THE BLUE PUMAS

—BY C. RANGER GULL.

PART I.

Little Sammy Richardson stood upon the terrace of the villa, high up above Monte Carlo. By his side was pretty Audrey Bayne—Audrey of the copper-colored hair and melting violet eyes.

The sun was just sinking into the Mediterranean. In the distance Corsica lay like a faint purple haze on the horizon. Far, far below were the roofs of Monte Carlo, the long white building of the Casino set in its green gardens, and beyond the great rock of the Tete du Chien with the Royal Palace and the Cathedral. It was a scene of incomparable loveliness.

Audrey sighed.

"It is almost too beautiful," she said in her low musical voice. "Oh that I had the wings of a dove!"

Little Sammy Richardson, who was very much in love with Audrey, and who did not profess to follow her in poetic flights, took a slim watch from the pocket of his white waistcoat—they were both dressed for a dinner party—and made a remark about the time.

Audrey beat impatiently upon the marble with her little foot in its shoe of white kid.

"You are hopelessly prosaic, Sammy," she said. "I don't feel as if I could go to the Villa Turquoise after all. I would rather sit here and dream!"

Sammy started. "My dear child," he cried, "not to go to the Villa Turquoise, not to dine with the Marquis de Senterre and meet Camille la Rose? Why nine-tenths of the people on the Riviera would give their eye for the chance. We shall have a wonderful night, a night to remember always!"

Audrey shrugged her pretty shoulders. Nothing in the world short of an earthquake would have prevented her dining with the celebrated Marquis de Senterre that night. But she did not tell the faithful Sammy this. Sammy had six thousand a year and was a good little chap. He would make an excellent husband if he were not a desirable turned up. Meanwhile, he must be duly snubbed and instilled with a sense of his own inferiority.

"You don't understand," she said with another sigh, "but there, the life of romance is over forever, I suppose. At any rate, we shall see it to-night in its last and most courtly survival."

"You mean the old Marquis? Jolly old boy! One of the best big-game shots in the world, despite his age, and what he doesn't know about wild animals no one living knows."

"Sammy, how hopeless you are! Don't you know that the Marquis de Senterre is one of the last great Royalists of France; that he is the hero of a dozen love romances which convulsed the courts of Europe in their time; that he has fought ever so many duels and that he stands alone as the proudest, finest and most melancholy cavalier alive?"

"Priceless old bean, what?" was all that poor Sammy could reply, when, to his relief, Colonel Bayne, Audrey's father, came out to the terrace and announced that the car was waiting and that they must go.

The sun sank into the water as they started down the grove of orange trees which led to the house, where the fruit nestles like golden balls among the leaves of dark jade. A soft breeze eddied through the palm trees, and the flowers of the southern garden gave up their sweetest perfume now that the hot, lazy day was over. Soon the moon would rise to wash the Maritime Alps with silver, and the fireflies begin to dance in the gardens.

About the House

LOOKING COOL IN HOT WEATHER.

In order to appear to advantage in spite of weather conditions, one must look warm in cold weather and cool in warm weather. The latter is perhaps hardest to achieve, but a calm manner, clothing to suit the occasion, daintiness and cleanliness of person and of one's belongings will always create a favorable impression.

Toilet helps are needed, too, not only for appearance but for comfort. A bathtub with an abundance of running water is an aid to comfort, beauty and health. In the home where the fully appointed bathroom is a thing of the future, a portable bathtub can be used, or the sponge bath will have to serve. It is sometimes possible to rig up a shower-bath in an outside shed, but a shower-bath seems to be more popular with boys than with girls.

A bath serves several purposes. Not only does it cleanse the surface of the skin, but it facilitates the removal of dead cuticle and opens the pores, allowing many impurities to escape. In order to accomplish these, I prefer the hot tub bath taken at night, when free perspiration is allowed to follow. The daytime bath, usually a hurried affair, may be followed by the use of talcum powder. Sponging the body with lukewarm water has a cooling effect and is very refreshing on a warm day. Such a bath can well become a part of the afternoon toilet and can be followed by a liberal use of talcum powder in order to check the perspiration which would be so uncomfortable an accompaniment.

The talcum powder used in summer should be delicate in scent; many people object to heavy perfumes at any time, but in very hot weather such perfumes are really unpleasant. Unfortunately, people who use perfumes constantly become so used to them that they do not realize when they are using them to excess. The well-bred woman purchases a good quality of perfume, then uses it sparingly. She also chooses perfume, talcum powder, sachet powder and toilet water having the same odor, for mixed odors sometimes clash.

If the skin chafes from heat and perspiration, use stearate of zinc for a dusting powder. This powder is very fine and smooth and will often heal and give relief when other powders fail.

While perspiration is very necessary to one's well-being, it can also be gather three minutes he found that she knew as much about cocktails as himself!

Suddenly above the hum of conversation there became audible a soft sound like birds singing. It swelled and rose until it resolved itself into a concert of hidden flutes and drums—strange, delicate music such as few of them had ever heard before. Then they saw that the Marquis was leading Madame la Rose toward a glowing archway which had suddenly appeared in the wall, and setting to their appointed partners, they all began to follow.

"I guess," whispered Miss Susie B. Yates to Sammy Richardson, "I guess we are going to be surprised some tonight. I feel on the threshold of new experiences."

"They say the Marquis never does things like any one else," said Sammy, as a footman in black and gold with powdered hair conducted them to their table.

The dining room at the Villa Turquoise was all blue and gold. There was one table upon a dais, at which the Marquis, Madame la Rose and a few other privileged people sat—Sammy, with a pang at his heart saw that Audrey was among them—and the rest of the guests made parties of four at little tables set all around the room in alcoves of flowering roses and azaleas. Candles were the only light. There must have been hundreds of them there in massive silver holders, and the light was reflected in a fountain which laughed and sparkled in the centre of the room and rose half way to the vaulted roof, where the gods and goddesses of ancient Greece disported themselves in an azure sky. Sammy and Miss Susie's opposites were Lord Sir James Eaves, one of the leaders of Riviera society for twenty years, and the brilliant young Countess O'Rourke, a French girl of ancient family who had married the Irish Count O'Rourke, chamberlain to his Holiness the Pope.

The dinner was perfect. After the plump ortolans, when little gold dishes of button radishes with a lark's tongue inserted in each one, and nestling on a bed of crushed ice, were being served, a rumor went round, how nobody could have said, that something very special was in preparation for the after-dinner amusement of the guests.

The talk went on, flashing and glancing from table to table while the rare and costly viands were consumed, and wines such as many emperors could not command were poured into the blue Venetian glasses with threads of gold in the delicate fabric. All the while, heard from a distance, came strange, sweet music, sometimes of flutes and drums, sometimes of harps and violins, and once they heard the dreamy notes of the cor de chasse, that hunting horn of the old kings of France, when the court pursued a stag royal in the forests of Versailles.

"Never been done so well in my life, never," said Sammy Richardson, pouring some 1815 brandy into his coffee.

Minard's Liniment for Coughs & Colds

A POPULAR SUIT STYLE FOR THE SMALL BOY.

4380. Linen, drill, Indian head, flannel and serge, also pongee and jersey cloth would be attractive for this style, which appeals so much to the "little seaman." The blouse may be finished in smock style or with the lower edge drawn in bloused effect.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size requires 2½ yards of 40-inch material. Blue linen with white facings would be pleasing, or white drill with trimming of orange or green.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps, by the Wilson Publishing Company, 73 West Adelaide Street, Toronto.

very uncomfortable and unpleasant, especially when accompanied by odors. There is an excellent soap to be used when body odors are present and mild cases are helped by rubbing a pinch of bicarbonate of soda into the armpits. When the odor is unpleasantly strong, a deodorant should be used. There are numerous deodorants on the market. They come in cream, powder or liquid form and are applied to the armpits, between the toes and to any creases in the flesh.

Excessive perspiration under the arms is very troublesome when thin waists or sleeves are worn. There are several remedies which will check this activity of the sweat glands and without harm to the person using them.

Whether one freckles or tans, long motor-trips are very hard on the skin and, in either case, the ounce of prevention is better than the pound of cure. There is a healing lotion to be applied to the face, hands and arms before going out in the wind or sun and after it is absorbed by the skin, a light dusting of powder may be applied.

The thinnest coating of powder will afford protection. After long exposure to sun or wind and dust, cleanse the skin thoroughly with cold cream, allowing the cream to work into the pores, then remove with absorbent cotton and an old linen towel or handkerchief. The face should not be washed until the next morning, when the inflammation, caused by sun or wind, has subsided. The face may then be well washed with warm water and a good soap, and well rinsed with cold water. This method is suggested for motorists or after unusual exposure.

HELP NOT WANTED.

To hire house help on the farm is an impossibility in our section at times, and yet the canning and the churning, the sweeping and the dusting and the feeding and care of a large family goes on. It pays no mother to break herself down or to work so hard that she finds no joy in her family life, and in order to build for herself a satisfying existence she must not only put her shoulder willingly to the wheel, but she must learn how to employ the co-operation of her family.

Thrift can be exercised in many ways besides the saving of money. The farm wife can practice the thrift of simple menus; unnecessary housework and odd jobs. I figured that if one person's thrift was a valuable thing, the thrift of a whole family would prove a wonderful thing. The plan I laid before my household was adopted and now our sign (did we need to advertise it) would read "Help Not Wanted."

"First," I explained, "I am going to be thrifty on steps. Any one who can save mother a step on trips about the house and yard must do so. For instance, if some one passes the woodpile empty-handed, he can save me steps by bringing in an armful of wood. If any one goes to the barn, he can carry out the calves' milk; if you pass the granary, bring in the corn for the chickens. Just a question of your heads saving my heels.

"Don't go anywhere empty-handed. If you go upstairs, take the laundry with you; when you come down, bring the waste-baskets and empty them. You can all, from baby Tommy to grandpa, do your share and make it possible for me to be relieved of the morning task of putting away toys, clothes, newspapers and books. I need more minutes for sewing, more time for mending, more hours for leisure, and it is in your power to make the gift."

Lifebuoy may be safely used on the tenderest skin.

It is wonderfully cleansing for little hands, faces, and bodies.

It leaves a delightful freshness and softness.

Lifebuoy babies have beautiful healthy skins.

We set our rising hour but fifteen minutes earlier and with every one helping we accomplished wonders. It meant that I was able to get through the necessary work efficiently and well and without the loss of health or patience. It meant a trip away from home because for once mother had caught up with the children's sewing and was willing to take the time that her family had been able to give her. —Marjorie Street.

Minard's Liniment for Corns and Warts

The Answer Was in the Affirmative.

The recent death of the Siamese twins, Josefa and Rosa Blazek, reminds the Argonaut of a story about the original Siamese twins, Chang and Eng, who were joined together at the hips.

It is said that when the absent-minded Duke of St. Albans went to see them in London he bent a distracted look upon them for a few seconds and then perfunctorily asked the attendant, who stood by, "Are they brothers?"

Fulfills Its Purpose.

Two Irishmen had visited St. Paul's Cathedral. One was from the country, and had been taken to the famous building by his friend, who wished him to be duly impressed by its grandeur.

As they came out, the resident of the city said, "Well, Mike, and phwat do you think of it? Isn't it grand?" "Pat," said the one from the country, "it bates the devil!" "That," said his friend, "was the intonation."

Knew She Would Fly.

"Dad calls the maid 'angel,' ma! Will she get wings?" "I can't say, my dear, but I know she's going to fly."

H. E. Bywater, Editor and Proprietor

A newspaper may boom a town through its editorial and news columns, but a critical investor takes his cue from the advertising columns for substantial evidence as to the thrift and prosperity of the place. To him the advertising is the barometer that measures the prosperity of a town. The ads. reflect a prosperous condition and tells him that the place is up with the times in business.

Toronto Saturday Night editor discussing the condition of society there concludes his deductions with the remark that the youngsters must be running the homes and not the parents. He is not astray. Juvenile depravity and crime have their origin in homes where parental restraint and control are lacking. There was an old-time method that seemed to succeed with a fair amount of regularity. Children were simply put to bed, and they remained there, and if there was any fuss it was easily cured by a liberal application of a strap or slipper. Parental authority seems to have collapsed and the children are perforce going at an astonishing pace to the bad. Yes, parents are the sinners.

Canada Confident of the Future

CANADA is endeavoring to regain her after-the-war stride in the midst of many difficulties, — debt, deflation and depression being some of them.

Quack remedies and academic theories beset her path on every side. Some suggest that our debt worries can best be eased by going further into debt. Others preach blue ruin, decry their own country and indulge in mischievous propaganda generally, while still others look for a new social order or some miraculous sign to indicate a better coming day—all this in apparent forgetfulness of the fact that just as there was no royal road to win the war, there is now no royal road to pay for it or regain our former buoyancy, vigor and confidence.

Some are leaving Canada hoping to escape taxation, only to find there is no escape anywhere. In seeking for easy remedies too many of us overlook the fact that the greatest remedy is honest, hard work faithfully and intelligently performed, accompanied by old-fashioned thrift.

It takes time, it takes patience, it takes grit. But every Canadian knows in his heart that Canada is coming through all right.

Our Experience Proves It

Look back over the path Canada has trod. The French Colonists, cut off from civilization by 3,000 miles of sea, faced a continent—a wilderness—without the aid of even a blazed trail. They had to fight savages, frosts, scurvy, loneliness and starvation.

The United Empire Loyalists subdued an unbroken forest in one generation, growing their first wheat amid the stumps and snags of the new clearing.

The Selkirk settlers came to Manitoba when the prairie was a buffalo pasture, and grew wheat where none had grown before and where those who knew the country best at that time said wheat would never grow. Today the Canadian prairies grow the finest wheat in the world.

In proportion to population Canada stands to-day among the wealthiest nations in the world, with average savings on deposit per family of $300. Canada's foreign trade per head of population stands amongst the highest of the commercial nations, being $192 per capita in 1922-23, as compared with $135 in 1913-14, the "peak" year before the war.

New Opportunities for Canada

In Canada, although prices in the world markets fell below war level, our farmers reaped last autumn the largest grain crop in Canadian history, and Canada became the world's largest exporter of wheat, thus in large measure making up for lower prices.

Last year, Great Britain, after an agitation extending over thirty years, removed the embargo on Canadian cattle, and a profitable and practically unlimited trade is opening up for Canadian stockers and feeders.

In 1920 there were cut in Canada 4,024,826 cords of pulpwood. This would, if piled four feet high and four feet wide, reach in a continuous line over 6,000 miles, or the distance from Vancouver to Halifax, and out over the Atlantic to Queenstown, Ireland.

Trees to the number of 10,000 were distributed among Saskatoon school children by the Parks Officials and Dominion Forestry Branch on the occasion of Arbor Day. Each child received one maple and one ash. Last year only 5,000 trees were distributed.

The Empress of France, of the Canadian Pacific fleet, now on the trans-Atlantic service between Hamburg, Southampton and Cherbourg to Quebec, holds the record for the fastest journey between Quebec and Liverpool, having crossed in 5 days, 22 hours and 35 minutes, just two hours less than the Empress of Britain.

General Sir Arthur Currie will unveil a memorial cairn at Sault Ste. Marie to Etienne Brule and his companion Grenon, the coureurs de bois, who found the Sault and discovered Lake Superior in 1622. Notwithstanding that there will be an increase this year in Canadian Pacific steamship traffic on the St. Lawrence, with 17 more sailings than in 1922, Canadian Pacific officials report that ships are being well booked and that according to present indications the 1923 season will show improvement in ocean trade from both Montreal and Quebec.

CROPS and CAUTION

THE modern farmer, confronted by weather hazards on one side and marketing conditions on the other, is forced to act with caution if he is to come through the season successfully.

No one knows better than the farmer the necessity for conservation—the economical handling of time, material and money.

And no bank knows better than the Bank of Montreal how to co-operate with farmers to the end that their financial affairs and business interests shall be placed on a sound basis.

EMPRESS OF CANADA ESTABLISHES NEW RECORD

EMPRESS OF CANADA - QUEEN OF THE PACIFIC

FOLLOWING the announcement that the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada" has been chosen to show the world to 500 tourists in a 30,000 mile Round the World cruise, leaving New York in January next, comes the news that this majestic vessel has added to her laurels by establishing a new trans-Pacific record. On her last eastward voyage, the "Empress of Canada" made the run from Yokohama to Vancouver in 8 days, 10 hours and 55 minutes, nearly eight hours less than the previous record which was established in 1914, and held since by the "Empress of Russia," a sister ship. The average speed of the "Canada" on her record trip was 20.6 knots per hour.

As with all Canadian Pacific liners the speed attained was no more than was compatible with safety in the opinion of the Commander of the vessel, and comfort for the passengers.

The "Empress of Canada" with a gross tonnage of 22,000 tons has accommodation for 1,766 passengers in all classes and a crew of 547. Of her cargo space a large portion has been fitted for the carriage of silk and refrigerated cargo.

The first class accommodation is indeed of the premiere class, including luxurious suites with private bathrooms in addition to the single, double and family rooms. The staterooms are of the most modern type, a telephone system between all rooms and offices affording an additional attraction to travellers.

There is even a well appointed swimming pool on board with a gymnasium adjoining. The large lounge provides ample room for concerts and the moving pictures which are a special feature of the Canadian Pacific service. It was remembered when designing the interior of the Empress of Canada that she was for semi-tropical service and the rooms are large and airy, and the last word in marine architecture.

Captain Hailey, R.N.R., the ship's Captain, having joined the Canadian Pacific as junior officer on the "Empress of Japan" in 1900, and he is the recipient of many congratulatory messages on his distinction as Commander of the fastest and best appointed ship on the Pacific.

CANADA'S UNFAVORABLE TRADE BALANCE OVERCOME DURING 1922-23

The trade report for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1923, shows Canada's business to be considerably higher than for the previous year. For the year figures show a favorable trade balance of $129,772,400 as against an adverse trade balance of $1,748,539,880 in comparison with an adverse trade balance of $50,961,855 in the year ending March, 1921.

Canada's total trade in the year just ended amounted to $1,734,686,486 in comparison with $1,488,033,664 in the previous year, an increase of $246,652,822. Of this total $802,457,043 was accounted for by imports as against $747,762,984 in the previous year, an increase of $54,694,059, and $932,229,443 by exports as compared with $740,240,680, an increase for the year of $191,988,763. Exported foreign merchandise to the extent of $13,844,394 brought the grand total of Canadian trade for the year up to $7,748,539,880 in comparison with $1,501,689,993.

Leading in the list of Canada's imports for the year were fibres, textiles and textile products to the extent of $170,146,958. Iron and iron products accounted for $148,241,455; non-metallic minerals, $139,919,012; agricultural and vegetable products, mainly foods, $108,701,762; agricultural and vegetable products other than foods, $52,040,022; animals and animal products, $46,737,774; miscellaneous, $46,136,811; non-ferrous metals, $37,492,604; and chemicals and allied products, $25,793,101.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS HEAD EXPORT LIST

The export list is headed by agricultural and vegetable products, mainly food, which accounts for $384,226,936. Next in line, also accounting for a heavy volume, wood, wood products and paper with $229,165,216. Animal and animal products are also over the hundred million mark with $137,486,160. Iron and its products account for $54,373,173; non-ferrous metals, $45,753,498; non-metallic minerals, $28,317,634; miscellaneous, $18,511,579; agricultural and vegetable products other than foods, $26,713,214; chemical and allied products, $14,743,804; and fibres, textiles and textile products, $9,272,623.

The total trade Canada transacted within the year with countries of the British Empire was $619,183,477, and with foreign countries $1,114,733,009. The individual country with which the heaviest trade was carried on was the United States, amounting to $910,907,650, followed by the United Kingdom with $510,365,116. Total trade with France amounted to $20,338,353; with British West Indies, $21,957,304; with Japan, $21,721,148; with Australia, $20,241,687; with Belgium, $17,522,617; with Cuba, $16,379,086; with the Netherlands, $15,498,176; with British East Indies, $15,246,819; and with Germany, $11,517,884.

INCREASES IN IMPORT TRADE

Increases in Canada's import trade are noted in business with Africa and the Indies, the United Kingdom, United States, Newfoundland, New Zealand, Argentina, Belgium, China, Germany, Italy, Mexico, Netherlands, Norway and Sweden. There were notable declines in importations from Cuba, France, Greece, Japan and Switzerland. The substantial increase recorded in the value of Canada's export trade business with the United Kingdom accounted for $79,705,770 of this increment and that with the United States for $76,491,576. Exports to China increased from $1,900,627 to $5,125,697; to France from $8,208,228 to $14,118,377; and to Germany from $4,509,547 to $9,950,877. There were heavy increases in exports to Australia, South and West Africa, Cuba, and Mexico and smaller increases in the cases of Bermuda, West Indies, Hong Kong, Argentina, Belgium, Greece, Netherlands, Roumania, Sweden and Switzerland. The only decreases in export trade recorded were in trade with Newfoundland, Brazil, Italy, Norway and, to a small extent, with Japan.

A SATISFACTORY SHOWING

Canada's trade for the last fiscal year makes on the whole a very gratifying showing. Not only has a greater volume of business been transacted, but it has been the kind of business most beneficial to Canada and an unfavorable trade balance has been turned into a favorable one. Dealing only with Canada's two principal customers, a small increase in imports from the United States is more than counterbalanced by a substantial increase in export trade to that country, and in spite of the greater volume of business transacted, the unfavorable balance against Canada has been much reduced; whilst the greater amount of business transacted between Canada and the United Kingdom, indicated in a larger favorable balance in the case of the Dominion.

DISCOVERY WEEK IN SAULT STE. MARIE

Sault Ste. Marie will celebrate the discovery of Lake Superior in August, by a series of interesting fetes. "Hawatha" will be played by the Indians, fourteen of them being cast in the well known characters of Longfellow's story. The pictures show two of the historical spots which will be included in the events of the week, top, the Hudson's Bay block house built in 1819, and below, the first lock built in North America. It was built by the North-West Fur Company in 1797 for canoes and bateaux.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN U.S. IMMIGRATION

New Designation for British Isles — "Quotas" for 1924 Announced by Washington.

A despatch from Washington says:—The new immigration "quotas" for the fiscal year 1924 have been announced by W. W. Husband, Commissioner-General of Immigration. They show no vital changes from the allotments for the fiscal year 1923, which ended on June 30. The only ones that have been made are a result of political changes in Europe.

There is no change in the total number of immigrants that can be admitted during the fiscal year that opened on July 1. This is fixed by law, and remains the same—71,561 aliens may be admitted monthly, or 357,803 immigrants for the entire year. Nor is there any alteration in the number of immigrants entitled to entry from the United Kingdom, Germany, Italy, Sweden and Russia—the countries ordinarily sending the most immigrants to the United States under existing conditions. All told, there is a shift in allotment of only 555 immigrants from the "quota" of one country to that of another.

The regions involved in this change of allotments are designated as Austria, Greece, Hungary, Lithuania, Poland, Syria, Turkey and "other Asiatics." Another interesting aspect of the new quota regulations involved no change of allotment, but one of designation. The British Isles are entitled to send 77,342 immigrants to the United States during the current fiscal year, which was also their allotment for the past fiscal year, but the British Isles were designated in the 1922-1923 quota list as the "United Kingdom," whereas the new quota list for 1923-1924 designates that part of the world under the heading, "Great Britain and Northern Ireland; Irish Free State." No attempt is made by the American authorities to subdivide the quota of 77,342 allotted to "Great Britain and Northern Ireland" and the "Irish Free State." It makes no difference to the American Government whether all of these come from England, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland or the Irish Free State.

The new designation for the British Isles is understood to have been made so as to conform with that of the British Government.

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, says:
Some of the structural materials of Ontario, among them lime, brick and building stone, while not approaching the values of the gold and silver output of the province, yield quite large returns, and occupy a very important position in the building industry.

During 1922 there were sold or used in the construction, chemical and other industries in Ontario, 3,611,022 bushels of quicklime, valued at $1,265,775; 37,094 tons of hydrated lime, valued at $482,543, and 172,881,000 bricks, valued at $3,218,126. Canada from Coast to Coast

Fredericton, N.B.—An annual grant of $5,000 for three successive years for the purpose of conducting investigation and experimental re-seeding of burned and cut over timber lands in New Brunswick has been made available by the Advisory Council of Scientific Research of Canada. Representative areas are not less than ten acres each will be selected in different climatic conditions on which the experimental work will be conducted.

Quebec, Que.—Work is now in progress throughout the whole province on provincial highways, regional roads and new sections of roads, which are being completed, according to an announcement of the Roads Department. In view of the late season, extra crews have been employed by the contractors in order that the work may be completed on time.

Timmins, Ont.—Up to the end of 1922 dividends paid by the gold and silver mines of Northern Ontario amounted to over $123,135,000. Cobalt camp was discovered late in 1903 and hardly began producing until 1905. Dividends paid out of Cobalt mines amount to $93,863,820, which represents practically 50 per cent. of the gross value of production. Porcupine mines have paid $28,472,988.

Winnipeg, Man.—Weather conditions throughout the Prairie Provinces during the past week have been excellent from a crop development standpoint, according to the weekly crop report of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Seeding is now completed and all provinces report crop in excellent shape. There is some danger, however, of grain crops making too rapid progress and not rooting deeply enough.

Not only are the first four sections of the 15,000-ton floating dock already under construction but dredging and extensive re-modelling of the present entire shipyard plant is also being carried out as a necessary preliminary to the construction of the two piers and installation of a complete ship-repairing plant which will necessitate an expenditure of approximately $1,250,000.

"Should there be no serious impairment between now and harvest, the West looks like astonishing the world with a 500,000,000 bushel crop," declared R. C. Craig, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, who returned to the city after a three weeks' motor trip through central and northern Saskatchewan and Alberta. He reports crop conditions excellent everywhere.

CREW OF MISSING SHIP REPORTED SAFE

Captain Foster of the Trevesa Wires Wife from Mauritius.

A despatch from London says:—A mystery of the sea had a happy ending when Mrs. Foster, a resident of Barry, received an unsigned cable message from the Island of Mauritius, in the Indian Ocean, reading: "Safe, excellent health."

Mrs. Foster is the wife of Captain Foster, of the British ship Trevesa, which was given up for lost in the Indian Ocean nearly a month ago, since which time the wife has been prostrated with grief.

The Trevesa, a vessel of 5,000 tons, was on a voyage from Australia to England, when, on May 28, a wireless message from her was picked up, saying that she was sinking, and that the crew had taken to the boats. The wireless call was received by the Trevesa, owned by the same company, which vessel at that time was but 300 miles from the position given by the Trevesa. The Trevesa hastened to the scene, and searched for the survivors until June 7, when she reported from Sydney that she had found only wreckage and an overturned boat.

Coming on the heels of the message to Mrs. Foster was a cablegram from the vessel's owners, filed by Captain Foster from the Island of Rodriguez, in which he reported that he had arrived there with 16 members of his crew, and believed the boat containing the others would turn up.

HEALTH EDUCATION

BY DR. J. J. MIDDLETON
Provincial Board of Health, Ontario

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at Spadina House, Spadina Crescent, Toronto.

The study of diets in their relation to disease has been up to the present a sadly neglected subject. In all progressive countries, however, there is at the present time an extraordinary interest being taken in the question of dieting, particularly as regards the causation of certain diseases, the origin of which has hitherto been somewhat obscure. Much of the food eaten to-day is not of the right kind to promote and maintain good health. It is deficient in fat-soluble vitamins, because through habit or custom, large numbers of people are not particularly fond of green vegetables, milk, cheese or eggs. When the question of green vegetables is mentioned many people shrug their shoulders and say they could not get accustomed to hay. Little do they know how essential green vegetables are in keeping the diet properly balanced so that food health may be maintained. The ordinary diet consists largely of bread, butcher's meat, potatoes, jam, tea and coffee. Milk is often neglected, and yet milk should form a larger part of our diet than is at present the case.

The problem of such a commonplace thing as defective teeth would be

THANKFUL MOTHERS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little one she would use nothing else. The Tablets give such results that the mother has nothing but words of praise and thankfulness. Among the thousands of mothers throughout Canada who praise the Tablets is Mrs. David A. Anderson, New Glasgow, N.S., who writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and from my experience I would not be without them. I would urge every other mother to keep a box of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Mutus Trick

M U T U S
D E D I T
N O M E N
C O C I S

This is a most spectacular parlor trick with cards and one that is rarely seen nowadays. It will well repay the slight study it requires. To perform it memorize this phrase of nearly meaningless Latin: MUTUS DEDIT NOMEN COCIS.

Deal twenty cards face upward in pairs. Ask each of ten persons to select a pair and to remember the cards selected. As you will observe when you try the trick you can use less than 10 assistants—but the more the better.

Take up the pairs in their order. Keep the table in your mind and imagine it painted on the floor as in the drawing. Deal the first card on the imaginary M in MUTUS and its mate on the equally imaginary M in NOMEN. Deal the first card of the second pair on the first imaginary U in MUTUS and its mate on the second imaginary U. The first card of the third pair goes on the imaginary T in MUTUS and its mate on the imaginary T in DEDIT.

When all of the cards are dealt in this manner ask one person to tell you in which rows his cards are. If he says, for example, that it is in the first and last rows, you know that it is the card you placed on the imaginary S's as S is the only letter which is in both of those rows.

(Clip this out and paste it, with others of the series, in a scrap-book.)

Polar Air Line to East Planned by Stefansson.

Air routes across the polar regions, between England and the Far East, will be established if Viljalmar Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, is able to convince the British government of the merits of the scheme, which he arrived here to advocate, says a London despatch. The explorer claims that flying conditions in the polar area are as good as in any other part of the world, and calls for a new imperial outlook on the policy of opening up a short route to the Far East.

Stressing the great saving in time which would be effected, Stefansson pointed out that the distance from London to Tokio by the trans-Siberian route is 9,557 miles, while that across the polar regions would be 4,960 miles—a saving of practically half.

He already has placed his views before the Canadian government at Ottawa.

Roads.

So many, many roads lie traced
Where wanderers may stray—
Roads twining, weaving, interlaced,
Roads sorrowful and gay,
Running through countrysides and town
They climb the mountain steep,
Through storied realms of far renown
Unceasingly they creep,
When silver moonlight floods the night—
O hark! across the sea,
These roads, the wanderer's delight,
Are calling you and me,
Singing their challenge sweet and clear
For wanderers to roam;
But at once, I only hear
The road that leads me home!

GIRLS AND WOMEN HELD BY ANAEMIA

Rich, Red Blood Needed to Restore Their Health.

There are thousands of growing girls and women held in the deadly clutches of anaemia. Slowly but surely a deathly pallor settles on their cheeks; their eyes grow dull; their step languid; their appetite fickle. Daily they are losing their vitality and brightness. Pains in the side, headaches and backaches follow, and life seems to be scarcely worth living. What is needed in cases of this kind is new, rich red blood which will bring back to weak, ailing girls and women the charm and brightness of perfect health. To obtain this new, rich blood try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Their action is directly upon the blood; they supply the elements necessary to make it rich and red, and in this way they bring back the glow of health to the cheeks; brightness to the eyes, and a lightness and energy to the step. Among those who have found benefit through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss Emma J. Johnston, R.R. No. 1, Clinton, Ont., who says:—"In the spring of 1921 I felt weak and very much run down. It was with difficulty that I forced myself to work at all. I had headaches, was very pale, and felt constantly tired. In our local paper I ran across the testimonial of a lady who told of the benefit she had from using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to give them a trial. Very soon I felt a change for the better, and by the time I had taken five boxes I felt like a new person. The tired, worn out feeling had vanished and I could go about my work from morning until night without any difficulty. I certainly cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and when I meet anyone weak and run-down I strongly advise them to give these pills a trial."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No More the Lilacs Wave.

No more the lilacs wave—a purple glory—
Their petals blow about us as we pass;
Again spring's loveliest things have told their story,
Gay tulip cups lie broken in the grass;
Soon peony time will come and go, and after,
Red roses hurt us with their perfectness,
And from old apple orchards flickers' laughter
Break through the garden's silence less and less.

Quaint silhouette against a white pillar—
With beaks stretched wide above a clay bowl's rim—
Four hungry fledglings twitter: "Faster, faster."
To redbreasts hovering on a nearby limb,
While in my heart a voice cries, no whit lower:
"O Time, go slower, slower, slower,

The Choice.

When skies are blue and days are bright,
A kitchen garden's my delight,
Set round with rows of decent box
And blowy girls of hollyhock.

The currant-bushes' spicy smell,
Homely and honest, likes me well,
The while on strawberries I feast,
And raspberries the sun hath kissed.

Beans all a-blowing by a row
Of hives that great with honey go,
With mignonette and heaths to yield
The plundering bee his honey-field.

Sweet herbs in plenty, blue borage,
And the delicious mint and sage,
Rosemary, marjoram and rue,
And thyme to scent the winter through.

Here are small apples growing round,
And apricots all golden-gowned,
And plums that presently will flush
And show their bush a burning bush.

Lavender, sweet-briar, orris. Here
Shall beauty make her pomander,
Her sweet-balls for to lay in clothes
That wrap her as the leaves the rose.

Take roses red and lilacs white,
A kitchen garden's my delight;
Its gilly flowers and phlox and cloves,
And its tall cote of irised doves.
—Katharine Tynan.

Learn How to Make Stradivarius Violins.

The secret of Stradivarius has been discovered by a Frenchman, after years of research in ancient Italian archives. This cry of "Eureka!" has been heard intermittently during the last two centuries; but French violin manufacturers now declare they are using a varnish which will preserve the vibrant qualities of the wood for centuries, and that the instruments turned out by the little shops not far from the Bastille will be just as famous 500 years hence as is any "Strad" to-day.

The whole charm of the Cremona violins—without giving other details as to proportions or method of application—it seems, consisted in the use of a certain mixture of resinous amber and olive oil. Modern fiddles have been treated only with ordinary resin and alcohol varnishes.

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 15 years old I would get such sick feelings in the lower part of my abdomen, followed by cramps and vomiting. This kept me from my work (I help my parents on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. Or at times I would have to walk the floor. I suffered in this way until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I surely am glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I don't have these troubles."—ODELLA HOLMBERG, Box 93, Viking, Alta.

Letters like this establish the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it.

In the afternoon he emphasized the great importance of thorough organization in the Sunday School and advocated the use of the graded lessons. He strongly recommended the annual promotion of pupils in the Sunday Schools as in the day schools, using the attractive and impressive ceremonies used in many schools, and found so far-reaching in their influence and so fascinating to parents as well as pupils.

At the evening session, the speaker, by his fluency, his keen enthusiasm in his chosen work, his humor and his well chosen illustrations, kept the attention of his audience keyed to its highest pitch. The speaker made very clear the great importance of the Sunday School to the child, the parent, the church and the nation. No Sunday School should be without its Cradle Roll and Home Department. To be efficient a Sunday School should be well organized, having at the head of each department one who has a vision of the possibilities of his department and who has a passion for the uplifting of humanity.

Between sessions, refreshments were served in the Methodist Church. At the evening session Miss Carrie Robeson and Mrs. Barclay sang a duet accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. G. Towriss.

The 1924 convention will be held at Elbe.
