ROOSEVELT SHOWS HIS SPIRIT

Orders the Suspension of a Mississippi Captain

OUTCOME OF A RACE

Captain of Mississippi Steamer Tried to Show President Speed Qualities of His Craft, and Loses His Certificate

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 5.—Inspector Williams issued telegraphic orders last night, ordering the suspension of the license of the captain of the steamer Fred Hartweg, for 90 days, in accordance with a request of President Roosevelt.

The offense charged against the captain of the Fred Hartweg was racing with the steamer Alton, thereby endangering the Mississippi, on which President Roosevelt was traveling. The Fred Hartweg and the Alton accompanied the Mississippi on its trip down the river to Memphis.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 4.—U. S. Inspector of Hulls Williams, this afternoon received a telegram signed by President Roosevelt, directing that the license for the steamer Fred Hartweg, which carried the Pittsburg delegation to Memphis, be immediately suspended. The telegram follows:

"MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 4.—On board U. S. S. Mississippi—
"Inspector of Hulls of vessels,
"Evansville, Ind.,
"I direct that the license of the master, or whoever is responsible for the present voyage, be suspended at once for ninety days. I wish this done by telegraphic order. The boat may be repaired as soon as it is possible. Colonel Ross can give you the details of the misconduct, which has been of a serious nature, and might have at any time caused an accident to this boat, as well as to other boats.
"Theodore Roosevelt."
The steamer Fred Hartweg's home port is Cairo, and it is expected at Evansville.

EVANSVILLE, Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 5.—According to a dispatch from Cairo, Ill., the incident which resulted in President Roosevelt requesting the suspension of the license of the steamer Fred Hartweg, occurred a short distance below that city Thursday. When the boats composing the flotilla, escorted by the president left Cairo, the dispatch states, the steamer Alton, carrying the St. Louis delegation had the position in front of the president's boat.

The Hartweg, while endeavoring to wrest this position from the Alton, rammed into the president's boat with great force, causing it to veer, and roughly jar those aboard. The president being thrown against the wall of his stateroom with considerable force. But for the act of the pilot on board the Mississippi, the dispatch adds, in endeavoring to avoid the path of the Hartweg, a serious accident might have resulted.

PRISON GATE WORK

Salvation Army in Canada Last Year Were Interested in Nineteen Thousand Prisoners.

Lieut. Col. Pagniere, secretary to Commissioner Coombs for the Men's Section Department, (including prison work) throughout the Canadian field, has returned from Chicago, where he attended the National Prison Congress. He spoke on several occasions before the various union, and presented a report of the operations of the Salvation Army during the year.

The statistics, showing the work accomplished, as appears on the surface at least, are as follows:

Interviews with prisoners ..... 18,871
Prisoners met on discharge ..... 857
Discharged prisoners given employment ..... 2,068
Meals given ex-prisoners ..... 663
Night lodgings given ex-prisoners ..... 1,011
Clothing given ex-prisoners ..... 886
No. of fares or part fares paid for ex-prisoners ..... 378
No. meetings held in prisons ..... 3,405
Prisoners expressed desire to lead a new life, asking for help ..... 3,372
No. of men found employment (temporary or permanent) in Toronto alone ..... 2,000
No. of letters found ..... 122

"The aim of the Army's efforts," says the Colonel, "is the thorough reformation of the criminal. There are two distinct lines in our work which are most beneficial to the class among whom we labor: Individual visits to the men in the cells is one. We know by experience it is the most successful, and the most influential for good. We also find the prisoner immediately free is discharged.

"The authorities recognizing the ability of our officers, have facilitated our work greatly, and we cannot speak too warmly of their kindness and co-operation of our prison officials. None have had better opportunities for seeing our reforming influences upon the prisoners than these officers, and that we enjoy their confidence to a greater extent than ever, is a great satisfaction to us.

"A little more than seven years ago Dr. Gilmour opened the doors of the Central Prison to the Army, with permission to do personal work with the prisoners, and their cells and later to be responsible for many of the religious services held in the prison. Since then upwards of three thousand discharged prisoners from that institution have passed through our hands, all of whom have found employment or better friends. From this the work has spread all over the Dominion, until now we have workers in seventy jails and prisons.

"It is four years since the minister of Justice gave the Army access to all the penitentiaries. Regular visits are made, and convicts interviewed. Monthly discharge sheets are furnished by the minister's instructions, and this enables us to make proper provision for those whose early discharge is anticipated. We have found it beneficial, however, to start even earlier in the career of the criminal. In numbers of police courts our representatives attend regularly, and without trading, are often the means of saving young offenders from the cell.

"Genuine repentance on the part of the prisoner is not to be despised, and to the measure of its reality we are able to assist him, communicating with his friends, interceding with former employers, saving for his wife and children during his incarceration, and paving the way for him on his release to enter society with every home and prospect of a future career as a law-abiding citizen.

"He is met at the prison gates, his railway order is exchanged, and he is put on the train. As little as not the Army has a branch working in the vicinity, whose officers can be enlisted to cooperate for his future, shielding him from the commission of any crime, and offering him a spiritual home. In this way hundreds have been rescued from lives of sin.

Eleven deaths were reported at the office of the board of health for the week ending Thursday as follows: Pneumonia and cholera infantum, two each; marasmus, consumption, convulsions, heart disease, gastritis, carcinoma, scirrhus of breast and obstruction of intestines, one each.

FOR OUR PULP WOOD

ONTARIO, Ont., Oct. 4.—Representatives of pulp and paper mills in Wisconsin, Michigan and Pennsylvania are in active competition for pulpwood on both the Quebec and Ontario sides of the border. They are buying steamers for delivery this season and in some cases making contracts for supplies for several seasons ahead.

Wisconsin parties who own pulpwood limits on the Quebec side of Lake Temiskaming are planning to cut their timber this winter in sections of length, raft it down the lake in the spring to Hullabury, rail it hence to North Bay, where they will be dumped. They are planning to be again rafted to Georgian Bay, then it will be loaded into the company's barges for conveyance to Wisconsin. Parties buying pulp wood on the Ontario side of the border are urging the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission to build spur lines to Long Lake on the Charlton branch of the line, and to other points where quantities of pulpwood are being cut.

BASEBALL PLAYER DEAD

For some time Leary was a student at the University of Pennsylvania and played on the baseball team. He was also a member of the track team until barred from playing "summer ball" with the Whitinsville, Mass., team. Later he played with Freney City, Toronto and Rochester of the Eastern League. He was 27 years old.

MORE LIGHT WANTED

A number of Fairville residents have called attention to the need of light on the Suspension Bridge at night. A Fairville lady speaking of the matter, said that in crossing the bridge at dark it was difficult to see where one was going. There was danger of being run over by teams or meeting with rough characters, and some lights on the bridge or at the entrances were greatly needed.

BRITISH SHIPS WILL RACE 6,000 MILES

Lawrence and the Norwood Both Carrying Lumber for Buenos Ayres.

(Boston Globe, Oct. 4.)

"I would be willing to wager any sum that follow on the run out to the river," said Captain Haaverson of the bark Alexander Lawrence today when asked what he thought his chances were in a race to South America with the British ship Norwood.

The Lawrence has a reputation for fast sailings. Last year she beat out a fleet of square riggers on the passage to the river Plate, and it is reported that her captain and officers won a neat sum from the officers of the other vessels.

The Norwood line at anchor here both destined for Buenos Ayres, the former with 1,213,673 feet of lumber and the latter with 1,011,287 feet of pine. The Norwood spreads considerable more canvas than the bark, but Captain Haaverson is confident that he can win.

He said yesterday that this is not the season of the year for fast passages for a sailing vessel bound to a South American port. He doubted if he could make the run to Buenos Ayres in less than 60 days because of the head winds and calms which are usually encountered about this time, in the vicinity of the equator and north of it. He made the last trip to Boston from Buenos Ayres in 45 days.

The Norwood line at anchor here both destined for Buenos Ayres, the former with 1,213,673 feet of lumber and the latter with 1,011,287 feet of pine. The crew have been signed and all the riggers are waiting for to start on the long race of 6,000 miles is a good stiff breeze.

He will probably be towed out to Boston tonight this morning and then the contest will be on.

Captain Howe of the Norwood will be accompanied by his wife and three children. He has great confidence in the ability of his vessel and believes that she will beat out her rival in the run to the South American port.

THEIR OWN FAULT

The proprietor of the Evangeline cigar store complains of the condition of the street near there. He says there is now quite a lake every time it rains. A young lad coming out of his store last night, he says, fell in and there was excitement for a time owing to the lack of boats or life preservers.

With regard to the above item, the officials of the street department desire to state that they have for a long time past urged upon the citizens the importance of learning to swim, and unless the advice is heeded somebody will be drowned. The department does not feel that it can do more than provide the pools. If the people want life-preservers it might be arranged to supply them at a wholesale rate, but beyond that the department will take no responsibility.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

SOCIETY ITEM.
Mr. Hiram Hornbush is having trouble with his home. It appears that Hiram recently purchased some of the Army's fangled bread. They eat it other here, look not unlike other bread, and if plucked and roasted would probably not taste any better than other bread. But they refuse to associate with the other bread in the bakery. They affect a haughty and snooty air. Some well-meaning persons, however, have been termed the common classes who say repulsed with cold scorn. Hiram says he would not mind it so much if these self-sufficient folk were good layers, but are not producers at all. There are five loafers, but no eggs or chickens. Hiram says, "It beats all in the country market, this morning. 'It beats all who much here is like humans—don't it!'"

It has been decided by the aldermen to create a sinking fund for the benefit of the pavement on Prince William street, between Princess and Dale streets. Persons injured while walking or riding on what is left of the pavement will have no claim on the fund. There was some talk of fencing it off, but it was felt the fund could not stand the cost of the fence. Besides, winter is at hand.

The new manual training classes are proving very popular with the scholars in the public schools who are fortunate enough to be able to attend. As pointed out some time ago, there are only 22 benches in the new building devoted to manual training, and therefore the accommodation is limited.

Dr. Bridges speaking of this department yesterday said, that of course it was only in its experimental stage, so far as St. John was concerned. They would like to have devoted more room to the class, but they were doing the best they could under the circumstances. He hoped next year they could devote more space to the study.

"At present," said Dr. Bridges, "we can only take scholars from grades 7 and 8, and only those from the schools in the central part of the city. As there are only 22 benches, we have divided the room into 10 half days, accommodating 44 boys a day or 220 a week. Beyond that we cannot go."

The doctor said he knew of some boys even in the central schools who could not be provided for, but it could not be avoided, as the school only make use of the room that was available.

NEWS FROM FREDERICTON

Bank of Nova Scotia May Not Get Bonds at 85 After All—A Bigamy Case.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 5.—(Special)—The body of the late Captain Wood died in Boston a few days ago, arrived here by the noon train today and was interred in Forest Hill cemetery.

It is understood that the city bond sale recently negotiated by L. W. Johnston with the Bank of Nova Scotia at 85 will not be consummated at the present time. It is likely that several wealthy citizens will supply the city with sufficient funds to carry on the ordinary business until such time as the bonds can be sold at a more satisfactory figure.

The heads of two moose shot on Canaan River by Dairy Superintendent and Mrs. Dagle of Moncton have been received at Emack Bros' establishment.

Before Justice Ryles at Georgetown yesterday Cecilia J. Eastman, colored, was committed for trial on a charge of bigamy. The evidence of four witnesses was taken and it was shown that she has two husbands living, viz., James Eastman of Woodstock whom she married in 1900 and James W. Little, of Georgetown, to whom she was joined in August last. Little is a white man and is in jail charged with bigamy. Both cases will likely come up for trial at the Queens County circuit court which opens on Tuesday.

What a Portland, Me., Paper Says of Miss Annie L. P. Harrison's Book.

The Portland, Me., Press contains the following appreciative notice of the literary work of Miss Annie L. P. Harrison, who is a sister of Morton L. P. Harrison of St. John.

"Parents, kindergarten and baby books are everywhere, but I have not seen about children that very young children themselves love differ from the former in character somewhat and are not very frequently to be discovered. Miss Harrison with some sweet little poems and songs of her own composition and using lovely photographic illustrations that are cunning and attractive in every detail, has also made her text unusual by reason of her familiarity with every phase of baby and child life.

"The plays and baby talk the little discussions and good night prayers, the part of her book is a small, homey and charmingly done and never obtrusive or aggressive, there runs through the book a vein of shrewdness and realism and simple happiness that is very refreshing indeed."

FROM SOLDIERING IRON TO ARTIST'S PALETTE

This Story of an Italian Youth Reads Almost Like a Fairy Tale

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Antonio Barone, an Italian youth of 19 years, is now a student at the Art Students' League, and is turning out work in portraiture which is gaining for him the commendation of such masters as Kenyon Cox and William M. Chase.

Yet about a year ago Barone was soldiering tin cans in a factory at Leroy, N. Y., and his chance of being a painter were remote. Miss Ida C. Leroy, who had studied art in this city, heard from some friends that an Italian hand in the factory, who could hardly speak English, was making such good portraits of his fellow workmen that they were the talk of the place. She sent for him, looked at his sketches and made arrangements with his employers by which he could have more time for drawing. Last autumn he entered the Art Students' League and by the end of the year he had won a scholarship.

A ST. JOHN AUTHORESS

What a Portland, Me., Paper Says of Miss Annie L. P. Harrison's Book.

The Portland, Me., Press contains the following appreciative notice of the literary work of Miss Annie L. P. Harrison, who is a sister of Morton L. P. Harrison of St. John.

"Parents, kindergarten and baby books are everywhere, but I have not seen about children that very young children themselves love differ from the former in character somewhat and are not very frequently to be discovered. Miss Harrison with some sweet little poems and songs of her own composition and using lovely photographic illustrations that are cunning and attractive in every detail, has also made her text unusual by reason of her familiarity with every phase of baby and child life.

"The plays and baby talk the little discussions and good night prayers, the part of her book is a small, homey and charmingly done and never obtrusive or aggressive, there runs through the book a vein of shrewdness and realism and simple happiness that is very refreshing indeed."

The penmanship of the Old Orchard fire the entire occupation on the sandy shelly beach will set all the other dear babies to whom it is read into laughter.

"THE LATE TENANT"

By GORDON HOLMES

When David glanced around already she was gone... She gave him the impression of having been overtaken by, of being shy at, the moonlight. His heart leaped in a spasm of recognition, almost of fear. And he followed, he could not help it. As water flows downward, as the needle follows the magnet, he followed, with the stealthy pace of the stalker, as silently as if he was tracking a deer, and as keenly.

Not that in the later part of his chase he had the slightest doubt. The long black cloak, like those that nurses wear inflated behind her, the kind of toque above it, the carriage of her head, the slope of her shoulders, all these were here; and she sped direct, not with standing turns and twists, to Porchester Gardens. David, from behind the corner of a street, could see her go up the must have been rubber overcoats. This secrecy revolted him, and again he almost doubted that it was she. But when she had gone in, he hastened from his street corner to the door to read the house-number, and it was 60A.

IT ACTUALLY "GROWS" SKIN

A New and Wonderful Discovery One of the greatest triumphs of recent years is the discovery of Zam-Buk, a unique preparation for growing new, healthy skin. Indeed, accidents and skin diseases are so common today that there is no reader who will not feel that the discovery needs a real and distinct need.

CHAPTER IX. Coming Nearer. As for Henry Van Hupfeldt, he too, at that morning hour lay awake in his bed. If ever man knew panic, it was he all that night. He had gone home from his interview with Violet, cringing in his carriage even from the glance of the passer in the streets, stricken to the heart by that assigned note of David's to Violet: "A pretty certain thing that your sister was a duly wedded wife."

Daily Fashion Hint for Times Readers.

LACE AND CHIFFON CLEVERLY PLEATED.

The effect of this blouse is that of a jumper of lace worn over a guinea of tucked plain lingerie material, but the waist is in reality made in one piece. The tucked body of chiffon forms a foundation for the jumper of fluted chiffon and the suspender effect of the tucked collar set between bands of antique lace. The back of the waist is very much the same as the front with the exception that the jumper is higher at this point. The sleeve is very novel, indeed, being a skeleton of the flut over a puff of the chiffon, with a high pointed cuff and two finishing frills of pliss chiffon. A band of the antique lace is posed at the top of the high feathered collar and edged with narrow Val.

THE STOMACH ON STRIKE.

The Tonic Treatment for Indigestion is the Most Successful. Loss of appetite, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, heavy dull headache and a dull feeling—these are the symptoms of stomach trouble. They indicate that the stomach is on strike, that it is no longer furnishing to the blood the full quota of nourishment that the body demands, hence every organ suffers.

GAVE A PRIZE TO THE WRONG HORSE

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 4.—Wm. Smith, a farmer, who was driving a horse to Londonderry one day this week to attend the Grand Fair, arriving on the fair grounds, Smith could find no suitable place to hitch his horse, so he unharnessed the animal and put him in a vacant stall in one of the sheds. When he was ready to return home, Mr. Smith found that the judges, thinking that his horse was on exhibition, had awarded a premium and bestowed the red ribbon.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN TORTURED BY BLINDING HEADACHES

Who Could Be Well and Happy, and Free of Pain.

Headaches simply mean poisoned blood. The human body is constantly decaying, and being renewed. Dead matter is absorbed by the blood, and should be taken from the blood by the kidneys, bowels and skin and passed out of the system. If one of these organs does not act properly, the blood becomes impure—if two fail, death is certain.

BIG FIRE AT ST. MARTINS

St. Martins, Oct. 4.—A destructive fire broke out here at 5 o'clock this evening, which destroyed the saw and grist mill owned by J. Aubrey Vaughan, as well as the fine residence and barn of J. S. Titus. The windows in the store of S. V. Skillen, opposite the mill, were all broken by the heat, and the paint on the woodwork was all destroyed.

For a time it seemed as if the Baptist parsonage, which is next to Mr. Titus' house, would be burned, but the men, by indefatigable work, succeeded in saving it. It is not known just how the fire, which started in the inside of the mill, originated. Fortunately there was not a great deal of lumber or grain on the premises. Mr. Vaughan's loss, however, is a heavy one, and he estimated it at $4,000 or $5,000, without a dollar of insurance.

Mr. Titus had $2,000 on his house, which was totally destroyed with most of his furniture and household goods. Besides the dwelling house, the barn with its contents and a number of smaller out-buildings were burned.

The fire was finally got under control shortly after 9 o'clock. There was an easterly wind blowing, with heavy rain falling. The total loss will be $10,000.

A distinguished looking Frenchman attracted attention at York (Penn.) by wearing two bracelets of gold on his right wrist.

Let Good Enough Alone.

Boy: I wish I were a bird to fly; I'd never go to school; I'd swing in tree-branches every day, and dip in shady pool.

Were you a bird, my silly boy, Worms would your diet be; And boys would take a shot at you When you swung in leafy tree.

Boy: I wish I were a little fish, With fins upon my side; Then all day long through water deep I merrily would glide.

Were you a fish, my silly boy, And swim in the brook, You'd find yourself quite suddenly Caught on some angler's hook.

Boy: Then if I may not be a fish, Nor bird, nor plumage gay, What may I be besides a boy? Will you two tell me, pray?

Bird and Fish: Why, go to school and study hard, And learn all that you can; Improve your mind while you are young, And grow into a MAN.

A Boon to the Bilious

Are you compelled to deny yourself many wholesome foods because you think they make you bilious? Do you know that your condition is more to blame than the food? Your liver and stomach need attention more than the diet. When you find yourself suffering with a bilious attack, take and all annoying symptoms will soon disappear. They settle the stomach, regulate the liver and exercise the bowels. Their good effects are felt immediately. Beecham's Pills mingle with the contents of the stomach and make the food more easily digested. The purgative properties of the food are then readily assimilated and the residue carried off without irritating the intestines or clogging the bowels.

PARIS POLICE ARE PLANNING BIG RAID

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The Gaulois declares today that Minister of Justice Guyot-Desjardins, Prefect of Police Leginis and the public prosecutor had a conference last night, at which they drew up a list of the French Anti-Militarists, including Gustave Hervé, who are to be arrested this morning. Orders were given also to seize the communications at the railroad stations of the General Federation of Labor. The present issue of this paper contains some violent worded articles. The police went to the railroad station, but they were too late; the papers already had been removed.

- ONE Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe. TWO Dandruff is a forerunner of itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. THREE Chronic baldness is incurable. FOUR The cause of dandruff can not be washed out of the scalp with soap and water. FIVE The only way to cure dandruff and falling hair is to kill the germ that causes it. SIX Each day that dandruff is neglected, adds to the permanent injury of the scalp, for dandruff does not cease voluntarily while the hair lasts. SEVEN The only safe and satisfactory remedy that will kill the dandruff germ and keep it out of the scalp is Newbro's Herculid.

IN LIGHTER VEIN IN TRUTH-LAND.

"A mere gallery play," declared the old magnate. "Then you won't pay that fine?" "If we do, my boy, it will be with stage money."

RESOURCESFUL BOY.

Fond mother—We've washed your hair so wet? You've been in bathing. Boy—No, it ain't that; it's perspiration. I've been running away from a bad boy that wanted me to disobey you and go swimming.

HE WAS WRONG.

The Orator—I believe that the great body of American people are gentlemen. Voice in Rear—You're wrong. The hat comes shows that over half of them are ladies.

THE HONEST GROCER.

"Are these peaches good?" "No, madam; we've had 'em around the shop here for nearly a week and they weren't good to begin with. They're even worse at the bottom of the basket. You'll find lovely peaches at Peck's, up the street."

IN A WORSE FIX.

"I suppose," said the old-time friend, "you retired from business that you could enjoy the jewel on her third finger." "That's what I thought," answered Mr. Cumrox, "but mother and the girls have explained to me that it was in order to give me time to help in their social activities."

THE POLITICIAN.

"And no doubt," we say to our friend, the candidate, "you will make an especial appeal for votes by sympathizing with the man with patches on his garments?" "No," he responds with a knowing wink, "I shall make a tenetrick by voicing my undying sympathy with the men who can't get their clothes patched."

THE ARTFUL MINX.

"Why," he asked, "do girls like us so much to display diamond rings on their engagement fingers?" "Well," she replied, as she carefully turned the jewel on her third finger, "you know there is nothing like a shining example to stimulate one when he has a purpose in mind." When she had time to speak again she cried, "Oh, Fred, I hope you don't think I was trying to throw out a hint. I never suspected that you cared about me at all!"—Judge.

After the ceremony the bride and groom went to their new home in Gilbert's Lane.

Gerrard-Girdwood

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Girdwood, Bathurst, was the scene of a quiet wedding Wednesday evening, October 2, when their youngest daughter, Kate, was married to R. Barclay Gerrard of Campbellton. Rev. James A. Wheeler, of St. Luke's Presbyterian church, Bathurst, was the officiating clergyman. Only immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom were present. The bride's costume was of cream silk crepe de chene, with yoke of baby Irish lace over satin, and girde of cream broder ribbon. Her veil was of white point d'esprit, and she carried a bouquet of asters, sweet peas and maidenhair. Miss Rita Shirley attended her as flower girl, attired in a becoming dress of cream nun's veiling, with lace yoke and trimmings, and a pink sash. The bride's traveling costume was of grey tweed, with hat to match. The bride received many valuable gifts from her friends. The bridal party left by marriage time express for their future home in Campbellton (N. B.).

Fenwick-Wetmore

Thursday evening, at 78 Sewell street, Mrs. Mary J. Wetmore became the bride of Wilfred Fenwick. Rev. M. S. Traflet tied the nuptial knot in the presence of relatives and a few friends. The bride wore navy blue silk with cream lace trimming. The bridesmaid, Miss Wetmore, wore white silk with hat to match. The groom was supported by J. Parker. Many pretty gifts were received. After the ceremony luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Fenwick will reside in St. Andrews street.

CANADA'S HOUR (New England Magazine).

For Canada the hour of destiny has struck. She has the physical basis for an Empire; and the stream of immigration which has now begun will swell into a mighty movement of population like that by which our central west was occupied, until her fertile lands shall be the homes of millions of prosperous people. Thus far American immigrants are largely in excess of those from other lands outside the British groups, and American thought will have a mighty influence in moulding the characters of the coming commonwealth of western Canada. The English-speaking immigrants outnumber many fold all those of other tongues; and thus it is made sure that both the great republic and the nascent nation adjoining will be loyal to the idea of constitutional liberty, and standing side by side, will work together to advance that Anglo-Saxon civilization which seems destined to dominate the world.

Words are pitifully weak to express what one feels in the presence of such a tragedy in human life.

The premier event in local society circles during the present week was a large and very enjoyable soiree dance given at the Golf Club on Wednesday evening by Colonel and Mrs. Hugh McLean, in honor of their guest, Miss Creelman, of Montreal. The house and grounds were very beautifully decorated, the floral arrangements having been planned and carried out by Mr. Pedersen. The lighting effects were particularly pleasing, a feature being a string of vari-colored lights arranged in semi-circular form among the trees in front of the club house. The interior of the house was gaily adorned with rowan berries and evergreens, presenting a typical autumn picture.

The house and grounds were converted into a veritable fairland and the beautiful costumes worn by the ladies added greatly to the general effect.

The guests, numbering in all about two hundred, were received by Colonel and Mrs. McLean and Miss McLean.

Among those present were Miss Creelman, Mr. and Mrs. George McAvity, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stungo, Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, Colonel and Mrs. Ogilvie, Dr. and Mrs. Murray McLaren, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. D. Tilley, Mr. and Mrs. George West Jones, Mr. and Mrs. R. Keltie Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cowan Schofield, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart, Charles Logan, and others.

The merry-makers danced until midnight, when a dainty supper, served and after a number of super extras the dancers dispersed, all voting the function the most enjoyable of the season.

Mrs. Kaye, Peel street, entertained delightfully at bridge during the present week. The prize winners were Mrs. L. P. D. Tilley, Miss Mabel Sydney, and Miss McGovern.

Among those present were Mrs. Keator, Mrs. King Hazen, Mrs. William Hazen, Mrs. Dever, Mrs. Andrew Jack, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. E. A. Smith, Mrs. George (Wm.) Jones, Mrs. J. J. Anglin, Mrs. (Colomb) Ogilvie, Mrs. Bueby, Miss Sydney-Smith, Miss Mabel Smith, Mrs. Roy Campbell and Mrs. L. P. D. Tilley.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Miss Ethel Roosevelt
Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the second daughter of the president, is a daughter of the present Mrs. Roosevelt; Mrs. Nicholas Longworth being the president's daughter by a former wife. Miss Ethel, who is a sweet-faced girl of 16, devoted to outdoor life just as much as her sturdy brothers. She is thoroughly domestic in her tastes, and has proved of invaluable assistance to the first lady of the land by assisting her mother to handle the large amount of purely social mail which the mistress of the White House receives daily during the official season in Washington. Miss Ethel is, of course, still a school girl and dresses in the most simple fashion. She is devoted to music and is fond of her books.

PAINLESS TEETHING

There is no period in baby's life that mothers dread more than teething time. The little gums are tender and inflamed; the child suffers and is sleepless and cross, and the mother is usually worn out caring for the child. The use of Baby's Own Tablets allays the inflammation, softens the tender swollen gums, and brings the teeth through painlessly. Mrs. N. Saive, St. Rose de Lima, Que., says: "When my baby was cutting his teeth he was feverish, cross and did not take nourishment. After giving him Baby's Own Tablets he cut six teeth without the least trouble. I have never used any medicine for children I prize so highly as the Tablets." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BUSTER BROWN BOOKS ARE

MAKING HIT WITH CHILDREN

The Buster Brown books which the Evening Times is giving away to all subscribers who pay 50 cents for Times subscriptions are making a big hit with the little folks of St. John. Evidence that they have caught on is found in the rapidly increasing demand for them. Young and old, toddling wee kiddies and matured men have been equally anxious to make Buster's acquaintance in his busy guise. "He little ones all enjoy the funny stunts of Buster and Mary Jane and Tige—don't under any consideration forget Tige—the most comical doggie that ever whined an eye or wagged a curly tail. And the grown-ups, we've had a large number of said adults calling for these books—to amuse the children" is the way they put it as they pay up the 50 cents for an expansion to the subscription to their favorite paper and pocket a book. Many of them are so pleased with the first one that they come back for a second. Quite a number have secured the whole series of eight.

One man sent in $2 by mail yesterday morning and wrote as follows: "Send me four more Buster books and I will continue reading St. John's best evening paper and also introduce the funniest known thing into their family and send their money by mail. Buster is not prejudiced against the post office department."

Many readers have already made Buster's acquaintance, and they will be interested in his new line of stunts.

These Buster Brown books, which are written by Rex Beach, beautifully illustrated, and have a richly illuminated cover in colors will be given only to subscribers to the Evening Times. If it is not possible for a subscriber to have the Times delivered anywhere in St. John, Carleton, Fairville, or Millford at 25c. per month.

PETER PRY SHEVLIN

Investing Your Savings--Stockholders and Their Rights.

During the last few weeks, economists and reformers have been appealing to the general public to take more interest in the proceedings of their corporations. In the midst of bitter tirades against financial strong-arm men, there is suspicious resemblance to the inventive leveled at the political bosses--though we totally forget to go to the polls election day and squelch them. In former case financial and political autocrats have made very hard the suffrage for well meaning but not very energetic citizens.

TRADE TALKS

Locomotive Engineer

Despite the fact that nearly every lit tle lad as soon as he is able to cry "choo-choo" has an ambition to be a railroad engineer, and despite the more practical fact that very high pay and constant employment is the portion of this craft, apprentice engineers are quite hard to find.

Peter Pry's Philosophy

Genius is win to patience. Education with one man is a sceptre; with another a soap bubble. A fool will always find a greater idiot to worship him.

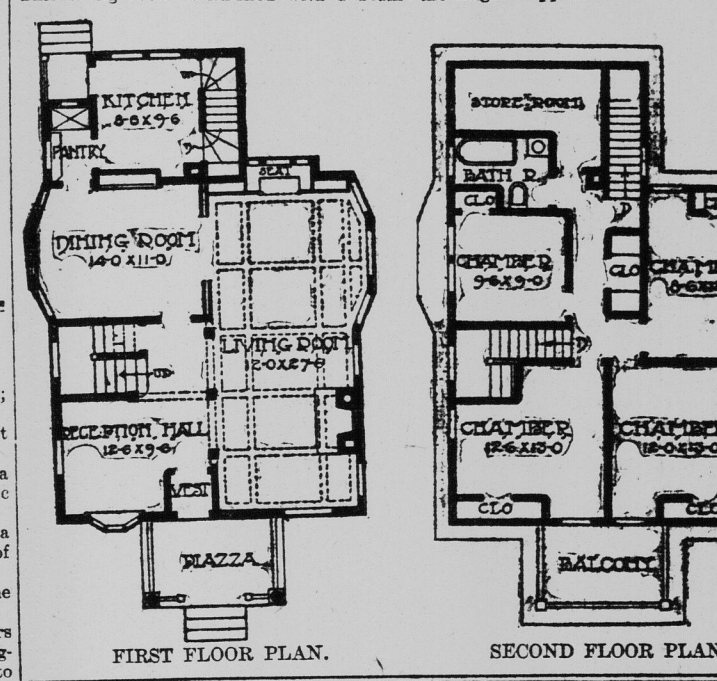

Rothchild Family Maxims

These embody the philosophy of the first Rothchild, who rose from a poverty-stricken peasant to a banker whose loans dictated the peace or war of empires.

A GABRIL ROOF COTTAGE

Designed by Chas. S. Sedgwick, Architect, Minneapolis.

This cottage is snug and compact, exceedingly well proportioned and is a house that would be adopted for a city lot or for the country village. In the construction as well as in a glance, all superficial ornamentation is left off.

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1907

FOREST SCENE IN ALASKA

With better understanding of the forest policy of our government, we are beginning to appreciate it at something like its worth. We shall come in time to realize that it involves the greatest and most far-reaching beneficence of the present period...

During the first century of our national existence we treated our forests as inexhaustible sources of supply and so vast is their extent that even today it is difficult to impress the people with the fact that only by careful husbanding and constant reforestation can the most serious consequences of timber shortage be avoided.

We have recklessly denuded vast areas so that entire states that fifty years ago were covered with forest are now desolate expanses of sage brush. The center of production has rapidly moved westward, and today the state from which we derive the greatest supply of lumber is on the Pacific Coast.

We have remaining somewhat more than 200,000,000 acres of timberland in the United States, but our consumption is stupendous and constantly increasing. The many substitutes for wood that are coming into use in 1907 the lumber product was valued at a little more than $90,000,000; last year it exceeded $90,000,000. Forty square miles of forest fall every day of the year. Our present stock of standing timber is 2,126,000,000 feet, and we are slicing out of it 38,000,000,000 feet annually.

The Government has been no less short-sighted than the private owner. Millions of acres of public woodland have been given away with prodigal generosity. Only in 1891 did the Government awake to the gravity of the situation and commence the system of forest reserves that has been gradually extended until now we have 150,000,000 acres of national forests valued at $1,200,000,000. It is only recently, however, that we have made any provision for taking care of this splendid property and turning it to the best account.

At the beginning of the century we had no forest experts and knew next to nothing about forestry. In the past few years we have built up a fine organization, including many very capable men and headed by one of the ablest foresters in the world. Under the direction of Clifford Pinchot our Forest Service has grown in five years from a petty division of the Department of Agriculture to an independent Bureau which is doing its great work on such economical and business-like lines that it bids fair to be self-supporting within the current decade. The receipts from timber sales for the fiscal year, 1906-07, were about $690,000, an amount less than $250,000 for the preceding year and less than $85,000 for 1904-05. The receipts from grazing, 1906-7, were $75,000. In the year ending June 30, 1904, the national forests yielded a total revenue of $80,000; in the past year, $1,350,000.

But the production of revenue is the least important of the benefits to be derived from the forests of the Forest Service. The future prosperity of the entire West and its permanency depends upon the conservation and proper management of our forest reserves. Private owners are making no attempt to prevent exhaustion of their woodlands, although the Service is ready and anxious to co-operate with them in doing so. It is inevitable that the national forests will at no very distant date become the main source of supply. The Service is bending its efforts towards placing itself in the best possible condition to meet that demand when it arises and in the meanwhile is making no effort to compete with private lumber dealers.

Furnishing and regulating grazing facilities are among the most important of the functions of the Forest Service. Formerly the grazing grounds were free and open without restriction. As a result they were ill used and frequently rendered unfit for long periods. Constant conflict prevailed between the sheep and the cattle men, entailing loss of human life and great damage to property. The small herds had no regular range, and were driven from pillar to post and might retaliate only at the risk of losing their lives. Under the present arrangements restriction is avoided and over-grazing is prevented. Each herd of cattle or flock of sheep is assigned to a particular area. Previous use of the range is considered, but preference is always given to settlers—those who are making homes and helping to develop the country—on a permanent basis. A moderate charge is made for the grazing privilege but the improved condition of the range is more than commensurate with it and stockmen in general are well pleased with the change. More than a million cattle and upwards of six millions sheep and goats were grazed in the reservation last year. Of the three major products of the forest—wood, forage and fuel—the fuel is by far the most important. We can afford a pinch do without wood for a great many purposes to which we now put it and we have the Canadian stores of timber to draw upon. Our stock is in no danger of suffering from inefficient food supply, though the cost of raising it may be substantially enhanced if our grasslands are neglected. But our water we must conserve or the most serious consequences will be entailed upon us. This is one of the most impelling considerations in our forest policy. Few persons have an adequate conception of it and it is carefully avoided in the sophistical discussions of the opponents of that policy, who view with dismay the setting apart of public lands for the use of the people.

Down the mountain slopes that lie within the forest reserves run many streams upon whose flow towns depend for their water supply. Factors for the most part unaccounted for in these streams are the silt and the mud from forested and un forested basins, alike in all other respects. The results show, under the former condition, sudden floods followed by low water; under the latter, a relatively equalized flow. If the Adirondacks forests should be suddenly wiped out half a hundred large towns and cities would become uninhabitable for lack of water.

Our Western States can not afford to overlook this consideration which is so intimately connected with its prospects of prosperity. The colossal work of the Reclamation Service is largely dependent upon it and could not have been undertaken without the assurance that the present only two scanty sources of water supply in the semi-arid states would be permanently guarded against injury. The results show, under the former condition, sudden floods followed by low water; under the latter, a relatively equalized flow. If the Adirondacks forests should be suddenly wiped out half a hundred large towns and cities would become uninhabitable for lack of water.

FOREST FIRE SWEEPING UP A MOUNTAIN WATERFALL IN CALIFORNIA COVERED WITH LODGEPOLE PINE

RANGER'S CABIN IN THE FOREST

be nothing short of suicidal to curtail a supply that can not, at the best, be equal to the demands which must ultimately be made upon it. The matter also touches the urgent question of transportation. We are turning to internal waterways as a relief from the hopeless congestion of our railroad systems and the next generation will witness a wonderful development in this direction.

This question of water supply in its relation to forests is bringing into constant and increasing prominence the advisability of the Government securing control by purchase of certain extensive areas in the east where there are no public lands in the possession of the United States. In European countries the necessity of the central government owning and managing timberlands has been recognized and acted upon. With us the urgency is even greater. Our system involves unusual complications. For example, in parts of the Southern Appalachians and the White Mountains, the most serious effects of forest destruction fall upon states other than those in which the damage is done. We have not yet arrived at the stage of altruism in which one state will refrain from an operation involving profit to itself on account of a coincident injury to some other state. The only remedy is central control and that we are in a fair way of bringing about.

The forest policy contemplates turning the land to the best account and devoting it to the best purpose to which it is adapted. The guiding principle of the administration, as laid down by congress, is that the reserves shall exist only to improve and protect the forest within the reservation, or for the purpose of securing favorable conditions of water flows, and to furnish a continuous supply of timber for the use and necessities of citizens of the United States; but it is not the purpose or intent of these provisions, or of the act providing for such reservations, to authorize the inclusion therein of lands more valuable for the mineral therein, or for agricultural purposes, than for forest purposes. This is a point about which wide spread misunderstanding has existed.

The policy of the forest service contemplates before everything the promotion of local interests, and these are jealously guarded against the aggression of corporate or moneyed interests. The "free use privilege" is granted liberally to settlers, farmers, prospectors, and others engaged in enterprises calculated to build up new country. It is also extended to school and road districts, churches, and cooperative organizations of settlers designed to carry out improvements, such as the construction of bridges, ditches, reservoirs, etc. for mutual or public benefit.

The talent and experience of the service are at the command of private individuals and corporations desiring to prosecute operations related to forestry. Any one wishing to set out a plantation or to intelligently treat existing woodland may secure advice and assistance. The office of forest products—a branch of the bureau—is engaged in experiments and in disseminating information as to the seasoning and preservative treatment of timber, the strength, mechanical qualities, commercial uses, of wood. It is also making researches with a view to ascertaining the adaptability of lumber to new purposes and of discovering new properties in it. This work is mainly pursued in conjunction with corporations that are directly interested in the results. Thus improved methods of preserving crochets and telegraph poles have recently been discovered and put into practice. Similar studies in connection with various woods for paving material promise to effect the greatest economies for our large municipalities.

A SPLENDID HOME RECIPE

Relieves Rheumatism and Anyone Can Easily Mix It at Home by Shaking Ingredients in Bottle.

Cut this out and put in some safe place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound kumar, one ounce; compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses are said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and send from the blood to the liver the worst forms of Rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extract dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and cures the blood.

As you or anyone of your family, especially the old folks, may be attacked at any time it would be wise to cut this out and save it.

A well-known druggist is authority that this prescription is safe to use at any time. Mix it yourself.

NO SKYSCRAPERS FOR THE CAPITAL

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—If possible the skyscraper is to be kept out of Ottawa. There is reason to believe that no building higher than seven stories will be built in Ottawa. At least not if the influence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier can prevent it. When the Grand Trunk plans for the new station were filed with the government recently, they showed twelve stories. Ten stories above the line of Sappers bridge and two stories below. Mr. Wainwright said that the building would be ten instead of 12 stories as the government insisted on the building being two stories less in height, and intimated that Sir Wilfrid had a strong objection to skyscrapers.

Sir Wilfrid, it is understood, objects to tall buildings, partly because they mar the artistic appearance of the city and consequently would not be in keeping with the government's general policy as regards making this the "Washington of the North" and partly because of the danger of fire.

At a meeting of the slaughter house commissioners yesterday the inspectors voted five to five officials. He took up the school question, pointing out that fifty cents was being paid in some cases for thirteen cents books and showed how in Ontario their condition was formerly the same as here. School books are now being sold for fifty per cent less, and this was due to

J. D. HAZEN CALLS THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT A KINDERGARTEN

Opposition Leader Speaking at Alma Says Premier Robinson is Bawking Portfolio of Attorney General Among His Legal Friends --- J. K. Flemming Also a Speaker.

Alma, N. B., Oct. 4.—The opposition meeting at Alma last night was a most pronounced success, the hall was crowded to the doors with an attentive and enthusiastic audience and the chair was occupied by Councillor Rommel, W. B. Dickson, the first speaker, was well received, but spoke briefly, saying he wished to give all the time to the other speakers.

Mr. Hazen found fault with the government for the way in which the important office of attorney-general was being hawked around among the legal profession and being refused by men who would not undertake the herculean task of attempting to restore a discredited administration in public esteem. He contrasted the government with the late administration, composed of Emerson, Tweedie, Pugsley and White, with the present administration and said its personality was so weak that when Mr. Pugsley resigned the leadership not a man in it was considered fit to be leader and that Mr. Robinson was called in. He had taken no part in the activities of the house and could find no man in the government ranks in the legislature with whom he considered fit for the attorney-generalship. He was relying on Mr. Pugsley to extricate from the present trouble and that gentleman was at present in consultation with him in St. John. No doubt when Mr. Pugsley decided what to do, Mr. Robinson would make an announcement of his intentions.

Mr. Hazen strongly condemned the policy of New Brunswick with its limited resources entering upon a policy of railroad ownership and management and stated that last year the province guaranteed the bonds of N. B. Central & Coal Railroad to the extent of $70,000 to pay the interest on the bonds already guaranteed. This was a piece of financial extravagance worthy of the pen of Thomas V. Lawson.

He contrasted the debt and interest charges in the year when the present government came in power with their position today. He also discussed the highway act and other acts of the government. From first to last he was listened to with the closest attention and his reference to the present government as belonging to the kindergarten class was heartily applauded.

J. K. Flemming, M. P. P., who appeared before an Albert county audience for the first time, made a splendid impression. He pointed out how lamentably the government's agricultural policy had failed to produce results and the falling off which had occurred in wheat raising and cheese products. Of the $260,000 voted for agricultural last year $9,000 had been given to five officials. He took up the school question, pointing out that fifty cents was being paid in some cases for thirteen cents books and showed how in Ontario their condition was formerly the same as here. School books are now being sold for fifty per cent less, and this was due to Society at Hot Springs, Virginia's Popular Resort.

THE CLUB HOUSE DURING TENNIS RECREATION.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 5.—For several days it has been necessary to attach extra cars to the regular train for this resort as travel has turned in this direction most decidedly. By leaving New York at five o'clock in the afternoon the traveller is here in time for breakfast without change. The cars are evidently intended for persons of luxurious tastes as they are composed entirely of private drawing rooms.

At Covington, twenty-five miles south of here, the Hot Springs cars are taken off the Chesapeake and Ohio train and pulled up the mountain by two engines. The scenery from Gordonsville, Va., to Hot Springs is beautiful, much of it being historical. Monticello, the old homestead of Thomas Jefferson, can be seen from the train on the daylight journey.

Both Mr. Fielding and himself had met with every hospitality. The relations between France and England were most cordial. As for the Franco-Canadian treaty he could say nothing for the moment. It was the first time Canadians had negotiated a treaty in their own country. A new era of autonomous emancipation was opening for Canada.

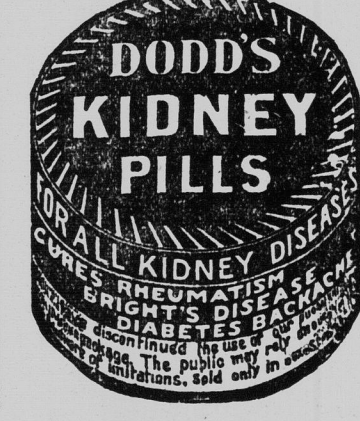

Before embarking for Canada, Messrs. Brodeur and Fielding were tendered a luncheon at Liverpool.

Many will be sorry to learn that Chief Justice Tuck was somewhat painfully injured last evening. Just when the storm was at its height about 5.30, he was alighting from a street car near Centenary church when he fell. His head hit the curbing and he was rendered unconscious. Inquiry at his home last night was met by the assurance that he had revived and would be around the house again today.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Hanson, of Fairville, were given a surprise last evening on the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, when a number of their friends met at their home, extending congratulations and wishing many happy returns of the day. They were the recipients of a number of pretty and appropriate gifts and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY GAINS ITS POINT

Mr. Justice McLeod has ordered the issue of a warrant of possession to put the National Transcontinental Railway into immediate possession of the required lands of 'Arsene' Bouchard, of Madawaska County, and to put down all resistance and opposition that might be made to taking such possession.
The honor also decided that the National Transcontinental was a governmental railway, and that the provisions of the general railway act requiring a deposit to be put up before the engineers, thinking themselves secure, entered upon the lands to begin operations. They were speedily driven off by the owner, however. The commission then commenced proceedings to obtain possession.
