THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 15.

Dana on Municipal Government.
New York was recently jubilant at being freed from the ring of robbers that oppressed her, and looked confidently forward to honest government and no more increase of debt or taxation. That hope, a hope which was apparently so well founded, has been blasted, and the necessity of reform is as great to-day, judging by the financial status of the corporation, as it was in the time of Tweed and Connolly. The Comptroller and the head of the Board of Works department may not pocket a percentage of the money that passes through their hands, but it disappears in some way with a rapidity suggestive of the old regime. Some exploring journalists will soon discover, doubtless as the one that the Times exposed. There must be something wrong when even an increase on the Tweed rate of taxation does not check the expansion of the city's debt. The kind of Reform Government (that is what they call it) enjoyed by New York is evidently akin to the Reform Government with which the Province of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada are afflicted: taxes are multiplied and levied in a most haphazard and ineffectual manner. The industrial classes of Canada have been declaring in favor of a change of Government by condemning the policy of the Mackenzie-Blind Cabinet, and the industrial classes of New York, being equally exasperated, are clamoring for a change of Government by electing a Political Party and tendering Mr. Chase A. Dana, editor of the Sun, their nomination for Mayor. Mr. Dana replies as follows:
GENTLEMEN: I thank you very cordially, and thank your constituents also, for the compliment paid me in your nomination for Mayor of New York. I appreciate it most highly, because it comes fresh and direct from the people, and from an old organized party, and is a tribute to me, and to the party which I represent. I agree with you entirely as to the condition of a real reform in the government of this city, which shall check the progress of the city's debt, and which shall increase now goes on under every party and every administration. If Tweed and Connolly were more rapid, Green and Heymeyer are none the less sure. To the workingman especially this is a matter of vital concern; for in the end the taxes are paid out of his pocket, and he is left with a pecuniary hardship upon him in the form of enormous rents, the enhanced value of property, and the depreciation of his real estate. I rejoice, therefore, at every manifestation of political feeling on his part. It is only when honest men of every name exhibit a determined purpose to reform the management of party leaders and to select their own candidates for office, that parties can be kept within the bounds of decency and be made to pay a due regard to the public welfare in selecting their nominees.
I publish Mr. Dana's letter because it contains truths for St. John. It is contained in New York the increase of taxation and the growth of the municipal debt go on under every party and every administration. In St. John as in New York "enormous rents," and "the enhanced cost of every necessary of life," are experienced, while "the stagnation of business" and "the stoppage of work" are threatened as the result of the high wages thereby rendered necessary.

The Government Prosecuting the Mail!
From the Montreal Gazette.
Mr. Mackenzie went on challenging until he obtained an exclusively clear Gilt Jury, who went into the box with their political hatred of the Mail and its party full upon them, and who had not even the decency to cover their latent bias by at least an apparently serious consultation in their own room. The whole thing was a mockery of justice, and it is never yet. We cannot believe that the full Court will consent to sustain so flagrant a violation of the manifest intention of the Legislature in the passing of the law of last session, and that the trial will be set aside as most richly should be, as having been conducted in a manner directly opposed to the law. It has been pointed out in a country where the name of the Crown is prostituted to purposes of party political vengeance.

Rev. A. B. Earle, the celebrated American Revivalist, will commence a series of services in Nova Scotia next week. On Thursday last, while the Exhibition was in progress, the young man from the county who has several times been arrested for attempting to cut a party upon them, was detected in supplying with a pair of scissors a lady's dress. A policeman being near, his attention was attracted to the fellow and he looked up at the scissors, but the lady declined to prosecute, and the dress-cutter was not detained. But he was taken to the door of the building and "kicked out."
The property of this man for dressing in the streets has been examined and appeared a most remarkable instance of monomania.—Recorder.

Mr. Smith, but in this instance the reverend gentleman did not succeed in winning the race.

The largest vaulted roof in the world is claimed by Vienna—that belonging to the great exposition building. It is said to cover nine times the space of the dome of St. Paul's, in London, eight times the space of the dome of St. Peter's, and seven times that of St. Sophia, at Constantinople. This miracle of architectural skill is 370 feet in diameter, and reaches to a height of 150 feet. The roof is composed of a series of arches, with a height of 10 feet wide, between 30 columns which carry the upper dome. The slope of the cone is 30 degrees. It is formed of three hundred and sixty iron plates, tapering uniformly upward from the circumference to the apex of the cone. They are riveted like the plates of a ship; each row of plates covers one degree of the circle, and each bottom plate is one yard wide between the rivets, and one metre wide over the rivet.

The Highway Robbery Disputed.

Mill Burned at Point Pleasant.
Last evening, between half past six and seven, a brilliant light was observed in the direction of Indiantown. That bright and glaring light was too well known for any questions to be asked. It spoke of a burning mill, of loss to men who were building up the greatest interest of the country, and of the result of the labor of years being in a few hours but a heap of ashes. Hundreds wended their way to Indiantown. Some, hearing it was Barnhill's mill returned, their curiosity satisfied, but others kept on, and, reaching the shore of the St. John, gazed upon the scene and listened to the crackling and the roar of the fire on the opposite side, and watched the reflection of the flames and smoke in the smooth surface of the water. The heat from the fire was distinctly felt on the opposite shore of the river, and forced even to warm the chilly waters. For hours the flames raged, and for hours some gazed stood, while the windows of the surrounding houses were filled with persons watching the progress of the fire. Much sympathy was expressed for the owners of the valuable property destroyed.

The mill was situated directly opposite Indiantown Ferry Slip, on Polity's farm, and was about thirty years old. It was owned by Messrs. Barnhill & Baker, and remained in their possession for fifteen years, when Mr. Alexander Barnhill became sole owner. A few years afterwards Mr. Geo. E. Barnhill became a partner, the firm at present being A. Barnhill & Son. For some time past Mr. G. Barnhill has been the chief managing officer, and has most successfully run the mill.

The fire was first seen on the shore of the building, and efforts were at once made to extinguish it. Buckets sent to the mill in hopes to save the mill, and their efforts were soon shown to be useless. How the fire originated cannot be definitely ascertained, but it is believed that the cause was the escape of sparks from a boiler in an engine in flames, which shot high into the heavens and lighted up the country for miles around.

Mr. Lewis Rivers was in considerable danger from the sparks, but the lumber was kept wet and thus saved. As soon as possible the Portland steam engine was carried across and did good service in saving lumber. Some of the millmen were second time through the fire, and one was severely wounded. The fire was well subdued at 11 o'clock, but the engine remained at the place until a late hour this morning. William Thompson was arrested yesterday for causing the progress of the fire, and had two of his ribs broken.

The loss is a serious one to Messrs. Barnhill and to Mr. William Murray of Springfield. This is the second time this year that Mr. Murray has lost lumber by fire. His loss will be about $200,000, on which there is an insurance of $120,000 in the Queen, and $5,000 in the Liverpool and London and Globe. About fifty men will be thrown out of employment by this fire, who would have had work all winter, as the contract with Mr. Murray would have kept the mill running.

The Daily Tribune and all the most popular Canadian, English and American newspapers and magazines can always be obtained at the bookstore of Mr. W. K. Crawford, King street.

The Gigamy Case.
William Agnew underwent a portion of his preliminary examination yesterday afternoon. John Kerr and Mont. McDaniel, Esq., appearing for the prisoner, while the Magistrate watched the case in the interest of the Crown. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, music teacher, testified to seeing the prisoner married to Jane McAfee in June last, and that one week ago she had seen the woman. The Magistrate said that he was not in evidence, and the second marriage to Charlotte Thompson was proved by the Rev. Mr. McLeod of Fredericton. Thomas Rossigou also testified to the first marriage, and Thomas Bordain was called for the purpose of receiving a lecture. The Magistrate refused to hear his testimony on account of his having kept out of the way after making the information. The man that would try to hush up such a crime, he said, was not deserving of belief. The witnesses were bound over to appear to give testimony at the County Court, and the examination was adjourned until this afternoon. Agnew will be committed for trial.

To Advertisers.
The present is a good time to make contracts for yearly advertising. The Autumn trade is now coming on, and after it follows the Holiday season. During these two periods wholesale and retail dealers do more advertising, and probably receive more apparent return for expenditure in that way than in all the rest of the year.

The Daily Tribune is "admittedly one of the best mediums for advertising." Making its daily visits to the counting-rooms, stores, workshops and homes of the people, it is eagerly looked for and read by citizens of every shade in politics and by all intelligent classes of society.

The Weekly Tribune is to the agricultural districts what the Daily is to the crowded city—a welcome visitor, making weekly appearances with regularity, always bringing to the homes of our country cousins the news of the city and outside world, fresh, crisp and entertaining. Its value as an advertiser is first-class, and is worth the patronage of the judicious men of business.

Rates for advertising in the Daily and Weekly editions of the Tribune may be ascertained and contracts made at the Counting Room, No. 51 Prince William street.

City Police Court.
The dock contained but two prisoners, both of whom represented in its worst forms the evils of Intemperance. One of the victims had to be provided medicine before he was able to meet the charge. His name was Edward Barnaby and his history is a sad one. He belongs to a good family in Nova Scotia, but for years has led a wild life. During the past year or two he has often been called upon in the Police Court to answer the charge of drunkenness. In fact he has hardly ever visited the city but has been found in the Police Court. This morning he was barely able to stand in the dock, and could hardly speak for trembling. To drunkenness he pleaded guilty, and the Magistrate spoke to him of his prospects, brilliant but a few years ago, now all sacrificed. Tremblingly the prisoner said he was at present in a situation, taking orders for a Boston house, and asked to be sent to allow him to depart in the good sense, and know full well that the man was so broken down, so completely gone both physically and socially, that he could find no other way to get out of it. Michael Rooney's case was altogether different. He is a young man, able to earn a good living, but will drink to excess. Last night his father was obliged to give him in charge for being drunk, threatening to burn the house, and abusing the family. The Magistrate gave him a severe reprimand, calling his attention to the fact that he was the son of a good father, an only son of a respectable father. He was a hale and hearty young man, able to earn his $3 a day, "yes, to take $18 a week more to make the total comfortable." Instead of that he spent all in prodigality, drunkenness and other wickedness; and pursued a course that was bringing his father's grey hairs down in sorrow to the grave. He was sentenced to pay $5, 00, in default, to go to jail for two months, the Magistrate telling him that but for his father he would send him to the penitentiary.

Portland Police Court.
The business was more extensive than financially profitable this morning. Benjamin McCleary was charged with being under the influence of liquor and acting disorderly at Indiantown. This charge was proved and a fine of $4 imposed. He was also charged with using abusive language to Christopher Jones. No one appeared to prosecute this charge and it was dismissed.

Peter McGovern was given in charge by his son John for being drunk and disorderly, and fighting in their house on the Straight Shore Road. For this offence the old man must pay $5 or go to jail. John Cooper was arrested yesterday for causing abusive language to Andrew Gibson, policeman, while in the discharge of his duty as collector of taxes. Mr. Gibson went to collect 80 cents due the Town, but Cooper, being considerably under the influence of liquor, hurled at him all sort of billingsgate, for which he was arrested and fined $4. Last evening his daughter was detected trying to hand a bottle of rum to the Magistrate, with enough to keep the grafting. His wife's application to have him released was not favorably considered.

Henry Short was charged with disobeying the rules and regulations of the International Hallway in reference to coachmen. It was proved that he only went outside the hall when called by some passengers, and the case was dismissed. Michael Blackall had the same charge to answer, and also the charge of using abusive language to Policeman Owens. He did not arrive at court in time to defend the charges, and found his costs amounting to $30 recorded against him.

What Does He Mean?
The following paragraph in to-day's Tribune has excited considerable surprise, as well as amusement, among the knowing ones:
The Minister of Customs leaves to day for Ottawa. He is making a minute personal examination of the chief Custom Houses, and looking into others through his deputies, with most beneficial results to the revenue. It is generally admitted that Mr. Burgess's extensive mercantile experience and close attention to the duties of his office will enable him to stop many leaks and abuses, and add largely to the customs revenue, as time will show.

On Sunday, Sept. 27, a pastoral from Cardinal Cullen was read in all the Dublin Roman Catholic churches, in which he denounced the introduction by the Italian opera company into Halle's opera of "Il Talismano" of a scene which he declares to be a shameful burlesque of Roman Catholic religious ceremonies, with an altar, candles, and a procession in which swans are represented by ballet girls, and the choir in forms of actors, whose clashing his Eminence criticised as "discoriant and dis fitting."
The Cardinal forbids the Roman Catholics of Dublin to visit the theatre in which the practices of their faith are made the subject of immodest and profane imitations. The objectionable scene referred to has since been omitted from the performance of the opera.

THE BESSMER SHIP. The problem of how to prevent sea-sickness is one that naturally engages the sympathetic interest of travelers, and they will look with great interest for the results of an experiment in this direction that is soon to be tried with the famous Bessemer Channel steamer, which has been built in England after the plans of Mr. Bessemer, of steel fame.

ventilator is designed for use on the English Channel, the horrors of which are familiar to all European travelers. Its construction is on the principle of adopting the same gearing as that used in the machinery of the Bessemer ship, but so arranged that the motion is imparted to the working of the engines and the shock of the waves against the sails. This is done by rotating the supports of the saloon on massive bolts of iron rubber, and rendering possible the transmission of vibratory motion from the ship to the saloon. If the experiment proves successful, the Bessemer will go as much as the amount of the traveling public as has been earned from the manufacturing by the ship.

"You tell the clergyman that unless the gentleman sees him a letter retracting these opinions, he would refuse him the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The layman did not need the retraction, and on the occasion of his next attendance at the Holy Communion the clergyman passed him over. Faking the precaution to comply with the rubric, and give before notice of his intention to communicate, the layman again attended the Holy Communion, and was a second time passed over. Thereupon he wrote to the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, who replied that the incumbent was justified under the circumstances in refusing the Sacrament. The layman intends to attend once more the Sacrament at the Church in question, and if again refused the Sacrament, after the Bishop's intimation, he will at once take proceedings against the clergyman in the proper court.
