JU-JITSU!

Self-Defence!

(Edited by W. Bruce Sutherland, Specialist in Ju-Jitsu.)
Ju-Jitsu is the general name for a system of physical training which was practised in Japan over two thousand years ago. There are certain points of the body where pressure or a slight blow is sufficient to paralyze a nerve centre or even cause death. A knowledge of such facts and how the different holds can be applied are shown in this book. It describes and illustrates over 250 locks, holds, throws, counters and grips, which can be readily learned and easily practised. 120 pages with about 100 illustrations.

That Awful Ache of Lumbago Rubbed Away For All Time

Hoorah! No More Suffering—Every Ache Goes Quick. RUB ON NERVILINE

Lumbago is a peculiar sort of rheumatic trouble that affects the muscles about the loins and back. At times it is agonizingly intense. Severe spasms of pain shoot in all directions, and become more severe on stooping.

In treating lumbago or stiff in the back, it is necessary to keep warmly covered to prevent a sudden chill. Attend to this, and then apply Nerviline freely.

Almost instantly you feel its warm soothing action. Right through the cords and muscles the healing power of Nerviline penetrates.

Quick as a wink you feel the stiffness lessening. You realize that a powerful pain-subduing remedy is at hand.

ing the pain, is easing your distress, is making you well again. Nerviline quickly cures backache and lumbago because it has the strength, the power and penetrating force possessed by no other known remedy. Its amazing curative action is due to certain extracts and juices of rare herbs and roots, combined by a secret process, and forming a truly magical medical marvel. Any sort of aches in the muscles and joints Nerviline will cure quickly. It acts the pain right up—relieves stiffness, restores the muscles to their wonted elasticity and vigor. It's the quickest thing imaginable for rheumatism, sciatica or neuralgia. As for earache, toothache, sprains, or strains, nothing can excel good old Nerviline.

CHAPTER IX. The New Companion.

"Thank you!" she exclaimed; "then I'll come." "Well, you are here now," said Norah, with a smile, "and if you like, you may stay. Oh, but," she broke off, as if she had suddenly remembered, "I must ask the earl. You wait here until I come back. You can look at the book I was reading, if you like."

Becca took it, and Norah opened the door. She found Harman waiting on the stairs.

"Well, my lady, will she do?" she asked, anxiously. "Oh, yes," said Norah, with a smile; "I am sure she shall get on very well together. Please don't go in to her. I have given her a book to read, while I go down and ask the earl if she may stay."

Becca turned over two or three pages of Mrs. Browning and read a line or two; then she looked round the room with the book still in her hand.

Presently the girl got up, and stealing on tiptoe to the next room, opened the wardrobe and looked at the dresses.

They were so few as to be soon exhausted, and still on tiptoe, as if she feared some one might hear her, she went to the dressing-table, parted and arranged the coils of her black hair, and surveyed herself critically, and yet complacently, in the glass.

There were one or two knock-knocks of Norah's lying on the table—a ring and a small watch chain—and Becca slipped the ring on her finger and hooked the Albert in her dress, and surveyed them in the glass.

Then her black eyes wandered about for something else to examine and try on.

A small box caught her attention, and she took it up and tried to open it.

It was either locked, or shut with a spring, but she managed to open it with the aid of a hairpin. There did not appear to be much in it to reward her curiosity, for it contained only a lock of hair inclosed in a scrap of paper, on which was written, "My dear mother's."

It was fair, silken hair, and Becca compared it with her own raven locks with a smile of satisfaction. In addition to the lock of hair, there was a photograph—a carte—of a woman's face, and Becca at once concluded that it was a portrait of the countess, Norah's mother, but, turning it over, she saw written on the back, "Dear Catherine."

She was looking at the portrait, and wondering whose it was, when the dressing bell rang, and she heard the handle of the door turn.

She had put the lock of hair back in the box, but there was no time to return the photograph, and as she ran swiftly into the next room and dropped onto the ottoman she slipped the portrait into her pocket.

CHAPTER X. A Love Match.

Norah ran downstairs, leaving the inquisitive Becca, to ask the earl if she Incandescent Gas Lighting.

The remarkable economy of the incandescent gas lamp is by no means either its chief—or even an important—claim for popularity. It meets better than any other source of artificial light the requirements of ideal light.

In the color of the light produced it is far superior to any other illuminant in general and universal use. The investigations of acknowledged authorities indicate that for the approximation of artificial daylight the gas mantle has at least one and one-half times the value of the carbon-filament electric lamp.

This quality is highly desirable, indeed absolutely essential where the approximation of daylight color values is important. For lighting shops, displaying haberdashery, suitings, gowns, millinery, etc., the incandescent gas lamp is not even remotely approached by any other incandescent lamp.

Of all the manifold advantages of gas light, perhaps the most important is its favorable effect upon the eyes. The development of the incandescent electric lamp with its intense brilliant and glaring filament has been accompanied by hitherto unheard-of prevalence of eye troubles and diseases which are forcing themselves upon the attention of the medical fraternity. This is resulting in a greater appreciation of the soft mellow quality of gas light and its rapidly enlarging its field of use.—July 23, 1900

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynn Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the Change of Life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."

—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2612 E. O Street, Richmond, Va. While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headache, backache, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness.

For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ourselves, dear," she said. "Suppose we begin at once?"

Norah smiled at the quaint directness of the speech.

"But we can't, while the earl sits there listening, can we?"

The earl rose promptly. "I take my dismissal," he said blandly.

"No, don't go; I've thought of another way, as the cookery books say. I wonder whether you would care to come back with me to dinner. Will you, Lord Arrowsdale?"

The earl conveyed a courteous negative by a wave of his hand.

"I am sure you do not want me," he said. "But if you will confine your invitation to Norah—"

"That's just what I want!" remarked Lady Ferndale, with her refreshing candor. "I want to have her all to myself. Will you come, my dear? My ponies are at the door, and we will neither of us dress, as I glanced at Norah's dress approvingly, and, in deed, I don't think you have anything prettier than that frock!"

"I shall be very glad to come," Lady Ferndale, said Norah.

"Then run away and put on your hat, and we'll start at once," said Lady Ferndale. Then, as Norah left the room, she turned to the earl with an exclamation of surprise and admiration. "Gracious, what a beautiful figure! I don't wonder at Ferndale's raptures! What a happy man you must be to have such a sweet creature for a daughter!"

The earl bowed, but without any enthusiasm.

"I am gratified by your approval of her, Lady Ferndale," he said.

"Approval!" she exclaimed; "that isn't the word. I'm in love with her at first sight. Why, she will be a tremendous success and set the county aglow. How can you possibly have neglected her from you so long. I can't think."

The earl's face grew momentarily hard and cold, and Lady Ferndale hastened to add:

"However, wherever she has been, she has been well trained and cared for. That little air of repose and dignity she has is simply fascinating. I suppose she gets her manner from you?"

The earl smiled, and waved the compliment aside gracefully.

"I have not yet had time to criticize her," he said, "but I am delighted that you should see anything to admire in her."

Incandescent Gas Lighting. The remarkable economy of the incandescent gas lamp is by no means either its chief—or even an important—claim for popularity. It meets better than any other source of artificial light the requirements of ideal light.

her. For my part, I thought her— he paused a moment, "unlike any member of my family."

Lady Ferndale reflected for a moment, her head on one side; then she responded with startling candor:

"Yes, so she is, quite unlike, when I come to think of it; she is so much more beautiful than any of the Arrowsdales."

The earl smiled grimly. "Thank you for us and for her," he said.

Lady Ferndale did not appear at all embarrassed.

"Well," she responded, "that hair of hers, and her eyes are simply wonderful, and I'm sure you have nothing in the picture gallery to equal them."

"You are quite right," he assented, coldly; "we have not."

"Very well, then!" she exclaimed, triumphantly.

As she spoke, Norah re-entered the room, and Lady Ferndale rose with the alacrity of a young woman.

"Come along, my dear," she said. "You have just come in time to prevent your father and me from quarrelling. Never mind what it was about. We generally manage to quarrel over something, don't we, Lord Arrowsdale?"

The earl smiled, as if the idea were too absurd.

To quarrel with Lady Ferndale one must be an utter barbarian!" he responded, readily.

Lady Ferndale drew Norah's arm within hers, and they went into the hall. A carriage of an old-fashioned and remarkably comfortable appearance, stood at the step, and the sight of it seemed to remind Lady Ferndale of Norah's return.

"I'll send her back in a closed carriage," she said. "By the way, my child, I think you ought to have something warmer on, the nights are chilly."

Harman, who was standing at a little distance waiting to attend the ladies, quietly to some one on the stairs above her, and presently Becca came down with a soft Highland shawl.

"The very thing," said Lady Ferndale, and she looked hard at Becca as she followed with Harman and arranged the light rug over the ladies' knees.

Norah bent forward.

"I have not asked my father yet, Becca," she said, "but I am sure, you may stay."

Becca, with the photograph in her pocket, dropped a half curtsy, and with a wave of the hand and a bow from the earl, the pair of ponies started.

"Wasn't that Rebecca South who came with your shawl, my dear?" asked Lady Ferndale, as she skillfully kept the high-mettled ponies in hand.

"Yes," said Norah.

"I didn't know she was in service with you."

"Well, she scarcely is," said Norah, and she explained the circumstances. Lady Ferndale looked thoughtful.

"I hope she will be a good girl," she said. "I know she is very clever and quick, but—" she hesitated. "I'm afraid you'll find her rather giddy and wilful."

Norah laughed slightly.

"Oh, I think she will be good," she said. "She seems reserved and shy at present."

Thrown by Chargers. Napoleon's favorite charger, Marengo, whose skeleton is preserved in the museum of the Royal United Service Institution, threw his master on two occasions; once so heavily that the Emperor remained unconscious for nearly an hour. King George's ancestor, William the Third, met his death from a fall from his horse. The animal, an one-eyed steed, stumbled over a mole-hill with fatal results to its rider. Afterwards the Jacobites tried to toast "Master One-Eye" (that being the horse) and the Little Gentleman in Velvet, (that being his mole). William I, too, though not unseated, came by his death through his horse stumbling over some hot coals at the siege of Nantes. King George II. had a narrow escape from death at the Battle of Gettysburg, through his horse falling with him, and partly upon him.

Anxious Dreams Ended.

Germany's Plan to Overrun Black Continent is Squelched.

What will be the ultimate fate of the German colonies which have fallen into the hands of the Allies? It seems likely that they will go to the allied colonies which "march" to their borders. But, however, that may be, there will be none of the Allied powers interested in colonial development—and none has so great an interest as Great Britain—that will not rejoice at the removal from Africa of the menacing and trouble-making power which, for a quarter of a century, has been sowing dissension and promoting hostility between the other nations in colonial matters. In almost every rising, and certainly in every war, which Great Britain has had on her hands in that period in South Africa, the German hand can be traced.

It was Germany which blocked the way to the fulfilment of the dearest desire and the most earnest expectation of Cecil Rhodes. German ships and German subsidies were drawing the trade of the coasts into German hands with marvelous rapidity. Into practically every department of trade in South Africa German interests were worming their way. From the military point of view, however, the East African campaign is highly instructive, inasmuch as it has shown what a small native army, organized on European lines, can do.

I was reading the other day a very interesting article by Edgar Wallace, the military expert, on German schemes and dreams about the Dark Continent. To-day we can gratefully recognize how, with the falling of the German colonies into the Allies' hands all the dreams of a Greater Imperial Germany have evaporated. But as to how near they were at one time to becoming actualities we get a hint from Mr. Wallace.

"Eight years ago," he says, "I had the outlines of Germany's colonial plans sketched to me by the captain of a German steamer which was carrying me from port to port along the west coast. It included the raising of a native army in Africa, which should be the native counterpart of the German army in Europe. It was intended to establish a standing army of 150,000 in East Africa, with reserves and auxiliary services fashioned upon the best Prussian model. It is a fact, by the way, that the model most closely adhered to by successive commanders in East Africa was the British, and that the first native forces raised in that region were armed, equipped, and organized on the lines of our own native African battalions. A black Prussian army and a strong navy would have given the German first choice of colonies in Africa. There is a greater tragedy of frustrated ambition in the passing of German East Africa than most people realize."

Brittan Has Accomplished

Prominent New York Lawyer Tells of His Visit to the Battlefield of the Somme and of the Heroic Deeds of the British Soldiers.

New York, Oct. 31.—Francis Couderc, international lawyer, returned to-day on board the steamer Nordam of the Holland-America Line, said he had witnessed the part of the battle of Thiepval, the Somme as the guest of General "When the British guns went with that place and Couderc said Mr. Couderc, "they were with the ground. There was no house left standing. The trees actually deleted, and the German oners with whom I spoke of that the British fire had been ably hellish. The Cure of Couderc told me that he had in view for some trace of his children before that the Germans had to the places so strongly that he admitted that Thiepval was one of the strongest fortifications in Europe."

What British Accomplished

"What the British have accomplished in two years is simply marvellous. They afford a splendid lesson to the United States as to what can be done in organization within so short a time. Never in the history of the world has there been such a complete and thorough re-organization of their armaments, their aeroplanes, artillery and aviation, and of the numbers of men. They have a million and a half soldiers in France, and millions more under training in England."

"The soldiers are well fed and well taken care of as if they were at home. I saw Canadian soldiers front chewing gum during the engagement. They have every desire."

German Well Treated

"The German prisoners are themselves as highly pleased as their lot. They told me that they were afraid to surrender to British because the report was spread among them that they only taken to be slaughtered. The letters being arriving home from prisoners, telling of the treatment the English were giving them, they became less reluctant."

Britian Has Accomplished Marvels

Prominent New York Lawyer Tells of His Visit to the Battlefield—Canadian Soldiers Cool in Action—Frederick B. Couderc, Who Witnessed the Last Part of the Battle of Thiepval, Says the British Guns caused Great Havoc.

New York, Oct. 31.—Frederick B. Couderc, international lawyer, who returned to-day on board the steamship Noordam of the Holland-American Line, said he had witnessed the last part of the battle of Thiepval on the Somme as the guest of General Haig.

"When the British guns were through with that place and Contalmaison," said Mr. Couderc, "they were level with the ground. There was not a house left standing. The towns were actually leveled, and the German prisoners with whom I spoke told me that the British fire had been irresistibly hellish. The Cure of Contalmaison told me that he had in vain sought for some trace of his church. And before that the Germans had fortified the places so strongly that it was admitted that Thiepval was one of the strongest fortifications in Europe.

What British Accomplished.

"What the British have accomplished in two years is simply miraculous. They afford a splendid lesson to the United States as to what can be done in organization within so short a time. Never in the history of the world has there been such speedy and marvellously complete organization as theirs. That is especially true of their aeroplanes, artillery and ammunition, and of the numbers of men. They have a million and a half soldiers in France, and three millions more under training in England.

"The soldiers are well fed and as well taken care of as if they were at home. I saw Canadian soldiers at the front chewing gum during the engagement. They have everything they desire.

Germans Well Treated.

"The German prisoners expressed themselves as highly pleased with their lot. They told me that at first they were afraid to surrender to the British because the report had been spread among them that they were only taken to be slaughtered, but when letters began arriving home from the prisoners, telling of the splendid treatment the English were according them, they became less reluctant to surrender, and now they appear to be even anxious for a consummation so devoutly to be wished. They certainly are better fed by their British captors than they are when fighting for the Kaiser."

Mr. Couderc said he met Frank A. Munsey at the front. He, too, was there a guest of General Haig.

Beneath the Channel.

(From the Boston Transcript.)

The statesmen of England have at last given up the foolish notion, which is comparable to their adherence to a medieval system of currency, to a senate of aristocratic nobodies and a good many other exploded notions, that a tunnel under the Channel would expose them to continental invasion.

"A snug little island—a right little, right little island." That was Britain in the days when only the winds of heaven could move a ship to her shores. A tunnel under the Channel, with a possible Bonaparte sitting at the other end of it, represented to the average Englishman in the light of the key to your front door which you might obligingly leave under the door mat convenient to the burglar's hand. But the war has opened the nation's eyes to the fact that rigid insularity, in the day of steam and electric power, and also in the day when England's first line of defence has turned out to be the frontiers of Holland and Belgium, is a liability instead of an asset. If there had been a tunnel to Calais on the first day of August, 1914, and if England had been already fully awake to the German plan of advance through Belgium, Britain might have concentrated such a force in that country, within two weeks of the declaration of war, that the Germans would never have been able to cross the Meuses. This, or something like it, the British realize now, and the Government is prepared to bring in a measure for the construction of a tunnel under the Channel to cost eighty million dollars. The world, as well as Britain and France, will benefit by this enterprise. It will be a type of the weakening of the spirit of insularity the world over.

French Praise For British Army

Le Matin (Paris).—The truth is that the military character of this army increases with every battle, and it would be foolish to consider the British Army of to-day, after the battles they have won, as merely a formidable troop of athletes and sportsmen. In France there are more than a million British soldiers, and since the month of July they have used up thirty-two German divisions. A German division is worn out after eighteen days' contact with them. The British soldier possesses the happy quality of being able to admire without envying; he observes friend and foe alike, in order to equal them and, if possible, to surpass them. A French liaison officer once said to me: "All through the Battle of Verdun the British Army was on needles. It knew that some people in France were wont to exclaim with a shade of impatience, 'But what are the British doing?' You paid a visit to Sir Douglas Haig about that time. You know that he was impatient to act. 'All his soldiers shared his eagerness, and when the British offensive began, we French officers could not enter one of their trenches' without being asked, 'Has our advance helped Verdun?'"

THE WOODEN CULVERT.

The wooden culvert is something which is placed in the public highway so that people can tell when they reach it. It is one of the most sublime creations of man, showing great fertility of mind and an entire disregard for human life and front springs.

Nearly all of the wooden culverts now in use were built shortly after the war of 1812 and have been affected by the weather to quite an extent. It has been found a good deal cheaper to rebuild these culverts every six months than to construct one out of cement. The cement culvert is a less piece of extravagance and deprives a large number of conscientious taxpayers of work during the dull months, which explains why there are so many wooden imitations scattered hither and yon over our country roads, causing the engrossed tourist to rise from his seat and soar through a pantaloone top.

The wooden culvert is usually constructed so that it stands about two feet above sea-level at one end, with a four-kilometer pitch off at the other. This is done in order to provide drainage and prevent the speed maniac from dying a peaceful death at home. When an automobile, which is being enthusiastically stepped on from the front seat, strikes one of these approaches, the result is disheartening to everybody but the undertaker.

Many a new, elastic touring car has looped the loop over one of these culverts and landed in the next township half a mile ahead of the occupants.

In some parts of the country great ingenuity is shown in locating a wooden culvert on the brink of a twenty-foot gully, with nothing to protect the tourist but a sharp, reverse curve. This makes it possible for every driver to take his choice between having his spine telescoped by hitting the culvert in the stomach or landing in the gully with the windshield hung around his neck.

Built shortly after the War of 1812, and affected by the weather to quite an extent.

It will be a happy day for all concerned if the time ever arrives when the wooden culvert has the same standing in society as the man who blows in his soup.

Forecast of the Presidential Vote.

In an analysis of the electoral situation across the border, The Chicago Tribune publishes a table giving the probabilities in the several States. According to this Republican paper, Hughes will poll 210 out of the 531 votes in the Electoral College. Wilson can count upon 149 safe votes, while the remaining 172 votes are uncertain. The winning candidate must have 256 votes.

Hughes, it is asserted, can claim the following States, giving a total vote of 210: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Washington, Oregon, California. The Wilson party, it is said, has a safe majority vote in the following States: Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Texas. The doubtful States are: New York, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Montana, Wisconsin, Nevada.

The Real Friend In a Large Bottle.

The greatest friend to sick people is the one that helps them toward health. But nearly every human friend had heretofore suggested a different means of regaining lost health due to nervousness, overwork, debility and worry. Now there are dozens of friends right here in your own town who will agree that the best friend to their health is Zoetic—the health tonic. This already famous remedy for "nerves" and their consequent ailments is a combination of glycerophosphates—the actual elements of the human body—with Cod Liver Oil and delicious tonic wine. A short two weeks of faithful trial will put you fair and square upon the path of bounding health. We know this so absolutely that if you cannot report real progress at the end of that time we will refund the purchase price. You who suffer and suffer and suffer should not delay beyond to-day. Sold by T. McMurdo & Co., Sole Distributing Agents for Newfoundland.

117 of the uncertain votes; Hughes requires only 56. The Tribune believes that Hughes has the odds in his favor. It estimates that in the uncertain States—namely, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Missouri—Hughes will obtain sufficient votes to carry him into office. Election prophets are proverbially unreliable, but it will be interesting to watch how far The Tribune forecast is borne out by the actual returns a fortnight hence.—Toronto Globe.

Didn't Know Which.

A story is going the rounds about a local jurymen, an Irishman who cleverly outwitted a judge, and that without lying. He came breathlessly into court, saying, "Oh, my lord, if you can excuse me, pray do. I do not know which will die first, my wife or my daughter."

"Dear me, that's sad," said the innocent judge. Certainly you are excused."

The next day the jurymen was met by a friend who asked: "How's your wife?"

"She's all right, thank you."

"And your daughter?"

"She's all right, too. Why do you ask?"

"Why yesterday you said you did not know which would die first."

"Nor do I. That is a problem which time alone can solve."

ASK FOR MINARD'S LINIMENT AND TAKE NO OTHER.

Movies Restore Memory.

Mind was Blank and Physicians Powerless to Aid Him.

Seattle, Nov. 1.—A motion picture show in Port Townsend, accomplished for Max Rockower, a twenty-six-year-old deckhand on the steamer Rapid Transit, what physicians in Seattle were unable to do. It restored his memory. Rockower, with his overjoyed mother, reached Seattle in splendid physical and mental condition.

For two weeks young Rockower had been in the United States marine hospital at Port Townsend in a dazed condition from the effects of a blow on the head received in a mysterious row in Seattle. The blow fractured Rockower's skull.

He was brought to the city hospital where his skull was trepanned, and failing to recover his mind he was sent to the United States marine hospital at Port Townsend for medical attention.

Upon arrival his mind was a blank. He displayed the simplicity of a child, requiring the constant attention of nurses. His aged mother, who resides in Calgary, was notified and lost no time in reaching her son. Upon her arrival at the hospital Rockower failed to recognize her.

Mother and son visited a moving picture show Saturday. When a scene depicting a boy being struck in the head with a hammer was shown on the screen young Rockower immediately placed his hand on his head exclaiming: "Somebody hit me." He then turned to his mother, asking her how she happened to be with him and also where they were.

When he returned to the hospital with his mother he failed to recognize the nurse or those who had been in close contact with him, day and night since he was placed in that institution, showing every indication that the cloud which had obscured his mind had vanished.

Food Prices and Freights.

With the approach of a third war-winter the colony faces, in the shortage of shipping, high freights and greatly advanced food prices, a very serious situation indeed. It is not the first time it has done this, but there are only too plain indications that in the present instance similar conditions elsewhere will conspire to aggravate the hardships that the country is beginning to experience. It is impossible to ignore this, or the complaints that are voiced on every side; and the fact that many of them are not reasonable is no argument against those that are. The whole situation needs to be considered carefully and such action as is deemed necessary (and some action is imperative) taken promptly and with firmness.

The first object of any such inquiry should be to distinguish between causes that are external and unavoidable and causes that are local and amenable to regulation. Thus the primary explanation of the extreme prices of food and other commodities is of course to be found in their advance everywhere else, which is in turn due to the abnormal conditions that prevail—the shortage of labour, lack of tonnage, congestion on railroads, diversion of trade into new and strange channels, and a dozen other things. To take an example, coal costs to-day $12 a ton even in New York, while we believe flour, about which there is so much agitation, is being sold here at less than it would cost to replace it at the time of the sale. Yet even this fact, in the latter case, does not remove the other fact, and certainly does not explain it, that very high profits are being made on flour at the expense of the consumer. The argument, so often advanced, that the dealer is entitled to this profit because he runs the risk of a corresponding loss, is no justification, and merely reveals how thoroughly speculative the whole business is. Certainly at present such a risk is almost non-existent, for there is every chance in the world that the price will continue to soar. And what applies to flour would seem to apply with even greater cogency to other commodities such as beef and pork.

If a commission were appointed to inquire into these matters, or if any other method were adopted, and the result was shown to be that no local manipulation of agency were responsible, the discovery alone would be valuable and worth the effort; but we are convinced that such would not be the result. There has been a demand for action by the Government; those that make it might as well save their breath. True, we have some excellent provisions on the statute book in the shape of War Measures Acts, but it is not to be supposed that they were ever intended to be enforced. If other considerations are not enough to persuade any one of this, the absence, so characteristic of our acts, of the provision of any machinery for their enforcement will do so. But that the problem can be handled, and the way in which it can be done, is proved by the solution last year of the coal difficulty. In this connection, it is interesting to note that the Canadian Government is very much alive to the exigencies of the times and evidently considers that their treatment falls properly within the province of the different municipalities. The following, from the Sydney Daily News, might contain a hint for us:—

It is announced that the Dominion Government will confer extensive authority on municipalities to enable them to deal with the problem of the enhanced cost of living. Such authority will include the power to investigate local conditions relative to the cost of living and to institute prosecutions in all cases where prices are unreasonably advanced. The government will also investigate cold storage conditions to ascertain whether supplies are being hoarded with a view to the inflation of prices. It is the announced policy of the government to eliminate thoroughly corners and combines as elements in the increasing cost of the necessities of life. This policy is to go into effect immediately, and will not be deferred till Parliament meets.

Coincidentally with the advance of food prices we are met with a rise of freight rates that seems beyond reason and without any justification. The action of the Reid Newfoundland Co. in raising its charges so enormously may possibly be due to necessities of its own, but if so, we should be glad to know what they are. It looks more like an attempt to make the most out of a situation unfortunate to everyone but ship and railroad owners. If this Company operated independently and freely we should not criticise it, but it does so under contract with the Government, which is to say with the people. If the terms of that contract permit this action, the other contracting party can, and will, insist on its own rights and the rigorous performance of every one of those terms. The Reid Newfoundland Company, moreover, like many other concerns, has made great profits out of the sale of ships to the need of which the greater part of the present distressing situation is due. Thus not merely is the country deprived of the best means of transport, one of the most important subjects of its armament with the Company, and not merely is that deprivation made a source of profit to the Company, but the country is now further mulcted as a direct result of the previous mulctings. The answer to every protest in this particular matter has been that the needs of the Allies override everything else. That may be true, but the needs of the Allies should not be the means of turning the loss of the colony into a profit for individuals. If nothing else can be done, the lead of Britain can be followed and the glaring omission of a War Profits Act, among the very first of the extraordinary measures that should have been adopted, repaired as soon as the legislature is convened. If it is one of the most obvious and efficient methods of preventing the needs and privations of a nation being exploited for the benefit of a few individuals and corporations.

We are asked to state that Mr. J. Fearon, Principal of the Halifax School for the Deaf, would be grateful if doctors, clergy or teachers would let him know the addresses of the parents of any deaf children who may be living in their neighbourhood. This includes any children so hard of hearing that they cannot take full advantage of the teaching in the ordinary schools. We feel sure that this generous inquiry will elicit the response it deserves. The school for the Deaf is perhaps not so well known here as that for the Blind, but the invaluable benefit which many Newfoundlanders have been able to derive from the latter will induce all who can to avail of this offer from the sister institution. We advise every parent whose child is seriously handicapped by deafness to communicate with Mr. Fearon.

Mysterious Drowning

Of Alex. Bryden, Insurance Agent—Body Found in Bay Bulls Harbor this Morning.

The body of Mr. Alexander Bryden, Agent for the Sun Life Insurance Co., in this city, was found in Bay Bulls Harbor this morning. It is supposed that he met his death through accidental drowning. The circumstances surrounding the affair are somewhat mysterious. So far as is known at present Mr. Bryden left town by Saturday evening's train in company with Dr. Smith for Bay Bulls on business and put up at the Sea View Hotel. He retired at midnight and got up at 8 a.m. Sunday and had breakfast an hour later with other guests at the Hotel. He left there unaccompanied about 9.30 presumably to visit the large fish plant now in course of erection for the Nfld. American Fish Packing Company. He was last seen at noon yesterday by an employee of the plant named James Morrissey, although another workman of the plant heard a noise between 5 and 6 o'clock last evening. The noise sounded like the cries of some boys and he did not pay any attention to it. Mr. Bryden was returning to the Hotel to dinner on Saturday yesterday, his friends naturally became anxious about him and sought his whereabouts, but without avail. This morning about 9.30 a fisherman named John Coady saw the form of a man lying in the land-wash. He became frightened and was afraid to go near it so he went and reported what he had seen to Constable Fahey. The latter, as well as Dr. Smith, Messrs. J. Clouston, W. J. Ellis and others of the fish plant went with Coady to the seashore and found the body of a man which they identified as that of Mr. Alex. Bryden. The exact theory is so far as can be ascertained, that Mr. Bryden, while crossing the main bridge at the bottom of Bay Bulls Harbor fell over and was drowned. The belief is also strongly expressed that the drowning happened early in the afternoon and the body was carried in on the beach with the tide. It did not show any signs of violence, there being only two scratches on his face when found. The remains were wrapped in a sail by Const. Fahey and brought to town at noon and on arrival were put in a casket by Undertaker Clouston. The remains were to await a post mortem examination. Deceased was about 50 years of age, during 20 of which he was a most successful insurance agent. He is survived by a sister who will have the sympathy of the community in her bereavement.

Flowers From the Graves of Newfoundlanders.

On exhibition in the window of Mr. W. H. Jackman's store, on Water St. West, are a number of trophies captured from the Germans on the Western front and also a bouquet of flowers taken from the graves of Newfoundlanders "Somewhere in France." The flowers are the emblems of purity, French lilies, and are supposed to have been placed on the graves by the noble women of France, who in their great sorrow feel for the mothers of our brave boys who have answered the final call. The trophies and flowers were collected by the Rev. Father Nangle, Chaplain of the 101st Field Ambulance Brigade. The former consist of a piece of a German air bomb which killed an Australian who was afterwards buried by Captain Nangle, this being the young Chaplain's first experience in war; a German shrapnel bullet which glanced off the steel helmet of the gallant Captain; and a German helmet taken from a dead Hun, showing where two bullets entered the crown, and bearing on the inside the B A K 1915; which indicates that the dead Hun belonged to the 1915 class.

Reconstruction, of course! When the great war is over, shattered Europe must be rebuilt. Mediaeval architecture, crumbled by cannon, will be replaced by well-lighted, well-ventilated, convenient and sanitary buildings of the present day. In this tremendous rebuilding, will play a leading role; for CERTAIN-TEED is the twentieth century answer to the demand for roofing that is economical to buy, easy to lay and inexpensive to maintain.

Certain-teed Roofing

CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is made in rolls; also in slate-surfaced shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roof, from the largest sky-scraper down to the smallest residence or out-building.

It makes a clean, sanitary, attractive roof, with a very low cost per year of life. It is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). Experience proves that it outlasts the period of guarantee.

If you are interested in roofs, investigate CERTAIN-TEED before you decide upon the type to buy. You will find CERTAIN-TEED for sale by responsible dealers all over the world.

The long life of CERTAIN-TEED is due to the quality of the roofing felt and the character of the asphalt saturation. This is a blend of soft asphalt prepared by the General's board of expert chemists. The highest quality roofing felt is thoroughly saturated with this soft blend, and is then coated with a blend of harder asphalt, which prevents the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing.

After each person present had expressed his opinion it was decided that one of the bands parade through the city each night, halting at one of the coves where one of the members of the Recruiting Committee would give a patriotic address. Those offering their services would be enlisted at a station to be erected on the vacant property in front of the Court House on Water Street. The plan will shortly be put in force and may later be adopted in the outports.

SLEMP IN READING.

We haven't time for magazines, nor patience for romances, for touring cars and limousines have altered circumstances. We used to sit before the fire, and read the story papers, the genres who punge his hounding lyrics, and all that bunch of fellers. We read up Homer, Milton, Bill—old Bill, the Bard of Avon, and strained our intellects until we had to rub some salve on. The bookstores got our extra change, when we went forth shopping; but now, alas—'tis sad and strange—old customs we are dropping. Ere I went duff on gasoline, and tires and clutch and starter, I bought the works of Anna Green and Bertha Clay and Carter. I read all kinds of helpful tomes, I read the tales of Sherlock Holmes, and stored my mind with knowledge. But now my books have vanished clean with all their buckram facings; they had to go for gasoline and inner tubes and castings. I gave John Milton for a tire, and Pope to fix a puncture; I go to soak my priceless lyre, to buy gas, at this juncture.

Rod and Gun.

November Rod and Gun contains a list of good things for the Sportsman reader. "Budd" by Jean Stevinson, tells of a narrow escape from a pack of pursuing wolves. "Moose Meat for Morrison's Mine" describes an adventure with a too zealous informer. "Highways of the North" pictures the beauties of some of our most northern rivers and describes their methods of transportation. "Hunting Big Game in the Selkirk" is a story of billy goats and bear in B. C. "Bear Hunting Where Old Louis Lives" is a tale of Northern Quebec. "The Creech in 'The Barn'" is a story of the adventures of a weasel family. There are besides other stories and articles just as interesting as those mentioned, and in addition the regular departments. The magazine is published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont. and is a worthy exponent of Canadian outdoor life.

Early Shopping.

If compliance with the wishes of the Importers' Association, the majority of the general public, we hear, who had any shopping to do, visited the stores early on Saturday. The result was that the various business houses did as much, if not more, trade than under the old system, besides the clerks did not get their usual Saturday night jading, to avoid the rush system suits all concerned best.

"Pastor" Russel, Brooklyn, Dead.

Unique Figure Among the Ministers of All Creeds And Sects.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 1.—"Pastor" Charles T. Russell who died yesterday in Texas on a train that was bringing him back to his work in New York, stood for more than a quarter of a century an unique figure among the ministers of all creeds and sects. He belonged to no denomination and attracted widespread attention through his varied activities and methods of publicity. He was pastor of churches all over the country and travelled nearly 20,000 miles each year in pursuance of his duties; but made his headquarters at his Tabernacle in Brooklyn. He always disclaimed being the founder of a new religion and said he based his preachings only on the Bible. In 1915 his sermons were printed in 1900 newspapers throughout the country. He was the author of a series of books on Scripture study of which it was said several hundred thousand copies were printed each year. Pastor Russell started his career as manager of a chain of furnishing stores in Allegheny, Pa., but in 1878 he left this business and began to preach. He was president of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society of Pennsylvania, the International Bible Students' Association of London and the People's Pulpit Association of New York and editor of the Watch Tower and Herald a semi-monthly journal.

Dynamite on Board.

Showing Off Her Discipline.

By RUTH CAMERON.

MEG MCMACK

Why should children be taught to obey their parents? So that their parents can enjoy the feeling of authority and show off their discipline? Or so that the children can be brought into harmony with people about them, and kept from harming themselves or interfering with the rights of others?

The answer would seem clear. And yet one frequently meets apparently intelligent and well-bred women who justify the second sentence in the above paragraph.

Just When Everyone Was Looking At Him.

I was the witness the other day of a little scene which made me feel very strongly on the subject. We were having an athletic meet at our summer colony. There was a lull in the swimming races and all the spectators were hanging over the railing of the bridge, idly watching the float. A small boy of perhaps ten or twelve had just dived off after somebody's straw hat. As he stood there, shaking the water off, the focus of all eyes, a woman some distance away called to him in a determinedly sweet but exasperatingly domineering manner: "Richard, don't go in the water again!"

Every one heard her. The small boy looked as embarrassed as he felt.

The First Time He Had Been In.

"Why, Mother," he protested, "that's the first time I've been in this afternoon."

"Never mind, don't go in again. Mother doesn't want you, to," she said, with that same self-satisfied sweetness. "Put your sweater on." The small boy looked still more embarrassed, but he obeyed, while the other small boys demonstrated their freedom from maternal apron-strings by diving into the water.

She Made Him Jump Through a Hoop.

Now there may have been a perfectly good reason why the boy should have been forbidden to go into the water, but there was no reason on earth why he should have been publicly forced to jump through a hoop.

That is just what it amounted to.

If she had wanted the boy to stop swimming for his own good, instead of as an exhibition of her discipline, she could have waited until the public eye was off him and then gone to the point nearest him and asked him to come up and speak to her a moment.

Tact and courtesy in dealing with children are not wasted.

You may have a right to embarrass your child in the presence of all his friends, but he won't love you any more for it.

The Demosthenes of the Commons.

"If Parliament had been sitting this week we should have had reported to us a memorable spectacle in the Commons," says the Sunday Times in an article entitled "Our War Pilot."

"No one can doubt but that with the first entry of the Prime Minister into the House every member would have risen to his feet in silent but none the less eloquent sympathy. This demonstration would have typified the attitude of the whole country. Its heart goes out to him all the more now that he has shared the lot of so many parents in every walk of life."

Gladstone and Asquith.

"The Premier's bereavement brings home to every one of us dramatically the truth that this war of to-day differs from other wars of our history in being a thoroughly national war. It reminds us, too, of the sacrifices resolutely made by our ruling as well as other classes. They, as this instance proves, have given their sons unsparingly and paid the price of freedom in full. The news of Mr. Raymond Asquith's death will have its effect on neutral States. To them it will come as a token of the inflexibility of English determination, a fresh testimony of the solidarity of the nation."

"As I look on Mr. Asquith, I often recall the figure of Mr. Gladstone, there could not be two figures more unlike. Mr. Gladstone was not only volcanic in temperament, but was volcanic in look, in physique, and volcanic even when he seemed to be in repose," writes Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., in Reynolds'.

"Of course, a man so exuberant was at once the greatest and the most disturbing leader the House of Commons could have. A personality so vivid, so dominating, and so restless absolutely commanded the whole place."

"Coming to Mr. Asquith, he has none of the special gifts of Mr. Gladstone—either physically or intellectually. "Yet his physique is remarkable"

He has a constitution of iron. After ten minutes' reading in bed at night can sleep his regular eight hours, even in the most critical times; never seems tired; never seems excited, just goes phlegmatically on.

"He is not a man who seems to love speaking for speaking's sake; words do not come from his lips in a great torrent as in the case of Mr. Gladstone; he never seems anxious to take the answering of questions or other work out of the hands of his subordinates."

"And yet—daring as it may seem—I regard him in many respects as a more effective leader of the House of Commons than even Gladstone was. This is mainly due to an incomparable power of a certain style of speech. I have heard that Mr. Balfour says that never since the days of Demosthenes was there a speaker who had such an gripping power of using exactly the right word, and, I may add, of saying the right thing."

Stern Simplicity of Speech.

"He is no more like Gladstone in speech than Cicero was like Demosthenes. It may be partly his devotion to the Greek classics, but probably it is more largely because of his own natural tendencies and gifts that the style of Mr. Asquith is in the stern and chaste simplicity of a Greek speaker or of a French classic."

"You take time to discover the spined art that conceals the art so consummately. He seems to be using the language of every-day life, the short and simple words and the blunt and unadorned phrase. It is only when he sits down that you realize that he has put his case with such simplicity and such lucidity, that it appears to be so reasonable and so simple as to be unanswerable; it looks as if there were nothing more to be said."

"There is no impression of dominating physical energy as in the case of Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Asquith speaks very often, indeed, as if he were physically tired, and rarely, if ever, does he raise his voice."

Private Moore 3rd Time Wounded.

Private James Moore, of "Ours," who took part in the recent "big push" and previously reported seriously wounded at Rouen, France, is now at Wandsworth Hospital, London, where he is progressing favourably. The nature of his injuries was such that his left leg was amputated above the knee and right leg amputated above the ankle. This is the third time Moore has been wounded. He left here with the first contingent of volunteers, took part in the Gallipoli campaign and was wounded in the eye. His recovery was speedy because of his strong physique and he was among the first to cross to France last spring. He took part in the big drive of July 1st, but fortunately, was only slightly wounded and remained on duty. His latest wound in the legs was received on Oct. 11th, from which his friends will be pleased to know that he is recovering.

Peace Terms.

Weekly Dispatch.—Various amateurish definitions of what the Allies' peace terms are likely to be have appeared from time to time, but they bear no relation to the facts. What are the real terms of peace which the Allies would be prepared to accept? They are, it is understood, as follows: (1) The withdrawal of the German forces from all Allied territory before any discussion takes place at all, coupled with the retrocession of Alsace-Lorraine to France before conversations take place. (2) An indemnity of five hundred milliards of marks. This, of course, is twenty-five thousand million pounds. (3) Ton for ton of all shipping destroyed by German submarines. (4) The rehabilitation of the destroyed factories of Lille, Roubaix and the various towns of Belgium. (5) A receivership on all German railways and mines until the final payment of the indemnity is made. (6) Retention by Allies of the captured colonies.

Preached at a Special Service Yesterday Afternoon.—He attended.

At the Church of St. Mary's, Southside, yesterday afternoon there was a special service for the attendance at which was the guest of its kind in the service for many years. The service was with the singing of a hymn whose privilege it was to be could not but admire the wonderful manner in which the vast nation of strong lusty voices led the singing. Mr. G. B. Lloyd, over a quarter of a century organist of the Church, played the keys of the beautiful organ which he heard to great advantage. H. Uphill, Rector of the Parish, conducted the service and gave hearty welcome to the congregation. The preacher was the Rev. Dr. Jones of St. Thomas's, who gave his subject the words, "Why Do Men Need Religion?" and for an hour spoke on his subject, deducing innumerable facts to his argument, and laying special emphasis on the most common sins, the sin of indifference pointed out that man may be content in his home life, because the home are indifferent; again he may be indifferent at business, where he is only receiving one dollar where he considers he is worth five. But the Church of God is not a different Church, therefore no man give just reason for not attending his religious duties. The minister man needs the help of the church. A learned Doctor quoted several instances of man's indifference referred to an instance he read of a small boy in speaking to his father, said, "Father you have your home and your life insured, but you got your soul insured?"

Preached at a Special Service for Men Yesterday Afternoon—Hundreds Attended.

At the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Southside, yesterday afternoon, there was a special service for men, the attendance at which was the largest of its kind in the sacred edifice for many years. The service opened with the singing of a hymn, and those whose privilege it was to be present could not but admire the whole-hearted manner in which the vast congregation of strong lusty voices joined in the singing. Mr. G. B. Lloyd, who for over a quarter of a century has been organist of the Church, manipulated the keys of the beautiful organ which was heard to great advantage. Rev. H. Uphill, Rector of the Parish, conducted the service and extended a hearty welcome to the congregation. The preacher was the Rev. Dr. Jones, Rector of St. Thomas's, who took for his subject the words, "Why Does a Man Need Religion?" and for upwards of an hour spoke on his subject, producing innumerable facts to bear out his argument, and laying special emphasis on the most common of all sins, the sin of indifference. He pointed out that man may be indifferent in his home life, because others in the home are indifferent; again a man may be indifferent at business because he is only receiving one dollar a day where he considers he is worth two. But the Church of God is not an indifferent Church, therefore no man can give just reason for not attending to his religious duties. The indifferent man needs the help of the church. The learned Doctor quoted several other instances of man's indifference and referred to an instance he read of, where a small boy in speaking to his father, said, "Father you have your business, your home and your life insured; have you got your soul insured?" Speaking of the many sins of the world, the preacher dwelt briefly on the most important, touching on our every day life, and pointed out what a terrible world it would be to live in without the sound of a church bell. The Rector of St. Mary's announced that on Wednesday evening at the newly purchased Parish Hall on Hutchings Street, a meeting would be held for the purpose of forming a Bible Class. The congregation present, consisted of men from every walk of life and included soldiers, naval seamen, police officers, doctors, business men, tradesmen, fishermen and laborers.

Cochrane St. Centennial Church.

By EMIL AURIN.

It's easy to laugh when the skies are blue
And the sun is shining bright;
Yes, easy to laugh when your friends are true
And there's happiness in sight;
But when hope has fled and the skies are gray,
And the friends of the past have turned away,
Ah, then indeed, it's a hero's feat
To conjure a smile in the face of defeat.

It's easy to laugh when the storm is over
And your ship is safe in port;
Yes, easy to laugh when you're on the shore
Secure from tempest's sport;
But when wild waves wash o'er the storm-swept deck
And your gallant ship is a battered wreck
Ah, that is the time when it's well worth while
To look in the face of defeat with a smile.

It's easy to laugh when the battle's fought
And you know that the victory's won;
Yes, easy to laugh when the prize is won;
But here's to the man who can laugh when the blast
Of adversity blows; he will conquer at last.
For the hardest man in the world to beat
Is the man who can laugh in the face of defeat.

75 Gun Recalls Dreyfus Affair.

It was the Centre of the Whole Criminal Trial—Spy Tried to Sell Plans—Piece of Paper Containing Essential Details of the Gun—Was the Chief Evidence Against Alaskan Officer—War Would Have Gone Differently if Plot Succeeded.

It has been said that the 75 gun saved France; and there have been public celebrations in honor of this, the most famous field gun that ever was invented, and the best. With all their wonderful efficiency and preparedness the Germans have been unable to build a gun to match the 75, although it is inconceivable that since the war began the Germans have not captured some specimens. There is a legend to the effect that one of the secrets of the 75 is a little pin, which the French gunners are sworn to remove when they see the capture of the weapon is likely. Then the whole mechanism falls to pieces, and when the Germans reach it it is merely a heap of wheels, bolts and cylinders which it is impossible to reconstruct. The soul of the French 75 is the hydraulic brake, and this apparently the Germans have been unable to fathom. This device makes it possible for the gun to be fired again and again without a new aim being taken after every discharge. Ordinarily, as even the uninitiated know, when a gun is fired there is a recoil or "kick" which changes the position of the weapon. In the 75, however, the recoil is received upon a set of springs, and the aim remains the same. Therefore it is possible to fire the 75 once every two seconds. Therefore it has been possible for the French to defend Verdun and to accomplish other miracles.

More than twenty years ago the Germans were almost able to penetrate the secret of the hydraulic control, as is recalled in a long article in Le Siecle by Gaston Rive, which shows how this secret, kept inviolate until this day, was involved in the Dreyfus case. The Dreyfus case is 22 years old, and most of us have forgotten the particulars of it, and recall merely the central fact that Dreyfus was convicted of having sold certain French military secrets to Germany, and that he was later honorably acquitted, his old military honors restored, and the Cross of the Legion of Honor pinned upon him. In the meantime he had been to Devil's Island, and had suffered unspeakable, almost unimaginable horrors. One of the secrets which Dreyfus was accused of having tried to sell was that of the hydraulic control of the 120 gun. That brake or control had been so successful that it was applied to the 75, and when the first discovery was made in the Dreyfus case, this secret was about to be transferred to Germany.

No Man's Land.

The term "no man's land" has sprung into prominence during the war. It means, of course, the "dead" ground between any two lines of advanced trenches, the enemy's and ours. There is, however, another kind of no man's land, delimited and guaranteed by treaties. One of these curious strips of neutral territory stretches across the isthmus that connects the Rock of Gibraltar with Spain. It is about half a mile wide, and our sentries and the Spanish sentries face one another by day and by night, year in and year out from opposite sides. The territory in between these two chains of sentinels belongs neither to Britain nor to Spain.

GREAT BAG OF PRISONERS.
ROME, To-day. Italian troops fighting on the Austro-Italian front in the last four days have taken 270 Austro-Hungarian officers and 8,592 men, says an official issued to-day by the Italian War Department. Since the offensive on the Italian front began on August 6 we have taken 40,365 prisoners, including 7,008 officers.

FRENCH OCCUPY KATERINA.
KATERINA, Greece, To-day. A French battalion arrived here to-day to occupy the town. It is believed the Greek and Venizelist troops will depart immediately and thus solve the embarrassing situation which has arisen as a result of the conflict between the Royalists and Venizelists.

RUSSIAN SUCCESS AT DORNA WATRA.
PETROGRAD, To-day. Russian troops yesterday made an advance south of Dorna Watra in the Carpathian Mountains, occupying Austro-German positions on a series of heights between Mount Lamuntel and the village of Esioje and south of Putna, according to an official statement made to-day by the Russian War Department.

A SOP TO THE POLES.
BERLIN, To-day. The Polish provinces occupied by the troops of the Central Powers, says the Overseas News Agency, were the scene to-day of a great and momentous historic event. Germany and Austro-Hungary by joint action proclaimed at Warsaw and Lublin the Kingdom of Poland to be re-established and the right of the Polish nation to control its own destinies, live an independent national life and govern itself by chosen representatives of the nation. A few days ago a Polish delegation had called upon the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. Its members were representatives of the Poles of all classes, all parties, all ranks of society and all creeds. They transmitted to the German Government the wishes of the Polish nation, which now have been granted them.

BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK.
LONDON, To-day. Lloyds announces the British steamers Clan Leslie and Statesman sunk. The Clan Leslie was 3937 tons gross, the Statesman, 6153 tons.

GALICIA NOW!
AMSTERDAM, To-day. Emperor Franz Joseph has addressed an autograph letter to Premier Ernest von Koerber, stating it is his will when the new state of Poland comes into existence to grant Galicia the right independently to manage its own international affairs. The Emperor charges Premier von Koerber to prepare measures for the legal realization of this command.

THE "CRUISER" A MINE-SWEEPER.
LONDON, To-day. Commenting on the German Admiralty report of the sinking of an English cruiser off the Irish coast, the British Admiralty states this announcement evidently refers to the sinking of the mine-sweeper Genista, the loss of which was officially announced on 26th October. The British Admiralty on October 26th stated that the mine-sweeper Genista was torpedoed by a submarine on October 23rd and sunk. All the officers and 73 men of the vessel were lost. Twelve men were saved. The Admiralty added that when last seen the Genista was sinking but was still engaged with the hostile submarine.

NORWAY REPLIES TO GERMANY.
LONDON, To-day. A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Kristiania says it is understood that the Norwegian Government's reply to Germany's representations with regard to submarines was delivered to the German Minister on Saturday evening.

FIRES AT SEA.
LONDON, To-day. The Danish ship Esbera Snaer was abandoned at sea on fire, the crew saved and landed at St. Michael, in the Azores. The Norwegian steamer Krostond is in Havre Roads with her cargo afire.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.
LONDON, To-day. A British official dealing with the operations on Sunday on the Somme front says: We attacked at several points along the front making some progress and taking a few prisoners. On our extreme right we cleared a pocket of Germans. In the centre we progressed on a front of over a thousand yards, securing high ground in the neighbourhood of Butte-de-Warlencourt. The weather continues stormy.

STRANGE FIGHTING AT EVERETT.
EVERETT, Wash., To-day. At least five were killed and forty wounded in a fight on Everett City wharf between 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World who came here from Seattle on the steamer Verona and a posse of 150 citizens headed by Sheriff Don MacRae. Sheriff MacRae is among the seriously wounded. The number of casualties aboard the Verona is not known. After the shooting, in which about one thousand shots were exchanged, the Verona turned around and started back to Seattle. Many men were seen to fall on the steamer's deck; others panic stricken jumped overboard. Some were taken from the water; others disappeared and are believed drowned.

WAR SUMMARY.
LONDON, To-day. A French official says an attack on St. Pierre-Vasut Wood which was made from three sides simultaneously netted the French three trenches on the northern side and the entire German positions on the southern outskirts of the wood. To the north despite stormy weather, the British over a front of a thousand yards, captured hills in the neighborhood of Butte-de-Warlencourt.

Keeping up their offensive in the Verdun region the French have been enabled to occupy the village of Vaux and also the town of Damoupt, which is situated a mile to the east of Fort Vaux. Violent fighting continues to mark the operations in the region south of Gorizia, where the Italians are endeavoring to break the Austrian lines and advance upon Trieste. Fresh gains have been made by King Victor Emmanuel's men on the Carso plateau south of the Oppoacisla-Castagnizza road and to the south of this region they are bombarding the Austrian positions at Jamiano, throwing heavy infantry effective against the town. The Vienna war office says all attacks on Jamiano have thus far broken down in front of the Austrian line, the Italians suffering heavy casualties. In the Transylvanian Alps the Austro-Germans and Roumanians are still at deadly grips with both sides claiming successes at various points. Berlin records the capture by the Teutonic Allies of positions in the Frahova Valley while Bucharest asserts that the pursuit of the Teutons in the Jui Valley continues. There is still no news forthcoming from the Dobruja region of Roumania shedding any light on the situation there. Both Constanza and Mangalia, ports on the Black Sea, held by forces of the Central Powers, have again been shelled by Russian warships. Small gains for the Germans on the Russian front south of the Drinsk, and in Galicia and in the Carpathian Mountains for the Russians are recorded by the Berlin and Petrograd officials.

THE IRISH CHANNEL TRAGEDY.
LONDON, To-day. In one of the worst gales ever known in the Irish Sea the British steamer Connemara with passengers and a cargo of cattle from Greenore, Ireland, for Holyhead, Wales, collided on Saturday night just outside Carlisleford Bar with the British steamer Retriever laden with coal. Both ships sank immediately, with a loss of 91 lives, 82 lives being lost on the Connemara and 9 on the Retriever. 69 bodies were recovered.

COLLISION DUE TO STORM.
BELFAST, To-day. The collision between the steamers Connemara and Retriever occurred at 3.30 o'clock in the evening, a mile off the coast. The sole survivor of the Retriever was James Boyle, who was in the water half an hour clinging to an overturned boat, which was washed ashore. The disaster was due directly to the storm, a huge wave striking the Retriever in the narrow channel of Greenore Harbor and altering her course.

THE PIRATE'S LOG-BOOK.
BERLIN, To-day. Captain Hans Ross of the German submarine U-53 to-day gave an account of the voyage of the submarine to American waters. Speaking of his reception in the United States, Captain Ross said the American Naval Authorities received the U-53 with greatest cordiality, but the Commandant at Newport Station was so evidently relieved when he learned that I did not desire to replenish my fuel or provisions that I received the impression that I would have encountered difficulties if I had desired supplies. American officers visited the submarine in large numbers and were most deeply interested in her work. Describing the submarine's attack on the vessels sunk, Captain Ross said that sixteen American torpedo boat destroyers were assembled in the vicinity, but did not interfere in any way with the submarine's military measures.

THE DEUTSCHLAND'S CARGO.
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., To-day. That the cargo of the Deutschland amounted to approximately ten million was announced here last night by James L. McGovern, Collector of Customs. Of this sum, he said, nine million was represented by stocks and bonds and other securities shipped from Germany for the purpose of strengthening German credit in the United States. About one million of the value of the cargo, McGovern said, consisted of dye stuffs, medicines and chemicals. A very small proportion was represented by diamonds and other precious stones.

ANTI-CONSCRIPTIONISTS STILL LEADING.

MEXICO AND GREAT BRITAIN.
MEXICO CITY, To-day. The Mexican Government has been notified by the British Ambassador at Washington of the presence of German submarines in the Gulf of Mexico and has been warned that the Allies will take drastic measures if the undersea craft receive aid from Mexican ports or sources. This information was made public by the Foreign Minister Aguilar, who issued the note. The note conveyed from the British Ambassador d'Affaires Charles E. Parker. The British note demands the censorship of the wireless and says that any failure to maintain Mexican neutrality will be attended by disastrous results. In his reply addressed to Mr. Parker, Senator Aguilar says that it seems strange to the Mexican Government that Great Britain should use the United States Department as an intermediary on a point concerning Mexico alone, especially when Great Britain has an accredited representative in Mexico. The reply says that the Mexican Government will for this time

Public Opinion; Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas sends to the Spectator this amusing story told by the United States correspondent of a Toronto paper:—"A party of convivial Germans—more or less hyphenated—met in a San Francisco cafe several weeks since to cheer on the Kaiser in his work of regenerating Europe. When the festivities were at their height and the Imperial War Lord's health had been quaffed in oceans of Rhenish and lager, it seemed a graceful act to mark the occasion by a message of encouragement to the Crown Prince, which was accordingly despatched to Verdun, France: "Go on Fritz. We are all with you." Signed by the chairman in behalf of the guests. In due course it came back to the sender, with this significant line across the corner: "Pas encore arrive a Verdun. dm."

only answer the representations of the British Government through Mr. Parker. Foreign Minister Aguilar states that the Mexican Government feels it unjust for the Allies to hold Mexico responsible for submarine activities in the Gulf of Mexico when the same submarines arrived in American ports and sank ships in American territorial waters without causing conflict or difficulties between Germany and the United States. He adds that Mexico desires to retain cordial relations with Great Britain.

THE EVERETT TROUBLE.
SEATTLE, Wash., To-day. Six men are dead and 50 are suffering to-day from bullet wounds as a result of the battle yesterday at Everett, Wash., thirty miles north of Seattle, when 250 members of industrial workers of the world attempted to land in that city from the steamer Verona which had carried them from Seattle. The boat was met by Sheriff Donald MacRae of Snohomish County, who, with the police forbade the men to land. A shot from the Verona, according to the boat's officers, was followed immediately by firing from both sides. The steamer hastened back to Seattle with the dead and wounded.

He was let stand over, as the authorities are not ready to deal with him, he being already under bonds for similar conduct. Three ordinary drunks were released without fine.

Had Chronic Indigestion Thought She Would Die.

After Years of Suffering Attributes Cure to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Eating too much or using foods that do not agree are the usual causes of indigestion. The trouble usually begins not in the stomach, but in the liver, since it devolves on this organ to filter the excess waste matter from the system. Now, since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest of liver regulators, it naturally follows that they are unexcelled as a cure for chronic indigestion. With the liver, kidneys and bowels active the poisonous waste matter is quickly removed from the system and there is nothing to interfere with the natural and healthful working of the organs of digestion. In this way only can lasting cure be effected. Mrs. Rebecca Elliott, Magnetawan, Ont., writes:—"I feel it my duty to write you in regard to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had gastritis of the stomach for three years, and could get nothing to stop it until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I would have an attack of this trouble with my stomach every three or four weeks, and was so bad at times that my friends thought I would surely die. Thanks to these pills, I have not had an attack for six months, and believe that the cure is thorough. My husband has had very satisfactory experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. He was much run down, and very pale and weak. I persuaded him to use the Nerve Food, and after having taken five boxes he looks and feels real well. It is such experiences as these that have made a place for Dr. Chase's medicines in the great majority of homes. They do not fail, even in the most complicated cases. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 35 cents a box. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, $ for $2.50. All dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ITALIANS WITHIN TWELVE MILES OF TRIESTE.

ROME, Nov. 4. Additional points of vantage were gained by the Italian armies on the Carso plateau, south of Gorizia to-day and to-night. General Cadorna's army is within 12 miles of Trieste. The total number of prisoners has been increased to over 8,500, 3,500 having been added to the 5,000 taken on Thursday. More guns and great quantities of arms and ammunition also fell into the hands of the Italians. Yesterday's operations alone, according to Italian estimates, cost the Austrians 15,000 in killed and captured. The 21st Austrian Regiment and several battalions are said to have been wiped out.

Continuing their offensive against the Austro-Hungarian forces in the Carso region, the Italians yesterday advanced in the direction of Vipacco River for a distance of more than one kilometre. During the day the Italians took 553 prisoners. New batteries placed by the Austrians maintained an intense barrage of fire in Gorizia throughout yesterday, says the official. The Italian official says: In the Travigno Avizle Valley our infantry carried a strong position by assault. Artillery activity has increased.

During the day we took 553 prisoners, including 11 officers, a whole battery of four-inch howitzers with more than 1,000 rounds for each gun, also machine guns, arms and ammunition, and a whole transport column complete with large quantities of material of all kinds.

Paris—Castagnaviezzo, on the Carso, is virtually invested by the Italian army, says a despatch from Rome.

FRENCH MAKE FURTHER PROGRESS.

PARIS, Nov. 5. The French official states French troops made further progress last night near Vaux. The west part of the village was captured and an advance of several hundred metres made to the northeast and east of the fort.

French forces advancing in the region of Verdun last night, occupied the village of Damloup, which is situated nearly a mile east of the recently captured Vaux fort, according to an official statement issued this afternoon by the French war department. A number of Germans were made prisoners. In the Somme region last night there was only intermittent artillery duels.

GERMANS FORCED TO WITHDRAW FROM FORT VAUX.

With the French Army at Verdun, Nov. 5. (From Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.)—French patrols have penetrated far beyond Fort Vaux into lines hitherto held by the Germans, but were not able to get in touch with the former defenders. It appears probable the Germans retired their lines considerably to the rear of their artillery, their positions being untenable since the French drove them from Douaumont after silencing 50 of their batteries. Military observers point out that the Germans were forced to withdraw from Fort Vaux within eight days after Douaumont fell, whereas the French held Fort Vaux four months after the Germans had captured Douaumont. The same observers regard the German claim that they were preparing to withdraw to stronger lines before the battle of Douaumont, as untenable, unless the Germans are ready to admit their withdrawal was one of the most unsuccessful operations of the campaign, as it cost them more than 6,000 prisoners and the annihilation of twenty-two battalions. Signs that the Germans are preparing for a counter-stroke are entirely lacking.

ALONG THE SOMME FRONT.

PARIS, Nov. 5. There was intermittent cannonading along the Somme front and in the region of Fort Vaux and Fort Douaumont, north of Verdun last night, the war office announced to-day. Elsewhere conditions were quiet.

GERMANS ACTIVE.

LONDON, Nov. 5. Strong German forces last night entered the British trenches near Guinchy, seven miles east of Bethune, says a British official issued to-day, but the invaders were expelled. The Germans yesterday launched a counter-attack east of Guesdecourt, the statement adds, but suffered heavy losses in proportion to their strength.

SERBIAN OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 5. The Serbian official to-day reads: On Saturday the enemy attempted three attacks in the region of the villages of Budimiras and Polog, in the Cerna River region. All these were repulsed. We took German and Bulgarian prisoners. We have reliable news that in the recent fighting on the left bank of the Cerna the Germans suffered enormous losses.

AIR OPERATIONS HAMPERED.

LONDON, Nov. 5. The British official says only artillery has been in action since yesterday. Air operations have been hampered by strong winds.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

ROMANIAN SEAPORTS BOMBED.

BERLIN, Nov. 5. Russian warships yesterday shelled the Roumanian seaports of Constanza and Mangalia now occupied by troops under Field Marshal Mackensen, says an official issued to-day at the German headquarters. The coast artillery and air-plane squadrons chased the ships away.

LONDON, Nov. 5. Vice Admiral Du Fournet, Commander of the Entente Fleet in the Mediterranean, has demanded the Greek Government's consent to the use of a light flotilla carrying the French flag and a French crew as protection against German and Austrian submarines, says a Reuter despatch from Athens. The Greek cabinet held a meeting to-day under the Presidency of King Constantine, the despatch adds and decided the Admiral's demand was unacceptable, because to consent to it would be equivalent to a departure from neutrality.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK.

BERLIN, Nov. 5. A German submarine while operating off the west coast of Ireland, on Oct. 23rd, destroyed an English cruiser of the Elbert type, with two funnels, according to an official statement made to-day by the German Admiralty.

AUSTRO-GERMAN SUCCESS.

BERLIN, Nov. 5. Rosca height, southeast of Altzchan, on the frontier of Roumania and Transylvania, which the Roumanian troops captured on Nov. 3rd, was re-conquered yesterday by the Austro-German forces, says to-day's German official. The Teutons stormed the Roumanian positions of Clubuctel Baulin in the Prahova valley yesterday and 1,747 Roumanians were made prisoners and 8 cannon and 20 machine guns captured by the Teuton forces.

TO TAKE GERMAN CENSUS.

LONDON, Nov. 5. The Bundesrat or Federal Council of Germany decided yesterday to take the census of the German Empire on Dec. 1st, says a despatch from Amsterdam. The census, it is added, will be in the interests of the war feeding department and army administration.

AUSTRIAN AEROPLANES DROP BOMBS.

ROME, Nov. 5. Three Austrian aeroplanes, says an official statement, have dropped bombs on the town of Vieste, in the Province of Foggia, on the Adriatic, killing two civilians and wounding 4 others, but causing no material damage.

COLLISION AT SEA.

LONDON, Nov. 5. The London and Northwestern Railway steamer Connemara bound from Creemore to Holyhead with passengers has collided with another ship and it is feared the death toll is about 300. The Connemara collided with the s.s. Retriever in the Irish Channel last night. Both vessels were sunk and so far as is known there is only one survivor from both ships. A Lloyds despatch from Belfast says the collision occurred off Carlingford Lough, an inlet on the Irish coast between the counties of Down and Louth. The Retriever was inward bound. A few bodies have been washed ashore on County Down coast.

REICHSTAG TO ADJOURN.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 5. Advice from Berlin says the Reichstag will dispose of its work to-day and adjourn. The Chancellor's promised speech will therefore be postponed, but he will have an opportunity of making any statement he wishes before the main committee, which will continue its sitting. A despatch from Berlin says the Reichstag has adjourned until February 13.

MAXWELL TO BE RECALLED.

LONDON, Nov. 5. According to the Yorkshire Herald, the Government has decided to recall Major-General Sir John Maxwell from Ireland, where he is in command of the British forces. He will be succeeded by Lieut-General Bryant Mahon, lately in command on the western frontier of Egypt.

It is officially announced that Lieut-General Bryant Mahon, Commander of the British forces on the western frontier of Egypt has been appointed to succeed Major-General Maxwell as British leader of the forces in Ireland. The Frankfurter Zeitung also prints an editorial expressing the opinion that the outcome of the election is very much in doubt. It treats with great sympathy President Wilson's "programs" for eliminating war through a peace organization established through a propaganda of the peace idea but refrains from a preference between the candidates.
