CHAPTER XVII.

"Are we late?" Then she looked round. "What a delightful room. Mr. Deane! Why, you are quite a gyarhite!"

Bobby in his nervousness was about to blurt out in forgetfulness of Morgan Thorpe's injunction, that the rooms were not his; but Morgan Thorpe frowned at him warningly, and Bobby stammered:

"Not—not worthy of your presence, Mrs. Dalton."

"How nicely you said that," she murmured. "And, oh, what lovely flowers!" She looked down at the bunch of orchids in her hand, and raised them carelessly to her red lips. "And these I found on the dressing-table. Were they meant for me? I appropriated them, you see."

"If you will design to accept them," said Bobby, glowing with pride and pleasure.

Then they sat down to dinner, and Morgan Thorpe praised the soup and the hock—and the wine deserved all his praise if it was as good as the price was high—and praised the red mullet, and praised the entree which the well-trained waiter handed round with the gravity and noiselessness of a dual retainer.

Bobby was nervous at starting, and like all novices at the same, watched the waiter anxiously; but as the dinner, the costly dinner, proceeded and Morgan Thorpe grew more laudatory, he gained confidence, and rattled on with his usual boyish candor and spirit. He allowed the waiter to fill his glass rather frequently, and the good wine set his heart beating and his tongue wagging.

The divine Laura toyed delicately with her dainty fare, smiled sweetly at him, and murmured soft and musical nothings; Morgan Thorpe talked fluently and in his best style; and only Trevor sat glum and silent, eating the costly and never-ending dishes with sullen appreciation.

Every now and then he looked up from his plate and regarded Laura and Bobby with a fierce and gloomy scrutiny; but Laura caught the glances and smiled at him, when Bobby was not looking, and Trevor would return to his plate comforted and reassured.

The dinner was a success. It would have been rather strange if it had not been, considering the pains and money spent upon it; and Morgan Thorpe, when Laura had retired to the adjoining apartment, which was only divided from the dining-room by a curtain, and was furnished as a drawing-room, expressed his satisfaction and appreciation enthusiastically.

"A dinner fit for a prince! My dear Deane, you have proved yourself a perfect Macacenas! My dear fellow, you evidently have a genius for this kind of thing. I envy you, for I can not imitate you. The plate—the third on the menu—did you think of it yourself?"

"No," said Bobby, modestly.

"Ah, I see! Gave your cook carte blanche. Well, she has proved herself a cordon bleu. It was beyond praise. What wine is this?" He filled his glass—and Trevor's—with the Chateau claret. "Fit for the gods! My dear Deane, I drink to you! Fill his glass, Trevor. He is neglecting himself. It is the way of hosts."

Trevor shoved the decanter along sullenly, and Bobby filled his glass and drank to Mr. Morgan Thorpe.

The cigars were lighted.

"Laura will not object to such cigars as these, my dear Deane," remarked Morgan Thorpe.

A soft and subtle Chopin floated from the piano in the next room. Laura was playing. Bobby's head began to swim with the wine and Morgan Thorpe's praise and the exquisite music. His heart was filled with satisfaction; the beautiful creature was in his (that is, Lord Gaunt's) rooms; his dinner had been a success.

They went into the little drawing-room, and Bobby leaned his elbow on the piano and gazed into the lovely, piquant face, and she gazed back at him with a soft and tender smile.

Then Trevor came up to the piano, and as Bobby moved away to answer a remark of Morgan Thorpe's, she smiled up at him and murmured something in a low voice.

"How's this going to end?" he asked in a hoarse voice. "What's it mean?"

"My dear friend, why be angry with me?" she whispered. "You know that I am not a free agent. I am under orders, and I am—ah, can you not see—but obeying those orders. Don't be angry with me!"

Trevor—his face was flushed and his eyes bloodshot—bent until his lips nearly touched her hair.

"Don't—don't—try me too far," he said, hoarsely, "or I sha'n't be able to stand it!"

And she smiled and sighed up at him, and the next instant she was smiling up at Bobby with a pathetic, pleading expression in her dark eyes.

"Shall we have some cards?" Morgan Thorpe asked, presently, and in quite a casual way.

Bobby stared away from the piano and the angel at it.

"Cards! I'm—I'm afraid I haven't any. I'm very sorry," he said, remorsefully.

"By Jove, how strange!" said Morgan Thorpe, feeling in his pocket. "Quite by chance I happened to put a pack—why, there are here!—in my pocket last night. Now, how did I come to do that?"

"Don't play, dear Mr. Deane!" murmured Laura. But Mr. Morgan Thorpe slid his hand through Bobby's arm and led him to the table which the waiter had opened.

"Nonsense, my dear Laura! Of course he will play!"

Bobby sat down. He was all aglow with pleasant satisfaction at the success of his dinner, and—ah!—it will be written—with wine!

As they seated themselves, the waiter, preparatory to leaving, opened a couple of bottles of champagne and filled the gentlemen's glasses, and Bobby emptied his speedily.

While they played, the music floated out to them from the next room, and Bobby could scarcely fix his attention on the game, and he hummed an accompaniment; and his attention was yet further diverted when the divine Laura glided in to them, and leaning on his shoulder, bent over him.

"Tiresome cards!" she murmured.

"How I hate them! Why are you men so fond of them, I wonder?" and with a petulant impatient gesture, she swept the dark hair from her forehead.

Bobby looked up at her with all his young soul in his eyes.

"I would rather—rather be at the piano with you," he murmured.

"Your play, Deane," broke in Trevor's harsh voice, and Bobby played the first card—and lost.

"I mark the game," Mr. Morgan Thorpe would say, pleasantly. "You ought to have won that, my dear Deane."

Once or twice Bobby rose from the table and strayed to the piano, but Morgan Thorpe always called him back.

The music, the play, went on until the chimes sounded small. Very frequently, Laura leaned over Bobby's shoulder and murmured soft nothings. Once her small white hand stroked his hair softly, and at the carous the blood mounted hotly to the boy's face, and he did not know whether he was playing hearts or diamonds; conscious of nothing but that fascinating presence, the dark eyes and red lips, the soft, murmuring voice that sang sweetly in his ears.

He passed the champagne—the wine whose cost he was presently to learn—and filled his own glass. And he talked and laughed, and made foolish bets, and lost them with cheerful indifference.

At last, warned by a glance from his sister's speaking eyes, Morgan Thorpe said, looking at the priceless bronze clock on the mantel-shelf:

"By Jove! my dear Deane, do you know the time? We must be going; we really must! My dear Laura, how could you let us trespass on Mr. Deane's hospitality?"

"It is those horrid cards!" said the divine Laura, with a pout, and her hand touched Bobby's arm with a lingering caress.

"Let me see," said Morgan Thorpe, as he consulted his memorandum tablet, "you have been unlucky to-night, Deane, very unlucky. I never saw such cards. You owe Trevor fifty-six pounds, and me a hundred and twenty-four."

Bobby's face fell, but Laura's white hand touched his shoulder, and he smiled up at her.

"I'm sorry! I'm—I'm afraid—" he stammered.

Morgan Thorpe laughed carelessly.

"My dear fellow, I did not suppose you carried so much money in your waistcoat pocket. No one does. You will do the usual thing, of course. Just give me an I.O.U., or, better still, a little bill. Strange, but I have one about me!"

He produced a sheet of blue paper, partly filled up, and laid it on the table.

"Sign that, my dear Deane. It is only a matter of form. Between friends, you know, you need not pay until it is convenient; in fact, Trevor and I don't care very much whether you pay or not. We have had such a delightful evening. Delightful! You are a perfect Macacenas, my dear Deane! By Jove! I have never had a more absolutely perfect dinner! Eh, Laura?"

Laura, thus appealed to, murmured something in Bobby's ear; and Bobby, taking the stylographic pen which Mr. Morgan Thorpe offered him, signed his name across the blue paper.

His head was swimming, his whole being thrilling under the touch of her hand, the music of her murmuring voice. He would have done anything, signed anything.

With a fond and vacuous smile, he wrapped her cloak round her.

"Take one of my flowers with you," he said in a thick whisper.

She pressed the bouquet to her lips, and looked across it at him with a sad smile.

"If we had only met—earlier!" she murmured.

Bobby went down to the brougham with them, and, as she entered, she pressed his hand so warmly that he ventured to raise her small white hand to his lips.

The brougham rattled away, and the divine Laura leaned back with a yawn and a sigh.

Trevor bent forward, his bloodshot eyes gleaming upon her.

"How long is this going to last?" he asked, hoarsely.

She shrugged her shoulders and glanced at her brother.

"Ask him," she said.

Mr. Morgan Thorpe laughed.

"My dear Trevor," he said, remonstratingly, "you surely are not jealous! Of a boy like that!" and Trevor, with a smothered oath, subsided.

Meanwhile, Bobby sat at the table, with the cards strewn around him, and thought of the divine Laura. He could feel her perfumed breath upon his cheek, could hear her voice still ringing in his ears.

He did not remember how much he had lost; did not reflect that he was the son of a poor man, with a limited allowance. He only thought of that beautiful face and sweet voice, and—Reader, did you ever hear the song of "The Spider and the Fly?"

LETTER FROM MRS. WAKELIN

Tells Remarkable Story of Sickness and Recovery.

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered greatly from weakness, seemed to be tired all the time, and had no ambition to do anything or go any place. My nerves were in bad shape, I could not sleep at night, and then came a breakdown. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and several of my friends advised me to use it, and it surely put new life into me. Now I am quite able to do all my own work, and I would strongly advise every suffering woman to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."

Mrs. CHARLES WAKELIN, 272 Christie St., Toronto, Ont.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for more than forty years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Why Stay Fat?

The answer of most fat people is that exercise and dieting is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous a method to force the weight down. However, in Marmola Prescription Tablets, all these difficulties are overcome. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or violent exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. One little tablet after each meal and at bedtime—as pleasant to eat as candy—will reduce your weight two, three or four pounds a week, and have no bad results such as wrinkling or flabby skin. A good size box is sold by druggists at the reasonable price of one dollar, or if preferable they may be obtained by sending the amount to the Marmola Co., 94 Gardiner Building, Detroit, Mich. They will reach you by mail, prepaid, in plain, sealed cover.

Now that you know this you have no excuse for being too fat, but can reduce two, three or four pounds a week without fear of bad after-effects.

Wrangel's Forces Facing Supreme Test.

Soviet Armies Commence Strong Offensive--Five Hours Terrorism in Templemore--Prince Paul Will Be King Only by Wish of The People--Lithuanian Government Have New Problem--Impressive Funeral of Cork's Late Lord Mayor.

BOLSHEVIKS BEGIN BIG OFFENSIVE.

SEBASTOPOLE, Crimea, Oct. 31. Russian Bolshevik forces have begun a violent offensive to wipe out the armies commanded by General Bauman Wrangel, head of the South Russian Government. The Bolsheviks have attacked at two points, crossing the Dnieper river opposite Nikolopol and branching out from Kharkovka. Troops from the Polish front as well as masses of Siberian soldiers are being used in the offensive and heavy reinforcements are being rushed up in an effort to break through General Wrangel's lines. This is the first time General Wrangel has been outnumbered and excelled in artillery and supplies. He has been shortening his front to create reserve forces in preparation for the offensive which he has expected for the last few days.

ZELIGOUSKI MAKING TROUBLE.

RIGA, Oct. 31. The Lithuanian Government is hastily evacuating Kovno and is removing all railway material possible to Shavli and other points of northern Lithuania, as a result of General Zeligouski's insurgent army having broken through the Lithuanian front near the town of Vilkomire, forty miles northeast of Kovno, Friday night. General Zeligouski's offensive continues along the whole front and his forces are attempting to surround Kovno and attack it from the rear.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

NORTH TONAWANDA, Oct. 31. Twelve men were killed to-day in an explosion, and fire at the distributing power of the Niagara Falls Power Co. here.

DANGEROUS PROJECTILE FOUND.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. A projectile of three inch shell attached to a six inch copper tube one half inch in diameter with a burned fuse was found in the 31 St. Street driveway of the Pennsylvania station early to-day. The projectile would have caused much damage had it exploded, the police said.

HOUSING PROBLEM IN WARSAW.

WARSAW, Oct. 30. All rooms in private dwellings have been commandeered by the Government to meet the housing problem in the city. Only three rooms will be allowed a family with children, regardless of position. Warsaw has doubled its population since the war.

MANITOBA'S WHEAT FIELD.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31. Fifteen bushels of wheat to the acre the average yield in Manitoba for 1920, according to the final report of the Department of Agriculture for the year. The report states that much fallowing has been completed and the land is in fine shape for next spring.

TWO POLICEMEN SHOT.

DUBLIN, Oct. 31. Two policemen were shot while trying to halt a motor car at Colonoey, county Sligo, Friday evening. Reprisals followed in neighboring villages, six farmers' houses being partially burned.

FURTHER REPRISALS.

TEMPLEMORE, Ireland, Oct. 31. The scene of five hours of terrorism when military forces raided the town armed with guns, hatchets and other implements. They fired shots and burned premises but no casualties have been reported. Several jewelry and clothing stores were broken into and looted and after being sprayed with petrol were set on fire. Windows in more than fifty houses were smashed but the occupants escaped without injury.

PAUL'S ACCEPTANCE CONDITIONAL.

LUCERNE, Oct. 31. The acceptance of the Greek throne by Prince Paul depends entirely upon the wishes of the Greek people, the Prince told the Greek Minister to Switzerland yesterday when informed verbally that the Greek Government considers him called to assume the duties of Sovereign. He declared only in the event the Greek people did not wish the return of King Constantine and excluded Prince George, Duke of Sparta, he would accept the offer made by the Government.

MacSWEENEY'S FUNERAL.

CORK, Oct. 31. In the presence of surprised church dignitaries, scores of his former comrades volunteers, and thousands of his countrymen, the body of Terence MacSweeney, late Lord Mayor of Cork, was lowered to its resting place in the Republican plot in St. Inbarr's Cemetery, just outside Cork this afternoon. Despite the splendor lent the scene by the attendance of high churchmen there was a simplicity marking ceremonies that was impressive.

BOSTON SYMPATHIZERS PARADE.

BOSTON, Oct. 31. Thirty thousand citizens of Greater Boston slowly marching to funeral dirges played by a single band passed through thronged but silent downtown streets this afternoon in tribute to the memory of Terence MacSweeney, Michael Fitzgerald, and Joseph Murphy, hunger strikers who died in prison.

FUNERAL OF GREEK KING.

ATHENS, Oct. 31. King Alexander's body was Friday evening placed in the Royal Mausoleum at Tatol following funeral services in the Cathedral here. The Queen mother Olga and other members of the Greek Royal family, Mme. Manos, widow of the King, the Crown Prince of Sweden, Prince Regent of Serbia, representatives of King George of Great Britain and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, members of the Diplomatic Corps and Government officials crowded the cathedral to the exclusion of the public. Thronged lined the streets as the funeral procession headed by the casket on a gun carriage drawn by sailors passed through Athens towards Tatol. On each of the streets were lines of British, French and Italian naval detachments which saluted as the coffin passed.

Masonic Festival for Children.

"Tasker" Celebration a Great Success.

On Saturday afternoon the Tasker Celebration for children took place in the Masonic Temple and proved to be one of the most successful ever held. Prior to 1916 the celebration was an annual event, being held on March 17th, but during the past four years the war and its many calls brought about its abandonment. This year the members of the Craft again took the matter under consideration and Saturday's eventful day for Masonic children was the result.

About two hundred children participated in the treat, and everything possible was done to make it a memorable and enjoyable one. The large banquet room, which had been nicely decorated with flags, was given over for amusement, and every kind of game was indulged in. "Charlie Chaplin" was there to lead the fun, and the mysterious "goat" with its well-pointed horns was exhibited to increase the wonder and amusement of the little ones. In the meantime, in the "Blue" room upstairs, tables had been erected, and the ladies, to whose kindness and generosity the Committee are deeply indebted, were filling them with good things. At 5 o'clock the children were called to tea, and, with appetites sharpened by the afternoon's exercises, did full justice to the abundance that was placed before them.

After tea adjournment was again taken to the large room down stairs, and there for an hour the Rev. C. A. Moulton, assisted by Mr. L. Colley, amused the children with a magic lantern exhibition, using his own fine assortment of slides, as well as a supply provided by Mr. J. S. Ayre. This ended at 8 o'clock, and shortly afterwards the happy youngsters, carrying an apple and a large bag of candies, as well as smiling faces, left for home.

The ladies who had assisted at the tables, together with the Committee and other members of the Craft, however, remained until 11.30, and the evening was given over to an enjoyable dance. The C.L.B. Band, which had given its much appreciated services to the children during the afternoon, supplied the music at night, and everything went "merry as a marriage bell."

This is the first time that the celebration has been held in the Temple. It is also the first occasion on which the ladies have done the catering; but the change proved a delightful one in every respect, and the Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. H. E. Cowan, and Secretaryship of Mr. Whiteford McNeely, are to be congratulated on the success of the arrangements.

Are These Newfoundlanders?

The steamer Pro Patria, which arrived in the port of North Sydney yesterday morning had among her passengers over forty miners who are coming in the colliery districts to seek work in the mines. The steamer also has aboard a number of passengers bound across to France.—Sydney Post.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Rosalind arrived at New York on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. She leaves again for Halifax and this port on Wednesday next.

S.S. Harmony arrived from Labrador on Saturday night. The ship called at the different Moravian settlements and brought up a full cargo of fish and oil, etc.

S.S. Crabtree bound to Montreal via Sydney arrived in port last night from Botwood where she has been discharging cargo for the A.N.D. Co. The ship berthed at the Furness Wharf and takes on board 60 tons of coal sailing for Sydney this afternoon.

Personal.

Sir M. P. Cashin and Mr. W. J. Higgins left by yesterday's express for the West Coast on a business trip.

Mr. J. P. Carey, who had been to Grand Falls on a business trip, returned to town by Saturday's express.

Mr. J. F. Bancroft, of Topsail, who has been in Hospital, receiving special treatment, is doing well at the institution, and hopes to be out shortly.

Mr. Harold Harvey, formerly of the firm of A. J. Harvey & Co., arrived from New York by the express, Saturday, on a brief visit to the city.

Requiem Masses.

Mr. R. T. McGrath, President of the S.D.L.N., received a message from St. George's, Saturday, that Masses for the repose of the soul of the late Lord Mayor of Cork would be celebrated throughout the Diocese during the present week.

Yesterday at the Cathedral, St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's, Mount Cashel and Kilbride, numerous candles were lighted as a sincere offering to Heaven for the soul of the Lord Mayor.

To-Day's Messages.

IN A BAD WAY.

TRIESTE, Nov. 1.—Flume is now without water and light, due to lack of coal, as a result of Premier Giolitti's "natural blockade."

SOVIET PROTEST.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Russian Soviet government, says a despatch to the Daily Herald, has made an indignant protest to Great Britain over the seizure of the Italian steamer Ancona, reported seized by British warships on Oct. 29 in a Daily Herald despatch. The Ancona was bound for Novorossiok with a cargo for Russia.

EXPECTING HOT TIME.

HAVANA, Nov. 1.—Troops have been sent to various parts of the country to maintain order, during the Cuban presidential elections.

FATALLY SHOT.

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—A Constabulary Sergeant was shot Saturday night, while patrolling a street in Tullamore, and is not expected to live.

BRITISH GOLF CHAMPIONS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Ted Ray and Harry Vardon, British professional golfers, yesterday ended their long tour in the United States with victory over two local players. They are scheduled to sail for England Friday.

LORD FERMOY DEAD.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Lord Fermoy died suddenly in London, Saturday. When he succeeded to the title he was Hon. James E. B. Roche.

ITALY GETS MANDATE.

ROME, Nov. 1.—The Temps says it understands the mandate for Armenia has been offered to Italy, which is disposed to accept it.

BISHOPS WILL TESTIFY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A delegation of Irish Bishops, to be selected by Cardinal Logue, has been asked to appear here next month to testify as to conditions in Ireland before a commission of five on Ireland, the commission announced last night after a preliminary conference. In addition to cabling Cardinal Logue, asking the appointment of Bishops, the commission expect to hear the Mayors of several Irish cities, and other Irish witnesses, as well as United States citizens, who have recently visited Ireland.

A "VILNA" PLEBISCITE.

WARSAW, Nov. 1.—The Council of Ministers have agreed to a plebiscite, under control of the League of Nations, to determine the status of Vilna district.

A DEMAND ON WILSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—More than thirty-eight thousand persons at a mass meeting this afternoon, at the Polo Grounds, paid a tribute to the memory of Lord Mayor MacSweeney of Cork, and shouted "aye" to a resolution petitioning President Wilson to protest against outrages in Eire and to recognize the Irish Republic.

FELL TWO HUNDRED FEET.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 31.—Mark Comstock, of Buffalo, N.Y., was killed, and his five companions, all Williams' College students, were injured, when a five passenger touring car in which they were riding, plowed through a fence on Mohawk trail, and went down two hundred feet into the bed of the cold river, near here, last night.

ASPHYXIATED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Four persons were found dead from gas poisoning, to-day, in a room in a house on East Fifty-third Street. The accidental detachment of a rubber hose which connected the gas jet with a small radiator is believed to have been responsible. Apparently all four persons had been awakened by the fumes, because their bodies were found close to a window, which they had been unable to open.

BOTH PARTIES CONFIDENT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Leaders of the two great parties in the National Campaign in the United States, rested to-day in anticipation of a final effort at vote getting tomorrow, after which the people will decide at the polls on Tuesday. The official campaign ended last night, but there will be still a few flurries. Though it had been announced that there would be no campaign activities on account of the Sabbath, the chairmen of both Republican and Democratic National Committees spent a portion of the day at their headquarters. Each reiterated predictions that the candidate of their party would be elected President. No election statement was issued by either contending parties, Socialist, farmer, Labor, Prohibition and Social Labor. Senator Harding has closed his campaign of speech making and returned to his Marion home, to await the result of Tuesday's balloting. Governor Cox has one more appeal to launch to the citizens of his own state. This he will do in Toledo tomorrow evening. Seymour Stedman, Socialist, is acting in the absence of his principals, Eugene V. Debs, who is a prisoner in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, serving a sentence for violation of the Espionage Laws.

PEOPLE TERRIFIED.

DUNGANNON, Ireland, Nov. 1.—This town, located in Central Ulster, spent a terrifying night as a result of reprisals following the wounding of a constable during an attack on a police patrol by civilians yesterday.

ANTI-SOCIALISTS WIN.

ROME, Nov. 1.—Anti-Socialist candidates were victorious in municipalities here yesterday being given large majorities.

AUSTRALIAN SHIPPING.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—Australia now has a fleet of 39 steamers aggregating 158,498 tons, and an extensive shipbuilding scheme is being carried out.

WASHINGTON'S TRIBUTE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Fully ten thousand sympathizers paraded here to-day in tribute to the late Lord Mayor Terence MacSweeney of Cork.

International Schooner Race.

DELAWANA LEADS IN SECOND CONTEST.

The result of the first race between the fishing schooner Delawana of Lunenburg, and Esperanto of Gloucester, which was sailed on Saturday from Halifax over a forty mile course, was not given in the Canadian Press service, which supplies the Newfoundland newspapers with foreign news. A private message advises that the Gloucester craft won a substantial victory over Capt. Himelmann's vessel, beating her by twenty-five minutes.

The second race started at 9 o'clock this morning, and the Press Agency condescends to furnish the following:—

DELAWANA LEADING.

HALIFAX, Nov. 1.—The second race of the international schooner race between "Delawana" of Lunenburg, and "Esperanto" of Gloucester, started this morning at nine o'clock, Esperanto leading over the line, but Delawana passing her five minutes later. At 9.35 Delawana had increased her lead to two minutes. Wind is light and from the westward.

Died From Injuries.

The Justice Department has received the following message from Magistrate Fitzgerald of Grand Falls:—"Thomas Piercy, 42, and married, belonging to Port Rexton, sustained severe injury resulting in death while engaged discharging a coal cargo from Railway Company's steamer at Lewisporte on Saturday."

ALL SAINTS DAY.

To-day being the feast of All Saints, the usual Masses were celebrated in the Cathedral and city churches.

Hard on the Railway.

A story is going the rounds just now that seems to show that one of our railways, at least, has not completely recovered from the strain imposed upon it by the war.

The night train from Victoria had puffed and panted its way, after innumerable delays, into Dover station, and two languid occupants of a first-class carriage yawned and stretched themselves.

"Well," one of them said, as he collected his belongings, "thank goodness that's the worst part of my journey over!"

"Going far?" asked his fellow traveller casually.

"Bagdad!" was the reply.

The speaker was Sir Percy Cox, High Commissioner for Mesopotamia.

Her Second Wind.

Smith had come home later than usual, and had ready a good explanation; but his wife gave him no chance, and immediately began to tell him what she thought of him.

He endured it patiently all the evening, quietly read his paper, and went to bed. His wife was still talking. When he was almost asleep he could hear her still scolding him unmercifully. He finally dropped off to sleep, and awoke, after a couple of hours, only to hear his wife remark: "I hope all married women don't have to put up with such conduct as this."

"Annie," said Smith, "are you talking again—or yet?"

Consoling Georgie.

At a twenty-first birthday party a mother was praising the talents of her son, and, being anxious to make him appear at his best before the company present, asked him to show the company the prizes he had won.

One of the guests, picking up the best article, said, "And what did he win this prize for?"

"Oh, that was for running," said the proud mother.

"And who presented it to him?" asked the guest.

"He did," said the mother.

The guest looked surprised.

"You see," said the proud mother, "Georgie would have won, but he didn't hear the pistol go off!"

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

ON GROWING OLDER.

There are some things I like about growing older and some things I don't. And one of the latter is the way one's impulse muscles seem to stiffen up. When one has an impulse in one's callow youth, one usually acts first and then thinks. And that is as it should be. As one reaches years of discretion, one begins to get the habit of thinking first and acting afterwards. And that is as it should be. But there is a tendency in most of us to go all further—to think first and then act at all. And that is as it shouldn't be. Some workmen were in my home recently and while I was directing them I noticed one youngster, not more than 19, looking with evident interest at a pile of magazines on the floor which I had put there to be disposed of.

He would scorn the offer. The instant impulse came to me to tell him he would like them. Five years ago I would have spoken the minute thought came into my head. But now I hung back, while objections came into my mind. Probably he was just looking at the picture on the cover and wasn't really interested in the magazines at all, said part of my mind. And then another part suggested, very likely he has all the magazines he wants and would not care if you offered him your old ones. While I mused over these objections, something came up to divert my attention and I let the matter slip. It was simpler not to act than to act, and so the kindly impulse that could not have done any possible harm, went unheeded.

It was hard for her to waver. Here's another example of what I mean: I was out with a friend in a boat the other day. We passed some row boatmen, who, after the manner of water wayfarers, hailed us in a wave. My friend waved back, and after he had passed she said, "You know it is the hardest thing in the world to do that nowadays. I used to do it as a matter of course when I met anyone on the lake. Now, I want to wave first, and then I feel as if something were holding my hand down. I can't imagine what makes me feel that way." I can—the inhibitions of those miserable years of discretion. It's the same sort of mental stiffness which makes it harder to say the nice impulsive things that one said so easily and naturally when one was younger. One thinks the gracious thing, but one stops to wonder whether it will sound flat or affected, and in the end either does not say it at all or says it awkwardly. I think this stiffening up of impulse needs to be fought as one grows older just as much as the stiffening of the bodily muscles.

Mystery Messages.

While recent experiments in long-distance telephony have disclosed the immense possibilities of wireless, the average man is as yet considerably behind some of the natives of Africa in the matter of easy and accurate transmission of messages without visible means.

When General Gordon fell at Khartoum the news was known by the natives in Cairo, over a thousand miles away, within a couple of hours. There were no physical means of communication, and the information was naturally discredited by the British residents.

A similar incident relates to the death at sea of Prince Henry of Battenburg, who was struck with fever in the Ashanti expedition in 1895. Three Englishmen were in their store hundreds of miles inland in West Africa when a native came in and announced that the "Great White Man" had just died at sea. The men made a note of the time in their diary, and when the news came through they found that the native had informed them within a couple of hours of the Prince's death.

This faculty, possessed by various tribes, does not operate only on special occasions. It serves the natives in their everyday affairs. The manager of a large store declared to the writer that it is useless to think of paying a surprise visit to a native branch manager. He had tried it several times. Even when he ordered his conveyance at the very last moment, and kept his destination secret, he always found the native smilingly awaiting him.

This manager's experiences are confirmed by others, but no one has been able to fathom the mystery of native "wireless" messages.

All Saints' Day.

By BEN ZION.

In that great commemoration of the departed, which we find in the eleventh chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews, the great outstanding fact concerning them is their faith. They received a good report, not for genius or scholarship—Moses had these; not for supreme practical gifts of government—David and Samuel had these; but for their faith, for the power they had of apprehending things unseen, and living as though they were near and real. This great category, regarded as a muster-roll of a nation's greatness, is as conspicuous for the names missed as for the names mentioned. Lot is not here, for he lost faith, and turned toward the shameful security of Sodom; but Abraham is, because he went forth on a way that he knew not, in obedience to a Divine command. Aaron is not here, for he lost faith and made a golden calf for the people; but Moses is, because he lived as seeing him who is invisible. Solomon is not here, because he sank into base materialism of life; but David, with all his defects, is here, because he kept his vision of God. And the curious and striking thing is that if we were called upon to compile our catalogue of great men, we should be compelled to adopt the same principle of choice.

There have been greater men than Columbus, but none with a more heroic faith; men of more varied genius than Cromwell, but none of a faith greater than his, who said: "God is above all reports and in His own time will vindicate me"; men of larger intellectual gifts than Lincoln, but none with a sublimer faith in the ultimate triumph of liberty, righteousness and justice. Show me any life that has been memorably great, and I will undertake to show that its true dynamic was faith. The greatest heroisms are possible through faith, and none are possible without it. The loss of faith in a nation is always the precursor of decay, the rebirth of faith is always the precursor of progress. Never say then that faith is irrational; it is the noblest act of moral reason, and is the secret of human greatness.

So vital is this principle of faith, so fruitful in its effect on character, that Jesus boldly divided men into those who believed and those who disbelieved, saying that those who believed should be saved—saved into fuller life, and those who disbelieved should be condemned—condemned to forms of life that were narrow, futile and impotent.

When Cocoa Was Barred.

Cocoa Pussysfoot were on the war-path years ago. They demanded its prohibition (along with brandy, rum, and tea), on the ground that this imported article did no good and hindered the consumption of English-grown barley and wheat.

This was in the days of the Commonwealth, when cocoa was fifteen shillings a pound. The agitation led to the founding of the Cocoa Tree Club, where "lords and ladies and fine gentlemen" met to sip the beverage, extol its medicinal virtues, and discuss the social and political scandals of the day.

At first we were contemptuous of the new drink which the Spaniards brought back from America and Mexico. Our fighting ancestors discovered bags of cacao, the pod containing the cocoa bean, in the holds of Spanish galleons captured on the high seas. The taste was too pungent and they flung them overboard. The addition of sugar to the ground beans, however, was all that was needed to make the "Food of the Gods," as cocoa was ultimately termed by Linnaeus, the great Swedish scientist. And this lesson we learned later from Italy and France, countries which first copied the taste of the Spaniards.

The Beverage of an Emperor. It was Columbus who first brought the Cacao pod to Europe, and later his fellow-countryman, Cortes, found that chocolate was the national drink of Mexico, Montezuma, the Emperor of the Aztecs, being its first great patron. In view of the statement that the Aztecs also invented that fascinating drink the cocktail, it is curious that Montezuma took no other beverage than chocolate.

This was four hundred years ago, the Incas of Peru sharing with the Aztecs the honour of being the first

THE CORSAIRS.

JAMES P. JONES

"The monied interests all combine to get these hard earned plunks of mine; the Wall street barons plot and plot to soak me in a tender spot; the cormorants of unearned gold would give their heads to knock me cold." This is the way that James P. Jones declaims to me in trumpet tones, when evening shadows softly fall, and he leans on the garden wall. And if the barons climbed on him, they'd find the pickings mighty slim; for James P. Jones is always broke, his credit is a ghostly joke. And I have always found it thus; the man who makes the biggest fuss about the plutocratic knaves who beat us into early graves, is one who never had a roll, some chap who's always in the hole. I find that if I work and save, and like a thrifty gent behave, I have the plunks to put in brine, and none disputes that they are mine. No Wall street barons are abroad to touch me for my humble wad; no malefactors of great wealth secure that wad by force or stealth. But still I hear this James P. Jones: "I cannot have a store of bones, because the grasping, soulless plutocrats will rob a poor man of his boots."

THE CHIP ON YOUR SHOULDER

You'll learn when you're older, that chip on your shoulder which you dare not heed to upset and stand up and fight for and struggle and smite for. Has caused you much shame and regret. When Time, life's advisor, has made you much wiser, you won't be so quick with the blow. You won't be so willing to fight for a shilling and change a good friend for a foe.

You won't be a sticker for trifles, and bicker. And quarrel for nothing at all. You'll grow to be kinder, more thoughtful and blinder. To faults which are petty and small; You won't take the trouble your two fists to double. When some one your pride may offend;

When with rage now you bristle, you'll smile or you'll whistle, And keep the good will of a friend.

You'll learn when you're older, that chip on your shoulder which proudly you battle to guard, Has frequently shamed you and often defamed you. And left you a record that's marred!

When you've grown calm and steady, you won't be so ready To fight for a difference that's small— For you'll know, when you're older, that chip on your shoulder is only a chip after all.

A Call to His Excellency.

The financial and domestic condition of Newfoundland at the present moment is such that an appeal will have to be made shortly to those in authority, superior to the Government, for amelioration and redress. There is undoubtedly depression of trade and slackening of industry, and the sole cause responsible for these are the Fish Regulations. It is idle for those who form the present Government to argue that there are evidences of prosperity on every hand. Such arguments are merely used to keep up the courage of a moribund administration, dying by inches, but determined to hold on to their positions to the last breath.

There is not a man to-day in Newfoundland, unless it is Mr. Coaker and his few satellites, who uphold and support the Fish Regulations, and their reason for so doing is that they have pledged themselves to stand or fall by them, with the odds in favor of the latter. So far as they have gone, and the proof may be seen on all sides, the Export Fish Regulations have placed the mark of "nothing doing" on all branches of trade in this dominion. They have hampered exporters; they have handicapped shipments, and generally and particularly they have ruined the foreign trade of Newfoundland, in order that the whims of a few may be satisfied.

Honourable W. F. Coaker is Minister of Marine and Fisheries and Acting Premier of Newfoundland. The latter is a misnomer. He is the real Premier. The nominal Prime Minister, Hon. R. A. Squires, is at present somewhere abroad where he has been ordered to remain. Failure to stay away from the dominion will forfeit his premiership, as well as his other offices, so he obeys the dictates of the Master of the Administration and remains at a safe distance from the peril of having to "get out" by command of the Czar. Mr. Squires was ever courageous, and it could not be laid to him that he was an exhibitor of the white feather. As a lingualistic champion of the rights of down-trodden Newfoundlanders he possesses no equal, but he takes precious good care that his expositions are delivered from a far country. Acknowledging Mr. Coaker as the absolute boss, he is content to hold on to the empty honors conferred upon him by the influence of the F.P.U. vote, and enjoy a good time abroad at the expense of the Colony, meanwhile allowing Mr. Coaker to play puck with its industries and finances.

So much has been accomplished by the Acting Prime Minister to deliver this Colony into the hands of others—the Dominion of Canada, for instance—aided and abetted by those who are subservient to his wishes, that it is now high time for His Excellency the Governor to take cognizance of the trend of dominion affairs. The King is the head of the Empire. The Governor represents the authority of Majesty and is the vice-gerent of that Royalty to which we bend the knee in allegiance. As the King is the direct protector of his people, so is this trust delivered into the hands of vice-regal officials, who are supposed to stand between the Crown and subject, seeking justice for the latter when the trammels of authority become chafing. As such then, we humbly and respectfully request His Excellency Sir Charles Alexander Harris, Governor and Commander in Chief in and over the Dominion of Newfoundland and its dependencies, to take such measures as are within his power to prevent a continuance of the suicidal policy of Fish Control that is killing Newfoundland, and to use his gubernatorial prerogative to appoint an advisory council to assist him in determining whether or not the present legislation on the buying and marketing of codfish is not detrimental to the best interests of this dominion. And we further suggest that His Excellency take into his counsel the invaluable experience and knowledge of the Right Honourables Sir Robert Bond, Sir William F. Lloyd, both Privy Counsellors, both to be associated with His Lordship the Chief Justice of Newfoundland, Sir W. H. Horwood. The present Executive members are not their own masters. The situation demands the application of the strong hand. It is within the power of the Governor to make use of it. The gentlemen named are at his call and invitation. Will he have the moral courage to seek their advice?

A Word to the Wise.

A guarantee of public monies by the Government to enable certain exporters to buy, store and ship "Labrador" is being talked about. It is worth while pointing out, as we are advised by competent legal men, that there is no authority—other than the Legislature—which can give a legitimate guarantee. Of late, so many guarantees of one sort and another, based on public credit, have been given, and so much error exists as to the power of the Government (Executive) that it is worth while bearing the legal limits of that power in mind.

In this connection, it is worth while inquiring what regard is being given, nowadays, to the Audit Act. It is provided therein that all revenue goes into a consolidated fund, out of which it can legally be drawn by authority of the Legislature only, except in a certain well-guarded way, in case of emergency. Recently upwards of half a million dollars were taken, it is understood to buy Sugar, under a wild-cat scheme of the Food Control Board, but just how it was done remains to be explained to the public. Was the Auditor General consulted? Were the legal formalities required by the Audit Act, pursued?

The position which the Banks may sometimes occupy in relation to public monies and public guarantees may well be seriously considered by them. If they become custodians of public money, are they not bound to guard against its irregular withdrawal from their custody? Are they not bound to take notice of the Audit Act, and see to it that its provisions are strictly carried out? If they are requested at any time to loan money on Governmental guarantees, does not self-preservation demand that they shall closely inquire into the legality of such guarantee? If they do not perform their obvious duty in these respects, the time may come when they will be told to seek their redress and get their money from the individuals who have exaggerated their authority. Such questions may very properly be considered in connection with the proposed jobbery, by which public money or public credit is to be used to help speculators, who are without adequate means of their own, to put over a dangerous game. Any such advance of public credit might well be repudiated at any time by sane public men, called into power to save the Colony from insolvency.

A Glimpse Into the Past.

The following is taken from an Extra of the Morning Post, published in St. John's, under date November 1, 1854. The Crimean War was being fought at that time, the Allies, British and French, operating against Sebastopol:—

"One o'clock p.m. 'We have just received the following from our correspondent at Sydney, who adds that a sailing packet would leave Halifax for this port on Friday.' HALIFAX, 25th October, 1854. R. M. Steamer Niagara arrived this morning. Sebastopol not taken; Allies invested the south side; began bombarding on the 5th; destroyed aqueducts; cut off supplies and water; Assault would be made on the 8th. Russians sunk seven ships in the entrance of the harbor, thereby preventing Allied Fleets from attacking. Plan of operation changed. Admiral Dundas had sent Marines on shore to join the army. Marshal St. Arnaud died of disease of the heart. Sohamyl defeated by Russians. Prussians lean towards Western Powers. Breadstuffs unchanged.

Sent to South Branch.

Two of the motor trucks imported by the Government for use in conveying coal from South Branch mine to the railway track, were sent out Saturday by freight train; two others were forwarded to-day. Messrs. Sid Arnott, Fred Smith, Bob Simmonds and Garrett Brownriggs, son of Hon. H. G. Brownriggs, Minister of Finance, who have been engaged to drive the trucks, left by yesterday's express.

Fire at Cold Storage Plant.

Yesterday evening at 6.40 the Central and West End Fire Companies were called to the Newfoundland Cold Storage plant where the engine hoisting house was on fire. Arriving on the scene a stream of water was applied and after a few minutes the blaze was controlled. Considerable damage was done the house but it will be some days before the regular work in the plant can be resumed.

Parishioners of St. Patrick's

PREPARING PRESENTATION. A meeting of the parishioners of St. Patrick's, Riverhead, was held in the Holy Cross School yesterday morning. The matter of presenting an address and gift worthy the occasion to the Rev. Pastor, Very Rev. H. T. Renouf, was discussed. His Honor Judge Morris occupied the chair, and in opening the meeting spoke in eulogistic terms of the work performed by the Bishop-Elect during his occupancy of Parish Priest of St. Patrick's and the honor conferred on him by His Holiness the Pope, in which the parish and parishioners shared. It was decided to hold another meeting on Sunday next when a subscription list would be opened, it being decided that the most suitable present would be a purse of gold. It is expected the next Sunday's meeting will be a large one, and that all who desire to contribute their mite of recognition to the esteemed pastor will avail of the opportunity offered.

Shacker Lost $180.

A Newfoundland employee named Nest, of the steel plant is to-day mourning the loss of his entire savings, amounting to $180, as the result of a scheming thief who made a successful getaway after stealing the shacker's every cent. Nest, with a fellow native of the ancient colony lived in a shack on Ocean Street. Yesterday morning he started to work leaving his butty in charge of their domicile. The latter, shortly after the departure of Nest walked to a nearby store to make a few purchases. He was only away a short time, and when he re-entered the shack he immediately noticed that some one had been there during his brief absence, as the trunk belonging to Nest, which had been locked, was open with some of its contents strewn about the floor. He at once notified Nest who was distracted when his loss became known. The police were apprised of the affair, but as there is absolutely no clue to work on, the chances of the thief's apprehension are slim.—North Sydney Herald.

His Grace Archbishop Roche

Dedicates Caplin Bay Church. Yesterday at eleven o'clock the new church of the Immaculate Conception at Caplin Bay, Ferryland District, was blessed and set apart for Divine Worship. His Grace Archbishop Roche, accompanied by Bishop-Elect Renouf of St. George's, and Rev. Father McGrath and Flynn were present for the occasion. The Archbishop's party on arrival from Ferryland were met at the entrance to the church by the energetic Pastor of the Parish, Very Rev. Father Maher, under whose guidance the building has been completed. The blessing of the church now took place. His Grace the Archbishop officiating. After the blessing solemn High Mass was celebrated, Very Rev. Fr. Maher, celebrant; Very Rev. Fr. McGrath, Deacon, and Rev. Fr. Flynn, sub-Deacon. His Grace the Archbishop and the Bishop-Elect occupied seats within the sanctuary. After Mass an address of welcome to the Archbishop from the children of the settlement was read by Master Clarence O'Toole, whilst little Miss Winnie Johnston presented the address. The address from the people was read by Mr. Fred Costello, supported by Mr. James Keough. On the conclusion of these addresses, His Grace the Archbishop spoke at some length in reply. He felt it a privilege to be with them to-day. As he had looked forward to this day for so many years, so had he also hoped for the fruition of their desire. He appreciated very much indeed their sentiments of loyalty to him as chief pastor of the Archdiocese. Long before this address was presented he experienced that loyalty. This was an important day for Caplin Bay. This particular church was one of which any settlement might be proud. The material church plays a very important part in the life of a people. It is here we are brought to be made members of the church in holy baptism. It is here we come to have the words of forgiveness given us by God's minister. It is here that youth and maiden plight their vows. It is here we are brought to have the last solemn words pronounced over us before we are given over to the solemn silence of the tomb. This Church would be a centre from which spiritual influence would radiate and blessings go forth on their lives and their work. It was dedicated to the Immaculate Queen of Heaven, Mary the Star of the Sea. Looking out over the ocean as it did where most of them pursued their hazardous avocation, he hoped that it would throw its protecting shadow over them and bless their every undertaking. He made an appreciative reference to the address of the school children, which was in the form of a poem and quoted in conclusion a stanza which summed up all the church should mean to them:—

"Faith of our fathers, valiant, strong, In worth undimmed, as lustuous as of yore, Abide with you—your shield, your strength in battle—Your boast, your pride, to love it more and more." The church, which was erected by Messrs. Pidgeon and Murphy, contractors of this city, is a very fine specimen of Ecclesiastical architecture. It stands on a commanding eminence overlooking the settlement. Its decoration was executed by Mr. Dan Carroll. It has a beautiful altar in Romanesque style surmounted by a stained glass window. The church has been in process of construction for four or five years, and the people of this thriving settlement on the Southern Shore ought to be very proud of their church, and both pastor and people are to be congratulated on their efforts.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Harris will be "At Home" to receive callers at Government House on Thursday, November the 4th, from 4.30 to 6 p.m. Government House, 29th October, 1920. nov1.21

U. S. Presidential Election.

To-morrow, Nov. 2, the battle of the ballots in the fight for the Presidency of the United States of America will be fought. Both sides, according to the Press dispatches are confident of victory. The consensus of opinion, however, gives the victory to the Republican nominee, Harding, but the Democrats cling to the hope that with a noticeable change in sentiment during the past few days, Senator Cox, their nominee will reside in the White House for the next four years. The League of Nations issue has had a big effect on the campaign, which has been vigorously fought. The Democratic party favor American recognition of the Covenant, while the Republican candidate is uncertain in the trimming of his sails. However, the question will be decided by the Electoral College to-morrow, when the women's vote will be a big factor in the decision.

Smuggler Fined.

The week before last the captain of the schooner Edna M. was before Magistrate O'Reilly at Placentia charged with a breach of the Prohibition Act, of which he proved himself innocent. But later a similar charge was made against his brother, who was found guilty and fined $100. It appears that the police were informed that a keg of liquor was on board the schooner and Head Const. Kent went on board and after a search located a five gallon keg of rum stored in a locker of the fore-castle. On endeavouring to bring the keg on deck, the owner procured an axe and smashed the keg which he later dumped over board. A second charge under Section 46 of the 1906 Intoxicating Liquors Act was preferred against the man for this action, judgment being reserved.

Sound Advice.

Most lawyers know the troublesome man who, having an eternal grievance, insists on taking his solicitor's advice on every possible occasion.

Such a one entered the office of a busy provincial man of law the other day.

"Johnson of Mudtown has insulted me!" he announced loudly. "He has threatened to pull my nose whenever he meets me. What would you advise me to do?"

The busy lawyer did not look up from his writing.

"If he really threatened to do that," he said judicially, "my advice is that you keep your nose well; then it will slip through his fingers. Good-day; I will send my bill in due course!"

OCTOBER WEATHER.—During the past month the meteorological conditions showed the following: 11 fine days, 16 dull and rainy, 4 clear and cold. Prevailing winds easterly.

Cowan Mission

To Establish Old Ladies' Home.
 The Cowan Mission Association held its annual meeting in October, when the following officers for the ensuing year were elected:—
 Hon. President—Mrs. A. W. Harvey.
 President—Mrs. Brehm.
 Vice-Presidents—Miss Browning and Mrs. M. G. Winter.
 Treasurer—Mrs. Dr. Brehm.
 Secretary—Mrs. L. Paterson.
 At the meeting the future of the Convalescent Home was discussed and it was decided to use it as a home for old ladies; and it is to be known hereafter as the Cowan Home for Old Ladies. It is proposed to formally open the institution to-morrow afternoon with a Pound Party, every visitor being expected to bring a pound package with her. For the present provision can be made for only a limited number of inmates, who will be charged a nominal amount, but after a while, if the institution proves a success, it is hoped to considerably enlarge it.

Express Passengers.

The following passengers landed at Port aux Basques from the Kyle yesterday, and are on the incoming express: A. E. Murley, A. N. Hamilton, J. and Mrs. Hardy, J. Glenning, Capt. E. Mock, H. Carmichael, E. Bryant, Mrs. E. Talchard, E. Coleman, C. A. Banks, N. Pittman, A. Parker, T. Connolly, Sir W. Cross, J. A. Condon, Mrs. J. Carnier, J. J. Rossiter, Mrs. H. Kennedy, P. McManus.

Port aux Basques Terminals.

Work on the new terminals at Port aux Basques is progressing rapidly. To-day there are upwards of one hundred men engaged in building the piers which, when completed, will give the various crafts calling there every facility for quick despatch in loading and unloading. This work is part of a voluminous programme of improvement to the railway system of Newfoundland, the intention being to supply the Reid ships as well as other Newfoundland craft calling there with fuel from the new coal areas at Bay St. George, which are believed to contain sufficient coal for the immediate wants of the various industrial concerns in the ancient colony.—North Sydney Herald.

The Fortune Hunter.

AT THE CASINO TO-NIGHT.

The Klark-Urban Company opens their second week's engagement with Winchell Smith's well-known story, "The Fortune Hunter." The story tells of a young man who found that goodness pays. Though once rich he finds himself poor. He tries work and fails, being discharged by his employers. He is professed in cocktails and cigarettes, a failure at everything else. A wise friend advises him to move to a little dull town, dress plainly but very elegantly, don't drink, don't smoke, don't swear, go to church, board with an old widow, if you can find one, have serious books on the table, and a large bible where everyone can see it. Don't pay any attention to young women, get a job, work hard. In every little town there's at least one girl worth a million. You'll marry her. Don't propose to her, that would be dishonorable, she'll propose to you, then you accept her and give your friend back the five hundred dollars he lends you. It would be unfair to relate the detail as patrons would much rather see it acted. "The Fortune Hunter" will be staged to-night and to-morrow night at the Casino.

Tobacco Next.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 27.—The doom of tobacco was sounded yesterday by Mrs. Ella Aldrich Gleason, president of the Massachusetts Christian Temperance Union, in her address before the Union's annual convention. The union has "accepted the divine commission," Mrs. Gleason said, to conduct a crusade against tobacco as strenuous as that waged against liquor.

Want Carpenter to Meet Tunney.

U. S. ARMY CRACK.

New York—This is—ought to be—a royal opportunity for M. Georges Carpentier to prove that his quick annihilation of Battling Levinsky wasn't one of those playdoodle things. Not that Georges will have to do any proving as far as we are concerned. Far from it. As far as Levinsky is concerned, he went just as far, a little further in fact, than we thought he would against the dashing Frenchman. But all of the natives of Missouri won't stay put, so it is up to Carpentier to show 'em plenty.

He can do that little thing if he can afford, or is inclined, to remain in this country until the November election is just an echo. And this is the story of the opportunity. Doo Bagley, the helmsman of Gene Tunney, is willing to pit the A. E. F. Crackerjack against the Old World wonderman and take all the risks, the risk of having his man jolly well outed and, just as important, making good Carpentier's guarantee.

The good "Doc" offers to pay Carpentier twenty thousand cold smackies for his end if he will agree to meet Tunney in Madison Square Garden the latter part of November. Bagley will take of all that is left of a certain percentage, which will be agreed upon between himself and Tex Rickard.

The tall Texan has said that he will produce the extravaganza should "Doc" get the handsome French boy to say a warlike word.

What a fight that would be! Tunney, of course, is inexperienced when one considers Carpentier's long line of march down the road of pugilistic fame. But for Tunney let it be said that he has done famously since coming from the real wars. He has knocked out his opponents almost to a man. Lucky he who has escaped the fury of his terrific punching. In Tunney, Carpentier would not be battering away at a defenceless "old man," who insisted and insists that he is not through.

Tunney is a dangerous hitter and brilliant one. In short, he hits every bit as hard as Carpentier did against Levinsky. Harder indeed.

Despite his three visits to the floor, Levinsky was still semi-conscious. Not so the men that Tunney has put away. When Gene crosses his right, out troop the trained little men and his victims are carted to cover and restoratives. It is certain that Carpentier is not going to rush pell-mell into battle with the toughest customers among the American heavyweights until he has a bit of seasoning.

He has been out of the ring for over four years with the exception of three quick battles with Messrs. Smith, Beckett and Levinsky. He can hardly be blamed for wanting to take on a few who are not exactly top notchers. For instance, should he agree to box Dempsey for the title before he has sufficient work to bring him back where he left off, he would be doing a most unwise thing. He should, however, have enough class, experience and ability to whip Tunney. Gene would probably admit that himself.

Sugar 12 Cents Retail.

In a letter received to-day from Boston, by a gentleman of the city, he was informed that granulated sugar was selling there retail at 12 cents per lb., and it is likely to go lower. Our local Sugar Control Board is now busying itself trying to get out of the hole in which it has found itself. On Saturday two meetings were held, but so far no information as to what was done has been made public.

A Misunderstanding.

Referring to the difficulty she experiences, in common with most Scandinavians, in giving the correct English pronunciation to the letter "g," Mme. Liliebl, the famous Norwegian dancer, who is making her first appearance in England, tells an amusing story.

It refers to a New York society woman who (says Mme. Liliebl) had a son at Yale, the famous American university, and was rather proud of the fact. One day she engaged a new maid of Swedish extraction named Selma, and on her arrival she conducted her over the house in order to show her "the ropes."

"This," she said, "is my son's room. He is in Yale."

"Ya!" Selma's face lit up with sympathetic understanding. "My brudder bene there, too?"

"Is that so? What year?" asked her mistress, somewhat surprised.

"Ach, he bene got no year; the judge just say, "You, Axel, sixty days in jail."

Not Guilty.

The case looked black against the prisoner, who was charged with loitering suspiciously at the railway station.

Presently the magistrate said: "This lady says you tried to speak to her at the railway station."

"It was a mistake," said the culprit. "I was looking for my wife's young niece, whom I had never seen, but who had been described to me as a handsome young lady, with golden hair, well cut features, fine complexion, perfect figure, beautiful dressed, and

With a charming blush the principal witness, against him interrupted his flow of eloquence. "I don't wish to prosecute the gentleman," she said. "Anyone might have made the same mistake."

MILNARD'S LINIMENT FOR GARGET IN COWS.

Those Cannibal Biscuits.

A young man in lodgings was much annoyed by his landlady continually taking his viands. One day he brought in a tin of biscuits, and, having taken one, he put the lid on the box again.

Day by day the biscuits disappeared with alarming rapidity until only one remained.

One evening the landlady heard a great noise proceeding from the lodger's room, and, on opening the door, she beheld the young man belabouring a biscuit with the poker.

"Mercy me, what's that you're doing to the biscuit, Mister Tamson?" she exclaimed.

"Oh!" replied the young man, resignedly. "I was given it a thrashing for eating all its companions."

The Result of Prohibition.

Capt Sir James Charles, the genial skipper of the Aquitania, is responsible for the story of the American passenger returning from his holiday—or should it be his "alcohol holiday"—in Yurru.

On board the liner (says Sir James) he met a friend whom he hadn't seen since they disembarked three months before in Liverpool.

"Waal, and what sort of a time did you hev?" he asked. "Did you sample much whiskey?"

"Oh, a fair amount," answered his friend. "Course I had a rest once or twice—just to hev a smoke you know. And you?"

"Same as that," drawled the other. "Only I don't smoke."

CODFISH—Arrivals during the week have not been large. Shore fish has found a ready market at current prices. Labrador arrivals have been small, and altogether buyers have not been over anxious to stock up large quantities of fish. The few arrivals referred to have all been disposed of at not less than $8.25 per quintal. The shipments for the week to foreign markets amount to 8,700 quintals.
COD OIL—There is no improvement in the foreign markets, and it looks as if we are going to see still lower prices before there can be any improvement in the demand. Several of our largest handlers will not pay over $180.00 per ton on the spot for Common Oil. Advices from New York this week do not justify the payment of this figure.

CODLIVER OIL—There is nothing doing in Codliver Oil. It looks as if the Norwegians, with their lower priced, inferior product, have filled up all the buyers in the foreign market for the season, and latest reports from New York by letters to Exporters here show they have, during October, made big sales at $1.00 a gallon and in some cases even lower. This is the price quoted here. "The Drug and Chemical Market" in its October issue, commenting on market conditions says:—"The same weakness prevails the Codliver Oil situation. Demand when it should be heavy, is light, and dealers are shading prices to induce buying. The best openly named figure for spot goods is $55.00 a barrel for both Norwegian and Newfoundland. However it is intimated that better than this can be done for the latter type. For shipments from Norway, $45.00 is named."
PORK—The importation of Pork to St. John's this week was only 100 barrels, which is an indication of the dullness of the provision market. Latest American information speaks of marked inactivity, stocks being moderate and very little interest shown in this particular line. Prices of Hogs continue very firm. The falling off in the movement of Hogs reported during the week and of the general slaughter, is expected to mean a further decrease in the available stocks of product at the principal points. Ham Butts in the local market is $56.00, while lower quality may be had for $53.00. Other qualities from $38 to $50.00.

BEEF—The imports for this week totalled 568 barrels. Market continues very strong at last week's prices. Not much trade in Beef here the past week, and the dullness in local circles discourages importation of Beef and Pork in any quantity. If the usual local demand for export requirements takes place, it will be necessary to make considerable large imports. If this demand does not supervene, there are sufficient stocks here no doubt to supply the local trade. Local prices are:—Choice Boneless $32.00, Special Family $38.00, Family $34.00, and Choice Plate $25.

FLOUR—Stocks are getting low in the local market, and there are no considerable shipments arriving such as would be coming in other years at this time. There have been rapid fluctuations in the Wheat market, and it looks as if we will see still lower prices by the end of the year. The reports from Manitoba are excellent and Wheat has been secured in splendid condition. There are over one million bushels on the way to Minneapolis to help out the quality of United States Spring Wheat Flours, as their Wheat does not compare in quality with that of the Canadian North West. We quote highest grade of Manitoba Patents at $17.00 on the spot and $16.00 to arrive shortly. Imports this week amounted to 2240 barrels.

SUGAR—Importers of sugar contend that on behalf of themselves and the public generally, the Food Control Board should make public the total quantity on hand, so that the people may know when to expect cheaper sugar and the importers may know when to purchase.

These figures can be procured by the Trade, we believe, but it would look better if the Board would take the public into their confidence and give out the figures officially so that we could all know where we stand. Some of the papers say that there is sufficient controlled sugar here to last till March; others say "it will not be exhausted till June."

We think it is due to the public to be enlightened as to the probable date when we may expect to get cheap sugar.

POTATOES—Home grown potatoes are very plentiful in the local market just now, and are going from farmers to householders as low as $3.50 per barrel. Store prices are $4.00 a barrel and 15 to 16 cents a gallon. Newfoundland has had the best crop for many years and the quality is excellent. P.E.I. stocks will not be in till about a month hence. The price will be $4.00 to $5.00 per 180 pounds barrel.

APPLES—The "Gravenstein" season is over as far as importers are concerned. The next quality in order of consumption is "Kings," a few small shipments of which have already arrived. Prices are somewhat lower, the reduction being caused by disorganization in shipping facilities to Europe, due to the labor unrest, which has reduced the normal rate of Apple export to England in October 100%. "Kings" are selling in the St. John's markets at $8.50 to $9.00 per barrel.

CORN—There has been a drop of 41 cents per bushel during the past month. Corn is selling now cheaper than any time since the war. The greatest corn crop ever known has been gathered this season on the American Continent, and it should greatly reduce the price of Pork next year as it is the staple food of a large percentage of the hogs.

Notes From Brigus.

Mr. T. E. Mitchell and J. T. Mack left for Harbor Grace to spend the week-end on Saturday last.

The stork has been visiting this town very frequent of late. This time it has left a son to Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Butland.

Schooner Clarence B., owned by Mr. C. A. Jerrett and commanded by Mr. Stephen J. Kennedy, of Conception Harbor, arrived home on Tuesday evening after a passage of about 3½ days.

Mr. C. A. Jerrett and J. W. Hiseock, arrived from the Labrador by Friday morning's train; Mr. Hiseock left by the Seal for St. John's the same evening.

The S.S. Seal arrived from Labrador ports on Friday afternoon to land a few crews including Capt. William Bartlett, Jr., also Mr. Thomas Roberts, one of Coaker's Fish Inspectors.

Mr. Daniel Quinlan and Miss Elizabeth Morrissey were united in the Holy bonds of matrimony on Thursday evening at 7.30 by the Rev. Dr. J. J. Murphy, P.P. Mr. Quinlan has purchased the house formerly occupied by Mr. James Power, the last of the true born Irishmen of this harbor, as their future residence. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan many years of wedded happiness.

Mr. Robert Bartlett, carpenter, who spent the past couple of months erecting a bank at St. George's, returned home on Thursday evening.

Schooner Springwood, owned by J. W. Hiseock and commanded by Mr. Patrick Driscoll, another of Conception Harbor's fine mariners arrived here on Thursday evening after a run of about a week.

Mr. J. French and Mr. H. M. Hearn, arrived from Heart's Content on a visit.

Mr. Morine's Reply to "Advocate."

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The Advocate published my letter of Thursday last in Saturday's number, and will, I hope, also publish the appended reply to certain comments it chose to make on that letter, but as the Advocate is not prompt in publication, and the public memory is short, I shall be obliged if you will publish the enclosed.
Yours truly,
ALFRED B. MORINE.

To the Editor of the Advocate.
Dear Sir.—My letter sent to you on Wednesday not appearing in the Advocate on Thursday, and no mention being made of it therein, I very naturally concluded that you would not publish it, and naturally also I expressed chagrin at what seemed to me a gross unfairness. But you have published my letter, though after an unfair delay, and for so much I thank you, and withdraw any words of mine which were unjustifiable.

I thank you, too, for your attempt to justify your editorial remarks on Tuesday last, for I take it for granted you will publish this further reply, and it gives me still another opportunity to state the real truth.
As to the Labrador Boundary, you quote the Hon. Mr. Coaker as saying to you that he "did not ask Mr. Morine, but only suggested that he should accept a retainer from the Government." Well, Sir, Mr. Coaker's "suggestions" are very valuable, and in this case resulted in me being retained by Premier Lloyd. I see no real distinction. The point is that it was Mr. Coaker who first mooted to me my appointment by the Government, for which I thank him, as I did then.

But you say, Sir, on the authority of Mr. Coaker, I presume, that "the retainer Mr. Morine was to get was for the whole job, and he had no right to draw the amount until the work was performed." If this were true, it would indicate that Mr. Coaker did not merely suggest "that I should accept a retainer," but arranged the amount thereof, and when I was to be paid. It is true, however, for I was asked to accept a "retainer," which is the fee always payable in advance, and in fact, the exact amount was arranged at the time I was appointed. It is so manifestly absurd that I should name an exact sum to cover services that might spread over years, and perhaps take me to the Privy Council, and that I should wait to be paid until all the work was done, that I merely say on this point that it is utterly false.

Your reference on Saturday to this Labrador Boundary matter as so mixed with payments made to me in November last, on account of the Commercial Cable case, as to create the impression that His Excellency the Governor made some objection to the fee paid to me in the Labrador matter. This is not true.

It has always appeared to me that discussions between the Governor and any of his Ministers in relation to public affairs are in their very nature confidential, and the manner in which the name of Governor Harris has been drawn into discussions by some of his present Ministers is positively amazing to me. I refrain, therefore, from replying to your remarks about the Governor in this connection, except to remark that you can know nothing of the Governor's conduct except by statements he has made to his Ministers, and they have improperly repeated to you.
The Lloyd Government was defeated in May, 1919, and any payments made me prior to that date on account of the Commercial Cable case, were known to Mr. Coaker, I presume, and upon his joint responsibility. Judgment for the Government was given in February, 1919, and an appeal made to the Privy Council. In Nov., 1919, payments were made on accounts of the action and the appeal, and on the 17th of May, 1920, final judgment for the Government was given in the Privy Council. The proceedings have not yet been concluded, and extend, therefore, over a period longer than two years, while the amount the Commercial Cable Company will have to pay this year will total $230,000, in addition to which claims against other cable companies were involved in this.

On the 18th of May, 1918, I said the following in a letter to a member of the Lloyd Government: "I have based the retainer on 1%... Will you kindly ascertain if this meets with the Government's approval... If so, I shall be obliged for a cheque forthwith, according to the usual practice." In reply, I received a cheque for my retainer. Two weeks later I wrote, "as the amount now at issue proves to be $398,000, I shall later ask that the retainer be increased." This was agreed to. I quote from the correspondence to show that my bargain was perfectly clear.
Commenting upon the fact that I received about $12,000 for legal work given to me by the Lloyd Government, the Advocate says "a great many people would consider themselves very lucky if they could get so much in four or five years." I should think them lucky, too, the kind of people the Advocate has in mind, but the Colony which paid them would certainly be very unlucky. I am not of that kind of people, and I may say that I would think it a very unlucky year now-days when, if not in public office, I could not earn that amount or more. I must admit that I am amazed at Mr. Coaker's narrow views in this connection, for I never regarded him as so small in spirit to pay a good price for good work.

As to the law reports I sold to the Government in 1919, for the Justice Department, you say you understand that a further expenditure will have to be made to bring the library of the department up-to-date. Why, of course! I sold 150 volumes. About fifty more of later date are needed for this series. There then will be hundreds more needed of still later date. And they are needed very much. About $5,000 could be profitably spent in law books for that office. Might I suggest that Mr. Coaker needs a law library in his own department. But if he had one, and competent advisers, I would not be so profitably employed as nowadays, and as I hope to be.
Yours truly,
ALFRED B. MORINE.

who regret that they ever placed these men in power. All over the country dissatisfaction is rampant, and the people want an opportunity to show their opposition to the doings of the Coaker rule. But we must have a way of showing it, and that can be done only by public meetings organized and conducted by the men who are looked upon as leaders in the Opposition ranks. If the people are given a chance they will soon show their disapproval of the slavery rule that now threatens us.
Yours truly,

Salvage Notes.

Mr. J. R. Courage was here a few days ago soliciting orders for imported beef (fresh). We are informed that he did a brisk business, although considering that the meat will cost in the vicinity of 30 cents per pound, landed, we see nothing entailing in the way of bargains about the transaction.

We also had a visit from a journeyman watch repairer, but if we have to depend on such scantily outfitted workmen for reliable chronometers, we are doomed to something worse than the confusion existing in our outports when the Daylight Bill is enforced, and only obeyed by half the villagers.

Many families are disappearing from Salvage. Since September no less than seven families have left or are about to leave. Some are merely going away for the winter, while others are bidding adieu for aye, to the old scenes. Happily but few intend leaving Newfoundland as yet.

The unsettled weather has been a big setback to the fall's work. Most of the people have their potatoes up, and are endeavouring to get their cruciferous finished, but the daily gales and the consequent seas make the task an almost impossible one.
Twice during October the "Watchful" has been unable to call—going north—by reason of the tremendous sea running. On the first occasion, the mail was landed at Happy Adventure, Tuesday night, but we did not receive same until Saturday. Only six miles away, but the genial Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, was so interested in his leader's district, that he disregarded the desire of the people to have mail sent by special trip of the courier.

I note with pleasure the formation of a Philatelic Society, in St. John's. It appears to me, however, that the Philatelists could easily come as a sub-body under the Historical Society, as the postage and revenue stamps of any country give more of an intermittent outline of part of its history. Newfoundland being no exception. Be that as it may the formation of such a society will, undoubtedly induce many to become stamp collectors, and thus keener patriots.

We are glad to note that the Regulations are still getting logical knock-outs from the People's Paper. The cries of the Star and Advocate are of course as per usual. "All is gold that glitters of Coakerism." The Star is not always so generous—but bygone are bygone for the present—and talking of the regulations, was it the results of the same, so manifest in the city and country, that induced an American visitor to St. John's to remark to one of our clerks, that the tide of sentiment in the city in business circles, was confederation?

If so, and it would not surprise us if confederation became a life question to-morrow, wouldn't it be ridiculous to know that Squires was at the very moment pretending to settle the Labrador Boundary Question between Newfoundland and Canada. Laughable, indeed! but not more so than others of Squires' doings.

An Appeal.

To The C. of E. Children, Newfoundland.
Dear Children.—On behalf of the children of Bay Bull's Arm, Trinity Bay, I will ask your help. On June 1st, 1920, the forest fire destroyed our Church and some of our homes, but we still have our school left, in which we hold Divine Service. We, the children, are at present working to obtain money to purchase a small organ to be used in His service. We want you children to think of us, and send us a small donation. However small we shall be thankful. If you cannot help us this way, please remember us in your prayer's. Any donation received will be acknowledged. On behalf of the Children, I am yours in anticipation.

Mrs. Annie M. Sloan, of Buffalo, Declares She Would Not Take All the Money in the World For Good Tanlac Did Her.

"I will just say frankly I think Tanlac is perfectly wonderful and I didn't take all the money in the world for the good it has done me."

She represented the women of her district in their appeal to the United States Senate at Washington when the Suffrage Bill was first introduced, and was honored with a membership in the Washington Suffrage Club.

Mrs. Sloan is also deeply interested in church and charity work. Her interest regarding the benefit she derived from Tanlac will be of widespread interest. She said:

"I have only been taking Tanlac for four weeks, but I am already feeling better than I have felt in years. Why, it just seems as though I have been awarded a new lease on life and I would be doing an injustice to others who are trying to find relief from what this grand medicine has done for me."

Some time ago I was compelled to undergo an operation for gallstones, for which I got along very well until about a year and a half ago, when these attacks became frequent and each one I would have to remain in bed for four or five days. About six weeks ago I had another of these attacks and was in such Jockeys in Armour.

The most peculiar horse-race in the world is the famous "Pallo" which takes place every summer at picturesque Italian city of Siena. Magnificent mediaeval costumes are worn by all who take part in the proceedings. Before the actual racing begins, the jockeys, clad in glittering armour and their horses beautifully decorated, make a tour of the course, accompanied by cavaliers, pages, heralds, and others.

The scene of the race is the huge square before the communal palace. Here an oval course is fenced off for the occasion, and sand is laid over the concrete. The public are admitted free to the centre of the square, and the outer side of the square is surrounded by stands and seats for the use of those who are willing to pay for seats.

Every district of Siena is represented by a jockey and has an emblem, amongst them being the snail, corn, caterpillar, griffin, and porcupine. Each contingent in the procession has a standard showing these emblems as they march along.

Before the racing each jockey has his steed into a church in his district, and both receive a blessing. As soon as the procession is over, the jockeys retire to doff their armor. When they reappear they reappear on their own jockeys, but the horse without saddles, barebacked and being the rule. Amidst thunders of cheering they at last get away and race three times round the square. Every jockey is allowed to whip his rival on the shoulders of any of his rivals within reach!

Directly the winner arrives at the goal he is seized by the crowd, kissed and embraced, and carried to the gates to receive the Pallo or prize, which is an elaborately-painted banner. This he bears off in triumph and deposits in the church of his district.

A Real Sherlock Holmes.

The creator of Sherlock Holmes tells an amusing story against himself. During a lecture tour through the United States he arrived one day in Boston, and was considerably astonished when a cabman accosted him and addressed him by name. "How did you know who I was?" said Sir Conan Doyle, much interested, and not a little flattered. "If you'll excuse my saying so," said the cabman, "the lapels of your coat look as if they had been grabbed by New York reporters, your hair looks, as if it had been cut in Philadelphia, your hat looks as if you had had to stand your ground in Chicago, and your right shoe has evident Buffalo mud under the instep, and—"

Inter-Collegiate Football

The final game of the second round which was played on Saturday, ended in a draw, neither side being able to score. St. Bon's had the ball in the M.C. territory almost right through the game, and only the poor shooting of their forwards and the excellent defence work put up by the M.C. backs prevented them from scoring. During the game the M.C. goalkeeper was knocked out for a few minutes but was able to continue playing. The end of the second round leaves the St. Bon's leading with 7 points, the M.C. second with 4 points, and the Felldians last with 1 point. Judging, however by the splendid play of the last named team during the second round, they are by no means out of the running. This afternoon the Felldians meet M.C. in the first game of the final round.

The second eleven of St. Bon's beat the Felldian second eleven at St. George's Field, after the seniors game on Saturday by 2 goals to 1.

QUALITY

One thing essential in your Winter Coat is QUALITY. One has to wear their Winter Coat for many months, and to stand against this you require the best of material in it.
 We have carefully selected our stock of Winter Coatings and feel we have goods that merit your approval. You can purchase enough excellent material to make a coat for $24.00, and if you wish we can make it up for you, and deliver the finished garment in a week or less if necessary. The material is equal in quality to that in coats which retail at $70.00 to $90.00.
 We ask you to come in and see the goods, examine them, get samples and prices, compare with others, and come back and purchase the goods.
