A Count's Letter.

Count Segundo de Ovies, whose famand wealthy of Spain, and who is the 1891, writes: last of the illustrious race, in a recent letter gives his indorsement to Peruna, in the following words written from The Canfield, Atlantic City, N.J.: "Last winter my secretary had a severe attack of la grippe which was cured effectually by the use of four bottles of Peruna, so when I contracted the same unpleasant sickness last fall I at once sent for a bottle. It truly worked wonders, and removed the sickening and sore feeling I had within a few days. I would not be without it now for any money, and when I go away I carry Peruna as a valuable perquisite to my traveling outfit."-Julian Segundo, Conde de Ovies.

Mrs. McKee Rankin, actress, of New York City, writes: "No woman should be without a bottle of Peruna in reserve. As a remedy for catarrh of the head and throat, it is, I believe, without an equal. Peruna is an effectual preventive against colds and coughs."-Mrs. McKee Rankin.

A Governor's Letter. Hon. G. W. Atkinson, Governor of West Virginia, in a recent letter from Charleston to Dr. Hartman, says: "I can recommend your preparation Peruna, as a tonic. Its reputation as a cure for catarrh is excellent, it having been used by a number of people known to me with the very best results."-Hon. G. W. Atkinson. A Father's Letter. Mr. Henry Wesseler, Wacousta, Mich., writes: "About two months ago we wrote you for advice for our little girl. She was in a very bad condition then. We gave her two bottles of Peruna and a half a bottle of Manalin, and she is well now, which we feel very thankful for. She had catarrh of the nose, which caused an offensive discharge and bad breath.

"She was also bothered with her stomach a great deal for about three years. She seldom complains of it now since taking your medicine. We think she had catarrh of the stomach. We give your medicine high praise, and recommend it to others."-Henry Wes-

A Physician's Letter.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, Medical Examiner of U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia College, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peruna: "Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider myself a well man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peruna will cure you."-Dr.

F. W. Radtka Philadelphia Pa., writes: "I deem it my duty to inform you that I have been troubled with catarrh for four years and could not work at my trade. I have tried almost every cure on the face of the earth, and had doctors attend me at their office and in the hospital, but could not get relief until I tried your wonderful Peruna. I was very doubtful whether it would help me, but at a good friend's advice I tried your Peruna, which is a Godsend to all catarrh sufferers. After tak ing but four bottles I am very much pleased indeed. I can safely say that one more bottle will be enough. After taking the second bottle I could go to work at my trade (sawyer), and the dust has no effect on my throat now. I shall recommend Peruna to everybody who suffers with catarrh."-F. W

KITCHENER'S THIRD DRIVE

Canadians Were Prominent in the Work.

An Effective Way of Securing Surranders - A Line Fifty Miles Long.

London, March 23.—Details have been received of Lord Kitchener's third drive, which resulted in the escape of Dewet and Steyn, with about forty men, to the west over the main Orange River Colony Railway. Most of the columns engaged in the last drive were encamped in the neighborhood of Harencamped in the neighborhood of Harrismith. With the object of deceiving the enemy, Lord Kitchener sent Elliot and Rimington north along the Wilge Walley on a wide front, which was en- and corn crib. trenched nightly, thus giving the Boers the impression that a new drive against the northern blockhouses was in prothe northern blockhouses was in progress. When they arrived at the blockhouse line, both forces faced, about and wheeled to the right, pivoting on Elliot, the whole line moving in conjunction through the Wilge River Valley, the 10,000 troops covering a frontage of fifty miles.

On the morning of March 5, acting on information obtained by Major Howard, Col. Rimington's intelligence agent. Col. Ross discovered a Boer arsenal in a cave in front of a precipitious kopje. The same afternoon a number of Boers were sighted, consisting of Wessels' commando with a sisting of Wessels' commando with a off in front with a mule pack train glican Cathedral, where the first porlarge herd of cattle. Leading Transvaalers Ready to Accept the Inevitable.

Princess Radziwill Committed for Trial at Cape Town on Charges of Fraud and Forgery.

London, March 29 .- Further details of the great drive against Delarey in the Western Transvaal show that, owing to the rapidity of the movement the long line could not be closed up in time, and the bulk of the Boers succeeded in forcing their way through. Five Canadians who fell out of Kitchener's force were surrounded by a Boer force. They kept up a splendid defense for some time, but, seeing the case to be hopeless, four of them surrendered. The fifth man continued to fight single-handed until he was killed. MR. RHODES' GIFT.

The Daily Mail states that Mr. Rhodes' wealth is to be devoted to the furtherance of education throughout the British Empire.

TRANSVAALERS WILLING TO

STOP. Some little time is likely to elapse before the result of the consultation between Mr. Schalkburger and ex-President Steyn can be made known. It is generally presumed that the Boer leaders in the Transvaal are ready to accept the inevitable, but if Messrs. Steyn and Dewet are in the same frame of mind as Dr. Leyds there is no immediate prospect of peace.

BRITISH PRESS WARNINGS. The British Government is being warned by supporters in the press against the danger of granting conwhich, seemingly innocent, would yet hang like a millstone around the neck of the future administration of the new colonies. The Saturday Review considers that the attitude of the Boers themselves and of the continental powers and the United States makes it imperative that no terms should be granted which could by any process of distortion be twisted into an admission on the part of Britain that she had not been able to achieve all she desired by force of PRINCESS RADZIWILL'S CASE. The hearing of the charges against Princess Radziwill, who is accused of forgery in connection with notes purporting to have been signed by Cecil princess testified in her own behalf. She was committed for trial. Bail in £2,500 was furnished by her and two sureties. Evidence showed that last August Princess Radziwill received two telegrams sent from Cape Town to Kenilworth, Cape Colony, purporting to be from B. A. Hawksley, counsel for the British Chartered South Africa Company. The princess subsequently bribed a junior clerk in the telegraph office for ten shillings to insert London as the office of origin of these telegrams. She then showed the messages to a firm of attorneys as cablegrams from the solicitor of Mr. Rhodes. This was done with the object of securing a low rate of discount on a bill for £2,000. Mr. Rhodes cabled advertisements to South African newspapers, in which he repudiated his signatures to all bills, but Princess Radziwill afterwards attempted to discount notes for £3,000 and £6,000. The indictment against the princess includes seventeen counts for forgery and fraud, and a charge of contravention of the telegraph act.

Cecil Rhodes Project.

Cecil Rhodes is said to have left the bulk of his fortune, outsideof some personal and family bequests, to the promotion of his vast imperial plan of education. This project embraces every land where the Union Jack flies. Its purpose is the intellectual betterment of the British race throughout the world, and the fostering of the imperial sentiment. The Daily Mail adds that this idea of better-fitting "Younger Britain" to cope successfully with rival nationalities was long a dor-mant scheme with Cecil Rhodes, but even his closest friends little imagined the absorbing hold it obtained upon him until this was disclosed by the terms of his will. The details of this plan of education will be made public in a few days. Mr. Rhodes left the Dalham estate at Newmarket to his brother, Col. Francis W. Rhodes. The estate was purchased by Cecil Rhodes last December. THE DEAD LEADER'S FUNERAL.

BOER OPINION OF CAMPS. London, March 28 .- Further correspondence respecting the refugee camps in South Africa has been issued as a parliamentary paper. The general Boer view of the camps is shown by the fact that many applications were received from families to spend their Christmas holidays in the camps. The children continue to show great eagerness in learning English, and in playing English games, and an improvement in the general tone of the people is said to be perceptible. Mr. Murray, the general superintendent in Natal, states: "I have had Political feeling in the west is that Mr. Whitney is in for a bigger defeat in the next election than he received in the last .- Kingston Whig.

That no doubt will be the case complete arrangements for polling the full Liberal vote are made, and there is no fool business of two Liberals running against one Conservative, as was the case in 1898. There cannot be a doubt that the Government lost something like eight seats at the last general election by these local troubles. Let there be no such division or inattention in the coming contest, and the victory for good and progressive government will be a signal one. When even a former Opposition leader falls out with the Whitney policy of obstruction, we can well understand what the verdict of the Province will be in a fair fight.

Municipal Telephone.

The citizens of Ottawa are desirous of introducing a municipal telephone system. The question of establishing an independent telephone system was oted on at the last municipal election, with the result that the electors pronounced in its favor. If the city cannot buy over the local plant from the Bell Telephone Company, it is prepared to establish a plant of its own. Notice of motion was given recently in the City Council that the city advertise for tenders to put in a municipal telfor ten years, the rate not to exceed $20 for each subscriber. Commenting on the subject of cheap telephones, the Ottawa Citizen says:

"Here is a chance for Mr. Oscar Rogers and the companies behind him to make good the promises that he has held out of the possibility of cheaper phones. Mr. Rogers says that a 1,500 phone exchange can be established here and operated at a profit providing services at $15 and $10 for business offices and private houses respectively. THE DEATH RECORD

Known Chatham Lawyer.

New Orleans, La., March 29.-Major J. R. Claget, of the Second United States Infantry, died here yesterday. Major Claget was a graduate of West Point and had a creditable record in the Indian fighting in the west and in the Philippines.

Chatham, Ont., March 28. — William Douglas, K. C., died this morning, shortly before six o'clock. Although was generally known that his illness was of a fatal character the news of his death came as a shock and expressions of sorrow and regret were heard on all sides. He had suffered for over six months with an ailment of the liver that assumed a malignant form about the end of the past year. He was advised to enter the general hospital at Toronto, and went early in January, but in a few returned without benefit. On Sunday last he was seized with a chill induced by a slight attack of peritonitis, but rallied, and was considerably better yesterday. During the night, however, he began to sink and passed away. Mr. Douglas was born near Thurso, Sutherlandshire, Scotland in 1836, and came to Canada when a lad. After graduating in law, he came to Chatham in 1864: was appointcrown attorney in 1872, and a Queen's Counsel in 1882. > OLD SOLDIER ROBBED. Port Huron, Mich., March 29. - Wm. Tasker, an old soldier who served in the Canadian militia many years ago, complained to the police that he had been robbed of $70. The police investigated, and when they Harry LaClair, a 17-year-old boy, Tasker could not be found. He was located in Sarnia jail, where he had been placed for drunkenness. Later it was discovered that young LaClair had sold the pocketbook and the money for 30 cents, but the situation was changed when he informed the officers that the money was bogus, being old Confederate bills. Tasker also lost a watch and other articles, which were recovered.

Mrs. D. Arnold, President German Woman's Club, Grand Pacific Hotel, Los Angeles, Cal., Relieved of a Tumor by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I suffered four years ago with a tumor in my womb, and the doctors declared I must go to the hospital and undergo an operation, which I dreaded very much and hesitated to submit.

"My husband consulted an old friend who had studied medicine, although he was not a practising physician, and he said he believed that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure me. That same day I took my first dose, and I kept it up faithfully until twelve bottles had been used, and not only did the tumor disappear, but my general health was very much improved and I had not felt so well since I was a young woman.

"As I have suffered no relapse since, and as I took no other medicine, I am sure that your Compound restored my health and I believe saved my life."-Mrs. D. Arnold.

HUMORS

Spring's Inheritance from Winter.

Waste matters which the kidneys, skin and other organs were too torpid (in the cold days) to take care of, and cannot take care of now without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system.

Pimples, boils and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles common in Spring are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla removes all humors, overcomes all their effects, strengthens and tones the whole system.

Don't deny yourself its benefits this Spring.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla as a Spring tonic for several years and have derived great benefit from it. I recommend it to all who have that tired feeling, loss of appetite or impure blood." FANNIE FISHER, 2018 High St., Des Moines, Is.

FOR HOUSEKEEPERS. Ti Easier market here is looked upon as one of the most important during the year. The attendance today was not half as large as was expected. This may be attributed to a certain extent to the rain in the early part of the morning, and the disagreeable weather which followed. Business was brisk and sales as a consequence were easily made. Prices for most of the produce offered were a trifle firmer.

CANADA AT CORONATION

Typical Arch of Grain Will Be a Feature

In the Street Decorations When the King Is Crowned.

Whitelaw Reid May Not Be the Specia Ambassador From the United States.

London, March 29 .- One of the most effective street decorations on coronation day will be a Canadian arch of grain, emblematic of the agricultural resources of the Dominion and similar to the one in Winnipeg admired by the Prince of Wales. Lord Strathcona will present the proposal of the Ottawa Government to the Westminster council after Easter, and Lord Onslow, as chairman, will undoubtedly display sympathy for the colonies by accepting it and availing himself of the services of Canadian decorators. Lord Strathcona has already received a request from the council to submit a decorative design for the Canadian arch.

IN RE WHITELAW REID. William Waldorf Astor's Pall Mall Gazette published a letter from its New York correspondent, which says: "At the present moment it is by no means a foregone conclusion that Whitelaw Reid will be accredited as special ambassador from this country The outcry against his officially representing this country is so great that I would not be surprised to find the president eventually backing down on this point.

"The truth is, Mr. Roosevelt is expecting re-election, and the votes have periods of six months from the signto be considered. In this way even the president cannot always obey the innate promptings of a gentleman in extending the courtesies of his country. This is one of the studies of a republic. It is to be neither praised nor blamed, but simply understood." Vienna, March 29.-Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, who passed through Vienna last night on her way to London, said: "The brigands treated me and Mme. Tsilka as well as they could. They told us it was to their interest to keep us in as good health as possible, as no one would pay ransom for us if we were dead; indeed, they did the best they could. My companion, Mme. COTTON IN WEST AFRICA. The German Colonial Economical Society of Berlin has issued an elaborate report on the work of the experimental cotton plantation in Togo, West Africa, managed by J. N. Calloway and three young negroes from Booker Washington's school at Tuskegee, Ala. Supt. Calloway's statement to the society, which is included in the report, says: "Our experience has given us every reason to believe that in a few years it will be possible to export many of the Imperial University at Pekin, thousand bales from the colony of will be asked to return as president of Togo. This will not have any effect the university at Wu Chang and on the markets of the world, but it will be of advantage to Germany and especially to the two and a half millions of natives in the colony."

PRAYER FOR PEACE. "prayer for peace" was the only novel feature of the observance of Good Friday in Great Britain. The Bishops of London, Rochester and St. Alban's issued special appeals to their dioceses to unite in prayer that both British and Boers be granted the temper of peacemakers, pointing out that similar prayers were being offered in the Dutch churches at Pretoria. HOLOCAUST OF HORSES CANADIAN NIGHT AT THE TOURNAMENT

In Madison Square Garden, New York-Warm Reception Given the Canadian Minister of Militia and the Kilties.

New York, March 28.-This was Canadian Night at the military tournament, and the troops were reviewed by the Hon. F. W. Borden, Canadian minister of militia and defense. When the minister arrived at Madison Square Garden he walked down the center of the arena, accompanied by his staff, and proceeded by the detachment of 48th Highlanders and their pipers. The box of honor was decorated with their flags. The house rose en masse as the band played "God Save the King." The programme included the 48th Highlanders' exhibition drill, rough riding by Troop C Miss Stone expressed her deep thanks will be sent from England to South battle exercises by the First Battalion of Naval Militia; the music by the 2nd Cavalry; drill and driving exhibi-Queen Wilhelmina is expected next | tillery, U. BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

THE BEST REMEDY

Asthma is a peculiar disease, and what will relieve one case will sometimes fail in another, Angier's Petroleum Emulsion will nearly always afford relief, especially in cases complicated with Bronchitis. The Emulsion soothes the cough and makes the breathing easier, dispels the bronchial irritation and greatly improves all the catarrhal symptoms. In Chronic Asthma it is very effective in allaying all the more distressing symptoms, while after an acute attack it is of great benefit in restoring strength and vigor to the exhausted system.

MICES PENDEUM FINESCO

is soothing, healing, strengthening, and contains no opiate or other harmful drug. It is pleasant to take, agrees with the weakest stomach, promotes a healthy appetite, helps digest and assimilate healthy food, and builds up the health and strength generally. Persons who cannot take cod liver oil in any form become fond of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion, and this makes it especially valuable as a children's medicine. Remember this is not a patent medicine. Doctors have been prescribing it continuously since 1880, and it is largely used in the leading hospitals everywhere.

MISS FLORENCE DEWSON, WINDSOR, ONTARIO, SAYS: - I take pleasure in writing you what I think about Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. This winter I had the La Grippe, and was very much run down. My physician ordered me cod liver oil, but my stomach was too weak to take it, and at this time a sample of Angier's Emulsion was handed to me. It agreed with me so well that I commenced on it and am still taking it. I told my physician about it, and as he had just recovered from La Grippe he took it, and was so much pleased with it that he has been prescribing it for all his patients who are in need of same. Persons who have weak stomachs and can't take strong emulsion should take no other than Angier's Petroleum Emulsion.

ASTHMA AND BRONCHITIS: - I received a bottle of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion in good order, and was highly satisfied with it. I find a great deal of relief from it, as I have been suffering with Asthma and Bronchitis for the last ten years. I have been treated by many doctors, but have found more relief from a bottle of Angier's Emulsion than anything I have taken. I have recommended it to all sufferers from the same complaint. Please send me a 2s. 9d. bottle, for which I enclose P. O. and oblige. Mrs. E. HOOPER, 59 Worcester St., Brynmawr, BOOTHING AND STRENGTHENING EFFECT : - I found Angier's Petroleum Emulsion se helpful among my patients that there was a constant demand for it during the winter and early spring, and I cannot speak too highly of its soothing and strengthening effects. I have recommended it to personal friends and to other institutions. Our attendant physician, Dr. J. B. Fallen, speaks of it in the highest terms. Miss CAMILLA B. SANDERSON, Matron, The Haven & Prison Gate Mission, Toronto, Ontario.

All druggists sell Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. Be sure you get ANGIER'S. YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS on a postal card will bring you a free copy of a valuable booklet entitled, "ABOUT YOUR THROAT AND LUNGS." It tells how to care for the Throat, Lungs and Digestive Organs. In the matter of purchasing horses, Mr. Robert Beith, M.P., has rendered such good ser-vice in the past, that it would be foolish for the department not to again avail itself of his services, so far, at least, as Ontario is concerned. In the case of the last contingent the time was opportune for buying mounts, many persons who had horses, not wishing, when a sale could be made, to keep them during the winter, and a splendid lot of animals were secured at prices which could not be excessive. It will be more difficult to secure horses now, but if the right men are chosen they can be got, though prices may be a little stiffer.

LACROSSE.

C. L. A. MEETING. Toronto, March 28 .- Over 220 delegates were present when President Mcthe Canadian Lacrosse Association, rest of the players will come on the representing every nook and corner of Ontario, and two Michigan clubs. The nectady and Troy on April 26, 27, 28 proceedings were of the most harmonious nature. The reports of the president gave a history of the game durident game and the game and th ing last playing season, and characterized it as the most successful in the history of lacrosse. The president expressed the belief that the popularity of the game, which was played by 12,-000 men who held certificates in 1901, was due largely to the strict enforcement of the rules, and the suppression of all outbreaks of roughness in play.

There were few changes made in the tonight, and the sport offered was of rules or conditions of play. It was decided that the central association should get 10 per cent of the gate receipts in the finals of the senior series and 5 per cent in the intermediate and junior finals. The association decided that if the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union holds by the new constitution recently drafted, the C. L. A. will enter the union, and Peter McMillan, the retiring president, was nominated to the C. A. A. U. board. The clubs in the association will, during the coming season, play one exhibition game each for the bettefit of the memorial fund to mark the appreciation of lacrosse players for the late Dr. Beers, of Montreal, the father of the game as it is now played. The suspension of the Toronto club, the council reported, ended with the close of the last playing

In the contest for affice there was a very lively election for secretary-treasurer. W. K. Hall, who had the office last year, was opposed by J. K. Munro, also of this city, and the vote stood 71 to 71. Munro on this withdrew, saying it was quite good evidence that Mr. Hall had the confidence of the association, and he did not wish to displace him. The new officers and council are as follows, the president and first vicepresident being elected by acclamation: President, Charles R. McKeown, Orangeville; first vice-president, Francis Nelson, Toronto; second vice-president, John F. Lennox, Stouffville; secretarytreasurer, W. H. Hall, Toronto; council, Fred W. Frank, Brantford, A. The policy that depopulates.

Six millions of people in Canada!

Seventy-six millions in the United States.

Canada immigrates raw labor from Europe, and EMIGRATES Skilled Artisans to the United States!

Canada contains altogether, less than 17 times as many people as there are CANADIANS now living in the single State of Massachusetts.

Why this tremendous leak?

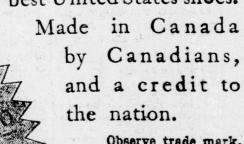

Because of the blind purchasing by Canadians, of anything which is made in the United States, regardless of value.

Because of 25% higher wages paid Canadian workmen, in the United States, to make goods which may be sold back to Canada, plus the 25% higher labor cost, and plus the 25% Customs duty.

Canadians who buy UNITED STATES SHOES, merely because they are "not made in Canada," foster that EMIGRATION of skilled labor which is the curse of this country and of home industries.

No United States Shoe, with a 25% higher labor cost; and a 25% Import duty, can have 60% of the solid value put into the "The Slater Shoe" for men and women.

> Good Friday a Day of Inspiration Despite Rain and Gloomy Weather-Their Officers.

Notwithstanding rain and general gloominess of weather, Good Friday was a day of gladness and inspiration to those who attended the annual convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of Ontario and Quebec, which was held yesterday in the Talbot Street Baptist Church. Three sessions were held, in the morning, afternoon and evening, and all were largely attended. In the morning, the routine business was attended to, reports were received, and the delegates were reassured regarding the financial and numerical vigor of their union. At the close of an earnest devotional halfhour, led by President Webb, of Toronto, they were ready to enter with zest into the helpful proceedings of the afternoon and evening.

After the delegates were welcomed, by Rev. Dr. Sowerby, and a reply to his welcome made by Mr. J. E. Hounson, of Toronto, the following report of the nomination committee was received and adopted:

STATE OF TRADE IN THE STATES

Business Activity Shifted From First to Second Hands.

Bright Prospects for Crops-Dun & Co.'s and Bradstreet's Weekly Reviews.

New York, March 28 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s review: Favorable weather greatly facilitated Easter retail trade, the volume of transactions in all lines of wearing apparel being of exceptional magnitude. Activity was by no means restricted to these special lines, however, the general distribution of merchandise exceeding that of previous seasons, with prices well maintained.

The demand for an eight-hour day after May 1 by the blast furnace men was the most disturbing feature in the iron and steel industry, and this is not causing much alarm, as an agreement will probably be reached during the intervening month.

Production is now beyond all previous records, and the movement of coke is ample, although the early opening of lake navigation may withdraw some of the transporting facilities delphia, $111,387,164; increase, 15.7. St. which cannot well be spared.

A severe reaction occurred in cotton, due entirely to the excessive speculattop-heavy. Vigorous operations for the Cincinnati, $10,367,650; increase, 63.1. top-heavy. Vigorous operations for the short account precipitated liquidation and forced prices down sharply.

Veakness appeared in the cereals ly in the week, when there was a certain unanimity about encouraging Weather reports and increased acreage. Subsequently there was partial recovery owing to less cheerful news from Kansas and Oklahoma, but the net result for the week was a decidedly lower range of prices. Wheat exports materially declined from the sat-1sfactory record of 4,657,625 bushels last week to only 3,088,642 bushels this cek. Railway securities established a new high-price record on Monday for the 60 most active stocks at $106 11. Bright prospects for crops aided the advance, but there was more support from professional operators in a few specialties. Even the buoyant tone did not attract liberal buying by outsiders and total sales were not half those of the same day last year. Subsequently there were rumors of damage to wheat in the southwest, the coal mining outlook assumed a more threatening aspect and there were reports that special legislation would have to be enacted at Trenton in behalf of the United States Steel Corporation's bond issue. Reaction followed, prices declining materially and the trading becoming Liabilities of commercial failures during the first three weeks of March aggregated $6,110,458, of which $2,794,105 were in manufacturing, $2,555,933 in 206 last year, and 22 in Canada, against 29 last year.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT. Trade activities have shifted from the culmination of the spring demand the trap, but he gave a leap before before Easter. Retail distribution, the trap could be sprung and fell from Aggressive strength in prices is chiefly manifested by hog products, which, it is declared, have been manipulated by packers. A more reasonable explanation, however, is that high prices for beef and mutton have largediverted consumption to hog pro-

Mild weather has relieved the strain on the coal trade somewhat, but strike talk has prevented weakness in prices. Rather less activity in iron and steel is noted, but no loss of price firmness is observable. The peculiar situation of the foundry pig iron market is shown by the fact that prices of that grade are $1 per ton higher than Bessemer. Finished iron and steel has been active, implement and wagon manufacturers buying heavily of steel bars, which is nominally $2 per ton higher. The leading cereals are irregularly lower after an apparently futile effort at bulling prices. Last week's decline brougth in considerable export business in wheat and some revival was reported even in corn. Steady buying and talk of a squeeze in corn were re flected sympathetically in wheat.

Business failures for the week numbered 183, as against 197 last week, 189 in this week last year, 178 in 1900, 190 in 1899 and 226 in 1898.

She could do nothing the linest the lands of "It is neat and clean; that is the most that I can say of it," Agnes said, with a sigh, when her arrangements were

She could do nothing just then, but spread a towel over the polished marble and set the few pieces of their own thina, that were at hand, upon it. Mrs. Walton had several handsome pieces of silver, but they had not been in use for a long time, consequently were not in a condition to be brough; forth just then. GLIMPSE OF

Canton Ward Transferred to San Francisco.

Congressman Kahn's Opinion on the Great Oriental Colony in Our Country—The Dangers in Sight.

San Francisco, March 29.-It was Kipling who said that "the Chinese her to excuse her for a moment, when Mr. Archibald, with a comical mixture of mischief and embarrassment, interposed:
"No, no, young woman; have it out right here and now; It'll do you fod, and won't hurt me one bit," and he set the example by an amused chuckle over his own short-sightedness.

Agnes needed no second bidding, and for a few moments the room rang with a quarter of San Francisco is a ward of the city of Canton, set down in the most eligible quarter of the place." Having visited Canton last summer, I am ready to bear out the truth of the distinguished author's observation. Chinatown in San Francisco comprises about 15 squares. It is located in the older part of the city, where the streets are narrow and where numerous cul-de-sacs abound. It is after nightfall that the place assumes its most picturesque appearance. houses are lighted with lanterns of every shape and size, the streets and alleys are crowded with a dense mass of gesticulating Chinamen, the shrill notes of Chinese orchestras and the strident shouts of vendors of various Chinese viands fill the air and make one feel that perhaps he is at the portals of pandemonium.

SQUALOR AND FILTH. To get an idea of how John Chinaman lives, one should visit the Palace Hotel of Chinatewn. It is about this place that the Chinaman is found at home. Within the rookery live several hundred Chinese, huddled together in quarters that would scarcely house 50 whites. All the rooms look out upon the central court, which is common property to all the occupants. In the enter of the court stand innumerable kerosene cans which serve as stoves, on which the life-supporting rice of the Celestial is cooked. It is not an infrequent sight to see in this court some wretched white victim of the opium or morphine habit, offering for a dime to 'take a shot' to show how the deed is done. There are said to be quite a number of men who eke out a miserable existence in this fashion. PRINCE AND PAUPER. There are quite a number of fairly well-to-do merchants in the Chinese quarter. But by far the greater number the people are exceedingly poor. Many of the latter class live in basements and sub-basements, and their homes might be likened to rabbit warrens. They have none of the ordinary conveniences to which white men are accustomed. The occupant sleeps upon a shelf with a piece of matting stretched over it, ten and twelve men occupy ing a room that would be considered small for two Caucasians. There are no adornments, no pictures, no chairs,

He told her that she could have the janitor of the building to do all the heavy work in getting settled, and, putting fifty dollars into her hand, he remarked: "Get whatever you need in the house-keeping line; you'll do better than I, I'll warrant and you can fix things about no conveniences of any kind. But at small table, upon which stands a teawarrant, and you can fix things about the house just as you've a mind to."

With this license both mother and daughter felt as if they might exercise their taste and skill without the fear of giving offense. With the help of the janitor they succeeded in getting down the pot and cup, that the visitor may partake of that which cheers but not in ebriates. Even the wealthy class occumechanic or clerk would not consider tor they succeeded in getting down the carpets in their rooms that day-they needed but very little alteration; and comfortable.

PLAYING The Chinaman is an inveterate gambler. His favoriteg game is fan-tan. It is a simple diversion, but the Chinese player frequently loses every cent he back as far as they would go, and hung some inexpensive but warm-hued drap-eries in their place. Their bed was a self-closing affair that looked like a handhas during a night's sport in Chinatown. Fan-tan is played after this fashion: The players range around a large table, in the center of which a small square is marked off. The dealscattered about, and everything else in order, they had what appeared to be very pretty double parlors. er takes from a bag a cupful of buttons, and then inverts the cup in the center of the square. Betting now begins, and after everybody has laid a 'If we only had some draperies at the widows I should be satisfied." Agnes re-marked, as she ran her eye critically over the apartments. "I believe I shall wager, the cup is withdrawn, and with great definess the dealer begins to like a fair trial. be extravagant enough to invest the first count the buttons. He removes them oney I earn in some." count the buttons. He removes them 'Mr. Archibald would call them useless from the table with a closed fan, four at a time. As he draws near the end of the pile the excitement increases in intensity. The result is determined by a sigh. "But, oh, mamma, what shall we do with the dining room? It is the one blot upon the whole house. Why couldn't he have bought light furniture to match the woodwork? The table we can manage to cover up, but those chairs! And can't we manage to squeeze one, the county out of that fifty deller but to the game. A percentage of all the the number of buttons remaining in the Why last count. If there are four those who set on that number win; if there ers of these numbers are the winners in the game. It is generally believed that the socalled Chinese laborer works in fields that no white man would enter; in other words, that he simply performs There are few races that have the imthan the Chinese. They may come to this country without the knowledge of any trade, but they are quick to learn, and very soon they enter the ranks of ed that a little policy now might work skilled labor. They will work from wonders for the future. sunrise to sunset without complaint, and having no ideals or high aspirations, they are like so many machines. Indeed, I have been told by men familiar with their methods of working that a Chinaman can and does toil 16 hours a day, seven days in the week, and requires only a little rice and a piece of fish to nourish his body. He is absolutely without nerves. He does not seem to be possessed of any ambition or desire to better his condition in life. The idea of a home, which is such a characteristic of the American mechanic, never enters the Chinese laborhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural er's mind. There are few women in Chinatown, but as woman is much lower than man and receive FREE OF CHARGE in the social scale, she does not exert any influence upon the male population. It would be impossible for white Mr. Kunz himself was, for a long men to live as these people do. They time, a sufferer from above troubles, can exist on 10 cents a day, including room rent and incidental expenses. I think I may safely say that scarcely a single laborer in Chinatown is mar-ried. True, some of the merchant class have their wives, but the laborers have only themselves to support.

THE EVIL OF IT ALL. The average number of mouths an American mechanic feeds from the rehonest man, to give his fellow-men sult of his toil is five. How can a man who desires eto bring up a family decently, honestly and respectably, compete with a being who knows nothing of home life, and who, machinelike, day after day, toils from 12 to 16 hours for wages which probably do not exceed $1 a day? This is the practical aspect of the Chinese exclusion question, and after a trip through Chinatown I think no one will doubt the wisdom of making the barriers so strong and so high against Chinese laborers and the vicious and depraved Chinese in general, that the end will be in sight of Chinese quarters on this side of the Browning on Realism.

The following anecdote from the late Mrs. Arthur Bronson's recoilections of Browning, in the February Century, gains force from the poet's well-known charity toward the faults and weaknesses of others. The writer says: I recollect that a certain lady, whom he had known slightly years ago in Rome, met him one day in the street and greeted him with, "Oh, Mr. Browning, you are the very person I wished This was somewhat embarrassing, as he did not recognize his former acquaintance in the least; so she hurriedly explained to him who she once had been-the wife of an English old. banker in Rome—and who she then | Since 1872, when she fled to Paris was—the wife of an Italian counselor after Ed. Stokes had killed Jim of prefecture.

"And what, pray, can I do for you?" asked Mr. Browning. "I have written a poem," was her answer, "and I want you to read it and tell me what you think of it"; so there and then she brought forth a manuscript from her pocket, and was about to read it aloud in the street when he stopped her, saying:

"Not here, not here! Had we not better go into a shop?" So they chanced to be near the library on the Piazza, and they stepped into a book-shop, and the title and dedication of the poem were read. It was addressed to a French novelist, whom the author called "the Jenner of literature." Mr. Browning was displeased, but, as he said, he managed to conceal his real sentiments, only saying:

"I think I should be an unfair critic on such a subject; I should rather not hear the poem.' Surprised, the lady asked his reason. the portrayal of the evil existing in the world has the effect of making people fear and avoid it?" "Not in the least," he explained; "the exact contrary is the case. It tends to make people who sin occasionally consider themselves admirably virtuous as compared with those who commit sins every day and hour." So saying, he took leave of the poetess.

JOSIE MANSFIELD DROPS FROM SIGHT

ly Leaves Home in Paris Tragedy in Her Train.

Paris, March 29 .- The mysterious disappearance from Paris of Josie Mansfield has caused much comment, especially in the American colony. She has been living here from the time of the Fisk-Stokes tragedy, years ago, about three months ago, when suddenly she was missed. Her house here has just been sold, together with its handsome furnishings.

Nobody seems to know what has become of her, but the prevailing belief is that she has gone back to America incognito, intending to make her home there hereafter.

Josie Mansfield is close to 60 years

Fisk on her account, she has been but a name in America. It was at 16 that Josie Mansfield-or Warren, her real name-was first no-ticed on the stage of life in San Francisco, in 1859. She was then the wife of Frank Lawlor, an actor.

A year later the youthful bride disappeared and for some time she was lost sight of. She emerged in 1867, got a divorce from Lawlor and sought fame as an actress.

Failing in that, she was almost at the end of her resources when chance threw her in the way of Col. James Fisk, jun., whose interests in Fisk's Opera House, the Eric Railway and Sound steamers made him a notable figure in the world of speculation and

Fisk won her and placed her in a splendid establishment. He introduced to her his friend, Edward Stokes, who became infatuated with her, and jealousy drove Fisk almost to desperation. A suit was followed by a counter-suit. Then came a threat to publish Fisk's letters betraying his Erie deals. He 'Do you not think," she inquired, "that got out an injunction restraining the piotters from this final step. One January day Stokes met Fisk at the Grand Central Hotel and shot him. Josie Mansfield went to Boston, but that city turned a cold shoulder on her, and the woman who had dazzled New York with her toilets crossed the sea to seek in the French capital a new

It was a short lane-not more than two hundred yards in length-and its hedges were so lofty gentleman, feeling a good deal picked up and luxuriant that it was shaded even by a month's absolute rest in the counon a summer noonday. It was carpeted with a fine thick moss, with just the merest thread of a pathway traced by the feet of the Sunday churchgoers who came from the hall. No other wayfarer used the lane from one year's end to another, except for the legitimate purpose lane and let his pipe, and surrendered of church-going. The rustic lovers of the village would have found it a place of delicious seclusion, no doubt, if it had not been for the reputation which clung about it. But the White Lady walked there, and the rustic lovers were quite ready to leave her to her solitude. There was not one amongst them who would have passed an hour there after sunset for a hundred pounds, even with the

Just about the middle of the lane the hedge on either side was broken by a stile, and from each stile a footpath led across the fields. These made quite a thoroughfare in broad daylight, for they provided a short cut from Mannerley village to Sadtree, but after dusk pedestr'ans preferred the long way round.

Mr. Arthur Mannerley, old Sir Robert's youngest son, recently called to the bar, had of late years spent most of his time in London, but he had endeavored to live at once the life of a student and of a gentleman of leisure, and that is a very trying thing to do. He had been burning his candle at both ends, and melting it in the middle, and so it happened that in the very height of the season he was rusticating at home for his health's sake after a rather severe bout of illness. He was too weak to get about much just at first, and it was whilst his brief rambles were confined to ahe home grounds that the village was thrown into a state of small satin shoe. Her garments made wild excitement by a vivid revival of the legend of the White Lady. It was always understood that the lane was, in a sense, her freehold, and it followed naturally, since nobody ever intruded upon it, that nobody ever saw her. Now, it appeared, she was beginning to extend her promenade, and there were a dozen men in Mannerley and Sadtree who were willing to swear that they had plainly beheld her on one of other of the field paths which branched from the haunted clothed all in white, with a white hood the gloom of the lane had swallowed her. drawn over her head, a good ten score yards from her authentic terr tory. She had risen from the very ground in front of him, and he had been struck with such a mortal terror-he made no secret of it -when she made a step towards him, that it was clean out of his power to tell how he escaped from her. He only knew that he stopped running when he found himself in the kitchen of the Mannerley Bells, and that it took "the best part of a gallon" to restore him to composure. There were other stories of a like kind, and almost as terrifying, and the souls quaking breath. "I do not set my life of men, women and children were dreadfully disquieted within them.

If Bob Mannerley, Sir Robert's eldest son, had been at home, this strange news would have reached the hall, for Bob knew every gossip, male or female, for five miles round and more, but the old baronet was good deal of a recluse, an amateur astronomer, who spent his days with his calculations and his nights in his observatory. People were in awe of him, and no village rumors came his way. Mr. Arthur, it was commonly said, was a chip off the old block. He was selfabsorbed, and very stately for so young a man, and no village rumors came his way, either. Of course, he knew all about the story of the White Lady. She was a part of the family inheritance. She had been run away with by an ancestor of his in those delightful wild old days which breathed romance, and she had fallen by her father's hand in the very hour of her marriage, within a stone's throw of the church porch. The bereaved bridegrom seemed to have taken things easily, for, having disposed of his father-in-law in a duel, and obtained the royal pardon, he married again within the twelve months and left a numerous

A voice trembled in the air so faintly that he was barely sure he heard it. It seemed to breathe: "Who are you?"

"I am Arthur Mannerley," he answer ed. "I am the first Mannerly who has borne that Christian name since your bridegroom led you to your doom."

"Say!" said the apparition, "is that so?" He stood astounded. The voice was a living voice, and, what was more, it was a modern voice. It had the very coo of Massachusetts-Boston-in it. He stiffened from head to foot in a self-offended dignity. He raised his hat in the deep twilight of the place, and had already half turned to go, when his ghost burst into laughter, peal on peal, too shrill to indicate an honest mirth.

"Madam," he cried, "I beg you to compose yourself. I can scarcely have startled you more than you startled me. It will be the wisest thing if you will kindly let me know where you live and permit me a escort you home."

But the ghost would have none of his wisdom, though in a little while she composed herself to silence.

"You are a stranger here," said young Mr. Mannerley. "You may not know that this lane has been supposed to be haunted for four hundred years past. IDEAL PHYSIQUE Few Persons Have the Measurements of Proper Proportions.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

"The tailor who spends his life in taking human measurements could probably tell an interesting story about the decline physically of men and women," said a man who takes a deep interest in physical culture and other processes of tending to arrest deteriorating conditions. "I doubt if the measurements taken by tailors will show many perfect men and women Too many men are wearing 14 collars and too many women are short or mind without any abatement of the sions agreed upon by the best and dignity and modesty and charm of her most authentic authorities for physical constant frivolity evidenced in "smart" | Take the measurements, for instance speech or quickness of repartee, but of the perfectly proportioned man, the humor that looks at the world with a height of 6 feet 21/2 inches; girth with a twinkle in the eye, and sees its of chest, 46 inches; girth of waist, 38 absurdities, its smallnesses and its inches; length of upper leg, 171/2 inches; fun. "The fact of the business is, that these proportions are the result of idealistic theorizing. A man would be perfect, indeed, physically, who could even show a reasonable approximate of this standard. Our tailors' records would probably disappoint us badly and we would likely become confirmed believers in the doctrine of physical degeneracy in so far as members of our sex is concerned. It is not so much a question of with by the woman with an unfailing larger men in stature, but rather a ulations, even its tragedies.-Women's rium found in the perfect measurements of the physical culture doctrinaire. If one must weigh 190 pounds and stand up to a height of over six feet, one might as well give up on the start. It is one of the college. At all events, centuries usually elapse before the apotheosis of a beatified takes place. For instance, St. Vincent de Paul, one of the most famous saints in the calendar, the founder of the order of "Little Sisters of the Poor," who was born in 1576, did not attain full saintship till 1747. Originally martyrdom was an essential qualification for canonization, those whose claims were based chiefly on miracles seldom reaching a higher stage than beatification. miracles two were considered the "irreducible minimum." Perhaps the most famous lay saint in the hagiological calendar is Louis IX. But though the claims of the king who built the Sainte Chapelle and brought the sacred crown of thorns to France might be supposed to be sufficiently strong, yet the bull of canonization was only granted after a most searching inquiry into the veracity of fifty-seven miracles attributed to his

It is submitted to as searching the church at a time when the temexamination and scrutiny as are those poral power was threatened. of a claimant to a lapsed peerage in the English house of lords. In fact, before the saint can be formally inscribed on the canon sanctorum he must survive the ordeal of twenty-six processes, including those for the preliminary stage of beatification. In the first instance, commissioners are appointed by the pope to institute preliminary inquiries. Their report is submitted to a special tribunal of clerics, who decide. COST OF CANONIZATION. Since the reformation the admittance of fresh saints into the calendar is a comparatively rare event. One reason for the paucity of claimants for canonization is said to be the enormous Scott's Emulsion corrects cost of the procedure. A curious example of this is to be found in the Barromeo family of Milan. It was found that the cost of obtaining the bull of canonization for the famous St. Charles Borromeo was so great the family refrained from pressing the claims of another saintly personage, a cousin of St. Charles, on account of the expense! Then it must be remembered that unless credulous and super-

Here are hosts of witnesses who bear testimony to the extraordinary curative powers of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. They are not people from foreign countries nor distant provinces, but your own friends and neighbors right here at home, in the City of London, people whom you rub shoulders with in the cars or on the street. They are constituted much as you are, have the same joys and sorrows and suffer the same ills.

They don't speak from hearsay regarding Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but relate in simple, plain language actual facts from their own experience. They are earnest, grateful people who have been sick and found relief and cure in this great prescription of Dr. Chase. Most of them have been disappointed with medicines in the past, many of them have given physicians every chance to cure them. Can you wonder at their willingness to give evidence in favor of a medicine which has proven itself so decidedly superior to all ordinary treatment?

The choice of a medical treatment is a serious matter to you. It is a matter of health, vigor, and happiness or sickness, weakness and misery. It may even be a case of life or death. How can you better decide on the remedy best suited to your particular case than to judge from the experience of others? Study these letters. Investigate the cases most like yours. Call on these people personally, if possible. Ask them how they felt, what their symptoms were, and how Dr. Chase's Nerve Food benefited them

We will forfeit $500.00 if these Testimonials are not genuine.

Colborne Street.

Mrs. George Wellman, 832 Colborne street, London, Ont., whose husband is employed with E. Leonard & Son, states: "I was generally run down in health, felt very tired and languid, had no energy or ambition, could not sleep well at nights, and in fact my whole system was completly out of order. I have used several boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and can truthfully say that I have found it a splendid medicine. My health generally is very much improved, my nerves are steady and I can heartily recommend this preparation as being an excellent blood builder and nerve restorer."

Burwell Street.

Mrs. C. G. Lowry, 344 Burwell street, London, Ont., whose husband is a fireman on the G. T. R., says: "My nervous system was all out of order, and in fact I was so nervous that at times I would tremble all over. As a natural consequence I did not sleep as well as I should, and felt weak and exhausted most of the time. I can now say that I found Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a splendid nerve restorer. It has built up and strengthened my system, enabled me to sleep well, and made me feel better in every way."

Horton Street.

Mr. A. Jacobs, 185 Horton street, London, Ont., and who is a cigarmaker with Brener Bros., states: "I was so very nervous that I could hardly get to sleep at nights. I was also troubled considerably with pains in the small of the back. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven wonderfully beneficial to me, and I am now pleased to say that my nerves are very much steadier, I sleep and rest well, and the pains in my back have entirely disappeared."

Elias Street.

Mr. David Dickie, carpenter, 729 Elias street, London, Ont., states: "For some years I have found myself growing weaker and more nervous all the time. Of course I am getting up in years, and as a natural consequence my nervous system has become somewhat run down. I have been using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it very satisfactory indeed. I am able to sleep and rest very much better than I did, my nerves are stronger and steadier and I feel real well. I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and consider them an excellent

Mrs. Joliffe. 349 South street. London. Ont., whose husband is foreman for the McCormick Manufacturing Co., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our family for nervousness, headaches, run down condition, and as a general nerve tonic, and I can say that we have found it a splendid medicine. It seemed to go right to the seat of the trouble, steadying the nerves, curing the headache, and toning up the system.'

Pall Mall Street.

Mrs. A. E. Taylor, 442 Pall Mall street, London, Ont., whose husband is a book-binder, states: "For some months my health has not been up to the mark. I felt very tired and languid in the morning, and at times suffered a great deal from headache. My nerves seemed entirely unstrung, and what sleep I got did not refresh me. On the advice of a friend I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after having used several boxes I am pleased to say that my health has been completely restored. I consider that I am indebted to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for this change in my condition.

English Street.

Mrs. W. C. Wood, 477 English street, London, Ont., whose husband is a bookkeeper, states: "My health was very much run down, my appetite was bad, and I did not feel at all well when I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I am pleased to say that this treatment has proven exceedingly beneficial in my case. It improved my appetite and acted as a thorough system builder. As a result of using this preparation for some time I now feel real strong and well."

York Street.

It was almost inevitable, with the low arrangement of the hair and the waterfalls of curls, that the nets of 1860 and thereabouts should come back to favor. Women first began to wear them as a joke, but now they have accepted them in earnest, and invisible nets, nets of silk, with chenille spots and nets of beads, are multiplying with amazing rapidity. A net, for two sound reasons, is almost necessary with the new coiffure. It is required to keep the bulky mass of black hair taut and neat, and when a paucity of natural cheveture brings a quantity of false braids and switches into requisition the net assists in holding these securely

BABYS OWN TABLETS Babies never cry unless there is some very good reason for it. The cry of a baby is Nature's warning signal that there is something wrong. Every mother ought to set to work immediately to find what that something wrong may be. If the fretfulness and irritation are not caused by exterior sources, it is conclusive evidence that the crying baby is ill. The only safe and judicious thing to do is to administer Baby's Own Tablets without the slightest delay.

For Indigestion,

sleeplessness, irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, diarrhea, constipation, colic, simple fevers and as a relief from the results of croup, these marvelous little tablets have given relief in thousands of cases and saved many precious lives.

Remember that they contain absolutely no opiates or other harmful drugs.

They are purely vegetable-Nature's own remedy, compounded with scientific care and never failing in their pleasant results. Dissolved in water they can be to given to the smallest child.

MODERN METHODS OF BAGGAGE-HANDLING

Improvements Which Insure Safety and Speed, While Few Trunks Are

Damaged. [Omaha Bee.] "Baggage must be trucked and not lled, and unloading it from a truck a pad must be used. Ten years ago you would have gone long way to find such a rule in a baggage room of a railroad station, but this legend in bold type now stares out from beneath the glass of a big black frame at the truckmen employed at the union station in Omaha. The "pad" is a huge stuffed floor mat, which the truckmen call a "feather bed." It is very long and very wide, and is stuffed solidly with hair and coovered with three thicknesses of the heaviest canvas ducking known to man. BEDS AND TRUNKS. On these are received the divers trunks and traps of the present-day traveler whose possessions chance to reach Omaha. There is absolutely no deviation from the rule. Indeed, the sound of a trunk falling upon the floor is as good as the gong that sounds the discharge of the man handgrave shakings of the head as to her ling it. As a result of this strictness the pads are used so assiduously that they are worn out in a short time. One descending biff from the iron-bound corner of a monster sample case is often sufficient to split the cover of the

The clause which provides that baggage shall be trucked, not rolled, is a big feature. The difference in the wear and tear on a trunk when it is zig-zagged bumpety-bump 30 or 40 yards over wood and stone and when it is hauled the same distance on a wheeled truck can be readily understood.

This has been due partly to necessity, partly to an intent to preserve the balance of progress in all departments. CONTRIBUTES TO SERVICE. But the betterment of the baggage service has been more strikingly shown in the details of the work than in its delicacies. In every important phase of it, speed, certainty, capacity, the advance has been marvelous. It is seldom now that the scheduled resting time of a train is not sufficient for the transmission of all luggage to and from it; nor is baggage lost any more, even temporarily, save on rare occa-sions, when it is usually traced and found; neither are the capacious modern baggage room quarters ever so overtaxed that the forces employed are swamped and unable to do the day's

Two Lindsay Doctors Couldn't Cure Mr. Murdock itician can commit, for the bores are a strong and powerful clan." The phrase seems a reminiscence of Byron's lines in "Don Juan".

His Case a Severe One---Pain So Intense Morphine Had To Be Administered --- No Control of His Bladder---Wife Thought He Would Die.

Doctors Failed To Do Him Any Good-One Bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Eased the Pain and Allowed Him Sleep-Two Bottles Cured Him.

Mr. E. Gregory, the Well-Known Lindsay Druggist, Indorses Mr. Murdock's Statement of His Case.

MR. JAMES M. MURDOCK.

Everybody in Lindsay, Ont., knows Jim Murdock, who has been engaged in the cartage and delivery business in that town for some years past, and latterly has been in the employ of the Rathbun Company. A few months ago his friends were well aware that he was in a very serious condition, due to trouble with his kidneys and bladder, and many had grave apprehensions as to the ultimate outcome, as he was rapidly going down hill, despite the efforts of two of Lindsay's best physicians to cure him.

He was confined to his bed six weeks, and the severe pain in his back and in the region of his bladder made it excruciating agony for him to move. In fact the pain became so intense at times that large doses of morphine had to be administered to give him ease, and very few nights was he able to get sleep without the aid of an opiate. Besides this, he had lost control of his bladder, and the frequent urination added to his misery.

He had a doctor in attendance constantly, who said he suffered from ulcer on the neck of the bladder, took bottle after bottle of his medicine, but got little relief. Then he tried another doctor, but his treatment proved of no more benefit than that of the first one, and Mr. Murdock felt that unless something were done for him he was not long for this world.

A friend visiting him one day happened to tell him of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and the great things they were doing for people suffering from kidney and bladder disease. He sent to Mr. Gregory's drug store and got a bottle-the first few doses gave him ease from the awful pain. When the bottle was finished he felt wonderfully improved, and by the time the second bottle was taken, Mr. Murdock was a cured man.

MR. MURDOCK'S STATEMENT. "I was laid up in bed for over six weeks, suffering from a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. The pain in my back and across my bladder was so severe that the doctors were obliged to give me morphine. I had two of them in attendance at different times, but although they did their best for me I kept getting worse.

"They said I had an ulcer on the neck of the bladder, and did not think I could be cured without an operation. "I lost control of my bladder, and the water kept coming away every little while, and distressed me greatly. "I took a great deal of doctors' medicine, and although it was very expensive it did not help me. I was getting very thin and wasted, and both my wife and I despaired of my recovery.

"A friend one day happened to tell me of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and I sent to Gregory's drug store for a bottle of them. I had only taken a few doses, when the pain eased up. I began to feel better, and could control my water, and by the time I had used two bottles I was completely

When I was sick my weight had gone down to 135 pounds. Now 1 weigh 173 pounds, and never felt better in my life. Although I work hard every day, I never have a pain or ache or trace of my old trouble.
"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, as I verily believe they saved my life when the doctors could do nothing for JAMES M. MURDOCK. (Signed)

MR. GREGORY'S CONFIRMATION. Mr. E. Gregory, the popular Lindsay druggist, who sold Mr. Murdock the Tablets, confirmed this statement as follows:

"I have known Mr. James Murdock for some years past. He is a hard-working and highly respected citizen of Lindsay, and I can vouch for the accuracy of his statements regarding his case, and his cure by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. Many people in this town are using the Tablets with splendid results, and their sale with us exceeds that of any other kidney (Signed) E. GREGORY.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are prepared from the formula of Zina Pitcher, M.D., formerly Professor of Materia Medica and Genito-Urinary Diseases, Michigan College of Medicine, Detroit, Mich. They are the most effective, scientific treatment for backache, lame or weak back, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, dizziness, mist before the bloating, gravel, stone in the bladder, high colored urine, sediment, scalding or smarting, irritability of the bladder, frequent calls during the day or night, pains in the joints or muscles, uric acid in the blood, kidney troubles of women, bedwetting of children, and all forms of kidney, bladder or urinary troubles of young or old.

Bismarck's Extremely Simple Method of Ridding Himself of Long-Winded Visitors.

[New York Post.] In the current English discussion of the succession to the premiership, on Lord Salisbury's retirement, one objection to Mr. Balfour has been given some prominence. It is that he has a certain intellectual hauteur and fastidousness, and is very impatient and curt in dealing with bores. This is nothing against the man, but is said to be a serious drawback to the politician. Thus even the grave Spectator takes the ground: "Not to suffer bores gladly, or, at any rate, not to pretend to do so, is ne of the worst mistakes which a pol-

"Society is now one polished horde, Formed of two mighty tribes, the Bores and Bored."

Of the fact that successful public men re peculiarly the prey of one of these mighty tribes, there can be no doubt. A bore is drawn to a man in high office with the same fatal attraction which impels cranks to swarm about scientists. Just as the men with wild notions about an invention, or with some impossible scientific theory maggoting in their brains, flock to Edison or Huxley or Darwin, so the purveyors of crack-ed political ideas, the peddlers of social nostrums, the pretentious reformers of all mankind except themselves, beset the officials who, they think, have the power, if they only had the will, to make society and the world all anew, by their aid. The phenomenon is well known. It was described by Cobden as "one of the miseries of a popular man." Just after his great triumph in 1846, in securing the repeal of the corn laws, he wrote to a friend to complain humorously of the bores that buzzed about him:
"First, half the mad people in the country who are still at large, and they are legion, address their incoherent ravings to the most notorious man of the hour. Next, the kindred tribe who think themselves poets, who are more difficult than the mad people to deal with, send their doggerel and solicit subscriptions to their volumes, with occasional requests to be allowed to dedicate them. Then there are the Jeremy Diddlers, who begin their epistles with high-flown compliments upon my services to the millions, and always wind up with a request that I will bestow a trifle upon the individual who ventures to lay his distressing case before me. To add to my miseries, people have got an idea that I am influential with the government, and the small place-hunters are at me. Yesterday a man wrote from Yorkshire, office. Who has not smiled at some of the terrible boreings which John Quincy Adams reported in his diary? The traditionally frigid atmosphere surrounding an Adams was not able to chill the ardor of the infesting tribe crotchety and office-begging mortals. There was that Rev. Dr. Allison who so frequently turns up in Adams' "Allison was in," is the despairing record. Who the man was, Adams did not leave posterity ignorant. Here is his picture—a very type of one of the worst political bores known to the classiflers:

"Dr. Allison is an old Baptist clergynan. He has not been successful in his calling, has no parish or permanent church; . . . is in very needy circumstances—has long been a candidate for the appointment of superintendent of the patent office—came now to tell me that he was vice-president the General Association of Baptist Ministers throughout the United States; that this office gave him a very extensive political influence . . . a power which would be much enlarged with some small assistance of money . . . that he had reflected much ipon the subject of Monroe's succesor, and had come to the conclusion hat I was the most suitable person." It is easy to see that, for a public man, the problem of dealing with such besiegers so as at once to save his own sanity and prevent them A great deal depends upon temperament. Where Mr. Balfour is testy or satirical, another might have his fun to himself, and dismiss the bore empty-handed, but well pleased, by dint of skillful manipulation. Something of this must have been in Robert Louis Stevenson's mind, when he said to William Archer: "I was never not speak too highly of this great and bored in my life." But he was an ir-responsible Bohemian, and his saying serious statesman. Yet Cavour is on ecord to much the same effect. He poasted of never suffering from ennui, and his "recipe," he said, was "very one is ennuyeux." There lies, undoubtedly, the golden secret for the politician beset by the bore. Some men can even take a kind of zest in being bored, and extract so much philosophy and secret laughter out of it that they, in a sort, turn the tables of boredom on their tormentors. This renial gift is rare, though obviously much to be coveted by the overrun statesman. However, if it fail, there

He never suspected a thing, and I then boldly kept right on giving it regularly, as I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness, and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving husband, comforts and everything else dear to a woman's heart; for my husband had told me that whisky was vile stuff and he was taking a dislike to it. It was only too true, for before I had given him the full course he had stopped drinking altogether, but I kept giving him the medicine till it was gone, and then sent for another lot, to have on hand if he should relapse, as he has done from promises before. LARGEST TRIBE OF AFRICA

Fans of the French Congo Are Believed to Number 3,000,000.

The Fans of West Africa, living east of the Gaboon and between the Ogowe and Sanga Rivers, have long been supposed to be the largest of African tribes. They are cannibals, who for years opposed every effort of the whites to ascend the Ogowe River. At last they permitted the Frenchman De Brazza to explore the river. They were awestruck by a wonderful display of fireworks he made one evening, and did not dare to refuse the request of the mysterious white man who appeared to be in league with Four French explorers who have been traveling through the inner part of the French Congo to study its commercial resources, have learned some new facts about the Fans living between the Ogowe and the Sanga tributary of the Congo in a large region which, until now, has been almost unknown. In an account which Mr. Auguste Foret has written of the Fans in this new territory, he expresses the opinion that this race numbers at least 3,000,000 souls. He says it is fortunate that they have no political or military organization. They do not recognize the authority of any great chief, and are frequently at war with one another. He believes that if they were a compact and well-organized nation, like some other age tribes in tropical Africa, they would give the white a great deal of trouble. The eastern Fans differ considerably statesman. However, if it fail, there is always the resort of Bismarck. A long-winded visitor once asked him how he got rid of long-winded visitors.

"When you get angry with your husband, do you threaten to go to your part of the family. As far east as 9 degrees east longitude, they wear more or less clothing; further east they are

The richer women wear on their legs enormous copper rings made by their own people, the weight of these ornaments, often wounding the ankles and making it very difficult for them to walk.

The western Fans have never been very friendly to the whites, though they have a tendency to move into the neighborhood of the French stations in order that they may carry on a barter trade. The explorers who have visited the Eastern Fans say they are no more sociable than those of the maritime regions.

Mr. Bell proposed a toast to "The Last Man," and recited a few lines descrip-They are quarrelsome, suspicious and ready, on the slightest pretext, to point their guns and flourish their cutlasses. All the dealings of the whites with them seem to show, however, that the Fans are bullies and blackguards rather than brave men. When firmly dealt with by a man who shows no fear of them, they get off their high horse and become quite subdued and he was 24 years older than Mr. Bell, and dropped out of the race eleven years horse and become quite subdued and tractable.

The missionaries who founded their first station among the Fans in 1897 assert that in the traditions of these people they have discovered traces of a belief in one all-powerful and eter-nal God. The Fans say that God creates animals and men, and that we return to him after death. The monotheistic idea is held by very few of the barbarous tribes of Africa, the Fans being, therefore, a notable exception to the general rule. They also have an idea of the convenience

THE OPEN SESAME TO GLORY. I do not envy Shakespeare's fame, Or Tennyson's, or Walter Scott's; In mine ne'er burned Apollo's flame, No more than in the soul of Potts.

Let those who will the muse engage,
And pattern take of Burns or Cook;

My route's direct to glory's page—
I'll dramatize a "famous" book.

Oh. shades of Jonson, Sheridan— Whose wit conjured the ready smile-You've hailed the pallid ferryman, No more your arts the gods beguile.
You each have had your fleeting day,
Like Lytton, Hugo, Moore and Hook;
How different if you'd learned the way
To dramatize a "timely" book!

Avaunt! Let naught my steps impede,
Nor doom my gifts divine to scorn;
The stars of Boucleault and Reade
Are of their tawdry luster shorn.
Not mine to grub in hackneyed ways;
At Fate my thumb I'll boldly crock;
To wear the green, immortal bays,
I'll dramatize a "breezy" book.

Tis clear that classic Avon's Swan, Whose plummet gaged all human tricks, Ne'er dreamed of this catholicon, Ere passed he o'er the gloomy Styx; Or, now, instead of plays outplayed, And roles burlesqued in word and look, His ghost would share the tribute paid The Stilted Drama of the Book.

It is doubtful if there will be found an intelligent theatergoer who will have the temerity to claim for any one of the half-dozen attractions mentioned a degree of merit equal to that of the comic operas of the vintage of ten or even five years ago. Measured by the standard of "Wang," "Robin Hood," "Erminie," and "The Geisha," not to mention the earlier Gilbert and Sullivan operas, the part they can only be carried successfully by the unremitting efforts of clecomedians, without which they would be utter failures. As for their music, it is safe to predict that not one of them contains a number which will so stand the test of time that it will be sung ten years hence, as "The Armourer's Song," and "Oh, Promise Me," are sung today. Evidently the creation of a good comic opera is not a matter of taking pen in hand and writing. There must be true inspiration, and so far as modern comic opera is concerned, it looks as though inspiration, like lightning, does not strike twice in the same place. Reginald De-Koven and Harry Smith have never equaled "Robin Hood," though they have made many attempts; Cheever Godwin and Woolson Morse made their only great hit with "Wang"; Paulton and Jacobowski could not produce a successor to "Erminie," while the public is still waiting for another opera as pretty and tuneful from the combination of librettists, lyricists and composlie in the English language. Surely the outlook of the understudy who visits this city is a dark and dis- gent method of dealing with dilatory couraging one. A perusal of the biographies of stage favorites reveals the at the rear of the theater until the fall fact that they always received their of the curtain on the end of an act, instart on the road to fame by being summoned at a moment's notice to take the part of one of the principals in whatever production they happened to be connected with. Invariably they did much better work in the past than even the principal himself or herself, and from that time advancement was rapid and sure. But it is not so with underlater offerings fall very flat indeed. The librettos are so weak that for the most the natural course of the events which make up the history of a traveling theatrical company, an understudy is put on (generally because a principal decldes that it would be only a waste of valuable energy and talent to appear before a crowd of the natives of this Canadian way-station, and that anyway the jays won't know whether they're getting Lillian Russell or Lili Lingerie from the chorus), that under-study always succeeds in giving a rendition of a role in such a manner that the whole performance is marred for guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Caine. the discriminating theatergoer. It is a most marvelous thing that London should be the only place where this tinee held in New York this week. happens, for, according to the 10-cent magazines, the understudy always "makes good" and causes the original taker of the role to look like threetenths of one dollar. It must be something in the air of the place. The opinion of Lieut.-Col. Denison, of Toronto, that theatrical posters representing the commission of brutal crimes have a tendency to incite imitation of such crimes on the part of those disposed to evil-doing, has ieceived a striking confirmation in a dispatch published during the past week. A New York State farmer, insanely jealous of his wife, tied her at a stake in his bull-pen, and allowed an infurlated bull to gore her to death. The farmer, after being arrested, confessed that he chose this means of killing his wife because of the impression made on his mind by posters depicting the arena scene in "Quo Vadis." If the ex-hibition of this scene resulted in one individual choosing so bizarre a method of taking a human life, how much more easily may the picturing of the infliction of death by shooting, stabbing, drowning, poisoning or other simple methods, suggest to viciously-inclined persons an apparently easy manner in which to carry out murderous designs?

A prominent London manager locks the doors of his theater on the rise of role. the curtain, and does not open them until the end of the act. He does it with a view to ending the late-comer nuisance. This is an even more strinarrivals than the method, in vogue in many theaters, of making them stand stead of allowing them to go to their seats while the play is in progress, and thereby disturbing and inconveniencing those who have come in good time, and who have a right to enjoy the performance, without being subjected to annoyance, which is too often the outcome of wanton carelessness and disregard on the part of those who offend in this manner. Whatever may be said of the first named method, there can be little question that the second at least is a fair and reasonable one. Anything that will mitigate the crying nuisance that exists at present is a step in the right direction.
