GUARDIAN OF THE TRADE FROM 'WAKERS' DISEASE

Entry of Cattle From New England States Forbidden— British Government Informed of Action— Empty Cars Must Be Disinfected

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—(Special.)—The Minister of Agriculture has taken prompt action to prevent Canada's cattle trade with Great Britain, a trade that amounts to about ten million dollars annually, being jeopardized by the outbreak of disease among the flocks and herds of the New England States. Hon. Mr. Fisher, when asked about the matter today, said that in the first place it had been reported that all cattle coming from New England ports should be stopped and thoroughly disinfected before being allowed to cross into the Dominion.

"In the second place," continued Mr. Fisher, "we have forbidden absolutely any entry of cattle from the six infected New England States into this country. We have also communicated, thru the High Commissioner in London, with the Imperial authorities, informing them of what steps we are taking. We have further telegraphed to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, to ascertain what they are doing there to prevent spread of the trouble in the United States."

Hon. Mr. Fisher, when asked if, ordinarily, many cattle from the Eastern States came into Canada either for consumption or in transit, his reply was: "No, very few. But if exportation is forbidden by way of Port-au-Prince and Boston an attempt might be made to run cattle from the infected districts into St. John for shipment, so as to get to Canada or having ships sailing from Canadian ports infected with the disease, as this outbreak is ruining the cattle export trade from the New England States."

SEES LITTLE DANGER.
Montreal, Nov. 30.—According to the best authority there does not appear to be much danger of the cattle disease of New England being communi-

BREAKINGS AWAY.

The Globe is not the only paper that is having trouble these days. If half of the reports are true, another journal is about to pass into new hands, whose main effort will be to bury its past, perhaps change its name, repudiate its vacillating record. After many years of duplicity it is at last to confess itself found out.

The surprise that are coming to Canadians by the action of Hon. Mr. Tarte and Mr. J. S. Willison are but the prelude of still greater ones. A lot of things are breaking away, and, after long years of defiance of public opinion, individuals and newspapers are being found out.

Who the new purchasers are to be is only suspected as yet, but it is likely that some kind of a newspaper syndicate is being formed, ostensibly to buy the output of one big paper mill or own a paper mill themselves, but really to control four or more papers at different points. If this is so, the Willison-Plaville combination are not the likely purchasers. A few days will reveal the situation.

What is Coming
A gentleman who ought to know, says he has read most carefully Mr. Willison's statement.

"The significant sentence," said he, "is in this place: 'I can do above all things not to employ the paper.' (The paper that Mr. Willison is about to start and the capital for which Mr. J. W. Flavelle will supply) for the promotion of that private or group of individuals."

"This," said the gentleman, "to my mind, means that Mr. Willison is either openly or in a glad-hand kind of way going to rip up the past record of the Globe, and the way in which it has been used to promote the private interests of individuals or group of individuals. He is in the position of Hamlet's father:

I could a tale unfold, whose lightest word would harrow up your soul; freeze your young blood; make your two eyes like stars, start from their sockets, thy knotted and combined locks to part, and each particular hair to stand on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine.

Of course it means it. Mr. Willison's statement if it does not mean this, but where I meet a difficulty is that I cannot see what object Mr. Flavelle can have in thus putting his closest associate and most powerful friend, whose views and interests have been reflected and promoted so powerfully by the Globe. For if that is done, there is to be a pulling down of houses and roofs that will startle the community. And it is hard for me to believe it. What is the reasonable explanation is that Mr. Flavelle is starting a paper with Mr. Willison, to add in a truly friendly way the legitimate interests of his powerful associate. Mr. Willison has been able to do this in the past, and he may be able to do it in the future as an independent journalist, but it will be at the expense of his present position above given.

A member of the Board of Trade has made the suggestion that Mr. Flavelle and Mr. Willison ought to make a combination with Mr. Atkinson of The Star, so as to get that paper and The News and combine them into one good paper. In that way, he said, they would relieve the newspaper situation, and having to support seven newspapers, would have to aid only five.

Dropped Dead in a Church Dr. MacCabe's Tragic End

Principal of Ottawa Normal School Passed Away While Attending High Mass in St. Patrick's Church, Ottawa—Had Been Married Only Two Weeks.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—Ottawa was shocked today by the sudden death of Dr. J. A. MacCabe, principal of the Normal School, and one of the leading educationalists of the Dominion, who died in St. Patrick's Church during high mass. Dr. MacCabe was standing during a portion of the service requiring that attitude, and dropped to the floor. He was picked up by three or four men from adjacent pews and carried to the society, where medical attention was summoned. He required no attention, however, as death had come. Dr. MacCabe was 70 years of age, and a particularly sad feature of it all was that he had been married only two weeks. Dr. MacCabe was born in Ireland, and, like his father, was a teacher in the National School there. He came to Canada in 1870, and was a member of the staff there for some time. When the Ottawa Normal School was established in 1875, he was appointed principal, and held the position since that date. He was a man of high character, and thousands of teachers all over Canada will hear of his death with regret.

Arm Caught in Cog Wheels and Death Follows Agonies

Farmer Jones, Near Bowmanville, Pinioned Throat One Night By a Windmill, Found in the Morning and Dies Shortly After.

Bowmanville, Nov. 30.—A painfully sad and fatal accident occurred here last night and this afternoon, by which Mr. John M. Jones lost his life. During the high wind last night the windmill on the barn at Retreat Dairy Farm, the home of the deceased, became unfastened, and fell upon Mr. Jones' arm and went out to shut it off, when in some way his arm was caught between the cog wheels and he was unable to extricate himself.

The barn being some distance from the house, all efforts to make the farmer and anyone else near by thinking out and was told why, but thinking it was nearly morning felt no concern over his failure to return, supposing he was feeding the stock, as he was between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning.

Runaway Horse Prevented From Doing Damage to Woman Driver.

Uxbridge, Nov. 30.—What came near being a serious accident occurred here Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Miss Nellie McTear, daughter of the postmaster here, was returning from a visit to friends in Wywaite, when the horse she was driving suddenly bolted and ran hard for several miles along the icy road. It was stopped by coming in contact with a cow. The young lady was thrown out, but luckily grabbed the horse's bridle, and further damage was stopped. The horse had a bad cut in its neck, but the cow and Miss McTear escaped with nothing worse than a bad scare.

BURGHERS PROVED FALSE AND BRITAIN WAS SAVED

Dewet Writes His Book and Declares That His Immunity From Capture Was Due to the Interposition of God.

London, Nov. 30.—"Had not so many of our burghers proved false to their own colors, England, as the great Bismarck foretold, would have found her grave in South Africa." That is the keynote of the Boer General Dewet's book entitled "Three Years' War," published in London and dedicated by the Boer general to "my fellow subjects of the British Empire."

It is perhaps the most remarkable book by the most remarkable leader that any recent war has produced. The concise, simply told tale of the extraordinary campaign is marked throughout with the stamp of truth. The baldness of the narrative only serves to bring into striking relief the fiery passages where a strong man in pathos and bitter denunciation, in thus taking the public into confidence, Dewet loses nothing of the glamor with which his exploits in the field surrounded him.

In criticizing he spares no one, Boer and Briton come equally under the lash. Dewet declares that whatever the English people may have to say in discredit of Gen. Buller, he had to operate against stronger positions than any other British general has ever had to operate against. He is not only a man of high character, but a man of high intellect.

What Might Have Been.
Regarding his own forces, Dewet writes: "It was far easier to fight against the great English army than against treachery among my own people, and after I was free to fight against both. Once, it only my orders had been carried out a little more strictly, and if only most of the military rules of strategy had been observed in our efforts to break the English line of communication, Lord Roberts and his thousands of troops would have found themselves shut up in Pretoria, where they would have perished of hunger. It was not the skill of their commander-in-chief that saved them. Of the block-houses, Dewet is frankly contemptuous. "The block-house policy," he says, "might equally well have been called the policy of the block-head."

Loyalty Pays Debt.
The writer emphatically defends the right to blow up railroad lines and trains as the usage of war, and he declares that never missed an opportunity to do so. The so-called war against women and the misuse of the white flag by the British is sternly denounced by the Boer general, who says: "That such direct and indirect murder should have been committed against defenceless women and children is a thing I should have staked my head could never have happened in a war waged by the civilized English nation, and yet it happened."

Government Behind It
Days in G.T.P.R. Scheme
Company Had Transcontinental Line in View When Terminal Plans Were Made.

Montreal, Nov. 30.—"If anyone thinks we are not going to ask government assistance for our Pacific Railway project, the sooner his mind is disabused the better," was the emphatic statement made to The World today by Charles M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk, who also expressed great satisfaction at the very favorable manner in which his vast project, as outlined just a few days ago, had been received by the press and people of Canada.

It was observed to the general manager that public opinion was considerably exercised over the probable results of the new enterprise with the nations of the new enterprise. In reply, Canadian Northern system. In reply, Canadian Northern system. In reply, Canadian Northern system.

WORKED BOGUS CHECKS CARTER CAUGHT AT LAST

Money by His Nerve in Ontario Towns.

Kingston, Nov. 30.—To-night a fellow named Lee, or Carter, was arrested while trying to pass a forged cheque on Daniel Cooper, grocer. It was on the Rathburn Company. Cooper got the cheque and parted with the money. The police arrived. Lee admits having worked the game in many places. He is 28 years of age. On him were found numerous cheques, said to be all made out by the Rathburn Company.

Carter says he is a Toronto clerk, but will give no address. He is not desirous of letting his friends know of his arrest. He is quite cheerful, admits he has made big money by his nerve, and is now ready to stand punishment. He has been working the game in Ontario and the United States for some time.

The Toronto Detective Department has not been notified of Carter's arrest in Kingston. A number of circulars have been received here recently telling of the operations of a bogus cheque man at Guelph, Chatham, Peterboro, and other places, and the local detectives believe Carter is probably the man wanted.

HATS WITH FOREIGN LABELS

Many of Them Are Made in Canada, But Makers Don't Want Fact Known.

DEALERS MUST PLEASE CUSTOMERS

Movement on Foot to Encourage Home-Made Bonnets and High Duty Will Be Asked for.

There is something the matter with the hat trade in Canada when hat dealers are afraid to push an article with a Canadian label on it showing that it is made in the Dominion. Yet that is the condition right here in Toronto to-day, if the verdict of several leading dealers can be accepted. In fact, the cry of "patronize home industry" seems to have been entirely neglected in this line of manufacturing.

The fault does not lie with the manufacturers alone, for the majority of hats sold in Canada are made here but advertised as foreign goods. This statement is based on the declaration of a member of the trade. When such a subterfuge is necessary to sell goods there is something radically wrong with either the consumer or the quality of material used.

There are in Canada fourteen factories manufacturing hats, yet there is not a single line of hats being pushed by retailers in the Dominion as Canadian made goods. Some of these hats are labeled with the name and place of their manufacture, but the most of them are stamped as English and American made goods, and are sold as such.

Home Made Goods. There is a movement now on foot to change this condition in favor of home-made goods. To this end hat dealers and manufacturers are preparing a petition to secure an advance of 25 per cent. in the duty on hats. If this can be secured Canadian manufacturers think they can make a better hat and put it on the market for what it is and do business. In fact, the manufacturers of headwear in Canada have this advantage of the factory men in the States; they secure the admission of trimmings for their hats free of duty, while the trade in the States must pay 30 per cent.

In truth, there are not so many American-made hats sold here as the labels would indicate, but it is the necessity which forces manufacturers to brand their goods as American-made in order to give them the proper sale which the hat trade objects to in Toronto.

Sold as American Goods. As an evidence of just how difficult the proposition of selling a Canadian-made hat, advertised as such, is, one of the leading trade journals of the city will next week place before its readers an attractive advertisement of a Canadian-made hat, with a Canadian label, free of expense to the manufacturer. In order to get the idea properly before the trade, in talking with the manufacturer, who-by-the-way, has a plant at Hamilton, the representative of the trade paper in question was told that the manufacturer had to go slow, as he did not know just how the trade would receive the announcement. He knew the article was good, just as good as the States could turn out, yet under its proper label he had some doubts of the trade handling the hat. The advertising man admitted that he could not account for this apparent prejudice against the Canadian-made hat. He thought they made as good hats in Canada as in the States, and he could not understand why these hats had to be sold to the public under false representations.

As it stands today, Toronto has two big hat manufacturing concerns, and other parts of the Dominion have a number, but the most of their stock is sold not as home-made goods but as if they came from abroad. Have to Please Customers. A retailer who has the largest trade in Toronto, talking with The World, declared that he could not understand this situation. "I am handling some Canadian-made goods," he said, "but I don't have any call for them to speak of. The hats are good, but, of course, with the demand for foreign articles in fashionable bonnets the Canadian factories can't invest the money in blocks, styles and materials that they do on the other side. It is a fact that I seldom have a customer come in and ask for a Canadian-made hat, but I do find them every day insisting upon an American or an English hat. Still, to show you that this thing cuts both ways, I have seen in New York, where I buy goods sometimes, American factories carrying the dies and boxes with English labels and factory names on them. So they have to cater over there to the trade just as we do here. I see no reason, however, why a campaign could not be started here and Canadian-made hats become popular. The manufacturer could put on a very superior hat and make every inducement for the retailer to push it, and I believe it would go. I am so firmly of this conviction that I am thinking strongly of establishing a hat factory here in Toronto in the spring. Can Make the Best Here. "If Canadians would insist on having home-made hats they would be surprised just how soon they would be getting an article that would give satisfaction. There is no condition which precludes the possibility of the best of hats being manufactured in Canada. They make good hats, but the manufacturers seem afraid to spend the money necessary in various ways to turn the tide in favor of real Canadian-made stock."

The Pibroch of the Tillson is a Dirge for the Fads

The Tillsons are here, good-bye to the fads.

Hot oatmeal porridge for breakfast, made in Canada—Canadian for half a century.

No more Yankee fads, hot or cold, for Canadian breakfasts.

No more "peptonized wheat."

No more "vitalized or vitrified oatlets."

No more "glutenized corn."

No more "faked wild rice."

Nor "carbonated nerve nuts."

Nor "maltified 'vitiated' muscle mixtures."

Nor "medicated mush."

Nor "predigested poppycockles."

No more Yankee cereals.

Just good, plain, wholesome Canadian oatmeal porridge without any fancy frills.

Canadian Oatmeal (Tillson's Pan-Dried) is the best in the world—that's a commonplace way of saying it, but it's a commonplace truth—Canadian soil, Canadian climate, Canadian farming methods yield the finest oats in the world.

Tillson's Pan-Dried process makes the best oatmeal in the world.

Tillsons made oatmeal in Canada when modern food faddists were making dyspeptic stomachs last century by eating pie and fried pork for breakfast.

Tillson's ancestors (and yours too, perhaps) were fed on Scotch porridge when Bruce and Scott and Burns knew, nor wanted anything better.

Scotch history, Scotch brawn, Scotch intellect, Scotch traditions, Scotch everything that's glorious is and always has been associated with the Scotch porridge pot.

Shall Canadians be fed upon the medicated fads of a nation that lost its own stomach because it lacked the wisdom and taste to eat Scotch-Canadian porridge?

And shall this country, the granary of the Empire, eat a breakfast of foreign cereals?

Two generations of Tillsons have made Tillson's Oats—Pan-dried—for half a century in Canada, in Tillsonburg, Ontario.

Don't forget:—There is only one Tillson in Canada, there's only one Tillson's Oats, Pan-dried, and it is made by Tillsons in Tillsonburg, Canada.

Oh, yes, it's Canadian.

No specks, no dust, no dirt, no hulls, the cleanest, best oatmeal in Canada or any other country—with the rich, nutty Pan-Dried flavor.

The convention has explicitly declined the invitation, principally because it will not meet the Nationalist members of parliament, and as it does not regard the recent poll of the Irish landlords, which resulted in a vote in

New York, Nov. 30.—Dr. G. R. Parkin, the commissioner who is charged with the distribution of the Cecil Rhodes Scholarships in the colonies and United States, returned to-day from England on the Cunarder Campania.

There are some 200 scholarships to be distributed in the States and colonies, said Dr. Parkin, who has been at Oxford for several weeks trying to get the wishes of the Oxford authorities in the matter of distribution. There are twenty-one such scholarships as are awarded to colleges at Oxford, and each wants to come under its own peculiar rules of entrance, etc.

USED A RUBBER HOSE

To Flop a Boy in the New York Truant School.

New York, Nov. 30.—William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, is deeply in earnest in prosecuting the charges of cruelty which are being formulated against A. T. Brennan, principal of the New York Truant school, who is now under suspension, and against Marcus L. Brown, one of the orderlies employed in that institution.

Superintendent Maxwell has locked up in his desk the section of rubber hose with which the principal is accused of having flogged Little Oscar Lehr until the lad was covered with cuts and bruises. The instrument is about 20 inches long, with a diameter of about three-quarters of an inch, such as is commonly used in connection with a gas range or heater with the gas pipe.

The diligent search has been made by the matron and other officials of the Truant school, they have been unable to find the yard stick studded with nails with which Brennan, the orderly, is said to have beaten Little "Blay" Kleber until the gash in his scalp had to be closed and sewed by a surgeon.

TO SACRIFICE A DESTROYER.

British Navy to Break a $1,250,000 Warship to Detect Wreck.

Portsmouth, Nov. 30.—Naval officials yesterday began experiments to discover why so many British torpedo boat destroyers are broken in two while at sea. The destroyer Wolf, launched in 1897, and costing $1,250,000, will be sacrificed in the experiment.

The destroyer will first be balanced across a pile of timbers, with both ends of the vessel unsupported. If it does not break in two under this strain it will next be hung by the ends, leaving the centre unsupported.

The experiments are expected to prove whether a destroyer's hull is so weak, as was suggested in the case of the Cobra, that the back breaks when a wave lifts the vessel amidships or a sea lifts it in such a manner that the hull is hollow beneath the middle.

MARTYR TO DUTY.

Watchman Killed by Burglars Who Are Charged with Murder.

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 30.—In the little town of Westport, six miles east of the city, Wesley Reynolds, watchman of the Westville State Bank, was shot and killed by burglars last night while defending the bank against their attack. After killing Reynolds the desperadoes, who were attacked by citizens who had been alarmed by the battle, fought their way to liberty and are still at large, although a posse of infuriated men is after them and final capture seems inevitable. The watchman saved the bank at the cost of his own life, for the burglars did not have time to blow open the safe after killing him. It is thought he wounded one of the gang.

MOTHER COMMITS SUICIDE.

Charged With Murdering Her Children to Collect Insurance.

Dexter, Maine, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Hattie L. Whitten, who was arrested yesterday on suspicion of having poisoned her 8-year-old daughter, from whose funeral she had just returned, committed suicide to-day by hanging from a bedpost while in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Leslie Curtis. Her death ends a case which promised from the suspicious illness against Mrs. Whitten to be as sensational as any inquired into in Maine for a long time. Mrs. Whitten was suspected of having caused the death of an elder daughter aged 11, on Sept. 19 last, and this body has been exhumed. Both children had died suddenly, when previously they had appeared to be in the best of health, and now it is pointed out that two years ago. The children were insured for $50 and $85 respectively. A cause of death by the physician's certificates mentioned meningitis and heart failure.

PREFONTAINE NOW SUPPORTED.

Manufacturers of Montreal Back the New Minister.

Montreal, Nov. 30.—The manufacturers of Montreal are a very worthy lot of gentlemen, but they are poor politicians and can scarcely be further than the end of their nose, said a politician to-day. "While Hon. Mr. Tarte was carrying on his campaign they were told that their favorite Minister would be able to impose his views on his free trade colleagues, yet the manufacturers turned a deaf ear to all this, staked their all on Tarte and lost. Then instead of acting like practical men and understanding that they have no chance of getting a higher tariff from the present government, and throwing in their lot with the Conservatives, the natural friends of a protective policy, they succeeded in unearthing a new idol in the person of Hon. Mr. Prefontaine. Although every schoolboy knows that the new Minister of Marine has no more chance of getting what the manufacturers want than has Dr. Sproule, M.P., of being appointed a cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church, these captains of industry are falling over each other in order to give the 22-year-old Mr. Prefontaine, Mr. A. F. Gault, the cotton King, has even signed the Minister's nomination papers, and others are helping him financially, all being foolish enough to believe that Mr. Prefontaine will succeed where Tarte failed."

PARALYZED COMMERCE.

Stokers' Strike at Marseilles is Practically Complete Now.

Marseilles, Nov. 30.—The strike at this port, which was started last week by the stokers to obtain an increase of wages, is now practically complete as regards the steamers here. As ships arrive the hands desert and the harbor is now so crowded with empty vessels that it is difficult to find room for new comers. No disorder has occurred as yet, but the government has mobilized a quantity of troops, and two regiments of cavalry arrived to-day.

The strike has practically paralyzed commerce along the coast, as it is spreading to other ports. Six hundred passengers are now waiting at Marseilles for transportation to Algiers, the mails for Corsica, Algeria and Tunis also delayed from 24 to 48 hours, but the authorities succeeded in forwarding a quantity of sacks Saturday, and it is to-day announced that the government has arranged to assure the mail service by means of naval vessels. The government will also furnish the regular lines with seamen from the navy. As Corsica, Algeria and Tunis are dependent on the steamer service from Marseilles for provisions, the scarcity of flour and other necessities is already being felt on the island.

The strikers' committee to-night telegraphed to the Minister of Marine that if the strike was not settled in five days an appeal would be issued for a general strike at all the ports of France.

CHURCH GOERS OF TORONTO.

ESTIMATE OF CHURCH GOERS.

Table with 2 columns: Church Name, Goers. Includes Roman Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian, etc.

The church-goers of Toronto number over 50 per cent of the entire population, according to figures gathered by The World. In proportion to population, Toronto probably has more churches than any city in America. There are 156 church buildings, and nearly 100 other places of worship, occupied by missions, and denominations not numerically strong. Taking the police census of Toronto, which places the figures at the end of the year, of 222,000, the church-going population is fixed at about 112,000. This means, of course, that there are quite many people in the 200 meeting places and churches every Sunday. There are also crowded with worshippers at casual church-goers, who probably attend divine services once a fortnight, or once a month, and these too must be reckoned as church-goers.

It is doubtful if any other city in America shows an equal proportion of church-goers. The Roman Catholics are the most regular attendants, their sixteenth Sunday holding all the services on Sunday about 80,000 people. This also represents the whole Catholic population of Toronto. There are more Anglican churches than any other denomination, and they are considerably less than the other leading Christian denominations. There are 20 Baptist churches, having an attendance of 8,000, and an average of 400 per church. There are 50 Methodist churches, having an attendance of 5,500, and an average of 110 per church. There are 20 Presbyterian churches, having an attendance of 4,500, and an average of 225 per church. There are 10 Congregational churches, having an attendance of 3,500, and an average of 350 per church. There are 10 Episcopal churches, having an attendance of 3,000, and an average of 300 per church. There are 10 Unitarian churches, having an attendance of 2,500, and an average of 250 per church. There are 10 Free Methodist churches, having an attendance of 2,000, and an average of 200 per church. There are 10 Pentecostal churches, having an attendance of 1,500, and an average of 150 per church. There are 10 Salvation Army churches, having an attendance of 1,000, and an average of 100 per church. There are 10 Christian Science churches, having an attendance of 500, and an average of 50 per church. There are 10 Spiritualist churches, having an attendance of 500, and an average of 50 per church. There are 10 other churches, having an attendance of 500, and an average of 50 per church.

FUNERAL TO-DAY AT THE JUNCTION Final Campaign Meetings—John Paterson Thrown From Suggy and His Rib Broken.

Toronto Junction, Nov. 30.—Joseph Barnes, fireman on the G.T.R. and a son of Conductor J. J. Barnes of the C.P.R., residing on Hook-avenue, near Lindsay, was decapitated yesterday by having his head taken off. What is known as a double-header was standing at Lindsay. Barnes went under one of the engines to clear out cinders from the firebox and while in that position the other engine moved. Barnes evidently endeavored to crawl one and was decapitated. The remains were brought home last night, and will be interred to-morrow at Prospect Cemetery. The young man was very highly respected here.

The adherents of Annette-street Methodist Church held a bee on the site of the new skating rink yesterday afternoon and boarded a rink for curling and put up the skeleton of a pavilion. Posts were also put around the main rink.
