HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, April 11.—When the leader of the opposition criticized the suggestion in the report of the committee on agriculture and colonization that the matter of the re-establishing of the wheat board with compulsory powers demanded urgency, he was careful that his criticism savored of being constructive.

He had an alternative idea for the committee to consider, but this alternative was in no way apart from the main theme of the wheat board.

If the leader of the opposition has been understood aright by the majority of the members who heard him, he put forward a scheme whereby the board could be once again set up without the delay of waiting on a decision from the supreme court.

The interpretation placed upon the proposal was that a bill should be drafted under the direction of the parliamentary law officers, again placing the wheat board on its former footing.

The parliamentary law officers supposedly would allow the bill to give such compulsory powers to the revived board as they considered constitutional.

The constitutionality of the wheat board with compulsory powers must be made clear if that institution is to be revived, because otherwise powerful private companies, who consider the board detrimental to their interests, would avail themselves of the processes of law to obstruct the activity of the board.

The main purpose is injunction. But in his eagerness to have his criticism constructive, Hon. Arthur Meighen paid little attention, it is thought, to the value of the alternative suggestion he had to offer.

It is said to be doubtful whether the proposed legislation, drafted though it might be under the direction of the parliamentary legal lights, would be any freer from attack by injunction than if the wheat board were re-established again, regardless of the constitutionality.

In other words, the alternative suggestion which the leader would have the committee consider is worthless.

PAUL MERCIER, of the constitution of Westmount, St. Henri, had the government report, declaring that negotiations were being entered into between the British embassy at Washington and the American Government regarding the deepening of the St. Lawrence scheme, was authentic. The reply given by the Hon. W. S. Fielding was to the effect that it was not with the knowledge of the cabinet that any such negotiations had been entered into.

The scheme for deepening the St. Lawrence has received great support from the western part of Ontario, because of the great effect any such scheme would have on the port along Lake Erie, and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers. In fact, it is understood that from the last mentioned neighborhood the scheme received its initial support in Canada, after it had originated in the middle western states.

We have learned that it is charged by the Great Lakes Tidewater Association, which is behind the project, that at the present time the city of New York is maintaining a professional lobbyist at Ottawa to create a strong feeling against any move on the part of the Canadian Government to further the scheme.

By the city of New York it is meant not the municipality but great interests in New York who would be badly smitten if the plan were carried through, and transportation from the middle west went via Lake Erie and the St. Lawrence rather than by rail to the ports in the United States along the Atlantic Coast.

The question of this scheme is one that is going to be before the public mind for many years to come. The work is a monumental one, and has a great bearing on the future of great sections of Canada and the United States. At the present time the coast cities in the United States are understood to be doing everything possible to postpone the

Strive to Mould Economic Destiny of Europe at Genoa Conference

AVERTS BREAK WHEN FRANCE, RUSSIA CLASH

Two Nations' Delegates Enter Heated Discussion On Arms Policy.

OUST REDS' PROTEST

Chitcherina Objects To Japs and Rumanians Dealing With Soviet Affairs.

St. George's Palace, Genoa, April 11.—That all countries invited to the Genoa conference have a right to be represented on its committees was the ruling of Premier Facta of Italy, this afternoon, following the protest of Russia against the presence of Rumanian and Japanese delegates on the committee to consider Russia's affairs.

Foreign Minister Chitcherina, who made the protest, based it on the grounds that Rumania is occupying Bessarabia and Japan is occupying portions of Siberia. Premier Facta, who presided over the committee, refused to consider the protest.

Consideration of the Russian question by the international economic and financial conference began this morning, the Russian commission, appointed Monday by Premier Facta, conference chairman, meeting at 10:30 o'clock.

The clash between the Russians and French at the opening session yesterday was still the subject of excited comment as the delegates gathered today. Allied diplomats believe that only the prompt intervention of Premier Lloyd George, and the firm attitude of the chairman, averted a break, which would have seriously affected the coming deliberations.

Announcement by George Chitcherina, head of the Soviet delegation, that Russia was prepared to support any proposals that would avert war, or lighten the burden of armament was accepted as a fling at the French military policy by Louis Barthou, who heatedly declared that France would refuse to discuss disarmament at Genoa.

Appeals to Delegates. While Mr. Lloyd George appealed to the delegates to adhere to the agenda as adopted by the supreme council at Cannes, he made the flat declaration that "unless the Genoa conference leads to disarmament, it will be a failure."

"But before you get to disarmament," he said, "you must have a durable peace. With the present agenda we have all the cargo the ship can carry."

After quiet was restored, appointment was announced of the commission on verification of credentials, the Russian question, finance, economic questions and transport.

The keynote of the conference was sounded by Mr. Lloyd George, when he outlined the only conditions on which he can consent to deal with others, this supposedly referring specifically to the Russians.

Guarded by Police. The principal committee of the conference, composed of the chief delegates of all the states represented, and attended by the experts of the various delegations, assembled this morning in the Palazzo Reale. Considerable importance is attached to the deliberations of this committee.

Extraordinary police precautions were taken at the palace, and forces of military lined the main street.

TOWNS CUT OFF ELECTORAL LIST

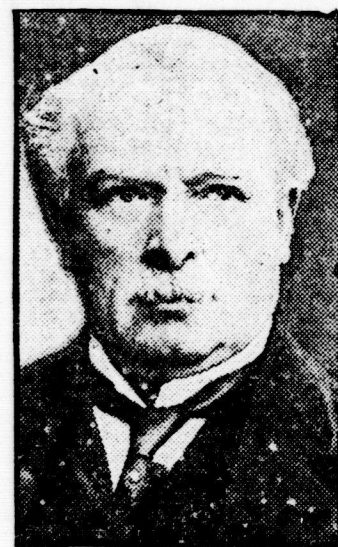

Ottawa, April 11.—Under schedule 2 of the Dominion elections act, the chief electoral officer has struck off the list by amendment, the following places at which less than 15 votes were cast at the advance polls: Brantford, Courtright, Alimira, Elora, Kitchener, Kincardine, Port Dover, Port Rowan, Southampton, Stratford, Teeswater, Walkerville, Wallaceburg, Winton and Wingham.

These are facts of which Mrs. Murphy is as yet in blissful ignorance, the dear little dog having only recently burst upon her outraged sight in wet green drab, sending her, bubbling with wrath, to the telephone.

The magic phrase that unlocks this flood of statistics is "and when she tells her mother true she is never punished." For Phyllis, with all her charm of face, form and manner, is a sternly practical soul; and her untruthfulness has always been of a strictly utilitarian nature.

Having discovered at an early age that punishment followed crime, and being one to whom crime, of a light-hearted and not unendearing variety, was as the air she breathed, she stumbled on the inevitable conclusion. The simplest way out of the difficulty was to say, "I did not do it," and let it go at that. Argument, cajolery and threat proved as unavailing as punishment. That was her story and she stuck to it. Only when a conference of dismayed parents decided that for the present emphasis must be laid on veracity, even to the extent of ignoring minor misdemeanors, did Phyllis, convinced of forgiveness if she made a clean breast of things, resume her artless admissions of wrongdoing. She was glad to resume them. She is naturally a truthful child.

FREES MOTHER WHO QUIT BABE

Magistrate Bartlett Pities Young Girl As She Trembles Awaiting Sentence.

Authorities To Turn Efforts To Bringing Man Responsible To Book.

With tear-dimmed eyes and trembling lips a young girl admitted in police court Tuesday morning that she was the mother of the tiny two-months-old babe, found abandoned in a G. E. R. train here on the afternoon of March 24 last.

When the charge of abandoning a child was read to her, she whispered the one word "guilty," and stood trembling, waiting for the sentence of the court.

Deputy Police Magistrate P. H. Bartlett spoke kindly to the young mother, and little by little drew her story from her.

She was an orphan, she said, and had come to London six years ago to live with her uncle and aunt. She had taken a business course, and later had taken other employment, which she left last December, after contracting rheumatism.

The baby had come into the world at Bethesda Hospital on February 2, and the mother had stayed at the hospital 7 weeks before going to Hamilton, where she had endeavored to put the child in a home for infants.

She did not succeed in this aim and finally returned to London, not knowing what she would do or where she would go. She could not explain why she had left her tiny son in the railway coach. She thought the train went right on through, after a short stop in London.

Questioned by Mr. Bartlett the girl said that she knew who the father was but declared he had done nothing to support her.

"The girl's uncle said she was an only child and an orphan. He had always found her a fine girl. Another uncle gave evidence of a similar nature."

A. R. Douglas, appearing for the crown, said that the girl knew perfectly well what she was doing when she abandoned the child in the train. She might have taken it back to Bethesda Hospital. On the other hand, said the crown, he was not pressing for the full penalty, as it seemed to be a pitiful case.

Pleads for Leniency. Inspector Kelly of the children's aid society made a plea for clemency, stating that the girl was afflicted with rheumatism and not really strong enough to work. Naturally, she had taken the child out of the city to put it in a home, but found that that was not such an easy thing to do.

"The result was," said Inspector Kelly, "that in an insane moment she left the child on the train. She was glad to resume them. She is naturally a truthful child."

Jack's romances have been of an entirely different and less perplexing kind. He lives in two worlds. In one, school, football, hockey and skating are vivid realities to be pursued with zest, and stamp collecting rivals Mint League baseball as a matter of supreme importance. He is never so happy, in this everyday world, as when, after a clean hard tackle, he goes down on the bottom of the pile. But there is another land of dream delights, peopled with folks he has met in books and with radiant beings of his own imagining, into which he slips after he is tucked into bed—and sometimes during the day.

Jack is 10 and is learning to keep these two worlds severely apart. But when he was a little boy they used to mingle and confuse his papa and mamma. When he said, "Daddy was worried because I was out late; but he didn't know one of my friends was with me. He has an awful lot of black whiskers, but that's the way God made him. An angel was there, too—and she flew up both home," it was obvious that fact and fancy had interlarded.

Londoners Welcome Spring In Air—And Everywhere

Ye Poets Sing of Birds. Yet well we know that Spring is here. We feel it in the air. We wipe it in the atmosphere. And also everywhere.

YEA, verily, spring is here. Its merry, piping voice is resonating everywhere. It echoes in the atmosphere and Verne DeWitt Rowell, the Bryanston poet, tuning his lyre, strums lightly upon the strings, clears his throat and doth sing marvelously and at great length.

Yes, Spring is certainly here, and the poet sings of birds, buds, bees and other things, and gets all "het up" so that his mind flits from work to running streams, babbling brooks, quiet, sequestered nooks along the route to Mapledeen, where beauty holds forth in all its glory.

Up and down Richmond street trudges the stalwart minion of the law with pig-iron in his shoes, while from his throbbing brow the moisture doth run copiously. He also concludes that Spring is here, but not blessed like the poet with temperamental genius, he does not idly strum upon the mandolin, or lift his voice in lilting verse, but selecting the coolest corner of Dundas street to maintain his vigil, he engages in pipe dreams aplenty.

Out at Springbank Park the jub-jub bird calls sadly to its mate, but there is no response. The wild flower edges up through the sod and glances modestly around. "It would seem," he says to no one in particular, "that I'm the stand-by this season."

Even old standby Car 27, as it bounces merrily along the dangerous spots on its way to the city's natural playground down the river, seemed imbued Tuesday morning with the prospect.

"It won't be long now," it exclaimed hilariously, as it rounded the bend at Wonderland, "before the dance pilgrims will be loading me down for the old park."

Over at Boomer's the soda dispensers gambol up and down behind the marble counter. "No more hot chocolates now," they chuckle one to another.

In the sweep of springtime all are back upon their jobs—the baseball squad, the Mint League rooters—hailing the season when they can cheer their heads off for a winning team. They want to see Buzz Wetwell's hot-headed antics in action over at the west side lot. It is sweet they admit, but baseball brings more soulful satisfaction.

And the golf bug prepares to hustle one north to the links; the fever—he has it and has been waiting all winter for such a day as today. He only prays that it is here to last. The tennis player heaves a joyous sigh, tunes his racket up to G and hankers to bat the ball over the net.

Here is authentic and final warning to shed overcoats and winter headgear. Up back of Becher's Island, as Monday afternoon dragged on, a bunch of ten and twelve year old boys won the outdoor spring championship when they plunged into the picturesque river Thames. In the face of this even the most optimistic rooster and wood pecker must throw up the sponge and plead for mercy.

What do we care for coal strikes when this weather prevails," cry the public. The home lovers are beginning also to admit that there is something in the poet's song. The housewife swats installment rugs and manicures the floor, waiting until the close of day for the timely return of the male "scholar" of the family.

They know the summer's coming. The gladdest days of all. With the hot sunshine on the diamond, And the umpire's cry, "Play ball!"

Graham Denies King Has Been Appointed To London District

Special to London Advertiser. Ottawa, April 11.—"The matter has not been discussed as yet," said Hon. George P. Graham, Canada's minister of militia, in discussing a report in a London Conservative newspaper that Brig.-Gen. W. B. M. King, C. M. G., D. S. O., of Kingston, has been appointed as the new officer commanding London military district.

General King's name has been mentioned for the post," said Hon. Mr. Graham, "and I had intended discussing the matter on Monday, but I was so busy, and my deputy being away, I did not get around to it."

Mr. Graham intimated that the conference on the matter might take place late Tuesday, but at noon the appointment of King was yet to be made.

NO CUT MADE IN CHARITY TOTAL

Repeat 1921 Grants, Totalling $208,000, Says Bell.

Charity Bill May Be Bigger Owing To Winter Unemployment.

Charity grants by the city this year will be the same as in 1921, about $208,000.

Finance Commissioner James Bell states that the estimates for this year provide for the same number of grants as in 1921 and each for the same amount.

During the last couple of months, there has been considerable anxiety among various institutions dependent on the city for financial assistance, as Mayor Cameron Wilson had declared that these grants must be reduced.

However, the fears have proven unfounded. The grants have been passed in toto, the same as in 1921.

In some quarters it was stated today that the mayor's declaration was made for the purpose of shutting off further appeals and also requests for increases. Among the latter applications was that of the Children's Aid Society, which informed the city that it was not having the full cost of its children and that other charities of its kind individuals had to make up the deficiency of the city. The grant was not increased, so the old condition of 1921 will be continued.

City Clerk Baker estimated that the total charitable claims on the city in 1921 was $208,000. A similar amount is being raised in the tax rate this year.

However, when the year ends it may be found that this total has been materially increased as this winter saw considerable work done to aid unemployed and one-third of the excess cost of the work, the city's share, will be added to the charity and relief total.

Early in the year the council received a number of requests for increased grants, chief among them being the Soldiers' Aid, Children's Aid, Day Nursery and Aged People's Home.

POLICE BELIEVE LEWIS WILSON PLANNED BREAK

Abortive Attempt To Free Brother From Jail Leads to Search by Officials.

COMBING LOS ANGELES

Death of Cox Is Attributed to Fact He Talked Too Much To Suit Gang.

Special to London Advertiser.

Los Angeles, April 11.—Fully convinced that Lewis Wilson, brother of Herbert Wilson, former London, Ontario, evangelist, who, police charge, shot and killed Herbert B. Cox in the Alameda County Jail here Sunday, is again in the city, Sheriff W. L. Traeger and a squad of armed deputies, are combing the underworld of this city, in a determined effort to apprehend him.

Federal authorities allege that Lewis is not only the "mastermind" of a gang of bandits whose alleged depredations up and down the Pacific coast during the past three years has netted more than $2,000,000, but that the hunted man engineered the sensational break for liberty from the county jail Sunday of his brother, Herbert, Eddie Farrell and Herbert R. Cox.

When "Lewis" slipped cleverly through the police dragnet, which culminated in the arrest of Herbert Wilson and Cox, it was at first believed that he had fled across the Mexican border.

Think He Returned. That he hurried east toward the old Wilson home in Ontario, returning to Los Angeles about three weeks ago to meet the third Wilson brother, Frank, and is still in the city is, however, the contention of authorities at police headquarters today.

With this knowledge in their possession the officers also have uncovered, they say, other clues which strengthen their belief that "Lewis" was the unseen hand that directed Sunday's dash across the "bridge of sighs" with its subsequent tragedy.

Federal police who have been in close touch with the situation since Wilson and Cox were arrested several months ago, expressed not the slightest surprise respecting the sudden death of the latter.

"Dead men tell no tales," said one of them today. "Cox seemingly talked too much to suit Wilson and his gang; he died."

When Herbert Wilson was formally charged yesterday with the murder of Cox, it was revealed that he had in his possession, in addition to the revolver, several hack saws and more than $1,000 in cash, pointing again, police assert to the clever hand of the elusive "Lewis."

Will Chase Brother. That the money and swag were smuggled into the Alameda county jail despite rigid surveillance is obvious and indicates the work of active criminals, and it is stated this morning by the "authorities" that Frank Wilson, the third brother, who was arrested an hour after the attempted break, will be officially charged with aiding the escape of the prisoners.

When apprehended, Frank was seated in an automobile about 200 yards from the prison with the engine running and a suit case of clothes aboard. Apparently he was prepared for a long and hurried trip, although he stoutly denies all knowledge of the jail-breaking plot, or the death of Cox.

Police now state that the danger of a tragedy was accentuated when Eddie Farrell, alias Eddie O'Brien, wanted in Toledo for alleged complicity there in a mail robbery, was allowed to remain for weeks in close communion with Herbert Wilson.

O'Brien is not believed to have been a member of the Cox-Wilson party, however. Although charged similarly there is no evidence at this moment in the hands of the government to connect him with the break.

COMMITTEE OF HOUSE RETURNS MAJORITY OF 3

City Representatives Will Fight Measure Clause by Clause Next Week.

DEPUTATION IS SMALLER

Only Mayor, Ald. Ashplant and London Solicitor Appear To Protest Plan.

Special to London Advertiser.

Toronto, April 11.—The act respecting the City Gas Company of London was adopted in principle by the private bills committee of the Legislature this afternoon by a vote of 23 to 20. The passing of the bill clause by clause was adjourned until next week.

Defeated in the general adoption of the bill, the city's representatives announced their intention of fighting each clause when the bill again comes up.

The vote followed a long discussion in which Mayor Wilson, City Solicitor Meredith and Ald. Ashplant strongly opposed the gas company of the city of London being forced to pay $1.25 for gas by means of a measure which allowed the company to transfer reserves to capital stock.

The city officials objected to a permanent price being fixed on an audit at a time when prices were at their peak.

They proposed to the committee that a temporary price be fixed of that the company be called upon to live up to its former agreement with the city for 90c gas.

Only Mayor Wilson, Ald. H. B. Ashplant and T. G. Meredith, the solicitor of London, appeared to oppose the bill.

This is a much smaller deputation than came down a week ago when the measure was first presented to the private bills committee and laid over for a week when the city solicitor raised objection to the bill as presented, on the ground that it had not been advertised.

Prepared For Grill. It was whispered throughout the corridors that some of the Farmer members would have liked to have seen a few more of the London aldermen on the deputation, as they had some interesting questions stored up for several of them.

It was also clearly evident that the members of the committee are not falling over themselves to rush consideration of the measure, as after the committee decided that the bill was acceptable in principle, the decision was reached that next week would be time enough to take up the measure clause by clause, and the committee then passed on to another measure.

Since the Gas Company's measure was up a week ago, Mr. Meredith has given considerable study to it, and came here today well posted and ready to put up a big fight. He will have an opportunity to do so when consideration is being given to it, clause by clause.

The various clauses of the bill are as follows:

Clause one declares that the present capital stock of the company is $400,000, $250,000 heretofore paid and $150,000 to be transferred from this profit and loss account.

Gives Capital Right. Clause two would give the company the right to increase its capital to $1,000,000, the par value of the stock to be $1,000,000, and provides the city with the right of subscribing for $50,000 worth of the new stock, and the mayor to be ex-officio a director of the company. It is proposed to offer the stock by auction and any surplus over the par value realized shall be added to the reserve fund until that

Quaffs Poison To Join Husband In Death

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., April 11.—Wedded in life, it is the desire of Mrs. Alice Frey to be buried with her husband.

When Frank Frey, 58 years old, died last week, Mrs. Frey took a slow-working poison in order that she might join him in the Great Beyond.

Sunday she learned arrangements were being made to bury her husband. She left her hospital bed, went to the undertaking establishment, and in tears begged that the funeral be postponed until her death.

Told by physicians that Mrs. Frey's death is inevitable, the undertaker has postponed Frey's funeral for a few days. Mrs. Frey asked that her husband's love letters to her be buried with her and that his picture be placed in her casket.

ADVERTISING IN BUSINESS 'GETS JUST THROWN IN'

Head of Great English Toffee Industry Turns To It From Tiresome Work.

NOBODY PAYS BILL FOR IT

"By Increasing Output and Lessening Selling Costs It's Just Thrown In."

Special Correspondence of The London Advertiser.

Manchester, April 11.—"What romance is to literature advertising is to business. We all, at the bottom of our nature, have a love of adventure, but it is not possible for us in these days to live romantic lives. In advertising the business man has an outlet for this natural craving."

Speaks From Experience.

Such is the opinion of Sir Harold V. Mackintosh, head of the Halifax, England, firm of toffee makers. It was expressed to newspaper men from all over England, when they gathered at the Manchester Midland Hotel to congratulate Sir Harold on having been made a knight.

"What is most absorbing than the interest of planning a new advertising campaign," he continued, "working out details and watching results? These things have something of the joy of battle and give a spice of adventure to an otherwise ordinary sort of work."

A committee of men well known in the newspaper world arranged the luncheon at which Mackintosh spoke. Sir Charles Walter Starmer, managing editor of the Birmingham Gazette, was chairman of the committee. Among its members were Lord Riddell, who won many Canadian admirers at the Washington conference, Sir William Edge, Sir Edward Hulton, Sir Alexander Jeans, managing director of the Liverpool Post and Mercury, and Sir Albert Stephenson, at one time director of the Observer, The World and Vanity Fair, who presided at the luncheon.

Replying to the toast of his health, Mackintosh was regarded the neighborhood rather as a posthumous honor to his father, the founder of the firm, than as a recognition of his own qualities. He went on to speak of the advantages and benefits of advertising, and said that when recently preparing for the press his biography he was struck by the great part which advertising—and particularly newspaper advertising—played in the building up of the business.

"I wish to express my gratitude,"

he said, "because advertising cannot all be paid for in hard cash. But I think that nowadays there is no need to demonstrate that advertising pays from a pound, shilling and penny point of view. You have only to look around this company," Sir Harold added, amid loud laughter, "to see that advertising pays."

As Necessary As Raw Material.

"Advertising is as necessary to the modern business as raw material. And the strange thing is that nobody pays the advertising bill. The bill of my own firm during the last thirty years has been something like half a million pounds for newspaper advertising alone and our total selling costs today are less than they were twenty-five years ago. They are probably less than those of any of our competitors who may not spend a penny in advertising."

"That is a remarkable thing, but, nevertheless, it is true. Nobody does pay the advertising bill, if it is rightly done, for by increasing production and lessening overhead expenses and general selling costs advertising really gets thrown in. I recommend any business man who wants a hobby to do some advertising."

"I find advertising the most interesting part of my business, and I turn to it when I am 'fed up' with other things. If more business advertising were done, there would be less talk of business dullness and of getting out of it at the earliest possible moment. Advertising makes business a great game instead of a routine, and no business can succeed unless it is taken in the spirit of a game."

Proofs Every Day.

Sir Harold concluded by saying that every day he has surprising evidence that the public read advertisements. He mentioned a series of drawings done for his firm by a well-known comic artist. The artist's pencil had missed a stroke or two and the consequence was that no fewer than forty persons wrote pointing that a lady in the picture appeared to have no arm.

AVERTS BREAK WHEN FRANCE

leading to the meeting place. A large crowd assembled to witness the arrival of the delegates. The Palazzo Reale was erected about 1650 by the Durazzo family, and was restored in 1842.

It is announced that the representatives of the states composing the little entente are to hold a further meeting to decide upon their precise attitude toward the problems before the conference.

The delegates today made every preparation to settle down to the serious technical work of the conference, accepting, for the moment, at least, the idea expressed yesterday by Mr. Lloyd George and Premier Facta, that the agenda as arranged at Cannes provided a sufficient cargo for the conference ship, with the danger of wrecking it if new and controversial problems were added.

Praises Lloyd George.

Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation, told the representative of the Exchange Telegraph that he was particularly pleased at the way in which Premier Lloyd George had smoothed over the incident between himself and M. Chicherin, head of the Russian soviet delegation, at yesterday's session. Mr. Lloyd George, he said, had upheld "views which are mutual."

M. Barthou was glad at the turn of events taken, as he realized that discussion was inevitable, and it was much better that the incident should be cleared up at the very opening session. He now saw no reason why the conference should not accomplish its end.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS.

ST. GEORGE'S PALACE, Genoa, April 10.—David Lloyd George today challenged the Russian delegation to accept allied conditions as a basis for its presence at the Genoa economic conference, or withdrawal.

In a speech which drew applause from the 157 delegates, representing 34 nations, gathered in the council hall for the opening session of the most impressive international conference since Versailles, the British premier declared the program for the party was the program laid down at Cannes, France, by the supreme council.

The French delegation applauded loudly as Lloyd George, looking directly across the council to where George Tchitcherine and the Russian delegation sat, declared:

"If anybody rejects these elementary conditions of civilized intercourse among nations, they cannot be expected to be received here." The little premier dominated the conference, which presented a picturesque scene with delegates of many races and colors, some in gorgeous uniforms, mingled at the long tables.

"Comity of nations is the fundamental basis of this conference," he declared.

"All who are represented here are presumed to have accepted the conditions laid down at Cannes," Lloyd George continued. This drew fresh applause, which was led by the Allies' representatives who sat on either side of the speaker, near the head of the council table.

The conditions of Russian attendance laid down at Cannes were accepted by the French, although Briand's ministry fell as a result. They called for Russian recognition of old debts and other guarantees. Lloyd George did not specifically mention the Bolsheviks at the opening of his address, but it was clear to everyone that he was throwing down the gauntlet of battle to Tchitcherine and his colleagues.

"The actual fighting has ceased," Lloyd George said, entering into one of his oratorical flights which was not entirely lost on the gathering, despite the divergence of languages spoken and understood, "but snarling continues, as though dogs of every country imagine that the louder they bark the deeper will be the impression of their ferocity."

"Europe today is almost deafened with this canine clamor."

Confident of U. S. Aid.

Mr. Lloyd George evoked applause and continued laughter when he said:

"Genoa did America a great service by sending Columbus to discover the new world, and she can do America another great service by helping America to re-discover Europe."

The British premier said he was positive the United States would come to the aid of Europe if Europe settled its own affairs.

Premier Luigi Facta, of Italy, opened the economic conference late this afternoon with a speech of welcome to the 157 delegates, representing 34 nations of the world.

After paying tribute to Signor Facta's address, Premier Lloyd George, in his speech before the conference said:

"This is the greatest gathering of European nations which has ever assembled on this continent, and having regard for the magnitude of the assembly, the character of its representation and the importance of the topics we are here to discuss, the results of the conference will either be for better or for worse, upon the destiny not merely of Europe, but of the whole world."

Hold Common Aims.

"We meet on equal terms, provided we accept equal conditions. We are not here as allies and enemy states; we are not here as belligerents or neutrals; we have not come together as monarchists or republicans or socialists. We are assembled as the representatives of all the nations and peoples of Europe to seek out in common the best methods of restoring the shattered prosperity of this continent."

"So may each build up in his own land, each in his own way, a better condition of things for the people than the world has yet enjoyed. But if we meet on terms of equality it must be because we accept equal conditions. These conditions involving the powers were laid down at Cannes. They apply to all alike; they are the conditions which heretofore have been accepted by all civilized communities as the basis of international good faith."

"They in themselves are honorable, they are essential to any intercourse between nations, they do not derogate from the complete sovereignty of

POST DEPLORES LACK OF POLICY

London Newspaper Attacks Government On Canadian Cattle Embargo.

WOULD NOT EFFECT PRICE

Parallel Is Drawn Between Churchill's Attitude and That of Montagu.

London, April 11.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A strong attack on the proposed importation of Canadian store cattle was made in the Morning Post today. The Post charges the government with inconsistency on the subject of cabinet responsibility. It draws attention to the fact that Hon. E. S. Montagu, former secretary of state for India, was dismissed from the cabinet for publicly infringing on the functions of the foreign office, and asks why Mr. Winston Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies, who has declared that he is in favor of permitting the importation of Canadian store cattle, is allowed to queer the attitude of the board of agriculture.

The Post further charges the Government with a lack of policy in fact.

Dismissing with the report of the royal commission, which recommended the lifting of the embargo against Canadian cattle and then deciding, as it did last week, to leave the matter to the unfettered judgment of the House of Commons.

The Post declares that the price of meat in Great Britain is ruled by the chilled meat market, and therefore it is obvious that the price would not be sensibly affected by Canadian imports.

There is unemployment in the West; there is famine and pestilence in the East; the peoples of all races and all classes are suffering, some more, some less, but all are suffering, and unless some common effort by all the nations of Europe is made, and made immediately, to restore European efficiency, I can see symptoms not merely that the suffering will continue, but that it may even deepen into despair.

Europe Needs Peace.

"What is the first need of Europe? Peace—real peace. We propose to study the currency. Good! We propose to examine the question of exchange rates. That is also good. We propose to discuss transport and credit. That is all good. But unless peace is established and good-will amongst nations all those discussions will be of no avail."

"On the other hand, if real peace is the issue of this conference, all those things will be added unto you. But is there no peace in Europe? It is true that actual fighting has ceased. But the snarling goes on, and as there are many dogs in every country who imagine that the louder they bark the deeper impression they make of their ferocity and determination, Europe is deafened by this canine clamor."

"It is undignified; it is distracting; it destroys confidence; it has rattled the nerves of a nerve-ridden continent, and we shall only make a real contribution to the restoration of Europe at this conference if we can stop the snarling. Europe needs quiet, tranquillity—that is, she needs peace."

United Means Success.

"If we act together, in the same spirit we shall succeed; not in a spirit of greedy vigilance over selfish interests, but with a common desire to do the best for the world, to its normal condition of health and vigor. We shall do so if we measure the success of this conference by the good we achieve, not only by the good we prevent. We must not roll boulders in front of the plow. Let us think more of what can be accomplished than what can be restricted."

"We have all of us one common restriction in the public opinion of our own countries. The public opinion of one country is concentrated perhaps more upon one aspect of affairs, the public opinion of another country upon a different object. That undoubtedly creates difficulties."

"It is not easy to reconcile these divergent opinions even when they are not conflicting. But public opinion is not a rigid fact, like the Alps; it is amenable to guidance, to direction, to the appeal of reason and conscience, and I feel confident that in every way it will yield to the appeal made to its mind and heart by the common statesmanship of Europe. It can be taught that the good of another country is not necessarily an evil of its own; on the contrary, that which benefits all lands must necessarily be best for its own."

"The world is one economic unit. Economically—it is one round, broken sphere. For that reason I regret that the great American republic is not represented here. However, much that has happened and that is happening in Europe makes our affairs. But it can set these things right at this conference I feel sure America will not merely come in, but be caught in gladly."

"A distinguished citizen of this city once said to me a discovery was made in America. It was discovered that America to Europe, I am hopeful that Genoa once more will render another immortal service to humanity by rediscovering Europe to America."

34 Nations Represented.

"Thirty-nine nations are represented at this table, and the interest taken in the conference by the world is by no means exhausted by that representation. The press practically all over the world is represented; representatives would not be here if the great public, which, according to their genius they either fortify and instruct or alarm and chasten, were not deeply concerned in our proceedings and anxious as to the results."

"The world will follow our deliberations with alternate hopes and fears. If we fail there will be a deepening of despair which will sweep over the whole world; if we succeed, a ray of confidence will illuminate the gloom which is resting on the spirit of mankind."

CONDUCT 2 WEEKS' DRIVE IN LONDON

During the two weeks of April 18 to May 3, the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Company, of Toronto, will conduct its "Jungleland" advertising campaign. The dates originally set were from April 11 to April 25.

Such a demand has been there for Kellogg's Waxtite Toasted Corn Flakes and for the Jungleland book for children, which has been so great that the Kellogg Company is unable to take care of the orders, and at the same time produce sufficient goods to enable a proper distribution to be made in this district.

The first advertisement will appear in this paper next week.

doesn't know why she did it. Any one would know that she is not a girl of the streets. She is suffering at this very moment, and I would ask your worship to be lenient with this girl, although I am an officer enforcing the children's protection act."

"She has told me the name of the man in the case," continued the inspector. "and I will see that this man will carry out the duty and responsibility that he owes her."

The matron of Bethesda Hospital said that she would not have let the girl leave the hospital had she not been told on reliable information that the young mother would be well cared for.

"I don't want to see the girl sent down," said the matron, "and I will stand by her back with her baby to the hospital for nine months if you will give me that opportunity."

Not Easy Matter.

"This is no easy matter for me to deal with," stated Mr. Bartlett. "It is a serious offence, and you are liable to two years in jail."

"At the same time, I am taking into account all that has been said about you, particularly your physical condition. Possibly you were in such a state that you were not responsible for your action in leaving your child to the mercies of strangers. I think you made a great mistake in leaving the hospital at all."

"I do hope that the officers may bring this man absolutely to book for his actions and to make him liable for all penalties under the recent act. There is only one thing he should do in your case."

"I am going to give you a chance to go back to the hospital and take advantage of the generous offer made you by the Salvation Army matron."

"I am going to suspend sentence on you, and I hope this man will be made responsible to the last degree," concluded Mr. Bartlett.

beginning of any headway towards the completion of the plans.

FOR the first time since the election the Western Farmers will return home at the Easter recess. It is possible that they will return to the capital more than ever imbued with loyalty to their constituents.

Among all the members from different parts of the country, the aggressive members from the west have been the most ready to speak voicing the peculiar problems of the country from which they hail. It would seem that these members from the west are idealistic when the question of truly representing their home territory comes into play.

They were sent to the federal House, only on the grounds that the new doctrine of Progressiveness was to get the country the most before the federal members and the House at large.

Now when they meet, the electorates after their first performance at Ottawa they will be judged.

What will be the verdict of the people? Many of the deputies from the west have bought canes since they came east. Will the cane-

TELLS RAILMEN TO BE CAUTIOUS

Canadian Brotherhood Head
Believes New Move Means Lower Wages.

Urges Canadian-Run Unions and Close International
Co-operation.

Holding that once the railroad managements continue to effect changes in working condition clauses in the existing agreement with their employees, a reduction in wages is bound to follow, and declaring emphatically that such a move will be steadfastly opposed by the officers of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, A. R. Mosher, of Ottawa, grand president of that organization, addressed the local members Monday night in the Imperial Bank building. The president expressed the view that the move by the Grand Truck and other railroads to re-open the agreements with their employees was merely an attempt to test the feeling of the men.

Urging closer co-operation between railroad workers, the speaker stated that it was highly essential that the various unions work together in close harmony. It made no difference, in his opinion, what the name of the organization might be as long as it was in a position to admit all rail employees.

"I say," he asserted, "that there is no organization in the country more international than the C. B. of R. E. The others are nothing more than United States bodies with Canadian members directed by organization members across the boundary line."

Mr. Mosher held that Canadians should have their own organizations, governed and officered by Canadians. The same should prevail in the United States, where American unions should be directed by Americans. Then let there be close co-operation between the two national bodies, he cautioned.

The president contended that while the international unions stated last summer that wages would have to be lowered in Canada, as the same had transpired in the U. S., the C. B. of R. E. is the only organization still combating the same. He pointed out that the federal government at Ottawa was dealing with the question and appeared quite optimistic as to the result of their investigation.

He stated that there was not the same justification in Canada for a reduction of wages as there might exist across the line, and expressed the belief that a fight would prevent further possible reductions.

In conclusion he urged every worker, male and female, to enter the trade union movement.

Secretary McPherson of Toronto, and Thomas Cliff, local president, and other officers participated in Monday's gathering, at which attended every member of the London lodge that could possibly attend.

Completing his tour of Western Ontario, President Mosher left the city Tuesday morning for eastern points.

WHITE EMPLOYEES ENJOY DANCE AND FINE CONCERT

Welfare Association's Program At Langemarc Hall Is Decided Success.

A very delightful concert and dance was held in the Langemarc Hall on Monday evening, April 10, under the auspices of the George White & Sons' Welfare Association.

The concert was staged by the Chelsea Pierrot Party, who delighted a crowded audience with a varied selection of songs, choruses, readings and character sketches.

Eva Metcalfe, Verma Brazier and Cleota Barnett gave splendid renditions while Miss Metcalfe's sweet soprano voice was greatly appreciated. Miss Barnett, contralto, sang many delightful solos, and Miss Brazier was in splendid form.

"Boy of Mine," sung by Mr. Wm. Tietchurst, received great applause, and Mr. Frank Aldridge, tenor, in his song, "Down Texas Way," and with his three girl friends in "An Old Fashioned Girl" was one of the hits of the evening. The chorus also delighted the large audience.

An old-fashioned dance followed the concert, and many young folks and old folks tripped the light fantastic to the haunting melodies played by the Ritz Boys' Orchestra, v.l.b.

F. L. C. BOND, chief engineer of the Grand Truck Railway, will arrive in London this afternoon at 5:30 on his way to Sarnia.

COURT CONFIRMS PROPERTY TITLE

In the case of William Henry Smith, vendor, to Simon C. Rae, purchaser, which came before Justice Lennox, March 4, the court now holds that the purchaser's requisition has been sufficiently answered, and that the vendor has a good title to the lands in question, namely, part of lot 27 on the east side of Waterloo street.

When the case first came before the court on March 4, the vendor claimed that the purchaser's requisition on the title had been sufficiently answered. The court then directed further evidence be taken before Mr. W. H. Smith and the evidence be given and extended to the judge.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A word fully spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.—Proverbs 25:11.

THE bitterest tears shed over graves are for words left unsaid and deeds left undone. "She never knew how I loved her!" "He never knew how he was to me!" "I always meant to make more of our friendship!" "I did not know what he was to me until he was gone!" Such words are the poisoned arrows which cruel death shoots backward at us from the door of the sepulchre.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

ST. ANDREW'S IS LEADING IN RELIEF

Contributions in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the "Save the Children" Russian Famine Relief fund have reached the sum of $1,750. Fourteen hundred dollars was raised Sunday, April 2, the first day of the church appeal, and since that time, $350 has been obtained by Sunday schools and other organizations.

St. Andrew's church, so far, heads the list of churches in the city, from which reports have been heard, but there are a number which have not yet commenced to take up subscriptions.

The campaign is scarcely under way in King street church, but $150 has already been subscribed, and in the First Congregational church, the sum raised is $40 with a large number of those who received subscription envelopes yet to be heard from.

SAYS O. T. ACT IS NOW IN DISGUST

Hamilton, April 11.—Byron Getty, 156 MacNab street north, who was recently acquitted on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, was again before Magistrate Jeffs this morning, the charge having been changed by the justice officials to keeping liquor for sale. Inspectors testified to the presence of liquor in Getty's house, and D. A. J. Swanson, Oshawa, representing the Ontario license department, said it was for the accused to show what the liquor was there for a legal purpose, to which the magistrate replied: "I can't go that far. No one wants to enforce the O. T. A. more than I do, but I don't want to enforce it in a way that will increase the popular disgust for the act, and there is a lot of disgust now. I am ruling that you cannot go into a man's house and seize beer and then bring him up into court and make him tell where he got it."

His worship dismissed the case.

SALVATION ARMY OPENS NEW HALL

London Division Is First To Provide Facilities To Aid Young People's Activities.

IS WELL EQUIPPED

Col. Morehen Points Out Physical Wastage Is Avoided By Gymnastic Development.

With more than a hundred members of the army in attendance, the Salvation Army Young People's Hall, on Richmond street, was formally opened Monday evening, Col. Morehen, the young people's secretary for Canada east, who conducted the opening ceremonies, in his address, commended the London division on being the first in Canada to secure a separate hall to cope with the activities of young people.

He dealt with the fact that many young people lost out in the battle of life through the lack of physical vigor and sufficient culture and expansion of what was pre-eminently designed to be the temple of God—the body.

Col. Morehen pointed out also that a vast amount of physical wastage could be avoided by proper gymnastic development, emphasizing how inseparable were the trinity of mind, body and spirit.

He urged upon the young people to take the hall not only for the improvement of their body, and greater enjoyment of life here, but also for the better glorification of God.

Addresses were also given by Brigadier Crichton, Staff Captain Pinfold, Bandmaster Woods, of No. 1 Citadel, Bandmaster W. Jolly, leader of the young men's Bible class, Guard Leader J. Flowers, and Young People's Leader Sergeant-Major Gare, all of whom declared themselves boosters where the work amongst young people was concerned, and during the evening a number of selections were given by the army band.

Equipment for the gymnasium is now on the way, and will consist of the full quota of dumbbells, Indian clubs, swinging rings, bars, springboards and skipping ropes, as well as accommodation for basketball.

One night each week is to be allotted to the various young people's organizations, and Sundays the building will be in use for the young men's Bible class in the afternoon, and in the evening the usual evangelistic services in which the army workers among young people will participate.

GANG BEATS MAN IN LONDON TP.

While alone in his home on an estate near Brough-on, on the 4th of London Township Monday night, John Hayes, caretaker, was attacked by a gang of men. The motive for the crime is not known.

County Constable Arthur Corsaut, who was called Tuesday morning, found Hayes lacerated and bruised and summoned a physician.

Although a gang of street thieves has been operating on a large scale in the township lately, it is thought that the gang sought money rather than poultry.

Hayes is the caretaker of the estate, and has been living a bachelor's life for some time.

4-YEAR-OLD TOT BADLY SCALDED

Verna McKinnon, the 4-year-old daughter of James McKinnon of Albert and Richmond streets, was severely burned Tuesday morning when she fell into a pan of boiling water that little hopes are held for her recovery. The baby, which was attended by Dr. Tillman, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Another clause provided for a depreciation fund, which would wipe off five per cent of the value of the plant yearly.
The company, after paying its officials and a ten per cent dividend, will place any surplus profits in a fund, and when this equals five cents per thousand feet on the gas sold in a year, the price of gas shall be reduced for the then current year at least five cents per thousand feet.
The company is given the right to draw on the reserve fund if necessary, to pay the salaries of officials and to pay the 10 per cent dividend. The rate for gas provided for in the bill is $1.55 per thousand feet, with a discount of 30 cents to those paying up within a limited time.
The present rate of $1.25 net, with 10 cents per thousand set aside, which might have been returned to the consumers if the company's costs were low enough to allow this.
Clause 12 allows the company to acquire and hold real estate valued at $10,000 yearly, while the final clause stipulates that the act shall not interfere with the rights of the city or company under the old franchise.

CITY TO COLLECT $142,758 MORE TAXES THAN IN 1921

The city of London will collect this year in taxation a total of $2,184,114, as compared with $2,041,356.21 in 1921, an increase of $142,758.09, according to the new tax notices just prepared by Finance Commissioner James Bell.

Interesting facts in connection with the 1922 tax are contained on the tax bill. On the front of the notice is a statement of the amounts which go to make up the current year's levy. The cost of each department and the number of mills to be levied to raise it, both for the city and the annex area, are given. This gives the ratepayer details of the cost of every branch of the municipal work affecting the tax rate.

Another column shows the special rates being collected in certain areas.

ART OF PHRASING IN ORGAN PLAYING IS DESCRIBED

J. Parnell Morris Tells Organists
Club Members How To Obtain
Rhythmic Results.

At the Organists' Club meeting held on Monday evening at the residence of Dr. J. Smith, Mr. J. Parnell Morris read a paper on "The Art of Phrasing as Applied to Organ Playing." Mr. Morris stated that in considering the art of phrasing, the matter of touch must be referred to. Most organists have been grounded in legato playing, but to the disconnected touches, namely, staccatissimo, marcato (three-quarter length), and the non-legato, little attention is given, and the result is that instead of the rhythmic feeling so much desired, a shapeless flow of sound is offered.

To phrase well demands a complete knowledge of the principles of musical form, of the outlines of fugue, sonata, suite, etc., and in its degrees it requires a cultured perception of the balance of sentence, and phrase by phrase, and finally for modern music a right conception of the relative importance of each beat, nay, part of a beat, to the phrase to which it belongs.

The secretary presented the new syllabus for the examinations of the Canadian College of Organists.

After the business of the evening a social hour was spent during which refreshments were served.

Synoptical Review.
On the back of the notices will be found a synoptical statement of the estimated revenue and expenses for the year. This table is complete. It gives the revenue from all sources, including the water and electrical departments and the London and Port Stanley Railway, the expenses, debt charges, total expense, net charges to the council and credits, and the proportion which these charges represent in the total amount being raised this year by taxation.

That Port Question.

OTTAWA LISTENED a few days ago to a long address by HANCE LOGAN of Cumberland, in which he brought up a matter that has been before the house many times before, viz., the allowing of the British preference only to goods that arrive at Canadian ports. This would mean that shipments coming in on vessels that were arriving at ports served by the Grand Trunk would be deprived of a source of revenue in this way.

Mr. LOGAN announced that he had brought this matter up in the house for a great many years, and that so far he had made little progress in getting the house to take action.

HON. T. A. CHERAS opposed the idea point blank, on the grounds that it was trying to force trade out of its natural channel, and make it all go east and west, whereas the tendency of much of it was to go north and south. The leader of the Progressives also drew attention to the fact that when the reciprocity agreement came up a few years ago the people in the New England States were very favorable to the idea, and perhaps they were so even yet.

JAMES MALCOLM of North Bruce took the ground that if the government were to be allowed to give the operation of railways a fair trial it would be out of the question right at the outset to handicap the road by cutting off part of the business it secured of carrying goods to and from the Portland terminal, when such goods were subject to the British preference.

Opinion on this matter in the house seems to be divided. Members on both sides hold different views to their official leaders. The matter was not brought to a vote, nor is there any indication that it will be in the near future. The members from the Maritimes seem to think their duty has been done when they place their views before the house and on the pages of Hansard. It is one of the features of the house that the layman finds hard to understand—that a member shall introduce a resolution, speak to it at great length, have a discussion of its merits and demerits in the house and then withdraw it without a vote.

It may be practical politics, but it is a useless performance.

The Wage List.

THE ADVERTISER is in sympathy with every legitimate move that can be made to bring costs down to a 1922 basis. That includes the cost of municipal government, provincial and federal government. It is difficult at times to distinguish between a clean, resolute purpose to serve the people of the country, and a well-disguised effort to make political capital for future events.

In a broad, general way this country is paying too much for the privilege of being governed. There are many ways in which people and business as well would be better off were there not so much government.

In several places, London included, there have been moves made to reduce the salary lists by cutting wages of civil employees, right down to the drivers of wagons.

There are cases where business meets such competition from outside points that it is not possible to make the wage payments now that were made a year or so ago. It is simply a case of self-preservation to adjust the wage scales so that the men in the employ of the company shall suffer as little as possible.

It is not desirable, from the standpoint of the city, that London should have a wage list that is severely pruned. Once a man's wages are reduced by any serious amount, and to the small wage-earner it does not take much of a cut to make it a serious matter, the purchasing power of his house is curtailed.

London wants a low tax rate, but it does not want it at the expense of the small wage-earner, who is not able to stand a reduction of any amount.

Getting Back.

IN ONE of the discussions that took place before the committee on agriculture at Ottawa, H. H. STEVENS of Vancouver brought up a point that is capable of quite wide application. He had been asking several fairly pointed questions in order to bring out information on the operations of the proposed wheat board, when one of the western members made the statement or the inference that the member from Vancouver was unfavorable to the proposal, while all that was asked was a fair deal for the grain growers.

Mr. STEVENS was quick to come back, pointing out that it was only by the plying of the most searching questions on every witness to appear before the committee that all the facts could be ascertained. In this view he was upheld by the chairman and by the members of the committee.

This same thing is applicable time and time again to affairs in municipal councils, whether county, city or town, and to other gatherings called for the purpose of getting action along certain lines.

It will always be found that there are plenty of men on hand to give assent to anything that is advanced, but fortunately the question asker is generally in their midst. In many cases he is termed a kicker or a crank, or something perhaps a little stronger. At the same time he serves his purpose, and he is a mighty useful man to have around.

Daylight.

TORONTO IS going to have daylight saving time again this year. They had it last year, when hardly another place was on that schedule.

And so this year now and then we will have Toronto men wandering in here at 9 o'clock under the impression that it is 10 o'clock, and they will be chasing around for their noon-day bowl of soup at 12, whereas the cook will just have the makins' at work at 11.

And then they will be tearing around to catch the 6 o'clock train at 5.

Poor fellows—they were positively dizzy when they got up in this fine, rich section of the country that finds the sun good enough authority by which to carry on business year in and year out.

The Civil Service.

IT IS estimated that there are 8,000 persons in the employ of the government at Ottawa. They are highly organized, and few moves are made in any of the departments that are not known generally in a very short time.

The chances seem to be that there are enough votes in this service at Ottawa, and in the friends concerned, to swing the election of members to the two Ottawa seats one way or the other. In other words, if they do not get what they want from one government the chances are they will try another, as far as the two Ottawa seats are concerned.

In other words, the issue in the election does not rest with any great national problem, but simply what one government will or will not do for the civil service employees at Ottawa.

The question has been considered at various times, although nothing has ever been done openly in the matter. Any government that has ever been in power at Ottawa has realized the same difficulty. The suggestion has been made that there should be a certain territory around the capital designated as a separate district on the same plan that is followed at Washington, in which the employees of the government would not be entitled to vote. THE ADVERTISER is not suggesting that this plan is a practical one for Canada to follow, but we mention the point because it has been considered as a way out.

LITTLE 'TISERS

Despite all the reformers can say, there is money in speed sometimes. At an auction sale near here a good work horse sold for $92, while a few days later a man in Bothwell sold a horse that was fast on his feet for $2,000.

After reading a whole lot about the troubles of Europe and the divorces that are granted right here in Canada it's fine to pick up the weekly paper that tells us of a wood-bee last week, resulting in nine cords of fine hardwood being piled up against the back of the kitchen.

Some of the thrifties who scan the estimates at Ottawa discovered $120 for the gun-firer at the capital. That is, each day at 12 bang goes a gun, and each well-regulated man in the place pulls out his dollar watch and gets started right for the next 24 hours. We're strong on thrift, but honest now that $120 gives the people there more noise for their money than can be secured in any other way.

Kilgore Reporter: "In Lon-

don, Ont., there has been an agitation for the cutting down of the estimates for education. There seems to be plenty of money for everything else in sight. Why not lop off a few dollars in some other quarters before going after the school teacher's salary? We often see grants to this and that which might be withheld. Teachers for many years were poorly paid. They are just coming into their own. We would suggest that recognition of the good or best could be made by grading their standing.

One item in the cost of merchandise is the money spent in selling and distributing. From a wholesale house in London it is learned that some travelers going out of here need expense money running around $47 per week in order to cover their ground. A few years ago $18 was considered a fair amount, and a man who was spending over $20 was considered to be getting under the firm's hide for quite a little bit of cash. This added expense means that the firm has to keep a lot more money in the business to sell the same amount of goods, and also—the ultimate consumer has to pay the increased cost of selling.

TO THE EDITOR

ENGLAND'S PART.

Editor-Advertiser: Sir,—During the late war there was a highly organized and ably directed propaganda carried on throughout the U. S. A. and in other parts of the world against England. The Germans sang their "Hymn of Hate," and stirred up strife in America, India and Egypt, while the Glan-na-Gael wrought havoc in parts of America, as well as in Ireland, and together they traduced the English so maliciously the world over, as to their degeneracy and their meagre part in the world war, that the premier of Great Britain was compelled to make known to the empire and her allies, from the floor of the House of Commons, England's share in the war.

England mustered out (Geddes' report), 4,520,000 men, and bore 82 per cent of the casualties on all British fronts; and who will dare to say England fell short in ships, money and philanthropy. Such is magnificent indeed, and it should stamp out forever any remains of this malignant propaganda in any quarter of the globe, for England nobly "played up and played the game."

Now from another source comes some interesting statistics:

On Imperial Services—Money Contributed.

England $1.33 per cent
Scotland 10.83 "

Wales 5.02 "

Ireland 2.76 "

Money Retained for Local Expenditures.

England 73.71 per cent
Scotland 10.83 "

Wales 4.55 "

Ireland 10.91 "

Thus it is evident England contributes more per head to imperial services and retains less per head for local expenditures than any other portion of the United Kingdom, showing conclusively there is no lack of British fair play.

Turning to the virility of a nation and how they observe the laws of the land, the following statistics are worthy of notice:

Mentally Deranged per 1,000 Population.

Ireland, 6.4 per 1,000 population;
Scotland, 4.9; England, 4.4.

Death Rate per 1,000 Population.

Ireland, 17.6 per 1,000 population;
Scotland, 15.4; England, 13.7.

Crime (Convictions) per 1,000 Population.

Ireland, 18.1 per 1,000 population;
Scotland, 14.2; England, 11.3.

Birth Rate (Illegitimate) per 1,000 Births.

Ireland, no statistics available for 1920; Scotland, 74 per 1,000 births;
England, 46.

Now, Sir, with such official returns in 1920 set forth by the British press it is as plain as a pike-staff England is sound at heart. Her people are virile and law-abiding.

Let Englishmen and the sons of Englishmen ever remember their heritage, the Magna Charta, parliament, representative government—in a word, liberty based on justice. Nor is this all—what of her language, English, common law, and her contribution to literature, science, art and engineering? Who has surpassed her? Where is England's equal? If more were required, her breed of horses have long been the foundation of pure-bred stock the world over, while her Durhams and Herefords are found in every clime. In sheep and swine, much the same could be said. Agriculture in England is fast attaining a scientific basis.

Harking back to history, we are reminded, as England had risen in Elizabeth's reign (the Great Armada), and again when Napoleon lusted for power (at Waterloo), so England again rose when Kaiser Wilhelm marched forth to rule the world, and how well she played her part for liberty history may yet make known.

"Come the three corners of the world in arms,
We shall shock them. Nought shall make us rue,
If England to itself do rest but true."

—Yours truly,

THOMAS WICKETT.

Hamilton.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 185—PURSED LIPS.

It is hard to say whether the eyes or the mouth tell us more of the characters of the people we are observing. Both of them are the outward evidences of the inward or mental attitude, eloquent in their revelations and very hard to silence. It is easy, too, to tell by the eyes, and lips whether the type of thought you read in them at the moment is habitual one or not. To do this you only have to glance at the face

FIFTEEN BOILS ON NECK AT ONE TIME

Anyone who has suffered from boils can sympathize with poor old Job.

There was no Burdock Blood Bitters in those days, so Job had to suffer in silence. Now-a-days no one need endure the misery of boils.

Boils are simply evidences of the bad blood within coming to the surface and just when you get rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not stop more coming. What you have to do is take and the blood will be cleansed of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE:

Watch Your Fingernails—They're Health Index

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

NE indication of your general health is the fingernail.

If your nails are brittle, white, speckled, something is wrong—your general health is not up to par.

Besides acting in this way as a health index, the nails perform the function of protecting the tips of the fingers. They save the fingers from pressure and injury and give them strong support.

The sense of touch thus is made more accurate. In order to help the fingernails perform their functions it is necessary to keep them in perfect condition.

The nail should curve from side to side, have a smooth, shiny surface and be pink in color.

The white surface of the nail at the root, commonly called "half-moon," should be in prominence at the base of the nail.

After the hands have been washed thoroughly an orange-wood stick or nail file should be used to remove the particles of foreign matter from the under surface.

Never use the point of scissors or the blade of a knife because either of these cause the under surface to become rough and hold particles of dirt more securely.

After the use of the nail file or orange-wood stick the nail brush should be employed and then again the stick or file.

If the under surface of the nail or the skin becomes roughened, dip the fingers in cold cream and let the nails take up as much cold cream as they can. Then dip them in talcum powder. This should be done before retiring.

The small flaps of skin which lap over the nail should be pushed back very gently with an orange stick every day. Be careful not to tear this skin, because hangnails are thus formed which allow germs to enter the body. These torn fragments may give rise to bone felons or even to blood-poisoning.

If the relaxed expression shows the wrinkles and other evidences which must show of any expression which is habitual, your answer is obvious.

What, then, would be the story of those funny little lines radiating from a mouth naturally held contracted and narrowed, as though getting ready to whistle but never getting to the point of doing so, lines caused by what we call "pursed" lips?

Habitually pursed lips denote a tendency to give undue consideration to little and unimportant things, to the exclusion even of the more important things.

Primness, prudery, self-satisfaction, egotism and the exaltation of trifles; poor judgment, narrow views, lack of generosity and of a vision of the bigger things of life all indicated in greater or less degree and in varying combinations by the habitual expression of this type.

A Danger Signal—Tender and Bleeding Gums

Healthy teeth cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums tainted with Pyorrhea are dangerously diseased. For not only the teeth are affected, but Pyorrhea germs seep into the body, lower its vitality and cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

DEFEAT MOTION TO OUST POLICE IN PROVINCES

Conservatives Unite With Liberals in Averting Death Knell of Mounted Force.

CRERAR BACKS PROPOSAL

Graham Intimates Reductions in Strength of Organization Are Contemplated.

OTTAWA, April 10.—(By Canadian Press).—The House of Commons today witnessed a curious division. It was on a private member's motion, and found on the one side, Premier W. L. Mackenzie King and his cabinet, the great majority of Liberals, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, all his Conservative followers in the house, and a majority of the Progressives; on the other, Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, the greater part of his followers, 13 Liberals, an Independent and two Labor members.

The division came on a motion by F. S. Woodworth, Labor member for Winnipeg Center, to confine the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police "to territories not included in any province of Canada."

The resolution, it is interesting to note, was seconded by Miss Agnes MacPhail. Debate thereon occupied practically the whole afternoon, the resolution being finally defeated by 108 to 47—a majority against of 61.

Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of militia, intervened in the course of debate that reductions in the strength of the Canadian mounted police were planned, and that, so far as practicable, the activities of the force would be confined to the unorganized territories.

This, the prime minister added that there were some on the Liberal side of the house who thought the old northwest police should again be distinct from the Dominion police, and this was one of the matters now under consideration by the government. From the government side of the house, the further point was pressed that the passing of the resolution would merely embarrass the government in work of reorganization.

Demands Restriction.
"It is no part of the business of the Federal Government," said Hon. Mr. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, "to do police work in the provinces, and it is on that ground that I think the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police should be confined to the organized territories."

When the order for the discussion of the resolutions was reached in the House of Commons today, the speaker pointed out that, as it was at present drafted, the motion stood in the name of Dr. H. H. Desautels (Liberal, St. Mary, Montreal) was out of order.

The resolution proposed insurance against sickness contracted while engaged in the performance of a trade on the same basis as the existing laws regarding accident insurance. The speaker observed that these laws were under provincial jurisdiction, and therefore not under the control of the Federal Government. Either, therefore, the resolution should be amended to restrict it to federal public works, or it should be dropped.

J. S. Woodworth (Labor, Center Winnipeg) moved "that in the opinion of this House the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police should be confined to territories not included in any province of Canada." The resolution was seconded by Miss Agnes MacPhail.

Abuse of Power.
Mr. Woodworth said it was gen-

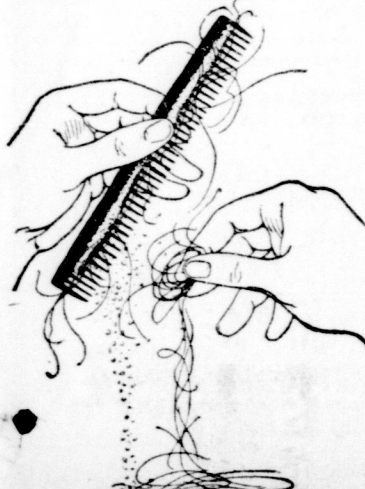

SPRING DEBILITY

Loss of Appetite, That Tired Feeling and Sometimes Eruptions. Thousands take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine for that tired feeling, nervousness, impure blood and say it makes them feel better, eat and sleep better, and "makes food taste good."

Spring debility is a condition in which it is especially hard to combat disease germs, which invade the system here, there and everywhere. The white blood corpuscles, sometimes called "the little soldiers in the blood," because it is their duty to fight disease germs, are too weak to do good service. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens the "little soldiers" and enables them to repel germs of grip, influenza, fever and other ailments; relieves catarrh and rheumatism. It has given satisfaction to three generations. Get it today, and for a laxative take Hood's Pills.

Fear Grave Crisis Now Looms Between France and Germany On Reparations

PARIS, April 10.—What is viewed in official circles as a grave crisis in the relations between France and Germany was reached today just as the Geneva conference was assembling, with the possibility of the military occupation of further German territory presenting itself.

This came as a result of a negative reply from the Berlin government to the note of the reparations commission on the German reparations moratorium, in which certain fiscal reforms were demanded of Germany.

The German government says that it cannot consent to the proposed control of its revenues and expenditures, and that it is unable to impose additional taxes to the amount of 60,000,000 marks, as asked by the commission.

The tragedy at Gleiwitz, Upper Silesia, involving the killing of more than a score of French soldiers in the explosion of a mine, news of which is officially confirmed, although details are lacking, is considered as likely to complicate matters, provoking as it will energetic diplomatic action on the part of France at Berlin.

erally recognized that excellent work had been done by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in the policing of unorganized territory and pioneer settlements. However, after the war there came a transformation in the character of the force, and the mounted police were asked to look after suspected alien enemies, and also those connected with industrial disputes. He believed it was not outside the mark to say that there had been an abuse of power. Literature had been seized in the house of an alderman of Calgary who was now being seized by the mounted police, and he had been unable to find what had been done with it, much less to secure its return.

Mr. Woodworth had been informed that part of the library was now in the possession of the mounted police at Calgary. Books seized in workmen's homes in Winnipeg had been burnt in the public incinerator. A carter, a religious-minded man, had rescued one of these books and brought it to Mr. Woodworth; it was a copy of the Life of Jesus Myers' History of Canadian Wealth had been seized in the library at Regina. This book had previously been circulated by the Grain Growers' Guide and it was based largely on information obtained in the library of Parliament. He did not know whether it was considered undesirable for the people to learn how big fortunes were being built up in Canada.

Labor Raps Spying.
Labor people resented the fact that the police force was spying on their movements throughout the country. He had not noticed that they were exercising surveillance over the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or the Canadian Bankers' Association, or that these organizations were doing as much to stir up revolt among the people as the utterances of some obscure labor men at Prince Albert. It was surprising, he thought, that soldiers should be mobilized recently, the Government found it necessary to recruit for this force in Great Britain.

Mr. Woodworth did not know which of the provinces desired to have a federal force enforcing the laws within its boundaries. He knew that the people of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta in a large majority of cases resented having this body within their provincial boundaries. He was not sure that the eastern provinces would relish its activities. He had received a resolution passed by the Dominion Board of the Grand Army of United Veterans as late as February 11 last, which declared for the demobilization of the Mounted Police as there was no further necessity for them in organized territories.

He well remembered when the Mounted Police first came over the mountains in British Columbia. A dispatch was sent out from Ottawa that a large number of soldiers were to be demobilized at the coast and there was likely to be unemployment and unrest among them, and that therefore the Mounted Police were being sent. He could quite imagine the feelings of the returned soldiers when they were told that as they were going to be out of a job they would be clubbed into submission by the Mounted Police. Expenditures on the Mounted Police last year amounted to $4,000,000, while that on unemployment was only a little over half a million. It would not be asking too much if these figures were reversed.

Cites Provincial Duty.
Mr. Woodworth concluded by pointing out that the enforcement of law was a function of the provinces. It was, therefore, undesirable that there should be an enforcement of law at Ottawa. A dangerous precedent had been set when, in connection with the Winnipeg strike, a representative of the minister of justice had been placed in Winnipeg to administer justice in that city.

Hon. George P. Graham, minister of militia and defense, said that the question raised by Mr. Woodworth was larger than appeared upon the surface. Prior to 1920 there had been two police forces under federal control, the Dominion Police and the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. These had been amalgamated in that year, and the present Royal Canadian Mounted Police force combined the strength of both these earlier bodies. Under the constitution the provinces were responsible for the maintenance of law and order within their own boundaries. Some of the provincial premiers, however, had signified their opposition to the withdrawal of the Mounted Police. It was not always wise to insist upon the strict observance of the provisions of the constitution.

He assured Mr. Woodworth that the mounted police force could be greatly reduced, and that plans were under way for this reduction. As much as possible, the activities of the force would be confined to the unorganized territories. He did not want the hands of the government tied by the passage of such a resolution.

Disagrees With Graham.
W. F. MacLean (Conservative, South York) disagreed with Mr. Graham's statement in regard to the responsibilities of the federal and provincial authorities.

It was certainly the duty of the federal authorities to look after the enforcement of federal laws, and an adequate force for this purpose should be maintained. He would not like to see the attorney-general of Canada without some efficient police force at his service to be called on when necessary.

H. C. Hocken (Conservative, West Toronto) said that in his judgment Mr. Woodworth's reference to the Winnipeg strike was the best reference which could be put forward for the maintenance of the mounted police. The Winnipeg strike was an incident revolution, the municipal and provincial authorities were unable to control it, largely because the civil police were in the power of the strike leaders. If it had not been for the action of the federal government sovietism would have controlled Manitoba. If the strike leaders had been successful in Winnipeg it was their plan to spread sovietism to other cities. There were some men in the country who would like to abolish all police.

"Does my honorable friend indicate that I advocate Red revolution?" interrupted Mr. Woodworth.

"From the words which fell from his lips I do not think that he made any such implication," Speaker Levesque returned.

"He is too thin-skinned on that particular point," Mr. Hocken declared.

Police a Necessity.
The mounted police were a necessity, continued Mr. Hocken; they had won the respect of the whole country, and were highly esteemed in the United States. It would be a great mistake to confine them to the Arctic Circle.

Mr. Woodworth did not represent international trade unionism, the only same kind of unionism in this country. The international unions kept their contracts, and in the Winnipeg strike international union officers forced their men back to work.

W. Irvine, Labor of East Calgary, asked if Mr. Hocken was indorsing the international trade union movement in Toronto. Mr. Hocken replied that the international unions had not indorsed any of the candidates, but that he represented union men than Mr. Irvine did. If a vote were taken among the international union men of Toronto, Mr. Hocken declared, he would receive more votes than Mr. Irvine.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister, pointed out that the resolution in its present form would, if carried, do away with the police who looked after the Parliament Buildings and other government property. There were some on the government side who thought the old Dominion police should be taken away from the mounted police and re-established on its old basis, and the new being considered by the government.

Crerar Disagrees.
Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressives, expressed sympathy with some principles of the resolution, but not with some of the arguments advanced by its supporters. It was no part of the federal government's duty to look after police work in the provinces. He had said this many times, and thought such work should go back to the provinces. He did not blame the mounted police for the work in the Winnipeg strike; they did as they were ordered, as all policemen should do. He agreed that the old Dominion police should be re-established on its old footing. In case of emergency he thought any local authorities could call on the militia.

W. Irvine denied there was any incipient revolution in Winnipeg; it was nearer the truth to say the trouble began when the mounted police were brought in. Same labor was in sympathy with the resolution. John Morrison, Progressive of Weyburn, stoutly defended the mounted police. Actual contact for many years, he said, had convinced him that they often had to take abuse and rough handling. Some times they were forced to fight back, but any man worth anything would do that. He produced a card issued in lumber camps during the Winnipeg strike, and reading from it quoted words from men "to strike on the job and kick the boss in the ribs at the same time."

ST. THOMAS KIWANIAN TO HELP IN SECURING FUNDS
Organization Pledges Assistance To Alma College Board During Campaign.

Special to London Advertiser.
ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Every member of the Kiwanis Club attending the regular weekly luncheon of that organization at the Parkview Hotel on Monday noon promised full and active support to the Alma College board in its campaign to raise $100,000, of which amount $35,000 will be from St. Thomas.

As the club was undenominational and non-political, President R. Kidner explained that it could not lend its support as a body, but he urged the members as individuals to pledge their support. He believed that everyone with the welfare of St. Thomas at heart would aid in raising the fund because the college was of inestimable value to the city.

Rev. Perry S. Dobson, principal of the school, explained the purpose of the drive which will be held May 2. Rev. Wilfred Gault, pastor of First Methodist Church, who was one of the speakers from Canada who addressed Kiwanis Clubs in cities of the United States during the past week, was the speaker of the day. He gave an interesting, instructive and at times highly amusing account of his trip and experiences in the three cities of Du Bois, Altoona, and New Kensington, Pa.

KENNEDY WILL OUTLINE RAIL POLICY TODAY

Members of Parliament Await Tuesday's Announcement by Essex Minister.

FEW CHANGES EXPECTED

Believe Fair Trial of Government Ownership Will Be Recommended.

BY JOHN J. McLELLAN.

OTTAWA, April 10.—Parliament and the members thereof are more or less agog with the statement of the prime minister tonight that Hon. W. C. Kennedy will announce the railway policy of the government tomorrow. It was not expected until after Easter, and several press announcements have been made to that effect.

But now it is thought that a change of mind has taken place in the cabinet, and that they have decided to give the public immediately what changes they will make in Canada National System of Railways.

It is said that the speech of the minister from Essex County will forecast but few changes, since, unless an entire change of control and management were to be brought about, there is little opportunity for changes in the government-owned railway system as it stands today. However, there are few who care tonight to prophesy just what will be the content of the address by the minister of railways tomorrow.

However, those who understood the meaning of the discussion of the railway problem in the recent Liberal caucus foresaw the near approach of the outline of policy. This is considered to be a corroboration of the report that the government made known in a more or less explicit form to private members the policy that it will enunciate tomorrow at the last Liberal caucus.

The policy of the government as explained at that caucus was mainly to the effect that government ownership was to be given the fairest of fair trials. So tomorrow in the speech of Hon. W. C. Kennedy it may be expected that the fair trial idea will again be emphasized.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD SON OF A. DRYDEN DROWNS AT GALT

Boy Perishes in Bulkhead of Old Electric Light Plant While Father Works Nearby.

Special to London Advertiser.
GALT, April 10.—The first drowning accident of the season occurred here this afternoon about 5 o'clock, when Cecil, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dryden fell in the bulkhead which feeds the water wheels of what was formerly the old electric light plant.

The father of the drowning victim was within a stone's throw of the scene. The boy, with his sister, 4 years old, had gone down to where the father, a painter, was working with some material he required. They played in front of the house for a short time and then went over to the river to see some boys fishing. Cecil, in climbing over a fence to get on to the cement wall inclosing the bulkhead, lost his balance and fell into the water, which at this point is about 15 feet deep. An alarm was immediately sent in, and while the father was on the scene in a few minutes, there was no sign of the boy. The firemen were called out, and within half an hour the body had been recovered with grappling irons. The pulmotor was used without results.

BRANTFORD CHURCH GIVES $550 TO RUSSIAN RELIEF

Wellington Street Methodist Organization Contributes For Erection of Kitchen.

Special to London Advertiser.
BRANTFORD, April 10.—It was announced today by Mr. G. Ranton that the members of the Sunday school and church of Wellington Street Methodist Church responded very freely to the appeal for relief for famine-stricken Russia, Sunday, when the sum of $550 was subscribed. Envelopes were given out at last Sunday's services, and they were returned with the above result.

It is stated that a kitchen is to be erected in the famine-stricken area with the proceeds received, this to be known as the "Wellington Street Famine Kitchen."

All organizations, churches and other bodies who subscribe $500 or more have the privilege of calling one of the kitchens after the respective body, and Wellington Street Methodist Church is taking advantage of the opportunity.

Doubt Showdown On O. T. A. in Legislature.

TORONTO, April 10.—Present indications are that there will be no showdown at this session of the Ontario Legislature in regard to the O. T. A.

The government has introduced no amendments that will in any way loosen up the effectiveness of the measure, and the time for introducing private bills to amend the act has passed, so it appears that all the much-talked about amendments to loosen the province will be forgotten, as far as this session is concerned.

Two months ago he sustained severe injuries to his head by a fall on the sidewalk, and he never recovered from the effects of the mishap, although he was able to be out until two weeks ago, when he was taken to his home from his place of business on King street east, and his condition soon became alarming.

He was 61 years of age, and was very well known. He had lived here 30 years, 21 years of which he was engaged in business. He was born at Dereham Centre, Dereham Township.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Fred, of Ingersoll, three brothers and four sisters. He was a member of the Beechville Lodge of the Canadian Foresters, and of the Caledonian Presbyterian Church.

This Letter Will Tell You How

Marmion, Ontario—"Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I was a total wreck. I had terrible pains in my sides and was not regular. Finally I got so weak I could not go upstairs without stopping to rest half-way up. I saw your medicine advertised in the newspapers and gave it a trial. I took four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and was restored to health. I am married, am the mother of two children and do all my housework, milk eight cows and do a hired man's work, and enjoy the best of health. I also found the Vegetable Compound a great help for my weak back before my babies were born. I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. HENRY JANZE, Marmion, Ontario.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Wiley suffered mentally as well as physically, because her home and her children demanded the care and attention which she was unable to give because of her wretched health. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood depends on your health. So try

The RIDER OF GOLDEN BAR

by WILLIAM PATTERSON WHITE
© 1921 by Little Brown and Company

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

BILLY WINGO, good-natured and youthful range-rider of Golden Bar, disapproves the gang of cattle thieves and politicians who elected him sheriff when they thought he was too easy-going to interfere with their law-breaking. After Hazel Walton has saved him from being shot from ambush, Billy quarrels with Hazel, who wants him to resign from the office in order to escape danger.

RAFE TUCKLETON, wealthy cattle thief, hires

DAN SLIKE, professional gunman, to kill Tom Walton, Hazel's uncle, and Billy Wingo, Judge Driver and District Attorney Rale are partners in Tuckleton's scheme.

TIP O'GORMAN, political leader, refuses to have part in it, and condemns the suggested murder. Simon Reeffoot, another one of the cattle thieves, notifies Billy that two of his cows have been shot and requests an immediate investigation. Something in his attitude makes Billy suspicious.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"No," he resumed, in a tone that was unmistakably relieved, "it don't pay to go off half-cocked."

"No, it don't," concurred Billy, wondering greatly, both at the change in Simon's expression and the relief in his tone. Why? He desired to know why. For among his other views, Simon was friendly with Rafe Tuckleton and his previous gang.

Billy Wingo slouched casually past the window through which Simon was looking. He perceived, kicking his way through the snow, Mr. Tom Driver, the local justice of the peace. There was no one else in sight.

Entered the judge. "Good morning, gentlemen," was the judicial greeting. "You're not going anywhere, are you, Billy?" he inquired.

"Reeffoot's had two cows shot," explained Billy. "Shotgun and I are going to see about it."

"Only two cows," said the judge. "You can send Riley Tyler instead. I have a little business to go over with you, Bill—a county matter."

"All right, I'll stay, Riley, I guess you'd better go with Shotgun. It was pure chance that enabled Billy to catch the gleam of satisfaction in Reeffoot's eye. Why was Simon glad that he, Billy Wingo, was not going with him on the trail of the beef-killers?

When Shotgun and Riley were gone away with Reeffoot, Billy looked across at the judge and nodded.

"What's it all about?" he asked curiously.

"Jake Kilroe," replied Judge Driver. "He's been selling liquor to the Indians."

"He always has," "I know he has. And it's a disgrace to the community. It's got to stop."

The door opened and Skinny Shindle entered. He laid a note on the desk in front of Billy.

"I stopped at Walton's," said Shindle, "and Tom's niece gimme this. She said I was to be sure and give it to you as soon as I could."

"When did she give you the note?" Billy inquired casually.

"Oh, round half-past two."

Without another word, Shindle turned and walked out. Billy Wingo opened the note.

"Dear Billy:

"Please come out here as soon as you can. Come tonight without fail. I need you."

It was signed with Hazel Walton's full name.

Billy unfolded the note, read it again, then tossed it into the cardboard box that served for a wastepaper basket. He crossed the room to an open door going into one of the inner rooms. Passing through the doorway, he pushed the door partly behind him. Billy applied his eye to the crack between the door and the jamb.

Billy saw the judge lean forward, pluck the note from the box and dive noiselessly across the room to the stove. The judge opened the stove door and dropped the letter on the top of the blazing wood. Closing the door as noiselessly as he had opened it, the judge returned to his chair, sat down and crossed one knee over the other.

Billy returned to the office. The judge made to rise. "Well, I won't keep you any longer. We'll let the Kilroe business wait over a few days."

"Sit down, Judge," Billy Wingo murmured softly, his hand resting as if by chance on the butt of the six-shooter. "Sit down, do."

"Judge," he remarked suddenly, "dared and fraud should be remedied on all occasions. Tell me why you put that letter in the fire?"

"Give it any name you like," replied the judge carelessly. "I don't feel like answering your questions."

"Yet a Hll while back you didn't mind answering any questions I felt like asking. Was it to gain time, Judge—to gain time till Skinny Shindle came in and did his part with the note from Miss Walton?"

Dumb, huh? Perhaps you'd rather tell me why Simon Reeffoot acted about the same way. I expect you were delayed getting here, huh, Judge? Simon kept looking out of the window all time, I remember."

"Be advised," said the judge suddenly. "You can't buck us alone. You should know that."

"I should—maybe," returned Billy Wingo. "But I feel like taking a gamble with you. So instead of going to Kilroe's, we'll do what the letter said and go out to Walton's today."

The judge lifted his eyebrows. "We?"

"We," confirmed Billy calmly. "You're going with me."

"No," said the judge. "Yes," insisted Billy Wingo. "And what's more, I'll lend you a suit of my clothes and my white hat and my red-and-white pants. Which there ain't another pair pointy colored like mine in this county; and just to make it a fair deal, I'll wear your buffalo coat and your fur cap, and I'll ride one of your horses."

The judge's face wore a curiously mottled pallor that gave it the hue of a dead fish's belly. "Are you in-

For a long time he could see nothing with in the room but the fire in the fireplace and a big chair over which had been thrown a buffalo robe. Then after a time he saw, beyond the chair, the boot soles of a man lying on the floor. The body of the man lay in the shadow cast by the big chair.

There was something about those boot soles that told Billy that the man was dead.

"I figured it would be this way," Billy told himself. "I didn't see how else it could be. Damn their souls! They don't stop at anything!"

Mandarin Sleeves Characterize New Coats

TOPCOATS of the moment are almost without exception shown with wide mandarin sleeves. Yet the smart suit of this season has still, in most cases, the extremely snug sleeve that has been in vogue for several years. Why?

To learn the reason for the wide sleeves of the new coats, one must consider the dresses over which they will be worn, for the full-length coat is the boon companion of the one-piece frock, and must conform to that frock's changing moods or see itself supplanted by a cape.

The bare elbow has for some months been hiding itself in long and wide sleeves, some hanging loosely, mandarin fashion, others gathered into a snug cuff or frill at the wrist. It is to accommodate these larger sleeves of the newest frocks, that topcoats widen their armholes sometimes actually to the waist line, and add many inches to their width from shoulder to cuff.

Tweeds and homespun will undoubtedly furnish most of the plainer type of topcoats for 1922. Such fabrics are desirable for business, motor and rainy-day wear.

In Paris, reps, toiles de laine and tricotine are said to be replacing serge. Kasha cloth is also somewhat used for coats, as its agreeable softness lends itself well to draping and loose, graceful sleeve effects.

Length is once more becoming fashionable. Several new twillcoats are on the market. Marvella, veldyne, piquette, spongee creponne, Scotch knit, camel's-hair, polo cloth, bolivia and nora are all good for the spring coat. For a dressy coat, nothing is lovelier than duvetyne, which drapes beautifully and has such an air of elegance, though it is now selling at about one-third of its former price.

How To Build a Long Distance Radiophone Receiver At Small Cost

BY STANLEY EDGAR.

(Copyright, 1922.)

The following instructions are published by The London Advertiser in response to the demand for a popular set—a radiophone set that will do a little more and cost a little less than the average.

In preparing these instructions three requirements have been taken into consideration. The set must be of moderate cost, it should have a good range and be easy to assemble and operate.

The set here described can be built for less than fifty dollars, how much less depending greatly upon the ability of the builder to pick up bargains. When complete it should be valued at not less than $100 and will have a range for the reception of broadcasted news, music, lectures, etc., of about 200 miles, the range, of course, varying with local conditions.

By carefully following these instructions and referring to the diagrams, this may be assembled by anyone. A knowledge of electricity is not essential but will be helpful. The writer's advice to the layman in doubt is to get in touch with his local dealer.

GUERRILLA MELODY regarded the judge without expression. "Huh," he grunted. "Huh."

Within the quarter-hour they rode out of a belt of cottonwoods into the Hillsville trail, three wooden-faced men and the wretched judge. The latter rode in front, with head bowed on hunched shoulders.

A mile from the ranch house they climbed the shelving side of the draw and rode across the flat to where a straggling growth of pine and spruce made a black, pear-shaped blot along the smooth white slope of a saddle-backed hill.

Beyond and below this spruce, where the draw met lower ground and lost its identity as a draw, was the Walton ranch house. The four men reached the trees, rode in among them. Three of them dismounted and tied their horses. The fourth remained in the saddle. Said Billy Wingo to the fourth:

"Get down."

The judge got down. Swiftly his hands were tied behind his back, and his eyes were thoroughly blindfolded with his own silk handkerchief.

Guerrilla Melody seized the judge's right arm and forced him into motion.

Billy Wingo removed his overcoat. From a voluminous pocket he took what appeared to be a roll and discovered the common or garden variety of cotton nightshirt, size fifty.

"If whoever's in the house can pick me out from the snow after wearing this, I'll give his eyes credit," he muttered, pulling on the garment in question over his head.

He buttoned the nightshirt with meticulous care, fished a washed flour sack from a hip pocket and pulled it over his head.

Without any fear of being discovered, so confident was he that it would be impossible to see him against the white background, he approached the right angle end of the kitchen.

At the corner of the kitchen he dropped on his knees and one hand. Here behind the windbreak the snow was no more than two or three inches deep, and he crawled along the side of the house toward a faintly glowing window that was his goal.

THE SIXTH MOUNTAIN

(By Olive Roberts Barton.)

Off in his cave wicked old Twelve Toes did a sailor's hornpipe on one foot.

NANCY and Nick, on the Five-and-Ten-Cent Store Mountain, stood gazing into the store window, where the fishhooks were each of them flashing the times they had found in their pockets. It had been a surprise to discover the money, for neither of them had a penny when they started.

"Oh, look!" cried Nick, "there's the very kind of hooks I've been wanting to catch shiners with."

Then suddenly his eyes caught a glimpse of something else. "And there's one of those new tops that play a tune. I'd like to see how it works! And look over there—there's a balloon you can blow up as big as a tin pail! Come on inside, Nancy, I want to look around."

Nancy did not have to be urged, you may be sure, for had not her quick little eyes seen things, too—a remarkable china doll with joints, and a hat that wouldn't come off, a box of paints, and a whole washing set with real clothespins!

In they went, and joy of joys! There was everything in that wonderful store that wish (of a little boy or girl) could wish.

Marbles, kites and thingumbobs, Drums and horns and canes

Jumping-jacks that worked on strings, Dolls and carts—all sorts of things.

They went from counter to counter, entranced at all the things they saw.

"Never once did they think of their errand."

Off in his cave wicked old Twelve Toes did a sailor's hornpipe on one foot and a Spanish fandango on the other. Then he kissed himself heartily.

"I knew it, I knew it!" he cried. "Once get a child inside of a five-and-ten-cent-store with a dime in his pocket and you'll never get him out. It will take twice as long to get two children out. And as there are about a hundred stores those Twins will spend about a year on that mountain, the way I count."

"Sure as you're living, I'll marry Princess Thelma yet."

To Be Continued.

ONIONS A REMEDY

Always prepare onions under water. No odor clings to the hands.

Onion Sandwich. Slice onions very thin into salt water to cover. Let stand for an hour. Drain and dry between two cloths. Mince. Sprinkle with a few drops of lemon juice and put between thin slices of white bread and butter.

Little new onions should be cleaned and allowed to stand in cold water for an hour before mincing. Then mince right on the bread and sprinkle lightly with salt.

Onion Salad. Large sweet onions, minced parsley, pepper and salt, oil and vinegar. Peel onions, cover with cold water and bring to the boiling point. Drain. Let stand in cold water for five or six hours. Change water frequently. Drain and dry between towels.

Slice very thin and arrange on a bed of lettuce, season with salt and pepper and a little vinegar and pour over a liberal amount of oil. Sprinkle with minced parsley and serve.

Spring Onion Salad.

Two sour apples, 1 bunch new onions, mayonnaise dressing, 4 stuffed olives, hearts of lettuce.

Pare and cut apples into dice. If tart apples are not to be had let the diced fruit stand in lemon juice to cover for an hour. Wash onions and mince. Mix apples and onions well and add enough mayonnaise to make a moist, cream mixture. Arrange on hearts of lettuce and garnish with the stuffed olives cut in neat slices.

Did you ever try this? It's not a company dish, but the man of the family will like it after a strenuous day in the open.

Shred leaf lettuce. Cut the tops of new onions in inch lengths. There should be half as much onion as lettuce. Mix well, put in the spider ham was fried in. Cover closely and cook over a slow fire for ten minutes. Remove cover and add two tablespoons of vinegar. Serve at once as a vegetable.

Creamed New Onions. New onions, 4 squares of toast, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, 3 cup cream, butter, salt and pepper. Allow four or five onions for each person. Use all the white part. Peel and boil in salted water till tender. Butter toast, sprinkle with a little grated cheese and add onions. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with more cheese.

Put in a hot oven just long enough to melt cheese. Scald cream in double boiler and pour three tablespoons over each portion. Serve at once.

"If I Could Only Sleep"

SLEEP is the greatest of nerve restoratives. But unfortunately when the nerves are greatly excited or exhausted you cannot sleep, and nervous energy is wasted at a terrible rate by day and by night.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does not produce sleep in a narcotic way, but it does overcome sleeplessness by restoring the vigor and vitality of the nervous system.

For this reason it is Nature's greatest aid in restoring health and vigor to a worn-out, nervous system, no matter whether this condition is the result of overwork, worry or disease.

This well-known nerve restorative has made more friends through its ability to overcome sleeplessness than perhaps for any one reason.

There is no keener misery than inability to sleep and the added worry of knowing that you are fast becoming a bankrupt so far as physical and nervous energy is concerned.

Should you be so unfortunate as to suffer from sleeplessness and other symptoms of nervous exhaustion you will appreciate to the full the gentle and potent power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the nervous system to health and vigor.

Spare Time Jobs for Father

A GLASS holder is a handy thing in the bathroom. Make your own out of an old end of a towel rack (1), a length of metal rod (2), a piece of a wooden curtain pole (3), and an old can cover (4).

Cutting the Bakelite. The correct size of the bakelite to be purchased may be measured from the variometers, as the size of the panel varies according to the type of variometers used. To find the size of the panel, place the variometers on a table side by side with the center shafts pointing forward and between them lay the vacuum tube socket. They will then appear as shown in fig. 1, back view. Measure the distance between outside of the variometers and by adding 4 inches to this, the length of the bakelite panel will be obtained. Then measure the depth of either variometer and add 2 inches to find the width of the bakelite panel.

Assembling the Set. A piece of hard wood the same length as the bakelite panel and about 2 inches wider than the width of the variometer is used as the base of the set.

To assemble the set lay the variometers with the vacuum tube socket between them on the base as shown in fig. 1. Screw down the vacuum tube socket to the base in the position indicated. The bakelite panel, which is used as the front of the set, is fastened to the base board by means of the two angle irons. Holes should be drilled in the bakelite panel for the screws, countersunk holes adding to the appearance.

Pinto, One of Phillies' Four Hurling Hopes

PHILLIES haven't any pennant aspirations, but they've got one brand that's just as inspiring to good work and that is the hard-headed aim to get out of the cellar.

Meet Tonight For Annual Reorganization With 8 Teams Likely.

The question of whether the Manufacturers' League will apply for a grouping in the North Wellington will probably take up a good deal of the deliberations of that body when it meets tonight in Brisco's store for the annual reorganization. Secretary Bud Suddick has written Rube Horning, secretary of the North Wellington Association, but has not received a reply yet. However, the northern organization may be heard from before the meeting tonight. Officials of three or four clubs have expressed themselves as favorable to entering the North Wellington as a group, and believe that it would be a better step to make just now when amateur ball is becoming a bigger factor in sport every year.

Golf Drives Babe Beat Ruth Best Efforts

WHERE BABE RUTH DROVE IT.

The baseball used in the majors last season was a mighty lively article, but it is a joke when compared to the little one-day last summer Babe Ruth hit a fast one and sent it far up into the high-center bleachers at the Polo Grounds. Although the Dodgers have been hitting the ball hard, they have not been able to hit it as far as Babe Ruth did.

Tris Speaker's Knee Is Greater Worry Than All Team's Problems

Cleveland finished second to New York last year after a bitter struggle to the very end. The Indians made a better showing in the coming campaign? That question is of interest to followers of baseball. On paper Cleveland has a better club than in 1921. Pinner ball clubs, however, do not always come through in the Cleveland infield. Neither will have to use care and take pains in making throws to first. All that is necessary will be to get the ball in the vicinity of first base, and McInnis will do the rest. In addition, McInnis is a good hitter. He delivers his best work at the bat in the pinches. The Cleveland infield, with McInnis at first base, is 25 per cent stronger. The pitching, which was erratic the greater part of last season, certainly should be improved. The Cleveland team is a better club than in 1921. POSSE ARRESTS INDIAN IN KENT

Zimmer Noah, Wanted in Shooting Case, Found in Woods Near Ridgetown.

Submits When Fired Upon Upon After Flight From Thamesville.

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, April 10.—County police this afternoon captured Zimmer Noah, Indian, the last of the trio implicated in the shooting at Thamesville, early Sunday morning of William Pickard, constable. E. Ryckman and Richard Logan were arrested yesterday. Noah was located by a posse in a bush near Ridgetown about 5 o'clock today. He began running, but on one of the posse firing a shot to scare him Noah quietly submitted.

The shooting occurred when Constable Pickard attempted to frustrate a robbery at Bambridge store. Logan was on guard. He gave the alarm. When the other two emerged from the store one fired at the officer. The constable, who sustained severe gunshot wounds to his left leg, was reported to be progressing favorably in the General Hospital here tonight.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of John Mays, aged 69, who died as a result of injuries sustained when struck by a car driven by Jesse Wallace on Tuesday last. The motorist was completely exonerated.

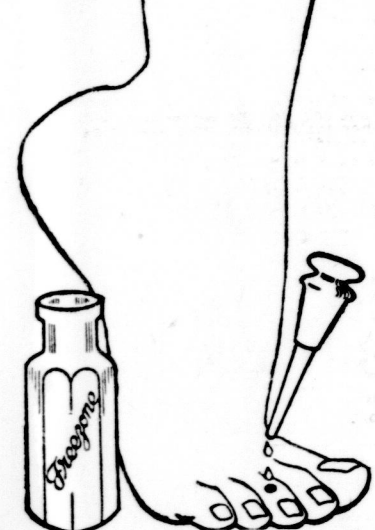

Several eyewitnesses were called and swore that the driver was not to blame. Mays apparently stepped out to cross the road between two parked cars. The old man, it was said, hesitated. He was struck with the car as he skidded on the slippery pavement caused by the rapid application of the brakes. The verdict contained a strong recommendation to the public to observe the safety zones. Coroner T. C. McRitchie conducted the inquest.

C. P. R. EARNINGS DECREASE.

HE DARKENED HIS GRAY HAIR

Tells How He Did It.

Mr. J. A. McCrea, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Cox Compound and 1/2 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Advt.

CHARGES OFFICER WITH BEING DRUNK

Norman Kellerman Causes Sensation in Kitchener Court Following Assault Conviction.

MAN ILL-TREATED HORSE

Rev. P. C. Cameron Accepts Call to the Orlia Baptist Church.

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, April 10.—A sensation was caused in police court this morning when Norman Kellerman, charged with assault, turned suddenly on Police Constable Croft charging him with being drunk while on duty on April 3. The policeman waxed warm and declared before the crowded courtroom that he could bring the whole force to prove that Kellerman was wrong. Kellerman was making a counter charge to the effect that the man whom he assaulted had hired a horse from his livery and had driven the horse to such an extent as to make him liable for cruelty to animals. Kellerman asked Croft, but the constable failed to arrest the man, upon which Kellerman registered three stalwart kicks on the man who charged him with assault.

Magistrate Weir found Kellerman guilty and ordered the charge of drunkenness against the policeman to the police commission. The question of building a shirt factory on Church street which has been so seriously objected to by the residents of the vicinity, has again been brought up by the attempt which the Dominion Shirt Company is making to sell the lot. The manager of the company stated today that two efforts to sell the lot, which is the site for the proposed factory to nearby objecting residents, has failed. It is believed that if all attempts to sell the property for residential purposes fail, the company will go ahead and build the factory.

It was announced here today that Rev. P. C. Cameron, who has been pastor of the King Street Baptist Church for the last decade, has accepted a call to the Baptist Church at Orlia and will leave shortly to assume his new duties.

REPORT ROADS IN BAD CONDITION

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Roads in the vicinity of St. Thomas are both good and bad, according to reports drifting into the city. East of the city the road in spots was practically impassable during the week-end, and farmers with teams were kept busy lending assistance to motorists and others who braved the mud.

At Pingat, west of the city, the road is also particularly bad in one spot. At Talbotville the highway has been very treacherous, but is reported to be showing some improvement.

CHANGE DATE OF EXHIBITION WEEK

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Because many other attractions fall due during the first week of June, the chamber of commerce of this city has postponed the "Made-in-St. Thomas" exhibition from the original dates of June 3 to June 10 to the week beginning June 17, it was announced today.

The plan used at the larger fair fairs throughout the country of staging special days will be introduced by the chamber.

WANT PARKING BYLAW REVISED

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, April 10.—A deputa-tion of motorists asking for a revision of the 15-minute parking by-law was given assurance that the by-law would be revised. The war veterans also presented a request for additional lots at Mount Hope Cemetery, and were promised consideration.

The council received, as read, the report of Commissioner W. D. Gregory on the police probe, and referred it with little discussion and no official request attached to the police commission for action.

BOARD DECIDES ON RELIGIOUS TRAINING

St. Thomas Trustees Will Institute Course of Instruction in Schools.

DISCUSSION OVER LETTER

To Request For New Shingle Roof For Collegiate Gymnasium.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Religious teaching will be introduced into the schools of St. Thomas in the very near future.

At a meeting of the board of education Monday night the move was unanimously indorsed, and a committee consisting of Trustee Mrs. McCulley and F. Wright and Inspector J. A. Taylor was given power to introduce such a course.

Similar To London.

On the recommendation of Mr. Taylor, the board decided to introduce a course of religious teaching similar to the one now in use in London. The teaching consists largely of familiarizing the students with Biblical passages, the fundamentals of the Christian religion and considerable memory work. The system was fully explained by Mr. Taylor.

Heated discussion developed over whether or not the board had a right to read a communication addressed to the secretary of the vocational advisory committee which was appointed to bring into being the proposed technical school.

The letter, which, it is believed, contains a recommendation of a suitable site for the school from Mr. Gavin, inspector of technical schools in Ontario, who inspected the three proposed sites at the request of the trustees, was addressed to Mr. Newton, secretary of the board of education, who is chairman of the advisory vocational committee, was absent, and so without his advice the members of the board were divided on whether the letter should be read or not. Chairman Kilmer refused to give ruling.

Had No Authority.

Trustee Wright maintained that as the board was not the advisory committee, which contains some outsiders, it had no right to read the letter. He would be just as bad as a person in private life reading a letter addressed to a neighbor, he said.

Mr. Wright urged the others to be fair to the members of the committee who were absent. He said that surely a government official knew to whom he was writing. If he had written to come to the board, it would have been addressed to that body. He was backed in his contention by Trustee Spackman.

Trustee Dr. Bennett, who is chairman of the site committee, explained that Mr. Gavin had come to St. Thomas at the request of his committee, and had duly inspected the sites. When he was leaving he had promised to send his report to him in time for Monday's meeting. As chairman of the site committee he gave the board the right to read the letter.

Trustee Conlay declared that it was nonsensical to delay the progress of the plans by a mere technicality. If the school was wanted the committee would have to get to work. If they didn't the technical school project would be dropped. It would not do to keep on postponing the matter from month to month. He believed that it would be in keeping with Mr. Gavin's wishes to read the letter. There were four members of the site committee present, and it would be in order to turn the report over to them.

Would Take Other Steps.

Secretary Newton informed the board, however, that he had been warned to do business only through the advisory committee. At this juncture Mrs. McCulley moved that a meeting of the committee for Thursday night to receive the report. If he did not, other steps to receive it could be taken.

Members of the board are at a loss to know why they have not been invited to join in the reception of the governor-general when he comes to the city April 17. If they are asked by that time the men will go in formal dress it was decided.

Tenders for a new shingle roof for the collegiate gymnasium will be called.

FLORENCE

Special to London Advertiser.

FLORENCE, April 10.—The Ladies' Guild of St. Matthew's Church met at the home of Mrs. W. A. Kelly this afternoon, when a large attendance was present. Mrs. Kelly was the hostess of the afternoon, and an excellent time was spent.

Clarence Butler had the misfortune to get a very bad wound by striking his foot against a pitchfork, the fork entering the foot just in front of the instep.

A quiet but pretty April wedding took place at the Methodist church on Wednesday last, when Clifford O. Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Pierce of Florence, was united in marriage to Miss Beulah May Logan, daughter of the late John and Mrs. Logan of Croton, the Rev. A. S. Whitehall officiating.

MUDHOLE PLAYS HAVOC WITH CARS

KITCHENER, April 10.—A mud-hole on North King street, Waterloo, acted like flypaper for ambitious motorists over the week-end. At one time yesterday no less than five touring cars were mired in the muck. Crowds lined the spot, and in spite of seeing others stuck, on-coming motorists sought to get through, but in vain. The crowd had a great time watching the ambitious ones adding to the trouble by insisting on trying to get through. A teamster did a landoffice business hauling cars out.

UNFILLED ORDERS INCREASE.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The monthly tonnage report of the United States Steel Corporation, made public today, showed 4,494,193 tons of unfilled orders on hand March 31. This is an increase from February's unfilled orders, which totalled 4,141,069 tons.

SURE LIFE TERM WELL DESERVED

MONTREAL, April 10.—Found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Ferdinand Paquette, a lumberman of Montebello, Que., in this city, on Dec. 17 last, Georges Bolvin, alias Baker, and Andre Senecal, alias Georges Senecal were this morning sentenced to life and twenty years imprisonment respectively by Mr. Justice Money in the court of king's bench. In pronouncing sentence, his lordship declared that Baker was not only an assassin, but also a poisoner and perjurer. The sentence is well deserved," he said.

The crime for which the two men were sentenced was of fatally drugging Paquette in order that they might rob him. The victim had come to Montreal from a northern lumber camp with a friend for a "good time."

Sandwich Jailer Feeds Prisoners For 13c Per Day.

WINDSOR, April 10.—It cost the county 13 3/4c a day to feed each prisoner in the county jail at Sandwich, according to Governor W. A. Wanless. The prisoners' fare consisted chiefly of bread, meat, potatoes and beans.

The cost at the Essex county jail is slightly higher per prisoner than at the county jail at Hamilton and St. Thomas. The cost at Sandwich, according to Governor W. A. Wanless, is the highest charged for foodstuffs in Essex County. Hamilton has to pay 12 1/2c per prisoner per day and St. Thomas 11 1/4c.

PRESENT SNAPPY COMEDY AT GRAND

"Rose of Washington Square" Delights With Originality of Presentation.

PATHOS AND HUMOR

Brilliant Ensemble With Lavish Settings Add to Success of Play.

Peppy modern repartee, and real "honest-to-goodness" sentiment, presented not only with an unusual bevy of girls, but with excellent interpretation of character—there you have "The Rose of Washington Square," presented at the Grand Theatre Monday night.

Humorous Situations.

A comedy with music, more than a musical comedy, describes "The Rose of Washington Square." It abounds with humorous situations, which have been added music which provides a decided zest and variety. And running throughout is the pathetic story of a mother who has become embittered with the drudgery of life spent entirely in the hills of Carolina, and who, appreciating the vastness of nature, is ready to go to any length to prevent her daughter from enduring what she conceives to be a similar life.

Perhaps a more appealing figure is Arthur Blackacre, the old father, who loves North Carolina, and is willing to even "stand up against mother" to join his daughter and the young mountaineer with whom she is in love.

One feels sorry for the mother, and in spite of her vinegary temper forced to appreciate the manner in which she sustains her role even in the vastly-changed circumstances of the last act, but it was the father who aroused the admiration of the audience so that they were ready to shout with him when he finally decides that "mother" has got to "quiet down."

Best Impersonation.

Elmer Coupy presents one of the best impersonations of the play. As a trouble doctor, he brings about interesting situations which heaves the other members of the cast to untangle, maintaining to the end a smiling, demonaire demeanor which is hard to resist, and which proves absolutely fatal to Miss Billie Emerson, as Mary Gray, a regular girl, who, in addition to being of unusually attractive appearance, contributes sprightly dancing and clever singing. Another interesting character is Miss Irene O'Donnell, who makes a charming Cynthia Rose, the young mountaineer girl.

The ensemble consists of these clever stars, and in addition, a number of chorus girls, who, amongst the lavish setting of the play, are extremely effective.

STAGE FINAL REHEARSALS FOR 'PRINCE OF MYTHLAND'

London Advertising Club Completes Preparations For Presentation of Dazzling Production.

Final rehearsals for the London Advertising Club's musical comedy, "The Prince of Mythland," are being held at the Majestic Theatre this week. All rehearsals of the company are being held on the theatre stage, thereby causing the cast to feel perfectly at home.

The plan of reserved seats will be open at the Majestic Theatre box-office at 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Various committees are hard at work attending to the final details of the staging of the production.

The Jack Courtice Orchestra of seven pieces has commenced working in conjunction with the company. Under the direction of E. A. Drake and Mrs. Drake, the play is being staged. It was under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Drake that "Queen Zephra," the local musical comedy success, was staged in 1919.

Reserved seats are limited in number, and to insure getting them one must apply at the box-office early. A large number of advance tickets have been sold.

CAPTAIN MACKAY DIES IN 67TH YEAR

Well-Known Great Lakes Mariner Passes in Sarnia Hospital.

WAS BORN AT OWEN SOUND

Judge Taylor Frees Roy King on Charge of Stealing Watch.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, April 10.—With the death of Captain Neil Mackay in the Sarnia hospital, Sunday night, one of the best known figures in Sarnia has passed on. The deceased was 67 years old, and for more than forty years had sailed the great lakes with the Cleveland Cliff Steamship Company, of Cleveland, Ohio. He was a familiar figure around the St. Clair and Arlington hotels during the winter seasons which he always passed in Sarnia.

He was born at Owen Sound and was unmarried. He was prominently identified with the Masonic order here, being a member of "Tuscan Lodge, A. F. & A. M., a member of the Wawanash Chapter, R. A. M., and a 32nd degree Scottish Right Mason.

The remains will be taken to Chatsworth, Ont., for interment.

Roy King, of Hamilton, arrested here six weeks ago on a 1921 warrant, charging him with the theft of a watch from Peter Elkin, in January, 1921, was freed from the charge this afternoon, by Judge A. E. Taylor, after a brief hearing, but will be held here for the Guelph reformatory authorities, from which institution he escaped.

He owes his freedom on the larceny charge to the evidence of Carrie Wilson, of Chatham, now in jail at London, who took the blame for the theft of the watch on her own shoulders at King's preliminary hearing in March. She had been tried herself shortly after the occurrence last year for having the watch in her possession, and on that occasion blamed the theft on King, and was released on suspended sentence. Fourteen months later she swore she took the watch herself and that King was innocent.

Born in Owen Sound, Ontario, the deceased was born in Onondaga Township, where he received his education. He later was made deputy sheriff upon the appointment of W. J. Scarfe to the position of sheriff. He remained that position for many years, and in 1891 he became associated with the firm of Scarfe & Co. as bookkeeper, where he remained until 1909.

For many years he occupied many other positions in the city as a bookkeeper. Among those was one with the firm of Julius E. Waterous, nail manufacturers. In 1911 he entered the employ of J. S. Hamilton & Co. as bookkeeper. When the firm was amalgamated with the Pelee Island Wine and Vineyard Company, Limited, he was elected a director of the company and appointed secretary-treasurer. This position he retained until his death.

Well-Known Auditor.

He acted as auditor of the city criminal justice accounts, also acting for many local firms as auditor.

In politics he was a staunch Liberal, and was one of the oldest members of St. Basil's Church.

Mr. Dowling was a man who could be relied upon in any matter, whose word was his bond, and he had the unbounded confidence of his employers and the general public. His death is indeed a great shock to all the members of the company, and he will be missed by the community."

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss one daughter and a son, Miss Mary Dowling and D. J. Dowling, both of this city. The deceased was in his 73rd year.

CAMPERS URGED TO PREVENT FIRES

Acreages Of Valuable Canadian Forest Wealth.

CIGARETTES CAUSE HAVOC

Smokers Often To Blame For Disastrous Holocausts Through Dropping Lighted Matches.

An urgent plea has been made by all game protection to campers, fishermen, hunters and others having occasion to use the woods for recreation. Every such man is asked to join hands with the forest rangers of Ontario this year in eliminating at least half of the enormous forest fire losses chargeable last summer to human agency.

It is a comparatively simple matter for any camper or fisherman to take such sensible precautions as to extinguish a camp fire before leaving camp, to put out a cigarette before throwing it away, to avoid throwing matches into inflammable leaves, twigs or moss.

A great many campers show very little caution in selecting a spot to build their camp fires. In no case should a camp fire be built against a tree, but wherever possible on a rocky shore or on a gravel or sand base.

A small fire always cooks better than a large one, and is much easier to extinguish. When through with the cooking, throw a few quarts of water or a shovel or two of earth will easily extinguish it. No glowing coals or smoking embers should be left under any circumstances.

Persons who enjoy and profit by the forest areas of Ontario, particularly the campers and fishermen, would take such simple precautions, they would preserve this year hundreds of the finest and most beautiful camping spots in the province, and at the same time remove one of the main sources of forest fires which are doing such enormous damage to the main source of employment in this province.

Life and Character Reading.

APRIL 11.
The governing sign of this birth-date is Aries, and the planets are Mars and Neptune. The birthstone is a Brazilian emerald. These people come under two classifications. The tall and broad shouldered ones and the short and stout. The short people have a stubbornness which is the result of intensity of their nature, and more so in appearance than in reality. These people are usually very fortunate in business and money getting.

The dominant fault of a person born on this date is the sign of selfishness, anger, and impetuosity. They are also whimsical, capricious and fickle to the last degree.

Steel workers, iron workers and moulders will do well to use the Want Ads in their search for new positions. These will be of great assistance.

WELLINGTON COUNTY WANTS MORE TRAINS

Harriston Reeve Moves Petition To Grand Trunk Authorities.

Special to London Advertiser.
HARRISTON, April 10.—That the members of the Wellington County Council are keenly alive to the need for a better train service to northern parts of the county from Guelph, is evidenced in the following resolution which was introduced during the session this week by Reeve Dale of Harriston, and passed unanimously: "Whereas a large section of the county of Wellington is totally dependent for railway service upon the Grand Trunk Railway running north and south through the city of Guelph, for the construction of which large municipal bonuses were paid, and whereas the growth and prosperity of the said section has long been seriously handicapped by the gross inadequacy of the passenger and mail service upon the said line, be it resolved that in the opinion of this county council, the present passenger service afforded by the said Grand Trunk line is grossly inadequate to meet the needs of the people and does much to hinder the growth and prosperity of the county, that to afford some measure of relief two additional passenger trains, at least, are required: "One running either direction, and both connecting with the present trains running east and west, and passing through Guelph about three o'clock in the afternoon; "That the county clerk be instructed to forward copies of this resolution to the honorable the minister of railways for the Dominion of Canada, and to the management of the Grand Trunk Railway, and request that immediate steps be taken to remedy the present condition."

WINDSOR POLICE ARREST 9 IN RAID

Nine men and women were taken to police headquarters late Saturday night in a raid at 122 Sandwich street west. The proprietor was released under bail of $300 on a charge of keeping liquor for sale. The case was postponed one day when called in police court this morning. Police state that they found 37 bottles of beer and a small quantity of whiskey. The men and women were released after giving statements.

In a raid Sunday afternoon at 419 Glenagary avenue police seized a quantity of beer and whiskey. The occupant, William White, was charged with keeping liquor for sale. Trial was laid over for eight days at the request of his defendant's attorney. Bail was fixed at $250.

MAGISTRATES' ACT SCORED BY H. H. DEWART

Southwest Toronto Member Objects To Raney's Unrestricted Authority.

STEVENSON CITES CASES

London's Representative Demands That Certain Court Officials Be Dismissed.

TORONTO, April 10.—Vigorous criticism of the clause in the new magistrates' act that permits the attorney-general to name a magistrate to hear cases he wants tried was voiced tonight by H. H. Dewart (Southwest Toronto).

Dr. H. A. Stevenson (London) also read some press accounts of proceedings in police courts, including one over a Magistrate Jones of Toronto presiding, in which prisoners were reported to have been committed for contempt of court, and he demanded heatedly that "these magistrates should be dismissed from the bench."

The bill, introduced by the attorney-general, passed second reading. Mr. Raney explained that it consolidated the present law in respect to magistrates. The attorney-general explained also, in respect to Mr. Dewart's objections, that the clause was not a new one, but had been passed by a former government.

Mr. Dewart said that this did not make it a better law. He cited the case where a Haldimand magistrate had been brought to North Bay to try cases. Mr. Dewart held that only in cases of illness and incapacity should magistrates be brought in. The local magistrate should be trusted to try the case in his own jurisdiction.

Should Be Dismissed.
Dr. Stevenson put the house into roars of laughter when he protested against magistrates being appointed "for pleasure," but what he meant was that they should be appointed only for a definite term, and when the time was up they should go out. After reading press accounts of persons being committed for contempt of court or for extra terms for "answering back," Dr. Stevenson said that those magistrates should be dismissed from the bench.

Private bills wended their way through the various stages of the Ontario Legislature this afternoon like a procession along a well-ordered thoroughfare. There was promptness and unanimity in settling the fate of each measure, either killing it or passing it another stage in its legislative course.

The most discussion took place in connection with standard hotels, when G. Evanturel of Prescott moved that the business tax on hotels should be wiped out. Mr. Evanturel argued that if the hotels were taxed less they would be able to give better accommodation to the public.

Hay Raises Issue.
It was generally agreed that better accommodation was the one most popular idea, but on the other hand the question was raised by Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, that big hotels in Toronto should not get their business taxes remitted unless the public had some say as to the rates they should charge.

Hon. G. S. Henry (East York), was much to the point that the municipalities should say whether a hotel should have its business tax eliminated, as it was the municipal treasury that would suffer, not the provincial.

Attorney-General Raney agreed with Mr. Henry's suggestion that a municipal council could return the business taxes where a hotel was giving service to the community. The attorney-general also suggested that a parliamentary committee of the House might visit the hotels of the provinces during the summer and arrive at some decision as to the best steps to provide better accommodations.

Mr. Evanturel agreed to withdraw his bill on the understanding that the Government would take the matter up.

Insurance Bill Passes.
The reciprocal insurance bill was given third reading without opposition. This came rather as a surprise, as it had been intimated that the opponents of the measure, which enables reciprocal insurance companies to do business in this province without putting up a deposit, would again divide the House.

The following bills passed through committee of the House: To amend the constitution of Huron College, The Waterloo County Loan and Savings Company, to enable Gananoque to withdraw from the jurisdiction of the County of Leeds, to enable Thomas Lindsay to practice law in Ontario, Grey County bill, St. Thomas bill, Sudbury bill, Municipality of Shumlin bill.

The following bills were given second reading: City of Ottawa bill, Ottawa City Hospital, City of London, Town of Warton, City of St. Catharines, City of Niagara Falls.

Fielding Reveals Plan To Issue Loan.

OTTAWA, April 10.—(By Canadian Press.)—"The government is contemplating the issuing of a loan, the precise amount of which has not yet been determined," said Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, in the House of Commons this afternoon, when questioned on the forthcoming refunding loan.

"Tax-free bonds to the amount of $182,834,500 mature on December 1.

"It is not the intention of the government to issue tax-free bonds," added Mr. Fielding.

missioner of provincial police in Ontario. The attorney-general said the government had no statement to make regarding it, and was also not in a position to state when the timber inquiry report would be brought down.

RATEPAYERS BUY MILD MAY BONDS
Special to London Advertiser.
MILDMAY, April 10.—By being able to dispose of the debentures in connection with the purchase of the local waterworks system, at a price to yield the investor 5½ per cent interest, the Village of Mildmay earned $197.67 on the sale. All the bonds were taken by local investors, and the purchase money was paid over to Hergott Bros., the other day. The municipality took possession of the waterworks system on April 1.

PROBES STATE OF FISHERIES

New Westminster Member Informed Problems International in Character.

Standing Committee To Investigate Depletion of Fraser River Salmon.

OTTAWA, April 10.—(By Canadian Press.)—The standing committee of the house on marine and fisheries is to investigate fisheries conditions in British Columbia, and, more particularly, the depletion of the salmon fisheries of the Fraser River.

W. G. McQuarrie (Conservative, New Westminster) brought the question up in the house tonight with a motion of reference to the committee indicated.

He said that the present position of the British Columbia fisheries was one of the chief reasons why he was in Parliament. He had studied the fisheries for 30 years, and had watched the big runs when the canneries were unable to handle all the fish brought to them. Today pessimism was rife. Fishermen were cold and hungry. The big salmon runs were a thing of the past, and if the condition became any worse canned salmon would become so scarce as to be entitled to a place in the British Museum.

Mr. McQuarrie dealt at length with the effect of the coming of Japanese fishermen to British Columbia. These people now practically monopolized the fishing industry, and they were getting larger numbers of licenses each season.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of fisheries, said the problem was international in character, and could be dealt with only by joint action between Canada and the United States.

A treaty had been negotiated in 1908 and again in 1920 on the subject, but both treaties had failed of ratification by the American Senate. However, Mr. Lapointe had no objections to the resolution carrying.

After considerable discussion, the motion was carried.

EXPECT NO LACK OF FARM LABOR

TORONTO, April 10.—The general opinion among representatives of the Ontario department of agriculture, as noted in the report of farm conditions for this week, is that there will be a sufficiency of farm labor during the coming season, with the "usual scarcity of first-class men."

Wages per month, with board, will likely range from $25 to $40 per month, mainly around $30 a month. Married men, with house, garden, etc., will get from $350 to $450 per annum.

THEDFORD

Special to London Advertiser.

THEDFORD, April 10.—The W. M. S. and Ladies' Aid, of Knox Presbyterian Church, met Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. W. N. Ironside, Mrs. (Rev.) McInnes presiding in the absence of Mrs. Carmichael. Mrs. W. Ash and Mrs. J. Hehenich each gave a splendid paper on China. The Ladies' Aid had their meeting immediately after W. M. S., with Mrs. B. Bass presiding in the absence of Mrs. Edmund. The Ladies' Aid purpose holding a concert in June.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid had their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon, April 6, at the home of Mrs. F. Traver. After the business an enjoyable lunch was served and a social hour spent.

Mr. Montgomery, manager of the Molson Bank, has been transferred to Highgate. Mr. Hadden, of Highgate, will be transferred to Thedford. The change will become effective next week.

APPOINT NEW O. A. C. TEACHER

President Reynolds Announces A. McLennan As Successor To Professor Crow.

Has Been Specialist in Department of Agriculture For Two Years.

GUELPH, April 10.—President Reynolds of the O. A. C. made the official announcement this evening that Prof. Archibald H. McLennan, B.S.A., who for the past two years has been vegetable and potato specialist in the department of agriculture of Ontario, has been appointed to the position of professor of horticulture at the O. A. C. to succeed Prof. J. W. Crow, who was discharged by the president recently. It has been expected for several days that the announcement of this appointment would be made, but the order-in-council only came through today.

Professor McLennan is declared to be eminently fitted for the position to which he has been appointed. He is a native of Bruce County, but has resided in both Halton and Lambton Counties. He is a graduate of the O. A. C. of the class of 1908, and immediately following his graduation at the O. A. C. he went to the University of Guelph, where he was employed in the selling department of the Fuller & Rice Lumber Company, remaining there for a year, and then returning to the college as a demonstrator in horticulture, and later as a lecturer. He remained here until 1914, when he went to MacDonald College, Quebec, where he was in the horticultural department, and while there he spent two summers lecturing at the agricultural school at Amherst.

In 1916 he accepted a position at the Heinz Company of Pittsburgh, and was placed in charge of their horticultural work, in which capacity he traveled all over the United States. He then came back to the O. A. C. as lecturer in horticulture, and in 1918 was appointed as vegetable expert in the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and was later appointed potato expert.

CHILD LOSES LIFE IN STORM SEWER

SALT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 10.—Despite the heroic efforts of Lawrence Miron to save him, Walter Anderson, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, was drowned Saturday evening in McGregor avenue storm sewer, though his cries could be heard from the sewer for fully twenty minutes after he was carried into it. Walter had been playing along the edge of the open ditch which drains the C. P. R. property, and losing his balance fell in, being carried into the storm sewer through a gap which was left by a washout during the day.

Found Them Best She Had Ever Used

WHAT MRS. PARLEE SAYS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Sussex, N. B., Woman Who Suffered From Many Forms Of Kidney Trouble Sings the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sussex, N. B. (Special).—Mrs. L. Parlee, who lives on Broad Street here, is another of that great army of Canadian women who are always ready to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Every one of them has a reason. "I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills of good value to me," Mrs. Parlee states. "I had typhoid and it left me crippled in the muscles, backache, headache and heart fluttering. My sleep was broken and nervous and I had dark circles under my eyes. "I took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have done me a lot of good. I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills the best I ever used."

Mrs. Parlee's troubles came from the kidneys. Ask your neighbor if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the most reliable of all kidney remedies.—Adv't.
