THE MASTION.

UNDER this heading, we had prepared an article of which the first paragraph only, calling the attention of our readers to the Election Cards of Means. Palmer and Longworth could be inserted, so much space having been dedicated to other matters. We were the less anxious as to this matter, as the well-writte the iess aggioes as to this matter, as the well-written letter of our intelligent friend Mr. Smith more than supplied the west of any remarks from us. There is, by the way, a typographical error in his letter, which appears to have remained uncorrected. The word "disthe way, a typographical error in his letter, which appears to have remained uncorrected. The word "disposition" is put for the word "despotism" in the following paragraph: Mr. Smith says, "Who is there that does not feel that there is no despotism like that of the mob, —no tyranny like that of its leaders?" True, Mr. Smith; most true! and we are hardly sorry that the error has occarred, since in pointing it out it gives occasion to impress the truth more strongly on the minds of our readers. All despotism is inherently and inevitably selfish; the gratification of its own desires occupies its every thought, and taxes all its energies. But the exertion of the despotic will is attended by very different results. The lefty, scaring, and elevated, though stern despotism of Mappleon, was productive of the most beneficial counculation, was productive of the most beneficial counculations to the Trench people. Like Alexander, he aimed at universal empire; and though his floatetops, wherever he tred, left their impress marked with blood, he had incorporated the destinies of France with those of his own; and while cornectly bent upon acquiring glory for himself, storve to render his empire, in everything that tends to elevate one aution above another, the greatest that over existed, alther

School Act.

As the subject of Education will undoubtedly engage the attention of the House at an early period of the session, we shall give the matter our most serious consideration, and the different suggestions of our correspondents shall be duly attended to, as well as recognized. There is no time so proper for bringing forward amendments, as when the subject is under consideration of the Legislature; they are then allowed their due weight;—if published before that period, especially in the heat and bustle consequent on the eve of a contested election, they stand a fair chance of being unnoticed. Both readers and correspondents may rest assured that every pains will be taken, on our part, to—if possible—render the present School Act what it ought to be; and if that should be impossible, to substitute a new one. sible, to substitute a new one.

To the People of Prince Edward Island. Fellow countrymen,—In the conclusion of our last letter, we observed, that the objection against, the suppression of the Liquor Traffic the loss which it occasions the Revenue, is more our last letter, we observed, that the objection against, the suppression of the Liquor Traffic the loss which it occasions the Revenue, is more specious than real. This, we proceed now to substantiate. If a merchant would know the results of his business, he must, not merely consider the gross amount of his profits, but take into account also, his various expenditures which form drawbacks upon his gains. If these outlays exceed his profits, his business would be a losing concern. Now, if we can show, that the Traffic in Intoxicating Liquors costs the Country more than all the Revenue it brings into the Treasury, the objection against the suppression of it, which we are now considering, must vanish. We are not, indeed, in possession of the facts of the case in regard to this Island, but we can make good our position from analogy. We can show, that in other drinking commodities, the cost of the Liquor Traffic far exceeds what it brings into the Public Treasury.

In the memorial of the New York State Temperance Society, presented to the Senate, the memorialists day—"We are subjected to a heavy annual tax, for the support of paupers, of whom three-fourths are reduced to that condition directly, or indirectly, by the use of Intoxicating Drinks; yet, all of whom would be able to support themselves, to increase the productive power of the State, and to contribute largely to its prosperity, were such drinks not odd: while our annual tax for the support of the poor, would be only one-fourth of its present amount." Again they say:—"We are subjected to a still heavier tax, to defray police and judicial expences, caused by the prosecution and punishment of the criminal offenders against order, character, property and life—a tax for nearly the whole of which, we are indebted to the sale of these Intoxicating Irink, says Barries on the Maine Law:—Our State Gerives a Revenue of about one hundred thousand dollars annually, from Tayern Licentes, a penny wise pound foolich operation; for in the city and country of Philadelphia tering into life, says Mr. Ruskin, upt accurately to know three things, First, where he is; secondly where he going; thirdly, what he had best do der those circumstances, First, Where ie is that is to say, what sort of a world has got into; how large it is? what do of creatures live in it, and how; int is it made of, and what may be reports there are of any other world be-sides this; and whether, for information respecting it, he had better consult the Bible, Koran, or Council of Trent. Thirdly, what he had best do under those circumstances—that is to say when those circumstances—that is to say, what kind of faculties, he possesses; what are the present state and wants of mankind; what is his place is society; and what are the readest means in his power of attaining happiness and diffusing it. The men who knows, these things, and who has had his will so subdued in the learning them that he is ready to do what he them, that he is ready to do what he knows he ought, I should call educated, and the man who knows them not, uneducated, though he could talk all the tongues of Babel.

A GEAF FROM EVERY-DAY LIFE.

Evening is spreading her mantle over the fair earth, shutting out from our view the snow-clad scenes around. Ever and anon the wind sweeps by in fearful gusts, causing us to shudder as we draw nearer the bright fireside, and think of the suffering poor. For them the merry sleighhas no music, seeming rather a mockery of their sorrow.

.It was on such a night as this, that a child of scarce twelve years might have been seen wending her way through the noisy streets of B.—. It was a late hour for her to be out alone, and unprotected, but she seemed all intent upon one object, scarce heeding the wintry blast. She stopped before a large mansion, and after hesitating for a few moments, timidly sought admission.

The old town clock pealed forth the hour of ten. How many records that hour winged up to heaven!

In the abode of want, a weary woman lay upon a bed of pain. She gazed sad-ly around the dreary apartment. The ly around the dreary apartment. fire had burnt out, leaving but a few ashes on the solitary hearth. She sighed as she drew the scanty covering closer, and looked wistfully towards the opening door. A pail sad face met her gaze, and her child stood beside her.
"Have you come at last, my darling?" "Yes mother, but I bring no help," (and the child's tones seemed the mournful echoes of despair.) "She would not aid me, bidding me 'Go and freeze if I was too indolent to work." Tears glistened in the mother's eyes, and something she murmured of inhumanity, that God must mark.

Morning again dawned, but its light fell upon the cold dead forms of that mother and her child. Alas! for the heart that turned from the cry of the destitute. Could the lips which had harshly doomed them to perish, ever ufter pitying words for the children of want? Surely the faces of those proverty stricken ones would rise up reproach-fully—"Vengeance is mine, I will repay said the Lord?"

Interest has been excited in Edinburgh by the successful trial of the steam-rensela lately launched at Granton for the deep-sea fishing, as demonstrating the practicability of a new principle of the practicability of the steam propulsion, superseding both the steam propulsion, superseding both the screw and the paddle, and as likely to effect, in some degree, a revolution in the art of steam-invigation. The vessel is 100 feet long, with engines of 30-horse power. Externally there is nothing to distinguish it from a sailing-vessel, except the presence on each side of the hull of a curved pipe 16 inches in disimeter, termed "a nozzle," communicating with a water-tight iron case inside, In the bottom of the vessel are apertures admitting the water-tight case with a berizental wheel fixed on a crunk-shall attached by piston-root to the engine, and, on the steam being applied, the water-wheel revolves with velocity, and the water is discharged by the nozzle, on each side of the wessel. These form the only propelling power, and the invention is remarkable for its simplicity and effect. These nogales also are of service in navigating the vessel, which, according to the angle of depression or elevation, turns in any disordine, or stops altogether, avan with the engines working at full power. Although capacity rather than apped was studied in the construction of the vessel, is daily attained eleven knots an hour. Economy of firel, freedom from vibration, lighten water bedreament, and a high rate of speed are among the educating ground in the Frith of Forth, and, by lowering the boats and crews, will be able to conduct the fishing operations with anglety and calciful, theses. Twelvetrees Brothers' Soap Powder

(an entirely new investion.)

Is the cheapest, cafert, best, and most effectual article for all washing purposes, a packet of which is equal to ten Pennyworth of Soap!

The saving of Time and Labour is so astonishingly great, that a WER'S WASH can be accomplished BEFORE BREAKFAST
—ac rubbing being required.

This wonderful Article is MORE SERVICRABLE THAN SOAP, as it produces a better and much quicker lather, and is adapted for purposes for which Soap cannot be safely or effectually used.

or which Soap causet be used; or the most delicate used.

It will not injure the hands, or the most delicate material; but whilst it is incomparable for permanently whitening Linena, &c., after they have become discoloured by age, or injured by bad Washing, it is also mesorpassable for improving the colors of FLANNELS, BLANKETS, WOOLLENS, COLORED PRINTS, MUSLIN and GAGE. CHERRY PECTORAL COUGHS. COLDS, HOARSENESS, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Among the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life... increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, none can be amued of more real value to mankind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art... A sast trial of its virtues throughout this bread country, has proven beyond a doubt; that no medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and care the numerous waitstiss of pulmonary disease, which have hitherte event from our midst thousands and thousands every year. Indeed, there is now shandant reason to believe a Remedy has at length been found which can be relied on, to cure the most dangerous affections of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish any proportion of the cares effected by its use, but we would present the following:—and refer further enquiry to my American Almanac, which the agant below a mangel, will always be pleased to furnish free, wherein are full particulars, and indisputable proof of these statements.

Office of Transportation, Laurens R. R., S. C., Aug. 4, 1856.

J. C. Auga. Dear Sir, —My little son four years old has just recovered from a severe attack of malignant Squarfact Fever, his threat was rotten, and every person that visited him, pronounced him a dead child. Having used your Christan Pacronax in California, in the winter of 1850, for a severe attack of Bronchitis, with entire succes, I was induced to try it on my little hoy. A gave him, is to-apone fill every three hours, commencing in the morning, and by ten o'dispic in night. I fested a decided change for the better, and after three days use he was able to eat or drink without pain.

Its use in the above named disease will save many a child from a premature grave, and relieve the anxiety of many a fond parent.—For all affections of the portant discovery, my little boy would now have been in unother world.

I am young with great respect, of our leases.
