SIR ARTHUR CURRIE INVITED TO OPEN WESTERN FAIR WHEN HE ARRIVES HERE ON SEPTEMBER 8

Acceptance Expected Today—Civic Reception Will Be Arranged by No. 1 Committee of City Council On Thursday.

Gen. Sir Arthur Currie will open the Western Fair on Monday, September 8, unless plans miscue, which is improbable. To this end Secretary A. M. Hunt is bending all his energies and hopes to have the official acceptance of the invitation from Sir Arthur some time today. The secretary started the ball rolling by calling on the general a few days before he got a reply and the general's arrival in Canada the following day. Today a wire was dispatched to him in care of military headquarters, Ottawa, and it is expected this will be forwarded to him at short notice.

Coming Almost Certain. There are excellent grounds for supposing that Sir Arthur's reply will be favorable, as on that day he is to address the Canadian Club here. Some time ago the general was invited to the general to fix a date for his visit. He named Monday, September 8, and it was understood here on schedule, as he was expected here on Saturday on Sunday, August 30.

WORK ON 40 BRITISH WARSHIPS DISCONTINUED; SHIPYARDS WILL BUILD COMMERCIAL VESSELS

Warship Construction in All Private Shipbuilding Plants in England Ceases Under Government Order — Building Interests To Be Liberally Compensated in Cases Where Contracts Are Broken.

London, Aug. 27.—All private shipbuilding yards throughout the country, numbering about twenty, are affected by the Government order that all work be stopped on warships except those about to be launched. The admiralty yards at Chatham, Devonport, and they are entirely occupied by the fitting of 2,700 steamers which are about to be returned to the owners, from whom they were requisitioned for war service.

Among the warships being built at private yards are cruisers, destroyers and submarines, and the work on some of these may be continued, according to the admiralty, if it is found cheaper to complete them than to break them up.

Shipyards must be liberally compensated in cases where contracts are broken, but, although several million pounds sterling may be involved, it may prove more economical than carrying out the building program.

The Mail contains an officer of the admiralty as saying that one sound reason for stopping work on warships is the excellent demand for new tonnage, and this work will probably absorb the men liberated by the stoppage of work on naval vessels. According to the Glasgow Daily Record work on forty warships, valued at 25,000,000 pounds sterling, has been stopped.

MOTORISTS OF CITY LAX IN SIGNALLING, POLICEMEN STATE

Compare Them Unfavorably
With Americans.

IS MATTER OF COURTESY

Not Enforced by Law Here As in the United States.

Traffic police report laxity displayed by local motor car drivers in signalling directions at street crossings, and the contrasting clearness of signals which they receive from American motorists who pass through the city.

Almost every phase of motor car traffic is dealt with in the amended regulations of the Ontario motor vehicles act, copies of which were received by the police today, and become fully effective on Monday, with the exception of rules for signals from motor cars to traffic policeman.

Regulations requiring safety signals from motor cars for the warning of other motorists in the rear are also lacking, the police state.

Drivers' hand signals in Ontario are a matter of courtesy and are not enforced by law as they are in the United States, police state.

Under the amended act, regulating motor cars, police call attention of motorists to the increased penalty for reckless driving, whereby persons convicted of this offence are liable to a fine not exceeding $50 or one week's imprisonment, or both, for second offences, fine not exceeding $100 or six months' imprisonment.

Every motor vehicle must be equipped with a noise muffler, and the muffler must be kept in good order, and the muffler shall be attached to the vehicle.

Commercial motor vehicles with motor, placed so that the driver may have a clear view of the roadway in the rear of his car.

Complainant Fails to Appear in Language Charge.

There was a monetary loss all around the police court this morning when the case of a woman charged with using abusive language in a charge of abusive language against her husband, John J. Bartram, who had been charged with using abusive language against her, was dismissed.

After John had given a sample of the language which he said, the plaintiff used toward his wife, the case was dismissed.

"How about you, my dear?" the plaintiff asked the magistrate, "it is too bad to make him lose the time which he would have spent in working."

"And it is too bad to make him lose the costs of the case," the magistrate replied, and dismissed the wife's fee.

Sarah Crouch, charged by John L. Luman, inspector of sanitation, with a breach of the public health act, will appear in court in one week to report upon the condition of her property.

For Freckled, Tanned,
Red or Blotchy Skin

Just beneath that freckled, tanned or reddened complexion there's an exquisitely beautiful skin of youthful tint and delicacy. If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the discolored one! You can—in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get at any drug store an ounce of ordinary mercurized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing it mornings with warm water. The wax assists Nature by gradually peeling off the lingering particles of scorched and half-dead surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Cutaneous defects like pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, of course, disappear with the old skin. Nothing else will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.—Adv.

What You Can Do With a Can of Salmon.

The quickest of all cold dishes to prepare is probably canned salmon. For it can be served immediately from the can with no more preparation than a bowl of dressing. Or it may be spread on sandwiches with a dash of lemon juice or mayonnaise.

Salmon may seem expensive when you hear the price of what seems a small can. But when you remember that it is solid meat with not an ounce of waste and that it is exceedingly nourishing you will see that it really is one of the cheapest of all solid foods.

Here are a number of ways to make a tempting dish of canned salmon:

Curry of Salmon.
1 can of salmon.
1 cupful of cream sauce.
Scant half-teaspoonful of curry powder.
1 teaspoonful of capers.
1 hard-boiled egg.

Turn the fish into a shallow pan carefully to preserve the shape. Heat in a moderate oven until very hot. Make a cream sauce and before adding from the fire add the curry, moistened with a very little hot water. Stir well and pour over the salmon.

Press the hard-boiled egg through a pure sieve over the fish and add the capers. Serve at once with mashed potatoes.

The salmon can be best removed from the pan after heating with a large pancake turner. The oil in the can should be heated with the fish and poured over the fish before the cream sauce is added.

Canned Salmon Salad.
1 can of salmon.
1 chopped onion.
Cup of finely chopped celery.

Lettuce.
Empty the salmon into a bowl and make with a fork. Mix in a cup of finely chopped celery and the chopped onion. Place on lettuce nest and cover with French dressing.

French Dressing.
2-3 cupful of oil.
1-3 cupful of vinegar.
14 teaspoonfuls of salt.
14 teaspoonful of mustard.
14 teaspoonful of powdered sugar.

Mix the ingredients as mentioned. This can be placed in a pint preserve jar, fastened and chilled. Always be sure to shake the mixture well before using.

Red Cross News

How Does Your Garden Grow?
While most folk are away holidaying the Red Cross Society still carries on its work. There are a large number of new patients in our hospitals, lately arrived, and they need the cheering visit of the society. After the voyage by ship and train, and the glimpses of the beautiful country in passing, the hospital wards look rather bare and dreary to these weary travelers. The Red Cross visitors can always make the hospital all the more cheerful by their visit. If she has plenty of flowers, everyone's garden is full of bloom this time of year and the soldiers should have all we can possibly spare. Please send us your flowers, as many and as often as possible. They bring such cheer to the men and help to shorten the long hot days. Flowers left at the Red Cross headquarters any morning in the week will find their way to the hospital.

A Very Important Meeting.
From headquarters in Toronto comes the following important notice:
"There will be a conference held in Toronto of all Red Cross branches in the Province of Ontario on Wednesday, Sept. 3, at 2:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the main hall of St. James' Parish House, 40 Church street. The parish house is directly north of St. James' Cathedral, on the corner of Church and King streets, and is easily reached from the Church, King, Bell Line and Harbour cars.

The meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing the future work of the Red Cross in Ontario and forming a provincial committee. The Canadian Red Cross, along with all other national Red Cross societies, is pledged to peace-time activity by the existence of the League of Red Cross Societies. Remembering that the sound health of the individual is the basis of all real progress."

success and happiness in life, the future program of the Red Cross as an auxiliary to the public health bodies assumes importance. It is hoped that each branch will make a determined effort to send one or more representatives to the meeting held at St. James' Parish House, 40 Church street, Sept. 3.

"Two delegates from each branch, that is, the president and secretary, or their proxies, will be permitted to vote, but any number of visitors will be welcomed. An opportunity will be given for the discussion of problems and special information concerning the lack of medical and nursing services in various isolated districts is requested."

Here, then, is the opportunity to say what you think of the future of the Canadian Red Cross Society, now that the fall is over. And it is hoped that all branches will see that they are represented at the meeting. Remember the date, Sept. 3.

Re Political Science.
Dear Miss Grey—Kindly give me the names of two or three of the best magazines on political science. Thanking you in advance, remain, yours truly,

GENEVIÈVE.
—Published by Ginn & Co., Boston, Mass., is considered a good volume. Apart from this, I really know of no magazine which carries such articles frequently. If you live near London's public library, you will find there numerous books dealing with the subject from all sides.

Painting a Rug.
U. K.'s Friend—Here are the directions for painting a rug, supplied to the Mail Box by Mrs. Homebird: Turn over your tapestry or Brussels rug over and paint the wrong side. You will have a smoother surface and save paint and labor. Cook your flour and water paste very thick, just so you can dip it up on a brush, and get down and brush it right into the carpet; let it dry over night and repeat. When the second coat is dry it is ready for the paint. Be sure and use the floor paint, and for patience's sake don't use a dark color, as it shows every bit of dry mud or dirt. I used a plain centre with a border of another color. Some recommend glue.

DICKY VISITS MAMA AND DADDY

One day as Dicky was at play out in the yard he saw two strange-looking black birds, each with two white bands extending downward from their throats to their glossy black plumage. First, one shook his head, bending it to one side, and then to the other side, and made a queer noise. Then the second little fellow did the same thing. Then both puffed out their feathers, lifted their heads and opened their mouths so wide Dicky could see their little tongues, and they poured forth a wild, merry song.

"Well, I never heard two birds singing a duet before," mused Dicky. "They must be brothers," he guessed.

"Wrong!" laughed a merry voice, and Dicky's little friend, Squeedee from Joyland, hopped up from the grass at Dicky's feet. "That's Mama and Daddy Parson Bird singing their duet daily."

"I never knew that lady birds had singing voices," mused Dicky. "I'm glad to hear them. I only wish—" "You wish you could visit them!" laughed Squeedee. "And we shall."

Before Dicky could blink his eyes he and Squeedee were perched up beside Mama and Daddy Parson Bird on the limb of the tree.

Daddy Parson Bird laughed gayly when Squeedee told him that Dicky had mistaken his wife for his brother.

"Well, that's one thing we have over most of our friends," he chirped merrily. "The ladies of our nest can sing as well as the men, and we can talk as well as parrots if folks would take the trouble to teach us their language. Build nests? Say, you should see the one she helped me build; it's a dandy!"

Without more words, Daddy Parson Bird led Squeedee and Dicky to their lovely nest built in the fork of a great, big bush.

Here, on a foundation of stout twigs and dry sticks, a few feet from the ground, was quite a large nest. The walls were built of coarse moss, and it was lined with fine, soft grass.

Mama Parson Bird let Dicky peek into the downy nest. Three little white eggs, powdered over with reddish-brown spots and specks, nestled in the grasses.

"And with all your help in building, laying eggs and hatching your wee ones, you still can find time to sing," laughed Dicky. "How lucky you are to have such an accomplished wife!"

"Indeed, I am!" chirped Daddy Parson Bird. "All birds aren't as lucky as I am. I'm very proud of Mama Parson Bird's voice and we certainly enjoy our evening duet, which we offer as a song of thankfulness."

"Oh, sing it now!" exclaimed Dicky.

No Time To Temporarily

In the abstract, at least, most of the people of this and other countries recognize the fact that decreased consumption and greater production are needed to bring economic conditions back to normal. Lloyd George sounded the warning in England and it has been echoed by British labor leaders. To some extent the same sentiment has been expressed in this country, but it has not sunk in, unless it be in the border towns, where a practical demonstration has been given in the depreciation of the value of the Canadian dollar.

Strikes and demands for increased wages are a symptom of unsatisfactory conditions and are by no means a remedy. A 20 per cent reduction in the cost of living is of greater importance than a 20 per cent increase in wages, inasmuch as the purchasing power of the dollar is increased and the country is placed in a much more favorable position for trade purposes. At the present time the cost of living in Canada is higher than in the United States, a state of affairs for which the tariff is largely responsible. A corresponding increase in wages would inevitably raise the cost of production to a point where competition in foreign markets would be practically prohibitive.

What is Canada going to do about it? With the United States taking drastic measures to reduce the cost of living this country is going to be placed at greater disadvantage than ever. Obviously the cost of production per unit must be reduced, either by lowering the general cost or by more intensive production. Either the government must do something or the workingman must, and the workingman is in no mood at present to labor harder for his present wage. Prompt action is necessary to save this country from, it may be, the calamity which Lloyd George foresees in England.

The Treaty Blockers

For over six weeks the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has been "considering" the peace treaty and announces that the hearings will go on indefinitely. It doesn't seem to interest these gentlemen that throughout the world social and industrial unrest is rapidly spreading, a dangerous condition that would certainly be modified if peace became a fact by American acceptance, as acceptance would bring the League of Nations reconstruction forces into play. The committee, carefully selected to prevent a favorable report passing, seems set on defeating and humiliating President Wilson. Compared to such a desirable party triumph a world stewing with misery and discontent to the boiling-over point is a trivial matter with Lodge, Borah and the rest.

In their campaign to belittle Mr. Wilson's work at Paris the committee is proceeding to amazing lengths, going far beyond their original stand for American isolation. Hearings have been promised delegations from Egypt, the Balkans, Ireland and even Scotland, delegations who claim unjust treatment under conditions of the peace pact. It is not conceivable that the Senate committee proposes to revise the entire agreement reached at Versailles. That must be accepted by all the parties to the conference, else fall to pieces. Anybody can see what a catastrophe such failure would precipitate. It must be, then, that Lodge and his aides are simply "carrying on" with a new form of embarrassment, with the object of routing the president. Fortunately, there are signs that the American public is growing impatient at the delay of ratification. That great journal of the people, the New York World, says:

"As the president said in his address to Congress on the high cost of living, we have now neither peace nor war, and there can be no stable basis for reconstruction until peace is a fact. Peace cannot be a fact until the Senate has performed its constitutional functions in respect to the treaty of peace. While this duty is evaded business and government alike are merely speculative."

"Nothing can be expected from Senator Lodge and his obstructionist associates, but there are thirty-nine Republican senators who are not members of the committee on foreign relations, and it is inconceivable that a majority of these senators are blind to their vast public responsibilities at this critical time. It is they who will have to force action if the world is not to drift aimlessly into economic and political chaos."

There is little doubt but that the American nation as a whole is willing to accept the peace treaty as it stands. The masses are prepared to give the League of Nations covenant a trial without wholesale revision or mutilation, and the sooner the Senate committee bows to this wish, dropping obstruction, the better for themselves, their party, their country and the world generally. Nobody seriously believes the Lodge band either plan or wish to wreck the treaty, but they have carried their campaign against Mr. Wilson to a point where it has become an exasperation to American public opinion.

A Hint to Mexico

The American troops in pursuit of Mexican bandits having lost the trail have been ordered to retire across the border. This was what happened on the last occasion, but this time the Americans have the satisfaction of making good to some extent on the "invasion." Four of the brigands have been killed and ten others driven into a trap set by Mexican troops and made prisoners.

When General Pershing was called off the trail of Villa after the Columbus massacre the American people undoubtedly felt humiliated, although at the time it was the wisest course for Washington to take. Whether German agents were behind the Villa raid or not it was an aggravation that, but for the wise judgment of the American Government, might have brought on war with Mexico at a moment when the United States was preparing to enter the lists against the Teutons. This "back down," as the Mexicans jubilantly called it, developed an insolent attitude toward Washington by Carranza and his crew which should be sharply checked by last week's pursuit of the outlaws. As we measure military operations the affair is a decidedly minor one, but it has demonstrated that the American troops are thoroughly trained and organized and that Uncle Sam is ready to strike swiftly and heavily when necessary. The killing of a few wretched outlaws is nothing, but the display of determination and strength on the part of the Americans should, unless Carranza is hopelessly blind, go a long way toward securing more decent treatment of foreigners in benighted Mexico.

Taxation

The most difficult question legislators have to deal with is taxation. The war has made it more difficult than ever. The man who can point the way to just taxation will benefit the world. An open letter has been addressed to legislators by James R. Brown, president of the Manhattan Single Tax Club. The letter is terse and condensed and contains much food for thought.

Some years ago in London vacant lots were not taxed at all because the town was at a standstill. You could neither sell nor build and rent. There has never been a time when it paid to keep vacant land and there is nothing that eats its head off more rapidly than vacant land.

In the Northwest single tax and part single tax has been introduced by taxing the land at a high percentage of value and the buildings at a lower percentage. It has not been considered successful or desirable. When the check in values came before the war taxes were paid on sums far exceeding the amount at which the property could be sold, and so continue until the present time. In small municipalities it becomes a very important consideration in determining the soundness of their municipal debentures. Another circumstance entering into the question is that a large percentage of the taxpayers in small communities in the northwest are non-residents. In one municipality about five-sixths of the taxes are paid by non-residents.

The unearned increment enters very little into the question of taxation in small communities compared with the progressive parts of large cities, but if the principles on which single tax is based are sound they should apply to small and large alike.

We quote from Mr. Brown's letter:

"As never before the tax question is up clamoring for adjustment."

"Our present tax methods are one grand and monstrous muddle; no business principle, no ethical principle, no economic law has any place in our application of the taxing power."

"Taxation is the collection of payment for public services."

"To tax a man on the value of his house as payment for public services is just like charging a man for a suit of clothes by the value of his auto."

"When a man builds, paints or improves his house he pays for those services to the painter and builder. Why, then, should he be called to pay for those services a second time to the town that did not build or paint, in fact, rendered no service and delivered no goods?"

"To increase a man's assessment merely because he rendered a private service unto himself and, incidentally to the public through improvement to the neighborhood, is, to say the least, unreasonable."

"No part of the tax upon land values can be added to the gross rent. This truth of economics is admitted by all economists, and is perhaps the only fact of economics upon which they all agree."

"The important thing about taxation is its incidence. The precisely opposite effect of taxes upon land value to taxes upon labor or capital value constitutes the great and most vital truth of economics."

"If we do not tax or take land value for social purposes it becomes a premium on idleness or a payment to the speculator to hold land out of use—thereby making land artificially scarce—artificially dear—raising rent—increasing the cost of living and, worst of all, closing the door of opportunity on capital and labor."

"It would bring the economic millennium measurably nearer if every legislator and every voter would learn the following sentences by heart and repeat them to himself until he has thoroughly grasped their tremendous meaning:

"Taxing labor values and failing to tax land values have exactly the same effect, namely, to raise the cost of living and to promote unemployment."

"Taxing land values and untaxing labor values have exactly the same effect, namely, to reduce the cost of living and increase employment of labor and capital."

There is a great deal of food for thought in Mr. Brown's letter. The experiences in the Northwest show that the partial single tax in force there is against vacant lots being held by speculators, although it has not been favorably received. In large cities this would be emphasized. The value of unused lands would become so low it would not pay to hold them. They would eat their heads off quicker than under the present method. Lands would only be bought when intended for use. The municipalities in the northwest would derive no benefit from non-resident owners of vacant lands and the whole burden of debenture debt would fall on the balance of the owners. Speculation in vacant lots would be a lost art.

The tremendous importance of the question becomes more emphatic still when the war has multiplied the taxes so many times. It makes a municipality resemble a joint stock company. They can tax all the lots at such sum as they think prudent, but only those lots that could be used for some practical purpose would contribute to the income of the municipality. The unused lots would have no value until some one wanted to use them.

A POEM AND A SEQUEL.
By Dora Molan.

When Elise Duane felt anything very deeply she wrote a poem—and sold it. Her verses appeared frequently in a certain popular weekly. Always they attracted notice and often she was asked the inevitable question, Why didn't she devote all her time to verse? If she could write like that, her path to at least moderate success was assured, and surely it must be less than a year before she would be able to support herself on the proceeds of her poetry. To this question Elise always made the same answer. "But I can't write that way except once in a while. It is intensely, and I don't often."

Back at the beginning of the war, when the first contingent, a battalion of national guard troops, left her home town for camp, Mrs. Duane, accompanied by her small daughter, Alice, was wedged in the wildly enthusiastic though somewhat fearful crowd that made them good-byes.

A few weeks later a poem, signed with her name, was published in the periodical which had printed all her verses and which had a national circulation. It was a simple lament that she had none "near and dear" to offer to her country.

Mrs. Duane received many letters, mostly from women who wished to thank the author of the poem for putting into words thoughts which they had not the gift to define. One, however, was from a man.

He did not praise the poem—simply stated he had read it, and in plain phraseology lifted himself a substitute for a "near and dear" one. "I have a premonition," the man wrote, "that I never saw you before, and I am a firm believer in 'hunches.' I have no family to represent. My name is an honorable one, and I am a man. If you will take it, madam, and will allow me to make over to you my insurance, I set nothing in reserve but that I be not the only one left out when the mail arrives from God's country. We start next week." The letter was signed, "Private John E. Pendleton."

Mrs. Duane pondered many hours over the simple, straightforward letter before she answered. Finally she wrote that she could not accept the name of a man who was an utter stranger to her. Neither would she feel that she had any right to his insurance. If the premonition should come true.

However, if Mr. Pendleton would permit, she and her small daughter would adopt him as their special charge during the war. If he could obtain leave before his regiment left for over there would he come and see them. She signed the letter "Elise and Alice Duane."

The next letter that Mrs. Duane received from Private Pendleton was dated at a nearby training camp. He would have a few hours' leave the following Saturday. Might he come and see them then?

Alice, aged twelve, was delighted when she heard that their soldier was coming to them Saturday.

Saturday noon he came. The little Duane flat was in immaculate order. Alice had helped make it so and from her post by the window called, "Here he comes, mother!" She ran headlong down the stairs to the sound of the well and appeared holding by the hand a tall soldier.

John Pendleton was not handsome. Elise decided at the first glance, but his face was one to be trusted. Somehow, she did not feel at all embarrassed as she had expected to. After lunch they sat and talked, considerably about his past, but more about the future. And the time passed quickly.

When Pendleton left he stooped and kissed all three living heads with his mother and looking straight into her eyes, told her that he had spent the most enjoyable hours of his life. "I surely will have one more leave, and I'm coming again—may I?"

"Of course," Elise answered. Two days later Elise Duane received another letter from Private Pendleton. He had made his life insurance over to Alice. Surely she could not object to that. Then, too, he had a tiny income. It wasn't much, but it might help out in the days to come, when her business would be sure to suffer.

He had arranged that it be paid to her during his absence, for Mrs. Duane was to remember that even if she refused to bear his name they were still his adopted family, and in view of the premonition, he would feel more comfortable about leaving them. The following Saturday, the letter stated, he was coming again—and it would probably be good-bye.

And over this letter Elise pondered during the intervening days. Had she any right to take this big-hearted man's money? No, not for herself, surely. But for Alice? Even a "tiny" income would smooth their pathway. And in the event his foreboding proved to be justified—but here, rather to her own surprise, found herself in tears.

That big, fine-natured man would have no one of his own name in the whole world to mourn him—no one who had a right to have a service flag in his honor!

Perhaps it was Alice's remark when her mother told her their soldier was coming to say farewell—"Oh, mother, I like him so!"—which could be my really daddy!"—that brought Mrs. Duane to her decision: for it transpired that on that last visit she listened to the soldier's plea and became Mrs. John Pendleton.

Immediately after the ceremony the soldier bade his "really" family good-bye, and this time he kissed them both.

Then followed the anxious times that no one has forgotten. Sometimes letters came regularly. Then there were apprehensive weeks when no word was received. The photography business fell off and the small income helped considerably. Daily Alice planned for the time when her daddy should return—and at the thought Elise's heart would beat faster. But it was not until the very end of the war that the wife owned, even to herself, that she dearly loved her big, generous soldier husband.

Then one day, when Elise was busy in her workshop and the doorbell rang, she sent Alice to answer it. It might be the fateful bit of paper that haunted her dreams, bearing the tragic message that John's "hunch" had come true.

But this could be no telegram, for indistinguishable voices sounded from below. Alice was talking to a man. Did she call to him? No. It couldn't be. Mrs. Pendleton trembled, however, as she arose and passed into the stairs, holding by the left hand a tall soldier.

"Elise—my wife!" he cried. Then somehow that letter was around her. Feeling her hand on his arm and looking into his eyes, she said, "You see, only part of my hunch was true, dear. Are you glad that the rest has escaped for a time home to my 'really' family?" Alice is, she has told me, the useless sleeve Elise replied: "Somehow, I can't tell you, John, how I feel. I will write it. And now but you shall see the poem."

casualties, there'll be some reputations to be made. Between farmers, Labor, Liberal, Tories and Socialists, the voters will have enough to sift through before picking on the best representative for all.

A MONOLOGUE.

[Argonaut.]
Attorney-General Gregory at a dinner recently remarked: "Bore are always talkative. There is no such thing as a silent bore. One of the ilk once said to me at a party, 'Jones isn't very polite. He yawned three times while I was talking to him yesterday.' But maybe he was not yawning," I protested. "Perhaps he was trying to say something."

DAMAGING ADMISSIONS.

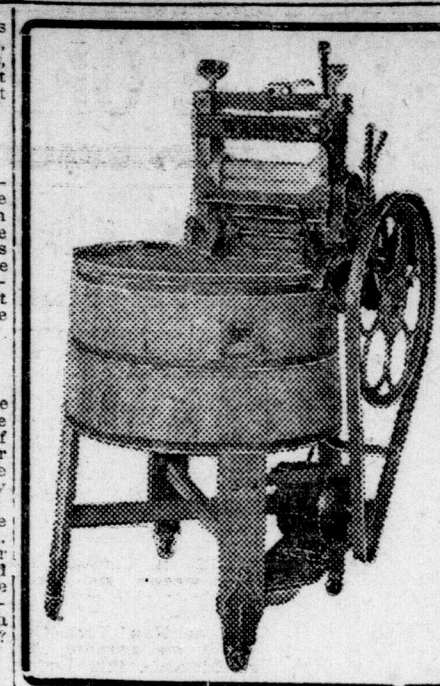

[Brantford Expositor.]
Through this illuminating evidence the public is able to judge where the responsibility lies for the high cost of clothing, and it is made pretty clear that it does not lie at the door of the retailer. The admissions made are very damaging, and create a most interesting situation for Parliament, while the proposals are under discussion. Shall the Eaton Company and similar concerns which are highly protected by patents be allowed to manufacture only for the benefit of their shareholders, without regard either to a suffering public or to the glory of God?

SAVE THE FORESTS.

[Kingston Daily Star.]
The present price of lumber is appalling. The more forest fires we have the greater will be the price we shall pay for our homes, and they are costly beyond all reason as it is. As every person must have the shelter of a home of some sort in order to live in this rigorous climate it becomes every person's business to give so much matter of forest fires personal heed and help. This can be done through the polls, so that if the Government is inert enough not to move in this momentous matter the people can exercise their will and have the remedy applied before it is too late.

ATHLETICS VS. GOOSE-STEP.

[Winnipeg Telegram.]
Cricket and football teach a man real self-discipline, and the team-work necessary for victory in these games teach him the value of that comradeship and devotion to a common end in winning victory on the sterner battlefield. British sport has been vindicated by the polls, so that if the Government is inert enough not to move in this momentous matter the people can exercise their will and have the remedy applied before it is too late.

A Century of Temperance Progress is at Stake

THIS advertisement is addressed particularly to friends of organized temperance throughout the Province of Ontario. They have rallied to win many a victory before. They must rally in full strength for the Victory of Victories now, to make The Ontario Temperance Act permanent law.

ONCE, in Ontario, whiskey could be bought at 50 cents a gallon by anybody. Liquor-selling taverns outnumbered the schools. Distilleries outnumbered the grist mills. Within the memory of living citizens of this Province, drunkenness was a feature of well-nigh every fair, and of every election day. Fighting and rioting were common holiday amusements in many an Ontario town and village, in the "good old days."

Shall Ontario go Back?

One day in 1827, just 92 years ago, three brave men in the town of Brockville met together and formed the first pledge-signing temperance society in Ontario. "Milk sops" people called them. But they had courage, they had convictions and their ideal of Temperance has triumphed.

Shall We Give Up?

On April 27, 1916, the Legislature of Ontario enacted a law prohibiting sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages within the Province. Almost a century of struggle lies between those dates—1827 and 1916—a century of slow, painful progress and, steady toilsome climb, fighting, fighting every inch of the way. We have fought the good fight and we have won. Ontario is dry.

Shall We Surrender Now?

The Ontario Temperance Act was passed as a war-time measure. The Great War brought home the truth about liquor to our Legislators and our people. Now that the war is over the facts are still the facts. After a century of struggle, and a victorious armistice, Ontario should not relax her vigilance until the terms of the Ontario Temperance Act are written into a Victorious Treaty of Permanent Temperance Peace!

The Ontario Temperance Act is the best piece of Temperance Legislation that has ever become law in this Province. Its repeal is unthinkable!

"NO!"—FOUR TIMES—"NO!"

ANY one of the proposed amendments that will face you on the ballot paper would spoil the Ontario Temperance Act. It would be a slip down hill after an upward climb of a hundred years. Those who love this Province of Ontario and have put heart and soul into its social progress and achievement will make no mistake. Mark your ballot X, four times in the column headed "No," and herein fail not or, in so far as temperance goes, your ballot is spoiled.

DELAY IN ISSUING BY-ELECTION WRITS INEXCUSABLE---KING

Liberal Leader Says It Indicates Complete Indifference To Rights of People To Control Parliament---Infringement of Fundamental Liberty.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—"The delay in issuing the by-election writs is inexcusable and can only be explained by the Government's complete indifference to the rights of the people to control Parliament."

The foregoing statement was made today by Hon. Wm. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, regarding the by-elections.

"Representation in Parliament is the first right of a free people," declared Mr. King. "Every denial or postponement of that right is in the nature of an infringement of a fundamental liberty."

In arranging for the by-elections on October 27 the Government has contrived to maintain eight vacancies in Parliament for the period of the ensuing session which the public has been given to understand will be concluded before that date. The delay in issuing the writs is inexcusable and can only be explained by the Government's complete indifference to the rights of the people to control Parliament.

The Government will urge that two months must elapse between the time of issuing the writs and the day of polling because of certain provisions in the legislation with respect to by-elections enacted at the last session. Such a reason is not likely to increase the country's confidence in the desire of the administration so to fashion electoral laws that the will of the people will be given free and adequate expression. There was nothing save the Government's own wish in the matter to prevent the writs being issued in some cases over a year ago, in others months, and in all cases, weeks ago."

BLAME GOVERNMENT FOR DEPOPULATION OF FARM DISTRICTS

Tells Haldimand U. F. O. That Borden Failed to Give Protection.

CANBORO TP. MAN TO RUN Werner String Chosen Candidate at Cayuga Tuesday.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

CAYUGA, Aug. 26.—At the U. F. O. convention for Haldimand County held here today, Werner String of Canboro Township, was chosen by acclamation as county candidate in the provincial election. The candidate was born in Canboro 51 years ago and but for three years as a public school teacher has spent his life on the farm.

The nomination was unanimous and was received with cheer as Mr. Stringer is considered in every way a good people's man. In his few remarks he said that if the farmers would find politics to the winds and stand on their solid platform, they would go forward to victory and prove themselves to be the noblemen of the country. He thanked the convention for the honor they had extended to him and if defeated would willingly accept a second term.

W. G. Clark, S. A. Beck and R. E. King were also nominated, but declined. Precedence was given to Mr. Stringer and he was elected. The convention was addressed by M. W. Doherty, U. F. O. candidate for Peel County. Mr. Doherty held the attention of his audience by his splendid address. He urged upon the U. F. O. members to drop politics, as the farmers were the only class which was a slave of the party and which took politics seriously.

All other parties used politics to a commercial end. He called for a farmer's party, and that to win they must organize. His chief concern was that the farmers must keep clear of their party politics and form a party of their own in the interests of all classes. The enormous debt of Canada must be paid from the pockets of the farmers, and the weather was ideal and the attendance very large, the courthouse crowded.

DEFINITE SPLIT IN UNIONIST RANKS IS PRESENT INDICATION

Toronto Globe Quotes Col. Currie, M. P., As Authority for Statement.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—In its news columns tomorrow morning the Globe will have the following about a proposed Dominion-wide Conservative convention, Lieut.-Col. John A. Currie, M. P. for North Simcoe, being quoted as authority for the announcement.

"According to John A. Currie, M. P., a Conservative convention for the whole of Canada is planned for this autumn. The purpose of the convention, he says, is the formation of the new national committee, formation of which was announced last night in Winnipeg by Hon. Robert Rogers.

"While there is no confirmation of the report forthcoming from Toronto, Mr. Currie, however, is a Conservative member of the Conservative caucus and would not back the definite split in the ranks of the Conservatives, some of whom are supporters of Union Government and others definitely opposed.

"Col. Currie, in discussing the situation, said that, in his opinion, national clean-cut political parties were needed for national government. He was not opposed to coalition government in war time, but was emphatically opposed to a permanent coalition government. Concerning the relation of the Rogers movement to the prime minister, Col. Currie did not say, but he thought that the party caucus authorized Sir Robert to form a coalition government. The identity of the Conservative party must not be ignored or lost."

ST. THOMAS LIBERALS TO DEAL WITH LISTS OF W. ELGIN VOTERS

Men Appointed To Be On Duty For Court of Revision.

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 26.—The local Liberal Club at a meeting tonight decided to throw open the club rooms and appoint four secretaries who will be on duty continually from the time the voters' lists for West Elgin are published until the court of revision has completed its work.

Deal With Lists. The meeting was called specially to deal with the voters' lists. The secretaries will be armed with copies of the lists and voters' names and will be the advertising columns of The London Advertiser and the St. Thomas paper to name on the list. Should they be omitted or wrongly stated in the list, they will obtain full particulars and will see that the case is properly dealt with by the court of revision. It is understood that no person making a complaint to the club secretary shall be necessary to go before the court of revision.

A. L. Munroe, one of the oldest Liberals in this district, with D. A. McIntyre, will handle the male end of the voters' list, while lady secretaries will be appointed later to handle the ladies' lists.

A resolution was passed by J. L. Thompson and D. A. McIntyre that advertisements giving notice of the dates when the secretaries will start work be placed in The London Advertiser and the local paper. A banner will be placed across the entrance to the St. Thomas club, inviting would-be voters into the building.

Addresses Heard. Short addresses were heard from President J. E. Nelson, J. L. Thompson and Mr. Kennedy, and while no decision was reached it was left to the West Elgin convention which will be held to meet as soon as possible at Dutton to decide whether a Liberal candidate shall be placed in the field or whether the Liberals shall give their support to the United Farmer-Labor candidate.

This will, it is said, depend on whether the Labor candidate be a Liberal-Labor or a Labor-Tory. J. A. Nelson, president of the club, stated in his remarks that through the recent formation of a union party the people are confronted with no less than four parties comprising: Liberals, Tories, Laborites and Farmers. When people become dissatisfied, he said, they used at one time to come to the Liberal party, but today they form a party of their own. Both Labor and Farmer as well as the Liberal party were based on progressive principles, so that the progressive forces were divided, making victory for the opposition easier.

State of Chaos. J. L. Thompson stated that Canada is now in a state of chaos, and it is up to the progressive forces to bring it out of that chaos. The Liberal party being the oldest party should take the initiative and call a convention at which the question of supporting of the other parties could be discussed. Both the Liberal and the United Farmer-Labor party were based on progressive principles, so that the progressive forces were divided, making victory for the opposition easier.

Names Left Off. One member of the club, in discussing the voters' lists, declared that Chinese men have been placed on the latest lists who have only been in town a month or so, and another said that on the street in which he resided all the houses, with the exception of one or two, had been passed by. The electors there were nearly all Liberals. The local members are agreed that it matters little how the principles of Liberalism are placed in parliament whether it be by a Liberal, Labor, Farmer or any other party. The form of both the Liberal and the United Farmer-Labor party is that of the Liberal party, and qualified to be named then there will be no Liberal candidate named in West Elgin.

Three Minutes Each. Each speaker was given three minutes in which to address the meeting. Mr. McIntyre declared that he felt it an honor to be named as candidate for such an enormous movement as the U. F. O. represents. He realized the position he occupied, but felt that he was qualified to take the place of a life-long independent. He said that he would not hurt anyone's feelings, but he said that the Liberal party had been named as candidate because he was too independent in party matters. The party in power, he said, was a union of both the old political class and, as it contained the shrewdest of the Liberal class, he was given class legislation. Because the other party had not wanted him it had made him feel even more independent and now he had decided he would never cater to party politicians.

Farmers' Rights. Mr. McVicar humorously remarked that the world had become so full of imitations that it would require a special course to learn how to identify the real genuine article. "They have imitations even in milk," he said. The farmer he said is going to learn in the very near future that he is doing all the hard work and that the other fellow is reaping the profit. Through becoming united the farmer was now on his way toward the time when he would look just a little farther than his own door. He would ultimately be able to place his produce right at the door of the consumer and thereby eliminate any of the middleman's profits. The lack of legislation for the farmer and the production of food was criticized by the speaker. He said that the Canadian Government had set a price on wheat that is a maximum, but the United States had set a minimum price. He asked why he was going to be a "hayseed," he is going to be a man among men, declared Mr. McVicar.

Both candidates have supported the Liberal platform. Both have taken active parts in previous election campaigns. Mr. McDermid asked the meeting to allow him the privilege of consulting with the executive and if he found it necessary the privilege to resign.

The candidates named for the provincial house were: W. Smith, of Sparta, who was defeated by M. McVicar; S. S. McDermid, T. M. Moore, Ford and Mike McKnight, all of whom withdrew.

For the Dominion House the following were named, all of whom withdrew. Leaving Mr. McDermid the choice of the meeting: Norman Martin and E. Finch.

MACKENZIE KING DOES NOT DESIRE TO OPPOSE U. F. O.

Would Not Contest Glenagarry-Stormont Seat Against Farmer Candidate.

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., Aug. 26.—The Liberals of the riding of Glenagarry-Stormont held a meeting at Alexandria to deal with the question of naming a candidate in the field to contest the by-election when this constituency opened. It was felt by the convention that the selection or placing of a candidate in the field should be left for a subsequent meeting.

A letter was read from Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King which said: "I should wish it to be clearly understood by the convention that except it were an unanimous expression of the wishes of the members of the convention I should not feel it wise considering an acceptance of a nomination, were such to be tendered by the United Farmers. Mr. King said: 'The policy of the United Farmers as set forth in their platform that a contest at this time between a Liberal candidate and a farmer's candidate could not, in my humble judgment, prove other than detrimental to the interests of both.'

"As leader of the Liberal party I should feel that I was placing both the Liberal and the farmer in a false position were I to consider accepting any nomination which would have the effect at this time of placing me in an attitude of apparent antagonism to the farmers of our province."

THRILLING STORY OF FRONTIER LIFE TOLD IN "WAGON TRACKS"

William S. Hart at His Best in Photoplay Now Showing at the Majestic.

Great historic interest centres about William S. Hart's new Artcraft picture, produced under the supervision of Thos. H. Ince and entitled "Wagon Tracks." It is a C. Gardner Sullivan picture and will be seen at the Majestic Theatre for the last time today.

Mr. Sullivan took the old Santa Fe Trail from Kansas to Santa Fe as the locale of his picture and the period is about 1850. The experiences of the early pioneers bent on reaching the lands of plenty have been accurately depicted in this story in which Mr. Hart appears as a scout or leader of the caravans, such as were Kilt Carson and similar figures of frontier history.

A romantic love interest is involved, but the thrills of the desert struggles against privation and marauders will prove most fascinating no doubt. Lumbert Hillier directed the picture and Jane Novak is leading woman. She commences an unusually clever supporting company. Robert McKim plays the heavy role, that of a gambler.

In addition to this thrilling photoplay, a Harold Lloyd comedy, a Chester outting picture, and a News Weekly, "The House of the Living Dead," are being shown, and a number of excellent songs that are well received.

"THE BELLE OF THE SEASON" IS DRAMA OF THE BEST ORDER

Dainty Emmy Wehlen Stars in Feature Film.

Pleasing the large audiences which have been the rule at the Grand the past two days, for the showing of "The Belle of the Season," is an easy task for the dainty Emmy Wehlen, who is starting in this Metro comedy drama which will be shown for the last time today.

Miss Wehlen not only more than holds her own, but gives her audience a new side to her fascinating personality which should serve to enhance her already enviable reputation as a screen star of the first magnitude. Never before has she been seen in so becoming a role as that of "Jerry" Keen, the heiress to everything.

Jerry, with all her father's millions for the purpose, interests herself in the welfare of the thousands of working people who are employed in the mills of her late father's estate. During her work she meets James Alden, who is also on the same errand, and through a series of novel incidents a pretty love interest grows between these two which brings about an unusual climax.

The play is an adaptation of an original poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, it is handsomely staged and is an entirely different sort of play from the usual run.

Supporting Miss Wehlen are S. Rana, who also directed the picture, and the play, Walter Hitchcock, John Mackin and Louis Welheim.

Mabel Whitman and her three versatile partners, present under the title of "The Ambrosia Jazz," an offering consisting of songs and dances.

Other features of this bill are a Mick Sennett Keystone comedy, entitled "Skidding Joyriders," and an overture by the orchestra.

PRINCE RECEIVES DEGREE FROM QUEEN CITY UNIVERSITY

H. R. H. Is Made a Doctor of Literature and Laws.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—According to arrangement this was to be a comparatively quiet day in the schedule of the official visit of Edward Prince of Wales, to the queen city of Toronto, but the festivities crowded into it have been many and varied.

Opening the day's work with the inspection of the military hospitals in this city with their whole battalions of patients, many maimed and bed-ridden from their fight for the empire in the great war, the prince showed the thoughtfully sympathetic side of his nature. The smiling on to the visiting of the civil hospitals he was motored to the five-million-dollar general hospital, where he was particularly interested in the two-pound items of humanity in the incubator ward.

An item not on the program, but thoroughly enjoyed by the royal visitor and the juveniles visited, was the trip through Toronto's nationally famous hospital for sick children, founded and developed through the untiring efforts of the late John Ross Robertson, prominent newspaper proprietor. The princely heart went out in sympathy for the suffering children, and the princely hand went into his pocket for the price of toys for them.

After luncheon the progress of the prince was turned towards scholarship, and he was initiated into the ranks of the doctors of literature and laws, at Queen's University. Before the dons of higher education, as he has in the presence of all other classes of citizens, his royal highness acquitted himself admirably. His reply to the address was delivered with modest and clean manner a credit it was a credit to the royal speaker even in that hall devoted to eloquence and oratory.

From convocation hall the prince turned toward Government House for rather lighter duties. The garden party was on, and although the air was cold and the clouds threatening, it was a brilliant social affair.

Since the prince will make an afternoon visit to the Canadian National Exhibition, where the Great War Veterans' Association of Toronto, including a membership of many thousands, will be inspected.

After dinner the prince will be made a barrister of Ontario by the Law Society. Tomorrow night his royal highness will leave for Ottawa.

"I WAS SEEING NELLIE HOME." During exhibition week it is expected that there will be a large number of visitors looking for sleeping accommodation. You can make a little money for yourself and at the same time, help the Western Fair and boost London by accommodating one or more persons.

The Western Fair Association is preparing a list of rooms that will be available. Kindly notify the chamber of commerce by letter or by phone if you have sleeping accommodation. The number is 6690.

LONDON MAN IN THE TOILS AT MONTREAL

Had Ingenious "Skin-Game," But Detectives Broke It Up.

HEARING IS ADJOURNED

Accused May Have To Face Additional Charge of Theft.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—An ingenious "skin game" by which would-be motorists and conductors were fleeced $3 per head as a "union fee" was revealed by Detective Howard, who gave information to police headquarters which led to the arrest last night of James A. Johnson of London, Ont., charged with obtaining money by false pretences and with acting as an employment agency at 227 Union avenue without license.

A few days ago Johnson opened an office at 227 Union avenue and advertised in the newspapers that he was an agent of the Toronto Street Railway Company and would hire carmen. Men who answered the advertisement were immediately hired without any questions or experience, and the carmen told they must pay $3 entrance fee into "Motormen's and Conductors' Union."

Noticing the advertisement, Detective Howard at once sent a man hand over $3 to the "agent" and receive in return a receipt for initiation into the fake union. Howard returned Inspector Cowan of the proceeding, and the latter detailed Detectives Beaton and Belanger to investigate Johnson's arrest followed, and when taken to headquarters the prisoner admitted his guilt by offering to make restitution to his clients.

Johnson was arraigned before Judge Martin this morning, charged with obtaining money by false pretences, and was remanded for equitable tomorrow. He will also have to appear in the recorder's court charged with acting as an employment agent without license.

Several articles were missing from other rooms at 227 Union avenue other than the one occupied by Johnson, and these articles were found in the prisoner's pockets, so that he may have to face an additional theft charge.

ARMY AND NAVY VETS HAVE WAR TROPHIES FOR WESTERN FAIR

Committee Completes Arrangements To Exhibit Thousand Souvenirs.

Hundreds and hundreds of war trophies, comprising one of the most complete and interesting collections in the Dominion, will be exhibited at the Western Fair by the Army and Navy Veterans' Association of the city.

A total number approaching the 2,000 mark has been obtained by the veterans' committee, and from that horde the best and most unique trophies have been selected. The success of the exhibition is assured, for the members of the selection committee are all veterans who have fought through years of the war, and who, as a result of that long, grueling period, are best able to choose which trophies contain the greatest interest.

Secretary P. McKellar of the Army and Navy Association has just returned from Toronto with the choicest collection of trophies he could obtain and the exhibit has been added to the hundreds of trophies returned from the city. So, when the Western Fair is opened, the trophy exhibition will consist of over 1,000 articles—everything from a German Iron Cross to captured machine guns.

At the weekly meeting of the association last evening 24 new members were initiated. A considerable amount of routine business was discussed and dealt with.

TWO MEN KILLED IN TRACTOR ACCIDENT NEAR BRANTFORD

Joshua Buck and Herbert Miller Victims at Beavers Corners.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 26.—Joshua Buck and Herbert Miller were killed on the farm of William C. Beavers, near Beavers Corners, on Monday afternoon in a tractor accident.

A number of men were present at the annual threshing, and Miller, who ran the tractor, went underneath to discover some trouble. In some way the machine started, crushing him and killing him instantly. Buck, who was on the side-board, was struck by a big lever, and died at home during the night. He leaves a widow and family. Miller was unmarried.

BOARD OF WORKS NOW FAVORS THE PURCHASE OF MOTOR TRACTOR

Machine Will Be Used To Aid in City Work—25 Teams Back To Work.

The purchase of a caterpillar tractor to be used in the city's construction work will be recommended to the city council. The board of works last night, on the advice of City Engineer Brazier, decided to take this step. The tractor, for which the Ontario Garage and Motor Sales hold the local agency, will cost $1,600, and City Engineer Brazier estimates that it will do the work of two teams. Its cost will be charged the asphalt paving plant.

Ald. C. G. Moorhead questioned the advisability of making the purchase, on the ground that it might displace teamsters now in the city's employ, as well as those on strike, who might later return to work. The city engineer met the objection by stating that, even were the city to purchase five or six tractors there would still be employment for every teamster in the city. Twenty-five of the 40 teamsters who struck are back at work.

Mr. Brazier reported that he had not completed his examination of the caterpillar tractor, but recommended that a sign be placed there, drawing attention to the fact that the speed limit for vehicles on a highway is five miles an hour. The committee decided to ask for similar signs on all the wooden bridges.

A deputization of Knollwood Park, the purchase of a motor tractor, and the proposed system in that section of the city. Plans for this work have been completed and the committee was asked to call for tenders for the work, as the city engineer claims that it is impossible to undertake any work under the day labor plan. He estimated that the cost would be $88,757, of which $78,532 would be assessed against the property benefited and the remainder to the general tax rate. Tenders will also be asked for sewers on Palmer and Spartan avenues.

The building of sidewalks on 15th street from Adelaide to William street and on St. Julian street from Adelaide street to the Hamilton road will be recommended to the council.

The proposed by-law prohibiting vehicles to the limit of the city on the main intersection of the city was referred to the city solicitor to insure its legality. It will be presented at the next council meeting.

Ald. Moorhead and Wilson with Engineer Brazier were appointed a committee to investigate the condition of the storm sewer on Carlton avenue. The purchase of property from W. C. Baker for $50 to eliminate a sharp turn in Ridout street near the east end of Blackfriars bridge was recommended.

has that losing way. This is very disappointing on the baseball diamond, but how much more disappointing is a real diamond if it has the same hoodoo. John A. Nash, My Jeweler, sells perfect diamonds that have that winning way. No muddle with his plain band rings, but years of harmony. His store is 206 Dundas street. "Where You Will Eventually Buy."
