As Well as Ever

After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cured of a Serious Disease.

"I was suffering from what is known as Bright's disease for five years, and for days at a time I have been unable to straighten myself up. I was in bed for three weeks; during that time I had leeches applied and derived no benefit. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised in the papers I decided to try a bottle. I found Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient, yet very delicate. Sold by all druggists. 25c."

relief before I had finished taking half of a bottle. I got so much help from taking the first bottle that I decided to try another, and soon after the second bottle I felt as well as ever. I had leeches applied and derived no benefit. Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient, yet very delicate. Sold by all druggists. 25c."

Rev. John S. Vaughan, who has recently been visiting Rome, is a brother of the Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster, and consequently also of the late Mgr. Roger Bede Vaughan, O. S. B., Archbishop of Sydney, Australia, who died suddenly of heart disease when it was thought by many that he would be made a Cardinal. Other brothers are the learned and eloquent Bernard Vaughan, S. J., the Very Rev. Prior Jerome S. Vaughan, and Rev. P. Vaughan, secular priests in the Archdiocese of Westminster. "Father Kenelm" is the name by which he is best known in Rome and in England, and the appellation goes coupled with a reputation for real sanctity—such a sanctity as is a standing confutation of the latter-day error that the saints are with us no more. Men of all creeds and of all thoughts see in him not only the rapist mystic, though he is that in the highest and best sense, but also the zealous propagator of good with new and active methods. Thus the Archconfraternity of Expiation which he has originated—though he modestly disclaims its foundership when speaking of it—bears the impress of a double saintly spirit, the spirit of cloistered piety not less than of missionary piety. Rightly, therefore, Pope Leo saw in it a divination of spiritual needs and means.

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a deliciously flavored beverage which may save us many doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

(Paris and Rome Correspondence of Philadelphia Catholic Times.)

The Sovereign Pontiff has just published an apostolic letter addressed to "our venerable brethren, Peter Lambert Goosen, Cardinal of the Holy Roman Church, Archbishop of Malines, and to the other Belgian bishops." It treats of the social question in Belgium. In it the Pope says that he has been impelled to write the letter by his particular regard for Belgium and by the requests of many persons. The subject is the social question, a difficult one and one which he has already dealt with, applying to it the principles of Christianity. He explores the dissensions which exist with regard to the subject in Belgium, and on this account he recommends a meeting or council of the Belgian bishops, a means, he believes, to a better solution of the question and a regulation of the social difficulties in their respective dioceses. The great boon to be aimed at is unity of thought for which it is necessary that individual Catholics should regard the common good as the chief ideal. After mentioning various Catholic works which may be improved, he bids the bishops use every means in their power to effect unity of spirit. In conclusion he expresses his conviction that his faithful children in Belgium will hearken to his voice and unite against the evils of the day and most of all against socialism. Confident that his words will be received with obedience and will produce a good effect, he gives his blessing to the bishops, clergy and people of Belgium. The letter is dated July 10, 1896.

Rev. John S. Vaughan, who has recently been visiting Rome, is a brother of the Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster, and consequently also of the late Mgr. Roger Bede Vaughan, O. S. B., Archbishop of Sydney, Australia, who died suddenly of heart disease when it was thought by many that he would be made a Cardinal. Other brothers are the learned and eloquent Bernard Vaughan, S. J., the Very Rev. Prior Jerome S. Vaughan, and Rev. P. Vaughan, secular priests in the Archdiocese of Westminster. "Father Kenelm" is the name by which he is best known in Rome and in England, and the appellation goes coupled with a reputation for real sanctity—such a sanctity as is a standing confutation of the latter-day error that the saints are with us no more. Men of all creeds and of all thoughts see in him not only the rapist mystic, though he is that in the highest and best sense, but also the zealous propagator of good with new and active methods. Thus the Archconfraternity of Expiation which he has originated—though he modestly disclaims its foundership when speaking of it—bears the impress of a double saintly spirit, the spirit of cloistered piety not less than of missionary piety. Rightly, therefore, Pope Leo saw in it a divination of spiritual needs and means.

In an interview, regarding the Archconfraternity of Expiation, Father Kenelm Vaughan, among other things, said the central house and church, of the Archconfraternity, in London, were at 25 Beaufort Street, Chelsea. "The spot," said he, "is hallowed, being that of the house and garden of the blessed Thomas More, where he lived and where he entertained the blessed John Fisher, as well as Erasmus and Henry VIII. The old walls are still standing and they enclose our garden. Moreover, we came into possession of it on the very day that the blessed Thomas More and the blessed John Fisher were beheaded in Rome. But we have closer and more real associations with other martyrs. Three of our own members have earned the bright crown, giving up their lives for the faith. They are Garcia Moreno, President of the Christian Republic of Honduras; Archbishop of Obeqa, who was poisoned with strychnine on Good Friday in Quito, and Padre Perez, who was stabbed at Buenos Ayres. In conclusion, I will cite two important testimonies in approval of our work. The first is that of a Holy Jesuit Father at Santiago, in Chile. He called it "the palpitation of the Heart of Jesus Christ for the appeasement of His Father and the conversion of the world." Lastly, our Holy Father Leo XIII. said: "I as Vicar of Jesus Christ bless this work of expiation and believe it to be a direct inspiration from our Lord. The work is pressing. It will go to appease the anger of our Heavenly Father, provoked by the apostasy of peoples and nations, and by removing the obstacles to grace, will prepare the way for the Divine mercy to operate the conversion of the world."

The direction of the new Catholic paper, the Roman Post, has been recently taken in hand by the Very Rev. William Whitmore, S. M., Rector of the Church of San Silvestro Capite. This is quite the best thing that could have happened to it. The paper was begun by some Italian Catholics and some English lady writers, and in the first part of its existence it was proposed to call it the Roman Mail, but one of the ladies was gifted with sufficient foresight to see that it would be nicknamed the Roman Fomula. The staff of the Observatore Romano, which is the most authoritative organ of the Vatican, did not think it should be called the Roman Observer. Finally the present name was resolved upon. The best guarantee of its existence and prosperity—ease and benevolence—is that Father Whitmore should have undertaken the direction. As it is frankly Catholic, the due attainment of its scope will be best secured by its being attached to the centre of English-speaking Catholics in the Eternal City. Father Whitmore is a man of parts and of thoroughly modern energy to boot. He is an Englishman and a convert. After his conversion he entered the Society of Missions founded by the venerable Vincent Pallotti, one of the generals of which was Father Paa di Bruno, author of "Catholic Belief," which holds in England the place which "The Faith of Our Fathers" does in America. Though only middle-aged, Father Whitmore is now procurator-general of the society.

A terrible sacrilege is reported from Roubaix, France. A socialist, Bekas, deliberately knelt at the altar of three churches, St. Eloi, Notre Dame and St. Roch, and received Holy Communion. In each case he removed the sacred host from his tongue and put it into his tobacco pouch. He then went to a cabaret, where he knew he would meet some of his brother socialists, and after boastfully recounting what he had done, sold to them the sacred elements for five francs, a sum he quickly expended in drink. Later in the day he was arrested for being drunk and was committed to prison.

but he was not detained in custody, the news of the sacrilege not yet having reached the ears of the police. Eventually the man and his wife fled from Roubaix. On the facts becoming known, public indignation was intense, and there is no doubt that the original would have been lynched if he had not sought safety in flight. The ceremony of public reparation took place on Sunday, more than ten thousand persons marching in procession. Even the civil authorities paid a mark of public honor and respect by following the Blessed Sacrament. The populace knelt on the pavements of the streets as the Sacred Host passed by. There were no flags or banners, but an immense number of lanterns and torches were carried by workers. The Bishop ordered a general communion in all the churches of the diocese, whilst novenas and tridiums of reparation are being held on every side. The shocking occurrence has profoundly moved the population.

The fact that the subject submitted to the ten concourers for the "Prix de Rome" was a religious one caused some comment in Paris artistic circles, but the result has proven the wisdom of the jury. "The dead Christ, taken down from the cross, is mourned over by the holy women," is a theme familiar enough to painters, but the canvas of M. Laree, the young artist who has gained the prize, proves incontrovertibly that it contains many beauties yet to be revealed. Reverent worship, indelible grief and touching simplicity are the emotions M. Laree has portrayed with masterly skill. The torn and bleeding body of the dead Saviour lies extended on a large winding sheet, whilst murky clouds, sombre hills, a weird landscape and crumbling columns beset the scene that insinuate Creation is smitten with we and disaster. Mary is kneeling by with joined hands, her attitude one of entire prostration, her gaze of unspasmodic anguish. One of the holy women reverently and with profound pity kisses the head of our Lord, whilst Mary Magdalen in her self-abasement but ventures to raise the cloth to her lips. Altogether, the composition is a remarkable one, and I should not be surprised if M. Laree's religious pictures formed a prominent feature in the Paris salon for years to come.

The folly of the French Government in suspending the pension of Mgr. Lydda, former vicar general of Cambrai, may be quickly seen from the immediate success of the popular testimonial got up by the (Droix du Nord and which runs as follows: "Thirty thousand souls olergy and laity. The students gave a creditable display of their vocal and histrionic abilities and in the course of the proceedings a little presentation was made to the Bishop auxiliary who afterwards distributed the prizes and delivered one of his happy and opportune addresses, in the course of which he explained that he took the place of His Grace the Archbishop, who had always evinced a deep interest in the welfare of the institution. The bishop went on to praise in high terms the educational work undertaken so successfully and so ardently by the good sisters of the convent. That work seemed to him to be on a level with the education afforded all denominations in the city of Glasgow, and this he accounted great praise, for he believed that not a single town or city in the kingdom surpassed Glasgow in this respect. (Applause.) Canon Ohschelm moved the customary vote of thanks incidental to the occasion, and an inspection afterwards took place in the conservatory. Sunday, July 20, was a red letter day in the annals of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Edinburgh. The district conferences made suitable preparations for the event, and it was decided to hold special services within the Sacred Heart Church. This was accordingly done on Sunday, when solemn High Mass was celebrated in the forenoon, and a sermon appropriate to the occasion preached by the Rev. Father Lawless, S. J. At 6.30 p. m. a procession of the Blessed Sacrament took place, the various societies mingling in it, and a Te Deum was sung. The Rev. Father Splaine, S. J., preached. On August 19 a demonstration to further mark this auspicious event was to be held, the central feature of which was a public dinner at the Danfermline Abbey.

IRELAND.

The Irish pilgrimage to Lourdes and Montmartre, which is under the direction of Father Ring, O. M. I., and the Association of the Blessed Virgin Mary Immaculate, promises to be very large. Everyone remembers the remarkable success of the former pilgrimage directed and conducted by the same good priest. Two classes of persons will be included: pilgrims who will make the journey to Montmartre only, and associates who, being unable to make the journey, will co-operate by prayers and good works in the furtherance of all the objects of the pilgrimage. Freeman's Journal: Another boat has been completed between Catholic intelligence and Secularist privilege and endowment in the arena of the Royal University. On this occasion the triumph of the former is complete. University College has not only routed the Queen's Colleges of Galway and Cork, and cast further ridicule on their pretensions to the standing of University institutions, but wrested the enviable first position from its formidable and reputable rival, the Queen's College Belfast. The total of the distinctions won in the two University examinations proper by the now renowned College in St. Stephen's Green is 67; the total gained by the Northern College is 57. The other Queen's Colleges lag far behind, and are not even "placed," as the racing men would say. The Belfast College must be cursing the fate that ties it to an association so hurtful to its own proper reputation. Nothing could so well prove the folly and futility of the English policy in dealing with Irish affairs. The Queen's College, Belfast, is suited to the needs and in harmony with the sentiments of the people for whose benefit it was established. So is University College, as far as its limited sources and circumscribed circumstances allow. But the Colleges of Cork and Galway are woful and wasteful failures. The results are too dear at the price the country has to pay for them. They are not worth to a poor country like Ireland the twenty or twenty-five thousand pounds the Government insists on spending upon them.

Speaking at the dedication of a magnificent new hospital—one of the finest in the United States—which the Sisters of Charity have erected in his archiepiscopal city of Portland, Oregon, Archbishop Gros announced that every one was welcome to its wards, whether he were Catholic, Protestant, Hebrew, or what not. He can have," said the Archbishop, "whomever he wants for his minister, even if I have to go after him myself." What an instructive contrast there is between this and the conduct of the authorities of a good many private institutions, who show their love for that "civil and religious liberty" which is so frequently on their lips by denying to their unfortunate Catholic inmates the consolations of their religion!—Casket.

The dastardly work of the A. P. A. in the United States is bearing fruit. A few days ago an attempt was made to burn the Catholic cathedral at Portland, Maine. The true fanaticism of this deed is shown by the fact that the fire was started in three places while the building was packed with people attending the funeral services of a priest—the aim evidently being to create a panic which would result in many persons being trampled to death. Prayer-books were torn to pieces to start the fires, which, happily, were extinguished without panic, though not before much damage was done. At Laurel Ford, in Kentucky, where the demon-inspired association is active, a similar attempt was more successful, and the fine new Catholic church there was in ashes on the morning of August 15. Three crimes against God and man are the direct and inevitable outcome of the anti-Catholic agitation that is being carried on all over the country, and the leading spirits in which are men who call themselves ministers of Christ!—Casket.

One reason why anti-Catholic political movements obtain periodically, is because thousands of preachers, exasperated because they are not the equals of the priests in spiritual power, are continually seeking to overcome the disparity and stir up their congregations to resort to material means—such as the ballot, boycott in business, etc.—to put down a religion with which they cannot cope in the field of thought. For where is there a Protestant pastor who could make all his people fast on Friday, assist at Mass every Sunday morning, confess all their sins, refrain from divorce, forgive their enemies, etc.? Nowhere. If a Catholic will not live up to all the requirements of the faith, living he is practically excommunicated, and dead, unless he has repented before his dissolution, he is even refused burial among Catholics. The preachers note this difference. They see their own impotence as spiritual rulers, that they are the hired servants of their congregations, and that they would not be obeyed if they insisted on complete unity of belief or the persistent practice of self-denial. So first they envy and next they dread the men that speak with authority. Then they seize the first opportunity to preach the Gospel of Hate. From ten thousand pulpits come denunciations of that mysterious power. The cry is taken up by a million men and women, all persuaded that they are doing a service to God when they resist "the domination of Rome." Thus comes the periodic persecuting movement.—Catholic Review.

Mr. Chas. Popham, a zealous Orangeman, writes from Selkirk to the Nor' Wester, protesting against the speeches made and resolutions fraudulently wrung from the Fort Garry Park meeting of July 13th. No opportunity, he says, was given to anyone to vote or speak on the other side. Had such opportunity been given, Major Mulvey knew that the noisy Grits who ran the meeting would have been promptly voted down. Mr. Popham deprecates the Major's sad disloyalty to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. He concludes thus: "Now, before finishing, I would like a few words about the mover of the first resolution, (Leyden) a man whom I am ashamed to have to title as reverend, as I do not think he is a proper man to preach the Gospel of Christ. It was simply disgusting to look at him with the lobbies foaming out of his mouth and his face contorted with a diabolical expression of rabies, while trying to speak to a respectable assembly of Loyal Orange Canadians." Nothing we ever said of the unspeakable Leyden can equal this lurid picture.—Winnipeg N. W. Review.

Fatal Accident on the Miramichi.

A special, dated Saturday last, from Chatham to the St. John Sun, gives the following account of an accident that happened on the Miramichi on that date. "The most serious and terrible accident which has ever occurred on the Miramichi River, and which has caused the death of three persons, took place Saturday evening about 5:50 o'clock a little above Black Brook. Two other persons were seriously injured. Excitement ran high Saturday evening in Chatham when it became known that the Captain of the steamer Miramichi had been taken on the Canada dock to Dr. J. B. Benson and Dr. Baxter to be at the steamer wharf when the steamer arrived. Everyone made a grand rush for the wharf, and excitement was at fever heat when the steamer Miramichi arrived in tow of the steamer St. Andrew. It was then learned that the Miramichi had collided with the Halifax schooner Oceola, 123 tons, Captain Dixon. The schooner was lumber laden and was taking down the river. She was on the starboard tack and her jibboom struck the steamer, which was coming up river on her regular trip, between the wheelhouse and the smoke-stack, scuttling away the latter and sweeping everything on the upper deck. Five lady passengers were swept or jumped overboard. They were Matilda and Rhoda Stewart, daughters of Mrs. Alex. Stewart, Chatham; Amanda and Maggie Lobban, daughters of John Lobban, Chatham, and Miss McLeod, daughter of C. E. McLeod, merchant tailor, Newswest. As soon as possible after the collision the schooner dropped anchor and a crew went to the rescue of the drowning girls in a boat, but could only find Miss Matilda Stewart and Miss McLeod. The former was severely wounded about the head, as well as being about half drowned, while the latter suffered more from the terrible shock and the water than from any bodily injury. The doctors attended the two girls, Miss McLeod being taken to the Aberdeen and Miss Stewart to her mother's home. She is now in a very critical condition. She does not know her sister Rhoda is dead. Her friends are afraid the shock and sad news may prove fatal. Several steamers and boats went to the scene of the accident to grapple for the missing girls, but only succeeded in recovering the body of Rhoda K. Stewart. It was brought to Chatham about 12 o'clock Saturday night and taken to her mother's home. No explanation of the cause of the accident is given by those connected with the steamer Miramichi. Captain Degraas was at supper at the time and the deck hand, William Tait, who was at the wheel, says he did not see the schooner until she struck.

Nearly 2,000 persons attended the Wanderer's electric light sports at Halifax on the 13th. In the five-mile bicycle race Laidlaw broke the Maritime record, covering the distance from scratch in 1:10. Archibald won the five-mile bicycle race, having an eight mile start, but Cameron, a competitor in this event, rode the distance from scratch in 13:56, which also broke the Maritime record. During the evening Harry Davidson, the Toronto flyer, made his appearance on the track and gave two exhibitions with flying start, one of a mile and the other of a quarter mile unpaired. Time 2:13, and 3:1 seconds.

Mrs. GEORGE TAYLOR, Freetown Station, died very suddenly on Friday last. Mr. Taylor is a carpenter, and was away for the day, working at his trade. A younger sister of Mrs. Taylor was staying with her. During the forenoon the sister was away picking berries, and when she came home she found Mrs. Taylor lying across her bed dead. Dr. McNeill, of Kensington, was hastily summoned, and as near as he could tell Mrs. Taylor had expired about two hours before she was discovered. Heart failure was the cause of death.

THE Standard, a Baptist paper, published in Chicago, had this note in a recent issue: "If you do subscribe for the paper you will find a little 'damp' when you take it out of the post-office. It is so important that there is some 'damp' on it." Our Baptist contemporaries are not alone in having subscribers whose papers may be a little 'damp' in consequence of their being some 'damp' on them. We have subscribers on our books whose papers must be not only damp, but wringing wet, in consequence of delinquencies extending over periods of several years.

A TERRIBLE disaster occurred at Deves, Col., shortly after midnight on Sunday last. The boiler in the Gentry Hotel exploded, completely wrecking the large building and passing over it. The fire then broke out doing great damage and cremating many whom the rescuers would have reached. The night was a terrible one. Above the roar of the flames could be heard the shrieks of those pinned in the ruins praying that they might be able to prevent the flames from burning them. Every little while portions of the walls would fall showing the guests and servants in their rooms making frantic efforts to escape. All the hotel records were burned, and the hotel is believed to have contained about seventy people. About twenty are known to have escaped.

THE rain storm which commenced here on Sunday evening, accompanied by lightning and thunder, and which continued the greater part of Monday, was exceptionally heavy. The rainfall registered two and a half inches, and the velocity of the wind at one time on Monday was forty miles an hour. In the city, signs, awnings, trees, etc., suffered to some extent, and considerable damage is reported from different parts of the Province. In the vicinity of Souris fodder corn, oats and potatoes were badly broken down. From Georgetown comes the report that the schooner "Hattie" broke from her moorings and went ashore at Parker's Point, suffering considerable damage. Fences tumbled down in all directions. Apples were great sufferers, many of the trees being almost stripped of their fruit, besides being badly broken.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

At a special meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society, held in the Lyceum on Monday night, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove by death our late brother, John Lafferty, who has been a member of this Society for the past fifteen years, and

Whereas, The deceased has been a faithful and consistent member of our Society, and at all times took a deep interest in its welfare, serving efficiently in whatever position he occupied,

Therefore resolved, That the members of this Society extend to his bereaved widow their heartfelt sympathy, and place on record their sense of the loss they have sustained.

Further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be inscribed on the records of the Society, and that a copy hereof be sent by the Secretary to the widow of our deceased brother, also to the press of the city for publication.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

It is rumored that a British legal expert will attend the trial of the Newfoundland Bank directors on behalf of the English shareholders.

On Wednesday afternoon last, a sad fatality took place in Harwich township, Ontario. Mr. James Liddy was hauling home a load of tile, and his three sons, aged 8, 10, and 12 years, met him, and climbed on the load. The wagon took a lurch to one side, throwing off the load and those riding on it. The three boys were thrown under the load, and the youngest being killed, and the others seriously injured. Mr. Liddy escaped injury.

The house of Wm. Tilley, in Branchville, Ind., was struck by lightning during a storm on Friday night last, and Mr. Tilley, who was in bed, was instantly killed. His wife was badly burned. Mrs. Betsy Tilley, the aged mother of Mr. Tilley, who had been an invalid for a year, and it was thought could not long survive, seemed to have become miraculously strengthened by the shock. Rushing to the garret she extinguished the flames, and then ran for a doctor for the injured wife.

It has transpired that W. H. McDunnough, accountant in the city treasurer's office, Montreal is a defaulter to the extent of $30,000, instead of canceling the bonds that were issued without negotiate them with brokers with whom he had been speculating. Mr. McDunnough is a dying man and will not live a fortnight. His relatives offer the finance committee $10,000, and they will probably cancel the bonds that will never answer for the crime before an earthly court of justice.

The movement of gold from the United States to Europe is again being eagerly snapped up at wages from $25 to $40 per month. The impression is that the local government estimates of twenty-five bushels per acre is under the mark and that the yield will be at least twenty-eight bushels per acre.

Local and Special News. An Exchange puts it in this way and puts it correctly, too. We would not trust a man near a hot house who would enter his paper stopped through a post master when he is in arrears. It is a cowardly way of refusing to pay an honest debt.

A dark philosopher says: "I have noticed that all great men retain in after life the early impressions of childhood. The scar is where later life did not wipe a broomstick."

FATAL RESULT OF DELAY. Sickness generally follows in the path of neglect. Don't be reckless! But prudently follow following exposure to cold. It will save many painful days and sleepless nights.

COUGHS, colds, sore throat, asthma, Bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagar's Pectoral Balsam.

Ayer's pills lead all aperients and purgatives. Their action is gentle and thorough.

VACATION TIME. Is at hand and is gladly welcomed by all, especially those whose duties in life have caused them to greatly run down their system to meet the requirements, physical and mental, forced upon them. With these and other, all of importance, whether at home, at the seashore or in the country, that some thought be given to diet, and as further assistance to Nature's good building-up medicine, like Hood's Sarsaparilla had best be resorted to. If the digestion is poor, liver deranged and frequent headaches seem to be the rule, Hood's will change all this and enable everyone to return to their homes and business in a refreshed state of mind and bodily health.

If the hair is falling out and turning gray, the glands of the skin need stimulation. Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the best remedy and stimulant in Hood's Hair Renewer.

Deadly Cancer Cured by B.B.B. Here is the Proof.

Mrs. T. Milburn & Co. Sirs,—About four months ago I was taken sick with stomach trouble, I consulted several leading local physicians, all of whom pronounced my disease incurable cancer of the stomach, and told me I had not long to live. Two physicians attending me gave me up to Heaven, and I was told to give up. Through reading your advertisement, and by the advice of friends I tried your Burdock Blood Bitters, and I am happy to say that after using one bottle I was able to leave my bed to which I had been confined for a long time; I am thankful now to state that B. B. B. has cured my disease which baffled the doctors and I am amply convinced that B. B. B. saved my life.

Gratefully yours, Elizabeth Gihula, South Buxton, Ont.

N. B.—Mrs. Gihula is the wife of the Post Master at S. Buxton and will gladly answer inquiries.

Why is our store crowded with customers when many other stores are nearly empty? Why are we doing the largest business Just Now in our 21 years experience? Why do hundred of the best dressed ladies on P. E. Island recommend their friends to deal with us? Why are we selling goods so remarkably cheap just now? Why is our store so upset just now? BECAUSE We are having the interior of our store put in excellent shape to receive an immense stock of New Fall Goods. The painters, carpenters and white-washers are hard at work. Every bargain we got this summer we gave our customers the full benefit of—did it pay us? Well, we should say so! Crowds of customers prove the popularity of our store and our bargains. READ THIS.
