CELEBRATED THE PEACE

Despite the Rain Chatham Cheered and Paraded Last Night.

Splendid Address of Lieut-Col. Rankin-Regiment's Spirited March-Out.

The declaration of peace in South Africa has been the cause of much rejoicing in Chatham, and the event was duly celebrated last evening by the soldiers of the 24th Regiment, who had a special parade on King street. A large crowd of citizens, honoring the glad news, lined King street to witness the parade and the cheers and applause which greeted the soldier boys were both generous The procession was headed by the Regiment Band, follow-ed by the Drum and Bugle Band. During the march the band played "The British Grenadiers," "Ninety-Five," and the crowd heartily ap-plauded the strains of these popular

Mr. Rankin gave an excellent address and was interupted at frequent intervals by cheers from his large crowd of listen-ers. In his speech he dealt with the history of the war, pointing out that the management of this war has been unparalleled in history. He paid a great tribute to "Little Bobs," Kit-Baden-Powell and General

He also made mention of Chatham's part in the war, referring to the death of Privates Donegan and Eyans, and concluded his magnificent address with three cheers for each of the prominent Generals of

The Mayor read a letter stating that the granolithic walks on Sixth street from Harrison Hall to King street had been injured by water being thrown on the walk to clean it, by workmen acting under orders of the City Engineer. It had frozen that night and damaged the walk. The engineer would deny this but the writer had evidence to prove it. TUESDAY. JUNE 3, 1902.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The Liberal administration has evidently been returned to power with a very narrow majority, points out the Guelph Herald. The day after the last provincial elections in 1898 the returns showed 50 Liberals and 44 Conservatives elected. The apparent Liberal majority in 1898 was 6, and the apparent Liberal majority in 1902 is 3. In several doubtful constituencies recounts may result in favor of Mr. Whitney, and it is quite possible that he may ultimately receive a majority in the House. The number of doubtful constituencies on the Liberal side is considerably greater than on the Conservative side. In every case where the majority is less than one hundred a recount may be made. In the constituencies where the returns are incomplete the seats conceded to the Conservatives can be counted safe, while on the Liberal side doubtfuls may go one way or the other. In any event the margin is likely to be so narrow that neither party could carry on the administration of the affairs of the Province satisfactorily, and another general election may be held at an early date.

New Ontario supported the Government. Of the new constituencies -Fort William, and Lake of the Woods, Port Arthur, and Rainy River, and both East and West Nipisreturned Liberals. Marie and Algoma elected Conservatives. Manitoulin returned Gamey, Conservative, with a substantial majority. All the ministers have been returned, but in many cases with greatly reduced majorities. Premier Ross and Mr. Whitney both increased their majorities.

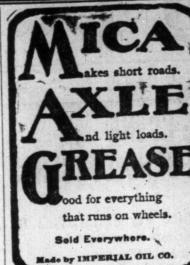

A rough estimate gives the aggregate Liberal majority 10,000, and the aggregate Conservative majority 14,-000, or 4,000 more Conservatives than

The membership of the new House comprises, as usual, a great variety of occupations. Farmers, as has been the case previously, head the list, with 18. Lawyers, who many years ago were the largest class, take second place, with 14. Doctors and journalists run a dead heat for third place, with 12 each. Other occupations are represented as follows: Five manufacturers, three contractors, three lumbermen, two farmers, two millers, one cheesemaker, one undertaker, one financial agent, one land surveyor, one engineer, one agent, one auctioneer and one cattle dealer.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

Says the St. Thomas Times :-Now that the election battle is over, it is gratifying to reflect that on the whole there was probably less rancour in the campaign than usual. The Hamiilton, Chatham, Stratford and Brantford papers made matters warm for the two weeks prior to the voting; even the staid and usually dignified Toronto Mail and Empire and Globe got pretty near the offensive language point once in a while; but through out the country comparative good feeling was maintained. There can be no doubt that many refrained from voting, but a vigorous canvass was made on the quiet. Recounts may alter enough constituencies to overthrow the government but as the ballot boxes are in possess ion of those now holding the reins, i will be difficult, if we are to judge by past occurrences, for the opposition to get a free and open recount in any division. Even allowing the government the majority of four now claimed there will be no possibility of legislation being forced through as in the past. The majority is so narrow that the ministers will require to walk circumspectly, especially since Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, J. W. St. John, Dr. Willoughby and other vigorous fighters have been added to the debating strength of the Conservatives. The opening of the Tenth Legislature of

Ontario will be an event of peculiar

 Treachery of Tropical Nature.

"It is very like a fairy story," said Esther under her breath. "Very," said he. "And in fairy sto-ries there are witches, enchanters and porrible things that come out of the forest, are not there? Well, so it is there in South America. There is a background of danger. One must keep one's eyes open. Here in England nature is safe and kind, eh? You can play with her as if she were an old tabby cat, but out there she is a striped tiger, beautiful and fierce and never to be trusted.

"There is everlasting strangling going on in the woods. Even the flowers are not kind and harmless. The orchids twist and perch and swing and bloom on branches they are hugging to death. You break a twig of something that looks like a vine, and its milk raises a blister on your hand; you touch what you think is a leaf, and it gallops off on a hundred legs! The animals pretend to be vegetables and the vegetables to be animals. Every living thing is trying to protect itself with all its little might and main and to get the better of its enemies, just as the people in towns do. Oh, the high woods of the Andes are not moral, they are not Christian, I assure you! Nature is opulent, and she is splendid, but she isn't good F. F. Montresor.

Crushed the Objector.

Booker T. Washington told an amusing story of an old colored preacher who was endeavoring to explain to his congregation how it was that the children of Israel passed over the Red sea safely, while the Egyptians, who came after them, were drowned. The old man said:

"My brethren, it was this way: When the Israelites passed over, it was early in the morning, while it was cold, and the ice was strong enough so that they went over all right; but when the Egyptians came along it was in the middle of the day, and the sun had thawed the ice so that it gave way under them, and they were drowned."

At this a young man in the congregation, who had been away to school and had come home, rose and said: "I don't see how that explanation can be right, parson. The geography that I've been studying tells us that ice never forms under the equator, and the Red sea is nearly under the equator."

"There, now," said the old preacher. "That's all right. I'ze been 'spectin' some of you smart Alecks would be askin' jest some such fool question. The time I was talkin' about was before they had any jogafries or 'quators either."

Some English Ads. A general servant advertised in a

Bristol paper for a place the other day, but required "no inquiries, no caps or aprons, every evening out, good wages," and a journalist advertised himself as of "no particular ability" as a recommendation. A clerk recently sought a place "where great strength, personal appearance or ability are not required." "Good butter, sixpence a pound. Nobody can touch it," was ambiguous and may have been wrongly interpreted by the public, and a Glouces tershire paper which inserted the advertisement, "Our one and nine penny dinner at 6:30 p. m. Funerals promptly attended to," apologized next day for mixing up two separate and

But it is a fact that a church paper appealed lately for "Old man, lame, deaf, epileptic. Will any Christian take him for a gardener?" and that in a leading Scotch journal an advertiser asked for "£65 to pay debts incurred through losses at betting." - London

We the undersigned residents of Joseph street, have pleasure in saying that after a year's use of gas for cooking purposes, we find it to be the most economical, convenient and satisfactory fuel we have ever used. With it there are ashes, soot, carrying of fuel, kindling fires, etc.; it is ready in an instant, day or night, and we are perfectly satisfied that gas is a much cheaper fuel than coal or wood We can advise any one to use gas for We can advise any one to use gas for

WHY?

Sometimes how near you are, Sometimes how dear you are; Then, then, so far, so far, Like some far star you are Sometimes through you, through I see the gray sky blue,

And feel the warmth of May In the December day. Sometimes, sometimes I let,

All cares and every fear In your sweet atmosphere Then, then, alas! alas! Why does it come to pass,

All burdens fall, forget

Before the hour goes by, Before my dreams doth die.

I drift and drift away Out of your light of day, Out of your warmth and cheer, Your blessed atmosphere?

Why does it come to pass? Alas! and still alas! Why doth the world prevail Why doth the spirit fail.

And hide itself away Behind its wall of clay? Sometime began-alas! Why doth it come to pass! -Nora Perry

THE TELLTALE THUMB.

Its Marks and Lines and Its Signal

From the Brain. A tremendous amount of nonsens has been written about thumb marks. It is claimed that the curious skin configuration on the ball of the thumb is never the same in any two people and that it never changes. The first statement is correct, and the same thing can be said of the lines on the palm and the creases on the bottom of the feet. But the assertion that the thumb marks never change throughout life is a decided exaggeration. The alteration may come from a variety of causes-anything, in fact, that will destroy the outer layer of skin.

Another modifying cause is the tendency of the thumb to develop little horizontal creases as one grows old. This is especially true of mechanics and critics, that Mackay was the greatfamily, of Chatham, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, of and eventually the creases will break up the lines to such an extent that it The flags were flying from the is equivalent almost to a rearrangement of the pattern. Specialists in nerve diseases by an examination of the thumb can tell if the patient is affected or likely to be affected by paralysis, as the thumb signals this ong before it is visible in any other part of the body. If the danger symptoms are evidenced there, an operation is performed on what is known as the "thumb center" of the brain, and the disorder is often removed.

No matter how carefully the individual may attempt to conceal incipient insanity, the thumb will reveal it infallibly. It is the one sure test. If the patient in his daily work permits the thumb to stand at a right angle to the other fingers or to fall listless into the palm, taking no part in his writing, his handling of things, his multiform duties, but standing isolated and sulky, it is an unanswerable confession of men tal disease.

HEV. DH. MAUKAY'S GHAVE Canadian Visits It in Far Formosa Nr. H. H. Horsey's Glowing Tribute to the

Great Presbyterian Missionary. On my annual business trip to the Orient this year I visited several cities in China, such as Swatow and Foochew, for the first time, writes Mr. H. H. Horsey of Toronto to The Toronto Globe. The most interest-ing new field, however, was that of North Formosa.

Tainsui, Formosa's northen port, was reached on Christmas Day, after a rough passage from Amoy across the Formosan Straits. The captain of our steamer and myself were very kindly invited to tiffin with the acting British Consul, whose invitation we gladly accepted, it being Christmas, and because it gave me an opportunity to see something of the place and learn also of the great work of Dr. Mackay, the first and probably the greatest Canadian Presbyterian foreign missionary.
Formosa (the beautiful) has been aptly named, and to me seemed a second Japan. No dead level in the physical features, high mountains, deep chasms, gentle hills and fertile valleys arranged in nature's own varied and picturesque way. In fact, all the scenery gave me the same nestling idea as Japan's. One falls in love with the isle directly he ascends the hill upon which the Euroeyes towards the mountain peaks op-posite, or over the downs in his rear, just beyond the little foreign

The British merchants' hongs and residences are at Twahitia, twenty miles up the Tamsui River, and with one of these merchants I was booked to reside while in the country. Before taking the train for Twahitia, or Ditolei, or Taipeh, all meaning about the same district, I was eager to visit the grave of that great Can-adian, Mackay, or Kai-Bok-Su, as the natives all called him. My friend, the captain kindly led the way, pointing out en route Oxford College and the Mackay homestead. Almost in sight of his former residence and now that of his family, just in the rear thereof on a small knoll rest the remains of George L. Mackay, surrounded by those of his Chinese disciples and native preachers who were called away before his summons came. Quite close by is the European cemetery, walled in on all sides, but Mackay's wish to die and lie side by side with the natives for whom he had lived and suffered to uplift has been granted. No stone as yet marks his last resting place, but something of that nature doubtless be erected shortly. What matters it, after all, for the whole of North Formosa is his monument. It is universally admitted, even by the worst of anti-foreign missionery est power for good that ever touched Formosan shores. He had a practical plan, viz., the teaching and training of a native staff and church, and that plan has been sanctioned by all who under-stand the nature of the country, the limate and its inhabitants. fact, all are agreed that his was the only sensible and certain method to assure permanent success. Its fruits re already apparent in the appended feeling now existing between the hinese and Europeans unknwon before his time; the numberless chapels, schools and earnest Chinese workers and subscribers all proclaim the change, deep and permanent, is method and zeal have brought about. I never felt smaller and more shrunken then when I bowed my head at this good man's grave. Here rested one at least, if not the greatest, of Canada's heroes. In no ountry in Asia, to my knowledge has any Canadian wrought so much or been such a supreme factor in all the uplifting tendencies of the time. Picture to your minds for a moment what difficulties he overcame, what foes he faced. Having visited the City of Bangkah I can readily imagine what a calm courage and ready tact he must have displayed there a quarter of a century ago, facing its lowling, hissing mob of heathen in its streets, in order to break the first ice, so to speak, and initiate his new religious ideas. A dozen times his life seemed at stake both in Bangkah and the hilly districts, and only his miraculous coolness and presence of mind saved his head from being carried off a prize by the neadsmen who infest the hilly try around about. Those who desire full and detailed account of his many hardships and adventures must read his work, "From Far Formo-One can scarcely realize, not having visited the country or seen its inhabitants, how deep-seated the presuperstition and udice against which, single-handed, from our human standpoint, he went into life's battle. What a practical nature and men tal equipment he must have had. Always enthusiastic, but never fanatical, ever resolute, but always prudent patient, yet full of fiery energy. other words, he had a genius foreign missionary work, and though some engaged in similar lines, but of smaller calibre, may refer to his methods as too theatrical, still all must admit the extremely and enduring character of his life's work. Unlike many of the missionaries in the east, he was beloved and highly respected by all foreigners, as well as natives, and to have impressed all the Europeans in the district, who probably differed from him wide ly in their religious ideas, of his transcendent worth, of his genuine piety and practicability of his scheme was, to say the least of it, quite unommon and astonishing.

He has fallen into the long sleep, as he wished, in his beloved Forme sa, "under the shade of its waving hamboo and in sound of its surf." But though time and nature have wrought on his iron constitution will cure any disease of the Stomach stition and vice or transforming these into rational faith and virtue.

NOVEL BET

One of the greatest bets this election was that between James Jenkins and Harry Jacques, on Pardo's election. Mr. Jenkins was confident that Mr. Fraser would be elected and he made a bet with Mr. Jacques, the loser to wheel the winner from the market square and back. The bet was in earnest, and each posted a five dollar forfeit. Harry won and James wheeled his man Friday night at 7.30 p. m. A large crowd of admiring friends cheered the introduction of the push

Rev. W. E. Knowles Warns Merchants and Shoppers Against Thoughtless Dishonesty.

An Able Sermon Based Upon the Eighth Commandment-A O F. at Church.

This is an unjust and dishonest thing and the person who practices it is undoubtedly breaking this eighth commandment. Then also there are men who buy things they never intend to pay for and take advantage of a merchant who gives his confidence. A man should keep his expenses within his income. You will often notice at Christmas time a lady will give a great dinner and will appear in a beautiful silk dress, while at the same time probably the dressmaker who made the dress is waiting for her just reward and having not got it is forced to eat a Christmas dinner of bread and water. Money is a sacred talent and when The service in the First Presbyerian church was well attended Sunday evening, the event being the annual church parade of the Ancient Order of Foresters.

About 100 members of the Order were present, besides the usual evening congregation, and the church was well filled. Before commencing his sermon Rev. Mr. Knowels spoke a few words of welcome to the visiting Order. "I have great pleasure," said he,

"in welcoming you at our evening service. I am heartily in favor of all societies which are founded on religious principles, and they should have the sympathy and support of all who do their duty to their fellow men. The aim of these societies is to relieve the pain and distress of this world. I understand that this Order stands high as an old established The greatest duty of any Order. man is to do church work. As this Order is undoubtedly founded on such great principles, it does only consistently when it goes to the church of God for the purpose of worship. I take great pleasure in welcoming you to our service." The preacher chose as the text for his evening's discourse the eighth commandment—"Thou Shalt Not

"You may think," said he, "that it entirely unnecessary to preach this subject as none of you would be so low as to stoop to stealing. However, it is much the reverse. There are many ways in which a man may steal, and thus break this command-

From' this he went on to point out that every man must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. "This principle applies alike to the tramp who lounges around on the street corner waiting for a drink, and also the man who lounges in his easy chair. A man who does not work should not eat, be he tramp all trades required for the erection of a new residence for Dr. W. W. Hay, Wallaceburg ,Ont. much as the man who steals money from the till. You often notice some goods marked extra or superior, the sole aim being to get rid of them. There are many "tricks of the trade which are nothing but pure robbery Chatham, Ont. The council met. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Oliver Brown was heard e proposed new road across the 11th and 12th cons. to Mitchell's Bay. An application was read from Andrew Birkly asking to open the 2nd con. road allowance from the Bear Line westerly to lot 18. Mr. Wright reported verbally on the Statute labor grievance of Henry Labadie, and on the grievance of Vanance Cartier re widening the 9th con road across part of lot 10 on south side, referred to him. The trustees and ratepayers of S. S. No. 2, appeared before the council in re-ference to the proposed alteration in the boundaries of said school sec-tion, and strongly objected to having any lands taken off the section as it is small enough. A bylaw was read and finally passed detaching the N. W. of S. E. & & and the N. E. cor. of N. W. ¼ lot 9 in the 7th con. 41% acres, from S. S. No. 9 and adding the same to S. S. No. 4.

It was decided to take no action towards making a grant of $800.00 as proposed by Oliver Brown to make the proposed new road from 11th con. road to Mitchell's Bay and to build a bridge over the Hind

AIRSHIP A DELUS J. Lord Kelvin Says Santos-Dumont's Flier

Lord Kelvin, the English scientist, has arrived in America, with Lady Kelvin, on the steamship Campania. His age, which is more than 80 years, seemed to weigh heavily on him, for he sank on to a bench, brought to him on the pier, at New York, with a sigh of relief, while waiting for his baggage to be inspected. All questions put to him he answered pleasantly, except when talk-ing about Santos-Dumont's airship, when a look of disgust and scorn appeared on his face. The airship on the plan of those built by Santos-Dumont, is a delu-sion and a snare," he said. "A gas balloon, paddled around with oars is an old idea, and can never be of any practical use. I have not seen or heard, so far, of any airship that could be used for conjmercial pur-

'Some day, no doubt, someone will invent a flying machine that one will be able to navigate without havng to have a balloon attachment. But the day is a long way off when we will see human beings sailing around like the birds." Lord Kelvin was very emphatic while talking of airships, and frequently waved his hands in the air, aying: "Useless! Useless!" When asked his opinion of wireless telegraphy, his face brightened and he said: 'Now, there is an invention that is of some commercial use. The workings of wireless telegraphy are marvelous. I spent hours in the Marconi room on the ship on the voyage, where the workings of this wonderful invention were demonstrated to me. I, myself, senf two messages to a relative in New York, by way of Nantucket, and received a reply from him, everything working without a hitch in the smoothest manner pos-sible. There is no limit to the scope of wireless telegraphy, you can rest assured that it has not been fully developed yet."

Why Are Sea Birds White?

In Longman's Magazine Mr. John Isabell, who asks this question, offers a refutation to the usual an namely, that the whiteness tends to make the birds invisible to their enemies. He argues that they have scarcely any dangerous enemies and that whiteness does not secure invisibility. "They are white," "because flesh-eating enemies powerful enough to weed out white gess are absent from the element which they frequent; secondly, cause whiteness, and especially white under-surface, facilitates their approach to the fishes which form heir food; thirdly, because the preferences of the sexes for each other taking the line of least resistance, has accentuated the tendency to whiteness; and, lastly, because white plumage forms, in combination with black markings, an excellent sig-nal by which friend can recognize sabouts of fo be quickly indicated." The third rea-son—that of natural selection -- goes without saying, but the fourth is remarkable, for its points to visibility rather than invisibility as a cause of whiteness. It is, of course, important that the presence of a shoal of fish should be signalled immediately

First Earl of Minte. Sir Gilbert Elliot, first Earl of Minto, was born, at Edinburgh April 23, 1751. He was educated privately and afterwards at Edinburgh and Oxford. In 1774 he was called to the bar, and two years lat-er he entered Parliament. From the beginning he occupied an independent sition, and in 1782 supported the address of the Commons against an offensive war with America. From this time he became a declared follower of Fox and Burke, with the latter of whom he gradually came to be on terms of great intimacy. He was created Baron Minto in 1797, and, after filling several diplomatic posts with great success, became in 1807 Governor-General of India. There he consolidated the conquests which Wellesley, one of his predecessors in the position, had acquired. The British East India Company had ordered him to follow a policy of non-intervention and he obeyed his orders without injuring the prestige of the British name. He was created Earl of Minto in 1813, and died in England in the following year.

He Paid for the Supper.

Three men had been out on a spree, and on the way home late at night they made a wager that the one who did not do as his wife told him should pay for a champagne supper the following night.

The first one returned home, and his wife greeted him thus:

"Hullo, you be uty! That's right, knock all the orraments off the man-

He knocked them all off. The second returned, and on going into his house fell against the piano whereupon his wife said : "Go on, get the chopper and smash it up !" He did so. The third returned, and, on going ipstairs, his wife said : "You miserable scamp, fall down stairs and break your neck!" Needless to say, he paid for the supper.—London Spare Moments.

He Was in Need of Pity,

Whether seventy-six is "summer heat" and a few degrees lower "temperate" depends largely on locality. But the two fixed facts that water freezes at 32 degrees above zero and that the temperature of the body is 98 6-10 exercise a controlling influence over many of the affairs of life. And, while the whole face of the instrument might be dotwith other interesting signs such as the boiling point of water prime essentials.

The freezing point of water is at the basis, of many industrial processes. It must be constantly watched. When freezing weather is threatened, the familiar suction pump is allowed to "run down," or the valves in unprotected water pipes are closed. In house building the mason goes below the point to which frost ever penetrates to get a good foundation. Most pipes also have to be laid below the frost line. Above it winter is continually disintegrating the earth as with millions of little charges of dynamite. Water, because it expands in freezing, tends to break up everything into the cre-vices of which it penetrates. "Below the frost line" has thus become in literature a recognized figure for se-

A ROMANTIC STORY.

trave Deed of Cecil Bhodes at Place of Peace-Work of Ancient Miners

One can easily appreciate the cirumstances which induced the dead Colossus to select for his resting place the solemn, peaceful grandeu of the Matoppo Hills. For it was there that the most tragic episodes of his life were enacted, and it was there also that in the dark days o the Matabele rebellion he saw mer willingly sacrifice them ves in the cause of Empire.

But of the many brave deeds performed by the men who took part in what has been described as "the race for the V.C." near the place whe he is buried, none surpassed the act of heroism by which Mr. Rhodes brought the war to an end. armed, he rode into the heart of the nemy's encampment, called a great Indaha, or conference of the chi spoke to them as a father might to his rebellious children, and did no leave until he had induced them to proclaim peace. The roc upon which Mr. Rhodes sat at this histor ic assembly is now a tranquil spet which he always loved, and is the place of his sepuichre-a tomb mo.

enduring than the Pyramids.
The Matoppo Hills stretch in north-easterly direction from Bulu-wayo for a distance of a hundred niles, their greatest breadth being forty-five miles. The place of burial is situated about thirty miles from the town. Near by is a part of the hills which bears the important title of "The World's View." The prospect from any chosen summit makes a deep impression on the spectator. It is impressive without being picturesque. As far as eye can see there is spread out before him a panorama of tree less mountains of varied shapes, mostly of abrupt outline, suggestive of a turbulent sea stilled by an om-nipotent hand. The base of the hills is fringed with trees, and here and there is a clump of thick bush. In places great gorges draw black lines between the mountains, which, moreover, are punctured with giant caves, where the Matabele took refuge during the rebellion, and could have held out for an indefinite period had not the genius and daring of Mr. Rhodes put an end to the out break. The predominant note is massiveness and stability, for the hills are of granite; but the hardness is toned down by the green of the lower foli-age and the soft, velvety azure of he sky above. It was the poet in Cecil Rhodes which impelled him to his choice. In places the traveler comes upon groups of ruins which in this out-ofthe world region strangely stir the imagination.

It is difficult to realize that these habitations were occupied by gold seekers so long ago as 1000 B C. When one thinks of Rhodesia it is invariably of the great possibilities which the future holds for the coun-But what of Rhodesia's past? Three thousand years ago men as gold-hungry as the "greenest" prospector of to-day scoured the Matoppos and the surrounding country for the precious metal. These crumbling ruins once contained the furraces for the retorting and smelting of the gold. In many quarters huge excatug far down into the bowels of the earth in search of the metal. eral of these mines are still the largest on the earth's surface. The galleries are caked with layers of not from the torches of the work-One historian estimates that the ancient miners discovered mil-

Several ritors have lately arisen to proaim Rhodesia as the veritable land f Ophir, "a land teeming with gold and precious stones." Hitherto Inof the ancients, but savants laim that in the light of recent disoverics India must renounce that listinction in favor of Rhodesia. One writer goes so far as to as sert that Job was a Rodesian, basng his enquiries on the words in the Book of Job: "Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place for the gold where they fine it." The historian attempts to identify the "place" as Zimbabye, where ancient ruins abound. The land now known as Rhodesia was, he asserts, in Job's days one of the few civilized countries in the world. For centuries afterward it was overrun by savages, and the man who is to rest in the land that bears his name did more than any other to reclaim it to civilization.

Buluwayo, where the coffin rested for some time, was until the year 1893 the royal kraal of King Lobengula. It is now a thriving town reminiscent at each step of the man to whom it owes existence. Rhodes street is the principal thoroughfare Government House, with a tree-lined avenue two miles long, was the property of the Colossus.

A few miles away, in the heart of great white the mountains, "the great white man," as the natives called him, will rest in peace. And round and about his tomb lies a monument the like of which has been raised to no other man, a monument measuring 750,-000 square miles—Rhodesia.

Regarding Men's Straw Hats

"It is not enough to run," says the French proverb" one must start in time.'

The saying is emphatically true for dealers in straw hats. One great reason why this store is so prominent in all kinds of hat selling is that we start in time. Just as soon as the styles are fixed,—our buyer makes a trip to New York, solely for the selection of straw goods. Here he meets the American manufacturers and the representatives of the best English makers, and thus every straw hat for these three stores is bought "on the ground floor.,, Not one in the great collection is marked above the prices asked in big city department stores.

Do you realize the advantage this way of buying brings to our customers? We have first selection of correct and gentlemanly goods at the fountain heads of style-no dependence on the whims or personal preferences of the wholesaler-and when the goods get here you pay us for them, in most cases, just about what we should pay a wholesale dealer if we bought that way.

You'll wonder at the values. We have surprisingly nice straws, both sailor and fedora shapes as low as 25c. From that point qualities run up to a real Porto Rican palm-Panama shape-a usual $5.00 hat, but marked $4.00.

Particulars later; meantime the hats themselves are all waiting for you.
