Editor Times: Sir--I notice by the press, that the alderman for Guy's ward is taking an interest in the proposed alterations to the city hall building, east side.

AUCTIONS

At Chubb's corner today Sheriff Robert R. Ritchie sold under an execution issued on the agreement of the Province of New Brunswick, all the estate, right, title and interest of Edwin H. Nesbit, in certain three lots or parcels of land situated on Wright, at Celebration street, this city, sold to W. A. Ewing for $250.

SAND POINT BERTHS

Official soundings have been taken at the Sand Point berths recently cleaned up by Mr. Mayes's dredge, and they are very gratifying to all concerned. There is an average depth of thirty-two feet, a few points here and there are a few inches short of this depth, but they are not there as a hardpan bottom.

FIVE DRUNKS IN POLICE COURT

Five cases of drunkenness were disposed of in the police court this morning, during the course of the proceedings, Judge Ritchie made some rather pointed remarks relative to guardians of the peace, some of whom, although credited with arrests, were not present in court.

And Judge Ritchie Says a Few More Things About Police

Donnis Sullivan, arrested for drunkenness, pleaded guilty, and was remanded to the police station, where he was severely reprimanded by his honor, who reminded him that within three years he had been in jail a great many times, which was not a good example for his family, and pointed out to him that if he were charged with vagrancy he could be heavily fined and sent to a long term.

An important meeting of the ferry committee was held this morning, at which it was decided to hire a man to keep the wheel-houses in the same state of neatness as the rest of the steamer Ludlow.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE, AFTER ALL. Mr. Jamesey Jones observes that it is not often the poor man has special reason to be thankful for his poverty, but such a condition now exists.

Organizer Copp is said to have had an interesting and uninteresting day this week. The story is given for what it is worth, passing along a country road, one evening, the reporter heard a noise, he thought it was a part making a noise, that in direction, he hurried when he was confronted by a large mouse of the kind they grow in Charlottetown. The mouse seemed also to be in search of something, and evidently thought Organizer Copp would do for it advanced upon him with every manifestation of a desire to get better acquainted. The Organizer would do for it advanced as a sprinter, and there was a large trot not far away. He slept there.

London Papers Discuss Financial Situation in States. Condition Shows Need of Powerful Central Banking Institution--Such Would Be Difficult to Form But Would Solve Many Problems. LONDON, Nov. 16--The Times, in an editorial discussing the financial situation in the United States, says this morning that more light on the subject is desirable before the best informed people of London will be able to share Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou's confidence. At the same time, it declares, it is necessary to keep a cool head and not be misled by the more distant future by what after all is only a transient phenomenon such as has occurred in America before, though those who were good, so as to do them no harm.

Catarrh

Is a Constitutional Disease

Whatever organ or passage of the body it affects, and requires a constitutional remedy for its radical and permanent cure.

It depends on an impure, impoverished, devitalized condition of the blood, which keeps the mucous membrane of the affected organ or passage in a state of inflammation, and causes an excessive, debilitating and generally offensive discharge; also ringing noises, headaches, partial deafness and weak eyes.

These are facts, not mere theories, and impress the importance of careful attention to this disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a constitutional remedy. By its purifying, enriching and revitalizing effect upon the blood, it allays inflammation and establishes healthy action of all the mucous membranes, removes the cause and effects radical and permanent cures of all forms of catarrh.

This is the testimony of thousands. At the same time this medicine strengthens and tones the stomach, perfects digestion, and builds up the whole system. It combines the best specifics for Catarrh with the best stomach tonics, appetizers and digestives.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is a Constitutional Remedy

Sold by druggists everywhere. 100 doses one dollar. Prepared only by C. I. Hood Co., Mfg. Chemists, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

The most common and easily developed form of catarrh is nasal catarrh or catarrh of the head, which is greatly aggravated by the sudden changes of weather at this time of year. In the treatment of this catarrh Hood's Sarsaparilla is greatly aided by the antiseptic tablets, Anticatarrh or Catarrhlets, a solution of which is snuffed up the nose and affords prompt relief, deodorizes the discharge and sweetens the breath. Price 50c. of druggists or promptly by mail.

How Jimmy Got His Way.

Jimmy Franklyn was a born electrician, devoting all his spare time to the study of his father and mother laughed at Jimmy's enthusiasm; but Jimmy declared that some day he would become a second Edison. His room—away up stairs, and separated by a hall from the other upstairs rooms—was a sight to behold. Wires and little work tables and tools were everywhere. A small telegraph instrument occupied a prominent place near one window of the room, and this could be heard to click, click by the hour at a time. Jimmy had a telephone wire of his own "contraption" (to use his boyish expression) connecting his room and the room of his chum, Ted Jones, who lived several blocks away. Jimmy had also contrived a wireless telegraphic instrument, which was his pet for a long time and which had been in a measure surprisingly successful. But all the time that Jimmy worked, his parents—though indulgent—laughed at him.

BRICK'S TASTELESS REGISTERED. It is an extract of fresh cod livers, containing all the virtues of pure Cod Liver Oil without the nauseous grease, combined with Phosphorus in the form of the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, nutritious Extract of Malt and the Fluid Extract of Wild Cherry Bark. What it is, What it does, What we do.

been so absent-minded, or rather for being so preoccupied with his own pet scheme. But, nevertheless, he found it just as difficult to keep his mind on other recitations that day, and during the arithmetic lesson, he made such inexcusable blunders that the teacher lost all patience with him, and, with a sharp reprimand, that evening, when he might be able to get his mind on his books instead of allowing it to "fly about the world on an electric wire."

"Why, teacher," corrected Jimmy innocently, "a person's mind could not go about on an electric wire; it's only a gas."

"Never mind, James," said teacher severely. "We do not have time today for a lecture on the subject of electricity. You remain in after school and see if you can get that arithmetic problem through your head as easily as you seem to get an electric current."

And that afternoon, poor Jimmy, wishing so much to be at home—in his dear old workshop, among his wires and his tools—sat pouring over cube root and the father of our country, George Washington.

But there is an end to all things, even to a long school day. And at last, just as the shadows of night began to gather, Jimmy bounded into his own home, just in time for a good hot supper which he declared was a treat for him, as he had been obliged to learn that day.

At table his father asked him what he had been inventing lately. "Nothing of any size—except a scheme," replied Jimmy. "But if my scheme is O. K., I'll have no complaints to make, sir."

"And do you mind sharing the secret of your scheme?" his father asked, smiling proudly at his precocious little son. "I'd rather not, sir," replied Jimmy. "You see, it's a secret."

"You see, it's a secret," replied Jimmy. "You see, it's a secret. Suppose the scheme should fall through with—well, then I'd be embarrassed, you see. I'd feel sorry that I had said anything about it."

"All right, go ahead with your scheme in secret," replied his father. "When you are ready to tell your mother and me about it we shall be very glad to hear."

So the week wore away. Jimmy put and every waking moment when not in school—in his workshop.

Then followed a strenuous Saturday for his mother who was asked to absent herself from the house for a few hours. She willingly complied, giving Jimmy the place to himself all afternoon. But when she returned home, she found that she was met at the door by Jimmy who begged her to remain away a few hours longer.

your bed, Dad, what did you think it was?" "At first I was dazed; then I remembered how lumpy you had been in the house all day, working at your 'contraption,' and instantly I knew the noise must be an alarm set off by a house-breaker. I told your mother my supposition, and she ran to the head of the stairs to receive orders from me should my surmise be correct. And it was true. There, in the basement, I got my burglar."

"Well, all I ask, Dad, is to be allowed to study electricity," said Jimmy, drawing on his clothes, for he was too excited and proud of his success to think of going to bed again that night.

"And you shall have your way, my son," answered his proud father. "You shall get the Edison, Jr., mark my words."

And the two hurried downstairs to talk the matter over with Jimmy's mother, who was waiting for them, feeling in her nervous way that Jimmy had really saved their lives that night through the successful workings of his clever "contraption."

BADLY RUN DOWN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to the Rescue After Doctors Treatment Failed.

The life of any constant traveller is almost a hard one, but those whose work compels them to be on the road, exposed to all conditions of weather, are in constant danger of losing their health. The extreme heat of summer or the piercing winter winds sap their strength, the kidneys become diseased or rheumatism sets in. What is needed to withstand the hardship of travel is the pure blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone can make. These pills are the travellers' never-failing friend. (Concerning them Mr. George D. St. Elou, Que., says:—I am a grain dealer and am obliged to make frequent trips, sometimes very tiring. I returned home from one of these trips last summer very much fatigued. I was overworked and tried to cool and rest myself by lounging on the verandah till late at night. I caught cold and the next day I did not feel at all well. I had a headache, pains in my stomach and was very weak. I went to see a doctor but he said I would be right in a day or so, so I started on another trip. I had not gone far before I felt very ill and had to return home and go to bed. I had chills, headache, pains in my stomach and kidneys. The doctor came to see me and he said I was overworked. He treated me for several months but without improving. I continually grew worse. I wasted away almost a skeleton and really thought I was going to die. One day my wife returned from the village with a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She urged me to take them, as she said they had been very helpful to her. I did so, and to my surprise I began to feel better. I had taken four boxes of them, when I felt much better. I had taken a dozen boxes, when I felt cured. I went to work and to go about my work without feeling fatigued.

Fatigue, on the least exertion is a sign that the blood is poor. Replace the blood with good blood and labor will be a pleasure. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make pure, red blood. They cure all kinds of anaemia, rheumatism, kidney trouble, indigestion, heart palpitation and the nervousness of old age, and all ailments caused by a lack of iron and blood.

WESLEY J. BAKER HURT

Carleton Stevedore Had His Ankle Broken at Sand Point Yesterday Afternoon.

Wesley J. Baker, a Carleton stevedore, had his leg badly broken above the ankle and narrowly escaped being killed while working in the hold of a bark at Sand Point yesterday afternoon. Baker had been on his shoulder and was about to put it on a tier when a wing of lead piled in the side of the hold fell. One of the deal skimed his head and another struck him on the leg, breaking it above the ankle. He was carried out of the hold by the crew and driven to his home in Windsor street, where Dr. Day attended him.

THE SOCIAL PROBLEM

In a talk with his congregation at St. George's cathedral in Kingston a few days ago Rev. Dean Farthing, a despatch tells us, referred to the drunkenness of the city, and "the ladies were urged to visit the ill-kempt homes and try to make them more comfortable, and the male portion of the congregation were appealed to provide a place as a counter attraction to the saloon."

Dean Farthing places his finger directly upon the weakest spot in the social fabric—the lack of personal sympathy and contact between those who have an abundance of the world's goods and those who live in extreme poverty. It is never a difficult task to get money to be used to ameliorate the condition of poor families, or to provide counter attractions to the saloons; but that personal contact which is so potent when prompted by genuine sympathy is still sadly lacking in the centres of population. There are in every community some who go about with deep sympathy and without ostentation, seeking to do the work which Dean Farthing regards as a common duty; but the number of them is far too small to relieve necessities and stimulate that spirit of self-help which is so essential to improved conditions in the homes of those upon whom the hand of adversity has fallen.

It is, perhaps, difficult to measure the extent to which the course Dean Farthing advocates would improve social conditions. Certain it is that there would be no swift revolution. There are always some who welcome sympathy because of anticipated favours, and with no intention of helping them. They are the sort who would gladly survey a Christmas dinner sent to them, and criticise the turkey. There are also the mentally defective, who lack the ability or the desire to improve their condition. But aside from these are many who would be literally raised up to better things by the assurance of sympathy and a little timely assistance.

The most serious fact to be considered in relation to this subject is the fate of the children. For their sake at least more should be done to improve the conditions of life in their homes. A lady who recently interested herself in a St. John family, where the mother works all day in a factory, the sickly husband works when he can, and the children eat papers on the street, expressed herself to the Times with deep feeling concerning the conditions in that home and the gloomy life prospect of the little ones. The inability of society, as at present organized, to deal efficiently with such cases must be a source of pain to every thoughtful person. At least, however, there can be more of helpful sympathy, along the lines suggested by Dean Farthing to his Kingston congregation.

TRADE CONDITIONS "Canadian trade conditions are generally good," says Bradstreet's. The number of Canadian failures during the past week was slightly larger than in the corresponding week last year, but they did not include any large concerns. There is as yet no cessation in manufacturing industry, and there is no complaint about unemployed labor. Of course, the work of railroad construction, which is being extensively carried on, absorbs a very large amount of unskilled labor, and thus relieves the situation in that respect.

There is a natural feeling of caution, in view of conditions over the border, but so far as Canada is concerned the money stringency is the chief difficulty. As the Times has before observed, there are all ways some people to take a gloomy view of things, and those predict that the depression in the United States will continue, and grow worse, and eventually produce similar conditions in Canada. Such statements are not well founded. Canadian progress is so well founded that it is not similar to those in the United States. There has not been here the same reckless era of inflation and extravagance, in which even the banks which should check speculation became themselves an aid to speculation. It is inevitable that hard times in the United States would have some effect upon Canada, and our people do well to keep a watchful eye upon developments in that country; but Canadians are not dependent upon their neighbors to the south for the means of living or of advancing the interests of this country.

In the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia there is a lull in the lumber industry, due to a variety of reasons, but chiefly to the very dull markets. The log cut this winter will be greatly reduced. Nevertheless the large mills will have plenty of logs next summer, as considerable quantities are being carried over. The reduced cut will enable the markets to fight themselves, and a healthier state of the industry will result. In St. John and other parts of the province there is no word of lessened activity in factories, which are all well supplied with orders.

The Calgary Eye-Opener, which has been brought into the limelight by the suit of Sir Frederick Borden against the Nineteenth Century has further discussed certain matters in a manner which leads the Toronto World to remark:—"The Calgary Eye Opener of Nov. 9 just to hand, ought to be interesting reading to the reverend editor of The Globe, not to mention others. Thousands and thousands of this paper are sold in the west, and several thousands in the east. The editor of The Nineteenth Century must take note of it; Sir Wilfrid Laurier has probably before this taken some action in regard to it."

The Carling Sentinel, in an article on the coming session of parliament, has this mysterious reference to Mr. Emmerson:—"Many eyes will be upon the ex-Minister of Railways, Hon. Mr. Emmerson, as far from considering himself effaced from the political map. His friends say he has been quietly accumulating a trunkful of spicy papers from the lives of certain bitter opponents, and should he lift the lid there may be consternation among certain who number themselves in Mr. Borden's following."

A correspondent suggests that the prohibition commission visit Hampton Village to note the workings of the Scott Act—or rather its failure to work. The Times has heard of complaints about the state of affairs at Hampton Village, and the disgraceful scenes enacted. Where is the inspector?

The lull in provincial politics is broken by the announcement that Organiser Copp has been busy in Charlotte county. The search for government candidates in the constituencies may not be as exciting as the spirited chase after the attorney general, but it will not be without its anxious moments.

With regard to the proposed improvements at City Hall, there should be no tinkering about it, and no resort to temporary expedients. The city of St. John is here to stay and to grow, and the fact should not be overlooked in connection with the improvements at City Hall.

A correspondent of the Times set forth yesterday in terse form a number of good reasons for the appointment of a permanent auditor of city accounts. Such an official should have been appointed some years ago, but only a few of the aldermen had the courage to advocate such a course.

Britain has the largest battleship and also the swiftest fighting craft in the world. Since these machines are necessary it is well to have the best.

The City Cornet Band is to be congratulated on its fine service to the city for a period of over thirty years.

FAIRYLAND That Fairy Land, the Mill street moving picture theatre is fast becoming a star attraction is evidenced not only by the large numbers that attend the daily performances, but also by the favorable comments of those who have visited this new amusement resort which has already become firmly established, and of which it may safely be said, "it has come to stay." Parents particularly have referred in the highest terms to the pictures and songs presented at Fairy Land and no mother need have the slightest apprehension about letting the little ones drop in after the school hour and spend half an hour or an hour before coming home.

The following excellent programme is at present being presented: The Tenderfoot, or He Would Be a Cowboy. This is a story of the far west and may be fitly described as hundreds of feet of laughter. "A Drunken Motor Cyclist," another funny film, while "Father's Quiet Sunday" is one long laugh. Mr. Dykeman's rendering of the beautiful popular song "When the Morning Glories Twine Round the Door" is alone worth many times the price of admission, and the accompanying slides must be seen to be really appreciated. Fairy Land is probably one of the prettiest and cosiest theatres in the city, being provided with a sloping floor so that everybody can see; the walls and ceiling are done in handsomely embossed steel, and painted in attractive colors. Everything is scrupulously clean and excellent order prevails. Ticket No. 611 won the barrel of flour, which can be secured at the theatre. If it is not called for by 7.30 o'clock tonight a new drawing will be held.

THE STAINED GARMENT

(J. K. Bathurst.) "A maiden, hidden to the marriage feast, In raiment white, passed down the ancient street. Till in that miry place where pathways endangered by the press of man and beast A fair woman lay; and yet she never ceased His hand, or turned aside his hurried feet. To raise her. Then in that virgin sweet The gentle tide of pity was increased. With tender care she raised the fallen one Her snowy vesture trailed amid the mire, And much she feared to stain the bridegroom's ire. Because of the dark stains that were thereon, But when she fearful stood before his face, Glowed, for each stain, a jewel in its place."

A LITTLE VAGUE. (Lippincott's) "Is it far from here to the next town?" asked a tourist of a man he met on a rural road. "Well, it ain't so very far, nor it ain't so very nigh, an' yit it ain't so nigh as it might be if it wasn't so far as it is. Still, it's farther if it wasn't so nigh, so I reckon one might say that it is betwixt an' between fer an nigh."

ON THE PRAIRIE. "So the big touring car came within an inch of running down your broncho?" said the new arrival. "Did you take the number?" "You bet I did, pard," replied Amber Jake, as he jubilantly displayed a piece of punctured tire. "I took it right off at the second stop. Here it is."—Chicago Daily News.

HIS WIFE'S ADVICE. (T. P. O.) Sir William Treloar told me once of the nervousness he felt on the very first occasion when he acted as a chairman. He was on tenterhooks lest he should do anything malapropos, and consulted his wife as to how he should act. "I do not know what are a chairman's duties, but if I were invited to take the chair I think I should sit in it," was Lady Treloar's reply, and this advice the Knight of Ludgate Hill rigidly followed.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION City Cornet Band, 33 Years Old, Holds Pleasant Observance. The thirty-third anniversary of the City Cornet Band was celebrated by the members and their friends last night in the band rooms. James Connelly, president of the band, was the chief speaker and a number of the old members joined the present ones in the celebration.

A very pleasant impromptu musical programme, speeches were made by several. The chairman and Bandmaster Williams both urged greater attention to rehearsals so that the highest degree of efficiency possible might be attained. Letters of regret at inability to attend were read from former members now living in other cities. All were united in wishing the organization a happy gathering and many years of success.

The musical programme consisted of selections by the band and songs by W. B. Wallace, J. Sullivan, W. Connors, H. Williams and H. McQuade. The latter sang to the band accompaniment. The principal toasts were the King and Our President. Speeches were given by J. Connelly, president of the organization; W. B. Wallace, the first president of the band; Freeman, who for a time was bandmaster; P. M. O'Neil and Bandmaster Williams. The gathering was brought to a close with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

The City Cornet Band was organized as the Christian Brothers' Band in 1874. Later its name was changed to the Father Matthew Association Band and finally the present name was chosen. Mr. Connelly and a few others have been members since the inception of the band.

In the cathedral yesterday morning solemn high mass of requiem was offered for the repose of the souls of members of the band who have died since its organization. The service was attended by a large congregation. Rev. W. J. Holland was officiating. Rev. D. S. O'Keefe deacon and Rev. M. E. O'Brien, sub-deacon.

The following are the names of deceased members: Rev. Wm. O'Leary, Frederick Hall, Edward Finigan, John Riley, Edmund Sheehan, Wm. McLaughlin, Bernard McGowan, John McCarthy, W. J. Higgins, L. Hourihan, John Chisholm, Michael Madigan, Charles Hazel, W. J. Connelly, William Ward, Patrick L. THERE MUST BE MANUAL TRAINING
Paper by Walter Sargent, Director of Drawing and Manual Training of the Boston Latin School.

The majority of the children in public schools leave at the end of the eighth year and go to work. While the function of public schools is said to be to teach children how to live, not how to make a living, still it is true that living is made up of the right sort of work. It is impossible for children to give steady attention to matters of the intellect for any length of time without relaxation. This relaxation is most effective when it is some sort of constructive work. School authorities simply decide whether this activity shall be taken from study and devoted to muscular activity or not. The nature of children determines that the school authorities simply decide whether this activity shall appear in the form of manual arts or of mischief; whether it shall be a hindrance to school work or a positive factor in education.

If the right balance between study and work is kept, as much or even more progress in regular studies can be made, while the energy that otherwise would go to waste may be directed towards skilled manual work. Just as ignorance is traceable to lack of intellectual training, so idleness, vandalism and lack of industrial ability and interest are due to the absence of industrial training in school. The state of Massachusetts is already experimenting to see how the irrefragable activity of the child may be put to constructive use as shall train industrial habits and manual skill. Some schools in rural communities and the smaller towns are including agriculture and forestry in their courses, and such nature study as the means of exterminating harmful insects and fostering birds and animals that are beneficial. Problems in arithmetic and design are related to local industries. Outlets of the department of agriculture have become a part of the supplementary reading matter.

In city schools manual training is becoming an effective force in industrial education. Educators have awakened to the knowledge that the chief value of manual training lies not in the fact that in that it is work that requires wholesome thinking and planning as well as technical skill. Consequently the careful making of mortise and tenon joints, never to be used, or bits of wood turning that have no purpose except to exercise skill, and the putting into actual use of things that are thought out, discussed, designed and executed. In Boston schools the office of one principal is furnished with chairs, hat rack and umbrella stand made by pupils. In nearly all districts of the grammar schools make each a piece of practical furniture which will be carried home and used. Such articles as writing tables, Morris chairs, bookcases and cabinets are common. It is seldom that a boy can be induced to sell one of these articles, though offers are frequently made. Such work develops interest in industries, power to plan and carry to completion a difficult piece of work, a pride in constructive ability and a fine sense of property rights.

When public opinion realizes that after children have been kept for eight years in schools which offer no industrial training and where all exercises of constructive ability is unlawful, it is unreasonable to expect the majority of graduates to be industrially capable citizens; when it realizes also that the standard of attainment in the subjects of long standing, such as languages and arithmetic, is not lowered by the introduction of industrial education, ample encouragement will be given to those who are beginning to solve the problem.

HAD $500,000; PIMPLES STARTED TO DEATH

Eccentric Little Old Woman Dies in New York
TIN CANS HER HOBBY
Kept Them Shining for Thirty Years While Valuable Tapes-tries Were Allowed to Rot —Found Lifeless in Pitable Condition.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—"Dead of starvation." That was the verdict of Coroner's Physician Wuest in the case of little old Mrs. Caroline Barry, the recluse of Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday. It did not tell that the woman was worth more than half a million dollars and that death was the result of slow starvation, a process she had been following for more than thirty years, notwithstanding her wealth.

The story of the woman whose little old attenuated body was found by the police yesterday huddled up on the floor of her kitchen in the midst of a litter of useless trash, is reminiscent of a tale of Dickens. Each can so brightly polished that it shone like a mirror. But the windows were thick with dust and festooned with cobwebs. She had collected hundreds of these and placed them in orderly rows in the drawers of her mahogany and rosewood chests. Tin cans—milk cans, tomato cans and others, as well as glass bottles, were her hobby. Inside, except for the shining cans and bottles, there was a still greater disorder. Her rich furnishings of antique rosewood and mahogany, with their priceless carvings and upholstery, had never been unpacked them from falling to dry rot. In every room, wood furniture in its ex-celsior wrappings, both upstairs and down, while boxes and barrels cluttered the rooms, a bed had been set up in one of the rooms, on the second floor, where, evidently, the little old woman had slept, but this mattress, long ago, for the quilt was covered with mould.

Mrs. Barry had not always been thus. Some years ago she was a happy wife, and a year ago she had been set up in her own business. She had been a bright, pretty girl. Her husband, Alexander Barry, a bookbinder, made a fortune training a one-time famous hair tonic. He died thirty years ago, though, after a fall down stairs, which broke his neck. Since then she has been changed.

Shortly after her husband's death she decided to invest in some mortgages. Her husband had left her a large sum of money, which she had used to buy a house at No. 14 West Sixteenth Street, Manhattan, valued at $50,000. No papers in the house gave any clue to her relatives, and the only known heir is Alexander Barry, who calls himself "Barrie," a nephew of her husband, who inherited from him the hair restorer business.

Mrs. Barry originally came from Westchester County, where her family was one of the oldest and best known in this country. They owned old Plymouth Rock country, her maiden name was Underhill. She was a Spiritualist in her belief, but she never attended any seances or went to one of their churches.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—The convention of the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, which has been in session in this city since Tuesday, adjourned today after electing officers and selecting Washington as the place for holding the next annual convention. The officers elected: Simon Burns, of Pittsburgh, general master workman; P. H. Farrell, New York City, general worthy foreman; J. Frank O'Meara, of Washington, general secretary; John Fernau, of Pittsburgh; J. B. Lewis, of Boston, and P. J. McCarthy, of Boston, members of the general executive board.

SENTENCED TO DEATH
BARCELONA, Nov. 15.—A court martial sitting here yesterday passed the death sentence upon the Celtic General Moore and his son. These two men were captured near Barcelona on Dec. 4, of last year, in the act of leading an armed uprising in Catalonia. Six other men were sent to the chain gang for life for taking active part in the movement.

ALTHOUGH, NOT A DANGEROUS DISEASE, ARE A VERY TROUBLESOME AND UNSIGHTLY AFFLICTION . . .

They are caused by either poverty or impurity of the blood and require the prompt use of a good blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters, for their eradication, which it specifically accomplishes, at the same time strengthening the entire system. Pimples also often arise from dyspepsia and constipation, and in those cases Burdock Blood Bitters has the double effect of removing the pimples together with their cause.

LAEST IDEAS IN CIVIC BEAUTY
American Civic Association Will Discuss Them in Providence Next Week.

(Boston Transcript)
Interest in the American Civic Association which meets in Providence next week shows that cities small and great in all parts of the country, are pleasantly vying with one another in the felicitous enterprise of making their local environment more pleasing and attractive to the eye as well as more sanitary and hygienic.

It is a novel plan of combining beauty with utility which is carried out in Texas where pecan trees are now planted for shade and decorative effect, the five-year-old trees being transplanted from the native forest, and afterward grafted with buds from the paper shell pecan, in a year or two to become profitable as well as ornamental. The enforcement of existing laws often affords a sufficient outlet for the civic beautifiers' energy. In Oakland, Cal., a good effect is made by arresting violations of the ordinance against sweeping rubbish into the streets.

The reclamation of vacant lots is another bit of special work which has been taken up in scores of cities. Augusta, Ga., is among the latest to join in this labor. It appears in Baltimore and Philadelphia the smoke nuisance is receiving attention, as an enemy of civic beauty. Denver, Colo., has an annual "cleaning up day" when everybody from the humblest householder to the highest public official makes a concerted effort to put yards, lawns, parks, buildings, streets and alleys, in good order thereby greatly enhancing the attractiveness of the city. The paint on the schoolhouse, the broom, the lawnmower, and the street sweeper all take active part in this annual broadside against untidiness.

Prize contests are held in home-gardening and awards are given for the neatest backyards by improvement workers in many towns where the idea is in its incipency. A favorite way to arouse public interest is by a set of "resolutions," like those adopted by the Civic League of Ingram, Pa., which declare:
1.—We will have no dirty back or front yards about our homes, and we will by example and by endeavor to have our neighbors clean up.
2.—We will plant American hardy trees, shrubs and vines and grow clean grass where we can get it.
3.—We will join cheerfully as far as our resources permit, in organized effort for clean and beautiful parks and playgrounds with which we may come in contact.
4.—We will endeavor to protect trees from the unthinking attacks of electric pole men, and will not permit the setting up of electric poles on our own premises except in severe cases, and then under rigid supervision of trees and landscape beauty.
5.—We will oppose the erection of the continuation of objectionable advertising signs of any kind, and will assist in their removal by kindly argument.
6.—Finally, we will consider our outdoor beauty as worth while and economically justified, and will try to have the children of Ingram grow up with a greater love for the natural beauties of their surroundings.

WATERY BLOOD
Nerves Are Weak
Face is Pallid
You Lack Strength
You Look Sickly
Until You Ironize and Fortify the Blood There's No Hope of Cure.
Thousands of tired workers need the invigorating, strength, the nerve-force which Ferruzone can supply. Ferruzone imparts strength because it nourishes. Ferruzone is able to nourish because it supplies to the blood the elements it lacks. Once the blood is vitalized, it tonics itself, circulates to every nook and corner of the body, carrying new life with it. Cases on record prove that Ferruzone builds up when else fails. Mr. Alonzo W. Douglas of Woodbridge, Ont., says: "I desire to state the results I derived from the use of Ferruzone. Two years ago I was stricken with Pneumonia. So severe was the attack and so reduced was my strength that my life was despaired of. I had the very best medical attention, but made no progress towards recovery. When reduced to practically a skeleton, a kind friend told me of the remarkable powers of Ferruzone. An improvement began almost at once. I gained, steadily, a greater love of life. I will gladly answer inquiries from sufferers if they care to have further particulars about my recovery. Ferruzone deserves its great measure of success." When a man in Mr. Douglas' low condition can be quickly cured, aren't the chances good for you? Don't fail to try Ferruzone. Price 50c. per box at all dealers.

Hunting the Wild Duck

By THOMAS WILSON

OFF FOR A DAY'S BOAT

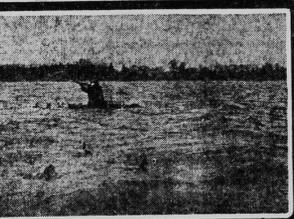

THE MAIL

TYPICAL HOME OF THE WILD DUCK

A DUCKING-STEADY

SHOOTING FROM A SINKBOX

THE CAPTAIN'S GEAR

With the coming of autumn there comes to the mind of every sportsman a call from the wild. Though not so much so now as in former years, the entire Atlantic seaboard is practically a great game preserve for wild fowl, for it is indented with a thousand bays and rivers that are haunts of the feathered tribe, each piece acting a bit different, perhaps, but all being of one mind and all following the laws of nature that cause them to move northward in the spring and southward in the fall.

Today thousands of sportsmen are looking over their gear, cleaning their guns, loading cartridges and waiting patiently for the glad day to come when they may go forth to lay for the mere pleasure of doing so.

Each season sees an increase in the number of hunters but the man who would return with his bag well filled needs to know a thing or two, for the big-billed entry are anything but fools, and were not the methods of securing them as varied as are the varieties of the ducks, more indeed would be the number of those who would return to their homes to figure out what their few trophies stood for in the market.

However, while the duck may be no fool he is often fooled and it is his curiosity that generally puts him within range of a lead of shot. If he could learn the difference between a flock of painted images and a quiet meal he might live longer, for, after all, the decoy is the greatest lure in use and about the only one that is successful. One may purchase very handsome nickel-plated "duck calls" and blow them until one's tongue hangs out and yet produce only a sound that comes as near imitating the rasping "quack" as a street piano does Sousa's band.

With the decoys goes the sinkbox, a narrow, shallow box that floats just half an inch or so above the water and decorated all around with marsh grass so that, seen from a distance it resembles just a patch of floating weeds. The gunner, lying still within his box, waits for the flock to settle around the decoys and then, half rising, blazes away.

This and high shooting comprise the principal methods employed. The light shooting entails the building of a blind, or breastwork, of material found along the shore and then lying in wait for the ducks to fly past. It is well known that ducks rarely vary in their flight and trade along the same line day after day as long as they are in the neighborhood, so it is the aim of the hunter to get a good position along the line. The Teal and Broad-bills are the principal victims to this method, as are the Sprig Tails, Butter Balls and Baldpates, but the Canvasbacks, Mallards, Redheads and Blacks are too wary to follow the same course regularly and these royal birds have to be hunted about.

The best place to hunt the duck is on the feeding grounds, for ducks, like human beings, are loth to leave anything to eat and as wild celery beds are the eating resorts for winged fowl those are the places one should go in quest of them. For years and years the finest oyster grew on the flats of the Essequenna river, near Havre de Grace, Maryland, and there were the finest shooting grounds in the world.

With the improvement in firearms, notably the "pump" or repeating shotgun, together with the vast increase in the number of hunters, the habitat of the ducks on the Atlantic seaboard has gradually shifted southward. The Chesapeake Bay still presents many spots of great advantage, but the Susquehanna Flats are not what they once were. Likewise the famous flats of the Potomac which, once the stopping place of thousands, is no longer on the visiting list and the bulk of ducks in their southward flight now rest first in the waters of the lower Chesapeake.

But even there they linger but a little while for the gunners soon drive them on toward the Carolinas and the Georgia coast. As they get into the Carolinas their flight is arrested by the abundance of food but even there the gunner is on the trail. The branching out of the southern railroads has made it possible for the sportsman to quickly reach the feeding grounds, make a bag and get home with but little time lost.

While anyone who can rent a gun and buy a few cartridges may hunt ducks there are probably more well known men who journey to hunt the variety of game than any other and all along the coast there are gunning clubs, the quarters ranging from mere shanties to palatial residences. Some of these clubs are not only difficult to gain membership in but are expensive to maintain. There are very few good gunning grounds in any section of the coast where duck abound that are not the property of some club.

The sportsmen of Boston have their fun off the coast of Maine and Massachusetts while the New Yorker first goes along the waters of Long Island Sound and later, if he has the time, follows the ducks southward. Baltimoreans, and in fact Philadelphians, look to the Chesapeake for their sport although the Delaware River and Bay must not be left out when it comes to a feeding ground, though there, like the Chesapeake, the ducks are becoming scarcer year by year.

In addition to the various methods of hunting ducks there are two classes of men who do the hunting. The one who makes a living at it, getting the ducks for the market, and the one who hunts for love of the sport. The former is by far the more successful in the kill, and were it not for them the flocks would not be so depleted as they are today.

The market hunter cares nothing for the ethics of the game, he is not averse to breaking any or all the laws that have been passed for the protection of and preservation of the ducks and, this being the case, it requires much vigilance on the part of the game wardens to see that the laws are not violated.

It was the market men who first used what is known as the "big" gun, a small cannon that was so destructive that it was necessary to pass laws prohibiting its use. With this weapon in the bow of a boat the men would at night glide into a flock of sleeping ducks. Then a large lantern would be unrolled and before the surprised ducks could rise the contents of the big gun were fired into them. In this manner many ducks were killed but many were merely wounded and numbers of the latter escaped only to die of starvation. Then, too, of those killed, many were lost while the reports of the gun disturbed every flock for miles around.

Today the market gunners work differently. Usually they work in squads and their corporation brings about good results. A double sinkbox will be placed in a good position on the flats and 400 or more decoys set out. Two expert gunners are assigned to the sinkboxes while the remainder of the squad man a sloop or schooner that is anchored about a quarter of a mile away to the windward. The men on the larger vessel are the lookouts and they wait and watch for the coming of the flocks. As the ducks approach they signal to their comrades in the sinkboxes who can tell from the signals the direction from which the birds are approaching and the altitude at which they are flying.

This guided the gunners have only to rise to the proper position and blaze away at the ducks as they pass over or settle among the decoys. As practically every market gunner carries a "pump" gun, or at least a double barreled shot gun, the two in the sinkboxes rarely fail to bag at least four while instances have been known where a pair of gunners would get six and even eight.

Then a boat is put out from the larger vessel, the dead ducks gathered in, the decoys looked after and once more everything becomes quiet—until another flock of killing ducks until the process is repeated.

Of course there are some amateurs who are as expert as the market men and who put just as much time and energy in their sport — men who have a pride in their skill and prove — but their is a class that go "ducking" each season and return with a fine bag without having even handled a shot gun.

This is the fellow who arrives on his shooting grounds the night before on his yacht. With him is a party of friends and they sit in the cabin, telling each other of the great time they expect to have on the morrow. Some time after midnight they all turn in and they dream of killing ducks until the booming of the guns awakens them and they realize that the game is on and they are not in it.

There is a rush to get dressed and a rush for the breakfast table. Meanwhile the captain of the yacht has placed out several sinkboxes and the decoys and after a little while, each member of the party is safely installed to wait for the ducks to come. It often happens that during the next few hours not more than half a dozen ducks will fly along, just out of range, but more often, even if in range, Mr. Duck goes sailing by while the shot merely touches him and the report of the guns hasten his speed a bit.

After three or four hours of being cramped in a boat the man has just enough freeboard to threaten to swamp at any moment the gunners become disgusted and return to their more comfortable craft where they console each other as best they can and lay the blame upon the luckless captain who picked out such a no-account hunting ground.

But ducks they come for the ducks they must have so the Captain is sent ashore to secure them. How many are brought back depends upon the market price and the amount set aside for the purpose but those procured are carefully hung in the rigging and when the yachtmen return to their home port with their trophies in plain view the praise for their skill that they receive amply repays them for their expenditure of money and time.

After all it is sport for kings—this hunting of ducks.

When the blood leaps in the veins and the skin tingles with the bite of salt air and a thrill runs through the nerves as the graceful beast whirls overhead only to collapse and fall at the crack at the faithful gun, then your true sportsman has no thought of the morrow nor the care the morrow brings but dreams in bliss his little day dream to the lapping of the soothing waters.

Even as the lion has gone, and the deer and bear are going, the duck may go, but ever in the annals of sport the legend of the Canvasback and the Teal will be handed down to future generations to read about and dream over.

Even today, in the old haunts that have been deserted, the Canvasback is spoken of with some of the reverence of a demigod and the places he has gone to are thought to be more than usually blessed among the garden-spots of the earth.

But hunt him as you will and as long as you will and bring down as many as your gun will find, if you are a true sportsman you cannot help a little pang of regret mingled with the pride that comes of being a good shot.

Cheerfulness wears well and brings its possessor into much solid comfort. Patient endurance for the sake of right is godlike and grand.

HELP YOUR BABY

No mother can expect her little ones to escape all the minor ailments of childhood, but she can be reasonably sure that her child will be healthy if she gives it an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. And she can feel absolutely safe in giving this medicine, as she has the guarantee of a government analyst that it contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. C. E. Crossman, New Hamburg, Ont., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach troubles and constipation with the greatest success. My child always feels safe when I have a box of Tablets in the house." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GREETED THEM WITH NATIONAL ANTHEM

Impromptu Reception Arranged in Philadelphia Hotel for Sir Frederick Borden.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 13.—A somewhat novel scene was witnessed in the Hotel Walton last evening when a number of Canadians stood with bared heads in the rounds listening to the strains of the British National Anthem and "Rule Britannia," while the rest of the guests of the hotel looked on in wonderment, trying to guess what it all meant.

Sir Frederick Borden, Canadian minister of militia, Lady Borden, General Lake and Mrs. Lake are at present guests of the Walton. The manager of the hotel, George W. Sweet, formerly in a similar position at the Windsor, in Montreal, had been advised of their arrival and arranged a little reception. On entering the doors the party were greeted by the strains of "God Save the King." The Canadian commissioners inquiring into the Quebec bridge disaster and their party are at the same hotel and were in the rounds, and immediately there was a party of nearly a dozen Canadians grouped around Sir

A FAST MILE

CLAYTON, N. J., Nov. 14.—What is said to be the fastest mile ever made by a locomotive on a track containing curves was covered today by steam locomotive number 606, which is being used in the special test being conducted here by the Pennsylvania R. R., when it travelled a mile at a speed of 91.6 miles per hour.

The trial was made over the specially built track between this place and Franklinton.

One of the new electric locomotives was also given a trial. Two trips were made, the first at the rate of 72 miles an hour, and the second at a speed of 78 miles an hour.

TO BOOM THE CITY

Springfield, Mass., Will Have a Publicity Bureau and Advertise in Newspapers.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 14.—Springfield believes that it pays to advertise.

A bureau of publicity for the purpose of advertising the city in the newspapers of advertising the city in the newspapers will mean a great deal for local merchants and manufacturers.

The advantages Springfield offers as a mercantile centre are manifest and it is believed that judicious advertising in the papers will mean a great deal for local merchants and manufacturers.

There are good prospects that Springfield will soon have a new industry which will employ at least 150 hands. The new enterprise consists of the board of trade has reported favorably upon the proposition of getting the concern, which is located in another city, to get the game for the directors voted to indorse the project.

ROOSEVELT HAS A TRIAL TRIP

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Commander Robert E. Peary's Arctic steamer, Roosevelt, which has been at Shooter's Island undergoing extensive repairs for several months, was given a preliminary trial trip up the Hudson River today. Captain Robert Bartlett, who commanded the vessel on her last expedition, was in charge, and on board were Commander Peary and Mrs. Peary, and several shipbuilders. The trip was successful. The Roosevelt had new boilers installed and her fore-castle has been considerably enlarged. The vessel's forecast is now square-rigged and the Roosevelt has been practically rebuilt and is now a much stronger ship both as to her hull and machinery than ever before.

It was announced by the Peary Arctic Club today that the vessel would be given a final test in a few days, after which she will be used up on the Manhattan waterfront and active preparations begun for another dash for the North Pole. It is expected that Commander Peary will leave New York about May 1.

OBJECT TO C. P. R.'S NEW FREIGHT RATE

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—(Special)—Wholesalers of this city are up in arms against the new freight schedule of the C. P. R., which goes into effect on Nov. 25th, and under which a uniform rate will be given to all points in the west. The result, it is believed, will be almost ruinous to the wholesale fruit dealers, inasmuch as these will be unable to compete with Minneapolis houses for the trade of the middle west, since the latter can ship in over the branches of the Great Northern. Other branches will also be seriously affected.

FREDONIA, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Taking advantage of a perfect autumn day, Edward Payson Weston overstepped his schedule for today by 12 miles. He was to stop at Silver Creek for the night but it was still daylight when he arrived there and it was decided to continue the westward journey to this town where he arrived at 7.30 in good condition. The crowd which greeted Weston along his route grow larger and more demonstrative every day. Many people walked several miles down the lake shore road to meet him tonight.

A TRAINED NURSE

Uses and Recommends NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

To Whom It May Concern.

Port Chester, N. Y.

"About three years ago I was troubled with my hair falling out at an alarming rate.

"A friend of mine induced me to try a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, which I did, and it did me so much good that I have used it ever since. I can gladly say it has made my hair grow very thick and stopped it from falling out. It certainly has no equal and I gladly recommend it."

(Signed) ANNA M. BRODE.

A Doctor's Report.

Denver, Colorado.

"Knowing the composition of Herpicide, I can state that it contains nothing injurious. In twenty-five per cent of the cases of baldness, a neglected dandruff can be considered as its immediate exciting cause or associated condition. Your Herpicide will, in the vast majority of cases, cure and prevent the continuation of dandruff. It is an elegant and ideal hair dressing."

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Commander Robert E. Peary's Arctic steamer, Roosevelt, which has been at Shooter's Island undergoing extensive repairs for several months, was given a preliminary trial trip up the Hudson River today. Captain Robert Bartlett, who commanded the vessel on her last expedition, was in charge, and on board were Commander Peary and Mrs. Peary, and several shipbuilders. The trip was successful. The Roosevelt had new boilers installed and her fore-castle has been considerably enlarged. The vessel's forecast is now square-rigged and the Roosevelt has been practically rebuilt and is now a much stronger ship both as to her hull and machinery than ever before.

It was announced by the Peary Arctic Club today that the vessel would be given a final test in a few days, after which she will be used up on the Manhattan waterfront and active preparations begun for another dash for the North Pole. It is expected that Commander Peary will leave New York about May 1.

OBJECT TO C. P. R.'S NEW FREIGHT RATE

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—(Special)—Wholesalers of this city are up in arms against the new freight schedule of the C. P. R., which goes into effect on Nov. 25th, and under which a uniform rate will be given to all points in the west. The result, it is believed, will be almost ruinous to the wholesale fruit dealers, inasmuch as these will be unable to compete with Minneapolis houses for the trade of the middle west, since the latter can ship in over the branches of the Great Northern. Other branches will also be seriously affected.

FREDONIA, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Taking advantage of a perfect autumn day, Edward Payson Weston overstepped his schedule for today by 12 miles. He was to stop at Silver Creek for the night but it was still daylight when he arrived there and it was decided to continue the westward journey to this town where he arrived at 7.30 in good condition. The crowd which greeted Weston along his route grow larger and more demonstrative every day. Many people walked several miles down the lake shore road to meet him tonight.

NEWCASTLE, N. B., Nov. 15.—(Special)—John Russell & Company's hundred-ton side-wheel steamer Rustler, Captain Spurgeon Amos, is wrecked on the Northwest Miramichi just above the confluence with the main river. She left yesterday for Daniel Sullivan of Red Bank, and was stopped by ice before reaching Red Bank. She tried to reach Newcastle and the ice split the boat. When she began to fill, the Captain ran her ashore just above the Northwest bridge, the stern saved. The cargo was mostly destroyed or damaged. The vessel was insured against fire only.

LATE LOCALS

Captain George L. Peck, a native of this city, died at Mt. Vernon last Wednesday.

Donaldson line steamer Albatross, Captain McNeill, sailed from Glasgow for this port direct today.

West Indian steamer Sobu, Captain Bridges, sailed from Bermuda for this port direct yesterday at 9:30 o'clock with mails and general cargo.

Rev. J. W. Kierstead will occupy the pulpit of the Tabernacle church at both services tomorrow. Subject, morning sermon, "The God of our Fathers." Subject, evening sermon, "The Greatest Battle of the Ages."

Yesterday's Boston Journal says:—The first cargo of Christmas trees reached port yesterday from Yarmouth, N. S., aboard the Dominion-Atlantic liner Prince Arthur. There were no less than 4,000 of the trees of varying sizes.

Usual low prices prevail at the sale of ladies' ready-made stuff that is now going on at F. A. Dyleman & Co's store. Ladies' and children's jackets, wrappers, bonnets and flannelette underwear of every description on sale at one-half their usual price.

While coming down river yesterday afternoon the new steamer Sincennes struck a log which ripped the blades from one of her paddle wheels. The steamer put in to Oak Point and a tug was sent from the city to bring her down.

At the evening service in Brussels street Baptist church Sunday, the ladies' quartette will sing, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," and Miss Edwards will render "Hosanna" (Gronier). The pastor, Rev. A. B. Cohoe, will preach at both morning and evening service.

On Sunday evening at seven o'clock, in Coburg street Christian church, Rev. J. F. Pies will discuss the question in the light of the Bible and expediency, with special reference to the hanging of Collins. Everyone cordially invited.

Pastor, Rev. David Hutchison. Morning service at 11; subject, "Christ's Absence Compensated by the Spirit's Presence." Evening service at 7; subject, "Heaven, What It Is and How to Get There." Madame Harris will assist the choir at both services and will sing a solo in the morning.

The Rev. James Crisp will be the speaker at the temperance meeting in the Every Day Club hall tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. J. N. Harvey will be the chairman and there will be special music. The street church choir will give a sacred concert and Rev. Mr. Camp will deliver a short address on temperance.

The mystery surrounding the death of Mate S. J. McLeod, of the schooner A. & E. Hooper, is to be fully investigated by the relatives of the deceased sailor. His sister, Mrs. Charles Sweet, accompanied by her husband, left for Philadelphia on Monday to make a thorough examination into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. McLeod.

A movement is on foot to form a young people's society in Brussels street Baptist church. A meeting was held last evening to talk the matter over, and it was decided that a society should be formed. A committee was appointed to decide on what lines the organization should be run and to bring in a report on Friday evening of next week. The feeling was that the organization should be of a social and literary character.

The sub-committee of the safety board charged with the duty of considering proposed changes in city building regulations, is now in session. The committee is now in session. The committee is now in session.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church, which was organized last evening, will hold their annual meeting, which was well attended. The following officers were elected: W. A. Karp, president; Lester W. Mowry, vice-president; George Hamm, secretary; Miss Boswell Irvine, treasurer; Miss Emma Rubins, T. A. Ramsay and Miss Gladys Smith, additional members of executive. Enthusiasm was displayed and plans for the winter's work were discussed. The society will meet every Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

HIS TROPHIES STOLEN

Hilton Belyea Mourning the Loss of Gold Watch and Silver Fob.

Hilton Belyea, the speedy skater and oarsman, has had stolen from him the gold watch that he was wearing as a member of the four-oared crew. With the watch was a fob with a silver medal attached. Belyea is employed as a mud measurer aboard the dredger. He left the watch and fob on the table in his room before going to work at 12 o'clock. Returning after work he was made aware of his loss. He notified Sergt. Ross, and four of the crew were searched, but with no results. Detective Killen, Sergt. Ross and Patrolman Gosline are working on the case.

BACK FROM KLONDIKE

James E. Harrington, son of Mrs. Katherine Harrington of Indianapolis, has returned to St. John after an absence of twenty years in California and Klondike. He went from here to Humboldt county, California in 1887 and later, through the Chilcoot Pass in the rush to Klondike in 1898. He staked a number of claims, and secured a modest competency as well as a wife since his entry into the Klondike.

CRUELTY TO A COW

The S. P. C. A. have in hand a case of cruelty to a cow. The animal was brought down river on the steamer Aberdeen Wednesday, ticketed to E. McDonald. By request of some one, the captain took her back aboard for the night. Before the boat departed in the morning she was put ashore and tied to a post, remaining there all Thursday in the cold, and it is believed she died. Patrolman Hamm came across the poor beast and had it placed in D. Nase & Sons' shed, and on his own authority ordered it cared for. Secretary Wetmore, of the S. P. C. A., has ordered that the animal be not released without an order from him.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT

William Secord's Team Ran Away In Princess Street Yesterday and He Received Fatal Injuries.

William Secord, aged about sixty, a farmer belonging to Red Head, had his skull fractured in a runaway accident in Princess street yesterday afternoon and died early this morning in the General Public Hospital. He and a boy driving with him were thrown from a load of hay on the foot of Princess street. While on the way down the hill the horse ran away and Mr. Secord was thrown off the load.

It is thought he fell in front of the wheel and was run over, for one of his ears was almost torn from the head and, it transpired afterwards, his skull was fractured.

The boy clung to the load until the horse ran into the fence at the foot of the hill where he was thrown from the cart. Dr. Wm. Warwick was summoned and on examination ordered the man removed to the hospital where he lingered unconscious through the evening and died about 12:30 o'clock this morning.

THE EVERY DAY CLUB

Editor of Times: Dear Sir,—Having seen through the columns of your valuable paper items relating to the Every Day Club, and having much sympathy in the work being done by such club "To Help Men To Be Men," and further, knowing the origin of such organization, permit me, sir, to express a feeling which has taken root in the minds of many of the citizens regarding the birth of the Every Day Club.

It has been said the club is solely the outcome of a series of temperance lectures delivered by an orator of some note while in our city last year.

To place credit where it is due, and give to all the true conception of the matter, I beg leave to say that the motto of the Every Day Club was conceived and worked out to a good purpose and with like results over a year before the opening up of such work on Waterloo street.

Upwards of forty men of different denominations, testing and finding out by experience the merits of such a work, organized a club in the schoolroom of Brussels street church, which was given them for use one evening each week, and as the result of business meetings held from time to time, they arrived at the conclusion that the organization be named the Every Day Club, and have these words "To Help Men To Be Men," for its motto.

Whatever steps were later taken to open up every evening the fine rooms on Waterloo street, to further the good work among men, let it be understood the foundation stone, name and motto were adopted from the former club, with approval of its members, some of whom are at present working the Waterloo street club along the lines and in the spirit of the motto "To Help Men To Be Men."

Yours respectfully, ONE INTERESTED.

OBITUARY

Capt. Matthew Balmer

Captain Matthew Balmer, an old and respected resident of Oak Point, died on Tuesday morning, the 12th inst., after an illness of about six months' duration. He was 70 years of age. The greater part of his life was spent at sea, he having been captain of different vessels sailing to the West Indies, South America and some of the European ports. Captain James Balmer, of this schooner Eric, is a son. Two daughters, Mrs. Franciscus and Mrs. Curand, of Oak Point, also survive him. The funeral took place Friday.

William Robinson

The death of William Robinson, of Sussex, occurred in this city yesterday from complications of disease. Deceased, who had been sick since last March, came to this city about three weeks ago for treatment. He is survived by his wife, who was Mrs. Maggie Dobson, a daughter of Tremholm Dobson, of Sussex, and seven children, none of whom are very old. There are also six sisters and two sisters. Mr. Robinson was a well known and highly respected farmer in Sussex. He was born in the parish of Simons, St. John county, but went to Sussex thirty years ago. His brothers are: Thomas, of this city; John, of Dennyville (N.C.); James, of Spokane, Washington; and David, in British Columbia, and Robert, at home. The sisters are Maggie and Lizzie, in Sussex. The body will be taken on the C. P. R. today and the funeral will be held from his late residence, The Cove, Sussex, on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

James McInnis

James McInnis, a life-long resident of Scotchman, Queens county, died at his home there Friday afternoon, Nov. 8, aged fifty-three years. Mr. McInnis had enjoyed good health until the day previous to his death, when he was taken with a painful disease which, in the short time of forty-eight hours, ended fatally. Deceased had the hearty good will of all who knew him, and the place has lost a highly respected and honorable citizen, and many will regret to hear of his death. He was unmarried and is survived by two brothers and two sisters—Alexander and Thomas, Mrs. Hackett, widow of John Hackett, and Margaret, who had lived continuously with the deceased. The sympathy of the community is extended to them in their bereavement.

RECEPTION TO REV. G. O. TROOP

(Montreal Star, Thursday.) The congregation of St. Martin's church have made arrangements for a large reception to the evening to their rector, Rev. G. Osborne Troop, the occasion being the celebration of his 25th anniversary as incumbent of St. Martin's and a welcome home after an absence of nearly a year in Europe. The reception, which will be held in the basement of the church, has been managed by a committee of ladies and gentlemen under the supervision of the church warden.

SCOTT ACT AT HAMPTON

Hampton, N. B., Nov. 14, 1907. Editor Evening Times, St. John: Sir,—I notice in this evening's Times that the prohibition commission has issued work in P. E. I., and will leave for St. John to investigate the working of the Scott act there. In view of this I venture to suggest that after they get through at the winter port they pay a visit to Hampton, especially the village of EYES AND EARS.
