FROM PAPERS BY THE HIBERNIA.

FRANCE.
The deliberations of the National Assembly were almost wholly devoted, on the 12th and 13th ult., to the report of M. Thiers on the Roman question. The report is decidedly conservative, and at variance with the expressed views of the President's letter to Edgar Ney. The conclusion to which M. Thiers arrives, is that liberal institutions are incompatible with the independence of the Pope as a temporal sovereign, and that where the independence of the Catholic Church and the rights of the people are at issue, the latter ought to give way. It is not believed that the views of M. Thiers will be responded to by the nation, and it is certain that both the matter and style of the report is very unsatisfactory to the President of the Republic. His displeasure found vent in a letter to M. Odillon Barrot, in which he informs him that the sentiments expressed in his letter, and the policy it advanced, were those by which the Roman affair must be solved, and which alone appeared to him compatible with the interests, the honor, and the dignity of France.

ROME.
The accounts from Rome are the reverse of satisfactory. The return of the Pope is still talked about, but where it may take place is still the subject of conjecture. There has been a misunderstanding between one of the Cardinals and de Corcellis, and the Frenchman being offended at a letter received from the Ecclesiastic, complaints of the number of traitors still tolerated in the Eternal City. The point was referred to his Holiness, who disapproved of the Cardinals conduct, and threw him overboard.
Garibaldi has left the Island of Santa Madalana for Gibraltar, whence he will sail for London and ultimately, it is said to America.

ENGLAND.
A large and highly respectable meeting, presided over by the Lord Mayor, took place at Egyptian Hall, London, on the 17th ult., relative to the proposed exhibition of the industry of all nations in that city during the ensuing year, the best feeling was evinced towards the plan of the projectors, and it was proposed to raise by subscription, the sum of £20,000 to distribute in Premiums. All nations are invited without distinction or preference, and the promoters of the design feel no misgivings of the possibility of raising £100,000 or more for the general expenses of the exhibition.

Cholera on Ship-board.—The ship Michael Angelo, Capt. Wilson, from Liverpool, arrived below this port on Saturday, and was anchored at quarantine. She had 250 steerage passengers when she left Liverpool, but during the passage 25 of them and one seaman died of cholera. Many of the passengers were sick, and nearly all the crew. Capt. Wilson, and both his mates, had also been sick, but have partially recovered. At one time there were not men enough to work her in, Mr. Colby, the pilot who took her in, informs us that in working her into the Bay he had the greatest difficulty in mustering men enough to haul the yards. Capt. Wilson has done all in his power to keep his ship clean and well ventilated, but the terror created by the cholera was so great that the people were perplexed and careless—they could not be made to consult their own safety in taking the necessary exercise on deck. When the Captain and officers were sick, the regulations of the ship were totally disregarded. Captain Wilson is well known as one of the experienced and human commanders belonging to this port, and we have no doubt that he did all in his power to insure the welfare of those entrusted to his care. [Boston Atlas.

An Unknown Body Found.—The body of an unknown man was found on Saturday morning in the dock at the Philadelphia packet pier. It had evidently been in the water but a few hours. He was about 5 feet 6 inches in height, and apparently 30 years of age—black hair—on the right arm is imprinted the American flag, sustained by the goddess of Liberty, and also the letters R. M., which are probably the initials of his name. The dress consisted of new round about coat, pilot cloth pants, black satin vest, boots and socks, and two shirts marked J.O.M. The body was conveyed to the "dead house," and Corser Smith held an inquest upon it, and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts—cause unknown. [Boston Atlas.

ENEMIES.
Have you enemies? Go straight on, and mind them not. If they block up your path walk around them, and do your duty regardless of their spite. A man who has no enemies is seldom good for anything; he is made of that kind of material which is so easily worked that every one has a hand in. A sterling character—one who thinks for himself and speaks what he thinks—is always sure to have enemies. These are as necessary to him as fresh air; they keep him alive and active. A celebrated character who was surrounded with enemies, used to remark—They are sparks which, if you do not blow, will go out of themselves. Let it be your feeling while endeavouring to live down the scandal of those who are bitter at Widdien, from which the dates reached to the 6th, with a letter from General Haynau to the Pacha, by which the Hungarian refugees from the Sergeant's downward were pardoned in consequence of which the greater part of them returned to Hungary: General Hurlaf then proceeded to Constantinople.

Several hundred officers of those furnished with passports from Comora, have passed through Berlin on their way to the west.—Some of them are going to America. Klappa is said to have been among these refugees, and to have embraced the resolution of crossing the Atlantic with 300 others.
According to Lloyd's, Hungary is to be divided henceforth into 10 districts, each district to have its own provincial assembly, yet the Deputies to be chosen by a majority of votes of the population.

POETRY.
"SOME THINGS LOVE ME."
All within and all without me
Feel a melancholly thrill,
And the darkness hangs about me,
O, how still!
To my feet the river glideth
Through the shadows, sullen, dark;
On the steam the white moon's tideth,
Like a barque—
And the linden leans above me,
Till I think some things there be
In this dreary world that love me,
Even me.
Gentle flowers are springing near me,
Shedding sweetest breath around:
Countless voices rise to cheer me
From the ground;
And the lone bird comes—I hear it
In the tall and windy pine
Pour the sadness of its spirit
Into mine—
There it swings and sings above me,
Till I think some things there be
In this dreary world that love me,
Even me.
Now the moon hath floated to me,
On the stream I see it away,
Swinging boat-like, as 'twould woo me
Far away—
And the stars bend from the azure,
I could reach them where I lie,
And they whisper all the pleasure
Of the sky.
There they hang and smile above me,
Till I think some things there be
In the very heavens that love me,
Even me.

BE GENTLE WITH THY WIFE.
Be gentle! for ye little know
How many trials rise;
Although to thee they may be small,
To her of giant size.
Be gentle! though perchance that lip
May speak a murmuring tone,
The heart may beat with kindness yet,
And joy to be thine own.
Be gentle! weary hours of pain
Thy woman's lot to bear;
Then yield her wit to support thou canst,
And all her sorrows share.
Be gentle! for the noblest hearts
At times may have some grief,
And even in a pettish word
May seek to find relief.
Be gentle! for unkindness now
May rouse an angry storm
That all the after years of life
In vain may strive to calm.
Be gentle! none are perfect—
Thou'rt dearer far than life.
Then, husband, bear and still forbear—
Be gentle to thy wife.

A SMART YOUTH.—A country lad on his way to a village school with two squares of cake under his arm, was met by the parson, who put the following questions to the boy:—“Where are you going, Sam?” “To school, sir,” was the reply. “And what works are those under your arm, Sam?” “Baker's Staff of Life, in two volumes,” replied Sam, with great quaintness.

The Women of Montenegro.—Though able men are seldom inclined to carry anything, or to take any trouble they can transfer to the women, who are the basis of burthen in Montenegro; and I have seen women toiling up the steepest hills, under loads which men seldom carry in other countries. They are, therefore, very muscular and strong; and the beauty they frequently possess is soon lost by the hard and coarse complexion they acquire; their health being generally exhausted by laborious and unwholesome occupations. The sheaves of Indian corn, the bundles of wood, and everything required for the house or the granary are carried by women; for the men are supposed to be too much interested in the nobler pursuit of war or pillage to have time to attend to the meaner labours.

A gentleman having presented his church with the Ten Commandments, it was wittily said that he gave them away because he could not keep them.

REMARKABLE AND FATAL OCCURRENCE.—One of the most remarkable occurrences that we remember to have heard, took place on Wednesday night in the Northern Liberties. A young girl residing in Coates street named Elizabeth Nice, was visited by a young man named Dilks. On Wednesday evening Miss Nice and her lover went out to some place of amusement, and returned about ten o'clock, and were let in by one of the servant girls, Elizabeth remarking that she would follow her up stairs in a short time. On yesterday morning when the other servants of Mr. Jacobs descended to the kitchen, what was their unspeakable horror to find Elizabeth and her beau extended upon the floor, and both in a state of insensibility, apparently dead. Physicians were called in. After every remedy had been applied that the skill of the medical gentlemen could suggest, it was found impossible to restore the female to sensibility and at two o'clock she died. The young man was restored, and at the last accounts was doing well. Her relatives reside in Reading, Pa. It was the opinion of the physician that this painful occurrence was the effect of the gas from the stove coal fire in the kitchen range.—[Philadelphia paper.

THE MARRIAGE ALTAR.—Judge Charlton, in a recent eloquent address before the Young Men's Library Association at Augusta, Ga., thus sketches the marriage scene:—“I have drawn for you many pictures of death; let me now sketch for a brief, but bright scene of beautiful life. It is the marriage altar; a lovely female, clothed in all the freshness of youth and surpassing beauty, leans upon the arm of him to whom she has just given up herself forever. Look in her eyes, ye gloomy philosophers, and tell me, if you dare, that there is happiness on earth. See the trusting, the heroic devotion, which impels her to leave country, parents, for a comparative stranger, has launched her frail bark upon a wild and stormy sea; she has handed over her happiness and doom for this world, to another's keeping; but she has done it fearlessly: for love whispers to her that her chosen guardian and protector bears a manly and a noble heart. Oh, woe to him that forgoes his oath and his manhood!
“Her wing shall the eagle flap,
O'er the false hearted,
His life blood the wolf shall lap,
Ere life be parted;
Shame and dishonour sit
On his grave ever;
Blessing shall hallow it:
Never! Oh, never!”

We have all read the story of the husband who, in a moment of hasty wrath, said to her who but a few months before had united her fate to his—“if you are not satisfied with my conduct, go return to your friends and to your happiness.” “And will you give me back that which I brought to you?” asked the despairing wife. “Yes,” he replied, “all your wealth shall go with you—I covet it not.” “Alas!” she answered, “I thought not of my wealth—I spoke of my maiden affections—of my buoyant hopes—of my devoted love; can you give these back to me?” “No! I cannot restore these; but I will do more—I will keep them unselfish and unclaimed. I will cherish them through life and in my death, and never again will I forget that I have sworn to protect and to cheer her who gave up to me all she held most dear.” Did I not tell you that there was poetry in woman's look—in woman's word. See it here, the mild and gentle reproval, winning from its hesitancy, the stern and unyielding temper of an angry man. Ab, if creations fairer sex only knew their stronger weapons, how many of wedlock's fierce battles would be unthought—how much of happiness and coldness would be avoided.

A Challenge.—A little fellow conceiving himself to be insulted by a gentleman who had ventured to give him a little wholesome advice, strutted up to him with an air of importance, saying—“Sir, you are no gentleman—here is my card; consider yourself challenged. Should I be from home when you honour with a call, I shall leave word with a friend to settle the preliminaries to your satisfaction.” To which the other replied—“Sir, you are a fool—here is my card, and should I not be at home when you call on me you will find that I have left orders with my servant to kick you into the street.”

An Unlucky Meal.—What dogs are these Jasper? inquired a gentleman the other day, of a lad who was dragging a couple of waspish looking terriers along Regent Street, London. “I don't know, sir,” replied the urchin, “they came with the railway, and they ate the direction, and didn't know where to gang.”

An exchange paper very gravely informs us that a young man, who was recently bathing in the Missouri river, seeing a number of snakes approach, drowned himself from motives of delicacy.
A man has started a paper in Mainz (Germany)

An American paper (to be issued semi-occasionally, which is a great deal of paper, the editor thinks, he will be able to get his pay for it.

What have I Noticed.—I have noticed that all tombstones are marked with epitaphs of “good and virtuous.” Is there any particular cemetery where the bad men are buried. “I have noticed that the prayer of every selfish man is, “forgive us our debts,” but he makes everybody who owes him to pay to the uttermost farthing. I have noticed that he who thinks every man a rogue is certain to see one when he shaves himself, and he ought in mercy to his neighbour, to surrender the razor to justice. I have noticed that money is the fool's wisdom, the knave's reputation, the wise man's jewel, the rich man's trouble, the poor man's desire, the covetous man's ambition, and the idol of all. I have noticed that whatever is right with few exceptions—the left eye, the left leg and the left side of a plum pudding. I have noticed that merit is always measured in the world by its success. I have noticed that as we are always wishing instead of working for fortune, we are disappointed, and call fortune “blind”; but it is the very best evidence that the old lady has most capital eyesight, and is no “granny” with spectacles. I have noticed that tombstones say “Here he lies,” which no doubt is often the truth; and if men could see the epitaph their friends sometimes write, they surely believe they had got into the wrong grave.
Have you ground all the tools right, as I told you this morning when I went away? said a carpenter to a rather green lad whom he had taken for an apprentice. “All but the handsaw, sir!” replied the lad promptly. “I couldn't get quite all the gaps out of that.”
“The prospect of heaven itself,” says Cooper, in one of his novels. “Would have no charms for an American of the backwoods, if he thought there was any place further west.”

Colonel Rice Jones, R. E., has, during his administration of the Government of Malta, in the absence of Mr. More O'Farrell as gaoler immense popularity in the Island, by his attention and kindness to the unfortunate Italian refugees, who sought protection from the British flag in the harbour of Valletta.

A Bold Sea Captain.—The Port Adelaide Observer, of March 31, records the arrival in that colony of a keech, of no more than fifty-eight tons, called the Beautiful, of Swansea, which safely arrived out from Old England, after a passage of some six months. They must have been venturesome spirits who ploughed the ocean in so small a craft.
It is said that Stella, once looking over Swift while he was correcting a proof sheet, pointed out some literal error which had escaped observation. “Poh!” said the Dean, nobody will mind such an inaccuracy, if it tends to the sentiment.” “Ah, Sir,” replied Stella, “a thousand dull pedants and conceited blockheads, will be struck with a little fact, and feel their vanity gratified in pointing it out who to selfish, the fairness of the remark or the delicacy of the wit.”

We are informed by a gentleman who has received a letter from Frederick, that the “Sand Point Boat Club” rowed their Boat on Saturday last, on the River immediately in front of the Pirbright Hall, one measure, in 6 minutes and 15th seconds. His Excellency Sir Edmund and Lady Head and a very large number of the most respectable inhabitants of Frederick, graced the banks of the River with their presence. [New-Brunswick.

A large band of counterfeiters have been arrested in Cooke County, Tennessee, who have operated there and in the counties above and below, for years, upon a large and daring scale. Moulds, materials, and a quantity of base coin, were captured, and several of the leaders were committed to jail. In attempting to arrest others, Huff, a deputy sheriff, was shot through and was not expected to live. This band of rascals are numerous and extend through Sevier, Cooke, Greene, and Washington, in Tennessee, and several counties of North-Carolina.

An omnibus took fire Friday evening last in Philadelphia, as it was turning Third and Dock streets. The straw upon the floor was burnt and the interior damaged. There was but one passenger in the omnibus at the time.

The locomotive attached to the 12 o'clock train from Philadelphia for New York, on the 2d inst., was thrown off the track near Beverly, the locomotive rendered a perfect wreck, and John Anderson, the engineer, the fireman, and a brakeman named Wm. Crim, seriously injured.
A piece, one eighth of an inch in thickness, was discovered near Philadelphia, on the morning of the 1st inst.

TRUSTEES—(with a Seat at the Board) Wm. Wright, R. P. Hazen, and H. Chubb Esqrs. DIRECTORS: Charles Drury, George Wheeler, Charles E. Raymond, James Poynts, William C. Dunham, John C. Littlehale, John H. Gray, Samuel Huggins, James Agnew.

BANKERS—Bank of New Brunswick, SECRETARY & TREASURER—Mr. C. L. Street, George D. Street, Esq. Agent, St. Andrews, James J. Stevens Esq., Agent, St. Stephens.

THIS SOCIETY is established on a mutual and simplified system—the most approved in England; and founded on a basis so sound as to give the most effectual security to its members.

THE DESIGN OF THIS SOCIETY is—First.—To enable persons to become their own Landlords, and purchase Freehold or Leasehold Property, by advances made by the Society (£200 positively advanced for £36 a year for eleven and a half years, which also pay both principal and interest. Other sums in proportion.

Secondly.—To provide a safe and profitable mode for Savings, or Investments for small or large sums of money. (This Society offers opportunities in this respect which no other Institution in this Province can do.—Savings' Banks only pay 5 per cent. whereas this Society pays 6 per cent. Compound Interest.)

3.—Any Member may withdraw the amount of his Shares at any time after the first year, with the compound interest thereon. Shares may be transferred at any time.

4.—Members may invest their Money in various ways, which will necessarily be made, in the various districts, and also from Shares, which will always be a simple means for meeting the advances required.

The Funds are certain, because the amount paid by the borrower, for an advance, is not merely from the fund for paying the lender.

The Expenses of the Society are small, as the Officers act gratuitously, with the exception of the Secretary and Treasurer of the Board.

The Funds and Expenses form a Contingent Fund out of which the expenses are paid, and the balance, which will be very considerable, will go into the general Fund, which will lessen the duration of the Society.

Every information, with copies of Prospectus, Rules, &c. can be obtained on application at the Office of the Society, or at the Offices of the Agents. By order of the Board, CHARLES L. STREET, Secretary & Treasurer, Prince William street, St. John, N. B. December 25, 1847.
