RUSSIA

Tremendous Oper-

 in Austria.

Little News Comes From Conflict in France To-day.

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 24.—Virtually no new information has reached London this morning concerning the progress of events in the western arena, but from the east comes news which here is taken to show that Russia has almost completed the first stage of what may be considered in its entirety the most colossal operation ever undertaken by a military power.
 The fall of the Austrian fortress of Jaroslau virtually completes the investment of Przemysl, so far as lines of communication are concerned. Even the continued occupation of Cracow by Austrian and German forces has not aided in that junction of Austrian and German armies which is necessary to keep Russia from overrunning Galicia and pushing the armies of Austria back to the ridge of the Carpathians. By her conquests in Galicia, Russia now controls the greatest supply of gasoline in Europe. This product is of the utmost importance to Russia because of her necessity for motor transport.

The Russian movement is now described as a huge wedge, the right line of which extends roughly from Libau on the Baltic along the railroad line to Warsaw. The Russian general, Renssenkampff, is guarding this line. It protects the Russian sources of supply and prevents any further movement against the Russian army of attack, which already, according to reports, has been beginning to operate in the direction of Posen and Breslau, in Germany.
 The left of this line rests on Warsaw, from which point railroads tap the rich and populous district extending to Odessa. The occupation of Galicia links up the Warsaw railroad system, and is regarded in London as insuring both supplies and reinforcements for the attacking army.

That the stage is virtually set for this attack is indicated by the news that the Germans are hastily reinforcing their line between Thorn and Kalisz, this latter point being southeast of Posen, even to the extent of abandoning their positions against General Ren-senkampff. Not only has the Russians cut off Austria's domestic supply of gasoline, but the news from Roumania that the exposition of coal to Austria has been forbidden may be followed, it is held here, by a similar measure with regard to gasoline. This would virtually deprive Austria and her ally of this very necessary product for their automobile transport and aerial service. With all the necessary motor transport together with absolute command of her few railroads, which are no longer threatened by invaders, English observers expect Russia to continue to move with that rapidity which has in the past amazed military experts. It had been predicted that on account of her lack of railroad facilities Russia would take six months to get as many men into the field as she has already stationed along the line of this great wedge in two months time.

Combined Montegrin and Servians are said this morning to be in occupation of the entire south east section of Bosnia and Herzegovina, confirmation has been received from Russian sources of the report that a Russian cruiser has destroyed a German cruiser and two torpedo boats in the Baltic.

The British public this morning is expressing elation at the feat of British airmen in having dropped bombs on Zeppelin airships near Cologne, and confidence is growing that Great Britain is better protected than hitherto by her fleet of aeroplanes and an aerial assault by Germany.

800 HOUSES DESTROYED CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 24.— Eight hundred houses in the Jewish quarters of Haakeui, on the Golden Horn, were destroyed by fire last night. Three thousand Jews are homeless and in great distress. The authorities are distributing bread among the stricken ones.

To-morrow will be Patriotic night at all the Brantford Theatres and liberal percentage of the receipts are to go to the Patriotic Fund. Good programs are promised by the managers of all the theatres and the attendance should be large. Patronize your favorite theatre to-morrow night and help raise that $100,000.

Germany Made
 A Great Mistake

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—A London cable to the Tribune says:
 "Germany made a mistake about India as it did about Ireland, and those who count on India to be false to England will come a cropper."
 In these words His Highness the Aga Khan, recognized temporal leader over sixty millions of Indian Mahometans, summed up the Indian Empire's status in the world's war. The Aga Khan has directed the Khoja Moslems, who alone number several millions,

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 24.—The Allies have advanced considerably along their western wing, occupying the town of Peronne, despite desperate resistance, according to the official announcement of the French War Department this afternoon. At the eastern end of the battle line in France there has been heavy fighting on the river Meuse, the Allies alternately advancing and retreating.
 The following official announcement was made in Paris this afternoon:
 "In the region of Nancy and in the Vosges, certain detachments of the enemy have again attempted to enter upon French soil, driving back light covering bodies of our troops, but their offensive was soon stopped."
 "In Galicia the Russians, having taken possession of Jaroslau, are completely investing Przem-yska, and continuing their offensive movement on Cracow."

Shallow Excuses
 No Good Now

That many of the workers in the campaign are meeting instances of personal prejudice against contributing is admitted at headquarters. When the matter is simmered down, it seems that there are those willing to shelter themselves behind paltry excuses to escape giving. One of the most inexcusable forms of antagonism displayed, is the charge that from various sources to keep them practically in luxury. When investigation is made in these cases, it is found that the families in question are getting enough only for the bare necessities of life. The use of the fund, when it is collected, will be in the hands of every one who contributes.
 Each will have a voice in its disposal, and the money now being distributed will be merged with the patriotic fund. There will be no overlapping. Cases for charity will not be treated twice through different organizations, but through one, and that only after careful investigation has been made. The wives and dependents of soldiers will be effectively provided for, while those suffering from unemployment will be look-

$31,622 Raised by Noon To-day

The mid-day meeting of the campaign workers resulted in the moving of the clock hands to $31,- 000, for the amount now suitably scribbled is a little beyond that amount. The teams in the field collected over $6,000, while the executive gathered $10,000, and the work had not been received by some with as kindly a spirit as could have been wished, and while some gave liberally, others did not give as expected. With the present.

The teams and their subscriptions are as follows:
 1, $473; 2, $613; 3, $682; 4, $575; 5, $495; 6, $236; 7, $632; 8, $1,273; 9, $776; 10, $271.

Speaking briefly before the collection had been announced, W.
 F. Cockshead said that he knew
 the work had not been received
 some gave liberally, others did not give as expected. With the present.

German Wounded
 Would Have

Feeling of French at Rescue Was Very Bitter.

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 24.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Rheims, under date of Monday, gives a story by the Abbe Camu of the terrible scenes in the cathedral when it was first set on fire.
 "It was all over in an hour.
 There were two separate fires. We put the first out with four buckets of water, all we had in the place, but soon the flames shot through the roof, and the wind drove the flames along the rafters in the nave. We rushed up again but it was flaming all along, and as we could do nothing we hurried down."
 "There are holes in the ceiling of the nave and sparks began to fall through them on to a great heap of straw, ten feet high and twenty yards long, the Germans had piled up the north side. We tried to catch the sparks in the hands as they fell, and such of the German wounded as were able to walk, helped us. But the fire blazed. There was no time to think of nothing but getting out the wounded. They screamed horribly as they were carried those that could not walk while others dragged themselves painfully along to the side door in the north aisle. Those who could not get out, and arms were helped their comrades. We got out all except thirteen whose bodies lie lifeless in the nave."
 "When at last I came out of the flaming building I found the whole body of wounded huddled together in the courtyard. The Germans were a furiously hostile crowd of civilians of the town and a number of soldiers with their bayonets fixed to their rifles. I sprang forward. "What are you doing?" I cried.
 "They shall all burn," shouted the soldiers in answer. "They shall go back and burn with the cathedral, or we will shoot them here."
 "You are mad!" I exclaimed in reply. "Think of what this means.
 All the world will hear of the crime the Germans have committed here, and if you shoot these men they will be shot and everywhere France has been as criminal as her turn. Anyhow," I said, "I will shoot me first, for I will not move."
 "Unwillingly the soldiers lowered their rifles, and I turned to six German officers who were among the wounded and asked if they would obey me and do everything I told them to. They said they would, and I asked them to tell their men to do the same.
 Then I made them up in a solid body, those who could walk unaided helping those who could not. I put myself at the head, and we set off to the hospital, which is only a few hundred yards away."
 "Well, the people were mad with grief. You have never seen anything so dreadful, as that group of men, the Germans and the British and some of them they got down."
 "Can't you help me?" I called to a French officer I caught sight of.
 "You will never get to the hospital like this," he replied as I forced my wounded through the gateway of a private house, and we managed to close the gates after us."
 "They had been roughly handled, some of them, and they stayed there a day and a night before we got them to the hospital."

ADMIRALTY ADMITS THAT SHELL HIT BOAT CONTAINING WOUNDED

A Sequel to the Fight Off Heligoland When British Ships at Work of Rescue Were Fired Upon by the Enemy.

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 24.—The British Admiralty has issued a formal reply to the statement given publicly by the German minister at Copenhagen to the effect that British officers fired on drowning German sailors after the naval engagement off Heligoland, and that a British shell was thrown into a lifeboat containing German survivors of this fight.
 The Admiralty admits the charge that the shell was thrown but explains the circumstances as follows:
 "Every effort was made to save life until a German cruiser of the Goeben class appeared on the scene and opened a heavy fire on the British destroyers and their small boats. The destroyers were forced to retire in order to avoid destruction. The Coshawk removed her men from her boat, leaving it to German mariners, nearly all of whom were wounded. It is to be regretted that a bluejacket of the forecabin of the Coshawk, who was on duty at the time, was killed by the German cruiser, and the conduct of the German cruiser, which could not possibly be ascertained, was such as to have caused the death of the bluejacket. This is the incident referred to by the German minister at Copenhagen. It cannot be said that the act was done under considerable provocation, and it was surely a trivial offense compared to that of the German cruiser which fired many shots at the boats of the British destroyers while they were engaged in humane and chivalrous action."
 "Dealing with the rescue by the British submarine No. 4 of the occupants of two boats which the destroyer Defender had been obliged to abandon under heavy fire, the Admiralty says:
 "After covering the retreat of the destroyer, the submarine returned to the boats and removed the British officers and men and three Germans. The submarine might well have taken another German officer and six unbounded men prisoners, but as the two boats contained 18 very badly wounded Germans, he humanely left the German officer and the six men who were not hurt to care for them and navigate the boats. Before leaving the submarine saw that these boats were provided with water and biscuits and a compass, and it gave the German officers their position and the course to Heligoland. The officers and men of the Destroyer Defender stripped themselves of everything but their clothing, and tearing up their clothing to serve as bandages for the wounded Germans."
 Regarding the allegations that Germans fired at German sailors who were in the water, the Admiralty says there are many British naval officers and men who actually saw officers of the German cruisers Mainz and Koenigs Luise fire at their own men in the water, presumably because they were of the opinion that they were deserting their posts. There are many men in our hospitals, the Admiralty continues, whose wounds testify to the accuracy of the German officers' fire. Out of 350 men saved from the Mainz, about 150 were picked up swimming in the water. The remaining 200 could not be induced to jump overboard. They were taken off by a destroyer which laid alongside just before the Mainz went down.

WAR SUMMARY

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
 Further successes of the armies of the allies which are attempting to turn the German right wing are claimed in an official announcement issued at Paris this afternoon.
 It is stated that the allies' western wing has advanced considerably against General Von Kluck, capturing the town of Peronne, and that the German right wing has been broken through. The position of Peronne indicates the movement of the allies' left wing which is much farther north than their main battle line.
 The turning movement of the France-British forces first directed against General Von Kluck, in an effort to envelop his army, appears from unofficial despatches to have met wide resistance from strong German reinforcements.
 The Paris announcement says that there has been heavy fighting on the river Meuse at the eastern end of the battle line, where the allies have alternately advanced and retired.
 Up to early afternoon, official announcements had been received from Berlin. The latest German official advice stated that the Germans were breaking through the allies' center.
 It is officially stated at Tokio that the British north China forces which will co-operate with the Japanese in the attack on Kiao Chow, have landed at Laoshan Bay. The troops sailed from Tien-Tsin ostensibly for Wei-Hei-Wei, but landed at Laoshan, neutral territory in China, presumably to avoid complications with China.
 Cettine announces that the Montenegrins defeated the Austrians, capturing Pratzho, a town near Sarajevo, the capital of the Austrian province of Bosnia.
 An official communication issued at Petrograd says that following the capture of Jaroslau in Galicia, the Russian cavalry is pursuing the Austrians rear guard inflicting heavy losses.
 There is considerable doubt as to the exact situation in the eastern theatre of war as the reports from Petrograd, Vienna and Berlin persistently conflict.
 A despatch from Petrograd to a Paris paper says that the Germans who drove the Russian invaders from East Prussia, have in turn been defeated and are evacuating East Prussia to reinforce the line from Thorn to west Prussia, to Kalisz, in Russian Poland.
 A despatch from Paris says that among the prisoners recently arriving at Paris, is a general of the staff of General Von Kluck, whose army has borne the brunt of the allies' turning movement on the western end of the battle line.

GERMANS FIGHTING

Allies are Driving Von Kluck Back
 by Slow Degrees.

Enemy is Making Strong Attack in Centre of Line.

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 24.—The formidable force the Germans threw against the allies left is still flinch-ing, according to the official communication, under the relent-ing blows of the France-English battering ram. Even the famous guards, as in the battle of the Marne, are unable to stand. The pressure and are giving a little more ground every day.
 The diversion in Lorraine having proven ineffectual, the Germans are now making a fierce drive in Woerwe district, north east of Verdun. The object no doubt is to cut off the army operating around Nancy, but the Germans already had tried to make an opening between Verdun and Toul, besieging Troyon at the same time. It is doubtful that they will succeed any better this time than they did in the former attempt. Nevertheless the manoeuvr consists a grave menace to the allies who are resisting desperately. That the Germans are losing heavily on their right is also attested by the constant arrival here of prisoners, and wounded. Early this morning, many autos were seen with wounded, both Germans and allies, passing through the streets, but some of those were convalescents returning from the seashore and rejoining their corps.
 The steady progress of the allied left is confirmed here. This morning's press is unanimous that the battle of the Marne cannot last much longer. The retirement of the German right must entail a weakening of the centre.
STERN WORK AHEAD
LONDON, Sept. 24.—Interest in the fighting so far centres in the Woerwe, says the correspondent of the Times, where the enemy is making a serious effort to pierce the line of forts linking Verdun and Toul.
 "To the north east of Verdun," the correspondent continues, "east of the Meuse heights and in the direction of Mouilly and Satch-pierre, their furious attempts have failed. In the south of Woer-we they have line positions running through Richecourt, Satch-pierre and Larocelle. The general situation remains unchanged."
 "On the left and center the allies have the best of reasons for confidence in the result of the battle. Let there be no mistake, the enemy is going to give serious trouble along the line where, with striking recuperative power, they managed to gather their routed hordes, fleeing from the battle of the Marne.
 "A week has elapsed since it first became clear that, although forced to abandon successive positions prepared for defense, the enemy had found to the north of the Aisne, north-north-west, positions, formidably prepared fortified positions upon which they might hope to maintain themselves for many days while their troops were recovering from the retreat and while the fire of victory among the allies was burning out.
 "To the rear of these works the heavy artillery is placed in position and from its fire such places as Soissons and Rheims have suffered great damage."
 "Most of the work on this line was finished while the battle of the Marne was still in progress, the allies did their best to prevent its completion and there has been some desperate fighting a report from Amsterdam that the trial of the alleged assassins of

Exit Prince William of Wied

The German princeling forced upon the newly freed Albanians by the Austro-German alliance, after shivering on his precarious throne for a few short months, with not one gallant soldierly action to redeem his memory, has fled never to return. It is probably significant that his flight was directed to Rome, in the neutral kingdom of Italy, where neither of the two Kaisers, sponsors for his new position, could get at him. There was nothing about his tenure of a royal position which would be likely to reflect credit upon his former standing in the German army, and Kaiser William, at least, is not usually friendly to failures.

Prink Bib Doda to Rescue
The comic saga of Prink Bib Doda's dash to the head of the Maree of Albania is told by Mr. Jack Heaton Armstrong, whose brother, Captain Armstrong, is Prince Williams's private secretary. Mr. Armstrong has just returned to England from Albania.

Prink Bib Doda, the Midite chief with the nursery rhyme name, set out from Alessio at the head of 3,000 men to the relief of Prince William. Mr. Heaton Armstrong, a debonair monied young Englishman, accompanied the expedition as commander-in-chief of the artillery section. This consisted of one Austrian mountain gun, and was easily the most effective part of the force.

HON. J. S. HENDRIE NEXT LIEUT.-GOVERNOR

Now Regarded as Assured Hamilton Member Will Accept Position

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—Hon. J. S. Hendrie, Minister without Portfolio in the Ontario Government, is to be Ontario's new Lieutenant-Governor, in succession to Sir John Gibson, according to statements made here today. For some time past Col. Hendrie's name has been mentioned as a possibility, and within the last few days it was authoritatively reported that the Ontario Minister had been offered the post of honor. This business was generally intimated at the time, but within the past few days, it is understood, Hon. Mr. Hendrie has agreed to become the next representative in Ontario of his Majesty.

It is not regarded as probable that the Dominion Government would increase its allowance of $40,000 to the Lieutenant-Governor. It is admitted that maintaining the princely home Ontario has built for its Governor will prove a heavy tax upon the private fortune of its occupant, but an increase in the Federal appropriation would mean that similar treatment would have to be accorded all the other provinces.

The proposal was to raise the Ontario allowance to $20,000.

COMMITTED SUICIDE
VENICE, Sept. 24.—Guido Fusinato, a member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies and formerly under secretary for foreign affairs, committed suicide here yesterday. While visiting friends he shot himself in the heart with a revolver and died soon afterwards. Illness is given as the reason for his act.

HARTFORD
[From Our Own Correspondent]
Those from here who attended London Fair were: G. Swift, H. A. Peterling, Sol. VanLoon, F. Nelson, Lloyd and Ross Courtnage.

WHOLE ARMY TO PREPARING FOR A REPEAT

This Week Should See a Decisive Change in the Situation.

"This week should see a decisive change in the situation, and, unless I am very much mistaken a further great movement to the rear by the whole German army."

RHEIMS, Sept. 24.—The regiments of the French army that I have seen are in excellent shape in spite of the tremendous marches and battles of the last six weeks, extending as they have done from north of the Belgian frontier to south of the Seine, and now half way back again. The men are weary, it is true, and all have had war enough and long for it to be over. I am giving away no secret when I state that this is true, and it does no detract in any way from the whole-hearted determination of every living Frenchman to carry it through to a successful conclusion, until they have obtained lasting peace. All are perfectly prepared to meet the death sacrifice which may be demanded of them.

I venture to say that the Germans are feeling the strain, and long more than the allies. In every respect the French favorably compare the German prisoners and wounded I have seen, who are terribly emaciated and half starved. French armies it must have been infinitely more difficult to keep the German army supplied so far away from a country already traversed by half a million men.

The whole north of France has been swept almost bare of supplies and the inhabitants are feeling the pinch, bread, for instance, being in places quite unobtainable.

The British army has been attacked over and over again without yielding an inch of ground, but is sustaining the severe losses which are only to be expected under the conditions of modern warfare. Everywhere the Germans are employing heavy artillery, which seems to show that for the moment they are also comparatively safe in the new positions. They also hang on to the neighborhood of Rheims with remarkable pertinacity.

It seems to me that the army of the north of that town, which lying in a hollow, itself possesses a military value, they are es- tablished troops in the high ground around Burgoyne, between the Canal de Laisse and the Marne, and actually recaptured the position of Briemont yesterday. It is here that they have established batteries of heavy howitzers and bombard the town.

For the last three days neither side has made any real progress in the centre. It has rained incessantly and the fields and all the roads except the main one, are little more than quagmires. This renders it extremely difficult to manoeuvre the artillery, and maybe the Germans are putting up the bluff of resuming the offensive in order to give time for the roads to dry so that they can safely retire their heavy artillery and transports. If they could be got on the run now it is difficult to see how the heavy artillery could escape capture if they were vigorously pursued.

It would seem as if this army is pivoting on the heights north of Rheims in order to give time for the roads to dry, which is being gradually pushed back from the line of the Oise, to retire and then to make a dash for the north.

One the Germans shortly may be obliged to abandon their whole position. In any case, it is unlikely that General Joffre will risk a frontal attack, when by gradually reinforcing his left wing he will be able to manoeuvre the enemy out of his entrenched positions and force him back towards the Ardennes. This week should see a decisive change in the situation and unless I am very much mistaken, a further great movement to the rear by the German army. It may be that they are holding on to the neighborhood of Rheims in order to give time to the troops in the plains of the Marne between Rheims and Argonne to retire. The French claim that they have made some progress and have retaken several villages in this quarter.

THE SITUATION.

The naval disaster to the British, for such it was, although only three ships were destroyed, has led some people to exclaim, "Why don't they get at them?" Well, up to date the British fleet has done remarkably well, thank you. They have not only kept the trade routes clear, but in addition Johnny Bull has been able to call to pour troops from all over into France.

The main portion of the Kaiser's ships are in the Kiel canal, which runs entirely through German territory. There are heavy fortifications at both ends and along the banks, and without any question other contrivances such as human devilry can devise. Submarines are unable to get in because of heavy wiring, and so on. The one thing the Germans desire is to have the British fleet attempt to get in at them, for they know that in the open they would be outclassed.

On land the news may be regarded as satisfactory. The Allies are pushing back the right wing of the German army, and it looks as if the main body will have to fall back for several miles in order to avert a disaster.

THE READY BRITAIN

Under the above heading, the Chicago "Economist," which has the biggest circulation of any financial paper in the United States, says editorially:—

"The achievements of the British government during the present war are the greatest piece of executive work in all history.

"At the opening of the European war Great Britain had no army." It was conceded by the critics of that country that it had some ships in various parts of the world and that possibly it would fare moderately well in a naval conflict with some other power having half the number of vessels to show up against it, but the poor little island was no good so far as its troops were concerned. No numbers, no discipline, no arms, and a rebellion of Ulsterites on its hands. Well-informed Germans knew better, and they shivered a little when they heard that 'perfidious Albion' was going into the fray. But how were they to get across that seackening body of water called the English channel? And how could the little island with its dependencies all over the world ready to break forth into a rebellion dare to engage a really strong power? Great Britain had not for a hundred years fought single-handed with a foe of its own rank, and it came near being whipped by those ignorant children of the soil, the Boers. What a pitiable condition for this ancient monarchy!

"Presently the world became conscious of a strange feeling along its nerves. Then there are dark rumors of 'Arabs' found on the battlefields of Belgium and France. Then mysterious reports of the arrival of troops at Vancouver. Shortly after the little giant lying alongside the seackening channel confessed that it had brought some troops from far-off India. They came in the night, and during those five days required for transit from Vancouver to Montreal it appears to have been night all the time, for nobody saw any troops. To run 215 trainloads of human beings, unseen, 300 miles across a country in which there is a considerable population and through every town where the local loafer always goes to see the tars come in—is there anybody else that could do that? We shall next hear that Great Britain has exploded a thousand tons of dynamite under Berlin without making any noise. Sly dog, the Britisher.

"They touched a button and men came from Australia, another and a lot of Canadians moved joyously across the Atlantic, they brought words of cheer from the tip end of the dark continent and probably a lot of things material and militant. But deepest and darkest of all, thought of by nobody but these dull-witted English, was the transportation of Russians north in waters cold and wet, west past the land of the Midnight Sun, south to the seackening channel and east to the shores of Belgium and France. No, they cannot deny it, they have been caught at it. Many people have seen these Russian soldiers. You must believe this miracle.

"Then they have punctuated various points in Africa and islands of the sea with their devilish war machines, driving their enemies away, and they have so cleared the oceans that any man can go boating there, provided he does not fly the flag of any enemy of the Briton.

"Transcending all these things is the appeal to the British heart which has brought its hundreds of thousands from palace, shop and hotel. Not a word of compulsion, not a conscription, not the cut of a whip across the face of a subject who hesitates, but only a finger pointing to the enemy. "Was there ever such a spectacle as Caesar's glory dimmed, Alexander's horde was a band of robbers by comparison, and Napoleon may well shade his eyes as he looks out over this splendid performance.

"Yes, there is a lesson for us Americans. Unity, readiness, purpose, skill that comes of study, and a substantial character like the British."

KEEP UP THE MOMENTUM

One of those pessimistic individuals who are going about talking war-time depression was overheard to say: "Rather than lose money in my business I shall cease spending money on development. I may not make any money during the war—but by getting economy in the conduct of my affairs I shall at least avoid losing any."

And then he mentioned advertising as one of the things he would do without, until the war is over.

Without going into the merits of his general policy of retrenchment, let us see what happens when such a man stops advertising. Advertising is the most effective when continuous. Its main purpose is to set up a momentum of reputation, prestige, and good-will, that later on creates sales.

So, if a manufacturer fails to keep up his advertising to-day—if he lets the momentum of his business-creating campaign cease—where will his sales be three months or a year hence? What of his business when the war is over? What will it cost him to set the wheels in motion again? If we believe, and experience compels us to believe, that advertising builds reputation, prestige, good-will—what utter folly to stop the process of that reputation building, just because there's a war in Europe?

HOSIERY TRADE HELPED.

The war has not resulted in any falling off of business or curtailment of manufacture in the Mercury Mills, Hamilton where hosiery and underwear are made. On the contrary, there has been a material increase in sorting orders, and a similar increase in the orders for next season's goods is expected. Night and day shifts are being employed and the prospects for their continued employment are bright.

The Mercury Mills in common with other Canadian hosiery manufacturers, are being benefited by the shutting off of imports from Germany and Austria into Canada. During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, the imports of hosiery from Germany to Canada were valued at upwards of half a million dollars. Austria-Hungary also secured a share of the Canadian hosiery trade. The hosiery manufacturers of Canada have now an opportunity of securing this trade that formerly went to Germany and Austria-Hungary.

There is likely to be another opportunity for the extension of the business of Canadian hosiery manufacturers as a result of a curtailment of imports of hosiery from the United States into Canada. There have been heavy importations of hosiery into the United States from Germany. These importations being cut off by the war, the hosiery manufacturers of the United States will have a greatly increased demand in their home market, and this is likely to result in a reduction in exports of hosiery from the United States to Canada.

DEADLY BRITISH RIFLE FIRE.

An account of a fight between British and Germans at the battle of Mons is given by an English sergeant in a letter to his brother: "Well, we know now what it is like to be in a battle. It came to us unexpectedly at a time when we had given up hope of seeing any Germans. The first inkling we had of it was just after reveille, when our cavalry pickets fell back and reported the presence of the enemy in strength on our front and left. In a few minutes we were all at our posts, without the slightest confusion, and as we lay down in the trenches our artillery opened on the beggars in fine style. It was a fine sight to see the shells speeding through the air on their way to pay out respects to Kaiser Bill and his men. Soon they returned the compliment, but they were a long time about finding anything approaching the range.

tillery began dropping shells around them. Then an officer gave an order, and they broke into open formation, rushing like mad towards the trenches on our left.

"Some of our men continued the volley firing but a few of the crack shots were told off to indulge in independent firing for the benefit of the Germans. That is a trick taught us by Brother Boer, and our Germans did not like it at all. They fell back in confusion, and then lay down wherever cover was available. We gave them no rest, and soon they were on the move again, in flight. Then came more furious shelling of our trenches, and after that another mad rush across the open on our front. This time they were strongly supported by cavalry, who suffered terribly, but came right up to our lines. We received them in the good old way, the front ranks with the bayonet and the rear ranks keeping up an incessant fire on them. After a hard tussle they retired hastily, and just as they thought themselves safe our mounted men swooped down on them, cutting them right and left. This sort of thing went on through the whole day without bringing the front ranks to shifting us. After the last attack we lay down in our clothes to sleep as best we could, but long before sunrise were called out to be told that we had got to abandon our position. Nobody knew why we had to go, but like good soldiers we obeyed without a murmur. The enemy's cavalry, evidently misunderstanding our action, came down on us again in force, but our men behaved very well, and they gave it up as a bad job. Their losses must have been terrible. Little mounds of dead were to be seen all along the line of their advance to the attack, and in the retreat we picked off their cavalry by the score."

Advertising is the most effective when continuous. Its main purpose is to set up a momentum of reputation, prestige, and good-will, that later on creates sales.

So, if a manufacturer fails to keep up his advertising to-day—if he lets the momentum of his business-creating campaign cease—where will his sales be three months or a year hence? What of his business when the war is over? What will it cost him to set the wheels in motion again? If we believe, and experience compels us to believe, that advertising builds reputation, prestige, good-will—what utter folly to stop the process of that reputation building, just because there's a war in Europe?

Press Comment

British Does It. (Pittsburg Gazette.) Anybody can get a square meal in Paris just now by donning a British flag and dropping his h's.

Unanimous. (Toronto Mail and Empire.) "God save Ireland!" Will Crooks, and "God save England!" answered John Redmond. And so say we all.

About Home Rule.

What has happened with respect to Home Rule is this: The original bill, providing for a self-governing parliament for the whole of Ireland, goes upon the Statute Book once parliament prorogues; but by supplementary legislation it does not become operative for another year, or until the end of the war. In the interval it is hoped that a solution of the difficulty, satisfactory to both parties will be reached; and this will be embodied in the amending Bill. Before the time comes for dealing with such a measure, Ulstermen and Irish Nationalists will fight side by side in the fields of Europe and will seal their loyalty to the common cause of the Empire with their blood. The old jealousies and hatreds will have merged in a common patriotism, making it relatively easy to adjust any divergencies of opinion about Home Rule which may survive the war.

A Compliment to Germans.

Lord Aylmer suggests that German prisoners taken in the war be sent to Canada and encouraged to settle there. No higher compliment was ever more unconsciously paid by foe to foe than this!

The Next Contingent.

Enlistment for the second Canadian contingent is being started too soon. And after that is gone it will be necessary to continue enlisting in order that the Canadian divisions at the front may be maintained at strength. In the first contingent too small a proportion of the volunteers are native born Canadians. It is to be hoped that no one will be able to say this of the second contingent.

GERMANS FLINCH

along the Aisne. Gallant rushes have been made toward the trenches and fierce hand to hand struggles have taken place upon the top of the Craonne plateau, the side of which rises like a cliff against the allies.

"Attack and counter attacks succeeded one another while the enemy's army has been seeking an opening or a weak link in the chain of forts between Toul and Verdun.

"The allies on their part have been progressing slowly upon the enemy's right, pushing up a wedge into the center between Rheims and Argonne. There has already been enough fighting to constitute half a dozen battles, but only the preliminary stages of the big struggle have been reached. The railways on both sides are massing troops along the front, the Germans coming from Louvain, the British from the whole Empire, and the French from the south and west.

"Meanwhile the siege operations continued. The deceptive lull which preceded the battle of Liao-Yang has fallen upon the field. The situation remains unchanged in order that preparations may be made.

and they know, too, that England were driven out of India, Germany, should she be successful in this war, would step in. The thinking element among the Indians realize that our country, divided as it is into hundreds of principalities, each inclined to be jealous of the others, could not hope to stand alone, even if British rule were withdrawn.

A Murder in 1870 Avenged in 1914

An exceedingly sad story comes from the front. During the Franco-German war of 1870 the Germans, by their invasion of Alsace, spread untold miseries among the villagers whose property they claimed. A certain well-to-do farmer named Hauff became so much enraged by the plunder of his well-stocked farm that he shot dead two German soldiers. He was immediately taken outside his house and executed. His wife begged for his life. She afterwards found their little boy crying on the dead body of his father. "Mother," the child said, "when I grow up I shall avenge father and shoot Germans." The widow, finding further abode stand against the German army, as they have never before been permitted to fight white men" was asked.

"I think so," the Aga Khan replied, with a quiet smile. "If need be, there can be 700,000 or 7,000,000 men. That would not be a great number to offer from our 320,000,000 population. No, despite effusions from Wilhelmstrasse, you may rest assured there is not the slightest doubt of India's loyalty to England." Offers of assistance from the many states of India continue to pour in.

His wife begged for his life. She afterwards found their little boy crying on the dead body of his father. "Mother," the child said, "when I grow up I shall avenge father and shoot Germans." The widow, finding further abode in Alsace under German rule unbearable, emigrated to Belgium, and settled near Vise, where she took another farm.

Three Generations Exterminated. Her boy became a man, the father of a family, including two boys, and for forty-two years his mother shared with him and her grandsons happy family life at Vise. Then came the present war, and two weeks ago the German troops arrived in Vise. The Belgian inhabitants had just before destroyed a bridge over the Meuse. For this they were severely punished by destruction of their houses. Farmer Hauff witnessed these outrages, and beside himself with distress, and remembering his promise over his father's body, shot one German invader dead. At once a number of soldiers seized him and dragged also from his house his two sons.

All three were placed against a wall and summarily executed. It was thus the fate of the poor widow to see her husband, her son, and her two grandsons shot before her eyes.

VIRGINIA GONE "DRY."

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 24.—While complete returns from the state-wide prohibition election still are lacking, figures received show that the voters annulled Virginia in the "dry" column by a majority of more than 32-834. The result of the election means that on and after Nov. 1, 1916, Virginia will be "dry." The general assembly which meets in regular session in January of that year will enact laws to govern the state under prohibition.

PAY NO RENT.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The conditions of the moratorium provide that proprietors cannot force tenants to pay rent. This applies to all people regardless of nationality and many German and Austrian tenants are profiting as a consequence. A movement is on foot to induce the government to modify this decree before the quarter beginning October 8 so that tenants who are citizens of nations which are at war with France will have to pay or vacate their houses.

CRUISERS STEAMED OUT.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—In a despatch from Athens, the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says he has learned from a diplomatic source that the German cruisers, Goeben and Breslau, which took refuge in Turkish waters shortly after the outbreak of the war, steamed out of the Sea of Marmora on Monday of this week, and returned to the Bosphorus yesterday.

Patrick J. Welsh of Chicago was arrested at the wooden race track for having in his possession Bank of Montreal bills stolen from New Westminster, B.C., in the celebrated robbery of two years ago.

Two Coating Specials. 54-inch Plaid Coating, "REVERSIBLE" for the new military capes, which are very much TO THE FRONT at the present. Shown in quite a number of different style plaids. $2.95. 56-inch Curl Cloth Coating, beautiful bright surface and an extra fine quality cloth. Colors are Betweave, Alice, Mahogany, Navy, Cerise, Tan, Brown, Tete de Nigre, Duck Green, Black, White. Yard $2.25.

The New Coats. This season's coats are very different from those of last year, which were short, loose and floppy. The chief features of THE NEW COATS are semi-fitting lines, sleeves set into a rather deep arm-hole, and instead of three-quarter lengths, seven-eighths or full length are being shown. The leading styles are divided into cape coats, reding cotes, basque coats and tunic coats. It would be difficult to say which is the most popular. The different material used in the New Coats are so varied that the writer does not designate any special cloth as the leader. An inspection will convince you that the stock shown is beautiful and the prices are popular, ranging from $8.95 to $15.

A number of residents upon Murray street were awakened from their slumbers last night by sound of a commotion in the air and several rushed to the windows in time to see an aeroplane sweeping away with a hum of engines. AERIAL RAID
 WAS MANAGED BY REAL HERO

C. H. Collet Had Only Been in the Service for One Year.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 24.—C. H. Collet, the hero of the aerial raid into Germany, is a lieutenant of the Royal Marine Artillery. He took to flying a year ago, and soon proved himself a remarkably fine pilot. Lieut. Collet was the first to show what a competent pilot could do with a heavy bi-plane which the Admiralty bought in Leipzig last year.

Early this year Collet had this biplane fitted for a long non-stop flight, the passenger space being fitted with an enormous petrol tank. Thus equipped he flew from Plymouth to Grimsby, about 275 miles, then alighting through a faulty engine. It was his original intention to fly to the north of Scotland.

Later Lieut. Collet looped-the-loop in a Caudron biplane, and was the first of the army aviators to perform this feat. He has great staying powers, fine hands and a good eye, and was thus eminently suited for the raid on Dusseldorf.

Report That Our Troops Are On Way

[By Special Wire to the Courier] ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 24.—The announcement that 32,000 Canadian volunteers "had gone a day or two ago to the front" was made by the Minister of Labor, Hon. T. W. Crothers, at this morning's session of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress here. Mr. Crothers paid a warm tribute to the patriotic spirit of the Canadian volunteers. He also expressed pleasure at the settlement of labor disputes on the outbreak of the war. Not a single conciliation board was in session in Canada to-day, as to food prices in war-time, he said the department was investigating retail prices in 57 points in Canada. If it were true, as said yesterday, that a Truro (N.S.) dealer had charged twelve dollars for a barrel of flour he could be severely punished.

 ent unsettled state of the stock market this could not be wondered at, as no man knew what he was worth. There were, however, brilliant exceptions. The man to whom the speaker went, not daring to suggest even two hundred dollars, exclaimed: "I am in this for all I am worth," and thereupon he handed out one thousand dollars. If all gave as he did, there was little doubt that all the money would be on hand to-night. We should make this our part of the war. We were not all available for the trenches and therefore those at home should do their part and give liberally. It was only a poor way at the best of showing our patriotic spirit, but still it was the best possible for those left at home. We must see that those dependent upon our soldiers were well cared for and this was our duty, and to which we must attend.

Mayor Spence gave an instance of an alleged deserter giving liberally to the funds and he said who are Britishers, should not allow a man of any other nationality to skin them out upon their patriotic fund and it was the duty of all to go their full share of contributing. He hoped that all would stretch the point a little and reconsider the amount of their subscriptions. He for one was willing to stretch the elastic around the purse a little further. It was the duty of all team men all that we could do, but little on the face of the great need. Thanking them in anticipation for a further effort, the Mayor took his seat.

Lloyd Harris, making a few brief announcements, said that to-morrow would be the heaviest day of the campaign and therefore he asked all to put forth their most strenuous efforts. To-morrow night the theatres would hold a theatre night and he asked all men to see to it that the city theatres were well patronized. Mr. Goodwin made a striking appeal to the workers and emphasized the remarks of the Mayor. He laid stress upon the fact that they reconsider their subscriptions and it was necessary that every worker put his subscription and not hold back, as that was one of the most convincing argu-

Bourassa Got Real Rebuff

[By Special Wire to the Courier] MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—An attempt was made this afternoon to expel Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, from the Canadian club at a banquet held in the Windsor hotel, at which the Belgian delegation to President Wilson were present. A resolution calling for Mr. Bourassa's expulsion was tendered, but the chairman, Dean Adams, would not accept it as it was out of order.

The resolution follows: "That this club regrets to feel that the spirit which prompted it to extend the honor of its membership to Henri Bourassa, one of the most eloquent of our French-Canadian orators, does not seem to have been either understood or appreciated by him, and that the club now feels in justice to those of our French and English fellow members who believe in a united Canada and who are loyally giving their time, their money and their lives in the service of their King and country, that the treasurer should return to Mr. Bourassa his fee, expressing the hope that he will live long enough to realize what it means to be a true patriot and honored citizen."

The motion was cheered loudly by both French and English members.

Because Mr. Bourassa had been given no opportunity to reply to the motion, and because no notice of it had been given, Dean Adams asked that the matter be referred to the executive, which was agreed to.

From Falmouth the Red Cross will go to Brest to land two units for the French army, and from Brest to Rotterdam, where the forces assigned to Germany and Austria will be landed.

A QUEBEC REGIMENT.
 MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—A retired French-Canadian medical man, whose name is withheld, has promised $50,000 towards the cost of equipping a French-Canadian regiment for war service. A delegation of French-Canadians is being organized to wait on the Prime Minister in his office in Ottawa on Friday, when Sir Robert Borden's co-operation in raising the regiment will be requested. The movement to raise the force is being heartily supported by all provincial papers.

THE RIVAL ARTILLERY

A Campaign of the Arms of the Opposing Armies

The British army is using a gun of 3.3 inches calibre. It throws a shrapnel weighing 18.48 pounds which is filled with 354 bullets. This shrapnel has a bursting charge to explode it at any given point and the bullets continue on in the same general direction. About twenty rounds a minute can be fired, so that in a minute one of its guns can scatter 7,381 steel bullets. The muzzle velocity of this gun is 1,580 feet a second. The timber carries twenty-four rounds, the wagon timber carries twenty-eight rounds and the number of rounds carried for each gun is 312, against 178 for a British gun.

The French artillery is using a 75 calibre gun, or, in plain English, one of 2.95 inches calibre. The shrapnel weighs 15.95 pounds, which contains 800 bullets. The muzzle velocity is 1,730 feet a second. There are four guns in a battery and twelve wagons, and the number of rounds carried for each gun is 312, against 178 for a British gun.

The German gun is using a 2.95 inch calibre, the shrapnel weighs 15 pounds and contains 390 bullets, the same as the French, but sixty-four less than the British. The muzzle velocity of this gun is 1,520 feet a second, which is much less than that of the French. The gun itself weighs 728 pounds, against 1,090 pounds for the British and French guns. The gun and wagon of the German gun carries 126 rounds. Six guns and six wagons form a battery. The Russian field artillery consists of a gun of 3 inches calibre and the shrapnel of this shrapnel is reported to be 14.41 pounds, but these figures are thought to be somewhat under the weight. Each shrapnel holds 260 bullets and the muzzle velocity is 1,670 feet per second. The shrapnel weighs 14.2 pounds, and there are 168 rounds carried for each gun.

It can be seen that with these field guns firing so quickly it is impossible to carry ammunition that will last long. The batteries dash into the fight, get into operation quickly and then, unless an ammunition train arrives to keep them going, lumber up and dash out of the fighting zone after they have ended their firing.

To-morrow will be Patriotic night at all the Brantford Theatres and a liberal percentage of the receipts are to go to the Patriotic Fund. Good programs are promised. The attendance should be large. Patronize your favorite theatre to-morrow night and help raise that $100,000.

SURVIVORS TRANSFERRED.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 23, by London, Sept. 24.—Queen Wilhelmina today inspected the troops along the border of leaving yesterday and returning to-day. Two hundred and sixty-six survivors of the British cruisers in the North Sea were transferred to Rotterdam. Sixteen were landed near Laoshan, China, yesterday. It is expected that the Anglo-Japanese attack on the first line of the Taitung defences will begin to-morrow or Saturday.

STRAY CRUISER BOMBARDS PORT MADRAS, INDIA

The Emden Did Some Damage but only Three Were Killed.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] CALCUTTA, India, Sept. 24.—The papers publish an official despatch stating that the German cruiser Emden, while passing Madras, fired a few shells, but that the damage to the city was slight.

Madras is a seaport of British India, the seat of government and headquarters of the Madras army. It is the third seaport of India, ranking after Bombay and Calcutta.

DAMAGE WAS SLIGHT

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A Madras despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company, dated Wednesday, describes the attack of the German cruiser Emden on that port.

The German cruiser Emden appeared off Madras Tuesday evening and shelled the city. Two oil tanks were set alight and are still burning. The telegraph office and some houses on our harbor were also hit, but the damage generally is slight.

"On our guns replying, the cruiser ceased firing and disappeared. The only engagement lasted fifteen minutes. There was little or no excitement, and only three Indians were killed."

WILL TRY TO SECURE THE LEONARD GIFT

War Has Revealed the Need of Training Officers for the Army.

KINGSTON, Sept. 24.—There is a possibility of another attempt being made to secure for Queen's University the Leonard Gift. The university stood the donation is still open. Other colleges are casting envious eyes at the offer. There are many who believe the Leonard Gift is the best that the present war has clearly demonstrated the need for trained army officers. This work of equipping and developing officers could be very satisfactorily done at the university, and while young men are full of enthusiasm and vigor.

GENERALS KILLED

German Commander Who Faced Liege Among the Casualties.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] BERLIN, Sept. 24.—via The Hague and London.—The German General Staff referring to the death of Lieut-General Steinhilber, says he was killed by a fragment of shrapnel striking his singular vein. General Steinhilber directed the fire of the 42 centimetre pieces during the sieges of Liege, Namur and Antwerp. Later he was in command of a division of infantry.

Continuing the staff says that the Rev. Martin Hohobon, captain of a reserve division, was killed by a shell after carrying many wounded men out of the range of fire of the French artillery.

The well-known German point-er Arthur Schlubeck, now serving as a lieutenant of Hussars, was wounded by a piece of shrapnel while fighting on the River Aisne. He has been given the Iron Cross.

Can't Interne Our Sailors

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 24.—In a despatch from Amsterdam, the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company, says that the following semi-official statement has been received there from The Hague.

The international agreements, according to which there can be no internment of the rescued British sailors, were framed at the peace conference of 1907. Generally speaking, the rescued British sailors were framed at the peace conference of 1907. Generally speaking, the rescued British sailors were framed at the peace conference of 1907.

RUSSIAN SWEEP CONTINUES WITH GREAT SUCCESS

Cavalry is Pursuing the Enemy Inflicting Heavy Losses.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] PETROGRAD, Sept. 24.—via Paris. An official communication issued by the general staff today says:

"On September 21, the Russian troops took by storm the fortifications of Jaroslavl, on the right bank of the Volga. They took twenty cannon even though the enemy offered heavy resistance and blew up the bridge over the San. Two days ago the Russians had occupied Starostomast, Przeworak and Jangut. To the north and west of Jaroslavl? The Russian cavalry is pursuing the retreating Austrian rear-guard and inflicting heavy losses, although the Austrians destroyed many bridges."

"Every day the number of prisoners and wounded increases. The demoralization of the army is shown by the pillaging and panicky retreat. Prisoners unanimously assert that a majority of their officers are killed or missing, and that the soldiers feel the loss keenly."

"The newly formed Russian regiments have covered themselves with glory, fighting side by side with the veterans."

CANNOT JOIN FORCES

LONDON, Sept. 24.—All possibility of the Austro-German forces near Przemysl effecting a junction with the other armies further west has now been excluded, as the Russians have reached the River Wislok, says a despatch from Petrograd to The Morning Post. The message continues:

"To the south of Przemysl, the Russian operations are now being directed towards the capture of Khyruv, a junction station 20 miles south of Przemysl, which will completely cut off the Austrians last Galician fortifications from the railway communication in any direction and give the Russian command of all routes towards Cracow and the lines passing into Hungary."

ITALY FEARS AUSTRIAN PLANS

[By Special Wire to the Courier] ROME, Sept. 24.—The Messagero publishes a telegram from Udine, Venetia, saying that Austria is trying to deceive Rome by denying that she has armaments along the Italian frontier.

The line from Pontalve to Lavis, says the despatch, "is strongly fortified, as is also the line between Tarvis and Raibal, especially Pradie Pass. All the valleys along the Carnice Alps, leading from Austria into Italy, from Cervignano to Mount Paralba, are occupied by a large number of troops. Posts have been destroyed wherever necessary to give artillery full play, and roads and paths have been constructed and solid entrenchments erected."

"The authorities have explained to the population that these preparations have not been made against Italy, but against a possible attempt by Italian volunteers to invade Austria."
