuTanch's Timoleon, Langhonne's Note.
4218. POETRY, Heartless. Groy's. [It is] a laborious mosaic, through the hard, stiff lineaments of which little or true gruce could be expected to look ; real feeling, and all freedom of expressing it, are sacrificed to pomp, to cohd splendor ; for vigor we have a ecrtain mouthing vehemence, too elegant indeed to be tumid, yet exsentially foreign to the heart, and seen to extend no deeper than the mere voice and gestures.Cablyle's Goethe, ch. 1.
4219. POETRT, Inspiration for, Robert Burns. " You know," he says, " our country custom of coupling a man and woman together as partners in the labors of the harvest. In my fifteenth summer my partner was a hewitehing creature, a year younger than myself. . . . She was a bonnie, sweet, sonsie lass. In short, she, altogether unwittingly to herself, initinted me in that delicious passion which, in spite of acid disappointment, gin-horse prudence, and bookworm philosophy, I hold to be the first of human joys here below ! How she eaught the contagion I cannot tell. . . . Indeed, I did not know myself why I liked so much to loiter behind with her, when returning in the evening from our lalors; why the ones of her voice made my heartstrings thrill like an Aolian harp; and especially why my pulse beat such a furions ratan when I looked and fingered over her little hand, to piek ont the cruel netule-strings and thistles.

My girl sung a song whieh was said to be composed by a country luird's son, on one of lis father's maids, with whom he was in love; athd I saw no reason why I might not rhyme as well as he ; for, exeepting that he could shear sheep and cast peats, his father living in the moorlands. he had no more schohr-eraft than, myself. Thus with me began love and poetry." -Silamp's Berns, ch. 1.
4220. POETRY, Pathos in. Dante. Dante Alighieri is supposed to have invented a new species of epic poetry by the introduction of angels and devils in place of the beathen deities; yet there is some reason to presume that the An'
tiochus of Ischanus, were it yet remaining, would deprive bunte of the merit of originality in that purthular. His Divimn Commedin, how. ever, has fur higher merits of itsown. It shows genius of the very greatest order, mad has never been surpussed in trrible puthos, or in the pieturesque of descriptive power.-TYpisn's Mist., Book 4, ch. 16, p. 248 .
4221. POETRY, Power of. Welsh. A decisive battle, fought in the yeur 12883, determined forever the fate of Wales. Llewellyn was killed, and with him expired the government and the distinction of his mation. Wales was soom after formally unitci to the kingdom of England, and the title of its principality has rever since been borne lay the eldest son of the king. Some circumstunces of extreme harburity marked this eoncurst upon the part of Edwnrl. The Welsh bards kept alive an heroic spirit of freedom and independence, by rehearsing in their songs the glorious achievements of the andient Britons: Edward [I.] ordered these mhappy minstrels to be masmered wherever they were lound.-TyrLen's IIIs't., Book 6, ch. 12, p. 189.
4222. POETRY, Primacy of. Created with Man. The poetical spirit appears almost coeval with the very rudest condition of society. Other branches of human knowledge which have arisen in the gradual progress of improvement have owed their origin to the wandering and adventurous spibit of the species, or to the wants and sufferings of mankind; but poetry seems to have been created with man, and is rontemporaneous with his language ; and what is more remarknble, it is in this carly age that poetry often assumes its highest character, and arrives at its greatest perfection.-Tytler's Mist., Book 4, ch. 3, p. 426.
4223. POETRY, Utility of. Aneients. Poetry or song was therefore in all nations the first velicle of history, and the carliest mode of promulgating laws ; for nothing was found equully capable of striking with force the imagination and impressing the memory. $\qquad$ When society has made some advancement, nod laws are established to guard the rights and privileges of men, a legislator, observing with what avidity the songs of the bards are listened to, how miversally they are circulated, and how tenaciously retained, judiciously avails himself of the same velicle for the "publication of his laws. Plato, in his "Minos," informs us that the first laws of all nations were composed in verse and sung. Apollo is recorded to have been one of the first legislators, and to have published his laws to the sound of his harp-that is, set them to music. That this mode of promulgation was in use among the ancient Grecks, the word Nomos, which signifies both a law and a song, is direct proof; and Aristotle, in his prohlems, inquiring into the reason of this conformity of names between two such different objects, gives this express reason, that before the use of writing it was enstomary to kecp the laws in remembrance by singing them; and this, according to the same anthor, was the custom of many different nations. The laws of the ancient inhabitarts of Spain were all in verse, as were likewise the laws of Tuisto, the first legislator of the ancient Germans.-Tytler's Mist., Book 1. ch. 3, p. 27.

422．4．POETRY，Weakness for．Frederick the Great．In the midst of all the great king＇s ca－ lamities，his passion for writing indifferent poe－ try gre⿻コ一⿵冂⿱一口一灬 stronger and stronger．Enemies all uromad him，despmir in his heart，pills of corro－ sive sublimate hidten in his clothes，he poured forth handreds upon handreds of lines，hateful to gods and men－the insipid dregs of Voltaire＇s Ilippoerene－the faint echo of the lyre of Chmu－ licu．It is amusing to compare what he did dur－ ing the last months of 1757 with what he wrote during the same time．It may be doubted whoth－ er uny cepual portion of the life of Hannibal，of Casar，or of Napoleon will bear a comparison with that short period，the most brilliant in the history of Prussia mod of Frederiek．－Macad－ hay＇s Fredenlec the Gheat，p． 90.
4225．POISON well applied．Casar．Borgia． ［see No．5436．］Italy was at length delivered of this monster and his son．It is said they had prepared poisoned wine for the entertainment of some wealthy cardinals，and that the pope him－ self，and his son，drank by mistake of a bottle intended onty for his guests．The pope suffered an agonizing death，bat Borgin eseaped by hav－ ing himself sewed up in the belly of a mule．IIe survived，however，but a short time，and reaped no other fruits of his own and his father＇s ac－ cumblated crimes but the universal abhorrence of mankind．－Tytler＇s Hist．，Book 6，ch．14， p． 221.
4226．POISONING，Slow．Sir Thomas Over－ bury．It was perhaps the small share which Jumes［I．］had of the affections of his people that produced his attnchment to particular favor－ ites．Robert Carr，whom he created Earl of Som－ erset，had no other pretensions to recommend him but a graceful person and a good address． He was a weak and an unprincipled man．He fell from the king＇s favor on conviction of his being gailty of a crime for which he shonld have suffered an ignominious death－the murder of Sir Thomas Overbury．Somerset had married the Countess of Essex－a most delanched woman． who，to accomplish this marriage，had procured a divorce from the Earl of Essex，in which she had found a chicf obstacle in Sir Thomas Over－ bury，a confidant of Somerset．This flagitious woman now prevailed on her husband，Somerset， to have Overbury removed by poison，which they accomptished in a most barbirous manner，by feeding him daily for some months with poisoned victumls，while confined，through the means of Somerset，in the Tower．For this murder Som－ erset and his countess were condemned to suffer death，but they both received the king＇s pardon． －＇Tytler＇s Hist．，Book 6，ch．29，p． 397.

4227．PoIsons，Stady of，Cleopatra．Cleo－ patra at the same time was making a collection of poisonous drugs，and being desirous to know which was the least painful in the operation，she tried them on the capitnl conviets．Such poisons as were quick in their operation she found to be attended with violent pain and convulsions； such as were milder were slow in their effect； she therefore applied herself to the examination of venomons creatures，and caused different kinds of them to be applied to differeat persons under her own inspection．These experimenis she repeated daily，and at length she found that the bite of the asp was the most eligible kind of denth，for it brought on a gradual kind of leth． argy，in which the face was covered with a gen－ tle swent，and the senses sunk ensily into stupe－ faction；and those who were thus afferted showed the same uneasiness at being disturbed or nwaked that people do in the profoundest nutural sleep．－Plutaicits Antony．

1228．POLICE，Inefficient．Reign of Charles II．The machinery for keeping the pence was perfectly contemptible．There was an act of the Common Comeil which provided that more tham a thousind watehmen should be constantly on the alert in the city from sunset to sumrise， and that every inhabitant should take his turn of duty；but the act was negligently executed． Few of those that were summoned left their homes，and these few generally found it more agreable to tipple in alehouses than to puce the streets－Macaulay＇s Eng．，ch．3，p． 336.

4229．POLITENESS，Use of．William，Prince

 of Orange．Ilis manners［when King of Eng－ land］were altogether Dutch．Even his coun－ trymen thought him blunt．To foreigners he often seemed churlish．In his intercourse with the world in general he appeared ignorant or negligent of those arta which double the value of a favor and take away the sting of a refusal．－ Macaulay＇s Eng．，cli．7，1． $1: 51$.4230．POLITICIA＇．A：${ }^{\prime \prime}$ Pompey．The renewed term of his ：overument was on the eve of expiring ；but this extraordinary man had no design of relinquishing his military command． To secure himself against a deprivation of pow－ er，he bribed Curio，one of the tribunes，to make a proposul which wore the appearance of great moderation，and regard for the public liberty． This was，that Cæsar and Pompey should either both continue in their governments，or both he recalled，as they were equally capable of endan－ gering the safety of the commonwealth by an abuse of power．The motion passed，and Cwsar immediately offered to resign on condition that his rival should follow his example；but Pom－ pey rejected the proposal，probably aware of the real designs of Cæsar，but too confidently rely－ ing on the strength of his own party，and the in－ fluence he had with his troops．－TytuF！＇s ITist．， Book 4，ch．3，p． 406.
4231. $\qquad$ Cromwell．TL：．．．na－ jority［of the army］，however，we a ．．．，io support their generil，as elective first 1 ane st o of a commonwealth，against all factions $\therefore$ ich might resist his authority． $\qquad$ That his eieva－ tion to power might not seem to be his own mere at，he convoked a council，composed partly of persons on whose support he could depend，and partly of persons whose opposition he might safely defy．This assembly，which he called a Parliament，the populace nicknamed from one of the most conspicuous members，Barebone＇s Parliament．－Macaulay＇s Eng．，ch．1，p．125．

4232．POLITICS，AlHance in，William Pitt． At that day the good－will of the people was，in England，the most uncertain tenure of office， for they had no strongth in Parlimnent ；their favorite［William ？itt］held his high position ［prime－minister］at the sufferance of the aristoc－ racy．＂I borrow，＂said Pitt，＂the Dake of Newcastle＇s majority to carry on the public bus． iness．＂－Bancrofts＇s U．S．，vol．4，ch． 12.
4233. POLITICS, Abuse in. Josiah Quincy. [When a Member of Congress be was thus addressed :] "Quincy, I thought I ind abused you enough; but I find it will not do." "Why, what is the matter now? I do not mean to speak tgain." "No matter." sald Grinidy ; "by IIenvens, I must give jon another thrashing." "Why so ?" asked the member from Massachusetts. "Why," said Grindy, "the trnth is, a d-d fellow has set np against me in my distriet -it perfect Jacobin-as much worse than I am as worse can he. Now, exeept Tim Piekering, there is not a man in the United States so perfectly lated by the people of my district as yourself. Vou mast therefore excuse me. I inust abuse you, or I shall never get re-elected. I will do it, however, genteelly. I will not do it as that fool of a Clay did-strike so hard as to nurt myself. But abuse yon I must. You nuderstand ; I mean to be friends, notwithstanding. I mean to be in Congress agnin, and must use the means."-CyClojemda of Biog., p. 754.
1284. POLITICS, Anger in. John Adams. President Adams, exasperated by his unexpected defent, would not bring himself to remain in Washington long enough to witness the inanguration of his successor, but, nbout daylight on the morning of the 4 th of March, le left Washington ; and thus, for a few hours, there was actually no head to the government. To us, reading coolly of the events of those times, such conduct appears undignified and silly. We can, howtver, but faintly realize the madness of party spirit at that day, and the distrust and bitterness with which the elder Federalists regarded the victorious Republicans.-Cyclopedia of Broa., p. 352.
4235. POLITICS, Bitterness in. Van Buren's Administration. [In December of 1839 General Harrison was again nominated by the Whigs as their leader.] On the Democratic side Mr. Van Buren had no competitor ; but the unanimity of his party could hardly compensate for his misfortunes and blunders. The canvass was the most exeiting in the political listory of the country. The President was blamed with everything. The financial distress was laid at his door. Extravagance, bribery, corruption-everything bad was cliarged upon him. Men of business advertised to pay $$ 6$ a barrel for flour if Harrison should be elected; $3 a barrel if Van Buren should be successful. The Whig orators tossed about the luckless administration through all the figures and forms of speech ; and the President himself was shot at with every sort of dart that partisun wit and malice could invent. The enthusiasm in the ranks of the opposition rose higher and higher: and the result was the defeat of the Democrats in every State except [seven] . . . The electoral votes of these States-numbering sixty -were given to Van Buren ; and the remainder, nmounting to iwo hundred and thirty-four, were cust for General Harrison. After controlling the destinies of the government for nearly forty vears, the Democratic party was temporarily routed -Ridpatir's U. S., ch. 55, p. 439.
4236. POLITICS, Candidates in. Roman. It was customary for those who were candidates for any magistracy to appear in the Comitia, clad in white apparel. The plebeians, who aspired to the military tribunate, appeared accordingly

In that dress; but as the votes were called by centurles, and the patricians had been at some pains to influence their dependents, it liappened that not one of the plebeiaus was elected.-TruLen's Mist., Book 3, ch. 6, p. 340.
4237. POLITICS, Changes in. English Rewolution. With very ditferent feelings hutd the news of this great revolation been received in France. The politics of a long, eventful, and glorious reign had been confounded in a day. England was again the Eagland of Elizabeth and Cromwell; and all the relations of all the states of Christendom were completely elaniged by the sudden introduction of this new power into the system. The Parishans could talk of nothing lint what was pussing in London.--Macachay's Ena., ch. 10, 1. 552.
4238. $\qquad$ The Restoration. Every one hoped in this desire to change their condition and disown all things they lad before advised. Every ballad singer sang up and down the strects ribald rhymes, made in reproach of the late commonwealth.-KNiait's Ena., vol. 4, ch. 14, p. 935.
4289. POLITICS, Clerical, James $I I$. [Willians, Prince of Orange, had invaled England, and James was anxions.] To the prelates he spoke with peculiar acrinony. "I could uot," he said, "prevail on you the other day to declare against this invasion; but you are ready enough to declare agaitst me. Then you would not meddle with politics. You lave no seruple about meddling now. You would be better employed in teaching your flocks how to obey than in teaching me how to govern. You have excited this rebellious temper anong them; and now you foment it."-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 10, p. 467.
4240. POLITICS a Compromise. England. [After the flight of James II. to France.] It was moved that King James II., having endeavored to subvert the Constitution of the kingdom by breaking the original contract between king aud people, and, by the advice of Jesuits and other wicked persons, having violated the fundamental laws, and luving withdrawn himself out of the kingdom, had abdicated the government, and that the throne had thereby become vacant. . .. It is idle, however, to examine these memorable words, as we should examine a chapter of Aristotle or of Hobbes. Such words are to be considered not as words, but as deeds. If they effeet th. " whieln they are intended to effect, they are ra and, though they may be contradictory. If they fail of attaining their end, they are absurd, though they carry demonstration with them. Logic adnits of no compromise. The essence of politics is compromise. It is therefore not strange that some of the most important and most useful politieal instruments in the world should be among the most illogical compositions that ever were penned.-Macaulay's ENG., ch. 10, p. 579.
4241. POLITICS, Contradiotion in. Election of 1848 . General Cass was born in New Eng. land of Puritan stock. All his mature life had been spent in the free Northwest . . . . General Taylor was born in Virginia, was reared in Kentucky, . . . had passed all his life in the South, ... and was the owner of a large num. ber of slaves. Yet in the face of these facts Gen aral Cass ram as the distinctive pro-shavery candidate, and General Taylor . . Was supported throughont the North by the mati-slavery Whigs. $\ldots$ But this rontradietion was apparent, not reml.- Bhane's Twenty Yeabs of Conaleens, 1. 86.

42I42. POLITICS, Controverslal. Reign of Charles II. Never hrefore had political controversy becon curried on with so much freedom ; never before had politicul clahs existed with so claborate an organization or so formidable an influence. The one question of the exelusion oreupiced the publice mind. All the presses and pulpits of the realm took part in the contlict. On one side it was maintained that the Constitution and religion of the State would never be secure mader a popish king; on the other, that the right of James to weur the crown in his turn was derived from God, and could not ise anmulled, even hy the consent of all the branches of the Legislature. Every commy, every town, every family, was in agitation. The civilities and hospitalities of neighborhood were interrupted. The denrest ties of friendship and of hood were sundered. Even schoolboys were divided into angry parties ; and the Duke of York and the Earl of Shafteshury had zealous adherents on all the forms of Westminster and Eton. The theatres shook with the roar of the contending factions.-Macallay's Exa., ch. 2, p. 239.
4243. POLITICS, corrupted. "Trouts." It was a shrewd saying, whoever said it, that the man who first ruined the lRoman people was he who first gave them treatsand gratuities. - Plu tahcits Caius Mancies.
424. $\qquad$ Reign of Charles II. SearceIy any rank or profession escaped the infection of the prevailing immorality; but those persons who made politics their business were perhaps the most corrupt part of the corrupt society.Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. $1 \% 0$.
42.45. $\qquad$ Reign of Charles II. Among those politicians who, from the Restoration to the accession of the house of Hanover, were at the head of the great parties in the State, very few can be named whose reputation is not stained by what, in our age, would be called gross perfidy and corruption. It is searcely an exaggerntion to say that the most unprincipled public men who have taken purt in affairs within our memory would, if tried by the standard which was in fashion during the latter part of the seventeenth century, deserve to be regarded as scrupulous and disinterested.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 171.
4246. POLITICS, Devices in. "Log-rolling." After Duke Marlborough had won his famous victory at Blenheim, which ehecked the dangerous ambition of France, party spirit ran so high that the Tories attempted to tack on the twice defeated bill against Occasional Conformity to a money bill, which was to enable the war to be continued. The scheme was defeated. The tackers, as they were called, became ridiculous to the nation.-Kniont's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 18, p. 289.
4247. POLITICS, Disappointments in, Henry Clay. Old "Rough and Ready," as Taylor was called by his troops, . . . was chosen over Mr. Clay as the standard-bearer of his party. . . . To the overwhelming chagrin of Mr. Chiy a man unknown in political circles was preferred as the candidate of the party of which he felt himself to have been the creator. Mr. Clay was enraged hy the insult, and never beceme recondled to it 'lhough he guse in the end a quiet vote for 'laylor, he stubbornly refused during the rampaign to open his lips or write a word in favor of his rlection- - Blaine's Tinenty Yeabe of Conahess, p. 76.
4248. POLITICS, Dislike for. Samuel Johnsom. I mentioned politics. Jownson: "Sir, I'd us soon have a man to break my bones us talk to to mr of public affairs, intermil or external. I have lived to see things all as bad as they can be."-Boswela's Jounson, p. 484.
4249. POLITICS disrelished. (fibbon in Parliament. Gibhon's political carcer is the side of his history from which a friendly biographer would most readily turn awny. Not that it was execptionally ignoble or self-seeking if tried by the standurd of the time, hut it was altogether commonplace and unworthy of him. The fact that he never even once opened his mouth in the House is not in itself hameworthy, though disappointing in 1 man of his power. It was indeed laudable enough if he had nothing to say. But why had he nothing to suy ? His excose is timidity and wont of realiness. We may reasombly assume that the cause lay decper. With his mental vigor he would soon have overcome such obstacles if he had really wished and tried to overcome them. The fact is, that he never tried because he never wished. It is a singular thing to say of such a man, but nevertheless true, that he had no taste or capacity whatever for polities. IIe lived nt one of the most exciting periods of our history ; he assisted at debates in which constitutional and imperial questions of the highest moment were discussed by masters of cloquence and state policy, and he hardly appears to have been aware of the fact.-Mobinson's Gibibon, ch. 6.
4250. POLITICS, Duplicity in. Leo $X$. [In the early part of the sixtecnth century, when France and Austria were warring against each other for twenty-eight years, with short intervals of peace, the authorities at Rome pursued a double policy toward the contending sovercigns.] It is related of Leo X. that he avowed "that when he had concluded a treaty with one party, he did not on that account cease to negotiate with the other."-Knigut's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 17, p. 381.

4251. POLITICS, Eminence in. Martin Van

Buren. In point of intellectual force, he must rank below the really eminent men with whom he was long associated in public life. But he was able, industrious, and, in political management, clever beyond any man who has thus far appeared in American politics.-Blane's Twenty Years of Congress, p. 85.
4252. POLITICS eschewed. Romans. The seat of justice has been publicly debauched. Resolutions are introduced against corruption, but no law can be carried. The knights are nlienated. The Senate has lost its authority. The concord of the orders is gone, and the pillars of the cominonwealth which I set up are overthrown. We have not a statesman, or the shadow of one. My friend Pompey, who might have done something, sits silent, udmiring his the clothes. Crussus will say nothing to muke himself unpopular, und the rest are such idiots as to hope that although the constitution fall, they will save their own fishponds. [So Cicero wrote.]-Frocde's Cesar, ch. 12.
4253. POLITICS, Fallure of, Pror Ireland. [1n 1515 the oppression of the poor in Irehand was universal.] The noble fotk, whether English or Irish, were oppressors. They seized upon horse meat and man's meat of the king's poor subjects by compulsion, for mught, without any penny $\qquad$ or reject it as they might deem proper.-RıDPati's U. S., ch. 25 , p. 210.
4256. POLITICs, Hypocrisy in. Augustus. The tender respect of Augustus for a free constitution which he had destroyed can only be explained by an attentive consideration of the character of that subtile tyrant . . . $n$ cool head, an unfeeling heart, and a cowardly disposition prompted lim at the age of nineteen to assume the mask of hypoerisy, which he never afterward laid aside. With the same hand, and probably with the same temper, he signed the proscription of Cicero, and the pardon of Cinna. His virtues, and even his vices, were artificial ; and according to the various dictates of his interest, he was at first the enemy, and at last the father, of the Roman world. When he framed the artful system of the Imperial authority, his moderation was inspired by his fears. He wished to dercive the people ly in image of civil liberty, und the armies by an imuge of civil government.- (ilbhon's Rome, rli. 3, p. 87.
4257. POLITICS, Idealist in. Joln. Milton. On the course of affairs Milton's voice had no influence, as he had no part in their transaction. Milton was the last man of whom a pructical politician would have sought advice. Ite knew nothing of the temper of the mation, und treated ull thit opposed his own view with supreme disdain. On the other hand, idealist though he was, he does not move in the sphere of spereulative politics, or count among those philosophic names, a fow in each rentury, who have influenced not action, but thought. Acrordingiy, his opinions have for us a purely personal interest. They are part of the character of the port Milton, and do not belong to either wordd, of action or of thought. - Minton, hy M. Pattison, ch. 11.
4258. POLITICS, Insincerity in. James $I I$. To Barillon [the French minister] Jumes "xpressed the strongest dislike of Mulifax. "I know him well; I never can trust him. Ite shall have no share in the management of public business. As to the place which 1 have given him, it will just serve to show how little influeuce he has." But to Malifax it was thought convenient to hold a very, different linginge. "All the past is forgotten," said the king, "except the service which you did me in the debate on the Exclusion bill."-Macavlay's England, 4259. POLITICS, Judas in, Robert Ferguson. Robert Ferguson, the Judas of Dryden's yreat belonged to the class whose office it is to render in troubled times to exasperated parties those services from which honest men shrink in disgust and prudent men in fenr-the chass of fanatical kmaves. Violent, malignant, regardless of truth, insensible to shame, insatinble of notoriety, delighting in intrigue, in tumult, in mischicf for its own sake, he toiled during many years in the darkest mines of faction. Ile lived anong libellers and false witnesses. Ite was the keeper of a secret purse from which agents too vile to be acknowledged received hire, and the director of a secret press whence pamphlets, hearing no name, were daily issued. There is strong reason to believe that he provided for his own safety by pretending at Whitehall to be a spy on the Whigs, and by furnishing the government with just so much information as sufficed to keep up his credit. He was deeply engaged in the Rye llouse Plot. acy was detected and his associates were in dismay, he bade them farewell with a laugh, and told them that they were novices.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 492.
4*60. POLITICS mismanaged. William, Prince of Orange. [His invading army was successful on English soil, and James II. a fugitive in France.] Till after the suppression of the western insurrection grave causes of dissension had separated Wiiliam both from Whigs and Tories. He had seen with displeasure the attempts of the Whigs to strip the executive government of some powers which he thought necessary to its efficiency and dignity. He had seen with still deeper displeasure the countenance given ly a large section of that party to the pretensions of Monmouth. The Opposition, it seemed, wished first to make the crown of England not worth the wearing, and then to place it on the head of thastarl mud impostor. - Macadeay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 167.

1261. POLITICS misplaced. In Camp. There were not wanting persons who warned him [Pompey] that Cevar's legions might still be dangerous. Both Ciceromad Cato had advised him to avoid a battle, to allow Cesear to wander about Greece till his supplies failed and his army was worn out by murches. Pompey himself was inclined to the same oplinion. Bat Pompey was no longer able to act on his own juiginent. The senators who were with him in the camp consldered that in Greece, as in Rome, they were the supreme rulers of the Roman Empire. All along they had held their sessions and their debates, and they had voted resolutions which they expected to see complied with.

. . .

 wrested his uluthority out of his hunds, and reduced him to the condition of an offlcer of the Scmatorial Directory.-Firoude'sCabar, ch. 22.4262. POLITICS modified. Reign of James II. The bigotry of the most sturdy Churehman woukd not bear exportation neross St. George's Chanmel. As soon as the Cavalier arrived in I reland, and found that, without the hearty and courarcous assistance of his Puritan neighbors, he and all his family would run imminent risk of being murdered by rapparees, his hatred of Puritanism, in spite of himself, began to languishand die away. It was remarked by eminent men of both parties, that a Protestant who, in Ireland, was called a high Tory, would in England lave been considered us a moderate Whig.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 122.
4263. POLITICS, Parties in. Neeled. The kings presided in the senate, and had a double suffrage. They were likewise the gencrals of the republic ; but in other respects their power was extremely limited. They could form no enterprise without the sunction of a councii of the citizens, whose duty was to watel over their measures. On considering this circumscribed authority of the kings, Condillae has well remarked that the throne seemed preserved in the line of the Heraclida, only with the view of preventing any citizen aspiring to it ; and two kings were in renlity less dangerous to liberty than one, since they constantly kept alive two opposite parties, each restraining the other's ambition, nnd thus preventing all approach to tyranny.Tytler's Hıst., Book 1, ch. 9, p. 91.
4264. POLITICS, Partisan. Samucl Johnson. An eminent public character being mentioned: Jonnson: "I remember being present when he showed himself to be so corrupted, or at least something so different from what I think right, as to maintain that a member of Parliament should go along with his party, right or wrong. Now, sir, this is so remote from mative virtue, from scholastie virtue, that a good man must have undergone a great change before he can recancile himself to such a doctrine. It is maintuining that you may lic to the public; for you lie when you call that right which you think wrong, or the reverse. $\Lambda$ friend of ours, who is too much an echo of that gentleman, observed that a man who does not stick uniformly to a party is only waiting to be bought.

Why then, sald I, he is only waiting to be what that gentlemun is already."-Doswell's Joirn. son.
4265. POLITICS, Power in. "King-Maker." Warwick found in opportunity of revenge. His danghter was married to the Duke of Clarelle, the king's brother. This prince he sedinced from his allegiance, as well as many of the nobles of the York faction, and Warwlek now openly stood forth the champion of the house of Lancaster. After various intermedhate changes, Bilward [IV.] was deposed from the throne, und LIenry VI. once more reinstated by the hands of Warwick, who was now distinguished by the epithet of the king-maker.-Tytien's Hist., Book 6, ch. 14, p. 2206.
4266. - Charles James Fox. I asked him if it was true, as reported, that he had sald lately, "I am for the king against Fox; but I am for Fox against Pitt." Jounson : "Yes, sir ; the king is my master ; but I do not know Pitt; and Fox is my friend." "Fox," udded he, " is a most extraordinary man ; here is a mun . . . who has divided the kinglom with Casar; so that it was a doubt whether the nation should be ruled by the sceptre of George III. or the tongue of Fox."-Boswell's Johnson, p. 522.
4267. POLITICS, Prayer in. Samuel Johnson. [llis prayer, in view of becoming a politician, was found in his diary :] "Enlighten my understanding with the knowledge of right, and govern my will by thy laws, that no deceit may mislead me, nor temptation corrupt me; that I may always endeavor to do good, und hinder evil."-Boswell's Joinson, p. 137.
4268. Politics, Preaching. Puritan. While nolles and statesinen were cowcring in silence before the dreaded power of the kingship, the prenchers spoke bluntly out. Not only Latimer, but Knox, Grindal, and Lever hal uttered fiery remonstrances against the plunderers of Edward's [VI.] reign. Bradford had threatened them with the divinc judgment which at last overtook them. "The judgment of the Lord! The judgment of the Lord!" eried he, with a lamentable voice and weeping tears.-Hist. of Eno. People, s 685.
4269. - Under Cromwell. Under no English government since the Reformation had there been so little religious persecution. The unfortunate Roman Catholics, indeed, were held to be scarcely within the pale of Christian charity; but the clergy of the fallen Anglican Church were suffered to celebrate their worship on condition that they would abstain from preaching about politics.-Macaulay's Hist. of Eng., ch. 1, p. 129.
4270. - . Jonathan Mayhevo. [Pastor of West Church, Boston. The king's stamp officer had been resisted by a mob.] On the next Lord's day but one, before a crowded audience, choosing as his text, "I would they were even cut off which trouble you; for, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty." He preached fcrvidly in behalf of civil and religious freedom. "I hope," said he, " no persons among ourselves have encouraged the bringing of such a burden as the Stamp Act on the country."-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 5, ch. 16.
4271. $\qquad$
$\qquad$ Conturticut. A.D. 1708 It was flrst the custom, and afterward the order, that " the ministers of the gospel should premels "sermon on the day nppointed by haw for the choico of eivil rulers, proper for the direction of the towns in the work before tham."-l3anc'ror'r's C. S., vol. 3, ('h. 11).
4272. - Fitass. Whan, in 1316, he [Ealward III.| resolved upon the invasion of Framere he published a manifesto ugon the (anse of the war, which he addressed to the ?rovincial of the Order of Preaching Friars in Enerhata, in which he exhorts him to urge his bethren to set forth his mase in their sermons.Клиut's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 27, p. 4ist.
4278. - - Reign of cturetex II. The pulpits resommed with harangues against the sin of rebellion. The treatises in which Filmar mulnained that hereditary despotism was the form of government ordained hy Goal, and that limited momarehy was a permicions absardite. had recently appeared, and had bera favorably rereived hy a large section of the 'Tory party. The University of Oxford, on the very thay on which !hassell was put to death, alopited by a solemn public ad dese strange doetrines, ind oridered the political works of Buchanam, Mitton, and Baxter to be publiely burned in tha rourt of the schools.-Macachiay'n Ena., (h. ?, p. 202.
d27.4. POLITICS withont Prinolple. Professional. He eatches withont effort the tone of any sect or party with which he chances to mingle. IIe diseerns the signs of the times with a sagacity . . . with which a Molnwe warrior follows a track through the woods. But we shall seldom find, in a statesman so truined, integrity, constancy, or any of the virtues of the notile family of Truth. He has no faith in any doctrine, no zenl for my canse. . . . He sueers ulike it those whoaremnions to preserve and at those who are enger to reform. There is nothing in the State which he could not, without a seruple or a blush, join in defending or in destroying. Fidelity to opinions and to friemls seems to him mere dulness and wrongheadedness. Politics he regurds not us a science of which the objeet is the happiness of mankind, but as mexciting game of mixed chance mal skill, at which a dexterous mad lueky player may win.-Macaular's ENG., ch. 2, p. $1 \% 1$.
4275. POLITICS, Reverses in. Tyler's Administration. For the first and only time in our political history, an admiuistration conducting a war [with Mexico], victorious at every step, steadily lost ground in the country. The Honse of Representatives, which dechared war on the 11th of May, 1846, was Democratic ly a large majority. The Honse elected in the ensuing autumn, amid the resounding neclamations of Taylor's memornble victory at Monterey, had a decided Whig majority. This politienl reverse was due to three causes: the ennetment of the tariff of 1846 , which offended the manufneturing interests of the country; the receding of the administration on the Oregon question, which embarrassed the position and wounded the pride of the Northern Democrats; and the widespread apprehension that the war was andertaken for the purpose of extending and per-promating shavery.-bananén Twenty leanes of Cunarless, p. 64.
4276. POLITICs, Revulalon toward. Diahonof. [The lanke of Shrewhhury, formerly the favorite minister and secretary of state for Will. ham III., in 170), when party violence hat racheal its climax, wrote somers, the lordclancellor:] I womber that a man can be found in Enghand who has bread that will be concerned in public basiness. Itad I a son, I would somer bred him a cobbler than courtler, and a hamgman than a statesman.-KNiontres Ena., vol. 5 , ch. 16, j. 240 .
da77. POL'rICs, Sagacity in. Henry Clay. Mr. (lay possessed extraordinury sugachty in publicaffalrs, seeling and foreseeing whereothers were blinded by ignormee or prejudice. He was a statesman by intaition, fimding a remedy before others conild discover the disease. Ilis contemporaries mpreciated his rare endowments. On the day of his first catrance into the House of Representatives he was chonenspenker, thougit but thirty-four years of age. This what the more remarkable buenose the Honse was filled with men of recognized ability, who had been long in the pablic service.- BLAine's Twenty Years of Congleas, p. 10i.
4278. POLITICS in Saloons. Reign of Charles II. The eoflec-honse must not be dismissed with a cursory mention. It might, indeed, at that time, lave been not improperly culled a mosi importunt politienl institution. No Parliament had sat for years. The municipal council of the city had censed to speak the sense of the citizens. Public meetings, harangues, resolutions, and the rest of the modern machinery of agitation had not yet come into fashion. Nothing resumbling the modern newspuper existed. In such circumstances the colfec-houses were the elief organs through which the public opinion of the metropolis vented itself.-Macaulay's Eva., ch. 3, p. 341.
4279. POLITICS, Selfishuess in. Romans. The Semate gave a notable evidence of their incapacity for selecting competent governors for the provinces by uppointing in his [Crassus'] place Ctesar's old colleague, Bibulus. In their whole number there wis no such foolns Bibulus. When he arrived in Syria he shat himself into a fortified town, leaving the Parthians to plonder and burn at their pleasure. Cicero mocked at him. The Senate thanked him for his distinguished services. The few serious men in Rome thought that Cessur or Pompey should be sent out; or, if they could not he spared, at least one of the consuls of the year-Sulpicius Rufus or Marcus Marcellus. But the consuls were busy with home polities, and did not wish to go, nor did they wish that others should go and gather laurels instead of them. Therefore nothing wis done at all, and Syria was left to fate and Bibu-lus.-Froude's Cebar, ch. 20.
4280. POLITICS, Trifles in. Whigs and Tories. [William III. had two parties in Parliament who were very bitter toward each other.] He met with such treatment from both as once gave him occasion to sny, in a pet, to Lord Malifax, that all the difference he kuew between the two parties was that the Tories would chit his throat in the morning, and the Whigs in the afternoon.Kinilit'н ENa., vol. 5. rli, 1f, ן. :34.

42sis. POLITICS, Vezation In. Huruee (ivecley. Asthe standard-benrey of the liberal Republiean and I emoseratio marties, Honace (Ireeley, editor of the New York Tribume, was mominated. This was the last art in that remarknble ama's sarecer. For more than thirty fours he limi been un ace knowledred lender of public opinion in Anerian. Ile land disrossed with veloment cmergy mal enthosinsin ulmost every question in which the people of the Couited States have any faterost. Afteralifetime of untiring indastry he was now. ut the uge of sixtroale, called to the forefront of politian stidfe. The anvass was one of wild excitement and bitter demmeintions. Mr. Greeley was overwhelmingly beaten, and died in less than a montld ufter the eloction. In his denth the nution lost " great philanthropist, and jomrmalism its brightest light.-Ridratar's U.S., ch. 68, 1. 588 .
1942. POLITICs, Woman in. Reign of Churles $/ I$. A negotintion was arranged which lasted several months. The ehief agent bet wern the English and French courts was the benatifnl, gruceful, uml intelligent Iemrietta, Duchess of Orlenns, sister of [Kingr] Charles, sister-in-law of [King] Louis SIV., and a favorite with both. The Kiag of Enerhaid offered to dechare himseli' a Ronun Cutholic, to dissolve the Triple Alliance, and join with Frunce against Hollund, if France would engage to lend him such militury and peeuniary aid as might make him independent of his Parlimment.--Macaulay's ENo., (lı. 2, p. 192.
4298. POLITICS, Young Men in. Disdained. [Lord Charendon, comsellor umiler Charles II.] Toward the young orators, who were rising to distinction mad authority in the Lower IIouse, his deportment was ungracious: and he sueceeded in making them, with scarcely un exeeption, his dendly enemies. Inneed, one of his most serious fanlts was an inordinate contempt for youth, and this contempt whs the more mujustifiable, because his own experience in English politics was by no means proportioned to his age; for so great a part of his life land been passed abrond, that he knew less of the world in which he found himself on his return than numy who might linve been his sons.

For these rensons he was disliked by the Commons.Macaulay's Eng., di. 2, p. 183.
4284. POMP in private Life. General Willlenstein. [Being dismissed from the army, where lie had won renown,] repose was the last thing that Wallenstein eontemplated when he returned to private life. In his retreat he surrounded himself with a regal pomp which seemed to mock the sentence of degradation. Six gutes led to the palace he inhmbited in Prague, and a hundred houses were pulled down to make way for his courtyurd. Similar pulaces were built on his other utumerous estates. Gentlemen of the noblest houses contended for the honor of serving him, and even imperial chamberlains resigned the golden key to the emperor, to fill a similar office under Wallenstein. He maintained sixty pages, who were instructed by the ablest masters. His antechamber was protected by fifty lifeguards. His table never consisted of less than one hindred covers, and his seneschal was a person of distinctlon. When lee travelled hiv buy gage and sulte necompmanied him in $n$ lannlrod wagons, druwn by six or four horsen; fivecolirt followed In sixty carriages, attemided by flfiy lad horses. 'The pomp of his liveries, the sphinctor of his cumipages, und the deroratlons al hisujattments were in kerping with all the rest, six barons and as many knlghts were in constant uttendance about his person, and remily to exarnte his slightest order. Twelve patrols went their fomads ubout his palace, to prevent any diatirlsunce. Ilis basy gonius reguired stlence. Thos noise of comelaes was to bo kept awny from has residence, umi the streets lemding to it were fregumently blocked up, with clandis. Ilis own rib-- le was as silent as lise approarlies to lifs palaro ; sparing of his worrls than of his gifts, while tho little that he spoke was harsh ami ingerions. He never smilet, and the colduess of his temperament was proof aguinst sernsul s.din'tions.

4\$w5. POMP, Oriental. Roy/ul. While the suceessors of Cyrus reigned over $\operatorname{Ixin}$ tha prove tnee of Assyrin nlone maintained, during a third part of the yemr, the laxurions plenty of the table and honseholel of the great king. Font considerable vilhges wore assigned for the sulbsistence of his Imelinn dogs : efirht lanolred stallions and sixteren thousama bates were cons. stuntly kept, at the expense of the country, for the royal stables; and us the daily tribute which was puid to the sutrap amomoted to one Ehiglish bushel of silver, we may compute the atanalal revenue of Assyriant more than twelve humdred thousand poumbls serling.-GibBon's lobite, ch. 24, p. 481.
4486. POMPOSITY, Expression of. S Shull Johnson. Lord Lareun tells a very good afory, which. . . is certainly elmrueteristical : that when the sale of 'Thrale's brewery was going forward, Jolinson appeared bustling abont, with un inklorn and pen in his button-hole, like an exciso. man ; and on leing asked what he really consid. ered to be the value of the property which was to be disposed of, answered," We ure mot liere to sell a parcel of boilers and vats, but the potentiality of growing rich beyond the dreans: of avarice."-Boswella's Jonnson, p. 456.

St28. POOR benefited. By Civilizatiom. (If the blessings which civilization mal philosophy bring with them, a large proportion is common to all maks, and would, if withdrawn, be miasod us puinfully by the laboreras by the peer. The market-place which the rustie can now reach with his cart in min hour was, a liundred and sixty years ago, a day's journey from lim. The strect which now affords to the urtisun, during the whole night, a secure, a convenient, and it brilliantly lighted walk, was, a hundred und sixty years ago, so dark ufter simset that lie would not have been able to see his hand, so ill parrd that he would liave run constant risk of breaking his neck, and so ill watched that he would have been in imminent danger of being knocked clown and plundered of his small earnings. Every bricklayer who falls from a scaffoli. every sweeper of a crossing who is run over by a carriage, now may have his wounds dressed and his limbs set with a skill such as, a hundred and sixty years ago, all the wealth of a great ford like Ormomd, or of a merchant inthee llake Clayton, could not lave purctused.-Macael..iy's Ena., ch. 3, p. 303.
4085. P00R burdenod. fir the Rich. More frequently thun nsual, in consequirice of the king's canptivity (Richurd 1. was cilptured while returning from the crusule, and huprisoned more than a your ly the Emprror of Germany] nud other neridents, uide of in small momont were imposed npon the cllazens; mid the rieh men, apming their own purses, wanted the poor to piy everything.-KNiat's Exa., vol. 1, ch. 2e, p. 321.

42ND. POOR, Children of the. Wiekleys. [Sumnel Weslry, the futher of dohm Wesley, renred a fumily of ten children onj his Epworth living. whichufforded but £ 1380 ; . . . hellved lan conthumb cometliet whth poverty; . . he was imprisoneed for delot and died in delot. . . . The "comomy hy which so largea family were reared mal edicented is a remarkahle fact in its history. -Stevens' Methodsm, vol. 1, p, 50.
4290. POOR, Consplracy againat the. Euglixh Iegishation. Insome points, sull hus his Thomas Morresf trenturent of the guestion of tabor, he still remalns fur thadivate of curremt opinion. The whole systrom of sodety aromid him seemed to him " nuthing but u conspiracy of the rich agalins: the poor." Its ermomic legislation, from the statute of luberers to the statutes by whieh the pariliament of 1 nits strove to tix a standurd of wages, was simply the currying out of such a conspiracy by process of law. "The rich are ever striving to pare away something further from the daily wages of the powr by private fraud and even by publice law, so that the wrong atreaty existing (for it is a wrong that those from whom the State derives most benefit slowhld receive least reward) is made yet greater by menns of the haw of the state." "The rich devise every menus by whith they muy, in the first phace, secure to themselves what they have amassed by wrong. and then take to their own use and profit, at the lowest possible price, the work and labor of the proor. And so soon as the rich decide on adopting these devices in the mame of the public, then they become law." The result was the wretehed existence to which the labor class was doomed, " $a$ life so wretched that even $n$ beast's $s$ life seems enviable."-Hist. of Ena. People, © 523.
4291. P00R, Decrease of the. Euglund. There can hardy be a more impertunt test of the condition of the common peophe than the ratio which this elass bears to the whole society. At present the men, women, and eliildren who receive relief are, in bad years, one tenth of the inhabitants of England, , mand, in good yemrs, one thirteenth. Gregory King estimated them in his time at more than $n$ fifl 1 ; and this estimate, which all our respeet for his authority will scarcely prevent us from calling extravagant, was pronounced ly Davemant eminently judicious.-Macaulay's Evg., cli. 3, p. 391.
4292. P00R, Discrimination against the. Lavo. In 1704, .. . by the statute " for raising reeruits for the land forces and marines," justices of the peace and mayors or other head offleers of borough were empowered "to raise and levy such able-bolied men as have not any lawful calling or employment, or visible menne for thele maintenamee nud Ivelihered, to serve us sohdidiry. The constables were to resedve thes, per herad for hiring hing the tuttered promlguly befure the justiese. This statute was rrnewed in 1705 and the systrim was niso tried lin the latter end of the reign ", George 11."-Kniomt's Ena., vol. 6, th. I8, p. 5 \%

L2933. P00R, Dwolling of the. Cellars. In rupled hy 30.000 people, few of whith redhrs. from the almenee of trulus nad sewers, were intirely free from dump, and most of them were imuidated alter a full of rain. In a report haid before the Britishl Assochation for the Advanere. me'nt of selenes, it was stanted that the propertlon of the population whio lived in redhers was 13 per rent; of Manelhester, 114 per rexil: "if Sul-Ena., vol. 8 , cha. 22, p. 3993.
429. P00R, Hardshipe of the. Miners, The report of at commission appointed ly Parlinument in 1840, to inyubre fato the employment of the chlldren of the poorer chasses in miness and collierles, exlibited in some mining distride is a state of things, with regard not only to children but to women, which rould semerely tre paralleded.
. A child of six yars of age, with a girille round has or her waist, to whidh was athehed a ehnin passing muler the logs, and fastened to a cant, hud thus to alrug a lowd on all fours through avenues not so grool as a common sewer. Chilalren and women who ware not employed in drugging loads by the girile und chain hail to, curry louls of conl on their backs up steep as. cents equal in distume to the height of St. Pami's fourteen times a day.-KNumT's Eng., vol. & , 1. 22, p. 395.
1295. P00R, First Laws for the Eingluad. The tentative process by which the prineliple of a public contribution for the rellef of the poorwas first approached, is distinctly set forth by the statute of 1551-52. A book was to be kept for cath parish, in which should be catered the names of the householders, and of the impotent poor. In whitsum-weck two or more persons. were to te appointed as eollectors of alms: and on the Sunday following, when the people are at ehurch, "the saitl eollectors shull gently ask and demand of every man and womm what they of their charity will give weekly toward the relief of the poor." The sums so colleeted weekly were to be distributed by the same eollectors, " after such sort that the more impotent may have the more help, and such as can get part of their living have the less; mat by the discretion of the collector to be put in suth habor as they be able to do." If any person, being able, refuse to contribute, he was to be gently exhorted by the parson and churchwardens; and if their exhortations failed, he was to be sent for by the bishop, to be induced und persuaded to so charitable a deed. . . . The sime prineiple is muintained by the statute of 1562-63: "If uny person of his froward or wilful mind shall obstinately refuse to give weekly . . . according to his ability," the bishop had power to bind him to appear at the next sessions, when the justices, if he continued obstinnte, might determine what sum he should pay, and commit lim to prison if he persisted in his refusal.
[This whe the tirat assurtion of the prinelple of it compuisory asessmont of property for the rellef of the pour.]-Kinabres liva, vol. is, (ch. 17, p, 218. dSBS. POOR oppressed by Law. E'uqliend. [ln l:sk no workingmun, skilled or maskllied, whs permitted lo] hemr buekler, wword, bor dagger everpt in the time of war. They were to nhandon "all tille games of temis, forolomill, guoits. wikithes, diee mad consting stome." [ An net of
 ch. 1, p. 14 .
daO7. POOR, Oppression of the. Nervents. [ln the midithe of the elghteenth erentury the jus. tiae of the promed womld commit a servant to Sridewall at may the whell a master or mistreses desired It.-Kivintr's ENa., vol. 7, chi, II, p. 10s.
dadm. - - Romme. [When durlug the wars against the subines the poor of the rity of Rome vainly plad for tolerathon, they left the city, and withedrew to the hill now enthed Sirceal, neir the river Anio, but without committing my violence or other ret of sedition. Only as they went along, they loudty complained that it was now a great while since the rich had driven tham from their habitations ; that Italy would my where supply them with nir mad water and a place of burlat; and that lome, if they had stayed in it, would afford them no other privilage, unlensit were sueh, to bleed muldie in thating for their wealthy oppressors. The semate was then alarmed, nind from the oldest men of their hody selected the most moderate and popular to treat with the prople. At the head of them was Menenias Agrippa, who after much entrenty addressed to them, mod many arguments in defence of the Semate, coneluded his Cliseouse with thiserebrater falle: "The memleers of the human borly once mutinied agninst the belly, and aecosed it of lying idle and useless, while they were all laboring and toiling to sallisfy its aprotites; lut the belly only langhed at thelr simplicity, who knew not that, though it received ill the nourishunent into itself, it prepared und distributed it agnin to all parts of the booly. Just so, my fellow citizens," said he, "stands the case letween the Sonate and you. For their necessary comensels and acts of government are productive of advantage to you all, and distribute their sulutary influence mong the whole people."-Pletaincir's Cuius Mancius.
4289. P00R, Refugo for. James Oglethorpe. Georgia, the thirteenth American colony, was founded in a spirit of pure benevolence. The laws of England permitted imprisonment for debt. Thousands of English laborers, who through misfortune and thoughtless contraets had become indebted to the rich, were annually arrested and thrown into jail. There were desolate and starving families. The miserable condition of the debtor class at last attracted the attention of Parliament. In 1728 a commissioner was appointed, at his own request, to look into the state of the poor, to visit the prisons of the kingrdom, and to report mensures of relief. The work was accomplished, the jnils were opened, and the poor victims of debi returned to their homes. The noble commissioner was not yet satisfied. . . . To provide a refuge for the downtrodden poor of England, and the distressed Protestants of other countries, he now appealed to

George It for the privilage of phating in colongy in Amerten. The pritton was tinvonhly hemril, and on the oth of Jane, 1zis), 14 royal eharter wis insuad by which the terrltory hetwen the Savanmali and Altammin rivers, and westwned from the upper fommans of thone rivers to the lameithe. was orgmazed mad gronted to a corporation for twonty one yemrs, to be held in trunt jor the peor.

8300. P00R, Romembranoe of the. In Trull'. sumuel 'Pepses writes of his visti tothe llague in 1080): "' In every house of entertninment there langs in every room n poor man'shox, it bring their custom to contim all bargnins by puiting something into the lox, and that binds an fast an mything."

4BOI. POPE superseded, The. Hin'y VIII. Feet linnry, though he had guarrelled with the pope|Clament VII. J, maddespoiled and aboltshed the monastories, had not renomed the religion of the ('hureh of Rome. He still prided himself on his title of Defender of tho Faith, and he continued, in every respert, to be a good Catholie, except that he chose to be pope in his own kingrdon.-T'vtien's llis'T., Book 6, ch. 20, p. 301.

4BOU. POPE, Supremany of the. Reneficial. Even the spiritual supremury arrogated liy the pope wis, in the lint Ages, productive of far more geod thon evil. Its effect was to anite the mations of Western burepe in one grent commonwealth. What the Olympian chariot course and the P'y thian ormele were to all the Greek eities, from Trebizond to Marselles, Rome and her bishop were to all Christians of the Latin communion, from Calabila to the IIcbrides. Thas grew up sentiments of enlarged benevolence. Rnces separated from each other by seas and monntains neknowledged a fraternil tie and a common code of public law.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 1, p. 8.
4303. POPERY, Enslavement by. Ilistory. [Lord Shuftesbury satil in 1678 :] Popery and slavery, like two sisters, go hand in hand; and somelimes one goes first, and sometimes the other; but wheresocver the one enters, the other is following close behind.-Kniait's Eno., vol. 4, ch. 20, p. 332.
4304. POPERY, Struggle with, Frederick II. [The Emperor of Germany,] Frederick II., by his policy and his arms, carried on a vigorons contest with four popes successively without bring. ing any of them to submission. By two of these popes, Gregory IX. and Imocent IV., ho was excommunicated and solemnly dejosed; but Frederick kept possession of his throne and maintained his independence. In consequence of the last sentence of deposition, he wrote, in the most spirited manner, to all the princes of Germany, "I am not the first," says he, "whom the elergy have trented so unworthily, and I shall not be the last. But you are the cause of it, by obeying those hypocrites, whose ambition, you are sensible, is carried beyond all bounds. How many infrmons actions may you not discover in the court of Rome! While those pontiffs are abandoned to the vices of the age, and intoxicated with pleasure, the greatness of their wealth extinguishes in their minds all sense of religion. It is, therefore, a work of charity to are their riln; mal lo this rimse you omghtall to

 (h. I), f. 15:

A:ROS. POPES, Disreputable. Jwh X/I, The Bulluenere of two sister prosthates, Marozin and Theoshorn, was fommed on their wealth ami the ment strimbons of their lovers were reward. ad wilh the Rommon mitre, and their reden may have suggested to the dark er nges the fable of and the grent gramesom of Marozia, a rare germal. ogy, were sumed in the elatir of sit. Dener, mal it was nt the uge of nhateren yours that the sereond on' the ere hermes he hand of the Lation chareh. Ills youth and mamond were of na sultable comphexlon; and the mitions of pilgrims combla har testimony to the charges that were wrged ngatinst him in ul Roman Syand, and in the presence of Otho the Great. Xis John XII, had remonnered the dress and decreniou of his profession, the soldiar may not perhapis be dishomored by the wher which he drank, the hooel that he spilt, the thames that he kinded, or the liemtions pursults of gaming mal hanting. IVisopen nimony might be the eonserpurnee of ellatress; and his blasphemons invorntion of Jupher and Vemus, if it be trine, comble mot posibly be serions. But we real, with somu surprise, that the worthy gramenon of Marozia liveal in publice adultery with the matrons of Rome: that the Latcrun pathee was turned into a sehool for prostitution, and that his rapes of virginsund widows had de. terred the femme pilgrims from visiting the tomb of St. Peter, lest, in the devent net, they slionlid be vlohated hy his surevesor.- Ghmun's lome, (h. 49, p. B1.
4306. POPULARITY, Dangers of. Pompry. $\Lambda$ Rommen commmoldr, on landing in Italy after foreign scrvice, was expected to dishnand his legions, and rehase into the position of a private person. A popmhar und suceessful general was un objeet of instinetive fear to the politichans who held the reins of government. The Semate was never plensed to see any individual too mach an object of popular idolatry : and in the case of Pompey their suspicion was the greater on areonat of the greatmess of his arehievenents, and becmuse his command had been fored upon them by the peopleagainst their will.-Fnoviein Casar, eli. 12.
4307. POPULARITY deserved, Limperor Titus. The denolation of Campania, oecasioned by this terrible cruption of Vesuvius, was remedied to the utmost by the beneficence of Titus. who set apmet harge funds for the relief of the sufferers. In oriler to judge of their losses, he went himself to Campania, and by a kind of fatality, white alsent on this benevolent expedition, a fire, which broke out in the eity, desolated a great part of Rome. The losses ocensioned to his suljects by these reiterated culamities he repaired at his own charges, not from the publie money, which is generally the trensury of the prince's bounties, but from the sale of the superthous drnaments nud riches of his palaces. Thus this virtuous prince oceupied himself by every means which generosity or benevolence could dictate in diffusing happliness among all chases of his subjects, when, to their unspenkable regret, he was ent aif in the third year of hite relgo. Ho diod at the nge of forty, having the hind hom the most merferd and exaltend epillowt, thlicire humuni to merin-ther dilighe of the hul.
 1. 181.

IBOW, POPULARITY, Doctrinal. Ifminiun. Tha Armindan dortrher, a donetrine leswansturely logicul than thit of the emery leformers, hit more warcenthe to the pupuhar aotions af the divitu fusticer and henewolemerempenl fiss mal wide. The infertion som remelnel the emart. Opinintis whelh, at the thane of the unceresion of hames |1.|. as dorgyamin could lava avowed without imminemt rlak of buing striphed of his gown. were mow the last title te prefo ment. I divine of that nge who was asked by a simphe comatry Encullemun whit the Arminhins held, unswerrel with as much truth nes wit, thint they held all the Cari.n'm Eno., rh. I, p. it.

4idon. POPULARITY, An evil. Sild of $I n-$

 Tetzil ns if le were a distinguished prehte of met at the gules of every dity lae entered by the monks and other clapy, the municipal rommitbors, temehers mul stmidents. mentmil women, ohl nud yomma, mint the ringing ol lafls, the singing if chareh choirs, mad the barning ol torehas. If the hend of the procession was gurried the pumb bull uron a volvet cushion and taken into the ehareh. Itare was ereeted a rad cross, on Which wis fustined the pupal hamer. Then Teterel momnted the phipit and ingortuned the people with his memonitions amb rexommendations of indulgemers: "Now, mow is the day of prace come to your vary dours! Ye womom, sell your vils cud purchase indulgences with the proweds:" He chassitiod sins mul miselemomors, and tixal a dethite tax for moll und all. Thus, sucrilege or chareh robbery and perjury worerated at nime ducats; a murder nlready committerl, at cight chonts; mhltery, at six ducats, ete. It is salid that ugen his treasure. chest was inscribed the moto:

"Soon as the coin in the box oloth ring,
The soul cma into heaven spring."

$$
\text { - Ren'm Latheh, ch. ㄹ, p. } 13 .
$$

4310. POPULARITY without Fame. Cliyg is Webster. It was not . . . in. Mr. Wienster's ne ture to become a partisan chict. Mr. Clay, on the other hamd, was natumaly and inceitahly a lemder. In nill the discussions of the semate in which constitutional questions were involved, Mr. Clay instinctively deferred to Mr. Webster: In the parliamentary debatess which concerned the position of partics and the fate of mensures, which enchuined the Senate nad leol captive the people, Mr. Clay was farile princeps. Mr. Wrbster argued the principle. Mr. Clay cminolid it in a statute. Mr. Welseter's speceles are still rond with interest and studied with profit. Mr. Clay's sperehes swayed listening semates and moved multitudes, but reading them is a disan. pointment.-Bhanine's Twexty Yeals of Con. (abess, p. 107.
4311. POPLLARITY hindered. Reign of Charles II. Among the statesmen of that age, silver tones of him sulfar, was the dollght of the with thought, fatery, und wh. Ills polltical traces well doserve to be stadiad for their literary merit. and fally entito him to it place atomg Fingliah chaskis. Tor ha weight derived from manten grent amd varhom, he malterl all the la-

 his writhoge valuable, frepantly binpoded him puwing evonts, not lit the point of viow hat which Sa ihom, bat lin the poiat of vere in whilla, after the lapise of many yrars, they apjurar to the philomophlehistorinus. Withestich a hara of matad,

 1. ま?

A:B12. POPULARITY, A juat. Juliun ('uner. Ifr was frogubard ne the greatest soldier whide Rame hand prombarel, thenray, the people, Italy, the prosiacere all udoriag his mame.
 His wars hand puid thoir own exporeses. He hand sloublod the pay of his troops, hat his mititury chas was still fall, mat his awh wealth secomed bemadlas. Ite was abloraing the Fortum with new and cosily lmilillages. Firmators, kaights, somate men of rank whas hal heod extravawere his pensioners. Gimil might have heon laspaticut at its loss of ibserty, hint to word of conaphiat was herud agalust cirsar for appressive gavermmen. The more geahis he lad shown the more formitable be was. Let him he comsid, and le would be the master of them all.-

1:3:3. POPULARITY, Lom of, Nir Henry l'ame. The former govertmor of Massarchasetis, the benefurlor of Rhode Ishan, the ever-fnithfal friend of New Enghand, adhered with madamated firmness the "glorions cmase" of popmar iliterty, and, thand hy every man who courted the rethringe momareh [Clarles II.], he berame noted for the most catholie unpopularity. He fell from the atfertions of the Eaglisha people, when the linglish people fell from the jeatons care of their linertios. Ite had ever bern incorrupt and disinterested. merciful and liberil.-banchort's C. s., vol. 2, ch. 11.

ABBA. POPULARITY Lost. Iresudent John Jdams. Not to be one re-elected was thea considered as a disgrace, and Mr. Adams was, for many, years, regarderl as a man who had been tried in a high place und found wanting. Itis gramison mentions that his letters, during the last yeur of his presidency, may he counted by thonsands: whife those of the next yenraveraged less than two a week! Gradually, however, as party passions sulsided, the real and great merits of John Adams were once more recognized, and his errors and foildes were first forgiven, and then forgotien.-Cycloredia of Brog., p. 179.

AR15. POPULARITY, Means of. Themintorlen. ularity lyy clarging his memary with the names of the citherns, so that her rombly colled each by

dill POPULARITY minjudged. M/urderend their commery. They fommillat the prople did was shandel. 'The' Furam wis rimply. 'Thes ghadintors, whon they had serereded in the 'Tomple, hroke out unal finatered the waprotected lewithe. I dend and ombans sllence prevalled in kuons. Bralus spoke, und (iossihs sjokes 'I'la'y extollerl thatr olil ronstituthou. They mabid that C'nsar had owertheown it; that they hand slaha hla, wot from private hatered or private

 ch. 27.

ASI7. POPULARITY necessary. //rmy $I$. An larity. Ilensy, soon after his aceression to tho throme, grantori a clartor, extremely favorable to the liburtios of the people, aad which has beren justly regarled an the gromadiwork of the clatu of jrivileges made hy the English harons in the reign of King, Jola, which he contirmed ly Jugan ('lmitn. 'These privileges, it is even of the people: of a much more ancient date. "ilanry l.," Lord Lyttelton, "by this charter restor Suxon laws which were fin ase mader lidward the (confessor;" but with such nltcrutions, or, as he styerl them, emendations, as land bera made by his father, witia the advice of hifs parlament; at the sume the annulling all civll customes and tllegal exactions, ly which the rentin land heen unjustly oppressed.-Ty'r. wit IIsir., Book 6, ch. 8, p. 134.

4:31母. POPOLARITY, Reaotion of, Lafigyetti. He made one more attempt to save the king [Lonis XVI.] by induring him to conte to his (anaj) and thght for hats throne. This project beiner rejected, and the anthor of it denomaced by Robespierre, his bust publicly burned in baris, and the medni formerly voted him broken by the hamd of the executioner, he deemed it necersary toseck unasylumina neutral country. Having provided for the safety of his army, he rowsed the frontiers, in Nugust, 1792, ucconspanied ly twenty-one persons, all of whom, on passing an Austrian post, were taken prisoners, and Lafayette was thrown into a dangeon. Itix nobie wife, who ind been for tifteen months a prisoner in Puris, hastened, after her relense, to share her haskmud's enptivity.
4319. POPULARITY saorificed. Lafayette. From this moment dates the deeline of Lafay; ette's populierity; und his actions, moderate and wise, contimully lessened it. He demanded, ns a member of the National Assembly, that persons necused of treason should be fairly tried by a jury, and he exerted all his power, while giving i constitution to his country, to preserve the monarchy. To nppense the suspicions of the peopio that the king medinted a flight from Paris, he masperted of laving nerevely nided it. Dhatom bince the persen of the king or the hame of the

 1. $4 \times 4$.

BiB20. POPULARITY by simplinity. ('hutica /f IIC rome corly, mind generally pinand there on four homes athy fin the ofriti atr. Itr might he Nem, thepore the dow was off the grose lin st.

AS21, POPULARITY sought. ('inum. 'I'o miwe limmelf tosomerent of emplithy with ('monn, whin wam then at the hedybit of glory, Perfoles made his comart to the peophr. Ime ar ('imom was himan perior in pohit ol fortume, whidh be comphoged in relie ving the poor Dherimens, in provillag vio. limelbevery day for the neressiloms, and chothling the uged, nud beside this levelled his foneres with the promul, then all misht be int liburty togather his fruit, Perielas land rexome to the expedient

 alf. Some men have buked, ohere have writhen, David cronk ent ame himelf thither. It was his us a benr-lumter whild mande him so propular in his distridt, that when he chowe to runfor othere he usially distamerel all compertiors. He comblat shoot a hamming birel on ther whe whila single: lall. Seated npon the numgin of a river, he would alin at a fish, mul as soom ins the erack of his rifle:
 would breserostruggling on ther surfare. He nsed to anenk of his lnitured old ritle in words like these: "Shars a mighty rough old picere, lut I love her ; for sla and I have veron hurd times. She mifhty seldom tolls me a lie. If I hold her right, she always sends the bull where I tedl her."-('vcionema of Bion., p. Bite.

4323, POPULARITY, Tide of, Duke of Monmently. [He was the illegitimute son of Chardes 11.] The interest which the populate took in him whom they regaried as the elmmpion of the true whigion, and the rightfal heir of the British lhrone, was kept up by every artitiee. When Mommonth arrived in lomilon at midnight, the wathmen were ordered by the magistrates to procluim the joyful event through the streets of the city ; the people left their bedels; bonfires were lighted; the whadows were illuminated; the charches were opened, and a merry peal rose from all the steeples. When he travelleal, he was everywhere received with not less pomp, and with far more enthusinsm, than had been displayed when kings hand made progresses through the renlm. He was escorted from mansion to mansion by long eavalcades of armed gentlemen mad yeomen. Cities poured forth their whole population to recelve hirr. Electors thronged round hin. to assure him that their votes were al his disposil.-Cycloredia or Biog., p. 235.
eibes. POPULARITY, Vanity of. Commell's. 'The pemp ind enthoshanin whilig greered himon his rellirif from the double cenapueas of Ireland und Srothad dazaled not hly constaney. "Pou sure that crowil, you heur hose shonts," he whispreal la the cur of a frienil who intondend in tho
 "In my way 1 , the gallows," Allght fromalseve

 wrid, j. .n.
dises. POPULARITY, A vicous. Vero's. Ita was pepphar beromse he presented to blue degraded pepminer lhedr own lmage mid slmilitude. The were, 1 ant of his monts were pitent whith these had lowe all bowe for frierdomand mobleness : they rated only for dolos mind excilement. Eivin when the bufumbes of a litrombus had breon superseded by the murderons orghes of Tligedluns, Nero whs sill every whow wollomind wh shouts us $n$ ged on 'mith, and sulutel on coinas Apollo, and IL.r-purses mill ansurred hill that there wns no delly in hansell who womlat not lhink it inn honor to comcode to himith prerogathor ; hat if he dhat not phace himadi well in the combe of olympors, the cyuilibrinm of the universe wombld be destroged. Viathos wroe shain ulong his pulh, mad altars rused for himb-for him wretel, whom an honest slave cond not but despise mul honthe-ns though he was too great for mere humm honors. Naty, more, the famed morers nul lmitators of his exrimble examplo-an Otho, n Vitellius. $n$ Domitian. "Commodus, a Cariocolla, un Heliogabalus - 10 polanon the air of the world. The lasts and hungers of the world lamented him, and cherishad his memory, and longed for his return. - Fatваи'я Eamiv Days, (h. 5, p. 41.
4826. POPULATION, Changes of. Coustuntiminle. [Why constantine formed] his design of altering the sent of empire, it is not cany to deIrrmine. De tixel his eyes, however, on Byzantima, to which he gave the mame of Constantinopla. Dhe ererted there the most superbatructures, and in order to people his new cily, he mude is haw by whilh no Asintie shomblhise the right of dispersing of his esinte by testament, unless hopossessed a dwelling-house in ('onstumtimople. Those, agnin, whor resided there were gratitled by a varicty of alluring privileges; and ly mems of these he drew the poorer inhabibums from Rome, while the richer volnaturily followerl the prinere: noud his court. The grandees brought with them their slaves, and kome inu few yenrs become nlmost depopulated. Italy was also grently exhmusted of her inhabitunts, und Constantinople swelled ut once to the most overgrown dimensions. Whan the empire wis thas liviled, all riches moturally centred in the new ('npital.--Tytler's Ilist., Book 5, elı. 2, p. 510 .
4327. POPULATION, Extension of. Westiciert. [In 1840] the peppulation had renched the aggregate of seventeen million souls, being an incrense since 1830 of over six millions. It was found from the tables that eleven twelfths of the people lived ouside of the larger cities and towns, showing the strong preponderance of the agricultural over the manufacturing and commercial interest. One of the most interesting lessous of the census was found in the fact that the wonderfal growth of the United States was in eatent and ared, mad mos. in acermmulation; ian the spmead of civilization rathar than in intensity. For since 1830 the average population of the country had not incrensed hy so mush as one person to the square mile.-Ruipatio's U'. S., (hi. in, p. 410.
432W. $\qquad$ --. C'uited Stutes. The eentre of "representative popalation:" has rontinually tembed west ward. In 1790 it whe twenty-two miles efast of Washington; it has never been enst of the mational metropolis sine e, and ne or con be again. At the cernsus of 1 roon it had been transferred thiry miles west of Washington ; in 18:? it was seventy-one miles west of that rity ; in 1N30 one handred ami eight miles. Its west ward movement from 1830 to 1840 was no less than fifty-two miles-more than tive milesa yemr. Durang about tifty years it has kept nearly the same paralled of latitude, having deviated only about ten miles sonthward, while it has advanered about two humdred miles westward.-S'revens' M. E. Chuncit vol. 1, p. 2it.
4329. PORTRAIT prohibited. (Quccl Elizmbethes. A curious proof of how desirous Elizabeth was of the praise of bematy exists in a proclamation issued by her in 10itis, in the thinty-third vear of her nge, and fifth of ther reign, which sets forth, that, from the great desire which all ranks of people have shown to have portruits of her Najesty, there have bern a rreat number of pictures made " which do not suthe ciently express the matural representation of her Majesty's per. son, favor, or grace, but for the mosi purt have erred therein;-And for that her diajesty perceiveth that a great mamber of her loving sab). jects are much grieved, wnd take great offonce with the errors and deformities already committed by sumdry persons in this behalf ;-Therefore she straitly charges all manner of persons to forbear from puinting, graving, printing, or makin: uny portrait of her Majesty, or from showing or miblishing such as are apparently deformed, until some perfect pattern or example shath be made by some coming person, which shall be noproved by her."-Fote in Tythen's IIsist., Book 6, ch. 28, p. 392.
4330. POSITION, Value of. Bittle of Issus. Darius was impatient to check the presumption of Alexabder, und, advancing to meet him, rashly entered the passes between the mountains of Cilicia, near the town of Issus, a situation where, from the nature of the gromn, the greatest part of his army, if then attacked, could not possibly be brourhi io art with effect aguinst the enemy. Alexander, though then weakened by disuase (the consequence of a fever caught by imprudently bathing, when owreneated, in the river Cydnus), no sooner received intelligence of the critical situation of the sersims in the defiles of a mountaiuous country than he hastened with the utmost ardor to attack them.

. . .

Ilistorians have lavished ah the powers of deseription in painting then splendor, riches, and magniticence of the military equipage of this immense host. That body of the Persinns named the Immortals consisted of 10,000 chosen troops, who were clothed in robes of gold embroidery, adorned with precious stones, and wore about their neeks massy collars of pure gold. The chariot of Darius was supported by statues of gold : and the bemms, nxte, and wheds were simded with procions stones. Ten thousamid horse men followed the chariot with lances plated with silver. The mother and the wife of Darlus had their sepmate chariots, attended by a mumerous tran of females on lomselack ; and the pageme was closed by a vast extinue of the wives of the Persimn nobles and their chidirm, guarded by some compmies of foot lighty armerl. Dimins, cuught thus at mawares, in the mountains of ('ilicia, with this immense' but most ineftlecient foree, was tmoght, in the batile of lasus, how little contldence is to be pheed in numbers, when mutched agninst a few experiened and well-disejplined troops. The Persians were defented with immense shangher, their loss moomating, as is said, to 110,000 men, while that of the Macedonians, according to Diodorus and Quintus (urtins. was no more thun 4ino.-TyTL, En's IIstr., Beook 2, ch. 4, p. 183.
4331. POssession, Right of. Micmac Indians. [Edward Comwallis, Governor of English colony at Halifiax, demanded an onth of allegiance, mad therntencel contisention of their lands if thay refused.] "The land on which youslecp is mine," such was the messuge of the implacable tibe; "I sprung out of it as the grass does; I was born on it from sire to son; it is mine forever." so the comed that mot at Inalifax voled all the poor red men to be "so many banditti, ruthans or rebels."-Bancimor's U. S., vol. 4, cii. 2.
4382. POST-OFEICE opposed. Reifn of Churles II. An enterprising citizen of Lemdon, Willian Dockwray, s't up, at great expense, a pernye post, " ieli delivered letters and parcels six or cight times a day in the husy and crowded streets near the Exchange, and four times a day in the cutskirts of the copital. This improvement was, as usual, stremuously resisted. The porters eomphained that their interests were athacked, and tore down the placards in which the scheme was munomed to the publie: The exritement cansel by Godfrey's death, and ly the discovery of Colemans' papers, was then at the height. A ary was therefore raised that the penny post was a popish contrivance. The great Doctor Oites, it was affirmed, had hinted a suspicion that the Jesuits were at the bottom of the scheme, and that the lags, if examined, would be fomm full of treason. The utility of the enterprise was, howevor, so great and obvions that all opposition proved fruitless.-Macallay's Engi., chi. 3, p. 360 .
4333. POSTERITY denied. Nahomet. In the largest indulgence of polgamy, the found of of a religion and empire might aspire to multipiy the chances of a numerons posterity and a lineal succession. The hopes of Mahomet were fatally disappointed. The virgin Ayesha and his ten widows of mature age and approved fertility were [umproductive of any son].-Gibbon's Rone, rh. 50, p. 151.

43BA. POVERTY a Blessing. Mimsterint. When Bishop George was a young itinerant on his first eircuit, the discouragements were so great and so mumerous that he concluded to abandon the work and return home, but was detained for want of the money to pay his travelling expenses. He attempted to get it by teaching school, but was defented. He was led to further reflection, and saw the snare into which he had of the hildren, lighlty , in the nsw but - Imatule aced in experi'ersians ceir loss cile that ms mul TyT.
wellmigh fallen, and ahberred the ihla of relinumishing his post dishonomaly.-Stervess Hintomer or M. E. Cheren.

A:3:B5. POVERTY, Blessings of. Bluisc Pased. Poserty mal sickness he regarded as among the chicl of biessings. He ahmost went as far as the modern Fremilh philosopher, Promdhom, who said, "Property is roblery."' "No (hristimn." la; need to say, " has a right to tise muy more of his property thun is strietly necessary for his mainemance and the maintenatue of those doprathent unon him ;" ath the rest, the thonght, wh. luny,d tw, the poor aud needy, and reald now bee witheld from them withont injustice. Henerted mpen this principle most sermpulonsly. With regard to sickness, he comsidered it a sigmal favor of Heaver. "Pily me not," said he, when some onc expressedsympathy for hissutfrerngs-"pity me not. for sickness is the matural state of Christims: beranse, when a man is sick, he is just as he omelht to be nlways-sulfering pain, comburing the privation of ull the goosd and an the plemsures of sense, exempt from the evil passions which work within him all his life, withomt ambition, free from invirice, and in the combinat expertittion of death."-('reworemin of Bues., p. 104.
s3:36. POVERTY, Crime of. In Luir. Luler the haw of henry VIIt, destitution was treated as a crime, and wandering powerty was to be stocked and scourged out of existrmec. [For along time therir own 1 mrish was the lowndary within which the perer uight endeavor to obtain a livelihood; leymad that cirche they coubd mot pass. In those parishes where there was the most capital and comseduently the most latur, ] there the pener peotple would emberver to sethe themedres. A nithral struggle teok phate bet we en those who wanterd to come in and the anthorities who were resolved to keep them ont. A dread that under-tenamts might tweone clargealde led to a domestic inquivilion of a very tyramnons nature. At heicester they were searched for every month. At Brichtoin no ineomer was to le allowed mutil the constable and church-wardens had ascertuined that le was milikely to become budensome to the town. A new tailor comes to lyme, he recrives a permptory notice of a day on which he is to depmrt. The jury in that phace even present a man who " harboreth his wife's sister." Ksigut's Eno., vol. 3, chl. 16, p. 269.
4337. POVERTY, Devices in. Olicer Golldsmith. [lle set up as a dector in the suburl) of Londen.] His cont was a second-band one, of rusty velvet, with a patech on the left breast, which le adroitly covered with his three-rornered hat during his mediend visits ; and we have an amusing mecdote of his contest of courtesy with a patient wion persisted in codeavoring to relieve him from the hat, which only made him press it more devoutly to his heart.-Invince's Goldsmith, chi. 6, p. 56 .

I338. POVERTY vs. Extravagance. Reign of Chathex if. [In lbi66] there were large numbers of the homble retainery of the royal honsehold who, when Lady Castlemain [mistress of the prolligate king] ordered of her tradesman every jewel and service of phate hat she fancied, and fold her servant to semb a mone of their cost to the privy purse, wate themselves nbsolutely starving. . . One of the king's mosicians, Evans, the famous man mpon the harp, having not his equal in the womd, died for mere wamt. and was buried lie the alms of the parish.Kxumt's Exa., vol. 4, chi 1i, p 393.
d3:39. poverty, Genlus in. Ixetur Neritm, It is interesting to know that, dhring the to in vent when le mate his greaten discoveries, ha. was so preer that the two shillings a week which he paid as a member of the Royal son my was a scrions barden to hime mat some of his friemds wished to get him "x-used trew hre pymen. But this her wom dot nermit.-- Patrox's New tos. p. Nis.
isid. POVERTY, Happiness with. Gcherel (irtme. [Whell a poor man at St. Lentis he sold wood to Hlon. Il. T. Blow. At agmod rewertion at Washington he met his ofd acepuintances. He said to Mrs. Blow: - Do your recollere when I used to supply your hishan! with wood, mal pile it myself, ind mensure it, too.. . ?" "oh yes, Gencral, your are was familiar in those days." "Mrs. Blow, those were happy days; fori I was doing the best I could to sappert iny

4BE1. POVERTY, Honorable. A/minol Blakr. [Ger No. 刃131.| The Protector semt to him, after his hast vic of a jewelled ring of the value of \& 500 , and great would have heren the ace lamation greeting lim on his return to his mative land. But it was not decreed that he should stind upon her shores again. He returned homeward, and coweted a sight of ohd Enghand's shoresonce more, and onece more he beheld them-and that was and. He expired as his fleet was entering Plymont Sound, on the Zith of Angist, 165iz. A trie modal of British sailor-he died poor. After all his trimphes and opportunities of accmmulating wealth, he was not worth E5010! $\Lambda$ magnificent publid funcral, and a resting-place in Hemry VHI.'s chapel, was deereed for him ; mud there were few in the comntry who did not feel that his strength had been a mighty bulwark to the ham.-IToed's Chomwelt, ch. 17, p. 209.
4342. POVERTY inherited. Olirer Goldsmith. Oliver Gohlsmith was boris on the 10th of November, 1728 , at the hambet of Pailas, or Padasmore, Combty of Longford, in Ireland. ILe sprang from a respectable but by no means: thrifty stock. Some families seem to inherit kindlinese and incompetency, and to hand down virtue mad poverty from generation to generation. Such was the case with the Goldsmiths. "They were always," according to their own nerounts, "a strange family; they rarely acted like other people ; their hearts were in the right place, but their heads seemed to be doing anything but what they onght." "They were re markable," says another statement, " for their worth, hut of no cleverness in the whys of the world." Oliver Goldsmith will be tound faithfully to inherit the virtues and weaknesses of his race.-Ifvina's Goldsmith, ch. 1, p. 12.

4B43. POVERTY of Inventors. Charles Goondyear's. [The inventor of vulcanized rubber.] Ite was denounced as a man who neglected his famiIy to pursate a ridiculous iden, which conld nevar be of the slightest use to any one. In New York, at length, he found a man who had faith enough in his diseovery to enter into partnership wih him for bringing the new materinl before the public. From that time his children, indeed, had enough to cat ; lint it was three or four yonrs more before his patent hegm to bring him inamy considemble return.-Cyciopedia of Broa., p. 219.
4344. - B - Ehias Hore. [Ha invented the needle heving the eye in the middle, atso the sewing-machi".] "Before his wife left Loudon," testitic" Ir. Inglis, "he had frequent?. horrowed mony from me in sums of $x$ tiv, and requested me to get hime credit for provisions. On the evening of Mrs. Howes departure, the night was very we and stomy, and, her henlth being deliente. she was mable to walk to the ship. He land mo money to pay the cab-hire and be borrowed a fow shillings from me to pay it, which he repaid by pledging some of his clothing. Some linen came home Prom his washerroman for his wite and children on the day of her departure. She eould mot take it with her on aceome of not having money to pay the woman." After the departure of his family, the solitiry inventor was still more severely pinched. "He has horrowed a shilling from on ", says Mr. Inglis," for the purpose of luying bembs, which I saw him cook ardent in his own room." A fier three or four montlis of labor the machine was finished. It was worth £.so, The only cuslomer he eould find for it was a workingman of his aeduantance, who offered es for it, if he conld have time to pry it in. The inventor was chliged to arerpt thisoffer. The purchaser gave his note for the es, which Charles Inglis surceedad in selling to another mechanic for $£ 4$. To pay his debts atml his expenses home, Mr. IIowe pawned his prectious first marchine and his let-ters-pillent.-('yeloremia of Bloct., p. 688.

4B:85. POVERTY, Land. Ltited Netetes. When the administration of Washington was organized in lis9, her goverument which he represented lided not command a single dollar of revemue. They inherited a monntain of delt from the Revohntomary strugerie' ; they had no credit, and the whly representative of value which they controlla i was the vast body of public land in ibe Northwest Territory: . . lut this called for expenditure in the extensive surveys, which were a prerequisite to sale and settlement. ... The rowrmment . . was land poor-Bhane's TwesTY Yealls, ch. 9, p. 182.
4346. POVERTY, Ministerial. Luther. In the last will and testament of Martin Lather oerurs the following remarkatle passage : "Lord God, I thank Thee that Thon hast been pleased to make me a poor and indigent man upon earth. I have neither house, nor hand, nor monev, to leave behind me. Thon hast given me wife and children, whom I now restore to Thee. Lord, nourish, teach, and preserve them, as Thou hast me."

- Bishop Asbury. [He was a ministar unsurpassed in labors and usefulness. He received] an allowance of only $$ 64$ a year. His horses and carriages were given him by his friends; all donations of money received by him he transferred to his fellow-laborers [who were in yreater need. And] at one of the Western Conferences, affected by the painful evidences of want, be parted with his witch, his cont, and his shirts for them.-Stevens' M. E. Churcia, vol. 2, p. 509.
 son. Miss Achuns. . happroned to trill nim that a little colferepot, in which she had mate him coffee, was the only thing she could call her own. He turnell to her with an eompheent gallantry: "Don't sayso, my dear: 1 hope yondon't reckon my bearl as nothing. "-Beswena's JonsNon, p. 522.

4348. POVERTY and Polltics. Romans. Thu' war reduired new levies, mud the simute ordered that the plebeinas shombed enroll mad uren in de. fence of the common liberties. These peremptorily refused the summons, deelaring that they knew no liberties to defemd, since a foreign yoke conld not he more intolerable than the honitare they experienced at home. The semate wa- is. semhled, and the matter solemmly deliberated. Some of the higher order generonisly gave thit opinion for an entire remissions of the delas, of the poorer class of people; others opposer! theproposial, as sanctioning a violation of faith, and a eriminal breach of legal oliligation. Appiux Clnudius, a violent and proud patrician, ustiatained that the people suffered nothing more than their deserts, and that if not kept in poverty they would be forever factions und unruly. Amid these contemding opinions, the senate was at it loss what decision to pronomee. An ilimin spread of the approneh of the enemy to attack the city, and this rejort gave fresla spirit to the populace. They persisted in their refusal tornter the rolls, and declared that if heir grie vances ware not immedindely redressed, they womld quit the city.-Tytier's Hint., Book 3, ch. 3. p. 312.
4349. POVERTY with Pride. Acmuluel Johnsom. Mr. Bateman's lectures were so excellent that [roung Jolinson used to come and get them at sicond-hand from Taylor, till his poverty heing so extreme that his shoes were worn ont, and his feet appenred larongh them, he saw that this humiliating circumsfance was perceived by the ('hrist Cburch men, and he eane no more. lle was too prond to arrept of money, and someberdy laving set a pair of new shoes al bis dow, he threw them away with indigmation.-Bosweat's Jounson, p. 15.
4350. POVERTY, Protected by. Culchluminn. The mative Caledoninns preserved, in the northcron extremity of the island, their wild independenere, for whieh they were not less indebted to their poverty than to their valor. Their incorsions were fregucntly repelled and chastised: but their comery was never subdued. The misters of the fain . it and most wealthy climates of the globe turned with eontempt from glomy hills, assailed by the winter tempest, from lakes roncealed in ablue mist, and from cold and lonely hemths, over which the deer of the forest were Chased by a troop of maked marbarians.-(tiasbon's Rome, (h. 1, j). 6.
4351. POVERTY, Punishment of. Girut liritain. In the days when protection of property was avewed to be the end of govermment, the gallows was set up as the penalty of a petty Theft: and each year in Great Britain, at lemat four thousand unhappy men were immured in prison for the misfortune of poverty. A smatl debt exposed to a perpetnity of imprisonment: one indisereet contract doomed the miserable: dinpe to life-long confinement.-Bancrofer's C. S., vol. 3, ch. 24. ncll oul masle cull her cent san! oniden't 's Joux.
4352. POVERTY ridiouled. Scots. Wilklen: " Pray, Boswell, how much muy be got in a vear by an Alvocate at the Scoteh har?" Boswhas: "I helieve £2000." Whaks: " How can it be possible to spend that moncy in Seotlund 9 " Jollnsos: "Why, sir, the money may be spent in England ; hut there is a hurder question. If one man in scothnd gets posserssion of f:U00, what remains for all the rest of the mation ?" Whakes: "Yon know, in the last war. the immense hooty which Thmote carried off by the complete plunder of seven sioteh isles; he re-embarked with three and sirpmene." ilere. ugain, Johnson and Wilkes joined ine extravagunt, sportive raillery upon the supposed poverty of Scothand. [Boswell was a Neotchmam.]-BosWehd's Jollinton, j. 461.
4353. POVERTY, Royal. (iermun Emperor Cherles IV. The grold of Italy secured the election of the son; but such was the shmeful porcrty of the Roman emperor, that his person was arrested by a butcher in the strects of Worms, and was detained in the publicim, as a pledge or hostage for the paynent of his expenses. Ghbion's Rone, ch. 49, p. $\% 1$.
4354.     -         - Baldicin II. In the palace, or prison, of Constnntinople, the successor of Iugustus demolished the vacunt houses for winter fuel, and stripped the lead from the churches for the daily expenses of his family. Some usurious loans were dealt with a scanty hand by the merchmets of Italy; and Philip, his son and heir, was pawned nt Venice as the security for $n$ deht. Thirst, hunger, and nakedness are positive evils; but wealth is relative; and a prince who would be rich in a private station may be exposed by the increase of his wants to all the maxicty and bitterness of poverty.-Ginhon's Rome, ch. 61, p. 121.
4355. POVERTY, School of, Jr. A'tumuel Johnsmin. Johnson was a poor man's son, and had himself tasted the bitter (up of extreme indigence. . . . He had 1 wed the streets of London all night long, from not having where to lay his hend; he had escaped prison for:a tritle he owed by begring an alms of Richardson . . . and even knew what it was from sheer want to go without a dinner. When better days came, he loved the poor as few else loved thein ; and he nursed, in his inouse, whole nests of the lame, the blind, the sick and the sorrowfin.-Bancrort's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 24.
4356. POVERTY, Sorrows of. Woman's Lot. [Among the Turks], each chicf of a tent had the absolute right of life and death over his family and his shaves. A barbarous usage nuthorized the father and mother, when poor, to bury alive their danghters at the moment of birth, to the and of preventing cither the wretched lot which slavery reserves for woman, or the outrage and dishonor which a danghter may one day bring upon their name.-Laniabtinés Tumes, p. $4 \underset{7}{ }$.
4357. POVERTY, Spirit with. Samucl Johnson. Johnson and Savage were sometimes in such extreme indigence, that they could not pay for a lodging; so that they have wandered logether whole nights in the streets. . . . He told Sir Joshma Reynolds, that one night in particular, when Savage and he walked round St. James's siquare for want of a lodging, they were not at nll depressed by their situation; but, in high spirits and brimful of patriotism, truversed the square for several hours. inveighed aguinst the minister, mad "resolved they would wtemi l!" their country."-Boswels's Jomnnon, p. 41.
4358. POVERTY a Tyrant. suftiolk Wi, $k$ men. [llemy VIll. attempted to colle 1 a tax of one third of every man's property, which was grmented by the suifolk coothiers whelevied thehurden on the poor workmen; they become riotons. The Duke of Norfolk, highi tremsurer of Enghand interviewed them.] Iteasked who was their captnin and bade that he should spoak; then a wellaged man of tifiy yems mad alove. asked license of the duke to speak, which [was] granted with good will. "My Lord, . . .since You ask who is our captain, forsooth his name is Poverty, for he and his consin Neeresity hath brought us to this doing." [The tax was atmu-doned.]-Kiniain's Exi., vol. 2, ch. 18, p. :30.
4359. POVERTY unknown. In Athems. [During the tine of Solon there were nome who askend for alms in Athens.] "In those days," sare lacerates, " there was no ditizen that died of want, or begged in the streets, to the dishonor of the community." This was owing to the haws against ldenoss and prodigatity, and the ratre which the "reopregus took that every man should have a visible livelihood.-Langhobne: Xorme, Plutabedis Solon.
4360. POVERTY and Vice. One-fifth $P^{2}, m_{i} / r_{1} \times$. [In the earty purt of the eightecuth ceniory] one fifth of the whole populition were paupers. Locke attributed the rapid inerense of the poor rates "to the relasation of discipline and the corruption of manners."-Kxigurs ENG., vol. 5 , ch. 4 , p. 60.
 ith Chicf. a.b. 16in). The Went India Company, dreading an attack from New England, had instructed their "governor, "to engage the Indians in his canse." But the friendship of the Narragansets for the Paritans conld not be shaken. "I am poor," said Mixam, one of their sachems, "but no presents of goods, or of guns, or of powder and shot shall draw me into aconspirney against my friends the English."B.ancroft's L. S., vol. 2, (h. 15 .
&362. POWER, Authority by. Churles $I I$. [When Charles II, was deserted by his army ami left at the merey of the parliamen, he was visited by a soldier named Joyer, who summoned him to go to the army.] Joyce said he was sent hy the anthority of the army. "Where is your commission ?" said the king. "There, behind me," pointing to the soldiers. "Believe me," replied Charles. "your instructions are written in a very legible character."-K.nuar's Eva., vol. 4, ch. 5, p. 71.
4361. POWER, Balance of. Origin. Charles [VIII.] Was now master of Naples; he entered the city in trimmph, took the titles of Emperor and Augustus, and after giving a few entertainments to exhibit his magnificener, and imposing some enormous taxes to exemplify his anthority, this most impolitic prince returned to France five months after he had left it, thinking his conquest sufticiently secured by leaving it to be defended hy three or four thousam men, while almost all Earope had entered into a combination to depriw him of it. . . . Surh had bean the sudden and decisive offect of this areat confedCracy against Charles VIII., that the princes of Earope thence lerived a most useful lesson, and from that period considered it as a genernd law of poliey to he always united in a theit lengue to prevent the "xorbitant increase of the power of nay particular State or sovereign. Robertson, in his "Ilistory of Charles V.," assirts that the iden of the preservation of "helduce of pouser in Enrope has its date from this confedaracy ugainst Charles VIII. : mil " from this ora," says he, " we can trace the progress of that intercomese between mations which has linked the powers of Europe so closely togrether, and can discern the operations of that provident poliey which, during prace, guards agrinst remote and contingent dungers, mind which in war las prevented rapich and lestructive ronguests."-TyTLER's Histr., Book 6, ch. 13, p. 2 F ).
4362. $\square$ Ragn of C:arlos II. Tho King of spain was a sickly child. It was likely that la would die withont issue. I Iis eldest sister was (zuren of Framee. $A$ day would almost certuinly come, and might come very soon, when the house of Bourbon might hay chaim to that wast rinpire on which the sinn nevir sot. The mion of two great momurehies mader one hetel would doubtless be opposed by a Continental conlition; but for any continental conlition Frunce, single handed, wis a mateli. England could turn the scalle. . . . Nothing, therefore, conld be more gratifying to Lonis [XIV.] than to learn that [Charles 11.] the princes of the house of Stuart needed his help, and were willing to purchase that help by mboumbed subservieney. He determined to protit by the opportunity, and hid down for himself a phan to which, without deviation, he athered, till the Revolntion of 1688 disconeerted all his polities.-Macaulay's Eng., -解2, p. 194.
4363. POWER, Boast of. Pompey. Pompey was so mueh chated, . . . and his confidence made him so extremely nerligent, that he langled at those who seemed to fear the war. And when they said that if Casiar should advance in a hostile manner to Rome they did not see what forces they had to oppose him. he bade then, with an open and smiling countemance, give themselves no pain. "For if in Italy," said he, "I do but, stamp upon the ground, an army will appear." - Plevtareios Pompey.
4364. POWER, Humbled. Roman. Alarie, the king of the Goths, who mo longer dis. simbled his appetite for plunder and revenge, uppeared in arms under the walls of the capital: und the trembling senate, without any hopes of relief, prepared, by a desperate resistunce, to delay the ruin of their country. But they were unable to guard against the secret conspiracy of their slaves and domesties, who, either from birth or interest, were attached to the cause of the enemy. At the hour of midnight the Salarian gate was silently opened, and the inhabitants were awakined by the tremendous sound of the Gohhie trumpet. Eleven hundred and sixtythree years after the foundation of Rome, the imperial city, which had subducd and civilized so considerable a part of mankind, was delivered to the lirentions fury of the tribes of Germany and Scythia.-Ghmox's Rome, ch. 31, p. 282.

A:367. POWER, Personal. Nifimilion I. [When the alliod sovercigns were in congress at Vienna, in 1815, dividing the spoils ressilting from the overthrow of Bounpurte, he esenped from his exile at billa. The news crented consternation.] A proseribed exile, withont money and without mrms, thonting upon the wathers of the Medilerranem, simply by the magie of his mate planged wll the courts und all the urmics of Eurone into commotion. Two powers at that moment equatly divided Europe: One power was Nuphleon Bomparte, solitary and alone; the other power Was all the combined monarelis and armies mad mivies of Christendom.-Anbotres Naromeon 13., vol. : ch. 26.
4338. $\qquad$ Napolem I. [Sno No. 436\%.] ('hatenobriand hud pithily suid: "If the corked lat mal surtont of Napoleon were Mated on a stick on the shores of Brest, it would amse Vurope to rum to arms, from one (mal to the other."-Abisott's Nipoleson B., vol. 2, ri. 20.
4369. POWER, Threat of. Agrippinu. At last the quarrel heweren [roung] Nero and Agrippim [his mother] became so tirree that she did not hesitate to revenl to him all the erimes which she had committed for his sake [including murder], and if she could not retnin her sway over his mind by gratitude, she terrified him with threats that she who hand rused him to the throne could hurl him from it. Britannicus was the true heir: Naro, but for her, would have re maned in mere Ahenoburbus [his former name]. She was the danghter of Germanicus; she would go in person to the pretoriun eamp, with Britannicus by her side, and then let the mamed Burrhus and the pedngogic Seneca see whether they conld prevent her from restoring to the throne of his fathers the injured boy who had been ousted by her intrigues on behalf of an adopted ulien. "I made you emperor, I can unmake yon. Britannicus is the true emperor, not you."-Fambar's Eamey Days, eh. 4, p. 23.
4370. PRAIsE, Demoralized by, Cicero. Cicero followed the counsel of C'into. İe set off in the middle of the night, and embarked at Brundisimm for Maedonia, on lis way to Thessuloniea, where he had fixed the secme of his exile. Here he betrayed in a lamentable degree the weakness of his mind. The letters whieh he wrote to Atticus. . " resemble more the wilings of an infint or the struins of a tragedy composed to draw tears, than the language of a man supporting the chuse of integrity in the midst of unmerited tronble." "I wish I may see the day (he thus writes to his friend) when I shall be disposed to thank you for having prevented me from resorting to i voluntary denth ; for I now bitterly regret that I yielded in that matter to your entreaty. What speeies of misfortune have I not endured? Did ever any one fall from so ligh a state, in so good a eause, with such abilities and knowledge, and with such a share of the public esteem? Cut off in such a career of thlory, cleprived of my fortune, torn from my chililren, debarred the sight of a brother dearer to me than myself-but my tears will not allow me to proceed." ". The historian I have just quoted truly says, "It appears from this and many other seenes of the life of this remarkable mun, that though he loved virtuous artions, yet his virtue was aceompanied with so unsuitable a thirst of the praise to which it en titled him, that his mind was mable to sustain Itself without this foreign assistance; and when the praise to which he aspired for his consulate was changed luto oblog fiy and seorn, he seems to have lost the sense of gool or evil in his own conduct and rharacter." How different this conduct from the sentiments he had expressed as a philosopher.-Typlan's Hist., Bowk 4, ch. 1, p. 403.
4371. PRAISE, Extravagant. Ciefro. Speeches of acknowledgment he had maturally to make both to the semate and the Assembly. In addressing the people he was moderntely prudent ; he ghanced at the treachery of his frionds, hat he did not make too much of it. He praised his owa good qualities, but not exiravagantly. lle described Pompey as " the wisest, best, and greatest of all mon that had been, were, or ever would be."-Froude's Cemalt, ch. 15.
4372. PRAISE, Offensive. John ILonorrd. [The philanthropist and prisoners' fricund.] News rearched him that a number of his admirers were preparing to erect a monument in his honor. It is no exaggeration to say that he was horrorstrichen at the intelligence. He wrote immediately to England to sily that if the design were arried out he should be ashamed to return to his comitry. Nothing, he alded, that his worst ruemy conld drevise conld be such a "punishment" to him as the erection of the proposed monument, and he wondered his friends should not have known him better than to sanction such a projeet. Ile dechared that he chaimed no redit for anything he had done, but that in his exertions on behalf of prisoners, he had been merely "riding his hohby-horse." In conseguence of his urgent entreaties, the srheme was given up.-Cychoredia of Broo., p. 74.
4378. PRAISE, Servile. Nero. He gave a loose rein to the monnest und most vicions passions. ILe prompted the young nobility to exhibit themselves as netors upon the stage; he forced the Roman knights to fight, like gladiators, in the arena; and in these disgracefnl amusements he bore himself a principal part. Burrhus, the (aptain of the pratorian gnards, in man of talents and of virtue-although, at times, he had appeared to show too much compliance with the will of his master-was not, in the opinion of Nero, sulliciently obsequions, and was therefore removed by poison. Upon his death, Seneca, who lost a powerful friend, retired from the conrt. Nero had vo longer any around him but the protligate and abandoned like himself. Popprea, a woman of great beauty but abandoned morals, had been seduced from her husband by Otho, who in his turn prostituted her to the emperor, to serve his own purposes of ambition. She soon gained such an ascendency over Nero, that he was induced to divorce his wife Ortavia to make way for her to the throne; and such was, at this time, the infamous servility of the Roman Senate, that a panegyric was pronounced in praise of the emperor, and a deputation sent to congratulate him on this auspicious event. Tytler's Hist., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 487.

437 4. PRAISE, Undiscerning. Rebuked. When Aristides gave in his accomnts, Themistocles raised a strong party against him, aecused him of misapplying the public money, and . . .got him condemmed. But the principal and most respectnhe of the citlzens, bueensed at this treatment of Ariatides, interposed and prevailed, not only that he might he exensed the fine, hut chosen again chief trensurer. He now pretended that his former proceedings were ton strict, and, carrying a gentler hand over those that arted under him, suffered them to silfer the publie money, without secming to timl them ont, or reckoning strictly with them; so that, fattening on the spoils of their commtry, they lavished their prases on Aristides, and, heartily esponsing his conse, herged of the people to contime him in the sime department. But when the Athenians were going to confirm him by their saffrages, he gave them this severe robuke: "While I managed your finamees with all the fidelity of an honest man, I was londed with columnies; and now when I suffer them to be a prey to public rolobers, I am becomea mighty good citizen; but I assure yon, I ann more ashamed of the pressent honor han I was of the former disgrace; and it is with indigmation and concern that I see yon esteem it more meritoricas to oblige ill men than to take proper care of the public revenue." By thus speaking and discovering their framds, he silenced those that recommended him with so much noise and bustle, but at the same time received the truest und most valuable praise from the worthiest of the eitizens.-Plutabcits Anistides.
4375. PRAYER, Brief, Dying. The Prineess Anne, danghter of Charles 1., died wbin she was very young. On her dying-bed she was reguested ly one of her attendants to pray. She said she was not able to say her long prayer, meaning the Lord's Prayer, but she wonld say her short one, "Lighten mine eyes, 0 Lord, that I sleep not the sleep of death." She hat no sooner pronouncel thase few words than her gentle spirit entered that bright and happy worhd where prayer is exchanged for praise.
4376. PRAYER, Brief. A Busy Man's. [Sir Jacob Astley] before the charge at the battle of Edgehill made a most excellent, pious, short. and soldierly prayer : for he lifted up his eyrs and hands to Heaven, saying, "O Lord, Thon knowest how busy I must be this day; if I forget Thee, do not Thou forget me." And with that rose, rrying, "March on, boys."-K viont's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 1, p. 4.
4377. PRAYER at Death. Simucl Johnson, previous to his receiving the IDoly Sacrament in his apartment, composed, and fervently uttered this prayer: "Almighty and most merciful Father, 1 am now, as to hmman rees it seems, ubout to commenorate, for the last time, the death of Thy Son Jesus Christ, our Saviour and Redecmer. Grant, 0 Lord, that my whole hope and confidence may be in His merits, and Thy mercy ; enforce and accept my imperfect repentance; make this commemoration available to the confirmation of my faith, the establishment of my hope, and the enlargement of my charity ; and make the death of Thy Son Jesus Christ effectual to my redemption. Have mercy upon me, and pardon the multitude of my offences. Bless my friends, have mercy upon all men. Support me, by Thy Holy Spirit, in the days of weakness, and at the hour of death, and receive me at my denth，to everlasting happiness，for the sake of Jesus C＇hrist．Amen．

437W．PRAYER bofore Fighting．General Niphme．［During the contliet of the Revolation， Skipyon，the genernl of the London truined bmadx．called them about him，now mude the fol－ lowing fiamous oratlon］：Come，my boys，my brave loys，let us pray heartily und hght henti－ Is：I will ran the same fortumes and hazards ＂ithyon．Remember the comse is for God，and for defance of yourselves，your wives，mad chit－ dren．Come，my honest，hrave boys，pray heart－ ily and tight henrtily，and God will bless nes．－ K゙a：

137\％．PRAYER of Gratitude．Abruham Lin－ coll＂．On the day of the receipt of the enpitula－ tion of Lere，．．．the Cabinct merting was held an low carlier that nsual．Neither the Presideut nor my member．．．was able，for atime，to give utteratice to his fecrings．At the suggestion of Mr．Lincoln all dropped on their knees，und offered in silence and in tears their lamble and heartfelt acknowledgments to the Nlmighty for the trimph Ite had granted to the Natiomal came．－Raymonden Lincols，d．73：
A3MO．PRAYER，HelpfuI．Abraluen Lincoln． Mr．Nomit Brooks，one of Mr．Lincoln＇s most in－ tinate ind persomal friends，in．．．Ifreper＇s Mrey－ ＂zine sives the following：．．To the remnrk that he might remember that in all these cares， ho was daily remembered by those who prayed， mol to be heard of men，as io man lad ever be－ fare been remembered ．．．he ．．．satid ．．． 1 dave been told so，and 1 hate been a good deal hulperd by just that thought．Then he solemuly and slowly added．＂I shombld be the most pre－ －amptums borkhead now this footstool if I for ome day thought I condidisedarge the chates which have come upon me since I came into this place without the nind and enlightenment of one Who is stronger and wiser than all others．＂－ Rimmond＇s Lancoln，p．730．
1381．PRAYER a necessity．Mahmuet．［After the siegre of Meecrl，he was followed by the dep－ uties oi Tayef，who dreaded the repetition of a sidge．＂Grant us，$O$ apostle of God，a truce of three vars，with the toleration of our ancient worchip！＂＂Not a month，not un hour．＂＂Ex－ －ルいいいンat lenst from the obligation of prayer．＂ ＂Withum prayer religion is of no avail．＂They suhmited in silence ；their temples were demol－ ished，and the same sentence of destruction was ＇xerolted on all the idols of Arabia．－Gibizos＇s Rome，（fl．50，p． 140.

I：382．PRAYER，Refuge in．Wushington．Mr． Pots the Quaker ．．relates that one day while the Ameriems we reencamped at Valley Forge ［dming the darkest days of the Revolution］he strollend up the creek，and when not far from his dam，heard a solemn voice He walked quietly in the direction of it，and saw Washington＇s horse fiod to a sapling．In a thicket near by was the lelowed chief upon his knees in prayer，his face sulfused with tears．Like Mosesat the bush， I satar felt that he was on holy ground，and with－ drew unobserved．－Benson I．Lossing＇s Note in（＇estis＇Wasimetions，vol． 1, ch． 6.

4383．PRAYER refused．Cromwell．The army amd the Parliament，instigated by the Puritans and rypublicams，determined on the king＇s trial．

Cromwell appenred to hesitnte before the enormi－ ty of the outrige．From his phae in the llonse he spoke more in the tone of min inspired enthusinst than a rational politician，and appented to sur－ render his consent under the inthenee of usuper－ matural impression．＂If muy one，＂suid he，with un extavngunt emotion which appronched insan－ ity，＂had voluntarily proposed to me to judge． aid pmish the king，I should have looked upon him as a prodigy of treason；but sinee Provi－ dence and necessity have imposed this barden on us，I pray II anven to bless your deliherations， although I 4 m not prepared to advise you fo this weighty mutter．Slall I confess to you，＂added he，in in tone and attitude of inward humiliation， ＂that when，a short time since，I offered up a payer for the preservation of his Mnjesty，I felt my tongue clenve to my palate？I took this ex－ traordinary sensation as an unfaxorable answer from Heaven，rejecting my humble entrenty．＂－ Lamantine＇s Chomwedi，p． 41.

4：384．
 Jtmes II．Some rigid Cal－ vinists［Covemonters］had from the doetrine of reprobation drnwn the consequance that to pray formy person who lad been predestined to per－ dition was an act of matiny against the eternal decrees of the Suprome Being．Three poor la－ horing men deeply imbued with this unamiable divinity were arrrested by an ofleer in the nelgh－ horhood of Glasgow．They were asked whether they would pray for King James VlI．They re－ fused to do so except under the condition that he was one of the elect．A file of musketeers was drawn ont．The prisoners knelt down；they were blindfolded；and，within an hour after they had been stopped，their blood was lapped up by the dogs．－Macaulay＇h Eng．，ch．4， 1． 464.

4385．PRAYER of Soldiers．Cromucell＇s．［Dur－ ing the revolution which preceded the Common－ wealth，Cromwell called in meeting of the oft－ eers of the army at Windsor Castle．］These zealons men spent one whole day in prayer． They were exhorted by Cromwell to a thorough consideration of their actions as marmy，and of their private ways as Christians．．．．They，with bitter werping，took sense and slame of their iniquitics．They came to a clear agreement that it was their duty to go forth and fight the ene－ mies that had appeared against them．－KNiont＇s Enct．，vol．4，ch．6，p． 80.

4386．PRAYER，Subdued by．A Miser．［Sam－ nel Hick，an marly English Methodist pracher， onee plead in vain with a rich miser for a dona－ tion to Coke＇s West ludia missions．］At last he fell upon his knees in prayer．＂I will give thee a gainen if thon wilt give over，＂said the covet－ ons man：lut he continued to pray for the miser， and for the heathen for whose salvation a guinea would have been so insignificant a pittance．＂I tell thee to give over，＂exelaimed the miser again ； ＂I will give thee two grinens if thou wilt give it up．＂Hick hore it away to a missiomary meet－ ing．－Stevens＇Methonina，vol．3，p． 126.

4387．PRAYER and Swearing．Andrew John－ son．Colonel Moody＂the fighting Methodist parson was in Nashville the day it was reported that［General］Buel had deeided to evaeuate the eity．The rebels，strongly reinforeed，were said to be within two miles of the eity．Said Moody ．．I found him in his office ．．．walking the floor . . , munifesting internse feceling, he sable " Moody, we are soldont! Buel is a trator !". . . 'Then he commenced pating the fleor, twisting his hames amd elanthg like a chamed tiger. Sudalonly he turued and suit, " Mondy, em you pray ?". . . As thu priy're berome fervent. Johnson eame over on his himels and knees to Moorly's side nul put his arm over him and manifosted the cleepest emotion. Closing the priyer with a hearty, "Amen" fromench, they urose. Johmson . . . sali, " Moody, I feel letter !" Shortly ufterwind lat suid, "Moody, will you stand ly me ${ }^{\prime}$ " " (Certainly I will," wis the manwer.
'The eorrent of his thought having chatuged, he nid, "Oh, Moorly, I don't wnit you to think 1 lave leeome it religious man becanse I askerl you 30 praty. I am sorry to say it, lunt 1 ammot, amd have never pretended to loe religions. . . . 13nt, Moody, there is one thing noont it-l do believe in Almighty Goil. And I believe nlso in the Bible, and I suy damm me if Nashville slamil he surremiered !" And Nashville whs uot surien-dered.- Raymonion Lincolis, p. itz.

IS38. PRAYERS, Attendance at. Josioh Qui". r\%. For slxtecn yenrs Mr. Quiney was l'resident of Ilarvard College-a dithentt and laborious oflice. His son tellsus, that, thring the whole sixforn yous of his presidency, be was never absent from the six-o'elock morning prayers but three times, and that was occeasionod by his being ohliged to attendia distant eourt ins a witness on brhaif of the eollege.-Cycionemin of Bioc:. 1. 759 IPAS. PREACHER, Remarkable. " Bluch II"," ry." Harry Hosicu, butter known as "Blark llarry." wis the travelling servint of lishops Asbive, and had a popnilarity as a preacher which execelled that of the bishop himself. Dr. Rash, whose prediletetions for Metherlist prenchinerare well known, did not disdatin to hear him, aml making allowaner for his illiterncy (for he

 as orator in Imeric:a."-STEVENs" J. E. Cuther, vol. : p. $17 \%$.

A390. PREACHERS, Lay, I'mrithus. [In 16:33, Whitelock, ambassumbr extraordinary to Swedem, was informed by the fimmons Queen Christima that she lind been told that many officers of the ( 'ommonwealth under ('romwell " will themselvers pray and preath to the soldiers." Aud she asked," Is thut trut "'" Whitelork replied], "Yes, manam, it is . . . very true. While their enenties are swearing, or debenthing, or pillaging, theothicors and the soldiers of the Parlimment's army Hidel to be encouraging and exhorting one another out of the Word of God, and praying toErther to the Lorl of Hosts for Ilis blessing to he with them, who hath showed Misupprobation of this military preaching by the success He hath riven them.
'Tis the opinion of many good mun with us, that a long cassock, with a silk gir('e and a great beard, do not make a learnedor grood preacher, without gif ts of the Spirit of God, and laboring in llis vineyard ; and whosoever studies the Holy Scripture, and is enabled to do good to the souls of others, and endeavors the same, is nowhere forbidden by that Word, nor is it Bamable."-KNight's ENa., vol. 4, ch. 9, 1. 144.
4381. - Puritans. [In 1642 the Puritun clergy were hated ind called "preaching robblers," "pulpit praters." somedefemlenl them " In a merry win," suyling that, when suld men first began to " tuke up that chity which the prelates let fiall," they emeli Invided the other's callingl-that clmodlers, cutlers, wemvers, ami the Hke prencled, while the urehbishop hinself, instend of preanhing, was lmaded in projecetsillont lasither, sall, somp, and such commeolitles as belomged to those tralesmen. - KNamt's ENa., vol. 3 , ch. 30,1 . 48.

4R92. PREACHING a Crime. In Srotlund. [By met of . . . Purlinment under Jmmes Il.] Ilis commumes wire obeyed. A statute frumed by the ministers of the crown wis promptly pissed, which stamels forth, even mong the stntutes of that unhappy comintry at that unhappy primod, pro-eminent inatrocily. It was emarted, in few but complatice words, thut whouver should premela in a conventicle under a roof, or shomal attemal, cither as premeher or as hemer, a ronventicle in the open air, shoud be punished with teath and rontlseation of property.-MAcillay's ENG., ( $\cdot$ h. 4, 1). 460.
4398. PREACHING a Daty. John Bunyan. Mr. Wingate, when the information was first bronght to him, supposed that he had fallen on n nest of Fifth Mommely' nen. lle infuired, when Bunyan was bromght in, low many nrms had been fonme at the meeting viren he lemeded that there were no arms, nul that it land no politieal character whatever, he evidently thonght it was a matter of no consequence. He told I3anyan that he had been loreaking the law, and asked him why he could not attend to his husiness. Bunyonsad that his object in teaching was merely to persunde perple to give up their sins. IIe combl do that mad attend to his hasiness also. Wingate answeral that the law must be obeyed. Ile must commit Bunym for trial at the Quarter Lissions ; but he would take bail for him, if his seromities would engage that he would not preath again meanwhile. Bunyan rafused to be buileal on my such terms. Prench he would and must, and the recognizances would be forfeited. After such in answar, Wingate could only semel him to jail : he coulal not helphimself.-F'roude's BunVAN, ch.
4394. PREACHING, Genuine. Reign of James II. [The king eonrted the linvor of Dissenters for the secret purpose of advancing the Rommu Catholic faith. By general indulgence they were relieved from persecutions. The Puritan] soon began to regret the days of perserution. While the pemal laws were enforced, he hind heard the words of life in secret and at his peril; but still he had heard them. When the brethren were assembled in the inner chamber, when the sentincls had been posted, when the doors had been locked, when the preacher, in the garb of it buteher or a drayman, had come in over the tiles, then at least God was truly worshipped. No portion of Divine truth was suppressed or softened down for any worldly object. All the distinctive doetrines of the Puritan theology were fully and even coarsely set forth. [To secure the favor of the court the preachers became conservative and hesitating.]-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 7, p. 213.
4395. PREACHING to please. Dangerous. [Preamble to the statute of 1703 , for making settled provision for the clergy, says:] "Divers mem and stipuodary premehers aro in many phees entermined to sorve the curres and oflerate there, who, deperdiag for noeressary maintemane "יpon the good-will nud liking of their henters, have been und are thereby under temptation of too much eomplying and sutithg thelr doctrine to the humors, ruhare then the goom, of their hemers: which huth been a grent oreasion of fration und schism, ind contrimpt of the minis. ury."-Knuur's Enu., vol. 5, ch. 17, p. 271.
4396. PREACHING, Proftless. " $\| u n \mathrm{q}$ in Chains." [lu 15:30] there was mimage in Wales called Gurvell Guthern, to which the people resorted by lamdreds, believing that, the wooden bork had power to suve. Durvell Guthern was brought to London and burnt in Smithfled. But the "huge and groat image" was brought moder the gnllows, where an observint frime Forest, was hang in chains ulive ; and the inloi behig set on fire moder the wrethered man, who was acensed of heresy and trenson, they ware consumed together. Worst of all, " there whs also prepured a pilpit, where a rirht reverend father in God, and a renowned and pions clerk, the Bishop of Worcester, colled Ihgh Latimer, declared to him [Forest] his errors, and openly and manifestly by the Scripture of God confuted them, and with many and godly exhortations moved him to repentance. But such was his frowardness, that he neither would hear nor speak."-KNioht's Ena., vol. 2, ch. 25, p. 408.
43307. PREACHING by Women. Sitmuel Jollison. [Boswell satid,] I told him I hul been that morning at a meeting of the people called Quakers, where I had heard a woman preneh. Jonsson: " Sir, a woman's preaching is like a dog's walking on his hind legs. It is not done well; but you aresurprised to find it done at all."Boswelli's Jolingon, p. 128.

4398*. PRECEDENCE, Infinitesimal. Sumul Johusen. Johnson, for sport perhups, or from the spirit of contradiction, eagerly maintained that Derrick hak merit as a writer. Mr. Morgann argued with him directly in vain. At lengilh he had reconrse to this device. "Pray, sir"," said be, "whether do you reckon Derrick or Sumet the best poet?" Johnson ut once folt himself roused, and answered, "Sir, there is no settling the point of precedency between the lonse mad the flea."-Boswela's Jolinnon, p. 489.
4399. PRECEDENCE, Quarrels for. A mbiarsadors. An idle dispute abont preectency hat happened in London between the Spanish and French ambissadors. Loutis immediately orderel the Spanish ambassador ut Paris to quit the kingdom, and recalled his own from the court of Spain. Philip IV. was threatened with a renewal of the war, unless a proper submission hould be made, and in acknowledgment of the , recedency of Frunce, to which that monareh was obliged to consent. A similar affront offeral to the French ambussudor at Rome wis followed by a yet more humiliating satisfaction. The pope was oblige ' to beg pardon by his legate, and a pillar was crected at Rome to perpetuate the affront and the reparation.-Tytleis's Hist., Book 6, ch. 36, p. 457.
4400. - - - Greeks. When the confedcrates came to have their severnl posts assigned then [in their contlict with the Persians], who mad invilegl (ireerer, there was a grent dispute beweren the Jegetion mud the Athembus, the Tregethe Insisting that, as the lacedomonians were posted in the right whig, the left helonged to them, ind, in support of thelr chinh, setting forth the gadiant methons of their momestors. As the Athenhans exprossed great indigmotion at this, Aristides strplod forwarin and saill: "Time will not promit us to rontest with the Tr pothe the remown of their ancestors and their fursomm bravery; but to the spartuns and to the rest of the Greeks we may shy that the post ndther gives valor mor takes it in way, and what-- ver post you assign us, we will entenvor to do homor to it, and take care to refleat no disgrace upon our former arhicerments. For weare no rome hither to guarrel with our allies, hat to thght our enemies ; mot to make encominms upon on forefnthers, but to approve our own comrage in the muse of Gremer. And the lumthe will soon show what value our country should set on every Shate, every promernt, and private man." After His speerh the councll of war dechared in faver of the Athenlans, and guve them the commund of the left wing.-Pber.inen's Abistiones.
4101. PRECEDENCE valued. CRarar. Whrm Julins Ceesur rame to a lithe town, in passing the Alps, his fricnds, by way of mirth, took ocansion to say, " ('an there here be my disputes for oflees, any contentions for precedency, or such envy and umbition as we ser among the great ?" To which Cesar answered, with great seribusness," I assure you, I hat rather be the first man here than the secomal man in Rome."

440\%. PRECOCITY, Remarkable. Jumes IIatt. On one oreasion, when lue was bending over it marble horath, with a pricee of chalk in his hand. a friend of his father said: "You ought to send that boy to a pablic sehool, and not allow him to tritle his time at home." "Look how,"my child is oreupied before you condemn him," replied the father. Thongh only six years of age, he was trying to solve a problem in geometry.Sahles' Buite Biogharmes, p. 4.
4403. - - Alexamer lope. The prococions boy, ufter the ure of twolve, haid to form his own mind, and work ont his own aspirations, in his "paternal cell " ut Biufiede. In this modest dwelling he wrote his "Pastorals," his "Windsor Forest," his "Temph of Fumb," his," Essuy on Criticism," his "Rhipe of the Lock." Ite set to learning Latin and Greek by himself about twelve, and when he was about fiftern he resolved that he would gor up to Lomdon and learn French and Jalian. At sixteen he formed an acquaintance with Wycherley, a min of seventy. IIe was known at that time to Congreve. At an earlier age he had been taken to a coffec-house to see Dryden.Knigit's Eng., vol. 5, ch. 26, p. 416.
4404. PBEDESTINATION, Belief in. William, Prince of Orange. The Princes of Orange hat generally been the atrons of the Calvinistic divinity, and owed no small purt of their popularity to their zeal for the doctrines of election and final perseverance.

His theological opinions, however, were even more decided than those of his ancestors. The tenet of predestination was the keystone of his religion. He even deelured that if he were to almadon that tenet, tending Providemere, mad must berome a mere Epicuremo. Macitay's Exa., eh. i, b. Lis.
4.105. $\qquad$ Somadimarians. T'ley beo lieved honplicitly in linte or predestimation, and in the ubsolite inipossibility of 12 mon's avoiding that comrse or dastiny whild was preseribed for him. But while this was thedr that persmaston, they nlowerl likewise the mornt ugeney of man. nud the possmblity of his deserving rewards and gumishments for his netions, a diflemelty which more enllghtemed people have long hibored to reooncile.-Tyтasis IIs'., Book is, eh. (I, 1. 2 D .

AOBS. PREDICTIONS, Editorial. Giril lín. The New York people derided the rebelliom. The T'ribune derlared that it was mothing " more or less than the maturat recomese of all memosspirited and defonted tymamies to pule or ruin. moking, of course, a wisle disthetion leetwern the will and power, for the langing of traitors is sure to hegin before one month is over. Jelf Davis & Co. will be swinging from the mattements of Wisldingtom, at lonst hy the Fourth Wath, ch. :3, p. 70.
4407. PREDICTIONs, Parental. Fow Peter Cinper. While the ax-lientemant (ooper was making and seding hats in a shop in Little Dock Street, a son was born to him, whom he named Peter, after the grant uposite, with a full comviction that " the boy would come to something," and with the conscientions conviction thant he had been instructed to do so by what he firmly believed to be a relestial vision. If it were but It superstition, the prolmbility secems very strong that somebody was right.-Lesteris lafe of Peten Cooren, p. 10.
4408. PREDICTIONS realized. Jín Tork. In one of the letters written to Stuyverant [the coloning governor] by the secrethiry of the [Wist Imin Compmy], the remarkable prediction is made that the commerce of New Amsterinom should cover every ocem and the shipsol' all mations erowi into ber harbor. But for many yenrs the growth of the eity was slow. As latie as the midelle of the century the better part of Manhattan Ishand were stili divided mong the furmers, Contril Dark was a forest of oaks and chestmuts. [17h century.]-Rimpatis U.S., cl. 19, p. 168.

M09. PREJUDICE, Commercial. Nittional Batak. The origimal plan of a mational lmank was met . . . ly every sort of objection. Some said it was a new thing, mal they did not understand it. Others said the projeet came from IIolland, and there were too muny butch things already. Tories said that a bank and a momarchy could not exist together. Whigs suid that a bank mal liberty were incompatible, for that the Crown would command the wealth of the bunk. [It was established in 1694.]-KNiant's Eva., vol. 5, ch. 11, p. $1 \% 1$.
4410. PREJUDICE, Deluded by. Reign of Charles II. The Marquess of Worcester . . . observed the expansive power of moisture raritied by heat. After many expeciments, he hat succeeded in constructing a rude steam-engine, which be called a fire water-work, and which he pronounced to be an admirubic and most forcible instrument of propulsion. But the maryness
 "Popist. Ilis inventions, therefore, fommel ma fiworable reerption. Ills the water-work migha, promps, furnish mutter for conversation it at meedlag of the Royal Soclety, but was not "pplli,
 ( 1.4 .4, p. 346.

Mil. PREJUDICE in History, Dimy/mius. It la not hapromble that the lmated which the: (irreks ever nfferted to bear to the mane of $1 y$ runt has muth thedr historinns hincken the chararter of Diongsins more thum he denervert. We read of the constant terroe ha was under of assassimation; of his never ventaring to harangue the people but from. the top of a tower ; of the dimgeon he contrival for the imprisomment of stute crimhals, constructed th the form of the cuvity of the enr, which, communienting whith an umerture in his private npmemem, lere combld distinetly hear uny word that the prisoner uttered: of the horror he hat of allowing himself to be sluved, and of his making his clunghters simge off his bearl with mut-shells. But how is all this comsistent withthe certain farts-of his commanding his armies lin person ; his oversereing his mumerous nrtisums comployed in the public works; his fumiliur interconese with nen of seicnere, his mugnithernt antertamments, mat, it lemgth, his dying of a dehanch at a public festival ?"Great allowance mast be made for the prejudices of those writers who have given us the character of Dionysius.-T'YTısM's Ilist., Book 3, ch. 8, 1. 330.
4112. PREJUDICE, Investigation with. Ro. man Eimperem Jution. Instend of listoning tothe proofs of Christimity with that favorable uttention which melds weight to the most respectable evidence, he heard with suspicion, mad disputed with obstinacy und neuteress, the cloctrines for which he nlreinly antertaned an invincible aversion. Whenever the young prinees were directcal to compose der chanations on the subjert of the prevailing controversios, Julian always drclared himself the advodate of Pagnism; under the specious excuse that, in the defence of the wenker cmase, lis larning and ingemity might be more advantageonsly exereised and disphayed. -Ghmon's Rome, ch. 22, p. 412.
A4IS. PREJUDICE, National. French-Enylish. The English . . . ne the only people who have been unable to clam the muthorship of the " Imitation of Jesus" : a Frenc-lnman might write it, it Germun, un Italian, never an Englishman. From Shakespeare to Nilton, from Nilton to Byron, their beatiful and sombre literature is seceptical, Judaical, Sutanic, in "word antichristian. "As regnrds law," as n legist well says, "the English are Jews, the French Christimes." A theologian might express himself in the same manner ns regurds fnith. The American Indinus, with that penetration and origimality they so often exhibit. expressed this distinction in their fashion. "Christ," said one of them, "was a Frencliman whom the English crucitied in London ; Pontius Pilate was an officer in the service of Great Britain."-Michelet's Joan of Ahe, p. 51.
4414. PREJUDICE, Opposition of. Reign of Charles II. [See No. 4882.] Anact, the lirst of our many turnpike acts, wis pussed, imposing
 $1^{\text {mane of }}$ kereping some parts of this tioportant lise wher preat avemues to the cuphtal were long left

 - Treeted, bat ost withont grent elillenity ; for an-
 ©

 pullol dowa, til] ilne trons hat in many dint ricets

 (1). :3, 1. :1.0.
A.115. PREJUDICE againut Progress. $I / m b l y$ lime. A man whar than whars in his gemeration, Filward, Jarid Judley, ohtained in 183) a patcont for smelthig fron ore by pit coml. Ite wombl probahty lato bestowedi famenser riches deatroved for an tuthrank of that pophlar figno. rasice which has tex often intermoted the coarse of s-inatifie improvensent. 'line motion of sumet. ink iron ore by fonl was not fairly triad till

AIAB. PREJUDICE, Reaotion of. Methorlism. 'The firn of being called Methotists was ome of thre cances that mome tow many of the elforgy rareless in their lives and indifforent in their voration [in the midide of the aighternth centa-

A-A7. PREJUDICE, Bectional. Nolth fud south. Tha somblaris peophe eonsidered that they were "Hי"ming [in the serossion strugghe] the enewis who hat proval himsedf a foe lo mankiad, religion, and rivilization.- Poblamis's Filmer

A.AIN. PREJUDICE and Superstition. Lepe's. [ln lisil] the lapers... Were pojmhrly ne. rumed of having poisomed nll tioc wills and fountains in Poiton nud Guiemule. The gromais of this larrible elarge aro not distinctiy known; the Lepres were reported to be under the intluviee of sorvery and matie, the lefiof in which Wha then universn] : mother uromant reprosented them as hired ugents of the Doorish King of Gramada: a thired, as areompliaes of the Jews. Tho Lepiris wore arrested ia all parts of Franere, and barbaromsly torlumed: avery patty otticial in tha kiagelom was anthorized lorlonl with them at his sole dis.retiom : nud grent multitules, thas condranned in detinnee of all forms of justice, perishodi in the flames.-Stionents Fusince, (1). $9, \leq 38$.

1A19. PREMONITION, Aooidental. Charles $I$. [la $16+3$, dhaing the divil wars, Charles I, was at Uxford, and, in the public libmary, one of his lords suggested, as a diversion, that the king wake it rial of his fortume by wotes lirgiliante, which was it usual kiad of angory some nges pas:. The king opened a Virgil at the part giviner] Ditlo's inprecation ngainst Enens, which Mr. Dryien trunslates:
" Yet let a race untam'd and hanglity foes, II is penceful emrance with dire arms oppose; ()ppress'd with numbers in th' umetual field, Jis men discourng'd, and himself expell'd,

Tet him for suceor sue from place to phece.
 Firat let hian mee hila friende la liatilu shina, And their madinely fate: lament in vain; Auf when, it lenght, the crued war shall rease.
 Nor let him then enjoy miprens cominnat, 13nt fail intimety liy some thoside lanal, And tle imbinted on tha lurren mad."
 In some masiore, provai upredledion of hidsoverthrow]. -KNum's lina., voi. 4, rh. 2, j. 20. dA20. PREMONITION of Death. (thutles IF, A clemily poinon had then mbministerent to mutjesus of the Kius of Navirre. A (terman physichan urrested the progress of the verom ly that, if ut uny time the issite shomidelase, fion death was inevitabie within Ifteren days. - A'reHENTY Filantre, ch. 10.
4.1931. $\qquad$ —— A
" sulei Mrw Stowe "toratum tincola. "No mun," sulei Mre Elowe, " has suftereif more and derpery, albeit will a diry, wemry, putlent pula, tlat mermed tonome like finsemsihility, than Presi. drot dincoln." "Whielaver way" it [the relsel. Hont emde," he suid to her, " I slan't last bour alter it is ovrr."-lRaviond's laseohen, p). 720 .

A-1222: ——— Abrehaut Lincoln. "Ile told me," says a eorrospondent of the Boston Jourwal, " Ibat bu was rartain he should not outhst the rolvillon." There was dissonslon among tur Repmbilinn leaders. Many of his best frionds lual divarted him, nul were talking of an opposilion . . . ronvention to nominate another condidatr ; and ind versul gloom was mimong the people. [ If also sadid, " I feel a presentiment that I slmil not outhast the relellion. When it is over my work will be done."-IRaymond's Lincoln, p. 727.

AMEB. PREPARATION, Conntant. "Minutemen." A.b. 1774. Ont of Boston thr power of [last royai goveruor] Guge wis nin rini. In the county of Worcester, the male lahabinants, from the age of slxteen to seventy, formed themselves into compunies nud regiments, chose their own offleers, nind agreed that one thind part of the anrolled shonld hold themselves primy' to march "at a minute's warning." "In time of jeater, praphre for whr," was the ary of tho mountry.-BAN. crofr's U. ה., vol. 7, ch. 11.
442. PREPARATION for Oratory. Drmonthracs. The substance of the speeches which ho heard he committed to memory, and ufterwarl reduced them to regular seatences ami periods, meditating a variety of corrections and new forms of expression, both for what others had suid la him and he lind adelressed to them. Ilence it was conchaled that lie was mot a man of mash genins, nud that all his elofnence was the effeet of labor. A strong proof of this seemed to ber, that le was seldom lamed to speak anything extempore, and though the peeple often called uperm lim by mane, as le sut in the assembly, to speak to the point delntel, le would not do it unless be came prepured. For this, many of the orators ridiculed him ; and Pytheas, in particular, told him that all his arguments smelled of the lamp. Demosthenes retorted sharply upon him, "Yes, inded, but your lamp and mine, wy frienul, are mot fonscious to the same labors." To others he did not pretend to deny his previons appilidution, but told them be neither wrote the Whole of his ormions, nor spoke without first committing part to writing. Ile firther nifirmad, that thas showed hat a gond member of a demosrutie atinte ; for the coming prepared to the rostrim wis a mirk of resperet for the people. Wharins, to be ragarilless of what the peeple might think of a man's mdiress showed his in--llmation for ollgarehy, and that be hat mother gained his point by fores than by persumblon. Another prow they give de of his want of ronts. denere on my modden oreasion. Is, that when ho happened to be put lato disorder by the tumalthary ledmelor of the perples. Demaden often rome "Ip tu supert him in an extompore mhifess, but he never dhe the same for Demales. - Pautaheits Demontilenem.

AA25, PREROGATIVE, Royal. Rriegn ef ser erus. The lawyers mat hatorians concurred in temeshing that the finptred muthority was helli, not by the ilclegated commission, bui by the Irrevo. cable resignation of the semate, that the [koman] Finperor was freed from the restruinte of the edvi latwe, and conld commmod by his arbitrury will the lives and fortmes of his subjeets, and might dispose of the cmpire as of his private patrimony. - Ghbisen's lrome, ch. i, p. 149.

4.426.

$\qquad$ . Jetmes II. James. . . was resolved to bring to issune the guestion of the king's dispensing power-that is, the right of the sovereifrn to abrogate express haws by the exeredse of his prerogntive. This prerogative had been exereised in the carliest times of the Constitution ; but had gradmilly become more and more limit. ad, as the legislative power had become more detineal.-Kniamis ENa., vol. 4, ch. 25, p. 407.

AAR7. PRESBYTERIANISM despised. By Charles II. Landerdale related to Burnet that the king [('harles II.] told him to let presbytury, go, "for it whs not a religion for gentlemen." [A religion of blindhess mad servilty whe the religion wanted.]-Kiniarr's Ena., vol. 4, ch. 15, 1. 解.

AR28. PRESENT deolined. Willitum Pitt. [In 1747 William Pitt whs paymater-general for George 1I.] When a subsidy wasmenneed ton foreign power, it had hern rustomary for the itching palm of ofllee to demmad $n$ half por cent ans its honorartum. Pitt astonished the King of Sardinia by sending him the sum without deduc. tion which Parliament had voterl ; and he raised hiv majesty's astonishment still higher when he relusda prosemt as ucompliment to his interg. rity. Pitt was a poor man.-KNartr's Evii, vil. 6, (fl. 12, p. $1 \% 9$.

4A29. PRESENT, A perplexity. The Firenth Minister. A dry humor, may, sometimea most कroll humor, guides his [Cromwell's] dealings with him. [Curdinal] Mazarin was, we know, it most miseralbte miser, a kind of griffin in threndbare wings, watching his henps and cellars of gold. How well Cromwell knew him. Ile sent presents t" Cromwell, we find-the riehest and the stateliest presents of hangings and pictures and jewels. Wherenpon Cromwell came out areneronsly too, ame sent the Fronchmun what he knew, to his nurket eye, would be of more value thim himgings. pietures, or books; he sent him some tons of British tin! Wis it not chancter-satle of the shrewilmese of the man? The supple

ASBO. PREAENTIMENT, A true. John Hom. ard. He hud astrong presentiment thent from this journey [ 10 the biast $]$ he should wever return, mad therefore thought it wrong to expone his servant to lis manifohi perils. The man, how. aver, su curnestly ratrented to beallowed tome. compmay hilm, thint his sermples wite ut hast over. come. All his prepmrathos were made with a view to the probability of his mever ngula sedug his mativo limd. Jte male his will witlo gremb small legacies to his dependents mal frlends, overlooking no one who had the slightest ilalm to his faver. [He went to lavestignte tho phages
 1. 73.
4.1:12. Presents bring Presents. I'midimg. Now records that the widow :ornwallis obhain prory be the timely pressint of some finc pind. dlags to the king [llenry VIII.] - KNmirt's Exa., vol. 2. ch. 25, 1, 413.
A.f:BL PRESENTS, Bollicitation of. Alexauthr. [Alexnader the (breat was generally mow offended at those whor refised his presente than at thome whonsked. . . favors.] He hal given nothing to Sermpion, one of the youths that played with him it buli, heranse low asked mothing. Ono day, when they were it their diversion. Sernpion took care ilwas to throw the inil to others of the purty; upoin which Alexander suid. "Why do you nol give it me ?" "Becunse you dhi not nisk for it," suid the youth. 'The ivpurtec pheased the klag murh; ber haghed. mal immedintely malle him very vahuble pres-emis.-Pherablelis Alexinden.
4433. PRESS defended, The. Liberty, [in 18:3) Charles $X$. of France signed inn ordinance by which the liberty of the perionicend preses was suspended. The proprietors and cditors of the chicf opposition papers consilted the most cminent hawers, who gave their opinion that the: ordinance was not legal, mad onght mot to lo: submitted to. Forty four condinetors of mewspaperssigned in protest in whish they dechared their intention to resist the ordinanere. The govermment said, "This protest has this day lost that character of legality which commande obedience; we resist it." "There wan orensionally a "ry in the streyts of "Long live the Churter ! Down with the ministery!" The mext day a more ominous cry went forth-"' Up with lib. arty! Down with the bourbons!" Sentinels were phaced around the offices of the fonr principal newspapers 10 prevent their sale, hat they wew thrown out of the window; then the presses were broken. Then followal the three terrible days of July-the revolution ngainst the fumily of Bourbons mad the uncrowning of Charles X .] - Kniait's Eno., vol. 8, ch. 13, p. 253.

44B.A. PRESs, Education by the. Eidget Allu" Proe. [Pee became joint-cditor of the souther" Literary Messenger.] Here we Inve Edgar lose insmaled at twenty-two ns a public teacher through the medimin of the press; a young man incomperent to manage a small store, matble to manage himself, und yet a public writer. Not muny montha puas in forc he lapenen Into him olil HAI'HIKB, P. the.

4AB5. PREAs, Froedom of the. Nefily by. Whath, lin 1065, the lingliali prose lerimmes sedi. thoms, [Joha Milton] ulvenited its frocolonit, waying: "'Though all the w! inds of doctrine wero let loone to phay upon the arth, mo trith lie fa tho Held, we ilo injurlounly, by dicenslug und prolilbiting, to mivionht lier atrongeth. Lat har and fulsehood arapple. W'ho ever knew trath put to the worso hin if fegminl open ensonnter $y^{\prime \prime}$ -

4183. $\qquad$ Likellowa. [In 180:] IBonaparto, inving leen gremily irritated by the netieles puhlishad lin Laghand, naked that the government mupress the awwanjures whleh piblished urtleles inilriomily to himself. Ho whs lifformed that the prose was free, tud heyond tho joowar of the government to suppress. We then alemanded the prosecention of 14 Fromeli puhlimher purto puined the conse.] -KNinit's Eino., vol. 7, Cl. 24, p. 4ㄹ.
4437. $\qquad$ Freterick the Girat. Ono bookseller went for the pulace n ropy of the most stlughag hompoon that perimps was ever written in the world, tho "Menotirs of Voltuire." polslislicd by Ihammurchads, umi nsked for his Mitjasty's orilers. " Do not mivertise it in min offensive manuer," mali thoking." but sell It by ull means. I hope it will puy you woll." Fiven minong statismaen necustomad to the licenme of a free press mill stemdfustiess of mind nis thim is not very common.-Macaulay's Fhedemick THE Gheat, p, 48.
 A mewspuper was ratabllaliod to dofend the popular conser: . . . its printer, John Peter Zenger, was luprisoned on the clatge of puhlishingr false amd matiosions libels.

At the trinl the publishing wis confessal; bint thenged Androw Humilton,. of Philulepor: plembing for truth. $\because$ Your cammot be admittal," juterripted
 evidenco." "Then." said Jamiltom to the jury, " we nppeal to yont for witnesses of the fitets. The jury have the right to determine both the luw and the finets, and they ought torlos so." [He plead for the canse of liturity,] ..."the liberty of opposing mrbitrury power ly spenking mud writing the trinh." The jury grive their verdiet, "Not gality." The penple of the rolonies exulted. . $X$ phtriot of the IRevolation estecmed this trial to have been the morning star of the Amerian Revolution.-Bancuofr's U. S., vol. is, cli. 24.

AABP. PRESs, Political. Frarch. [lioger L'Es. trange, inspertor of the press for charlas IJ. in 1660 , said:] $\Lambda$ publie merenry makes the maltitude "too faniliar with the aetions and conncils of theis superiors, too pragmaticul and censorions, and gives them, not only an itels, lut a colorable right and license to be meddling with the government." . . " To keep the mnltitude in the right course he thinks the prudent management of a gazctte may contribute to a very high degrec.'-Knigirt's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 17, 1. 281.

AAS. PREAS, Power of the. Hurcil. ['Tu' yrint lmke of Mirlborongh, nud hero of lilenheiti. was a liruvosoliliar, but n teorul aowaril. I'o his wifo ho wrotr. I" 'Ther villilnous wiy of printlus atalos inc to tho heart." 'I'his mornl eowarilere is "Thlo villahous why of printhig" wis "vor a terror to thes inner who woild rlmegos a redonibt wht the litmont coolsess. "liupre-bullets of tho brali" were far tuore terrible to him than ctı, 24, p. 134.

AAA. PRE冩, Progrese of, Americic. Anciurly
 In tho New World, was pulbished in tho city of devoled to from thonght und the cxtherton of rasemilty, was ratablishad ut IGomfon hy that iwo F'ranklin*- Jnmos nud Benjnmin. In 1740, Now York hail but one periorlical, Virgiaia onc, and Nouth ('urollma onc, and at the close of thos F'rench und Indinn wir thare were no more than chaf ohstacles to sum publlentons wore the alscxelon between distint seriloms of tho conntry. Ikoston mad l'hiladelphia hud anch no moro than difistern thomsand inhabitants: Now York but twetve thonsmat. In all Virginin there wan mot ous lmportnit tow. ; while us fur sonth us Georgin there was scorvely a ronsideruble villuge; to reach this widely sathered popmlation witi perloslicol publientions was gulte inmpossible. -

4AAL PRESS, Reaponsibility of the, Fuls: Nrics. 'The jullilianer of' falar nows was a person for whont the pillory was un especin] terror [la

AABS. PRESUMPTION, Foolish. Liernzi the
 showed himself to the roturning crowils in a majoutio nttitude. whli a mobe of pmrple, his sword, und gile spurs ; lant the holy rifes wore soon inturrupfed by his lavity and insolenor. laising from lis thronc, and ndvancing townrd threongregation, he prochatued in a lond volee:
 ent, and command him to reside in his dioceso of lRome; we nlso stmmon the surred rollege of cardimals. We ngain summon the two protend. ers, Charles of Bohemia nul Law of of 1havaria, who style thomselves comprors: we likrwise shmmon nll the electors of Germmoy, to inform us on what prefonce they have usarped the inaliomble right of the Roman people; the unciont und haw ful sovereigns of the वmpine." U'ushinthing his maiden sworl, he thrice brandished it to thethree parts of the worla, nud lhrice repeated the extravignot decelaration, "Amd this, too, is mine l" The lopres vicar, the Bislop of Orvieto. nttempted to cherek this curcer of folly; but his feeble protest was sileneal ly martinl music. Gibion's Rome: ilh. 70, 1, 4x:3.
444. PRESUMPTION, Reward of. Indignity. [Darins the Grat sent ambassators to the Athenians to demand earth and water, whieh denoted submission.] The Atheninns threw them into a ditch, and told them, There was earth and water enough, -Plutaiten's Themistocles.

AAS．PRETENDER，An honored，Mirlirl．I （treek，whostylad hilmsilf thr fallum of（＇mastin．

 lutad with the linte nind merbunations of tho

 In llog plons work of lise rostorition．Ilis cont－

 Would shak，at the lued of the coneluror，fato his 11． $111 \%$

 of the droat Bnjuza，nal elalmeal to lave lsurn was diseovered to lie man limposior mole exerited．｜ sevorul rival protemers；thirly persons are sail to have suiforeal mador the mine of Mustapha： slamte that the J＇urkish court was mot perferoly secure of the deatl of the lawfal primer．－（ini－

AMA7．PRIDE，Absence of．Julius（＇iswer． Abont himself nad has own exploits there is not one word of self－eomplaceney or self－mimimaton． In his writings，as in lils life，（＇usar is always the shme－diriet，st raight forward，unmoved，save by ocrasionml temdermess，deseribing with uncon－ solons simplicity how the work which lind bern forced upon him wis neromplished．－Frovene： CtinAR，解，2R．

4AAW．PRIDE，Charaotoristio，Nir Filirarle Symour．［Willinm of Grange had invaded ling－ land and he was woleomed liy the people．！The
 Who had recently lnherited at mronetey whiela adilend little to his dignity，nud who，in birth，in polition inthance，und in parliamentury abili－ tles，was beyomd eompurison tha foremost among the＇Jory gentlemen of Enghat．At his flrist andinme he is suid to have rxhibited his chame－ teristie pride in a way which surprised nud amused the prince．＂I think，Sir Edward，＂ snid Willinm，menning to be very eivil，＂that you are of the fimily of the puke of somerset．＂
＂Pardon me，sir，＂said Sir Bilward，whe never forgot hat he was the hend of the cleder brameh of the Seymours，＂the Duke of somerset is of my fumily．＂－Macaulay＇s Eno．，th．9，p． 469 ．
4449．PRIDE concealed．By IIw mility．［Agr－ silms was a dacedemomian．｜We have no por－ truit or statue of him．Ite would not suffer any to be made while he lived，and nt his death he utterly formode it．We are only told that he was a little man，mad that he bat not a commanding

A150．PRIDE，Defensive，simillel Joh u＊om．
 Lexterd that his not belag mlanitical whent ho ＂alled＂t him wam probubly mot lo be lomputed

 this，he lusisteil un loril（＇henterthellex meneral

 Looral Chestorflelil；lio is the promelent muns this ＂lay exlating．＂＂No，＂milel lor．Nilimes，＂there： Is ohe permon，it lomat，as proind；I lilak，by your ＂wn mecomat，yon are the probiler man of tho ＂War Ilefeunive prlda＊＂Jhla，I＊I）r．Adans will $\operatorname{mon}$, f．ilf． of＇t＇urkestan．．．．Hat the progress of＇the great mid，Joseph the（＇urlzminn prosimued to defond hee was promdared n cmplive ln the roynl tent，the sullun，fusiend ul proislug bis valor，severoly re－ pronched hils obstimate lolly ；nad the bisolent should le finstomed to four stukes，umi lift to ex－ pire ln that pminful situnton．It this comannma， the desperate（iurizindan，drawing a dagerer， rastad hembllong toward the throne：the gimaly rused their battle－axses；thelr zanl was rehecked ly $A!p$ Arslan，the nost skllful nreleer of tho aige：he alrew his bow，but his foot sllpured，the： arrow ghanerd ashle，und lee revedved in his hrenst tro chargir of Josej）h，who was instantly ent la pieres．＇The wound was mortal ：and the l＇urk－

 priale of kings．＂In my you＇h，＂salil Alp Ars－ han，＂I was mivised by is sige to humble myself loffore Goal；to distrist my own slrength，and never to dexpiso：the most iontomptiblo loe．I lave weglereded theso lessoms；mat my neglent fins been deserverlly jumisheil．Vesterdigy，us from an eminence 1 lebneld the mombers，the diseiphlne，and the spirit of my mrmies，the enrth weremed to tremble under my fore ；and I suld in my lanart，Surely thou art lhe king of tha！world， the grentest mid most invincible of wartors． These armies are no longer mine：and，in the contlence of my persomal strengih，I now fall by the hand of inn assussim．＂－Gimbon＇s l6ome， （ㄴ．57，p． 519 ．

AS52．PRIDE，Humiliated，Simuth Johnaon． sir Joshma［Reynolds］told me n plowsunt char－ netreristion］nacidote of Johason，nbont the time of their tirst uepunintamee．Whaen they wero ome avening logathar at the Miss Conterells＇，tho then Ibinchess of Arigle，mad mother lady of high rank，cunc in．Johuson，lhinking that the IIss Cotlarells were foo much engrossed hy thom， und that he and his liriend were begterted，ns low compmay of whom they were some what ashmmed， grow ingry：und rasolving to shock their sup）－ posed pride，lay making their crent visitors imm． ine dunt his friome that he were low indeed，le mdidressed himeself in a lond tome to Mr．leey－ molds．saying．＂Ilow much alo you think you and I coilal gel in a week if we were to work as hared as we combld $3-$-ns it they had beren common mechamics.-ibosiweta's dolinson, If 64.
4.45:8. PRIDE, Mortifed. Oliver (fo 'smith's.
 ons in compmay was the oremsion of his sometimes "ppacing to such disadvantuge as one shond hardyy bave supposed possible in a man of his genins. When his literary repmation had riwen domervelly high, and his sodety was much courted, he brembere jealois of the extrandinary attention which was everywhere jaid to Johnson bue erening, in a cifcle of wis, he fomm fimit with me for talking of dohmon as entitled to the homor of maquestionable superiority. "Sir," said he, " $\quad$ an are for making a momarely of what should be a republic." Ite was still more mortitich. when, talking in a company with thent vivacity, and, as he thatered himedf, to the admiration of all who were presrint, in German who sat next him, and preroived Johnsolitolling himself, as if about to speak, suddenly stupped him, saying, "Stay, stayToetor shomson is groing to say something." Boswelás dohnsos. 1. 210.

4A5.A. PRIDE of Rivalry. ('icero. Cicero's natural phace was at cressirs side ; lnit to cessar alone of his contempraries he was consedons of :m inferiority which was $i$ idolerable to him. In his own eyos he was alwags the tirst persom. He hat been made mhapy liy the thought that posterity miglat rate Pompey above himself. Closer incpuintanar had renssured him nborit Pomarey, lut in C'esar he was conscious of a higher jresemere, and he refolled agminst the hat miliating acknowledgment-Froides Casab, (l. 1 . $2:$ i.

4i55. PRIDE, Sacrifices for. Oliter (roldismith. [lle had suddenle resolved to gro beyond the sea -anywhere. Jlin mortitication herause of re. prowit in college Was the cause. Sere No. 5369.] Ho ureordingly sold his books and dothes, and salliad forth from the college walls the very next day, intending to embark it Cork for-he scarce kiew where-Amerim, o: any ohber part leyond -an. With lais us bal heedhess imprudence, however, he loitered about. Dublin until his thamees were reduced to a shilling ; with this amount of sperie he set out on his journey. . . For three whole days he subsisted on his shibling; when that was spent, he parted with some of the dothes from his back, nutil, reduced abmost to nakedness, he was four-and-twenty lours without food, insomuch that be dechared a landfind of gray pense, given to lim by a girl at a wake. was one of the mast delicions repasts he had wer tasted. liunger, fatiguc, and destitution bronght down his spirit and calmed his mager. Fain would he have retraced his steps, could he have done so with any sallvo for the lingerings of 4556. PRLDE, Subjugation of. Luther. In the monastery every one was proud to see the yonthful ind learned seholar in the garb of the orter-the black owl with the sempulary. Yet the new arrival cond not be exempted from any of the most menial serviress which it was rustomary to impose npon the novices in order to break theirself-will ind to overcome their pride. Thus Luther was obliged to assist in the cleaning of the cells. II was also sent our with the beggar's stich, through the streets of the eity, to solit it food and money. And nhthongh he himself did not feel hmoniliated in the performunco of these menial datios- lor he was haspired with a burning desire faithfully to fultil his vows of peverty and obedience-yed the professors of the minversity interposed their objertions--REin's Li'theis, ch. 3, p. 3u.

AAS7. PRIDE, Vainglorious. Henry ITII. He had one ereat oljeet ever present to his minit in pence or in war : to display Jenry her king, in his presumed superiority of mind and boely, made doulhy impressive by his regal magnitirence. I more vainglorions and self-willed coxromb never wore a crown. In his first expericuce in war, in 1513, his qualities were exhibited in a why which sulheiently betokens the total absence of real grentness of charmeter.

4438. PRIESTS, Interference of. Mcddling. The interferener of the clergy with men's temporal atfairs was never-ceasing ; and the othriousmess was often hastily resented by nembers of the family where the priest was supreme. John Paston © ©mphans that his mother's chat)lain has turned her affection from her sons: "Sir Jimes [the priest] and I be twain; we fell out before my mother with ' thon prond priest,' and ' thou proud sefuire,' my mother taking his part, si I have nlmost slme the bolt of my mother's house." [a.D, 1450-1485.]-Knigut's Eng., vol. 2, ch. $\mathrm{K}, \mathrm{p} .12 \mathrm{~s}$ ).
4.159. PRIMOGENITURE disregarded. $\quad / d$ Testament. Their whole history, far from firvoring the notion that primogeniture is of divine institution, would rather seem to indicate that younger brothers are under the especial proteciion of llewren. Isatac was not the eldest som of Abraham, nor Jacol of Isame, nor Tudnh of Jitcob, nor David of Jesse, nor Solomon of David. Indeed, the order of seniority mmong children is seldom strictly regarder? in countries where polygamy is practied.-Macadlay's Enci., ch. 1, p. 67.

AGO. PRINCIPLE, Importance of. Tax on Tea. "You are tuarrelling in hreepence a pound on tea, an atom on the shoulders of $a$ giant," said the Tories ; . . . [Alexander Hamilton] answered, "The Parliament claims a right to tax us in all cases whatever; its late atio are in virtue of that claim ; it is the principle against which we contend."-Banciof't's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 19.

AAG1. PRINCIPLES limited, Jomes $I I$. A filfal delusion hat taken possession of his mind, which was never dispelled till it had rumed him. He firmly believed that, do what he might, the members of the (lourch of Enghand would act up to their principles. It had, he knew, been proclamed from tell thousind pulpits, it had been solemmly dechared by the University of Oxford, that even tramy as frightina as that of the most depraved of the caesilss did not justify subjecta in resisting the royal anhority, and hence he was weak rinongh to conclude that the whole body of Tory gentlemen and clergymen would let him phander, oppress, and insult them without lifting an arm against him. [Je made the attempt and was lriven from the throme into exile in France.] - Macal'tay's ENci, ch. 6, p. 88.
1462. PRINCIPLES, Weight of. Iudepenelene Day. The nation, when it made choice of a day for its great anniversary, selected not tha day of the resolntion of independenee, when it chosed the past, but that of the decharation of the prineaples on which it opened its new career.-BANChuET's U. S., vol. 8, ch. 70.

AAB8. PRINTING, Beginning of. $A n A l m e m e c$. In 18:\%, Stephen Daye, un English printer, arrived at Boston, bringing afont of types, and in the following yemr set upa press at Cambridge. The tiest Amerienn pebbleation was an almanac calculated for Now Enghund, and benring the dace of 16339 . Diring the mext your Thomas Weldeand John Eliot, twoministers of laoxbury and Riehard Mather, of Dorchester, translatid the I Iehrew Panhms into Engrlish verse, and published their rude work in a volume of threc hanlred pares-the first. book printed on this side of the Athmic.-RıI'ATu's U.S., ch. 13, p. 132.
4464. PRINTING restrioted. $l^{3} u n i x h m e h_{t}$. [In 1638 the Star-Chumber attempued to regulate the press. J3y its deeree, "printing in corners without a lieense" was punishuble by the orthodox process of whipping and the pillory.]-KNiant's Ena., vol. 3, ch. 27, p. 431.
4465. PRINTING, Suspicious. Magic. The rircumstance which, of ath others, most condured to the alvancement amd miversal dissemination of learning at this period was the admirnble invantion of the art of printing. Printing seems to have been invented abont the year 1440 , at Strasburg, by John Gutenberg. hut considerahly improved by John Finst and Peter Schöffor. This noble invention was, at its first nppearance, deemed so extraordinary that the servarits of John Faust, who came to Paris to sell some of his enrly publieations, were aceused of magre, and the Parliament orlered all their books to be committed to the fiames. It must he owned, however, to the honor of Louis XI., that he contdemned this decision of the Parisian judges, and ordered the value of the books to be paid to their propictors.-Tr'tlen's Ifist., Book 6, ch. 16, 1. 253.
4.16B. PRISONERS, Cruelty to. Englind. [In 16i37, the sheriff of Lonton was sent for to answer a charge of having been kind to Mr. Pryane as he passed on his way to prison at Carmarvon. Mr. Prynne had written a book against theatres.] -Kninit's EN(i., vol. 3, ch. 26, p. 423.
4487. $\qquad$ " The Fleet." Those prisoners who refused to bear their oppressions [from extortionate and avaricious keepers] without rimonstrance wore put in irons, and were confined in dampand loathsome dungeons. [In the same city, a similar prison for debtors, the Dlarshalsen, diselosed similar enormities.] Thumb-screws and iron skull-caps were here the recerbed instruments of torture. Three humdred and hiorty prisoners were crowded into a few narrow wards. forty or fifty being locked up through the night in a room sixteen feet sumare. The prison allowavee was insullicient to support life, and the donations of the chmritable wore intereepted by the seoundrels in anthority. - KNagmt's Ena., vol. 6, ch. 4, p. 65.
446. PRISONERS, Enslaved. Indian. In the prosecution of the war the eolonists were actuated by a slameful spirit of avarice. The objeet was not so much to punish or destroy the savages as to take them prisoners. A bounty was offered for every captured Indian, und as fast as the warriors ware taken they were sold as slaves for the West Indles. The petty strife contimued for a yoar, and wis then roniduded with a treaty of peace.-Romporas L. S., ch. is, p. 232.
460. PRISONERS, Extortion from. Flect. [In 1730, in the mumagenent of the Filent, one of the Lomdon debtors' prisons [a system of framd amd extortion was laid bure ly a commatlece of latrlimment], which showed how impossible it was for any but the afluent prisonur for oltain the lumblest lodging and the coarse'si fond. Thume without money were handed over to "the contmon side;" too happy if disamse. checendered by filth and starvation, soon reloased them from their miseries. - KNiante's ENu., vol. 6, ell. 4 , 1. 64 .

4A70. PRISONS of Ty゙ lum many Bustilles, v or sentenice, men sus ..... ;

 royal conrtior or a royan i ina ress, might be shat up even to the ame of the ir discs, wherer the atrthority of a lettre de eftrlut, thromigh whose my-. trrions urenry they vanished ont of society, ama
 p. 171.

4A71. PRIVACY of Conversation, Letcemirmonean. [All thr lacedremonian poople ate their daily food at the public tables. The followins custom prevailed:] When they first anterad. the oldest man juesent pointed to flu door, and aide, Fot a toord spokirn in this compunay foes emit the ir. - Plecrancin's Lactruirs.
478. PRIVATIONS, Ministerial. .Joh"/ II w ley. Returnlng from it. Jilary Downs, Mr. Wisley and his assistmet, Iolm Nreson, sopperd in pick blickberries. Wesley said, "Brothur Nilunn, we ought to be thankful that there are phenty of blackberries. for this is the besi rommey I iver saw for getting a stomath, hat lle worsi I ever saw for getting food. Jo the prople think we "an live ly prearhing "" Neisom replient. "I know not what they may think; hat onte acked me to ent something as 1 (emme from tit. div, When I atr lametily of larley bremd and homes."
 begring a crast of hread of the woman where [ met the people at Morvah, but forgot it till I hal got some distime from the house."——rtivesu' Mryalonsu, vol. 1, 1. 1!3.
 of Scotliend. [By King Edward 1. of Enclan!].] The tight of Brice left his followers at litward's merey. Noble after mohle wassent to the blawk. The Earl of Athole phended kindred with royalty. "IIis only privileqe," loms forlh thr kine, $\therefore$ shall be that of being lamged on a higher ard. Jows than the res.."-lIsst. of Vive. PEurik, $\div 292$.
4.474. PROCFSSION, Funeral. A/c.x, mbres. Aridams having been leputed . . . An takr ipon himself the care of that solomatis, had comployed two years in preparing everghing that condat possibly render it the most pempous and sphendid faneral that had ever been seren. Whert atl things were rendy . . . orders wore griven for the procossion to begin. This was precedeal by a grait number of pioneers and other worknen, Whome ollier was to thake all the ways patidenble through whieh the procession was to pass. As soon is these ware le velled, that magnitleent - hariot, the invention and designof which mised as much admimation as the immense riches that Elittered all over it, set ont from Babylon. The borly of the chariot tested upon two naletrees, that wore inserted into four whede, made after ther Persim mamer; the maves and spokes of which wore covered with gold, amb the felloes phated wer with irom. The extremities of the axletrees were made of gold, representiong the mazales of lions bitines a dart. The chariot had fint poles, to each of which were harnessed four sits of mules, mell set consisting of four of those mimals; so that this charion was dawn by sisfy lour mules. The strongest of those creaturess aind the hargest were elasen on this oceasion. They were mborned with reowns of gold, and collits curiched with precious stones and golden bells. - Roman's IItst., Book 16, 号 3 .

4.175. PROCESSION, Royal. Cined Emper'or's. The rites of poliey were connected with those of religion, and his visits to the priueipmal churehes were regulated by the festivals of the Greek calmalar. On the eve of these proressions, the gracions or devout intention of the monarel was proclaimed by the hemales. The streets were cleared amt puritied; the pavement was strewed with flowers ; the most precions furniture, the gold and silver plate, and silken hangings, were disphayd from the windows and bateonies, and a suvere diso ipline restraned and silenced the tumult of the populace. The mareh was opened by the military officers at the had of their troops ; theycwere followed in long order by the magistrates and ministers of the civil govermment; the person of the emperor was guarded hy his enmuchs and domesties, and at the chureli door he was solemaly received by the patriarch and his clergy. The task of applanse was not abmaloned to the rude and spontaneous voices of the crowd. The most convenient stations were occupied by the bunds of the blue and green factions of the circus; and their furious contlicts, which had shaken the capital, were insensibly sunk to an emulation of servitute. From either side they echoed in responsive molody the praises of the emperor; their poets and musicians directed the choir, and long life and victory were the burden of every somg. The same achamations were pertormed at the andience, the bantuet, and the church; amb, as an evidenee of boundless sway, they were repeated in the Latin, Gothic, Perima, French, and even English langutge, by the meremaries who sustaned the real or tictitions chamacter of those mations.-Gmbon's Rome, els. 583, p. 358.
4476. PROCESSION, Triumphant. Rmmun Emperor Aurelien. Since the foundation of Rome, no general had more moly deserved a triamph than Aurelian; wor was a trimmphever relebratch with superior pride and magnitiernce. The fonal wa apenod by wenty elephants, four royal time $\mathrm{s}^{\prime}$, and above two limulred of the anost curions animals from every elimate of the North. the Fiast, and the south. They were followed by sixteen hambed rladiators, devoted to the crued amusement of the amphilheatre. The wealth of . $\operatorname{sia}$, the armsand rasigns of somany compuered nations, mad the magnifiecon phaterad wardrobe of the Syrian quern, were disposed in exuct symmetry or arthol disorder. The monbissuldors of the most remote parts of the earth, of Ethopia, Ambia, Persia, Bactriam, India, and (Chima, all remarkable by their rieli or singular dresses, displayed the fame and power of the Roman Emperor, who exposed likewise to the public view the presents that he hat received, bud particularly a great mumber of crowns of gold, the offerings of grateful cities. The victories of Anrelian were attested hy the long train of ciptives who rehetantly attended his trimmph, Goths, Vambals, Sarmatians, Alemami, Franks, Gauls, Syrians, and Egyptians. Each people was listinguisbed by its perenliar inseription, und the title of Amazoise was bestowed on ten martial heroines of the Gothie mation who hat been taken in arms. But every eyr, disregarding the crowd of captives, was tixed on the Emperor Tedricus and the Queen of the Enst. The fore mer, as well as his son, whom he had erented Angustus, was tressed in Gallie trouserss, a saffron tumic, and a robe of purple. The beanteous figure of Zenobin was confined ly fetters of gold; a slave supported the gold chan which encireled her neek, and sle almost fainted under the intolerabie weight of jewels. She preceded on foot the magnitiocent clariot, in which she onee loped to enter the gates of Rome. It was followed by two other chariots, still more sump thous, of Odemathos and of the Persimn monareh. The trimphal car of Aurelian (it lund formerly leen used by a Gothic king) was drawn, on this memorable oecasion, either by four stags or by four clephants. The most illustrious of the Semate, the people, and the army, elosed the solemn proression. So long mad so various was the pomp) of Aurelian's tribmph that although it openced with the dawn of day, the slow majesty of the procession ascerbled not the Capitol before the ninth lourr ; and it was already dark when the emperor returned to the palace. The: festival was protracted hy theatrical representations, the gumes of the circus, the liunting of widd beasts, combots of ghdiators, and naval en-gagements.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 53, p. 359.
4.477. PROCRASTINATION, Fatal. Archias. Pelopidas, with eleven of his frimels in the disguise of peassints, entered the city [of Thehes] in the dusk of the evening, anel joined the rest of the conspirators in the house of a prineipal citizen, of the mane of Charon. Philidas, who ate ed as secretary to the polemarchs or chief magistrates of 'Thebes, was, seeretly, a steady friemel to the design, and had purposely invited the chicfs of the oligarely and the prineipul of the Spartan commanders to a magnificent supper at his house, where, as a part of the entertainment, he promised to regale his guests with the company of some of the handsomest of the Thelma courtesms. While the guests, warm with wine, eagerly called for the introduction of the ladies, a conriar arrived from Athens, and brought a letter to Arehias, the chief governor, desiring it to be instantly read, as containing important business. "This is no time." said the voluptuary, "to trouble us with hasiness; we shall consider of that to-morrow." This letter eontained afull diseovery of the plot. Mantime Pelopidas and his cobingnions. Iressed in femmeattire, ratered the hall, amd and drawing a dagger from mader his robe, massured the governor and the whole of the spurtan offlers, hefore they hal time to stand upon their dofence.-Tymenes Hist., Book 2, ch. 3, p. 162.

A478. PRODIGALITY checked, By Instruction. [James I. was ignormatly lavish of his favors. He gave Robert Carr an order on the lord treasarer for $£ 20,000$; but the treasarer, apprehending] that the king was ignorant of the worth of what was demanded, as of the persom who had berged it [pheded the $f=0,000$ in sperie $\quad$ upon the llow of a roon to which the king was conting]. "Whose money is this ?" said Jamers. "It was your Majesty's before you gave it awas:" The king threw himseld nom the heap, and swore that Carr should have no more than afew hamdred pomils.-Kxidires Evo., vol. 3, ch. 22, p. 341 .

A479, PRODIGALITY encouraged. Ruinoms. Philosophere rose to tell the prodigal great that they were in the right conrse, for that private vieres were public benctits; and so, in very charity to the provider of huxuries, the comatry syuire became a rake nom the town, and his estates went to ruin, and all " his poor dependents folt the curse of his liecntionsness." K Kicime's Ext., vol. 5, cli. 4, p. 49.
4480. PROFANITY irrepressible. Wawhingtom. ['Theadvance of the army was in retreat it Mommonth by the cowardiee and incapacity of General lere, its commander.] The chief was exasperated. . . . When he met Lee, he exphimed, in tieree tones. "What is the meaning of all this, sir ". Lee hesitated a moment, when, acrording to Safayette, the aspect of Washington becme terrible, and hengain demamded. "1 desire to know the meaning of this disorder and ronfusion !" The tiory Lee, stomg by Washington's manner, mate an angry roply, when the chief, umalle to control himself, caldod him "a dammed poltroon." "This," sitid Laliaycite, . . . "was the only time 1 ever hemrl Gemeral Washington swear."-Crstas' Wasminatos, vol. 1 , ch. $\overline{\text { b }}$.
481. PROFANITY punished. Puritans. [In 16 ins prolaners were punished by the officers of the law.] Swearing hat been a statutable crime since the time of dames 1 ., but the extreme Paritans tonly visited profane cursing with tine and the storks, but pamished even such as for lowed ladly Parry's exampte of " Good sooth ;", amd " God shath mend me," " Plague lake you," was fincable.-Kincirt's Exa., vol. 4, eh. 11, 1. 173.

4\%2. PROFANITY, Ruinous. Robespicire. The "Fête de lEtre Suprême" . . . was a theatrical exhibition of wery questionable taste, in which Robespierre, as president of the convention, phayed the part of high-priest, with ill-concoaled self-exaltation and trimmph. At this morment the tyrant may be salid to have attaned the summit of his extraordinary fortumes: and, by a strange fatallity, it was on this oreasion that the first seds were sown of that hostile coalition which in the course of a few weeks was to arhiere his ruin. Great dissatisfaction was excited by the pre eminener assumed at the festival by Robespierre over his colleagues. Various threatening hints were dropped in his hearing: " It is but it step from the (apitol tothe Tarperim Rock." said one : " Ife wond :neratom the republice to adore some one, in order to make himself adored loy and by," exchamed another.-Stroments' Fuance, ch. 2 t , : 6.
4488. PROFANITY, Sappression of. Christupher Wren. When Sir Christopher Wren was huiking St. Paul's Cathedral, he cansed the for lowing notice to be allixed to several parts of the structure: " Whereas, anong laborers and others, that angodly cistom of swaring is so freguenty lanard, to the dishomor of Gol und contempt of Jlis anthority; mud to the emd that such impiety may be utterly hanishad from these works, which are intemied for hae service of Gexd and the honor of religion, it is ordered that profane swearing whall be asullacient crime to dismiss uny laborer that romes to the call : and the clerk of the works, upon a suthicient proof, shall dismiss him accordingly; mad that if any master, working by task, stmil not, "pon ndmonition, reform the profanationamong his apprentices, survats, and hborers, it shall be remstrued his fault, and he shanl be liable to be censured ly the commissioners."
4AW4. PROFESSION, Cholce of. Acridental. It was by accident that [Julias] ('eesar took up the profession of a soddicr ; yed prohaps no rommander who ever liven showed grealer military genims. The compuest of Ganl wes by a force numerically insigniticmint, which was worked with the precision of a machine. The variety of uses to which it was capable of leoing turnerl imphed, in the tirst place, extraordinary forethought in the solection of materials. Men whose nominal duty was merely to light were (mgincers, architerets, merchanics of the highest order. In a few hours they rould extemporize an impregrable fortress on an opern hill-side. They tridged the Rhine in a werk. They built athet in a month. The legions at Alesia held twice llair momber pimed within their works, while they kept at haty the whole foree of insurgent Ganl, entirely by seiontife superiority. The machine, which was thus perfect, was composed of hmman beings who required supplies of tools, and moms, and clothes, and foot, and shelter, and for all these it depended on the forrthought of its commander.-Fuotentis ('s:an, ch. 28.
4185. PROFESSION by Coercion. Dr. Almbrion C'mbe. Although he had chessen to be "ad doce tor," when tinatly asked " what he would be." his mawer . . . was. "I'tl mo be macthing." Ite would give no further mawer ; ind, after all kinds of " Heechin'" and persmating were tried, he had at lemeth to be cerriad be fore ont of the house to begin his professional arerer! [Betwern his father and brother he was carricid] several hundred yards before he would put his feet to the gromad.-Smiles Briew Bonikiphas, p. 369.
4486. PROFESSION, Hereditary. Equphialis. All professions in Earypt were hereditary, a piece of policy . . which deserves much more to be condemined than applanded. If the same dispositions and the same talents descended invariably from father to som, we might agree with M. Bowsuet in holding it presumathe that men wonld exerute in greater perfection what they had ahwas secondone, and what had been their sole employ ment from infancy: lut daily experience shows that meither tatents nor inclintit, is are invariably hereditary, and therefore the :argument is futile.

But not only were ull professions hereditary mongen thes pople ；the rank moldignity of earli was most scrupulously setthed，nor could nuy cmi－ sence of merit or of fortune entitle un individ． wal to higher respect or honor than whit belonged to the memest of his chass ；a polic＇y repressive of all emulation，and of that generous ambition on which every species of exrellence depends； while，at the same time，it was a fertile somereot jaalousy，animosity，and disunion．－＇TYThen＇s H1sT．，Book 1，ch．4，p． 46.

4－187．PROFESSION ignored．Reign of Chutlex $I I$ ．Any lad of moble birth，any dissolite cour－ tier for whom one of the king＇s mistresses would npeak a worl，might hope that a ship of the line，and with it the honor of the comintry and the lives of limalreds of brave men，wonld be committed to his anre．It mattered not that he lam never in his life taken a vogage except on the＇Thames；that he could mot kerphis feet in a brecze；that he alial not know the difference be－ tween latitudeand longitule．No previous tain． ing wis thonght noressiary ；or，at most，he wis sant to make a short trip in m man－of－war，where he was subjected to no dise ipline，where he was trated with marked respect，and where he lived in a round of revels and ummsements．If，in the intervals of feasting，drinking，mol gambling，he suerectled in leaming the meaning of a few ferb－ nioul phases and the nmmes of the points of the rempass，be was fully qualified to take charge of a three－rlecker．－IIacaulay＇s ENi．，ch． 3 ， 1． $9 \times 1$ ．

4ANE，PROFESSION，A suspicious．Reign or James II．［Pledges of support were sent to Will－ iam Prince of Orange，if he would come from ［Iollind and deliver Englind from the oppres－ sions of James．］Lord ．．．（＇hurelitl，in a letter wrtten with a certain elevation of hanguage， which was the sure mark that he was going to commit a haseness，dechared that he was deter－ mined to perform his duty to Lheaven and to his coumtry，and that lie put his honor absolutely into the hands of the Prince of Orange．Willinm doubtless read those words with one of those hit－ ter and cyuiond smiles which gave his face its least pleasing expression．It was not his bisiness w take sare of the honor of other men ：nor hat the most rigid rasuist pronomneed it malawful in a general to invite，to use，and to reward the sor－ vices of deserters whom ho conld not but despise． －Macaclay＇s ENQ．，eh．9，p． 407.

4．159．PROFITS，Eagerness for．Tobacro． Hitherto the labor of the settlews had been direct－ erl to the planting of vincyards amd to the mama－ farture of potash，seap，gliss and tar．The man－ agers of the london（ompany had at last leamed that these articles combl lie prodnced more cheaply in Europe than in America．They had aloo discovered that there wrere rertain products peroliar to the New World which might be raised amal exported with great protit．Chiof momong such native products was the plant ralled tobat－ （ $\because$ ，the use of which had alrady becomt fashion－ athe in Spain，Englamd，amd Frime e．Thas，then， lecame the leading staple of the colony；and was even used formoney．So entiraly did the sottars give themselver to the cultivation of the famons weed that the very strects of Jimestown were ploughed up and planted with it．－Rionatis＇s U．S．，ch．11，1． 109.

A490．PROFLIGATE，Royal．Queen of Spain． King Charles IV．was a glatonous old man，im－ becile in mind，impotent in actlon，dissolute in life．He was utterly despised．His wlfe，Louisa Marla ．．．was as shameless a protllgate as conld he found in any dwelling of Infumy in Spuln． Manual Godoy ．．Whs one of the bodyguard of the klug．．．．IIe sung beautifnlly ．．．the queen sent for him to the palace ；lavished upon him wealth and honors，mind surrendered her hushand， the government，and her own person without re－ serve，into his hands．．．．The imberile old king －mequicesced in this arrangement．－Annot＇i＇s Ninotion 13．，vol．2，ch． 1.

AIP1．PROGRESS Checked．Fimily．It is re－ roriled that the man who pirked up the body［of William II．，who had been necidentally shot in the forest in 1100］，was a charconl－bumer，of the mane of Purkess，living in the village of Min－ stemi，in the forest，and thant on his cart was the corpse removed to Winchestrir．In that village in 1843 we saw the nume of Purkiss over a little shop ；and Mr．Stewnrt Rose，who held an oflice in the forest，records that the charcomb－burner＇s clescendinis have always lived in this village， where they still live，the possessors of one horse nud curt，and no more．－KNiait＇s ENG．，vol．1， （－1．16，1）．281．

4AO2．PROORESS by Competition．Inaac Neir－ ton．［lle had vamiuished un insolent bully in a flst－fight．See No，179．］The next morning， lowever，he hal again the mortification of seeing his conemy at the hend of the chass，while he of：－ empied his tasunl place at the foot．Ile began to reflect．（＇onlal he regard himself in the light of a victor while his foe lorded it over him in tha school－rom？The applanding shouts of his sehool－fellows had been grateful to his ears，but his enemy enjoyed the approval of the teacher． The lamrels of the play－ground seemed to fade in comparison with the nobler triumphs of the mind．The result of his reflections was that he determined to conquer his udversary agsin by greting to the hend of his class．From that time hir become as studious us he hand before been idle，and soon attained the second place．A long and severe struggle ensued between him and his mlversary for the first，in thr course of which mell trimphed in turn；but，at length，lsume Newton remained permanently nt the head．Int never relapsed into idleness．Ite was n student thenee forth to the end of his life of nearly eighty－ five years．－Cyctoredia of Bina．，p．245．

493．PROGRESS by Development．Farmb stosk．The average weight of the ox and the shoep has berin doubled since the beginning of the righternth rentury．－KNiont＇s ENa．，vol．7， rli，1，1． 12.

4G94．PROGRESS，Feeble．Syriams－Egyp－ tions．［The slothful effeminney of the former ex－ posed them to the contempt，the sullen ferocions－ ness of the latter exejted the aversion，of the con－ fuarors．Those mations had summitted to tho Roman power，but they seldom desired or de－ served the fredom of the city ；and it was re－ marked，that more than two hmodred and thirty yenrs elapsed，after the ruin of the Ptolemies，be－ fore an Eargitian wis admitted into the Senat． of Rome．］－（thabox＇s Rome，ch，1，p． 46.

4495．PROGRESS，Hopeless．Explorers．［Sir William Pary in the Polar Sea．］At last，how． ever, a dilleully arose which was wholly insumomutable by mertal power. Som atter they had renched tolcrubly tirm lee, over which they conhd draw their sleds with comparative case, a strong, steady north wind met them, which remedered their murds exreedingly fitigning. This they cond have endured, but immgine their dismay when they diseovered that this wind was blowing the whole mass of ine toward the sonth linster thon they could mareh northwarl. As long us possibile ('aptain Parry conreated this crushing fact from the men; bint When, at the end of haborions and distressing days, he found that they were urthally farther from the loble than in the momine, the was compelled to diselose die sectret, mull retrace his steps. They had tavedhed, since leaving the ship, six humired mad sixty-cight milew, and had ouly made one hundred and seventy-t womiles. They reached the ship sixty-one days after leaving her, and som iffer suifed for Eingland.- (Evero-4A96. PROGRESS, Human. (icrimutuy. 'Thu' most civilized nations of modern Enrope issued from the wools of Germary ; mal in the rude institutions of those harburins we mas still distinguish the origime principles of oir present lawn und mimners.-Gbmov's Rome, (fl. 9. p. 2:0t.

1A97. PROGRESS ignored, Uhintes I. It may he allowed, on an impartial extimate of the chaiacter and presomal qualities of Charles $1 .$, that that the nation in his reign entertainet wo higher idens of the liberty of the subject. of of the powess of partiament, than those which prevailed during the two preceding conturios, his primere would have reigned with high popularity. It was his misfortinge to till the Throme of England at the period of this remarkable (risis in the pub)lic opinions, and to be edurated in the lighest notions of the powers of the crown at the time when those usirped powers were justly doomed to come to an end. 11. was his misfortune, too, that with many goond dispositions, and a very harge share of mental endowments, he wanted thait political prodence which should have tanght him to yield to the meressity of the times, and that it was w:ser to abmatona bittle of that power which he comeesvel to he his right, than, bey obstinately maintaining it to its atmost extent, Hist., Book 6, ch. 2!, p. 29\%.

AA98. PROHIBITION, Colonial. Bucou's Invsembly. [The reform assembly of Virginia, 163ib.] The chareharistocmey was broken up. . the sald of wine and andent spirits was absohutely prohihited, if not at damestown, yet otherwise throngh the whole country . . . 'wo of the magistrates, notorious for raising county taxes for their private gains, were disframehised.-Bunchort's C. s., vol. 2, ch. 14.
4.199. PROHIBITION, Incipient. Nite Jersy. In November of $10 \times 1$, Jennings, the deputy-governor of West Jersey, conrened the dinst general assembly of the province. The men who had so worried the aristocracy of England by wearing their hats in the presence of great men, and hy saying " Heee" and "thou" now met together to make their own laws. The code was brief and simple. The stle of ardent spirits to the Red men was prohibited. Tixes shotid be voted by the representatives of the people. The hands of the ladlans should be arguived by homornthe purchase. Finally, u criminn--mbess a murderar, a trator, or a thef-might be pardoned hy the persomagninst whom the ottence was committed. - Kibpatits U. S., ch. 94, p. 206.
4500. PROHIBITION, Ineffective. Colmy of ticmpid. Another rernlation which prohititerd the intrenduction of ardent spirits conld not he enforeed; it led only toclandestine tratlic. [The colonists were chictly poor people, cheltors, nud perseruted Protestants. |-B.avelorm's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 24.

ABO1. PROHIBITION, Plea for. Intch $\quad \mathrm{cm} /$ Indians. A.b. 164*. The trader did not hourn hamanity. nor the savage forget ir venge ; the som of a chicf, stmeg by the conviction of having been defratuled mad robled, nimed an merting arrow the the first llohamder axposed to his fury. A deputation of river chieftains hastened to express the ir sorrow ; . . . 1 hey offered to purchase secourity for the marderer by a fine for hlool. . . . "You yourselves," Huy alded, "are the cance of this evil ; yenolight not eraze the young limelims with brundy. Your own people, when drunk, tight with knives, and do foolish things; mal you manot provent mis. dhief till yon cease to sell strong trink to the

4502. PROHIBITION, Protection by. (idmin). The colony of Georgia lestabisished as a refinge: for the poor interticted the importation of spirithons lignors. The enp of Liberty was on its seall, and its motto-Non xibi sed aliix. Not for themselves, but others-derlared the philanthropic parpose of its projectors.-Stiverss II. E. (1uncu, vol. 1, p. ⒉)

A503. PROHIBITION resisted, Amerrir(l/" In/inns. Prohilatory haws were hardly samotioned be samge opinion. The wilal main hates restraint, and loves fo do, what is right in this ows 150.1. PROMISES, Broken. (Quepu Mary. [In 1509, when Mary (Queen of heots was remindeel by the lenting reformers of ther promises of tolcration, she repliced: Promises onght not to be arged upon princes maless they can conveniently

4505. PROMISES, Deceptive. Ti IIeretics. [Luther went to Worms to mod his arensers, and was promised safe-conduct.] The Papists, on the ofher hand, sought to persuade his Impering Majesty to seize Lather and to put him to denth. They addueed the example of John Ilass, and said, "To a heretie one is under no olligation. "ither to grant a salfe-comduct or to keep it." But the Emperor Charles [V.] replied, "Whatever promise has been made mast be fultilled."Rens's LITHEN, ch. 9, p. 8i.
4506. PROMISES, Regard for. Remeths. The gooldess of Feith (of haman and social faith) was worshipped, not only in her temples, but in the lives of the Romans; and if that nation was defieient in the more amiable gualities of henevelence and generosity, they astonished the Greeks by their sinecre and simple performance of the most burdensome engagements. Yet among the same people, according to the rigid maxims of the patricians and decemvirs, a mothed pact, a promise, or even all vath, did not reate any eivil ohligation, moness it was contrmed the the lergat form of a wipulationt. Whatever might the the etymology of the latin worl, it eonveyed the Iflea of a tirm and irmeomable contract, which was atways axpresed in the mode of a g finestion and answer. "Do you promise to pay me 100 pirces of grod ? was the solemon inter rogation of Scins. "I do promise," was the reply of selle.

A50\%. PROMOTION earned. ficment Grant. Governor Yites, of his state ... puthimon his stalf as aljumat, to asist him in armanger tho (fuota ol the State. . : Me acepuithend himself so well, that whell Libicoln sent oll to the govamor to forwarl iwo names from the State for the position of brigadier-gememal the latere propowed to drant wsend hime on. But he deredinet, sily fing he prefered to earn hix promotion. Ile, however areepted he colomelery of the 'Twenty: tirst Rexriment. . . On the ith of August.
18til, he received his apmintment as brigatier

 poleon Was the secomal to crox the bridge at Ladi.] Some of the velemanof the army, immediately alter the bathe, met togedher, and jocosely himself by bravery, abll who was suranile in his apparance, to the rank of corporal. When Napoleon next appared poon the firld he was greeted with mintiastio shouts be the whole army, "Long live our little corporail!" . . amal never losi . . . this homorary and affection-
 ch. $\bar{t}$.

EDOB. PROMOTION, Loss by. Sitmininus. [Gne of the thirty trrants.] When the elamor of the soldiers invested the reluetant victims with the cusigus of soverrign anthority, they sometimes mournal in sere their approne hing fate. "You have lose," sald Saltuminus, on the day of his elo-vation-" you have lost a mesfal comminaler, and sou haw made a very wrededemperor."-Ghaims: Resme, ch. 10. p. 3:4.
1510. PROMOTION, Offensive. Rometh simetors. Julins Ciesar . . . increased the mumber of the semate to nine humberg, thlling its ranks from eminent provindials. introduring even barbarian Ganks, amd, still worve liburini, the soms of literated slaves. who had risen to distindion by their wwor mert. The new members rame in slowly. and it is nereflom to sily were unwillingly receiverl: a private hambill was semb round rero ommending the coldest ol greetinge to them.

1511. PROMOTION, Providential. (bucon Elizwheth. [1 murhter on ITenry VIII. ] Tradition still points out the tree in Ilattiold Park heneath whid Elizatheth was sitting when she recerived the news of her pater falateression to the throme. She fell on her kneres, and drawing a long hreath. exclaimed at last." It is the Lagl's doing, amd it is marvellous in our ceves." To the lase these worls remained stamped on the grolden roinige 4512. PROMOTION, Remarkable. ('rominell. The storm is up in England, and Oliver has become a marked man ; he probably knows that he will have to take a prominent jurt in the affairs of the kingem. Hatt we awhile to retleret on this. This otwerme man, lone Englinh furmor, matilled, unweralthy, wo grace of mamer to in treluer himself, bugain! in sperech and in ar tion. nowkilled in war, innsed to the arts of this man whowe lite had gassed altoge herer with farmers and religions-minded men, was, at almost a homat, to leap to the highest phare in the peoples sumy grasping the baton of the marshal. This man was to strike the sureressful blows on the tirld, shivering to pieres the kingIr powrer in the land: himself was to nssume the frumeleon of the Diedator: was to sketell the obtlime of haws, of home and forcign police which all surereding hegishators were to ntlempit to emboly abl imitate; was to wring comess sions to his power frem the most haghlaty mons. arr lies of ancient fendal Enroper and to har up, in arms. Enghand, fist dwindling into (ontempt, to the very foremon plate among the nations: was to produre throughont the world homage to the Protestant religion, making before his name the lame ned terror of Gustavis, of Ilemry IV.. of Zisen, to dwindle and look pale. Auil this with no prestige of hirth or education. Is it too much. then, for mill him the most roynt actor Einghand, if not the world, has prodned ?-

I51:3. PROMOTION, Unexpected. Cromirill. No doubt (romwell wasamazed at the lofty elevation to which he aseronded; for her commenced his public carere withon any phan; he threw himself, and his fortunes, and his life into the stald arainst the king, ame on the site of the people. ITe was at that time a phan comatry yemam. We donot believe that he had my ambition other than to serve the canse with a hrave, pure hart. Could he, whose unome iced days had heen passed hy a farmor's ingle, ser ghaming before his eys acrown, which be might rafuse? Conld he, whe hat spout his hater vars in hollowing the plomgh, dream that he shoinh draw the sword, only to find himsill at hast the greatest gemeral of his own age and one of the grentest soldierss of my age? "Wrell might he say:" One merver mennta so iu!!." It is the suthlime of hman philosop,ly and charactar to beable to siyy this: it is fath in Providence and in destiny alome which ram sily this.-Hoed's ('momWELA, cll. 1. p. 21.
1514. PROMPTNESS, Success by. Chinlix NII. Thre powerlul emmies joined in a leagur to op press him. Swerlen was then in possession of the Erritorics ot Extmia and Livonia : and Charles Cl. his tather, had violated the privileges of the Livoni:ms. which they had asserted by a deputation, at the hath of which wasa nobleman of the name of Paknal, who hat incensed the momard by too bold a remomstrance in favor of the libertios of his combry ; he was comdemmed to datio, but he rexaped, and demomered a signal wermgrance aganst the King of Sweden ; he fomel mems to persumbe Aurnstus, King of Polamol, imel the ran, Peter. that they had now an opportmiIV of recocoring, during the wakness of that nonarehy, all the powine they hat formery lost. They weer joined hy Frederick IV., Kingr of Demmarls, and it was not dombed that Swo dan would tall it victim to so forminable an alliance. . . . It was the optinion of' 'harlac' come nellors that a negotiation should be set on loot to avert the impending ruin ; but the king himself lastantly gave orders to prepare for war, "I shall athack the first," satid lie, "who derehares ngralist mo, and by defeating him. I hope to intinidate the rest." From that time ('harles dedianted his life to a serles of fatigues and dangers, and en-

4515. PROOF of Intentions. Clomutirn. [Antony was suspicious that she might poison him, mil recuired his food to be tasted at her hanquets.] She employed a very extroordinary methonl to make him sensihle how ill-foundel his fears were, and at the same time, if she had so bad an intention, how ine feretual all the preernitions he took would be. She ramsed the extremities of the fowers to tee poisoned, of which the wraths, worn by Antony and herself at table, according to the costom of the ancients, were composed. When their hamels began to grow warm with wine, in the height of their gayry, Cleopatra proposed to Antony to drink ofl those flowers. lle made no difle ollty ; mol, after having phocked off the embls of his wreath with his tingers, und thrown them into his cup filled with wine, he was upon the point of drinking it, when the queen, taking hold of his arm, said to him. "I am the poisoner against whom you take surh mighty precaution. If it were possithe for me to live withont yon, judge now whether I wanted -ither the opportunity or moms for such an action." LItving ordred a prisoner, condemed to die, to be brought thither, she mate him drink that lifuor, upon which he died immediately.RoLAN's Mist.. Book 94 , sis.
4516. PROPERTY, Conservatism of. Jumestomen Colony. The greatest change in the condition of the colonists resulted from the incipient establishment of private property. To each man n few ateres of ground were nssigned for his orchard and to plant at his pleasure and for his own use. So long as industry had been without its special reward, reluctiont habor, wasteful of time, had been followed by want.-Banchore's Hist. of U. S., vol. 1, 'hi, 4.
4517. PROPERTY, Hereditary. Roman Laiss. The jurisprudence of the Romans appears to have deviated from the equality of nature much less than the Jewish, the Athenian, or the English institutions. On the death of a eitizen all his descendants, maless they were ahrady freed from his paterna! power, were called to the inheritance of his possessions. The insolent prerogative of mimogeniture was mknown; the two sexes were placed on a just level ; all the sons and daughters were entitied to an equal portion of the patrimonial estate; and if any of the sons had been intercepted by a premature death, his persen was represented, and his share was divided, by his surviving children.-Gmmon's Rome, ch. 44, p. 360.
1518. PROPERTY, Ownership of. Protuction. The savage who hollows a tree, inserts a sharp stone into a wooden handle, or applies a string to an elastie: branch becomes in a state of mature the just propsictor of the camoe, the bow, or the hatehet. The materials were common to all, the new form, the prodnce of his time and simple industry, helongs solely to himself. His hungry brethren camot, without a sense of their own injustice, extort from the hunter the game of the forest overtaken or shain by his peremmal strength and dexterity. If his provilent atre preserves and multiplies the tame nomals, whose nature is tamable to the arts of education, he acquires a perpetand title to the nse mal service of their numerons progeny, which derives its existence from him alone. If he encloses and cultivates a theld for their sastemance and his own, a barren waste: is converted into an fertile soil ; the sered, the mamure, the hatwe, crate a nes value, and the rewards of harvest are paintilly marned by the fintigues of the revolving yemer. In the suceressive states of socioty, the bumer, the shepherrl, the hastandman, may defend their possessions hy twormans which forcitly apral to the ferlings or the human mind: that whatever they enjoy is the fruit of flocir own industry : and that every man who convies their felicity may pure hase similar acguisitions by the excreces of similar dili-gence-Gman's lome, (h) 4, p. 355.

ISin. PROPERTY, Tttles to. Rriyn of'James II. [lle fivored the destruction of tithes, so as to advance the atherentsol the Rommen Catholic faith. whose property had long ago been contiscated.] lle onght to hitwe determined that the existing settlement of hamded property [in Irehand] should be inviolable; and he ought to have amounced that determination in such a mamer as effectually to quict the amxiety of the new proprietors, and to extinguish tuy wild hopes which the old proprictors might entertain. Whether, in the grent transfer of conates, injustice hat or hal not been committed, was immaterial. That transfer, just or mijust, had taken phace so long ago that to reverse it would be to mantix the fommations of socicty. There must be a time of limitation to all rights. After thirty-five years of actual possession, after twenty five years of possession solemonly guaranted by statute, after imnumerable leases and releases, mortgagesand devises, it was too late to search for flaws in titles.-Macadtay's Evi., ch. 6, p. 124.
4520. PROPERTY, Tyranny of. Rer. ,John Ball. "Mad" as the hadowners held him to be, it was in the preaching of John Ball that England first listened to a decharation of the natural equality and rights of man. "Good people." eried the preacher, "things will never be well in England so long as goods be not in common, and so long as there be villeins and gentlemen. By what right are they whom we call lords greater folk than we? On what gromods have They deserved it? Why do they hold us in sertage ? It we all came of the same frether and mother. of Adam and Eve, how can they say or prove that they are better than wo, if it be not that they make us gain for them by our toil what they spend in their pride? They are clothed in velvet and warm in their furs and their ermines, while weare covered with rars. They have wine and spiers and fair bremb, and we oat-cake and straw and water to drink. They have leisure and line houses; we have pain and labor, the rain and the wind in the fields. And yet it is of us and of our toil that these men hold their state." It was the tyramy of property that then as ever roused the defiance of socialism.-IIIst. ow ENia. Pbople, 冬 345 .
1521. PROPERTY, Wrongs in, E'uglish Lato. A.b. 1763. The right of primogeniture made its chicf victims in the bosoms of the fimilies which it kept up. . . Even the mother who might murvive her hushand, ufter following him to his tomb, . . . returmed no more to the matest mal manslon, but vacated it for the heire ; mad the downger mast be content whe her jolnture, which might often be pmid grudgingly us to ome, " Lang winterlng on a young man's revemur."

A历城, PROPHECIES, Sustained, E'nglucml 175:3. [la $175: 3$ there was grent opposition to a bill, which was phssed, permitting Jows to hold rend e-ante. One suld it] was to give the lie tonil the prophareses of the New 'Testament: they nro to remain whthout any ilxad habiation intil they acknowledge (Cirist to be the Messhah. Kiviontris Fiv., vol. (1, eh. 12, p. 193.

A5d38. PROPHECY, False. Eimpires fall. [When 1he Spanish Armarh was expereted to visit the comsts of Enghmal] muny macient mod st mange prophecies, in divers languages, and many (exedlent mstronomers of sundry mations, had in very plan torms foretold that the geme lisk should lor most futal and ominous unto nll estates, conrhaling in these words: "And if in that yenr the world do not perish mad utterly deeny, yet ('mpires all, and kingdonns aftor, shall ; and no man to raise himsolf shall know no wny, mad that lorever after it shall be called the year of wonder." | Englishmen interpreted the propliecy agninst their encmios as a pradiction of their overthrow, the God of the Bible, which Engrlishman had learned to read, being their defend-(rr.]-KNidit's ENa., vol. 8, ch. 14, p. 2 ]8.
 stantine, in a very long diseourse, which is still cxtant, . . expatiates on the various proofs of religion; but ledwells with pereulinr complacen(y on the sibylline verses, and the fourth celogne of Virgil. Forty years before the birth of Christ, the Mantamn bard, as if inspired by the celestind muse of Isaiah, had celebrated, withall the pomp of Oriental metmphor, the retum of the Virgin, the fall of the serpent, the approathing bieth of a godlike child, the offspring of the grent Jupiter, who shomal expiate the gailt of homan kind, and govern the peacefal noiverse with the virtues of his father ; the rise mad nppentince of $n$ heavenly race, a primitive mation throughout the world, and the eradand restorntion of the innorence and folieity of the golden age. The poet was permins manomserions of the serere sense and object of these stoblime predictions, which have bern so unworthily applial to the intant son of a consul, or a trinmoir; but if a more splendid. and indeed specions, interprotation of the fourth celogre contributed to the (onversion of the first Christian emperor, Virgil may deserve to be ranked among the most suciessful missionaries of the gospel.

Ife chietly depends on a mysterious acrostic, composed in the sisthagre after the Delugr, by the Erythram Sibyl, and tronslated he Cicero into Latin. The initinl letters of the thinty-four Greek verses form this prophetie sentome : Jesis ('imst, Son of God, Siviofll of THE Womlis.-Gimbon's Rome, (h. 20, j. 269.
4525. PROPHETS, The Great. Fowr. Malomet taught that God Almighty had engruven these laws [of Mahomet. See Religion, Mahometan] in the hearts of the first mee of men, bit that viceand iniquity gradmally prevailing, and wearing out thelr impression, Je hud sent, from thas to thace, Ifle prophats tpon enrth, to revive Ills holy preceptes by their doctrlacs mud exumple. 'Tho mos' rminemt of these prophets, he allomed, were Jhraham, Doses, Jowas ('hrist-and Mahomet, the last, the greatesi of all-who was desthed to extend the knowladge of the true religion over 1. 52.
4504. PROPRIETORS, Nominal. ( [When the Inmoverime prince (ieorge rmine to the Jritish throme as George l., the foreigner penmed his tirst impressions. | He said: "This is a ntrangre country. 'The llist morming nftor my arrival at St. Jmmers' I lookedout of the whadow, amil suw a purk, with cramis, elc., whlela they told me were mine. The noxt day lord ('lectwyid, the ranger of my park, went me a thos brace of ('mp) out of my (maml ; and I wastold I must rive tye ruineas to lord (hotwymbsorvant lor hriaghig me wif cary out of tiny camal in my orn park."-KNunt's Eiva, vol, if, clı. I, 1. 4.
1527. PROPRIETORS, Bondage of. Prrmbirm. The mines of l'otosi worrediseowred, with which the d'eruvimas themsedves limd been unacquaint-erl-a somber of riches which to this day is not exhansted. The Provinus wore made to work ut these mines for the Spuniards, as the real proprictors. Those shaves who, from eonstitutional Weakness of boly, were soom w a out by the drablfal farigues. . . . withont tae smallest remismion of their hibors, were replaced by negrocs from the coast of Afrian. - Trutan's llistr., Book 6, ch. 21.

A528. PROSPERITY, Children bring. Arul. 'The marses of the cheserl, who enme nasmally to compete for the new hom chikdren to the doors of the wealthy, did not present themselves at the door of $I$ minit [the mother of Mahomet ], Beanse she was a widow, and that widows, commonly poor, did not rembucrate so biherally as the fitthers the matses of their childrom. It lengll Halima, onc of those women of the descre who sold their milk, not having been able to find meother nursling in the city, returned to Amina towned the evoming, mad took her infant. The credality of the Ambs remarked, that from the day when this child was introduced intothe tent of llalima all the proverrities amd forcomditios of nomad life made it their centre. The murse refused to give him latck to his mother, for fear of losing, with his departure, the bemedictions of 4529. PROSPERITY, Dangers of. Philip if Mhecton. Olympias hare him Dlexander, surnamed the Great.

Philij, who ut that time was absent from his kingrlom, lmal there very agrecable pieces of nows brought himat one and the same time : that he lad corried the jurize at the Olympic grames: that lammenio, one of his gencrals, had gained a ereat vietory over the Illyrians, and that his wite was delivered of a son. This prince, torritied at so sigmat a happiness, which the heathens thought frequently the onnen of some monnoful catastrophe, cried out, " Great Jupiter ! in return for so many blessings, send me ass. aspossible some slight misfortune."IRolılin : IIs'T., Book 14, $\ddagger 1$.
4530. PROSPERITY, Destructive. (\%rislianity. The corruption of manners aud principles, so fordibly hamented by Euselins, may be comsidared, not ouly as a consedineme, but as a proof, of the biberty which the Christims conjoyed and abosed under the relgon of Diodetian. Prosper. ity had relaxed the nerves of diseipline. Frand, reivy, mill malion prevailed in every rongrega tion. The prestoyures aspired to the episcopplat oflere, which every day hecanes an object more worthy of thedr mbintion. The bishops, who condended with ma ia , ther for exedeshastiont pre-serobar mad tyrmand power in the chureh: nud the lively fifth whith still distinguished the Christians from the Gantiles was shown muelh less in their lives than in their comeneversinh writ-

4531. PROSPERITY by Government. By/ R/ruzi. Thie Roman tribume and putriet. I, Justice was simi, who, ninong hits varions aets of violdene nomi rapine, had pillaged a slijpreecked vessel at the momth of the 'Tiber. Ils name, the purphe of a mortal disense were disragarded by the inllex ible tribune, who hat chosen his victim. Tlue publie oftheres drugged him from his pulare and muptind bed ; his trial was short and satisfactory : the bell of the (upitol convenct the peopla: stripped of his mantle, on his kneres, wibia his hands bound behind his back. he hearel the semtemer of denth: mid after a brief confession Lrsini was led away to the gallows. Aftersurhan -xample, none who were consrions of guilt could hope for impunity, and the tlight of the wickert. thie licentlous, mid the idte soon purithed the dity and territory of Rome. In this time (snys thie historian) the woods began to rejoice that they were no longer infested with robleres; the oxen began to plongh: the pilgrims visited the sambtuaries; the ronds und tras wore replenished will travellers; trude, plonty, and good faith were restored in the murkets; and a purse of gold might le exposed without danger in the midst of the highway. As som as the life and property of the subject are serore, the laborsand rewards of industry spomanoonsty revive; Rome was still the medropolis of the Christian world.Ghabon's Rome: (h. 70, 1). $47 \%$.
 ment. In every experimental seidence there is a tendeney toward perfection. In every human being there is a wish to amelionate his own condition. These two principles have often sufficed, even when bounteracted by great public (alamities and by bad institutions, Io rarry civilization rapidly forward. No ordinary misfortunc, $n o$ ordinary misgovernment, will do so much to make a mation wretched as the constant progress of physical knowledge and the constant effort of every man to bether himself will do to make a mation prosperous.-Macabiay's Mast., ci. 3, p. 261 .

46i3B. PROSTITUTE, A distinguished. Theondera. 'The hanaty of Theodern wis the subliect of more Hatiering praise and the soure of more exquisite delight. Her fentures were delisute and regular ; her complexion, though somewhat pale, was tinged with a mutural color ; every sensation was instantly expressed by the vivacity of her eyes; her casy motions displayed the graces of a small lut elegant figuse ; and cither love or adulation might proclalm that panting mand $p^{\text {ma }}$ etry were incapable of dellumating the matelabe exedlence of her form. But the form wav ide:
 to the pibille eye and prostimated to licemtions
 promiscomes crowil of cilizans mad atrangers, of coery mak ami of every profession: the feren mate lover who had theroi promised 11 nightot en joyment was oftern drivert from her bed on: atronger or more Wealthy faverite: and whon whe pussed through the sireets, her premener wis avodided by nil who wishod tor escaper dither the sumblat or the tomptation. The sativical hiso rima has not blashed to deserifur tha naked sermen whid Theondora was mot ashamed to exhibit in the themere. Ifter exhmatige the arts of semtis. al phonsure, she most moratefally murmural ugnhast the parsimany of nature. She berome the wife of the Resman Empror dustinian. |- d53.1. PROTECTION of Industry. ('lwahnig. When the cultivator wanted to whain the la'st price for his wowl, that legishation that was al ways proterting one chase mgainst mother chan. to the injury of both chassers, ordatued the exper tution of wool shonld he hampered with reatrie tions; " berouse that sulle eiont phenty of the with wouls may continually abide and ramain within the said remion, us may competenty mod rearon: ably serve for the ocrupation of elobh-makers." Of iererssity mach of the sutherent plenty beratar supurabundant stock : and the price of wool wat beaten down by the limitation of the market.

 1. 108.

15:35. PROTECTION of Manufaotures. Fing. lish. 'The rurni interests of England hand (in lbow, prohibited the importation of Irish catle. The Irisla furmers took to breoding sheop, athe wool being abandan, weollow manaliartures spange ul. The Commons implored the king " to enjoin all those he emplosed in Ireland to use heeir utmost diligence to himer the expertation of wool from Lreland, exeept imported hither, and for diseomaging the woollen and encouraging the linen manufacture in Ireland."-ǨNouT's Evo., vol. is, ch. 14, p. 2lt.

45:36. PROTECTION by Secrecy. Athentisins. [During the perseroution by the Arim party.] It: was oner secreted in a dry cistorn, which he had samerely loft before he was be rayed by the treachary of a fomate stave : and he wasmere conceale ol in a still more extraordimary nsylum, he honse of a virgin, only twenty yens of age, and who was celebrated in the whole rity for hor expuisite benuty. At the hour of midnight, as she related the story many vars afterward, she was sarprised by the apparanore of the arebbishop in a loose unilress, who, advameing with hasty steps. conjured her to afford him the protection which ha had been direeted by a celestial vision towerk mader her hospitable roisf. The pious maid allrepmed and presurved the sucred pledge which was intrusted to her prodence and courage. Withont imparting the seced to any one, she in. stantly comlucted Athanasius into her most secret chamber, and watehed over his safety with the tenderness of a friend and the assiduity of a servant. As long as the danger contimuch, she regularly supplied him with lawks an lami dence, mind dexteronsly conicented from the ey"

 sums unhbomished chastity, amel "fomale whome Charmv might exelfe the most dimgurotis emos.

15:87. PROTECTION for the Weak. Ifeme's sume the high blaft on which now stames the city uf 心avamah. Hare, on the thes day of Fob cabin half a mite divenat to sere lise brother Oerle. thorge. 'There was a plasant conteromere " llare white man, The presan! was a lmitinlo roher puinterlou the inside with the head ame foathers love: the butfulor skin is the cmblem of protere tion. Therefore hove as amal proterel un," said

 (h. 2! 2, 1). 3:30.

AB:3w. PROTECTOR needed. I'rotristicuts. Ilad ('romwell beot on the throme of Finetamel when ralleal the Jravoenble bidict of $\gg$ wind hy this net to inabgarate a protratere and horithe reign of lervor, the revocation $w$ - ald never haver taken phacr, or that apparition, whicla Mazarin leen belaclal-namely, (romwerll at the qates of 15:33. PROTECTION, A strong. Oliver ('rom. rell. It was at the very perionl of the massurere of tha l'iedmontest lhat a treaty with France had beren matured, alter long and tidhoms negotiation. One demand altor imother had Jeren eonereded to ('romwell by Lanis and his reafty mlviser, the Cardinal Mazain. John Milon, oliver's private amel foreign sererehary, had comblurted the negrotiation to a shereswful issume, and the Fromeln ambasiador Watited with the traty ready for sig. nature. When ('romwoll lanered of the sufferings of the Vinulois. Ho forthwith despatched int ablanssullor, on their helablf, fo the ('otirt of 'Turin, ather refosed to sign the traty with France ontil their wrongs were redressed. The Frourdo ambatisalor was astomishod and indignant. He remonstrated with c'romwall, and urged that the ghostion bore no connertion with ihe lerms of the treaty : mor cond his sowereign interfere. on any jlain, wilh the subjecesof an independen: State. Mazarin look even boliler gromud. IVe elid mot concoal hiv sympathy with the afforts of tho Wake of Savoy to rocrace thex Jrotestant welnels-dechared hix conviction that in truth " the Vandois had intlided a hondred times worse "ruelties on the (atholices than they hat suffered from them," and alogether look ip a very high :and hatarlay position. (rommall ramaned unmoved. New protestations mot with mo better roply fo his assurancesof the inpossibility of intorfering. that lie limi ntrendy nllowid his own chlors: whide, lhough viry mush llke giving Its rifrel. (rommell womlat mot move from the:

 fatake hiv leave, and was latale weleomes 10 go.

 ch. 11. J. Bis.
1.3.10. PROTESTANTISM, Advance of. l'ulure' days of the chareh, athl thoehed to the l'rotestant. preathings. 'The thergy lhemselves seremed whatent the commonion instomel of mass in his ('nharime saw mo why of prewreing France for in the sumber of lithe the called on the jerge tor ullow the lermoval of images, the almhatstrallon of the sucramsent in beolh klals, nul the aholilon of pribute mamses. IIC Alemathen were ontstripped by thone ol an aswemhly of deputhes Irom the sinfos which mer at lobituise. These calleal for the contlsation al charch property, ahove all, for antional conandil whind every question shombld he decidese by $\cdots$ the word of fool." Frimer sermal on the vorgo of beeoning Protesiant: und at a monhent when Protemlantian had won Enyland aml Sootamal, and nj)peared to be fast winning vonlhern as well as northern Germany, tha herossion of France womld have determinded the 1 riamph of the IRedwrmation. |Derseration of l'rotextants follow-

A.j1. PROTESTANTISM, Overthrow of. Perweution. At Rombe the mews of this great blow &riven by the massucere on sit. Barlholomerws | hity| was haikel with oxtravagunt manifentations wrint in state to retarathanks to Itaven for this tignal merev, und medals were struck in its honor. Philip II. extobled it as one of ther mos momarable frimuph- of (haristianity, (ompateral it to the sulendial vidory of lapanto, nud bomst-- d that the total ruin of P'rotestantjam wha now limally ussured. Novertheless, this groat wicked Hese, like all slatrerrimes, wats pulte inefferfond for the purguse fowand which it was directed.
 they Were stanned. contombeded, sothered, werkracil. but they wern hy ho moans wholly arosherl. As won ats they reovered from their rousterma perseruited paty where more raised their hemble and within a yar from the dald of the gry at massacre were in a position to mdoress the kine in lookler and more innportmate langomge than at any former period of the contess. 'Thr full and phblicesereise of the reformed religion Was anthorized Heroughout the kingrlan; the of Vrotestant and ('utholle joulges ; all semu mees and the insurgety were promonared to have neted lor the genal the klag athd klugedon limitad perion : and the Stateseldomeral were th contitions of the " Peareof Domsicur. an it was trinel which was signed on the thol of May, 15int-ices than four gears atter that frighefial bot finetion would to thally atiopatad from 17. 늘.
1.312. PROTESTANTISM, Protectors of. F゙ル! lish-simede. 'The priace what hears the cloment resemblance to Crommell is Gastavis Silolphas of Sweden He, too. was the lion of the l'rotestant muse, ame his cmap, like that of the gremt Brithsh farmer, was the seremed piety and extmordimary bravery. Like C'romwell, he was raphal and irresistible as a momataln forrent on the tiella. like Cromwell, he alamerl the commeils of the Romm lontite and struek terrer into the Improrinist abinet. Far Inferior to Cromwall for who of nil gemerals or stathemen equallowit him? -yet both regareled themselvesan sit nipart ngatinst the encromehments and armettes of Popery. This blan hargely conered into the minal of the Protertor. De saw the atate of Earopu: he lelt for its wrimg num lacerated romdition. In his nge he was the only Protestant prince; the so-milled Protestant statesmen were in leagne with Rome. Ite rased his bamer agrinst the Vatiean, deelared his side and his comvietions, and mate the tyrants mal iliplomatists of Earope quail and shrink before the shadow of his power num the terror of his mame. In the history of Prolestintism he orouples the distinguished phace, in the very foregromul. 'I hat we are entitlad to say this mueh of him is proved by a reference to his own words, as well as to the hetter evidence of his derds.-LIomis C'momwelt, ch. 16, 1). 217.
45.83, Protestation, Absurd. Fintur the Tartar. [To his Syrim captives.] " Yumser me here," contimet T'imonr," " poor, hame, decrepit morial. Yet by my arm has the Almighty leen pleased tosmbdie the kingrloms of Iran, Touman. and the Indies. I am not a man of blood : and God is my witness that in all my wars I have never berth the argressor, and that my ememises have always bern the anthors of the ir whe calamity." During this peacernal conversation the streets of Aleppo [in Syrial] stremmed with blowl and reechoed with the cries of mothers mald aitdrea, with the shrieks ol' violated virgins.-Ganmos's Rome, ch. 65, p. Wid.

45/A. PROTESTATIONS, Characteristic. Cilts. The celles at all times have been fond of 'mplaitin protestations. The yomer heroes swore a sor"mon oath that they would not see wife or chatdrew or perents man till they had ridden wier through the Romam army. In this mood they encomitered fesar in the valley of the Vingreanae, ar river which fills into the Sanom, and they med the fate which neerssarily befell them when their migevermble multitudes engaged the legions in the open tield. They were defeated with mormons loses ; mot they riding tharough the Roman army, but themsitver riditan over anal har va down liy d, (derman horspmon mad selot llying for fifty mites own the hills itho Alienst.

A5 5 . PROVIDENCE, Deliverance by. Culli.. bili. |Four ridhly laden Sometian galleys wion

 rrews fonght lo the to hand, and from ship in shlp. The Buttle bisted from morning until even hage Venethai galloy. They threw hand gremadiss and oblace thery misilem, mul the galley was wrapped in thanes. The versels worn fastoried tomether hy chains and granpling iroms, and conlet ont he sipurated : beth were favolved in ing mass. The crews threw themselves lato the sura; Cohmbas seized an our, whid was flomeing wibhin rach, mal, oning na expert swhmer, attathed the shore, thongh full two leaghes dis.

45163. PROVIDENCE, Delivering. Vatiomal. When a lhancian panis mata it impussible to pray the army of wilihun [1]. then in the liold agamst Lanis XIV., and the danger from mutiny or lobll dasertion was very gremt, the king was informad of the state of the tremsury, and in riply express al that mohn sentiment which every Eaglishman onglat to hear in mind in the day of pablie:
 our present combar assment, for I ramoot suppose It is lis will to suffer a mation to perislo which He las so ofter atmost miraculously suved, thengh we havetoo will deserved de."-K viont's Licit., vol. 5 , ch. 13, p. 195.
85.17. PROVIDENCE, Detentlon of. Oirt Cromirell. Notice atso that those latest years of dames mal thrst yours of (harles wore the periond when the cmel persecution proe eeding in Enghand drove the first rmigrants awne into the Ameriean wilderness, there to fombl the old Massuchusetts moln y ; they holt lheir homes :HIn comatry, willing to cheomber the privations and dangers of the distant wila lerness, hoping there (1) find a rest and refuge for ontraged religion and hommity. Those were the lhys commonnemted ly the Plymonth Rork- the tirst refor to this asperially, hermuse tradition says that on the 1st of May, 1bisk, cight ships, homind for New Bushme, and lifled with Puritan lamilies, wernartested amd intermpted in the Thames ty an order from the bing, mat that among their pissengers in one of those wessels were Pym, Dampulan, Cromwell, and Itazalrig. Mr. John Forster donbts this, lat ramot disprove it.-

15i*. PROVIDENCE, Directing. Thi Pilgrime. [They intended to sette near the JIndson.] The spot to which Providence had directed the phantars had, 1 fow yars before, been remdered antirely a desert by a pestilence, which had likewise swept over the noighboring tribes, nat desolated amost the whole seaboard of New England. . . . There were the traces of $n$ previous pombation, but not one living inhabitant. -Banchoft's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 8 .

1s 18. PROVIDENCE, Dlaponal of Pitgrima, The voyngo was limg mad perllons. For wixty. threer days the mhip was linffermi loy atormes und driven. it hal beres tho latentlon of tha lijgrims to found thatremosy la the bumatial comatiry of they theres mandin for themedres tho emigrants elerdarod their loyalty to tho Fingllah crown, insil covomanted togrolier fo live in perneos and harmoay, with eqpaial rights to nill, olveliont to just laws malo lor tho commong genil. Nula wast tho siandos but subline constintion of tho olde at thle list rumantall tha hemels of familios, fortyono la manber, solemmaly net thole manos. An

 1. 111.
1550. PROVIDENCE, Giftm of. Sirritis. " Whi you nover rethert whlhin yourself," Nays Nocrutes taken to bestow upon mans ull that is uereיssury
 "Ion sere" contlomed Sosratis. "how neeres sury light in, nul how prechoms that gift of the gonly "umght to "plear to us." "Without it," adiled Enthydemus, "we shomal be like tho blind, mal nil maturg as if it wowe domal but beratiso wo havo ocemsion for fatervals of relaxathon, they lave also given us the night for our repose." "You are lis the rirht: nud for this We ought 10 render them eontinmed praives and thanksirlving. They havoordainom that tho sum. that bright and lominous shar, shombl prexide ovar the day to distlaguish its difforent pirts, and that its light should serve not only to dis. cover the womblars of matare, lut to dispense over every part lifo amil liat ; and at tho same time they lave commonded fla moon mud stars to illumine the night, which of itselt is dark and olscoure. Is lhore anything more worlhy of admiration than this variety and vicissitude of day and night, of lirht and darkness, of haber amd rest, and all this for the convenicnee and goon! of man "" Socrates entmerates in liko manner the inthite advantages wo recelve from the amil Whter for the necessaries of life. .... "All these things," suid Entliydemns, "make mo doubt whether the gods luive any other cinploymont than to alower down thair gifis and tomefits upon mankind."-JRoLLis's IIstr., Book 9, cl. $4,84$.
4551. PROVIDENCE in History. Reign of Themes II. LCe No. 45ins. The rask [of invading England] would indeed luve been too arduous even for such a statesman as the Prince of Orange, lad not his chief adversaries been at this time smitten with an infaluation such as by many men not prone to superstition was ascribed to the special judgment of God. Not only was the King uf Fingland, as he land ever been, stupid and perverse, luat even the connsel of the politic King of France was turned into foolishiness. Whatever wisdom and energy could do, WHIlam difl. Thome obstacleas whlels nos wialom or anerigy cobald have overcomé, his combale two oppositu rerrors, rulterl agninst himanelf it intwern whlel Weatern bidroper whe dividad.

 mother by lusulthus the INoly Now. Theme funtis comblat commatted ivils lmpenolty, and momer the rye of an opjoment serecond la virllither, vit.
 ory history has jreserved. Wlllanom maw with
 "wny olswaclo after obenfaclos from hiv puth.

 different llghts; and it mast be aldend that,

155\%. Now Hinghand lna+n colonlacd lamuditely tho diveovery of tho dimeriom eontluent tho ald linglivis Justitations would lavo beron phatal mader the powerfal lathenero ol tho Koman umber lilizabeth, it wombl laso leron before activity of tho popialar mind in religion had rondinctad to a corresponding motlity of mind fa polities.-Iliverur"r's U. A., vol. 1, ch. H.

455: PBOVIDENCE, Natlonal. Wroit linitain. Noman of Singlish extruction wonlal havo risen to canlamee, exopt by beroming in sperecta amil labits a Freachman. Fugland owey lier -scape from such comamitlos to an avent whicla her historinas lave genarally reprewnoted as dis: antrous. Har hatcrest was ma directly opposed to tho intorest of lare rishers, that sho had no hopo but ln their crrors and mistiortunes. The tatents kinurs were a curace to bur. Tha follies and vices of tho meventl woro har saivation. Ilad Joha inderited the great gualitios of his fathor, and had the King of Fimuce at the same time bern us inoupable ns all the othor sucressors of Jugh ('apet land bera, the bouse of lanatagenct mast have risen to wnivalled aserndency in Europe. But just at hais ronjuncture France, for the thrst time since the denth of Charlemmgene, was governed by a prinee of grant thmmess and ability. On the other hand, Finghnt, which, since the batle of Instings, had bern ruled genarally by wise matesmen, always by brave sol diers, fell umder the domiaion of $n$ trither and $n$ coward. From that moment her prospects brightemed. John was driven from Normandy. The Norman mobles wore eompelled to mako their election between the ishand and the continent. . . . The erreat-rimadsons of those who had fougrat under Willian and the great-grandsons of flose who liad fonght under IIarold began to draw near to ench othor in friendslip, and the tirst pledge of their reconcilintion was the Grant Clarter, won by their maited exertions, and framed for their common benetit. - Macaulay's ENu., ch. 1, 1. 14.
4.55. PROVIDENCE, Overraling. Missions. In 1815 the Rev. Barnabas Shaw went from England as a mimenonary to fio Afrloana, Ar his lahoring there, und wifh his deventei wife les atarted for the honthen tribus in the: laterfor, A wigen and axall were thedrantit, amd not komw. lug whither they wrint they cunthand their weary fournoy, inntin on the evending of thas tots, arcomamatiol by it elituf, whos comomped of tho "timat W"urd," the rhiel was gotiog to certala ho combl oblala us prachar. . . . Ital Its fournay they most have minsidel anch othor.

A555. PROVIDENCE, Protecting. Hilliomef Oruage, [lly sulleltathom of I'rotestants lio fin* valed linglami.] 'Tho disembarkaton hud harelIy lorin refterod when tho whad rive agata, atul swelled haton theree grale from the west. "lhos comemy [undor Janses II.]. coming in jurmit down tho ('hamere, had bern stoplod hy the samos change of weather whifle embled ivillanis to hand. Durbing twodays the kinges tlect lay onina Ile presed the inla of Wlght, and one of his shaps cinme lin wight of tho Dintill tupmasts in 'Torlniy. Jhant nt this monent he was enconinteral by the tomprest, und compelled to take whelter in the harbor of l'ortsmonth. . . . 'I'ha weather had indeed served the Protestant cmine so well that somo men of moro ploty than juilesment fully believed the ordinary laws of mature to lave bean suspromed for tho proservation ot the liberty and religion of Emerland. Exnctly a hamidrod yours before, they suld, tho Armula, invincible by man, hal beensattered by the wrath of (lod. Civil freedom nud divise truth were ugatu in jeopardy; and ngain the obediont elements hal fought for the good amse. The wind hud blown strong from the const while the prime wished to sull down the ('hmanel, had furned to the sonth when he whaned to enter 'Torbny, hal sunk to u caln during tho disembarkntion, und, as suon as tho dinemburkation was completad, had risen to a storm, and had met tho pursu-

 ENu., ch. 0, 1. 447.
4558. PROVIDENCE, Speolal. Presimation. Richard Rodda, $n$ Cornislı miner, was savel from sudden death while om his kneas in prayer. Ilo had knolt but about two minntes when the carth gave way nbove him; a large stone fell before him and renched nbove his hend; suother fell at his right hand, and a thiril on his left, eneh, like the first. being higher thon himself ; a fourth fell upon thesentout lour inclaes above him, and sheltered him. Ital he been in may other posturo be wonhl have been erushed.-STEvbes' Meinodism, vol. 2, p. 148.

155\%. PROVIDENCE, Submission to. Nocrates. IIe cltes an excellent prayer, from it poct whose name has not come down to us: " Great God, give us, we beseech thee, those good things of which we stand in need, whether we erave them or mot ; und remove fronn un all thame which miny

 1. $3 \times 8$.

A55 w. PROVIDENOE, Truat In. Hilliam, /rinis of Oranyr, Is the then of atrikhug the grent blow drew near, the unxioty of W'illian ln'samo

 'Phe prepuratlons were not gilte rabaplate. Thos of Amsterilum might sifl fromionte: the whole Iralunt, if lha factlon whleh hated the shadt. hoshder wire toralse lts head, all wis over. "My мulforings, my disquiet," the prince wroto. " ura dromiful. I harally mo my way. Never la may life did I so much ferel the morl of (borl's gulil.

 ch. 0, p. 119.
4550. - - Abwhum Lintoln, [Fure-

 ratal wor a broken Unlon.] My Frlands: No nus mot fomy posithon cinn inpreconte the sulness I ferel at this jurthg. 'l'o this jeople I owe all that I am. Here I have llved more than a guarter of $a$ centary ; liere my chililren ware horn. and here ono of them lles burded. I know not luow soon I shall ace you mgaln. A daty devolvas upon mo which ls, prerhaps, greniter than that which has alevolvied hoon any other man slace the days of Washington. De nuver roulal havo suceceded exent for tho atil of divine Providenece "pon whisel he at all thmes relled. Ifeel that chunotancered whithout thesume Divine aid which suntained him, and on the sama Shatelity Belng I place my rollance fur support, mad I hopryou, my fricmis, will all pray that I maty recoive that Divine nssistance, whitont which I cannot succerd, but whin whirhsuecess is cortuln. Again I bid yout ull mn aflectlonnte farewell.-R.ixmond's Lincolen, ch. 5 , p. 131.
4500. PROVIDENCE, Vindioation of. Persecution. The gardens ind circias of Nero on tho Vatlenn, whilele wero polluted with thr hbod of the first Christinans, linve leen remilered still moro fanous by the trimaph and by the almse of the persecutad rellgion. On the same spot, a lemple, which fur surpasses the uncient glorios of the Capitol, has been since ereeted by the Christinn pontiffs, who, deriving their cham of unlversal dominion from on liumble thehermme of Galilee, havo nuceceded to the throne of the Casars, given laws to the barbarian conguerors of IRome, mal extended their spiritiml jurisdietion from the const of the Baltic to the shores of the Pacitic Ocean.-(irbmon's lRome, ch. $1_{0}$ p. 18.
4531. PROWEss, Military, Roman fineral Belisarins. At the hend of one thousumbl horse, the Romme gencrad sallied from the Flaminian grate to mark the ground of an alviantageons position, aml to survey the camp of the birburrians; but while lie still believed them on the otber side of the Tiber, he was suddenty encompussed and assanlted by their numerous spundrons. The fute of Italy depended on his lite; und the deserters pointed to the conspicuons horse, a bay, with a white face, which he roble on that memorable day. "Aim at the bay horse," was the raniversal cry. Every bow was bent, every javelin was directed ngainst that fabal objeed and the command was repeated ame -hreved by thonsames who were ighorant of its reai motive. The bodder harbarians alvaneen to the more honorable combat of swords and sperars: and herepraise of all cotemy hat gracery the "all of Visandus, the stambard bearir. whos mantaned his for "nost shation, till he was pierend with thimen womals, pertaps by the hatad of Belisarias himself. The koman general was strong, medive, and dexteroms; one every side he disebarged his weighty and mortal strokes; his fathitul gramede imitated his valor. atad defomded his proson ; and the Gothes after the loss of a thousimed men. Hed before the arms of a hero. They were mashly pursued to their (amp) and the Romans. oppressed by multitudes, made a grathat, and at hength a preceipitate redreat to the gaters of the city ; the gates were shat agatist the fugitives; and the pablie terror was inereased by the report hat Belisarins Wias shian. Dis commenance was inderd dis. tigured by sweat, dust, and hlowl; his voide was hoarse, his strength was almost exhmasted; but his uncouquerable spirit still remained; he imparted that spirit to his desponding companions: and their last desperate charge was felt by the Hying tharbarians, as if a new army, vigorous and cutive, had been poned from the eity: The Fiminian gate was thrown open to a real trimmph.

The example of Belisarius may be alilet to the rare examples of Herry IV., of Pymbis, and oi Nexander.-Ghbox's Rome, eh. 41, p. 161.
4502. PULPIT, Conservatism of the. Politios. [ln 16:3, in the great contests between Parliament and Charles $1 .$,$] the pretensions of the$ arown wore alvocated from the pulpit, and the disobedient were threatened with more than temporal pemaltics-KNagtr's Ena, vol. 3, ch. 25, 1. $33 \cdot 3$.

156:3. PULPIT controlled, Jimes II. [In 16*6) the king, as the head of the Churb, hand issued, as directions to the elergy, not to introduce into their pulpits any disconssion upen doe-trinal prints which were mathers of contro-

45i1. PUNISHMENT, Capital. Engltmel, A.1. 1763. The game laws, pareelling out among the: latege proprietors the explosive right of hamting, were mainatained with relontless severity; and to stom or even to hamstring a sheep was as murh pminaed by death as murder or trasom. During the reign of George IH. sisty-three mew rapital offerees hat been added to the eriminal laws, and five rew ones on the average continned to be diseovered anmably : so that the rode of Engriand, formed umber the influene of the maral erntry, sermed writern in blood-BaNrabets l, i., vol, 5, rh. :3.
4.5(i.). PUNISHMENT deserved. Zittas Ottas. [Anthor of the infamons tiction of the popery phot. See No. 4P13.] 1 fis offence, thongh, in a moral light, mater of the most ageravaterl kind, was, in the eye of the law, merely tamsdemenor. The tribman, howerne, whe desirous to male his punishment more severe than that of folons or traitors, and not merely to put him to death, but to put him to death by frightfal torments. Ila was sentenced to le stripped of his cleriand habit, to be pilloried in Patace Vard, fo be led romal Westminster lanl with an inseription donlaring his infamy over his hemal, to ha pilloriad ngain in front of the dayal bichange, to be whipped from Aldgate to Newgate, and, afteriminterval of two days, to be whipped from Newgate to 'Tyburn. II, against all probability, he shoubla happen to survive this horrible inflidion, he was to be kept a close prisoner daring lifi. prive times every yaur he was to be hromght forth from his diugreon and exposed on the pillory in different parts of the capital. [lle harely sur-

45156. $\qquad$ Moursoufle. Memr\%onthe |a byant of constantinople| was reerived with smiles and honors in the camp of his father Aloxius; bat the wicked ann never love, and should raredy trost, ther fedlow-erimituls; he was seized in the betti, deprived of his eyes. stripged of his troops and trensures, and tumed omb to wander ata obje of horror and combempt to those who with more propricty could hate, and with more instice condd phinh, the assassin of the emperor Ïsame and his soln. As the tyrmat. pursued by ferar or remorse, was staling over to Asia, he was seiged by the Latins of Constaminople, and condermed, after an opern trial, to an ignominious death. His judges dolnated the mode of his exreution-the axe, the whed, or the stake: and it was resolved that Monranofle should asernd the Theodosian column, a pillar of white marlle of one hombred and foriy-seven feed in height. From the summit he was cast d wa headlong, and dashed in pieces on the pavement, in the presence of inmmerable specelators, who filled the form of Tamras. - (imbnox's Rome, ch. 61, p. 103.

156\%. PUNISHMENT, Effective. Prompt. [In 1617 the " Levollers", and "Agitators" were numerous in ('romwell's urmy. Some of the regiments appear with papees in their hats of "Lil? arty for England, their rights for the soldiers." (remeral Fairfax commands them to tear them ont, and they shom in derision.] ('romwell exclaims, "Take that paper out of your hats." They refuse. He rushes into the ranks, orders fo,rrteren of the mutineres to be seized; a drumhand romer-matial is assembled, and three ar condemmed to death. The conneil of ollicers order that they shath draw lots which shadl determine the fate of one. The immediate exerntion of that one restored die army to its wonted dis-ripline.-Kㅊitur's Fixa., vol. 4, ch. 6, p, 87.
d568. PUNISHMENT, Excessive. $E d$ Ir $r r d$ Froyd. [1n 16:2 Edward Floyd, a Roman Catholir barrister, expmessed his joy that "goodman Palsgrave and groodwife latserave" had been driven from l'rague; when it was known there was no pmishment bos terrible to be intioted upon the delingucht-whipinge, the pillory, horing of his tongure matilig of his mars, were small justice for such an offence. The Itonse wemt be rond it e powers in pasing a heave senteme nom Floyd wihout hembing him. Heappealed to the king, denying the aredusation against him.
The Lords confirmed the sentence, with additional severities. Whipping, which was a part of this sentence, was remitted on the motion of Prince Chardes. 'The umbupy man andorwent the other mojust punishment-lo pay atime of Lotoon, nud to be imprizond for lift. "Ihere is surely no insamer," suss Mr. Ilathm, " in the ammatsot onr own, and hardy any divilized come try, where a trilling oftemere, it it were one has beth visited with such ourameots emtely."

A:- PUNISHMENT ineffective, Capital.
 mg; thievos were olten hung twenty logether apon one gallows: wevertheless thicves wre in every phace. A traveller has rerorded that prople are taken up every dive hy dozons, like birds ina they never ceane to foh and murder in the strects.

ij7\%. PUNISHMENT of the Innocont. (himu. There is mothing more harbarous in the proserention of erimes in Chim thats thet custom, borrowed from the serthians, by whicls all the rebations of a criminal, to the ninth degree, are sul)jected to the sant: punishanent as the offender bimself. The hashand sutters for the guilt of his wite, the father for that of his children. Where the father is dead, the eldest son is responsible for all the yomger, and carb for carh. -Tymbers 11 sis., Book 6, ch. 24, p. 342 .
1571.-- Children. The inturne of the emmel Eatropius was unbounded with [Aremdins] his sovereign; hat thongh courted, as we may suppose, like all other minisuers, by the parasites of the court, he was denervedty detested by the people. A striking memment of his fears from the popuine odimm, and the apprelemsion of undergoing that fate which he merited, appears in that most sungumary of the Roman stathetes, the haw of Areadias and Homorins, for the punishment of thove whoshould compire the death of the cmperors ministers. A apitat pmishment was intlicted on the offember himself ; it is deriared that his chilatren shall be pe. petually infimmos, incapable of all inharitaner, of all ollice or emplovment ; that they slmall tanguish in want amd misery, no that life itself shall le a punishment to them, and teath a consola-

1572. PUNISHMENT is Tind. Therus. [Theseme, the formere of Altion, ] put an prixal to the revelties of Damastes, surmamed Prownotes, making his body tit the size of his own beds, as be hat served stramgers. These thinge he did in :mitation of Ifercoles, who always refmerned mon the aggressors the same sort of treament which they intended for him ; for that hero sarritieed Busiris, killed Anteras in wrestling. (ygmus in single combat, and breke the skitl of termerus. whene this is called the 'Termerian misehiel"; for Themerus, it seems, festroved the passengers be met, by dashing his hemd agame theirs. Thus Thesens pursued his travels to pumish ahmaloned wretehes, who sulferped the same kind of death from him that they intlieted on others.-ParTARCU: THENETS.
4573. PUNISHMENT, Parental. Luther. The parents reared their son Maria in the fear of God and in the love of gool works. But their disejpline was striet and severe, as they themselves endured hard toil in gaining a livelihood. "My father," relates Luther, " on one vecasion flogged mes somedy that I mas away, and was cmbittred against bim matil he erradually regatined my athertions. Gamotherocasion ny mother, be. emase of a mere nut, whipged me so hard that the hood flowed. Her arew and emons trabment ol bue led me to enter a chister amd berome a momk. But in their hearts they memet it wedl with me, and made but one mistake, in that they did not diserern the different dispositionsamerding to which all punishmems should ter administered. Fior heonght topmish so that the npple wo hame in hamd with the rod."-Rman's hothen, (lh. 2, 1. 19.
157. PUNISHMENT, Partiality in. Linmuns. The makeractors who replenish our jails are the ontensta of soridy, and the erimes for which they sufter may be commonly aseribed to igmoranere, powerty, and brubal appite. For the perpedration of similar chormities, a vile pledema might - lam and ahose the satered character ol a member of the remblic ; but, on the proof or suspicion of guilt, the slane or the stranger was mailed to a cross; mul this strict and smmary justice might be exerrised without restraint wet the greatest part of the popalace of Rome-Gibmox's Ronm, ch. 44, p. 373.
1575. PUNISHMENT, Retaliation in. I'sipothe The Visigoth code provides that for wory offence for whieh there is not a spectial matutory pmishment the permat teliomis shonht take plate. lt was a very ample extension of this retaliation, that he who wiffally sed fire to a homse was burnt himse If If a julge, cormpted be bribery, cons demned an imoerent man to punishment, he suffered the like pmishment himself.-TyThen's Hist., Book 5, ch. 7, p. 45.
4576. PUNISHMENT, Rule of. Remutn Latr. A sin, a vice, a crime, are the objedets of theohny, ethics, and jurisprodenee. Whenewer the ir judgments agree, they corroberate enth other ; hut is - fter as they difirer a prodent legislater approciates the gribit and pomishment acrording to the mensure of social injury. On this prime jple the most daring atack on the life and property of a private citizen is judged less atrocions than the arime of tatam or rebellion which inverde the majexty of therepublie.-(immos's Rome, ch. At, 1. 377.
A.'7\%. PUNISHMENT necessary, Severe. ('mmirell. ['romwell justitied the terribheand whale...de slaughter of the royalists at Dregherlat and Wexford by stating that it would present the effusion of ofood in the future. Anembightered and thly pions minister writes of this 1 rish cant bom raging (romwell, by mereiful sewrity,
 vol. 4, rh. 8, p, 123.

457*. PUNISHMFNT, Severity in. Limm"m. E'mperor Aluctist". A -ingle instance will merse to display the riz, r ant can crucley of Aurelian. One of the sodiers had seduced the wift of his hosi. Theguily wreteh was finstemed to two trees forcibly drawn toward ead other, amd his limbs were torn asmader by their sudden separation. A few surd examples impressed a sat-utar- constermation. The pmishments of Aurelian wore terrible, but be had seldom orcasion to pmish more than one the same offence- -Giebon's Rome, ch. 11, p. 340.

1578．PUNISHMENT，Terrible，$B y$ I＂pers． ［lı pumishment for vedition，the laomans shat ubl one（ains Billias in a exsk with vigers and other serpents．mad left him to perish in that crucl mammer．－J＇， Guscoisis．

4万®d．FURGATORY，Compensations in．1／it－ hometen．＇The wood and evil of riach Mussul． matn will be arourately woighed in a real or at legoriall babanco ；and a singular mode of eom－ persation wild be albowed for the payment of in－
 of his wwing geod wetions，for the benctit of the ferson whond le hat wronged ；and il he shombl Bre dextitute al any moral property，the waight of his sins will be loanded with an alognate shate of the lomeriss of the sufforer．Ireording as thu shates of grilt or virtue shall preponderate， the semtence will be pronomaced，and all，with－ iloms bridere of the abyss ；but the inmoremt， Arading in the footsteps of Mahomet，will sio－ riously ruter the arates al paratise while the gruilty will fall info the limt amd mildest of the
 from nime hambred to seven thonsine yoars； but the prophel has julidenuly promised that all his diveiphes Whatrver may be hair sing shall be samed．hy their own fath ：omd his in－ freresiom，from eformal dammatir－fimbosis

15xi．PURGATORY，Mahometan．I＇и儿ishmi＂t in．In the H thomutath theology al ctatf agrai－ tios the wall of separation hetwresi hearon and lafl，and correxpenils somerwhat for the pre： gatory of the latin chareh．大ittint astride ot this wall ate those whose goond and evil deeds

 ＂o war without thoia pate＇ats＇consent athd fall in battle．Tland last are martyrs，and ate there－ fore peradrad from hedl ；hit intain has thay hatr dimbleyed thair paremts commands，we mot
 ＂${ }^{\text {II }}$ ，\1i．11＂．
 ＇Thw cxtrome l＇uritan watat on！o known from other fuen ly his wat，his math，his lathe hair． white of his ryes．the hasal twing with which He cmployed on wery orrasion the imagery amd sty of seriphure Hobraisms violombly introduced into the English lan．ruator，．．and apllica！tothe commonn concerns of Finglish lifa， wre the mo ${ }^{\text {w }}$－riking peoultaritios of this cant， which moved， 1 A whent ratuse，the derision ENG．．＇h．1，נ． 76.

1．jwis．PURITANISM vs．Chivalry．．Vim Eing－ lemeres．If it hatd the seretarian（rime of intol－
 The Knights were braverom gallatry of spisit ； the l＇uritans from the lear of dinl．＇The Knights smile they hetheld homor，whose rehuke was the Wommd of diserface ；Har Puritans，disdainingr reremony，would not bow at the mane of Jesms， nor bemb the knee to the King of kings．（＇hiv－ alry dedighted in ontward show，fivored pleas－ nre，multiplied ammsements，and degraded tho homana race ly an exclasive respect for the privileges！classes：Puritunism bridled the pas sions，commmadod the vintures of sedfelening，and resenced the manm of man from dishonor．＇The former valued courtesy ；the latter justice．The tha fatter fommed national $x$ rambare on maver－

15＊！．PURITANISM，Peculiarities of，E＂！！ lish．Therestreme Puritums，therefore，lequn in lorl for the（ad Testament a preference which． prolatss，they did met distinctly awow even to themsedves，hat whird showed itself in all their sontiments and habits．＇lobey baptized their children ber the mantes，not of＂hristian suints， but of Holinew patriarelos tand warriors．In do－ liance of the exjuens and redterated decharations of Lather and（＇alsin，they humed the weekly limpal hy which the（lhorel had，from the primitive times，commonorated the resmreertion of her laro，into a I（wwish Suhbath．＇Tluy sought for priariples of jurispradence in the Mosaid law，ami for procedents to grade their ordinary combluct in hae books ol dudges amd Kings．Their thoughts and discourses m．muels on acts which were assuredly not reeorded as vamples for our imitation．The prophet who hewal in pieces a caption king：the relel gen－ e rall who give the blow of a duren to the dogs ： the matron who，in detimmer of plighted faith， ：and of the las w of Eastorn hospitality，drove the nail into the larain of the fugitive ally who land just fod at har loond，and who was sleeping tur－ （her the shadow of her tent，were proposed as mothels to（＇hristians suffering under the tymany of prinees and prelates．－Mmedibay＇s ENa．． ch．1，1r i． 4.

15W．5．PURITANS despised．Pitro（＇oopor．It but says Machalay．＂No man ever did it who had oreasion to mert them in the halls of deboite． ur cross swords with then on the field of latille．＂ If there ever was a man of this typo－il thore evor was a man who carried a lion－hertrted cont age und helieving somb in his bosom－if them． ever wasa man whonever qualad，or mevor could puail，in the presence of earthly or infermal
 LIFE WF J＇ETEN（＇OOHEN，1）．30）．

15\＄6．PURITY，Sentimental．Édirurd Ill． ［Among men the lofrayal of women is mow］
 tion of seatiment on hais hoad more strongly typitied than in Edward 111 ．himself．The king． Who（if the pleasing tale be true which give rise to somuc heatiful secnes in an old Engliwh dat mai）had in his varly days royally remounced an unlawfal passion for the laif Comutess of salis－ bury，eman to be anoused of at once viohating his ronjusal duty and unerlocting his miliary glory for the sake of strange women＇s chamms．The fommare of the Orike of the Garter－the deviere of which anjoinct purity even of thomght as a prine iple of comblut－died in the hamds of ata－ patious courtesan．－Whan＇s（＇untcen，rli． 1.
 advised his son to beware oll all physjecinns．］IVe added that he himsolf had writion a little freat ise，in which he had set down his method of eure，and the regimen he preseribed when any of his family fell sick ；that he never recom－ mended fasting，but allowed them herbs，with duck，pigroon，or hare，such kind of diet being light and suituble for sick people，having no oth－ er inconveniconer but its making them drean ； and that with these remedies and this regimen he preserved limself and his fumily．But his self－sutheioucy in this respect went not unpun－ ished，for he lost both his wife and son．－Pluv． Taben＇s Cato．

1585．QUACKERY，Superstitious．Kin！g＇s Touch．［Edward the（＇onfessor］wasa healer of the siek and a restorer to sight of the blind．It wis he who tirst used＂the bialing benediction，＂ which he felt to the＂sucereding royalty，＂so that event the phous（＇harles II．＂touched＂eight thomsand live limudred of his afllieted subjects in one fear，and one hundred housand in the eonnse of his reign．－KNight＇s ENi．，vol．1，（h．12， 1）． 164.
ins9，QUALIFICATION，Deficient．Philip，De－ most henes was perfectly ampainted with the dis． position of Philip，and was very far from prais－ iner him，like the generality of orators．Two erollearges，with whom he hatl heen usisociated in an emblasey to that inprat prince，were contin－ ually pravinis the king ol Macedonian atheir re－ turn，und saying that ho was a very eloguent anil hamsonie prinere，amb a most astraordinars drimker．＂Whan strmage eommendatiens are these！＂replied lemostlumes．＂The tirst is the ureomplishment of a rhetoriatim ；the serond of of weman ；and the third of as sponge；but nowe of them the phatitation of a king．＂－Romatis Hs゙r．，Book 10，ㄷ．

4B90．QUALITY more than Quantity．Wia／ Lammibal having ordered histroose to arm，him． self．with a lew others，roole up to an eminemer， to take a view of the enemy now drawn no for bathe．One Gisco that accompanied him，a man of nis own ramk，happening to saty the num－ bets of the enemy appeared to hini surprising， Hamibal replied，with a serions commemance： ＂There is another thing which has esmated your observation，much more surjurising than that．＂ Upon his asking what it was：＂It is，＂suid he， ＂that amoner snch numbers not one of them is named（iisero．＂frle defeated the Romans with torrible carnige．f－Plutaberis Fubu＇s Maxi－ mus．

4万91．－Nodiers．［日live（＇rom． well expressed his opinton concerning the in－ portance of grood qualjty in soldiors．！I fow homest men are better thin mombers．．．．I had rather have a plain，russel－conted captain，who knows what he firhts for，and loves what he knows，than that which you ecoll＂a genteman，＂ and is nothing else．I honor a gentleman that is so indered．［He insisted that his soldiersshould be religious men，but left the particular form to their own choice．］－KNaimés ENa．，vol．4， ch．2．p．： 9 ．

159\％．QUALITY，Tested by．Sioords．［The Romans were eompelled to pay tribute to the Mahometans．］When the unnatural mother of Constantine was deposed and hanished，her successor，Nicephorus，resolved to obliterate this badge of servitide and disgrace．The epistle of the emperor to the caliph was pointed with an allusion to the game of chess，which had already spread from Persta to Greece．＂The queen（he sjoke of Irenc）considered you as arook，nud herself as a prown．That pusillanimots female submitted to pay a tribute，the double of which she ought to have exacted from the barbarians． Restore therefore the fruits of your injustice，or nbite the detcrmination of the sword．＂At these worts the mubassadors cast a bundie of swords lefore the foot ol the throne．The caliph smiled at the menace，and drawing his cimeter，sem－ semuth，a wempon of historic or fabulous renown， he ent asmader the fechle nrms of the（ireeks， without tarning the edge or condangering the temper of his hade．Wr then dietated an epis－ the of tremendons bres ity：＂In the mane of the most mereiful God，Itamin al Rashid，command－ （r of the fathful，to Nierphoris，the Roman dog．I have read thy letter， 0 thon son of an unbelieving mother．Thon shalt not hear，thon shalt beholi，my reply．＂It was written in char－ acters of blood and fire on the plains of lhary－ ait：；and the warlike celerity of the Ambs condid only be cheeked hy the arts of deedit and the shes of repentince．－Gibion＇s Rome，ch．5e， ［． 309.

459：S．QUARREL，Conjugal．Beujamin Thomp－ Nent．［lle is better known as Thunford，the Tankee eount，who became distinguished for his efforts in belalf of the poor．］He con－ trated an unfortumate marringe with a brill－ iant weathy French widow，which embitter－ ad his ciosingr years．She was wholly a woman of the drawing－room．Jle was an inventor，a philosopher，and a lover of order even to fanati－ cism．An infuriate＂incompatibility＂was rup－ idly developed．One of their（quarrels he has himself recorded：＂I laree party had been in－ vited I neither liked nor approved of，and invit． ad for the sole parpose of vexing me．Our house（near Paris）was in the centre of the gar－ den，walled aromal，with iron gates．I put on my hat．walked down to the porter＇s lodge，and as：him orders，on his peril，not to let any one in．Hasides， 1 took away the keys．Madane went down，and when the company arrived she talked with them－she on one side，they on the other＇，of the high brick wall．After that she grees and pours boiling water on some of ny beatiful llowers．＂－C＇rclopedia of Biog．， D． 650.

159．1．QUARREL，Degrading．Mitton＇s．Ports and artists，more susceptible than practical men， sem to live a life of perpetarl wrangle．．．．Ben Jonson，Dryden，Pope，Voltaire，Ronsman，be－ babor their enemies，and we see nothing incon－ gruous in their doing so．It is not so when the awful majesty of Milton descends from the em－ pyrean throne of contemplation to use the lan－ grange of the gutter or the fish marke．The pathos is unthinkable．The universal intellect of Bacon shrank to the paltry pursuit of phace． The disproportion hetween the intullectual cat－ pacionsiness and the moral aim jats upan the sense of fitness，amp the hame of Batcon，wisest， meanest，has passed into a proverb）．Milton＇s fall is fate worse．It is not here a mion ol grasp of mind with an iguoble ambition，but the phange of the moral nature itself from the highest heights to that despicable region of vulgar seurrility and libel which is brlow the level of average gentility and education．The name of Milton is a sy ．onym for sublinity. He has endowed our languge with the loftios amt mohlest poetry it poss sises, and the same man is fomme comploying sperch for tha most mworthy phrgose to which it cim be put, that of doliming and vilitying a persomal enemy, and an enewty so mona lhat baredy to have beren mentionerd by Xiltom had been an honortohim. [He defiamid Morus, a pamphleterer.] --Milow, is M. I'ITHison, (li. 10.
1595. QUARREL, A needless. I) word being riven, they tired so exactly together that it sombded like the report of one pistol. Barron fell, hadly wommded. Deeatur was about : ‘́ali, but wascought, and stararerad forwami a lewe steps, and sank down close on Barron ; and, as they lay on the gromma, both expecting to dia, they comversed together as follows, as noar ats could be collereted: "Jet us," sadid lanron, "make friends brfore we meet in heaven. Evarything has been conducted inthe most homorable mamor, nod I forgive you from the bottom of my henrt." "I have never been yont enemy," Decatur replied, "and I freely forque yon my death, thongh $I$ emmot formive those who stimulated you to seek my life."
"Wonk to God," said Barron, "that you had sad as mueh yesterday!" Aecording to one witness, Decntur added: "God bless you, Barrom." To which Barron replied, "Gonl bless vou, D"ratur." [Decatur died and Barron sur-vived.]-Cycionemin of Bugi., p. 93.
-5D6. QUARREL provoked. Sumul Johnson. When my mother lived in London, there were two sets of people, those who gave the wall, and those who took it-the peaceable and the guarrelsome. When I returued to Lichiteld, after having been in Jomelon, my mother nsked me whether I was one of those who gave the wall, or those whotock it. . Gore, it is fixed that evory man keeps to the right ; or, if one is taking the wall, anothor vields it: and it is never a dispute.-Boswela's'Johnsos, p. 25.
4597. QUARREL. 'Shameful. Frederick the Great. [Voltaire was greedy. Frederick was parsimomions. Voltaire was his chosen friend and gruest.] It is homiliating to relate that the Ereat Warrior and slatesman gave orders that his guests allowarexe of surar and chocolate should be cortailed. It is, if possible, a still more humilating fact that Voltaire imbemnitied himself by porketing the wax candles in the royal (intir.

SDO &. QUESTIONS, Test. Alexander's. In the conrse of [ome of bis Persian, experlitions he took tea of the Gymmosophists, who had berp principally concerncal in instigating Sabbas to revolt. . . . Is these ten were reckomed the most acute and comedse in theis ansorere he pat the most dithernte pastions to them that comld 1 : thonght of, an: 't the smme time derdared he would put the first persom that answered wron's to denth, and after him all the rest. The oldest man ablomer them vas to be the juige. II do manded of the tirst which were most numerons, the living or the deme. He answred, "The living, for the dead wo longer exist." The second was asked whothor the marth or the sea produced the largest animais. IIe monswrod, "The earth, for the seat is part of it." The third, which is the craftiest of nall animals. "That," said har " with which man is not yet urguainted." The fourth, what was his remson [or persinaling sahbas to revolt. "Beramse," satid he." I wishud lime either lo live with lonor or to dia as a eoward deserves." The díth had this question put to hinn, "Whach do yea think oddest, the day or the night?" Jo answored, "The day, by one day." As the kiner aprexared surprised at this solntion, the philasopher told bim nlostruse questions must have abstruse nnswers. 'Tue: ndrlressing himself to the sixth, he demmaded, "What are the best monasfor than to make himself loved ?" Je answared, " If possessed of great jower, do mot make yourself feared." 'lore seventh was usked how n man might becomo a gorl. He maswered. $"$ By doing what is inmossible for mun to do." 'Thes cighth, "Which isstrongest, life or death re" " Liftr" said he, " becatse it bears so many evils." The last question that he put was, " llow lomg is it good for a man in live ?" "As long," suid the philosopher, " as he dors not prefer death to life." Then turning to the jumge, he ordered him to give sentence. The old man said, "In my opinion they have alt answered one worse than mother." "If this is thy jungrment," suid Alexmader, " thon shalt die first." "No," replied the philosopher, "not except you choose to break your word ; for you deelared the man that unswered worst should tirst suffer."-Pli't.ancit's Aldexanderir.
4590. QUESTION, Unanswered, Simonides. The aniwer he gave a prince who asked him what God was is much colebrated. That prince was IIiero, King of Syracuse. The poet desired a day to eonsider the question proposed to him. On the morrow he asked two days ; suld whenever he was called mon for his nnswer, he still doubled the time. The king, surprised at this belmior, demanded his reason for it. "It is," replied Simonides, " becanse the more I consider the fuestion, the more olssenre it seems, Qwiat quanto diutiüs considero, tatoto mihi res videtur obscurior."-RoLIIn's IIs'., Book 5, art. 9.
4600. RACE, Antipathy of. Reign of James II. [Roman Catholic troops from Ireland were bromght into England to aid the king in the overthrow of the lrotestant faith.] Neither [English] oflicers nor soldiers were disposed to bear patiently the preference shown by their naster to a foreign and a subject race. The buke of Berwick, who was colonel of the Eight's Recriment of the Line, then puartered at Ports. momth, gitve orders that thirty men, just arrived from Iretamd, shomd be enlisted. The English soldiers dectared that they would not serve wit! these intruders. John Beammont, the lieutenantcolonel, in his own name and in the name of five of the captains, protested to the duke's face arainst this insult to the English nrmy and nation. "We raised the remiment," he said, "at our own charges, to dofend his Majesty's crown in time of danger. We had then no ditlicnlty in procuring lamidrels of English rermits. Weatu aisily kerperory company full withont almitting Irishmor "e. ${ }^{2}, \ldots$ fore do not think it romsistent with , itir , 1 , we these strangers permitted to co wat torn at own nation,

sent to Windsor for directlons. The king, greatly exasperated, instantly despatched a troop of horse to Portsmouth with orders to bring the sis refractory oflcers before him. They refused to make uny submission, nad they were sentenced to the cashiered, the highest punishment that a court-martial was then eomperent to infliet. The whole mation upplanded the disgraced oft-cers.-Macallay's Eno., eh. 9, p. 39 万.
1601. RACE, Dlslike of. Setmuel, Johnson. [He wis fond of ridiculing seotehmen.] Ile would not allow scobland to derive any credit from Lord Manstield, for he was chacented in Englamel. " Mhels," said he, " may be made of a Soncloman, if he be caught young."-Boswela's Jonixion, p. 198.
4602. RACE for Life, A. Prisoner. [After the lattle of sedgremoor, hetween the rebollonke of Mommouthand James II.] Feversham [Jmues' commander] passed for good-natured man; but he wis a foreigner, ignorant of the laws, and carelces of the feelings of the English. Ile was arenstomed to the military license of Frame.

1 considerable number of prisoners were immediately selected for execution. Among them wis a youth famons for his speed. Hopers were held out to hine that his life would be spared if he could rum a race with one of the colts of the marsh. The space throurh which the man kept up with the horse is still marked by well-known bounds in the moor, and is about three guarters of a mile. Feversham was not ashamed, after secing the perfozmance, to send the wretehed performer to the gallows.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 596.
4603. RACE, Pridein. Stmuel Johnson. [1Ie bad mudertaken to romplete his dictionary in three years.] Ansms: " But, sir, how can you do this in three years ?", Jousson: "Sir, I have no donbt that 1 can do it in three years." 'Lnass : "But the French Academy, which consiste of forty members, took forty yems to compile their dictionary:" Jomrson: "Sir, than it is. This is the propertion. Let me see ; forty times forty is sixteren hundred. As three to sixteen hamAred, so is the proportion of an Englishman to a Frencliman."-Donwblal's Joneson, p. 47.

A60.&. RACE ridiculed. Stmuct Johnson. Mr. Arthur Lae mentioned some sodoth who had taken possession of a barren part of America, and wondered why they shombl hoose it. Jomsson: "Why, sir, all barremess is comparative. The sooteh wonld not know it to be barren." Boswela: "Come, come, he is flatering the English. You have now beern in seothand, sir, amd say if youdid not see ment and drink elough there." Jonssos: "Why yes, sir: meat and drink enough to give the inhabitants sutlicient strougth to run awny from home." All these puick and lively sallies were sald sportively, quite in jest.-Bosweha's loms:os, p. 311.
1605. RACES, Amalgamation of. Circet Britain. Farly in the fourteenth century the amalgimation of the maces was all but complete ; :und it was som mive manifest ly signs not to be mistaken, that a pople inferior to none existias in the word had been formed by the mixtive of three branches of the great Teutonic family with each other and with the aboriginal Britons. There was indecd searcely anything in common between the England to which John lud been ehased hy Philif, Augustus and the England from which the armies of Ealward III. went forth to rongurer France.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 1, p. 17.
4606. RACES, Inequality of. Ccles-Saxons. There could not be eduality hetween men who lived in houses and men who lived in sties, between men who ware fed oa bread and men who were fed on potatoes, between men who spoke the noble tongue of great philosophers and poets and men who, with a perverted pride, bonsted that they coukd not writhe the months into ehattering such a jargon as that in which the "Advancement of Learuing" and the "Paradiso Last" were written.- Dacal'tay's Ena., ch. 6, 1. 125.
4607. RAID, Successful. Gicneral stomeman. White these great and decisise evelnts wore baking place in the carolimas, the famons ravalry raid of Gencral Stoneman was in progress. Ahout the middle of Marel he set out from Knoxville with a force of six thonsand men, crossed the monutains, (aptured Wilkesfroro, and forced his way aross the Yadkin at Janesville, . . . the genema ohjecet being the destruction of public property, the capture of Confederate stores, and the tenting up of milroads. Turning to the nowh, the troopers traversed the western end of North Carolima, und cutered Curroll County, Virginia. At Wytheville the railroad was torn up, and then the whole line was destroyed from the bridge over New River to within four miles of Lynchburg. Cloristianslurg was captured, and the track of the railway obliterated for ninety miles. Turning tirst to Jacksonville and then sonthward, hee expedition next struck and destroyed the North (arolima Railroad between Danville and Greenshoro. . . After atight with Ferguson's Confederate cavalry, the Federals tumed back to Dallas, where all the divisions were concentrated, and the raid was at an end. During the progress of the expedition six thousand prisoners, forty-six pieces of artillery, and immense guantities of small arms had fallen into the hathe of Stomeman's men ; the amoment of property destroyed and the damage otherwise done to the toth ring confedermey could aot be estimated.-RınPsti's Li.S., ch. 66, p. 530.
460w. RAILWAY, The first. In Englent. On the 15th of September [18:30] the tirst raiway for the convegatee of passengers was opernd, the carrages being drawn hy a locomotive engine, at the sped of a mee-horse- Kniout's Eva., vol. 8, ch. 14, p. 3.5s.
4609. RAILWAYS, Slow. Slomir than Ca nuds. [In 1825 it was stated in the 1 Ionse of Commons that] the experiment of conveying goods on a railway had been tried, and had completely failed. The best locomotive engine that could be found had been seleeted; and the avemge rate on a phane surface was not three miles amil turee gnarters per hour, which was slower than camal converance. - Knichit's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 14, p. 2 sis.
1610. RAILWAYS underestimateri. England. [Before a committec of the llouse of Commons] Telford a.d others expressed an opinion that with the improvement of the locomotive the speed upon a railway might be fifteen miles, and evon twenty miles an lour. These opsinionis wore callenl " thi gross "xigererntions of the powers of the locomotive steameengine;" and it was eontemed that even if such a speed could be at - wherels womble he so gratit that we shemble as soon capere that " perble would us soon sulfer themselves to be lired off mpen otte of Congrevers ricondiet rorkets is to trast themselves to the morery of such a machine goingrat such a rate."

As to those prosoms who sperubate om making railways gemeral throurbout the king. fom, and superveding all the camals, thll the war-in short, every other mondo ol converance by hand and by water, we deem them and their visionary shenies unworthy ol notiee."—[Taken from the (Querterly Rovorin] Kxubiot's Eva, vol. & ch. 14, p. 2s)
1811. RAIMENT restricted, $B y$ Zaleucus. [The Locritu lawgivor.] Tobmaish luxury from his republic, which he looked upon the the curtain destruction of agovernment, lac did not follow the practice established in some mations, where it is thomerht sulliofent, for the restraning it, to punish, by promiary mulets, such as infringe the laws : hat beractid. . . in a moreatfol and ingenious, that tht the sime time more effect nal, mammer. Jo pohilited women from weating rich and cosily stulfs, embroidered rohes, jewels, dar-rings, nerklitees, bracelets, gold "ines, and such like ormaments, os, 'pting nom from this buw but rommon prostituteo. II e enacted a similar law with regard to the ment, exerepting in the same mannere, from the observance of it, such only an worre willing to pass for debanchers and infamons wrotelaes,- Romain's IIst., Book 7 , ch. 2, $5:$
4612. RANK, Plea for. Stmuel Johmson. I mentioned a certais: nuthor whodisgrastal me. by showing no dratrence to noblemen into whose company he was admitted. Jomsson: "Suppose a shocmaker should clam an equality with hime as he does with a lowd how he would stare! "Why. sir, do youstare ?' sity the shoemaker : 'I do erreat service to society. "Tistrue. I an paid for doing it ; but so aro yon, sir ; and I am sorry to say it, bettor patd than I am, for doiner something not sonecossary. Fer mankimel conlif do better without your looks than vithout my shoes.' 'Thus, sir, there' would be a perpetual struserla for precedence were there no fixed invariable rules for the distinctionol rank, which ereates no joalonsy, as it is allowed to be acridental." Boswema's Jonsson, j. 124.

Afis: RANSOM, Paternal. Reigh of Iamma $I T$. sir John Cochrame had helel among the scotel rebels the same rank which latal bern held by Grey in the west of Enernme. That Cochrance should be formiven by a prine vindictive le yome all examplas seamed incerelible: hat coclirane Wias thr yommare som of a rich family : it was therefore omly by suring him that money conld bremale ont of lim. Ifis father, Lard biondenald, otfered a bribe of ex000 to the prieste of the ruyal homseholel, amd a parion was gramted.Macallay'h liNe. . cla. S, p. 60 s .
1614. RANSOM, A willing. Richurd Cipur de Lion. [After the finilure of the crusade, near Jerusalem.] Richard [I.] now thought of returning to his dominions, but, mwilling to put himself ha the power of his rival, Phillp [II.], hy travershag the kingelom of France, hessiled whth a single ship to linly, and was wrecked nemer Aguileia. " 'nere.... putting on a pilarim's rlisguive, he 1 lved to make his way, on foot, Ihrough(ieq ary. Ite was liseovered, however, at Viemm, by fapmil, Juka of Sustriat, ami thrown into pixam by the command of the comberor. Ihrory VI. No soonor was Richard's sitmation known to his subjerets, than they vied with catch other in contributions for his manomin. which was fixet at an exorbitant sum loy the ernperor, and opposed with every arither of the momen poolicy ly the king of France. His brother dohm, likewise, who in his absence hand endeavored to usirp the govermmont of England, is suid to have had a conferoner with Philip, in which the perpectunl raptivity of Richard was ngreed upon, while he himself was to be secured apon the English throne. 'These rabals, however, were unsuceessful. I Richated olntaned his liberty on payment of a reasom equal to nibont (:30), intot starling, which his soligerets levied liy the checrfal combibutions of all ranks of the state. On his return to his dominions he was recelved with the ntmost trmaports of delight and matisfaction. TRichard hat given his sabjects aoreal ranse of nffertion toward him; chainer a reign of ten yans he was but four montlis in the kingdom; but it is the disposition of the English to revero heroism and to commiscrate misfortume His tratorous inrother, after some submission, was rerejved into favor. -'T'videl's IInv.. Book 0, (h. 8, P. 1 I5.
1615. RAPACITY, Royal. Herry IIT. He sent forth infuisitors of the forests, who not omly ruined all those who had encroached upon the forest borders, but also impoverished many, even those of moble birth, "for $n$ single small" beast, a fawn or hare, although st ruying in an out-of-the-way place." The Jews, aceording to the eus(om of the iere, were lawfulphonder, and ITenry, as renirided them. did not depart from the pions usage of his finther. But lac did more than may of his prederessors in the spoil of the Isrnel. ites. He sold them as he would a form to his lorother licharel.-KNatre's Eina., vol. 1, wh. 94, 1. 36: 3 .
1616. RAPE attempted, Joat of Arr. [Boom to lee burned by the British.] The unfortanate prisoner, despoiled of her man's dress, had much to fear. Bratality, furions hatred, vengeance. might severally incite the eowards to derrade her before she berished, to sully what they were about to burn.

Besides, they might le tempurd to vamish their infamy by a makon of state, aceording to the notions of the day-by de. briving her of her virginity, they wonldimbloultinlly elestroy that secret power of which the Eng. hisli entertained subli great dreati, who, perhajs, might recover their courgige when they knew that, alter all, she was lont a woman. Acrorkling to her confessor, to whom she divalered the lart, an Englishman, not a common soldier, but a gentleman, I lord, patriotically devoted himself (1) this execution, bravely undertook to viohate a erirt laden with fotters, mal, being umable to rifect his wishes, rinned blows mpon her.Micileferts Jonn of Are, p. 5is.
1617. REACTION from Excess. fitisis. [Twalve hundred l'otastants had bedn butchered at Ambine $]$ The atrodions crucltins perpetrated by the Ginises in their home of trimph produced asperdy remetion in favor of the persecenter sectaries. The mation regarded the massure with disgenst; and the ('alvinists, insteat of being intimidated and ermshed, contimed to gaing gromad. amd londy demaded vengennere for the biond of their mariymed bethren.-stomenter Fuaves. ch. 16. :
.16I*. REACTION, Moral. lisformtion of (Marles $V$. The Rostoration was a moral citastroples. It was uot that there wanted good men umong the charelamen-men as pions amel viritous as the Puritans whom they displaced; but the [Royalists amme back as the grarty of reaction-roatetion of the spirit of the world ngatnst asoriteism, of self-indulgencearainst daty, of materialismaganst idealism. For a fime virtue was at public lumghing-stock, and the word " saint," the highest expression in the hagengre for moral perfertion, comoted evorything that was ridienfous. I do not sprak of the qallathries of Whitelaall. . . . 'Thae style of court mamares was a more incident on the siafene of social life. 'The mational lile was lat more profoumally tainted by the disconragerment of all good mon, which penetrated rever shire and every parish, lhan by the distant reperts of the laose behavior of ('harles II. Scrvility, momanese, vemality, dime-servinis, and a disbedief in virtur dilfised themselves over the mation like a pestilential miasma, the depressing inthanee of which was leaty , even upon those souls whicla individually resisted the ponson. 'The loroiceage of England had passed away, mot ly pradual deray, by imperceptible deroneration. but in a yair, in a single day, like the winters 4619. $\qquad$ R"ign of Churles II. Thar theatres were elosed [hy the louritams. The playars were togged. The prese was put maller the

 Were banished from their lianorite hamots.
 from a yoke whids had berome insupportahle. The old fight reeommencerl, but withan amimosity altorether new. . . . 'lae war betwen wit and Puritanism soon beeame a war betworn witaml morality. 'The hostility exojted hy a grotestue carieatare of virlue did not epare virtue larsedf.

- 1680. READING, Effecis of Jhrahrm. Lincolu. ['The books remul by the youthfal Lincoln were Ramsily's Lifent Washinarton, Werms' Lifo of Washing (om, Esop’s F゙ables, and Junymas Pilgrim's l'rogress. It is quite probshlo that the ghaint phasemology of these last fwo volumes. and their direet and forcible illustrations, may have impressed upon the productions of Mr. Sineoln's pen that syle which is one of their mosi prealiar and finorite characterisifes. RAYuond's Liveotis, (h. 1, p. 29.

1621. READING-R00MS necessary. Fifulcon I. Le hatd, when a youmem man, passid monthes in Paris without a home. with ath ('mpty purse ant almost without a friond. Le wis then in the habit of visiting a small readingrerom in the Palais Royal, where for a few sous he could. in the chilly days of winter, read the daily jommals, and enjoy the warmsh of a tire. ... [Il c became First Consul.] ISe was aftervard urged, as a mattar of State policy, to shat up these reading-rooms.

To this he repplied: " No: I will nevor dollat; I kaow too well the comfort of having surdinghere (o) go to ever to deprive others of the same re.

4(6922. REALITY, Power in. (fomirill. It is somuthing strikitur to cont rust the I womougoing down to the same lonase. ('harles was a líag. and he went fo arrest the membars and to assert that threre was no law in bingland save his will; bat hee went as king Nomimel. (rommoll went with wo roynly : bout him, yel he went as king Rate ; and ha, for, went for the still moreanazaing purpose of charing that whole llomse, and turning it ont indo the strects. [13y diswolving Parliament at Ho homal of his soldiers.]-loon's

4(62:3. REALIZATION, Joys of, ('ぃlumbus. Tho lamd was tow clently seron ubout two learues disfant, whereupon lioy fork in sail and lay to, wating imputiently for thr dawn. 'The thomghts and lerelings of ( 0 bumbas in this little space of time mast have been fumbltuons and intenser. At lengols, iu spite of evory ditlieulty and dangrer, he had aceomplishad his ohject. 'l'he great mystery of the oceman was revenled; his theory, which hat heen the seolf of sages, was tritumphantly established; lae had seremred to himself aglory dambleas the world itself. It is didlembt to concerve the ferlings of such a man, at suell is moment; or the conjectures which must Jive throngred mon his mind, as to the hand bofore him, covered with darkness.-Invina's ('oledsmus, Book 3, ch. 4.
4624. REASON, Worship of, Firneh IR wolufion. During the ruolntion a buatiful opera girl of licentious habits was convered, in most imposing caremonial, to the church of Notre:
 abal presented to the thromged assemblatge as the Gobliless of Reasom. ""Mortills," sitill C'hanmette, "rase to tremble before the powerless thonders of a got whom your fams hateremitel! There is mo (rod. Itemederth worship nome bint IRason. ITare I olfor you its noblest amel purest image. Worship only such divinitiss as this." The whole assemblage bowed in adoration, and then retired foindalge in sereses which the pen refises to recorrl.-[Foot-note in] Ansorves NAPOLEON 13., vol. 1, ('li. 16.

4(i2\%). REBELLION, Constructive. E'mperor Aframiliont Naximilian, after the deathof his fiathers, was elected emperor in the yeatr 1493. 'lhis prince, who was ant able politioitan, latid the fombdation of the permament greathess of the German empire, by proxaring the chatmant of that colebrated constitutional law, which cestablishess a perpetaid peace betwoen the whele of the States composing the Gormanio booly, which States, belore that time, hall bern at comstant variance upon evory frivial opposition of interests.

 a any to ser of what vast importance this law was

4628. REBELLION prevented. s'othent. 'Thr Farl of Doughas, an ambitious and high-spirited mobleman, hat openly aimed at rombering himself independent of his sovereign : le forlade his vassals to acknowledge any annhority hat lis own. He crentend knights, appointed a prive comicll, and, in short, assumed every enslgn of matay execp the title of klag. 'The chamedior, determbed 10 suppress these mapiring predensions, deropeal Doughas to sm Interviow lin the castle of bilinburgh, and there, while sepmatad from hic followers, lie was selaed amd instantly behoment. 'This rexample of barmarmas rigor dial mot deter his sure exsor, William, Barlof Dobghas, from proseroting the same ambithonspans ; and hls fate was ephally severe, aud yot more mojus. tithable. In a conforenere with the young mon areh he was reproalod by hom with forming commetions with the lachons nobility which wror damgeromsto the public pace and govern ment of the kingdon ; the king repuesting him to diswolve these aswechations, Domplas peremptorily erfawel. "If you will not," sald the yomes dimis [II.]. " thiswhatl "" and drawing hif dar. ger, bre instantly stablod him to the heme. This artion, unworthy of a prince, was universally Book th, ch. 15. 1. est.

1427, REBELLION, Small. Rhorl' Ixlantl. I proposition waw malle to change the constitution of the Siate, [umder which] the right of sulfage was restriated to hose who hed a dertain amomet of property. On that issue the prople of Rhate the munner of abregatiag the ohd chatore there Was a serturs division. One fartion, callow tha " Law ind Order jarty," proweding in aterowd ance willa the former constitution, chose samuel W. King as envernor. The other faction, cathed the "sumbere party," acting in an irreghar way, partios met and orranized their rival govionments. The "Tatw and Order party" mow undertook tosajpmes the faction of Jorrs. The latter resited. and wate an attomp (1) "ature the State arremal But the militia, mader the diree
 A momith later the atherents of Dorr again ap. parad in arms, but were dispersent by the troms of the l'nited statos: Jorr Hed from Rhonde Island: retarmed som aftorward; was canerht, tried for trasm, womided, and semtenemb to imprisomumb for life. It. was that offered parion sh combliton of taking an wath of alle gimace. This lae stubhornly refosed to do, amad in Juturof rationtabed his liberty without conf62w. REBELLION, A Soap. Reigh of (tharlis I. Charles was determind to wowm by prerogatise, and not by Parliament. He sold privi lege's for every anjust exaction. A patent for the mannfacture of somp was sold-a very sad alllictiom incleed, for in addition to the cosily prico from the existenw of the monopoly, for whicls Elo,000 had been paid. the linen had bed burned, amb the dhesh as well, in the wast inge, so that the rity of Lombon was visited by am insurnetion of women ame the Lorl hatyor was reprimended by the king hemase he give them his sympathy. - Hoons ('mombera, cht 4, p. $8 t$.

(629. REBELLION, The Whiskey, Pemuxylranit. Daring the summer and :athmo of :794 the country was much disturbed by a difficulty in western Pemsylvania, knowil as the whiskey insurrection. Moping to improve the revemues of the government, Congress had, three yours previously, imposed a tux on ald arident spirtis distilled in the Culted states. Whato phan he and his partivans indord the popple of the distilling regions to yesist the bas colleremers. The disalfected rose la nrms. Wishington issued two prochamations warning the insurgents to disperser ; lime insteme of obeying, they fredupon and aphored the ollteres of the govermment. The l'resident then ordered (iemernl Itemry lade to enter the rebellious district with a sullicient fore to restore order med enforere the law.
 ances. the rioters had ulrembly sentered. The insurvertion was a politionl rather than an social outhoalk: the mati Federallats were in a majority in the distilling reqion, and the whiskey tha wis a memsure of the Federal party.-Romation U. S., ch, 41, p. 3fis.
(16:30. REBELS punished. Ithe of Monmouth's. Somersetshire, the chiol seat of the rebellion, had been reserved for the last mad most fearfind vengemares. In this comaty 1 wo homired and thirty-thee prisoners was in a few days hamgerl, Jrawn, and puartered. At every spot wheretwo romble met, on every markefoplace, on the green of every harge vilhige which had furnishad Monmouth with soldiers, iromed ropses clathering in the wind. or bath and quarters stuek on polow. poisomed the air, and made the travedner sick with harror. In many parishes the pasantry comala not assemble in the homse of dorl withoint sereing the ghasily lace of a neighbor grimning at them over the poreh.-Macathay & Evi., eh. 5, p. 510 .

16:31. - - Temugin the Tirrtar. Temurgin fought a batte ngainst his rebelious subjoects. . . After his tirst victory he placed seventy caldrous on the tire, and seventy of the mosit guilty rendels were can hathong into the boiling wator,-(ibmos's Rows, ch. 6t, p. 204.

16:5\%. REBUKE, Gentle. Jolins ('irsar). It hattle he sometimes rode: but he was more often on foot, bareheaded, and in a conspie momsiteres, that he might be sean and ferognized. Ayain amb again by his own efforts he recowned a day that was hal" lost. He once seizod a panicestricken standard batire lurned lim round, and told him that he 1 ut mivale the the direction of the enemy. -F1sor (1) - ('1:~1R, (h. 28.

40;B: RECANTATION impossible. Mirtin Luther. "Thu more they rage and meditate upon the use of lorce, tho lessido I fear, and the mowe fredy will 1 attank the Roman serpents. I ann prepared for the worst that may hapen, and await the combsal of (borl." "This I know, inderd: that I wombl be tremed as the dearest and most arrereable persom, dial I hut speak one wom, fermerthat is, 1 reeall. But 1 will not make myself a heretie by the recall of that opinion by which I hernme n Cloristian. I womld rather dic, be horm, exiled, and aceursed."-

16:3. RECOGNITION required. W'twhington. The whole British force, now gathered in the vicinity of Now York, momonted to fully 30,000 men. . . Washington's amy was inferior in numbers, poorly equipped, and imperfectly diseiplined. [Admiral Ilowe, brother of General

RECOMPENSE-REFINEMEN'T.

Howe, had arrived from Finghand with Instruc. thons] to try concllatory mensures with tha Ansericans. Flrst hesent tothe Amerleman (anin) 101 ofllorer whith it despateh directed to George Washhugtom, Esequire. Of course Whalhington refosed to reverive a commmanalion whelt did not recognaze his ofllefal posithon. In a short thme llowe sent mother messumpe, addressed to Gemger Washington, ate., etc., cte., and the heme er, who was lowe's aljutane genemal, hasistad that mat wo forth mitght he tranduted (icherme af the . Imerier" . Irmy. Washingston was the last man in the worla io be canght a subherfuge ; and the adjontant was semt away, It wasalready well known hat Ilowe'sumblority extember only to grantine pardon and to masemtial matlere nbont which the Americmes were be longer comrerned. Wisshington therefore mplied thut shere no offerne had been committed on pardon was reपuired: that the colonios were now imleperndent, and would defomblemselveragainst all ag

46:35. RECOMPENSE, Honorable. Alor,/h"m Linenta. [Whern a bey he berrowed a Lifa of Washington.] During a severe storn ha improved his leisure by rending his book. Onc night be hid it down curefally, as he thomght. and the nest morning he fomme it samed through: The wind had changed, the stom hand beaten in through a crack in the logs, and the apparance of the book was rained. Llow cobald he face the owner under such cirenmstances: He hatd no money to offer as a return, hat he took the book, went directly to Mr. ('rawford [the owner], showed him the irreparable injury, and framkly and houestly offered to work for him till he shomith be satistiad. [Mr. ('rawford gave him the book] in return for there days stomly latwr in "pmiling folder."-Rammonis LINCOM, M1. 1, p. 㓭

A6:36. RECORD, Mutilated. Jtmes I It was himourh Sir Johm bion, very cminemly, thut the Comemonemad the sthats came at last to their preat rupture. . . Then emme blo contest with ther stablerty old king 1um the milage of deInte in Parliantent The king sath the Parliamant held their liberties by to antion, mot by right; and when the Honse recoded its very mals, the imberile old king (ame up from Thenbald's in a passiom, got loge her a privy comed and six of the julges, :ant for the ('ommons' jommal, and exen dited whe tent the register. Whe then instantly disodved the lonse hy proehamation. - Homis's Cromwers, ch. 3, p. 5t.

46:37. RECREATION, Excessive. "(irultemen." Sir John Larrington. . datws a picture. . that illustrates the prevailing madness. [Abont A.s. 1600. ${ }^{\text {" "In }}$ Ihe morning perhaps at chess. mud after his belly is full then at cards; and when his spirits was dall at that, then for some exercise of his ams at diere amd being weary thereof, to cool himself a little play it tables [hackgammon]: amd, befing dispuicted in his patience for oversering cimpore and yuartre, or missing two or threr fonl blots, then to an interlade ; and so. . . be curer as fir from a worthy and wise man as the cirele is from the centre." -KNigift's Eno., vol. 3, eh. 16, p. 256.
4638. RECREATION, Extravagant. Bujazet $I$. The Frend princes admired the magnificence of the Ottoman, whove limillig and hawklug rigul page was eomposed of sevent thonsmad hatsmen
 ch. 0.1. 1. D11.

46:39. REDEMPTION, Price of. Cithix. |In 13:17, durimg andege of nemrly welve months' dasration, in which the garrison had andentheir homes and dogs. They were then willing to survender
 mitad to depurt from the dity, | 'lore king | Lid. ward III. | resolved that all the grame he woblal warid was, that six chlef margenery of the fown should rome out marehemeded. aud barefouted, and hareloggred, mid ha their shites, with halters ahont their nerks, and with the keys of the town and custle in their hames. mon thas yheld themselves purely to his will, and the reat he wonld take lo merey. . . . Sil Johnof Viome somded the common bell, bud tohd his sad repurt, thad the people wept, and he himalf wept piteonsly: 'Thenstood forth the richest hargerse of all the town, Bisstane de st. Pierre, and said that, th save the residue of the people, we would be the tirst to put his life In jeopurdy. When he had thus spokell, every man worshipped him. and divers kneded down at his fort with sore wepping. Then mother homest burgess, Johas Day're, rowe mul said,: "I will kexpeompany will Peter his hrollers, and wo others, elechared the same. Then they went ont of the gate, "pherelled as the king desired, and stood between the ghte and the harricrs.... The sis burgesses kindt before the king, and held up their humbs and said, "W0. smbait ourselves clearly mato yourwill and plensure, 10 save the residace of the people of C'alais." . . . The earls mal barons, and others whow we there, wept for pity, hat the king looked felly upon the'm. . . . mad he commanded their hemds ta be struck off, and would heme no man in their behalf for merey. Then the gheen [Philippa], being great with dhild, knerled down amed said, "Contle Sir, sinere I passed the sea in much peril, I have desired mothing of yon: therefire i now repuire of yon, in the homon of the Sim of the Virgin Mary, and for the love of me. that you will take meryy of these six burgeses.," The king bele ld the queen, and stored still awhile: in a sturly, and then sail, " Ah, dame, I wonk you hat hern now in some other phace; hat $t$ iamnot deny you. I give these mento you to din sour plensime with them." Amd thr six burgesses were bromght into the queen's chamber. newly clobled ; and she gave them to cat at their leisure, and bestowed upon each six mobles, and cansed them to be taken through the hosit in safeIy, and set at librity.-Kxumers Exi, vol. 1, ch. 30, p. 44 in.
46.40. REFINEMENT, Characteristic. Ithemutne. In the waragainst Philipof Maredon, one of the couriers of that prince was interempted. and his dispatches seized ; they openeed all the letters, which he carried, execpt those written by Philips floeth, olympia, to her hustamd. These the Athenians transmitted inmadiately to Philip, with the seats anbroken. In the same wat, Philip was suspected of having distributed bribes among the Athenian orators. Their homes were ordered to be searched; but with singular remard to decorm, they forbade to brenk into the lone of Callicles, because he was then newly marie l.

Anch was certainly the matural chamacter of tho

 untions－wore tilless wi wandering satuges，tand

 coverimir roumd the middle ；their solde oreupat． fir war，sernt his thare in perfere hodolemere；half

 Iudinas of Amerleat were in thoir disposition
 The levity of mamers of the linroperans，and， to rhihbshaness all lile talk or ronversathon． ＇I＇lueir belavior was modest and resperafial，amd earriad on with the gratent order and hemerame．

4B it．REFINFMENT reoommended，Brialifl． ［Lond Matmonbary was sent by Georga Ill．，all jilli，to Ihe Joke of Branswick，les demmed his damothter for the l＇rime of Wates，the herir mp－ paten！to the Eritish throme．I＇Jhe sagaedous an－ masaulor dial his daly im oftering hermbiae，and somblimas remonstranere，experially＂on the toilello，on cleanliness，amd on delinary of sparak－ ing．＂－strange subjerts of disemssiom wilh a haty who might be queren of Englamd．－KNionors LiNu．，vol．7，ch．1N，1． 319.
1813．REFLECTION，Correoted by．Sirmuel Johmsen．Mr．Horgman athd he bal n dispute prolty latent night，in which Johmonn wonld not pive isp，thongh he land the wrong side；and，in shors，both kept the timb．Nexi morntigg，when thay wet in the brakfast room，IVr，Johnson ar－ （rasied Mr．Morgann thas：＂Sir，I have lean 11．Kiner on our dispute last night－you mere

14if．REFLECTION，Death－bed．Cardiunl llot－ w＇y．［Carilimal Wolswy，who lor cight years luml been，with lenery Vill，the antorent of Sar． dand，and for about twenty yens the hand of the government，was on hisdylug－bed，in l5：ll，whon Ge motered these memorible words）：If I had gurvod God as diligently as 1 have dome the king， fre would not lave given me over in my gray hairs．［llemy had laken away his homors and hiv weath，and permilled his arrese on the fialse
 ＜h．20，1．B：44．

4415．REFLECTION，Delicate．Lisk Imeri－ same． 1.15 .1775. ［Gemeral Howe，broblier of the
 at＇I＇icomblerorit，was commander of the British army．］Ilowe was of an Irish family；to the Irisit，herefore，they expresseal their mmazement at thating his name in the catalogne of their on－ emies；and they Hetclatal their complaint by addling．＂Amorica loved his brother．＂－13aN－ chores U．S．，vol．8，ch．4：3．

A6．16．REFLECTIONS，Melancholy，Automy． ［ Iftur his defert by Cusar，which Wis occisioned chiefly by his infatuation，he fled to Cleopratra＇s
 ley，in which Cleopatris was．Wornt abd ant down at lho heme of it ；whote，leaning his rlhows on his kneres，und supporting，his lomd with his two lamoty，her rematned lika at tman overwhelmed with shame abl ruge，relecting will profouml molatuctuly＂pons his ill comduct，mal the mals．

 ？ $1, \frac{2}{8}$ 等

1417．REFORM，Civil Service．．l／fird the limott．In appal lay lrom all these courrls to the king himacil＇，in rommell；und dllited，in whom his malijerestesservedly pheced the highost eonthlonce，was overwhelmod with appeals froms all parta of the kingelom．＇Jhe only remedy for this whs torolorm the jugomane mall restmin the corrupthon of the ituferior magistrates from Whencell arose．Alfred，therefore，was sobliditons tonppoint the nblest mul most upright of his mo－ bility to exereive the ollle of shemble and earls． Ho punishod many for madversation，and he took cone to enforre the stmily of letters，and par－ lieularly al the laws，ase linilispernable for thejr combinning in ollfee．－T＇rumen＇s Hasl．，IBook 6 ， （l）． 5, ， $1 / 11$.
d8id．REFORM needed．t＇eswer the Dictator． All his ellorts were direrted to the regemeration of looman socioty．（ Sieroo puints the labits of fimbiomable life in colors which were possibly exngermated：bat mough remains of mathentie face to justily the gencend trull of the picture． Wommen bud forgotten their honor，chiddren their resperet for pmrenta．Jlushmals land murdereal wives，and wives hasbands．Paricide and in－ cest formed rommon ineidents of domestic：Inal－ ian history；und，na justice hud been ordered in tha last yours of the Republie，the most aban－ domed vilhin who canae into rount with al haml－ ful of quoly was assured of impunity．＂Richs mon，＂silys 太ubtonins，＂were mever delerred from crime by in forr of forfoiting their es－ tates：Hosy bad bat to leavo Italy，and their propert！was seemped to them．＂－Faotobsis （ RiNSII，（h．in．

1（1．19．REFORMATION，Polltical．Romans． ［After the diath of the infinmons emperor Conm－ monlis］the expense of the lomaschold was imme－ dintely reduced to ond half．All the instruments
 grold and silver plate，chariot of a singular con－ struetion，a superthous wardrobrof silk and ems－ broidery，amd a great number of beantifal shaves manity，those who were bon in a slate of free－ dom，amb lad lwen movished from the arms of their werping parents．．It the shme time that la obliged the worthless favorites of the tyrant to resign it jurt of their ill－gollen wealth，he satis－ tied the just ereditors of the state，and wnexpere． edly disclatred the long arrons of homest ser－ vices．ITe removerl the oppressive restrictions which had been hail upon eommerce，and grant－ ed all the uncultivated lands in Italy and tho provinces to those who would improve them， with an exemption from tribute during teo years．－Gibmon＇s IRome，ch．4，p．121．

Ilfo．REFORMATION，sllent．iwinl．It is lary sur ial revolutiona whirh have heron place

 servers with no sumprive，and haver entived fonm
 J＇hey ware tomght almat mother be lomindation

 Is the prexise momont an whell either distine Heknowledere that the hiof agent in these on Fivin，（l），1， 1 ：

18．71．REFORMATION，Violent，Lirligious．In ally，which lue very justly considered insdiagane fial to Chrdatimily ；but his measures were tow violent．Ile lmon and destroyed all the paintime it the charilus，and broke to pierom the staturs tempted to anforee his reformation by pmonda

 sone．＇Jhomas（larkson，when fwonty－four youm of uge．Wrote an essaly on slancry，to whatin n priae，whicll be won ；bat the biacts which las diseovered maderatelt it dent impression on his mind，llat he devontad himadif for its abolithon

13．5is．REFORMER，Impetuoum Joh＂h＇tor． The celebrated dobur kimes wol ．．from （E⿻日禸 （＇alvin，of which his mathral divenstition tith． 1 hitu to be a moss zandous and intrepod promote： ＇This relopmer was posesessed of at very robsiog for severe，and the impetaosity of bis tomper and to indame．ILis tirst publice apporamere wis al Pertle，whers，in a very amimated swmon，har wronghe up tho minds of has andionce to surli in pitch of fary．Hat they hroke down the walls of the eharelt，warturnei the altares，destroyed the intages．＇mal amost tome the prinets to pieces． ＇The－ sernes were exhibitent in different（fuarterv of the Wimerdom．Tho lomestant party sono atrer tomk

 $11: 38: 3$

16i．）R．REFORMER，Impracticable．Tlumu，

 what is＂hener，but he fails to prine out what is right，of what We ourhi 10 subsilthle in place of the wrong which he wald do atwy with．lie is batlled when he sits down to propese remedio He has none to olfer，but goes on assailing，
scourginge mal pulling down．．．Alo is a merer．
 1 13： $2: 1$

165．5．REFORMERS corrupted，Fifil if＇lfort reformation of roljgion nixhl well be domblad foumbliag homplal，having saren lafimes experad ral monlores．Alwat the midalle of the dighterent century，doma－Hatway，be persomal cilort，s．

 of which propmand to take dial resursl hows ant

 （ensions of alumbion 10 the hamblest chasses of mols：the comberte we re beld up lo everation as frembid it hind grimed．It hatd gone forlh to nt ter the worde of trath to men tithe ntowe the time would come when its carmestasin wombly nwakell the（＇humelt itsell from it sommolen＇y， tan！the educated classes would not be ashatmed In la eveligions．Tlarre was wihl culha－t：24m

 （0）pion－profession．But these marmest men hatit ：1 mark Hon the：r lime which antorer be el－ prohably samed us from the fate ol mations whal． ly abundoned to their own deviens．－Kinsmore Eve vol． F ．ch． 1 ． 1111 l ．

 limplter semena conld write of the dhey wi

I6Ts．REFORMERS，Self－condemned．Iolyy－ ami！．Whate the tevets at luther wome rapilly

 atothorits bery litite shom of that an the peper （＇amace had taken at disumat ans wife，a prin－ intulerably wely．and ：uldicteri 10 ，trankembess F＇he serred was，that he hud linlen in lowe with young lady of the mane of sabl．whom the wanted io marry．Luther at this time，with tive of his

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences Corporation

23 WEST MAIN STREET
WEBSTER, NY. 14580
(716) 872-4503

followers, was holding a kind of synod at Wittenberg, for the rerulation of all maters regarding the chureh. The landgrave presented to him a pertition, setting forth his case, in whicli he at the same time insimated, that in case Lather and his doctors shouht refuse him a dispensation of polygany, he would, perhaps, be ohiged to ask it of the pope. The synod were under considerable dillloulty. The interest of the landgrave was too formidnble to be diaregarted, and at the same time, to favor him, they must assmme to themselves a power of breaking a law of Seripture. The temporal consideration was more powerfal than the spiritual one. They brreed to give Philip, a dispensation for polygamy, mad he aecordingly marridel his: favorite. even with the comsent of his furbur wife.-T'ythen's Histo, Book 6. ch. 20,1 , 296 .
4859. REFUGE, Sanctuary for. Fifteenth Century. The clergy wre they who have the supreme swny over the country. . . . They have provided that a number of saered places in the kingriom shoild serve for the refuge and escape of all defimpuents: and no one, were he a thator to the erown, or hat he practised agranst the king's own person, can be taken ont of these by forec. And a villain of this kind, who, for some great excess that he has committed, has been obliged to take refage in one of these sacred places, oftern goes out of it to brawl in the publie streets, and then, returning to it, escapes with impunity for every fresh offence he may have beren guilty of. This is no detriment to the purses of the priests, nor to the other pergethat sametuaries. But every church is a samelnary for forty clays ; and if a thief, or murderer, who has taken refuge in one, camnot leave it in safety laring those forty days he gives notice that he wishes to lave England. In which alse, being stripped to the shirt by the chief maristrate of the phace, and a crueifix placed in his hand, he :s conducted along the road to the seat, where, if he finds n. passage, he may go, with a "God speed yon." Bnt if he should not find one, he walks into the sea up to the throat, and three times asks for passage: : and his is repented till a ship appears, which comes for him, and so he depart; in safety.-Kvigur's Evg., vol. 2, rli. 15, p. 244 .
4660. REFUGE socured. In 1 merich. ('romwell whs dend. The Commonwealth tottered mad tell. Charles Il. was restored to the throne of his ancestors. Tidings of the Restomation reached boston on the 27 th of duly, 1660 . In the same vessel that bore the news came Ellward Whalley and William Goffe, two of the jurlges who had passed sentence of death on Charles 1 . It was now their turn to save their lives by fight. Governor Endicott received them with courtesy ; the arents from the Britisla Government cume in hot parsinit, with orders to arrest them. For a white the fugitives, aded by the people of boston, batfled the officers, and then escaped to New IIaven. Here for many weeks they hay in concenhment; not even the indians womblaceept the reward which was offered for their apprehension. At last the exiles reached the valley of the Connecticnt, and found refuge at the village of Hadley, where they passed the remainder of their lives.-Ridpati's U. S., ch. 14, p. 137.
4661. REFUSAL,Contemptuous. Eimperor Cle" diets. [ife was one of the rival emperors of Rome. T The siege of Milnu was continued, und Aureohes soon diseovered that the siccess of his artifices had only mised up a more determinerd adversary. He attempted to negotiaie with Chandias a treaty of alliance amd partition. "Tell him," repolid the intrepid emperor, "that such moposals shoted have been mude to Galliemus : he, perhaps, might have listened to them with patience, mad acepted a collengrue as despicable as himself," This stern refusal, and a hast unsuceresful effort, obliged Aureolus to yiehl the city and himself to the diseretion of the conquer-or:-Gimmon's Rone, (ll. 11, p. 333.
4662. REFUSAL, Disdainful. Cieled the Storae". [IL" invaded sy ria, and was opposed by a Roman army.] In the presence of both ar. mies, a venerable Greek advaneed from the ranks with a libral offer of peace; and the departure of the saracens would have been parchased by a gift to each soldier of a turlm, a robe, and it piece of prold; ten robes and one hundred pieces to their leader; one humdred robes and onn thousand pieces to the caliph. A smile of indignation expressed the refusal of Caled. "Y' Christim dogs, you know your option-the Korm, the tribute, or the sword. We are a people whose delight is in war bather than in peace and we despise your pitiful alms, sinew we slaall be speedily masters of your wealth. your finilies, and your persons."-Gumbs": Roste, (h. 51, p. 195).
4668. Refusal, Happy. Alexander's. When he emme within a short distance of the city of Lampsucus, which he had determined to desiroy. in order to pumish the rebellion of its inhabitants. he saw Amaximenes, a native of that place, coming to him. This man, who was a famous his. torian, had been very intimate with Philip, his father; and Alexander himself had a great esteem for him, having been his pupil. The king, susperting the businese he was come upon, to be: beforelanal with him, swore, in express terms, that he wond never grant ins request. "The fir vor I have to desire of you," silys Anaximenes. "is, that you wouk destroy Lampsacus." By this witty evasion, the historian saved his comi-try--Rolhns's Hist., Book 15, s 3.
4664. REGARD, Insincere. Themistocles. This prodent general used to say the Athenians paid him no honor or sincere respect; but when a stormarose, or danger appeared, they shettered themselves under him, as under a plane-tree. which, v. hen the weather was fair again, they would rab of its leaves and branches.- P1, tamen's Themistocies.
4665. REIGN, The longest. Louis XIV. Louis was crowned in 1643, when four years old, and he reigned matil his demth in 1715. His reign. the longest on record, had oceupied seventy-two

4666. REINFORCEMENTS, Dangerous. Jir ginit. In the midst of these dark days, Cuptain [Christopher] New]ort arrived from Englani. He brought a full store of supplics, and one humdred and twenty emigrants. Great was the jov throughout the little plantation ; only the president was at heart as much grieved as ghaddened, for he saw in the chameter of the new-comers ne promise of anything but vexation and disaster. Here were thirty-four gentlemen at the head of the list, to begin with; then came gold-hunters. jewellers, engravers, adventurers, strollers and curabonds: many of them had more lmsiness in jail than in Jumestown. To add to Smith's chagria, this company of worthless creatures had been seat ont contrary to his previons protest and injunction. He had urged Newport to bring over only a few industrions meehanies und laborers; but the love of goldanong the members of the London Company had prevailed over eom-mon-sense to semd to Virginia mother crowd of proilgates.-Rimpatin's U. S., ch. 9, p. 102.
4667. RELIC, An auspicious. "The Holy Lance." The (rusiders were reduced to grent distress when besioged by the Turks in Antioch.] Of the dioerese of SIasseilles, there was a priest of low cumming and loose mataners, and his mame was Peter Bartholemy. Itepresented himself at the doon of the conncil-ehamber, to disclose an apparition of st. Andrew, which had been thriee reiterated in !as sleep, with a dread. finl menaee if he presmaed to suppress the commands of Heaven. "At Antioch," said the aposHe. "in the church of my biother, St. Peter", near the high altar, is concealed the steel head of the lance that pierced the side of our Redecmer. In three days that instrument of ctermal, and now of temporal, salvation will be manifested to his disciples. Search, and ye shall fad; bear it aloft in battle, and that mystic wenpor shall penetrate the sonds of the miscreants." The pope's legate, the bishop of Pay, affected to listen with coldness and distrust ; but the revelation was cagerly aceented by Count Raymond, whom his faithful subject, in the name of the apostle, had chosen for the ghardian of the holy lance. The experiment was resotved; and on the third day, after a due preparation of prayer and fasting, the priest of Marseilles introduced twelve trusty spectators, among whom were the comm and his chaplain: and the church-doors were barred against the impetuous multitude. The ground was opened in the appointed place ; but the workmen, who relieved each other, dug to the depth of twelve fect without discovering the object of their seareh. In the evening, when Comen Raymond had withdrawn to his post, and the weary assistants began to murour, Bartholemy, in his shirt, and without his shoes, boldly descended into the pit. The darkness of the hour and of the phace enabled him to secrete and deposit the head of a Saracen lance, and the first sound, the first gleam of the sterl was salated with a devont rapture. The boly lance was drawn from its recess, wrapped in a veil of silk and gold, and exposed to the veneration of the Crusaders.-Gibвол's Rome, ch. 58, p. 586.
4668. RELICS, Bogus. Religious. Luther . . . directed a virorous attack upon the Archbishop Albert of Stayence, brother of the Elector of Brandenburg. This church dignitary, in neea of money, had again set up the trattic with indulgences in the city of Halle, establishing a great shrine of relics, and inviting all to visit the same. He had collected a multitude of glorious relies, about nine thousand in number. Among these were remains of saints, a portion of the body of the patriareh Isaae, remnants of manna, pieces of Moses' burning bush, jugs from the marriage feast at C'ma, some of the wine widich Christ made of water on that ocrasion, thorns from Jesus' martyr crown, one of the stones with which Stephen was klled, and many other alorious relics. Against all this abomination Lather wrote a treatise entitled, "Against the ddel in Halle," and sent it to Wittenberg for publica-tion.-Rein's Litilen, ch. 10, p. 97.
4669. RELICS, Fictitlous. Giodle. [Mary Magdalen's rircile was found in a monastery, uid sent to Lord ('romwell in 1535.]-KNigitr's Exg., vol. ${ }^{2}$, ch. 23,1 . 366.
4670.
lrofitahle. [Erasmus deseribes, in his collomates, the rxhibition of relies in 1509.] The joint of a man's tinger is exhib. ited to us, the largest of three. I kiss it : and then I ask. "Whose relics were these ?" He says," St.
 ohserving the size of the joint, which might have been that of a gima, I remarked Peter must have beer a mun of very large size. [What looked like ground chalk mixed with the white of tur eqg was slaown to him as the milk of the Blessed Virgin. At tiae shrine of St. Thomas at C'materthary lae saw in the sacristy a box of bhack leather which roatained some forn faurments of linen which were once: wora by st. Thomas. He was also shown the nyper pabt of a shoe which was bound with a brass rim, and in it was a piece of glass resembling a jewed. which might be kissed for a suall roia. It wan lhe shoe of St. Thomas.]-KNigur's ENG, vol. : (ch. 15. p. 246.
4671. - Religious. In the rign of the younger Theodosins, Lucian, a prestevier of Jerusulem, . . . related a very singula drem, which, to remove his doulats, had been repeated on three successive suturdays. A veneruble figure stood lafore him, in the silane of the night, with a long bearr, a white rohe, and a gold rod; anomured himself by the mane of Gamaliel, and revented to the astonished preshyter that his own corpse, with the boelies of his son Abibas, his fricat Nicodemus, tad the illastrious Stephen, the first martyr of the Claristian faith, were seeretly haried in the adjarent field. He added, with some impatience, that it was time to release himself and his companions from their obseare prison; that their appeamence would he sulutary to a distressed world, and that they hand made choice of Lacian to inform the bishop of Jensatem of their sithation and their wishes. The doubts and dithiculties which stin retarded this important discovery wre successively removed ly new visions, and the gromod was opened by the bishom, in tha presence of an imumerable multitude. The cothins of Gamaliel, of his son, and of his friend were fonad in reg. ular order ; but when the fourth cothin, which contained the remains of Stepha::, was shown to the light, the carth trembled, and an odor, such as that of Paralise, was smelt, which iastantly cured the varions discases of seventy-three of the assistants. The rompmons of Stephen were left in their peaceful residence of Cuphargamala : but the relics of the first martyr were transported, in solemn procession, to a church constructed in their honor on Mount Sion, and the minute partieles of those relies, a drop of blood, ot the serapings of a bone, were acknowledged, in almost every province of the Roman world, to possess it divine and mirmenlons virtue. -Gins. Bun's lRomb, ch. 28, p. lis.
1672. ————R —eqioms. The zear, perhaps the avarica, of tha clergy of Jerusalem, . Axed, by mapuestionable tridition, the seene of eadd memorable event. I'lay rexhibited the insturaments which hat been used in thr passion of Charist; the mails and the lance that had pieroed His hands, Ilis teet, imel Ifis side; the erown of thorns that was phanted on LIis heme ; the pillar a which Ile was soonrged ; and, nbove all, they showed the cross on which IIesmifered, mad which wist duy ont of the earth in the reign of those prines s who insarted the symbol of Charistianity in the binners of the leoman legions. Such mirarles as semed neerssary to neeonnt for its ex. traordinary preservation and seasomable diseovery were gradually propngiated withont opposition. The eustody of the true cross, which on Faster Sunday was solemmly exposed to the people, was intrusted to the bishop of Jorusalem ; sund he alone might gratify the canious devotion ol the pilgrims by the gift of small pieeses, which they enehased in rold or gems, sud carried away in trimmph to their respective eountrios. But as this gaintul branel of commerce mast soom lave been anmihiated, it was found convenient to suppose that the marvellous wood possessed a secret power of varetation, and that j a substanee, thongh eontimually diminished, still rematined enstire and mimpaired. - Gibmon's Rowe, ch. is, p. 434 .
4673. - - Ciomen of Thor'us. [Baldwin II., emperer at Constantinople, chamed to possess the erown which had been placed on the head of Christ.] It had formerly heren the practice of the Egyptian debtors to deponit, as a security, the mammies of their parents; and both their honor ind religion ware bound for the redemption of the pledge. In the same manner, and in the absence of the emperor, the barons of IRomania borrowed the sum of thirteen thonsind one hundred and thirty-four pieces of gold on the credit of the holy crown.-Gimbon's IRone, ch. $6 \mathrm{t}, \mathrm{p} .12 \cdot \mathrm{~s}$.
467.2. -_- Religious. The ambassadors of liecared, the first Catholic king of Spain, respectfully offered, on the threshold of the Vatican, his rich presents of groldand gems ; they accepted, as a licrative exchange, the hairs of SI . Jolm the lanptist, a cross which enelosed a small piece of the true wood, and a key that contained some particles of iron whieh had been seraped from the chains of Gt. Peter.-Gibison's lRome, ch. 37, p. 562.
4675. - Religious. [The Roman empress Eudocin became greatly devoted in religion.]. In the Holy Lanil, her alms and pions foumdations exceeded the momiticence of the great Helenar and thongh the public treasure might be impoverished hy this excessive liberality, she enjoyed the conscions sutisfuction of returning to Constaminople with the chains of St. 「eter, the dight arm of St. Stephen, and an undoubted pieture of the Virgin, piinted by St. Luke. Gubbon's JRome, ch. 3i, 1). 356 .
4676. RELYCS, Honored. Religious. [In the thirteenth century the Venetians received the erown of thorms from Constantinople. It was borne in a silver shime, enclosed in a golden vase. It was afterwad conveyeal to France.] The court of France adranced tis far as Troyes, in Clampiagne to meet with devotion this iness timathe relle: ; it was borne in trimmph throngh Paris by the king hitaself, burefoot, 'mal in his shift. The suceess of this transuction tempted the Latin emperor to offer, with the sime gener osity, the remaining furniture of his chapol ; a large mal anthentic poriom of the true casos: the babyelinen of the Son of God, the lance, the sponge tume the chatin of II is passion ; the rod of Hoses, und purt of laeskull of St. John the Baptist. For the reception of these spirituml tremsness, twenty thousand marks wore expended by St. Lonis on a stately fonmataion, the holy chapel of Pitis:-Glibion's Rome, ch. 6t, p. 1®3.

467\%. RELICS, Sacred. Reign of Thcolosius. In the arge which followed the conversion of Constantine, the omperors, the consuls, and the generals of urmies devontly visited the sepulehres of a tentmakei and a fisherman, and their venerable bones were depositad under the ultars of Christ, on which the bishope of the royal city contimanlly offered the unblooly saterifiors.
The bodies of' St. Andrew, St. Iake, and St. Timothy had reposed near three humdred years in the obscoure graves, from whence they were transported, in solemn pomp, to the chureh of the aposiles, whiell the magnificence of Constan. tine liad formded on the banks of the Thracian Bosphorns. About fifty years afterward, the sime binks were homored by the presence of Simnuel, the judge and prophet of the people of Israel. Ilis ashes, deposited in a golden vase, and covered with a silken veil, were delivered by the bishops into ench other's hands. The relies of simulel were received by the people with the same joy and reverenee whieh they would have shown to the living prophet ; the highways, from Palestine to the gates of Constantinople, were filled with an uninterrupted procession ; and tho emperor Aroulins himself, at the head of the most illustrious menhers of the clergy and senate, advanced to meet his extraorlinary gruest, who had always deserved and clamed the homage of kings.-Gimbox's lRonk, ch. 28, p. 1 inf.
4678. RELICS, Superstitious regard for. Bones. [In 106í, larold I]., King of the Anglo-Saxons, swore to support William the Norman in his contest for the crown of England ; but lie swore with a mental reservation. He stands] between two ormamental pedestals, upon the top of which he places the ends of his fingers. IIe is swearing upon common religuaries, as he thonght; such as parish priests in England kept upon their altars, to eommand the faith of ignorant boors. IIe swears. But mader the religuaries are hidden, by a eloth of gold, the bones of saints and holy martyrs. William then commands the eloth to be removed, and IIarold tarns pale when he knows the supersanctity of the oath whilch ho has taken.-KNIGHIT's ENG., vol. 1, ch. 13, p. 174.
4679. RELICS, Virtue of. Christian. A.d. 643 . The shrines of the apostles were guarded by miracles and invisible terrors ; and it was not without fear that the pious Catholie approached tide object of his worship. It was fatal to touch, it was dangerons to behold, the bodies of the saints ; and those who, from the purest motives, presumed to disturb the repose of the sanctuary were affrighted by visions, or punished with sudden death. The unrensonable request of an empress, who wished to deprive the lromans of their sacred treasure, the hemd of St. Panl, was rejected with the deepest abhorrence: and the pope asserted, most probably with truth, that a linen which had been sunctified in the neighborhoorl of his body, or the things of his clanin, which it was sometimes ensy nud sometimes innpossible to obtain, possessed an equal degree of iniraculons virtue. But the power as well as virtue of the apostles resided with living energy in the breast of their successors. -Grmon's Rome, ch. 45, p. 419.

46世0. Reliaion, False Ambition in. Roman Einperor Julien. IIe resolvel to ereet, withont delay, on the eommanding eminence of Moriah, a stately temple, which might eclipse the splendor of the chureh of the resurrection on the adjacent hill of Catvary ; to establish an order of priests, whose interested zeal would fleteet the arts, and resist the ambition, of their Christian rivals; and to invite a mumerons colony of Jews, whose stern fanaticism wond be atways prepared to second, ind even to anticipate, the hostile measures of the Pagan goveriment.-Gmbos's Rome, ch. 23, p. 437.
4681. IELIGION, Aasterity in. Blaise Paxcal. He removed from his room all superthous or luxurions articles, refused the assistance of servants, brought his own dinner from the kitchen, fasted frequentiy, partook only of the phainest fare, passed hours every day in prayer, and gave all the money he conld spare to the poor. Around his waist, next his skin, he wore a girdle of iron, with points directed inward, and when he caught himself taking pleasure in anything not spiritual, or when any trifling or pleasant thought arose in his mind, he would press the points into his tlesh with his elbow, to recall himself to what he called his "duty." Hist wo great rules were to indulge in nothing he could do withont, and to enjoy no worldy pleasure. IIc considered it a sin to take pleasure in his food, and purposely avoided the viamls in which he had formerly delighted. Ile took great pains not to taste what he ate.-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 101.
4682. RELIGION, Benefits of. Cicilization. [See No. 909.] The great engine of the civilization of the Greeks was the introduction of a nattional religion by those eastern colonies ; and, inspired with the enthusitum of all new eonverts, it is no wonder that superstition was at this time their predominant characteristic. To this sge. therefore, and to this character of the people, we must refer the origin of the Grecian oracles and the institution of the public games in honor of the gods.-Tyulents Mist., Book 1, ch. 7, p. 64.

465:3. Religion, Bond of. Scotch Cierement. James [L. ] ham, with some success, established in that country [seotand] a hierarchy on the pattern of the Euglish chureh, and Charles wanted to complete the work of his father by resting discipline upon a regular system of canons, and modelling the public worship by the forms of a liturgy. These designs were extremely odious to the Scots, and they mot with the reception which might have been expected. The Bishop of Edinburgh, beginning to read the service in the cathe-drab-chureh, was assanted with the most furions rage, and narrowly escaped being torn in pieces by the populace. The tumult sprear through the whole kingdom, and the hends of the Prenbyterian party assembling themselves in the ceipital, subseribed the famous bond eabled the Sitional Cocentat, by which, after a formal remmeriation of the abominations of popery, they bound themsolves by a solemm oath to resist all roligions innovations, and to defend to the utmost the glory of Goed and the honor of their king and combtry. The conserguences of thisassoriation, which was eagerly subseribed by all ranks and conditions; of the pople, were extremely alarming ; and ('harles, pereciving he had gone too far, of ered to suspend the use of the liturey, provided maters were put on the same footing as before, and the Beots wond retract their eovenant. But they replided that they would sooner renome their bans. tism; and smmoning a gencral assembly at ( 1 lessgow, they, with great detiberation, not only an. nullad the liturg: and canons, but utterly abo. ished the eniseopal hiemrehy, which, tor above thirty years, had quidly subisisted in the king-dom.-Truler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 29, p. 40í.

46*). Religion, Burdened by. In Irclane. [Reign of Jancs Il.] The Protestant Noneonformists, on their side, endured with more patience than could have been expected the sight of the most absurd ecelesiastical establishment that the world has ever seen. Four archbishops and cighteen bishops were employed in looking after about a fifth part of the number of Charchmen who inhabited the single diorese of London. Of the parochial clergy a large proportion wert pluralists, and resided at a distance from their rures. There were some who drew from their benefices incomes of little less than a thousand a rear, without ever performing any spiritual func-tion.-Macaulay's Evg., ch. 6, p. 122.
4685. RELIGION, Burdunsome. Triftes. Two priests of the best families of Rome, Cornelins Cethogus and Quintus Sutpicius, were degraded from the priesthood; the former because he did not present the entrails of the victim aceording to rule; and the latier becanse, as he wassucrificing, the tuft of his cap, which was such an one as the Iflamines wear, fell olf. And becanse the squeaking of a rat happened to be heard at the moment that Minucins the Dictator appointed Cains Flaminins his general of horse, the people obliged them to quit their posts, und appointed others in their stemd. -Pletamen's Mahcelleus.
4686. RELIGION, Champion for. John Milton. Milton was resolute in his religion at Rome, so much so that many were deterred from showing him the civilities they were prepared to offer. Itis rule, he says, wats " not of any own accord to introduce in those places conversation about religion, but, if interrogated respecting the fath, then, whatsoever 1 should sulfer, to dissemble nothing. What I was, if any one asked, I conrealed from no one : if any one in the very eity of the pope attacked the ortholox religion, I defended it most frecly." Beyond the statement that the English Jesuits were indignant, we hear of no evil conserpuences of this imprudence. Mnton, iy M. Patrisin, dh. 3.

I6*\%' RELIGION, Irreligious Champion of. St. John Lorl Boliagbroke. A.n. 1711. Indifferent not to the forms of religion oniy, but to religion itself, he was the unserupulous champion of the IIigh Church, and supported the worst acts of its most intolerint poliey [while seceretury of statc].-Bnscrofet's L'. S., vol. 3, ch. 21.

IG. RELIGION changed. For Mimey. After some previons argotiation, the moninble nad fiscimating Lenrietta of Ortems, Charles sister, who possessed much intluence over him, arrived at Dover on a secret mission in May, 16io, and atreaty was shortly afterward coneluded, the provisions of which, dise weditable to both noverefigns. mas rover the memory of 'harlas [II.] with peruliar and eternal infans. Ite cheared to abme don his late allies, and join lonis in invadiner Indland. furnishing a conting ont of six thousamid men and a the of of tifty sail ; ine was abso to make a publir profewion of the laman Cahobia relision, and propagate it to the utmost of his power in his dominions. As the price of the se disgraceful acts of trmenery, (harles was to aeceive from Louis an manal subsidy of there millions ( $£ 120$,000) during the war, logether with the island of Walcheren, and two tortresses on the scheldt, as bis share of the spoil--Stodentst France, C'1. 21, 总 $\overline{5}$.
4689. RELIGION and Commerce. Cot fixh. Gold hared tace spaniards to South Amerimamid Mexico; but the humbler hait which attranted the French to Northern Ameriea was codtish. In Catholie comatres there are so many days on which meat may not, amd tish may be, caten, that tish is an article of very great inportance; and this was promps the reason why the French, as early as 150, only thirty-three years after the discovery of America, had a considerable fleet of ti.hinir vessels on the bank of Newfoundland. - Crclomedia of Bact. p. 368 .
4690. RELIGION a Conflict. D) Itality yf Min. The religions history of man is essentially the same in all ages. It takes its rise in the duality of inis nature. He is an mimal, and as an animal he desires bodily pleasure, mad shrinks from bodily pain. Asa being capable of morality, he is conscions that for him there exists a right und wrong. Soncthing, whatever that something may be, binds him to choose one and avoid the other. This is his religion, his religatio, his obiigation, in the sense in whicla the Romans, from whom we take it, used the worl ; and obligation implies some superior power to which man owes obelicnce. The contlict between his two dispositions agitates his heart and perplexes his intellect. To do what the superior power requires of him, he must thwart his inclinations. He dreads pmishment, if he neglects to do it. He invents methods by which he can indulge his appetites, and finds a substitute by which he can propitiate his invisible ruler or rulers. Ife offers saterifices; he institutes ecremonies and observ-ances.-Froude's Buryan, ch. 2.
4691. REligion, Confusion in. James II. The kingearly put the loyalty of his Protestant friends to the proof. While he was a subject he had been in the habit of hearing mass with closed doors in a small oratory which had been fitted up for his wife. He now orderel the doors to be bhrown open, in order that all who came to pay their duty to him might see the ceremony. When the host was elevated there was a strange confusion in the antechamber. The Roman Catholies fell on their knees; the Protestants hurried out of the room. Soon a new pulpit was erected in the pulace; and during Lent in series of sermons was preached there by popish divines, to the grat disemmosare of zenlons charchmen. -Macaulay's Eivi., ela. 4, p. 438.
4692. RELIGION, Consolation of. (Ihrrles 1 . Bishop Juxom, who nttended him to the hant moment, as he approcherl the block, said to him, "sire, there is bat one step more, a sharp and short our: Rensember that in mother sierome yon will aseend from earth to heavern, mat that hace you will thad in an intinite and inexhanstible joy the reward of your sacritiere, and arown that shall wever pass nwa.:" "My friend," replied Charles, intermpting him with perfert (omposime, "I go from a corruptible crown to an incorruptible one, and which, as you say. 1 feel convinced I shall possess forever without tromble or maxiety."-Lamanmine's Cmonweha, p. 4*.

469:S. RELIGION, Contradicted. Abraham Lin. coll. Two ladies from Temessere came the fore the President, asking the release of their hashands, held as prisoners of war at Johnsor's Islama. . . . At math of these interviews one of the ladies urged that her hastand was a religions man. . . When the President orthered the release, he sadid to this lady: "You sity your hashand is a religions man; tell him when you moret him that I say I am not murla of a juidge of religion, but that in my opinion the religion whieh sets men to rebel against the government, bocause, as they think, that govermment does not sutheciently help some men to ent their breal in the sweat of other men's faces, is not the sort of religion upon which people can get to heaven." -Raymondis Lincoln, p. 735.
469.1. RELIGION, Courage by. Reign of J. Jmes II. [Protestant rehels under the Duke of Nommouth.] The number of the rebels whom Joffrevs hamged on this circuit was three humdred and twenty. . . . They were, for the most part. men of blameless life and of high religious profession. They were regarded by themselves, und by a lurge proportion of their neighbors, not us wrong-doers, but as martyrs who sealed with bood the trith of the Protestant religion. Very few of the convicts professed any repentince for what they had done. Many, amimated by the old Puritan spirit, met death, not merely with fortitude, but with exultation. . . . Some of them composed hymms in the dungeon and chanted them on the fatal sledge. Christ, they sang, while they wore undressing for the louteliery, would soon come to rescue Zion und to make war on Babylon, would set up ILis stambard, would blow lis trampet, and would requite Itis foes tenfold for all the evil which had been inflictel on His servants.-Macaulay's Enti., ch. 5, p. 598.
4695. RELIGION, Decline of. Samuel Joh"" son. Boswel.L. "ls there not less religion in the nation now, sir, them there was formerly ?" Jonsson : "I don't know, sir, that there is." Boswella: "For instance, there used to he a chaplain in every great family, which we do not find now." Jonsson: "Neither do you find any of the state servants which great families used formerly to have. There is a change of modes in thr whole department of life."-Bosweli's Jonnson, p. 166.
4696. RELiGION, Devotion to. Columbur. Throughout his life he was noted for strict attention to the offces of religion, observing rigorously the fasts and ceremonles of the chureh: nor did his plety conslst in mere forms, buc partowk f that lofty and solemn enthusiasm with which his whole character was strongly tinetmed. - liming's Concmars, ch. 4.
4697. RELIOION, Discord In. Figptians. [1 matimal canse of ] disedreds among themselves was the variety and diftereme of the objeetesol relig. ions worship in the different provineses of the kingdom. 'The same animals that were regarded in one province with the most sumerstitions reverence wre in tanther the objectes of detexation and abhorrence. In one puater they tamed the aroeodiles, aborned them w th gold and juws, and worshipped them: in mother they killed those animals withont merey. In one provinee the most sacered mimal was a dose in mother they reekoned dor's thesh the most delirate food. Cats were adored in one distriet, thed rats in another. From these differences ar we perpetmal and violent amimosities; for there are no contentions so rancorous as those which spring from the most tritling lifferene : s in religions worship or opinion. "The multitule." says Diodorns, " have been of ten inthamed into the highest pitsh of fury on acerome of the satrilegions marder of thenine cht."-Tythemes Hist., Book 1, ch. 4, p. 4 b.

469x. RELIGION disguised. Payans. The temples of the Roman Empire were deserted, or destroy ed; lat the ingenious superstition of the Pagrais still attempted to chate the laws of Theo-do-ius, by which all sacritices had been severely prohibited. The inhabitants of the country, whine conduct was less opposed to the eye of maticions curiosity, disguised their religious, mader the apparame of concivid, meetings. On the days of solemm festivats they assembled in great nambers under the spreading shade of ann: consecrated trees; sheep and oxen were - binghtered and roasted : and this rural enterdamment was sanctified by the use of incense, and by the hymus which were sung in honor of line gods. But it was alleged that, as no part of the amimal was made a burntoffering, as no altar was provided to receive the blood, and as the previous oblation of salt cakes and the conchading ceremony of libations were carefully omitloid, these festal meetings did not involve the fruests in the guilt or penalty of an illegal sacri-tier-Gabson's Rome, ehi. is, p. 148.
4699. RELIGION, Diverse Views of. Romans. Tir various moles of worship which prevailed i:a the Roman world were all considered by the people as equally true: by the philosopher, as fallatly false; and by the magistrate, as equally usifill. And thus toleration produced not only mutual imdulgence, but even religious concord. - Gumon's Rone, ch. 2, p. 34.
4700. RELIOION, Duplicity in. Reign of Jotmes /1. The dispunsing power was . . . employed for the purpose of elabling Roman Catholies to hodd cerlesiastical preferment. The new solicitor readily drew the warrants in which Sawyer hat refused to be concerned. One of these warramts was in firvor of a wretel named Edward Sclater, who had two livings, which he was determined to keep at all costs and through all changes. He alministered the stacrament to his parishioners according to the rites of the Church of England on Palm Sunday, 1686. On Easter Sunday, only seven days later, he was at mass. Macaliay's ling., chi. B, p. 79.
4701. RELIOION, Effects of. Puritnuism vs. Eeclesiasticism. Ecclesiastical ty ranny is of all kinds the worst; its fruits are cowardice, idleness, ignorance, and poverty. Puritanism was a lifo-giving spirit ; activity, thrift, intelligence, followed in its truin ; and as for eomrage, a coward and a Paritan never went together. "11e that proys best and preaches best will fight best"-such was the juigment of Cromwell, the grastest sollier of his age.-Banchort's U'. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
4702. RELIGION, Effort in. Wartin Luther. Filled with awe and reverenee, he had come to Rome, and had hoped to find peace for his sout. " I was one of those fruntic saints in Rome: I ran about ull the ehurches and $\cdot$ rypts, and believerl all their shameless, impudent lies. I also read mass, perhaps ten times, and I vory much prgrettel that my father mad mother were still alive, for I shotid lave beron delighted to deliver then from purgatory with my masess, and with other precions works and many prayers." On his knees he crept up lidate's staircase, the sicalis Sancta, or holy stairway, which was sain to have been brought from the judgment hall to Rome and placed in the elapel of St. John's Church of the Laterm. Lather did this in orter to receive indulgence. And yet he felt, in doing such a work, as if a volee in thunder tones were crying out to him: " The just slall live by faith" (kum. 1: 17).-Rein's Lutnerr, ch. 4, p. 38 .
4703. RELIGION, Excitomentin. Early Meth. odists. [Great excitement, with extroordinary physical etfects, frequently ntended the prenching of Wesley and Whitefield.] The most singular fact nbout them is, that for a considerable time the supetior ardor and eloquence of Whitefield did not produce them, white under the calmer and more logiesl prenehing of Wesley people dropped on every side as if thanderstrack. It is also noteworthy ... that at this time not one of his texts, as recorded in his jourmals, wats of a serious or territic clametor, but they were, us in most of his hife, selected from the great and precious promises. . . . [Wesley made aspecial investigation of the remarkable physical effects occurring at Neweastle.] He founl, tirst, that all persons who had been thus affected were in perfeet health, and had not been subject to convulsions of any kind. Second, that these new affections had come upon them in a moment, without any previous notice, while they were either haring the proaching, or thinking on what they had heard. Third, that they usually dropped down, lost their strength, and were seized with violent pain. Their feelings weredeseribeddifferently. Some said they felt as if a sword was running through them ; others thought a great weight lay upon them. . . " "I can no more," said he, "attribute them to a natural canse than to the Spirit of Goi."-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 1, pp. 126, 188.
4704. RELIGION, Extremes in. Puritanism. [In 1653 the Puritans fasted on Christmas und feasted on Ash Wednesday.] They took this course upon the old principle, that the greater was the remove from Roman Catholicism. the nobarer way the approach to trum religion. KNHAT's ENa., vol. 4, (11. 11, 1. 172.
1705.

Sromel firustels. \t lenarth they npponred lefore Jemsalena; nud thonerh famine, sicknexs, and great losses, evern hy their vietories. had redneed their immense army to twenty thonsand men, they resolntely atharked a garisonn of forty thomand, and alter "sioge of tive werkstonk the city hy storm, 'The whole inlatitants, soldiers und ritizons, men, women, and children, who were either Mahomettais or Jews, were gelt to the sword. It is alfirmed by all the historians that, alter this inhaman massarere, the ('liristians webt in solemn processlon to the place where they wore tolal was the sepulchre of onr Savionr, amblhere barst into a flood of tears. This mixture of harlmaty and cruclty with the tender feclings is clerdded hy some anthors, and esperinlly Volteire, as something out of mature, und searrely possible; but when it is considered what was the motive of muny of these mun, the enthasiasm which nuimated them in $n$ canse which they were persumbed was to conduct them to heaven, the contruling ferlings with whirh they were ngitated, detestation for those infldels who, as they imagined, had polluted, hy their impions worship, the most sacred monmments of their religion, and joy and gratitula for the recovery und vinelication of those veneruble remains, we shall find nothing in the deportment of these Crusaters but what is matural and consistent with their situa-tion.-TyTher's IIInt., l3ook 6, (•h. 9, 1. 157.
-170B. RELIGION, Folly in. Pillur Suints. As the affectation of superior sanctity und the pride of being singrab gave rise to many of the ansterities of the momatio life, the same motive led some men to seclude themselves from social life in a still more extraordinary manner than that practised by any of the religious or-解s. These men wore ternsed Stylites, or Pillar Saints. They momated themselves on the tops of stone pillars, and stood there immovable for many years. One Simeon, a mative of Syrin, grave the tirst example of this most nmaing folly, and passed thirty-seven years of his life upon pillars of varions heights, begimang with one of nine fect, and increasing from year to year, till he died on a pillar of forty cubits. Another saint of the sime mome lived sixtyeight years in the same manner. The veneration which these holy men nequired excited a number of imitators, and their degrees of sanctity were always estimated atecording to the height of their pillars, and the numbor of years they had passed upon them. For above six centuries this superstitions frenzy prevailed in the East, nor was the practice altosether abolished till the twelfth century. - Tyther's IIst., Book 6, ch. 3, p. 8.).
4707. RELIGION, Generosity in, False. As the Alcmieonide were vary rich and powerfal, they got themselves appointed by the Amphictyons, who constituted the general council of Greece, to superintend the rebuideling of the temple of Delphi, for the sum of 300 talents or 300 ,000 crowns. As they were naturally gencrous, and had besides their reasons for being so on this ocension, they added to this sum a great deal of their own money, and made the whole front of the temple all of Parian marble, at their particular expense ; wherens hy the contract mole with the Amphlatyons, it was only to linve lrin made of common stone. The liberally of the Alemaeonithe was not nitogether in free bounty ; neither wrs their nuguiflcence fownel the god of indphi a pure cflect of religion: policy was the chinef motive, They louned by this means to urfuire great influence in the temple, mat it happenedaceording to theirexpectations. 'The momey, which they plentifully ponmed into the hands of the priestess, rembereil them alosolate mosters of the omele, and of the protemded gad who presided ower it, und who for the futare berome their erho. . . . As often therefore as any Spartan came to consult the priestess, whether upon his own affairs or moon those of the State, no promise was cever made him of the god's assistance, but upon condition that the Iacedamonians should deliver Athens from the yoke of tyrunny. 'This onder wis so often repented to them by the ormele, that they resolved at last io make war ugninst the Pisistantide, though they were under the st rongest engngements of friculshipand hospitality with them: herein preferring the will of Goxl, says Ifredotiss, to all human consideri-tions.-Roblın's Hon'r., Book $\overline{6}$, 客 8 .

470s. RELIGION and Cold. Hecuthen. [In the besieged aity of 'Tyw there wus a brnaen stntue of Apollo of enorimons size.] During the siege, in conserguence of a dremm which one of the citizens hat, the Tyrimes imagined that Apollo was determined to leave them and go over to Alexander. Immodiately they fustened with a gold chanin his statue to Hercules' nltar, to prevent the deity from lenving them. For these people were silly enough to believe that after liis statue was this finstroned down, it would not le possithe for him to make his escupe, and that he would be prevented from doing so by Ilerenles, the tutelar god of the city.-Rowin's IIsт., Book 15, § 6.

I7\%9. RELIGION graded. Pythayoras. In imitation of the Egyptian priests, Pythagoras professed two different kinds of doctrine, the one aerommoduted to vulgir use, and the other resorved for the private car of his favorite disciples. The object of the former was morality ; the hatter consisted of matmy mysteries which we ure probably at no loss for leming very little acquainted with. Five yuars of silence were regliisite for prepuring his scholars for the participation of these secrets. These disciples formed among themselves a sort of community; they livad all in the sume honse together with their wives and chibdren; they had their goods in common, and their time was parcellod ont and appropriated to varions exereises of mind and boxly. Music was iu hiarh estecm with them. as a corrective of the phssions: and they had one kind of musie for the morning, to awaken und excite the fraculties, and mother for the evening, to relax mul compose them. The notion which Pythagoras inculeated of the soml's transmigration throngh different boties mathe his disciples strictly abstain from animal food-TyTreEr's IList., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 263.
4710. RELIGION, Husbandman's. Cato's Prayer. It is in a reremony called Solitaurilia, and according to some suoretaurilia, in which the country people mate a procession round their lands, ind offered litations and sacrifices to cer-taln gorls. . . "Father Mars," suidthernpplinat, "I humbly loplore and ronjure you to he pors pitions mid fuswrabo to me, my family and all my domestios, in recgaril to the ocerasion of tha present prosession in my thelds, lamds, und restate: to prevent, avert, had remove from us all disconses, known and naknown, desolations, storms, calnuidies, nul pestilontinl nir ; tomake our plants, corn, vines, abl treas grow ind come to perfertions; to prescrve oum shepherds und Hocks; to gramt thy preservation of life und health to me, my family, and all my domesties." What a reproane is it that Chastians, ame often those who have the greatest share in the goods of this world, shomld in these days he so ligtle enrefial to demmad them from God, and be ashamed to thank lime for them! Among the Pagims all their moals began and ented with proyers, which are now hanished from almost all our tables. - Kobisn's IIIN'., Book öt, art. 4,今5.
4711. RELIGION, Hypocrisy In. Charles $I \Gamma$. The lonke of lork [ufterward James II.], too dull tompprehend danger, or too fanatienl to care about it, was impatient to see the urticle tourhing the lemmen Catholic religion carried into immediate excention ; but Lonis [XIV.] had the wishom to percelve that, if this course wore tuken, there would be such an explosion in England us would probably frustrate those parts of the plan which he had most at henrt. It was therefore determined that Charles should still call himself a Protestant, amel shomble still, at high fiestivals, receive the sacrament aecording to the ritual of the Chare h of Englame. Ilis more sermpulous brother coased to uperar in the royal chapel.—Macaviay's liva., ch. d, p. 196.
4712. RELIGION, Impediments to. George Wüller. [lle was sent away from home to school.] But while exemplary in his conduct outoourdly, he was totally unconcerned about the salvation of his sonl, und utterly reekless regarding the etermal realities of the world to come. Ile had three hundred books of his own, but no Bible ; and as he was surrounded by uneonverted persons, and never heard the Gospel preached, he lad no opprortanity whatever of receiving relig. ions instruction, nor of conversing with my one who wonld take an interest in his spiritual welfare- - Liffe of Georae Mulamh, p. 11.
4713. RELIGION insulted. Pope Gregory VII. [He summoned Emperor Henry IV., while at war with the Saxons,] to come in person to Rome and answer the charge of having granted the investiture of benefices. He trented this insolent message with proper eontempt. Gregory [VII.] had, at the sume time, denominced a sentence of excommaniention against Philip I. of Framere. . . What gave weight to sentences of this kind, which would otherwise have been ledd in derision, was that policy of the popers by whieh they took care to level their ecelesiastieal fhomder against those who had enemies powerful enongh to avail themselves of the advamages which sueh sentences gave them against the party excommmniented. Henry, it must be owned, thought of rather a mean revenge against the pontiff. By his orders, a ruttian seized the pope while he was performing divine service, and after bruising and maltreating him, contined him to prison. The pontiff, however, soon recovered his liberty, and assembling a council at lonme, promomical a formal sentenco of deposition
 ch. \%, 1. 1?
4714. $\qquad$ Lonis N". "The most ('hristimn king' of France . . . ©nased muntinu-* tive woman to be taken from pulbe lierontionse besos, consererated by the sacrument of marriage as the wife of a lremel noblemm, nud then installed in his own palace as his mistress. In return she adored royalty and sided ngainst the phibosophers. . . An abancomed famale who pleased the finucies of a corrupt old man become thesymbol mal the support of uhsolate power. Baxinobre's I. A., vol. 16 , ch. 48 .
d715. RELIGION by Legisation. Romans. ['The Emperor Grutinn was celebrated for his pioty.] The conscioner of the eredrlous prince was directed by salnts mad bishopis, who procured an imperiat edict to pumish, ns a eapital offence, the viohation, the neglert, or even tho ignormue of the divine luw.-Gimmon, vol. 3.
4716. RELIGION, Legislation against. Jeswits. As the inthence of the Jesnits gave to France iis only power over the Five Nations, the legislature of New York, in 1700), made a law for hanging every Popish priest that should como voluntarily into the province. "The law ought forever to continue," is the commentary of the historian, wholly unconseions of the trie nature of his remark.-Bancrurits U. S., vol. 3, eh. 21.
4717. RELIGION, Licensed. $B y$ King John. There is a warrant of king Iohnss, dated from Normandy, in the enrly purt of his reign, in which he says: ${ }^{\text {l }}$ now yo, that we have given license to leter Buillo to enter into any religion that he pleases.-Kinait's Evo., vol. 1, ch. 23, p. 340.

A71s. RELIGION, Melancholy. Crom in ell. This passion [of the times] in the ardent and gloomy disposition of Cromwell almost proilucedid disense of che imgination. Ite trembled for his etermal salvation, and dreaded lest he should not sacrifice enough for his finth. He repronehed himself for an uet of cownrlly tolernfion in permitaing Catholic symbols, such as the cross on the stmmit, amd other religions ormaments, left by recent Protestuntism, to remain upon the church at IImatingdon. Je was impressed with the iden of an early death, and lived under the terror of etermal pmislinment. Warwick, one of his contemporaries, relutes that Cromwell, seized on a particular ocension with a fit of religions melamelioly, sent frecpuently during the night for the pliysician of the neighthoring village, that he might $10 .{ }^{\prime} k$ to him of his doubts and terrors. ITe assisted ussiduously at the preachings of those itinerant Puritan ministers who emme to stir up polemical ardor and antipathjes. - Jamartine's Cromwehi, p. 6.
4719. - Anabaptists. [Hooker said of the Anabuptists :] Every word otherwise than severely and sadly intered seemed to pierce like a sword through them. If any man were pleasant, their manner was fervently, with siglis, to repeat those words of our Savinur Christ, " Woe be to you which now lingh, for ye shall lament." -Kinit's ENo., vol. 3, ch. 16, p. 245.
4720. RELIGION, Misplaced. Military Cru. saders. The power of Constantine was distractal by a Turkish war : the mind of llenry was ferbie and irresolate ; and the poper hastend of repassing the Aljs with a dicrman army, was merompanfed only hy Swahhas amd some vohaters of lormane. In a vile and promiverones maltitude of Italinns was entivenl moder the holy standard: the pribest und the roblere sleph in the samur tent ; tho plkes and crosses wrore intermingled in the front : nad the martial sulat reperated the lessons of his youth in the order of matel, of commpment, nind of

47ㅂ. RELIGION, Misunderatood. Jope's Le' gate'. 'The legate midressed latherin a gracious amel futherly mamoer, und ln the mame of the pere phainly demanded of hima that he redont hiserrors and promise to absatain thereafter from the promongation of all views that might disenmed the ('tureh. T'woattieles lee should recall and withdrave: First, the denial that the "ladulgencotrensure" of the ('hmerh is the merit of onr Jorel Jesus ('hrist; secomily, his maintemance that a person who wishes to receive the Lord's sipperer must above all things possess the fuith und the inner eonviction that his sins will be forgiven him. Herenpon a disernssion ensued between Lather and [Curdima] ('ajotan. The atlembants of the latter andibly tittered when they hemrd the explamations of the Angustinimn monk, so strange and eurious did they serm to the Itmlinus. In vain did Lather appeal to the Bible and lts deelarations concerning fuill.- -Reme's Luthen, ch. 5, p. 53.
$4722 .-$ Purituns Criticiscd. lf, from the outside peculiarities whieh so easily excite the sneer of the supertlein] ohserver [see No. 4in! ], we look tc the genins of the sect itself, Puritanism was religion struggling for the people. "Its absurdities," says its enemy. " were the sholter for the moble principles of liberty." It was its offlee to corrait the new institntions of popnlar energy upon the old Enropean system of feadal aristocracy and popular servitude ; the good was permanent; the outward emblems, which were the sigas of party, were of transient durn-tion.-Banchoft's U.S., vol. 1, eh. 10.
4743. RELIGION, Mookery of. Roman Einperor Wehtel. But the most extriordinary feature in the character of Nichace is the profme mockery of the religion of his country. . . A lanffoon of the court was invested in the robes of the patriareh; his twolve metropolituns, among whom the emperor was ranked, assamed their ecclesiastical garments: they used or abused the sacred vessels of the atar : and, in their bacehamelian leasts, the holy communion was ndministered in a mataseons compound of vinegar mad mustard. Nor wrre these impious spectacles concealed from thereyes of the city. On the day of a solemn festival, the emperor, with his bishops or buffoons, rode on asses through the streets, encountered the true patriarch ut the hend of his clergy ; and by their licentious shouts andi obseene gestures disordered the gravity of the Christian procession. Gibbon's Rome, ch. 48, p. 596.
4724. RELIGION without Morality. Armenian. [Archbishop Isaac was earnestly solieited by the Armenifn nohles to sanction the removal of their unworthy king.] He deplored the man-ifent mind inexcusable vees of Artusires, und dechared that ho should not hesitate to aceose hima before the tribmont of a ('hristhu emperor, who would punish, without lestroying. the sinuer.
 dicted to licentions plensares, but he bas been purithed in the holy waters of buptism. Ife is a lover of women, but he does net molore the tire or the dements. Ile matia deserve the reproneli of loweloess, hat ho is an undombed Cutholic: und his fuith is pure, thongh his manarers are dhagitions. I wifl never eonsent to nbandon my sherp to the ruge of devouring wolves: and you would soon repant your rashexclange of the intrimitios of u belifever for the spereious virtues of d725. RELIGION, Motives in. Iheathen. 'The devout polythejst, though fomelly mbached to his mationnd rites, admitted with inplieit fath the dillerent religions of the carth. Fear, grabiturle, and curiosity, a dremm or un omen, a slagnlar disorder, or a distant journey, perpetumlly disposed him to maltiply the artioles of his belief, ram to ('ularge the list of his protectors.-Ginmos's lRomb, ch. 2, p. 24.

4788. RELIGION needful to the State. Morality. [seven yanrsufter the abolition of the Commonwealth ard the restorntion of the prollignte Charles II., the historim writes :] The infmmens corruption of the higher classes was enting into the fommation of Enghod's greatness. Her people were losing that masculine simplicity, that hearty devotion to publie and privateduties, that religious carnest ness-intolerunt, no doubt-but rinely simulated by the followers of Calvin or the followers of Arminias la the grentest hent of their conliicts ; the English were losing that nationnlity whose execss miny be ludierons, but whose utter want is despicable.-KNiant's Eng., vol. 4, ch. 17, 1. 295.
1727. $\qquad$ Patriotism. [Their] motlve [for favoring the Reformation] wastheir [the people's] avowed hutred of the religion which Anstria protected, mod their enthusiastic uttuchment to a doctrine which thint House was endenvoring to extirpute by fire and sword. Theirnttuchment was ardent, their hatred invincible. Religious famaticism antieipntes even the remotest dungers. Enthusiasm never calculates its sucrifices. What the most pressing danger of the State could not effect with the eitizens was effeeted by religious zeth. For the state or for the prince few would have drawn the sword ; but for religion, the merchant, the nrtist, the peasant-ail cheerfully flew to arms. For that State or for the prince even the smallest additional impost woudd have been avoided; but for religion the people readily staked it once life, fortune, and all earthly hopes. It trebled the contributions which flowed into the exclsequer of the princes, und the armles whieh murehedi to the field; und, in the ardent excitement produced in all minds by the peril to which their faith was exposed, the subject felt not the pressure of those lmurdeas nnd privations under which, in cooler moments, he would have sunk exhausted. The terrors of the Spanish Inquisition and the massacre of St. Bartholomew's procured for the Prince of Orange, the Admirnl Coligny, the British Queen Elizabeth, and the Protestant princes of Germany supplies of men and money from their subjects, ion degres whled ut proment is laconembable-

-78*. RELI2ION, Ocoaslon of, Wystery. Fivell

 Neret of the miverad chades the ingitioy of man. Where reasom rambot instrict, costonis mase be attmelmodet to those rites mind opinions whirla blessings whith they have solicited at the altars of the gools, it mast mpenar still mone miviather to risk the maknown perils thint may mitume nuy 13. 1ibis.

- $17 \cdot 20$. RELIGION, Oppressive, Ciolony of Marylumd. 'The elanse for lihnerty Marylundextenil. ad only to (horistims, mad was butrodured ly the provisothat, "Whatsoever persom shall hasplowe God, or sluill repromed or deny the IVoly Trinty, or any of the 'lume Persons, thereof, ahald be punishad with demth."-Bancomeres U.S., vol. 1, rh. \%.

A7:30. RELIGION, Natural. Puf/ums. A famous locishator, Zalutiots by mane . . . reguires nhove all things, ol the citizens, to lielieve and be timuly persumbed that there are gods; mal mids, that the bare (asting up our eyes to the homvens mal contemphating thejr ordernad heanty aro sulttidiont to convinee us that it is impossible so womelorlal a falrie arold have been formed by mere chance or homon power. As the nataral consefurnee of this belief, lie exhorts men to homer mad revere the gods as the anthors of whatever is good and just among morlals ; and to homor llam, not morely by surcitlees and splemdid gifts, but by it ritcomsperd comdurt, and by purity nod inmocome of manmors, these boing intinitely more fratefal to the deities thatu all the satoritioes that ain be oflored. Ifter this exordinm, so prequmt with mition and piety, in which hedereribes the Sipherme being as the primary somere whence all haws thow, as the chicf anthority which commands whedionce fo them, as the most powerfinl motive lorour faithfal obsurvance of them, amil av the perleret model to which mankind ought to ronform, he deseends to the partioulars of those duties which men owe to one mother, nad lays down it procept which is very well illapted to preserve pratceand unity in soricty by enjoining The individunls who compose it not tomake their hatred amd dissensions perpetanl, which would rvince an maseriable and savage disposition, but to treat their encmies ns men who would soon be their frionds. This is rarrying morality to as great a perfection as cond be experted from heathens.-Rolisn's IIst., Book 7 , eh. 3, 心 1.

473:. RELIGION paradoxical. Purilams, This wis the Puritan belief in England in the seventeenth century. The reason starts nt it, but all religion is paradoxical to reason. God hatessin, get sin exists. ITe is omnipotent, yet evil is not overcome. The will of man is free, or there can be no guilt ; yrt the artion of the will, so far as experience can throw light on its operation, is as much choterminod by antecedent canses as every other matmral force. Prayer is addressed to a

Brimg asammed to lee ombisclent, who knows lottor what is goonl for as thation win kanw ; Who wise oltr thomghts whlout regniting to hear them in worls ; whose will is lixed and fonmot or any other which regarda man as masworathe: to (ioid for his conduct. W. mus jurlige of a life wholemomeness of ford as it conderoes to burlite lualeh. Ind the cread whleh swopt like n war thromarl liaghand it that time, and ree. ommemberl findf to tho sobhese mad most powerfal intrllorta, proxhored also lathose whonerepted it n lurtor of sha, mal rathosiasm for justle e, putity, mul manlimes. which ran be purableded BuNvin, M. 2.

47:3. RELIGION, Peculiarities in, lwifans in Nim F'm! font. They warr opposed to wigs ; 1hey could jreme h ngainst veils; they demomered long hair: low distiked the eross in the batnor, ns much tes the people of lanis disliked the iilles of the Bomblonis, fund for ambogotes rinsons. 'They would not allow Chistoms diy to be kept sucred; lhey called neither montlis, nor clays, nor semsoms, mof churehes, mor inms by lle mames eommon in linghmed; they rovivid Soriphure momes at claristanings : . . . prohthited frivalous fashions in their own dress; and . . . cherking extruvagnace even in womma, frowned on her loools of silk and ber searfs al tilfony, "xtemed the Iengeth of laer sleeve to the wrist, ind limited its premtest wilth to holf an ell. . . . Thay mar. ried without a minister, mod louried the dend withome a proyer.——ancoore's C. S., vol. 1. ch. 10.

47iB3. RELIGION, Persecution of. licifh of Jumme 1I. Many Dissenters were cited before the eorlesinstical rourts. Others fomme it mecessary to parchase the combivime of the agents of the govermment ly presemts of hogshonds of wine, and of gloves stuffed with ghineas. It was imb possible for the sectarjes to pray together withont precuntions such as are employed ly coiners and receivors of stolen goonls. The plices of mectjng were fropuently changed. Worship was performed sometimes just lofore break of day and sometimes nt demi ol night. Romal the lmilading where the little flock was gathered tugether sentinels were posted to grive the nlarm if a stringer drew near. The minister in disguise was introdneed through the rarden and the lmek yard. In some liousos thate were 1 map-loors fhrough which, in rase of dunger, he might desernd. Where Nonconformists lived mext door to each other, the walls wore olten broken open, and secrat passages were mate fom dwelling to Iwollingr. No pasilm was sungr a and many contrivanees were used to prevent the voice of the prenelar, in his moments of fervor, from being heard beyoud the walls. Yet, withall this cone, it was often found impossible to elude the vigilince of informers. - Macathay's Ena., ch. 5, 1). 617.
4734. RELIGION of Policy. Changeful. Michael, the emperor who had raised Photius to the patriarehal chair, was murdered by lais rival Basileas, who, immediately on his mounting the lapertal thromer, depowed the pardareh ha the midst of his trimmp: and a combed of the anow for his asarpationsmad heresios. Soomilters, howerer, I'hothes, who wasa amon of consmomato abllity, prevalay on the emperor to refinstate him by four handrem hivhops, three handred of whom were the sames men who hand before sigued his depravity; but ronseliomer and religion are tow Ilistr, Bank If, ch. If, D. Dis.

17:B5. RELIGION and Polltios. Auriont /iomans. The Romany showed a spirit of toleration to the religionsoplatons of other mations, bermase sulvers!an oi thedr own rellgion, nor anything of that meid of making converte which so pre makably distinguished the volaries of Chrisrably interwoven with their system of government. The (loristians, by expostag the alosurdItion of their system of worship, in effert undermined the fabirle of thedr political constitution: nad hence they ware not without ranosi consid. ered by the Remany as a damgeroms body of men, whom it berame the internit of the enpire to suppress and exterminate. Honce those opprobrions epithets with which hey have been stignatized by the Roman writers, mad hence those cruel persecoutions which they underwent from the emperors and their depaties in the s7:8. RELIOION, Power of. Druids in Britain. Their religion was that of the Druids, the uncertainty regarding whose partientar tencts is maiversally acknowledged. It is, however, gronerally agreed that they thaght the belief of one (foll, Creator of the universe; of thelimited duration of the world, and its destametion by tire; of the immortality of the homm somb, and its trasmigration throngh different bodies, in which the just and the wieked met with a retribution for their conduct in the present state; but on these dontrines, as penernd prineiples, they semed to have rearedan inmense superstrueture of fable. Their worship was polluted hy the horrid practice of homan sanerifice ; and the chief oflece of tharir priests was to divine future events from the flowing of the blood of the vietim, or the posture in which he fell after receiving the fatal blow. The influcnce of this religion was so great is to extend over every department of the govermment of the Britons. The Druids were not only the priests, but the judges, divil and criminal; and the bondage in which they hacld the minds of the people was son strict as to supply the phace of laws. The Romans, after the conquest of Gaul, found it impossible to reeone ile to their laws and institutions the mations whom they had subdened, while this religion sub. sisted, and in this instance were obliged to depart from their usual principles of toleration. They abolished the religion of the Druids by the severest penal ematments. -Tyrien's IIfst., Book 6, ch. 4, p. 103.

4737. RELIGION, Preparatory. West Indians. Columbus at first indulged in the error that the natives of Hayti were destitute of all notions of religion, and he had consorgiontly flatered him

 aware that it is more ditheralt to light up fare tire of devotion fa the cold heart of mo whelst than to direct the flame to "urw ohject, when it is nlrondy cukinded. 'There ure few belogs, how. ever, so destitite of reflecton an not to be int. pressed with the conviction of min overralling flefty. A mation of athoista never existed.Invina's Colomin's, Buok 6, ch. 10 .

A7:BA. RELIGION, Progrens In. " More Truth." Now, the Englishat Layden, Irnsting in (bod and In themsedves, made rendy for their departure the Sperd well. of siaty toms, the Maythower, of one hundred and cighty bons. . . . A solemm fast whe held; . . (pmator| Rahhason gave thema farewell: "I charge you before Gal and His blevesal angely that you foilow me no further than you have sicil me follow the lord desus Christ. The Laril has more truth yet to break forth out of llis Holy word." - Banchort's C. S., vol, t, ch. N .

47:39. RELIGION, Progress by. Culonizution. Idoligions enthasinsm eoloniard New Einghan, and religions conthashasm foumded Nontreal, made a conguest of the widderness on the "1pper laker, and explered the Nississippl. Puritanism gave New Eaglatd its worship und its sehools; the Rommen choreh crented for Cumbalis alars, its hospitals, aml lis semharics.--13anchoft's U. S., vol. 3, (h. 20.
difio. RELigion, Progressive. Mahomet's. The illiterate eharacter nud ignornace of Mahomel, in his younger days, lenve no dondt that, in the composition of this work, he must have hed :hle assistants: bat as he was possessed of strong butural taldonts and a brillinut imus. imation, the chicf merit was, in nll prohahility, his own. The proluction of the work in small and detachexi parects was a highly politic measure; for by lenving it in his power to nded to it from time to time, areording as he was favored with new revelations, he had it in hispower to remove or explain nny errors or inconsistencies, the deteetion of which might otherwise lave heen fatal to his imposture.-Tyther's Hast., llook 6, (l. 1, p. 52.

47!1. RELIGION, Revolution in. Britain. Henry VIlI., the Caligula of Britain, in a flt of nuger ngninst the Chureh of Rome, changed the religion of his kingelom. This was the grentest act of absolute mithority ever exerelsed by one man over mentire mation. The caprice of a king became the conscience of the people, and temporal anthority subjugated their souls. The old Catholicism, repuilinted by the sovereign, wns ahandoned to indiscriminate pillage and derision, with its dogmus, hicrarehy, clergy, monks, momsteries, acolesinstima possessions, territorinl fiefs, hourded riches, and temples of worship. The Roman Catholic faith became a crime in the kinglom, and its name n scandal and reproach to its followers. National apostasy was as sudden had overwhelming as a cle') of thander; the Catholic mation had disnppeared beneath the English mation. - Lamamtine's Chomwele, p. 7.
4742. RELIGION ridiculed. Eingland. [Early reign of Queen Mary.] The restoration of the ohl worship way followed by outhreaks of buld Namerel a doge with the priestly tomsite. I cout wer hor, with her fore feet thed tengether mus a romad phere of paper like andighog cake betwern them." Y, ' more galling were the bathads which were cifreuhtal lin moekery of the masw, the the odd religion were thonted woh rimald anck.

I7, AB, RELIGION, Romance In. Mtrriayf of

having stofon the daughter of Powhatan, demanded of her futher at masom. . . . John Rolfe", "an honest mul diserere" yonng Englisha. man, an muinhle cuthosiast, . . daily, hourly, and, ans it were, ha his very shep, henard a voime arying lio his rars that he shoud stedve to make her a Christian.

Aftera grent strugerge of mind mul believing prayere, $\qquad$ wimning 110 favor of loomhoutas, he denferd har in marringe.

In the little chareh of damestown
Opurlisen, her unche gave the bridenway. -Banemorth ilist, of U. S., vol. I, M. d.
17.A. RELigion, Ruled by. Dirius. IArwhen ho was dying, he nsked him, in few momonts before he ixpired, what had heen the rule of his comduct duriag so lomgand haply a relga an his, that he might make it his example. "It linv luren," replied he, " to donalways what justice Book: ch. 1, & 1 .
 Was bora on the itthon retoher, 1644 . Ile wav lle oddest som of Viee - Admiral Sir William Prom, of the British mavy. It the age of twelve har was sent to the University of oxforl, where he distinguished himself as a statent butil he was expelled on neconat of his religions opininns. Ifterward he travelled on the ('ontinent : was again in sturlent it Sammer ; returned to study law at Lombon; went to le bad ; becane a soldiar ; heard the preaching of Lees and was ronverted to the Quaker fuith. Ilis disippointald father drove him out of dooss, but he was not to le turned from his rourse. He publicly prochamed the doctrines of the Friends; was arrested mad imprisoned for nine months in the Tower of Loudon. Buing relensed, he repeated the offence, and hy for halt a year in a hungron at Nowgate. A surond time liberated, bat despairing of tobration for his people in Enghturl, lie cost his gaze arross the Athmetic.-Rumernis [. S., ch. 2i, p. 210.

A746. RELIGION of Savages. Wret Indinhs. It was soon discovered that these ishanders had their creed, though of a vigue and simple mature. They believed in one Suprome Being, inhmbiting the sky, who was immortal, omnipotent, und invisible: to whom they aseribed an origin, who had a mobler, but no father. They never adaressed their worship direetly to him, but emplowed inferior deities, called Zemes, as messengers and mediators. . . They believel their Zames to be transferable, with all their powers, and often stole them from each other. When

The Nignintidy amm amomy them they often hild thoir flols, fowt lley shomift be takell away. 'They be'sus i that thase Zolmas presifled over every ohjoce ba muture, emeli havin: or gosermbent. They lathenced the sernsobs mud the clemonts, cumsing sterile or abmadnat ymus ; exclilag hurrioumen und whirlwhads, und

-17.17. RELIGION, Secularized. If"ry /V. lloury lind now linlly mule up his mind to the necessary to the permoroble recograition ol hive rights. I comference busk phare, . . mat witar adoliburafion of the homers the king deremed himseif prifiectly suthalled of the trith of the tost. Denis, where her was met at the door al tho sivenother prolates, Fnlling on his kneres, Jenry solcumbly abjured lals Culvinlatio urrolss, mad Apostalia linila, upon whloh tho nrchhishop nlsostred him porisionally, and restored him to the commminim ol the Chureh, - STODENJ'

17.1每. RELIGION, Signs of. Jahomut. The ceromonies of ritermeiniom, nhlution, mad the pilgrimage lo Nerea ho recommonalad as exterior mad visible signs, by whieh dond desired that man shomblal shaify fils leblef of the tuore sperculative tencts of his rellgion. - 'T'riteris JINT., Book is, ch. 1, I. It.
47.49. RELIGION, Simple. N'turlineciutus. The relighon of the nombent Somadimovisus lorins a very corious object al inguly, and is the more worthy of attention that it was mo.: fntimately connected with their manmers. I'liree great moral frimeiples were the fonbdation of their redjgion, und intluenced their whole onduct. These werc, " tos sarve the Sugaeme licing with prayer mai sucrifice; to do no wrong or unjust artions; mad to be valiant und int repid in trgit." These were the pribeijules of thrancient religion, which, although neeonpmicel by a most wild and extravigant mythology, yat resting on this pure and simple hasis, had n womblerfal effect upon the remarncter ami manners of the people. - TYTLA\&'н IIs'r., Book $\overline{5}$, ch. 6, ן. 28, 4750. RELIGION, State. Colony of V'irginia. A.b. 166\%. The English Episeopall (hurch became once more the religion of the thate ; and though there woro not ministers in above n tlfth part of the parishes, so that the chareh was senttered . . . in the wildermess, yot the laws demmaled striat conformity, and repnited of every one to contribute to the support of the Established ('hurch. . . . No Nomeonformist might tench, even in private, under pain of binishment; no reader might expound the caterdism on the scriptures. . Shsenee from churell was for then [thr Quakers] an olfenor, punislable by
 U. S., vol. 2, clı. 14.
4751. RELIGION, A Statesman's, Bismarek. "I can only he for forgivenoss in a confitenco npon the blood ol Christ? As a statesman, I um not suffleiently disinterested; in my own mind,

I am rather cowardly; hemasp $i$ is not ansy aiways to get that chaness on the guestions comtag before me which grows upon the soil of divine conshdence . . . Among the multitude of sinners who are in heed of the therery of (ionl. 1 bopo hat Itis grace will not deprive me of the staif of humble fatith, in the midst of the damgress and dombs of ryy calling." Wr observe also that he had his children inth haptiaed and rontirmed, mat that. if he is mable to attend elaureh, he usually has prayess read by some young arrayam at home-('ycoorbima of AFoiz. RELIGION, A auccersful. Wethometien. The :apid sucess which attender the propagntion of the religion of Mahomet may be reconated for from a iew matural and simple canses. The first of these was certainly that sigmal favor which attended his arms, and, as we shall immeGuately see, those of his smecessors. The martial spirit, when inlamed by the enthasiasm of religion, is irresistible; and while repeated vietories persunded many of a divine interposition in favor' of the Prophet and his law, the terror of his arms incliand others submissively to receive that religion which was propagated by the sword. Neither was it surprising that a religion which adapted itself so entirely to the passions of men shond find a number of willing votaries anoong the huxurions mations of the East.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 1, p. 53.

4\%533. RELIGION, Sunpression of, Jevos. As soon as he [Antiochns' general] arrived in Jerusalem, he berma by puiting a stop to the sacrifices which were offered up to the God of israch, and st prressing all the obscrvances of the Jewish hat. They polluted the temple in such a manner that it was no ionger fit for the service of God ; profaned the Sabluths and other festivals; forbid the circumeision of children; carried off and burnt all the copies of the law wherever they could find them; abolished all the ordinances of God in every part of the comntry, and put to death whoever was found to have acted contrary to the decree of the king.-Row-

475.4. RELIGION, Tnoughtless. Siemuel Johnson. [Boswela.] I told him that Goldsmith had said to me a few lays before, "As I take my shoes from the shoemaker, and my coat from the tailor, so I take my religion from the priest." I regretted this loose way of tulking. Jonnson: "Sir, he knows nothing : he has made up his mind about nothing." - Boswell's Jonisson, p. 204.
4755. RELIGION, Toleration in, Samuel Johntom. Talking on the subject of toleration one day when some friends were with him in his stholy, he made his usual remark, that the State has it right to regulate the religion of the people, who are the cliildren of the State. A clergyman having readily nequiesced in this, Johnsoa, who loved disenssion, observed, "But, sir, you manst go round to other States than our own. Yon do not know what a Brahmin las to say for himself. In short, sir, I have got no farther than this: every man has a right to utter what he thin:ks truth, and every other man has a right to knock him dewn for it. Wartyrdom is the test." -Boswell's Joinson, p. 433.
1736. RELIGION, Vacilation in. Dying King Charles II. Many netributed this apathy to contempt for divine things, and many to the sthpor which often precedes dath; bit there were in the palace a fow persons who knew better. Chatles had never heen a sincere member of the Established Chareh. Ilis mind had long oscillated between Ifobbism nod popery. When his healih was grood and his spirits high, he was a scolfer. In his few surions moments le was a Roman Catholic.-Macachay's Eng., eh. 4, 1. 404.
4757. Religion, Value of. "i, the Ntate. The Romans knew and valued the advantages of religion, us it is comnected with eivil government. They encomraged the public lestivals which humanize the manners of the prople. They mannigel the arts of diviation, as a convenicht Insirmment of prolicy; und they respected, as the firmest bond of socicty, the uscful persuasion, that, cither in this or in a future life, the crime of perjary is most assuredly punished by the avenging goils.-Granon's Rome, ch. 2, p. 37.

175w. REMEDY by Fire, Chinese. There is no seience more cultivated by the Chinese than that of medieine, yet there is none in which their knowledge is so contemptible. There is not a physician among them who knows anything of the internal strueture of the human body. They determine the nature of all diseases by fecing the pulse, and the most ustul cure for any top. ical uffection is searing the parts affected with a hot iron. The fooisl: slicf of an elixir riter is predominant in Chi: and is a great objeet of the researehes of the. physicians.-Tytler's Hist., Book 6, ch. 24, p. 343.
4759. REMEDY, A strange. Wailing. In Alyssinia . . a favorite régime for fever is to surround the bed of the patient with old ladies of strong lungs, who howl and wail for several days together, lamenting the prospeet of the sufferer's death, and at the least sign of torpor the unhappy vietim is instantly buried.-Appleton's Cyclopedia, " Abyssinia."
4760. REMORSE. Persecutor's. Charles $I X$. Charles IX. on his death-bed suffered fearfully from the agonies of remorse in looking back on the atrocities which had disgraced his reign, and which, if not their original muthor, he hat at least culpably sunctioned. His couch was f:equently bathed in blood, a matural consequence of his disease ; and this was interpreted by many into a sort of judicial retribution on his crimes. -Studenty' Flance, ch. 16, $12.
4761. REMORSE, Royal. Edirard IV. [The last few] years of his life. . . were not years of ease and prosperity. The chroniclers say that his remorse for the death of Clarence was constint and bitter [his brother, against whom he uppeared in person, urging on the false et arge of treason. Ile was found guilty and sentencert to be executed, but was found deal in prison, supposed to be murdered by his connivance], and that he was wont to cry out in rage, " $O$ unfortunate brother, for whose lite no man in this world once make request!"-Knight's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 11, p. 175.

476\%. RENOWN for Honesty. Aristides. The greatest honor which the ancients have done to Aristides is the having bestowed on him the glo rious title of the omat．De gained it，not by ome particular oecurrone of his lifer，bat by the whole tenor of I is comblact mad nethons．－Rows－ LiN＇s llas＇r．，Book 6，ch．2，今 18.

47483．RENOWN of Infamy．Erostratics．One Frostratus had set fire to the temple［of Diama at Ephesas an purpose．Being put to the tort－ ure，in order to force him to confess his motive for committing so $i_{\text {a }}$ famons annetion，he owned that it was with the virw of making hinself known to posterity，and to immortatize his name， by destroying so noble atructure．The states． greneral of $X$ isia imagined they slonald prevent tho surerss of his view by publishing a deceres prohibiting the montion of his nimus．Howerer． thedr prohibition only exdited a greater coriosi－ $t y$ ；for scarce one of de historians of that agre has omitted to montionso mosatrous an oxtrav－ agrance，and at the same lime to tell us lhe atane

 ［ On the death of l）r．Simmel Johmson，｜in 17si， it las leen suid＂it was mot only the ond of a reign，but the end of kingship altogether，in our literary system．For King Sammel has had no sucecessor ；mobody since his day，and that of his contemporary Voltaice，has sat on a throne of Literatare ejther in England or Frmace．＂－G．I． Citaig，in KNiant＇s Ena．，vol．7，ch．6，p．8ij．

4785．RENOWN，Noble．Pericles．IIe was infeeterl with the pestilence．Being extremely ill，and ready to breathe his last，the principal citizens，ami simeh of his friends ns lumf not for－ saken him，discoursing togrether in his bed． chamber about his rare merit，thay ran over his $\cdot x$ phoits，and computed the number of his victo－ ries；lor while he was genernlissimo of the Athe－ nians，he had erceted lor the glory of their eity nine trophies，in memory of as many battles gatined ly him．They did not imagne that Per－ iches heard what they were saying，becanse ho secmed to have lost his senses；but it was far otherwise，for not a single word of their dis－ coarse had escaped him；when，breaking sud－ denly from lis silence，＂I am surprised，＂says he，＂that you should treasure up so well in your memories and extol so highly a series of ac－ tions in whith fortume hiud so preat a share，and which are common to me with so many other generals；and at the stme time should forget the most glorions cireumstance in my life－ I mean my never having cansed a single citizen to put on mourning．＂－Book 7，ch．3，志 2.

4\％68．RENT，Refused．Anti－Rent Purty．In the latter part of Tyler＇s administration the State of New York was the secne of a serions social disturbanee．Untıl the year into the de－ scendimis of Van lienssehaer，one of theold Dutell patroons of New Netherlamde，had hedd a chaim on rertain lambs in the connties of Remsselarer． （oblumbia，and Delaware．In liquidation of this chain they had continued to recesive from the finmers cortain tritling rents．At last the furm－ ers grew tired of the payment and rebelled． From 1840 until 1844 the question was frequently disenssed in the New York Legishature ；but no satisfactory settlement was reached．In the lat－ ter year the anti－rent party lecame so bohd as to cont with tar anai feathers those of their fellow－ tenants who made the payments．Officers were sent 10 appredumet the rioters，and them they killed．T＇inte and aritu the muthoritios of the State wore invoked to puchl the disturbers，mad the question in dispute las never born perma－ nently settlenl．－Kımintu＇s U．S．，ch．56，p． 444.

4767．REPARATION for Disloyalty，$A n m o{ }^{\prime}$－ vis．A．s．1774．When it apperured that this offer to lum the tea did not wholly satisfy the arowd，the owner of the brig ．．proposid to devote that also to the thanes．The offer was nocepted．The pentitent inporters mul owner Went on board，and in the presence of a large mal－ titurle of gazors they themselves set tire to the packares of tea $[2300$ pommels］，all of which，to－ gether with the Pegry Stewnrt，her camvas，cord－ ＂宁品，and every appurtemance，was comsumed． This brig broight tar from Landon，while the colonies refnsed to import it and pay the tam－tax， and the（＇onlinemtal（ongress was in session con－ sidering the whoresubjoct．］－B．s．vorovers U．S．， vol．T，＂h．1？．
d764．REPARTEE，Apt．Joh＂॥ Hislıy．＂Sir，＂ said：blashritur，low－ivel mam，who attempted （1）pash aratas：Joha Westey and throw him down－＂sir，I nevor make wiy for a fool．＂＂I always do，＂replied Wesley，steppiny aside and passing calmy on．－Strivens Mbermonism， vol． 1, p． 386.

1769．REPENTANCE，Attractive．Martin Suther．On one ocrasion，when they were com－ versing about repentance，stampitz siol，＂There is no true repentanceother than that which tlows from the love of Gul mad ITis rightoomsines．＂ This word penatrated lanher＇s soul as the shonp－ ened arrow of the warrior．Ihe satreled in the Seriptures and foumd to his sweet joy thit nll the words of the Bible agreed with the above statement；so that，whereas formeriy there was no word in ticriphive more bitter to him than re－ perimare，there was now no other word that was sr，cotrer amd that somuded more agreeable．＂－ Ken＇s línulik，eli．3，1． 34 ．

1770．REPENTANCE，Ineffective．Comrerwion of Whiteftrle．［＇The relabrated Rev．George Whitetield sought］puritication of soul by pray－ er，watchings，fastings，alnos，and（＇hrist ian homes among the poor．Ile passicl througla a fiery or－ deal，．．．spent whole days and weeks prositrate on the ground in praycr，using only bread mad sage tea during the forty days of lent，except on Suturdaysand Sumdays．．．．Mesclected the coarsest food，wore patclied rament，ancleaned shoes，and coarse gloves．He prayed till the sweat ran down his face，moler the trees，far into the winter nights ．．．［But he did not escape his ascerte delnsions，until］＂by laying hold on the cross by a living faith＂he received＂an abiding sense of the pardoning love of God，and ：full nssurance of faith．＂－Stevens＇M．E． （illucu，vol．1，p． 31 ．

4771．REPENTANCE，Public．John Under． hili．A． 1. 16ios．Inaing the licentionsness ．．． of the soldiers of that ange，he had been com－ pellenl，at boston，in a great assembly，on lecture－ day，during the session of the general court， dressed in the ruthend habit of a penitent，to stand ＂pon a phtform，and with sighs and tenrs and brokenmess of heart to beseech the compassion of the congregation．－Bancroft＇s U．S．，vol．2， ch． 15.

477\%. REPENTANCE, Sudden. Somuel.Johnson. Jollwios: "Sir, we are not to judge determinatele of the state in which a min leaves this life. 'Il may in a moment haverepented effertanlly, and it is possible may have beren morepted of God. There is in ' Camelon's Remans ' an rpitaph npon a very wicked man who was killed by a fill from his horse, in which he is supposerd to say,
' Between the stirrup nud the gromme,
I merey asked, I merey fonnd.'"
-Boswehl's Jommson, p. 49\%.
1778. REPRESENTATIVE, Punished in, Nï! of Engh. ad. The king . . . isabove the reach of all courts of liw ; hit his ministers, his indispensable instrimarints, ner answorable for all the mensures of govermment. All misapplieations of the public momev, all ruinoms and improper expeditions, all abises of power are chargenble to the ie uroonnt : and the ('ommons, the gunrdians of the (omstitution, have a right to impench them at the bar of the LIonse of Lords. A minister impearched for miseondact cannot plead in excouse the commanuls of the sovereign, nor will it avail him, plading gatily to the charge, to produce the royal pardon. ITe mast suffer as the anthor of those measures of vhich he was the instrament; a noble and most effectual antidote against the evils of misgovernment !-TYTLeR's IIIst., Book 6, ch. 31, 1. $43 \%$.
4774. REPRIMAND, Fictitions. La Fuyette. [He had complicated relations between France, and Fingland by joining the American jatriots on h., return.] Ile was received in France with great distinction, which he amusingly describes: "When I went to eourt, which had hitherto only written for me orders for my urrest, I was presented to the mimistors. I wis interrogated, complimented, and exiled-to the hotel where my wife was residing. Some days after, I wrote to the king to acknowledge my fault. I received in reply a light reprimand and the coloncley of the Royal Dragoons. Consulted by all the ministers, and, what was muel better, embraced by all the women, I lad at Versailles the favor of the king, and celebrity at Paris."-('ychopedia of Biog., p. 479 .
4775. REPRIMAND of Kindness. Samuel Johnson. JTe mueh regretted that his first tutor was dead, for whom he seemed to retain the greatest regard. IIe said, "I once had been a whole morning sliding in Christ-Chureh meadows, and missed his lecture in logic. After dinner he sent for me to his room. I expected a sharp rebuke for my idleness, and went with a beating lieart. When we were seated, he told me lie had sent for me to drink a glass of wine with him, and to tell me he was not angry with me for missing his lecture. This was, in fact, a most severe reprimand."-Boswelli's Johnson, 1). 71.
4776. REPRISAL, An Honest. $C r$ moell. An English merchantship was taken in cehops of the Channel, carried into St. Malo, and there contiscated [by the French] upon some groundless pretence. [Tho master of the ship, an honest Quaker, appealed to the Proteetor, who told his council that he would take that affair upon himself. He examined the master, and then] he asked him if he conld go to Paris with a letuet.

The man answored he could. "Well, then," says tho Protector, "prepare for your journey, and eome to me to-morrow morining." Next morning he gave him a letter to Cardinal Mazarin, mad told him he must stay but three days for an answer. "The answer I moran," says he, " is the fall value of what you might have mate of your ship nud errgo ; and tell the C'ardimal that if it is not pad you in three days you lave "xpress orders from me to return home." The homest, blunt Quaker, we may suppose, followed his instructions to a tittle ; but the Curdinal, necorcing to the manner of ministers when they mre any way pressed, begran to shutle ; therefore the Quaker returned, as he was bid. As soon as the l'ot etor saw him, he asked, "Well, friend, have you got your money?" And upon the man's answoring he had not, the Protector told him, "Then lave your dirertion with my secretary, and yout shall soon hear from me." Upon this oreasion that great man did not stay to negotiate or to explain, by loner, tetions niemorials, the reasomablemess of his demand. No; though there was a French minister residing here, he did not so murl as actuaint him with the story, but immediately sent amma-sl-wnr or two to the Channel, wiah orders to seize every French ship they could meet with. Aceordingrly, they rethrned in a few days with two or three French prizes, which the Protector ordered to be immediately sold, and ont of the produce he paid the Quaker what he demanded for his ship and cargo. Then he sent for the Frencla Minister, gave him an account of what had happened, and told him there was a balance, which, if he pleased, sloould be paid in to him, to the end that he might deliver it to those of his rountrymen who wore the owners of the French ships that had bern so taken and sold.-IIoon's CuomWELL, eh. 16, p. 211 .
4777. REPROACH, Escape from. Nifoleon $I$. [During his Egyptian (ampaign he with a party of scientifie men visited Suez. The tide rose twenty feet, and, coming suddenly, they were greatly endangered for a time.] "" Inad I perished in that manner, like Plataoh," said Napolcon, "it would hare furnished all the preachers in Christendom with a magnificent text against me."-Abhot't's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 12.
4778. REPROACH, Gentle. Anaragoras. [Being destitute he resolved to starve.] Pericles conjured him, in the strongest and most moving terms, not to throw his life away; adding, that it was not Anaxagoras but himself that was to be lamented, if he was so unfortunate as to lose so wise and faithful a friend; one who was so capable of giving him wholesome counsels, in the pressing emergencies of the State. Anaxagoras then, uncovering a little his head, spoke thus to lim: "Pericles, those who need the light of a lamp take care to feed it with oil." This was a gentle and at the same time a keen and piercing reproncli.-Rollin's Hist., Book 7, ch. 3 , ลิ 2.

477\%. REPR001, Meekness in. Dr. Taylor. [The martyr was burning at the stake.] One of the executioners " cruelly cast in fagot at him, which hit upon his head and brake his face that the blood ran down his visage. Then said Dr. Taylor, 'O friend, I have harm enough-what needed that ?'" One more act of brutality brought his sufferings to me eud. "So stood he still withoui either crying or moving, with his hands folded together, till Soyee with a hallered struck him on the bend that the brains fell out, and the dead corpse fell down into the fire."Ihetr. of Ena. People, ss 660.
4780. REPROOF, Undeserved. Dr. Arnold. Once at Lalehan, when tenching a rather dull boy, he spoke rather sharply to him, when the pupil looked up in his fuce und said, "Why do you speak angrily, sir? iudered 1 am doing the best that I can." Years afterward he . . . snid, " I never felt so much in my life-that look nnd that speech I have never forgotten.' - -SMmas' BRIEF Bioghinlines, ]. 76.
4781. REPR00F, Undisturbed by, Wushington. A gentleman onee slept at Mount Vernon in the room ... [near by] he overheard, thengh the thin partition, the voire of Mrs. Washington. Ie conld but listen, and it was a cortain lecture whirh she was giving her lord . . . The great man listened in silence till she had done, and then, without a remark upon the subject in hand, said: "Now, good sleep to jou, my dear." ('Y(loredia of Biod., p. 10.
4782. BEPUBLIC in Decay, Roman. Thus boodily ended the Civil War, which the Semate of Rome had undertaken ngainst Cessar, to escape the reforms which wore threntened by his second consulship. They had invohuntarily rendered their country the best serviee which they were rapable of confuring upon it, for the attempts which Ciesar would have made to mmend a system too decayed to benefit by the process had been rendered foreverimpossible by their porsistence. The free constitution of the Republic had issued at last in elections which wure a mockery of representation, in eourts of las which were un insult to justice, and in the conversion of the Provinces of the Empire into the feeding-groumds of a gluttonous aristoeracy. In the army alone the Roman character and the Roman honor survived.-Fborde's C.esan, (ll. 25.
4783. REPUBLIC Presaged. John Cabot. In April the fleet left Bristol; and on the morning of the 24 th of June, at in point about the middle of the eastern coast of Labrador, the gloomy shore was seen. This was the real diseovery of the Americon continent. Fourteen montlis elapsed before Cohmbus reached the coast of Gniana, and more than two years before Ojeda and Vespueci came in sight of the mainland of South America. Cabot explored the shore-line of the country which he had discovered, for several hundred miles. ILe supposed that the land was a part of the dominions of the Cham of Tartary; but inding no inhabitants, he went on shore, according to the terms of his commission, planted the flag of England, and took possession in the name of the English king. No man forgets his mative land; by the side of the flag of his adopted country Cabot set up the bamer of the Republic of Veniee-anspicions emblem of another thag that should me day float from seato sea.-Ridpatis's U. S., ch. 6, p. 77.
4784. REPUTATION, Blemlshed. Nitpoleon $I$. The principal charges brought against Napoleon are the massacre of the $[2000]$ prisoners at Jatia, and the poisoning of the sick in the hospitat there, the execution of the Duke d'Enghion, the invasion of Spain, the divoree of Josephine and the war with Russin.-Ambotr's Napoleon 13., vol. 2, ch. 12.
4785. REPUTATION, Changeful. Robert Burus. Burns flrst came upon the world as at prodigy ; and was, in that character, entertained by it in the usual fashion, with lond, vague, tumultuous wonder, speedily subsiding into censure and neglect ; till his enrly mad most mournful denth again awnened an enthusiasm for him, which, especially us there was now nothing to be done, mad much to be spoken, has prolonged itself even to mur own time. - CasWIVE'S I3VHNA, p. 14.
4786. REPUTATION, A deceptive. Chith; XII. Old Dr. Franklin used to say that if a man makes a sheep of himself, the wolves will eat him. Not less true is it, that if a man is generally supposed to be a shece, wolves will be very likely to try and eat him. Thre kings. neightors and allies of Charles, hearing on all hands that the young king was a fool, and knowing that he was only a boy in years, concluded that it would be an excellent time to satisfy some ancient grubleres against Sweden, and to wrest a few provinces from its territory. . . . Sweden was alamed. Mer old generals were dead, her armies were umbed to war, and the king was thought to be a boy-self-willed and incapable. [IIe proveri one of the gratest gencrals of Earope.]-Cvelopedia of lifoc., p. 435.
4787. REPUTATION, Evil. Einglıme. There was one province of our island in which, ats Procopins had been told, the gromed was covered with serpents, and the nir was such that moman conld inhale it and live. To this desolate region the spirits of the departed were ferried over from the land of the Franks at midnight. A strange race of fishermen performed the ghastly office. The speech of the dead was distinetly heard by the boatmen ; their weight made the keel sink deep in the water ; but their forms were invisible to mortal eyc. Such were the marvels which an able historian, the contemporary of Belisarius, of Simplicins, and of Tribonian, gravely related in the rich and polite Constantinople, tonching the country in which the founder of Constantinople had assumed the imperial purple. -Macadlay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 5.
4788. REPUTATION, False. Aristides. Callias, who was a near re?ntion of Aristides, and the most wenlthy eitizen in $\Delta$ thens, was eited to apear before the judges. The accuser, laying very little stress on the camse itself, reproached him esperially with permitting Aristides, and his wife and children, to live in poverty, at a time when he himself rolled in riches. Callias, perceiving that these repronehes made a strong impression on the judges, summoned Aristides to dechare before them whether he had not often pressed him to accept of large sums of money, and whether he had not obstinately refused to accept of his offer, giving for maswer that he had more reason to boast of his poverty than Callias of his riches; that many persons were to be fonnd who made a good use of their wealth, but that there were few who bore their poverty with magnanimity and even with joy; and that none had eanse to blush at their condition but such as had recluced themselves to it hy their ideness, their intemperance, their profusion ar dissolats condele!. Iristides decelaren that his kinsmm latd told mothing hat the truth; amb adeled, that press avery wish lor superthitios and who rontimes ble wants of life within the naryowest limits, besides jus fireing hime firom athousamd importumate rares, athil lemving hime so much master ol histime as to devote it entirely to the public. it mprosimates him, in some mosisure ou thr locity, who is wholly void of rares or wants. 'lhere was no man in the assembly but, at his leaving it, would have rhosen to be Aristides, though so poor, rather than Callias with all his riches.-RomaN's Masi., Book 6, S 17.

I7W9. REPUTATION, Fictitious. Gemeral Churles lae. A.D. 1756. [An English udvent. urer who protemed to be an experienced soldier, a man of great audacity and an abominable meddler. Congress made him the second in eomnand of its armies, Washington being the first. New York had heen evacuated.] The army sighed for the coming of Lee, not knowing that he had advised to give up the forts in Charleston Ifarbor without firing aginn. [The brave Monltric drove away the immense British force, in spite of Lee's interference and opposition. but Lee took the glory, ind was promoted.] A Now York oflleer wrote: " He ishourly expected as if from heaven." . . . Yet Lee with mll his ill-concealed aspirations, had not one talent of a commander. Je eond never see anything in its whole, or devise a comprehensive plan of action, hut by the habit of his mind would fasten upon somedetail and nlways timd fault.-Bancuorr's U. S., vol. 9, eh, 10 .
4790. REPUTATION, Field for. Wishington. Early in the session [of the Colonial Congress] John Adams made a powerful address, in the course of which he sketelied the condition and wants of the coantry and of the amy. The necessity of appointing a commander-in-chief and the qualities requisite in that hign onlecer were dwelt upon ; and then the speaker eoneluded by putting in nomination George Washington, of Virginia. Is soon as his mame was mentioned, Washington arose and withdrew from the hall. For a moment he was overpowered winh a sense of the responsibility which was about to be put upon him, and to his friend Patrick llenry le said, with tears in his cyes: "I fear that this day will mark the downfall of my reputation." On the 15 l h of June the nomination was unatiomously confirmed by Congress ; and the man who had saved the wreek of Braddock's army was called to build a nation.-RidPatis's U.S., ch. 38, p. 301.
4791. REPUTATION, Mixed. Alexander. It must be confessed, that good and evil, virtues and vires, were never more equally blended in any prince. But this is not all ; for Alexander appears very different, aceording to the times or cireumstances in which we considur him, as Livy has very jusily observed. In the inguiny he makes concerning the fate of Alexanders arms, supposing he had turned them foward Italy. he diseovers in him a kind of donble dlexander: the one wise, temperate, judicious, brave, intrejpid, but it the same time prodent and circumspect; the other immersed in all the wantonness of a laughty prosperity ; vain, proud, arromint, ficry: softemed by voluphomimes. abiancloned to intemperano e imm excesses: in a worl, resembliner larins rather than Alexinder : and having made the Xacedonians degrenernte into sll the vires of the lersians, hy the new turn of mind and the new manuers lie nssmoned aftur his conquests.- Romans's Mist., Book 15, $\pm 19$.
[7922. REPUTATION preserved. Abrahtrm $L i n$ colu. Inone respert I'reident Lincoln nehieved a wonderfin sucecess. Ile matnatued, through the terrible trials of his administration, a reju. tation, with the great borly of the people, for the sullied intergity of purjose mul of condert. which even Wianington dial not sumpass, and which no l'resident since Wishington has equal-led.-Raynond's Lincuin, ch. 21, p. 716.

478:3. REPUTATION for Probity. Cato. [It is said of Cato the Voungor, ] his reputation enme to be so grent that a certain ombor, in a canuse where only one witness wis prodnced, said to the judges," the man's evidenee is not sullecient to goby, not even if it was C'ato's." It grew, indeed, into a kind of proverb; when people were speaking of strange and ineredible things, to say. "I wonld not believe such a thing, thongh it were allirmed by C'ato." - Pleutarch'b Cato TIE VOLNaEAR.
1794. REPUTATION, Stained. William Pitt. [At the elose of the war between England and France, it was proposed in the treaty of peace] that cacle nation shonld retain its arepuisitions; but [Pitt] delayed the settlement of the epochs, till the fleet of one humalred and fifteen vessels, which had sailed on the vary day of his answer to the proposition of Choisenl [the Freneh minister] could nake the conguest of Belle-lsle. This is the great stan on the fume of William Pitt. Every object of the war had been aceomplished ; but he insisted on its continnance for the purpose of making more extended aequisi-tions.-Bane'moft's U. S., vol. 4, ch. 17.
4795. REPUTATION for Veracity. James $I I$. lle was on the throne; and his tirst aet was to neelare that he would defend the Church, and would sirictly respect the rights of his people. The estimate which all parties had formed of his elaracter added weight to every word that fall from him. . . . Satire itself had never represented him as a man likely to court public favor by professing what he did not feel, and by promising what he had no intention of performing. On the Sunday which followed his aceession, his speceh was quoted in many pulpits. "We have now for our chureh," eried one loyad preacher, " the word of a king, and of a king who was never worse than his word." This pointed sentence was fast circulated through lown and eomery, and was soon the watehword of the whole Tory party. - Macaulay's Eno., ch. 4, p. 413.
4796. REQUEST, Waiting for a. Alexander. We are first to aeknowlerlge and admire, in Al. exander, a happy disposition, cultivated and improved by an excellent education. Ife had a grant, noble, and gencrous soul. He delighted in bencfiecnec not liberality-qualities he had acquired in his infant years. A young lad, whose business it was to gather up and throw the balls when he played at tennis, to whom he had given nothing, taught him a good lesson on that subject. As he always threw the hall to the other players, the king, with un nugry air, eried to, him, "Am I, then, to have no ball ?"'"No. Sir,", replied the lad, "you do not ask me for it." This witty und realy answer gave ereat sat isfaction to the prince, who fell a latughg, and afterward was very liberal to him.-Rohas's liser., Baok 15, s 19 .
4797. RESEMBLANCE, Startling. ChristCiesar. Strange mad starting resemblance between the fite of the founder of the kingrdom of this world and of the Founder of the kingdom not of this world, for which the first was a preparation. Each was denounced for making himself a king. Each was maligned ns the friend of publicans and simners; each was betrayed by those whom he had loved and cared for: mach was put to denth, and Casaralso was believed to lave risen again and ascended into henven and hecome a divine being. - Frocde's C.sisan, ch. 28.
4798. RESENTMENT, Cruel. Alerunder. Alexander, ineensed at the opposition he had met with [at Tyre], and the losses his army had sustained, forgot his ust il clemency. Ile ordered the city to be burat to the ground; 8000 of the inhabitants had been put to the sword, in the final assault and entry of the Macedonians, of the prisoners taken with arms in their hands; 2000 were crucified, and the rest, to the amount of 30,000 , sold as slaves. The conduct of Alexander was yet more inhuman on the taking of Gaza, which immediately followed the capture and demolition of Tyre.-Tytheris IIst., Book 2 , ch. 4, p. 185.
4799. RESENTMENT, Infamous, Benedict Arnold. In Washington's opinion, there was not in the army "a more active, more spirited, and more sensible officer" than Arnold, the oldest brigadier ; but in the promotions lie was passed over, on the pretext that Connecticut had already two major-generals. .

The slight rankled in Arnold's breast; to Washington he complained of the wound to his " nice feclings;" to Gates he wrote, "By heavens, I am a villain if I seek not a brave revenge for my injured honor." [1te became an infamons trator.]-1binchoft's U. S., vol. 9, ch. 19.
4800. RESENTMENT, Passionate. Mrurimin. [This Roman emperor had demanded of the virtuons and wealthy widow of the late Emperor Galerius the immediate gratification of his passions by marriage.] On this repulse, the love of Maximin was converted into fury : and, as witnesses and judges were nlways at his disposal, it was casy for him to cover his fury with an appearance of legal proceedings, and to assault the reputation as well as the happiness of Valeria. Iler estates were confiscated, her eunuchs and domestics devoted to the most inhuman tortures; and several innocent and respectable matrons, who were honored with her friendship, suffered death, on a false accusation of adultery. The empress herself, together with her mother Prisca, was condemned to exile.-Gmbon's Rоме, ch. 14, p. 488.
4801. RESENTMENT of Patriots. Lord Chatham. A.D. 1777. [In the House of Lords he said], "If I were an American as I am an Englishman, while a forcign troop was landed in my country, I never would lay down my arms ; never, never, never."-banchof's U.S., vol. 9, ch. 2 D .

4902. RESENTMENT, Publlo. To British Taration. [When the news of the Stamp Aet arrived at New York] it was not easy to describe the mumner in which the pople were affected. "I will wear nothing but homespun," exelaimed one citizen; "I will drink no wine," echoed another, mary that wine must pay a new daty. "I propose," eried a third, "that we dress in sheepskins with the wool on." All expressed their resentment in the strongest manmer.-bincroft's U. S., vol. 5 , ch. 10.
4803. RESENTMENT, Savage. Grepk Einperor Themedore Lascaris. The cruclty of the emperor was exnsperated by the pmags of sickness. the appronch of a preninture end, and the suspicion of poison and magic. The lives mad forthues, the eyes nad limbs, of his kinsmen and nobles, were snerificed to each sally of passion; und before he died, the son of Vataces might deserve from the people, or, at lenst, from the court, the appellation of tymut. A matron of the family of the Palaologi land provoked his anger by refusing to bestow her beauteous danghter on the vile plebeian who was recommended by his eaprice. Without regard to her hirth or age, her body, as high as the neck, was inclosed in a sack widh several cats, who were pricked with pins to irritate their fury ngainst their unfortumate fellow-captive. - Ginson's Rome, ch. 62, p. 145.
480.4. BESENTMENT withheld. Robbery. Anytus was very fond of Alcibiales, and happening to make an entertninment for some strangers, he desired Alciliades to give him his company. Alcibindes would not accept of the invitation, but having drmat deep with some of his aequaintance at his own house, he went thither to play some frolic. The frolic was this: Ho stood at the door of the room where the guests were entertained, and seeing a great number of gold and silver cups upon the table, he ordered his servints to take half of them and earry them to his own house ; and then, not vouchsating so mueli as to enter into the room himself, as soon as he had done this he went away. The company resented the affront, and said he had beliuved very rudely and insolently to Anytus. "Not at all," said Anyius, " but ruther kiudly; since he has left us half, when he know it was in his power to take the whole."-Plutancu's "Alchbianes." 4805. RESENTMENT of Wrongs. The Irish Gentleman. [Being despoiled of their hands the old Milesian proprietor] seldom hetook himself to any peaceful calling. Trade, indeed, he thought a fur more disgraceful resource than marnuding. Sometimes he turned freebooter. Sometimes he contrived, in defiance of the law, tolive by coshering-that is to say, by quartering limself on the old tenants of his family, who, wretched as was their own condition, could not refuse a portion of their pittance to one whom they still regarded as their rightfal lord. The mative gentleman who had beea so fortunate as to keep or to regain some of his land too often lived like the petty prince of a savage tribe, and indemnified himself for the humiliations which the dominant race made him suffer ly governing his vassuls despotically, by kerping a rude harem, and by maddening or stupefying himself daily with strong drink. Politically he was insignitic no statute, indeed, excluded him from the IIonse of Commons; but he had alnost us little chunce of obtuining a sent there as " man of color has of being chosen a sentator of the United States. In fact, only one Papist had been returned to the Irish Parlianent since the Restoration.-Macaulay's Ena., ch. 6, p. 120.
4806. RESERVE, Sooial. Stimull Johnson. Though in stern, true-born Englishman, and fully prejudiced ugainst ull other natious, he hud discernment enough to see, and candor enough to censure, the cold reserve too common among Englishmen toward strungers: "Sir (suid hei), two men of any other nation who are shown into a room together, at a house where they are both visitors, will immedintely find some conversation. But two Ergglishmen will prohably go each to a different window, and remain in obstinate silence. Sir, we as yet do not enough understand the common rights of humanity." Boswell's Joinson, p. 489.
4807. RESIDENCE, Intolerable. Reign of Charles II. If the most fashionable purts of the capital could be placed before us, such as they then were, we should be disgusted with their squalid appearance, and poisoned by their noisome atmosphere. In Covent Garden a filthy and noisy market was held close to the dwellings of the great. Fruit-women screamed, carters fought, cabbage-stalks and rotten apples necumulated in heaps at the thresholds of the Countess of Berkshire and of the Bishop of Durham.-Macaulay's Eng., eh. 3, p. 333.
4808. RESIGNATION, Coercion by. Napoleon I. [The Dircetory at Paris were alarmed when they learned that in one month Napoleon lad become the most famous mun in Europe.] They determined to cheek his career. Kellerman . . . they consequently appointed his assoriate in command. . . . Napoleon promptly but respectfully tendered his resignation, saying, " One bad general is better than two good ones; war, like government, is mainly decided by tact." This decision brought the Directory immediately to terms.-Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ©h. 5.
4809. RESIGNATION, Easy. Abrahain Lincoln. Being informed of the death of [the Confederate] John Morgan, he said, "Well, I wouldn't crow over anybody's death ; but I can take this as resignedly as any dispensation of I'rovidence."-Raymond's Lincoln, p. 750.
4810. RESIGNATION, Serene. Oriental. Abhassil, the sister of the Caliph of Bagrad, first lost her husband, then was driven from her palace to live in extreme destitution. Her reply to an inquirer into her distress is a celebrated eximple of serene fortitude among Oriental moralists: "Once I owned a pulace and slaves, now I have but two sheepskins to cover me. Heaven must lave seen cause to afflict me; I bow to its dispensations and am content." Appleton's Cyclopedia, "Abbassa." 4811. RESIGNATION, strength for. Be. reurement. At the siege of Barcelona in 1705, Captain Carleton witnessed the following affecting fact, which he tells us in his memoirs: "I saw an old oflleer, having his only son with him, a fine young man ubout twenty yeurs of age, going into their tent to dine. While they were it dimer, in shot took off the heal of the son. The futher immenliately rose up, and first looking down upon bis hemdless child, und then lifting up his eyes to Ilenven, while the tears ran dlown, his checks, only sitid, 'Thy will be done.'" is12. Resistance, Popular. Jumes II. He forced a loman Catholic president uponia l'rotestant college. [See moreat Timothy Lall, No. 2.] The lisishop of Oxford was quirtly installed by proxy, but only two members of Magdalene College attended the ceremony. Many slgns showed that the spirit of resistance had spread to the common people. The porter of the college threw down his keys. The butler refused to scrateh Hough's nume out of the buttery book, and was instantly dismissed. No blacksmith could be found in the whole city who would force the lock of the president's lodgings. It was necessary for the commissioners to employ thelr own servants, who broke open the door with iron burs.-Macaulay's Eno., ch. 8, p. 277.
4813. - Bostoriatus. ^.D. 176.). The daybrenk of Wednesiny, the 14 th of August, saw the effigy of Oliver [the king's stamp offlcer] tricked out with emblems of linte and [George] Grenville [late king's ministers] swinging on the bough of a stutely elm, the pride of the neighborhood, known as the Great Tree, . . . near the entrance of the town. The pageant had been secretly prepared ly Boston mechanies . . . after lark . . images borne on a bier . . . they passed down the main street, marched direetly through the old State IIouse, shouting, ... "Liberty, Property, no Stamps." They. . made a funeral pyre for his effigy in front of his own house. [Oliver resigned his office.]Bancroft's U. S., vol. 5, ch. 16.
4814. RESISTANCE, Provoked. Legislation. In the Assembly which introduced the resolution the ecclesiastical tithes, which, . . . in the first instunce, had been declured redeemable, were abolished, a few days liter, without compensation. . . Against this act of spoliation the Abbe Sieyès protested in a vehement and well-reasoned speech, and the debate was protracted to some length; but the measure was eventually carried by an immense majority. "You huve unloosed the bull, M. l'Abbé," observed Mirabeau to Sieyès, "and you must not be surprised if he mukes use of his horns."Stidents' France, ch. 26, § 3.
4815. REsistance, Wisdom in. Massachusetts Plutriots. A.D. 1774. Everywhere the rural population... were anxiously weighing the issues in which they were involved. One spirit moved through them all. From the hills of Berkshire to the Penobscot they debuted the great question of resistance, as though God were hearkening; and they took counsel reverently with their ministers, and the aged, and the pious, and the brave in their villages.-Bancroft's $\mathbf{U}$. S., vol. 7, ch. 8.
4816. RESOLUTION, Success by. Putriots. [When Dr. Franklin was examined be a Committee of the whole Ifonse of Parliancont resperting the disposition of the Americm colonies, he said, Americuns] conld to without cloth from Englund. "I un of ophion, that hefore thelr old elothes are worn out they will have new ones of their own making." But, " cman they possibly find wool enough in North America $\psi^{\prime \prime}$ he was nuked. The answer showed the mettle of the people that he represented: "They have takell steps to increase the wool. Thry entered into general combination to cat no more limb, and very few hambs were killed last year. This cours- persisteal in will make a prodigions differrnce in the quantly of wool. The estahlishment of great manufactories is not necessary ; the people will ull spin and work for themsidves in their own houses."-Knmirts Bea., vol. th, cli. 18.
4817. Respect, Beneficial. Stumel Johnsom. Ton laty who endeavored to viadicate herself from blame for neglecting sorial nttention to the worthy neighliors, by saying, " 1 would go 10 them If it would do thein any grool," he suid, $\because$ What grood, mudam, do yon expect to have in your power to do them? It is showing them respeet, and that is doing them good."-13oswell's Johnson, p. 133.
4818. RESPONSIBILITY accepted. Bish/ap, Sincroft. [After the revolutionary Govermment by regency had been proposed] his alsence [from the House of Lords] drew on him many rontumelious censures: nor have even his eulopists been able to find any explanation of it which raises lis character. The plan of regenfy was his own. He had, a few duys before, in a paper written with his own hund, pronounced that plan to be clearly the hest that could be adopted. The deliberations of the Lords who supported that plan had been carried on under his roof. llis situation made it his semr duty to declare publicly what he thought. Nobody can suspect him of personal cowardice or of vulgar cupidity. It vas probably from a nervous fear of thoing wrong that, at this great emjuncture, he did nothing; but he should have known that, situated as he was, to do nothing was to do wrong. A man who is too serupulous to take on himself a grave responsibility at an important crisis ought to be too scrupulous to areept the phace of first minister of the Church and tirst peer of the realm.-Macaulay's Eve., ch. 10, p. 582.
4819. RESPONSIBILITY assumed. Ntutesmanship. On the 30th of April [1803] the treaty celing Louisiama to the United States was formally concluded [by Napoleon Bomaparte]. Mr. Monroe and Mr. [Chancedlor] Livingston had no anthority to negotiate for so vast in extent of territory; but the former was fally possessed of President Jefferson's views, nod felt assured that his instructions would have heen am;le if the condition of France had been forescen when he sailed from America. Commumication with Washington was impossible. Under the most favcrable circumstances, an answer could not be expected in less than three months. By that time the British slips would probably hold the mouths of the Mississippi, and the flar of st. George le waving over New Orleans. Monroe and Livingston both realized that hesitation would be fatal; and they boldly took the responsibility of purchasing a territory of unknown lmat proxigions extent, and of plediging the eredit of The Govermment for a sum which, rated liy the ability to pay, was larger thun a similar phedge to-day for tive humdred millions of dollars. . . The total rost of T. mulshan was, . . . in romind numbers, *15,060,000. [See more nt No. 2929.] - Bhanés Twenty Yeans of covimess, vol. 1, 1p. 7.
4820. RESPONSIBILITY, Awed by. Coutinental Conyress, July 1, 1776 . The order of the day come fiext, and Congress resolved itself " into a committere of the whole to take into considerntion the resolution respecting indepembence." For a few moments perfect silence prevailed; verery one fell the responsibility of acting fimally on the most important puestion ever agitated ill. 69.

4E21. RESPONSIBILITY evaded. John Willlmene. lis hatred of monare liy had induced him to ragage in a long sarics of comspiacies, first against the Protator, and then ngainst the Starts. Bat with Wildman's fanaticism was joined a teader care for his own safety. He ham a wonderfal skill in grazing the edge of treason. No man mulerstood breter how to instigate others to desperate enterprises by words which, when repeated to a jury, might seem innocent, or, at worst, umbiguous. Such was his emming, that, though always ploting, though always known to be plotting, and though long maligmantly wateled by a vindictive government, he eluded every danger, and died in his bed, ufter having seen two generations of his accomplieres die on the gallows.-Macaulay's Eno., eli. 5, p. 487.
4824. RESPONSIBILITY, Impressed by. Pericles. Whenever he was to appear in the assembly, before he cume ont of his house he used to shy to himself, " Remember, Pericles, that thou art going to speak to men born in the arms of liberty; to Greeks, to Athenimus."-Rombn's Hist., Book 7, ch. 7, & 7.
4823. RESPONSIBILITY, Individual. Fredarick the Great. [With base pertidy he captured Silesia io a time of general peace.] The selfish rapacity of the King of Prussia gave the signal to his neighbors. His example quieted their sense of shame. His success led them to underrate the diftlenty of dismembering the Austrian menarchy. The whole world spring to arms. On the head of Frederick is all the blood which was shed in a war which raged during many years and in every quarter of the glove- the blood of the column of Fontenoy, the blood of the brave mountaineers who were slanghtered at Culloden. The evils produced ly this wirkedness were felt in lands where the name of Prussia was naknown; and, in order that he might rob a neighbor whom he had promised to defend, black men fought on the emast of Coromandel, and red men scalped each other by the great lakes of North America. Macadiay's Frederick the Great, j. 32.
4824. RESPONSIBILITY by Induigence. Williain Prince of Orange. The French invasion produced a complete change. The suffering and terrified people raged fiercely against the goverument. In their madness they attacked the bravest captains and the ablest statesmen of the diatresad Commonwemth. IV: Ruyter was insulted by the rable. [be Will was torn in pleres berfore the gate of the patare of the States-who hand tie share in the guill of the murter', but wher, on this oreasion, as on amother lament able oravion twonty ymirs later, extemed to crimes jurpertrated in his romese an fadulgomen whin'l has heft a stain on his ghory, hemmer chinef of the fowermment wifloat a tival.- Mas.as: Lay's Exi., (H. : , p. 20.l.

AN2.T. RESPONSIBILITY, Knowledge gives.
 agranst. the Britivh Govermment. for damges done to Americon commeree by confederate ernasers during the ('ivil Wiar still remained innsethed. These remisers had been buill mad empipped in English ports, and with the knowledge of the Finglish fovermment. Such 14 proceceding was in plain viohation of the law of nations, even if the indepemdenere of the Confederate states had hern reeognizel. Time and again Mr. Seward remonserated with the British anthorities, but withont efterel. After tho war Great britain berombenhrmed at her own conduct, and grew anxions for at sethement of the dimbenty. On the 2ith of Fehmury, 18 in, a joint high commission, composed of tive British and tive American statesmen, aswembled at Washington City. From the fact that the cruiser Alabima hat done most of the injory comphaned of, the chaims of the L'nited States were called Tome Alabama ('latmes. Diter mucheliscassion, the commissioners framed a treaty, known as the Trenty of Washington, by which it was arreed that all clatims of either mation against the other should be submitted to a bomed of urbitation th we appointed by friendly nations. Sinchat court was formed, nut in the summer of 1822 convened at Geneva, Switzerhmed. The canse of the lwo mations was impartially henrd, and on the 14 th of September deeided in favor of the United States; Great Britain was obliged, for the wrongs that she land done, to pay into the Federal treasury $$ 15,500,000$. LRidpatits U. S., ch. 67, p. 5.06.
4826. RESPONSIBILITY, Offcial. Fimmo Tulioth. The Casar had rejpected, with abhorrence, a mandate for the levy of :mextrominary tas ; anew superindiction, which the prefeet had otfered for his sigmature ; and the fathful pieture of the publice misery, by which he hated been obliged to justify his refusal, offended the court of Constantias. . . . After stating his own combuct, he proceds in the following terms: "Wis it possible for the diseiple of Plato and Aristotle to act otherwise hatn i have done? Could I abamdon the manapy subjects intrusted to my care? Was I not railed upon to defend them from the repatad injurias of these unfecling robbers? A iribuae who deserts his post is punished with death, and deprived of the honors of burial. With what justice could I pronounce his sentence, if, in the hour of danger, I myself nerglected a duty far more sacred and far more important? God has placed me in this elevated post, His providence will guard and support me. Should I be condemned to sulfer, I shall derive comfort from the testimony of a pare and upright conscience. Would to Iteaven that I still possessed a counsellor iike Salluat! If they think proper to sedod me a succeson', I shall submit whant relimetance; and had murh bather fimprove the short opportunlty of dobing good than coljoy os long and lasting lmpmily of evil."-Gimon's Rome, (li. 10, 1. : 4.

Amiz7. RESPONSIBILITY of Power. Aguinst Shatery. The shavery agitation was a wrecsuity of the Northern theory of government. Daty is the correlative of power; and if the Government nt Wiashington, in Vankere estimation, was ronsolidated organization, with power to promote the genemal welfare by my mems it maght derme exnedient, it was proper that it should overthrow the hated lastitution of shavery at the Soulh. The ceatral dovermment was responsible for lis contimamere or existencer in proporthon to its power over it. Under these circumstances, the daty of arthig on the sublect of shavery was lomperions, and amomoded to a moral nerossity.-Poliabo's Seeond Yeall of the W.st, ch. lif, p. :3.

4W2W. RESTITUTION, Consolentious. C'romwell. Noties, ulso, that when he was at Cume \&ion, Elob. All these smma now were returned as moneys mon mo principle his own.- Hood's Chomweas., th. 2, p. $4 \pi$.
48429. RESTRAINT, Difficult. Lither. [IIt, wan demouncel as worthy of excommaniention. I Concerning himself lather siys: "I cannot deny that I an more violent than I ought to be ; they know that, and for that very rason ought. not to have excited the dog! How hard it is to temper the hent and restrain the pen, thot knowest from premonal experience. 'lhis is the reason why I have always heen unwilling publis!y to prochaim my canse. And the more I am disposed not to do so, the more 1 nm comprelled against. my will: and this happens beeamse of the severest arrusutions whirh are hemped upon God's Word mad myself. And so shameful has this been, that even it my pen and my impotuosity lma not carried me away, in heart of stone would have been moved to take up arms; how much the more I that am impethous by mature, and possess not "very dull pen!"-Ran's Laminer, ch. 7, p. is.
4830. RESULTS, Decisive. Admirel Nelsom. [Wthen Nelson found, after a long searelt, the French tleet at Alexandria, he prepared for batthe, and ] exchimed that before the morrow his fate would be a peerage or Westminster Abbey. -Kisigut's Eno., vol. 7, ch. 20, p. 3 35.
4831. RESULTS, Far-reaching. Natiomality. Captain Argall was sem with an armed vessel to the eomst of Mane. The avowed object of the vogage was to protect the Engrish fishermen who frequented the waters between the Bay of Fundy and Cape Cod, but the real purpose was to destroy the colonies of France, if any should be fornd within the limits of the territory chamed by England [which he did]. . . . On his way back to Virginia he made a descent on the Dutel traders of Manhatton Ishand, destroyed many of their huts, and compelled the settlers to acknowledge the sovereignty of England. The result of these outrageous proceedings was to confine the French settlements in America to the banks of the St. Lawrence, and to leave a clear coast for the English thag from Nova Soold Wo Floridh. Rabratu's U. S., ch. 11, p. 100.

48:3\%. RESURRECTION hinted. I!! .lwientw.
 Trgimesme.] When it was known at Athris that the dead loolies hat laem loft withont interment, the people were highly enraged, and cansed the whole woight of their rewentment io fall inom those whom they doemod guilty of that erinus. The ancionts helil it a great one not to provide Nopulture for thedend; and we maty ohererve, that, aftur all their battlos, the tirst cure of the ronquered, notwhithstumbling the sense of their mis. fortume and their great aftliction lor aboody defeat, was to demand a suspension of urms from the vietor, in order to paty the last dutios to those who had fallen in batile, upon which iney belirved their happiness in another life depended. Thay had little or no iden of the resmarertion of the boxdy; but, however, the Pagans, liy ile soul's comeern for the body ufter denth he religions regrar! patd to it, and the zeal winu which they rendered solemn honors to the demd, showed that they had some confused notion of a resurrection, which subsisted among all mations, and deserendad from the most ancient tradition, though they could not clearly distlaguish it. ['The vietorions genembs were sentenced to death for this neglect.] Rollin's llistr., Book 8, ch. 2, 务 5 .

4833, Retaliation, Popular. Jirginia Colonists. [The Stump Aet was passed.] Soom they resolved that the aet should recoil on England, and hegan to he prond of frugality; articles of laxury of British manufacture were banished, and threadhare conts were most in fash-joh.-Banchofy's U. S., vol. 6, ch. 13.
493.4. RETIREMENT, Rellgious. William Coroper. Mrs. ['nwin's inthence produced the Moral Satires. "The Task" was born of amore potent inspiration. One day Mrs. Jones, the wife of a neighboring elergyman, came into Olney to whop, and with her cane her sister, Lady Ausien, the widow of a baronet, a woman of the world, who had lived much in France, gay, sparkling and vivacious, but, at the same time, full of feeting even to overflowing. The apparition acted like maric: on the rechase. Ifedesired Mrs. Unwin to ask the two ladies to stay to tea; then shank from joining the party which he had himself invited ; ended by joining it, umd, his shyness giving way with a rush, engaged in miniated conversation with Lady Ausien, and walked with her part of the way home. On her an equally great affeet appenrs to have been produced. A warm friendship it once sprang up, and before long Lady Austen had verses udilressed to her as Sister Annie. Her ladyship, on her part, was smitten with a great love of retirement. . . . That a woman of fashion, accustomed to French salons, should choose such an abode, with a pair of Puritims for her only society, seems to sliow that one of the Puritans, at least, must have possessed great powers of attraction.-Smitu's Cowner, ch. 5.
4835. RETORT, A crushing. Samuel Johnson. However infavorable to Scothod, he uniformly gave liberal praise to George Buchanan as a writer. In a conversation concerning the literary merits of the two countries, in which Buchanan was introduced, a Scotchman, imagin.
lug thim on this gromad be shomld have in une dombled trimmph over lim, exthinined, "Ah, Ibr. Johnomb, what wonlal you have said of Buchan"un lath he beroll m Englishman?" "Why, Nitr have sald of Suchuan, hat lee hero un Emoliahmith, what I will now say of hin us u díntel. "ma-lime he was ha onity man of gemine his romotry ever produred."-bosw bla's. Jomason, 1. $44_{i}^{7}$.

4*is6. RETORT, A sarcantle. Michurd I. Mlchard ... of Enghand was sathated with the glory and misfortunes of his tirst adventure: and he presimed to cleride the exhortations of Fulk of Nenilly, who was not nomshed in the pressene of kings. "Conadvise tate," said Phatagenet, " to dismiss my three danghters, pride, avarice, mad incontinence: I bequenth them to the most alesorving ; my pride to the knights ten:phars, my rontinenre to the prehates."-Gumos's Rome, ch. 60, p. 60.

48B7. RETALIATION deolined. Buginzt. [lle was the great Ottomm gencral.] No sooner was Timour informed that the enpfive ottomm was at the door of histent, than he gradionsly stepped forward to receive him, seated hima by his side, mul mingled with just reproaches a soothing pity for his runk and misfortune. " Alas!" suid the "mperor," the decree of fate is now neromplished hy your own fanlt ; it is the wel, which you have woven, the thorns of the tree which yourself have phated. I wished to spure, and even to nssist, the champion of the Moslems; you braved our thrents; you despised our friendship; you forced us to enter your kingdon with our invinciblo armies. Behold the event. Ihad you vanquished, I am not lynornnt of the fate which you reserved for myself and my troops. But I disdain to remante ; your life and honor are secare; and I shmll express my gratitude to God hy my chemency to man."-Ghmon's Rome, ch. 65, p. 267.
4838. RETRACTION refused. Alexunder $I I$. Stephens. [Judge Cone of Georgia atturked stephens with a dirk-knife becouse of thrents supposed to have been made by the latter, who was a small man nud a semi-invalid.] Stephens, half fainting, fell upon his back. The giant Cone was ut his thront in u moment ; his hend, by a grip of iron, way hell ugainst the eruc! floor: the keen and blood-dripping knife was incla aloft before him roudy for the list fatal thrist, Dut still the poor, pale face of the little hero was set and deti-unt-his black eyes still fhashed unduntedly. "Retract, or l'll cut your cursed thront!" hissed Cone. "Cut! I'll never retract!" gasped the almost lifeless Stpphens. Like a thash the knife came down. With an almost superhmman effort the prostrate man caught it in his right hand. Cleun through the muscles, tendons, and bones of the hand it cut, then stuck fast and reached no vital part. With desperate strength Cone tried to wrench it free. With a grasp almost of death the horribly mangled and mutilated hand still held it fast. In the struggle Stephens was once more dragged to his fect. The blood was rushing in stremms from his many wounds. Ilis hold upon the knife which sought his brave heart began to relax. He was dying. But even when Le believed the next moment would be his last strong men came to his relief. The madman fond wins wocturad and lwad finst, - Nohton's D.ifix. 1i. StEi'ilenn, cli, 3, p. 2\%.

AWBSD. RETBEAT, Hasty. Ihatle of Spırn. 'J'lu' Euglishuray udvancerliu August, lolif, uul nat down before the walls of 'leronamion' 'The's were here foined by the ecerentrie Bimperor Maximilian, who, nfter abot ructhig to serve in the ranks ins a volinterer, at the mate of lot) arowns a alay, soun contrived to pratify his vanity by assuming the dircetion of the operathond of the sioge, A French force was dispatehed torelleve 'feromanne, umber the orders of the Diake of Lonsguseville. $\qquad$ The twonamies met on tha 10 h h of Augrast, batween l'éronname nhal Blangis, whern, ufter a brief emomatar, the Fremeh gendarmariceonsalted their safety by a llight mo precipitate bhat the day has berome kloown in history us lhe " Battle of the Spuas." - Strubentre" Fliance, ch. 13, $\underset{1}{ } 8$.

A8. 10. $\qquad$ " Brttle of Spurs." [In 1518, 11,00t) French greudarmes, ut the shego ot ' 'éronnane, were suized with somo inexplicolbe panic at the lirst slack with the riving of the Empreror Nuximiliun und lled hastily from the panic-stricken tlight of their army, cmbled this "'Jlue Jhitle of the Spurs."-líNigira's ENa., vol. 2, ch. 16, p. 2tbs.
48.1. RETREAT impossible. Butlle of Trres. [The Simacens invaded Spuia and overthrew the Goths.] Notwithshanding the valor of the [5000] Surueans [under'Turik] Hey fainted under the weight of multitudes, and the phain of Xeres was overspresud with 16,000 of their dend bodies. " My brethren," suid Turik, to his surviving companions, " the enemy is before you, the sen is behind, whither would ye fly ? Follow your generul; I am resolved either to lose my lifo or to trimple on the prostrite king of the lionaans." -Ginbon's Rome, ch. 51, p. 253.
4842. RETREAT, Masterly. Battle of Brooklyn. At first the army seemed ruined. . . . It seemed an ensy thing for CHinton and IIowe to press on und capture all the rest. Yet, in a few hours, Washington brought together his shuttered forces, reorganized his brigudes, ami stood ready for an assault in the trenches buck of Brooklyn. During the 28th IIowe, who was in aluggisli, sensual num, ate pudding und waited for in fitter day. On the 29th there wns a henvy fog over island and buy und river. Washington, clearly perceiving that he could not bold his position, and that his army wis in grent peril, resolved to withalraw to New York. The enterprise was extremely luzarious, requiring secrecy, cournge and disputch. By eight o'elock on that memorable nipht every boat and trunsport that could be obtained was lying at the Brooklyn ferry. There, inder cover of the darkness, the ensburkation begin. Washington personally superintended every movement. All night with muffled oars the boatmen rowed silently back and forth, bearing the putriots to the northern side of the channel. At daylight on the following morning just as the last boat-load was lenving the wharf the movement was diseovered by the British. They rushed into the American intrenchments, and found nothing there except a few worthless guns. After a severe battle which had cost lim nearly 400 men, Howe hat gained possession of Long Island-and nothing more. Generni (trame whan wan comprotelnt jaige, derdared that Wishington's retreat wis the most masterly lie
 eli. :115, 1, 31!?

AMAB, RETRIBUTION begun. Lord Commal.
 And uow the day of retribition lime arrivid. '1'he 'rimumer [lard Halifind was walking through Wapping, when he saw a well-kiow fure lookjag ont of the whidow of an ale-house. He combl not the dererived. 'Ihe eyebrows, fir. deed, had berot shaved awny. 'The dress was that of 14 romanom sallor from Newonstle, mad was black with ioml-hlist ; but there wis no mistak. log the savige month and rye of Jerfroys. Thas nharm wis piven. In a moment the house wis surrounded hy lamdrods of people shakling bladgeons and hellowing curses. The fugitive's lifo Wus mated by ucominuly of the trula-buads, and he was entried lafore the lord nayor. . . . When the great inna, at whose frowa a few days befors the whole king lom lind trembled, was ilragged Lito the justice room begrimed with nsles, hale dend with fright, und followed by a raging multitude, the agitalion of the unfortamate mayor rose to the luight. Jie fell into dles, uind wis carrical to his bed, whenee he never rose. Mentiwhile the throng withont was constantly becom. fing nore munurons nid more suvige. Jeflreys begged to be sent to prison. . . . 'I'wo regiments of militin were drawn out to escort him, and found the duty a difflenlt one. It was repeatedly necessary for them to form, as if for the purpose of repelling a eharge of cavalry, und to present a forest of pikes to the mob. The thousinds who were disuppointed of their revenge pursued the conch, with howls of rure, to the gate of the Tower, brandishing cudgeis, and holiling up haters full in the prisoner's vlew. The wretched mun, meantime, was in convulsions of terror. IIe wrung his hands; he looked wildly out, sometimes at one window, and sometimes at the other, und was heurd even above the tumult crying, "Keep them off, gentlemen I for God's sake, keep them off $l^{\prime \prime}$ At length . . . he was lodged in the [Tower] fortress, where some of his most illustrious victims haid passed their last days, and where his own life wus destined to close in unspeakable fgnominy and horror.-Macaulay's Eno., ch. 10, p. 617.
4844. RETRIBUTION overlooked. Napoleon $I$. [Renred in an infidel uge.] Ilaving never been tanght any correct ideas of probation or retribustlon, the question whether a few thousand illiterate peasants should eat, drink and sleep for a few years more or less, was in his view of little importance compared with those great measures of political wisdom which should meliorate the condition of Europe for ages. It is Christianity alone which stamps importance upon each individual life.-Absotr's Napoleon B., vol. 1. ch. 1.
4845. RETRIBUTION, Senitary, Black Assize. In the year $15 \% 7$ the jail fever raged in the county juil at Oxford, and spread from the prison to the court, and from the court to the town. In the course of forty hours the lord chief baron (us the presiding judge was called), the high sheriff, the jurynen, and all who wera in the court room, to the number of three hundred, died of this malignant disease. The citizens fied in terror from the town, and, evor after, that sexslon of the court was called the" " 13 liock
 All," 1) 62.

 flockj he meknowlodgeal, with trues charlatha humility, that athongh lubocent before the law of the ciolnes for which he was aloont to salfar, his conserenco tolid hifu that he land heronguiliy of many fanlts and weaknosses, for whilel lio ac:cepted withont a murmur his present death as at maet and salatary explatlon. "I hasely ratithed," sadel he, in alluslon to the fate of Struitord, " an unjust scoutence, and the wimilar finjustice I am now to undergo la andeasomale rotribition for the pushhment I lntlited on an funocent matu. - Lamaitineis ('homwhid, j). 47.
4447. REVENGE, Bloody. Srpey lirbellion. As the Illghanders came to one of (ivarmi Wherelar's demi danghters thed naked to the groumbl. having bern suhjected to trentment worse than danth, they sat down, mat cutting off her hair, divialed it, with paie eonatemancers atad wrathlal eyes, between them, Eath one then slowly counted the mumber of thromis lie had, and with in solemon, fearfal onth, swore that for each batir one man slamid dia. An oath lie more than krpt.-(ieneitind Gianors 'Tonveis, 1. 328.

4*A8. REVENGE, Charaoteristic. Imifricin Indian. In conse of death ly violemere, the departed shade could not rest till nppeased by a retallation. Ilis kladred wondd "go a thousand miles for the purpose of revenge, over hills and mountains ; through large eane swamps, full of grapevines mal briers; over brond lakes, raphl rivers, und deep receks; and ail the way endinngered by poisonous smakes, exposed to the extremities of heat and cold, to hanger and thirst" . : often continulng from generation to generation . . . tribe against tribe . . pence was restored by ntoming pressonts. - Bancoowts U.S., vol. 3, eh. 20.
4848. REVENGE, Condescension of, Murin Theresm. [The empress-queen of Austria had been robbed of the province of Silesia by Frederick II.] Though the hanghtiest of princesses, though the most anstere of matrons, she forgot in her thirst for revenge both the dignity of her race and the purity of her eharucter, and condescended to flatter the low-loorn and low-minded concubine, who, having aequired influence by prostituting herself, retained it by prostituting others. Naria Theresa netnally wrote with her own hand a note full of expressions of esteem and friendship to her dear cousin, the duughter of the butcher Poisson, the wife of the publican D'Etioles, the kidnapper of young girls for the Parc-aux-cerfs -a strange cousin for the descendant of so many emperors of the West !-Macaulay's Fiamdehick tife Gielit, p. 77.
4850. REVENGE on the Dead. Paris. The fall of his [Louis XIII.] odious favorite [Concini] was hailed with extravagant deliglat by the citizens of Paris; the frantic populace disinterred his corpse, dragged it through the streets, tore it in pieces, and burned it to ashes.-Students' France, ch. 19, & 8 .

4W51. $\square$ Ihnarel. |on the ;oth of Jam. 11301, after the restoration of Charles 11. Berlyn recordsp: "This day (0) the stuperidons and lnserituble juigmentm of (ionl!) were the carcaseces of those areda-ribela cromwell, Bradshaw (the juilige who romilemmed his minjenty [('harles 1.], anil lrofon (son-In-law to the Unurpier), drugged ont of thelr suprorly tombes fis W'estmlnster, nmong tho kings, to 'Tylmrn, and hanged on the grallows there from nine la the
 that fatal and fignominions amomment, In a dop pit ; thomsamis of people who hal seren them la all their pride indug speretators."- Kinaitrés linu., vol, 4, (h. 15, 1, 2ts.

4\$52. REVENGE decitned. Mitthrin Ifile, $\mathbf{A}$ mun who land dome Sir Mathow Dinle a groat las. jury ramo ufterwaril to hima for his aivelee fa the mettlement of his estate. Sir Matherew fave his adven vory frankly to him, hut womld ace. (c) of no fer for it ; num theroby nhowal, botla that he conlal forgive ans a ('hristinn, and that has lum the spirlt of agentlemme, not to take money of one who had wrongeal him so grievonsly. When he was asked how he coblel use a man so kindly who lad wronged hitu so muthli, lils nta. swer wis, he thanked God he lual leirned to forget lijuarios.
4858. REVENGE, Determined. Wiomutis. [Mary ( Murray and his mbaremis were the ohjocts of her wrath in 1507, and she declared she would rather paril her erown thati lose lar revenge. IKinioht's Ena., vol. 3, cis. $0, ~ 1.130$.
1854. REVENGE, Dithonorable. Nifge of Ciazt. At length, after reprobied assamits, the city was taken by storm, aud its bruve inhalitanta perished almost to a man. 'Tl governor, Betis. whose nohle defence of his country was worthy of the applause even of an encmy, was dragged round the walls of the eity at the wheels of Al. exander's chariot. "The king," says Curtins. "glorled that, in this instance, he imitated tha exnmple of his progenitor, Achilles, in the vell. rennce he took on the dend borly of liector."TYtheit's IIst., Book 2, ch. 4, 1). 185.
4855. REVENGE, Fomale. I'urywitia. [She was the mother of Cyrus. The captured family of IIyciarnes, the Persian govornor, were] deliv. ered to Parysatis, to do with them as that motl. er, exaspernted to the iast excess by the trentment either done or intenied against her danghter Hamestris, should think fit. Thut cruel princess liegan by causing Roxann, whose benuty had been the ocension of all this evil, to be sawed in two, and ordered all the rest to be put to death, except Statirn, whose life slue grunted to the tears and the most tender and ardent soideitations of Arsnces. . . Such was the state of the affair at the death of Darius. Statira, as soon as her hasband was upon the throne, camsed Udiastes [the assassinator of her brother Teriteuchmes] to be delivered into her hands. She ordered his tongue to be torn out, and made him die in the most exquisite tormants she could invent, to punish the crime which hal occasioned the ruin of her family. . .. Parysatis on her side took her revenge on the son of Teritenchmes, whom the caused to be poisoned; and we shall see that Statiru's turn was not very remote. History has not a more tragical scenc, nor a more mon-

 dongh ha the most fatal manior to all who hand $\because 1$.
 matyer. Among ali harharonas malons, the right ut private revenge la nllowed; whind is and only ly ueressary, where there is mefther sulldelont umfibuide th the perab laws to apply to the vardety if eriminalaces, nor cowefue bore hany brmelt if thestate torarry such laws hato cexernhion. Among the nationt fermans, revenge was always homoruble-often meritorions. The imbeprodent warrior chasimen or vindiented with his awn hand the hajuries he had recedved or given: and he had mothing more to dremd than the resentment of the sons or klasmen of the enomy he sumerites ${ }^{\text {a }}$. The mutgistrate, conseions of hifs wenkuess, interposed, not to panish, but to rereonelle; and he was satistiod if he combld prer simade the aggressur to pmy, and the infured party to nerept the mederate flat interposed ns the price of blood.-'TyTisis's Ilist., Beok 6, ch. 3, p. 78.

AWiSt. REVENGE, Ignoble. Rritin of Chartes II. Sir John Coventry, a comintry gentleman, had in debnte, sueered at the proiltgacy of the court. In any former relign he would prohably have beren called before the Privy Connell mail committed to the 'lower. A different course was now taken. A gatur of bullies was secrerly sent to slit the nose of the offember. This ignoble revenge, Instend of quelling the spirit of opposition, ruised such in tempest that the king was compelled to submit to the cruel hmmiliation of passing nu act which nttuinted the instruments of his revenge, mad which took from him the pow er of pardoning them.-Macaulay's ENo., ill. 2, j. 191.

4\#ise. REVENGE, Implao ble, Wife of Bilisarius. From this pleasing and perhaps volumtary dehasion, Belisarias [the Roman genctal] was awakencl at syracuse hy the oflcions information of Macedonia ; and that female attendant, ufter requiring sum om for her secarity, produeed two chamberlains, who. like herself, had often beheld the adalteries of Antonim. A hasty tlight into $\mathbf{A}$ sin saved Theodosins from the justice of minjured hashand, who had signitied to one of his guards the order of his denth; but the tears of Antonimand her artful seductions assured the credilons hero of her lanoernce; and he stooped, against his fath mul julgment, to abandon those impradent friends who hat presumed to aceuse or doubt the chustity of his wife. The revenge of a guilty womm is implaenble and bloody; the unfortunate Macedonia, with the t wo witnesses, were seeretly arrested by the minister of her cruelty ; their tongues were cut out, their bodies were hacked into sinull pieces, and their remains were cast into the sen of Syracuse. -Gibhon's Rome, ch. 41, p. 185.
4850. REVENGE, Ingenious. Picture. When Attita took possession of the royal palnce of Milin, he was surprised and offended at the slght of 14 picture which represented the Ciesars seated on their throne, and the princes of 3cythia prostrate at their feet. The revenge whieh Attila in-their thage ai tributary gelid hefore the harom at 11. His.

AN(BO) REVENGE of Injustice. . Itil firit? Howned went hato inte of ilomee dungerons that.
 mother that was hirisyeven: hat they were undally ten or twefor fert moder grombi, whit flew was litterel with what had beenonerentraw, fint which was mont gronnd into puwder whent the dungen was dry, mal hit's paste when it wins damp. 1happ it usmally was, mad chlly, and foul, mad stinking, to a degrere that only the heroie benevoleme of a Howned conld lave lorme: to remain in it volmatarity. On this pulverized mad rotten araw, terming with vermhand surcharged with polsomons chlors, the walls and colling exareding tilthy, the prisomers shept, covcred fin winter whil a damp nand bilthy rug. Tho jail fever, of course, rugcil in all surh prisons, and oftern aprond lato the towns. It was common for judges, lawyers, mad jurymen to catch that malignam diserise from the prisomers whom they tried; the bar and the betuch of Emghad. lost some of their brightest ormments from this
 1. 44.

ANBI. Revenge, Persunal. Jatmes IIamilton. Murray, gamrilian of the infant King dmues and dictater of the kingdom, governed the unhapy comatry with vigor anil mdedress. 1312 a aroserited rembeman of gool family, James llamilton of Bothwellhumgh, whose wife Nurrny had loft to die in mbery and madness on the therestohd of her own dwelling, which had been bostowed by the regent on billemden, one of his partisans, swore toavenge at one his wife and his comatrys (bathering a haudfal of the earth which eovered the bier of his wife, he wore it within his girdle us an ctermal incentive to revenge: and repairing in disguive to the small town of Linlithgow, through which Murny had to prise 011 his return to Edinhorgh, he placed himself at a window, fired upon and killed the regent. We then momeded a horse andy for him behind the honse, mad ty swift flight esemped the regrent's guarids. "I nlone," eried the dying Murray, "could have sived the church, thas kingdon, and the king ; anmrehy will now devour them all!" - Lamabtine's Quben of Scots, p 38.
4862. -- Napmeon I. [When in exild at Ellat he sit..: :] " I never revenged myself for a prersomal injury duning the whole course of my life. - - Anootrin Napoleon B., vol, 2, ch. 23 .
4863. ReVENGE, Bavage. Ilusband's. [Robert, the pusilhanimons Emperor of Constantinople.] The anorous youth hal neglected his Greek bride, the danghter of Vataces, to introdure into the palace a leautiful maid, of a private though noble family of Artois ; and her mother had been tempted by the lustre of the purple to forfeit her engagements with a gentleman of Burgundy. Llis love was converted into rigge: The masembled this frionds. forcerd the pal. mee gatem, throw the mother into the sem, mad lis. Cutmanly cut off the buse mind Ifionof the wife or the faint glitutheringenf stich cloubifal and ment. lerod laghes, we shonlid be ficilined to bellever. first, that (with evory litir alfownace for the dif.
 CH. 61, 11. 117.

 ntiontit to loss than ifferen or twenty millions of ontr monsey : and, acocondly, lant wo nomple: at rev.

 by Aurusties, whese court was the moderst famliy of a private nemator, und whane millary 0 lablishament wiss caleninted for the defonere of the fromtlers, whithont uny anpiring vowe of comeflest, or aby merious mpredariofon of a forrign invasion.- (illunn's Romli, ch. (i, j. Int.

4*36. REVENUE from Injustioc. I'wisn. 'Jhe' patrimomy uf the sultan arises, in it gront imeasHere from the sonilacontion of tha estates of the viaiers mad bashaws: mad when he has oredosion to anpply his private purme, it comes hifon onty the: a oondemantion of one of these mifortamate grandees. On tha whole, the revemase of the 'Tirrkish empire me very ineonsidernble. lbut tho nb. solute power of the sulton miphles that delocet, and cancexcuta very grent profactenat a sumall ex.

4*60. REVENUE, Mimmanaged. Licign of fieorge III. A, I). 17(li). Henvy (omplatnts were made that the system of muking all the revenno oftlees in America sibuenre plawes, had led to such nbuses that an Americin ammal revenne of less than $£ 2000$ eost the extabhashment of tho customs of Grent Brituin between seven and eight thousind pounds a yemr.-Bancompr's U. S., vol. 6, ch. 5.
4867. REVERENCE, Excesaive. Ohsiquious. Willinm l'itt . . is suid to have knelt when he was with George II. in his closet, and to hurve bowed so fow at the levee that his hook a dose wis sern between his legs. - Kniciat's Eva., vol. 6, eh. 16, p. 252.
4888. RE TERENCE, Maternal. Alerinctit. IIe used to sembl magniflecot prescints to his mother ; but then he never would let her hinve any concern in the affairs of the government. She usad frequently to nake very severe eomphiniats upon that account ; but be always submitted to her ill-hmmor with grent mildness mul patienec. Antipater having one day written a long letter afoinst her, the king. nfter rending it, rejplied, "Antipater does not know that one single ten shed by a mother will obliterate ton thousand such letters as this."-Mohian's IInst., Buok 15, .
4869. REVERENCE for Parents. Alucients. Cyrus the Great, in the midst of his comutuests, and at the most brilliant erit of his good fortune, would not necept of the advantugeous offer made him loy Cyaxares, his uncle, of giving hin his dinughter in marringe, and Media for her lowry, till he had first alvised with his futher and mothier and obtained their consent. History informs us here, that among the Persimes, a son, how great and powerful soever lic inight be, never dared to ment himaelf terfore hia mother till lim lume firme ohtalned lere lenve; athl that to dos Hint., Bowk 18, 各 0.

Am70. REVERERCE, Roliglous. [W'hon tho horses that drew the charlotes collidel Tremars, In which are pinerd the limages of the gorla, finppermed to athmble, or if tho charfoterer taok thas reins la hils left hand, the whole proe'reskion the Nupreme Hollig. - I'tu'valtil.

AW71. REVERSEs, Reneft of, The İuglinh. and bloody atruggle, to relloghish the lape of renlly blomsinges la the gilise of dimanders. 'I'ha spirit of the Froneli wis ut liset uronsed. "Phey began (o) opposer a vigorous mational remistancon to the forefign eomghorors: und frotel that lime the wkill of the Finglimli cuphains mul the cournge of tho Finglish soldiers were, limppily for mankind, "xortarl in valu. Afior many despurHto struggles, mind with many bitar rogmen, our ENO., (ll, 1, 1, 10 .
 the midelle of the summ month the Niew Jervey brigude stationed ut Pompton revoltad, 'fliss movemant Winshington qualleil by forme. Ciencral Inobert Ilowe murched to ily comp with the handred regulars mad eompelled iwelve of the princijal mintheres to exwente the tivo lemders of the revolt. From that day order wiss complately restored. Thone finarrectlons had a good ruther thun it bud affere; ('ongress wis Thoronghily nlarmed, und hmandinte provisions were made for the better support of the army. An ugent was sent to Frunce to obtain a further lom of money. Lfobert Morris was mppointed seceretary of thinnce: the Bunk of North Amerfen wns orgunizel ; und, nlinough the outstanding debts of the United Statas eonlil mot be paid, yet nll fature obligntions waro promptly nat, for Morris and his friends plediged their private fortmanes to sustain the credic of the govermasont. Ruminin's U. S., ch. 44, p. 346 .
dक78. REVOLUTION by Contagion. AmeriraPrence. Shortly afturthe Atnerienn Declarntiont of Independence, kigned on the 41 h of Jaly, 1730, three deputies frons the new liepubticBenjumin Fronklin, Arthur Lar, and Silas Denno -urrived in Paris to solicit nid from France in the struggle mginst the mother commery. Their presence crated on extraorilimary sensution; and the enthusiasm thus producid was undoubtadly one of the eanses which contributed powerfully to the subserjuent outbrenk of the lievolu-

A87.1. REVOLUTION, Instantaneone. Puritans. C'ulling a conncif of his ofticers, a remonstrance was franed, to be presented to the Purlinment, reminding them that it was averse to the spirit of a democracy that any set of magistrutes should be perpetual, and desiring that they might inamediately think of dismolving, after issuing writs for the clection of a new Parliament.

This application, it may be imagined, met with a sharp reply, which was nothing more than what Cromwell wished and expected. Before the smallest hint had trunspired of his design, he now presented himself witin three hundred soldiers at the door of the House of Commons. Lenving his guards without, he took his seat for mome time and listened their dehates; then, zising hastily up: "I judge," said he, "this Purlimment to he ripe for dissolution" (tuking ane of the members by the cloak). "Fon," said he, "are a whoremaster;" to mother, " You are a drunkard," and (ton third), "You uremn extortioner. The Lord lath done with you, get you цone, you are 20 o longer a Parliament." Then, stamping with his foot, which was a signal for the soldiers to enter, "Mere," suia he, poiating to the mace whill lay on the table, "take away that fool's mable;" then, ordering the soldiers to drive all the members ont of the house, he locked the door himself, pat the key into his pocket, mand went home to his lodgingsin WhiteGall. Thus, by one of the boldest actions recorded in history, the famous Republic of England, which had subsisted four years und three months, was annihilated in one moment. - Tyther's llist., Book 6, ch. 30, p. 413.
4875. REVOLUTIONS, Injustice brings. JFistory. [Fos, in " Judges of England" says,] one of the primary canses of the great rebellion that overthrew the Government, and that cost the king his head, was the degramation of the bench of justice.-Kniour's Evg., vol. 3, ch. 28, p. 447.
4876. KEVOLOTIONS, Retrogradive. Rest.. ration of Charles II. Revolutions are of two kinds : they are either progressive or reactionary. A revolution of progress is often destructive, aweeping away much which should have been preserved. But such a revolution has a regencrating foree; it renews the youth of a nation, aud gives fre e play to its vital powers. Lost limbs are replaced by new. A revolution of reaction, on the other hand, is a benumbing influence, paralyzing effort, and levelling character. In such a eonservative revolution the mean, the selfish, and the corrupt come to the top; man seeks ease and enjoyment rather than duty ; virtne, honor, patriotism, and disinterestedness disappear altogether from a society which has ceased to believe in them. . .

The Restoration of 1660 was such a revolution.-Pattisos's Milton, ch. 12.

4S77. REWARD, Destitute of. Captain John Smith. Extreme sufferings from his wounds and the ingratitude of his employers were the fruits of his services. He received, for his sacrifices and perilous exertions, not one foot of land, not the house he built, not the fie.d his own hands had planted, nor any reward but the applause of his own conscience and the world. IIe wes the father of Virginia, the true leader who first planted the Snxon race within the borders of the United Sfates.-Bancrofr's Hist. of U. S., vol. 1, ch. 4.
4878. REWARD of Gratitnde. General Grant. During his visit [to New York, 1867], a purse of $$ 100,000$ was made up for him by the citizens.

Previous to this, Philadelphia had given him $$ 30,000$; Galena, a house and furniture, and Boston a librury. If he had been an Englishman, and rendered such services to his country as he had to the Union, he would have received twice as mach, and an estate and titles bestdes.IIeadiev's Gliant, p. 240.
4979. REWARD, Unexpected. By Al-rinder. This prince was maturally of a tender and hamrone disposition, which made him sensible of the afliction of persons in the lowest condition. A poor Macedonimu was one day driving before him a mule haden with gold for the king's use : the beast being so tired that he was not able cither to go on or sustain the load, the muledriver took it up and curried it, but with grent dillenty, a considerable way. Alexunder, seeing him just sinking umder his burden, and going to throw it on the ground, in order to ease himself, cried out," Friend, do not be weary yet; try and earry it guite through to thy tent, for it is all thy own."-Roldin's Inist., Book 15, § 12.
4850. RICH, Duty of the. Epaminondas. Though poor himself, and without any estate, his very poverty, by drawing upon him the esteem and contidence of the rich, gave him the opportunity of doing good to others. One of his friends belng in great neenssity, Epaminondas sent him to a very rich citizen, with orders to ask hin for 1000 crowns in his name. That rich man coming to his house, to know his motives for directing his friend to him upon such an errand: "Why," replied Epuminondas, " it is because this lionest man is in want, and you aro Hich."-Rollin's Hist., Book 12, § 7.
4881. RICHES, Avarice with. Pythius. [Ite whs a Lydian prince residing at Celane.] He presented great Xerxes will a sum cquai to about £1, 700,000 sterling. After such a conduct as this, who would not think that Pythius's peculinr characteristic and particular virtue had been generosity, and a noble contempt of riches? And yet he was one of the most penurious princes in the world; and who, besides his sordid avarice with regard to himself, was extremely cruel and inhuman to his subjects, whom he kept continually employed in hard and fruitless labor, always digging in the gold and silver mines which he had in his territories. When he whs absent from home, his sulojects went with tears in their eyes to the princess his wife, laid their contplaints before her and implored her assistance. Commiserating their condition, she made use of a very extraordinary method to work upon her husband, and to give him a clear notion and a palpable demonstration of the folly and injustice of his conduct. On his return home, she ordered an entertuinment to be prepared for him, very magniticent in appearance, but what in reality was no entertainment. All the courses and serviees were of gold and silver : and the prince, in the midst of all these rich dishes and splendid rarities, could not satisfy his lunger. He easily divined the meaning of this enigma, and began to consider that the end of gold and silver was not merely to be looked upon, but to be employed and made use of, and that to neglect, as he had donc, the business of husbandry and the tilling of land, by employing all his people in digging and working of mines, was the direct way to bring a famine both upon himself and his country. For the future, therefore, he only reserved a flfth part of his people for the business of mining. - Roman's IInt., Book 6, ch. 2, 52.
4882. RICHES in Contentment. Phocion. [A1exumder made Plocion, the A thenian, a present of] a hundred tulents. When the money was brought to Athens, lhocion asked the persons employed in that commission," Why, among all the eatizens of Athens, he should be singled ont as the object of sueh bounty ?" " Becmase." said they, "Alexmader looks upon you us the ouly honest and good man." "'llwen," suid Phoeion, "let him permit me always to retain" that character, as well as renlly to be that man." The envoys theu went home with him, and when they suw the frugality that reigned there, his wife baking brond, himself drawing water, mul afterward washing his own feet, they urged him the more to receive the present. They told him, "It gave them real monsiness, and was, inderd, un intolerable thing, that the friend of so great a prince should live in surh a wretehed manner." At that instant a poor ohd man huppening to pass by, in a mean garment, Phocion asked the envoys, "Whether they thought worse of him thm of that man ?" As they begged of him not to make sueh a comparison, he rejoined, "Yet that man lives upon less than I do, and is contentet. In one word, it will be to no purpose for me to have so much money, if I do not use it ; and if I was to live up to it, I should bring both myself and the king, your master, under the censure of the Athenians." Thus, the money was carried back from Athens, and the whole transaction was a good lesson to the Greeks, "That the man who did not want such a sum of money was richer than he who could bestow it."-Plutaneris " Phocion."
4883. RICHES despised. "L'nder the Feet." The generul of Amurath, Evrenos, who had abjured the God of the Greeks for tho Allah of Mahomet, and who was conquering antique Greece to the Ottomans, signalized himself by presents that were the spoils of the islands and the continent, of the Adriatic. Two hundred voung Greek slaves of his own race, chosen among the flower of the youth and beauty of Thessaly, opened the market of his cortege of tributaries. Ten of these slaves earried upon their heads golden plates filled with Venetian ducats ; ten others, silver phates filled with sequins ; eighteen more had golden and silver goblets, to lave the fingers; the rest, cups, erystals, Venctian glasses, in which precious stones were incrusted in transparency. All these marvels, which the Ottomans call satschou (or things to be thrown under the feet), were, in fact, strewn beneath the feet of Bajnzet and his affinnced. Lamaitine's Turkey, p. 251.
4894. RICHES, Joyin. Sudden. Among all the concubines of Mithridates that were brought hefore Pompey, he touched not one, but sent them to their parents or husbands; for most of them were either daughters or wives of the great officers and principal persons of the kingdom. But Stratonice, who was the first favorite, and had the care of a fort where the best part of the king's treasure was lodged, was the daughter of a poor old musician. She sung one evening to Mithridates at an entertainment, and he was so much pleased with her that he took her to his bed that night, and sent the old man home in no very good humor, becanse he had taken his danghter wlthout condescending to speak one kind word to him. But when he waked next morning, he saw tables covered with vessels of gold mad silver, ugreat retinue of ennuchs and puges, who offered him the choice of ridh rohes, nad before his gate a horse with such magniticent furniture as is provided for those whoure called the king s friends. All this he thought nothing but an insult and burlesgue apon him, and tharefore prepared for tlight; but the servants stopped him, mad aswured him that the king had given him the house of a rich mobleman lately decerased, and that ."lat he saw was only the first fruits-a small cartest of the fortme he intended him. At latat he suffered himself to be persmoded that the scone was not visionary; he put on the parple, mad monnet the horse. and, as he rode through the city, cricd out, " All this is mine." The inhmhitants, of comrse langhed at him; and ne told them they shouk not be surprised at this belmeior of his, but ruther wonder that he did not throw stones at them. - Pemtancin's Ponpey.
4885. RICHES, Power with. Philip. It is said that having one day consulted the orncte of Delphi, he received the following answer:
"Make coin thy weapons, and thou'lt conquer all."
The advice of the priestess beeame his rule, and he applied it with graat success. He boasted that he had carried more places lyy money than arms; that he never forced a gate till after having attempted to open it with a golden key; and that he did not think any fortress impregnable into which a muie laden with silver could find entrance. It has leen said that he was a merchant rather than a conqueror; that it was not Philip, but his gold, which subdued Greece, and that he bought its cities rather than took them. lie had pensioners in all the commonwealths of Greece, and retained those in his pay who had the greatest shure in the public affinirs. And, indeed, he was less prond of the success of a buttle than that of a negotiation, well knowing that neither his generals nor his soldiers could share in the honor of the later.-Rollis's Hist., Book 14, & 1.
4886. RICHES slighted. Silon. [IIe was one of the Seren Wise Men of Grece. He visited Sardis, morl was shown the treasures of Cre-sus-mune proverlial for walth.] When solon had seen all, he was brought back to the king. Crossus then asked him which of mankind in all his travels he had found the most truly happy ? "One Tellus," replied Solon, "ạ citizen of Athons, a very honest and good man, who, after having lived all his days without indigence, having always seen his country in a flourishing condition, has left children that are universally estecmed, has had the satisfactivn of seeing those children's children, and at last died gloriously in fighting for his country. $\because$-Rolinin's IIist., Book 3, ch. 4.
4887. RICEES, Superseded. Grecians. [The Persians invaded Grecce.] While Xerxes was continuing his mareh, some deserters from Arcadia came and joined his army. The king having asked them what the Grecians were then doing, was extremely surprised when he was told thint they were employed in seeing the gnmes and combats then celebrating at Olympla; and his surprise was still inereased when he understood that the victor's rewnid in those engrgements whs only a riown of olive. "What men must they be," cried one of the I'ersian uobles, with sreat wonder and astonisliment, "whonre intluenced only by honor, nud uot by money ${ }^{\prime \prime}$ -

4488. RICHEs, Tendency of. Degrading. The opulence of Syburis wats soon followed ly luxury, mad such a dissoluteness of manners as is scarcely eredible. The citizens employed themselves in mothing but bungrets, games, shows, parties of plensure, and carousals. Publie re, wards aml marks of distinetion ware bestowed on those who grave the most magniticent entertainments ; and even to such cooks nes were best skilled in the importunt art of making new discover as in dressing dishes, and inventing new refinements to please the palate. The Sy barites earried their delicacy and effeminney to such a height that they carefully removed from their eity all such urtiticers whose work was noisy, and would not soffer anv cocks in it, lest their shrill piereing crow should disturls their balmy slumbers.-Robins's JIIst., Book 6, ch. i, si 2.
4889. RICHES, Uncertain. Dionysius. It is certain that Dionysins, who hud seen limeself master of syracuse, und of almost all Sicily, who had possessed immense riches, and had had numerous tleets and grent armies of horse and foot under lis command ; that the same Dionysius, reduced now almost to beggary, and from a kiug become a schoolmaster, was a good lesson for persons of exalted stations, warning them not to confid" in their grandenr, nor to rely too much upon their fortune.-Roline's Hist., Book 10, ch. $2, s_{s} 6$.
4890. RIDICULE changed. By $P^{\prime}$ urituns. From the leformation to the civil war almost every cavalier, gifted with a fine sense of the ludierous, had taken some opportunity of nssailing the straight-haired, sunflling, whining saints, who christened their ehildren out of the book of Nehemiah, who groaned in spirit at the sight of Jack in the Green, and who thonght it impious to taste pham and porridge on Christmas day. At length a time came when the laughers began to look grave in their turn. The rigid, ungainly zealots, after hatving furnished much good sport during two generations, rose up in arms, conquered, ruled, and, grimly smiling, trod down under their feet the whole crowd of mockers.Macaulay's Evg., eh, 3, p. 371.
4851. RIDICULE conquered. Nípoleon $I$. [Sce No. 5033. His aristocratic school-fellows ridiculed his origin and poverty.] In consequence of this state of ferling, he secluded himself almost entirely from his fellow-students, and buried himself in the midst of his books and maps. While they were wasting their time in dissipation and in frivolous amusements, he consecrated his days and night.3, with untiring assiduity, to study. He almost immediately elevated kimself above his compunions, und by his superiority commanded their respect. Soon he whs regariled as the brightest ormment of the insti-thtion.-Ambott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 1.
4892. BIDICULE cures Cowardioe. Arab. [When Nahouet appronehed Mecea with an army of followers, the inhabitants rose en masse to resist him.] One of the oldest of them having refused to march on nerount of his corpulence, "Perfume thyself," suid his fellow-citizens, "for thou art but a woman." Ite blushed at the repronch, mad joined the mareh. - Iamantine's Teiker, p. 106.

4N93. Ridicule, Defended by. Cesar. This treason [of Cleopntra] opened Antony's eyes, und made him, when too late, give eredit to what his friends had told him of the queen's perfidy. In this extremity he wus for signalizing limself by an extraordimary act of valor, capnble, in his opinion, of doing him abundance of honor It sent to challenge Cesar to a single combat. Caesur made answer, that if Antony whs weary of life, there were other whys to die besides that. Rolinn's HIst., Book 24, S 3.
489.4. RIDICULE of Greatness. Julian. As long as the fame of the Emperor Julian was loubtful, the buffoons of the palace, who were skilled in the language of satire, tried the efficaey of those arts which they had so often practiserl with sucerss. They easily discovered that his simplicity was not exempt from ulfectation; the ridiculous epithets of a hairy snvage, of an upe invested with the purple, were applied to the dress and person of the philosophic warrior ; and his modest despatehes were stigmatized as tha vain and elaborate fictions of a loquacious Greek, a speculative soldier, who had studied the art of war amid the groves of the academy.-Gibnon's Rome, ch. 22, p. 370.
4895. RIDICULE, Public. Reign of James II. [ $A$ period of great agitation for the preservation of the Protestant faith from the aims of a Catholic king.] Tyreonnel [lord-licut. of Ireland] had tramsinitted for the royal approbation the heads of a bill repealing the law by which half the soil of Ireland was held, and he had sent to Westminster, as his agents, two of his Roman Catholic countrymen who hind lately been raised to high judicial oftice: Nugent, chief justice of the Irish Court of King's Bench, a personification of all the vices and weaknesses which the English then imagined to be characteristic of the Popish Celt ; and Rice, a baron of the Irish Exchequer, who, in abilities and attainments, was perhaps the foremost man of his race and religion. The object of the mission was well known; and the two judges could not venture to show themselves in the streets. If ever they were recognized, the rabble shouted, " Room for the Irish ambassadors;" and their coach was escorted with mock solemmity by a train of ushers and harbingers bearing sticks with potatoes sturk on the points. So strong and generul, indeed, was at that time the aversion of the English to the Frish. that the most distinguished Roman Catholies par. took of it.-Micaulay's Eng., chi. 9, p. 396.
4896. RIDICULE punieled. Of Religion. [When Methodism was first introduced into Reading. Penn.,] there was a shop in the neighborhood of the school-house where some young men used to meet together. One of the company undertook to mimic the Methodists. He went on to show how they acted in their meetings. Ho shouted, chpped his hands, and then he would show how they fell down. IIe then threw himself down on the floor, and laty there as if aslecp. llis companions enjoyed the sport; but after he had lain for some time they wondered why he did not get up. They shook him in order to awake him. They saw he did not breathe ; they turned pale, they sent for a physician, whoexamined the man and pronomuced him dead. This awful incident stopped ridicule and perseration. -Stevens M. E. C'humci, vol. 3, p. 429.
4897. RIDICULE, Reformation by, Lal.s. Alcibiades and Nicias, who were persons of the preatest interest in $\Lambda$ thens, had each his party; fout perceiving that the people were going to proceed to the Ostracism, and that one of them was likely to suffer by it, they consulted together, und joining interests, caused it to fall upon IIyperbolus [who was a mean wretch]. Ilereupon the people, full of indignation ut finding this kind of punishment dishonored und turned into ridicule, abolished it entirely. - Phetancits Aristides.
4898. RIDICULE, Revolntion by. Witah. The Barons of Snowdon, with other noblemen of the most considerable families in Wales, hud attended Llewellyn [Prince of Wales] to London, when he came thither at Christmas, A.D. 1277, to do homage to King Edward. . . . Their large retinues were quartered in Islington and the neighboring villages. These places did not afforl milk enough for such numerous trains; they liked neither wine nor the ale of London, and though plentifully entertained, were mueli displeased at a new manner of living which did not suit their taste, nor perhaps their constitutions. They were still more offended at the crowds of people that flocked about them when they stirred ubroad, staring at them, as if they had been monsters, and laughing at their uncouth garb and appearance. They were so enraged on this occasion, that they engaged privately in an association to rebel on the first opportunity, and resolved to die in their own country rather than ever come again to London, as sulbjects, to be held in such derision; and when they returned home they communicated their resentments to their compatriots, who made it the common cause of their country.-Knight's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 25, p. 384.
1889. RIDICULE, Unoonscious of. George III. On the 9th of January, 1770, the Parliament was opened by the king [George III.]. With a singular want of pereeption of the ridiculous, the first words of the royal speech were these : "My lords and gentlemen, it is with much concern that I find myself obliged to open the session of Parliament with acquainting you that the distemper among the horned cattle has lately broke out in this kingdom. '-Knight's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 19, p. 300.
4900. HIDICULE, Unfolt. Diogenes. Diog. enes, the philosopher, when one said, "They deride you," answered well, "But I am not derided," accounting those only to be ridiculed who feel the ridicule and are discomposed at it. -Plutarcies Fabius Maximus.
4901. RIDICULE, Warning in, Whitefield. In the days of Whitefield, Thorpe, one of his most violent opponents, and three others, laid a wager who could best imitate and ridicule Whitefield's preaching. Each was to open the Bible at random, and preach an extempore sermon from the tinst verse that presented itself. Thorpe's three eompetitors each went through the game with impions buffoonery. Then, stepping upon the table, Thorpe exelaimed, "I shail beat you all!" They gave him the Bible, and, by Gorl's inserntable providence, his eye fall thrt upon this verse, "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." Jle read the worids, bat the sword of the spirit went through his soul in a moment, and he preached as one who scaree knew what he shid. The hand of God luid hold upon him, and, mitending to mock, he could only fear and tremble. When he descended from the table, a profound silence reigned in the company. and not one word was said concerning the wager. Thorpe instuntly withdrew, and after a season of the deepest distress passed into the full light of the Gospel, and became $n$ most successful prencher of its grace.
4902. RIGHT of Might. English Eirls. [Edward I. attempted to hanit the independence of the old barons.] Immediately after lis landing he appointed a commission of inquiry into the judicial franchises then existing, and on its report (of which the existing " IIundred-Rolls" are the result) itinerant justices weresent, in 1278, to discover by what right these franchises were held. The writs of quo varranto were roughly met here and there. Earl Warenne lared a rusty sword, and flung it on the justices' table. "This, sirs," he said, "is my warmnt. By the sword our fathers won their lands when they came over with the Conqueror, and by the sword we will keep them."-IIstr. of Eng. People, S 263.
4903. $\qquad$ William III. On the opening of the contest with France, William III. . . . was false to the principle of liberty of the seas,-prohibiting all commerce with France -and to the protest of IIolland gave no other repiy than that it was his will, and that he had power to make it good. - Banchofts U.S., vol. 3 , ch. 21 .
4904. $\qquad$ -Triumph of the Independents. To save its party from an entire defent, the army interposed, and "purged" the louse of Commons. "Ilear us," snid the excluded members to Colonel Pride, who expelled them. " I cannot spare time," replied the suldier. "By what right are we arrested?" demanded they of the extruvagant Ilugh Peters. "By the right of the sword," answerel the hate envoy from Mas-sachusetts.-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 2 , ch. 11.
4905. RIGHT by Precedent. Napoleon $I$. A.d. 1803. [The British suddenly attacked all French vessels of every kind, without previous declaration of war, and made prisoners of seamen. The First Consul retaliated by suddenly imprisoning all Englishmen in France.] The cabinet of St. James remonstrated energetically against Napoleon's capture of peaceful travellers upon the land. Napoleon replied, "You have scized unsuspecting voyagers upon the sea." Engtand rejoined, "It is customary to capture everything upon the ocean belonging to the enemy, and therefore it is right." Napoleon answered, "I will make it customary to do the same thing upon the land, and then that will also be right." - Abiott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 26.
4906. RIGHT and Wrong. Boundaries. $\Lambda$ good action is not distinguished from a hai action by marks so plain as those which dllstinguish a hexagon from a souare. There is a fronticr where virtue and viee fale into ench other. Who has ever bea able to dethae the exact boundary between courage and rashaess, between pradence and cowardice, between frugality and avarice, between liberality and prodigality? Who has ever been able to say how far merey to offenders onght to be carried, and where it ceases to descrve the name of mercy aud becomes a pernicious weakness? What casnist, what lawgiver, has ever been able nicely to mark the limits of the right of self-defence? All our jurists hold that a certuin guantity of risk to life or limb justifies a man in slooting or stabbing an assailant ; but they lave long givea up in lespair the attempt to deserihe, in precise worls, that quantity of risk.-Macaulay's Eng., ch.. 9, p. 368.
4907. RIGHTS asserted. Captain William Wadsioorth. A.b. 1693. [Fletcher, by royal commission, assumed to command Connecticut trainbands. The colonists claimed command of their own militia.] Inartford was . . a a community of farmers, the umminced progeny of Puritans, William Wadsworth, the senior captain of the town [was cxercising his men]. Fletcher advances, to assume command, ordering Bayard, of New York, to read his commission and the royal instructions. It is the fortune of our America, that if, at any moneut, the happiness of a state depended on the will of one man, that man was true to his duty. At the order of Captain Wadsworth the drums began to roll. . . . The petulant Fletcher commanded silence. "I will not"-such had been his words to the Governor of Connecticut-"I will not set my foot out of this colony till I have seen his Majcsty's commission obeyed." And Bayard . . once more began to read. "Drum, drum, I say !" shouted Wadsworth, adding, as he turned to the governor of New York, "، if I am interrupted again, I will make the sun shine through you in a moment." [Governor Fletcher retired.]-BaNcrort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 19.
4908. RIGHTS ignored, By Ruler. Charles II. eecmed to regard the British Enpipire as personal property, to be used for the benefit of himself and hiscourtiers. In order to reward the worthless profligates who thronged his court, he began to grant to them large tracts of land in Virginia. What did it matter that these lands had been redeemed from the wilderness and were covered with orchards and gardens? It was no uncommon thing for an American planter to find that his farm, which had been cultivated for a quarter of a century, was given away to some dissolute flatterer of the royal household. Great distress was occasioned by these iniquitous grants, until finally, in 1673, the king set a limit to his own reek lessness by giving away the whole State. Lord Culpepper and the Earl of Arlington, two ignoble noblemen, received under the great seal a deed by which was grantel to them for thirtyone years all the dominion of land and watcr called Virginia.-Ridpatris U. S., ch. 12, p. 11.

4909. RIGHTS, Importance of.  " Squatter Severeignty." In January of 1854 Senator Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinois, brought hefore the Senate of the Cuited States a proposition toorganize the territories of Kansas and Nebraska. In the bill reported for this purpose a clause was inserted providing that the people of the two territories, in forming their constitutions, should decide for tiumselves whetaer the new States should be free or slave-holding. Tuis was a virtual repeal of the Missouri Compromise ; for both the nuw territories lay north of the parallel of $36^{\circ} 35^{\prime}$. Thus hy a single stroke the old settlemeat of the slavery-question was to be undone. From Jamary till May Mr. Douglas' report, known as the Kansas-Nebraska Bill, was debuted in Congress. All the bitter seetional antugoaisns of the past were aroused in full force. The hill was violently opposed by a majority of the representatives from the East and North; lout the minority, uniting with the Congressmen of the South, enabled Douglas to carry lis measure through Congress, and in May of 1854 the bill reccived the sanction of the President.Ridiati's U. S., ch. 69, p. 472.

4910. RIGHTs, Maintenance of. By Exercise. [When the British Parliameat repenled the Stamp Act and withdrew all the taxes except $3 d$. on each pound of tea, the tea duties were retuined] upon the principle that there must always be one tax to keep up the right.-Knignt's Eng., vol. 6, ch. 20, p. 310.
491 1. RIGHTS, Petition of, Reign of Charles $I$. [The last Parliament but one before the Revolutlon.] Therc were, to our minds, some extraordinary subjects of debate, especially on the king's clain to commit without cause shown on the face of the warrant. "The greatest question," exclaimed Pym, " that ever was in this place or elsewhere !" Selden and Coke both spoke upon it. "What," answered Coke, "shall I accept such law? Shall I have a state of inheritance for life, or for years, in my land, and shall I be a tenant at will, for my liberty I A freeman to be a tenant at will for his freedom I Therc is no such tenure in all Littleton." We follow with earnest interest those discusslons in which Elliot took so great and prominent a part, out of which came into existence the inmortal Petition of Rights. These are great debates ; greater debates are not recorded in history. "Magna Charta is such a fellow," said Coke, " he will have no sovcreign." The great charter of the people's liberties was upheld and strengthened by the Petition of Rights.-Hood's Croawell, ch. 3, p. 72.
4912. RIGHTs, sentimental. Political. By an apparent contradiction not difficult to reconcilc, many of those who fought bravely for the right of the abolitionists to be heard in Congress by petition were yet enraged with them for continually, and, as they thought, causelessly raising and pressing the issue. They were willing to fight for the right of the abolitionists to do a certain thing, and then willing to fight the abolitionists for aimlessly and usclessly doing it. The men who were governed by these complex motives were chiefly Whigs.-Bhaine's Twenty Years of Congress, vol. 1, p. 24.
4913. RIOT, Night of. Flight of James II. [William, Prince of Orange, with an army of invasion and an English army of welcome, was drawing near to London.] When the night-the longest night, as it chanced, of the year-approached, forth came from every den of vice.
from the bear-garden at IIockley, and from the labyrinth of tippling-houses and brothels in the Frlars, thousands of housebreakers and highwaymen, cut-purses and ring-lroppers. With these were mingled thousands of idle apprentices, who wished merely for the excitement of a riot. Even men of peaceable and honest habits were impelled by religious nnimosity to join the lawless part of the population ; for the cry of No Popery-a cry which has more than once endangered the existence of London-was the signal for outrage and rapine. First the rabble fell on the LIomm Catholle places of worship. The buildings were demolished. Benches, pulpits, confessionals, brevinries, were heaped up and set on fire. A great mountain of books and furniture blazed on the site of the convent at Clerkenwell. Another plle was kindled before the ruins of the Franciscan house in Lincoln's Inn Fields. The clmpel in Lyme Strcet, the chapel in Bucklersbury, were pulled down. The pietures, images, and cruciflxes were carried along the strcets in triumph, amid lighted tapers torn from the altars. The procession bristled thiek with swords and staves, and on the point of every sword and of every staff was an orange. -Macaulay's Eng., ch. 10, p. 514.
4914. RIsING, Early. Washington. During the whole of both his public and private life he was a very early riscr. . . . Whether as chief magistrate or the retired citizen, we find this man of method and mbor seated in his library from one to two hours before day in winter and at daybreak in sumnier.-Custis ${ }^{3}$ Washinoton, vol. 1, ch. 1.
4915. RITUALISM rejected. Cutholic. Many felt a strong repugnance even to things indifferent which had formed part of the polity or ritual of the mystical Babylon. Thus Bishop Hooper, who died manfully at Gloucester for his religion, long refused to wear the episcopal vestments. Bishop Ridley, a martyr of still greater renown, pulled down the aneient altars of his diocese, and ordered the Eucharist to be administered in the middle of churches, at tables which the papists irreverently termed oysterboards. Bishop Jewel pronounced the clerical garb to be a stage dress, a fool's coat, a relic of the Amorites, and promised that he would spare no labor to extirpate such degrading absurdities. Arehbishop Grindal long hesitated about accepting a mitre from dislike of what he regarded as the mummery of consecration. Bishop Parklurst uttered a fervent prayer that the Chured of England would propose to herself the Chureh of Zurich as the absolute pattern of a Christian community. Bishop Ponct was of opinion that the word bishop should be abandoned to the papists, and that the chief offleers of the purified Church should be called superintendents. None of these prelates belonged to the extreme section of the Protestant party.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 47.
4916. RIVAL, A successful. Mary Queen of Scots. Mary had, after a few days of marringe, abandoned her transient fondness for the youth she imagined she had loved, conceived a coolness for Darnley [her husband], and became again prodigal of everything toward Rizzio [an Italian musician and courticr], on whom she lavished power and honors, violating the almost sacred etiquette of the times by admitting him to her table 1 .. her private apartments, and suppressing the name of the king in publie papers, substituted that of Rizzlo. Scotlind found she had two kings, or, rather, the nominal king disappeared to give place to the favorite.-Lamantine's Queen of Scots, p. 19.
4917. RIVAL, An unnuppected. Brother. A benutiful female, a matron in rank, a prostitute in manners, had instructed the younger $\mathbf{A n d r o n}$ deus [soll of the Greek Emperor Andronicus] in the rudiments of love; but he had reason to suspect the nocturnal visits of a rival ; and a stran. ger passing through the strect was piereed by the arrows of his guards, who were placed in ambush at her door. That stranger was his brother, Prince Manuel, who languished and died of his wound; and the Emperor Michael, their common father, whose health was in a declining state, expired on the eighth day, lamenting the loss of boih his children. However guiltless in his intention, the younger Andronicus might impute a brother's and a father's death to the consequence of his own vices ; and deep whs the sigh of thinking and fecling men when they perecived, instead of sorrow and repentunce, his ill-dissembled joy on the removal of two odious competitors.-Gibson's Rome, ch. 63, p. 177.
4918. RIVADRY, Buanoms, Fulton's Fïrst Steamboat. The Clermont was immediately put upon the river as a packet-boat, and plied between New York and Albany until the close of navigation, being always crowded with passengers. Enlarged during the winter, she resumed her trips in the spring of 1808, and continued to run with great success, and with profit to her owners. It was long, however, before the river boatmen were dis oosed to tolera ${ }^{+5}$ this new and terrible rival. At first, it is said, they fled in affight from the vicinity of the monster, fearing to be set on fire or run down by her. Afterward, regaining their courage, they made so many attempts to destroy her that the Legislature of the State passed a special act for her pro-tection.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 159.
4919. RIVALRY an Obstaclo. Politics. [During the invasion of England by the Dutch, led by William, Prince of Orange, a considerable number of peers . . . came, with Sancroft at their head, to present a petition, praying that a free and legal Parliament might be called, and that a negotiation might be opened with the Prince of Orange. . . . Unexpccted difficulties arose. Halifax became first cold and then adverse. It was his nature to discover objections to everything ; and on this occasion his sagacity was quickened by rivalry. The scheme, which he had approved while he regarded it as his own, began to displease him as soon as he found that it was also the scheme of Rochester, by whom he had been long thwarted and at length supplanted, and whom he disliked as much as it was in his easy nature to dislike anybody. Nottingham was at that time much under the influence of Halifax. They hoth declared that they would not join in the address if Rochester signed it.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 465.
4920. RIVALRY, Talent vs. Money. Rome. At the time when Pompey returned from his Asiatic expedition, Cæsar held the offlce of prætor. The ambitious spirit of Pompey could brook neither a superior nor un equal. Crassus, a man of mean talents, but of 8 , restless and ambitions epirit, had, ly means of his enormons wealth, fahed a very eonsiderable party to his Interest; for money ut Rome could nlways insure popularity, nud thas render even the weakest of men fornidable to the liberties of their comntry. Thas, with the grentest lnequmlity of tulents, Pompey und Crassins were rivals in the path of ambition ; and Ciesur, who at this time aspired to the consulate, and was well aware that, by courting exelusively cither of the rivals, lie infallibly made the other his enemy, showed the reach of his political genius by artfully effecting a reconciliation between them, and thus securing the friendship of both.-'TyTLen's IIst., l Book 4 , ch. 1, p. 400.
4821. ROADS, Improvement of. Reign of Charles $1 I$. It was only in the weather that the whole breadth of the road was avialable for wheeled vehicles, Often the mind lay deep on the right and the left, and only a narrow track of firm ground rose above the quagmire. At such time obstructions and quarrels were frequent, and the path was sometimes blocked up during a long time by carriers, neither of whom wonld break the way. It happened, almost every day, that coaches stuck fast, until a team of cattle could be procured from some neighboring farm to tug them out of the slough. But in bad seasons the traveller had to encounter inconveniences stili more serious.-Macaulay's End., ch. 3, p. 347.
4929. ROBBER, An honored. Jermack the Cossack. About the end of the sixtecnth century $n$ Cossack chief of the name of Jermack, who followed the profession of a robber, and was the leader of a gang of banditti, was the means of ndding to the Russian empire all that immense tract of country known by the name of Siberia. IIe had long infested the Russian borders by his depredations, till at last, being taken prisoner with the greatest part of his followers, and condemned to suffer death, he threw himself upon the clemency of the czar, and offered, on condition of recelving a pardon, to point out an easy conquest of an immense extent of empire unknown to the Russians. His offer was accepted, the czar approved of the expedition, and Jermack set out as the general of a regular army for the conquest of Siberia, then in the hands of the Tartars. This expedition was attended with all the success that conld be wished.-Tytheis's Hist., Book 6, ch. 34, p. 473.
4823. ROBBERS, Honored. Reign of Charles II. It is related how Claude Duval, the French page of the Duke of Richmond, took to the road, became captain of a formidable gang, and had the honor to be named first in the royal proclamation against notorious offenders; how, at the head of his troop, he stopped a lady's coach in which there was a booty of four liundred poun is ; how he took only one hundred, and suffered the fair owner to ransom the rest by dancing a coranto with him on the heath; how his vivacious gallantry stole away the hearts of all women; how his dexterity at sword and pistol made him a terror to all men ; how, at length, in the year 1670, he was seized when overcome by wine; how dames of high rank visited him in prison, and with tears interceded for his life; how the king would have granted a pardon but for the interference of Judge Morton, the terror of high. waymen, who thratened to resign his offlce un. less the law was carried fato full effect ; and how, after the execution, the corpse lay in state with all the polup of scutcheons, waxlights, black. inangings, . . till the same ernei jalge who lind intercepted the merey of the crown sent oflcers to intercept the obsequies. -Macaulay's ENa., ch. 2, 1". 350.

AD24. ROBBERS, Huntling. Blood-how uds. Tha parishes were required to keep blood-houmis for the purpose of limating the freebooters. Many old men who were living in the middle of the eighteenth century could well remember the time when those ferocious diogs were common ; yet, even with such auxiliaries, it was found impossible to track the robbers to their retreats minong the hills and mornsses, for the geograpliy of that wild country was very imperfectly known.-Macaulay's Eng., cli. 3, p. 265.
4925. ROBBERS, Sucoess of. Reign of Charles $I I$. The public authorities seem to have been often at a loss how to deal with these enterpris. ing plunderers. At one time it was announced in the Gazette that several persons who were strongly suspected of being highwaymen, but agalnst whom there was not sufficient evidence, would be paraded at Newgate in riding-dresses; their horses would also be shown ; and all gentlemen who had been robbed were invited to inspeet this slngular exhibition. On another oceasion a pardon was publicly offered to a robber if ho wonld give up some rough diamonds, of immenso value, which he had taken when he stopped the Harwich inail. A slort time after appeared unother proclamation, warning the inn-keepers that the eye of the government was upon them. Their crininal connivance, it was afflrmed, enabled banditti to infest the ronds with impunity. - Macaulay's Eno., ch. 3, 1 . 355.
4926. ROBBERY excnsed. Arabs. The separation of the Arabs from the rest of mankind has accustomed them to confound the ideas of stranger und enemy ; pud the poverty of the land has introduced a maxim of jurisprudence whieh they believe and practise to the present hour. They pretend that, in the division of the carth, the rich and fertile climates were assigned to the other branches of the human family ; and that the posterity of the ontlaw Ishmael might recover, ly fraud or force, the portion of inheritance of which he had been injustly deprived. According to the remark of Pliny, the Arabian tribes are equally addicted to theft and merchandise; the caravans that traverse the desert are ransomed or pillaged; and their neighbors, since the remote times of Job and Sesostris, have been the victims of their rapacious spirit. If $n$ Bedoween discovers from afar a solitary traveller, he rides furiously against him, crying, with a lond voice, "Undress thyself, thy aunt ( my wife) is withont a garment." A ready submission entitles him to mercy ; resistance will provoke the aggressor.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 50, p. 87.
4927. ROBBERY, Royal. IIenry III. The king rose above the meanness of the beggar [at times], to do the more legitimate work of the robber. " He seized by force on whatever was used in the way of meat and drink-especially wine, and even clothes-against the will of those who sold these things." -KNiatir's Ena., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 367
1028. Romance, Origin of. Liman Lan. yuige. We have seen bow prodigions was tha waste of blood in those experditions [ the Criusades], and how few returned to their conatrin's of those immense swarms which poured into the shast. But those few who did return found in the admiration and applanse of the ir countrymen a high reward for thicir habors; their prases were sumg by hurds and minstrels, and their exploits recorded in a species of composition unknown till this time, the celebrated old Romances. This speeles of composition wus so mmed from the Romance limgunge, in which the first of these works were composed. Latin was the vulgar tongue in Frimee till the beginning of the ninth cent:ary ; then arose a mixed dialect between the Latin and the Frank tongues, which was termed Romance, and which in process of tlme is now matured into the French lan-guage.-Ty'ien's IIsst., Book 6, ch. 10, p. 168.
1929. ROMANISM, Civil Aseamption of. Paul IV. [In 1558 Elizabeth, Queen of England, despatched messengers, according to the enstom of sovereign princes, to the various European courts, announcing her succession.] The arrogant Punl IV. replied to Elizabeth's messenger that it was great boldness in her to assume the crown without his consent, and that she must submit all her cluims to his decision. [See No. 4939.]-KNiairr's ENG., vol. 3, ch. 8, p. 108.
4930. ROMANISM, Dellverance from. Prayer. [The chureh service book of Edward VI. contained a passage praying for deliverance] from the Bishop of Rome and all his detestable enor-mities.-Knıoit's Eng, vol. 3, ch. 8, p. 114.
4931. ROMaNIsM, Display of. Priests. When Prince Charies whs muried to Ilenrietia Maria of France she brought with her to England twenty-nine priests in her train.- Kinaur's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 25, p. 388.
4932. ROMANISM Hatred of. Reign of Churles II. Thut hatred had become one of the ruling passions of the community, and was as strong in the ignorant and profane as in those who were Protestants from conviction. The crnelties of Mary's reign-cruelties which, even in the most accurate and sober narrative, excito just detestation, and which were neither necurately nor soberly related in the popular martyrologiesthe conspiracies against Elizabeth, and, above all, the Gunpowder Plot, had left in the minds of the vulgar a deep and bitter feeling, which was kept up by annunl commemorations, prayers, bonfires, and processions. It should be added that those classes which were peculiarly distinguished by attachment to the throne, the clergy and the landed gentry, had peculiar reasons for regarding the Church of Rome with aversion. The clergy trembled for their benefices, the landed gentry for their abbeys and great tithes. Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. 216.
4933. ROMANISM insulted. Reign of James II. [After the acquittal of the seven Protestant Bishops. See No. 3031.] A figure made of wax with some skill, and adorned at no small expense with robes and a tiara, was mounted on a chair resembling that in which the bishcps of Rome are still on some great festivals, borne through Suint Peter's Church to the high altar. Itis holiness was geverally accompanied by a train of cartinuls and odesuits. At his ear stood at bulfoon dlagulsed as n devil with horns nud tuil. No rich or zembons IProtestunt gridged his grinenon such morension, mul, if rumor conlad be trusted, the cost of the procession was sometimes not less than a thonsand pounds. After the pope land heen borne some that in state over the hande of the multitute, he was committed to the thmes with great acehmation.-Macaulay's ENa., ch. 8, p. 350.

4DBA. ROMANIBM against Liberty. Magna Charth. John was compeiled to yield to their demmads ; and on the 15th day of Jume, 1215, sligned, at lumnynead, the ever memorable Nhgma Charta, the foundution and bulwark of Eng!'sh liberty. But the jnk was searcely dry when the tyrunt complained bitterly to the powe of the violence to which he hatd been subjecteid, and besonght his interference. Innocent [III.]. in his capncity of suzernin of England, issued a bull, decharing the charter illegul, null and void, and forbade the king to permit and the barons to demand the observance of its provi sions, under pmin of exrommuniention.-STwdents' Francle, ch. 8, 15.
4935. $\qquad$ Magna Charta. [In 1215 Pope Innocent III. undertook to assist King John against his burons, who demanded and obtained the Mngm Churta; he excommuniented them, and further proceeded by] annulting the churter. England said the insolent mandate had become a fief of the holy see, and the King of England had no right to surrender the privileges of the crown withont the consent of his feadal superior. [Sce No. 4942.]-K Niairt's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 358.
4936. ROMANISM, Oppression of. The Poor. On every side were the evidences of the vast endowments of the English Charch-splendid enthedrals, rich abbeys, shrines of inestimable value, bishops and abbots surrounded with buronial splendor, ample provision for the working clergy. And yet all the wealth of this church. acknowledged to be grenter than that of any other church in Christendom, could not protect the people from the irritating demands which were generally mude at the senson of family affliction, and pressed too often upon the widow and the fatherless. The chronicler, reciting this grievance, says: "For the children of the defunct should all die for himger, and go a begging, rather than they would of charity give to them the sely cow which, the dead man ought [owned], if had only one." [The taking of mortuaries, or corpse presents, was a species of exaction which fastened upon the dead with the rapacity of the vulture, and reached even the humblest in the land.]-Knigirt's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 20, p. 325.
4837. ROMANIBM patronized. By James II. The bishop of London was suspended from his ecclesiastical function for refusing to censure a clergyman who had preached against the doctrines of the Church of Rome. Six other bishops, having refused to publish the king's equally fraudulent as illegal declaration for liberty of conscience, were immediately committed to prison. James sent an ambassador to the pope, though all correspondence with liome was liy law treasonable, and he recelved the pope's nuncio in London, who publislied pastoral injunctlons, arad consecrated several IRomish blshops. A catholle preshlint was appolited liy the king to Magdilen college, Oxford, and on lis refusal to adiait him, the whole members were expelled except two who complied. In short, the king's 'ntentions were not at all ilisgraised ; nud the lRoman Catholias bigan openty to bonst that a very litto time would see their rellgion fully extublished. -Tytlen's llist., Book 6, ili. 30, b. 420.
4939. ROMANISM, Reliof in. Namuel, Johnron. On the Roman Catholle relighon he sulid: " If you join the lapists externally they will not interrogntes you strictly us to your belief in their tenets. No rensoning Papist believes every artlele of their falth. There is one side on whleha good uan might le persuaded to embrace it. $A$ gond man of a timorons disposition in great doubt of his neceptance with God, und pretty eredulons, may be glad to le of a ehurch where there are so many helps to get to henven. I would be a Papist if I coulal. I have fear enough; but an obstinate rationality prevents me. I shall never be a Papist, unless on the near appronch of death, of which I have a very great terror. I woniler that women are not all Papists."-Bosweili's Joinison, p. 521.
4939. ROwANISM and the state. Sixtiks $V$. [In 1588, ] Pope Slxtus V. mude a solemn treaty with Philip II. [of Spain], and promised him an enormous sulsidy, to be paid when he had taken any English port. The warlike pontiff was equally ready with his spiritund weapons. He published n new bull of excommunication against Elizabeth, und called all Catholics to a crusude against England, as for a holy war against the Infldel. They came from all lands where the doetrines of the IReformation liad never taken root, or had been extirpated-they came, needy adventurers with high-sounding names, ready to fight for the true faith, and to have each a dainty plot of the English garden. They thought less of the plenary indulgences promised for their voluntary service than of the stores of wealth that would reward their valor, when the Jezebel, the aceursed queen, should bo hurled from her throne, and the pope should have bestowed her crown upon Philip or his nominee.-Knigitt's Eng., vol. 3, eh. 14, p. 217. [See Cause, nt No. 4920.]
4940. Boniface VIII., in August, 1296, issued his famous bull "Clericis laticos," by which the clergy were forbidden to furnish prinees with subsidies or any kind of pecuniary contribution without the permission of the IIoly Sce, and any layman of whatever rank, demaniing or necepting such payment, was ipso facto excommunicated. -Students' France, clı. 9, $$ 16$.
4941. --. Super-Sovereign. [Innocent III.] assumed the regency of Sicily during a minority. Ne decided between rival claimants to the imperial crown of Germany, first setting up one prince and then deposing him. He excommunicated Philip [II.] of France for an unlawful marriage, and compelled him to take back his repudiated wife.-Kniahr's Ena., vol. 1, ch. 23, p. $33 \%$.
48.42. $\square$ Innocent III. [In 1208 Innocent III. Interilicted all the churches of England. King John ild not yield, and in 1813 he wis excommumbented. Immocent proceeded,] nbsolving his vassals from thelr fecilty, exhortling all Cliristlan princes and barons to assist la detlironing him, and excommunicating those who helil nny intercourse with him.
All the orilimry operitions of law were suspended. There was impunity for crime. Thero Was no safoty for property. [See No. 4035.]KNum's's ENo., vol. 1, cli. 23, p. 341.
4948. ROMANI8M va, the State. Innocent III. [Innocent III. was jope in 1207; he whs not sutisfled with spiritund power,] unless ho bould veuder that power an instrument for the sulijugntion of every European state to a humilfinting subservieney. This prineiple, as expressed hy himself in a memornble letter, was that " ins God created two luminaries, one superior for the tay, and the other inferior for the night, which last owes its splendor entirely to the first, so he has disposed that the regnl dignity should be but a reflection of the papni nuthority, and entirely subordinate to it."-Kniairt's Ena. vol. 1, ch. 23, p. 337.
4944. - England. [In 1142] Milo, Earl of ITereford, lass demanded money of the Bishop of IIereford to pay his troops. The bishop refuses and Milo then seizes hls Innds and goods The bishop then pronounces sentence of excommunicntion against Milo and his adherents, and lays an interdict upon tho whole country subject to the enrl's authority. We might hastily think that the solemn curse pronounced against a nation, or a district, was an unmeaning ceremony, with its " bell, book, and candle," to terrify only the weak-minded. It was one of the most ontrageous of the numerous ecclesiastical tyrannies. . . Under an interdict, all churehes were shut. No knell was tolled for the dead, for the dend remained unburied. No merry peals welcomed the bridal processions, for no couple could be joined in wedluck. The awe-stricken mother might have lier infunt baptized, and the dying might receive extreme unction. But all public offices of the chureh were suspended. The whole kingdom was placed by the pope under ediet [in 1208]. Knigut's Eng., vol. 1, ch. 18, p. 267.
4945.

Assumption. Dr. Lingard explains how the popes came to assume the power of deposing kings. They were at first contented with spiritual censures; but when all notions of justice came to be modelled upon the feudal principles, it was maintained that sovereigns, who held their fees from God, became traitors by disobedience; that as traitors they ought to forfeit their kingdoms or fees ; and that the pontiff, the vicegerent of God upon earth, had the right to pronounce sentence against them for the violation of fealty.-Knioit's Enc., vol. 1, ch. 23, p. 341.
48.16. ROMANISTS, Alliance of. Oath. [After the discovery of the gunpowder plot $f$ all Roman Catholies who had been convicted of recusaney, and all who had not received the sacrament twice in twelve months in a Protestant ehureh, were also required to take an oath of allegiance. In this oath the pretended power of the pope to absolve subjects from their obedience was to be qxpressly ronsinced. - K Nuint' Eno., vol, 3, eh. 92, p. 3338.
18.87. ROMANISTS denounced. C'romirell. [He says the primiple] bugius to be explonded that people are for kings and churelass, and saints are for the pope of churshmen. De goes on in this impassionad strain: " llow dare yon nssuma to and the se men your thoeks whom you have phangeal lato so lurrid a rebellion [in 16:35, in the interests of Charles II., and rgninst the Commonweaith] ly which you lave made them nal the conintry almost a ruhoms heap? and whon you have thereed, nul polled, and peched litherto mod make it your business to doso stlll. You cannot feed them, you poison them with your false, abomInable, unti-Cloristian doctrines and practices. You kee] the Word of God from them, uml instemd thereof give them your sumselfass orders and tralitions.-KNight's ENu. vol. 4, ch. 0, p. 126.
48.8. ROMANISTS, Plot of. Asmessinction. [In 1880 it was arranged liy the lhomanists that ian English oflleer by the name of Savage shondi assassinate Queen Ellzabeth, und confederatas would liberate Catholle Mary Queen of Siots. The plot was changed. It was thought to be a plan of too much importance to be left to the resolution of one man. It was arranged that six should engage in that serviee. The government frustrated their plan, and the execution of conspirntors followed.]-KNigirt's ENG., vol. 3, ch. 13, p. $18 \%$.
4849. ROYALTY, Atroolty of, Constrentinople. Constantinople itself was for some nges the theatre of disgraceful resolutions, achieved by the most atrocions erimes. The attention dwells with horror on the bloody tragedies of thls period: one emperor assassinated in revenge of murder and incest; nnother poisoned by his own wife; a third stabbed in the buth by his servants ; a fourth plucking out the eyes of his brothers: a mother the murderer of her own son, that she might herself enjoy his throne. Of such complexion was that series of sovereigns who swayed the empire of the East for nearly two hundred years. Under all these misfortunes Constantinople still renained the most populous, the most opulent, and the most polished city of Christeblom. It was probably indebted for its welfare, nmid all these distresses, to its extensive commerce, the consequence of its situation, which gives it the command of two seas.-'TyTLeir's Hist., Book 6, ch. 4, p. 92.
4850. ROYALTY, Maternal. Napoleon $I$. Soon after Napoleon's assumption of the imperial purple, he happened to meet his mother in the garilen of St . Cloud. The emperor was surrounded with his courtiers, and half playfully extensled his hand for her to kiss. "Not so, my son," she gravely replied, at the same time presenting her hand in return; "it is your duty to kiss tate hand of her who gave you life."Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 1.
4951. ROYALTIES, Miseries of. Stututs. During the perios of their separate sovereignty over Scotland, but three of the race escaped a violent death. The first of them who aspired to the crown of Great Britain was by an English monareh doonsed to death on the scaffobil: ber gramisan was belarmaded in the mame of the binglish people. 'l'he next in the line, long a needy exile, is remembered clilefly for lils vires; amb as If alomestic come alone could uvenge the natlonal wrongs, Junes II. was redaced from royalty to begiary by tha conspirary of his own childrem.-IBANciofer's U. S., vol. 3, clı. 19.

A95\%. ROYALTY overthrown. I'uluce at Milan. A.1s. 1 Jots. The Austrians were defented at Loili ; the Areluduke Ferilumal and his aluchess thed.] Tlise moment they had departed republican zallal bist forth unrestralned. The tri-colored erokasle sumed sudilenly to lave fallin, us by magic, mpon the lasts and (raps of the maltituls...."A placuril was apon the palace-" This homse to let ; for the kcys upply to the Frowh (ommissloner " [Naןoleon Bonaparte]. - Anmotre'n Naboleon 13., vol. 1, cli. 5.

4B5S. ROYALTY, Rejected. Statue of Ceorge III. The Derelaration [of lindependence] was read on the 0th [of July] to every brignde din New York City. In the evenligg a mob, composed in purt of solslers, threw down the squesi rian btatue of George III., which stood in the Bowling Green, and the lend of which it was formed wns cut in pleces to be run Into bullets. The riot offended Washington, and was rebuked in genernl orders.- BAncnory's U'. S., vol. 9 , clf. 1.

4D54. RUIN, An expressive. Rome. [In the fifterenth century.] This speetncle of the worla, how is it fallen ! how chunged! loow dofaced! The path of vicfory is obliternted by vines, and the benclies of the sentors are concealed by a dingghill. Cast your eyes on the Palatine Ifill, and seek among the shapeless and enormous fragments the marble thentre, the obelisks, the colossnl statues, the porticos of Nero's pulnce; survey the other hills of the city ; the vacunt space is interrupted only by ruins and gardens. The forum of the Roman people, where they assembled to enact their laws nnd elect their magistrates, is now enclosed for tho cultivation of pot-herbs, or thrown open for the reception of swine and buffaloes. The puble und private edifices that were founded for eternity lie prostrate, naked, amd broken, like the limbs of a mighty gimbt; and the ruin is the more visible from the stupendous relies that have survived the injuries of time and fortune. -Ginison's Rome, ch. 71, p. 517.

4D55. RUIN, Inevitable. Reign of Jitmes $I I$. [Athe trial of the seven bishops who refused to aid the king in overthrowing the Protestant Chureh.] The jury was sworn; it consisted of persons of highly respectable station. The foreman was Sir Roger Langley, a haronet of old and honorable family. With him were joined a knight and ten esquires, several of whom are known to liave been men of large possessions.

One name excited considerable alarm, that of Michael Arnold. He was brewer to the palace, and it was apprehended that the government counted on his voice. The story goes that he complained bitterly of the position in which he found himself. "Whatever I do," he said, "I am sure to be half ruined. If I say Not Guilty, I shall brew no more for the king ; and if I say'
 [The mases of the people sided whit the bish-

AOSES RUIN, Natlonal, liy Erpmusion. Iagronions men maty priat ont a varlely of fatero hat us well as extermal clremmstane wheng han their operation in producfigg the derellow, and at length the roin of this immense fintrif: tmit they may tee all redued to one single hati. The fall of the Roman cmple was the InevitaDise effect of lia overgrown extension. The commonweralth subsisted by the virtuons mad pitriotie ardor of the ciltianos; but the passion for compuest, which at tlent fomend sutherent Nopo lat the domestle: war mong the Itillan sutes, wis, after their reduction, inecesmilly ex. tended to a distance. Remote dominton reliexad the patrotie affection, which of neerssity grew the weaker, the more extensive wore lts ohjectis. The viees of the conquared mation infecterl the victorlons leglons, and fordign luxuries corrupt. ed their conmanders. Solfish interent took the place of publie virtue ; the people were castaved by despots, who, regurding us the thest ohject the security of their own power, fomal it often their whest polley to abse that marthal spirit which was no less formidnble to the matter of the state than to lts foreign enemics. Thus the military charnctor of the Romans went grmanlly to decay, because it was purposely depressed by the emperors; and thas their extensive dominions, wanting their aecessary support of brave, of virtuons, and of disciplined troops, fell an ensy prey to that torrent of barbarians whilh overwhelmed them.-'Tythen's Hist., Book is, ch. 6, p. 21.
4957. RULER, A oapable. Killdtr. In 1404 Ilenry [VIl.] took the conntry in hamd. Sir Edward Poynings, a tried soldler, was despatched as deputy to Irelnad with troops at his back. English oflleers, Engllsh juiges, were quictly sent over. The lords of the pale were scured hy the seizare of their leader, the Earl of Kildare. . . . The time had not yot come when Enghand was strong enough to hold Irelind by her own ntrength. For it while the lords of the pale mist still serve as the English garrison against the unronquered Irish, mad Henry ealled his prisoner Kildare to his presence. "All Ireland cammot rule this man," grumbled his ministers. "Then shall he rule all Trelnad," langhed the king, and Kildare returned as lord-leputy to hold the country logally in Ilemry's mane.-Hist. of Eno. Peolle, § 498.
4958. RULER, Conoeited. Jrames II. James was always bonsting of his skill in what he called kingeraft ; and yet it is hardly possible even to imagine a course more directly opposed to all the rules of kingeraft than that which he followed. The policy of wise rulers has always been to disguise strong acts under popular forms. It was thus that Augustus and Napoleon established absolute monarchies, while the public regarded them merely as eminent citizens invested with temporary magistracies. The policy of James was the direct reverse of theirs. He enraged and alarmed his Parliament ly constantly telling them that they held their privileges merely during his pleasure, and that they had no more business to inquire what he might lawfully do than what the Deity might hawfally do. Yiet he
 1. IN.

ADSIO. RULER, Embarras nd. Prince of Hider.
 Prashytorhans, as hostile to the ladepemitent faith of Cromwell ins to the papmey liself, treated for the throne with the Prinere of Wiles. They only required of him, in neknowlodgment of his res. toration in scothand, the recognition of their mathomal Church. This Chureh was a species of biblical mystidism, suvage, and calliug ltself laliy $n$ prophet maned John Knox, with the sword la his limal, exeommandention on his $\mathrm{ll}_{\mathrm{j}} \mathrm{w}$, mad superatition In his heart - the true religion of civil war, replactug one intolermese by another, nad ndiling to the natural ferocity of the people the most ridlenlous assumption of extreme smethy. Sooland at that the resembied a Hebrew tribe, governed by a lender nssuming divine inspiration, hiterpreted through hils diselples and priests. . . The Prince of Wales, young, handsome, thoughtlens, voluptuous, and unlelieving -a true English Alclbinden-condemned to govern a mation of bigoted and cruel secturists, hesitated to nerept a throne whith he could only kerp by foigning the hypocrisy and fanatieisn of his parlinmsent, or by rashly repudiating the yoke of the elergy.-Damaitine's Cbonwell. 11. 50.
4960. RULER, An excollent. Salitin. Egypt, Syria, mal Arabia were adorned by the roynd foundations of bosplats, colleges, and mosepues, and Cuiro was fortitted whth a wall and eltudel; but his works were consecruted to public use: nor did the statan indulge himself in a garden or pulace of private laxiry. In a fanatic age, himself a funatie, the genuine virtues of Salatin commmaded the esteem of the Christlans; the Emperor of Germany gloried in his friendshlp; the Greek emperor solicited his alliance; and the conquest of Jerusulem difused, and perhaps magnitied, his fame both in the East and West. -Ğमио's Rome, ch. 59, p. 23.
4191. RULER, A foollsh. Justinian II. [OA Constantinople.] The nume of a trimmphant lawgiver was dishonored by the viecs of a boy, who imitated his mumesuke only in the expensive luxury of building. Ilis pussions were strong ; his understanding was feeble; and he was intoxtented with a foolish pride that his birth had given him the command of millions, of whom the smallest community would not hove chosen him for their local magistrate. His favorite ministers were two beings the least susceptible of human sympathy, a elnuch and a monk; to the one be abandened the palace, to the other the finances; the former corrected the emperor's mother with a scourge, the latter suspended the insolvent tributaries, with their heads downward, over a slow and smoky fire.-Gibbon's Rоме, ch. 48, p. 577.
4962. RULER, A great. Alfred the Great. [See No. 5876.] Alfred, whether we view him in his public or private character, deserves to be esteemed one of the best and greatest of princes. IIe united the most enterprising and heroie spirit with the greatest prudence and moderation; the utmost vigor of authority with perfect affability sual it most whalag deportment ; the most ex emphary fustlee whith the prentest lenity. Ilis - Ivll tulents were in every respeet equil to his milltary virtnes. Ile found the klagidna la the most miserahle comdition to which amarchy, domestie larimarism, and foreign hoselity conid roduce it; hy the valor of hifs armas, arad by has mhilites as a pollticlum and lawgiver, be brought It to a phiteh of embarece and ghory which, till then, Enghad had never atadned. The outhares of hisalaimble plan of pollical ceonomy merit particular attention, as le ing, la fact, the foundation of the venerable symem of the Britinh ('onstlation. Alfred, la whort, In evory view of his character, mast be regaridel an one of the whest mad lest of mand that ever orouphed the
 ch. 5, p. 100.
40633. - - Churias Virtel. Charless Martel governed fromer for abont histy yrars with great wisdom, spirit, mad ubility. He was victorions over all his iatestine foes ; he kept in nwe the arighboring matons; he delivered lits comatry from the ravages of than Nacens, whom he entively delemted betwern'Tours nad poletiers -thasaverting the fomment damere of Mahomethnism oversprembliag Westorn burope; and he died homored mal hamented.-T'rithata Mist., Beok 6. ch. 2, 1. 50.
408.s. $\qquad$ Citulte. C'mate, from the extent of his dominions, was one of the greatest momarchs of the age. lie was soverejgn of benmark, Norway, and Enghand. IIs charneter, as King of bingland, was not uniform. Ite was, in the first years of his regign, detented lyy his sulhjeets, whom he londed with the honviest taxes, and cxasperated by mumberless actia of violence and oppression. In his later years his adminlatration was mild and erguitable.-TyTrem's Hists., Book 6, ch. 6, p. 118.
4963. RULER, A horrible, Nero. llow he songht to revive the flagging pulse of exhansted pleasure by macard-of erormities, and strove to make slame shameless by undinguised pablicity; how he put to death the last descen lant of Augustus, the last descendant of Tiherias, and the last deseendant of the Clandii; how he ended the hricf but heart-rending tragedy of the bifo of Ochavia by defmaing herimoocence, driving her to the island of Puadataria, and there enforeing her assissimation buder circumstances so sad as might have moved the hardiest villain to tears; how he hastened by poison the denth of Burrus, and entrasted the vast power of the pret mian command to Tigellinus, one of the vilest of the haman race; how, when he had exhmasted the trensures amassed by the dignitied economy of Clandins, he filled his coffers by contisenting the estates of innoeent victims; how he caused the death of his second wife, Poppren, by a kick inflicted on her when she was in a delicate condition; how, after the detection of the conspiracy of Piso, he seemed to revel in blood; how he ordered the death of Sencea; how, by the execution of Pweus Thrasen and llarea Soranus, he strove to extinguish the last embers of Roman magnanimity, and to slay " virtue itself ;" how wretches like Vatinius became the cherished favorites of his court ; how his reign degenerated into one perpetual orgy, at once monstrous and vulgar-into these details, fortunately. we nere?
not follow his awful career. . . . I'robably no man who ever tived has erowided lato fonrteen years of life so black a catalogne of iniguitien as this collot d'Ilerhols upoa an lanperinl throne.Finmais Eahir 1)aye, ch. 3, p. $2.

18BB. ROLER, An Indopendent. /amea $I$. Jumes was a trm lellever In the divinty which doth make a klag; luat itmast seem momething surprising that, however Scotland might bow down graclonsly torach follies, Enghad whould Fidd an compllantly to his will. Tlls reply to his thest comavellors yoma his arrival in Faghand Is well kimwn: "Jo I mak the Julges? do 1 mak the lishomes then, forel is wamela mak what likes ma, law and gomplo." Commentlag upon this, John Forster, in his " Statemanen of Einghall,"'siys, " he was not all ahmolute fool. und little more can be saill of him."-lloon's reign like a monster, by mangling ginetera of his brothers, mad drownilug I welve of his finther's concubiars, on the supposithon of their lowing pregant. Yet this barbavinas sipported the dignity of the copive and extended its domindons. -TyTresis Hist., Beok 13, ch. $3, D. 330.

486\%. RULER, Natural, (irneril tront. Ilis father being juor, as somitas l'ysses was able to help ham he was put to work, to the neglect of his education. At the nge of dight he was thaght to drive a teman, and at ton was necustomed to drive one from Georgetown-to which place his finther had removed- to Ciacimant, is distance of forty miles, and bring a lomd back.Ileadmey's Genemal. Grant, p. 26.
4969. RULER, Popular. Emperor Altiun. On his return to Rone, his comduct was such as to lagratinte him with every rank of the citizens. Ife remitted all the dehts due to the treasury for the last sixteen years, by burning the records and oblifatlons. He bestowed liberal presents upon those mongst the ancient fumilies who lad fallen lato indigence, and appointed new funds for the maintenance nad education of the children of the poor. He then undertook a progress through all the provinees of the empire, repressing aboses, and atudiondy relieving the people wherever he found the taxes too herivy or exorbitant. IIe rebuilt many cities which had been destroyed or had fillen iato ruin. Among the rest he rebuilt Jerasnlem, which he maned -Etiat Capitolina. In these progresses through his dominions, so careful was he in avoiding everything which might distress the provinces, that he used no equipage or show, but travelled on foot and lived with the frugnity of a common soldier. This exemplary conduct made him beloved and resprected by his subjects, as much as he was formidable to the enemies of the empive from his cournge and resolution. Itis popwharity becames so grent that hestood not in need of the ensigns of power and authority. The guards, and the fasces he deemed supertluous to him who made it his study to reign, not over the persons, but over the hearts of his subjects. -'Tytlein's Hint., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 497.
4970. - Charlemagne. This great prince was no less respectable in his private than in his pablic character. Ite was a man of tha mont mininhle dimponithons, mod there never was a moverofgn to whoms his milojuate ware more uttuchoel from considernifon of jerpoinal regard, wonumy of hils fambly, which is chaructiristlo. of man nge of urent minullelty. Ife never rofer abirond withont belag nitemded lay his mons mad danghters : the formor he linstructed fan nll mins.

 intly skilled: innd lils ilmughters, acoording tos
 ly comployed fis the virlons fabors of housewflery, purticularly In mpinning wool wili the distiff. Fur hive dillilron lio fimblaged la nil the affection of the fondest parent, sud he bore the prematire loss of some of thementile lese matgmanimity than might linve beron expreted frons:
 (ll. 3, 11. Fil.

197 1. RULER, A righteous. Juriwh hï!\%. A Jetter whilelf ('mut wrotenfler twelve yand of rule to his linglish subjects marks the grandeur formed of klugstif!. " I have vowod to Gol to lemil a right life in all thlngs," wrote the king, " (u) rule jusily mal plously my renlma nud sulifeets, nond to mimindater fust judgment to nill. If heretofore I have done anght loeyomel what wis just, through bendiness or negligence of youth, I "un ready, with doal's help, to monemd it utterly." No roynl otllere, either for far of the king or for fuvor of uny, is to cousent (o) injustice, none is to do wrong to rich or poor, "hs they would value my fremdenip mal their own well-heing." Ite res.ecinlly denounces unfinir exnethons: "I hive no need that money be henped togetiaer for me iny unjust demmads." "I linve sent this letter befor" me," C'nut ends," that all the people of my renln may rojotee'in my well-loling for as you yourselves kuow, never have I spared, nor will I spmir, to spend inyself and my toil in what is needful nul good for my people." C'unt's greatest gift to his people wis that of peree. With him begno the long intermal trurquil'ity which was from this time to be tho key-note of the mationnt history. [Dnte, enrly in the eloventh contury.]-IIsrr. of Exa. I'EoPLE, S. 87 .

A872. RULER, Ruinous. Hecelless. After his enfranchisement from th oppressive gumrilinn, Jolan Paheologus remained thiriy-six yeurs "? helpless, und, as it shonld seem, the careless sper tutor of the public ruin. Love, or rathe" $1 \cdot \cdots$, was his only vigorons phssion; nad in the ". inbraces of the wives and virgins of the eity, the Turkish slave forgot the dishenor of the eaperor of the Romans [oi the Eustern empire].-Gilhon's Rome, ch. 64, p. 242.
4973. RULER, A shameless, Charles $I I$. A king might be pardoned for nimusing his leisure with wine, wit, and benuty, but it was intolernhle that he should sink into a mere sannterer and voluptuary; that the gravest affairs of state should be negleeted, and that the public service should be starved and the flnances doranged in order that harlots and parasites inight grow rjeh. -Macaulay's Eng., ch. 2, p. $17 \%$.
4974. RULER, A spirited, Charles XII. [After the defeat of the Swedes at Pultowa.] Charles, a fugitive, with a few followers, crossed tha river Indipur, ind sompht manglinim In the de.. the conduct of Charlen, In Aweden, whero is wis not known whether their klag wins demif or nllve, the regency had thamghts of rapitulatiog. whh the "zar. Whiris ('hurlem heario of this pros. jusal, fie wrote th the me'mate that he wonlad mend them one of his heots togovern them. Whith his fiehler trints of followers, whon nmonnted only to comart of ('onstanimoplo la arta in his favor

 (.h. ili, 1' $4 \times 1$ ).
1075. RULER, A superior. Imery Ill I'tu army of Richmomal smag in lymm telion upon the thelal of Inatile |of liowwoth|, mat whith the lonstest mectmmetons prochbimed him as Ifenty un come to the civil wars betwern the lasuanes of Surk mat Immenster. Ifenry, liy marryfing the Princess Eilzalneth, danghter of Eilwiral IV.. tuiteal in his own permon the interests and rights of buth these fandiles. 'I'hls exaretlont prince, wha knew how to govern us well ne to conquer, was onte of the best momarelis that ever refigned In Engrland. 'The mition, under his wise ami pelifie miministration, sonon recovered the womids It hud sustainad in those momapy conteste. The purlimments whild lie mssembled made the most sulutary laws. the prople paid thedr tuxas without rehisenmere, the nobles were kopt in due suburallmiton, nud that spirit of commer. cla! induntry for which the English have been, in these latior nges, justly distinguishod, legan to makn vigorons mivnnces maler the reign of Ifenry'VII. The only failing of this prince wis an ceonomy, perhnpis foo rigid, whiclh, in his thomgh his baxes wore not oppressive, lie left in the treasiby, ut his denth, , ol less than two milldons sterling. - 'T'TIEEA' Ilint., Book b, ch. 14, 1. 22 N .

A876. RULERS, Change of. " Jontini's War." The Fremeh bud won the ntleations of the savnges by their pliability mad ilueir temperanee, and rotuined it by raligions fnthuence; they secmed bu wore to be minsters, but compunions and frionds. ['The French were driven out of Cunadia und the west by the English.] More formidable enomies now uppenred, nrrognont in their pretensions, seothling insolently nt those whom they supersaled, driving awny their Cntholic priests. and introdneing the truffe in rum, which till then had been effectially arohibited. [War fol-lowed.]-B.nchoft's E. S., vol. 5, ch. 7.
4977. RULERs, Mavy. Gi.r Einperors. For the first, and indeed for the last time, the Komun world was administered ly six emperors. In the West, Constantine nud Maxentins affected to reverence their father Maximian. In the East, Liclnins und Maximin honored with more real consideration their benefactor Galerius. The opposition of interest and the memory of a recent war divided the empire into two great hostile powers; but their mutual fears produced an appurent tranquillity.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 14, p. 466.

48\%为. RULERS, Precise and parental. John Honoard. He began the education of his son al.
mont an moen an the child was oft emomghto manifest it jureference. He linid it down as an hag that it cried for - an excellent principhe when it is mod carried toos far, hat one which is mach hetter enfored by a mother than a father. A mother dowes not usintly hay down day hitiox Stion rale for the governanot of a very young child, but varlen har triatoment wih the wera. slen. [The sen berinne hif fillores shatue amd

487!. RULERS, Reaponalbllity of licifue of

 wommed matomi pride, Tlut geomernton huil
 terms will Firmere, veforiones over Ifolland amd Hpain, the misticess of the sen, the terror of llame, the hemi of the brotestant linterent. Ifer remonrces lad not dhainished; mul it might have beon expected that whe would have heen at least as highly considered in Enrope mader a legitimate king, Atrong th the affection und willing olvediance of his subjects, ustare buid been buder a usirper whose utmost vigilance and energy were reciulied to kep down a mutinons poople; yet she hat, in eonseguconce of the fabecility and meanmess of her rulers, sumk so low that any German or Italime prinelpallty which brought flve thousand men finto the thelid was amore fin. portant member of the commonwentih of ma-homs.-Macaulay'h Eivg., eh. id, j. 2l.\%.

ABNO. RULERS, Reaponalbllity of. British. They might safely be tyrmats withinthe precinet of the court, but it was necessary for them to watch with constant anxiety the temper of the country. Homy VIll., for example, encombtered no opposttion when he wished to send Buckinghamand Surrey, Anne Boleynand Lady Salisbury, to the serufold; but when, withonit the consent of Parliament, he demanded of his minjects $a$ contribution amonnting to one slath of their goods, he soon fomme it necessary to retract. The cry of hundreds of thonsands was that they were Englishand not French, freemen and not slaves. - Macadlay's Eng., ch. 1, p. 38.
4981. RULERS, Terrifylng. Roman. All the vice, all the splendor, all the degrudation of Phgan IRome, seemed to be gathered up in the person of [Nero] thit emperor who first placed himself in a relation of direct antugonism against Christianity. Long beforedeath ended the astute comedy in which Augustus had so gravely borne his part, he had experienced the Nements of Al). solutism, and foreseen the awful possibilities which it involved. But neither he nor any one else could lave divined that four such rulers as Tiberius, Gaius, Chadins, and Nero-the first a sanguinary tyrant, the second a furious madman, the third an uxorious inabecile, the fourth a heartless buffoon-would in succession aftliet and horrify the world. Yet these rulers sat upon the breast of Rome with the paralyzing spell of a nightmare. The concentration of the old pro. rogatives of many offlees in the person of one, who was at once Consul, Censor, Tribune, Pontifex Maximus, and perpetual Imperator, fortified their power with the semblance of legality, and that power was rendered terrible by the sword of the Pretorians and the deadly whispre of tho haformorn.-fiaman' Fiali. Daym, (H. 2, p. 11 .

ADEs, RULEES, UDedueated, " ('rorrict Ana," [ He was ono of the varly rulere of a part of Angos in Frame. | Alome of him ruce, Fink then the choir of 'fomirs and 10 the culled "cman." One Burtimmas eve Fiulk Wan singing there in clerkly guise when lloe Fremela king, lanis d'Outrenur, entered the churels. " Ilo slaga likn apilest," faughed the kiag, as bla molder pointod moxkingly to the thate of the comint canom. But Fulk was romily with his reply, "koow, my luril," wrote the ("onit of Anjon, "tlant a king milearmed is a crownol anल." "rulk was in fuet penco, and carryligy justa to avery cormer of the wasted lani. To hinu alone of his ruer ment gave the lithe of " the (hemi."-Hasoory or Eina.

1048. RUMORS, Wolcomed, Itruth if $1 \%$ ios II. We cmant, therefore, womber ithat wad storles withont manber were repmed mind beHeved by the commen prople. Ills Majesty's tongue hat swelled to the nize of ancot's tongne. A cake of deleterione powder siad berol fomid in his Irain. There were bloe spots on his breant. There were black spots on his shander. Nomething had berel put into his snulf-box, Something had been pist dato lis broth. Nomething had heen put lito his favorite dishof egess and nmbergris. The Duchoss of Purtamonth had poisoned him in a eup of chocolnte. The queen luad poisoned him In a jar of drled penrs. Such tales ought to be preserved, for they furmish us with a mensure of the intelligence and virtioe of the generation which engerly devoured them.Macaulay'h Eno., ch. 4, [. 411.

4DEA. RUNAWAY, A distinguinhed, Forncisco lizarro. One diny a pig striyed from tho herd and could mot le fonnd. l'izarro, dreading his futher's mager, dured not go lome. Ite mado hifs way to a recruiting atalion, enlisted in tho Spanish army as a private soldier, and served for a while in Italy. Attructed by the marvels related of the New World, mind being unturally fond of ndventure, he, too, joineal at length an expedition to America, and, arriving at Hispmioln, served under Cohmbins, and soon won distinction. He hal every quality that fits a man for a life of daring advediture.-C'ychoredia of Btoc., p. 323.

4DE5. SABBATH, Defenceless on the. Terusinlem. P'olemy advanced into, Julen, and formed the siege of Jerusalem. The city was so strong by its advantageous siluation, in conjunction with the works of art, that it would luive sustained a long siege, had it not been for the religious fear the Jews entertained of violating tho law, if they should defend themselves on tho Sabbath. Ptolemy was not long unacquainted with this particular ; and in order to improve the great advantage it gave him, ho chose that day for the general assault ; and as no individual among the Jews would presume to defend himself, the city was taken without any difflculty, Rollin's Hist., Book 16, § 4.
4986. SABBATH desecrated, Nobility. The private offences, in the support of whose official interdiction Wilberforce formed a soclety, were, profanation of the Lord's day, swearing, drunkenness. The great gave their Sunduy eard-parties and Sunday concerts long after Hannah More published, in 1796, her "Estimate of the Religion of the Fashionnhle World. "-Knialtr's Ling., yol. 8, ch. 7, p. 123. .
4987. $\qquad$ Lontlon. IIn London, in 1141] in cuery Sunday in Lent, a compmy with hances and shields went out to joust.-KNrontres Eva., vol. 1, ch. 18, p. 204.
4088. - - England, 1388. [The law required] every servant of hasbandry laborer, and servant of artificer, . . . they shall have bows and arrows, and use the same on Sumbys and holidays.-Knigit's Eno., vol. 2, ch. 1, p. 14.
4989. sabbath misspent. Churles II.-Last. llis palace had seldom presented a gayer or a more scandalous appearance than on the evening of Sunday, the first of February, 168i. . . . The great gallery of Whitehall, an admirable relic of the magniticence of the Tudors, was crowded with revellers and gamblers. The king sat there chatting and toying with three wonen, whose charms were the boast and whose vices were the disgrace of three nations. Barbara Palmer, Duchess of Cleveland, was there, no longer young, but still retaining some trices of that superb and voluptuous loveliness which twenty years before overcame the hearts of all men. There, too, was the Duchess of Portsmonth, whose soft and infuntine features were lighted up with the vivacity of Frunce. IIortensia Mancini, Duchess of Mazarin, and nicee of the great cardinal, completed the group. [IIe died on Friday following.]-Macauhay's Eng., ch. 4, p. 399.
4990. SABBATH Observance enforced. Puritans. [In 1653] one unhappy victim is stocked three hours, for the heinous offence of going to Charminster immediately after dinner on Easter day, and eating milk and cream with some lads and lassies, upon which entertainment they spent twopence each. Even the plat that the moving about on the Sabbuth-day was to henr a preacher in another parish was no mitigation of the offence of taking a longer walk thim to the cburch at the offender's own door. ... A tailor is brought up f fre working at two oclock on a January morning, to have a piece of his manufacture complete in due time for some orthotox church-goer. Children are punished for playing at nine stones. IIsuging out clothes to dry on the Sabbath was ma especial offence.Kniciets Eng., vol. 4, ch. 9, p. 12̃.
4991. Sabbath, Privacy on the. Washington. On Sunday no visitors were admitted to the President's house, save the inmediate relntives of the family, with only one exception, Mr. Speaker Trumbull, since Governor of Connecticut, and who had been confidential secretary to the ehief during the war.-Cestis' Wasirington, vol. 1, ch. 2.
4992. sabiatH rejected, The. France. The revolutionary tribunals had closed the churches an. ${ }^{9}$ prohibited the observance of the Sabbuth. To -fface if possible all traces of that sacred day, they had appointed every tenth day for cessation ${ }^{f}$ rom labor and for festivity. I hatay tine was.
inflicted upon any one who should close his shop on the Sabbath, or manifest any reverence for that discarded institution.-Anbott's Napoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 10.
4993. SACRAMENT, Inconalistency with the. Join of Arc. [She was informed that she must be burnt at the stake that day.] After this burst of grief, she recovered herself and confessed; she then asked to communicate The brother was embarrassed ; but consulting the bishop, the hitter told him to administer the sacrament, "and whatever else she might ask." Thus, at the very moment he condemned her as a relapsed heretic, and cut her off from the Church, he gave her all that the Chureh gives to her faithful. Perhmps a last sentiment of humanity awoke in the heart of the wicked judge; ho considered it enough to burn the poor creature. without driving her to despair und damning ber. Perhaps, also, the wicked priest, through freethinking levity, allowed her to reeeive the sacraments as a thing of no consequence, which, after all, might serve to calm and silence tho shlferer.-Michelet's Joan of Aifc, p. 55.
499.4. SACRIFICE consumed. By Lightn'ing. A prodigy that happened at Amphipo!'s testíaed also the favor of the gorls. The consul was offering sacrifice there, and the sacred ceremonies were begun, when a thash of lightning fell upon the altar, and at once consumed and consecrated the victim.-Plittabeita Paulus Emilus.
4995. sacrifice, Homan. Arabs. The life of a man is the most precious oblation to deprecate a public calumity: the altars of Phonicia and Egypt, of Rome and Carthage, have been polluted with human gore; the cruel practice was long preserved among the Arabs; in the third century a boy was annually sacrificed by the tribe of Dumatians; and a royal captive was piously slaughtered by the prince of the Saracens, the ally and soldier of the Emperor Justinian. A parent who drags his son to the altar exhibits the most painful and sublime effort of fanaticism; the decd, or the intention, was sanctified by the exmmpie of saints and heroes.-Ghason's Rome, ch. 50, p. 95.
4996. -- Caculs. Many of the religions rites among he Gauls were eruel and bloody. Inuman sacrifices were of frequent occurrence. It was believed that the life of man cannot be purchased but by that of his fellowman; that the gods cannot be propitiated but, at this costly price. Accordingly, those who ware attacked by dangerous sickness, and those who were about to expose themselves to the hazards of war, procured through the ministry of the Druids the immolation of human victims on their behalf. Public sacrifices of the same kind were sometimes held. A colossal human figure was made of wieker-work, and its huge limks filled with the bodies of living men, generally condemned criminals or captives taken in war. The image was then set on fire.Students' France, ch. 1, § 10.
4997. - - Suctes. Till the end of the cleventh century, a celebrated temple subsisted at Upsal, the most considerable town of the Swedes and Goths. It was enriched with the $g r$.t which the Scandinavians had acquired in? ir piratical adventures, and sanctitied by the unconth representutions of the three principal dedties, the god of war, the goddess of gencration, and the god of thunder. In the general festival that was solemmized everyninth. year, nine animals of every specios (withont excepting the haman) were saterifled, and their bleeding bodiess suspended in the sucred grove alducent to the temple.-Gimbon's Rone, ch. 10 , p. 283.
4998. -- Limans. [The Romans were expecting the atuck of the Ginuls.] The vast prepurations they made were further proofs of their fears (for it is said that so many thousands of kommes were never seedin arms cither before or since), and so were the new and extruordinary sucritices which they offeren.
They buried two Greeks-a man and a woman, and likewise two Gauls, one of ench sex, alive in the beast-market.-P'lutarich.
4999. 8LCRIFICES, Christian. Joh $n$ Nedson. [One of Mr. Wesley's most heroic und successful prenchers was a stone-cutter by trade.] Ite kept hewing stone by day, mad preaching by night.
[His suecess nwakened opposition.] The ale-house keepers complained of the loss of their customers by his preaching, und the parish elergyman wished not sucha rivil near him. Ite was arrested . . . as a vagrant without visible means of support.

Five hundred pounds bail was refused, witnesses were rejecied, save his clerical nceuser. Nelson repelled the charge manfully. "I am as able to get my living by my hands," said he, "usuny man of my trade in England is, and you know it." [Hle was impressed for the army.] At Bradforit he was planged into a dangeon, into which llowed blood mid filth from a slangh-ter-house above it, so that it smelled, he says, " like a pir-stye ; but my soul," he adds, "was so filled with ile love of God that it was paradise to me." There was nothing in it to sit on, and his only bed was a heap of decayed straw. -Stevens Methonsm, vol. 1, p. 20í.
500e SACRIFICES, Ministerial. Re?. Thos. Sinith. He rode forar thousand miles and preached four hundred sermons in one year, and laid many nights on wet cabin floors sometimes covered with snow through the night, and his horse standing under a pelting storm of snow or rain, undint the eand of the year received his travelling expenses and four silver dollars of his sihary.-Stevens' M. E. Cuinen, eh. 4, p. 269.
5001. SACRILEGE, Infamous. ITakem the Turk. The temple of the Christinn world, the church of the Resurrection, was demolished to its foundations; the luminous prodigy of Easter was interrupted, and much profane labor was exhausted to destroy the cave in the rock which properly constitutes the holy sepulchre. At the ruport of this sacrilege, the nations of Europe were astonished and afflicted; but, instead of arming in the defence of the Holy Land, they contented themselves with burning or banishing the Jews as the secret advisers of the impious barbarian.-Grbron's Rome, ch. 57, p. 632.
5002. SACRILEGE, Sectarian. Sacking of Constantinople. The churches were profaned by the licentiousness and purty zeal of the Latins. [The Romm Cutholies.] After stripping the gems and pearls, they converted the chalices into drinking-cups; their tables, on which they gamed and feasted, were covered with the piciures of Clirist und the saints; and they trampled mader foot the most venerable objects of the Cliristian worship. In the cuthedral of N . Sophia the mmple veil of the sanctmary was rent asmader for the sake of the golden fringe; und the altar, a monnment of urt and riches, was broken in pieces mad shared mong the captors. Their mules and horses were laden with the wronght silver and gilt carvings which they tore down from the doors und pulpit; mud if the beasts stumbled under the burden, they werestabbed by their impatient drivers, and tho looly parement streamed with their impure blowl. A prostitute was seated on the throne of the patriarch; and that daughter of Belial, as she is styled, sung and danced in the church, to ridienle the hymms and processions of the Ori-chtals.-Gimon's Rome, ch. 60, p. 93.
5003. SAFETY, Publle. Inhmanity. [Gothic youths were distributed throngh the empire as hostages. They were tempted to conspiro against their masters.] As soon as he [Julins] had obtained the discretionary power of acting as he should judge most expedient for the good of the republic, he assembled the principal olllcers, and privately concerted effectual mensures for the execution of his bloody design. An order was inmediately promulgated, that, on a stated day, the Gothic youth should assemble in the capital cities of their respective provinces; and as a report was industriously circulated that they were summoned to receive a liboral gift of lands and money, the pleasing hope allayed the fury of their resentment, and, perhaps, suspended the motions of the conspinacy. On the appointed day, the umurmed crowd of the Gothic youth was carcfully collected in the sinare or forma ; the strects ind avenues were occupied by ine Roman troops, and the roofs of the houses wer: covered with archers and slingers. At the same hour, in all the cities of the East, the signul was given of indiscriminate shanghter ; nnd the provinces of Asia were delivered, by the crucl prublence of Julius, from a domestic eneny, who, in a few months, might have carried fire and sword from the Ilellespont to the Euphrates. The urgent consideration of the public safity may nalombtedy athorize the violation of every positive law.-Gnmos's IRome, ch. 26, p. 56.

5004 . SAFETY, Selfish, Darius. [When Darius fled with his routed army hefore Alexander the Great, he was in great peril of his persomal safety.] Justin tells us, that when those about Durius advised him to break down the bridge of the Cydnus, to relard the enemy's pursuit, be answered, "I wiil never purchase safety to myself at the expense of so many thousands of my subjects as must by this means be lost."-Plutarch's " Alexander," Langhorne's Note.
5005. 8AILOR, A great. Sebastian C'abot. [By his great discoveries in America] he advanced the commerce of England . . and was pensioned as the great seaman.-Bancroft's Hist. of U. S., vol. 1, ch. 1.
5006. SAILOR, Trials of the. Sitm. Johnscn. Ilis negro servant, Francis Barber, having left him and been some time at sea, . . . it state of life of which Johnson always expressed the utmost abhorrence. IIe said, "No man will be a sailor who has contrivance enongh to get himself into a jail ; for being in a slip is being in a juil, with the chance of being drowned." And at another time, "A nian in a jail has more room, better food, und commonly better com-pany."-Boswela's Johnson, p. 95.
5007. SAILOR, Yonthful. Sir Francis Drake. When he wasabont twelve years old he was reg. ularly apprenticed to the captain of $n$ small vessel trading with Iolland and France, in which le took the place of a eabin-boy. The cabinboy of a ship in former times, like the youngest apprentice in a shop, was required to do all the old, disagreenble jobs, such as greasing the mast, washing the dishes, furling the topmast suil, coiling up the ropes, tarring the cable, freding the pig. Foung Drake performed his duties so well, learned his business so thoroughly, and won the confidence and affection of the captain to such a degree, that the captain, dying when Drake was eighteen, bequenthed him his vessel. The young man soon proved his fitness to command. Ilaving made one successful voynge to the western ports of France, he sailed next to Africa, and bronght home a good share of the gold dust and elephants' tusks of Guinea.-C'YClopedia of Biog., p. 359.
5008. SAILORS, Deatitution of, Reign of ('hurles II. It tloes not appear that there was in the service of any of the Stuarts a single naval officer, such us, according to the notions of our time, a naval oflicer ought to be-that is to say, a man versed in the theory and practice of his calling, and steeled against all the dangers of battle and tempest, yet of cultivated mind and polishud manners. There were gentlemen and there were seamen in the navy of Charles II., but the seamen were not gentlemen, and the gentlemen were not seamen.-Macadlay's Exg., ch. 3, p. 284.
5009. SAILORS, Patriotic. English. [Charles I. commanded Admiral Pennington to assist Louis in fighting the Inguenots.] For the third time Pennington took his vanguard into the Frencl harbor, and with him went, with desperate reluctance, the seven merchant ships. One captain, Sir Ferdinando Gorges, broke throngh and returned, learning that the destimation of the fieet was Rochelle. Pennington and the rest doggedly obeyed the king's warmant, and delivered up the ships and their stores without their crews, Pennington declaring that he would rather be hanged in England for disobedience than fight himself or see his seamen fight against their brother Protestants of France. He quietly looked on while his crews deserted, leaving every ship, including his own, to be manned by Frenchmen, and came back to set himself right with his countrymen. The vanguard hastened away to Rochelle, and her cannons, no longer manned by English crews, accomplished the object of the " martyr king" and "Defender of the Protestant Faith !"-"openIng fire aguinst Rochelle, and mowing down the Huguenots like grass." These were the sailors of those days, and this was the English Government of those days.-LIOOD's C'somwerı., clı. 3, 1. 60.
5010. SAINTS canonized, By Fope. The canonization of saints was practised by every bishop for twelvecenturies; at length, the cminber growing out of all bounds, the popes thought it necessary to assume the exclusive right of canonization. Pope Alexander III., one of thr most profligate of men, was the first who issued it solemn decree reserving to himself the sole right of making saints. - TyTuse's Itist., Book 6, ch. 3, p. 85.
5011. SAINTS, Marks of. Jome of Are. In the space of a few years, before and after the Pucelle, every province had its saint-either a Pierrette, a Breton peasant girl who holds converse with Jesus Christ, or a Marie of Avignon, a Catherine of Rocl elle, or a poor shepheril, such as Saintrailles brings up from lis own country, who hus the stigmata on his feet and hands, and whoswents blood on holy days like the present holy woman of the Tyrol.-Micnelet's Joas, p. 1.
5012. sAINTS, Pillar. Stylites. Among these heroes of the monastic life, the name and genius of Simeon Stylites lave been Immortalized by the singular invention of an aerial penance. At the age of thirteen the $y_{1}$ nang $?_{1}$ in leserted the profession of a shepherd , f.1. 1
himself into an austere monastery. alier a long and painful novitiate, In which Simeon was repeatedly saved from pious suicide, he established his residence on a mountain, about thirty or forty miles to the east of Antioch. Withiti the space of a mandra, or circle of stones, to which he had attached bimself by a ponderous chain, he ascended a column which was successively raised from the height of nine to that of sixty feet from the ground. In this last and lofty station the Syrian anchoret resisted the heat of thirty summers and the cold of as many winters. Habit and exercise instructed him to maintain lis dangerous situation without fear or giddiness, and successively to assume the different postures of devotion. He sometimes prayed in an erect attitude, with his outstretched arms in the figure of a cross; but his most familiar practice was that of bending his meagre skeleton from the forehead to the feet ; and a curious spectator, after numbering twelve hundred ant forty-four repetitions, at length desisted from the endless account. The progress of an ulcer in his thigh might sloorten but it could not disturb this celestial life; and the patient hermit expired without descending from his column. -Gibbon's Rome, ch. 37, p. 539.
5018. SAINTS, Worship of, Iutroduction. At Rome the bones of St. Peter and St. Paul-or, rather, what they believed to be such-were removed from their graves one hundred and fifty years after their death, and deposited in magnificent shrines. In the following $a_{0}^{-}=$Constantinople, which could boast no treasures of that kind within her own walls, had recourse to the provinces, and acquired from them the supposed bodies of St. Andrew, St. Luke, an $\perp$ St. Timothy, after these inad been dead for three hundred years. But these sacred treasures were appropriated solely to the churches of the capitals of the empire ; other cities and their churehes borrowed portions of these older relics; and where they had not interest to procure these, their priests had dexterity to diseover relies of their own. The possession of these bones was found to eonduce very much to the aequisition of more substanthal treasures. It was easy to tind skeletons, and to give them names; but it ras neeessary to prove their authenticity and witue by making these bones perform miracles. Artiflee and roguery had a powerful assistant here in popular eredulity ; and cven matural events, when ascribed to the inediation of saints and martyrs, became proofs of their divine and supernaturai power. It was easier for the vulgar mind to approach in prayer the image or simply the idea of a holy man-one who had been on earth subject to fike passions with themselves-thmen to raise their imaginations to the tremendons and incomprehensible uature of the Supreme Power ; hence the prayers to saints.-"yThen's llist., Book 5, ch. 4, p. 11.
5014. SALARY supplemented, Reign of Charles II. The regular salary, however, was the smallest part of the gains of an oflicial man of that age. From the nobleman who held the white staff and the grent senl down to the humblest tide-waiter and ganger, what would now be called gross corruption was practised without disguise and without repronch. Titles, places, commissions, pardons, were daily sold in market overt by the great dirnitaries of the realm, and every clerk in every department imitated, to the best of his power, the evil example.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 288.
5015. SARCASM, Merited. "Le toe the Thames." [In 1613 James I. threntened ruin to the Londoners by removing lis own court, and the Court of Westminster Hall, and the Records in the Tower, because he was refused by the city a donation called a "benevolence." The Lord Muyor replied :] "Your Majesty hath power to to what you please, and your city of London will obey accordingly ; but she humbly desires that when your Majesty shall remove your courts you would please to leave the Thames behind you."-Kviurt's Eng., vol. 3, ch. 22, p. 357.
6016. SAVAGES, Ancient. Germany. [The Heruli inmbited the dark forests of Gernany and Poland.] Their names, the only remnins of their language, are Gothic. They fought almost naked, like the Icelandic Berserinirs; their bravery waslike madness; few in number, they were mostly of royal blood. What ferocity, what unrestrained license, sullied their victories! The Goth respects the church, the priests, the semate; the Heruli mangle all in a general massacre: there is no pity for age, no refuge for chastity. Among themselves there is the same ferocity : the sick and the aged are put to death, at their own request, during a solemn festival; the widow ends her days by hanging herself upon the tree which shadows her husband's tomb. All these circumstances, so striking to a mind faniliar with Scandinavian history, lead us to discover among the Heruli not so much a nation as a confederacy of princes and nobles. - Milman's Note in Gibion's Rome, ch. 39, p. 16.
5017. savages, Gentle. Natires of st. Thomas. "Soloving. wo tractable. so peacenble, are these people," says Columbus in his journal, "that 1 swear to your majesties there is not In the world a better nation nor a better land. lhey love their neighbors as themselves, and their discourse is ever sweet and gentle, and accompunied with a smile; and though it is true that they are naked, yet their manners are decoroms nid praiseworthy."-Imvina's Columbus, Book 4, ch. 8.
5018. saviour, a false. Titus Oates. [Titus Oates, the infamous and unserupulous false witness who caused the death of those whom he aecused of connection with the "Popish plot,"] put on an episcopal garb except the lawn sleevessilk gown and cussock, great hat, satin hat-band and rose, long scurf-and was called, or most binsphemonsly called himself, the Saviour of tho nation. Whoever he pointed at was taken up and committed, so that many people got out of his way, as from a blast. The very breath of him was pestilential, and if it brought not imprisonment or death on whomsoever it fell, it surely poisoned reputation.-Kinant's Eva., vol. 4, th. 20, p. 337 .
5019. saviour in a Name. s, slon. [King of Sardis.] Crossus being a prisoner, was condemned by [Cyrus] the conqueror to be burnt alive. Accordingly the funeral pile was prepared, and that unlappy prince, being laid thereon, und just upon the point of execution, recollecting the conversation he had formerly had with Solon, was wofully convinced of the truth of that philosopher's admonition, and in remembrance thercof, cried aloud three times, "Solon I Solon I Solon !" Cyrus, who, with the chief officers of his court, was present at this spectacle, was curious to know why Croesus pronounced that celebrated philosopher's name with so much vehemence in this extremity. Being told the reason, and reflecting t.pon the uncertain state of all sublunary things, he was touched with commiseration at the prince s misfortune, caused him to be taken from the pile, and treated him afterward, as long as he lived, with honor and respect. Thus had Solon the glory, with one single word, to save the life of one king, and give a wholesome lesson of instruction to another.--Rolisn's Hist., Book 4, ch. 1 , art. 1.
5020. SCANDAL, Victim of, Rev. Charles Wesley. [The early Methodists were mobbed, their houses pulled down, and their lives in peril in the eity of Cork.] Twenty-eight depositions were presented to the gra ", jury against the rioters, which were all thrown out, and the jury made a remarkable presentment which still stands on the city records, and which declares that "we find and present Charles Wesley to be a person of ill-fame, a vagabond, and a common disturber of his Majesty's peace, and we pray that he may be transported."-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 1, p. 282.
5021. SCANDALS, Eccleslastical. Roman. The interested views, the selfish and angry passions, the arts of perfidy and dissimulation, the secret corruption, the open and even bloody violence which had formerly disgraced the freedom of election in the commonwealths of Greece and Kome too often influenced the choice of the successors of the apostles. While one of the candidates boasted the honors of his family, a second allured his judges by the delicacios of a plentiful table, and a third, more guilty tham his rivals, offered to share the plunder of the chureh among theaceomplices of his suerilegrions hopes. -Ginbon's Rome, ch. 20, p. 281.
5022. scarcity, Value by. Ororlis. An maknown womm is said to lutve come to 'rarguin with nine volumes of oracles written by the Sibyl of Cuma, for which she demmuled it very considerable price. Turquin refusing to purchase them at her rate, she burned three of them, und then asked the sane price for the remaninge six. Her proposal being rejected with seorn, she burned three more, and not withstanding, still insisted on her first price. Tarpuin, surprised at the novelty of the thing, put the books luto the hands of the augurs to be exmmined, who advised to purchase them at any rate. Accordingly he did, and appointed two persons of distinction, styled Duumviri, to be guardians of them, who loeked them up in a vault uniper the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, and there they were kept until they were burned with the temple ilself.-Plutarch's Peblicola, Langhonne's Note.
5023. SCEPTICS, superstitlous. Ashley Cooper, Earl of Shaftesbury. Secptics ure apt to be superstitious; the organization which favors the moral restlessness of perpetual doubt often superinduces a nervous timidity. Shuftesbury was indifferent to religion; his physical irritability made him not indifferent to superstition. He wond not fear God, but he watehed the stars; he did not receive Christianity, und he could not reject astrology--Bancrofris U. S., vol. 2, ch. 13.
5024. SCHOLARSHIP, Defective. Rubert F'ulton. At school, Robert Fulton was a dull thal troublesome boy. Books were disgusting to him. He hand the impudence to tell his tracher, one day, that his head was so full of original notions that there was no vacunt room in it for the contents of dusty books. But, out of sehool, he exhibited intelligence and tulent.-Cyciopledia of Brog., p. 153.
5025. SCHOLARSHIP by Emalation. ('luertes TII. He was exceedingly obstinate, and, like most olstinate people, was sometimes led by the nose. For example: he would not learn latin : but when he was arffully told that the King of Denmurk and the King of Polund knew that language well, he threw himself into the study of it with great energy, and became a very good seholar [and king of Sweden].-Cycloredia of Biog., p. 433.
5026. SCHOLARSHIP revived. Arabs. In the ninth century we trace the first dawnings of the restoration of science. After the fanaticism of the Arabs had subsided the caliphs aspired to conquer the arts, rather than the provinces, of the empire ; their liberal curiosity rekindled the emulation of the Greeks, brushed away the dust from their ancient libraries, and taught them to know and reward the philosophers, whose labors had been hitherto repaid by the pleasure of study and the pursuit of truth; ... a sehool was opened in the palace of Magnaurn; and the presence of Bardas excited the emulation of the masters and students. At their head was the philosopher Leo, archbishop of Thessalonicu; his profomd skill in astronomy and the mathematics was almired by the strangers of the East ; and this oceult seience was magnified by vulgar ercdulity, which modestly supposes that all knowledge superior to its own must be the effect of inspination or magic. At the pressing eutrenty of the Chesur, his friend, the celebrated Photius, renouncel the freedom of a seruhar and stadious life, aseended the patrinrehat throne, and was alternately excommunicated and absolved by the synods of the East and West. By the confession even of priestly hatred, no ait or science, exeept poctry, was forcign to this universal scholar, who was deep in thought, indr fitigable in reading, and eloquent in diction.-Gubuon's Rome, ch. 53, p. 878.
5027. SCHOOL, Aversion toward, Garibalili. When he was ahout fourteen his father took him on bourd his vessel, on one of his trips to Genoa, and put him at school in that city. The school, it seems, was a very dull one, the teachers being totally mable to interest the boys in their studies; and this active lad suffere 1 intolrably from the confinement and tedian. He and several of his companions resolved to escupe. Guribaldi understanding well the mauagement of $n$ sail-boat, they got possession of one, put some provisions on board, and set sail for the open sea. But a treacherous able, to whom the secret had been confided, betrayed them, and informed Garibaldi's father, who jumped into aswift boat and made all sail in pursuit, and soon overtook them. They all returned to school crestfallen.-Cyclopedia of Bhoo., p. 493.
5028. sCH00L, Caste in. Harrard. John Adams, in a class of twenty-four, ranked fourteenth. On state occusions, when the class entered a room, he would have gone in fourteenth. llis grandson tells us that he would not have held even as high a runk as this but that his mother's ancestors were persons of greater consequence than his father's. This custom of arranging the students in accordance with the supposed social importance of their parents prevailed at liarvard until the year 1r69, after which the alphabetical order was substituted.Cyclopedia of Bioni, p. 1in.
5029. SCHOOL, Discipline in. Samuel Johnson. There is now less flagging in our great schools than formerly, but then less is leareed there ; so that what the boys get at one end thry lose at the other.-Boswell's Johnson, 1. 26:).
5030. SCHOOL everywhere. Socrates. Socrates did not affect the manners or the hithits of a public teacher. He had no school; he gave no professed lectures on philosophy; he mingled with his fellow-citizens in all ranks of life, conversing with each man on the subjects best suited to liis occupation and talents. The theatres, the temples, the shops of the artists, the courts of justice, the public streets, were all occasionally the scene of his moral conversations and instructive arguments.-Tytler's Hist., Book 2, ch. 9, p. 268.
5031. SCHOOL of Observation. Hugh Miller. [IHe was apprenticed to a stone-mason; the] (fuarry proved to be one of his best schools...

Chessi-

 nid the ers of mifled proses Hist be press.``` cele-
```

a Nore
archal icaterl it and ly $\ln -$ $s$ for. eep in quent where other men saw nothing, he detected analogies, differences und pecoliarities which set him a thinking. Ite simply kept lis eyes and his mind open ; was sober, diligent, and persevering ; and this was the seeret of his intellectual growth.-Smiles' Bmef Bioghapintes, p. 91.

50:32. sCH00L, Perils of. Eilgar Allan Pere. [This remarkatie poet became a drunkard. Sr. John Allan, a rich merehant, adopted him. When the boy was not fuite seven years of age, he took him to London; mal, in a village near that city, he placed the little orpham at a boarding-sehool, where he left him for nempy tive years. Soliar as is known, the child had not $a$ friend, still less a relation, on that side of the ocean. IIere was an enger, vivacions, and probably precocious boy, contined in the desolattion of an English sehool; which is, gromently speaking, a seene as masuited to the proper murtare of the young as Labrador for the breeding of cmary-birds. Such a boy as that needed the tenderness of women and the watchfal rare of anatfectionate and wise father. He neded love, home, and the minute, fond attention which rare and curious plants usually receive, but which children seldom do, who are so much more worthy of it, and would reward it so much more. He needed, in short, all that he did not have, and he had in abundance much that he did not need. If the truth could be known, it would probably be found that Poe recoived at this school the germ of the evil which finally destroyed him. Certainly he failed to acquire the self-control and strong principle which might have saved him.-Cychoredia of Biog., p. 738.
5033. SCHOOL, Trials at. Nepoleon I. [The young aristocrats] sucered at the plainmess of Napoleon's dress, and at the emptiness of his purse [when at school at Brienne, near Paris]. II is proud spirit was stang to the quick by these indignities, and his temper was roused by that dlisdain to which he was compelled to submit, and from which he could find no refuge. Then was implanted in his mind that hostility, which he ever afterward so signally manifested to rank, founded not on merit, but upon the accident of birth. $\qquad$ Thirty years after this Napoleon said, "Called to the throne by the voice of the people, my maxim has always been, 'A carrer open to talent,' without distinction of birth."-Ahmoti's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. 1.
503.t. SCHOOL DAYS, Happy. Siemucl Johnson. 1fe mantanned that is boy at school was the happiest of human beings. I supported a different opinion, from which I have never yet varied, that a man is happier ; and I enlarged upon the anxiety and sufferings which are endured at school. Jomson: "Ahl Sir, a boy's being flogged is not so severe as a man's having the liss of the world against him. Men have a solicitude about fame, and the greater share they have of it, the more afraid they are of losing it."-Boswell's Jomison, p. 194.
5085. SCHOOL-LIFE, Tedious. Shakespeare. There was in Stratford an ancient grammar school, where Latin and Greek were taught; and taught (as I guess) in the ancient dull way; for this school Shakespeare attended from about his seventh to his fourteenth year, and he spans in his phays of hoys rreping "unwillingiy to selool," and of their poing from sehool with aharity. There are thirteen pmsages in the works of Slakisparare expressive of the tedimm and disgust which boys used to endure in the batharms sehools of the olden time; whereas, there is not one which allodes to sehool as a pleasiant place.-C'ychoredia of Bion., p. 24.
5036. SCHOOL-LIFE, Temptations of. Wilberforce. [Wilburfore cutcred St. John's College, (ambridge] 1756, at the age of seventeen. Ile tells his experience: "I was introdnced, on the tirst night of my arrival, to as licentions a set of men as can well be conceived. They drank hard, and their conversation was even worse than their lives. . . . After the first year I shook off in great measure my connertion with them." ILe got into better soricty. " but those," he complains, " with whom I was intimate, their objort secmed to be to make and kopp me idle. If ever I apporared stunlious thay would say to me, 'Why in the world should a man of your fortune tronble himself with fagging ?'" Wilberforce was one of the few who rould "escape contagion, and emerge pure from so foul a pool."-Kxinut's Eva., vol. 7, ch. 6.
5037. SCHOOLMASTER imitated. Hilliam Conper. Cowper was under Vincent Bourne, his portrat of whom is, in some respects, a piature not only of its immediate subject, bat of the schoolmuster of the last century. "I love the memory of Vinny Bourne. . . . I love him, too, with a love of partinlity, because he was usher of the fifth form nt Westminster when I passed through it. IIe was so good-matured and so indolent that I lost more than I got by him, for he made me as idle as himself. He was such a sloven, as if he had trusted to his genius as a cloak for every thing that conld disgust you in his person; and, indeed, in lis writings he has almost made amends for all. . . . I remember secing the Duke of Richmond set fire to his greasy locks, aml box his ears to put it out again."Smitics Cowiell, ch. 1.

503S. SCHOOLMASTER vs. Soldier. Brougham. LMr. Broughan in $18: 8$ derclared in Parliament that it . . . unconstitutional that almost the whole patronge of the State should be placed in the hands of a military Premier-the luke of Wellington. But he would not exnggerate the dangrer.] IIe was perfectly satisfied that there would he no unconstitutional attack on the liberties of the people. These are not the times for such an attempt. There were periods when the comntry had heard with dismay that the soldier was abroal. That was not the case now. Let the soldier be ever so . . . much abroad, in the present age he could to nothing. There was another person abroad-a less important person-whose labors had tended to produre this slate of things-the schoolmaster was abroad.-Knigitr's Eng., vol. 8, ch. 13, p. 229.
5089. SCHOOLS appreciated. Culony of Mras. [In 1636] six years after the arrival of Winthrop, the general court voted a sum, equal to a year's rate of the whole colony, toward the erection of a college.' In 1638, John Iharvard, who arrived in the bay only to fall a vietim to the most wasting disease of the climate, desiring to connect himself imperishably with the happiness of his ulepted country, berpuenthed to the college one half of his estate and all his libriry. - Banchoft's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
5040. 8CH00Ls, Beginning of. Neo Einglatud Colonies. "To the end that harning may not be buried in the graves of our forrfathers," it was ordered in all the Puritan colonies, " that in every township, after the Lord hath increased theni to the number of fifty householders, slinll appoint one to teach all children to write and read; and when any town slatl increase to one hundred families they shall set up a grammar school, the masters thereof being able to instruct youth, so fur as they may be fitted for the uni-versity."-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 1, ch. 10.
5041. SCH00Ls, Christianized, Roman. [About the beginning of the third century the Chureli was in a prosperous condition.] Philosophy, her most dangerous enemy, was now converted into her most useful ally. The groves of the aculemy, the gardens of Epicurus, and even the portico of the Stoics, were ulmost deserted, as so many different sehools of seepticism or impiety; and many among the Romans were desirous that the writings of Cicero should be condemned and suppressed by the anthority of the senate. The pr vailing sect of the new Phtonicians judged it prudent to connect themselves with the priests, whom, perhaps, they despised, against the Christians, whom they had reason to fear.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 16, p. 59.
5042. 8chools, Excellence in, Athenian. The Attic schools of rhetoric and philosophy maintained their superior reputation from the Peloponnesian war to the reign of Justinian. Athens, though situate in a burren soil, possessed a pure air, a free navigation, and the monuments of ancient art. That saered retirement was seldom disturbed by the business of trade or government ; and the last of the Athenians were distinguished by their lively wit, the purity of their taste and language, their social manners, and some traces, at least, in discourse, of the magnanimity of their fathers, In the suburbs of the city, the academy of the Platonists, the lyceum of the Peripateties, the portico of the Stoies, and the garden of the Epicurcans, were planted with irees and decorated with statues ; and the philosophers, instead of being immured in a cloister, delivered their instructions in spacious and pleasant walks, which, at different hours, were consecrated to the exercises of the mind and body.-Gimbon's Rome, ch. 40, p. 106.
5043. sCHOOLs, Perverted. Reign of James II. The king had already begun to treat Oxford with such rigor, that the rigor shown toward Cambridge might, by comparison, be called lenity. Already University College had been turned by Obadiah Walker into a Roman Catholic seminary. Already Christ Chureh was governed by a Roman Catholic dean. Mass wasalready said daily in both those colleges.-Macaulay's Eno., ch. 8, p. 261.
5044. SCHOOLs, Ragged. In London. A Scotch gardener, Andrew Walker, attempted to weed "The Devil's Acre" [a district in London abandoned to thieves, beggars, and pickpockets], and in 1839 set up a school, in a stable, for reclaiming the wretched children who swarmed around him. This was the beginning of "Ragged Schools" in London.-K Nithr's Evi., yol.s, ch. $22, \mathrm{p}, 399$.
50:5. - ——. In Pirtimuouth. [John Poands, in Portsmouth cobbler, started a lagged School and for many yenrs resecoed poor childrea from destruction. Ile wis a poor man, but] in the course of his benevolent carcer lie was the gratuitous lnstrictor of the hundred children, who withont him would have swelled the numbers of the criminal population.-Kinigire's Exts., vol 8, ch. 22, p. 309.
50.16. 8CH00Ls, Straggle for. James IT. IIe was resolved to trinster to his own Church all the wealthiest and most splendid foundations of Eagland. It was to no purpose that the lest and wisest of his IRoman Catholic counsellors renonstrated. They represented to him tlut he had it in his power to render a great service to the cause of his religion without violating the rights of property. [See No. 877.]-Macaclay's Eva., ch. 8, p. 263 .
5047. SCIENGE an Ally, War. In the two sieges, the delivernace of Conslantinople may bo chictly uscribed to the novelty, the terrors, and the real etticacy of the Girek fire. The important secret of compomaling and directing this artiticial flame was imparted by Callinicus, a mative of IIeliopolis, in Syria, who deserted from the service of the culiph to that of the emperor. The skill of a chemist and engineer was equivalent to the suecor of fleets and armies; and this discovery or improvement of the militury art was fortunately reserved for the distressful period when the degenerate Romans of the East were incapable of contending with the warlike enthusiasm and youthful vigor of the Sara-cens.-G1mbon's Rome, ch. 63, p. 282.
5048. SCIENCE contribntory to Art. Nanigation. His [John Il., King of Portugal] two physicians, Roderigo and Joseph, the latter a Jew, the most able astronomers and cosmographers of his kingdom, together with the celebruted Martin Behem, entered into a learned consultation on the subject. The result of their conferences and labors was the application of the astrolabe to navigation, enabling the seaman, by the altitude of the sun, to ascertain his distance from the equator. This instrument has since been inproved and modified into the modern quadrant, of which, even at its first introduc. tion, it possessed all the essential advantages. It is impossible to describe the effect produced upon navigation by this invention. It cast it loose at once from its long bondage to the land, and set it free to rove the deep.--Irving's CoLumbes, ch. 6.
5049. SCIENCE, Experimental, Baconian. 'rine year 1660, the era of the restoration of the old Constitution, is also the era from which dates the ascendency of the new philosophy. In that year the Royal Society, destined to be a chicf agent in a long series of glorious and salutary reforms, began to exist. In a few months experimental science becance all the mode. The transfusion of blood, the ponderation of air, the fixation of mercury, succeeded to that place in the public mind which had been lately occupied by the controversies of the Rota. Dreams of perfect forms of government made way for dreams of wings with which men were to tly from the tower to the Abluey, nud of doulleneeled ships whicl were never to fonnder in the flercest storm. All chasses were hurried nlong hy the prevailing sentiment. Cavalier and Loundhearl, Churchman and Poritan, were for once allled. Divines, jurists, statesmen, nohles, princes, swelled the triumph of the Buconimn philosophy. Poets sang with emulons fervor the aipproach of the Gotden Age. $\qquad$ Dryden, with niore zeal thun knowledge, joined his voire to the general acclamation, and foretold things which neither he nor anyloedy else understoon. The Roynl Society, he predicted, would soon lead us to the extreme verge of the globe, and there dellght us with a better view of the moon. -Macaulay's Eno., ch. 3, p. 379.
5050. science, Infatuated by. Pliny. In the first year of the reign of Titus happened that most remarkable eruption of Mount Vesuvius which overwhelmed the cities of Herculaneum und Pompeii, and in which the elder Pliny lost hits life, from an carnest curiosity to be a neur witness of that striking spectacle. He had determined to embellish hiis Naturnl History with a description of that most interesting phenomenon, and for thits purpose rushed engerly into that situation of danger from which others were as eagerly attempting to escape. He was there suffocated by a cloud of sulphurous vapor.Tytleris Hist., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 493.

5051 . sCIENCE, Magic-Hke. Admiral Drake. [In 1587 Admiral Druke came to Plymouth and found the populous town had no adequite supply of fresh water.] At Dartmoor he found a leat, or spring, that he found was capable of being conducted from the high ground to a reservoir at the northern suburb of Plymouth. He mounted his horse, says the local tradition, and riding to the distant hills found the desired supply; and having pronounced some magicul words, rode back, and the stream followed him all the way to the town. . . . Seience since that time has uttered many words which appenr magical.-Knight's Ena., vol. 3, eh. 14, p. 216.
5052. SCIENCE thc Patron of Art. Navigation. [See No. 5867.] Preparatory to this remarkable voyage the Argonuts were furnished with instructions by Chiron, the astronomer, who framed for their use a scheme of the constellntions, giving a determined place to the solstitial and equinoctial points ; the former in the 15th degrees of Cancer and Capricorn, and the latter in the 15 th degrees of Aries and Libra. This recorded fact has served as the basis of an emendation of the ancient chronology by Sir Isame Newton.-Tytlere's IIft., Book 1, ch. 8, p. 71.
5053. science and Politios. Julius Cesar. The genius of Cessar was not confined to the arts of government, but carried its researches into every branch of science and philosophy. The duration of the year at this time was twelve lunar months, with an intercalation of twentytwo or twenty-three days, alternately, at the end of every two years; but the pontiffs either introduced or omitted the intercalation according to circumstances, as they wanted to abridge or prolong the time of the magistrates continuing in offlce-and thus there was the greatest confusion in the calendar. Cesar, who was a proficient in astronomy, and to whose writings in that science even Ptolemy confesses that he owed information, corrected the crrors of the calendar by tixing the solar year at three hundred and sixty five days, with nu interculation of one day every fourth yenr.-Tythen's Hint., Book 4 , ch. 2, p. 412.
5054. scouraing ineffective. James II. [The notortous Catherine Secley wis his mistress. In seasons of repentunce he stimulated his purposir of reformation by scourging his own shoulders. See No. 1133.] Jumes wrote, imphoring and ommunding her to depurt. Hi, owned that he had promised to bid her farewell in persom. "But 1 know too well," he ndded, "the power which you have over me. I have not strength of mind enough to ha: my resolution if I see yon." He offered her a yacht to convey her with all dignity to Fhanders, and liremtened that if she did not go quirtly she should be sent awny by force. She nt one time worked upon his feelings by pretending to be ill. Then she assumed the nirs of a martyr, nud impudently procluimed herself a sufferer for the protestant religion. Then again sle adopted the style of John Itampden. She deticd the king to remove her. She would try the right with him. While the Grent Charter and the Ilabens Corpus Act were the lnw of the hand she would live where she plensel.-Macaulay's Evi., ch. 6, p. 67.
5055. sCRIPTURE misuaed. Ayainst Colum. bus. A council of clerical sages was convened in the collegiate convent of St. Stepheu to investigate the new theory of Columbles. It was composed of professors of astronomy, geography, mathematics, and other branches of science, together with various dignitaries of the chnreh, and learned friurs. $\qquad$ At the very threshold of the discussion, instend of geographical objec. tions, Columbus was assailed with citations from the Bible and the Testament : the book of Genesis, the psalms of David, the prophets, the episthes, and the gospels. To these were added the expositions of varions saints and reverend com-mentators.-Irving's Columaus, Book 2, ch. 3.
5056. SCOLPTOR, The mental. Socrates. [His father was a sculptor.] He was surprised that a sculptor should employ his whole attention to fashion an insensible stone into the likeness of a man, and that a man should take so little pains not to resemble an insensible stone.-RoLLin's Hist., Book 9, ch. 4, Ş 1.
5057. SCULPTURE, Nobility of. Eternalize Fieme. It is the peculiar ndvantage of the art of sculpture that, being ordinarily cmployed on the most duruble materinls, and sucb as possess small intrinsic value, it bids the fairest of all the urts to eternize the fame of the artist. While its works resist all natural decay from time, they afford no temptation to nlter their form, in which consists their only value. They may lie hid from neglect in an age of ignorance, but they are safe, though buried in the earth; and avarice or industry, to supply the demands of an after age of taste, will probably recover them.Tytler's Hist., Book 2, ch. 7, p. 229.
5058. 8EA, Passion for the. Sir John Franklin. Almost from infancy the loy had shown a fondness for sea-stories, and had often said that he meant to be a sailor. This was regarded as a boy's faney that would soon pass away; but when he was but eleven years old a circumstance aceurred which gave renson to suppose that his taste for the sea was something more thun this. lhe hand never yet behold the occan, though it was but twelve milies from his school. One day, when the selvol had a holiday, he and one of his schood-fellows walked that twelve miles to the shore, for no othar purpose than to para upon the sea. All that he had ever hear! or dreamed of the gramienr and charm of the ocem was more than realized, and he sat, homr after hour, entrumed with the magnificence of the view. From that day he was never slaken in his resolve to spend his life mon the sen. - Cyclopedia of Broci, p. 390.

5058 . SEA BATHIMG unappreclated. E'iq. land. In the begiming of the dighteenth eentiry . . . there was no gathering on the const, enst or west, north or somils, to inlate the breeze or Hoat in the brine. The sen was as murh drended by inland dwellers as the momatains were latefint the inhanitants of the plains. - Kiniont'n Ena., vol. 5, ch. 1, p. 10.
5060. SEAL, Importance of the. Britixht. [William of Orange was weleomed in Ehaghai and Janes Il. fled for France. The Seal of State was thrown into the Thanes.] Next to the Prince of Wales the chicf object of anxiety was the great seal. To that symbol of kingly authority our jurists have always useribed a peculiar and ahmost mysterious importance. It is held that if the keeper of the seal should athx it, withont taking the royal pleasure, to a patent of peerage or to a pardon, though lie may be guilty of a high offeace, the instrmment cannot te questioned by any court of hw, and cma be ammulled only by an aet of Parliament. James seems to have been afraid that his enemies might get this organ of his will into their hands, and might thus give a legal validity to acts which might affeet him injuriously. [It was recovered.] - Macallay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 486.
5061. SECESSION, Planned. Nen England. On the night of the 2 l of Februmry, 1812, an Irishman, named John lienry, now a naturalized citizen of the United States, called at the President's mansion and revealed to him the astounding fact that the ministry of Great Britain, co-operating with Sir James Craig, Governor of Canada, had ber exgaged for some years in a treasonable scheme to distroy the American Union. .... As early as 180 s the attention of the Canadian governor had beren called to eertain published articles written by II Enry against republiean governments; and the later was summoned to Montreal. From him Craig learned of the intense hostility of the Federal party to the administration, and of the great distress of New England onaccoumt of the embargo and other restrictions on commerre, . . . and he was promised an annual salary of ton and become the st cret agent of England and Canada. The purpose of the conspirators was to aggravate the popular discontent of New England until the Eastern States should be induced to secede from the Union and join themselves with Canada. But with the repeal of the embargo and the subsidence of political excitement, the people were in no humor to be led into rebellion. Sir James Craig died, and IIenry, unsuccessful and unpaid, went, in 1811, to London, and presented his clain for $£ 30,000$ to the Binglish ministers: . . but this, for services whinch had resnited in nothing, was reckoned a serions mutter, . . . and he was sent mock to get what remancrution be could from the successor of Crulg in Cammia. Earuged at his trentment, the spy, bustemb of returning to Montreal, sulled to Boston, and going thence to Washington, divulged the whole conspiracy to the I'reshdent, surrendered his correspondence with Cratg, and recelved therefor $$ \mathbf{W} 0,000$ out of the seeret service fund of the Linited States. The disclosire of this perthdions business contributed greatly to consolidate publie sentiment ngainst Great Britnia mad to sireagilan the lamis of the war par-ty.-Rumprits U. S., ch. 49, p. 39̇.

5062. SECRECY, Deception In. Lieutenant. Governor Ilutchinson, M/axs. A.D). 1769. "I humbly entrat your Lorriship that my letters may not be madi puldie," was his ever-renewed prayer to sucerssive socreturies of state, so that he combucted the government like one eugaged in a conspirary or an intrigur. But some of his letters. . . diseoverect. . . diselosed that he had haid smares for the lives of patriots, and had urged the " thomongh" of English liberty in America. Banchort's U. S., voi. 6, ch. 42.
5048. SECRECY, Impenetrable. Napoleon $I$. "I never," sail Josephine, "beheld Napoleon for a moment perfectly at ease, not even with myself. Lle is constantlyalert. If at any tho he appers to show a little contidence, it is merely a feint to throw the person with whom he converses off his guard, and to druw forth his real sentiments; but never loos he himself disclose his real thoughts."-Anhotr's Napoleon B., vol. 1 , ch. 9.
506.1. SECRET imperilled, A. Cito. [Cato the Censor said] that in all his life he never repented but of three things: the first was, that he had trusted a woman with a secret; the second, that he had gone by sea when he mlght have gone by land; and the third, that he had passed one day without having his will in bis, possession.-llutarcu's "Cato the Censor."
5065. SECRETS burdensome. Josephine. Jo sephine, frank and candid, and a strunger to all artifice, could not easily conceal her knowledge or her thoughts. Napoleon consequently seldom intrusted to her any plans which he was unwilling to have known. "A secret," he once observed, " is hurdensome to Josephine."-Asbott's Napoleon B., vol. 1, ch. $\ell$.
co66. sectarian, The Wind a. Reign of Jtomes 11. [The disloyal English were waiting to welcome William, Prince of Orange.] The general impatience for the arrival of the Duteh became every day stronger. The gales which at this time blew obstinately from the west, and whiel at once prevented the prince's armament from sailing and bronght fresh Irish regiments from Dublin to Chester, were bitterly cursed and reviled by the common people. The weather, it was said, was popish. Crowds stood in Cheapside gazing intently at the weather-cock on the graceful stceple of Bow Church, and praying for a Protestant wind.-Macaulay's Eno., ch. 9, p. 433.
5067. SECTARIANISM in Death, Mary Queen of Seots. [Before her speedy execution.] She had asked for her almoner Priaux ; two Protes-lant ministers wore vent to her. "Mulum, we 'ome to eonsole you," they shild, stepping over the threshold of lier chmmber. $\therefore$ Areyon ('intholle prlesta ?" she crled. "No." replled they.
" Then I will lime uoconforter but Jesue," she mided, with a melnimoly thmaness. - Lasman TINIEA QUEEN OF SIOTA, p). 48 .

SOBW. SECTARIANIsM, Narrow. siots. [Willinmof ormage lund teen welcomed by the ling lish. ] Amoner the [Sootch] insurgents weresonne arco int moonly men who had formerly dis owned Argyle, and who were now equally diger to diqown Willins. Llis highoess, they suld, was plainly nmaligmant. There was not a word nhont the Covemntit in his decharntion. The Diteh were in people with whom no trucesprvant of the Iord would unite. They consorted with latherans, und a Latherun was as mandi a chidd of perdition us a Jesuit. The gencral voice of the kingdom, however, effectunlly drowned the growl of this linteful faction. - Maciabiay's HNei., (eh, 10, j. iftl.
5069. sECTS, Averalon among. Iontists. If they ohtaned possession of a chureh which had been used by their Catholice ulversaries, they puritled the unhallowed building with the sume zenlons care whicha a temple of indolsmight have reopuired. They washed the pavement, sernped the walle, burnt the altar, which was commonly of wood, inelted the consecrinted plate, and rist the Iloly Enchurist to the dogs, with every eircanstance of ignominy which conld provoke and perpetunte the animosity of religions fuc-tions.-G1bibon's Rome, ch. 21, p. 299.
5070. 8ECTS, Dlfferences of. Persian-T'urk. The mational religion of the Persians is the Mahometan, as reformed by Sophi. The slender difference of opinions between them nnd the Turks is the cunse of nu aversion much stronger than ever subsisted between the Protestunts amd Catholies. If a Presimn were washing his honds in a river, he would conceive hinself contnminated if he knew that a Thrk had buthed in it. -Tyther's Hist'. Book 6, ch. :33. p. 331.

50\%1. ———. Magnified. [When the Greeks and Latins met to form a reunion of the Catholic church in the fifteenth century they experienced great difficulty und their labor was ineffective.] In the trenty between the two nations severnl forms of eonsemt were proposed, such as might satisfy the Latins without dislonoring the Greeks ; and they weighed the scruples of words and sylhables till the theological bahance trembled with a slight preponderance in finvor of the Vatican. It was ngreed (I must entreat the attention of the reader) that the Holy Ghost proceeds from the Father and the Son, as from one principle and one substance; that he proceeds by the Son, being of the same nature and substance, and that he proceeds from the Father and the Son, by one spiration and pro-duction.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 67, p. 321.

50\%2. 8EDITION, Partisan. "Blues" and " Greens." [Against the Emperor Justinian.] A militar- force, which had been despatched to tho aid of the civil magistrate, was fiercely ancountered by an armed multitude, whose mumbers and boldness continually incrensed; and the lleruli, the wildest barbarians in the service of the empire, overturned the priests and their rel-Ies, which, from a plois motive, had been raskis Iy interposed to sepmrate the hoobly contlict. The thmalt was exisperibed by thls suerllege: the people fought with enthosinsm in the smase of God; the women, from life roofs nnd windows, showered stones on the hends of the soldicres, who darted firebrunds mghinst the houses ; und the varlones finnes, which had been klindled by the hands of ettacis nud stimgers, sprend without eontrol over the face of the city. The contharation involved the cathedral of St. Sophin, fhe hathes of Zouxppos, it phit of the puluce, from the flrst entrance to the nitur of Mars, und the long portico fron the palace to the forum of ('onstantine ; a largo lospitul, with the sick butionts, wis consumed; many churches and stately editlees werc destroyed, inm nu lmmense treasime of gold nimd sllver was either melted or lost. Fromsuch seences of horror and dis. tress the wise und wenlthy citlocins escuped over the l3osphorus to the Asintic side: und tharing tlve duy's Constantinople wns nbmaloned to the fuctions, whose whtchword, Nika, ranquish! has given atme to this memornble sedition. (inimon'н lrome, (h. 40, p. 61.

5078. BEDUCTION avenged, Romut Eimperor Gurinus. Curinus possessed arms und treasures subllelent to support his legal title to the emspire. But his personal vices ovorbabumed every udvantage of birthand situntion. . . . A tribnne, whose wife he had seduced, seized the opportunity of revenge, and, by a single blow, cxtinguished civil discord in the blood of the adnl-terer.-Ginbon'h Romic, ch. 1\%, p. 401.

50\%4. BEDUCTION by Promises. Henry VIII. "If it please you," the king wrote at this time to Anne Boleyn, " to do the oflle of n true, loyal mistress, and grive yourself body and heart to ne, who have le "nand mean to be your loyal servant, I promi you not only the name, but that I shall make you my sole mistress, remove all others from my nffection, and serve you only." What stirred Henry's wrath most was Cutherine's "stiff and obstinate" refusal to bow to his will. Wolsey's ndvice that " your grace should handle her both gently and donlcely" only roaded Ilenry's impatience.-IIst. oF Eng. Peoples, t. 549.

SOH 5. SEDUCTION, Panishment of, Constan. tine. The luws of Constantine agrinst rapes not only to the brutal violence which compelled, but even to the gentle seduction which might persuade, an unmarried woinan, under the age of twenty-five, to leuve the house of her parents. The successful ravisher was punished with death ; and as if simple death was inadequate to the enormity of his guilt, he was either burnt alive, or torn in pieces by wild beasts in the amphitheatre. The virgin's declaration that she had been carried away with her own consent, instead of saving her lover, exposed her to share his fate. The duty of a public prosecution was intrusted to the parents of the guilty or unfortunate maid ; and if the sentiments of nature prevailed on them to dissemble the injury, and to repair by a subsequent marriage the honor of their family, they Were themselves punished by exile and confiscation. The slaves, whether male or female, who were convicted of having been accessory to rape or seduction, were burnt alive, or put to death by the ingronions lorture of pouring down their thromts n guantiy of melted lemed. . . But when -ver the offence inspires less horror than the ponishane nt, the rigor of promi inw is obliged to give way to the common ferlings of mankind. - Gin s076. sEEEING for God. l'riminell. For my beloved danghter, Bridgen lerom, your sister (laypole is, I trast in mercy, oxar. rined with some perphexed houghts. She sees her own vanity and curmal mind-bewailing in. She seeks after (as I hupe niso) what will satisfy. Aul thex be be a seckict is $w$ be one of the bext sect next to a fluder: and suth a one shall every faithfal hamble nerker be at the end. Hnppy serker, happy flndire ! Who ever tasted ham the lorit is graclons, withont some sense of self, vanity, and hatiness ? Who ever tasted that gradionsness of 111 s, and conla go less in desire [1.c.. brcause lesa desirons], lases pressing afler fali enjogment? Dear hami, priss ons: let mot thy hashnad, fet mot anything cool thy affertions after Christ. I hope he [thy husbuad] will be an oecaslon to indhame them. 'That which is best worthy of love in thy linshand is that of the image of Chist he brits. Laok on that, and love it best, and all the rest for that. 1 pray for the and hime do so for me.- Homb's ('momw wha, ch. 12, p. 161 .

5077 . sELF, Conquest of. Whamet. He instituted in emel your a fast of thirty days, amb stremonsly recommeated the ohservanee ns a diselphine which parities the soni man subdues the hooly, ins a salatary exoreise of obediane to the will of Gol and his apostle. During the month of Ramadan, from the riving to the setting of the sum, the Massulman alosialns from enting, and drinking, and women, and baths, nal perfumes; from all nonrishoments that can restore his strength, from all plasure that can gratily his senses. In the revolations of the Pamar year the Ramadan comedides, by tarns, with the winter coll and the smmarer heat ; and the patiant martyr, withont nssumging his thirst with $n$ drop of water, mast expert the close of a tedious and sultry day. The iaterdiction of wine, pereuliar to some orders of priests or hermits, is converted by Mabomet alone into a positive and gearral law ; and a ronsiderable portion of the glohe has abjared, at his command, the nse of that sabatary lhough dangerons liquor.-Gmbon's Manometr, p. DS.
507*. self first. Ifoumrs. [Battle with Xerxes.] . . When they came to the Isthmus, and every oflher [of the Athenians] took a bullet from the altar to inseribe upon it the names of those that had done the best service, every one put himself in the first place, and Themistocles in the second.-Plutarci's " Themistocles."
5079. sELF, Mastery of. Alfred the Great. Scholar and soldier, artist and man of business, poet and saint, his character kept that perfect balance which charms us in no other Englishman save Shakespeare. And all was guided, controlled, ennobled by a single aim. "So long as I have lived," said the king as life closes about him, "I have striven to live worthily." Little ly tittle men came to know what such a life of worthiness meant. Iittle by little thry came to recognize in. Elfred a rulor of higher nad mobler stamp than the world had seen. Never had it seen a king who ilved solely for the good of his peopile. Never had it seen a ruler who set andide every persomal alm to devote himself solely to the welfare of those whom he ruled. It was this grmat self-mastery that gave him hils power over the men nbont him.-Ilint. of Ena. Pea1PLE, 50MO. BELF ABNEGATION in Oratory. Ife. monthreses. 'That which charncterizes Demosthenes more than any other ciremmsumere, and in which he has nevir heren imitnted, is sath an ubsolute ohilivion of himself, and so sermpulous and constant it wollditude to suppress all ostentation of wh-in a word, suche a perpetami care (o) contiae the attention of the anditor to the cause, and wot to the orator, that he never sulfers may one tarn of thought or expression to eseape him whith has no other vlew than mercily to please and shine. This reserve mal moderathon la so the a genius as Demosthenes, and in matters so sumereptibie of grace and elegrance. ndids perfection to his merit, and readers himi supmior to all praises.-Robin's Mist., Book 16. $\pm 2$.

SOS1. SELF-ABNEGATION, Patriotio. Regulus. (Atthas lRegulus lest the Roman nrmy ngainst the Carthaginians nad whe copturet.] ('arthage begaia serlously to wish for padee. Ambassadors for that purpose were dospatehed to Rome; and Regulus was sent along with lam [to emourage the negothation-]. They exacted] at the same the from him an onth that he would return to Carthage in case there should mether be pence nor man exchange of prisomers. To the surprise of nll, this great and generons man aserl his ntmost endenvors to dissumde his comtrymen from agrecing to a peace; a proposition which he represented as proceeding soldy from the weakness of the enemy, whom, by contimnling the war, they would compel to any submission. But still further, he even dissumbed his comatrymen from consenting to an exchange of prisoners : a mensure which he endenvors to convine them mast he to their disad vantage, from this rirctanstance, that they had in their hands many of the best oftlecrs of the enemy, whon they womld be ohliged to exchange against private men. His arguments prevailed, and the negotiation was broken off.

The Pontifex Maximus, on being consultar on the validity of the oath he had sworn to return to Carthage. gave it as his opinion that, it having been extorted by the necessity of his sitantion, he was amber no obligation to observe it. But the noble sonl of Regulas conid not admit of such evasion. Disregarding the entrenties of his friends, the tears of his wife and children, the urgent re: monstrance of the senate and of the whole Roman people, this gencrous and heroic man resolved that the terror of consequences, how dreadful soever, should not persuade him to a violation of his honor. "I am not ignorant," said he, "that death and the severest tortures are preparing for me; but what are these to the stain of an infamous action, the reproach of a guilty mind? I have sworn to return to Carthage; it is therefore my duty to go. Let the gods direct the consequence as to their wisdom shull seem best." To Carthage accordingly he riturned, where, as he had foreseen, he suffered 50@d. BELF-COMMAND againat Foar. Wid liam. I/I. Onu day when Williman III wns in the tremehes [lefore the walls of Nusame] the depaty governor of the lank of Finglamalineed himmelf ut his shle. "Mr. (ionlfrey," walil the lamboner repilial. " Not betisir more exposed lhats your Majesty, shomide I be exemmable if I showed more roncern $\because$ Willam, who land a tlon" A manom ball in afow minutes tisished the career of the aver-\%enoms amaterer. - 50ws. SELF-CONTROL, Remarkable. lute Fralerie. It is lont justion to this mast resperetable man to relate an ancedote, told by Romer Ascluan, preceptor to Queen bilizaberif, wlso. when in Germany. wis jursomally aedianinted whth limi. Dake Ferderio was taken prisoner by ('larles V. In the batte of Mulberg, umelupon n representation of somse of his combellemers that the exemphary pumishment of wominent 4 man would prove of great survice in cheroking the progress of the Raformation, the empror, forgetting his own obligntions to him, comdensmad him to be beliemded, on a senltolil, at Wittenberg. Thae warrant for his excention, sigued by the emproror's lami. wiss sent to Dake Fred. rrie the night belore, and was dellvered to him while be was playing ut chess. with his cousin, the lamelgrave at lithemberg. Ile read it over attentlvely, mal then folding it ul. " I pereejve," sadid he, "that J fall in vetim to my religion, und that my death is necessary to the empreror's sehemes of Ilistinguishing the I'rotestant fiaith. IBat Ged will maintain his own camse. (ome, simner," sabl he, "take heed to your gatme:" and then, with the same composure as if he hid received a private letter of little importance, he continued to play till he las defented bis antag. onist. It is a satisfaction for learn that the emperor, impressed, as is said, by this admirable example of fortitude, grove inmacdiate orders for a recall of the warrant, and ever afterward treated the clector of Sixony with the highest respeet and estecm. - Tytieits Hist., Book 6, eh. 19, 1. $3 \times 6$.

5084. SELF-DENIAL, Conception of. Aluer. ican Indian. The Indian, detesting rostrant, was perpetarlly imposing on himself extreme hardships, that hy penance und sutfering he might atone for his offences, and by acts of selfdenial lae might win for himself the powerfal fivor of the invisible world. - Banchoft's U. S. . vol. 3, ch. 20.
5095. SELF-DENIAL, Unavailing. Rev. William Bramooll. [ILe was inclined to picty from his ehiddhoot, hut ] thexemplary life conld not satisfy the demands of his conscience. He sought relief by nusterities, which only extsperated his sufferings ; he wonld bow for hours with his knees bare on sand which he spreal on the floor, confessing his sins and repenting his prayers. He spent his holidays meditating in the solitude of the woods; he fisted and watched, and took solitary walks throughout the night. After protracted struggles he received bettor views of frith, while pmotaking al the lard's sipper at the: eharelh of Jrexan - Aitivens

SOAt SELP-DEsTRUCTION, Working for.
 plasilared IRense. Ile wan ismile master gemeral 1f: mplicel his new erommami dintinguinhem the tirmand judlefous remander of his policy. Iles Issued hisorders to the four mugizine and namasfacture's of offousive imel defensive armas, Nargus, Jhatharia, Nulasus, nud 'l'hessaloniona, to provitat his troops with mevernorlhanry supply of shidelds, himets, nworde, ind speurs; the unlapby provinelals were compelled to forge that In-Inrians removid the only defoct whilithas nome.
 - (himoun's IRome, eli. BO. j). I98.

SOA\%. SELFGOFEREMENT, Basis of. Hrauce. Fronce hud trled Repmbliconlsm, ami the experiment had falled [and Napoleon berame dirtator]. There wise melther intelligener bor virtas among the people sulle iont to rimble them to govern themedves. Durlag uges of oppression they lasel sunk intes an abys from whenere they combl not rise, ins a thy, lo the dignity of frecmen. Not ome in thirty of the peopulation of France comld rither remd or write. Iteligjan, with all its restraints, was seonted us famaticism. - Ahmotrin Namoleon H., vol. I, rls. IH.

50W\%. SELF OOVERNMENT, Capaclty for, Massarlinsetts. A. I. 1774. As the supreqvision of [royal] goverumant disupperareal, emels mon setemed mere and more a law unto himself; and ats if to show that the world hal bern govermed too mosh, orter previled in $n$ provinte where, in fact, there existed mon regular government, no administration but eommitters, mo military offleers but those chosen by the militia. Yet never were legal magistrates olreyad with more adac-rliy.-13ANCitor't's U. S., vol. 7, ch. 16.

50N9. SELF-GOVERNMENT, Facnity of. Ro-mans-English. To the student of politienl history, and to the English studant above nll others, the converslon of the Roman republic into a military empire commands a peomliar interest. Notwithstanding many diffrmones, the English and the Romans essentially rosemble one another. The carly Romans possessed the fateulty of self-government beyond any jeople of whom we have historichl knowledge, with the one exception of ourselves. - Fioudide's C.fan th, ch. I.
50D0. 8ELF-GOVERNMENT withheld. Vir. ginia Colony. 'The first writton charter of a permament American colony, which was to be the chosen nbude of liberty. gave to the mercantile corporation nothing but a desert territory, with the right of peopling and defemding it, and reserved to the monarch absolute legislative anlloority, the control of all uppointments, and a lupe of ultimate revenue, To themselves it concederl not one elective franchise, not one of the rights of self-government.-Bancroft's lisat. CF U. S., ch. 4.
5091. SELF-P0SSESSION, Brave. Admiral 1 et Hort. One day, after a dinner of unusual excess, he [Poter the Great] fell into a dispute with Admiral $d^{*}$ Fort, and was so transported with fury that be rashed upon him sword in hand.
 his loworni to the miroke, ind stenel motlonlese to receive it. 'I'he e’ar, drotik ne lee wies, wam recalled to himself by this methon, put uphinsworil, nakerl la fort'к pardon for him viobenere. "I inn Irylog." wald he. "loreform my country, mad I H.S CFF Kumb, p. dilo.
§(OA) SELPPROTECTION Arst. IVル, (Irochan lawgivern |ware wont las pmind hin who sworal ur njear; llus linstructing us that thos firal cine of evory man, enperinily of every gove lon to defonil himself, and after that lae in to think of munylug tho ememy. - Ploutancion 'ril.ol'IDAs.

SODA. SELF RELIANCE, Excellence ía. I/ITC iled. . . Monant Vermon. 'Ihe amiahlo Itae de l, hancomet bore his revernes of forlume whll grent mugmanimity. Ho naed to suy: " la the dinys of my powir mad nthnemee, hindar the unchont régime of l'rances I kept tlity worvants, and yot
 - ('untin' Wamionu'pon, vol. 1, d•l. :2.

SOMB. SELF-RELIANCE, sucoess by. Cirmiril lirunt. Hhe groposerl to phas his gin-bonts [品st the furmishable luttorios of Vieksharg.] When the Iflan lserme known to those in his fintimmey, to his stall, und to his coves eommond. ern, it mermed to them full of danger. 'lo move hisumy brion Vicksharg was to sephirate it from tho North, and l'rom all its supplles. . . . If fallure cembe it was sure to be overwhelming. Sherımin, Nel'hernom, Dogan, Wilson-nll olposid his plan. Lllis prasintence ocensioned the 5085. gELF SACRIFICE, Magnanimity of. Alexcroter. [When the army of Alexander the Oroat was marrhing ugainst Iarlus, in crossing the desurts] they often suffered more for want of water thun hy liatigue; many of the envalry were umalle to hold ont. While they were upon the mareh some Macedonians had tilled their bottles at a river, and wore tringing the whter upon mules. These poople, sueding Alexamier grently distressed with thirst (for it was in the heat of the: day'), immorintely filled a lielmot with water, and presonted it to him. Ile askid them to whom they were carrying it, und they suid, "'Their sons; but if our prince does but live, we shanll get other children, if we lose them." Upon this he took the heimet in his lionds; liut looking round, and meeing all the horsemen bending their heads, and fixing their eyes upon the water, lie returned it without drinking. However, he praised the people that offered it, and snid, "If I alone drink, these good men will be dispirited." 'The eavairy, who were witnesses to this uct of tomperance and magnanimity, cried ont, "Let us mareh! We are noither weary nor thirsty, nor shall we even think ourselves mortal, while muder the condmet of such a king." At the sume time they put spurs to their horses. - I'urisascit's Adexander.

SOS0. SELFISHNESS, Petulant. Roman Nohis. When they have called for warm watrer, if a slave has been tardy in his obedience, he is

 - lor, tho mumer will mildiy olsarerve that he is st worthlase follow: lint that if he regnenes thie of finere, he slatl mot

DOM\% SENBATION, Publio, Cintain John simith. [lhaself on tralion.] Then It was-0]ght vairs aftor his residernee with l'owhitan-llint told it to hoip the idvortialag selheme, and to ex:

 sirl. Ile wrote a lother to tho Quern of Eing fand, rocomanending the "Virginh I'rincosk" to hor Majenty, in whle'h loouned the following lan-
 Those navige comrtiers, it the minute of my expe cutbon, she lazarded the benting out of hor own brulns los save mine: und not ouly that, but ms prevalled will lur fullure that I was sufely conduchal to damantown." 'l'ho trick ancerceded to nelmirntion. Poconhontas beremane the lion of the london menson. "The king and gheen recolved hor it court with gracions clvility; the blaby eonsuited him council upon the: gueston, whether Ralie lual not rommitted a grave offence ln a your's may la Euglanil juni Posuhontas, sick from the change in her mode of living, nad yet nuswilling tos gra, wet out will hor hasbind on lier roturn lowse. While walting it Gravesend for of Brow., p. 160.

50Dd. SENSATIONALI - Singularity. Samuel, Juhason. Bosweti,: " Is it wromg then, sir, to niforet ningularity, in order to make peesple stare?" JonNson : "Yes, if you do it by propagnting arror ; and, indend, it is wrong in nny way. There is in humun miture a general inclinntion to make peoplestare ; ind every wise man has himself the rure of it, and does curs himuself. If you wish to make people stare by doing better than othors, why, make them stari till they stare thirir cyes out. But conslder how easy it is to make people stare, by being absurd. I nay do it by going into a drawing-room without my shoes. You remember the gentleman in the spectator, who lad a commission of lunacy taken out nguinst him for his extreme singularity, wich ns never wenring a wig, but a nightenp. Now, sir, nbstractedly, the night-cap) was best; but, relatively, the udvantage was overbalaneed liy his moking the boys run after him. "-Boswell's Jolingon, p. 161.
5090. SENSE, Effect of good. Ioan of Arc. The originulity of the Pueclle, the secret of her success, was not her courage or her visions, but her good sense. Amid all her enthusiasm the girl of the people clearly saw the question, and knew how to resolve it. The knot which politicinn and cloubter could not unloose she cut. She pronounced, in God's name, Charles VII. to be the heir; she reassured him as to his legitimacy, of which he had doubts himself, and she sanctified this legitimaey by taking him straight to Ieims, and by lier quickness gaining over the Euglish the decisive advantage of the comona-tion.-Michelet'e Joan of Ahc, p. 1, lowing lanflug monong of $111 y$ exu of her own lius, but mи sufoly cons. werexded to lism of thain recelvenl Jhe binhey in, whether offenco ln have: A After lontus, slek mig, sud yet mind on lier wesend for YOLOPKIIA

Bingalarity,

 vrong then, make juro. 11 do it by $$$ wrong lis - a general every wlse does cure ole stare by them staro nsider how lng absurd. room withgentleman mission of is extreme wig, bitt a e night-cap ntuge was s rin afterin of Arc. eret of her isions, but usiasm the estion, and which polise she cut. rles VII, to his legitiIf, and she im straight ig over the he comons.

 they anarertiol the ilivituc mature of f'lirist.
 mattor are hacompulthor with the parity of a со.

 tho limplous anal extravagiat hyputhersis that,
 He had demerendeal on the lnonks of the Jordin fa the form of profiet mandonel; that he land lim divelphos, and that ther ministore of lifate hat wamed thair linjutolit rage oh an airy phantona,
 There days to rise from lar demal- (dimmos's IRasme, eli. 21, p. 30)7.

历101. EENSE, Fallaclous. Eitcitic N'herl. Thar Vilentlo nere of phllosoplay ... was fombind by Xemophanes aboul tiva handred yemers before ('hrist. They malmained that lhingsh had melther a begimalag, nin end, mor nay elanges: that all the phasobisem which we vee of elanges in tho vishble worthl ure antirely in chir own memses ; mind that of the real essemere of thing wo have no pere.

 only thromgla their motinm llant we perceive naything, se wo cmanot trist to llom, and therefore in's (ntrange to tell) ralsed a mystem of playsies, af which the priacipad desetrinem worts, that the

 that the stars were khmelled up ly the motion of the elonds; that the sun was ari ibanome berly of ignitad vapor : bat that various suas lighteil valions parta of the anth; aml, thally (the only rational dogma, thomati not slorived hy any log. ioml aferemee from prosaisers), that thare is bon

5102. SENSIBILITY, Exquisite. Oliver (iodd*mith. All at onur ho florew down his cards, the returmed in an instant, rexatued his semt, and thagame weat on. Sir Willian, after a little besitation, ventured to ask the dane of his retreat, fuaring the had haren worronne by the lant of the roon. "Not at ull," replied (bollsmith; "lant In truts I could not bear to lionr that unfortumate woman in the street, half simging, half sobbing, for sumb tomes could only arise from the exfromity of distress: lar voice grated painfully on my ar and jarval my fromo, so that [ conld not rest whti] I had serit her away." It was in fact a poor bablad-singer whose crucked voied lund been homal by others of the party, but without having the same elfert on their sensibilities.-Inving's Gobosmirn, ch. 35, p. 202 .
5103. SENSIBILITY, Nervous. Nothey. It would not do for Southey to burn away todny in some white thame of exeitement the nerve which he needad for nse to-morrow. He cond not afford to pass a silecpless night. If his face glowed or his brain throbbed, it was a warning That he lanel gone far enough. His very suscep)tibility to mervous excibonent rimbered earation the more reduisite. . . . "'he I rath is," writes trol an far un rogition the marfaco, if it wero mul vory nocis he in it deplombior state of what in beroll the conae "uy thac durlug the tast iwenty verars." And again: " A man l. wi freter brenk tiring ilown birele fa their mant rapilil llight. 'The monarob imulo this maswer: " Well, I will make you data my nerviou whon I makt wnr ipon slarlings;" whlela abswer atang tho cross lows.

历10.A. BENBITIVENESS to Dofect. Jhilif of Vharalon. [lle loralegan therily of Mellame.]

 is uas small marit to kuow whan to loild ono's longinc. Astar having thrown himself into the rity, lar lol tly ati artow, oll which wns writron. "'lo Philip's right ey", alnd gave hill a most crued proof that he was a gomel minthamm; for it hif hin in his riglit rye. lhilif a'at hims Phllip takes llae rlty, he will hume "p Ander :" und urooritingly lar whans gond as Jils word. A skilfal surgeoli trow the arrow ont al ['hllijis 'ye whll an masels art mad dexterity that mot the lonst monr remanded; and thongh fue comald not save his aye, he yet took away thr blomish. But nugry whenever any pervon lappeoral to let sllp the word (yrlops, ir cern the worll bye, in his 510\%. SENSUALITY, Imperial. ('mmorlu:.

 indulging hissobsumb aprelfos. Ilis henors wore Wonmon, nul ns many boys, ol overy rank and claction proved ineflertian, the bratal lover lad Foconrse to violenare. 'The anciont historians postitntion, which storneal every restrnint of mature or mondesty; but it would but be easy to tanslate their toc fabliful deseriptions into the
 ch. 4, p. 111 .
 The temple nad the village fof laphone fore deeply bosomed in at thick growe of latrels and ence of ten miles, mad formeal la the most sultry summers it coal and impermetrable shate. A thousimi strumas of the purest water, issuing from every hill, preserved the vertare of the earth and the temperature of the air ; the semass were gratitiod with harmonions sonmels amd aromatic odors: and the pencefol grove was connecrated to lembli mad joy, to lixury and Jove. The vigorous youth pursued, like $A$ pollo, tha objeret of his ilesires; mad the bloshing maid was warned, by the fate of Daplane, to shan the folly of unsuasomable coyness. The soldior and the philosopher wiscly wodided the tomplation of this mental paratise, where phensure, assummg the churneter of rehigion. imperceptibly dissolved the tirmoses of manly virtue. But the groves of Daphne continucd for many ages to rajoy the vencration on matios and strangers: the privileges of the holy ground were enharged ly the maniticener of sucereding emperors; and every feneration mblded wew ormanents to the splendor of the temple.-(ithmos's Rasme: (h. 2:3, p. 4.1s.

SIO?. SENTIMENT ignored. Rimm, To prevent the riak of a serond ad of insubordinaion, Syla [the lidator| made persomal armarements to attach Pomapey dircettly to himsell. He hand a step-diughter maned Emilia. She was already marrimb, and was pregnant. Pom? 5 too wis married to Antistia, a lady of goma family: but domestic ties were mot illowed to stand in the way of higher objects. Nor did it matior that Antistia's fither hand been murdered ly the Roman populace for taking Sylla's side. or that her mother had grome mad and destroved herself on her husband's larribhe death. Late Repuhlicm Rome was no troubled with sentiment. Syla invited Pompey to divorce Antistia and marry Similia. Pompey complied. Antistia was sent away. Amilia was divorred from her hastand, and was brought into Pompey's house, where she immediately died.Fhoune's Úfisak, ch. 8 .
 July, 1777 . Jank Macerea, a young woman of twenty, betrothed to a loyalist in the British survice and esteeming herself under the protection of British arms, was riding liom Fort Edward [N. Y.] to the British camp at sandy lifl, aseorted by two Indians. The Indians guarrelled about the reward olfered on her safe arrival, and at half a mile from Fort Edward one of them sumk a tomalawk in her skull. The incident whs not of unusual larbarity ; but this massacre of a letrothed girl on her way to her lover touched the hearls of all who heard the story. - Banchaftes l'. S., vol. 9, ch. 22.
5109. sentiment, Public. Better titan Lanos. Lycusgus left none of his laws in writing: it was ordered in one of the Rhetros that none should be written. For what he thought most condurive to the virtue and happiness of a (ity was prineiples interwoven with the manners and breeding of the prople. These would remain immovable as formed in inclination, and loe the strongest and most lasting tie; and the hablits which education produced in the youth would answer in emed the purpose of a law-giver.-Photaben's " Lacumes." 5110. ary 0 ucen of
Mary Qucen of scots. | After Mary Quen of scots had married Both. well, the supposed murderer o: her previous husband, she was soon captured by a confederary of uobles who sought to put down the powar of Bothwell.] She was ronducted into Edinburgh amidst the exerrations of an infuriated populace. The soldiers carried a banner on which was painted the body of the murdered Darnley lying under the tree near the kirk of Field, and a child knceling beside it, with the legend "Judge and avenge my canse, O Lord." This terrible fiag was paraled before lier ; and when she awoke next morning, and looked out of the window of the provost house in which she had beon hexdged, the same dreadful representation was hang up to meet her first gnze. In her despuir she nttempted to uddress the people, who were moved to some pity at her agony. [Public sentiment punished the murderess.] -

5111. sentiments, Irrepressible. Napoleon 1 . He declared there was no nobility out that of merit, yir| he divored his faithrind dosephine and married a danghere of the Casars, that by an illostrious alliture he might avall himself of this miversal and inate prejudice. No power of rensoning ran indace onfe to look with the same interest upon the child of Cusar nud the child of the breggur.-A Bmotros Napo1.EON IB., vol. 1, ch. I.
5112. SEPULCHRE, Kissing the Holy. Cruverlects. [The Crusalders had taken the eity of Jerusalem.] The holy sepule hre was now free. and the bloody vidors prepared to necomplish their vow. Bareheaded and barefoot, with contrite hearts, and in a lamble posture, they ascended the hill of ciolvary, amidst the loud anthems of the elergy, kissed the stone which had eovered the Savioir of the wordd, and bedewed with tears of joy and penitence the monument of their redemption.-G1men's Rome, ch. 58, 1. 694.

5113 . SEPULCHRES, Economy in. Atheniatus. The cxpense was excessive at the denth of great persons, and thoir sepulchres were as sumptuous and magnificent as those of the Romans in the age of Cirero. Demetrius mate a haw to abolish this abuse, which had massed into a custom, and inflicted pemalties o. those who disobeyed it. He also ordered the ceremonials of funerals to be performed by night, and none were permitted to place any other ormument on tombs than a column three enbits ligh, or a plain tablet, mensam, und appointed a particular magistrate to enforce the ohservation of this law.Rohmin's IIATV., look 16, ş 5 .
5114. SEPULTURE, Preparation for, Spartans. The body of Agesilaus was carried to Sparta. Those who were aboat him not having honey, with whieh it was the Spartan custom to cover the bodies they wished to embalm, made use of wax in its steml. - Rohin's IIst., Book $12, \stackrel{3}{3} 10$.
5115. SERENADE, Response to. Abraham Lincoln. On the oceasion of a serenade, the President was called for by the crowl assembled. He alpeared at the window with his wife (who is somewhat below the medium height), and made the following bricf remarks: "Here I am, and here is Mrs. Lincoln. That's the long and short of it."-RAymoni's Lincoln, p. 749.
5116. serfage, Burdens of. England. Thirteenth Century. The troubles of the time helped here as elsewhere the progress of the town: surfs, fugitives from justice or their lord, the trader, the Jew, naturaily songht shelter under the strong hand of St. Edmund. But the setthers were wholly at the abbot's mercy. Not a settler but was bound to pay his pence to the abbot's treasury, to plow a rood of his land, to reap In his harvest-field, to fold his sheep in the abbey folds, to help bring the annual eatch of erels from the abbey waters. Within the four crosses that bennded the abbot's domain land guze. In II: people, r agony

Aitpolebility out ithfinl Joc Cusars ight avall prejudice. te to look of Cusar T's Napo-
oly. Cruhe city of now free. ceomplish with com - they us. e lond anwhich had 1 bedewed momament 1LE, ch. E C , ## Atherians.

 H of great sumptaous ans in the w to abola custom, disobeyed of finerals were peron tombs Flain tablar magishis law.for. Sparcarried to not having custom to nlm, made IsT., Book aham Linthe Presisbled. He fe (who is and made I am, and ; and short ind. Thirime helped he town: lord, the lter under at the sety. Not nce to the is land, to ceep in the 1 eatch of a the four main land and water were his: the cattla of the townsmen paid for their pasture on the common: if the fullers refused the lom of their cloth, the cellarers would refase the use of tue stremm, und seize their boons wherever they found them. No toil might he levied from temmats of the abbey farms, mad enstomers ham to wait before shop and stall till the bugers of the abbot hand had the piek of the murket. There was little chane of redress, for if hurghers comphaned in folk-mote it was before the abhot's oflicers that its meeting was hede; if they appealed to the alderman, he was the abot's nomine and is ceived the horn, the svmbel of his oflore, at the ablet's hands. Likenil the greater revohutions of soriety, the alvance from this mere serfage was a silent one ; indered, its more galling lnstaneres of opprestion seem to have slipped meots-

5117. SERMON, A long. Bishop Burmt. In the pulpit, the cheret of his diseourses, which were delivered without any notes, was hoightened by a noble tigure and ly pathetic ation. Ite was often interrupted by the depp hom of his andiencer and when, after preaching ont the hour-miass, which in those days was purt of the furniture of the pulpit, lo hedd it up in his hand, the congregation chanoronsly encouraged him to go on till the stund hud run off onere more. Macaulay's Exis., (h. 7, p. 162.

SIIN. SERMON, A queer. Binhop T'ummr's. [At the coromation of dames H.] The sermon Was male $\quad$ 曾 of guint conerits, such as seventy years carlief might hase becon almired, but such as moved the scorn of a gencration arenstomed to the parer eloguence of sprat, of Noath, and of 'Tiltotson. King Solomon was King dumes. Adonijah was Mommonth. Joml was arye Honse comspirator: Shimei "Whig libeler; Abiathar, an honest but misguided old Cavalier. One phrase in the Book of Chronideles was construed to mean that the king was above the Parliament [and another wascited to prove that he alone ought to rommand the militial.-MaCaulay's Exg., ch. 4, p. $4+1$.
5119. SERMONS, Soporific. I.utimer's. The good latimer is not very lard upon those who slept at sarmons; he tells a story of a gentlewoman of London whose meightior met her in the streat and suid, "Mistress, whither go ye?" "Marry," said she, "I umgroing to St. Thomas of Aeres to the scrmon. I roold not sleep all this last night, and I am going now thither: I never failed of a good nap there."-Kniourts Eng., vol. 2, ch. 29, p. 491.
5120. SERVANT, Devotion of. Maria. The story of Maria, the daughter of the magnificent Eudamon, is singular and interesting. In the suck of Carthage she was purchased from the Vandals by some merelants from Syrin, who afterward sold her as a slave in their native country. A femme attendant, transported in the same ship, and sold in the same family. still continued to respert a mistress whom fortune had reduced to the common level of servitude ; and the daughter of Eudemon received from lier gratefil affertion the domestic services which she had onece reguired from her obedience. This remarkable behavior divulged the real condition of Maria, who, in the absence of the hishop of ('yrrhus, waredermed from sla. very by the generosity of some soldiers of the garisoh.-(Ghbos's liome, chi. 33, p. 38i.

Bit21. SERVANT, A useful. Sïduey Gomel. phein. Gexdobphin hat beren bred a pugent Whitehall, and had rarls nerguired atl the thexdbitity was haborions, char-handed, and prolomadly versed in the details of fimaner. Every gov armont, therefore found him a usefol sel wht; and there was nothing in his opinions or in his chanater which couh prexent him irom servsalid Charles, " is never in the wia, and never out of the way." 'This pointed remark goces far to exphain Godohphin's extraordimary suceess in lifr--Machravis Exti, ch. : p. p. Sis.
312t2. SERVICE, Demoralized. Lirign of Churles II. The chicr mil which allured these men [the court favorites] into the [maval] service was the protit of conveying bullion and ollurer valunble commoditios from port to port ; for loth the Athatie nud the Me literramen were then so infested by pimates from Bartary that merchants were aot willing to trust precions argeses to any consody but that of a man-of-war. A cuptain in this way someti:nes clened several thousand pomads by hat. a wages ; and for this hacrutive business be foo often indeglected the interests of his country and the honor of his thag, mule mem submission to foreign powers, disobeynd the most direet injnetions of his superiors, hay in port when he was ordered to chase a Salte rover, or run with dollars to Leghorn when this instrudions direeted him to repair to Lisbon ; and all this he did with impu-hity.-Macalany's E.io., 'h. 3, p. 28;3.
3128. SEVERITY, Disgraceful. " Bottomless Bagge." There was one living in the West at that time, "Bottomless Batge," Sir Jnmes Bagre, , ind it is to no other than Arehbishop Laud that he mast be thankful for his characteristic: patronymic. Ife was Burkingham's chovice, and a most worthy agent for the West ; he had a profound genins for servilities, meanmesses, and ramalition of every kind; he was a man who could lick the backingoff a grent man's boots and swemr that it was better than port wine; it was he who offered the 25 to the Frenchmen for theireso. We see in him the cur constantly snapping ound aloont the heels of Eliot, and alwass wiat the same sinnous sane-tity-his fragrant mane is an ointment poured foith with a large flavoring of asnfoetidn; a truculent rasen, a gennine barmacle, a great high-priest of the Cireumlocution Once, emhodying in himself a premature aptitude of chicane and red tape, which might make him a study even in these modern days. The rascal does not seem to have got the worst of it .Ilood's Cromwell, ch. 4, p. 64.
5124. SEVERITY, Parental. Roman. [War with the sammites.] The battle began; and Titus Manlius, the son of the consul Torquatus, luang challonged by a latin eaptain, acepted the summons, defeated his mutagonist, and returned with his spoils to the main army. Ilis father, with a true Roman severity, ordered his hemd to be struck off for disobediedece.-Tyrt.ER's Llest., Book :3, (h. 7, p, 3:3.3.
5125. SHAME, Consummate. Quren of Spain. A. D. 1808. Prince] Ferdinand who demanded the abdication of his imberile father and dissolute mother, Charles IV. and Louisal Maria] was endeavoring to blazon abrond his mother's shame. and to bring Godroy [one of the king's bodyguard] to trial as his mother's paramour. Napoleon thus delicately suggested to him that, in dislonoring his mother, he dis but invalidate the legitimaey of his own birtl

The still more wretched mother retaliated, as perhnps no mother ever retaliated before. She told her son to his face that he was of ignoble birth-that her hasband was not his father.-Anbottr's Napoleon B., vol. 2, ch. 1.
5126. sHams, mhitary. American Revolution. [Major General Stupen wrote of the disorder and confusion in Washington's army at Valley Forge as he found it.] I have seen a regiment consisting of thirty men, and a company of one corporn. [The men were only engaged for three, or six, or nine months, so that it was impossible to have a regiment or company complete.]Knigit's Ena., vol. 6, ch. 24, p. 383.
5127. 8HOUTZNG vs. Silence. Trojans-Grechs. It appears from Homer's accounts that the Greeks, in rushing on to engagement, preserved a deep silence, while the Trojans, like most other burbarous nations, uttered hideons shouts at the moment of attack.-Tyther's Mist., Boak 1, ch. 8, p. 78.
E128. SICKNESS cared by Gifts, The. Fiff. tecnth Century. The Chureh held its empire over the will of the population, high and low, through the miversal belief in the etficaey of its ceremowial observances for procuring health and weal and the safety of souls. $A$ husband is sick in London, and his anxious wife writes, "My mother beliested [vowed] another inage of wax of the weight of you, to our Lady of Walsingham; and she sent four nobles to the four orders of Friars at Norwich to pray for you; mud I have behested to go on a pilgrimage to Walsingham and St. Leonurds." [A.D. 1450-1486.] - Knigilt's Eng., vol. 2, ch. 8, p. 12 j.
5129. SICKNESS, Friend In. Samucl,Ioh nsou. Miss Williams told me he asked her to sit down by him, which sle did ; and upon her inquiring liow he was, he answered, "I an very ili indeed, matian. I am very ill when you are near me; what should I be were you at a distanee $\because$ " -Bosweld's Jonvion, p. 519.
5130. SICKNESS, Information in. Aristoth. Once, when he was siek, he said to the deretor, " Do not treat me as you would a driver of oxcrn or a digger, but tell me the canse, and you will find me obedient."-Cyclopedia or Biot.. p. 508.
5131. SICKNESS, Saintly. Ren. John $\mathrm{W}^{\text {: }}$ Fbetcher. A friend went to visit the heavenlyminded Fleteher in his illness. He remarked: "I went to see a man with one foot in the grave, but found him with one foot in heaven."-Stevens' Methodism, vol. 2, p. 50.
5132. SIGN of Destiny. Mahomet. [The monk Djerdjis, at an interview] perceived a sign below the neek, between the shoulders of Mahomet, a sign regarded by the Arabs as the omen of agreat destiny.-lamartine's Turkey, p. 58.

513:3, SIGNAL for Action. Alfrander. In drawing up his army and giving ordors, as well as exercising and reviewing it, he spared Bucephalus on account of his age, and rode another horse ; but he coustantly charged upon hlm ; and he hud wo sooner momed him than the sigmal was ulways given.-Plutarciis Alexandell.
5134. SIGNAL mistaken. Gildo the Rebel. Gildo was prepared to resist the invasion withall the forces of Africa. . . . He proudly reviewed an army of 70,000 men, and bonsted, with the rish presimption which is the forerunner of disgrace, that his numerous cavalry would trample under their horses' feet the troops of Mascezel, and involve, in a cloud of burning sand, the natives of the cold regions of Gaml and Germany. But the Moor, who conmanded the legions of 1 Ionorias [the Roman Emperor], fixed his camp of 5000 veterans in the face of a superior enemy and, after the delay of three days, gave the signal of a general engagement. As Mase czel advanced before the front with fair offers of prace and pardon, he cucountered one of the foremost standard-bearers of the Africans, and on his refusal to yield, struck him on the arm with his sword. The arm and the stundard sunk under the weight of the blow ; and the imaginary act of submission was hastily repeated by all the standards of the line. At this signal the disatfected cohorts prochamed the name of their lawfal soverrign ; the burbarinns, astonished by the defection of their Roman allies, dispersed, aceording to their custom, in tumultuary flight ; and Mascezel obtaned the honors of an easy and almost bloodless victory. The tyrant escaped from the field.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 29, p. 186.

5135 . SIGNALs, Ancient. Greek Empire. The hanguage of siguals, so clear and copions in the naval grammatir of the moderns, was imperfectly expressed by the various positions and colors of a commanding thg. In the darkness of the night, the same orders to chase, toattack, to halt, to retreat, to break, to form, were conveyed by the lights of the leading galley. By land, the firesignals were repeated from one mometain to another; a chuin of eight stations commanded a space of tive hundred miles : and Comstantinople in a few hours wasupprised of the hostile motions of the Saracens of Tarsus. - Gibion's Rome, ch. 53, p. 386.
5136. SIGNATURE of Ignorance. $\because R u d \theta$ Mark:" In the eighth year of his age Theodorie was reluctantly yielded by his father to the publio interest, as the pledge of an alliance which Leo, Emperor of the East, h l consented to purchase by an annual subsidy of three hundred pounds of gold. The royul hostage was educated at Constantinople with care and tenderness. Ilis body was formed to all the excreises of war, his mind was expanded by the labits of liberal conversation; lie frequented the schools of the most skilful masters; but he disdained or neglectel the arts of Greece, and so ignorant did he always remain of the first elements of science, that a rude mark was contrived to represent the signature of the illiterate King of Italy.-Gibbon's Rome, ch. 39, p. 2.
sis37. SIGNATURE, Remarsable. Arabs. The Arabs relate that Amurath, at the moment of ratifying a convention which engaged the republic [of Ragusa] to pay a tribute of five hundred rs, as well d Buceph. le anotlier him ; und the signnl XANDER. the Rebel. on withall reviewerl , wilh the ner of clis ould tram: Mascezel, sand, the Germany. legions of . fixed his a superior lays, gave s Mascezel offers of of the fore1s, and on arm with lard sunk imaginary by all the lisatlected ir hwful loy the ded, arcordight ; and casy and t escajerd 9,1 . 186. pire. The mes in the iperfectly colors of the night, alt, to red by the , the fireintain to manded a intinople - motions - Rome

- $R n d e$ heodoric the pube which d to purlimedred educated ess. His war, his eral conthe most egrlected e always , that a ne signaIBBON's ment of e repubnundred
ducats in gold to the Sultan, in exchange for the liberty of nuvigation and commere in the 'Turkish seas, dipped the interior of his hand in the ink, and applying it to the purehment, left thereon the trace of his tive tingers, as the lion innprints his five claws on the samd. By an acedent. saly they, of the disposition of the Sultan's hamd in this gesture, the three middle fingers were joined and extended, the thumb and the little tinger were separated fanwise. This sigmature, say they further, was imitated by the suceressors of the Sultan as a sign of power, of dishain, and of possession of the carth.-Lamantine's Tubey, p. 345

SIIs. SIGNATURE, Responsible. Julyis of Charles $I$. To sign the denth-warmunt was a solemn deed, from which some of the juiges were ready to shrink; Cromwell ronculed the magnitude of the act under an air of buffoonery : the chamber rang with gayety; he dambed the check of one of the judges that sat next him with ink, and, amid shouts of laughter, compelled another, the wavering Ingoldshy, to sign the paperasa jest.-Bancrort's U.S., vol. 2, ch. 11.
5139. SIGNATURE, A responsible. Duthe of Monmonth. [After the overthrow of his rebellion] Monmonth threw himself on the ground, and crawled to the king's feet [James II.]. He wept. He tried to embrace his uncle's kuees with his pinioned arms. He begged for life, only life, life at any price. . . A declaration, tilled with atrocious calumnies, had been put forth. The regal titie had been assumed. For treasons so aggravated there conld be no pardon on this side of the grave. The poor terrified duke vowed that he had never wished to take the crown, but had been led into that fatal error by others. As to the Declaration, he had not written it. He had not read it. He had signed it without looking at it. It was all the work of Ferguson, that bloody villain Ferguson. "Do you expect me to believe," said James, with contempt but too well merited, " that you set your hand to a paper of such moment without knowing what it contained "'-Macavlay's Exg., (hl. 5. p. $5 \%$.
5140. SIGNATURE, Symbolic. Iudion Tribes. [Peace was made by the tribes with the French and their allies.] A written treaty was made, to wheh each nation drew for itself a symbol. The Senecas and Onondagas drew a spider ; the Cayugas a calumet; the Oneidas a forked stick; the Mohawks a bear; the Hurons a beaver; the Abenakis a deer, and the Ottawas a hare. . . . It was declared that peace should reach beyond the MIs-sissippi.-Bancroft's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 21.

5141 . SIGNs, Faith in. Gold-Seekers. [Goldseekers went among the frozen regions of North America, following Frobisher's discoveries.] At one moment they expected death, and at the next they looked for gold. Spiders abounded, and " spiders were a sign of great store of gold." [The ships wore laden with valueless earth.]Banckoft's IIst. of U. S., vol. 1, ch. 3.
5142. SIGNs, Need of. Reign of Charles II. The houses were not numberet. There would, indeed, have been little advantage in numbering them; for of the coachmen, chairmen, porters, and erraul-boy; of London, a very small proportion could read. It was necessary to use marks which the most ignorant could understand. The slopps were therefore distinguished by painted signs, which gave a gay and grotesque nsperet to the streets. The wnlk from Charing ('ross to Whiterlaprd lay through an endless succession of Saracen's Lleads, Royal Oaks, Blae Bears, and Golden Lamhs, which disappeared when they were no longer required for the direction of the common people.-Macat1.AY's ENG., ch. 3, p. 335.

5143 . SIGNS, Significant. "Of' the Times. [After the murriage of Philip of Spain to Queen Nary of Enghand indications of a change in the poticy of the government were soon given.] After a few days of hanqueting, Philip and Mary proeceded to Windsor, where the king was installed as a knight of the garter ; "at which time," says Holinshed, " $n$ hernld took down the arms of Englandat Wiadsor, and in place of them would have set the arms of Spain, but he was command"d to set them up again by certain lowds." This, was one sign of the times. - linioint's Exa., vol. 3, ch. $5, \mathrm{p} .7$.
5144. SIGNs, Welcome. Columbus' Firat Voyayr. On the 14th of September the voyagers were rejoiced by the sight of what they considered harbingers of land. A heron and a tropical bird, called the Rabo de Junco, neither of which is supposed to venture far to sea, hovered nhout the shijs.-Irving's Columaus, Boak 3. ch. 2.
5145. SILENCE onjoined. Alexander: [Alexander the Great distributed his favors with a free hand. His mother wrote him:] " You do well in serving your friends, and it is right to act nobly ; but by making them all equal to kings, in proportion as you put it in their power to make friends, you deprive yourself of that privilege." Olympias often wrote to him in that manner but he kept all her letters secret, except one, which IIephæstion happened to cast his eye upon, when he went, according to custom, to read over the king's shoulder; he did not hinder him from reading on; only, when he had done, he took his signet from liis finger and put it to his mouth. -Plutahcis Alexander.
5146. SILENCE of Grief, Bomaparte. [After the battle of Leipzig, which decided the overthrow of Bonaparte's power in Europe, he was seen sitting at a window in Freiburg], his head resting on his arm in silent despair. Berthier sat opposite to him in a similar state. Neither spoke, nnd officers who entered were silently ordered, by a wave of the hand, to leave the room.Steffens in Knight's Eng., vol. 7, ch. 31, p. 565.
5147. SILENCE in Misfortane. Pompey. After this fatal engagement [with Ciesar], Pompey experienced all the miseries of a fugitive. The last scenes of the life of this ilhustrious man afforl a striking picture of the vicissitudes of fortune and the instability of all human greaness. He passed the first night, after his defeat, in the solitary lut of a fisherman upon the sea-coast. Thence he went on board a vessel, which landed him first at Amphipolis; whence he sailed to Leshos, where his wife Cornelia was waiting, in anxious expectation, the issue of the late decisive contlict. They metupon the sea-shore. Pompey embraced her without uttering a word, and this silence spoke at once the whole extent of her mis-fortme. They lled for protection to Egypt. Tythen's Itist., Beok 4, ch. 2, p. 408.
5148. SILENCE necessary. I'tuuder. [In 1045, when the Parliament army plumbered the Basing House, one soldier got three bags of silver, which (he not being able to keep his own counsel) grew to be common pillage among the rest, aud the fellow had hut one half crown left to himself at last.]-KNight's Eno., vol. 4, ch. 4, p. 50.
51.19. SILENCE, Public. Stemul Johmsom. We talked of publie spenking. Jousson: "We must not estimate a man's powers by his being able or not able to deliver his sentiments in public. Isaac Hawkins Browne, one of the first wits of this country got into Parliament, and never opened his month. For my own part, I think it is more disgraceful never to try to speak tham to try it and fuil; as it is more disgracelin not to fight than to fight amb be begaten."-BoswELL'S.Jollsson, p. 244 .
5150. BILENCE, Treasonable. Reign of Ilewry VIII. As it was by terror that he ['Thomats Cromwell] mastereal the king, so it was by terror that he mastered the people. Men felt in England, to use the flgure by which Emismus paints the time, "as if a scorpion lay sleeping under every stone." The confessional hat no secrets for Cromwell. Men's talk with their closest friends found its way to his car. "Words idly spoken," the murmurs of a petilant abhot, the ravings of a mon-struck num, were, as the nobles eried passionately at his fall, " tortured into treason." The only chance of safety lay in silence. "Friemels who used to write mal seud me presents," Erasmus tells us, "now sent aeither letters nor gifts, nor received any from any one, and this through fear." But even the refuge of silence was closed by a law more infamous than any that has ever biotted the statutebook of England. Not only was thought made treason, bit men were forced to reveal their thoughts on pain of their very silence being pumished with the peralties of treason.-Hist. of Eng. Peorice, s. $57 \%$.
5151. SIMONY, A Debanchees. King of France. In order to gratify his habitual licentiousness, Philip, whose private revenues were scanty, lad recourse to the scandalous expedient of offering for sale, to the lighest bidder, the bishoprics and other valuable ecelesiastical preferments, the proceeds of this unhallowed trattic being expended in riot and debanchery.-Sti:bents' Fibince, ch. 7. $14.
5152. SIMONY, Papal. Pope Vigilius. [The pope Sylverins was tried on the charge of treason.] Areused by eredible witnesses, and the evidence of his own subseription, the successor of St. Peter was despoiled of his pontifical ornaments, clad in the mean habit of a monk, and embarked, without delay, for a distant exile in the East. At the emperor's command, the clergy of Rome procected to the choice of a new bishop; and after a sotemn invocation of the Holy Ghost, elected the deacon Vigilius, who had purchased the papal throne by a bribe of two hundred pounds of gold.-Gibron's Rome, ch. 41, p. 169.

5153 . SIMPLICITY difficult. Samuel Johnson. Goidsmith said that he thought he could

Write "gool fible, manionel the simplicity which that kind of romposition reguires, and observed, that in most fables the animals lintroduced seldom talk in character. "For instance," said he, "the fable of the little fishes, who saw birds tly over their heads, and envying them, petitioned Jupiter to be changed into birds. The skill," continued loe," conslsts in making thrm talk like little tislies." While he indulged himsolf in this funciful revery, he observed Johnsonshaking his sides and laurhing. Upon which he smartly procecded, "Why, Dr. Johnson, this is not so casy as you seem to think; for if yon wre to make litite fislues talk, they would talk like whales."-Boswela's Joinsson, p. 210.
515.4. SIMPLICITY preserved. Joan of Arc. [. Whe had predicted the coronation of Charles VII, at lacims.] With hiscoronation the maid felt her errand to be over. "O gentle king, the pleasure of Gorl is done," she cried, as she thung herself at the feet of Charles aum asked teave to go home. "Would it were his good will," she pleaded with the arehbishop, as he forced her to remain, "that I might go aml keep shecp onee more with my sisters nud my brothers; they would be so erlad to see me again!" But the poliey of the French court detained her.-Hist. of Ena. Peorle, 太 432.
5155. SIMPLICITY, Royal. Julian. [The ruler of Gaul.] The simple wants of mature repulated the measure of his food and sleep. lacijecting with disdain the delicacies provided for his table, he satisfied his appetite with the roarse and common fare which was allotted to the memuest soldiers. During the rigor of a Gallie: winter, he never suffered a fire in his betchamber: and after a short and interrupted slumher, he frequently rose in the middle of the night from a carpet spread on the fioor, to despateh any urgent business, to visits his rounds, or to steil a few moments for the prosecution of his favorite studies.-Gibbon's Rone, eli. 19, p. 2333.
5156. SIN, Indalgence in. For Moury. With more boldness than ever, the new lope Leo had sent, in 1516, agents through the world to sell indulgences, and the man chosen for Saxony, Tetzel kie Dominican, and his band, were among the most zealous preachers of this iniquity. "I wouk not exchange,", satil he, in one of his harangues, "my privilege" (as vender of the papal letters of alsolution) "against those which St. Peter has in heaven ; for I have saved more souls by my indulgences than the apostle by his sermons. Whatever erime one may have com-mitted"-muming an outrage upon the person of the Virgin Mary-"let him pay well, and he will receive pardon. Likewise the sins which you may be disposed to commit in future may be atoned for beforchand."-Bunsen's Luthen, 1. 9.
5157. SIN overlooked. Samuel Johnson. I stated to him an anxious thought, by which a sincere Christian might be disturbed, even when conscions of having lived a good life, so far as is consistent with human infirmity; he might fear that he should afterward fall away, and be guilty of such crimes as would render all his former religion vain. Could there be, upon this awful subject, such a thing as balancing of acrounts? Suppose a man who has led a good life simplicity nires, nuid mals introinstance," , who suw ling thett, birds. The king them ulged himed Johnson pon which hnson, this for if your wonld talk p. 210. an of $A r c$. of Churles n the maid e king, the she floug d lenve to wil!," she reed her to sheep once cers; they But the er.-Hist.
an. [The of matnre alud sleep. provided - with the ullotted to rigor of a inhis bed. pted sluntlle of the or, to desis rounds, ccution of ch. 19, c Leo hidd to sell in. - Suxony, ond, were his iniquiin one of ler of the ose which ved more itle by his ave comperson of nd he will hieh yon may be Lu'tient, enson.
I which in ven when so far as he might $y$, and be ar all his upon this ng of acgood life for seven years commite an uet of wiokerlones ghd lnstantly dies; will his former good lifo have any effect in his fuvor ?" Jomneon : " Kir, If a main las led $n$ good lifi for savin yenrs, and then is hurrled hy passion to do what is wrong, and is suddenly curried off, depend upon it he will have the reward of his seven yonrs' good life: God will not take a canch of lim. Upon this prineiple Richard Baxtor believes that a suicide may bre saved. 'If,' says he, 'it shonld be ohjecterl that what 1 maintain may encouruge suicide, I answer, I am not to tell a lie to prevent it.'"-BoswEllisJoInson, p. 499.
5159. sIN, Remedy for. Americun Imtiuns. 'l'lat man should take: up the eross, that sin should be atoned for, are inlens thint dwell in human nature; they were so diffused among the savages, that Leclered belioved some of the upostles must have reached the Amorienn conti-nent.-Banchoris's U. S., vol. 3, eh. id.
5159. SIN, Unpardonable. Willitur Coroper. (oowper tells us that "to this moment be hut felt no concern of a spiritum kind :" that " iernorant of original sin, insensible of the guilt of netual transgression, le understood neither the law nor the gospel-the condembing mature of the one, nor the restoring moneses of the other." But alter attempting suicide he wasseized, as he well might be, with religions horrors. Now it was that he begran tor ask himself whet her he had been guilty of the unpardomable sin and was presently persuaded that he had, though it wonld be vain to inguire what he imagincel the unpardomble sin to be.-Suma's (ownem. eh. 1.
5160. SINCERITY, Attractions of Reigu of Willium aud diume. [All Catholic priests in parishes were prisonems at large, all others were banished loy law.] The Catholie priest aljuriner his religion, received a pension of thirty am? ifterward of forty pounds. And in spite of these laws, there were, it is said, fonr thousamd Cathalie elergymen in Ireland; and the Catholic worship gained upon the Protestant, so athractive is sincerity when ennobled by persecution. Bancrori's U. S., vol. 5. eh. 4.
5161. SINCERITY, Power in. Julius Custir. Ile never misled his army ats to an enemy's strength; or if he misstated their mombers, it was only to exagrgerate. In Afriou, before Thapsus, when his oflicers were nervons at the reported approach of Juba, le called then together, and suid briefly: "Yon will understand that within a day King Juba will be here with the logions, 30,000 horse, $100,(000$ skirmishers, and 3100 elephants. You are not to think or ask fuestions. I tell you the truth, and youmust prepare for it. If any of you wre alarmed, I shatl send you home." [His army never lost a lattle while he wus with them in person.]-Funvide's C&sar, ch. 28.
5162. SINGULARITY, Motive for. Diogenes. As the charncter of this extraordinary person was differently judged of in his own time, some nceonnting him the wisest of men and others little better than a madman, it is no wonder that his estimation with the moderns should be equally various. It is not to be doubted that the love of singularity was a powerful motive of his conduct und opinions. If ofposed the com-peon of reputation, as he fonmed that rontuct a mew mone of nequiring it.-I'vitien's IInst., Book 2, ch. $9, ~ 1.203$.
51683. SINNERS, Crusade of. First Citusate. The French pessessed more ol the pirit of adventare thme the latians. 'I'lif' design was no sooner proposed in a conned held at ('lormont, in Anvergne, than they took nu arms with the most enthasiastic cmalation. 'The principal nobles immedintely sold their lands to raise money for the expedition, and the (Gureh bonght them at an easy late, and thas acguired immense territorial possessions ; evell the poorme lmbous set ont upon their own demrges, mat the vasmals nttended the standard of thoir lorels. Besides these, whom we may suppose to have bern intuenced by the piety of the design, an innamerable multitade, a motley assemblage of bergars, slaves, malefaetors, strimpuets, debanclieres, and protligrates of all kimels joined the thronge amilloped to find in those serenes of holy carnare and desolation means of making their fortmu by plander. -Ty'tLen'n IIs't., J3ook 6, ch. 9, p. 154. [Note.]-Many even of there miscrmants hud their own motives of picty. Mr. (ibhmn's observation has both truth and wit in it. " At the voice of their pastor, the roblure, the inerndinry, the homicide, arose by thomsamis to redecem their souls, by repeating on the intidels ther sume deeds whieh they latel exereised arainat their Christian brethren."-Ghmon, (h. B.
5164. SINS, Deliverance from. I!/ Indulgeuces. This warning aramst the pronchers of indalgenees was justitied by wond reasons. For in the meighborhood of Wittenterg, at the town of Jiterbock, Tetarl, a Dominian monk, a arrial on his traffic. 'There were lively times at that place, as at an ammal fair and narket. The people danced and caronsed. rejoicing that they were rid of theirsins. And harge multitules flocked from Wittenherig lo patronize 'Tetael-REAN's latilels, (h. 1, 1. !.

5165 . SINS of Others. J"/"" Bun? $1 / n$. ()f himself he says: "Thomgh I roulid sin with delight and ense, and take pleasure in ihe villanies of my companions, coen then, if I saw wieked things done by them that professed groodness, it would make my spirit tremble. Once, when I was in the height of my vanity, hearing one swear that was reckomed a relig. ions man, it made my heart to ache."Froude's bunvin. ch. 1.
5166. SINs, Tormenting. Jhu Bunya". " My sins," he says, " did so offend the Lord that even in my ehildhood lle did scare and affright me with fearfnl dreams, and dial torrify me with dreadful visions. I have been in my bed greatly aftlicted, while asleep, with apprehensions of devils and wicked spirits, who still, as I. then thought, labored to draw me away with them, of which I conld never be rid. I was afflicted with thoughts of the Day of Judg. ment night and day, trembling at the thoughts of the fearful torments of hell tire." When, at ten years old, lae was rumning about with his eompanions in " his sports ind childish vanities," these terrors contimually recurred to him, yet " he wonld not lat go his sins."- Fraorone's Bunvan, cll. 1.

5147, SIBTER, A comforting. Tis Froderich the Great. Amid dismstrons defont in battle and incrensing und istermined foes, his mother, " whom he loved most tenderly," diod. A few friends remanined faithful to him, elieering him by their correspondence. "Oh, that IIcuven hat heaped all ills on me nlone!" satid his affectionate sister: " 1 would have borne them with firmness."-Banchorr's U. S., vol. 4, ch. 12.

S14s. SKILL misapplied. I'ripetual Jotion. Richurd Arkwright . . Inad so little knowledge of mechanical principles, that he took it intolis hem to invent a perpetund motion. So infintuated was he, that lie spent most of his time, and soon all his money, in making experiments. Perce lled from his honse, and plenty from his loard. Ilis wife very maturally resented this infringement of her rights, and, on one unhappy day, overeome with sumden angor, she broke to pieces his wheels and tevers, and all the apparatas of his perpetund motion. Violenee never answers ingrod purpose between people who live together in a relation so intimate-ncither violence of word nor deed. Richard Arkwright could not forgive this cruel stroke ; he separnted himself from his wife, and never lived with her again.-('yctarioista of Broa., p. 708.
5169. SKILL, Proof of, Maier Rothschild. The Landgrave's friend, General Estorlf. had noticed the aceuracy and good sense of Maior Rothschild many years before, when the banker was a banker's clerk in I tanover. IIe reeommended him for the post, and he was summoned to the Landgrave's residence. When he arrived, it chanced that the mighaty monnrch was getting budly beaten in $n$ game of chess, by General Estorff. "Do yon umlerstund chess?" asked the Landgrnve. "Yes, your Ilighness," said the banker. "Then step up here and look at my game." Rothsehild obeyed, and suggested the moves by which the game was casily won. It was enough. From that time to the end of his life he managed the finances of the Landgrave of Messe.-Cyclopedia of Biog., j. 567 .
5170. SLANDER, Defence from. Napoleon I. When I have been asked to cause answers to be written to them [see No. 24] I have uniformily replied, " My victories and my works of public improvement are the only response which it becomes me to make."- - ibbott's Napoleson I3., vol. 1, ch. 9.
5171. SLANDER from Envy, John Bunyan. Envy at his rapidly-acquired reputation brought him baser enemies. He was called a witch, it Jesuit, $n$ highwayman. It was reported thet he htd " his misses," that he had two wivers, ete. "My foes have missed their mark in this," he said, with honest warmth ; " 1 am not the man. If all the fornicators and adulterers in England were hanged by the neek, John Bunyan, the object of their envy, would be still alive and well."-Froude's Bunyan, eli. 5.
5172. SLANDER, Fine for. $$ 500,000$. The late sheriff [of London], Pinkington, having said, upon the duke's [of Sork, afterward Jumes II.] return, " he had fired the eity and was now come to cut their throats," he caused him to be indieted, and the court assigned his Roynl Highness $£ 100,000$ for damages. KNuIIT's Eng., vol. 4, eh. 23, p. 370.

5178. SLANDER, Opposition by. John Wes. ley. When therounitry was in grarrat commotion, occasioned hy threaterned invasions from Frume und Spuin, and by the movements of the Scoteh Pretender. . . . all sorts of calumnies ngrinst Wesley tlow ovor the lmad. He had been seen with the Pretender in Frunce ; had beentaken up for high trensom, mad was at last anfe in prison awniting his doom. Ite was a Jesnit, and kept lRomun priests In his house at tondon. IIC was an agent of Spain, whence loe received large remittances, in order to raise a body of twonty thonsmad men to nid the expectad Spanish invasion. Ite was an Anabaptist ; a Quaker: had been prosecrited for unlnwfully selling gin ; had hanged himself; und, at any rate, was not the gennine John Wesley, for it was well known that the latter was dend and burial.-S'tevens' Mexiodina, vol. 1, p. 199.
5174. SLANDER of Piety, Constantine. [After he beeame a Christian.] The historian Zosimus maticiously asserts that lhe emperor land imbrued his hands in the blood of his eldest son before lie publicly renounced the grods of Rome and of his ancestors.-Gimmon's Rome. ch. 20, p. 249 .
5175. - Richaril Buxter's. [Reign of James II.] In a Commentary on the New Testament, he had complained, with some bitterness, of the persecution which the Dissenters suffered. That men who, for not using the Prayer Book, had been driven from their homes. stripped of their property, and tocked up in dungeons, should dare to utter a murmur, was then thought a lighl crime agninst the State and the Church.

An information was filed. Baxter begged that ise might be allowed some time to prepare for his defence. It was on the day on which Oates was pilloried in Palace Yard that the illustrions chief of the Puritans, oppressed by age and infirmities, came to Westminster Hall to make this request. Jeffreys burst into n storm of rage. "Not a minute," he cried, " to save his life. I can deal with saints as well as with sinners. There stands Ontes on one side of the pillory ; and if Baxter stood on the other, the two greatest rognes in the kingrom would stand together."-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 4, p. 456.
5176. SLANDER punished. By James $I$. On the $3 d$ of Angust, 1596, John Dickson, an Englislınan, was indicted for uttering calumnious and slanderous speeches against the king. The amount of his offence was that., being drunk, he laad allowed a bout he was managing to come in the way of one of the king's ordnance vessels, when, being called upon by Archibald Gairdenar, one of his Majesty's cannoners, to give place to his Majesty's ordnance, " he fyrst ansserit, that he would nocht vyre his boit for king or kasard ; and thairefter, maist proudlie, arrogantlie, shlnnderouslie, and eahmnioustie callit his Majestie ane bastard king : and that he was nocht worthie to be obeyit." The jury found lim guilty, but qualified their verdict by admitting his drunkenness ; but their qualitiention did not avail : the poor fellow was hanged.-Hood's Chomwell, ch. 2, p. 35.

damages.-

 170.John Wes. eral commo. fusions from entents of the of calume land. He $r$ in France , and was ai m. He was his loouse at a, whenre he er to raise $n$ 1 the expectmahaptist ; a - unlawfully and, at any 'esley, for it as dend and l. 1, p. 190.
utine. [After -im Zosimus ror had im$s$ eldest son als of Rome mame, eh. 20, [R's. [Reign on the New It some bitthe Dissentot using the their homes. d up in dunir, was then ate and the led. Baxter me time to the day on e Yard that oppressed $N$ estminster burst into a cried, "to ts as well as on one side n the other, lom would va., ch. 4, emes I. On in, an Eng. 5 calumnit the king. that, being managing 's ordnance Archibald anoners, to " he fyrst is boit for t proudlie, umniouslie and that he jury found lby admittication did 1.-Hood's 5197. SLANDER rewarded. Dick Trllwot. [He had dechured Amme liyde's mblary with him. self before her marriage to the king.] Dhad her hushond [Jumes 11. | Beren a mum rembly upright and honorable, he would have driven from his presenee with indigmation and comtrmpt the wretehes that slandered her. But one of the peenliarities of dames' elmmeter was that no aet, however wleked and shameful, which had been prompted by u desire to gain his laver, ever seemed to him deserving of disapprobation. Thabot continued to frequent the court, appearing daily with brazen front before the prineress whose ruin he had plotted, nud was installed into the lucrative post of chief panderer to lor husband. -Macaulay's Eng., ch. 6, p. 45.
5178. SLANTER, Victim of. Columbus. [1'ut in chmins. See No. 1648.] From the eurly and never-to-he-forgotten outruge upon Castilinu pride, of compelling hidalgos, in time of emergency, to labor in the eonstruction of works neeessary to the publicsufety, down to the recent charge of levying war ngainst the rovernment, there was not a lmodship, uhase, nor sedition in the ishmed that was not imputed to the misdeeds of Colmmbes and his brothers. Besides the usmal necasations of intlicting oppressive labor, unnecessury tusks, pinfui restrictions, short allowances of food, and cruel punishments upon the Spaniards, and whging nujust wars against the matives, they were now charged with preventing the conversion of the latter, that they might send them slaves to Spain, and protit by their sale. This last churge, so contrary to the pious feelings of the admiral, was foumfed on his huving objected to the brptism of certain Indians of mature age, until they could be instructed in the doctrines of Christianity; justly considering it an abuse of that holy sacrament to administer it thus blindly. Columbos was charged, also, with having secreted pearls and other precious articles collected in his voyage along the const. -Ihving's Columibus, Book 13, ch. 7.
5179. slanders, Vile. Primitive Church. There were muny who pretended to confess or to relate the eeremonies of this abhorred society. It was asserted, " that a new-born infant, entirely covered over with flour, was presented, like some mystie symbol of initiation, to the knife of the proselyts, who unknowingly inflicted many a secret and mortal wound on the innocent victim of his error; that as soon as the crued deed was perpetrated, the seetaries drank up the blood, greedily tore asunder the quivering members, and plediged themselves to eternal secrecy, by a mutual ronsciousness of guilt. It was as confidently affirmed that this inhuman sacrifice was succecded by a suitable entertainment, in which intemperance served as a provocative to brutal lust ; till, it the :appointed moment, the lights were suddenly extinguished, shame was banished, nature was forgotten; and, as aceident might direct, the darkness of the night was polluted by the incestuous commerce of sisters and brothers, of sons and of mothers."-Gisbon's Rome, ch. 16, p. 11.
5180. SLAUGHTER, Barbarous, 58,000. The Numidians had seized some territories belonging to Carthage, and a war ensued, in which the Carthaginians were much weakened. The son of Massinissa, a barbarian in every sense, slaughtereal in eold blood 58,000 of the Carthagiminns after they had laid down theirarms. - Ty'uen's Hıs'. , 13ook 3, ch. 9, p. 384.

51*1. SLAUGHTER, Exterminating. Of Germotus. The poor Germans stond bravely defending themselves us they could; but the sight of their women llying in shrieking crowis, parsucd by the Romm horse, was too much for them, und the whole host were soon rushing in drespiring wreck down the unrowigg isthmus between the Mense and the Rhime. They came to the junction at last, und then they remald go no farther. Multitudes were shugshered; muttitudes threw themselves into the water and were drownel. Chesar, who was not given to exaggeration, shys that their origimul number was 430,010. 'The only survivors of' whom any clear record remmins were the detnchments who were absent from the battle, and the few chief's who had come into C'esar's rampand continued with him at their own request from fear of bring murdered by the Gauls. This allair was much spoken of at the time, as well it might br. Qutsfions were raised upon it in the Sclate. Cato insisted that Casar had mussurerd a delone eless people in a time of truce, that he had broken the haw of mations, and that he ought to be given up to the Germuns. The sweeping ofl the carth in sueh a manner of a quarter of a million human creatures, even in those unscrupulons times, could not be heard of withont il shudder.Froude's Cefali, eh. 16.
5182. SLAVERY, Antiquity of. Older then the Records. Shavery and the slave-trade are older thm the records of human society; they are found to have existed wherever the savage hunter begion to inssume the hahits of pastoral or ngrieultural life ; and, with the exception of Austrulasia, they have extended to every portion of the globe. They pervalled every mation of eivilized antiquity. . . . The founder of the Jewish nation was a slaveholder and $n$ purchaser of slaves.-Banchofers Hist. of U. S., vol. 1 , ch. 5.

51$3. SLAVERY, Abuses of. Reifn of olumes II. [The rebels captured with the Duke of Monmouth were consigned to ten years of slavery in the Indies.] The humm eargoes were stowed close in the holds of small vessels. So little space was allowed that the wretehes, many of whom were still tormented by unhealerl wounds, could not all lie down at once without lying on one another. They were never sullicreal to go on deck, The hitehway was constantly watehed by sentinels armed with hangers and blunderbusses. In the dungeon below all was darkness, stench, lamentation, disease, and death. Of ninety-nine convicts who were carried out in one vessel, twenty-two died before they reached Jamaica, although the voyage was performed with unusual speed. The survivors, when they arrived at their house of bondage, were mere skeletons. During some weeks coarse biscuit and fetid water had been doled out to them in such scanty measure that any one of them could casily have consumed the ration which was assigned to five. They were, therefore, in such a state, that the merchant to whom they had been consigned found it expedient to fatten them before selling them.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 5, p. 603.
5184. SLAVERY, Beginninge of. Ceorgia. Agricaltare lad not flomrished. Commerce luml notspring up. 'Jhe luws of property had been mo arrunged that estatos conlil descedal only fos the olflest soms of fumilies. 'I'le colonlsts were: poor, nad eharged thelr poverty to the fuet that shave-labor was forhidelen in the provinee. 'Thls berome the ehbel efuestion whielt ngitated the people. 'The proprietary laws arrew more and more umpopalar. The statente oxalabling slavery Wus not rigidly enforcoil, nuel, imenel, could not be conforeed when the prople lame determined to evale it. Whitethel himself plamed for the abrogation of the law. Slaves heman to be hired first for short terms of servler. Hen for longer preriods, then for a hondired years, which was equavalent to an actuat parchase for jife. Finally, curgoes of slaves ware hrought elirectly from Africa, und the primitive fror-labor system of Georgia was revolutioni\%nd, -Romenturs U. S., ('h. 29, 1). 244.
5185. SLAVERY of Captives, Romutus. 'The captive Burbarinas, exelanging lenthfor slavery, were distributed umong tho provincinls, and ussigned to thosedistriets (in Ghul, the territories of Amiens. Beatuvais, Cmabray, Treves, Jangres, and Troyes are particularly specilled) which lad been depopulated by the cmamithes of war. They were usefully employed as shopherils und hasbindmen, thit were denied the exercise of arms, exerept when it was found expedient to enroll them in the military service. Nor did the emperors refuse the property of bands, with a less servile tenure, to such of the Barbarians as solic-ited the protection ol' Rome. 'They granted a settlement to several eobonies of the Curpi, the Bistarme, und the Sarmatimes : und, by a dungerous indulgence, promitted them in some: mensure to retain their mational manners and independence.-Gibmon's Rome. cli. 13, p. 415.
5186. SLAVERY in England. A.D. 1215. A lurge portion of the people were in the condition of villanage. Some wore in a state of slavery. 'The men went with the land us chat-tels.-KNigrrt's ENa., vol. 1, ch. 24, p. 350.
5187. SLAVERY introdnced, lirginia. The year 1819 was marked by the introduction of negro slavery into Virginin. The servints of the people of Jumestown had hitherto been persons of English or German descent, und their term of sarvice land varied from a few months to many years. No perpetual servitude lad thus fur been recognized, nor is it likely that the English colonists wonld of themselves have instituted the system of shave labor. In the month of August a Dutch man-of-war sailed up the river to the plantations, and offered by auction twenty Africans. They were purchased by the wealthier class of planters, midi made slaves for life. It was, however, nearly a haif century from this time hefore the system of negro slavery beeano well estabished in the English col-onics.-Rinritirs U. S., eh. 11, p. 111.
5188. SLAVERY mitigated. Athenian. All Atheninn slaves were allowed to purchase their freedom at a priee stipulateu by the magistrate. If any slave found his treament intolerably severc, and was unable to purehase his freedom, he might oblige his master to sell him to another who would use him better. The emancipation of a slave, however, did not exempt him from Book 1, ch. 10, p. 103.

5188

$\qquad$ Romana. [During tho times of Chins Marcius Coriolntane, the lRomanes trinted their slaves with great moderatlon, and this was matural, becanse they worked and even nte with theme. It was deomed a great punlshmont for a shave who lami committed a fanlt to take 1! that piece of woonl with whilel they sujported the thatl of $n$ wigon, and enrry it round the nelghorhool.- -lidramer's Carion Mabinia.
5100. SLAVERY, Natural. T'urki, The eomtexture of the Torkisli govermment is such $n$ fabrie of slavery, that it is almost impossible: that any subject of the entuire should inherit a free or an ingronuous spirit. 'The rrmed signior himself is bom of a slave of the seragilo. The viziers ure often slaves by birth, and through the whole empire it is lumel to findmen that derive their origin from ingenuous pmrents. It is therefore no wonder that the 'Turks should inlerit a disposition fitted for the rule of un alssolute master. [Suys Grotins nftor Aristotle :] "Thus nome nations nre slaves by mature, born to be governel, not to govern."-TyTime's Mist., Book 5, ©h. 13, ए. 212.
5191. SLAVERY opposed. By Friends. To the Society of Frients in England belongs the honor of the first united efforts to prevent tho continuance of the slave trade, nguinst whleh they petitioned P'nrlinment in 1788. - KNart's Pind., vol. 7, ch. 26; p. 466.
5192. SLAVERY, Prevalonce of. In Rome. It was more for the interest of the merchant or manmfacturer 10 purchase than to hire his workmon ; and in the conntry slaves were employed as the eheapest and most laborions instruments of agriculture. To confirm the general obser. vation, and to display the multitude of slaves, we might allegen variety of purticular instances. It was discovered, on is very melancholy ocension, that four lanmlred siaves were maintained in u single puluce of Rome. The sume number of four humelied belonged to un estate which an African widow, of a very privatecondition, resigned to her soo, while she reserved for herseli $n$ much larger share of her property. $A$ freedman, under the reign of Angistus, though his fortune had suffered great losses in the civil wars, left behind him thriet thousand six handred yoke of oxen, two hundred and fifty thousind head of smaller cattle, und what was almost included in the description of cottle, four thousand one hundred and sixteen slaves.-Gibion's Rome, ch. 2, p. 52.

5198 . BLAVERY of Prisoners. Reign of dames $I I$. The number of prisoners [who had been rebels under the Duke of Monmouth] whom Jeffreys transported was eight hundred and forty-one. These men, more wretched than their ossociates who suffered death, were distributed into gangs, und bestowed in persons who enjoyed favor at court. The conditions of the gift were that the conviets should be carried beyond sea as slaves, that they should not be emancipated for ten years, and that the place of their banishment should be some West Indian island. This last article was studiously frmmed for the purpose of aggravating the nisery of the exiles.

T:SKil'н IItwT.

[During the tho Romans] derition, and rked and even grent punisli. tted a funlt to h whileh they and carry it II'ו'н CAJvM Kis. The eon'tit is such a st inpossible: mal inherit a griuid slgnior rimplio. The and through ny that derfvo

It is therepuld inherit a "It nibsolute tle:] "Thus c, born to be Eル's IIs'T.,

Hriends. To 1 belongs the prevent the ritinst whleli -KNIGITT's

In Rome. merchant or ire his workre employed instruments eneral obserle of slaves. ar instances. reholy oces. : maintained wne number te which an mdition, refor herself ty. $\mathbf{A}$ freedthough his ecivil wars, indred yoke and head of included in ad one humN's IRomв:,

Reign of s [who had uth] whom ndred and 1 than their distributed who enjoyof the gift ied beyond emancipal:e of their ian island. ced for the the exiles.

In New lingland or New Inerey they would have found apopulation klidly disponed to them, amd a elinutenot untinvoruble to their lamalth and vigor. It was therefore determined that they shonald Ise sent to colonies where aloritan condid hope to inspire little sympatliy.

It was estimated by Jelfreys that, on an inveruge, rach of them, nfter all charges wero puid, wombl be worth from ten to lifteen ponime. 'There was, therefore, much nugry compulition for grants.

More than one thfth of those who ware whipped were linger to the sharks lufore the emel of the voghge. - Macaulay'n ENo., ch. it, j. 60*.
5191. SLAVERY, Punishod by, Vinglanel. It was at chase which sprang mainly trom delit or rrime. linmine drove men to "lnomd their nemals in the evil days for ment:" the drotor, nuable to diselumere his delb, thmig on the groume borer's mattock, und placed lis hemal as a slave within a master's lmate. 'The erimimel whoso kiasfolk would not make uj his thae becante a crime-serf of the plaintill or the king. Sometimes a futher pressed hy umal sold children or wife in bondage. In uny rase, the slaw beernme part of the live-stock of his master's estate, to be willed away at denth with larme or ox, whose predigree was kept asearefully as his own. Itis children were bondmmen liki himself : rven u l'recman's children by a slave mother inherited the mother's taint. " Nine is the ralf that is lomn of my cow," ran an Laglish proverb. shave cabins chastered romad the lemmestemed of every rieh landownor ; phourhman, shepherd, roatherd, swinelserd, oxherrl, and cowherd, charymadi, barmman, sower, hay ward, aml woodward, were often slaves. It was not, indeed, sherry such as we lanve known in modern times, for stripes and bonds were rare ; if the slate was sain it was ly an angry blow, mot by the lash. But his master could slay him if he would; it was but a chattel the less. The shave lation place in the justice conrl, no kinsmen to cham vengeance or guilt-tine for hiv wrong. If it stranger slew him his lord chamed the dommares ; if gailty of wrongrdoing, "his skin puid for him," under his master's lish. If lie thed the might be chased like a strayed beast, and when anught he might be flogred to death. If the wrong-doer were a wommoslave she miglit be S195. SLAVERY, Repulsive. It England. The Saxon mee carried the most repulsive forms of slavery to England, where mot half the popnlat tion conld assert a right to freedom, und where the price of aman was hat four times the price of an ox.

In detiance of wevere penalties, the Saxous sold their own kindred into shavery on the continent ; nor could the trallic be checked till religion, plearling the cause of humanity, made its thpeal to the conscience.-Banchoris Hist. of U. S., vol. 1, eh. 5.
5196. SLAVERY, Unchristian. British. How great a part the Ciatholic ecclesiastics subsequently had in the nbolition of vilanage we learn from the unexceptionable lestimony of Sir Thomas Smith, one of the ablest Protestant conncillors of Elizabeth. When the dying slaveholder asked tor the last sacruments, his spiritual attendants regularly adjured him, as he loved his soml, to mmaneipate his hrethren for whom Chrisi hal dled. So sucerensfully hind the Chureh nased her lommiduble muchimery, that, before the Jefor-the bondmen in the kingilon except her own, Who, to do hor justloce, serm to have leen very womberly tremed. - Macosuiav'n ENa., eh. 1. 1). 23.

SI97. SLAVES, Angelic. linglish. IBut onco musters of the IBritons, the Bernichan Eng Itshmen furned to compuer their English neighbors to the sotith, the men of Deirn, whose tirst king, Silla, Was now sinking to the grave. The struggle Abloel the forcign murkets with linglish shaves, and whe of the most memorable storices in our listory sle wsusit group) of surlicuptiversus they stood la tho market-phace of lonme, it maty he in the great Forman of Trujun, which still ln its deeny realled the glories of the lanerial City. Their white hodies, their fuir fures, their golden luair, was moted by a dracon who passed by. "Fromit whin conntry to these shaves come y" Gregory asked the trucher who bromght them. The slave-denter unswered, "They ure lingrlish," orr, as thr word ran in the latin form, it would bera' at Romer, "they ure Xighex." 'I'he desteon's pity voilerl ilself lin portichnmor. " Not Anrlog, but nugels," he sadid, " with finces so anget-likel From what "onntry come they ${ }^{\prime \prime}$ " "They come." satd the merclannt, " from libira." " The irá!" was the untranslatable worl-play of the vivirious Rommn; "ay, plackent from (hod's ire and called to Chrisi's morey! . Ind what is the mame of their king ?" 'Thoy fold him, "Alla," and (tregory scized on the word as of good omen. "Allelain slatl be sumir in Ailla's land," he snid, und passed on, musing how the angel-fices slamid be brought to sing it. - llisis. OF ENu. 1'molne, s 40.

519 . SLAVES of Disbelievers. Jirginia. A.D. 16\%\%. Statuto: . . "Allsorvants, not beiner Christians, imported into this comntry by shipping, shall be slaves." Yet it was added, "comversion to the Christian faith doth not make frea l"Bancuort's U. S., vol. ${ }^{2}$, eh. 14 .
$\mathbf{5 1 9 9}$. sLaves, Docility of. Civil Nrir. [Pres. jolent Lincoln's ammatipution proclamation] land shown that slavery was an eloment of strength with us ; that it had ussisted us in our struggle; that no servile insurrections had taken place in the South, in spite of all the allurements of our enemy ; that the slave had tilled the soil while his master had fought; that in the large districts unprotected by our troops, and with in white population consisting almost exclasively of women and children, the shave had continued at his work, quiet, cheerfal, and fuithful, . . . thonglt prompted to the work of assassination and pillage by the most brutal examples of the Yinkee soldiery. - Pollard's Second Yeall of Tils: Wai, ch. 6. 1. 182.
5200. SLAVES, Rebellion of, Romun. They found a leader in a joung 'Thracian robber chiet, mamed Sjartacus, who was destined for the amphillaeatre, and who preferred meeting his musters in the field to lilling his friends to make a Roman holiday. Sjartacos, with two hundred of his companions, burst out from the Capuan "stables," seized their arms, and mude their way into the cruter of Vesuvius, which was then, aftes the long slecp of the volcano, a dense jungle of wihl vinus. Tlie slatves of the ndjoining plantathous deserted und joined them．The tiresprumi， spartacus proctalimad universal rinumelpmiton， and lit a fow woeks was at tho loma of an army with which ho overran Italy to the foot of the Alps，defented eomsula and pirntors，captured the engles of the legions，wasted the farms of the no－ hle lords，and for two yenry held his ground mgalust all that IRomoconid dra－ードuntide：（＇s． mall，ch．$\theta$ ．

5901．SLADEs，White．In Virginia．The aupply of white servants became a regular busl－ ness，mind in class of men，micknamed spirits， used todehado yomig presons，servints，and ldlers Into cmbinking for Ameriea，an to a hand of spon－ tumeons plenty，White sirvints rame to be a usual artiele of trafle．They were sold in Eng． hand to be trunsported，and In Virginin were ra－ mold to the highest bidder；like negroes，thry were to be purchased on shilpborard，as men hiy horses it n falr．－Banchort＇s Itist，of U．S．， vol．1，ch． 5 ．

5902．SLAVETRADE opposed．Continentul Conyriss．．．b．1774．We will netther support hor purchase my slave imported nfter the lst day of December next；after which thme we will wholly dlacontinne the slave－trade，and will nelther lie concernal in it ourselven，nor will we hre our vessels nor sell our commodities or mamufact－ ures to those who are coneremed in it－Bin－ cnort＇s U．S．，vol．T，chi． 13.

5203．SLAVE－TRADE respected．Neot Sork． A．d．1661．We have seren Elizatroth of Eughand a partner in the commeree of which the Stharts． to the diys of Queen Amme，wree distinguishord patrons；the city of Amsterdan did not blash toown shares in the shave－shif，to alvare momey for the ontits，and to purticipate in the returns． In proportion to popuhation，New York hud ns many Afrleans ns Virginia．．．．They were in－ ported ．．．oftern directly from Gumen，and were sold at publie muetion to the highest bidder．The averuge price was less than ＊ 140 ．－Banchorp＇s U．S．，vol．2，ch． 15.

5204．SLEEP，Benefit of．Dispmaition．It was a rule with Cato to have his slaves either em－ ployed in the honse or asleep，mind he liked thoss－ best that slept the most kindly，believing that they were better tempered than others that had not so much of that refreshment，and thter for any kind of busimess．－Pi，trabenis（＇ato the： Censor．

5205．sLEEP at Command，Napolcon I．＂Dif－ ferent affairs are arrunged in my head，＂said he， ＂as in drawers．When I wish to interrupt one train of thought，i close the drawer which con－ tains that subject，and open that which contains another．They do not mix together or incon－ venience me．I have never been kept awake by an involuntary preocenpation of mind．If I wish for repose，I shat up all the drawers，and I mm asleep．I have ulwnys slept when I wanted rest， and almost at will．＂－Anbott＇s Napoleon 13. vol．1，ch． 5.

5206．8LEEP，Deficient．Josiah Quincy．This excellent man carried one of his virtues to ex－ cess－early rising．He rose so carly in the morn－ ing that he scarcely had sleep enough ；so that， when he sat down during the day for ten min－ utes，he was very likely to fall asleep．Jom Quincy Allums was also addicted to cexessive early rising．One day thene two distinguished men went into Judgn story＇s lecture－romith haur him rend his lecture to his class in the haw sehool．The julge reselved the two premhlents with his usias poltenoss，and phaced them ons the platform by his side，fin full view of the chas， and then went on with his lecture．In a viry few minutes both the presidenis were fast aslorp． The judge pansed n moment，and pointhge to the two sle ephing gentiemen，ittered these：words： ＂Centlemen，you see lofore you a melancholy exmmple of the evil ufferts of eurly rising．＂Tlifs remark was followed by th shout of hughter， which effectunlly ronsid the sleepers，after wherit the juige resumed his illseourst．－（＇vorombina of Ran．，1． 758.

5207．SLEEP，Exceptional．Nï Widter 太ontt． Basll Inall reports seott＇s having told him that＂having onde arrlved at a country ina，he was told there was no hed for him．－No pla＇e to lle down at all ？＇sudd he．＇No＇satd the peo－ ple of the homse：；none，except in rown in which there is a corpse lydug．＇• Wrell．＇suid he，＇did the preson die of miy omtagi medisorder ？＂Ou， no ；not nt all，＇said they．＇Well，then，＇contin－ wed he．＇let me have the othor hed．So，＇satd Nir Waltar，＇l lald me down，and wevor had a better nght＇s slerep in my life．＇＂He was，Indeed，it cli． 4.

5LOW．SLEEP，Perllous．Columbins First l＇oly． agre．［Coasting nurur St．Thomus．］Columbins， who had hitherto kept wateh，finding the sea calm and smooth，and the ship almost notion－ less，retired to rest，not having slept the pre－ eding night．He was，in general，extremely wakeful ou his consting voynges，pmssing wholo nights upon deck in ull wenhers：never trusting to the watelifulness of others where there was any difllenlty or danger to be provided against． In the present instance he felt perfectly secure． ．．．No somer had he retired than the steers－ man gave the helm in charge to one of the ship－ hogs，mad went toslerle．This was indired vio－ lation of an invariable order of the admiral，that the helm should never be intrusted to the boys． The rest of the mariners who lind the wath took like advantare of the absence of Columbins，and in a little while the whole crow was buried in slep．In the mona time the trencherons eur－ rente whicll run swiftly along this coast carried thar vessel guidety，but with force，upon a samd－ lamk．The herdiess hoy had not noticed the breakers，nthengh they male a roaring that might have been heard a league．［The vessel was wrerked．ן－Imving＇s Colemhete，Book 4， ch． 8.

5209．SLEEP，Snrprising．Duke of Argylt． ［On the day appointed for his decapitation at Edinlmugh，for robellion，］one of the lords of the comeil，who had probably been bred a Pres－ by terian，and had been seduced by interest to join in oppressing the choreh of which he had once been in member，came to the castle with a message from his brethren，and demanded ad－ mittance to the earl．It was answered that the earl was asleep．The privy councillor thought that this was a subterfuge，and insisted on entering． The door of the edll was softly opened；and there lay Argyle on the hed，sleeping，in his ircus，the phatid shep of infancy．The con－ "re-ronm (a) ov In the liow 0 promilents erl then on of the clıмн,

In it very : fust aslerop. pointlang to hese: words: melanclaby sing." This of lumghter, afler whleit 'Y(O, OH:WA

Vilter Nott. 1 him atry inn, he - No places in in which iil hls. ' '1id ler \%' O Oh, en,' 'ontinand nbelter , Indeed, a OF Sion'r',

First l'nyColmmbis, ly the sen st motionit the: pre. extremely sing wholo er frusting there was di againast. ly srecure. the steersf the shiplireet vionimal, that the boys. 'uteh took abus, and buried in rons curst curried n a sumelticed the ing that he vessel Book 4,

- Argylt'.

 tation at lords of da Presterest to a he hat e with $n$ ided adthe carl ght that ntering. d and in his he con- awny, nick ut limet, run out of tho thastic, und took refinge ln the dwelling of a lady ot hiv funHy who lived haral by, 'I larer lie dimug himmelf on a conch, and gave himsell up torn agomy of remerse mol shame. llis kinswomma, alarmed by his lookn amil gromion, lhought that he lime been tuken slek with sudhen llhess, and begered lisn to drlak $n$ cup) of surk. "' No, no," hu' smid. " lhat whll do me wo grow." she jumyed him to tell her what hud desturhed him. "1 liavo leren," he suid, "In Argyle's prison. I have seres him as ever mun dla. Ihat ns ior mo-"- Nac's'. LAY'н EiNo., (ch. it, 1, 5\%l.

5*10. sLEEP, Transient. Vifulioun I. Iflar mpebdlng severul dhys und nights in proparathon for a decisive ronllet, he hus leen known repentvally to fall uslopp In the mblat of the uproarami horror of the lichle of buttle, and when the balls of the cosemy were swiephing the rmineme tipnon hach he stood. "Nature Gus lurr firlits," satid lie, " and will not be defrunded with haptuity. I feel more cool to recelve the reports which aie brought to me when awaking in this mamatr from trmanient shamber. "- Anmorv's Nabobens 13., vol. 1, ih. 6.
5211. SLEEP, Undisturbed, Wilkhington. " Ilow did you slerp, general ?" nsked [his guest] the Ituke of Orlomis [Douls Philippe] one morning of the mastar of the housio. "In nways slerp will," replied (inneral Wanhington, "for I nevar wrote a word in my life which I lund afterwarl cinse to regret."-('Yesoremon of Bron., 1. 508.
5014. BLEEPERS, The Seven. Legfutl. Whin the Emperor Dexius persectuted the ('hristians, seven noble youths of Ephesus coneenlad themselves ln a spacions eavern in the side of mal. jacent monntaln, where they were doomsed io perish liy the tyrant, who sive orderes that the entrance should be flrmly serured with a pile of lange stones. They immerdiately fell buto a derel shanber, whish waw miracolously prolonged, whthont injuring the jowers of life, daring a period of one himdred and righty-seven gears. At the end of that time, the slinves of Adtolins, 10 whom the inheritane of the mountain had descenderl, removerl the stomes to supply mate. rials for sonue rasticerlitice: the light of the sun durted into the envern, and the Seven Slecpers were jurmitted to awake. After a slumber, ns they thonght, of a few hours, they were pressed by the adlls of lamerer, and resolval that Jamblichus, one of their number, should secretly return to the eity to , purehase bread for the use of his compmions. 'I'he youth (if we may still employ that appellation) could no longer recognize the once faniliar aspect of his mative country ; and his surprise was incrensed by the appearnnes of a harge cross, finmphintly erected over the priucipal rate of Ephesas. Ilis singular dress and obsolete limgnage confounded the lmker, to whom he offered ans aneident mednl of Decins as the current coin of the empire ; and Jamblishas, on the suspicion of a seeret trasure, was dragiged before the julge. Their mutual imquiries produced the amazing discovery that 1 wo ernturies were almost elapsed since Jambliehus and his friends had escaped from the rare of 1 pherm trant. The bishop of Ephosus, Hue charey. the:
mughar rates, the prople, andi, it ismild, the Einjercinverin of the Sevon Slerpers, who bestowid their Inemedietion, related lheir mory, and at tho 1). 188:3.

SN18. SLEEPERS in the Temple. /to. (In the roml hetwern ortylan und Thanmine.. is the tomple of lao. it is the cantom of thase who consiat her to sleepth the tomple, and what they want to know is revended to lhem ina dremm. - Padeinian.
5411. 8MILE resented, A. T'ine"!r the Tirtur. In hls ranup lefore ibellal 'Timomr musins. read 100,000 Indinn prlsonors, whon had netiled when the army of thedr combtrymon upperared In wlght. . . . The peop)le of lapalan mopplied 70,000 limman akalls for the structure of nevoral lofty towris. . . . A similar tax was liveded on the revolt of lminglad, . . and the axact uc-

5215. SMOKER, A female, (imioll Ituch:soris llifi. I mort rextmphary woman in all the relations of life-wilt, frlend, nedghbor, relathon, matress of slaves mever lived, and mever prespatad a more quiet, charafol, amel memirable managerment of ler lomseholit. She hat the Hemeral's own waru hestrt, frank manmers, and admirable tomper; mbil mo two prisons rond have beren bettre shited lo emen ohlore, liveal mora happlly tornher, or mate a hemse more attraethe to vinitors. No Insafal yontla or phin old mun, whose modesty sut then down at the lower cend of the table, could resaje ber eordial nt. tention, any more than the litied gentlemun at lar right and loft. Young presons were lar alelight, und she ulways had her house flleal with chel." In the homely linshion of the timu slac nsed to foin har hasband ame guests in smoklug a pipe alter dinner and in the evening. There arre now living many persons who wrll remember sereing lacr smoking by her threshade a long 5216. SMUGGLING fined. Iintland. In the session of 1698 the Purlimment proveded ngainst some dozen of opmlent morrhants with forejgn mames, by imponching them for high rerimes and mishlemennors, for framdalently importiner forrign alamodes and lustrings, and for illegally exporting mative wool. One was fined $\mathbb{E} 10$, iovo ;

 the building of itrernwidh IIosjitul.-KNuar's ENa., vol. T, eln. 14, 1). 2ld.

5e17. SOCIALISM illustrated. simuel Johnson. Nir, there is one Mrs. Mumalay in this town, "great republican. One day when I was at her house, I put on a very grave combtemance, and said to her, " Madam, I mon now become a convert to your way of thinking. I an convinced that all minkind are upon an equal footing; and to give yon an untuestionable proof, madam, that I min in earnest, here is a very sensible, civil, well-behaved fellow-ritizen, your footman; I lesire that he may le allowed to sit down and dine with us." I flus, sir, sloowed her the absurdity of the levelling doctrine. She has never liked ine since. Sir, your levellers wish to level lovilling up to thenselvies. 'They womlalall havo

 AN, P, I2.!
 ['I'he Jownan tribume', Ilo lirouglat forwarl, ctard with labor, it propesal that there nlomald he fablie gramarios in the eity, mahtulmed amd thled at the cose of the itate, biml that corn shomid be: wold at a rate milllelally clompe to the juor freo ritizens Bueh a law wis purely mocinllstle. 'Thes ency was the one dopowltory of power. The of fori was lo gathur into the clty in mob of inedy, Inemphoyed votors, living on the charity of the riate, les crowil the circins, umd to clumor at the ulertions, availables an dombe lamallately to strongthen the lumels of the pependar tribume, bot certain in the long run tos sell thomerelven to those who conld bifl highest for lheire voluen. -

$2115. 80cIETY, Bond of. Fifyptiutio. Jorfing wasalso punished wilh death, luembse thate crime altures buth tho gorls, whose majesiy is trime. plol up"on by invoking their mane ton falso ontla ; and men, by broaking thes stromgent tio of humma 5320. SOCIETY degraded. Cimemer's Times. Jrunk'mmess relgned in palace and eontuge nlike. (iambling, cosk-llghtlag, und bull-flghting wore the nmmsements of the prople. Pobltlent life. which, if it had been pore and vlgorons, might lave made up for the absence of spiritanal fitheneres, was corrupt from the top of the sealle to the bottom ; its cfreet on mathomal charactor is portrayed in llogarth's " Election." That property had its dothes nas well ns its rights, fohody hat yet ventared to say or think. The duty of a gentleman toward his own rlase wins to pay his was dhallenged by one of hisown order: $t$ w ud the lower chas his daty was nome. Thongh the forms of govermment were cleetive-and Cowper gives us $t$ deseription of the enndidate at clee-tion-time obserpuously soliciting votes-society was intensely aristoteritic, and ench rank was divided from that below it by a sharp line whielt predided broblerhood or sympathy.-Amitu's ('owrer, ch. 1.

3241. SOCIETY, Deliverers of, Reformers. [See No. 5i20.] That the slave-trude was inituitous hardly my one suspected ; even men who deemed themselves religious took part in it without suruple. But a clange was at hand, and a still mightier change was in prospect. At the time of Cowper's death John Wesley was twen-ty-ejght, und Whitetield was seventeen. With them the revival of religion was nt hund. Johnson, the moral reformer, was twenty-two. IIoward was born, and in less than a generation Wilinrforce was to come.-Smitir's Cowper, ch. 1.
5422. SOCIETY, An effective. Finights of St. John. But the firmest bulwark of Jerusalem was founded on the knights of the IIospital of St . .John, and of the temple of Solomen; on the mirnnge assur fution of a mothosthe nad military lif:, which fantileism might suggigent, hut which fulley minat approve. 'Ihe thower of the moblif. is of liorope anpired to wear the eroma noml to jitofems the vown of these rexpeetable orders ; thelr apirit mod dlselplitue were lintmortal ; mat

 natar foreo al cavaliy anal infantry for tha defonce suldib. s0CIETY, Opponltion to. /het shalley. "I, nom and ' 'y lhme" wis. . . reprementative of its ubihor. All bis provionscixprifomere abll atl his his princlphe of the erpality al women with men, denco ln elogpenere und renson to move: mutlons, him doererline of free lover, life vegetarlanlam, his latreal of roligions latolerinaer nind ty rintiny-aro blent together and conserntruted la the glowing amatos of this wometerfal romumer. 'i'he hero, Ians, is hlomelf idenlizenl, the self whilelh he lin. ughed when hor undertook hia Irish cimmpaign. The lu'roine, ('ythom, is tho helpomite lio lind atwayslremond, the womme rxpulisitaly fominine. yot rapmble of heing theal whlt male combinsiasin.

 lievoilin the deslmbility of huext, hat becenase he whaded to throw a glove down to sochely, mad to atherk the intolaranere of e'usomin in its strong-

5928. BOCIETY, Orderly. 1 'lymonth Golony. Jonse-breakling mal highway robbery were of. fomers unknown in their courts, und toos little "problemded to be made subjacets of sevore leg. inktion.-isancourtin U. S., ch. C .
5425. SOCIETY, Reaotion of. /iomer. ['Time of Nero.] At the summit of the whole deeaybing system-necessury, yet delested-mavated indeflintely nhove the very highem, yu living in drend of the very lowesi, oppresilug a jojuintion which he terrifleal, and teribiled by the pupalation heoppreased, was men emperor rulsed to the divinest pinmate of nutoerney, yet conscions that his lifo hinng upon a thrend; in emperor who, in the terrible phrase of Giblon, was at once a priest, mintheist, mul a got.- Fanutan's Eamby 1).ivs, rh. 1, p. 4.
5228. SOCIETY, Reformation of. Impartiality. In latis. . . socleties for the reformation of manners had for some time been in metivity. Their binsiness was to lny informulions before the maristrates of swearers, drumknels, subbuth-breakers, mal other offembers, nud to appropriate that portion of the thes which wore enrned by common informers to purposes of charity. The objection which ever was ant ever will be agninst the most. honest exertions of such societies is, that they are not impartinl in their visitations. Defoe suid: "Till the nobility, gentry, justices of the pence, and clergy will be pleased to reform their own munners, or find out some methorl ind power impartially to punish themselves when guilty, we humbly crave leave to object to setting any poor man in the stocks, or sending him to the IIonse of Correction for immoralities, as the most unjust and unequal way of prorecting in the world."-KNiaHt's Ena., vol. 5. ch. 13, p. 205.

52uy\%. socieTY, Uabouad. " W'ar of the Romes." The finllvinhui wense of perwoinal dinty. the polltion eommelonsanom of ernel wilan that unthomal ariler mal untlonal welfare are deserotial to hle own will hirlog, hal not yrt come. 'J'hos bonde whlili hul holifter world tigenther through motivers that swity and emmole: the rommon eonslust of wen wore powarless over tho ruling with rich whire in greal, In welf-wioklug, ln lint, In fuithlommiens. In a pillows ariulty. It is this moral dogradation thai ilinge modark a maudenver the ware of the Romes. fironit bo perionl in our gust. 'I'hatrsavige bathes, thelr ruthless experithons, their mhamelo.s. transilis, serelil all the more torrible from the pure actilatimese of the remis fore whileh mon fomght, for the itler want of nil no. blemess niml rhivialry in the rontest liself, of all 1'A, 佥 4 (iti.

524. B0LDIER, Chrintlea. "Ntomriritl" dackaon. At the wlege of Vira ('rut darkson commamided a lathory. . . . nad was promoted he was lorevoltod raptuin. Ilo was in all Soott's batiles to the elty of Mexico, ned luehaved so wall that le was brevetted inajor for his merviedes. 'I'o his merits us a commander ho mideri the virtnes of an active, hamble, robsintert ('hristhan, restraining profanity la his camp, welcoming army colporteurs, distriluting tracts,and anxions that every reghment . . . shonhli he sippled with chaphains. He was vulgarly sucered at asa fatalist : his labsits of solllongy wore derided as stiperstitious conversations with a familiar spirlt; . . . hut . . . he belleved he hind nallatinct misslon of daty, in which hog should be spared for the cmis of l'rovidence:-DOLIABD'н Filint Y':AB OFTIIE Wath, ch. 0, 1. 221.
5529. SOLDIER, Cruelty and Courtesy of, Bluck Prince. [la 1:3\%0 tho Hlanck Prince met the Frenel in Guscony. Ilis last warlike net nssorinters his mene with the infomons system of crnclty thant makes the inmlividual bravery, endarance, and conrtesy of the later fendal thmes look like hollow mockery-a misernble imposture of self-glorifloution, trmupling upon the higher principle that inites strengtl with merey. Three thomsand men, women, nul chililren were butchered in cold blood when Idmoges was taken. A few knights, who resolvel to battle to the last, placed their lacks agninat a wall, and long tought agninst superior mumbers. These I'rince Edward ordered to le received to ransom. 'This was chivalry.-Knialit's ENG. . vol. 1, ch. 31.
5230. 80LDIER, Ignorant. Reign of James II. In June, 1686, Tyrconnel came. His commission authorized him only to command the troops ; but he bronght with him royal instructions touching all parts of the administration, and at once took the real government of the istand into his own lands. On the day ufter his arrival, he explicitly suid that commissions must be largely given to Roman Catholic ollleers, and that room must be made for thom by dismissing more l'rotestants. Ife pushod bin the semodelling of the army eagerty and indefatigably. It was, imperd, the only purt of the finse thos of a eammander-inchlof whilela lat wis : מinpetent to prorform ; for, though courngentas In lirawle and dincla, hos knew nothing of inlli tary dinty. At the vere fleat revelew whileh hu lichi, it was avilent to all whan were near to him that luo dlli nost know luow to draw up a roui ment. Tis turin linglishamen out and to pint Inflimen lin was, lin hife viow, the truginuing mad the cind uf the melinlalatrathen of war. - Macat: t,AY'~ ENa., th. 6, p. lit.
52881. SOLDIER, A antaral. C'romicell. Hrod to pencofut woripmotous, lue hat, at moris than forty years of agr, acerpitel a comamisalon in the I'irliamontary army. No sonimer land lue become a soliller, than he dlanerimel, with the Fimsex, with all thelf exprrioure, wore unable to predeive. Ha naw previsely where thestrongth of the legyalinta lay, and by whin mevan alome that sironght conlil be overpowerol. Ile maw that it was mecesmaty to meonastriot the armig of ahomanat and exiollont matorhals far the pur posi--imatcrials lows showy, indered, bint inoro solhl than those of which fle gallant sefomirons of the king ware combusid. It wios meressury to look for resruits who were mot more mor-

 Ilsurty. With mich men he Illed his own regi. mant, ime while lie subjerided thene to a disci plincemore righl than lableverbefora been known In England, ho almindetcord to their fintellectand and moral maturis stimalants ol farfal petency. - Macaviay'n lina., (h. 1, 1. 100.

62:ise. SOLDIER, A remarkable. (ienerul lde'. Grimeral Lire is, ahmost withont excention, the handmomost man of his nge l evor sutw. Ite is tlfty-wix jours ald, t.al, bromd-shomildured, very well malle, well wet up-a lhorongh solder lis apprarance; mal his mammersare most conrteous nod liull of dignity. Ife is a prafect gentlenan In eviry respect. I imapine to ane has so lew enemios, or is su untrersully esteremed. 'Tarongh out the South all ugree in pronouncing hins is near perfection as a man cati be. Ile has mome of the small vieces, such ns sumbing, drinking, chewing, or swemring, hul his bitterest enemy never necused him of the greater ones . . . Gen. eral Lee is a religions man, - [English oflleer's diary, quoted in] Pobilalid's Skconis Yeals of THE WAR, 1. 342.
52333. SOLDIER, Spirited. Puritun. [At the mattle of Inmbar.] It appears there were then only two liouses ind furmsteals. On this Monday there had been some slight skirmishing. Ieslie's horse dinshed neross those little huts oceupied by Lambert's or Pride's foot and horse, sud scized three prisoners, one a musketecr, a spir ited fellow, with a woolen arm. On being brought lefore Leslie, he was asked, "Do the enemy intend to flght?" The man replied, "What do you think we come here for? We come for mothing else." "Soldier," suid Leslle, " how will yon fight, when you have shipped half your men and ull your grent guns ?" The nunwer was, "Sir, if you plense to draw down your men, you shall find botll men and great frums too.: 'To one of the ollicers who asked him how he dared reply so saucily to the gencral, he said, " I only answer the question put to me." Lestie sent litm neross, free again, by a trumpet; and making his way to (romwell, he reported what had passed, adding. "I tor one have jost twenty shillings by the business, plundered from me in this skimish." Thereupon the lord-genema gave him two pieces, which are forty shilling., and sent him away re-joicing.-Lood's Cromwela, ch. 11, p. 5!.

52:B4. SOLDIER, A wonderful. Hennibal. On the first intelligence of the marelo of the Carthaginimes Publies Scipio, the consul, had taken the field with a large army, and hoped by rapid marches to arrest $1, \mathrm{~m}$ in the first pari of his pregress, and to make the country of the Transalpine Ganls the theatre of the wir ; hat Itannilal had got the start of him, mad had already passed the lahone in the face of in opposing army. Wetook his way along the matern banks of that river to Lyons, inul thence to ome of the chief passes of the Alps--not improbably thit which is now known hy the mance of the Great Si. Bermard. On procecding to ascend the mountains, he found the country in some parts huried in snow, and at every detile defended by large troops of mountaineers. He overcame, by astonishing perseverance, every difficulty, and, at length, in the space of iffeen days, penetrated into that comery which he had promised to his troops as the end and the reward of their abors. The time oceupied in the whole of this mareh Was tive mon'his and a lalf. Itisarmy, on leaving Cartiage, amomited to 50,000 foot und 20,000 herse' ; hut of these, on arriving in Italy, there remained on.ly 20,000 foot and 6000 horse, This expedition is cescrvedly reckoned one of the most remarkaige explots of antiquity.Tythen's llist., Book 3, ch. 9, p. 373.

52B5. SOLDIER, Choice. Riflemen. Ther men [from the frontiers], painted in the grise of savages, were strong and of great endurance, many of it more than six feet high; they wore 1 - grings mat mereasins and an ash-rolorid shirt with a double cape; rach one carried a rifle, a hatelut, a small axe, and a hunter's knife. They could subsist on a little parched corn and game, killed as they went along: at nirgh, wrippord in their bhankens, they willingly made a tree their camopy, the carth their bed. The rithe in their hanels semt its bill, with merring preeision, a distamee of two or three humdred yards. Their motto was, "liberty or Death." They were the tirst troops raised under the authority of the Continental Congress, and... the best (erpos in the camp). . . They taught the observing Frederick to introlnce into his service light bodies of shariphooters, and their example has moditiced the tacties of European armies. -Baneboft's L. S., vol. 8, ch. 44.
5236. SOLDIER, Colonial. L'uglixh uguinst Freneh. On the banks of Lake George [in 17.as] 9024 provincials . . . assembled. There were the 600 New Fingland rangers, dressed like woodsmen, armed with a tirelock and hatchet; under their rigit arm a powder-horn ; a leather bar for bultets at their waist : and to each oflicer a pocket compass as a guide in the forests. Bancrofer's U. S., wol. 4, ch. 13.

523T. SOLDIERS, Dauntless. Franks. "The Franks," says the Emperor (Constimtine, "ure bold and valiant to the verge of temerity: and their damatless spirit is supported by the con:tempt of danger mind death. In the field and in close onset they press to the front and rush hemdong against the cuemy, without deigning $\because$ eompute either his mombers or their own. Thair ranks are formed by the firm comnections of consanguinity and rivendship; and their martial deeds are prompted by the desire of saving or revenging their dearest companions. In their cyes a retreat is a shameful tlight; and tlight is indelible infamy.-Ghabon's liome, (h. 533, p. 373.
5238. 80LDIERs, Defensive. Greek Eimpire. Neither anthority nor art could frmenc the most important machine, the soldier himself: and if the eeremonies of Constantine always suppose the safe and triamphal return of the ('mperor, his tactics seldom soar above the moms of exaping a deffat, and procrastimating the war. Notwithstanding some transient suceess, the Grecks were stank i: their own esterm and that of the ir neighhors. A cold hand and a loquacions tongue was the vulgar leseription of the nation; the author of the tactics was besieged in his capital ; and the last of the Barlmrians. Who trembled at the name of the Saracens, or Franks, could prondly exlibit the medals of gold and silver which they had extorted from the feeble sovereign of Con-stantinople.-Ginnos's Rome, ch. 53, p. 369.
5239. SOLDIERS, Disobedient. James $I I$. The heads of the corporation, though men selected for ollice on aceomit of their known Toryism, protested against this illegal procerding. The lord-mayor was ordered to nppear before the Privy Comeil. "Take heed what you do," suid the king. "Obey me ; and do not trouble yourself either about rentlemen of the long robe or gentlemen of the short robe." . . The chapel was opened. . Tll the neighborhood wass som in commotion, Great crowils assembled in (hempside to attack the new mass house. The priests were insulted. A crucitix was taken ; at of the huilding and set up on the parish ; momp. The lord-mayor came to quell the tumult, but was ruccived with cries of " No wooden gods." The main-bands were ordered to disperse the crover ; but they shared in the popular feeling, and murmurs were leard from the ranks, "We cannet in consedence fight for poprey."- Macambays ENG., ch. G, p. 93.
3210. SOLDIERS fearful. Rommans. Such was the horror for the profession of a sollier, which had affected the minds of the degenerate lamans, that many of the youth of lialy and the provinces chose to cut off the tingers of their right hand, to escape from being pressed into the service; and this strange expedient was so commonly pratised, as to deserve the severe animadrersion of the laws, and a peculiar mame in the Latin languge. They were called Murci, denoting a lazy and cowardly person.-Gnsmox's lRome, ch. 17, p. 130.
5241. SOLDIERS, Graves of. Decuruted. The tirst year of the war of Peloponnesus being now elapsed, the Athenians, during the winter, solemmized public funcrals, acoording to ancient enstom, . . . in honor of those who had lost their lives in that campaign, a ceremony which they constantly observed doring the whole course of that war. For this purpose they set up, three dags before, a tom, in which the bones of the
by the cos:fickl and in $t$ and rush nt deigning their own. connections and their e desire of ompanions. tlight; and n's Rome,

N Empire. le the nost If : and if "11] pose the uperor, his if excapingy Nolwithrecks were loir neighmigue was lie anthor bital ; Hild led at the 1 proudly hich they 1 of Cun. 1). 369.
(emes $I I$. men se wn Toryrereling. ar before you do," t trouble ong role e chapel 4 soon in 1 (hempC pricests I of the 3. The IIIt was crown al murcunur! VLAY's Nnch ohlier, nerate $y$ and f their d into US 5 severe name -G113-

The
reing cient their they he of hree the
rleceased itians wote exposed, and every porson strewed tlowers, incense, perfumes, and other things of the sums: kind upon those remains. Ther alterward wore put o a corriages, in collins mate of eypress wood, evory tribe laving its particular eotlin and farringe ; lut in one of the lattor a large empty collin was earriod, in imone of those whose bodios hand not been found. 'The proxession marehed with at srave, majestic, aia! religions pomp ; a mrat number of the inhabitants, toth citizaras amid for. digners, assisted at this mourulne solemmity. ['lie most remowned orntors sposie it their

52AL2. SOLDIERS, Invulnerable. Ixintics. [In $1 \times 23$ the lbritish mrmy in Bengal folt the neressity of fortifying against the probable attack of the hambred feet high, beemane a dinalel, wartisomed by a hattalime of British 1 roopse. .... On the night when the astrologeres larel deciderd that an attack ripon this satered place wombl free the eountry from the impions strmeners, a horly of troops, called Invalnembles, advanced to the northern gateway. A terrible camonade was opemed upon these dense masses, amd they fled at onfe to the neighboring jungle. - KNight's ENi., vol. 8, ch. 1", 1. 219.
5248. BOLDIERS maimed. Sinported. [Solon established at hw] that "persons mained in the wars should be maintaned at the puthlic charge." - Plevtaiser.
 armies both of siparta and dithens were composed of four sonts of troops : ritizens, allies, morcenaries, and slaves. Tho soldiers were sometimes marked in the hand, to distinguisly thent from the shaves, who had that chame: ter impressed upon thejr forehemd. Interpreters believe that it is in allasion 10 this donHe manner of marking that it is suid in the Revelation that all were obliged $"$ to receive the mark of the lemat in the riant land, or in their foreheals : $\because$ and that St. Paul says of himself' : " I bear in my body the marks of the 5245. SOLDIERS misnamed. Riyn of Jftucs II. When his [Gramen! Kirke's] soldiers ilispleased him, he tlogged them with merciless severity ; but he indemmitied hem by permitting thens to sleep on wateh, to red drunk about the streets, to rob, beat, and insult the merchants and the laborers. When Tharier' was abandoned, Kirke returned io Enghand. He suii centinned to command his old soldiers, who were designated sometimes as the First Tangrier Regiment and sometimes as Queen C'athurine's Regiment. As they had been levierl for the purpose of waging war onan intialel mation, they bore on their tha a (horistinn emblem, tho Paschal lamb. In allusion to this revice, and with a bitterly ironical meanime, these men, tho rudest and most ferocious in the English army, were called Kirke's lambs.-Mac'Mriav's DNi., ch. 5, p. 586.
气 3.
5246. SOLDIERS, Model. Ciommirill's. These persons, sobrr. moral. diligent, amm neemstomed to retlect, bad bewn inducod to lake up arms. not by the pressure of wath, not by the love of nowelty mad licernse, not by the nits of recruiting otlerers, but by religions and politional zeal, minarled with the desire of distinction and promo. tion. 'The boats of the soldiors, as we flad it reeorded in their solemm resolotions, was, that ther lated not berest forered into the servicer, nor land enilisted chictly for the sake of harre: that they were no janizarices, lmt lroelon'n Euglishmen, Who lad, of their own aroord, put their lives in jeopardy, tor the libertios and religion of Engr. land, and whose dight and dinty it was fo wateln over the wellare of the mation whinh they hat

52 17. SOLDIERS, Nation of. firitls. The chief was cither hereditary or electerl, or won his eommanal by the sword. 'The mass of the people were serfs. The best lighters were salfmade nobles, under the chief's anthority. Every man in the tribe was the chaci's absolata sulbjecet ; the ehief, in turn, was lromind t' .et the menness al them agranst injury' .. , hout. Wiar, on a hargespale or asima. nat ' $n$ udmitted into his fathor's presemer till a was old enongh to he a soldiors. When the call to trins wout ont, every man of the recpuited ane was expected at the monster, and tho lost comer was tortured to denth in the preseme: of his commades as a lesson against batewardiess. Fhoune's (AESAR, (ll. 14.
52.8$. SOLDIERS, Notorious. Wilson's Zourves. [Colontl] Billy Wilson . . boasted that when his recinment was moved off [from New York], it would be found that not it thief, highwayman, or piekpocket would be left in the eity.
 1. $2 \boldsymbol{2}$.

D24 49 . SOLDIERS, Odd. Cromurell's. The Puritam soldiers of Cromwell are armed with all kinds of werpons, clothed in all colors, and sometimes in rags. Pikes, halberds, und long struight swords are ranged side by side with pistols and muskets. Oliten bo eanises his troops to halt that lie miny preach to them, and frerpuently they sing pathns while performing their exercise. The captains are heard to cry. "Present, fire! in the name of the loorl!" Altar calling over the muster-roll, the otlierass rend a pordion of the cred with symbolical pantings nod verses from the Srriptures. They marein to the Isalms of Da vid, while the lroynlists advance singing loose hacehamalian somgs. The lieense of the nobiliIf and envalia's 'omposing the king's regular troops rould not prevail, notwithsanding their Imavay, arainst these martyms for their faith. The warriors who believed themselves the soldiors of $G(o d$ must sooner or later gain the victory over those who are only the servants of main. Cromwell was the first to feel this com-virtion.--Damartine's Chomweil, p. 31 .
5250. SOLDIERS, Piety of. Cromioell's. Crom. vell had foreseen the destinies of the contest, und from among the freeholders and their sons in hiv own neighborhood be formed his immortal troop of Ironsides, those men who, in many a well-fought field, turned the tide of confliet, men who ." jeopardized their lives on the high places of the field." These men were pechliarly moulded: their tratining was even more religious than military : they were men of position and character: Oliver prearhed to them, prayed with them, directed their vision to all the desperate and diflleult embroilments of the times. These men were Puritans all; Independents: men who, however pininful it may he to our more Christian notions, used their bible as a matehlock, and relieved their grard by revolving texts of Holy Writ, and remreshed their courage by draughts from Goil's Book. - Hooon's Chominela, ch. 6, p. 95.
5251. - Cromardl's. But that which chiefly distinguished the army of Cromwell from other armies was the austere morality and the fear of God whirh pervaded all ranks. It is acknowlolged by the most zealous Royalists that, in that singular eamp, no outh was heard, no drunkemness or gambling was seen, and that during the long dominions of the soldiery the property of the peaceable eitizen and the honor of woman were held saered. If outrakes were committed, they were ontrages of a very different kind from those of which a vietorions army is generally guilty. No servantfrirl complained of the rough gallantry of the redeonts; not an ounce of phate was thken from the shops of the goidsmiths; hut a Pelagian armon, or a window on which the Virgin and child were painted, produced in the Piaritan ranks an excildment which it required the ntmost exertions of the oflieers to quell.-..Macav1..1's Enci., ch. 1, p. 114.
5252. SOLDIERS described, Poor. Cuto. "I do not like." he said once, "a soldier who moves his hands when he marehes and his fret when he fights, and who shores louder in bed than he shouts in hatle."-('velopreda of Bioc., p. 492.
525:3. SOLDIERS, Professional. Letceldrmominn. The allies of Sparta likewise complained of Agesilaus, that it was not in any public quarel, bat from an obstimate spirit of private resentment, that he sought to destroy the Thebans. For their part, Hey said, they were wearing themselves ont, withont ayy orasion, hy going in stuch mombers upon this or that expedition every year, at the will of a handfal of Lacedemonians. Hereupon Agesians, desirons to show them that the mmber of the in warriors was not so great. ordered all the allies to sit down promisenombly on one side and all the Lacedadomians on thie other. This dome, the erier simmoned the trades to st:und up one after another, the potters first, and then the braziers, the carpenters, the masons-in short, all the mechanies. Almost all the allies rose up to answer in one branelh of business or other, lout not one of the Lacedemenians: for they were forbidden to learn or exercise any manual art. Theon Agesilansmiled mad sadi, "Yousce, my friends. we send more warriors into the field than you." -Phetahetts Aieshlats.
5234. SOLDIERS, Quality of C'romirell's. "At his first entraner into the wars," observes the Reliquire Barteriamo." beeng lout captain of horse, he had especind care to get mefigions men into his troops ; these men were of greater understanding than commons sohliers, ind therefore were more appreliensive of the importune and consequeners of the war. Ky this means. indeed, he sped better than he experted. Hercupon be fot in commission to takr some care of the assoriated comaties, where he brought his troop) into a double regiment of fourteen full troops, and all these as full of religious men as he could get ; these, having more than ordinary wit and resolntion, hat more than ordinary suc-ress.-llood's ('homweli, ch. 6, p. 100.
5255. SOLDIERS, Terrible. Janizaries. [U1der Amurnth I., the Turk.] Vigilant offleers were stationed at Gallipoli, to wutch the passage and to select for his use the stoutest and most bemutiful of the Christian youth. . . . Many thousands of the European captives were colucated in religion and arms, and the new militin was consecrated and named by a celebrated dervis. Stunding in the front of their ranks, he stretelied the sleeve of his gown over the head of the foremost soldier, and his blessing was delivered in these words: " Let them be called hanizaries ( Yengi cheri, or new soldiers); may their countenance be ever bright ! their hand victorions I their sword keen I may their spear Hways hang over the hembs of their enemies ! und wheresoever they go, may they return with a white face!" Such was the origin of these haughty troops, the terror of the mations, and sometimes of the sultans themselves.-Grbinos's Rome, ch. 64, p. 235.
5256. SOLDIERS, Unqnallfied. Reign of Cherles $I$. In a country which had not, within the memory of the oldest person living, mate war on a great scale by land, generals of tried skill and valor were not io be fouml. It was necessary, therefore, in the first instance, to trust untried men, and the preference was natmally given to men distinguished rither ly their sthtion, or hy the abilities which they had displayed in Parliane ont, In scaredy a single instance, however, was the selection fortunate. Neither the gramdees nor the orators proved good soldiers. The barl of stamlord, one of the greatest mobles of Enghad, Was routed ly the Royalists at Stratan. Nathanial Fiemnes, inferior to none of his contemporaries in talents for civil busimess, diseraced himself hy the pusilhmimous survernder of Bristol. Inderi, of all the statesmen who at this jumethre anerepted high military commands, lampulen alome appears to have carried into the camp the raparity amb strength of mind which had made him eminent in polities.Macatuay's ENt., cll. 1, p. 108.
5257. SOLITUDE, Delight in. Itamial Bumuc. Oreupying the tirst cottage in Kientucky, in the spring of $17 \% 0$. . [his] brother returned to the settlements for horses and supplies of ammunition, lenving the renowned lumter "by himsell, whonat bread, or salt, or sugar, or even a horse or dog." . . . Ile was no more alone than a bee among the thowers, hut commoned finniliarly with the whole miverse of life.
For him the rocks and fountains, the leaf and the blade of grass, had life; . . . the trees stood up, . . mytials of companions. . . . The prerpetmal howling of the wolves by night ronnd his cothage, or his hivonat in the lirake, was his diversion. . . . Ile refurned to his wife and children nxed in his purpose, at the risk of life and fortume, to bring them as soon as possible to live in Kentucky, which herestemed a second Para-dise.-Bancroft's U'. S., vol. 6, ch. 41.

525s. SOLITUDE, Moroseness by. ('hrysesstom. la matintainet, from sume considerationts of health or abstincuce, his. . . habits of taking his repusts alone; and this inhospitable rustonn, which his enemies imputed to pride, contributerl, at least, to nourish the infirmity of a morose and unsocial humor.-GıBBon, ch. 3, p. 342.
5259. SON, A devoted, Confucius. Just as he was about to be promoted to the highest diguities of the empire, his mother, in the flower of her age, suddenly died. Immediately, in necordance with the ancient traditions, he resigned his olllee, mad resolved to pay all the honors to his mother's memory which the most rigorous of the old enstoms demunded. After conveying the body to the summit of a mountain, where the ashes of his father reposed, he seeloded himself from socioty, and passed three whole years in mourning the irreparable loss which he had sustained, his only relief being the stuly of phi-losophy.-Cyclopedia of Biog., p. 409.
5260. SON like Mother. Eimperor Nero. Claudius, by the advice of his faithful comeillors, his freedmen, married his nicee Agrippina, the daughter of Germanicus, a woman equally vicions as Messalina, and more daring in her crimes. Her favorite object was to secolve the empire for her son Domitius Enobarbus [ Nero] ; and, to gain the freedmen to her interest, she made no seruple to prostitute hetself to them. In the prosecution of her seheme she employed banishment, poison, murder - every different engine of vice and inhmmanty. She obliged Octavia, the emperor's daughter, to marry Domitius, whom she now made Chualins alopt, to the prejudice of his son Britannicoss : and Domitins was hailed C:satr, with the tilles of Nero pina, having by these complicated erimes paved the way for the suceession of lure son to the throne, now thought proper to make way for him by poisoning her husband; and Claulins, after a reign of lonateen years, wist thas earried off at the age of sixty-threc.-Trumers Itist., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 486.
5261. SON, Reconciling. Themistorles. Admetus, king of the Molossians, . had made a request to the Athenians, which being rejected with se an by Themistocles in the time of his prospernty and intluence in the state, the king enterained adereprespoment ngainst him, and made no secret of ha intention to revenge himst 'f. if ever the Athenian shomld fatl into his powr. However, while he was thas Hying from phae on place, he was more afraid of the recent envy $f$ his comatrymen thim of the consequene of an old quarrel with the king ; and therelo he went and put himself in his hambs, appearis of before him as a supplicant in a partientar and extroordinary manner. It took the King's son, who was yet a child, in his arms, and kneeled down hetore the honsehold gods. This mamer of offering a petition the Molossians look ujon as the most effectual, and the only one that can hardly he rejeeted.- Pastarchis 'Themintocles.
5262. SONG, Enamored by. Joxith Quinc!. [While visiting his annt in Boston he met it young laty who made no impression on his mind till] she began to sing one of the songs of Burns with a clearness of voice and with a degree of taste and feeling which charmed and excited him beyond anything he had ever experienced. He immediately threw down the law papers which he had bern examining, and returned to the eompany. Miss Morton sang several other songs, to the great delight of all who heard her, and to the unbomided rapture of this particular young gentleman. When the singing was over, he entered into conversition with her, and :liscovered her to be an intelligent, well-informed, unaffected, and kine-henrted girl. In short, he fell in love with hrer upon the spot, and when the young lady left Boston a work after, he was engaged to her. Some time elapsed, however, before they were marrid. She was a young lady of highly respectable commections and considerable fortune. The marriage was suitable in all resperts, and they lived together tifty-tliree happy yem's. This most fortumate mion was, no doubt, one of the main causes of the singular peare and minterrupted happiness of his life.-(Eyclobedia of Blog., p. 7isl.
5263. SONG, Political. Prign of James II. [lrish Roman C atholic troops were brourht into England to uid the king in supplanting the Protestant religion.] Thomas Wharton had writtena satirical halat on the administration of 'ly r connel [lord-lienternant of Irelamit]. In this litile poem an Irishman congratulates a brother Irishman, in a barbarone jargon, on the appromeling trimmph of popery and of the Xlikesian race. The Protestant heir will be excluded. The Protestant oflleers will be hroken. The (Great Chanter and the praters who appeal to it will be hangrel in one rope. The goorl Talloen will shawer comb. missions on his rountrymen, amd will cut the throats of the English. T'hese verses, which wore in no respect abowe the ordinary stimalard of sireet pectry, had for burden some gibberish whirh wass said to have herem hased as a watedword by the insurgents of I'Istor in 16.41. The verses and the hance eanght the fancy ol the nation. From one end of Eingland to the other all elasises wre constantly singing this idle rhyme.

One of the chamereristies of the good ond soldier is his trick of whistling Lillibullero. Whaton afterward boasted that he hat sumg in king out of three kingiloms. But, in trath, the suceess of Lillibullero was the effert, and not the canse, of that excited state of public feeling which produced the Revolution.-Macaulay's Eva., ch. 9, p. 397.
526.1. SORCERY condemned. F'ngluud. s.b. 1440. [In 1440] the Witel of Eye was burmed in Smithitidl for having. in formur diys, given medieines to Elemore ('obhan to make the )uke of Glonerer low herand wed her. [The duke's wife wa bromght below an ereviastianl commission by the politiond cmemies of her hasband, and] cond femmed by the bishops to all the humiliations of penamer inthe streets of Lombon, on three several days. She was rentimed at Calais and the Iside of Man for the remainder of her life. [Ifer offence was only this: she had consulted an astrologer] to know what should tall of lier, and to what estate she should come.KNugu's Evg., vol. 2, ch. 6, p. 94.
5265. SORCERY, Fear of. By ,Joan of Arc. Theonly question was whether these beings were grool or evil mugels; whether she brought with her "airs from heaven or blasts from hell." This gucstion sermed to her eomutrymen to be decisively settled in her favor by the ausiste smetity of har life，by the holiness of her con－ versation，bat still more hy her exemphary nitem－ tion to all the servies and rites of the Churels． The dauphin at tirst fenred the injury that might be done to his conte if he haid himself open to the eharge of having lengued himself with a sorceress．Wyery immgimble test，therefore，was resorted to in order to set Jonn＇s orthodoxy and purity heyond suspicion．At last Churles and his udvisers felt sufe innecepting her services us those of a true and virtuons Cliristian daugh－ ter of the lloly（harch．－Dective Batrides，定375．

5266．SORCERY punished．Meury IT．［He married his mistress，Elemor Cobham ；she was charged with compassing the king＇s leath by sor－ cery．］Iter judges found that she had made a waxen image of the king and slowly meled it at a fire，a process which was held to accomen for Lemry＇s growing weakness both of hody and mind．The duchess was doomed to penance for her crime；she was led barehouded and bare－ footed in a white penance－sheet through the streets of Landon，and then thrown into prison for life．－llist．on Eng．Peorle，冬 436.

5267．s0RROW，A living．Mother of Westey． susama Wesley，．．．in a letter to her brother， writes，with the anguish which only a mother con know，for the saddest sorrow of a child：
0 sir $1 O$ brother！happy，thrice happy are you；happy is my sister that buried your chil－ ilren in infmey．secure from temptation，secure from guilt，secure from want and shame，secure from the loss of friends．Believe me，it is better to mourn ten children dead than one living， and I have buried many．＂－Stevens＇Metion－ ism，vol．1，p． 59.

5268．sorrow，Sentimental．Xerxes．［The Persians invaded Greece．］Ite left Sardis，and directed his mareh toward the IIellespont． Bring arrived there，he wished to have the pleasure of seeing in haval engagement．A throne was erected for him upon an cminence；and in that situation，seeing all the sea crowed with his vessets，and the hand covered with his troops． he at first felt a secret joy diffuse itself through his soul，in surveying with his own eyes the vast extent of his power，and considering himself as the most happy of mortals；but retlecting soon afterward，that of so many thousands in a hum－ dred years＇time there would not be one living soul remaining，his joy was turned into gricf． and he could not forbenr weeping at the unecer－ tainty and instability of human things．lie might have found another subject of retlection， which wonld have more justly merited his tenss and aftliction，hat he turned his thoughts upon himself，and considered the reproaches he de－ served for being the instrument of shortening that fatal term to millions of people，whom his crued ambition was going to sacritice in an unjust and unnecessary war．［IIe had $1,800,000$ men．］－ Rombin＇s IIsst．，Book 6，eh．2，ş 2．
5269．SOUL，Divinity of the，Pythayoras． Pythagoras regarded the human soul as consist－ ing of two parts－the one an sensitive，which is common to man and the inferior animals；the other a rational mud divine，which is common to man with the Deity，and is indeed a part of the divine mature．The tirst perishes with the hody． of which it is an insepratible ：ndjunet ；the othere survives and is immortal ；but niter the denth of one body it enters linto imother，und so passes． through an endless series of transmigrations． It is punished by degrathtion into the body of an inferior mimal．－Tythen＇s Itert．，Book 2， ch．9，p． 263.
5270．SOUL，Immortality of the．Socrates． Soerntes passed the rest of the day［his last day］ with his friemds，und eonversed with them with his usual ．．．tramquillity．The sulbject of conversation whs most important，and well suit－ ed to his present rondition－that is to say，the immortality of the soul．What gave orecaslon to this discourse was a question introdured in a manner by chance，Whether a true philosopher ourht not to desire nud take pains to dic ？Thls proposition，aken too literally，implied an opin－ fon that a phitosopher might kill himself．Soc－ rates shows that nothing is more unjust than this notion ；and that man，appertaining to God， who formed and phaced him with Mis own hund in the post he possesses，camont abmadon it with－ ont Itis permission，nor quit life without Itis order．What is it，then，that cminduce a philos－ opher to cutertain this love for death？It can be ouly the hope of that luppmess which he ex－ peets in another life，and that hope can be： fommed only upon the opinion of the soul＇s im－ mortality．－Rohas＇s liserr．，Book 9，ch．4，今 7.
5271. SOUL，Mystery of the．Mahomet．［Ma－ homet＇s wishom was tested ly the rablins，who asked an muswer to this question，＂What is the sonl ？＂Mahomet demanded］three days to re－ flert．Ife then replied to the questions to the Fantisfuetion of the mbbins．As to the definition of the sonl，which does not fall muler the senses， and which camnot be defined by words all bor： rowed from material properties：＂The soul，＂ stid he，＂is a mystery，of which God has re－ served to llimself nlone the knowledge．Man can know only what God vouchsafes to teach him．＂－Lamabtine＇s Turkeey，p． 87.

5272．soul，Nobility of．Darius．Polystra－ lus having gone aside to a fommin to quench his thirst，sitw hard by a mean wagon，in which lay a womded man，to appeamance in the agonles of denth．There was no attendant near．On approaching，he perceived that it was the king of the Persimus，who lay stretched upon a skin， covered with wounds．When Polysimatus came ne：ar，he opened his eyes，and feebly asked of him in dnught of water，which when he had re－ reived，＂Whoever thon art，＂said he，＂who hast clone me this offlee of humanity，it is the last of my misfortmes that I can offer thee no return． Bit Alexander will requite thee for it ；and may the gods reward him for that generous compas－ sion which，though an enemy，he has shown to， me and to my unfortunate kindred．Take，＂ said lue，＂this hand as the pledge of my grati－ tude．＂So saying，he grasped the hand of Polystratus，und immediately expired．Such was the end of Darius Codomannus．．．．Of this prince it may be truly said that he merited a better fate．The tender and humane affeetions formed a strong ingredient in his nature．When we consider him stripped of his dominions，his crown and life sacrifieed to the insatiable ambi－ tion of an muprovoked invader－to forgive was much；lut an emotion of gratitule to that enemy，expresserl with his latest breath，indi－
the death of 11) so passes smigrations. the body of 'r., Book 2, Socrates. his last day] H then with subject of nd well suitto say, the ve oermsion orlueded in a philosopher ? die ? This ied an opiniself. Soeist than this ig to God, sown hame dom it withithont His ace a philoslı? It enn hich he exble can be: e soul's im(h. $4, $ 7$ omet. [Ma1,hins, who What is tho days to reons to the definition the senses, ds all borWhe soul," od has relge. Man + to teach

Polystrato quench in whieh he agonies near. On the king on a skin, atus came usked of te had rewho hist he last of 10 return. and may compasshown to Take," my gratihand of Such

Of nerited a ffections 2. When ions, his le ambigive was to that il, indipuralleled.-'Triatis IIn'r., Book 2, ih. 4, 11. 189.
5873. 80UL, seat of the dristotlr. IIe informs us that, in his opinion, the seat of the soml is that portion of the lorain ealled the pineal gramel, a small, solid mass of nervous mather in the minlst of the lobes of the brain. The reason which this great philosopher gives for so thinking is, that "all the other parts of the bmin are donble amd thonglat is single." Man's soul thas being in the hemb, he feols it meressary to "xplain why we are provided with boties mal linbs. Since the sonl is rompletely enclosed within the skull, why shonlal we beenemmbered with surbit a great mass of mospiritial matter? 'lhe gools foresaw, he tells us, that the heme, being rommal, wonld roll down the hills, and could not uscend steep places; and to prevent this, the body was added as a carrier and locomotive of the head.-Cyelorminis of Bion., p. 560.
5274. 80UL, superiority of the. William III. [ William III. Was tor many years aftlioted with fhe asthma, and during the later years of his dife was greatly opposed and amoyed by the partism spirit in Parlinment, whirh ignorod his great serviees to England, and his recommendaLions for the sermity of the state. In the smmmer of 1701 he appared in the last stages of Jodily feeblemess, luit the labors of the following antmman aporared to improve lis health. It was a period of publicexigency, arising from the agraressive attitude of France. William secmed? to rise superior to bodily disease in preparing for the conflict which was threatened.] It has been admirably said by Lord Mahon: "Let those who donbt the rominion of the soul over the bodily powers, who deny that a stromg mint can sway mad strengthen mad force onward a feeble suffering limme-bet such observe whether in the last labors of William to form the Alliance, or in the dllinnce itself when formed, they can discover any tare of sic:kness-one single mark of hanguor or alecline."-KNumb's EN(i., vol. 5. ch. 16, p. ${ }_{2} 53$.

戸275. SOVEREIGN, An American. Geveril Giromt. [. If en sixteen ycars of public service he proposed a tour of travel.] A government vessel, the Indiana, was placed at his thisposal, withont limit as to time. This amomonemont awakened the iiveliest interest in England, where he was tirst to land, and it was agitated in all the papers whether the courtesies tendered him bundel be those areorded to a sovereign ruler or a private citizen. Van Buren and Fillmore had both been recorvel simply as distinguisheal Aumirim citizens. It lenrth Lord Beaconstiolil annowneed that he shonld be received as a sov-aroign.-libadme's Travels of GbNerni, (fuANT, p. 5.
3276. SOVEREIGNTY, Claims of. Sicou'd of Mars. It was natural enongh that the seythians should adore, with peculiardevotion, the god of war; bat as they were incapable of formingr either an abstract idea or a corporeal representation, they worshipped their tutelar deity under the symbol of an iron cimeter. One of the shepherds of the IInns perorivel that a heifor who was grazing had woumbed herself in the foot, and rurionsly followed the tratek of the blood, till ha dioooverel, amoner the long grass.
the point of an anciont swoml, which he dug out of the gromad and prosemed to Attila. Flat magmamoms, or rather, that artfol, prince acropterl, whith pious gratituche this celesthal favor; mat, as the riantaf possessor of the sicord of Mors, usserted his divine amd imbofensible claim to the dominion of tha emath.- (immon's lRome: ch. 34, p. 390.

527\% . SPECIALTY, success by. Eimperor Marimian. Maximian was born a peasant, amb, like Aurelian, in the territory of Sirminm. Igmorant of lettors, careless of laws, the rustidity of his appearanee and manmers still betrajed in the most elevated fortme the memmess of his extration. War was the only art which he professal. . . After the example of Marerns, he. gave himself a collengue in the person of Mas. imian, on whom he bestowed at tirst the litle of Csesar, and afterward that of Augustus.- (ina non's lRomli, ch. 13, 1. 405.
5278. SPECTACLE, Magnificent. Clroputio. [She left hur iominions to visit Antony in ('ili"ia.] She sated nlong the river ('yohns inn most. magnificent galley. The stom what eovered with gold, the sails wore of purple, and theorars were silver. These, in their motion, kept time to the masic of flutes aml pipes mal harps. The queren, in the dress and character of Vouns, lay moder a canopy embroidered with gold, ol' the most exfuisite workmanship, while boys, liko painted Cupids, stood fimming her on citch sides of the sofa. Her maids were of themost distingmidud beanty, and, halited like the Nereids and tha Grates, assisted in the stermge and conthet of the vessel. The fratrame of buming incernse was ditfused aloner the shores, which wore cosered with maltitailes of people. Some followed the procession, and such mmones wont down from the city to see it, that Antony was at last ledatone on the tribman. I rumor was soon spread that Vemas was come to feast with batechas, for the benotit of $I$ sia. Antony semt to invite her to supper ; but she thourht it his daty to wait upon her, and to show his politeness, on her arrival he eomplicel. Je was astonisher at the magniticence of the preparations, but partionlarly at that multitude ol lirhts, which were raised or let down together, amd disposed in such a varioly of spame and rimelar tigures, that they atherded one of the most. plasing spectacles that has been reromped in

52279. SPECULATION, Endangered by. " $/ 3 / 1 / 1 /$ Frikty." lat the athmm of 1 stig oceurred the most extroorlinary mometary exoitement ever known in the Conited States, or perhaps in the world. I company of unsirupulons specoulattors in New lork City, handed by Jay Gonlal and James Fisk, Jr., sucoceded in producings what is known as a " comer" in the golimarket, and brourht the business interests of the metropolis to the verge of ruin. During the rivil war the credit of the government had declined to such an extent that at one time a clollar in gold was worth two humdred and eighty-six conts in paper currency; lut after the restoration of the national anthority the value of paper money appreciated, and in the fall of 1869 the ratio of arold to the grecnback dollar had fallen to about one hundred and thirty to ond hamdred. There were at this time, in the banks of New rork, tifleren million dollars in gold moin and in the sub-tremary of tha Ginited States a homited millions more. 'The phan of Gould and Fisk was to get contiol, hy purchase, of the aranter part of the Ifferen millions, bo prevent the sorerefary of the treasary from selling any part of the humatred millions muder his anthority; thro, having ronatrol of the market, to andsance the price of godel to a fabulons tignte. sell out all which they held themselves, and retide froms the diclal of slanghtered lortanos with their ancomalated millions of spoils. . . . Maviag rarefully armared all the prelimimuries. Hac comspirators, on the 1:3he of September, begran their work of purrhasiug golet; at. the sume time constanty advaturing the price. liy the esel of the month they had sumeroded in jutting up the rate to a lamined and forty. On the next day the priow pose to a hamberd and forly-foms. 'I'he mombers of the conspinacy mow loldy avowed thedid defremination to ailvance the rate totwo hamered. and it. sermed that on the morrow they wonld pat the: threat into exceration. On the morn-bideling in the Gold Roon beran will intense exritoment. The brokers of Fisk and (ionld mlvanced the price to a homdreal and tifis. a handred and fifty-flve, and finally to a hamilerd and sinty, at which figure they were obliged to parchase several millions liy a compuny of morchants who had handed themsolves fogelher with the determimation to fight the rold-rambless to the last. Just at this momernt rame a desputch that Beeretary Bontwell had ordereal a sale of four millions from the sub-treasmy. There was an instantaneoms pamid. The price of gold went down twenty per econt in less tham as many minutes! The spernlators were blown away in an uproar ; but they managed, by accumalated frambs and corruplions, to carry off with them more than eleven million dollars, cts the fruit of their nefarions game. Several months elapsed before the business of whe eomntry reecovered from the effects of the shoek. - Rinrath's U. S., eh. 68, p. 5.53.

52*0. SPECULATION, Epidemic of. Einglanel, 1720. [Under the influence of the gianatic: South Sea Sromeme lhe spirit of speculation in 1720 became an apidamic.] Companies of (very character-water companies, fishary companies, companios lor varions manufactures, companies for settements and foreign tradoinfinite varicties, down to companiow for fatting hogs and importing jarkasses from spainrushed into the market bmid the unirersal rey for chares, and more shares. . . . It was calcalated that the valne of the stork of all the companies was twice as much as the fee simple of all the land of the kingelom, . . . and five times as much as the ribrulating modiam of Earope. Kíniaire's Ena., vol. b, (li. 3, j. 42.
5881. SPECULATION, Imperilled by. Rusrality. The year 1819 was noted for great financial crisis-the first of many that have oreurred to disturb and distress the comntry. With the reorganization of the Bank of the Enited States, in 1817, the improved farilities for credit gave rise to many extravigint speralations, generally conceived in dishonesty and earriod on by frand. The great bameh hank at Baltimore was especially infested by a band of unscrupu-wilh the othleres, ha withlrawing from the instituthon lully two millions of clollars beyoud lts seenritios. I'resident C'heves, however, of the Su perior Board of Brectors, mopted a polley which exposed the prevailing rasenlity, and by putting an ernd to the systom of malimited ered its, gradunlly resiored the business of the eomatry to atimor hasis. But for the time being flanncial alfairs wore thrown into confusion: and the Brank of the Cbited States itsolf was Indely savel from suspension and lankruptey. - Rıindivis ('. S., (ll. 5\%, b. 410.

5edwe. SPECULATION, Manla for. France. [.John Law had the management of the thances of Franco. 1 Dukes umel footmen, capitalists mad shop-hoys, ladias ol the comet and servant-matis, jostled one another in their eagerness to buy the ficorite slare of the memment. 'The provimes poured into laris tems of thonsands of people eager to join in the maddening gime and the mania spread at last to all the comatries of Eus. rope. Kings and princes of distant lands bought shares in law's delasive sehremes, and in London the mania raged almost as violently as at Jaris. Money was borrowed in Paris at tha rate of $n$ guarter per cent per fuster of an hour, the lember kerping his eyes upon his watch, Desk-room was let in the vicinity of the share-market for fifty franes a day. Shares, bonds, and coin changed in value fifty times in amorning. So popular was the magician who had conjured op this state of things, that large sums were given for places where lie conld be sern in passing. and it was a distinction to be able tos say, "I have seen Jolan Law." A poor old cobbler, who lad a little shop in the street thas sudilenly invested with so much importance, cleared two humdred francs a day by letling chairs nod dosks, and selting pens and paper. Men made fortunes in a few days. People who were lackeys one week kept lackeys the next. Law's own eonelanan came to him one day und addressed him thins: "I am going to leave yon, sir. Here are two young men, hoth of whom, I answer for it, are execllent conel. men. Take your choice, and I will keep the other myself." . . . This madness raged in Europe eight months, during which people thought the age of gold had come ; lor, while lamadreds of thousamels appeared to gain, vary few seemed 10 lose. The constant rise in price of shates and rosal paper appeared to enried everybody, and ruia nolsody. . . . The reaction, I need not say, was terrific. When first the suspicion arose that all these fine fortunes wre founded upon paper of tictitions valne, it spread with alarminir rapidity. By various adroit manompres Law ehecked the progress of distrust, but he could only check it. The rush to "realize" arrw in wolnme and intrasity from day to day, Hutil it became a universal jmaic.- (velouremia ○ト IBog., J. 45ín.
5288. - - - E. Englathel. The nge of companies came very soon after the revolntion. No scheme of frand. no delasion of folly, was transparent cuongh to make its vietims stay their headlong pursuit of imaginary wealth. The mania never slopped. Several years after the ruia produced by the infatuation of the South Som tichomo, the mamagement of commanies was lreyond its of the Su. a polley $t y$, and $b$ ited cred. the counime being confusion; jtself was nkrujtry.

France. 1e fluances talists mud mint-maids, 10) buy the provinces of people $\therefore$ and the as of Ell. ils bought 1 in Lonnily as at ris at the: ter of an upon his vicinity of Shares, 4 times in ician who that large could be tion to be A poor the strect h imporny by letpens and ays. Peockeys the him one going to nen, both it conch. keep the din Euthought bundreds $v$ seemed inres and ody, and not say, on arose li alarmharuvres , but he "realize" to dny, LOPDEIA age of olution. dly, was mis stay lth. 'The fter the c South aies was thas spoken of : " Weare an fond of companion. it is it wombler flat we have not onf shores blacked by one, und used of directors mude ricll at the expense of our very bonckgumals." The fluctuntions, soon nitur the revolution, In the prlee of shares, not omly of " new projoets mal schemes promising motmotains of gold," but of the established trading eompmies, were so axcessive, that the business of the Royal lixehtage in its storek-jobbing department might be come pared to lioe operations of a great gambliner

5281. SPECULATION, Oppression by. Framer. [In 17\% 2 , during the relgn of lomis XV.] tho dist ress of the lower classes was gricevonsly manmented by in somdalous ussorintion ralled the " Pucte de: Franime," which prodnered urtitheially n immense rise in the priceof corn. 'The king hhmedf was a latge shatehohder in this eompany, which bought upt the grain in france, exported it, and then re-introndered it at an enormous protit. The people wore thas driven to the last extremity of misery ; and yet no one ventured to raice his voiee ngatinst this abominnble tratfle, the slightest comphant being followed by consigmment to the dangeons of the Bastile.

52d5. SPECULATION, Prevention of. $B_{!} / L_{i} \cdot g-$ islation. When Congrass convaned [in Srptember, 18\%3]. th hill anthorizing the issue of treatiory notes, not to excecol ton millions of dollans, was passed as a temporary expedient. More important liy fir wat the measure proposed by the l'resident, and lrourht hofore Congress, under the name of "'lhe Indepondent Treasury Bill." By the provisions of this remarkable project the publice funds of the nation were to le: kept on deposit in a treasury to be cstablislued for that special purpose. It was argued by Mr. Finn Buren and lis friends that the surplas money of the eomentry would drift into the inde. pendent treasury and lodge there; and that by this means the speculative mania wonld be eiffectually checked, for cxtensive sperulations conld not be carried on withont an abmalant currency. It was in the niture of the Presincent's plan to separate the business of the United States from the general business of the country. The Independent Treasimry Bill was pasiod by the Senate, but defented in the llouse of Rap-resentatives.-Rmpatis's U. S., ch. o6, p. 4:3s.
5286. SPECULATION, Ruinous. J/ixsiswippi scheme. A dividend of twelve per cent wiss foon dechared upon the khares, and an incordible mapulse was given to the sale, the maxicty toblrtain them monoming to infatuation. In (J) for ber they reathad the preposterons price of 10,000 frances, twanty times their original valar ; it is evern satid that fit last they were not to be purelased under eightorn of twenty thomsamat fances. Enormons fortumes were realized during the height of the ferment by speedators of all classes-from princes, generals, and prelates, down to petty shop-kecpers, clerks, lackeys, Wating-maids, and courtesans. A fictitions and baseless prosperity overspread the whole kingdom. But a reaction was inevitable. Such was the rage for obtaining the bank-japer, that faw found himself umble to control its issur ; its circulation was increased to the portentons ibnoment of three thoustmd miltions of frames, whereas the whale valae of the metallice rolnage cxiviling in Framerdid not excoed servolandred millions. 'l'owimd tho close of' 1719 susplelon began to gain gromal as ta lle solvaney both ot the lank mot of the company, mat many of the hargest sharelableders prudently eomverted thelr shares and notes into investarents in money, jowcls, und landed property. The lrince of (omif gave the sigmi for this assault upon the publia: credit hy extorting from the bank three entrtlomde of silvir in exchanme lor his lmank notes. Evary exertion was mow mamle by the regent und Law tos arrest the downwad movement, liat in vain. Noney paymente wore forbidelen forsums alowe 100 a ames; the eurreney of the lank-mates was made obligatorr, amb nt hasi all payments in spercie were prohblited. Vionent means wore:
 it was impossible to stemi the tide al remetion; the publice contidenee was shaken momenad mome evory day, and the loollowness of the wholo. system soon berominer manifest, a nitivesil pan-

52847. SPECULATORS, Defeat of. Nifolion $I$. 'The state of the compire wis mow such that the publier fumds beran tos decline, bingland, Spatio.
 ing for an aplortunity loratrieve . . . lallan fortunes. [Rnssin was doulatfinl.] Sueronhators in the public funds endeavored to excite a panic. The price fell from ninety four as low ins seventy. Niposeon immediately roused limaself.
 the berers." By motus of jutlicious purchomses, stemdily excronted lor one or two months, the speroulators for a fall were beater. The publis: funds rose ngain to the price whieh Napoleon dermed it a point of honor for the govermment to maintain. . . Many of the speroulators .
 (l. 2.
5288. SPECULATORS, Pernicious. V'irfiniu. King ('harles [I.] commissiomed John Jarvey to assume the qovernment. He arrived in the autumn of $162!9$, and froin this time until $16: 55$ ther colony was distracted with the presence of a most umpopular ehicf magistrate. IVe seems to have been disliked on gencral prineiples, but ther greatest soureo of dissatisfaction was his partiality to certain spernlators and land momopolists, who at this time infested Yirginiz, to the anmoyance and injury of the poorer people. There were many old lamd gramts, covering districts of torritory, which wore now ocenpied by actual settlers, and between the bolders of the lands and the holders of the titles violent altereations arose. In these disputas the governor beame a partisan of the speroulators agitinst the peopler, until the outraged assembly of 1635 passed at resolation that sir John llarver be thrust out of ollice, and Cablain West be appointed in his pare, " uatil the kingrs plesame may be known its the matter." A majoibty of the commeillors sided with the hurgesses, and Darvey was ohliged 10 go 10 Enghand to stand his irial. R1111.ATM's C. S., (h. 1s, p. 115 .
5089. SPECULATORS, Revenge on. By the Pmor [luring the levolution.] On the morning ol the wad of .July [1~st)] some peasunts of Víry, near Fomandeblema, are leading into Paris an old man bous: I with ropes to the tail of a mats. On his merk is fastemod a bondle of grass. mida collur of methow is romid lis neck. If is lator in fanine-one who suld the foor shanhd rint grass if they could not get breme. Ile was hemged to a hantern it the rorner of a strend. Ilis head was col off ; bumille of hay was stultal into the month. - Kinatres Exa., vol. T, ch. th. p. 175.
5200. SPEECH, Brovity in. Cicurral (irent. H10 was entertuined hy the city of Manchester, Enghamd, whre he spoke longer than nismal. He rommonly nsed hint a very lew words in nu medress. | In reply to a tonsi of the mayor, hir suid with a smile that linglishmen han got move mad longer speree hes out of him than his own comatrymen, but they were poorer, simply toremse they erere lantur ham he was acemstomi-
 p. 7.
5291. - - Ciromivel (irant. One of his soldier fricoms, who in satid to be uhasest us reserved hs himself, was commissioned to present the general with unchamily engraved gold enp, in the name of the soldiers s: ho had served muder him. The warrior was introdaced into the Grant homseholal, bearing the coup.

He ruictly placed the cop npon a sideboard, remarking. "That's the cop." The I'resichem looked at it in " dreamy sort of at way, and said. "Thamk yon." Then he offered his companion in-arms a cigar. The two vetorans sit down, amd facing ench other, smoked awny itusilener, while the depmata tion of soldiers outside waited in vain for tho speech which is usial ons surfo orensions. - J202\%. SPEECH, Dissembling. (\%urrow. [The ruler of the 'lurks. I While the sucressor of Disabul reldobated his father's obsergies, he was suluted by the ambassators of the Empuror 'liberins, whop propersed an invasion of Pe posia, amd susbained, with timmess, the amgre and perhaps the just repronehes of that hatury bartarian. "Youse my ten tingers," said ther great khan. and he mplied them to his mouth. "You Romans speak with as many tongurs, but ther are tongres of deeceit and pribury. To me sou hold one hagenare, 10 my subjeets amother ; and the mationsaresumessively deluded by your pertidious "lopuremere"-(imims's liomis, wh. 42, 1. $20!$.

529:3. SPEECH, Earnest, Johen Milton. [Milton's pla for the commonwealth:] " What l have spoken is the language of that which is not called amiss the grood old emuse.

Thus much 1 shombl, perhaps, have satid, bough I were sure I - hould have spoken only to trecsind stomes, and had none to cry to but with the prophet. 'O (arth, 'arth, earth!' to tell the very soil itself what her perverse inhabitants are deaf to. Nas. Honght what I have spoken should happen to be the very last words of our expiring liberty."-Kxamp's Eivg., vol. 4, ch. 14, p. $23: 3$ 5294. SPEECH, Irrepressible, Inty Fíairfure. When Charles I. was on lis trial before the High Court of Justice, while the President was aldressing the eommissioners, and salying that the prison wis brought lofore the court to answerit "harese whigh treason and other remes, brought herore him, in the mane of the people of Eing-hand, a voion was hatil from the gallery: " It a a lir- - but one half of them." It cane from laily fairlas.]-Kinmaris Exa, vol. 4, ch. 7, p. Inti.
52905. $\qquad$ Sin of ('rosus. [Cyrus (ap) ured Sardlas.] The onty son (ruman had living wasdumb. This yomg prinee, seding a soldier. when the clty wastaken, reme to give the king. whom he dif not know, a stroke njon the herad with his cimeter, male such a violent effort med strupgle, out of femr und tembermess for the life of his father, that he broke the string of his tomgue sum eried out, "Soldier, spare the life of ('rusus!"-Roh, in's llis'r., Book I, ch. 1, art. 1.
5296. SPEECH, Pasnionate. E'mperor Jutitu. ITe sometimes forgot the gravity of his station, asked hadisarect or unsamomble guestions, nud betrayed, hy the londuess of his voiere and the agitaion of his boly, the carmen vehemenere with which he manmained his opinion against the knowledge of his own temper pronpor him to cocourage, madeven wailicit, the report of his triemds smi ministers; mil whenever they ventured to oppose the irroughar sallies of his passions, the seretators comble ofserver the shame, as wedl as the gratitude, of their momareh -- (int:-

5297. SPEECH, Plainness of. . 1 thrimime. It the close of un matiemere wheh lu gave to some Athenian ambassmbers, who were some to combplain of some net of howtility, he asked whet he could do them my surviere. "The greate. survier thom couldest "do us," said Demorbares, "would the to hane thyself." Philip [of Macedom, withont the fast cmotion, though he perceivel that all the persons present were highly otlemeded. anwwered, "(Go toll your superiors that those whodared to make nse of such insolent hambare are more hamghty and lese pencobly inctined than they who ean forgive them."Rom,tans llast., Book 1-1, 冬8.
520\%. SPEECH, Responsibility in pubtic. Pric. clis. Surlo was the solicitude of Perieldes when he had to mpouk in public, that he always tirst alldrowsed a prayer to the grots that not a word migh umawares ascape him unsuitable to the of-

5299. SPEECH, Toleration of free. Thoderick the (irtat. He once salw ancowd staring at somehing of at wall. Ile roule up, and found that against himself. The placeard had been posied if) oo high hatit it was not ensy to real it. Fred. reick orlered his attendants to take it down amd put it lower. "My people hadd I," he satid, - hatre come fo an arrecment which satisties us hoth. They are waty what they please, and I am to do what I plases. "—Maritiays FmenERICK the Ghest. 1. 48.
5300. SPEECH, Unrestrainable, Reign of Jume: 11. LSeven hishops who refinsed to please the king by betriying the Probestant religion were broughit 10 trial.] It seremed hat at length this hard tight had bren won. The casie for the crown was closed. Had the comsel for the bishons remained silent, an acquittal was certain: for nothing which the most corrupt ind shameless judere con enture to call legal evidence of publication has, been given. The chief justice was begiming to charge the enry and the liond effert and or thir life ug of hiv the life of 1, ntt. 1 .

It: rom Janly T, p. 104 yruscoul. mad livhig is exhlilier,

- llo king.

or Julian.

 s station, lions, mid eamd the cure with cainst the 13at his of him to mit of his luy verithis phes. hamine, as h - (i)firna. It - to some - to comm. whell greaters rochmres, of Mince line jer. iiglaly ot superiors i insolent cacomby hem." (ic. $\operatorname{sri}$. les whell fiys tirst a worl athor: woderick at someud that platemrel posted - Fred WII and le sail!, stics 11 F(1:1)ise the a Weros th this or the or the as cerot : al (vi-
 chluf
Y, ill $d$
womld wadembtedly lative direrted them tomequit tho defendants ; lint Flinch, too minxtons to be perferetly disercet, Interfered, and liegeged to be herard. "If you will te hemed," madil Wright, " yous slanll be'lamed; lut yous donot maderstand sour awn interesas." Tha other comandel for the chief justice to proceced. Ile was abometo do so When m moseriger come to the solicitor-generna with meses that lard simelerland combl prove the publication, nad womld come down to the conte fmonedintely. Wright malielomsly tolal the connsel for the idefoncesthat they lind omly themselves to thank for the turn whifeli things lind taken. 'l'le eomemembere of the great maltitude fell. Finch was, dirlag some loors, the most unjopinlar man in the conntry. Why could he not sit silli. as bis betters, Suwver, Pemberton, ind P'ollexfen had done? Jis love of meddling, his thing. - Mavaliay's ENo., ch. 8, p. 351.
5301. SPEECH, Worthy. Indian C'ief' l'euouchet. 'Jaken prisonerat hast, near the Blackstome, a young man hegan to guesion him, " ('libld," replied he, " yondo not maderstmad war ; I will answer your chief." Dis life wanotfered hom if He wenda prosime a trenty of prace: ho refused the offer with disdain. . . (comdemaned to death, he only nuswered, "I like it well; I shall die bufore I suenk anylhing moworthy of myself,"B.anconorr's U. S. vol. : ch. 1』.
5802. SPELLING, Bad. Cicotye Wruskington. Washingten himmelf, before be become a pallie man, was a lud speller. People were not so parficular then insuch matiors as they are now ; mad besides, there renlly was no settled system of spelling a handred years ngo. When the gemern! wrote for " "rhemmof paper," a henvar " limit," asuit of " elomths," and n pair of " suttin" sloces, there was no Welsster mantridged to keep prople's spelting within bounds.-('vClomedia uF Bume, p. 9.

580B. SPELLING, Diverse. Shakerpeare. In the thrst place, lrow did lie sped his mume? When he wrote it, le spelled it in varions ways; but when be had it printed he spelled it Shakspere, or Shmkespemure, and so did his intimate friend, Ben Jonson. In his own day, the mame was spelled in thirty-three dilferent ways: Shanpur, Schakespeyr, ('latekspor, Slankuspenre, 5304. SPIES, Ensnared by. Weith of Theotosiers. The gencral wha commanded the military and naval powers of the Tharacimen frontier soon perceived. . that the Barbarimas, awed by the presence of his fleet and legions, wonld probinbly clefer the passuge of the river till the appromeliing winter. The dexterity of the spies, whom les sent into the Gothic camp [of Alatheus], itlured the Barbariuns into a fatal smare. They wre persuaded that, by a bold nttempt, they might surprise, in the silence and darkness of the night, the sleepiog arm; of the IRomans ; and the whole maltitude was hastily embarked in a tlert of three thonsand canoes. The bravest of The Ostrogoths led the van; the main body consisted of the remainder of their subjects and solliers; and the women and children securely followed in the rear. One of the nights without in moon had beem seleceled for the exceution of their design ; mad they lind nlmost remelorel the mouth-that they shonld thad ma emy lamping and man mo. giarded cimaj. But the progress of the Barba rlaus was sudelouly stopped by an moxpected olstacle: a triple line of vessels, strongly con-

 the river. Whate they sirigerged to force their way in the mergul contliot, their right thonk was werwhelned liy the irresistible ntluck of a Herel of galleys, which wore urged down the stremm liy the malted impulan of ones mind of the 5305. SPIES, Shameless. Ricig of Jitmes II. John Larke lutel tyrmany mul jursucution us a philosopher ; but hivintedere und his tomper pros. served him from the violence of a purtisith.

In one point, however, he was valurrable. ’il. was astudent of ('lurist ('hureh in tha Cuiversity of ()xforl. It was determined to drive fromin thit erbobrated college the prentest mon ol whom it could evor lomat; but this was mot rasy. bocku opinion on the politios of the day. Spias land becen set nbont lime. Doctors of divinity and masters of urts had not leren mshamed to perform the vilest of all ollle'es, that of watehing the lips of a companion in order to report his words to his ruin. The convorsation in the hall had been firrposily turned to irritatiag topics, to the $\mathrm{F} x$. chnsion lill, mad to the charmeter of the Einrl of Shaftesbury, but in vain. Jocke never loroke out, never dissembled, but mantnined such stembly silence mul composime us forcod the tools of power to own will vexation that never man Whs so complete it master of his tongue and of his passions. When it was foumd that tremelory condd do nothing, arbitrary power was used. After vainly trying to inveigle Lorke intonfanlt, the government resolved topunish him without one. Orders canse from Whitehall that he shonld be ejected, mod those orders the demmand cmons made laste to obey. Locke was travelling on the Continent for his health when he lowned that he hat been deprived of his home and of his brend withont a trinl or evena motice. - MacauLay's Eva., cli, 5, p. 50.).

5R06. SPIRIT, An impelling. (icorge fox the Quaker. A.1). 1649. Like Miltom and IRoger Williams, his soul nhlorred the hireling nilnistry of diviners for moncy ; moll on the morning of a first-day lie was moved to go to the great stecple-homse moll cry agrinst the idol. "When I came there," says Fox, " the people looked like fallow gromind, and the priest, like a great lump) of earth, stood in the pulpit above. Te took for his text these words ol Peter, 'We have also n more sure word of prophecy, and told the people this was the Scriptures. Now, the Lord's power was so mighty on me, and so strong in me, that I could not hold, but was made to cry out, 'Oln, no, it is not the Scripturas, it is the S.pirit.".... If eruelly benten, or set in the storks, or ridiciled ns mad, lie still obeyed the oracles of the voice within him.-BancRome's U. S., vol. 2, ch. 16.

5307 . SPIRIT, Teachings of. Quaker Doctrine. The revelation of truth is immediate. It springs neitler from trablition nor from the senses, but directly from the mind. Nomme romes to the hnowledge of (borl hit by the Spirit. " Dinetr libe demonstrallon la himself, mal not on the or lo thares. 'Plar lastimet of Dilly is sa matural to iman, that he coll ims more be wlionit it, itml

 rlh. It.

5:108. SPIRITS, Oommunlcatlon with, siriter. torg, In one of hls letters, he sutys: " I Inve beren ralled to a haly willee by tho lard limsadf. who most graclonsly manlfested llhaself to nur, Ills servant, In the yemr 1\%is, when the opened my sight to a viow of the mpirltand world, mom mantad me the privilege af convarslag with - pirits and magels, whidi 1 injoy to this day. From that time I began to print ami jublish vari-to me, as respretelng heavern mad hell, the shater of men after theth, the true worshlp of (iod, the -pirltuml kense of the Word, with many oflac most important matters comblacive (o) salvation (h. 8, p, (i).
 Sweden nsked hinn whether his spiritnal finternhated to others. He sald: "No, it is the gilt of thr lari," " ('an you, then," saill she, "spank with evory ome deecensed, or only with certnin persons ?" Ite maswored, "I cmmot converse with all, but only with such as I lave known in this world, with nll royal and prineely persons, with nll renowned leroes, or grent anil lamed men, whom I havo known, aither per somally, of from their netions or writings ; rom sepuently, with all of inhom $I$ rould form all idete: for it may be supposed that a persorl whom I nevor knew, and of whom I conld form no liden, I neither conld nor would wish to spenk with."-Wurte's Sweomenulsa, ch. 11 , 1. (1).

5:R10. SPIRITS, Intercourse with. Jim $/ 1 / 11$. tomishs. [t)f the Aleximblrian s-hmons \| Comantu ing their remson in these derep hat ansubstantial meditations, their minds were expmesed to illasions of limery. They thatered themsel ves that from its corporal prison ; claimed a familiar interoonrse with dimous amel spirits: and, by at very singnlar revolntion, converted the stuly of Rome, (ch. 1:3, p. 44!).

5311. SPIRITS, Lying. Siredentorg. In lis liary, written ubont this time, lor says that "spirits marmete things wholly false, atul lice When spirits begin to spatk with man, care shendal be taken not to heliave them; for almost everything thry say is made mp by them, inn! they lie: so that if it were permited them for relate what howen is, and how things are in heaven, they would tell somany falseloods, ind with such strong assertion, that man would be astomished,"-Whare's Swedennore, ch. 8, p. 69.
5312. SPIRITS, Ministering, Namurl.Johnson. The followine very solemn and affocting prayer was fombl after itr. Johmemis veroame: of ther with. () Lard! (Beveruor of homvern amd mpirles, ll thon hast omalated lho mesula of the diam to ministar to tho living, und nppointed my departed wife to lave rare of me, grant that I may enjoy the good elferes of harattenthon agraeahlo to thy goverinuent Forgive my jre. manuer mánts nre employed, gront me the: blesued Influmern ol thy holy Splrit, throukh Jounvon, p. 61

Wislis. SPLENDOR, Palatial. Timour. |On his return from the yams of comblest, 'Timomel

 a softerned light to the diattments. Arock juitit of his campaigns. Ile was seren there in all his diverslthes of fortanir, from the combition af a 'lartar shepheral to that of woverofign of emble Asia. Ifegave this pmince to one of the dhughtery

5:3 1. SPOILS, Abundant. Romims. In tho course ol' "few years lhe richos of Syraconse, of ('arthage, of Mnerdonitn, mod of $\boldsymbol{A}$ sin were brought in finambla to lemate. The treasures of riselas mone matomed to mone two millions

- Fling. and the IRoman people, the soveraign of wo matyy mations, was forever deliverpel from the weitht of taxes. 'The incremsiner revernae of tha provinees was loumd untlerient to defray the wrlimary extablishment of war and movermarnt, Hal the supurfloons mass of gold and siluor was deposited in the temple of sittorn, and reareved (ilmoin's IROME: ch. b, p. IN6.

5:315. SPOILS, A bundant, Pillite of' ('onstan-tha prize sumpasid the hargest smate of experience or $\quad$ xperetation . Ifter the whole had beren equally divided botworn tha Fromelame Venetians, tify thoustand mathe were dedurted to satisfy the dohts of the sormme amd the demmats of the lattor. The residuc of thar Fromelt imounted to four hamdred thonsand marks of silver, abont dight limmdred thomsimal pommle siorling ; nor van I better appreedite the valne of that smon in the foblife and private framsations of the nge.

 RoजH:, H1. (it). 1. ! !

5:316. SPOILS, Dodication of. I'/1/s. [Wh(1) Aurelian the emperme returacel from his cont ghests int the East, a comsiderable portion uf his oriontal spoils was comseremed to the gonds of Rome: the Cipitol and evory othor temple glithered with the olferings of his ostentations piety ; and the temple of the Sum alomerereived ahove tifteen thousimd poninds of gold.-Gins BoN's ROML, ch. 11.
5317. SPOILS, Division of. Arabs. Tha Arah eontinued to unite the professions of n merehant and a robber ; and his jutty excursions for the dofence or the atack of it aravian insensibly

1：al mやら心 Henveti mbl al dipurted mise of thio ＂リリrointer me，gramt ratlontlon however

me the ，through oswbilís ＇Timonr｜
lib．＂ala － 1 Haroltgh ＂k mint its clomens Ie history in ull hiv fion of $n$ if domble trumblitre hed 13 cg ．

In the

 Mr＂ises，of iill weri nsures of millioms warrign end l＇roms viluse of fray the rument， lver was Morverl State． onsatan turle of cricme equally us，fific fy the of the ulted to nhout ；mor ：1111 in re ngo 3110N＇s． The disalribullon of tho spall was moghated by a divine law ；the whole was fathalllo edoreded and immowables，was resorved by the proplad was shared in alogitaid portions by the soldiops who land ohalnerd the vietory or gatarded tha ＇anmp；the rewatis of themanderonved totheir whlows and orphame．－（ifousing Minomi：＇． 1）：38．

SBIX．8PORT，Magnificent．Oriculal．［Baja a．t．the Othoman ompueror，inviteri somme of his what probligions magnillerome the limaly of （Hhnman had niven in so fow reats，was eon dacted by seven thonsment faleon formers on of the imperial forestes of（ Olympors．＇I＇he denes were chal in lumbingsof parple，aml wore sollore

5：319．SPORT，Thoughtless．J／arrioge．In 13033，wh the oredsion of the marriage of orn of tha lall was given at eonrt，hatioll Charles V＇． with tive of his nobles，dlegriniadi themselvers as saviges，in close fltting dressies convered with pilded

 bhese grotespule ligures with a lighlod foreh，amil vither aceridentally or from wanton lowe of mis． rhlef，set their rombustible rositume in athere．
 buchess of Bary harvind him oll of the hatl． Fione al＇the malarky maskers ware hametombath： one saved his lif：by flowwing himadf into is larer tub of water which happenct to be at haml，－Sturents Falince，ell．11，多if

5830．8PORT，Unenjoyed．Mulin Imthrr． ［While serebuled nt Wiarthatie（＇astle．］tha onve oereasion he joiaral a hantine party，but tow no phonsure in the sport．＂I have bern orn a hant，＂lee writes to sipalatin，＂for the past fwo days，and have tastend of that bither－sworet onjos ment of our mohle loris 1 Wregnt twa rabitits and a mople of poor partideres．I worthy ore cupation，in truth，for idte perple！I romtinued my theolorieal studies amid the sumes and the dogs ：midas much plensure as l drrived from virwing stach sport，the more sympatly amd sor． row I hat in thinking of the mystorions trath the pisturn conwealed．For the pieture terebes nothing else than that the devil，through his erod less masters and dows－the hishops mid theolo． ginns－sereretly lumts mad catches the inmocont litale animals－the common people．It is the pichme of simple amd helieving somle which is thas vividly presented to my sormowiner leeart． And onere is happened that a poor litale mbhit took reflage int the sleeve of my eonat lying liy the way．＇lhor alogs in their pursnit．seented its hidiner－pliser，tirst wombled，and then killed it． Thas lhe pope and satan rawe in their etforts to ruin stival somls，withot concerning themselves
 1．9．）．

5：3＇2 ：SPY，An infamous．Templer．［In $1 \times 17$ James Willan，a printer of Dewsintry，proved of lambon，law for suveral limes，for the space

 ＂py l＂中， ＋1．is p，N1．

5iser＇g，starvation，Depopulated by，Itoly

 mant，and at strit inforpretation of the evidene of l＇rowopins would swrll the lons of Italy above
 Min＇s liomi，lol．I
S：BPRB．STATE，Bereavement of the．Hipusti－ great man，whom（＂foro serme tor rak above Ju－1in is of the salme＂pinion when her says． alter having lom if eremeral，wan hor Ioter lor midable to its rmomiles，mal its power wemed to have lost its edgo a． 1 to lor monihilated by the mot diatinguishad by any mumomala antiont ；mad altor him it smok fito ifs origimal olmenrity ；so Hait it saw its orlory mke biath amd expire with

Dib2．STATE endangered．（＇rimin＂ls

 moblemman ．．Was comminabined by thar cont of ＇The man，howract，who was chiclly relied on to givecharactorathidirediom tollo propose d colony was mo othor ham damos liartior Ilr． with any promine of suroros．．．The Fremelt prisants and merbanices wore mot eager to rm hank lor a comatry which had nothang hether than shatiges nod smos

Su the work of enlistine： ：mophed the plan of opening the prisons of the kinglom and eriving froxdom to whover would join the expertition．＇Thero wise atash of mot hers，swimilers，and murelerers，and the lists were immediately filled．Buly comaterfejturs mad traitors werodended theprivilege of gifniog their liberty in the Now Wrorla．－Rapritus U．S． （h． 5,1 ．$\because$

5isi2．5．STATE，An honored．Iiryiniu．Vir
 presidents，ami she hate at right．for the name． Whalingtom，Jeffarson，Jatisom，Nonroe，unt I Earrison were ali her soms．But he has many other illastrions children whome manes womlid have received monditional lusire from the prasi dential ollles．＇This is particulurly trac of Ger Cral Sam Houston，the father ami president of the republic of Texas．Jo was lorn on the 21 of March，1793，in Ronekhridege（＇ounty：Viraninia．

 It I had ho enfollen, if 1 wan supported as ani, vorsully as 1 ought to be, stll $n$ medicime whilel will curo the disensed ports of lion Sinte is beitero thint the sirgigery which womld mopmonte them. The kilghts lave fallen oif from the Nomite. 'I'hon moble lomes think they ure in henven when they have barlal in incir poumis that will ant ont of thedr humes, und they liave the rial lo finte." -

 | ('lamomdas, the (irecian lawgivar.) reynimed all -hildrens of the cilizens to tre ednconterl la palites civillze lhe minde ol mo'n, inspirlng them whli prontlenses of manumers, and finclining them to virtue: all which romstithte lhe faliofly of a comblibons. In this vow low ippoinmel mataries (paid by the situte) for masters mad preverpors. ia ordor that learnings, by briag commamionted qratultonsly, maghe be népulad by ull. Ile comwidered ignommere as the gremtest of evils, ami lie source whence nil veres tlowed.- Row,i,s.s

5SPd. STATE, Security of the. Nitjwleon 1 . [le wituessed the nttuck of the mols on the palawe of the 'lubleries. | Nupolem, operaty avowirl his convidion that frmere, withont editcation and without relfigon, was mot proparel for the Repmbliennism of the Cndtel Ntates. In this sentiment lafayote mod mont of the wisest men of the lremeh motion concurred. . . . In Franee nt this the there was melther hatelljLenere, religion, nor morality monomg the massers. There was no reverence for haw, neither laman nor divinc.- Amborr's NAbobaion 13., vol. 1, rli. 2.

5:540. STATE, Righte of the. N'ullificution. The reopering of the taritl question oceasionerl ervat ex eitement in (ongress and throughout the onntry. In tho session of $18: 31-3: 2$ ndditiomil duties were levied upon munnfuctured goods imported from abrond. By this act the momfacturing dist riets were again finvordnt the oxpense of the argicultamal States. Somtl Cimolima was specinlly offended. $A$ groat convention of her prople was held, and it was resolved that the tariff law of Comgress was uncomstitatiomal, und therefore null and void. Open resistamee was threatened in ease the otlieers of the goveramont should attempt to collect the resenmes in the lanbor of Charleston. In the United States Semate the right of a State, under certain ciremmstances, to mallify un act of Comgress, was bollly pro-- Itimed. On lhat issie oecurred the famous delnite between the elopuent Colonel Hayne, Sentor from South Carolina, nnd Daniel Wehster, of Massitehinsetts, perhaps the grentest master of Ameriean oratory. The former apmenred as the ehamplon of State Rights, and the fattor as the advocate of ('onstitutional Supreme acy. But the question was not decinled by dethite. The President took the matter in lumd, and issued a proclamation denving the right of any State to mullify the iaws of congress. But Mr. Calhoun, the Vice-President, resigned his office to accept a seat in the senate, where he might better defemi the doctrines of liss state. The President having warned the people of South Carolina arainst pursuing the doctrimes further, Mr, ('liy brought forward mal mocirad llar jussuge of a |f "mprominal hill providing
 "i, matil, ul the enid of ten yemrs, they shombl

5:HBM, sTATEs, Rightm of. Thrution. July.
 bow mond la the plam of tho crown us the cens sibini. 8TATESMAN, Dangeroun, Charles Torn". famenlalike for incombarable talents mad extrenuinstability. [Jo was ealled the watheremek. I ull prities, bint never gossessed the comildencer phan if his own No onn wished hlmas un mel-was as timid us loo was vorsatile. . . . With pow-

 "ownitl him, ho fell in the bloum of manlowad, the most colvorated statesmmin wholus left moth-elloris (\%. A., vol. (3, rh. 3t).

5:B:B2. BTATESMAN, Degeneracy of. Einglish. ('owper believeri that the publie men of his thme had grown degrenerate-" the ngre of virtanoms politios is past,"-KNmatin Ena., vol. K, elı. \%. 1. 114.

5:3:33. STATESMANSHIP, Contemptible. Nitwhom. $/ 1 I$. Juring the rivil wur tha lingerog Napoleon III, interferal in the ntrairs of Mexico. nuid sucoeoded, by owormwing the people with a Frencharmy, in setting apin empire. In the early purt of ingel the crown of Mexieo was eomfurred on Maximilian, the Apelnduke of Austria, who established his goverument mad sustnimed it with Frencla and Xustrian moldiods. But tha Moxiean I'resident Jumere hemded it revolition against the usimping cmperor: the govermment of the [ "nited States reluked Franco for luvinar viohated the Momroe Doctrine ; Napoleon, lecomiingr alarmed, witharew his mony, nud Maximil ian was overthrown. On the 13ihof Junc, INBi: be was tried by comrt-martiad and condemmed to be shot, and six daysafterward the sentence was earried intorexution. The scheme of Nupoleon. Who land hoped to protit by the civil wor and gain a foothold in the New World, was thus justly brought to shameful contempt.-Ridrajris

5:BRB. STATESMAN BHIP, Foolish, Jumes $I I$. Te hromrht over Irishmen, nost, indeed, enough 10 hold down the single eity of London or the single combty of York, but nore than enough to cxcite the alarm and rage of the whole kingdom, from Northomberland to Cornwali. Battalion after batalion, raised and trained by Tyreonnel. landed on the western const, and moved toward the capital ; and Irish recruits were imported in considelable mombers to till up veaneies in the: English regiments. of the many prors which Ahames commitherl, mane was more fatal than this, Arvady he bind nlicmaned the hermera of his pues. ple ly viohating their laws, conderenting the fir es.

 who had onee thed most zentond for monarely.

 mpealed to the putriotie spiritt of his motjonets agranse an havader for they werea mace hamatar are nemeanombly and mumbialdy strong. 'Tluy mand never bern nesustomed to ibe control or his. wrierence of my stranger. The nppentate of a fordghermy on their soll might mimpl theon aven to rully romme a klug whin they hund no ramon to love. Willimu mikht perluns have heron while to overcemene thit dillicinlty; late damess res. moved it. Not even the arrivid of a brignde of Louls" unisketeres would have "xurted suris resemment nut shane as our nuresturs folt when they mawarmed cohomusn|' Papias, jostarrivect from Dublin, moving in military parnp)

 1. :3al.
5333. statesmanship, Natlonal. William the Conqurrour. Propuratury to Willhan's phan of reduclog England entirely under the froudal government, he found it neressary to engage in mud complete a very great mudertnking. This was a general survey of nll the kingdomin, an necomit of its extent, its proprietors, their tenures, sum thrir values; the gunntity of meadow, pmatiure, wood, mul arable hand which they contained; the mumber of tenunte, cottugers, and servants of all denominations, who lived upan them. Commlsiomers were appointed for this purpose, who, after six years employed in the survey, hromght him min exnet uceount of the whole property in the kingdenn. This monument, called /memsileng/ hamk, the most vatuable piece of untiquity pissessed by may mulim, is at this day in existemere, and is pres. surved in the English Exchepluer. It was, in the yar 12 wi, brintel hy an order of Parliament. -Tythen's Ihnt., Book 6, ch. 8, p. 1:1.4.
5336. STATESMANSHIP, Ruinous. Smm.
 HI., Spala had expelled three millions of Jows und Moners ; luer inferior mobility emiurated to Amerien; in lioz her eensus cinumented lews than severn million souls. The mation that once would have invaled Bngl:med had mo maty: and, having the mines of sexion and south America, it needed subseriphims for its defence. Forcigners, by memes of lomens and mortgares, gained more than seven cighthes of the wembth from Anarpica, and furnishlad more than nine tenths of the merechandise shipped for the colonies. Spanivh commerce lad expired ; spanish mannfartures had declined; erom nurionlture lad fallen a vietim to mortmans and privilege. Imactivity was followed hy purerty, mal the dy:
 vol. 3, ch. 21.

53:37. STATUE, Honored by. Citto. The Theminns decreed mbove three humdred statues 10) Demetrius Phiaiceus. Honors this prodigally lavishod are no proofs of real merit, but the effects of servile adnlation : nul Demetrins Phalereus was culpable to a considerable degree in mot oppestag them to the ntmost of his pewer. if he really was fin a conilition to prevent their taking phace. 'l'he ronduct of C'nto wis mucit nase prodeot, fin decliaing several marke of dis. therthon which the perpple were dexirons of gructbig him: mind when hoe was anked one day why was crowited with so many others. "I hail murle,

 Hint., Book 16. Sit.
हibing. BTATUE, Immense. Apillo, Aglyan-
 In helght, wasereded nt the cintrmene of the lar lur, a momburnt of the fred dom mal the nrte of guake; lat tho masuy trunk nud hure frag. melus lay seathered cight crenturies on tha gromm, wind are oftern deseribed nu one of thas wonders of the ancient worth. 'They werve eat. lerter hy the diligenere of the Suracens, and sold lave laden nime limilred emmels with the weight of the brase metal; int enormons welght, though we should huclule the hindered colossal figures mad the three thonsand shaties whild mormed the prospretity of the city of the sum.- (immos's Rome, ch. bil, p. $219 .^{2}$ 63HP. STATURE, Lofty. Inrothime limeoln. Mr. Jincoln, ins he shook hands whth the juilgo [Kelley, of Pemmalsmin], luybirel. "What is your height?" "six feet theres. What is yours. Mr. Idecoln ?" "Six fere four." "Then," salid the judge, " Pennsylvanla bows to Illinois. My dear man, for years my hart has been nehing for a President that I could liwh : "p on, and l've found him at last in the land where we thonght thero were none but little giants." [The distingulished Strphen A. Wonghas of Illinois, was known as

 1). $10 \pi$.

5:3.10. STEAMBOATS, Flrst. In linglame. Itenry bell had lis stema-pasiage lomit rimuing on the clyde in $1 \times 11$. In a few remestembionts
 vol. 8, ch. 7, 1. 131.
5:311. STOICISM admlred, similti, E. Eis. tertus slowerd how life combl be simplitherl, inched, by bringing it into obediencer to a perferet law. Instrad of a quictism lamoted ley feverish dreams-duty, nction, co-opration with Gowl.
 corred Epictetus in my pockel till my very heart was ingrained with it, ats a pig's boines become redeler by foeding him upon madder. And tha longer I live, and the more I learn, the more am I convinerel that stoidism, property malerstood, is the hest mul mohest of systems." Mueh that Southey gained from stoiciom he kept hiroughout his whole life, lempered, inded, by the inIheneres of a Christian fuith, but not lost.Downex's Sor times, if. 2.
5:3.2. STONE, A saored. Ioman Emperor Dexsien": Antomines. The sun was worshipped at Emesa under the name of Ehagabalus [from two Sytiac words, Ela, a god, and Gabal, to form, the forning or plastic god], and under the form of a black conieal stone, which, as it was universaly believed, hal fallen from hearen on that saced place. To this protecting deity Antonibus, not without some rason, iterribed has elevation to the throne. The display of superstitions gratitule was the only serious business of his reign. The trinmpla of the grod of Emesa over all the religions of the earth was the great oljeret of his zeal and vanity ; mad the njpellation of Elambe!us (for he presumed aspentiff and favorite to adopt that sacred name.-

5BARB. - - I' Wecco. A small square editice, or iemple, called the crabm, was "ered thronghont all Arabia io be a place of the most supreme sanctity. Within this temple was a stone, which was the peculiar object of vencration, and was said to have deserended from "eaven, in those days of innocence when man was free from guilt as he came from the hambs of his Creator. The stome was then white, but grad:ally became sullied, as man beame more wieked, till at hat it grew entirely black. From the pilgrimares which it was coustomary to make to the "emple, and the riches it brouglit thither Mecea became the most considerable city of Arabin.-TYerenis Ihst., Book 6, ch. 1, p. 50.

53A.s. STORM, A destructive. England. On the night of the :ith of November [tiou3] a mighty wind arose in the wostern and southern distriets of England and in part of the eastern, which toppled down stecples, umoofed houses, lrove great ships from their anchorage, and swept away the watehtowers of the eonsts. The shomes of the chamne! were strewn with wrecks. The Thames and the severn were crowded with dismasted merchantmen, and hadls whose erews hat been swept into the raging sea. Fourten or fiftern men-of-war were cant away, and fifteen hundrei semmen proished with them.Kingur's Enim, vol, is, ch. 17, p. 260 .
53.15. STORM, Terrible. heign of Cluerles $I$. Clamor and debite went on within the hoose poposing the kings etfort to rule by prerogittive], and men's hearts failed them for fear without. White the Remonstrance wats passing, a wild storm broke over London. Wind and hail, rain, lightning, and thunder, the like of it was never known in the memory of living man ; the churehyard walls were broken down, the earth rent and torn from the graves, revealing, so it is said, the fares of the dead; supermatmit shapes in the mist hong brooding over the Thames, abd the superstitions saw misty shape and stom and tempest beariug on and beating against the house of the Duke of Buckingham, its stairs, and its walls. Storms were moving toward York House 100.-Hond's ('homwela, ch. 3, p. 6s.
53.16. STORM, Unequalled. Rabert Burns. In February of the ensuing year, 1095, his duties as supervisor led him to what he deseribes ats the "moforthate, wieked little village" of Eeclefecham, in Dmandale. The night after he arvived there fell the haviest suow storm known in ficothand within living memory. When people awoke next morning they fonid the snow up to the windows of the second story of their houses. In the hollow of Campsie hills it bay to the depth of from cighty to a hundred foet, and it had not disappeared from the strects of Edinlmrah on the king's birthday, the 4th of June. Storm-stayed at Eeclefechan, Bums indulged in deep potations and in song-writing.-bnamp's benss, ch. 7.

5i3.87. STRANGERS, Chllled by, At st. Kilda, Mreallay"s" "llistory of St. Kilda" whs very well written, exeppt some foppery about liberty and shavery. 1 mentioned to him that Nacaulay told me he was advised to lenve out of his book the wonderful story that, upon the apronel of a stranger, all the inhabitants cateh cold, lont that it had berol so well anthentiented, he determined to retain it. Jounson: " Sir, to leave things ont of a bowk, merely becanse people tell you they will mot be inelieved, is manacss."-Boswelais Jomseon, p. 18í.
sibis. Stratagem, Credible. Darius, höug of Prowia. At length, after a siege of twenty monthe, barius won the city by a tracheroms straturgh. One of his caphains, mutheng his visage with hideons wounds, fled, is if for sate. ty, to the Babyloni:ms, and offered his :ervices to avouge himself against Darius, who had nsed him this inhmamly. The man was tristed by the creclulous bahyonians with a high command, of which he availed himself to open the gates to the Persians. Withaggravated meamess and eruelty barins impaled alive three thousind of the principal citizeus.-TyTher's Hist., Book 1, ch. 11, p. 116.
533.19. STRATAGEM, Dishonorable. King of Spuin. Secing that King John [1I.] still manifested an inelination for the enterprise, it was sugerested to him by the Bishop of "onta that Colmbus might be kept in suspense while a vessed secretly despathed in the direetion he shond point out might aseertain whether there were ray foundation for his theory. By this memn: all its advantages might be sacured, wibhont committit, the dignity of the crown by formal negotiations about what might prove a mere ehimera. King Johm, in an evif hour, had the weakness to perinit a stratagem so inconsistent with his nsual justice mad magmmimity. Columbus was repuired to fumish, for the consideration of the comeil, a detailed plan of his proposed voyage, with the charts and documents according to which he intended to shape his course. Theso being procured, a caravel was despatched with the ostensible design of carrying provisions to the Cape de Verde Islands, but with private instructions to pursue the designated ronte. Departing from those islands, the cimvel stood west ward for several says. mat the weather became stormy ; when he pilots, sering nothing bat an imneasmrable watte of widd, tmonling waves still ex. tending before them, lost all courage and pot buck, ridiculing the project of Colmmbas as extravagant and in mitional. This unworthy attempt to defrand him of his enterprise roused the indignation of columbus, and he declined all otters of King John to remew the negotiation.- Lisvinc's Comtmas, ch. 6.
5350. StRATAGEM, Success by. Georgit. ITn Jume of 1i42 the Simaniols attempted the redurtion of Fort William.] The English general had only sote men and a few Indian allies. In order to cope with superior numbers, he resorted to samagem. A frenchman had deserted to the Spaniads. To him the English general now wrote, ax if to $x$ spy. A Spanish prisoner in Oglethorpe's hamds was liberated and bribed to dediver the lefter to the deserter. The Frenchman was advised that two Britishi fleets were coming to America, one to aid Ogletborpe and the other to attack St. Augustiare. Let the Epmiards remain on the dslame but three days longer, and they would be ruined. If the ememy did not make an immediate attack on Frederim, his foreos would be captured to a man. . . . This letter was delivered [to the Spanish commander], and the astonished Frenchman wasurestedas is spy ; but the Samiards could not tell whether hiv denial was trate or fidse. Tl wats a comencil of war ia the Sbunish ramp. Ogle thorpere atatagem was suspeeterl, but could not be prowed. Thirere ships hat been seen at seat that day ; promps these were the first vessels of the approzehing British Hects. The Spaniards were utterly per plexed: but it was timatly decided to take Orblethorpes advice, and make the attack on Frederica. [They falled.]-Ridintios I'. S., ch. ?!. p. 24.2.
5351. STRATAGEM, Successfui. liallity. [When Marims hat contuered the people of Rome, his lury was insatiable, esper lially atatinst the prominent citizens.] On this oreasion it was tound that no obligations of frimadship, no rights of hospitadiy, cam stamd the srock of intfortune. For there were very few who did not betray those that hat taken refuge in their homses. The shaves of Cormutus, therefore deserve the hishest admiration. They hid their master in the honse, and took a dead body ont of the strect from among the slain, and hanged it by the neek: then they put a gold ring upon the tinger, and showed the corpse in that condtion to Marins' excentioners: after which they dressed it for the fumeral, and buried it as their masters boty. No one suspected the mater; and Comutus, after being concealed as long as it was necessary, wats conveyed by those servints into Gabatia.-Patrancits Caics Mames.
5352. STRATEGY despised. lersioms. In fight the aneient Presiams displayed great persomal conarge. They esteemed it dishomorable to employ any stratarems in war, and newer fought in the night, unless whenatackenl by the enemy.-Tythen's ILsw., Book I, ch. 11. p. 12t).

5:553. STRATEGY, Needful. Columbus. Is he foresan that the vague terrors alrembly a wakrned among the semmen wonld increase with the space whicit intervened between them and their homes, he commenced a statrgem which he continued throughout the voyare. He kept two reckonings: we correct, in which the true way of the ship was noted, and which wes retained in secret for his own govermment; in the other, which was open to general inspection. a mumber of leagoes was daily subtracted from the stailing of the ship, so that the crews were kept in igho. rance of the read distance they had advanced. Imvineis Columbes, Book 3, ch. a.
5315. STREETS, Darkness of. RIit/" if Chatles II. When the evening clowd in, that ditticulty and damger ol walking atoont London breame serions indecd. The garret windows were opened, and pails were emptied, with little regard to those who were passing below. Falls, bruises, and broken bones were of constant occurrence: for, till the last year of the reign of Charles II., most of the streets were left in profound darkness. Thieves nad robbers plied their trade with impunity; yet they were hardly so terrible to peaceable citizens an another class of ruffians. It was a favorite andisement of disso.
lite young gemthemen toswarger by night ahont the town, breaking windows. upsetting sedans, beating quict ment and offering rude caresses to pretty women. Several dymaties of these tyrants had, since the liestoration, dominerere over the streets. The Muns and Tityre Tus had given recendy sucecoded by the siourcre. At a hater period arose the Nieker, the Itawenbite, and the

 The dramage was so lad, that in rainy weather the exulters som berame torrents: . . . bank rivmbets roared down simew llill aml Ludgate Itill, bearing to Flat bitch a vast tribute of animal and veretahke tilts from the stalls of thatehers and greencrocers. This thond was profusely Hrown to right and helt by conches and carts. Tokeep as far from the carriage road as posibe was therefore the wish of cervy pedestriat: The mild and timid wave the wall ; the bold and athete trook it. If 1 wo roysterers met, ther rocked their hats in ench other's laces and prasiedeach other about till the wenker was showel toward the kemmel. If he was a mere bully, he: sneaked ofr, muttering that he should find in time; if be was pugnacions, the emeomber prohably cmed in a dhel behind Montague Ilonse.-Dia 5356. STRENGTH, Consciousness of. Alerander. [.1t daybrenk he was asherpi.] Parmenio, having at last awakened hina, and sereminge surprined to find him in so calna and swert a sleep, just as he was goving to tight a batHe. in which his whole fortame lay at stake: "Ilow is it peossible," said Alexander. "for nes not to he calm sine the conemy is coming to deliser himself into on hands ?" lmmediately he took up his arms memmed his horse, and rode up and down the anks, exhorting the troops to maintain, and, it possible, 10 surpass, their anciont lane and the glory they had hitherto acquired. Soldiers, on the day of bathe, imatine they seo the fate of the engagement painted in the face of their gemeral. A., for Alexamber, he had never appembed so (atha, so ghy, bor so resolnte The serenity and moromity which they observed in him were in a manner so many assurames of the victors. There was areat difdierne betwen the two armins with respect to mumbers, int much more so with recrard to couragre. That of Darins consisted at leatol bote, 000 foot and 40,000 horse, and the other of no more latter was all tire and strengeth; whereas, on the side of Ihe lersiams, it was a prodigions atmemhage of men, not of soldiers ; an cmpty phantom rather than a real army. |harin- wate-

5sing. STRENGTH by Piety. C'rometll. ('harlens II. Hed in hopeless desolation to France. Wexist as the pensioned pauper of the Fremelh king. The royal power was now fairly beaten down in England. Let the malignant ssecerer, who has mo words but commonplace abuse to bestow upon the great English hero, atwimpt to realize what the fand wonld have been, mast have heen, without him, rent in factions, ahnost all equally strong. An army then without a lember, dreany speculators determined to impose their theories npon the kinerionn, ame so intlier upon the land the miseries of anarehy, a in the Fremeln revolalion ; or the hormers of prserention, as in Boston and the New lioghand States. ('rommed was the fuwer raised bip ly Providence to sate Eng sand from this. Never in the history of the world had a man a more dilticult task to jerform ; lut he jurformed it, berarise lar bromght to the task, in addition to the most remarkable eombi-rales-in ablition to these, we sily, he lyought piety of ther sublimest order, and singlemese of purpose lofty as that of a [homex prophet, but ronjoined to a lateromes of toleration for ald religious difler moes, for which we know not where

 1. $16: 3$.

5i35*. STRENGTH, Physical. V'ithorof lirs in stature and siremght. It is maid of him. hat he conld lift firom their sidem lo an upright jou

 Boni.. J. :346.
 of Wishingtom's ame was displayed in several momerable in bances : in $\mathrm{l}^{-i s}$ flarowing a stome from the hed of the stream tothe top of the Natmal Bridge ; another . . . Weross the Rappahammok, at Frederickhburg. . . Numbers have since tried this feat, but nome have blared the water- - 'retis' Wasilivaron, wh. 1, ch. 2it.

万BiO. STRIFE, Choice in. E'termics or (hitdren. The qeneral voide of the kinglonn of France was now for peace : and the once hataghty Louis [XIV.], now miseralbly hmbleci, sent lis minister to negotiate in merson at the Ingur, where he met with the most mortifying tre 1. ment from Marlborough, Edrene. and the grama pernsionary Joinsius. They demameded nothiag. less. as a combition of peace, than that the king wh France should undertalse, at his own chateres. to dethrone his grandson I'hilip, ant won limited him to the space of two menthe for the fultilliner of this eondition. The spirit of tius atede lonis broke ont into the most just indignat fiom at this inhmman amd dishonorable propesal. "Since"" saly he, "1 must die tirhting, it siball her with stae chemies, and not with my chilatren." lle prepared, therefore, for a resolate continname of lhat war whirh was onle fo involve him in fresh misiortanes. [Wir with
 1. $400^{2}$.

5i3til. STRIFE, Conjugal. Pimmilietion. Tin amoiont Worship of the Romans afforded a peruliar sombless to hatr and reoomeile the rome planis of a married life: but her epithet of lieifleter, the apperaser of hashomens, foo celarly indieates on which side submission and refermane are always expected - (xibisox's Rome., ch. 4, 1. 349.
5362. STRIFE, Family. Ilvmincalle. It lroing the season when the pilgrimage attrarterd (1) Weceat the Arabs from all parts of the desert. they agreed to post themselves upon the rombe. to the cond of warniong the pilgrime against the novelties which a pretemded prophet, a nejhew
"f Xboutalels, was disorminabing as a sohism in the Kasha, " leet us also," they deliberated, "In ameed, brofe leaving the dity, upon what wo shall saty separately to the pilgrims, so that there may be no diserpmory betwern our several repmesentations." "Will we saly that he is a diviner: No, for he has meither the comonlsive and incoheremt :wemt, not the language fall of afferord ecomanames of the diviners. Shath W0 say that ho is a matoman? Bat his contioe extroin inspires dignity and reflection. Shatl wo say lor is a port? But he doresmot exprose himmoll in versa. Shall we say, in dine, that he is a wizand? But le does bot work mirat Hes; he protises none of the mystories of mare ir ; bis sole mande lies in the erofurnere and the Mrenasion ol his dips. Iat us saty, then, that he is a publir conemy, who, by his ailitioces, semw dismion among families, who poisons the affere tions, whos sucers brother from hrothor, son from
 'T:UKEx.

S36:3. STRIFE, Premâ̂ure. Jixhup /Furut. [Je was the private chaplatin of the wife of Willbim, l'rime of Orange. The English wore comsidering the que $"$ in of filling the throne made. vacant ly the thght of James H. to Frame ha cs mang William of Orange and making Mary only gucen gobsort, though she was the daughter of the fagitive king.] Sad the trave and bonest divine? "It would be menemly is me to mance. I hacequre desire to be set free, that I may tiglt the $]$ wess' hatle with every faculIy that frod hats riven mo." "I think, doctow." satid William, with chatracteristic cooluces. " that youl an better stay where youare. It will sureIy be lime for yon to guit me when I do something of which jou disaun rove." In a few hours the s, teme whirh had exrited Burnet's resentment was entirely given $\because \rho$, and all those who co."sidered bames as no longer king were agred as to the way in which the thanone must be filled. Willians and Nary must be king amd widern.-

S:3i1. STRIFE, Responsibility for. Jirmes I $/$.
 "ountry, left to the ninetcentha fatal heritage of 1:a! ligrath passions. No ammesty for the mutabl wromes intlicted by the sixam defembers of Londomdery, and by lise Colic defemares of Limrick, has evor been granted from the heart by whor rame. Too this day a more tham Spartan hateratimens alloys the many noble qualitios which ehatacterize: the ehablen of the victors, while a Iledot leelinge, compommer of awe and hatrad, is not too often discornibla in the chitdren of the vanquinhed. Xefther of the hostile chirl blame in due to the short-sighted and headstroner priace [Jamos ll.] who, phaced in a situation in which he might havereronciled them, (amployed all his power to intlame their minmos ity, and at length lowed them to close in a grap.
 1. $11 \%$

5i3ti5. STRUGGLE, Fierce. I'tul Jomes. On the $2: 31$ of Soptember Pand Jomes, cruising off the romst of Soothand with a flotilhat Fremela and Ameriean vessels, fell in with a Heet of British morehantmen, convoyed by two men-of war.

The Jattle that ensmed was blooly bevond pree. chlent in maval warfare For an home and a balf the Surapis, a British figate of forty-fomer shot. Then the vessels, both in at sinkimer condition, wore run alongede and lashe] together. 'The marimes fonght with the fury of madmen, matil the sumpisermek her colotis. domes haslily transfereral his men to the complored ship, ing lbritish ship was alse altarked amb (alptaral. Sodesperate was the engerment, that of the 3 ain

 1. 238.

5:306. STRUGGLE, Hopeless. liulle w livel.
 (arnara. Gemeral Barnside womblate brnewed the battle, but his division eommanders tinally divsuated him, and on the nispht of the finth [of December] the Federal uray was si lently with Enion losses in this teribla complich amounted to and missing. The Confoderates low in killerd 595, 406 I wounded, samb (0.3is missing and prisoners. Of all the important movemonts of the war, only that of Frederiekslourg was molertaken with no probability of success. Under the plan of the battle-if plan it might be callednothing could be reasoniably experted but repulae. rout, and min. 'Thus, in gloom and disaster to the Federal eamse, ended the great campaime of Tilerary merits of ('harlemarne: are athented by the foundation of sehools, the interometion of afts, the works whieh were published in his name, and his familar aometeron with the subjects and strargers whom he inviled to his comrt io educate both the prince and people. IVis own studies ware tardy, laborious, and intorelect; if he spoke Latin and understood Greek, Je derived the rudiments of knowledge from convermation rather than from looks ; and in his matfare are the emperof strove to ategnire the practier of writing, which evory peasint now learns in his infancy-(inmon's Romet, (h. 49), 1). $4 \%$.

 lemagne was an intelatigible student: and the impulse of his persomal eximple, patronage, and superintendence produced dferts which, consideriner the ciremmstances of the times, fro tmaly womlerfus, and redound to his remal honor. History jresents to us few more striking spectacles than that of the great monareh of the West, surrounded by the prineses and princesses of his family and the chief personages of his brilliant court, all content to sit as learners at the fect of their Anglo-saxon preceptor 11 ruin in the "sthool of the palare" at dix-la-Chapelle.-Students' Fancer, ch. 5, p. 73 .
5369. STUDENTS, Folly of, (inldwmith. ( $\mathrm{H}_{1}$ one occasion we tind him implicated in an affair that eame nigh producing his expulsion. A report was brought to college that a scholar was in the hands of the bailifs. This was in invilt in which every gownsman felt himsilf involved.

sallied forth to battle, headed be a hare brained fellow nick-named Gallows Withh, noted for his apthess at miselicef and fomdmes for riot. 'The stronghold of tha hailifl was carried by storm, the scholar set at liberty, und the delin(ftent catehpole bornc oll eaptive to the collerere. where, haviner no promp to put him umder, they satistied the demands of collegiate law hy duck iner him in an ohe ristern. Fhashed wibl this sigmal vidory, fallows Walsh now Jamagned lise lollowers, aral proposed to break apen Sew. (ratr, of the black lour, ats the prison was called, atal effere a quacral jail elelivery. De was answered by shouts oil concomeacer mal away went the throner of malatio yomorsters, bully bent ifen putting an end to the tyrany of law.
 male am athack upeni the prison with trac Irish procipitation and fhoughtlessumes, never having protided themselven with emmon to batter its stome walls. I fow shots from the prison brought them lor their sensis, and ther peat a hasty retreat, two of the townsmen being killerl :and several wombled.-lıviNu's Gobbsimitu, (11. 2), 1). 2t.
5370. STUDIES, Ancient. Licifu of Thowloric. [Bocthins was :m honored scholate. For the lumetit ol his latin reaters, his wemins salmittend 10 teach the tirat clements of the arts and sciconees of (rexere. The geometry of Euclid, the music: of Pytheroms, the arithmetie of Nicom anchas, the mordanies of Arehimedtes, the as(ronomy of Peolemy, the theology of Plato, and the logite of Arix ile, with the commentary of Porphyry. were tramslated amd illustrated by the indefatigable jent ol the IBomian senator. Alml low alome was estermed rapable of deseribing the wonters of art, a sum-dial, a water flock, or a sphere which represented the motions of the phanets. . . Such eomppicuoths morit wass felt and rewarded by a liswromer prince: the dignity of Bocthins was adormed with the tilles of consul and patridian, and his talente wore usefully emplosed in the imjertant tation of mas-
 1. 33.
 Upon the completion of his collewe routre, lat studiod law for fiow youre, will sut :anduity most mansual in the hidir to a goond cslate. Ifa had a clock in his bedroom, inml his rule in the hamds, and in winter he rose miformly at dive. Imelnding the time piased in music and readiner, he nsmally sornt fontern homms of every diay at his stmbies; three of whieh, hes tells us, were somethme's spat in prattining on the violin. Theme hats seldom bern a gommer man of fortume who lived more purely hain he. He noither practised the viees nor indalored the passions of his class in the Virginia ol that day. LIe never fuarredled; he never gambled. IIis month was imocent of tobnero. He never drank to excess. -Cyedrema or Broi., p. 34 .
5872. $\square$ lremeatent Madison. Of all the public men who have tioured in public life in the United Siatos, he was the most studious and thoughtful. The eldest sos of a rich Vir. ginial planter, ho wity yet so deroted to the acfutisition of knowledre that, for monthes together at I'rinceton (obllere, he allowed himself but Wher hours' slemp out of the twenty fentr-an - xeess whiel injured his bendth for all the rest of bis life. He nyperad to live wholly in the world of ideas. Daniel Wehster reekomed him the ablest expoumder of the (oustitution, and Thomms Jeflerson pronommed him the leest hatel in Virunian. Withont leoing a brilliant orn. for, he was an execellont argmmentutive speaker amd always eonciliated the ferelings of his oppor nents by the gentlemess of his demomor tand bina., p. sis.

5:37:3. STUDY, Preparation by. Jolin Milton. With aspimations thas vinst, though monormed, with "amplitude of mind to greatest deeds.; Nilton retired to his father's danse in the commtry. Five more years of selfechacation, maded to the seven yeas of acodemical residence, were not too murh lor the meditation of projeets such as Milton was already eonerejoing. Years many more than twalve, filled with great events and distracting interests, were to pass over before the body and shape of " larialise dast" was given to Dhese inaginings.-l'artison's MasToN, (h. :。

5i874. - John Milton. Intil lee was 1hirty-one John Milton was a stadent, and nothing but a student; tirst, at home, at his fialher's side; next at a ereat London grammararhool; then at C'ambridge Liniversity ; ufterward at sis father's loonse in the comintry ; and timally in forejgn conntries. During all this long period of preparation he was $n$ most diligent. carnest, and intense stadent. Jo was probably the best Iatin sehohar hat ever lived who was not. a native Roman of Cierros day.-CrcaoPEDAA of Bhog., p) 168 .
5375.

Napoleon $I$ [II is entire carly life was devoted to intense study. When wenty-two years o. age he was promoted to a tirst liemenaney, and visited his native land on furlongh.] Upon returning to the home of his childhood, to spend a few months in rural leisure, the first object of his attention was to prepare for hinself a study, where he could be sechuled from all interraption. For this purpose he selected a room in the attic of the house . . . he passed days and nights of the most incessint mental toil, Ite sought no recreation; he seldom went out ; he seldom saw any company.AbBotr's Ninoleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 1.
5376. STUPIDITY, Hopeless. Reign. of Jumues II. [The invasion of England by William of Gmage was welcomed hy comspicuons men who desorted dames 1 .] The impenetrable stupudity ol Jrince ( P (orge served his than on this oecasion better than eanning wosta have donc. It was his habit, when any me we was told him, to "xcham in French, " Ext-il possble ?" "ls it possible?" 'This 'iatehword wes now of great use to him. "Est-il possible "" lys. aried, when he had been made to madersiand that Churchiil and Grafion [Jimes'grenerals] vere missiner. And when the ill thdings came from Warminster he agran ejaculated, "Ent-i! possible "' Prince (George and Ormond were invited to stj) with the king at Andover. The meal mont have been a sad one. The kjeg was overwhelmed by his misfortanes. Ilis son-in-law was the dullest of companjons. "I have tried Prince George sober," sain! (harles II., "and I have tried him dromk ; ind, dronk or sober, there is mothing in him." 'Ormond, who was through life tueiturn and hashful, was not likely to he in high spirits at suleh a momont. At leugth the repmet terminated. The king retired to rest. IJorses were in wating for the prince and Ormond, who, as som as they left the table mounted and roble off. |'lhey deseded to the king's enemy.]-Macad-

5:377. STYLE, Adaptation of. Luther. I wonld have suleh a trisislation as would dereve to be read hy all ('hristians, for I bope we would be able to present to Germany a better translation than is the Latin versjon. It is a great work, and worthy of our mited lahors, since it ourht everywhere of be found and to conduce to the gemeral welfare of the people. In two months Lather had completed the translation of the New 'Tcsiament. "] Imashated not only St. Aohn's Gospel," says Inther, " lut the entire New 'Testament, while I was in l'atmos [his blace of comeralment]. And now lhilip (Nohanch(hom) and I have begnon to polish it onï, and with (iod's help it will be a tine piece of work. For my lallow-dormans was I born, and them will I serve!" And in order that he might do this right well, he gucstioned the mother at lome, the children in the streets, and the conmon laborer in the market. The terms of cont and palacerhe eould not use, said he. And thas he neeomplished the eompletion of a truly popular, glorious work, which proved to be the foundation and eorner-stone of his Reformation labors.-REAv's Jutimen, ch. 10, p. 99.
5378. SUBJUGATION intolerable. Reign of James II. [Irish troops were brought over to aid James in supplanting the lrotestant. religion.] The Englishman. . . knew that grent numbers of Irish had repeatedly fled before a small English foree, and that the whole Irish population had been held down by a small English colony ; and he very compiacently inferred that he was maturally a being of a higher order than the Irishman ; for it is thas that adominant race always explains its ascendency and excuses its tyranny. That in vivacity, hamor, and eloguence the lrish stand higli among the nations of the world, is now universmlly acknowledged. That, when wad disciplined, they are excellent soldiers, has been proved on a hmadred tields of battle; yet it is certain that, a century and a half ugro, they were generally despised in our istand as both is stupid and a cowardly people. And these were the men who were to hold Englamel down by man force while her civil and ecelesiastionl ionstitution was destroyed. The blood of the whole mation boiled at the thought. Macallay's Eng., ch. 9, p. 394.
5379. SUBJUGATION, Oppressive. Mahomet IT the Great. The Greeks remained under the do winion of the grand signior in a state of opprescion little short of slavery; they were sufferea, however, of retain their religion and their laws. They ware allowed, paying a small tribute, to 6 rry on a little commerce and caltivate their lands. The Jatriarchis revenues menst, at least, have been eonsidierable, as br .. .it aid b. to the exphequer of the gran ? : $\therefore$ ii, whe in other to the otticers of the Pinte. '1... ere it ent the tribute of children. Every father lans been compelled to give one of hissons to servermong the janizaries or in the seraglio, or to pay f sum for his ransom. - Typhen's IIsti, Book 6, - li. 13, p. 211.

5iB*O. SUBLIMITY, Influence of. I'yralmidls. The whole nrmy instinctively halterl mind gated awestricken upon those momments of matiguity. The face of Napoleon bamed with enthasiasm. "Soldiers," heexdaimed, whe hede along the ranks, "from those summits forty renturies contemplate your urtions!"'The arder of the soldiers was aroused to the highese pitel. - Ambott's Napolieon B., vol. 1, ch. 11.

53E1. SUBMISSION, Humiliating. Richerel IT. 'Though is prince of some spirit, lue was pos. vessed of a very weak maderstamling, mbindoned to his pleasimes, mad a slave to unwortly fivoritas. By their persuasion, and to erontily his revenge as well as his avarice, he contiseatal, on a spections protence of treason, ther cstate of his unde. Ilemry of Lancaster, Duke of II reford, a prince of great resolution and ability, and, by deseent from II mry lII., of no remoto premensons to the throne of lingland. White the king was employed in quellinir an insurrece tion in Ireland, Hemry of Lancaster, who was in high favor with the people, fomm merms to bevy a very formidable army; he engaged the Earl of Northumberland in his interest, imed prevailed on York, then viceroy in the king's abssuce, to give him no opmosition; while, as he pretemderl, all that he had in view was the recovary of his estate. Ridhard, on his return from Triand, foumd Lancaster at the hand of his props, determined to wrest from him the possession of the crown ; his numbers were inconsidcrable, and diminished by dewertion to his rival. larsistance he saw was vain while the body of the people were his enemies. Lameaster told him the was a novire in the art of government. and that he would tench him how to role the people of England; to which the submissive monareh is said to have replied, "Fair cousin, since it pleases yon, it plases us likewise." Richard, confined in the Tower, was aeconsed of maladministration, and condemned by Parliament, who solemily dejosed him from the throne; he was contined a prisoner in the castle of Pontefract, and atherward privately assasi-

5382. SUBMISSION of Soul. Pemilential. [Rev. Freeborn Garretson wasa larylamd fimmer when the leceme awakened to a sense of lis personal need of salvation.] Under the preaching of the hev. Damiel Ruff he was " so oppressell he could searcely support his lurden:" and riding homeward throngh a lonely wood, agonized by a sense of his sinfulness and of the necessity of regeneration, he dismounted and began to pray. But his prayer was for forbearance that he might yet delay till a more convenient scason. Resuming his ride, he was again arrested with an overpowering conscionsmess that "now is the arrepted time, now is the day of sulvatiom." "I threw," he says, "the reins of my bridle on the horse's neck, and putting my liands together, cried out, Lord, I submit!". . . "The cmmity of my heart was slatin, the plan of salvation was open to me.". . . "My soul was so excreding happy that it seemed as if I wanted to take wing and fly awny to heaven, "-strabing M. E: C'ulucin, vol. 1, p. 3at.

5:BE:3. SUBSTITUTE, A happy. Paserution. Queen Mary, luving dealt severely with the l'rotestants in England, about the linter end of her reign signed a commission for to take the same course with them in Irelnod: and to exrCute the same with greater fores, she nominates Dr. Cole one of the commissioncts. This doetor coming with the commission to ('hester, on his journey, the mayor of that rity, henring that har Majesty was sending a messinger into Irehand, nud he beirg a churchmon, waited on the doctor, who, in discourse with the mayor, taketh out of at clomk-bug a lemther box, siying unto him. "II rere is n rommission thent will lash the hereties of Ireland " (calling the J'rotestants hy that title). The good woman of the house, being well afferted to the Protestunt religion, and also having a brother, named John Ehmonds, of the same, then a citizen in lublin, was much tronbled at the doctor's words; but watehing her convenient time, while the mayor took his leave and the dextor complimented him down-stuirs, she opens the box, takes the commission out, and phaces in lien thereof a shect of paper with a park of cards wrapped up therein, the knave of clabs being faced uppermost. The doctor coming up to his chanker, suspecting nothing of whit hat been done, put up the box us formerly. The next day, going to the water-side. wiad and weather serving him, he sails toward Ireland. . . . IIe presents the hox mito the lord deputy, who causing it to he opened, that the secretary might read the commission, there was nothing save a pack of cards, with the knave of cluhs uppermost; which not only sturtled the lord deputy and comeit, but the doctor, who nssured them he had a commission, but knew not how it was gone. Then the lord-depnoty made answer. "Let us have another commission, and we will shufle the cards in the mean while." The doctor, being troubled in his mind, went away, and returned into Enghand.-T'yThere's Hisí', IBook 6, ch. 20, p. 303 .
533. 1. sUCCESS, Changes by (i,lmmbus. One can hardly recognize in the individual thus made the companion of princes, and the theme of genrall wonder and admiration, the same ohseme stranger who but a short time before had been at common seoff and jest in this very court, derided by some as an adventurer, and pointed at by others as a madman. Those who hat treated him with contumely during his loner course of solicitation now sought to efface the remembance of it by adalations. Every one who had given him a little cold comentere or a few courtly smiles now arrogated to himself the credit of having here a patrom and of having promoted the discovery of the New Work.Invine's Col,cmars, Book 5, ch. 7 .
5385. SUCCESS, Dangerous. Rirulry. It was in 1813. when, in comsequence of the presence of two large armies, a malignant typhus fever raged, and the sick became so numerous that it was necessary to divide them among the city physicians. Seventy-biree cases fell to the share of Dr. Hahnemam, all of whon he treated on the homeropatice system, and all of wom rerowered, exiept one old man. This striking sucerss, while it inereased the number of his discondd not go into the streets without heing hoeted at and insulted. Compelled arnin to tako. llight, he fomed refuge at the obsenve empital of one of his diseiples, the Duke of Anludt. But wern there he was not safe from persecotion. sieveral times the windows of his house were broken, and he seddom ventured ont of doors.-

5:3\%6. $\qquad$ - . Alcibiades. Whon Tinon. famed for his mismondropy, san Aldibums eondurted home wihg great henor trom the phace of nssembly, he did not shan him, as he did other men, but went up to him, and shaking him by the hand, thus addressed him:

- Goon, my binve loy, mad prosper ; for your prosperity will briug on the ruin of ant this "rowd." This ocensioned several rell ctions; some hanged, some railed, and others were extremely moved at the saying. So vimions were the judgments formed of Alditimedes, by renson of the inconsistemey of hischaracter.-Phemben's Alchbiades.

5397. SUCCESS, Dangers of. Inmortlizution. I undee knew the qualities of the rare [Highlanders] which he was groing to lead ngainst the rerular troopsof the new govermment [that of William 1II.]. They were most to be fenred in the home of sucerss. " In buttle the peint to which they heme their uthost eftoms, mad which they :י"e most anxions to 'arry, is that chemite' haggan If that onere fials into their hands, dispegarding all discopline and oaths, and lraving their colors. fome they rum."-('cxavimam, winght's Exa., vol. 5, ch. 6, 1. 9?.
5:3*w. SUCCESS, Delusive. ('hurtis (iementyrar. | Hemet many discomagements in expromenting with india-rubher, and was bronght to bitterest poverty.] Another time Mr. Goonyenn thought he had suceceded in euring india rubber by mixing it vith quicklime. In made some specimens of india-mbiber cloth, which had an clegant apporamere: butater enjoying his trimula a few flats he foumed, to his dismay, that the weakest acid, such is apple-juice, orange-juice, or vinem:a and water, dropped upon his choth, dissolved
 p. 217.

53a9. SUCCESS deserved. Bonjamin Franklin in Phillellephier. Onthe deep foumblations of sobricty, frugality, and industry the young [runaway jonmeyman [se wheren yours odd] built his fortumes and his fane ; and he soon came to have a printing odice of hisown. Toiling early and Jate, with his own hands he set typesimel worked at the press ; with his own hands he wond trundle to the oflice in a whedbarrow the rams of paper which he was to ase. Dis ingennity was such that he conld form leters, make types and woodeuts, and engrave vignettes in copper. The assembly of Pemusylvania resperted his merit, and (hose him its printer.-B.incrorr's L'. S., vol. 3, ch. 233.
53500. SUCCESS, Disaster a. Quern. Inne's Witr. A.D. 1711. An English sepuadron, under Bir ilovenden Walker, ascemded the St. Lawsence to attack Qurbec. By his incomurtenry and obstinacy] cight ships had been wrecked and right humdrad mad cirfhty-four men drowned. A council of war vonel hatamously that it was imposible to prowed. "Hat wenrived anfent Quebere" wrote thendmiral. "tenor twelve thonmad men must have beroll "t to perish of eoble and hamer ; by the loss savedall the rest:" and her os part. Providence as ghorious as a victory,-banctorris L'. S., vol. 3, ch. :l.

5:301. SUCCESS by Duplicity. Lomis N\% It. was a ronsummate manter of flo artsol diximuhation and dupliefy; he made it the main business of his life to overvact mad diremment others, and acromited sucerssfal l'mad the mast rompicuots proof of talent. Wherehis prederessors would have employed volenere. Lomis trusted to cajolery, corruption, and pertidy. He madrastood to prifertion how to play oif one Mass of interes against mother ; how to suatere the sereds of division and estrangement so ats th protit afterward by the diseord he had fomentcal. Louis realized his objects as a sovereign hy surriticing without soruple all his obligntions as

5392. SUCCESS, Encouraging, Batlle of Twontom. Alunt the doth of December the weather brame very eold, and loy the evening of the 只体 the river was filled with tloating ice. . . Washington's divicion surceeded in greting over, but the passure was delayed till there odeck in the morniny All bope of remeding Trenton before: daybeak was at an end; but Washingtom, believing that the Ilessians would slecp latration therer revels, divided his army into tworolamas, and presse:!' forn wd. Onedivision, Jed by sul livan, passed down the river to altark the town on the west : the other, commanded by Washing ton and chreone. made a circuit to the Princetom rowd The mowement was eatirely successfin. Neary a thonsand of the dremed llessime thew down theiramanal berged fin nerey. Before nightald Whaington, with his victorions men and the whole body of eaplives, was salfe on the other side of the Delaware. The batthe of Trenton ronned the nation from dexpondeney. Cont dence in the commander and hope in the altimate: sumes of the Americall cimsis wre everywhere

533:3. SUCCESS, Fortunate. Roman kimpermr Ifmerins. The remaindar of the reign of llonorius wis undisturted hy rebellion; and it may be chacered that, in the spare of five years. seven umbjers had yielded to the fortune of at prinees, who was himself incapable rither of counsil or of artion.-Giblow's Rome, ch, :31, 1. 3ur.

5:39.1. SUCCESS, Genius for. Freteriok the rirat The net seremed to have closed combshetcdy round him. The Russians were in the tield. and were spreading devastation through his castern provines. Silesia was overrm by the Anstrians. A sreat French army was manacing from the west under the command of Marshal Soubise, a prinere of the great Armoricam house of Rohims. Berlin itself had been taken aud Mundered by the Croatians. Such was the sitHation from whirh Frederick extricated himself, wiha dazaling glory, in the short space of thiry days. [lle defented the French November © amd the Sumrians on Derember 5.!- Macat

S395．success by Gentleness．I／insiomarics． On a low ishand of harren gatisarock off thre west romest of Scothand an Irish reluger，Colnim－ In，hal rased the famons mission－station of Jom． It was whinin its walls that（oswald in voati found refuge，and on his necession to the throme al Northambrin he colled for missiommeles frem among its monks．＇The flrst predeler nent in answer to his call obtained little sumeres．He deednred on his return that mange a people so stmblorn and burbarons as the Northambrinu folk success was impossible．＂Whs it their stablornmess or your severity ？＂asked Aldan，a brother sitting by ；＂clid you forgrat（iod＇s word to pive them the milk llrst and then the meat ？＂ Ali eyes turned on the speaker as tittest to un－ ulertake the nlmadoned mission，and Ailant，sail－ jng at their bideling，tixod his bishop＇s sere in the island jeminsuln of limblishorme．Themee，from a monastery which gave tothis spot itsalter mame of Joly Ishand，peathers poured forth over the wanted this kime of slory．Ja himuell infomms us，that daring the whole comese of his life， Whieh was pretty long，the lmppiness of it was never interrapted by any unformmate acedent ； and that in all his designs the sureess had an－ swered his mimost expertation．But he arepatints us at the same time with another thing almost incredible，ame which was the sontree of all that moderation and evemmess of temper so comspicu－ ons in him，and for which he can nevor le sulll－ （irwely admired－namely，that in the midst of his minintermpted prosperity he still preserved in his heart aseret fear，proceoding from the a）－ prebension of the elumpes and misfortunes that might happen；and this prudent fear was not ondy a preservative agoinst insobence，but even agninst intemperate joy．－Romas＇s Jlist．，Book 4，art．：？冬 3 ．

 lumbus sifled in secomel time．with a tlect of seven－ teen ships，and returned aftor the diseovery of the Garibioe Jsands and of Jamaican．But his －nemones，jealous of the repulation he had ne－ ${ }^{1}$ Hided，bad prevailed on the court of syain to seud along with his tleet an oltheer，who，in the character of justiciary，might ristablish such rex． ulations in the new colonios ns were most for themivantage of the Spanish（Boverumont＇This oflicer，on areonnt of some dilferences between Columbers and his soldiers，put the sdmiral in iroms on board his own ship，and returmed with Jim a prisomer to spain，＇lhe court，it is true． repmired this affront in the bert mamer jossible． －J＇yorer＇s llint．，Jook 6，rh．21，p．30．）．

万ispen．SUCCESS，Joys of．（inlumbut．Is he aprormeded the shore，（ohlmbers，who was dis． posed for all kindsof nereeable imprestons was chelighted with the purity and stavity of the at mosphere，the erystal transpareney ol the seas and the ratratotinary beanty of the veratiation．
 the trees which overhung the shores．On land－ fing he direw himself on his knets，kisuad the arth，and retnrned thanks to（xorl with tars of joy．Ilis extmole was followed hy the rest， whose hearts inded overtowed with the same feedings of gratitude．．．．The fertinge of the crew now burst forth in the most extrivamant transports．＇They hut recontly eonsidered thenin selves devoted men，horrying forward to ilestruc－ tion ；they now lookid upon themselves ns fa－ vorites af fortme，and gave themselvers in to tha most mboumded joy．They thromged aromme the ndmignl with ovirllowing zonl，some cmbrac－ ing him，others kiswing his hands．Those who， luml been most mutinous und turhulent darling the voyage wore bow most devoted and enthin． sinstid．－litinots（＇oliomuen，Book 3，ch．b．

5i399．SUCCESS，Lines of．Cincral Grunt． ［After tifteen vemes military survice be resigned
 bouis．］Jlis farming did mot serm to prospere farm going ；so lo lamal wood in winter to（＇a． romblelet，mad solil it les the corel． $\qquad$ But even this was not sulldacolit to support him comfort ably，and so he hexame collector of other peoplese elehits．Jhat lar was surbin a poor hamil ut dian－ ning ．．there sedened n very peor lookont for him．［lle sucrerded in war，if mot in perace．］－

5．100．SUCCESs，Misunderstood．Ilimmihul． Afor this great sucoess［in vantuishing the Ro． mun army］Ilannibal＇s friands ndvised him to pursme his fortame，mal to enter Rome along with the fugitives，assuring him that in five elays he might sup，in the Capitol．It is not many tu． conjoctare whint his renson was for not taking this step．Most probably somedeity opposed it． mad therefore inspired him with this hesitatlon and timidity．On this accomnt it was that a C＇arthoginian，named Baren，said］to him，with some heat，＂Mamnilal，you know how to grain a victory，hat not how to ase it．＂－Pletaberis Famia Maximis．

5．O1．SUCCESS a Necessity．Iirmotion．＇TJre＇ news ol the exmation of Lonis XVI．was re－ ceived in France with awe and terror，and ex－ cited throughout Enrope an ontery of grief nud indignation．Apnrt from its scamblalons in justice mad eruclty，the crime was regnorled，both at home and abroad，as an act of hostile defiance lannelied agtainst all thrones and all established govermments ；it placed France in a position of miniversal aggression and antagomism．＂I＇here is no going back now，＂exclained［Jean Paul］ Marat；＂we must either prevail or perish！＂ And the army sent a depmation to thank the Convontion for having refluced them to the nepes－ 号 1.

5．102．SUCCESS overruled．Ilrimmiter．Alex－ modor，atitor having lett Patala，manehed throngh the country of the Orite． Here he was in surb want of provisjons，that helost agrant mmm－ ber of sobliors，and broutrht hark from India scaree the fourlh part of his army，which had consisted of $1 \geqslant 0,000$ foot and lo，ofto horse． sickuses，land food，and the exeressivo leats hatd swopt thens away in multiturles：but fannin＂ made a still wredter hatvor among the trooge in this barmencountry，which was hejther plogened nor soworl，its inlabitants being savages，who fared very lard，and dad a most unconifortable lilr．Afler they hand eatenall the palm－tree roots that could be med with，thay were obliged to fered ugon the beaste of burden，and next npon their war horses；and when they hat no beasts left th carry their laggage, they were forced to burn those rieli spolls, for the sake of which the Macedonhans had rim to the extremities of the earth. The phague, the usmal nttomant upon famber, completed the cahmity of the soldiers, and destroyed great mumbers of them.-lion.ILN's llinc., Brok 15, 多 17.
510:B. suCCESS by Perseverance. Demosthrmex. The time ensay of his elopmenere was agatinal his guardians, whom he obliged to refund a part of his fortune. Ehwourared by this sule. "ess, he volutury :o speak belore the perpple, tat with very ill fortune. Ite hald a wak voine. int inapediment in his speech, mul a very shart so louge, that he was olten obliged to stop in the milst of thom to tuke breath. 'This orcasionnd his being hised hy the whole mulionere, from wheme he retired iliscouraged, and denemined to renounce forever a function of which her bo. lieved himself ineapmble. One of his muditors. who, through all these imperfections, hat ohserved an exeellont fund of genins in him, and a kinil of eloguenee which canue very neme that of Periches, gave him new spirit from the grategrood advice which he added to it. We vemumed, therefore, to "ppara a serond time belore the people, amd was ab better roorived than belore. As he withorew, hamging down his ham, mat in the utmost comfinsion, sallyrus, one of the most excellent actors ol those times, who was his friend [gave him comouragement mad adrioc]. We stammered to such a degree, bhat he could not pronomace some letters, among oflers that with which the natur of the art hae studied begrins: and he was so short-hertherl that he combla at lengeth overcmane these ofolatles ly palling small pobles into his routlo ad promonamer areval serses in that mamue wishout intermi) tion ; :and that pern when walking, and groing hather mande him hesiate, mad his hremh held omt. through the lomenat prionts. If weme alsor to the seaside, and while the waves were in the most violdent aritation he pronomed haramene. foarenstom himsell', by the confused noise of the waters, to the roar of the people mat the thmaltomes a ries of publie assemblies. Dormonhenes took mo less care of his actions than ot his voice. He had a large looking-ghass in his homse, which served to teack him gestare, and at which he used to dee laim before he spoke in public. 'To correct if finlt which he had contracted by inn ill habit, of rontimally shrugering his shomblers, he practised standing apright in a kind of very narrow pulpit or rostrum, over whicll hang it halbert, in such a mamner that, if in the heat of action that motion escaped him, the point of tho weabom might serve at the same time to admonish and contert him.-Romav's Hs:r., Book 13, 8.
5101. SUCCESS, Premature. Churles Ginodyrar. Coming io his shop one morning, un Irishmm in his employ net him the door in high spirits. saying that ho hat found ont the great seeret and beaten a lankee, pointing to his trousers, which he had dipped into one of the barrels of sap. They were so nierly conted over with the your thought that perlape Jorry had bundered Into the secerct. 'I'he man sat down to his work on the top of a cons. On nttempling to rise a few minutes atiter, he fomud himself glued to his sent, and his legr stack tight together. Ile hani to be cut out of his tronsers, amid the lamph-13. $21 \%$.

 the winter of $18 \cdot \mathrm{~A}-15 \mathrm{Mr}$. Jowe workend at his mathine. Ilis conception of what he intewded to pronluce was so chenr nand complete, that has was little delayed hy fallures, lut worked on With ahmost as much cerbinty and stanlinese as though he had a morid bufore him. In A pril has
 May, Nat, he fat comple tom his work. In luly he wred ber his mathine all the semme of two atik of woillen clothes-one suit lior Mr. Fishore and the wher for himselt, the swing of beth Bhas., p. 18:
idOf. SUCCESS, Remarkable. Ciril Hirr. From the :uth of dunte to the lat of Demember
 "ight handred miles [in Minsourid, avarapinge 10,000 nen during the time. . . They fonght the buttles amt at least thirty skirmishes.
Not a werk passeal without engagementand somes sort. They started wihout a dollar, without it wagon or temm, withont a cartridge /having rifl'c, shotguns, etr. ], without a bayonet-ginn. (In the hat of sippember they hatd ahiut eight thousamil hayomer-russ, ifty pieces of cmanon, fome hamdreif tents. . . for nemely all of whish they were imbluted to their own strong arms in hatle: and to the prodigality of the enemy. - Pomambis Funs Yisu of the Wha, th. 5, p. 15:3.
5107. - - Fothe. A man who, in (atry life, rising almost at a simgle bound into the highost reputation over all E'ureper ; lay grambal alyancos, fixing himself more and mote tirmbe in the revernce of his rombtrymen, as comes silently thromph many vi-issitudes to the aprome intelletath phace among them: and now, alter half a century, distinguishod by convalsions, pelitian, moral, and poetian, still refirns, full of years and honors, with a soft, undisputal sway; still laboring in his voration, still forwarling, tis with kingly lenimity, whatever can protit the culture of lios mallon ; such : matm might justly atrach our motiow, wrere itonly by the singularity of his tirtam formivises Gomate cha. 1.
5.108. SUCCESS, Reputation by. Hianliongltum. When [lomis] Kossuth visited lare lamin of Washingtom, he stome sitent lefore it for suremal minutes, and then said, as he turned to leaver the phace, "Ilow mecessary it is to he successful!" - Crandema or bion., p. Bet.

5s09. SUCCESS, Reputation by. English I'/". Lets. Yorksinemenare the Yankees of old Enslami ; they are sharper, fougher, more enterprising and prsevering, less amiable and polite, than the people of the more sonthern cometies of England. Some of them are exepedingly hatrd hargainers, and very rough in their manners. Take them for ali in all, however, they are the people that contribute most to the strenglin and prosperity of the British empire ; and it is not uncommon to mext anong them men in whom are hupplly unlted the force of a Yorkwhitreman with the suavity of a man of lént or Sussex.-Cyelorthint of Broa,. p, B06.

SH10. sUCCESS, Stspa to. Imr. M/mr(m". |ln
 the yommer man one day, that perhaps a way might be diseovered of lessening haman semsibility to pain. Itr had not received a seidentite ednemtion, nor had he more arientitle: knowleofge than in litelligent yomur man would maturaty phssess who land passed through the ordimary sehools of a New lingland towin. hastend of ricmorting to bowke, or consulting ment of sidence, he began, from time to time, wexpriment with varions well-known substances. First la 1 riad dramghte of wine and brandy, somethene to la. intoxication of the patient ; but as seon as the Instrument was appliad, consedonsmen revived, and lomig before theserement tooth wasomt, the pationt, though mot perlectly nware of what whs going on, was ronriner with agony. He triad hamalred drojs, and opinm in masises of ten arrins, frecmently renewing the dose until the patiant would be in a combition truly depmombe. Dr. Morton records in his diary, that on ond orcaston he gave a hady live handred drops of handanum in forty-five minutes, which did indered lessen the pmin of tho oprration, but it took har a whole werk to reeover from the afferte of the mareotic.-C'velarmenta of Bion., 1. 6:3.

क.111. sUCCESS, Surprising. Rommus. ['The tirst Punice war. | 'Thus, the Rommas, after a war of twenty fomr years, begun under every disadvantuge, devtitute of timances, totally umprovided with a lle er, and, of course, ignorant of muignlion, wher, at lough, able of prescribe the mest humilianing (ermsto corthare, the tiret maritime
 -h. 9, p. 3il.
-112. SUCCESS vs. Tactics. Siquelem I. [. 1 ftar dignamly :. . ." This beardless boy onght to have berem baten over and over ngatin for whomer saw such tactioss! The horkherad knows mothing of the rules of war. To-lay he is in our rear, to-morrow on our liank, mad the mext day arain in our fromt. Such gross violations of thie relah). lished principles of war are insufferable."- 1 s: motio's Naroleon B., vol. 1, ch. $i$.
5413. SUCCESS, Unenjoyed, Julies (ipwor. Ihe was rrowing weat of the thanklers burden. IIe was heard often to say that he had lived long enongh. Men of high nature do not tind the task of governing their fellow-ereatures particularly delightful.-Fuocde's C.Esar, ch. :2t.
5.114. sUCCESS, Want of. Gimeral Grant. A strong man by mature, . . . he had to leam by failhres how to win ullimate success. . . We find that hoth heand Sherman, who, at the close of the war, stood up as our foremost generals, ame very near loing removed from command lor their mistakes, or, at least, want of success.

The Govermment was determined to consign Grant to disgrace, and would have done so but for the strenuous, persistent cfforts of a single friend, Mr. Washburne.-Meadmev's Geverih Grant, p. 2i).
5415. success by Weakness. British. During many years the great British monarchy, under four sumesestive primes of the lomare of Sturt, Was searcely a more important member of the Europeran system than the litile kinghom of scooland had previonsly heron. This, hows "ver, is little to be regretted. of dames I ., as of John, It may be suld, that if his mominisitration haul beron atble and splemdid, it would prohally have beron fatal to our comatry, and that we owa more to his wenk messes mud memmesses than to xien. "In the dry after the aswasination of Mr. limeoln. Andrew Johmson tow the moll of of dier, and became Prexident of the [isited states. He was a mative of Norfl tarolima, born in lia.

 samages of coluation. he passed his hos hand in powerty and beglect. In twith he removel with his mother io T'mansser, and setted at dremsille. Itare lue was married to an intedligen lady, who tughat him to write ant eiphere. llere, by dime of mave talson, fore of will, and strmght of Jilf. SUFFERINGS, Unspeakable. /Ir. M / int. He was one of the eminemt luch comminiomad by the govermonent to cxamine the prisomers of war whom Jollerson Dasis had starved and tortbred at Andersomville, Salishury, mad Brille Inle. On his return, he was asked whether the newapaper reports of their condition were exager mated. "My deat loy," he exdamed, with horror depicteal on his comitemance, "yon (an form tan ideat of the pore, shrivelled, wasted victims. In the whole comese of my surgical experience, not excoptiner the most painful operations on do. formad fimbs, I have never sulfered so and hat my life at the sight of mything. I care not what It is. $1 t$ annerved me. 1 fole sick." 'This, remember. Was the testimeny of a man who, for a brionl of sixty dive yans, hand been in har (an stant habhit of witnessing humbm sulferine in cury form, who had lime in the lospitals of

 1. .n?

Titw. SUFFRAGE, Perils of universal. I:
 wd " "hat no now laws shomald be enateded hat with the consent of the peophe, that mene shatl be appointed to ollice but with the appotmation of the prople." prise. Jachat hat self government. . . Mis reply, . . "Shail the peophe rece their own olicers ?' if . . the cher tion of maristrates be laft to the rabble, ever mar: will vote for one of his own stamp. Thie thicf will vote for a thief, the smuggler for a smugrgler, and frund and vice will become priv-ilegeil."-b.scuorts L. S., vol. 2, ल. 15.
5.119. SUFFRAGE, Universal. Virginin. Virginia was the first State in the word, componed of ep parate boroughs, diffused over in extensive surfice, where the govermacnt was organized on lhe principle of universal suffrage. All free mon, without exception, were entitled to vote. An attempt was mace made to limit the right to house-kecters; but the public voice reproved the restriction; the very next year it was decided to be "hard, and mangrecable to reason, that wo volon in clecthoms:" and the clectornl fisas-- 'hlse Was reatored. - Hancollorg's [', S., vol. I, © h . 1 I .

历il20. SUICIDE averted. Nifmilion $I$. HTe find heren elegraded harank atter arresse onf false - lameres. llo somght military employment, asd was met inside for the favorites of the govern-diaconraged.] ['rged by abland Insthut to cescaje" lered along the bank of the river, fereling that it was umamaly to conamit sulchles, amel yot unable to resiat the tomptation to dors. In a few tha watur, when 1 van ngalast an lativilimal dressell like a sinaple niorlamice. [te proved to be : former eotnrate in his artillery regimant.] Ite dixguise te wor his aged mother. [Je ollowed Nafoncon a helt of gold for the relinf of his exlied mother, whind was joy fully acoubted, Put, EON 13., vol. l, ch. il.
5.121. SUICIDE, Cause of. Sirmull Jolenvem. who had destroped himself. domseon: "It was owiag lo imaginary dilliculties falasulairs, which, hat letalked of wids any friond, womal think, sir, that all who commit sulirite are mady:" donnson: " Sia, they are often not universally a liserdewed in their intelleres, but oue passion pressers so upom tham, that they yield to it, mand comanit sulcide, as a passionate man will stab another."-Boswelhis Jonninon, 1. Do9.
6.te2. SUICIDE, Cowardice of. Americten Inclians. The satvige believerl that to every man there is an appointerd time fo dio: to anticipate that period hy suicide was the momaset kind of

5.42:8. SUICIDE deterred. Benjamin Abbott. [One of the most usefal Methotist ministers durfing his Christinn life was an exceedingly wiekna man in his previon* life. He longstruggled with un uwakened conscience]. "Satan warggested to me that my day of grare was over ; lacrefore I might pray and cry, but he was sure of me nt last." In passiar ilurougla a lonely wood at night be was tempted to commit suicinle ; but while booking for a smitable phace for the deed, he was deterred by an inward voice, which said, "This torment is mothing compared to hell." - S'revEis' M. E. ('mikem, vol. 1, j. 198.
512.t. SUICIDE, Dyspoptic's. Jhr, Biatuclerk said [to Sammel Johnson|: Dr. - Who loved butterod manlias, but darst not eat them beeanse they disagreed with his stomath, resolved to shoot himself : and then he eat three buttered mullins for breaktast, before shooting himself. knowing that he shondel not be troubled with indigestion : he laal two clarged pistols ; one was found lying charged upon the falle hy lim, after he had shot himself with the othar.- BosWEBLi's Johfison, p. 410.

5id25. SUICIDE, Escapuby. Demoxthenes. | Ituving, in the downfall of Greece, fleat for samethary to the temple of Neptume. Soldiars came to arrest him. He asked them to wait matil he had sent bis last message to bis fimily.] Then lue retimet into the inatr part of the tomule ; and laklag wome pajer, as if he memat to write, lat 'un' the pen ha his monath, ume bit it a considerahle tiane, as lie aved to do when lloughtfal aboat hes emanoosition; after whileh he covered soldiers whos stood the the door, apprebending that he took these mothodes to juit ofl the fatail stroke, lamglsednt him, and called bim a cowned. Archias than appromehing him desisme him to rise, nat logat to reprat the promises of makiag by dias thon felt the opration of the peison has liad takens atrong upon hias, uncovered lis fare. uml lowking "pons Arrhias, "Now," nald lue, " you may act the pate of" (roon in the pany as scon lis yon please, athe rast ont this rareass of tme ! I quit thy temple with my brenth whinn me. But Antipateramatue Manedonimas wonled mut hat" scruphed to profane it wilh murder." 13y this time he eotald somperly stame, had theretompting to walk ont, he fell hy the altar, and

5.Ite S. SUICIDE, Glorification of, Staicism.
 whid wiser moralists lam soweroly reprolatad, lat which many Stoics bedaraled nt the one sure refuge arainst oppression aml ontrage. It was a philosopliy which was labed ahte to lacerate: the hoart with a righteons indigmation against the crimes ame follies of mankial, but which vanly stow to resist, nud whieh scarcely even hopeil tostem, the ever-swelling tide of vice mat misery. For wrotehedness it had no pity ; on vice if looked withimpotent dishluin. - F'anman's Enhiy l)Nus, Mi. 1, p. 9.
5.127. SUICIDE, Mania for, William Conoper. First he langht handanm, and had gonteout into the thelds with the intention of swallowing it. when the love of lifu sugersited another way of escapiag the Ireadful ordeal. Ife might sell all he had, tly to France, change his religion, mad bury himself io a monastery. Ile went home to back up; but while he was looking over his portmantean, his mood changed, and lie ngain rosolval on selfedratruction. Taking is comeh, le ordered the coablimm to slrive to the Tower Wharl, intending to throw himself into the river. But the Jove of lif'e once more interposed, under. the grtise of a low tide and a porter seated on tha qualy. Again in the combla, and afterward in lis Chmbers, he tricel to swabow the handamm ; but his hamd was paralyzed by " the convincing Spirit," aided by seasomable intermptions from the presemece of his lawndress and her lansbmad, and at lemgel he thatew the hamennma away. On the night before the day appointed for the exmamation before the Joris, he lay some times with the point of his penknife pressed against his hant, hat withant robrtuge to drive it home. Lastly, he tricit to hang himeself ; mol on this oucasion he serms to have bera saved not by the love of life, or by want of resolation, but by more accident. Ile had beoome insensible, when the garter by which he was suspended broke, and his fall bromglat in the lammeres, who supposed hims to be in a tit. Jle sent her to a friend. (o) whom he related all that lad passed.SMITA's ('owlell. eh. I. minliderughtful cusered 'I'he rembing lie futhil oward. him 10 manking s, win isen lat iss face, aid he, play us ass of is Nop a would urder." , in at ar, anl| trictism. aicide. olsaled. It was accrate aguinst which ly even ice mad ly ; 01 ниди's

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences

Corporation
himself ot the suprrstition of the age, projected an extraordinary seheme for the recovery of his kingrom, by frigning an interposition from Leaven in his favor. A gentleman, of the mame of Bandricourt, saw a young servant maid at an inn in Lormine, whom he immediately conceived othe a fit preson for phaying a very extraordiway part. She was t. ught her cue, and made to eonnterfeit a divine inspiration. They earrivd hee before the king, where the answers that ware put in her mouth ind the demonare which she assumed convinced everybody that she was inspired. Orleans was, at this time, besieged by the English. Jom of Are, this heroie mad, who had aow assmed the dress of $a$ man, undertook to relieve the town and rompel the Enarlish to abandon the enterprise. She put herself at the head of the Freneh troops, attacked, beat, and dispersed the English, who believed her io he the devil himself, delivered Orleans, and placed the erown upon Charles' head in the rlarch of Rheims. She proceded for some time in this cancer of success, till she was at hast taken prisoner at Compiegne. The regent Bedford, rither in a fit of passion, or to sutisfy the revenge of the English, instead of respecting, as he ought to have done, this singular instance of intrepidity in one of her sex, was prompted to behave with meanness and cruelty. She was tried as a heretie and sorecress by an ecelesiastuen tribunal, and eondemmed and burnt at Rouen.--TyTLER's Itist., IBook 4, cli. 13, p. 206.
5.138. - - Athenuens. A considerahe party of the citizens, howeverr, were secretly hositile to the usurpation of Pisistratus. The faction of the Alcemieonider, of whom the echiefs were Megacles and Lycurgus, gained at length *) much strength as to attack und expel the usurper from the eity. The stratagem ly which lie regained lis power is a singular instance of the force of superstition. He procured a beautiful female to personate the goddess of Minerva. Seated on a lofty chariot, she drove into the city, white her attendants proclaimed aloud that their tutelary deity had deigned in person to visit them, and to demand the restoration of her favorite Pisistratus. A general acelamution hailed the auspicious presence, and all paid obedience 10) the heavenly summons.-Tytler's Hist., Book 1, ch. 10, p. 110.
5139. SJPERSTITION, Alarm of. Europe. The summer which followed the close of the American war is described as "an amazing and pertentous one." There were ularming meteors and tremendous thunder-storms. For many weeks of June, July, and August the sun was rlouded over with a smoky fog that proceeded from whatever quarter the wind blew. At noon it cast " a rust-colored, ferruginous light ;" at rising and setting it was " lurid and blood-colored." The phenomena prevailed over the whole of Europe. The people looked with superstitious awe on the "disistrons' twilight."-Knigut's Esg., vol. 7, ch. 1, p. 1.
5440. SUPERSTITION, Appeal to. Rman Wimperor Comstantius. [Amblassadors from the usurper Maguentius asking alliance.] Such propositions and such argumer ts appeared to deserve the most serious attention; the answer of Constantins was deferred till the next day; and as lie had reflected on the importance of jastifying a civil war in the opinios of the people, he thas andressed his comaril? who listened with reni or affected ctedulity :" Last night," said he, "nfter I retired to rest, the shinde of the yreat Constantine, embrucing the corpse of my murdered brother, rose before my eyes; his well-kuown voice awakened me to revenge, forbade me to despmir of the republic, and assured me of the suceess nedd immortnl glory which would crown the justice of my arms."-Gmhos's Rome, eli. 18, p. 190.
5.141. - - John Smith. He fought like a lion at hay, tied one of his guides to his left arm for a buckler, ran and fired by turns, stumbled into a morass, and was finally overtuken. The savages were still wary of their dangerons antagonist until he inid down his gun, mude signs of sirrender, mod was pulted out of the mire. Wiiluont exhibiting the least signs of four, Smith demanded to see the Indian chief. and on being taken into the presence of that dignitary, legan to excite his interest and euriosity by showing him a pocket compass and a watch. These mysterims instruments struek the Indians with awe; and profiting ly the momentary advantage, the prisoner begin to draw figures on the ground and to give his captors some rude lessons in geography and astronomy. The savages were annzed, and listened for an hour, but then grew tired, bound their captive to a tree, and prepared to shoot him. At the critical moment he flourished his compass in the air, as though performing a cercmony, and the Indians forbore to shoot. His sagacity and courage had gaimed the diy, but the more aptpalling danger of torture was yet to be avoided. The savages, however, were thoroughly superstitions, und became afraid to proceed against him, except in the most formul manner. He was regarded by them as an inhabitant of another world, whom it was dangerous to toueh. -Ridpatit's U. S., eh. 9, p. 99.
5442. SUPERSTITION-ASTROLOGY. Charles II. [In 1647 Charles II., when aboat to flee his kinglom, consulted by a female agent an astrologer to ascertain where he should seek refuge. J-Kitimt's Eng., vol. 4, cli. 5, p. 82.
5443. SUPERSTITION, Beneficial. Pestilence. The priests, to pat a stop to this calamity, which threatened to depopulate the city, tried every expedicut which policy or superstition could devise. A Lectisternium was celebrated, and seenic representations were for the first time introd :ceel at liome, borrowed, it is said, from Etruria. But all was to no purpose. The plague, however, is recorded to have yielded at last to the ceremony of driving a nail into the temple of Jupiter. This, a French writer remarks, was euring one contagious disease by another yet more contagions; meaning, no doubt, that the encouragement of superstition is worse than the pestilence-a sentiment which is not happily applied to the case of a rude people. whose superstitions prejudices are the safeguard of their morals, and will he cherished by a wise legislator as an engine of good policy.-Tytler's Hist., Book 3, ch. 6, p. 351.

5444 . SUPERSTITION, Common, England. A.D. 1642. All men had a touch of superstition. Evelyn looks with wonder upon "a shining cloud in the air, in shape resembling a sword." Aftet the lattle of Edgehill, " in the very phee where The batte was strieken, have sinee and doth nippear strunge and portentous upparitions of two jarring and contrary armies." So records u mate in which the appuritions and prodigions moises of war und battles are certified by a justied of the peace, a premeher, mat other persoms wil' quality.-Knuart's Eva., ch. 3, s. 30, 1. 494.
sifis. sUPERSTITION, Controlled by. Weat ludiathes. [Columbus was shipwrecked on his third voyuge, aged. siek, and fumishiag.] They witheneld all provisions, in hopes either of starving the admiral and his people, or of driving them from the ishand. In this extremity it fortumate iden presented itself to Columbus. From his knowledge of astronomy, he asecrtained that, within three days, there would be a total eclipse of the moon in the early part of the night. He sent, therefore, an Indian of Ilispaniola, who served as his interpreter, to summon the principal cacigues to a grand conferrace, appointing for it che day of the exlipse. When all were assembled, he told them by his interpreter that he and his followers were worslippers of a Deity who dwelt in the skies, who favored such as did well. This great Deity, he iulded, was incensed against the Indians who retused to furnish his faithful worshippers with provisions, and intended to chastise them with timme and pestilence. Lest they should disbelieve this warning, a sigmal would be given that night. They would behold the moon change its color and gradually lose its light-a token of the fearful punishment which awated them.-Inving's Columbus, Book 16, ch. 3.
5446. SUPERSTITION, Cowardice of. M/ixicans. Scarce had Cortez appeared upon the frontier, when a sudden consternation seized the whole empire, and paved the way for an easy ronguest. The ships, the arms, the dress of the Spariards, made the Americans regard them at first as beings of a superior nature. When Cortez arrived at the city of Mexico, he was rereived by the prince, Montezuma, with every mark of reverence and submission.-Trthene's Hist., Book 6, ch. 21, p. 309.
5eft. SUPERSIITION, Credulity of. Zerah Ginlenurn. [The wonderful muthematician. See No. 3532.] Some people thought him a conjurer. A woman came to him one day, saying that twenty years ago she had had some spoons stolen. and isked him where they were. One good lady said that, in her opinion, Ged had endowed the ehild with a miraculous gift in order that he might explain the mysterious numbers of the prophecies. Some people manifested a certain iderree of terror in his presence, as though he were possessed of the devil. What added to the marvel was, that the boy was totally unable to :xplain the processes by which he effected his caleulations. $\qquad$ "Goa put it into my hen" he said, one day, to an inquisitive lady, "but : ammot put it into yours."-Cycloredia of hog., p. 81.
5448.

American Indian. The medicine man boasts of his power over the elements; he can call water from above, bencath, and around; he can foretell a drought, or bring rain, or guide the lightning; . . . he conjures the fish ; . . . he can pronounce spells . . . which will comped the beaver to rise up from benenth the water; a woman. discuse, . . . the medicine man can put it to tlight.-Banchort's U. S., vol. 3, ch. 22.
5449. SUPERSTITION, Depressed by. Alerander. The Chaldean priests of labiylon lud appropriated to their own use the ridhes and revenne of the temple of Belus, which was the ornament of that eity, und a great object of superstitions veneration. Alexander had expressed a purpose of reforming this abuse, mad the Chaldemes, to avert his design, had published a prediction that his entry into Balyyon would be futal to the congueror of the East. Alexander probably saw through this urtifiec, and despised it. He entered Babylon in triumph, and was so delighted with the splendor of that great city, that he declared his purpose of making it the appital of his empire. Ite there received umbinsadors from varions regions of the earth, congratuluting him on his conquests, and soliciting, his friendship and alliance ; but mark the fore of superstition even in the greutest minds. The Chuldean prophecy, in spite of reason, depressed his spirits to such a degree as to force him to drown reflection by every species of riot and debanchery. The consefuence was an inthammatory fever, which, after a few days' continuance, put an end to tis life, in the thirtythird year of his age.-Tytien's llist., Book i, ch. 4, p. 193.
5450. SUPERSTITION from Ignorance. A"rient Germans. The same ignorance which renders barbarians incapable of conceiving or embracing the useful restruints of laws, exposes them naked and unarmed to the blind terrors of superstition. The German priesis, improving this favorable temper of their countrymen, had assumed $a$ jurisdiction, even in temporal concerns, which the magistrate could not venture to exereise ; and the haughty warrior patiently submitted to the lash of correction when it was inflicted, not hy any human power, but by the immediate order of the god of war.-Ginmos's Rome, ch. 9, p. 270.
5451. SUPERSTITION, Incredible. First Crusude. Ahove eighty thousand runged themselves under the benner of Peter the IIcrmit, who walked at their jead with a rope about his waist, and sandals on his feet. Peter's licutenant was Walter the Penayless, and in the van of his troops were carried a sacred goose and a goat, which, (monstrous to helieve !) were said to be filled with the IIoly Ghost. This immense and disorderly multitude began their march toward the Enst in the year 109.). They made the first essay of their arms, not upon the unbelievers, but on their fellow-Christims. The first exploit which signalized the expedition was the taking of a small Christian city in lIungary, which had refused to starve its own inhabitants by supplying such a tribe of hungry locusts with provisions. This impions city was stormed and pillaged, and the inhabitants mussacred.-TyTren's Histr., Book 6, ch. 9, p. $1 \bar{u} 4$.
5452. SUPERSTITION, Inhamanity of. Sylli. Sylla gave the people a magnificent entertainment, on account of his dedicating the tenth of his substance to Hercules. The provisions were so overabuadant, that a great quantity with thrown every day into the river; and the wine that was drank was forty years ohd at least. In the midst of this femsting, whel hast al many days, Metella siekened and died. As the priestis forbade him to upproach her, and to lave his house dethed with monroing, he sent her a bill of divores, and ordered her to be carried to another house while the breath was in luer borly. Il is superstition made him very punctitious in observing these laws of the priests. - Phatratich s Svida.

E453. SUPERSTITION, Inventions of King Philip's Wer. The minds of the English we:c appalted by the horrors of the impending conthict, and superstition indulged in lis wild inventions. At the time of the eclipse of the noom you might lave scen the figure of an Indian sealp imprinter on the centre of the disk. The perfect form of an Indian bow appeared in the sky. The sighing of the wind was like the whistling of bullets. Some distinctly heard invisible troops of horses gallop through the air ; while others found the prophecy of calamities in the howling of the wolves.-BAnchoft'r U. S., ch. 12.
5454. BUPERSTITION, Omens of. Metcor. On the 12th of December, 1680, John Evelyn writes: "This evening, looklng out of my chamber window toward the west, I saw a meteor of an obseure bright color, very mueh in shape like the blade of a sword the rest of the sky being very serene and clear. What this may portend God only knows. But such another phenomena I remember to have seen in 1640, about the trial of the gieat Earl of Strafford preceding our bloody revolution."-Kínant's Ena., vol. 4, ch. 22, p. 360.
5.455. SUPERSTITION, Religious. Curss. A notable instance of superstitious frenzy was that connected with an ceclesiastic named Paris, who, having fallen a victim, at an early age, to the exeess of his aseetie rigor, was venerated after denth as a saint by devout crowds who came to prity at his tomb.
. rumored that mirncles had been it begim to he remains. instantuneous cures wronght hy his the lame, the impotent, the paralytic, seized with convulsive spasms, and raived to a state of preternatural eestasy, suddenly recovered the use of their limbs; various nervons diseases disappeared mider the stme influence; it was even pretended that obstinate wounds and cancerous ulcers had been healed. These strange phenomena increased to sueh an extent that the Arcisbishop of Paris published a brief in which he attributed them to the agency of Satan.-STU dents' France, ch. 22, 5456. SUPERSTITION removed. At Alerandria. A great mumber of plates of different metals, artilicially joined together, composed the majestle figure of the deity, who touched on either side the walls of the sanctuary. The aspeet of Serapis, his sitting posture, and the scepire which tie bore in his left hand were extremeJy similar to the ordinary representations of Jupiter. It was confidently reported that if any impious hand should dare to violate the majesty of the gol, the heavens and the earth would instantly return to their original chaos. An intrepid soldier, animated by zenl, and armed with a weighty battle-axe, ascended the ladder; and even the Christian multitude expeeted with some unxiety the erent of the combent. He aimell is vigorous stroke against the cheek of Serapis; the cluek fill to the gromed ; the thunder was still silent, and loth the hovens and the earth rontinued to preserve their acenstomed order and tranquillity. The vidorions soldier repent al his hows: the huge idol was overthrown and broken in piecos, and the limbs of Serapis were ignominionsly dragesel through the streats of A1examdria. Itis mingled carcass was burnt in the amphitheatre, amid the shouts of the populace: and miny persons attrabuted their conversion to tiis discovery of the impotence of the tutelar deity.-TyThwis's IIs't., Book 5, ch. 4, p. 10.
5.45\%', SUPERSTITION, Ridiculous. EI $y / 1$, tians. 'Ther superstitions of the Egyptians wrue 4 eopions sulj jeet of ridicule to other mations of antiquity, and contributed to degrade them in the opinion of these whose olyjects of religions worship, if not fundamentally more rational, ware less ludicrous, less chiddish and unmmuly. What could they think of a nation where, is Herodotus tells us, if a house was on fire, the father of a family would take more pans to sate his eats than his wife and children; where : mother would be transported with joy at the news of her child being devoured by a crocodile : or where the soldiers, returning from a military expedition, would come home loaded with a precious hooty of dogs, cats, hawks, and vultures: -Tytler's Ilist., Book 1, ch. 4, p. 47.
5458. SUPERSTITION, Safety by. Cipitai" Tolen simith. [1n 1608 John smith was IPrsarved be the ladians who had butehered his rompamions. He exlibited a porket eompass. and shownd how it always pointed to one quarter. See No. 5441 .] He requested that a lofter should be conveyd to Jamestown ; and when it was known that hecould so endue a piece of $\mathrm{p}^{\text {na- }}$ per with intelligence as to spenk to his distant rompanions, he was beleld with superstitions

5.159. SUPERSTITION of Scholars, A.D. 16.in). [The learned and the scientitie were not free from it.] Mr. [ William] Oughtred, a renowned math: cmatician, . . . had strong apprehensions of somaextraordinary evont to happen the following yar, from the caldeulation of coincidencr with the diluvian period; and added that it might possihly be toconvert the Jews by our Saviour: visible appeatance, and to judge the world. The almanac makers of that time were deluthing the people with those prophecies, which thiy continued to swallow for two centuries. . . (in the 29 th of ipril, 1602 , the people were terribly frightened hy an eclipse of the sun. This diy: was called Mirk Monday, and the dread of it su exceedingly alarmed the whole nation, that harily any one would work or stir out of theid houses.-Knhint's Eno., vol. 4, ch. 11, p. 1i.!.
5460. SUPERSTITION of Soldiers. Spicits. [The Earl of Surrey writes from Scotland in $1523:]$ About eight o'clock the horses of hincompany suddenly brake loose and suddenly run out of his field in such numbers that it calised it marvellous alarm in our field ; and our standins: watch being set, the horses came ruming along the camp, at whom were shot above one hundred sheaves of arrows and divers guns, thinking that they would have been Scots that would have assaulted the camp. Finally the horses were so mad that they ran like wild deer into the fied, above tlfteen hmidred at least in divers companies, and in one place nhove thlty ran down a great rock and slew themselves; und above two hundred and tifty ran into the town, being on fire, and by the women taken and carried away, right evil brent; and many were taken again, and finally by what I can esterme by the number of them that 1 saw go on foot the next day, I think there is lost ahove eight hundred horses, and all with folly for lack of not lying within the camp. I dare not write the wonders that my Lord Daere and all his comprany do say they saw that nlght, six times, of spirits and fearful sights. And universally all their company say plainly the devil was that night among them six times, whleh misfortune hath blemished the best journey that was made in Scotland many years. Kniaitis Enc., vol. 2, ch. 18, p. 299.
5461. SUPERSTITION vs. Whadom. Julian. In fact, Julian was, as a paran, blinded by the most bigoted superstition. This belief in omens was ridiculons; his sacritices were so numerous that cattle were wanting to supply him with victims. The expense of these religious rites became burdensome to the State, and was universally complained of. Ife was even accused of the horrid abomination of human sacrifices. IIs enthusiasm and fanaticlsm, ucknowledged even by his greatest mancgyrists, " almost degrade him to the level of an Egyptian monk." "Notwithatanding his own modest silence upon the subject," says Mr. Qibbon, "we may learn from his faithful friend, the orntor Limmins, that he lived in a perpetual intercourse with the gods and goddesses; that they descended upon earih to enjoy the conversation of their favorite hero ; that they gently interrupted his slumbers by touching his hand or his hair; that they warned him of any impending danger, and condueted him by their infallible wisdom in every action of lis life: and that he had acquired such an intimate knowlatge of his heavenly grasts, as readily to distinguish the voice of Jupiter from that of Minerva, and the form of Apollo from the figure of IIercules." In short, this wise and philosophic emperor was, in matters of religion, one of the weakest, most bigoted, and superstitions of nankind.-TyTLer's IhsT., Book 5, ch. 3, p. 519.
5.162. SUPPLIANT, An abject. Reign of Temes II. [Rochester, the lord-treasurer, wais a Protestant whom the king proposed to dismiss from ottice.] "It is whispered," he said, "that if I do not do as your Majesty would have me, I shall not be suffered to continue in my present station." The king stid, with some general expressions of kindness, that it was ditheult to prevent people from talking, and that loose reports were not to be regarded. These vague phrases were not likely to quict the perturbed inind of the minister. IIs agitation becane viorent, and he beran to plead for his place as if he had been pleading for his life. "Your Majesty sees that I doall in my power to obey you. Indeed, I will do all that I can to obey you in everything. I will serve you in your own way. Nay," he cried, in an agony of buseness, "I will do what I can to believe as you would have me. But do not let me he told, while I am trying to bring my mind to this, that if I find it impossible to comply, I must lose all."-Maciar. l.AY's Eng., eh. I, p. 142.

540:3. SUPREMACY, Meritorious. Late in sir. entecuth Century. Frame mited at that time almost every specios of ascendency. Her military glory was at the height. She had vampisherd mighty combitions. She had dietat ad treabies. She had sabjugated great cities and provinees. She had fored the Castilian pride to yield her the precedencr. She had smmanond Italian priaces to prosirate themselves nt her footstool. Her anthority was supreme in all matters of good breeding, from $n$ duel to a minuet. She tetermined how a gentleman's cont musi be cut. how long his pernke must be, whether his heels must be high or low, and whether the lare on his hat mist be broad or narrow. In literature she gave law to the world. The fame of her grent writers filled Europe.-Macaulay's Eng., ch. 3, p. 368
5464. surgery, Brave. Duke Ifopold. [The Lustrime erusuder.] Leopold had stuff in him too. He died, for example, in this manner : fulling with his horse, I think in some siege or other, he had get his leg hurt, which hindered him in tighting. Leg could not be cured : "Cut it off, then!", said Leopold. This also the leech could not do, durst not, and would not, so that Leopold was come quite to a hait. Leopold ordered out two squires, put his thigh upon a block, the sharp edge of an axe at the right point across his thigh : " Squire first, held that axe ; steady! Spuire second, smite you on it with forge-hammer, with all your strength, heavy enough! !" Simire second struck havy enough, and the legr flew off ; hat Leopold took intlammation, died in a day or two, as the leerela had predictel.-(Abivie's Fhederick the Gheitr, Book 2, ch. 6, p. 83.
5.165. surgery, skill in. Dr. Valentine Mott. In 1828 he performed what is universally allowed to be the most ditlicult feat ever atemented in surgery. A clergyman was atlicted with nu enormons tumor in the neck, in which were embedded and twisted many of the great arteries. In removing this tumor, it was necessary to take out entire one of the collar bones, to lay bare the membrane enclosing the hangs, to tissect around arteries displaced by the tumor and embedded in it, to apply forty ligatures, and remove an immense mass of disensed mater. All this was done withoat the aid of chloroform. The patient survived the operation, and is now living and discharsing the duties of his profession. Dr. Mott was the first to operate successfully for immovability of the lower jaw, and the first to cutirely remove the lower jaw. Ite was the first to suceed in sewing up aslit in a large vein.-Cyclopema of Biog., b. 530.
5466. SURPRISE, Mutaal. American Rerolution. After the fiall of Charleston General Gutes was appointed to command in the South. [He took post at Clermont, thirteen miles from Camden, whero the British forces were concentrated.] By a singular coincidence Cornwallis and Gates ench formed the design of surprising his amtagonist in the nlght. Accordingly, on the evening of the 15 th of August, Gates set out for Camden, and at the same time Cornwallis moved toward Clermont. About daydawn the two armies met midway on Sander's Creek.

Thoth generals were surprised, but both mude inmedinte preparations for wittle. ['The Americans were badly defeated.]-Ranisitis's L'. S., ch. $43,11.341$.
5167. SURPRISE, Success by. Colonel Barton. ()n the 10 in of July a brillinit exploit was persformed in Rhode Ishand. Colonel Willima lamfon, of Providence, learning that Major-Genemi Preseote was ghartered ata farm-lootse near Vewport, apart liront his division, dotermined 10 copture him. (On the night of the 10th of Jnly the daring colonel, with forty volnuteres, embarked at lrovidence, dropped down the bay, and romehed the ishond aenr Prescott's lodgings. The movement was not discovered. The lsritiN sentinel was deceived with a plonsihle statoment, and then threatened with der.th if he did not renain quiet. The patriots mashod forwnid, burst open P'rescott': door, seized lim in bed, amd larried him half chal to the bonts. The atarm was raised ; insuad came harrying to tho water's edge ; but the provincials were alranly puldling out of sight with their prisoner. This lucky exploit gave the Americans un oltheer of 'gual rank to exchnnge for General lee. Colowel barton was rewarded with promotion and :an elegant sword.-Ridistics U'. S., eh. 40, p. 320 .
5.138. SURRENDER to Death. Bopes. Bogres Wangovernor of it [Eion] nnder the King of Persia, and acted with such a zeal amd tidelity for his sovereign as have few examples. When besieged loy Cimon amd the Athenimas, it was in his power to lave eapitalated upon honorable terms, mad to have returned to $\mathbf{A}$ sia with his family and all his effects. However, bring perstanded lie could not alo this with honos, he reso'ved to die rather than surrender. The city Was assmulted with the utmost fury, und be defended it with incredible bravery. Being at last in the utmost want of provisions, he thres from the walls into the river Strymonall the gold and silver in the place; then caused fire to be set to a pile, and having killed his wife, his children, and his whole fimmily, he threw them into the midst of the flames, and afterward rushed into them himself. -Rohsin's Hist., Book 7, s 3.
5.169. SURRENDER demanded. Ethan Allen. This daring and cecentrie man whs chosen colonel by a eompany of two hundred aud seventy patriots. To capture Ticonderoga, with its vast magazine of stores, was the object of Allen und the audacious mountaineers of whom lie was the leader. Benedict Arnold left Cambridge, and joined the expedition as a private. On the evening of the 9 th of May . . . they reached the eastern shore of Lake Champlain, opposite Ticonderoga. Only a few boats could be proeured, and when day broke on the following morning but cighty-three men had suceceded in crossing. With this mere handful-for the rest could not, be waited for-Allen, with Arnold by his side, made a dasli, and gained the gateway of the fort. The sentinel was driven in, closely followed by the mountaneers, who set up such a sliout as few garrisons had ever lieard. Allen's men hastily faced the burracks. and stood ready to tire ; he limself rushed to the quarters of Delaplace, the commandant, and shouted for the incumbent to get up. The startled oflicial thrust out his head. "Surrender this fort Instuntly," suid Allen. "By what antiority ?" inquired the astounded oflleer. "In the name of the great Jelsovalt and the Continental Congress!" said Allen, flourishing his sword. Delaphace hat no ultermative. The garrison. numbening forty-eight, were male prisoner'y mad sent to Commecticut. A fortress whieh had cost Gread Britain eight million poumdssterling was enptured in tea minutes by a company of undisciplined provineials.
A hundredund twonty cannon mand vast quantities of military stores foll into the hands of the Americhms. - Rhoratin's U. S., rh. 38, p. 298.
SA70. SURRENDER, Dlograceful. Manchester. [When ('harles Edward, grandson of Janes 11., was endeavoring to recover the throne, his IIighlanders were near to Manchester, into which preceded them a sergeant, his mistress, and his drummer, and the town yiedled.] "Manchester," says volunteer Ray, "was taken by u sergeant, a drum, and n womm, abont two o'vock in the nfternoon." - Knumat's Eng., vol. 6, chi. 9, p. 145.
6.171. SURRENDER, Final. ('iril War. On the 7th of April [1885]... General Grant, now at Farmuille, malressed a note to the Confederate commander, expressing a desire that the further effusion of blood might be saved by the surrender of the Confederate army. To this Genern Lee replied by decharing his dosire for peace, but udding that the oecasion for the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginiatiad not arrived. On the morning of the 9 th, however, when it became known that the left wing of the Union army lad sectred the line of the lyynchbirg lailroad, when the wreck of Longstreet's veterans, attempting to continue the retreat, were confronted and difiven baek by Sheridan, then the iron-souled Confederate leader, seeing the ntter uselessness of a further struggle, sent Genernl Grant a note, asking for a meeting preliminary to a surrender. The Uuion commamler inmmediately complied with the request. At two o'cloek in the afternoon of Palm Sundity, the 9th of April, 1865, the iwo great grenerals met cach other in the parlor of William MeLeun at Appomattox CourtHouse. There the terms of surrender were discussed and settled. It was agreed thet Genernl Grant should put his proposition in the form of in military note [which lie did]. To this . . . General Lee responded as follows: "Head Quarters Army of Northern Virginia, April 9th, 1865. General: I received your letter of this date, containing the terms of the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, as proposed by you. As they are substantially the sume as those expressed in your letter of the 8 th instant, they are aciapterl. I will proceed to designate the projar otilicers to carry the stipulation into effect. R. E. Lee, General." Thus the work was done.

After four dreadful years of bloodshed, devastation, and sorrow, the civil war in the United States was at an end.-Ridpath's U. S., ch. 66, 1. 539.
5.72. BURRENDER, Impossible to. "The Old Guard." [When the renm:mat of the French army was retreating from Waterloo, two batalions covered the retreat against the re-enforced and victorious allies.] Weary of the butchery, they suspended for a moment their fire, and sent a flag of truee demanding a enjitulation. General（iambromme refurned the lmmortal reply， ＂The whatd dies ；it never＂atrorenders．＂［Soon lary mowed them nll down－Inmorre＇s Daro－

－ 173 ．SURRENDER，Indignant．I＇tir Stuy－ risuit．［Th the e8th of Nugust，1664，the biarlish demanded the surrender of New Neth－ ＂rhamband ani immedinte acknowledgment of the sovereignty of England．］It was clear thont the burgommsters memat to surrender．The stormy old anvernor exhorted them for ronse to artion and fight：some one replied that the butch Wrest Imlia company was not worth tighting for．Barning with imbigmtion，stayvesant suitelacel up the written proposial ol Nieolls and tore it to thtters in the presence ol his commeil． It was all in vain．The brave old man was forced to sign the eapitulation ；mind on the 8th of September，1664，New Netherland ceased to exist．The Engrlish thar was hoisted over the fort and town，and the name of New lork was substituted for New Ansterdami－Riondru＇s L．S．，ch．19，p． $1 \% \mathrm{l}$ ．

5474 ．SURRENDER prevented．（＇hcifer Ocek． Attended by marmed guard，Ambros procecderl 10 Comnectiont．Arriving at lartforal in Octo－ ber of 1687 ，he found the assembly of the prov－ ince in session，and demanded the surmender of the colonial charter．The instrument was brought in and ladiduon the table．A spirited alebate ensued，and Insted until evening．When it was about to be decided that the eharter shomb be given up，the lamps were suddenly dashed out． Other lights ware bronght in，but the chnrter had dismppenred．Joseph Walsworth，snatching up the precions parchment，bore it off through the darkness，and concealed it in a hollow tree， ever afterwird remembered with affection as The Charter Oak．But the assembly was overawed and the free govermment of Connecticut sub－ vertel．－Lideratit＇s U．S．，eh．15，p． 146.

5．175．SUSPENSION，Financial．Benk of Eng－ lumd．［In 1797，after a continued run on the lank for specie in exchange for its notes，it was compelled to paty in sixpences，und then，by com－ mand of George III．，to suspend specie puyments． The next day］there was a great meeting of merchants at the Mansion Honse，when a unani－ mous resolation passed，that＂we will not refuse to receive bink－notes in payment of any sum of money to be paid to us，and will use our utmost endeavor to make all our payments in a similar manner．＂The stocks immediately rose．$\Lambda$ weight was suddenly taken off the wheels of in－ dustry．．．．But a chronic malarly was induced which lasted during a generation－a mularly which defied every attempt to cmetill the prin－ riple of a convertible paper currency was again firmly established．Of the lasting effects of this measure，whieh was only intended to be tempo－ rary，the govermment of 1797 could have no con－ reption．［specie payments were resumed in 18：3．］－KNignt＇s ENG．，vol．7，ch．19，1． 384.

5．！76．SUSPICION，Above．Cesar＇s Uife．［Sce No． 1652.$]$ Clodins was not yet the danger－ ous desperado which he ufterward became；and immorality，though seasoned with impiety， might easily，it was thought，be made too much of．Cresar himself did not press for punishment． As president of the college，he had aequiescrd in their decision，and he divorced the unfortunate l＇ompelin；lut he expressed no oplaion as to the extent of her criminally，and lie gave as his reason for separating from her，not that she was guilty，but that C＇asur＇s wife must be nbove suspicion，－F＇uotere＇s（．eseati，ch，10．

5．478．SUSPICION，Clamorous．Free Musems． Willimm Morgan，a resident of westarn New York，having threutenod to puhbish the secerets of the Masonie fraternity，of which he was a member，suddenty disuppeared from lome，and Was never heard of afterward．The Masons fell under the suspicion of having mbelucted nam murdered him．A great chmor was raised ngnhst them in New Fork，and the excitement extembed to other parts of the country．The is． sues between the Masons and their enemies be came a politionl one，and many cminent men were embroiled in the controversy．Forseveral years the anti－Masonic party exercised a considerable influence in the elections of the comntry．De Witt Clintom，one of the most prominent and valuable statesmen of New York，had to suffer much，in loss of reputation，from his member－ shify in the order．Ilis lust days were clouded with the orlium whicln for the time leing at－ tached to the Masonic nume．－Rninatics U．S．， ch．53，p．42i．

5478．SUSPICION of Conspiracy．Constuntine． An edict of Constantine，published about this time，manifestly indicutes his renl or nfferted suspicions that a secret conspirucy lud been formed agninst his person and governmont．13y all the allarements of honors mind rewards，he in－ vites informers of every degree to ncense with－ out exception his magistrates or ministers，his friends or his most intimate favorites，protest－ ing，with a solemn asseverntion，that he hinself will listen to the charge，that he himself will revenge lis injuries；and concluding with a prayer，which tiscovers some upprelansion of danger，that the providence of the supreme Being may still continue to protert the safety of the emperor and of the empire．－Ginbon＇s Rome，ch．18，p． 159.

5479．SUSPICION diverted．E＇mperor Vero．

 Nero was so secure in his absolutism，he had hitherto found it so impossible to shock the feelings of the people or to exhanst the terrified adulntion of the Scmate，that he was usually in－ different to the pasquinudes which were con－ stantly loolding up his name to execration and contempt．But now he felt that he had gone too far，and that his power would be seriously im－ perilled if he did not succeed in diverting the suspicions of the populace．He was perfectly aware that when the people in the streets cursed those who sat fire to the city，they meant to curse him．If he did not take some immediate step he felt that he might perish，as Gaius harl perished before him，by the elagger of the assus－ sin．It is at this point of his carecr that Nero becomes a prominent figure in the history of the Church．．．．For Nero endeavored to fix the odious erime of having destroyed the capitnl of the world upon the most innocent and faithful of bis subjects－upon the only subjects who offered heartfeli prayers on his behalf－the ko－ man Christians．They were the defenceless victims of this horrible charge ；for though they were the most harmless，they were also the mostlated mind the most slandered of living mon.-F'ahleaite Eahley Days, ch. 4, p. 33.
6.150. SUSPICION diverted. hïng if liontufint. [Each of the bomarehs was preparing expertitions of diseovery for the New World.] Resemde. th lids history of Klug dohn II., Iuformes the that the Portuguese monarch, by large presents, of rather bribes, held certain of the conthlential members of the Castilian cabinet in his interest. who informed hitin of the most secret councils of thelr court. The roads were througed with couriers; scarce was an hatention expressed by Ferdinand to his ininisters, but it was conveyed to his rival monareh. The result was that the Spanish sovereigas seemed as if uader the influence of some cnchmument. King John anticipated all their movenents, und uppeared to dive into their very thoughts. . . . As a surnilse of treachery in the eabinet might naturally arise, King John,wh'!e he rewarded his agents in seeret, endeavored to divert suspicions from them upon others, making rich presents of jewels to the Duke de Infantado and other spanish grandees of incorruptible fategrity.-Inving's Columise, Book 5, ch. 0

5181 . SUSPICION, Effeot of, Reign of Commodus. 'Thut nssembly, whom Mareus had ever considered as the grent council of the nation, was composed of the most distinguished of the Rumans: and distinetion of every kind soon becme criminal. The possession of wealhi stimulated the diligence of the informers; rigid virtue implied a tacit eensure of the irregularities of Commodus; importunt services implied a dangerons superiority of merit; and the friendshif of the father always insured the aversion of theson. Suspicion was equivalent to proof ; trial to condem-mation.-Gimon's Romes, chi. 4, p. 10in.
6.182. SUSPICION, Perilous. Eimperor Vern. A conspiracy, which was at this time diseovered, gave Nero imple scope for the gratitication of the uatural eruelty of his disposition. The slightest suspicion of grilt was now phaished with immediate death. It was a sutllecient crime if $n$ nam was seen to have saluted a suspered person. Seneca, among others, was accused of having been priv; to this conspiracy; mud as a mark of the emperor's gratitude for the past services of his preceptor, he was permitted to choose the mantuer of his death. Ite rhose to expire in a warm bath, after having his veins opened. Tytlen's IIntr., Book 5, ch. 1, p. 488.

548is. sUBPICION sown. In Wirr. As Themistocles sailed ulong the consts, wherever he sum any harbors or places proper for the enemy's ships to put in at, he took such stones as he happened to find, or cmused to bo brought thither for that purpose, and set them up in the ports and watering-places, with the following inseription engraved in large elanracters, nod addressed to the Ionians. "Let the Ionians, if it be possible, come over to the Greeks, from whom they are descended, and who now risk their lives for their liberty. If this be impracticable, Iet them at least perplex the barbarians, and put them in disorder in time of netion." By this he hoped either to bring the Ionians over to his side, or to sow discord among them by eansing them to be suspected by the Persians.-Plutaiscis's Tiemistocles.
5.Amt. SUBPICION, Weaknens of. Dionymiun. [Dionysins the lyramt] was so susplecious of all mankind, mul so wretelodly timoroms, that he would not sumer a barber to shave him, but huid his hair singed off with a live comb by one of his own attendants. Neibher his brother nor his an wree mimitted into his chamber in thele own clothes, bint were tirst stripped bud exambed by the sentinels, mad after that were obliged to phit on wurl clothes as were provided for them. When has brother Leptines was once: describing the situation of a phace, he took a spear from one of the guards to trace the phan, upon which Dionysins was extremely offended, and cansed the soldier who had given up his spear to be put to death. He way afraid, he said, of the sense and sagacity of hils friends, because he knew they must think it more eligible to govern than to obey. IIe slew Marsyas, whom he had atvanced to a considerable military commund, merely heomse Marsyus dremmed that he killed him; for he concluded that this dream by night was occasioned by some similar suggestion of the day. Yet even this timorons mad suspieions wretcis was offended whith Plato, hemuse he would not allow him to be the most valimut man in the world!-Plevtareir.
5.185. SWEARING, Admired. General ('hrorles Scott. [LLe] had a most inveterate habit of swearing: whether in private or publie, . . . every other word was an outh. . . After the war a friend. . . . muxions to reform his evil lmbits, nsked him whether it was possible that . . . the admired Winhington everswore. Scott reflected for n moment, mal then exclamed: "Yes, once. It was at Mommonth, and on a day that would have male any man swear. Yes, sir, he swore on that day till the laves shook on the treeschaming, delightul. Never have I enjoyad such swemping before or since. Sir, on that evermemorable diay he swore like tuin ang from heaven." The reformer abandoned the general in deopilit. - ('estis' Wasmadron, bul. 1, ch. 21.

54*6. SWEARING, Reproof for. John Brmyen. One day, as I was standing at a neighbor's shopwindow, and there cursing and swearing after my wonted manare, there sat within the woman of the homse and heard ine, who, thongh she was n loose and ungomlly wreteh, protested that I swore and cursed at such a rate that she trembled to hear me. I was able to spoil all the youths in a whole town. At this reproof I was silenced and pot to secret shame, and that too, as I thonght, bofore the God of henven. I stood lauging down my head, and wishing that I might be a little child, that my father might learn me to speak withont this wicked sin of swearing: for, thought $1, I \mathrm{am}$ so necustomed to it that it is vain to think of a reformation.Froedes Bunyan, ch. 2.
5487. SWINDLER, A Royal. Henry ITI. The ingrained covetousness nad cunning of the man-for " of mature, assuredly, he coveted to accumulnte treasure," and "neither did he care how cumning they were that he did employ, for he thought himself to have the master-reach." These qualities made him, to use plain words, a royal swindler. He went far beyond his age as an exaggerated representative of the new-born spirit of monry-making, as opposed to the ancient apirit of violence. He cmrriad it forward into that unscrupulous passion for wealth, which has rendered the grasping uecumulator so detestable at all times.-Kionter Eng., vol. : ch. 15, 1. 2:38.
S.ANs. - - Henry VIIT. [Parlinment in 154.4 prepared IIniry Vlli, for the axpense of wars with Scothand nul with France, by decharing that all lomas made to the klag iii the two previous yemrs of his relgn be entirely remitted and relensed, and secorithes for the same be utterly void.]-Kisitiut's Esa., vol. 2, ch. 27, p. 442.
5.1 Mg. $\qquad$ Richerel I. [To raise money, he ordered the great seal to be broken, and prorhamation to be made that ao grant under that seat would be valid, unless the fees che to the rrown were paid the second time fine uffling the new seal.]-KNigut's Lixa., vol. 1, ch. P2, 1. 3300.
5490. 8WORD va. Banner. Juth of Are. She wore at her side a small buttlense and the conserrated sworl, marked on the bhate with tive crosses, which hul at her hidiling been taken for her from the shrine of St. Chtherine at Fierbois. A page carried her hamer, which she luad cmased to be made mad embroidered as her Voices rnjoine". It was white satin, strewn with fleurg-de-lis, and on it were the words "Jesiss Ma. ria," and the representation of the Saviour in Ilis glory. Joan afterward genemally bore her hamer herself in battle ; slec said that thongh she loved her sword much, she loved her bunner forty times as much; and she loved to curry it, lecause it could not kill may onc.-Decisive Battles, $378.
5491. SWORD in Religion. Mahomet. "The sword," says Mahomet, "is the key of heaven and of hell; a drop of blood shed in the canse of God, a night spent in arms, is of more nvail than two months of fasting or pruyer; whosoever falls in battle, his sins are forgiven; at the day of judgment his wounds shall be resplendent as vermilion and odoriferous as musk; and the loss of his limbs shall be supplied hy the wings of angels and cherubim."-Giman's Rose, ch. 50, p. 124.
5492. SWORD, Worship of the. Neythitens. It is eertain that the nommdie tribes of Northern Asia, whom Herodotus deseribed uniter the name of Scythians, from the earliest times worshipped as their god a bare sword. That sword-god was supposed, in Attila's time, to have disuppenred from earth; but the Hunnish king now elnimed to have received it by special revelation. It was waid that a herdsman, who was tracking in the desert a wounded heifer by the drops of blood, found the mysterious sword standing fixed in the ground, as if it had darted down from heaven. The herdsman bore it to Attila, who henceforth was believed by the Huns to wield the Spirit of Death in battle, and their seers prophesied that that sword was to destroy the world.-Decisive Batties, §235.
5493. SYMPATHY by Experience. Sctmucl Joh heson. Johnson, whose rohnst frame was not in the least uffeeted by the cold, scolded me, us if my shivering had been a paltry effeminacy, salying, "Why do you shiver?" Sir Willinm Siott, of the Commons, tokl me that when he compluineal of a heudache in the post-chatise, as they were truvelling together to Srothud, Johnson trented him lin the same manner: "At your nge, sir, I had no hembache." It is not casy to make allowance for sensations in others which we ourselves have not at the time. We must all have experienced how very dilferently we are afferied by the eomplaints of our urighbors when we are well and when we ure ill. In full health we can sarcely believe that they suifer much, so faint is the image of pair upou our imugination; when softened by siekness, we readlly sympathize with the sulferings of others.-BusWELA's Jollnon, p. $12 \%$.
5.194. SYMPATHY, Freaks of. Nípoleon I. Nupoleon could look with perfect composure upon the carmage of the field of battle, mad order movements without the tremor of a nerve which he knew must consign thousnmis to a bloody death; lut when [some one fell overhourd) . .. his sympmothies were aroused to the highest do. grec.-Ahmott's Naboleon 13., vol. 1, ch. 10.
5495. SYMPATHY for the Friendless. Abraham Lincoln. Among the, , persons in waiting. . . was a smadl, pale, delicate-looking boy ubout thirteren years old. The l'resident saw him, . . . and saill, "Come here, my boy, and tell me whit you want.". . With lowed head and timid arcents, he said: " Mr. President, I have been a drummer-boy in a regiment for two years, and my colonel got augry with me und turned me offí ; I was taken sick, und lave been a long time in bospitul. This is the first time I lave been ont, und I rame to see if you cunnot do something for me." The President looked at him .i tenderly, mud asked him where he lived. "i I lave no home," answered the boy. "Where is your father !"" "He died in the army," was the reply. "Where is your mother?". . "My mother is dend also. 1 have no mother, no father, no brothers, no sirters," and, bursting into tears, " no friends-nobody cares for me." Mr. Lincoln's eyes were filled with tears, and he said to him, "Can't you sell newspapers?" " No," said the boy; "I am too weak, and the surgeon of the hospital told me I mast leave, nnd I have no money and no place to go to." The scene was wonderfully affecting. The President drew forth a card and . . . gave special directions " to care for this poor boy."-RAymond's Linconn, p. 740.
5496. SYMPATHY, Mutaal. Napoleon I. [At St. Ilelenat the captive emperor found] a poor negro slave working in Mr. Balcombe's garden, in whose history and welfare the emperor be(zume deeply interested. He wis a Malay Indian, of prepossessing appearance. He had been stolen from his native land by the crew of 16 British vessel. The emperor's sympathies were deeply moved by the old man's story. Poor Toby beeame very much attached to the emperor.
They were fellow-captives.-Abbott's Napoleon B., vol. 2, ch. 30.
5497. SYMPATHY for the Poor. Abralam Lincoln. As a distinguished citizen of Olio entered the vestibule of the White IIouse, his attention was attracted by a poorly clad young woman who was violently sobbing. . . . She had been orlered away by the servants, after rainly endeavoring for many hours to sce the President about her only brother, who had been condemined to death [for desertion!. . . . She band pussed the long homers of two dhys trying in win to get unt matience. [He nited her admission to the obllee, andat his sugrestion she foreed hor way hetween himself and Mr. Idneoho, and finsisted on hif exmmbation of the papers she brought. 1 Mr. Lineoln wins it Arst simewhat sarprised at the apmerent forwardarss: . . commenced ma examination of the doemment; . . . his cye fell apon her sematy but nout dres.s. 'iastantly his face lighterl up. "My poor girl," sabl he, "you havecome here whit a grovernor. or senator, or member of ('ongress to phand your ranse. You serm honest and truthfal, but I will pardon your brother."-R.amonsis Lincolen, p. zim.

5ISN. SYMPATHY, Religious. Prrituns oft Sero Englume. The svimpathles of the colonists were wide; a regarit lor l'rotestant dermany is as old as emigration ; and during the Thirty Years' War the whole people of Nuw bughand held fasts mad offered prayers for the suceres of their Sinxom brethren-Bave more's U. S., vol. I, eh. 10.
5109. SYMPATHY, Unmanned by, Colwubus. [Moved by enve, mad sustained by vilest shanders, bohadiha sont him to shain in irons. Great indignation and relonse followed.] When the gueen beheld his vemrable man approach, and thought on all he had deserved and all he had suffered, she was moved to tears. Columbus had berme up firmly against the rude contlicts of the world he had endured with hofty seorn the injuries mod insults of ignoble men; but he possessed strong und quick sensibility. When he foumd himsedf thus kindly reecived by his sovereigns, and beheld tears in the benign eyes of Isabetha, his longsuppressed feelings burst forth; he threw himself on his knces, and for some time could not utter a word for the viokence of his temesmed sol-bings.-laving's Coblemats, Book 14 , ch. 1 .
s500. SYSTEM, Living by. Alfired the Girat. Alfred was himself, for that are, a most neromplished seloolar; and ronsidering the nevessary wils and constant netive employment, it is surprising how much be employed himself in the parsuifes of literature. Ile is said to have divided his time into three equal parts: one was alloted to the despateh of the business of goverument mother to diet, exercise, and sleep; and n third to stady and devotion. L3y this ndmirable regnlarity of life he fonnd means, notwiblistanding his constant wars, and the care of entirely new modelling and civilizing his kingdom, to compose a varicty of ingenions and learned works. -Tyther's Ilist., Book 6, eh. 5, p. 111.
5501. TACT, Lack of. President , foh 1 Idems. The sume qualities which made him a lad negotiator prevented his acyuiring eredit as the chief magistrate of the mation. He was a bad judge of men, and he was wedded to certain ancient and unpopular idens which prevented his retaining the contidence of the masses. He was a kind of republican tory, at a time when the feeling of the nation was setting powerfully in the opposite direction. At the same time, his vanity, his quickness of temper, his total want of management, his blind trust in some men and his blind distrust of others, continually estranged from him those who wonld naturally have been his fricmatamisupporters. A fler sirving four yomes. bue was whirled from his phace ly a tormido of demorratic feding. - ('velorevins of Bhom., b. 1 is.
