POETRY.

An Average Man.

A realistic story.

Without any gush or glory.

With no sentimental limerick.

And no firework display.

'Bout a poor old ignoramus.

Who was never rich or famous.

And who couldn't ignite the river.

And who worked out by the day.

A very common fellow.

Was this Ebenezer Weller.

With the usual share of virtues.

And with vices two or three;

He'd no fatal gift of beauty.

But an average sense of duty.

Neither very good nor evil—

Just about like you and me.

And he wed an average woman.

Very nice and very human.

Just about like Ebenezer.

Neither very good nor bad.

Of in harmony they'd wobble.

Often they would scold and squabble.

But they loved each other dearly.

And they couldn't continue mad.

Never had enough on Monday

To supply the house till Sunday.

Never made enough in April

If they worked hard in November.

They must work hard in December.

And the coarse bread of to-morrow.

Was the hard work of to-day.

They worked on, grew gray and grayer.

Yet they never made him mayor.

And she placed no social honors.

And his wages were still small.

Then the last of years grew weighty.

And they died when they were eighty.

And they put them in the graveyard.

And they left them there, that's all.

A realistic story.

Without any gush or glory.

Yet this fellow Ebenezer.

Represents the human clan;

His the average share of pleasure.

His the average joy and sorrow

Of the common average man.

SELECT STORY.

SQUIRREL.

Continued.

Luncheon that day was an excessively gloomy affair; the lawyer racked his brains for conversation, but for once

could find none.

"I'll trouble you in the drawing room,

Miss Ferrers, for a few minutes," said

Mr Westbrook, when, having finished,

he got up and pushed his chair from him; and as the two went thither, Helen following her sister with anxious eyes,

John Foster longed to be by her, perhaps all four felt little easier than the lonely young culprit locked up in the library.

He, to tell the truth, was not particularly to be pitied. Having firm faith in his sister, he reigned all thought of the future to her and, with the wisdom of his few years, was now exercising himself on the burning topic of the moment, i. e., how to give his jailer the slip!

"There you stop till I let you out,"

Mr Westbrook said. "A beautiful

cockcrow that went sorely against Squirrel's grain.

The door was fast, no question about that. He broke his pen knife in a futile attempt to slip the lock, and then gave it up. Naturally the window suggested itself as the next best means of exit.

Unfortunately that was full nine feet from the ground, the Grange front being well raised over a line of cellars, and modern contrivances, but ample, generous air passages running boldly up from basement to roof. Cyril knew all about them. He had personally inspected the interior of one when workmen had been repairing the many-cornered stacks

above, and had safely worked his way down to Olive's own bedroom. Now if he could only voyage upward from the library, cat-like range the tiles, and descend again by the old route, what a capital joke it would be. Quick as thought Cyril stopped on the stout bars of the grate and cautiously inserted head and shoulders up the inky entrance. Hurrah! He could see a bit of blue sky high up aloft. Nimble

as his namesake he began the ascent.

A brick jutting conveniently here and there lent friendly help. He had to grope along with closed eyes, for bits of mortar and little nests of disturbed soot came peeping about him. Careful and crab-like, he hauled himself safely up till near the level of the library ceiling. Then he nearly came to grief.

He seemed to have got beautiful footing on a brick or two, when he suddenly slipped. Down went one leg, but not down the chimney, down the other side somehow. Preserving his balance with difficulty, Squirrel rubbed

his dusty eyes with his grubby hand and peered about him.

Only faint, murky light struggled to his aid, but he could just discern something remarkably odd. An opening there was on the left side of the chimney, not more than two feet square, and the cavity beyond must be of some size, for as the lad inquisitively poked his leg about, it came in contact with no other wall. Whatever could this place be? A bricked up cupboard perhaps; a hiding hole for cavaliers, priests, Jacobites, what not?

Cyril's spirit of adventure rose within

him. In for a penny, in for a pound.

He'd thought that hole and possibly ferret out the secrets of centuries. So through he went, feet foremost this time, and easily enough, for what felt like brick steps assisted his descent into a space which, by faintest light and snuff patting round, he discovered to be a small chamber matching in size

Aunt Pleasant's sanctum the other side of the fireplace.

Here was an exciting find! How pleased old Auntie would have been to know it. How Olive would have liked it if they had been stopping at the Grange. As for that curly Mr Westbrook, though, he should never hear of this romantic do. Cyril only wished it might be full of ghosts that would come out and scare him if ever he lived at the place. But ghosts in his view were neither tangible or viable now.

After ever so long of stealthy creeping and feeling throughout its length and breadth, Cyril could find nothing but ancient cobwebs and layers of dust and debris, a wooden something, narrow

We would call the attention of the readers of the ACADIAN to the letter by the president of the Nova Scotia F. G. A. in another column. Their meeting next week is one that every citizen in Wolfville should be especially interested in, as the location of the proposed High School is to be here. Other parts of the Province are doing nobly in assisting the work and the people of King's County and Wolfville especially should not be behind. Let there be a good turnout on Tuesday next and let our people show them that they have their sympathy and support.

The people of Truro are determined that the memory of Joe Howe shall never die. They have named the beautiful tract on the Lepper Brook, and have run through Victoria Park, "Joe Falls," and by this name these will be known to the end of time. It is being made to erect a monument in the Park, and quite to the memory of Nova Scotia. Subscriptions are requested from all Mr. Howe, wherever they may be sent to Hugh McKee, Truro, N. S.

Seed Testing and Distribution of Seed Grain.

To the Editor of the ACADIAN.

Sir,—Knowing that farmers generally are much interested in the above subjects, permit me to place before your readers the following:

SEED TESTING.

The work of testing the germinating power of grain and other agricultural seeds is now in active progress at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa. Up to the present, over 1,600 samples have been tested and reported on this season, and on the whole with very gratifying results.

SEED DISTRIBUTION.

Last year 16,965 sample bags of grain, weighing 3 lbs. each, were sent free through the mail to 9,114 farmers residing in different parts of the Dominion.

Lower Horton Methodist.

Some little time ago the congregation of the Lower Horton Methodist church decided to have a new organ, and with this end in view money was collected to pay for the same, and dealers in organs notified of the fact.

On Tuesday evening the test of competition took place, with two organs contesting, one the "Karn," entered by Miller Bros., Halifax, and the other the "Dominion," entered by W. H. Johnson, Halifax. The former was represented by Prof. J. H. Morse, and Mr. Johnson looked after the interest of the latter in the competition for supremacy.

For information of Apple Shippers to England. "A NIMBLE NERVELESS IS BETTER THAN A SLOW BILLING."

105 lbs. of apples left Kentville by the midday freight train on Friday, 24th Feb., for shipment by the Labrador, Halifax for Liverpool, thence to London for sale. On Thursday, 9th Mar., the net proceeds were cable to the agent at Wolfville. The cheques left London on the same date and came by the mail due the 20th. Twenty-four days from departure of fruit in care to handling of proceeds. This is seriously brought before shippers to show the way business ought always to be done and can be done if steamship facilities from Halifax were as they should be.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DEAR ACADIAN,—I have noticed in one of the late issues of the Berwick Register a well, or rather was, from a member of a club organized in Aylesford, called the Farmers' Club.

The appeal is thrilling, and certainly is calculated to inspire and arouse the sympathy of all tillers of the soil, to unite in one grand combine to elevate and maintain the dignity and extend the power of the down-trodden farmer. Such is about the drift of the article. The lamentations it contains are that the throne rules all, the prime minister makes laws for all, the Bishop prays for all, the soldier fights for all and the farmer feeds all, and still there are some who have the daring to say that they are "nothing but common farmers."

Obdurate! What is the country coming to? Is it possible in this age that so much disloyal sentiment prevails among (shall I say?) hoodlums, which includes all other classes but farmers. There should be a stop put to this thing at once we should all be more loyal to the lords of creation, we should more submissively gather the rods for the farmer, and kiss the hand that beats us, offences and ailments in all cases give homage to the rightful lords of creation. As they feed all, they should rule all, more particularly as we know they feed all for nothing. They are such a charitable class, especially the farmers of King's. Please accept my allegiance to the power and will of the noble sops of the soil, and next time I will sing you a song of the sht.

ONE OF THE OTHER CLASS. DEAR SIR,—Some few weeks ago a man in the city of St. John, N. B., was compelled to pay heavy damages on account of his dog frightening a horse and causing him to run away and injure the carriage and driver. Some of these days a gentleman who resides in the lower part of your city may be called on to do likewise unless he chain up his canine pet. The said pet is a regular nuisance as he rarely lets a horse pass his owner's house without running at and barking or snapping at him. Yours, DRIVER.

CARD. To the rate payers of the town of Wolfville: LAURENCE and GENTLEMEN.—As I have been nominated for the office of councillor at the approaching civic election, I place myself in your hands. If elected I shall strive to serve you to the best of my ability. The welfare of the town shall ever be my aim. I believe in a thorough organization of the town in all its departments before any other than necessary expenditures is entered upon. With regard to my election I only ask that you do what may seem to you to be for the best interests of the town. Respectfully yours, J. B. DAVISON.

W. P. BLENKHORN, House & Decorative PAINTER. WISHES to inform the General Public that he has again opened business in Wolfville, and by honest work and close attention to business hopes to merit a fair share of public patronage.

Doek Blood Purifier.

Victory after victory in the record of Doek Blood Purifier, which never fails to do good. Read what Mrs. Osborne says about it: From MRS HENRY OUTHOUSE, TIVERTON, N. S.

About three years ago I was sick with consumption, which was brought on by a heavy cold. I employed a doctor who advised me to use emulsions. I did so but they did me no good. I was growing weaker fast—my cough was very bad with night sweats; in fact my parents had given me up as I belong to a consumptive family. Two of my sisters and one brother have already died of that dread disease. As my appetite was very poor, a friend advised me to use Dr Norton's Doek Blood Purifier. I got six bottles, the use of which soon gave me a craving for food. Soon my cough was better and I began to gain in strength. I used twelve bottles of the medicine and by that time had gained forty-four pounds in flesh with good health. I have had no symptoms of any lung trouble since and believe that Dr Norton's Doek Blood Purifier saved my life.

The biggest thaw of the winter occurred at the early part of this week, when without any rain the greater part of our snow, which had been accumulating all winter, disappeared. It is very fortunate that the snow should have gone off in this way as had it gone with a rain, there would have been floods in many places. We have had an unusually cold winter with a large amount of snow, and are now ready for spring which will soon be with us.

A law to prevent the spraying of the blossoms of fruit trees has recently been enacted in the Province of Ontario. It has been found that the blossoms sprayed with Paris green or other poison have been most destructive to the honey-bee, aside from the fact that the presence of the poison in the blossom may result in the presence of poison in the honeycomb. A second serious objection to the prevalent custom is that the poison has been known to present an obstacle to the complete fertilization of fruit.

As noticed last issue, Mr. W. C. Archibald came near losing his residence on Thursday morning. Everything in the room was destroyed however, and Mr. Archibald was fortunate in saving his house. He was insured in the "Manchester," a first-class English company, and Mr. Y. P. King, general agent and adjuster at Truro, came at once and figured up the damage, completely paying for everything destroyed or damaged and arranging to make good any damage to house. J. B.
