THE Lady of the Night

Amelia Makes a Success

CHAPTER XVII.

"And they have such a tremendous advantage in this place; with a proper system of running the stone down to the quay they could ship—oh, they could go on shipping till all was blue! They could make a rough harbor in the cove, and a proper quay. I shall write to Mr. Trunton about it."

"I should," said Nora; "they'll appoint you manager, and you'll make your fortune. But perhaps you wouldn't like to be buried alive in a lonely, desolate place like this?"

"I shouldn't care," he said moodily. "I'd as lief spend my days here as anywhere else."

Nora shot a glance at him from the corner of her eye.

"You speak as if you were an old man, or as if you had had a great deal of trouble," she said with a short laugh.

"Yes; I have had some trouble," he said after a moment's silence. "You wouldn't understand if I told you what it was. You are too young."

"How do you know?" retorted Nora. "I fancy I could make a guess—young as I am."

Elliot looked at her with some surprise and curiosity on his open countenance, and after a pause Nora said shrewdly—

"Shall I guess?"

"You can if you like," he replied; "I expect you'll be very far wrong."

"And I expect not," said Nora. She knew that she was venturing on dangerous ground, but the temptation to learn the truth from his own lips was irresistible. "I have always known that the trouble that men make the most fuss over, the one that hits them hardest, is about some woman."

"The surprise on Elliot's face deepened. "You are a wonderful kind of boy," he said. "What do you know about women?"

"Nothing," she replied; "but I know something about men. Now, then have I guessed right?"

"You have, boy," said Elliot moodily. "And you are right; no other trouble hits a man so hard; there's nothing so difficult for him to get over as the loss of the girl he—cares for. I hope you won't find that out some day."

"I'm perfectly certain I never shall," said Nora emphatically. "I don't like women, and I can't understand why you—men make yourselves so silly about them."

"You'd better wait a while," said Elliot. "Wait till you've met the sweetest, the dearest girl in all the world, and got to want her so badly that nothing else matters. Wait till you think you have got her, and then find that you have lost her for ever. That's my case—But we don't want to talk about it."

"Why not?" asked Nora. "Tell me all about her. I'll do you good."

"There's nothing more to tell," he said. "It's all over and done with, and I've got to live it through."

"Did you have a quarrel, or did she hit you?" inquired Nora, rather in fear and trembling, but still finding the temptation irresistible.

"Neither," said Elliot shortly. "There was a misunderstanding, a mistake. It was no fault of Nora's—He checked himself and bit his lip.

Nora turned her head away, and there was silence for a minute.

"It was my cousin, then, over at Byworthy?" she said quietly.

Elliot nodded. "Yes," he said. "The name slipped out. But, now you know, you'll respect my confidence, Cyril?"

"Why, of course," assented Nora. "But I shouldn't take the matter too seriously. What's the use? You said she was going to marry another man, didn't you?"

"Yes," said Elliot. "I met her step-mother—did you know that her father had married again?"

"Yes," said Nora, in a dry voice.

"I met Mrs. Ryall in London—"

"In London!" exclaimed Nora unguardedly. "Why, what was she—"

"She told me," went on Elliot, paying no attention to the question, "there's no doubt about it. I have lost her, and you'd understand what I feel if you had seen her—known her. But I must try and fight through it, as you say."

He rose and shook himself, and, catching Nora by the shoulders, shook her and laughed with a forced gaiety.

"You come down into the quarry and get a little exercise, young man."

Red, as if with indignation, Nora jerked herself free from the big hand and turned away defiantly.

"I'm not going to do anything of the kind," she flung back at him. "I'm going birds'-nesting." She stopped when she had gone a few yards and called back at him—

"Mind you write that letter to Mr. Trunton to-night."

And, strangely enough, Elliot called back an obedient "I will."

CHAPTER XVIII
"DON'T BEAT ME!"

Elliot Graham took a great liking to Cyril. The lad amused and interested him, and also puzzled him; for Cyril was a strange mixture of boyish impudence and audacity and, at times, of a reserve and aloofness far beyond his years.

Elliot worked hard at the quarry, and formulated his plans for its development; but he always found leisure for a stroll with Cyril; and the lad's companionship exerted a soothing influence on Elliot.

"Seems to me you're awfully sharp, youngster," he remarked one day, as they were strolling towards a part of the cliffs, where Nora had located a fine nest of rare seabirds. "You ought not to be wasting your time like this. You ought to be out in the world. Haven't you any father and mother?"

"No," said Nora, a lump rising in her throat.

"Anyway, you must have some friends," said Elliot, "come one who cares about your welfare."

"No, I haven't that I know of," said Nora. "Come to that, haven't you any?"

friends to look after you? You seem to want them a precious deal more than I do. What are you doing here on Lonaway? Why don't you go out into the world, and make your fortune?"

Elliot laughed his short laugh. "That's one for me," he said. "You're always ready, Cyril. But I have got this quarry to see to, while you are doing nothing."

"I beg your pardon," retorted Nora. "I am going for those eggs, and a pretty stiff bit of work it will be. Here we are, this is the place. Lie down and look just below you. See there," she continued, as Elliot obeyed, "it's just in that hollow place above the ledge. It's wonderful how artful the birds are; they build in places as difficult to get at as if the island were full of birds'-nesters with nothing else to do but rob the nests. But I think I can get this one; there's a shrub that looks as if it would hold, halfway down to the ledge. I can steady myself by that just long enough for me to reach the eggs. I only want one of them; it would be cruel to take them all. Just give me a hand, will you, till I find my footing."

Elliot, looking down into the great depths below, shuddered, and rose to his feet.

"You won't do anything of the kind," he said; "you'd slip and break your silly young neck. What do you want the eggs for? What's the use of them? Anyhow, you aren't going after this one; it's too risky. Look here, if you really want the beauty thing, I'll go down and get it for you."

Nora laughed derisively.

"You'd certainly break your silly neck," she said. "That shrub isn't strong enough to hold you for a minute, and I doubt whether the ledge is. You are too heavy for this kind of work, while I am light; and I am used to it, too."

"That may be," retorted Elliot; "but you won't go down, all the same."

"Oh, very well," said Nora, throwing herself down on the grass.

They gazed at the sea in silence for a minute or two, then suddenly Nora said—

"I fancy I hear Margery calling out; she has let one of the cattle astray, I suppose. You'd better go and help her."

He rose at once, and went in the direction in which Nora had jerked her head. But there was no Margery in sight, and he returned to the edge of the cliff to find that Nora had disappeared. He looked over and saw her standing on the narrow ledge, clutching the frail support of the shrub with one hand, and feeling in the nest with the other. She looked up at him triumphantly, and laughed defiantly. Elliot's heart grew sick, his brain whirled. Then, of course, fear gave place to anger.

"Come up, come up at once!" he cried sternly.

"All right; wait till I get the eggs," called back Nora. "There are four of them, and I'm trying to pick out the biggest. Would you like one? If so, I'll bring two."

"You come up!" he commanded her.

"Leave the eggs where they are, and come up at once, or I'll fetch you."

Nora laughed again, and, with unnecessary deliberation, took a couple of eggs and put them in her pocket; then she looked round her as if she were enjoying the scene, and at last began the perilous upward climb. Elliot leant over as far as he could, and stretched out his hand; presently it grasped hers lightly, he lugged her up the last few feet, then clutching her by the collar, he said, with an outburst of anger—

"Till teach you to play tricks on me, young man! I'm going to give you a good hiding."

Nora had come up a little breathlessly, her eyes laughing and dancing at the success of her stratagem; but swiftly her expression changed, the laughter fled from her face, and it went deathly white. At first she tried to struggle out of his grasp, then suddenly her eyes closed, she put out her hands against his chest and clung to him; her eyes opened with a piteous, imploring glance, and she sobbed chokingly—

"Don't—don't beat me! No, no, don't beat me! Oh, don't, don't!"

Elliot had raised his open hand; but the piteous eyes, the terror-stricken voice, the touch of the frail form as it clung to him, smothered his anger in a moment; his face softened, and he held her, but no longer threateningly.

"All right, all right!" he said quickly and soothingly. "I won't give you a hiding, though you deserve it. There, there! I didn't mean to frighten you like this. Why, what's the matter with the boy? Have you never had a licking before? That accounts for your impudence. For my word, it's almost my duty to give you one—but I'm not going to do it," he added hastily, for Nora was trembling violently, and her bosom was heaving with the sobs she was trying to repress. "You're a rum sort of boy," he remarked, after a pause. "One moment you are risking your life as if you didn't know what fear was, and the next you're whining, and yowling at a cuff of the head. Strikes me, Master Cyril, that for all your bounce, you are a coward at heart."

The easy, good-natured laugh with which the words were spoken hurt more than the taunt itself. Nora looked at him furiously.

"You're a coward, if you like," she said spitefully. "To strike a boy only half your size—and all for nothing!"

"Oh, nothing, you call it, do you?" said Elliot. "For young hegerat you made my heart come into my mouth. I thought you were certain to fall; and you'd have killed yourself for sure. Don't you ever attempt it again! Why, I was almost sick with fright. But there! It's all over now. Let's shake hands and be friends again."

He held out his hand; but Nora scornfully ignored it, and marched away.

She had no sooner got out of his sight in one of the hollows than she flung herself down, and gave way to a fit of trembling that made her teeth chatter. It was not fear only, but a complex emotion which literally overwhelmed her. She still saw the upturned hand, heard the stern voice. It was because of a blow that she had left her home. And yet—and yet—she was conscious that if Elliot had given her the beating she knew she deserved, she could have borne it better than the blow which her step-mother had dealt her. And through all her sensations ran a subtle one of satisfaction. His anger had been aroused because of his terror on her account. If he had not been so anxious, he would have been content with scolding her; but, as she had laughed up at him from the ledge, she had seen his white, strained face above her; at that moment the strong man wore the countenance of a terror-stricken woman looking on the danger of some one she loves. Still shaky, and pale, she got up, and went to a distant part of the island.

Canadian Parliament Prorogued Saturday.

Duke of Devonshire Says Farewell to Commons--Reichstag Votes Confidence in Premier Wirth--Coal Miners Reject Government Offer of Settlement.

Shipping Situation Deplored.

LONDON, June 5. The shipping situation in British waters is the worst on record. Dockers and seamen, firemen, officers and crew are walking about, looking for work.

Polish Traitor Shot.

WARSAW, June 5. Henry Iwanicki of the Polish Legation Corps, convicted by Court of High Treason in disposing of military secrets to men, who were to be British agents, was executed on Friday by a firing squad.

Wirth Sustained.

BERLIN, June 5. The Reichstag, yesterday, voted confidence in the Government of Chancellor Wirth by 218 to 77, with 100 abstentions.

Duke's Farewell Address.

OTTAWA, June 5. The traditional ceremonies of the Duke of Devonshire prorogued Parliament yesterday afternoon. His Excellency read his farewell address, which he addressed for the last time to the expiration of his term of office.

Labour Situation in England.

LONDON, June 5. The House of Commons yesterday rejected the latest Government offer for settlement of the coal strike, which expires on June 10. The Minister of Labour, Lloyd George, Secretary of the Coal Miners' Union, the Premier wrote to the House yesterday.

The Trouble at Grand Falls.

Evening Telegram. Sir--There is no particular reason to report in this, our fourth issue on the Grand Falls strike, the situation being, in all essentials, unchanged. The cable received by the Employees Committee from the London Office of the A.N.D. Co., in reply to our wire of May 19th, was as follows:

The scale of wages which we have been compelled to announce at Grand Falls was worked out by the various Directors after careful regard to the comfort and welfare of our workers. Paper manufactured on the mill at Grand Falls has never yet been sold at a profit. The cost of paper made there is always higher than at Canadian mills. Running the mill now full means storing possibly for three months at great cost of paper which there is no immediate use for. Harris has announced the scale of wages with the full approval of the Directors.

Rothermere, Northcliffe.

This reply was received on May 20th, 1921. The opening sentence of the above cable forces us to one of the following conclusions:

- (a) That the ideas of the London Directors as to what constitutes a proper standard of comfort and welfare for our workers do not coincide with ours, or with the ideas of any reasonable man at present living in Grand Falls, or
(b) That their "careful enquiries" have been made either in the wrong quarter or on false or distorted information.

We know quite well that Finnish or German-made paper (there is no need to use the euphemism, "other foreign") is sold in England cheaper than paper made in Canada, and we know also the reasons why, which are as follows:

This dumping of cheap paper into this country is part of a deliberate policy followed by countries with depreciated currencies, such as Finland, whose currency has depreciated from 100 to 190 to the pound sterling, and Germany, whose Mark has fallen from 100 to 260 to the pound sterling. Last year the German Government has substantially cut and supplied pulp to the pulp and paper mills of Germany sufficient to last them for five years at prices which are half the market price for similar wood in Canada or Newfoundland. This wood is converted into paper and their requirements are sold to German consumers at a price below the cost of material elsewhere. The balance of the wood, under license, for export, and the additional price received for the could not be prolonged more than another fortnight. This offer, the letter said, had been made with considerable misgiving, owing to the severe burdens on other industries and taxpayers, and that a fortnight should give the men sufficient time to ballot on the proposal or reach settlement some other way. Premier Lloyd George's statement came like a bombshell in the camp of the Miners' Federation. Its effect is indicated by the decision of the Executive to adjourn until Monday, in order, as one miner expressed it, that "we may sleep on the proposal and let our mind decide what action to take." The Government had been subjected to much pressure to fix a time limit to the offer, being found in the cost to the country of the prolonged stoppage of coal supply. So serious has unemployment become that the fund available for work donations and unemployment insurance has been so depleted that it may be necessary to reduce the amount payable to unemployed men.

Floods in Colorado.

DENVER, June 5. Continued heavy rains early to-day in Eastern and Central Colorado gave little hope for relief from the floods, which are doing more damage to crops, Meagre reports indicate losses running into millions. The known loss of life is four. Pueblo is inundated and the loss is estimated at four million dollars. Marshall, a town of two hundred, is threatened by a break in the Marshall Lake Dam, covering 300 acres of land. Louisville and Loveland are inundated.

exported quantity is divided between the paper mills and the Government. This is not trading, it is politics, and German finance, and its consequences will be disastrous. Finland's power to compete depends on her depreciated exchange. So long as this remains unbalanced, Finland controls the ruling situation.

- 1. By a temporary import duty.
2. By corrective exchange regulations.
3. By the exercise of patriotism by British paper buyers.

Either of the first two could be put into operation at once by the British Government. The third, apparently, is a broken reed. British capitalists appear to be patriotic only so long as it means a profit. It will be obvious that there is no object to be served in dumping paper or anything else if one will buy it. If British paper buyers collectively had enough true patriotism to refuse to buy this stuff, or failing this, if the heaven-sent statesmen who govern the destinies of the British Isles had common sense or courage enough to apply the obvious remedy, this trouble would never have arisen, and paper-makers in England and Newfoundland would to-day be working full time at good wages. In this connection it would be interesting to have a list of the London newspapers which are buying this dumped paper. It is a fair inference, in view of the phrases in the above cable "means paper-makers in England and Newfoundland possibly for twelve months" and

THIS WOMAN'S MISERY

Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Church.

Smiths Falls, Ont.--"I suffered with falling of my organs, pains around my heart and in bowels and down my legs, neuralgia in my face and head, and that horrible sinking feeling. I felt that I could not live and would fix my house in order every night so there would be no trouble if I dropped off in the night. My husband went to the drugist to get the best remedy he had and he gave him Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and felt a lot better. I will always recommend the Vegetable Compound, and you can use these facts as a testimonial." Mrs. J. O. CHURCH, Box 845, Smiths Falls, Ont. The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from nervous prostration, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion and dizziness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills. If there are any complications about which you need advice write in confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

"paper for which there is no immediate use" that some papers published by the Amalgamated Press would be found in such a list.

Therefore we are on strike, fighting for a living wage. A year or two ago a considerable proportion of us were fighting an even sterner battle. We believe that to the average professional or business man the term "striker" conveys the idea of an idle, greedy, and ignorant person with more or less pronounced Bolshevik tendencies, who is prepared to subordinate every other consideration to the satisfaction of his own selfish demands. May we be allowed to correct that impression. Some of us are the very men who a few years ago (1914-1918) were acclaimed as heroes. Many of us hold the King's commission and decorations won on the field of battle in the defence of the British Empire, in the defence of those splendid abstractions, Liberty and Right. We are the same men whom you cheered away to fight for you, and to whom you made faithful promises, should we have the good fortune to return. One of those promises was to make the country fit for heroes to live in; another was that we should never want. Scraps of paper, gentlemen, scraps of paper! The least of your promises, and one we expected you to keep, was that work should be provided for us at a sufficient wage to enable us to live in reasonable comfort. And believing, we went. To protect and help you, we went, fought and beat the Hun in a straight fight.

Now, gentlemen, in buying this dumped paper, you are helping the Hun to beat us. Time brings strange changes in its train, does it not, gentlemen, and is not gratitude a precious thing. No longer are fighting men required to protect your business or the British Empire, England.

"This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle, This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars, This other Eden, demi-paradise, This fortress built by nature for herself, Against infection and the hand of war, This happy breed of men, this little world, This precious stone set in the silver sea, Which serves it in the office of a wall, Or as a moat defensive of a house, Against the envy of less happier lands, This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England is safe."

So they tell us that they can buy "Finnish or other foreign made paper" cheaper than we can make it, and as a consequence are "compelled to announce" a reduction in wages which means semi-starvation for us, despite, or perhaps because of, their "due" regard for the comfort and welfare of our workers.

To bolster up weak cases for reductions in wages, working men are told of the necessity for "economic readjustments" that "international finance must be stabilized" and other platitudinous truisms of similar import. No one denies these statements, but translate them into his own language, and the working man finds that he is fully aware of these things, and quite agreeable. His objection is to going hungry whilst the economic system undergoes the necessary readjustments. Strangely enough, he cares more for his wife and children than he does for "economic systems." Furthermore, he notices that the men who are responsible for this most admirable "economic system" do not go hungry while the "necessary readjustments" are being made.

Always the worker suffers, he suffers, while prices go up, and he suffers while prices come down, and the humbler the worker the worse is his lot. It may interest your readers to know that recently in London, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Daily Mail, Lord Northcliffe gave a luncheon to 7,000 members of the staffs of the Amalgamated Press. The following quotations are from the "Weekly Dispatch":

"The greatest gathering in connection with any one Press organization—the meeting of the staffs of the Daily Mail (London and Manchester), The Continental Daily Mail, The Evening News, The Weekly Dispatch, and the Overseas Daily Mail—takes place to-day at Olympia, the great West Kensington building. The chief Trades Union leaders, great advertisers, and advertising agents, and others interested will be present."

"As the caterers say 'It is the biggest job ever done by one firm at one time under one roof.'"

"The proceedings will open at 11 o'clock and Lord Northcliffe, who has specially returned from the South of France for the occasion, will receive the 7,000 guests."

"It will not be possible for Lord Northcliffe to shake hands with all the guests. At the rate of twenty a minute it would demand seven hours."

"At one o'clock the Rev. B. G. Bourchier, M.A., vicar of St. Jude-on-the-Hill, Hampstead, will open the proceedings by pronouncing grace, suitable to this occasion of thankfulness for the prosperity of the enterprise and its workers."

"After the luncheon Lord Northcliffe will address the huge audience by means of the stentorphone, the only possible method in so great a building."

"The hand of the 1st Life Guards will play during the afternoon."

"The foreign correspondents, though absent, will receive cabined greetings, which will go to every part of the world, and a gramophone record of Lord Northcliffe's speech will be forwarded to many of them."

"A radio-megaphone is being used by the toastmaster, Mr. W. Knight-Smith. He will speak into the instrument, which will connect with the stentorphone, so that his words will be heard throughout the hall."

"The length of tabling for seating was one mile; 18,000 red tulips were used for decorations; 40,000 soup, meat, and sweet plates were necessary. Small silver and knives, 75,000 pieces. Silver dishes, 5,000, and cruets, 1,350. Value of plant, £25,000. Total staff on duty, 1,200."

Meantime the strike at Grand Falls against starvation wages continues. Yours truly, EMPLOYEES' COMMITTEE, Grand Falls, May 31, 1921.

WEEKLY MEETING. The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Mayor Cooling presided and Councillors Mullaly, Morris, Ayre, Vincombe, Peet and Jackson were present.

The Minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which the following matters were given consideration. Communication received from Walter Vey, asking removal of grating near his premises, Hamilton St., was referred to the Engineer for inquiry. T. P. Hally, Solicitor, on behalf of Soon Lee & Co., asked permission to extend premises at Rawlins' Cross. As the locality is very congested and the extension of the laundry would be a menace to the neighborhood, permit was refused.

Thos. Dwyer, Catherine St., questioned the right of persons using property adjoining his premises, as a public thoroughfare, and complained that, as a result of same, his house has been damaged. He is to be informed, if his property has been damaged, it is for him to take the necessary action in the matter. Thos. Hillier, on the recommendation of the Health Officer, is to be given permit to erect stable, Belvidere St., provided he conforms to the Regulations governing such erections. Dr. Brehm reported on the work of Community Nurses.

Residents of Mundy Pond Road protested against the class of houses being erected on this road. As the locality in question is outside the City Limits, the Council cannot interfere in the matter. Plans submitted by J. G. Kielly, for extension, 65 Mitty's Crossing, passed, subject to the approval of the City Engineer; S. Taylor, for dwelling, Warburg Street, deferred.

Application of inspectors for uniform was ordered to stand over. Petitions from residents of Casey St., asking that a tank be placed between Brad's Square and Charlton St., was referred to the City Engineer. Geo. Neal & Co., Ltd., will be given permission, subject to Engineer's approval, to repair platform fronting their premises. Department of Marine and Fisheries will be given permission to erect building on King's Wharf, provided same is constructed of unflammable material.

The matter of wages in connection with New Work was discussed at great length, and it was decided the Council adhere to its previous decision, that is $2.50 per day for inland, $6.00 for truckmen. It was ordered that all Retail Works be closed down on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. If the matter of rate of pay for general labor, in connection with the Council, a reduction of 10% will come into effect on Thursday, June 9th, and a further reduction of 15% at a later period. Reports of City Engineer and Health Officer's for week were read. After disposing of several minor matters, and passing of payrolls and bills, the meeting adjourned.

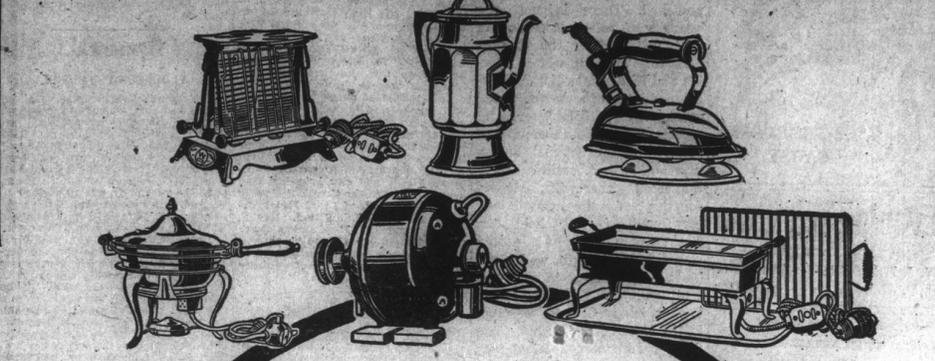

ODDS FISH!

The world is full of trouble, each hour some grief begins, and every ache is double, and every woe is twin. The troubles we are earning don't pay us for our toll, the gasoline we're burning is mostly castor oil. Two cylinders are missing, the battery is lame; a byword and a hissing life, the dismal game. And yet the folks seem cheerful as they pursue their grind; the fellow who is tearful is rather hard to find. I hear the people chaffing and joshing as they pass, I hear my neighbors laughing while holding garden peas; I cannot understand it, such mirth all vain appears; this life does not demand it—it rather calls for tears. There's sorrow on the ocean, there's sorrow on the shore; my rheumatism potion relieves the pain no more; woe like a stream meanders through life, and never quits; my horse has got the glanders, my cat is throwing fits. Westinghouse ELECTRICAL APPARATUS FOR EVERY PURPOSE

The Modern Home

Modern ideas of cleanliness, beauty and convenience in the home have made electricity, the force that is molding industrial life, a powerful factor also in our houses. The cheer of electric lighting in the home has paved the way for a far wider application of electric power in every-day life. The fan has been cooling our houses on hot summer days for many years. The iron has been perfected to make a hitherto unpleasant task agreeable, and assure fine results and protection to our garments. The electric range makes kitchens cool and clean, saves fuel and improves the quality of our food. There are heaters, toasters, percolators, warming pads, and other invaluable additions to the modern home. Yet comparatively few people have really begun to use them. It is up to the progressive dealer in electrical supplies to take advantage of this opportunity and make it a golden one. If he will but show the housekeeper the incomparable advantages of electrical household appliances, he will establish a firm and growing trade. To assure satisfaction to every purchaser the equipment should be Westinghouse. Every Westinghouse utensil is the product of a long development and rigid trials. No product is marketed by Westinghouse unless it has satisfied the highest requirements. Write for our special offers.

Ever Courteous.

The idea of politics possessed by the Advocate, and one which has undergone development from time to time, each succeeding phase improving on the style and diction of the preceding, of which latter it makes use of nothing but the choicest and most polished; this one idea, we say, is in forever pandering to the populace, or at least that part of it which thinks Mr. Coaker can do no wrong, and conveying to such as take that paper the impression that everything said and done by the Government is as true and clear as the very Gospels themselves. There is a phrase, taken from the French, and used very frequently in English speaking countries, which when translated means, "Rank imposes obligation." But this does not apply to the Advocate, though it should, considering that the editor thereof sits amidst the seats of the mighty in the local House of Lords, that same House which was going to be swept away by Mr. Coaker some years ago, but the cleansing of which, according to himself, he has omitted to take up, but will, no doubt, do so the minute he finds himself in Opposition.

Commenting on the vote taken in the House of Assembly on Thursday last, the Advocate with characteristic veracity, tells its readers that the Government treats the Cashin motion with contempt. The Advocate could have dispensed the truth with less penuriousness had it stuck to the point raised by itself. It might have told that the Government was frightened to death because of the Cashin motion for an Address to His Excellency praying for an enquiry into the conduct of certain transactions in which Mr. Coaker was involved. The contempt with which that motion was treated is best known to those who were in the House on last Thursday, when the Government escaped defeat by a majority of TWO out of an assembly of 28. Honorable members who wished to go home on the previous day were held back to vote because the position of the Government was precarious. Other honorable members of the Government who did not want to vote against their party for conscience sake, stayed away, and did not care whether the Government stood or fell. One Executive member deliberately left the House just previous to the vote being taken. If that is contempt then a little more of it, and the administration of Sir Richard Squires will shortly have finis written across its record.

But it is not because the motion of the Opposition Leader was defeated by time serving followers of the Premier, that the Honorable Minister of Marine and Fisheries is exonerated of the very grave charges made against him in the House of Assembly, over certain Fish and Salt transactions in which public money was used. The story of the "President Coaker" and his cargo, with its sequel of the cheque swapping scandal was not manufactured out of whole cloth. Whatever is behind that deal has to be brought to the light, and whatever of wrong doing is discovered in connection with it, the principals must be punished. There is not any quantity of political whitewash that will cleanse the Cheque Scandal. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries still stands arraigned before the bar of public opinion, and until he voluntarily confesses, or until an enquiry of some impartial tribunal uncovers all the sordid facts connected therewith, three-fourths of the people of Newfoundland will hold Mr. Coaker guilty of hiding something, which it would not be to his advantage to tell. But truth will out. The story of the Coaker-Sellers Cheques was told in the House of Assembly. The further and more detailed particulars of that most peculiar transaction has yet to be sent to the people through the press. Whatever of contempt there follows will be for the man who is proven guilty of misconduct. The Opposition did their duty, and deserve all credit for making the glaring exposures that but for their determination would never have been made known to a deluded public.

To Our Contributors.

The Telegram is, and will be always delighted to hear from its numerous friends throughout the country, and to receive such contributions of news and other matters as they may deem fit to write, but at the present time, with none too good hopes of being able to get our usual supplies of paper, in consequence of the Grand Falls difficulty, we have been reluctantly compelled to reduce the number of pages, not only from motives of economy, but in order that we may be in a position to carry on with such stocks as we have on hand, until such time as prospects for receiving the usual supplies improve. Hence we would respectfully suggest to correspondents that they make their communications as brief as possible. It is much better to write two or three short letters on a subject and have them all appear in print, than to write long, prosy letters, and risk the chance of their being consigned to the Waste Paper Basket, the limbo of more copy than the average contributor kens of. The above applies as well to city correspondents, regular and irregular. While thanking all for their valuable contributions of the past, and expressing a hope for their continuance, under the above conditions, we have been most reluctantly compelled, after long consideration, to make this announcement.

Odd Fellows' Day.

J. A. Craig, Esq., Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows in the Supreme Jurisdiction of British America, arrived by s.s. Rosalind from Halifax this morning, on his annual visit and for the purpose of joining in the celebration of "Craig Day" honored in Newfoundland Odd-fellowship since 1912, and inaugurated by the P.G.M. himself as a particular distinction conferred on the Newfoundland fraternity of the "Three Links." Bro. Craig will visit all Lodges in this jurisdiction, before leaving, the duration of his official visit being about ten days. On Wednesday next the Oddfellows' Lodges in St. John's, Atlantic and Colonial, will give a dinner at Donovan's in honor of the distinguished visitor, whom all acclaim as a jolly good fellow and a Prince of Oddfellows.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, June 6. Vapo Cresolene is sometimes of quite inestimable value in cases of whooping cough, bronchitis and catarrh, and many mothers who know give it credit for saving their children's lives. The Vapo Cresolene outfit consists of a lamp with stand and tray to hold the liquid; and properly used it vaporizes the liquid slowly, and the vapor relieves the congestion or laboring breathing in a very short time. One outfit can be used for an indefinite period, as the liquid can be purchased separately in bottles as required. Price of complete outfit $2.50; Liquid bottles 40c, 50c and $2.40.

St. Andrew's to Honor Heroic Dead.

On Sunday next, June 12th, the tablets to the memory of the members of St. Andrew's congregation and the Newfoundland Highlanders who were killed in action, will be unveiled in the Kirk. His Excellency the Governor will unveil the Tablets and Professor H. A. Kent, of Halifax, who has been considered a suitable service, will deliver the address. Seats will be reserved for the immediate relatives of those whose names appear upon the Tablets, and it is asked that early application be made. Members of St. Andrew's congregation are reminded that no seats will be kept after 10.45 a.m. at which hour the general public will be admitted to the Church. Representatives of the G.W.V.A. and city brigades have been invited and a Guard of Honour is being made up of Royal Naval Reservists from H.M.S. Briton. Rev. F. S. Coffin and Mr. E. Parsons have signified their intention to officiate at this session as representatives of the Kirk Congregation of Harbor Grace.

MOTHER GETS SIX MONTHS. The body of an infant was discovered in a stable in Loy Bay on Wednesday afternoon by Head Const. O'Neill and Byrne, and was brought to the morgue, where a post mortem examination was conducted by Dr. S. P. Felt. The body was not badly decomposed and had evidently been dead only a short while. As a result of the post mortem Dr. Felt stated that the child had been alive when born, but had died shortly afterwards and must have been dead about two weeks. The mother of the child was a woman of about 30 years of age, who had been charged with concealment of birth. She pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months imprisonment.

Obituary.

On Friday, May 27th, at Bellevue Hospital, New York, there passed to the Great Beyond Thomas H. Miron, son of Thomas and Mary Miron, 54 Lime Street, city. Tom, as he was known to his hosts of friends, was formerly an employee of the Reid and Co.'s boiler-maker's department. After serving his time, he emigrated to the United States, where for several years he sailed from there as engineer, on steamships and transports. Upon America entering the world war, he like many more Newfoundlanders, was promptly in answering the call for freedom, after serving in the American army until the duration of the war. Tom again took up his former work, but after returning from a long voyage he was stricken with fever, which resulted in his death at the aforementioned hospital. Thomas Miron, was for years a member of the Catholic Cadet Corps in which he always took an active interest. He leaves to mourn a mother, father, two sisters and one brother, to whom the sympathy of the whole community will go out to in their sad bereavement.—COM.

House of Assembly.

MONDAY, June 6th, 1921.
NOTICE OF MOTION.
Minister of Public Works.---To move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions to amend the Act Cap. 40 of 11 Geo. V. entitled "An Act respecting the Main- tenance of certain Public Roads."

NOTICE OF QUESTION.
Mr. Lewis.---To ask Hon. the Prime Minister whether, seeing that the Dry Dock in the West End is the security which the Colony has at the present time for the operation of the Railway in lieu of the $250,000 provided by the Railway contract, he is satisfied as to the condition of the Dry Dock especially of the South Side of the same, that it is in safe condition and likely to remain so for some time, or whether it is rapidly deteriorating and in danger of collapse with the result, apart from the danger to life and property, that it may be as a security diminished in value and whether he has any report from the Government Engineer on its condi- tion, and if not will he instruct that official to make a report on its condi- tion and lay the same on the table of the House without delay?

Mr. Lewis.---To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if his attention has been called to notices published in the daily newspapers, copies of notices posted by the Colonial Cordage Company to its employees whereby all these em- ployees are discharged as from the 8th of June, the reason for such given by the Company being that the rope mak- ing industry has no protection, and that although representations have been made to the Government, nothing has been done in the matter, and for the Prime Minister to say if this matter is being considered by the Government, and if so what action has been taken in regard thereto as a number of employees are involved in this shut down of the Ropewalk?

Mr. Vianime.---To ask Hon. the Minister of Public Works if it has been reported that a number of people in a settlement in his district broke into some store and stole two barrels of flour which they distributed amongst themselves; whether Constable Keeve was sent to investigate, and whether he reported that all of these people were the same persons who were reported to have taken part in the riot at the mill; and that but for taking this flour they would have perished, and what is being done for their relief, and if so to the nature of such measure.

Mr. Moore.---To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if it is correct that Mr. E. Collishaw some months ago threatened the Railway Company's agents at Grand Falls with dismissal because of some assumed cause of complaint which Mr. Collishaw had against this official, and whether the Railway Agent had to come to St. John's to deal with the matter, and what position Mr. Collishaw occupies which entitles him to set in this manner towards officials of the Reid Newfoundland Company or of the Government, and will the Government take steps to see that Mr. Collishaw is not permitted to interfere with these officials of the Railway Company in future.

Sir M. P. Cashin.---To ask Hon. the Prime Minister in the absence of the Hon. Minister of Marine and Fisheries, what steps are being taken by the Government to carry into effect the promises of the Minister of Fisheries that an exploration of the waters off our coast would be undertaken by one of the steamers obtained from Eng- land last year, with the object of ad- ding to the information available to our people to assist them in securing better catches of codfish?

Sir M. P. Cashin.---To ask Hon. the Prime Minister to procure and furnish to the House a statement showing the number of motor cars licensed in each of the past five years, the amount paid in taxes thereon in each of the said periods, and the amount in each year held by the St. John's Municipal Council, and the amounts distributed amongst the different electoral dis- tricts.

Sir M. P. Cashin.---To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries what quantity of material in tons (silt, gravel or rock) was removed by Dredger "Priestman" from the dock and water front premises at Port Union during the season of 1920, if such dredging as performed was considered public or private work, if private was there a contract signed with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries for the performance of this work, and at what price per cubic yard or ton. How many days was dredger engaged at this loca- tion. Was this work as performed paid for by the Company owning the pre- mises dredged. What was the total cost of work done. What amount was paid the Department of Marine and Fisher- ies for same, and if not paid why not?

Mr. Macdonnell.---To ask Hon. the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs (1) upon what principle are the mail clerks selected for the trains and steamers. (2) Is there any precaution taken to see that all mail clerks get a fair play in this matter. (3) How many trips has the supervisor of mail clerks, Mr. Burbury, made on trains or steamers since his appointment. (4) To furnish a copy of any reports fur- nished by the said supervisor.

Mr. Fox.---To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if the Government is as deter- mined to retain the H.M.S. Cambrian here to protect the Opposition from the projected invasion of Northern fishermen as indicated in the Evening Advocate of June 3rd inst., as it was to bring the said warship here to pre- vent the Government from an uprising on the part of the outraged and op- pressed citizens of this section of the country, the fear of which uprising had origin only in the heated imagi- nation of a Government conscious of its wrongdoing, but no foundation in fact?

Moderate Prohibition.

REPLY TO REV. T. B. DARBY, Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—It is somewhat difficult for a layman to reply to a clergyman in the public press. Being the son and grandson of clergymen myself, I think I know enough to speak to them without lack of courtesy. Being on the South side of the house the grandson of one of John Wesley's own converts (who was also a class leader but who never severed his connection with the Church of England),

I cannot be accused of lack of sympathy with the aims and objects of Methodism. Being also an admirer of Rev. Mr. Darby (as I am of all who are not afraid to speak out, whatever their opinions), I feel I can reply to his letter without appearing cheeky.

First there is the insinuation that we are law-breakers or that we encourage law-breaking. That is absolutely untrue. A bottle every three months is too much for me and numbers of my associates and supporters as total abstainers. Mr. Darby is judging us by persons who attached themselves to us in order to use us, but who, when they saw we were really out for moderation only, left us. If he thinks we agree with everything that may be said by one or more of an audience (who never go to a meeting without letting everyone know they are there) let me inform him that the Moderate Prohibition Committee is not responsible for anything said at that meeting except what was said from the platform by the set speakers.

As for closing the Controller's why do the Prohibitionists not set the example? The moderate prohibitionists should certainly give them all possible assistance for the sake, if only, of good policy. But the Prohibitionists are fully aware that if the Controller's Department is closed there will be such an increase in dope drinking and moonshining that the people would vote Prohibition out of existence. People are so apt to judge a thing by the fruits it produces. Further, it is not breaking the law to agitate in a decent manner as we have done for the repeal of any law. In our case the main motive was what I told the House of Assembly, namely, to amend the law so that it would have public support and be better observed. What we have been fighting for is a plebiscite. Let the people decide. We are not afraid to face the music. One would imagine that Mr. Darby is afraid to give the people a say in the matter, judging from the hints he gave of the dreadful things that will happen to us moderate if we have a plebiscite. I know that the only persons in the legislature who oppose the plebiscite are the prohibitionists. The man in Catalina who locked up our petition in his desk (but who, unlike some others, was honest enough to return it to me) and the statement for no plebiscite should be given. "For," said he, "the poor creatures would vote for rum no matter what you said to them." I have appealed to the Methodist Greeting was so nervous in April of last year about the result of a plebiscite that he actually suggested that the women be given a vote for the purpose of voting for Prohibition. We, at any rate, are not afraid of a plebiscite, and will abide by the result. We have appealed to Caesar, like the Apostle who recommended wine to a Bishop of the Church, then to Caesar let us go.

The gratuitous assumption that because under our scheme a man could get a bottle each week, he would necessarily be drunk once a week, does not speak well for Mr. Darby's estimate of his fellow-citizens. Of course, it is an utterly absurd assumption. He, moreover, overlooks the fact that provision is made for suspending the license of those who get drunk.

Wherever attempts to moderate the sale of liquors have proved a failure, it was because they licensed the seller. They made laws for the person whose interest was to break the law and who had the power to do so. The publican made money by filling people up with liquor and making them drunk, and it was impossible to stop him from doing it. Our system of licensing the consumer has never been tried on this side of the Atlantic. It is the Swedish system of selling liquor to holders of coupons. It is a success in Sweden. Prohibition having proved a failure here, it would be only fair to give our system a trial.

We were promised wonderful things by the Prohibitionists—plenty of money for everybody, every bill, fewer police. The kind of Prohibition Mr. Darby thinks we should have would cost a fortune to support an army of spies and informers. Our system would be far more effective and also prove a source of revenue to the country.

It is nowhere provided in any suggestion made by the Moderate Prohibition Committee that Dispensaries (not saloons) should be established where they are not desired. We suggest that the houses of the Controller's Department be closed there will be such an increase in dope drinking and moonshining that the people would vote Prohibition out of existence. People are so apt to judge a thing by the fruits it produces. Further, it is not breaking the law to agitate in a decent manner as we have done for the repeal of any law. ### Obituary.

CAPT. PATRICK J. HOWARD. (H. F. SHORTIS.)

The Angel of Death hovered silently over the hitherto peaceful and happy home of Capt. P. J. Howard and yesterday (Sunday) evening carried his soul to the bosom of God to his home in Paradise. To many of us who are blinded by the joys and pleasures of life, death appears but a sad and forbidding spectre, but in this particular case it has been robbed of its terrors, and served as a beautiful transition from earth to heaven. By his industry, thrift and honesty, Patrick Howard always managed to keep his family in the greatest comfort, and his chief thought was the happiness of those depending on him. Possessing a rich fund of wit and humor, a ready sympathy and fine qualities of manliness, he held a unique place in the community.

Capt. Howard was one of our best known and most competent master mariners. When very young he chose the seafaring life, so characteristic of our Newfoundland youth, and by his daring, ability and intrepidity, soon rose from the forecastle to the quarter-deck, having passed the most successful examinations for mate and master, under the able tuition of that most competent teacher of our mariners—F. J. Doyle, Esq. For some years he was in the employ of the English and American mercantile marine, and sailed to the East Indies and other far-off countries. His reminiscences of his early life in foreign service were most interesting. On his return to Newfoundland he again entered our mercantile marine, and commanded such well-known vessels as the Dora, brig William, brigantine Galatea, and during 1916 and 1917, he was in command of the American schooner Ancona, and had many experiences in the war zone of the Mediterranean, while plying between Greece, Italy, Spain and Egypt. About three years ago he entered the public service in the Customs Department, and by his ability, courtesy and experience was recognized as one of the most competent men on the staff, and a favorite with all.

Capt. Howard's son, James J., was one of the first to rally to the Standard of the Newfoundland contingent, and fell, amongst so many of our brave boys, at the battle of Beaumont Hamel. Another son, Patrick, predeceased him about ten years ago, and a daughter, Daisy, four years ago. Fortified by the Sacraments of Holy Church, and every preparation for his last voyage, he entered that mysterious port which opens into eternity.

Mayor Gosling is Right

Mr. G. W. E. Ayre states that Mayor Gosling's position is correct. The Council has no authority to amend the relief work. The Premier put one on the Council when he indicated in the latter to accept that loan and spend fifty or sixty thousand dollars. It has to be repaid by the Government. It is a charge on the City. The Council should have refused to have anything to do with it, and let the Government find work for the fourteen hundred starving men, representing two thousand hungry citizens. The position to-day is worse now than ever, there is still no work and the Government has done absolutely nothing to guarantee the Council's loan of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The East and West End members have given ten thousand dollars from their district. Of this Mr. Higgins' ten thousand have been spent, the men getting $3.30 per day. Of Mr. Squire's ten thousand only four thousand have been spent, of which the men will have to receive $3.30. As for the balance of the six thousand, Sir Richard Squire says that the men will receive one dollar a day if the work is continued as government work. If it is continued as joint Government and Council work the pay will have to be agreed upon. It certainly will not be more than $2. To sum up: The Government has done nothing. Mr. Higgins has spent his ten thousand dollars as promised, the men getting $3.30. Sir Richard Squire, Premier, and West End representatives has not kept his word spending only four thousand dollars at $2.30. The balance will be worked out at $2.30, $2.50 at the most.

THOUGHTS AND TAPE MEASURES

It is obvious any good idea always seems after someone else has thought of it. It seems impossible one should not have thought of it oneself, in fact it almost seems sometimes as if one had the idea before and not produced it because one was too busy or didn't consider it important enough. My tape measure started me on the train of thought. Like all well used tape measures in these days it is numbered on both sides, and on one side the numbers run in one direction and on the other in the other. If you have inadvertently begun to measure from the wrong end and find yourself recording a measurement of 37 you have only to turn the tape measure over to get the correct measure of 23, instead of having to reverse it and start measuring from the other end.

I hope this is clear to the masculine readers who have not had tape measure experience. I know the feminine ones will understand.

Why Always Made That Way?
Now why weren't tape measures made that way years ago? It seems such an obvious idea that it is unbelievable that no one thought of it the first day tape measures were made. Or surely the first woman who measured from the wrong end should have. Yet I believe the efficient tape measure is quite modern, and it isn't because it costs more to print them on both sides, either for I have an old fashioned one printed on both sides and with both sets of numbers going the same way. We had to wait for this world revolutionizing improvement until someone thought out of a rut. Thinking in a rut is the easiest thing most of us do.

Thinking Out of a Rut.
Switching one's thoughts out of a rut and making one's thought tracks in a new direction is one of the hardest and the most valuable things anyone can do.

I do not mean to imply that the new kind of tape measure is invaluable to civilization. I have used it simply as a symbol of the habit of thinking out of a rut.

Here's another small but interesting example. Once upon a time President Elliott of Harvard, said in a speech that the best literature of the world could be put in five feet of book shelves. His idea was to show how easy it would be for a man who would read a few minutes a day to read the greatest literature of the ages in the course of his life.

One Clerk Who THOUGHT.
Thousands heard him and read the report of his speech and simply let their thought follow the channels his had made.

"My health was all broken up," he explained. "My stomach was all out of order and gave me so much trouble that I actually dreaded to go to the table. I would simply rather go without eating than suffer the awful misery I knew would follow. I would blow up so with gas that my heart would beat it a terrific rate and it seemed sometimes I was being smothered to death. I just had to fight for my breath. My nerves were all undone, I slept poorly and was all the time having headaches that were almost blinding. I lost weight and felt so weak and run-down all over I could hardly do any work."

"Sometimes ago a good friend of mine told me he knew Tanlac would help me and he spoke so positive about it that I took his advice. And I can say right now that Tanlac is the first medicine I ever saw that will do exactly what they say it will. Five bottles have the same as made me all over again. I can eat anything I ever could in my life and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I'm no more nervous than a child, sleep fine and it just makes me feel happy to be enjoying such good health. Tanlac certainly is a great medicine."

Nothing to Equal
Inspector Lamond will no doubt endeavor to hold the town responsible for the theft of the liquor, and in this connection the council will be compelled to hold an investigation into the matter. It is only three weeks ago that three sailors who were detained by the immigration authorities as stowaways made their escape from the gaol in some manner not yet discovered.

An enquiry into the latest sensation should reveal some interesting information.—North Sydney Herald, June 2.

Play the Game.

The umpire calls you out. It's no use to stamp and shout, With kicking dust about, Play the game!

And though his decision may End your chances for the day, He'll often end that way, Play the game!

When the umpire shouts: "Strike two!" And the ball seems wide to you, There is just one thing to do: Play the game!

Keep your temper at the plate. Grill your teeth and calmly wait, For the next one may be straight, Play the game!

When you think the umpire's wrong, Tell him so, but leg along; Nothing gained by language strong, Play the game!

For his will must be obeyed Wherever baseball's played, Take his verdict as it's made, Play the game!

Son of mine, beyond a doubt, Fate shall often call you "out." But keep on, with courage stout, Play the game!

In the battlefield of men There'll come trying moments when You shall lose the verdict—then Play the game!

There's an umpire who shall say You have missed your greatest play, And shall dash your hopes away, Play the game!

You must bow unto his will Though your chance it seems to kill, And you think he erred, but still Play the game!

For the Great Umpire above Sees what we are nothing of, By His wisdom and His love, Play the game!

Keep your faith in him although His grim verdicts hurt you so, At His Will we come and go, Play the game!

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

Codfish.—The total exports of codfish this week amounted to 12,312 qtls. as follows:—

From St. John's.—By schr. Annie L. Warren to Bahia from Messrs. Job Bros. & Co. Ltd., 3,423 quintals; by schooner Little Princess to Barbados from Job Bros. & Co. Ltd., 3,480 quintals; by schooner Optimist from Messrs. A. E. Hickman Co. Ltd., 888 quintals to Kingston, Jamaica. Total for St. John's 7,996 quintals.

From Outports.—By schooner Norma B. Strong from Little Bay Islands 4,700 quintals from Messrs. Monroe & Co. Ltd., to Gibraltar for orders, and by S.S. Stella Maris from Farguhar & Co. Ltd., Bonne Bay to Halifax 116 quintals; total for Outports 4,816 quintals.

Cod Liver Oil.—The situation in New York is slightly improved in demand due to the low price inducing manufacturers to enter the market for supplies on the judgment that the bottom has now been reached. "Emulsion manufacturers," says The Drug Trade Weekly, "are covering for their next winter's supplies, believing that conditions from their viewpoint will not be more favorable. They figure that Cod Liver Oil at $12.00 to $14.00 a barrel (25 gallons) is a cheap purchase, in or out of season." In some quarters the price of Norwegian has moved up to $15.00 and $16.00 a barrel and Newfoundland oil of 1920 catch at $13.00 to $14.00.

Pork.—There was a slight stiffening in the Pork market in Chicago this week, one of those temporary changes that come on emergency demand for supplies and subside as suddenly. The general tone all over the United States indicates a continued weakness for the summer months, the result of a large accumulation of stocks and poor export demand. The local quotations are: Mess $30.00, Ham Butt $37.00, Short Cut $29.00, Fat Back $29.50. The imports to St. John's to date are about 5,500 barrels against 12,700 last year at this date. Only 300 barrels were imported this week by the Sable I.

Beef.—The Beef market is quiet and influenced by the conditions that affect Pork, principally slack export demand and large accumulations. Cable advices from New York and Chicago this week continue to quote low prices and show anxiety to make sales. The total imports to St. John's are short about 2,000 barrels. The scarcity would be serious in normal times, but there seems to be quite enough to meet all demands so far, owing to the short purchasing in fishery supplying.

Flour.—The weather prospects for the new wheat crop will be the main factor in the immediate future to govern prices. From present indications the outlook could not be much better, but some sections require more rain and others more sunshine. The statistical news has had very little bearing for some time as so much depends on demand from European countries. In this connection it is interesting to hear that the New York markets have had to resell recently about one and a half million bushels of wheat purchased for shipment to Greece, which that country had to cancel for financial reasons. The expected settlement of the German indemnity (although no money is yet reported to have been paid) has created an improvement in other quarters, but the sheer inability of Europe to buy as much as she wants and really needs has a very depressing effect on the market. The "buyers strike" to force down prices is being felt everywhere and is likely to show results very soon. The local market was steady during the week and no advances took place. There will be a temporary shortage of high grade flours for a week or so till the arrival of the steamer from Montreal. The imports to St. John's to date, about 70,000 barrels, are 10,000 barrels ahead of last year.

Molasses.—Three cargoes in addition to the three already arrived, are due this month from Barbados. The price is now 80 cents per gallon for Francy and 70 cents for Choice for a w. molasses. Last year's stock has been sold lately as low as 60 cents per gallon. It is not quite as palatable as the new but is a good wholesome molasses.

Sugar.—The price on sugar to arrive next week will be from a half to one cent higher than the May quotation is $12.50. The quotation in Montreal this week is $16.50 and in New York $6.50 per 100 pounds for standard granulated. It is thought that sugar will hold around these prices during the summer.

Potatoes.—There is a scarcity of P. E.'s in town at present and there will not be any increase stocks till the arrival of the "Canadian Sapper" due next week from Montreal and Gulf

Port. Potatoes have advanced, due to the new tariff and are now quoted at ten cents per sack more than last week. The quotation for potatoes to arrive is $2.50 to $3.50 per sack of 150 lbs. Local potatoes are not offering to any extent, as the stock is being used in sowing crops at the outport centres where they can be had. The barrels that were in the market this week sold for $2.50 each.

Hay.—This week hay advanced one dollar per ton in the local market, due to the extra surtax. Importers are ordering hay in small quantities as the grazing season is on and hay will not be needed for cattle while green growing grass is available. We do not look for higher prices. The present quotation is $43.00 per ton for lots and $44.00 to $45.00 for single bales.

Oats.—There is a great scarcity of oats in town at the present time, due to the falling off in imports as nobody is willing to purchase on a falling market. The bottom, however, seems to have been reached and Canadian oats showed an advance of five cents per bushel this week, which means an advance in the local market of 25 cents per bag. Mixed are now $3.50 to $3.70, White $3.70 to $3.90 per sack.

Sydney Ladies' Tea and Musicals

FOR REV. HENRY GORDON'S SCHOOL.

The sum of $90 was realized in aid of Rev. Dr. Henry Gordon's school for orphans at Cartwright, on the Labrador, at a tea and musicale held recently at the home of Mrs. Barbara Farquharson, 514 George Street, Sydney, N.S., under the joint auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church and the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church. Mrs. C. R. Cumming, the hostess, presided, and Mrs. E. M. MacDonald presided at the dainty tea table. A programme that was greatly enjoyed by the large number of patrons included vocal selections by Mrs. W. T. Dean, Mrs. W. S. Wilson and Miss Esther Bearse, an entertaining reading by Mrs. W. L. Carson, and piano selections by Mrs. H. E. Rice and Miss Nessie Beaton. Mrs. Rice and Miss Beaton also alternated as accompanists for the singers. The affair was a success in every way.

Rod and Gun.

Followers of Isak Walton will look forward to the June issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, which is now on sale at the news stands. In this number there are five fishing stories and articles by such well known authors as A. Bryan Williams, F. V. Williams, S. C. Cain, Robert Page Lincoln and H. Howard. "The Silver Doctor," an interesting story of fishing in the Sheik Canyon, is worthy of special mention. The hunter and firearms man has been well looked after in this issue by C. S. Landis, the guns and ammunition expert. In addition to this feature, the latest proposed amendments to the firearms permit laws are published in full. Conservation, Kennerly and other departments are up to their high standards. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

The Mighty Fallen.

Berlin, May 31.—The "Iron Hindenburg," the great wooden statue of the field marshal, erected during the war at the end of Berlin's Avenue of Victory, is offered for sale as firewood. When it was erected the idea was to cover it with a coating of nails and for the privilege of driving in a nail a small charge was made for war charities, but the people got tired of the business and the statue was never entirely covered with its coating of iron. While two artists conducted a long struggle in the courts regarding the honor of having first thought of the statue, the grim, ungainly effigy rusted and rotted. When all Germany's Wilhelmians were told that this "one most tragic of all stood and even the revolutionaries had not the heart to pull it down. But it was always an eyesore and one night a year ago it was quietly removed and no one knew what became of it, and no one asked. There was no question in Parliament.

The thing remained a secret until recently, when an advertisement appeared in a Berlin paper offering the statue "for sale, whole or in part, for firewood."

Port-au-Bras Wants Telegraphic Connection.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your paper to make a few remarks concerning the telegraph office at Port au Bras. The wires were laid in May 1920 and the office was built in the following fall. Now everything is ready for an operator but it does not look as if we are going to get one. There is no one here who could do the work or we would get up a collection and have it running. There is also a bridge here which is sinking daily and is very dangerous.
Yours truly,

A Better Law Required.

The Prohibition proposition is now before the Legislature, the "Moderates" of the city and the outports having laid their case before that august body—the House of Assembly. The present law is not what the extremists or the moderates voted for, and a policy of that kind, advocated by the extremists and the moderates is what is sought for by those who have engineered the law as it is now carried out. The world-old usage that people cannot be made sober by act of Parliament is as strong now as it ever was; the proof of which is fully shown by the conditions that existed before the prohibition Law was put into effect, and during the halcyon days of what was supposed to be a model sober existence, the days when the whole country was under Local Option Act, and the capital city was the only centre of the liquor sale. Nevertheless, the difference between the importation and sale of intoxicating liquors before and after the country went dry, as far as the sale of spirits were concerned, was negligible. It seems that St. John's must have its liquor even if the country goes dry. Under the present law, occasions are reported when, at festive gatherings there, the supply of liquid refreshments was as plentiful as it ever was fifty years ago at St. John's regatta. We do not say that the liquor was whiskey, brandy, rum or gin, but circumstances indicated that it was something stronger than water. The present law is acknowledged to be anything other than what it was intended to be, and a law better in every way is desired. A total prohibition law is impossible in this Island—certain sections have easy and convenient means of securing supplies and the others, except a few sections, will fall back upon the practice followed in the blue grass states of America—will make their own. Moral suasion is the best and only cure for this evil—the use of intoxicating liquors. A sensible law can be made and carried out, but a law that is in the control of extremists is doomed to be a failure. Let the assembled wisdom of the House make a law free from all control outside the law, and have it a temperate measure.—Harbor Grace Standard.
