The clearance sale of the Parliam Store, 47 Brussels street will last for two days more. Don't fail to attend it. It is a money saving opportunity. The more you buy the more you save. Come now, The Parliam Store, 47 Brussels. It is sufficient for some people that they drink anything called tea. Others prefer a standard brand like "Salada," which has a reputation for being good. The letter got more enjoyment out of life. In buying tea for the satisfaction you expect to get from its use, it will pay to purchase "Salada." Avoid anything "just as good." Imitations are invariably of poor quality. Col. C. J. and Mrs. Stewart are celebrating the 60th anniversary of their wedding today. In this connection the following appeared in the Recorder, of September 11, 1883: (At Church, Windsor, on Thursday, 2nd September, by the Rev. George Townsend, A. M., Rector of Amherst, Charles James Stewart, Esq., Barrister, son of the Hon. Judge Stewart, C. B., to Amelia Isabel McKinlay, youngest daughter of Harry King, Esq., D. C. L., Barrister—Recorder. The sale of blankets advertised in this issue by M. R. A. Ltd., is possibly the most attractive bargain event introduced by the big house for many a day, as it comes just prior to the Exhibition rush when nearly every home in town will have its quota of visitors and at a season closely approached by winter. The blankets in question are some cases slightly defective—a mere ragged edge or such—but to offset this price have been cut to the minimum. Read the adv. and early at the sale for there are only 500 pairs in the lot. Mr. Riel, who is stopping at the St. John Hotel, met with a painful accident early this morning, falling on the street and badly injuring his arm. Mr. Riel is acting as foreman on the Courtney Bay bridge, and early this morning he left the hotel, not feeling very well. After reaching the walk outside he fell forward on his face and received a long cut in his elbow which bled profusely and caused the injured man much pain. At first it was thought that his arm was broken, but upon the arrival of Dr. Berryman it was found that he had fortunately escaped a serious injury, although the wound received was by no means trivial. Speaking with a reporter for The Sun last evening, J. R. Stone, commissioner on the Central Railway, said that between 80 and 100 cars of coal were being taken from the Belleville pit daily. A large number of men are at work at the pit and at various places along the road. About fourteen miles of road on the Belleville-Norton section of the road has already been ballasted and the men will cease operations there this week, after which they will start on the north side of the railway. Mr. Stone asserts that where the ballasting has been completed there is indeed a great improvement. The other branches of the road are also in good condition. James Rockfield, a farmer who lives near Hampton, met with a painful accident in St. John yesterday afternoon and was taken home on the evening train. The man, who was somewhat intoxicated, arrived with several others in St. John on the afternoon train. They spent considerable time in cutting up corners on Mill street. Finally Rockfield climbed into a wagon which was passing. After succeeding in getting into the box he lost his balance and fell backward on to the street, where he lay for some time seemingly unconscious. A severe cut was inflicted in the back of his head and his face was somewhat bruised. He was taken into the I. C. R. station by some friends and afterwards placed on board the train for home. The pilgrims party of Canton Malden, No. 55, I. O. O. F., of Malden, Mass., arrived in the city last evening. The party is 20 strong and left Boston on Friday last coming via Yarmouth and stopping at Digby. At Kentville on the way from Yarmouth they were met by representatives of the local lodges and presented with specially prepared souvenirs. The Hatfield Oddfellows are entertaining them here and this afternoon will lunch them at the Wagonette Club and take them for a trip on the Arm. Tomorrow the visitors will do the Provincial Exhibition and they will leave Friday, spending part of Saturday at Yarmouth and going from there to Boston. Some of the Oddfellows of the party are in uniform.—Echo.

WILL SOON BRING ACT INTO FORCE

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—It is expected that by the end of the present month all arrangements will have been completed for the bringing into operation of the law passed last session providing for the sale of government old age annuities. It is the intention of Sir Richard Cartwright, who is the Minister in charge of the new departure, to conduct an educational campaign throughout Canada by means of public lectures to be delivered by agents specially selected from the public as to the interest and utility of this progressive scheme of government insurance against the risk of penury in old age. Return of 4 Per Cent. The government is prepared to guarantee a return of four per cent. compound interest on the premiums paid in to purchase an annuity at time of maturity. In case of death prior to the time the annuity matures the interest rate guaranteed is three per cent. and the purchaser is assured of a full return of all moneys paid in with interest compound at the above rates. The government assumes the whole cost of operation of the act and the interest returns to the investor have been calculated on that basis. The public is already showing a considerable interest in the scheme, and S. T. Bastedo, the superintendent of the annuity branch of the Trade and Commerce Department, is daily receiving letters of inquiry as to conditions on which annuities can be purchased. It is proposed to issue literature shortly detailing the advantages of the government annuities and giving full information as to interest returns, method of purchase, etc. Postmasters throughout the country will be instructed to receive premium payments as soon as the act comes into force by proclamation of the government. First applications for annuities must be made direct to the department in Ottawa. SUFFRAGE. "Oklahoma has won an enviable reputation for launching new ideas and carrying them with their influences to the farthest section of the country, and the club women have resolved upon a campaign that will lead to the adoption of a resolution by the General Federation of Clubs demanding laws in every State that will permit women to hold directorships of institutions that teach their children. Mrs. Michael Conlan, of Lindsay, secretary of the board of education that town, the organizer and first president of the Indian Territory Federation of Women's Clubs, is the federation's delegate to the General Federation meeting at Boston, and at that meeting the new idea will be launched. Mr. Asquith surrenders—partially at least—and changes his attitude of determined hostility toward equal rights for women to one of "cool neutrality." The defeat of the government candidates at thirteen successive by-elections in which the cause opposed by the suffragists is having its effect. A friend, just returned from Egypt and Palestine, found nothing there so noticeable as the absolute non-existence of women in social, industrial and religious life. They are not considered; not even named. Ask a man how many children he has—he names only his boys—the girls are not included in his estimate. It is the same everywhere throughout the Orient, and the Orient contains a majority of the human race. Among the swarming millions of Asia and Africa—in Turkey, Arabia, Persia, India, China and Japan, in Morocco, Egypt, Tunis and the Sudan, woman has no social status whatever. She is being secluded and excluded from all public or semi-public activities. Yet there, as here, there are women "ants" who hug their chins and resist innovation, complaining to come into the world as they are. This fact explains the immobility which, for countless centuries has characterized great bodies of the human race. Where half the race is stationary the other half cannot advance, since, as Tennyson well says, "The woman's cause is man's; they rise or sink together." As in the physical world, there can be no offspring in a community of celibates, so in the mental and moral world, where only one sex is represented, stagnation ensues. SUFFRAGE. The Massachusetts fishing schooner Miranda arrived in port last night for repairs. She had been fishing on the western bank, when during a blow her rudder casing started to leak and she headed for Halifax. She was leaking pretty badly when she arrived and she went on the marine slip this morning. The Miranda is commanded by Capt. Greenleaf and had been hand lining from the deck.—Echo. R. L. Borden, K. C., has sold his handsome residential property "Pinehurst," Quinpool Road, to Robert Pickford. "Pinehurst" is one of the prettiest residential properties in the vicinity of the North West Arm and commands a beautiful view. It was formerly owned and occupied by Mr. Pickford, who sold it to Mr. Borden. At present it is occupied by Mr. MacGillivray, Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.—Echo. DEERBONO, Ont., Sept. 2.—During an electric storm last night the smelting works owned by the Deseronto Iron Company were struck by lightning and totally destroyed. The fire broke out in the charcoal shed, which was being built for the purpose of storing a large supply of charcoal. The loss is $100,000.

DIARY OF A LADY-IN-WAITING.

Diaries are usually dreaded affairs. Unless they accurately and interestingly reflect the character of the times with which they deal, they die—if, in fact, they can ever be said to have lived—upon the persons who write them. But when someone comes forward with a collection of letters from Royal personages, there is a light that beats upon the throne is irresistibly attractive. "The Diary of a Lady-in-Waiting," by Lady Charlotte Bury, "illustrates the times of George the Fourth, and gives what no other book does—of the times of the curious and undignified Court of Caroline, Princess of Wales, at home and abroad." From the facts it records about the life of the Princess, in spite of her continual indiscretions, and feeling the deepest sorrow at the continual persecution she experienced at the hands of the despicable Prince Regent, the first gentleman in Europe, one cannot, like the writer herself, help compassionating the unfortunate Princess of Wales, whose Court it describes. Nor can one fail to reprobate his mother, "The Good Queen Charlotte," of whose extraordinary harsh conduct towards her daughter-in-law and Princess Caroline we get some very striking instances, entirely on a par with her harsh rule, which caused all her sons to revolt, and her unfeeling attitude within her family circle itself. CONFESSIONS OF A PRINCESS. The poor Princess gives a detailed account of her unhappy marriage and the circumstances which brought it about. "To tell you the God's truth" (a favorite expression of hers), "I always hated it; but to oblige my father, anything."

There are several references to Lady Hamilton in the book. One relates that a gentleman passing along Picaresque saw a crowd of people at Sir W. Hamilton's door, where they were putting the coffin into the hearse; but seeing every body looking up at the window, he looked also, and there was to be seen Lady Hamilton in all the wilfulness of her grief. Some say that she was affected; others that she was natural. At last as the gentleman was leaving, he saw a motley group, some of whom were crying and others laughing, he heard a child go up to its mamma and say, "Ma, mamma, don't cry, pray don't cry; for they say as how it's all sham!" Another gentleman friend went to call upon Lady Hamilton, who had not seen him since Sir William's death. On entering the room she burst into a fit of tears and cried out, "Alas! my dear friend, the gentleman made some remark upon the occasion, and she replied, 'Alas! he's gone—four o'clock this morning!' At this, the gentleman stared knowing Sir William had been dead for months. He discovered that "his gone" alluded to Lord Nelson, who had that morning gone to his ship. Being a great friend of Sir William's, the gentleman felt provoked and hurt, and left the room without attempting to give her any consolation.

IS THE ACTOR INFLUENCED BY HIS ROLES?

Joseph Selman is one of the most temperamental of the younger actors, and is a splendid actor of refined tastes. He has just concluded a season of forty weeks as "Will O' the Wisp" in "The Road to Yarmouth," and was so successful from all standpoints that a theatrical manager of note, offered him a five years' contract, to continue in stroller roles. His artistic and intelligent portrayal of the many parts, has won him great praise, and at once established him as an actor of quality and unusual promise. Mr. Selman expects to play in some of the best plays of the day, and has surrounded himself with one of the finest stock companies now before the public. Mr. Selman, when seen at his apartments today, was asked if the repeated playing of parts influenced in any degree, the private life of an actor—said, "to an extent—yes. In the first place, one is the master of the scene of acting, is that one must be able to separate one's real self from the person impersonated. In my private life, and not your own personality—for the purpose of acting is to represent through your own person, a particular kind of character under certain dramatic situations, hence you must fall back on your own experiences, and imagination (an actor cannot have too much of either), and depend on his own nature for emotions to be portrayed. It would be ridiculous to suggest that the character you represent is in reality your own as that of the events of the play are episodes of your private life, which continue outside of the theatre. It is true—an actor loves the part he is playing. Every real actor must do so. He becomes to all intents and purposes the character, as long as they play it. When we laugh or cry—joy or sorrow—we do so, forgetful of the every day self. That self that we leave outside the stage door and become again, after the play. While we forget self, we do not forget personality. You must be the part you are playing, but to believe that you are always that part is ridiculous. Would you think of asking, after seeing an actor, as "Richard III." or "Mr. Hyde," are they really like this in private life? If they were, how could they represent more than one kind of a man in a lifetime? Think of the many parts one is called on to play in the course of a career—or if in stock—in the course of a season. This in itself, is sufficient to prevent one from being influenced by any extent. Our work is not like following a particular calling or occupation, year in and year out. Our's is constant change. A wide range of parts is called for, and the actor is limited to a character of a particular kind of temperament. It might be said that such a career is dominated by that particular sets of emotion. An actor by virtue of the calling, is not a "man of one part," as developed, as is the mercenary, sympathy and imagination, and it is these qualities which leads us to unconsciously absorb the atmosphere, feelings and the very life itself, of an as-

LOST IN WOODS FOR 48 HOURS

MONCTON, Sept. 2.—After being lost in the woods for two nights and days, in which time he subsisted on such berries as he could pick as he wandered along, twenty-one year old Goto, son of Sylvang Goto, returned last evening to his home in Adamsville. He was little the worse physically of his trying experience in the Kent county forests. Goto went out fishing on Sunday afternoon and left the brook to pick berries. He wandered on, not noticing where he was going, but when he was called to retrieve his stage as evening drew on he found that he was wholly at a loss to know in which direction to travel. Darkness descended and found him deep in the forest, and fearful of wandering into danger in the darkness he laid down and slept. All day Monday he continued his wanderings, but could not find trace of a road or house. Monday night he slept under the trees, during the night and on Tuesday morning he resumed his wanderings, about midday arriving at a clearing and finally reaching a house. He found that he was near Yarmouth, having tramped some thirty miles in one round about journey through the woods. He was fed at Harcourt, walked home to Adamsville, six miles distant, where he laid down and slept. The Moncton police had been notified of the young man's absence, and searching parties were about to be organized in the vicinity of his home

I. C. R. BRANCH LINES

At a political meeting in Moncton last night Hon. H. R. Emerson and A. B. Copp were the principal speakers. In referring to the proposition for government acquisition of the branch lines, Mr. Emerson reviewed his attitude on the question and said the western manufacturers are as interested as the people of the Maritime Provinces. If the I. C. R. does not secure the branch lines within the next eighteen months it will cease to be and it will be parcelled up among the great corporations. If they give the I. C. R. running rights without securing the branch lines the business of the I. C. R. will fade away. Captain Andrew Martin, of the Calais schooner Moonlight, reports that while passing thirteen miles south-south-west of Petit Manan he saw floating partially submerged the wreck of a vessel, the stern alone being visible. He could not make out the name. He says the wreck is a menace to navigation. The Moonlight was bound from New York to Calais with coal.—Boston.

AN OFFICER IS NEEDED

There is imperative need for I. C. R. and C. P. R. officers at the station. Any day you can see the weak and the timid kept back by the strong and bold. The other day I saw an elderly woman evidently in poor health, in the line at the C. P. R. window, I saw three men and one aggressive female in front of her and keep her back.

ATTEMPTING TO END PAPER MILLS STRIKE

GLENN'S FALLS, Sept. 2.—Officials of the International Paper Company announced tonight that several mills which have been shut down for four weeks, will be started within a few days. The plants were closed because the men refused to accept a reduction of wages of ten per cent.

Joseph Slater, superintendent of the local mill, stated tonight that when operations are resumed, the men must accept a cut. The International Brotherhood of Stationary Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, it is stated, have aligned contacts with the company by which a revised schedule of wages is established for a period of eleven months from September 12. The reduction in wages brought about by the new schedule is approximately five per cent, and the company has agreed to revise the scale on August 1, 1909. The agreement affects about 10,000 employees in the thirty-two plants operated by the company.

William J. Burns, of Tricordera, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, said tonight that the members of this organization would not return to work until the old wage scale was placed in effect.

PROMINENT INFIDEL DEAD

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 2.—Chester Bedell, author of Twenty-One Battles Fought with Relatives and Intolerance and A Self Branded Infidel, died last night, at his estate in North Benton, Mahoning county. Bedell was a man of strong convictions which he never hesitated to express. He took pride in his religious independence and the fact that he was an unbeliever before Robert G. Ingersoll.

He was 52 years of age.

KINGS-ALBERT FIGHT OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

HON. WM. PUGSLEY.

Senator Domville introduced Hon. Wm. Pugsley, the first speaker. The chairman explained that Dr. Pugsley was a loyal Kings County boy (cheers) and would speak to the gathering on the questions of the day. As for himself, said the senator, he was in the upper house and was not supposed to take part in politics.

A few nights ago, said the speaker, the Conservatives of St. John city and county had nominated a man to oppose him in the coming election. His name was W. MacRae. He would not say a word about the matter, but he had always noticed that men when they could say nothing in their own favor attacked their opponents. Mr. MacRae had done that, but the statements that he had made concerning the speaker were false. Mr. MacRae had said that while a member of the provincial government he (the speaker) had taken moneys from the provincial funds, saying that the province had owed it to him.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said Dr. Pugsley, "I never received from the provincial treasury a cent for which I did not honestly work." (Applause.)

When he had left the government of the province New Brunswick was in as good a financial position as any other in Canada and made it possible for this present government to make better provision for the roads than they are making.

Dr. Pugsley, in closing his speech, referred to the aid the government had given the port of St. John and to its intentions regarding this city.

But a greater future was promised St. John. The results of the borings made in Courtenay Bay party at the cost of the government, had shown that the bay was absolutely free from rocks and that the bottom consisted entirely of mud and sand. This material it was possible to dredge to a depth of thirty-two feet at low water and there was every prospect of docks being built in that locality for the accommodation of vessels drawing thirty feet of water.

No man could take too bright a view of the future. Some said he was too optimistic, but when one looks at the great advances of the Northwest who could fall to be optimistic? For his own part he was prepared to advance along the path of progress as a member of the Laurier administration. (Applause.)

HON. CHARLES MARCIL.

Hon. Charles Marcil followed Dr. Pugsley and was most enthusiastically received. He thanked his hearers for their kindly welcome, saying that although Irish upon his mother's side, adequate words failed him to express his gratitude. (Laughter.)

He had come from Bonaventure if for nothing else than for the purpose of extending to the constituency the good fellowship of his own constituents. (Applause.) As deputy speaker he had scrutinized all that had been said in parliament by the Hon. Mr. Pugsley and by his opponents. He could tell his hearers and also the electors of St. John city and county that there was at Ottawa no harder fighter or better parliamentarian than Mr. Pugsley. (Applause.) He occupied a most important position, that of Minister of Public Works, who was the head of a department which expended $20,000,000 a year, although a few years before its expenditure had been but $4,000,000. Mr. Pugsley worthily filled the position and had been a most able representative of the Province of New Brunswick.

DR. MCALISTER.

Senator Domville at the close of Mr. Marcil's address introduced the future representative of Kings County. Dr. McAlister received an ovation when he arose.

He had been defeated on provincial issues. Now that was all past. The Highway Act had defeated him, but the provincial government had given the country a worse act. The Central Railway was also an issue of the campaign, but nothing had been done concerning it except to hold a costly investigation which had cost nothing. Dr. McAlister then dealt with Dominion issues, criticizing the policy of the Conservative government.

It had been asked why Kings' Liberals did not take Dr. Pugsley as their candidate. The reason was that they could not get him. St. John city had taken him, and he congratulated that constituency on its choice.

FRANK B. CARVELL.

Frank B. Carvell, M. P. for Carleton, was next introduced by the chairman. He regretted, he said, that it had been left to him to deal with practical politics. Dr. McAlister should have continued, as he was on the right track. The doctor was always on the right track. (Applause.)

FOSTER, NOT BORDEN.

"The real leader of the Conservative party is not R. L. Borden," said Mr. Carvell. "He is George E. Foster. Do you know him?"

"Will you put him back into power?" (No, no.)

"Will you put back the Conservative party you put back Foster?"

"Concerned with Mr. Foster in certain manipulations of the Canadian funds," continued Mr. Carvell, "was a gentleman named Fowler. I think you know him." "Yes," said Mr. Carvell then told how Mr. Foster and his associates had manipulated the funds in their trust. After securing them from Fowler, had sold to himself, making a neat profit. Very likely, said Mr. Carvell, there was some connection between that deal and the fact that the Foresters' rates had recently been increased.

C. P. R. TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK TO $200,000,000

Shareholders Will be Asked to Sanction an Issue of $50,000,000 at October Meeting

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—The most important item of business to come before the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway at the annual meeting on October 7 will be consideration of the request of the directors to authorize an issue of $50,000,000 additional common stock. This will bring the total authorized issue up to $200,000,000 of common stock $150,000,000 previously authorized having been about used up.

It is not stated in the official announcement that it is the intention to issue any part of the additional $50,000,000 at the present time, but issue will be made from time to time as the directors deem circumstances necessitate.

On October 19 the C. P. R. will have $146,016,000 common stock outstanding. At the present rate, dividend requirements for this purpose will involve $8,700,000 each year. The usual 1 per cent. paid annually on land sales will add $1,600,000 annually.

Besides common stock the C. P. R. has outstanding $43,938,668 preferred and $106,045,411 consolidated debenture stock, each of these receive 4 per cent. annually.

SEKY MAKES A HIT AT THE PRINCESS.

Hundreds of persons were mystified at the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon when Seky, the famous lady magician, was seen for the first time in the best act ever presented to the St. John public.

She is the first lady magician that has ever appeared on a St. John stage and her work of mystery is equal to any that has ever been seen here.

This high priced Vaudeville act has been secured at a high figure and after her engagement in St. John Seky will proceed to the States where she will join the regular circuit. In addition to Seky's big act, there is being shown a lengthy programme of pictures.

A Laundry Scene is an instructive film showing how the washing was done twenty years ago and how it is done now in one of the biggest steam laundries in the world. It is a most interesting picture. A Calamitous Engagement is the title of a picture of rare comedy, while the picture entitled "The Hypnotic Table" is one that causes laughter from start to finish.

Harry Newcombe is heard in a new and pretty illustrated solo, and Madam Demy is also rendering a solo which is attracting considerable attention.

The Princess show is the best in the city and is given at the usual price.

GOOD SHOW AT BLOU YESTERDAY.

Everybody delighted! Said "Best show yet!" Enjoyed the pictures; enjoyed the singing immensely! Miss Ade Smith, the English soprano, was certainly a great voice last night and her singing of "Down the Vale," that beautiful song written by Gundy Hadath, whose name all "Old Country folks" are familiar with, was a splendid rendition. David Higgins sang "With You in Eternity" with much feeling and beautiful illustrations. The pictures shown had somewhat of a tendency to the comic, but in "Gaston's Visit to the Museum of Arts" and "The Peaceful Inn," there is some truly fine scenery that gives relief to the little bits of comedy contained in them. "Rent's Due" is a comedy all through, good hearty comedy, and you can't help but laugh, as is likewise the "Magic Bag." In the picture called "The Magician" the Blou have one of those interesting transformations that cause much wonder. A visit to the Blou this afternoon or evening would most surely repay any lover of real good pictures.

"A COUNT OF NO ACCOUNT" AT THE NICKEL.

If ever there was a screaming farce for public entertainment it is the picture-play, "A Count of No Account," to be presented by the Hamanovs Co. at the Nickel today and the remainder of the week. This is another long picture, containing about eighteen minutes of the programme and every minute is a continuous burst of merriment. Needless to state the "count" in this play is one of those Weary Wilkes immortalized by the funny papers and such actors as Nat Wills, the famous "Happy Tramp." In addition to the Hamanovs production the pictures Japanese Butterflies, The Miller, His Son and His Donkey, In the Nick of Time, Not Yet But Soon and Jim Is Fond of Garlic, will soon be shown. Miss Felix's brand new song is "You'll Always Be Sweet Sixteen to Me" and Mr. Weston has a charming semi-classic, "The Last Voyage."

NEW PICTURES AND SONGS AT THE UNIQUE TODAY.

The Unique Theatre is again to the front with an excellent programme of high class pictures and illustrated songs. Beginning tonight and continuing every night for the balance of the week, Miss Power will be heard in Vesta Victoria's great song hit, Poor John. At the afternoon matinee she will sing an illustrated song. The pictures today are above the average. The leader, Two Little Shoes, is a very interesting story. A young married man who was unable to obtain employment left one night for the western gold fields with his family was asleep, taking with him one of the baby's shoes. In after years he returned and that little shoe was the means of proving his relationship to his daughter, who had heard the story of her father's departure from her mother, now dead years. The other pictures are 'The Kindhearted Policeman, a story of a guardian of the peace who dealt out more justice than law, and The Dog and the Pipe, an excellent comedy. We wish to remind the mothers that they need not be afraid to send their little ones to this pleasure resort, as no objectionable pictures are ever shown. This high priced Vaudeville act has been secured at a high figure and after her engagement in St. John Seky will proceed to the States where she will join the regular circuit. In addition to Seky's big act, there is being shown a lengthy programme of pictures.

SEKY MAKES A HIT AT THE PRINCESS.

Hundreds of persons were mystified at the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon when Seky, the famous lady magician, was seen for the first time in the best act ever presented to the St. John public.

She is the first lady magician that has ever appeared on a St. John stage and her work of mystery is equal to any that has ever been seen here.

This high priced Vaudeville act has been secured at a high figure and after her engagement in St. John Seky will proceed to the States where she will join the regular circuit. In addition to Seky's big act, there is being shown a lengthy programme of pictures.

A Laundry Scene is an instructive film showing how the washing was done twenty years ago and how it is done now in one of the biggest steam laundries in the world. It is a most interesting picture. A Calamitous Engagement is the title of a picture of rare comedy, while the picture entitled "The Hypnotic Table" is one that causes laughter from start to finish.

Harry Newcombe is heard in a new and pretty illustrated solo, and Madam Demy is also rendering a solo which is attracting considerable attention.

The Princess show is the best in the city and is given at the usual price.

GOOD SHOW AT BLOU YESTERDAY.

Everybody delighted! Said "Best show yet!" Enjoyed the pictures; enjoyed the singing immensely! Miss Ade Smith, the English soprano, was certainly a great voice last night and her singing of "Down the Vale," that beautiful song written by Gundy Hadath, whose name all "Old Country folks" are familiar with, was a splendid rendition. David Higgins sang "With You in Eternity" with much feeling and beautiful illustrations. The pictures shown had somewhat of a tendency to the comic, but in "Gaston's Visit to the Museum of Arts" and "The Peaceful Inn," there is some truly fine scenery that gives relief to the little bits of comedy contained in them. "Rent's Due" is a comedy all through, good hearty comedy, and you can't help but laugh, as is likewise the "Magic Bag." In the picture called "The Magician" the Blou have one of those interesting transformations that cause much wonder. A visit to the Blou this afternoon or evening would most surely repay any lover of real good pictures.

"A COUNT OF NO ACCOUNT" AT THE NICKEL.

If ever there was a screaming farce for public entertainment it is the picture-play, "A Count of No Account," to be presented by the Hamanovs Co. at the Nickel today and the remainder of the week. This is another long picture, containing about eighteen minutes of the programme and every minute is a continuous burst of merriment. Needless to state the "count" in this play is one of those Weary Wilkes immortalized by the funny papers and such actors as Nat Wills, the famous "Happy Tramp." In addition to the Hamanovs production the pictures Japanese Butterflies, The Miller, His Son and His Donkey, In the Nick of Time, Not Yet But Soon and Jim Is Fond of Garlic, will soon be shown. Miss Felix's brand new song is "You'll Always Be Sweet Sixteen to Me" and Mr. Weston has a charming semi-classic, "The Last Voyage."

Let Lyons, the Advertiser, boom your business. Phone 2990.

FOUR OF THE VERY BEST AT THE CEDAR.

This house never has had a better set of pictures than this lot. Those who miss them will miss a treat. The Tyrant Lord is one of the cleverest moving pictures ever presented. Percy Sayce sings Fare Thee Well, My Own Kentucky. Admission 5 cents.

A SPLENDID SHOW AT HAPPY HALF HOUR.

S. R. O. crowds enjoyed the new programme at the Happy Half Hour yesterday. Holmes and Buchanan sang The Butterfly and the Rose, a very catchy conversational duet from Furabashi, and judging by the encores demanded the audience could not get enough of it. The pictures are splendid. The Foreman's Hatred is a powerful dramatic story and was generously applauded. The Hedgehog Coat and The Cheese Race are both comedy pictures and are very funny, particularly the latter, which kept the audience laughing from start to finish. Coast Towns of North Devon is a beautiful and interesting travel picture. The order of pictures are panorama of Bideford with views of river and shipping, a close view of the bridges in which there are no two arches alike, unique among the bridges of the world, the light railway to Lynton, a steamer grounded on the coast, Barnstable bridge, light railway from Bideford to Westward Ho!, Charles Kingsley's house at Clovelly, scenes on the beach, the street of steps, and many other quaint views. Last time for this show today. Prof. Tutin sings What Might Have Been and Harry LeRoy sings The Girl of the Prairie, both late "hits."

"A WIFE'S SECRET"

An unmistakable hit was made by the Selman company last night in "A Wife's Secret." The uncommon talent of Mr. Selman and the fidelity with which the rest of the cast delineated their roles made manifest before the first act was ended that this company is above the usual-artists all of them. There need be no hesitation on the part of theatre goers in regard to the Selman company, the name is a pass word that will make happy evenings while their engagement lasts and brush away cobwebs which too often veil the merriment that should brighten the dullness of life. It is a drama with a moral, a carefully dealt with as it was last night's none of the charm was lost. Mr. Selman was excellent as John Macdonald, the minister. Bernetta Callahan, of 4, Brussels street was very pleasing and made a charming Marie Madelon. Messrs. Townsend and Bryce scored splendid hits. Louis Du Bois took attention captive from the start, and the others who carrying the interesting plot to its happy ending helped the illusion so successfully that it approached the real Dorothy Lee was screamingly funny as Dilsey Lee; Marianne French typified the character of the character of Friedella. But why review all the cast when all were equally worthy of commendation? In short the whole company works harmoniously and attaining success so dexterly that the fall of the curtain left a feeling of delight and wonderment at being privileged at seeing dramatic work, so well done, and it is but rarely that St. John is treated to so good a feast as these players provide. The specialties between the acts are alone worth the price of admission. Tonight this thrilling melodrama will be repeated. This will also be offered at the Saturday Matinee as it is exceptionally attractive to women and children. If you did not see it you have missed one of the best melodramas of its kind. Secure seats now. Friday evening A Night Off a roaring farce comedy.

GAS FUMES GIVE THIS HOTEL GUEST BAD SCARE

Barbados Planter Blows Out the Gas in His Room and House is Aroused

A rather humorous story is told of a prominent Barbados planter who stopped at a leading city hotel Tuesday night and whose ignorance of gas is a caution.

The gentleman in question turned on the gas early in the evening and later, after extinguishing it, went out for a walk. He returned about midnight and discovered that his room was full of gas. He became greatly alarmed and told his troubles to the clerk. On investigation it was found that the gentleman on extinguishing the gas had blown it out instead of turning it off. It took quite a time to convince him that nothing else was wrong, and he would not go asleep until he awoke the rest of his party and saw that they were not in the same predicament. He, however, felt a little easier when one of his lady friends, who he knew understood gas, assured him that everything was all right. He went to sleep with the windows and doors of his room wide open.

SIX

In the Path of the Slide

By Wm. MacLeod Raine

Half-way up the trail to the Morning Glory, Helen Muir flung herself down on the knickknack for a breathing space. It was a stiff climb to the mine and the girl carried a thirty-pound pack on her shoulders. Besides which, by way of emphasis, she was breaking in a new pair of walking-boots. Naturally enough she relieved her cramped, aching feet by slipping off the boots while she rested.

This was quite as it should be on a deserted mountain trail, but as the luck would have it, Roger Stanley, descending from his cabin to Red Cloud for his mail and a new supply of bacon, swung round the bend at that inopportune moment.

The girl flushed to the roots of her hair, whipped her feet under her skirt and her boots behind her, and met his amused eyes defiantly. The young man made a half-motion to lift his hat, gave it up before her uncompromising hostility and passed on his way with an imperceptible shrug. Until he disappeared round the next turn her dark blue eyes followed his easy strides contentedly. There was a sparkle of frosty anger in them, and the rigidity of her slim, clean, Irish figure told the same story. He dared to laugh at her, no doubt thought her an ignorant country-girl, whenever circumstances forced him to acknowledge it coolly. Her father's father about her date, she asserted herself as she noted his saucy complacency, detected that superior man-of-the-world air she related so effectively. Since she was the possessor of an inherited Scotch conscience, it was fortunate that as the daughter of Balfour Muir she did not hate walked land in vain with every healthy inclination to do so.

The difficulty between Balfour Muir and the corporation represented by Roger Stanley had arisen out of the very defective mining-laws that naturally existed in the early days of a young community. The Red Cloud district had been a mining-camp for over thirty years, and every considerable property in it had been dragged into the courts many times. There was a question both as to title and boundary at issue between the old Scotchman Muir and the New York Mining and Milling Company, and since he had bought in good faith it was inevitable that Helen's father should resent bitterly the claims of the Eastern corporation. But as Stanley was merely a young creature with no own of himself, himself the difference was entirely a business and not a personal one, so far as he was concerned.

Wherefore it happened that he was quite innocent of the offensive thoughts with which Muir, gratefully credited him. Indeed, the mental picture he carried with him to Red Cloud was by no means a pleasant one. He was by way of being a shy young man, not at all sure of himself with young women, and the ironical fact was that he was clothed with a manner befitting, indeed, found as himself a false-alarm, and was quite ready to admit humbly to himself that he was no match for the radiant young creature with the air of a long-limbed woodland sylph. The supple body, so light and swift, the frank, proud throat-line, the soft, dark hair and scornful eyes were all a pleasure to the eye and a pain to the heart if one hopelessly allowed one's self to be daunted by such evidences of perfection.

squatted like a bird's nest in a scooped hollow of the great peak, audaciously defiant of howling storms and rushing slides. Most men would have found it lonely and these were times when Stanley owned that the altitude was oppressive. But for the most part he had resources within that kept him cheerful. Naturally a student, he worked long shifts during the silent days and nights. He had, too, his books and most of the current magazines to tide him over the hours of relaxation. It happened that he was a good cook in the rough and haphazard-fashion of the outdoors West, and though he lived largely out of tin cans he made the most of their contents.

It came on to snow in a silent, businesslike manner during the afternoon, and when Stanley awoke in the night he heard the wind rattling the cabin in fierce driving gusts. Yet when morning came it had ceased snowing, though the clouds still hung gloomily about the crest of Old Baldy. After breakfast he ventured out into the slipping snow for his morning exercise. He chopped steadily at the wood corded against the rear of the cabin until he was in a warm glow. It was while he was resting for a moment that his glance, drifting by magnetic attraction down to the Morning Glory, saw two travelers setting out in the snow. He ran into the house and got his glasses, and focused them on the moving specks below.

"The old man must be going to town," he muttered. "But I don't see where Miss Muir is. Why, she's coming up the mountain-trail. She ought to pass up her constitutional on a morning like this. He glowered up at the seething clouds, heavily laden with the sleety snow. Getting in for a terror, he raised his eyes to the sky and saw a diverging path which would take her into the courts many times. There was a question both as to title and boundary at issue between the old Scotchman Muir and the New York Mining and Milling Company, and since he had bought in good faith it was inevitable that Helen's father should resent bitterly the claims of the Eastern corporation. But as Stanley was merely a young creature with no own of himself, himself the difference was entirely a business and not a personal one, so far as he was concerned.

When Stanley was half-way home it penetrated his consciousness, busy with the loving reproduction of that picture not for him, that the man had gone out into a world singularly drear and chill. There was a very perceptible drop in the temperature and heavily laden with snow, were sweeping in black banks across the sky. He glanced up at the temperature and yawning over the edge of the precipice above, and it occurred to him to wonder how much more of a fall would be needed to start slides scorching down the mountain-side to eat up every obstacle in the way.

Around the base of the mountain, except in the white gulches, snow lay only in patches, but higher up it on a mile. A month later the valleys, too, would be covered with a thick mantle of white which would endure till late in spring. Then the trail would be open only to snowshoes on the feet of the harty.

More than ever, dishonorable and disreputable pharmaceutical concerns are flooding the market with cheap and worthless preparations designed to be imitations of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Some of these are even labeled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine Dr. Fowler's.

ALLEN SAYS COMMISSION'S REPORT WAS SCANDALOUS

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—The Marine Department inquiry was resumed here this morning, but the taking of evidence did not begin until the afternoon session. Only one witness was examined, Hugh Allan, a member of the Allan Steamship Company, who represents the shipping interests of the country on the lighthouse board.

The civil service commission in its report on the lighthouse board and the necessity for its extension, Mr. Allan declared that the board was scandalous and inefficient in its reflections on the moral tone of Canadian business men. There were deplorable instances in it, which were entirely without foundation and so far as the lighthouse board was concerned the report was entirely wrong.

The formation of this board was the best thing that had ever happened for Canadian shipping interests. The resignation of its members has been seen in the Lawrence channel. He denied every charge made against the lighthouse board and credited it with making the St. Lawrence channel one of the safest waterways in the world. So far as Mr. Allan was aware there had never been any corruption or wrong doing of any kind among the officials of the Department of Marine.

It is expected that the sessions of the commission in Montreal will last for some time. The Shipping Federation is represented by counsel.

Ontario and the West to the Fore. Carry Off the Major Share of the D. R. A. Prizes.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—There was good weather and good shooting for the third day of the D. R. A. meet. The major share of the team and individual prizes went to Ontario and the West. Quebec and the Maritime provinces getting but a small share of the individual winnings and none of the team prizes. Some good shooting was done by Truro and the Prince Edward Islands.

ALGONQUINS TAKE THE INITIAL STEP. The entries for the horse races at Moosepath Park, closed Tuesday with John Ross, the secretary. However, the lists will not be made up for a few days. A large number of specially bred horses have entered in the different events. Even better racing than last season here a few months ago is expected to take place during this season.

WEST INDIES WANT TO TRADE WITH CANADA

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 2.—Official announcement is expected shortly regarding the progress of the informal negotiations for closer relations between the West Indies and Canada which Sir Francis Hopwood, permanent under-secretary of state for the colonies, is related when in Ottawa with the Prince of Wales. Sir Francis is able to assure Mr. Fielding that all the West Indies except perhaps Jamaica, are ready to negotiate for a reciprocal bargain, giving Canadian products the preference over those of the United States and other foreigners on their and other foodstuffs and manufactures in return for Canadian preference on cocoa beans and fruit, etc. One point much considered is the possibility of the United States ratification in the form of a tariff on West Indian products. It is difficult, however, to see how the United States can object to the British Empire adopting a preference similar to that in vogue between the states and her colonies.

ALGONQUINS TAKE THE INITIAL STEP. The Algonquin A. A. at a meeting held last night in its rooms on Metcalfe street, took the initial steps in preparation for the Rugby season. The football committee was instructed to open negotiations for the securing of suitable grounds. It was also decided to apply to the M. P. A. A. A. for the reinstatement of several club members who have been suspended on account of the mix-up in local baseball. It was also decided to have another meeting of the Algonquins that will play against suspended men. A small committee was appointed to look after uniforms.

"Ma's slipper," replied the lad; "I've got here a tack out of place in it, and I want to have it fixed before my mother sees it."

"Ah, what a considerate little boy! I suppose you are afraid the tack might hurt your mother's foot?"

"Well, it isn't exactly that you see, the tack is sticking out on the sole, and this is the slipper ma speaks me with."

Anty Drudge Tells How to Make Housecleaning Easy

Mrs. Hardwick—'I certainly do detest housecleaning time. Here I've been scrubbing and scrubbing until the skin is all of my knuckles, and I just can't get the floors and paint clean.'

'Anty Drudge'—'All the elbow grease in the world won't clean things if you use the wrong soap. Get Fels-Naptha and the grease and dirt on floors and paint-work will disappear like magic.'

Fels-Naptha is better than an extra pair of hands in housecleaning

It makes dirt fly from walls, floors, woodwork, linoleum, windows, porcelain fittings and anything else that's cleanable, just as it does from clothes. No scrub-brush or hot water is necessary, mind you. Just Fels-Naptha, cool or lukewarm water, and a soft cloth. Fels-Naptha dissolves the dirt in a jiffy so it can be rinsed away; it doesn't have to be scoured off. As Fels-Naptha is also a germicide, it is a good sanitary precaution to do your housecleaning with it. Did you ever try washing dishes with Fels-Naptha in lukewarm water? It cuts the grease quick as a wink and makes the glasses shine. Directions for all uses of Fels-Naptha are printed on the red and green wrapper.

He wishes to be allowed to reside at either Fez, Morocco City or Mequinez. PARIS, Sept. 3.—The Petit Republicain understands that the Franco-Spanish note regarding guarantees to be exacted from M. de Hillairet which was despatched to all the French diplomatic agents last night will be presented to the signatories of the Algeiras Act today. 'Under these conditions,' says the Petit Republicain 'negotiations have been opened officially on the question of the recognition of Mual Hadid and the German note becomes objective.'

London Police Surprised by an Individual Who Claimed to have Killed Mrs. Luard. LONDON, Sept. 3.—A well dressed man who refused to give his name, approached at the Bow Street police court yesterday evening and announced that he was the murderer of Mrs. Charles Edward Luard, wife of Major General Luard, who was mysteriously killed in a wood near London, Aug. 24. The man explained that he had been wandering about the country since the crime. Scotland Yard was informed and an investigation was at once begun, which resulted in learning that the man had been a butler in a family of prominence and that he was suffering from alcoholism. His story proved to be untrue and he was released.

Self was arrested at the Herenden Hotel here several weeks ago, after his marriage to Miss Lillie Norrish. He deserted his wife and several children in London last April, and has been living here under an assumed name ever since. He claims to be an other wise in Fort Huron and Woodstock.

RECEIVERS FOR PICCADILLY

London's $10,000,000 Hotel is Not the Only One Which Isn't Making Money. LONDON, Sept. 2.—With its newest and biggest accommodation passing into the hands of a receiver, London this week reached a stage of its development as a hotel building city which can scarcely be described as critical. Not long ago Lord Beauchamp chairman of one of the great hotel companies of this country, publicly stated that there were too many hotels in London, declaring that except during the few weeks which constitute the very height of the season, accommodations for visitors to the British metropolises were greater than the demand for them. During the last twenty years, there have been erected in London more than twenty hotels offering first class accommodations to over 5,000 patrons. These, in some cases, have taken the place of previously existing hotels, but in the majority of instances they have broken fresh ground. At the first blush to the New Yorker this may not seem a surprisingly large figure, but differences of conditions between New York and London, not the least important of which is the fact that the habit of living in a hotel has not taken possession of the Londoner as it has done with the resident of Gotham. Piccadilly, with a capital of £1,700,000. It was opened at the beginning of the summer season under the management of a hotelier of assured capacity and long experience. 'But with such a capital investment how could it be expected to pay with conditions as they now are in London,' the correspondent of The New York Times was asked by the Chairman of a successful London hotel company today. 'People who come to this hotel'—we were speaking in the lobby of a hotel well known to Americans—in South wharf. It was decided to lay a six inch main in Duke street, West End, from Lancaster to city line at a cost of $500. An order for $85 worth of water meters was authorized. A delegation appeared regarding a sewer between Wright and Colborne street. The matter was left to a sub-committee of Aid, Frink and Pickett. The chairman reported that the Sheriff street and Wright street sewers would cost about $1,000 additional to complete. H. N. Stetson appeared on behalf of the Misco Mill and asked that the city allow them to set a supply of water from Lake Umbagog reservoir. The matter was left to the director.

SAGACITY OF A ST. BERNARD

Animal Ascended Mount Blanc Unattended. GENÈVA, Sept. 2.—What is probably the first unattended ascent of Mount Blanc by a dog, was made by a St. Bernard, left Chamouni the day before to accompany the Russian astronomer, Stephanik, on a visit to the observatory at the summit, where he stayed. The dog tracked Chamouni by scent, and arrived at the summit exhausted and hungry, after a journey of about fourteen hours. Alpine climbers and guides at various points halted the dog, who, on finding that his master was not with them, strode on diligently up with his nose to the snow.

WATER AND SEWERAGE

A meeting of the water and sewerage board was held last night. Engineer Hunter reported on new locations for the stand piping, and referring to his search for leaks said that some of the fire hydrants were defective. Jan. S. Clarke was granted free connection with the E.R.G. street sewer. Gandy and Allison were granted water connection with their office on South wharf. SENT UP FOR TRIAL FOR STEALING A WATCH

James Keller, of St. John, Accused in Chatham—Protective Association Formed—Man Lost $90.

CHATHAM, N. B., Sept. 2.—About thirty persons attended a meeting last evening in the town hall to hear Organizer Douglas W. Clinch, of St. John, in a recital of the Fish Forest and Game Protective Association. Mr. Clinch occupied the chair, and in a brief address outlined the purpose of the association, and told of the result obtained elsewhere by following the methods advocated by the association. On motion of George Watt, it was decided to organize a Chatham branch of the association and the following officers were elected:—President, George Watt; First Vice-President, R. A. Munster; Second Vice-President, George E. Fisher; Secretary, Treasurer, F. E. Jordan; Executive Committee, John Connell, James Nicoll, Col. McCuley, Chas. E. Oak, J. L. Stewart, Dr. J. McG. Baxter. The new branch starts off with a membership of fifteen. James Kelly, a travelling umbrella mender, was yesterday sent up by Magistrate Connors to stand trial for stealing a watch from William Cameron while on the steamer Miramichi. George King swore he saw Kelly take a watch out of Cameron's pocket and he at once informed the police. Mr. Cameron and Kelly had landed, but the mate hurried after Kelly and denounced him of the theft. Kelly he denied, and when searched the watch was found on his person. Subsequently it was found about ten feet from where he was standing, and as he was off the boat several minutes before being apprehended it is thought he had tried to hide the watch. Magistrate Connors heard the evidence and decided to hold the prisoner. Kelly says he came recently from St. John. Martin Flanagan, of St. Margarets, lost $93 in a recital yesterday. He took off his coat containing the money and laid it aside while he was attending to his horse in the barn of Babineau's Hotel. Some time later, he put his hand in his pocket and found the money was gone.

LABOR DAY RACES

HAVE BEEN ARRANGED

Three Events for Local Horses Which Should Result in Pretty Good Sport.

Arrangements have been completed for some rare sport for Labor Day, when, during the afternoon all of the local horses with speed will race on Moospath Park.

There have been arranged three races and a purse of $50 for each race is hung up. The races are all named and the horses selected. Quincy A., owned by T. Hayes and Harry W., owned by W. Lawton, will compete in white event, and this race promises to be interesting. Harry H. has not been given as much publicity as Quincy A., but is said to be a good competitor for the Hayes horse.

In the race for trotters there are the following entries: Larry, owned by C. Swanton; Parker K., owned by C. Kerrison; Winnie Mack, owned by Fred. Emery; Henry Forbes, owned by Arthur Connors; Gardo, owned by A. E. Douglas.

In the pacing event the following horses have been entered: Black Diamond, owned by J. Flood; Chick, owned by Colwell; Dell McGregor, owned by F. Carter; Lucy Smith, owned by H. Campbell; also a black mare owned by Mr. Agar.

The horses in all the events are fairly well matched and as the rivalry is quite keen among the locals there should be some good racing, and a large crowd at old Moospath Labor Day.

SUIT ARISING FROM DEFUNCT AGENCY

N. C. Scott Wants to Collect Balance on a Note—Defendant's Attorney Says It is a Forgery.

In the civic court this morning considerable time was taken up in a suit in which N. C. Scott, of the North End, is attempting to recover six dollars from E. B. Spragg as the balance of a promissory note which was originally $20. E. S. Ritchie appeared for the plaintiff and J. A. Barry for the defendant. Mr. Barry gave evidence that the account had been given to Carlisle, who conducted a collecting agency. The note was made out and signed by Mr. Carlisle and only $14 had been paid. Mr. Barry for the defence, said that Mr. Carlisle who had conducted the collecting agency had adjoined out of the city leaving a lot of notes unsigned and that his wife and a Mr. Flockup had been endeavoring to collect money on them. The note presented in court was signed A. Carlisle but Mr. Barry McKechnie said that the name was a forgery. The case was adjourned for a week when the case will be gone into more fully.

A PEGULAR SNOWSTORM

Never in the history of the city was there such a snow storm as that which occurred last night, and only a few persons felt the effects of the storm. During the performance of "A Wife's Secret" that was being excellently played in the Opera House by the Selman Company. The act called for a snow storm. The property boy had the snow storm all ready, and when he got his cue he shook the snow bag and gently scattered the little balls of paper. Then a large ball of newspaper that had been used to stuff one end of the storm bag fell and was scattered and narrowly missed covering one of the actors. Then like an icicle fell an iron spike that had gotten mixed up in the snow. The spike struck the villain on the forehead, but being a villain he did not forget his lines. He was not injured, but only startled, and the act went through without a hitch, as far as the pleased audience was concerned. The property boy may be obliged to pick his snow storm out of a fake at a time tonight.

CIRCUIT COURT.

In the circuit court this morning the case of Trenholm vs. Trenholm was continued. The defendant took the stand and stated that his wife obtained from him an acknowledgement of debt for $500, but he gave it to her in Ottawa, he said, to pacify her, as she was of a very nervous temperament. The witness said that he did not consider he owed his wife, but if he had borrowed it from any other woman he would have considered it a debt. The defendant stated that he had been arrested in the States for non-support, and had signed a document to that effect that his wife was a virtuous woman in order to get out of jail. Mr. Price produced the affidavit of the defendant to that effect and offered it in evidence. While in the States Mr. and Mrs. Trenholm did not live happily together, as she was of a very nervous temperament. Subsequently, it is alleged by the plaintiff, that her husband gave affidavits of her good character before he was permitted to live with her again. These affidavits were put in evidence this morning. Address of counsel will be heard this afternoon.
