BRITAIN SUPPORTS AIM TO LIBERATE POLAND

London Government in Note Endorses Russian Policy—Has Concurrent Principles With Those of President Wilson.

London, June 11.—In reply to the statement of the British war aims, Great Britain has forwarded to Petrov a note in which is expressed hearty acceptance and approval of the principles which President Wilson laid down in his historic message to Congress. The British Government believes, broadly speaking, that the agreements made from time to time with Britain's allies are conformable to these standards.

The purpose of Great Britain at the outset, says the note, was to defend the existence of the country and enforce respect for international agreements. Since then there has been added that of "liberating populations oppressed by alien tyranny."

The note bespeaks not only the liberation of Poland by Russia, but of that section of Poland within the dominions of the Germanic empires. In this enterprise the British democracy wish Russia godspeed.

"In the proclamation to the Russian people enclosed with the note it is said that free Russia does not propose to dominate other peoples or take from them their national patrimony, or forcibly occupy foreign territory. In this sentiment the British government heartily concur. They did not

Resolved that this mass meeting of citizens of Toronto, in this time of war, affecting so vitally this Dominion as well as the empire of which we are now a part, form a resolution on record its conviction that our people, irrespective of party or creed, are ready to support any immediate legislation as promised by the prime minister of Canada, to provide, thru some equitable system of compulsory selection, the necessary reinforcements for the Canadian divisions, and to heartily battle for the front in defense of our homes and in support of the liberties of free men, both here and throughout the world.

And we further urge that the government should not hesitate to require of recruits when necessary public utilities factories, industries or other enterprises in recognition of the principle that compulsory service in the army should carry with it such similar compulsory service of manhood and of wealth as may otherwise prove essential for the prosecution of the war to the utmost limit of our resources as a division.

Cheered Returned Men.

Putting the meeting was the attendance of the great war veterans who marched to the hall after assembling for parade at the Allan Gardens, and who occupied the front section seats reserved for them. The people cheered this and again and gave other manifestations of applause when the men filed down to their seats.

Enthusiasm was not lacking, either, in the reception accorded the various speakers. Mayor Church, the chief of the opposition, Mr. Hearst and Mr. Rowell were particularly favored and given such ovations that they were prevented from speaking for several moments. Through the meeting applause, cheers and interrupting voices which shouted encouragement and support, punctuated the addresses. The speaker, Mr. McPherson, three times adjourned the Provincial Treasurer T. W. McCarty, Provincial Secretary W. D. McPherson, Dr. Charles Sheard, Controller Thomas Foster, Controller W. H. Shaw, Ex-Mayor H. C. Hocken, N. F. Davidson, Bengt.-Major A. E. Lowry and Sergeant Major Whetter.

Among those occupying seats on the platform were Hon. Dr. Pyne, Arthur Van Koughnet, A. E. Donovan, M.L.A., Canon Dixon, Hon. Thomas Crawford, Alderman Ball, Alderman Hill, Alderman Ross, Alderman Graham, Alderman McMillan, Alderman MacGregor, Alderman Fenwick, Alderman Whetter and James Somers. Mayor Church in opening the meeting said in part: "The time has come for us to do our duty. England put us to task in two weeks. The United States has adopted it and given the people of the world a lesson. We have had two years and a half of war and still have no conscription. As far as the city is concerned we have been

Liberals to Hold Aloof

By a Staff Reporter.

Ottawa, June 11.—The coalition talk is dying out and it is now freely asserted that at the conclusion of the Liberal caucus tomorrow a formal announcement will be made that no Liberal member of the house will accept a cabinet portfolio under premiership of Sir Robert Borden.

PERIL LIES IN OPPOSING BILL SOLEMN WARNING BY BORDEN

Points in Borden's Address.

My announcement on Jan. 1, 1916, has been taken as a pledge by the people of Canada that we would furnish 500,000 soldiers for service overseas.

The choice presented is this: We must see our four divisions dwindle, perhaps, to one, or we must keep them up to strength by compulsory military service.

"More infantry" is the cry from the trenches.

Our casualties for the next seven months are estimated at 70,000, and they will be larger if we continue to act on the offensive.

A more infamous suggestion has never passed human lips than that the conscription bill was at the suggestion or direction of the British Government. I, and no one else, am responsible for the decision.

Efforts to form a coalition government have failed, but I do not regret the effort, altho it has involved a delay, which has been taken advantage of by those who seek to arouse passion and prejudice against the measure.

I am not so much concerned for the day when the bill becomes law as for the day when the men return if it is denied.

It is easy to sow the wind of clamor....but those who make that sowing may reap such a whirlwind as they do not dream of today.

"Clamorers May Reap Such a Whirlwind as They Do Not Dream of Today," Declares Premier Borden in Introducing Conscription Measure in Presence of Great Assembly—Laurier Promises Calmness and Moderation in Debate on Second Reading of Bill.

By a Staff Reporter.

OTTAWA, June 11.—In probably the greatest speech of his long public career, Sir Robert Borden this afternoon moved the first reading of his bill entitled "The Military Service Act, 1917." It is the bill providing for the conscription of 100,000 men for the service in the Canadian expeditionary forces by selective draft. The bill makes liable for military service all men between the ages of 20 and 45, but certain classes of citizens, like clergymen, are exempted, and individual citizens, otherwise liable, may apply for exemption to local tribunals, from whose decision appeal may be taken. The administration of the act is placed upon the minister of justice, and the various commissions to consider granting exemptions will be appointed by the courts.

Notable Audience.

Sir Robert Borden spoke to a notable audience, the floor of the house being crowded and the galleries taxed to capacity. His tone throughout was conciliatory and he labored at some length to prove that conscription had been a statute law of Canada since the passage of the Militia Act of 1868. He tore to tatters the pretense that sending troops to France and Flanders was not sent them out of the country for the defence of Canada, declaring that Canadian soldiers, who, at the second battle of Ypres, prevented the Germans from reaching Calais also stopped their triumphant progress to Halifax and Montreal.

Solemn Warning Given.

Part of the address was overloaded with details, but in the closing passages the prime minister rose to splendid heights of eloquence. He warned those who raised a clamor against the bill that they would have to reckon with the returned soldiers if the measure were defeated and the boys in the trenches denied the reinforcements for which they now appealed.

To prevent discord and disunion, he said he had made every effort to bring about a coalition, and intimated that still further efforts might be made in that direction; and to allay any possible misconception he had even offered to suspend the enforcement of conscription until after a general election. His offer of coalition not having been accepted, conscription will be brought into force by order-in-council after the bill now before the house became law.

Laurier Moved.

The prime minister's speech was often interrupted by loud applause, and at its conclusion he received a magnificent ovation. His reference to the soldiers in the trenches who had died, even while he was speaking, struck a responsive chord throughout the vast audience, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier was deeply moved when he rose to reply.

The leader of the opposition reminded the house that the principle of the bill could not be discussed until second reading, and that he had no time whatever to acquaint himself with its details and provisions. He assured the prime minister that from the opposition side of the house at least, the measure would be discussed with fairness and moderation. He admitted that he found himself surrounded with difficulties, but reminded the house that the responsibility resting upon him was scarcely less onerous than that which devolved upon the prime minister.

Taken as a Pledge.

"On January 1, 1916," Sir Robert continued, "in a message to the people of Canada, I announced that the authorized number of the Canadian expeditionary forces would be increased to 500,000 men, and an order-in-council to that effect followed almost immediately. Parliament assembled a few weeks later but made no objection on that point. On January 1, 1916, it voted without dissent the additional money needed for the enlarged army. My announcement was not a pledge, but was taken by the people of Canada as a pledge that we would furnish 500,000 men for service overseas. It was taken by them I repeat, as a pledge, and I am content to so regard it." (Applause).

Response to Message.

To his New Year's message, the prime minister's opening outlandish response of 100,000 recruits in three months' time, but recruiting diminished in the summer of 1916 and greatly declined during the following winter. He had, however, visited and addressed large audiences in all of the provinces, accompanied by the director-general of national service.

Upon his return to the capital he had been waited upon by a deputation of organized labor, who sought to exact from him a pledge that conscription

U.S. FOOD LAW DELAY CAUSES ANXIETY

Britain Feels Much Uncertainty Over Future Allowance of Fodder.

WANTS QUICK ACTION

H. E. Prothero Fears Short Supply of Milk for Babies.

London, June 11.—The progress of food legislation in the American Congress is being watched here with the keenest anxiety. In a statement today, R. E. Prothero, president of the board of agriculture and world-wide authority on food producing, said:

"Food for man and beast is not the least urgent need of the allies. The United Kingdom, if it exercises careful economy, can not long afford starvation, and our people do not shrink from necessary privations. But fodder may run short for our live stock, especially for those dairy herds on which so largely depends the child life of the country."

"We therefore follow with anxiety the deliberations of measures designed to control the food situation in America. Until a decision is reached we cannot know exactly where we stand. Prevention is at present impossible in our case, but our policy towards our live stock to some extent hangs in the balance."

"Whatever may be the result of the deliberations in the United States, we hope for speedy relief from uncertainty. In the existing circumstances we can only appeal to the large margins for safety. We cannot wait for example, accurate estimates unless we know the quantities of maize or oats which America can allocate to our needs. On these and kindred subjects detailed facts can alone enable us to make adequate provision. Every additional factor which makes for uncertainty aggravates a situation already complicated by such uncertainties as the problem of the submarine."

Asked as to the 1917 harvest, Mr. Prothero said it was too soon to say anything certain. There were bad patches and good signs here and there of failure owing to the severe and prolonged winter. Taking condition into account, it was impossible to be optimistic as to an increased yield from the area sown with cereals, especiallly rye, the case of wheat.

INFLUX AFTER WAR.

London, June 11.—The Bishop of London at the British Columbia and Yukon Church Aid Society declared that after the war there would be an influx to the garden of Canada. He called upon all to help make homes in British Columbia.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

IMPATIENT to be off again on another big assault, the second British army, in a further advance from the Messines ridge, captured another mile of German trenches at a point southwest of Messines early yesterday morning. No German counter-attacks developed, and the British pushed on again for a little distance in the afternoon. The first British objective was La Poterie farm and the region roundabout. Since Friday the enemy has made no counter-attacks, but has meekly submitted to punishment, altho the British advance in this region presents him with a most vital problem of defence than an advance against the Hindenburg line, for it menaces his tenure of Lille. The capture of German field guns in this latest action suggests that the British onset found the Germans unready, for they are usually careful at the first signs of attack to remove their portable guns to the rear. The British, in fact, swooped down like hawks, pinning their prey to the ground.

Heavy rains prevented all military operations on the Canadian front yesterday. Officers who observed the effects of the flaming oil thrown on the German front before the recent big raid say that it completely demoralized the occupants of the trenches sprayed. It has a more marked success than gas in the causing of panic. In retaliation for the surprise raid of two Canadian bands, the enemy threw a barrage, lasting 15 minutes, over the Canadian line. This action revealed the fact that he had plenty of guns, both large and small, on the Canadian front. The enemy has had to use Alsace-Lorraines and Poles, troops of doubtful quality, in the west. The number of boys in his ranks has rapidly increased.

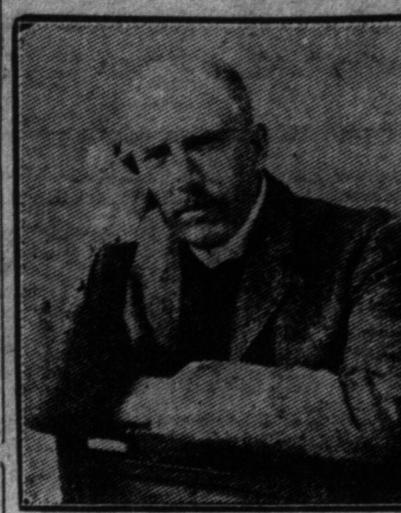

Summer in the Alps has brought with it real military activity, with the Italians on the aggressive, and, as a result, their opening attacks have already captured two important strategic points between the Adige and the Brenta. They have driven back and pursued the enemy in the Tonale Pass, on the slope of Doss Casina, and in the Posina Valley, and after their artillery had destroyed the complex Austrian system of trenches on the Asiago Plateau, their infantry charged in a violent storm and captured the Agnello Pass and nearly the whole of Monte Ortigara, east of Clima Udine. Their last attack, which strongly pressed home, the Italians took 512 prisoners. Their aircraft materially assisted their advance by the dropping of bombs in the rear of the Austrian front and on the Austrian heavy batteries. Whether they will portend a real offensive, or whether they have as their object the relieving of the pressure on the Julian front, cannot yet be seen at this distance. Any threat northward imperils southern Germany, so the enemy will certainly conform to the Italian initiative to the weakening of some other front.

In reporting the fight between a British drifter from Dover and five German seaplanes yesterday, the British Admiralty is reporting an action that would have made the ancestors of the sailors stare and gasp. The drifter sped the enemy shortly after dawn and at once attacked him. It destroyed one seaplane and so badly damaged another that it sank while being towed into the harbor. The remaining three German seaplanes, says the admiralty record, made good their escape.

The Russian army still remains inactive, while wounded soldiers, Don Cossacks, Don peasants and other elements of the population are pledging their support to the provisional government and demanding the taking of the offensive. Even the Russian women are planning to enlist for service as soldiers in the field to shame the men hangers-back. The general headquarters of the Russian army only report the safe return of a successful raiding expedition on the western front.

The British Government, in a note to Petrograd, heartily supports the Russian project to liberate, not only Russian Poland, but the Polish provinces incorporated in Prussia and Austria-Hungary. It also supports the policy given utterance in the message of President Wilson to the United States Congress. It says that Great Britain went to war in self-defence and to force respect for treaties, and that to these objects there has been added the liberation of oppressed peoples.

Von Hindenburg is fast qualifying as the real Mark Tapley of the war. His good taste still permits the continued use of that hackneyed term, for he has sent another message to the interior, asserting that he has confidence that the German army and people, held together by the strong hand of the kaiser, will enforce against any power on earth such a peace as Germany desires. Method underlies this apparent lunacy, for the enemy has not given up hope of striving for a separate peace with Russia, and such boastings form part of his propaganda.

NEW AGREEMENT SATISFIES PRESSMEN

Committee Appointed to Confer With Employees Obtained Increase of Four Dollars.

At last night's meeting of the Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union, C.P., in the Temple Building, the report of the conference committee which has been negotiating the new agreement with a committee of the Master Printers' and Booksellers' Association, was presented by Chairman Robinson. The committee reported that a satisfactory agreement had been arrived at covering a period of two years from the first day of June, 1917, and after not signed until the eighth of that month, was to take effect as of July 1.

The agreement stipulates that the hours of work were to be as in the past, 48 hours for the day and night staffs, the latter to be divided into four nights of ten hours and one of eight hours. Overtime was to be at times within the first four hours after the regular quitting time, and after three hours double time. The scale of wages for overtime is set at the rate of time and a half for night staff and paid at the rate of 150 per cent over rates over day rates.

The rate of pay is to be $25 per week for the period of the agreement (two years), which is an increase of $4 over the past scale. The Toronto printing pressmen's assistant rate is set at $18 per week, and the scale of wages for overtime is to be $30 per week.

The executive committee's report stated that all members were now working and the exchequer has made the foregoing explanation.

Reports were received from the delegates to the National Labour Council, and during the evening eight new recruits were enrolled into the union.

In conclusion Chairman Robinson, of the conference committee, thanked the members of the association for their help during the past six months that the scale committee had been in existence. All the reports were received and approved by the members, and general satisfaction was expressed.

TEN CLASSES FOR FORCED SERVICE

who otherwise would be producers in Canada and to the necessity of maintaining production at the highest possible limit. Under these circumstances the method of drafting men as provided in the Militia Act is unwise and imprudent, and that the men now required should be secured by a process of selection. The bill provides for securing reinforcements which, unless parliament further authorizes, are not to exceed 100,000 men.

War Time Marriages.

After setting forth the ten classes, the bill continues:

(2) For the purposes of this section any man married after — day of May shall be deemed to be unmarried.

(3) Any class under Class 1 shall include men who are transferred thereto from another class as hereinafter provided, and men who have come within Class 1 since the previous classes were called out.

(4) The classes in which the classes are described in this section shall be the order in which they may be called out on active service, provided the governor-in-council may divide any class into sub-classes, in which case the sub-classes shall be called out in order of age beginning with the youngest.

(5) The governor-in-council may, from time to time by proclamation, call out on active service as aforesaid.

said for the defence of Canada, either in Canada or beyond Canada, any class or sub-class of men described in Section Four, and all men within the class or sub-class so called out shall, from the date of such proclamation as deemed to be soldiers.

Provision for Exemptions.

The system of exemption has evidently been worked out with great care. There are to be three tribunals. First of all, local tribunals composed of two persons are to sit in each locality wherever designated by the minister of militia. One of these men is to be chosen by the senior county court judge of the district where the tribunal first sits. The other is to be chosen by a board of selection, and this board of selection is to be named, not by the government, but by the people themselves.

The intention is that it should be composed of men acceptable to both and all elements of political faith. These local tribunals shall hear applications for exemption, and the principles upon which they shall act are set out in the bill. The effect of this requires that tribunals shall decide whether or not the man who asks for exemption is best serving the national interest at the work he is at instead of in military service.

Appeal Tribunals.

The next tribunal is called an appeal tribunal, and composed of one judge of any court to be designated by the chief justice of the province where the appeal is entered. All applicants for exemption and anyone authorized by the militia department has free right of appeal to this appeal tribunal.

Above the appeal tribunals there-all the provinces there will be a central appeal judge, to be chosen from the present supreme court of Canada. He is to determine by regulation the conditions under which an appeal may be made to him. Provision is made for providing assistance of other judges for the central appeal judge on his recommendation. It will thus be seen that the exemption provisions aim at fair and impartial, and what is more important, uniform application of the exemption clauses throughout the whole of the Dominion.

Local Bodies.

Persons chosen to be members of a local tribunal are evidently to be paid expenses, but are not to receive emoluments. This should make for the appointment of men of high character and standing anxious to be named, not by the government, but by the people themselves.

They are to be paid expenses, so long as they act in good faith. They are furthermore compelled to perform their duties, if appointed, unless released from their obligation by the authority which appoints them.

A registrar is to be appointed for each province whose duty it will be to receive appeals and locate them by districts for the convenience of the chief justice in the selection and allocation of the appeal tribunals.

Certificates of exemption that may be granted are evidently intended to be, in the main, conditional certificates. Men may be exempted for a limited time or pending the happening of some event. They may also, in proper cases, be placed in the class next in order and required to report for duty when such class is called. Applications for exemption may be made by one person on behalf of another, and may be made to any local tribunal in the province where the applicant resides.

A local tribunal once chosen, however, by an applicant cannot be afterwards changed.

Exempted Classes.

Those excepted wholly from the operation of the bill are practically the same as was the case in Great Britain. They consist of men forming part of His Majesty's regular or reserve forces and men in the royal navy, royal marines or the naval service and of men who have already served in the allies in the present war and received an honorable discharge.

They are also excepted clergy and ministers of religion, and certain members of the Mennonites and Doukhobors promised exemption by the Dominion in 1873 and 1889.

When the class to which any man belongs is called out each member of that class becomes a member of the militia, subject, of course, to his being called up to serve in the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

The expense and delay of registration is avoided and apparently at the same time the objects of registration are to be attained. There are only 16 sections in the bill.

WESTERN NEWSPAPERMEN ARE AT THE CAPITAL

Prominent Party Papers Are Amalgamating and Look Over the Political Situation.

Ottawa, June 10.—Several prominent newspapermen from the west are practically the same as was the case in Great Britain. They consist of men forming part of His Majesty's regular or reserve forces and men in the royal navy, royal marines or the naval service and of men who have already served in the allies in the present war and received an honorable discharge.

They are also excepted clergy and ministers of religion, and certain members of the Mennonites and Doukhobors promised exemption by the Dominion in 1873 and 1889.

FIND MISSING BOATS OF TORPEDOED CRAFT

Forty Men of British Steamer Southland Reach Land.

London, June 11.—The two missing boats from the British steamer Southland, which was torpedoed and sunk on June 4, have been found and are now being towed to safety land.

Edward Riggs of New York, who had been reported missing, is among them.

The Southland's captain reports that one American was killed in the sinking of the steamer, and that he does not know this man's name.</p

DEALERS PROTEST PROPOSED ACTION

Government Control of Coal Distribution May Curtail Supply.

DEPENDENT ON STATES

Canadian Requirements May Be Taken Care of by Washington.

A press despatch to the effect that the government intends to regulate the distribution of fuel has thrown the coal dealers into confusion, as it is feared that such action may make a serious condition worse. The coal men, thru H. A. Harrington, secretary of the coal section of the Retail Merchants' Association, have been keeping close touch with the Canadian Department of National Defence at Washington and expected that in the event of the coal supply being taken over by a commission of the U. S. Government, the Canadian requirements would be looked after. They fear that action on the part of the Canadian Government would not only nullify their work, but might also curtail shipments.

Wire to Premier.

Yesterday morning the secretary of the coal section sent the following wire to Premier Borden:

"Proposed measures to be taken by order-in-council guaranteeing supply of coal to consumers of the country, which I have been informed, have been received from S. F. Peabody, chairman of coal production, Washington: This committee has not yet been given full power to regulate the distribution of coal. Our aim is to increase the production of coal to such an extent that coal regulation will be unnecessary. In conditions such as these it is impossible for us to do this, undoubtedly some measure will be taken to distribute coal to the districts and industries where the need is greatest." Would respectfully present that any action by your government regulating distribution of coal will not meet approval of shipment in the United States and will tend to materially decrease shipments to this country. Our dealers are doing all in their power to secure and distribute coal, and any action on the part of your government tending to regulate its distribution will seriously disrupt their arrangements. Would appreciate your at least defer action until similar action is taken by the United States Government."

In a letter that was sent to the premier, Mr. Harrington informed him that a concise statement of the Canadian coal requirements is being sent to Washington. Thus, in the event of a crisis, Mr. Peabody will be in a position to know the exact requirements and be in a position to advise against the shipments will be able to decide how best to meet them.

Counsel's Desires.

"I respectfully submit," Mr. Harrington stated in the letter, "that the appointment of any commission under the order-in-council referred to must necessarily anticipate and contemplated action on the part of the United States Government tending to the amelioration of our condition."

"If our railways, particularly the Grand Trunk Railway, are forced up to the required efficiency, so as to permit a prompt movement of traffic and an prompt release of empty cars, our difficulties under existing conditions will be minimized."

In an interview with a reporter for The World, Mr. Harrington pointed out that the greater portion of Canada is directly dependent on the United States for its coal supply, and any action taken must be in harmony with that taken by the United States.

SERGT.-MAJOR HOLLINGER RECEIVES PRESENTATION

Auxiliary of 208th Battalion Held Successful Meeting at the Armories Yesterday.

An interesting meeting of the auxiliary of the 208th was held in the armories yesterday afternoon, when soldiers and their pretty babies or knitted while an entertainment program of music and recitation was given.

Sergt.-Major Hollinger was presented with a cigarette-case and cigarettes. Mrs. Graham expressed the gratitude of the auxiliary, and Miss George, who also presided, took the opportunity to thank the ladies said he would always be happy to do what he could in securing the room for their meetings and in any other way. He also congratulated the wives and others present on the good news that the 208th had reached the other side in safety.

Major Deane also addressed the meeting. Referring to the arbitration, he hoped it would pass, and that some of the whipper-snappers now going about in fancy heliotrope socks and coats fitting in at the waist would be turned into men. He had no doubt but that this class, once they realized their duty, would earn just as much respect and admiration. Meantime the brave fellow who had already gone overseas. Referring to the report that the 208th would go to France as a unit, he scarcely thought this would prove true. He had more faith in another report which said that in all likelihood they would be absorbed into the 12th Reserve Battalion.

An invitation was given to all present and to all women of the battalion to the home of Captain and Mrs. Brown, Oakville on June 30, the train leaving Toronto at 11:30 a.m. and returning at 7:30 p.m. During the outing the women would be altogether guests of the hostess, who would entertain them at luncheon and again in the evening.

It was decided to hold meetings monthly during the summer, the next to be held on the second Monday of July. Those who took part in the program were the Misses Cork, Flock, McCreary and Miriam Gould.

MITCHENER'S ELECTION CONCEDED

PRESBYTERIAN RECORDS TO COVER WIDE FIELD

Assembly Adopts Report of Historical Committee Presented By Dr. Fraser.

The first report of the historical committee was presented by Dr. Alexander Fraser, Toronto, at the Presbyterian assembly in Montreal on Saturday. The first part provides for the collection and preservation of church records pertaining to congregations, presbyteries, synods and general assemblies as distinguished from annals and aims at reaching the inner life of the church and its influence as manifested in the spirit of the pulpit, in personal character in the moral and social state of the community, in the public conscience, in legislation and in the administration of government. It is proposed to collect data which shall reflect the character of the preaching within the church, to compile a record of what the church has done in this great war; and biographical data of ministers and laymen who have left their impression on the church.

The reading of the report was followed by the keenest attention and it was unanimously adopted on motion of Principal Baird and Dr. Robert Campbell, who spoke highly of the value to the church and to the country of the work projected by the committee.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES AFFECTED BY THE WAR

So Many Men Are Away They Find it Difficult to Hold Meetings.

The various fraternal societies are feeling the effect of war conditions and attendance has decreased fully fifty per cent. during the past eighteen months. One or two of the minor fraternal societies have discontinued a quorum, and the stronger and older secret orders have overseas a large percentage of their officers and active workers. Societies with beneficial and insurance branches are hardest hit, because their membership is drawn from the ranks of the unemployed and those engaged in munition work being unable to attend meetings, with the result that men over the military age are running loose affairs at present, and these orders are simply marking time, as there are few candidates available.

Another phase of fraternal activity, the monthly banquets and social hour entertainments after the meeting, have been eliminated in all meetings except one. This not only affects the attendance of members, but has thrown out of employment waiters, cooks and other professional entertainers. Not only in Toronto, but throughout the province the various fraternal societies are practising war time thrift.

STREET RAILWAY DEMAND MORE WAGES

Conference Will Be Held This Week and Mass Meeting Saturday.

It is anticipated that a conference will be held this week between representatives of the Street Railways' Union and R. J. Fleming, general manager of the Toronto Street Railway Co., to discuss the recent advance in wages advocated by the men. The old agreement expires on Saturday, June 16, and altho the wage committee has not as yet received an invitation from Mr. Fleming, it is hoped that this will be received before Wednesday, when it is proposed to call a mass meeting.

The prisoners were then transferred from the city hall to the Don jail pending Ottawa's answer.

During the interview a returned soldier of the Toronto Street Railway came into the room with a police official and pointed out Fred Shidlofsky as the man who had struck him in the face when asked to enlist on Bathurst street recently. Shidlofsky denied this, and stated that he had been a naturalized British subject for three years. The police will investigate.

VETERAN DELEGATES AT WHITBY HOSPITAL

Inspection Trip to Enable Association to Report to Sir Herbert Ames.

Speaking of the visit at the weekend of the Great War Veterans' Association to the military hospital at Whitby, J. J. Shanahan, vice-president, said Sir Herbert Ames had told them the Whitby institution "would serve as model for all the military hospitals which would be built in Canada." The Canadian Army is to be the model, Sir Herbert was especially desirous that we should visit it, and after seeing conditions for ourselves, report to him as to what we thought of the place. The principal grievance seems to be that the Toronto men are far away from being near their homes.

The scale asked for is: First-year men, 26 cents an hour instead of 25 cents; second year, 30 cents instead of 29 cents; third year, 40 cents instead of 39 cents. The demand of the men is not looked upon as unreasonable, altho one item in the agreement, that every man should be a union man, may possibly cause some trouble.

Mr. Gibbons and Ald. Robbins, who appeared on the committee, refused to discuss it, but state they expect that trouble will be avoided.

PROPERTY ARBITRATION

Dominion Bank's Suit Against City and C. P. R. Resumed Yesterday.

The arbitration case in which the Dominion Bank presented a claim against the City of Toronto and the City of North York, for $127,000 damages to its branch office at Yonge and College street, by the alteration of a grade necessary for the North Toronto station, was resumed before Justice Winchester in county court, yesterday.

J. Smith, a real estate agent, resumed his testimony detailing the court the story of two sales he had made of Yonge street property in the vicinity of the bank's branch office. He estimated the value of the land involved in the case at $1,755 per foot, before the change and $17,000 for the building. He placed the damage at $11,000. The case will be continued.

PARTNERSHIP JUDGMENT

Judge Winchester, in county court yesterday, decided that D. O'Brien was a partner in a tailoring establishment run by Burton in a judgment handed down in the case of Nisbet & Auld against O'Brien and F. Burton.

For goods sold and delivered, Mr. Burton admitted the claim, but Mr. O'Brien contested all liability.

The former was the employer of Mr. O'Brien for 21 years as a cutter, and the suit involved his present relations with his old employer.

Thirty-four different bequests to sisters, brothers, nieces and nephews are made under the terms of the will of Bertha K. Porter who died in Niagara Falls, N.Y., December 13, 1916. Her Ontario property consisted of personality valued at $432,396. Her Ontario property consisted of real estate valued at $15,231. She owned the property at 700 Euclid and 53 Prince Arthur avenue. Henry J. King, architect, who is also living in Toronto, is given a life interest in the Euclid avenue property and an income on a fund of $10,000.

THREATEN TO INTERN UKRAINIAN SOCIALISTS

Eight of Occidental Hall Party Appeared Before Chief Grasett Today.

Eighty members of the Ukrainian Socialist party, arrested in Occidental Hall Sunday afternoon by the police, came up before Chief of Police Grasett yesterday afternoon, and upon advice from Ottawa were allowed to go with a warning that the next time they met they would be interned for the duration of the war.

Inspector Kennedy said that one of the men present, named Gerasky, a naturalized British subject, had admitted to him that conscription had been denounced at the meeting.

"I have evidence here," remarked Chief Grasett, "that the speaker at the meeting said military preparations were advancing too fast and that too much money and energy were being wasted on munitions."

But this impeachment the assembly emphatically denied.

"My opinion is," went on the chief, "that all enemy aliens who attend the meetings break their agreement, and ought to be interned. I will adjourn this case until I hear from Ottawa."

The prisoners were then transferred from the city hall to the Don jail pending Ottawa's answer.

During the interview a returned soldier of the Toronto Street Railway came into the room with a police official and pointed out Fred Shidlofsky as the man who had struck him in the face when asked to enlist on Bathurst street recently. Shidlofsky denied this, and stated that he had been a naturalized British subject for three years. The police will investigate.

SAILORS' GUILD HELD ITS ANNUAL MEETING

It Has Now Membership of Seven Hundred, and Receipts Totaled Over Four Thousand.

At the fourth annual meeting of the Canadian National Ladies' Guild for Sailors, held yesterday afternoon in the Margaret Eaton School, it was reported that the guild has now a membership of 700. Lady Willison, who presided, paid tribute to the increased activities of the members during the period since the war has begun. Rev. Dr. Hall, the chaplain, and Commodore Asaelius Jarvis, Hon. James Craig and Hon. Frederic Nicholls, short addresses in connection with the interests of the navy and its sailors.

The receipts for the year were $491. One subscription was for $100, given by the L.C.D.M. chapter at Regent. During the year the ladies of the guild furnished a room at the Royal Navy Institute on Bay street which had been enjoyed by over 1000 men and boys free of charge. The funds received were among others to receive subscriptions, Grant to Canadian Institutes, $455.00; Greenwich Hospital, $60.00; British Sailors' Relief, $1600; Royal Navy Comforts in Canada, $1,660.40; Lady Jeilcock Fund, $115; Widows and Orphans Fund, $500.

FINED TWO THOUSAND.

Liquor Dealer Operating With Motor Car Paid Heavy Fine.

That the ways of the liquor seller in Toronto these days are dark and devious was demonstrated yesterday afternoon when George Moore, operator in the police court, charged of having liquor for sale and selling liquor. Moore was taken into custody by Plainclothesmen Ward and Scott as he was leaving Gould street in his motor car. Examination of the car, the police alleged, revealed a number of packages of liquor concealed for the concealment of liquor. It was shown that Moore from the profits of his illicit dealing had been able to purchase a motor car and pay off a mortgage on his house. The magistrate imposed the maximum fine of $1,000 in each case, or a one-year equivalent in jail. He paid the money.

RACES TO GO ON.

Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer, was asked yesterday if he intended to stop the racing at the Devonshire race track since no permit had been granted and the cheque received on Friday had not been cashed and would likely be returned. "If he does, he will be returned," he stated in reply.

CIVIC COAL YARD.

The Ontario Railway Board will probably receive an application from the city of Hamilton to establish a permanent civic coal yard. It is probable that a plebiscite will be taken on the question, and the application to the board will follow should the plebiscite be favorable.

"THE FALL OF BAPAUME"

Cavalry Operations Formed Part of the Recent British Offensive on the Eastern Front in France

The official despatches told of the use of cavalry again in the campaign of the present Spring after a period of over two years, in which the deadlock in the trenches had precluded the use of mounted fighting men.

The official film recording the Fall of Bapaume shows the cavalry at the front, including the Canadian Dragoons. It is a wonderful record of fighting of every kind—artillery, infantry, airplanes, tanks; in the trenches, in No Man's Land, in the air.

BARBERS BOOST HAIRCUT.

It is possible that there may be many long-haired men seen in the streets in the near future. Do not think they be poets or artists, or any wild-eyed maniacs. In the wisdom of the gods, it will only be due to the fact that some of the downtown barbers have raised the price of a hair cut from 25 to 35 cents per cut. It is whispered that other shopkeepers will follow this week and also the outlying shops. In those places where the price has now been raised applications known as "hair tonics" have also gone up in proportion.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 12.

A Warning for Russia.

A notable contribution to the campaign of education in Russia has been made by President Wilson, and Sir Geo. Buchanan, the British ambassador, has also spoken some plain true words in Petrograd. It is difficult for English-speaking people to understand the extremely childlike and unsophisticated character of the Russian peasant mind. They have all the innocent faith and belief in people of other nations that they have in each other. They have accepted German professions and pretensions as children do the words of their parents, and it is necessary that, like ourselves, they should be undeceived. It is a most unpleasant experience to have to wake up from a beautiful dream of childhood faith and broad daylight admit that you have been fooled and deceived, and that there is nothing to be done but to take the steps and precautions necessary in such a case.

President Wilson undertakes the task of pulling the mask off the German treachery with a hearty good will, and his acute analysis and unfailing condemnation of German methods must have their effect on the Russian people, who understand that the United States has always been their friend, and has nothing to gain in a material way from the participation in the war or from anything but the establishment of the highest moral principles upon a firm basis.

"The war has begun to go against Germany," says President Wilson, "and in their desperate desire to escape the inevitable ultimate defeat, those who are in authority in Germany are using every possible instrumentality, are making use of even the influence of groups and parties among their own subjects, to whom they have never been just or fair, or even tolerant, to promote a propaganda on both sides of the sea which will preserve for them their influence at home and their power abroad, to the undying of the very men they are using."

All this effort is at present directed by the Potemkin pimmed to the restoration of the status quo before the outbreak of this war. Wilson declares: "That status must be altered in such fashion as to prevent any such hideous thing from ever happening again." This declaration goes to the root of the matter, and sweeps away all the cobwebs with which the pacifists, the conscientious weaklings, the so-called 'socialists' but actually parasitic elements and others which refuse to coalesce with the whole body politic, would drapre and obscure the real German design.

"We are fighting for the liberty, the self-government, and the undivided development of all peoples, and every feature of the settlement that concludes this war must be conceived and executed for that purpose." It is well to have this said by the head of the greatest American republic. It is not only well said for ourselves, but for all in other nations, including our own, who do not see clearly, in absence of some national political or other prejudice, the real issues. They may consider Britain wrong and even France as wrong, but when the United States takes the same view that can no longer be ignored, nor attributed to jingoism, national greed, British arrogance or any of the hundred and one other causes which the pacifist orator imagines.

No people must be forced under sovereignty contrary to their wish. No territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty. No indemnities must be paid except to pay for manifest injuries done. These and similar principles are laid down as the axioms of the peace to which Germany must submit before the war ends—the it take ten years.

For these things, says President Wilson, we can afford to pour out blood and treasure. If we fail to do so now we may never be able to unite or show conquering form again in the great cause of humanity. That is not the least important of his statements. "The day has come to conquer or submit." It is not easy to speak with patience of those in Canada who would have us submit, and who by their actions are doing their best to create a situation in which we would be compelled to submit to the loss of all the liberties for which humanity has struggled for millenniums.

We must stand together as allies, but we must also stand together each in our national bounds, and the lesson is as important for Canada as for Russia.

The Kaiser's Brag.

In the brag and bluster of the Kaiser in his recent speech after the Vimy Ridge drive and the capture of Arras and Froenoy, and his blank assertion that the allied troops had been exhausted in that effort and were finished for 1917, it must have come as a sad blow to those who still put their trust in German princes to hear of the battle of Messines, and the overwhelming conditions by which the Ypres salient had been wiped out. The Kaiser himself, unless he is a madman, can have no illusions. He must deceive his subjects and utter falsehoods with all the ease of a politician fighting a losing battle on the hustings. The Kaiser's aims are as personal as that, as ignoble, and as hopeless. If he had a spark of humanity in him he would sacrifice himself instead of the disciplined legions for whom he has no pity and no grace. In his gigantic egotism he still clings to the desperate hope that the drunken Hindenburg or some other of the now discredited grand command may redeem the situation. It is idle for him to talk to the German public of the great victories that God is vouchsafing him. There is nothing of Don Quixote about Kaiser Wilhelm, and his delusions are neither chivalric nor compassionate.

It seems almost evident that the operations in Russia during the past two or three months have been insufficient to break the German resistance. As Russia has been a military for almost all intents and purposes in relation to the British operations in France and Belgium recently, we may feel sure that any revival of Russian activity during the summer will strain to the utmost the German military resources. Britain must be very near her maximum strength at present. France is approaching exhaustion. Italy has engaged Austria, and seems quite capable of holding the entire attention of Emperor Carl's troops. The allies have still two vast resources of men. It is a question now whether Russia or the United States will be first in the field. All that is wanting in Russia is the spirit or the mood. There are great masses of men already under arms, well disciplined if properly led, and splendid soldiers. The United States cannot supply large contingents to make up to come. But the end is certain. If we can keep up the pressure now, and supply sufficient reinforcements to our battered battalions.

The splendid success of the drives on Vimy Ridge and Messines is regarded as but preparatory strokes in operations which will involve the whole British front. We may be sure if anything of the kind is contemplated it will be with the same completeness of preparation and magical precision which had been supposed to be peculiar to the German military staff, but now appears to be the native method of the ice-cold haberdashers of the Thames and their equally chilly associates from the Clyde, the Shannon, the St. Lawrence and the Murray.

REV. CANON BROUHALL
FIFTY YEARS A RECTOR

Aged Clergyman Dies After Half Century Spent as Incumbent of St. Stephen's Church.

For more than fifty years rector of St. Stephen's Anglican Church, College street, Rev. Canon Abraham James Brouhall died on Sunday night at his residence, 100 Howard street. The late clergyman was born in Cobourg in 1832, and received his education at Victoria College in that town and Trinity College Toronto. In 1855 he secured his degree of B.A., three years later his M.A., and in 1864 the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on him.

In 1865 he was ordained a priest, and from 1865 to 1869 was lecturer in classics at Trinity. He was appointed curate of St. John's in 1857, and was later made canon of the cathedral of St. Stephen's. For some time he was domestic chaplain and subsequently examining chaplain to the Bishop of Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Brouhall resigned the rectorship of that church in 1911, and about a year ago was taken ill, his health having been critical for the past five weeks.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Georgina Harriet Hurd Brouhall (daughter of the late Major Hurd, Toronto), three daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) H. T. Macmillan, Mrs. T. S. G. Pepler and Mrs. (Rev.) E. C. Cayley, and by five sons, Mr. George Brouhall, St. Michael's Church, Windsor, now overseas with the Medical Corps; Rev. J. S. Brouhall of Grace Church on the Hill, Toronto; Rev. Canon L. W. B. Brouhall, rector of St. George's Church, St. Catharines; F. W. Brouhall, London, Eng.; and A. C. Brouhall, Toronto. Seven grandsons, Rev. Mr. Macmillan, seven granddaughters, Rev. Mr. Pepler, and three having partaken in the present war, three having been killed in action.

HUNDRED AND NINTH DRAFT.

Altho' the disposition of recruits to join non-combatant units makes recruiting for the infantry a hard fight, the 100th Battalion is fighting hard at the game. Fifty of them are now at Camp Borden, special training depot at Camp Borden. The remainder, 20, are keeping the headquarters at the Pearl street armories going, and carrying on with recruiting for the "excessive" branch of the army. The 100th Battalion has four qualified instructors in B.P. and P.T., and is also equipped with instructors in all the other branches. The men who were sent to Borden were trained to the minute.

CAPT. LAWSON ON FURLOUGH.

Capt. Joe Lawson, paymaster of the 204th Bn., has returned on three month furlough from England. He stated that the battalion had been broken up in England, and all the men, with the exception of 100, were now in the trenches. The battalion had landed in England 850 strong, with the men all fit and healthy. General O'Connor, who reviewed the battalion at Otterpool camp, paid a rare tribute to the men and officers when he complimented them on their appearance and the excellence of their drill.

FUR WORKERS' UNION.

The regular meeting of the fur workers' union was held last evening in the Finsbury Park hall, Vice-President L. M. Benson in the chair. It was stated that J. A. McEvane, business agent and secretary, who is now in Boston attending the international fur workers' conference, has been appointed as vice-president of the international fur workers' union. The union is taking up an entirely new line of business, and intends to insure its members against sickness and accident. Final arrangements were made for the annual picnic to Niagara-on-the-Lake.

How Small They Are

By William Henry Taylor, author of "Canadian Seasons," etc.

Is there a Great I Am today,
An Egophobe, who dares to say:
"This war has weighed and measured me,
For in its mirror I can see—
How small I am?"

The Czar looks thru his gilded cage,
A pigmy, smaller than his page;
He lacked the grip of Peter's hand,
But as a failure he is grand—
The Little Czar!

The Kaiser and his Gott are naught;
No Hohenzollern who has fought
In battle's front with Fritz, the bold,
Who pays the price of war untold—
For Will I Am.

The superhuman diplomats,
The scientific moles and bats,
The subtle strategists and bores,
Have no more weight than dreams or snores,
Or ghosts of fools.

Professors, owls and autocrats,
With prehistoric democrats,
All caw with socialistic crows,
Who lead the rabble when it goes—
To feed on chaff.

This war's a fever, it must run
Towards its crisis with the sun;
The quacks can give no remedy,
For God's own hand writes history—
For little men.

Napoleon sleeps, and Caesar's clay
Is not inhabited today;
But privates win and sergeants share,
With Mighty Ones, the Stars they wear—
The Men are Great.

Look close at home, down on the ground;
All boast is brass, what have you found?
Some under you, but more above,
With Self, perhaps, your only love—
O, Little One.

When lightnings play and thunders roll,
Then puny Man, go search thy soul,
And give the fibres of thy life
A modest portion in the strife,
For thou art Small.

Of course, this "bit" will not offend
Sir Grandee, who may condescend
To read between the lines and see
Thru Other People's vanity—
How Small They are.

—The Toronto World, June 12, 1917.

PERILS LIE IN OPPOSING BILL

would not be resorted to. That pledge he had refused at the time most emphatically, and given to avoid any possible misunderstanding had been repeated and elaborated his views in a letter written in December, 1916, which had been given the widest publicity.

Sir Robert Borden then referred to his visit to England and the front. He found 120,000 Canadian soldiers in France, and there were substantially that number there today. How long we could reinforce them up to strength and how long we could hold them there could not say definitely for military reasons, but it would only be possible to do so for "some months"; therefore the country was up against one of two propositions—either we must see our four divisions at the front divide to three and from three to two and perhaps from two to one or we must keep them up to strength by compulsory military service. This was the choice.

Borden's Personal Decision.
"This measure," the prime minister said, "is not provocative, but is preventive in fact to meet an emergency and to save the honour and prestige of Canada. Rightly or wrongly, I think it is the only way to meet the emergency, and I and no one else am responsible for the decision."

Sir Robert said it was complained that the passage of the bill would cause dissension and strife. He earnestly hoped that it would not do so, and that it would be used to strengthen the Canadian army and to avoid discord he had endeavored to form a coalition government. His effort had met with failure, but he did not regret the effort, altho' it had involved a delay which had been taken advantage of by those who sought to arouse passion and prejudice against the measure.

No Cause for Dread.
"It is said," Sir Robert Borden continued, "that the consequences of this measure are to be dreaded. Why should it be? It is introduced as a new principle. I should rather be concerned as to what may ensue if this bill is not passed. The legislation of 1868 and 1904 was not mere stage play, it was a serious measure with a serious purpose. The tradition which it represents for have surely been fulfilled. God speed the day when the gallant men who are protecting and defending us will return to the land they love so well. If we do not pass this measure, if we do not pour reinforcements upon them, we shall have lost our plighted faith, with them. They have seen their friends and comrades gasping in torture from poisoned gas. They have known the meaning of desolation, regiments who have been converted into broths struck down. They have held on grimly in the trenches in the Ypres salient and elsewhere against overwhelming odds and under the devastating fire of the Prussians and the Americans who lacked guns and munitions. They have climbed the heights of the Vimy Ridge and driven the Prussians far beyond it. They have answered the call of their sense of duty and the cry from the trenches. The cry from the trenches was for 'more infantry.'

Will Not Relax Efforts.
"What is the situation?" he continued. "Our enlistments for the calendar year 1916 totaled 120,000 and our casualties 44,000, our total casualties up to date being 99,452. During April and May, however, we enlisted only 11,750 men, while our casualties for the same period rose 22,000. Our casualties for the next seven months are estimated at 70,000, and this will be larger if we do not act to meet the offensive on the western front. Canada cannot and will not relax her efforts at this, the most critical period of the war. She will not disappoint and humiliate her soldiers at the front."

No New Principle.
"The need for reinforcements, the premier said, was urgent. He alluded to the fall-down of Russia and to the very considerable time that must elapse before the United States could make her great weight felt in the war. The policy of Germany was to force the entry of people into the war, and the States failing to get into the struggle. If that was not her object she would have been insane to compel that great power to take up arms against her rather than abandon the unrestricted use of the submarine. What they needed at the front were men physically fit and effectively trained to hold the trenches. The cry from the front was for 'more infantry.'

Warning to Clammers.
"They went forth splendidly in their youth and confidence, determined to make a name for themselves, and who not once, nor twice but many times have gone over the parapet to seek their rendezvous with death. If what are left of 400,000 such men, as the world present to the house, when he moved to the reading of the bill, should be furnished before the second reading for his information, and the information of other members who might desire to take part in the debate. A few moments later, he asked in the press report, respecting the resignation of the postmaster-general, whether he had been asked to resign, and if so, had the resignation been accepted.

Sir Robert Borden: "I will make a full statement to the house on that subject tomorrow."

The house then went into committee of supply on the estimates of the railway department.

DEATH OF MRS McMULLEN.
Special to The Toronto World.
Woodstock, June 11.—The death took place here at 12 o'clock this morning of Mrs. W. T. McMullen, wife of Col. McMullen, who went overseas with the Royal Flying Corps. She took a great interest in hospital work, and was a member of the hospital trust. She was also prominently connected with the Daughters of the King, and the Canadian Legion. She had been a member of the Canadian people in their parliament, and by motives far above the party and insignificant considerations of lesser day. I hope that this measure will be received by the house, and by the country, in a spirit of fairness and moderation, so that those who are called after me know that the truth we are fighting for is the destiny of Canada and of the world. ## THE WORLD editors a cash offer for a large consignment of the sets, providing we would be given carte blanche to name OUR OWN CUT PRICE at which they would be distributed to our readers. The books are now on their way to Toronto.

Realizing the wonderful educational value of this matchless and complete library of all the world's best libraries, THE WORLD made the trustees for the benefit of the creditors.

learned a short time ago that, owing to the failure of a great publishing house in New York, a large number of sets of Dr. John Clark Ridpath's LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL LITERATURE, in twenty-five volumes, were about to be sold under the hammer at the factory for storage and accrued charges for the benefit of the creditors.

We have received the bill of lading for the first shipment, and as soon as we ascertain the amount of freight, duty and shipping charges, we will be able to publish in next Saturday and Sunday issues of The World, the price at which this monumental work will be distributed to our readers in Canada. IT GOES WITHOUT SAYING THE PRICE WILL BE SENSATIONALLY LOW.

A STRAIGHT TIP FOR THE WISE
Be Prepared to Act Quickly
---They Won't Last Long

The name of DR. JOHN CLARK RIDPATH is known to every man, woman and child in the English-speaking world. His LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL LITERATURE is recognized as the most stupendous literary production of the century. No author or writer of note from the earliest dawn of civilization has been omitted. It has been truthfully said that this library contains the essence of a thousand other libraries.

30,000 Sets Sold at $77

THE WORLD has been reliably informed, and investigation has proved that about thirty thousand sets of this marvelous work have been sold in the States and Canada at $77.00 per set AND NO LESS.

Watch What The World Can Do

Watch Saturday and Sunday World, June 16 and 17, for the Greatest Bargain of the Age.

THE CHEAPER THE BETTER FOR ALL

This is our first great educational offer on a large work as important as the Ridpath production and we want it to go down in history as a record breaker. Owing to the hitherto high price of the RIDPATH LIBRARY, only the more prosperous could afford it. The object of this offer is to make the price and terms so low, easy and reasonable that every intelligent family in Canada can afford to own this greatest and most useful educational library of the age.

A LIBERAL EDUCATION FOR EVERY FAMILY

A HINT AT ITS SCOPE.—Fifteen minutes each day set aside for the study of the world's literature, with this great Library as your College, will equip you with a complete working knowledge of the literature of the world, both ancient and modern.

Do you need entertainment to suit your varying moods? You have it provided for you in diversified form in the Library. For your gayer moments you'll find the sparkling wit and smile-provoking fancies of Mark Twain, Artemus Ward, Sir Biffey, Mrs. Quimby and famous friends of Dickens, Macrae, Scott, Thackeray, Cooper, Haggard and Ripley glide into yourensive hours with a mild and gentle sympathy that steals away their sadness are you aware; would you find solace for a doubting heart, you have but to St. Augustine, Wesley, Latreille, Parker or Calvin; or would you investigate the disquieting theories of a so-called more enlightened thought, then pass on to Voltaire or Paine; would you drink deeply of philosophy, bid farewell to Aristotle, Socrates, Plato, Kant, Spenser or Newton into your presence; would you be too much delighted with verse or carried away by the sweet rhythm of the more serious poets, open the books of James Whitcomb Riley, Robert Burns or Longfellow, Tennyson, Whittier, Goethe, Schiller, Shakespeare or Dante; would you be thrilled with the passion of oratory or fired by Pitt and they all stand ready to serve you. You can travel through the boundless realms of space, descend into the bowels of the earth, or ramble 'mid the luxuriant foliage and make the acquaintance of the strange denizens of tropical forest with a merry party of scientists like Agassiz, Audubon, Herschel, Franklin, Tyndall or Darwin to accompany you—and the vast wealth and richness of this matchless library is but hinted.

For details concerning the sets, prices, etc., see our Saturday and Sunday issues of The World, June 16-17.

By signing and mailing at once with only $1.00 enclosed, to show good faith, the ADVANCE RESERVATION BLANK printed below, we will set aside and reserve for you a set of this Library. As soon as the price and terms have been determined THE WORLD will notify you privately by mail and you may order the books under blank with the understanding that if the price and terms are not satisfactory your $1.00 will be refunded. ### DISPUTE OWNERSHIP ON HUMBER WATERLOTS

T. H. Watson Asks for Declaration That He Is Still Owner of Property.

Testimony was begun yesterday before Justice Lennox in the non-jury assize court in the case of T. H. Watson against the Toronto Harbor Commissioners to establish the ownership of two water lots east of the Humber River. The defendants claim the lots, which were taken over by the city in June 1911, that the plaintiff received $50,000 of the price to be paid for the lots, and that as the city transferred the property to the commissioners they have legal possession of the lands.

Watson asks for a declaration that he is still owner of the lots, since the lands were expropriated, and if they were it was done illegally for park purposes and not to be transferred to the harbor board. He also alleges that when the subject was referred to P. H. Watson, K. C., solicitor and attorney, he replied that he had no jurisdiction, as the city had taken no valid proceedings to expropriate the property.

J. W. Bain and Peter White are acting as counsel for the plaintiff. The case will be resumed this morning.

SIMCOE GOOD ROADS

The County of Simcoe has almost unanimously passed a by-law for the inauguration of a county good roads system, adopted by the department of highways. Elgin County has appointed a special committee to decide whether the county should join in the good roads movement.

ONTARIO BABY MADE STRONG

Mrs. Jarvis Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Cured Her Delicate Child When Nothing Else Could.

Mrs. Jarvis, Box 236, Penetanguishene, Ontario, writes: "It is a pleasure to tell you what Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my son. He was born five months old, he fell ill, and though I had medical advice for him he got worse. I tried several special foods, but none of them seemed to do any good. Dr. Cassell's Tablets came so thin that he seemed just skin and bone. He only weighed 10 lbs., and we never thought he could live. Dr. Cassell's Tablets cured him."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul street, Toronto.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are the surest home remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Trouble, Sleeplessness, Neuralgia, Nervousness and Weakness in Children. Especially valuable for nursing mothers and during the critical periods of life. Sold throughout Canada. Prices: One tube, 50 cents; six tubes for the price of five. Beware of imitations said to be Dr. Cassell's Tablets. It is known only to the proprietors, and no imitation can ever be the same.
