IN THE TOILS;

But Happiness Comes at Last.

CHAPTER VIII.
FROM MIDNIGHT TO DAWN.

The streets of London late at night, during the hours immediately preceding the dawn, are not the most cheerful of places in which to be wandering, not even in the summer, but in the winter, with the dreariness of the blank houses, with their windows shuttered and blind-covered, like closed eyes, and with the grim silence broken only by the measured, melancholy, and monotonous tread of the heavy-footed policeman, they bear an aspect of utter desolation. No, take them for all in all, there is no more trying situation under the sun than to be homeless and friendless in the streets of London just before a December dawn. Bad enough for an individual acquainted with the London maze and the habits of a vagrant, but for Olive—the delicate girl—woman who knew no more of London than could be learned from a cab window or a chance walk—such a situation was appalling. She hesitated a moment as if by instinct, started in the direction of the heart of the city. Her one idea was to get as far and as quickly as possible away from the house and the presence of the man who had deceived her—her destination was a matter of unconscious indifference; she simply hurried on, feeling neither the cold nor fatigue, wrapped in her misery as in a cloak, and numbed by despair.

Every now and then a policeman passed her in her hurried flight, and turned to look at her, flashing his lantern upon her retreating form; but as his only familiar "Move on!" was scarcely applicable to one who was already moving on so rapidly and persistently, he merely granted and resumed his steady tramp, tramp. Every now and then a cat darted across the road from one area to another.

Once a woman, friendless and alone like herself, rose from the steps of a house and stared at her, with curiosity and dumb astonishment; but Olive, all unconscious of the nearness of evil, hurried on.

At last the dawn fairly broke, the rattle of country carts sprang suddenly into the air; the milkman came trotting and shivering on his rounds; workmen, with their day's dinner in their handkerchiefs, slouched, half refractantly, along the streets; then, at the corner of a street, a brougham stopped for a moment, and a tipsy man, in evening dress, with his hat crushed and his shirt front stained with wine, got out and stumbled up the steps, and the coachman stopped to stare at the slim, girlish figure fitting past. By degrees London life woke with a slowly, ever-increasing roar, and, as the clock struck eight, Olive, instinctively avoiding the broad thoroughfares, passed into one of the quiet squares that lie behind Holborn, and, though once fashionable, are now relinquished to the doctor, the lawyer, and the flourishing descendants of Israel.

The quiet of the locality suddenly told upon the overwrought condition of the fugitive.

She paused a moment to rest, and in that pause her scintillating strength deserted her.

She had stopped on the pavement running round the green square, and with her hands tight round the railings was looking dreamily into the inclosure, when she thought that she was back at Hawthorpe under the limes of the churchyard and looking down through the railings of the old graves. It was not perhaps an unnatural fancy, and it was with a sigh of relief to think that the past five months were all a dream, that she turned—as she thought—to go home to the old, dreary work beneath her grim aunt's roof; but, at the moment of turning, exhaustion, which had been impatiently waiting for her for some hours past, seized and claimed her for its own. She slid, rather than fell, upon the cold pavement, happily unconscious, with a smile upon her lips, and lay there at peace.

A policeman turned the corner as she fell, and in three minutes Olive would have been taken in charge, or carried to the workhouse, but in the first of those precious moments some one drew up the blind of a window in the house opposite, and in the third of those three moments a man and a woman came hurrying across the square. After a moment's examination of the white, beautiful face, they lifted Olive, and between them carried her bodily into the house, just as the policeman, having finished a conversation with the maid who was shaking a doormat at the corner house, came tramping up.

CHAPTER IX.
SISTERS BY ADOPTION.

THE scene is a comfortable, not to say handsomely furnished room; the time five by the clock that ticks on the mantelshelf over the glowing fire. Outside can be heard dimly, and not unpleasantly, the roar of a great London thoroughfare, that is just near enough, and not too near, to suggest companionship instead of a nuisance.

There are three persons in the comfortable room; one a lady, a lady with a handsome face, and a figure that has scarcely matured to middle age; she is seated in a low chair, leaning back with a book in her hand, and looking across with a gentle smile at another lady, who is lying back opposite her in the depths of a most exquisitely comfortable old-fashioned chair. This second lady we know tolerably well, though she is so altered that we might almost be excused for not recognizing her. It is Olive; no longer pale, emaciated, and haggard, but at last at rest, with a faint, shell-like flush on her clear cheek, and a peaceful light in her dark, beautiful eyes.

She has now a book in her hands, but it lies face downward in her lap, and her eyes meet those of the lady opposite her.

At a table, also within the glow of the fire, sits an individual whom at first sight we would be inclined to take for a boy. It is a boy's stature, a boy's figure, a boy's face, and yet a second and more searching glance would show us that it was not a boy, but a man; a man with a strangely placid, childlike countenance, with soft, child-like hair and hands, a creature with the years of a man, but the form, the face, and the mind of a child. Looking over his shoulder we see that he is busy arranging a quantity of tin soldiers in line of battle, and is completely absorbed by his occupation.

On the wool hearthrug between the two ladies was a fat pig, who groans now and then as the fire scorches him, and a canary, doing in a little pagoda cage hanging in the window, wakes up every now and then with a chirp of indignation against the idea of his having been asleep.

THE scene is a comfortable, not to say handsomely furnished room; the time five by the clock that ticks on the mantelshelf over the glowing fire. Outside can be heard dimly, and not unpleasantly, the roar of a great London thoroughfare, that is just near enough, and not too near, to suggest companionship instead of a nuisance.

There are three persons in the comfortable room; one a lady, a lady with a handsome face, and a figure that has scarcely matured to middle age; she is seated in a low chair, leaning back with a book in her hand, and looking across with a gentle smile at another lady, who is lying back opposite her in the depths of a most exquisitely comfortable old-fashioned chair. This second lady we know tolerably well, though she is so altered that we might almost be excused for not recognizing her. It is Olive; no longer pale, emaciated, and haggard, but at last at rest, with a faint, shell-like flush on her clear cheek, and a peaceful light in her dark, beautiful eyes.

She has now a book in her hands, but it lies face downward in her lap, and her eyes meet those of the lady opposite her.

At a table, also within the glow of the fire, sits an individual whom at first sight we would be inclined to take for a boy. It is a boy's stature, a boy's figure, a boy's face, and yet a second and more searching glance would show us that it was not a boy, but a man; a man with a strangely placid, childlike countenance, with soft, child-like hair and hands, a creature with the years of a man, but the form, the face, and the mind of a child. Looking over his shoulder we see that he is busy arranging a quantity of tin soldiers in line of battle, and is completely absorbed by his occupation.

On the wool hearthrug between the two ladies was a fat pig, who groans now and then as the fire scorches him, and a canary, doing in a little pagoda cage hanging in the window, wakes up every now and then with a chirp of indignation against the idea of his having been asleep.

CHEST COLDS
may mean weak lungs and need more thorough treatment than mere syrups, physics or stimulants.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

corrects chest colds by giving strength to the blood and warmth to the body, while it is famous with physicians for relieving hard coughs and soothing the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes.

The quiet of the locality suddenly told upon the overwrought condition of the fugitive.

She paused a moment to rest, and in that pause her scintillating strength deserted her.

She had stopped on the pavement running round the green square, and with her hands tight round the railings was looking dreamily into the inclosure, when she thought that she was back at Hawthorpe under the limes of the churchyard and looking down through the railings of the old graves. It was not perhaps an unnatural fancy, and it was with a sigh of relief to think that the past five months were all a dream, that she turned—as she thought—to go home to the old, dreary work beneath her grim aunt's roof; but, at the moment of turning, exhaustion, which had been impatiently waiting for her for some hours past, seized and claimed her for its own. She slid, rather than fell, upon the cold pavement, happily unconscious, with a smile upon her lips, and lay there at peace.

A policeman turned the corner as she fell, and in three minutes Olive would have been taken in charge, or carried to the workhouse, but in the first of those precious moments some one drew up the blind of a window in the house opposite, and in the third of those three moments a man and a woman came hurrying across the square. After a moment's examination of the white, beautiful face, they lifted Olive, and between them carried her bodily into the house, just as the policeman, having finished a conversation with the maid who was shaking a doormat at the corner house, came tramping up.

It is Olive; no longer pale, emaciated, and haggard, but at last at rest, with a faint, shell-like flush on her clear cheek, and a peaceful light in her dark, beautiful eyes.

"Yes, quite right; we have been very happy, yes, yes;" and, clambering down from the chair on which he was kneeling, he came and sat down beside the fire between the two women, looking up from one to the other, with a placid smile.

"But I must not forget," said Olive, leaning forward, with her hands clasped and her eyes fixed on the handsome face opposite her. "Six weeks ago I was helpless and alone in the world, quite alone! when you, dear Miss Haldine—"

"Katrine—you promised to call me Katrine," said the other softly.

"Katrine," continued Olive tremulously; "when you came like an angel from heaven and saved me. What would have become of me if you had not seen me from the window?" she shuddered—"if you had not come out with Mr. Haldine—"

"Eh!" said the boy-man, pushing up his ears.

"Call him John," said Katrine softly.

"When you and John came and brought me in—brought me in, and nursed me as if I were your sister."

"That is it," said Katrine Haldane, with a smile; "you are our sister—is she not, John?"

"Certainly, certainly," asserted John, with the firmness of one asserting a self-evident proposition.

"You see!" said Katrine again.

Olive's eyes filled, and she put out her hand and laid it gently on the small, soft one of the boy-man's.

"I see," she said, "that you have the kindest and noblest hearts on earth, but—"

"But what?" put in Katrine Haldane, leaning forward and speaking with a gentle warmth. "But what? if you will go back, let us do so! Six weeks ago, I, looking from my window, see you, one of my own sex, a young girl, clinging to the railings opposite. I—and John"—she pats his head, with a smile—"go out and bring you in. You are very ill—very ill indeed, and you grew worse; thanks to a good constitution, and such poor nursing as we can give you, you recover, you grow better rapidly; you become one of us—we learn to love you—don't we, John?"

"Certainly, yes, yes."

"And all we ask is that, if you are happy with us, and have no friends, that you remain with us and be our sister. Is not that so, John?"

"Certainly, certainly," John said, promptly.

Olive shades her face.

"And not once during all that six weeks have you asked one question," she says, with a hot flush.

"No, why should we?" is the reply, in a low voice. "You are alone, helpless, have suffered, have been near death's door, and are well again. That is enough for us—who have also suffered."

Olive's hand, still white and thin, covers her eyes.

"I did not think there were such people in the whole world," she says simply.

"There are better people in existence than one would think," says Katrine, with a little laugh—"and as to questions: why, dear, what questions have you asked?"

Olive looks across at her with a stare of surprise.

GERMANS WILL TAKE REVAL.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 18. Germany resumes war. Within a week we will occupy Reval, General Staffmann, the German military representative at Brest-Litovsk peace conference is reported to have told the Russians late in January when asked what would happen if they didn't accept Germany's final terms. The Stockholm announcement indicates that Germany is moving to carry out this threat. Reval is the capital of the Province of Esthonia. It is situated on the Gulf of Finland and has been one of the principal Russian naval bases for Baltic operations. Its population before the war of 1890 was 60,000 and 70,000. The German occupation of Riga last year, the extension of their invasion toward gave them possession of a portion of the Province of Livonia, including virtually all the coast on the Gulf of Riga. Its area is 18,800 square miles. Immediately north, the Province of Esthonia, 7,800 square miles in area. These two provinces together with the Province of Courland and which has for some time been in German possession, comprise the Baltic province, possession of which by Germany in the peace settlement has been insisted upon by the ultra annexationist faction of the Reich. The occupation of Reval would naturally be one of the first steps to be taken were a military advance upon Petrograd in prospect. A railroad runs thence along the coast to the capital at which is about 100 miles distance.

The British casualties reported for the week just ended, reached the lowest total recorded in many months.

FIGHTING IN ODESSA.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—In a battle at Odessa on Monday, between the Bolsheviks and Moderates, hundreds were killed. The city was bombarded by warships.

PROTESTS AGAINST PARTITION.

LONDON, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—A despatch from Copenhagen says a proclamation, which called out this comment, declared that the Central Powers after having guaranteed the independence of Poland, and the promise to the Polish state of its friendship, help and co-operation, nevertheless refused Poland representation at the Brest-Litovsk peace conference, and bought peace with the Ukraine by handing over province which is completely Polish, without consulting Poland regarding it. The Council protests earnestly against this partition. It requests the people to maintain unity and to give the Council its support in its position. The summary of the proclamation thus given was telegraphed to the Lokal Anzeiger from Warsaw.

LONDON, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Sir Wm. Robertson has accepted what is known as the Eastern Command, that is the Eastern parts of the British Isles.

GERMAN DEFICIT.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Despatches received from Berlin say that the ordinary receipts and expenditures of the German budget for 1918, balance at 7,332,000,000 marks, compared with five billion marks last year. The increase is due mainly to the higher amount required for interest on the national debt. The

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and add two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

DESPATCHES ADD THAT BILLS WILL BE SUBMITTED TO THE REICHSRAT TO PROVIDE NEW WAR TAXES TO COVER DEFICIT OF 2,875,000,000 MARKS OF WHICH ONLY 1,250,000,000 MARKS ARE COVERED BY EXISTING TAXES.

KIEV CAPTURED.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Kiev, one of the principal cities of the Ukraine, was captured by the Bolsheviks on Friday, after sanguinary fighting. The streets were filled with dead or wounded. While fighting was at its height on Thursday, the city was bombarded by Bolshevik aviators.

U. S. NAVAL VOTE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Supplemental appropriation estimates submitted to Congress to-day include a new naval emergency fund of $100,000,000 to expedite ship construction and for the purpose and construction of destroyers, submarines and smaller craft.

AIR RAID CASUALTIES.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—The Germans resumed war measures against Russia to-day, the Social Democrat states. Their first objective is the seizure of Estonia and Lithuania, it declares.

THE PATRIARCH'S APPEAL.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—The Most Rev. Dr. Tikhon, Patriarch of all Russia, and formerly representative of the Russian Church in the U.S.A., has issued a proclamation urging the faithful Russians to observe the old calendar and holidays which have been shed by the Bolshevik Government. The Patriarch is coming here from Moscow, and the churches here are arranging a great procession in his honor.

AVIATION CASUALTIES.

FORTH WORTH, Tex., Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—A statement from American Aviation Headquarters here show that of the 31 killed at the Texas flying fields 20 were British and 11 Americans. The list includes several mechanics who met death on the ground. The fliers have been here four months.

COAL TRANSPORTATION.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Transportation for one million tons of coal a month was assured for New England to-day by Chairman Hunter, of the Shipping Board and Director General McCauley of the Railroad Administration; 600,000 tons of coal will go by water, 400,000 tons by rail.

COMMENDED BY SECRETARY DANIELS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Lieut. Commander Robert A. Bartlett, of the U. S. Naval Reserve, well known Arctic explorer, has been commended by Secretary Daniels for his extremely efficient performance in safely piloting the wrecking tug Favorite from Quebec to Boston, January 10 to 23, through perilous ice floes. The Secretary's letter of commendation was made public here to-day. The Favorite was requisitioned on the Great Lakes by the U. S. Shipping Board at Quebec. She was held to assist other ships through ice. When this work was finished, Capt. Bartlett succeeded in navigating her to Boston, despite the old time pilot's warnings that the trip couldn't be made until the spring.

NOT ANTICIPATING TROUBLE.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik Premier, responding to-day to an inquiry as to what would be Russia's action if the Bolsheviks had declared that they wouldn't fight any more, said that depends entirely upon the Germans attitude. At a meeting of the Petrograd Soviet last night, Krylenko, Bolshevik Commander-in-Chief, was asked by members what Russia would do if Germany advanced against her regardless of Russia's refusal to fight.

CRUCIAL JEWELRY STORE.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—The patriarchal Sacrifices at Moscow have been robbed of gold, church plate encrusted with diamonds and other precious stones, and bibbles with jewelled gold covers, etc. valued before the war at 2,000,000 roubles, also have been stolen.

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Dr. Arthur Davis, of Piqua, Ohio, who was dentist for Emperor William of Germany, returned to America to-day on a neutral steamer. He said he left Jan. 22, having been allowed to cross the border on a military passport personally signed by the Emperor. Dr. Davis asserted the Russian situation was the foremost topic in Berlin when he left and developments at that time had caused great rejoicing. He declared the food situation there wasn't so bad as had been reported.

ROBBERIES IN PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—A gang of 60 armed men in motor lorries last night visited two social clubs in this city and robbed the members of 64,000 roubles and guests of 25,000 roubles, as well as a large amount of diamonds and other jewelry. Two of the gang while under arrest were lynched by a crowd which took them from the police.

WHOLESALE DIVORCES.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—According to Petrograd papers the Bolshevik Government's action in simplifying the divorce proceedings has received 35,000 applications being made for divorce in the capital alone.

HAS ORDERED WHOLESALE ARRESTS.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—The Executive Committee of the Esthonia Council of Soldiers and Workers has proclaimed the baronial cast outlawed and has ordered the wholesale arrest of young men above seventeen and women over 21. More than 1,000 persons already have been imprisoned. Barons are charged with plotting against the Council in sending delegates to ask Emperor William's intervention and German occupation to save Esthonia from ruin. The Commissioner of Justice has protested against these extreme measures and prescribed the appointment of a revolutionary court with powers to severely punish the guilty if the plot be proved.

U. S. BBS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Contracts for a number of destroyers in addition to those provided for this year in the great building programme, have been placed by the Navy Department, Secretary Daniels announced to-day. This had been made possible by the unparalleled speed with which the shipyards were turning out destroyers, making way for additional ones on their stocks. About a dozen new contracts have already been awarded, and it is understood that others are to follow. The exact number of destroyers now under construction never has been announced, but it is known to run into hundreds. The Secretary also announced that the Navy contemplated a double capacity of the Pelham Bay, N.Y. training station to 20,000 men. Most of the $19,000,000 asked for the training stations would be spent on the Pelham Bay and Hampton Roads stations.

SEQUENCE TO BOLO PASHA TRIAL.

PARIS, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—Senator Humbert was arrested at his Chateau at Meunil Guillaumo, outside Paris. He was brought into the city this afternoon for interrogation by Capt. Bouchardon of the Paris military court. While the Senator was being brought here, secret service men armed with search warrants made a minute investigation of the papers at his home in this city. Many documents were seized and placed under seal. The arrest of Humbert is a sensational sequel to the trial of Bolo Pasha, at which the Senator was a witness. At that time he demanded that the Government clear up the doubt surrounding his case, either by arresting him and placing him on trial or ceasing to cast continual aspersions upon him.

gardless of Russia's refusal to fight.

Krylenko expressed doubt that Germany would take any such action, and said Germany doesn't want Russia as an enemy. Furthermore, the taking of Petrograd would lengthen the German front and as a hindrance to their operations. He asserted that it was the belief that many wouldn't take any steps against Russia until the armistice ended, if over.

LONDON DEFENCES EFFECTIVE.

LONDON, Feb. 18. (Reuters.)—London's air defences again were tested on Sunday night when German raiders broke through the coast defences. The Germans valently made persistent efforts for some time to reach the capital judging from the prolonged heavy barrage which rose and fell first on one side of the city and then on the other soon after sundown. The growing brilliancy of the moon saw few outsiders except those engaged in ordinary work.

Bouchardon of the Paris military court. While the Senator was being brought here, secret service men armed with search warrants made a minute investigation of the papers at his home in this city. Many documents were seized and placed under seal. The arrest of Humbert is a sensational sequel to the trial of Bolo Pasha, at which the Senator was a witness. At that time he demanded that the Government clear up the doubt surrounding his case, either by arresting him and placing him on trial or ceasing to cast continual aspersions upon him.

Cascarets for a Cold, Bad Breath or Sick Headache

Best for liver and bowels, for biliousness, sour stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental tears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

which he was unable to refute, he said, without an open trial. Bolo Pasha's attorney devoted a large part of his final argument to laying at the door of Senator Humbert, crimes charged against his client. Consequently the arrest of the Senator was less of a surprise than otherwise would have been the case. The exact charge against the Senator hasn't yet been made public.

Here and There.

When you want Steaks, Chops, Cutlets and Collops, try ELLIS'. STILL ABROAD.—The Dorothy Baird, which recently arrived at a foreign port, has not yet left for home.

When you want Sausages, why—get ELLIS'; they're the best.

TO LECTURE—Miss Southcott will lecture to the Girls' Friendly Society at the Synod Hall on Thursday evenings, during Lent.

When you want Roast Beef, Roast Veal, Roast Mutton, Roast Pork, try ELLIS'.

SCHUL REPORTED.—A three-masted schooner flying Baird's flag, was reported off Cape Race on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

REMOVING THE SNOW.—The City Council have a number of men and horses engaged clearing the snow on Water Street and they are making good progress.

For Billious Troubles

That heavy headache, torpid liver, sick stomach, bitter taste in mouth, furred tongue, dull eyes and muddy skin, all come from a poor supply of bile. These healthy conditions are promptly corrected by which stimulate the liver, regulate the flow of bile, sweeten the stomach, and renew healthy bowel action. A household remedy approved by sixty years of public service. For every-day illnesses, Beecham's Pills are a tested Remedy.

NEW SNOW PLOUGH.—The new snow plough operated for the first time yesterday morning, on the Street Railway, proved its worth by doing as much work, clearing the track of snow, in fifteen minutes as formerly it would have taken 30 men a half day to do. This plough was built at the Company's car barn, here, by W. J. Nauff, under the supervision and direction of the foreman of the street railway system.

L.O.O.F.—At the regular meeting of Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, L.O.O.F., held last night a considerable amount of business was transacted, after which nine candidates were advanced to the third degree and a similar number of applications were received for next month. On next Monday night another smoker will be held and judging by the success which attended the previous one a very pleasant evening is assured.

OPORTO MARKET.—The Minister of Marine and Fisheries received the following message from Oporto this morning: Last prices fully maintained. Demand is fair. Looking for improved prices ere long. Large stocks on hand; more is expected to arrive.

"SAUCY" TONGUES.—Frozen cod tongues which were sold at 5 cents a pound this date four years ago, are now being retailed to customers at 17 cents. This is an increase of two hundred and forty per cent. What has the Food Control Board to say about it?

CONSERVING BUNKER COAL.—Owing to the need of conserving bunker coal, a steamer due here from American and Canadian ports with a large freight and several passengers, has been running at reduced speed, and is not expected to arrive till tomorrow afternoon.

LADY CURLERS COMPETE.—In the first competition at the Curling Rink yesterday morning for the Munn Cup, Mrs. John Harvey captured the trophy with a score of 22. Mrs. Renie and Mrs. Rogerson tied for second place with 20 points. A prize donated for first and second year players by Mrs. Duder was won by Mrs. Glennie, who ran up a score of 15.

SLIGHT FIRE.—The Central and West End fire fighters were called out last evening to Patrick Street to quench a fire that broke out in a dwelling, caused by the capsizing of an oil lamp. In the meantime the occupants of the house by the application of a few buckets of water succeeded in putting out the blaze. On arrival the firemen found their services were not required.

L.O.O.F.—At the regular meeting of Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, L.O.O.F., held last night a considerable amount of business was transacted, after which nine candidates were advanced to the third degree and a similar number of applications were received for next month. On next Monday night another smoker will be held and judging by the success which attended the previous one a very pleasant evening is assured.

Critical Times.

Brilliantly few reputations are destined to survive the war. If one more than any other might have been said to have been made and firmly established by it, that one was General Robertson's, the British Chief of Staff, whose retirement has been brought about by causes which are not likely to be known in their full extent for some time. The high opinion which the Morning Post expresses of his abilities may not be shared generally, but of his great popularity and the fine qualities which justify it there can be no question. The thorough working efficiency of the British army is undeniably due in great part to him, and his talent is of a more valuable kind than the most brilliant knowledge of strategy might be in this war, which seems to have killed strategy entirely. It looks like the old case of a career sacrificed to political intrigues and exigencies. The present week will be a stormy one in British parliamentary circles. Robertson's dismissal is clearly a more serious manifestation of the agitation which has involved Replington's arraignment and may be taken as equally indicative of Government nervousness. To an outside observer there are too many cross currents in the situation for a clear judgment, but it is certain that Lloyd George's popularity is not growing. On the face of it his handling of the knotty problem of united Allied control has not been as successful or as convincing as his dramatic defence of the innovation when it was made, and there is no little dissatisfaction among the British people as a whole, who will not patiently see repeated this year, the military and administrative blunders of last. The notorious connection of the Premier with a large newspaper clique has gradually added recruits to the ranks of his opponents, though the position is complicated by the fact that several of the most influential of these papers are moved less by loyalty to him than hostility to Asquith and others associated with him. There is no need to speculate upon the outcome of it all, since it will be known in a few days, but it is certain that it is likely to have a great effect upon British participation in the war and probably upon the war itself.

When Doctors Disagree.

When physicians fall out the result is very apt to be disastrous to the patient. Yet seeing that a saw can cut both ways, it sometimes happens that a disagreement may terminate in favor of the subject. Viewing the present acute situation in England in this light we may perhaps arrive at the conclusion that the political trouble which is foreshadowed in yesterday's dispatches may end in a better and more successful carrying on of the war-to victory. It is almost too much to hope that the politician can be absolutely eliminated from taking any part in the active conduct of the war. He apparently commands the situation in the Old Country, and what is more, does not seem inclined to relinquish one jot or tittle of that control. Whether this determination is in the best interests of the Empire or not, at this distance, can say? But we can, and do say that there is too much politics, too much of the playing of the political game to ensure any early decisions over the enemy. We are not concerned so much with the backing and filling of the politicians as we are with their interference in field matters, said interference being calculated to prolong the struggle, which may not inconceivably end in a draw with the enemy, through their hampering both naval and military operations. The whole resources of the Empire are being used; men and money are being freely spent to bring about victory for Freedom and Justice. But every effort is being damaged and every attempt frustrated by a coterie of intriguing parliamentarians. While we are asked not to accept the dicta of the London Morning Post too seriously, we must accept, nevertheless, a great part of its censure of the Prime Minister and the Government as being justified. The trade of a soldier is to fight; the business of a politician, to talk. There is a great gulf set between the two, but the fatal part of it is, that the politicians' talk is able to overcome and render nugatory the victories won by the soldier. English history shows us that this has been the case very often. Is it to be repeated again? Mistakes have been made and will continue to be made while army and navy chiefs and heads of departments are at odds with each other. The time has come when the nation itself must take a hand and show to its rulers that it wants the war won, and won at all costs. The petty squabbles in the Imperial Parliament are not illuminating and it is looming on the horizon that John Bull is becoming impatient. He will not stand for any janissary work by politicians or press. The methods of bowstringing are not to his liking, and shortly the giant awakens to the fact that there is incapacity and bungling in high places, directly will there be such a shaking up as England never before witnessed. The forced retirement of Sir William Robertson, head of the British General Staff, may precipitate a crisis in the home land which may have the effect of nullifying all that has been done by both the Army and Navy. It is time that a halt was called. Unity and action are the forces needed now. It will be useless when the Hun is at the gate to indulge in recriminations. Concentration at home and co-ordination with our Allies will bring victory within easy reach, but for that end we must all stand shoulder to shoulder.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Give the visitors a right royal Newfoundland welcome on their arrival. Clean up disease! particularly that of the nature which exists in our midst to-day. A de luxe brand of potatoes was banned in Chicago some days ago. They were wrapped singly in pink tissue paper and sold at the rate of eight cents per pound. Local farmers are requested not to copy. Nobody suggests indicting Madame Luna, though she has repeatedly violated the order for "lightless nights."

We have no right to manufacture a pound of chocolates while children are wanting sugar.—(J. H. Thomas, M. P.)

"How therefore and bluster and yell as you may, you kid gloved, purse proud city aristocrats, you will be driven from your seats. No longer trustworth; doomed to disappointment by your belief in your nauseating, sickening pride."—(Thus Ajax in the Advocate.)

Officer: "Why were you not at roll-call last night?"
Defaulter: "Well, sir, with this ere camp camouflaged so much, I couldn't find my way out of the canteen."—(Punch.)

Hockey Notes.

The King's College hockey team are due to arrive early to-morrow morning by the Sagona and will have a try-out at the Prince's Rink during the day. With Doc Power in goal and Power on the wing the city seven have a "powerful" team. Mr. O. R. Smith who visited here some years ago with the Swastikas is coming along with the College boys. In the event of the "Winter" aggregation freezing out the city seven, "Gabriel," of the visitors, will blow his horn. War veterans R. Herder and Mann, of the City team, are ready for action to-morrow night. The prospects are in aid of the W. F. A., so enough said.

Note from a Sailor's Wife.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please give me space in your paper to make a few remarks concerning Navy men's pay. How is it such a distinction is made between the Navy and Army that soldiers' wives get $41.70 a month, while the sailors' wives get $21.00 a month. At the rate of prices it is not enough to keep body and soul together. We trust some one will take this matter up, and right the wrong that is done to the sailors' wives. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor.—Margain, Yours truly,

War Bread Show.

We understand that the Food Control Board is proposing to have an exhibition of war breads, etc., in the British Hall on to-morrow fortnight (Wednesday, March 6). The idea is to invite housewives throughout the city to submit for exhibition loaves of bread composed of flour and adulterants such as potatoes, oatmeal, cornmeal, etc., and also samples of buns, cakes, muffins, made out of similar materials. Prizes will be given for the best examples in the various classes, and it is hoped by this means to stimulate the production in the homes of the people of various kinds of war breads, the more especially as in the near future only standard flour will be obtainable, and people will then have to recognize and accustom themselves to the fact that the white bread, which has been in such general use for years past, will be no longer possible. His Excellency the Governor has kindly extended his patronage to the affair and will open the show on that day.

B.I.S. Annual Meeting.

The 112th annual meeting of the B. I. S. was held last night. President Hon. J. D. Ryan in the chair, when last year's executive was returned unopposed for the coming term, as follows:
President—J. D. Ryan.
Vice-Pres.—J. L. Spattory.
First Asst. V.P.—J. C. Pippy.
Second Asst. V.P.—P. F. Moore.
Treasurer—J. Campbell.
Secretary—T. F. Halley.
Chairman of Schools—J. P. Grotty.
Chairman of Review and Correspondence—W. B. Comerford.
Chairman of Charities—E. L. Carter.
Secretary of Schools—A. Doyle.

A hearty welcome was extended by the President, on behalf of the Society, to Rev. Bro. J. E. Ryan, who was present and who recently returned from Victoria, B.C. Rev. Bro. Ryan—in a brief address thanked all for the kindly welcome extended and expressed his great pleasure at once more being back again among those who had always shown him such great kindness.

The report submitted by Secretary Halley was most acceptable and brought a sense of solid satisfaction to the members generally. It commented on the successful celebration of the Feast of the Patron Saint last year and of the ceremonies in connection therewith. Referring to amusements under the patronage of the Society report continued that the drama "Eileen Oge" staged on St. Patrick's evening, 1917, drew a crowded house. The sincerest thanks of the Society were given the talented performers. On March 26th a special meeting was held at which resolutions supporting Home Rule for Ireland were unanimously passed and copies telegraphed the then Premier, at that time attending the Imperial Conference in London, from whom a most cordial reply was received, in which he expressed himself in entire accord with the aspiration embodied in cable.

Death laid no light hand on the members, the following having been taken—Messrs. McGrath, T. Farrell, Hon. James Ryan, R. Cashin and M. K. Greene. In France have fallen Lt. John Edens, Sergeant P. Tobin and Pte. W. J. Power. The relatives have been tendered the sincerest sympathies of the Society. From the teaching staff of the Schools has departed Rev. Brother O'Hurley, a figure so well known during the forty years that he taught in the class room, that it seems as though he were with us yet. His gentle presence will be sorely missed, but the spirit which he instilled into those of his classes will live in them. The School Committee has shown the practical management to be in a healthy condition. The valuable nature of our buildings require the services of this Committee to conserve and protect their interests. The Christian Brothers, ever to the fore in the full tide of success and prosperity, and we must realize more the full import of the word "Christian Brother" and then do all we can financially and otherwise to make adequate recompense for the abnegating work of these gentlemen who teach our boys. The return of Rev. Brother J. E. Ryan is welcomed with pleasure, and his return to his adopted native air is already working wonders with his health. Financially the Society has been very fortunate. As compared with 1916-17 the income shows an increase of $125.45. Gross earnings of past year amounted to $11,544.49, and gross expenditure $10,768.33, leaving a balance on hand of $776.11. Furthermore the funded indebtedness of the Society is reduced by $1,000.00 and now comprises the sum of $10,400.00. From the report it will be noticed that this liability is decreasing slowly and surely. The Literary and Amusement Committee present upon its departure from office a creditable account of its stewardship, which will be noticed from the report of its Secretary and Treasurer. Thanks are due to those ladies and gentlemen who gratuitously performed the drama "Peg O'My Heart" at the Casino Theatre last spring. The Club aspect of the Society merits the closest attention on the part of its members. It is a valuable asset for the success of the Institution is the achievement of our aims, and it should be fostered, stimulated and cultivated by every means at the disposition of its members. Congratulations were extended to the Society on reaching its 112th anniversary and the members thanked for their courtesy to the officers during their term.

After the adoption of the Report which was signed by J. D. Ryan, Esq., President, and T. P. Halley, Esq., Secretary, votes of thanks were passed His Grace the Archbishop, the Clergy and Press for kindnesses during the past term, and the officers briefly expressed thanks for their re-election. Meeting then adjourned till Sunday next.

The Inside of the Shoe.

It is not always the outside appearance of a Shoe which justifies its purchase.

INVICTUS SHOES

have all the appearance and style that can be desired to please the eye—to please the sense of fitness—Invictus Shoes have also the qualities which are only apparent during the period of wear—comfort from the first moment to the last—the best of material and thorough workmanship in the hidden places. These are factors which conduce towards real Shoe satisfaction—inside information, as it were, for Invictus Shoe wearers.

Some Thoughts on Knitting.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

I have a friend, a very estimable woman who does a great deal of good in the way of her choice, and yet is very much opposed to what she calls "the way women have gone crazy about knitting for the soldiers."

"I think it is perfectly ridiculous," she says, "the way women lug their knitting about to public places and knit on cars and at lectures and all that sort of thing. A pose I call it. Why can't they be more reasonable about it?"

Is it a Time to Be Reasonable? If our men who are giving up business, their homes, their friends and possibly their life itself (or maybe more) for the cause are in need of warm things—and presumably that is why we are knitting—is it a time to be reasonable and sensible and decorous in our choice of times for knitting?

She says this devotion is a pose. Perhaps it is with some people. But there are good poses and bad poses, and if this pose contributes toward the health and well being of our soldiers I call it a mighty good pose and regret that more women aren't posing. Of course, if one is animated purely by loyalty and the passionate desire to help, no such the better. But not everyone is big enough for that.

Knitting For The Kaiser. This woman has two daughters. One of them spends every spare minute knitting for the soldiers. The other knits for the soldiers, too, but finds considerable time to knit for the Kaiser (which, as of course you know is the latest for making pretty things for yourself and your well off friends instead of knitting for the soldiers). I know which daughter this woman approves the most. And I know which girl I admire the most.

Three Cheers For The Men Knitters. I have also heard people make fun of men for knitting. I can't think of anything finer. I think it is quite a bit more splendid than for women to knit, because it means going out of their sphere and braving ridicule. I am told that some of the men students in my alma mater knit during lectures. If it is true I am more proud of my college than ever. A man who runs a little inn in the Rockies, told me that he had a boys' club consisting of boy scouts from 12 to eighteen staying with him last summer and every one of those boys were knitting. I call that perfectly splendid.

Not so pleasing is the chronicle of a man whose sole occupation is being the husband of his wealthy wife. He knits a great deal of the time—making sweaters for himself. I am sure the Kaiser would welcome that man to Berlin.

Fairville, Sept. 30, 1902. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—We wish to inform you that we consider your MINARD'S LINIMENT a very superior article, and we use it as a sure relief for sore throat and chest. When I tell you I would not be without it if the price was one dollar a bottle, I mean it.

Yours truly, CHAS. F. TILTON.

THE UNKIND ACT.

My aunt came to me, in my hair, and talked while I was busy; I smote her with a rocking chair, and knocked her cold and dizzy. The butler bore her form away, and sent out for a doctor, and I could hear "the sawbones" say, "The blow hit a badly shocked her." And sitting there in solitude, remorse soon drove me dotty; I sighed, "Oh, why am I so rude, unkindlike and naughty? Why do I thus my temper lose, o'er every trifling matter, and bombard guests with chairs and shoes, when they come in to chatter? If I had said, 'Dear aunt, you see that I'm composing sonnets, so please don't talk just now to me of furbelows and bonnets,' I know that she'd have understood she would no longer tease me, for she is gentle, sweet and good, and always wants to please me. But no, I sweat her with a chair, and make her top-knot bloody, and servants drag her by the hair from out my gloomy study. I am a brute! I should be canned! My soul is dark and shady! Alas, that I should raise my hand to such a smooth old lady! Next day, a sad, repentant man, I went to beg her pardon; she soaked me with the frying pan, and chased me through the garden.

Horsepower is a term which is used to describe the brute strength of the automobile when there are no hills or sand in sight. It is one of the most fluctuating terms in use, as the purchaser never knows whether the agent is referring to a Belgian draft horse or a Shetland pony.

Before a new automobile is delivered to the customer it is fitted up with headlights, trunk tray, motor-meter and eight-day clock, after which the horsepower is inserted under the hood, where the owner cannot see it struggle. After the car has been driven for a few months this horsepower begins to ooze away in large chunks, which is very discouraging to the man who is demonstrating its pulling qualities to a friend who is about to buy. Many a man has lost a nice commission on a new car by taking out a prospect in his own machine and having it strangle itself to death on a nine per cent. grade. The only place to demonstrate the horsepower is an automobile on a paved street which starts from the top of a long hill.

Some automobiles have more horsepower than others, but none of them can pull out of a muddle without the aid of a farm team. One of the most ghastly sights in life is that of a huge, seventy-horsepower touring car which has sunk up to its hips in clay mud and has to be yanked to the top of the hill by a span of mules. Why is it that man can put the brains and muscles of seventy Clydesdale three-year-olds into an automobile, only to have them sit down on their haunches in the mud and perform the functions of a steam dredge? If there were less horsepower in our automobiles and more rear tries with cleats in them like a Mogul tractor, there would be fewer mud-bespattered

Eat Oranges at Night

Then You Will Sleep Soundly and Rise Happy in the Morning. If you are troubled with sleeplessness or if you are restless at nights, eat oranges before retiring. Oranges are the best sedative in the world. A man on the orange diet will never get rheumatism, and he will have no appetite for alcoholic liquors. Both apples and oranges cure the liquor habit.

Oranges, eaten before retiring, will make you sleep so soundly that you arise in the morning invigorated and refreshed, with the notion that you have been drugged with some potent that makes life all the happier and joyous. The acid of the orange will help purge you in case you need purging, and the sugar of the orange will sweeten your breath and your whole body. The coolness of the juice will reduce the fevers of your digestive tract, and you will be 1,000 per cent better off for the orange diet.

Your Boys and Girls.

Proprietary food may be classified into those made upon a milk basis and also those made upon a cereal basis. Or they may be grouped so as to show which are intended to be added to fresh cows milk after they have been mixed with water, and which are intended to be mixed only with water.

The general consensus of opinion among authorities seems to be that one or another of these foods may be temporarily used when fresh cows milk is not available for any reason, as in travelling or in the warm climates, but their continued and exclusive use is to be condemned.

All are expensive and many of them do not give the baby the required food elements nor the proper proportion of these elements, while the use of some of them is known to be followed by various forms of illness.

Do not think that your little one can be strong and healthy by merely getting plenty of fresh air and sleep. He needs plenty of exercise, too, indoors and out. If you are busy with housework and wish to guard against harm to the baby, why not make him a creeping pen? It is merely a fence made in four sections eighteen inches high and four feet long. There are hinges on three of the corners and a latch on the fourth. The pen can be covered with a netting and an old blanket may be laid on the floor to keep the baby from bumps.

Household Notes.

Wash parsley thoroughly, then put in an airtight box in the ice box if you wish to keep it.

Before putting a garment with snap fasteners on it through a wringer, snap the fasteners shut.

Parsley seed planted in a box in a kitchen window will produce much good material for garnishing, etc.

A glass of hot water with lemon juice is excellent for the complexion if taken just before going to bed.

If you have to pack bottles in a trunk, tie in the cords and wrap them in soft towels, garments, etc., and place in the middle of the trunk.

LONDON, To-Day. A German official statement received here says: On the night of Feb. 18, German light forces again raided the eastern part of the English Channel, when extensive patrol services heretofore stationed in the area were no longer there. An English steamer off Dover was sunk by British Admiralty forces. The British steamer was sunk, or was fired on, and declares that papers were at their posts.

British Army Headquarters in France, To-Day.—The great German offensive on the Western front may be expected to begin at any moment now, and as far as the British front is concerned, the main thrust will be made on the sector between Arras and St. Quentin. Tanks and a new type of gas will be employed by the enemy in their attempt to break through the Allied lines. Other attacks will be delivered further south. These facts have become known through German prisoners and from information learned in other ways. The plans of the German higher command are complete. After many weeks of intensive training of assaulting troops they are ready to make the supreme and final effort, which has been advertised so boldly in the past weeks. Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Ludendorff appear to have realized that the old methods of attack, in which long bombardment is employed, are too well known to produce the results desired. To-Day's Messages.

BEAVERBROOK UNDER FIRE. LONDON (via Reuter's, Ottawa), To-Day. Applying to Fred. Whyte, M.P., in Commons to-day, Hon. A. Bonar Law said he presumed that Lord Beaverbrook still retained his interest as proprietor of the Daily Express, although he was assumed to have resigned from the post. Bonar Law said he presumed that Lord Beaverbrook received confidential Government information. Mr. Whyte asked whether the House was to understand that another newspaper owner also received confidential information. Bonar Law said: "I have no information as to Lord North's appointment as Director of Propaganda in enemy countries. I have no information as to whether it was thought he would do more work in a more effective manner than anyone else." After some further questions regarding Lord Beaverbrook, Mr. Whyte, M.P., said, "There are no reasons whatever for supposing that Lord Beaverbrook should be entrusted with confidential matters, as he has by his conduct in this House and his service to the country proved himself not only a most enlightened but a most trustworthy member of the community." The Speaker here intervened and no answer was returned.

S. S. Institute, Gower St. Church.

Wednesday Evening at 8 o'clock.

Is there any question of more vital importance to the future success of Church and State than the training of the child? Not one. That is the problem under consideration to-morrow evening at Gower St. Church.

Those who were privileged to attend last year's Institute retain vivid recollections of that profitable and inspiring session. We are planning to do even better this year. We expect the 2,500 Sunday School scholars, the 250 officers and teachers, the 2,000 interested parents of the Methodist churches of this city to remember to-morrow evening's meeting. If, however, you are not found in that category you will be welcomed.

An interesting feature of the programme will be a Round Table discussion on Sunday School work, conducted by Rev. N. M. Guy. You are interested in this work, you have given its problems serious consideration, you have something to contribute to that discussion. The importance of the work demands that you do it. A collection will be taken in aid of Sunday School work.—Com.

War Menus.

TO SAVE WHEAT, BEEF & BACON FOR THE MEN AT THE FRONT.

(Prepared by Committees of the W.P.A. at the request of the Food Control Board).

WEDNESDAY.

Potato and Onion Pie—6 large potatoes, 3 onions, 3 ozs. butter, pepper and salt.

Method—Peel and wash potatoes, cut in slices about 1/4 inch thick. Slice onions very thin in rounds, butter dish and put a layer of potato in bottom, then a few pieces of butter, then a thin layer of onion, pepper and salt and so on until dish is full, leaving onion on top. Cook in oven for three hours. Serve with grated cheese.

Baked Bananas with Brown Bread Cereal—Put pieces of left-over brown bread in the oven. When dry and crisp roll, not too finely, with the rolling pin. Keep them in a covered preserve jar and you will have a "brand new" cereal without expense.

To serve with the bananas, peel the fruit and lay in a buttered baking dish. Cook together for three minutes half a cupful of water, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of margarine and two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar. Remove from the fire, add the juice of one lemon and pour over the fruit. Bake until tender, basting with the syrup, and serve with the crushed bread crumbs sprinkled over them.

THURSDAY.

Macaroni and Meat Pie—1 lb. minced meat, 1/2 lb. macaroni, 2 ozs. dripping, 1 teaspoonful onion, 1 teaspoonful parsley, 2 ozs. crust bread soaked in cold water. Season to taste.

Method—Cook macaroni in salted water for half hour, when cool strain and chop. Put in bottom of pudding basin. Mix remainder of ingredients together and pack in centre of macaroni. Steam for one hour. Turn out and serve with brown gravy.

Graham Pudding—Beat up one egg. Add one small half cup butter, 1/2 cup sweet milk, 1/2 cup molasses, 1 cup raisins, spices to taste, 1 1/2 cup Graham flour mixed with 1/2 teaspoonful soda. Steam 3 1/2 hours. Serve with sauce.

Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

A PRETTY NEGLIGEE.

2329—As here shown, blue and white figured crepe was used. The design is also good for lawn, percale, Japanese toweling, albatross, cashmere, silk, flannel, etc. The bolero portion may be omitted. The fineness is held at the waistline by a belt, sash, or girde.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, Medium, 36-38; Large, 40-42; and Extra Large, 44-46 inches bust measure. Size Medium requires 6 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A Dainty Dress for Mother's Girl.

2294—This will make a charming and becoming dress and one that will be real comfortable. The front forms a panel with points that overlap a belt which holds the fullness of the dress at the sides and back. The sleeve has a neat cuff stitched over a straight band. This model is good for gingham, lawn, batiste, chambray, repp, pique, serge, cashmere, velvet or corduroy. It is nice, too, for plain or checked suitings.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes, 2-4, 6 and 8 years. Size 8 requires 3 1/2 yards of 44-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Hr. Grace Notes.

At the skating rink on Thursday night last a "ladies privilege" was the order of the day. The young gentlemen present were kept busy filling their engagements with the fair sex.

The upper part of the harbor is frozen over and people from the South Side are crossing forth and back on the ice bridge.

A sad happening took place at Riverhead early yesterday morning, when one of its oldest residents, Mr. Michael Kehoe, was burned to death in his home. The old gentleman was the father of Capt. T. M. Kehoe, who arrived from St. John's on Saturday morning and, we are informed, lit an all stove and placed it on the top of the stairs. Shortly after Mrs. (Capt.) Kehoe noticed the stove was smoking and fearing an explosion, threw the stove over the stairs. Fire immediately started, and when help arrived it was with great difficulty that Mrs. Kehoe was rescued by being taken from an upstairs window. But the old gentleman was burnt with the house and all its contents.

We regret to report that our respected and highly esteemed fellow townsman, Mr. James Cron, is confined to his home through illness for the past couple of weeks. His many friends hope to see him about as usual soon.

The storm last night and this morning piled banks of snow in many places on Water and other streets, and citizens are busy to-day clearing the snow off the side walks. It is noticeable that some Water Street property owners are slow in doing this necessary work. We trust the police to see this work accomplished with as little delay as possible after each snow fall.

Mr. Thomas Courage, a highly respected resident of the West End, met with a serious accident on Tuesday. He was crossing Water Street and was knocked down by a horse and sleigh going west. Several ribs were broken and our old friend was otherwise shaken up as well. His host of friends are hopeful that his illness will not be of long duration and that his recovery will be thorough.

DR. J. P. MORRIS' KIDNEY PILLS

For Swollen Joints and Aches, Constipation, Urinary and Bladder Disorders and all Irregularities of the System.

What Need for a Constructive Railway Policy.

Evening Telegram.

Sir,—A railway is everything to a country. . . . A railway is of utility to a country generally, in its special advantage to particular localities. . . . Sir E. P. Morris, the Premier, said many things were not so during his long and useful political career, but among remarks to his credit, expressing his sense, the above will survive in the multitude of high-sounding things he gave expression to will have been forgotten.

For these reasons, a railway should be treated as a national interest in the most important sense. . . . Recently events have shown people of this country personal interest and national interest in the railway system. . . . It is of special advantage to every locality within the boundaries of this country. Transportation facilities are a most important factor in the development of its industry and commerce.

The railway is an industrial enterprise which is to afford to the people the most efficient means of transportation. . . . The system as they are now operating is the most inefficient of the general public. . . . The operating department is the most inefficient of the whole system. . . . It is the duty of the Government to see that the railway system is operated in the most efficient manner.

To be efficiently operated, a railway system is a national enterprise, not a private venture. . . . The Government should take upon its being operated for the benefit of the public and the interest of the internal life and industry of the country.

The railway system has cost us millions of dollars. It represents a greater portion of our national debt. It is, or should be, the most important and efficiently operated of our greatest national assets. It is not constructed for the sole purpose of creating huge fortunes for the owners, nor to be converted into a gambling monopoly.

No time in our history has the railway system been so much neglected. We are to-day practically depending upon the cross-country railway for communication with the outside world. The serious danger of steamship tonnage has

Need for a Constructive Railway Policy.

The Evening Telegram.

"A railway is everything to a country generally. It is a special advantage to particular localities."—Sir E. P. Morris.

Premier said many things during his long and distinguished political career, but among the remarks to his credit, expressing the views of the above will survive the multitude of high-sounding phrases that have been forgotten.

This remark now as it is so appropriate to the subject of the efficient operation of our railway system.

In this country the railway is well adapted to its particular localities, but it is not an advantage to every locality within the boundaries of this country. Transportation facilities are a most important factor in the development of its industry and commerce.

The railway is an industrial enterprise. Its function is to afford to industry and society the transportation facilities. It aids industry by integration.

In this country the railway is an industrial agency par excellence. It is a maintaining force in the development and advancement of our internal commerce as well as a means of communication with the outside world.

The railway system is a national enterprise, not a private venture. It is operated in its interest, to all ends and purposes, the servant of the public. But instead of being a national enterprise, operated in the best interests of this Dominion, under the management it seems to have been transformed into a private enterprise, and operated as a personal business. Its management have a complete monopoly of its relations with the public and the utilization of its transportation facilities.

It appears to be working on the principle that the railway is to be operated for the sole convenience of the Government. The Government should be being operated for the benefit of the public and the improvement of the internal life and industry of the country.

The railway system has cost us millions of dollars. It represents a greater portion of our national assets. It is, or should be, the greatest national asset. It is constructed for the sole purpose of being converted into a national monopoly.

In our history the maintenance and efficient operation of the road meant so much to the country. We are to-day practicing upon the cross-country railway for communication with the outside world. The serious decrease of steamship tonnage has almost completely deprived us of reliable and continuous ocean communication with the neighboring continent. Transatlantic traffic is reduced to a minimum. The supplies which we formerly received from England and other European countries have dwindled to very small proportions, and the outlook is even more gloomy than the most pessimistic amongst us would predict a year ago. We cannot, with any degree of certainty, depend upon trans-atlantic traffic to meet our requirements in manufactured commodities.

Our steamship communication with Canada and the United States has been seriously decreased during the past year, and there is no certainty that the situation, which is now gloomy enough to cause serious misgivings as to our future supplies of the necessities of life—food, fuel and clothing—will be relieved to any extent. On the contrary there is the probability that conditions will be even worse in the matter of tonnage. We must also calculate on the real menace of submarine warfare invading our waters during Germany's final effort in her death struggle. That she will attempt to strike at American shipping on this side of the Atlantic in the effort to cripple the United States and Canada's transportation facilities, is not improbable.

We are, therefore, confronted with a serious problem in the maintenance of our lines of transportation. And the chief of these is our railway communication across the country.

For these reasons our railway transportation and management should be treated as a matter of national interest in which every citizen is personally interested.

Recent events have disclosed to the people of this country that a spirit of personal interest, and the promotion of factional advantage dominates the minds of responsible officials of the system. It has been demonstrated in an unmistakable manner that the general interests of the public are being disregarded, and the trade of the country made to suffer by private intrigues which apparently are as inimical to the efficient management of the system as they are to the interests of the general public.

The operating department of a railway is the most important of the whole system. It demands men at its head who are thoroughly conversant with their duties and have a practical knowledge of the work from the ground up.

To be efficiently operated a railway must have men in control who know their duty thoroughly and are conscious of their responsibility.

The record of the Reid Newfoundland Company's operation of our railway during the past few years has been such as to call for drastic action on the part of the authorities, but nothing has been done to remedy matters.

The Government have a duty in this connection. It is to awaken the Company to a sense of its responsibilities to the people of the Colony. To suppose that the men now in control of the management of the railway will move in the matter of procuring more efficient operation is a foolish mistake. We have had concrete evidence of that during the past two months.

Yours truly,
Feb. 19, 1918. ARGUS.

Convention Service.

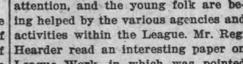

The first Convention meeting under the auspices of the Methodist Church was held last night at Gower Street Church, Rev. H. Royle in the chair. Following the opening devotions, which were in part led by Messrs. W. H. Peters and Samuel Penny, Mrs. Gordon Christian sang "Just For To-day." Reports of the four City Leagues were next presented. These reports in some measure indicated the work that is being done in St. John's by the Epworth Leagues. The forward movement for Missions is being supported by the young people; ships in port are regularly visited on Sundays, during the greater part of year, and good literature distributed amongst the crews; the Poor Asylum and Penitentiary receive every attention, and the young folk are being helped by the various agencies and activities within the League. Mr. Reg. Hearder read an interesting paper on League Work, in which was pointed out both the ideals and the actual work of the League. Following this Mr. Tucker rendered "Remember now thy Creator." After singing hymn 355 the questionnaire was taken up. Questions concerning the success or otherwise of the League; the ability of the Church to meet the needs of its young people, and other phases, brought out many helpful suggestions. That there should be a central place where the young people of both sexes, in St. John's, could meet under Christian influences, and find things of physical, mental and spiritual interest, upon which to build their lives, seemed to be the prevailing idea. At the close of the discussion, a general wish prevailed to have it prolonged. After singing the National Anthem, Rev. Dr. Bond pronounced the Benediction and meeting closed. This evening's subject will be: "The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper." A short address will be given by Rev. D. B. Hemmson on the place of the Sacrament in Christian Worship. All who attend are assured of a very profitable meeting.

ERADICATING WRINKLES.
Wrinkles have been traced to many causes, and in order to eradicate them you must first discover the root from which your particular species of wrinkles have sprung. In the first place wrinkles are a natural consequence of age, for when the tissues beneath the skin lose their firmness, the surface becomes seamed and lined. The only way to stay the hand of Father Time is to keep the tissues well nourished and the skin clean and healthy. If you have always done this, and wrinkles continue to appear, then they are due to some other cause.

Perhaps your eyes are weak, and to screen them from strong light you twist your facial muscles about your eyes and brows, causing crow's feet and lines across the forehead. Women who need glasses when reading or working should wear them if they desire to keep the skin free from wrinkles.

Headaches are another reason for the skin becoming wrinkled. Every woman knows that at the approach of a headache she involuntarily raises her brows or draws them together. Also the eyes, being affected by the pain, close entirely or partially and the facial muscles become tense. This is a short route to crow's feet and in a year or so, the face will appear old and unlovely.

Consult your physician and find relief from headaches, and then apply plenty of cold cream to your skin. At the first indication of an ache rub the cream well into the skin, not to relieve the pain, but to prevent the skin from feeling the strain.

To get rid of mites, hunt out their entrances to cupboard or pantry and plaster them with a mixture of soft laundry soap and red pepper.

The meeting of the Daughters of Empire held yesterday at the King George the Fifth Institute was largely attended. The Vice-President, Mrs. T. J. Duley, presided. The matter of a summer outing for a period of two weeks to be given the children of our soldiers and sailors was discussed and will be carried out, unless unforeseen circumstances prevent it. This idea is an excellent one and would be of incalculable benefit to the children, should it materialize. In order to assist the financial side the proceeds of the Annual Empire Day (May 24th) entertainment, will be devoted to this project. A report, from the young ladies interested in the collection of eggs, for the use of patients at Waterford Hall and Jensen Camp, was received which showed that generous assistance was being given, the collection amounting to about 1000 eggs weekly.

As the language changes and dictionaries must change with it. Dictionaries made a few years ago, even with frequent revisions, to meet the needs of to-day, require rebuilding to give the balance between the words and definitions in use to-day and those of yesterday. Our modern Dictionary not called "Webster's" because the dictionary can claim to be more useful at the present time than the death of Webster in the year 1843 to render the use of his name as author of it a misnomer.

The Universal Series of Concise Type School Dictionaries are upon the foundation laid by Webster and other Lexicographers modernized by Charles Morris. In clearness of type and in the way in which the eye finds the simplicity and accuracy of definition in fullness of contents and logical arrangement, these Dictionaries are found to excel other works of the purpose.

Among the noteworthy features of the following: Each word is set into syllables to show the pronunciation of words. The organization of words. All proper nouns begin with capital letters, and words with small letters. Synonyms and antonyms are in the body of the definitions following the definitions of the words. The pronunciation of words shown by a clear and properly centered system of phonetic symbols with key to pronunciation at the top of each page.
