RELATIONS SOUND WITH AMERICANS

Says F. W. Wile, of London Daily Mail, at Empire Club.

NO ANNEXATION

No One in States Would Support Such a Campaign.

"There is no need for any change in the relationship which now exists between Canada and the United States," said Frederick William Wile, foreign correspondent for The London Daily Mail, in addressing the Canadian Club yesterday in the King Edward Hotel.

"The relations between Canada and the United States are very much to our liking. We glory in our progress. We send twice the amount of goods to Canada that we send to the other parts of the American continent. Canada sends more goods to the States than any other country, with the exception of Japan, so I suppose Canada is satisfied as well," he added.

Mr. Wile sprang a piece of news on his hearers when he told them of a certain prominent Canadian who, a short time ago, had approached an outstanding man in American political life with the proposition that this American gentleman would give his support in an agitation to be launched in America for the annexation of Canada. These "patriotic" Canadians had volunteered the information that there was a widespread feeling in Canada favoring annexation. "My American friend, a man of sagacity and sound common sense, said that must be misinformed as to the opinion held in the United States, as no one in the States would support such a campaign, nor yet did he believe that it would receive support in Canada," declared the speaker amidst applause.

Anti-British feeling.

Mr. Wile was quite frank in telling his hearers that there was undoubtedly a wave of anti-British feeling prevalent in the United States just now, but this, he said, was ephemeral, and would, in his opinion, blow over after the presidential election. He blamed the Sinn Fein element for the spread of the anti-British propaganda, and said that the British should "climb down from their tower of silence, which they imagine they adorn, and tell the truth about their stand in relation to Ireland." He believed the British wanted to give the Irish a square deal, but it must be within the situation of Britain in regard to Ireland with that of the States in regard to Cuba. "There must be no separation, and Ireland must remain part of the British imperial system. He was of opinion that Ireland was far from being oppressed. "You have failed to tell the people of the States that Ireland did not want to fight except amongst themselves; that Ireland did not suffer from want of food or drink during the great war; that they were not subjected to air raids from German planes, and that they enjoyed the best of economic safety. I advise you to spread the English version of the Irish question," he said.

Germans Unrepentant.

He warned his hearers that, although the Germans were down, they were certainly not "out." "We are dealing with Germany in defeat, but they are unrepentant and degenerate. They would tomorrow resort to the indescribable horrors which they practiced during the war, and he was strongly of opinion that France was right, and if others occupied the position of France, alongside the Germans, they would adopt the same policy in throwing back the German error."

Mr. Wile was convinced, absolutely, of friendship between the States and Britain. "I would say that I would be satisfied with a league of nations composed of the 150,000,000 white people who speak our language. This would be good for Britain, her dominions everywhere, and for the United States and for mankind generally," declared the speaker.

John Bull Awake.

Propagandists were busy diffusing the tale that Britain was endeavoring to squirm out of paying her huge war indebtedness to the States, but to this he paid no attention. John Bull would have to do without a lot of things he was used to and "will not be caught napping at the switch. He held his own from August, 1914, and is able to hold his own now in any emergency."

Mr. Wile spoke in eulogistic terms of President Wilson, and said: "The day will come when the name of Woodrow Wilson will be revered in history, when his critics and detractors are forgotten. Woodrow Wilson is the apostle and spokesman of American opinion. He has enunciated a doctrine that is endorsed by all."

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS SUBJECT OF REPORT

Thirteen Hundred in Nine Months—Over Two Hundred People Killed.

CROSSINGS TOOK BIG TOLL

Ottawa, April 19.—(By Canadian Press)—There were 1,347 railway accidents during the ninth months ending December 31, 1919, according to the report of the Board of Railway Commissioners, covering that period, which was tabled in the commons today. In these accidents there were 223 persons killed and 1,502 injured. The board, in its report, notes that only the nine months' report, notes that covered in this report, as the amendments to the railway act require that the report be presented on December 31 of each year, instead of at the end of the fiscal year, as formerly. The number of trespassers killed during the nine months was 64, and 68 trespassers were injured.

Automobile accidents at highway crossings are on the increase. In the four years and nine months previous to December 31, 1919, there were 231 such accidents. By periods they were as follows: 1916, 15; 1917, 26; 1918, 54; 1919, 66, and 60 in the nine months ending December 31 last year.

Deadly Level Crossings. Derailments and the deadly unprotected highway crossing accounted for more victims than any other class of accident during the period of 1919. In the former case, accidents there were 13 people killed and 247 injured. At crossings, there were 38 killed and 138 injured.

Fire damage in the neighborhood of railway tracks shows an increase over the previous year, according to the report. There were, in 1919, 1,323 fires from all causes, within 500 feet of railway lines in the forest sections of Canada. This was an increase of 15 per cent over the total of the previous year.

JAPANESE AND CZECHS IN THREE-HOUR FIGHT

Harbin, Manchuria, April 19.—(By Associated Press)—While Japanese troops were removing arrested workmen from the railway station at Khabarovsk on the Trans-Siberian Railway, near the Transbaikalian border, other Russian workmen threw a bomb, to which the Japanese replied with rifle fire, according to reports received here. Czech troops, the advices say, thereupon fired on the Japanese from an armored car. A fight followed, which lasted three hours, and resulted in a number being killed or wounded on both sides.

WHY?

That's What I'd Like to Know---

Why is it that men, otherwise sane, will pay $50 to $75 for a "hand-me-down" when they can buy Suit or Overcoat from me for a great deal less money and have it made to their individual measure and taste—

also

Why some men get a fool idea that they can buy a suit for a couple of ten spots and get any wear out of it—

It Can't Be Done—unless the concern that sells you such a suit is a philanthropic institution. The cloth in a $20 Suit is worth about $3—less than $1 a yard!

FUGITIVE PASHAS CONFER WITH REDS

Turn Up in Munich to Meet German Communists and Lenine Emissaries.

Washington, April 19.—Talaat Pasha and Djemal Pasha, co-conspirators with Mutapha Kemal in the Turkish nationalist movement, and fugitives for many months, have turned up in the German capital, and have been in conference with German Communists and emissaries of Lenine, according to official services received in Washington.

The conference was said to have been for the purpose of organizing concerted revolutionary movements in Turkey, India, Egypt, Persia and elsewhere, and Moslem delegates from India, Persia, Azerbaijan, Afghanistan and Egypt were said also to have participated in a recent conference with Lenine in Moscow.

The Munich conference was interpreted by officials here as having been called to forge further links in the international chain of revolutions, preliminary steps toward which were taken at the Moscow conference. In aid of the movement, representatives of Lenine at Munich are reported to have promised the Turkish and German conspirators 200,000 Russian Bolshevik troops.

BAYONET CHARGES CLEARED STREETS

Londonderry Unionists and Sinn Feiners Had to Be Separated by Police.

Belfast, Ireland, April 19.—There was renewed rioting in Londonderry Sunday evening between Unionists and Sinn Feiners, the police clubbing both impartially. Revolvers were used freely.

A youth named Mathew Dechan was shot in the leg and lies in a critical condition. The fighting was so fierce at Carlisle Bridge that pedestrians were unable to return to their homes, and were stranded for the night.

The bitterness of the fighting between the Unionists and Sinn Feiners led the police to intervene with fixed bayonets. The combatants were driven into their own quarters by this means. The police were heavily stoned by the mob and made several bayonet charges. They succeeded in clearing the streets about midnight.

Several persons were searched for firearms. Only one arrest was made, however, in the case of a youth with a pocketful of iron bolts.

As the result of Saturday's rioting, more than 50 persons were treated in the infirmary. Many others who had been injured declined medical attention. One chemist, it developed, sold 72 bandages for use by wounded individuals.

FOR JEWISH HOME IN PALESTINE

Statement in British House That Government's Policy is Unchanged.

London, April 19.—Recent rumors of an alleged change in the policy of the British government regarding the Jews in Palestine gave rise to another question in the house of commons today, when the foreign secretary was asked to define the government's exact policy with respect to the future position of the Jews in Palestine.

Cecil Harmsworth, under-secretary, replied: The policy of the government remains as defined in Mr. Balfour's declaration on Nov. 2, 1917.

It will be recalled that Mr. Balfour's declaration on that occasion was to the effect that Great Britain was in accord with the Jewish aspirations for the establishment of a national home in Palestine, and would give its support to this project.

 TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 20.

See the Motor Bus.
 The time has come to heed the motor bus in Toronto. The city is committed to spend millions of dollars on a recreation of street transportation, as soon as the Toronto Railway Company falls into public ownership. The commission must soon be appointed, so that when the franchise expires a year from next September, the citizens may assume control of their own system, not where the same old company leaves off, but where a metropolitan city ought to begin.

The motor bus has always been a possibility, in supplement, if not in supersession of the electric trolley. It is doing magnificent service in London. Altho Toronto is not London, the relief of congested traffic is a problem that has some common features to every city affected by it. New York offers more direct suggestion to Toronto; tho, even there, differences in conditions may mean considerable differences in results.

Municipal motor bus lines have been established in New York. The commissioner of plants and structures says the trolley car "can be relegated to the limbo of discarded things, along with the stage coach, the horse car, and the cable car." Twenty-two New York routes are operating on fifty miles of streets. Three hundred buses are carrying passengers at five cent fares and are covering the ground twice as fast as the trolleys. The New York commissioner estimates the cost of a hundred buses at $375,000. Fixed charges and 250 employees would require a revenue of $650,000 a year, eight vehicles being held in reserve. The 92 buses on ten lines would cost $2,623 per day to run. Carrying 75,000 passengers they would make a daily profit of $376, or $137,000 per annum.

This data is only tentatively valuable to an estimate as to what gasoline could do for Toronto, in comparison with Niagara power. The New York buses do not run on electrically served routes. If they could not pass standing trolleys, they would materially reduce their cost. Then, with twenty-two routes covering only fifty miles altogether, the rides are short for five cent fares.

The bus may be able to relegate the electric car to the limbo of discarded things—but not yet, or soon. Primarily, then, the issue of beneficence from publicly-owned gasoline is in rather than in substitution. The day may come when the Niagara propelled car will disappear from Yonge street. But there must be experimentation first. It could be undertaken without delay.

The question is intensely practical. Toronto is to spend millions on taking over the street railway system. A hundred thousand dollar try-out, with possibility of saving very much more than that in a short time, would be a negligible cost in comparison with the object sought after. Ten buses could be bought, and tried out on, say, one or two routes, to see what they will develop.

It may be said that the street railway company might stop the trial. But would it? The company is in default as to the provision of much-needed cars. It would be a kindness to it to ease its pitiful congestion. Even if the company could show a loss of revenue thru an access of motor buses, the amount of depleted profit would be trifling on its present operating ratio of well over seventy per cent. All receipts, save a small portion to carry. The main thing is to get a few buses running, so we can judge whether there is anything in the New York commissioner's prediction, and be governed accordingly.

Grace for Sir Henry.
 The way the British people are handling their war debt may win admiration from the angels, if they are interested in finance. The chancellor of the exchequer yesterday proposed to the house of commons measures for reducing obligations. Britain owes to foreign countries nearly twice as much as her whole national debt was before the war. The total is $1,278,000,000. This year the Anglo-French loan from the United States will be reduced by $500,000,000—which accounts somewhat for the improvement in the exchange, that already means many millions to the British taxpayer and trader.

of assuaging the agitation for a capital levy, does not make the chancellor's frankness and courage less notable or less worthy of emulation by finance ministers elsewhere.

Several things are going to cost the British more. The era of the penny stamp has gone. Letters that cost three half pence will not be carried for less than twopence. Surely it is worth a pint of beer (pre-war value) to carry a missive from Land's End to John O'Groats. Newspaper postage—not a big source of revenue in the Islands—will go up from a half-penny to a penny for six ounces. Telegrams will be dearer. Nearly a quarter of a century ago the minimum went down from a shilling to sixpence. The war put up the rate to the nimble nippence. It is now to climb to the old-time "bob". There is no escape from increasing charges for services of public utilities like railways, postal distributions and telegraphs. Sir Henry Drayton, sitting up nights trying to frame a budget that won't scare the country or damn the movement, may take heart of grace from the Chamberlain example.

Who May Spank McKenzie?
 It is impossible not to condescend with the instruments of old-time party government, like the much-perplexed Globe. In one column it mourns over a disquieting symptom in the Liberal party. In the next it strives to be gay about the signs of rejuvenation that appear in the Conservative party, which, it would like to think, has a name to live but is dead. Here, indeed, is a case for sympathetic diagnosis.

This time last year the Liberal opposition at Ottawa was led by Mr. D. D. McKenzie, towards whom The Globe assumed an attitude of half-grieved toleration. But now The Globe sighs for some stalwart in the commons to take hold of D. D. and soundly spank him. It is opposed to the public ownership and operation of railways because "the best interests of this country can be served by the brain and capital of the country being utilized by the best elements that we can get behind it in a private way."

Of course, the McKenzie's views are archaic. Everybody who could read knew that far more than a year ago. But what good would a spanking of the gentleman from Cape Breton do? Where is this sort of thing to end? You cannot spank a whole opposition—at least the opposition can't spank its entire self.

To judge by what happened last session when the Grand Trunk nationalization bill was before parliament none of Mr. McKenzie's friends and partly supported public ownership and operation of railways. With the exception, perhaps, of Mr. Euler, of North Waterloo, who would hardly undertake to castigate his senior and former chief.

The truth is that the Liberal party's railway record does not lend itself to punishment from within. As the semi-penitent Globe is fain to confess the whole miserable mess of the Grand Trunk Pacific is of its friends' making. Until the party is born again, from the point of view of transportation wisdom, the chastisement of public ownership peace must fall upon it. It is no use offering a birch for the McKenzie without at the same time providing a white sheet for his surround. It is a sad situation, but as The Globe used to say when Boererges was more in evidence it is inescapable.

A counsel of condescension for the re-forming Conservative party is scarcely appropriate for any who have Mr. McKenzie crumbs in their bed. There must be room in the state for a truly Conservative party, so long as the speed of progress is a subject for differing judgments. The place in it of men like Mr. Rowell, Mr. Guthrie, Mr. Sifton, Senator Robberson and Mr. Ballantyne is not of capital importance to the country at large. If artificial respirators had to be resorted to, these gentlemen may hold the respirators' clothes, but they can't do much else.

The party world is all agley—and that's about all that can just now probably be said about it.

"My."
 If Lord Beaverbrook doesn't mind, he will get in wrong with The Montreal Star and others among us who are more royalist than the King. The peer of the many mergers owns The London Express, which has taken the Lloyd George cabinet to task for what it regards as a notable desecration to his majesty. There has been far too much "my" in the King's speeches to suit The Express. "Frankly," says the Beaverbrookian mentor, "this 'my'—my armies, my court, my possessions, etc.—grates upon twentieth-century ears. It has become an anachronistic form. It exposes the monarch, among the blatant, if negligible persons who are filled with a red republicanism, to criticism and insinuation, which, baseless and contemptible, may thus be endowed with some show of substance."

A reiterated "my," however constitutionally correct, conveys a false and unfortunate impression. We submit the point, with loyal respect, for the consideration of his majesty and of ministers of the crown."

The Express speaks wisely. Early in the war it was noticed that the King was made to speak of "my fleet," "my armies," "my empire," etc., as The Express would say. But when sacri-rice was piled on sacrifice, the first personal pronoun possessive largely disappeared from royal pronouncements that were written by non-royal hands.

To parliament, after the war, King George spoke of the "better social order" that must come. The Prince of Wales showed in Canada that the lesson of democracy had been cleverly learned in Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle. The Round Table, the nearest thing we have to an intellectual senate of discreet-imperialism, frequently describes the King as the hereditary president of the empire—which he really is.

The King is the first of an entirely new line of Georges. He knows the trend of the times better than some of his ministers do. He can afford to revise in the Beaverbrook sense the speeches that are written for him. The event will show that wisdom will be justified of the King's speeches.

Times to Mr. Lemieux.
 It is one of the regrets of Franco-Canadian public men that they feel much more at home in the political atmosphere of London than they do in some cities of their native land. Rightly or wrongly, they discover an ampler air in the old land than they know in the new. The London papers afford some justification for this feeling.

The Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux has been in Europe, largely for a visit to the grave of his only son, who fell in the war. On his way home the Empire Parliamentary Association gave him a luncheon at the houses of parliament. He made a speech on the position of the French in Canada, which was sympathetically received, even the some of its statements would not pass unchallenged in Ontario.

The British feeling is reflected in an editorial in The Times which is worth quoting as an indication of the general view that is taken in an international environment of a Canadian situation which is too little studied by many Canadians. Inter alia The Times says:

The analogy he finds between the attitude of some British Canadians towards their French speaking fellow-subjects and the language policy pursued before the war by Germany in Alsace-Lorraine, Poland and Schleswig-Holstein, is as un sound. No attempt has ever been made in Canada to prohibit the speaking of French, whereas the Germans absolutely forbade the use of the native tongue in these countries at public meetings, and some times in the home. But with that reservation it seems to us that the existence of two languages in the Dominion, and their encouragement by teaching in the schools, should be a source of strength and not of weakness. Belgium has two languages, Sweden and Norway have three, and no one in these countries is a penny the worse. Provided, therefore, that in Ontario and Manitoba those parents who wish their children to be taught French in the schools are willing to pay themselves any extra charges that may be incurred, it is difficult to see why regulations should be made to hinder the carrying-out of their wishes.

Steel Trust in the Rear.
 The American Steel Trust, under the presidency of Judge Gary, declared once more against having organized labor in its employ. The judge called for government control of labor, after the manner of government control of capital, as expressed in anti-Sherman trust laws and other measures.

It is difficult to understand the mentality of industrialists who want, in this century, to prevent labor from organizing. The Steel Trust evidently thinks the rest of the world is out of step. It appears incapable of realizing that its action can only worsen the relation of employers and employees in all the other businesses on this continent. There are some things in social evolution that it is as vain to stand against as it is to oppose the dawning day.

The there is great labor unrest in the British Islands, there is also eminent approach by capital towards an understanding of the labor position. The essential partnership of management and labor is being conceded by practically all the great employers. The result is already seen in an enormous decline of extreme ideas in the labor movement, and a steady solidification of the sentiment for constitutional progress.

In the United States, the outlook for trouble is only darkened by the attitude of kings of industry like Judge Gary. Nothing is more deplorable than to see intellects and capacities like Judge Gary's fighting against the future.

W. L. MACKENZIE KING TO GIVE HIS WAR RECORD
 Ottawa, April 19.—(Canadian Press.)—It is expected that on the motion to go into supply tomorrow afternoon, the house will hear Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's address on his war record, which, he intimated last week, he was going to make. It was known some days ago that Mr. King was only waiting for the opportunity, which only came on a motion to move the house into committee of supply. The statement, it is understood, will be the answer of the Liberal leader to newspapers and speakers who have been at war during the years Canada was at war.

TORONTO'S DESIRES HEARD AT OTTAWA

Bridge Across Western Gap to Island, as Federal Work, Sought.

COMMUTATION RATES Special Railway Fares During Exhibition Asked—Consideration is Promised.

Ottawa, April 19.—(By Canadian Press.)—Headed by Mayor Church, a delegation from Toronto waited on the government today to urge: Construction of a bridge between the mainland and Toronto Island across the western gap; reduced railway rates during Toronto exhibition; commutation fares between Toronto and suburban points, and an improved suburban service. The government promised consideration.

An argument of the construction of the bridge, representation was made that the bridge was an absolute necessity. An increase in ferry rates was proposed—a bridge would permit a direct street car service to the island when the city took over the street cars next year—it would help in the solution of housing problem and enable the poorer people to reach the amusement ground. "Many of the people of Toronto," said Mayor Church, "never see the island of Lake Ontario. Many of them never see the island. They can't afford to."

On the point of reduced fares during the exhibition, the minister suggested an amendment to the fare act which would grant single fares on Labor Day and restore the fare and a third rate on other exhibition days, to cities with an exhibition of two weeks' duration.

The minister of railways, regarding the exhibition, remarked that in the Dominion with a two weeks' exhibition, such an act would be a special act for Toronto. "I would not," Dr. Reid added, "if you are going to use parliament to say that any railway rate is going to be then you will well abolish the railway commission."

The railway commission, Dr. Reid continued, could not doubt consider the question of reduced rates during exhibition time. Taking up the point of commuted fares, he said, you worried all winter because you weren't there doing a lot of work that girls with plenty of leisure should be doing. You felt badly because you refused to let you plant an enormous garden back of your own house and let you break your back tending to it."

DAY IN PARLIAMENT
 Ottawa, April 19.—Dr. Edwards' ruling, calling for a federal bureau of education brought forth the customary protest from Quebec members in the house today. It was alarming, it was moving, it was a warning. It was moving that the illiterate vote held the balance of power in most of election contests. It admitted that education was solely an unreservedly provincial jurisdiction. All asked was that the federal government by financial research and advice assist the provinces in their educational relations. Quebec members construed the resolution as an attack on their privileges, and an insidious attempt to intrude into the jurisdiction of the province.

Dr. Beland argued that Quebec was at peace when the rest of the world was in a state of unrest. As the illiterate vote held the balance of power, it was evident that the peaceful labor was, in his opinion, more important than intelligent vote. He said that the illiterate vote held the balance of power in most of election contests. It admitted that education was solely an unreservedly provincial jurisdiction. All asked was that the federal government by financial research and advice assist the provinces in their educational relations. Quebec members construed the resolution as an attack on their privileges, and an insidious attempt to intrude into the jurisdiction of the province.

AN HONEST CONFESSION.
 Chapter 62.
 Occasionally we are revealed to ourselves in surprising and unexpected fashions. We live along from day to day, feeling sure that we understand ourselves, that there is nothing in our own natures that our brains do not comprehend—and then comes a self-revelation, unfortunately, we have not the gift of interpretation. We are disconcerted and unhappy, but we know. Therefore, we cannot take any course. Sir Robert will definitely retire before dissolution. There will be a big fight for the leadership between White and Meighen, probably ending in a compromise on another Ontario minister.

WASTING THEIR TIME.
 Winsted, Conn., April 19.—Because prohibition forbids the carrying of snake-bite cure, the natives here have decided to close Saturday nights at 9 o'clock the year round, including the holidays and the Christmas season.

THE GIRL WHO SMILED THRU
 By MAKION RUBINCAM

LAWRENCE'S SUGGESTION
 CHAPTER 61.
 Lawrence had been so sweet with all Alice's moods and doublings that she hated to tell him the truth. So she worried over it for perhaps a week. And when she did tell him, it was brought out by a remark he made. They were driving thru the country, along one of their favorite roads. There was a long, smooth stretch that ran for several miles without a bend; it was not frequented by many cars, and it was here that Alice first learned to drive. As they turned into this part, Lawrence slowed down the car. "What's to take the wheel?" he asked. "Alice shook her head."

Lawrence gave her a glance of surprise. Usually Alice was enthusiastic about driving and could not do enough of it. "Shall we take the short cut to Burby and let her out on the back road?" he asked. He was talking of one of the spots so dear to motorists, where a good road was less carefully watched and speeding was possible. Again Alice shook her head. She was looking far out over the hills, her grey eyes rather serious in expression. Lawrence laid his free hand over hers. "What's the trouble, dear?" he asked. "You haven't been your usual self for days. You are always so cheerful; in fact, I fell in love with you first because you had such a happy disposition."

"Will you fall out of love with me if I stop having a happy disposition?" Alice asked, with a little humorous smile. "No, I don't suppose I will," Lawrence answered. "But I prefer you happy."

"You're smiling," Alice turned to him to confirm her statement. "Mechanically," Lawrence answered. "What is the trouble. Don't you love me any more?" "I don't know," Alice replied. "But—I do love you, and I do want to marry you—I don't know why I've been so depressed."

"I think you've been depressed because you had certain things in mind to do, and you've worried because you haven't done them," was Lawrence's way of summing up the situation. "You worried all spring because you were not over there at the settlement house working yourself to death in the garden?" he asked. "No, I don't know," Alice answered. "I like to work, perhaps that's one thing that troubles me about our marriage. I'll have made and I won't dare do any work—I'll just stay at home. I'm sure I shan't like it as well as you. I want to take you a cake, or go out and hoe the corn patch. And I won't do it, because I'll be a rich man's wife and people would talk."

Lawrence threw back his head and laughed, and there was relief in his voice when he spoke again. "You're not a little head about it," he answered. "If you long to grasp a hoe and go forth and weed, take a bag of golf sticks, and go to the links at the club. There's a remarkable similarity of movement between hitting a golf ball and aiming at a weed, but golf has the advantage of exercising more muscles than hoeing. So it will be better for you."

"Perhaps we can build a bungalow somewhere on a mountain, and when I want to do housework, we'll go out there and camp," Alice suggested. "I hate camping unless I can have a camp with a plumbing system and a shower bath and electric lights," he said. "You're rough on it, spiders and flies get into everything you eat, and strange creatures from the forest crawl down our neck. I suppose I'm too close to nature."

They drove along in silence for a while. Then Lawrence spoke again. "I think, at that, I've solved your difficulty," he said. "You talk about hoeing and making cakes, give me an idea. You are really worried because you haven't followed out your plans. You've got to do something more contented if you've got to do the agricultural college? I don't know what good it would do you now, but I believe that's what you want to do."

"It will make you happy, we'll go to the city for a few years to live," Lawrence answered. "and you can finish the course then. In fact, you can start in September. We'll be married in July and take an apartment in the city in late August."

Alice thought over this suggestion happily for several days.

GIRLS BAKERS MORE TO PRODUCE BREAD

Federal Report Also States People Evidently Eating Less.

Ottawa, April 19.—(By Canadian Press.)—Cost to the bakers of production and delivery of bread thru the Dominion averaged 7.87 cents per pound, according to returns published by the board of commerce of Canada for the month of February, 1920. This represents an increase in February of one-third of a cent per pound over January cost. A marked increase in the cost of nearly every ingredient, an increase in the cost of labor and a decrease in consumption of bread of about two per cent, over the month of January this year are noted in the report. Eighty per cent of the districts reporting show a marked increase in the cost of general production and delivery.

Averaged Seven and Half Cents.
 Of the thirty-five districts specified in the report, Hamilton shows the cheapest production, or 6.85 cents per pound, and Montreal's first district shows the most costly production, or 8.81 cents per pound. Most of the districts show an average cost of about 7 1/2 cents per pound. Besides Hamilton, only Winnipeg shows a cost of less than 7 cents, or 6.9 cents per pound, while Montreal (first district), Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria show costs of over 8 cents a pound.

The report of the board of commerce comments on the influence of the increased cost of flour on the cost of bread production. Following the advance in flour prices authorized by the Canadian Wheat Board, the average for the Dominion has increased 73 cents per barrel, equivalent to an average of 1/2 cent per pound in the cost of bread.

NEW YORK FIGHTS COST OF CLOTHES

Overall Club Formed, and "Patch" and "Old Clothes" Clubs in Other Cities.
 New York, April 19.—Supported by many prominent men and women, the overalls and gingham movement continued to gain converts thru the United States today. Several heads of business concerns, officials and actors donned blue denim or calico, and announced their intentions of backing the campaign. In New York, the movement thru the theatrical district singing and urging spectators to don blue denim and join the parade.

In brief, Alice possessed strongly all normal womanly instincts. She was simply following out those instincts from day to day in every way she could. But she did not analyze them. "But one afternoon she told all this to Clara—Clara the gentle, and admiring her, Clara with her dainty little hand the wistful look that was always behind her amber colored eyes. "I guessed some day," Clara said, "I told mother something like this months ago, when you adopted Berenice. Are you going to marry Lawrence?"

"Yes," Alice said, but not cheerfully this time. "I feel as tho I were taking something that didn't belong to me when I take him. He's a substitute for me, he is only a substitute for the thing I wanted."

D'ANNUNZIO FORMS AN ANTI-LEAGUE
 Fiume, April 19.—Gabriele D'Annunzio is forming an anti-league of nations consisting of minority elements in all countries of oppressed peoples, which will be called "The League of Fiume." He has invited a conference at Fiume on May 15. Delegates are expected from Egypt, Hungary, Turkey, Persia, Montenegro, Croatia, and India. D'Annunzio's secretary for foreign affairs, said to the Associated Press: "We will include the Germans of the Saaz region, of German-Austria and Danzig, the Turks and Egyptians, certainly the Irish, the Hindus and the peoples of Dalmatia, Croatia, Montenegro, Malta, Morocco, Algeria, Syria, Palestine, Cuba, Porto Rico and Panama. The new league will be a great league of democracy, termination and communion, but without the atrocities of Bolshevism. D'Annunzio has used the good points of Bolshevism in his constitution and rejected the bad ones. The poet Bolshevism would kill this. We have chosen for the league a flag with a red field and gold serpent, signifying revolution and eternity."

NEW STRIKE MENACE
 Chicago, April 19.—While the railroads announced that they were in normal, a new menace to railroad service came in the form of a strike threat from 35,000 freight handlers and railroad clerks.

An argument of the construction of the bridge, representation was made that the bridge was an absolute necessity. An increase in ferry rates was proposed—a bridge would permit a direct street car service to the island when the city took over the street cars next year—it would help in the solution of housing problem and enable the poorer people to reach the amusement ground. "Many of the people of Toronto," said Mayor Church, "never see the island of Lake Ontario. Many of them never see the island. They can't afford to."

On the point of reduced fares during the exhibition, the minister suggested an amendment to the fare act which would grant single fares on Labor Day and restore the fare and a third rate on other exhibition days, to cities with an exhibition of two weeks' duration.

The minister of railways, regarding the exhibition, remarked that in the Dominion with a two weeks' exhibition, such an act would be a special act for Toronto. "I would not," Dr. Reid added, "if you are going to use parliament to say that any railway rate is going to be then you will well abolish the railway commission."

The railway commission, Dr. Reid continued, could not doubt consider the question of reduced rates during exhibition time. Taking up the point of commuted fares, he said, you worried all winter because you weren't there doing a lot of work that girls with plenty of leisure should be doing. You felt badly because you refused to let you plant an enormous garden back of your own house and let you break your back tending to it."

DAY IN PARLIAMENT
 Ottawa, April 19.—Dr. Edwards' ruling, calling for a federal bureau of education brought forth the customary protest from Quebec members in the house today. It was alarming, it was moving, it was a warning. It was moving that the illiterate vote held the balance of power in most of election contests. It admitted that education was solely an unreservedly provincial jurisdiction. All asked was that the federal government by financial research and advice assist the provinces in their educational relations. Quebec members construed the resolution as an attack on their privileges, and an insidious attempt to intrude into the jurisdiction of the province.

Dr. Beland argued that Quebec was at peace when the rest of the world was in a state of unrest. As the illiterate vote held the balance of power, it was evident that the peaceful labor was, in his opinion, more important than intelligent vote. He said that the illiterate vote held the balance of power in most of election contests. It admitted that education was solely an unreservedly provincial jurisdiction. All asked was that the federal government by financial research and advice assist the provinces in their educational relations. Quebec members construed the resolution as an attack on their privileges, and an insidious attempt to intrude into the jurisdiction of the province.

AN HONEST CONFESSION.
 Chapter 62.
 Occasionally we are revealed to ourselves in surprising and unexpected fashions. We live along from day to day, feeling sure that we understand ourselves, that there is nothing in our own natures that our brains do not comprehend—and then comes a self-revelation, unfortunately, we have not the gift of interpretation. We are disconcerted and unhappy, but we know. Therefore, we cannot take any course. Sir Robert will definitely retire before dissolution. There will be a big fight for the leadership between White and Meighen, probably ending in a compromise on another Ontario minister.

COSTS BAKERS MORE TO PRODUCE BREAD

Federal Report Also States People Evidently Eating Less.

Ottawa, April 19.—(By Canadian Press.)—Cost to the bakers of production and delivery of bread thru the Dominion averaged 7.87 cents per pound, according to returns published by the board of commerce of Canada for the month of February, 1920. This represents an increase in February of one-third of a cent per pound over January cost. A marked increase in the cost of nearly every ingredient, an increase in the cost of labor and a decrease in consumption of bread of about two per cent, over the month of January this year are noted in the report. Eighty per cent of the districts reporting show a marked increase in the cost of general production and delivery.

Averaged Seven and Half Cents.
 Of the thirty-five districts specified in the report, Hamilton shows the cheapest production, or 6.85 cents per pound, and Montreal's first district shows the most costly production, or 8.81 cents per pound. Most of the districts show an average cost of about 7 1/2 cents per pound. Besides Hamilton, only Winnipeg shows a cost of less than 7 cents, or 6.9 cents per pound, while Montreal (first district), Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria show costs of over 8 cents a pound.

The report of the board of commerce comments on the influence of the increased cost of flour on the cost of bread production. Following the advance in flour prices authorized by the Canadian Wheat Board, the average for the Dominion has increased 73 cents per barrel, equivalent to an average of 1/2 cent per pound in the cost of bread.

NEW YORK FIGHTS COST OF CLOTHES

Overall Club Formed, and "Patch" and "Old Clothes" Clubs in Other Cities.

In brief, Alice possessed strongly all normal womanly instincts. She was simply following out those instincts from day to day in every way she could. But she did not analyze them. "But one afternoon she told all this to Clara—Clara the gentle, and admiring her, Clara with her dainty little hand the wistful look that was always behind her amber colored eyes. "I guessed some day," Clara said, "I told mother something like this months ago, when you adopted Berenice. Are you going to marry Lawrence?"

"Yes," Alice said, but not cheerfully this time. "I feel as tho I were taking something that didn't belong to me when I take him. He's a substitute for me, he is only a substitute for the thing I wanted."

D'ANNUNZIO FORMS AN ANTI-LEAGUE
 Fiume, April 19.—Gabriele D'Annunzio is forming an anti-league of nations consisting of minority elements in all countries of oppressed peoples, which will be called "The League of Fiume." He has invited a conference at Fiume on May 15. Delegates are expected from Egypt, Hungary, Turkey, Persia, Montenegro, Croatia, and India. D'Annunzio's secretary for foreign affairs, said to the Associated Press: "We will include the Germans of the Saaz region, of German-Austria and Danzig, the Turks and Egyptians, certainly the Irish, the Hindus and the peoples of Dalmatia, Croatia, Montenegro, Malta, Morocco, Algeria, Syria, Palestine, Cuba, Porto Rico and Panama. The new league will be a great league of democracy, termination and communion, but without the atrocities of Bolshevism. D'Annunzio has used the good points of Bolshevism in his constitution and rejected the bad ones. The poet Bolshevism would kill this. We have chosen for the league a flag with a red field and gold serpent, signifying revolution and eternity."

J. KENDRICK BANGS AT EMPIRE CLUB

American Humorists Feels Himself at Home in Canada, and Shows It.

"I'm not so far away from home when I'm in Canada," said John Kendrick Bangs, in an address given to the Empire Club, who turned out in their numbers last evening at the King Edward, to listen to the noted American humorist, author and journalist.

As a speaker Mr. Bangs is like a stream that knows no obstruction, and last night he told one anecdote after another from a quarter of a century back to the present with an ease that required no oiling of members' wheels.

One of the greatest books of Canada was published under my supervision, declared the speaker, referring to his "Habitants" by Dr. Drummond. Coming to Toronto, he was not surprised to find such outstanding Canadian men and women. And why should they not be so, asked Mr. Bangs, when he was brought to Canada by his grandfather, Nathaniel Bangs, Canada had given him a Canadian grand-mother, was the statement that brought the speaker close to his audience.

A new term was introduced into the vocabulary when Mr. Bangs told his audience of the "salubrities" he had met in the fifteen or twenty years of his editorial life. Among the "salubrities" quoted was Winston Churchill, for whom a reception that was to have lasted an hour had been prepared, but who got thru so expeditiously that only seven and a half minutes were required for the performance.

Richard Harding Davis. Richard Harding Davis was spoken of with enthusiastic admiration, for in his thirty-five years of active professional life, the speaker declared he had never met anyone who might not have lifted his hat to Davis for his hearty, kindly qualities. For five seasons at Chicago he had known Davis to spend $500 of his hard earnings among 3000 of the poor, who did not even know who was their benefactor. Royard Kipling, Conan Doyle, Richard Henry Stoddard, Mrs. Stoddard were among others quoted. Mr. Bangs' humor rippled thru his entire address, but it is not easy to transfer to the cold means of type. Arthur Hewitt presided and introduced the speaker.

CARS KILL TWO AND INJURE ONE

Two Children Fatally Injured—Skull of Third Fractured by Automobiles.

Two children were injured fatally and a third received injuries to his head, the result of motor car accidents on the streets yesterday. In all three instances the accidents occurred over children running onto the road without first seeing if the crossing was clear.

Ethel Ryan, aged five years, of 166 Christie street, dashed out from behind a milk wagon at Garnet avenue and was struck down by an automobile. The child was carried into the office of Dr. Wickson, 223 Christie street, who pronounced death from a fractured skull. The body was then taken to the morgue. Arthur Bingham, 37 Spadina road, was in charge of the car.

Three and one-half-year-old Ida Eastburn, 611 Church street, was crossing the street when a motor car eastbound on Charles street, ran down and instantly killed her. The motor car was driven by Lorna Gordon McLean, 67 Highland avenue.

Robert Henderson, aged five years, 153 Waverley road, sustained head injuries when he was struck by a motor car yesterday afternoon on Waverley road. Dr. Edmunds, 1981 East Queen street, attended the little boy and then referred his removal to the Hospital for Sick Children. William Moore of Birchmount was the driver of the car. He reported the accident to Main street police station and was not held.

LECTURE ON "MACBETH."

A recital lecture with "Macbeth" as the subject was given last evening to an appreciative audience at the faculty of education hall by Thomas Carter, Ph.D., London, England, author of "Shakespeare, Puritan and Recusant," and other works. The subject received artistic treatment in the realistic presentation of the lecture.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

By Helen Rowland. (Copyright, 1920, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

By Helen Rowland. (Copyright, 1920, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.) A woman's mind, like a chicken salad, contains a lot of things that no man ever suspects. The queen of profiteers is the woman who sees for a hundred thousand dollars for the alienation of her husband's affections, when she knows that they aren't really worth two cents.

Why is it that whenever you take your husband to visit people who have a wine-cellar, nowadays, he insists on acting just like a camel? Masculine vanity is perfectly comprehensible, when you reflect that there never was a man so unattractive that he couldn't find some woman to flirt with him, dine with him, or marry him.

Hail America—the only country in the world, where, when a man marries a girl, he says: "What's mine is yours—and what's yours is your own!"

Man's life is full of struggles! First, he struggles against soap, then against discipline, then against education, then against matrimony, then against badness, and finally against death—but they all got him, sooner or later.

Things no woman can forgive a man for forgetting: A kiss (the point of a story, her birthday, the color of her eyes, and the frock she had on the first time they met.

A woman who clings to a man, after love is dead, has that same clinging to wet fingers, and can't be shaken off.

The true "artistic spirit" is that of the man who won't turn from his contemplation of a beautiful sunset in order to stare after a red-headed girl—but have you ever met him?

ALINE. Of curious Teutonic origin is Aline. It signifies "noble" and belongs to the great cycle of names evolved from the prefix, Aeth, Adel, or Adoll which mean high-born or noble. Aline, the fore-runner of the feminine Aline. Since he was known as Aline, the discernible of evolution is more easily discernible.

Early in the ninth century, the feminine name of Adolphine was introduced in Germany and brought to England. The name still common in Germany—the original name—remained long enough to become the predecessor of Aline, through slurring the consonants. One of the daughters of Walthof, Earl of Northumbria, was so called, and it is believed that her christening set the fashion for the barbarous names which made their appearance in England about that time.

Aline has no connection with Ellen, which is the Irish version of Eleanor, nor with Aileen, which is another form of the same name, the latter, similarly in pronunciation is strikingly different, however, is more popular in this country than either of the other two.

Aline's talisman gem is the ruby. It will protect its wearer from danger, and disease, bring her courage and success. Tuesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number. The Lily of purity is her flower.

INQUEST RESUMED ON LATE TRUSTEE

Nothing Definite Established as to Identity of Car or Its Owner.

The inquest into the death of the late C. A. B. Brown was continued at the morgue last evening. A number of witnesses of the accident were called, most of whom agreed that the motor car which struck Mr. Brown was a small, black roadster, probably a McLaughlin. The speed at which it was traveling was variously estimated at from ten to forty miles per hour.

R. E. Kirkpatrick, 700 Euclid avenue, who was driving a motor car east along the south side of Bloor, at the time of the accident, saw Mr. Brown struck down, and tried to get the number of the car. He stated that the first two figures in the license looked like 11, and there appeared to be four figures. Of this, however, he was uncertain. His father, H. J. Kirkpatrick, who was with him, estimated the speed of the car at 10 to 12 miles per hour. Together the two gave chase to Brown's slayer, going west along Bloor, but at Bathurst they were held back in a traffic jam, and were thrown off the track.

Little Boy's Evidence. Twelve-year-old George Gooderham, who was standing at the southwest corner of Bloor and St. George at the time of the accident, and saw the car, running down St. George to get his mother, who was a short distance away, he again saw that he thought was the same car when he returned, but this time it was going east along Bloor at St. George. This evidence, however, is not upheld by any of the other witnesses.

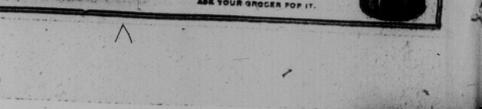

Several other witnesses were called, including the driver and the motorist of the car from which Mr. Brown had just alighted, drivers of several motor cars and trucks which were passing at the time of the accident, Mr. Gooderham, two physicians, and some of the occupants of the street car.

GET-RICH-QUICK GAME Archie Gertsbain, 53 Robert street, attempted a "get-rich-quick game" yesterday afternoon that resulted in his being placed under arrest on charges of theft and attempted fraud. According to Detectives Mitchell and Dawn, Gertsbain waited until a driver delivered a lady's coat to a house at 222 Major street, and then sneaked in the door and lifted the parcel. He went to the store and attempted to exchange it and get the money value of the coat. The detectives, however, were called, and the boy arrested.

FELL FROM STREET CAR. Falling from a street car at Dovercourt road and Queen street last evening, Lee Lou, of Owen Sound, was injured about the head. He was admitted to the Western Hospital.

CHANGES ARE SMALL IN MINING STOCKS

Timiskaming Firm in the Silvers; Hollinger Easier in the Gold Issues.

NEW YORK BUYS DOME EX.

Steadiness in prices was about the main characteristic of the Standard Mining market yesterday. Transactions were about normal and there was nothing to stir enthusiasm in either direction.

There was a demand for Dome Exchange shares in the gold section and sales were made at 26 3/4. The buying of these shares was stated to be for New York, and was further stated that this issue was practically all passing to that centre.

The mining market is almost devoid of speculation at present, and is, therefore, not influenced much by outside markets. On this account a weak market on Wall Street yesterday was not a factor in the trading.

SAWYER-MASSEY REPORT NOT TOO GLOWING

As against a loss of $77,236 in 1918 and net profits of $117,423 in 1917, Sawyer-Massey Company, Limited, of Hamilton, show net profits for the year ended November 30, 1919, of $62,573.

On the recommendation of the president and general manager, the amount of $206,446 has been written off for bad and doubtful debts, and provisions for standardization of production and inventory adjustment. This action would indicate that the company has faced the problem of putting its assets upon a firm basis for the future.

In the report to the shareholders, the directors state that plant production was curtailed, resulting from delayed deliveries of materials and labor trouble, so general through Canada. Production costs also show marked increases, due to continually increasing costs of materials and wages. The plant, including equipment and the western distributing warehouses, are reported to be in excellent shape, and all charges for maintenance have been charged against earnings.

In the statement of assets and liabilities in the liquidity column, bank advances and notes at $1,716,278 payable are shown at $1,716,278, against $1,871,905 in 1918. Bonds outstanding are shown as $478,865, against $529,300 last year.

NEW YORK CURB.

New York, April 19.—The curb continued unsettled through the afternoon, and, although there were some moderate advances, the general tendency was toward a heavy close. The after having registered a loss of eight points on the day, Cuban-American Sugar was off one at 61. Canadian Petroleum moved lower, closing at 12. The mining issues were materially weaker. The Tonopah and Colorado were sold at concessions. Tonopah divided getting down to 14. Silver King of Arizona had a movement from 2 1/2 to 1 1/2, and then back to 2 1/2. United Eastern eased off fractionally.

LAKE OF WOODS DIVIDEND.

The Lake of the Woods Milling Company has declared a dividend of ten per cent. on the common and two per cent. on the preferred, payable June 1 to shareholders of record May 22.

ST. LAWRENCE FLOUR DIVIDEND.

The directors of the St. Lawrence Flour have declared a dividend of 1 1/2 per cent. on the preferred and 1 1/2 per cent. on the common, plus a bonus of 1 per cent., both payable May 1 to holders of record April 20.

Fall of Snow in Saskatchewan Puts Back Seeding One Week

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 19.—Owing to the heavy fall of snow here last week, seeding operations, which were considered likely on April 26, have been put back at least one week, making it the 3rd of 4th of May before farmers can get on the land in this district.

The snow is rapidly going, but the land is still in a heavy condition, as this district was harder hit by the snowfall than any in the province.

UNFAVORABLE FACTORS

Goodbody & Co., members of the New York stock exchange, in their weekly letter, cite the following as unfavorable factors in the present Wall Street situation:

1. Highest money rates in United States and England ever known, except in panic periods.

2. Highest wages ever paid in proportion to the value of goods produced. Many estimates indicate that labor is only 60 per cent. efficient.

3. Foreign exchange so low that exports are declining rapidly and many export houses are financially embarrassed with "wholesale liquidations" in prospect.

4. Strikes so numerous and important that transportation facilities in the great commercial states are half idle and millions of laborers are out of work because of lack of materials, supplies and shipping facilities.

5. Radicalism is rampant throughout the civilized world and governments are being overturned and property rights are insecure.

6. Europe's war debts are so great that many countries face bankruptcy, unless non-Euro-American countries come to the rescue. It is expected that a financial conference that will meet in Brussels, in May, will ask the countries that prospered in war time to aid the less fortunate nations.

7. The worst crop outlook in this country ever known and the worst ever known in Europe in time of peace.

8. Taxation systems that burden production, hamper trade and kill the hope of profit that inspires honest effort.

9. A psychology that leads to extravagance, recklessness and gambling, for most of us, and to inefficiency and destructiveness, for a large part of our hand workers and that can, perhaps, be cured only by a prolonged business depression.

THE FLURRY IN SAW-MASSEY

The big merger of steel and navigation companies left the opening for an outbreak of speculation in Steamships common. This started in Montreal on Saturday, and was carried further yesterday. The price was raised to 80, or an advance of 5 points. Whether this has discounted the supposed advantage of the merger depends on the attitude of the Montreal speculators, but it was evident that the morning flurry in the Toronto market produced no buying from the outside in the afternoon session. While the common ran up 3 points, the preferred moved up a little over a point, or about where it was a week ago. The flurry in Sawyer-Massey, which ran for a day last week, was unexplained by the statement, otherwise than that the demonstration made was for the purpose of heading off liquidation from disappointed holders when that document common stock was on offer at 18 at the close of yesterday, and there were no takers. The operation had a strong manipulation, which is ordinarily called "the pump and dump" method.

New York Styles for Spring and Summer Street and Sports Wear, in the Quality and Colorings Which Spell Smartness and Service

Slim Leather Belts Are Used Wherever Possible

And 'tis just amazing how much they can accomplish in the smartening of suit or sports coat. Serge street dresses are adopting them, too, and here and there one sees the cleverest of navy taffeta frocks with a tiny leather belt in some vivid shade. Reports from the leading style centres tell us that summer garb of every description is "going strong" for the leather belt in white, black or color.

The Leather Goods Department is replete with all that is newest in these snappy belts. Here you will find little "half-inchers" in shining patent leather piped with kid in contrasting tone. For instance, jade with white, jade and black, turquoise and white, rose and black.

While wee belts of teal duck blue (a soft greenish-blue) suede piped with black patent leather, are fetching beyond words.

Jade green, "favored child of Fashion" this season, is found in velvety suede belts which give the touch of color that makes the whole suit smart, and there are little black patent belts galore for your choosing.

If your fancy travels toward a mannish sports belt, you will be interested in our inch-wide belts of solid cowhide in tan and black. This season also hails the return of the white kid belt to a place in the sun. It ranges in width from one to three inches.

And just imagine! Dozens of these chic belts are selling for as little as 35

Phenomenal Sale of New Wool Jersey Frocks, Half Price

A Special Purchase of $32.50 and $35.00 Styles at $16.25 and $17.50.

From three important standpoints, it is one of the most fortunate purchases we have ever made.

First—We secured the frocks just fresh from the maker's tables—hence the styles are exponents of the newest designs of the Spring Season.

Second—The quality of jersey which went into their making is pure wool, and of a fineness one rarely sees in dresses, even at the regular prices here quoted.

Third—Wool jersey dresses have revived their former popularity to such an extent as to be a positive rage where Spring and early Summer wear for the house, the street or the links are concerned. And, by the way, the styles are just a bit advanced—they'll be ever so smart for early Autumn.
