THE EVENING TIMES.

ST. JOHN, N. B., APRIL 7, 1905.

The St. John Evening Times is published at 19 and 21 Canterbury Street, every evening (Sunday excepted), by the St. John Times Printing & Publishing Co., Ltd., (company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act, R.S.N.B., 1904) with office at 19 and 21 Canterbury Street, St. John, N. B.

THE LOBBY.

Corporation influence, as a factor in legislation, has become so great an evil in the United States that the various states have been aroused to action in defence of the rights of the people.

There will be more desperate fighting before many weeks. In the meantime, in Russia appear to be approaching a crisis, and it would seem that the clamor for reform cannot much longer be resisted by the bureaucracy.

The province of New Brunswick is not free from this sinister influence. Whenever the representatives of the people at large seek a measure of justice at the hands of a corporation, its lobbyists swarm to Fredericton, button-hole the members of the legislature, and by every artful means endeavor to prevent the bill from becoming law, or amend it so that it shall have little or no effect.

The Citizens' League will meet this evening. The executive, which plaintively asked the members to exercise patience while it wrestled with reluctant candidates, will doubtless give an account of its stewardship and outline its plans for the future. It may be hoped that the gentlemen who crowded the board of trade rooms at the earlier meetings, filled with zeal for reform, will not absent themselves this evening. There should be something doing.

A parliamentary session at Ottawa which it was expected would be brief and uneventful has already developed sensational features of a character which does not make for national peace and harmony.

The people of St. John will expect Messrs. Lantalm, Robertson, Purdy, Maxwell, and Lowell to fight for the passage of the street railway and water extension bills sent up by this city. Mr. Hazen, as a citizen of St. John, is well aware of the absolute justice of the city's claims regarding these matters.

The New England states are likely to contribute many new settlers to the Canadian West. L. R. Holme, writing to the Boston Transcript, says: "New England is likely to contribute this year more freely than ever before to the stream of immigration pouring into the Canadian Northwest."

Advertisers who value circulation in a newspaper in the afternoon field in this city will find it to their advantage to make some comparisons and enquiries with regard to the circulation of the Times. Quite a number have done so, and the result is seen in the steadily increasing patronage given to this paper by wide-awake advertisers.

It is natural that persons financially interested in the street railway should vigorously oppose any measure before the legislature which would in any way restrict the powers and privileges of the company. It will, however, be clear to the minds of the members of the house that the interests of the city are more important than those of a grasping corporation.

When legislation is sought that would increase the taxes of the humble citizen he cannot afford the luxury of a gifted lobby at Fredericton, to persuade the members that it is all wrong. He has to pay his taxes.

It is suggested that the question whether the street railway property is exempt from taxation under one of the earlier acts relating thereto might be settled in the courts. If all else fails that method should be adopted.

The controversy at Ottawa, is very interesting, even if somewhat inflammatory, but what the people of St. John are watching most eagerly at present is the fate of the city's bills at Fredericton.

What St. John asks of the legislature is recognition of the fact that the citizens should be the best judges of what is in the interests of the city as a whole. That appears to be a reasonable proposition.

Stockholders in the New Brunswick Telephone Company naturally do not believe in municipal ownership in their territory, whatever they may think of municipal ownership in the abstract.

In the New Brunswick Telephone Company to enjoy a monopoly in this city? That would be an astounding condition of affairs.

Which is more sacred—the rights of the public or the greed of a corporation?

THE PRESS AND OTHERS. Mr. J. A. Likely is reported to have said to the municipalities committee in Fredericton that "it seemed to be the habit of the St. John press that it must find fault with something, and that the street railway and the city council were the objects of its attack."

With regard to the city council, Mr. Likely was one of the promoters and is one of the most active members of the Citizens' League, and has been mentioned several times as a probable League candidate in the effort to defeat the present council.

With regard to the street railway company, however, there is a difference. While the press stands for the rights of the people Mr. Likely stands for a fourteen per cent dividend.

A GOLD MINE. The advocates of the street railway company who spoke and lobbied at Fredericton this week did not tell the members that in addition to its usual large dividend on watered stock last year the company set aside about $50,000 as a rest and as much or more for a fund to provide against accidents.

The members of the legislature should bear this in mind.

It may be taken for granted that the absence of news from the seat of war in Manchuria does not indicate any cessation of activity on the part of the Japanese. The same keen intelligence that has directed operations with such amazing success for months past is planning and executing new moves against the Russians, and unless peace is formally declared will be more desperate fighting before many weeks. In the meantime, in Russia appear to be approaching a crisis, and it would seem that the clamor for reform cannot much longer be resisted by the bureaucracy.

NELSON'S YEAR.

(Henry J. Morgan, in Ottawa, Ottawa Citizen.)

Canadians of all origins must feel indebted to Senator Donville, for taking the initiative towards securing a suitable celebration, by the people and Parliament of Canada, of the centennial anniversary of the death of Nelson, England, and the world's greatest naval hero.

I do not know what form the patriotic Senator's celebration is proposed to take, but I have no doubt, from the many expressions of approval in reference to it, that have come to me, that whatever may be done in the matter will be heartily endorsed by all classes of the King's subjects in Canada.

This world has had but one Nelson, as also has had but one Shakespeare, and it is the proud privilege of the great nation to which we Canadians have the honor to belong, that we can claim both immortals as among our very own. But while the westward of the Atlantic Ocean, in which we live, Nelson, on the other hand, was so commemorated in our country, and his people, or at least one of them, that he was quite willing to forsake all the glories of his profession, and dwell lovingly, ever afterwards, with a little native maid, on the shores of the St. Lawrence. Happily for England, for Nelson himself perhaps, and also for mankind, his Quebec beauty did not see eye to eye with him in this instance, and Nelson, almost before he had time to say "I do," went back to his ship, and thence to Trafalgar. Sometimes when reading of the lavish homage which, if nothing else, was paid by the English people to Lady Hamilton, because of her influence for good over the great sea-captain, I have wondered, if in all fairness, some small portion of it, was not fairly due to Mary Simpson, of Quebec, the being the daughter of the late Sir John Simpson, the straight path of duty—though quite unconscious, doubtless, at the time, of the tremendous service she was rendering to her King and country. It is not on record I believe that Nelson was ever in Montreal, but he certainly visited Halifax, where, as at Quebec, he made many friends, though his stay was very short at that place. After he had assumed command of the Mediterranean fleet, he came more before the public eye, and his achievements, as well as his own innate qualities, made him the idol of his countrymen, and also, as was popular, especially so in Canada, where the solemn De Demers were singing in the Catholic churches to celebrate his victories over the common foe. Although many years have passed since the occurrence, I can still remember conversing with an aged citizen of Quebec who had heard Mr. Plessis, one of the most eloquent and respected of the princes of his country, in this country, deliver his famous discourse on the battle of the Nile, in which he invoked the Divine Blessing on the navy of His Britannic Majesty and its illustrious leader. These are some of the things read to mind in connection with Senator Donville's proposed resolution, to be made in the Senate today (Wednesday), and which make it singularly appropriate for Canada to take the lead in paying honor to the memory of one, but for whose indomitable courage and devotion, as Mr. Chamberlain has said, "the Empire could not have survived its present condition." There is, however, another tie binding Canada to Nelson's name and fame, which have only recently discovered. It is one of close blood relationship resulting from the conquest was a worthy trader named Frederick Gonerman, who, as Dr. Campbell tells us in his interesting and instructive "History of the St. Gabriel Street Presbyterian Church," became a member of that congregation, together with his pretty daughter, Dolly. Stationed in the same city, at the same period, was the 101st Regiment of Foot, one of whose officers was a young Englishman, Capt. Alexander Dalgety, who became Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General of the Army, and married Miss Gonerman. Their son, Alexander Dalgety, likewise entered the army, and returned to Montreal with his regiment, the 69th Foot, his wife gave birth there to a son, Frederick Gonerman Dalgety. This gentleman, according to Burke's Colonial Gentry, emigrated to Australia in 1834, where he amassed a large fortune in mercantile life. Removing to England, some time after, he purchased the estate of Lockerie Hall, formerly known as Oaklands, near Tisbury, Southampton, and became a J. P. A. D. L. a County Councillor, High Sheriff, Lord of the Manor, and a patron of several livings. His eldest daughter, Eliza Blanche, born August 8th, 1880, married August 5th, 1879, Herbert Horatio, Viscount Trevelyan, eldest son and heir of the third Earl Nelson. Consequently, the daughter of one Canadian and the great-granddaughter of another Canadian, will, with her husband, in the ordinary course of nature, succeed to all the honors and dignities won and worn by the immortal Nelson. It may not be out of place to add to the above that Colonel Reginald Dalgety, C.B., who distinguished himself at the battle of Abu Klea, and Colonel Edward Dalgety, C.B., whose masterly occupation of Duxter and subsequent defence of Wepener, in the recent Boer war, gave him such deserved prominence in the army, are both descended from the couple first above mentioned, who married in Montreal, January 10th, 1785.

Leighton McCarthy. Mr. McCarthy asked Mr. Foster how long he was prepared to stand by the principles enunciated today...

Mr. Borden took a position under that yoke in 1896, when he contested North Simcoe, and he knows the result...

Mr. Foster denied the last statement, and asked that he be credited for sincerity.

Mr. Borden accepted the statement and repeated that coercion in Manitoba was attempted at the request of the hierarchy of Quebec.

Mr. Foster said that the statement of Mr. Sbarretti in face of the denial of the statement yesterday by the premier...

Mr. Foster said the premier spoke with heat and attempted to make a little cheap political capital at the expense of the opposition leader.

"A Greece went, so went Rome, and many a good republic that has lived and died during the flight of time through the ages. Brushing the dust of centuries from the monuments of antiquity and reading again the story of these mighty empires, which have passed like the acorn of a breeze away, we may see the lesson written there."

A sleepy looking thief does greet the magistrates at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty to the charge of robbing a man on the street, drunk, and as this was the first offence, he said he did not know.

Edward Holt is again in the tolls for drunkenness. He pleaded guilty, and informed the court that he had been given a couple of drinks by a friend from Moncton, and thought he might have had something to drink before.

"You must have had more than two drinks to put you in that condition," observed his honor. "It knocked me out, anyway," said Holt.

"Do you think I believe that yarn?" queried the magistrate. "You'll be fined $5 or two months in jail."

NEWS FROM NORTH END

Which Will Be First?

When the river steamers went into winter quarters last fall, a number of bets were made, as to which steamer would be the first to go up river after the ice moved out. This has been a regular custom for some years. The ones who bet on the Surfsteamer always won, and naturally the most of the betting is on her. The Beatrice E. Waring seems to hold second place, and one of her crew made the remark that those betting on her would make "easy money."

Ice Will Soon Move.

In all probability, the ice in the river will move out in the course of a few days. The last two weeks of mild weather have had great effect on the ice, and the river is clear at some places for three or four miles. There were a number of farmers in the city this morning. Among them were James Langon of Milkish, Archibald Linton, of Milkish, Fred McColgan of Somerville and Fred Currier the well known blacksmith of Bayswater.

Mr. McColgan says that it will be impossible to drive on the river between Millidgeville and Bayswater after two or three days, as the ice is rotting very fast. "It won't be long now until we'll be crossing on the Maggie Miller," said Mr. McColgan.

Minor Notes.

Things looked like spring on Main street, this morning. Most of the merchants exhibited their awnings for the first time this season. The steamer Clifton, now lying in the "bed-room" at Marble Cove, will probably remain at Indianapolis until she has been sold. It was first reported that the steamer would be taken to Hampton, and there broken up, but this was incorrect. Miss Genevieve McCormick of Adelaide street, will leave shortly for Boston where she will take a course in nursing.

Large quantities of gaspareaux are arriving daily from the Kennebecasis. They are selling at from $8 to $8.50, wholesale. Miss Gertrude McCann arrived this morning from a trip to Boston, Osewego and New York.

NIGHT TRAINS ON THE I. C. R.

Superintendent Jarvis Does Not Know When They Will Be Resumed.

Geo. M. Jarvis, district superintendent of the I. C. R. at Truro, arrived in the city last night and returned to Moncton on the Atlantic this afternoon. Asked by the Times when the night trains No's. 9 and 10, would be resumed, he said he did not know. Now the question is who does know? There is one thing certain, the public wants to know. The present condition of affairs in connection with transportation between St. John and points east is simply intolerable. The service is, in slang phraseology, "simply" "trunk" and he was sorry he had come in with whatever, to remedy the existing state of affairs. A short time ago the general superintendent, J. E. Price, was asked a similar question and he gave the same reply. The willing public is naturally anxious and it is about time that the I. C. R. took some decided action. If the night trains are not to be resumed let the public know it.

THEY "JOLLIED HIM"

And He Reconnoitred Before Producing His Maple Sugar.

"For all-round jolliers commend me to some of the commission men of the country market," remarked a man who travels extensively on the train. "The police were called into the city this morning on the train when I noticed a knot of these gentlemen talking to me, and I happened to overhear part of the conversation. It appears that one of the men was bringing down some maple sugar (so called) and the others were telling him about the inspector getting busy and having analytical tests made of all the maple products coming to the city. "This statement seemed to worry the man who was bringing the sugar down, for on arrival at the depot, he with the assistance of a friend, secured the package and hid it away at the end of the station, while he went to the market to reconnoitre. Evidently finding that the inspection was not as rigid as he had been led to believe, he afterwards sent down and had the goods brought up to his stand. "But you can bet his fellows had the laugh on him. They are now asking why he was so anxious to avoid the inspection, but as yet no explanation is forthcoming, and his stock of "pure" maple sugar is being rapidly disposed of."

THAT LIQUOR CASE.

The Evidence Concluded and Judgment Reserved Till Tomorrow. The case against James A. Lane, for selling liquor to Thomas Dunlap, when in an intoxicated condition, was resumed before Judge Ritchie this morning. Several witnesses were examined and the case for the prosecution was closed.

Sergeant Campbell and officer White were sworn to by Judge Dunlap, when in an intoxicated condition, was resumed before Judge Ritchie this morning. Several witnesses were examined and the case for the prosecution was closed.

Those Barret was also examined and gave evidence that he was in Lane's saloon on the night in question. He said Dunlap came in, and was conversing with Mr. Lane at the time. Dunlap was not staggering, but looked as though he had been "sleeping off" his liquor. Witness thought Dunlap was capable of taking care of himself.

In reply to a question Barret stated that he did not see Dunlap take a drink. Alexander McDermott, Mr. Lane's bar tender, was next examined. Witness stated that he was not aware of the case, but in the habit of drinking to excess. Dunlap came in with a friend, two drinks were ordered, and he was paid for by Dunlap. He had strict orders from Mr. Lane not to serve anybody who had been drinking, but he was unable to take care of himself. He did not see Dunlap stagger, and was perfectly sure that he was capable of looking after himself.

Mr. Lane was again placed on the stand, and testified that Dunlap was not staggering when he came into his bar-room. He looked drowsy, as though he had been drinking. He might have been drinking previously, in fact looked as though he had been sleeping from the effects of liquor. Dunlap came in with a friend, whom witness knew by appearance, but did not know his name. He (Lane) had been looking for him since he was reported. Dunlap's friend had remarked to witness after the arrest, had been made, that he was sorry he had come in with Dunlap, if there was going to be any trouble.

Mr. Lane declared that Dunlap had not been in the store more than six times in four years. He invariably instructed his bar-tenders, that they must never under any circumstances serve an intoxicated person, and he had no trouble previous to this. On cross examination, witness stated that he knew Dunlap's name was on the interdiction list up to May 1904. He asked Dunlap if he was an interdiction list, and he answered "No, Jimmy, I'm not on the list, and wouldn't get you into trouble, if I was."

Witness had also taken the trouble to look at the list, thinking that the officer came in because one of the two was an interdiction. Judge Ritchie remarked that liquor should not be served to Dunlap even if he were perfectly sober. The man was unfortunately unable to drink without getting drunk.

Edmund S. Ritchie, who appeared for Mr. Lane, said that there was nothing to show that Dunlap was drunk at the time he was served in Lane's saloon. Police Clerk Henderson said that Dunlap had been seen to drink, previous to going into Lane's, and furthermore, Dunlap himself had not sworn there was anyone with him. Judgment was reserved until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.
