CHAPTER XI
WINNING TRUE HEARTS.

"How beautiful you look, dear Lillian! One would think you had played Juliet all your life!"

Was it a random shaft, or an arrow selected from the quiver and meant to strike? Be it one or the other, none could have told if it hit the mark. A faint smile flashed on Lillian's face.

"They will not care for my Juliet after they have seen your Julia," she said, and moved away.

Quickly the vast saloon filled; servants, thoroughly coached in the duties of the evening, took the numerous tickets from each party and conducted them to their seats, and every seat was filled without a hint of confusion or muddle.

Then, one by one, the orchestra filed into their places, and, after the inevitable tuning up, the overture began.

"Now," said the duke, with a smile that was not altogether devoid of good-natured anxiety, "we shall see if Master Gerald and his company are going to make a failure or score a success."

All the actors were gathered in the greenroom except those wanted for the first scene, and those were at their places at the wings when Gerald, who had been taking a last managerial walk across the stage, entered the greenroom, and, with a swift glance from face to face, exclaimed, in a hushed and awful voice:

"Where is Lord Rayburn—the Romeo?"

There was a sudden silence, while each person looked round the room. Then Lillian's clear voice was heard.

"He has not come yet, Lord Vavasour. Do not be anxious; Lord Rayburn knows that he plays in the second piece, and has not hurried."

"He's always late," said Harold, who had slipped out of his dress coat and was busy with the scenery. "He'll turn up just in time, never fear."

"Then ring up!" said Gerald, and the curtain slowly ascended, and a burst of applause greeted the beautiful scene, and repaid poor Gerald for all the toil and trouble.

But he himself seemed scarcely to hear it. Coming up to Lillian, he of taking refuge in flight; but Louis had paid the fare, and the fly was on its way back to the station.

Dawson Slade sank on to a chair, and looked round the deserted hall. A dim thunder of applause roused him.

"Merciful Heaven!" he exclaimed; "is there no one here to whom one can speak? Where is the butler? Go, Louis, and find him, or some one. Let me get out of sight and sound!"

Louis hurried off past the astonished footman, who stood and stared at the new arrival, and presently returned with Mr. Flitters, who did know Dawson Slade.

"Mr. Slade, sir," he said, with unctiousness. "Didn't expect you, sir, hope you are quite well, James"—sharply, to the starting footman—"take Mr. Slade's luggage upstairs. Quick! I'll call the housekeeper, sir, Hem! that's no use, though; she's in the saloon. You see, sir, we've got some theatricals on, and all the servants are looking on."

Dawson Slade looked up, and shook his head.

"I couldn't have come at a more unfortunate time, Flitters—I had no idea of it."

"No, no; certainly not," said Flitters, sympathizingly; he knew Mr. Dawson Slade well, and admired that gentleman's exquisite languor and impassibility. "Of course, sir; and we didn't know you were coming. But don't be upset, sir; I'll make you very comfortable. We've dinéd—"

Dawson Slade bent his head, as if he expected the blow.

"But I'll send you up as comfortable a dinner as I can, sir. Here, William, send in to Mrs. Jones, and tell her to come here at once!"

In three minutes Mrs. Jones appeared. She, also, knew Mr. Dawson Slade, and dropped a welcoming courtesy.

"How do you do, Mrs. Jones?" he said. "I didn't know—"

"Lor, sir, it don't make any difference, not a bit. You can have your old rooms, if Mr. Louis will kindly follow me. And won't you go into the library, and rest—"

"No," said Dawson Slade, firmly, but languidly. "I'll go to bed at once, Mrs. Jones. My rooms are in the south wing? Yes; I remember. And I can't hear anything of this, eh? Ah, yes, thanks. And—and—Flitters, don't, for Heaven's sake, let anybody learn I'm here. I'll put in appearance at breakfast; come by the early train; you understand?"

"Yes, sir, quite," said the intelligent Flitters. "You shan't be disturbed. But don't go to bed, sir, till I send up a bit of dinner."

Dawson Slade nodded a languid assent, and went up the stairs, not, but almost supported by Louis, who had run down to help his overwhelmed master, and by Flitters, who felt it his duty to see an honored guest to his rooms in safety.

The suit was in the south wing, as Flitters said, and some of the best rooms in the house. Mrs. Jones had arranged them as well as she could, in so short a time; and Louis was already unpacking the trunks.

"Don't wait, Flitters," said Dawson Slade; "Mrs. Jones will tell me all about it. And now, Mrs. Jones, what is it all about?"

Mrs. Jones smiled.

"A whim of the young marquis, sir," she said, bustling noiselessly to and fro, helping Louis spread a cloth, and giving a general "home" look to things, as she spoke. "Just one of his whims, sir; quite turped the house out of window. Not but what we'd have had a room for you, Mr. Slade, if we had known—"

"My fault," he said, quietly. "I didn't make up my mind to come till two or three o'clock this morning, and it was too late to write. I should have been here three hours earlier, but there was an accident, or something of the kind, on the line; it's a wonder I am here now."

There was only one fly at the station, and Louis risked his life in snatching it out of the hands of half a dozen other people. And this is amateur theatricals, is it? Has Lord Vavasour got it very badly?"

Mrs. Jones looked puzzled for a moment, then smiled.

"Oh, yes, sir; he's quite heart and soul in it. It's a pleasure and a fright to see him, so anxious and excited; and he has worked so hard! Painted all the scenery"—Dawson Slade groaned—"and undertook the management of everything, and it's much to his credit. For, if you'll believe me, nobody would know it from a real theater."

To be continued.

Premier Botha Well Received.

Johannesburg, July 14.—Last night Premier Botha, speaking in English, outlined his political programme in Waverley Hall, in the presence of a vast audience, mainly British.

His utterance created the most favorable impression. It was a triumph of personality and met with a reception at the same time enthusiastic and sincere. Premier Botha was cheered in a manner that proves that racialism is almost dead among the mass of the people and would not survive for a week if not employed for political ends.

With respect to education, the Premier was backed somewhat on Herizogism, but reasonable people are satisfied with his statement, and the general view is that the Free State on this matter will fall in line when the provincial council is elected.

A Durban despatch says Botha's speech is regarded in Natal as a magnificent Imperial deliverance. Botha's promises are trusted and the Union Government is looked to to redeem them.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

"I have always been excessively fond of driving," a woman who has just fulfilled her heart's desire by acquiring a horse said to me the other day, "and always had so pitifully little of it. Several of my wealthier neighbors used to have carriages, but they took each other a great deal, and somehow I didn't get more than two or three drives in a summer. So now that I have a team I am going to try very hard to take the people who are fond of driving and don't get much of it. And another thing—there are never going to be any empty seats in my carriage. For years I have sat on my piazza beautiful afternoons and seen carriage after carriage go by with one or two empty seats, and it just used to seem wicked to me when I wanted so much to ride. So my carriage is always going to have just as much happiness in it as there is room for, even if I have to call people 'out of the highways and byways to fill up.'"

Do you know I think my friend by that speech stamped herself as an eminently successful woman.

For whatever his financial standing, whatever his attainments or achievements, it seems to me that any person has a right to be called a success, who has been able to pluck from his own deprivations and sufferings and misfortunes such an eager desire to have things different for other people.

"Give to establish a free lodging house—not by a damn sight," stormed a rich old man to whom I had gone to ask for money for such a charity. "I guess people that haven't any place to sleep can do just what I did when I was a boy and came to town without a penny in my pocket—they can sleep in the park or wall the streets. Nobody gave me a free lodging or anything like it. I had to get out and hustle for a bed before I slept in it. I guess young people nowadays ain't changed so it'll hurt them to do the same."

He had plenty of money—that of cudgermudgeon—but he certainly wasn't living a successful life.

The lady across the way is always doing something for some young girl who has no mother. She has three girls of her own to sew for and yet this spring she found time to make a pretty graduating gown for a motherless little friend of her daughters.

"Weren't you splendid?" I enthused. "How did you happen to do it?"

"Why, didn't you know," she explained most matter-of-factly, "that my mother and father died when I was just a little mite, and I had about as forlorn and pinched and loveless a childhood as anyone could? So, of course, when I find any girl without a father or mother I do anything possibly can to make it different for her."

Which of these two is your attitude?

Which have you gotten from your deprivations and sufferings—bitterness and resentment or an eager desire to make it different for other people?

Yes, on reading that over I admit sounds very much as if I fancied were in a pulp.

But considering what day it is may be you'll excuse me.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

Floating veils are worn.

Turbans are flat and broad.

Heavy embroidery is used on linens.

Net has even gone out of style for blouses.

Veils are endless in variety, color and design.

Many stunning gowns are seen of foulard and satin.

Natural colored ongee is as much in evidence as ever.

Whole petticoats of ribbon threaded net are charming for party use.

Burlap suiting is one of the fashionable new fabrics of the season.

The veiled effect of both embroidery and lace is pretty and unique.

Much lace and even malines is seen on some of the latest silk petticoats.

Tiny bows of narrow black velvet ribbon adorn many of the blouses of lingerie.

The newest belts are of Persian cloth, with patent leather buckles and trimming.

Square veils, with embroidered borders, are much in vogue and are very becoming.

The little dress with low neck and short skirt is to be de rigueur for the theatre.

White Japanese wash silks, finely striped in gray, are ideal for the separate blouse for travelling.

Garden frocks of sheerest mull or batiste are made over all-over embroidery or lace trimmed under robes.

Persian chiffon scarves with black marabout stripes and the corners finished with black tassels, are popular.

Great quantities of velvet are used on the latest hats, not only in facings but in the shape of huge flowers.

An effective leghorn hat has a crown of yellow roses and a cluster of the same flowers under the left brim.

Persian scarves are most effective bordered with marabout or ostrich feathers, or with bands of plain colored silk.

Crochet buttons and those of silk in metal colorings are foremost for use on heavy satins, moires, velvets and brocades.

Beadings are in demand not only for lingerie dresses but for dainty slips and petticoats to wear under lingerie gowns.

The small hat is gaining in strength among the leaders of fashion, and the milliners are inventing new shapes in it.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURE S DISTEMPER.

Jungle Hunting De Luxe.

The Duke of Connaught's recent big game expedition in East Africa affords an interesting example of the comfortable and even luxurious manner in which hunters can now journey through that country. The newspapers published in the Protectorate give the following details of the expedition.

The party included the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Prince Arthur and Princess Patricia, with Captain Rivers Bulkeley (Scots Guards), equestrian, Captain Brakenbridge, R.A.M.C., and Miss Pelly, lady-in-waiting. Captain G. Riddell acted as manager of the Safari and hunter to the Duke of Connaught.

Sixteen pack mules and fifty donkeys furnished the food transport, depots being established in advance along the projected route, and ten trained riding ponies were kept on the marching and hunting line. Twenty-five sheep were taken to supply meat for the party, and these were supplemented by many kinds of antelope shot by the hunters, and small game, such as partridges, francolin and wild duck.

Fresh fish taken from the larger streams provided a welcome change of diet. The fish are of delicate flavor and several varieties of sweetmeats and tinned and bottled fruits also figured in the dietary. Products of the wilds had a place, as the following sample menu will show.

Soup—Buffalo tail.
Fish—Fried barbel.
Entrée—Mutton cutlets.
Joint—Roast guinea fowl.
Sweet—Stewed apples.
Cheese coffee.

Fresh milk supplied en route by five cows.

The Living Tent.

The most important part of the equipment was the living tents, which consisted of double fly Willesden canvas tents, with bathroom attached, and a ground sheet of similar material. The ground space was 15ft by 12 ft, being larger than tents of similar design usually carried, another feature being the height of the walls, which made for much greater comfort than the usual shape, with walls sloping almost to the ground.

A tent of this design was supplied to each member of the party. In addition, there was a large dining tent, with walls of a height of seven feet, capable of seating ten to fifteen people with ease.

Each living tent contained a canvas bath of wooden collapsible frame, a chair of collapsible design, and also a collapsible table, washstand and small hand looking-glass; and the camp beds, also folding, were on wooden stands with a green canvas stretcher, on which were laid mattresses of cork. All the equipment was so arranged as to pack into loads of not more than sixty pounds net. This being the standard carrying capacity of the caravan party.

Great quantities of rope for packing, and alum and naphthaline for curing and preserving trophies, were taken. A Berthon collapsible boat for crossing rivers or duck shooting on the lakes, was found very useful.

The Duke of Connaught usually shot with a magazine .350, and with this weapon made good practice. His Royal Highness also used a double-barrelled .450 for big game. The Duchess of Connaught had a small 256 Mannlicher, which he used on occasions.

The caravan was in many ways no more luxurious than other big game expeditions, but one feature was unusual—namely, the plates, drinking cups, and dishes, etc., which were not of aluminium or other metal as usual, but of strong plain china and glass.

Loan Underwritten.

For some time past rumour has been circulating around the city that the Railway loan had been underwritten at 97½ gross with charges to be deducted.

To-day the rumour has received verification in the Daily News, which makes the announcement in these words among others:-

"The loan has been underwritten by Messrs. Coates & Co., London banking firm, at 97½, and they have given the Colony an undertaking that it will receive 96 net, clear of all charges."

The Daily News also announces that-

"Before proceeding to negotiate this loan, Sir Edward Morris effected an arrangement with financial corporations by which these institutions agreed to take on deposit all of this loan, as raised in London, and to pay the Colony 3½ per cent. for it, compounding the interest every three months."

It will be observed that the "financial corporations" with which the money will be deposited when raised are not disclosed.

In view of the fact, the 3½ per cent. Sterling Bonds, amounting to £2,178,800, redeemable in 1941-7-8, are quoted in the July number of the Empire Review at 94 the publication of the texts of the agreements relating to the underwriting, the guarantee of 96 net, and the deposit of the proceeds of the present loan will be awaited with interest.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In the police court to-day two drunks were discharged.

A disorderly who tried to kick in the door of a Water Street store yesterday was asked to give two sureties in $20 each to keep the peace or go down for 3 months.

A drunk and disorderly in his house was fined $4 or 14 days.

Another drunk was released on paying cash hire.

Some civil cases were disposed of in the Central District Court.

Lawrence & Co. summoned Jas. Ryan for the value of a number of calendars delivered them but for which he would not accept responsibility through his counsel, Mr. Higgins. The hearing of the case was adjourned for 10 days.

Should Not Play.

Footballers hold, and certainly with justice, that young men who are compelled to wear eyeglasses should not participate in the League games. Members of opposing clubs fear to charge such footballers as there is always a danger of their falling, breaking their glasses and possibly charging is injuring their eyes.

Smashed the Furniture

Yesterday a man who had been drinking heavily entered his home in Monkstown Road and after abusing his wife started in to break up the furniture. Const. Devine was called, and when he with Sgt. Olliphant arrived the man had done much damage. The woman had fled from the house in terror and the officer hurried the man to the station.

That Notice of Motion.

In a conversation with Mr. Mullaly, we had this morning, he confirms our statement that by his notice of motion he neither had nor has any desire to reflect on the audit of the Municipal Council accounts by the Auditor General, nor on the Councilors, but he says there are certain matters which he believes should be investigated to quieten doubts which he met with in the course of his canvass. We presume Mr. Mullaly will make his position clear at the next meeting of the Council.

A Stray Child.

A three year-old boy named Barnes, strayed from his home in the West End Saturday last and was found at Boat House Lane near Quill Viid by Mrs. Butt who resides in the neighbourhood. Mrs. Butt went to the east end Fire Hall and the firemen at her request phoned to the firemen at the West End Hall who having had information that the boy was missing were able to tell Mrs. Butt where to bring the little chap. Anglo Office Burglarized and $300.00 Stolen.

When Mr. C. Vaughan entered the Anglo Office this morning he was shocked to find that the desk in which the monies received for the day are kept had been forced open and that the entire contents, some $300 cash, had been stolen. On the manager, Mr. R. C. Smith, coming into the building he was informed of what had occurred. The police were communicated with and a thorough investigation was made. Supt. Grimes and other officers searched it carefully and it was found that the burglar had entered the building by way of the door on McBride's Hill and through which the Oddfellows gain access to their rooms. This is always open at night, a fact of which the burglar must have been well aware. Any one gaining admission here would come to the rear offices of the Anglo-American Telegraph Co., and so whoever the marauder was he deliberately forced open the door with some instrument which he used as a lever to do so, smashed the lock and going down to the public or business office prized open the desk there where the money was kept and walked off with the amount referred to above. Messrs. Miller and Power were in the office on duty till midnight and saw everything secured before leaving. Who the thief is is not yet known. About 2.30 this morning Sgt. Noseworthy found two boys hidden in a dry goods box in a cove off Water Street, and these were brought to the station and were held this forenoon, though the police do not think they had anything to do with the burglary and they will be discharged. Whoever did the deed must have been a man of desperate character, for always night and day a police officer is stationed at Bank Square. Nothing unusual was heard about there during the night or early morning.

Government Are Suing Commercial Cable Company.

We understand that the Government to-day issued a writ against the Commercial Cable Company for the amount which they claim is due as cable taxation. About a week ago the Commercial Cable Company tendered the amount which they considered due from them under their agreement of February, 1908. The Government refused to accept this as full satisfaction of their demand. Hence the issue of the writ to-day. The dispute between the Government and the Cable Company is now in a fair way to be settled by a decision of the Supreme Court.

Accession Envoys.

Missions of Lord Roberts and Lord Rosebery.

We understand that five Special Missions will leave England about the middle of this month in order to announce to the Courts of Europe and Asia the accession of King George. The Special Envoys include:

The Earl of Rosebery to the Emperor Francis Joseph in Vienna.

Earl Roberts to the Courts of Germany, Russia, and the Balkan Kingdoms.

The Earl of Granard, Master of the Horse, to the Scandinavian Courts, and to Spain and Portugal.

The Marquis of Northampton to other European Courts.

Each Mission will include distinguished representatives of the Navy and the Army, and will be the bearer of an autograph letter from King George to the Sovereign of the State to which it is accredited. Valuable presents will be taken by the Missions as offerings to eminent personages at the Courts.

As the Special Envoys are accredited to the persons of the Sovereigns no Missions are sent to Republics, such as France and the United States. — Daily Mail.

Discouraged Aviator

Becomes Morose, Goes Out in a Skiff and Commits Suicide.

Marblehead, Mass., July 12.—Science of aviation may be said to have claimed its 13th victim in the suicide here to-day of Lieut. Alexander L. Pfitzner, a native of Budapest, Hungary, a former officer in the Hungarian Artillery, and a member of an old and aristocratic family of that country. Pfitzner met with a number of mishaps recently in attempting to fly the Burgess-Curtiss aeroplanes at Plum Island, near Newburyport, and each time became more and more discouraged and morose. His high-strung temperament was apparently unable to stand the discouragements, and early to-day he went out from Marblehead in a skiff, and, it is believed, committed suicide by drowning. The skiff was found floating late in the day, containing the man's coat and hat and an automatic revolver. The barrel of the revolver was somewhat clouded as if it had been fired. He was 35 years old, and graduated from the University of Charlottetown and the University of Budapest, taking engineering courses, after which he served in the Artillery.

Dr. Cowperthwaite replied in touching terms which endeared him more than ever to his people. Rev. Mr. Westlake also delivered a short address and made a very favorable impression. A very successful programme followed, including a solo by Miss Christian, a recitation by Miss Curtis, a song by Rev. W. H. Norman, and a piano solo by Miss Tait. Addresses were also delivered by Rev. J. Thackeray and Rev. W. J. Hutchinsan. Refreshments were then served and a social half hour spent, after which the presentation to Rev. Mr. Dunn and his wife took place.

Will Open King's Eyes.

Gifts Maharajah is Taking to England are of Much Splendor.

The gifts which the Gajekwar of Baroda is taking to England for King George are of such splendor and value that even the King-Emperor will be inclined to open his eyes, says M. A. P.

The Maharajah can well afford to be liberal, for he is one of the world's wealthiest men. No man alive is the possessor of so many rare and costly jewels as this Indian Croesus. He is the owner of the most famous diamond necklace in existence, composed of two hundred brilliants of marvelous purity and worth well over £2,000,000.

Another of his wonderful treasures is a carpet, four yards square, composed of ropes of rubies, diamonds, and pearls woven into a pattern of dazzling beauty. The gems in this carpet are valued at £800,000, and it is the product of three years' work of skilled artists and jewel-setters. He is also the owner of the only set of artillery made of gold and silver. Four cannons, which defend his palace, are made of two of solid gold and two of solid silver, save for the inner barrel of steel.

Left this morning to try and locate sloop in dory. Reported 15 qtls. fish on board."

Poor Man To Peer.

Very Sudden Successions to Estates and Titles.

The death of little Viscount Chelsea provided one of those strange changes in a man's fortunes that occur very seldom. Lord Chelsea died four days after his uncle—the Hon. Gerald Cadogan—appeared in the Bankruptcy Court. Mr. Cadogan then told the Official Receiver that he had no expectations, as bankruptcy forfeited all interest in his father's estates, so he could make no definite proposals to his creditors. This was on a Monday, but on the following Friday the Hon. Gerald Cadogan found himself Viscount Chelsea, and the heir to an income well over £100,000 a year!

The Duke's Lucky Chance.

Twenty-four hours before he succeeded to the Dukedom of Portland the present holder of the title was a hard up lieutenant in a regiment in India. He had been born a distant relative of the then master of Welbeck, and there were several healthy lives between him and the title. Death, however, removed, in rapid succession, several persons who stood between him and the title, and from a junior officer he rose to an English dukedom and vast wealth. Unusually, a man who becomes a duke holds some other title from his birth; but so remote were the chances of his Grace that he never bore even the prefix of "honourable."

The Duke of Hamilton almost rivals the Duke of Portland, for he was a lieutenant in the Royal Navy, and a distant cousin of the previous holder of the title when death and lack of heirs lifted him at one bound to the highest rank of English nobility. When he was born there seemed no earthly possibility of his ever becoming a duke, and he went into the Navy in order to make a living, and not to kill time.

It is seldom that four brothers succeed one another in peerage. But this is what has happened in the case of the Marquisate of Sligo. The heir to

Mr. Roosevelt is such a prominent individual now that it will be surprising to most persons to learn that had not President McKinley been assassinated, Theodore Roosevelt would never have become the world-famous personality that he is. Those who understand American politics will tell you that when they wish to shelve a man in the United States they make him Vice-President, and this is what they did with Roosevelt when William McKinley was elected President for the second time. The unwritten law is that no Vice-President ever becomes President; the written law, that should the chief die in office his subordinate succeeds him, and is President for the rest of the unexpired term. An assassin murdered McKinley, and Roosevelt became President.

Tobacco Fortunes.

In recent years the public has gained some idea of the immense fortunes made by the best-known tobacco manufacturers, but the will of Sir Edward Wills, just proved, with its total of over £2,500,000, stands an easy first, with the exception of that of his brother, the late Sir Frederick Wills, who left nearly £3,000,000. Mr. G. Hatfield, of Tad-dy's, died worth over £1,300,000; Mr. John Hignett left nearly half a million sterling, and Mr. George Cope made a quarter of a million out of tobacco.

The foot feels as if it is rested on a cushion instead of a hard leather bottom.

The most thing about breaking in New Shoes is the hard stiff feeling of the soles. Every step is an effort to make the leather bend. You instantly notice the difference when you put on a pair of G. A. Slater's Invictus Shoes.

Anxiety in Barcelona.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BARCELONA, Spain, July 18.
Great anxiety over the approach of the anniversary of the Barcelona riots of July 27th, 1909, is apparent in Government and police circles. The rioting began as a protest against the prosecution of the campaign against the tribesmen of the Rif Coast in Morocco. The calling out of reservists to reinforce the army was followed by a general strike and the burning of churches and monastic institutions and the shedding of much blood before the disturbances were quelled. The Carlists and Republicans are now holding opposition meetings and the situation is complicated by the threat of the workmen's organization to call a general strike. General Weyler, Captain General of Catalonia, is assembling the troops at critical points with the intention of crushing any outbreaks. The church and convents are being equipped with steel doors.

Trouble On French Railways.

Special Evening Telegram.
PARIS, July 18.
The engineers and firemen affiliated with the Nation Railroad Union will meet on July 25th, and pass upon the action of the central committee of the union which had decided upon a general strike. Pending this meeting it is believed that the men will continue at work. The Central Committee demands an increase in wages and minor concessions but thus far has made no progress in its negotiations with the railroad company.

Coal Mining Strikes.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BILBAO, July 18.
The strike of coal miners here became general to-day when those who had remained at work when 15,000 men struck on Saturday evening joined their comrades in the fight for better terms from the mine owners.

Looking for Crippen.

Special to Evening Telegram.
PARIS, July 18.
The Prefect of Police to-day issued instructions to the Police of France to watch for an arrest upon discovery of Dr. Hawley Crippen who is wanted in London on the charge of having slain his wife.

Attempted Assassination.

Special to Evening Telegram.
MANILLA, July 18.
Dean of Worcester, the American Secretary of Interior for the Philippines, was set upon by Moros on the island of Palawna to-day and escaped assassination only through the quickness of his bodyguard who shot down the outlaws killing three of them outright. He was touring the island which is the most westerly of the group. In anticipation of his coming a band of Moros planned his death.

Grand Trunk Railway Strike.

Special to Evening Telegram.
MONTREAL, July 18.—
Negotiations were abruptly broken off this afternoon between the conductors and trainmen of the Grand Trunk and the Co., and sharp at half past nine to-night a strike of the men started to enforce their demands for a standard rate of wages for the "territory" west of Chicago. It is estimated by the men that this strike will involve three thousand five hundred conductors and trainmen of the Grand Trunk between Portland and Chicago and three hundred and fifty men on the Central Vermont and it is hoped by them that they will be able to tie up both lines. This declaration of war was expected on both sides and they have been quietly preparing for it. The Grand Trunk has for some time arranging to get additional men to furnish crews and also to take all men available from their other services and put them on the trains as far as necessary. A further factor to this dispute which will have a very wide effect is the decision of the Grand Trunk Co. to close all its shops.

Very Successful Demonstrations.

The Fleischmann Co. after a very successful and interesting series of demonstrations to the ladies in the East End of the city through their demonstrator, Mrs. S. Anna Peacock, have decided to continue these lessons free, in the West End, in the school room just back of the Methodist Church, Buchanan Street, commencing July 21st, and continuing till August 4th, on every afternoon at 2.30. Mrs. Peacock is a Domestic Science Teacher of much experience, and will explain how easy and simple it is to make good bread in 4 or 5 hours with Fleischmann's Yeast; also other baked goods made and explained. Footballer Badly Hurt

Mr. Gordon Boone, of the Pelidian team, was seriously injured during last night's match. After getting up field with the ball he shot for goal but slipped and fell. Hayter, the opposing goal keeper, ran out to save and fell on Boone's stomach. Mr. Boone suffered much pain and after the match had to be treated by Dr. Anderson, who found him suffering from rupture. It is feared that owing to this he will be unable to play in future and cannot row as he had intended with the Blue Peter's amateurs.

Telegram Finds Money

The purse which was picked up on the R. C. Cathedral ground Sunday and given to Inspector Collins was owned by Mrs. T. Kent. She saw the "find" in the Telegram news item and received the cash from the Inspector. All the people read the People's Paper all the time.

Three salmon were caught at Tomkins to-day by R. A. Murray, weighing from 10 to 25 lbs.; also one salmon caught by A. Burnham. Eleven salmon were taken at South Branch by Mr. Barron; five by Tompkins weighing seven to ten pounds.

Dowie Again.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
CHICAGO, Ills., July 18.
Silver coins and bills a foot and a half deep were thrown into a tricolor barrel placed before the pulpit at Zion City Tabernacle yesterday by the followers of Wilbur Voliva, General overseer of the Christian Science Church of Zion City and successor to John Alexander Dowie, who marched over the north shore city and took formal possession of the buildings which last week again came into their control through the action of the federal court, in dissolving the receivership.

Littledale Garden Party

All arrangements are now complete in connection with the Littledale Garden Party, to be held to-morrow, the 20th. One thing only is now required to ensure success and that is fine weather. Given fine weather there is no more beautiful spot in the suburbs of St. John's than Waterford Bridge Valley wherein Littledale is so charmingly situated. As already announced there will be vocal and instrumental items during the afternoon, rendered in the spacious hall at Littledale. Each item will extend over about ten minutes, and will have place at 3.30, 4.30 and 5.30. Many of our young and talented artists will take part in these instrumental and vocal renderings, amongst whom will be some of Littledale's most successful pupils, both as vocalists and instrumentalists. The Mount Cashel boys will also be present to entertain with their finished and attractive dancing. Lovers of skittles, football practice, ring boards, etc., will find their favourite pastimes awaiting them. Nothing has been left undone by the good ladies in charge, and every possible provision has been made to provide abundance and variety by the tableholders. A special train will run out to Waterford Bridge Station (by the courtesy of the Reid Nfld. Co.) for a very trifling affair of a few cents. The train will leave the city at 4 o'clock, and as Waterford Bridge Station is but two minutes walk from Littledale there will be no difficulty whatever in getting to the ground. In addition to the train at 4 o'clock there will be the usual excursion train at 2.30. The music during the entire afternoon will be supplied by the very excellent band of the T. A. & B. Society. If, however, the weather should prove unfavourable, the British Hall will be the venue, and teas, refreshments, etc., will be served there from 2.30 p.m. There will be a concert at 7.30, and a dance to begin at 9.30—all in British Hall to-morrow in the event of unfavourable weather, and the T. A. Band will be in attendance.

Trouble About the Motor Ferry.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
PLACENTIA, Yesterday.
The Tailors of Tully Street met here by private invitation Saturday night last to formulate rules and regulations for running motor ferry. It must be understood that this invitation meeting was not in the interest of the public generally, but to suit some of the movers' own convenience and petty jealousies. The general public have full confidence in present management by Magistrate O'Reilly where it has always been and where there is no danger of private interests endangering the service. It is only fair to say that some of those present at the meeting were unaware of the hidden purpose underlying the meeting.

Broad Cove Regatta.

The public of St. John's will be, no doubt, delighted to hear again that the Broad Cove Regatta collectors are in town collecting for that event at Broad Cove, which will take place on Aug. 17th. Messrs. Eli Squires and Augustus Squires have been selected to collect in the East End of the city, and Messrs. Richard Squires and Jacob Tucker will accommodate the subscribers of the West End. This annual event has always proved most enjoyable. The committee say that the Premier's absence this season will be a damper on the festivities, but they are counting on a visit from all the rest of their old friends. The races are open to crews from any of the outlying harbours including Bell Island, Lance Cove, Horse Cove and Topsail.

McMurdo's Store News

TUESDAY, July 19, '10.
A sudden change to cool weather after a number of hot days always occasions a number of colds. Such colds, taken "out of the heat," are sometimes difficult to cure and require in any case prompt measures. One of the best means of preventing a cold getting too far is by the early use of our Quinine and Cinnamon Perles (35c.). These combat the fever and relieve head colds. For sore throat use Pine Tree Lozenges (25c.). For cough, no better remedy is to be had than McMurdo's Cough Syrup, which has established a reputation all over the country. 25c.—adv.

Regatta Notes.

Each evening now the oarsmen who will compete in the coming Regatta take a spin over the harbor and regatta connoisseurs watch them keenly, taking the time with an eye to betting on races day.

The B.I.S., Felldians and C.E.I. will row in the football race, which is expected to be a closely contested one.

As usual, the brigade race will be a very interesting one. The crews will be pretty evenly matched and all are now hard at work practicing.

In the fishermen's race the Torbay crew will row the new boat Guard, the Flatrock men will row the Pink 'n' Outer Cove, as usual, the Blue Peter. It is not known yet if the Blackhead men are going to row.

Mr. W. Carew, stroke for the C.C.C., is unwell and it is feared will be unable to row.

LEAGUE PICNIC.—The Epworth League of Cochrane Street Church, will meet in their rooms at 2.30 to-morrow afternoon. If the weather be fine they will proceed to Ross' Farm and have their annual picnic. Let all the members come, a good time is assured.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I see by the report of last Friday's meeting of the Council that Mr. John Burke applied for permission to hold band concerts and picture shows nightly in the park. I think the Council would be acting very wisely by giving Mr. Burke that permission seeing the great necessity for such amusement. It would be a nice place for the public after tea to spend a couple of hours enjoyment in the open air. I would suggest Mr. Editor that he would charge a small admission fee of five cents to every one entering the grounds, as I understand the band concerts here to fore held in the parks were paid by the rate payers but in this case the small admission fee will come light on everyone. As the summer is slipping away the Council ought to get a hustle on in order to comply with the wishes of the public.
Yours truly,
A CITIZEN.

Shall We Ever Fly to New York?

A Chat With the Hon. C. S. Rolls.

What are the prospects of aeroplaneing, and how far distant is the day when the science of flying will have been brought to perfection? Such were the questions a T-B. man put to the Hon. C. S. Rolls, son of Lord Llangattock, who has become as famous in flying circles as he was in connection with cycling and ballooning, and still is as a motorist.

A great many statements were attributed to Mr. Rolls on the occasion of his Channel flight which were entirely untrue. In this article will be found his correct views as told personally to the T-B. man.

The Dream of His Boyhood.

Mr. Rolls has dreamt of conquering the air ever since he was a boy. He used to discuss the subject with his father, but up to that time their joint thoughts had necessarily to come back to ballooning. A heavier-than-air machine was regarded as being beyond the possibilities of science. Still, he grew up full of his subject, and while awaiting the advent of a flying machine Mr. Rolls interested himself in other forms of sport.

His own particular den bears witness to his achievements. Cups won in great cycle events, massive gold and silver trophies—the T-B. man counted over forty—spray the room, while the walls are covered with diplomas, cartoons, etc., all recording his achievements in the sporting world.

A Chance to Make a Fortune.

Mr. Rolls is one of the young men from whom we may expect great things in aeroplaneing. He has no axe to grind in taking up aerial science; money is quite a secondary consideration to him. His interest may be accounted for in this way—he was born with more than his share of the spirit of adventure, and sufficient money to indulge that spirit to the full. In the matter of the aeroplane he thinks it undoubtedly has a practical future, but except for military purposes it will not be generally employed for a very long time. At the present time the great defect is the engine. The man who can invent a steady, reliable engine, has a fortune awaiting him, and until the present engine has been improved there will be little real utility in the aeroplane. Flight, as at present undertaken, is little more than an adventure, with either disaster or achievement at the end of it. One might almost confer the Balacava title upon present-day airmen, and call them the "Death or Glory" boys. Each flight brings them one thing or the other.

The Tit-Bits man tried to persuade Mr. Rolls to describe his sensations while flying the Channel, but the only answer he could obtain was, "What are your sensations when walking down Piccadilly?"

"But your thoughts? What were they of?"

"Really, I had no thoughts."

"I suppose your mind was concentrated upon the possibilities of success?" he was asked. And all he replied was that he supposed it might have been, but he didn't think it was. The T-B. man came to the conclusion that Mr. Rolls experiences fewer sensations when in the air than the T-B. man does in Southampton St.

His Calais Flight.

Mr. Rolls is a believer in the Wright machine. Without wishing to enter into any controversy on the subject, he thinks it is the most reliable invention. It was in this machine that he accomplished his sensational flight to France and back. On that occasion he was in the air for 1 hour 35½ minutes, during which time he described several circles over the English coast, then crossed to Calais, circled round and round there for a few minutes, and without alighting headed for and reached England in one single flight.

Such achievements suggest great possibilities, and Mr. Rolls was asked if he thought a voyage to New York would ever be made from England by aeroplane. He replied: "There was a time when it was considered impossible to get there by ship. But I can tell you this—it is quite impossible at present to reach America by aeroplane. No engine would last out. It seems to me a question of time. In calm weather it may be done eventually, but I do not think it will ever become a practice."

The highest speed attainable on an aeroplane is 100 miles an hour, travelling with the wind, so that a flight to New York at top speed would occupy just over thirty hours.—Tit-Bits.

Feildians Defeat C. E. I.

The League Football Match between the Feildian and C. E. I. teams was witnessed by a small audience last evening.

The weather was cool and a stiff breeze blew from the N. E. The teams lined up:—

C. E. I.—Hayter, goal; Hunt, Le-Messurier, backs; Hussey, Stick, Hallett, halves; Harris, Evans, Godden, Miller, Drover, forwards.

Feildians.—Voisey, goal; Rendell, Hunt, backs; A. Tait, R. Tait, Simms, halves; Dickenson, E. Rendell, J. Rendell, Boone, Pinsent, forwards.

The Feildians won the toss and elected to defend the western goal, and at the kick-off the Institute boys rushed matters for a while, but soon it could be seen that they were up against it, for the Feildians are a hard combination to beat. Getting the ball down Rendell had a nice try, but Hayter saved well. Shortly after Dickenson, inside right, got control of the leather and found the net, scoring the first goal for the Feildians. The Feildians kept the ball well down on their opponents goal; Hayter saved some difficult shots, when Tait sent in a hot one and scored No. 2 goal for the Feildians. A penalty kick was shortly afterwards awarded C. E. I., but Voisey saved splendidly, batting the ball down. Once again it was passed across from the wing and Boone scored No. 3 for Feildians. The teams shortly after crossed:—C. E. I., 0; Feildians, 3 goals.

Shortly after the ball was kicked off Drover sent in a beauty which Voisey barely saved, when Boone again got control and getting up the left wing scored No. 4 for Feildians. The C. E. I. now bucked up and getting the ball down on their opponents territory, Harris scored the one and only goal for his side.

The game closed: Feildians, 4 goals; C. E. I., 1 goal. Mr. W. J. Higgins referred in his usual efficient manner.

A Pleasing Function.

Rev. W. T. D. Dunn and his estimable wife, who are about to leave for Lewisporte, were specially and deservedly honored by the parishioners of Gower Street Church at a meeting held there last night. Mrs. J. E. P. Peters, acting on behalf of the ladies of the congregation, presented Mrs. Dunn with a purse well filled with gold. Mrs. Dunn, who was deeply touched by the evidence of affection and regard, thanked Mrs. Peters and the other ladies and modestly disclaimed that she had done anything else but ordinary duties of a minister's helpmate during her eight years' residence in the city and four years of intimate connection with Gower Street Church. The second presentation was a similar gift to Rev. Mr. Dunn from the Quarterly Official Board and Board of Trustees. Rev. Mr. Dunn also made an appropriate reply and thanked the kind donors for their generous gift. He will, we understand, shortly visit the Holy Lands as a beneficiary under the Macpherson bequest.

The People Object.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—In May last a notice was put up prohibiting the use of nets for the purpose of taking salmon or trout inside the town Gut of Placentia. The people did not put out nets. This created a howl. After a time Mr. F. Morris came here and very soon got a grasp of the situation. The people set out their nets again. A few days ago the Supervisor of Game and Inland Fisheries returned from St. John's fully armed with law notices to take up the nets at once.

Now, sir, this cruel act is depriving some of our very, very poor people of the means of earning a dollar. And what does it all mean? Is it done in the interest of a few city sports, of which the majority constitute the Fishery Board?

Mr. F. Morris, you do as Mr. Justice Emerson did some years ago, when some members from the north were anxious to try some dead fishery rule in this district. Mr. Emerson jumped up from his place in the House and the hon. members got such a "go along" that they never mentioned Placentia District matters after. Come, Mr. F. Morris, you at once go down to the Marine and Fishery Office and demand in the name of the sweeping majority of this, your district, a repeal of this very injurious rule, and let our people live as they have done since Cabot cast anchor on our shore. I remain,

Yours truly, JUSTICE.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Mr. F. C. Berteau, Auditor General, accompanied by Miss and Master Berteau, were in town for a short time last week.

The Archibald excursion party returned to town on Friday night. Hundreds of people were at the station to meet them. The British band was also present, and playing lively airs headed the torchlight procession to the factory, where the very enjoyable outing was brought to a close.

The Nfld. Highlanders left the s.s. Ethie at Heart's Content yesterday at noon and proceeded to go in camp a short distance from the cable town. It is said they will pass through this town on their return and possibly give us a concert. Their admirers here will be glad to see the boys in kilts again. May the weather be favourable.

Miss F. Dwyer, daughter of Const. Dwyer, has taken a position in the dry goods store of Mr. George E. Stevenson of this town.

The Rev. T. B. Darby, the new pastor of the Methodist Church here, occupied the pulpit for the first time in that capacity yesterday morning. His sermons were much enjoyed.

Miss F. Ryan, who had been visiting her parents, Sergeant and Mrs. Ryan at Trinity, returned to town yesterday via Heart's Content. Miss Ryan left Trinity by s.s. Ethie at 6 a.m. and arrived here at 6 p.m.

A large number of Bell Island friends arrived by s.s. Euphrates on Saturday evening and left again yesterday evening at about 4 o'clock for home.

The Knights of Columbus intend to go to Bell Island on Wednesday next by steamer. A number of their friends will accompany them and a good time is sure for all who go.

The British band will have an excursion to the Iron town on Wednesday week and will hold a concert and dance there. We hear that a large number of tickets are already sold, as only a limited number can be taken on the boat, and people are buying them early so as not to be disappointed.

A lady in town is now mourning the loss of a heart shaped gold brooch which she has treasured for a number of years. She would be delighted to have it returned.

Mr. Patrick Keefe, of Bear's Cove, read an item in the Evening Telegram a few days ago of the loss of a mare and foal some time since. He asked your correspondent to say that a couple of weeks ago when at Clark's Beach he heard of two animals answering the description given having passed through that place, and he thinks this may be a clue to the owner in finding them.

Miss Noel, Principal of the C. of E. High School, left on Friday evening last for St. John's en route to Montreal, where her vacation will be spent with friends.

We are pleased to see the genial Capt. W. H. Tucker of the Clementine back again, also his son, mate John, of the same ship. Their many friends are always pleased to welcome them.

We hear that owing to the poor fishery a number of fishermen are thinking of "reeling up" and going to Grand Falls, Sydney and other places to seek employment.

Mrs. A. G. Munn and Miss Hippily went citywards by Saturday evening's train on a short visit.

Mrs. (Rev.) T. H. James is in town to-day visiting her numerous friends, who are delighted to have her with them again. Mr. and Mrs. James leave shortly for their new station, where we trust they will have a very pleasant stay.

CORRESPONDENT.
Harbor Grace, July 18, '10.

The C. C. C. and C. L. B. will play the inter-brigade match at St. George's Field this evening. This is the opening game in the second round. The players will be:

C. C. C.—Walsh, goal; Byrne and Hayse, backs; J. Walsh, W. Hart and Rawlins, halves; Caul, Jackman, Murphy, Hart and Sullivan, forwards.

C. L. B.—Marshall, goal; Barnes and Skeans, backs; Stick, Bishop and A. Nother, halves; White, Hunt, Hayward, Bartlett and Oliver, forwards.

TOOK FINE PHOTOS.—Yesterday Mr. Jas. Vey took some fine photographs of the Methodist Orphanage, the orphan children and the deaconesses in charge there.

Warns Britain Against Naval Unpreparedness.

New York, July 14.—The Tribune's London correspondent cables: Lord Charles Beresford appeared last night before the Cecil Club, an organization formed some years ago for the purpose of stimulating stalwart feeling among Conservatives of the Salisbury pattern. Rudyard Kipling introduced him after a pleasant dinner at the Whitehall rooms, and the naval warrior soon took advantage of the occasion to reinforce all that he had ever said as a reformer of the navy.

Lord Charles made a long and interesting speech on the condition of the fleet, and laid stress on the fact that the nation could never be prepared for war unless it had a war staff, which it did not yet possess.

He discussed the folly of building Dreadnoughts at a vast expense unless there was assurance from the Admiralty that as a matter of tactics every link in the chain was adequate, supplied and that every unit of the navy as a fighting organization was complete from torpedo craft to big guns.

He reasserted with increased emphasis that the trade routes linking together the Mother Country and the States of the Empire were not safe, and that the Admiralty, in a recent crisis, was under obligation to patriotic and loyal colonies for timely assistance.

Lord Charles contended with strenuous eloquence that the recent inquiry inspired by his letter to the Prime Minister had proved his case, namely, that the country was entirely unprepared for war, notwithstanding lavish expenditures for the navy, and that it would never be secure until there was a staff systematically organized for the business of fighting an emergency, which would be preventing hostilities altogether.

A large company of Conservative diners clinked their glasses in recognition of England's favorite naval orator, and, with skill cries of "Condor!" accentuated their approval.

Boiler Killed 17.

London, July 14.—Startling rumors of great loss of life, following a collision between steamers on the Dnieper river reached here to-day from Odessa, Russia. Inquiry develops that the reports are exaggerated versions of last Saturday's accident, when a boiler exploded on the steamer Lovkik. At that time three persons were killed and subsequently 14 others died from injuries.
