Man Loses Leg Stealing a Ride

Attempted to Board Freight Train Near Here on Tuesday

John Alwright aged fifty-five years, was taken to Moncton Tuesday afternoon on the Ocean Limited with his right foot so badly crushed that when he was taken to the hospital the foot had to be amputated above the ankle. Alwright received his injuries while attempting to board a freight train just east of Newcastle. He and a companion were beating their way on trains. Both men hail from Montreal.

W M S ELECT OFFICERS

At the Methodist W M S Convention in St Stephen Thursday, Mrs T A Clarke of Newcastle was elected Treasurer of the Auxiliary, and Misses Hart and Bird Missedaries. The treasurer's report showed an increase of $1,230.97 over last year. An intensely interesting and instructive address on "Behind the Lines" was delivered by the president, Mrs C F Stanford, who, in her remarks, made a strong appeal for more missionaries. The doors are open for five in Japan, nine for China, and three for the Indian work in Canada.

ANNUAL MEETING OF METHODIST DISTRICT

Held at Millerton This Week Resolution of Regret at Loss of Dr. Squires who is Joining Presbyterian Ministry

On Tuesday evening the Chatham Methodist District opened at Derby with a public meeting in the Methodist Church. The following members of the District were present: Revs G A Ross, (chairman) J J Pinkerton, F L Bertram, E Rowlands, W Lawson, G F Stebbings, Dr C W Squires, T Pierce, H C Upton, I F Curtis.

Rev George A Ross presided and gave a practical and inspiring address. A feature of the evening was the baptism of the youngest child of Rev and Mrs Rowlands of Derby. The District met at 8.30 the following morning in ministerial session. After devotional exercises routine business was taken up.

At this session Rev Dr C W Squires of Newcastle announced his resignation from the church and the following resolution was passed unanimously by the meeting:

Whereas: The Rev C W Squires M A D D of Newcastle, has been an accredited minister of the Methodist Church for eighteen years, and now tenders his resignation from our communion to connect himself with the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in Canada; therefore be it

Resolved: that the District Meeting while regretting the severance of happy and helpful associations, accepts the judgement expressed in his new choice and recommends to the Annual Conference that his resignation be accepted and the necessary credentials duly issued.

The District would also extend to Brother Squires its best wishes for his happiness and success in his new sphere of labor.

Dr Squires expressed his appreciation of the spirit of the District.

After some discussion as to the possibility of co-operation with other churches the meeting adjourned.

The District met in the afternoon at 8.30—Various committees were elected and the work of the different circuits reported.

Rev Mr Rettle, secretary of Miramichi Presbytery was then introduced and addressed the District on the question of co-operation between the two denominations on weak circuits and urged the appointment of a committee from the District to meet a committee already appointed by the Presbytery to consider the question.

The following were elected lay delegates to confer:—W H Anderson, R W Beers, T A Clarke, W J Kent, J Watling, W B Sawin, Jas W Robertson, W A Wilson, R S Curll Alternate—H H Stuart and S McLoon.

The evening session was mainly occupied with consideration of the various schemes of the church. Great emphasis was placed upon the plans for religious education and evangelism and a resolution was passed endorsing the principles underlying the plans submitted.

The financial contributions of the District show an increase of $186.05, a splendid showing in view of the many demands for war purpose. All the other funds show excellent advances. The Sunday School report showed an increase over last year of $383.14 for all purposes. An increase of 35 members for the District was reported, 15 of them being in Newcastle church.

Memorials to General Conference were: In relation to district on the Stationing Committee; the election of General Conference representatives, one member from each district appointed by Conference instead of one member in every twelve as now; and the appointment of chairmen of Districts at Conference from each District meeting separately after station sheet is read.

After various memorials were presented and discussed the District closed.

WEDNESDAY HALF HOLIDAY

The petition to close the stores during the months of June, July, August and September on Wednesday and will likely be inaugurated by the majority of our local merchants and will likely be inaugurated on the 19th inst. The half holiday idea is now general all over Canada and its adoption by the local merchants is a move in the right direction, as this is a year when waste effort must be cut out as far as possible. The merchants would appreciate the co-operation of the buying public in their effort to allow their employees one half day each week in which to assist in production and help to win the war.

Black as Dirt About the Eyes

Liver Was All Upset and There Was Pain Under the Shoulder-blade — Two Interesting Letters.

So many people suffer from derangements of the liver that we feel sure these two reports, just recently received, will prove interesting reading and valuable information to many readers of this paper. Mrs. F. L. Harris, Keatley P.O., Sask., writes: "I was suffering from liver trouble—had a heavy pain under one shoulder blade all the time, and was nearly as black as dirt around the eyes, so I concluded to try some of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and before I had taken one 25c box the pain had left me and I commenced to gain in flesh, and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and felt like a new person. My trouble was caused by heavy work out-of-doors, and, of course, heavy eating and constipation. I would advise anyone suffering from kidney or liver trouble to give Dr. Chase's Pills a trial."

A TERRIFIC BATTLE RAGING ON THE MARNE

The Germans Gained Rapidly All Last Week. Coming Within 44 Miles of Paris, But the Tide is Now Turning

The great German drive in France, which began on May 27 on a thirty-five mile front between Rheims and Soissons, crossed the Aisne river and advanced five and a half miles that day. On the 28th they advanced seven miles. On the 29th they captured Soissons and advanced three and a half miles. On the 30th the French were driven back to a line from Noyon to Soissons. By the 31st the invading host had reached the right bank of the Marne on a ten mile front, thirty miles in advance of the starting point on the 27th. On June 2nd the front was within 44 miles of Paris.

A Few Details. I cannot do justice to the history for centuries it is well to add a few details that were lost in the rush and uncertainty of the first few days. We know that the three British and four French divisions had the task of holding the thirty-five miles from northeast of Rheims to north of Soissons. Because the Chemin des Dames was one of the strongest ridges on the western front it was considered unlikely that Ludendorff would select this front for major attacks. Months ago he constructed the gun emplacements and collected material for the attack. Then he ignored the place as if it were infested with a plague. Far to the north his guns shelled the Lys front. Bethune was drenched with gas, Amiens was bombarded with long range guns and Givenchy was made a storm centre. That was highly developed camouflage. Every effort was made to induce Foch to transport his troops to the north.

Meanwhile German troops were concentrated at Laon, St. Quentin and Cambrai. On Sunday evening May 26th, the Crown Prince began to assemble his forces before the Chemin des Dames. At midnight the German artillery and hundreds of trench mortars began to bombard the lines of these seven divisions. This hell-fire lasted a short two hours for the poor devils defending the trenches, but brief seconds to the generals responsible for their support. The Allies' wire defences were cut and about four times as many attackers as defenders, began what has since proved to be the greatest advance since the fighters in the west began to come trench diggers. The end of the second day found the enemy in Braine, Mont Notre Dame and Fismes. Progress was hardly so rapid on the third day evidently because Ludendorff had begun to worry about his flanks. Foch's reserves were coming up to the region around Soissons. Nevertheless the Crown Prince continuing his steady pressure in every direction advanced beyond Mareuil. The Germans advanced rapidly on their right but very slowly on the left.

On Wednesday night they opened a bombardment between Vauxillon and Noyon and at daybreak on Thursday the infantry attacked on this new front. In a few hours they smashed the salient. The battlefront measured well over sixty miles and the attacking forces numbered well over 400,000 on Thursday morning. With the advance on the new front came an increase in the force in the centre. The first German troops reached the Marne on Thursday and Friday. The morning of the 5th day found the Germans attacking along a forty mile front running almost straight from Noyon to Soissons, then southeast to Chateau Thierry on the Marne. The other side of the triangle ran from Dormans, about twenty-five miles northwest to Rheims where the enemy was finding progress extremely slow and costly. During Friday he broadened and made a bulge on the front between Soissons and Chateau Thierry in the direction of Neuilly Saint Font. He reached a point approximately forty four miles from Paris and eighteen miles short of the nearest point he reached in September, 1914. No attempt was made to cross the Marne, only comparatively small forces having reached the river. Meanwhile Foch rushed his reserves to the front. In five days Ludendorff had won an astounding success, penetrating thirty miles, crossing three rivers, cutting three railroads, the greatest of which is the one that feeds Verdun, capturing 45,000 prisoners, more than 400 guns and large quantities of booby, and bringing his forces to within measurable distance of the lines they occupied four years ago. Up to Friday night Foch had incorporated no effective force but there were plenty of signs that the race between Foch and Ludendorff would result in a decisive battle on the outskirts of Paris in the very country where Von Kluck was hurled back in 1914. Every advantage rested with Ludendorff because of his superior communications of which he has made the greatest use. But the pace was so rapid that the odds began to shorten and Foch is slowly approaching the point where he can meet the enemy on more equal footing.

Coincident with the Crown Prince's drive came a series of air attacks on the Paris area and the daily shelling of the city by the big Bertha. With thousands of refugees from the battle area flying into Paris these attacks are intended to break the morale of the French capital, but there are no signs of panic and there is no great exodus as there was four years back. The French behaved marvellously under the punishment which they suffer without complaint. The seventh day of the great battle for Paris found the situation generally unchanged, so far as outward appearances were indicative of the relative positions of the combatants. The French reserves were coming into action but the initial successes gained by the Crown Prince's army gave it an advantage which was still plainly evident. The decisive stages of the gigantic struggle are still some days away. Both sides are piling up great forces in the Marne Valley and there is a distinct southern movement as contrasted with the northern movement of April and May. The French have sublime courage and infinite faith in their soldiers.

Von Boehm's army, considerably strengthened, has increased the pressure on the Soissons-Chateau Thierry front driving the French into the region of the forest of Dommanin. But the Allied reinforcements including cavalry, counter-attacked fiercely on June 1st, cutting several hundred prisoners. More German troops have reached the Marne and on June 2nd they had the north bank of the river for of about fourteen miles. Von Buelow's army is holding the left flank while the great battle is developing on the Montdidier-Compiègne-Chateau Thierry front. By striking in the direction of Neuilly, the Germans are trying to avoid the forest of Villers Cotterets. The real blow for Paris is taking the direction of the Oise to the left of Compiègne forests which is a formidable barrier to any advance.

By the night of June 2nd, and both British and French regained some ground. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least a chance of a cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh Cure being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constant treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. MARRIED MEN MAY NOT BE CALLED Present indications are that class One will more than provide the 100,000 men which were to be raised for overseas duty under the provisions of the Military Service Act of 1917, according to information at Toronto. It is pointed out that the authorities originally figured on raising the requisite 100,000 men from six classes under the Act, but this will be done without calling on married men.

MUCH MONEY COLLECTED In their self-denial war fund campaign this spring, the Salvationists of the Maritime Provinces and Bermuda collected $9,737, as compared with $5,891 last year. Chatham gave 276 and Newcastle $200, a great gain over last year. New Brunswick last year gave 276 and Chatham $175.

Lord Beaverbrook Surprises Peers

Tells of the Multifarious Service of His Department

(Toronto Mail) London, May 25—Lord Beaverbrook made his first speech as Minister of Information in the House of Lords this week, and although it is a quite assembly, offering a very different sort of strain from that of the House of Commons there was just a touch of nervousness in his opening notes. Perhaps as a financier and a business man he would have felt more at ease in the Commons, although while he was there he seldom spoke, taking little interest in talk for talking's sake. Very soon this shyness wore off and presently one caught the Canadian accent, though not strikingly, as he warmed to his subject. The account he gave of the multifarious services being rendered by the Information Department surprised not only the Peers but the public when they read the report the next day. There has been no reason why the office should proclaim its activities indeed, the better plan is not to make a parade of them. In the present instance Lord Beaverbrook was meeting an insinuation that enough had not been done, and therefore that he was bound to make a report. The occasion was interesting.

Girls! Whiten Skin With Lemon Juice

Make a Beauty Lotion for a Few Cents to Remove Tan, Freckles, Sallowness

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply you with three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Squeeze the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle, then put in the orchard white and shake well. This makes a quarter pint of the very best lemon skin whiteners and complexion beautifier known. Massage this fragrant, creamy lotion daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and just see how freckles, tan, sallowness redness and roughness disappear and how smooth, soft and clear the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless, and the beautiful results will surprise you.

SWEDISH SHIPS FOR ALLIES The agreement between Sweden and the Allies for a supply of woodstuffs and other vital necessities, in return for Swedish tonnage, is completely acceptable to all shades of opinion. Germany did her utmost to delay negotiations, but Sweden succeeded in carrying her point owing to Germany's pressing need of wood pulp and iron ore.

Canada's Registration

Its Purpose and Application

CANADA faces the gravest crisis in her history. Four years of war have taken from the Dominion a heavy toll in talent and labor, yet despite the shortage of man power, our Allies still depend on Canada to maintain her own fighting forces at full strength and to increase her exports of food and war materials, so vital to them, and to the successful prosecution of the war.

Every ounce by which Canada can increase her food production and every ounce Canada can save in her food consumption is needed for export to the Allies. Should the war continue for another year, food cards and a rationing system may have to be instituted. It is the duty of Canada to be prepared for whatever situation circumstances may force upon her.

It is quite probable that before the war is won our Government may have to place restrictions upon the occupations in which men and women may engage. In such an event the Government wishes to be in a position to render all possible assistance in keeping our population usefully and profitably employed.

Registration Day, June 22nd

These conditions point to the necessity of Canada knowing the exact capabilities of her men and women at home.

All persons residing in Canada, male or female, British or alien of 16 years and over, will be required to register on June 22nd and truthfully answer the questions set forth upon the registration card.

It is not the Government's intention to conscript labour in any form, but to assist in directing it wisely, so that every available unit of human energy may be utilized to the best advantage.

The information procured through registration will be used—as an aid to the Military Authorities in procuring the men necessary to maintain "Canada's First Line of Defence"—to mobilize all units of available labor in the Dominion and direct them from less essential to more essential occupations—to establish and intelligently administer a system of food rationing should that become necessary.

The paint protected town

THE finest town buildings soon get to look "dingy" if they are not kept painted. Worse still, the omission of the Spring painting leaves them open to weather-attack and time's decay. And—with materials so high as to make every building worth double today what it was worth in 1913—you are making a mistake if you let a building "go to seed." Have your town a "model" town—have it fresh with paint—have it protected with a paint that affords real protection—

B-H PAINT "ENGLISH" 70% Pure White Lead
30% Pure White Zinc
100% Pure Paint

If this paint were sold at a price half as high again as any other (which it isn't) it would still be the economical paint to use on your house. In sheer covering capacity it has no equal. A gallon of it goes so far that you'll buy less of it and yet do more with it. Paint with B-H "ENGLISH" PAINT this spring—and your house is protected for years, where a coat of ordinary paint will last but a few months.

The difference lies in the above formula basis. What other paint is so correct in this respect that its makers guarantee it? What paint can a dealer furnish you that has anything like the quantity of white lead in it that has B-H "English"?

This was the formula when lead was lower in price—this is the formula still; even though lead is extremely high in price. It HAS to be the B-H formula; because the guarantee that calls for it is printed right on the B-H can. We could not cheapen B-H "English" Paint even if we wanted to. So it's your safe paint as to quality, your sure paint as to covering capacity, your dependable paint as to durability. Find the B-H dealer in your town. He's the man to buy from.

Bloodless Women

Feel Weak, Depressed and Worn Out all the Time—Do Not Eat Well or Sleep Well

It is an unfortunate fact that nine women out of ten are victims of bloodlessness in one form or another. The girl in her teens, the wife and mother, the matron of middle age, all know its miseries. To be anaemic means that you are breathless after any slight exertion—you feel depressed and worn out all day. You turn against food and cannot digest what little you do eat. At night you do not sleep well and in the morning you wake up tired and feeling unfit for the day's duties. Perhaps there are splitting headaches, or pains in the back or side. Often a feeling of dizziness and dependency. These are the signs of anaemia, but the more there are the greater are the ravages of the trouble. There is only one medicine can do this speedily and effectively—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills purify the blood. It is in this way that thousands and thousands of weak, ailing girls and women have been restored to the joy of energy and good health through their use. Give these pills a fair trial and you will enjoy that health and strength that is the birthright of every woman. Mrs. W. H. Neff, Hughes avenue, Toronto, says:—

"For several years I suffered from a weak and watery condition of the blood. At times I would be so bad that when I walked up stairs I would have to sit on the top step and rest. Sometimes my feet would swell to about twice its natural size, and at other times my feet would swell so that I could not put my shoes on. Frequently I would take fainting spells and was wholly unfit for any work. I was under a doctor's care most of the time, and if I felt better for a time it was only to have the trouble worse than before. While in this condition I was visiting a friend who had great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and she got me three boxes. By the time I had taken these I felt so much better that I got six more boxes, and before I had taken them all I was again enjoying the best of health; had increased in weight, my appetite improved, and I have not had a symptom of a relapse to the old pitiable condition."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LESS LIQUOR; MORE TOBACCO
Canadians last year consumed 1,664,709,973 Cigarettes (about 200 per head), as compared with 1,307,276,750 in the previous fiscal year. Likewise manufactured tobacco increased from 20,735,030 to 21,087,821 pounds and cigars from 239,752,240 to 254,446,945. There has been more smoking all along the line. In another section, however, a falling off is registered from 34,949,683 gallons of liquors year before last to 28,717,539 last year, due to prohibition. Figures for the current year indicate a much heavier diminution.

German Submarine Invades Atlantic

Takes Toll of 350 Lives of Passengers and Crews of Merchant Vessels

New York, June 3.—United States war-ships are scouring the waters of the North Atlantic coast, in search of the German submarines which made their long expected attack on shipping in home waters late Sunday afternoon. Two cruisesubmarines are operating 75 miles southeast of the Highland of New Jersey. The steamship Carolina, has been sunk. Nothing is known of the fate of 220 passengers and crew of 130 who took to the boats when the liner's craft began shelling the water. The schooner Edward H. Cole has been sunk by bombs. The schooners Jacob M. Haskell, of Boston, Isabel B. Wiley, of Bath, Maine, Hattie Dunn, of Thomaston, Maine, Samuel W. Hathaway, Haulphauge and the steamer Winneconne have been sunk.

The Atlantic Refiner tanker Herbert L. Pratt was sunk four miles off Cape Hatteras (Del.) by a submarine. The crew was landed at Lewes (Del.)

New York, June 4.—The possible death toll from Germany's submarine warfare on the American side of the Atlantic during the past ten days was reduced to fewer than 350 souls.

With the landing of 19 survivors of the missing steamship Carolina, of the New York and Porto Rico line, at Lewes, Del., the persons unaccounted for from this ship number 331, of whom 202 were passengers.

Evidence that the German submarine that attacked the steamer Carolina shelled her lifeboats was brought here today by a British steamer from West Indian ports. The British ship reported that she had picked up yesterday off Cape May and empty motor lifeboat belonging to the Carolina damaged by shell fire. The hull of the motor boat had been pierced by the fire of the Uboat guns. One of only three oars found in the boat had been splintered in a way that indicated the use of a machine gun. There was found in the boat a man's cap and a number of biscuit tins.

855 BOYS ENROLLED
855 N. B. boys this spring enrolled for service on farms. Of these 681 have been placed on farms, and 74 not placed. In Northumberland County 27 offered and 21 were placed; in Restigouche 24 offered, and 20 found places; in Kent 47, of whom 42 were placed; and in Gloucester 1, who got a place. Plans for the summer, beginning this next week, include two personal visits to each of these boys by supervisors and local committees. Also, there will be a thorough canvass of the farm districts, seeing both farmers and boys, and gathering statistics of value now and later. This work will be in charge of Inspector F. B. Meagher in Eastern New Brunswick; George Skinner for the Western counties, and Arthur M. Gregg in the Southern counties.

FINE RECRUITING IN QUEBEC NOW
Ottawa, May 31.—Encouraging reports continue to come to Ottawa as to the way in which the young men of Quebec are responding to the conscription orders. On May 28 there were ordered to report 128 men in Quebec city. The whole 128 reported. There is a big rush by Quebec young men to join the fighting corps and it is said that they make splendid aviators.

MEDICAL INSPECTION OF SCHOOLS

Medical inspection of schools, which has long been urged by the Northumberland County Teachers' Institute, backed the last year or two by the Newcastle Town Improvement League and the Newcastle Women's Institute, and acknowledged as desirable by the Newcastle Board of School Trustees, is rapidly gaining ground in popular favor. It has been optional in all New Brunswick School districts for some years, and according to the new Health Act for New Brunswick passed this year is to be hereafter compulsory. We hope it will be effectively enforced. Medical inspection was made obligatory in Britain in 1907.

From a most interesting and instructive lecture by Dr. McNally in Fredericton High School, May 31st and under the auspices of the Women's Institute, we quote the following regarding the history of Medical inspection:

"Eighteen years of medical inspection of schools in America, and almost 40 years abroad, have carried us beyond the question of why such work is needed.

"England was one of the first countries to look after the physical needs of the school child. The first school medical officer was appointed in London in 1891. His duties were to examine absentees outside who failed to furnish a doctor's certificate.

"In America, Boston is credited with establishing the first system of school inspection, in 1894. Previous to these dates the school nursing was started in England in 1860, reaching America in 1877, when a New York city mission sent the first trained nurse into the homes of the poor. In 1905 fifty-five cities had some form of inspection of schools, and at present there are over 500 cities and towns in the United States with Medical inspection of schools.

"The object of the work is:
"1—The detection of contagious diseases, thereby protecting the child and the community.
"2—The detection of physical defects which prevent the child from acquiring a full education with the least sacrifice to his physical welfare.
"3—To find the capacity of the individual pupil to acquire knowledge in accordance with his mental and physical status.
"4—To insure the best possible hygienic surroundings for the child while he is at school.
"5—To bring a closer relationship between the school and the home so as to carry out more successfully the other aims of medical inspection and insure treatment for discovered defects.
"6—To teach the practice of hygiene and healthful living both in school and at home.

Truly this movement in favor of Medical inspection is not a fad but a stern necessity, and we hope soon to see it effectively enforced in every school of not the only this province but also of the Dominion.

these outbreaks are being sternly and successfully crushed—their time at least.

Russia seems perfectly helpless to defend her interests in Caucasia, which some time ago declared her independence of Russia, is at war with the Turks, who having lately regained Turkish Armenia are seeking to annex Russian Armenia. The Mohammedan tribes of Northern Caucasia have declared their independence of both Russia and Caucasia and seek union with Turkey. And it also appears that Russia's last province on the Sea of Azov—that of the Don Cossacks—is now a separate state. The Don Cossacks, who hold all the coast between Ukraine and the Mohammedan Caucassians, except that of the Kuban Cossacks who are probably allied with them, are of Ukrainian blood and may eventually be claimed by Ukraine. Unless the Allies can soon land forces on the Arctic coast of Russia and proceed southward, or the Japanese, with or without American help, land in Siberia and march rapidly westward, Russia may soon be so completely Germanized that she will not only be of no further use to us but may become the great recruiting ground for Germany's next war to complete her domination of the earth.

What we need now, as much as anything else, is an immediate understanding with Russia or with whatever party in Russia can best work with us to achieve Russia's independence and bring her back into the Allied fold.

An Optician of Known Ability

One of the busiest spots in town is the Pharmacy of Dickson & Troy and it will be a surprise to many to learn of the large volume of business done in their Optical Dept. In Mr. C. M. Dickson the firm have one of the best opticians in Eastern Canada who uses only the best and latest methods of eye testing. Mr. Dickson has built up his business wholly on the merits of his work. As one's eyes are the most valuable asset we have their care and treatment should only be entrusted to an optician of known ability.

MULE SHOE ROUTE

Gravity Scheme Invented by Miners of Tennessee.

Devise Mountain T-Rail Toboggan Which Takes Them to Shaft Openings in a Hurry.

A queer gravity railroad scheme is in use among the miners in the Inman district of Tennessee, not far from the town of South Pittsburg. The region has, by the way, more different kinds of means of transportation than any other in the world. The range is from the steeply inclined cable road that runs up Lookout mountain, not so many miles away, to the idea that the miners evolved for themselves after watching section bosses use gravity cars for coasting down the mountains.

The mines nestle in a valley at the foot of a series of hills, and the railroad track winds its tortuous way from the mine openings up to the heights that lead to the outside world. Many of the miners live in the settlements on the hills, and it is a long way to the shaft openings. One day some bright genius discovered that a mule shoe would fit over the top of the T-rail that marked the course of the railroad.

It was but an inventive step to attach the shoe to a short board and then slip the mountain rail sled over the track, says an exchange. Then all Mr. Miner had to do was to balance himself, pick up his feet and transport mule, pick and dinner bucket down the mountain to work. Of course, it was one way traffic for which the road got no money, but there was no conductor, no strap harking and no stopping to buy tickets on the mule shoe route.

Early in the morning the stranger may see the miners come along with their mule shoe toboggans, calmly take a seat and begin the descent. A pick handle, stick or the foot of the mule shoe regulate the speed of the incline railway. As the shoes wear smooth from contact with the rail they pick up speed, and at times a couple of daring coal diggers will race on opposite rails from the top to the bottom. But as a rule they take the trip carefully and earnestly so as not to interfere with the rights of the road that may belong to a neighbor before or after them.

The scheme, of course, will not work up hill, and the road has to bring the men back on crowded cars that are not so comfortable or exhilarating as the individual coasters that come scooting down the mountain in the morning. The number of missing mule shoes when the idea first got vogue was perplexing, and it was some time before the company storekeepers found out why the stocks were being depleted by such that the state of Tennessee had to keep a standing army for two years to keep the peace at that time, do not intend to let a little thing like a mule shoe create any disturbance.

England's Hungry Birds

In gardens where no bird-table attracts its feathered pensioners the silent absence of bird-life is almost oppressive; but the birds did not depart before necessity compelled, observes the London Times. Sometimes grim fate stalked in the thin shrubbery whence now and again the household cat has emerged; but more often your garden birds have perished because they had exhausted the possibilities of their home. See down the length of the garden wall a footwide space had been absolutely cleared of dead leaves by blackbird and thrush, who had tossed them to one side in their search for winning insect life. Look closer and you will see that probing bills have worked a little crevice all the way between the earth and the wall. See, every square inch of uncovered frozen ground is dusty from the innumerable pecks of hungry little beaks.

India's Famines

Famines in India are growing in number and in intensity. After a careful study of the problem, Sir William Digby says in his "Prosperous British India" that there were in India two famines in the eleventh century, one famine in the thirteenth, three in the fourteenth, three in the sixteenth, three in the seventeenth, four in the eighteenth up to 1745. And under British rule seven famines from 1789 to 1800. And in the nineteenth century thirty-two famines. In the first quarter of the nineteenth century there were five famines, with 1,000,000 deaths; in the second quarter, three famines, with 500,000 deaths; in the third quarter, six famines, with 5,000,000 deaths; and in the fourth quarter, eighteen famines, with 28,000,000 deaths.

A Somewhat Forgotten Asset

In these hard times, it is necessary to gather together and examine all our assets, and although the Dominion is the lucky possessor of so many natural ones, there are still many which people have not yet realized that they have, and amongst these is the asset of sport and game. It is quite possible for the unimaginative person to say that sport cannot possibly be an asset.

A day's fishing at Campbell River, Vancouver Island, B.C.

There is hardly any portion of the country that does not satisfy the most enthusiastic fisherman, and further it contains several districts, especially in British Columbia, which have become noted all over the world. A glance at the register of the small lodge at Fish Lake, near Kamloops, will show that people have come from all over the world, and on taking the average it will be found that more people from outside the Province of British Columbia camp there than those who live in it. This lake, it might be mentioned, contains genuine rainbow trout, which are taken practically only on a fly and their gameiness is a thing to wonder at. It is not at all uncommon to see a fish jump eight or nine times after it has been hooked. Then there is the Thompson River, which contains, or has the reputation of containing, the largest trout in British Columbia. In this district duck, geese, and when there is no close season, grouse can be killed in quantities that should satisfy the most ardent sportsman. To the south in the hills there are deer and bear, to say nothing of lynx, coyotes, and other such animals.

The British Columbia coast is noted for its fishing and hunting grounds, and space does not allow of a detailed description, but within a few hours of Vancouver itself there is a field for the mountaineer which is unrivalled, even in the Rocky Mountains. True, the Coast Mountains might not be so high, but for variety and flora they are hard to beat. On Vancouver Island there is Campbell River, which, apart from its fame as the great fishing ground for the Tyee salmon, is also well known for its mixed hunting, and it is possible to get fur, feather and fin within a few hours, if not minutes from the small town itself. It was at this place, when fishing in the mouth of the river, that Sir Richard Musgrave took the largest salmon that has ever been taken on the Pacific Coast, and which weighed 72 pounds, and what is more, it was taken on a rod and line. A good specimen of what is possible is shown in the photo which accompanies this short article. —SPENT SPINNER.

Business Getting Back to Where It was Before the War

From an industrial and commercial point of view, satisfactory progress has been made. The investigations made by the Board of Labor in July last allow us to affirm that the proportion of factories and business houses mentioned in the regular returns, and which have not yet been put into working order again is now only 23 per cent; it was 55 per cent in August, 1914. The whole of the establishments in full working order are employing a total number of workmen slightly above the usual number employed in times of peace, notwithstanding the gaps caused by mobilization. A sure indication of the growth of industrial activity is to be found in the increasing demand for coal. The coal owners have pushed forward the working of their mines with renewed vigor. The coal output was greatly increased in 1917. It is still on the whole below what it was before the war, for, owing to invasion, we are deprived of the coal-fields of the Nord and the richest parts of the neighboring department, but in the rest of France the output exceeds by about 40 per cent what it was in 1913.

The growth of industrial production resulted in a marked increase in commercial transactions as a whole.

ALGONQUIN PARK

The Algonquin Park of Ontario is a great reserve of nearly four thousand square miles. It is on the very ridge of the famous "Highlands of Ontario." Its altitude above sea level averages 1700 feet, while some of the lakes in the Park are 2000 feet above the sea. Its tonic air filters through millions of acres of pine and balsam and spruce trees, through the fragrance of the fragrant bush, through which roads and trails are constantly being extended, the tree-fringed lakes, disturbed only by sportive bass or trout or the swish of the paddle, the serenity, the impressiveness, and the beauty of it all combine to place the visitor under the spell of this wonderful natural domain.

The park makes an especially strong appeal to the fisherman and canoeist. There are more than 1,500 lakes in the park, and the excellence of the sport draws anglers from every part of the Dominion, and from every State in the Union. Among the special varieties to be caught are the genuine square-tailed brook trout; the rummy black bass of the small-mouthed variety, ranging from half a pound to four pounds, and the black-spotted salmon, or its near relative, the gray trout.

The accommodation in the park is such that the most varied tastes can be pleased. There are hotels, including the well known "Highland Inn," for those who want to be in the wilderness, yet enjoy all the comforts of good service and social companionship. There are log cabin camps, Nominigan Camp and Camp Minnesing comfortably furnished and ideal for family parties.

The park is easily accessible by the Grand Trunk Railway from all parts of Canada. It is two hundred miles north of Toronto and one hundred and sixty-nine miles west of Ottawa. For reservations at the Highland Inn, Nominigan Camp and Camp Minnesing apply, Miss Jean Lindsay, Manager, Algonquin Park Station Ontario. SHIPPING AND SHIP BUILDING IN FULL SWING IN CANADA

Who would think of finding a busy seaport one thousand miles from the sea? Canada, that land of marvelous development, has one—its Montreal, its metropolis—BUILT on the Island of Montreal that lifts Mount Royal where the waters of the great St. Lawrence and Ottawa Rivers mingle, its site is admirable. This marks the head of ocean navigation and here the great ocean-crossing ships meet the lake and river boats. The cargoes brought from the west by boat and rail are transferred to ocean carriers and start on their way down the mighty St. Lawrence, thirty feet deep at this point.

During 1917 Montreal witnessed the sailing away from her wharves of more than sixty-five million bushels of grain. Over two-thirds of this grain came into Montreal by rail, chiefly on the tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railway and a steady stream to feed the hungry millions of Europe and our armies overseas.

This volume of shipping means unceasing activity in the elevators, warehouses and along Montreal's waterfront. It has given an added stimulus to shipbuilding, the 1917 output of one firm being 5 steel trawler hulls, and installed 8 steel trawler hulls complete with boilers and machinery; 25 wooden drifter hulls; installed machinery and boilers in 16 drifters; built and launched one 7,000-ton cargo boat; docked and repaired 30 vessels—a creditable showing. There are many more yards and they have all been correspondingly busy. Recently a new departure in shipbuilding was initiated when a concrete vessel was launched. If developments justify the use of this sort of craft, Montreal shipyards are ready to embark in the new industry. Such an event would call for more laborers and the installation of new machinery, all adding to Montreal's prosperity. There have been no labor troubles and work goes on week days, holidays and without interruption. Not one of the 211 days—May to November, inclusive—was an idle day in the shipyards. These busy, well-paid workers spell good business for Montreal's merchants.

BEAVER FLOUR

Requires Less Shortening

And it makes lighter, flakier Pie Crusts, Tarts, Doughnuts and Cookies than you ever got with Western Spring Wheat Flours.

"Beaver" Flour is milled of blended wheat. It contains Ontario Fall Wheat (famous for pastry making) blended with Western Spring Wheat to add strength.

You save shortening—and you get a flour that is always the same in quality and strength—when you use "Beaver" Flour, the only kind of flour that is equally good for Bread and Pastry.

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHLINE, 2342 North Taylor St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Eclipse of Sun To Be Partial Here

Will Be Seen in This Locality June 8—Total Eclipse in United States

A total eclipse of the sun will be visible in the United States on June 8. In this locality the eclipse will be partially visible. Eclipses of the sun are caused by the moon coming directly between the earth and the sun at some point on its journey round the earth. When the sun, moon and earth are all in a straight line we have a total eclipse of the sun. That this does not happen once every month is due to the fact that the moon keeps swinging out of the direct line.

Thus we see a total eclipse only when the moon comes directly between the sun and the earth. Sometimes the moon is farther away from the earth than at other times, causing its disc to be too small to completely cover up the sun. This we call an annular eclipse, as it shows a ring of the sun's image shining around the black circle of the moon's disc. However, when the moon is near enough to the earth we see a true total eclipse.

The seeing of a total eclipse of the sun is a rare event and does not usually occur oftener than once in the life time of any man. This eclipse will be the most notable astronomical event of the year, and astronomers in the States have taken great pains in selecting the best vantage points from which to view it. A careful study of the weather condition of the observatories along the line of totality has been made, and those with the best record have been chosen for stations of observation. It is very essential that the weather conditions should be perfect, as the eclipse will only be visible for two minutes and one second in South Bend, Wash., and for barely forty-five seconds in Orlando, Florida.

OBITUARY

GEORGE FRASER (DOWNIE).
(New Glasgow, N. S., Eastern Chronicle)

The death took place at his residence, on Temperance Street, Thursday evening of George Fraser (Downie) in the fifth year of his age. He leaves a widow, two sons, James who came home a few months ago invalided from the front where he was for two years nobly doing his duty and where he got his hip shot away, and Alex. at home. Three daughters also survive, viz., Christie, Mrs. Scott Cameron; Donelda, Mrs. Howard McCulloch, and Eliza Beth, a brother, Mr. Alex. Fraser (Downie), of New Glasgow, and a sister, Mrs. Yve, of Blackville, N. B. also survive.

The death of George Fraser will recall memories of the Downie Frasers—once the most prominent and influential and powerful family in East Pictou. This honest position they won by great unselfishness. No man was ever sent empty away from their store whether he had money or not, and many families throughout the County today owe the Downie Frasers for tiding them over hard and difficult places when money and flour were scarce. All the family were men of charitable and generous influences, and never forgot the hospitable ways nor the charitable and kindly acts and deeds of their forefathers. No one in distress or poverty ever failed to find help when he sought it at their hands. Another feature prominent in their lives is this: They all bore adversity as bravely as prosperity and enjoyed this giving away to others.

The late George Fraser (Downie) believed in the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. He believed in scattering flowers in the pathway of his fellows, and not thorns. Human sympathy and human kindness always characterized him, as they did all the family, and they will have their reward, for the Master says: "Inasmuch as ye have done it to one of these ye have done it unto me."

Words of Praise For Baby's Own Tablets

No medicine receives such great praise from thankful mothers as do Baby's Own Tablets. Once a mother has used them for little ones she will use nothing else. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels and stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; cure colds and simple fevers; promote healthful sleep and make teething easy. Commending them Mrs. Omer LeBlond, Washington Falls, Que., writes:—"I am well satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets and will always use them for my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Robinson drove to River View on Sunday calling on Mr. and Mrs. George Donalds.

JUNE 30 A DAY OF NATIONAL PRAYER

The government has fixed Sunday, June 30th, as a day of prayer and humiliation. The day fixed just precedes the Canadian national holiday, Dominion Day. It was thought under present war conditions that it was fitting to join the day of prayer with our national holiday.

How Lt. McKnight Won Military Cross

Official Report Tells of Heroic Work of Douglstown Boy

London, June 1—The following particulars are available concerning the award of the Military Cross to the officers mentioned, whose names has already been called:

Lieut. Joseph G. McKnight took charge after the company commander was wounded, and led the company to its objective.

(Lieut. McKnight is a son of Coun. and Mrs. Joseph McKnight of Douglstown. He went overseas with the 132nd North Shore Battalion, and his many friends are pleased to know that he is making good in the firing line.)

SUFFERING CATS! GIVE THIS MAN THE GOLD MEDAL

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called Freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug is a sticky ether compound, but dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL"

At the time Von Bleck and Rawls were holding a consultation. The new supply of ammunition which was on the engine with the gatling gun had been captured. There was still enough for emergencies, but no one could be expected to put up a good fight when he had to be too careful of his shots. And neither Rawls nor his brawling confederates were truly brave, for they could not summon courage to stand up against odds. Knowing this, Von Bleck saw, at another way out. He was still seeking when a fusillade of shots announced that the battle was again in progress.

As Rawls grasped his rifle and rushed to join the fight Von Bleck climbed swiftly up the scaffolding of a drill. The situation called for generalship now, and Von Bleck felt that a crisis was impending. To give up the mine meant the loss of all he had come to achieve, to hold it meant almost certain defeat.

From the vantage-point of the scaffolding he studied the location as a commander studies a battlefield. Below the mine flowed the sluggish river at the base of beetling cliffs. Above was a rocky, narrow gorge with a small stream fed from Crater Lake, a wide and deep body of water which nestled in a volcanic shell at the top of the mountain. He knew this gorge well—a shallow cut in the hard metallic rock where the waters cascaded the cinnabar vein it had made still less headway, and at this point the walls were only a few yards apart. His meditations were interrupted by a cry from Rawls.

"The men are giving away," he shouted. "Shall we barricade ourselves in the mine?" "Tell them to retreat up the mountain," yelled Von Bleck in reply, and a solution leaped full grown into his consciousness. "Work around the main shaft, and continue up the incline to the gorge!" Von Bleck's pudgy lids were drawn close over his cruel eyes as the realization came to him that what his plan would mean to his enemies. It was a big idea, as befitted one in his position, and he rubbed his palms with satisfaction. He could not see the human side of it. They'd get what was too big for that.

As the firing approached Von Bleck climbed down from his perch and started the steep ascent to the gorge above.

The posse was not a little chastised at this sudden termination of the fight, but Gwyn and Hogan were jubilant.

"We are bound to start work at dawn in the morning," said Gwyn, when he had thanked his allies. "Washington and New York are insistent. The demand is so urgent that not an hour can be spared. And by the way Casey, I want you to double guard and establish outposts at a very approach. If we are attacked again we can meet them before they reach the mine itself."

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

strong guard had been stationed at regular intervals on all sides of the mine.

"Now, little girl, I suppose we can really settle down and enjoy ourselves," he told his wife, stepping up behind her and taking her hands. She smiled brightly.

"And I will have time to make our cabin look like a cozy home for you," she said, a bit wistfully. "We have been so busy with other things, you know, that I've had no time to show you what a good housekeeper I can be."

"Hey, cut out that turtle-dove stuff," called Casey, jovially glad of a chance to pretend amusement where envy was his true emotion. "Are you going to inspect the mine, or aren't you?"

Gwyn and Nan were just sliding down the shaft a few minutes later as Von Bleck at the Crater Lake entrance called to him. From a clump of bushes he drew a small black box which they recognized at once as an electric detonator. He smiled as he pointed off in the direction of the lake.

"I am now about to stage the greatest spectacle you boys have ever seen," he confided.

"Crater Lake sits in a cup of rock on the mountain top. I am going to break the cup!" He watched the effect of this announcement, which evidently made little impression. "When it breaks," he continued, "the water will rush down the gorge, and the dam you built will turn the flood into Shaft C of the mine. Every gallery will be full of water in ten minutes after the explosion occurs. Now do you understand?"

Did they understand? Every eye turned toward Von Bleck with a new light. They had owned respect for this man before. His money had bought them to do his bidding. But now—well, he was a master, the sort of cunning sounndrel that petty soundrels admire.

When he reached the top a hand reached down and drew him to safety.

"Where is Nan?" he gasped, as soon as he could speak.

"Someone is trapped in the store room. We hear them, but they do not answer when we call. Thank heaven the air chamber is still open."

At the surface of the little tunnel that served to ventilate this wing of the mine Hogan and Casey stood with a group of workmen.

"I am going down," announced Gwyn briefly. "Give me a pick to clear the way, and lower a drit and some dynamite when I signal. I'll try to blow it to the wall of the mine!"

With a rope about the waist Gwyn slid into the tunnel and worked his way down. It was narrow in places, so narrow that he had to use his pick many times, but eventually he felt a hand grasp his ankle and place his foot firmly on a ledge. In the square, high walled store room, now two-thirds submerged, were Nan and about a dozen workmen, battered, disheveled, half-drowned and totally unable to help themselves save by retaining a feeble grip on the jutting rocks to keep their heads afloat.

"I have come, Nan," said Gwyn simply.

"Yes, dear," was the reply. "I knew you would."

course I saw you and thought you were mad, but your action did help to conceal from the soldiers the secret of my true hiding place. I wish to be candid with you. If my friends and I had realized that you were here by accident we ought to have taken no steps to save you."

"Really?" snarled Coke, eying the unruffled Brazilian much as an Andalusian bull might glare at a pleader. A buzz of angry whispering came from the crew. Even Iris flashed a disdainful glance at the man who uttered this atrocious sentiment. De Sylva raised his hand.

"Pray, do not misunderstand me," he said. "I am as humane as most others, but it is difficult to decide whether or not mere humanity, setting aside interest, would not rather condemn you to the speedy death of the wreck than drag you to the worse fate that awaits you here. And please remember that we did succor you, thus risking observation and a visit by the troops when the sea permits a landing."

"That is not the true issue. An hour ago there were only a couple of his bare rock—four of us who looked for escape tonight. We were supplied with such small necessities of existence as would enable us to live if our rescuers were delayed for a day or even two. Now there will be no rescue. We are"—he looked slowly around—"twenty instead of four, but we have the same quantity of stores, which consist of a half emptied skin of wine, a bunch of bananas, a few scraps of maize bread and some strips of dried meat. Do you follow me?"

"There was sound of hurrying footsteps on the steep pathway. A figure, clad in rags that surpassed even De Sylva's, appeared in the entrance. A brief colloquy took place. De Sylva's eager questions were answered in monosyllables.

"Marcel tells me that one of your boats is drifting away with a maley in the bottom," came the uneasy explanation.

"Good Lord!" Hozier cried. "That must be the lifeboat I was trying to clear when the ship struck. Macfarlane was helping me, but he was hit by a bullet and dropped across the thwart. I thought he was dead."

"Dead or alive, he is better off than we," said De Sylva. He questioned Marcel again briefly. "There can be no doubt that the man in the boat cast off the lashings when he found that the ship was sinking, he continued in English. "Marcel saw him doing that and wondered why he was alone. At any rate, if he is carried beyond the reef he has a fighting chance. We have none."

"Why not? Are these men on the island so deaf to human sympathies that they would murder all of us in cold blood?"

A pause more eloquent than the most impassioned speech showed how this trail strayed eddying in the vortex of their fate might yet be clutched at. San Benavides, trying vainly to guess what was being said, blurted forth an anxious inquiry. His compatriot explained briefly. Somehow the measured cadence of their talk had a less reliable sound than the vigorous Anglo-Saxons. They were both brave men. They had not scrupled to risk their lives in an enterprise where success beckoned even doubtfully. But they were lacking when all that remained to be settled was how best to die; in such an hour the men of an English speaking race will ever choose a fighting death.

This time it was a woman who decided. Iris rose to her feet. She brushed back the strands of damp hair from her face and with deft hands made a rough and ready coil of her abundant tresses.

"Are you planning to send me with two others adrift in a boat while seventeen men are left here?" she asked. The Brazilian ceased speaking. There was another uneasy pause. Hozier felt that the question was addressed to her, but he was tongue-tied, almost shamefaced. Coke, however, did not shrink the task of enlightening her.

"Something like that," he said. "We can't let you cut in with the rest of us, missy. That wouldn't be reasonable. But it's best to fix the business fair and square. We ain't a-goin' to try any other way, not so long as I'm skipper," and he looked with brutal frankness at De Sylva and the anxious, but uncomprehending San Benavides.

The ex-president knew what he meant. Even in his despondency he resented the implied slur on his good faith.

"You cannot examine the boat until darkness sets in," he said. "Then you will find out how frail a foundation you are building on. It is absolutely ridiculous to assume that she can be made seaworthy. Her occupants would be drowned before they were clear of the islands."

"In any case, I refuse to go," said Iris.

"The boat that brought these men to this rock can bring nineteen men and a woman to Fernando Noronha. We must land there tonight. With those to guide us who know the coast, surely that should be possible. We have a right to struggle for our lives. We of the Andromeda at least have done no wrong to the cruel wretches who sought to kill us without mercy today. Why should we not endeavor to defend ourselves? There is food there and guns in plenty. Let us take them. Above all, let us not dream of any such useless device as this proposal to send three to drown somewhere in the sea and leave seventeen to perish miserably here. We are men, not babies. Let us trust to him, but while doing that fully and fearlessly we must seek life, not death."

"Butly for you, miss!" roared a sailor, and a growl of admiration rang through the cave.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC
8 Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.
"Fruit-a-lives" is certainly a wonder. For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better; and thought I would never be able to walk again.
"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-lives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.
The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.
I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-lives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism."

It fell to De Sylva to explain matters to his unexpected guests.

"My friend agrees with me that it is only fair that the exact position should be revealed to you," he said. "The situation is not so simple as you seem to imagine. The loss of your ship cannot be dealt with here. It raises issues of international law which can only be settled by courts and governments. You know, suppose that nothing will be done until a complaint is lodged by a British minister, and that hinges upon the very doubtful fact that you will ever again see your own country."

The ex-president certainly had the knack of expressing himself clearly. These concluding words rang like a knell. They even called Watts back from the slumber of unconsciousness.

"It happens by idle chance that my enemies have become yours. The men who destroyed your ship thought they were injuring me. I have just pointed out to Captain de San Benavides the precise outcome of this attack. Until a few moments ago we shared the delusion that the troops on Fernando do Noronha believed we were now on our way to a Brazilian port. We were mistaken. More than that, we know now that they have obtained news—probably through a traitor to our cause—of the Andros-y-Mela's voyage. They were prepared for her coming. They had made arrangements to receive her almost at the place decided on by our friends in Brazil. It is more than likely that the Andros-y-Mela is now lying under the guns of some coast fortress, since the presence of troops and cannon on this side of the island is unprecedented."

SAVE FOOD

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food. It is not how much you eat, but much you assimilate, that does you good.

The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

REMOVE THE CAUSE of a skin disease, and the disease will naturally disappear. That is how Zam-Buk cures. The cause of all skin troubles is germs. Zam-Buk is a powerful germ-destroyer, not only of germs on the surface skin, but also deep down in the underlying tissues.
This is because of Zam-Buk's unusual power of penetration. Ordinary ointments, which have not this power of penetration, can only destroy the germs on the surface skin—hence the disease breaks out again. Zam-Buk cures thoroughly and, therefore, permanently.
Only Zam-Buk should be used for eczema, ringworm, salt rheum, scalp sores, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poisoning, piles, boils, pimples and itching rash, while Zam-Buk's power to end pain and heal quickly also makes it invaluable for cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. All dealers 60c. box.
