PENSIONS INCREASE OF TWENTY PER CENT TO BE RECOMMENDED

Special Committee Will Submit Report to Parliament.

$2,000 BONUS IMPOSSIBLE

Sir Thomas White Declares Demands Too Great On Treasury.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, May 17.—While Sir Thomas White, acting prime minister, has declared that in view of the tremendous demands upon the treasury it will be impossible for the Government to entertain the demands of the Calgary and other Great War Veteran organizations for a bonus of $2,000 per head for members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, it is more than proable that certain other demands of the veterans generally will be conceded. For some time past the pensions committee of the House has been considering in camera the question of increased pension allowance, and it has pretty well reached the conclusion that a substantial increase is justified.

Twenty Per Cent Increase.

The report of the committee will not be presented to the House for some days, and after that even if parliament concurs in it, it is for the Government to act or not to act. The report, however, it is understood will advocate an all-round increase of 20 per cent in pensions. The committee it is said is unanimous in this opinion.

Yesterday the representatives of the Dominion executive of the G. W. V. A., who waited upon the acting prime minister, declared that it would be just for the Government to extend the gratuities to men who had been discharged prior to the armistice, whether they had reached the firing line or not. They further, it said, advocated that the payment of passage money to soldiers' dependents be made retroactive to cover that of dependents sent home at the soldiers own expense prior to the cessation of hostilities.

TOOK A GAMBLER'S CHANCE, BUT LOST, SAYS M'CULLOUGH

Writes Letter To His Former Spiritual Adviser.

STILL READS THE BIBLE

Claims His Attempt To Gain Liberty Does Not Affect Chances of Saving Soul.

Toronto, May 17.—In conversation with Rev. Bertram Nelles, pastor of the Western Congregational Church, who was spiritual advisor to Frank McCullough prior to his getaway from the Toronto jail, the minister remarked that so many letters had been received and views expressed concerning McCullough's attitude towards spiritual matters that it would seem only fair that McCullough's own viewpoint should be made known to the thousands of Christian men and women interested in his welfare who have signed petitions in his behalf for executive clemency.

"These views," said the minister, "are very clearly set forth in an extract from a letter I received from McCullough this morning, and without breaking confidences, I can give a few paragraphs of what he said."

Last Extremity.

Regarding his escape from the jail, McCullough writes: "I tried to make it no worse than I could help, and I did not forget your teaching, Mr. Nelles, although I certainly committed a burglary. It was, however, only as a last extremity, for I certainly did my utmost to obtain money and clothes honestly, and took some desperate chances in order to do so, but I had made up my mind if I could not make my escape without violence that I would not go.

"You can rest assured that I will continue reading the Good Book as usual, and I have not lost faith by one bit. My escape was a gamble, and I took the chance, as I guess almost anyone would under the circumstances. That will not make one bit of difference as far as my soul is concerned, because I still believe, and am happy in that belief regardless of everything."

Housing Loan Requests Show Slight Decrease

Only About a Score of Applicants Can Fulfill Conditions.

Applications for housing loans have shown a slight falling off in the last few days. The number received so far by City Clerk S. Baker is 75, of which only about a score are from people who are able to fulfill the requirement of having either a lot or cash with which to make a first payment.

Mr. Baker has received a number of standardized plans of different kinds of houses from J. A. Ellis, director of the provincial housing commission, but they were not accompanied by specifications, and, therefore, it is impossible as yet to secure estimates on the cost of construction.

The local commission, when it sends in its first application for a grant, will probably ask only for sufficient to take care of the actual applications received. This will obviate the possibility of having to pay interest on money which is lying idle, and subsequent applications for additional grants can be made as they are required.

WINNIPEG TELEGRAPHERS JOIN GENERAL STRIKE, LEAVING CITY AT MERCY OF COURIER SYSTEM

Limited Bread and Milk Deliveries Are Being Maintained in Manitoba Capital—Plenty of Bread Is Being Baked For All Needs.

ASKS MINISTER TO COME TO WINNIPEG.

Ottawa, May 17.—Senator Gideon Robertson, minister of labor, has received a wire from Mayor Gray of Winnipeg, inviting him to come to the scene of the trouble. The minister intimates that he is willing to go if the employers and employed show any disposition to confer together in connection with the dispute, but hints that in the present condition of aloofness between the two it would be useless for him to go.

While the dispute at the outset was one which did not directly involve Government utilities, such is not the case now.

Civil servants, railway employees and telegraph employees are now participants in the strike, so that the federal authorities are directly interested.

Winnipeg, May 17. — Approximately 200 telegraphers employed b all commercial telegraph companies, brokerage firms and the Canadian Press, Limited, walked out at noon today. The service of the onl other news-gathering association in Winnipeg was discontinued oying to the shutting off of the power in the telephone office, through which their leased wire passes. Thus the city will be obliged to depend on the courier system if communication is to be had with the outside world, as the postal and telephone service is completely tied up. In all probability communication between Western and Eastern Canada will not be seriously affected by the strike, as it is expected that a sufficient staff of wire chiefs will remain on the job to cut all wires through the local telegraph offices and keep them in working order.

For instance, it is contemplated to cut night and day leased wire circuits through direct from Ottawa to Regina, the service to be relayed thence to all western newspaper subscribers. Similar arrangements undoubtedly will be made by commercial companies for the handling of their business. A limited broad and milk delivery system was maintained this morning, as was promised at yesterday's meeting of the strike committee. Plenty of bread is being baked for the needs of all.

No announcement was made by leaders of the trainmen, but the report persisted at union labor halls that the strike vote would be taken today. Union men linked this report with a rumor, wholly unconfirmed, from any official source, but much discussed in strike circles, that a force of mounted police had been ordered to Winnipeg.

Winnipeg was quiet at 9 o'clock. Some of the shops in the business district were open, and a few restaurants are operating. The leading hotels, crippled by the strike of their waiters and cooks, are serving cafeteria meals to their guests.

"ONE BIG UNION" IDEA LED TO GENERAL STRIKE IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Man., May 17.—Now that the true character of the local strike situation has developed it is of interest to trace back to its genesis. That was not the tie up in the Winnipeg metal and building trades as might superficially appear, but goes back further, namely to the convention of western labor men held at Calgary in the late winter when the idea of the "One Big Union" was produced and adopted. Because of that meeting avowedly was dissatisfaction on the part of western delegates and labor men generally with the results of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, held in Quebec City a few months previously. The westerners claimed that that organization was too conservative, too much under the influence of the less radical eastern labor men, was fossilized in its machinery and outlook, and could no longer be permitted to speak for western labor. It was proposed to make a clean sweep of the old system of collective bargaining as between individual trades and their employers and to replace this by "one big union," which working through a central committee would when deemed advisable call a general strike in order to enforce employers to concede the demands of a particular trade.

Divergence of Opinions.

During the sessions at Calgary a sharp divergence of opinion developed, the conservative minority claiming that the "One Big Union" was nothing more nor less than the I. W. W. camouflaged and, further, that Canadian-born working men were not behind the scheme which owed its strength to foreign-born citizens many of whom were enemy aliens. They proposed especially at breaking down what they claimed was the valuable affiliations of Canadian trades through their internationals with the powerful American unions. For the root idea of the "One Big Union" is to cut loose from international control and set up in Canada for Canada alone a body of labor dictatorial in its scope and intentions and with before it the ideal of a government of Canada, of soviets of working men to replace the present parliamentary system.

These ideals prevailed at Calgary where the miners, the lumbermen and the Pacific Coast longshoremen were the chief bodies of support, while many of the smaller and more conservative unions, such as the Typographical, voted against them. The program finally adopted was so radical in its scope that the nearest analogy is the form of government existent today in Russia.

Indorsed "One Big Union."

An active campaign of propaganda was at once embarked in, labor circles being flooded with Bolshevist literature. With some few exceptions the trades and labor councils of Western Canada proceeded by vote to indorse the "One Big Union" idea, but in Eastern Canada it met with a cold reception.

In Winnipeg the vote was decisively and even overwhelmingly in favor, the Typographical Union being almost alone in its opposition. What followed is a matter of recent history. A deadlock arose between the metal and building trades and their employers, neither more nor less than has arisen before. Next came trouble between the street railway employees and the Winnipeg Electric Railway. The men asked that the present minimum of 39c an hour be increased to 70c. The company applied for a board of arbitration, but the men refused to appoint a representative or have anything to do with its sittings, now in progress, except when directly subpoenaed. Meanwhile a vote was taken for a general strike, culminating Tuesday night last. The "One Big Union" is now under trial in Winnipeg. It is significant that among classes called out and who obeyed are municipal employees, including firemen, whose claims were but recently settled on a basis that the men themselves declared satisfactory.

MEN FROM SCOTIAN QUICKLY DISPERSED IN EARLY MORNING

Were Warmly Greeted by Friends At Station.

STUCK TO HIS PLATOON

Lt. Pettigrew, M. C., Fought For and With His Unit Throughout.

With a cold wind blowing, but all in the best of spirits in anticipation of seeing their loved ones, the people stood on the C. P. R. Quebec street station and watched the eighteen coaches, carrying the men who had arrived at Halifax on the S.S. Scotian, slowly come around the curve just east of the station. As soon as the train crossed Quebec street and was slowing up, the band struck up a lively tune, and as the veterans, with full equipment, including their trench helmets strapped on their backs, stepped from the train and were seen by mothers or wives, there was a rush to embrace the ones whom they had not seen for so long.

After the usual rush of civilians looking for their soldier friends, the veterans marched up the hill to the dispersal building, where they were lined up alphabetically, and in turn received their discharge from army life, their transportation and pay. The men were then taken down town in the large military trucks and cars. The party consisted of men from the field ambulance, engineers and machine gunners. There were eleven officers also in the party. Seven of these officers wore medals for gallantry on the field.

Had Good Trip.

Lieut.-Col. R. J. Gardiner, who is proceeding to his home in Saskatoon, was in charge of the party and reported to The Advertiser that the men were well satisfied with both the ocean voyage and the railroad trip. The men were stationed at Bramshott camp before they left for Canada.

Lieut. E. Pettigrew, M.C., brought home with him 24 men of his old platoon of the 160th Battalion. To do this he had to fight not only in France, but all the way along the line. When he went to England the authorities tried to break up the battalion. This they did as far as the other platoons were concerned, but Lieut. Pettigrew wanted his men. He went to Argyle House and fought with them till they consented that he could go to France with his platoon, but when he arrived in France they tried to break up his platoon again. This time he went to the corps commander and fought it out, and he was allowed to take his 75 men with him to the firing line. The men who belonged to the platoon have nothing but words of praise for the lieutenant.

Wear Decorations.

Lieut. Pettigrew is wearing the Military Cross for gallantry in action in saving his men at the risk of his life. On this day he had one man killed and thirteen wounded. There were four men killed in his platoon and the other 47 men have been invalided home.

Pte. A. D. Montor, an Indian, whose home is in Hagersville, Ont., is wearing the military medal. He was late of the 15th Battalion. He would not state how he had won the decoration.

Another of the returned officers was Capt. J. W. Reynolds, 28 Askin street. He formerly belonged to the C. A. D. C.

Another Veteran of 63rd Regiment Resides in City; Nearly 80 Years Old

The following letter has been received by The Advertiser:

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Having seen the account in your paper of the 14th inst., respecting Martin Forrester of your city, who belonged to the 63rd Regiment, I might say there is a man residing here named Daniel Last, aged 79, on the 24th of this month, who joined the 63rd Regiment on the 19th of November, 1858, at Bury St. Edmunds at the age of 18 years. He belonged to No. 6 Company, under Capt. Bruce and Lieut. Geobel. He crossed the Atlantic with the regiment and came to Halifax, and remembers coming to Montreal in sleighs as Mr. Forrester states, and came to London. He paid £18 for his discharge, which is dated 15th of May, 1864, which certificate of discharge was given in London, and he is described therein as No. 286, and states he was born in the town of Suffolk, county of Suffolk, and served in the army for five years and 175 days.

Certificate as to character states: "Conduct good. He is in possession of one good conduct badge." He was orderly in the Hospital Corps, and Sergt. Overly was head thereof. No doubt if the two old gentlemen met they would have interesting matters to talk about.

FRIEND.

DUNDAS ST. STORE ENTERED AND TILL RIFLED LAST NIGHT

Thieves Overlooked Valuable Violins, But Took Cornet.

Thieves, last night broke into the Dundas street store of Mason and Risch. Breaking open the till they stole some $25 and a cornet, but left behind valuable viclins, said to be worth $200 or $300 each.

Entrance was gained by the thieves forcing open a window at the rear of the store. The police have been notified and are now working on the case.

BAD WEATHER HAS SPOILED PLANS FOR PAVING OF STREETS

Work Held Back and Gangs Behind Schedule.

The unsettled condition of the weather during the present spring has played havoc with the arrangements of the city engineer's department. For more than a month, Clarence street and Dufferin avenue have been closed to traffic, while roadway construction was under way, and the department is still a thousand feet behind its schedule with the concrete work.

Hopes Failed.

The work was begun under auspicious circumstances, and the city engineer had good hope of making excellent progress, but day after day the gangs were forced to quit work because of rain, and the result is that, even with the best of conditions for the remainder of the season, the department will have great difficulty in catching up with the work to be done.

Explains Scheme.

Asked why Oxford street had been torn up while Dufferin avenue and Clarence street were still closed, City Engineer Brazier explained that it was necessary to begin one job before another was completed in order that the graders should be sufficiently ahead of the concrete workers to avoid clashing. When work on Oxford street was commenced, he said, there was expectation that the weather would clear up, and if it had done so the work done on Oxford street would not have been any too much to keep it ahead of the concrete gangs, which would have been released from Dufferin and Clarence.

Yesterday, the engineer stated, only about one-quarter of a normal day's concrete work could be done, and on very many days the same discouraging situation has existed.

GERMAN CARDINAL ASKS VATICAN TO PLEAD FOR TEUTON

Wants the Pope To Save Huns From "Complete Breakdown."

COLOGNE, May 16.—Cardinal Hartmann, archbishop of Cologne, has requested Pope Benedict to intervene in the situation between the Allied powers and Germany, in order to protect Germany from the complete breakdown which threatens her. In his appeal the cardinal asserted that the peace conditions would mean the total ruin of Germany and be a cruel violation of the rights of seventy million inhabitants of the country.

Squire Objects to Remarks of Judge; May Quit Position

Trouble Arises Out of Assault Case in Which Warrants Were Issued.

Squire W. H. Chittick has taken exception to remarks made by Judge Talbot Macbeth at the Indian assault case, tried at the court house on Thursday, regarding his issuing warrants for the accused's arrest, and has stated to the judge that if the matter is not righted he may tender his resignation.

To The Advertiser today Squire Chittick stated that it was his desire to try the Indians summarily. The crown attorney, he said, thought that warrants should be issued and so he signed them instead of sending out summonses.

Judge Macbeth was of the opinion that the warrants should not have been issued. It cost the county almost $100 to extract a $2 fine.

A. P. Macdougald, J. P., of Melbourne, had refused to issue warrants, and the Indian agent at Muncey refused to act, as the case was only one of common assault, and was considered but a family affair.

FINE OF $250 FOR DRAFT EVADER MET BY FRIEND AT ONCE

Maxwell Rohror Neglected To Report When Ordered.

Maxwell Rohror was today fined $250 by Police Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon during the Carling street court session, when he was found guilty of failing to report under the military service act.

Rohror's explanation of the affair was a shrug of his shoulders when he heard the amount of the fine. A relative stepped forward from the spectators' gallery and counted out to Court Clerk Moule the necessary amount, following which he and the draft evader left court.

Registering for service, Rohror immediately asked for exemption, and, failing to secure it, he commenced moving about the country, until he was taken into custody by Constable Blackburn of the Dominion police. As a member of Group 3, Rohror failed to report for service when ordered by the military authorities to do so.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Thousands of mothers state positively that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine they know of for little ones. Their experience has taught them that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them and that they can be given with perfect safety to children of all ages. Concerning them Mrs. Joseph Therrien, St. Gabriel de Brandon, Que., writes:

"Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for little ones. I thought I would lose my baby before trying the Tablets, but they soon made him healthy and happy and now I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Real Wonder-Worker For Wrinkled Faces

Those who have tried all sorts of so-called "wrinkle removers" in a vain effort to lose those unwelcome traces of age, illness or worry, can scarcely find words to express their delight with the wonderful saxolite formula, once they have given it a trial. The success of this method is due not alone to its marvelous effectiveness—upon the deepest lines and crowsfeet, as well as upon the very fine ones—but also to its surprisingly quick action and its entire harmlessness. Its simplicity is another commendable feature, for one need only dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel, and bathe the face in this solution. At once a remarkable transformation is beheld.

It is not only the effect on wrinkles and creases that is so noticeable, but facial contour is remarkably improved and the face looks much younger. One should be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered saxolite. The lotion, being so refreshing, is particularly grateful to tired faces.—Advt.

CARVELL PARTY ADMONISHED FOR PORT STANLEY TRIP

St. Thomas District Methodists Discuss Recent Sunday Inspection.

TAYLOR CHARGE DORMANT

Board of Works Appointed to Look Into Case Against Mr. Shaw.

ST. THOMAS, May 16.—The local district meeting of Methodists, held in Springfield yesterday, brought forth some interesting arguments and resolutions. Probably the foremost among these was a resolution condemning Hon. F. B. Carvell and the London and St. Thomas delegates who accompanied him on a tour of inspection some weeks ago to Port Stanley. The inspection was made on the Sabbath and brought forth much discussion at the London Presbytery meeting here. The Methodist critics, however, were a little more modified in their resolution, which read as follows: "That this annual meeting, composed of ministers and laymen in equal numbers in session assembled, desire to express our appreciation of the London Ministerial Association and London Presbytery in calling attention to the action of Hon. F. B. Carvell, in yielding to the importunity of the acting mayor of the City of London and going on a tour of inspection of the harbor at Port Stanley on Sunday, May 4, 1919, the inspection being with a view to making certain improvements therein, such action being in our judgment a violation of the sanctity of the Christian Sabbath. We regard the action of the honorable minister as very injudicious, inasmuch as it tends to destroy the moral sacredness of the Lord's Day, and sincerely hope that the honorable minister will see the matter from this standpoint and in future perform his official duties at such times as will uphold our traditions as a Sabbath-keeping people. And that a copy of this resolution be sent to the press and the honorable minister at Ottawa."

The session also spent some time discussing the Sunday delivery of milk. This discussion was a lengthy one, especially among the lay delegates of the meeting. The delivery of milk to condensers in the country on Sunday has been under consideration for some time. It was held in abeyance owing to the fact that it was stated by milk men to be necessary to the successful termination of the war. The meeting finally passed a resolution condemning this practice, with the orders that it be forwarded to the attorney-general at Ottawa.

Rev. S. L. Toll of Central Church, this city, resigned as chairman of the district meeting, owing to the fact that he leaves shortly for Hamilton. Rev. W. K. Hagar of Aylmer, was elected to the office.

INVESTIGATION NOT STARTED.

Some weeks ago at the regular meeting of the city council, Ald. Taylor startled his fellow aldermen and the large audience who occupied the auditorium by announcing that he would ask for the appointment of a committee to investigate certain charges against a city official. He later named the official as W. J. Shaw, superintendent of the garbage department, who, he said, had been using the city's employees to do work at his home and at the city's expense. Ald. Taylor stated that his informant, who would give evidence on the case before a committee, was George Bolter, the former forman, who, through some trouble with Mr. Shaw, resigned. The mayor appointed the board of works as a committee to make the investigation, and with that the matter has apparently ended.

During the past few days a large number of citizens have asked when this serious charge is going to be investigated. The board of works held a meeting the other night, but no action was taken.

$11,519 IN ONE YEAR.

According to statements presented at the regular quarterly board meeting of Grace Methodist Church, the sum of $11,519 was raised during the past year from all sources. There was an increase of $400 in missions and the donations for the educational funds were double those of last year. There were 53 new members received into the church during the year and the pastor's salary was increased by $100, to be retroactive from July 1, 1918.

TRAINS HELD UP.

Through a tire breaking on engine No. 8077, in charge of Thomas Burke, on the M. C. R., near Maidstone, the westbound mail train was one hour and 55 minutes late this morning. The accident occurred when the engine was traveling about 35 miles an hour. Luckily, the engine did not take to the ditch, the engineer's presence of mind avoiding this.

I. O. D. E. BAZAAR.

Yesterday afternoon and evening saw another memorable event in the history of the St. Thomas Chapter, I. O. D. E. The ladies have been working for weeks for the purpose of holding a bazaar as a means of raising some necessary funds. The event that was held yesterday was a credit to the ladies in charge. After a successful sale of goods a progressive euchre party in the evening provided entertainment for a large gathering.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

J. W. Roberts of the Elgin and St. Thomas Poultry Association, will attend the pet stock poultry convention at the Guelph Agricultural College next month. The conference is called by the Government, and a number of visitors from all over America attend.

MRS. McGREGOR PASSES.

This afternoon at her home in Redan street, Mrs. Margaret McGregor, an old and highly esteemed resident of the city, passed away after a brief illness. The deceased lady was born in Belmoint, but had resided in St. Thomas for many years. She leaves, besides her husband, four sons and two daughters, several of whom are in Northwest Canada.

BAND ORGANIZED.

The 25th Regimental Band has been reorganized. The generous response of citizens during the past few days enabled the officers in charge to start once more on a good financial basis. W. Martin, an old member of the band, was named as treasurer and custodian of the fund recently collected by public subscription, while Mayor Horton and W. A. McIntyre, as representatives of the city, were named as official members of the board of directors. The O. K. of all three of these officials will be necessary to make an expenditure. The bandmaster's salary was set at $40 per month. The band promises to be about 50 strong in a few months.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

The New Method Laundry of this city, contributed $10 to the city treasury this morning when one of their drivers was found guilty of exceeding the speed limit and driving recklessly on the city streets. The information was laid by Peter Stover, who claimed that he had been given a mud bath when the defendant passed him on the street.

NEW CONDUCTORS.

Owing to the increase in passenger traffic on the M. C. R. new conductors in this branch of the service have been appointed. Among those who have been promoted to this coveted position on the road is William West, a veteran railroad man, who was up till this year president of the West Elgin Liberals. Others included in the list published today are: Conductors Dilts, Thomas Hyndes and William Knowles. They will begin their preparation for the new work at once.

DONATE PLOT TO G. W. V. A.

A committee from the cemetery board yesterday went to the cemetery with a committee from the G. W. V. A. and arrangements were completed for the donation of a plot of land to be used exclusively by soldiers. It is quite probable that a suitable monument will be erected on the site to serve as a memory to those who have fallen since their return home.

YOUNG MEN'S SERVICES.

Central Methodist Church will on Sunday next be the scene of a novel event, when services for young men and conducted by the young men of the church will be given. The speaker at the evening service will be H. R. McKeracher, physical instructor of the local Y. M. C. A.

TULIPS ESCAPED FROST.

Probably the finest bed of tulips on exhibition at the present time, and practically the only one that escaped the frost, can be seen at the water commissioners' plot, near the city's water tank on Amelia street. There are some very fine tulips included in this collection and a better bloom could hardly be found anywhere.

HOUSE SHORTAGE.

As an evidence of the serious condition of the housing situation in this city, an instance which occurred the other day is interesting to note. A local man, unable to locate a home after several fruitless efforts, decided to sell his personal belongings. He was so desperate and, at the same time, so assured that he would never need them again, that he caused the sale to be advertised throughout the city in this way: "Goods will be sold regardless of cost and regardless of weather. Rain or shine they go." There was a fair crowd on hand, but unfortunately it rained all day and the proceeds were not as much as they otherwise would have been. Now the unfortunate one is searching the city for a boarding house.

T. A. Warden of Guelph, who recently returned from overseas, is visiting friends here.

Deputy Sheriff Favors Criminal Code Amendment

Would Have Electrocution and Only In Penitentiary.

Deputy Sheriff B. F. Watterworth, after having read an editorial which appeared in The Advertiser on Friday with respect to the proposed amendment to the criminal code, which is being brought before the Legislature by H. M. Moore, K.C., M. P., stated:

"I am heartily in accord with the changes mentioned; that is, that all executions be carried out in the penitentiary, and the form changed from hanging to electrocution. My first reason favoring its adoption is the fact that we have no separate cell in which the condemned can be kept. Other reasons are: The difficulty of securing a reliable death-watch; the inexperience of the sheriffs in the conduct of such cases, and the trouble they have in getting men to build the scaffold, and to attend to the disposition of the body.

"Past experience has been that people of morbid curiosity are clamoring to get into the jail to be eyewitnesses to the scene, and some of them wanting to act as executioner.

"I hope that the amendment, which is being brought for consideration of the House, will meet with the fullest approval, as it is, in my judgment, time that this barbarous form of execution should be done away with."

"The attention of the county council will be brought to this proposed amendment at its next session in June."

Deputy Sheriff Watterworth received a circular letter from the secretary of the association, inclosing a draft of the proposed amendment which was furnished the above-mentioned member of parliament. The circular asks the sheriffs for their opinion of the proposed amendment.

BUMPER FRUIT CROP CERTAIN IF FROST DOES NOT TAKE BITE

Inspector Finds Promise Good and Blossoms Heavy On the Peach Trees Which Were Failure Last Year.

"There will be a bumper fruit crop this year unless frost comes to intervene," declared George Conner, fruit inspector for this district, who was present at the market this morning. "The great display of blossoms throughout Western Ontario is a strong indication of this. Peaches which were absolutely wanting here last year are filled with bloom, and the apple trees give every promise of abundance of fruit."

"And how has this rainy weather affected the sowing of the crops?" was a question asked him. He replied that there had been very little oats put in as a consequence. "Why some fields were sown only a few days ago, and now they are flooded out with water."

Potatoes Plentiful.

The market was large in spite of the rain, great quantities of potatoes appearing, especially the small variety to be used for seeding. These sold at about $1.75 a bag, and the rumor was abroad that a few were short in weight. Apples were almost absent, what few there were, selling at ridiculously high figures. One woman, the proud possessor of a turkey weighing 17 pounds, 11 ounces, hauled in quite a sum when it sold at 40 cents a pound.

The near approach of June is beginning to tell favorably upon the butter market, and excellent dairy butter could be purchased this morning for 45 cents. Eggs still run high, however.

Fresh Vegetables.

Among the fresh vegetables, asparagus was seen in large quantities, and sold generally for 10 cents a bunch. Sometimes a bargain could be made at three bunches for 25 cents. Watercress was in evidence, and a large pail of morels was attracting purchasers at 35 cents the quart. Imported tomatoes sold at 20 cents the box, while cucumbers in large numbers furnished still greater variety to the salad products.

Plants in Quantities.

Boxes of plants for setting out formed a considerable portion of the goods on sale. Tomatoes, onions, cabbages, strawberry plants, etc., were securing a speedy sale. A few years ago there was not such a demand for these in the city, and those sold were always accompanied with plenty of advice as to planting, etc. Now, however, advice is rather resented on the part of the local amateur gardener who is beginning to pride himself on his knowledge from war gardening. The vendor must mention some very new wrinkle which he has learned himself but a short time before and speak to the purchaser as from expert to expert, else his sermon does not receive an audience. Plenty of just such sermons were heard on all sides this morning, and very often it was the purchaser who was doing the sermonizing.

A lively auction sale was in progress on the King street side of the market, where everything from tiny vases to bedsteads and organs was put under the auctioneer's hammer. The bargains purchased here were of no ordinary kind, according to the noisy remarks of the man at the block and the eager grabbing of the crowd.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF IN COURT; CASE TO BE CONTINUED LATER

Crown Hears of Evidence Available in Afternoon.

COMPANION IS UNKNOWN

Accused Denies Knowledge of Name or Identity of Man With Him.

Robert McArthur, a hydro-electric line foreman, caught by Police Constable Louis F. McCaughey Friday night after an exciting chase, during which the officer fired four shots from his revolver, appeared before Police Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon this morning on a charge of stealing a motor car, and was remanded until this afternoon for a continuation of evidence as the result of information given Crown Attorney James B. McKillop while the prisoner was on the witness stand.

McArthur's story, given on the witness stand, was that he was on his way home after having some drinks down town, when he noticed a fellow standing against a car on Bathurst street.

"Anything on the hip?" queried the man near the motor.

"Wish I had," said the prisoner.

Following this they both got into the machine, and after driving it for awhile it stalled at Bathurst and Thames streets. Here Constable McCaughey came along and asked what was the matter with the machine.

Why He Ran.

After a conversation with the police officer the men left to get some gas, and the police officer resumed his beat. Suddenly a man hove in sight shouting, "Get those men, they stole my car."

"The fellow I was with commenced to run," said McArthur, "then he said, 'Come on, beat it, the bulls are full of morels.' Why I ran, I don't know, but as I did the policeman commenced firing his revolver, and I was half scared to death. Eventually after a chase I was found by the police in Hobb's glass works yard."

Denies Knowledge.

McArthur denied that he knew the man in the car with him. Asked by Crown Attorney James B. McKillop if it were not true that he and the man mentioned had deliberately walked up and got into the car, driving it away, McArthur stated that he positively did not know the man, but could remember seeing him about town.

The case adjourned here, as Crown Attorney McKillop received information to the effect that the crown would place a man on the stand today who could positively identify McArthur as one of two men he saw walking together, and who later started off in the car.

Constable's Story.

Police Constable McCaughey said he saw two men examining the car as it was stalled. He questioned them, and they said it was out of gas. Later he was attracted by a man shouting, "Arrest those men; they have stolen my car." Looking around he saw the prisoner and another man running down the street. He gave chase and fired four shots. He found the prisoner covered over with a coat and some wire netting in the yard of the Hobbs Company.

During the evidence of McArthur, Crown Attorney James B. McKillop took exception to the witness referring to the constable of London's Finest as "bulls." The witness excused himself, saying that those were the words used by the man who ran away with him.

RAILWAYMEN OF STATES FAVOR CONTROL BY GOVT.

COLUMBUS, May 16.—That the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will announce that its 186,000 members are opposed to restoration of the railroads to private ownership and management, and in favor of some sort of Government control, was the prediction here today at the brotherhoods' convention. The predictions were made by leaders of the organization.

Probable action is uncertain, they say, but sentiment is overwhelmingly against a return to the old regime. It was declared the men seem well pleased with their treatment during the war, and feel that the Government, if continued in control of the roads, will give them more satisfactory working conditions. It was said today that steps will be taken during the present convention, if possible, to seek representation on such boards as will fix wages and working conditions, if Government control comes. Much attention of the convention will be directed to the formulating of a policy respecting future management of the roads.

GAS LAND LEASES EXPIRE NEAR DUART

DUART, May 16. — A committee has been appointed to arrange for a general reception to be tendered to all the Oxford Township men who served in the great war. Medals will be presented to each. They will also arrange for a memorial to be erected in honor of those that have fallen. As Duart has the graves of two of these heroes, it is thought that the memorial will be placed in the village. As several of the boys are yet overseas the date of the demonstration will be set later on.

The Buffalo Gas Company, which held an extensive list of leases in the neighborhood, has surrendered its leases. Nothing has been done to test for oil or gas in the vicinity, though several surface wells have given evidence of gas beneath. Evidently the company has secured sufficient gas for present needs, as they have made not attempt to get more here.

BEGIN PLANTING CORN AT WABASH

WABASH, May 16.—On Tuesday evening an entertainment was held in the Dawn Mills Methodist Church. The entire program was in charge of the Elgar Ladies' Quartet of London, with the exception of the instrumental music, which was given by the Burwell Orchestra of Wabash.

Rev. F. Craik acted as chairman, and the proceeds amounted to about $70.

Corn planting has commenced in this district, and those who are not planting are busy drawing out fertilizer and getting the ground ready. Quite a few farmers have not yet finished seeding. Oats that were sown three weeks ago, although fairly well up, have been almost at a standstill during the past week. A great change can be seen in their growth during the past few days of warmer weather.

CLEARING HOUSE REPORT.

New York, May 17.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $49,717,820 reserve in excess of legal requirements, an increase of $14,594,830 from last week.

GRAIN.

Chicago, May 17.—Nervousness resulting from government moves to put back war time curbs on trading had a moderately bearish effect today in the corn market. Fine weather for planting tended also to weaken values. Selling, however, was of only a scattered character. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅜c to 2⅜c lower, with July at $1 60¼@1 61, and September at $1 53⅛@1 54⅜, were followed by something of a rally and then by a fresh downturn.

Oats eased off in sympathy with corn. After opening ⅜c to ⅞c lower, including July at 66⅜@66c, the market recovered, but again underwent a sag.

PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 17.—Higher quotations on hogs gave steadiness to provisions, despite corn weakness. Trade, however, was dull.

INSPECTOR EDWARDS GRANTED 6 MONTHS' LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Board Acts on Request of His Physician.

SCHOOL PICNIC JUNE 13

Date Advanced So As Not To Conflict With Child Welfare.

Inspector C. B. Edwards was granted six months' leave of absence with pay by the board of education last evening. Dr. D. A. Craig advised the board by letter that Mr. Edwards, whom he has been attending, must have six months complete rest as an alternative to a probable complete break-down of his health.

Mr. Edwards has been unwell for a week past, and has been confined to the house. He has, however, shown such a disinclination to obey his physician's warning to avoid any contact with school matters that the doctor, fearing grave consequences, appealed to the board of education, a special meeting of which was called to deal with the contingency.

The motion to grant the inspector leave of absence for half a year was moved by Trustee T. Rowe and seconded by Trustee T. Coleridge. A resolution of sympathy to Mr. Edwards was adopted. It was moved by Mrs. Ronald Harris and seconded by A. A. Langford.

The task of arranging for someone to take over the inspector's duties during Mr. Edwards' absence was assigned to No. 1 committee, which met after the board had adjourned. The board had previously decided to acquaint the provincial education department with what had been done, and the committee decided to incorporate in the report to the department a suggestion that V. K. Greer, at present assistant principal of the Stratford Normal School, who has been appointed assistant inspector of the local schools and who was to have reported for duty here on September 1, be released immediately in order that he may fill the gap which has occurred.

Up to Department.

Mr. Greer, who was present, and who has been giving part of his time to duties in London since his appointment, was asked if he had any suggestions to make, and he replied that the matter of his release from Stratford was one which rested entirely with the minister of education.

Trustee Rowe thought that almost certainly the department would accede to the request for Mr. Greer's release. He said he had talked with Dr. F. W. Merchant, inspector of normal and technical schools, and the latter had given him the impression that the matter could probably be arranged without difficulty. J. S. Barnard, chairman of the board, said Dr. Merchant had told him also that he thought the department would do anything reasonable to help out.

At the board meeting a letter from the London Mothers' Club was read asking that the date of the school picnic be changed from June 6 to some other date, as the original program would clash with the child welfare exhibit, planned for June 3, 4 and 5, and the tag day arranged for June 4 in connection with the child welfare movement.

Picnic June 13.

This matter was also referred to the committee with power to act. At the suggestion of Mrs. Harris, June 13 was substituted for June 6, as the date of the picnic. The possibility of the picnic clashing with the peace celebration was suggested, but Mrs. Williams pointed out that at present the prospect of an early definite peace did not seem very good. In any case the committee fixed the date with the understanding that it would be changed again in the event of the peace celebration being held on the day named.

"We must do what we can to meet the wishes of the Mothers' Club," said Mrs. Harris, "because anything that makes for better babies is worth while."

"Yes," said Secretary McElheran, "and it would be a good thing for the country if some of the women who have no babies could be induced to have them, as God Almighty intended they should."

Chairman Barnard announced to the board at the special meeting that the I. O. D. E. had offered to present 200 charts, each bearing a history of the flag, with illustrations, to the schools of the city. The society had asked permission for delegatons to make the actual presentations in the various rooms of the schools on Empire Day. The board gratefully accepted the offer and gave the required permission.

Mr. Barnard also announced that the school children had been invited to attend the exhibition of Navy League pictures in the armories next week. This offer also will be accepted, the date of the visit to be determined later.

GOD GAVE PETER AN AUTHORITY VESTED IN NO OTHER APOSTLE

Says Paulist Father Lecturing On Papacy.

At St. Peter's Cathedral, where the Paulist Fathers are giving a course of lectures, Father Gillis spoke last night on the pope. In defence of the Catholic teaching that the pope is, by divine right, the head of Christ's church on the earth, the lecturer quoted freely from the sacred Scriptures. "We read in every one of the gospels," he said, "that Christ, anticipating his own departure from the world, selected a group of twelve apostles, and bestowed upon them the powers that he himself had exercised. Upon that fact all Christians are agreed. But the question is debated as to whether any one of these twelve was entitled to exercise authority over the others. Was there one chief apostle, appointed to be, in an especial manner, the vice-regent of our Saviour?

"For answer I recommend you to the Scripture record. There we find that special prerogatives were bestowed upon the apostle whom we call 'Peter.' He was not originally called Peter. The name given him by his parents was Simon. But the first time Jesus set eyes on him he said, 'Thou art Simon, son of John, but thou shalt be called Peter.' (John, i., 42.) Now, 'Peter' means 'rock.' Why did Jesus call Peter a 'rock'? Amongst the Jews, any change in a man's name was particularly significant. They were fond of the symbolism of names. If Jesus changed Simon's name, the change had a definite meaning. Now, significantly, we find that Jesus himself is referred to in the Scriptures as a cornerstone and a 'rock.' Upon him the church was built, as upon a foundation.

Called Simon "Rock."

"Now, since Jesus, who is the rock, calls Simon 'the rock,' we might surmise that he meant that Simon should in a particular manner take his place, when he should be gone from the earth. But we are not left merely to surmise. St. Matthew tells us plainly that Jesus said to Simon, 'Thou art the rock, and on this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.' (St. Matthew, xvi., 18.)

"And that is not all. Christ himself is called, in the Book of Revelations, the 'keybearer.' He openeth, and no man shutteth. He shutteth, and no man openeth. Now, it is again extremely significant that Jesus makes Peter the keybearer—'to thee will I give the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound also in heaven. And whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven.' (St. Matthew, xvi., 18.) There is no more amazing grant of power in any document or charter ever written. It we say surprising things about the authority of the pope, we are only repeating what Jesus said to the first pope, Peter.

"And yet again, and best of all, Jesus always loved to call himself a shepherd. 'I am the Good Shepherd.' He meant that he took care of his people as a shepherd takes care of his flock. And with remarkable insistence he gives to Peter this prerogative also. Most solemnly, and three times repeating his words, Jesus said to Simon Peter: 'Feed my lambs; feed my lambs; feed my sheep.' Evidently he means, 'be the pastor of my flock,' that is, 'be the head of my people.'

Essence of Question.

"Taking the various commissions of Christ to Peter, placing them together, who can fail to see that to the man Peter was given an authority enjoyed by no other apostle? Grant that he was chief of the apostles and pastor of Christ's flock, and you have conceded the essence of the Catholic teaching concerning the pope."

Father Gillis then showed by a liberal recitation of historical facts that Peter, the first pope, and his successors, the bishops of Rome, exercised universal jurisdiction. He quoted among other non-Catholic historians, Harnack, who says: "By the year 190 A. D. there was a confederation of Christian churches, extending from Edessa in the east to Lyons in the west, with headquarters at Rome." That is a fair presentation of the fundamental fact of the papacy, upon which Catholics lay stress. A universal confederation of churches, with headquarters at Rome. This universal organization could not be built in a day. The Christians were persecuted and proscribed, and yet if in less than two centuries the universal church, with its head at Rome, was firmly established, this historical fact, taken together with the Scripture foundation of authority, would seem proof enough that the plan of Christ, indicated by his words to Peter, was carried out, and that the resulting was what we call the Catholic Church, with the pope, the successor of St. Peter, at its head.

Faced Many Problems.

Father Gillis lectured for the better part of an hour, taking up various problems connected with the papacy, such as the infallibility of the pope; the alleged interference of the pope of civilization, and the relationsidp of the pope to the late war.

He recalled the fact, among others, that when in 1829 an official inquiry was made by the English Government into the question of papal civil supremacy, three questions were submitted by Pitt to six Catholic universities in Spain, France and Italy, as follows:

"Does the pope, or cardinal, or any body of men, or any individual of the Church of Rome, claim any civil power of jurisdiction within the realm of England?"

"Can the pope absolve or disperse his majesty's subjects from their oath of allegiance, upon any pretext whatsoever?"

"Is there any text of the Catholic faith by which Catholics are permitted to break faith with heretics?"

The answer to the three questions was given by all the universities simply and plainly, "No."

The lectures at St. Peter's Cathedral continue through next week. There is no lecture on Saturday nights. Tomorrow at 10:30 the subject is "Religion in Spirit and in Truth"; at 7 p.m., "The Everlasting Catholic Church."

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT OF JURY IN WILLOUGHBY CASE

Driver of Truck in No Way To Blame, Say Jurors.

Accidental death was the verdict given last night at the police headquarters by Coroner Robert Ferguson's jury inquiring into the death of fourteen-year-old Clifford Willoughby, who died in Victoria Hospital on May 13, following his being run over on Dundas street by Hunt Bros.' motor lorry.

George Andrews, an eyewitness to the accident, told the jury that he saw a lad run out as the truck was passing down the pavement. The boy caught it between the front and rear wheels with his hands on the side in an attempt to get on it. Twice his feet slipped and dragged on the pavement. Suddenly his hands let go and he slipped to the pavement. Down on the pavement the huge wheel seemed to drag him and then pass over his body.

The driver of the lorry, David Watson, on the witness stand, stated he knew nothing of the accident until he returned from his trip to the Hunt plant. His car, he said, was not going more than six miles an hour, as it was heavily loaded.

The verdict of the jury in full was: "That Clifford Willoughby came to his death in this city on May 13 by accidentally falling under and being run over by an auto truck driven by David Watson. No blame is attached to the driver of the auto."

Crown Attorney James B. McKillop represented the crown throughout the hearing.

ROYAL GEORGE PARTY HOME LAST NIGHT; TOTALLED NINETY

Were Warmly Welcomed Despite Heavy Rains.

FROM KINMEL CAMP

Thirty London Men in Party —Balance For Points in District.

Although the rain came down in torrents, there was a large crowd at Quebec street C. P. R. station to greet the 90 veterans, who reached the city at 6:15 o'clock last night. These men came from England on H. M. S. Royal George. The ship, which sailed from Liverpool, took eleven days to make the trip.

After a march up the muddy hill leading to the dispersal station the men were put through the various stages necessary to receive one's ticket. It took only 45 minutes to disperse the party, the men being given passports, checks, information regarding the period after discharge and other papers.

After this procedure, the men were given a meal in the mess room by the ladies of the Red Cross, and then taken downtown in motors.

Most of the men were from Kinmel Camp.

All were pleased with the treatment they received coming from England and with the receptions they got along the route through Canada.

In the party were thirty Londoners.

PAUL ALTHOUSE, "MADE IN AMERICA" ARTIST, WAS CREATOR OF NEW ROLES

Without Study Abroad, Won Success—Will Sing at May Festival.

The career of Paul Althouse, the young American tenor, who is now in his fourth year at the Metropolitan Opera House, has been watched with a great deal of interest by many who were under the impression that no one who had not studied abroad could be entrusted with a principal role at the greatest opera house in the world.

In spite of this condition, the director, Mr. Gatti-Casazza, selected Mr. Althouse to create the important role of Dimitri in "Boris Godounoff," which he sang with splendid effect in a production which is considered one of the greatest successes of the present management. The second role which this young American tenor was called upon to create was the Duke in "Madeleine," Victor Herbert's opera, which had its initial presentation in New York at the Metropolitan. As the Duke, Mr. Althouse won unanimous praise from both press and public.

PAUL ALTHOUSE.

The third creation by this remarkable young American singer occurred when he was cast for Count Neippperg, in Umberto Giodano's new grand opera, "Mme. Sans-Gene," which had its first presentation on any stage at the Metropolitan on Monday evening, January 25, 1915. At this world's premier, Mr. Althouse delighted everyone, both from a vocal and dramatic standpoint, for be it known this "made in America" artist is not only an excellent singer, but one of the most finished actors in grand opera.

Still further honors were heaped upon Mr. Althouse. He created the part of the Squire in the "Canterbury Pilgrimage," the new opera in English written by Reginald DeKoven, which had its first performance on any stage at the Metropolitan Opera House. On account of his reputation as a successful "creator" it was but natural when Charles Wakefield Cadman's "Shanewis" was scheduled for presentation during the past season, that Paul Althouse was selected for the leading role. In addition to his "creations," Mr. Althouse sang many of the leading roles made famous by Mr. Caruso, such as Mario in "Tosca," Turiddu in "Cavalleria Rusticana," Rudolphus in "La Boheme," Pinkerton in "Butterfly," etc.

Mr. Althouse will be the principal soloist at the Musical Art Society May Festival next Thursday evening in the First Methodist Church, when Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and other works will be given by the choir of 150 voices, with orchestra and organ accompaniment. Tickets may be secured at music and book stores.

WEAK, WEARY AND DEPRESSED WOMEN

Can Find Relief and Health in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Vancouver Nurse Gives Her Experience, and Tells Why She Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Vancouver, B. C., May 16.—(Special).—"I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills for anything." So says Mrs. Blackburn, who lives at 4070 Knight street, this city. "I think they are the best on the market. I tried them for indigestion many years ago when all else failed. Now I recommend them whenever I can, also for women."

Mrs. Blackburn, whose duties as a maternity nurse have given her every opportunity to watch the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, speaks with more than ordinary authority. And she is voicing the conviction of thousands of other women. She says further: "I suffered for fifteen years and was attended by one or two doctors. I was often dizzy, my memory was failing, and I was depressed and low-spirited. I took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills before I got relief."

There are thousands more Canadian women who are weak, depressed and low-spirited. Their kidneys require attention. They should ask their neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills will not bring them back to the full bloom of womanhood.

DELIGHTFUL COMEDY, "WON BY WAITING," BY ST. GEORGE'S C.I.C.

Crowded House Greets Three-Act Play in Sunday School.

"Won by Waiting" is a delightful little comedy in three acts, presented last evening in St. George's Sunday School by the C. I. C., under the auspices of the King's Daughters. The crowded house which witnessed the performance testified to the excellent quality of work always tendered by this organization, and in no way did last evening fail to come up to the standard.

The whole play is built up on the extreme reluctance of the mother of a difficult family to tell that family that she intends to be married again. Her attitude is humorously repeated in the would-be husband, whose good intentions fade away in the presence of the difficult children. Sydney F. Sims, as the lover, made a deep impression by his excellent acting of a difficult part. He was ably assisted by Miss L. Gahan, as the young-old mother, whose speedy changes from sweetheart to mother, as the occasion required, were skilfully done.

Mrs. S. F. Sims was clever in her role of the advanced elder daughter of the family, while Mrs. H. C. Duff, as the languid one; Miss Marva Stevenson as the child Nancy, and W. C. Holt, as the irresistible, although fractious boy of the household, completed a cast which might be termed in the language of professionals, an all-star one. Owing to the illness of Miss L. Beacon, who was to have played the part of Nancy, Miss Stevenson was compelled to learn her role in half a day, an achievement which deserves great credit.

"The Obstinate Family," a curtain-raiser, filled with humor and based on the old theme—a lovers' quarrel—was received with enthusiasm. This playlet was unique in that the quarrel spread from one to three pairs of lovers, and all ended in the historic surrender of the women. James, the butler (C. D. McKenna), and Lucy, the maid (Miss Madeline Jeffries) began it. The newly weds (Frank Humphreys and Miss Ila Stevenson), picked it up, and the more sophisticated "in-laws" (Miss Marva Stevenson and W. C. Holt) carried it on still farther, all taking their parts well and making the best of humorous situations.

Music was furnished by the Selby-Young Orchestra.

FIRST METHODIST RAISED $31,000 DURING PAST YEAR

Quarterly Board Annual Meeting Was Held Last Night.

The annual meeting of the quarterly board of the First Methodist Church was held last night. Rev. Dr. Peever briefly spoke of the work of the year, and called for reports. Eighty-one members were received in 1918-1919, removals, 61. Total present membership, 396. With York street mission a total of 1,239. The Sunday School was represented by Mr. T. E. White, superintendent, who spoke of the remarkably good organization of the school and its great variety of useful work. The Epworth League, president, has had a specially good latter part of the year. War has made some losses, but in activity and finances it has increased. Miss Hossack, deaconness, and Mrs. B. H. Clement, appeared on behalf of the Inasmuch Society, the former giving a most touching report of the valuable work of this society. The board expressed its appreciation of work of Miss Hossack and increased her salary $100. Mrs. W. W. Chown, president-elect of the Ladies' Aid, spoke for this organization. Its membership p had increased; about 100 boxes had been sent to the soldiers, and $659 had been total receipts to carry on its varied work. The Women's Missionary Society, Mission Circle and Mission Band are in a flourishing way, and each has missionary givings increased. The Junior Epworth League, with 35 members, had a good year. The annual statement was presented by Rev. N. D. Drew, secretary, showing receipts of $14,303.01 ordinary revenue, and expenses $13,124.58; credit balance, $1,178.43. This is $1,070 better in standing than a year ago—the revenue being increased about $300 and expenses decreased about $800. Disbursements on circuit account, relating to pastor, parsonage, etc., $4,110.74, on music account, $2,952.38; church running expenses account, $4,733.13; York street, $1,193.51. There was a remarkable exhibit of commercial funds. Missionary, including a special missionary victory bond of $1,237, totaled $7,731, add the Women's Missionary Society's giving of $1,460 and there is a total of $9,190 for missions, an increase of $3,900; $1,136.54 was raised for education. A total gain in commercial funds of $4,200. The church has raised this year a total for all purposes of over $31,000.

The following were elected stewards: Messrs. George Robinson, J. E. Boomer, J. H. Chapman, Dr. T. R. Eccles, LL. D., Robert Watson, W. N. Manning, J. E. Magee, T. A. Stevens, Israel Taylor, George McBroom, J. C. Hazard, G. F. Brickenden.

J. H. Chapman was again elected recording steward. Messrs. J. H. Chapman and W. N. Manning were appointed delegates to the district meeting, and W. W. Chown alternate.

Following are the members of the quarterly board: Israel Taylor, S. L. Taylor, F. Patrick, J. St. Lawrence, Dr. U. F. Bateson, Geo. McBroom, J. C. Elliott, E. T. White, E. W. Gairns, Wm. Knapton, T. Inch, John Webb, Fred James, Rev. James Kennedy, Dr. Colon Smith, J. C. Hazard, S. H. Shaw, C. T. Glass and W. W. Chown.

As an appreciation of the work done and owing to the stress of times, the board granted the following honoraria: Rev. Dr. Peever, $400; Mr. T. L. Belcher, who was present and reported his work, $200; Rev. N. D. Drew, $100. The Rev. H. W. Avison of Welland, has been engaged as summer supply for the month of August.

Sorrow was expressed at the absence of Rev. Mr. Rozeres, who has retired to St. Thomas, and a letter of appreciation was directed to be sent him.

MANY STUDENTS GOING ON GREAT LAKES SHIPS

Some Become Fire Rangers and Others Are at Hospitals.

The medical students of Western University are wearing the smile that will not come off, as Thursday was the last day of school, and the examinations are completed. School closed later this spring than usual, owing to the fact that three weeks' time was lost in the course last fall on account of the outbreak of Spanish influenza. School will not reopen until October 1, and the Meds have left for various parts of the country to accumulate the necessary funds for continuing their course.

About 10 per cent of the students are taking positions on the Great Lakes steamship lines, while a few have left for Northern Ontario to accept appointments as fire rangers for the coming season. Members of the senior years will be engaged in hospital work during the summer months. The graduating class will write Ontario Council exams at the Medical School and Victoria Hospital during the week of June 1st to 5th, and they are busily engaged plugging for the final test.

Roofing a House with Money

MANY a house-holder has called his roof "tin" and found it more like the metal of good Canadian money before he learned the value of surface protection.

Metal roofs are like everything else—they are safe only as they are kept safe. They are kept safe by surface protection. You seldom see your roof—yet, up there in the air, open to all weather, it expands in the heat and contracts in the cold and turns its face full to the driving elements. Rust cannot eat into the surface of a metal roof if it is kept properly painted.

Considering what they have to stand, is it any wonder that practically everything either rusts, rots, wears or crumbles, when the surface lies open to attack?

It may be things as unlike your metal roof and your front door—your piece of machinery and your stucco house. The point of attack in every case is the surface. No enemy can get inside except by one course—through the surface. Stop rust, decay and wear and tear at the surface, and they are powerless.

As a roof is really money, so is all property. The reasonableness of surface protection, in order to save money, is easily appreciated. Needless renewing of property because of neglect is literally paying twice for the same thing.

"Save the Surface and you save all."

THIS announcement is issued by the Canadian "Save the Surface Campaign" Committee, for the purpose of educating the public in the Preservative and Protective value of Paint, Varnish and Allied Products for the Conservation of Property, and has received the approval of the Canadian Trade Commission in the following words:

"The realization of the above objects will lead to employment during the Reconstruction Period and bears our entire approval.

The Winnipeg Strike and Influences Causing It

For the first time in the history of Canada something approaching a general strike of organized working people exists at Winnipeg. Not only are the metal trades workers on strike—this seems to be the key strike of the situation—but from a dozen other activities ranging from the police force to the staffs of department stores, the employees have declared for leaving their work as a means of securing higher wages, an eight-hour day and better working conditions.

This strike is no outgrowth of foreign agitation. The people concerned for the most part are Canadians, and with their families must represent more than half the population of the western city. So that whatever the conditions resulting from the strike, if it is impossible to obtain bread, the strikers will be the sufferers to as great an extent as any other citizens. If the fire department should be off duty when a serious conflagration breaks out, it will be the homes of these people that will suffer. If the police force leaves its posts, the crime resulting will be as much directed at the strikers as at any other citizens; if the newspapers are forced to suspend publication, the strikers will be cut off from information regarding the outside world equally with the rest of the population. A movement of such proportions cannot be fought by the employers or by the community, and in a sense the community is at war with itself. These strikers are the people who pay a large share of the taxes. If the community suffers they suffer with the community. If the community hungers, they and their children will hunger. They may have the community by the throat, but the community has them also, because they are merely part of the community.

The immediate causes of the strike must not be regarded too seriously. In some cases there was little about which to strike. But as a protest against conditions in general, and as an indication that labor feels itself unleashed after having permitted itself to be tied up during the war, the significance of the movement is tremendous. It reaches to Ottawa and to officialdom first of all. Labor wishes to show itself the master of the situation, after having been told for a long time that Ottawa held the whip, and that labor unions struck at their peril, and labor men spoke in criticism of the Government at their peril.

But if the strike is simply to give a demonstration of brute force it is not intelligently directed. It must have claims to present, or it will resolve itself into a suicidal farce that injures all and benefits none. The worker will suffer, perhaps in greater degree than his employer, if the complete prostration of the community continues. Short of revolution, involving the confiscation of property, the strike cannot continue without the most serious consequences to those who struck. Those conducting factories and stores may decide upon retaliation by closing down their plants for indefinite periods. And while order-in-council government has provision for forcing labor to work, it has never made provision to force capital to operate. The obnoxious laws regarding labor are still in force, and labor has not forgotten.

Down at Ottawa the minister of labor says he can do nothing. He has the Lemieux act and other measures for conciliation at his disposal, but he probably believes that the presence of anything representative of Union Government would only aggravate the situation. He should resign when he confesses himself so helpless to face the situation.

Winnipeg and the laboring people of Winnipeg must find some common ground upon which to proceed before the extension of the strike brings chaos. There must be men trusted in Winnipeg who can adjust the differences and restore normal conditions, and after the first excitement of the situation, there will be only two courses open—one is the course of violence and the other is arbitration. The man who will not arbitrate such questions at this time is an enemy to his country. He may be a capitalist or he may be a union man. But if he wields a weapon of might-is-right upon the community, whether it be the numerical strength of workmen or the financial strength of employers, he is establishing an autocracy in this country which cannot survive. Labor under the wrong leadership may become a detestable autocrat, and capital can play the same role, if it chooses. The only rule that can win in Winnipeg is the rule of the fair deal. To speak of force on either side is to espouse at once the worst of Prussianism.

From other Canadian cities come indications that the general strike movement may spread. Toronto has agitators who have been challenged to survive in the spread of their doctrines by an effort at brutal subjugation on the part of newspapers. The labor speaker in Toronto has been held up to ridicule, the union movement has been pounded in the papers, extremists have been hounded by the police, and the movement has never had clear expression. Government propagandists circulate doctrines antagonistic to labor, and the very fear of the official classes that labor may show its biceps in public brings admonitions, rebukes, pleadings and threats. One newspaper shows the bread-line and a prospect of closed factories. So that Toronto, the centre of class distinction in Canada, will have to consider the problem that actually holds Winnipeg powerless today. A flash in the pan may cause tens of thousands to go on strike. It means paralysis for industry temporarily, and it means a bare cupboard for the man who strikes. But it is a sore that has been bound up too long, and that may need the air cure. Toronto's policy has been to suppress labor, and Toronto conducts its affairs along such lines of narrow bigotry that the boil is almost due to burst. Better that than that the infection should be misdirected internally. The common sense of the Canadian people may be depended on to treat the patient according to the best precedents. Strikes in Canada may appear to be serious. They are simply phases of expression against domination by a class. A better democracy should result when the people are once more convinced that their rights are being respected.

* * * *

London has no serious strike problem in prospect. The one danger point seems to be the difference of opinion existing over daylight saving. While to some extent the community is accepting the inconvenience with placidity, there is an undercurrent of discontent, and the only sensible thing to do is to have a plebiscite on the question as soon as possible. There is a more general concurrence with this view than ever before. It is important that the harmony that reigns at present between employer and employee should not be interfered with, and it is on such a question as daylight saving that classes in a community are divided. Call it unreasonable or not, the change in time is regarded as a most serious question, with thousands. And there should be no possibility that a majority of citizens should be discontented, for discontent feeds on small things, and if the situation in Winnipeg were analyzed it might be found that at the root was some question or questions which divided the working class and those roughly classified as the class with more leisure. London is a community in which all citizens have a definite stake; to conduct it by the rule of reason as expressed in the will of the majority is the safe course. When governments hedge on a question and decline to face their duty, the community must not follow suit and appear to be unwilling to face its problems. A daylight-saving vote may prevent future disturbance.

* * * *

We are supposed to possess social democracy in Canada; during the war the people have come to believe that with this social democracy is mixed a predatory autocracy of big interests that control prices and become greatly enriched. The Government is silent about the fortunes made in wartime. The two systems do not mix. Germany had both social and economic autocracy and it worked, with the whole rights of the individual subjugated. Today we have a struggle in Canada between two systems, and the Winnipeg strike, whatever the immediate cause, is an expression of that clash of systems.

A Canadian Memorial Day

While the significance of the 24th of May has never been wholly lost, there are times when public holidays to the memory of a great queen may have to give way or be merged with some other dedication arising from the experience of Canada in the war.

It has been suggested, thus far informally, that the holiday occurring in the present month and perpetuated because of the love of the people for Victoria the Good should take on a new character and become the Memorial Day or Decoration Day of the Canadian people. It would retain its historic origin, but it would give opportunity for a ceremony that would immortalize each year the memory of the Canadian soldiers who gave their lives in France or some other far-off, foreign field. The placing of flowers upon monuments by relatives and the holding of services commemorative of the country's sacrificed manhood would confer upon the holiday a more sacred significance and give to it a greater purpose than at present.

It has been the custom to decorate the soldiers' monument on Canadian holidays, but sooner or later a day will be devoted to this custom, and will become one of the days most dear to the hearts of the people. The American people for many years have made of Decoration Day one of the functions of patriotic remembrance, and no holiday we now have could be dedicated more fittingly to the memory of Canadian heroes. Sooner or later, perhaps even this year, some of the women's organizations will take up the movement, and it would be creditable to London if the fostering of the idea should have its inception in this city.

BEAUTY AND BEETHOVEN.
By R. Ray Baker.

There was nothing Angora or otherwise stylish about Beethoven. He came of a family of ordinary striped grey and black cats, but he was far from being an ordinary cat. At least such was the opinion of Velma Blake, who occupied two rooms on the third floor back in the Jordan flats, and who adopted the feline wanderer and christened him.

Velma was employed as head of the music department in the Emporium five and ten-cent establishment. She was a pretty busy girl and also she was a pretty, busy girl. With or without the comma the phrase fits. She had little time to spend in the care of pets, but when a stray cat knocks at one's door and one happens to be particularly fond of that species of animal, what can one do but offer a home?

She took him in and fed him, and as he proceeded to make himself comfortable and refused to leave the vicinity of her rooms when she set him out in the hall, she was forced to the conclusion that she was elected to be the creature's mandatory.

Velma's roommate didn't care for cats. "Why didn't you get a dog?" she demanded, but she managed to reconcile herself, in time, to the addition to the little family.

Beethoven proved to be a mysterious being. He would vanish for two or three days at a time, and then suddenly reappear and remain at home for a period of equal length, making his arrival known by the usual wailing serenade. Velma got used to these comings and goings, for there was a certain amount of regularity about them, and soon she was able to forecast almost with certainty the day and hour the wanderer would return from his sojourn.

At the front of the apartment house, in the basement, lived Ned Sayre, a bachelor young man. He shared the rooms with an acquaintance, but his life was rather lonely, for the two had little in common, although they got along well enough together.

Like Velma, Ned was a cat fancier, and like her he had taken possession of one that had paid him a visit on two or three occasions when his living room window was open. The roommate voiced some objections, but these were overruled, and Beauty, as the cat was christened, soon occupied a welcome place in the household, if two rooms and a bath may be called such.

Like Beethoven, Beauty went away on strange missions which he never explained or even tried to explain. Ned's duty as clerk in a haberdashery kept him away from home most of the day, and it is next to impossible to follow a cat in the dark, so Beauty's whereabouts during these periodical absences remained a secret.

Ned was of a timid nature; that is, he was timid when a member of the other sex was in proximity. However, he had struck up an acquaintance with Velma Blake and had got to the stage, where he could relapse into a day dream when crossing the busiest corner of the busiest street.

He mustered sufficient courage once a week to take Velma to a theatre or some other kind of entertainment, but had never been in her apartment, that being against the rules of the house. Consequently, he never was introduced to her Beethoven.

Such trivial subjects as cats are not often discussed between young men and young women who are keeping company. There are more important matters, such as music, bon-bons, automobiles, vaudeville and clothes; so why should a couple of stray pets get into the conversation? It would be a queer way to carry on a love affair, would it not? Can you imagine a couple holding hands and at the same time a heated argument concerning the merits of their respective cats? So, in spite of the fact that both Velma and Ned were very fond of their pets, the subject never entered their talk.

Two things puzzled Ned, and the more he thought about them the more puzzled he became. One was the peculiar and repeated disappearance of Beauty, and the other was how to win Velma for his lifelong partner. Rather a strange combination of worries for a young man, but Ned could not understand the girl any more than he could the cat.

Similar mysteries concerned Velma. One was the strange absences of Beethoven, and the other was how to win Ned for the hand of her family. If one of them had been able to look into the other's mind there would have been no trouble solving one of the puzzles, and of course that was the more important one of the two.

Just when it seemed that Ned and Velma were beginning to understand each other something happened that made them both miserable. Ned had arranged to take Velma to a theatrical performance, but she sent him a note, saying she would be busy that evening and could not see him.

It made him downcast for awhile, but he recovered from the attack of the blues and invited his roommate to the show in Velma's stead. On the way to the theatre they met Velma with a young man.

Ned formed the same conclusion that almost any other fellow would have formed in similar circumstances. He decided that he had been "thrown over"; and, having a proud, sensitive nature, he resolved to stay away from Velma.

He did not know that the head of the music sales department of the entire nation-wide chain of emporium stores was in the city that evening to take an inventory of the two local establishments and that Velma and this official were simply on their way from one of the stores to the other when Ned saw them.

When Velma said she would be busy that night she meant it in a literal sense, and she was not entertaining some other young man, notwithstanding appearances.

Velma felt as bad about it as Ned, but she likewise possessed a considerable amount of pride, and, knowing she was in the right, although realizing the circumstantial evidence was against her, she would not permit herself to take the first step toward a reconciliation.

One evening, shortly after the "busy" one, while she was trying to read, and failing because of thoughts that intruded, she suddenly came to a realization that Beethoven had disappeared. He had been in the room only a moment previous, and must have slipped out when Velma went to the ice box at the end of the hall. Here was a chance to give her mind diversion, and at the same time perhaps fathom the mystery of the missing cat. She stepped to the door and looked out.

Yes, far down the hall was Beethoven, just starting down the stairs. She followed him to the second and then to the first floor, and finally into the back part of the basement, which was used as a storeroom, and which contained the furnace. From a distance she saw the cat crawl through a window of the basement, and she hurried upstairs and darted outside.

Beethoven was walking close to the building, peering into various windows that came his way. She saw him stop before one near the front of the house, and, as she watched, a hand came out of the aperture and seized the cat, drawing him inside. Without stopping to consider whose room Beethoven had entered, Velma hurried to the window and stood looking down at Ned holding the cat in his arms.

"What are you doing with my cat?" she demanded, in what was intended to be stern tones.

"Your cat?" Ned inquired, trying to be somewhat cold. "What do you mean? This is my cat!"

"He's mine, and his name is Beethoven!" she snapped.

"He's mine, and his name is Beauty!" Ned insisted.

Each looked defiance at the other for a moment, then smiles took the place of scowls on both the faces.

"We both seem to own him," Velma said, demurredly, kicking a pebble with her small foot. "What can we do to settle it?"

A desperate thought entered Ned's mind. Here was a chance to find out his fate and all the uncertainty he had been laboring under for months. Fearing he would be lost if he hesitated, he gave voice to the big idea without waiting for a chance to change his mind.

Standing there, framed by the basement window, a cat crawling over his shoulder, looking up eagerly and somewhat timorously at the girl outside, who was kicking a pebble around foolishly to hide her confusion, he said:

"There's only one way I know. Let's form a permanent partnership of ourselves, and that will make all three of us happy. At least, I'm in hopes that it will."

She gave the pebble a furious kick that sent it spinning away.

"It sure will," was her reply.

"Newspapers Are the World's Mirror"

Comment, Cleverness and Mere Verbiage From "Educators of the Common People" in Canada and Other Lands.

TOO MUCH "HET UP."
[New York World.]

On Sunday Gabriele d'Annunzio said at a great meeting in Rome that "Italy is a heroine living in the midst of shame," and that opposition to her ambitions "is only hellish rancor against the vigor of her life." On Monday it was reported that the poet had been put to bed with a high fever, which may explain some things.

THE TRUTH AT LAST.
[Buffalo Courier.]

Germany is being shocked and staggered by the unaccustomed truth. For the first time since the war began, and even since the armistice, the people are face to face with facts instead of official outgivings.

This is what is making the German people's awakening to actualities so overwhelming and so desperately hard. Ever since November they have been fed on soothing syrup. Now they are being obliged to swallow hard realities.

FRENZIED FINANCE IN GERMANY.
[Toronto Globe.]

Instructive light is thrown upon Germany's financial position by the annual report of the German Reichsbank, which was issued about a month ago. This report shows that the total volume of business for the year 1918 reached the colossal amount of 3,342,320,252,300 marks, an increase of nearly 65 per cent over the business of 1917. It is difficult to know what to make out of these figures, but at the normal rate of exchange before the war the business would amount to $796,000,000,000, a sum equal to about ten times the whole volume of Germany's estimated wealth in 1913. The figures at least show an inflation of currency amounting almost to absurdity, which the German financiers were obliged to adopt in their frantic efforts to keep the war going. The paper money in circulation on December 31, 1918, showed a total of 32,429,000,000 marks, which at normal pre-war exchange would amount to about $7,500,000,000. The sum of $30,000,000 which was kept in the Julius Tower at Spandau as a war emergency fund, seems to have cut a very small figure in war finance.

THE BIBLE IN COLLEGE.
[New York World.]

Are there reactionary tendencies at Columbia University? The announcement that students entering the college must hereafter know something about the Bible marks an interesting departure in educational policies. What has the Bible to do with motion picture making, business instruction, playwriting and other up-to-date courses of college instruction? But the announcement will specially hearten old-time graduates who have deplored the passing of Greek and Latin. If the classics are to go, the great English classic will help atone for the loss. Where can a student gain such a command of his mother tongue as from the study of the King James Bible. It has formed the style of authors innumerable, it is a storehouse of morals and manners, and it is still the great treasury of metaphor and imagery and illusion. There is no other such hand book for writers and orators. The restoration of the Bible to the college curriculum even in small part will be accepted as a good omen. Its possibilities as a book of secular instruction have never been adequately utilized in the American scheme of education. And if college students are hereafter to learn less about Socrates and Pericles, they may profitably be taught more about David and Job and Paul.

BASEBALL BEATS BOLSHEVISM.
[Brooklyn Eagle.]

There is nothing like a seat in the grand stand at Ebbets Field for restoring a normal perspective to those burdened with a world of worries, including the bolshing of the Bolsheviki and all the rest of the mundane turmoil. One thing is certain: Baseball and Bolshevism cannot exist in a given country at the same time, and from the enthusiasm aroused by the opening game of the season here, baseball may be expected to hold on indefinitely. It is a bit strange that the statesmen in Paris have not grasped the fact that the real answer to Bolshevism is baseball. If Russia had known anything about the great American game, the Romanoffs would never have gotten a strangle hold on the empire and all the rest of the unpleasantness in the Muscovite territory might have been avoided. A little baseball mixed in with Hun kultur might have saved that pretentious creed from damnation if there had been enough character in the German make-up to grasp its fundamentals. But it is useless to speculate on what might have been. Suffice it that every sound whack of the baseball bat and every seventh-inning stretch reiterates the eternal truth that a people that loves clean sport and can get it is in no danger from the theories of the long-haired contingent that never reads the sporting pages or graces a bleacher in a sunlit ball park.

The Princess Patricia's Presents.

From the Glasgow Herald of the 19th ult. we take the following reference to a very unique present sent to Lady Patricia Ramsay on the occasion of her marriage. Many Canadians contributed, but the Sun newspaper of the 28th June, 1838, seems to have received special press notice in Great Britain.

"Unoriginality is the outstanding characteristic of most lists of marriage presents, and the second list of the gifts sent to Princess Patricia does not in this respect differ greatly from more humble catalogues. Still, there is at least one noteworthy departure from rule, for Judge Barron has sent a copy of 'Sun' newspaper, June 28, 1838, giving an account of Queen Victoria's coronation. An unimpressive contribution from the pecuniary standpoint; originally the cost can have been only a few coppers. The word 'price' is printed in the usual place on the front page, but no figure follows, and an intimation is made inside that, while subscribers will have their copies at the usual rate, 'the public, who will be desirous to possess such an extraordinary specimen of the art of printing, will be willing to pay the sum which we shall find it necessary to demand to cover our expenses.'

"So that the value of the paper does not reside wholly in the extended record of a great historical event; it derives in an equal or even greater degree from the success of the effort to make the publication from an artistic point of view commensurate with the importance of the occasion. The two outside pages, prepared in advance, are printed in gold, except for a beautifully engraved medallion of the young queen, which, printed in black, occupies the upper centre of page one. The text of these pages explains the coronation ceremonies and relates anecdotes of crownings from that of William the Conqueror downwards. The inside pages, printed in black, record the proceedings that began at seventeen minutes past three on that June morning, when 'a royal salute of 21 guns announced that the sun was then rising upon the joyous day when the crown of those great realms was to be placed upon the head of the most popular and beloved sovereign that has wielded the British sceptre since the days of Alfred.'

"Of this paper the publisher, Murdo Young—the name seems to betray the enterprising gentleman's nationality—is justifiably proud. It is, he tells his readers, 'to the great ingenuity of the firm of de la Rue & Co., to the perseverance and exertions of Messrs. Cowper & Son, to the great skill of Mr. Edward Wyon, the modeler, and to the talents of one of the first engravers of the age—to all these gentlemen we are indebted for the great beauty which our journal this day exhibits.' So that, notwithstanding its unimposing first cost, this copy of the 'Sun' newspaper is a graciously appropriate wedding gift to the granddaughter of the sovereign whose coronation it so splendidly commemorates."

"DAY-TIME DRESSES"

Widely Varied Types That Interest the Fashionable Women of the New Season.

(By Mme. Frances, Famous Creator of Fashions, New York City)

Day-time summer dresses are widely varied now that the twilight hours are so long, thanks to the imaginary hour we advanced last March. The early part of the day is given over to sports frocks or simple silk and voile gowns with organdie fichu or trimmings of lace for the less strenuous person to whom "sports togs" are not becoming. With the coming of afternoon, femininity begins to think of dressing for dinner with the result that the necks of afternoon gowns are quite low and the sleeves very sheer or quite short.

Georgette crepe in plain ground and flowered patterns is profusely used for these cool, clingy afternoon frocks. Rose, orchid and flesh pink are the favorite colors made up in combination with white. Crepe chiffon, which is the loveliest of the crepe fabrics, makes exquisite gowns for afternoon and evening wear, while charmeuse and meteor in all the pastel shades are exquisite and develop many entrancing frocks.

The Fashion Forecast

Red hats will be featured in summer millinery—red sailors, red garden sports hats and the more elaborate mushroom shape for afternoon wear. This color note in millinery is especially effective with all white or grey gowns.

Organdie and Batiste.

Organdie and the softer fabrics of batiste and cotton voile make exquisite lingerie dresses which look their loveliest when making a background for the youth of a pretty girl. Vivid shades of rose and coral organdie are very popular for these girlish frocks, while the demand for pink, blue and orchid never wanes. The imported organdies, which run in lacy squares and stripes, are capable of exquisite development into dainty afternoon frocks of the quaint variety.

There are many tissue-like cottons to which the manufacturers have treated us this year. These sheer materials combine well with white organdie ruffles and are equally lovely with trimmings of Val lace.

Hand-Embroidered Frocks.

Hand-embroidered frocks of white mull and batiste are always attractive when the mercury plays tag with the 100-degree mark and cool verandas beckon; but these gowns are difficult for the moderately skilled dressmaker to duplicate. Unless an embroidered gown is strikingly lovely in its daintiness or beautiful in the elaboration of its embroidery, it seems a foolish waste of money for the effect achieved. Embroidered flouncings are adapted to some of the models, but flouncing usually has to be made up in a rather set way.

Georgette and Organdie.

An interesting gown which combines flowered georgette crepe and white organdie has a ruffled side panel. In this material white flowers are scattered on a pink ground. The waist of this dress is very simple, and it depends upon the beauty of its material rather than on the elaboration of its lines for success. The sleeves are sewed into a plain blouse, which is cut away in front to display a vest of hand-tucked organdie, which is cut in bands and sewed together by means of tiny cords of organdie. Around the neck and vest line runs a crisp little ruffle of white organdie, picot finished. The bell-shaped sleeves are cut three-quarter length to display long, tight cuffs of organdie made into tucks and cords to match the vest.

The skirt of this gown is slightly gathered at the waistline. It is trimmed with three folds of flowered georgette which simulates tucks, above which crisply stand ruffles of white organdie. The panels which characterize this skirt are long and rather wide and are edged with organdie ruffles. Wherever these organdie ruffles appear they are machine hemstitched to the georgette crepe with pink thread.

With this picturesque gown may be worn a broad hat of pink straw, faced with pink baronette satin and tied with a ribbon of baronette.

In Grey Charmeuse.

A gown which is in striking contrast to the elaborate effect of the georgette model is found in a dress of grey charmeuse—glimmering, glittering grey charmeuse, one of the loveliest fabrics in the world. It looks like the sheen of moonlight on the water.

The neck of this gown is finished with nunlike simplicity by a round collar of white charmeuse, which is brought into striking worldliness by a row of red satin buttons and red bound buttonholes. The gown fastens down the front in an unusual line, which runs from the collar to an insert of red charmeuse strapped with folds of white taffeta, which gives a bizarre note to the otherwise demure look of this gown. A row of similar red buttons runs down the side of this insert. These buttons and those on the collar and cuffs may be grey with good effect. The girdle of this gown makes no attempt to be striking. It leaves all that to the red charmeuse, and simply performs the office of snugly outlining the waist, with a band of grey charmeuse.

The skirt of grey charmeuse is one of those gracefully draped affairs which are always successful when developed in a supple fabric like charmeuse.

The smart sailor worn with this costume is black, with a trimming of stiff grey feathers that curl on the ends.

Another Gown With Side Panels.

Another gown which displays side panels is of grey georgette crepe. The blouse of this dress is kimono with a deep fold of georgette over the shoulders to outline the square neck and display the front of soft cream lace, which extends into a camisole beneath the grey georgette blouse. The sleeves of this gown are one of its cool features, being three-quarter length and quite wide. The deep turned-back cuffs are embroidered with two garlands of steel beads. This same embroidery appears across the shoulder straps. The girdle of this graceful model gives a striking note of color to the whole gown. It is made of two bands of soft taffeta ribbon, one vivid green-blue and the other of greyish-rose. The flowers on the girdle are hand-made from these shades of taffeta with a touch of apple green.

An Unusual Model.

The skirt is draped in a gracefully narrow line. On either side panels of sash-like panels of grey georgette about ten inches wide. These panels are picot edged and embroidered with three rows of leaves in bead embroidery. This gown is made over a slip of flesh-colored charmeuse. With this dress is worn a broad black hat, trimmed with shaded pink roses.

Possibly the most unusual model described today is a gown of green charmeuse with a waist of green and white striped georgette. There is a bib front of green charmeuse, which reaches the neck line and from the front view has the look of a jumper, which displays the striped sleeves. This jumper continues into a deep V-line at the back and disappears beneath a girdle of green charmeuse. At the neck line the jumper extends into very long, narrow straps that tie beneath the waist line at the centre back and hang in long ends, finished with green chenille tassels. The kimono blouse of green and white striped georgette buttons straight down the back with round ball buttons, made of imitation jade. The kimono sleeves are gathered into deep bell cuffs of green charmeuse.

The skirt of this gown is draped in a panier on one side. A broad black hat, faced with satin and trimmed with satin knife-pleated wheels, is the picturesque complement of this striking costume.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

The Grace of God.—Genesis, vi., 8. Exodus, xxxiv., 6-7. II. Corinthians, xii., 9. Ephesians, ii., 4-10. Titus, ii., 11-14.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

18.—Titus ii., 11-14. Why would you say, or not, that literally "the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men"?

19.—If a person is not living a life of self-denial, spending his time and money in helping others, how much does he know of the wonderful grace of God?

20.—To what extent in this life may we by God's grace triumph over all sin?

Golden Text: We shall be saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus.—Acts xv., 11.

WE MUST BE SAVED BY GRACE.

The grace of the Lord Jesus is a wonderful thing. We read "that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich?" Jesus laid aside the glories of heaven, came to the earth and consented to start as a human child, to be subject to his parents, to learn the trade of a carpenter, and endure all the handicaps of life. "Though he were a son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered." Finally the Jews, for whom he had done so much, crucified him. Jesus manifested all this wonderful grace to bring the world back to God and to establish a kingdom of righteousness and love upon the earth. We must, therefore, if we would be saved, accept of this wonderful grace of the Lord Jesus.

A wedding of much interest to many Londoners was solemnized on April 29, 1919, at Keston Parish Church, Kent, when Miss Cassandra Ethel Renwick, niece of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Whitwam, was united in marriage to Major Geo. W. A. Aitken, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Aitken, Ridout street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Augustine Briggs, rector of the church, and a full choral choir rendered beautifully the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Captain J. A. Renwick, looked smart in a suit of fawn gabardine with georgette hat to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies, roses and heather. The bridesmaid was Miss Katherine Thompson, who wore a lovely gown of grey crepe embroidered in blue and silver. Lieut. Lesle Barrie of the Royal Navy was best man. Many officers and friends of the bride and groom in France and England attended the wedding. Following the ceremony a reception was held at "Hollydale," the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vigers of Keston, Kent. Major and Mrs. Aitken left to spend their honeymoon in Torquay, Devonshire.

Before going overseas the bride, who was popular among the younger set, was attached to the nursing staff at Wolseley Barracks Hospital.

The groom is a member of the original Ontario Hospital unit, and practiced his profession in this city before going overseas.

A very quiet and pretty wedding took place Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Wood, King street, when Madge, their second daughter, was united in marriage by Rev. Archdeacon Richardson to Lieut. A. B. Yeo, formerly of Kitchener, in the presence of only the immediate family. Leaning on the arm of her father, the bride entered the drawing-room, which was decorated with spring flowers and blossoms, looking pretty in an exquisite creation of white satin, with a court train of panned velvet, beautifully embroidered in seed pearls, carrying a shower bouquet of bridal roses and sweet peas. Her veil of silk tulle draped gracefully, and was caught with bands of silver and orange blossoms. The bridesmaid, Miss Addie Wood, wearing a pretty frock of blue silk jersey cloth, and a picture hat of victory red, carried American Beauty roses. Mr. I. Roadhouse of St. Marys did the duties of best man. The wedding music was played by Capt. John Wood, a brother. Lieut. and Mrs. Yeo left for points east amid showers of confetti, the bride traveling in a suit of French blue silk poplin and a smart hat of grey.

Lieut. Yeo is an original 18th Battalion boy, serving overseas for four years, and now attached to headquarters as assistant district record officer. The many beautiful gifts and several checks showed the popularity of the young couple.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN RE-ELECTS PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. E. B. Smith Is First Vice-President.

The close of the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women held yesterday afternoon in the central Y, King street, again sees Mrs. H. A. Boomer occupying the presidency after 37 years in office. Mrs. Boomer insisted on tendering her resignation, but the members of the council refused to acknowledge it. And it was only on condition that an active first vice-president be appointed to relieve her of all responsibility that she consented to remain in office. The new first vice-president is Mrs. E. B. Smith.

Mrs. David Williams, Mrs. Gordon Wright and Mrs. F. W. Hughes complete the list of vice-presidents, Mrs. Yarker is corresponding secretary, Miss MacDonald, assistant, Mrs. Cheney, recording secretary, and Mrs. Gaheh, treasurer. The honorary vice-presidents are Mrs. Sage, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Moorhouse, Mrs. Gale, Mrs. Stevely, Miss Armstrong, and Miss Blackburn.

Living Wage Question.

Several matters of importance came before the meeting. Those present expressed themselves in favor of a scheme of licensed boarding houses, which would make the city safer for girls. The matter of insisting that girls get a living wage was touched upon. Mrs. Gemmill reported that steps were being taken in the city for the purpose of investigating the situation, and Mrs. A. T. Edwards mentioned how the women's organization of the United States were getting after the matter and insisting that no girl could live on less than $15 a week.

Child Welfare.

Miss Isabel Armstrong was present and spoke briefly on behalf of the Child Welfare Association, drawing attention to the exhibit which is to be held on the 4th, 5th and 6th of June. "Last year the exhibits were emphasized rather than the clinics during the weeks of registration," she said. "But when over 500 babies were brought to the clinics last year, it was thought that this side of the work should be stressed this year. The exhibit and clinics will be held in the Technical School, and through the kindness of the I. O. D. E., light refreshments will be served to the mothers from the diet kitchen. Prizes will be given for the most perfect babies and those making the great advancement."

Annual Reports.

The reports of the various affiliated societies were read, showing that women's work in the city is rapidly extending. The following reports were heard: Music Club, Mrs. Dochstader; Girl Guides, Miss McTaggart. (This new organization was invited to affiliate at yesterday's meeting); Local Council report, Mrs. Yarker; Teachers' Guild; Girls' Friendly, Mrs. Moorhouse; Mothers' Clubs, Mrs. John Rose; Women's Sanatorium Aid; Victoria Nurses' Alumnae, Mrs. Joseph; No. 4 Nursing Division, Mrs. J. It was decided that the league would meet for the last time in May, and then disband in June.

It was decided to have a banquet and a program on the lawn of Mrs. Robert Currie. All the returned soldiers of Florence and immediate vicinity will be invited to the banquet.

The following committees were appointed to assist the executive in making arrangements.

Program Committee—Miss Armstrong, Miss Dobbyn, Mrs. Sarney, Mrs. McCrary and Mrs. Drew.

Decorating Committee—Mrs. Beatty, Mrs. McFarlane, Mrs. Crowder, Miss Tweed and Mrs. Kelly.

Platform Committee—Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Coutts and Mrs. Lampman.

Mrs. Beatty, the secretary, was appointed to select the young girls to give notices of a banquet to all absent members. Miss Armstrong was appointed to secure a camera for this day. Suggestions for the luncheon were left in the hands of the executive.

The Patriotic League closed its work in a most creditable manner.

This meeting closed the business sessions of the Patriotic League for all time.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "A Blush."

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dear Winifred Black:

I am reading your columns every time they are in the paper, and I am sure you will help me or give me some advice. What am I to do that whenever I talk to anyone, be it a lady or a gentleman, that I blush—blush so much that I am ashamed? I blush no matter what I am talking about. Whenever I want to tell something, I blush before I even begin. I am afraid that makes my talking look like a lie, although it is not, as I am never telling lies. Many times, listening to others, I blush—looking in someone's face I blush. Thinking only of something when all alone I blush. Often I am silent in company, as I know as soon as I will begin to talk I will blush. I know all this is not as maybe you will think, because I am not used to company—oh, yes, I am. Even when I am talking to my husband, to whom I've been married ten years, I blush. He knows that, so this is not what worries me; but others don't know me, and I don't know what they think of me. Only today I was telling something to one of my girl friends, and she said "Is that possible?" and on that only I blushed. And I never yet thought of telling a lie, as I hate lies so much. I am 30 years old. Will I never get over that?

Please, dear Winifred Black, explain this to me, and tell me of something that will help me in my case. I am sure you will. Yours, E. B.

Well, for goodness sake, E. B., if you have nothing more to worry about than that—join the Don't Worry Club this very day, and get over it.

What if you do blush? What mortal crime is there in that?

When I was a girl I had a friend who was pigeon-toed, and everybody plagued her about it. Her mother made a tragedy of it, and one of her brothers had such a fight with another boy who said something about Mary's toeing-in that he nearly killed the other boy, and there was a scandal in the village, and Mary's brother ran away from home and went to sea, and no one knew where he was for years and years.

All because Mary turned in her toes.

Be Glad You Can Blush.

And Mary is married to the richest man in the county right this minute, and she has two pretty daughters, and one of them toes-in, and Mary doesn't spend a minute of her time worrying about it.

The brother who ran away to be a sailor got a wonderful chance in China, and a few years ago he came home as rich as Croesus, with two fine little boys and the prettiest English wife you ever saw. And if Mary hadn't toed-in and Brother hadn't had a fight with the boy who spoke of it, Brother would probably be keeping the village store in the little old village today, and, ten chances to one, he'd have married the freckle-faced village girl who never could learn to spell quite correctly.

So see what Jane's inturning toe did in the world.

Blush? Well, what of it? I should think you'd be glad you could blush.

I know women thirty years old who would put a thousand dollars in gold right into your hand if you would just teach them the trick of blushing.

Why, you strange woman, you, don't you realize that a blush is one of the most enchanting charms a charming woman can possess?

It means, in the first place, a sensitive and delicate spirit, and, in the second place, a sensitive and delicate skin. What more do you want?

Would you rather be a bold-eyed jade who can stare the world in the face and never think of blushing.

Would you like to be as thick-skinned as a rhinoceros and no more sensitive to those about you than an elephant?

Why shouldn't you blush? I know a woman who blushes, and every time I'm invited to a luncheon with her I hope she'll sit opposite me at the table so I can speak to her suddenly and watch the lovely tide of crimson flood her delicate, beautiful face.

I spoke to her husband about it not long ago, and he told me that the very first time he saw her he fell in love with her blush. Everybody who loves her loves that blush. We wouldn't know her without it.

If she should ever stop blushing we should think there was something wrong with her, and I know that husband of hers would send for the greatest specialist in the world to come and see what was the matter with dear Mary and to make her able to blush again.

Try to Forget Yourself.

Hearken, E. B., don't you think just a little too much about yourself?

When you have something to say, don't think of yourself or of the person you're going to speak to. Think of what you're going to say, say it, and you'll never know whether you blushed or not. How can you fix your mind on such a trifle as that in this great big world of lovely, interesting, fascinating, horrifying, heart-breaking, heart-stirring, splendid, dreadful things?

The other day a friend of yours was in deep trouble, and you didn't say what you wanted to say to her because you were afraid that you would blush when you said it.

Another friend had a great joy come into her life and you couldn't tell her how glad you were—for fear you'd blush.

For shame! Forget yourself and your blush. Throw yourself into life, glorious life, like a strong swimmer throwing himself into a clear and rushing river, and you'll forget that you ever worried over a mere blush in your life.

LONDON LOSES SECOND GAME TO BATTLE CREEK

Leishman Knocked Out of the Box—Pte. McMillan Pitched Winning Game For Battle Creek.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., May 16.—Herman McMillan, Battle Creek home product made his debut in professional baseball today and should have had a shutout. Battle Creek defeated London 7 to 2. Lambs errors in the first inning coupled with McMillan's inability to locate the plate, cost two runs but thereafter, save in the fourth, when Treelynch first up walked and Henderson singled he was invincible.

Leishman gave four walks and hit a man in the first two innings and in the third two had singled, when Gilbert relieved him. McMillan, who hit in the first run, drove a terrific one back at Gilbert, which struck his leg and was an out. In the seventh Boyle drove a liner back at Gilbert so hard that it went through his glove and struck his eye. Although he dropped to the ground, he gamely resumed pitching after a few moments.

REDS SHUT OUT DODGERS AND EVEN SERIES

Both Teams Play Errorless Game — Giants Blank Chicago Cubs.

BROOKLYN, May 16.—Cincinnati evened up the series with Brooklyn today by winning the second successive shutout victory, 1 to 0. The Superbas have not scored a run in 22 innings. The game was a pitching duel between Luque and Marquard for seven innings. Then Marquard was taken out for a pinch hitter and Cadore replaced him. Daubert scored the only run of the game, his first in the series, when he beat out a scratch hit in the fifth inning, took second on Kopf's out and came home on Rariden's single to centre.

Both teams fielded without an error, catches by Myers, Neale and Rousch in the outfield featuring. The score:

INDUSTRIAL BASEBALL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED IN GUELPH ON MONDAY

Junior Boys Will Also Get a Chance To Play Ball.

GUELPH, May 16.—A movement is underway for the formation of an industrial baseball league for boys of 18 years and under, employed in the various factories in the city.

A meeting is being held on Monday night at 8 p. m., at the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of completing the organization. Six teams have already signified intention of joining the league as follows: Taylor Forbes Company; White Sewing Machine Company; International Malleable Iron Company; Business Boys' Club; Partridge Rubber and Fried-Grills Hat Company. This league promises to be a big success and should be very useful in providing recruits for a senior leagues, both this year and in the future. There is also every likelihood of there being a junior church league for boys of the same age, and a meeting is being called shortly to complete that organization. Meanwhile the boys of the public schools are lining up in a league for those under 14 years of age, and for the boys between the ages of these leagues, a fourth league is under consideration, so that an opportunity may be afforded to every boy in the city to get into some league.

Barn and Silo Roofed with Brantford Asphalt Roofing.

Resists Fire, Sheds Water, Wears Long

Flying sparks and embers from a burning building often cause roofs near by to catch fire, especially in a dry, hot season. Under like conditions, roofs covered with are in no danger from flying embers, because any that fall on Brantford Asphalt Roofing die out harmlessly. Build a bonfire on a roof of Brantford Asphalt Roofing and the fire will not spread and the boards underneath the roofing will be protected in a surprising manner.

GERMANS WILL NOT SIGN

BERLIN, Thursday, May 15.—In consequence of veiled insinuations in the pan-German newspapers that the Ebert-Scheidemann Government intends to sign the Allied peace terms, notwithstanding their severe provisions, semi-official announcement was made today that these insinuations strike a false note and that the Government is fully united in its intention to carry out its recently-stated policy of declining to sign the compact.

TEN MILLION FEDERAL FUND FOR TECHNICAL SCHOOLS IN CANADA

OTTAWA, May 16.—Federal support for technical education aggregating ten million dollars within the next ten years, the money to be paid to the provinces, is provided for in a resolution, of which notice has been given by Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration and colonization.

The resolution provides for the appropriation of sums aggregating $10,000,000 out of the consolidated revenue fund of Canada for a period of ten years, beginning with the year ending March 31, 1920, "for the purpose of promoting and assisting technical education in Canada.

During the first year appropriation of $700,000 is provided for; second year, $800,000; third, $900,000; fourth year, $1,000,000. For the subsequent one-year periods annual sums of $1,100,000 will be appropriated.

These sums, subject to the conditions of the proposed legislation, will be paid quarterly as grants to the provincial governments in proportion to population.

Jack Dempsey Confident of Winning Championship

Heavyweight Challenger Is a Splendid, Straightforward Fellow—Will Undoubtedly Be Favorite if He Wins Title on July 4th at Toledo.

Jack Dempsey has a weakness.

"It's chocolate creams," confesses the Utah mauler.

Sounds strange, doesn't it, to associate the candy habit with perhaps the greatest two-fisted fighter pugilism has produced in nearly three decades. But all prize ring warriors aren't of the raw-meat eating clan. Bob Fitzsimmons had a great fondness for charlotte russe, while Jim Corbett was "an ice cream hound." While training for the most important clashes of his career Corbett would "blow" himself to a half dozen dishes of ice cream a day. Many other ringmen indulged freely in sweets and food dainties.

Dempsey claims that eating chocolates in unlimited quantities is but the fulfillment of a boyhood hope.

"When I was a kid of the smallest kind I was keen about candy," said Dempsey. "In those days I wasn't permitted to have all of it that I wanted, because my folks told me that too much of it wasn't good for me. Right then and there I resolved that when I became my own boss and had a little money, I would absorb the output of a half dozen chocolate cream factories. I have fallen little short of that mark, but I believe that candy makers consider me a good customer.

"Some persons insist that candy eating is not good for an athlete. They may be right in the case of others, but candy has not harmed me. In fact, physicians have told me that the sugar which candy contains provides fuel for the body and contains properties which assist in creating endurance powers. And that is what a fighter needs just about as much as ability to land a wallop."

If Dempsey batters his way to the championship of the heavyweight kingdom, he undoubtedly will prove to be the most popular titleholder—and the most idolized—since the time of Sullivan. Yet Dempsey is exactly opposite to the famous John L. in mannerisms. John L. was gruff, blustering, and inclined to be swaggering; Dempsey is modest, wholly likeable, and with a most attractive personality.

Dempsey is eager, enthusiastic, extremely boyish—and a splendid straightforward fellow. He has a radiant smile and his greatest worry in life is the fear that by some action or by some word he might unconsciously hurt a person. It is odd that a man whose business is to pound others into a state of coma should be so solicitous concerning the feelings of even his newest acquaintances. Yet it is true in the case of Jack Dempsey.

Dempsey is supremely confident that he can whip Jess Willard when they meet on July 4th. But when he tells about it, there is no suggestion of boasting. His expressions are but a sincere belief in himself.

"I feel pretty sure about whipping Willard in Toledo," declared Dempsey. "Jess is a great fighter, but I think I have it on him a little. I'm younger than Jess—and that counts a lot. And I'm faster, and I know that I'll be in good condition. Jess isn't sure. Will I knock him out? Sure—if I get a few good slams at him. And I guess I'll get those all right, because Jess is a pretty big target."

"Do you adhere to any special diet?" was the question put to Dempsey.

"No, I usually eat just what I want. But, fortunately, I am so constructed that the food I want happens to be the most nourishing kind. Perhaps that is because I was brought up out in the west, where most of the eats are dished up with the idea of providing the maximum nourishment with the minimum selection of food. Good, wholesome grub—that's what I was brought up on and that's what I like today."

"How about drinking and smoking?"

"I drink a little beer occasionally—but nothing else," was the reply. "There are certain times when I will get a sort of craving for a taste of beer, and then I drink a bottle or two at one sitting. Perhaps I won't take another drink for a week or two or three. And perhaps it will be the next day. But I guess in a year's time I don't drink any more than 50 or 60 sizeable glasses of beer.

"I don't smoke—but that's only because it makes me sick. When I was a youngster I tried, like most of my pals, to learn the trick of smoking. The other fellows got away with it, but a few puffs at a cigar upset my stomach and I still remember it. A few years afterward I again attempted smoking—with the same result. And perhaps a year after that I decided that I would try a cigarette, having been told that it is milder and soothing and everything like that. But cigarette smoking had just the same effect upon me as did the cigars. And right then and there I decided that Lady Nicotine and Jack Dempsey never could keep company—and they haven't."

GUELPH BOWLING CLUB WILL OPEN MAY 24

GUELPH, May 16.—A meeting of the grounds committee of the Guelph Lawn Bowling Club was held this morning, and it was decided not to open the local green until May 24, when an all-day local tournament will be played.

A game was played at the O. A. C. green today, a rink from the city, skipped by George Myates, being defeated by Professor W. J. Squirrell by 12 to 10. This was the first game of the season.

JACK DEMPSEY ARRIVES AT TOLEDO TO TRAIN

TOLEDO Ohio, May 16.—Jack Dempsey, challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, inspected several prospective sites for a training camp, on his arrival here from Chicago today. Dempsey expects to start training Monday for his championship contest with Jess Willard, scheduled for July 4. He said his preliminary work would be designed to increase his speed and build his endurance. Jack Kearns, manager of the challenger, made arrangements to have members of Dempsey's training staff report here. Willard is expected to arrive the middle of next week.

BRANTFORD WILL NOT GET CATCHER MEYERS

BRANTFORD, May 16.—A telegram came through from the president of the St. Louis National League Club this morning that Catcher Meyers, who was to have been loaned to Brantford for the season had been disposed of, and regret was expressed in the message. It was only yesterday that T. J. Nelson had received a letter from the club to the effect that Meyers would report here at once. Lines are out for another infielder and pitcher was the announcement made this morning at baseball headquarters.

AS AGE CREEPS ON

As age creeps on, vital force gradually decreases, until, when a man or woman is around 50, the kidneys and bladder need assistance to keep them in perfect working order.

Rheumatism, neuralgia and backache are common complaints of those getting on in years. It seems to be the custom to expect these afflictions—conclude they are simply the inevitable results of old age, and that there is no remedy for them.

There is a remedy—Gin Pills—and there are hundreds of people who can prove that the remedy is good.

Mr. Frank Lalonde, a well-known farmer of St. Raphael, Ont., was enabled to return to work at the age of 61 by the help of Gin Pills. Mr. Lalonde writes that he had suffered for years with pains in his back and sides, until finally he was forced to quit work. Gin Pills relieved him to such an extent that he now states he feels as strong at 61 as he did at 30 years.

Mrs. Hugh McLeod, of Lewis Cove Road, had a similar experience with Gin Pills. In her letter to us she says:

"I am 51 years and the mother of 8 children. Five years ago I was troubled with backache and dull pains across the abdomen. I used a box of Gin Pills, and feel so much better that I will continue to use Gin Pills."

Testimonials such as these cannot be disregarded, for the aged speak the truth.

It is foolish to suffer when you don't have to. Use Gin Pills and enjoy your latter years. 50c a box. Sold by all dealers. Sample free upon request to The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ontario. U. S. residents should address Na-Dru-Co., Inc., 202 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y. 181

FARM LOANS for SOLDIERS

BUY W.S.S. WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

The Soldier Settlement Act

Purpose

To assist ex-service men who desire to make farming their permanent occupation, and who, it is considered, are qualified to make a success of the farming business.

Procedure

The returned soldier who seriously intends to adopt farming as his life work, and desires financial assistance to purchase land, live stock, and equipment, may receive full information and instructions how to proceed from the representative of the Soldier Settlement Board in the district in which he resides.

Financial Assistance Available

Loans may be granted qualified settlers, according to their needs, on the following basis—

(1) Up to $4,500 on the purchase of land for agricultural purposes or the discharge of encumbrances;

(2) Up to $2,000 on the purchase of live stock, implements, and other equipment;

(3) Up to $1,000 on the erection of buildings.

Interest at the rate of five per cent. will be charged.

Who Are "Qualified"

The qualifications of all applicants are investigated by an Agricultural Qualification Committee, composed of men of superior standing, who understand the farming business. All applicants are required to appear in person before the Committee in their district.

Military Service.—Any person who served with an honourable record:

(a) In the Canadian, Imperial, or British Colonial forces in an actual theatre of war, or (except in U.S. or Bermuda) outside of the country in which he enlisted;

(b) In the forces of any of His Majesty's Allies in an actual theatre of war, if he was a British subject resident in Canada before the war;

(c) In the C.E.F. in Canada only, if he is in receipt of a pension for disability occasioned by such service.

These benefits are also granted to widows of such men.

Other Qualifications.—After an applicant's eligibility, from the standpoint of military service, is determined, the Committee will investigate his physical condition, general fitness, and agricultural experience. An applicant must satisfy the Committee that he is aware of the individual responsibility resting upon those who would engage in farming successfully, and that he has the required energy to carry on farming in a successful manner. A Qualification Certificate is issued to qualified applicants. Agricultural training is available for men who fail to receive a Qualification Certificate only through lack of sufficient practical farming experience.

All Qualified Men Assisted

The applicant, after securing a Qualification Certificate, may then apply to the Loan Advisory Committee for financial assistance. Should he desire to purchase land he may indicate the particular parcel of land which he desires to acquire. The Committee will appraise the land with regard to its agricultural possibilities, and if it is satisfactory and its value is in keeping with the soldier's ability to comply with the financial requirements of the Act, the land may be secured.

Equipment

The Loan Advisory Committee also determines the amount of loan to be granted to the soldier settler for the purchase of live stock and implements, and the erection of necessary buildings in keeping with the settler's absolute need. The Soldier Settlement Board has made arrangements to secure these needs for the settler at specially low prices.

Supervision

The Soldier Settlement Board has a staff of agricultural advisers, whose duties are to promote the prosperity of the soldier settler by timely advice and assistance. It is also enlisting the co-operation of experienced and successful farmers, located near at hand, who will direct and assist the settler to make a success of his undertaking.

Special Transportation Rates

The Railway Companies of Canada have offered special rates to soldier settlers who travel for any of the following purposes:

(a) First trip to appear before Qualification Committee, to work with farmer, to attend an agricultural school or to look for land;

(b) To return to his home for the purpose of transporting his family or goods to his farm.

The rate will be allowed on the production of a certificate issued by the Soldier Settlement Board.

ELSIE FERGUSON, MARGUERITE CLARK AND CHARLES RAY AT THE MAJESTIC NEXT WEEK

Popular Film Stars Appearing in Latest Photoplay Features —Mack Sennett and Harold Lloyd Comedies — Miss Audrey Macdonald, Canadian Violinist, in High-Class and Popular Numbers.

"Eyes of the Soul" is one of those few and far between pictures which justify the use of the word art in connection with motion pictures. Those who doubt that there is or can be any art in silent dramas should see this new Artcraft feature starring that convincing artist, Elsie Ferguson. If one is right in believing that sheer beauty of theme and presentation makes an artistic production, then "Eyes of the Soul" can be so classified without reserve.

This production will be shown at the Majestic Theatre on Monday and Tuesday next.

One would not be waxing too enthusiastic over the production by saying that it contains more heart appeal than perhaps 99 per cent of the photoplays, plays and stories of modern times, and that he who is not touched by its potent truth and engrossing story is—well, a human iceberg. This appeal is to be attributed first, of course, to the basic idea and general theme, but credit does not stop there. The story might have been merely sentimental fiction, if interpreted by less capable and sincere artists than Elsie Ferguson and her splendid cast.

Miss Ferguson has probably never contributed a more perfect characterization. In any event, her part in "Eyes of the Soul" is the most sympathetic screen role she has had, and her portrayal so beautiful and convincing that it cannot fail to impress even those who may consider the film too sad to be exactly the type of screen entertainment they prefer.

"Eyes of the Soul" tells how Gloria Swann, a girl of the cabarets in a southern city, finds her mission in life in her friendship and ultimate love for Larry Gibson, a war hero, who has sacrificed his sight for the cause. She gives up her wealthy fiance, Judge Maivin, and after starting Larry on the road to success by introducing his songs in the cabaret and thereby making him realize that life still holds much for him, she also convinces him that her interest in him has awakened real love, not pity, and the two are married. In the fullness of time a new life comes into the world to glorify the lives of Larry and Gloria, who tells her husband that he will see the future through his son's eyes and know that his sacrifice over there has not been in vain.

The underlying motive of the picture is a big truth of timely interest, and "Eyes of the Soul," like other stories of its type, will surely give those who still have their sight a better understanding of the sacrifice of the blind war heroes and others for whom it is always dark. No story of fiction presented on the screen has ever conveyed a more worthy message than "Eyes of the Soul."

think themselves neglected by their hard-working husbands and who engage in more or less harmless flirtations with other men, are embraced in the development of the story of "Let's Elope," the new Paramount starring vehicle of Marguerite Clark, which will be presented at the Majestic Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. The theme is a fascinating one and its treatment by producer and star has been guided by delicacy and taste with superb effect.

The story is based upon Fred Jackson's successful play, "The Naughty Wife," which made a big hit in New York during the season of 1917-18. The adaptation was made by Katherine Reed and John S. Robertson directed. The photo-play is the work of Hal Young, who is generally recognized as a wizard with the lens.

The plot deals with a young wife of an author who believes herself neglected and plans to elope with a shallow-brained young man. How the husband learns of this and takes a hand in the subsequent proceedings combines to make this one of the greatest comedies in which Miss Clark has been seen in many a day. Miss Clark wears several stunning gowns in this picture, all of which will interest her women admirers.

NOTICE TO PATRONS OF THE MAJESTIC

In contradiction of a rumor that Charles Ray, Thos. Ince's star, appearing in Paramount pictures, has been signed under contract by another film producing company, the Majestic management wishes to state that Mr. Ray has just recently renewed his contract under the direction of Thos. H. Ince's management for a period of three years, and that his pictures will continue to be distributed by the Paramount Artcraft Corporation and appear exclusively in this city at the Majestic Theatre as before.

CHARLIE RAY, "THE WONDER BOY," IN "GREASED LIGHTNING."

Charles Ray has turned inventor—not only as a character in the photoplay, "Greased Lightning," which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre next Friday and Saturday, but a real "make 'em go" genius.

The Thomas H. Ince "wonder boy" demonstrated his versatility on the producing lot during the making of the picture, when he pushed aside several workmen who were meditatively scratching their heads and, with determination and a lot of perspiration, put into a home-made racing automobile a speed gear that has been pronounced by several reputable mechanics a wonderful contrivance.

The incident occurred because the scenario demanded a home-made auto. The property man built the auto to look the part. But this was not enough. The thing had to have real "pep," for the story demands that in it Charles Ray must run down and capture the villain, who is in a big six cylinder machine. There was the racer minus the speed, and would never have fulfilled the demands of the author, but for the ingenuity of Charles Ray.

AUDREY MORELAND, VIOLINIST, AT THE MAJESTIC NEXT WEEK.

Audrey Moreland, the famous French-Canadian violinist, is to be the vaudeville attraction at the Majestic next week. This is the first time Miss Moreland has been induced to appear on the vaudeville stage, as her fame and popularity has been won on the concert stage.

This is a musical treat which should further increase the popularity of that house of splendid attractions, the Majestic.

"THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME" AT THE MAJESTIC SOON.

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" is the new Artcraft special, which has just been released and is causing so much comment amongst the theatre-going public. The whole world is the stage for this wonderful pictorial drama. Alaska, Southern France, Egypt, Rural Scotland, India, London, these are the scenes through which the men and women of the story play at their game of hearts.

Staged with all the sumptuous luxury and beauty at the command of a great director, Hugh Ford, and played by artists of real distinction, Katherine MacDonald, Milton Sills, Theodore Roberts, Jack Holt and Fritzi Brunette, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" offers the latest and greatest efforts of a great industry, schooled in the art of presenting all that is beautiful, sensational and wonderful in a manner so as to best please the people. This picture will be shown at the Majestic soon.

DE MILLE PRODUCTION SHOWING AT THE MAJESTIC SOON.

Majestic patrons remember the wonderfully beautiful and artistic production which Cecil B. De Mille presented some months ago, "Don't Change Your Husband," which starred Elliott Dexter and Gloria Swanson. Mr. De Mille has just completed and released another production which, it is stated, is an even greater artistic achievement than his former triumph. The new picture is under the title of "For Better or for Worse," and includes in its all-star cast Miss Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, Tom Forman, famous and popular young star who has just returned from France, and Wanda Hawley, and other popular Paramount beauties.

WALLACE REID IN THRILLING PLAY AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY

"The Roaring Road" Shows Sensational Motor Car Races.

Thrilling motor car races are shown in Wallace Reid's new photo-play, "The Roaring Road," which will be presented at the Majestic again today.

In this photo-play Wallace Reid, the popular star, plays the role of "Toodles Waldon," has two great ambitions or desires. The first is to win the hand of his employer's daughter, known as "The Cub," and the second, to drive the Darco car, of which "The Bear," his employer, has the agency, in an impending grand prize road race. He seeks to win the former by accomplishing the latter.

Three Darco cars, which his employer had ordered shipped to him, are smashed in a train wreck and "The Bear" has to give up the race. But Toodles sees in this his chance, and, buying the wrecked cars from the express company, he rebuilds one good car from the wreckage, and on the day of the race carries off the first prize. But even then the Bear refuses to give Toodles his daughter's hand. But Toodles later wins the girl in a clever and ingenious way.

Scene from "Greased Lightning," a photoplay of "pep" and action, starring Charles Ray, a favorite film actor with Majestic patrons. Showing at the Majestic Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

"A SNAPPY POT POURRI OF SONG AND STORY" IS HEADLINE ACT ON BILL FIRST HALF OF NEXT WEEK

Wood, Young and Phillips, a Clever and Fast Working Trio, Present a Classy Act at the Grand on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Next—Four Other Excellent Numbers on Vaudeville Program.

As the headline feature on an exceptionally attractive vaudeville bill at the Grand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Wood, Young and Phillips, a fast-working trio of entertainers, consisting of two clever comedians and an exceedingly pretty girl, will present a singing, talking and dancing comedy number which they bill as "A Snappy Pot-Pourri of Song and Story." This act has made a lasting impression in every city in which it has appeared, and is pure vaudeville in every sense of the word. The action is unquestionably one of the best vehicles conceived for laughing purposes, besides furnishing splendid entertainment in songs we like to hear and dancing that everyone will approve of and appreciate.

The Bally-Hoo Three, two men and a woman, possessing unquestioned ability and versatility, will present a number entitled "Circus La Petite," an offering that combines all the novelties usually seen with a circus, in addition to a lot of clever nonsensicalities originated by this trio. Singing, dancing, acrobatic feats, Russian lermanis and contortion all have a place in the program which is presented in a rapid and snappy manner. A stage setting descriptive of the exterior of a circus is shown, with side-shows and all the accessories thereto—in fact, one sees a perfect circus performance.

Another big attraction will be Gertrude Dudley and Company in "Class and Jazz," an offering consisting of songs and talk and one that gives them ample opportunity for the display of their cleverness as entertainers. Miss Dudley is a remarkably fine vocalist, and Mrs. Dudley, in addition to being an accomplished pianist, is a song writer who has given a host of popular songs to the world. In their present offering all their songs were written by Mr. Dudley and therefore are restricted. With two such clever entertainers, "Class and Jazz" will assuredly appeal and please, as they run the gamut of song and will delight with their line of comedy patter.

Wendall Hall, a clever and likeable young chap, who plays the xylophone in the most up-to-date manner, and who sings several of the season's biggest song successes, and The Yalto Duo, in a series of society and whirlwind dances, will be the other acts on this big-time vaudeville bill.

GRACE NELSON, the great American prima donna in vaudeville, at the Grand again today.

LALOTTE, THE SKATING BEAR, AT THE GRAND LAST HALF OF WEEK.

Lolotte, the skating bear, will headline an attractive list of feature vaudeville attractions at the Grand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Lolotte is a mammoth Russian bear, who has a mania for roller skates. With these she has become so proficient that she is known all over the world as "The Roller Skating Bear." The most skillful small boy never executed the intricate evolutions on roller skates that Lolotte does. It is a great exhibition of animal training that will amuse, please and entertain most delightfully.

Van Brothers, a pair of happy, rollicking young chaps, who are born musicians and who have a natural gift of being able to amuse an audience while entertaining them with first-class music, will present an unusually clever, eccentric comedy offering under the title of "Get 'Em and Hold 'Em," in which they vastly please their auditors with melodies on saxaphones as only two out-of-the-ordinary musicians can, interjecting a fine line of patter, much ado about nothing, but with a funny side that is humorous to the degree of keeping an audience in continual roars of laughter.

"Pinched" is the title of a new comedy playlet to be presented by Nesbit Scovilla and associate players. It is a comedy playlet shaded with sufficient sentiment to occasionally relieve the extremely wholesome humor, thereby making both these elements doubly effective. The scene is the interior of Chicago's moral courtroom, where an old justice of the peace from the country has been brought to answer certain charges. It is a cleverly constructed sketch dealing with a new phase of life—as a hearty story it is a gem, most amusing, instructive and effectively entertaining—the kind so thoroughly enjoyed by discriminating theatre-goers.

Muriel Hudson and Dave Jones will offer a comedy singing and dancing act, entitled, "On the Bridal Path," and Jed Dooley, the versatile chap, with new songs and clever comedy, will complete the vaudeville program.

JACK LEVY AND HIS SYMPHONY SISTERS AT GRAND TODAY

Five Excellent Vaudeville Acts and Photoplay Make Up Good Program.

"A Study in Melody" is the title of the refined musical offering presented by Jack Levey and his Four Symphony Sisters, who will headline the vaudeville bill at the Grand again today. Piano, violin, piccolo, cello and flute are the instruments played in solo and ensemble numbers, and the selections rendered embrace popular and classical airs. The act is most artistically presented as regards costumes and stage setting, making in all an offering of more than ordinary merit.

Also on this bill will be Grace Nelson, a charming young lady, the possessor of a sweet singing voice and a delightful personality, who will be heard in a selected repertoire of exclusive songs. Miss Nelson is, indeed, one of the big hits of the bill, her several well rendered songs winning her repeated encores.

Mlle. de'Ares, the celebrated French refuger, and her assistant will present "The Curtain of Victory," one of the most unusual and sensational shooting novelties that has yet appeared here. The remarkable work of this clever and prety young woman furnishes entertainment of the thrilling and interesting kind.

Sharon Stephens and Della Bordeau offer an unusually funny skit under the title of "A Boy From Home." The lines of this pleasing little playlet are most a ... sing and the manner in which they are handled by this clever duo leaves nothing to be desired in the way of wholesome humor.

La Rose and Lane are a pair of entertainers who will offer their original hodge-podge of songs and comedy.

May Allison, in "The Island of Intrigue."

"The Island of Intrigue," the photo-play that will be shown at the Grand today, is a stirring romance of mystery and intrigue, and it gives May Allison a role that accentuates her vivid personality and artistry. It is the story of the sensational abduction of a beautiful society girl.

At the Grand on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in conjunction with five vaudeville acts.

At the Grand next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, in addition to five acts of vaudeville.

At the Grand

"THE GIRL WITH 1,000 EYES" AT THE GRAND SOON

Greatest Sensation in Vaudeville Coming to London.

"The Girl With One Thousand Eyes," the greatest vaudeville sensation of the day, will appear at the Grand shortly. There is nothing just like it or nothing just as good in vaudeville today. It is entirely different in every sense of the word, and it is an act that is certain to cause a sensation in local theatricals.

Weekly Theatrical Letter

By Brett Page.

NEW YORK, May 17.—It may not be exceedingly important nor excessively interesting, but it's a spring-time—perhaps one should write a May-time—fact that the offerings for the tired business man and his friend out of town are beginning to arrive on Broadway. And those that have already reached the lane of spasmodically twinkling lights, are but the precursors of what may be very many of the identical type with which the amusement market is to be tempted for summer favor.

The number of the new offerings is at present two. They are known as "She's a Good Fellow" and "Toot Sweet."

The Globe Theatre, which has housed so many exceptionally good musical comedies, is the home of "She's a Good Fellow." This offering, furthermore, is distinguished by being the initial presentation of a musical comedy made by Charles B. Dillingham since his retirement from the armed forces of the United States. With book and lyrics by Anne Caldwell and music by Jerome Kern, "She's a Good Fellow" doesn't suffer for want of story nor droop for lack of tinkling music.

A Pleasing Plot.

Indeed, the plot is pleasingly convincing as musical comedy plots go, and stands well the strain of every Interpellation. The hero is a young man just returned from the navy. During some of the doings aboard ship, the hero donned the proper costume and impersonated the leading lady in their musical "slow." He was a hit—a laughing hit. And then the accomplishment came in handily when the hero, who had married the heroine against her guardian's wishes, was compelled to forego the joy of her society or to follow his bride to the ladies' seminary to which she was banished by that hard-hearted guardian. This incident, of course, is what gives the title to the show.

In three acts, set in scenes that show a Virginia homestead and the ladies' seminary, "She's a Good Fellow" rollicks along with the aid of a very lovely chorus. The hero of this diverting farce is funnily played by Joseph Santley. The heroine, as one might expect, is Ivy Sawyer. Sharing some of the honors are Ann Orr, as pleasantly humorous as ever, and Olin Howland, who adds much to the gayety by his conception of a bashful country youth. His dance with Santley is very funny.

Duncan Sisters Are Good.

There are many others who deserve mention for their contributions to "She's a Good Fellow," but space will not permit. However, there are two who cannot be denied because their work finds much favor. These are the Duncan Sisters—one of them said to be only fourteen—whose interpellations seem never to fall of funny effect.

The new musical show at the Princess Theatre—from which "Oh, My Dear!" moved to the Thirty-Ninth Street Theatre to get the benefits of larger seating capacity—isn't what has come to be recognized as "a typical Princess show." Indeed, there is no other offering this season, if ever, that it quite resembles, for the new production is—different.

The performers who stand out of "Toot Sweet," as favorites among a capable cast, are Will Morrissey and Elizabeth Brice. They were members of the Margaret Mayo unit of players in France, among the most successful entertainment units sent to amuse our soldiers during front-trench intermissions. It is said that "Toot Sweet" includes much of the material used so successfully abroad. One can well believe this, for it is practically without story, the costumes are of the simplest and the entire production would "go" without scenery.

Indeed, the success or the failure of the entertainment rests upon the players. True as this may be of the average production, it is peculiarly true of "Toot Sweet." For "Toot Sweet" is Will Morrissey, Elizabeth Brice and their admirable aids. Nevertheless, due credit must be given to Raymond B. Egan, who wrote the lyrics, and to Richard A. Whiting, whose music is engaging.

"Toot Sweet" a Pleasing Production.

For these reasons it is quite impossible to review "Toot Sweet" as one would another show. Therein, perhaps, lies its chief attraction, and certainly flavor is added to the individual work of the stars by this fact. Elizabeth Brice can, and we hope always, may sing. Will Morrissey is in a class by himself, achieving his effect by what seems—and in many a case indubitably is—extemporaneous "chatter." Indeed, "Toot Sweet" possesses that very rare quality of seeming not to be striving for, but so frequently hitting the bulls-eye, that the ease with which it's done adds delightful zest.

"Toot Sweet" is the sort of show from which even those who would most rashly aspire to prophesy, back away in fear. If you like it at all you'll "love it." And then you'll want to see it all over again. But if you don't like it, well—Here's hoping you will.

A bit of news that has been gossip along Broadway for some time, but which always lacked confirmation, is good news. This is that Sothern and Marlowe are to return to the stage. For our stage sadly needs just the type these great favorites represent, and represent so finely.

Julia Marlowe Returns.

It's nearly five years since Julia Marlowe was forced to retire from—perhaps "abstain from" would be better—the stage. But now the illness that caused her to stop acting while playing in Los Angeles has been conquered. And so Julia Marlowe and E. R. Sothern are to revive their greatest Shakespearean successes, opening in New York in October, if present plans remain unchanged.

Lee Shubert, who has always managed the Sothern and Marlowe tours, is the authority for the statement that "Twelfth Night," "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Hamlet" are to be the initial offerings. The road plans at this moment only include Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, but undoubtedly the tour will be extended to take in other large cities.

Belasco to Retire.

Just as we're preparing to welcome Sothern and Marlowe back to our stage, everyone along Broadway is whispering that David Belasco is preparing to retire. Rumors are strange things. This is why the present reviewer rarely gives any rumor credit for being anything but a rumor. Now it may be true that David Belasco is thinking about retiring, but it's very unlikely that he will retire while his health is good, for his work is his greatest happiness. And not even David Belasco could take his happiness away for long.

The rumor has it, however, that David Belasco is to retire and that in retiring he will make the supreme dramatic effort of his life in farewell. Then like all rumors, this rumor whispers there's a secret about the production. It's a great secret, a secret so well kept and so safely guarded that no one—not even those who are working on it in different departments—knows anything more than is necessary to do his or her work or just enough to start the rumor. Both Mr. and Miss Rumor, however, agree that this final effort of our most interesting master of stage craft, is to be a stupendous spectacle with a Japanese background.

Without doubt there is firm foundation for the rumor about the play. But as for David Belasco retiring, well—can you believe it or even crediting it desire to believe it true? Let's hope the production lives up to every expectation. But let's even more ardently hope that David Belasco will not leave our stage for years to come

John Drew to Leave Stage.

But we have still another retirement story to record. This is that John Drew—who has begun rehearsals of his new play, "The Ugly Ferenti," under the direction of Arthur Hopkins—is now at work on his final role.

In the case of Mr. Drew the rumor of retirement is more than mere rumor. It has basis in the understanding that the footlights have long proved a strain upon his eyes. His physicians would be glad to have Mr. Drew retire. And so John Drew may withdraw, at least for a time.

In his last role Mr. Drew is said to be essaying a part that is different from any in which those who have known him in recent years have seen him. He will not, 'tis said, be recognized as the "matinee idol" so long adored. The answer, of course, is that Mr. Drew in his new play will be seen in a character part.

DOMINIONS ALL GIVE TESTIMONY FOR LIBERALISM

W. G. Charlton Tells St. Catharines Women's Liberal Club.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING

Hundreds Hear Story of Liberalism's Contribution to Civilization.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. CATHARINES, May 16.—The Women's Liberal Club of this city held a very successful meeting tonight in McDonald Mall, which was attended by hundreds of visitors of both sexes.

The address of the evening, given by W. G. Charlton, secretary of the Western Ontario Liberal Association, was received with unbounded enthusiasm. The subject of the address was "Liberalism's Gift to Civilization," and Mr. Charlton thrilled the large audience continuously by his powerful pronouncements concerning the ameliorating influences of Liberal principles upon the social state.

After offering his felicitations to the women of St. Catharines upon their having tasted the intoxicating effects of politics during the campaign of 1917, at which some of them, at least, were privileged to know the fascination of success, others the disconsolation of defeat, the speaker said that he felt that the women of Canada needed very much the injunction given to Joshua when about to enter the Land of Promise: "Only be thou strong and very courageous that thou mayest observe the law; turn not from it to the right, nor to the left, that thou mayest prosper withersoever thou goest."

"Civilization," Mr. Charlton declared, "is a very elusive term, one very difficult of definition. Every nation, every state, every tribe and every tongue has standards of civilization, so that in the last analysis the term is one which may rightfully be used of society only in the way of comparison.

An Elusive Term.

"Civilization has no status of its own, but must rely upon exterior influences and borrowed principles for its enhancement. In itself it has to do with material conditions and substances, and can present to the social state nothing but such as partakes of material features. Germany gives us a very pointed example of this condition. Five years ago she was the representative of civilization par excellence. To her the world sent their doctors and scientists, their artists and musicians, their lawyers and their diplomats, to receive the polish of civilization.

"Is Germany any less great in these accomplishments today? Then why is she rated as a savage, as a barbarian? Simply because that is what she is, a civilized barbarian, and civilized barbarian is the most wanton known to society. An African who cannot read or write, but who is possessed of a spiritual conscience, is highly civilized in comparison.

Not Partisanship.

"Liberalism is not partisanship, but principle. Any political party may possess it, may use it. The political party which calls itself Liberal and of which you are a part, should possess it, should nurture and cultivate it with the care a gardener tends a precious specimen, a teacher instructs his favorite pupil or a preacher protects God's word. It is the 'gem of purest ray serene' in the diadem of social perfection. It is an everlasting principle fixed as the eternal law and is to the state just what Christianity is to the Messianic reign.

"It has its justification in the law of God, wherein it has been twice amply exemplified; in the first instance when the Creator of the Invisible divided the honors and responsibilities equally between two creatures —Adam and Eve—and next when, through the second Adam, he gave the world a church in which is found the most simple, yet the most perfect system of democracy known to man. In fact, it is here that Liberalism has its fountain and its strength. 'All ye are brethren' was the dictum of Christ and the Apostle Paul makes it known to the Gentile world in these words: 'For there is neither Jew nor Greek, bond nor free, rich nor poor, male nor female, but all are one in Christ Jesus.' The very term means 'freedom—equality.'

Influence of Liberalism.

Dealing with the movements which were effective for civilization, Mr. Charlton showed the influence of Liberalism in each. "Invasion," he said, "was primarily a means toward civilization, but invasion that was cruel and that imposed tyrannical rule upon the conquered was never a valuable asset to society. The invasion of the missionary was probably the best and only instance of Liberalism's gift to this mode of civilization.

"Revolution is another movement by which civilization was effected. History records several shining examples of this fact and, while we do not like to think or talk about revolution, yet we must acknowledge the place it has taken in the formation of society.

"The achievements of Liberalism in revolution are marked in The Magna Charta, in the British Commonwealth, when 'Old Noll' blasted the tyranny of Charles I.; in the revolutionary war by which the United States of America gained their independence, and in the period of the French revolution, when the common people justified any misdemeanors by a conscience made void by royal despotism; it was Liberalism in revolution which set the thousands of human slaves free and which gave to Canada the boon of responsible government.

Study at Close Range.

"In expansion, probably, the influence of Liberalism is seen as clearly as in any other movement of civilization. Here we may study the matter at first hand and at close range. When Germany wished to provide for her over-dense population she did what her civilization permitted. She trampled the people of Belgium and Northern France under foot. She wanted territory for her millions. She must expand, and she did, with the results of the past five years' butchery. Conquest was her ideal.

"Might was her weapon. But she failed. On the other hand, Great Britain has ample room for expansion by virtue of her liberal dealings. Canada and South Africa, Australia and New Zealand all testify to the influence of Liberalism in forming an empire, the like of which the world never before beheld. One which eclipses those ruled by Nebuchadnezzar, Alexander or Caesar, of which Germany is a vestige. And why? Because freedom and equality are recognized as qualities which make great states, great empires and great civilization.

Immigration and language were also shown to be movements and conditions which make for civilization, but that they were only valuable, as they were influenced by the principles which were everywhere emphasized in the address.

HAMILTON MASONS, 125 STRONG, VISIT INGERSOLL

INGERSOLL, May 16.—Never before was there so large a gathering of Masons here as was held this evening. The occasion was a fraternal visit by 125 members of Acacia Lodge, Hamilton, to St. John's Lodge, which had been anticipated by the local members for some time. The Hamilton brethren came in a special Grand Trunk train, and were warmly received. The visitors conferred the first degree, and were subsequently entertained to a magnificent banquet in the town hall. This was furnished by the wives and mothers of the local members, who left nothing undone that would contribute to the success of the great event. The Hamiltonians were accompanied by an orchestra, and they also gave a high-class minstrel show which was immensely enjoyed.

EXCITEMENT HIGH IN GODERICH OVER NEW STEEL PLANT

If Carvell Says Yes, $15,000,000 Industry Is Landed.

NEWSPAPER PURCHASED

Big Amusement Park and Resort Also—New C. P. R. Terminus.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GODERICH, May 16.—Excitement reigns in Goderich today as a result of the announcement yesterday of the probable erection of a big steel plant here.

No other subject is heard on the street, and already property values have stiffened, and it is not unlikely that a pronounced boom in sales will be under way in the near future.

The large syndicate, which is capitalized at $15,000,000, to manufacture from raw material the finished products, has leased 1,000 acres on the south outskirts of the town, and is prepared to proceed immediately with construction of the plant here if the Government can be induced to give assurance that it will proceed with the harbor improvements planned, but dropped when war broke out. A deputation will go to Ottawa soon to secure this assurance from Hon. F. B. Carvell.

About 500 houses will be needed at once and 500 more later if the plant comes here. This will mean the doubling of the town's population, and later a trebling of it. Widening of some streets is also planned.

Other Propositions.

Other big propositions are also under way. A Toronto syndicate, apparently confident that the steel plant is coming, has leased a tract of 450 acres of the town, part of the old Menesetung Park and part of the Attrill property, owned by Barrister Fleming, ex-M.P., of Windsor. This is to be leveled and made into a summer resort and amusement park.

Another rumor has it that the C. P. R. is about to make Goderich its main Western Ontario lake port, and that much traffic now going through Port McNichol will come here.

It is known that the C. P. R. has plans, drawn some time ago, for docks and a rail terminus here, and it is not unlikely that if the harbor improvements are made by the Government that a large terminus will be made by the C. P. R. here.

Purchases Goderich Star.

B. H. McCreath, business manager of the Toronto Star, who has been working on the organization of the steel corporation for about a year, is chiefly responsible for bringing it to Goderich. He has purchased the Goderich Star from John W. Vanatter and W. F. A. Naftel, and will take it over June 15.

The city council has approved of the project, and co-operating with Mr. McCreath have been C. L. Moore, Thomas Mitchell, J. W. Craigie, Thomas Gundry and F. Woolcombe, members of the industrial committee of the board of trade.

The company will be known for the present as the Lake Huron Steel Corporation, and the capital is being furnished by Newark, N.J., Pittsburg, Pa., and Detroit, Mich., men.

About 13,000 horsepower of hydro has been asked for, and it is understood will be forthcoming. It is pointed out that there is lots of limestone and also a good supply of the by-products of salt here, both of which can be used in the production of steel products.

The corporation will build their own docks, and are paying $100 an acre, and in some cases a little more for land, as their options expire. It is asking freedom from taxes, except school taxes, the assessment for the latter to be fixed for some time.

As the great grey ships return

THEY bring back to home and fireside the brave boys who thrilled the world with their deeds of valour against the Hun.

Reports have told us something of their exploits in France. But censored reports only—and reports that came mostly through American channels.

Now everyone can read the true story of those wonderful battles that made the name of our Canadian heroes ring throughout the world—honoured by friend and feared by foe.

This story is the only truly Canadian story of the war that is likely to be published. It is a complete record of Canadian achievement and heroism—in one volume.

Never before has such an opportunity been presented a publisher, or a newspaper, to serve such a vast waiting multitude.

And never before has a book been published so fitted for the need it is to fill.

In this one volume Canada's part is recorded in both picture and word. There are 64 full-page half-tone illustrations—showing Canadian soldiers at work and play—on Vimy Ridge, digging in, or resting, torn and weary after taking Hill 70. Every phase of the soldier's life is shown. And in addition there is a coloured frontispiece of General Currie in khaki—reproduced from a recent painting. And it is handsomely bound in durable buckram.

Two Authors—Two Stories
Both Masterly Written

Captain R. J. Renison, Chaplain of the 4th Infantry Brigade has recently returned to his church in Hamilton. He marched with the boys from Amiens, through Arras to Cambrai, Valenciennes and Mons towards the Rhine.

Inspired by intimate contact with the victorious Canadians he has written a Epic of 100 Glorious days. Its title is "A Story of Five Cities"—with a sixth chapter, "The Invisible City."

Not since Victor Hugo's "Waterloo" has there been penned a war picture so moving and so vivid. To all mothers whose Hero rests in Flanders' Fields "Amid the waving Poppies" the Invisible City, as he describes it, will become a connecting link with those who gave all for the cause—a message of hope and cheer.

A Chronicle for Civilian and Soldier alike

Those that stayed at home and did their part in Patriotic Fund Campaigns, Red Cross Work, Making Bandages and Socks, Bought Victory Bonds, Making Munitions, Caring for Returned Men, will find recorded in this book the sum total of each and every such effort.

The boys who are returning are weary of war stories. But the part played by those of us who were not "Too Proud" but too old to fight will be eagerly read by them. Indeed, this book will help them to understand the sacrifices made at home—to show them how the folks in Canada backed up their efforts and made victory possible.

This volume of 400 pages in short, is not a mere history of the war. Such a thing cannot be written until time places the various events in proper perspective. It is just Canada at Home and in France—1914 to 1918.

This Volume is Not a Premium

We are offering this book to our readers simply because we believe we are thus doing them a genuine service.

How Surgery Now Remoulds an Ugly Nose to True Beauty

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG.
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

A good face, symmetrically formed, is a fine letter of recommendation. This truth might be a great discouragement to men and women with noses out of joint, with hooked, bent, humped, turned or parrot noses, were it not for the new cosmetic surgery.

It is now possible, thanks to the development and progress of the "rhinologist," as the nose surgeon is called, to reshape the most deformed nose into one perfectly chiselled.

Indeed, some of these surgeons have sculptors as counsellors and advisers. The most unsightly humps, the worst snub or deflection can be turned into an ideal nose under a local anesthetic without the formation of a scar.

The entire operation is done with the subject seated comfortably. The instruments are made to do their work from the inside of the nostrils. Thus no cut or mark is made on the face.

A Delicate Operation.

Cocaine in the strength of 10 per cent is used to deaden all pain. Ether is not needed.

To rid the skin and membrane of all danger of matter, pus, poison or inflammation, before the cutting is done, disinfectants and antiseptics are washed, sprayed and scrubbed into the parts.

Several coats of the 10 per cent cocaine and adrenalin are painted upon the membranes to prevent bleeding as well as to eliminate all possible soreness.

An entirely painless and bloodless operation follows. The keen knife is gently guided under the lining membrane of the nostril and the membrane is peeled and pried loose from the nasal bone.

This is repeated on each side of the nose. An exquisitely polished instrument to raise up small flaps of tissue, called an "elevator," is then passed through the incision between the cheek bone and the bone covering.

The surgeon then detaches and lifts up the soft tissues of the nose and also a part of the cheek from the bone, so that it will be possible to move the soft tissues in any direction desired.

If the fabric is not detached properly, the skin over the nose wrinkles, simply because the elasticity of the skin is not sufficient to adapt itself to so small an area. If this is skilfully detached from the bone, the skin will adapt itself over the bone without any wrinkles.

After the soft or movable tissue of the nose is separated from its root down to its tip, the features can be molded into the desired shape. A fine saw always working from within saws away the bony excrescence from the bridge of the nose. This leaves a small excess of cartilage, which the surgeon deftly snips off with a pair of sterilized, germ-free scissors.

When the excrescence on the nose has been completely removed and trimmed down to ideal proportions, the surgeon presses the skin down over the remodeled foundation in the position and form desired.

A straight nose, following the Greek ideal of beauty, is usually sought by this operation. Many women, however, of the petite, delicate type of beauty, prefer a nose slightly depressed at the bridge, producing the pert, retrousse effect.

Sometimes there is a nose somewhat too long, a condition usually fatal to feminine beauty. This can be corrected at the same time as the previously described operation. Always operating within the nose, the surgeon cuts out a triangular piece of cartilage, including the lining membrane near the tip.

The size of the piece removed depends, of course, upon the type of nose desired. Some women are quite willing to have a nose of normal length, while others are ardently desirous of having the retrousse effect, and therefore prefer the feature a trifle short.

The surgeon is very careful not to remove too large a piece, as otherwise the nose might be too much shortened, a condition that would be difficult to correct.

In order to avoid this danger, the surgeon removes the cartilage piecemeal. During this stage of the operation he presses the tip of the nose upward. This guides him to determining the amount of cartilage to be removed. When the proper amount of cartilage has been removed the tip of the nose is raised and kept in place by stitches.

The nose is held in its newly-fixed position by means of nasal splints until the parts have healed. This usually takes two or three weeks. At this stage the nose may still show a moderate degree of swelling, which, however, will gradually recede and within a few weeks more will have disappeared entirely.

An equally important and common operation is to raise the bridge of the nose in order to fill up an unsightly depression. This can be done best by transplanting a piece of bone from the nose of another patient who is troubled by a superfluity.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kamble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, MAY 18-19.

Sunday promises to be a lively and interesting day with possible changes or journeys of importance, productive of good in the realm of business, but portentous if relating to social, domestic or romantic matters, these latter being under a doubly afflicted Venus.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of advantageous change in business, but with domestic, social or affectional annoyance. A child born on this day will be clever and industrious, impulsive and hasty.

Monday, while not a very important day, will be fraught with certain business cares—with probably the financial anxieties emphasized by the lunar opposition to Jupiter. Under this transit investment, speculation and all money risk is discouraged. There should be no recklessness nor extravagance in any direction. Travel with care and beware of eccentric associations or peculiar experiences.

Those whose birthday it is should avoid all reckless or extravagant use of money, being cautious in speculation. A child born on this day should be trained in thrift and humility.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

Solving the Problem of a Stunning Cape For Utility Wear.

I am wondering if there is a woman in this country without a cape. Every customer that comes in wants to order a cape, either in silk for evening wear, or a cloth one for daytime use.

We have some stunning models which, instead of being profusely gathered and draped like so many of the ready-made capes, run to severity of line and trimming, which makes them very graceful and distinguished.

"Madame, I want a cape!" rang out the first thing the other morning when Miss Jane Mather came in. She drove an ambulance in France, you know, and is just back with trunks full of Paris clothes, they say, but she's an old customer of madame's, and came to her for a cape, "strictly for utility," she said.

"A cape may be both useful and lovely," said madame, after their greetings were over. "I have a beautiful model of castor velour, which is an ideal dust color, it never seems to soil, and the soft tan tone is very becoming."

"I rather leaned toward navy blue for my cape," said Miss Mather.

"Well, look at the model first, and I will duplicate it for you in blue if you prefer that," replied madame.

I showed this cape, which has a detachable fur collar of badger.

"I had not thought of having the fur collar, madame, although the light tones of badger blend beautifully with the shade of castor in that cape," Miss Mather remarked. "How does the collar look without the fur?" she inquired.

"There is a broad, straight cut band of the material that may be buttoned up to this high neck line," madame said, detaching the fur collar, "or it may be worn open and turned back like this."

Madame then threw the coat back in a long shawl-like rever that crossed the front on a bias line. This rever is faced with castor cloth.

"Oh, I like that very much!" Miss Mather exclaimed. "The severe lines of the cape, especially that deep tuck arrangement, which gives the look of a double cape, is very attractive."

"That deep tuck hides a clever piecing," confessed madame. "You see, beneath that tuck is attached the lower part of the cape, which is cut narrower at the bottom to give the desired silhouette."

"How is this cape lined?" inquired Miss Mather.

I turned back the edge of the cape so that she could see the lining. It is a cream ground, which is practically covered with tiny blocks of yellow outlined with black, giving a checked appearance.

"The lining is very smart and the same color would look well with navy blue, would it not, madame?"

"Yes, if you are still partial to blue," madame replied.

"What kind of fur collar shall I have—this same badger?" asked Miss Mather.

"Badger is good on blue, but I think you will prefer the deeper tones of red fox. This fur is a tawny yellow, as you know, and looks quite stunning with navy blue," madame answered.

"That would be a better combination," agreed Miss Mather, "but, of course, I want to be able to wear this cape without a fur collar. I think furs look silly on a sweltering summer day."

"They are carried to an absurd extreme by many women," replied madame, "but this cape has the advantage of looking well with or without the fur collar."

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Happened After the Punch Bowl Was Broken.

As the full meaning of Kenneth Stockbridge's seemingly inadvertent action flashed upon me I unobtrusively dropped the cut glass cup filled with the fruit punch which Milly Stockbridge had ladled out for me. As it, too, shattered itself against the polished floor the only traces of whatever it was the hair-crazed woman had tried to do were lost in the trickling streams of liquid running over the floor.

My gown had miraculously escaped being spattered. As I stepped back to keep the liquid from ruining my slippers I kept my eyes on my hostess, for I was filled with a very wholesome respect for her ability to make things unpleasant. True, I had no real proof that she had put anything in the fruit punch which would harm me, although both her husband's face and action betrayed panic. The next instant, however, Milly Stockbridge surprised me indeed.

As if the crash of her cherished punch bowl had brought her to her senses, her face, first grey with fear and horror, broke up into frightened emotion. She swayed toward her husband with arms outstretched as a terrified child might have done, and the next moment she was sobbing against his shoulder, crying out desperately:

"Oh, Ken, I didn't mean to, truly, I didn't! But she made me so mad, I'm so glad you stopped me, but I didn't mean to. Say you forgive me, Ken, say it, you know it's because I love you so—say it, Ken, say it!"

Madge Explains.

"Hush!" His voice was hoarse, but there was a tenderness in it that the man must have been almost superhuman to have achieved. "People are coming, they will hear you. You know I forgive you—and—love you. Now pull yourself together. Let people think you're upset because your punch bowl is broken. Everybody knows how you cherished it."

His eyes met mine above her shoulder, tortured eyes with a note of pleading in them. I knew what he wished, and spoke not to him, but to the woman whose face was hidden against his shoulder.

"I will explain things to anybody who inquires, Mrs. Stockbridge, so that you needn't be disturbed."

"Thank—you." I could hardly hear the words, indeed, I hadn't waited for them, but went steadily forward to meet the two or three inquisitive souls who had heard the crash and promptly decided to investigate matters. The others, more composed or more well bred, were gathered around Dicky.

Luckily, even with Milly Stockbridge's reputation, the shattered punch bowl spelled reason enough to her friends for her agitation. Her husband was leading her toward the kitchen as the vanguard of inquiries met me.

Mrs. Stockbridge Reappears.

"Oh, oh, that beautiful punch bowl!" the foremost woman exclaimed with a ghoulish look at the remains of the bowl and the wet floor. "And her floor will be ruined, too. Milly is so particular, about her floors. Something ought to be done about it right away. I think I'll—"

I stopped her with a little authoritative gesture.

"The maid is coming in directly," I said. "And Mr. Stockbridge particularly requested that no one disturb Mrs. Stockbridge for a few moments. You know she is very nervous anyway, and the breaking of the bowl has completely upset her."

"I should think it would," observed another woman, the first speaker being occupied with glaring at me resentfully. "That bowl and the cups were the treasures of Milly's heart. They were wedding presents, you know, and the handsomest things in town."

"How did you say it happened?" The first woman eyed me with a glance that dared me to tell my story (wi the same way.

"Why! Mr. Stockbridge offered to help her ladle out the punch, and as he did so stumbled against the table, upsetting the punch bowl."

"Ah, yes!" She nodded her head sagely. "Poor thing, he's so awkward in his lameness, he must be a great trial to Milly."

"Humph!" snorted the second woman, "Shoe's on the other foot, I should say. There's Christine now. How's Mrs. Stockbridge feeling, Christine?"

"She'll be all right pretty soon," replied Christine stolidly. "Meester Stockbridge, he make her lie down. She get up pretty quick."

"Well! I suppose we might as well go back," the first woman said reluctantly, and with a sense of relief that poor Milly Stockbridge's secret was safe for the minute I followed their retreating backs into the living-room.

So assiduously did they spread the news of the broken punch bowl that by the time Mr. and Mrs. Stockbridge rejoined their guests—she this time with distinct traces of tears upon her face—every woman in the room was ready with emotional condolences over her loss.

But Kenneth Stockbridge didn't leave his wife's side again. And when the evening guests had left and she started to accompany Miss Holcombe and me to the upper chamber where our wraps were he put a restraining hand upon her arm.

"Alice can do the honors, dear," he said tenderly. "You are tired out, and I am sure Mrs. Graham will excuse you."

The Adventures of Jimmy Coon

THE OYSTER FEAST.

Now the wood shed of the Jones' Farm was a "lean to" and the roof came right up to William's window. Many a night when it was too hot to sleep he had slipped quietly out of his window, down to the old swimming hole to take a cool dip and no one the wiser. But this night it was not so very hot and little William was sleeping soundly. I'm ashamed to say his loud snore came out over that shed roof, and it gave Teddy Possum quite a start and even made Jimmy Coon a bit nervous.

Cousin Bruin stopped short with one foot in the air, and in a minute or two since nothing more happened, he put his foot down again, and took a long breath.

Jimmy Coon squeezed himself through the shed window, and soon waved his little black hand through the window and called softly, "All right, here is the best supper you ever ate. Wait I will open the door."

Cousin Bruin was all for pushing the door open with one blow from his huge paw. Teddy Possum had to hold him back and whisper, "Wait, wait, or little William will hear you and you will spoil everything in one minute."

Soon Jimmy Coon unlatched the shed with his clever little black hand, and in another minute those animals all stood in the black darkness of the shed. Only one shaft of moonlight came in through the little window.

"Huh," said Cousin Bruin, "Where is there anything to eat, I don't see a thing, and I don't smell a thing! This is some kind of a trap. When I was a little bear I was once caught in a trap, and shut in a cage, and I don't want any more of it!"

"Hold on, can't you," snapped Jimmy Coon, "of course you can't smell things in shells, you watch me!"

And from the top of an open barrel, Jimmy pulled an oyster shell. He passed the oyster under his hind paws, and without looking he found the weakest place in the shell. Then he dug in his claws, forced open the valves, and tore out the flesh in fragments, leaving nothing behind. There is no better oyster opener in the world than Jimmy Coon.

Little William's family had invited friends to dinner the next day, and for the first course they had planned oysters on the half shell.

And in another minute those animals all stood in the black darkness of the shed.

CITY STRUGGLING TO CARRY ON AS MORE WORKERS WALK OUT; STRIKERS PLAN FOOD DEPOTS

Public Utilities Are Kept Going and Strikers Co-operate To Prevent Suffering—Commercial Telegraphers Quit Saturday—Newspapers Unable To Publish.

WINNIPEG, May 16.—Commercial telegraphers employed by the Canadian Pacific, Great Northwestern, Grand Trunk Pacific, and telegraphers in the employ of the Canadian Press, Limited, and all brokerage firms in Winnipeg, at a meeting this evening voted in favor of a sympathetic strike, to take effect at 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, May 17, thus isolating Winnipeg from the outside world.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 16.—Official efforts to maintain service on gas and lighting utilities have proved entirely successful, and it is believed that the present service could be continued indefinitely.

Apart from the Labor Temple the busiest place in the city today was the city hall. The centre of activity is Mayor Gray's office. Before noon the mayor had received a dozen or more deputations. The Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs came to assure him of their willingness to assist in alleviating suffering as far as possible. Another deputation from the north end of the city assured him that all was quiet in the foreign-speaking settlements.

Milk Needed For Children.

Child welfare authorities requested the mayor to insure a plentiful supply of milk for children, aged folk and invalids.

The city engineer's office is closed up, but he states that he is carrying on all the necessary work of his department with the aid of his volunteers and all is well for the present.

Health inspectors have requested citizens to burn garbage as soon as possible and to pile it up in convenient spots. About half of the staff of the health department is at work. For the most part only emergency cases are handled.

PLANS FOR POLICING.

An offer to provide extra policemen from the citizens' committee and with the co-operation of strikers has been rejected by the strikers' committee. The police commission is in daily session, and the latest proposal was for the extra men to be supplied from three sources. One-third were to come from the Great War Veterans' Association, one-third from the strikers' ranks, and the remainder from the citizens' committee. This the strike committee rejected on the ground that they can supply all necessary help themselves, and have gone on record as offering to do so. The police commission will meet daily until the strike is settled.

MINOR TROUBLES.

The first report of demonstrations was received at police headquarters this afternoon. They were all minor affairs. Mrs. Helen Armstrong, business agent of the Confectioners' Union, was arraigned in police court charged with disorderly conduct, and Frank Winters, a striker, and A. A. Riley, manager of the Canada Bread Company, were also charged. The action followed a dispute between pickets and Manager Riley. All were remanded for one week. Picketing resulted in minor clashes in several parts of the city, but the police found it unnecessary to make any arrests. At the central fire station striking firemen tried to induce two union men volunteers to quit the job. There was much noise, but no serious disturbance.

MAYOR WIRES OTTAWA.

The mayor has wired the Ottawa authorities that the strike situation is precarious. He apprised them of the latest developments, and urged that Senator Robertson, minister of labor, be sent to Winnipeg immediately.

The city council met this evening. A committee from the strike committee appeared, and informed the council that they had instructed the opening of restaurants and the organization of bread and milk depots to prevent undue suffering. They announced that they had caused all newspaper to be shut down, and said:

SHUT DOWN NEWSPAPERS.

"There will be no more newspapers until we decide. We know the effect of a newspaper in molding public opinion, and that in the past such opinion has been molded against our class. We realize that had we left the press open it would have taken advantage of the hard situation by trying to show the public that the strikers were weakening in their position by opening food depots. We want the civic authorities to realize that there is no indication on our part of weakening. We intend to keep the strike in effect, but we are also willing to do anything toward eliminating undue hardships."

DEPOTS FOR FOOD.

R. B. Russell, head of the machinists' Union acted as spokesman for the delegation. In order to supply the depots bread will have to be baked at one or several of the large manufacturing plants. James Winning, president of the strike committee, said. He stated that in the event of the manufacturers refusing to allow their plants to be used for making the needed supply, the onus will be on the employers.

FORD'S COUNSEL SAYS TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL A TISSUE OF LIES

Million-Dollar Libel Suit of Flivver King Under Way.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., May 16.—Henry Ford and his son Edzel sat side by side in Judge Tucker's court today, when the opening statement of Mr. Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Tribune was made by Attorney Murphy. Mr. Ford said he expected to spend most of his time here until a verdict is reached.

In his statement Mr. Murphy asked the jury to remember that at the time of publication of the alleged libel, June 23, 1916, the United States had not entered the European war and did not enter the war until April, 1917.

"We had, while a neutral, the right to sell munitions of war and we were trying to keep out of the war," said Mr. Murphy. "A few days before this editorial was published, on June 18, 1916, in fact, the secretary of war ordered the mobilization of the National Guard for service on the Mexican border. That was the situation at the time the libellous editorial was published."

Called Ford Anarchist.

Mr. Murphy then read the editorial headed: "Ford Is An Anarchist." The article said that Ford would not hold open the places of his men who responded to the call of their country, nor would he pay their salaries while absent, nor care for their families. Ford, in the editorial, was referred to as an "ignorant idealist" and one "incapable of thought." Concluding the reading, Mr. Murphy continued: "Gentlemen, we shall prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that these statements are a tissue of falsehood and libel."

We shall in particular disprove the following five lies:

"Lie No. 1: That guardsmen employed by Ford would lose their places.

"Lie No. 2: That no provision would be made for their dependents.

"Lie No. 3: That their families could get along as best they might.

"Lie No. 4: That when they returned they would have to apply for their old jobs as strangers.

"Lie No. 5: That this rule applied to the Ford plants everywhere."

A Crowded Court.

Mr. Murphy asserted that the great influence and large circulation of the Tribune but increased its responsibility. The court room was crowded.

The lawyer described the editorial as "libel per se" or libel which in itself was libel, and that the law assumes its publication alone establishes malice. "We might well rest our statement here," went on Mr. Murphy, "and say to the defendant, 'there is malice; prove that it is not; here are lies, prove that they are not.'"

"But we do not stop there. We are willing to open up to prove that the whole fabric of the Tribune article is based on the shifting sands of falsehood and not on the rock of truth."

The lawyer then took up the accusation that guardsmen employed by Ford would lose their places. "On the contrary" he said, "we will show that these men were assured that their positions would be held for them and each one who joined the guard was given a numbered disk to identify him when he came back."

Referring to "lies No. 2 and No. 3," Mr. Murphy said they would be refuted by members of families of guardsmen, who have have been given relief by the Ford Motor Company.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY'S WORK

DEPENDS UPON GOOD BLOOD TO NOURISH THE BODY

Weak People Need a Tonic, One Which Acts Directly Upon the Blood and that Does Not Weaken the Body by Useless Purging.

There are thousands of people throughout Canada who are without ambition or strength to do their day's work, and who are always tired out, have but little appetite and a poor digestion. They cannot get a refreshing night's sleep and are subject to headaches, backaches and nervousness, because their blood is impure. To men and women in this conditions Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give quick relief and permanent cure because of their direct action on the blood, which they build up to its normal strength. As the blood becomes rich and red it strengthens the muscles, tones up the nerves, makes the stomach capable of digesting food, and repairs the wastes caused by worry or work. In a word, the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills means restoration to perfect health.

BLOOD TURNED TO WATER.

Miss Jessie McLean, Trenton, N.S., says: "I was as weak as it was possible for anyone to be, and yet be able to go about. My blood seemed to have turned almost to water. I was pale, the least exertion would leave me breathless, and when I went up stairs I would have to stop and rest on the way. I often had severe headaches, and at times my heart would palpitate alarmingly. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be grateful that I took the advice. Soon after beginning the use of the Pills I began to get stronger, and by the time I had taken seven boxes I felt that I was again enjoying good health. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to weak girls and I shall always warmly recommend them."

RHEUMATIC PAINS.

The sufferer from rheumatism who experiments with outward applications is only wasting valuable time and good money in depending upon such treatment, the trouble still remains, and is all the time becoming more firmly rooted—harder to cure when the proper treatment is applied. Treat this disease through the blood and you will soon be rid of the pains and tortures. As a cure for rheumatism Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unequalled. They act directly on the impure, weak blood; they purify and strengthen it, and so root out the cause of rheumatism. Mr. D. Lewis, postmaster at Escuminac, N. B., says: "I was attacked with rheumatism, which settled in my elbow, shoulder and knee joints, and at times caused me great suffering. The trouble was particularly severe last spring, and I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking the Pills for some time the rheumatic pains and stiffness in the joints disappeared, and I have not had any return of the trouble."

A GOOD DIGESTION.

Mrs. William Dale Midland, Ont., says: "I suffered for a long time from a severe form of indigestion, and had doctored so much without benefit that I had all but given up hope of getting better. Everything I ate caused me intense pain and some days I did not touch a thing but a cup of cold water, and even that distressed me. As a result I was very much run down, and slept so poorly that I dreaded night coming on. I was continually taking medicine, but was actually growing worse instead of better. Having often read the cures made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I finally decided to give them a trial, I have had great cause to bless this decision, for by the time I had used a couple of boxes there was no doubt the pills were helping me, and in less time than I had anticipated the pills had cured me, and I was again enjoying not only good digestion, but better health in every way than before."

ALWAYS FEELS FIT.

The wonderful success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is due to the fact that they go right to the root of the disease in the blood, and by making the vital fluid rich and red strengthen every organ and every nerve, thus driving out disease and pain, and making weak, despondent people bright, active and strong. Mr. W. T. Johnson, one of the best known and most highly-esteemed men in Lunenburg County, N. S., says: "I am a Provincial Land Surveyor, and am exposed the greater part of the year to very hard work traveling through the forests by day and camping out by night, and I find the only thing that will keep me up to the mark is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I leave home for a trip in the woods I am as interested in having my supply of pills as provisions, and on such occasions I take them regularly. The result is I am always fit. I never take cold, and can digest all kinds of food such as we have to put up with hastily cooked in the woods. Having proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic and health builder, I am never without them and I lose no opportunity in recommending them to weak people I meet."

SKIN TROUBLE CURED.

Mrs. W. Ritchie, Parkbeg, Sask., says: "Two years ago I was attacked with eczema on my hands. I tried almost everything that was advised, but as the trouble was growing worse I consulted a doctor and took his treatment for some time with no better results. By this time my hands were a mass of sores, and I began to despair of finding a cure. A friend strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. After using two boxes I could see an improvement, and I got a further supply. I used altogether eight boxes, by which time every trace of the eczema had disappeared and there has been not a single symptom of the trouble since that time. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for troubles of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be kept in every home, and their occasional use will keep the blood pure and ward off illness. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should come to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I did not know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. FINORE, 516 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Peace Conditions For the Turk Probably Mean Expulsion.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The Associated Press tonight issues the following review:

Friday proved an off day in peace conference circles, so far as the council of four was concerned. Premier Lloyd George was absent from Paris, bidding farewell to a Welsh regiment that left for home, while President Wilson devoted the day to visits by a number of delegations.

The negotiations with the Austrian peace delegation at St. Germain are expected to begin the middle of next week. The Austrians probably will present their credentials at a meeting of the peace congress on Tuesday, and it is reported unofficially that the following day may witness the handing of the peace terms to the delegation.

The Austrian Frontiers.

The council of foreign ministers is continuing its labors on the details of the Austrian peace treaty connected with the question of new frontiers. The treaty, it is understood, will not deal with the disposition of Dalmatia, Istria or Fiume, merely calling for Austrian renunciation of rights to these.

The Italians and Jugo-Slavs, with American mediation, will settle the question of the former Austrian domain between themselves if pending negotiations reach a successful conclusion.

Another Note.

Still another note from the German peace envoys to the Allied and associated powers, said to deal with the question of Alsace-Lorraine, is in course of preparation by the Germans. That the Allies are preparing for the eventful day when the Turks are to be reckoned with in a peace treaty, is indicated by the fact that British, French, American, Italian and Greek warships, with landing parties, have begun a great concentration at Smyrna, Asia Minor. Allied troops also are being massed at Saloniki. The concentration at Smyrna is connected with the mandate given to Greece by the peace conference to administer the affairs of the Turkish seaport, while the belief is expressed in Paris that the massing at Saloniki is connected with the enforcement of the peace terms to be presented to the Ottomans, which, it is thought probable, will include a demand that the Turks leave Europe.

The peace negotiations with Turkey and also with Bulgaria, are expected to take place in Constantinople, Saloniki or some other city in the Near East.

The Chinese Cabinet is reported to have tendered its resignation, which President Hsu Shih Chang is said to have declined to accept. The conference at Shanghai, at which endeavors were being made to arrange a peace between Northern and Southern China, has broken up.

Vienna advices report that many persons have been killed in clashes between Serbs and Croats at Agram, capital of Croatia.

LIBERAL CHIEFS ARE GATHERING AT THE CAPITAL

Party Will Be Strongly Represented From East and West.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, May 16.—The provincial governments and Liberal oppositions are to be well represented at the conference to be held with the federal Opposition tomorrow. Premier Oliver of British Columbia, is on his way, but may not reach here until Monday, which is also the case with Premier Martin of Saskatchewan. From the former province, however, Hon. J. King has already arrived from Saskatchewan. Hon. Messrs. Knowles and Langley are also now in the capital. Premier Stewart of Alberta has been here for some time, but is now on his way home, and will be represented here by Hon. Messrs. Marshall and Boyle.

Premier Norris of Manitoba is held to his post by the strike in Winnipeg and cannot come. The Opposition, however, expects that Hon. Messrs. Brown and Hudson will arrive at Ottawa today. William Proudfoot and Hartley Dewart will represent Ontario, Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. Walter Mitchell from Quebec, Hon. Messrs. Smith and Venniot from New Brunswick. Who will come from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island is not yet known.

HOUSING SCHEME IS TOO RESTRICTED, SAY CRITICS IN COMMONS

In the Right Direction, But Does Not Go Far Enough.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The Government's housing scheme was the subject of discussion in the House of Commons tonight. There was a vote of $25,000,000 for the scheme under consideration and Hon. Mr. Rowell sketched the general purposes and the reasons which had induced the Government to take action. There was some criticism of the plan on the ground that it did not go far enough. While recognizing that it was a step in the right direction, Dr. Clark of Red Deer, remarked that something bigger and better was expected. Sir Herbert Ames expressed disappointment that the measure did not grapple with the slum problem of the large cities. To this, Mr. Rowell replied that if 40,000 people were provided with better homes, there would have been made an important contribution to social welfare.

WELLAND CANAL MEN ASK INCREASED WAGES AND EIGHT-HOUR DAY

ST. CATHARINES, May 16.—As a result of the conference between Welland ship canal contractors and representatives of the Niagara District Trades Federation, it has been agreed to recommend to the minister that the same working conditions granted by the provincial hydro commission be put into effect on the canal. Both canal and hydro employees asked for an eight-hour day, with a 44-hour week and an increased scale of wages, with the inclusion of double time for overtime, Sundays and holidays.

The men's representatives met Sir Adam Beck yesterday in Toronto, and the results of this conference will govern the adoption of the proposed agreement on both jobs.

CALL ON GOVT. FOR EIGHT-HOUR DAY

TORONTO, May 16.—In a statement issued this morning the metal trades council calls on the government to at once establish an eight-hour day, and condemns their hesitancy in this regard as inexcusable. "Shortening the hours of labor is just as vital to the physical welfare of the Canadian people as is factory legislation safeguarding machinery and child labor regulation," the circular states, adding that there does not appear to be anything else for the workers to do than to close up their ranks and become insistent in matters affecting their welfare and happiness. The action of the employers in refusing to confer with the men and denying them any voice as to working conditions and remuneration is described as the "attitude of dictators, and tyrannical in the extreme."

CARONIA, NORTHLAND AND MINNEDOSA ON WAY WITH CANUCKS

OTTAWA, May 16.—The movement of troops from England to Canada is proceeding rapidly, and if present progress continues until the end of the month the total of men brought back in May should be a large one. The militia department has been advised of the sailing of three more ships, carrying 5,423 Canadian soldiers, all of which will dock before May 24. The Caronia, with 148 officers and 3,695 men on board is due at Halifax on or about May 21. The Northland, with 121 officers and 1,099 men should arrive at Halifax the following day. The Minnedosa, carrying 41 officers and 219 men, is expected to reach Quebec on the 22nd. The department has not yet been advised as to the units on board these boats, but will issue a further statement when this information is received.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC HEAD OF GRAND TRUNK DEAD

[Special to The Advertiser.]

MONTREAL, May 16.—C. E. Dewey, freight traffic manager of the G. T. R., with headquarters at Montreal, died suddenly last night at Atlantic City after a brief illness. Born in England in 1873, he entered the service of the Grand Trunk at Toronto 31 years ago. After holding the position of chief clerk to the division freight agent at Stratford and at Hamilton, he was appointed district freight agent at Stratford in 1899, and was promoted to be district freight agent at Toronto in 1902. He came to Montreal in 1907 as assistant general freight agent, and in the following year was made general freight agent of the Central Vermont Railway. From New England he was transferred to Winnipeg in 1911 as general freight agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and two years later returned to Montreal as freight traffic manager of the Grand Trunk.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE LOST.

TREPASSY, Nfld., May 16.—The U. S. navy dirigible C-5, which was swept to sea yesterday is now believed to have been lost. The destroyer Edwards, which went in pursuit, reported by wireless that she had been unable to find her and was returning.

The merchant steamer, which had previously reported that she was standing by the big balloon subsequently sent a message that she was unable to stand by longer and proceeded on her way, according to information from the Edwards.

MONTREAL SHOWS DETROIT HOW TO HANDLE THIEVES

Gang of American Cracksmen Caught While Robbing Bank.

ONLY ONE GETS AWAY

Quick Work by the Police Lands Three Noted Desperadoes.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

MONTREAL, May. 16.—The most sensational man hunt in years took place at noon today, when an international gang of burglars wanted in Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit and Washington, set out to rob the Ontario street east branch of the Home Bank of Canada, which was known to have $300,000 in cash in its vaults. The police got the tip and four detectives sent from Windsor Station, in a Hudson six. They were followed by fifteen detectives in two cars armed to the teeth.

Nearing the bank the cars separated and one shot past the robbers, then turning, caused them to pull up to avoid a collision. Detective Tierney levelled a rifle at the gang. One jumped and escaped. The other three were covered by the revolvers of the detectives and arrested. One of them attempted to shoot having to be overpowered by a blow in the face. In the auto were ropes to tie up the cashiers, and bags. Each of the three men captured had two revolvers. Their names are Dominique Coaversa of Brooklyn, wanted in Chicago and Washington for similar robbery, and Frank Carter of Detroit, wanted in the same places and Frank Teddy of Brooklyn, wanted in Buffalo and Washington.

THEIR WAGES CUT.

ST. CATHARINES, May 16.—The lock and bridge tenders on the Welland Canal, in receiving their pay checks, find that their rate of pay has been cut from $90 to about $58 a month. They are sending a protest to Ottawa.

DRAMA AT CLANDEBOYE.

CLANDEBOYE, May 16.—A good crowd attended the play "The Mock Trial," given in the Methodist Church by some young people of Lucan.

Dr. Ernest Bice of London is spending a month or so with his parents here.

Arbor day was observed on Tuesday by the schools.

An Investor Need Not Be a Capitalist

Many people think it is necessary to have a lot of money in order to invest in high interest-bearing securities.

They envy the Capitalist because he has money to buy bonds and shares that earn him more money without further effort.

But to-day the humblest wage earner can be an investor and get big returns.

War Savings Stamps have made it possible.

You can get a War Savings Stamp for $4.00. It is a Government Bond, bearing interest at over 4½%, and in 1924 will be redeemed for $5.00.

Thrift Stamps help you to save up the $4.00 necessary to get one of these Bonds. A Thrift Stamp costs 25 cents, and sixteen of them can be exchanged for a War Savings Stamp.

Thus you can start being an investor as soon as you have $4.00, and build up as big an investment as you choose.

In May W.S.S. Cost $4.04

In June W.S.S. Cost $4.05

U. S. SEAPLANES NEARING AZORES ON LONG FLIGHT

Latest Report Shows That Over Two-Thirds of Journey Has Been Covered.

NC-4 IN THE LEAD

Planes Estimated To Be Making an Average of 75 Miles an Hour.

100 MILES FROM AZORES.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—The naval seaplane NC-4 was 100 miles from Corvo Island, Azores, at 5:45 o'clock this morning, Washington time.

Punta Delgada, Azores, May 17.—With seaplane NC-4 leading, the three naval transatlantic fliers had completed two-thirds of their course from Trepassy to the Azores at 8:30 o'clock this morning. (The equivalent of 8:30 a.m., Azores time, is 4:45 a.m., New York time.

The other planes were going strong in the wake of their leader. The average speed of the NC-4 was computed at more than 75 miles an hour.

The section of the harbor where the planes will be moored has been cleared of all craft to permit of a safe landing. Two destroyers are ready to assist the planes if they alight outside the breakwater.

The city here is in gala dress for the expected event of the day, and crowds gathered on the water front shortly after daybreak.

The weather was misty and the visibility poor early this morning, but clearing weather was predicted for this afternoon, when the planes are due to arrive.

MESSAGES 1,200 MILES AWAY INTERCEPTED BY MAINE RADIO DEPOT

Washington, May 17.—The three American naval seaplanes this morning were more than half way on their flight from Trepassy, Nfld., to the Azores, on their transatlantic flight, and were expected to reach Punta Delgada by noon. The department's latest advices, received at 5:30 a.m., showed they were 750 miles from Newfoundland.

Since the fliers passed out of range of the Atlantic coast radio stations, communication with the navy department practically has been severed. The only message coming through between 4:30 and 8 a.m. was passed eastward by the station ships to the destroyer Milvelle at Punta Delgada, and cabled here. The planes then had passed the destroyer Cowell ,the fourteenth station ship, located approximated 750 miles from Trepassy, or more than half way across to the Azores.

Because of the fact that the machines was expected, navy officers here believed they might reach their destination considerably before noon. Their messages showed they were averaging 75 miles an hour.

In Close Formation.

When the seaplanes passed over stationship No. 13 at 2:36 a.m., they were flying in close formation. While only the NC-4 was mentioned in the Punta Delgada message, received at 4:30, it was the belief of navy officials that all three of the planes passed Destroyer No. 14 together.

From the time the aerial voyageurs left Trepassey Bay, shortly after 6 o'clock last night, until they had passed Destroyer No. 13, more than 600 miles out, radio stations on this coast were able to trace their progress by intercepted radio messages. By this means the powerful station at Bar Harbor, Me., kept the navy department constantly informed regarding the expedition for more than eight hours. Although the radio apparatus on board the seaplanes was only designed for a radius of about 250 miles, the Maine station intercepted messages exchanged between the planes when they were more than 1,200 miles distant. This was declared by expert radio officers at the department to be one of the most surprising features of the epochal undertaking. When the flight was planned it was not expected that the stations on this side would be able to hear Commander Towers' messages after his squadron was 200 miles at sea.

The NC-4 passed stationship No. 18, about 100 miles from Corvo Island (Destroyer Craven), at 09.45 Greenwich (5:45 a.m. Washington time); the NC-3 passed stationship No. 13 (Destroyer Bush), at 06:23 Greenwich 2:23 a.m. Washington ime); the NC-1 passed stationship No. 18 at 10.14 Greenwich (6:14 a.m. Washington time). The NC-1 passed stationship No. 16 at 09.17 Greenwich (5:17 Washington time).

CHATHAM UTILITIES WOULD ELECTRIFY PERE MARQUETTE

CHATHAM, May 16.—The public utilities commission today went on record as in favor of the electrification of the Pere Marquette Railway and the use of hydro in the operation of the line. The members try to interest others in the plan.

GOVT. WATCHING BUT NOT ACTING IN 'PEG STRIKE

Postal Employees Not Justified in Striking, Says Rowell.

QUESTION IN COMMONS

Casgrain Quizzes Ministry as to What It Intends To Do.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The strike at Winnipeg was brought up immediately the House of Commons opened this afternoon. Mr. Casgrain asked what steps the Government was going to take in view of the unusual circumstances and what was going to be done in the future to prevent a recurrence of such strikes.

"I remember last year in Quebec," Mr. Casgrain went on, "the military forces were called on——"

Mr. Casgrain was here called to order by the deputy speaker. The deputy speaker ruled that Mr. Casgrain was in order in asking a question but absolutely out of order in referring to anytaing else.

Watching the Situation.

Reply to the question, Hon. A. K. MacLean said:

"The minister of labor has been closely in touch with the situation at Winnipeg during the last ten days and he is advised from moment to momen.. He is ready at all times to do anything he can in the circumstances."

Mr. Robb asked if the postal officials had any statement to make in regard to the disturbance in the postal service at Winnipeg.

Hon. N. W. Rowell: "The majority of the postal employees in Winnipeg, with a few exceptions have gone out on a sympathetic strike, in accordance with the action taken by the other employees. The Government considers that such action on the part of the postal employees is entirely without justification. We are advised that efforts are being made to intimidate the other employees, who are still faithful to the public service. The Government is standing absolutely behind all the employees who are performing their duty in the service of the Government, and in the administration of the postoffice at Winnipeg at the present time."

Reid Uninformed.

Mr. Cahill remarked that he understood a number of employees of the Canadian Government railways were also on strike, and asked if the minister of railways had any information.

Dr. Reid, minister of railways, replied that he had received no information to that effect from the officials at Winnipeg.

Third reading was given to the bankruptcy and fertilizers measures.

MACHINISTS' STRIKE VOTE NOT APPROVED BY UNION LEADERS

Brantford Men Were Little Premature, Rules the International.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, May 16.—Officials of the international machinists have rapped the knuckles of the local union over the recent strike. It developed today that the Brantford union has been notified that the vote taken was quite illegal, and a strike vote was only permissible as a last recourse after negotiations have failed and international representatives have been on the ground. In several local cases the strike vote was taken without there having been any effort to open negotiations. It was announced that negotiations will now be opened, and in the meantime there will be no strike as threatened by the metal trades here.

STOLE FROM EMPLOYER.

Coming into the city from the township with a roll of bills amounting to $331 stolen from his employer, Thomas Wright, Joseph McKay was arrested this morning as he was about to board an east-bound train. He pleaded guilty to the theft, having secured the money from a trunk. He was remanded for sentence. McKay came from Toronto.

SHERIFF IS CHAIRMAN.

Sheriff John W. Westbrook has been elected chairman of the Thrift Stamp campaign in this county, succeeding C. Cook resigned. Every township has been organized.

NEW PASTOR RESIGNS.

Rev. Andrew Smith, who came here recently from Fort Rowan to become pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, has resigned his charge on account of necessity for his return to England. The suggestion of the church to hold the pastorate open pending his return was declined by Rev. Smith.

DISTRICT METHODISTS MEET.

At the annual meeting of the Brantford Methodist district held here today a total membership for the district of 5,956 was shown for the year, an increase of 120 from last year, due to a long deferred revision of membership lists in some churches. The district raised $92,794 for all purposes, including $16,922, for the missionary fund. Rev. J. D. Fitzpatrick was elected chairman. The delegates were advised from Kitchener that it would be difficult to find accommodation in that city for the forthcoming Hamilton conference.

KINGSTON STRIKERS ADVISED TO STICK TOGETHER AND WIN

Metal Workers' Leader Says Employers' Association Must Be Bust.

KINGSTON, May 16.—R. C. Brown, president of the metal workers of Toronto, and John MacDonald of the pattern makers, Toronto, addressed a meeting of 600 strikers of the Canadian Locomotive Company in the city hall here this afternoon. Both speakers declared that the eight-hour day was coming, and that the manufacturers could not avoid it. They urged the men to stick together and their just demands would be met.

Mr. MacDonald stated that by sticking together the workers would "bust up" the Employers' Association, and he felt that this was the final effort of the employers to put up a stone wall against the strikers. The metal workers in Canada, he declared, were working for less money and under worse conditions than the metal workers in any other place.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

There was an extra good attendance at the local market today, considering the condition of the roads. Oats are quoted at $2.40 to $2.50 per cwt. This is a slight drop in price.

Barley is up a little in price, and is selling at $2.40 per cwt.

Hay is quoted at $21 to $24 per ton, with a fair demand.

Potatoes were more plentiful on the market than they have been for any one day in many weeks. No great change in price took place, however, they being quoted at $2 to $2.25 per bag wholesale, and $2.30 to $2.40 per bag retail.

Rhubarb and other garden vegetables were to be seen on nearly every farmer's wagon.

Rhubarb was selling at 60c to 65c per dozen. Asparagus was selling at 90c to $1 per dozen. Lettuce brought 75c per dozen, and some of extra good quality sold as high as $1.25 per dozen. Green onions were plentiful, and were selling at 30c to 40c per dozen.

WALL STREET.

New York, May 17.—Rails were again the strongest features at the opening of today's stock market, but their place was soon taken by shippings, especially Marine preferred and common, at gains of 4 to 6 points. Related shares, especially American International and Atlantic-Gulf, also oils and equipments, were materially higher. Central Foundry, Federal Mining, Harvester and United States Rubber showing unusual activity. United States Steel moved within narrow limits, but investment rails held the better part of their 1 to 1½ point advance. Minor rails, especially Western and Southwestern groups, made greater gains. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 700,000 shares. Bonds were firm.

New York, May 19—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Prominent rails, shippings, oils and equipments led the further rise at the opening of the week-end session of the stock market, gaining 1 to 2 points. Coppers and several specialties, including Sears-Roebuck, were also among the stronger and active issues. Tractions were the only noteworthy exception to the advance. Interboro Consolidated preferred losing 2 points.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, May 17.—Trading in securities this week was attended at times by an undercurrent of restraint, but without apparent effect upon the quoted values. The volume of business approached, and on one occasion exceeded, any of the active sessions of the past four weeks, comprehending many issues previously ignored.

There was a temporary flurry in the money market, call loans rising to 7½ per cent, and a further slump in rates of exchange to France and Italy. The most encouraging feature of the stock market was the strength of rails, especially dividend payers.

BOLSHEVIK ARMY IN PANIC-FLIGHT BEFORE PEASANTS

Lenine's Force Hard Pressed in Western Operations.

VIENNA, May 15.—Ukrainian reports indicate that the Bolsheviki are fleeing from their advanced western positions at Rovno before the army led by Simon Petulra and are retiring in disorder, due to a lack of transportation, toward Sarny Junction and Korosteny. It appears that there is a general uprising of Ukrainian peasants against the Bolsheviki, the town of Homel, in the Government of Mohilev, falling into their hands. The peasants are led by M. Orlovsky, and are reported to have won other successes northeast of Kiev.

The army led by Zeleny, another Ukrainian peasant chief, numbers about 20,000, and is operating on both sides of the Dnieper River, near Kiev.

GUELPH AUTO GOES ON RAMPAGE IN GALT AND WRECKS STORE

Heavy Damaged Caused by Runaway Truck.

GALT, May 16. — A large motor truck of Hugh Walker's, wholesalers of Guelph, was left standing on Main street this afternoon with the engine running, while the driver was in a store. Suddenly the brakes freed, and it started, and with momentum gaining on the slight grade on the street, it crashed into the corner of the Briscoe store, smashing a stout post and climbing into the window, running a lot of goods on display in addition to reducing into smal particles two large plate glass windows containing over 300 square feet of glass. The damage will run into hundreds of dollars. Fortunately no pedestrians were in the path of the motor.

CUT HAIR CUTTING PRICE.

The master barbers of Galt have forced an association, and their first act was to reduce the price of hair cutting from 50 cents to the former price of 35 cents.

MANY TREES PLANTED.

The tree planting campaign of the board of trade which has been in progress since May 1 has closed, and 300 trees have been planted on the streets, and in addition the Waterloo Golf and Country Club has 125 trees to plant, and the G. C. I. 100. Another campaign will be conducted in the fall.

The town of Hesepeler made a magnificent response to the appeal for the Red Triangle fund and has subscribed the sum of $1,267.55, and with the campaign still on, it is expected the total will pass $1,300. The objective was $1,500.

DIES AT LEAMINGTON.

LEAMINGTON, May 16.—After a lingering illness Wesley G. Morse passed away at the home of his son-in-law, Thomas Fleming, Ridge road, on Wednesday. Mr. Morse was in his 84th year, and had been a resident of Leamington all his life. Funeral services were held from the home of Thomas Fleming on Friday with interment at Lakeview Cemetery.

Thousands of early tomato plants are being planted this week. Owing to the rainy weather farmers on the marsh have not been able to continue their planting.

SARNIAN MAY JOIN WITH "BILLY" BISHOP IN INDUSTRIAL WORK

Capt. Laut Has Invented Useful Aircraft Improvements.

OWEN SOUND, May 16.—In spite of the big money that Col. Billy Bishop, V.C., is reported to be making, there is a strong probability that he will leave that line of work within a short time and enter the industrial field. It is stated on good authority he will manage the Canadian end of a business that is closely allied to the work in which he was engaged overseas and that he will have as partners two other famous airmen, one of whom will be Capt. Laut, R. A. F. Capt. Laut is a native of Sarnia, and during the war was with the Royal Air Forces. He has invented and patented two important articles, one of which is an extremely high explosive, and the other a much-improved petrol tank for use in airplanes. Just what commercial value there is in the manufacture of the articles remains to be seen, but those who know claim that they will be in demand in many quarters. Capt. Laut may be in Canada soon, and an announcement may be expected from him concerning the matter.

SEC. WARD OF ST. THOMAS G. W. V. A. HAS RESIGNED

ST. THOMAS, May 16.—A. H. Ward, secretary-treasurer of the local branch of the G. W. V. A., resigned tonight, owing to the fact that he is leaving the city. His successor will be appointed at a later session. It is quite probable that a permanent paid secretary will be appointed. Mr. Ward is one of the seven men who were responsible for the formation of the local branch. It was organized early in the war before the regular G. W. V. A. had been organized and had a representative at the first provincial convention. Since that time he has held the position of secretary-treasurer and has filled it successfully. The local branch has now nearly four hundred members.
