NEW MOTOR LADDER TRUCK.

The new motor ladder truck, the latest addition to the city's fire-fighting equipment, arrived in London last week and was handed over to Chief Altken at the Western Fair Grounds on Saturday. The truck will be on exhibition at the fair grounds all the week, so that citizens and other visitors to the Fair will have an opportunity of inspecting it before it receives its baptism of fire.

The new truck is much larger than any other now in use by the city department, and is equipped with eight ladders, the longest of which is 60 feet, against the old horse-drawn truck, which had five ladders, the longest being 55 feet. It also has a much larger chemical tank, with two ordinary and two smaller tanks, has four lanterns, is fitted with clamps to hold the ladders in place instead of straps, which took much longer to operate. The truck has a governed speed of 20 miles an hour, and is tested out at 38 miles an hour.

The men with the truck are: R. C. Claxton, driver; Fireman Hector Bishop; Fire Chief John Aitken, and C. Austin, general superintendent of Ruggles Motor Truck Company.

Big Shipments to Prairies — Some Complaint About Market Conditions.

Victoria, Sept. 12.—While market conditions could stand improvement, the ontput of fruit in British Columbia this year will be exceptionally heavy if present reports prepared during the early shipping season are to be accepted as a criterion.

The berry crops are in, and production has been abnormally high, with sales correspondingly large. About 250 carloads of small fruit were shipped that season from the coast province to the prairies. Blackberries were the last to move out, but the last of them have now been shipped.

now been shipped Damaged Berries.

Wet weather during the latter part of June and early July Jamaged the berry crops considerably in the interior sections of the province. Another factor which contributed to the unsatisfactory tions of the province. Another factory which contributed to the unsatisfactory financial phase of the operaticns was the high cost of production, based largely on 1920 conditions. If this year's market prices were as high as last year, 1921 operations would have netted a fortune for Okanagan growers.

Canners did not take nearly as much fruit this year as in former seasons. They took, altogether, about 25 5tons of a strawberries and 90 tons of raspberries, as compared with 600 tons of strawberries and 300 tone of raspberries in 1920. The heaviest volume of the betry business was with the Prairic Frovinces, although one car was sent as far east as Chicago, and the contents sold at good profit. An advertising campaign carried on through the prairies resulted in maintaining sales in that territory on a satisfactory basis.

Lozanberries are likely to be a big shipper from British Columbia in future years. They have passed the experimental stage and are likely to be in big demand in the cast on account of their excellent jamming qualities.

A DIP INTO THE PAST.

That there is "nothing new under the sun" is a trite ying, which is vividly illustrated by the contents of copy of the Boston Gazette, dated March 12, 1770. aper of the present day, but the amount of news which packed into its four tiny pages is surprising, and it is e trend of this intelligence which causes us to ponder re them with the present.

In 1770 what is now the United States was known the American Colonies of Great Britain, owning the vay of King George III., and although the war of inendence did not occur until about four years later. distant murmurings of the storm were already volutionary movement was just then getting into ing, one of its phases being a boycott against goods ported from Britain, a parallel to which at once zurs to us in the Ghandi movement in India. Meetgs were held in various places, and the inhabitants ants in their non-importation agreement."

The preamble to one of these resolutions says that he Royal Ear seems to be stopt against all our imble prayers and petitions for redress of grievances at this land is involved in," and that measures were ing taken by the people "to support and maintain eir charter rights and privileges, and to prevent their tal ruin and destruction."

The wave of discontent found an inevitable outle friction between the Government authorities and e people, which sometimes developed into disturbces ending in the effusion of blood. Referring to e of these encounters, the Boston Gazette says: 'he town of Boston affords a recent and melancholy monstration of the destructive consequences of partering troops among citizens in a time of peace, der a pretence of supporting the laws and aiding

The Gazette gives a graphic account of one of these frays, which reay be briefly summarized as follows: e evening several soldiers of the 29th Regiment the inhabitants. This was just a few years before the great upheaval hich ended in Britain losing her hold on the "Ameri-Colonies" forever. A more liberal policy would ve saved the situation, but the politicians of the day ere deaf to reason. A dip into the past, such as the rusal of this old print affords, is good for those who sh to correct their perspective of things present.

RECONSTRUCTION IN ENGLAND.

The reconstruction of rural England since the war a fact that can be looked at from various angles. re is a note of regret voiced frequently these days the passing out of old families, the breaking up of eat estates the ownership of which had been in one said of the deeper social change that is taking place the passing away of these older families in the itter of their relations to the class that looked to em for example and leadership. The Manchester Guardian takes occasion in a cent issue to point out that the reconstruction of ral England is a process that, however painful it ed by the war. Less generally noticed than actual verses, but just as notable, says the Guardian, was mortification inflicted by the constant comparison ich circumstances drew between masses of homeed Englishmen, and masses of Australians, Cana ans and New Zealanders.

"Whether they were seen marching past each other on the road, or fighting on neighboring sectors of a front, or merely using their leisure the fact that we had succeeded in giving our 'common people' enough of the physique, the vitary, the aleriness, the nervous resilience, the reserves of initiative and of mental curios ity which every man ought to have, and which very few of their overseas cousins had not. However little one liked it, one had to feel that the life of the English village, in which we had all taken some sort of delight, was not to be compared with the life of small Canadian farms or great Australian sheep runs as a mold for terning out men able fully to enjoy life and to make a good job of it."

It has taken the war to brush away a rather specious kind of romance, the product in part of guidebooks and books of travel, that had gathered about the "Main Street," has drawn the curtain aside from the smug self-satisfaction of the typical American small town. It is blunt economic facts that has forced the econstruction in England, and, as the Guardian con-English village. Probed to its depths there is a seamy town. DANTE, 1321-1921.

The 14th of September is the 600th anniversary of Dante's death at Ravenna. There, in the 20th year of exile from Florence, the city of his birth, training, hopes and love, the second greatest of the world's poets, unless you place Homer as well as Shakespeare kimonos, or to the movies, they have before him, ended a life remarkable in more ways than one. For the life behind the pen was a poem.

Great Britain has already, in the first week of May, paid her respect to Dante's memory. Official Italian celebrations are in progress at Rome, Florence and Ravenna. There was something rather similar in 1881, when the city of Mantua remembered the 1900th anniversary of Virgil's death, as in that city he was born. Tennyson, often called the English Virgil, contributed one of his finest poems to that occasion. We may well expect some such tributes to Dante from contempor ary English and other poets.

There was nothing insular about the author of the Divine Comedy. But he was also intensely Italian, believed in Rome's imperial permanence, reverenced the memory of Caesar, the universal ruler, worshipped Virrenewal of the Roman Peace, Italian dominance, and one rule throughout the world of an emperor and a pope seated at Rome. He believed in his Italian tongue, learned as he was, at a time when most scholars were inclined to disparage their own language in deference to Latin. Though he wrote important works in the language of Cicero and Virgii, he had the patriotism and judment to compose the Commedia and other loems in the musical words of Florence. Modern Italy owes much to Dante. Because of his influence and prestige it was easy to make his Florentine dialect the standard literary, educational and official language of the land at last reunited in 1860—1870. One language in school, newspapers, army and parliament has been the making of Italy.

The life of Dante shows many-sidedness. He was first of all a scholar, master of several languages, a philologist, philosopher and theologian, well taught in secular things by Brunetto Latini in Divine studies.

THE MALABAR DISTURBANCE.

How better entitle, then, a poem opening in Hell, ending in Heaven, and written in the tongue of the people, not in the Latin of the scholars? Dante was no pessimist. He had But he was just a graveyard! and the been in Hell, but out of it he had risen through repentance and by grace of Beatrice into the Heaven of redemption. IN CHILDHOOD'S REALM.

The most recent fall models in frocks and coats for the younger generation seem to emphasize the fact that while there is no radical change in the line of the little garments, there is much to be seen of interest in trimming, and to the details. There are three fabrics that are about equal in demand: serge, velvet or velvetine, and jersey. The singular part of the jersey mode is that the frocks of this fabric are deviced for the interest in trimming in at their house of a friend. Turning in at their treshing dinner was in hand.

Herbst Opposes Boothby Second Time, But Cy Is Off Color -Stutz Accepts 13 Chances and Provides Amusement To Crowds-3,000 See Game.

BAY CITY, Sept. 11.—The champion London Cockneys made it three in a row from the faltering Wolves by winning almost as they pleased before a mamnoth crowd Sunday, 8 to 1, and now need but one more victory to give them the league titular honors for the second year in succession, besides earning the right to play the Ludington Central League champions in a post series. Herbst, winner in the opening thirteen-inning contest at London last Thursday, when the Cockneys copped 3 to 2, again opposed Cy Boothby on the Sabbath, and had a much easier time. Boothby was away off form, being pounded for no less than eighteen safe blows, five of them being doubles, two by Crichlow, two by Stutz and the other by Kuhn. The visitors made at least one safe hit in every inning, and with men on bases had little trouble in scoring. Herbst, on the other hand, held the Wolves to seven scattered blows, and had it not been for his own error would have earned a shutout. London had on its batting clothes, as is evidenced by the box score, every man in the line-up getting at cleast one hit. Crichlow, Kuhn and Laabs each had three, while Stutz, Vandyke tand Herbst had two aplece.

London started after Boothby in the first inning, and aided by two costly errors by Koehler and Karpus, counted twice on Crichlow's double and Kuhn's single. Boothby, was hit fairly hard in the next four innings, but sharp fielding prevented any scoring. In the meantime Bay City picked up one run in the fifth on Karpus' double, Hayford's sacrifice and Herbst's boot of Boothby's bunt. London scored another in the sixth on Oakes' single, Hegedorn's poor throw and Laabs' single. Two more came in the eighth on singles by Kuhn, Vandyke and Laabs, and Van's stolen base, and in the ninth the Cockneys made certain of victory by chasing in three more runs on Stutz's double, Crichlow's fielder's choice, on which Herbst, who had singled, was retired, Kuhn's double and Malmduest's single.

The crowd numbered over three thousand. Stutz provided the thrills by fielding sensationally, accepting thirteen chances without a slip-up. He also provided the fans with plenty of amusement by his actions in front of the dug-out, being threatened with banishment on several occasions by Umpire O'Hearne.

BASEBALL REVIEW.

Chicago, Sept. 10 .- With more than three weeks of the 1921 major league season remaining, Babe Ruth equalled his 1920 home run record and equalled his 1920 home run record and bids fair to set a new record for circuit drives. Ruth's 54th homer was scored off Naylor of the Athletics yesterday. His last three homers in 1920 were also off Philadelphia pitchers, the 94th of last season coming on September 29. The slugger also increased his total base record of 393. Besides his homers he has made 39 doubles and 12 triples. A quartet of American League sluggers is staging one of the greatest batting races since some years ago when

of the season.

Harry Hilmann and Ty Cobb, the Detroit stars, are holding first and second position as the final stretch is started, with George Sisler, the St. Louis idol and last year's champion, putting on an attack which has carried him into fourth place ahead of Tris Speaker, and which threatens to carry him to the top again. Harris, of Washington, has brought his base-stealing record to 26. Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis, who last year led the National League in batting with an average of .370, promises to repeat this season. He is the only regular in the league hitting above the .400 mark, his average being .406.

Hornsby is well in front in total bases, his 210 hits giving him a total of 333 bases. His hits include 20 homers. George Kelly of the Glants leads with 22 home runs.

Frank Frisch of the Glants added four bases to his string of stolen bases, and is showing the way to the base-stealers with 47 thefts.

Rap! Rap! Rap! 2,000,000 Doors Fly Open Daily

During this 1921 period of readjustment, daily newspaper circulation in Canada has maintained its standing one hundred per cent. Men and women thus prove that the newspaper is to them a staple necessity of life-like beef, and bread, and tea. They feel safe in buying what their home newspaper advertises, and they seek its advice.

In 63 Canadian centres of population the daily newspaper is the dominant medium in circulation. As a mass, or sub-divided into sections and zones, its 2,000,000 subscribers are the most receptive to your selling message.

Every day you hesitate to use this greatest single selling force in Canadian merchandising delays your passage from rough to smooth business sailing.

OVER THE HILL Congratulations are due Allen Theatre for offering citizens of Western Ontario an opportunity to hear the famous Royai Canadian Military Concert Band, under the able direction of Capt. Ryan. This band, acknowledged by many to be Canadia's greatest band, will be a treat that should attract music lovers from all sections of Western Ontario. It is particularly appropriate that coupled with this high-class band is a picture of real merit as "Over the Hill." With excursion rates on the ratiways, no doubt many citizens of surrounding Western Ontario centres will avail themselves of this opportunity—one that comes all too seldom—of hearing a really high-class military concert band. Again, congratulations upon your efforts, may others follow your example and bring to London, programs or attractions of equal merit. (Signed). and bring to London, programs of attrac-tions of equal merit. (Signed), CAPT. HARRY T. The 1921 season is drawing to a close, and dealers must liquidate immediately for their fall and winter business. Reduced prices and the necessity of reducing inventories led to our decision to put on the greatest cut-price sale of FORD CARS in the history of the motor car business in Western Ontario.
