LIGHTS WERE OUT

An old time complaint comes from over North Chatham way. The citizens on the North side have not had their part of the city lighted for the past three nights, and they want to know the reason why they have to put up with such an inadequate street lighting service when they are helping to pay for the electric light service just the same as the residents on the South side.

Last night the streets over the river were particularly dark, and pedestrians had to find their way around rather by instinct than by sight. It seems peculiar that the citizens have to put up with this sort of annoyance every few weeks or so. No portion of a city the size of Chatham should be in darkness on a night like last, and the people are getting very tired of being handed out lame excuses about the rank service.

LINDSAY-DEGGE

The wedding took place on Thursday, at the home of the bride's parents, 8-1/2 Kirk street, of Miss Eva Degge, to James Anderson Lindsay, of White River, Algoma. Rev. J. W. Hodgins officiating. The wedding was of a quiet nature, only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay left on the 3:32 train for White River, where they will make their home. They have the best wishes of a host of Chatham friends.

BOTHWELL ITEMS

Bothwell, Aug. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. James Hillman, of Newburg, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. Thomas Hailer spent Sunday under the parental roof.

Mr. R. Fair, of London, was a Bothwell visitor on Saturday.

Miss Alma James, of St. Thomas, is the guest of the Misses Regan.

Mr. Barry, of Chatham, was a Bothwell visitor on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Harrington, of Detroit, spent Sunday here.

Mr. Frank McRae was a Thamesville visitor on Thursday.

LITTLE RAIN COMING

Rev. I. R. Hicks promises a varied program of weather for August. It is to be cool and cloudy until about the 7th, then warmer with storm and rain. There will be a new moon on the 9th, and possibly hot, threatening weather. Along about the 19th there is to be wind and thunder, and about the 23rd earthquakes and tropical storms are on the bill of fare. In contrast to the hot dishes on the menu for the first part of August, we are promised, by way of dessert, "more than a possibility of frosts in northern sections during the last week in August." He closes his monthly dispensation by repeating his belief that there will be a marked shortage in diffused rainfall over most grain-raising regions during the remainder of the summer. Scattering downpours, he says, will not meet general wants.

A PLEASANT OUTING

The party of tourists, composed of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Rutherford, Dr. R. W. Rutherford, Dr. Malcolm Holmes and their chauffeur, returned home last evening, after a very pleasant tour in the former's touring Oldsmobile.

They had a most pleasant journey and covered a distance of 500 miles without a break or hitch. The car ran smoothly and perfectly and returned in the same excellent condition as it left this city. From here the tourists went to London, thence to Woodstock, Brantford and Hamilton. After a short visit in Hamilton they left for Oakville, Toronto and Aurora, where they spent a couple of days with Dr. John R. Rutherford.

They returned over much the same route to London, and from London followed the Longwoods road to Wardsville, which has the reputation of being the best piece of road on the route. From there they proceeded to Highgate, returning home by Ridgeway and Blenheim.

During the entire trip they didn't encounter any rain or mud, although while in Woodstock over night they witnessed a terrific electrical storm. Speaking of the crops, they said they saw none that could in any way compare with those in Kent county.

The party feel much refreshed after their pleasant week of touring.

MR. JOHN W. WHITE WINS BIG RACE AT MT. CLEMENS

Big Champion From Ohio Doesn't Have The Ghost Of A Show In A Speedy Fat Man's Event—More For Chatham

From a Special Correspondent.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., August 2.—Perhaps the most talked of man in Mt. Clemens to-day is Barrister J. W. White, of Chatham, Ont., champion 200 pound sprinter of Western Canada, who raced the mighty Tom Bergen, of Columbus, champion sprinter of Ohio, this morning on Crocher avenue boulevard.

For some days the rival supporters of Bergen and White have been urging their favorites to run and after the preliminaries had been arranged the race was pulled off this morning over a 55 yard course, with the result that the Canadian champion finished a good five yards ahead of the famous Ohioan.

A crowd of two hundred people, among whom were several ladies, witnessed the race, and considerable money changed hands in the result.

Al. Spellman, of Cincinnati, Mr. White's trainer, had his man trained down to a hair-breadth, and the results of his work were clearly apparent in the rosy cheeks and eagle eye of the doughty Canuck.

The judges were Charles Parets, of Chicago, and W. J. Watts, of Columbus, while J. J. Jenkins, of Cornelia, Ohio, was the starter.

Mr. White looked charming in a becoming costume of white balbrigan, while Mr. Bergen wore grey trimmed with blue baby ribbon.

When Mr. White romped in a good winner tumultuous cheers rent the air, while beautiful women and brave men strove and fought to clasp the champion's hand.

At the conclusion of the race Mr. White was photographed in several poses, in which he demonstrated the most approved attitudes of a scientific sprinter. Mr. White attributes his success in this contest to the virtues of Red Raven Splitz.

Mr. Al. Spellman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. White's trainer and manager, challenges any 200 pound runner on the continent to run Mr. White 50 yards for $5,000 at any time or place, the proceeds to go to the home for retired bank presidents.

A FINE TWO STEP

The Planet is in receipt of a copy of "Trixie Dixie," the new two-step written by Mr. John R. Smith, Chatham's talented pianist. Mr. Smith is a well known Chathamite and his abilities on the piano are well known. His new composition shows that he has a future before him as an author of music. Musicians who have heard "Trixie Dixie" say it is one of the best two-steps of the day and it should prove the hit of the season. We predict a very extensive sale of this particular piece of music, and also look for a brilliant future for Mr. Smith as a composer.

CONTINUATION CLASSES

The Education Department has issued an important announcement in connection with the reorganization and consolidation of continuation classes in the rural schools.

The work will in future be divided into three classes, each of which will be financially recognized by the Department. The equipment must include library, scientific apparatus, maps, charts, globes, etc., and drawing models. Towards this equipment the Government will grant ten per cent.

Fixed grants of from $150 to $350 per annum will be made to these classes. A grant of $10 will be made when the teacher has the minimum qualifications, and $10 additional when the professional standing is higher.

The new regulations go in force at once and Mr. R. H. Cowly, Provincial Inspector of Continuation Classes, will tour the schools at the beginning of the coming term.

HEADS ARE SWELLING

London, Aug. 2.—That the British head is shrinking and British muscles are degenerating, as recently charged by certain scientists, was refuted by evidence introduced at meeting of the British Association of Leicester. Records for the last twenty years at Marlborough College show that the 14-year-old boys there average five pounds heavier and nearly an inch taller than those of 1885.

A hatter who furnished hats for six schools vouches that hats of 21-1/2 inches circumference formerly were entirely demanded, while now hats 22-1/2 inches in circumference are needed continuously.

Sir Victor Hanesley proposed a motion at the meeting urging the Government to institute in connection with the medical inspection of school children a system of measurement.

MODEL TERM THE LAST

Only five or possibly six of the existing Model schools will be in operation in Ontario next year. The Government asked J. J. Tilley, Provincial Inspector of Model schools, to institute a careful investigation and furnish the Education Department with a list of the Model schools it was necessary or advisable to temporarily retain after the opening of the seven Provincial Normal schools in September, 1908. This Mr. Tilley has done. His report, which is now undergoing preparation, will recommend the retention of the Model schools at Kentville, Sault Ste. Marie and one in the St. Lawrence district.

Awoman hates to feel that she is getting old enough to lie about her age.

It takes a pretty big navy now-a-days for a nation to paddle its own canoe.

DIED SUDDENLY

Blenheim, August 2.—Death came with startling suddenness to Julius Hardy last night. He had been in perfect health right up to the time of his death and had been about town all day. He was a son of Colin Hardy, of Morpeth, who is 95 years of age, and is survived by a widow and three children, Lorne, of Blenheim; Otis E., of Ridgeway, and Mrs. D. J. Penno, of Trinidad, Col. Five brothers and three sisters are also living.

The deceased was born near Morpeth and lived there all his life until last fall, since which time he has resided in town with his son, Lorne.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon to Morpeth cemetery.

DAUGHTER WAS TOO UGLY

Vienna, Aug. 3.—A Hungarian peasant at Neusandee, charged with murdering his 18-year-old daughter, admitted the crime, but pleaded that she was so ugly that he had no chance of getting her married. The jury decided that this plea established extenuating circumstances and brought in a verdict of manslaughter.

The court accepted this and sentenced the prisoner to three years' imprisonment.

HALF YEARLY SALE

People who are looking for real bargains in gent's furnishings will be interested in the regular half-yearly sale of suits, etc., which is being conducted at present by The Two T's. It starts to-day. Any suit in the store will be sold for $1.00, and many of them sell regularly for as high as $25. This firm has a standing rule that everything they purchase one year must be sold that year, and hence the half-yearly sale. Bargains are also offered in straw hats, underwear, light felt hats, etc. There is no need to eulogize this sale for the firm is a reliable one, and what they say always goes.

OBJECTS TO REPORT

A local respected colored man who claims that a recent article regarding wife-beating referred to him, has asked The Planet to set him right in the eyes of those who believe that he was the man of whom mention was made. This journal is always anxious to what is fair and right by all parties, and a reporter yesterday afternoon called on the colored gentleman in question to ascertain wherein he thought he was wronged. He made the following statement:

"The statement that I tried to throw my wife out of the window; the reference to wife-beating being a common occurrence in my house, and that neighbors have had to ask me to desist from it are malicious falsehoods, concocted and given to The Planet by someone who wished to do me a wrong."

"There were no names mentioned in the article," said the reporter. "What leads you to believe that you were the person to whom the item referred to?"

"We had some trouble at our house on Saturday," the other replied, "and everyone around knows that it was at my house the trouble occurred. Whoever gave you the item might as well have given you my name. Why any person should give in such information is a mystery to me. I was surprised to read in the Great Home Journal, which has always been my home paper, and I cannot think that The Planet took quite enough pains to investigate the matter or they would never have published it!"

NEW PASTOR WELCOMED

Wallaceburg, Aug. 2.—The induction of the Rev. Marjory Tait into the pastorate of Knox Church took place last evening. Rev. N. Lindsay, B. A., of Dresden, presided over the meeting. Rev. J. Ross, of Rutherford, preached the sermon, while the Rev. Dr. Battisby addressed the minister and congregation. The choir rendered a beautiful anthem, "The Lord is My Shepherd," in good style. At the close of the induction, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Tait were introduced to the congregation by Dr. Battisby, after which an adjournment was made to the basement of the church, where refreshments were served in abundance. The basement was tastefully decorated with flowers and flags, and presented a very brilliant appearance.

It is reported that two men tried to enter the residence of Charles Sauvey, of the firm of Snively & Sauvey, on Wednesday evening last, by placing a ladder against a window. Their efforts were frustrated, however, as Miss Sauvey gave an alarm, and by the time of the appearance of Mr. Lindsay, of the firm of Rutten and Lindsay, the would-be night marauders had decamped.

A Visit To Ocean Grove

Mr. W. E. McKeough Contributes an Excellent Article on a Pleasant two Weeks' Holiday At The Seaside

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McKeough and two sons, Grant and Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Gardiner returned this week from a very pleasant and beneficial two weeks' holiday visit at Ocean Grove. At the earnest solicitation of The Planet, Mr. McKeough has consented to provide the readers of the Great Home Journal with a short account of his trip. Mr. McKeough, who is one of the city's most extensive, observant and intelligent travellers, possesses the happy faculty of describing his experiences in a most graceful, entertaining and instructive manner, and the following will therefore be of great interest to everyone, and especially to those who have been fortunate enough to read former productions of his gifted pen:

The dark blue ocean has great attractions for those who live hundreds of miles away from the ceaseless noise of its waves upon its shore, and this year our boys thought that the sea breezes and some swimming on its briny billows, with a peep at New York City, would bring back strength to their limbs that serious illnesses had caused to dwindle during the months of spring, so, in company with Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Gardiner, we spent a pleasant holiday of two weeks at the Seaside Hotel, Ocean Grove, overlooking the sea and in front of the famous board walk which extends for miles along the ocean's side.

From the Atlantic Highlands to Sea Girt on the New Jersey coast, a distance of some fifty miles, thousands of wealthy New Yorkers have their summer homes, and I doubt if there is another section in the world with so many beautiful mansions and delightful gardens with wide spreading lawns and graceful driveways. The Daniel O'Day, the McColl and the Guggenheims estates are justly famous, as one can hardly conceive anything more exquisite and elegant. Besides the private homes there are many fine hotels along the coast at Seabright, Long Branch, Elberon, Allenhurst, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Spring Lake and Sea Girt.

The bathing at Ocean Grove is probably as fine as any on the Atlantic coast, and the bathing pavilion is the favorite resort of thousands each morning. During the bathing hours a number of seamen on shore and in boats continually watch the bathers, and frequently plunge in to rescue some one who has been overcome by the breakers or undertow. The freshening sea caused the breakers sometimes to be a terror to our boys, but, like Byron, it was a pleasing fear to them and a delight, after getting beyond them, to be borne on the breast of the waves "like bubbles onward."

There are no mosquitoes in this favored resort, although the temperature is warmer than in Chatham and the private hedges grow most luxuriantly and paradisaical cedars and rododendrons grow wild about sea girt. The ocean driveway passes by these resorts and it is probably the finest course for automobiles in America. All the driveways about here are of fine yellow gravel made perfectly smooth and well watered.

and one sees here the ubiquitous Ford runabout as well as the French and other foreign cars of all kinds and dimensions. The Pierce of Buffalo, and the Packard of Detroit, are among the finest cars made and are great favorites of the New York millionaires. Our own "Chatham" car greatly resembles the beautiful Packard and would hold its own among the great of the earth on the ocean driveway of New Jersey. The auditorium at Ocean Grove is the second largest hall in the world—that is Salt Lake City being the largest—with seating capacity for 10,500, and here is heard during the season some of the foremost divines in the land. Besides the religious services, popular entertainments during the week are given. We had the pleasure of hearing the great American songstress, Madam Emma Eames, sing to a packed house, which realized the association, after paying all expenses, $8,000. We also heard on another occasion the Washington Marine Band play. At Asbury Park we met our old fellow townsman and ex-councillor, James Whelan, who is engaged with the Collier Book Company, who carries his years jauntily, and who wished to be remembered to all his old Chatham friends. He enquired particularly about the proprietor of The Planet. A visit of two days to New York was necessary to show the boys some of the sights of the metropolis. An afternoon was spent at Coney Island, where the attractions of Dreamland and Luna Park engaged our attention pleasantly. Here the boys revived their memories of the pike at the St. Louis fair and patronized the air ships, chutes, trips to Italy, the Alps, etc. A morning was profitably spent in visiting the Zoo at Bronx Park, which the Americans claim excels the London Zoological Gardens. The birds, serpents, lions, tigers, primates (monkeys) are certainly very fine and worth a trip to New York to see. A motor tour of Upper New York of a few hours showed us the principal churches, hotels, monuments and residences in the city. Grant's monument on the Riverside drive came in for our inspection. Built after the plan of Les Invalides in Paris, where the remains of the great Napoleon lie, Grant's last resting place, although less beautiful, is a novel monument to one of the greatest of American heroes. In the Hudson, opposite the Riverside driveway, five large U. S. warships were at anchor.

New York is great for laying the greatest things in the world. At probably the greatest store in the world, John Wanamaker's, is in the world, on which recitals are given every afternoon by an old Chatham boy, Arthur Depew. As usual, Chatham is always in the front ranks. On our homeward journey nearing Chatham the beautiful farming-country at once appealed to us, and Mr. Gardiner remarked that Kent was "truly the garden of Canada—that means the world—and on reaching our own little city our breasts filled with pride at the smart trim homes, well-paved streets, neat boulevards, and up-to-date appearance of the Maple City, which, for size, compares favorably with any city in this wide universe, and which we are proud to call our home.

Calamity is virtue's opportunity.

DOMINION OFFICIALS LAX

Provincial Government Is Not to Blame For Emigration Trouble

Matter Has Been Referred To Ottawa Where It Belongs

At their last meeting, the City Council, as a result of the articles on immigrants recently published in The Planet, instructed Ald. Austin to write to the Department of Immigration, Toronto, in reference to the matter to see where the trouble lies. The reply received shows clearly that the trouble is with the Dominion Government and not with the Provincial authorities.

The following is a copy of Ald. Austin's letter to Toronto:

To the Chief Officer of the Department of Immigration, Toronto, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with a resolution of the City Council I have been instructed to bring to your attention several matters with respect to a class of immigrants that have lately been sent to our city. I understand, from press reports and other information, that the Ontario Department of Immigration has recently been sending a considerable number of English immigrants forward to Chatham, without having first taken any steps to see that there was a demand for this class of people here. These men, in many cases, have large families and arrive in the city with very little money and cannot be considered in any sense an acquisition to our population. The men have no knowledge whatever of farm work, and in many cases positively decline to go out on the farms, and this we may say is the only class of immigrants that are required here.

We understand from the immigration officer here that he can place still further number of farm laborers, but there is practically no demand for laboring men in the city, and the City Council is apprehensive that with the coming of cold weather we shall have a large number of destitute cases to deal with, and we have no desire to further burden the city in this respect.

We trust that for the future you will see that only such men as are adapted for farm work and are willing to undertake such will be sent to this district for distribution.

I have the honor to be,

Yours sincerely,

CHARLES AUSTIN,

Chairman of Finance.

Following is a copy of the letter which Ald. Austin received back from Thomas Southworth, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, Aug. 1st, 1907.

Dear Sir,—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of 31st July, in which you convey to us the fact that the City Council have passed a resolution instructing you to advise us concerning a large number of English immigrants supposed to have been sent to Chatham by this Department, and who, as they are qualified for farm work, are without employment.

I had previously seen the report in the newspapers regarding the state of affairs there, and had sent a special agent to Chatham to investigate, and to ascertain who was responsible for sending these people to Chatham, as I was aware that the Provincial Authorities had not done so.

From such information as I had, believe that these immigrants were sent to Chatham at the direct request of the Dominion Employment Agent who applied to the Canadian representative of the East End Immigration Society, in Montreal, and upon the application of the Dominion Employment Agent to Mr. Marquette, the agent of the English Emigration Society, these men and families were forwarded to Chatham.

Our officer at the Immigration Office at Toronto states that these families went through here ticketed to Chatham, and with letters of introduction to Mr. Waugh, who, I believe, is the Dominion Employment agent.

You will, therefore, observe that these men were not sent to Chatham through this Department, and had they been we would undertake to see that the municipality was at no expense for maintaining them, for when we find there is no work available for men of this description, it is the practice of the Department to see that they are transferred to some point where suitable employment can be obtained, of expect to have a full report of the case from our special representative, and will advise you further in the matter.

Yours truly,

THOS. SOUTHWORTH,

Director of Colonization.

Charles Austin, Esq., Alderman, Chatham, Ont.

A King Unseated.

Paris, Aug. 2.—It is officially announced that by the direction of the French Government the French resident of Annam has interned Thak-hin, King of Annam, in his palace at Hue, and established a regency consisting of the Council of Ministers, under the presidency of the Minister of Justice.

The mental condition of the King has been steadily growing worse since last spring.

Judge's Pocket Picked.

THE ENGLISH IMMIGRANTS.

It is a matter of considerable satisfaction and pleasure to The Planet to realize that the strong protest entered by this Great Home Journal against the manner in which English immigrants have been treated upon their arrival in the Maple City, will to all present appearances bring about an improvement in the present mode of treating these strangers within our gates.

A short time ago, it was incorrectly announced that the Ontario Emigration Department was responsible for the bringing of these Englishmen to Chatham. Later developments and recent reports published, however, completely disprove this statement, and the investigation instituted by Ald. Austin, an account of which appears in this issue, shows clearly that it is the Dominion authorities who are entirely to blame. It is hoped that the publicity given to the present loose methods of the Dominion officials will have the result of compelling them to devote more care to the performance of their duties.

The marked contrast between the methods of the two governments in their management of this emigration question is plainly evident. In Toronto every care is taken to see that a desirable class is brought out and properly taken care of when they arrive, while in the case of the Dominion authorities it has been shown that no such precautions exist, or if any attempt is made along this line it is very slovenly managed. The complaint has been referred to Ottawa, and it is hoped that this action will cause a little stirring up among Dominion officials, who evidently are at present either negligent or incompetent.

MARS.

Mars is now a conspicuous object in the eastern sky about nine o'clock, and as it is some millions of miles nearer to the earth than commonly, many telescopes are trained upon it. Even with a field glass, the astronomical authority of the Brooklyn Eagle reports that it presents the aspect of a circular disk, while the big tubes at the observatories reveal to those who look through them many of the geographical conditions that have so long piqued mundane curiosity, and that include so many of the features of our own globe—the continents, the seas, the icy poles and the belts and patches of vegetation.

Especially will be given by observers who are favored with powerful telescopes and clear air, such as those at Flagstaff, Arizona, and those in the Andes, to the so-called canals of Mars, first mapped by Schiaparelli, and even yet denied by some astronomers, who declare them to be freaks of the imagination. That the photograph has copied some of these lines—no easy task considering the distance through which the light must pass—should place the matter beyond debate, even if it were not easy to accept the findings of the scientists who have proclaimed their existence.

Some ascribe these appearances to natural phenomena; to a cracking of the surface of the planet, such as we see, apparently, in the moon, where even broader lines radiate from the volcanoes. But Mars is not a burned out cinder, like the moon, and its shrinking is not yet so rapid as to induce visible surface changes. We have nothing like them on the earth, unless, by a wrench of the imagination, the Mississippi and Amazon can be so regarded. Yet it is not to be supposed that, in its geology Mars differs radically from the earth. It contains no minerals nor chemical elements that are not present in our soil, nor does any other celestial body. It is lighted by the same sun as ourselves; it has its days and seasons; its nights are illuminated by its moon; it has its clouds and snows—why should it not have its organic life?

It may be, hints the Eagle, that Mars has developed a race of beings as far beyond the race of men in strength, stature, wisdom and command over the forces of nature as men believe themselves to be beyond quadrupeds. It may be that the canals now visible on the surface of the ruddy planet are the creations of this race. It may be that they were made for irrigation and carry the waters of the oceans for thousands of miles across lands otherwise desert, or it may be that they merely facilitate trade, or it may be that they are helpful in creating rainfall, or they may be the boundaries of arbitrary political or social or racial divisions. They may be runways for forms of marine life. They may afford water power for industries of a vastness incomprehensible to us. Who knows if they may not have been created for beauty and salubrity, and that their shores may not be lined with palaces that would make the Chicago and St. Louis fair buildings trivial in comparison!

Mars is so immensely far from us, as we reckon distances, that we shall never know much of its life. Its people may know far more of us than we can know of them. They may have been signalling to us for centuries, as it has been proposed to signal to them with aggregations of searchlights of enormous power. But while we must remain forever ignorant of much that pertains to the planet, its present contiguity may be the means of revealing more of its geography than has been learned by the predecessors of the scientists who are now observing it. It may be that a consensus of their opinion will attribute to its canals an origin of a race peculiar to the planet, and such a view should humble the conceit of those of our own species who hold to a geocentric universe and a human supremacy.

AIMS AT GERMANY.

Great Britain Said to Be Showing Antagonistic Attitude.

The Hague, Aug. 2.—The American and British delegations are exchanging views on their respective projected propositions relating to periodical meetings of the conference, and they may agree to combine the two propositions.

The general attitude of Great Britain, which in all the propositions regarding naval warfare, particularly seemed only preoccupied in protecting herself against Germany, is causing many comments. On the question of contraband Great Britain, therefore, found herself supported only by small countries. Germany and the United States again were in line against Great Britain on this subject, strengthening the belief that their co-operation in the conference may lead to more important matters outside the conference.

Famous Novelist Dead.

London, Aug. 2.—David Christie Murray, the novelist, died here yesterday.

He was born in April, 1847, in Staffordshire. He began his career in journalism as a reporter on The Birmingham Daily News. Coming to London in 1873, he served on The Daily News and The World and was correspondent of The Times in the Russo-Turkish war. He then began to travel and in 1889-90 lectured in Australia and in 1894-5 in Canada and the United States. "In 1890 he published his first novel, 'A Life's Achievement,' and his publications thereafter were many, many being in collaboration with Henry Herman. His recreation was landscape painting.

Boy of 15 Suicides.

Cobourg, Aug. 2.—John Jones, an immigrant boy, who was living with John Bright near Burnley, Northumberland County, took his own life with Paris green. Coroner withdrew the warrant.

The boy was about 15 years of age, and had been in the employ of Mr. Bright for about a year.

Two Hours Ahead.

Rimouski Wharf, Que., Aug. 2.—The Empress of Ireland, arrived here at 9:40 a.m., making the voyage from Liverpool to this port in the record time of five days and 16 hours, eclipsing the run of her sister ship, the Empress of Britain, of two weeks ago, by exactly two hours.

ALL WEAK WOMEN

Will Find New Health and Strength in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The weak woman can depend upon it that her blood is out of order, for if her blood is rich and pure she will be strong, healthy and happy. Bad blood is the cause of nearly all the aches and pains from which women suffer. Keep the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and suffering will not exist. Mrs. James R. Kratz, of Jordan Station, Ont., has tested the value of these Pills and strongly advises other women to use them. She says: "For more than a year I was a great sufferer from weakness. I was completely worn out. I lost sleep, could not rest at night, and in the morning I arose more tired than on going to bed. I had taken doctors' treatment with no benefit. I grew worse day by day and was beginning to look upon my case as hopeless when I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To my great joy, before I had taken the pills a month they began to help and by the time I had taken eight boxes every symptom of my trouble had left me and I was once more enjoying perfect health and strength. I look upon Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a veritable life saver and never lose a chance to recommend them to my friends."

The success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is due to their power to make new, rich red blood. This new blood strengthens the nerves and gives nourishment to all the organs of the body, thus curing anaemia, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous debility, headache and backache, and all the secret ailments of girlhood and womanhood. The Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had direct at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FROM PLANET FILES OF HALF A CENTURY AGO

A prize fight, which occurred on "Bloody Island," opposite St. Louis, on Sunday, between Dennis Reardon and Thomas McCann, aged respectively eighteen and seventeen years, resulted in the death of the latter. Reardon and six other persons who were present, have been arrested and held to await the action of the coroner.

In Scotland a farmer recovered $600 damages from a seedsman for selling a different kind of turnip seed than was ordered, for the crop perished in an early frost.

On Friday last a most singular and nearly fatal accident occurred in the Township of Raleigh, concession 10, lot 22. It seems that Messrs. B. Evans, John Early, and A. McCready and son, were engaged in sinking a well, and having reached a depth of 115 feet Mr. McCready took a light near the mouth of it for the purpose of finding a lost auger. Instantly the gas from the well ignited with a loud report and burned Mr. McCready, also his son, who was nearby, in a most frightful manner. The lad was knocked completely senseless, besides having his head and face badly scorched. Mr. McCready's hands, face and head were very seriously injured, and his hair completely burned off. Father and son are both doing well, however, under their painful injuries. From this it is manifest that all the gas is not to be found above ground.

A small sum of money was burned and the family was left homeless, almost naked, and without food, which was indeed no pleasant prospect in a severe season.

An accident of a serious nature occurred about three miles east of this station to a freight train going west on the G. W. R., by which twelve cars were completely smashed up. It was caused by a broken rail, supposed to have been done by an express train that had passed the spot a few hours previously.

He was taken to Dr. Bray, who speedily sewed up the fearful gash, and nature will do the rest of healing. Had the stroke been in a more vital part, Wood would have been killed on the spot. He will bear the mark for life.

How to Learn Swimming Unaided in One Lesson

1. Observe the motions of a swimming frog.
2. Find a beach or pool with level bottom. No "step-offs" or holes. Lean forward. Take a long breath. Let your head sink into the water as far as it will. Allow the arms and legs to assume their own positions. Then reach forward with the arms and bring up the legs, as you have seen the frog do.
3. Bring the arms back with an outward circular motion, kicking the legs back and in at the same time.
4. At first you may not get your head out of water. Never mind that. Swim as long and as far as you conveniently can under water. You will not be very far under. Your poll and your hips will probably be above water, but your mouth and nose under.
5. Try and try again and keep swimming with your face under as long as you can endure it without pain or inconvenience.
6. Directly you will find that, as the arms start to come back, they will elevate the head out of water, so that the mouth is clear. Then take a good, deep breath.
7. As the arms go back the head will sink again. Let it sink. That is the way to swim.
8. As the head sinks bring the arms forward again and also the legs. Go through the same motion as before.
9. Remember, each time the arms come back in the stroke the head goes up. Let the mouth just clear the water far enough and long enough to take a full breath of air.
10. That is the way the great swimmers swim. They do not try to keep their mouths above water. They bring the mouth just far enough above water to take a breath. That is all. When fooling along and talking they keep only the nose above water.
11. What handicaps most beginners is the desire to keep the head too far out of water. Champions could not do what beginners try to do.
12. After you have learned to keep afloat and swim a bit you can learn the different strokes and the proper way to apply them from some efficient instructor.

MY DOG AND I.

When living seems but little worth
And all things go awry,
I close this door, we journey forth—
My dog and I.

Our books and pens we leave behind,
But little careth he,
His one great joy in life is just
To be with me.

He notes by just one upward glance
My mental attitude,
As on we go past laughing stream
And singing wood.

The soft winds have a magic touch
That brings to care release,
The trees are vocal with delight,
The rivers sing of peace.

How good it is to be alive!
Nature, the healer strong,
Has set each pulse with life athrill
And joy and song.

Discouragement? 'Twas but a name,
And all things that annoy,
Out in the lovely world of June
Life a-smell, only joy!

And ere we reach the busy town,
Like birds my troubles fly,
We are two comrades glad of heart—
My dog and I.

Some men's littleness is by far the biggest part of them.

Love your own neighbor and respect his honest belief.

And round the world away;
Young blood must have its course,
And,

And every dog his day.

When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown;
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down;

Creep home and take your place there,
I'm going to be a retired mer-
God grant you find one face there

THE RIDE FOR THE MASSES.

The auto is my trolley car,
It nicely fits my pile.
My chauffeur is the motorman
Who takes me round in style.
I hand my nickel to the man
Who comes to take the fare,
And off we whiz for miles and miles
Without a thought of care.

Sometimes he hurries me along
Down through the busy street
Where all is bustle, life and stir
And hurrying of feet.

At other times our path is where
The country stretches wide,
Where fields of grain and pasture lands
Lie far on either side.

We never with a sudden stop
Lie dead along the way
And have to patch a punctured tire
And think of things to say.

We never have to crawl below
An acting up machine,
Nor worry over our supply
Of precious gasoline.

Of course I do not occupy
All by myself a car,
For others come and others go—
There is no social bar.

And that's the beauty of the thing.
The ride to all is free
Who have the very modest price
And want to go with me.

Wouldn't Have Taken Chances.

Passing Them Around.
In some parts of France there is a bonus for babies—that is, the family that has a certain number gets out of paying certain taxes on the theory that they are otherwise contributing to the state.

If in France, as in all other places, it is considered an act of virtue to beat the tax collector, we may expect schemes to rent out orphan asylums to the common people just before the assessor comes around.

The man with a large family might do quite a thriving business by slipping his children around the back way to a neighbor just after the assessor had called and enumerated them.

If we hear that all of a sudden there has grown up a surprising number of large families in France we need not wonder, but there will be no law against our looking wise.

Summer Savory.
There's a haze upon the hills—
There's a warmth that stirs the minds;
Loosely laid the whippoorwill
In the distant forest lands.

Chirp the crickets in the hedge,
Stir the birdlings in the nest;
Softly curls the storm cloud's edge,
Dyed to crimson in the west.

Sway the clover's tossing heads
In the stretching, wind-swept field—
Billows vast of greens and reds
That to busy workers yield.

Insect, bird and field and wood,
Water, sand and loving sky,
Softly murmur "God is good,"
Softly whisper "Sweet July."

An Insinuation.
"What time is it by your watch?"
"Just 8 o'clock."
"H'm. What do you guess is the right time?"

TRAGEDY IN NORTH WEST

Savage Tribal Custom Causes Murder Of A Squaw

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Joseph and Jack Fidler, the chief and medicine man of the Sandy Lake Cree, are under arrest at Norway House, about 200 miles from Kenora. They will be tried for the murder of a squaw.

It is a case of a savage tribal custom. The woman became ill last spring and grew delirious. These Indians hold that when a person dies delirious an evil spirit, one Wendigo, escapes from the body to the weeds, frightens away the game, and a famine ensues. The band, according to custom appointed their chief and medicine man to drive the sick squaw, so that the spirit might not escape with the breath, but remain secure in the dead body.

Before the whole band the chief and the medicine man did the deed. A rope about the squaw's neck was tightened by the two chiefs of the band until the ravings of the woman were stopped and the evil spirit was imprisoned and the game preserved.

The Fidlers asked the officials not to be too severe with them, as they had no idea that they were doing wrong. They were merely doing their duty by the band and followed the custom of their fathers. The execution of this duty was a high honor, and, according to custom, the executioners were handsomely fed by the parents of the victim.

The authorities here are trying to decide whether it will be easier to send a judge to Norway House to try the case, or have the prisoners and witnesses sent to Edmonton for trial.

HEADLESS BODY FOUND.

Ghastly End of Unknown Young Man Being Investigated.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 2.—The body of an unknown man was found in the bush, 20 miles north of Blind River on the Tote road, near Eddy's lumber camp.

Every indication points to foul play, as the head was missing, and it is said the pockets of the cloth worn by the man were turned inside out. The body was later discovered buried near by, but owing to the fact that the body had lain in the bush for considerable time identification is rendered impossible. The hands are also missing, and have not been found.

The body was found by a lumberman while passing through the bush. The coroner and Provincial Constable Graham of Blind River, acting under instructions from Crown Attorney McPadden, have gone to make a thorough investigation.

The body was that of a young man of small size, wearing a dark suit and tan shoes.

Mrs. W. Shewell, a young married woman of Blind River, was assaulted in her home there by an unknown man in the absence of her husband. Wednesday night. The man broke into the house, and intimidated the woman by firing a revolver, the bullet from which entered the pillow of the bed. Her husband is foreman in a camp at Blind River.

MAD WOMAN FIRES BARN.

Set Flames Also to the House and Welland Farmer Suffers Loss.

Welland, Aug. 2.—Andrew Hoover, whose farm adjoins the Town of Welland, has suffered the loss of his large barn and the season's hay crop, amounting to about fifty tons.

It is thought that the fire was started by his daughter Margaret, a woman of 34 years, who is demented.

The men were all in the fields at the time, about 3.30 in the afternoon, and by the time they reached the barn it was impossible to save anything. The contents included a quantity of grain and a bull and all were lost.

While the fire was in progress Miss Hoover attempted also to set fire to the house. The demented woman was placed in custody and will probably be removed to an asylum next week.

Korean Troops Disbanded.

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 2.—At 10 o'clock Wednesday night Japanese troops surrounded the Korean barracks, after an imperial proclamation had been issued, disbanding the Korean army, composed of 7,000 men. Several hundred Koreans gathered at the great bell during a thunderstorm and were dispersed by a company of Japanese soldiers. The outposts from the Korean army barracks are guarded by machine guns. Two thousand of the Seoul garrison were disbanded yesterday.

The proclamation disbanding the troops says that the disbanded soldiers will be granted one year's pay. The Emperor's bodyguard will not be disbanded.

Passengers Were Robbed.

Brockville, Aug. 2.—Two members of the crew of the steamer "Baptist" were arrested and remanded here yesterday morning on charges of stealing grips from Mrs. Haslie and Miss Griffith, Toronto, from the steamer "Prescott."

Dies in Swimming Pool.

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—Edmund R. Watson, president of the National Bank, and treasurer of the Henry Hess Brewing Co., of this city, was found dead in the swimming pool of the Columbia Club yesterday.

Drowns in Cistern.

London, Ont., Aug. 2.—Miss Campbell, a young woman residing on the Durham road, about eight miles from here, fell into a cistern Wednesday night and was drowned.

POLICE REBEL.

Soldiers Summoned to Belfast to Awe Constabulary.

Belfast, Aug. 2.—Constable Barrett, a leader of the disaffection among the police, has been dismissed and five other constables who have taken a prominent part in the agitation have been suspended.

At Dublin yesterday the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Aberdeen, replying to a petition from members of the Belfast constabulary, declared that it was impossible for the Government to entertain a petition presented under such circumstances, and the last paragraph of which was threatening in character.

Troops continue to pour into the city, emphasizing that the authorities are fully determined to grapple promptly with rioting by the striking dock laborers, or the mutinous police, who are demanding more pay because of the extra work the strike entails.

The fourth battalion of the Middlesex Regiment, bringing a Maxim gun, and a section of the Essex Regiment, arrived yesterday, making the military strength about 7,000 men.

This imposing display of force is producing a reassuring effect on the general public, which early in the trouble was somewhat panic-stricken. The police have issued a manifesto declaring their intention to ignore the inspector-general and communicate directly with Mr. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland.

Constabulary Mutiny.
London, Aug. 2.—Defending the action of the Government in withdrawing 7,000 troops into Belfast for strike duty, Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell declared in the House of Commons yesterday that the mutinous action of a portion of the constabulary and the continuation of the strike necessitated decisive measures.

Mr. Birrell added there was good reason to believe that the strike would soon end.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Dr. J. C. Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting the system in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

In A Letter To The Planet He Says That The Voyage Was Very Rough — Thirteenth Trip For The Empress

Ripon, 2 Gladstone Terrace, England.
Editor Planet:
I can report myself safely landed at Liverpool and we had a very rough voyage. We sailed from Quebec in a drenching rain two hours late. The steamship Tunisian of the Allen Line pulled out two hours ahead of us. Everything went fairly well till we were nearing Rimouski, then a thick fog set in and we had a stop of six hours and a half waiting for the mail boat, and the fog horn at Rimouski continually blowing. We took on the mail and a few passengers, and creeping along for two hours, the fog lifted and we had a beautiful sail down the St. Lawrence and through the Straits of Belle Isle. We encountered a lot of icebergs on Sunday afternoon. It got very cold, and our face and hands got quite cold. We counted fourteen icebergs, some of them close and others, with the glasses we could see had run into shallow water near shore. It was quite a novel sight and we appreciated it very much that we had clear weather, because if the Empress had ever butted her nose against one of them it would have all been off. Now to give you the size. Take the Garner House Block, Harrison Hall, included, the width of the whole block and twice as long and as high out of the water as the flag pole on Harrison Hall then you can form an idea what we were looking at, and the look that night reported that we had passed thirty-two icebergs during the night. Before we entered the Belle Isle Straits the Victorian of the Allan Line passed us and reported that she was delayed a day somewhere in the Straits. We were nearing the last of the land on the Labrador coast and Belle Isle about seven o'clock on Sunday night when we sighted the Tunisian, and when darkness closed we parted company when we got out in the Atlantic. There was a big job ahead of us. A gale of wind started to blow on our beam and by morning we had a big sea on, and getting worse, and by noon only half of the second cabin reported for dinner, and they got less for tea. They have some brackets they put on the table in rough weather to keep the dishes on, and I was beginning to think we were going to have something extra. I could not say that I enjoyed my tea. I had a little trouble to find my appetite, but, however, I was laid up for repairs, and getting worse. I had it for about two hours very tough. If I could only get laid down once I thought it would be better. Mine was an upper berth, and the other fellow was already fixed in the bottom one and another poor fellow said he was sorry that he had come. Finally I landed in my berth. We put in a rough night, and I want to say right here that some people have an idea that the big fellows are so big that you cannot get sick on them. Well, if they get in a storm with the speed they are going, there's something doing. In the morning there were several tables without any person, and the waiters had nothing to do—all sick. I cannot say too much about the appointments of the ship. The waiters and the stewards are the best I ever had to deal with. The second cabin is fit for a king, and the meals are the standard of any first class hotel. There were thirty-two tables, and a waiter for each table, ten persons at a table. There were two sittings, as they cannot seat them all at once. Your number is on the chair, and you sit in no other place. They print the bill of fare for each meal. Last Tuesday morning we came in touch with the Empress of Britain by wireless 200 miles to the south of us. The passengers are provided with a list of all passengers in the cabin, but they made a mistake in mine. They gave my home Toronto. This trip was a very bad one and the only way that some of the passengers accounted for it was that it was the Empress' thirteenth voyage landed in sight of Liverpool we forgot all about our troubles and finished up in the customs, and that's a whirlwind of a place. I tell you it's everyone for yourself and getting through the best you can after passing the customs. I went to book my passage back on the Empress of Britain on Sept 6th, but I am sorry to say that every berth was taken, and the man said it was impossible to book me, but he said I could sail on Sept. 20th I am in good health, and the train that took me home seemed to be making double time to land me to my destination.
Yours truly,
TOM GROVES.

Bird's Bull's-Eye Belting

IS ON THE MARKET TO STAY

It is bound to supercede both leather and rubber belting, because it is cheaper and more durable.

It is not affected by dampness. It will not stretch. It is no experiment. It has been well tried and satisfactorily in Chatham by some of the largest mills.

It is specially adapted for thrashers driving belts and for any exposed machinery.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSON FOR TO-MORROW.

The Tabernacle.—Exodus 40, 1-13 and 34-38.

Golden Text.—Then the cloud covered the tent of meeting, and the glory of Jehovah filled the Tabernacle.

The very name, Tent of Meeting, announces to us the object of the Tabernacle, with all its symbolic furniture and ritual, with all its exact and minute directions, all given to Israel by a God of love, who would camp with them all through their wilderness journey and teach them to know Him and love Him. All the furnishings and ceremonies are prophetic types of Christ Jesus our Lord, of holiness and of heaven, and were in the greatest contrast to the religious temples and rites of all the other nations that surrounded them.

The gods of the nations were but the work of man's own imagination and reflected human passions, desires, lusts, in their supposed characters; while our God reveals Himself as Almighty Holiness, longing to make His people a holy people and arranging all His Tabernacle to that end. Moses got explicit instructions for the construction of its every detail directly from God in the mount, and nothing was left to human ingenuity. It had been if would have been wrong, "for the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God."

We are taught in this lesson that God in the most holy sanctuary is unapproachable without the shedding of innocent blood, the confession and forsaking of sin, and the washing and cleansing of the body, soul and spirit of the worshippers, while the idolatrous worship of the surrounding nations had the very opposite effect, and has to-day. What a wonderful contrast we have to all this in the simplicity of Christ. God says, in His Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, who has fulfilled every jot and tittle of the law, "Come unto me all who are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest; take my yoke upon you and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart and ye shall find rest unto your souls; for my yoke is easy and my burden is light." All who hear and heed this call of God prove its blessed truth as an abiding experience by the Holy Spirit's power.

The annual Gospel Rally of Sunday Schools will be held in Mr. Jos. Montgomery's Grove, 5th Con., Raleigh, Sunday, Aug. 4th, at 2.30 p. m. All concerned will please arrange and announce for the meeting. The Salvation Army Band will lead the services.

Rube Waddell Started His Career as a Drum Major For Barnstormers

EPOCHS IN RUBE'S LIFE.

Born on a farm.

Ran away from home.

Joined a band of burnt cork barnstormers.

Pitched a game in drum major togs and struck out 19 men.

Town went crazy over the big farmer and he was kidnapped by enthusiastic fans.

A friend took him to Pittsburgh and introduced him to Connie Mack.

He has been making baseball history ever since.

Rube's highest earthly ambition when a boy was to be a gaudy drum major and swing a big brass baton.

It was not until after G. Edward Waddell realized this ambition to a certain extent and had earned his first money playing ball, that the big farmer boy decided to snuff out his youthful aspirations and take up ball flinging for a living.

The way the big fellow made the balls crack in the catcher's mit was a caution. He burned up the country leagues for miles around and none of his brother Rubes had the temerity to face his speedy delivery.

Rube was still working on his father's farm just outside of Butler, Pa., when quite a young man. That is how he earned the sobriquet "Rube," and according to Henry J. Spuhler, who first discovered Rube's ability, he certainly looked the part.

Guiding the plow and handling other agricultural implements swelled the muscles of the farmer boy's arms to the size and hardness of pig iron ingots. With either hand he could throw a stone out of sight.

No batter could hit a ball which he pitched in the games between village nines.

Efforts were made by the managers of the larger clubs of outside towns to land the Butler youngster, but domesticated "Rube" was afraid to venture from the old fireside.

But one day a travelling minstrel troupe struck town. "Rube" witnessed the street parade. That settled him. He ran away from home.

Nothing was seen or heard of him until one morning some weeks later he marched into DeBois bedecked in a high fur hat, swinging a drum major's baton at the head of a band of burnt cork barnstormers. "Rube" and his slew arrived the day on which a game was played between Punxsutawney and DuBois.

Fans in that section had heard of the "phenom" down Butler way, but had never seen him. Spuhler, however, recognized the big drum major and after the parade he went after him and offered "Rube" a $20 note to pitch the game.

"Rube" consented to pitch if Spuhler would allow him to enter the game in his show clothes. This was agreed to and "Rube" took his position in the centre of the diamond togged out in the full regalia of a drum major to the wild delight of a packed baseball park.

Nineteen Punxsutawneyites struck out, and the other five who stepped to the plate failed to hit the ball outside the diamond.

That night the minstrels departed drum majorless, for the leader of the band had been kidnapped by enthusiastic, hero-worshipping revelers who were painting DuBois a bright red with Punxsutawney money.

After that Spuhler induced his "find" to accompany him to Allegheny, where the Pirates were practicing. Connie Mack was catcher and in charge of the team. One morning he and "Pink" Hawley were on the side line trying some new curves. The "Rube" was standing nearby. Finally he mustered up enough courage to approach "Pink" and bashfully ask permission to "chuck a couple." Without removing his coat "Rube" commenced sending them into the elongated backstop's big glove with a resounding crack that could be heard all over the lot. His speed was terrific.

"What's your name?" asked Mack, taking off his mitt, which indicated that he had seen enough.

"Rube" was the laconic reply.

"All right, Rube, grinned Connie, 'go get your dinner and come back. You may pitch against Boston this afternoon.'"

Since that day G. Edward Waddell has been one of the stars of the game on the big circuits.

SHOULD BE SHUT UP

An English settler, belonging to a man on Third street, is causing considerable annoyance to residents in the vicinity. The dog has a weakness for spring chickens, and does not scruple about paying nightly visits to some of the neighbors' roosts. This morning at an early hour, he paid a visit to the chicken run of a Wellington street resident, and carried off three valuable spring chickens.

If the owner has any respect for his neighbors' property, and any regard for his dog's health, he will keep him locked up.

CHATHAM LEADS

Frank Babcock, of Paris, is a Chatham visitor to-day. Frank is an old Maple Cityite and will be remembered as the manager of the best lacrosse team that this city has ever known. Frank says the team that he is managing now is a tandem of the finest horse flesh in Ontario. Chathamites who have seen his dandy horses support him in this statement.

"Paris is a small Chatham," said Frank to The Planet this morning. "Chatham I always contend is the prettiest and best city in the Dominion, and Paris runs a close second, only on a smaller scale. It is a surprising thing to me to hear The Planet so highly spoken of in any town, no matter where you go. I have been all over since I left here, and every place I go I hear people talking about Chatham, and never yet have I heard Chatham mentioned but The Planet is mentioned too."

Mr. Babcock is the owner of a hotel in Paris, which is one of the finest in the province. He leaves for home this afternoon.

THE RAT IN KATIE'S HAIR

I've never seen it moving, and I've never heard it squeal. But all the same I know that it is actual and real!

I've never tried to catch it, with either trap or snare. But still I'm curious to see the rat in Katie's hair.

I wonder what she feeds it on, or if it ever gnaws. Or if it ever tears her scalp with sharp and tiny claws.

I wonder if it's something like a foolish Teddy Bear. That critter, kept all bundled up—the rat in Katie's hair.

I wonder why she keeps a rat secluded in her head. When once she yelled like forty 'cause I put one in her bed.

I wish sometime—up in the choir—(it would make the people stare) That something would go bust and free the rat in Katie's hair.

NATIONAL EXHIBITION AT TORONTO

Great efforts are being put forth by the Executive of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this year to attract an extra large number of visitors. Although last year that number reached the magnificent total of three-quarters of a million. The expenditure this year will reach, including building expenses, $400,000; premiums $50,000; special attractions $50,000, running expenses $75,000, close upon $600,000, a sum which far exceeds the expenditure ever made in one year by any annual Exhibition on this or any other continent. Both in exhibits and in entertainment the Toronto Exhibition, to be held from August 26th to September 9th, promises to exceed in value and attractiveness anything that has ever been attempted in Canada before. A number of the highest class attractions have been secured, and something like $10,000 is to be spent upon a spectacular production of the "Siege of Badajos," with fireworks and an army of men. Some idea of the magnitude of the Toronto Exhibition can be gathered when it is stated that $16,000 is given in prizes for horses, $10,000 for cattle, $7,000 for dogs, $3,500 for sheep, $3,500 for swine, and a similar amount for poultry and pet stock. Handsome premiums are also given for ladies' and children's work, and in other departments, the whole, as has been said, making a magnificent total of $50,000. Entries for all these classes close with the Manamont at the City Hall offices, Toronto, to-day, Aug. 8.

A. E. DREW, Manager,

CHATHAM ONT.

The Conquest
Of Cutler.

By LOUISE MERRIFIELD.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. O. Eastment.

Tennant saw her first when she rounded the hotel point and headed for the open bay. She was alone, but the little naphtha launch belonged to Cutler. There was no mistaking that. With its polished brass rails, its red morocco cushions and its trim, slender lines, it was the smartest bit of sailing craft on Lake Glenora.

And for over three weeks Muriel Arden had had the sole exclusive use of it and had exercised the privilege at every opportunity. To Tennant it was more than mere girlish willfulness. It was frankly flaunting in his face her conquest of Cutler and her defiance of himself and preference for things be- longing to said Cutler.

He watched her as she neared the pier. If she saw the tall, moody figure in gray flannels, she made no sign. Hatless, the wind blowing her brown hair back from her tanned, clear cut face, she held her way steadily toward the open bay, one hand on the little brass tipped pilot wheel, and looked neither to the right nor the left.

Phil Tennant muttered something under his breath and turned quickly on his heel toward the hotel. It was after 7. If he hurried, he could still catch the night boat for Chicago. Perhaps he could even get away before she returned. It was growing late. Up at the hotel they were lighting the colored Japanese lanterns around the veran- das. There was to be a hop that night. He remembered Muriel had told him she was going to it with Cutler. He avoided the main entrance, with its palms and pretty girls, and slipped up to his own room to pack his suit cases.

On the way upstairs he met Cutler, who looked anxious and annoyed. "Did you see the little girl any- where?"

Tennant turned on him hotly.

"Whom do you refer to?"

Cutler laughed easily, without malice, and ignored the resentment in the other's tone.

"There's a storm coming up, and I didn't want her to go out in my boat alone."

As he passed on downstairs leisurely Tennant paused and looked after him, his fists clenched tightly. He would have enjoyed flinging him down the whole flight for those words. "The little girl!" It was the easy proprietary familiarity that cut. That any man on earth should dare to use that tone in speaking of Muriel—his Muriel!

Then like a flash came the memory of that straight, cold little figure in the launch as it had passed the pier, of the proud little face that would not turn his way, and he went on upstairs with a dogged, bitter sense of all things gone wrong. Perhaps she was Cutler's "little girl."

The Chicago boat was due at the Glenora at 8:30. At 8 the music of the Hungarian string orchestra came softly from the palm hidden ballroom. For a moment Tennant hesitated on the veranda listening to it. Muriel was in there, he thought. She had proba- bly returned and was dancing, perhaps with Cutler, while he was going away from her forever. He had been a fool to come at all. It had been her half laughing challenge, that last night on the roof garden. They were with the Wilburton party. Cutler had been there also, but Muriel had not. Tennant, and he had fancied that last instant on the stairs that she had meant more than a mere flirtation when she had said she hoped he would be a member of the summer colony at Glenora.

He had taken her at her word and gone to Glenora, and what Miss Arden had begun on the roof garden she finished at Glenora. But Tennant was slow, slow to fall in love, slow to believe that he had the ghost of a chance with a girl like Muriel Arden, slower yet to risk that chance in one last throw. And while he had waited, sure of himself, but doubtful of Muriel, Cutler had come down with his launch, his motor car, his coach and all the other accessories of half a dozen million- aires, and Muriel had seemed to waver.

The night air was still and heavy. Suddenly a sweep of cool, keen wind blew in freshly from the bay. It caught the frail Jap lanterns and tossed them like leaves to and fro. The bam- boo curtains at the long French win- dows rustled and swung inward, and out on the lawn the palms and wil- lows bent before it with a lithe, swift obeisance.

Tennant jammed his hat low over his eyes and started on a run for the pier. The rain splashed in his face, and a glare of dazzling light shot across the northwest heavens. He ran faster. If he could make the boathouse before the storm broke, he could take the steamer. Just as the thunder burst in a low report from the gray edged black clouds he passed Cutler's boat- house, and as the next flare of quick lightning came he saw that it was empty. The Nixie was gone from its place.

The pier was deserted except for a sleepy boy at the baggage shed. Tennant called for a boat, for anything that could ride through the black, rolling waves that licked along the piling by the dock. There was no time to get back to the hotel or to give the alarm for the life savers. Muriel was out there, out in the storm and the peril of the night alone, and he must go to her.

Shaking the boy, gripping him until he squealed with pain, Tennant wrung from him somehow that the only boat to be had was Cutler's electric motor boat, a small, low affair that only car- ried one, and that in fair weather. "You ain't going out on Michigan with her, are you?" asked the boy. Tennant smiled grimly and sprang into the boat as the next wave lifted it up. It was a mere silver of a thing, built on the lines of a racing shell. He had owned one of his own the previous summer and understood the mecha- nism. With the wind cutting sharply across his face he whipped cleanly out into the bay. Somewhere he would find her, he told himself, bending low over the little pilot wheel and holding his breath as the little boat took the water fairly. Cutler's boat! He laughed to himself. There was a cer- tain fitness about the proceeding that pleased him.

Muriel had headed the Nixie due west, straight out through the narrow channel from Little Lake Glenora into Lake Michigan. Two arms of land and rock stretched out to meet Michi- gan. On one, Rock point, stood the big summer resort hotel. The other was a long, barren waste of rocks that seemed endless when the lake was calm. One by one, overlapping each other, they lay from the beach far out into the bay like some gigantic neck- lace. The windstorm would catch the little launch before she could possibly reach the open channel, Tennant rea- soned, and blow it over on the reef.

"Look out for the Chicago boat," shouted the deck boy after him. "She's coming down the lake now!"

Tennant hardly heard him. The storm had broken in full force, and the tiny shell of a boat shivered and trembled like a frightened animal as he turned it into the channel. Straight for the reef he headed, but the waves were so high he could not even catch a glimpse of the chain of rocks, and suddenly a path of clear white light swung leisurely across the sky and flashed directly on the reef. It was the searchlight on the White City. Two things it showed Tennant in that single wave of light. Just ahead of him was Cutler's boat, riding the waves like a gull, dipping with every lurching swell and showing the next instant on the topmost crest. And it was directly in the course of the White City. And clinging to the little pilot wheel, striving to guide the launch back safely, was Muriel, her long dark hair loose and whipped by the wind across her face. Just for an instant he saw her, then the great arc of light had swept back to the far end of the little lake and all was blackness ahead.

Blindly Tennant drove the little mo- tor boat forward, and suddenly side by side it crashed into the launch. For one instant the two touched, but in that instant Tennant had made the leap safely. Before he could recover his balance the motor boat had van- ished like a leaf in the storm, and he was in the launch.

"Give me the wheel!" he said hoarsely. "And as the White City howls by, the Nixie rose on her swell, wave- swept and battered, but secure, with a strong hand on her little brass tipped pilot wheel."

"Phil, Phil, listen to me!" Down be- side him in the boat knelt Muriel, white to her lips, but happy, happy in spite of the fact that they two had faced death together but an instant before. "Did we smash his old boat?"

"Absolutely!" Tennant's arms tight- ened about her. The pilot wheel was very much in the way.

"I knew that you would come," she went on. "I saw you on the pier, but I thought you would come right away—that was why I went out alone."

And light dawned slowly on Tennant. It was his first lesson in the contradic- tions of Muriel.

"And I was going back on that boat tonight," he said.

Muriel laughed and pushed her wet hair back from her face.

"Mr. Cutler took that boat, Phil," she said.

Provocation Enough.

A deaf old gentleman dined with a family where grace was always said. When the guests were seated the host bowed his head and began to repeat the accustomed verse in a subdued, reverent tone.

"Eh? What's that?" demanded the deaf old gentleman, who sat beside him.

The host smiled patiently and began again in a louder, more deprecatory voice.

"Speak a little louder. I don't catch what you say," the old gentleman per- sisted.

THINGS MONEY CANNOT BUY.

Things of Priceless Worth That Wealth Cannot Procure.

Money is a useful and necessary thing. It can do much for ourselves and others. But there are many things, and the things of greatest value, that money cannot buy.

One of these things is intellectual power. A fool's money can buy dia- monds, palaces, titles; but it cannot buy brains; and he must submit, if he be a wise fool, to use throughout his lifetime the brains of others. Gilded ignorance is still ignorance; and Mind remains Master though clothed in rags.

Money cannot buy a clear con- science. God is no cheater against the shafts of remorse; and great wealth cannot silence the soul's condemna- tion. Conscience has never been bribed, and no success, no matter how great, can efface the stain of sin. The pillow may be softest down, but it brings no ease to him who has the devil's crown. True happiness flies when conscience frowns, and no golden lure can bring her back.

Money cannot buy a happy home. Sometimes it almost seems as if wealth were inimical to home happi- ness. It cannot buy the love that binds the family together, and it cannot buy the forbearance and the necessity to happiness. Children are not the happier because they have no ungratified wishes, and men and women do not love each other better because they are less neces- sary to each other. The happiest homes are seldom found where wealth is great.

Money cannot buy friendship. Some- times it may take exception to it and claim that money does attract friends. The difference lies solely in what we mean by "friend." Money attracts those that money can buy, but true men are not for sale. Those whom my money attracts are my money's friends alone, and I am still as lonely as ever.

Money cannot buy health. It may secure the amelioration of sickness, and the lessening of pain, and in ex- ceptional cases it may mean restora- tion to health; but in the vast ma- jority of cases the reverse is true, and the rich man in his suffering looks with longing eyes upon the poor man's rugged health and feels that it would be a good exchange if he could secure that health even at the sacrifice of all he has.

Money cannot buy the saving of the soul or the safeguarding of those spi- ritual treasures that are dearer than life itself. There are doors that swing open at the touch of gold, but not these doors. There may be crowns that are for sale, but not the crown of life. Earth's gold is less than tin- sel here. The power of money reaches no higher than some paltry six feet from the ground. Sometimes earthly justice has been for sale, and the judge's ermine has been soiled; but there is no spot upon the great white throne. All the wealth of all the ages could not buy forgiveness for the least of sins.

Mr. Edison's Sunday.

Until quite recently it was the prac- tice of Mr. Edison, the world famous electrician, to work in his laboratory on Sundays, owing to the fact that several of his inventions required im- mediate attention. But he has sus- pended that practice from a motive that would do credit to any father.

As the wedding ceremony took place in his laboratory one Sunday morning, Mrs. Edison and little Theodore came down on their way to the Baptist church at Llewellyn, N.J. The- odore went into the building with his father, and began his usual experi- ments.

"You mustn't work on Sunday, Ted- dy," said Mr. Edison, addressing his son.

"You work on Sunday," was the lad's prompt response, as he poured a lot of green fluid out of a bottle into a tall jar. But he remembered that his mother had disapproved of his father's Sunday labors.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison looked at each other significantly. The father im- mediately left off his Sunday work— Watchman.

Why Bachelors Abound.

A cynical old bachelor declares that women are to blame for the fact that so many men remain un- married.

"Bachelorhood," he said, "is get- ting quite a popular profession for men. There are several reasons for this, but the chief one, I think, is the attitude of the women of the day. For one thing girls attach a ridi- culous importance to the monetary side of the question. They are not content to begin humbly with a young husband who has all his career be- fore him, and go with him up the steep hill to independence. They de- mand an establishment suitable to their ideas, the wooer is rejected be- cause of his humble means, and goes off to swell the crowd of bachelors who have begun to think there is truth in the old saw that 'When a man's single he lives at his ease.'"

Girls Who Keep Men Single

Refused By Those They Love They Become Bachelors—Girls Should Value Men More than Money

More men turn to bachelorhood on their first refusal by the girls they love and ask to marry than would be easily imagined in this unsentimental age.

But it must be remembered that this first fancy on a young man's life, when it is strong enough to make him to matrimony on a small salary, is one of the very strongest impulses of his life.

And usually one of the most generous and finest. Turned back into the heart, soul, brain, or wherever first love is born, it frequently becomes a destroying influence.

But in most cases it turns the selfish impulse to provide a home for two out of his small income into a more selfish channel. He sets up as a non-marrying man.

This, whether he is a sentimentalist who may suffer from being thrown over a practical fellow who can meet the matter philosophically, telling him that there are other fish in the sea.

He will never be so quick to fall in love or so eager to marry again. He will quite likely go to the possibility of his being refused again because his purse is not big enough.

Hurt pride makes men bachelors. The selfishness that sets in with condition is only a secondary symptom. Turn back an unsentimental impulse, and it will always become a selfish one.

Let us give men the belief, when they offer themselves to us for life, that their money is more important than they are and they will set out to make money, and not only never count on as much in the scheme of their lives again.

Girls never reckon with these facts. When they refuse a young man because he is poor, they fancy a Prince Fortunatus, who is to come along by the roadside and pick them out of the factory or office or shop to set them on a throne.

So women go on moaning and idealizing all through life, marrying over-mannered nonentities, posers and rich vulgarians rather than men. They are always waiting for a man to come on horseback in a spear and feathers in his hat like a matinee actor.

In the meantime, the real men and the fine men, and the actually generous men are being turned into professional bachelors by little fools of girls, who refuse them because the man make a few pounds less a week than the various amounts they set mysteriously as a limit.

Of course, men do not speak of these things. Certainly not when they have become bald and chronic bachelors, with their own comfortable rooms, syndicates valets, and their freedom.

They may have the recollection of some girl and some time when life seemed very empty because she refused them for the reason that she represented the counterpart of an angelhood in earthly guise.

And this makes the hardened bachelor smile and shake hands with himself. For he gave up idealizing women when this special girl made him count up his money and told him how inadequate it would be for her ideas as to a matrimonial alliance.

He has recovered from his shock, and can wonder at his youthful generosity. He is more calculating now, and would only marry a rich widow or a girl who might in some way aid him.

There are, of course, exceptions to the rule: that the young man refused by his first love turns to professional bachelorhood, but the rule stands, nevertheless. Bachelorhood is a result, not a choice.

Optimists like to assert that there are just as many marriages as ever in proportion to the population, but statistics prove that there are fewer marriages of young people.

There are more marriages than formerly among the middle-aged, and between persons of widely different ages, who marry through motive, but the old-time marriages, between the grown-up boys and girls who love each other are not so many.

We hear, of course, of the sensational marriages and those celebrated in balloons and lions' cages, but the motive enters into marriage too much rather than love—young love that sets everything aside but itself.

The young man, who sad and sorrowing comes from his first love affair, refused by a girl who means all the world to him, finds that world changed forever. It becomes by degrees a very pleasant world, where he has palaces built to accommodate him, perfect service, good cooking, and obliging clerks, boys, and managers on every side.

The non-marrying man is distinctly persona grata just as much as the unmarried woman is distinctly the opposite. The verdict always is that the bachelor is too fastidious to marry or too noble or something.

Bachelorhood, in short, becomes a profession with them, although they will never hint that they were at first cast into it because some girl refused them.

And men hug their bachelorhood naturally. They have passed that first sentimental tumult and they are wary as partridges of eligible girls and widows, to whom their attentions might seem serious.

Bachelorhood, in short, becomes a profession with them, although they will never hint that they were at first cast into it because some girl refused them.

Men are more sentimental than women, and this is just the reason why so many of them at middle-life refuse to think of matrimony. They scoff at sentiment openly, but it is only an affectation.

It is a fine thing that so many girls are able nowadays to take up with the trading professions by which they may support themselves, but it is a sad thing if they are allowing these successes to turn away their chances for happiness, and other women's chances, and driving men to bachelorhood.

—If you love him—and he loves you and you are not depriving anyone who needs your help of something you are able to do for them—put your hand in his and start down the road together.

Nearly all the rich men of to-day married girls when they had little or nothing. The girls were not so independent then, but, besides that, they valued a man rather than his money.

Do not help cast another man into the velvet sea of bachelorhood.

DOMINION GETS TRENT PROPERTY

Ontario Transfers Water Rights and Lands to Dominion

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—An agreement has been reached between the Dominion Government and the Government of Ontario, by which the province transfers to the Dominion all the locks, dams, rights in waters and flooded lands owned by it along the Trent Valley Canal.

The Dominion agrees to keep the works in repair and good condition, including the lock and three swing bridges at Lindsay, the lock at Balsam Lake and the lock and swing bridge at Young's Point, and pledges itself to pay the province at the rate of 50 cents per acre for any unpatented lands which may be flooded by the construction of reservoirs, and to compensate private owners also, with the provision that in case it is possible to arrive at a settlement the dispute shall be referred to the Exchequer Court for decision.

It is further provided that all mines and minerals on unpatented lands taken over and flooded in the course of the construction of reservoirs and that the province and the Dominion are to remain the property of the province until a proper compensation be granted therefor.

The Dominion also guarantees to the owners and lessees of timber lands all rights previously possessed by them, with the provision that in case any such owner or lessee is dissatisfied with the Government's terms he may appeal to the Exchequer Court.

SUE FOR LIBEL

Turgeon and Gouin Take Action Against Quebec Papers.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—Hon. Mr. Turgeon, Minister of Crown Lands for the Province of Quebec, has entered an action for civil damages against Le Nationaliste, the Montreal paper edited by Oliver Asselin.

Hon. Mr. Turgeon claims that about four weeks ago Le Nationaliste accused him of perjury, and has repeated the accusation several times since. Hon. Mr. Turgeon has also decided to sue several other papers who have followed the course of Le Nationaliste by reproducing the articles complained of or accusing him in a like manner.

Hon. Mr. Gouin, Premier of Quebec, has entered an action for civil damages against Le Patriote, which in an article published Wednesday night, said that the Prime Minister had something to do with the negotiations which Baron De Lepine pretends to have made with the Government respecting crown lands in Abitibi.

Drank Hot Lard.

London, Ont., Aug. 2.—To drink a large quantity of hot lard and survive is an unusual experience, but that is the experience of the 14 months old baby of Mrs. Jolly of Egerton street, this city.

While the mother was engaged baking, the little one drew a jar of lard from a table, and before the mother could interfere had swallowed a large quantity.

Although frightfully burned internally and externally, the doctors say the child will recover.

Want a River Patrol.

Windsor, Aug. 2.—Claiming that they have lost several thousand dollars' worth of property through the depredation of river pirates, from whom they have not sufficient police protection, residents on the shore between here and Ojibwa, nine miles south, have started an agitation to have the Provincial Government arrange for a police patrol boat along the river.

THE SULTAN MUST ACCOUNT

France Is Roused by Atrocious Moroccan Murders

Tangier, Aug. 2.—On the pretext that they were displeased with the harbor works, three tribes raided Casablanca, one of the chief seaports of Morocco, and massacred the native guards and five Frenchmen, two Spaniards and one Italian. The other Europeans in the city, together with a German ship, which had arrived here, a report from the French chargé d'affaires here shows that the slaughter of Europeans in Casablanca was an outcome of a holy war preached by the Arabs for the extermination of Europeans.

On Tuesday morning the natives began their attack by stoning a European and as the man tried to flee he was surrounded and hacked to pieces. This was the signal for a general attack.

As soon as the danger became known the French and Spanish residents rushed to their respective consulates for protection.

M. D'Evuille, the French consul, demanded that the pasha provide an escort for the recovery of the bodies of those killed. The pasha pleaded at first that he had no cartridges, but upon further representations he finally supplied an escort.

In the meantime, while the Jews and Christians were taking refuge on board the German ship, the Musselmans began to attack the laborers employed upon the harbor works. They fired on the shore boats and killed several men whose bodies subsequently were burned. One woman who tried to swim off to a ship was shot down.

It is feared that Casablanca will be invaded by twenty thousand Arabs to-day.

The pasha of Casablanca will answer with his head to the French Government for the general security of the city. This is the ultimatum which the French cruiser Gallie, due to reach Casablanca to-day is conveying. The French cruiser Forbin now at the Azores, also has been ordered to proceed to Casablanca immediately.

London, Aug. 2.—The morning papers comment strongly on the state of anarchy revealed by the massacre at Casablanca, Morocco, and declare that it is evident that the Sultan is powerless to preserve order. The powers, therefore, they assert, are bound to take measures to exact retribution and stem the lawlessness.

The Daily News says: "Nobody would blame France for deciding that it is useless to proceed with a policy which merely toys with the fringe of the question. In the end, however, the Moroccan difficulties must be solved in Berlin before it is faced at Fes."

"It is impossible to believe," says the Graphic, "in the face of the Casablanca massacre, that Germany will longer oppose drastic action of this kind, and nothing less will meet the grave exigencies of the present situation."

Madrid, Aug. 2.—The Imparcial insists that the murder of Spanish subjects at Casablanca must be punished.

CAUSE RIOTS.

Revelations of Immorality in Northwestern Italy Stir People.

Turin, Aug. 2.—The anti-clerical riots, which have broken out in northwestern Italy, are largely a result of popular excitement following the publication of certain alleged revolting and immoral practices of the Salesian fathers at Varese.

This exposure was printed in L'Avanti and in it pupils of the school maintained by the fathers described the rite performed daily at what they called the "Blackmasses," at which the priests and sisters were present, and which the scholars say they were forced to attend. The school has been closed, and the pupils sent to their homes.

The public prosecutor of the district has arrived at Varese and is conducting an investigation.

A crowd sacked the church at Varese Wednesday night, and stoned the convent of the Salesians.

Russian Strife.

Lodz, Russian Poland, Aug. 2.—This city is again the scene of a strike movement, accompanied by violence, disorder and death.

The troops have encountered strikers in the centres of the town and some 30 men have been killed or wounded in this fight alone.

Business is at a standstill. The trouble came to a head Wednesday, and in spite of the aggressive stand taken by the authorities, the disorders recommenced early yesterday morning.

The strike is serious! It would appear to be the beginning of a big labor war, and the workmen's unions are preparing for a long struggle.

Boilers Explode.

Breckenridge, Mo., Aug. 2.—Three employees were killed, and a fourth is dying as the result of the blowing up of a Burlington locomotive. The explosion was heard three miles away.

Urbana, Ohio, Aug. 2.—Three employees were instantly killed here yesterday by the explosion of a boiler on a Pennsylvania freight train.

Lightning Hits Oil Tank.

Sarnia, Aug. 2.—At five o'clock yesterday afternoon lightning struck an oil tank at the Imperial Oil Works and for some time the whole million dollar plant was in danger. The column of smoke from 18,000 gallons of oil burning could be seen for miles. Ten streams were put on the fire at one time.

REVENUE IS GOING UP.

Finance Returns Show Increase of Million Dollars a Month.

That the revenue of the Dominion is going up at the rate of about a million dollars a month is shown by the latest return of the Finance Department.

The new fiscal year is still troublesome. The old year ended with June 30, but this was changed to March 31, so that the year which closed on that date of 1907 is a nine months year.

For the fiscal year ending March 31 last the total revenue was $67,969,326, compiled as follows:

Customs ..... $39,760,172
Excise ..... 11,805,413
Postoffice ..... 5,061,738
Public works, including railways ..... 6,839,585
Miscellaneous ..... 4,502,493

The revenue during April, May and June has been $23,253,888 and for purposes of comparison, by adding this to the short fiscal year, the revenue for the year ending June 30 would be $91,202,606.

For the year ending June 30, 1906, the revenue was about $90,000,000, so that during the past twelve months there has been an increase of over eleven million dollars.

The expenditure for the nine months is $65,776,786, of which $51,542,161 is on current revenue and $14,234,625 on capital account, leaving a total surplus of $2,922,540. Adding a total expenditure of $10,102,016 for April, May and June, there would be a consolidated fund expenditure of $59,138,485 and capital account of $16,740,416, or a total disbursement for the twelve months of $75,878,901. This leaves a surplus of over $15,000,000.

Of the $23,000,000 receipts for the past three months, nearly $15,000,000 is credited to customs, while during the twelve months customs contributed about $55,000,000. This is just about double the total revenue raised by taxation ten years ago.

The public debt stands at $250,666,312 on June 30 last, which is a decrease since May 31 last of $2,333,042.

Provincial Appointments.
Toronto, Aug. 1.—The Ontario Government has made the following appointments:
George Young was appointed sanitary inspector for Coleman Township.
J. A. Devenny was appointed police magistrate for Nipissing, and Stuart Masson to the same position for Hastings.
Jerry Lefevre will act as constable around Latchford lumber camps.

Boiler Wrecks Trains.
Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 1.—A dispatch from Milan, Tenn., says: Four persons were killed outright, another was fatally injured, and ten others seriously hurt, when the boiler of an engine attached to a first Illinois Central train exploded, wrecking the train, as well as another freight train on an adjacent siding.

THE DEAF MADE TO HEAR.

Deafness, because usually due to Catarrh, is quite curable. In a thousand cases this is proved absolutely true. Success invariably attends the use of Catarrhazone, which has cured catarrhal deafness of twenty-five years' standing. Penetrating through the passages of the ear, the soothing vapor of Catarrhazone relieves the inflammation, destroys the seeds of Catarrh and thereby allows nature to re-assist herself. Try Catarrhazone yourself. 25c. and $1. sizes, sold by all dealers.

Adams to Be Tried Again.
Boise, Aug. 1.—Steve Adams who was expected to be an important witness in the trial of Wm. D. Hayward, but who was not called by either side, has been taken back to Wallace to await a second trial on the charge of murder. His first trial resulted in a disagreement.

Sued For $15,000.
London, Aug. 1.—An action has been entered by W. J. Reid on behalf of Mrs. Lillian Mand Smith for $15,000 as remuneration for the death of her husband in the Crystal Hall disaster.

WHEN LONG BREATHS HURT.
You know that troubles exist which need quick attention. Proper action consists in a vigorous rubbing of the chest and sides with Nerviline, which sinks into the tissues where the pain is seated, and gives relief in a few minutes. No liniment so clean, so strong, so powerful. Results guaranteed with every 25c. bottle of Polson's Nerviline. Get it today.

Orange-Blossom Tabesced.
In many countries the orange-blossom is entirely tabooed. The German bride wears myrtle, the girl of the Black Forest takes the flower of the hawthorn—when she can get it. The brides of Italy and the French provinces of Switzerland use white roses; Spanish brides go in for pink, carnations, and red roses.
In Norway, Sweden, and Serbia the bride wears a crown of silver; in Bavaria and Silesia, glass, pearls, and gold wire are used; in the islands of Greece, vine leaves; in Bohemia, rosemary, and so on.

The Roman bridal wreath was of verberna. Holly wreaths were seen as tokens of congratulation, and wreaths of parsley and rue were given, under the idea that they were the best preventives against the influence of evil spirits.

You cannot make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up, and digest the food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious dyspepsia agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it: "In dyspepsia it serves as a most potent and efficient remedy. One of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs."

MISS VESTA VICTORIA.

Clever English Songstress Draws $3,000 a Week, Manager Says.

Miss Vesta Victoria, the English songstress, is said to be making $3,000 a week. It is difficult to get actual figures in these matters, but there is no doubt that Miss Victoria's salary is large enough to be interesting.

She appears once in the afternoon and once in the evening, sings a few songs in costume and collects her money. All told, she is not on the stage more than an hour a day, and if the $3,000 statement given out by her manager is correct her remuneration would amount to something like $823 a minute.

It is not because of any extraordinary vocal powers that Miss Victoria is so valuable to theatrical producers.

MISS VESTA VICTORIA.

She would probably attract no attention in a church choir. Her stock in trade is the ineffable something called personality. Every song she sings is her song. You always remember it in conjunction with her. She is a part of it, as inseparable from it as the words and music.

To make a song famous the singer must be brimful of personality. She may sing only indifferently well, and she doesn't need to be pretty. All of Miss Victoria's costumes are clownish, and she wears immense big shoes to give her the slovenly appearance of a woman in the lower stratum of English society.

But even in her disguise there are about her a freshness of face, a clearness of eye and a buoyancy of spirit which prepare you for her striking appearance off the stage. In private life Miss Victoria is a beautiful, healthy, rosy, beef-eating English girl. She is probably about twenty-eight years old, and as yet she hasn't a wrinkle to her name. Her hair is a golden brown, and there is a lot of it. Her eyes are blue and her cheeks rosy. Her build is firm and strong, but very graceful and stylish.

The Magic Influence of Smiles.
The woman who goes about with a cloudy face imprinted every little once and awhile with jealousy, sulkeness, sarcasm and disappointment does not realize the harm these moods do. She fancies that her face will readily fall back into nice, sweet lines.

It does, to be sure, for awhile, but in a very short time the lines become more and more pronounced.

It is utterly impossible to have a sour heart and a sweet, pretty, sympathetic face.

And there is no woman so plain that the constant exercise of cheerfulness and amiability will not make beautiful.

Strange indeed are the mental workings of the individual who would fall in spells of agony over a few creases in her best frock, yet who will cultivate all sorts of tricks and wrinkles in her own face by doleful expressions and sour looks and by giving in to her depressing moods.

Certain it is that every woman who has swayed the history of humanity has known the value of cheerfulness—the value of a smile.

No woman with fretful lines engraved on her face, no woman who has not learned to control her temper, who does not know the value of cheerfulness, can put up much of a show as a charmer.

Smile and keep young. You have all the rest of your life in which to grow old.

Every one of us needs at times the ministry of the sunny, smiling soul who wields the wand of a cheerful temper. A woman is gloomy or sad, and she explains and excuses herself by saying that she has the "blues."

Or she is irascible and savage and excuses herself by saying that she is in a bad temper today.

Can one help having a bad temper? Certainly! Moods are as subject to the will as any mental faculty.

The difference between the successful, popular woman and the woman who, by her disagreeableness, drives every one from her is simply the power of the former to control her moods and her temper.

Unless one has her moods under control she has no real liberty.

Insanity is sometimes nothing but selfish slavery to a mood.

Then again it is generally recognized that the cheerful person is the best worker.

Cheerfulness is not frivolity. The perpetual giggles and grimaces are maddening, are a shameful waste of energy and mark a weak and deficient nature.

We go for help neither to the frivolous nor to the habitually despondent and sad, but to the habitually cheerful.

If You Would Make a Good Jelly.
Have the fruit ripe or just a little underripe, freshly picked and of good quality.

The small juicy berries, such as currants, blackberries, raspberries, may be cooked in a stone pot, which should be placed in a kettle of boiling water. The contents should be stirred and mashed well until the fruit is thoroughly heated, say for about an hour.

Or, if preferred, the fruit may be heated slowly in a preserving kettle and then mashed.

Jelly will be greatly improved in flavor and color if it is first strained through a cheesecloth bag and then through a flannel one.

The strained juice should be placed in a preserving kettle and boiled and skimmed. A pound of sugar should be added for each pound of juice.

The sugar should first be heated in the oven and stirred into the boiling juice until it dissolves; then fill the glasses. When such fruit as apples, pears, peaches and quinces are used, wash them thoroughly, cut in small pieces, barely covering with water, and cook gently until the fruit is soft and clear. This will take at least an hour.

Strain the juice, let it boil about twenty minutes; then add the warm sugar and boil five minutes longer. Place glasses in the direct sun for several hours.

Changing the Piano.
In the very commendable effort to change things around a bit and give the house a new look at housecleaning time it is just as well to be a little careful in the matter of placing the piano. A refreshingly new and changed appearance may be given to a room by having the piano in another corner for a change, but if that corner is near a window or close to a register the scheme had better be abandoned. A piano is extremely sensitive to cold, heat or dampness. It is a great mistake to put it too near to the fire or radiator, because the heat is apt to affect the delicately constructed sounding board and interfere with the tone of the piano. A piano which stands by an open window on a rainy day is almost sure to be damaged. The dampness rusts the wires and otherwise affects the interior.

When disposing of bric-a-brac in the room, do not save the larger share of it for the top of the piano, rather let the instrument be unincumbered by books and ornaments, so that the purity of the tone will not be interfered with.

A Woman on Women.

For selfishness and inconsideration commend me to a woman traveling. She will deliberately occupy two seats in a street car, see other women stand, laden with bundles, without offering to move up and otherwise try to prove to everybody with eyes in his head that they, these women, have no manners at all. Yet if you called at the houses of these women I have no doubt in the world that you would be courteously received, their best would be at your disposal, and you would otherwise discover that they had some claim to the title of ladies, but never from their manners in public. And, far from displaying good manners themselves, many women are incapable of appreciating good manners in others. If a well bred woman does move up to make room for a standing woman, how often is the first woman thanked? Sometimes not even a bow or a glance is given! Ask men how often they are thanked (once in twenty times) for giving their seats in a car to women.—Lillian Bell.

Typhoid's After Effect.

One of the most common and also most disagreeable after effects of a run of fever is the less of hair. Many patients never fully recover from this and remain bald through after life. This affliction could easily be remedied if the patient would exert the proper amount of energy and make use of the following tonic prescribed by a leading specialist. You can mix this yourself. Most of the ingredients you will have in your family medicine chest, or they can be secured at any well stocked pharmacy. Take of bay rum four ounces; common salt, one teaspoonful; castor oil, one teaspoonful; compound quinine, one ounce, and soft water enough to make one pint. Rub this tonic into the scalp night and morning. It will cure dandruff and will cause the hair to grow again soft and luxuriant.

Cream is a nourishing article of diet, and many delicate children with small appetites digest it easily and thrive upon it. It can be given a tablespoonful at a time, in a baby's bottle. Older children can have it added to their porridge, and it may also be used spread upon bread. With the addition of a little golden syrup it is generally enjoyed by children, and it often tempts them to eat heartily when they otherwise would not do so.

If oranges are left for five minutes in boiling water, they will peel much easier, and the white inner skin will come away as well. This would greatly simplify the preparation of sliced oranges and orange and cream dishes for children's parties.

The resistance of glass jars that refuse to open can be overcome by setting them, top downward, in an inch or two of hot water.

PILGRIMS IN JAPAN.

Nearly 900,000 Visit Various Shinto Shrines During the Year.

Unending lines of pilgrims, visiting noted Shinto temples, climbing sacred mountain peaks, arrest the attention of every thoughtful student of Japan. These pilgrims are numbered by hundreds of thousands every year. The visitors to the great shrine at Kizuka of Ise number about 250,000 annually. The more prosperous the season, the larger the number of pilgrims. It rarely falls below two hundred thousand.

In his "Occult Japan" Mr. Lowell has given us an interesting account of the "pilgrim clubs." The largest known to him numbered about twelve thousand men, but he thinks the average from one hundred to about five hundred persons each. The number of yearly visitors to the Shinto shrines at Ise is estimated at half a million, and ten thousand pilgrims climb Mt. Fuji every summer.

The number of pilgrims to Kimpira, in Shikoku, is incredibly large; according to the count taken during the first half of 1906, the first ever taken, the average for the month was 2,500 each day. At this rate the number for the year was nearly 900,000. The highest for a single day was over 12,000. These figures were given me by the chief official of this district. The highest mountain in Shikoku, Ishidzuchi San, some six thousand feet in height, is said to be ascended by ten thousand pilgrims each summer.

These people eat little or nothing at the hotels, depending rather on what they carry with them until they return from their arduous three-day climb; nor do they take any prolonged rest until they are on the homeward way. The reason for this is that the climb is supposed to be a test of the heart; if the pilgrim fails to reach the summit, the inference is that he is at fault, and that the god does not favor him. They who offer their prayers from the summit are supposed to be assured of having them answered.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, and then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks the sores had healed and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.

Three Significant Statements.

Dr. McAdam Eccles, a London physician noted for his wide life assurance experience, lays down the three suggestive propositions: (1) From the universal experience of assurance of life, the excessive use of alcohol undoubtedly shortens life. (2) An increasing number of statistics show an increasing number of years show that even a moderate amount of alcohol habitually taken tends to shorten life. (3) Total abstainers show a distinctly greater longevity than any other class of the community.

SNAPSHOTS OF FASHION.

The Parisian Fancy For Violet—Charming Costumes of Flet Lace.

Parisienne have for some reason taken a sudden and violent fancy for violet, the color of penance and ecclesiastical mourning, but it is applied so daintily and jauntily to hats that the fancy is justified by the effect. Many of the bell hats which are the fashion in the Rue de la Paix just now are made of violet straw and covered with a bunch of Paul Neron roses. They are most becoming and give the face an air of distinction. Very distinguished, too, for the races are the bell shaped violet straw hats. Other hats even more striking in some ways are those of white straw—a bold whiteness—garnished with lilies of the same color.

There is something decidedly charming about a gown of white flet lace made over a white silk foundation. The lining makes the figures stand

White Panama Hats For Late Summer Wear—Attractive Fabrics.

Pretty hats for the late summer are of white panama trimmed with sashes of white crape, with tasseled ends falling to the left side and a cluster of roses under the dentured brim where the ends fall over.

The fancy for long, simple lines of either Greek or Japanese draperies that are attracting us at present is affecting our evening wraps and coats in a marked degree. The long lines of these wraps give height and gracefulness of carriage in a most noticeable way and are a relief after the fussy, overtrimmed wraps we have been accustomed to for some years.

Dyed lace appears upon the smartest French frocks and is much used for the decoration of nixon or chiffon dresses. The very thick and heavy makes of lace are most satisfactory when dyed and should be of rather a bold design. Lace of this kind looks well in a dress of a heavy material in a dress of some thin material and forms excellent bands for the fronts of long, plain skirts. A great deal of light weight silk and many thin wool materials such as marquisette will be worn on cool days throughout the summer. Some of the new foulards and novelty pongs that are made in openwork effect make charming gowns for visiting, church and all occasions of the sort.

Negligees are essential to summer comfort. Here is one that is simplicity itself and is worn over a pretty petticoat. Both are made of batista with embroidery, but every material of the sort is appropriate.

Where Plain Women Triumph.

According to a male observer, plain women are apt to make the best wives. "The plain girl," he said, "is unspoiled by the admiration that the beautiful woman looks for almost as a right. Not having to study her physical graces, she falls back on other and more enduring attractions. She seeks after charm of manner, and cultivates mental accomplishments and domestic qualities."

"The slight she has suffered, although they would her, generally have the effect of giving her fortitude, patience and sympathy. Many such women have acquired gifts of comprehension, insight, and social charm that render them irresistible to the more discerning types of men. That is undoubtedly why so many handsome men live happily with plain wives."

Promoting Feminine Graces.

"The modern school-girl," said the head of a ladies' school, "practices athletic exercises unknown to her ancestors, to the great improvement of her health and physique. She takes part in many games that were formerly played only by men and boys, and gains in strength and stature. "But when school days are over there is not the cultivation of grace which would add so materially to womanly charms. For this reason I am inclined to agree with the opinion of the lines of the old-fashioned schools of deportment, at which should be taught the more refined side of physical culture—elegance of movement and ease of manner."

Opinions are sure to differ widely where personal worth is the subject of discussion.

LONDON BOOTBLACKS.

How They Are Cared for Morally, Physically and Financially.

If a lad belongs to the Shoeblack Society he pays nothing for its privileges. The society owes its privileges to the courtesy of the police, and the badge and uniform constitute a badge of authority for appearing in the streets and plying his calling.

Asked as to the class of boys who becomes a shoeblack, Mr. Bird, of the Shoeblack Society, replied:

"We find that the average street boy, the result of the nomadic life he has led before coming to us, is apt to degenerate. He finds work and any kind of discipline extremely irksome, and to wear a boy away from his old habits and companions and awaken in him feelings of self-respect and self-reliance are the most difficult part of our work. He often breaks down under the strain and returns to his old life, saying, with the huge army of the unemployed, 'Somebody's got to keep me.'"

"A much more hopeful case is that of the lad who had run away from home or committed some offence under sudden temptation and finds himself homeless and friendless in the streets of London. Under that most beneficent measure, the First Officers' act, many a foolish boy has been saved by the police court mission from a life of crime. Several such cases have been sent to us, with the happiest results."

I cannot do better than describe as day spent by myself at the home, No. 23 Saffron Hill, E.C. the headquarters of the red-coated boys whom Londoners are so familiar.

The society was started by a barrister named Rob Roy Macgregor in 1851. There are at present 65 lads in the society. At 7.30 a.m., after breakfast, the boys file upstairs to a large, pleasant hall, where a grand piano is the most prominent object. They are as quiet and orderly as drill, although but a moment before they were boisterously happy and full of animal spirits. Now, however, they are quiet, for it is the hours for family prayers.

And family prayers under Mr. Bird's hands are not dismal. They consist of a hymn, a few verses from the Bible and a brief prayer. All remember about the latter is that Mr. Bird said in it that it was not what a boy did to earn his living that mattered, but how he did it.

After this act of worship the boys file down to the office, at least those who need fresh supplies of blacking; do—the others get their boxes and go off at once for the day.

Each boy's station is allotted by the society. The first sixpence-earned is kept for dinner. The rest of the day's earnings is divided into three equal parts, the first constituting the wages, the second being retained by the society to defray working expenses and the third is banked for the boy, so he has sixpence more than two-thirds of his total daily earnings.

At six o'clock the working day is over and tea is partaken of, after which the boys have gymnastic exercises under the direction of one of the best instructors, a Regent street police man, who, when things are cheerfully chaffs them.

Annually there is a great shoeblack competition. Lord Kinnaird takes the chair—he is one of the committee—and the manager of Messrs. Day & Martin judges. The six boys competing have been nominated by the boys themselves. The first prize is a gold medal, and the winner's name goes down on the roll of honor. The second prize is a suit of clothes, and the four other boys each have a consolation prize.

There is tragedy, too, at Saffron Hill. Sometimes a boy dies, or is ill, then the others have a "cap out"—viz., a collection. I saw the bill of a funeral paid for voluntarily by the boys. I also heard of kindness shown to sick "pals."

By the by, just now I spoke of clothes. It is interesting to note that the first uniform is given by the society, and when that needs to be renewed the boy is charged one-half the cost of the uniform. Blacking brushes are also charged him much below actual cost.

The banking part of the concern is one of the best things about the society. A boy is therefore made self-respecting and independent. Some are thus encouraged to go to Canada, where the society already has many boys.

Keeping Well.

A prominent physical culture instructor lays special stress on these rules in her teachings to large classes of women:

See that not a night passes without your window being open, so that your lungs may be able to feed the blood with a plentiful supply of oxygen all night long.

Never let a morning pass without drawing a dozen deep breaths, expanding and lifting the chest with every one, before you leave your bed, and take a few brisk arm-exercises, trunk-bendings, and some tiptoe work on rising. You may be able to give only a few minutes to this work, but to form the habit may mean a great deal to you.

ERIEAU

Erieau, August 3.—Miss Clara Morgan and her friend, Miss Hannah Kinsman, were in Blenheim yesterday.

Mr. Charles Thomson and children spent Friday with friends at Centreville.

Dr. Masca and J. L. Clark, who have been enjoying a pleasant holiday at the lighthouse, returned to their homes in Cleveland on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Ringel and Mr. and Mrs. Harper and family, left for Cleveland via Dresden on Thursday, after a short stay at the Bungalow. Mr. Ringel and Mr. Harper met with fair success fishing in the bay.

The "Midland Queen" called at the lighthouse yesterday with supplies. This is her first trip here, and as the captain did not know the harbor very well, he anchored out in the lake until six o'clock in the morning.

Dr. Tom Thomson returns to-day to Milwaukee, Wis., having spent a week's holidays with his sister, Mrs. Arch. Park, at Beverley Lodge.

Little Miss Jean Ferguson, who has been the guest of Miss Houston, left to-day for her home in St. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Briscoe attended the band concert at the Eau on Friday evening.

Mr. Greening has procured a fine new flag pole for his cottage, "Osceola," which will be erected shortly.

Miss Lily Thomson spent Friday with Mrs. A. Park at Beverley Lodge.

Mrs. Horace Lugdin went to Blenheim on Friday to meet her sister, who arrived from Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gilles, of William street, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Smith on Friday.

Mrs. J. A. Thompson spent the day on the bar.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoig and family, the Misses Paxton and Miss Marguerite Ardagh, returned to Chatham after a pleasant month spent at Jubilee.

Mrs. W. R. Fellows, Sr., spent the day in Blenheim.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott, station agent of the C. P. R., were Mrs. James Glenn's guests at Killarney.

In spite of the threatening weather there was a very good crowd at the band concert last night. Among those noticed from Chatham were Messrs. Chinnick, Heyward, Gunn, Dennis, Dr. Perdue, Snook; also a party of thirteen came over from Shrewsbury in the Togo.

Miss Ethel Titus and Miss Gertrude Johnston, of Imlay City, Mich., are guests at Drumrochty Lodge.

Mr. Thompson, of the Standard Bank, spent the evening at the Eau.

Mrs. J. E. Oldershaw, of "The Ashcroft," entertained a number of married ladies, yesterday.

Among those present were—Mrs. Hugh McDonald, Mrs. W. H. Benson, Mrs. Hugh Macaulay, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Andrew Thompson, Mrs. S. B. Arnold and Mrs. G. B. Merritt.

Mr. Jno. Perkins is still the crack fisherman of the Eau. Yesterday he landed another lunge, this time a twenty pounder. It was taken in on the evening train to Chatham, still alive, and excited a great deal of envy. Less fortunate fishermen think Mr. Perkins has a special little pond out in the Eau and just goes out every few days.

Bert Eddell spent the evening on the bar.

W. M. Morley was an Erieau visitor yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Weir and daughter June, who have been the guests of Mrs. Oldershaw for the past few days, are returning to the city to-day.

ST. THOMAS HORSE SHOW

The St. Thomas Horse Show Association propose holding their second annual horse show on September 17 and 18 of this year in the large Granite Rink, St. Thomas. The association was formed about two years ago with the object of improving the horse breeding industry, in the County of Elgin, and the first horse show was held last year in conjunction with the Made-in-St. Thomas Exhibition. The success of last year's show has led the management to hold a much larger one this year, and the prize list provides for showing 50 classes. Particular attention has been given to the breeding classes, which will be shown in the mornings, and there are large prizes for all classes of stallions, brood mares and colts.

The association is giving $1,000 in prize money, and the prizes for the farm horses, roadsters, harness horses, saddle horses and hunters are particularly valuable.

Walter Kingsmill, Box 672, St. Thomas, is the secretary.

CAN'T FIND THEIR MAN

Mr. Sullivan, of the Chatham Bent Goods Company, was in Glencoe yesterday straightening up some timber deals made by their buyer, Mr. Arch. McTaggart. It is said that McTaggart was given money to buy timber, and bought from different farmers in the vicinity but failed to pay for it. He is also alleged to have received money from the Columbia Handle Company, of London, to buy timber and failed to deliver the goods. Mr. McTaggart has been living in St. Thomas. He was for several years in the employ of the Sutherland-Innes Company, and was manager of the mill they had in Glencoe a few years ago.

GOT THE FISH

Monday morning, of the coming week, F. P. Robert and wife, and his sister Emma and brother Arch, who are here on a visit, will depart for a trip through the Yellowstone Park, expecting to be absent some time. Past is they propose taking in the whole works. A. G. Robert, of Blackfoot, H. N. Robert, of Chatham, Ontario, F. P. Robert, Sam. Whitehead, J. W. Jones, Fred. Myers of Bigby, comprised a fishing party who went up to Island Park Tuesday morning. Did they get anything? Well, F. P. always catches them.—Idaho Press

Idleness, like industry, is catching.
