DRAR SIR:

I received the Company's chaque, through you to-day, in the amount of $82.86 for my sickness claim. As the claim papers only went in on the 15th inst., I was completely surprised by the promptness with which it was settled, and I feel that personally I am under an obligation to you for your activity in the matter. Certainly no either company could have been prompter, and it is doubtful if any other agent would have expedited matters as speedily. I shall have much pleasure in recommending your excellent Company to my friends. DEAR SIR :

Yours very sincerely, S. H. LAWRENCE, Teacher, School for the deaf. mar12 (dec27) 3iew smw 3m

Blessington made a comical grimace. "But I'm working this on commercial principles," he said. "I keep the list, names and hours complets, and Lady Astrupp gazes in blustel ignorance as to who has a to the said are. The whole thing is great simple and statistical."

"For goodness' sake, Bobby, shut up!" Bramfell's round eyes were winkling with amusement. "But my system"—

Seeing more clearly.

The "Montreal Herald", which from the beginning has looked with favour upon the Borden "Emergency" policy, is now evidently growing a little anxious about the final object thereof and is uneasy lest this policy is really the beginning of a this policy is really the beginning of a permanent policy without loss of time. In a late disquisition on Centralization versus Local Autonomy, that paper says:

On the other hand, we must guard against such centralization of power as would weaken our national spirit, and create such friction as would lead nevitably, to the disruption of the Empire. We have to walk warily, and yet not shrink from going forward. As we go, the way will open, and our dething become clearer. So viewed, the situation would appear to indicate the wisdom of adopting, for the immediate future, the policy of a Canadian navy. Such a policy lends itself to the varying phases of the situation as does none other. It preserves our independence of action until such time as we may be prepared to exchange that independence for participation in Imperial responsibilities. It may help to create a new and valuable national industry. It will furnish a new outlet for the ambitions and the energies of our young men. And it will teach us the duties and accustom us to the burdens that a self-reliant people cannot ignore. The duty now devolves on Canada of eciding what shall be its permanent policy. While. The Herafd has had little hesitation in expressing its belief that the Borden resolutions were not antagonistic to the principle of a Canadian navy. To that end, there should be the most careful study of the question, apart from all consideration of party, that our public men can give it.

Mr. Borden would not at all weaken his.

Mr. Borden would not at all weaken his position if he frankly stated what his permanent policy is to be. As it is, we can only judge the future by the present and ude that under the guise of an Emergency Gift he is attempting to foist a regular policy of money contributions upon the Dominion of Canada, together with the Procuring for us of a representation on the Admiralty Board, a condition of affairs which would be no benefit to Canada, while it would complicate and embarra the work of the Admiralty itself.

The Premier's constituency.

Seven years ago, after it had been shown that a gain in time of from twenty-four to thirty-six hours resulted from landing the mails here for Montreal and Western points, the landing of the mails was made compulsory. Now, a new mail contract has been made by the Borden Government, and as a result, notification has been given that the C. P. R. steamer Embern given that the C. P. Truly, the honour of having a Premier as its repre-sentative comes high to this constituency.

The Belgian strike.

The strike of Belgian workingmen and Socialists to force the government to grant manhood suffrage perhaps deserves more attention than it has yet got. While the Suffragettes demand the vote in the interest of women, so that women's wrongs should be righted, and better laws enacted for their protection and ame loration, the Socialists have a somewhat more radical object in view. They desire to get the vote because by the possession and use of that vote they expect to be able to put in force their Socialist tenets. The Socialist propaganda contemplates the achievement of its principles when it obtains command of the majority of votes in the country. Their plan is to obtain possession of the instruments of production by means of the vote. The railways, mines and all large productive concerns, which are now owned by private of the yote, and thus Socialism and calles.

It is an ambitious me, and should it succeed in Belgiun might be tried in Germany, where the Socialists are especially strong. The "colerific" Socialists depend about the Socialists are especially strong. The "scientific" Socialists depend upon the ballot as the weapon whereby they can achieve their ends, their plan being to vote themselves into possession of the means of production. The Belgian strike is evidently the first practical step to put the Socialist doctrines into force. Editorial Notes.

Before a growd of 100,000 the final for the English Association football cup was played at the Crystal Palace, London, Saturday, when Aston Villa won from Sunderland I to 0. There was no score in the first period. In the second, Martin bore in upon Hardy, the Villa goalkeeper, who advanced to meet him. The two players collided, Hardy being injured and compelled to leave the field, Harrop taking goal. This misforture spurred the Villa's efforts, Baber bearing all opposition down and scoring in magnificent style in the last few minutes of the game.

In the first division, Sunderland retained the leadership on goal average and have a game in hand over their nearest opponents for premier honors, Sheffield Wednesday.

Aston Villa, having won the cup, have three league; games to play, and still a good chance of bringing off the double event. 100,000 AT CUP GAME.

BOSTON, April 21.—Marathon laurels were gathered Saturday by Fritz Carlsen, Minneapolis, who covered the 25 miles in 3h. 25m. 14 45s., which is 3m. 52 5s. slower than the record.

Sookalexis, the Old Town, Me., Indian, was second by two minutes, and Henry J. Smith, New York, who set the pace for three quarters of the distance, was a good third.

Sockalexis was fighting for an added prize in the form of the hand of Pauline Spies, of Panobscot, who waited anxiously at the finish and swooned as the Indian staggered across the line. When Miss Shea had been revived ane told the judge that she would marry the man anyway.

This was Carlsen's second Boston Marston attempt. Last year he finished fifth. Carlsen and Sockalexis both made a waiting and carefully planned contest, Much of the credit for Smith's fast time in the THE BOSTON MARATHON in good Canadian money will bring to your door a ton of the best grate Coal that ever came into this City. CANNEL COAL has been burned during the past Winter not only alone in grates, cooking stoves and ranges, but it has been mixed with inferior grades of Coal to make the latter burnable. It has also been used to get up quick fires in Furnaces on the few really cold mornings we had during the past Winter. Some of our customers keep a supply of CANNEL COAL on hand to start any fire they may wish to make. It lights quickly and lasts well. A small quantity only is required to start a fire. In fact, it is necessary to observe caution in the use use of Cannel Coal or unnecessary waste will result. Use Cannel in small quantities and get the best results.

One often hears people say that they wish they could save money and invest it. Most of them are under the impression that in order to invest, it is necessary to save at least several hundred dollars. This was the case a few years ago. Since large concerns have been established, calling for large amounts of capital, much more than that which could be supplied by one person or a few individuals, there has arisen a great demand for money from investors. Thus, a person with a few dollars to invest may become a partner in a country's greatest enterprises. And the partnership liability is limited to the extent of the money so invested. Now, the man who can save a few dollars a week or month. may become an investor. Don't wish you were an investor-become one. We shall be glad to tell how you may become an investor although your savings may amount to but a few dollars a

A difficulty of the proprietor or manager of a public library in excluding books that may be objectionable to his patrons is the experience of all managers. The managers would want, in every instance, to review every book, and that, as everyone knows, is almost impossible. As soon as attention is called to any objectionable book it is immediately dropped from the shelves. This is the principle adopted by Connolly, the stationer, since he opened his Modern Lending Library.

who knows William Carr?

Mayor Bligh to day received a letter from Edward Dixon, of Workington, Cumberland, England, under date of April?, asking for information as to the whereabouts of one William Carr, or his descendants. The last heard of him was in 1840, and he was then a seaman and owner of small vessels, doing a lumber trade between St. John and West Indies. He resided then in House Island, Bay of Fundy, and the enquirer thinks he had interests in Halifax. He is a nephew and would like to again get in touch with him.

four hours later at the Victoria General Hospital.

Charlton was in the act of delivering milk when he met with the injuries which terminated fatally.

The young man, who was only 21 years of age, was proceeding southward on Oxford street. At the time he hauled up he was behind a car, so that when he jumped off his wasgon and started to cross the street, to serve a customer, he did not observe a car coming northwards towards him. It was hidden by the car back of which he was. Charlton emerged from the rear of the car, which was in front of him, and just at that moment the north-bound car passed. The young man was struck down by it. He motormar, James Edwards, being unable to stop his car before it struck Charlton, although he stopped it as quickly as possible.

The passengers on the car and other persons who witnessed the accident removed the victim from under the car, and the ambulance was summoned. Every attention was given the injured man until the ambulance was summoned. Every attention was given the injured man until the ambulance reached the scene. Both his legs were mangled, he was injured internally, and out about the head. Despite his injuries Charlton did not lose consciousness. After being examined by the physicians at the hospital, they decided that Charlton had but a few hairs the light care. The Plant liner Hallfax arrived here trom Boston iast light. BIG STEAMERS ARRIVE. The Megantic arrived this morning and landed passengers.—The President Lincoln in port yesterday.

Mosse, Sask., April 21.—A bad prairie fire is raging in the country to the south, estimated to be 50 miles in width, and sweeping everything before it. Already half a dozen home-teaders have lost everything and several have had narrow escapes for their lives. It is the worst fire known here and has aiready burned over a large area, with no signs of abating. Hundredof men are fighting the flames, but with little or no success, for the territory in which the fire is raging is largely virgin prairie. H. F. David, arrived in port this morning from Liverpool. The voyage was made in a somewhat northerly course and the distance travelled was 2492 miles, and the passage occupied 8 days, 12 hours and 42 minutes.

Leaving Liverpool light variable to strong southerly winds were met, followed by a fresh gale and head seas. The latter was experienced until April 17, when some fog was encountered.

The following day there was a dense fog and thick weather, and with iceberge in the richit when. Estimate for 1913 totals $500, BERLIN, April 21.—Germany's great project to increase the strength of the army this year by an expenditure of an additional $25,000,000, bringing the total cost of the military estimate for 1913 up to roundly half a billion of dollars, was practically forced upon the Kaiser by his brother sovereigns in the empire. Information to this effect has been received from an indisputably well-informed quarter. and thick weather, and with locbergs in the violaity the vessel was slowed down, and consequently on April 18 only 84 miles were recorded as against 374 miles yester-day while approaching this port. The Megantic made port without special incident. She had 59 first, 310 second and 470 third class passengers for Halfax and 187 for Portland for which she sailed this afternoon.

Assessment Act, and recommended that the Bill be deferred this day three months.

Hon. Mr. MACK—I may say, regarding this Bill, Mr. President, that I make this report with some little rejuctance. In making it, I voice the sentiments of a strong majority of the Committee. It is to be observed, however, that the Bill has been most carefully drawn and deals with a subject of great importance, and it is quite conceivable that the time may come, and may come before long, when the principle embodied in this Bill will be generally accepted as a better principle for assessment generally throughout the Province. It was felt by the Committee, and strongly urged, that the Bill in its present form would provide for a varying and, quite possibly, a very divergent and different system of assessment to be adopted, not only between different counties, but between different towns in the same county, and that lack of uniformity in regard to assessment would be a serious defect in carrying the provisions of the Bill into operation. It may be remarked here, I think, that this Legislature has already gone too far in ous defect in carrying the provisions of the Bill into operation. It may be remarked here, I think, that this Legislature has already gone too far in permitting the adoption of varying systems of application of the law in different towns and counties of the Province, and it is to be hoped this principle of the same system of uniformity with regard to the application of the various public statutes will be adopted, and that towns will not be permitted to exclude themselves from the provisions of a general statute, or have varying systems of assessment in the provisions of a general statute, or have varying systems of assessment in regard to any purpose, educational or therwise, so that one town will be under one system and another town under another system. TOO HIGH FOR OPERA

CLARA BUTT SUFFERS FROM STRANGE DISADVANTAGE.

Greatest Contralto Has Prevented Her Taking Up Her Natural Caree -She Has Proven That an Artist Can Follow Her Genius and Also Bring Up a Big Family.

Possessed of an almost matchle ontralto voice, unusual beauty, and a strongly dramatic temperament, Mme. Clara Butt, the famous English singer, nevertheless, is denied the most desires—that of a grand opera most desires—that of a grand opera star. And the only reason is that she is too tall. Think of that, you little women who would sacrifice all of your petite charm for a few added inches! Here is a woman to all ap-pearances capable of getting the very bet out of life, forced to look on while plainer, less talented and in-finitely less pleasing women walk off with the prizes which her very soul must crave.

must crave. Six feet two and one-half inche must crave.

Six feet two and one-half inches does this English singer stand before she slips her foot into a shoe. On the stage one sees an artiste of superbloveliness of physique suggesting the women which the good Du Maurier loved to picture in a land of meager femininity. "Uncommon tall for a woman," hers is a height that would dwarf the most heroic tenor that ever sang—unless it might be the giant Slezah; and even him Mme. Butt overtops by a full half inch. Just fancy what the stage would reveal were she to sing in a quartette with the short matrolly. Tetrazzini, Caruso and Sammarco! Just put her beside little Maggie Teyte, just five feet tall, and conjure up the contrast! Imagine her six feet and more of stature as Delila to the Samson of the ordinary sized singer! Can you figure to yourself her appearance as Carmen to the Don Jose of Dalmores, or Campagnola? All the romance and poetry of the role, however effectually expressed, could not withstand such a contrast. The charm, the coquetry, the abandon of Carmen would be utterly lost.

But on the concert stage, either alone or with her talented husband—not quite her height, but a splendid example of stalwart manhood—Clara
But is supreme. Her regal carriage and dignity but add to the artistic value of her work there. She is conceded to be the richest singer in England; and it has all been acquired in her profession. It is not unusual thing for her to jam the big Crystal Palace in London to the very doors with an enthusiastic audience that pays a mighty sum for the privilege of listening to their beloved singer.

Clara Butt ably demonstrates the dictum of Lilian Nordica that a woman in any of the professions can bring up her family, give them every advantage and personal attention that a non-professional woman might do, and still continue her career. There are three children in the family of Mme. Butt and Kennerly Rumford, her barytone husband, and they accompany their parents on their worldwide tours. A retinue of some eleven people comprises the household; and school time and study hours are as rigidly observed as though they remained settled in their own house in London permanently.

Clara Butt is more than an English

London permanently.

Clara Butt is more than an English possession; she is an institution. An Englishman was earnestly discussing Great Britain's unique position the other day among the nations of the world in times of trouble.

What nation," he said, "is first

What nation," he said, "is first called upon to intervene if war breaks out in the Balkans or Macedonia and reports come in as to outrages committed against our Christian brethren? England! And it only needs a mass meeting or two and Clare Butt to sing God Save the King, and a tew speakers to give the horrible details, for us to want to go to war about it."

World's Largest Water Tank. World's Largest Water Tank.

The largest water tank in the world is in Calcutta. It covers an area of two and one-third acres, and the total weight when it is full of water is 72,000 tons. There are 32 miles of steel joists in the vertical columns and bracings, and in the foundations 30 miles of steel joists and tie bars.

The capacity of the tank is 9,900,000 gallons of water. The tank acts as a balancer and to assist the pumps when they cannot send sufficient water into the mains to meet the demand. During the night hours, when the pumps provide more water than is required, the excess quantity goes into the tank; when the demand is greater the water from the tank flows greater the water from the tank flows automatically into the mains.

ate Sir William Arrol Has Endur Monuments in Britain.

I remember, writes a London journalist, asking Sir William Arrol, the world's greatest bridge builder, who has just died, what was his favorite otto.

"'Do it,'" he replied, in his char-"Do it," he replied, in his characteristic blunt manner. Sir William was a man who hated to talk about himself, and it was only after considerable pressure on the part of the writer that ne emphasized the value of his favorite maxim by one or two personal reminiscences.
"One thing I made a point of doing very early in life," he said, "and it was this. Whenever I took anything in hand I would do it thoroughly. When I left the mill and went to work in Tom Reid's 'smithy' in Paisley I was sometimes sent to clean the flues was sometimes sent to clean the flues of the boiler instead of repairing it and even at times was asked to pain and even at times was asked to paint cartwheels in vivid colors. But I was willing to do anything I was told."

To sum up, Sir William declared that the secret of his success was simply this. He looked for work because he wanted it to do; he stuck to his work because he liked it, and always did his work as well and as quickly as he could. That was all.

The story of the career of the constructor of such great monuments of

The story of the career of the constructor of such great monuments of engineering as the Forth and Tower Bridges, to mention only two of the great achievements of this great engineer, is now a very familiar one; but it may not be generally known that it was competition that practically gave him his start in life.

When in the 'sixties he established himself near the outskirts of Glasgow as a boiler-maker and engineer, he was approached one day by some person who, to quote Sir William's own words, "thought I was making a fortune, and gave me an intimation that he was going to start opposition next ORMERLY occupied by Mrs. Edwar Elliott, contains 10 rooms, but, water had an and modern conveniences. door." Arrol at once offered to sell his business to this competitor, which he did at a good profit, and the money enabled him to open larger works.

But it was a tough struggle. For some time he never knew from week to week how long he could keep a modest roof over his head and that of his devoted wife, who, with characteristic daring, he had married a few years earlier. "I should not like to tell the story of those years of struggle and privation," he once said. "It would be too painful." But through it all neither husband nor wife doubted that the sun would shine some day. holding Billiard Tournaments, at T. P. McCARTNEY'S Rooms,

It began to shine in 1874, when his It began to shine in 1874, when his estimate was accepted for the construction of the Caledonian Railway bridge over the Clyde at Bothwell. In the construction of this bridge Arrol gave proof of his originality, which was the true secret of his success. He conceived the idea of building the bridge on shore and rolling it out span by snan, instead of raising the whole structure in position, as had hitherto been done. The plan was a great success, time and money being saved; and from that time Arrol never lacked rders for big bridges. Strange "cures" which are still applied in remote parts of the Highlands where it may take days to secure a doctor, are mentioned in the report of a treasury committee appointed to consider means of obtaining a more satisfactory medical service.

A witness from the remote island of Bona, Syke, described in Gaelic a "cure" for epilepsy recently practiced. "cure" for epilepsy recently practiced A black cock was buried alive beneath the spot where the patient had the first attack. He also described the successful He also described the successful treatment of a women suffering from "king's evil," i.e., bone or gland tuberculosis, by a seventh son to whom she had gone all the way to the island of Scapay, Harris.

Dr. Toimie, of South Harris, described the case of a man suffering from keratitis (inflammation of the cornea of the eye), who drove nine miles and walked another six to an old lady at Licisto. The old lady made up some rhyme, mixed some grasses with water and sand, and then sang. The man came back and said he was a little better. A man who had a carbuncle on the

A man who had a carbuncle on the back of his neck which did not heal, got a seventh son to come to his home every night for a long time to put water on the carbuncle and a sixpence round the patient's neck.

A case is quoted of a patient at Papa Stour who had to wait eighteen days for a doctor from Portree. The crofters are so poor that in many parishes the doctors do not earn more than $250 to $350 a year, while in one case it could not be more than $200.

Gave Away Candies. Gave Away Candies.

The death has occurred at Surbiton (Eng.) of Mr. Thomas Sutton, aged 84, for years an invalid, who had made thousands of children happy by converting disearded match boxes, cigar and cigarette boxes, chocolate boxes, and tobseco tins into attractive receptacles for sweets, and giving them away every Christmas to children of public institutions. Last Christmas Mr. Sutton broke his previous best record-for a year with over 8,000 boxes. Since taking up his hobby he had covered and lined nearly 40,000 boxes, all of which he had given away. SALEM HOUSE given away.

Sighted a Dead Whale. Sighted a Dead whate.

The Cunard liner Campania, arriving at Queenstown recently, conveyed to all vessels a warning to beware of a huge dead whale floating in that vicinity. A pilot, who has aighted the mammal, describes it as being 30 feet in length and of bulk sufficient to cause serious damage to any ship that might strike it.

Cleaning Up Sydney.
In Australia the Lord Mayor of Syd ney, stung by the reproach that his city is the "dirtiest in the southern hemisphere," has organized a "special patrol force" of 100 gigantic Austra-lians to capture citizens offending against the municipal bylaws for the preservation. Great danger in headaches
