THE SWORD MUST DEFEND.

HUNGARY'S PREMIER HINTS THAT THERE MAY BE FIGHTING.

Deputies to the Sobranje Resolved to Oppose Russia—Russian Agents Inciting Brigands to Violence—A State of Seige at Philippopolis.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—In the Austrian and Hungarian delegations to-day Prime Minister Von Tisza and Herr Smolka declared that the interest of Eastern Europe should be defended with the sword.

In the Hungarian Delegation, Prime Minister Tisza said the members had a double duty to perform: First they must endeavor to obtain a clear idea of the country's foreign relations, whether the policy of the Government was a policy befitting the monarchy, and whether everything was being done to make its policy felt. Secondly, they must make sure that the national forces were equal to those of other powers not only in patriotism and devotion but in strength and equipment. The peoples of the monarchy, especially the Hungarian citizens in the East, must not be abandoned even to avoid an armed collision. In conclusion he expressed the hope that the Government would succeed in guarding the interests of the Monarchy and maintaining peace.

A Demand That the Government Resign.

SOFIA, Nov. 4.—M. Seankoff has demanded that the Regent's Government resign.

Resolved to Oppose Russia.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 4.—At a private sitting of deputies to-day it was resolved to maintain the strongest opposition to concessions to the Russian party.

The Work of Russian Agents.

SOFIA, Nov. 4.—A state of siege has been proclaimed at Phillippopolis for the purpose of suppressing the brigands who are infesting the environs of the city and who are incited by Russian agents to deeds of violence.

Eloped With a Ploughboy.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The sixth elopement in as many weeks is reported from a village a few miles from Warwick. A lady about 30 years of age, very wealthy, and who is connected by birth with a noble family, has for some time been the ruling spirit of the Baptist Sunday School. A few days ago she left her home for an inland watering place and was joined upon her arrival by a ploughboy of the same village about 18 years of age, and anything but intelligent and prepossessing. Yesterday a letter was received from the ploughboy, in which he stated that his bride had given him £1000 ($5000), and that they were about to cross the water to America on a wedding trip. The lady's family are terribly broken up over the mesalliance, and the elopement will furnish talk enough to last the village gossips for a year to come.

LEAVE THE UNIONISTS ALONE.

Mr. John Morley Widens the Liberal Breach—Lord Hartington and the Tories.

LEEDS, Nov. 4.—At the Liberal Federation meeting Mr. John Morley said that in his opinion the wisest course to pursue for the present would be to leave the Unionists alone. This declaration has sufficed to suppress a threatened meeting by a small minority in favor of conciliating the Unionists, and the conference results in widening the breach between Liberals and Unionists. The policy of the Gladstonian leaders is largely influenced by their knowledge of a close alliance between Lord Salisbury and Lord Hartington, rendering all overtures for the conciliation of the latter futile.

Lord Hartington Confers With the Tories.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Since cabinet councils were resumed Lord Salisbury, Lord Hartington and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach have had long interviews daily at Devonshire House on the Irish policy. Yesterday Lord Hartington called a meeting of Unionist leaders to confer with the Executive Committee of the Liberal Unionist Association. It was decided to hold a general conference at London of all branches in the provinces to demonstrate that true liberalism continues opposed to Gladstonian Home Rule.

The Session of the Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Standard says: "The great lesson of the Leeds conference is that where the Liberal party stood last session there it still stands, on the unalterable basis of an independent Parliament for Ireland. This determination to abide by the principle of Home Rule at any cost partakes, it must be allowed, of the heroic. Whatever we think of its wisdom it shuts the door of office to Liberals for an indefinite period, and drives into still closer union with the Conservatives the very statesmen who alone are caple of regaining for Liberalism the country's confidence."

Irish Tenants and Their Landlords.

DUBLIN, Nov. 4.—The Limerick League will prevent hunting unless evicted tenants are reinstated and evictions cease. The Earl of Dunraven granted his tenants an abatement of from 15 to 25 per cent. The tenantry on the Tully estate at Glenry, Mitchellstown, yesterday decided not to pay their rents unless granted a reduction of 30 per cent. Lord Massy has offered his tenants 20 per cent. reduction.

A Check on Evictions.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Judge Mouro of Dublin has intimated in connection with the proposed ejectments, that applicants for writs must prove the solvency of the tenants.

SUCCI'S FASTING FEAT.

How the Italian Merlatti is Progressing in His Endeavor to Outdo It.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Although the committee of medical gentlemen who have supervision of the trial of the Italian Merlatti to outdo Succi's feat of fasting have examined him regularly, and have certified that there is no present danger of his collapse, he fails to show the amount of strength which was displayed by Succi at the same period of his fast yesterday. He was very gloomy, and seemed utterly disheartened so far as his appearance was concerned. His nights are troubled by dreams which disturb his rest and prevent him obtaining as much repose as his health requires. These do not keep him awake, however, but on the contrary he lies in an almost unbroken sleep, or rather unconsciousness, the disturbances of his dreams resulting in a condition nearly approaching delirium. He holds that the symptoms are of little account and says himself that he always manifests them during the first few days of abstinence. At present he has been fasting eight days and lost six and a half pounds of flesh.

JOHN BRIGHT ON PARTY LEADERS.

None of them Infallible, and Therefore a Party Cannot Always be a Unit.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—John Bright writes to the papers refusing to accept the principle of the political club associations, that wherever the leader of the party goes the whole party is bound to follow. "The Liberals," he says, "have not yet an infallible leader, and until he appears I must preserve my liberty of judgment. The Liberal party will not be destroyed. It will be instructed and become more competent for future work. The reunion of party will not come until change comes, which I may hope for, but at present the discovery signs of smooth platform talk will not bridge the chasm in our ranks."

"Rocky," the Flower Girl.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A decree nisi has been granted in the suit of Lady Anna Aylmer for divorce from her husband Sir Arthur Aylmer. In her petition Lady Aylmer sets forth that she was married to defendant in 1884, and that she lived happily with him until Sir Arthur made the acquaintance of a pretty young flower girl known by the pseudonym of "Rocky," and with whom he eloped to America, and upon whom he spent thousands of pounds. The complainant also alleges cruelty and adultery.

PLEASED WITH THE RESULT.

Henry George's Opinion of the New York Mayoralty Election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—"What do you think of the result of the election and what are your future plans?" Henry George was asked yesterday. "Personally, I am pleased with the result. I had no personal desire to be Mayor of New York and only took the position of candidate because I was called upon to head the struggle for principle. I unquestionably received the votes of the majority of the honest and intelligent workers of New York. We were beaten only by money and other evil influences which were united against us. The land question is now in American politics. Politicians can no longer afford to ignore it. I will do in future what I have done in the past and endeavor to educate the masses on this and kindred subjects." Mr. George said he would not entertain the proposition to run for Congress.

Divergent Views.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Pall Mall Gazette, speaking of the mayoralty contest in New York, says: "The vote for Henry George is by far the most important political event of the day. It is a message of hope from the New World to the Old, and unexpected light bursting forth in a dark place. Henry George is visionary, an idealist and utterly impracticable, but were he as mad as a March hare all the same the votes for him mean a protest against the rule of mammon, and will give an impetus to the discussion of the question of the condition of the people throughout the world."

The St. James Gazette says: "It is a significant and unpleasant fact that in the great American city of New York such a large proportion of the workingmen are prepared to vote for the gospel of confiscation. The election should cause all respectable Americans to forget the trumpery of party rights and political indifferentism and face the new danger that is threatening the commonwealth."

PROTECTION IN THE SOUTH.

Free Traders Buried and Tariff Men Coming to the Top.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 4.—John Jarrett, President of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, has returned from the West, where he had been conducting a tariff campaign against Morrison and other free traders. In an interview Mr. Jarrett stated that he did not go on the mission of his own volition, but was sent as a representative of the American Tin Plate Association, of which he is secretary. So far as he could learn the iron and steel manufacturers of this section had not contributed a cent toward the defeat of the free traders in the West. Appeals for money were made to friends in Pittsburg, but they were not answered. When asked about the sentiment in regard to the tariff in Illinois, Mr. Jarrett replied: "In all the two weeks which I spent there I did not find one in favor of free trade. The tariff feeling is rapidly growing through the west and south." "Do the new iron mills in Birmingham, Alabama, and other parts of the South arouse these feelings?" "Yes," said Mr. Jarrett, "I found that to be the case all through the South when I went there two months ago, and as an illustration of the change in sentiment there I may mention the case of a farmer I met in Tennessee, who told me that before the iron mills were started in his vicinity he could not get $10 an acre for his land. He was then a free trader. Since then he can get $150 an acre, and now he is a tariff man." Mr. Jarrett attributed the defeat of Congressmen Frank Hurd, Morrison and Randolph Tucker to the growing sentiment in favor of the tariff in the South and West.

STOCK SPECULATION ILLEGAL.

An Important Decision by a New Jersey Judge.

TRENTON, N.J., Nov. 4.—Chancellor Runyan has just rendered a decision that speculation in stocks and securities upon margins are wagers within the act to prevent gambling and are therefore illegal and that a gift of securities to a broker to secure him against losses in such speculation is void. The chancellor, therefore, orders that certain securities taken by a broker to recoup losses on marginal transactions be returned to the customer.

A Boodle Alderman Declared Insane.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The case of ex-Ald. McCabe, one of the members of the board of 1884, indicted for bribery in connection with the Broadway Railroad franchise, and whose trial was postponed until the question of his sanity could be determined, came up this morning before Judge Cowing and a jury in the Court of General Sessions. The jury, after hearing evidence, adjudged McCabe insane without leaving their seats, and McCabe was remanded to Ludlow-street jail pending a decision as to whether he should be cared for at home.

The Most Destructive Vessel Yet.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—William Cramp & Sons have made arrangements to construct for the Government a dynamite gun cruiser which will be capable of making twenty knots an hour and of firing a 200-pound dynamite shell every two minutes. The vessel is to cost not more than $350,000. Cramp & Sons have agreed to finish the contract in six months.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The beef men at Swift's and Morris' are still out and their chances for returning are lessening. Both concerns are shipping cattle East to be slaughtered. Swift commenced operating to-day with new men, who are coming from all quarters.

Three Important Bills.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—At the beginning of the coming session of Parliament the Government will be ready to submit three important bills. The first has been prepared by Mr. Long, Secretary of the Local Government Board, and will deal with allotments. The second is in charge of Mr. Ritchie, and will deal with the extension of local government. The third, bearing on the payment of tithes, will probably be introduced in the House of Lords by Premier Salisbury.

German Trade with America.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—Completed statistics show that the year's increase in the value of German exports to America is $17,000,000, including $4,000,000 worth of sugar. Compared with the exports in 1876, the increase amounts to $5,000,000. The total exports for the year are placed at 3,000,000,000 marks, of which 10 per cent. went to America.

Gen. Buller's New System a Success.

DUBLIN, Nov. 4.—There has been a marked decrease of crime in Kerry, owing partly to landlords reducing rents and partly to Gen. Buller's system of closely watching suspects instead of guarding persons liable to attack. The new system has been so effective that the demolition of the police protection huts has been commenced.

A Professor Disappears.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—Prof. Wetrin of the Pharmaceutical Academy here, who was recently appointed by the Sultan, has disappeared. The police have made a thorough search, but have found no trace of him. It is known that he drew a large sum of money on the day he disappeared.

COUNTING PARTY NOSES.

DEMS. AND REPS. FIGURING OUT HOW THEY STAND.

A Pretty Close Thing in the House of Representatives—A Woman Elected School Superintendent—Speaker Carlisle Returned by Five or Six Hundred Majority.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The secretary of the Republican National Committee makes the following computation from returns received up to 9 o'clock this evening of the political complexion of the House of Representatives of the 50th Congress, "The returns as far as received indicate the election of 154 Republicans, 159 Democrats, 5 Labor and Independent, 6 doubtful and 1 vacancy—Total 325. If the Democrats get four of the doubtful they will have 163, or a majority of the House."

The secretary of the Democratic Committee says the Democrats will have a working majority in the House.

An Illinois Election in Doubt.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—A re-examination of the police returns from the Second Congressional District revealed a heretofore undiscovered error this evening in footing up the totals. Where Gleason, United Labor, should have been credited with 52 votes the total was only 2. This reduces the majority in the district for Lawlor (Democrat) to 16. Gleason still claims the district for himself by 23 votes.

A Lady School Superintendent.

FREEPORT, Ill., Nov. 4.—News has been received here that at the election on Tuesday Miss Alice J. Sanborn of this city was chosen Superintendent of Schools in Brul County, Dak. Of the 1600 votes polled she received about 1000. Miss Sanborn was the regular nominee of the Democratic and Farmers' Alliance parties. She was granted a leave of absence from the Freeport schools as teacher a few weeks ago, and soon after reaching Dakota was nominated for the office to which she has now been elected.

Echoes From the Elections.

The Democrats have made great gains in Colorado, carrying the Assembly, and possibly the Senate.

The New York World says: "The Democratic control of the House is seriously imperilled, if not altogether lost."

The Democrats have gained in New York and Brooklyn cities and lost in other parts of the state.

The New York Herald says that the House of Representatives will have 166 Democrats, 153 Republicans and 5 Labor men. The Democrats will have therefore a clear majority over all of 8. The New York Times says the House will be composed of 169 Democrats, 152 Republicans, 3 Labor men; Democratic majority 14. The World gives the Dems. 164, Reps. 158, Labor 2; Democratic majority 4. The Sun estimates the House as: Dems. 168, Reps. 154, Labor 2; Democratic majority 15. The Tribune claims 158 Reps. and gives the Dems. 164, Labor men 4; Democratic majority 1.

In Illinois, Morrison, the author of the Tariff Bill, has been defeated for Congress by 1132, a Republican gain of 3700.

Recognized at Once.

It is becoming quite common among fashionable people to register only their last names the same as English noblemen. This is a great idea. When a man reads quinn the shirtmaker, Toronto, he knows at once where to get the newest neckties and best underclothing for the least money.

A PRESENT TO CHIEF STEWART.

Hamilton's Entire Police Department Join in Wishing Him Well.

HAMILTON, Nov. 4.—This evening the full Police Department met at the Police Court room for the purpose of making a presentation to Captain A. D. Stewart. Chief McKinnon occupied the chair. Detective McKenzie read the following address:

To Captain A. D. Stewart, our late Chief, by the members of the Hamilton Police Force, on the occasion of his retirement:

We, the undersigned members of the Hamilton Police Force, while regretting that you are about to leave us, and that the pleasant relations that have existed between us for the past six years are about to be severed, have much pleasure in testifying to your many good qualities of mind and heart. You have always been prompt in the discharge of duty and discipline, and ever zealous in advancing the interest of the force. We have to thank you as being mainly influential in establishing the police library and gymnasium and the introduction of the patrol wagon, and for the discipline of the force, which has raised it to be second to none in the Dominion, and is now a pride and credit to the city. As we are about to part please accept this cane as a small token of our regard and a souvenir of our past happy associations. And now we wish you success and prosperity wherever you go, for Auld Lang Syne.

The address was signed by all the sergeants, detectives and men of the force. Police Constable Ferris handed Capt. Stewart the cane, which was the best that could be got. It was inscribed as follows: "To Capt. A. D. Stewart, our late chief, by the members of the Hamilton police force on the occasion of his retiring, Nov. 1, 1886." Capt. Stewart made a suitable reply, going over pretty much the same ground as in his late speeches to the force. He was deeply affected. Cheers were given for Capt. Stewart and Chief McKinnon.

SWEPT BY FLAMES.

Fifty Buildings Burnt and Thirty Families Rendered Homeless in Southampton.

SOUTHAMPTON, Ont., Nov. 4.—About 3.45 this morning a fire broke out in the Rossin Block, occupied by James Kelly. In a few minutes the whole block was one mass of flames on account of the strong south-west wind blowing. The fire soon spread to an adjoining house, and from there to the Busby House, which was soon a mass of flames. The villagers worked hard to stop the flames, but having no fire engine the flames soon spread to the adjoining buildings, and in less than four hours' time the whole street was swept for two and one-half blocks from street to street. The scene as the flames were raging and the people were getting out goods and furniture beggared description. This is the greatest conflagration that has ever occurred in this district. There were over fifty buildings burnt, and thirty families are rendered homeless, some being entirely destitute. The total loss is about $50,000, the insurance on which amounts to only $12,000. He placed the number of young men attending college on this continent at 150,000. He urged students to consecrate themselves as medical missionaries. Mr. Moody held a conference of students at his home last July, at which 250 were present. Of this number 101 had pledged to spend their lives as missionaries in foreign lands. When Bishop Hannington was murdered in Africa fifty Oxford students volunteered to take his place. At the conclusion of the address Wm. COLLAPSE OF A WALL.

The Fate of Six Workmen who were Putting Up a New Skating Rink.

At 9.30 yesterday morning the east brick wall of the new rink being built by the Granite Curling and Skating Company, on their Church-street property, fell outwards, carrying with it six workmen who were at the top. They were James McCurdy, foreman bricklayer, 139 Cumberland-street; David McCurdy, bricklayer; Geo. Hamilton, bricklayer, 138 Carlaw-avenue; John Faithful, bricklayer, of Alliston; Charles Hazel, laborer, 110 Centre-street, and Wm. Mason, laborer, 99 Bathurst-street. The men were working on the top of the scaffolding inside the wall when suddenly they felt themselves going. David McCurdy hung to a pole which broke his fall, and he escaped with a few scratches. But the others were not so fortunate. They fell a distance of forty-five feet, alighting in the midst of bricks and scaffold timbers. All except David McCurdy and Mason were taken to the General Hospital. There it was found that James McCurdy was severely bruised about the body and had his hand cut; George Hamilton received severe bruises on the head and chest besides internal injuries; Hazel had his face cut and his forehead laid open. Faithful was the most seriously injured. He sustained a compound fracture of the left ankle joint, the bones of which came through the flesh, and internal injuries. It was thought at first that amputation would have to be resorted to, but this was not done. At a late hour last night all were doing as well as could be expected. Mason, whose injuries consisted of bruises, was taken to his home.

The wall was forty-five feet high, ninety-seven feet wide and eighteen inches thick. It was without supports or stays, except what was furnished by the scaffolding. The architect, Norman B. Dick, states that two days before he warned the contractor that the wall should be properly stayed until the roof was put on, but this was not done. He attributes the collapse to the want of stays and to the fact that an undue tension was exercised on the wall by a hoist. The mortar used seems to have been of a poor quality, mostly sand, but both Mr. Dick and the contractor, H. M. Thayer, state that it was as good as could be made. The latter states that he examined the mixture of it daily. Mr. Thayer's loss will be about $350. Mr. R. K. Burgess, President, and Mr. C. C. Dalton, Vice-President of the Rink Company, had a narrow escape. A few minutes before they were standing on the ground where the wall fell.

DR. GRAHAM ACQUITTED.

A Trial That Lasted Until Nearly Midnight in a Crowded Court-Room.

From 9 o'clock yesterday morning till 11 last night Dr. W. H. Graham sat in the dock at the Criminal Assizes on trial on a charge of having committed rape upon the person of Miss Mary Bull, in his office, in King-street west on July 2 last. All this time the court-room was crowded with men, old and young, for whom such a case has special attractions. Chief Justice Cameron presided, Mr. Æ. Irving, Q.C., conducted the prosecution and Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., and Mr. N. G. Bigelow appeared for the defence. Miss Bull's examination lasted for several hours. She stated that she was reared at Weston and came to the city a few years ago and engaged as a domestic, at one time working for Ald. Baxter. Inflammatory rheumatism obliged her to quit work, and at the time in question she was boarding at a house on Peter-street and being treated by Dr. Graham. On July 2 she called at his house and was ushered into the ladies parlor. The doctor came in and saying "You wouldn't have me, but now you've got to have me," threw her on the floor and assaulted her. She said she resisted as much as she could, struck him in the face and screamed until he held his hand over her mouth. After the alleged assault she said she would have him arrested, and he replied that she was too innocent to live.

Mr. Osler cross-examined Miss Bull at length, but she stuck to her story and took back nothing, although on several points she said she could not remember.

Miss Macpherson, with whom Miss Bull boarded, gave evidence as to the latter's condition on returning from the doctor's house. Dr. Archibald, who examined the young woman, told of the serious state in which he found her.

The defence produced a number of witnesses who were in Dr. Graham's house at the time and who swore that they heard no struggle or screams. One witness said that he sat in the hall outside the parlor door and heard no sound whatever from within.

Messrs. Irving & Osler delivered lengthy addresses to the jury and the Chief Justice charged strongly in the prisoner's favor. The jury, after being out only fifteen minutes, returned a verdict of "not guilty."

A MODEL DRUG STORE.

Mr. A. W. Abbott's Attractive Establishment in the Rossin House.

What is there more necessary or more inviting than a thoroughly equipped drug store? Nothing in the commercial line that The World can think of. Such an institution is a boon to the neighborhood and a necessity all round. Toronto can boast of many such establishments, but none more complete or so well-arranged as Mr. A. W. Abbott's Parlor Drug Store in the Rossin House block. Mr. Abbott is an enterprising young man with an experienced head on his shoulders, and he is meeting with just the success that his attention to business entitles him to.

At Abbott's you can obtain everything that is known to the apothecary's art at any time of the day or night. A competent dispenser himself, he has associated with him a number of first-class assistants, among them being Mr. T. N. Sumner, late of Buffalo. The store is a model of neatness and arrangement. The show cases are loaded with the choicest of perfumes and toilet articles always fresh from the best markets of Europe and America. The shelves are handsomely arranged and filled with all the drugs known to Pharmacology. The shop is open all night, and physicians' prescriptions are carefully compounded at any hour. What, then, can be more complete or necessary?

Mr. Abbot runs his business on the theory that the public to be honestly dealt with must be well served, and he flatters himself that he can do this to perfection. People who are not very well conversant with the contents of a thoroughly appointed drug store have little idea of its variety. Perfumes of exquisite odor, soaps of velvety composition and of blooming results, hair and tooth brushes of softness and durability, proprietory medicines, drugs of the old and new schools, mineral waters, sponges, confections, hand mirrors, fancy perfume, bottles and glasses, and all the articles known to metropolitan establishments can be had at Abbott's. They are there without number. To the ladies especially the Rossin House Drug Store will be found of special interest and attractiveness. They will find everything in stock they may require for toilette or family purposes. Telephone No. 1, and get your orders promptly filled.

UNEMPLOYED IN LONDON.

LORD SALISBURY DECLINES TO RECEIVE THE SOCIALISTS.

Abandonment of the Proposed Procession in Opposition to the Lord Mayor's Display—A Meeting Called for the Afternoon Instead.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Lord Salisbury, replying to a Socialist request to receive a deputation of unemployed workingmen, writes that the Government are deeply sensible of the sufferings of the poor in winter and will consider attentively any ascertained facts that are laid before them, but in view of recent events he does not think any public advantage would result from his receiving a deputation.

Lord Randolph Churchill, in reply to a similar request, refers them to Lord Salisbury.

The Socialist Federation has issued a long manifesto, saying, "We will not take the responsibility for leading unarmed and defenceless people against a powerful body of armed men who are obliged to obey orders which they detest. We, therefore, call upon citizens who are obliged to submit to force in the city to assert their right of public meeting and petition in Trafalgar-square at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Lord Mayor's day. We appeal to you not to injure the great cause by riot or disorder. Finally we pledge ourselves to continue the agitation until we obtain for the unemployed workingmen that recognition of their labor (sic) which they have a right to demand."

A POLICE INSPECTOR REDUCED.

The Order that was Read Out to the Force—The Night Patrol.

"Police!" It was no surprise to the members of the Police Force when it was read out in orders yesterday that Charles Seymour, attached to Headquarters, had been deprived of his inspector's baton and reduced to the rank and pay of a sergeant. This was decided upon at a meeting of the Police Commissioners held the evening previous, and so far as can be learned it was all cut and dried, and Inspector Seymour has been made the victim of the "spy" system which now plays such a prominent part in the force.

Two Saturday nights ago Inspector Seymour, who was off duty, and his own boss as the regulations of the force are understood, went to Walter Over's hotel in Colborne-street by appointment to meet a friend from Philadelphia. It was after hours (after 7 o'clock) and they met in the dining-room upstairs. While in this room License Inspectors Dexter and Hastings, attracted by a light in the bar downstairs, entered by the hall door and made straight for the room above, where Inspector Seymour and his friend, beside some others, were seated. The matter was reported to the License Commissioners, who in turn reported it to the Police Commissioners, and Inspector Seymour was arraigned before them on a charge of being in a place where liquor was sold during prohibited hours. After hearing the evidence the commissioners decided to reduce Inspector Seymour as above stated. Mr. Over stated positively before the commissioners that the Inspector had come to his place to meet his friend; that no liquor was sold to them and that the doors of his bar-room were locked with padlocks on the outside at the time. But this was not sufficient.

The action of the Commissioners has created a miniature revolt in the Police Force. It is an open secret that certain men have been detailed to watch the officers and privates of the force, even to their own doors. This system has created deep-seated dissatisfaction in the ranks, and a majority of the men are disgusted. They say that it is a very strange thing if a man has to be watched when he is off duty. Inspector Seymour was one of the most efficient officers on the force, but like many other men he had social qualities when off duty. He has always been a popular officer with the men, who would do almost anything to serve him and do their duty.

There is no doubt whatever that the Police Department could stand considerable critical investigation, but this "spy" business is a very poor way to go about it. No officer now feels disposed to trust his comrades, and there is a deep sense of distrust permeating the entire force, which will certainly greatly impair the usefulness of the service. The World would respectfully submit to Mayor Howland, his fellow-commissioners and the men who have been detailed as spies that an open-handed enquiry be made of the workings of the whole job. The citizens, who pay handsomely for their police service, know little or nothing about the star chamber proceedings of the Police Commissioners. Men are fined, reduced and dismissed and the public know nothing about the merits of the case. It is now a very easy matter for one of the spies to prefer charges against a fellow officer and have him punished without the safeguard of a public enquiry.

Seymour did not wear his inspector's spurs very long, being promoted only about two years ago. The difference in a sergeant's and inspector's pay is $3.10 and $2.55 per day. The reduced officer has made up his mind to resign, as he considers he has been very unfairly dealt with. Another strange feature in the case is that the whole thing was shuffled through during the absence from the city of Chief Draper. Mr. Draper only returned to town on Wednesday night after the commissioners' meeting, and he knew nothing of the reduction, nor was he consulted in any way. This seems an extraordinary proceeding in hearing charges against so high an officer as an inspector.

While the commissioners are about it they might investigate the doings and composition of the force known as the night patrol, who have their headquarters in the Mail buildings. This organization is uniformed so much like the city police that it is almost impossible to tell them apart. The only visible difference is that the patrol have their number on the front of their helmets instead of on the collar of the coat. They walk boldly into saloons and drink at public bars and are often mistaken for city policemen by strangers and others. Several of them have been seen drunk on the streets. They have no standing whatever as constables, and are not sworn in, as has been reported in some of the papers. But The World would rise to remark that they should be suppressed or remodelled as to their uniform. Our reporters have heard any number of stories, which can easily be authenticated, about their discreditable doings around town, and if the Commissioners wish to do justice to their own men they should move at once in the matter. Only night before last a World reporter saw two of them in a King-street bar, both of them more than half drunk. The remark was quickly passed around the crowd that discipline in the city Police Force must be getting down pretty low when officers could get drunk with their uniforms on and while they were supposed to be on duty. If there is any spying to be done, it would not be amiss to look after this body of men.

Railway Rumors.

From the Hamilton Times.

Mr. VanHorne, Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will meet the Hamilton Board of Trade to-day (Friday.) In view of the fact that Mr. VanHorne inspected the railway from Gravenhurst to the junction with the Canadian Pacific last week, it seems probable that Mr. VanHorne's visit to Hamilton has something to do with the acquirement of the Northern Pacific Junction road, and perhaps also the Northern & Northwestern, by the Canadian Pacific. Confirmation is given to this idea by the Globe's Ottawa correspondent to the effect that the Canadian Pacific Company has asked for the cancellation of the provision which requires that the Gravenhurst & Callander railway shall be operated as a neutral link.

Why They Go There.

—There's some folks can't give the "why" or "wherefore" of anything, and some can give a satisfactory account of all their expenditure; and it's a notable feature that the latter class spend the bulk of their wealth at 179 Yonge-street, and the reason is that Strathern is selling his stoves and house furnishings at a price that tempts any one. x

PASSED ON TO THE COUNCIL.

The Executive Committee and Mr. A. W. Godson's Claims Against the City.

The Garrison Creek sewer again passed through the fire at the Executive Committee meeting yesterday afternoon. Mr. Kivas Tully, who had been requested to report on the condition of the sewer, wrote to the Board of Works stating that he had not had time to read all the evidence, but from his examination of the work he could safely recommend that $4000 be advanced to the contractor, Mr. Godson, out of the balance of $9500 still due him. This recommendation the Board of Works passed on to the Executive. Ald. Saunders said that Mr. Tully had no right to interfere in the monetary affairs of the city, and he was making a recommendation before he had fully considered the matter. Ald. James stated that he had been against Godson, but he was beginning to think it was hardly fair to hound a man down for nine months as Mr. Godson had been. Ald. Lamb favored paying over the amount. Ald. Carlyle thought they should wait until they received a full report. Ald. Hunter asked permission to address the committee. He did not believe the work could be put right with $3000. Whole sections would have to be taken up and reconstructed. Chairman Defoe thought they should let the matter go to the council, and the committees got out of the difficulty in this way.

Robinson and O'Brien, who have in hand the case of the city against the Street Railway Company to compel the company to put conductors on all cars and keep the roadway in repair, asked the committee to send them a check for $200 on account. Chairman Defoe wanted to know why the City Solicitor could not look after such cases, and City Clerk Blevins informed the committee that a resolution by Ald. James and Saunders had authorized the Mayor to give the case to a lawyer, and he had retained Mr. Henry O'Brien. The firm will get the check.

Wm. Mulock, James E. Smith and Judge Dean sent in an account of $446 as the city's half of the costs in a recent arbitration between the County of York and Toronto. It will perforce be paid. Hugh McMahon, Q.C.'s bill of $210 for legal services in the Burns' case was referred to the solicitor for checking.

Medical Health Officer Canniff wrote to the Mayor stating that the expenditure for hospital patients had been $12,350 from January to October, which was in excess of the appropriation. The Committee varied $1000 of the unexpended fund of the Convalescent Home, and instructed the health officer to be economical in issuing orders until next year.

The reports of standing committees were adopted.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MATTERS.

Business Before the Board at the Regular Meeting Last Night.

Trustees Medcalf, Donovan, Lee, Hamilton, Poulton, Meredith and Willcock were the absent ones at last night's meeting of the Public School Board. Chairman Geo. McMurrich presided.

Inspector Hughes presented a detailed report of night school attendance which showed that during October it was 918 registered, with an average of 682. The Night School Committee's report, recommending that an additional room be opened in Bolton-avenue School, with Alfred Perfect as teacher, was adopted. A complaint was made about the caretaker of the Ryerson School refusing to carry wood to the upper rooms. Trustee Kent spoke in favor of having the big boys do the wood hauling. The chairman hoped that the pupils of Toronto schools would never be compelled to carry wood. The matter was referred to the proper committee. The Dufferin, Bathurst, Hope and Borden-streets Schools are so crowded that, on recommendation of the School Management Committee, it was decided to provide additional accomodation. Cottingham-street School will not be enlarged at present.

The Management Committee has not yet considered the case of suspended Headmaster Boddy of Bathurst-street School, for whose early re-instatement petitions were presented at the last meeting. A petition signed by 380 parents of pupils was referred to the committee.

The Board adopted a resolution by Dr. Ogden, calling upon the Inspector to state the reasons of the Medical Health Officer for recently closing the Phoebe-street School, which, however, has been re-opened. It was stated that the reason was that diphtheria existed in the neighborhood and that a defective drain in the school caused a fear of an epidemic. The drain has been repaired.

A Through Service to New York.

The Grand Trunk and the Erie railways have entered into an arrangement to run a through sleeping car service between Toronto and New York, beginning with next week. A Pullman will leave Toronto daily at 3.55 p.m., reaching New York at 9.55 next morning; the return car will leave New York at 7 p.m., and reach Toronto at 10.20 a.m. Ocean travelers especially will appreciate this new arrangement, which is precursory of more intimate relations between these two great roads.

AMUSEMENTS.

Rhea in Pygmalion and Galatea—Attractions for Next Week at the Theatres.

A good house filled the Grand last night when W.S.Gilbert's mythological comedy "Pygmalion and Galatea" was presented. Mlle. Rhea played the part of Galatea with her usual tenderness and vivacity and won frequent applause. The next honors were taken by Mr. Arthur Forrest, who in the role of Pygmalion fittingly portrayed the love and grief of the sculptor whose work changed from marble to flesh and from flesh again to marble. The company gave a good support. The lively French comedy "The Widow" will be repeated to-night.

Roland Reed in "Cheek."

There was hardly standing room in any part of the Toronto Opera House last night, when Roland Reed appeared in his inimitable comedy "Cheek." From the ringing up of the curtain until its fall the vast audience appeared delighted. The applause in fact at times amounted almost to an ovation, and it was well deserved too. Roland Reed is a born comedian, and it was, therefore, nothing surprising that his efforts should be appreciated, but the honors of the evening were fairly shared by Patrice, who, by her charming naivete and pretty face and figure, literally took the house by storm. Miss Alice Hastings also acquitted herself admirably as Mrs. Abel Racket. Old Joe Gobay was recognized, and distinguished himself as Colonel Sanford, while E. T. Webber as Ted Brower was painstaking if not attractive. To cut things short it is only necessary to say that the whole play went with a snap and a vim that were surprising. The scenery was good and the setting capital. "Cheek" will hold the boards for the remainder of the week.

Minnie's Hauk's Engagement.

Mme. Minnie Hauk, with her concert and opera company, will give a concert at the Pavilion Music Hall on Wednesday, the 17th inst. In addition to the celebrated prima donna soprano, the company consists of Miss Mathilde Muellenbach, contralto, late of the American Opera Company; Signor Carlo Spigaroli, tenor, late of the Milan (Italy) Opera House; Mr. George Fox, baritone, late of the American Opera Company; Mr. Charles E. Pratt, musical director and accompanist, and Chevalier Antoine de Kontski, court pianist of the Emperor of Germany. The company will give a miscellaneous concert and two scenes from Gounod's opera "Faust," in which the singers appear in full costume and stage settings.

For the Study of Orchestral Music.

Mr. Torrington's Amateur Orchestra held its first rehearsal in Philharmonic Hall last night. Twenty young men with their instruments were present and Mr. Torrington says he will have forty before long. The object is to encourage young men to study orchestral music.

"Pepita" Coming Next Week.

Manager Sheppard will present one of the best attractions on the road at his theatre next week, when Mr. J. M. Hill's famous opera company will appear in "Pepita," one of the most successful comic operas in existence. New York and London went wild over it. "Pepita" ought certainly to have a successful career in Toronto, as it is new and well-worth seeing.

Furs for the Winter.

—Don't you want to buy your wife a nice sealskin sacque? How well she would look in it. And how it would please her. How often has she economized in order that you might dress well? Many a time, and, as Sam Jones would say, "Ole feller, yo know it." Take a stroll through Dineens', corner King and Yonge-streets, and see his stock of furs. x

ARRIVAL OF THE PRE

SIR JOHN AND HON. THOMAS W AMONG THE "FAITHFUL."

The Leader of the Government Passe Day With His Friends—Speculating the Probable Date of the Elections—A Evening at Chestnut Park.

Sir John Macdonald and his Minister of the Interior, Hon. Thomas White, accompanied by their Secretaries, arrived in the city yesterday morning from the Capital. The party went direct to the Queen's Hotel where rooms had been already engaged. The visit of the Prime Minister to Toronto at the present time carries a great deal of interest among politicians, and many are the rumors in connection with the journey to the Queen City. Sir John spent a greater portion of the day receiving the "faithful" in the Red Parlor of the hotel. A great many of his intimate friends and workers called and held earnest conversations.

The probable date of the general elections was talked about, of course, but if The World can believe certain reputed authorities nothing definite has as yet been settled. The elections may come on during the present month or in January next; perhaps in June. The party in power will certainly select a date on which they think it opportune to go to the country. "One of the greatest questions that the Government has to grapple with," said a member of the House of Commons to The World, "is Prohibition. It will certainly be a strong factor in the issue, and the Prohibitionists are going to push it for all it's worth. I don't profess to know what stand the Government will take on the matter, but I think it will be a decided one. As to the probable date of the elections, I don't think there is a minister in the Cabinet to-day who could, at the present time, name that date. There is still a great deal of organizing to be done and councils held with the party leaders all over the country. There is much hard work ahead."

Mr. White said he and Sir John would remain in the city until to-morrow night, when they would return to Ottawa.

The presence of Mr. J. C. Patterson, M.P., in the city at the same time as Sir John gives additional color to the rumors that that gentleman is to be taken into the Cabinet. Mr. Patterson had a lengthy conference with Sir John during the day.

To-day and to-morrow will be devoted to receiving as many of the "faithful" as their importance and standing will permit. The "Old Man" is looking and apparently feeling well, and he greets his friends with as much ardor and buoyancy as he did in the days when he was a good deal younger.

Last evening Sir John was driven to Chestnut Park in Sir David Macpherson's carriage, where, after supping sumptuously, he remained for the night. He will return to his hotel this morning.

The "Old Man's" Memory.

The "Old Man" still prides himself on his memory, and he put it to a practical test yesterday morning. Before going to breakfast he entered the Queen's barber shop for a shave and his favorite dry shampoo. "Joe" Ethier, the presiding power of the place, was at once nimbly skimming over the Premier's visage with a keen-edged razor. "I think I have been through your hands before," remarked Sir John. "Oui, monsieur," replied Joe. "Often, sir." "Let me see," continued Sir John, "that was in Ottawa nine or ten years ago." The Premier was correct and the barber was happy over the remembrance.

Capt. Hall's Steam Barge Ashore.

A telegram received from Buffalo last evening says: "The steam barge W. B. Hall, bound up the lake from Tonawanda went ashore to-day on Rose's reef near the entrance to the Niagara river. The tugs Alert and Hector left Port Colborne to assist her." The Hall is owned by Capt. Wm. Hall of Toronto.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Last week the city carriers delivered 195,317 letters, 52,608 newspapers.

The Court of Revision yesterday reduced the assessment for St. George's Ward by $45,118. There were 73 appeals.

Mr. E. W. Edwards, commission agent, Colborne-street, slipped on Yonge-street on Wednesday evening and broke his ankle in two places.

Over fifty city ministers have signified their intention of preaching a special sermon to young men on the Sabbath after next. In many of the churches a Y. M. C. A. director will give an account of the efforts put forth by the association to advance the moral interests of young men.

A largely-attended meeting of those interested in the Workingmen's Building Society was held last night in the Board of Trade rotunda. Short addresses were made by I. A. Studdart, Secretary of the Hamilton Association, and Mr. R. Noblett. Loans of $1500 were made to members at premiums of 23 and 24 per cent., and after receiving subscriptions for stock in the second series the meeting adjourned.

At the Police Court yesterday Thomas Haisley was fined $10 and costs for having a loaded cane in his possession when arrested for being drunk. Robert Gore was ordered to find two sureties of $100 each that he would keep the peace towards his wife. George Bolton, a barber at the Rossin House, was fined $2 or ten days for shaving a person on Sunday who was not a guest at the hotel. E. A. Jones, a saloon-keeper, was fined $10 and costs or fifteen days for selling liquor to a minor. Edward Field, licensed grocer, was fined $20 and costs or fifteen days for delivering liquor after hours.

Notice has been given of the intention to incorporate "The Holmes Electric Protection Company of Toronto," with a capital stock of $100,000. The following are named as the first directors: John Leys, Rice Lewis, Thos. G. Blackstock, B. Jennings, A. J. Pattison, A. R. Riches of Toronto, Edwin Holmes of New York, and James B. Wood of Montreal. The company is formed to take over the business organized about a year ago by the Holmes Electric Protection Company of Montreal for the protection of safes and vaults and business houses from burglars.

What Will He Do With It?

Suppose that Mr. Blake (and many think it possible only in supposition) should float into power on the waves of the Riel agitation, the question naturally arises—What will he do with his following? No one, we opine, knows better or has said more on the difficulties which Sir John Macdonald has always had with his French supporters than Mr. Blake. Both he and his organs have never ceased to descant on the insolence with which they alleged the Quebec Bleu domineered over the Ontario Tory. Over and over have we been told that in days gone by, not Sir John was Premier, but Sir George; and that since the death of Sir George, not Sir John, but Sir Hector, directed affairs. Who has forgotten the tremendous uproar made by the Reformers when the frequenters of the maison bleue were said to have seized Sir John by the throat and to have threatened that unless he gave Quebec this, that and the other, the famous C.P.R. resolutions should be ruthlessly rejected? But why specify instances of French domination? From one we may know all!

It is in place to remark here that if Sir John did yield to the robber tactics of his Quebec supporters, he yielded only when further persistence in refusal was certain seriously to threaten a great national undertaking, with which was wrapt up the prosperity of the then Canada, of the Canada to be. It was idle at that time of day to argue about the C. P. R. The road had progressed too far to be then given up or even to be seriously crippled. One thing everybody knew. Reformers had for five years been talking of the gigantic enterprise, and that the result of the five years' talk was simply and only—nothing.

Now for Mr. Blake's attitude at that momentous crisis. His favorite lieutenant, the member for West Ontario, made through the columns of the Globe to the recalcitrant Bleus an offer of the very thing for which they have never since ceased to curse and revile Sir John. It is true that Mr. Blake denied all knowledge of the shameless dicker. But Mr. Blake should have gone further. He should have repudiated both Globe and Edgar. Who requires to be told that the Globe is still Mr. Blake's organ so far as such an antiquated, morose, vindictive pariah of an elephant can be said to be the organ of any person or of anything? As for Edgar, is he not now jubilant at the prospect of radiating his round-square, poetic rays on the country from a lofty perch on the treasury benches? An unhappy and exasperated country prays, indeed, that his light may be as that of a fixed star—several millions of years in reaching us. It is undeniable, however, that Mr. Blake's triumph will mean Edgar's apotheosis.

Let us take another observation to ascertain Mr. Blake's most probable position towards his French followers. When Sir John took Mr. Chapleau from the Local Cabinet of Quebec into the Dominion Cabinet, the air was thick with groans, sighs and imprecations such as only politicians of the angelical kind could utter. Now what will Mr. Blake do when Mr. Mercier has run his race in his own province? Will he ignore him? Will he scornfully cast him overboard? We trow not. A man quite as honest, quite as rigid as Mr. Blake, succumbed to political exigencies, and that at a time when Conservatives were so scarce that it was hard to find one. The admission, the forced admission if you will, of the late Mr. Cauchon by Hon. Alexander Mackenzie into his ministry, is still an astounding, a disheartening fact in the history of Liberalism. And we do not stretch a point when we affirm that should Mr. Blake come to the head of affairs through the Castor-Rouge coalition, the Hon. Honore Mercier will be just what he pleases—a judge as was Mousseau, or a cabinet minister as is Chapleau.

It is idle to suppose that the French are going to completely change because the head of the Government is changed. What they have been under Sir John they will be under Mr. Blake. Nay, the dexterity, the astuteness, the personal magnetism which have so long kept them within bounds, wide-stretched, it may be true, would be lost, even if it were present, when these same Frenchmen have succeeded in gaining the new and tremendous vantage-ground of being superior to the law of the land.

We tell Mr. Blake, we tell Reformers, that they have made a terrible mistake in the selection of their road to power. We never thought that a Blake could have made such a heinous blunder. We always knew that an Edgar or a Mercier would fail to recognize the step as a blunder. For they want power—power, first; then again power, and power last. But to Mr. Blake we attribute no such ignoble ambition. The sweets of office are a fit and laudable reward for duty nobly and unflinchingly done. But when the sweets of office are purloined at the expense of all that honorable men most fondly cherish, they are as poison to those who sip. Sweet, indeed, they may be in the mouth, but certain to be bitter in the belly. In the case of Messrs. Edgar and Mercier, this can make little difference, because in their anatomy there is no perceptible line of demarcation between mouth and belly.

Mr. Blake, however, has made his choice. It remains to be seen whether loyalty to the law will not produce such a combination as will resolve the incongruous, horrible Liberal-Castor-Rouge amalgam.

"My Country, 'tis of Thee!"

The Globe insists that Mr. Blake was right in predicting that "in five years we may have no country to save." Granting all that is said of the badness of the Tories—and the man in the moon will tell you that some of them are rank enough—we still have faith in the elements of permanency possessed by the Laurentian formation. This country and this people have in them qualities of endurance—rugged virtues and staying powers—which the Czar could not suppress nor the Sultan emasculate. Are we to be told that if Mr. Blake or any other man or number of men were to die before next election—which Heaven forefend—leaving Sir John master of the situation by sheer force of circumstances over which this people would have no control, this country would go to Mr. Mantelini's "demnition bow-wows?" Pooh! When the intelligence of Lincoln's assassination reached New York, and most men thought chaos had come again, Garfield stepped to the front with his famous: "God reigns and the Government at Washington still lives." Instantly the demoralized mob understood that though Lincoln was good and great their country was greater and better still. We can only imagine the contrary effect had Garfield come to the front wringing his hands and exclaiming: "All is lost; treason has done its bloody work and we have no country left to save!" If Garfield had talked that way he would never have been President.

"No country to save!" There is not "cussedness" enough in all the politicians of both parties to destroy this country. There are portions of the Upper Ottawa, the North Shore and Muskoka that could defy Sir John's most cunning smile and knock the cow-catcher off an earthquake. We tell you there is no mud bottom to this country, either physically or politically. There are still living in this province alone men who have carried their grists to mill on their backs along a blazed forest pathway twenty and thirty miles on week days, and gone ten miles to listen to two hardshell sermons in succession upon the Sabbath. Are the heirs of such endurance weaklings who will sit down and cry in despair when they lose an election? The young men of Canada—Whig and Tory—spurn any such estimate of their calibre.

Mr. Blake indulged himself and his Guelph audience in a rhetorical flourish not singular nor new upon his lips, nor upon those of other orators, but the Globe is foolish enough to raise it to the dignity of a party cry. The party will not repeat the shibboleth. No Didymus can lead the Canadian people. The people have faith in their country. They are proud of it and confident of its future. So are we, and we will save it yet, if we have to raise our advertising rates to do so.

Fallen.

The revelations in Cincinnati of the conduct of Sam Small, the revival preacher, will be received with regret in Toronto. Even those who had no admiration for the style or manner of the two Sams, had little difficulty in accepting them as true Christians seeking the glory of God and the good of mankind. So far as Small is concerned these people will be forced to reconsider their verdict. A short time ago a drunkard and gambler, very low down in the scale, he, after professing conversion, buys plate and jewelry for which he is unable to pay and repudiates his debt on a flimsy pretence! He does not, after a long career of profligacy, seek to perform the common duty of laying up a provision for his household, but recklessly buys on credit articles generally ornamental and in the best sense valueless. There is perhaps something to be said on his behalf of the warm Southern temperament, of the recklessness begotten of slavery, of the contempt of pecuniary obligations which makes it difficult to collect debts in Dixie. These pleas might be urged on behalf of a man in the ranks of the church. But when a convert enters the pulpit people look for something higher than this. Small is an educated man, a journalist and lawyer, who for years held good positions, and only lost them in consequence of evil habits. He showed in the pulpit that he knows the difference between right and wrong, how is he to be justified when he grievously errs?

What is the lesson of the day? Is it not that good people should be careful whom they place in their pulpits, whom they fall down and worship, to whom they pay large sums of money for brief services. We do not say that Sam Small is not a better man than he was a year ago, nor that with God's help he may not become a shining light in the church. He is better than when he was a drunkard and a gambler. But we do say that he should be put on probation till he has proved his conversion to be thorough and permanent, and should not be given command of large sums of money, than which to a man of his temperament nothing can be more dangerous. It is not to be denied that good was done by the two Sams during their visit to Toronto. But all "got-up" revivals are evanescent, and the exposure of Sam Small will to a large degree nullify the preaching of both.

The Court of Appeal.

The Court of Appeal sat yesterday at Osgoode Hall to deliver judgments in some fourteen cases previously argued. These, with the exception of three or four in which judgment was delivered at the time of hearing, represent the whole work of this court—the highest in the province—since June last. There are sixty-six cases standing ready for argument at the present time. It must be very discouraging to the judges of this court to reflect that at the "rate of speed" indicated by the result of their labors during the last four months it would take them a year and a half to clear off the present docket, saying nothing about the new appeals which will be set down in the meantime. Some of the cases yet undecided are of three years' standing. It would appear that either a second Court of Appeal is needed, or the introduction of new blood into the present court.

The London Speaker is the funniest paper on our exchange list. The serious unconsciousness with which it says the most excruciating things is enough to make a defeated candidate laugh.

A writer in the Dublin Freeman's Journal has been telling what he don't know about Canada, which is an exercise in which British and Irish writers are exceptionally expert. He says, among other things, that the settlers of Selkirk, Manitoba, have owed their longevity to prohibition of the liquor traffic. Those settlers and their sons were and are, as a rule, temperate men, though not necessarily total abstainers, but if our Dublin authority were to take a dose of the Hudson Bay rum or the more modern and meaner "white man's whisky," to which those people have and always had easy access, he would not know whether he needed the priest or the doctor first, but he would feel that he wanted them both, and wanted them quick.

After twenty-six years co-partnership, in which period they achieved a continental reputation for the products of the Dundas tool works, Messrs. McKechnie and Bertram of Dundas have dissolved, the business being continued by Bertram & Sons. It is thought that should Mr. McKechnie decide to go into business again he may come to Toronto. "All roads lead to Rome," and this city would afford a splendid field for a man of his large experience and fine business abilities.

It is ominous to the Democrats that the Congressional elections already held should have whittled their majority in the lower chamber from about forty down to about fifteen. The Senate is already Republican. With a Republican Senate and a Republican House Mr. Cleveland would be rather in the position of a man trying to drive two pigs in a direction they do not want to go.

About the Quebec situation? Well, Mr. Mercier thinks he ought to get it, and the salary attached.

L'etandard says "Riel and his people are not yet fully avenged." The Scotchman said to his quarrelsome chum: "Weel, if ye maun fecth let's fecth, and gang to oor prayers and oor beds like Christians." If the Rielites have not had enough revenge let them take some more, and "gang to their prayers," for the time may come when it will be necessary for the Lord to have mercy on their souls. Just wait until the Mail gets through "keeping the armor bright," and you will see Waterloo over again.

The French general, Boulanger, has demonstrated his patriotism by swearing off drinking German beer. He believes that if men will get drunk they ought to get patriotically drunk. It was in this mood an Irishman who had imbibed too much Jamieson's Irish whisky exclaimed: "My counthry, how I suffer for you!"

D. M. Van Allen of Chatham has responded to the Mail's Macedonian cry. He extends his distinguished consideration to the esteemed Mail and wishes it "God speed" in its P. P. policy. Among the faithless faithful he. He assures the Mail that though many others have withdrawn their support he will continue to prop up its fortunes while green grass grows and water runs. These sentiments do Mr. Van Allen proud. We have no sympathy for any man who yells "stop my paper" every time an editor ventures to assert that the moon is not made of green cheese. Moreover, the Mail does not mean it. It is simply "trying it on the dog," and its circulation ought not to be destroyed for a little thing like that. Therefore, we felicitate Mr. Van Allen upon his gumption, and we are happy to know that while he continues to read The World—as everybody else does—because of the wit and wisdom displayed every morning by The World's young men, for one cent, he will also continue to take the Mail because the other fellows are stopping it. When we add that Mr. Van Allen describes himself as "an unswerving and consistent Conservative for over forty years," his importance as a new recruit in the Mail's following becomes visible to the naked eye.

The Mail's Opportunity.

Editor World: The cable despatches state that when judgment was given confirming Mr. Sexton in his seat the mob outside wrecked the courthouse. This affords the Mail an opportunity to excel its past efforts in connection with Belfast riots by demonstrating that the mob was composed of Catholics and Home Rulers, who adopted this method of expressing their dissatisfaction with the Parnellite's victory. If Dr. Kane and Mr. Smith were here now they would not fail to do so, and their organ the Mail is bound to assume the duty. CELT.

The Park System.

Editor World: Some months ago you did me the honor of laying before your readers a few remarks on the acquisition of land for parks in and about the city. Since then a committee of citizens, of which Mr. W. B. McMurrich is chairman and Mr. Thomas McCracken secretary, pressed the consideration of an enlarged park scheme upon the attention of the City Council and the Property Committee of that body. No action was taken in consequence of these representations, for two reasons. It was discovered that the vacant land belonging to the city was over 1000 acres in extent, and that as a consequence the power granted by the act of the Legislature last session to acquire 1000 acres to be used as parks, including the territory now in possession, conferred no new powers. A second obstacle in the way of progress was the objection raised by many influential aldermen to a clause of the same act which compelled the council, if they put it in force, to hand over all the property now owned by the city, and that to be acquired, to commissioners appointed by the council on the nomination of the Mayor to whom would be entrusted the right to demand the proceeds of a half mill on the dollar of assessment for yearly expenditures on the purchase and care of the parks.

To a certain extent I sympathize with the aldermen in their objections to this clause. Much of the land now owned by the city is only useable for building purposes and ought not to be handed over to a park commission. The complaint that the School Board and the Public Library Commissioners have the power to call upon the council for large sums of money by which the tax levy is increased and the ire of the ratepayers excited against aldermen, is not so well founded. The School Board are elected by the people and may be defeated if they spend too much money. The Public Library was sustained by popular vote, no movement has been made to abolish it, the amount spent on it is small in itself and utterly insignificant compared with the benefits it confers on the people. If the members of the board are extravagant they can be changed by the appointing powers, all direct representatives of the people. It is the practice in United States cities to appoint park commissioners, and I have never heard of any objection from aldermen or councilmen. Whatever may be said in favor of a committee of the council keeping parks in order after their purchase, it seems clear that the designing of a park system and purchase of the land would be better managed by a commission. There is a great deal of sectionalism in the City Council and also among the electors, as was lately shown in the popular votes on the Don Improvement and Trunk Sewer schemes, and has been the case before in many less important matters. Park Commissioners, if properly chosen, would be men above local jealousy or favoritism, and only anxious to secure fair play for everybody.

I am not an advocate, as many very wise men are, of government of public affairs by commissioners. Experience has convinced me that the means of securing good government in city, province and Dominion are frequent elections of representatives, close and constant observation of their deeds and prompt dismissal where lack of judgment or bad faith is shown. If the City Council should refuse to appoint a Park Commission even to purchase the land I should not despair of good management by a committee of the council. That kind of body is slow in action and demands infinite patience and labor on the part of those interested in the result of its proceedings. But it generally comes to a fairly correct conclusion, as near perfection as poor human nature is capable of, and therefore I respectfully recommend that the act of the Local Legislature which it is proposed to ask next session shall give the council power to acquire a thousand or fifteen hundred acres of park land in addition to what it has at present, and shall leave it in its discretion to appoint a commission or not, as public opinion may direct. J. GORDON BROWN.

Look Out for Your Watches.

From the Electrical Review.

The chances of injury to watches by magnetization have been greatly multiplied by the development of the dynamo and its extensive application to electric lighting and other purposes, so that it is very common to find magnetized watches in the hands of persons having no connection whatever with electrical matters. A watch readily becomes sufficiently magnetized to derange its action and render it entirely unreliable. Proximity to a dynamo is necessary to accomplish it.

The remedy is administered on the homœopathic principle, similia similibus curantur. If the watch is suffering from an attack of magnetism, magnetism must effect the cure. The watch is tested to ascertain in the first place whether it is magnetized and in need of treatment, and afterward to determine whether the treatment was effectual by presenting its different sides to a compass needle, or, better, an ordinary cambric needle magnetized and suspended by a single fibre of silk attached to its centre. The attraction of the needle by the watch is not positive evidence of its magnetization; but if one end of the needle is attracted by one side of the watch and repelled by the other side, it indicates that the watch is magnetic.

Life Is What We Make It.

Let's oftener talk of noble deeds,
And rarer of the bad ones,
And sing about our happy days,
And not about the sad ones.
We were not made to fret and sigh
And when grief sleeps to wake it,
Bright happiness is standing by,
This life is what we make it.

Let's find the sunny side of men,
Or be believers in it;
A light there is in every soul
That takes the pains to win it.
Oh, there is slumbering good in all,
And we perchance may wake it;
Our hands contain the magic wand;
This life is what we make it.

Then here's to those whose loving hearts
Shed light and joy about them!
Thanks be to them for countless gems
We ne'er had known without them.
Oh! this should be a happy world
To all who may partake it!
The fault's our own if it is not—
This life is what we make it.

TWO YEARS IN A TRANCE.

A Remarkable Case of Catalepsy in Western Pennsylvania.

Pittsburg Special to Boston Herald.

The most remarkable case of catalepsy or trance ever known in western Pennsylvania, perhaps, is that of Miss Maggie Reading, an 11-year-old girl living at Banksville, a small mining town about four miles from this city. For over two years she has been in what seems to be a trance. During this time she has had but three lucid intervals, one on last Saturday, lasting for less than a minute, only long enough for her to say: "Please give me a drink." The other two periods were during the early part of her strange sickness. The first one lasted for about two weeks, but the second only a few hours. Over half the time she had passed in a sleep or stupor, from which nothing could arouse her. Two years and two months ago Maggie fell down a flight of stairs, injuring her spine, and four hours afterward she went into convulsions. Gradually her body grew rigid, her breathing became slower and slower, and finally seemed to cease altogether. The beatings of the heart and pulse were so faint that they could barely be detected. She continued in this state for six hours, when her limbs began to relax, her breathing became perceptible, and her eyes opened. But to the surprise of her relatives and attending physician, she did not regain consciousness. Her eyes did not have a dull, vacant look, but seemed fixed on something far above her nearly all the time. She would lie in bed and lift up one arm to its full length, while a strange smile illuminated her features. About four weeks after she surprised those who were sitting around the bed by murmuring the name of a little girl who had died about two weeks before she met with the accident. She did not speak again, but by the motions of her arms indicated that she saw an apparition hovering over her. Her mother, bending over her, asked her if she saw any others there. She seemed to hear and understand the question, and answered it by a strange smile. Mrs. Reading then repeated the names of a number of relatives and friends who had died, and at the utterance of each name the same sweet smile was an affirmative answer. To test her further Mrs. Reading then repeated the names of her children and residents of the little town who she had known were still living, asking her if she could see any of them. She made no sign at the mention of any of these names, her features remaining perfectly impassive. Then the mother spoke the name of an aunt who had died about seven years ago, and the daughter's eyes sparkled, and her features indicated as plainly as words could do, that she saw her. In this condition she has remained for twenty-six months. She sings a great deal, more now than during her earlier illness. Sometimes she seems in transports of ecstacy, and a look of joy and pleasure that cannot be portrayed by words illumes her face. At such times she sings her favorite songs, among which are: "I've Been Washed in the Blood of the Lamb," "Bright Angels are Hovering Near," and one of which the first line is, "Some build their homes on the ever drifting sands." One of the most wonderful features of her strange case is that she now weighs about 125 pounds, only five pounds less than when she was hurt two years ago. In all that time she has tasted nothing but milk, toast and chicken broth, never over four ounces a day, and has even gone for three days at a time without food. Dr. Graham has had charge of the case from the beginning. He says it is the most remarkable trance or state of catalepsy he has ever met in his experience. He does not think the girl will ever recover.

A Flat Contradiction.

—Someone has told you that your catarrh is incurable. It is not so. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure it. It is pleasant to use and it always does its work thoroughly. We have yet to hear of a case in which it did not accomplish a cure when faithfully used. Catarrh is a disease which it is dangerous to neglect. A certain remedy is at your command. Avail yourself of it before the complaint assumes a more serious form. All druggists.

"Only a Tramp."

From the Detroit Free Press.

Only a tramp!

Only a poor, sorrowing, downtrodden human being, waiting to grow wings and fly to a home beyond the skies!

Only a tramp! Only a chap weighing from 130 to 210 pounds, down weight—ragged and greasy old clothes—long hair and dirty neck—heels out to the weather and his pockets clear of cash. The angels look down and pity him—in a pig's eye.

Only a tramp! Only a man whose wife longer refused to bend her back at the washboard to buy him whisky and tobacco, and whose children have grown tired of begging his bread and butter. He has been forced out on the wide, cold world to get his own living, and every human heart must go out to him in sympathy—in a horn!

"Only a tramp!" was the verdict as a stranger was found dead by the roadside. No eye filled with tears—no heart sorrowed over his sad fate. He was only a tramp; the great world would go on the same. Perhaps some grief-stricken mother awaited him in a far-off home, and as night fell she clasped her hands in sorrow and murmured: "Where, oh! where is my Henri to-night?" Just as like as not, but the verdict of the coroner's jury was: "Shot while stealing chickens, and that's what's the matter with her Henri."

"Only a tramp!" they said as they found pieces of an old hat, one boot-heel and three shirt-buttons along the railroad track. The birds sang just the same as before—the sun shone just as fair—the daisies winked at the gurgling brook, and the meadow-lark soared still higher and sent his voice almost to Heaven's gates. Men gathered around the fragments and chewed plug tobacco and talked politics and tried to get up a fight between Jim Daily's bob-tailed pup and old Simons' rat terrier.

"Only a tramp!" suddenly dropped out of this life, and who should care? A thousand miles away a sweet-faced child might be asking: "Will my papa come home to-night?" No, sissy, he won't. While the "sad remains" were being viewed the old man turned up all right in the nearest barn, and was sent to the county jail for three months. He may come a'mother night.

"Only a tramp!" some one whispered, as a group surrounded a dark object lying in the snow on a winter's night. That's all. The wind blew a requiem over the housetops, and the snow-flakes whirled round and round the aged head and nestled among the grizzly locks. What cared the world that a poor old tramp had passed from earth away? Would the bells jingle less merrily on the morrow? Would one home in the great city have one shadow the more for his taking off? And yet, in some vine-clad home beyond the sea a woman about 30 years of age and wearing the newest thing in bangles may cease to caress her poodle and cry out: "Oh! Josephus, my heart pines for thee! Come back to yer Hannee!" But he won't—not this week. The dark object on the snow previously alluded to attempted to rise, fell down with a whoop, and the patrol wagon took him down for a ninety-day sentence. Hannah will have to wait until his term expires.

"Only a tramp!" is the unfeeling exclamation as they pull 'em out of dry goods boxes, from under horse barns and from the middle of old straw-stacks. "Only a tramp!" is the exclamation when they are lynched for rape or murder, and sent to jail for arson and robbery. It is sad—very sad. An association should be formed to weep bitter tears when one of them dies of too much dirty shirt, or falls like a sparrow by the wayside with a broken heart because some one asked him why he didn't earn his living.

—You need not cough all night and disturb your friends; there is no occasion for you running the risk of contracting inflammation of the lungs or consumption, while you can get Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine cures coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs and all throat and chest troubles. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which immediately relieves the throat and lungs from viscid phlegm.

Chronology.

Old gentleman (putting a few questions)—Now, boys—ah—can any of you tell me what commandment Adam broke when he took the forbidden fruit? Small scholar (like a shot)—Please, sir, th' worn't no commandments then, sir!

—Skin diseases cannot be successfully treated by external applications. The proper way to cure such complaints is to purify the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Under the vitalizing influences of this medicine all the functions of the body are brought into healthy action. d

CRIME IN HIGH LIFE.

Many Crimes of the Worst Kind Are at Least Intelligible.

The recent defalcations by men of the highest social standing have not only greatly shocked the public mind, but they have aroused a great deal of reflection upon the probable causes of such conduct in such men, says George William Curtis in the "Editor's Easy Chair" for November. Many crimes of the worst kind are at least intelligible. Eugene Aram murders Clarke for money, like the hero of Dostoievsky's "Le Crime et le Chatiment," of whom we were lately told in the "Editor's Study." Old Mr. White, in Salem, was murdered by men who would gain by his death. There are also crimes of passion, of anger, of jealousy, of revenge, which are all comprehensible in a certain sense. Then there are crimes which are no crimes, as when a starving boy steals a leg of mutton, in which case the moral guilt disappears.

But when a man is not only of comfortable pecuniary condition, but is rich; when he is lapped in luxury and ease; carefully educated and trained in the most refined and exemplary society, in which the mere suspicion of dishonesty is fatal; when neither circumstance nor health nor temperament solicits him to dishonor, and he is perfectly conscious of the unspeakable consequences of his conduct to those whom he loves tenderly; when there is no conceivable temptation or reason or excuse, within or without, no apparent weakness of the moral sense, no hereditary tendency, and the man suddenly proves to be a thief and a swindler, and is so overwhelmed with the discovery of his honesty that he kills himself—what is the explanation?

It would seem that a man of this kind, whose suicide shows that he perfectly comprehends the situation, would certainly avoid it. A dull, ignorant, destitute, desperate bully, or a man mad with passion, neither sees nor regards the consequences of crime. But the man that we suppose not only understands and foresees it, but he knows also the certainty of disclosure; he knows that the kind of crime which is open to him cannot be long concealed; and he knows also that, although when it is revealed, he can shoot himself, yet that he dooms those who are dearest to him not only to a sorrow that is common to all mortals, but to a terrible moral shock, to the destruction of their confidence in human nature. He is not a bad man. He loves deeply and strongly. He can calmly measure and weigh the whole situation, and then commits the crime.

—Hundreds of persons who have used Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value, as a stimulant and tonic, for preventing and curing baldness, cleansing the scalp, and restoring the youthful color to faded and gray hair. d

He Would Be.

From the Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"So you want to be an umpire?" said the manager to the applicant.

"Yes."

"Do you know what a foul ball is?"

"Nop."

"Do you know what a base hit is?"

"Nop."

"Do you know what an earned run is?"

"Nop."

"Do you know anything at all about the game?"

"Nop."

"Then what are your qualifications?"

"Why, I can lick any man in the state that disputes my decisions."

"Consider yourself engaged; you are the very man I am looking for."

—There are cases of consumption so far advanced that Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will not cure, but none so bad that it will not give relief. For coughs, colds and all affections of the throat, lungs and chest, it is a specific which has never been known to fail. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, thereby removing the phlegm, and gives the diseased parts a chance to heal.

A citizen of Seattle, W. T., has this card standing in a newspaper there: "Whereas, I have left my wife and her board; whereas, I have become attached to another and more attractive woman, I hereby give warning to the public that I will in future pay my own bills without any assistance from her whatever."

—At this season of the year it is very necessary to keep a bottle of West's Cough Syrup in the house for sudden colds. Nothing like it. Cures like magic. ed

A North Takoma, W. T., Indian had his first glass of soda water the other day, and liked it so much that he at once proceeded to put nineteen more on top of it. The next day he drank thirty-three more and wanted to keep it up, but the druggist was afraid that he'd explode and stopped the supply.

—Mrs. A. Nelson, Brantford, writes: "I was a sufferer from chronic dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling, which would last for several hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, chemist, of our city, to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results."

Baby Hecter of Trenton, Ohio, who was 20 months old, weighed 35 pounds, measured 33 inches around the chest, 40 at the waist, and 25 around the thigh, is dead. He had always been an apparently healthy child, but died of fatty degeneration of the heart.

—West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, a sure cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, cuts, burns, wounds and bruises. 25c and 50c. All druggists. ed

For fourteen years Thomas Hebden, an old Englishman, lived in a little shanty in Portland, Oregon, apparently very poor. The other day he was found dead, evidently having starved to death. In a box in a corner, carefully concealed, were $1400.

—Mrs. W. J. Lang, Bethany, Ont., writes: I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort, I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, &c., in fact it is our family medicine.

The drug business is beginning to attract young women. One, Miss Sarah A. Troy of New Haven, has just passed a brilliant examination before the Connecticut Pharmaceutical Commission, and is now looking for a clerkship.

—Do not neglect a cold or cough, as it frequently results in consumption. You will find a never-failing remedy in West's Cough Syrup. All druggists. ed

Talking recently to a St. Paul newspaper man, Phil Armour said, speaking of his habits: "I go to bed about 9 o'clock in the evening. Then I get up at 5 o'clock in the morning and take a bath—that's what you ought to do."

The Finding of the Lyre.

There lay upon the ocean's shore
What once a tortoise served to cover.
A year and more, with rush and roar,
The surf had rolled it over.
Had played with it and flung it by.
As wind and weather might decide it,
Then tossed it high, where sand drifts dry
Cheap burial might provide it.

It rested there to bleach or tan,
The rains had soaked, the sun had burned it;
With many a ban the fisherman
Had stumbled o'er and spurned it;
And there the fisher-girl would stay,
Conjecturing with her brother
How in their play the poor estray
Migh serve some use or other.

So there it lay, through wet and dry,
As empty as the last new sonnet,
Till by and by came Mercury,
And having mused upon it,
"Why, here," cried he, "this thing of things
In shape, material and dimension!
Give it but strings, and, lo, it sings,
A wonderful invention!"

So said, so done; the chords he strained,
And, as his fingers o'er them hovered,
The shell disdained a soul had gained,
The lyre had been discovered.
O empty world that round us lies,
Dead shell, of soul and thought forsaken,
Brought we but eyes like Mercury's,
In thee what songs should waken!

—James Russell Lowell.

Journalism in Australia.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

A Queensland journalist tells in a Sydney paper how the press in his locality is worked. He is sub-editor, compositor, war correspondent, and looks after the dog fights. The weekly sermon and the sporting intelligence sometimes get mixed, as in this way: "He said, 'Saddle me the ass,' and they saddled him; and he finally came in a good first, beating Ben Bolton the post by a neck." The editor's disregard for linen has alienated the support of the auctioneer and the chemist and "the rest of the aristocracy." The leading article "commences invariably with a vicious attack on Prince Bismarck" and ends with an anecdote about the sagacity of dogs. There is one article which has been in type for two years. It was originally written attacking Mr. Gladstone, and it has been used weekly ever since with the proper name altered. The paper supports "Lord Salisbury, the Australian eleven, the deepening of the town well, and the opening of hotels on Sunday."

In Honor of Fair France.

Before her lucky mirror stood
Sweet May with shoulders bare,
She looked as fair as maiden could—
A rose without compare.
Blue were her eyes, her lips so red,
Her brow so dazzling white.
No anchorite but would have said
She was a lovely sight.
"Blue, red and white," I whispered low.
She turned and caught my glance.
"The tricolor I wear, you know,
In honor of fair France."

OTTAWA COLLEGE WINS.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY DEFEATED BY 12 POINTS TO 1.

The Final Tie to be Played at Ottawa on Saturday Between Toronto and the College—Racing at Washington—The Shropshire Handicap.

The vicissitudes attending the playing-off of the semi-final match of the Ontario Union have been many and varied. The onus of coming to Toronto was thrown on the Ottawa College men and twice it was decided for them that they could not come, but at the last moment the faculty relented and the team reached Toronto on Wednesday night. The day was again a perfect one and the Rosedale ground was admirably adapted for the match, the strong palings keeping the excited throng of 'Varsity men off the field of play. Familiarity with these players has taught the Toronto footballists many lessons in the art of football. One or two things which were picked up concerning the individuals are worthy of repetition. There were three captains on the Ottawa team: O'Malley, the present captain, Riley, an ex-captain, and McCarthy also an ex-captain. McCarthy was brought from Prescott to engage in this game. Riley makes his appearance yearly at Ottawa College, traveling all the way from Boston to help his old comrades in their contests. Ottawa College has never been beaten, so it is said; and in the preceding sentences may be read the secret of their success.

There is no doubt that the Ottawa College team, as it stood in the field yesterday, was superior in every way to the team which opposed them. And take any number of matches, barring flukes, they would win them all against the University team. The strong points of the winning team appear to be as follows: The ball is never held for an instant, a player when tackled letting the bladder drop to mother earth, where one of his fellows, all of whom follow him closely, continues the progress of the sphere. In throwing-out of touch the Ottawas have a trick of receiving the ball and passing it very quickly to the quarter-back, who, whilst the forwards form a solid barrier, punts the bladder up the field. The moment the ball is kicked the line breaks up like magic and the players rush after it. The third point is the strong defence game which they play when the bladder is close to their goal. The forwards form up instanter and getting their heads low generally commence work before their opponents and get the better of the scrimmage. They have a habit which should be frowned down: that is of falling on their knees when they begin to lose ground. Their backs are all very proficient punters and in yesterday's match there was hardly a mull made by them whilst there were many very successful punts.

No runs were made which were worthy of comment by either team, but the kicking of the Ottawa men was their most successful method of gaining ground on their opponents. Not that the punting was so successful of itself, but the celerity with which the forwards followed up the kick made the punt worth something. Mustard's play at back was exceedingly poor, and the 'Varsity suffered materially by his nervousness, which was generated by his two bad mistakes early in the game. The University players played pluckily, but their back ruined their chances of success. Ferguson shone amongst the forwards by one or two brilliant short-distance dashes. In tackling the 'Varsity men are very well up, but when the ball is kicked or punted over their heads they have little chance of exercising this good quality.

Once only did the 'Varsity try the passing game for which they were celebrated but Smith chucked too low for Senkler to take easily whilst under way, and he was tackled before getting any length. In the second half the 'Varsity had the better of the game, but it seemed to be only at sufferance, the Ottawa men having obtained their points in the first apparently rested content with playing a strong defensive game. During the first half the University team crossed the half-way line but once. And then only for a few minutes.

Ottawa had the kick-off and played towards the southern goal. Before ten minutes had elapsed an Ottawa forward received the sphere when it was thrown out from touch, turned sharply, threw to O'Malley who punted over goal line. Mustard received it, kicked it low and striking an Ottawa forward it bounded back into goal and O'Malley was on it like a flash. Four points only resulted. It was taken out again and scrimmages were in order. Thrice the Ottawa men were brought back for picking the bladder out of the scrimmage. J. H. Senkler got a free kick, but Smith foolishly snatched the ball from him and was tackled immediately. Mustard returned a punt of O'Malley's and Riley made a fair catch. Two rouges in favor of Ottawa were next on the list. O'Malley next got across the goal line and four points were got without the option of a try at goal. Two more rouges also in favor of Ottawa completed the Ottawa total of 12 points to nil. Half-time was then called. But one more point was got before the close of the match. Some dribbling and kicking helped McClean to get the bladder behind the Ottawa goal-line, but in the chase he was left behind and a rouge was got. The game thus closed with the score 12 points to 1 in favor of Ottawa College.

Toronto and Ottawa College are now scheduled to meet in Ottawa on Saturday for the Provincial championship. The teams were:

Ottawa College: Back, Jas. Murphy; half-backs, McCarthy and Riley; quarter-backs, O'Malley and Guillet; forwards, Mahoney, McDonald, Kavanagh, Gascon, Sullivan, McLaughlin, McConly, Bannon, Hillman. Umpire, J. C. White (Ottawa F.B.C.)

Toronto University: Back, Mustard; half-backs, J. H. Senkler and F. Mill; quarter-backs, G. B. McClean and E. C. Senkler; forwards, W. B. Nesbitt, E. A. Sullivan, N. McDowall, W. Cross, J. S. MacLean (captain), E. G. Rykert, H. MacLaren, D. Ferguson, A. G. Smith and A. H. O'Brien. Umpire, E. W. H. Blake.

Referee, F. Carey (Toronto F.B.C.) Time, an hour and a half.

Racing at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—This was the second day of the extra meeting of the National Jockey Club. First race, one mile—Herbert won, Bonnie Prince second; time 1.43½. Second race, 7 furlongs—Pericles won, Ferg Kyle second, Biggonnette third; time 1.29½. Third race, a mile and a sixteenth—Gonfalon won, Irish Pat second, Barnum third; time 1.50½. Fourth race, 1¼ miles—Ten Strike won, Mamie Hogan second, Error third; time 1.56. Fifth race, 6 furlongs—Telie Doe won, Jim Douglas second, Mamie Hunt third; time 1.18½.

The Great Shropshire Handicap.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Great Shropshire Handicap was run to-day at Shrewsbury, and was won by Sanctuary by a neck, Lord Capell's bay colt Argo being second and Lady Ciker's bay filly The Dream third. Gen. Owen Williams' brown horse Cohort also started.

General Notes.

Lucky Baldwin has refused an offer of $30,000 for Volante.

No players have yet been signed by the Hamilton Baseball Club.

John L. Sullivan and Patsy Cardiff have signed articles for a six-round glove fight at Minneapolis on Jan. 10.

Manager Chapman has engaged Lehain, Farming of the Nassau Club and Galligan of Portland for his Buffalo Club.

It is understood that the clever and genial George Sterling, who has so long been identified with baseball in Hamilton, is about to take up his residence in Toronto.

It has been arranged that the Toronto-Ontario draw shall be played off on Saturday, the 13th, and that the following Saturday, the 20th, if the Torontos win, they shall play the Montrealers for the championship.

The Dwyers' crack 3-year-old, Inspector B., winner of nearly $40,000 this year, is being wintered at Clay & Woodford's Runnymede Farm, near Paris, Ky. He is not yet a confirmed cripple, and may be a good, serviceable horse another season.

C. F. Emery of the Forest City Farm, Cleveland, has bought of A. D. Merrill, Tilsonburg, Ont., a half interest in the bay stallion Patron, 4 yrs., by Pancoast, dam Beatrice, by Cuyler, with a 2-year-old record of 2.19½. The price was $12,500, and Patron's future home will be in Cleveland, where he will remain the coming winter. He will be put on the track next season to go through the circuit and try to lower his record. But for the bad weather and track he would have been sent to lower Mamanila's 4-year-old record of 2.16 this week.

THE ROUNDER'S REVEL.

The Palmy Days of the Hotel Runners—Gossip About Town.

When the construction of the great Canadian Pacific Railway was starting towns all along its route at short intervals; erecting huge elevators on the northern shores of Lake Superior, leaving the bones of many an employe behind in its track, as its belt of steel encircled this Canada of ours from ocean to ocean, the hotel porters in Toronto were stowing away their little piles in their "dips."

In the days I speak of, all the way from two to four years ago, the hotels which cluster around Union Station did a great business with railway navvies, and the porters made big money. When the news got around that a train load of navvies was coming down from the north shore, the hotel man would have all the cots laid out in attic and hall; his whisky barrel carefully primed; oysters and fluid beef laid in in large quantities and the combination of his safe altered so that no one could get there but himself.

The porter would prepare for the navvy by going up town and arranging with the clothing man for his commission on all sales he might influence; he would make a similar arrangement with a shoemaker and a hatter, then he would jump on a train and go as far as Orangeville to meet the steamboat express from the Sound. (I have known a hotel porter make $100 in a week from commissions received in this way.) Between Orangeville and Toronto he would have his men picked out, their grip sacks carefully piled together, and their heads chock full of the fun awaiting them in the Queen City, after their months or perhaps years of toil, breaking the sod of the western prairies, felling trees in the slope of the Rocky Mountains, or blasting rocks at Jack Fish Bay.

I have often watched the steamboat express steam into Union Station and the stream of laboring men, hotel porters and hangers-on make tracks for the hotels. Then would ye landlords appear at their best, as all smiles they would lead the way to the bar, and to at once proclaim themselves as the princes of jolly good fellows, they would call on the new comers, the guests of the house, to have a drink all round. The ball being thus started running would be kept up as long as the navvy's money lasted, which would not be very long.

A number of laborers who claimed Norway as their birth place were among a batch I saw given quarters in a hotel. They could not speak English, and were given a room in which to have an orgie. I had several peeps into the apartment after all hands were uproariously drunk, and I think if I were a hotel keeper I would need money very badly indeed before I would give accommodation to that class of guests. However, they were kept while their money lasted, when they were fired and the portion of the house they occupied fumigated.

After the departure of the navvy the hotelman and the porter would be flush till the arrival of another car load. Hackmen too, of the lower order, used to make lots of money out of the navvy. Some of them were so greedy that, not satisfied with charging exorbitant rates, they would get their victim helplessly drunk, rob him and then throw him out in the street. For this some hack-drivers are now doing terms in the penitentiary. The feelings of these unfortunate toilers when they found themselves robbed of their hard earnings, with no means left of returning to work, can better be imagined than described.

Yet I have seen the same men return to the city to spend their money in riotous living three times in two years, and perhaps spend $300 every visit. They do not do that now to such an alarming extent as formerly, for the simple reason that they do not make so much money as during the halcyon days of the Canadian Pacific construction. In this regard, what holds good in Toronto holds good elsewhere. Hard-earned money is generally the most quickly spent. At least I have always found it so.

Now, take the Town of Port Arthur. Three or four years ago every other business place was a saloon or a hotel. The money of the railway laborer flowed like water. Storekeeper, saloonkeeper, magistrate, constable, everyone, enjoyed prosperity on the hard-earned money of the navvy. In Port Arthur, as here, among the hotels which encouraged their patronage there is a blank which the construction of another railway or some great public work alone can supply.

I was talking to the widow of an old pensioner the other day and she was awful mad at Ald. Baxter for being so severe on the old "sojers" who got drunk on pension day and were pulled before the beak. "Indade, then," said she, "I don't think Mr. Baxsther should say he would fine thim heavy every time they were brought before him. I don't think much of him for sayin' that same, so I don't. Shure it's the only bit of pleashure they hev when they meet on pensbun day and have a glass. Now, although my poor man, that's dead and gone, never give the likes of Baxsther a chance to fine him, I always lik d to see pensbun day come and see the old cronies meet and hear them talk over old times."

The woman was mad at Mr. Baxter, and I don't think that the votes and influences of the pensioners in the West End will ever again be used to aid in his re-election. The alderman is always boasting of the British Empire, how its unity must be maintained at all hazards; he delights in singing "Rule Britannia" and other truly loyal and patriotic ballads, yet he must impose the highest fine for drinking on poor old pensioners, who in days gone by have done so much on flood and field to uphold the honor of the heavy-weight alderman's cherished hold Hingland. I don't know whether Colonel Denison fines old pensioners or not, but I never heard of him boasting he would give it to them for all he was worth as Alderman Baxter did. He evidently don't believe in giving the old men a chance.

Mr. Peter Ryan has, I understand, called at the Orange Sentinel office to see the writs issued against tenants on the Parnell-Armagh property just a year ago. These writs were furnished by Mr. Geo. Hill Smith. Mr. Ryan, after an inspection of them, said they were all issued by John Howard Parnell, and have nothing to do with his brother Charles Stewart Parnell at all. The Loyalists here say that at the time the writs were issued Charles Stewart Parnell was acting as his brother's agent and that he is equally responsible with his brother. However, they can fight it out between them.

I had a letter the other day from a person signing himself "A Disappointed Teacher," in which he says that although his name appeared on the printed report of the Public School Board Night School Committee for a headmastership, it was afterwards erased and the name of a Dominion Government employe substituted. He says the latter has a good salary, and can get along without teaching school—for which he is totally unfit—while "Disappointed Teacher" has hard work making both ends meet. Perhaps some trustee will bob up serenely and explain. I can't.

I am informed that the name of Ald Piper has not been off the City Council order paper for the past two years. The representative from the Noble Ward figures there as mover of a motion to bring in a bill to give firemen the right of way over the streets of the city. It still stands, and is about the only item not cleared off the order paper at the last meeting of the City Council. It has been a "fat take" for the city printer.

I went down to the Yonge-street dock a day or two ago and had it not been that the Island ferries were made fast to the slips, and their gangway entrances battened up, I might easily have imagined that I was about to enjoy a sail over to Mead's or Hanlan's. The air was warm as in July, sail and row boats dotted the bay all over, a broken-backed looking propeller was steaming towards Hamilton emitting thick streams of water from big air holes in her stern just above the water line; a proud-looking stone hooker from Port Credit stood up for one of the docks with all sails set and the crew of two, including the cook, manning the yards. Yes, everything the past few days looked like summer at the Yonge-street slip, even to the dead dog floating peacefully yet bloatedly along its bosom awaiting a strong gale from the north to drive it and the sewage away out in the lake, where it will no longer offend the nostrils of our citizens.

ROUNDER.

HON. OLIVER MOWAT'S CRITICS.

What the Two Presbyterian Papers Say of His Pastoral Letter to Rev. Mr. Milligan.

From the Presbyterian Review.

We are in no way responsible for the use that the party press has made of the facts we brought to light. It is inevitable, we suppose, that the political opponents of Mr. Mowat should try if possible to turn the Central Prison difficulty to his disadvantage, but we unhesitatingly affirm that we did not in our feeling of indignation against submission to Roman Catholic pressure as it appeared to us, care to consider the effect upon either party.

But how does Mr. Mowat meet these charges? He expressly or tacitly admits them all. Let us briefly examine his statements. 1. The Review urged that the whole trouble in the Central Prison arose from Roman Catholic interference. Mr. Mowat says: "I have no doubt the agitation against the Warden was raised by Roman Catholics." But he adds: "They were unfriendly to the Government." With this we have nothing to do. It is news to us that Roman Catholic priests are either Conservative or Liberal when the interests of their Church are involved. They have no politics. Their only party is the Roman Catholic Church. For that party they work with a zeal that no Protestant, Conservative or Liberal can hope to emulate. It is simply absurd to talk of Roman Catholic priests working for party as their ultimate object. And no man is more painfully conscious of that fact than Mr. Mowat himself.

2. The Review stated that the immediate cause of the trouble was the refusal of Mr. Massie to accede to an insolent demand of the priests that he should prevent Roman Catholic prisoners from attending the Protestant Sunday school. Mr. Mowat says he "does not remember hearing of this before reading Mr. McLeod's letter," and that "the matter was not brought to the attention of the Government by either party." That does not controvert our statement. Our statement is correct; and we challenge either Mr. Mowat or Mr. Massie to deny it.

But what Mr. Massie refused to concede to the insolent demands of the priests they obtained in another way. With many apologies and references to inspectors' reports and the action of the commission, Mr. Mowat admits—and we can scarcely transcribe the words with patience—that "the commission expressly recommended that Catholics and Protestants be compelled to go to their own service and be prevented from going to any other unless with the written consent of the clergyman of whom they are in charge." Fancy a Roman Catholic priest giving consent to one of his people to attend a Protestant service! And this binding of men's consciences, this odious tyranny, the Government acceded to and Mr. Mowat defends. This is how Mr. Mowat resists Roman Catholic aggression, and answers the Review: "I think that, on the whole, the rule thus stated is a good one."

3. The Review stated that the Central Prison investigation was urged by the Roman Catholics in the hope that Mr. Massie would be convicted of something that would be a cause for his removal. Mr. Mowat admits that Archbishop Lynch requested an investigation. "I had two short interviews—I do not recollect more—with the Archbishop. . . In the first of my two interviews with His Grace he expressed a wish that I should personally examine into the charges."

4. The Review also stated that the personnel of the commission was changed to please the Catholics upon the protest of the priesthood. Mr. Mowat denies that there was any "protest," but admits that in his second interview with the Archbishop he consented. "I mentioned to him my notion of appointing two commissioners only; both were Protestants. The Archbishop made no protest, but suggested that the commission would give greater confidence to some of his people, and any report they might make would be more generally acquiesced in if I should add the names of some Roman Catholic gentlemen, anyone I should myself select." Accordingly he selected Mr. O'Sullivan—the Archbishop's legal adviser, the man who has recently received, it is said, a handsome sum for writing a History of England for our schools containing such an account of the reformation that the Education Department would not dare to print it.

But the events subsequent to the investigation and our statements regarding them as well as Mr. Mowat's reply to them, we must, owing to lack of space, defer to another issue.

In the meantime it may be noted that Mr. Mowat has failed to refer, even indirectly, to the most obvious example of Roman Catholic aggression in this province, Archbishop Lynch's insidious attacks upon our public school system, as first plainly seen in the Marmion business, and more recently in his effort to get the Protestant Bible out of our schools. The efforts to get control of the Central Prison are bad enough, but they sink into utter insignificance when compared with the attacks on the Protestantism of our school system.

We need hardly assure Mr. Mowat that we shall not fail to express our firm belief that from this direction Protestantism has been attacked and is in danger; and that we shall continue to resist Roman Catholic encroachments, perfectly indifferent whether our action tends to unmake or make governments.

From the Canada Presbyterian.

The letter of the Hon. Oliver Mowat, addressed to the Rev. Mr. Milligan, and published in Saturday's Globe, will be admired by many outside the party to which the honorable gentleman belongs. It is fair, candid and gentlemanly throughout, and whilst it exposes with merciless logic the plot that was laid to make political capital out of the Massie affair, there is not a word in the letter that savors of personal or political bitterness. The iron hand with which the veteran Premier holds up some of his assailants to the scorn of all honest and truthful men is covered with a silken glove. Let any fair man read Mr. Mowat's letter, and read the productions of some of his assailants, and then candidly ask himself whether the chancery lawyer and party politician does not show much more of the spirit of a Christian gentleman than was shown by some of these assailants. The bitterness, the malignity, the coarseness of some of his assailants contrasts strongly with the calm, fair and Christian tone of the Ontario Premier. It is quite true that the Premier informs some of these assailants that their statements are untrue; but then no other word would bring out the quality of the statements. Mr. Mowat might have used a much harsher word, but he could not use a milder one and state the facts. The lawyer and party politician has certainly shown the people of Canada that truth, honor and justice are much more likely to be found in the Attorney-General's office than in some places that make higher claims to sanctity.

The Hon. Mr. Mowat meets the particular charge that the Government of which he is the head connived in any way at the removal of Mr. Massie, and the general charge that his Government truckles to Roman Catholics, with an open, manly, emphatic denial. He simply declares that the charges are false, and that those who make them state that which is untrue, and proceeds patiently and calmly to narrate unreservedly the whole history of the Central Prison troubles. Nine-tenths of the people of Ontario, without respect of party, will believe the Premier in preference to his assailants. Not one of those who have tried to injure Mr. Mowat would dare to stand up before any audience of respectable men, Conservative or Liberal, and publicly state that the Premier of Ontario made an untrue statement. Every decent man in Ontario, Tory or Liberal, believes that Oliver Mowat is a true man. Of course, Mr. Mowat's denial will be met with the usual amount of shuffling. "We did not mean this, and we did not say that, and we did not charge the other," and all the ignoble arts used in a certain quarter for promoting "the spirituality of the church." Sensible people will not be deceived by such shuffling. Tories as well as Liberals believe that Oliver Mowat is a man of truth and honor, and his statements will be taken by every body as giving the real facts of the case.

ST. BASIL'S BAZAAR.

A Flowery Fair For the Benefit of the Church on Clover Hill.

Gaily draped booths, filled with all kinds of useful and ornamental articles, flowers, candies and more solid eatables, have effected quite a transformation in the old Hay store at King and Jordan streets, where last night the ladies of St. Basil's Church opened what promises to be a successful fancy fair in aid of the building fund of the church. The smaller booths are on the ground floor, while above are the refreshment rooms and concert hall. The place is lighted by electricity, and with its booths, music by Seager's Orchestra, and dozens of pretty girls wearing mob caps, be-ribboned and be-flowered; it is worth while visiting. The ladies insist, however, that the visitor brings all his spare cash with him. The fair will last till the end of next week, and on every evening, commencing to-morrow, there will be a concert. A good repast can be had there, and every day from 12 to 3 the admission will be free. The ladies in charge of the various tables are: Mrs. Frank Smith and Miss Mary Cooper, fancy tables; Mrs. Wm. Ryan, refreshment table; Mrs. James Mason, lottery; Mrs. John Mason, doll table; Miss Stuart, Sodality table; Miss Nellie Stuart, confectionary and flowers; Mrs. Doane, useful articles. Each of these has a large staff of assistants.

New Officers of the St. Andrew's Society.

The society ball in the Pavilion on St. Andrew's Day was reported as likely to be the most successful ever held. No tickets will be sold, but they can be procured on application. The officers for next year will be: President, A. J. Cattanach; First Vice-President, D. R. Wilkie; Second Vice-President, Dr. Daniel Clark; Chaplains, Rev. D. J. Macdonnell and G. M. Milligan; Treasurer, J. C. Gilmour; Secretary, Dr. George Kennedy; Managers, Messrs. Gibbs, Swan, and Keith; Physicians, Drs. Thorburn and Ross; Marshals, Messrs.
