The Democratic Ticket.

The Democrats have had no difficulty in nominating their candidates for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency, such unanimity was displayed at St. Louis last week, never before having been witnessed at a political convention. It was conceded on all hands that Cleveland's name would be the only one put in nomination for the Presidency, although Governor Hill of New York was boomed to some extent in his own state during the past few weeks, but there were three candidates for the Vice-Presidency, viz. ex-Congressman Thurman, Governor Gray of Indiana and Black of Illinois. The Gray delegation made quite a noise at the convention, and Black had a few followers, but the contest was there hopeless from the outset. Thurman's name evoked more enthusiasm than Cleveland's, and he was chosen on the first ballot.

The Democratic ticket is considered a powerful one, more powerful indeed than the party it leads, and will doubtless be victorious, although much depends on the Republican nominees to be chosen at Chicago, a few days hence.

President Cleveland has reason to congratulate himself on the splendid endorsement his administration received at the late convention, which adopted his platform of 1884, his message to Congress on the reduction of the tariff, and the Mills bill to that end, now before Congress, and which is said to embody Cleveland's ideas on the tariff question.

The President's political success has been most phenomenal. Eight years ago he was unknown in national politics. Now he is the best liked Democrat, and as good as President for a second term. From an office boy to the White House he has made short work of it, passing only on the way to be Sheriff of Erie, Mayor of Buffalo and Governor of New York. Thurman is an old politician, an ex-judge and a man with a national reputation for ability and integrity. He is seventy-five years old but is yet hale and hearty. He might have very easily claimed first place on the ticket if age and experience were taken into account, but he apparently preferred sacrificing his personal ambition to the interests of party, and will be a potent factor in the struggle that is to retain to the Democracy the two highest offices in the gift of the people.

Nova Scotia Vacancies.

Piotou, Colchester and Cumberland, three of the most important constituencies in Nova Scotia, will be called upon in the next few weeks to elect representatives to the Dominion Parliament. The vacancies are caused by Hon. C. H. Tupper's acceptance of a cabinet position. Hon. A. W. McLellan's acceptance of the Governorship of Nova Scotia, and Sir Charles Tupper's return to London as British Commissioner. All three constituencies are Conservative, and of course the Government will make a determined effort to hold them. In Piotou it does not look as if the Grit party would oppose the new Minister Marine and Fisheries. The election takes place on the 25th inst., twelve days hence, and if the Opposition have any intention of contesting Mr. Tupper's election, it is certainly time they were making their forces and choosing a candidate. But the probability is that Mr. Tupper will have a walk over. In Colchester the Grits will likely make a fight, as they always do, but it will be with poor prospects of success. Of the names mentioned in connection with the Conservative candidacy in Colchester, the most prominent are Mr. S. E. Gourley, one of Truro's leading lawyers, a young man of excellent ability, and an eloquent speaker, and Mr. W. D. Dimock, one of the best educated and polished of Nova Scotia's younger men. Either gentleman would make a most desirable representative, and would have little difficulty in carrying the county. The Grit party in the constituency are very scarce of available men. S. D. McLellan, their last candidate, has probably resigned the substance for the shadow, and the only other presentable candidate the party would have is Mr. F. A. Laurence, M. P., who probably feels that a seat in the Assembly is preferable to a defeat for the Commons. We think that in any contingency, Colchester as Piotou may safely be counted to continue in their allegiance to the Conservative party.

Mr. W. Campbell, late stenographer to Lord Stanley, arrived at the Grand Trunk railway dock, Quebec, at 8.10 P. M. Saturday. As soon as the steamer had left, he was met by a special train and left for Ottawa direct, reaching there shortly before 6 o'clock Sunday morning. As he was not expected, he would arrive before breakfast, and there was no reception or demonstration of any kind at the depot, and his exit from the train at the Rideau Hall, where they spent their time in looking over the buildings and grounds, where they will make their home for the next few years. Lord Stanley was met by the Governor General, Sir John D. A. Macdonald, in the Senate chamber, Monday afternoon. There was a small gathering to witness the ceremony. Lord Stanley was escorted from Rideau Hall by a troop of dragoons, and received by a guard of honor of two companies of the Governor General's Foot Guards. A salute of 10 guns was fired from Nepesin point battery.

Mr. Campbell's first address. At the conclusion of the ceremony, replying to an address of welcome, read by Mayor Stewart on behalf of the citizens of Ottawa, he returned thanks for the reception accorded him on his first coming to reside here as Her Majesty's representative. He was glad to find that, as elsewhere in his Majesty's dominions, all were so friendly and hospitable to him. He was glad to find that he was so warmly welcomed by a people who were so friendly and hospitable to him.
