Volume XXXII—No. 26 WATFORD, ONT., FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1906. $1 a Year in Advance.

SUBSCRIBERS.

Walker's spirit of '03 was more in evidence in Detroit on July 4th than the spirit of '76. The boys were making a practice of smashing fruit trees and stealing the fruit. They are well known and are advised to change their ways or an example will be made of them.

Now is the time to get out of it before July 1st. A few of the old time base ball fans are trying to revive local interest in the game, which has been dead here for the past two seasons. There is some promising material in town which could be developed into a team.

Among the list of Dr. Torrey's converts in Ottawa were a saloon-keeper and a cigar dealer. The latter headed off sinners in the debate confined their tongues to the safe side of the tongue.

No more Chicago sausage for Ontario. A German scientist has discovered a method of extracting a very palatable food from hams and sausages, which is much better than a No. 1 hard chestnut sandwich.

More than the "Sun" is the modest boast of an enterprising, energetic advance agent.

WALLACE SPADINGS, who has faithfully filled the position of newsagent for the Buffalo Express and Chicago Blade for the past 15 years, during which time he was only off duty on two occasions, has been compelled to give up the business, on account of increasing infirmity. A special agent from Buffalo paper came here to try and persuade him to continue. We hope to see Wallace on his old route again, as many customers will miss his familiar "Want a paper, to-day."

HERE is an editor who has been touched on a sore spot. A man may use the mole on the back of his neck for a collar button; he may ride a freight train to save the three-cent a mile; he may light a lamp with a splinter to save matches; he may stop his watch at night to save wear; use a period for a semicolon to save ink; and pasture his grandmother's grave to save hay; but a man of this kind is a scholar and a gentleman compared to a man who will take a newspaper and when asked to pay it, put it back in the postoffice marked "Refused."

Do you need a new hayfork rope? A pound while it lasts. N. B. Howden.

REPORTS CURRENT.

A REPORT is current that some of the performers of the young man killed on the track Monday night are missing. It is hardly conceivable that we have a group, capable of committing an offence of this nature, in our midst.

CARRIAGE WRECK.

PASSENGER ARRIVAL ON EVENING TRAINS.

PASSENGER ARRIVAL ON EVENING TRAINS. From the east complain of the inconvenience they are put to in alighting from the cars. A jump of about three feet has to be made to reach the ground, and on a dark night it is a disagreeable exercise, especially for ladies.

WHILE we beautify our gardens and premises.

WHILE we beautify our gardens and premises we should not forget our relatives and friends who are at peaceful rest. There are more little mounds in our cemeteries than there are residents in our town and it is fitting that our Silent City should be kept in order. None of us are too poor to plant a rose above the resting place of a relative or friend.

SHIELDS BROS shipped four car loads.

SHIELDS BROS shipped four car loads of choice square timber from Watford Saturday. One of the finest sticks of timber ever shipped from here was a hickory taken from the bush on Wm. Smith's farm, 4th line, S. E. R. It was 75 ft long, straight as an arrow and measured 160 feet. Old lumbermen had no idea that there was anything like it left in this section of the country.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Harry A. Ferguson's Tragic End.

When the G. T. R. section gang started west for their day's work early on Tuesday morning they found the mutilated body of a man lying partially across the north track near the first semaphore in the local G. T. R. yard. Coroner Auld was notified, and an investigation it was found that the remains were those of Harry A. Ferguson, and the Coroner had the body removed to Cook's undertaking rooms. Young Ferguson, who was only 24 years of age, had been in Watford and vicinity for the past six weeks, assisting his father, Mr. Charles Ferguson, who is engaged in selling woolen goods through the country. On Monday evening, in company with James Van Wyck, driver of one of the sales wagons, he started to the depot to take No. 5 express due at 9:02 p. m. for Pt. Huron to meet his wife who is spending the summer at Huronic Beach. The train pulled in and Ferguson and his companion made a short cut through the G. T. R. gate to the depot. The doors on the coaches opposite side from the depot, are always closed, and Ferguson ran along the side of the train looking for a place to catch on to enter the car. The train started out and Ferguson threw his grip to Van Wyck, telling him to forward it, and grasped the railing of the vestibule of a passing car, the foothold being rather narrow. He was seen clinging in this position for some distance, and it was supposed that he would be released when the conductor passed through, as it is a frequent occurrence for passengers to catch on in this way. Just as the train reached the semaphore he either slipped off or was shaken off, and his body drawn under the train and life crushed out. Deceased was only married a year, and his wife visited him here a few days ago. The family home is in Ann Arbor where the young man attended Michigan University, and had a course completed a course in law. He is survived by his father, an invalid mother and one sister. The family are former highly respected residents of London and the sad bereavement they have been called upon to bear is a severe blow. The remains were taken to Ann Arbor for interment Tuesday evening.

J. E. Armstrong's family have taken up their residence at Pt. Frank for the summer.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE.

The July meeting of the Daughters of the Empire was held at the home of Mrs. (Rev.) Kelly, Mrs. T. G. Mitchell assisting hostess. There were 45 members present and 4 visitors. The members each represented a character from the works of Dickens and responded to roll call by describing that character. Miss Aggie Williams sang a comic song "Fishing," which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Mitchell read an interesting paper on "The Life of G. D. Roberts" and extracts from "The Forge in the Forest." Miss Maggie Hume favored the ladies with an instrumental. Mrs. Kelly read a short paper on the Canadian poetess, Sarah Jeanette Duncan. Mrs. Fitzgerald read an account of the funeral of the late Alex. Muir and also gave an account of the "Made in Canada Exhibition" held at St. Catharines. The next meeting was appointed for the home of Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. O'Neil to assist. This meeting will take the form of a "Josiah Allan Tea." Refreshments were served and a pleasant meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Harry A. Ferguson's Tragic End. When the G. T. R. section gang started west for their day's work, a mangled body of a man lying partially across the north track near the first semaphore in the local G. T. R. yard. Coroner Auld was notified, and an investigation it was found that the remains were those of Harry A. Ferguson, and the coroner had the body removed to Cook's undertaking rooms. Young Ferguson, who was only 24 years of age, had been in Watford and vicinity for the past six weeks, assisting his father, Mr. Charles Ferguson, who is engaged in selling woollen goods through the country. On Monday evening, in company with James Van Wyck, driver of one of the sales wagons, he started to the depot to take No. 3 express due at 9.02 p. m. for Pt. Huron to meet his wife who is spending the summer at Huronic Beach. The train pulled in and Ferguson and his companion made a short cut through the G. T. R. gate to the depot. The doors on the coaches opposite side from the depot, are always closed, and Ferguson ran along the side of the train looking for a place to catch on to enter the car. The train started out and Ferguson threw his grip to Van Wyck, telling him to forward it, and grasped the railing of the vestibule of a passing car, the foothold being rather narrow. He was seen clinging in this position for some distance, and it was supposed that he would be released when the conductor passed through, as it is a frequent occurrence for passengers to catch on in this way. Just as the train reached the semaphore he either slipped off or was shaken off, and his body drawn under the train and life crushed out. Deceased was only married a year, and his wife visited him here a few days ago. The family home is in Ann Arbor where the young man attended Michigan University, and had a bout completed a course in law. He is survived by his father, an invalid mother and one sister. The family are former highly respected residents of London and the sad benevolence they have been called upon to bear is a severe blow. The remains were taken to Ann Arbor for interment Tuesday evening.

Cows in the Corn.

In these days of woven wire and barbed wire fences it is an unusual happening for the farmers' horses or cattle to get out of bounds. It wasn't so when the editor was a boy.

"Hurry down boys," the farmer would often call up the stairway to his sons on many a rosy summer morn'g in days that are past.

"The old gray mare has knocked down the fence and the cattle are in the grain," would be the reason for the hurry up call. Those were the days of snake rail fences, and when it rained and the rails were slippery, all the old gray mare or the roan cow had to do was to rub hard against the obstruction. Ten or a dozen cows, or as many or more sportive young steers or heifers, and probably half a dozen horses, would be found tucking away the succulent oats or wheat blades in their capacious stomachs. But when a line fence went down and a neighbor's herd got in their way likely to be angry words spoken, and the collie dog was put into action.

The writer remembers one old red cow that could put down a snake fence corner as carefully as a man. This long remembered bossy would lift the rails on her horns and make a gap without disturbing the fence badly. Then she would give a low "moo" as a signal to the rest of the herd to follow her to pastures new. It was never safe to leave "Old Reddy" out a night without being blind folded.—Exchange.

A Tribute to King Edward.

"The Outlook," one of the best and most widely read of the better class of United States magazines, pays this deserved tribute:

"Few men have risen more rapidly in public confidence than the King of England. He has long been known as a very accomplished and agreeable man, with a gift of tact which amounts to genius, but during the last three or four years he has secured a foremost position as a diplomatist. His services to Europe have been signally successful and important, for he has everywhere appeared as a peacemaker; a man of extraordinary social experience, with a wide knowledge of different peoples, and quite a natural aptitude for getting on with them. Speaking several languages, he is peculiarly qualified by nature and by education to play the difficult role of interpreter and peacemaker; and he has played the role not only with great skill but with a directness and Get Catarrhzone to day and cure yourself; it's pleasant to use, very simple, and guaranteed. No range can bake so well as the Imperial Oxford, because no other range has the Diffusive Oven Flue that draws in pure air constantly, heats it just as hot as you want it heated, and sends it through every part of the whole oven every second. That flue, found only in this perfect range, keeps that heated pure air—DRY air—constantly moving DOWNWARD through the oven, over the baking food, and out up the chimney. When it enters the oven it's hot and dry; when it leaves it, it's wet air,—carries with it all the moisture, all the odors, but NONE of the juices of the food that's being baked.

Please visit any of our stores and see why this is the right range for your kitchen.

It certainly does do good baking sincerity which have won the confidence of Europe. He has brought France, Italy and Spain into cordial relations with England, and, if reports are to be trusted, he is now removing the causes of distrust between England and Germany. A meeting between him and the Emperor is expected at an early date, and it is believed that, as both men are seriously desirous of peace, the long tension between the two countries will be relieved. It is reassuring to know that the Prince of Wales seems to inherit much of his father's urbanity, tact and good feeling. His recent trip to India has resulted in the broadening of his views not a little and to the increased flexibility of mind and manner. His recent speech at the London Guildhall is described as being so broad and statesmanlike as to produce an excellent impression in the Far East. It is not many years since the business of kings was supposed to have been in its last stages but those kings who are willing to work hard and earn their honors have still a great place in the world. It requires no small ability in a king to adjust himself to modern conditions, to possess authority and to exercise it without seeming to assume it. This is precisely what the King of England has done. He is not an ornamental monarch; he is a working statesman."

Saturday's dailies announced that Mr. A. T. Gurd, of Petrolia, had undertaken a contract to sink a test well at Beaver Dam, B. C. to a depth of 1,000 feet. ### The July Westminster.

The Westminster for July comes as an old friend with a new face, changed in shape and cover design, enlarged and notably improved in letter press and illustrations. The contents are of remarkable interest. They comprise the opening Chapters of two serials by popular Canadian authors, "The Doctor," by Ralph Connor, and "The Pioneer," by Theodor Roberts. Among the illustrated articles may be mentioned "The Burns Country," R. S. G. A.; "The Race from Marathon and Some Phantasms of the Dead," by Principal Hutton; "Round about Kamloops," by J. C. Herdman, E. D.; "The Romance and Beauty of the St. Lawrence," by Robert Haddow, Principal Springer, of Montreal contributes the first of a series of articles on "The Great words of religion," his subject being "Sin," and Professor Adam Shortt, of Kingston, writes, with much insight, on "The relations of Canada and the United States." The usual departments are well maintained. The Westminster Company, Limited, Toronto.

A Persistent Backache.

Can have but one cause—diseased kidneys which must be strengthened before backache can be cured. Why not use Dr. Hamilton's Pills? They cure the kidneys, quick, make them strong and able to filter disease—breeding poison from the blood. At once you feel better, stronger, brighter. Kidney health is guaranteed to every user of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Get a 25c. box from your druggist, and refuse substitutes.

Dr. Bell, inspector for the Provincial Board of Health, was in Dutton on Thursday and on Friday last visited the homes where persons have been afflicted with the disease which not a few declined to believe was small pox. The doctor, after a thorough examination, pronounced the disease small pox and gave directions to the officials that it is hoped will prevent its further spreading.

A LINIMENT FOR THE LOGGER.—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.

Never Labored.

"Here's a man," said the defendant's counsel, with a tremulous voice, "here is a man handicapped at the very beginning of his life. From the time he lay a helpless infant in the cradle to this day, when he sits helpless under the pressure of years and affliction, he has labored under the name of Ishmael Aminabad Skeets."

He was about to say more when the plaintiff arose from her seat and shook a work worn forefinger in his direction. "I expected I was going to hear strange things in this court," she cried, with shrill indignation, "but I didn't expect to hear such foolish talk as that! There's never been a day in his life that Aminabad's labored nor thought of laboring. He's the most shiftless, lazy!"

But she resumed her seat, owing to a sudden pressure from her relatives in the rear, and the counsel, a little flushed, went on in a somewhat different strain.

Only One Side of the Moon.

Did you ever stop to consider the fact that the inhabitants of this earth have never seen but one side of the moon and to inquire the reasons why such should be the case? The explanation is this: The moon makes one revolution on her axis in the same period of time which she consumes in revolving once around the earth. Thus the same geographical regions of the moon are always toward us. One explanation usually calls for another. Therefore it may not be out of place to remark that the astronomers believe that the two motions so nearly coincide because the moon is not a true globe, the earth's influence having elongated the lunar world in the days when it was semi-liquid or at least soft.

THREE FACTS For Sick Women To Consider.

FIRST.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements of the female organs, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

SECOND.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THIRD.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bluffing an Outlaw

By C. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1909, by McCurs, Phillips & Co.

The New Yorker silver mine, located in Mexico, but owned and worked by Americans, had been in running order a year before Jose Favara put in an appearance. He had been heard of, however. He was known as a cattle stealer, a claim jumper and a general outlaw, and it was the popular belief that he stood in with the police. At any rate, they had not interfered with his operations to any extent, and he walked the streets of the town as free as any other man. One day Jose appeared at the mine. He walked straight to the superintendent's office and, doffing his hat, said:

"Senior Barnes, I beg you to excuse me. My name is Jose Favara. I should have called on you weeks ago, but have been busy in other directions. I am now here to do business with you."

"Well, what is your business?" queried the superintendent, although he had a pretty fair idea of it.

"To arrange to draw my monthly salary, senior."

"For performing what services?"

"For leaving your mine in peace."

"In other words, you mean to levy tribute on us?"

"The senior hits the nail on the head at the first blow. My terms are $200 per month in cash. I shall call for it myself. If accepted you will be under my protection. If not—"

"You will make trouble for us?"

"The senior Barnes hits the nail again. I like to do business with an Americano."

Jose Favara was told that he would have to wait a few days until his proposition could be submitted to the president and board of directors in New York. He was agreeable. He went away bowing and smiling, and Mr. Barnes sat down and wrote a letter.

The proposition was extortion pure and simple. The authorities could be appealed to, and would doubtless do something. Nevertheless the fact remained that Jose was a bigger man in that district than the authorities. He could harry and harass. He could stare every peon out of the mine in two weeks. He could capture every mule and driver engaged in transporting the ore over the mountains. He could do lots of things to make the situation unpleasant, and the superintendent recommended that a monthly salary be paid. He added that $200 per month was dog cheap.

The president and his board looked upon it as a rather funny case, but followed the advice of Mr. Barnes. From that time on for two years Jose Favara regularly appeared on the 10th of each month and received his "salary." Twice during that time the peons would have struck for higher wages had he not appeared and threatened them with his vengeance. A Mexican lawyer discovered what he thought was a flaw in the title of the New Yorker and would have made cost and trouble had not Jose sent him word that he was after his scalp. It was conceded that the outlaw earned his wage.

Things were going on satisfactorily when the old president died and Mr. Nervely was elected in his place. While the dividends were large, Mr. Nervely wanted to increase them. He saw a way to do it by lopping off and cutting down. A cut of 10 per cent was made in wages and salaries, and the $200 per month to Jose Favara was cut off entirely.

When Mr. Barnes wrote that this move would bring trouble, he was directed to arm his staff and fight. When he asked for rifles a dozen old condemned Springfield muskets were sent him, but not a single cartridge. He wrote for cartridges, but was answered that the president would soon take a trip to Mexico in his private car and would visit the mine and give further instructions in person. Mr. Nervely had been known in trade as a hustler. As president of a silver mine he determined to be a hummer.

Jose Favara called, as usual, on the 10th of a certain month to be told that his salary was nix. He had been discharged. Mr. Barnes entered into particulars with him, even to stating the probable date of the arrival of the president. Jose was impassive and imperturbable. He smiled the same old smiles and bowed the same old bows. He knew he had earned his money, but if he felt sore he gave no sign of it. He went away saying that he might call again, and things went on as usual for three weeks.

Then President Nervely arrived. It was twenty miles over to the railroad, and he had to make this distance on the back of a burro, but he made it. He arrived at the mine at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At 6 the peons came up from the shaft and announced that there was a strike on. There were 400 of them. Next morning Jose Favara appeared. He wanted to know if his salary was to be restored.

President Nervely flattered himself that he was a fighter. If not an actual fighter, then he was a good bluffer. He had been bluffing for thirty years and had the art down pat. The miners might strike, and be hanged to them. They might be out for a week, but they would then be tumbling over each other to get back. As for Jose Favara, he was an outlaw, a blackmailer, an extortioner. Not another cent should be drawn from the treasury. If he made one little move against the peace and harmony of the New Yorker the majesty of the law would be invoked and he would find himself behind prison bars. He was talked to in the plainest English. Mr. Nervely talked in a loud voice. He conveyed the idea that he owned the earth. When he had tired himself out and was taking a rest Jose quietly asked:

"Am I, then, to understand that my services are no longer required?"

"Of course you are."

"But about this strike?"

"I can settle it without your help."

"And as to what I may do with my band?"

"Poof! Look here, my man, let me give you a pointer: Don't come monkeying around here unless you are aching to get hurt. If the law won't protect us we will protect ourselves."

Do you save?"

The outlaw did. He bowed and smiled and took his departure. It was a cold bluff, and he meant to call it when the proper time came.

"Do you think he will try to make us trouble?" asked the president of the superintendent when Jose had departed.

"Sure to."

"I don't. I think I bluffed him out. However, there are the muskets."

"And not a cartridge for one of them."

"Cartridges are awfully expensive. I think that empty muskets will do the trick. Nothing like a bluff if you put it in hard enough."

The strike had lasted four days, with all quiet around the mine, when Jose Favara rode up. It was early in the morning, and President Nervely was eating a picnic breakfast. The outlaw had thirty men with him, and each and every one had a business look about him.

"When the senior is quite through with breakfast I should like to see him," was the message sent to the magnate.

Ten minutes later he appeared and ordered the outlaw to go away back and sit down. He was seized, bound and carried off among the mountains. He called for help, but there was no help. He yelled "Police!" "Fire!" and "Murder!" by turns, but the staff left behind numbered only five men, and they had no cartridges.

An hour later President Nervely was at the outlaw's headquarters. Two hours later he had got over bluffing and was inditing a telegram to a New York banker. The telegram asked for $10,000. The money was forwarded to a town designated, and a week after the abduction it was in the hands of Jose Favara, and President Nervely was set free within half a mile of the mine to find his way in. At the hour of his arrival the strike was called off.

"Didn't I tell you what the man could do?" asked the superintendent as the president came staggering in.

"Yes, but I thought he could be bluffed. He has taken $10,000 out of me. We must fix it some way to charge it up to machinery or repairs."

Bathe and Massage Oranges.

"You can learn a thing or two about fruit," said the foreign fruit store clerk, "by living in the country that produces it. The natives generally know best how to preserve and keep it fresh. Persons ordering fruit for steamer parties often wonder why our oranges look so fresh and bright. They are willing to pay a good price just for the tempting looks of the fruit. Well, we bathe them and massage them just as the Chinese do; that's why. I have lived in the Celestial Kingdom and got some valuable lessons from our almond eyed cousins. On a first class orange plantation in China, when harvest time comes, bamboo vessels filled with water are held under the orange trees, and as the fruit falls from the branch it goes into the water and gets a good bath. An orange not treated this way loses its oil from having been suddenly cut off, and it soon begins to grow brown and shrivel. The Chinese coolies brush the oranges to open the pores of the skin and let the air in. This gets the dust all out and helps to preserve them. California people learned the trick from the Mongolian farmers there."—New York Press.
