LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER

— OR —

THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER XL.

No pen is sufficiently powerful to describe the actions, the emotions, and the language of the man so strangely reunited to wife and child.

An hour was spent in explanations, between sobs and happy laughter.

"And all these miserable years we have been suffering uselessly," said Lady Morden.

"Not uselessly," replied her husband, "for now we shall understand what the real meaning of true happiness is. Your father swore to me that you were dead, and later that our daughter was gone, too. He drove me from the house with curses, and was ably assisted by Esther Marsh. Then, believing that I was, in the eyes of the law, bound to the woman who ruined our lives, I changed my name, and went abroad to evade her persecutions. I dropped my identity and had but one wish, and that was to die. Then I met Locksley's father—I had a severe illness, and made him my executor. Finally, he left me for dead. The doctors had declared that life was extinct, but I rallied, and lived! I am here to make amends for the past. I was tricked into a marriage when a boy. When I was wood and won your gentle heart I had forgotten the incident; but it was no marriage after all, as the cunning creature had a legal husband living at the time, and several other tools, such as I had been, to prey upon."

Then they went into the mystery of Edmund's adventures that had so nearly amounted to his murder—and connected it with the abominable scandal which had already been copied into several newspapers from the society journal.

Edmund's cheeks flushed, and an angry light blazed into his eyes when he saw the shameful story in print.

"I never dreamed that I had an enemy until now," he said. "And it seems that I have one—or perhaps more, whose nature is deadly. Why should this be?"

He thought of Marlowe, and his lips curled, contemptuously.

"We will wait until the coming of my friend, Fairfax, and my trusted Rogers," he told Lord Morden. "And then you must come with me and meet my unhappy father. He has already given up all, and I left him on that night—which almost proved fatal to me—in a mean little house on the Surrey side of the Thames. He was riding away, under an assumed name, and dreaming of prison walls. He has sinned, but he has suffered. Let me say this much in his favor. He made inquiries for Dora, and the report from Captain Deane was that the wife and children of Morden were all happily dead."

"My ill-advised father has much to answer for," Lady Morden observed. "I cannot understand Esther Marsh's ascendancy over him."

"All things will be made clear soon," Lord Morden said; "but I am too happy now to wish to give any man one pang of pain!"

He fondly kissed his wife, and it seemed that he would never tire of feasting his eyes upon her sweet face which had grown ten years younger in the space of a few short hours.

"And there is my second Dora," he smiled. "So like what her mother was twenty years since, I have only to close my eyes and fancy that I am five and twenty instead of five and forty. Locksley, you have been mainly instrumental in bringing us together, and have amply atoned for your father's folly, which, after all, was but the weakness of a moment."

Then he stepped forward, and embraced his daughter, saying:

"It does not often fall to the lot of a young lady to be in the position of neither wife nor widow, and soon—as soon as you please, young people—we will have another marriage, and this time there shall be no interruption, for the bride will be given away by her father."

CHAPTER XLII.

Fairfax and Frank Rogers visited Marlowe at the Mansion House jail, and the pitiful scoundrel greeted them in his cringing, cowardly way.

"I have not come to hear anything from you," the barrister said. "Your confederate is dead; but before dying he confessed everything."

Marlowe paled, and his lips twitched nervously.

"I refer to Viscount Melville," resumed Fairfax.

"Dead! dead!" murmured Marlowe. "It must have been sudden—very sudden."

"You will learn as much as you desire to know from the newspaper reports."

Fairfax remained in thought for a short time, Marlowe anxiously watching him the while.

"I understand," the barrister said, "that you persecuted Miss Deane, having the knowledge that she was Lord Morden's legitimate daughter and heiress?"

The Pangs of Remorse

— OR —

A Complicated Tangle.

CHAPTER I.

Mr. Clifford was better and was coming downstairs to-morrow. It was a happy thought for Lillian, a strangely happy one, notwithstanding that she had a right to feel happy at the recovery of the man who had dared and suffered so much for her.

He had been up, but confined to his own rooms for some days past; to-morrow he was to journey down to the drawing room, and to-day seemed long passing to the beautiful pupil.

To-morrow came and with it the convalescent.

They were seated, Sir Ralph and Lillian, before the fire in the drawing room, when a quiet tap at the door announced his arrival. Sir Ralph arose and opened it himself, and Mr. Clifford entered.

He was changed, fearfully changed thin and worn, pale and haggard; he wore, in addition, a wistful, troubled look that did not entirely vanish even with the smile of respectful gratitude with which he shook the hand held out to him.

"I owe you a great debt, sir," he commenced, in his old, grave tone, but slightly weaker; but Sir Ralph stopped him.

"Not a word, I beg, Mr. Clifford, or you will mar the pleasure I feel in seeing you down again. Come to the fire, there is an easy-chair."

He approached the firelight, and Lillian saw him. She started and trembled.

"I am so glad to see you recovered," she said, in a very low voice. "Thank you, Miss Melville; I am very grateful for your kind wishes," he said.

"You must be tired of your rooms and Rivershall," said Sir Ralph, after a little conversation on general matters, in which Lillian took the listener's part, stealing glances every now and then at the tutor's wan face.

"No," said Mr. Clifford; "indeed, I am not. It would take more than an ordinary life to grow tired of Rivershall."

"Not quite, I think," said Sir Ralph. "I was about to propose, Mr. Clifford, that you should try a little sea air, say Brighton, for a week or two; it would do you good."

Mr. Clifford looked at the fire.

"I am getting on rapidly," he said. "I think I would prefer to remain at Rivershall. I am anxious to resume my duties. If I may say so much, I would say that I should feel happier and more content to resume to-morrow," said Mr. Clifford.

Lillian shook her head; but, happening to glance at the wan face, said, rather inconsistently:

"I shall be glad if you are well enough."

Mr. Clifford bowed and the matter was settled, Sir Ralph never refusing anything his idol proposed.

Exactly at ten the next day, Mr. Clifford and his pupil set to work. If she were all caprice and impudence once, she was all docility and meekness now.

She listened to his instructions with downcast eyes and eager ears; she followed every word with the greatest anxiety.

"And that is the end of the lesson, is it?" she said; "and I am sure you are tired to death"—and she looked into his face that wore a new, wistful, troubled look.

"No," he said, "not at all. Shall we go to the piano, now, or will you practice later?"

"Now, she said, "after I have consulted Mrs. Williams."

Mrs. Williams appeared with a tray of wine and jelly.

Mr. Clifford looked, if anything, annoyed.

"Miss Lillian's orders, sir," said Mrs. Williams, timidly. "She said I was to bring it when she rang."

He took the wine and drank a glass and ate a spoonful of the jelly.

"You will not let me forget my weakness, Miss Melville," he said; "I assure you it is past."

Lillian said nothing, but walked from the room, and he followed her.

She chose the piece and she played it, looking round at its finish to ask for his criticism.

He picked out one or two phrases, adding:

"I cannot play them, unfortunately."

The Real Mind of New Zealand

A VERY CANDID ARTICLE. (By M. C. Keane, Editor of 'The Press,' Christchurch, N.Z.)

New Zealand is growing fast. In 1875 its population was 300,000; in 1900 it was 750,000; to-day it has a million and a third. But we have become conscious that the rest of the world is growing too, and that there is next to no change in the one great fact which oppresses us, namely, our isolation.

Twenty years ago it troubled us little that we were 12,000 miles from Great Britain. War could not come nearer to us than the North Sea, and the Navy could attend to that; we could always sell all the wool and meat and butter that we could produce, and we could borrow all the money we needed.

To-day our old sense of perfect security is gone, although we can still sell our produce to Britain and can still raise loans there, adding to the debt which mainly accounts for the growth in our population and our activities. We are entirely dependent, that is to say, upon Great Britain, and more of us realize this every day.

DOMINION DIFFERENCES. We feel no strong sense of closest kinship with any of the other States of the Empire. Their problems are not ours, nor their ways our ways.

We never think of Canada without thinking of her forward nationalism and her great southern neighbour. Australia jars upon us very often, and the measure of our affinity is the fact that the compound word "Australia" is the longest seen in print in New Zealand, and has been condemned lately and expressly by the Press, and even by some of the large public organizations. South Africa, with its Hogwits and its inalienable Labour Party, merely makes us uneasy. We have not yet reached the stage of slightly agonized wondering what will become of us, but we do realize very acutely that our future is more than ever bound up with the future of the British Isles. We might borrow money from America; we might sell all our produce, instead of some only of it, to America or Europe; but we do not wish ever to be forced into doing this through Britain's loss of the present position. The New Zealander does not want to think of existence otherwise than under the Union Jack.

LOYALTY TO ENGLAND. All this is not the result of mere self-interest. New Zealanders love and respect the spirit of England, and while they fully understand the extent of the overseas Dominions' efforts in the Great War, including their own, they understand just as clearly the magnitude of Britain's sacrifice and the great courage and unselfishness of her policy since the ending of the war.

"Britain is good enough for me," is a phrase I heard from the late Mr. Massey many a time, and it is the sentiment of most people in this Dominion. The late Mr. Seddon used to speak in thrilling tones of the Empire; Mr. Massey preferred to speak of the Mother Country, which still means more to us than the Empire does. One doubts whether Mr. Macdonald King or Mr. Stanley Bruce would ever say "Britain is good enough for me" unless with annihilating qualifications. And here, I think, is a fundamental difference between New Zealand and the other States of the Empire.

We should like a measure of tariff preference from Britain that would benefit us, but there is no New Zealander who will not admit that the balance of obligation as between Britain and New Zealand is heavily on our side, and that our moral and material debt to Britain is and will long remain beyond our means of repayment. It is not alone of ourselves facing the spectre that has vanished from the North Sea to reappear in the Pacific, that we are thinking when we support the Singapore plan. In everything that concerns international affairs and the affairs of trade, Britain's interests and our own are by most people here thought of as identical.

LABOUR AND THE EMPIRE.
It has not needed crisis to bring these facts out, for we have not crises here. This is a very placid country—prosperous, industrious, humdrum, ignorant of most of the troubles that afflict the other lands. Economically the Dominion is sound; politically it faces no more serious difficulty than the persuading of the Liberal and Government parties to abandon their reasonable quarrelling and present a solid front to the Socialist challenge. But that challenge is serious, and our Labour Party is rather weaker than yours. Mr. Clynnes and Mr. J. H. Thomas would not feel nearly so comfortable in it as Mr. Kirkwood or Mr. Maxton would.

Yet not many New Zealanders fear that the Empire would suffer grave injury from a Labour Government in the Dominion, for the reason that although the most extreme anti-imperial sentiments are held and expressed by our Labour leaders, practically all of whom are admirers of the Bolshevik rule in Russia, the Labour voters include a very substantial number who at heart are as sound on the fundamentals of Empire unity as anyone. And destruction, swift and sure, would fall upon any Government tampering with the fundamentals.

There is a difference in Electric Irons

THERE is no electrical device in which there can be a greater difference of quality than in the electric iron.

One may be nickel-plated and polished just like the other, but the electrical elements which form the vital parts may be as different as day is from night. In Westinghouse electric irons these elements receive the same care and scrutiny as would be exercised in the making of any intricate electrical undertaking.

Whether it be intended for the home or the heavy tailor's iron, choose Westinghouse.

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

"I must always keep a sharp lookout," thought Little Jack Rabbit, remembering all of a sudden his narrow escape from Hungry Hawk, which I mentioned in the last story, "as he noticed the Farmer's Boy coming across the Sunny Meadow, hiding behind the Farmer's Boy, carefully balancing himself as he stepped over the log that spanned the Bubbling Brook. Then down the Old Cow Path he went, whistling merrily. Nearer and nearer he came to the dear Old Bramble Patch. The next minute thump! thump! went the bunny boy's candy cane. The Farmer's boy was peering in through the bushes.

"Oh dear and Oh dear," cried the little frightened rabbit, "I hope Mother isn't out in her garden. He'll surely see her. How I wish I could warn her."

Just then Bobbie Redvest settled on the meadow. "Bobbie Redvest, Bobbie Redvest!" cried the bunny boy, "please fly quicky quick to the Old Bramble Patch and tell Mother the Farmer's Boy is peeping through the bushes. Tell her to hide."

Clapping his wings, and without waiting to ask "Why" away flew the little bird to warn Lady Love that danger was near. Right over the Farmer Boy's head he sailed and dropping down in the lady rabbit's rose garden, he whispered: "Hide, hide! The Farmer's Boy is peeping through the bushes." Hopping quickly into her little kitchen the frightened little lady rabbit hid in the cupboard behind the milk pan.

"Why, here's a little path," suddenly exclaimed the Farmer's Boy, parting the bushes with his hands. "A rabbit's trail, by ginger," and he began to edge in between the prickly brambles. But, goodness me! The thorns, clung to his coat and trousers, doing their best to hold them back. Just then who should dash out but Danny Fox. How he ever came to be there is a mystery to me. But I do know that it was a mighty lucky thing that he had come, and even more lucky that he was still hiding there as the Farmer's Boy tried to push his way in.

"Hey, hey!" shouted the Farmer's Boy, backing out as best he could and forgetting all about the little path and rabbit tracks, he ran swiftly up the Old Cow Path to the farmhouse, as the old fox sped away towards the Shady Forest.

"What's the matter?" asked the Kind Farmer, as his nose rushed breathless into the kitchen.

"Just saw Danny Fox. Where's the gun?"

"Why, here's a little path," suddenly exclaimed the Farmer's Boy, parting the bushes with his hands. "A rabbit's trail, by ginger," and he began to edge in between the prickly brambles. But, goodness me! The thorns, clung to his coat and trousers, doing their best to hold them back. Just then who should dash out but Danny Fox. How he ever came to be there is a mystery to me. But I do know that it was a mighty lucky thing that he had come, and even more lucky that he was still hiding there as the Farmer's Boy tried to push his way in.

den in the rocks. Better get the hoe and weed the garden. Carrots and peas are more important just now than foxes."

"Danger's past, twitter, tweet. Hop out on your little feet."

"Bang Bobbie Redvest at the window-sill of the little bungalow in the rear Old Bramble Patch."

"Are you sure?" asked frightened Lady Love, opening the cupboard door just a tiny crack. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Empire Problem Waits on Science

AUSTRALIA'S PREMIER DISCUSSES POSITION OF ANTIPODES.

Key To Difficulty, He Says, Is Diffusion Of News.

LONDON, May 27—Canada has direct interest in the controversy which Australia has started following Premier Bruce's suggestion that while there is no intention on the part of the Australian Government to supply the High Commissioner in London by appointing a representative who shall be midway between a Cabinet Minister and an Ambassador, yet when a suitable person possessing the confidence of both the British and Australian Governments comes along he will likely be appointed to watch Australian interests in the development of Britain's foreign policy.

Australia already has an official here for this purpose, but so far he has served merely as a channel for information between the British and the Australian Governments. Premier Bruce, in discussing this development, is reported to have said: "Looking forward I think it is increasingly unfortunate that the Dominions should be involved in decisions made by the British Government without any opportunity of discussing them for themselves."

Former Premier Hughes, commenting on this statement, said that what the Premier seemed to propose was the appointment of someone who should stand in the same relation as Colonel House did to President Wilson during the later years of the war and immediately following the armistice, "but Mr. Bruce does not seem to appreciate," he added, "the difference between America and Australia. The idea that Australia will allow her foreign policy to be moulded by an unofficial adviser outside of Parliament or of the Cabinet must be dismissed as beyond the sphere of practical politics. The foreign policy of world-wide Empire necessarily presents some difficulties, and some of them are seemingly insoluble. We shall never be able to govern the Empire as a single country is governed and the key to the whole problem is the rapid diffusion of information throughout the Dominions, the exchange of views and the discussion of difficulties. This cannot be done by unofficial advisers but by improvements in wireless telephony and telegraphy, in swifter airships, and more rapid sea transportation. Only by this means can the Dominions have an effective vote in Empire affairs and retain control over their own policies."

The British Government is exceedingly interested in the problems because with the future foreign policy of the Empire now in a state of flux it is necessary for its satisfactory solution that the views of the Dominions should be secured and Britain would welcome an expression of the views of the Dominion, especially of Canada.

"Red Romance" Warning

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S COUNSEL TO TRADE UNIONISTS—STANDING BY BUDGET.

Having abandoned Germany as a fruitful ground for disseminating his foul and poisonous propaganda, Zimovier makes no secret of the fact that he looks to England as the one country in the world which affords the fairest prospect of the development of his enterprise.

The Earl of Birkenhead uttered this warning to the National Association of Trade Protection Societies in London recently.

"The time has come," he added, "for the trades unions of this country to decide whether they are going to march along the common road, side by side with Englishmen, or whether they were going to accept orders and act upon the policy of a man who cared nothing for England."

Referring to the Budget, Lord Birkenhead said it was one by which they would be judged when they left office, and no attack would deflect the Government from the main lines they had mapped out.

A Fjord as a Milky Way

Water in Soane Fjord, the longest and most famous of the Norwegian fjords, has become opaque and milky and the fish have disappeared, says a Reuter Bergen message. Usually the water is clear, with darkness of immense depth, and the few fish that have been caught in a narrow arm of the fjord, though alive, were covered with a thin semi-transparent slime. Samples of the water, with scales of the fish, have been sent to Oslo for examination by experts.

My Dear! Have you heard about Charley's Aunt? June 3, 31, w, f, s

The report of the annual meeting of the Motor Association, which is published in this issue, is altogether too modest in referring to the valuable work which it has performed, not only in the interest of the motorist, but also for the safety and comfort of the general public.

A Critical Situation in N. S. Mines

From the tone of to-day's messages from Sydney it is evident that the strike situation has reached a crisis, and the turn of events during the next few days will be watched with considerable anxiety.

Twelve thousand men have been out of work for three months, and in spite of the fact that their idleness has imposed upon them and their families considerable hardship and in many cases acute distress there has been no disorder or any attempts to interfere with the property of the Corporation.

Now, however, driven to the last ditch, the men seem determined to adopt a different attitude. A one hundred per cent picket has been ordered and all maintenance men have been forced to quit their posts. Unless some compromise is quickly effected a disaster to the coal mining industry seems inevitable.

The latest Sydney papers suggested that the strike was on the verge of collapse, and stated that most of the men were willing to accept, under the circumstances the proposed schedule of wages submitted by Besco. The blame for the failure of the strike is placed in the first place upon the International U.M.W. of America for failing to provide sufficient funds to maintain the men, and Premier Armstrong comes in for considerable criticism on the grounds that his attitude towards the Corporation has lacked firmness. As he has to face an election within a few weeks, this will no doubt furnish his opponents with a plentiful supply of ammunition for the campaign.

There has been considerable sympathy for the miners in their struggle, and this feeling has been strengthened owing to the admirable manner in which they have conducted themselves throughout the long and trying period, and because they have disassociated themselves entirely from the agitators who have tried to avail of the trouble to win them to their side.

Should the strike now result in violence, it will be most unfortunate, and it will also be regretted if it terminates without some amicable compromise having been arrived at, for it follows that if the men return to work labouring under a sense of injury, it means that there will be no heart in their work and that the real day of reckoning has only been deferred.

The proposed new wage scale would no doubt of itself prove acceptable, but the grievance is that the work is not continuous throughout the year, and in consequence the average daily earnings are insufficient to provide for ordinary requirements of life. In a bulletin issued by Besco it is stated that the average number of days worked by the mines in 1923 was 233, and in 1924, 187. The miners claim that the average is considerably lower, but with the figures given the earnings of the men can readily be computed.

To this Association in no small measure are due the stringent laws which have recently been enacted for the control of motor traffic, and it is responsible as well for having pioneered the movement which led to the great improvement effected in recent years in our roads. It was due to its initiative that the Roads Commission, now superseded by the Highroads Commission, was formed, and to those gentlemen who so generously gave of their time and their labour to the effecting of improvements in our thoroughfares we owe a great deal of gratitude. Their work was in every way a great public service.

We would strongly urge upon all motorists that as public-minded citizens they should be members of the Association. At present, we understand, the membership is only about one hundred and eighty. There cannot be less than 700 cars in St. John's, and with every driver enrolled, the Association would become a most valuable factor in eliminating many of the evils which exist at present, in securing greater advantages, and in preventing the reputation of the great majority of drivers being blackened by the few, who to-day are a menace both to pedestrians and owners of vehicles. Think it over, gentlemen, then roll up in your hundreds and join up.

Large Rollers Arrive

A large roller, weighing approximately 25,000 lbs., for the Armstrong Whitworth Co., Corner Brook, was hauled from the Furness Withy premises to the Railway Station yesterday afternoon by four pair horses. The job was a very difficult one, and was carried out under the supervision of C. Lester. A second roller of similar size and weight was hauled to the station this morning. Both rollers arrived by S.S. Rosalind from New York and will be shipped to its destination to-day.

Japan Threatens to Send Forces to Quell Chinese Uprising.

Climax Reached in Strike Situation; Police Protection Demanded -- 75 Deaths in Chicago Owing to Weather Conditions.

JAPAN THREATENS TO DEAL WITH CHINESE INSURGENTS.

LONDON, June 4. The Daily Express says it understands that Japan has sent an urgent note to the Peking Government to the effect that if the Chinese authorities are unable to preserve order in the Chinese cities, Japan is prepared to send naval and military forces as will reduce the insurgents to obedience. This sensational threat, veiled as an offer of assistance, says the Daily Express, is causing great anxiety to those persons with large commercial interests in China.

MATTERS HASTENING TO A CLIMAX IN STRIKE SITUATION.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 4. The General adoption through District 25, U.M.W. of A., of the policy of bringing about a complete cessation of maintenance work in all the Nova Scotia collieries of the British Empire Steel Corporation, and the consummation of that policy in one important instance, accompanied by more or less alleged misconduct, featured to-day's developments in the three-months-old dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and its coal mining employees in Nova Scotia, which has been heretofore attended by an orderliness unthought of during a strike of twelve thousand men. Advice to-night from all the "United Mine Workers' Locals on the Island of Cape Breton and on the mainland were to the effect that the picketing policy had been adopted by considerable majorities at a mass meeting held for the purpose, and in Springhill the Local Superintendent of the Corporation's plant there announced that he would withdraw the maintenance to-night, thus avoiding any possibility of them coming into contact with the pickets.

District President, John W. McLeod, leader of the miners, stated to-day both in interviews and in telegrams to the Attorney General of Nova Scotia and others, that the men were instructed to keep within the law, and he was to-night, he said, investigating reports that violence had accompanied the removal of maintenance workers from the electric light and power plant of the company at New Waterford, a part of the organization that supplied light, power and water, not only to all the coal mines in the southern area, but to the entire town of New Waterford, including a hospital containing twenty patients. Such action, he said, was not the policy of the District. The decision had been to picket legally to the fullest extent, but the use of force was forbidden. Attorney General O'Hearn had to-night advised President McLeod that if such violence as had been reported from New Waterford was the policy of the U.M.W. Workers, his department would take action.

There was also an exchange of telegrams between J. E. McLaugh, Vice-President of the British Empire Steel Corporation, and Hon. E. H. Armstrong, Premier of Nova Scotia, on the subject, and to-night Mr. Armstrong was on his way to Sydney where he will attend a Liberal Convention to-morrow to select candidates for the forthcoming election. Mr. McLaugh asked for police protection to ensure a continuance of operations at the New Waterford Power Plant, without which, he said, the collieries in that district would be seriously damaged. Mr. Armstrong replied that he had the matter under advisement, and had to-night that he hoped that the United Mine Workers' Executive would realize the importance from the standpoint of their cause alone of keeping strictly within the law, and would co-operate fully in the protection of property. District President, John W. McLeod, sent a telegram to-day to Hon. James Murdoch, Minister of Labor, again asking him to intervene and pointing out that "people living on 89 cents per week cannot forever be pacified in the face of the hostile action of the Government of Nova Scotia."

75 DEATHS IN CHICAGO DUE TO WEATHER.

CHICAGO, June 4. More than 75 deaths to-night were attributed to the weather conditions of the past few days over the country, the majority of them being due to heat, while others resulted from storms in the North West or from drowning.

ASSISTANCE SOUGHT FOR N. S. MINERS.

MONTREAL, June 4. Members of the seventy-two local unions affiliated with the Montreal Trades and Labor Council are to be circulated for subscriptions for the relief of striking miners in Nova Scotia, a resolution calling for this action without delay was passed unanimously at to-night's meeting of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council.

PRINCE OF WALES OPENS NEW DOCK AT DURBAN.

DURBAN, Union of South Africa, June 4.—The Prince of Wales to-day opened the new Graving Dock in the Harbor of Port Durban, and reviewed the British squadron assembled there. This dock is said to be one of the largest in the world.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

TORONTO, June 5. A survey of the work of the Presbyterian Church in Canada as carried on in bustling places through its home Mission Board was given the General Assembly last night by speakers from points as distant as Vancouver and Sydney. Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, the Moderator, in opening the meeting turned over the proceedings to Rev. W. H. Sedgewick, of Hamilton, the convener of the Board. Dr. Sedgewick introduced Rev. Dr. R. W. Ross of Halifax, who told of the work being done in the Maritime, and gave something of the religious history of these Provinces. The last speaker was Rev. Dr. John Pringle of Sydney, N.S., who described the dedication recently at Corner Brook, Nfld., of what he said was the first church property to be deeded to the United Church in Canada.

CANADA AND THE NORTHLAND.

NEW YORK, June 5. Discussing editorially the claim made by Canada, through Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, in the House of Commons, Monday, that all lands to the North of the Dominion already discovered or yet to be discovered, will be claimed by Canada, the New York Times this morning asks if the claim is arbitrary, and what is the basis of it. The Times declares Canada claims the mass of islands north of her organized territory by right mainly of British discovery, and points to the long list of British polar explorers whose names survive in lands which they were first to penetrate. The Times says Canada's claims to these islands could be claimed by the United States and Norway. They have not been mapped out as in the Franklin District. It may be doubted whether the Dominion believes its pretensions to them would be taken seriously, but the day is near when the title to lands in the north polar region will have to be established, as their aeronautical value for communication between East and West is now recognized.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL HIKERS.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 5. Something new in trans-continental walkers reached here yesterday in Mr. and Mrs. Bedgood, who are not only attempting to walk from St. John, N.B., to Vancouver in fulfillment of the usual wager, but are also pushing a go-cart containing their five-year-old daughter, Magdalene, to win $4,000. They must reach Vancouver before January 15, next.

INCONCEIVABLE BRUTALITY.

HAVANA, June 5. Rafael Leon and Pablo Hernandez, chauffeurs are being held in the suburbs of Havana, under the charge of having committed one of the most cruel murders Cuba has known for years. The murdered person, a girl, while unconscious, was placed against a tree, and an empty automobile set crashing into her body.

SHANGHAI SITUATION WORSE.

SHANGHAI, June 5. The strikes declared following rioting here extended considerably overnight, and the number abstaining from work to-day was estimated at 150,000. The strikers are reverting to old time Chinese methods, threatening the lives of families of workers remaining loyal to the foreign employers.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

June 4th.—All this morning in the highest ill-humour and do heartily curse the weather which is now turned cold, almost to freezing, and much rain. Indeed, it do seem how winter is like to come again before the summer. Talking with Spriggs, he tells me how he was at Torbay yesterday where, falling into discourse with an old fisherman, he learns how a north east wind blowing when the sun did cross the line, this wind will prevail all the year.

In an English news sheet do read about General Tudor, that was at one time commander of the Black and Tans, and anon, chief of the Palestine watch, and do now intend to come to Newfoundland to engage in the codfishery.

This night to dine with the Motor Association, being their annual meeting, and amongst other things, the new officers chosen and much other business done.

The weather so miserable all the night that I did stay at home, and did get to bed betimes being that I did want to save the coals bill.

Annual Meeting of Motor Association

The ninth annual meeting of the Newfoundland Motor Association was held at the Sterling Restaurant and was not held in the usual manner. Mr. W. J. Howland, President, Mr. W. C. Harvey, Secretary-Treasurer, read reports for the past year of the Executive and of the meetings held on the island, and much business was transacted, the meeting being held in the afternoon.

The report of the Board of Directors was then read by Mr. Howland and showed that the Association was not active during the year, they had many of the meetings held on the island, and a great deal of business was done on rows in the country. The report of the Farryland, Torbay, and other places was also read, and a great deal of business was done on rows in the country. Annual Meeting Nfld. Motor Association

The 14th annual meeting of the Newfoundland Motor Association was held at the Sterling Restaurant last night and was not largely attended. Mr. W. R. Howley, was president. After supper was served by R. C. Harvey, on behalf of the Executive, read the reports for the past year. The report of the Executive showed that meetings had been held during the year, and much business had been transacted. The Treasurer's report showed a strong financial standing. The report of the Road Committee was read by Mr. Thomas Sopha. It showed that whilst the Committee was not actively engaged during the year, on behalf of the Motor Association, they had many opportunities to assist the Road Commission in doing a great deal of good work on the roads in different parts of the island. The roads between Ferryland, Torbay, Pouch Cove, and Pouch Cove had all been given much attention and placed in a very good state. The roads from Salmonier to Pouch Cove had been considerably improved and driving on the road was good. The Waterford Bridge had received much attention and was in first class order. St. John's to Carbonear was also improved. The Committee appreciated the assistance given them in the latter work by the Conception Bay Motor Association. The Association has no direct representation on the Highroads Commission but the three members are all active members of the Motor Association.

The reports were adopted. There was placed on record an appreciation of the special work done by Mr. Sopha during the year and also by Mr. Howley, second Vice-President, in the absence practically all year, of the President and first Vice-President, performed very ably duties of these gentlemen. Mr. E. S. Pineson submitted a resolution of the Committee on laws and regulations, showing that all the suggestions of the Motor Association had been embodied in the Highway Bill in the recent session of the Legislature. The election of officers and Executive for the coming year was then proceeded with, every office being contested. The result was as follows:— President—R. C. Harvey. Vice-President—L. Marshall. Treasurer—E. S. Pineson. Secretary—P. E. Outerbridge. Executive Committee—W. R. Howley, C. C. E. Russell, M.H.A. A number of thanks were passed to the officers and executive members. The matter of the street cars on Water Street, was spoken of, it being pointed out that these do not run on the law as is understood they should. These cars are supposed to run on the southside track proceeding west, and the north track going east, but very often they run contrary to this, and if this is allowed to continue, a serious accident will result either later. The incoming President promised to take up this matter at the first meeting of the Executive. The membership was also spoken of, it having been expressed that there should be a larger number of members, considering the number of cars owned in the city, and the view of the good work being done by the Association for motorists. This matter will also be taken up by the incoming Executive. There was no other business of importance and the meeting was adjourned.

Adams and Cheney Bid Farewell

THEATISTS PLAY TO-NIGHT AT THE MAJESTIC. Carmel Myers was never more delicious, was never more pretty, has never given a better performance than she does in "The Love Letter," now showing at the Majestic Theatre. With a story that is intriguingly told and supported by a big cast of hand-picked supporting stars, unfolds through a series of plots and counterplots that hid fair to be as her among the leaders of film stars. The picture is a Richard Thomas production adapted by William Lester from an original story entitled "The Silent Accuser." Last night a large audience thoroughly enjoyed the feature which will be repeated to-night and to-morrow afternoon and night. Many Majestic patrons will regret the leaving of Adams and Cheney this week, as they make their last appearance at the Majestic to-night. Last night they were accorded a special ovation and rightly so, because the programme was indeed surprisingly good. To-night, as already mentioned, they say farewell, and we wish their many friends in wishing them "bon voyage," and hope that they will find it possible to return next year.

Municipal Council WEEKLY MEETING.

The Weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Collins, Ryan and Dowling were present.

The following matters received the attention of the Board:—

Inspector General Hutchings wrote with regard to electric wiring of buildings within the city and the suggestions contained in letter of Superintendent Morris of the Newfoundland Light & Power Company, Ltd., to whom he stated he was entirely in accord and was strongly of opinion an inspector of wiring should be appointed. He also referred to recent fires and gave his opinion as to cause of same. It was decided that any of this communication be sent Nfld. Board of Fire Underwriters.

Communications were read from L. F. Keegan and H. D. Reid, with regard to Forest Road. The former stated that owing to the bad condition of this thoroughfare, patients being conveyed to the General and Fever Hospitals were subjected to great inconvenience. The road is to be immediately repaired.

Mr. Geo. F. Grimes, Secretary of the Methodist East End School Board, complained of the very unsanitary conditions existing at the Battery and the likelihood of an epidemic occurring in this place where there are some 90 children. A letter was also read from Miss Mary MacKay on the matter. Both the City Engineer and Sanitary Supervisor will meet Mr. Grimes and visit the locality with a view to finding some means of remedying the case of complaint.

Information asked by Mr. W. Whelan as to the placing of a concrete curb and gutter on LeMarchant Road is to be forwarded him.

Rev. W. P. H. Kitchen wrote re dangerous condition of retaining wall at Plunk Road, and the urgent necessity of having repairs made. The Engineer was instructed to submit estimates of cost of such repairs and report on the matter for next meeting.

A petition was received from the residents of Duckworth Street re the gutters fronting their respective business places. Same will be given attention by the Engineer.

The Secretary of the Benevolent Irish Society, called attention to the concrete steps on Garrison Hill, which he stated are at present in such a state as to be dangerous to the public. The Engineer was asked to report and estimate cost of repairs.

An application was received from Mr. James Brula for the position as Instructor at the Swimming Pool, at Quidi Vidt. He is to be engaged for the coming season.

PLANS.

The following were passed, on the recommendation of the City Engineer, at whose office permits may be obtained on application:—

Extensions:—Mr. Chancey, Pennywell Road; J. Moore, 53 New Gower Street; A. Taylor, Pleasant Street; Dwylling, E. Warren, Prince of Wales Street; Gordon Hay, Hamilton Avenue, conditional upon his agreeing to pay proportion of cost according to frontage for water and sewerage extension.

The application of Mr. Dewling to build annex to stable was referred to the Medical Officer of Health.

The following matters were referred to the Engineering Department for attention:—

(1) Retaining wall, Southside Road.
(2) Repairing of that portion of Carleton Road within the city limits.

The attention of the Council was called to the inconveniences caused residents of Beaumont Street by reason of owners of carts, carriages, etc., being same in front of entrances to respective dwellings. Notification to be given owners of such vehicles not to park same there in future.

The placing of invert near St. Michael's Church, Casey Street, was referred to be gone on with.

Tenders are to be called for supply of Pipe and Specials, and also for re-numbering of the Western Section of the City.

The Medical Officer of Health stated that no cases of infectious disease had been reported in the City during the past week.

At a special meeting held last week the necessity of getting preliminary work under way in connection with the taking of Voters' Lists, etc., for the Municipal Election, which will take place this Fall, was given consideration and the services of T. J. Moran were engaged as Supervisor of Enumerators. This work will be commenced in the course of a few days.

With the reading of reports of City Engineer and Sanitary Supervisor, granting of requisitions for departments, and passing of accounts for the past week, the meeting adjourned.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING N.F.L. FOOTBALL LEAGUE.

The Nfld. Football League met last night in the office of Messrs. Higgins, Hunt and Emerson, when all matters pertaining to the season's games was finalized. After minutes of previous meeting had been read and confirmed a letter was read from the Junior League, in which they thanked the senior body for the use of the field on Tuesday nights, while they also agreed to pay ten per cent. of the gate receipts for the extra nights.

The owners of St. George's Field wrote the League that they had decided to reduce the rental, and stated that by November next it may be possible to arrange a three, five or ten year lease of the field. The general admission to the games will be ten cents for ladies and gentlemen, Grand Stand ten cents extra, and five cents for children.

A copy of the English Football Association Rules was received, and passed over to Mr. Coultas, the official referee.

The releases of W. Drover (C.E.I.) and H. Burridge (Sains) were considered, and on a vote being taken the releases were granted.

Players leaving one club to go with another was considered poor sportsmanship on the part of a player. A proposition was then made and carried that the League does not recognize any Football Race this year, nor do they intend to partake or enter into any discussion in connection with same. It was felt that the teams often play men in games for no other purpose than to make a crew for the Regatta. After a few minor matters had been disposed of the meeting adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

The opening game takes place on Monday evening next, between the Guards and Star.

FERRIS BEAT ZUNA IN LONDON MARATHON.

LONDON, May 31.—The annual Harbottle race from Windsor Castle to London was won Saturday by S. Ferris, of England, in the record time of 2 hours 35 minutes 58 1/4 seconds. Frank Zuna, of the United States, was second, while D. M. Wright, winner of last year's race finished third. The race started from the private grounds at Windsor Castle, and ended at the Stamford Bridge sports ground, a distance of 26 miles and 385 yards which included two laps around the Stamford track. The trophy for the winner is a silver statue valued at 500 pounds.

STRANGLER LEWIS THREW BIG MUNN IN GREAT TUSSELE—COLLEGIAN WON FIRST FALL, BUT FORMER CHAMPION TOOK NEXT TWO WITH HEADLOCKS.

MICHIGAN CITY, May 31.—Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight title claimant, threw Wayne "Big" Munn, two out of three falls here yesterday, retaining his diamond-studded belt, emblematic of the championship. The third and deciding fall came after seven minutes, when the "Strangler" applied seven headlocks, weakening his opponent beyond resistance.

Lewis' victory evens honors for his defeat at Kansas City when the Nebraska collegian threw Lewis from the ring. Munn won the first fall in 34 minutes and 25 seconds, while Lewis took the second in 17 minutes and 22 seconds.

Munn's size and strength were of no avail against Lewis' headlock. The latter had a unique defense for Munn's famous crotch-hold—that of dropping to his knees when Munn tried for it.

Lewis' victory eliminated one of three claimants for the title. Two others, Joe Stetcher and Stanislaus Zbysko meet in St. Louis, where another will possibly be eliminated, making way for a final match, clearing the championship question of their division.

Lewis also took the major portion of a $30,000 purse. Floyd Fitzsimmons, owner of the Sky Blue Arena and promoter of the contest, said that between 13,000 and 14,000 paid admissions to the match. The gate netted approximately $64,000.

Wedding Bells

GARLAND-REID.

On Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock there was witnessed in St. Michael's & All Angels Church perhaps the prettiest wedding that has ever been solemnized in its sacred edifice, when Florence Muriel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid of this city, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Walter A. son of Wm. Garland, J. P. and Mrs. Garland, also of this city; the ceremony being performed by the Rev. B. J. Nichols, Rector of the Parish.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was magnificently gowned in Silver Tissue with overdress of Mauve Satin Beante and Honiton Lace, her hat of the same delicate shade completing a costume of rare beauty. Her bouquet was a shower of white carnations, sweet peas, and asparagus fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Reid, and her life-long friend, Miss Florence Dawe, whose picturesque dresses were of pale blue Crepe de Chine richly trimmed with Radium Lace and Silver Tissue, they wore black picture hats and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations, sweet peas and asparagus fern. Little Miss Jessie Reid, the bride's youngest sister, prettily attired in pale blue organza dress and hat with shell pink trimmings, and carrying a basket of pink and white sweet peas, made a very dainty flower girl. The groom was supported by the bride's brother, Mr. Graham Reid.

After the ceremony the party motored to Donovan's where a sumptuous repast was partaken of and the usual toasts duly honoured.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland leave by the S.S. Royalton on Saturday making a tour of Canadian cities, after which they will take up residence in Hamilton, Ontario, where the groom holds a lucrative position with the Canadian Government.

That happiness and prosperity may ever be their lot is the hearty wish of their numerous friends.

considerable difference to our Welfare Centre figure. We hope mothers will continue to take and make use of the advantages gained by regular attendance at a Welfare Centre.

It has been very encouraging to have the Entries coming in for our Competition. They will be shown during BABY WEEK and we feel will create quite an amount of interest. "BABY WEEK" this year is to take the form of a Propaganda Campaign against a repetition of last year's Epidemic Diarrhoea. It has meant an amount of preparation, and it is to be hoped it will have some influence upon the Infant Mortality this year, making it a record year.

"Charlie's Aunt" Universal Farce

SCREEN VERSION OF RIOTOUS HIT HAS SYD CHAPLIN IN TITLE ROLE.

The screen version of the internationally famous farce "Charlie's Aunt," by Brandon Thomas will be the feature attraction at the Nickel Theatre beginning Monday. Syd Chaplin has the title role and the supporting cast is composed of players of wide repute.

"Charlie's Aunt" was first produced at Bury St. Edmunds in Suffolk in 1892 with W. S. Penley starring, and was then brought to London, playing first at the Royalty Theatre and then at the Globe where it ran continuously for four years a total of 1466 performances. The fame of "Charlie's Aunt" spread far and wide and seven touring companies started out through the provinces. Several companies are still touring with it in England, and each year it is put on in London where it is one of the "draws" of the holiday season.

The Christies gave this picture an especially elaborate production and it is said to be the funniest feature that the screen has offered this season.

CARD PARTY, SUPPER & DANCE.

The members of the Nfld. Poultry Association with their friends held a very enjoyable card party, supper and dance at Smithville last night. The game of auction forty-fives was participated in by the entire gathering, and two prizes were won by Mrs. Harvey Jardine and Mr. Howard. Dr. Arch Tait, President of the Association, presented the prizes, the lady's being a splendid umbrella and the gentleman's a handsome cased pipe. Following supper, dancing was indulged in and kept up till after midnight. The success of the affair was due to President Tait and Secretary Dewling, both of whom had all arrangements perfected for such an occasion.

Our Gang Comedy and Harold Lloyd

AT BIG SATURDAY MATINEE AT THE NICKEL.

The children will be given a special comedy treat at the Nickel Saturday afternoon, the extra attractions being an Our Gang comedy and Harold Lloyd in his latest bombshell of laughs entitled "Breaking Into Broadway."

Gloria Swanson in "The Humming Bird,"—a tuneful title—a colorful story.

It's a Sidney Clcott production for Paramount which opened last night. Miss Swanson is the star, with Edward Burns as leading man and Jacques d'Auray, Mario Majeroni, William Riccardi and others in support.

Toinette in her dual role of the "Humming Bird" is a hunted creature. Every crime committed in the Montmartre section is credited to "him," for, to all but her intimates, the "Humming Bird" is an extremely clever boy. She is too much for the authorities, though. The girl does great work in enlisting her associates into the service of France, for which she receives the pardon of France for her crimes and is decorated with the Croix de Guerre, won by an associate unfortunate, on the field of battle.

It's a great tale, this. And we've never seen Gloria Swanson to finer advantage. She took the house by storm.

A Plea for Safety

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—When we can have such an accident as occurred last night, is it not a clear proof that motor cars cannot put all the blame for accidents upon pedestrians? If motor cars cannot save themselves, is it not a kindly Providence that saves the lives of children every day? You had a sane editorial a short while ago based upon a letter from Mr. Simms about one-way thoroughfares, and it is time that a "thunderous" warning be sounded, so that the unnecessary and murderous speed of motor cars should cease. The streets of a city are not for speeders. Will you and the Inspector General take this up on behalf of the people before other lives are snuffed out.
Yours truly,
SAFETY.

Pastry—We yield neither to the French nor anyone else where pastry is concerned. Plain, wholesome cookies for Sonny's lunch box, or fussy, elaborate works of art for special desserts. We make all sorts. All are delicious!

Pies—Tender, flaky crusts worthy to enclose the rich, juicy fillings within.

Cake—The kind that makes Father say, "My, this is good cake! Any more of this, Mother?" Naturally we use the best ingredients money can buy. For instance, as shortening we use digestible, vegetable Crisco. Let us be your baker.

Rotary Luncheon

There was no set speaker on the Order List of the St. John's Rotary Club meeting, held at the Sterling Restaurant, yesterday, and the time usually allotted for this purpose, was devoted to business matters in connection with the Club.

President Rotarian "Jim" Ayre conveyed to Rotarians several encouraging and constructive "messages" which were entrusted to him by the various Rotary Clubs which he visited during his recent trip abroad. The "messages" received from Everett Hill, President of Rotary International, Rev. Canon Elliot, M.B.I., and Chesley Perry, Secretary of Rotary International, were of a particularly high order and replete with Rotary ideals.

Reports of the Committees entrusted with the carrying out of the season's programme, were received, and suggestions offered whereby more beneficial results might be obtained. The programme decided upon is an extensive one and has as its keynote, essentials necessary for the welfare of our city.

Visiting Rotarian "Joe" Ledoux, of St. John, N.B., was extended a hearty welcome.

Breaking Window Glass

Numerous complaints have been made to the police during the past couple of weeks of boys breaking window glass particularly in vacant houses and workshops. In one building in the West End, 36 panes of glass were smashed in an evening. A residence in Georgetown, which is now vacant suffered $10.00 damage to glass through this stone throwing, and a couple of days ago a panel of plate glass in an East End Store was also broken, through the same cause.

In the latter case the owner has suspicion of the guilty party and will likely take action.

Work of Highroads Commission

A gang of about 200 men went out by train this morning to begin work on the Salmonier line. The road will be widened and strengthened, and the work of repair on this section will begin shortly. Five or six gangs of about thirty men each are also engaged making surface repairs to the road between here and Clark's Beach.

About 170 motor licenses have so far been issued and there appears to be no great desire on the part of motorists to register quickly. There are about 800 cars in St. John's, and it is possible there will be great confusion at the last moment, when numbers of these will find they are amenable to the law for not having their permits.

Common Ailments of Middle Age are indicated in women by nervous conditions, irritability, melancholia, pains and aches in the back, dizzy spells, headaches and heat flashes. These trying conditions may be easily overcome and such symptoms controlled by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It will interest women to know that in a recent canvass among over one hundred and twenty-one thousand women, ninety-eight out of every hundred reported benefit from its use.

Personal

Mr. J. McCarthy, J.P., who has been seriously ill for some months past, is now gradually improving, and will be able to get around again in the course of a few weeks.

Mr. Henry B. Thomson is now in the city in connection with the lawsuit of the Nfld. Banking and Trust Corporation, Ltd., of London, of which he is a director. Mr. Thomson was born in the north of Ireland, but spent the greater part of his life in British Columbia. He was Food Controller for Canada during a period of the war. He was for 3 years or two on the Directorate of the Reid Nfld. Co., against which his company now has action. Major McDonald, who is another director of the Banking and Trust Corporation, is also in the city in connection with the case.

The many friends of Mr. G. E. Turner, of the Crown Lands Department, will be pleased to learn that his medical advisers report he is making satisfactory progress. Mr. Turner is in London.

Mrs. C. T. James, Bonaventure Ave., who was operated on at the General Hospital Saturday last, is improving considerably and is rapidly regaining strength.

Rev. S. R. Shepherd, Curate of the Parish of Bonavista, came to town by to-day's express, and will be ordained a priest of the Anglican Communion at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Baptist on Sunday next, June 7, (Trinity Sunday).

Motor Cars Collide

At 5.45 yesterday, whilst motor car 5167, owned and driven by Mr. Andrew Duffy was proceeding east on Queen's Road, a Rolls-Royce, 4659-60, owned by H. D. Reid, and driven by M. Mitchell, Mr. Duffy was at the time passing the junction of Long's Hill and Queen's Road, when the Reid car came from around Gower Street Church. The Rolls-Royce hit Mr. Duffy's car near the rear wheel, with such force that the machine was lifted and turned at right angles to the direction in which it was proceeding. Mr. Duffy says he did not see the approaching car until it was almost on him, and though he tried to avoid it by increasing his speed, could not escape. His car had both wheels and dasher on one side smashed, the body was bulged and thrown out of frame. Mr. Reid's car had the headlights broken and suffered some other minor damage. Mr. Duffy, and his wife, who was with him in the car, fortunately escaped injury.

SUSU REPORTS.—S. S. Susu left Joe Batt's Arm 3.45 p.m. yesterday, returning south.

Work Going Ahead Rapidly

Preliminary work at the dock is going ahead rapidly, three gangs of men being engaged stripping the steps which are hoisted from position by steam engines at the head of the dock. A portion of the Long Bridge Road will be closed off in a few days and all traffic from then on will be diverted to and from the Southside by a temporary road near the cold-storage plant.

Baboons as Cattle Raiders

As incorrigible plunderers of native fruit and grain shambas and as thieves of coffee and sugar from the European plantations, baboons were blacklisted in Kenya as "vermin" in the very early days. No one suspected then that baboons were cattle raiders. But this crime has now been brought home to them; a price has been placed on their heads, and a vigorous campaign for their extermination is on foot. For some years past an alarming epidemic of sleep-sickness, and cattle-ringing has broken out every April on Kenya stock ranches. On the larger ranches, running two or three thousand head of sheep over anything up to 10,000 acres, as many as 200 lambs and calves are mutilated in a day. In every case the wounds were long, deep cuts, as though viciously slashed with a knife.

The Masai was suspected, for that much-aligned tribe has never looked kindly on the white stock-breeder; but Masai cattle were attacked as well, and suspicion then fell on lions, leopards, hyenas, and even on the aardvark, an ant-eater, with long, razor-edged claws.

Native scouts were sent to watch, and the marauders were proved to be none other than the chacma baboons. Led by an misnamed "neal," or "overseer baboon," as the natives call him, the chacmas send young baboons ahead to reconnoitre.

By loud "haw-hawing" these scouts draw off the native herdsmen to one side of the ranch, while the "overseer" with a mob of dog-baboons, stampede the flocks on the other.

Then the whole monkey army falls upon the lambs. Baboons kill by ripping with the thumb-nail, but if cornered seize their enemy with all four "hands" and literally tear him limb from limb.

In such a raid, native herdsmen, armed only with bows and arrows, or spears, are helpless. Natives state the great terror of baboons, as well they may. A dog-baboon is larger than a mastiff, and two of them are more than a match for a lion.

When pressed by hunger they often attack native villages for grain stored in the huts, and it is a practice of some tribes to avert this calamity by making offerings of beer and grain to the Ansuu-nyani, or baboon gods, mythical spirits who are thought to live in great rocks on baboon kopjes.

Such attacks, both on stock and natives, have latterly become so frequent that a reward is now offered by the Kenya Game Department for every baboon shot, trapped, or poisoned, alive or dead, brought in.

WERE THEY WISE OR FOOLISH?

"What do you think" writes a Letter Friend, "about girls (working girls) not marrying good young men just because they cannot support them in the fine manner their families are very the same as far as means are concerned and I had very little when we were married, but we had no debts, and we were willing to work."
"Oh! Here a Better Chance for Happiness!"
"I have been married four years. I am well financially and so are all and have the sweetest little five-year-old girl, whom we consider precious. We are happy looking forward to the time when we hope to have more. And the welfare of our little girl is always in our mind. That is something to live for."
"Do you think we are better off than our friends who are waiting until their future husbands make a mark in the world?"
"Of course it is humiliating at first when you stop and realize what people are saying about you. But that is just what makes men and women of you, and stir you on to greater things."
"Do you think we were wise or foolish to go ahead and marry as we did?"
Already Answered.
There is really no need of my answering that question, is there? For she has answered it herself in that third paragraph.
Read it over again if you want a description of true happiness. They are working their way upward enjoying each new measure of prosperity as they could not unless they had worked for it, and unless it had come bit by bit.
They are looking forward to the time when they hope to have more, and finding happiness in that anticipation.
They have "something to live for" in working for their little girl's welfare.

And they enjoy her as parents who have their children when they are young are likely to enjoy their children.

No Such Thing as Perfect Happiness.
There is no such thing as perfect or constant happiness in the world. But there are some circumstances that greatly increase the chances for happiness.
And I think that a life such as these few lines describe, holds out the best promise for happiness.
There may be some among those who wait for years for marriage until they can have material circumstances to suit them. Who will be happier than these two. But the chances are infinitely against it.

New Petrol Danger

STATIC ELECTRICITY IN FILLING TANKS.
The danger of static electricity causing an outbreak of fire in a motor car when the tank is filled with petrol is pointed out in the annual report of the Inspectors of Explosives.
If the petrol tank is electrically insulated from the ground by means of the rubber tyres of the car, as it invariably is, the friction of the petrol being poured into the tank may produce sufficient static electricity to cause a spark which will ignite the petrol.
A fatal fire has recently been caused in the United States in this way. A similar fatal explosion was caused last August at the Shell-Mex works at Shell Haven, on the Essex side of the Thames estuary, and the company has issued instructions that during the filling of a petrol tank the car must be "earthed" by a metal chain provided for the purpose.
It has been demonstrated, says the report, that when any grade of paraffin or petrol is pumped through pipe lines, static electricity is produced by the friction of the spirit against the walls of the pipe.

OLD TIMES.
Long since I labored on a farm, and drew, each month, ten bucks; I hoed things with my strong right arm and herded pigs and ducks. I fumed and fretted in the sun at labors that exhaust, and when the long day was done, the evening was a frost. There were no books about the shack, to ease the deadly grind; a horse book and an almanac were all that one could find. The women folk, too tired to talk, would wish the evening gone, and in their chairs the men would rock, and groan and cuss and yawn. The town was many versts away, and no one yearned to go to hear a lecture or a play, or see a wild beast show. Our lives were barren as the lives of Eskimos, whale-fed, and men and damozels and wives all wished that they were dead. Last month I journeyed back again to see that sweat-stained soil, and teetered down the world and gazed where once I used to toil. I spent an evening in the shack and gossiped with the folks, and no one combed an almanac to resurrect old jokes. A phonograph, quite fit for queens, played chaunts, uplifting airs, and there were books and magazines on tables, floors and chairs. The youngsters of the household planned to go to see a show; they had their motor car at hand, with gas to make it go. They were in touch with all the things that entertain and charm; "The world has moved," I said, "by fings, since I worked on a farm." It's getting better every day, this world in which we dwell, though pessimists may weep and bray, and gnash their ethel and yell.

Relief Scale Secret

SOUTHWARK GUARDIANS' NEW ALLOWANCES.
A secret document led to scenes of disorder at a recent meeting of Southwark Guardians. A special committee on out-relief had recommended a new scale of relief, and although it was known that the new rates were higher than the old, it was intended to keep them secret.
One member stated that the new scale involved an extra expenditure of £200 to £300 a week, and ultimately £400 to £500, and would lead to an increased rate of 8d. or 9d. in the £. This statement plunged the meeting into uproar, some members protesting at the disclosure and others against keeping the new relief scale secret.
Although the scale has not been officially published, it is understood that it includes the following allowances:—
Adult living with parent or relative 10/6
Adult not so living 14/0
Man, wife, and 3 children 36/0
Man, wife, and 6 children 42/0
Rent for unfurnished room is allowed up to a maximum of 7s. per week.
Since April 18, when five new committees were formed, each presided over by a Socialist chairman, the amount spent on relief weekly has increased from £2,301 to £2,622 on May 9.
The Southwark rate for the present half-year is 6s. 11 1/2d. in the £.
The board is composed of 13 Socialists, 13 Progressives and 2 Independents.

The world would be a desert then
Where little children seldom played,
The humble and the meek and low
A dreary dismal life would know.

If wealth and fame and power and place

were vital things to hold and gain
You'd never see a smiling face
Where wants are few and tastes are plain.

But fortunately love can bless
The humble heart with happiness.

Love searches for the brave and true,
With gentle ways love journeys far,
It little cares what we can do,
But blesses us for what we are;
And he whose gifts of skill are spare
Of love may win the greater share.

NATIONAL ELECTRICITY SCHEME
THIS YEAR.

On Thursday next in the House of Commons, by request of the Liberal Party the Ministry of Transport vote will be debated. The object is to question the Government on the progress of its scheme of national electrical development.

I am in a position to state that the preparation of this scheme is now in its final stages, and, in fact, only awaits Cabinet approval. Probably the Cabinet will consider it next Wednesday.

If the Cabinet decide to proceed with the scheme without delay it is expected that the necessary Bill will be given a second reading in the House of Commons before the summer adjournment, and complete its stages during the autumn session, now regarded as inevitable.

Legislative Form.

The spade work has been done by a small committee composed of Lord
Weir, Lord Forcs and Sir Hardman
Lever, assisted by Col. Moore-Brabazon, M.P., on behalf of the Ministry of Transport.

It is believed that the Ministry of Transport is now translating the scheme into legislative form. If carried through it is anticipated that it will revolutionize British industry.

The scheme provides for the compulsory grouping of all the electrical undertakings in the country into areas, the reduction of the number of small power stations and their replacement by a lesser number of super-power stations, linked and inter-linked by power cables, with feeder cables running out to serve all parts of the country.

Electricity Bonds.

Heavy capital charges will be involved in the first instance, and it will probably be proposed that the Government should make an issue of Electricity Bonds, bearing interest guaranteed by the Government in which existing electrical undertakings will be required to participate.

Legislation to give effect to such proposals must be highly contentious, since many vested interests will be affected and the compulsory powers with which the Electricity Commissioners will have to be vested will appear somewhat Socialistic to Die-Hard Conservatives.

None the less the Government thinks very highly of the prospects for lowering the costs of production by the supply of abundant electricity at a very low cost to the consumer.

A vital factor in lowering cost is the maintenance of a high and steady load on the power stations. This can only be achieved by popularizing the use of electricity in the home for domestic use. A committee appointed by the Electricity Commissioners is now considering further steps in this direction.—Daily Mail, May 16.

That's Humbug

The Lord Chief Justice (Lord Hawkley), speaking at a dinner of the Lyceum Club, Piccadilly, told the following story about Sir Henry Hawkins, afterwards Lord Brampton:

Sir Henry went north with his case and a big fee. An old Lancashire woman, a witness, was pressed for a long time to explain the word "humbug," which she was continually saying.

When it seemed impossible to get an explanation from her she went over to Sir Henry and whispered: "If I said you were good-looking, I should be harassing you." (Laughter).

173 WATER ST.

Formerly The U.S.P. Building

I'm rapidly acquiring a larger business which is due to the fact that I am able to show my complete range of quality goods, which are all very moderately priced.

Read my list and get an idea of how cheaply I can sell quality goods. Some of these lines are underpriced, because I bought 'em cheap from the manufacturers, and I am giving you the benefit of this saving.

I have a few hand-tailored Spring and Summer Overcoats, not raglans; there are not any in the city like these, but I have seen some of far inferior quality selling for $35.00 to $40.00. My Price . . . $30.00

My Raincoats and Raglans are rapidly making a name for themselves, both for quality and cheapness of price . . . $18.00 up.

I have an exceptional line of Men's Wash Ties which are just the thing for now, and which would sell in U.S.A. for 75c. My price 3 for $1.00, or each . . . 35c.

This sounds like old times, when I first opened business: An extra fine line of High Class Negligee Shirts, some with collars to match; would be good value for $2.00; My Price . . . $1.50

There is a line of high class Shirts I am now putting out, each one Coat style with soft collar to match, which could not be landed at the price I am asking for them; the patterns are neat and the quality is the very best. They are tailored by one of London's foremost Shirt Houses; all sizes to 17. My Price . . . $2.50

My Caps are the talk of the town, fine quality Tweed, pleated backs, leather sweat bands; would easily fetch $2.00 to $2.50 My Price . . . $1.50

And then I have my regular line of all Wool English Tweed Caps, London's latest for only . . . $1.00

For a super-quality English Cap, lined silk, some very fine all-Wool Tweeds of distinctive patterns, I've often seen them sold for $3.50. My Prices— $2.50 and $2.00

Men's Police Braces that would be good value at 75c. as they have solid leather trimmings and good strong elastic web. Only . . . 50c.

My New Suits of English material cut on American lines, distinctive and exclusive patterns, range from $20.00 up.

I have about 200 dozen of finest quality American Ties of superfine grade of Silk, plain and fancy patterns most exclusive, regularly sold at from $1.50 to $1.75, but by buying the lot, I am able to sell them at . . . $1.25

I have a few Shirts of neat design, well made, good large bodies. Just the thing for big men; ranging from 17 to 18½ size, and priced up to . . . $4.00

In Men's Sox, I have managed to secure another ten dozen lot of those fancy Silks which would easily fetch $1.50 pair. My Price 65c. pair or two for . . . $1.00

Insect Foes of Our Forests

The destruction of native chestnut trees by a fungoid pest introduced from China—a painfully familiar phenomenon of recent years. But it is, perhaps, not so generally known that insect pests, on occasion, work corresponding havoc, decimating the ranks of a particular species of tree over wide territories. We are told, for example, the prior to 1850 the larch or tamarack was fairly abundant from the Atlantic coast to the Great Lakes; but a little insect known as the larch worm marked this tree for its own, and practically exterminated it, after successive invasions. A similar fate has befallen the spruce and fir in many regions; the spruce budworm having been rampant on successive occasions—1897, 1878, and 1910—with long intervals between, during which a new growth of trees developed. It is reported that the most recent outbreak, lasting from 1910 to 1921, killed from 25 to 75 per cent of the larger firs and a somewhat smaller percentage of the spruce; in Maine, New Brunswick, and Quebec. In The Nature Magazine (Washington), T. E. Snyder, of the Government Bureau of Entomology, telling of these depredations, goes on to say that the destructive budworm, after devastating, in the aggregate, about 600,000 square miles of eastern woodland, has migrated toward the western coast, already having defoliated extensive forested areas of Douglas fir and Engelmann spruce in northern and central Idaho and in the Yellowstone National Park in northern and central Idaho. Snyder and the Federal Government and private timber owners are co-operating to fight the insect invasion, by felling infested trees and burning the bark; 200 square miles of territory having thus been cleaned up in 1922, at a cost of over $55,000. As to this forest enemy and the method of fighting it, Mr. Snyder said:—

"Bark beetles are the most destructive insect enemies of the coniferous or soft-wood forests of North America. Living heavily on trees attacked by swarms of the small, dark and cylindrical adult Dendroctonus bark beetles, which bore through the bark on the main trunk and excavate their egg galleries in the cambium or inner living tissue between the bark and the wood. This weakens the tree and the large hatching from the eggs excavate burrows between the parent egg galleries, completely girdling the trees, causing their death. These bark beetles concentrate on and kill the largest and most merchantable timber. By harvesting the mature and over-mature trees and protecting the second growth by keeping the bark beetles under control, the serious epidemics which have periodically been so destructive to our forests, particularly in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast regions and in the Northeastern and Southeastern States, will be prevented.

"By the proper use of control methods advocated by the Bureau of Entomology, these insects can be controlled and their damage reduced to a minimum at very little expense. The trees must be felled and the bark peeled from the main trunk. In case of the mountain pine and Black Hills beetles, which breed next to the wood it is not necessary to burn the bark, but in case of the Western pine beetle and Southern pine beetle, which develop in the outer bark, it is necessary to burn the bark after peeling. When the timber is small and the bark can be spread in full sunlight at an air temperature of 85 degrees Fahrenheit the bark will reach a temperature of 110-115 degrees, which will kill the larvae, pupae and adults. This solar heat method of control can be used to supplement the burning method, especially during the season when burning is dangerous, due to the forest-fire menace."

"Yet another destructive invader that attacks plantations of pine and spruce, particularly in New England, is the white-pine weevil. It specializes in the destruction of the terminal shoot, causing abnormal development of trees so injured. Mr. Snyder says:—

"Open, rapid-growing pure stands or plantations are more susceptible to injury; dense, slow-growing pure stands or mixed stands of pine, other conifers, or hardwoods, are least liable to attack. Closer plantings will thus be unfavorable to weevil injury and even if the terminals are killed, the shade of these denser stands will enable the lateral branches to produce an upward growth and the dominant one soon repairs the damage.

"The locust borer (Cylindrus robiniae Forst.) attacks healthy living locust trees and in addition to causing worm-hole defects in the wood, often kills the tree or renders the wood unfit for any use except fuel. The death of the tree is caused principally by injuries to the cambium, resulting from repeated attacks.

"So extensive is the damage to natural growth and plantations, that it has been considered unprofitable to grow locust trees for shade, timber, or for the purpose of furnishing fence-posts.

"It has recently been discovered, however, that plantations of this tree can be protected successfully from the borer and grown profitably on a commercial scale if the locusts are planted in thick stands or mixed with other trees so as to produce a densely shaded condition and natural pruning during the first ten to fifteen years of growth.

"These few instances of devastation will serve to illustrate the enormous amount of injury insects are capable of causing to our forests. Entomologists and foresters must be constantly on guard to prevent epidemics and to devise new methods for insect control."

Sees Tragedy in Church Union War

EMINENT SCOTTISH PREACHER WARNS AGAINST WORDS OF CANADIANS.

LONDON, May 22.—(G.P.)—Rev. Dr. Archibald Fleming, of Edinburgh, one of the most eminent of the Presbyterian ministers in Great Britain, in an article in the British Weekly pleads with the Scottish General Assemblies not to arrive at hasty decision on the question of church union on representation of Canadian deputations. Dr. Fleming describes the church union matter in the Dominion as civil war within the Canadian Presbyterian Church which for bitterness and intensity and tragic acrimony has had no parallel since the Scottish disruption in 1843. "The melancholy thing," Dr. Fleming states, "is that all this unchristian style has been going on in the name of Christian unity and without doubting their good motives it is permissible to question the statesmanship of those who in this sacred name have engineered an lamentable disruption."

Jail in Future for Smugglers to Save Canadian Business

Six months or a year in jail is to be the minimum penalty on wholesale smuggling if Canadian manufacturers have their way. Pressure is being brought to bear upon the government to make it an indictable offence with imprisonment as the consequence for smuggling goods of a value of more than $100, instead of just a fine.

To convince the government that much smuggling is going on and that not only the Canadian customs is being cheated out of millions of dollars but that the Canadian industry and Canadian labor are suffering, those who are anxious to see the screws put on are fighting the smuggler. The loss to the entire country with everything included is estimated to be at least $50,000,000. "It is astounding," said a man who has been keeping close tab on smuggling operations, and who is reported by Dry Goods Review, "the quantities of goods that are being brought across the border surreptitiously. Few in Canada have any conception of what is going on in both the smuggling of liquor from Canada into the United States and in bringing dry goods of various kinds into Canada by the same parties."

"The United States have several thousand miles of coast line from which goods can be sent into Canada. Knowing what I know about the methods of smugglers, it is an easy matter for them to bring in goods without duty from hundreds of United States points. There are, in fact, thousands and thousands of people making a living out of this business. Along the Quebec border it has developed to a great extent because of the ease with which liquor can be carried into the United States and dry goods brought in on the return trip.

"There are many desperate men engaged in wholesale smuggling," this informant declared. "They will accept any kind of commission no matter what the chances of detection are for the sake of their fee which may amount only to $50."

M.P.'s Who Pooh Pooh.

Manufacturers have spent many thousands of dollars to convince the government that this illicit trade is going on. There are men high up among the powers that be at Ottawa who didn't believe it was serious, but recent captures—the result of the work of the manufacturers—have shown the need of something drastic. So the government at last will be forced to use the strong-arm.

Penniless Russia

Mr. Gordon Selfridge On A Land Of Gloom.

Mr. Gordon Selfridge, who has just returned from a tour of Soviet Russia, recording his impressions in The Weekly Dispatch, said:

I do not consider there is sufficient money in Russia to buy British goods.

Nobody in Russia has money to spend. Highest paid Soviet officials receive a salary of only £20 a month and goods of any value could not find a market among an almost penniless people.

The Russians have reached a stage of universal gloom which is almost incomprehensible to the Western mind.

They are meticulously polite to strangers, and although everybody is very poor, nobody will accept a tip—not even a waiter. I offered one to a train official, and with dignity he refused it. M. Litvinoff told me it was Russian pride, and I cannot help admiring them for it.

Russia, he said, is a "land where nothing matters." Nobody cares much what happens."

Turning Night Into Day

Dr. James L. Halliday, of the Glasgow Public Health Department, in a letter to the British Medical Health Journal, relates the success of a plan for turning night into day for sleepy sickness patients, many of whom cannot keep awake by day and cannot sleep at night.

At Ruchill Fever Hospital, seven boy patients, between 4 and 14, after playing in the ward all night, put to bed at 8 a.m., when they slept soundly till 4 or 5 p.m. They breakfasted at 8 p.m., had dinner at 11 p.m., tea at 3 a.m., and supper at 5 a.m. While this treatment was continued they put on weight and showed improvement, but relapsed when the ordinary routine was resumed, improving again when night was again turned into day.

Leaves Pulpit

The Rev. J. Edward Davis, who has the pulpit to become an actor, has an important role in "The Woman on the Jury," a First National picture, directed by Harry O. Hoyt and featuring Sylvia Breamer, which is due in this city on Monday.

"I would rather be true to a mark than false to a cross," is the way he explained his action in choosing the stage for a career.

Heavy embroidery of gold beads is used on the skirt of a short black satin frock.

A two-piece frock of white crepe has its blouse richly embroidered in bright colors.

POWER-HOGAN.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's on Sunday evening, May 24th, when Mr. John Hogan, son of Deane and Margaret Hogan, led to the altar Miss Frances Power, daughter of John and Annie Power. The bride, who was dressed in blue silk tricotette with hat to match, was attended by her cousin, Miss Hannah Fagan, and Mrs. Wm. R. Hogan, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. John Ryan, cousin of the bride, and Mr. George Gibbons. At three o'clock a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, at which a large number of relatives and friends were entertained, after which the wedding party motored to church where the ceremony was performed before the altar of the Blessed Virgin by Rev. S. O'Driscoll, P.P. The newly married couple then repaired to the home of the groom where supper was served to a large number of guests. Many valuable presents were received, showing the esteem in which the young couple were held. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Hogan many years of wedded happiness.

A GUEST.

Obituary

There passed peacefully away at 1.30 a.m. this morning, after a brief illness of Pleuro-Pneumonia, Elizabeth Cummings, wife of the late Charles Cummings, who predeceased her five years ago. She was the daughter of the late Henry and Ann Garland, and was born at Lower Island Cove 87 years ago, and came to this city to live about 1908. Left to mourn are two sons, John L. of Somerville, Mass and George of this city, 3 daughters, Mrs. James McMahon and Mrs. W. L. Maunier of Somerville, Mass, and Sadie at home, also four sisters, Mrs. J. LeShane, Mrs. J. Sparkes and Mrs. J. Wells of Boston and Mrs. Edwin Turner of Lower Island Cove. The deceased was a devoted wife and loving mother, and her last years were saddened by the memory of the loss of her gallant son, Arthur, who was taken prisoner of war in the Battle of Monchy, April 14th, 1917 and died in September of the same year, in the enemy's hands and was buried at Tournai. Her unexpected death comes as a severe blow to her relatives and large circle of friends and acquaintances, and much sympathy is felt for the family of the deceased.

RONALD MORGAN ROBERTS.

At head of Bay de'Espoir on March 29th, there passed away the soul of Ronald Morgan Roberts, at the early age of 8½ years. He was taken ill on Ash Wednesday, and as he showed signs of getting worse, his father, cousin, and a friend rushed for the doctor at Hermitage for medical assistance, but in spite of all medical attention and all that kindness could do to alleviate his suffering, it proved of no avail. God called him to his heavenly home. He was greatly loved by all who knew him, and among his little school chums, he was regarded as a general favorite. The funeral took place on March 31st, when all that was mortal of him was laid to rest in the C. of E. Cemetery, where he shall rest until the last great day. To the stricken parents and sisters and near relations, all sympathy is extended.

ALBAN DOODY.

On May 29th, at the General Hospital, St. John's, Alban Doody of Mosquito, St. Mary's Bay, passed to the Great Beyond. Suffering from an internal ailment for many months he entered the hospital, with hopes that the last remedy would prolong his years, but the fiat had gone forth and Mr. Doody peacefully passed out, to receive the reward of a well spent life. The deceased was 73 years old, all of which he lived on the homestead of his parents, John Doody and Mary A. Curtis, the pioneer family of Mosquito, Colinet Island. He was of a genial and cheerful disposition, always seeing the silver lining of the dark cloud, and many were the regrets when it was known that only his silent remains were to return to home, where he was considered by all as a guide and counsellor in both the joys and sorrows of the little island villagers. A fitting tribute of respect was shown by the large funeral procession to St. Joseph's Church where Rev. T. J. Gough, nephew of deceased, assisted by Rev. J. Enright, P.P. offered Requiem Mass, after which the remains were conveyed to Mosquito, to be consigned to mother earth. His wife had predeceased him fifteen years, also one daughter, whilst he leaves to mourn seven sons, three of whom are living in America, and eight daughters, as well as a large circle of friends and relatives, to all of whom we offer deepest sympathy.—COM.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S HUMOUR.

Lord Birkenhead, speaking at a dinner in his honour at Glasgow University—his last speech as Lord Rector—said:

I certainly have always found that the older people are the more they disapprove of me, and the younger they are the more they vote for me, and, therefore, had I continued in the House of Commons, I should have committed myself to a foppish vote at fifteen. (Loud laughter).

But I am now more concerned with keeping old ladies out of the House of Lords than to admit younger ladies to the House of Commons. (Laughter).
 The Only Britons.

He had always found great difficulty in understanding the Scot's desire that the word Briton should always be used.

As a matter of fact there are no Britons, except the few fugitive races, who after centuries and unsuccess-ful predatory expeditions, were driven into the fastnesses of Wales by the victorious English, and whose descendants have rendered no service to civilization except consistently to vote for Mr. Lloyd George. (Loud laughter).

Observe how generous your nation has always been, observe in what numbers, in what herds, I might say, you have been good enough for our conversion and improvement: to descend upon us. (Laughter).

There is no part of the British Empire in which good and useful work can be rendered—and can be remunerated—(laughter)—to which the Scotch nation has not adventured in heroic pilgrimage. (Laughter).

There was a time when it was considered an infamy that any who was not a Scotsman should hold either the Woolsack or the inferior position of Prime Minister. (Laughter).

We are passing into unhappier days, to inferior standards, and both these offices to-day to the great disparagement of the public service are held by men who were born south of the Tweed. (Laughter). In moments of depression we must fortify ourselves by happier memories. (Laughter).

Englishmen in their cups claim that they conquered you at the Battle of Bannockburn. Well, that is a long time ago. What is quite certain is that you have been conquering them ever since, and it has been a more sustained victory than any which, in my recollection, history affords.

Explorers Face Perils in China

NEW YORK, May 22—(Associated Press)—The perils of civil war, famine and floods in China have been encountered by Roy Chapman Andrews, who is leading the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History into the Gobi Desert in Central Asia, he wrote to friends in this city in a letter made public Wednesday.

Arriving in Peking early in April, Andrews said he found Chinese politics in a state of chaos unparalleled in his experience. Transportation was paralyzed and food was so scarce that it was only by the most painstaking efforts that sufficient supplies were bought.

Going from Peking to Kalgan, the expedition's starting point, the explorers were forced to keep to the desert to avoid confiscation of their camels by soldiers. In Kalgan there was a disastrous flood and just before the party pushed on soldiers looted the town. As punishment 450 looters were executed, Mr. Andrews said.

An Old-Time Letter

In the early history of Greece, Aristagoras was revolving in his mind the scheme of revolting from Persia. About this time there came from his brother-in-law, Histaeus, a messenger, urging him to do this very thing. According to Herodotus, not knowing who to trust with this dangerous message, Histaeus had caused the head of a faithful slave to be shaved—branded upon it the words necessary—and then despatched him as soon as his hair had grown, with a verbal intimation to Aristagoras that his head was to be shaved again and examined. This is an example of what may be called ancient diplomacy.

Substitutes in Football

The British Association football team now touring Australia beat an Australian XI by four goals to one. Some disappointment has been caused by the British decision in the Adelaide match in refusing to allow a substitute for an injured Australian player. This is contrary to the Australian practice. No substitutes are allowed for injured players leaving the field in British football.

Measuring the Wavelength

EDITED BY JOHN W. CLAYTON.

Quite often it is desirable to have a wavemeter handy so that the wavelength calibration of the receiver can be determined, and the correct setting of the tuning dial quickly made so that a new station can be tuned in quickly. A wavemeter is nothing but a tuning condenser shunted across a coil. No indicating device is needed in a meter when the meter is used for reception measurements. In our diagram we show the connection of the coil L and condenser C. For the broadcasting band (200 to 600 meters) the coil should consist of 55 turns of No. 24 D.C.C. magnet wire wound on a tube 3 inches in diameter. The tube should be 2 inches long, and can be cardboard, hard rubber or bakelite. Two pieces of large wire (No. 10 or No. 12) here should be bolted to the coil. These wires act as terminals for the coil, and allow it to be connected to the condenser. The spacing between the terminal wires should be the same as the distance between binding posts on the condenser.

For a coil of this size a condenser having a capacity of .0005 mfd. is required. This is a 23-plate condenser. It does not matter particularly about the losses in the condenser, so one having "mud" end plates will be perfectly satisfactory. However, the dial should be fixed firmly in place so that there is no chance of its slipping on the shaft becoming shifted after it has been in use for some time. This will destroy the calibration of the meter. Also the pointer, or indicator, must be firmly bolted in place so that it cannot become moved. If you don't have a 23-plate condenser handy, you can use a 11-plate condenser (.00025 mfd.). In this case the number of turns in the coil must be increased to 65 in order to maintain the same wavelength range of the meter. The tube on which the coil is wound will have to be 3 inches long, instead of 2 inches.

To-morrow we tell how to calibrate the wavemeter, and how to use it with your receiver.

£2,000,000 ORDER FOR SHIPS.

As the result of negotiation between the directors of the Blue Star Line and representatives of several English and Scottish shipyards, it is understood that the £2,000,000 contract, which the company is to place for eight refrigerated meat steamers will remain in this country. Unemployment in the shipbuilding industry is 33.2 per cent.

It was feared that the margin between the lowest British and German and Dutch tenders—at least £20,000 per vessel—was so great

Way to Peace in Industry

MEMBERS THREE "WILLS"

Speaking at a meeting in support of the Industrial Welfare Society at the House of Commons recently, attended by M.P.s of all parties, the Labour Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin...

It is believed that far more trouble is being caused in industry by lack of consideration for the smaller amenities of the part of many employers...

There is really room for a clearing-up in which all parties may bring their common experience and common knowledge.

He has spoken in the House of Commons and other places about the measures that have come over industry and there is no doubt that, as the result of the conference, the general feeling is that there is an intimate understanding with the business world...

It is perfectly possible to have the necessary play between the two sides that helps to keep the wheels going round. The departure from fixed rules, or the marked courtesies on the one side or the other, is apt to be regarded as a departure from that unbroken harmony of the person who makes it his duty to suspect.

The result is that too often industrial relations in certain industries are kept in a state approaching that of war. It is all wrong. We find that sometimes where apology is made for the wrong taken, it is pleaded that the real reason is loyalty to their organization, whichever it might be.

It shows that all parties in industry, in so far as they yield to the pressure, have described, are right in the basic truth they must recognize—that industry is essential and must be a co-operative enterprise. Unless treated as that, it can never prosper.

Example to Employers

The Industrial Welfare Society is promoting co-operation in industry. We want to teach the employing class that those who have to employ men in industry should tackle the matter in the spirit of a profession, and not a professional pride ought to be developed.

The lesson has not been learned. There are some notable exceptions. We want the example of the best spread until it has been followed through industry.

It does not mean for a moment that they should look, either from one side or the other, on industry as a philanthropic enterprise. I mean something deeper than that. All people engaged in industry must realize that men are men and should be treated as ends in themselves. The essential thing is respect for human personality. That is one of the main roads through the industrial maze.

People often ask me, "It is all very well talking, but what are you going to do?"

People who say that are relying on machinery and on legislation—two things perfectly false. The only thing we can rely on is the human will. When you have the human will properly directed, then you will begin to see things.

On these three things you can build a future. You desire—the will to make the will to co-operate, and the will to work. (Cheers.)

Colors Told by Touch

BLIND MEN UNABLE TO DISTINGUISH COLORS

When an adult life, a Lancashire man who has been blind since birth, has been working as a school caretaker, has by concentration and perseverance developed a sense of touch so keen that he reads and distinguishes the colors of dyed materials used for rug making.

Mr. M. Priestley, a Minister of Education Inspector, addressing at Cambridge the Eastern Counties Association for the Blind, said he had tested the man by cutting some material into even pieces which were dyed in different colors. In every instance the man distinguished the colors accurately by sense of touch.

He had also accurately followed a pencil line on a piece of canvas and woven it.

Mr. Priestley thought the blind man had a different effect on the surface of the material, as he did not see where the man could distinguish between them.

Why, of Course

If you want GOOD Clothes go to a GOOD Tailor. There is where you get good material, good fit and clothes that look as if they were made for YOU, and not for the other fellow.

The Ready-to-Wear! Yes, of course. They were made for the one who buys them, very seldom for the one who fits them.

But be careful and go to a good tailor. It's cheaper and better.

SPURRELL'S are good, reliable tailors, and you make no mistake in going there.
