A POST-MORTEM HELD.

Stomach of Deceased Sent to St. John to Be Submitted to Analysis by M. V. Paddock - Evidence of Several Witnesses Taken by

An inquest was commenced at 1 o'clock before Coroner H. H. Pride and jury. A large crowd of spectators were present and the proceedings were followed with great interest.

George W. Allen, of Fredericton, represented the crown and J. B. M. Baxter, of St. John, appeared for Mrs. Wooden, widow of the deceased. The evidence of some half a dozen witnesses was taken but nothing of importance was brought out in regard to Wooden's death beyond what is already in possession of the public. At 6 o'clock the inquest was postponed indefinitely to await the analyst's report. VERDICT FOR $250 GIVEN AGAINST THE CITY OF ST. JOHN

John McCrea Wins His Case—Important Question Affecting the City-Duty to Remove Snow from Streets to Reasonable Line Occupied by Street Railway Tracks.

LOCAL AND PROVINCIAL.

The case of John McCrea against the city of St. John in the Orcuit Court before Justice Landry and a jury, was concluded Friday, and a verdict given for the plaintiff for $250.

The case was of considerable importance and establishes a duty upon the city of removing the snow from the roadway between street car tracks and the side walk to a reasonable and safe level.

The plaintiff, in March, 1901, was proceeding up Main street upon a box coal sled at the invitation of the driver, when owing to the snow and ice of the roadway being a distance of from 20 inches to two feet above the level of the track, the sled went over the embankment, throwing the horse, and pitching Mr. McCrea under the horse, and pitching Mr. McCrea under the horse, bruised upon his side and was laid up from work for a couple of months.

The city refused to acknowledge any liability to him, and defended the action on the ground that no liability existed in law against it. It appeared that workmen of the city had removed snow from time to time on Main street, and the plaintiff therefore contended that having understance to do the work it was bound to do it properly, and not allow the level of the snow to remain at a height dangerous to traffic.

In the case of Campbell vs. City of St. John, decided a few years ago by the Supreme Court of Canada, it was held that the city is not liable for non feasance; that is, that where a sidewalk or street gets out of repair and an injury happens the city is not liable. The justimitiff here distinguished this case, on the ground that as ettag (ity had removed the snown in a negligent manner, and assessed damages at $550. The recorder, in the course of the trial, moved for a non-sulf which the judge greated.

The point involved in the case is a new one, and creates a precedent It is not known whether the city will appeal or one, and creates a precedent It is not known in part, at was obliged to level it to a sufficient extent that traveling upon it would not be dangerous; and the case is a new one, and crea

On Monday morning next the laying of the new cables will be commenced and all the big leaden tubes that now form a net work high up on Market Square, Church, Prince William and other streets will be taken down and placed in the conduits that now run underground from the new exchange on Chipman's Hill along King, Union and Germain streets. A carload of new cable weighing many tons has arrived and the work can go on at once. There is only one more manhole to be completed in the conduits. The lead tubing will be filled with wires, which will be previously tested, and then pulled through the conduits from manhole to nanhole at each street corner, being spliced at the terminals. When the large force of workmen commence the work will go along rapidly and before long this city will have a "hello!" system that will equal any.

To get the long leaden tubes through the conduits would seem to the unitiated almost impossible. Defective Sight in Children.

The handicap of imperfect vision na turally interferes with the progress of the child in his studies, says Dr. Grace Peck-ham Murray, in an article in the October Delineator on backward children. A well known oculist of New York states that defective vision is a very common cause of apparent mental dulness in young children. A child's eyes should be examined when he is old enough to attend school, in order to be sure that he does not suffer from lack of good eyesight. One writer has said that he never met with a case of chronic bad spelling that he did not also find some visual defect. It must be also find some visual defect. It must be remembered that trouble from imperfect and figures wrongly but also from fatigue

Mr. Woodbridge, examined by Mr. Gregory, gave the history of the institution and himself. At Halifax his salary was $1,150 per year, besides an allowance of $350 for board of family. In addition he was allowed a furnished residence, domestics, laundry, fuel and light. He had no financial assistance in establishing the Fredericton school. He said he had advanced $650 from his private funds during the ericton school. He said he had advanced $650 from his private funds during the first year of the existence of the institution, and drew no salary for himself for wife. Mr. Powers entered the employ of the institution in the autumn of 1883. Witness did not receive any salary until the institution had been running three and one-half years. In 1886 he advanced from his private funds the sum of $120.

"And the Books Were Burned."

His ability to collect salary depended wholly upon the state of the finances.

The brick building used by the institution was burned down in 1897, and witness' books and accounts were then destroyed. It had always been his wish that the government should assume the financial responsibility of the institution. The legislature was approached at nearly every session and asked to extend the same support as was given the Halifax School for the Blind. The witness had never received any instruction in book-keeping, and did not seem to be adapted for that kind of work.

St. James' Church Presents Address to John Holden.

After more than 50 years a member of the corporation of St. James church, John Holden, one of the vestrymen, was the re-cipient of a handsome present Monday

As the whiskers in question are the only ones he had and he has no thought of fooling away time in raising another crop, Capt. Rainsford Williams was greatly shocked when Capt. Horace L. Waring lifted him by his sad-hued beard as if, forsooth, it were a handle on a jug.

There is no wrong without a remedy in law, so Captain Williams his perturbed whiskers bristling with indigration, was a complamant against Captain Waring in the police court Monday, where the magistrate fixed the price of whisker-pulling at five dollars a pull.

It was a fearful case. Util it was certain that the law would frown upon the form of diversion practiced by Captain Waring no man's whiskers were safe and many a citizen who had been storing up a stiff bunch against the hard winter may well have feared for them.

The horror which resulted in Monday's hearing in court occurred last Thursday morning at the wet end of South wharf. Waring's tug was lying astern of the Leader, of which Waliams is skipper. Waring wanted to make fast and went aboard the Leader to do so. Williams ordered hun to sheer off. They exchanged some deep-sea compliments, at the conclusion of which Waring threw the other man down and knekt on his chest for a time to his discomfiture.

Arising he noticed the prostrate captain's windblown beard and seizing a handfur yanked him to his feet as if the captain had spent all these years raising those reverend whiskers for any such common purpose.

had spent all these years raising those reverend whiskers for any such common purpose.

Such an insult could not pass unchallenged or unaverged and when he had rearranged his ruffled beard, Captain Williams went to court. Doctor Alward appeared for him Monday, and C. J. Coster for Captain Waring.

"Five dollars or 10 days" was the decision. Citizens who wear them will feel easier now.

"You see, girls, I'm actually ashamed to accept any more invitations till I've lifted Mrs. Mathus has been visiting Mrs. Benedict there has been a regular succession of invited to every one of them If Mrs. Mathus and I had not been such intimate friends when she lived here, it wouldn't can I make for not giving her some kind of to keep it from bursting with great ideas, a reception, I'd like to know?"

"Just say you're out of money and can't afford it! That would be the truthful and easy way of getting out of it," said Bebe, the practical, who was noted for her fearful

"Bebe Wentworth, you ought to be ashamed of yourself to propose such a thing! You haven't a particle of family pride, and don't care how much we are disgraced," said Myrtle indignantly.

"Where's the disgrace in being out of money, I'd like to know? I'd rather live in Have you any others?" said Beatrice smilour penniless condition all my days than to be rolling in wealth not honestly acquired, like some of the fine people we know," said

"Oh! if only your father hadn't endorsed that note for Hasting Bros., we should never have known the want of money," said Mrs. Wentworth, on the verge of tears "I cautioned him not to do it, but nothing could convince him that they were not honest." "Papa has such a big, honest heart himself that he thinks every one else has," Bebe said loyally.

"Couldn't we possibly afford a lunch?" "No, we cannot, that's settled; besides it would half kill one this hot weather to be in the kitchen at least a day beforehand sun is rising, if we dared, it looks so lovely coming in the windows through the drapery of morning glories, but I'm afraid our guests would rebel, and we'd have nothing but regrets," chattered Bebe. Mrs. Wentworth, feeling greatly relieved, questioned Beatrice as to exa t details.

"Well, memma, couldn't we have a tea party then; nothing very elaborate, you knew? That wouldn't be such hard work, would it?" inquired Bebe.

"There are your plump Spring chickens, Aunt Cordelia. They can be prepared the evening before, and Aunt Dinah is simply superb at frying them. A platter of helight brown fried chicken is a picture for an artist and a dish for the gods. Then she makes just the lightest, daintiest biscuits-I never could see how she does it, but I order: suppose it is a 'knack' she has. Then you cream; and a-half bucket of luscious blackberries, such as are selling for twenty-five cen's, would be the only thing you need buy extra, for the fresh eggs the boys bring in from the barn every day will add another licious hot cakes that Dinah makes out of stale bread, with maple sirup, will crown a feast fit for a king " said Beatrice gayly. caimbers," said Beatrice. "Suppose we call it a 'Morning-Glory Breakfast Party,' and I'll paint a spray of them on a card for each guest, and Bebe can write a little verse to accompany each, while Myrtle's deft fingers can fasten a dainty bow of pale pink or blue ribbon in one corner. On the reverse side, we'll have the names of the guests. What do you think of my plan?"

Bebe gave a little shrie's of delight, and seems to let me know where you were all these long, long years! Corn is not yet out of danger from frost in the northern half of the belt and this coupled with short supplies imparts strength to cereals generally.

The anthracite trouble still hangs over the situation but the volume of coal shipments is slowly and steadily increasing. Silk goods are strong and prices very firm. Bastern shoe factories are well employed although the complaint of small profits continues.

Manufacturers are only buying leather from hand to mouth but that product shows great strength in sympathy with hides. Fine grades of shoes are in active demand for next spring. Shipments are increasing but are not yet as large as a year ago. Wool is half cent higher and tends up as stocks are not large.
