

EASTERN THEATRE OF WAR CLAIMS INTEREST IMPORTANT BATTLE IS IMPELLED THERE

Russians Working Enveloping Movement and Engaged With Enemy Along Front of 150 Miles — Planning Attack on Danzig — Advance of Czar's Army Getting Dangerously Near Heart of Germany — Germans in Tight Hole — Must Allow Russians to Overrun East Prussia or Expose Posen and Silesia to Attack — Allies Holding Their Positions While Enemy's Assaults Show Less Violence.

London, Nov. 13.—While the battle in West Flanders continues to hold the public attention, because of the desperate character of the fighting, the numbers of men engaged and the territory at stake, military men now look upon East Prussia as the centre of gravity of the war.

In this latter field of operations a big battle is developing. The Russians are pushing vigorously a great enveloping movement. They are engaged with the Germans along a wide curve of 150 miles from Stalluponen, in the northeast, through Goldap and Kruglaken, which is well within the tangle of lakes, down to Soldau in the southwest.

Military observers say the Germans have apparently checked their retreat in Poland and by counter attacks are endeavoring to create a diversion. They say, however, that the Russians are not to be turned from their plan, which is believed to be an attack on Danzig. They argue that the Germans will have to either allow East Prussia to be overrun the second time or bring up reinforcements, and that they can hardly weaken their army along the Polish frontier, for that would leave Posen and Silesia open to invasion.

The Allies naturally are hoping that an effort will be made to relieve East Prussia at a sacrifice to the German armies in Belgium and France. In any fighting in their own country the Germans will have the advantage over the Russians, as they have a network of strategic railways to move their troops quickly, and besides, they use motors to a larger extent than their opponents. Military men are watching the operations in this region with the greatest interest.

In West Flanders, the Germans do not seem to have improved their position to any marked extent. In fact, an official report from the north of France tonight says that they have again lost Dixmude, which they took last Tuesday, that their attempts to break down the British resistance around Ypres have failed, and that their attack in the vicinity of La Bassée has met with no greater success.

EAST PRUSSIA FREE OF AUSTRILIANS.

The German official report again says that the German attacks are progressing, and records the capture of some prisoners. On the other hand, the French official communication declares that all the Germans' attacks have been repulsed, and an advance has been made by the Allies nearly everywhere.

Vienna admits that the Austrians have evacuated Eastern Galicia, but as an offset to this says that the Serbian resistance has been broken and that the Austrians have crossed the Danube and driven the Serbians back into their own country. Vienna also reports that the Austrians now have turned their attention to the Montenegrins, and are endeavoring to do the same with them. According to a Montenegrin report they have failed. But accounts from this part of the world are so contradictory that the only thing clear is that the Austrians, by sending up reinforcements, have virtually cleared their country of the enemy.

England is beginning to learn the cost of the European war. A White Paper issued today shows that the government intends to ask parliament for $1,125,000,000 which, with $500,000,000 voted at the last session, it is expected to be Great Britain's bill for the financial year ending March 31. Of this sum, however, a small part has been loaned to Belgium and Serbia, and some will be used to assist the Dominions and the Allies to make their financial arrangements. A portion of the money also will be required for the additional million men who are to be enlisted, and who will bring the English regular army up to 2,186,000 men. These figures do not include the Territorials, who number nearly 600,000.

CANADIAN OFFICERS FOR KITCHENER'S 2ND ARMY

Special to The Standard
Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 13.—There has been some speculation as to what would be done with the surplus of officers who went to England with the first contingent. It is learned, however, that none will come back to Canada. Only one is being appointed an officer in the second contingent. The rest will receive appointments in Kitchener's Second Army. They are

MONMOUTH CARRIED 42 OFFICERS AND 690 MEN

London, Nov. 13.—It is officially announced that the British cruiser Monmouth, which was destroyed recently in the battle off Chile with German warships, carried forty-two officers and 690 men. Capt. Frank Brandt was in command of the Monmouth. A heavy explosion under water and the appearance of oil on the surface seems to bear this out. Naval men believe that the raider was hoarding her power by remaining on the channel bottom for lengthy periods. "Another German submarine which has been particularly troublesome to the ships of the British fleet engaged in the bombardment of the Belgian coast, also is reported to have been shelled and sunk." There is no confirmation of the above.

BRITISH HURL BACK PRUSSIAN GUARDS

Pick of Kaiser's Army Brought to Attack English, but Found British Worthy of Their Steel — Weight of Enemy Enabled Them to Break Through, but They Quickly Lost Ground Gained — Over 700 German Dead Behind Front Trenches of British.

London, Nov. 13.—The official press bureau issued the following communication at 11 o'clock tonight:

"A very severe attack against the portion of the line held by the First Army Corps before Ypres was delivered on the eleventh by a Prussian Guard Corps. The enemy made an effort on this occasion to break the line, which they hoped already had been weakened by attacks of infantry of the line. The facts briefly are as follows:

"Our troops were subjected to the heaviest bombardment that we have yet experienced, from dawn for three hours. This was at once followed by an assault in force, carried out by the First and Fourth Brigades of the Prussian Guard Corps. It is understood that these picked troops had been brought up specially to act against us in order to force their way through at points where previous efforts made by the infantry of the line had failed.

"The attack was pressed with the greatest bravery and determination. Owing to the gallantry of our troops, and their splendid resistance against great odds, the attempt to penetrate to Ypres was repulsed, but the weight of the enemy's advance enabled them to break through our lines at three points. They were, however, hurled back and prevented from gaining further ground.

"An immense loss has been inflicted on the Germans, seven hundred of their dead having been found on the ground behind our front trenches alone. The casualties suffered by them in advancing up to our line, under fire and under the fire of our machine guns, were enormous. Our casualties were heavy.

"The action of our troops on this, as well as on previous occasions, cannot be praised too highly."

FOREIGN WOOL WILL BE ADMITTED TO CANADA VIA UNITED STATES

When Accompanied by Affidavit That It Has Not Come in Contact With American Product — Same Regulation For Hides.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The threatened demoralization of the tanneries and woolen mills of Canada as a result of the prohibition of the importation of hides and wool from the United States owing to the foot and mouth disease outbreak has been obviated. These mills have been working night and day on orders from the war office and the militia department. Orders were issued today that foreign hides and foreign wool will be admitted to Canada via the United States when the shipment is accompanied by an affidavit that the hides have not come in contact with the domestic hides or prohibited wool of the United States. United States hides will be admitted when accompanied by the certificates of an officer of the Bureau of Animal Industry that they have been thoroughly disinfected.

Fleeces wool shorn during the spring of 1914 will be admitted if not mixed or stored with other classes of wool prohibited. Pooled wool will be excluded unless it has been scoured and heated. Any shipment may be required to undergo disinfection. Uncured pelts are prohibited.

TWO OF ENEMY'S SUBMARINES DESTROYED?

London, Nov. 14 (1.50 a.m.)—"By the novel means of dredging the channel bottom with chains to which were attached powerful explosives, it is believed that the German submarines which had been attempting daring in the vicinity of Dover, has been blown up" says the Dover correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. "A heavy explosion under water and the appearance of oil on the surface seems to bear this out. Naval men believe that the raider was hoarding her power by remaining on the channel bottom for lengthy periods. "Another German submarine which has been particularly troublesome to the ships of the British fleet engaged in the bombardment of the Belgian coast, also is reported to have been shelled and sunk." There is no confirmation of the above.

SEVEN YEAR SENTENCE FOR SPYING

Barber in London Acted as Spy in His Spare Time — Was in Service of Master Spy.

London, Nov. 13.—Seven years penal servitude was the sentence imposed in the Old Bailey Court today on Ernest, the barber, found guilty of serving as a spy in the employ of Master Spy Steinhauer. Working at his trade in Holloway, Ernest often attended the warden's and officers of the neighboring jail. According to the evidence, he got in touch with Steinhauer through another barber and added a pound monthly to his income by acting as agent for forwarding letters containing information. Ernest, who is a British subject of German descent, pleaded that he had long ago left the business of supplying information to Steinhauer, but it was clear from the evidence that he had paid special attention to sending reports on espionage cases and naval matters.

OPPOSED TO GIVING PUBLIC RECEPTION TO EMDEN'S COMMANDER

London, Nov. 13.—A storm of protest has been aroused in Melbourne by the suggestion that Captain Carl Von Muller, commander of the German cruiser Emden, which was destroyed recently by the Australian cruiser Sydney, be given a public recep-

LONDON SHOWS EFFECTS OF THE ZEPPELIN SCARE

Streets Deserted Before Midnight — Suburbanites Afraid to Attend Theatres Which Are Losing Heavily.

London, Nov. 13.—Reaction from timorousness in regard to Zeppelins is evident in London, not only on account of the inconvenience caused by obscured lights, but because of the actual dangers from the darkness. All efforts to persuade motor drivers to go slowly at night have failed, and the result of the dark streets has been a considerable increase of motor accidents during the past month.

Continental cities that have always twitted London as retiring the same hour as the cows, have now adequate reason for their joke, as the streets are almost deserted at eleven o'clock. The Zeppelin scare, and the consequent darkness, have hit the theatres, as the residents of the suburbs are not inclined to come to London for the night performances. Hotel and restaurant proprietors have also suffered a loss of trade. People are therefore asking if the Zeppelin scare should be taken so seriously, especially at this season the weather is too stormy for long aerial voyages.

CANADIANS UNDER STRICT DISCIPLINE

Names of Fifteen at Salisbury Plain Struck from Roll — Some of Officers Reduced in Rank.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Discipline is strict at Salisbury Plain where the first Canadian contingent is encamped. A cable received today by the Militia Department ordered fifteen names struck off the pay roll. These men are dismissed from the force. Taken in conjunction with General Alderson's plea, "Please ask the public to stop treating the Canadian soldiers, or I must stop giving them passes," it is taken to mean that British hospitality has been more generous than wise.

It is also intimated that some Lieutenants have been reduced to the rank of sergeants and some sergeants have lost their stripes.

This is a small percentage of misbehaviour in such a large force as 34,000 but it shows that nothing in the nature of loose conduct will be tolerated.

HON. MR. BURRELL TRYING TO HAVE EMBARGO MODIFIED

Making Effort to Have Change Made in Order Prohibiting Entry of Canadian Live Stock Into States.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, stated today that he was making efforts to obtain modifications of the order issued by the United States government prohibiting the entry of Canadian cattle, sheep or swine into that country. It is admitted that no information has been discovered in Canada and it is presumed that the United States authorities are afraid of the return of infected cars.

London, Nov. 13.—In recognition of his gallantry and courage, when he arrives in that city. This statement is made in a despatch from the Melbourne correspondent of Reuters' Telegram Company.

GERMANS FAIL TO HOLD DIXMUDE; TOWN AGAIN IN POSSESSION OF ALLIES

Appearance of French Marines Convinced Kaiser's Forces that Town was Not Worth Price They Would Have to Pay to Keep It — Germans Try to Drive Wedge in Allies Line at La Bassée.

London, Nov. 13.—The correspondent of the Central News in the north of France telegraphs that the Germans have been driven out of Dixmude.

"The Germans, the correspondent says, had not long in which to congratulate themselves on their seizure of the mass of ruins which was once the ill-starred town of Dixmude. They were sprayed with shrapnel and shattered with high explosive shells until extermination threatened them. The appearance of French marines with bayonets rapidly convinced them that the death rate would be too high if they remained. Hence Dixmude is ours again.

"The Germans have made a slight advance against Ypres, but it is doubtful if they hold the village of Stelol.

"At La Bassée the Germans are attempting to drive a wedge into the Allied line in the line here for some time, but the Allies hold their positions on either flank."

RUSSIANS TAKE THREE TOWNS IN GALICIA

Tarnow, Jaslo and Krosno Captured — Germans Concentrate North of Mazurina Lakes — Bring up Heavy Guns from Koenigsberg — Advancing Towards Breslau.

Vienna, via London, Nov. 14, 1.05 a.m.—It is officially announced that the Russians have occupied Tarnow, Jaslo and Krosno, three towns in Galicia.

The official statement says: "Yesterday afternoon there were no important events in the northern theatre of the war.

"The enemy has marched into Tarnow, Jaslo and Krosno. "The number of prisoners taken up to yesterday were 367 officers and 92,727 men.

"In the southern war theatre the enemy continues to retreat from Koceljewa and Valievo eastward."

"The towns of Tarnow, Jaslo and Krosno are in the western part of Galicia. Tarnow has a population of 31,000. Jaslo is 38 miles southwest of Tarnow, and has a population of about 7,000, while Krosno is thirteen miles southeast of Jaslo, on the River Wislok, and has about 5,000 population.

Petrograd, Nov. 13.—With the occupation of Johannsburg the Russian force secured the key to the railway lines along the border from Stalluponen to the southern terminal. The advance toward Breslau is proceeding along the railroad toward Kalisz. Cavalry detachments have already reached this town, where fighting is reported.

The wounded in great numbers are being brought from the front, but all are cared for in the wonderfully equipped hospital trains now in service. Special cars are fitted out for the seriously wounded, in which hammocks are swung. The wounded men are placed in these hammocks, instead of cots, and are relieved of practically all jarring from the movement of the train, owing to the fact that the hammocks are swung from the sides of the cars by springs.

ANOTHER SAMPLE OF THE ACCURACY OF THE GERMAN NEWSPAPERS

London, Nov. 13.—In reply to the charge made by the Frankfurter Zeitung that forty-six German prisoners have died in England from pneumonia and typhoid fever, it is officially stated that there have been only five deaths among the prisoners. One death was accidental, and the others were due to natural causes. There has been no typhoid fever or pneumonia.

KINGSTON ONT. MAN GETS WORD SON WAS KILLED IN ACTION

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 13.—Robert Holsgrove, 67 Charles street, has received word of the death of his son at the front, while fighting with the Scotch Fusiliers. He has two other sons at the front, one with the Indian force, and the other also with the Scotch Fusiliers.

NEXT WEEK AT OPERA HOUSE

Thompson Musical Comedy Company inaugurates season with bright programme of mirth and music.

Commencing on Monday, Nov. 16th, the Thompson Musical Comedy Co. will open an engagement at the Opera House, presenting a different musical comedy each week.

The Traveling Man is the attraction announced for the first week. It is one of those irresponsible, laugh provoking musical comedies, with a light flimsy plot, lots of girls and funny comedians. The plot centers around one Bill Hugh Root, President of the Masonic Club, who opens an engagement at the Opera House, presenting a different musical comedy each week.

The plot centers around one Bill Hugh Root, President of the Masonic Club, who opens an engagement at the Opera House, presenting a different musical comedy each week.

Among the song hits of the comedy are "In the Candle Light," sung by Dorothy Arde, one of the most charming little ingenues to appear in St. John for a long time. Sympathy, one of the late successes and When the Angels is Ringing, sung by the entire company.

The show is well mounted, with beautiful electrical effects, and should prove to be one of the best attractions of the theatrical season in St. John. Performances will be given every evening with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The prices will be ten, twenty and thirty cents.

PERHAPS

Walter Long, one of the leading "heavies" with the Reliance and Majestic Mutual organizations, believes that he is the discoverer of the strangest man in the world.

Long is a powerful swimmer. At the beginning of the present summer season he was named as one of the municipal life guards at Ocean Park, working on Sundays and holidays when the crowds at the beach were the largest.

A swimmer who went out beyond the breaker line became caught in a rip tide and shouted for help. Long went to his assistance, and after a hard struggle with the big breakers, succeeded in bringing the near drowning man ashore, where he was revived.

A short time later the rescued man, nattily dressed in his street clothes and wearing a big diamond, appeared and thanked Long for saving his life. "Here, have a good cigar on me," said the rescued individual as he proffered Long a dime. Long was on his way to purchase a sandwich and had a five cent piece in his hand.

He accepted the proffered ten cents and returned the nickel with the statement, "Here is your change." The man whom Long rescued accepted the five cents and then beat a hasty retreat. Long has nailed the dime to the wall of his dressing room, as a memento of the occasion.

UNIQUE AND LYRIC ITEMS OF INTEREST

The Unique Theatre will begin next week with a programme that abounds in delicious comedy, sparkling dramas and intensely thrilling scenes. The seventeenth chapter of "The Million Dollar Mystery," "A Battle of Wits," is somewhat of a departure from previous chapters and is made up of some of the most sensational incidents yet.

In the drawing room, the capture of the conspirators, and their mysterious escape features of this episode that cannot help but impress. A special subject on the same programme will be told in two acts, and forty-eight scenes together with a brilliant Keystone comedy, "The Baggage Smasher."

An exceptionally strong vaudeville bill will be presented to usher in next week at the Lyric Theatre. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dean and Selby, who are known as "The Bowers," are the attraction, presenting Bowers characters, and burlesquing vaudeville with the singing of rag time melodies to offer variety, will be the principal feature, having as a close second, Pearl Merrill in songs and musical selections. The Weekly News will present some of the latest military scenes and a strong subject drama "The Feud of Beaver Creek."

Some really wonderful creations in hats and sweaters will be shown in the thirty-second chapter of Our Mutual Girl series at the Unique next Wednesday and Thursday. They will represent some of the very latest designs and will no doubt appeal directly to the ladies. Aside from this feature, Dunbar, the man of mystery, meets with some strange adventures in his efforts to locate the jewel thief, "Youth and Art," an appealing American story will be shown on the same bill of fare.

A black face act of more than ordinary merit containing an abundance of witty coin sayings up to the minute song hits and lively dancing numbers will hold sway at the Lyric the last three days of next week when, Jones and McGrail will offer their comedy creation in black and white.

Special feature pictures have been secured so that next week at the Lyric can go down on record as being the best in point of entertainment of the season.

Somewhat of a departure from the usual routine will be made at the Unique next week as far as Our Mutual Girl series is concerned. Chapter thirty-two will be shown as usual on Wednesday and Thursday, while the following chapter will be presented in the Friday and Saturday programme.

Next week therefore will clear up the mystery of the stolen jewels, and in the edition to be shown Friday, Dunbar, the man of mystery, will leave for the front as special war correspondent.

A new story of the series will begin the following Wednesday.

Ford and More, with Jack Orr, who were seen at the Lyric the first part of the week, left on the Calvin Austin Friday morning for Boston. Both acts open an engagement at one of Gordon's theatres this Monday.

A number of excellent vaudeville acts have been secured for early presentation at the Lyric. The Musical Buskirts, the Metropolitan Quartette, the Emerys and Nat Farnum are some of the most important attractions that will be seen there in the near future.

Flo and Wynne at the Lyric struck the keynote of success and are pleasing large audiences. It is rather interesting and somewhat amusing to

She Writes Photoplays And Acts Them Too.

She is the creator of "Calamity Anne." Ah, already all know her, this highly successful actress of the Flying A-Mutual organization! Miss Lester's place as both dramatist and actress was firmly fixed by her work in this series from her pen and the American films.

For "Calamity Anne" is a distinctly and a distinctly lovable-type. The quaint old woman of the West deserves to be mentioned in the same breath with Bret Harie's California characters, Mark Twain's Missouri people, Cable's Louisiana folk and Mary Wilkins Freeman's New Englanders. Now she is known all over this country and Europe, and even from the far off sheep ranches of Australia come letters telling of "Calamity Anne's" appeal.

But Miss Lester is far from being a one type woman either as writer or player. If she has a middle name it must be Versatility or Charm. Maybe it is both. Certainly she has countless hosts of friends. And she earned every one of them in honest, hearty fashion.

She does these three things well: She is a western woman, a society woman and a "grandmother" to Victorian. And she slides gracefully and easily from one role to another and bids fair to become the best character woman in filmland.

note that the act is made up of two ladies, not a lady and gentleman, as one would imagine. The clever manner in which Miss Wynne impersonates a member of the male sex has a strong tendency to keep one guessing.

Doris Greenwald, now appearing at the Lyric is a dainty little Miss with an act that cannot help but find favor. Her cornet solos and different styles of dancing are most enjoyable.

TRY UNGAR'S LAUNDRY.
Married in West.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last evening by the Rev. M. B. Ryan on Oct. 31, when Miss Minnie Florence Braden, formerly of this city, but now residing in Calgary, was joined in wedlock to Frank Beatty, a member of the male sex who has a strong tendency to keep one guessing.

Doris Greenwald, now appearing at the Lyric is a dainty little Miss with an act that cannot help but find favor. Her cornet solos and different styles of dancing are most enjoyable.

NEW CHAPTER THE BEST YET

Million Dollar Mystery still ob Absorbing Interest.

To James Norton waiting in the home of a practical stranger, for his fiancée, Miss Hargreaves, his time seemed very long. True, the efforts of Mr. Jameson to entertain proved rather interesting, and to a degree somewhat amusing, but at the same time he could not help but feel that there was something strange in the entire affair. The receipt of the note from Florence, did not sound at all like her; at the same time he took the change. Becoming rather impatient he allowed his watch to rest in the palm of his hand, and glancing at the case saw reflected therein a sight that made it necessary for him to make up his mind as to the wisest course to pursue and to act quickly.

A decanter of wine stood on the table and as the man's chair was pushed about to perform his mission, the decanter was lifted, the tables were turned and one of the most thrilling as well as spectacular hand to hand battles of our era took place that has ever been enacted before the motion picture camera. By the resorting to a secret trap door the four conspirators were successful in their attempt to defy the brave reporter, but then the butler made his debut into the little game, and even though the Countess was on hand to assist matters, the butler was on the day.

The combined efforts of him and Norton succeeded in making the conspirators prisoners, yet when the police arrived not a sign of one of them could be found; how they escaped and where they went to will be shown in the seventeenth chapter of the Million Dollar Mystery, on Monday and Tuesday. This episode is by long odds one of the most thrilling yet.

LT.-COL. O'GRADY BURIED

IN WINNIPEG WITH MILITARY HONORS

Illness brought on by over exertion in connection with mobilization of regiment for first contingent caused his death.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—The impressive funeral of a military general was witnessed in Winnipeg today when the remains of Lt. Col. J. D. DeC. O'Grady of the 90th Regiment, were laid to rest in St. John's cemetery.

At two o'clock a private service was conducted at the residence by Rev. W. B. Heeny. This was followed by a public service at St. Luke's church, where a large number of the present and former members of the 90th in the Winnipeg garrison, being strongly represented. In addition, the detachment of the 90th regiment attached to the 21st Battalion of Canadian second expeditionary force was present.

The cortege was one of considerable dimensions when formed up at the close of the service and presented an impressive appearance as it marched slowly to the cemetery, headed by the band of the 90th Rifles, playing the "Dead March in Saul."

At the cemetery, Archbishop Matheson officiated and the last honors were paid the dead officer by a firing party consisting of 300 men, furnished by detachments from the 90th regiment and the 21st Battalion of Canadian second expeditionary force, under the command of Lt. Col. Bilman, reserve officer and late officer commanding the 90th regiment.

The honorary pall bearers were six Lieutenant colonels of the Winnipeg garrison, Lt. Col's. McLean of the 106th, Mitchell of the 109th, Pousette C. A. S. C., Corbitt, C. A. S. C., Ducharme, 12th Battalion and Embury, 95th. Six sergeants of the 90th were the active pall bearers.

Colonel O'Grady had been ill for some weeks, resulting from over-exertion during the mobilization of his regiment with which he was most anxious to go to the front, and was only prevented by the medical officers. He leaves a widow, a daughter of the late Colonel Mansell, so long and well known in New Brunswick, and six sons and two daughters. Two of his sons, Gerald Francis and William A., are with the Canadian contingent at Salisbury Plains, a third is going with the second contingent.

OBITUARY.

ARMY RECRUITS FROM OUTSIDE POINTS LODGED IN ARMORY

Nearly twelve hundred men may be accommodated there now—Canteen doing business—The names of those who have joined the ranks within the last few days.

The number of recruits who have come forward and joined the ranks of the 26th New Brunswick Battalion, went well over the three hundred mark yesterday, and there is hope that today the number will reach well up to four hundred. The number of recruits offering in St. John has not been as large as was expected, but Prince Edward Island and places in New Brunswick have sent in large numbers of men to join the ranks. The armory has been fitted up to accommodate about twelve hundred men, and provision will be made for handling this number as soon as necessary.

The canteen was in full operation yesterday and the men were giving it liberal patronage.

The whole armory presented almost a wake appearance. Squads of men yesterday were almost constantly drilling, and during the day recruits were taken to different parts of the city where they were put through drill and taught the different formations and movements. The sight of soldiers in service uniforms marching through the streets brought home to the citizens more than ever the fact that this European war also involves Canada, and that this country must help with men and other assistance.

Men have arrived at the armory from different parts of the province and Prince Edward Island, and it is expected that many more will be placed in quarters at the armory today and Monday.

Already there has been promotion of men in the ranks, and the following have been appointed provisional non-commissioned officers to perform the duties of this rank: G. Ambrose, H. Howes, E. Bernard, H. Young, J. Powell, W. Stockey, G. English, T. Whittle, W. Ruddle, T. Campbell, J. Moore, G. Simonds, W. Collins, J. Johnston, L. Richards, W. Williamson, J. Casey, R. S. Edwards.

It is expected that the provisional officers, who went to Halifax to take instructions will be back in the city on Monday, and it is possible that some of these will be engaged at the armory assisting in getting the recruits into shape for European service.

The following are among the recruits who recently have been added to the strength of the 26th New Brunswick Battalion and allotted their battalion numbers: F. Reilly, A. Gunn, F. McKay, H. Meahan, E. Miller, S. Howes, J. Perry, A. E. Duffy, T. McLane, G. Class, W. Fowler, J. H. McDonald, C. Duncan, R. McEachren, H. Ryan, C. Mason, R. Hare, A. Dixon, W. Pitt, K. Finley, F. Howard, C. Blahop, J. ## Vigor of Mind and of Body

As Essential for Success in Everyday Life as for Glories on the Battlefield.

Brain power, as well as muscular strength, can only be maintained by a plentiful supply of pure, rich blood to rebuild the cells and tissues wasted by the activities of life, the worries of business or household care or the devastating effects of disease.

If you have got run down in health, so that you fall to obtain from the food you eat the necessary nourishment for blood and nerves, you can turn to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with positive assurance that this food will help you back to health and vigor.

Neuralgia of the Heart.

Mr. James G. Clark, Fosterville, York county, N.B., writes:—I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. The pain started in the back of the neck and worked down into the region of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"When I began this treatment I could not rest in bed, except by sitting upright, on account of the dreadful pains about the heart and the quick, loud beating. The change which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made in my condition is wonderful. It has entirely overcome these symptoms, and is making me strong and well. If this statement will help to relieve the suffering of others, you are at liberty to use it."

MORE ACTIVITY IN BOSTON EXCHANGE

General improvement in evidence — Premier Asquith's speech helped brighten things.

Boston, Nov. 13.—There was the most active market in Boston Thursday since the closing of the Exchange, July 30.

The general improvement in financial conditions is emphasized in the dissolution of the committee that have been supervising dealings in unlisted securities in New York and Philadelphia.

The Boston committee dissolved some little time ago so that the field for these securities is an open one, so far as prices are concerned.

Foreign exchange rates are lower still and are not far away from normal quotations.

At anything under $4.00 for a pound sterling exchange is below the export point for gold and shipments for the metal to Ottawa to be used as a basis for sale of exchange are not expected.

There will be heavy exports of gold until exchange rates harden materially.

OPEN N. Y. COTTON EXCHANGE MONDAY

Cheering news received from New York markets by MacDougall & Cowans.

(McDOUGALL & COWANS.) New York, Nov. 13.—A message to MacDougall and Cowans office yesterday says: "The New York Cotton Exchange will open for business on Monday next at 10 a. m.

There is a very good investment demand for bonds, prices on the curb are generally higher; steel which sold at 37 1/2 is now 40 1/2 and 47. Bank loans generally have been reduced to 6 p. c., and this morning we have been called up by a large number of banks and offered money at this rate.

The Foreign Exchange market has returned to normal, and looks to us as if it would go still further in our favor.

The whole situation is vastly improved. (Signed) "Edmund Radolph." Private advices to the same firm from the New York Financial Bureau says:

A German credit balance will be established in New York soon, according to present plans. This will be to accomplish two results. It will buy supplies and at the same time offset liquidation of securities for German account, according to current gossip.

Capital for investment available by the first of the year in the United States will amount to $500-million, according to estimates just prepared by banking interests understood to have been investigating the accumulation of money and the prospects of lower rates.

Emergency currency relief is being considered in the United States. Attention is now directed to this fact by conservative interest who make point that in the past such recovery from depression.

TRADE OPENINGS FOR THE DOMINION

Weekly trade report of Canadian Trade Commissioner—Critical times in South America.

In "rather drab colors," as he himself expresses it, Mr. H. R. Pousette, Canadian trade commissioner, paints the financial conditions in South America, in the last Weekly Report issued by the Trade and Commerce Department.

All of the South American Republics," he says, "are passing through one of the most severe financial crises of their history. The European conflict is only a contributory factor, as business conditions were in an unhealthy state prior to that event."

He thinks the future has much to inspire hope and for that reason he addresses himself particularly to the Canadian export trade. At the same time, he says: "The advice given to manufacturers in Canada is, that they should not expect too much from the South American republics in immediately recuperating themselves for loss of orders either at home or abroad, but that they should look upon the next year as a period for careful and thorough preparation for the better times which are likely to ensue."

In the report of the Commissioner to China a list of articles is given that might be furnished by Canada. Some of these articles are produced in New Brunswick.

Reports on sales of apples in Great Britain are not very encouraging. Concerning the Timber Trades Journal, in which it is said that Archangel round-wood is being used in large quantities, as much as 47 per centum having been obtained.

Freights from Archangel to London or east coast ports have been at the rate of 60s. per fathom. A total of 21,588 loads of pitwood from France, Spain and Portugal is recorded.

"Prices," says the T. T. Journal, "are gradually declining, 21s. 6d. to 22s. ex ship being now quoted."

A very excellent article in the report is that on the value of direct representation by manufacturers who are seeking to open up new markets. Men of ability and character should be appointed and they should be on full scope. The manufacturer should not expect results too soon from the foreign field.

A case is mentioned where the salesman of a United States house in Australia did not make the first year to pay postage on the firm's correspondence, the second year he did not make his salary, but at length a large and profitable business was opened up for the firm.

There are a number of other valuable trade articles in the report. Among the trade enquiries are four for lobsters, three for apples, two for beef, one for beans, two for poultry, two for potatoes, and enquiries for hardware, barbed wire, household utensils, candles, etc.

FAVORS POOL TO SUPPORT MARKET

Head of Investment Bankers' Ass'n advocates reopening Stock Exchange with $250,000,000 fund to support market.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—President George B. Caldwell of Investment Bankers' Association of America, opening the annual convention, advocated reopening the stock exchange with a $250,000,000 pool to support the market.

Mr. Caldwell said that closing of the exchange, with accompanying cessation of security issues, was necessary, but thought the time had come when business should be resumed and that attention of statesmen bankers should be devoted to that purpose.

"The fact," he added, "is that as long as the exchanges are closed, capital issues and credits are held up and securities cannot be sold. Cities, counties, states and corporations are forced to drop improvements, factory production is reduced, likewise tonnage, and, most unfortunately, the employment of labor. The banks have contributed to a $100,000,000 gold pool for aiding the foreign exchange situation. The government has lent its support, through approval of the federal reserve board, to formation of a $125,000,000 pool for relief of cotton growers."

Granting the importance of these measures, is it not the next step to open the exchanges and if necessary lend support to the market by forming a pool of say $250,000,000, subscribed to by bankers and investors from coast to coast, and managed by five or seven of the ablest bankers, elected from New York, Philadelphia and Chicago? "This pool may be divided into two parts, a stock pool and a bond pool, as undoubtedly some would subscribe to the one and not the other, and some to both."

"What would restore confidence quicker than a combination of American capital ready to repurchase from abroad what from necessity they will desire to sell, at a price safe for us to pay? This is the largest and most important problem yet to be solved."

GIRL'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH BY STORM

Daughter of Leonard Wetmore, 76 Queen Street, struck by falling plaster when lightning crashed through roof—Other damage done in last night's storm.

Only by a miracle did the young daughter of Leonard T. Wetmore, 76 Queen street, escape death when at an early hour this morning a lightning bolt struck the house, ripped a hole through the roof, and knocked down practically all the plaster of the room in which she was sleeping.

The cot in which the little girl, whose name is Elizabeth, was sleeping was almost directly under the spot where the lightning bolt smashed through the roof of the building, and it was a marvel that she was not instantly killed.

The lightning bolt struck the house about one o'clock this morning during the height of a terrific wind and electric storm. Mr. Wetmore occupies one section of the house and George W. Currie the other.

It was about twenty minutes of one o'clock this morning when suddenly a young gale sprung up accompanied by heavy rain, thunder and very sharp lightning.

Refinery and the sight was a brilliant one. A small boat owned by Edward Doherty, which was on the Reed's Point wharf, was picked up by a gust of wind and carried about twenty yards when it was brought to a stop by the posts leading down the Eastern Steamship floats.

Lightning struck a chimney on Lawrence Mahoney's house, Harding street. The chimney fell with a crash through the roof and smashed through the dining room ceiling.

CATTLE EMBARGO BRINGS DRESSED MEAT BUSINESS TO LOCAL MEAT MERCHANTS

Kane and McDonald to slaughter 4000 sheep in St. John for shipment to the Swifts of Chicago—Embargo will not affect dressed or cured meats.

That a very unusual situation has been developed in the cattle and meat market as a result of the embargo which has been proclaimed by Canada, and many States in the American Union, is indicated by the fact that Swift Bros., of Chicago, have placed an order with Kane & McDonald of this city for about 4,000 sheep, to be slaughtered here and sent forward in refrigerator cars.

Kane & McDonald have had to buy sheep in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island as well as New England. The matter was discussed at a meeting of the Teachers' Association last evening and it was decided that the first half of the contribution should be given now and the remainder in March.

The teachers in the city schools have decided to give one per cent of their pay to the Patriotic and Belgian funds. The matter was discussed at a meeting of the Teachers' Association last evening and it was decided that the first half of the contribution should be given now and the remainder in March.

Opinion as to the effect of the embargo on hides upon prices seems to differ among dealers in hides. A representative of one of the largest tanners in the Maritime Provinces stated yesterday that New Brunswick did not import many hides from the States, though a considerable quantity of hides was exported at various times to the States.

Campaign to stimulate recruiting in St. John will then be launched—Prominent speakers selected.

At a meeting of the Patriotic Committee held in the local government room yesterday afternoon arrangements were made for the inauguration of a grand campaign in the interest of recruiting in St. John.

Local meat dealer talks of conditions revealed by U. S. embargo on cattle.

"Some good may come of the embargo on cattle if it directs attention to the danger of a meat famine in the next few years," said a prominent wholesale meat dealer yesterday.

"Americans have been taking large quantities of young cattle out of the Maritime Provinces, recently. They are bought up for packing purposes. We could not sell these young cattle in the local market, because they are not in a proper condition to convert into fresh meat.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.-From word that has been received here it is understood that the first of the Canadian troops to reach the firing line will be the Princess Patricia Regiment. It will go to the front very soon and the next troops to follow them will not be the first contingent now at Salisbury Plains, but the reinforcements for the Princess Patricia Regiment to be sent from Canada. Reinforcements for the infantry are now calculated on a basis of 25 per cent. per month of the original force and reinforcements for the next two months are expected to be provided the main body is sent out. It had been expected that a certain amount of reinforcements would be sent along with the second contingent, but the request for two months reinforcements for all infantry to go with the main body will mean that an extra six battalions or six thousand men will be required besides the 15,372 officers and men who, with the infantry brigade now in England, will form the second army division from Canada. This will make a force of 21,000 to 22,000 men.

British and French aircraft, after encounter, lured enemy into range of gunners on the ground. Paris, Nov. 13.-A thrilling encounter in which eight aeroplanes, four German, two French and two British figured, occurred in the vicinity of Ypres. The German machines were destroyed finally by artillery, and the eight officers whom they carried, killed. The Germans were seen approaching to reconnoitre the lines of the Allies. The French and British aircraft immediately ascended to meet them. For some time the aircraft circled about each other, rising and descending, while machine guns spat bullets among them. The sky was clear and the gunners on the ground had a good view of the aeroplanes, but failed to cripple any of the German machines. Then suddenly four Allied aeroplanes made a dash toward their own trenches and were followed by the Germans who, too late, discovered the feat, and perceived the peril of the situation only when shrapnel burst among them. In a few minutes the four German aeroplanes crashed to earth.

WAR COSTING FRANCE SIX MILLIONS A DAY

Average daily expense less last month than during first three months of war. Bordeaux, Nov. 13.-The cost of the war to France for the month of November probably would be somewhat less than was the monthly average for August, September and October. A supplementary credit for extraordinary expenditures authorized today for the month of November amounts to $122,154,504, being a daily average of a little above $6,000,000. The daily average for the first three months of the war was $7,000,000. The government will disperse immediately $13,000,000 for repairs to the railroad system. These probably have been made necessary by the wear and tear due to the transportation of the unemployed, while various smaller sums will be used to relieve the suffering in the departments of France that at one time were invaded by the German troops, but which are now free of soldiers.

GERMAN ATTACK ON ALLIES WEAKENING

Efforts to Break Through Lines around Ypres and Dixmude lacking in violence which marked fighting of past week - French capture of Quesnoy-en-Santerre an important gain. Paris, Nov. 13.-The French official announcement this afternoon is as follows: "From the seacoast as far as the Lys the fighting has been of a less violent character than on previous days. Several efforts of the Germans to cross the Yser Canal, at the western outlet from Dixmude and with other points of passage in the Armentieres district were checked. Generally speaking, our positions have been maintained without change. To the north, to the east and to the south of Ypres attacks of the enemy were repulsed at the end of the day, at different points of our line and that of the British army. "From the region to the east of Armentieres and as far as the Oise there have been artillery exchanges and actions of minor importance. "In the course of the last few days of foggy weather our troops have not ceased to make progress little by little. They are today established almost everywhere at distances varying from 300 to 500 metres from the network of barbed wire entanglements of the enemy. "To the north of the Aisne we have taken possession of Tracy-le-Val. With the exception of the cemetery to the northeast of this village we have made slight progress to the east of Tracy-le-Mont and to the southeast of Nouvron, as well as between Crocy and Vregny and to the northeast of Soissons. "In the vicinity of Vailly, a counter attack by the Germans, delivered against those of our troops who had retaken Chavonne and Soupir, was repulsed. "Equal failure attended the German efforts in the environs of Berry-au-Bac. "In the Argonne there has been a violent artillery duel. "There has been minor progress in the vicinity of St. Mihiel and in the region of Pont-a-Mousson. "A surprise attack delivered by our troops against the villages of Val and Chailion, near Ciry-Sur-Vezouse, made it possible for us to capture a detachment of the enemy. "A German attack directed against the heights of Mont Sainte Marie resulted in failure. "London, Nov. 13.-An official telegram from Cetinje says: "During the last three days Austrians, with heavy reinforcements, attacked our entire front stationed at Genaeva, endeavoring to capture important positions at Kiehouk and Timor, but though considerably greater in strength than ourselves, were repulsed after fierce fighting, our army fully maintaining its position. "Paris, Nov. 13.-The force of the German drive in an attempt to break the allied lines and reach the coast of Dunkirk and Calais is apparently spent for the time being. The official communique issued from the French office this afternoon declares that the violence of the fighting from the coast to Lys through Dixmude and Ypres has diminished. All attempts of the Germans to cross the Yser Canal have been frustrated. The position about Ypres is unchanged with the Allies still holding their positions. The Belgian relief throughout the United States, to convert all their funds into local purchases of foodstuffs, as they can be more advantageously purchased by such local bodies. Non-Perishable Supplies Needed. "Furthermore, the commission feels that those generous American people who are unable to contribute money should contribute something from their own stores of food into the hands of the local organizations. Each American farmer, out of the abundance of his crop, and all residents, from their own store can well afford a few bushels of grain. What is needed is oatmeal - wheat flour, shell corn, beans and also bacon and ham - as these are the only articles that will stand the long and difficult transport conditions. "The commission is co-operating in a most cordial manner with other organizations and institutions in America, and does not wish to overlap the efforts of any one. It wishes to emphasize that its functions are the reception, transportation and distribution of foodstuffs to the Belgians from every source. By the machinery of the commission, every pound of foodstuff contributed reaches the Belgians without cost to the contributors. A branch of this commission is being perfected in New York, to co-operate with others and supplies collected by the various local organizations at central points will be received and transported by it. This organization and its personnel will be completed within a few days. "The commission already has delivered an installment of foodstuffs into the hands of local relief committees in virtually every centre in Belgium. The commission is receiving most cordial assistance from the Dutch officials in expediting food through Holland, and most helpful facilities from the German officials in the nature of an escort from the frontier to the various distribution points."

COMMISSION TO SUPPLY FOOD TO BELGIANS

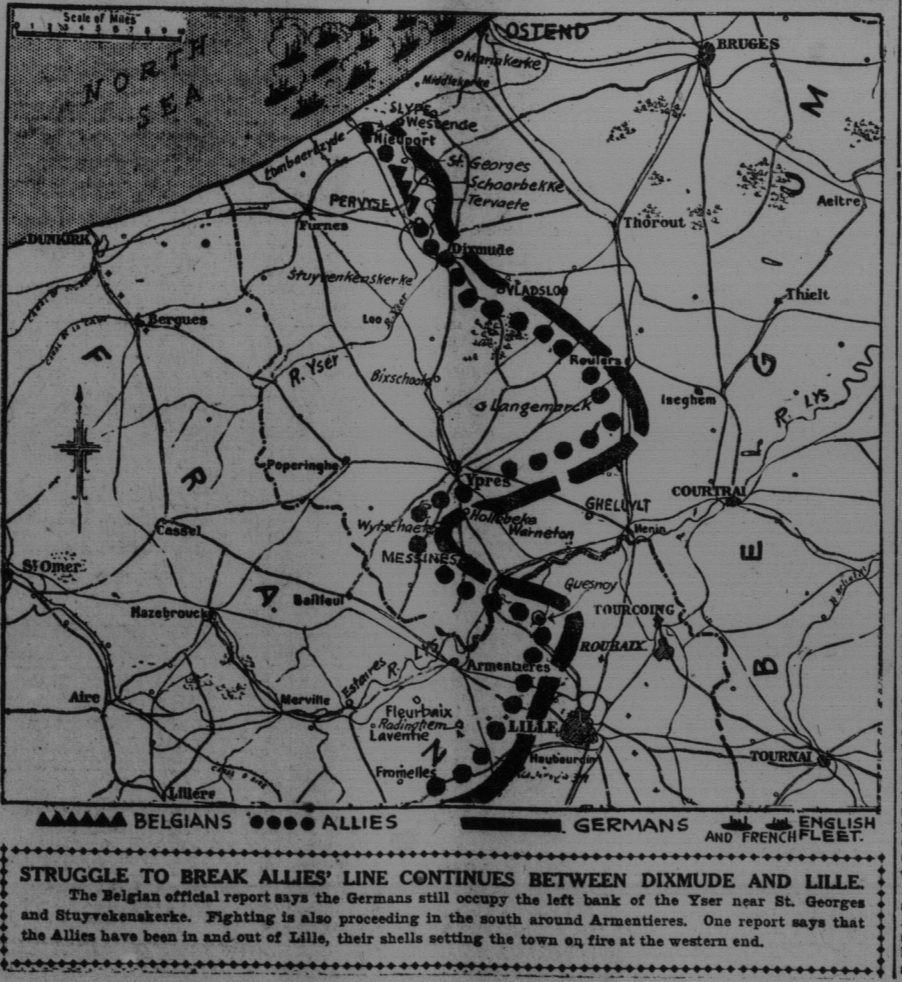

London, Nov. 12, 7 p. m.-The American Commission for Relief in Belgium today received a check for $3,000,000, which was contributed by prominent Belgians, interested in the relief of their countrymen. With the emergency work in Belgium well under way, the commission is now prepared to assume the permanent task of keeping Belgians supplied with food. In this connection it has made the following statement: "The American Commission for Relief in Belgium today received a check for $3,000,000, which, it is estimated, will be necessary for the transportation of foodstuffs for the next three months from various parts of the world into Belgium. "This money has been advanced to the commission under the guarantee given by various Belgian relief committees and important Belgians. "This substantial sum is a most convincing evidence of the desire of the Belgians themselves to assist the commission to the fullest extent which they are capable of doing. The contribution also emphasizes the urgency of the situation and, as large as the sum is, it must be borne in mind that foodstuffs to the value of about $4,000,000 monthly, must be secured for seven or eight months. Of this amount, $1,000,000 monthly will be required for the expense of transport. "The commission is arranging for a regular steamship service from the Atlantic seaboard, and a transport service from the interior to the seaboard. The commission urges all local contributors and others interested in heavy snowstorm in Quebec, Quebec, Nov. 13.-A regular mid-winter snow storm holds the district since noon today, and is still raging with fury. The wind has a velocity of thirty-two miles an hour.

The World of Apples

The Apple is An Article of Food.

The following recipes have been taken from a publication edited by Miss L. Gertrude MacKay, called "The Book of Apple Delights," and now available for everybody in Canada without charge. This booklet will be sent to any address on application to The Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa. There is no charge for the booklet, and persons desiring copies need not even stamp the letters containing their applications. A post card is just as good as a letter and will be given prompt attention. At the present time there may be a few days delay in issuing these on account of the enormous number of applications which are being received by the Department, but all requests will be met in regular order, and it is believed that the book will be very generally appreciated.

HOW TO STORE APPLES FOR THE WINTER.

(By W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist.)

The householder usually obtains his fruit in barrels, boxes or baskets, but in whatever receptacle they are received they should be put in a cool place at once as they will soon get in poor condition in a warm room. As soon as it is cool enough for storing, the apples should be put where the temperature can be maintained at as near 32 F. to 35 F. as possible. The cooler apples are kept without freezing the better. In houses in towns and cities it is often difficult to find a place where the temperature can be regulated as it is usually too warm or too cool. However, the coolest place should be chosen where there is no danger of frost. If there is a choice of two rooms or cellars, that with the moistest atmosphere will be better, for often the air is too dry for keeping apples properly in a city house. If the apples when received are in good condition and none of the specimens show signs of rotting, they may be left in the barrel or box, if, however, they show signs of rotting they should be emptied out carefully and sorted and the unpicked specimens wrapped in paper and put back or into some other clean box or barrel, as if the room is very dry they will shrivel less when kept in a mass. Even if no rot is apparent this is a wise precaution. The paper or newspaper may be used for wrapping. Moreover, there will be much less danger of rot spreading if the fruit is wrapped as, if the temperature is rather high, some of the rot diseases spread from one fruit to the other very readily. It is important to keep apples in clean receptacles, otherwise they may absorb unpleasant flavors.

Headachy, Costive, Bilious, "Gascarets"

Tonight! Clean your bowels and end headaches, colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headaches, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes constipation and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excessive bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

NEWS FROM HARTLAND AND VICINITY

Hartland, N. B., Nov. 12.—When the war broke out it was thought that the possibility of obtaining potato salts for making artificial fertilizers would be ruined, as this product comes principally from Germany, but information has come to hand that the united agricultural societies of New Brunswick, of which the Peoples' Union Agricultural Society is a part, has been able to place an order for 100 tons of this ingredient. This will be good news to the farmers who have been practicing home mixing. The matter of obtaining a part of this order will be dealt with at the meeting of the society in Burr's Hall on Saturday afternoon. Other business of importance to the farmers of this section will also be transacted at this meeting.

A branch of the Red Cross Society has been organized at Jacksonville with the following officers: Mrs. J. B. Gough, president; Mrs. Everett Hildy, vice-president; Mrs. J. B. Valli, secretary, and Mrs. Wilson, treasurer. Previous to the organization the ladies had forwarded three boxes of clothing and $75 to the Belgian Relief committee.

The news of the raising of the embargo on New Brunswick potatoes is received by the farmers with joy, and they are pleased with the action of the department of agriculture in taking prompt measures to stamp out the powdery scab and to restore the American market for their use.

AN EASY WAY TO STOP HEAD NOISES

Good Advice For Those Who Fear Deafness.

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience a stuffy feeling or pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing, rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Head noises are almost invariably the forerunner of complete or partial deafness and most deaf people suffer from this cause. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve racking, with their never ceasing "hum" they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headaches and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This English treatment is known as Parmitin and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in St. John and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggist 1 oz. Parmitin (Double Strength) and mix it at home with 1.4 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and then take one tablespoonful four times a day until the noises disappear and the hearing improves. Parmitin is used double strength in this way not only to reduce, by tonic action, the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear and the results it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

PRESBYTERIAN

The Presbytery of St. John, is called to meet in Fredericton next Tuesday to deal with the call from Chipmunk congregation to Rev. E. E. Mowatt, of Logville. Rev. Grover Livingston, of Shediac also asks for a short leave of absence for the sake of his health.

Rev. F. H. McIntosh, of Falmouth Street Church, Sydney, N. S., has received a call to St. Andrew's Church, Lindsay, Ont. Dr. J. H. Macmillan, of St. Matthew's Church, Halifax, N. S., was minister of the latter congregation for several years previous to his pastorate in Winnipeg and Halifax.

At a meeting of Sydney Presbytery recently, the Sydney Presbytery of the W. E. and H. M. Society, sent representatives to the court of Synod to undertake the support of a Kindergarten teacher in connection with the work among the foreigners carried on by St. Stephen's Church. Needless to say, the Presbytery very cordially thanked the delegation for their generosity and asked for a committee of the Presbytery to cooperate with the Kindergarten committee in the work. Miss Christie, of G. A. Christie, N. S., sister of Rev. G. A. Christie, will be the teacher in the kindergarten department.

The Prince Edward Island Presbytery has generously come to the front with a standing offer of a $250 bonus to any young woman of that province who is desirous of training for Deaconess at the Presbytery Missionary and Deaconess Training Home, Toronto.

Taylor Church, Montreal, is now vacant through the resignation of Dr. A. C. Manson to accept an office in the Presbytery of St. John, N. B. R. E. Welsh, of Montreal College has been appointed interim moderator of session.

As an illustration of the "trek" of ministers from the Maritime Provinces to Ontario and the West, it may be noted that at a recent induction in the Presbytery of Glenora, the four ministers taking part in the service were either natives of or former ministers in the Maritime Provinces. Rev. D. Stewart, the moderator, labored for some time in St. Martin's, N. B. Rev. J. L. Manthorne, who preached, was born and bred in Liverpool, N. S. Rev. John Leunox, who gave the charge to the congregation, was for a time stationed at Norton, N. B., and Rev. W. A. Morrison, who addressed the people, is a native of Cape Breton. The minister of Roxborough congregation preceding Mr. MacLennan, who was being inducted, had been a Prince Edward Islander, Rev. A. D. MacKenzie.

St. Andrew's Church, Campbellton, N. B., extended a call to Rev. H. St. Andrew, of the Congregational Church, Calais, Me., but in view of the fact that Mr. Macdonald is not now a minister of the Presbytery of St. John, the Presbytery of Miramichi did not sustain the call.

Off to the Front.

The Presbyterians in Canada has just sent a large contingent of men to take their places in the ranks of the Soldiers of the Cross, who are laboring to extend the Kingdom of Jesus Christ in India, China and Korea. The number in all is twenty of whom are returning after furlough, while twenty-five are new recruits. Speaking of their departure, the Toronto Presbyterians say: "The response throughout the whole British Empire to the present call to arms has been wonderful. It has come not only from the young men, who volunteer for service, but from the whole body of the people. Every one is ready to do his share. If we cannot fight we can pay—war taxes, patriotic funds, Red Cross funds—we are prepared to meet them all. It should not be otherwise with our missionary army. All honor to the men and women who represent us in the foreign field, the work in which they are engaged is ours as well as theirs. The Master's commission is spoken to us all. If we cannot go into distant lands to preach His gospel, let us heartily support those who go for us. By our liberality let us make it possible for many more to go."

A Business Man and Foreign Missions
Sir W. Mackworth Young, formerly Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab, said in an address delivered after his return to Britain: "As a business man speaking to business men, I am prepared to say that the work which has been done by the missionary agency in India exceeds in importance all that has been done by the British Government in India since its commencement."

Strong Words from Robert E. Speer
Robert E. Speer, that great student and leader of missionary effort, bears this deliberate testimony to the work of the missionaries: "I think it just to claim that the missionary enterprise is the most powerful, the purest, the most fruitful agency by which God is operating greatly upon the world. No other agency is affecting the life of man in striking that life with that deep and heavy an impact; is pouring into it so purely, with so little contamination, the living stream of the life of God; is bearing so rich and abundant a fruitage."

Rev. Dr. J. H. MacVicar, of St. Andrew's Church, and Mr. T. H. Somerville, of St. David's Church, were in attendance at a meeting of the Foreign Mission Board, Eastern Division, in Halifax, on Tuesday, November 10th. The chief business taken up was the consideration of the estimates for 1915. The amounts asked for by the working forces were very sparingly granted in view of the tension of war times and the pending union of the Board in the East with that in the West, by the action of the General Assembly, and the Synod of the Maritime Provinces. Building movements, especially, were deferred till they could be approved by the augmented Board. A grant of $250 was made to the Training College in Santo, which is the only permanent construction now retained by the Presbytery of St. John in Canada with the work in the New Hebrides, recently handed over to the Australians.

1. The University proper, legally entitled to use the corporate name as its special designation, embracing faculties in Arts, Theology, Applied Science and Music. It is affiliated with Oxford and McGill Universities, with the Law School of Dalhousie University, and the N. S. School of Technology. By virtue of its affiliation with Oxford, Mount Allison graduates, on their election to Rhodes Scholarships, are exempted from the entrance examinations (Respondeat). At present the University offers only a two years' course in Applied Science, or Engineering, certificates of having completed which entitle the holders to entrance upon the third year of any of the McGill or N. S. School of Technology courses in Applied Science. For the carrying out of the provisions of this new course, the original College building has been remodelled and enlarged, and an extensive outfit of apparatus and machinery installed. Instruction in Physics, Chemistry, etc., is given by the Arts professors in those subjects, while the specialty engineering branches employ the full time of two expert professors, one a Mechanical, the other a Civil Engineer.

Mount Allison.

The affiliation with the Dalhousie Law School secures for Mount Allison graduates, with certificates in certain subjects, one year's shortening of the regular Law School course. The University Building, erected in 1883, is an exceedingly handsome edifice of brown stone, with chapel, library, classroom, laboratories, museum, etc. The Residence is a handsome brown stone building of four stories, with a large two-story L in the rear. It has been planned to promote in the highest degree the comfort and convenience of its occupants. As respects architecture, construction and appointments, it combines conditions exceptionally conducive to health and agreeable living, and may challenge comparison with any students' residence in Canada. It is lighted throughout by electricity, while heat is supplied by the most approved of modern hot-water systems. Drainage, plumbing, and ventilation have all received careful attention. The University organization dates from 1828, and the Charter recently adopted conferred on the "Mount Allison Wesleyan College" full University powers as respects courses of study and Degrees in the various Arts and Faculties, and these powers are expressly continued to the institution under its present designation of "The University of Mount Allison College." Under this authority the University maintains complete and efficient Faculties in Arts, Theology and Applied Science, and confers all the degrees appropriate thereto.

NEW VOCABULARY OF WAR MUST BE CREATED

Old Terms are Obsolete Now in Describing Movements.

A REVIEW OF THE RECENT FIGHTING

The three men responsible for Welfare of Russian fleet—Distinguished themselves in Russo-Japanese war.

London, Nov. 12.—The historian of the present armageddon will find it necessary to create a new vocabulary of war. The old names and terms by long use have taken to themselves so definite and precise a meaning that they convey a false impression when used in connection with the entirely novel happenings on the continent of Europe.

He does not wish to be misleading he will find himself unable, for example, to use the word "battle," which calls up the thought of a combat, isolated, possibly, but in space and time from other conflicts of a given campaign.

It is the campaign which has laid waste the buffer state of Belgium and the north of France the battle has been a continuous one in which the combatants, never losing touch with one another, have advanced from the Meuse to the Marne and back again toward the north.

The occasional lifting of the curtain which screened these great happenings from the world's gaze reveals rarely more than some slight alteration in the position of the combatants, and never any prolonged period of quiet, as has been pointed out by Sir John French himself in drawing the special attention of Lord Kitchener to the fact that "from Meuse back almost to the Seine, and from the Seine to the Aisne, the army under my command has been ceaselessly engaged without one single day's halt or rest of any kind."

At this date, October 20, it is clear that even if one adheres to the old nomenclature some new phrase will have to be devised for the operation now in progress. The battle of the Aisne is useless, and the battle of the rivers inaccurate.

Since September 18, when, as appears from Sir John French's despatches, General Joffre the silent informed the British commander of his intention to attack and envelope the German right flank, the battle front of the contending armies have moved steadily northwards to the shores of the narrow seas, each line drawing largely on its eastern extremity and center for the support of its western flank.

four German destroyers off the Dutch coast and sank them. The German destroyers and submarines show great initiative and dash and will continue to do so, in spite of such incidents as the above, but it is clear that the attrition of the British fleet by these craft will be of no avail if it is accompanied by this still greater attrition of the German fleet.

The commander of the undaunted in the successful action against the German destroyers was Capt. Cecil H. Fox, who was in command of the Amphion when it was blown up by a mine immediately after sinking the mine layer Koening Luise. As against the success of Captain Fox there is the loss to Britain's Japanese ally of the cruiser Takachio, a light cruiser of 3700 tons completed in 1885 and refitted in 1900.

The heart attack suffered by Prince Oscar, the Kaiser's fifth son, was induced by the sight of an officer killed in battle, according to a letter which the prince has written to the officer's widow. The letter, published in the Berliner Tageblatt, is as follows: "Two minutes before his death I was with your husband in the front line of defence. Both of us had, by God's grace, come through a hellish fire which lasted all day. We were speaking together in the full fire of shells. Then your husband left to try to force an advance in order to have a view over the hostile batteries which he wished to storm."

It was then he received his fatal shot and was called into the great army. I was not able to follow further what happened, as then I required to be assisted by two of my men on account of a heart attack, which I am endeavoring to recover from.

More War Melodies. "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," is all right as a marching song, but Tommy Atkins has several other melodies for fighting. One of the favorites runs: "Here we are, Here we are, Here we are again, Never mind the weather, Now then all together, Hullo! Hullo! Here we are again!"

Another very frequently heard in the trenches during the recent wet weather is entitled "Better Put Up Your Umbrella When the Rain Comes on."

devastating fusillade. It was horrible to see them fall in solid masses. The speed of mitrailleuses was 600 shots a minute. Under the incessant fire they grew white hot. "Unchecked by the awful carnage, the Germans came on in solid formation. We had not need to take aim, but just plucked at the mass, certain that every shot told. We were unable, however, to stem the Teutonic flood. They reached our trenches and a hand-to-hand bayonet encounter ensued. This phase of battle lasted five hours, then our artillery got to work. Germans retreated, only to recharge. "So frightful was the fire that a solid line of dead a mile long lay 400 yards from our trenches."

"He's Got a Wife and Kids!" Trooper S. Stanley of the Royal Scots Greys, writing a friend in Edinburgh, says: "I owe my own life and that of perhaps a whole army to my old horse. I was on outpost duty at a lonely spot and though I could not hear or see anything my horse kept neighing and betraying signs of restlessness. "I got down and came on a German crocheting in the long grass. He had a sword bayonet and evidently meant to get me unawares, and then the post would have been rushed. I didn't wait to ask his intentions, but let him have a ticket for another country. "His yell brought his mates down, but I got away, and the row alarmed the guard and spoiled their attempt at surprising us. You bet the old nag had a special feed that night. "A touching story of an unfinished letter is told by a private in the Scots Guards. "In the trenches in one of our off days I was sitting smoking a 'rag' and my chief was writing a letter to his mother. He had got to this: 'I have got through without a scratch so far, but you never know your luck out—when a bullet rounded off that sentence better than you or I could do it, and his grave is in the lonely valley of the Aisne.' "A beautiful little story of self sacrifice is told by a gunner of the Royal Artillery: "In one of our night fights," he writes, "a chap of the Gloucesters had his rifle knocked out of his hand and a big German lunged at him with a bayonet. Quick as lightning one of his mates sprang between him and the German and received the thrust in his chest. He died within an hour, and when asked why he did it his answer was, 'God! I couldn't help it! He's got a wife and kids.'"

What Saved Prince Oscar. The heart attack suffered by Prince Oscar, the Kaiser's fifth son, was induced by the sight of an officer killed in battle, according to a letter which the prince has written to the officer's widow. The letter, published in the Berliner Tageblatt, is as follows: "Two minutes before his death I was with your husband in the front line of defence. Both of us had, by God's grace, come through a hellish fire which lasted all day. We were speaking together in the full fire of shells. Then your husband left to try to force an advance in order to have a view over the hostile batteries which he wished to storm."

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety. So, Wellington, B.C.—"For a year during the change of life I was all run down. I was really too weak to walk and was very despondent and thought I was going to die, but after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier my health and strength returned. I am very thankful to you and praise your medicine. I have advised several women who suffered as I did to try your remedies. You may publish this if you wish." Mrs. DAVID R. MORRIS, South Wellington, Vancouver Island, B.C.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unequalled endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and we believe it is unequalled for women during the period of change of life. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

INCIDENTS OF THE WAR The Wuerzburg General Aniegrer of 6 publishes the following description of a battle in France as given by a Bavarian Lieutenant on the firing line. The officer writes: "Suddenly we were rushing forward. The enemy hurled shells at us from the hills. After heavy losses we reached another small forest at the bottom of the hill occupied by the enemy. His artillery now kept up continuous firing at the forest, which was soon destroyed. Large trees broke in half or were torn out at the roots. "A small explosion in a pit not more than three feet from my position. Screams like the yells of wounded animals reach my ear. In a pool of blood six of my comrades lay dead. "The soldier to my left is hit in the head by a bullet. He tried to raise his hand, but his strength has left him. To the right a soldier has been hit in the arm by a bullet. It laid open the arteries. With a cord I tie his arm to prevent his bleeding to death."

MILE LINE OF LEAD Fearful slaughter of Germans in the Argonne district last week is recorded in a French officer's letter. It says: "One infantry regiment and a battalion of chasseurs were strongly entrenched, with orders to hold an important strategic highway. Four German columns, comprising 15,000 men stormed the trenches with the bayonet. "We had five quick-firing gun sections. Simultaneously all erupted fire. The German mass rocked beneath the

The official account of the latter incident simply stated that the light cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by four destroyers engaged

I would advise anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble, to use "Fruit-a-tives."

LORD BERESFORD, ENGLAND'S FAMOUS SEA DOG IN NEW ROLE

Long Expected Memoirs Give Insight Into Remarkable Versatility of Man For So Many Years Vivifying Spirit of Britain's Navy.

By J. P. Collins.

London, Nov. 12.—The jovial daredevil spirit of the British navy has found many expositions in song and story, but has rarely been better exemplified than in the long-expected memoirs of Lord Charles Beresford. He has taken a hand at so many games as earnest-war, service reform, politics, travel and sport—that he has incurred the animosity of a good many of those solid and worthy Britainers who prefer their public men to wear one label, and stick to it. But his countrymen at large have always given "Charlie" Beresford a patent of versatility, as well as popularity, and have never forgotten that he is above everything a fighting man. So that if the fable of the book is versatility it is a single personality that dominates the narrative and invests it with a downright and boundless vitality, and these two volumes of memoirs just published could be the memoirs of no one else in the wide, wide world.

Broken but Unbending.

As his Irish compatriots say, he had the "kind" family; for the house of Beresford was always notorious for its horsemanship, vivacity and dash. It was said of his brother, the late "Bull" Beresford, famed through Zululand and India, that he had broken every bone in his body at different times, and there is a catalogue of Lord Charles's fractures given here—events in all which makes him a close runner-up. We read that he has at various times broken his chest bone, a piece of which was cut out; his right leg, right hand, foot, five ribs, one collar bone three times, the other once, his nose three times. Yet he was sent to sea as a cadet because he was delicate, and when he entered his first ship, the Marlborough sailing ship, as a cadet, one of her sails cheerfully began to fly for him.

He entered up his name as William with one "L" but it was the era of admirals who were indulgent about schooling, and contemptuous about books. It was also the days of rough handling, and hard fare, before Sir William Martin's reforms in navy discipline had set in. Beresford and the "splendid" system made the men's life a burden; and "promotion by paint" was common. Seamanship was taught by means of models—instead of the reality, and a discipline which, Lord Charles admits, could not compare with the standards of today was enforced by means of the "cat" (that is to say the whip or "cat-of-nine-tails") and unlimited bad language. Here is an example which Lord Charles gives as a typical talk between officer and man:

Officer—Why didn't you—well, do so and so, when I told you?
Man—Why didn't I? Because if I had I should have been—well, killed, and so would you.
Officer—Don't you answer me! I shall put you in the report.
Man—Put me in the ruddy report, then.
And the next day the commander, having heard both sides, would say to the officer:
"Why, the man was quite right. And to the man, "You had no right to argue with the officer. Don't do it again. Now get away with you."
And everyone would part the best of friends.

A few more yarns of Lord Charles's cadet days may not be amiss: When we lay in Corfu harbor the Marlborough was challenged by a crew of artillerymen. It was, I think, on this occasion that John Gleanville headed a deputation to me, asking me to be coxswain.
"Well, sir," he said, "it's like this here, sir, if you'll pardon me. Yew be young-like, and what we was thinking was whether you have the power of language that'd be required."
I said I would do my best. I did, I astonished myself. As for the artillerymen, they roved themselves right under. There was a little scuffling, and there they roved the boat in the water.
"What! Yew bairn! never going to pick them up?" cried John Gleanville, in the heat of his excitement.
Another time, when cruising in the Mediterranean, Marlborough had gone to the rescue of a Turkish liner, carrying troops, which had run aground on the Filfoia rocks, twelve miles by sea from Malta harbor.
I was so eager to see my old ship again that I hired a duck punt and pulled all by myself. It was calm, or I might have been drowned. I found a party from the Marlborough rolling the Turkish vessel to get her off. Each British sailor took a Turkish sailor by the scruff of the neck and ran with him from side to side of the ship, until she rolled herself into deep water.
During his probation at Plymouth in the early days, there was a turpentine gate outside the town, and he surmounted it in a characteristic way.
I was driving a brother officer home late one night, after dining at a house some distance away, and when we came to the toll-gate the keeper was in bed, and all my knocking and shouting failed to wake him up. So I proceeded to heave a large stone through his window. That fetched him, and down he came, grumbling and swearing. I thrust a sovereign—the only coin I had—into his hand to pay for his broken window and the toll. It was bad tactics, for he promptly retreated into his house (with my sovereign), leaving me still on the wrong side of the gate. There was nothing for it but to break the rest of his windows, but still he wouldn't come out. Evidently a surly fellow, unfit to take charge of turpentine gates, an office demanding tact and courtesy; and we thought it well to remove his temptation. So my companion and I wrenched the gate from its hinges and fastened to the cart, vertically, so that it projected over our heads like a kind of ornamental roof, its weight nearly lifting the masts between the shafts off her legs and making her kick like blazes. Then we drove into Plymouth, gate and all. The gate was reduced to firewood before sunrise. Next day the town was pacified with vain offers of reward for information concerning "some evil-disposed person or persons unknown who," etc.

Lord Charles as a cadet played the usual pranks. One trick of his was tried on his captain in the Marlborough, who used to fish from the stern gallery when the ship was at anchor; and the idea is hardly new. The captain tied his line to the rail and went back into his cabin, returning every few minutes to see if he had a fish. Beneath the stern gallery opened the ports of the gun room (where the cadets mess). With a hooked stick I drew in his line, attached a red herring to the hook, dropped it in again, and when the captain came to feel his line I jerked it. He hauled it up in a hurry. Instantly after he sent for all the midshipmen; and for some reason or other he picked me out at once.

Better known to the navy as an anecdote of a certain fussy admiral famous a generation ago:
He was walking along the road to Sheerness dressed in plain clothes, when a blue-jacket, who was slightly intoxicated, lurching against him, "Man, man," said my friend with his picked eloquence, "do you know what you are doing? Man, you are colliding with the commander-in-chief."
"Ho," returned the seaman, totally unimpressed; "har you, indeed? Then all I've got to say is to say you've got a ruddy good billet—an' what's more, you take care you don't lose it by getting drunk."
Even the marvelous celebrity which the men attained in sail-drill and rigging exploits had to be discouraged as damaging to heart and lungs, but Lord Charles pins his faith to the dangers of reefing or furling in a gale as counterbalancing blasphemy and instilling into the crew a real sense of security. The fact is, he says, that "there is a deep sense of religion in those who go down to the sea in ships and do their business in the great waters. Every minister of God, irrespective of the denomination to which he belongs, is treated with respect."
Li Hung Chang and Bismarck.

In China once, when he was invited to frame an army for it, as Gordon had done a generation before, Lord Charles met Li Hung Chang, but he has less to tell us about him than about the comic side of Chinese democracy.
China is one of the most democratic countries in the world. I have seen the great Li Hung Chang stepping into the Yarmen over the bodies of the coolies, who refused to move and who chafed him as he passed. I have seen a whole Council huddle up their fans and disperse like startled poultry, because a coolie put his head in at the door and exhorted the old gentlemen to be quick, because it was going to rain, and the coolies were going home.

Here is what he has to tell us about an interview he had with Bismarck in 1880 about fleets and things:
Bismarck said that he could not understand why my own people did not listen to me; nor (said he) for (said he) the British fleet was the greatest factor for peace in Europe. We had a most interesting conversation upon matters of defence and preparation for war; and his tone was most friendly towards the English. He very kindly presented me with his signed photograph. I stayed with him for two hours; and we drank much beer; and all the time his gigantic bon-bon lay beside him, stared fixedly at me with a red and lurid eye.

Half a Century of the "Salt Horse" School.
Fifty years of hard naval service is enough for any man. He had seen the era of sail go out and the age of steam and electricity in. He says that when he hoisted down his flag at Portsmouth as chief of the Channel Fleet on March 24, 1909.

It was a satisfaction to me when I came to shore and it is satisfaction to me now, to think that I pulled my pound in the navy.
Doubtless, like other men of action, I have made mistakes. But I may justly claim that I have held one purpose with a single mind—to do my best for the good of the service and for the welfare of the officers and men of the royal navy; and in following that purpose I have tried to disregard consequences which might affect my own fortunes, and which in fact, have often proved injurious to them.

Several times I have talked with Lord "Charlie" at length upon naval affairs. Last year when the Titanic disaster had crushed us with its suddenness and weight, I propounded to him on my own initiative an idea which has since been debated pretty widely and deserves some day to be taken up in earnest. This is the establishment of a permanent patrol of boats along the northern edge of the transatlantic navigation belt, with frequent changes of crews, but always well within a class of trained and hardened sea scots, equipped with every modern appliance in the way of wireless and the saving of life and property. Lord Charles nodded with approval of the idea, and said it would be capital work for rescue bands if good pay were forthcoming, but he shook his head when we discussed this point of finance. I said that the cost of a boat, like the Titanic would equip a complete patrol, for five or ten years and he agreed; but he said there was a world of difference between the price that ship owners were bound to pay through accidental loss and the price they were asked to pay voluntarily for the safeguarding of human life. The other occasions have been in times when we discussed the rapid progress made in recent years by the engineering and gunnery ratings, as compared with the executive, but he says that he always advocated this leveling up of the services, though he was brought up in the strictest branch of the executive or "salt horse school," as it was called.

Lively Times at Westminster.
The same independent spirit which marked his sailing attended him in Parliament, and he is our prize instance of a man who has combined both roles. When in the slightest he was junior lord of the admiralty, "responsible for the provision of coal and stores among other trifles," a Clerk came into his rooms with a sheet of papers in one hand and a wet quilt in the other, and this is what happened:
"Will you sign the estimates?" says he. "What?" said I. "Will you sign the estimates for the year?" he repeated. "My good friend," I said, "I have not seen them." The clerk looked mildly perturbed. He said: "The other lords have signed them, sir; it would be very inconvenient if you don't." "I am very sorry," said I, "but I am afraid I am inconvenient in this office already. But I shall certainly not sign the estimates." The clerk's countenance betrayed consternation. "I must tell the First Lord, sir," said he, as one who presents an ultimatum. "I don't care a fig whom you tell," said I; "I cannot sign the estimates because I have not read them."
A solution, was found by the First Lord, Lord George Hamilton, who said that one signature more or less "didn't matter." That interesting and laborious bureaucrat took the same line later over Lord Charles's demand for several millions to bring the navy up to the point of efficiency. It was refused. Lord Charles resigned, and Lord George quietly adopted the measure as his own shortly afterwards. He was merely doing as Mr. Goschen had done under the Liberal regime a few years earlier, and Lord Charles is content to be the victim to both cases so long as the navy got the benefit. He paid the penalty for the temerity, however, in more ways than one, as we shall see.

Riding a Pig Down Park Lane.
Among many miscellaneous "stunts" which Lord Charles can put to his credit is the fact that, as he claims, he is the only man alive who ever rode a pig down that boulevard of lords and millionaires, Park Lane.

CRIMEAN WAR SAW ORIGIN OF THE V. C.

Instituted by Queen Victoria in 1856—Some Thrilling Deeds Which Have Won Most Coveted Honor British Soldier or Sailor Can Gain.

About sixty years ago the Russian fortress of Bomarsund in the Baltic Sea was being bombarded by an Anglo-French force. Suddenly a shell fired from the fortress fell on the deck of H.M.S. Hecla. In an instant a brave young mate seized it, and with the fuse blazing between his hands, he flung it with a jerk overboard. That young mate—ultimately became Rear-Admiral Charles Davis Lucas, who died a few days ago—was immediately promoted lieutenant and awarded the V.C., being the first to win that much-coveted decoration, although, owing to three other officers being a senior rank, he was fourth actually to receive it from Queen Victoria.

Where Crosses Were Won. It would require a volume to describe the many acts of personal bravery which have won the V.C.; but perhaps the most heroic deeds were those performed during the Indian Mutiny which provided the most V.C.'s. Altogether during that campaign, 132 heroes won the decoration. The Crimean War accounted for 111, the war in South Africa for seventy-eight, the Zulu War for twenty-three the Afghan War (1878-80) for sixteen, the New Zealand campaign for twelve, and the operations on the North West Frontier of India (1897-8) for ten. These wars accounted for 432 crosses, the remainder, between ninety and one hundred, being distributed among the various campaigns in Africa, India, and elsewhere that have been fought during the past half century.

Each V.C. is made from bronze which once formed part of some Russian gun captured during the Crimean War, and although the medal itself is intrinsically worth only about 9 cents, a number of them have been sold at sales for $500 and over. The winning of the V.C. carries an annuity of $50, which may be increased to $250, to all except officers, and including those who have risen from the ranks.

Boys' Gallant Deeds. Several boys have secured the medal for valor. There was Bugler Hawthorne, who gallantly tried to save Lieutenant Salkeld at the blowing in of the Caabree Gate at Delhi on the morning of September 14th, 1857, and who was at Delhi that young Bur William Sutton, on the eve of the assault of Delhi, voluntarily went close up to the walls to ascertain the state of the breach. He succeeded and by the whole regiment was elected for the V.C. Like Hawthorne, he was a mere lad.

Later at Cawapore we find Drummer Thomas Finn, of the 64th South Staffordshire Regiment, actually charging the guns of the rebels with the short sword, the only arms of his rank, with which he slew in hand-to-hand combat two snail-gunners. In a few rare instances the V. C. has been won by more than one member of a family. The most conspicuous case is that of the Gough family, which can boast of three V.C.'s—General Sir C. J. S. Gough, General Sir H. H. Gough, and Lieutenant-Colonel J. E. Gough. The first two were brothers of the second. Major-General E. H. Sartorius and Colonel R. W. Sartorius provide another case of brothers winning the decoration. Another instance of a father and son winning the cross is seen in Lord Roberts and his gallant son, Lieutenant the Hon. F. H. S. Roberts, who lost his life in gaining the V.C. at the battle of Colenso. Lieutenant Roberts, as all will remember, won the cross in an heroic attempt to save the guns at Colenso in the Boer War, his cross by order of the late Queen, being awarded to Lieutenant Roberts' parents after his death.

Savior in a Tree. The navy has always been proud of the manner in which Sir Norwell Salmon won the V.C. at Lucknow by climbing a tree, and from this dangerous and exposed position silencing the firing of a rifle from the British troops. No man distinguished himself more, however, during the Mutiny than Sir Dighton Probyn. At the battle of the Queen, when his squadron charged the rebel infantry, he was separated from his men and surrounded by five or six sepoys. He defended himself from various cuts made at him, and before his own men had joined him he had cut down two of his assailants. At another time, in single combat with a sepoy, he was wounded in the wrist by a bayonet, and his horse was also wounded, but though the Sepoy fought desperately he cut him down. The same day he singled out a standard bearer, and in the presence of a number of the enemy killed him and captured the standard. These are only a few of the gallant deeds of this officer.

A Technical Error. Husband—It seems to me that marriage has been the cause of most of the casualties. Wife—But, George, isn't he a war correspondent; not a general?—London Opinion.

One Belgian town is described as "fourteen shots and a dog." How did "culture" come to overlook the dog?—Wall Street Journal.

A BELGIAN REFUGEE WHO FLED FROM GERMANS

Above is pictured a refugee woman who fled to the little village of Rosendaal, in Holland, when the Germans were advancing on Antwerp. She is shown washing the family clothes on the steps of a Belgian car. These cars are used for housing refugees. A correspondent who witnessed the Belgian flight writes:—"I saw a woman of apparent wealth place her fur trimmed cloak around the shoulders of a delicate and poorly clad young mother who was nursing her baby. The intense suffering of the last few days has united all the Belgians into one great family."

In public squares, on the lawn of the Temple where barristers work and live, in all the open spaces among the stately law courts, and in the courtyard of the National Academy sacred to art and science.

The English Way. Companies of recruits, some fully uniformed and shouldering their rifles, others in civilian clothes and bare headed, with blankets slung over their shoulders, march about the streets.

Traffic is held up while they pass, the people stop to look; occasionally an old man raises his hat, but strangely there is never any cheering. This is not sympathy, it is the English way. The British sentiment, but he conceals it carefully. "We feel too deeply for

ENGLAND UNDER WAR CONDITIONS

A Nation Fully Awake to the Danger of the Hour.

RECRUITS DRILL IN EVERY OPEN SPACE.

Nation Passes from State of Peace to Warfare Without Slightest Sign of Excitement.

London, Nov. 10.—(Correspondence of the Ass'd Press)—Two months ago a London newspaper described England as "a nation half awake," and contrasted the untroubled aspect of London life with the transformation that war had cast over Paris and Berlin. Since then England has become a nation fully awake. This awakening has been more an inner than a surface change, and only those who have known England from within can realize how great the change has been.

The most remarkable feature of recent British events has been the entire absence of excitement with which the country has passed from a condition of profound and thoughtless peace to a military status which pervades all the activities of life, and seems almost to have brought upon the scene a harder and soberer nation. Sports, politics, society, the three absorbing interests of the population three months ago, have disappeared from the columns of newspapers, and the talk of the people, and have almost vanished from existence.

War the Absorbing Topic.

The contentious word "suffragette" has disappeared from the English vocabulary. The suffragist bodies have turned their efficient organizations to the care of Belgians and other war victims. "Votes for women" is no longer thrust into the faces of passers on every corner and in every railway station and restaurant by young women wearing the tri-colored ribbon of purple, green and white. The suffragist papers, like many others supported by special interests, have suspended publication. People read about nothing but the war.

Home Rule is a forgotten text for debate, except, as echoes of reminiscences come from a few die-hard in Ulster and the Sinn Feiners of the south of Ireland. All that is left of the absorbing passion for sport is the football game, and a majority of the first class professional teams are drilling in the Territorials and Kitchener Army. And, it would be a brave man of military age, who would be seen carrying his bundle of golf sticks on the street these days.

Streets and trains everywhere are filled with soldiers. Khaki is conspicuous in all the restaurants, the gilded and the cheap, and military equipment and uniforms fill the shop windows. Recruits are drilling in all the parks.

PIMPLES SO BAD ASHAMED TO GO OUT. Also Terrible Rash on Arms, Itched and Burned, Could Not Sleep, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, Eruption All Disappeared.

Cresey, Ontario.—"For a long time I suffered from pimples and blackheads the worst I got a terrible rash on my arms. When I got in bed at night and got warm I would have to scratch my arms till blood came. The pimples all came to matter fester and then they broke leaving lots of little marks on my face. I was ashamed to go out with my friends. They also itched and burned until I could have torn my face and arms. I could not sleep at night and I rubbed my arms till they bled. One day when reading the paper I came across the Cuticura advertisement, then I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment night and morning. I found great relief and in a short time my pimples and eruption all disappeared thanks to Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) George W. Key, Aug. 10, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail. a crumble. Half the theatres are closed. "Society" has disappeared. There are no social columns in the newspapers, because there are no social events to record. There is no dinner-giving, and there are no balls or shooting parties on country estates. Drinking champagne is as strictly tabooed as carrying golf clubs. Millionaires and Dukes appear in public when they appear at all, in khaki or old clothes, and drink whiskey and soda, instead of their favorite vintage. The Duke of Norfolk, Lord Gladstone, Lord Robert Cecil, clubmen and members of parliament, who are too old for military duty, spend their time at the railway stations and refugee headquarters meeting frightened and dirty Belgian peasants, giving them coffee and sandwiches and distributing clothes. Others are looking after recruits and wounded soldiers arriving from France.

St. James Palace is the centre of Red Cross work, and the stately town house of the Duke of Devonshire is a Red Cross office. Castles and country houses throughout the Kingdom are given over for wounded soldiers, British, Belgian, Indian and French. Innumerable funds for the soldiers and dependents of soldiers are being raised and administered. Every regiment has a headquarters in London, where work is being done in supplying its wants in the line of comforts.

Among the women of the country there is a fierce campaign of knitting. Socks, belts, mittens, mufflers are being turned out in prodigious quantities. Ladies knit at their meals, the shop girls are knitting, the maids in hotels, and the cashiers in their boxes at the restaurants, and in the clear stands of the underground stations. "How to Help," is a standing headline in all the newspapers, and no pages are read more eagerly, if the letters which come to the newspaper offices are any test of popular feeling.

Continued from page fourteen. ... ter-cart came by and turned the water on them. Then the company, looking closer at the driver, perceived that I had won my bet. "Practical" jokes were always, of course, Lord Charles's strong point. He was once he tells us, at Scarborough during the races, when he and a friend happened, on entering the long assembly room of the hotel, to see Mr. Dudley Milner and Mr. Johnny Shatto standing at the other end engaged in a furious argument about horses:

Continued from page fourteen. ... ter-cart came by and turned the water on them. Then the company, looking closer at the driver, perceived that I had won my bet. "Practical" jokes were always, of course, Lord Charles's strong point. He was once he tells us, at Scarborough during the races, when he and a friend happened, on entering the long assembly room of the hotel, to see Mr. Dudley Milner and Mr. Johnny Shatto standing at the other end engaged in a furious argument about horses:

There was nothing at all in the great room, so far as I remember, except a sideboard and a dish filled with pats of butter, which stood on the sideboard. I picked up a pat of butter on the end of the ash-pant I was carrying, and told Vyner that if he would come outside I would throw the pat of butter to a surprising distance. "Why go outside?" said he. "Why not take a shot at those fellows who are arguing so much that we couldn't separate them; and they finally had to go to bed for a week to recover themselves of their wounds. It was about the middle period of the author's life, when, returning from a ball in London, in the early morning, he came upon a person selling whistles. He invited "Charles" to supper breakfast—upon a plate of these delicacies.

"How much do you charge for a plateful?" "Threepence," said he. "I'll give you sixpence for every plateful you eat yourself." "Done," said he. He finished two platefuls and had begun a third, when he was overtaken by rebellion from within, swiftly followed by catastrophe. "That's not fair," I said. "You can't count those two platefuls." "O my Gawd," he said, "ave I got to begin again?"

With that we may fairly take leave of a book which is as full of old-fashioned naval jollity as an egg is full of meat. It is like a compound of Maryat, Whyte-Melville and the late Mr. "Lobby" rolled into one.

New York state is going to try to smash the egg trust. But that is a particularly hard one to unscramble. —Denver Post.

INDIVIDUAL AND GENERAL

Once a man gets the habit of buying things made in his own country, he gets a satisfaction that he never enjoyed before. It's a good bit of human nature not to care where things are made so long as they fit the case. But it's a better and a bigger part of selfish human nature to figure out how one's purchases help along the general movement of prosperity in his own country. In this co-operation between the individual and the general welfare, the personal effort of every man and woman counts when it comes to the big national push that gets the country out of the rut. Canada has a large army of workers to keep busy. The workers depend for their subsistence on thousands upon thousands of factories. The part played by one community in keying up this great empire of business depends precisely upon how many individuals take hold of the movement. In all great popular movements it is the five and ten cent purchases multiplied by the thousands upon thousands of people that register the popular goodwill. A big subscriber may write himself down for thousands and forget it. A thousand other people may go down for a few dollars each and the world can never forget the result they get for it.

55c. PER DAY

A trifling amount,---what does it mean? Just this; that you, as representing the average Canadian citizen, can square off your account with our army of factory workers, by making sure that at least 55 cents worth of the things you buy, in your ordinary every day shopping, are made right here in Canada---the country that gives you your own living.

That sum, 55 cents a day, equals $200 per year. There are 8,000,000 people in Canada. If for the support of every one of them, there was spent $200 a year on Canadian made goods it would give us a factory output of $1,600,000,000.

Back in 1910-11 Canada was enjoying pretty good times, but the total factory output then was less than $1,200,000,000.

You can easily bury the hard times of to-morrow under the coppers you spend on odds and ends to-day, just by using a little intelligent discrimination, by saying to the shop-keeper
