CHAPTER XXIX.

He stooped down and looked at her face.

"Say that again," he said, eagerly. "You will consent? You will go with me?"

She rose, and with both hands pushed her disordered hair from her white face. Then, looking at him steadily:

"Yes, I will go with you."

"You—you will! Oh, my darling!" and he made to take her in his arms, but she put out her hands and kept him off.

"Yes," she said, in a low, dull voice. "I will go with you. I see it is useless to fight against you."

"It is, it is!" he assented, intently. "And you will come to the cathedral—"

"No," she said, like one repeating a lesson; "come to me here at five o'clock, and—I will be ready."

He knelt on one knee, and taking her hand, pressed it to his lips.

"Violet, you know that I can keep an oath. I have proved it, have I not? Then hear me swear that you shall never regret your resolution. I will wipe out the past, I will surround you with a love that shall cause you to forget all that has happened, and that, that—must make you happy! At five! Go now and lie down, dearest! You will need all your strength, for the journey must be a long and a swift one. A few hours and we shall be beyond the reach of pursuit! And then—ah, then, your new life will commence! A life which my love shall make one dream of happiness! Go, dearest! At five! Remember!"

He led her to the door; she drew her hand from his hot, burning fingers, and pressed it on her forehead, then as she opened the door she turned and looked at him—a steady, resolute look.

"I will remember," she said. "I will be ready when you come!"

CHAPTER XXX.

Ten minutes after Lottie fell senseless beside the stone steps of the Palace Augustus, a slight, girlish figure came quickly down the street. It was dressed in black, the only spot of relief being the fur lining of the hood which almost concealed her face.

side, when a man and woman came down the street.

Margaret beckoned to them. After a glance, they were keeping on their way; but she called to them, and hearing her voice their manner changed, and they hurried forward.

"A poor girl who has fallen in a swoon," explained Margaret.

"Looks like dead, signorina," said the man, shrugging his shoulders Italian fashion. "Best fetch the police; dead people give trouble to the most innocent."

"Oh, no, no; she is not dead, indeed!" said Margaret, earnestly.

"That's not what you said when the signorina nursed you through the ague, ungrateful pig!" exclaimed the man's wife, with charming candor. "What shall we do, lady?"

"If I could get her somewhere out of the street," said Margaret anxiously. "I think she has fainted from hunger."

"Like enough," said the man. "It's a most popular complaint, lady!"

"I'll take her to our rooms, signorina," said the woman promptly. "Lift her, Tonelli!"

The husband obeyed with half-sullen resignation, and the pair carried Lottie to a house in one of the small streets. They laid her on the bed; and Margaret, after dispatching the man to her house for wine and food, and setting the woman to light a fire, threw her fur cloak over the girl, and then, and not till then, carried a light close to her.

As she did so the lamp nearly fell to the floor, for she recognized in the girl she had rescued, the woman who had dealt her the blow that had wrecked her life. There, lying motionless and senseless, was Blair's real wife!

She set the lamp down and staggered back to a chair.

"The signorina is tired and ill!" exclaimed the woman of the house, gazing at her sympathetically. "Will not the signorina leave the girl to my care, and go home to rest? You wear yourself out for the poor, lady!"

"No, no!" said Margaret, fighting against the weakness which threatened to master her. "It—it is only a little faintness. Is the fire all right? Yes? Then will you go down and warm some of the wine Tonelli will bring, and bring it up to me?"

The woman left the room, and Margaret once more bent over the unconscious Lottie.

Yes, it was the same woman! But how came she to be lying in the street in rags, and evidently half-famished? Had Blair deserted her again?

All the while she was pondering she was using means to bring warmth and life back, and presently the woman of the house came up with the hot wine.

Margaret succeeded in getting some through the white lips, and after a while Lottie opened her eyes. They rested upon the lovely face for some seconds vacantly, but presently a gleam of intelligence shot across them, and she tried to raise herself upon her elbow, staring wildly at what she took to be a vision.

"Do not move," said Margaret, softly. "You are weak and ill. Drink some of this wine."

Lottie took the cup and drained it feverishly.

"Give me some more," she gasped. "Give me anything to wake me from this dream. Do you hear? Wake me, or I shall go mad! I tell you I can see her standing there in front of me!" and she pointed to Margaret wildly. "I've often fancied I've seen her, but never so plainly as now. Wake me! for Heaven's sake, wake me!"

"Try and keep quiet," said Margaret, soothingly; but at the sound of her voice Lottie only grew more excited.

"There! I can hear her speaking! What is it she says? I know I did! I plead guilty, my lord! But it was not me only. Where is he? Where is Austin Ambrose? He is worse than I am, my lord. Send me to prison, if you like, but don't let him go scot-free. He is worse than I am! It was he who put me up to it—and now he leaves me to starve! Yes, he did! He threatened me, told me that he'd have me charged, and that he'd swear he knew nothing about it. Where is Austin Ambrose? He is worse than I am, my lord!"

Then she sank down, as if exhausted.

GIRL COULD NOT WORK
How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss CLARICE MORIN, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. (confidential) for free advice which will prove helpful.

ed; but presently she started up with a cry of terror and clutched at Margaret's arm.

"Blair! Blair!" she shrieked, and at the name poor Margaret winced and could scarcely suppress a cry. "Blair will be killed! I heard them say so! Quick! Find him—stop the fight! The prince will kill him. Blair is no match for him—I heard them say so. Oh, for the love of Heaven, don't stand there doing nothing, but find them and stop them!"

The woman of the house crept to the bed, and looking down curiously shrugged her shoulders.

"She is English, lady, is she not? She is in the fever and raves; is it not so? What is it she says?"

"I—I am afraid she is delirious," said Margaret, scarcely knowing what she answered. "Will you go for the English doctor and beg him to come to me at once?"

Lottie caught the word doctor, and raising herself on her elbow, held out her hand imploringly.

"Oh, never mind me!" she panted. "What does it matter about me? It's Blair—Blair you must save! Don't you believe me? I tell you I heard them talking about it before I fell—where was it?" and she put her hand to her head and sank back with a groan.

Margaret sat beside the bed, with one of the girl's wasted, burning hands held tightly in her own.

She could not think—the meeting was too strange and mysterious to permit of her doing that—but she sat in a kind of dull stupor, even after the doctor had come and gone again.

The night passed away, and morning dawned, and with the first streak in the east Lottie awoke.

That she was no longer delirious was evident by her eyes, but she turned pale and started, as they fell upon Margaret.

"It was no dream, then!" she said, in a low voice, covering her face with her hands. "It was really you who sat beside me?"

"Yes, it was I," said Margaret, sadly and shyly, for it came flashing upon her that this woman, after all, was Blair's wife. "I am glad you are better. I will go now," and she rose, a little stiffly.

Lottie put out her hand.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1690 Figured organdie with "Val" insertion and lace is here shown. The dress is also nice for dimity, voile, lawn, nun's veiling, marquisette, crepe, embroidery, batiste, silk, chiffon and crepe de chine. The skirt is finished with a wide tuck over sides and back, and has a panel over the front, finished with a plait extension at each side seam. The waist fronts are lapped at the closing, and the neck edge has a deep and pretty collar. The long sleeve is in bishop style, with a deep, straight cuff. In elbow length the finish is in "bell" effect.

The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 8 1/2 yards of 44-inch material for a 36-inch size. The skirt measures 3 1/2 yards at its lower edge. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

1630—Dress with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths; and with or without Pockets. For Misses and Small Women.

This will make a splendid morning dress, and is also nice for business, for porch, outing or general wear. In linen, percale, gingham or seersucker, it is an ideal style for a house dress. In gabardine, voile, chambray, crepe, tub silk, serge or taffeta, it may be worn on the street, for business or shopping, and with a little embellishment, a trimming of contrasting material or a bit of embroidery, a real chic little gown could be developed. The pockets are attached to the belt, and form a practical and attractive style feature. The collar and sleeve is new. The fronts are lapped at the closing. The skirt is a four-gore model cut with ample fullness.

The Pattern is in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. It requires 6 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for an 18-year size. The skirt measures a little over 3 yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

ASQUITH WILL GO

LONDON. Premier Asquith announced this afternoon that he had written to the King within a few days. He explained, would not the intention of superior authorities, but in case of consulting with the authorities on the first arriving at some arrangement which would be to the detriment of all parties concerned. He added that the government of Ireland, anomalous and unsatisfactory which could not continue.

SUGGESTS IRISH

LONDON. The Daily Mail suggests that the Irish Brigade might be included, but to operate with the French suggestion is enthusiastically supported by the National of the leaders, fear that recruits would not be sent. Another suggestion is an Irish Brigade in South East Africa.

IRELAND

LONDON. In his remarks about the Irish Brigade, which might be included, but to operate with the French suggestion is enthusiastically supported by the National of the leaders, fear that recruits would not be sent. Another suggestion is an Irish Brigade in South East Africa.

COMMISSION TO

LONDON. Announcement was made of the appointment of a Commission to investigate the history of the rebellion, the former permanent Under Secretary for the Home Department.

LORD LIUT. OF IRELAND

LONDON. The Marquis of Londonderry, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has resigned.

DEMAND INVESTIGATION

LONDON. At a meeting of the Home Secretary in the House of Commons, the following resolution was passed: "That the Commission must be of any value, and that the public of Ireland are entitled to two conditions: that the commission must be able to satisfy the public inquiry effectively, with terms of reference which investigation into all the sections of the people's recent insurrectionary nature and extent of the fitness of the present executive in Ireland to deal with the Irish executive of three years to deal with which led up to the outbreak as the outbreak itself."

CIVILIAN CASUALTIES

LONDON. The number of civilian casualties in the uprising to May, given by the Commons to-day is 180 wounded. Mr. Asquith's police were preparing to add to the total as it had been found impossible to separate the names of killed or wounded, from civilians.

ASQUITH WILL GO TO DUBLIN.
LONDON, May 11. Premier Asquith announced in the Commons this afternoon that he felt it his duty to go to Dublin to-day. Asquith said that he would leave for Dublin within a few hours. His trip, he explained, would not be made with the intention of superseding the executive authorities, but for the purpose of consulting with the military authorities on the first hand, and arriving at some arrangement for the future which would commend itself to Irishmen of all parties and to parliament. He added that the present government of Ireland was in an anomalous and unsatisfactory position which could not continue.

SUGGESTS IRISH BRIGADE.
LONDON, May 11. The Daily Mail suggests that an Irish Brigade in which some rebels might be included, be formed to cooperate with the French Army. The suggestion is enthusiastically supported by the Nationalists, but some of the leaders fear that an appeal for recruits would not bring great response. Another suggestion is that an Irish Brigade be formed to serve in South East Africa.

IRELAND DUPED.
LONDON, May 11. In his remarks about the Irish uprising, Mr. Samuel said it was a foolish rebellion because its leaders rashly put faith in German aid. He continued: "I believe when the full history of the rebellion comes to be written, it will be found that nothing has been so significant in this crisis as the manner in which the German Government betrayed those whom they had duped. Undoubtedly the leaders of the revolt anticipated substantial aid from those whom they called their Continental Allies."

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE.
LONDON, May 11. Announcement was made to-day of the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate the Irish rebellion. The members of the Commission are Baron Hardinge, former Viceroy of India, Justice Sir Montague Spearman, and Sir Mackenzie Chalmers, former permanent Under Secretary of State for the Home Department.

LORD LIEUT. OF IRELAND RESIGNS.
LONDON, May 11. The Marquis of Creve announced in the Lords to-day that Baron Wimborne, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, had resigned.

DEMAND INVESTIGATION.
LONDON, May 11. At a meeting of the Irish Parliamentary Party in the Commons to-day the following resolution was passed unanimously: "That any inquiry into the Irish situation must, if it is to be of any value, and satisfactory to the public of Ireland and Britain, satisfy two conditions: the personnel of the commission must be in touch with and satisfy the public of its impartiality and capacity to conduct the inquiry effectively, without favor. The terms of reference must allow full investigation into all the circumstances which led up to the Irish rebellion, the sections of the people of Ireland, the recent insurrectionary outbreak, the nature and extent of the outbreak, the fitness of the present form of executive in Ireland to deal with such troubles, and the actual steps taken by the Irish executive during the last three years to deal with conditions which led up to the outbreak, as well as the outbreak itself."

CIVILIAN CASUALTIES.
LONDON, May 11. The number of casualties among civilians in the uprising in Ireland up to May given by Mr. Asquith in the Commons to-day is 180 killed and 614 wounded. Mr. Asquith added that the police were prepared a list of killed and wounded, so that there might be additions to the total as given by him. It had been found impossible, he said, to separate the names of insurgents who were killed or wounded, from those of other civilians.

DILLON'S RESOLUTION.
LONDON, May 11. The text of the resolution presented in the Commons to-day by John Dillon is as follows: "That in the in-interests of peace and good government in Ireland, it is vitally important that the government should make immediately a full statement of their intentions as to continuance of executions on in various districts of the country." Dillon's motion was voted down without division. In speaking on his resolution in the Commons, Dillon referred to the execution of Thos. Kent, County Cork, saying it looked as though there was a roving commission to carry out these horrible executions. To-day Tennant has announced that there had been fourteen executions, he continued, although the previous figure was twelve. He asked what people were to believe, and added that it was no wonder that many viewed the matter with gravest concern, lest another execution had been held back from the Premier, and might be brought to light later. Dillon said he drafted the resolution in order to confine the discussion to the narrow but important issue of military executions and the continuance of martial law. He complained that Premier Asquith was kept in the dark by the military authorities as to what was going on in Dublin and they are embittering the people. Mr. Tennant said, two others have been sentenced to death but the sentences had not been carried out. The number being deported from Ireland was given as 1796. These have not yet been tried and are still in the United Kingdom.

PROTEST OF THE LORDS.
LONDON, May 11. The Lords adopted a resolution by Lord Loreburn expressing dissatisfaction with the administration of Irish affairs. There was no division.

GERMANY'S NEW NOTE.
WASHINGTON, May 11. Germany's new note acknowledging responsibility for the destruction of the Sussex, promising reparation, and announcing punishment of the submarine commander, was received late to-day at the State Department from Ambassador Gerard. The text of the note, made public, reveals that Germany, while contending that the submarine commander acted in the bona fide belief that he was facing an enemy warship when he torpedoed the Sussex; nevertheless it says that he formed his judgment too hastily, and did not act in strict accordance with the instructions of the Imperial Government, and therefore frankly admits that the assurances given to the United States were not adhered to in this instance. The note expresses "sincere regret regarding the deplorable incident," and declares Germany's readiness to pay adequate indemnity to injured American citizens. It says the German Government "disapproves the conduct of the commander, who has been appropriately punished," and voices the hope that the United States will consider the case settled.

TORPEDED WITHOUT WARNING.
LONDON, May 11. Thirty-seven unarmed British merchantmen and 22 neutral vessels were torpedoed without warning between May 7, 1915 and May 7, 1916, Thomas J. McNamara, Financial Secretary of the Admiralty said in the Commons to-day. He added that he understood these figures were known to the American Government.

MIGHT MAKE ENQUIRIES.
WASHINGTON, May 11. Secretary Lansing indicated to-day that the United States might make enquiries of the German Government regarding the punishment imposed upon the commander of the submarine that sank the steamer Sussex.

ALBANIA ATTACKED.
ATHENS, May 11. Prince Albert, of Serbia, will remain in Corfu, for the present with the general staff of the reorganized Serbian army. Serbia has purchased a second destroyer, as well as a transport for the new Serbian fleet. Sharp fighting has taken place north of Valona, which is apparently a signal that the Austrians have commenced their long-delayed offensive against the Italians and Serbians in Albania.

EXPLOSION CAUSE FIRE.
NORFOLK, Va., May 11. Twenty-six negroes, all women and children except one, perished in a fire which destroyed a Motion Picture theatre after a gasoline explosion at Walleston near here. Twenty were injured.

FIRST CLASS MAIL TAKEN OFF.
BERLIN, May 11. A despatch from Copenhagen to the Overseas News Agency says that all first class mail from the United States on the Norwegian steamer Kristianiafjord and the Danish steamer Relligolar was taken off by the British authorities recently at Kirkwall.

TALKING PEACE.
NEW YORK, May 11. In response to an appeal from the Netherlands anti-war council meeting, which will be considered a proposal that President Wilson be urged to promote a conference of neutral nations to offer mediation in the European war, a meeting will be called soon in this country. This was announced to-day by Hamilton Holt, Chairman of the American branch of the central organization for durable peace, the recipient of the appeal from the Dutch Council. According to Holt this indicates the belief by many persons in the Netherlands, that Emperor William through Germany's reply to the American note on the submarine controversy has made an indirect bid for peace.

RUSSIAN MONK ASSASSINATED.
BERLIN, May 11. Gregory Rapulin, the Russian monk reputed to have exercised great influence over Emperor Nicholas, has been assassinated, according to reports from Petrograd received at Bucharest.

How "Tiz" Gladdens Tired, Aching Feet

No more sore, puffed-up, tender, aching-feet—no corns.

"Tiz" makes sore, burning, tired feet fairly dance with delight. Away go the aches and pains, the corns, callouses, blisters, bunions and chilblains.

"Tiz" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet. No matter how hard you work, how long you dance, how far you walk, or how long you remain on your feet, "Tiz" brings restful foot comfort. "Tiz" is magical, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, smarting feet. Ah! how comfortable, how happy you feel. Your feet just tingle for joy; shoes never hurt or seem tight.

Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" now from any department or hardware store. End foot torture forever—wear smaller shoes, keep your feet fresh, sweet and happy. Just think! a whole year's foot comfort for only

Coopers Discuss City Charter

AND INCREASED WAGES.
A special meeting of the Journeymen Coopers' Union was held in the British Hall last night, a large attendance of members being in evidence. After agreeing to assist other Unions in the consideration of the new City Charter, the question of an increase of pay was discussed, but nothing definite arrived at. At next meeting the matter will be fully gone into. After some minor business was disposed of the meeting adjourned.

Fishery News.

The Board of Trade have received word from F. Carnew telling of fishery conditions from Belleoram to Hemeconer. The shore fishery has not opened yet though there is a good sign of cod and a few fish of large size have been brought here from nearby settlements the past few days. There is a good sign of herring for bait.

Operetta "Agatha"
The C. C. C. Band, Prof. Hutton, F. W. Bradshaw and Lieut. A. R. Bulley will assist at the delightful operetta "Agatha," which met with such success in England and which will be presented here on next Wednesday night by the pupils of the Christian Brothers Schools.

The Infamy of Wittenberg Prison Camp.

A Story of Torture.

"What is the story of Wittenberg? It is a story of torture and a story of murder, a story of starvation, blows, insults, calculated neglect, and deliberate exposure to the attack of loathsome and dangerous sickness," says the Telegraph. "There, on the outskirts of a great German town, a famous centre of education as well as of industry, the things were done of which we were all reading yesterday with a feeling of stupefaction that such conduct was possible in men—officers, guards, medical authorities—who have lived lives not greatly different from our own, and who claim a share, to say nothing of a predominant part, in the civilisation of Europe. "Search as we may throughout that ghastly story for circumstances of palliation or excuse, we look in vain. All that is described happened within the first year of the war, when serious difficulties of supply had not begun to declare themselves.

"These 15,000 or more men were given bad and insufficient food, not because decent food was scarce, but because to maintain them in vitality and power to resist disease was not desired. They were packed together in a space of less than eleven acres not because there was no more room for them in the German Empire, but of set purpose. They were without enough clothing, bedding, or fire through the winter of 1914 because they were prisoners of Germany, and for no other reason.

"The British and French prisoners were compelled by regulation to share their mattresses with Russian prisoners who were well known to be possible carriers of typhus, and when any fell sick it was forbidden to isolate them from the rest. That was not lack of organisation; it was organisation with an end in view.

Doctors Desert the Camp.

"When, on the outbreak of the epidemic, the entire German staff, medical as well as military, deserted the camp, and left these thousands of miserable men in the hands of a few doctors wrongfully kept as prisoners of war, it was not because every German doctor is afraid of disease. When the adequate supply of medical requirements was refused it was not because Germans are ignorant in these matters. The people of the town were allowed to fear at the daily procession of coffins not because German guards have no idea how to deal with mobs. We have taken only a few of the points in this appalling indictment but they are enough. Nearly one-tenth of the 700 British prisoners died, in the circumstances of filth and misery described in the report; of the French and Russians a far greater number. They were murdered men. There can be no other verdict," adds the Telegraph.

The man mainly responsible for this neglect—the Oberstaabsarzt, Dr. Aschenbach—has been awarded the Iron Cross, the committee understand, for his services in combating the epidemic. He entered the camp once while the disease existed, in a complete suit of protective clothing, with a mask and rubber gloves.

"It is pleasant to turn from this callous coward to the English doctors and the orderlies who volunteered to work under them," says the Times. "Never—even by doctors—was terrible work more nobly done. Three of the officers and many of the men laid down their lives doing it. We hope with the committee that the devoted service of the survivors will not be forgotten."

"The nobility of the warrior has no place in the lazar-house of a soul like that of Dr. Aschenbach," says the Star. "A doctor of medicine even in Germany belongs to a sodality of service and compassion. How can the German colleagues of Dr. Aschenbach hold up their heads and look each other in the face so long as he is not brought to trial and made to answer for his crimes? Not merely against humanity but against what is left of German honour and German chivalry?"

"There is a precedent for the punishment of crimes like those deliberately committed by Dr. Aschenbach. The American Civil War ended on May 26, 1865. On November 10, 1865, Captain Wirz, Commandant of the Confederate Prison at Andersonville, after a long trial, was executed for cruelty to Federal prisoners. Let us remember that precedent," says the Star.

JUST LIKE A QUEEN.

An officer who has just been discharged from one of the London hospitals, has been telling me a delightful story of Queen Alexandra. One day Her Majesty visited the hospital, and chatted with my friend for a few minutes. "Do you know what she said to me?" he asked. "She sat on my bed for nearly five minutes, and as she was leaving said: 'I know your needs are well looked after, but if there is anything extra you would like, tell me.'"

That Little Member.

RUTH CAMERON.

We drifted into a talk the other night about mistakes and someone said, "If you could undo three mistakes in your whole life, what would they be?" That is what you might call a leading question, isn't it, one that most of us would hesitate to answer fully? But I was glad it was asked, because when I put it to myself I discovered a fact that interested me—namely, that two out of the three mistakes I would give the most to undo were sins of the tongue.

Ask yourself that same question and see if you do not find the tongue the greatest offender.

A Motto For A Club Or Class.
"Of the unspoken word thou art master, but the spoken word is master of thee." A class of high-school girls asked me for a motto the other day, and I suggested that, I do not know of any better reminder for a group of young people.

To be sure I hate secretive folks, but so few err on that side.

Most of us, when we are hesitating between making a confidence and withholding it, end by making it.

Don't!

Nine Times Out of Ten You Will Be Sorry.
For, nine times out of ten, when the mood of self-revelation that made you so free spoken has passed, you will want to recall that confidence, and alas! all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot get that spoken word back again.

On the other hand, if by any chance you should regret not speaking, you still have it in your power to speak. Instead of an irrevocable past, you have an open future.

The same is true of angry words and unkind accusations. We almost never regret not saying them, whereas, over and over again, we regret having spoken them. Bitter words are hard to forget. Even when the quarrel has been made up, we still remember the harsh things our antagonist said in the heat of the moment and sometimes wonder "After all, is that what he really thinks of me, and is his friendliness merely a pretence?"

Shutting Your Lips At The Right Time.
If you can learn to shut your lips at the right moment, you have learned one of the biggest lessons in life. And always remember that if you don't speak you still have the future in which to change your mind and do otherwise, whereas if you do speak you create an irrevocable past.

"Give not my tongue too much liberty. Word unspoken is like the sword in the scabbard, thine. If spoken, thy sword is in another's hand."

Music.

Grief is brooding at my portal woe is knocking at my door; I no longer sing and chortle, as I did in days of yore. I'm not whistling as I labor, no one hears my merry laugh; for, alas, my next door neighbour has a new cheap phonograph. It has got a tone tin-panny, and it makes me writhe and sweat, and I say to Gentle Annie, "It will drive me dippy yet." Now it roars, in tones of Stentor, some old spiel that should be canned, "Uncle Si at Pumpkin Center," with refrain by Batt's Band. And the songs it reproduces give me fantods in the toes; they are sung by cheap excuses who make music through the nose. And it's going always, always, all day long I hear it wheeze, till I rear and tear my gaitways, throw a fit and bite my knees. I have called on Bob, the cooper, begged that peeler, till I'm hoarse, to invoke the law and stop her, but she says there's no recourse. So I suffer pain immortal, and my heart is sick and sore; grief is brooding at my portal, woe is knocking at my door.

Not less felicitous was his report to his friend, the Protestant archbishop whom he met as he was hurrying for a train. The archbishop showed him his watch and assured him that they had abundance of time. They arrived to see the train steaming out of the station. The archbishop was much distressed. "I cannot tell you how it happened, Father Healy; it is a valuable presentation watch, and I had the utmost faith in it."

"Better have had good works in it," retorted Father Healy.

One of Mr. Bodkin's personal anecdotes concerns an occasion when he was walking with Father Healy through a street in Dublin, and a ragged loafer came begging to him. "Pointing after him as he slouched away," says Mr. Bodkin, "sixpence richer than he came, Father Healy said to me: 'That's a nice condition for a poor Irish landlord.' 'Why, in the name of wonder,' I exclaimed, 'do you say that fellow is an Irish landlord?' 'He has the universal and infallible hall-mark.' 'And that is?' 'A rent in a rear.'"

Everyday Etiquette.

"Please tell me whether it is correct to congratulate a young lady upon her engagement or should such congratulations be given only to the man?" inquired Gladys.

"It is correct to congratulate a man upon his engagement, but one does not use the word congratulate in felicitating the young lady. One should, however, express one's interest and pleasure to her and wish her all possible happiness," said her aunt.

Witty Fr. Healy.

STORIES OF THE CELEBRATED IRISH CLERGYMAN.

Irishman Who Was for Many Years Parish Priest of Little Bray Near Dublin. Was Known as "The Wittiest Man of His Generation"—Distinguished Visitors at Dublin Always Sought to Dine With Him.

Among the many excellent stories which Mr. M. McDonnell Bodkin, K.C., tells in his interesting article, "Irish Characters and Irish Wit," are a number concerning Father Healy, "the wittiest man of his generation," who was for many years parish priest of Little Bray, about twelve miles from Dublin.

It was the ambition of every distinguished man who lived in or visited Dublin to dine with Father Healy, and in one of Lord Randolph Churchill's letters, preserved in the admirable biography by his son, he writes, after a Session of unusual stress, that nothing could restore him but "a night spent in Father Healy's company."

On one occasion a fine clutch of young ducks arrived among the gifts which frequently reached Father Healy from his many admirers. The genial priest watched their progress from the pond to the table with lively satisfaction. Seeing them sporting in the water, he exclaimed, with whimsical compassion, "Poor innocents, how they enjoy themselves, never thinking that my green peas are growing on the other side of the garden wall."

It was Father Healy who, when Mr. Balfour, at that time Chief Secretary for Ireland, asked if there was any truth in the statement in the Nationalist papers that he was generally disliked in Ireland, replied, "My dear sir, if the devil were half so well hated my occupation would be gone."

Nothing happier can be imagined than Father Healy's reply to a dyspeptic priest whom he encountered fresh from his sea-water bath, and who, having assured him that he often derived much benefit from drinking a tumblerful of salt water, anxiously inquired:

"Do you think I might venture on a second?"

Father Healy, after grave consideration, solemnly answered, "I think you might; I don't believe it would be missed."

Not less felicitous was his report to his friend, the Protestant archbishop whom he met as he was hurrying for a train. The archbishop showed him his watch and assured him that they had abundance of time. They arrived to see the train steaming out of the station. The archbishop was much distressed. "I cannot tell you how it happened, Father Healy; it is a valuable presentation watch, and I had the utmost faith in it."

"Better have had good works in it," retorted Father Healy.

One of Mr. Bodkin's personal anecdotes concerns an occasion when he was walking with Father Healy through a street in Dublin, and a ragged loafer came begging to him. "Pointing after him as he slouched away," says Mr. Bodkin, "sixpence richer than he came, Father Healy said to me: 'That's a nice condition for a poor Irish landlord.' 'Why, in the name of wonder,' I exclaimed, 'do you say that fellow is an Irish landlord?' 'He has the universal and infallible hall-mark.' 'And that is?' 'A rent in a rear.'"

Zangwill's Pull.

One of the wittiest of British literary men is Mr. Israel Zangwill, who as an after-dinner speaker has few rivals. Shortly after he was married Mr. Zangwill went with his wife to America, where at a well-known New York club they were entertained by some prominent citizens. After the dinner an admiral who was present proposed Mr. Zangwill's health, and remarked that it was a pity they could not claim him as a citizen of the United States. "Oh," said Mr. Zangwill, with a smile, "but I do belong to one of the United States, through my wife, by marriage." Everyone was much puzzled, for Mrs. Zangwill was certainly English; but it was she herself who explained the mystery. "It was a joke," she said, sadly; "he does belong to the United States—the married state. Do you see?"

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.30 A.M.

MONK ASSASSINATED.

BERLIN, To-day. Gregory Raputin, Russian monk, reported to have exercised great influence over Emperor Nicholas, has been assassinated, according to reports from Petrograd received at Bucharest.

RELEASING LOYAL VOLUNTEERS.

DUBLIN, To-day. National volunteers, who were followers of John Redmond, and who were arrested as Irish volunteers, are now being released. General Maxwell, the British commander, granted facilities for the identification of loyal volunteers.

ADVANCING TOWARDS BRITISH LINES.

LONDON, To-day. German forces in German East Africa, after retiring from Kondoa Irangi district, have received reinforcements and are again advancing towards the British lines, according to an official announcement made last night. Telegraphing on May 9, Lieut. General Smuts reported that the enemy in the Kondoa Irangi area, after our occupation of that centre, fell back a considerable distance along the roads leading to the central railway at Dodoma and Kilimanjaro. There they received reinforcements and again approached Kondoa Irangi district, where our forces are quite sufficient to deal with them. An aeroplane despatched to reconnoitre the line of the Usambar railway failed to return. The Belgian advance into Ruanda, both north and south of Lake Kivu, progressed satisfactorily despite the natural difficulties of the country increased by recent rainfall.

ASQUITH ADVOCATES UNITY.

LONDON, To-day. It was of the utmost importance, said Asquith, that after these disturbing events we should forsake all past prepossessions and recognize that the vast mass of the Irish people have shown themselves loyal to the Crown and determined to maintain law and resolute to prosecute the war. We ought to seize the opportunity of developing their sentiment of unity and good feeling by co-operating in the endeavor of putting aside all controversies of the past and unite Ireland herself as a constituent of the United Kingdom and Empire to the common task which absorbs all our common energies. With reference to the Skelington case, Asquith said on the facts known to the Government it seemed to be an excusable act, but the case was subjudice. All he could say or promise was that an open inquiry would be held.

ASQUITH AND CONDEMNED LEADERS.

LONDON, To-day. There were two other persons, Asquith said, under sentence of death. Both of them signed the proclamation and had taken an active part in the rebellion.

rebels in actually shooting down troops and police, of these were seven; the third class comprised men like Kent who had been guilty of murder. At present everything conceivable, said Dillon, was being done to speed disaffection throughout the country. Limerick, Clare, Mayo counties were not in a disturbed condition and their reward was the sending down of troops to make arrests. "If Ireland were governed by men out of Bedlam," shouted Dillon, "they could not pursue a more insane policy. You are letting loose a river of blood between two races, which after 300 years of hatred we had nearly succeeded in bringing together. You are washing out our whole life work in a sea of blood." This and other telling points in his speech were received with loud cheers from the Nationalist benches. There was a lively incident at the conclusion of Dillon's speech. He was saying the insurgents had made a good clean fight, however misguided. He was interrupted by a member and retorted "It would be a good thing if your soldiers were able to put up as good a fight, three thousand against twenty thousand, machine guns and artillery." Premier Asquith's announcement of his intention to go to Dublin to a large extent took the life out of the debate in the Commons. Timothy Healy, Nationalist, for the division of Cork county, who followed Asquith, congratulated him on his decision. He considered those responsible for the Government of Ireland had been grossly misled and by some of his own countrymen. The time would come, said Healy, when they would have to indict a policy of those who tried to make up by excited rhetoric for past blunders. The Irish people were sick of the jobbery of the last few years. If Redmond was to have power, let him have power and office.

A NOTE FOR BRITAIN.
WASHINGTON, To-day. The United States Government is preparing to protest to Britain against the policy of refusing to allow the shipment of a hospital supply by the American Red Cross to Germany and her allies. Secretary State Lansing received a letter to-day from former President Taft, Chairman of the Central Committee of the Red Cross, urging such action. It was learned last night the matter would be taken up with the British Government in the near future.

BUDGET OF WAR NEWS.

LONDON, To-day. Infantry actions in the region of Verdun has again given way to artillery bombardments, the most violent of which are directed against the French positions in Gallette Wood and their second line on the right bank of the Meuse. Bombardments also have taken place along the front held by the Belgians, and mining operations and artillery duels have predominated on the British front. A severe duel is in progress around the Hohenzollern redoubt between the British and Germans. The Russians and Germans on the eastern front are keeping up mutual bombardments at various points. Like conditions prevail in the fighting between the Austrians and Italians in the mountainous region of the Austro-Italian theatre. Constantinople reports that in the Caucasus region, around Mount Kop, the Turks attacked and drove out the Russians from positions about nine and one half miles in extent and forced them to retreat eastward. Likewise southeast of Mamahattan they put the Russians to flight. The British Government will permit under certain stipulations the feeding of the civilian population of Poland by the American Commission.

MINISTRY OF AVIATION.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily Telegraph says it learns the Government will announce on Tuesday its decision to create a Ministry of Aviation, headed by Earl Curzon of Kedleston.

PLOT TO KIDNAP CARSON.

LONDON, To-day. A plot to kidnap Sir Edward Carson from Cshendall, County Antrim, where he is expected to spend his Easter holidays, has been uncovered by an investigation, says the Daily Telegraph's Dublin correspondent. The plan miscarried, the correspondent adds, because Sir Edward owing to pressure of business cancelled his holidays.

DEATH SENTENCES COMMUTED.

DUBLIN, To-day. A statement, issued last night, gives the names of six additional men, tried by court martial and sentenced to death, who were commuted to various terms of imprisonment. Of five others who were sentenced to terms in prison, the statement adds, at the trials for the murder of Head Constable Rowe, which occurred at Cork on May 4, with the following results: William Kent, acquitted; Thos. Kent found guilty and sentenced to death. Sentence confirmed and execution performed on the 9th.

BILINGUAL SCHOOL QUESTION.

OTTAWA, To-day. Parliament by vote of 497 to 60 this morning rejected the motion moved by Lapointe and supported by Laurier for mediation by the Dominion Parliament in the bilingual school dispute in Ontario. Party lines were broken in the debate and in the vote that followed, but defections from the Opposition proved to be less serious than in the case of the Government.

MUTINY OF DUTCH TARS.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. A mutiny broke out on board three Dutch battleships at Java, according to despatches to the Telegraph from Batavia. Three hundred sailors deserted the ships and paraded the streets of Weltevrede, a suburb of Batavia. The soldiers of the garrison captured 40 of the mutineers who have been punished.

NO ANSWER.

COPENHAGEN, To-day. According to the Berlin Tagblatt, Germany will not send a reply to the last American Note, but the German Government will confer with Ambassador Gerard in regard to it.

GERMAN COUNTER ATTACK FAILS.

PARIS, To-day. Two attempts by the Germans last night to recapture the position on the western slope of Deadman's Hill taken by the French on May 10 were frustrated by the French artillery fire. The artillery is active about Avoucourt Wood and the bombardment in Douaumont and Vaux section continues, according to official War Office reports.

ASQUITH IN DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, To-day. The Premier arrived here to-day and was taken to the Vice-Regal Lodge. The Premier's first programme for the day was to confer with the Departmental chiefs, and afterwards a consultation with General Maxwell in regard to the military operations which have been in progress since the outbreak of the rebellion. It is reported that in all likelihood, a proclamation will be issued shortly abolishing martial law, the provisions of which have been greatly modified in the last few days. The situation in some parts of the provinces is said to be still rather disturbed, and it is likely that military control will be continued to these districts for some time longer.

THE REASON FOR THE STUBBORN FIGHT AT VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day. Senator Berenger, writing in today's Matin says the key to the war lies in the possession of the Briey Valley between Verdun and Metz. Since the war began, says the senator, France having lost Briey, has been obliged to import almost all the iron required from England and America, while Germany has occupied Briey Valley, is able to add 2,000,000 tons to her annual output. This explains the assiduity of the Germans at Verdun. They want to capture the fortress so as to effectually prevent the French from attacking Metz.

No "Irish Revolt."

(From the London Advertiser.) There is not, nor has there been, any revolt of the Irish people; there are few irreconcilables, who have no room in their position for any feeling except hate for England. To identify these with the Irish as a whole would be an insult to the nation, as they do not in any way carry the half-mark. Revengeful and sulky, where the true Irishman is hot-headed and forgiving, these rebels seem to be of a different race, or to be members of a degenerate branch of the family. If the German money carried weight with them, they must be of a people apart. The true Irish type is the young girl who rushed into the streets of Dublin under a hail of bullets from the rebels, to rescue and drag to safety the wounded soldiers of the King as they lay unprotected. That is the spirit of the men who are fighting so gallantly in France for all they hold dear, and are yet ready to risk their lives to get a drink of water to a wounded foe. It is wrong to say the outbreak is a blot on Ireland; rather it has brought the loyalty of the true Irish into clearer perspective. They have aided, Catholic and Protestant alike, fearlessly in stamping out the sudden flame of insanity, and by doing so have increased the respect in which the world holds them. John Redmond fears the trouble may delay or lose forever Home Rule. Why? Are not the Irish people even now striving to fight their way to a freer country, to show themselves capable of governing the country and maintaining law and order, if given the power and authority.

Patrick Tobin, Michael Tobin and William Tobin, Plaintiffs; vs. Edward Walsh and Elizabeth Walsh, Defendants.

This is a claim for certain lands in the settlement of Manuels in the District of Harbor Main. Gibbs, K.C., for plaintiff; Howley, K.C., and Mr. Cyril A. Fox, for defendants. Court rose for recess till 2.30 p.m.

Train Notes.

The outgoing express is due at Port aux Basques early to-morrow morning. The mail and freight train is due at 1 a.m. to-morrow. The Trepassay train reached town at 12.15 p.m. to-day. The local from Carbonear arrived in town at 1 p.m. to-day.

Here and There.

WEATHER.—The weather across country is: Light southwest wind and dull, with temperature 40 to 60 above.

RETURNED HOME.—Mr. W. H. J. J. Clarke's Beach, who had been spending a few days in the city, returned home by last night's train.

CHILD LOST AND FOUND.

A little girl 3 years of age, strayed away from her home in the West End early this morning. She was discovered by the children of Mrs. Brown, Casey St., who brought the little one to the West-End Fire Hall. She was sent back to the home of the Brown's children where the anxious mother found her in safe keeping.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT TO VOLUNTEER.

Private John Thistle, son of Mr. William Thistle, G.P.O., met with a slight accident yesterday. When in the act of striking a match the contents of the box flared up and burnt his hand. He was attended by the army doctor who bandaged the injured member. He will be O.K. in a few days.

UNWISE PRACTICE.

Quite a few people are coming to town seeking admission to the General Hospital without first advising the authorities, or any other person of their intentions, and as a result they find themselves in the city with nobody to attend to them. The practice is unwise and we would advise our outport friends that in future for their own comfort that the hospital authorities be notified previous to leaving their homes. At present every available cot is taken up, and a large number of persons waiting their turn.

Excellent practice cloths for glassware and china are made from cheesecloth hemmed.

The Men of 90 Years Ago

Met to Form a Municipal Government For St. John's—Their Resolutions, Bye-Laws, etc.

(By James Murphy.)

Mr. W. Thomas seconded the motion and solicited the indulgence of the meeting while he addressed them in exculpation of some mis-statements made against him as one of the Council by certain gentlemen who had been in a minority, and had withdrawn themselves from the Committee, and had published a counter report.

Mr. Thomas Bennett had addressed the meeting in explanation and justification of himself and other seceders from the committee.

Mr. M. Thomas said a few words in explanation.

Mr. Benjamin Bowring followed Mr. Bennett in support of the conduct of the seceders from the committee, and stated two objections to the plan contained in the report, and moved that in lieu of it, the counter report of the seceders be adopted, which he read as follows:

Resolved,—That the town is already provided with a magistracy and police efficient for all ordinary purposes. That it is expedient to petition for a repeal of the 35th Section of the 57 of 5 Geo. 4, and for the passing of an Act of Parliament to empower the inhabitants of St. John's to elect annually a Town Council consisting of 12 resident inhabitants, who shall be empowered to make bye-laws for the prevention of fires, the establishment of fire companies, the formation of a night watch, and for the prevention and removal of nuisance. That such bye-laws having received the sanction of the Governor for the time, shall be binding upon the inhabitants of St. John's and shall be enforced by the ordinary constituted authorities. That all persons qualified to serve as Grand Jurors shall be eligible to be elected members of the Council, and when so elected shall be compelled to serve for one year under a penalty of £20 but shall not be obliged to act for the space of three years from the time of their leaving office. That for the purposes aforesaid the town shall be divided under the direction of His Excellency the Governor, into four wards, from each of which three Council men resident within the same shall be elected by the inhabitants thereof who are qualified to vote. That all persons who are householders or leaseholders paying a rent of £10 per annum or upwards, or being freeholders shall be entitled to vote. That considering the poverty of a great part of the population of this town, and the difficulty of an assessment therein, it is expedient to petition His Majesty's Government to authorize His Excellency the Governor, not to appropriate such a part of the sum arising from the rents of ships' rooms which formerly belonged to the town of St. John's, or from other sources of public revenue, as may be sufficient to defray the expenses which the regulations now contemplated, may require. That the boundaries of the town for the purpose aforesaid shall not be extended beyond the limits defined by the street act.

Mr. John Stewart seconded Mr. Bowring's motion.

Dr. Carson addressed the meeting in support of the original motion and report.

Mr. J. Williams spoke against the principle of undue taxation.

Mr. Howson addressed the meeting in support of the report of the seceders.

Mr. Patrick Morris spoke in reply to those who sustained the report of the seceders from the committee, and in further support of the original motion.

When the question was called, the chairman rose and stated that pursuant to the course which had been suggested during the discussion, he should take the sense of the meeting first on the report of the committee, which if negated he would then submit the report of its opponents to the like vote, and in order that all persons might perfectly know what was first submitted to their opinion, he would read the report at length, which having been done and a show of hands having been called for the affirmative, the chairman declared that the report of the committee was voted for adoption by a large majority. A division having been hereupon called for by the supporters of the report moved by Mr. Bowring, a division took place, and the chairman declared the majority of votes to be in support of the original motion.

(Sgd.) JAMES SIMMS, Chairman.

James Simms, Esq., having quitted the chair, and J. N. Brookings, Esq., being called thereto, the thanks of the meeting were given to Mr. Simms, for his proper and praiseworthy conduct in the chair.

(Sgd.) J. N. BROOKING.

Here is a petition presented to the Governor:

To His Excellency Sir Thomas Cochrane, Knight, Governor and Commander in Chief, &c.:

May it please Your Excellency,—

We, the undersigned merchants and inhabitants, householders of St. John's Newfoundland, beg leave to approach Your Excellency with the mere unfeigned sentiments of respect to your person and government sincerely regretting that we are obliged again to intrude ourselves upon your notice respecting the differences which existed and still exists as to the mode and of the inhabitants of this town.

We assure Your Excellency that whilst we shall willingly submit to the opinion of the majority of those concerned whenever that opinion shall have been fairly declared, we assert with regret that the town's meeting held on the 15th instant to obtain the sentiments of the inhabitant householders was without a satisfactory result, it being alluded to by every person then present that members appeared upon each side of the question (upon a division taking place) who were not interested in the measure, and consequently had no right to vote. Yet notwithstanding the division, has only tended to convince your memorialists that the larger part of respectable householders were decidedly against the measure, then and there intended to be forced upon them.

We therefore most earnestly implore Your Excellency that you will not forward as the sentiments of the inhabitants of St. John's the result of that day's deliberation until a more decisive method has been adopted to obtain the public opinion, and this, we submit to Your Excellency, may be done impartially if you will be graciously pleased to order that an enquiry of the name, description and residence of the inhabitant householders shall be made in either of two books to be left in the care of two of the magistrates or of the High Sheriff. Signed the same as the memorial of Feb. 26th, 1826.

(Concluded to-morrow.)

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Municipal Board was held last night. Chairman Gosling presided and there were also present Messrs. Withers, Bradshaw, McGrath, McNamara, Morris and Anderson.

In answer to a letter from the S. P. A. the Reid Co. stated that their Supt. of City Works would attend to the matter, but this was not considered good enough and the Engineer was ordered to make enquiry.

The Engineer was also instructed to enquire into the Commercial Cable Co.'s complaint to the effect that traffic on Lakeview Avenue was causing damage to their cables which pass through there.

The Reid-Patterson Co. offered to bring an expert here at an early date to repair Duckworth Street where the paving was done last year.

In reply to Council's letter re insurance rates, the Board of Trade stated they were in full sympathy and that a Committee had been chosen to discuss the matter with the Council, which will comprise the Chairman and two others.

Permission was refused Francis Chaytor to make repairs to a house on the south side of Waldegrave St.

The Trustees of Cochrane Street Church asked leave to build a concrete wall at the rear of the church, referred to Engineer.

Mrs. McRae asked if she could build a garage. Will be asked to submit plans.

The Sanitary staff's request for an increase of pay was referred to the Sanitary Committee.

Two of the foremen of the Water Works Construction also asked for more wages. Will be considered by the Finance Committee.

Moses Spurrell, Caretaker of Bannerman Park, asked for an increase of pay. Referred to Park Committee.

Hon. S. D. Blandford's request for refund of money paid for an insurance fee will be enquired into.

Plans submitted by the Imperial Oil Co. of proposed plant on the South Side were not approved.

Tessier & Co. asked permission to repair the house corner of Livingstone St. and Carter's Hill. Refused, but they will be asked to sell the land to the city.

The meeting then adjourned.

Mr. Eugenius Outerbridge

ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF N. Y. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

On May 4th, Mr. Eugenius H. Outerbridge, the younger brother of Sir Joseph Outerbridge was elected President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York. He succeeded Mr. Seth Low. This Chamber of Commerce is a very old institution as will be apparent from the fact that the election of Mr. Outerbridge took place at the 148th annual meeting. The importance of the office is apparent from the fact that the State of New York is the seat of one of the most important commercial centres of the world. Mr. Seth Low retired on account of ill-health and in doing so, sent a letter of regret that ill-health had compelled him to remain away from sessions of the Council. He enclosed $5,000 in debentures as a present to the Council.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district."

He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them. I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X. Lamp and GASTAM Radiators lit all light and heat requirements.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The usual big week end programme is on at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day, new pictures, new songs and new music. "The Battle of Elderbush Gulch" is an Indian war feature in two reels. "Not Wanted" is a pathetic child story by the Edison Company featuring Sally Crute and H. Prior. "Dreamy Dud Visits His Uncle's Farm" and makes trouble for uncle and the stork. Ham and Dud are turned "Spook Raisers" and create a gale of fun. Mr. Frank DeGroot sings two comedy numbers and tells some funny Casey stories, a regular vaudeville act. To-morrow the usual extra pictures will be shown for the children's benefit; send them to the Crescent for a good afternoon's enjoyment.

97th Anniversary.

AID FOR PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

The 97th anniversary of the formation of the Independent Order of Odd-fellows was celebrated on Wednesday, April 26th, by Excelsior Lodge, No. 126, Bonne Bay, by attending Divine Service. The members to the number of 27 out of a membership of 40 turned out in procession at 3 o'clock p.m. and marched to the Church of England, where the Society's Chaplain, Rev. G. H. Maidment, preached a very appropriate sermon. In the night what proved a decidedly successful concert took place at Lord Nelson Hall under the auspices of Excelsior Lodge. The gathering was the largest ever seen in any Hall in this place for a concert alone. The performance was opened at 8 p.m. the performers were Messrs. Joseph Noel, Rowland Roberts, John C. Tapper, David Coon, Alexander Roberts, Douglas Wilton, Walter Young, Alexander Payne, Leonard Holley, Azariah King, Appollos Taylor, Albert Tapper, Misses Myrtle Garland, Goldie Taylor, Stella Garland, Eva Halliburton, Aggie Tapper, Gertrude and Daisy Wilton who one and all did remarkably well. A good selection of patriotic songs were rendered, the principal play being "The Iron Hand" which was well put on and great credit is due to the performers. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $66.45, the collection taken at church amounting to $12.00 was presented to the Lodge by the Rev. Chaplain, making a grand total of $78.45. It has been decided by the Lodge to donate $60.00 of this amount to the Cot. Fund for our wounded soldiers and sailors and the balance, $18.45 to the local Women's Patriotic Association. Excelsior Lodge takes this opportunity of expressing their thanks to Messrs. A. King, A. Taylor, A. Tapper, Misses M. and S. Garland, G. Taylor, E. Halliburton, A. Tapper, G. and D. Wilton who assisted the members thereby making a very successful concert; also the audience who patronized the occasion making it possible to raise so large an amount for this deserving object. GEO. W. WILTON, Rec. Secretary.

School For Volunteers

OPENED YESTERDAY.

Yesterday morning at the C. L. B. Armoury, the classes organized by the Superintendents of Education for the purpose of teaching volunteers now in training who are anxious to learn, held their first session. Mr. A. Barnes is the teacher in charge and is ably assisted in the noble work by twenty of our most talented ladies, some of whom have been well known in the teaching profession; and over sixty offered from whom the following were selected and will teach for at least one month:—

Mrs. Angel, Mrs. Emmie Withers, Mrs. J. Atkinson, Misses Herder, Crowley, Rogerson, M. Mitchell, K. Stott, A. Russell, J. Churchill, Dalton Shea, M. Doyle, V. Rendell, O. Hayward, M. Clouston, M. Emerson, H. Anderson, A. Soper, K. McGrath and Mollie Shea.

To show how anxious the Volunteers are to advance themselves 115 attended. The school is divided in ten classes and will meet each day at 11.30 to 1 and 4.30 to 6. Reading, writing and arithmetic will be taught.

House cleaning Season

This house-cleaning season is awful! It just seems a shame, so I say, To turn a nice house topsy-turvy, And float it in soapsuds each day, To pull the insides from the cupboards To tear carpets up from the floors, To use pictures, chairs, and pianos, To blockade the windows and doors. No things disappear just like magic, Unless you hold on to them tight; And things that have been lost for ages Are just being brought into sight. We missed baby's best shoes and stockings And what do you think was their fate? Packed down in an old rubbish barrel Way out by the back alley gate. One night he fell over the ladder. That some one had left near the door, And he got so cross and disgusted He won't come to meals any more. But 'tween you and me, dad's a wise one!

He don't want to come home to eat For fear if the meal wasn't ready, He might have a carpet to beat. Dear mother seems all out of patience, And grandma is all out of tune; The maid she is crosser than any, I hope it will end very soon.

Keeps 1,000,000 Busy.

According to an official statement to the British House of Commons there are more than a million persons now engaged in the British navy and in various branches of naval work.

The return states that the navy proper had 146,000 officers and men when the war started, which number has now increased to 320,000, with the authority granted for a further increase to 350,000 officers and men besides 67,000 naval reserves. There are also 85,000 men engaged in work at dockyards and other naval establishments and several times that number on Admiralty work under contract and sub-contract.

Besides these, the return specifies men engaged in getting coal for the fleet, dockside workers, and civilian crews of colliers, oilers, mine sweepers, supply ships, etc., and in addition men and women engaged in making clothing and preparing food for the fleet.

The return states that "for every man in the navy, of whom there are something like 300,000, there are certainly two persons and possibly even three at work on ship construction, repairing and contributing to the general efficiency and fighting ability of the fleet."

"GOOD CLOTHES."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." Now good clothes are costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.
