TELEGRAPHIC NEWS OF INTEREST TO CANADIANS

TORONTO, June 25.—At Creighton mine near Sudbury, a Finlander wrought fearful vengeance on his faithful wife and her companion in sin. A man named Ristula returned from an absence at the mine and learned of his wife's wrongdoing. He nursed his wrong until he caught woman and paramour together when he instantly shot her in the head, killing her instantly. Herman Viek, the man in the case, also a Finlander, attempted to run away but Ristula shot him in the back killing him instantly. The maddened husband then turned the revolver on himself and the bodies of the three were stretched out within a few yards of each other.

TORONTO, June 25.—William Wallace was today appointed general manager of the Crown Life Insurance Co. He succeeds Chas. Hughes, who has resigned to take the position of examiner in the insurance department for the State of New York.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., June 25.—The village of Springdale on the M. C. Ry. 15 miles east of St. Thomas, suffered serious losses through fire early this morning. One side of the main street being destroyed. Chambers' department and hardware store, Ferris' barber shop and residence, Lamb's general store, Postmaster Chambers' store and barn were demolished, total loss $50,000.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 25.—Mrs. Reinhardt, wife of John Reinhardt, of Renfrew, near Ancaster, was found hanging in the barn this morning by her husband. The body was cold. Corner Brandon made an examination and found bruises on the body which caused suspicion of foul play. Crown Attorney Washington has ordered the chief constable to make an investigation and the coroner to hold an inquest. Deceased was 70 years of age.

LONDON, June 25.—Harold Cox, M. P., tomorrow will ask the Prime Minister whether a ministerial committee has been appointed to consider proposals for a subsidized steamship line between Great Britain and Canada. If so whether he can assure the House that the government will not assent to any proposal which conflicts either with recommendations of the select committee on steamships, or with pledges given by the Liberal party at the general election to promote economy in public expenditure, whether the committee had before it the Canadian proposition that the line be equipped in such manner that the perishable products of the Dominion may be landed in the mother country in the best condition, and whether it is part of the policy of the government to tax British and Irish farmers in order to enable competing Canadian produce to be carried across the Atlantic at less than commercial rates.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—A conference between Toronto Ry. employees and the company began today. The men are represented by Joe Gibbons, W. D. Robbins, Wm. Murray and Thomas Doolan, the company by Wm. MacKenzie, Fleming and Moore. The men are asking for an increase of six cents an hour and that only members of the union be employed.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—Stating in a resolution that they were convinced that Rev. M. D. Colman "was unworthy a minister of Christ," the Baptist council formally expelled him from the ministry of that church. Charges of immoral conduct had also been laid against Mr. Colman, and when these came up for investigation he offered no defence. It was also alleged that he had bought and sold mining stocks. The offending clergyman was ordained about five years ago and had charges at Brampton and St. Catharines.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 25.—The trans-continental railway commissioners today received four tenders for the construction of eight miles of road from a point near Chipman, N. B., eastward toward Moncton. They are from the Grand Trunk Pacific; M. J. O'Brien and Z. J. Fowler, Ottawa; W. Kitchen Company, Fredericton; J. W. McManus Company, Memramcook, N. B.

OTTAWA, June 25.—The new tariff which was put into operation last November has resulted in a reduction of the rate of duty. This is shown by a comparison of the amount of duty collected with the value of the imports for the six months period from December to May inclusive. The average rate of duty on all the imports entering Canada was 15.1 per cent, while under the old tariff, the rate for the corresponding six months of the year before was 15.1. On dutiable goods alone, the rate for the six months this year was 26.7 per cent, and the year before 27.5 per cent. The British preference which averaged 21.8 per cent, under the old tariff averages 21.5 per cent, duty under the new tariff.

It is understood that the Atlantic, Quebec and Western Railway Company have purchased the Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway Company Line

JURY IN THE DALHOUSIE SHOOTING AFFAIR PLACE BLAME ON GEORGE SEELY

DALHOUSIE, N. B., June 25.—The latest into the shooting affray was resumed at ten a. m. today.

Dr. August Martin, of Campbellton, who performed a post-mortem examination of the body of Peter Fontaine last Saturday, was the first witness called. He said in effect: "I found the body of the late Peter Fontaine in a normal state of putrefaction, after ten days of death. The left side of his abdomen, right and left side of the breast, right and left side of the body, and lumbar region were of a livid blue color, and dark blue. The face was also this color. Found two abrasions on the right leg, each about the size of a ten cent piece; another abrasion was about an inch below the knee cap on same leg; two abrasions were located on the left leg also. Found bullet wounds two in number, as formerly described by Dr. Dabrow, in his evidence.

Dr. Martin here described the wounds in detail, giving the medical phraseology. There was no sign of a third wound which a previous witness (John Spindler), who assisted Dr. Dabrow in his autopsy, swore, that in his opinion existed. The skull was not fractured, nor was there any appearance of blood within the brain matter.

Dr. Martin gave it as his opinion that death was caused by the wound in the heart, the severing of the superior vena cava, being the immediate cause of death.

"To the coroner—"I think the deceased was bending forward, or clipping up a stair when he received the fatal wound. It could not have been reversed while in an upright position unless the person firing the weapon was on a lower level. A man might be instantaneously after receiving such a wound, or might live one or two minutes.

James D. Harquail gave evidence as to the hearing of the warrant. The complainant was charged by O'Doyne, of Dalhousie. The offense was assault with a dangerous weapon. The men were dangerous to arrest and told Mr. Gallop to secure another man to assist him. He, however, did not warn Gallop, but merely said in answer to Mr. Gallop's suggestion, "Don't you think I had better get a man to go with me?" "Yes, I think you had better." This closed the evidence. Mr. W. A. Trueman, solicitor for the Crown, then addressed the jury and was followed by Coroner Ferguson. The jury retired at 2:40 and at the time of writing was still in consultation. A large crowd of interested spectators are eagerly awaiting the verdict.

The jury retired at 3:30, and reported at 8 o'clock the following verdict: "We find that the said Peter Fontaine came to his death from a bullet discharged into his body from a revolver in the hands of George Seely, a peace officer, while executing or attempting to execute a warrant for the arrest of the said Peter Fontaine, but we cannot agree whether there was any criminality on the part of the said George Seely in the act or not."

Mr. Lavigne spoke briefly, congratulating the coroner and jury for the way the investigation had been conducted. In this he was seconded by Mr. Trueman.

CHILD DIED WHILE FATHER WAS AT CONFERENCE

SALISBURY, N. B., June 25.—When Rev. A. E. Chapman, B. A., of Murray Harbor, (P. E. I.), reached his father's residence at Salisbury last evening, on his way home to the island from the Methodist conference at St. Stephen, he received the sad news that his youngest child, aged eighteen months, had died during his absence. The body of the little one will be brought over to Salisbury from the island for burial, and the funeral will probably take place on Wednesday. Much sympathy is felt here for the bereaved parents, both of whom are natives of Salisbury. Mrs. Chapman being a niece of Dr. George H. Parkin.

INTERESTING WORK BY DEAF MUTES

Closing Exercises of Deaf and Dumb School Yesterday.

Pupils Gave Remarkable Exhibition, Showing Their Efficient Training Under Principal Hansell.

The closing exercises of the Lancaster School for the Deaf and Dumb were held in the Opera House yesterday afternoon, a large number of the friends of the school and of those interested in the work of the institution being present.

Principal Hansell then proceeded with a demonstration of the work done and methods employed in all the classes from the lower to the highest grades.

Questions were asked by persons in the audience and then written on a blackboard for the scholars to read.

Some one student of a class was required to answer the question, and did so on the blackboard in plain view of all.

In this way questions on geography, arithmetic, history and English branches were asked and answered, many of the answers given by the pupils being astonishingly well given.

A very interesting example of this kind of work was the demonstration of the method of teaching deaf and dumb children to sound the different vowels and consonants of the alphabet.

Different letters were placed on the board and their sounds were correctly given by the dumb children. Sentences were written for one or two of the most advanced pupils in this department and were repeated so that they could be understood.

A number of students were given slates to write essays on various subjects, a number of them being read by the principal to the audience.

In all the classes the scholars showed an accurate knowledge of the work covered by the principal. Especially they showed a good general knowledge of events of public interest taking place at the present day.

After this part of the program was concluded the boys of the school, conducted by Mr. Hansell, gave a dumb drill as an example of their physical training.

TWO GREAT OPPONENTS OF GLADSTONE IN 1885 WERE STRICKEN AT SAME TIME

LONDON, June 23.—Enquiries made into this afternoon by the Standard correspondent show that Mr. Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire, both of whom lie dangerously ill, are still in a critical condition.

Both were originally Liberals; both held office under Mr. Gladstone; both broke with and fought the "Grand Old Man" on the Irish Home Rule issue; both became leaders of the great Unionist party; both held office in the Unionist Government over the successive administrations of Lord Salisbury and Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour; both left the Unionist Government over the great issue of fiscal reform, Mr. Chamberlain to do battle with his characteristic vigor for tariff reform, and preference to the Colonies; the Duke to champion, with his accustomed determination and solidity, the traditional free trade policy of Great Britain, and finally both are stricken down almost simultaneously with what many fear may turn out to be a mortal illness in both cases.

AN ADMIRABLE TRIBUTE. Tributes to Mr. Chamberlain appear in the papers all over the United Kingdom. The London Daily Telegraph, for instance, this morning says:

"In the heart of a true Briton, a lover of the name and fame of his country, there is one man who today takes precedence over all others. That man is the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain."

"Mr. Chamberlain's achievements in the realm of statesmanship have been many, and towering above everything else is his great work for the preservation and consolidation of the British Empire."

"It is a fact of history that up to Mr. Chamberlain's appointment as Colonial Secretary little had been done to foster a good understanding between the mother country and her children across the seas."

"Now what do we see? Each day the various organs of this great Empire are drawing closer and closer together, and the cause of this admirable state of affairs is the assiduous devotion to the duties of his office, and the farseeing and skilful manner in which he has conducted his office."

"The most powerful man of his day in the British Empire," was the summing up of a former colleague in the last Unionist Government in speaking of Mr. Chamberlain today.

"History, I believe," he continued, "will verify the view of the great statesman of imperialism. It may be true that the statute book is not heavy with his achievements in the way of mere legislation. But, on the other hand, there is the defeat of Irish Home Rule, the influence in all directions which he has had on Conservative legislation for years past. There is the Transvaal war, and the bold and masterly policy of a personal visit to South Africa."

"No, it is impossible to depict Mr. Chamberlain, whether you like him or not, in any light but that of the very able man. He did the thing. This is the real test and proof of ability, and none other."

"Those whose life dream has been the federation of the British Empire would desire to see the work carried through by a man possessing the qualities of character and mind which constitute greatness."

"Mr. Chamberlain is that man, but it is melancholy to think that at this juncture the Empire may be bereft of this great and patriotic statesman."

HIS STRENUOUS LIFE. The London Daily Mail, in paying tribute to Mr. Chamberlain this morning, says:—"Carlyle, casting about for a charitable thing to say of Philippe Orleans, discovered that, at any rate, he had the virtue to keep living for forty-five years. Mr. Chamberlain has improved on that by over a quarter of a century, and how splendid has been the strenuousness of his life! He lived it through and through. He drank delight of action to the dregs. He is so keen in all he takes up, so ardent for the fray. Many must be the good men who kindled with him at the start, whose fires have now burned low, slipped into ashes. With Mr. Chamberlain the glow has remained to the last."

There is news that tends to disqualify. Time that tones and melows the brand new in reputation as in art, that can turn the garish into chaste, may have worked a change in this policy by fifty or a hundred years from now. And the historian then may find a place for Joseph Chamberlain among those great ones of the earth, each occupying his pinnacle lonely and solemn.

THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE. The real epoch in the life of the Duke of Devonshire, one of the most dramatic episodes of British Parliamentary history. After the great Conservative victory of 1874, which gave him office, Gladstone intimated that he could not continue to lead the Liberal party as before. He intended his retirement to be gradual, but he made it definite at the beginning of the next year. The Liberals in the House of Commons had to choose a successor, and the first name suggested was William Edward Forster. Forster had rendered the country a great public service by his Education Act. He had, moreover, opposed the militant Nonconformists, especially his old colleague, John Bright, and Bright took up, to the immense diversion of the cynical world, the cause of every body who knew, gave way, and Lord Hartington was unanimously elected. It was indeed a quiet conquest, and a comical situation. The Disraelites turned from the grave, solemn, conscientious Quaker, who had been expelled from the Society of Friends for marrying Dr. Arnold's daughter, to the racing, sporting, easy-going man of the world, a nominal Churchman, an unorthodox Whig, who regarded sectarian squabbles with an indifference to which he could not be brought to equal to his duties, and he discharged them with an untiring efficiency. No British public man of our time has thought either his party or his country. His policy was deliberate, negligent, and unscrupulous. He inherited from his father, as all the more did he never resign. He did say never failed to hit the point.

HIS BREAK WITH GLADSTONE. Twenty years ago Lord Hartington might have been Prime Minister. He preferred, at a supreme national crisis, to support what he considered to be a wrong cause as an unofficial volunteer.

Lord Hartington never betrayed the smallest jealousy or resentment towards Gladstone, having since his retirement from the leadership of the Opposition five years before, become Prime Minister in 1885. He had no sympathy with the man with which he had no sympathy. It was too subtle and complex for him. Throughout the life of Gladstone's stress subsided in by Gladstone's conversion to Irish Home Rule, Lord Hartington's temper was imperceptibly changed. He had no sympathy with Gladstone's policy, but he had no sympathy with Gladstone's policy. He had no sympathy with Gladstone's policy, but he had no sympathy with Gladstone's policy.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Works last evening, it was decided that the government should be urged to allow both the large dredges to work on the site for the 800 feet berth. Hurd Peters, consulting engineer, who had been temporarily appointed director of public works, was given an increase of $60 a month for a long time as he performed the double duties.

The recommendation to appoint a committee to consider the question of organizing the work of the street officials and other departments, was carried.

Common clerk Wardrop was directed to inform the C. P. R. and St. John Milling Co. that consideration had been deferred in regard to payment of Union street damages.

A letter from William Downie, superintendent of the C. P. R., was read, urging the necessity of increasing the width and depth of berths No. 2 and 3 at Sand Point. He states the berths were to be 120 feet wide and 30 feet deep, but were only 60 feet wide and so shallow that several C. P. R. steamships had grounded there.

It was decided to use the city dredge in connection with the dredging of slips at Sand Point.

A sub-committee appointed some time ago reported that the charge for the storage of coal at the McLeod wharf warehouse would be fifteen cents a ton inside, and 10 cents a ton outside, and five cents extra after ten days storage. The report was adopted. This increase, which is five cents a ton, will, says Aid. Bullock, give the city an increase of $100,000 a year in revenue.

Considerable discussion was indulged in by the members regarding the best way of obtaining a new directory of the aldermen were in favor of advertising in the engineering journal, others felt there were too many good men at home, and Aid. Hamm felt they had had enough to do just outside engineers, giving the work performed on the Ludlow and water extension examples. Aid. Lewis told how glad he was to see those who had opposed ex-director Cushing in a hole to replace him, as a better man could not be got.

Director Peters informed the board that the Clark wharf time was completed in three weeks time.

TRUE BILLS FOUND AGAINST WILBUR, FLAVIN AND PROCTOR

DORCHESTER, N. B., June 23.—The postponed trial of the county court opened today, Judge Forbes presiding in the place of Judge Wells, absent in Europe on leave. The grand jury found true bills against Priest Wilbur of Moncton for assault on his wife; against Proctor, a convict for whom he was against James Flavin, Moncton, for robbery. Proctor was found guilty. He defended himself and admitted the crime at some length. Wilbur also defended himself, likewise addressing the jury. He was found guilty. The Liberais in the House of Commons had to choose a successor, and the first name suggested was William Edward Forster. Forster had rendered the country a great public service by his Education Act. He had, moreover, opposed the militant Nonconformists, especially his old colleague, John Bright, and Bright took up, to the immense diversion of the cynical world, the cause of every body who knew, gave way, and Lord Hartington was unanimously elected. It was indeed a quiet conquest, and a comical situation. The Disraelites turned from the grave, solemn, conscientious Quaker, who had been expelled from the Society of Friends for marrying Dr. Arnold's daughter, to the racing, sporting, easy-going man of the world, a nominal Churchman, an unorthodox Whig, who regarded sectarian squabbles with an indifference to which he could not be brought to equal to his duties, and he discharged them with an untiring efficiency. No British public man of our time has thought either his party or his country. His policy was deliberate, negligent, and unscrupulous. He inherited from his father, as all the more did he never resign. He did say never failed to hit the point.

BOARD OF WORKS.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Works last evening, it was decided that the government should be urged to allow both the large dredges to work on the site for the 800 feet berth. Hurd Peters, consulting engineer, who had been temporarily appointed director of public works, was given an increase of $60 a month for a long time as he performed the double duties.

YESTERDAY WAS A SCORCHER IN THE EASTERN STATES.

Intense Heat Caused Many Prostrations — Heavy Lightning Storms Followed — Several Persons Killed — Much Damage Done.

BOSTON, Mass., June 23.—Death and extreme discomfort throughout Massachusetts and Northern New England attended the eighth day of the present severe hot wave. Today was not the hottest of the season, but the most uncomfortable with the humidity at 87 degrees above normal. The river valleys of New Hampshire and Southern Maine received temporary relief from the oppressive heat by severe thunder storms which, however, brought death and destruction in their track.

At least two deaths and probably another fatality, with about two scores of prostrations were charged to the weather today. Edward S. Hathaway, one of the Mystic Shriners, who participated in yesterday's big parade in Boston, fell a victim to the heat today following his sufferings from yesterday's exposure to the sun.

In Berwick, Maine, Mrs. Herbert W. Johnson, formerly of Arlington, Mass., was struck by lightning and instantly killed, while Henry Charette, of Somersworth, N. H., was buried from his wounds by lightning.

The unenviable distinction of being the hottest place on Uncle Sam's weather map, with a temperature in the middle of the afternoon of 87, while the thermometer lower than the previous temperature of the present hot wave and seven degrees below the normal, was broken June temperature of 1874, the abnormal humidity, coupled with the severe strain of the past eight days upon the public health, caused many prostrations. Up to midnight July 25 prostrations had been reported to the police.

So intense was the discomfort that in Cambridge and Somerville the schools were closed and in Boston large and manufacturing establishments throughout Northern New England and Massachusetts were closed down for half a day.

York, Maine, also felt the effects of the Pecosca storm. Lightning struck a cottage occupied by M. Bell and Mrs. J. E. Wheatland, both of Boston, but the resulting fire was extinguished with little loss, and all the occupants escaped unharmed.

Southern New England did not suffer quite so severely as the northern portions, although Providence, R. I., obtained but little relief during the night when the mercury slipped down six degrees to 83. Newport, R. I., kept up its reputation for coolness and reported conditions there foggy and cool.

The river valleys of New Hampshire and southwestern Maine were breeding places for the worst electrical storms of the season. The most serious was in the Pecosca Valley, Somersworth, N. H., and Berwick, Maine, suffering severely, where Mrs. Johnson was killed by lightning and Henry Charette was probably fatally injured.

The storm struck furiously down the valley, striking Providence with great force and doing much damage. Lightning struck two transformers of the Rockingham Light and Power Company. Six houses on E. street railway supplied with power by this company. One street car was struck at E. street and no one was injured. The street cleared the atmosphere.

The Merrimack Valley was another breeding-place for a heavy thunder storm. Six houses on E. street railway supplied with power by this company. One street car was struck at E. street and no one was injured. The street cleared the atmosphere.

Little relief is promised for tomorrow. SOMERSWORTH, N. H., June 23.—During a severe thunder shower which raged over this city and vicinity late this afternoon, Henry Charette, a teamster, was rendered unconscious and will probably die, and Mrs. Herbert W. Johnson, who lived in Berwick, Maine, was instantly killed.

Charette was crossing the main bridge from Berwick to Somersworth and had arrived at a point about 30 feet from the Somersworth end when he was hurled from his seat on the wagon by a flash of lightning. The hair about his right temple and at a point at the back of his head had been removed cleanly as if with a razor, but curiously enough there was no sign of a burn.

Mrs. Johnson lived on a farm about three miles from Berwick village on the Center Lohan road. The family was moving today from one house to another on the same farm and the five children had gone to the new home while Mrs. Johnson remained at the old one to make some final preparations for leaving when the shower burst. After it was over she was found dead on the floor of one of the rooms.

CHENE, Mass., June 23.—Five prostrations, four of which are considered serious and one possibly fatal resulted in this city today from the intense heat. The thermometer on the streets registered 93 degrees during the day and the night brought little relief, for at midnight it was 78. Mrs. Mary Welch, overcome by the heat, fell in front of a heavy two-horse farm wagon and received injuries which it is expected will prove fatal.

NEGLECTANCE CAUSED MICHAEL GILLEN'S DEATH

The inquest into the death of Michael Gillen, killed at the new Royal Bank building by being crushed by a vault door, was concluded last evening. The jury brought in the following verdict: "While we deplore the sad accident and the loss to the family, connections and friends of deceased, from the deposition of those engaged on the structure, testimony in the hands of Coroner Berman—before whom inquest has been carefully held—"

"We find that the workmen engaged on the vault door did not take the proper precautions to keep the blocking up to the brick work, causing the accident and death of said Michael Gillen."

John Stanton, stone cutter, said when Gillen was being removed from under the door, he heard him say: "Oh the door fell on me," and "What did you push it over me for?" Dr. Frazer of the hospital said that Gillen was alive and conscious when he arrived there.

Mr. Mullin announced that he would commence a suit against the company on the ground of negligence.

MARKED FISH IN THE SEA

Thousands of Them Caught, Numbered and Put Back in British Channel.

Catching fish, measuring and marking them and then returning them to the sea with the chance of retaking them later in part of the work carried on by the Marine Biological Association of Great Britain.

By means of a steam trawler the fish are caught in the usual way. Each haul is carefully recorded, the fish are counted and measured and all details of locality, time, number, species, sex and size are put down, together with accurate observations on the water, the depth and bottom of the sea, the kinds and quantity of food available, etc. These data are subsequently tabulated and charted.

The method of marking the fish is interesting and has been attended with valuable results. The fish chiefly used during the few years of the experiment has been in progress which have been because the proposals which have been made to interfere with the catching of them were based on inadequate knowledge.

The fish are marked on the dorsal fin with a very thin convex metal disk bearing a number. This is attached to fine silver wire which is passed through the thinner part of the fin near the fin and secured on the inside by a small bone button. The fish do not appear to suffer inconvenience and their growth is not interfered with in any way.

The thoroughness with which the North Sea is swept by the nets of the fishing fleets is demonstrated, says Discovery, by the fact that out of 5,033 marked plaice of all sizes 992 were recaptured within a year. This represents 19 1/2 per cent, or nearly one-fifth; but for the medium sized fish the figures are far higher, ranging from 24 to 39 per cent, for the whole of the North Sea and to 43 per cent in the more northern portions.

In the evening between forty and fifty friends assembled at their home, and Mrs. McElwaine's brother, Thomas Lunney, of Greenhead, presented the host and hostess with a fine Morris chair, the gift of relatives and friends. Other gifts in silver and china were received, and the evening was pleasantly spent with dancing and games. Supper was served at midnight. Mrs. Daniel Lanney, of Greenhead, mother of Mrs. McElwaine, was present. There were also four sisters, and a number of twenty-six grandchildren of Mrs. Lunney.

SOLDIERS ROBBED

A ROTHSAY STORE

Train Stopped There Yesterday and Men Helped Themselves in J. R. Robertson's Place

When one of the trains taking the soldiers to Sussex arrived at Rothsay yesterday some of the boys, or men, indeed, jumped out and made their way to the post office and small general store kept by J. R. Robertson and took charge of the place.

Mr. Robertson was out, but a young man was in charge who could do nothing to check the soldiers. They took whatever they could lay their hands on, and went off with pickles, candy, beer, etc., without saying by your leave or paying for the stuff.

There is much indignation in Rothsay that such an outrage was possible under the circumstances, and a declaration that Mr. Robertson should not suffer this loss. Where the officers were is a mystery.

Robertson's store is about fifty yards from the track and is a neat and well ordered place. The soldiers, it is stated, belonged to the 1st regiment. At any rate they were on the train that reached Rothsay just before the Atlantic express.

TOMORROW'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The Enterprise Dramatic Club's entertainment to be given at the Every Day Club Hall tomorrow evening, bids fair to be one of the best amateur dramatic events of the season. A special rehearsal was held last night and the members of the club will go through the three funny comedettes once more this evening. Every attention will be given to stage settings, and no detail will be overlooked. In addition to the dramatic part of the programme a number of musical and literary numbers will be given. Tickets are selling rapidly, and chances are that the hall will be packed to the doors.

MURPHY-HAZEN.

A very pretty wedding took place at 4 o'clock, Wednesday, June 26th, at St. John The Baptist church, when James Murphy was united in marriage to Miss Mary Hazen by the Rev. W. C. Gaynor.

The bride was attired in a beautiful dress of white silk and hat to match. Miss Mamie Murphy, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, and wore cream serge with black hat. Joseph McDevitt, cousin of the groom, supported the groom.

Many beautiful and costly presents were received. From the employees of the James Ready Co. Ltd., came a rocker, table and couch.

THE HALF HOLIDAY.

To the Editor of The Star:
Sir,—As the season for the half holiday is nigh at hand it occurs to me that it would be a good thing to get the consensus of opinion on this matter, the Saturday half holiday having proved a failure after two years' trial. Now, might it not be better to give some other day a trial. The writer was instrumental some years ago in starting and carrying to a successful issue a Friday half holiday, which became general, the grocers and many others joining in the movement. The weather was fine every Friday that season. If a day suitable could be arranged to suit the public generally when all could join in for the slice season the summer months say, July August and September—even a whole day would not hurt anyone—and would conduce to the good health of many.

Thanking you for this timely notice, I am,

OBSERVE THE ANNIVERSARY OF ENGLISH OCCUPATION.

Sept. 20th 1908 is the Date—Historical Society to Consider Plans—A Sketch of That Interesting Period

It is quite probable that the 150th anniversary of the first settlement effected by the English speaking people on the St. John river, which takes place on the 20th of September, 1908, will be fittingly observed. A few years ago the Historical Society directed the attention of the public to the anniversary of the discovery of the St. John harbor. This anniversary was celebrated in a very creditable manner. At the last meeting of the society, the attention of the members was called to another anniversary which stands nearly midway between the discovery of the St. John harbor in 1611 and the present day. This is the 150th anniversary of the English occupation.

On the 20th of September, 1758, the first English settlement was made on the shores of the harbor. Col. Robert Monckton, who was with Wolfe at the taking of Louisburg, was sent to the river St. John with a strong force, consisting mostly of New England troops, with the 33rd Regiment of Light Infantry and a battalion of the 60th Royal American Regiment. A party of Indians along with some of the French, opposed Monckton's landing, but they were soon subdued by the strong force of New Englanders, and they abandoned the old fort (which can be at present seen in Carleton Place). Monckton's party numbered from 1,200 to 1,500 men. They landed in boats at the old fort. About 9 o'clock in the morning of September 20th, 1758, two regiments were to be seen encamped in rear of the Old Fort, and the infantry and rangers were stationed on a hill in the rear. A little later, the expedition proceeded up the river with the intention of destroying all the settlements farther up the river. The English a firm foothold on the St. John river. Under his protection the first settlement was established on the shore by Capt. Peabody and others, about the year 1762. About the same time, a settlement was established at Maudersville on the river.

There are three notable anniversaries connected with St. John—the discovery of the river, the founding of the city by the Loyalists and the anniversary of the first settlement effected by the English on the river. The two former occasions have been duly honored, but the last anniversary named has not been observed. As the 150th anniversary approaches the Historical Society will take up the matter.

WILL RESUME TRAFFIC ON THE WALL STREET BRIDGE

At the meeting of the board of works last night, Ald. Pickett brought up the question of the interference of traffic on the Wall street bridge. This morning Ald. McGoldrick, Ald. Pickett and Engineer Peters waited on I. C. R. terminal superintendent Ross. As a result of their conference, it has been arranged that light traffic will be resumed at once over the bridge. It will only be interfered with when the workmen are placing the heavy iron parts. This will be a great convenience to the public.

The same committee also saw Mr. Ross about the matter of the threatened destruction of a number of large trees on Forest street. Mr. Ross informed the aldermen that the railway had no intention of destroying the trees. Improvements and alterations are to be made in the I. C. R. yard, and a large landing platform built there, but the trees will be preserved.
