ITALIAN NAVY BEGINS ACTION AGAINST GREECE; LONDON DENIES REPORT

Government, Dissatisfied With Reply to Ultimatum From the Greeks Over Assassination of Commissioners, Decides To Commence Operations—Friends, Express Confidence in Decision of Mussolini.

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED IN GREECE

BULLETIN.
Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Rome, Aug. 31.—The Italian fleet has opened operations in Greek waters, it was announced this afternoon.

Announcement that the fleet had opened operations occasioned no surprise in Rome. Premier Mussolini's friends expressed confidence in countrywide support for the premier.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 31.—The Italian embassy here emphatically denied that Italy had declared war when it informed this afternoon that alarmist reports circulated in the United States had referred to war measures taken by Italy.

APPEALS TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

London, Aug. 31.—The Greek government has appealed to the League of Nations to act in the Greco-Italian controversy, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Athens this afternoon.

DEMAND SURRENDER.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Genoa, Aug. 31.—Italian torpedo boats off the island of Corfu only await definite orders to demand the surrender of the Greek garrison.

The Italian fleet is within eight miles of the Greek garrison. The reply of the Greek government to the Italian ultimatum has been decided to demand the surrender of the garrison. One report, as yet unconfirmed, states that the demand for surrender has been made.

PROCLAIM MARTIAL LAW.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
London, Aug. 31.—The Greek government has proclaimed martial law in Athens, according to a Central News despatch from Athens.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Athens, Aug. 31.—The Greek reply to the Italian ultimatum reflects the demand for an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire, and accepts four of the other demands with reservations. The fifth, sixth and seventh clauses are rejected.

The demands and the replies to each are substantially as follows: One, Italy is asked for apologies to be presented through the League of Nations. Greece accepts, offering an official expression of sorrow by the chief of the Athens garrison to the Italian minister.

Attend Solemn Mass.
Two, Italy demanded that all members of the Greek government attend a solemn mass for the victims in the Athens cathedral. Greece accepts, saying that members of the cabinet will attend such a service.

Three, Italy asked the Greek fleet must hoist Italian colors and salute the Italian fleet in the harbor of Piræus, the port of Athens. Greece offers to have a detachment of the Athens garrison salute the Italian flag in front of that country's legation the day of the funeral.

Four, The ultimatum asked that military honors be accorded the bodies of the victims as they are carried aboard warships to be taken home. Greece agrees to this, specifying that the military authorities of Piræus and Epirus participate in the ceremony.

The fifth, sixth and seventh demands, which included official Italian participation in the inquiry to be conducted at the scene of the massacre, capital punishment for the offenders and an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire, are rejected on the ground that they are incompatible with Greek honor and sovereignty.

Agrees to Compensation.

However, this government agrees that just compensation shall be awarded to the families of the victims, and accepts the offer of aid of the Italian military attaché in the investigation of the crime, he to supply all available information and data in possession of the Italian government to help run down the perpetrators.

REVIEW SITUATION.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Aug. 31.—The English newspapers appear this morning exhibiting the familiar signs and symptoms of a rapidly rising European war.

The secretary was instructed to inform the Italian demands upon Greece. The ultimatum served upon the Athens government, of the rumors of secret orders to the Italian fleet, and of the report that the Italian fleet was en route to the island of Corfu.

From Athens comes the reply of the Greek government seeking to satisfy the Italian demands, and to hold Greek government, and appeal can be taken to the League of Nations or some other tribunal.

POPULAR PREACHER ON VACATION.
Yes, friends, it is none other than Rev. George Leichter, former pastor of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, and now pastor of a Buffalo church. This is quite an unconventional picture of "George," taken at his Ford house. The truck boasts a cow bell. You can't see it, but the cottagers have heard it hundreds of times this summer. In the background is the popular clergyman's cottage, "Alabama Lodge."

Boy Shot, Dies Refusing To Tell Name of Slayer

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Aug. 31.—Andrew Doyle, 19, died in Bellevue Hospital today of a bullet wound suffered in a gang fight at 10th avenue and West 28th street last night, refusing to the end to give the police any hint as to the identity of his slayer. Told that he was about to die, and that he would have to speak at once if he wanted his assailant punished, Doyle turned his back on his questioners and replied: "I'll tell you nothing."

Police detained six men whom they found sitting on a box near the spot where Doyle fell. They said Doyle had been sitting with them when a shot was fired by a man they didn't see.

NATIONS LEAGUE WILL CONSIDER CANADIAN PLAN

Amendment to Article Ten To Be Discussed at Assembly.

Associated Press Despatch.
Geneva, Aug. 31.—The Canadian amendment to Article 10 is one of the principal subjects before the council of the League of Nations, which today is giving final consideration to reports which will be submitted to the assembly of the league next week.

Other questions covered by those reports include the Saar Basin, the free city of Danzig minorities, the covenant concerning the maintenance of the territorial integrity of the member states, and armament reduction, including the recommendations of the temporary mixed commission for the League of Nations, which was embodied in its draft treaty of mutual assistance.

Meetings in preparation for the final assembly of the league, which will be called to order on Monday began today.

Geneva is already bustling with excitement and activity occasioned by the arrival of the delegates of more than half a hundred nations.

The assembly has already been distributed among the members, but it is these subjects not yet on the program which seem likely to come before the assembly that are causing the liveliest interest and speculation.

Foremost in all minds is the question of what, if any, action will be taken on the reparations question. The Frenchmen, it is said, will oppose any move which they believe would amount to dictation by the league of a settlement of the German reparations issue.

Not Changed Minds.
"Miners said in Atlantic City that they would not accept arbitration. They have not changed their minds since coming to Harrisburg. They will not accept arbitration today—no matter how the lady may be dressed—and thus, in the absence of any completed negotiations, the status quo merely lapses into a suspension."

The renewed objection of the miners to arbitration, "no matter how the lady may be dressed," referred to the suggestion of Governor Pinchot that religious organizations in London in October with a view to taking steps to bring pressure upon the government to take decisive action to remedy the unemployment situation.

"Unemployment," they say, "must be due to some grave defect in our social organization."

MEET AND COMPANY ARE CONFERRING ON NEW SCHEDULE

Street Railway Men's Union Objects to Proposed "Swing" System.

BOTH SIDES TALK

A meeting of the executive of the Street Railwaymen's Union and the London Street Railway Company was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in an attempt to clear up differences arising from the proposal of the company to initiate the "swing" system.

The railway employees are in staunch opposition to the suggested "swing" of schedules in car service. They claim it will put fourteen men on the spare list which is already overloaded. There is little chance of a strike being declared if the conference develops into a deadlock, but the union is determined there shall be no deadlock. They merely wish to register strong protest against the company's move, and the company in turn is agreeable to a full discussion of the problem.

C. B. King, manager of the London street railway, stated that the "swing" system would be for the economical administration of the city's transportation system. He believed it to be in the interests of the public as well as the company that seven cars—two Normals, one North Belt, one Oxford, two Ridout, and one Ottawa should operate only nine hours a day instead of fourteen hours, as heretofore.

Mr. King Explains.

"The proposed change of schedule is intended to improve conditions, and to operate the cars as efficiently as possible," Mr. King declared. "It is reasonable that the company should cut down its service during the rush hours? That's the idea behind the suggested 'swing' system. There is little traffic, the service will be better, and the traffic is at its peak. We will meet the union executive shortly to confer on the matter."

The executive of the company, however, questioned whether there was any possibility of a strike, providing no agreement could be reached, replied: "I am not answering that question."

Ald. John Colbert, president of the Street Railwaymen's Union, stated however, that chances of a strike were remote.

"Under our contract with the company, we would have to give 90 days' notice," he said. "We are tied up in an agreement, and the purpose of the meeting today is to reach a vigorous protest, and demand that the company change its plans. The 'swing' system would work out to the disadvantage of fourteen men, present working full time. It would reduce the hours during which the seven cars affected cover their routes by five hours a day."

The Union Side.

Lewis Parker, a member of the union executive, declared the proposed launching of a "swing" system was not, as Manager King claimed, in the interests of better service.

"If a man started on his route at 7 o'clock in the morning, he would stay on until 3 p.m. He would come back and work until 8 or 9. This is obviously unfair. It doesn't give a man sufficient leisure. If the company says it is initiating the 'swing' system to improve service, they are putting it over the people."

Mr. King says the London street railway is in a position to meet the demands of the men. He could not predict just what the outcome of the conference would be, but both he and President Colbert thought the tangle could be straightened out.

Fourteen men would be involved, if the new arrangement came into operation. The union recognizes that the actual loss of time does not amount to very much, but they intend to battle the company on principle.

This afternoon heads of the union met Manager King, Superintendent Humeston and Treasurer Tait. Richard Ivey, vice-president of the London street railway, is today in Toronto, and is expected to return Saturday morning. Neither the employees or the company representatives would attempt to predict just what would happen. The conference is held primarily to determine whether the agreement between the union and the company is still in force, and the men prevent the starting of the "swing" system over which the controversy began.

Due to the possibility of a street railway strike, following the meeting of the local street railwaymen's union this afternoon, President John Colbert has cancelled his trip to Vancouver.

LATEST RETURNS SHOW FREE STATERS IN LEAD

Dublin, Aug. 31.—Up to noon today the returns from the Dublin election, with 49 places undecided, gave the government 43 seats in the Dail Eireann, the Republicans 20, Independents 14, Farmers 3, Laborites 5.

The result in Limerick was a surprise, the two sitting anti-treaty members being defeated.

Mayor Wenige Will Open Manufacturers' Building

City's Chief Magistrate To Officiate at Ceremony in Fair Grounds.

MINISTERS INVITED

Board Asks Hon. Dr. Motherwell and Hon. J. S. Martin To Attend Exhibition.

On Monday morning, September 10, at 11:30, Mayor Wenige will open the new Manufacturers' Building at the Western Fair. The mayor and council have been invited by the fair directors to attend the opening ceremony both of the fair itself and of the new building. All this year the mayor and council have been a financial power behind the directors of the fair, and in return for this they have been asked to open the new building.

The arrangements for Monday include a directors' meeting at 11, and the official opening ceremony at 11:30. On Tuesday, September 11, Hon. Dr. Motherwell, minister of agriculture at Ottawa, will be the guest of the directors, and on Wednesday Hon. J. S. Martin, minister of agriculture in the provincial government, has been invited to attend the fair as the guest of the directors. It is expected that both of these ministers will be accepted by the directors. On Monday of next week Secretary Hunt and all his staff move their tent out to the Queen's Park offices, and for the rest of the time between now and the opening of the fair will be found out there. The telephone number of the fair offices on the ground is 752, and anyone wishing to communicate with the secretary after Monday should use this number.

H. H. Saunders, president of the Western Fair Association, and J. W. Wheaton, left this morning for Toronto, where they will endeavor to arrange for some of the best of the live stock exhibits in the Canadian National Exhibition to come to the Western Fair. London's fair has always had a fine showing in the live stock part of the program.

The champions of the province, and often of the Dominion, have been seen in the London ring for many years. The president and Mr. Wheaton have undertaken their Toronto mission at the special request of the directors, in order that the pick of the animals shown may be brought to London.

DETROIT MILLIONAIRE REFUSES TO ASSIST STRICKEN YOUTH AS PROMISED.

Although Bert Dean, the 18-year-old lad who suffered paralysis more than a year ago while diving at Port Stanley, is gradually recovering, the Detroit millionaire whose action in the young Dean's behalf probably saved the boy's life has proved a philanthropic bubble, as promised.

Hearing of Bert Dean's condition last year the Detroit man, who said he owed his life to treatment received from a chiropractor following a serious motor accident, decided to pay D. C. Parsons, local chiropractor, to attend the lad. This was hailed as an act of big-hearted philanthropy at the time. Dr. Parsons thereupon proceeded to treat young Dean.

That was six months ago and in July Dr. Parsons sent his bill to the Detroit man. The latter replied that he was vitally interested in the case but did not volunteer to pay for the treatment. Dr. Parsons thereupon determined to continue attending the stricken youth free of charge.

No Explanation.
No explanation has been forthcoming as to why the American millionaire failed to live up to his agreement. Originally he declared he would defray the expense of treating the London boy as a testimonial to his faith in chiropractic, which, he claimed, saved his life years ago. Since then he has kept in touch with Dean's progress, but when it was suggested that he send a check covering expenses he remained as silent as the proverbial oyster.

Bert Dean, following a dive at Port Stanley in 1922 was said to be hopelessly stricken. Chiropractic treatment was applied, however, and now Dr. Parsons believes his patient will enjoy ultimate recovery.

Boy Is Recovering.
For months he lay in bed unable to move a finger, but the function of organs is coming back and all muscles are developing fast. He can move about on his bed and use his arms.

An accident somewhat similar to that of Dean was experienced by J. Spears of Detroit two months ago. Spears died while the St. Thomas hospital this morning as a result of the accident. Like Dean, he was diving off the board in front of the dance casino when stands about five feet above shallow water. Spears broke his spine while Dean suffered paralysis when his spinal cord was severely wrenched.

POCOCK ANSWERS CRITICISMS MADE BY ACTING MAYOR

Says London People Are Slow in Recognizing Valuable Public Service.

WOULDN'T BE MAYOR

Philip Pocock, member of the public utilities commission, will not accept a mayoralty nomination in December as suggested recently in certain quarters.

"I would not consider the proposal," Commissioner Pocock explained to The Advertiser today, adding that while he did not wish to place himself in the same class with others who have given freely of their time in the city's interests, the greater bulk of the people were not ready to appreciate public service.

"London has been unfortunate in one way," said Mr. Pocock, "in that there have been few outstanding mayors, and notably none who could rival the late Col. J. W. Little and Sir Adam Beck, the present provincial member for London. Both of these men served three terms in the mayor's chair and Commissioner Pocock relates that remarkable advance in London was noted during these periods—and not equaled in other years."

"It would be men of this type that I would like to see at the head of this city's affairs," Commissioner Pocock said, "and I would like to see their services appreciated. Why the very man whom Ald. Watt and his associates are trying to blacken—Sir Adam Beck—has done more for this city than any other man. The late Col. J. W. Little was another brilliant mayor and the city made rapid strides during his regime."

The L. & P. S.
Discussions in London and Port Stanley Railway situation. Commissioner Pocock advised Ald. Peter J. Watt to "look nearer at home before he commences to criticize Sir Adam Beck's methods in connection with the operation and administration of that railway."

No "junk" was purchased by the Port Stanley commissioners from Chippawa, as suggested by Ald. Watt, according to Commissioner Pocock, who was a member of the railway commission at that time. "Rails and ties were bought from the Chippawa undertaking, but that was not on the commission at the time, and I know that not only did we save hundreds of dollars by this transaction, but that we got the best possible material—light-edge property and A. I."

"I am not a timber merchant but so good was the steel we secured, far below the market value, that Commissioner Harley, who is engaged in the lumber business, made insistent inquiries as to the source of the steel, and I am sure that the steel was equally good and had been in use but a brief period while we replaced rails on the Port Stanley road that had actually been in use since 1854."

Credit to City.
Commissioner Pocock feels that Ald. Watt is not conversant with the facts before indulging in promiscuous criticism of Sir Adam Beck. "I am sure that Sir Adam Beck is a credit to the city, and I maintain that the L. & P. S. is a credit and an asset to this city, and furthermore, I understand that the city will derive directly as much as $50,000 from that road this year."

Commissioner Pocock states that, according to first-hand information just tendered him, the London Street Railway is using second and third grade ties on the new Richmond street paving job. "This should be something for Ald. Watt and his associates to consider," he stated. "Ald. Watt should look nearer at home and consider something where he has on should have more control. We laid class A ties on the new Richmond street, and the quality of the first quality should be used on the main streets of the city in order that permanent work shall be accomplished and to insure that work will remain for many years."

Street Railway Franchise.
Mr. Pocock fails to understand why any citizen in public office, with the best interest of the community at heart, would advocate the automatic extension of the street railway franchise for another five years. He favors an immediate settlement of the local transportation problem in order that the people will be assured decent service in the near future.

The city has been trying for 35 years to get service, and they have not succeeded, and never will under existing circumstances," the commissioner states. "It is like the city hall question. The aldermen have been striving to have one built for the last 10 or 15 years, and this year they are just as far from their goal as they ever were."

"Let the city settle this question now, and do it right. If the people do not want to purchase the road and rehabilitate it themselves, allow the company another 20 or 25 years extension in order that they will be able to improve their service. The company could do nothing in a five-year period. It would be a financial impossibility for them."

"No, I am not going to consider a mayoralty nomination," concluded Commissioner Pocock decisively.

CITY BUILDING RECORD INCREASES $600,000

Total Value of Construction During Year Reaches $2,491,560.

London's building record to date exceeds the 1922 total by $600,000, according to the regular monthly report submitted by the city building inspector.

During the month of August, building and alteration permits to the number of 187 were issued, representing an estimated expenditure of $2,491,560, bringing the 1923 total to $2,491,560, as compared with $1,891,560 during the corresponding period of 1922.

The outlook for September is also exceptionally bright, the building authorities state.

OTTAWA TAKES ACTION TO GET ALBERTA COAL

Board of Control Urges Government Get Competitive Rate.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Action towards getting Alberta coal shipped into Ontario at a competitive rate was taken by the local board of control yesterday.

The board decided to adopt a resolution presented by City Clerk C. G. Lips of Kitchener, Ont., to the effect that the Dominion government should endeavor to secure a competitive rate for coal shipped from Alberta, so that it may be sold in this province in competition with coal imported from the United States.

The secretary was instructed to write the two local federal members, enclosing copies of the resolution, and urging them to bring the matter before the government.

THREATENS MARTIAL LAW UNLESS WHIPPINGS STOP

Special to The Advertiser.
Okmulgee, Okla., Aug. 31.—This city faces a new threat of martial law unless whippings of C. White, a negro, are punished. Governor Walton ordered Sheriff Russell to "get results" in the investigation into flogging of White or troops would be returned to the city. White said he recognized three of the floggers including a deputy sheriff and two business men.

Troops enforced martial law for two weeks here in July due to many whippings.

Says Idleness Due to Flaw In the Social Organization

"Unemployment," they say, "must be due to some grave defect in our social organization."

ABANDONS HOPE OF PREVENTING MINERS' STRIKE

Governor Pinchot Calls Executive Session For Reply to His Proposals.

Associated Press Despatch.
Harrisburg, Penn., Aug. 31.—The covenant of peace, openly arrived at, got another body blow here today when Governor Pinchot summoned the anthracite miners and operators to an executive session to hear their replies to his compromise proposals of last Wednesday evening.

It was apparent, therefore, even before the meeting behind closed doors began that the intervening governor was prepared for an adverse decision from either or both sides, and was also prepared to argue the matter out with the recalcitrant ones, even if it should take all winter.

The executive session also was an indication that all hope of preventing a strike into the realm of settling one, if possible.

The mine workers' officials refuse to consider suspension of work in the mines, as a strike, they say, simply means that the agreement with the operators expired today, and the men naturally are unwilling to continue their labors in the absence of a new one.

"There is no strike," said a representative of the miners today. "The miners do not go back on their contracts. No strike orders have been issued. The men have been notified that no new contract has been signed. Until it is signed, there will be no further production in the anthracite mines."

Not Changed Minds.
"Miners said in Atlantic City that they would not accept arbitration. They have not changed their minds since coming to Harrisburg. They will not accept arbitration today—no matter how the lady may be dressed—and thus, in the absence of any completed negotiations, the status quo merely lapses into a suspension."

The renewed objection of the miners to arbitration, "no matter how the lady may be dressed," referred to the suggestion of Governor Pinchot that religious organizations in London in October with a view to taking steps to bring pressure upon the government to take decisive action to remedy the unemployment situation.

"Unemployment," they say, "must be due to some grave defect in our social organization."

NICKLE SAYS SALE OF HOME BANK STOCK IS ILLEGAL

NICKLE DECLARES SELLING OF STOCK BY DALY ILLEGAL

Attorney-General States Department Will Not Investigate Home Bank.

NO CRIMINAL ACT

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Aug. 31.—Attorney-general W. F. Nickle this morning intimated that inasmuch as the sale of 1,000 shares of stock in the Home Bank did not constitute criminality on the part of the president, H. J. Daly, no action by his department would be taken of the provincial government towards investigating further the affairs of the bank.

Investigations disclosed that Mr. Daly had not advised the Toronto directors of the bank of his decision to sell this important block of stock after the first of the present year. Surprised was expressed that the facts were as stated, and directors declared that they had not endeavored to sell out their stock interests. They agreed with a view expressed by the attorney-general, however, that Mr. Daly had a perfect right to sell his stock if he chose, providing it was paid for.

"It is your purpose or the purpose of the government here to institute any proceedings concerning the Home Bank?"

"The sale of his own stock by the manager was not criminal," replied Mr. Nickle. "I suppose he had every right to sell his stock if he chose."

R. P. Gough, director of the bank, said that the first intimation he had of the deal was when it was reported in the press yesterday.

"Did President Daly tell you, or other members of the board of directors, that he was disposing of a large block of his stock?" Mr. Gough was asked.

"The first intimation I had was the announcement in last night's papers," he replied. "I do not know anything more about it than that."

"In your opinion, should he have informed his directors of what he was doing?"

"No, he did not have to tell me. I would have the right to dispose of any stock I might have, providing I had it paid for. That is a matter for the holder of the stock."

"Have you, or any other director, to your knowledge, similarly disposed of any Home Bank stock held by you?"

"I certainly have not," emphatically replied Mr. Gough. "Messrs. Wood, Russell, Stewart, also Toronto directors, did not, I am sure."

TOWNSPEOPLE RENEW ATTACK ON KLANSMEN

Ku Kluxers Run Gauntlet of Stones in Exodus From Hall.

Associated Press Despatch. Perth, Aug. 31.—N. J. Aug. 31.—Battling between Ku Klux Klan members and mobs was resumed on the streets of Perth Amboy this morning, as members of the order tried to escape from the Oddfellows Hall, where they had sought refuge during an attack on a Klan meeting last night. A hundred men armed with clubs and stones, and a mob of about thirty Klansmen, who had remained hidden in the Oddfellows hall, dashed from the building in the hope of reaching safety.

The Klansmen had to run a gauntlet of clubs and stones, and were severely beaten before they were able to escape their pursuers. Several were reported seriously injured.

FAIL TO GET SIGNATORIES FOR ALBERTA WHEAT POOL

Canadian Press Despatch. Edmonton, Aug. 31.—Northern constituencies of Alberta, handing in reports to yesterday's meeting of northern members of the Alberta Legislature, showed that they were poorly signed up for the wheat pool, and below the general average reported from the wheat pool central office at Calgary.

Mayor Wenige Urges Support For Jersey Creams in the Dundas Game.

GREETED BY CHEERS

Mayor Wenige spent fifteen minutes at noon today in the dining-hall of the McCormick factory, delivering a well-deserved impetus to the support of the McCormick Jersey Creams, which on Monday at Labor Day will go to Dundas to decide the amateur championship.

As the conclusion of a drawing which has been held among the employees for the purpose of raising traveling expenses, Mayor Wenige was asked to draw for the team, the first prize—a ton of coal—going to D. Hetherington, with the number 357.

The mayor's well-known interest in amateur sport has among other things apparently secured the local support of the McCormick employees, who greeted his appearance with volumes of cheers and hand-clapping. His words were very brief, but commended the spirit shown by the McCormick employees in their policy of maintaining the Jersey Creams as a self-supporting team of amateurs.

A second volley of cheers greeted the mayor's announcement that he intended making the trip with the team, and doing his bit toward contributing a sufficient amount of audible support.

The winners of the second and third prizes, who hold the numbers 332 and 339 respectively, were not present at the drawing, and their names were not forthcoming at the noon hour.

Encouragement for the team or thirty teams which will compete at Dundas, Mayor Wenige is canvassing the city for 50 or 60 automobiles to meet at the McCormick House at 7 a.m. the morning of Labor Day.

So that a thoroughly adequate support on the part of local patrons of amateur sport may be insured, he is anxious to secure at least this number, and an unlimited number more, if such are available. All who intend supporting the McCormick House by a.m. are asked to notify his worship.

QUEBEC STREET BOY CRASHES INTO MOTOR

Eugene Croteau Seriously Injured While Riding Bike On Ontario Street Last Night.

While riding a bicycle on Ontario street last night, Eugene Croteau, a young boy of 4½ years, collided with a motor car, and as a result is lying seriously injured in the hospital.

It is said that the young Croteau was circling about on the street when the car turned the corner, and unable to straighten out from the curve, his bicycle was carried into the car, and he was hurled into the air.

The driver of the car stopped at once, and assisted by residents of the neighborhood, carried the boy into a nearby house, where Dr. Duncan of Dundas street attended him while awaiting the coming of the ambulance. The boy was then rushed to Victoria Hospital, where he lies in a precarious condition with a fractured skull.

The injury to the head is the only hurt that the lad sustained, and was very likely caused by his head striking the hood of the car.

TWELVE MILLION MARKS CAN BE GOT FOR DOLLAR

Associated Press Despatch. Berlin, Aug. 31.—Twelve million marks for a dollar was the reading on signs stuck up by city brokers around the bourse yesterday afternoon. Officially the rate was posted at 10.75 to the dollar.

Although the once proud mark today fell below a two and one-half million of its pre-war value, beyond repeating the familiar refrain of its continued slump, the financial writers, who once again are inditing lugubrious financial elegies to the declining unit of value are unable to assign definite causes for its sensational decline of the last two days.

SEVEN YEARS' FREEDOM LOST IN BREAKING PAROLE

Special to The Advertiser. St. Catharines, Aug. 31.—William Carpenter, Grimby, was arrested at the Lincoln County Jail door today by a Royal Mounted policeman from Toronto, and taken back to Kingston penitentiary, to serve the balance of a twelve years sentence for rape. Five and a half years ago Carpenter was sentenced here to twelve years. He was released a few months ago on parole, but on Aug. 1 he was arrested on a charge of violating his parole, and now forfeits seven years freedom.

OBJECT TO ERECTION OF CANOPY OVER SIDEWALK

Ratepayers residing in the neighborhood of Waterloo and Oxford streets informed The Advertiser today that they were far from satisfied with the decision of the board of works to allow the proprietors of a service station to place a canopy over their premises on these corners.

"We are taking our protest to the city council meeting Monday," they assured. "And we do not consider that we were treated fairly yesterday. What is fair for one should be fair for all, and while the committee proposes to allow this structure on city property, a storekeeper on the opposite corner was denied permission to make alterations to his premises because of extension over the street line. The cases are about the same."

ALLOWED OUT ON BAIL ON STEALING CHARGES

Police Court Will Give Four Youths Further Hearing Next Friday.

Today's police court presented a light docket that was welcome on such a hot day. The four youths who appeared yesterday charged with stealing fruit and vegetables from the grounds of the asylum were all taken on bail until Friday next.

A case of non-support brought an order from the magistrate for a weekly allowance of $10. There were seven cases of breach of the motor vehicles act, of which two were for speeding and entailed fines of $5 and costs, and four were for parking without leaving the lights burning. These offenders contributed $2 and costs each to the court. One case of passing a standing street car brought a fine of $3 and costs.

ITALIAN NAVY BEGINS ACTION AGAINST GREECE

much from international benevolence. Italy is unequivocally supported only by the Daily Mail, which warns Greece that the sooner she gives satisfaction to Italy the better it will be for her.

Inflict Humiliation. The Times calmly reviews the events leading to the present situation, and characterizes the Italian ultimatum as intended to inflict humiliation rather than merely to obtain justice.

A Central News despatch from Rome today says it is stated in authoritative quarters that "the Greek attempt to make the Janina crime an international question" will be resisted by Premier Mussolini, who will contend that it is a matter concerning only Greece and Italy.

KEEP ACTIONS SECRET. Associated Press Despatch. Rome, Aug. 31.—The Italian government in a semi-official statement today urged the newspapers not to publish the movements of Italian military or naval units, threatening severe measures against those who do so.

The press learns from Brindisi that the Greek steamer Uromedios, which was scheduled to leave for a Greek port last evening, has been stopped in the harbor. The press despatches add that the Italian steamship Adria, which had cleared for the Levant, was ordered later to go direct to Constantinople without touching at Greek ports.

The newspaper Messaggero today says it is reliably informed that Greece's refusal to pay an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire for the slaying of the Italian boundary mission and her request for modification of the Italian flag, are considered by the Italian government as absolutely unsatisfactory.

RECOURSE TO LEAGUE. Associated Press Despatch. Athens, Aug. 31.—It is stated in reliable quarters that the government will await Italy's reply to the Greek note in answer to the Italian ultimatum before having recourse to the League of Nations, of which both nations are members.

If an appeal to the league is considered necessary it will be based upon Article 13 and 15 of the covenant, by virtue of which the league must necessarily intervene, even if asked to do so by only one of the parties concerned.

A telegram from Janina says the military detachments have started in pursuit of the assassins of the Italian commissioners.

Several of the difficulties of the international incident, which in many ways recalls the events which plunged Europe into war in 1914, the League of Nations is generally fixed upon as the medium for reaching a settlement, and in view of the fact that no word from Rome refers to the Geneva tribunal the Daily News asks: "Will Mussolini torpedo the league, and fire new broadsides at Article 12, and into the Greek navy at the same time?"

The Fascist premier is the object of much criticism in the morning newspapers. Some of this is in the form of friendly advice, but it is more often bitter. Thus the Express says: "If this is a Fascist diplomacy, it does not seem to differ much from international benevolence."

RAIL COMMITTEE ASKS BOARD OF ARBITRATION

Canadian National Maintenance-of-Way Men Seek Wage Revision.

After a month of unsuccessful negotiations with the Canadian Railways Association at Montreal, the maintenance-of-way committee representing the employees on the Canadian National Railways has decided to apply for an arbitration board to settle the existing differences between the company and the men.

News of the committee's decision reached local maintenance-of-way officials this morning.

There are more than 500 maintenance-of-way men employed on the London division of the Canadian National, and for months they have been endeavoring through their representatives and other deputies acting for employees in other divisions to have wage schedules revised and working conditions improved. For more than a month a committee has been in constant conference with road representatives at Montreal, but a deadlock resulted and no progress was made.

The committee expect that within the next two months a conciliation board will be ready to look into their grievances, which the feel are entirely justified. Representatives from London will probably be called to Montreal when the board forms.

L. & P. S. VACANCIES WILL NOT BE FILLED

Foreman Absorbs Duties Formerly Held by Master Mechanic.

Two positions rendered vacant on the London and Port Stanley Railway in recent weeks will not be filled, General Manager Richards advised The Advertiser today.

These are the positions of auditor and master mechanic. Secretary Way is undertaking the duties of the former position, the recent incumbent having resigned to enter business in Port Stanley. In the latter instance the duties have been absorbed by one of the capable foremen who has been in the employ of the road for seven years.

Manager Richards seems quite pleased with the arrangement.

He reports a very good record for the road in August despite the fact that the cool weather has interfered seriously with the passenger traffic. In fact the unusual weather throughout the season has been a decided handicap but with additional freight service and the usual efficient maintenance the road has made a good record for the year is expected.

Labor Day marks the termination of the summer schedule the manager explains, and new timetables are now available. The old schedule will be again in effect with a few minor changes, he states, dispelling the rumor that sweeping changes had been contemplated.

ON LAWSON FARM

W. J. Wintenberg Declares Amateur Archaeologists Damaged Property.

MARK INCLOSURE

This morning the skeleton of a child, found yesterday on the farm of Ray Lawson by W. J. Wintenberg, was removed, and men were digging deeper in the location of the find.

It is Mr. Wintenberg's belief that the few human bones, the two jaw bones, and the skeleton unearthed yesterday marked the spot of a cemetery of the ancient tribe of Attawandagon Indians. Up until noon today three feet of earth had been dug up, but no further skeletons were excavated. "It is unlikely," said Mr. Wintenberg, "that we will find a cemetery in this spot. Rarely have skeletons been found buried deeper than a few feet, and for the time being I will discontinue digging here."

The marking out of the supposed Indian inclosure is occupying the time of Mr. Wintenberg and his workmen at present. Another passage-way, similar to the one found yesterday, was discovered today. Mr. Wintenberg cannot say what these series of inclosures mean, and until work is completed on it he will hazard no opinion.

"The discovery of skeletons, although interesting, has not the same historical value as completing the inclosure and definitely deciding what it really is."

All the workmen are taking a keen interest in the excavations, and at the present, due to the valuable finds of the past few days, Mr. Wintenberg and his men are keyed up to a high pitch of excitement.

The property they are exploring is thought to be one of the richest in the city. It is undoubtedly would have given more information about the mode of living of the prehistoric native tribes than any other site, had it not been disturbed by amateur archaeologists.

Mr. Wintenberg says that he has unearthed relics and what he believes to be the remains of a prehistoric house. Because the soil has been disturbed, Mr. Wintenberg is unable to excavate in the usual method.

WILL MEET GROCERS ON MARKET PROBLEM

Members of Finance Committee To Confer With Local Retailers.

Members of the finance committee of the city council and the local Grocers Association will meet in the city market next week to consider the city market problem.

As a member of the grocers' organization, Ald. Drake is taking a vast interest in the market, and is viewed toward a more satisfactory settlement of the market issue. He expects that now for the session, and it was chiefly at the instigation of Ald. Drake that the finance committee, at their recent session, deferred any definite action pertaining to the proposal to elevate market conditions by levying an outside rental.

In the meanwhile, the committee will consider a report upon the market problem prepared by a few years ago when the market was also arranged for an inspection of the market. Wednesday, if Ald. Drake's plans are not upset in the meantime, the committee will meet to consider the market problem.

Members of the council have proposed to raise all market rentals but the present indications there is a possibility that the market house will remain unchanged. The committee will consider a report upon the market problem prepared by a few years ago when the market was also arranged for an inspection of the market. Wednesday, if Ald. Drake's plans are not upset in the meantime, the committee will meet to consider the market problem.

THINKS COUNTY HAS NEGLECTED ITS DUTY

Judge Warner Asks for County Co-operation in Juvenile Court.

The county council have not fulfilled their share of responsibility toward the juvenile court, according to Judge G. G. Warner, who referred to this situation in his address to the Youth Club in the Tecumseh House today.

"We have been supported by a fine committee from the city council," Judge Warner said, "and so far the city council have done their duty. I am sorry to say that the county council have not done theirs. They have neglected their duty."

A large percentage of the cases dealt with by the juvenile court, and it is, I think, hardly fair that the county council should not be reminded of what appears to me to be their great negligence."

CLYDESDALE TROPHY HAS UNIQUE ORIGIN

Expect Keen Competition For Championship Shield at the Western Fair.

The silver shield offered for the Clydesdale champion stallion at the Western Fair is one of the unique rewards that has found its way into the hands of a horse breeder as a result of the war. This handsome decorated shield bears an inscription stating that it is presented by Capt. John B. Watson of Westholm, Mains, Vancouver Island, B. C., who was killed in France while on active service in 1915.

The shield is offered for a horse bred, born and raised in Canada, and the donor is well known on the coast as an enthusiastic breeder of the Scottish draft horse.

There is a possibility that the Western Fair this year will be honored by the presence of one of the greatest Clydesdale judges in the world in the person of Archie McNeillage, editor of the Scottish Farmer, and who is on a trip just now, and who is at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this week. Mr. McNeillage is well known among breeders of the "Clydes" in Canada and the States as in Scotland.

FAMOUS PHILOSOPHER WILL TEACH AT TORONTO

Toronto, Aug. 31.—One of Europe's most distinguished philosophers, Maurice de Wolf, will now become a member of the staff of St. Michael's College. This eminent Belgian was a professor of medieval philosophy at the University of Louvain and the University of Paris, and was also a member of the Royal Academy of Belgium, and is a lifelong friend of the renowned Cardinal Mercier.

Professor de Wolf was here for a time in 1915, and in university circles his series of philosophical lectures is remembered with much satisfaction.

STATE CONDITION OF REAL ESTATE BACK TO NORMAL

London Dealers Predict Long Period of Stationary Rentals in City.

ANXIOUS TO BUY

As far as rents and the price of houses are concerned London is back to normal.

At least that is the opinion of local real estate men. They believe the housing situation is as normal as it will ever be. No decline or increase in prices are anticipated either this year or next.

"Citizens appear to think that a return to normal means a return to rents and prices of 1914," a prominent real estate man said today. "They are wrong in making this conclusion. So far as we can see there will be no change for many years to come. We will never come back to 1914 prices."

Even with the return of hundreds of citizens who have spent the summer by the lakeside and in the country, rents are not likely to increase this fall, according to Bert Weir, real estate agent. Conditions have become stabilized this year and the public may look forward to a long period of stationary rentals with little, if any change in the general prices of moderately sized houses.

The prosperity of the city, Mr. Weir added, is reflected in the large percentage of Londoners who desire to buy homes of their own. For every five persons wishing to rent there are ten who want to buy outright. The economy of owning one's home has become deeply impressed on the minds of thousands of householders who, before the war, thought that to rent a home was better thrift than to own one.

Few For Sale. Two weeks ago there were 50 to 60 houses for sale in the city. Now there are little more than a dozen. The past fortnight, real estate men say, has been the most active in the history of the city. Mr. Weir, in fact, sold four houses on the Ford Motor property at Colborne street in two and a half hours one day last week. He believes this constitutes a record.

A rather regrettable feature of the local housing situation is the scarcity of citizens who wish to buy large residences. Few spacious homes in London can be disposed of at a profit of construction in spite of the 150 per cent increase in the price of smaller homes since 1917. The public is apparently commencing to realize the un wisdom of burdening itself with large, rangy homes, and the demand for three or four room flat houses in which every room can be used for some purpose.

"Newly built houses are in great demand, and those that have been occupied even for a short period. Newlyweds and citizens intent on owning their own homes tend to prefer the brand new variety," Mr. Weir said. "That is why a house has just been erected brigs a better price than one that has been occupied for even two or three months."

Apartments Filled. Cottages find a ready sale than any other type of abode. The larger a house the harder it is to dispose of, although well-equipped, modern sized homes are always wanted. Practically all apartments are occupied or will be by the time cold weather sets in. The demand for flats continues undiminished, the big attraction being the heating and lighting, the expense of which is, of course, paid by the landlord, but the feature which seems to give prospective occupants of any apartment is the elimination of worry in connection with securing fuel for the winter.

"London is growing steadily," another agent said, "and unless an unforeseen slump occurs prices will continue at their present scale for a long time. A substantial reduction has been experienced the past year or so, and we believe the housing situation is what may be called normal."

In fact Ald. Wilson urged openly that the entire question be shelved until 1924 in view of the approach of the end of the term.

LONDON MAINTAINING ITS HIGH BIRTH RATE

Vital Statistics Also Show a Decline in Number of Deaths.

London is consistently maintaining a high birth rate, according to official figures submitted today from City Clerk Beharrell's department. In addition to this, the birth rate has been common with last June, achieved a much lower death rate.

Deaths during the last four weeks in this city are set at 73, comparing with 72 in June, 84 in July, and more than 100 in each other month.

Births dropped in August, 39 being recorded, with 74 in July as the highest level and 46 in April as the poorest showing.

But 67 nuptial knots were tied in August, a fairly good average for the good old summer time.

The official figures to date since Jan. 1 are: Marriages, 448; births, 1,098, and deaths, 768.

Births were divided: Male, 532; female, 463. Deaths were divided: Male, 394; female, 368.

WAITING FOR DECISION ON BREAKWATER REQUEST

Front street residents are waiting more or less impatiently for a decision from the city council with respect to their demand for a new breakwater.

This question has claimed the attention of the city council intermittently during the past two years or more, and today Raymond Smith, a resident of that thoroughfare informed The Advertiser that he is subjected to any damage of property through flooding next spring, he will immediately institute action against the municipality.

Another proposal from the city engineer's department is anticipated, however, within the next few days.

DOCTORS APPLY FOR FREE SUPPLY OF FLUID INSULIN

Not Yet Definitely Known When Consignment Will Arrive From Toronto.

ENOUGH FOR ALL

Following announcement in The Advertiser yesterday that insulin for indigent sufferers from diabetes would be distributed gratuitously throughout the city some time in September, several doctors filed applications today for a supply of the fluid.

Dr. Albert Black of the Institute of Public Health expects many additional applications from local physicians. It is not known when the consignment of insulin will arrive from Toronto, where it is manufactured, but Dr. Black believes there will be sufficient to take care of all persons in London and Western Ontario unable to purchase the drug owing to straightened financial conditions.

Many diabetics have learned how to administer the drug without the assistance of doctors, but no supply will be given to private patients. Physicians will be responsible for its use, and it will be only through them that private patients will be able to secure an allotment.

Dr. Black said insulin produced in Toronto was made from beef pancreas on a scale of a few hundred pounds of the Queen City. As far as is known, no district packing companies have placed their beef pancreas on the market for sale. However, they are certain to do so, as present pancreas are used for fermenting purposes, but with the discovery of insulin, a new and highly profitable adjunct to the packing business has come into existence.

In time it is believed the drug will be manufactured in this city. Toronto is the only place in Ontario where the fluid is made on a wholesale basis. The towns in Western Ontario will secure a quantity from the provincial laboratory at Toronto or Woodstock, London, Windsor, and possibly Sarnia.

BRITAIN REFUSES REQUEST OF PALESTINE GOVERNOR

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 31.—The request of Sir Herbert Samuel for wider powers in the administration of Palestine has been declined, according to the Cairo correspondent of the Daily Express.

The correspondent has ascertained that official quarters that the British high commissioner, while the British government, had asked the British government to give him greater leeway, but that the cabinet refused to extend his powers beyond those provided in the constitution for the Holy Land.

THOUGHT CUSTOMS HOUSE COULD BE BOUGHT CHEAP

Hers, boy. Page Aid. William Wilson. We can have the old customs house for $2,000, and use it for a city hall.

There was quite a flurry of excitement at the board of works yesterday, but just for a moment or two. One of the members, glancing over the accounts murmured "customs duty, $2,000."

"What?" questioned Aid. Watt sharply.

"The customs house for $2,000," explained the other member. "We have just received an offer for Aid. Wilson."

The aldermen will have their little joke about the new city hall.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 31, 1923.

There's a Lesson in These Events.

Public attention has been turned toward banking and business. The developments in banking circles in recent days have turned the course of thought and discussion that way.

So it is that we express one hope, viz., that when people are talking and discussing these affairs they let their thinking and their talking get far enough back and near enough home to do them some good.

If their thoughts and their conversation get caught on the pivot of mere gossip about what is being passed about on the street there is going to be nothing in it for them. They are simply going to pass along some thing they have heard: "Mr. So-and-So told me that he had this on good authority three or four weeks ago," and so on.

On the other hand, there is a chance to do some careful thinking. The failure of a bank is the culmination of a lot of individual dealings. A bank is not a concern that lives to itself. It is in a very real sense a public service used some time or other by the majority of our people.

If a bank has a number of accounts that have ceased to be classed as good it means that it is called upon to face and handle an accumulation of cases that have resulted from individual bad management.

Each business that has trouble can go on back to the group within which it operates. If the thing is sifted out fine enough it will be found that the individual in his dealings, in his conception of a dollar, and in the limitation or curbing of his tastes, has probably not come down to brass tacks.

We are living in a time when people want things. As an illustration, you can go back to the safest and best of all institutions, the home. Our ideas of starting housekeeping are greater than they used to be. Not so very many years ago a bride and groom were content to start in a small way; they were happy in a cottage that was being furnished piece by piece as the money was available for each addition. Each bit of furniture that was added was a mark of achievement and perhaps sacrifice for a common purpose. There was no debt; there was the excellent satisfaction that the things in the home were paid for, and there was a little, perhaps not much, left over.

That may be a homely illustration on a small scale, but it serves to show the state of mind and the contentment that came from doing things on a reasonable basis, and within the limits of the family purse. People were not hanging their hats higher than they could reach.

In recent years, and particularly in the last year of the war, and in 1920, we had a taste of big money and a prosperity that had no real reason for existing.

When the war was over the wise thing would have been to scale down and face the inevitable inflation. The trouble was that all of us were busily engaged in seeing how deflation could be passed along. We failed to see that in the process of real deflation all of us were going to be more or less hurt. We fought the thing and hung on. We asked the banks in very many cases to help us to hang on. We wanted to make our financial wounds very light, not realizing or caring that by doing so we would make a harder load for some person else.

We are a well-off people as a whole; we are solvent and able to pay our way, but we still retain fairly big ideas. We do not urge national or personal stinginess; a wise expenditure of available funds is much better.

The real benefit of a banking failure is going to come from the individuals starting to put their own houses in order; from a determination to pay our bills and thus allow those to whom we are obligated to discharge their obligations. A man with a clean sheet is a contented man, and a home over which debt is not hanging has a chance of being a fairly happy place.

There is a big lesson for the Canadian people to read from present conditions. The only possible way to make use of the lesson is for each individual to apply it to his own case.

The Parents and the Collegiates.

Principal Miller of the London Collegiate is seeking to bring the parents of the scholars into close touch with secondary education. Mothers' clubs accomplish this purpose for the primary schools, but there has not been anything to do the same work when the pupil left the public school and entered the collegiate.

Mr. Miller believes that by forming an association for the center, east and south sections he can make the work taken up at the schools plain to the students and more readily understood by the parents.

The chances are that the majority of pupils going to the collegiate for the first time know what they have in view as a life's work. The most of them are undecided; they are not quite sure where the various courses are going to lead, or what they had better take or leave alone. The idea of the parents meeting the principals and teachers is aimed to explain much of this to parents. It ought to help make decisions, and prevent the changing of courses after a pupil has made a start in one direction.

So there should be a good attendance at the Central on Tuesday night, at Lord Roberts for the east on Thursday and in South Collegiate on Friday. Mr. Miller has made a start in an effort to put the collegiates close to the parents, and the latter should be quick to see the advantage of the move.

Making a Clumsy Exit.

The Montreal Star is now moved to explain why it wrote "The Whisper of Death." In its explanation it goes to the distance of throwing distrust on papers who have dared to differ with it.

The Star refers to "every journalistic Vicar of Bray who worships in turn whatever hand controls the public 'pap,' every automatic defender of the politicians in power whether for principle or for pay."

If the Montreal Star has reason to believe that the press of Canada is paid for supporting any government, or any party, or any interests, it is the duty of that paper to come out openly and make an exposure.

If the Star has no such information it has done a mean and serious injury to the press of Canada in giving space to an insult that is as nasty as it is miserably false.

The Montreal Star has found that it is not only in the wrong paw but in the wrong church. In making a clumsy exit it seeks to besmirch those who refused to participate in its defamation of Canadian credit and in its onslaught on Canadian National Railways.

Its whole course has been that of small politics and smaller newspaper ethics.

Wingham and Its Band.

The Wingham Times says the town band may turn in their instruments and quit because they are not being well enough supported.

If Wingham has a town band at all it should hang on to it. Once the band is broken up it is doubly hard to build another.

A town not so far north faced a similar situation a few years ago. Instead of quitting, a few of the bolder spirits decided that the cure was in having a better band.

Preference was given at that time in the various places of employment to men who could play an instrument.

So, instead of the band ceasing to toot it tooted and sobbed more sweetly and more plaintively than ever. Inside of six months the band had a reputation of being the best in the district.

When the boys get a bit discouraged over band matters in a town it is often good business to put a little more shine on the big bass horn and go to it harder than ever.

Note and Comment.

The old saying, "As popular as a skunk at a picnic," has given way to "As popular as a detour with a driver."

Drivers say big aeroplanes are harder to control than little ones. Same with people.

The people who make collars put so much printing on them that they cannot be turned.

It's a mighty fine tribute to our national soundness that wedding rings don't appear in the second-hand windows.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald says the newest game is chin golf, or how many strokes does a man take in shaving himself. Let the contest proceed, and from the office funds we pledge a bundle of court plaster for the winner.

A policy of $10,000 has been issued to cover loss of an expedition going to take pictures in Mexico of the sun's eclipse. The period covered is from 2:34 to 2:37, about three minutes. We shall now see how one Old Sol performs in an insurance policy.

The Detroit Free Press, a very sane and well-conducted paper, read the Montreal Star's "Whisper of Death" series. The result was an eight-column line across the front page of the Detroit paper: "Dominion Part of United States in 25 Years."

A Chicago professor has rewritten the New Testament, using modern words in place of some of the Bible phrases. He might find much better use for his surplus energy. The Old Book has in it passages that no writer of this day can equal for pure beauty and rare purity.

A report from Saskatoon says that wheat is turning out fifty bushels to the acre at the Saskatchewan Insane Asylum. It looks as if a man had to be crazy to grow really good wheat; or perhaps the low price per bushel has filled the asylum with expert wheat growers.

BOSCAWEN ASSERTS HE WAS MISINFORMED

The Former British Minister of Agriculture Explains Cattle Importing Agreement.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 30.—Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, former minister of agriculture, writing in the Times in reference to the importation of breeding stock, states he was completely misinformed as to the agricultural opinion on breeding cattle. "If the present minister of agriculture frankly tells the Canadian representatives at the imperial conference that the provisional agreement made by myself was the result of misunderstanding and cannot be carried out without adding violence to the unanimous agricultural opinion here, this will be the simple truth. Canadians have always expressed themselves as most unwilling to accept anything which would hurt our farmers," writes Sir Arthur.

PROMINENT GUELPH COUPLE ENJOY LONG WEDDED LIFE

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, Aug. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Walker, Woolwich street, celebrated the 68th anniversary of their wedding on Tuesday, August 28. Although well advanced in years (Mr. Walker is 88 years old) both he and Mrs. Walker are in the best of health, and expect to celebrate a good many more anniversaries of their wedding day.

Mr. Walker came to Guelph in 1855, and with the exception of one year spent at Fergus has lived here continuously ever since. For many years he was one of Guelph's prominent businessmen, and it was he who established the firm of Hugh Walker and Son. In his younger days Mr. Walker, who for many years was one of the leading singers in the city, always found time to devote to the advancement of music, of which he is very fond. For some years he has lived retired at his home on Woolwich street and, though so far advanced in years, takes an interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the city and its people.

MANY ATTEND OPENING OF MEMORIAL PARK

Special to The Advertiser. Woodstock, Aug. 30.—A very large crowd attended the opening of Memorial Park at the village of Bright in Blainville township yesterday. During the afternoon the Ingersoll Midway lacrosse team defeated the Bright lads by 10-4, while the St. Marys seniors defeated an Indian team from the Brantford reserve. A number of softball games were played, and in the evening a big program of music, songs and dancing was presented, the day ending up with a dance. Over $500 was realized from the day's doings.

The Guide Post—By Henry van Dyke

WILL YOU OR WON'T YOU BE CHOSEN?

Many are called, but few chosen.—Matthew xxii, 14.

Some men are troubled by the doctrine of election, or predestination, or foreordination, or whatever you prefer to call it.

They quote this word of Christ, and then say to themselves: "If I am chosen I shall be certain to come, but if I am not chosen there is no use in coming, therefore the only thing to do is to wait and see."

This way of taking the doctrine of election makes God a liar. When Christ says, "Come unto me all ye that labor," he means it. Men do not act in this silly way about anything else in life except religion.

They do not say, "If I am to be married, I shall be married: if I am to be well, I shall be well: if I am to go to New York, I shall inevitably find myself there."

If these are things that they want, they do something to attain them. They get busy about them.

Does not this apply to religion?

God has chosen all who repent and believe and try to be good. Fulfill the conditions and you are sure of the choice.

Read the words, "Many are called, but few chosen," in the light of the parable from which they are taken.

There were hundreds of guests at the marriage feast, but only one was there out.

And that was because he would not put on the wedding garment provided.

HON. F. C. BIGGS BUYS INTEREST IN FACTORY

Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, Aug. 30.—By purchases of stock held by local people, made within the past month, Hon. F. C. Biggs, ex-minister of highways, has gained a substantial holding in the Kitchen Overall and Shirt Company of this city. No change of location is anticipated at present, despite rumors that the factory would be moved where greater inducements have been offered. The four-story building on West street was erected six years ago by the Kitchen Company, which came here in 1911. Between 175 and 200 hands are employed in the local plant, while the branch factory at Waterloo, which makes shirts exclusively, has a pay-roll of 25. Mr. Biggs has become vice-president of the firm.

REFUSES TO INDOSE TAXING OF UTILITIES

Kitchener Council Regards, With Suspicion, Niagara Falls Resolution.

Special to The Advertiser. Kitchener, Aug. 30.—Considerable opposition was aroused at the regular meeting of the finance committee of the city council here tonight, by a resolution from the chamber of commerce of Niagara Falls, asking incorporation of a movement to have all publicly owned utilities in Ontario municipalities subject to municipal and other taxation the same as private enterprises.

The aldermen took the view that the resolution is a movement calculated to injure public utilities, such as the hydro enterprises.

A resolution was passed by the committee condemning the Niagara Falls resolution, and a provision was made in it to have the counter-resolution circulated to all municipal councils in Ontario, with a view to offset the taxation movement started at Niagara Falls. The view was taken by the members of the committee is, that the object of the Niagara Falls body is to get legislation enacted that would enable the municipality of Niagara Falls to obtain a revenue by taxation from the hydro-electric power plants there.

WILL ERECT MEMORIAL TO FALLEN SOLDIERS

Special to The Advertiser. Mitchell, Aug. 30.—Messrs. Porterfield & Colquhoun of this town have been awarded the contract for the soldiers' memorial for the township of Elma, which will be erected in the village of Atwood, at a cost of $2,000. The total height of the monument is to be 17 feet, 4 inches, and the statue of a Canadian soldier on the top will be 6 feet, 6 inches tall. The cap, the die, and the base, will be of Scotch granite, and thirty names will be inscribed on the monument, and on the face of the base will be cut the dates 1914 to 1918.

BURNING SHALE CAUSES WORRY AT KETTLE POINT

Cottagers Fear Outbreak May Extend and Destroy the Summer Homes.

APPEAL FOR RELIEF

The shale on Ipperwash Beach, between Kettle Point and Stony Point, is burning on more than a quarter-mile front, and unless the government takes immediate steps to prevent its spreading, cottagers fear that before winter there is a possibility of the fire extending back into the brush and enveloping the summer homes. There are 50 cottages between the two points, a distance of 5 1/2 miles.

Dr. S. Woolverton, well-known London geologist and writer, who has returned from his cottage at Ipperwash, told The Advertiser this morning that the shale has been on fire for more than two months, and already has destroyed a good-sized section of bush.

No Effort to Combat. Residents of the district have notified the Indian agent in charge of Walpole Island and the Stony Point and Kettle Point Reserves, but the official is not at Walpole, and no effort has been made to combat the fire.

"All the burning is going on underground," Dr. Woolverton said, "and on the surface no flames are visible, but by digging down a little way, the air soon fans the shale into flame. All along the burning area can be seen little wisps of smoke emerging from the fissures. In this respect it resembles a volcano."

"The top of the shale is quite hot and in certain places so warm that a person cannot stand there. During the past month the fire has spread rapidly, and unless the department of forests and mines acts quickly the roots of a wealth of young trees will be completely destroyed."

Wait Action. The fire is inside the Indian reserve, the doctor pointed out, and the Indians, running true to form are waiting for the government to put out the fire. White persons enjoy no power at all inside the reserves, and are only allowed the privilege of crossing them.

Dr. Woolverton has been summering at Ipperwash for the past twenty

Urges Cost Tabulation In Town Planning Work

Canadian Press Despatch. Shawinigan Falls, Que., Aug. 31.—In the course of the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities held today, Andrew P. MacCallum, commissioner of works, Ottawa, delivered an address on municipal engineering problems. The first of these, he pointed out, was the hazardous way in which Canadian towns had been laid out in their beginnings. Town planning might be defined as the scientific and orderly disposition of land and buildings in use and development, with a view to obviating congestion and securing economic and social efficiency, health and well-being in urban and rural communities.

The next problem in municipal engineering was the system of accounting which should be able to annually see expenditures of every branch of the service and make careful tabulations of detail costs.

years, and is thoroughly conversant with that section of the country, which, he claims, is a perfect hunting ground for geologists.

The country around Kettle Point is of a limestone nature, covered with igneous shale, and, therefore, inflammable. Hundreds of little holes suggested the name, Kettle Point, to the Indians, and it has been retained ever since.

Traditions says that Kettle Point once extended eight miles into the lake, but the Indians, discovering that the shale could be burned, piled it up on the beach and used it for beacons and in time added carelessness was responsible for the entire point being burned away, leaving a number of little islands as the only reminder of the promontory. It was on one of these islands that an Indian chieftain of a later generation made his home.

Dr. Woolverton informed The Advertiser that the fire has extended from the north to the south side of the rock, and declared that it would never be out of its own accord. There is plenty of water obtainable, he pointed out, and it would not be a very difficult matter to flood the burning territory.

FORWARD VETERAN'S BODY TO HOME IN MIDWAY

The body of H. Swamp, who died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the local C. N. R. depot while waiting for a train, was forwarded today from the undertaking parlors of A. L. Oatman to Midway via the 4:40 train for Stratford.

Passing to the different branches of municipal engineering he stated that undoubtedly the most necessary was the supply and distribution of water. The mechanical method of filtration which was most generally in use in Canada would successfully treat any water regardless of turbidity or color. For distribution iron pipes were the only reliable material of assured length of service.

Following the water supply the necessity of sewers became apparent. Mr. MacCallum then spoke of paving. He declared that a visitor to a town or city might forget its beautiful buildings but he will never forget the pavements, especially if they are bad.

In regard to illumination, the speaker said that the aim generally was to insure that the illumination at no point would be less than a given minimum, and by means of reflectors as nearly uniform as possible.

TO EXTEND HOLIDAYS WILL COST CITY $6,000

Vacation For Garbage Staff and Outside Workers Hard To Arrange.

Holidays for garbage workers and other outside workers have been urged by Mayor Wenige and the Labor side men. Final disposition of this question will be made at Monday's council session after several months of passing back and forth.

City Engineer W. P. Near is submitting a report to show that it will cost the city more than $6,000 to give holidays to these employees who are not on the regular list and who do not receive them in other years.

Mayor Wenige has maintained "all or none" while the Labor representatives in the council have repeatedly urged a vacation for all city employees. Those members who are opposed to the extension of the holiday maintain that the situation in this respect is totally different from that of the clerks in the city hall, who undertake to do one another's work during the vacation period. City officials state that they rarely have to engage additional clerical help while the clerks themselves draw attention to the fact that while they labor many hours overtime during the year they never receive overtime.

HAMILTON JUDGE DEFERS JUDGMENT IN BET NEWS CASE

Magistrate Jelfs Will Await Decision From Higher Court.

FACTS ADMITTED

Canadian Press Despatch. Hamilton, Aug. 31.—All the facts were admitted and judgment was reserved in the betting information cases this morning. Magistrate Jelfs will give his decision after a decision has been rendered by the high court in an appeal on the new anti-betting law.

There were three charges against Arthur B. Jones of Toronto, and one against William Beckman, news dealer. Controller Joseph Singer represented both men.

The controller and magistrate crossed swords before the case had barely begun. Magistrate Jelfs read the charge to Jones and asked him to plead. Before Jones had an opportunity to answer, Controller Singer said: "Not guilty."

Magistrate Jelfs informed Controller Singer that he should have conferred with his client before the court, and that Jones should make the plea. In spite of this warning a third time Controller Singer made the plea for his client.

Constable Wright testified that he saw three newsboys selling copies of "Last Minute," printed in Toronto, and that when he asked them whether they knew it was illegal to sell them they replied that they did not. The boys told him they got the papers from Jones, and that they arranged each day where they would meet him on the following day.

Similar evidence was admitted in the Beckman case.

CELEBRATION AT BAYFIELD. The opening of a new postoffice building at Bayfield tonight will be marked by a special celebration in the town hall. The new structure has just been completed and for a small office is one of the most modern in Western Ontario.

TWO BICYCLES STOLEN. Two bicycles were stolen last night from the Queen's Park playground. The owners, residents of Chelsea Green, reported the theft today direct to Mayor Wenige, who in turn reported to the police department.

SEES NO NECESSITY FOR CONTRACT PLAN

City Engineer Says Pavement Work Can Easily Be Completed by Day Labor.

City Engineer W. P. Near scouts the supposed necessity for reverting to the contract system in place of the day system for laying pavements. He explains that, as a matter of fact, work now outlined will only suffice to keep his department engaged. He sets Oct. 15 as the latest that any paving undertakings could be commenced with safety.

Mayor Wenige urged today that all plans scheduled by the council, including Wellington street, south and Oxford street, should be started as soon as possible. He expects the co-operation of the Street Railway Corporation, in accordance with their assurance to lend every assistance to complete as much work this fall as will be humanly possible.

The paving question will receive attention at a special session of the transportation commission set for this afternoon, when it is expected that Ald. Burdick's suggestion to suspend the "day labor" system will be aired, and in all probability rejected. Mayor Wenige points out that the council has already placed itself in the respect of the project.

Representatives of the Street Railway Company have been asked to participate in today's gathering, when it is expected they will decide just what other paving shall be undertaken this year, if any, in addition to the completion of the Richmond street project.

ROTARIANS DO HONOR TO RETIRING MEMBER

Watch and Chain For Lloyd Houlding On Eve of His Departure For Toronto.

More than a dozen members of the London Rotary Club paid a surprise visit to the home of a retiring member, Lloyd Houlding, Orchard Beach, Port Stanley, last evening.

Much of the success of the Rotary Club camp and other boys' work has been largely due to the efforts of Mr. Houlding, who has severed his connection with the Y. M. C. A. and leaves at the end of next week for Toronto, where he will take up the ministry at the Bloor Street Baptist Church.

It was recognition of his activities along Rotary lines that the members presented Mr. Houlding with a gold watch and chain during their informal visit at his summer home.

Mr. Houlding has taken an active part in all the work of the Rotary Club, but he has been particularly active in boys' work, linking up the Rotary boys with the Y. M. C. A. in a highly satisfactory manner.

He will be missed as a member of the club in general as well as a member of the boys' work committee.

ALDERMEN DISCUSS PROCEDURE BYLAW

Say Mayor Not To Blame Because Deputations Appear Before Council.

Member of the board of works entertain a similar opinion to Ald. Watt with respect to the appearance of deputations great and small, at the city council.

At yesterday's session they would recommend no change in the procedure bylaw in this connection and stressed the fact that it always remains for the councillors to decide whether citizens shall be heard or not, before first appearing at a committee meeting.

As Ald. Frank McKay pointed out, supporting Ald. Watt's contention, no blame should be attached to Mayor Wenige because his administration is heard at a city council session.

"It is for the aldermen to decide whether they shall be heard," he stated. "And they cannot say that the mayor is to blame for bringing them there to take up the time of the council. The mayor might bring one hundred people there, but it does not necessarily follow that the council is bound to listen to them there. They can deny them a hearing and send them to a subsequent meeting of the committee. That is the provision of the procedure bylaws."

Ald. McKay feels, however, that there are instances when deputations should be heard at the council, particularly when items are considered that could be settled in short order.

The members of No. 1 committee have recommended that the mayor enforce the procedure bylaw, but the members of the board of works feel that in this instance, it is for the aldermen to set the procedure. No responsibility can be foisted upon the mayor.

THINK MINING DISTRICT WILL ATTAIN IMPORTANCE

Assagated Press Despatch. Brisbane, Australia, Aug. 31.—An important discovery of galena deposits has been made 47 miles from Chillagoe. Ten samples of the ore averaged from 52 to 70 ounces of silver to the ton, with 50 per cent of lead. The minister of mines thinks the region may develop into another Broken Hill, the principal silver mining center on the continent.

Schools Re-Open Tuesday, September 4th—Are You Ready?

Think School Attendance Records Will Be Broken

Principals of London's Various Educational Institutions Point To Heavy Registration—Collegiate Principal Expects To Enroll 1,500 Students.

From an educational point of view the season of 1923-1924 is going to create a record as far as attendance is concerned, according to reports gathered yesterday from the principals of the most important teaching centers in the city. Both the public and the business colleges and schools report a greatly increased registration, and without any exception state that they are looking to the coming school year as being in advance of any previous period.

From the "middle" in the kindergarten in the public schools to the adults in some of the classes in the London Institute of Musical Art, all roads lead to the Rome of knowledge. Apart altogether from the University of Western Ontario, which will soon open her doors, and from the Normal School, London is, indeed, a rich center of education. Underlying every statement from the various principals is the undercurrent of optimism that sees in the increased registration an opportunity for the Canadians of tomorrow to make sure their grasp on the best things in life, and to build better and surer the human bulwarks of "Our Lady of the Snows."

In the Collegiate School with its south and east end units in operation the year will be one of full classes.

our pupils, with very few exceptions indeed, put all their energies into their work, and the reports we get from their employers after they leave us prove that they do the course justice." The principal, in explaining the way in which commercial teaching in business colleges has changed in the last decade or less, and of the ever changing demands that office work and management make on the teaching staff, said, "Everything tends to make the commercial courses and the work in the course of stenography longer and more exacting, year by year. Every day in some office a new way is being devised for the quick and efficient accomplishment of some part of the office activities, and we in the school have to keep close detail and conversant with all the changes."

Take Refresher Courses.

"Many of our students come back to us for refresher courses, and we find that they benefit by it." The growth of the school is evidenced by the fact that in 1885, when it was founded by J. W. Westervelt, it counted no girls among its pupils. Today about 60 per cent of the students enrolled are girls and their number seems to be increasing.

Mr. Marshall, who has been in London only four years and who before coming here was the principal of the Joint Business College in Sarnia and Port Huron, stresses the importance of the employment department of the school. "We are always very fortunate in placing our students and there is always a strong demand from London businessmen for our graduates. In fact, some of the businessmen tell me that they pick up a wrinkle or two from the pupils, who are sometimes more up to date in their office practice than the men themselves. Years ago, when I first started business college work, I found that girls from the good families in a town would not think of coming to college, and that they were afraid to do so with a world that they knew nothing of before."

The London Business College, in conformity, apparently with the other educational centres in the city, sees in the coming term one of larger attendance and more than usual business. N. Stonehouse, principal of the college, said today, "We shall have about 40 per cent more students than last year and are expecting a busier term than we have had so far."

In the other business colleges in London, more than half the pupils are girls, the percentage in this case being 60 for the girls and 40 for the boys. Over 90 per cent of those registering are Londoners, on increased number of city students over previous years.

Mr. Stonehouse agreed that commercial and stenographic courses today are much more intricate than formerly and that they include a wider range of subjects than in earlier days of business colleges.

The O'Brien Business College does not begin its term until Tuesday, September 4, and so is not certain what roll-call it may have during the coming term. W. J. O'Brien, principal and owner of the college, said confidently to a busy writer of work in the school. Though one can never be absolutely sure until the pupils start, he said, "I am sure we are going to have a larger attendance this year than last."

Possesses Community Spirit.

The Institute of Musical Art, whose term has just concluded, and who begin their new term in September, believe that in spite of rather hard times at present, they will have as many pupils as last year, and very likely the largest that the institution has ever had. A member of the staff, reviewing the activities of the school, said, "Art, you know, is looked on by so many people as a luxury that it is impossible to foresee just how many parents will think that their children should include music in their life's education."

Technical School Courses.

"The commercial course offered by the London Technical School is the only one offered in the public schools in the city," Mr. Beal has been busy all week in his office every night from 7:30 to 9:30 for the purpose of conferring with parents as to the needs of their children, and will be in his office in the evening until the school opens on Tuesday, September 4, for the same purpose.

"We have the largest enrolment of students that we have ever had," said W. F. Marshall, principal of the Westervelt Business College. We have a 65 per cent larger entry than we had last year, and they are about evenly divided between the country and the city." Mr. Marshall attributes this large increase to the fact that the school in the past has been able to place its pupils so well and so satisfactorily. He said: "Not only have we a very large attendance list for the coming season, but we find also that our pupils, the girls especially, are realizing more and more the advantages of training in commercial life, and most of them today have taken their matriculation before they come to us."

"Then, too, our commercial course and our stenographic course now covers a period of about eleven months of work, whereas some years ago a girl could take the entire course in perhaps five or six months."

The Westervelt School, wishing to make a good start early in the season, opens its doors on the first Monday before Labor Day and finds that it can get going and well under way for the winter work in spite of the fair and its counter attractions. "We find," said Mr. Marshall "that

GETS $800 A DAY AT DELORME TRIAL

New York Handwriting Expert Draws Down Fancy Figure For Opinions.

CUTS DOWN OTHERS

Special to The Advertiser.
Montreal, Aug. 30.—Expert witnesses, whose fees were stated to mount to high figures during the recent trial of Abbe Delorme, have been paid at the rate of $10 a day, the government paying that amount to all of the experts, with a single exception. The only man to get anywhere near his expected fee was C. A. Osborne of New York, recognized as the world's greatest authority on handwriting. The government paid Mr. Osborne the sum of $300 for one day in court. Mr. Osborne was excused as a witness, permanently, after being on the witness stand for three hours during the trial.

A great many of the witnesses who announced they were experts expected to get $20 every day they made their appearance in court, to be called by the crown. The doctors who testified as experts, with the expectation of receiving $25 fees, were paid at the rate of $10 a day. Walter Haynes, firearms expert, got nowhere near the amount expected, and like all the others, received $10 from the government.

In accepting the government's figures, witnesses have not jeopardized their position as experts or the possibility of receiving in full the amount of their fees. The doctors were asked when called by the crown to give their opinion on the handwriting of the accused. At any future time an application for the full amount may be made. In that event payment can only follow after the order-in-council has been passed by the lieutenant-governor. Mr. Osborne received $800 before he was called to the witness stand, and the same routine is necessary before other witnesses received further sums for their services at the Delorme trial.

DISCOVERS GYPSUM BEDS IN N. ONTARIO

T. J. McDermot, Prospector, Finds Deposit On Tributary of Moose River.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—One of the most important gypsum beds in the world has been discovered by an Ontario prospector, T. J. McDermot of Sault Ste. Marie, according to information given out today by Hon. J. W. Lyons, provincial minister of lands and forests.

The deposit extends for one mile along a small river tributary to the Moose, 12 miles from the T. & O. extension, half way north to Couchiching and James Bay. The deposit runs inland from the uncharted river some 10 miles and is 40 feet deep at the river's edge, where the outcropping can be seen.

Provincial analysis has shown that the gypsum is 98.5 per cent pure over the entire bed. It is valued both in extent and commercial purity by only one other gypsum deposit in the world, that being in Austria.

FRIEND OF MUSSOLINI VICTIM OF ASSASSIN

Special to The Advertiser.
Vienna, Aug. 30.—Secretary Moravia of the Trieste Fascist, close personal friend of Premier Mussolini, was shot to death in Trieste, according to a despatch here today. Police arrested a man giving the name of Solloroff, who is said to have discharged five shots from a revolver at his victim. Vengeance was the motive, police said.

ASK DISMISSAL OF CONSTABLE

Indians of Oneida Present Petition To Elgin County Magistrate.

TO GO TO MIDDLESEX

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 30.—One of the most unusual petitions ever presented to local county officials was that brought in to Magistrate Frank Hunt by an Indian resident of the Oneida reserve today, asking that Constable Washington Dostater of the reserve be struck from the constables' list on the grounds that he had not at all times followed his great namesake's policy of strict adherence to the truth. The petition, signed by dozens of prominent Oneida citizens, asked that no uncertain man, that Constable Dostater be relieved of his official duties on the reserve. The document alleged that Dostater had been in the habit of arresting sober men on charges of being intoxicated and letting real drunkards go with out arrest, and that he did not always stick to the straight and narrow path when testifying in a court witness box.

These sweeping allegations caused considerable stir in local court circles, but no action could be taken on the matter in Elgin county as the Oneida reserve is in Middlesex. Constable Dostater, it was learned, had at one time been on the Elgin constabulary list, but had been struck off some time ago. The Indian petitioning the magistrate was referred to Middlesex county officials in London, and stated that he would present his petition there.

Dostater, it is reported, has dubbed himself a Dominion constable. Whether or not he can lay claim to such an office remains to be seen, but it is said that the petition will give consideration and its allegations will be proved.

ENGLISH CHANNEL STORM CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGES

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Aug. 30.—Much in damage and dislocation has resulted from the wild storm which swept over the English Channel and Brittany coast last night.

A naval squadron engaged in firing exercises was obliged to put into port at Brest. Many fishing boats were sent adrift and one was wrecked outside the entrance to Boulogne, but the crew was saved. One hundred and fifty bathing huts at Havre were swept away.

GRAIN EXPORTERS WILL OPPOSE WHEAT EMBARGO

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vancouver, Aug. 30.—Grain exporters in this port are making preparations to oppose the recently announced embargo placed by railroads on wheat coming to Vancouver, domestic or otherwise, after Sept. 1, unless permits for cars have been obtained and space on boats arranged.

Exporters here claim that as there is space for 1,250,000 bushels of grain in the local elevator, it is too early to place an embargo on grain moving this way. R. E. Beattie of the Vancouver harbor commission says that he sees in the new regulation an effort on the part of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to discredit this port in the eyes of the shipping farmers.

MUSICAL ART READY TO OPEN FIFTH TERM

Heavy Enrollment Is Expected
At This Popular London Institution.

The London Institute of Musical Art will enter the fifth year of its existence beginning with the fall term. As in former years, it is expected that there will be a large enrollment of students.

It is scarcely necessary to dwell at length upon the advantages to students who pursue their studies at the Institute. Not only is the student given every opportunity to broaden his or her artistic horizon by providing them with instruction in more than one branch of the art, but they are surrounded by the musical atmosphere which is so stimulating to earnest study, and by example of others who are laboring to bring their talents to perfection. Moreover, they are given concerts and recitals in which they sing or perform and thereby become accustomed to public appearance, or in which they hear the work of others, providing an added stimulant in their pursuit of technical perfection.

For the parent or guardian interested in the musical education of the child, the Institute offers advantages that should receive the consideration of those interested. The methods of training the young mind have of late years been especially investigated and improved, and in no sphere has there been greater revolution than in teaching music to children.

Too often the first steps in the study of music have resulted in mere drudgery. The charm and beauty of music, which should have been foremost, have been driven into the background by monotonous and obsolete methods. The aim of the most approved and modern systems is to blend the study of music along such lines that the beauty is retained, the young mind stimulated and interested, and a firm foundation laid on which to build future artistic results.

The system of kindergarten taught at the Institute combines all the best known and latest features in a specially happy manner. The simple but thorough method of teaching the fundamentals of music to the very young makes it a pleasant introduction to the more advanced work.

The children are taught in small classes, which permits the necessary attention being given to each individual pupil. Three thoroughly equipped teachers specialize in this phase of instruction.

A faculty of competent and conscientious teachers are associated with the principal, Mr. A. D. Jordan, to give instruction in the various phases of the art of music.

The musical directors will be glad to confer with anyone concerning their musical education. Visitors to the Institute are welcome at any time, where they will be accorded a courteous reception.

SARNIA POLICE ENTER MAIL ORDER FIELD

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, Aug. 30.—County Magistrate C. S. Woodrow declared today that numerous summonses are being issued for speeding on the Sarnia-London highway, but few of the violators actually appear in court. The information is laid by a motor-cycle operator and the summonses are sent to Hamilton, London, or Toronto, or wherever the delinquent resides. "I usually receive a letter asking the amount of the fine and a check a few days later," the magistrate declared.

Fifteen fines from tourists were collected last week as a result of the mounted constables' operations. "If any motorist thinks he can speed on the London highway and get away with it, just because convictions have not been generally made known to the public, he is making a mistake," Mr. Woodrow added.

GIVES CONFIRMATION.
Tara, Aug. 30.—Bishop Williams of London administered confirmation to a class of young people at Tara Anglican Church this morning.

Says It Was Good Medicine

Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, Aug. 30.—Jerry McMahon, not being able to get good liquor, mixed ammonia and gasoline for a drink, and was later arrested by the city police on a charge of being drunk in a public place. Jerry told Magistrate Arnold in the city police court today that he considered the drink good medicine when he was ill. Not being able to pay the fine of $100, imposed by the magistrate, Jerry was escorted to the county jail for a period of two months.

KU KLUX KLAN SESSION IS BROKEN UP BY MOB

Perth Amboy, N. J., Police and Firemen Unable To Control Indignant Citizens.

Associated Press Despatch.
Perth Amboy, N. J., Aug. 30.—A crowd of 5,000 persons broke up a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan in the Oddfellows' Hall tonight, 75 police and 150 firemen being unable to drive back the throng that stormed the building. Firemen drove trucks into the mass of people, but to no avail. A hurry call was sent for state police in Trenton. Patrolmen fired shots in the air, threw gas bombs and swung their night sticks, while firemen turned streams of water on the fighting throng.

Chief Tenneson, in the meantime, had ordered the klansmen to leave the building. Clamoring out windows, down fire escapes and through every available exit, they were met by their assailants, and many hand-to-hand fights ensued.

BRANTFORD POLICE SEARCH FOR MISSING NORFOLK MAN

Special to The Advertiser.
Brantford, Aug. 30.—Missing from his home in Woodhouse Township, Norfolk County, for more than a week, the aid of the Brantford police has been enlisted by County Constable Robert Alway of Simcoe, in a search for Stanley William Austin. The cause for Austin's sudden and mysterious disappearance is not known, and his friends are endeavoring to learn his present whereabouts. When last seen, Austin, who is 19 years old, and weighs 175 pounds, was dressed in a blue suit and cap, and tan canvas shoes. A description of him received by the police here, gives his height as six feet, dark brown hair, blue eyes and medium complexion.

He disappeared from his home on the night of Wednesday, August 22, and has not been seen since.

ORDERS 2,000 BUFFALO SOON BE SLAUGHTERED

Canadian Government Finds It Has No Use For So Many of Those Animals.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Aug. 30.—The Dominion of Canada has 2,000 surplus buffalo, and they are to be slaughtered. These unwanted members of a race of animals which has been showing signs of disappearing, are now wandering on the range in the National Park at Wainwright, Sask. For some years the Dominion government has been paying special attention to the preservation of these animals, and so successful has this work been that the accommodation in the national parks is being overtaxed. Consequently 2,000 of the buffaloes are to be killed this fall and the meat and skins sold. The contract for the slaughter of the animals has been given by order-in-council to A. S. Ducloux of Edmonton, who performed similar services for the government on a smaller scale last year, when 250 head of buffalo were killed.

PORT LAMBTON REPORTS DISTRICT CROPS GOOD

Special to The Advertiser.
Port Lambton, Aug. 30.—The cool weather of the past few days in this locality has given a setback to the corn crop, which was advancing toward maturity during the hot weather. The late potatoes are doing well and prospects are good for a fair yield. Sugar-beets are also doing well. Threshing is about wound up here, and the majority of the farmers in the neighborhood are busy hauling manure and getting their land in readiness for fall plowing. Rain is badly needed to put the ground in a fit condition for plowing. A few, however, have already done some seeding.

The grain that has been threshed is a good sample and a little above the average crop. Wheat turned out from 20 to 30 bushels and oats 40 to 45 bushels to the acre. Peaches and plums are also going to be plentiful in this district, and are expected to be on the market within a few days.

WIARTON MAN WILL FACE GRAVE CHARGE AT ASSIZES

Special to The Advertiser.
Hepworth, Aug. 30.—The sequel to the finding of a young girl on the Oliphant road by two Owen Sound boys two weeks ago was enacted in Wiarton police court, when Alexander Campbell of Wiarton was arraigned upon a criminal charge. After hearing the evidence of the girl and of the men who picked her up on the road, Campbell was sent up for trial at the fall assizes in Walkerton.

When discovered by the two young men the girl was in a dazed and bleeding condition as a result of injuries sustained in jumping from a car.

Muskegon Left With 3 Wins; Flint Vets Arrive Today

McCaffrey Had One Bad Frame, While Mates Were Unlucky With Hits.

Muskegon swept their farewell series on the local ball on this season by taking the third game yesterday 4-2, and now the Beattymen tackle the Flinters in a three-game series, which should be a little easier going.

When Dick Dodson, in the third frame, with two zone, made a running dive after Coogan's dropping liner and came up with the ball three London runners dashing madly for the plate became dashed mad, and then the game became somewhat listless. The Fishermen had wiped out London's first-inning lead, and with three runs in this game frame by virtue of four hits, a walk and an error, and Anglers added another in the seventh, when Kernan was passed to get Thut, and the former London shortstop smashed this theory, the nose by singling a run in from third, two singles and McCaffrey being hit by a pitched ball, produced a short-lived London rally and one counter in the eighth and that was those.

PLAY BY PLAY.

FIRST INNING. Muskegon—Vermilyea singled to left. Myers popped to Stimpson. Barbelon with a big leap pulled down Dodson's liner, but his leg to double Vermilyea off first is wild. Vermilyea steals second. Cozington walks. Kernan grounds out to Barbelon.

SECOND INNING. Muskegon—Thut struck out. Lopez struck out. Gurney safe on Giesie's bobble. Welzer forced Gurney at second. Barbelon unassisted.

THIRD INNING. Muskegon—Coogan struck out. Barbelon rolls to Lopez. McCaffrey singled to right center. Myers popped to Coogan. Cozington walks. Kernan singles to center. Myers and Dodson scoring. Cozington goes to third and Barbelon to second on Coogan's ball. Dodson singles to left. Thut singles to left. Coogan scoring. But Stimpson's pop gets Kernan at the plate. Lopez walks. Gurney flies out to Stimpson.

FOURTH INNING. Muskegon—Vermilyea beat out a bunt to Ruane. Myers fouled out. Barbelon down past second. Dodson lines down past second. Cozington walks. Kernan singles to center. Myers and Dodson scoring. Cozington goes to third and Barbelon to second on Coogan's ball. Dodson singles to left. Thut singles to left. Coogan scoring. But Stimpson's pop gets Kernan at the plate. Lopez walks. Gurney flies out to Stimpson.

FIFTH INNING. Muskegon—Giesie flies out to Myers. Beatty ailed one toward third, but was thrown out on the first throw. Coogan went to a slow one to Vermilyea. Churry lines through Welzer's legs to center. Ruane singles to right. Fling the bases. Dodson makes a rolling dive at Coogan's liner and comes up with it. Kernan has bare hand mauling three Londoners on the bases.

SIXTH INNING. Muskegon—Gurney walks. Welzer hit into a double play. Ruane to Giesie. Cozington safe. Myers walks. Vermilyea out stealing.

SEVENTH INNING. Muskegon—Coogan struck out. Barbelon struck out. McCaffrey a gain singles this time to right. Stimpson forced Coogan.

EIGHTH INNING. Muskegon—Myers walks. Dodson sacrificed. Cozington walks. Kernan walked. Myers scored on Thut's single along the third base. Kernan holding third. Thut went to second. Lopez flew out to Coogan.

NINTH INNING. Muskegon—Churry takes Gurney's pop. Barbelon throws out Welzer. Giesie throws out Kernan.

McCaffrey Had One Bad Frame, While Mates Were Unlucky With Hits.

Muskegon hit by pitched ball. Coogan scores on Stimpson's pop which drops between Dodson and Myers in short left. Giesie forced Stimpson at second. Lopez makes a pop play.

DEMPESEY ALMOST K.O.'S MAULIFFE

Firpo Upsets All Modern Ideas of Training At Meals.

Associated Press Despatch. Saratoga Springs, Aug. 30. — Jack McAuliffe, the Detroit heavyweight, weighing 235 pounds and towering 6 feet 2 inches, was all but knocked out in less than three minutes in his initial training session with Jack Dempsey today. After the disastrous first round, McAuliffe was unable to continue the second.

He crawled out of the ring with his right eye closed and bleeding from a ripped left ear. In the three minutes he faced the heavyweight champion the half-blind McAuliffe did not land a solid smash. While in the rubbing-room after the workout having hot towels applied to his eye, McAuliffe, who was knocked out in three rounds by Luis Angel Firpo, declared that the giant Argentine was able to go two rounds with Dempsey in their heavyweight championship contest Sept. 14 he would be the most surprised man in the world.

Dempsey, after his three-day lay-off, stepped around with McAuliffe during the last two rounds of the session. He exchanged punches with Jack Burke, who exchanged punches for right-hand punches. Burke landed right-hand punches effectively, but Dempsey always crowded him.

Dempsey worked eight rounds, tugging at the weights for a round and reading the morning news for the rest of the day. He was boxing before putting on the leather. He drove his fists into the heavy boxing dummy and then into the ring, which was closed with a session against the light bag.

FIRPO NOT MODERN EATER. Associated Press Despatch. Atlantic City, Aug. 30.—Luis Angel Firpo at his meals is as interesting as the boxing ring. The Argentine gladiator is one of the greatest eaters the boxing ring has ever known. Dr. Juan R. Kelly, an Irish-Spanish specialist, who is making a study of the eating habits of the University of Pennsylvania and various health institutions and foundations, declared today that Firpo is following an ideal diet directly opposite to those of all the great trainers and specialists. He eats eggs and meat and fruit three times a day, and in great quantities, and has comparatively few vegetables on his plate.

In a single day the food that Firpo takes contains, according to Dr. Kelly, about 10,000 calories, more than those of the yachtsman, according to Gordon Piggott and Loye Chaplin, won the Brierley Yachting Club championship cup from Douglas and Beverly Kerr, the previous holders. The O. P. A., owned by Magistrate Gandy of Windsor, was second, the Liza Lou, owned by J. G. Kerr, K.C., was third, the Guide was fourth, and the F. J. W. was fifth.

Points won by the different yachts in the races which ended this morning were: Scout 13, Liza Lou 9, O. P. A. 8, Saucy Sles 3, Guide 3.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE. BY JOVE ANGUS. The most thrilling play of the match so far, was that fifteen foot putt I made on the tenth hole! Did you notice with what calm deliberation and accuracy I sent that brilliant putt into the cup?—HAW.

AW, SAVE YOUR WIND, MAJOR!—SOME DAY YOU MAY BE IN A SHIP WRECK AND NEED IT!

HA-HA—FROM NOW ON, THAT FIFTEEN FOOT PUTT WILL GAIN A YARD EVERY TIME HE TELLS ABOUT IT!—HE'LL HAVE THAT BALL ROLLING INTO THE NEXT COUNTRY A MONTH FROM NOW!

HE COULDN'T DO IT AGAIN USING TH' GRAND CANNON AS TH' HOLE!—GOOD LUCK HAPPENED TO BE GOING BY AT TH' TIME AN' WAS TIRED, AN' LEANED ON HIM FOR A MINUTE!

RAINBOW III., HAMILTON SPEED BOAT, WINS CLASSIC

Associated Press Despatch. Detroit, Aug. 30.—Rainbow III., owned and driven by Commodore Harry B. Greening of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club, won the first heat of gold cup race here today, covering the 30 miles in 29 minutes and 58 seconds, an average speed of 45.1 to 46.1 miles an hour. Packard Christcraft, defender, owned by Colonel J. G. Vincent of Detroit, and driven by Caleb H. Briggs, finished second.

DOWN THE LINE IN ALL SPORTS. The L. A. A. will likely take rugby under its wing tonight. That was what the L. A. A. was formed for—giving orphan games their chance in London.

However, there seems to be a tendency of late in this organization which brings all so briskly to take up the role of financial agents rather than trying all their powers—and these are considerable—to bear on popularizing games.

All some games need is a little supervision, but others need putting over. Rugby is one of these.

Rugby has enough natural obstacles to overcome without combating lack of interest and lack of spectators. Training is a hard grind, usually in rain, chill and the inevitable mud, and is a daily race between the end of the working day and darkness, and cheers are about the only thing that repay the players and warm up the process.

Dempsey has a "gold" in his head now. After September 14 he'll be packing a lot of the real stuff around with him.

New York Herald says: "Lacrosse is played in England from October to April, in the United States from March to July and in Canada from June to September. It therefore is in season somewhere or other all the year. Anyone who has seen a lacrosse match knows that it is a great game. An Oxford-Cambridge team came over here last year and beat Lehigh, Penn State, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Colgate, Harvard and Stevens. It lost to Johns Hopkins, Swarthmore, Hobart, Syracuse and Princeton. It is such a spectacular game that we often wonder that it is not more popular with the masses." The answer probably is that they never have happened to see it played.

There are few heavyweight pugilists who carry their honors as gracefully as did the late John L. Sullivan. Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion, has broken training to seek the solitude partly because of a cold, but mostly because of the crowds that infest his training camp day and night.

In this regard John L. Sullivan was singularly fortunate. The royal mantle rested easily upon his shoulders and he wore his kingly crown at a graceful angle. He loved to have the crowds around him and he waxed complacent on adulation. The fact that the crowds fell away from him after that affair at New Orleans hurt him more than the loss of the championship. When he visited San Francisco after the loss of his title it galled him when he had to send for somebody to come and interview him.

The part of the championship that pleased John L. Sullivan the most merely annoys the retiring Mr. Dempsey. While Mr. Jack Kearns is competent to do all the collecting and the talking for the champion and Dempsey is competent to do all the fighting, there is something lacking in the menage of the heavyweight champion. What he needs is a social secretary, perhaps.

SCOUT WINS SAILING HONORS AT ERIEAU. Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, Aug. 30.—In one hour and forty minutes this morning at Eriau the yacht Scout, manned by Gordon Piggott and Loye Chaplin, won the Brierley Yachting Club championship cup from Douglas and Beverly Kerr, the previous holders. The O. P. A., owned by Magistrate Gandy of Windsor, was second, the Liza Lou, owned by J. G. Kerr, K.C., was third, the Guide was fourth, and the F. J. W. was fifth.

It lost to Johns Hopkins, Swarthmore, Hobart, Syracuse and Princeton. It is such a spectacular game that we often wonder that it is not more popular with the masses." The answer probably is that they never have happened to see it played.

There are few heavyweight pugilists who carry their honors as gracefully as did the late John L. Sullivan. Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion, has broken training to seek the solitude partly because of a cold, but mostly because of the crowds that infest his training camp day and night.

In this regard John L. Sullivan was singularly fortunate. The royal mantle rested easily upon his shoulders and he wore his kingly crown at a graceful angle. He loved to have the crowds around him and he waxed complacent on adulation. The fact that the crowds fell away from him after that affair at New Orleans hurt him more than the loss of the championship. When he visited San Francisco after the loss of his title it galled him when he had to send for somebody to come and interview him.

The part of the championship that pleased John L. Sullivan the most merely annoys the retiring Mr. Dempsey. While Mr. Jack Kearns is competent to do all the collecting and the talking for the champion and Dempsey is competent to do all the fighting, there is something lacking in the menage of the heavyweight champion. What he needs is a social secretary, perhaps.

SCOUT WINS SAILING HONORS AT ERIEAU. Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, Aug. 30.—In one hour and forty minutes this morning at Eriau the yacht Scout, manned by Gordon Piggott and Loye Chaplin, won the Brierley Yachting Club championship cup from Douglas and Beverly Kerr, the previous holders. The O. P. A., owned by Magistrate Gandy of Windsor, was second, the Liza Lou, owned by J. G. Kerr, K.C., was third, the Guide was fourth, and the F. J. W. was fifth.

Points won by the different yachts in the races which ended this morning were: Scout 13, Liza Lou 9, O. P. A. 8, Saucy Sles 3, Guide 3.

SPARTA WINS TOURNEY. Special to The Advertiser. Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 30.—The Henry Ford of Gloucester showed her head to the two rivals today, but lost a race against the clock when the four-time limit set for the open fishermen's race for the Lipton and Prentiss cups expired with the leader still two miles from the finish line. The race, the feature event of Gloucester's 200th anniversary celebration, will be first tomorrow, with the rest of the anniversary program already finished. Today's postponement was the second, the start having been called off on Monday because of fog.

The Ford gained on the Elizabeth Howard and the Shamrock on every leg until she was alone in the race, and justified the faith of her Gloucester admirers who fitted her out with a new mainsail so that she might enter.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION. Louisville, Aug. 30.—The Louisville team, Toledo at Milwaukee, game transferred to Toledo.

Others played Sunday as part of double-headers.

CORINTHIANS ARE CHAMPS OF BRANTFORD DISTRICT. Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, Aug. 30.—Corinthians are winners of Brantford and District Junior Football League, defeating St. Jude's in the final and deciding game by a score of 3 to 0. For several weeks past the two clubs have been battling neck and neck, only a point or two separating them.

Over the Saints were returned winner in an Ontario Cup elimination game, and in the play-offs, which followed St. Jude's and a couple of their best kickers, J. Patridge and Neale, placed on the injured list. The handicap placed on Corinthians enabled them to secure a decided advantage, and in the deciding fixture they displayed more finish and a better attacking line.

OTAWA HOLDS LINE DRILL. Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Ottawa's gridiron squad for the "Big Four" rugby league held their first full line-up practice of the season last night. Two full teams were drilled only a line pass of various sorts were tried.

Bryan Timmins was worked at middle wing, and went in well. Moss McCormick and Joe Tubman took turns with the kicking end, and showed up well. Line practice are to be held nightly until the start of the season.

ST. KITTS KIDS DEFEAT INGERSOLL AT HOME. Special to The Advertiser. Ingersoll, Aug. 30.—In the second round of the O. A. L. A. semi-finals of the midge series, St. Catharines defeated the homesters today by a score of 8 to 2. The visitors, who were last year's champions, were compelled to play a close game, but they were little wavered by the matter of stick-handling. Ingersoll opened the scoring but St. Catharines were leading 2 to 1 at the end of the first period. In the second period Ingersoll again scored first, and St. Catharines added two more. In the third period St. Catharines scored one. In the fourth period Ingersoll scored one and St. Catharines added three on shots by Warburton.

The teams: St. Catharines—Goal: Garner; point: Rothwell; coverpoint: Tourbin; defender: Murray and Hurcutt; center: Warburton; inside home: Ashworth and Lee; outside home: Nash and Barnett; spares: Newbold, Preston, Wright.

Ingersoll—Goal: Dunlop; point: Nunn; coverpoint: Murray; center: Hamilton and Sutherland; inside home: Iles, M. Foster; center: P. Foster; inside home: Mitty; outside home: Jackson; spares: McLagan and Adams.

Referee—Westwood, St. Catharines.

PENMANS AND SCOTT-M'HALES WIN GAMES. Close Fixtures Feature Girls' Mfrs. Softball League. Penmans defeated Somervilles and Gorman-Eckers lost to Scott-McHale in the Girls' Manufacturers' League softball games last night.

The first two games of the Penman-Somerville game were fairly even, but the winners put seven runs across, stretching into a lead, that was not headed. Penmans won, 13-2.

Gorman-Eckers lost to Scott-McHale in a close game all the way, and the three counters marked up in the deciding factor. The final score was 3-1.

Aces Lose.

Special to The Advertiser.
Bay City, Mich., Aug. 30.—Bay City moved within a half game of the league lead Thursday by defeating Flint 9 to 7 in one of the most bitterly-contested games of the season, while Saginaw was losing to Detroit. Lefty Good, recently sold to the Detroit Tigers, started for the Wolves, being opposed by Lefty Flegert, but both were knocked out. Rudolph, also the property of Detroit, relieving Good and getting credit for the victory over Ted Jackson. Bay City was out-hitting Detroit considerably, but passed basemen enabled them to win enough runners on the paths to win out.

HAMS TAKE TWO.
Hamilton, Aug. 30.—The Hams were on their good behavior today and surprised the fans by taking both games of a double-header from Grand Rapids, the first by a score of 2 to 1 and the second by a score of 3 to 2. Hagarty started on the mound for Hamilton in the first game, but developed a sore arm in the third inning and had to retire in favor of Zolla. The latter kept the hits well scattered and the visitors did not score until the ninth. The Hams hit Horan for extra bases at opportune times, and took advantage of errors made behind him. Ivan Miller, a local boy, pitched for Hamilton in the second game, and was given enormous support. The visitors earned two runs in the third inning and tied the score, and the Hams won out in the seventh on Oakes' single, a walk to Miller and Roger's single, which fell just inside the left field foul line.

The Million Dollar Doll

By G. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON.
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor."

Terry and Miles Sheridan Once More Come To An Understanding

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Teresa Desmond (Terry)—Lovely and unbelieveably innocent, is impersonating her beautiful half-sister, Juliet Divine, known as the Million Dollar Doll—whose sketchy career is unknown to Terry.

Miles Sheridan, Terry's Dream Prince, furnished the money for her convent education when she was a child. His wife's infidelity is making him wretched, and in order to facilitate her obtaining a divorce, Miles offers the Million Dollar Doll $20,000 to take a yacht trip with him. Juliet is unable to take the trip herself, but working on her little sister's gratitude to Miles, she persuades Terry, who is an ex-quisite counterpart of herself, to take her place. Miles does not recognize the little girl he befriended so long ago.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, is in love with Paul di Salvo, a handsome Italian. Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, who does not know of Terry's relation to ship to Juliet, is in love with the younger girl.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, is Terry's maid on board the yacht. Her early disapproval of "The Million Dollar Doll" is swiftly disappearing under the influence of Terry's child-like charm. Miles has stipulated that he will have nothing to do with the girl on the voyage, but under the impression that Terry is flitting with him, he breaks his bargain and kisses her.

CHAPTER XLIII. THE SPHINX OF THE WHITE LIGHTS.

"Don't—don't!" she begged. "I can't understand. You're married—you have no right—"

Sheridan laughed. It was too absurd! "Oh, come, haven't you played that game long enough? I think something else would be better fun at present—and as for the future—my dear, pretty girl, there's nothing doing. Nothing serious. The influence of the price?"

He had not let her wrists. Now he pulled her close. Her eyes blazed into his. "If I kiss me, I'll hate you," she gasped.

He flung her hands away in a sudden rage against himself and her. "Go then—damn you!" he said.

Terry staggered back and caught at a chair. "I wish I could go—overboard!" she cried. "I never dreamed you'd be like this. You—you're wicked."

"Your eyes look the way all those horrid men's eyes looked. Oh, it makes me sick—like those hateful French books I read. I wish I were dead so I could forget."

Sheridan was dumfounded. The brute that is in every man had sprung out of its cage. Now it backed in again, not cowed, but chilled.

"Don't be a fool, Miss Divine," he said sharply. "This isn't a stage, I'm not an audience. You've no need to go overboard or fall dead if you want to get rid of me. This scene is your own fault. You flitted with me—deliberately. You led me on to flirt with you. Well, you've had the consequences. You should have let me alone, as I was letting you alone, if I was physically repulsive to you.

Terry, still grasping the chair, her knuckles white, had caught at a vestige of self-control. Fresh from school, where she had been gently drilled and lectured, only to feel her father's harsher rule, she fell under Sheridan's reproaches as if under a spell. She was being scolded by the Prince of her Adoration!

Her quick anger against him was gone. She felt that, in her youth and ignorance of life, she must have misunderstood. It couldn't, just couldn't be, that he had suddenly turned into a wild beast as Nazlo had turned, and as other men at the Blue Moon had seemed to turn, always with the same hateful, frightening look in their eyes.

The prince said that she had "dared" him to "break the bargain," and that she had flitted with him, and that now she "had had the consequences." Apparently he thought that he had done nothing at all out of the way, that she ought to have expected the kiss, and that she alone was to blame for it.

"Oh, no!" she exclaimed. "It isn't that at all! You're not repulsive to me, Mr. Sheridan. Don't you see, I couldn't bear to think you were not good, and that made it so much worse than if you'd been anyone else."

"Oh, you are good, of course! Truly, I didn't mean to flirt, or make you flirt. I don't think I know how to flirt, really. I was only glad that you were a little kind. But if I've behaved badly, and this is all my fault, I'm sorry."

A subtle creature indeed! Sheridan gave her up, as the Sphinx of the White Lights. Yet her voice was so soft, her eyes were so bright, with what looked like tears that the fury of the rebuffed male died down.

Useless, he thought, to fling in the girl's face his knowledge of her hypocrisy. Let her have the last word, and be the misunderstood innocent to the end! It wouldn't hurt him—more than he was hurt already; and that was but in his vanity, when he looked facts in the face.

"I'm afraid I was a bounder to throw the blame on you, Miss Divine," he said. "Your beauty is to blame where you're concerned. As for me, I lost my head at first, and then my temper."

"I've been under a strain for some weeks past. Not that that's an excuse. There isn't any. I ask your forgiveness for breaking the bargain, the way I did break it. We'll mend it, as best we can."

"Oh, thank you!" responded Terry with gratitude, as if he has made her some beautiful gift.

"I'm sure I was hateful! I lose my temper too, sometimes, though I try not—and the nuns used to say I must pray against it. My father has a high temper. I suppose I get mine from him. I hope you'll forgive me."

Sheridan laughed in spite of himself. "This has been a tempest in a teapot," he said. "A storm within a storm! Listen to the wind and waves. They laugh us down."

"Of course I've nothing to forgive you. It's all the other way round. I ought to have remembered one reason why you accepted this—shall we call it 'job'?—on board my yacht; that my promise of hands off enabled you to accept, although I think—you're engaged to be married. That's the case, isn't it?"

"No," the girl answered eagerly. "I'm not engaged. I never thought of being engaged. And no one ever proposed to me."

No sooner were the words out than Julia's warning sounded in her ears. She blushed painfully, and gave Sheridan a quick, anxious glance.

"You look as if you'd remembered something you had forgotten," he suggested, with a smile.

"I did," she confessed. "Remember, perhaps, the trifling fact that you are engaged?"

"I'd rather you wouldn't ask," Terry said.

"Another secret?" Sheridan shrugged. "Like your motive for refusing money, or not telling where your convent is, and so on?"

"Yes—yes," she admitted. "He raised his eyebrows. "Not being a psychoanalyst I can't pretend to make you out," he said.

"The man's blood was cool again now as it had ever been, and he saw himself a blundering fool, who ought to be thankful for a narrow escape. He ought, also, to wish sincerely to avoid the girl's society; but, somehow, it seemed that he didn't quite wish that."

Now, Shadow the Weasel was one whom the young Chuck never had seen, and never wanted to see. He had been told about him by his mother almost as soon as he could understand. He knew that Shadow was one enemy from whom he could not escape by means of a hole in the ground or any other kind of a hole. It was true that by now he was so big that Shadow might hesitate to attack him. But he had feared Shadow for so long that he had no desire to meet him. He had got the rumor from Striped Chipmunk.

Striped Chipmunk had come rushing along the old stone wall as if his worst enemy were at his heels. "They say that Shadow the Weasel has been seen on the old stone wall," cried Striped Chipmunk.

ly chattered with fright. "Who says so?" asked the young Chuck.

"Oh, everybody! It is all through the Old Chase," Striped Chipmunk said. "I got it from my cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He says that Sammy Jay said that Welcome Robin said that Skimmer the Swallow said that Jenny Wren said that Winsome time he had been intending to move on, and he might as well do it now as later.

"He isn't going to catch me here," muttered the young Chuck. "No, sir, he isn't going to catch me here. Why, he might surprise me when I was asleep, and then I wouldn't have even a chance to fight. This isn't a regular home for me here, anyway."

So the young Chuck started on toward the Green Forest. He felt a little homesick as he left the old stone wall, but all soon forgot this in the excitement of his journey. Once more he was out in the Great World, and all because of a rumor.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

A CIPHER AND A TRAINED MIND.

By H. IRVING KING.

Arthur Campbell was a star reporter on a big New York daily, and he was in love with Ethel Crosby—who was in love with him. But Ethel's father was a rich financier who had no use for newspaper men. Although he had been a friend of Arthur's father in the days when the two had "broken into" Wall Street together, he had no idea of letting his daughter marry his old friend's son—the friend being dead and having been so badly "pinched" in the market before his decease as to leave Arthur with a very moderate fortune indeed.

"Oh, Arthur," Ethel was saying as the two sat alone in the back parlor of the old-fashioned Crosby mansion. "I am really afraid we shall have to slope—for I won't give you up, let father say what he will."

She had a mind of her own, had Ethel, and Arthur thought she never looked so beautiful as when animated by an expression of that mind. It must be admitted, though, that at such times she bore a rather striking resemblance to a man, from whom her strong will was inherited.

"He was talking to me today about you," went on Ethel, "and even went so far as to tell me to forbid you the house. But I told him frankly that I should do no such thing. If he wanted to, I said, he might, of course, but I would not. He called me an ungrateful and rebellious child and I cried, and he went off in a rage to the library. He's there now. He's got some business matter on his mind, I can see, and that makes him very unreasonable."

"I don't see why your father should be so mean to me," said Arthur. "I have a little money of my own and I came tonight expressly to tell you—I have just been appointed Washington correspondent of the paper—a mighty good job, I'll be managing editor before very long, you see if I don't. And some day I'll have a paper of my own. I've a good mind to go upstairs and have it now."

"Do!" cried Ethel. "Matters can't be any worse than they are now. Perhaps when he understands how good your prospects are he'll relent a little. Oh, if he only could understand how much we love each other I am sure he would."

"All right," replied Arthur, "there goes for the Rubicon!" Arthur went upstairs, knocked on the library door, which stood partly open, and entered. Mr. Crosby looked up surprised and angry from the paper on the table before him which he had been contemplating with a puzzled frown. "Excuse my intrusion, Mr. Crosby," said Arthur, "but I rather than Ethel that you might like to have a talk with me concerning my relations to your daughter. We are deeply in love. I have a small competent and have just been appointed Washington correspondent for my paper. My prospects are good, my character will bear investigation and, in short, I ask the hand of your daughter in marriage."

"You—you!" sputtered Crosby. "You penny-a-liner, you pauper! you had gone into Wall Street as your father did!"

"I might have been squeezed by old Collingwood as my father was," interrupted Arthur. At the name of Collingwood Crosby paused reflectively and glanced at the paper on the table. His face changed, and for in that paper, he felt, was a menace from that same source which might result in his own undoing.

"Yes," said he, "Collingwood did ruin your father and there (tapping the paper on the table) is the same hand reached out for me." "Arthur, glanced at the document. "Cipher, sir?" he asked. "Yes," replied Crosby, "and I'd give something to read it."

On the piece of paper Arthur saw the following: (S E 3 3 : 7 8) 5 5 :

He gazed at it thoughtfully, then seemed to be struck with a sudden idea. "I think I can decode it for you, sir," said he.

"You can? Go ahead and try, then. If you succeed—well, then we will talk of other matters." Arthur looked along the book shelves, took down a volume, drew a chair up to the table, selected a pencil and a piece of blank paper, drew the code message over to him and set to work. Finally he handed the cipher message back to Crosby with letters written under the cryptic characters. The message now appeared as follows:

(S E 3 3 : 7 8) 5 5 : "Raid Peninsula and Galveston Tuesday, will he?" cried Crosby. "The old villain. Well, we'll see about that." I have you on the spot, William! Checkmate to Collingwood!"

It should be explained that John Quincy Crosby and William J. Collingwood were powers in Wall Street and fought each other tooth and nail when their interests clashed—as they happened to do now. Though in private life they were courteous and estimable gentlemen, in business they were gladiators who knew neither mercy nor sentiment, and to surprise each other's business secrets when at work they were guilty of acts which they would have scorned at other times.

Crosby had, somehow, got hold of a cipher message which Collingwood then at Bar Harbor, had sent to one of his brokers in Wall Street and had been unable to read it, though in it he felt was bound up his financial fate. It was in the contemplation of this message that Arthur had surprised him and changed his despair into exultation.

"How did you do it?" asked Crosby when he had calmed down a little.

"Why you see, sir," replied Arthur, "a newspaperman has a trained mind (Crosby sniffed), accustomed to deductive reasoning. Your connecting the cipher message with Collingwood caused me rapidly to turn over in my mind everything connected with the interview upon which I was sent to interview that eminent financier, and I recalled that on that occasion he was reading a volume of Poe's stories. Then I recollected that in Poe's story of 'The Gold Bug' there is a cryptogram containing the same characters which appear in the cipher message. This gave me a clue. I found on your bookshelves a copy of Poe's works, turned to 'The Gold Bug,' applied the cryptogram contained and explained therein to Collingwood's message—and you see the result. Very careless of Collingwood to appropriate a cipher instead of inventing one; but unless one has a trained mind it is apt to."

"Quite so," interrupted Crosby, "and your trained mind, I understand, is bent on having my daughter. Well, you have rendered me such an immense service today that I all I can say—take her."

When You Can Be Well, Why Be Sick!

Why Suffer Delay and Grow Worse?
Enjoy Life—Health—Happiness

To Have No Back Pains, No Nervousness, No Kidney Disease, With Plenty of Life, Energy and No Blood Disease, Is the Wish of Every Young, Old or Middle-Aged Person.

To you—if you are sick—if you suffer—if you are afflicted with any ailments of MEN—if you are worn out, tired or failing, if you need medical advice—if you are not in perfect health—if life is a dragging, miserable existence—if you lack energy, vim and vigor that make life worth living, to rich or poor—young or old—you need my treatment.

Nerves and Blood Are Life

The lack of nerve force is found among men of all ages. This is true with men in all walks of life, from the day laborer to the mechanic or professional man. Merchant and clergy are alike sufferers—no man is exempt from the ailment who has rebelled against nature's laws—so if you have the result of overwork, dissipation, sedentary habits or worry, and your vital organs are disturbed, remember, delay in seeing the right doctor makes it more difficult to overcome the symptoms, and you might reach an incurable condition beyond relief if you delay too long.

My Equipment
Is composed of the latest and best known scientific, Electrical, Surgical and Mechanical Apparatus, and I am prepared by the knowledge of their uses and the experiences in prescribing them so as to get the greatest, uniform results from them.

I Am Prepared to Give You
Serums, Bacterins, Vaccines and any and all forms of treatment of this character that have been tried and proved a success.

YOUNG MEN—THINK OF YOUR FUTURE

How about it, are you qualified to face it—are others doing more and getting more out of life than you are? Find out, if you don't know already, what is dragging you down. No one can violate nature's laws and succeed. I have helped thousands physically, mentally, morally, believe it or not, (as I have thousands of other men), can help you. Just be frank and tell us your troubles. Let me help you to regain and maintain your health.

LONDON'S SCHOOLS READY TO GREET PUPILS

MANY STAFF CHANGES IN CITY'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS

New Teachers Will Be Found Presiding Over Studies of Many Classes When Fall School Term Opens on Monday.

IMPROVEMENTS TO SCHOOL BUILDINGS

In less than a week the public schools of London open their doors to welcome back the old pupils and to start the newcomers on the paths of learning. All the school buildings have undergone a summer cleaning and in some minor alterations have been made. Captain Robinson, clerk of works to the board of education, has spent a busy summer in the schools and the various members of the London school janitor corps have toiled with broom and window rag until their charges look completely ready for the classes of the new season.

When the bells ring out on Tuesday morning and all the city's children pick up their books and start off for the battle front of blackboard and chalk line every school will be spick and span, powdered and painted and fitted up to stand the strain of another year of clattering footsteps and swinging book satchels. The Trafalgar School, named by the board of education in memory of Nelson's great victory, a point on which they were unanimous, will be ready by the New Year and London will then have public school accommodation to care for all her needs.

Reports from the principals of the various schools which show the changes in staff and in structural alterations in the school buildings are as follows:

Lord Roberts of which J. F. Bryant is principal reports no changes in the arrangement of the building or the classes. There are two new changes. Miss Weir comes in place of Miss Deane and Fred H. Galpin returns to the school. Mr. Galpin was absent for some time in connection with work in the adolescent classes.

Alexandra-James, R. Kirkwood, principal. The only change in the school is that the work of the auxiliary class will be in the hands of Miss Freeland.

Boyle Memorial. Boyle Memorial—D. J. Ferguson, principal. This is a school that is in process of being added to. The addition which includes four rooms will probably be ready for use in a few weeks time. Meanwhile the students can all be accommodated fairly comfortably. Staff changes are as follows: Miss Marion Grant is leaving and her place is being taken by Miss Kernahan. New teachers will come to fill the new rooms when they are opened.

Charles street—Harriet Blackwell, principal. Has no changes this year in the staff or in the building.

Knollwood Park. Knollwood—Miss Tolhurst, principal. Has no structural changes in the school. Miss Gwendoline Smith leaves and her place is taken by Miss Erna Fritz.

Lorne Avenue. Lorne Avenue—W. E. Opper, principal. Miss Hoffman is leaving and her place will be taken by Miss Murray.

Talbot Street—N. Welsh, principal. The following members of the staff are being transferred: Miss Jennie Weir, Miss Mary Williams and Miss Marjorie Copeland. The incoming teachers are: Miss Deane, Lord Roberts, Miss Gwendoline Sorenson from Knollwood and Miss Grant from Boyle Memorial.

TECUMSEH. Tecumseh—John T. Parkinson, principal. Changes in the staff are: Miss McNaughton goes to the Simcoe street school, and the following teachers come to the Tecumseh school: Miss Dorothy Fisher, Miss Hazel Dennison. Structural changes in this school are the building of an addition of two rooms. One of the rooms was opened last Christmas and the other will give extra accommodation for this term.

RYERSON. Ryerson—L. B. Galpin, principal. The changes in the staff are: Miss Grace King is leaving, and Miss North is coming in her place. The school building has not been changed.

SIMCOE STREET. Simcoe Street—W. J. Matthews, principal. Has several staff changes to report. Mr. Littleproud is coming in the stead of Lawrence D. McCamus, who has been appointed to the principalship of the new Trafalgar school.

Simcoe Florence Fisher is going to take charge of the exceptional class and Miss Mitchell will come in her place. Miss Annie Hodgson is transferred, and Miss McNaughton is to replace her. Structural changes in the building include the removal of the old outside coping that used to be so conspicuous. It was felt by the staff and later by the board of education that this overhanging coping might possibly become a source of danger. It is now all gone and the change in appearance is more than made up for by the extra feeling of safety that goes with the change.

CHELSEA GREEN. Chelsea Green school, Martha Smith, principal. Is one of the few to have no changes. The staff will remain the same as last year, and there are no alterations in the school building.

CHESTLEY AVENUE. Chestley Avenue—E. E. Gibbs, principal, announces that additional members of the teaching staff will be Mrs. Smith from the Trafalgar school, and that Miss Annie Hogarth from the Carling street school, who will take over the agricultural work in the school. Miss Viola MacDonald from Simcoe street school, will look after the work of the kindergarten, and the staff will be increased by two male teachers, N. R. Wiggins from Wingham, and Harold Elborn, of Stratford. The following members of the staff will be transferred: Harry Secord, Miss North, Miss Grace Clark, Miss Jessie Boake, Miss Mabel Gregory and Mr. Minnie Cook.

EALING. Ealing School—J. J. McWilliams, principal. Has but one staff change to announce. Miss Annie Hogarth is transferred. The old cottage which stands in the yard of this school, and which has been used for teaching purposes, is giving one of its rooms

RECTORY STREET.

Rectory Street School—M. W. Alt-house, principal, reports the loss of two teachers, Miss J. Hodgson, who retired, and Miss G. Murray, who goes to Lorne Avenue. The staff will be increased by the addition of Miss Claris and Miss Dunstane.

ABERDEEN.

Aberdeen—Claude Brown, principal, has three newcomers on the staff. They are: Joseph Willis, Miss Kent and Miss Bouke. Teachers transferred are Miss Claris, Miss Freeland and Miss Teasdale.

POTTERSBURO.

Pottersburg School—Mark Garrett, principal, has two changes in the staff, the addition of Grace Godwin and Charles R. McGill. Miss Godwin's appointment is at present only a temporary one, but will be ratified later by the board.

EGERTON STREET.

In the Egerton Street School, Miss Hazel Dennison goes to Tecumseh. Miss Dennison was principal of the Egerton street school, and Miss Donald Schram becomes the new principal. This also is a temporary appointment, awaiting ratification by the board.

EMPRESS AVENUE.

In the Empress Avenue School, R. G. Fowler, principal, retains the same teaching staff as last year.

WORTLEY ROAD.

Wortley Road School—W. R. Wyatt, principal, retains the same teaching staff as last year.

RIVERVIEW.

Riverview School—Frank J. Newhouse, principal, retains the same teaching staff as last year.

QUEBEC STREET.

Quebec Street—Hazel Davey, principal, loses Miss Davey, who goes to Tecumseh. Miss Dora Barr, who was second in command of the school last year, will take charge until the addition to the Boyle Memorial school is finished, when the Quebec street school will be discontinued.

VICTORIA.

Victoria School—E. H. McKone, principal, adds Evelyn Adams to the staff, a new teacher.

ST. GEORGE'S.

St. George's School—Edward Wyatt, principal, loses Miss Kernahan, who goes to Boyle.

COLBORNE STREET.

Colborne Street School—Maud Tan-ton, principal, adds Miss P. E. Shaw to the staff from the Chelsea Avenue school, and loses Dorothy Fisher, who goes to Tecumseh avenue school.

LABRADOR GOLD RUSH

FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

Newfoundland Government

Steamer Returns to St.

Johns With Report.

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. John, Nfld., Aug. 31.—The final chapter of the Labrador gold rush ended today when the government steamer Watchdog dropped anchor in the harbor after her two months' trip to the supposed gold fields. The ship, which was commanded by Captain George Bragg, left here June 10 and arrived at her destination on the 22nd, anchoring about 1-1/2 miles from the shore near Big Brook.

The police erected their headquarters ashore and all arrangements were made for the anticipated gold rush, but it was a month later before the first prospectors arrived. Altogether not more than 50 visited the coast.

WORKMAN KIDNAPPED

UNDER EYES OF TROOPS

Special to The Advertiser.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 31.—Under the eyes of troops enforcing martial law, here W. J. Matthews, a mechanic, was kidnapped by seven masked men last night at a lonely spot near the city. Matthews was being taken to a place where he was to be hanged, when he was rescued by a patrol of soldiers.

CHESLEY AVENUE.

Chesley Avenue—E. E. Gibbs, principal, announces that additional members of the teaching staff will be Mrs. Smith from the Trafalgar school, and that Miss Annie Hogarth from the Carling street school, who will take over the agricultural work in the school. WARN SALOONS
IN WILKESBARRE TO CLOSE UP SHOP

Prohibition Agents Take Drastic Steps To Enforce Law.

MUST ACT AT ONCE

Special to The Advertiser.

Wilkesbarre, Penn., Aug. 31.—Hundreds of saloons and hotels in this section have been served notice to close and tear out their bars and other fixtures within 24 hours by squads of prohibition and department of justice agents, aided by state troopers. It was learned today.

This is the most drastic step taken here since the eighteenth amendment went into effect, and is a new procedure in this part of the state. It is reported here that similar notices were posted in practically every city in the anthracite region.

Evidence against the hotels and saloons was obtained by federal agents several months ago. Chief Harry Williams said today, and in event they fail to close, injunctions will be sought immediately.

The notices served here were signed by Attorney-General Daugherty, State Attorney-General Woodruff, Deputy Attorney-General English and the agents serving them. Should the program be carried out practically every drinking establishment in this section will be closed tomorrow night.

Several hotelmen are reported ready to ignore the order and fight, if necessary, on advice of their attorneys. It was said here today that the move was to lessen the possibility of trouble in the hard coal region if there is a long suspension.

MAN DIES, OTHER WOUNDED

IN GANG BATTLE IN N. Y.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Aug. 31.—Gang fighting, in which one man was slain and another seriously wounded, broke out in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon. Two gangsters set upon a third man at Second avenue and 49th street, fatally wounding him with pistol shots. As he fell he drew his pistol and wounded one of his assailants. A moment later he was dead.

The slain man was identified a short time later by his sweetheart, Mary Gesito, as Giuseppe di Matteo, a stevedore.

She was unable to shed any light, however, on the probable motive for the attack.

Reclaiming Areas of Waste
To Work Fertile Orchards

Remarkable Undertaking on the Aux Sauble River From Grand Bend to Port Frank.

Special to The Advertiser. Grand Bend, Aug. 31.—The dredging of the Aux Sauble river, from Grand Bend to Port Frank is well under way. Already three miles is completed and before fall the whole distance will be covered.

The scheme which has been undertaken by The Canada Land Company will cost thousands of dollars. The river will run from 5 to 12 feet deep and will drain hundreds of acres, at the present time. This land which has been lying waste will in a few years be cultivated into the best celery and fruit plantations in Canada.

The dredging of the Aux Sauble will be a big boost for this district. The Aux Sauble will have two outlets to Lake Huron, making it a sort of canal about 150 feet wide and with a level clay bottom. Extensive boating can be carried on from Grand Bend to Port Frank down the river and the banks of the river, with all its natural resources of trees and shrubbery will provide one of the most ideal summer camps in the province.

The cost will be shared by the surrounding townships, the Canada Land Company and the government will bear 20 per cent.

INDIANA GOVERNOR
UNABLE TO PAY DEBTS

Warren T. McCray Informs Creditors of His Financial Embarrassment.

Special to The Advertiser. Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—Governor Warren T. McCray, Indiana's "Favorite son" faced 100 creditors here today and told them he cannot meet his financial obligations.

His liabilities, brought on by agricultural depression which is said to have sent thousands of farmers into bankruptcy are estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. The governor announced he was ready to turn over to a committee of five his 15 good acres of land, and two head of prize cattle and notes of a half million dollars he accepted for cattle sales and other property.

Mrs. McCray, a sister of George Ade, loyal to her husband, agreed to plane to square accounts by waiving her rights to one-third of his property to which she will legally be entitled.

CLAIM ALBERTA ELECTION

WANTED ON NOVEMBER 5

Canadian Press Despatch.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 31.—In a story which is described as the latest gossip of Alberta, legislators and farmers' members of the legislature are rather anxious to have an election on Nov. 5, the date of the liquor plebiscite. The story points out that the assured success of the operation this year of a wheat pool, and the fact that the election could be carried out at no extra cost to the people, prompts the talk.

STATES ICELAND
HAS REMARKABLE
LOVE FOR MUSIC

Former London Girl States Children Know More Than Canadian Youngsters.

HOSPITALITY IS REAL

By MAURINE ROBB.

In this article specially written for The Advertiser by Maurine Robb, former London girl and well known woman journalist, and dealing with her experiences in making a tour of Iceland, she states that the children of that country know far more when they begin their education than most American youngsters know when they are finished.

Icelanders are extremely hospitable she says, and their love for music is remarkable.

Icelanders are intensely fond of music. Every night on shipboard instead of indulging in jazz or bridge, or some other superficial amusement, they gathered round the piano in the wee saloon and played and sang. One of them was a fine violinist, nearly all the men played the piano, and every one knew the songs. Massenet, Schubert and Rubenstein seemed prime favorites, until I finally asked would they please sing some truly Icelandic music. And for the rest of the evening I listened to folk songs, some of them hundreds of years old, handed down from generation to generation, by word of mouth.

Sveinbjornsson, known to every Icelandic sailor, and every Dane, and to every Scotsman, not only collected these folk songs, but has composed hundreds himself. When King Christian IX of Denmark visited Iceland, Sveinbjornsson composed a song which became Iceland's National Anthem. For this the king presented him with a gold medal. At a concert in Copenhagen, when not only the king and queen of Denmark were present, but the empress of Russia and Queen Alexandra, Sveinbjornsson conducted a cantata he wrote for the occasion, and was given a professorship and knighthood by the king at the banquet afterwards.

Several times Sveinbjornsson has visited America to give lectures and concerts, and he is specially well known in Winnipeg where he has visited for some months as recently as 1920, and in Alberta, where his son and daughter live.

Real Hospitality. Our host stopped at tiny hamlets at the ends of fjords, baby villages, sometimes with only a postoffice, one or two stores, and half a dozen houses, but everyone busily engaged in the fishing industry.

To test the truth of what we had heard, that in these Icelandic fishermen's homes one could find the most gracious hospitality, we went with a minister from the Faroe Islands, to ask for supper at the door of a small frame house in the middle of a fjord, on the east coast. The mistress showed us into her parlor, and what we would like to eat, and prepared us a supper of fried eggs, bread, butter, warm, fresh milk, and smoked salmon.

While the meal was in preparation her children did the housework. They showed us pictures of Italy, Iceland and Switzerland, and told us all about them in excellent English. The boy was eight, the girl ten, and neither had been to school. Icelandic children do not go to school until ten, but they know as much when they begin school as many Canadian children do when they leave.

An Icelandic Service. Iceland has a state church, which is Lutheran. New sects have sprung up in the last few years, but the great majority of the churches and the people are still Lutheran. The small white frame building, which we were taken, was Lutheran. We were late, and the congregation was staring at a hymn, as we entered. I have never in no matter what country, heard such splendid congregational singing as I did there.

The entire service, except the sermon, was sung. The minister sang his parts of the service in a rich, clear baritone voice. Perhaps if he had sung his sermon, too, it might have seemed more interesting. But since it was all in Icelandic, we could hardly be expected to get a great deal from the sermon.

German Officials Believe Attitude Will Change Upon Railroad Transfer.

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Passive resistance in the Ruhr and the Rhineland will automatically collapse the very moment the Germans are permitted to operate their railroad lines without molestation, and when they are granted complete individual and administrative freedom.

This broadly reflects the German official attitude on the subject, and in the main, reiterates the plan outlined in Chancellor Stresemann's inaugural declaration before the Reichstag when he emphasized the principle of Germany's right to exercise the nation's official and private prerogatives in the interrupted areas.

MUSOLINI MAINTAINS

STAND ON REPARATIONS

Associated Press Despatch.

Rome, Aug. 31.—Premier Mussolini addressing yesterday's cabinet meeting, reiterated his official attitude as previously expressed in regard to the Ruhr situation. Germany, he declared, must pay a precise sum in reparation, which should, however, be much less than the hundreds of billions of gold marks spoken of after the armistice. He said the reparation of $50,000,000,000 gold marks was a heavy burden, but Italy was ready, if necessary, to make sacrifices for the reconstruction of Europe, but there could not tolerate changes or modifications in territory that would impair her hegemony politically, militarily or economically. The premier reaffirmed his opinion that the reparation and interest debt questions were independent.

AVERS PROPOSALS OF GOVERNOR ARE PURELY POLITICAL

Pennsylvania Operator Declares Hope for Future Nomination Prompts Action.

STRIKE INEVITABLE

Governor Pinchot's proposals, aimed to prevent a strike of anthracite miners, and break the deadlock at present existing between coal workers and operators, are regarded as "futile" and "ridiculous," according to information received by The Advertiser today.

Charles Martin, local wholesale coal importer, in conference with one of the operators of the Pennsylvania coal fields yesterday, discovered Governor Pinchot's plan to solve the problem were viewed in this light by both miners and employers. The operator with whom he discussed possibilities of purchasing fuel this season, said in fact, that Pinchot's handling of the situation was nothing less than a political "dodge," and could not dissipate the differences of John L. Lewis, miners' representative, and the operators.

"The miners will go out on strike today," said the operator. "A strike is inevitable, and already some of the smaller mines have closed down."

According to Mr. Martin, it is the opinion of mine employers in the Pennsylvania fields that the miners certainly cannot obtain a 10 per cent wage increase. If in any event they did it would boost the price of anthracite coal, and the operators certainly will not agree to the proposed "check-off" system.

Referring to Governor Pinchot's proposals for arbitration, Mr. Martin said the operators and miners thought Pinchot's plans were only to "keep the peace" at a future time. "It is only politics," said the operator to whom Mr. Martin was talking, "and Governor Pinchot can do nothing to prevent the strike of Sept. 1."

TO RECOMMEND MORE MONEY FOR CITY HALL STAFF

Dr. Britain Will Have Report of Civic Survey Ready About October 1.

MAYOR BRINGS WORD

A salary recommendation for city hall officials and employees will be submitted by Dr. Horace L. Britain and his staff, despite the skeptical attitude of the members of the finance committee.

This was the assurance today from Mayor Wenke, who relates that he encountered Dr. Britain in Toronto yesterday at the Municipal Association convention.

"I feel confident that a report in this connection will be submitted," Dr. Britain stated. "I have already assured the members of the committee to that effect and, of course, they will have to be patient and accept my word for it."

"Of course, they have no assurance other than my word, but then they had no assurance of anything else even when they voted as a majority of them did, that we should have this survey of the different departments."

Contrary to general expectations at the city hall, the Britain report will not be submitted in time for the last council meeting in September.

Dr. Britain tells me that it will not be forthcoming until the last of the month or about Oct. 1," the mayor explained. "He said that he had heard about the need for greatest haste, but explained that it would be impossible to have a complete report of all the departments until the end of next month without impairing the efficiency of the statement."

SPORTS ON LABOR DAY,
NO PARADE THIS YEAR

Preparations Well Under Way For Program at Queen's Park.

The Labor men are going to stage a real old-time celebration at Queen's Park Monday. Extensive preparations have been in progress for several days, and a final meeting of the Labor Day committee will be held at the Labor Temple tonight.

A splendid program of sports will be offered, including horse races, and a record crowd is anticipated at the park.

No parade will be held this year, however, the Labor chiefs explaining that this feature of the day is being eliminated for the same reason as last year—the expense. When the parade was held, the members say, they spent about $400 for bands.

Bullets Greet Johnstown, Pa., Police in Effort To Quell Negro Riot.

Associated Press Despatch. Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 31.—Two detectives and one unidentified negro were shot to death and three police officers were probably fatally wounded early this morning when three automobile loads of policemen were answering a riot call to Rosedale, a negro section of this city, where the coke ovens of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation are located.

All available Johnstown police were rushed to the scene of the ambush and a call for aid was sent to the state police. The rioting which grew out of a quarrel among the negroes was quelled and 15 negroes were arrested. The assailants of the officers are believed to have escaped to nearby hills.

As the officers were climbing out of their autos, Rosedale to investigate the shooting, they were greeted by a volley of bullets from a roadside shanty, which has been unused for several months. Police Captain Pink, who is in command of Johnstown police force at night and who was leading the party, and the two dead men were in the first car and the first to fall. Pink is in a critical condition. Many suspicious persons have been arrested.

College Girls Swarming Through New York Shops

Sometimes Parents Can Influence the Purchases, But For the Most Part Their Offspring Are Supreme Judges.

By AILEEN LAMONT.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Aug. 30.—Where has the waistline gone? Few can say but at any rate it has disappeared from its usual haunts, so far as the designs of many of the new dresses are concerned. Girdles and belts seem to have taken a vacation likewise. The new designs for fall start from the neckline with the general tubular outline of a $4 fountain pen, ornamented with alleged gold filigree and it is not until the knees are reached that the gown commences to give way, to what the Greenwich villager alludes to longingly as "self-expression."

At that point many of the gowns gain a full ripple effect by the insertion of pointed godets, by means of circular gores or by flounce. In the majority of the samples, the waistline is attained without the loss of the long flat lines of the tubular silhouette in front and back. One striking design, however, seemingly owes its inspiration to a champagne glass turned upside down as it should be in law-abiding America. The frock from shoulders to knees follows the lines of the slender stem, but from knee to hem, it flattens out like the wide shallow bowl of the container of laughing bubbles.

Waistless Vogue.
In cases where the waistline is impossible to determine, the place of girdle of belt is often taken by a band of heavy embroidery. In still other designs, there is merely a spray of blossoms on an embroidered medallion posed at the hip. A delightful frock of this sort has just been supplied by a leading designer for a prominent American woman. The gown is of flesh colored georgette, made without waistline, but draped into long graceful lines by being caught by a bow of lace at the left hip. Pale honey-colored lace forms the neckline and the tight sleeves and continues to fall from the under side of the sleeve to the hipline in graceful wings. This trimming is employed also in flowing draperies at either side of the skirt.

Shops are swarming today with school and college girls shopping preparatory to the beginning of the academy year. Those parents who still preserve influences with their offspring, however, are confining these purchases to the more staple articles of attire. Until the latest fall has its chance to appear at the autumn football games, few parents know what their daughters will wear or want. They may see them attired in Alaskan mukluks, a Tibetan grass skirt, and two-gallon cowboy hat, so far as they know at present.

Three-Piece Suit.
There is every evidence, however, that the three-piece suit will hold equal popularity among the younger elements, as well as with those of more mature years. On these, also, the belt is conspicuous by its absence. Many of the most swagger are of Scotch or Irish homespun, with coats double breasted, fastened with four buttons and ending just above the knee. Turtletail and charmuse vie with the satins in popularity among the dress materials.

The cloth topsuits which will form part of the contents of the wardrobe trunks, unloaded at the college towns this fall seem to have borrowed their designs and their colors from the tent and awning trade stripes. Bands and diagonals of vivid color run up, down, and around these garments, which are usually finished with a fur collar of the bolter type.

WEDDINGS.

LEATHORNE-PRING.
A quiet wedding took place at St. Mark's Church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Flossie Pring was married to Irvin Richard Leathorne, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. L. Beverley. The bride wore a becoming gown of sapphire tulle and carried bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mr. and Mrs. Leathorne left later on a honeymoon, which will be spent in Buffalo and Rochester, and on their return they will reside at 19 Beattie avenue.

KELLY-KENSELLA.
The marriage took place Wednesday afternoon at St. Peter's rectory of Lenore Kensella, daughter of Mrs. E. Kensella, Elias street, and Arthur Kelly, son of Mrs. Kelly, 1000 St. George street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Monsignor McKeon. The bride wore a smart suit of nigger brown broadcloth, with a wide white collar and cuffs. The groom wore a tuxedo. The bride's maid was Miss L. Conkley was bridesmaid, and Mr. Joseph Kinsella of Detroit acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left later by motor for their honeymoon trip to New York, and upon their return they will reside in London.

HOFFMANN-CUSHING.
A quiet but charming wedding was solemnized at St. Michael's Church on Aug. 21, Rev. E. L. Cushing officiating, when Miss Pearl A. Cushing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cushing, 320 Victoria street, became the bride of Mr. Albert A. Hoffmann. The bride wore a very pretty in a deep blue French crepe gown with a wide white collar and cuffs. The groom wore a tuxedo. The bride's maid was Miss L. Conkley was bridesmaid, and Mr. Joseph Kinsella of Detroit acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left later by motor for their honeymoon trip to New York, and upon their return they will reside in London.

He is a very distinguished scholar and Bible teacher. He was selected, on completion of a recent course of study in Hartford, Conn., to give a free course of lectures on religious education in various colleges of Great Britain.

The home of Mrs. James E. McNaughton, Adelaide street, was the scene of a happy gathering on Wednesday evening last, when the members of the Junior and Senior B. Y. P. U. of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, were the guests. The object of the function was to honor Miss Verne Sloan, a valued member of the society, who is leaving next week to enter the Victoria Hospital training-school for nurses, and during the evening they presented her with a gift, and made their appreciation for their kind remembrance. The address was read by Miss Maud Carson and the presentation made by Miss Jeanette Walker and Miss Marjorie Marsh, both members of the junior society. Miss Sloan, who was taken entirely by surprise, made a graceful reply, thanking the society for their kind remembrance. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way, at the close of which refreshments were served.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Aylsworth, Bridgeport street, was the scene of a happy gathering yesterday afternoon, when about twenty very young ladies and gentlemen were entertained for their kind remembrance. The party was given in honor of little Miss Katherine Aylsworth, who has just reached her fourth birthday. And the cake was the most glorious birthday cake which ever happened. All the trinkets which appeared, when eager little mouths searched the sweet food for the king of the money, were of sterling silver. The long table about which the young guests sat was a fairytale of toy balloons, and crackers, and of course toys. Little baskets of candies and nuts reposed at each place. In fact, there was everything for which a small child might desire. The party was a very happy party indeed. After supper there were games, and the children romped to their hearts' delight, when about 10 o'clock the party broke up for the night. The party was a very happy party indeed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Forest Reach Fiftieth Year of Married Life.

A happy event took place at Forest Tuesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. John Clarke, formerly of London, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, who were married in London 50 years ago, resided here for a great number of years before going to Forest, where they now reside with their daughter, Mrs. R. B. Crosbie. The guests included only the closest family, the sons, daughters and grandchildren, including Mrs. J. W. Bowen of Chicago, Mrs. R. B. Crosbie of Forest, Mr. W. M. Clarke of Sarnia, and Mr. Charles J. Clarke of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke received numerous handsome gifts, also many messages of congratulations, from a large circle of friends.

At the Movies Last Night

"The Sporting Earl."
The "Sporting Earl," an English film reviewed in The Advertiser on Tuesday, has been held over for the remainder of the week at the Allen Theatre.

"Hollywood."
The crowds which attended "Hollywood" at its early showing have justified the Loew management in holding it over for the remainder of the week.

There may be types to whom "Hollywood" won't appeal. But then, nothing ever pleases everybody. The majority seem to have found it an exceptionally fine film.

A new bill of short subjects and vaudeville supplements the feature picture.

All three acts appeared to take very well at their first appearance yesterday afternoon. The third act somewhat detracted from its success in opening by allowing the encore to be several minutes too long.

On the strength of her ability as a vocalist and violinist, the young lady who is second on the bill has put together a nice act, choosing her numbers rather unusually well. The staging for her "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn" is quite as effective as the solo itself. This one brief touch of the classical provides excellent ballast for the remainder of her act.

The "Three Capitals" open the bill with dancing in a quick, wiry style that is interesting.

"Dead Game."
The program at the Patricia is of a decidedly western type. In addition to the feature picture, "Dead Game,"

NEW GRAND POLICY MEANS BIG SHOWS

Popular London Theatre. Is Added To The Famous "Columbia Wheel."

OPENS LABOR DAY

When the Grand Opera House opens its doors for the 1923 season on Monday, Labor Day, it will be not only with a newly-decorated and renovated theatre, but with a policy which the management believe will do much to provide London with good entertainment at popular prices. For the first time London will be one of the regular chain towns on the booking circuit of the Columbia Amusement Company of New York of which Samuel A. Scribner, one of the best-known amusement magnates in the United States, is general manager, and the first half of each week at the Grand will be devoted to their attractions, playing musical revue at popular prices, the first company "Town Scandals," opening for three days on Labor Day with two performances daily.

It is due to combination of circumstances that London is able to get on "the Columbia wheel" as the circuit is known. The Columbia Amusement Company, which controls 40 musical productions, desired to add another week to their Canadian bookings in the eastern territory. George F. Driscoll of Trans-Canada Theatres was, at the same time, looking for attractions to supplement the usual road show bookings for the London and Hamilton houses. A conference between Mr. Driscoll and Mr. Scribner in New York resulted in adding London and Hamilton to the chain for three days each week, London taking the first and Hamilton the latter half of the week. Companies closing in Detroit on Saturday open in London the following Monday for three days, then move to Hamilton for the last three days of the week, and thence to Toronto and Buffalo.

The usual road shows will fill the Grand for the last half of each week in the season.

Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Lecomte and Fleisher musical comedy, "Milk and Honey," which scored a success here last season will be the bill, and the last of fair week will see the Dumbell's new show, "Cheerio," with Ross Hamilton and Al Plunkett. Attractions already booked for the remainder of the season are of similar calibre.

During the summer vacation the Grand has been thoroughly redecorated and renovated. From orchestra chairs to the upper gallery the auditorium has been gone over, new carpets laid, new drapery placed, and the whole interior freshened and renewed. Scenery has been put in first-class shape, and the house is now in a position to accommodate the largest attractions on tour. It may not be generally known, but the Grand stage is one of the largest in Canada, being exceeded for roominess by but one theatre in Montreal, one in Toronto, and the new theatre in Vancouver.

Cynthia Greys
MAIL BOX

With a New Name?

Dear Miss Grey,—Just a few lines to see how you and the Boxites are these hot days. I tried my entrance examinations and came out successfully. It has been about two years since I last wrote to you. I thought I would write again, or you would be after me.

We had a nice rain here tonight. My cousin is visiting me for a week or so. I suppose most of the Boxites are having their holidays now. I don't, because a little sister arrived last October, and the raspberries were on in July and August, so I had to take care of my sister.

I am learning how to be a telephone operator.

We gave a present to one of my girl friends, who is going away to live and go to school about one hundred miles from here.

Just think, a week from today I start school. The holidays have seemed long to me, but I do not know why.

I am 13 years old, and have blue eyes and bobbed hair; it is mid-brown. When the cook books are printed, could I have one, please?

I will close now, with a change from my old pen-name of Bird to E. A. S.

Speaking of cook books, E. A. S., we are all waiting patiently for Calamity Ann to issue her ultimatum in the form of another bulletin, and let us know just how things are proceeding in that direction. In the meantime we are all getting very eager. Did you mind giving up your holiday to look after your little sister? I am quite sure you didn't, but after holidays are holidays, aren't they? And I hope you are enjoying the best of good times with your young cousin. Congratulations on your passing the entrance are a belated, but nevertheless, they're sincere.

All About Cyclamen.

Dear Miss Grey,—I see in this evening's paper where June wants information on how to treat a cyclamen, so as to have it bloom next spring. This bulb requires the same treatment as tuberous-rooted begonias, except bearing winter bloom.

The cyclamen should have its period of rest during the summer, and about the middle of July they start to grow again, and should then be repotted. They are of easy culture, but there is one point which should always be observed. The bulb should be placed on the surface of the soil and not covered, else it will be sure to decay. They delight in a light, porous soil, freely mixed with sand and coal ashes.

With all this expert information, June, your cyclamens should prove a perfect riot by next year. Isn't Compositor's Better Half a jolly good sort to answer your request so promptly (although I must admit we were tardy in having it printed)? And, by the way, Better Half, how about a letter from Compositor herself?

COMPOSITOR'S BETTER HALF.

It is made of black crepe, and ruffles of pleated satin ribbon, also black, extend from shoulder to hem in a double row on the left side. It also forms a turnback cuff for the plain coat sleeves. A rosette of the ribbon marks the waist line and breaks the line of the ruffling. A single twisted rope silk encircles the waist with a long tassel hanging from the right side. A touch of red in this tassel gives a pretty and distinguishing touch and brightens the frock. It is designed for afternoon wear.

BLACK AND RED.

For the college girl who must have smart but practical frocks for coming school days, for the club woman who looks forward to another season of work for civic betterment and individual growth; for the "home body" who must look youthful and smart for friend husband and the kiddies, and the occasional afternoon gatherings of friends—for any of these this little frock would be appropriate and useful.

OPENING THE HOUSE.

"Well, it's a kind of dreary time, any way you look at it, isn't it? The pang of regret that seizes you when you close the summer cottage isn't half as keen as the wave of dismay that surges over you when you get back to the city house and see cobwebs festooned all around the front door and the windows; then you find two or three old newspapers that have been soaked and dried and browned in the sun, lying on the front steps; and when the garden that was so green and gay when you went away is discovered to be full of blossoms gone to seed, brown pods, yellowed foliage, and overrun with weeds!"

Yes, it's a little hard to turn one's back on the free, open life in the far-off places and come back to a house that has to be cleaned from top to bottom before it can be lived in. Sweeping and dusting, airing and disinfecting—that's our program for the next few days, as we tackle our job of adjusting ourselves to the old familiar routine.

And yet we have had a wonderful time, haven't we? Whether we have been gone all summer, at great hotels or little country cottages, or whether we have had only two or three weeks motoring through distant towns and along mountain roads—when this first day or two of opening the house is over, we shall be joyfully telling our neighbors all the delightful experiences we have had.

This is home! We're back in it. It is ours to make fresh and dainty and clean and orderly again—and to keep it so. We see it all to look back on, and when this first day or two of opening the house is over, we shall be joyfully telling our neighbors all the delightful experiences we have had.

DIRECTOR FOUND DYING IN CALIFORNIA RESIDENCE

Associated Press Despatch. Santa Monica, Cal., Aug. 31.—Herbert Jones, 37, said to be a wealthy motion picture director, was found in what the police said was a dying condition in his home here yesterday. He died last night at a hospital. His feet and legs were burned, although there was no signs of a fire in his home or near it, and near his bed, upon which he lay was a tube from which six tablets of a sedative drug had been removed.

SASKATCHEWAN WHEAT
AVERAGES 20 BU. TO ACRE

Canadian Press Despatch.

THE BEAUTY OF HEALTH
Newspapers and magazines are devoting columns to magic or overnight beautifiers. There is a beauty in health that is far more attractive to men than mere regularity of features or a made-up complexion. Health should be the first essential of women who want to win and hold admiration, respect and love. At the first indication of ill-health, as indicated by dark circles under the eyes, a yellow complexion, headaches, backache, pain in the side, nervousness, irritability and melancholia, women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the standard remedy for women's ills, which has been proven to help 98 out of every 100 women who try it.—Adv.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself. A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief. Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel. $1.25 at your druggist's.

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

Now he has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world—all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way: A person half sick with bad stomach, dull and heavy headache, takes Becham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises in the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Becham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and stirring sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity—and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Becham's Pills, as the pills are with good health.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD BOY BRITAIN MURDERED

New York Police Expect the Early Arrest of the Person Who Strangled Youngster.

Special to The Advertiser.
Windham, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Arrests are expected today in the murder of 7-year-old Howard Rothenberg, whose body was found near a lake, his hands tied behind his back, a gag in his mouth, and a napkin twisted around his neck. The child was strangled.

The napkin used in the murder has been identified, according to Constable Harry Turk, who conducted the investigation. The perpetrator of the crime will be arrested before tonight, he said.

Little Howard had been spending his vacation at Windham, accompanied by his mother and sisters. His home is in Newark, N. J., where the boy will be taken.

Early yesterday he went fishing to try out a new rod his father had just sent him. When he did not return a general alarm was given and search begun. Late yesterday his body was found about 25 feet from a pool of water. Scratches and stains indicated that the body had been dragged some distance.

MAY CONTINUE CREDITS TO AID YOUNG FARMER

Ferguson Cabinet Investigates Present System of Rural Assistance.

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, Aug. 30.—"We may continue rural credits as such a way as to help the young man with agricultural experience to acquire a farm of his own," said one of the ministers of the Ferguson government to The Advertiser today.

The whole question of continuing the system is being looked into thoroughly, and we have reached no decision yet.

The province has loaned more than four million dollars to more than 1,000 farmers on long-term loans during the last year and a half. About $300,000 has been advanced in short-term loans. So far about 95 per cent of all payments have been met.

The system is showing a deficit of about $100,000 per year, but it is expected within three years.

Specialist in Foods Gives Advice Regarding Oysters

By L. MADELINE MILLIGAN, B.S.
Oysters stand shipping very well as they remain edible for a period of from eight to ten days even when shelled, if they are kept at a low temperature. They will keep even longer and more satisfactorily if they are removed from their liquor. Shucked oysters are usually washed carefully in a number of waters and are then packed in air-tight receptacles which are surrounded with ice. They must not, under any circumstances, become frozen, although the old custom was to ship them floating in a tub with a cake of ice. This practice is no longer prevalent because of the menace to the oysters caused by melting ice.

Different opinions prevail regarding the digestibility of the oyster, although even delicate stomachs tolerate them quite frequently without discomfort, so it may therefore be concluded that their assimilation is not markedly difficult. To certain individuals, however, the oyster is repellant, and a brief description of their construction and composition may be of interest. First, there is the liver which in this animal is a very bulky organ and which constitutes the fleshy part; then we find a single adductor muscle which closes the valves of the shell; next to this muscle is the "mantle," which contains the "gills" or "beard." The gills really form the outer part, being slightly fringed in appearance, and they furnish the test as to when the oyster is cooked. Most folks eat the entire animal, while very dainty persons remove the outer fringed portion.

Used Universally.
Because they lend themselves to so many ways of preparation, oysters are almost universally used, and they appear on the menus of the most exclusive as well as the most popular restaurants and hotels. They are especially relished by invalids and children. Langworthy gives their composition as follows: 88.3 per cent water; 6.1 per cent nitrogenous matter; 1.4 per cent fat; 1.9 per cent salts and 2.3 per cent glycogen. One dozen oysters contain only about an ounce of solid matter so they therefore contain nutriment in a very diluted form and are not considered an economic food, but their use is undoubtedly healthful and affords variety in a dietary. The total solids are about equal in amount to those of milk, but a quart of oysters shucked costs from four to five times as much as a quart of milk.

Oysters, like other bulky food, are the amount of nutriment which they contain and they are the two animal foods which are exceptional in furnishing large amounts of carbohydrate, although not in the same form.

Look For Good Color.
When buying oysters in the shell, the shells should be very tightly closed and the oysters should have a good characteristic odor. They should ask to have one opened and it should not have a "ropy" or slimy appearance and should be of good color. Their appearance as well as their odor should also be carefully noted if oysters which have been opened are purchased and they should be in their own natural liquor without the addition of any water. Oysters should be eaten as soon as they have been removed from the shells and the practice of opening them and keeping them in tubs until purchased is to be deprecated; this is because of the ease with which they transmit disease germs.

Oysters are most easily digested when eaten raw, as cooking in any form, whether boiling, scalding or stewing, coagulates and hardens them, thereby rendering them more difficult of solution in the stomach. In cooking them, when the shells begin to separate, somewhat resembling the partly opened pages of a book and become slightly filled or puffed at the edges, they should be removed from the fire. The application of heat prolonged much beyond this stage injures both their flavor and consistency.

Camp Corn or Indian Meal Bread.
Mix together and sift three cups of yellow corn meal (which is the same as maize or Indian meal), one cup of flour, one tablespoonful of granulated sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and three heaping teaspoons of baking powder. Work in a cupful of lard, cold. Add enough cold water or milk to make a stiff dough. Form into balls as big as hen's eggs, roll in flour and bake in the hot ashes of the fire, which should completely cover the bread. This will bake sufficiently in from fifteen to twenty minutes.

Biscuits.
Mix and sift one quart of flour, two heaping tablespoons of baking powder and one teaspoonful of salt. Rub into the flour dry two tablespoons of butter, lard or any kind of sweet fat. Add cold water enough to make a stiff dough. Roll it on a well-floured breadboard into a sheet an inch thick, cut into biscuits with an empty baking powder tin, bake in a greased pan in a hot oven ten or fifteen minutes.

Ginger Bread.
Mix together one cup of molasses, one tablespoonful of ground ginger, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a cup of melted butter or drippings, a cup of milk and three cups of flour, mixed with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in gem pans in a moderate oven for half an hour.

prunes and other fruit are now prepared in excellent form, and with care will keep for years. Wash and soak over night in cold water, simmer in the same water until tender. Do not boil. Sweeten to taste and serve. If a pie is wanted take the fruit cooked as described, make a baking powder pie crust. Line a pie dish with it, pour in the fruit and cover with the pie crust. Bake until the crust is cooked. This recipe will answer for every variety of fruit, whether steamed or evaporated fruit in the market. Soak the fruit in cold water over night, simmer gently, but do not boil.

HOLLAND'S QUEEN HAS THIED THRONE QUARTER CENTURY

People of Netherlands Arrange
Series of Festivities in Honor of Ruler.

REDS BELLIGERENT

Special Cable to The London Advertiser
and Chicago Daily News. Copyright
Amsterdam, Aug. 31.—As today is Queen Wilhelmina's birthday, so it is also the starting point for big national festivities throughout Holland, commemorating the queen's 25-year reign on the throne of the Netherlands. On September 6, 1898, Queen Wilhelmina was solemnly inaugurated before a meeting of the states-general at Amsterdam. From that day during years of great prosperity and years of stress, she has never lost her trust in the nation and now nearly the whole of the Dutch people are anxious to give expression to their love and deeply felt gratitude.

As the queen expressed the earnest desire that no costly gifts be presented to her, a fund of 200,000 guilders, about $200,000, was raised for the restoration of the choir and transept in the new church at Delft, which contains the mausoleum of the House of Orange, one of the longest reigning dynasties in the world; and the famous monument to the memory of William the Silent, founder of the Dutch republic, who was assassinated at Delft in 1584.

The choir is not merely a mausoleum to the House of Orange as many other great Dutchmen have been laid to rest here, among them Hugo Grotius, called the founder of international law.

During the whole month of September big popular festivities will take place in nearly every Dutch town and village. Numerous exhibitions, sports and festivals have been constantly under way.

Today the queen, with Prince Consort Henry and Princess Juliana, make their solemn entry at The Hague. The official festivities will be held at Amsterdam, where the royal family will spend next week. The program of demonstrations, receptions, vocal concerts, rowing matches and fireworks is rather voluminous, every association being anxious to register homage to the beloved queen. It is hoped that no disorders will occur. The communists for the last few days have been trying to create disorder by cutting electric wires for illuminations. The police have already seized many thousands of pamphlets insulting the royal family and condemning the 70,000 guilder credit the municipality of Amsterdam voted for the cost of the festivities.

Received Envoys.
It is the queen's desire that the jubilee bear a strictly national character. No foreign missions will come to Holland to present to the queen the congratulations of their governments. Various diplomatic envoys have already been received by the queen, however, in an extraordinary audience in order that they might convey their good wishes and deliver autographed letters of their sovereigns. The permanent court of international justice also will call upon the queen to testify to its high esteem for the country where Hugo Grotius was born.

YOUNG MEN SENTENCED FOR STEALING RIFLES

Special to The Advertiser.
Goderich, Aug. 30.—Two prominent young men appeared before Magistrate C. A. Reid, charged with having on or about the month of November, 1922, entered the warehouse on West street, owned by Col. Dunlop, and stolen three military rifles, the property of the department of militia and defense.

They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to one month in jail, and to pay the costs of the prosecution, amounting to $18.50. In default of payment, an additional thirty days in jail.

CLAIM PARENTS CONTRIBUTORS TO DELINQUENCY

Juvenile Court Collects Nearly $300 From Persons of Mature Years.

WORK SUCCESSFUL

Between two and three hundred dollars have been collected in fines from adults on charges of contributing to the moral delinquency of children in the period of less than three months during which the local juvenile court has been in operation. This information was disclosed unofficially by Judge G. Q. Warner, who addressed today's regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Towns House in the subject of the juvenile court. He particularly emphasized the fact that the full powers of the court were more generally brought into use than in the case of the parent guardian who by neglect or wilful attempt contributed to the moral delinquency of the boy or girl than in the case of the child himself.

"In a very large majority of cases, when a child is brought to the juvenile court," Judge Warner said, "the parent guardian has no moral training, either in the home or by connection with any church. We take the 'do unto others' rule granted, and the fact that the child is brought by training and example into the mind of the child before any sense of right or wrong may be expected. I have very little faith, but with this intention I have failed in respect to one case, that of a boy of eleven. In this case there was no background of training, no sort of moral sense upon which to lay hold, and the only possible solution was that of sending the boy to a home where he would be constantly under corrective influences."

Probation Important.
"During my absence, the deputy judge, Major Bradshaw, has been doing it in a magnificent way, and it may entail a change in the legislative assembly act. During the Drury regime, legislation was passed providing that after Oct. 31, 1930, to each member recognized by the speaker as leader of an opposition group of 15 or more members, there would be payable an additional $1,500 to the sessional indemnity."

At the recent election, 15 Liberals were returned, but since then Dr. Yvonne, who was elected in Lennox, has died, and the number is now 14. Should the Liberals not bring their representation up to 15, it will be necessary for the House to change the act to provide an allowance for Mr. Sinclair.

"An encouraging feature in connection with the work is that we have had only three 'repeaters.' In this small percentage, the children have committed a second offense of a different nature to their first, and all offenses have been of a petty nature. Much of the success of the court depends largely, of course, not so much on the judge himself, as on the probationary system in connection with it. In this respect I have been very fortunate. Major Bradshaw has done, and is doing, splendid work, and the men and women who are privately assisting with the court and quietly carrying on probation work are doing it in a magnificent way."

"Parents and friends also appreciate the quiet nature of court proceedings, and the lack of publicity which attends them."

Disfavor Publicity.
"We try to keep the juvenile court as much removed from the police court as possible, and thus avoid any possible stigma which might attach itself to the child. We like the public to know the number of cases, the offenses charged, and the method pursued, but details beyond this it is not our policy to make public."

The "stunt" program at today's meeting was of an unusually successful nature. According to the arrangement, kept an entire secret by the committee, every detail in connection with the meeting failed, to be immediately replaced with novelty which provided an excellent tonic of an hour's mirth.

In the boost, the prize went to Kiwanians Ken Murray, Roy Williams and George Arthurs.

LEAGUE TO REMAIN ALOOF IN GREEK-ITALIAN DISPUTE

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Geneva, Aug. 31.—The League of Nations will not interfere in the Greco-Italian situation, predicated by the assassination of five Italian officials in Greece several days ago, unless Greece requests intervention. Members of the league council which met here today decided that the league has no right to intervene, unless by direct request of Greece.

PRINCE WAS NOT ASKED TO ATTEND TORONTO SHOW

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Aug. 31.—With reference to the report, already denied officially, that the Prince of Wales would attend the Toronto Hunt Club's show at Eglington in October while on a visit to Canada, the Associated Press is officially informed not only that there is no truth in the report, but that no such invitation to the prince from the Toronto Hunt Club has been received.

IS INJURED BY FALLING FROM STREET SPRINKLER

Special to The Advertiser.
Port Lambton, Aug. 30.—As the result of an accident which befell Rufus Stenton, local highway commissioner, recently, in a fall from the street sprinkler while on the road here, in which he received injuries to his shoulders and back, he will be incapacitated for some time. He was emptying a barrel of oil into the tank, assisted by Charles Davis, using a ladder which slipped, and Stenton fell, striking his chest. Davis was more fortunate, however, as he jumped when the ladder broke. Luckily the oil barrel rolled over the opposite side of the tank, or the accident might have been more serious.

RECKLESS DRIVING BRINGS ASSESSMENT TOTAL OF $93

Special to The Advertiser.
Goderich, Aug. 30.—John McGeach, appeared before Magistrate Reid charged with driving a car recklessly and was found guilty of a fine of $50 and costs, and a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, contrary to the motor vehicle act, he was fined $25 and costs. With the fines and costs, the total was $93.

Max Walsh of Seaford was also on the carpet for having liquor in a car at a private residence, and was fined $300 and costs.

Application of Insulin Saves Life of Youngster

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ferne, B. C., Aug. 31.—Another remarkable cure of diabetes by the application of insulin is reported at the hospital here, where Frank Hicks, aged 8, of Vermilion, Alberta, was restored to convalescence after being in such an advanced stage of diabetes coma as to be comparatively pulseless.

MAYOR WILL OBSERVE PROCEDURE BYLAW

Fails To Understand Why He Should Be Blamed For Delegations at Council.

The municipal procedure bylaw as it affects deputations and delegations to the city council meetings will be rigidly adhered to, Mayor Wenig assured today, replying to members of the finance committee who have complained on this score.

His worship fails to understand why certain of them should attempt to thrust the blame upon his shoulders. The entire responsibility rests with twelve aldermen, he points out. "Deputations come to the council without first going to the committee," the mayor explained. "I ask the council if they wish to be heard, and up go the hands. Yes. It is up to them. If they don't want to hear them, they have to do so to say 'No.' They can't blame me for that. Let all the people come and they can do as they please about it."

LOT OF ALBERTA COAL ARRIVES AT ST. THOMAS

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 30.—The first shipment of Alberta coal, to be shipped into this city this year, arrived this morning, two cars being delivered to W. H. Swift. The coal is an excellent sample, and shows little evidence of slackening during its long journey. Mr. Swift reports. It is being retailed at $14 a ton. The coal is not unlike Pocahontas coal in appearance, and is reported to be a very high grade of semi-hard, or lignite coal. B. F. Honsinger, who has purchased one of the carloads for use in his store during the coming winter, expressed himself as being well pleased with the appearance of the coal.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSE SOON.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Aug. 30.—Tomorrow the city playgrounds close for the summer, and special exercises have been arranged for Shakespeare school ground. Inter-playground events will form a big part of the program.

COAL INTERESTS ACCEPT TERMS AS CONFAB BASIS

Operators Object to Flat Ten Per Cent Wage Increase.

ANSWER PINCHOT

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—Anthracite operators and miners' union officials today returned to consider Pinchot's peace proposals for averting mining suspension, the miners accepting them as a basis for continuing negotiations and the operators, while objecting to the flat ten per cent wage increase, accepting it on condition that an agreement putting it into effect over a long term of years be effected. On all points except the 10 per cent flat increase, Governor Pinchot suggested, the joint answers from both groups in the industry indicated a degree of satisfaction, though the union again asked the "checkoff" and the operators demanded that the union abandon this and all other demands in consideration of the long term wage agreement. The union offered renewed negotiations between the parties, without mentioning the suspension orders which have been issued by its officials to become effective tonight.

Both answers were given just after Governor Pinchot took the leaders on both sides into executive conference. The meeting, behind doors guarded by state police, was still in progress while the double set of answers to the peace proposal was being made public.

Operators, while declaring themselves in agreement with the governor's proposals on three points, asserted that "no general increase in the wages of anthracite mine workers at this time is justified."

Arguing against the governor's offer of a ten per cent wage increase, the operators said it would add $30,000,000 per year to the wage bill of the industry and that "any favorable consideration of it by us must be conditioned upon a durable agreement covering a period of years with a provision for annual revision."

PREMIER WELCOMES MEN OF FAMOUS REGIMENT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—The visiting detachment of the London Scottish Regiment paid a complimentary visit to Queen's Park this morning, and was received by Premier Ferguson with the members of his government on the steps of the Parliament Buildings.

In welcoming the visitors, Premier Ferguson briefly traced the history of the unit since its foundation some 150 years ago, and paid a high tribute to its record of service to the empire during that period.

WAR WITH GREECE WOULD INFLUENCE MANY COUNTRIES

Italian Land Forces Could Only With Difficulty Conduct Invasion.

EUROPE SHUDDERS

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, Aug. 31.—Europe is shuddering before the Greco-Italian situation, having in mind the catastrophic consequences of the Sarajevo incident of nine years ago, which it parallels in a striking way, and praying that Italy's first anger may subside, permitting negotiations or intervention by the League of Nations.

War between Italy and Greece would certainly not be confined to these countries. Conditions are such that one warlike step would lead to another until all Europe might again be involved in a devastating conflict. Italy would have no special object in subjugating Greece proper. Italian gunboats might demolish Piræus and other seaports, but invasion of Greece by a military force would be extremely difficult.

Italy has long desired a foothold in Albania and to fight the Greeks in Macedonia the Italians would be compelled to go through Albania. But Albania and Macedonia also offer severe military problems.

No power has effectively conquered Macedonia in 400 years.

The Serbs would never tolerate Italy's converting the Adriatic into an Italian lake or Italian penetration to Salonika, which is the strategic point of allied Baltic waters. In the event of threatened hostilities Italy will probably be warned that any offensive in the direction of Albania will make the Jugo-Slave an ally of Greece.
