A WOMAN'S HEART. It was a wild, stormy November day. People hurried across the common with their comforters up to their noses, and though, with a little glow at the heart, of warm fires in cozy rooms at home.

In the parlor of the large white house facing the common the scene in which the elements were engaged outdoors. It was a comfortable room, richly furnished. A bright fire burned in the grate, casting a rich, warm glow over the room.

Between the two windows stood a man of perhaps 28 or 30 years and remarkably handsome. His features were perfect; a straight aristocratic nose, a beautifully moulded chin, and just a curve of a full, red lip, underneath a soft, brown moustache.

Half-dressed, from him stood a young girl, clad in a simple brown dress. Her hair was striking, and her face, as the mouth was too large; but her eyes, she was looking into their depths that she was not wanting. They were black, now with excitement as she listened to her companion's words.

"And yet you loved me once, Jane!" he said, with a look of earnestness creeping over his face and lighting up his deep eyes.

"I loved you? Yes, if it will be a satisfaction to you to hear me say it, I loved you, heaven knows how madly and blindly! I worshipped you! I would have knelt and kissed your feet, and when you walked I would have died for you! My life was one vast field of pure, unbroken bloom until you came, and with your feet crushed all my flowers under them. I hung on your every word and looked and waited hungrily for your smiles. You gave me my life, and in your hand, when you would toss a handful of pennies to a beggar, and you stand there now with your insolent, smiling face, when you know that you have been the means of making all my life miserably wretched! Heaven! if I were a man I would strike you dead at my feet!"

There was a flash of steel as the pistols came up with position. "One—two—three—fire!"

There was the rattle of a woman's dress through the air, two sharp reports, and Jane Yenner sank down at Charles West's feet, the warm life blood flowing from her breast.

There was a cry of horror from the gentlemen as they rushed and forward. West knelt at her side; she smiled up into his eyes for a moment, then her eyes closed and she was dead.

After the oral wrong he had done her—after all the bitter pain he had caused her, he had given her life to save his.

Richard Knowles threw up his arms with a cry of anguish. "Jane dead—dead! I killed her! Oh, my father in heaven!"

Then, all trembling with passion, he turned upon the seconds: "Another round—round for by the gods he shall die before I leave this field!"

West arose from his knees a trifle paler, but with one of his sneering smiles he expressed his willingness. The seconds, however, shocked by the horror of the scene, attempted to restrain them, but Knowles, maddened by this restraint, dashed these words and hastily rammed home the charge into the pistols, and hurling one of them at the foot of his opponent again took his place.

The reports of the pistols again rang forth. West quickly pressed his hand to his side and sank with a groan to the turf. Knowles stood for a moment, motionless as a statue, watching the prostrate form of his enemy.

Then he staggered forward and gazed with grim satisfaction at his handsome face, but only for a moment, for the blood was pouring from a wound in his breast, and before he fell at the feet of the woman he loved.

West was mortally wounded. Knowles, however, after careful nursing was finally cured, but he was a moody, bowed man, aged before his time.

MOLLE'S RAM. Mollie had a little ram as black as a rube, and everywhere that Mollie went he emigrated too.

He went with her to church one day; the folks hilaired just to see him walk demurely into Deacon Allen's pew.

The worthy deacon quickly felt his angry passion rise, and gave it an unchristian kick between the sad brown eyes.

This landed rammy in the aisle; the deacon followed fast and raised his foot again. Alas! that first kick was his last.

For Mr. Sheep walked slowly back about a rod, his head and one eye swollen, and black now with excitement as he listened to her companion's words.

"And yet you loved me once, Jane!" he said, with a look of earnestness creeping over his face and lighting up his deep eyes.

"I loved you? Yes, if it will be a satisfaction to you to hear me say it, I loved you, heaven knows how madly and blindly! I worshipped you! I would have knelt and kissed your feet, and when you walked I would have died for you! My life was one vast field of pure, unbroken bloom until you came, and with your feet crushed all my flowers under them. I hung on your every word and looked and waited hungrily for your smiles. You gave me my life, and in your hand, when you would toss a handful of pennies to a beggar, and you stand there now with your insolent, smiling face, when you know that you have been the means of making all my life miserably wretched! Heaven! if I were a man I would strike you dead at my feet!"

There was a flash of steel as the pistols came up with position. "One—two—three—fire!"

There was the rattle of a woman's dress through the air, two sharp reports, and Jane Yenner sank down at Charles West's feet, the warm life blood flowing from her breast.

There was a cry of horror from the gentlemen as they rushed and forward. West knelt at her side; she smiled up into his eyes for a moment, then her eyes closed and she was dead.

After the oral wrong he had done her—after all the bitter pain he had caused her, he had given her life to save his.

Richard Knowles threw up his arms with a cry of anguish. "Jane dead—dead! I killed her! Oh, my father in heaven!"

Then, all trembling with passion, he turned upon the seconds: "Another round—round for by the gods he shall die before I leave this field!"

West arose from his knees a trifle paler meeting. He was glad they had shown a bold front, and hoped they would maintain it. He advised them to keep straight on in the picketing, no matter what the bosses said, and hoped they would make it ten times better for the employers than it had ever been before.

The chairman addressed the men at the close, saying they should disperse at once to their posts on picket work. The shops were named where extra men were to go, and the detachments went off at once.

LABOR NOTES. The position of the striking painters was about the same on Saturday. There is no evidence of weakening on either side.

The revised bill of wages recently formulated by the carpenters union has been submitted to the employers, and has been accepted. The new rates go into force on May 1.

POWERSMEN PAY. HAMILTON, April 22.—The entire police force met the police commissioners in the council chamber to-day when the question of money pay was discussed.

Constable Timson urged the demand. It required fully $7 or $8 more per month to keep houses at present prices than it used to, and rents were steadily advancing.

Constable Ross next pointed out that the men of this force had longer hours and less pay than those of Toronto. He said Hamilton was not far behind.

Police Magistrate Cahill referred to a man employed at the gas works, and was getting $10.50 a week. He was formerly employed on the police force. He got that amount for working 60 hours a week, while the police worked from 56 to 64 for $45 a month.

Constable Ross said the first class constables in Toronto received $37 as against $45 in Hamilton.

Judge Sinclair sympathized with the men in their endeavor to obtain an increase, and advised the men to petition the aldermen of the city, with whom the expenditure of the money rested.

It was decided to petition the council for an increase and the conference adjourned.

OUTSIDE TROUBLES. MONTREAL, April 22.—A strike of quartermen took place this morning in the vicinity of the city for higher wages. The men were induced to return to work by being assured by the proprietor that he would give them an answer this evening.

They have been receiving $1 to $1.15 during the winter, and now demand $1.25 to $1.50 per day. The owner of the quarry refused to report that he had resolved to grant the request of the men.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR LAST WEEK. Births, 57; marriages, 23; deaths, 34. Recruits to the western cattle market last week: Cattle 538, sheep 170, hogs 50.

lamp had exploded in the Black Horse hotel, at Front and George streets. There was no damage done to the services of the brigade were not required.

It is the intention of the Great Western railway authorities to erect freight offices over the ladies' waiting-room at the Yonge street station. This will give all of the space in the warehouses for the purpose of storing merchandise, as the present quarters are very cramped.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock Mr. Walsh, lumber dealer, who had been driving a buggy attached to a young and skittish horse got out at the corner of Brock and Adelaide streets and his horse, William Fisher, got a start to drive the horse home.

He succeeded in getting only one line, however, and the horse became frightened and started around two or three times, then made a bee line for some undecided point, and in doing so hung Fisher out. His foot got caught in the lines and he was dragged some distance rapidly over the streets getting his head and neck considerably injured.

He was taken into a house nearby, where Dr. Spragg examined him, and dressed his wounds. Fisher will be laid up for some time but there is no doubt he will eventually recover.

TO ALL STRIKERS.—Strikers would do well to consider Guinane's liberal offer before going elsewhere. They are in sympathy with the movement, and to show that they are they agree to supply from their splendid assortment—the largest in the city—of brightest shoes at actual wholesale prices, which will guarantee a 25 per cent below the retail price. Need we say Guinane's immense boot and shoe emporium is at 214 Yonge street, three doors south of Albert street. 246

CARPENTERS' CONCERT. A Grand Success—About 3000 Present—A First-class Entertainment—General Satisfaction, Good Will and Enjoyment.

For some time before 8 o'clock Saturday night the avenue leading to the Adelaide street rink were thronged with people who evidently had some definite destination in view. As 8 o'clock drew near the approach to the rink was blocked, so large was the throng wishing for admission.

On entering the rink just after the entertainment had begun, all the chairs on the main floor were found to be occupied, and the galleries all filled. Still more came, and the chairs were surrounded by a wall of gentlemen of an average of ten feet. There were in fact about 3000 people in the building.

Mr. Wilson, president of the trades and labor council, presided, and made some remarks in formally opening the entertainment. His program was not followed out in the regular order, but most of the pieces or it were sung, and some extra. The band gave some selections in good style. Miss Moody sang and pleased the audience. Doubtless they demanded an encore. The president explained that owing to the length of her music she was unable to sing, and could not be complied with. Mr. Costello rendered "Brave Napoleon" excellently, which was a hit. He was saying in every particular, which was a saying of good deal. Miss Jennie Moore was introduced to sing Killarney and was received with enthusiastic cheers. Doubtless this was partly owing to her being the daughter of the popular president of the carpenters' union. When she sang "The Irish Boy" she was applauded more enthusiastically than before, and this time on her own account. Her voice is very flexible and sweet. Her song was of good compass, and is natural, showing no signs of being strained. Besides this she has a good conception of what she sings. The club swinging of Frank Moore and his enthusiastic cheer. Doubtless he deserved it all. The comic songs of Ed. Sealie took immensely and the first of them was "Aren't you a young fellow?" by James Fox, pleased the audience very much. Imitations of the negro and the Irish by a gentleman whose name we have forgotten were rapturously received. The rest of the bill was well performed, and as a whole, though amateur, would have been favorably received by professional concert.

The night's entertainment broke up a little after 10 o'clock. Everybody was satisfied with the immediate enjoyment, and a great many look forward to a continuation of it outside the rink. The carpenters' union was rapturously congratulated on the success of the venture.

The Mounted Police. The recruits for the Northwest yesterday morning as was expected on account of their being sent to the city on Ottawa. At present there are only about fifty men provided with military clothes. It is expected that the uniforms will arrive here this week, and that next Sunday morning they will attend services in St. James' cathedral. The recruits are in great glee over the thought of thirty horses and will be on hand to-day for their drill use. The garrison company was crowded all day yesterday, and on Saturday evening, 25 short of the required number.

Q.O.R. non-commissioned officers of the street railway company for services rendered at the fire near their stables a week ago last night. Mr. John Bain, barrister, of Bain, McDougall, Gordon & Strachan, has returned to the city from Florida, whither he had been for his health. Mr. Bain is in excellent health now.

George Jordan, aged 16, and James Murphy, aged 18, were arrested last evening and taken to No. 2 for going in opposition to the laws of abbatinarianism, by playing base ball on Sunday.

HEAVY LOSS OF GRAIN.

Ogilvie & Hutchison Lose by Fire and Water. News was received yesterday that the storehouse at Inverhuron belonging to Messrs. Ogilvie & Hutchison of the Harbor mills, had been destroyed by fire.

There were 10,400 bushels of wheat in the building. Both building and grain were insured. A cargo of 10,000 bushels had just been shipped to Goderich by the schooner Ontario, and as will be seen by the following item, this has also been lost.

The schooner Ontario, owned by Williams & Murray, and laden with 10,400 bushels of gain for Ogilvie & Hutchison, from Inverhuron, went ashore between Inverhuron and Kinowarline on Wednesday last, and threatens to be a total loss. The boat is insured for $3000 and the grain for $1000 by the Royal Canadian insurance company.

THE THEATRES. Ten years ago the Hanlon brothers were establishing the American public by performing French facts close under the ceilings of our theatres. They have since climbed down to the stage where their doings are no less curious, though somewhat less dangerous. They appeared at the Park theatre last evening before a highly amused audience in a servicable play, composed of farces, pantomimes, and called "Le Voyage en Suisse." There are five of the Hanlons, and they act three that number of parts, for they not only represent travellers in Switzerland, but also the servants, railroad officials, customs collectors, and others with whom those who come in contact.

The propeller California had a new rudder put in on Saturday. The propeller Armenia left on Saturday for Ogdensburg, with a general cargo. The Norseman arrived on Saturday from Charlotte, with a cargo of trees. She afterwards left for Port Hope.

St. James' Cathedral. Rev. Mr. Rainford occupied this pulpit last night, his subject being "I fear thee because thou art an austere man." After denouncing the common tendency of christian people in substituting obligations of their own framing for those laid upon them by God, and resting on the possession of an orthodox creed and on the rote of dogmatical law without which no one could save his soul, he pointed to the fact that the genuineness of the christian faith is shown in numerous public machines introduced by the christian church, which took the place of a living christianity. The old bible which was raised by Scotch as saying of the barren cry of justification by faith, whilst others held to their practice of early communion, and others to their practice of to-day was a living Christ; but the church had given the world a cold marble statue of a living Christ. Barred with Orange Banners. Nearly the entire Orange body of Toronto turned out yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral of the late John Whitehead in his residence on Gerard street. The cortege was one of the largest ever seen in this city. The remains were interred in the Necropolis.

The Premier and the General. OTTAWA, April 22.—The first call in the assize court to-day was that of Hewson vs. Macdonald. Mr. Gibb for the plaintiff, Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Mr. Hugh J. Macdonald and Mr. Hector Cameron for the defendant. Yesterday an application was made to Mr. Gibb for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted.

Flooding the Sahara. PARES, April 12.—It is understood that the state will contribute toward the expenses of making an inland sea in the desert of Sahara, but will appeal to private capitalists for funds.

Old Fellowship in America. Wednesday next will be the 63rd anniversary of the introduction of oddfellowship into America. The anniversary sermon will be preached in Grace church on Sunday next in the afternoon by Rev. J. P. Lewis. The grand master, Rev. J. B. McIntyre, St. Catharines, will hold a reception in the hall corner of Yonge and Alice streets on Tuesday evening. The reception will last from 8 to 9:30 p.m., after which a banquet will be tendered to the grand master.

The Case Collapsed. [From The Ottawa Free Press, Saturday.] The Hewson-Macdonald case came to a sudden collapse this morning, by the record of the plaintiff withdrawing the record. This will probably be the last we will hear of this unsavory affair. One thing is clear, that the case was a violation of the great principle of journalism, and if any one has reason to feel aggrieved, it is Mr. Boyle.

Losses by Fire. BROOKLYN, April 22.—Shaw's hotel was burned to the ground last night. The cause is not known. The loss, including all the furniture which was burned, will not exceed $3000.

Horror of Smallpox. FALL RIVER, Mass., April 22.—Rev. Ralph Fothergill of the Primitive Methodist church died last night of smallpox. He is the only one of his denomination who has been attacked, and he is the only one who has died.

William Lyon Mackenzie's Desk. There is an historical piece of furniture on the third floor of the examining warehouse, foot of Yonge street. It is an old-fashioned, rough-looking piece of architecture, and in days gone by did service as the desk of the old William Lyon Mackenzie, the old parliament of Canada.

Common Sense Certainly.

The Toronto World (independent pronunciation), with a paternal air that is amusing in a young journal, offers the following advice to "the country weeklies": "And above all avoid the alleged leading organs of the two parties, the Globe and the Mail; rather should they seek to gather up the opinion of the various reform and conservative journals, and put it before the country, instead of as they do, forming it in their bookstair offices and then casually asking the country journals to accept it as gospel."

There is a good deal of sense in the advice, and it should not be slighted simply because it emanates from a new paper. Experience, not years, brings maturity of thought, and the history of the "country weeklies" of Canada shows a great lack of independent thought and unbiased action.

Work on the Toronto and Ottawa division of the Midland, between Madoc and Bridgewater, goes on as usual. The grading is nearly completed, and it is expected to have the rails laid in July. A large force is now at bridge over Deer creek in Madoc. Some difficulty is being experienced in getting a solid foundation for the stone pier on the western side of the creek, but it is understood this has been overcome. The bridge will be of stone and iron, and will also be one over Black creek near Bridgewater. Mr. Breakell has also commenced work on his contract for building the barbed wire fence.

Police Court Saturday. Seven drunks were discharged at Saturday's police court, but all were not discharged. William Stevenson for this offence was fined $20 and costs or one week in the workhouse. Ellen Donnelly charged with larceny of two jackets from Mary Foley; Matthew Carpenter, with stealing a watch from Henry Franky, and Ellen Griffin, with enticing a seven-year old child from Parliament street school and from his proper guardians, all with stealing from Robert Southworth, her former employer, were remanded till the 26th, and John A. Fraser, lumberman, till to-morrow.

Judgments in the Chancery Division. Chancellor Boyd delivered a number of judgments on Saturday morning in cases heard before him in his recent circuit sittings. The judge also gave his decision in the case of Wilgott vs. Walker, heard before him at Ogdosa last week. The other day, in this case he held that the contract for the sale of the land in question was not sufficient, by reason of the name of the vendor not being disclosed by the contract or by the other papers connected with it. The plaintiff, Mr. Allan Wilgott, relied on the receipt, which was in writing, and was headed "Sale of Allan Wilgott Farm." This the chancellor held insufficient under the authorities. The case will probably be appealed.

Gas Works in Lindsay. Mr. Pearson of the Toronto gas works was in Lindsay last week, and together with local capitalists selected a site for the new gas works to be erected in that town. The works will be erected on the corner of William and Wellington streets. Operations will be commenced as soon as the plans are received by the managing director, Mr. F. C. Taylor. It is the intention to lay a five-inch main from the works to Kent street and along each side. The court house and offices will be supplied as in his case he holds that the contract for the sale of the land in question was not sufficient, by reason of the name of the vendor not being disclosed by the contract or by the other papers connected with it. The plaintiff, Mr. Allan Wilgott, relied on the receipt, which was in writing, and was headed "Sale of Allan Wilgott Farm." This the chancellor held insufficient under the authorities. The case will probably be appealed.

The reception will last from 8 to 9:30 p.m., after which a banquet will be tendered to the grand master.

The Case Collapsed. [From The Ottawa Free Press, Saturday.] The Hewson-Macdonald case came to a sudden collapse this morning, by the record of the plaintiff withdrawing the record. This will probably be the last we will hear of this unsavory affair. One thing is clear, that the case was a violation of the great principle of journalism, and if any one has reason to feel aggrieved, it is Mr. Boyle.
